HISTORIC ROME FALLS TO ALLIES

Rome Falls After 4-Hour Struggle

Thick Smoke From Nazi Demolitions Rises Above the City; People Happy

By DANIEL DE LUCE
Associated Press War Correspondent

ROME, June 4 (AP)—Rome, the Eternal City, was liberated tonight by tanks and infantry troops of the Allied 5th Army which battled German rear-guards to the edge of the ancient Forum.

A force from the old Anzio beachhead completed the mop-up of Nazi forces by knocking out an enemy scout car in front of the Bank of Italy, almost within the shadow of the column erected to Emperor Trajan, who ruled the Romans from 98 to 117 A.D.

The 5th Army force—including American and Canadian infantrymen—fought its way into the heart of the city after a four-hour battle against German armor in the suburbs of the ancient capital.

The Germans began demolitions in earnest about 3:30 p.m. and great clouds of thick smoke rose above the city. So many German prisoners were taken Allied soldiers had difficulty in hadling them.

In a dawn clash from Borgata Finocchio, 13 miles distant on the Via Casilina, a spearhead of 24 Sherman tanks, eight armored cars and 150 United States and Canadian infantrymen pushed beyond suburban Torre Spaccata before they ran headlong into a German road block.

(Presumably the Canadians mentioned were part of a combined Canadian-American specially-trained Commando-like formation which was stationed in the Anzio beachhead sector for some months prior to the launching of the present offensive. This formation was reported holding the Eastern beachhead perimeter, along the Mussolini Canal, just before the Allied main and beachhead fronts were linked.)

Old men and young girls and toddling children were waving the Allied soldiers on when the fire of German 88-millimetre guns knocked out the leading tank and snipers started pouring machine-gun fire from hideouts next to a white church the bells of which were ringing for early mass.

An Italian partisan, who said the Fascists had put out his left eye in torturing him, kissed me on the cheek and volunteered the information that he was leading an armed band of civilians back into Rome "to kill Germans."

Smiling, brown-eyed girls brought bouquets of flowers to dust-covered riflemen who were crawling up a sloping field of wild barley and poppies to scout German positions flanking the heavily-mined airport at Centocelle.

A bald clerk, carrying an empty wine flagon, showed soldiers bruises on his face and explained that the Germans had beaten him as he walked into the suburbs looking for milk for his five children.

BLOW UP WATER, GAS, ELECTRIC WORKS

"The enemy blew up Rome's water, gas and electric works yesterday," he said. "There is nothing to eat. For four months there has been no meat, and for two months not a single egg. There is great confusion. All the big Fascists are fleeing."

The historic Via Casilina probably has never witnessed a more thundering military spectacle than that of the last 24 hours in which the onrushing Allies broke through the German lines in the Sacco Valley and into the green Campagna facing Rome's seven hills.

Straight up the Via Casilina they came, bowling over opposition put up by mobile 88 millimetre armored self-propelled guns. It had been an armored war all the way, with some of our tanks left behind as burning, tragic milestones on the victory road.

With the first light today a column of Sherman tanks started on the last lap into Rome. Perched on the tanks were infantry led by Captains Gus Heilman of Charlotteville, Va., and Jack Jennings of Toronto.

Mine and two other Press jeeps inadvertently got ahead of the procession and at a lonely highway intersection we suddenly saw a German armored car approaching. It stopped within 100 yards of us before we could turn to flee. Four Germans jumped from the car and took cover in a field, leaving their machine gun behind.

Coming back up the road again behind two American tanks I saw a German volkswagen swing into the highway. Its two startled occupants surrendered. They were followed by a three-ton German truck from which eight German riflemen dismounted.

I yelled, "Haende hoch!" (hands up), and they obeyed, staring at our tanks as if stupefied.

Our artillery came up and has been punching back at the enemy, but the persistent German snipers still make it necessary that I sit behind a roadside embankment to type this dispatch. I am about a block from the blue and white city limits sign that reads "Roma."

New Hun Blows Thrown Back on Russ Front

LONDON, June 4 (CP)—Fresh German assaults, spearheaded by tanks, on strongholds North and Northwest of Iasi in Romania were smashed back today with "tremendous losses" in enemy men and material, Moscow announced tonight.

Berlin news reports said the Soviets' counter-blows had strong air support, but claimed they made no headway, while a D.N.B. commentator asserted German-Romanian troops had "extended their successes" of Saturday.

Both sides pictured the rest of the long front as quiet.

The Moscow communique said 29 German tanks and 44 planes were destroyed Northwest and West of Iasi Saturday.

Moscow radio, quoting Ankara reports, also said the Germans had moved five infantry divisions and one motorized division to Bulgaria, placing them chiefly along the Black Sea coast.

"A large part of Bulgaria's 16 mobilized divisions is now gathered in Northern Bulgaria or on the Romanian border," it added.

Maj.-Gen. Nash, Inspector General, Dies

MONTREAL, June 4 (CP)—Maj.-Gen. A. E. Nash, 62, who enlisted as a private in the First Great War in a cavalry unit was recently named Inspector General of the Canadian Army for Central Canada, died in Hospital here today.

Gen. Nash had been under observation since last week after suffering head injuries during a recent routine inspection tour at Bowmanville, Ont.

He served as a cadet in a British Territorial unit before coming to Canada in 1907 from Swansea, Wales, his birthplace.

Before studying accountancy in Edmonton he homesteaded in Northern Alberta. Later he came to Toronto and in civilian life was senior partner of a firm of chartered accountants.

Gen. Nash was commissioned in 1911 and later promoted Captain and Acting Major in France. He continued in the then non-permanent active militia after demobilization rising to command the Governor General's Horse Guards, Toronto.

When the present war broke out he was called in service as Assistant Adjutant and Quartermaster General at Military District No. 2 Toronto, with rank of Lieut.-Colonel, and later was promoted to Colonel and appointed director of organization at Defence Headquarters.

1200 HEAVIES STRIKE AT EUROPE TARGETS

500 Smash Coast; 1500 Tons Dropped on Boulogne

HIT TURIN, GENOA

By W.W. HERCHER
Assoc. Press Staff Writer

LONDON, June 4 (AP) — Upward of 1200 American heavy bombers struck Europe again today—some 500 pounding German strongholds along the invasion coast while others from the Mediterranean made a strong attempt to sever two main rail lines between France and Italy.

Four heavy bombers and three fighters failed to return from the thunderous assaults which saturated Nazi transport lines and airdromes around Boulogne with 1500 tons of bombs, the U. S. Army Air Forces announced. One German plane was reported shot down.

The daylight operations followed night strikes by RAF bombers also at military targets on the French Coast. The night raiders also struck at Ludwigshafen in Germany, and mined enemy waters, all without loss.

Spitfires hammered enemy radio installations along the Northern coast of France late in the day and the Air Ministry announced that more links in the Nazi radio chain had been broken.

Between 500 and 750 U. S. heavy bombers flew from Southern Italy to attack such vital rail centres as Turin and Genoa.

One force hit the Turin yards, the double track Mount Cenis railroad leading West from Turin to Lyon, France, the Gad Bridge on the Italian side of the Modane tunnel through the Alps, and tracks near St. Michel on the French side.

Other bombers singled out the Riviera line, bombing a viaduct Southwest of Cannes and the Var River bridge, Southwest of Nice, while other formations hit the Genoa railyards and the Recco viaduct to the East.

Yards at Novi Legure, 25 miles North of Genoa, and the harbor at Savona, 25 miles West of Genoa, also were targets.

In this 17th successive day of attack for allied light and medium bombers more than 250 of them ranged along 200 miles of French coast line. A section of one bridge, representing about one quarter of its length was tumbled into the River Seine.

The Paris radio in the evening reported an allied air attack on the Eastern and Southeastern suburbs of Paris.

The United Nations radio at Algiers, said allied planes raided a Nazi airfield at Zara, on Yugoslavia's Adriatic coast, and pounded German communication lines between Sinj and Knin as well as targets on the Mostar-Sarajevo railway line.

The targets of the daylight heavy bombers from Britain which with their escort flew out perhaps 1000 strong, lay only 36 miles from the English coast.

Military objectives along the coast of France also were bombed by American bombers with fighter escort, one group hitting a highway bridge at Courtelles-sur-Seine, 40 miles Northwest of Paris.

Squadrons of fighter bombers kept the attack rolling with sorties against bridges, railroad tracks and military rolling stock in the Orne River valley running from Le Coteau Southwestward to Mortagne, Northwest of Paris.

In 60 hours an estimated 10,000 tons of bombs fell on the heavily fortified Pas de Calais area and back along 145 miles of communication lines to the Paris District.

ALLIES RESCUE ROME, ETERNAL CITY: This is Rome, which yesterday was liberated by the Allied forces. The Vatican City lies across the Tiber River in an area of its own. The ancient Rome of "the seven hills" lies to the South, while centred is the area in which time is echoed from mediavalism to the 19th century.

CANUCKS JOIN 5TH ARMY ON VITAL HIGHWAY

Contact Closes Last Gap; Mop Up Germans

By DOUGLAS AMARON
Canadian Press War Correspondent

WITH THE CANADIAN CORPS IN ITALY, June 4 (CP)—Canadian formations of the British 8th Army and American and French troops of the Allied 5th Army made contact Saturday on Route 6, closing the last gap along that vital highway which now is in Allied hands from Naples to Rome.

Saturday afternoon I drove from the forward camps of the Canadian Corps to a camp South of Valmontone, 21 miles East of Rome, where other troops are preparing an advance on the Italian capital.

(Allied Headquarters announced late Sunday that Allied troops had entered the Rome area.)

We drove unmolested even by enemy shelling, along the highway from which the Germans had fled only a few hours earlier.

The first contact between the 8th and 5th Armies was made shortly before noon, just South of Anagni, which Ontario infantrymen occupied Saturday morning. Anagni is 12½ miles East and slightly South of Valmontone, and off Highway No. 6 to the North.

An American warrant officer, driving from the direction of Rome, met a British lieutenant, John Butcher of Southhill, Bedfordshire, England, at a demolished bridge on the highway. The officer belonged to a British armored unit attached to the Canadians.

The American was introduced to Lt.-Gen. Sir Oliver Leese, Commander of the 8th Army, who happened to be at the front at that time and then was driven to a Canadian Divisional Headquarters for lunch.

While this was happening, a platoon from an Ontario reconnaissance regiment was already several miles beyond the bridge, mopping up pockets of Germans. These men, under the command of Lieut. Dick Bruce of Ottawa, were on foot and missed the American or theirs would have been the first contact.

As it was they captured 10 prisoners, killed two of the enemy and patrolled beyond Anagni and turned over their prisoners to Americans. They then returned to the Canadian Corps area.

References in this dispatch to the Canadian Corps area suggested that both divisions of the Corps are in action.

A dispatch early last week reported Canadian units were advancing Westward from Ceprano along a one-division front and it appeared from other front-line accounts that the division then pushing towards Rome along the Via Casilina, Highway No. 6, was the one which saw its first major action in the current offensive.

A subsequent dispatch by Douglas Amaron, dated June 3, said Ferentino was in the hands of Canadian Corps troops, another indication that both divisions were back in the fighting.

Kesselring Late in Proposing Rome Be Open City

LONDON, June 4 (CP)—Field Marshal Gen. Albert Kesselring has sent the Allies proposals that Rome be regarded as an open city, a special announcement from Hitler's Headquarters said tonight. The statement was broadcast by the German Radio.

(This Nazi report was received only after a dispatch filed from Rome announcing crushing of the last German resistance units within the city.)

The German Radio said Field Marshal Kesselring had submitted to the Vatican proposals to make Rome an open city with a request that they be conveyed to the Allies, but that "so far no reply has been received from the Anglo-American High Command."

Dies of Injuries

OTTAWA, June 4 (CP) — S. A. Nault, 52, executive assistant to Ralph Bell, Director of Aircraft production, died here Saturday from injuries suffered in a street car accident June 1.

GIRL OPERATOR SENDS OUT INVASION SCARE

Flash Relayed to World on Practice Tape

NEW YORK, June 4 (AP)—A young girl teletype operator, employed in the London Bureau of the Associated Press, punched out a strip of practice tape "Saturday night and within a matter of moments was responsible for transmission throughout the United States, Canada and Latin America of an erroneous announcement that the Allies had landed in France.

The girl, Joan Ellis, had been practising on a disconnected machine, and in violation of instructions included in her exercise this urgent message:

"Flash Eisenhower's headquarters announce Allied landings France."

At 3:38 p.m. C.D.T. the flash appeared on the AP's direct London printer in New York and was relayed throughout the United States and to Latin America and to Canada by The Canadian Press.

Less than two minutes later came a message, "Bust that flash," and word was flashed to editors to withhold publication. At 4:44 p.m. Another London message directed that the flash be "killed" and this was done.

HOLDS MINUTE'S SILENCE

In the two-minute interlude between the erroneous flash and the withhold order, however, the incorrect news had been announced over many radio stations in the United States and at some baseball parks. Some Canadian radio stations also broadcast the flash. In New York's Polo Grounds the crowd observed one minute of silence after the word was given over the loudspeaker system.

In Ciudad Trujillo, capital of the Dominican Republic, newspaper sirens were sounded and crowds gathered, only to exclaim in disappointment when the error was announced.

The error was caught quickly enough so that it did not appear anywhere in print.

Newspaper and radio stations in U. S. and Canada were swamped with inquiries from persons who had heard the original and incorrect flash but not the "kill."

The London Bureau of the Associated Press cabled this explanation:

The flash erroneously stating Eisenhower had announced Allied landings in France was transmitted by a new teletype operator in a wholly unauthorized test of a perforator.

"It moved without authority of censors and without knowledge of the editorial staff, which had no such copy on hand.

"Joan Ellis, the young operator who erred, said she had been practising on a disconnected machine and thought she had torn up all that tape and thrown it away.

"However, before transmitting the first 'take' of the Russian communique she said she inadvertently ran through part of the tape that she thought she had destroyed."

U. S., Canadian Spearhead Drives Into City

Nazis Flee to North After Suburbs Battle; Planes Chase Nazi Columns

By SID FEDER
Associated Press War Correspondent

NAPLES, June 4 (AP)—Allied 5th Army troops from the old Anzio beachhead captured historic Rome today after a fierce battle through suburbs of the Eternal City.

The mop-up of the heart of Rome—the first European capital to fall to Allied troops—was completed at 9:15 p.m. (12:15 p.m. P.D.T.) as an Allied force knocked out the last German rearguard unit in front of the Bank of Italy, almost within the shadow of Trajan's column.

Front dispatches said the troops which drove into Rome included Sherman tanks and American and Canadian infantrymen.

To the North of the city planes battered at fleeing German transports, wrecking or damaging at least 600 motor vehicles, as the Allied forces sought to annihilate the remaining Nazi divisions in Italy.

The huge air-wrought toll of Nazi transports on congested roads North of Rome indicated the enemy intended no major stand in the ancient city—first European capital to be entered by Allied troops.

Hysterical with joy, citizens at the city's outskirts amid kisses and tears waved on a spearhead of Sherman tanks and 150 American and Canadian infantrymen which thrust up the Via Casilina and then battered into German defenders holding the suburbs, a front dispatch from Associated Press correspondent Daniel de Luce said.

(Presumably these troops were from the Canadian American special task force of Commando-like troops which was operating on the Anzio beachhead before the launching of the current offensive.)

Opposition appeared to be tapering off.

The enemy made it a battle every foot of the way through the suburbs into Rome. The Germans hurled all they had—tanks, armor and artillery—into fierce fighting to block the 5th Army steamroller at least until they could pull out more of their own manaced forces.

This break into Rome came 24 days after the Allies unleashed a powerful combined offensive of the 5th and 8th Armies, and 12 days after 5th Army formations on the Anzio beachhead started their drive aimed directly at the capital.

Lashing at the Nazi columns retreating from Rome, Allied fighter-bombers destroyed or damaged at least 600 motor vehicles, finding "excellent targets in congested traffic" North of the city to Viterbo, Lake Bracciano and Lake Bolsena, headquarters said.

Other planes hit troops concentrations and gun positions.

United States heavy bombers 500 to 750 strong smashed meanwhile at targets on two main rail lines on the French-Italian frontier.

The fighter-bombers found the Nazi columns retreating as far distant as Viterbo, 38 miles North of Rome, and Lake Bolsena, 50 miles Northwest of the capital.

The great roundup of prisoners continued—with more than 15,000 now taken by the 5th Army alone. The 8th Army has captured at least 8000. Five of the 18 German divisions engaged in Italy already had been virtually annihilated.

The Algiers Radio France said the Germans had lost 6000 killed and 20,000 captured during the Allied drive on Rome.

Canadian formations of the 8th Army made contact Saturday with American and French 5th Army troops on the Via Casilina, the Naples-Cassino-Rome highway near Anagni. This junction, 12½ miles East and slightly South of Valmontone and some 30 miles from Rome, cleared the enemy completely from the highway in the upper Sacco Valley region.

Front line dispatches indicated both divisions of the Canadian Corps were in action. Earlier it appeared that the division which saw its first major action in the current offensive was operating on its own, after both divisions had taken part in smashing the Hitler line defences in the Liri Valley.

The drive to Rome started early this morning with several 5th Army spearheads pushing Westward from the neighborhood of fallen Valmontone, 21 miles from the capital.

While the 5th fought the enemy in Rome, Canadian, British and other formations of the 8th Army on the Southeast continued to advance after the junction with other American and French troops near Agnani.

Early in the day, when Rome's capture was imminent, the Allied Command called on Romans to save the historic metropolis from destruction, and to keep highways open so the Allies could push on through "without delay in order to continue the destruction of the German armies farther North."

This followed the headquarters pledge to take every precaution to spare the city, coupled with the warning that the enemy would be thrown out by force if he made a stand in the city.

Besides seizing new strongholds in the Alban hills the 5th Army also advanced North of the Via Casilina toward Highway 5, strategic lateral road running Eastward from Rome to the Adriatic coast.

On their way to the capital's gates, Allied troops in the Alban Hills swept through the town of Nemi near Lake Nemi, swarmed over the high peaks of Mount Cerano and Mount Colletano, and pushed on toward the town of Rocca di Papa, 12 miles Southeast of Rome.

Allied planes continued the hail of bombs and cannon and machine gun fire in support, and in an attempt to trap the fleeing Germans, R.A.F. heavy bombers bombed a bridge over the Tiber, at a key spot on one of the few good roads for enemy retreat Northwestward. The bridge connects the main road running parallel with the Tiber from Rome to the Sea. Hits were scored at or near road junctions at both ends of the span.

Thrusting North of Valmontone on the Via Casilina American soldiers seized Cave on a road paralleling that highway. This closed a "back door" for the Germans and won a hillside reported as a site of great ammunition and gasoline dumps.

Front dispatches described a trail of German dead, wrecked tanks, guns, trucks along the Via Casilina, billowing clouds of dust, and thorough Nazi pillage by seizing or destroying foodstuffs, livestock, and small personal possessions of the populace, apparently with intent of giving the Allies the severest possible relief problem.

Dynamite Blast Leaves Verigin Tomb Undamaged; 2nd Attempt

BRILLIANT, B. C., June 4—The tomb of the two Doukhobor leaders, Peter Verigin I and II, was bombed Saturday but no one was hurt and little damage was done. The explosion left untouched that part of the monument which houses the bodies of the Verigins.

Police are investigating the bombing, one of several unsuccessful attempts to destroy this sacred shrine of the Doukhobor people. Saturday's explosion served only to scatter over a wider area ornaments broken from the tomb when it was bombed three years ago. At that time the Doukhobors made no attempt to repair the damage, but since have guarded the shrine day and night. A guard was on duty when the explosion occurred.

People waiting on the platform for train saw the sheet of flame and heard a terrific blast. Two men were reported to have been seen running away. Three windows of the C.P.R. depot half mile away were broken. The postoffice and Verigin home went undamaged.

BLAST FROM DYNAMITE

The explosion Saturday at first thought to have been caused by a delayed action bomb, was now generally conceded later to have been the result of a sack of dynamite placed in front of the tomb, probably by two men seen running up the hill to join comrades.

An earlier attempt was made this year to blast the tomb. James Popoff, Doukhobor watchman, was shot in the hand and suffered head injuries on the night of March 2 or early March 3 when attacked by plotters who attempted to dynamite the shrine. He succeeded however in carrying away the dynamite left at the head of the tomb, and preventing the blasting.

Topping the crest of a hill overlooking Brilliant the monument was erected in memory of Peter I who met his death in 1924 when his railway coach was bombed. It is one of the most treasured possessions of the British Columbia Doukhobors and it is here they hold most of their religious ceremonies.

This May Be Year of Decision

"1944—Year of Decision. The supreme effort is yet to be made."

Commencing with these words, which he said would be familiar to all who used streetcars, for the words are on a poster, Rev. H. Stewart Forbes, in St. Paul's United Church on Sunday evening, spoke on the subject "Year of Decision".

His text were the familiar words from the Book of Joel: "Multitudes, multitudes, in the valley of decision; for the day of the Lord is near in the valley of decision."

"Decisions must be made by men," he said. "Nothing is more precious to a man than his free will, and his power to make decisions. It is for this that we are fighting, that we may be free, and not slaves. It is the privilege that God has given us, although we with our strange decisions must complicate things for God.

"It is a solemn thought that each of us every day must make decisions, and these decisions imperceptibly but surely, add themselves together and form the settled habit and temper. Everything worth while is at stake—manhood, womanhood, character, truth and eternity. The call comes to be men and women of decision.

"This is no time for complacency. It is a time of pressing urgency, and we should be ready. It will not do for us to stand back, smile inanely, and hope all will be well," he asserted. J. H. Oldham, in The Christian News-Letter from Britain wrote: 'There is much in this country to awaken doubt as to whether or not we here, unless we change, are morally or spiritually capable of meeting the post-war period, or even of the war itself.' What about us in this country, and us in Nelson?

"The Church," said Mr. Forbes, "is the most important institution in the world today, with its message of sacrifice and service, of concern for the common man, of human brotherhood. Without God we will not be able to build up a stable and lasting world order. We believe that God is in His Church, and the very heart of the Christian message is that there is power to save."

"The world is in the valley of decision, and this may well be for us and for our nation the year of decision."

U. S. Blacklists Finnish Firms

WASHINGTON, June 4 (AP) — The United States, seeking to force Finland to break its alliance with Germany, last night blacklisted 84 Finnish firms including two headed by members of the Helsinki Cabinet.

The action, the most drastic taken against Finland in many months, means the Finns will suffer economic penalties after as well as during the war under the new policy of continuing the blacklist in operation in the postwar period. The 84 firms are the first to be placed on the American blacklist.

One of the firms listed bore the name of Bruno Procope, identified in official quarters as the cousin of the Finnish Minister here, Hjalmar J. Procope.

The Minister, when asked about it, however, disclaimed any relationship.

The two Cabinet Minister involved in the blacklisting operations are the Foreign Minister, Henrick Ramsay, and the Minister of Defence, Gen. Rudolph Walden.

Coast Woman Heads P.E.O. Sisterhood

VICTORIA, June 4 (CP) — Mrs Lily Munro, Vancouver, was elected president of "P.E.O." Sisterhood in British Columbia at the annual provincial meeting here Saturday. Other officers elected were Mrs Mary Dawe, New Westminster, first Vice-President; Mrs. Lillian Morgan, Vancouver, second Vice-President; Mrs. Hazel Whitley, Vancouver, Organizer; Mrs. Helen Hurn, Victoria, Recording Secretary; Mrs. Marjorie Fraser, Revelstoke, Corresponding Secretary and Mrs. Thelma Johns, Victoria, Treasurer.

Germans Announce Withdrawal Northwest of Rome

LONDON, June 3 (CP)—The German lines have been moved to the Northwest of Rome, a special communique from Hitler's headquarters said tonight.

The D.N.B. broadcast communique said:

"Hitler has ordered withdrawal of German troops to the Northwest of Rome in order to prevent the destruction of Rome.

"The struggle in Italy will be continued with unshakeable determination with the aim of breaking the enemy attacks and to force final victory for Germany and her Allies."

Ideals and Faith Hold Together War Marriages

The Junior Choir under the leadership of Mrs. Bain Oliver rendered special selections at the evening service of Trinity United Church. The anthem was the "Polish Song." A duet, "Come Holy Spirit," by Frederick Jerome was sung by Betty Brown and Pat Gillotto.

C. C. Halleran was at the organ.

Rev. Gordon G. Boothroyd spoke on the subject, "Michal, A War Bride of the Old Testament." He pointed out that David and Michal had similar experiences to young people today. Their marriage had a beautiful beginning but an unhappy ending. This does not mean that war marriages are condemned. John Louis Bonn, Chaplain in the U.S. Navy spoke of the gallantry and courage of war brides. A bride of 18 said, "Why shouldn't it be expected of us women, too, to give up our lives?" The Chaplain goes on, "Then I knew that this was not a new race of women but womanhood, old, sure, brave, and that the primitive things that were in them had returned to them in their hour of need. With voices of the ancient women around me I had no more fears for the brave—only pity for the weak who could not understand. This would mean to the lad—a picture in the wallet, vision in the mind, a word said over and over again, in battle and in camp, like a prayer. My Wife."

The Minister added that ideals and faith held in common are the strongest bonds holding the marriage together. He warned that the men especially will be changed on return and it will be well if the women at home have matured also and grown in steadiness and character. He pleaded for all citizens to take an interest in their welfare both now and after the war.

The Assistant Chairman of the Rehabilitation Department at Shaughnessy Hospital had assured him that it was the desire of the Government to "give every man a break," on return to civilian life. The recent conference of the United Church had recommended that all congregations cooperate with local Rehabilitation Committees in aiding returned men. He concluded, "Let us put no obstacles in the way of the happiness and progress of war couples and their children but give them friendship and help."

The Official Board members were hosts at a fireside hour to the congregation. Members of the Senior and Junior Choirs and the Orchestra were special guests. J. B. McLennan presided. The Junior Choir sang: Elementary "Prayer for Mothers," and Evening Song.

The whole choir sang: "The Lord Is My Shepherd," arranged by Jacob. Solos were sung by Dorothy Longden, "Spring Morning", words by A. A. Milne, music by H. F. Simson; Margaret McLennan, "Dedication", Robert Franz, Betty Brown, "God Sends Thee Back to Me". Leader was Mrs. Bain Oliver and C. C. Halleran accompanied. Mrs. H. D. Dawson, Miss Gladys Fleming, Mrs. W. R. McCandlish, Mrs. H. Parker, J. R. McLennan, F. H. Smith and G. Arneson were the General Committee.

Snow and Rain Fall Over Southern Alberta

WINNIPEG, June 4 (CP) — A mixture of snow and rain fell over Southern Alberta today. Calgary, with visibility of one-half mile reported a moderate snowfall lasting until mid-afternoon. Lethbridge had a three-hour flurry. Temperature at both points hovered at 35 degrees.

Rains were fairly general in the Prairie Provinces during the weekend with Manitoba getting the heaviest downpours. Almost two inches fell in Winnipeg district while Edmonton, Regina, Moosomin, Sask., Russell, Man., and Virden, Man., recorded more than an inch.

Rossland Baseball Team Honors Departing Member

ROSSLAND, B. C., June 4—On Friday evening the members of the Junior Baseball team gathered at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Herb Martin to bid farewell to one of their members, Pat Martin, who is leaving to join the Navy. Ed Walters, on behalf of the club, presented Pat with a pen and pencil set.

A social hour was spent followed by a weiner roast. Those attending included: Louis Cerrado, Jack Gillis, David Smith, Ray, Don Laface, Eddie Conroy, Arnold Cummings, Gene Anderson, Willie and Archie Scott and Arthur Walters.

Falconry is said to be the oldest sport in the world.

Three Die, Seven Missing as Cruiser Capsizes

PORT STANLEY, Ont., June 4 (CP) — Three persons were known dead, seven listed as missing and 14 rescued in Lake Erie today when a 33-foot cabin cruiser capsized and partially submerged about 500 feet from the pier here.

Dead were, Bernice Wood, 20 and Barbara Martin 20, both of nearby St. Thomas, and Lillian Babock, 23 of London, Ont., formerly of Yorkton, Sask.

Missing were Jack Gardiner, Joe Adill, Ted Smith, Mrs. Stella Meays, London; Edward Goudge, Clifford Skeath, Shirley Handyside, St. Thomas.

Ted Vining of London was operator of the launch. According to the stories of survivors, the engine stopped when the boat was 500 feet from the pier and as a large wave struck the side of the craft it partially capsized and partially submerged.

Police said Vining told them this was caused by the passengers rushing to one side.

No Separate Setup for New Veterans

VANCOUVER, June 4 (CP) — There will be no separate setup for new veterans in the Canadian Legion it was stressed at the Provincial command's annual convention.

New veterans are certain of being elected to at least one vice-presidency. With this in mind the convention passed a resolution requesting that the slate of officers be extended to include four vice-presidents instead of the usual three.

"I have met a good many of these young veterans," Robert Macnicol, former Provincial Secretary, now on loan to Canadian Legion War Services, Ottawa, declared.

"What about the merchant seamen?" queried one of the delegates. "Are we prepared to accept men of the Merchant Navy into our ranks?"

"They receive the same treatment as any other members of the armed forces," Mr. Macnicol replied.

"The Legion takes them as members now and this is provided for in the constitution. The Legion's aim is to support the legitimate claims of both men and women members of all the forces."

Total conscription was demanded of the Federal Government by Mr. Macnicol "in line with the policy advocated in the recent plebiscite."

"While many young men are dying overseas," he said, "we can see 60,000 men loafing around Canada, being fed, clothed, and housed by the Canadian people."

Americans Open New Offensive

ADVANCED ALLIED HEADQUARTERS, New Guinea, June 5 (Monday)—(AP)—American forces on Biak Island, in the Schouten group, have started a new push on three airdromes, their main objectives, headquarters announced today.

Two American columns were advancing slowly toward Mokmer airdrome, the nearest objectives.

Thirty Japanese planes were destroyed in air battles over Biak, Babo, on Netherlands New Guinea and Truk Atoll in the Carolines.

Patrol clashes in the Mafin Bay and Hollandia areas on Netherlands New Guinea resulted in 341 more Japanese killed. More than 4000 Japanese dead in these regions have been announced previously.

On Bougainville Island in the Northern Solomons, American forces occupied the mouth of the Jaba River without opposition Friday. The operation isolated further some of the thousands of Japanese still resisting on Bougainville.

Allies to Continue Chasing Huns North Beyond Rome

NAPLES, June 4 (AP) — The intentions of the Allies to chase the Germans Northward beyond Rome were disclosed today in a broadcast from Gen. Sir Harold Alexander and Premier Marshal Badoglio telling the citizens of the Italian capital that their liberation is at hand, and warning them to keep the roads open so Allied troops may pass through.

"It is vital," the message declared, "that Allied troops be able to pass through Rome without delay in order to continue the destruction of the German armies further North."

Swarm Control, Supering Talks to Bee Keepers

Educational lectures and instructive practical demonstrations were carried out at a well attended meeting of some 34 beekeepers an dtheir friends some from out-of-town, under the auspices of the Nelson Bee Club Sunday afternoon.

Mrs. Chamberlain of Vancouver was the guest of the afternoon, and brought greetings from the greater Vancouver division and Fraser Valley Division of B.C. Honey Producers Association. Mrs. Chamberlain gave an interesting talk on the activities of the Lower Mainland bee keepers.

A. S. Homersham, Secretary-Treasurer of the Kootenay Division, B.C. Honey Producers Association, took as his subject swarming and swarm control. The reasons and causes of the bees wanting to swarm were fully explained, the chief of these a crowded, congested condition within the hive, having queens which are to old heading the colony, and unfavorable weather conditions. The bee keeper must see that the bees have plenty of room, and that they use the room when given to them. The means that supers must be given before the colony actually needs them, and that the bees occupy the supers.

When the queen is so old, Mr. Homersham said, that she does not lay well, the colony should be requeened with a young queen at the earliest possible opportunity. Bad weather which keeps the field bees within the hives tends to cause swarming. It was pointed out that colonies which swarm do not produce a maximum crop and usually little crop except where the swarm issues early in the season.

V. K. Sohafev showed carefully his latest methods of supering the hives. His handling of the bees was greatly admired. No one was stung although the weather was not the best for opening the hives. The necessity of helping the bees to maintain a temperature within the brood nest of 98 degrees was pointed out. The method of doing this was shown. This system works in with swarm control methods and makes less heavy lifting of full supers.

The next meeting will be held in Rosemont Wednesday, and Mrs. Chamberlain will give a talk on the use of honey in preserving fruit. Further demonstration in the correct handling and care of bees will be taken up.

A number of school children were present at the Sunday demonstrations and they watched keenly. Beekeepers expressed the hope at a greater attendance of the young people. A vote of thanks was tendered to Gordon Williams, President, for the use of his garden and apiary.

W. H. Tugbutt, Provincial Apiary Inspector, is expected in the Kootenay during this month.

S. BROWN GETS 12-POUND TROUT

Three Nelson fishermen returned to town from main Kootenay Lake Sunday with a bag of four fine trout between them. Sam Brown boasted the best, a 12-pounder, while Jack Kelly got a 4½-pound trout, and Bill Brown Jr. hooked a couple of smaller ones.

The lake was rough and the weather stormy keeping the fishermen from the water, the Nelsonites reported.

Logging Sawmill Destroyed by Fire

NANAIMO, B. C., June 4 (CP)—The Standard Logging Company sawmill at Parksville was destroyed by fire Friday night. The mill, machinery and yarded stock were a total loss, estimated at from $15,000 to $20,000. G. P. Smith and C. W. Swanson of Nanaimo were operators and 15 men are jobless as a result of the fire.

Japs Abandon Some Positions North of Kohima

KANDY, Ceylon, June 4 (AP) —Results thus far of the Allied in-do-Burma campaigns "can be regarded with satisfaction, though not with complacence," an official headquarters summary said today.

All operations including those in Arakan and those of the Americans, Chinese and Chindits in North Burma and the Japanese thrust in Assam, have proved that troops of the United Nations are more than a match for the Japanese the summary declared.

The account said that in May 78 enemy aircraft were destroyed, as against an Allied loss of 27 planes.

Today's headquarters communique reported that Allied troops have forced the Japanese to abandon some of their positions Northwest of the Indiantown of Kohima.

No mention was made of the North Burma fighting for Myitkyina. Saturday the Chinese and Americans were battering at the North of Myitkyina, while in the Southern part of that Japanese bastion the Chinese had retaken the railway station and were making slow but steady progress within the town.

Rossland Scholar Gains McGill Masters Degree

Harry J. O'Reilly of Rossland was awarded a master of science degree from McGill University, Montreal, at a convocation May 25.

Mr. O'Reilly's post graduate work had to do with plant physiology and horticulture taken jointly at McGill and Macdonald College, Montreal. As an undergraduate he attended Ontario Agricultural College, graduating in 1942.

Prior to studying at University he was employed at Rossland Post Office.

Hold 6 Suspects in Bank Slaying

WINNIPEG, June 4 (CP) — Police announced tonight they are holding six persons—five men and a woman—in connection with the shotgun slaying last Friday of 46-year-old S. W. Caughey, senior accountant, during an unsuccessful attempted holdup of the North End branch, Canadian Bank of Commerce here.

Police said three of the men, including a former Toronto policeman and a man from Calgary, are held as suspects. The other two men and the woman are held as material witnesses and all six are scheduled to appear in court tomorrow, police said.

Inquest into the killing of Mr. Caughey, who died instantly when struck in the face by a blast from a sawed off shotgun fired by one of three bandits, opened yesterday. The jury viewed the body, then adjourned until June 9.

Expresses Pride in Canada's Part

OTTAWA, June 4 (CP)—Prime Minister Mackenzie King said in a statement tonight that it will always be "a source of pride to Canada" that Canada forces have had a notable part in the campaign leading to the liberation of Rome.

Text of the statement follows:

The liberation of Rome marks a significant milestone in the freeing of Europe. The news will be received with great rejoicing throughout the whole free world.

To Canada, it will always be a source of pride that our armed forces have had a notable part in the entire Italian campaign, and especially in smashing the Hitler line and thereby helping to make possible the rapid accomplishments of the past two weeks.

We do well, however, to remember that it is almost a year since the Allied forces first landed in Sicily and that harder battles are still to be fought.

Roosevelt to Broadcast on Fall of Rome

WASHINGTON, June 4 (AP)—President Roosevelt will discuss the fall of Rome, the first Axis capital captured by the allies, in a 15-minute radio broadcast tomorrow night.

The White House announced tonight the President's talk will be carried over the four major networks between 5.30 p.m., and 5.45 p.m., PDT.

The Canadian Broadcasting Corporation announced tonight that the speech tomorrow of President Roosevelt on the fall of Rome will be carried on the national network of the CBC.

Food and Relief for Rome Big Problems

WASHINGTON, June 4 (AP)—Capture of Rome confronted the Allies today with two immediate problems—the delivery of food and relief supplies in huge quantities and the reorganization of the Italian government. The Germans were reported to have stripped the city of most of its food several days ago.

Both problems have been under study here as well as in London and at headquarters in Italy and officials were confident they would be tackled with all possible speed.

The first step in reorganization of the Italian government will be the retirement of King Vittorio Emmanuel. He promised several weeks ago that upon the liberation of the Italian capital he would move into the background and appoint as his successor, Crown Prince Umberto.

American officials have accepted that promise quite literally and believe the king's fulfillment of it should be forthcoming soon.

Once Umberto takes office experts on Italian political affairs here said, Premier Marshal Piero Badoglio and his cabinet will resign. Umberto is expected to re-appoint him and his coalition government.

Strike Double Blow on France

By AUSTIN BEALMEAR
Associated Press Staff Writer

LONDON, June 4 (AP) — American heavy bombers struck twice at Nazi coastal fortifications in the Pas de Calais and Boulogne areas of France Saturday, carrying on the non-stop aerial assault of Europe now under intensified pressure after the shuttle raid to Russian bases and an RAF-RCAF night stack against French coastal targets.

Flying two missions from Britain for a second day, a force of 250 American heavy bombers with equally strong escort hit coastal targets in the morning, and similar fleets roared back in the afternoon to the same area.

These West wall fortifications were hit Friday in their heaviest day pounding of the war, and 500 RAF and RCAF bombers attacked the West wall defences and crumbling German rail facilities last night.

Saturday's raiders hurled probably 1500 tons of explosives on this Atlantic wall section for a total of about 1500 tons smashing down in the last 24 hours on this area closest to Britain.

The night blows climaxed a day which saw the Allied air forces expand their pincers campaign against the continent to a three way aerial stranglehold from Britain, the Mediterranean and Russia.

Rounding off a day which brought an epochal shuttle-raid by American bombers to new Russian bases and two heavy bomber attacks on France from Britain by daylight the RAF night-bomber fleet dealt a quick follow-up drubbing to German defences along the channel coast and again attacked the great Trappes railway yards on the outskirts of Paris.

A force of Mosquitoes attacked the chemical centre of Leverkusen in Germany near Cologne, a frequent target of recent attacks, and other formations laid mines in enemy waters.

Seventeen British planes were missing from the night operations and at least seven German fighters were shot down, the Air Ministry announced. All Canadian planes returned safely.

Allied bombers based in Italy attacked objectives at Clurelu, a Romanian city on the Danube River, last night.

Take Steps to Solve Problem of Doukhobors

VANCOUVER, June 4 (CP) — Arthur V. Helps, an official of the Vancouver organization "town meeting" which holds a weekly public discussion said preliminary steps are under way in a plan calculated to solve the Doukhobor problem.

He said it was agreed by the Doukhobor delegation which visited Vancouver recently that they would return to the interior, urge that all demonstrations be discontinued, arrange for a "great meeting" in Trail or Nelson, similar to the Vancouver "Town Meeting" and have an unofficial citizens committee from Vancouver go to the interior to investigate the situation generally and make recommendations in a manner similar to that of "royal commission."

Mr. Helps said that a committee including Michael and Russell Vergin, representing the Doukhobors, and J. A. Paton and himself, unofficially representing the remainder of the population, had agreed upon a course of action and that since this was done "all disturbances have ceased."

The plan has been submitted to Attorney-General R. L. Maitland of B. C., and Pensions Minister Mackenzie. Helps said the minister told the committee members at a conference that he believed the plan had possibilities and that he had noticed an improvement in the situation. It was really a matter however for the Federal Minister of Justice, he pointed out.

The plan had grown out of a town meeting recently when Doukhobor spokesmen had been given an opportunity to present their case, the group's moderator explained. Doukhobor spokesmen had told him that it had been the first time they had ever been given a fair hearing and that they had found "ordinary Canadians are men of good will."

To Ask Ottawa Increase Coast Rental Rates

VANCOUVER, June 4 (CP) — A. R. Reusch, President of the apartment and Rooming House Operators' Association, said Saturday a delegation from the Vancouver organization will visit Ottawa to ask the Rentals Controller of the Prices Board to authorize increased rates.

Mr. Reusch claimed Vancouver would become a city of slums if increased rentals are not allowed, adding present rentals prevent landlords from keeping buildings in proper condition. He said his organization has 2000 members and it is hoped a petition containing 12,000 signatures will be taken to Ottawa.

Castlegar Man Wins D.F.C.

OTTAWA, June 4 (CP) — The R.C.A.F. announced Saturday a list of 36 decorations to members of the RCAF serving overseas for distinguished service and bravery in air battles over Europe and the East.

The list includes one bar to the DFC, 36 DFC's and one Flying Medal.

The recipients included:

D.F.C.—

Sqdn. Ldr. H. D. Cleveland, whose wife lives at Vancouver, (Reported missing May 16 after operations over Germany, later reported interned in Sweden.)

Wo. J. A. McNair Seaton, whose wife lives at Castlegar, B. C.

Wo. Seaton was included in the citation which read:

"The following officers and airmen have competed in various capacities many successful operations against the enemy in which they have displayed high skill, fortitude and devotion to duty."

Canada's Post-Victory Military Necessities

After the war of 1914-18, Canada, in common with Great Britain and the United States, had its mind on disarmament, rather than upon the maintenance of a military establishment.

We reduced our army, naval and air forces to skeletons.

We believed that peace could be maintained on a foundation of good will toward all, and that the less we possessed in military force the greater would appear our good will. We thought that international thuggism would die out if we made ourselves bereft of weapons with which to defend ourselves against it. A policeman, we seemed to think, created crime; abolition of police cured it. It was a nice, comfortable, Pollyannish theory, for which we of the democracies have since paid a heavy price.

Post-victory days will see prevail a more realistic viewpoint. We will, in the peace terms, take all the steps that ingenuity can devise to prevent the Germans and the Japanese from arming again. We will draw their teeth and endeavor to see that they have no recourse to dental laboratories. Yet we know that that will not be enough, that we must maintain in the control of the nations devoted to the maintenance of peace such force as may be necessary to apply against any would-be disturber.

Canada cannot afford to evade its share of the responsibility. It must maintain such army, naval and air forces as its place in the world, as its position in international diplomacy, justifies. We cannot hold our position unless we accept responsibilities.

When the war ends it will be necessary for us to maintain some of our training schools, and, if we are wise, we will make them training schools in combined operations.

When the last war ended we had a military college at Kingston. That was maintained, on a pitifully inadequate scale. We had naval schools at Halifax and at Esquimalt. Within four years both were abolished. Such naval training as we could give our young men was confined largely to training on ships; we had abolished the facilities for theoretical training in the business of war, such as Great Britain provided at Portsmouth and elsewhere and the United States provided at Annapolis.

There will be controvery between our military leaders as to whether we should, after victory has been won, maintain three types of schools for junior basic training, or one. Each service, proud of its achievements and of its ancient or newly won traditions, will incline to a jealous clinging to control of its own separate training facilities.

Yet, in primary theoretical training for the young man who desires a military career, instruction could best be provided in schools devoted to combined operations. From these schools the students would naturally go to practical training in the branches of the services which they preferred. Later, some would go to staff colleges.

This war has proved the point. In primary service schools in Canada today we have men whose basic training was for the army, but who are instructing for the navy; we have men from naval colleges instructing in aviation; we have army college men instructing in the air force. Still more obvious is the same development in actual operations. No branch of the service is any more a law unto itself. In greater or lesser degree all warfare has become combined operations.

Maintenance of primary schools of military instruction will cost money. They will cost less if for all services combined than if three separate organizations have to be financed. There is also the practical political angle. Members of Parliament will more readily pass estimates supported by all three services than estimates into which service rivalries will enter.

There will be the question of staff colleges. Again combined operations principles must be a governing factor, though separate colleges for the three services would probably be necessary at some stages of advanced training, which involves problems varying with the three different services which are not involved in the primary training schools. For advanced training of the staff college type, Canada might well consider the closest cooperation with the United States as well, as in the past, with Great Britain.

It is certain that in the future Canada must have its career men in army, navy and air force and that their ranks must be steadily refilled from the young men of the country receptive to the newest ideas that may be developed in warfare. Canada has no military ambitions, but it must take its part in protecting the peace. It cannot take its part with obsolete equipment, either in the materiel of war or in ideas.

British Science in the War

The record of British scientists at war has proved worthy of recognition. Many of the newest and most revolutionary weapons of war—whether defensive or offensive—have been the product of British brains. Meanwhile in other fields research has gone forward, and discoveries have been made which will prove of lasting benefit to the world when the war is over.

Radar, probably the greatest weapon in air warfare, was first discovered and perfected in Britain, and shared with Britain's Allies. In the Battle of Britain it tipped the balance against Germany—and in favor of the whole civilized world.

Since those days Britain has developed many other weapons of air warfare. After Radar came improved anti-aircraft guns, culminating in the now famous secret "Z" rocket gun.

Britain's new air weapons have been just as much offensive as defensive. The "backroom boys" as her scientists are called have produced bombs which have grown bigger and more powerful every year. Their latest is a 12,000 pounder—so large that experts thought they could never get it inside a filling factory.

The application of the degaussing girdle to the hulls of ships, thus neutralizing the effect of the German magnetic mine, was equal to a major victory at sea. Within a few weeks British scientists had defeated the menace of what Germany had vaunted as a war-winning weapon.

Reader, Crescent Valley—Kindly give me information as to rules and regulations of a line fence between two neighbors, also the upkeep of same.

The Trespass Act of the B. C. Statutes says: "A lawful fence means a fence substantially constructed from the ground to a height of at least four feet six inches and consisting of earth, stone, brick, concrete or iron; or of logs, rails, boards or bars of wood or iron, laid horizontally one above the other not more than nine inches apart up to a height of 32 inches from the ground, and not more than 11 inches apart above that height; the bottom of the lowest log, rail, board, or bar being at any point not more than 14 inches from the ground; or, of upright posts, boards, palings or pickets not more than four inches apart.

The upkeep of the fence depends upon the agreement taken out by the two parties.

Admiral Derrien Before Tribunal

(Fighting French Information Service)

Admiral Derrien, who became notorious in December, 1942, for his part in turning Bizerte over to the Axis invasion forces, was found guilty in Algiers by a special military tribunal, and sentenced to a long prison term.

The charges laid by the prosecution were as follows:

1. At Bizerte, in November and December, 1942, being commandant of the place of Bizerte, capitulated before the enemy, and surrendered the said place which had been entrusted to him without having exhausted all the means of defence at his disposal and without having done all that was incumbent upon him through duty and honor.

2. At Bizerte, on December 8, 1942, being commander of a naval force, caused the loss of the torpedo boats "Pomone" and Iphigene," the dispatch boats "Commandant Riviere" and "Batailleuse", the destroyer "Audieux", the oil tanker "Tarn", the submarines "Turquoise", "Saphir", "Nautilus", "Circe", "Calypso", "Requin", "Phoque", and "Dauphin" and a certain number of little war craft and tugs.

It is recalled that the French Committee of National Liberation had announced his arrest on July 22, 1943, after it had decided to conduct an investigation into the attitude of a certain number of French army and navy officers at the time of the Axis invasion of Tunisia. It was on December 8, 1942, that Admiral Derrien, responding to the ultimatum of the German General, Neuffer, surrendered the place of Bizerte, in its entirety, and without resistance, to the German and Italy troops which were not then very numerous.

Admiral Derrien commanded the navy in Tunisia from August 21, 1940 until May 9, 1943.

Entering the Naval College at Brest in 1900, he graduated in 1902 with the rank of midshipman. After having served in several warships belonging to metropolitan and colonial fleets, he was promoted to the rank of lieutenant in 1914, on the general staff of the Northern flotillas. After being attached to a group of Marines in 1915, he became successively lieutenant-commander, commander, and captain. A rear-admiral in 1937, he was named naval commander of Morocco and then of the third Algiers squadron. In 1940 he served on the coasts of Norway and in the North Sea.

Capt. J. Thompson Takes Over Steamer Minto

NAKUSP, B.C.—The steamer Minto on the Arrow Lakes goes on the Summer schedule Tuesday, June 6, with Captain J. Thompson, Capt. Command. Captain Thompson came to the Arrow Lakes in 1907 and has been with the C.P.R. on the inland waterways 37 years, except for four years when he was overseas during the First Great War.

Capt. Thompson has worked as deckhand, mate pilot and Captain serving on the Kootenay Lake. His home has been in Penticton for the past 21 years. He has also served on the Slocan and Arrow Lakes. Capt. and Mrs. Thompson and family will make their future home in Nakusp.

Cranbrook Man Among Wounded

CRANBROOK, B. C. — Bombardier Elliott Dale, Canadian Army, has been reported seriously wounded in action, according to word received here by his parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. C. Dale. The nature of the wound has not been reported.

Bdr. Dale, local born and locally educated, was a member of the non-permanent 107th Field Battery prior to outbreak of war and transferred to the active army immediately war was declared. He went overseas early in 1940 as a signalman, and transferred while abroad to the artillery. His younger brother, Norman, is overseas with the R.C.A.F.

By coincidence a letter written from the Italian front early in May to the Cranbrook Courier had already been set in type as an editorial when the news came. In it he advocated construction of a civic centre here for young people. "Those of Cranbrook (in the services) to whom I have spoken are 100 per cent for a useful memorial to those of us who fail to return," he said, after describing a memorial hospital he had seen in Wales, "built by the living in memory of their war dead."

Bdr. Dale married an English girl after he went overseas. His older brother, Graham Dale, lives in Edmonton, and his sisters, Mrs. Butterworth at Whitecliff and Thelma in Cranbrook, where his parents also live.

RESERVE ARMY MEN RETURN FROM VERNON

VERNON, June 4 (CP)— The only reserve army men to train in Vernon this Summer dispersed to their various centres Saturday. The Interior units consist of B. C. Dragoons from Vernon, Kelowna and Penticton, and RMR's from Kamloops and vicinity. A reconnaissance unit from Chilliwack under Capt. Johnston left yesterday driving their vehicles home by road the way they came.

All units in camp were inspected Thursday and Friday by Col. A. W. Sparling, who said that he was "proud of the morale of the men, their appearance and knowledge showed a great improvement over last year, he said.

PIONEER OF OKANAGAN DIES SUDDENLY

PENTICTON, June 4 (CP) —William Thomas Kaines, 74, pioneer of the Okanagan district died suddenly while on duty at a hotel here where he held the position of night clerk.

Mr. Kaines had resided in Penticton for 15 years and before that had been a resident of Vernon for 21 years. He is survived by his widow, two sons, one who is serving with the armed forces in Italy.

FIRE FATAL TO U.S. SOLDIERS

WHITEHORSE, Y. T., June 4 (CP) —Three U. S. soldiers suffered fatal burns when fire destroyed a barracks here recently. Several other soldiers in the barracks at the time suffered burns but have recovered.

The dead are:

Sgt. Nelson L. Carman of Peebles, Ohio.

Pte. Anthony M. Fabian of Cary, Ind.

Pte. Ivan W. Miller, of Gilmore City, Iowa.

The blaze started early in the morning when some oil became ignited on a heater. Two of the soldiers who died attempted to push the heater out of the hut when it upset and oil from the reserve tank caught fire.

Halibut Price Goes Up

WASHINGTON, June 4 (CP) — Fishermen's prices on drawn halibut rose one and one fourth cents a pound Friday on order of the U. S. Office of Price Administration, which also raised prices on all halibut landed at Alaskan ports.

The order makes the new price 15¾ cents in Seattle and 13¾ cents in Prince Rupert. An increase of one fourth cent was made to adjust the transportation differential between Alaskan ports and Prince Rupert, the OPA said.

Prices for halibut heads and cheeks will be set after the first catches are landed in Seattle.

Westgate Appeals Murder Verdict

WINNIPEG, June 4 (CP) — Albert B. Westgate, 45, now under sentence of death, Saturday filed an appeal from a verdict of an assize court jury which May 8 convicted him of murdering Edith Cook, 18, waitress, in a downtown hotel last December. He was sentenced to hang July 24.

133,700 Tons of Bombs Rocked Europe in May

LONDON, June 4 (CP) — The tremendous allied pre-invasion aerial assault rocked the European continent during May with a record total of 133,700 tons of bombs —nearly three tons every minute, official summaries disclosed Saturday.

From British and Italian bases planes of all types flew more than 139,000 sorties.

Wallace Makes Speech in Russian

LONDON, June 4 (AP) —Speaking in Russian to a native audience in the Siberian town of Irkutsk, Vice President Wallace said that "it is becoming quite clear that only the full collaboration between our two countries and their allies can insure to the world a stable peace of true development.

The Moscow radio, reporting the speech Friday, said Wallace, enroute to China was greeted warmly.

Wallace told his audience that development of the American Northwest, Canada, Alaska, and Russia must play an important part in post war construction and that U. S. and Canada must make "a decisive effort in the task of developing their Northern regions" as has been done by Russia.

WASTE PAPER IS URGENTLY NEEDED FOR VITAL WAR USES

● Millions of containers, made from waste paper, carry vital supplies to our armed forces.

Waste paper is essential to the production of these containers . . . those sent overseas cannot be salvaged for re-use!

To replace them . . . and supply additional containers for overseas and essential civilian requirements . . . CANADA NEEDS 20,000 TONS OF WASTE PAPER EVERY MONTH.

WHAT IS WANTED

You can remedy this critical paper shortage by saving every scrap of Waste Paper, namely: wrapping paper — store bags — cardboard — cartons — corrugated board — old magazines and books—envelopes and letters—newspapers. These represent the raw material for making vitally needed Paper containers.

HOW TO DO IT

Tie securely in separate bundles. (The little time you take will save thousands of man hours.) Then dispose of it through your local voluntary Salvage Committee or other War Voluntary Organization, or sell it through any known trade channels, your pedlar, dealers or others. The important thing is to get your Waste Paper moving to the mills.

Wonders if War Marriage Is Risk

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

Dear Miss Fairfax:

This is the age-old problem of marriage during wartime. I'm 22 years of age and have known my fiance for two years, and we've been engaged for one year. At first we thought we'd wait until after the war, but we've now decided to get married on his next furlough.

My boy friend's parents have been grand about it, since their love is a successful product of the last World War. On the other hand, my mother objects. She has assumed an indifferent attitude, although she says she will not stop us. She thinks we should wait until after the war as we're both taking too big a chance if we marry now. But my fiance and I are willing to risk it.

I love my mother dearly, but to know that she carries this depressive "chip" makes me more than unhappy. Will you pass along a few of your ideas and viewpoints, whether they are pro or con? They would be appreciated so much.

—G. E. M.

There is, of course, a risk involved in any wartime marriage, just as there is a risk in every action of our daily lives. But if we'd stop to consider these risks we'd never get anywhere. You've known this boy for two years, so it's no flash-in-the-pan wartime marriage entered into, because everybody else is getting married. And the fact that his parents are happily married and in favor of their son's wedding, is all to the good.

It seems to me that less risk is involved in your case than in the majority of war marriages.

SWIFT'S WEEKLY FOOD HINTS

Silverleaf Lard

Now in good supply and very reasonably priced, this fine cooking fat should be on every housewife's shelf

There was a time not so very long ago, when there seemed to be a real risk that we in Canada might find ourselves short of cooking fats. Fortunately, the efforts of Canadian farmers have averted that danger and now there is no reason why every kitchen in Canada should not be supplied with a pound or two of that wonderful standby, Silverleaf Lard.

Not only is lard a very valuable source of energy but it also contains other vital elements absolutely essential to health. Use lard in all kinds of delicious dishes, for pan-frying and of course in baked goods. It is good—good for you—and we now have enough.

Martha Logan

RHUBARB PIE

1¼ cups sifted pastry flour — ½ tsp. baking powder
1 tsp. salt — ⅔ cups chilled Silverleaf Lard
Ice cold water

Mix and sift into a bowl the flour, salt and baking powder. Cut half of lard into these dry ingredients, to the size of wheat grains—then cut in remainder of lard, to the size of small peas. Sprinkle with cold water, and mix with a fork, adding enough water to make a dough which will just form a mass that cleans easily from the bowl. Chill.

FOR THE FILLING:

5 cups ½-inch pieces of rhubarb — 6 tbsps. flour
1½ cups sugar
1 tbsp. butter

Prepare the rhubarb. Add combined flour and sugar. Turn mixture into a deep pie dish (the sides may be lined with rolled out pie paste, if desired) dot with butter. Moisten edges of dish. Roll out paste, slit for escape of steam, and place over the rhubarb. Trim and crimp edges. Bake in a hot oven, 450 degrees, for 12 minutes, then reduce heat to moderately hot, 375 degrees, and bake until rhubarb is tender and crust baked and nicely browned. Note: A support may be placed in the centre of the pie dish before turning in the filling.

Morale . . .

If You're Fed Up With Diets, Go on a Spree

By IDA JEAN KAIN

When you reach the point where you count calories instead of sheep to go to sleep, stand in a trance before a bakery shop window, and can't bear the sight of other people eating normally, it is time to go off your diet—for one meal.

Make it a good one. Order the meat of the day, a big baked potato, a couple of vegetables, the salad with dressing, and coffee with cream and sugar. If you eat all that you won't crave the dessert. You are not slipping in this instance because it is a deliberate part of your reducing plan and you go right back on your diet. Cheerfully.

If you are subject to these attacks of calorietis, it might be wise to allow for a food spree once a month. By sticking closely to your protective food pattern all the rest of the time, this slight departure will not interfere seriously with your weight loss and it will make a world of difference in your morale. It is letting yourself remain in low spirits that finishes your diet for good and all.

The change is gradual but as you go along reducing, there is a change in your ideas of a good meal. This is a physiological, not something you imagine. With a lessened food intake, your stomach actually shrinks. Also, where you used to gulp down a couple of glasses of water and a cup of coffee with food, you no wrestrict the entire amount of liquid with the meal to about six ounces, and this hastens the shrinkage. In six weeks on this regime, it would be impossible for you to eat the amount of food you used to regard merely as a good meal. You do not have the room for it. So even on your calorie spree you do not really want the dessert and there is no use in stretching your stomach to take care of it.

It never pays to be too tough with yourself while you are dieting. When you are the one who makes the rules, you break them very easily. For that reason alone it is important to reduce by a food pattern which includes a variety rather than by the old method of eating only one or two foods, such as a lamb chop and lettuce leaf. That diet was monotonous, tiresome and inadequate, and it did nothing at all toward changing your food habits. On it you simply existed until the day you could go back to your old ways of eating—over-eating! It is much smarter to follow a pattern which gives variety and gradually changes your eating habits.

Hints for Housewives

By BETSY NEWMAN

If you have to make your meat go a good way, stretch it with stuffing.

TODAY'S MENU

Roast Stuffed Veal Breast or Meat Loaf
Baked or Parsley Potatoes
Spinach — Sliced Tomato Salad
White Cake — Coffee

ROAST STUFFED VEAL BREAST

1 veal breast, salt, pepper, rice stuffing.

Have breast bone removed from meat and a pocket cut in one end. Season with salt and pepper and fill pocket with rice stuffing. Place on rack in open roasting pan and roast in slow oven (350 degrees F.) for about 2½ hours. Serves 4.

RICE STUFFING

1 cup uncooked rice, ½ lb. bulk pork sausage, 2 tablespoons grated onion, meat stock, 2 tablespoons chopped parsley, 1½ teaspoons salt, ⅛ teaspoon pepper.

Cook rice in boiling, salted water for 1 minutes. Drain and rinse. Brown sausage and onion in skillet, add partially cooked rice with seasonings and enough meat stock to make slightly moist.

MEAT LOAF

2 pounds ground beef, 1 medium onion, ¼ cup lard, 2 eggs, 3 cups soft bread crumbs, ½ cup water, ¾ cup diced celery, one-third cup diced green pepper, 2 teaspoons salt, ½ cup tomato juice, 2 tablespoons melted fat.

Chop onion. Brown onion and celery in lard, combine with green pepper, salt, eggs, bread crumbs and water to make dressing. Add half of dressing (1½ cups) to meat, mixing well. Pat out half meat mixture in 2-quart loaf pan, cover with remaining dressing, then top with remaining meat mixture. Bake in moderate oven (350 degrees F.) 1¼ hours. Baste twice with tomato juice and butter to keep loaf moist. Serves 8.

WHITE CAKE

2 and two-thirds cups sifted all-purpose flour or 3 cups sifted cake flour, 3 teaspoons baking powder, 1 teaspoon salt, 3 egg whites, ½ cup (¼ lb.) lard, 1½ cups sugar, 1¼ cups milk, 1 egg yolk, 1 teaspoon vanilla.

Line 3 8-inch cake pans with waxed paper, but do not oil pans. Sift flour with baking powder and salt. Cream lard, cream gradually with 1 cup sugar and 3 tablespoons milk, add egg yolk and vanilla to remaining milk, add sifted dry ingredients alternately with milk mixture. Beat egg whites stiff, gradually beat in the other ½ cup sugar, then carefully fold egg white mixture into batter. Bake at 375 degrees F. for 25 to 30 minutes. Frost with any desired frosting.

"But personally I think the best way to get carbohydrates and proteins is in a lip-smacking bowlful of Grape-Nuts Flakes."

"You said a mouthful, Professor! What a mouthful of tongue-tickling flavor and good nourishment!"

"Yes, my little chickadees, and not only do Grape-Nuts Flakes supply carbohydrates and proteins, but also useful quantities of iron and phosphorus and other food essentials. Not forgetting their malty-rich, sweet-as-a-nut taste."

"I guess all that comes from being made of two grains—wheat and malted barley—and being blended, baked and toasted for grand taste and easy digestion. I must pick up a package at the grocer's."

Should Pay More Attention to Self-Control

By GARRY C. MYERS, Ph.D.

For many years I have been entreating parents to control their children at home and to begin it as soon as the youngster can move about, urging the need of selective physical punishment in the pre-school year with effective substitutes after the age of six.

As a rule, home control has relaxed fastest in the so-called best homes, homes of education and influence. The chief reason for this is the doctrine of child rearing by the rank and file of "child experts" and parent counsellors who have led these parents to believe that to restrain a child is to warp his personality.

Correspondingly, these same parents have clamored for schools where children shall use as little effort as possible, shall have a minimum of restraint and a maximum of self-expression.

Any sort of restraint or sign of punishment at school has been held up to scorn and ridicule by most of these teachers of teachers. "The good teacher needs to give no thought to discipline," the young woman being trained to teach has been told.

Having visited in thousands of elementary classrooms throughout the nation, especially in those connected with teacher training, imagine my surprise recently when I saw for the first time in years a fourth grade boy sitting in a chair facing the corner with his back to the class in charge of a cadet teacher. The supervisor with me said, "I'm sorry that boy must be there but he must have needed it." "This," I said to myself, "is the beginning of a new era in teacher-training."

A quiz contest followed conducted by Mr. Campbell; guessing games were played and later a lunch was served.

Eating . . .

Diet of Raw Food Has Limited Value

By LOGAN CLENDENING, M.D.

The raw food diet is a diet composed of edible plants (fruits, leaves, roots, nuts, seeds) in uncooked condition, with exclusion of meat, eggs, cheese, white flour, sugar, alcohol, salt.

The only scientifically established diets comparable to the raw food diet are the salt-free diet used in kidney diseases and the Gerson diet which is used in certain kinds of tuberculosis and to promote wound healing. And the Gerson diet simply emphasizes raw fruit and vegetables and allows cooking of other food and three pints of milk a day and 500 grams of meat a week.

"Vegetarian diet" doesn't mean anything definite because vegetarians allow milk and eggs, the principle difference between the strict vegetarian diet and the raw food diet is that the vegetarians allow cooking of most of their food.

The Raw Food Diet has been used with success in cases of kidney disturbance, arthritis, manifestations of allergy such as athma and sinus irritation and various functional disorders—such as palpitation of the heart, dyspepsia, vertigo, etc. A special field for its use is in Meniere's disease — which consists of spells of vertigo, nausea, ringing in the ears and progressive deafness.

The success of the diet depends on the skill with which the dishes are prepared.

It is emphatically not a diet for a healthy individual and should not be continued by anyone for more than six weeks.

Got Athlete's Foot? —Use Lysol

1

Soak feet 15 minutes in a lukewarm Lysol solution (1 teaspoon of Lysol to each quart water) every day for one week. Dry thoroughly without rinsing. Repeat every 2 or 3 days for some weeks afterwards.

2

To help prevent reinfection, have the good wife soak socks, bath mats, towels for 1 hour in Lysol solution (same strength) before laundering. Also wipe inside of shoes, especially seams, with same Lysol solution on cotton swab.

3

Don't let it spread! Protect other members of your family from Athlete's Foot by washing bathroom floor regularly with Lysol in cleaning water. (6¼ tablespoons to 1 gallon water.) Lysol is soapy in nature, helps clean. Lysol deodorizes, too.

4

Avoid walking barefoot at all times! Severe or stubborn cases may require a doctor's attention. Lysol costs little because it's so concentrated—you dilute it for use. Get Lysol today, at any drug counter.

Contract... By Shepard Barclay

LEARN BRIDGE FAST
10—A Sound Opening Bid

WHEN YOU make an opening bid, you may be sure your partner's later action will be based partly on what your bid has told him about your hand. His most important decision may be on any of these problems. (1) Raising a bid of yours. (2) making some other bid himself. (3) doubling an opponent's bid. (4) leading against an opponent's contract. So you had better, as a rule, be ready for any of these if you open the bidding. That means you should have at least what your bid indicates, possibly more, but seldom less.

Whether your bid is in a suit or No Trump, if you make an opening bid of one, he will consider that you have at least two defensive tricks, based on the high cards in your hand. That covers requirement No. 2 above, and will guide him in possible doubling of the opponents, counting also on whatever tricks he can take.

Also, whether your bid is in a suit or No Trump, he will consider that you are able to take your own proper share of the tricks if you become the declarer. As an irreducible minimum, that means at least four, usually a bit better. The reason four is the sound minimum is that, if each player could take three it would account for 12 tricks, leaving over one additional trick, which the bidder should be able to take or otherwise should not bid. This enables your partner to add his strength to yours to determine how he might raise you. This covers No. 1 above.

The combination of enough strength for numbers 1 and 2 enables him to estimate how good your hand may be if it proves to fit some other declaration he may bid himself. That is No. 3 above.

If you have bid a suit, and he becomes the opening leader against an opponent's contract, he will usually lead your suit. You therefore should have a suit that is desirable for him to lead. That is No. 4.

There are two other qualifications, one of which should be present for a sound opening bid. If the bid is No Trump, you should be able to keep the opponents from running any one of at least three suits against you—have "stoppers" in at least three of them. A stopper means any card which is sure to take a trick if "led up to" often enough, such as an ace, a guarded king, a twice-guarded queen or four cards headed by a jack. If the bid is a suit, you should have a "biddable suit." Strictly interpreted, and in line with expert practice, that means at least four cards headed by at least a jack, or any five cards or more.

The reason for needing four cards is the same as that for being able to average a total of at least four tricks taken by your hand in the play if you become the declarer. Divide the 13 cards of the suit so that each player has three, and add one for the fact that you are the bidder. This also will enable your partner to know how many trumps he can count on from you.

The reason why the suit should contain at least a jack at its top, or else be of five cards, is twofold. First, your partner may consider bidding No Trump, and should most surely be able to count on you as probably able to stop the suit you bid, if he is strong in the other three. Second, your partner may ultimately lead that suit against an opponent's contract, and you therefore should have some kind of strength in it.

Many players consider that a four-card suit should have still more strength at its top. Some consider that a five-card suit should. And in No Trump opening bids, some players insist on having all suits stopped, or upon at least three cards in every suit, or both. The minimums given are only minimums. Increase them if you find yourself with a group of players or a partner, who prefer them.

Pensive Takes Beating in Belmont

By ORLO ROBERTSON
Associated Press Sport Writer

NEW YORK, June 4 (AP) — The Turf's three-year-old division has a new candidate for title honors following Bounding Home's conquest of Pensive in Saturday's Belmont Stakes but the impression remains the name of the Kentucky Derby and Preakness winner would be on the select role of triple crown winners today had he been given a different type of a ride.

In the Derby and Preakness, Conn McCreary waited until the last quarter-of-a-mile to make his run with the chestnut from Warren Wright's Calumet Farm. In the Belmont he shot Pensive to the front at the mile post and, when challenged by William Ziegler's colt at the quarter-pole, the son of Hyperion didn't have enough left to match Bounding Home's stretch drive. A half-length separated them at the end of the 1½ miles. Bull Dandy was third, well back.

Ben Jones, trainer of Pensive, also was of the opinion that McCreary had made his move too soon.

Bounding Home's time of 2:32 1-5, slowest since Hurry Off won in 1933, again emphasized the fact that there is not much class among the three-year-olds this season.

Mrs. H. Miller Is Laid at Rest

Mrs. Hannah Miller was borne to rest in Nelson Memorial Park Saturday afternoon following funeral services from St. Paul's United Church.

Rev. H. Stewart Forbes officiated. "The King of Love My Shepherd Is" and "There Is a Green Hill Far Away" were sung by the congregation, Mrs. T.J.S. Ferguson rendering the organ accompaniment.

There was a profusion of flowers.

Pallbearers were R. B. Morris, Leslie McKachern, Frank Stringer, A. A. Pagdin, Jack McDonald and Stanley Bostock.

Mrs. Miller, widow of the late Alfred James Miller, had lived in Nelson 47 years. She died Thursday at the age of 80.

Mrs. H. Kelsall to Be Delegate to C.W.L. Convention

NEW DENVER, B.C.—The Catholic Women's League met at the home of Mrs. L. Dwyer last week. President Mrs. S. Christofferson presiding. Mrs. H. Kelsall was appointed delegate to represent the sub-division at the Annual Catholic Women's League convention in Rossland June 9th and 10th. The Secretary read a letter from Most Rev. Bishop M. H. Johnson of Nelson thanking the group for a small donation to the Seminary Fund. It was decided to paint the interior of the Church in the near future. A hearty vote of thanks was extended to Rev. Father Clement for the use of his car to take members to and from Silverton. Mrs. Jeffery was appointed to clean the Church for each Sunday in June. Refreshments were served by the hostess, Mrs. L. Dwyer.

To the Thinking People of the Kootenays

My Name Is Arlada Cheddar Cheese

my home is at Edgewood, on the Arrow Lakes, in the lovely Kootenays.

I am the essence of sunshine and rain, as personified in the flowers and grasses that grow here.

Some people like me, some absolutely loathe me—and it makes me very sad, for I would like to please everyone, and you know how hard that is to do. What can I do about it? The demand for me by people that like me is so strong, they will not let me grow up and become matured—they say—the ones who loathe me—I am too green—and it makes me very sad.

I want to tell you folk who read this, that one pound of Arlada Cheddar Cheese, if two months old, is equal to one and a quarter, to one and a third of processed, in vitamins, although processed or cream cheese, is perfectly good and wholesome, and convenient for the lady of the house.

I would like to tell you, that when you buy a dollars worth of me from your grocer, ninety to ninety-five cents stay here, in the Kootenays, and works for all of us.

Ask your grocer for Arlada Cheese—and by so doing you will help your pocket, your community, and the health of your children, as Canadian Cheddar Cheese is a perfect food.

Smart Procter Fastballers Oust C.B.C. 17-14

Procter boys fastball squad paid a visit to Nelson Sunday afternoon to play the Catholic Boys Club, and went home the winners, 17 to 14.

The Procter lads took a big five-run lead in their first half of the initial inning and although the locals came close, the visitors' early lead was held through the game.

Walt Malahoff went the route for the Procter team, but Nelson used two hurlers, Earl Duffy starting, to be replaced by Ray Garriety, who again was replaced by Duffy. Duffy came back to chuck the last two innings. Mickey Maglio, the locals' catcher, was injured and left in the early innings, Choquette taking his place.

Highlights of the game were, the smartfielding of the Procter squad. Ian MacLeod lead the visitors with four runs. Steve Malahoff came through with three, Allan Donaldson, Stan Donaldson and Walt Malahoff, and Graham McMullin two each. Herbert McMullin and Steve Donaldson, one each. For the C.B.C's, Deegan and Garriety, collected three runs each. S. Duffy, Bachynski, andE. Duffy two runs each, with Chiquette and Ross one apiece.

Batteries were:

Procter — Walter Malahoff and Graham McMullin.

Nelson C.B.C.—E. Duffy, Garriety, Maglio, Choquette and Garriety.

Umpires were Slim Porter and Collin Major. Scurer was Jim Todd.

Begins Talks on Missionary Trips

Rev. M. Billester, a missionary-traveler, is to tell his life history and to show moving pictures of Poland and Russia tonight at the Salvation Army Hall.

His message relates to history in prophecy and the immediate opportunity for evangelization of the Russian people. Mr. Billester was born in Russia, came as a young man to America, and after completing his education, returned to the Russian mission fields. Since then, Mr. Billester has travelled extensively in the interests of Russia refugees and his travels have taken him to Spain, France, Germany, Czecho-Slovakia, Poland, and some sixteen other European countries.

An expose of the European situation in relation to scriptural prophesies will be given.

All of the lectures will be illustrated by motion pictures and stereoptican slides, for the most part, in natural color.

Commencing tonight, Mr. Billester will begin a series of addresses which will include his trip to the Russian mission fields, the religious and historical background of the Russian people, his trip through Germany, his trip to Palestine, concluding with the story of his conversion.

God Only Cause and Creator Theme of Lesson-Sermon

"God The Only Cause And Creator" was the subject of the Lesson-Sermon in all Churches of Christ, Scientist, on Sunday.

The Golden Text was: "He is the former of all things, and Israel is the rod of his inheritance: The Lord of hosts is his name" (Jeremiah 10: 16.)

Among the citations which comprised the Lesson-Sermon was the following from the Bible: "O Lord, how manifold are Thy works! in wisdom hast Thou made them all: the earth is full of Thy riches" (Psalms 104: 24.)

The Lesson-Sermon also included the following passage from the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy: "Spiritual causation is the one question to be considered, for more than all others spiritual causation relates to human progress. The age seems ready to approach this subject, to ponder somewhat the supremacy of Spirit, and at least to touch the hem of Truth's garment."

LEGION ASKS BOOSTS IN VET ALLOWANCES

Laurie of Cranbrook Vice-President of B.C. Command

HENDERSON HEAD

VANCOUVER, June 4 (CP) — Jack Henderson of Vancouver was elected President of the B. C. Command of the Canadian Legion at closing sessions of the Provincial convention here today.

Others elected to office included: R. B. Knight of Victoria, First Vice President; L. T. Price of Vancouver, Second Vice President; R. J. Laurie of Cranbrook, Third Vice-President, D. H. Esterbrooks of Vancouver, Fourth Vice-President. Mr. Esterbrooks is a veteran of the present war.

W. Millar of Vancouver was chosen Honorary Treasurer and Mr. G. Cassady of New Westminster was elected representative to the Dominion Council.

Revelstoke was chosen by delegates as the home of their next convention, date to be set later by the newly elected executive.

Resolutions passed at today's sessions included a request, that the present $65 clothing allowances for veterans on discharge be increased to $100 for those who have served a year and $150 for those serving more than a year.

Out-of-work benefits should be abolished and replaced by full pay allowances with subsidies, plus allowances for children until such time as the veteran is suitably employed.

The Federal Government should be asked to grant adequate pensions to men who served from 1914-1918 and now are in the present war, but who may find rehabilitation difficult owing to age and other barriers.

Women in the services now receiving $50 a month pension in event of total disability should have this increased to the same rate as men, delegates decided.

Previously the convention approved a resolution asking that 100 per cent pension be $150, with others in ratio and that all be based on disability, not rank.

Deprecating "discrimination" regarding independent incomes, delegates agreed a war widow in receipt of the widow's allowances should be paid that full amount.

Officials said the number of delegates attending this year's convention had established a record. Of 132 branches throughout B.C. 100 were represented. A total of 228 Legion members registered, 193 of these were official delegates.

Water Level

Interpreting The War News

By ELTON C. FAY
Associated Press War Analyst

The decision of the Allies early this year that Rome should be captured was predicated to a great extent on reasons of prestige and world politics rather than those of purely military character.

In retrospect, it is evident that Prime Minister Churchill's statement last February that the mission of the Allied armies in Italy was to take Rome reflected the belief of British and American leaders that to wrest the Catholic capital from the Nazis would produce results in certain wavering Axis satellite countries, uncertain neutrals and among people within conquered countries and even Germany itself.

The people of Hungary, never enthusiastic about their country's military alignment with the Nazis, are, in the main, Roman Catholic. The ties of the Church in Spain are strong. The people of France and Belgium await religious as well as political liberation. The Allies' friends in Latin America are Roman Catholic.

In deciding that Rome in Allied hands would be a psychological asset, the Anglo-American leaders presumably were aware of something that the Nazis already had discovered—that Southern and Central Italy was an economic liability.

At a meeting of the German and Italian military chiefs in July, 1943, the Nazi High Command was reported to have informed the Italians that abandonment of Southern and Central Italy was desirable.

The Nazis' idea was that the ultimate defensive zone should be established on a line running roughly between Rimini on the Adriatic to Spezia on the West Coast, a line of great natural strength 200 miles North of Rome. The German plan as set forth then was not to make a sudden and voluntary retreat to the line, but rather to move back by a series of holding actions only when the enemy forced it.

Creston Visitor Among Winners in Nelson Golf

Forty-four golfers took part in the second Get Acquainted Golf Tournament played at the Nelson Golf and Country Club Sunday. Players were drawn and played in mixed two-ball foursomes.

Prize winners were Miss Edna McKenzie and Charles Bothamley of Creston, who won the balls for the lowest score on the fifth hole after Miss McKenzie had won the putting competition after a four-waytie.

Kelly Ozelle continued his winning ways when he and Miss Betty Hickey took the two balls posted for the twosome taking the most strokes on the seventh hole. After going up and down both sides of the fairway, but never in the centre, they managed to take 12 strokes to nose out Lou Bradley and Miss Fern Openshaw, who took 11.

Guests at the Club were Mr. and Mrs. Charles Bothamley of Creston, Mr. Collins of the Coast and R. W. East.

Members and guests enjoyed a supper at the clubhouse following the play.

W. W. Wait of the Match Committee handled the entries and made the draw.

Cards Win and Lose in Kid Ball

Cardinals split a kid ball series Saturday when they lost a close morning game 15-14 to the Dodgers, and won their nightcap 24 to 16 from the top place Yanks.

The morning game was an even-Stephen affair. The teams tied 7-7 from the fifth until the eighth. Dodgers came through for the winning run in their last half of the ninth.

Scorers for the winners were Longden with four, MacIntyre and Kraft with three each, Bachynski with two and Kennedy, Pitts and Clark one each. For the Cards Garriety led with four runs, followed by Zaitsowoff with three, Jim Todd and S. Duffy, two each, and Hopwood, McLean and Homey, one each.

Batteries were:

Cards—S. Duffy and Zaitsowoff.

Dodgers — Longden, Clark and Kennedy.

Umpire was Bill Postlethwaite.

Scorer, Bob Pitts.

CARDS OVERCOME LEAD

In the evening game the Yanks were leading eight to four to the fourth inning, but from then the Cards slugged their way around the bases to pile up a big score to win 24-16.

Clark on the mound for the Yanks was hit freely at times, while Garpitched steady ball. His batting too, was a big factor in the Cards win.

Garriety crossed the plate six riety, churking for the winners, times, Morgan and Zaitsowoff four, E. Duffy and McInnes three, S. Duffy and Hopwood two each. For the Yanks Cathcart was leading scorer, coming in with four runs. B. Pitts with three, Kraft, Clark and Elmore two each and Longden, H. Pitts and Larrett one each.

Batteries were:

Yankes — Clark, Cathcart and Kraft.

Dodgers — Garriety and Zaitsowoff.

Umpire and Scorer was Slim Porter.

Next game is tonight when the Yanks tangle with the Dodgers.

PROCTER

PROCTER, B.C.—Mrs. H. B. Major has had as her guest her nephew, Pilot Officer B. Marshall-Hardy of Bradford, England. Po Marshall-Hardy was a prisoner of war for two years after being picked up from the sea by an enemy boat when his plane was shot down into the sea. He has been in Canada for four months and is stationed at Bowden, Alta.

Miss Frances McMullin and her brother, Graham, of Nelson, spent the weekend at their home here.

Mrs. B. Bonacci was a visitor to Nelson on Thursday.

Miss Marjorie Major spent the weekend with her grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Quin at Harrop.

Mrs. S. Malahoff was a Nelson shopper on Thursday.

Mrs. A. Ogden and daughter, Claire of Nelson, spent the weekend with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. A. Heighton.

The Misses Sally Smith and Ina MacKinnon, Colin Make, Po. P. Marshall-Hardy and Hallam MacKinnon motored to Ainsworth Monday.

Rome Torn by Centuries of War, Revolt

Rome, capital of Italy, which fell to the Allies Sunday, famous for its ancient and modern monuments and buildings, has a population of over a million.

The city, lying on the banks of the Tiber River, has been torn by wars and revolutions throughout the centuries. It became the headquarters of the Christian Church early in its long history. It has a longer record of continuous political and religious importance than any other city.

The Vatican, official residence of the Pope, is situated at the North-west end of the City.

The modern city of Rome is divided into two parts, the old and new, the old being incomparably the more artistic and the more beautiful. A tunnel under the Quirinal Hill connects the North end of the old city and the upper part of the modern Rome.

Ancient history records that the City was founded by Romulus, but the story is believed to be an invention. Romulus and his twin brother Remus were supposed to have been placed in a trough and cast into the Tiber. The trough grounded in the marshes where Rome afterwards stood. Romulus is regarded as the founder of the military and political institutions of Rome.
