Little Change Street Program

Morgan, Douglas, Carbonate and Park Included; Nelson Avenue Up To the Provincial Government

Nelson's $160,000 street improvement program includes Morgan Street and Douglas Road, as originally intended. A statement in Tuesday morning's Nelson Daily News that these streets had been eliminated from the program was incorrect.

Nor was the statement correct that the Carbonate and Park Streets portion of the program had been eliminated. Carbonte and Park Streets section of the original program will not be included in the bylaw but the work will be carried out from current revenue.

Nelson Avenue work will not be included in the bylaw as the City Council anticipates that assistance in paving this street will be available from the Provincial Government when the Goldenburg report is implemented. The report calls for Provincial financing of sections of Transprovincial highways running through cities.

Mayor Waters stated that considerable permanent sidewalk construction and other street improvements would be carried out this year in addition to the street program in the $160,000 bylaw, but that there would be no other money bylaw for public works.

Concrete is favored for the permanent pavement under the money bylaw because of its long life. Carbonate and Park Street surfacing, to be done out of current revenue, will probably be blacktop.

Must Not End Controls too Quickly, Yet Can't Curb Flexibility Essential to Growing Trade, Output

OTTAWA, Feb. 18 (CP)—Chairman Donald Gordon of the Prices Board reported today in his 1946 review that Canada's job of post-war reconversion is "practically finished."

In the Board's annual report, tabled in the Commons by Finance Minister Abbott, Mr. Gordon said "substantial" progress had been made in expanding peacetime production, and added:

"Though the improvement in supplies was below expectations, the gap between the heavy demand and the flow of supplies was nevertheless narrowed in most fields and even removed in some.

"Moreover, toward the end of the year, the expansion in output gained momentum and the price boom in external markets showed some indications of passing its peak."

Thus Canada had succeeded in preserving "orderly conditions" and in preventing "the sort of violent upsurge in prices which occurred in many other countries."

While the price level did increase during 1946, the advance was "gradual and of comparatively moderate proportions."

From the end of the war to the close of 1946, the general level of wholesale prices rose by approximately eight per cent and the cost-of-living index advanced by less than six per cent.

In the United States, during the same period, wholesale prices rose by 32 per cent and the cost-of-living by 19 per cent.

Up to June, 1946, price trends in the two countries had been "quite similar" but they diverged "sharply" following the abandonment of controls in the United States.

Mr. Gordon said the first stage of the program of "gradual and controlled re-adjustment" to post-war conditions was over and the primary objective accomplished.

FINAL STAGE

The program now had moved into its second and final stage—"to facilitate an orderly readjustment of the Canadian economy to post-war conditions; to prevent the inflationary forces . . . from creating disruption and from impeding and delaying the attainment of a sustained and high level of peace-time activity."

Mr. Gordon said the task of orderly re-adjustment of prices and related controls was "essentially one of time."

"At the one extreme is the danger of removing controls too quickly and of slipping into a violent post-war boom in prices.

"At the other is the risk of adhering to a rigid and overly cautious policy lacking the flexibility essential to a healthy and expanding volume of peacetime production and trade . . .

"Each problem of prices and subsidies not only has to be considered on its own merits but as part of the broad pattern of re-adjustment. Subsidy removal must be timed both in relation to the outlook for the commodity concerned and in relation to the effect on the general price structure.

"Decontrol of prices must similarly be timed . . .timing is a matter of judgment on which there is room for a variety of opinions.

"Conditions are changing rapidly, inconsistencies cannot be entirely avoided and the advantages of a clear-cut and readily understood program are no longer obtainable."

Doctors Say Alan MacPhail Can Be Cured; Definite Improvement

Four-year-old Alan MacPhail of Nelson, whose mysterious illness baffled Calgary doctors and aroused national interest, is showing definite signs of improvement at Rochester, Minn., his mother, Mrs. A. S. MacPhail of Nelson, said in a telegram received by the Daily News Tuesday.

The wire follows:

"Editor,

"Nelson Daily News, Nelson, B.C.:

"Would you please express my sincere gratitude for the kindness of the people and organizations who with their kind donations helped to make this trip to the Mayo Clinic possible.

"Alan had a bad case of pneumonia when we arrived in Rochester. After the doctors pulled him through that they began a complete diagnosis of his case. They reached a definite conclusion that Alan Carol John MacPhail never had Hodgkins Disease. He had a high strung nervous condition which resulted in a duodenal ulcer.

"Alan's treatments have begun at St. Mary's Hospital. He has shown definite signs of improvement but will be hospitalized for a few more weeks. The doctors say that he can be cured. However, it will take special care when he gets home and regular visits to his physician. Dr. N. E. Morrison's diagnosis of Alan's case was on the right track last November. The Clinic doctors said they would cooperate in every way with Alan's treatments when he returns to Nelson, B.C.

"Am very thankful that Alan had this chance to come to the Mayo Clinic. I can never praise their work on this case high enough."

WORLD GROUP STEMMING FROM TINY STONY CREEK START MARKS JUBILEE

STONEY CREEK, Ont., Feb. 18 (CP)—Fifty years ago this month—Feb. 19, to be exact—a group of farm women gathered in a hall near Stoney Creek and from their meeting has come an organization that boasts 3000 branches throughout Canada—the Women's Institute.

Inspired by Mrs. Adelaide Hoodless, the good ladies met to organize what they hoped would be a Women's Department of Domestic Economy in affiliation with the Farmer's Institute. They decided to call the new organization "The Women's Department of Farmers' Institute of South Wentworth."

The name at the next meeting was changed to the familiar "Women's Institute."

A minute book, preserved from the first meeting, records that women of half a century ago had similar problems their daughters have today. At the first annual meeting held in June, 1897, Mrs. J. H. McNeilly read a paper on child culture.

The movement spread until today it is world-wide.

Across Canada and the United States and in foreign countries around the world Women's Institutes will celebrate the founding of their organization that stemmed from the district around Stoney Creek.

VISIT TO CHURCHILL TO SPIKE RUMORS

OTTAWA, Feb. 18 (CP) — Arrangements now are completed for a number of military attaches and newspaper men to visit Canada's joint services experimental station at Churchill, Man., Defence Minister Claxton said today.

The trip is to spike what the Minister has referred to as "all the discussion and veiled charges about what is going on there." The party will leave Ottawa Feb. 26 and return by March 2.

"When the Churchill establishment was originally set up last year it was planned as a joint services station for the purpose of conducting year-round trials of service equipment in topographical and climatic conditions representative of Northern Canada," Mr. Claxton said. "At no time was it proposed to use Churchill as a base for military exercises or maneuvers, nor has it been so used."

FIND SMALL U.S. AIRCRAFT IN LABRADOR

Two Bodies Found in Debris; Many Planes Out

NEW YORK, Feb. 18 (AP) — The wreck of a small United States Army plane was found by R.C.A.F. searchers tonight in the snowy wastes of Labrador 160 miles North of Goose Bay, the Atlantic Transport Command announced.

The bodies of two passengers were found in the debris, the A.T.C. said.

The Coast Guard said it received the information from Argentia, Nfld., where Coast Guard crews were disassembling a helicopter for shipment to Goose Bay to search for the aircraft.

The Coast Guard said the plane was en route from Goose Bay to Cape Harrison, about 120 miles Northeast.

Last contact with the craft was made over aCpe Harrison at 9 p.m.

Three planes, one ski-equipped, have been dispatched from Argentia to search the Goose Bay area.

ROYAL FAMILY MEETS WAR VETERANS

Several Faint in Heat as Thousands Out for Welcome

'NATION'S CRADLE'

CAPETOWN, Feb. 18 (CP)—The Royal Family took the salute of 5000 persons on Capetown's grand parade today, as the city officially welcomed the sovereign visitors with praise and flowers.

The generally expressed feeling was that the King and Queen and Princesses Elizabeth and Margaret had captured the hearts of the people, although this was only the second day of their visit.

Wealthy burghers in formal dress, their wives, clergymen, society leaders, and politicians all sat in a huge crescent facing the canopied Royal Pavilion. Beyond this thousands of others watched the proceedings. Humanity 15 to 20 deep lined the streets.

The King said he wanted to see as much as possible of South Africa.

"This corner of Africa is well called the Cape of Good Hope, for it has become the cradle of a great nation," the King said.

After the formal ceremony the Queen led the King and Princesses across from the white-canopied dais to where 40 wounded ex-servicemen sat. The crowd cheered and sang "For They Are Jolly Good Fellows" as the Royal Family chatted with the men.

The heat was so great several persons fainted. Women fanned themselves and men wore pith helmets.

DISAGREEMENTS LEAVE TREATIES UP TO BIG-4

Deputy Ministers Bog Down Over Misunderstandings

MEET IN 3 WEEKS

LONDON, Feb. 18 (AP) —East-West misunderstanding—the bogey of virtually every international conference since the war—tangled the Deputy Foreign Ministers of the Big Four in disagreement today and left peace treaties for Germany and Austria largely unwritten.

This means that the big task of drafting peace terms will fall largely to the Big Four's Foreign Ministers when they meet in Moscow less than three weeks hence.

Deputies assigned to draft an Austrian treaty concede they will not finish their job—partly because of inability to reconcile the views of Russia with those of the West—and the deputies working on the German treaty are afflicted with the same atmosphere of mutual distrust.

The deputies, by order of their chiefs, must end their session Feb. 25.

Russia wants to hear what the smaller states have to say, but nothing more. The United States, Britain and France have been sympathetic to small power demands for greater participation in drafting the new pacts.

Last night, Russia, Britain and France agreed in principle to a proposal that a committee be established to consult with and advise the small states on all phases of German treaty negotiations, but the United States abstained, pending further study.

Only $350 Million In Enemy Assets

By D'ARCY O'DONNELL
Canadian Press Staff Writer

OTTAWA, Feb. 18 (CP) — State Secretary Gibson told the Commons today that assets held by the custodian of enemy property once totalled more than $1,000,000,000, but now had dropped to $350,000,000 as a result of settlement of claims.

He made the statement after Opposition members made repeated requests that a report on the activities of the custodian be made available to Parliament. Col. Gibson offered to consider the requests but said there were probably some phases of the activities — those dealing with individuals — which should not be made public.

He also agreed to find out whether any enemy patents have been leased to Canadian firms by the custodian and what disposition will be made of royalties and shares accruing to Canadian individuals and firms from holdings in enemy countries.

Col. Gibson spoke before the Commons adopted a resolution to a bill that would continue some of the wartime powers of the custodian. The bill itself was given first reading and then debate was begun on second reading to a measure that would extend some of the wartime regulations under the Patent Act.

At the night sitting, second reading was given to a bill amending the Patent Act and extending some of the wartime controls on patents. The bill was referred to the Banking and Commerce Committee.

Also referred to the Banking and Commerce Committee was a bill extending some of the wartime import and export controls to control the movement of goods in short supply both in and out of Canada.

Debate was begun on a resolution that would extend the powers the Canadian Wheat Board now exercised under order-in-council so that the Dominion might fulfill the four-year wheat contract with the United Kingdom.

At the Hosue opening, Reconstruction Minister Howe said the Government would confer with municipalities in effort to have them take over operation of community centres now Federally operated in wartime housing centres.

Agriculture Minister Gardiner said he hoped that sufficient grain would be moving Eastward to take care of any feed shortages which might exist.

Finance Minister Abbott tabled the Prices Board's annual report in which Chairman Donald Gordon said that Canada's job of post-war reconversion is "practically finished."

HERRIDGE ASKS REPORT

Among those asking Col. Gibson to table the custodian's report were John Bracken, Progressive Conservative leader, Gordon Graydon (PC-Peel), Donald Fleming (PC-Toronto Eglinton), M. J. Coldwell, CCF leader, and H. W. Herridge (People's C.C.F.-Kootenay West).

Col. Gibson said in wartime it was essential that enemy countries should not know what assets remained in Canada belonging to nationals of a foreign country or what assets of enemy countries were owned by Canadian citizens and held in this country.

"The same situation does not prevail today, but we do need these regulations in order to control enemy property that is in Canada and also to enable us to continue investigations that have been going on since the war ended to locate enemy property that may have been skillfully hidden or which was under control of the enemy or their agents in Canada," he said.

"When the Allied forces got into Germany and had access to records there, information was secured which enabled us to locate in Canada and in other countries properties which had an enemy interest. Consequently the custodian is interested in and requires authority to continue to handle the property that is already in his hands or to make investigations to follow up any leads that were secured in Germany.

He did not know what arrangements would be made to compensate Canadians for claims for damage to properties in enemy countries. Those claims now totalled more than the $350,000,000 still in the hands of the enemy custodian. He felt that possibly the claimants would be paid so much on the dollar.

Col. Gibson said a commission may be established to investigate claims that Japanese resident of Canada were treated unfairly in the disposition of their property and their belongings after the outbreak of war.

Decision on Water Rights Case By Monday, Nelson Delegation Told

A decision within 10 days was promised Mayor T. H. Waters and a delegation from Nelson in the City's appeal against reduction of the water licence from 1328 cubic feet to 1224 cubic feet, ordered by the Water Rights Controller.

Presenting his report to the City Council Monday night Mayor Waters said that they should have an answer by next Monday.

The delegation, composed of C. B. Garland, K.C., City Solicitor, W. A. Gordon, City Clerk and Alderman Boyd C. Affleck, presented its case to Deputy Minister of Lands G. P. Melrose. A. C. R. Yuill, Consulting Engineer, spoke on behalf of the West Kootenay Power and Light Company.

The Mayor also reported on the meeting of the Nelson and Salmo Boards of Trade with the full Provincial Cabinet and Deputy Ministers. His report, in part, follows:

During the evening it was agreed that it would be advisable for a further meeting with the Premier, Walter Hendricks arranged to stay over until Saturday morning. Our member, Hon. Frank Putnam, arranged for us to meet Premier Hart again on Saturday morning and he was again sympathetic to our request, and also personally arranged a further meeting with the Hon. Mr. Carson, Minister of Public Works, and he requested that we leave the matter with him and the road would receive attention in the near future, we were assured that it was not a question of finances but the securing of contractors to carry out the work.

Winch Reviews Hospitals, Old Age Pensions

VICTORIA, Feb. 18 (CP)—Hospitals and old-age pension problems were reviewed by E. E. Winch (CCF-Burnaby) when he resumed the Throne Speech debate in the British Columbia Legislature today.

Mr. Winch devoted nearly an hour to the topic of better accommodation and more expert care for hospital patients and better housing for senior citizens.

He recommended that all hospitals which accept patients from other municipalities be taken over and operated by the Government. He quoted figures to show that of seven British Columbia hospitals, less than 50 per cent of the patients cared for were local.

The leader of the Provincial C.C.F. saidthat of 18,000 old age pensioners in the Province, only 4500 owned their own homes.

He said that, in his opinion, the responsibility of providing proper housing for the remainder rested with municipalities with the Government contributing 50 per cent.

The Burnaby member suggested that the Government regulate its per capita grant to hospitals in the ratio of graduate nurses employed. Student nurses, he said, could not be expected to give the same standard of service to patients as that rendered by graduate nurses.

Touching on the proposed medical faculty at the University, Mr. Winch said three hospitals in Vancouver had accommodations for 1864 beds which should be ample to provide immediate training for pre-medical students. The entire question of a medical faculty should be referred to a standing committee on health and welfare.

As for care of infirm, elderly people and those approaching senility, the Marpole Infirmary was wholly inadequate. The Government had a big problem on its hands. He knew the Provincial Secretary was aware o fthe pressing needs but doubted if al lother members of the Cabinet were.

Mr. Winch asked if roads were more important than human beings. He thought sufficient funds should first be allocated to the care of the old and sick rather than build highways.

Wright Tells of Wide Search for Synthetic Gasoline

EDMONTON, Feb. 18 (CP)—Dr. C. H. Wright of Trail, B. C., President of the Chemical Institute of Canada, in an interview here today said extensive research work is being done in various parts of the country with a view to developing synthetic gasoline.

Wright is in Edmonton on the course of a tour of Western centres during which he is addressing meetings of institute branches.

He said that so far as Alberta's research work was concerned, the problem appeared to be an economic one.

Asked about details of the research work at Trail, he replied it was the policy to first prove any discoveries before making them public.

Propose Wheat Price For International Pact

Set Canadian Prices of $1.25 and $1.55 a Bushel To Be Submitted To Wheat Conference in London

OTTAWA, Feb. 18 (CP) — A proposed international wheat agreement drawn up by the International Wheat Council and tabled tonight in the Commons recommended that Canadian prices of $1.25 and $1.55 a bushel for No. 1 Manitoba Northern be set as the basic minimum and maximum export prices.

The draft document, tabled by Trade Minister MacKinnon and which will be submitted as a basis for discussion at the International Wheat Conference opening in London March 18, proposed that the world wheat agreement become effective Aug. 1 this year and run for a period of four or five years.

On the vital question of export markets, it was proposed that Canada be given 40 per cent — or 200,000,000 bushels — of the basic 500,000,000 - bushel world export market.

Of the three other big wheat-producing nations, Argentina's share would be 25 per cent or 125,000,000 bushels, Australia's quota would be 19 per cent or 95,000,000 bushels and the United States' allotment would be 15 per cent or 80,000,000 bushels.

The final agreement would contain other formulas for sharing demands over the 500,000,000-bushel total.

The Wheat Council, established before the war to combat world surpluses, said in a preface to the proposed agreement that it was "in no sense" to be taken as committing Governments in any way. The suggestions were aimed at assisting Governments in questions of policy at the conference itself.

After a general discussion based on this document, a drafting committee of the conference will be instructed to prepare another draft agreement which will take into account the suggestions of delegations as a basis for further discussion.

Primary objectives of the agreement will be to promote stability of wheat prices fair to consumers and producers, assure the availability of supplies adequate at all times for world consumption at reasonable prices, establish world wheat reserves to ensure against crop failures and famines and avoid the accumulation of burdensome surpluses.

On the question of prices, the Council disclosed that at the July meeting last year the great majority of Governments instructed their delegations to accept Canadian prices of $1.25 to $1.55 a bushel for No. 1 Manitoba Northern in store Fort William-Port Arthur as a basic minimum and maximum range of export prices.

There were, however, differences expressed as to the number of years to which those prices should apply.

On this basis, the Council recommended that the basic minimum and minimum export prices for the duration of the agreement should be Canadian prices of $1.25 and $1.55 a bushel for No. 1 Manitoba Northern in store Fort William-Port Arthur or Vancouver.

As an alternative, it suggested that for the first three years of the agreement the basic prices should be $1.25 and $1.55 and that for the remaining period they should be $1 and $1.55.

Another alternative was that the basic prices be $1.25 and $1.80 for the first three years and $1 and $1.55 for the remainder of the agreement.

Initial minimum and maximum export prices for Argentina, Australia and the United States would be based on the Canadian price while those of exporting countries other than the major exporting nations would be determined by the Executive Committee in consultation with the Government of the country concerned.

Grade differentials for all export grades of wheat would be determined by the Committee in consultation with the wheat operating agencies of the Governments of the signatory exporting countries.

Dealing with stocks, the Council proposed that stocks be held nationally and said that since adequate stocks would benefit both exporting and importing countries the responsibility and cost of carrying such reserves should be shared equitably by both exporting and importing countries.

The Council also proposed that signatory exporting and importing countries maintain crop-year-end carry-over stocks within a minimum and maximum range to be specified for each country in the agreement.

In January of each year, the Council would review the export program of each exporting country for the current export-program year and make any revision it then deems necessary. At any time during the year the Council would be able to revise the program.

Basic import requirements which could not be reduced during the currency of the agreement but which could be increased would be specified for each signatory importing country. They would be able to purchase from non-signatory exporting countries up to certain percentages of their total current imports.

An exporting country could exceed its specified maximum stocks provided it disposed of any excess within its own territories or made the excess available for export in such periods at such special prices and on such other conditions as the Council would determine.

There would be a provision allowing exporting countries to sell wheat at special prices below the minimum to Governments who would undertake to use the wheat for nutritional programs approved by the food and agriculture organization. This would be where peoples of low-purchasing power suffered chronically from malnutrition.

AMERICANS SET $1 TO $1.30

WASHINGTON, Feb. 18 (AP) — American farmers would be asured an average farm price of about $1 to $1.30 a bushel for wheat sold in foreign markets under a proposed four- or five-year international wheat agreement made public today.

The agreement will be submitted to a conference of major wheat exporting and importing countries in London beginning March 18.

American farmers also would be assured at least 16 per cent of the world export market if they cared to take advantage of it. The United States' share of the basic 500,000,000 bushel world export demand would be 80,000,000 bushels.

Canada would be given 40 per cent of the basic 500,000,000 bushels world export market, or 200,000,000 bushels. Australia's quota would be 19 per cent or 95,000,000 bushels and Argentina's share would be 25 per cent or 125,000,000 bushels.

Other formulas would be set up for sharing demands in excess of 500,000,000 bushels.

P.C.'S ATTACK OF PATENT ACT BREAKS

Wants "Thorough Public Airing" of Act Administration

WILL EXTEND TIME

OTTAWA, Feb. 18 (CP) — A Progressive Conservative attack on the administration of the Patent Act broke in the Commons today after State Secretary Gibson outlined a series of proposed amendments to the Act itself.

Gordon Graydon (PC-Peel) urged that the amending bill be sent to a Commons or Senate Committee to serve as the basis of a "thorough public airing" of the law and administration of the Act in an effort to ease a 'fiasco' which was hindering industry.

Health Minister Martin, former State Secretary and, as such, Minister in charge of the office, charged Mr. Graydon with being guilty of "the constant inconsistency for which the Tory Party is so well known. . . . With one voice, they ask economy, with another they insist that we spend more and more money." He defended the Patent Office's record.

Col. Gibson said the bill would grant a six-months extension of time to Canadians, British subjects and subjects of other countries where reciprocal privileges are granted Canadians if any of them were prevented from complying with the act because of wartime circumstances. Some inventors had been on active service. Others were living in foreign countries. They now could apply for the benefits of the Act within six months of passage of the bill.

A new section would deal with secrecy "in connection with patents having to do with instruments or munitions of war when an assignment has been made to the Defence Minister." The Minister could decide whether any patent should be kept secret.

Another new section provided that any application dealing with atomic energy be referred to the Atomic Energy Control Board.

He said fees would be increased to enable the printing of 75 copies of each patent so they could be made available to the public at a low price. At present, any interested parties had to go to the Patent Office. Canada's fees were lower than any others and would continue to "be about the lowest in the world."

Col. Gibson agreed to refer the bill to the Commons Banking and Commerce Committee but stressed that it must be reported back to the House and approved before March 31, date on which the National Emergency Transitional Powers Act expires.

Provisions in the bill have been kept in force under the Act.

Trade Minister MacKinnon, speaking on second reading of a bill authorizing continuation of export and import controls, said that without export controls Canada would soon be denuded of essential goods.

Mr. MacKinnon said the bill would continue the controls for one year or for 60 days after the opening of the next session.

Mr. MacKinnon said the Canadian price level was generally substantially below the world price level. If export controls were not enforced Canada would soon be denuded of essential goods.

The Government planned to remove the export controls from goods as quickly as possible. However, the bill would give the Cabinet the power to deal with export and import controls duringthe next year.

Export controls were needed to help the Dominion fill its United Kingdom contracts and to direct goods to needy areas under international agreement.

Import controls were aimed at providing, among other things, proper distribution of world-scarce goods. The import controls were as necessary as those on exports.

FLOODING RAINS HIT PORTUGUESE CROPS; BERLIN USES WARMING HALLS

LONDON, Feb. 18 (AP) — Winter storms piled more snow on the British Isles and Western Europe today, and torrential rains damaged Portuguese grain and bean crops.

Weather forecasters reported no signs of an early break in the cold wave.

With the temperature 8.6 degrees (Fahrenheit), the Berlin press announced there would be no further distribution of coal for heating purposes. More than 200 of Berlin's luxury restaurants and dance halls closed. Thousands of the aged and sick were moved from chilly homes to public warming halls. RECLUSE PUTS SECRET ADMIRATION FOR GRETA GARBO INTO WILL

ALLEGAN, Mich., Feb. 18 (AP)—A British-born recluse with a secret admiration for Greta Garbo has left his entire estate, valued at $20,000, to the Swedish film actress.

Author of the will was Edgar H Donne, 70, who died in his squalid one-room farm shack near here last October.

Donne stipulated that his land, securities, jewelry, cash and other property be given to 'Greta Lovisa Gustafsen, screen actress knowns as Greta Garbo, to her and no other."

Hopefully, the will added that "if Greta Garbo becomes my wife then it goes to Greta Lovisa Donne."

Whether Donne, who never married, ever met Miss Garbo is not known. Persons handling his estate, however, said he once made a trip to Hollywood with the obvious intention of seeing her. His papers disclosed he once sent a letter to the actress, which was returned stamped "refused".

Hundreds of Nelsonites Pay Final Tribute To Fred L. Irwin

"We learned to value him for his friendship and his qualities as an idealist," Ven. Archdeacon F. H. Graham bespoke to hundreds of citizens gathered in final tribute to Fred Llewellyn Irwin, who had worked among them for 50 years taking an active part in Nelson's community life. Services were held in Trinity United Church.

"Doing more than his share in every field he undertook, Fred Irwin carried always before him a vision of the ultimate best. He accomplished everything he undertook, but was never satisfied with the final product. In his sphere of personal enjoyment, music, he worked for betterment.

"This friend we keep in memory, recalling his virtues and accomplishments," the Archdeacon concluded.

Many groups, in all of which Mr. Irwin was a member, were present. Nelson Masonic Lodge No. 23 A.F. & A.M. formed open ranks from the church portals through which the casket was carried, both before services were opened and at the conclusion.

Other associations present were the Kootenay Lodge of Perfection, who acted as ushers, Nelson District Teachers' Association, Board members of Nelson School District No. 7, Mayor T. H. Waters and Aldermen, Nelson Library Board and Nelson Civic Employees Association.

With Mrs. C. W. Tyler at the organ and the Trinity Choir in attendance, hymns sung by the congregation were "Jesus, Lover of My Soul" and "O Love That Wilt Not Let Me Go."

Banks of flowers, wreaths and sprays were beautifully arranged in tiers. A long procession of cars followed the hearse.

Honorary pallbearers were G. A. Brown, J. T. Brown, R. A. Dyke, L. D. Kerr, J. Ludwig, A. A. Pagdin, A. A. Perrier, G. W. Steele, and W. E. Wasson.

Active pallbearers, members of Nelson Lodge No. 23 A.F. & A.M., were Dr. C. E. Bradshaw, Fred Irvine, R. McCandlish, C. D. Pearson, John Teague and W. M. Wood.

At Nelson Memorial Park where interment took place in the Masonic Section, Acting Master T. D. DeBrisay conducted the Lodge Burial Service.

During the day the town paid a silent tribute. City school flags and the flag at the City Hall were flown at half-mast. Schools were closed and work in the City Hall offices ceased at 3 p.m. The Municipal Library also closed its doors in honor of the founder of the Nelson City Band who had served on the Library and School Boards for many years.

Mr. Irwin died here last Friday at the age of 75.

Urges Canada To Take Share of Displaced Persons, Immigrants

Denouncing the Dominion Government's present policy of restrictive immigration, Mrs. Leo S. Gansner, addressing Nelson Soroptimists Friday evening, advocated that Canada adopt a proportional share of European displaced persons and selected immigrants.

Mrs. Gansner, who based her statements on Government publications and press reports, emphasized the pre-war decline in immigration into Canada and the benefits reaped commercially from industries developed from the "small numbers of refugees" admitted prior to cessation of hostilities.

"At the present time, our immigration problem is twofold. First there is the problem of the refugees now in temporary camps in the American and British zones in Europe, and second, the numbers of ordinary immigrants who may wish to come here from Europe to start life again in a new land."

Canada has already acknowleged responsibility in the refugee problem, Mrs. Gansner said, in that she has accepted an executive position on the Intergovernmental Committee on Refugees and on the International Refugee Organization. "The big majority of refugees are in Soviet controlled territory and Russia is on the intergovernmental committee," Mrs. Gansner said.

Of Europe's remaining 1,000,000 homeless persons, Mrs. Gansner suggested allotment among all nations, including Canada, on the temporary Intergovernmental Committee on Refugees.

Dealing on general immigration, the speaker said, "Canada would benefit by a larger population, especially if that were secured by an influx of selected immigrants. Other countries are not being so backward about planning to receive immigrants. Australia has announced she will take 70,000 annually. The Argentine will take 400,000 over a ten year period."

Selected immigrants should be encouraged on a larger scale than is at present provided by regulations permitting entry of "first degree relatives of persons already in Canada," Mrs. Gansner pointed out. "Canada, almost more than any other country, needs more people to realize her heritage and capitalize on the gains made in war years."

"We need a vigorous public opinion to urge the Government not to dilly-dally, but to implement a vital new policy of encouraging the right kind of immigrant. Let us remember those persons in Europe living without hope at present. Let us ask our Government to show humanitarian leadership and assume our share of these people. If we continue on our selfish way, we will be the losers."

The Club welcomed a new member, Mrs. Louise Allen, who was introduced by Miss Emily Hamson.

TOAST and TEA

BY J.A.M. ARDE

Arriving late, the news photographer surveyed the banquet scene, according to a story in The Printed Word. He couldn't possibly get a good shot of the 167 employees who were receiving gold watches for long service; they were too spread out. Quietly slipping from his head table, the president of the corporation—one of Canada's largest—came over to welcome and assist the newcomer. They shook hands and exchanged names. The photographer didn't catch the president's name, or, if he did, it failed to register. He settled on the idea of a head-table shot. "I guess that's where the big shots sit?" he asked. "Yep," said the president grinning and starting back to his place, "such as they are." It was an hour later when the photographer learned to whom he had been talking. "How was I to know?" he parried. "His suit was as shiny as mine."

CLAIMS CHURCH HAS VITAL INTEREST IN ECONOMIC LIFE OF COUNTRY

PITTSBURGH, Feb. 18 (AP)—A prominent church layman and an Episcopalian Bishop opened a unique religious conference today by vigorously rejecting the argument that churches should keep out of economic life.

At the start of the three-day national conference on the church and economic life"—

1. Charles P. Taft, Cincinnati lawyer who is President of the Federal council of churches, said that the German Churches obeyed Hitler's advice to mind their own business, "Heaven and all that," while he took care of economics and politics—"but that conclusion we cannot accept."

2. The Rt. Rev. Angus Dun, Episcopal Bishop of Washington, said the churches must concern themselves with economic life because they are not caring for "disembodied souls, but souls in bodies of flesh and blood."

Both men said some Christians argue that the church ought not to concern itself with things like Labor-management relations and other economic questions.

The conference is designed to discuss economic "tension," decide what responsibility the churches have toward these "tensions," and to recommend a program of action for the Federal Council's 25 denominations, claiming 26,000,000 members, almost all of them Protestants.

Congregational hymns sung at the Chapel service were "He Leadeth Me" and "The Sands of Time Are Sinking", organ accompaniment being rendered by Mrs. J. A. Fraser.

Inability of U. S. and Britain To Export Causes Textile Shortage

OTTAWA, Feb. 18 (CP) — The Prices Board today explained why shirts, suits and lingerie have been hard to come by.

Tabled in the Commons, the Board's 1946 report devoted nearly 6000 words to the textile situation which "in a number of cases was improving as the year drew to a close."

Most blame was placed on external conditions as Canada depends on imports from the United States and United Kingdom for a substantial portion of yarns and fabrics.

"Though textile production in the United States was slightly larger than in 1945," the report said, "supplies available for export were limited . . .

"With a production (in the United Kingdom) not yet recovered to the pre-war level, exports remained carefully restricted."

Efforts, therefore, were made to sustain and increase production in Canada.

"While these efforts met with some success, production was impeded by industrial disputes . . . and by difficulties in procuring necessary imported yarns," said the report.

MORE SHIRTS

Regarding suits the board said that rapid demobilization resulted in an acute shortage of men's clothing. As for shirts, the Board said there now is increased production "in the face of difficult supply conditions."

In knitted goods there were continuing shortages of cottons, but woolens and worsted were in better supply.

To Classify Displaced Persons For Possible Jobs in British Pits

LONDON, Feb. 18 (AP) — Prime Minister Attlee said today that displaced persons in the British occupation zones of Germany and Austria would be classified for possible employment in Britain's coal mines and other industries short of manpower.

The Prime Minister declared:

"The Minister of Labor is proceeding to set up an organization in the British zones in Germany and Austria for classification and selection of displaced persons against the opportunity of employment in Britain."

Several London newspapers reported that thousands of displaced persons would be brought from the Continent to work in the mines to relieve Britain's fuel crisis.

The prospect developed that the meagre coal rations for British homes might fall even lower next month because of the efforts to reopen factories.

The Prime Minister's announcement followed a Cabinet meeting at which the coal crisis and national manpower shortage were discussed.

By SIDNEY GAMPELL

CONTROL OF FUEL ENCOURAGES LABOR MOBILITY

LONDON, Feb. 18 (Reuters) — Government policy on the problem of mobility of labor in Britain is to "encourage" it by control of fuel and other key materials, it was learned today.

"Direction" of labor is politically impossible, because it means industrial conscription. So it is to be done indirectly; people can be led but not driven.

For example, if in any town there is a cotton spinning mill and a factory making electric radiators, and if the country wants cotton yarn and does not want electric radiators, then the mill will get fuel and materials and the factory will not; and labor, if it wants to work at all, can go to the place where it has something to work on.

Mobility and self-discipline of labor are Britain's root problems in tackling her production crisis. The fuel crisis and other bottlenecks can be smashed one by one, to get near to full employment, though it is doubtful whether a free society can ever quite get there.

DISMISSAL INEFFECTIVE

The great difficulty has been how to maintain labor discipline when dismissal ceased to be disciplinary because, in the manpower sellers' market of full employment, the dismissed worker could get another job anywhere.

This problem has gone, because full employment has gone the last week due to the coal crisis, and will not come back soon. At the moment, although the official figures do not yet fully show it, unemployment is probably far worse than in the worst prewar depression. It will not stay as bad as that, but it may be a long time before Britain gains anything resembling full employment.

Rule That U. S. Economic Strikers Can Be Replaced Under Act

WASHINGTON, Feb. 18 (AP) — The National Labor Relations Board posted fresh notice to unions—and to Congress—today that workers in the United States who strike over wages and job conditions can be replaced without violating the Wagner Labor Relations Act.

The Board went even further in its decision involving two St. Petersburg, Fla., newspapers, and declared that when a union itself does not bargain it cannot charge the employer with failing to negotiate in good faith and hope to make the charge stick. Under the Wagner Act only the employer can be penalized for refusing to bargain with his workers.

The ruling—laying down what the Board called "dicta" or a declaration of policy on the bargaining issue—came as Senate and House of Representatives Labor Committees are studying proposed amendments designed to meet criticism that the Wagner Act is one-sided in favor of unions.

The decision that "economic strikes"—those who walk out over wages or working conditions—can be replaced legally is a restatement of previous N.L.R.B. policy.

GOULD AFFECT LEWIS MINERS

Carried to its ultimate meaning, the decision affecting economic strikers would coutenance the hiring of 400,000 new miners to replace John L. Lewis' soft coal diggers if they struck again only for higher pay or better working conditions.

In the St. Petersburg case the Board said the employers — the Times Publishing Company, Evening Independent, Inc., and News Printing, Inc.—were within their rights in replacing more than 60 striking members of the International Typographical Union (A.F.L.).

The St. Petersburg printers have been on strike since Nov. 20, 1945, demanding higher wages. The papers continued to publish, first by means of special printing processes until an open shop arrangement was reached in the joint composing room of the two papers and their commercial job printing business.

Hospital To Offer C.P.R. Workers 5 Per Cent Discount as Compromise

In an attempt to reach a compromise with a delegation representing the C.P.R. Employees Medical Association which is seeking a renewal of the Kootenay Lake General Hospital contract allowing a 10 per cent discount on employees' hospital and medical fees, the Hospital Board conceded a 5 per cent collection fee after considerable deliberation Tuesday night.

The C.P.R. delegation, representing some 318 employees and dependents in the Nelson division, was headed by Percy Craven. The group presented its views for a continuation of the contract at the opening of the near three-hour meeting, then left the meeting.

"We feel that a 10 per cent allowance to our organization on collection of dues will benefit both sides financially," said Mr. Craven, confirming his statement with the pointer that the Hospital would profit from a continuation of dealings with the Association as a whole compared with individual members, "who are not as favorable a business prospect." Individual dealings would entail an increased collection service and additional office work, he pointed out.

C. H. Hamilton, Chairman of the Hospital Board, stated that the decision cancelling the contract had been reached after much time and debate and that the Board's policy was in accord with a general trend among hospitals throughout B.C. to abolish reduction allowances to large organizations.

That a large percentage of hospital cases were C.P.R. pensioners and employees in small wage brackets from whom dues were often difficult to collect was stressed by D. J. Thomas, representing the C.P.R. Association.

This found support with N. C. Stibbs, who added that many of these pensioners who were unable to meet hospital costs would fall into the Hospital's free case category should the contract be cancelled and the Association dissolve.

The Board's final compromise offer, made on motion of Harry Burns, was approved as retribution to the collection service rendered by the Association. It was also felt that the reduction was in conformity with other B.C. Hospital institutions, notably the Royal Inland Hospital at Kamloops, which allows a similar reduction of rates and is comparable in size with Nelson.

Cancellation of the original contract will become effective Feb. 28.

Wheat Pool to Distribute Over $6,500,000

REGINA, Feb. 18 (CP)— More than $6,500,000 will be distributed soon to approximately 100,000 farmer-members of the Saskatchewan Wheat Pool, officials of the Co-Operative organization said today.

The cash patronage dividends are refunds to growers of excess grain handling charges during the crop seasons 1943-44 and 1944-45.

Checks will be forwarded within the next few days and will be payable March 1.

The statement said distribution of the excess charges refunds was held up during the past three years pending clarification of the pool's income tax position under revised Federal legislation.

By resuming distribution of patronage dividends the pool continued the policy it has previously followed of providing marketing services at cost by returning to its grower members surplus earnings of the organization.

Sums now being distributed either directly in cash or through purchase or transfer of elevator deductions plus amounts already paid to growers in the form of interest on deductions or credited for purchase of deductions, brings total distribution of surplus earnings of the pool for the period 1943-46 to $10,678,251.

Consolidation of Housing Groups Brings Changes

VANCOUVER, B. C., Feb. 18 (CP)—J. Allen Jones, B. C. Regional Supervisor of Central Mortgage and Housing Corporation, said today that consolidation of the Corporation with Wartime Housing Ltd. has brought important administrative changes in the Dominion Government's operations in the housing field.

Authority to negotiate and complete new agreements with West coast municipalities for additional Wartime Housing Ltd. projects is vested in the Regional Supervisor through decentralization. Supervision of construction and inspection of projects will be directed from the regional office here, which also assumes responsibility for the management and maintenance of Wartime Housing Ltd. properties and family dwelling units which have been brought into occupancy under the house conversion plan.

Administration of the emergency shelter regulations will be continued and lending operations supervised. These operations under the National Housing Act include loans to individuals and builders, integrated housing plan loans, limited-dividend company loans for rental housing, loans to mining and lumbering companies, building houses for their employees, and loans to build houses on farms.

At Least 20 Killed When Train Derails

ALTOONA, Pa., Feb. 18 (AP)—Coroner Daniel Replogle of Altoona said that "at least 20 were killed" in the wreck of the Pennsylvania Railroad's "Red Arrow", Detroit to New York passenger train, 10 miles West of here early today.

The coroner said that 17 bodies had been taken out of the wreck, which occurred when the train left the track and sent the two engines, mail car, baggage car, coach and two sleepers plunging down the embankment, overturned the diner and two sleepers, and derailed three other sleepers.

The dead included three members of the four-man engine crews.

A Pennsylvania Railroad spokesman estimated "around 80 persons" were injured.

Two locomotives are used to haul the trains up the steep Allegheny Mountains.

The bodies were removed to the Pennsylvania Station at Altoona, where undertakers called for them. Ambulances from all funeral homes and hospitals in the vicinity were used to transport injured to hospitals.

NEARLY 90 IN HOSPITALS

Mercy Hospital at Altoona reported it had received 38 injured, while the Altoona General Hospital said it was treating about 50 persons, with more expected. Less critically injured patients, after they were treated at the two hospitals, were transported to emergency hospitals set up in the Hotel Penn Alto and in the U.S.O.

Seven hours after the wreck occurred, Robert Dabbs, Secretary of Gallitzin Borough, reported that rescue crews had not reached one of the day coaches.

Ten members of the United States Navy en route to the Bainbridge, Md., training station were injured. All were taken to the Altoona General Hospital.

Witnesses told of a clergyman praying and calming passengers in the car at the bottom of the embankment.

Some passengers were obviously dazed as they crawled out of the wreckage.

Tom Lynam, photographer, said he saw three or four bodies lying around and injured passengers were moaning inside an overturned car.

"I shone my flashlight inside and saw arms and legs sticking up," he said. "Some railroad workers with acetylene torches were cutting the wreckage to release passengers who were pinned down."

MOTORISTS KILLED

OSHAWA, Ont., Feb. 18 (CP)—A Level crossing car-train collision today took the lives of Dr. C. R. Booth, Oshawa veterinarian, and Dr. Norman Cullens of Weston, Ont. Police said a Westbound Canadian Pacific Railway passenger train from Ottawa came into collision with the coupe in which the men had been driving.

MINERS UNION TO CONTINUE WORK IN OTTAWA

New Step to Settle Wage Dispute Seen as Possibility

MAINTAIN MINES

By JOHN TRACY
Canadian Press Staff Writer

GLACE BAY, N. S., Feb. 18 (CP)—United Mine Workers (C.C.L.) of the Maritime Provinces, in the midst of their first general strike in 22 years learned today of the possibility of a new step towards settlement of their wage dispute with Dominion Steel and Coal Corporation as their union executive decided to remain in Ottawa for a further period.

Here it was said the miner's executive would stay in the capital for "another day at least" after weekend conferences with company and government officials failed to head off the strike which began Saturday.

It was learned from a union source here that there was a possibility of "a break within the next few days."

Labor Minister Mitchell, however, said yesterday that he had "nothing at the present time to report which would give hope that a solution is in sight."

ONLY 400 PRODUCE COAL

Meanwhile preparations for a long strike proceeded quietly in Maritime Colliery areas as only Intercolonial Coal Company's 400 Westville, N S., employees continued to produce coal.

However, the Westville men expressed "complete sympathy" with the strikers.

In Glace Bay, centre of the rich Cape Breton Mining area, horses were removed from underground stables and brought to the surface while only maintenance men went below to keep fans and pumps running in accordance with the Union's maintenance policy.

ISLAND HOTEL GOES UP IN $150,000 BLAZE

70 Guests Escape at Port Alberni, but Lose All Possessions

FIREMAN REVIVED

PORT ALBERNI, B. C., Feb. 18—(CP) — Firemen early today brought under control a $150,000 fire which raged for more than five hours through the four-storey Somass Hotel of this Vancouver Island town, leaving the old frame structure section of the hotel a charred ruin and gutting the new brick wing.

More than 70 guests escaped without injury down fire escapes but many lost all their possessions in the blaze.

A department store, with stock valued at about $100,000 and a tobacco warehouse, both adjoining the hotel, were believed to have escaped all but possible smoke damage.

The fire was believed to have started in the furnace room of the old frame structure.

The hotel building was one of the oldest in the island city's business district. Built of frame construction in 1910, brick wings were added in late years.

One fireman was overcome by smoke while checking the hotel to ensure that all guests had quitted the building. He was revived by an inhalator crew.

KINGSTON, Ont., Feb. 18 (CP)—Every piece of fire-fighting equipment in Kingston was used to battle a $40,000 blaze in the Masonic Temple early today. Damage was confined to the West wing of the $175,000 structure — formerly the First Congregational Church.

TORONTO, Feb. 18 (CP)—Burned out shell of an eight-roomed two-story building stood today at suburban New Toronto after a raging fire caused damage estimated by firemen at $100,000. The fire, of undetermined origin, roared up through a fireproof stairwell last night.

EDMONTON, Feb. 18 (CP) — Western Army Command reported today that the Army's Signal Station at Mayo, Y. T., was destroyed by fire. Meagre details from the outpost in the Northern Yukon about 1100 airmiles Northwest of Edmonton gave no indication of the cause. None of the four Army men was hurt.

TWO INJURED

VANCOUVER, Feb. 18 (CP) — Two persons required hospital treatment following a fire which caused heavy damage to a downtown rooming house here early today.

Mrs. Allen Smith suffered burns to the face and hands and Edwin Littlewood was overcome by smoke.

Wheat Highest Since 1920 On U.S. Markets

Heavy Exports Draining Supplies Said Cause of Month of Advances; Box Car Scarcity Adds Difficulty

By WILLIAM FERRIS

CHICAGO, Feb. 18 (AP)—Wheat was a precious article today as mills scrambled to obtain supplies in the United States markets to fill demands for flour from bakers and Government buying agencies.

Following an unusually sharp advance over the last four weeks, wheat sold at the highest price since 1920 in most markets. There was some speculation that bread prices might be hiked.

EXPORTS CAUSE

C. M. Galvin of James E. Bennett and Company, grain firm, said: "I think the fundamental reason for the sharp advance is the draining of our supplies to furnish foreign Governments with wheat and flour. A month ago the Commodity Credit Corporation obtained around 25,000,000 bushels of wheat in one day."

A similar position was taken by E. A. Boerner of Harris, Upham and Company, who said "there just isn't any surplus at terminal markets."

A spokesman for General Mills, the country's largest milling company, said the wheat shortage did not compare with a year ago when there was a short-lived bread "famine."

"Our major difficulty is getting box cars to move flour," he said.

Flour prices were raised 10 to 15 cents a 100-pound sack at Minneapolis yesterday.

Claims Railways Face Deterioration In Service, Even Possible Bankruptcy If Rates Not Increased

By JOHN LEBLANC
Canadian Press Staff Writer

OTTAWA, Feb. 18 (CP) — A railway spokesman called for a "prompt" increase in freight rates today before the Board of Transport Commissioners, while Provincial Counsel contended freight was being called on to bear more than its fair share of the burden in the railway setup.

George A. Walker, Vice-President of the CPR, came before the Board in support of the railways' application for general 30 per cent freight increases, declaring that if they were not granted the carriers faced a deterioration in service and even possible bankruptcy.

He maintained the railways' attitude that the increase sought was a minimum requirement, though M. A. MacPherson, Saskatchewan counsel, maintained freight should not be made to bear costs which should be charged up against other branches of the railway network such as hotels and steamships.

The Western counsel advanced the claim also that the CPR's financial position was improved now over 1939, though Mr. Walker declared it had worsened.

The proposed increase was necessary, Mr. Walker said, if the railways were to be able to provide "adequate and efficient service." The only method of meeting "extraordinary increases in operating costs" was by raising railway rates, he said.

Cumulative increases in wages and materials had had a "startling" effect on operations of the CPR in 1946, wages were $36,581,000, or 36 per cent up from 1939, while costs of materials and supplies at $20,404,000 was up 34 per cent from 1939.

He emphasized that railway rates had not been increased since 1922—in some cases had been reduced—while costs of commodities and labor increased generally.

The CPR's net earnings had risen to $49,200,000 in 1943, dropped to $20,843,000 in 1946. Rising working expenses had "swept away all the benefits which might normally be expected to accrue from the heavy traffic volume of the war years."

Gross revenues for 1946 were $292,495,000, which was up 93 per cent from 1939. Yet the net earnings of $20,843,000 showed a decrease of $7,680,000 from 1939.

During the 1939-1946 period, the CPR managed to reduce its annual fixed charges by $7,018,000 through withholding earnings from shareholders. But a single wage increase ordered by the War Labor Board last year would cost more than twice that amount.

The CPR's net railway operating income in 1946 was "little more than its fixed charges." The company was faced with "urgent need of vast expenditures" for maintenance, new locomotives and other rolling stock, far in excess of cash reserves available for this purpose.

WOULD STILL BE SHORT $15 MILLION

The rate increase sought was an "irreducible" minimum. Even if it had been made effective for all 1947, the C. P.R. would have fallen short of meeting its requirements by some $15,000,000.

Under cross-examination by M. A. MacPherson, Saskatchewan counsel, Mr. Walker said it was "far from the truth" to say the CPR was in better financial position now than in 1939.

He said the company's funded debt had been reduced from $236,000,000 to $83,000,000 between 1939 and 1946. However, he said, the CPR's credit was in "very grave jeopardy" as the result of its drop in earnings.

Discussing "impaired credit" of the CPR, Mr. MacPherson pointed to an item of $8,412,000 in its annual report for holdings of Consolidated Mining and Smelting stock. He suggested that was the original purchase price but that the stock actually had a book value of $132,000,000 and a market value of $148,000,000.

Mr. MacPherson questioned whether the Company's credit position had been impaired. Its reserves, he said, swelled from $91,000,000 in 1939 to $350,000,000 in 1946.

Mr. MacPherson said much of the $350,000,000 was a bookkeeping entry.

When the counsel said the company's funded debt had been reduced from $228,000,000 to $93,000,000, Mr. Walker said the interest having had been only $7,000,000 a year, while working expenses had gone up $56,000,000.

Mr. MacPherson went into the financial affairs of Consolidated Smelters suggesting "not half of what the shares earned had been paid out to the shareholders."

"I haven't the foggiest notion, and I don't think it's relevant to this inquiry," Mr. Walker said.

Mr. MacPherson contended it was relevant because the overall picture of the CPR should be taken into account in establishing freight rates.

Charge British With Torture, Assassination

PARIS, Feb. 18 (Reuters)—The Jewish terrorists' organization, Irgun Zvai Leumi, has sent a statement to the French League for a free Palestine alleging that British soldiers tortured four Jewish terrorists and "deliberately assassinated" a fifth while shouting "Heil Hitler."

The statement, released here today, described alleged tortures on Eliezer Ben Zion Cashani, Dov Ben Salman Rosenbaum and Mordeacai Ben Abraham Alkachi, sentenced to death by a British Military Court in Palestine Feb. 12, and Haim Gorovelsky, sentenced to life imprisonment.

The man alleged to have been assassinated or tortured to death was Aul Misrachi.

"For four days and nights they were subjected to brutal soldiery by persons drunk with hatred," the statement said.

"They were shackled in a room and their clothes sheared off with strokes from razors which took the skin as well.

"They were left naked and forced to kneel with their faces touching the floor throughout the night. In the morning they were forced to run naked around the camp ... this completely Nazi spectacle was accompanied by cries of 'Heil Hitler.'"

EXTEND MINIMUM WEIGHTS IN CANDY

OTTAWA, Feb. 18 (CP) — The Prices Board announced tonight extension of minimum net weights on candies to include all six-cent bars and small packages of hard candy in a uniform weight scale.

Board officials said the few manufacturers who were still trying to produce bars at the heavier basic period weight were unable to do so because of mounting costs.

Minimum weights established by the order: 1½ ounces of moulded plain or milk chocolate bars; 1¼ ounces for moulded plain or milk chocolate bars containing nuts or other ingredients; 1¾ ounces for chocolate-coated bars with confectionary centres; two ounces for candy bars not chocolate-coated.

Minimum weight for hard candy in six-cent packages is two ounces and for 12-cent pacakages is four ounces. The order does not apply to Cuban hard candy.

Postpone Death Sentences

JERUSALEM, Feb. 18 (Reuters)—Death sentences passed by a military court Feb. 10 on three Jewish terrorists have been postponed pending a Privy Council decision in the case of Dov Bela Gruner, another terrorist condemned to death for his part in a raid on a police station.

NO SOLUTION POSSIBLE

LONDON, Feb. 18 (Reuters) — Foreign Secretary Bevin told the House of Commons today that the attitude of both Arabs and Jews of Palestine was irreconcilable and that no solution was possible at present.

Bevin, reviewing the breakdown of negotiations between Britain and Arab leaders (Jewish leaders refused to participate), made four other points:

1. The British Government is convinced that no solution is possible along the lines of 1939 white paper restricting Jewish immigration.

2. As Britain is not empowered under her mandate to enforce an arbitrary decision on either party, the British Government has decided to refer the question to the United Nations.

3. The Government will submit to U. N. detailed accounts of how the mandate has proved unworkable in practice and will submit all British, Arab and Jewish proposals hitherto tabled.

4. The British Government sees great difficulty in U. N. considering the Palestine case before the General Assembly's next meeting in September.

Democrats Charge Gagging in Amendments Ban

WASHINGTON, Feb. 18 (AP)—The House Rules Committee voted today to ban amendments to a resolution proposing a $6,000,000,000 cut in President Truman's $37,500,000,000 budget.

The action by the Republican-controlled committee was taken as Democrats shouted the House was being "gagged" against freely working its will.

The decision to send the budgetary bill to the House floor for a vote on Thursday under a closed rule came in the face of this statement by Rep. Cannon (D-Mo):

"This is the most drastic rule that can be written. It is not in keeping with democratic processes, but is an agent of dictatorship." The Rules group did provide, however, that the opponents of the $6,000,000,000 slash, which some fear might cripple the army and the navy, can make one motion to send the budgetary resolution back to the 102-member House-Senate Budgetary Committee with instructions to bring in a revised figure.

China Export Commodities Prices on Rise

SHANGHAI, Feb. 18 (AP)—Prices of most of China's export commodities showed signs of skyrocketing today, less than 48 hours after the Government took drastic action to stabilize China's economy.

Exporters said the flow of goods to foreign ports would be choked off by too-high prices unless the Government checked the upward trend at once.

The Government, taking action against violators of measures banning private dealings in gold and in U. S. currency, arrested three Chinese black market operators for trading in American dollars.

The Shanghai Evening Post said Chinese citizens have more than $300,000,000 U. S. deposited in foreign countries, and the Government has a complete list of depositors. Under the new measures, Chinese nationals will be required to surrender their holdings abroad at the new official rate of 12,000 Chinese dollars to $1 U. S.

Declares Channel Mining Crime Against Humanity

LAKE SUCCESS, N. Y., Feb. 18 — (AP)—Great Britain charged in the United Nations Security Council today that Albania not only violated international law by mining the Corfu Channel but committed "a crime against humanity."

The declaration was made by Sir Alexander Cadogan as the Council opened its hearing on British complaints that mines laid by Albania damaged two destroyers and killed 44 British seamen and injured 42 last Oct. 22.

Direct negotiations between the British and Albanian Governments failed to satisfy British demands for apology and compensation for loss of lives and damage to two destroyers, he said.

Wants Legislature Speeches Broadcasted

VICTORIA, B.C., Feb. 18 (CP)—Now that the public address system had been installed in the Legislature, all speeches should be broadcast, E. E. Winch (CCF-Burnaby) said in the House today.

He congratulated the C.C.F. on the election of Herbert Anscomb as leader of the Progressive Party and on behalf of his colleagues thanked the Progressive Conservative group for their selection of a leader. It gave great promise to the forward-looking people of British Columbia that a C.C.F. Government would be in power in this Province in a few years, he said.

WOULD ELIMINATE "CRIME SCHOOLS"

WINNIPEG, Feb. 18 (CP) — Revision of the criminal code to allow psychiatric or medical treatment of perverts was advocated here by J. Alex Edmison of Toronto, President of the Canadian Penal Association.

Describing the Canadian system of handling perverts as "outmoded," Mr. Edmison told a Canadian Club luncheon yesterday that a joint committee of the Canadian Bar Association and the Canadian Medical Association should be formed to advise the Minister of Justice on the need for reforms.

He suggested the setting up of a Canadian Alcatraz, where hardened criminals from all prisons in the country would be segregated. This would enable wardens to make prison routine easier for casual offenders and would eliminate the so-called "crime schools."

WHEAT SHIPMENTS DOWN

WINNIPEG, Feb. 18 (CP)—Overseas wheat shipments during the week of Feb. 7-13, totalling 3,050,758 bushels, were down 464,828 bushels from the previous week, statistics released today by the Board of Grain Commissioners for Canada revealed.

Overseas shipments of coarse grains showed fairly substantial gains, however, oats rising from 81,176 bushels the previous week to 191,290 bushels during the Feb. 7-13 period, barley from 138,859 to 399,450 and rye from 355,000 to 528,000.

A gain of approximately 400,000 wheat bushels in the volume of shipments from the Pacific Coast was reported, but a decline of approximately 800,000 in Pacific Coast clearances resulted in the overall decrease of wheat shipments.

IZVESTIA CHARGES CANADA IS U. S. PAWN IN AGGRESSION PLAN

MOSCOW, Feb. 18 (AP)—Labelling the recently announced Canadian-American military agreement an "iron fist in a velvet glove," the Soviet Government Izvestia declared today that Canada was turning over territory and her army to the United States in preparation for agrgession.

Izvestia's commentator said the agreement was "evil" and had nothing in common with the interests of peace."

(The United States and Canada announced Feb. 12 that without entering into any formal treaty or binding agreements they intended to continue in peacetime their close wartime collaboration with the military security of the North American continent. Unified training, standardized arms and the use of each other's military, naval and air facilities were agreed upon).

Prime Minister Mackenzie King and his helpers, said Writer R. Morin, are "trying with all their might to hide the real nature of the Canadian-American agreement."

"They ... are producing before the world 'an iron fist in a velvet glove,'" he continued, "and then, it's not their own but an American one.

"The readiness and warmth of their advance and their justification show up the authors," he added. "They in their time offered to the American press a poisoned armament slander against the Soviet Union such as 'a report on Soviet spying.'

(This was in apparent reference to a Canadian Royal Commission's charges that a Soviet-backed espionage ring with headquarters in the Russian Embassy in Ottawa was trying to get secret information, including facts about the atom, in Canada. Several persons, including Fred Rose Labor-Progressive Member of Parliament, have been convicted on the charges.)

"The same people now are giving over for the disposal of the United States nothing less than their own territory and their own army in preparation for an aggression," Morin wrote.

SEES "AGGRESSIVE CHARACTERISTICS"

"So the United States was successful in dragging the largest Dominion of the British Empire into the orbit of her policy and in order to calm the British, a newspaper journal called the agreement 'a great contribution to the affairs of the British commonwealth of Nations.'

"This military child, fruit of an unnatural union, possessed so many clearly aggressive characteristics that it became necessary at once to dress it up as an innocent angel of the world,' Izvestia's writer said. "The texts of the very declarations themselves seek to picture the general military means of the North as a contribution toward stabilizing peace and in the establishment through the U. N. of an effective system of security.

"Why does such a modest aim need a military agreement with powerful armed governments of the world, manoeuvres of the fleet in Arctic waters, testing of modern arms in polar regions, building of barracks in Northern ports?" Morin asked.

CARBONDALE, Ill., Feb. 18 (AP)—Elmer Tuegel, who said he agreed to run for mayor "in a weak moment," today asked voters to vote for the only other candidate.

Tuegel, a travelling salesman, has been travelling in the wake of friends campaigning in his behalf, trying to undo their efforts.

Tasty Recipes

I remind myself and you too, that serving liver frequently is good for the family health. If the children don't care so much for the liver cooked in the usual ways, there are liver loaves, such as the recipe I'm giving you today, which combine ingredients to somewhat disguise the liver taste, or enhance, as you please.

The loaf is good served hot or cold, and will make nice sandwiches for the school lunch.

TODAY'S MENU

Liver Loaf "Chambery" Potatoes
Frozen or Canned Green Beans
Molded Tomato Salad
Refrigerator Ice Cream Coffee

LIVER LOAF

1 lb. beef liver
½ lb. fresh pork, chopped
1 cup bread crumbs
1 onion, chopped fine
1 teaspoon salt
1 egg well beaten
¼ teaspoon pepper
4 tablespoons tomato catsup, water or milk to moisten
Juice ½ lemon

Have liver skinned and sliced. Cook 15 min. in boiling, salted water, then drain, chop and add other ingredients. Mix thoroughly. Line bread pan with slices of bacon, pack in the liver mixture, lay bacon over top and bake 1 hour in 350 F. oven. Serves 6.

Wash, pare and slice potatoes thin, using vegetable slicer. Let stand ½ hour in cold water, then drain and arrange in layers in well-buttered shallow baking dish. Season each layer with salt and pepper and brush over with melter butter. Baker in a moderate oven (350 F.) until soft and well browned.

REFRIGERATOR ICE CREAM

2 cups milk
2 teaspoons gelatin
¾ cup sugar or ½ cup sugar and 6 tablespoons corn syrup
2 teaspoons flour.
Few grains salt
2 egg yolks beaten slightly
2 egg whites beaten stiff
2 cups whipping cream
1 tablespoon vanilla

Scald milk with gelatin, stir until gelatin dissolves. Mix sugar, flour and salt and add to milk. Stir until thickened. Cover and cook 10 min. It is best to use a double boiler. Add a portion of the hot milk mixture to beaten yolks, return to double boiler, stir to blend, and cook 1 min. Strain into refrigerator pan, chill, then beat very light. Beat cream until stiff, fold cream and stiffly beaten egg whites into first mixture, add vanilla, return to refrigerator trays and freeze. Makes 1½ quarts.

PLAN TO REBUILD CHURCH DISTRICT

LONDON, (CP) — The Commissioners or the Church of England have anounced a 10-year plan to spend $4,000,000 re-developing their working-class housing estates on modern lines.

Six estates, all in densely populated London areas are affected. Work is expected to begin in two—Woolwich and Vauxhall—shortly, while a third, at Waterloo, awaits approval by the borough town-planning authorities.

Three other projects, in Shereditch, Lambeth and Southwark, envisage the need for more property than the commissioners own and await the reaction of the London County Council to their proposals.

Planning of the new housing estates has been under Sir Patrick Abercromble.

The Church of England Commissioners' annual report for 1945 showed a total income of $14,625,748, of which $3,633,368 was income from church-owned property.

FIREWORKS ALL AROUND

WHEN FOUR experts are battling each other and one of them makes a pre-emptive suit bid of three, you are likely to see fireworks also from all other points of the compass. If there is anything a fine player hates to have happen to him, it is to get shut out of the bidding, when he thinks there is a good chance his side has the balance of power. Perhaps that is one of the weaknesses of the best performers—a very human weakness. Or perhaps it is one of their greatest strong points.

As they might say in racing, East and West "made every post a winning post." Despite North's effort to shut them out of the bidding, or at least crowd them into an incorrect contract, they would have been successful in taking the necessary tricks for every bid they made. East's 3-No Trumps would have produced an unbid grand slam unless a diamond got led, if he played properly. And the 5-Hearts got made plus an extra trick after North led a spade. The unthinkable diamond lead is all that could have held it to exactly contract.

Notice that it would have paid North and South to bid spades once more, at the level of five. That could have been set only three tricks, with two in spades, one in hearts, one each in the minors. The 500 point cost would have been appreciably less than the value of the adverse vulnerable game. Of course the strong side might then have tried 6-Hearts, though it is not likely. And, as before indicated, only the improbable diamond lead could have headed off the making of the slam.

Practice of Rocking the Child at Bedtime Should Be Discontinued

It's about the easiest thing you can imagine for a mother to rock the baby to sleep at bedtime or when he wakens during the night. Or for the mother of the child over a year or so of age to lie down beside him at bedtime or let him sleep with her or let him crawl into bed with her when he wakens at night.

These practices naturally grew with many a young mother while her husband was in the armed forces. She may have felt very lonely. She may have had to live in crowded quarters, especially with her relatives. Dreading to allow her child to disturb them with crying, she naturally would try almost anything for temporary quiet. She overlooked, of course, the fact that a litle necessary crying, in relation to good training, can easily prevent far more crying later.

Now when you rock a child to sleep, he may awaken readily when put down. While you are rocking him or lying beside him, every time he moves the least bit he has your support. His mere touch of you may suffice to enable him to go quickly back to sleep.

TOUCH OF COVERS

When he falls asleep alone the touch of his bed or covers can supply the same comforting support. But when accustomed to go to sleep in your arms or snuggled close to you in bed, his slightest stir can awaken him while in his crib or bassinet alone.

ROCKING YOUR CHILD

But suppose you have been rocking your child to sleep. What then? If you want to continue rocking him to sleep several years hence and to have him awaken often during the night, go on rocking him to sleep at bedtime and when he wakens during the night.

If you don't wish to continue this practice just quit rocking him. Put him in bed and let him cry himself to sleep. You can be sure that the longer you delay the training the greater will be the cost to him and you.

But don't begin to train him until you are ready to stick to your plans. If you let him cry a long while and then surrender, he will only hold out longer the next time. If you are going to rock him anyway, do so right away.

The Doctor

Advantages of the Injection Method In the Taking of Sulfonamide Drugs

Today no one doubts the great value of sulfonamide drugs in overcoming serious infections. That has been proved beyond any doubt, but, none the less, doctors are still trying to widen the field of usefulness for these curative and life-saving preparations.

There are, of course, a number of sulfonamide drugs, each of which has its own uses. Then too, the way in which a drug is used often has an important relation to its effectiveness. These are matters for the physician to determine.

AN EFFECTIVE DRUG

According to Dr. Kurt Glaser of Chicago, for instance, a drug known as sodium sulfadiazine can be very effective when given by injection under the skin. Of course,, it can also be taken by mouth, but Dr. Glaser feels that for certain patients injection has advantages.

As a rule only one injection of the sulfadiazine solution is necessary. This permits the home treatment of a patient who needs the preparation but is unable to take it by mouth.

TREATMENT OF PATIENTS

Dr. Glaser has treated 24 patients with infections of the breathing organs with this preparation. The solution was injected into one of the thighs, or, if necessary, the dose was divided into two parts and given into both thighs. There was no reaction at the point where the solution was injected in any of the cases.

Of the 24 patients treated by Dr. Glaser, 10 had various signs of pneumonia verified by X-ray pictures. Eleven had severe sore throat tonsillitis or ear infections, or a combination of these disorders. Of the 24 patients, 19 received the one injection as their only sulfonamide treatment during the entire illness and they recovered rapidly. Fever was reduced and the number of white blood cells returned to normal rapidly.

In five patients the treatment with the sulfonamide drugs by mouth or by injection was continued for various reasons. It would appear that this method of treatment has advantages for caring for patients in their homes.

In these days when all hospitals are so over-taxed, it is not always possible to hospitalize patients who need sulfonamide treatment. Or even if it is, the patient who can get well at home with the one-dose injection method is still saved expense and inconvenience.

It goes without saying, of course, that this treatment should only be given by a doctor or under his direction, because only a doctor can decide whether this particular method is likely to be successful in any given case. It is not, for instance, recommended at all for cases of pneumonia with complications or for severely ill patients who need a regular course of sulfonamide treatment over a period of days.

NO MORE "PACKING" ABOARD TROOPSHIPS

LONDON, (CP) — Complaints of "sardine-packing" on British troopships should be heard no more if the War Office acts on the report of a special committee ands streamlines its troopships.

Seeking ways of improving upon the 27,000 ton Georgic, former Cunard White Star transatlantic liner and now its latest trooper, the War Office recently assigned a team to accompany her on a trooping mission to Bombay and back. Their reports are being studied.

Beauty Hints

Feminine Figure Can Be "Upholstered" Every Place Except Waistline

Stylists agree that today the feminine figure can be as upholstered as milady pleases—within reason of course — every place except the waistline, and there she must be elegantly slender. So the more waist, the less "figure," so to speak.

Actually we are back to normal figures, at long last. Nature's original intention aws for the waist to be a willowy stem, so we could move with ease and grace. When this part of the figure slips into avoirdupois, it not only cramps our style, but makes it difficult to move about easily.

Upholstery within reason always means normal weight for structure. Women with slight frames look their best with a lithe, molded-close-to-the-bone silhouette. Women with larger frames look loveliest with more ample curves. But anything over ten pounds of excess weight for structure is a definite waistline hazard. The cure is to stop overeating, for only excess calories go to waist. Just omit the second hot roll and leave off the rich last course.

When weight is around normal, calisthenics are the simplest way to keep the waistline whittled down, and the majority of women can keep beautifully slim in the middle with a few well-chosen twists and turns. But others can't take calisthenics, particularly the waist-twisting sort. If you have anything wrong with your lower back, skip all twisting exercises. Rely on stretching, swimming and on beautiful posture.

The calisthenics given today are safe for almost anyone.

Stretching is natural and any stretching exercise can be done without strain. Lie on your back on the floor and s-t-r-e-t-c-h. Push up with one arm, and push down with the heel and stretch along that side. P-u-l-l. Now stretch up with the other arm and push down with the leg on that side and pull again. Then push up with both arms and stretch all over.

The second exercise puts a very slight twist on the waist muscles. Same position, lying on back on floor. Stretch right arm up on floor overhead, and touch toes of right foot to floor on left side. Now pull along that side, at the same time pulling up strongly with the girdle muscles. By twisting slightly, the bias muscles are brought into the action. Repeat six or eight times, always slowly and stretchingly.

It's Wise to Be Cautious in Romance But Suitor Warned Not to Overdo it

It's a good thing indeed to be a little conservative about a romance; to take time tostudy a situation a bit and get some idea of how your advances are likely to be received before going recklessly overboard about a girl. If you don't let yourself get too involved until you are fairly certain your girl feels the same way about you as you do about her, you'll save yourself many unhappy moments.

But on the other hand, it's not smart to be too cautious. How are you ever going to learn the things you need to know about life and about people if you keep yourself too carefully guarded against the experiences that will teach you?

Here's a young man who makes me wonder if he isn't the overcautious type who may cheat himself out of a lot of valuable experiences. He writes:

"Dear Miss Atkinson:

"I have been going with a girl since last April, and seem to get along very nicely when I'm out with her until at a certain time she always has an excuse about going home early.

"Now it isn't that I wish to keep her out till all hours of the night, but when I do see her I can't seem to understand that she has to go home so early, and I get sort of moody and what not. I also do not know how to approach the subject about her being fond of me. The main reason why I would like some definite answer from her is so that I would not let myself get too involved with her, and so that she wouldn't hurt me too much later on.

"S.A.H."

Now the reason "S.A.H." is worrying so much about this girl going home earlier than he thinks necessary is undoubtedly that he has a sneaking suspicion she gets enough of his company in a short time. It piques him to feel that she's not sufficiently crazy about him to forget all about time and how it may be passing. He thinks that if she were as fascinated with him as he would like her to be, the last thing in the world she'd want would be to have the evening come to an end. It hurts his pride as well as his heart. That's why he gets 's'ort of moody" when she tells him it's time to say goodnight.

So because he feels hurt already, he's anxious to save himself from further wounded feelings by trying to discover whether or not she does like him. He's reluctant to accept as a definite fact what he fears may be the truth, yet he doesn't want to continue the relationship if he's going to find himself out on a limb some day with only a broken heart for company.

Well, "S.A.H.," your position is no different from that in which most young men find themselves when they're pursuing a girl. There's usually a period in which a suitor is on tenderhooks, wondering if his lady love returns his affection or if she's just stringing him along, with a firm "No" all ready for the moment when he gets around to asking her to marry him.

But if all young men were as cautious about sticking their necks out as you are, there'd be few marriages, I'm afraid. Happily, most ofthem prefer to take a sporting chance, to be patient and persistent. And if, in the end, their girls turn them down, they take it with their chins up, instead of going off into a corner and moaning about how much they are hurt. And they learn something about the mysterious ways of women that gives them a lot of help in handling the next one they go after.

What difference does it make if you do get hurt now and then in life, "S.A.H.?" Isn't that better than trying to shut yourself up in an emotional vacuum and never feeling anything? You can't take just the happiness of life, you know, and think you can sidestep the unhappiness. If you want the first, you've got to take the other, too, when it comes. It's all or nothing, and the smart person chooses "all," knowing that's how he's going to get the most out of life.

So don't let yourself be too cautious, too afraid of getting hurt. Don't try to make this girl come up with a definite answer right now on how she feels about you. Be content to string along with her a while, and instead of getting moody when she wants to go home, take her there cheerfully and tell her what a grand time you've had with her. Leave her with the feeling that it's been a swel levening, and that the next one will be even better. First thing you know, you may have her seeing everything your way!

Filming Moves Shiveringly Back To New York; Contract for Dvorak

By HELEN BANNERMAN
Canadian Press Staff Writer

As Joseph Cotten skated warily toward a camera mounted on a small wagon on the ice of the Swan Lake in New York's Central Park, the city's film renaissance officially got under way. (Twenty-five years ago the movies moved from New York to California because of unpredictable weather.)

Seven hours of shivering work on the ice by 40 skating actors and 30 technicians produced a 10-second sequence in David O. Selznick's "Portrait of Jennie," which co-stars Jennifer Jones.

The sunniest and most photogenic spot onthe pond was also the mushiest and Mr. Cotten admitted he had learned to skate only last week. A bump in the ice kept throwing him off his stroke but to his own great relief he did not fall down.

"The ice," he said later as he changed from his seedy, mid-twenties costume overcoat to one of his own, "was much better on the Hollywood rink where I took the lessons."

Samuel Goldwyn Productions reports that Mr. Goldwyn wil lrepeat for his "The Bishop's Wife," an innovation which he believes paid off big with "The Best Years of Our Lives"—a two-week rehearsal period for his cast before a camera rolls. Members of the cast reported for work this week and now are hard at rehearsals.

AROUND THE LOTS

Dennis Morgan has been signed by Michael Curtiz (sic) for the leading masculine role in "Serenade," the technicolor screen version of the James Cain novel.

Ann Dvorak has signed a two-picture contract with Eagle-Lion and will soon start work in "Out of the Blue" with Turhan Bey as co-star. At the same studio Noreen Nash, a comparative newcomer, will have the feminine lead in "Casanova" which will star Arturo De Cordova. Miss Nash has previously been seen in a small part in "Monsieur Beaucaire."

Lloyd Corrigan and Henry Morgan have been added to the cast of "The Big Clock," starring Ray Milland and Charles Laughton.

Foreign Choirs To Invade Eisteddfod

By HUGH BUSHER

CARDIFF, Feb. 18 (Reuters) — For the first time in its history, foreign choirs have been invited this year to take part in the Eisteddfod at Llangollen, North Wales, June 11 to June 17.

Holland and Sweden have entered choirs and two enquiries have been received from American choirs.

One choir of Moravian teachers is organizing a concert tour in Czechoslovakia to raise the money to cover its expenses, while the Grupo Musical Feminine, a Portuguese Ladies' Choir, is giving a series of concerts in Portugal for the same purpose.

The first entry form from abroad came from the Kalmar Madrigal singers in Sweden, the Winschoten Madrigal singers in Holland are hoping to make the trip.

WIDE INTEREST

Several Belgian choirs have made inquiries and no less than 26 leading British choirs have asked for details of the contests.

The winning choir at the festival will be given the artistic award "symbol of international amity through the arts."

Foreign choirs are invited to compete with British choirs in three contests: one for mixed choirs up to 60 voices, one for men's choirs and the third for women's choirs, each of 30 voices.

Each choir will be required to sing a classical work in Latin, a work to be sung in English or Welsh, and a national song of the choir's own country in their own language.

There is also a children's choral contest and individual competitions for soprano, contralto, tenor, baritone, and bass soloists, and for violin and piano soloists.

PLAN TO RESTORE FRANKLIN HOUSE

LONDON (CP)—The British Society for International Understanding has launched an appeal for funds to restore its headquarters, the Craven Street house where Benjamin Franklin lived from 1757 to 1775.

Named "Benjamin Franklin House," the building is the last surviving home of Franklin while he was London agent of Pennsylvania, Georgia, New Jersey and Massachusetts. The society terms it "a unique symbol of British-American solidarity."

Thinks British Aviation Leaders Have Jumped Ahead of U. S.

Britain and Russia have gained a "big lead" over the United States in the scientific race for development of air power—a field in which the United States reigned supreme for more than a third of a century—by unifying the efforts of their scientists and, in each case, making of them a "cohesive national team."

Britain leads in the development of turbo-jets and propeller-turbine engines, while Russia is in the forefront in scientific research and in long-range guided air weapons, William B. Courtney, European correspondent of Collier's, reports in a signed article.

Courtney also reports that Russian nuclear physicists "are not only as up to date as Americans in atomic research, but are now conducting fission experiments with elements infinitely more powerful than uranium." This, he adds, is "known positively." They do not, however, yet have the "engineering measurements for building the bomb."

The magazine article charges that the British, by flooding the American aviation industry with demands for planes and engines of conventional types during the war, made it possible for their own scientists to develop plans "for luxurious and huge airliners of five years postwar—designed for propeller-turbine engines."

The latter engines are said to be more practical than the turbo-jet engines for commercial use, and, in years to come, are expected to replace the present conventional reciprocating engines. Thus Britain, ahead in the development of the engine and its transports, is said to anticipate that it will be able to dominate the commercial air routes of the world.

Courtney declares that this explains why Great Britain reluctantly signed the Bermuda air conference's agreement to open up the world air lanes for free competition. "When England is ready to invade the Air Ocean with her big fleets of propeller-turbine engine liners—which she contrived to make sure we could not match in time —" he says, "there will be no more persuasive or aggressive champion of the Freedom of the Air."

Courtney emphasizes that Russia, in taking the lead in developing guided air weapons, is concentrating on the "weapons of the Polar front."

"A rocket is far more useful than the best airplane" in launching an atom bomb attack, he claims. "Guided, pilotless air weapons are independent of weather. Airplanes still are not—despite radar. Moreover, planes are more vulnerable to air defences."

He reports that Russia treats her German scientists as distinguished guests, "buttering them with high salaries, liberal food, the best living quarters, Summer homes, unlimited consumer-goods allowances for themselves and their families."

Mr. Courtney seems to think that the British have been much wider awake in aviation matters than the Americans had given them credit. Nor does he seem very happy about it.

The Sudan is the Issue

The issue on which United Kingdom and Egyptian conceptions diverge is that of the connotation of Sudanese self-government.

the Egyptian view is perpetual.
tains that Sudanese self-government must not exceed the limits of Egyptian sovereignty over the Sudan, which in the Egyptian view is perpetual.

The United Kingdom Government holds that the right of self-determination to be exercised by the Sudanese, at the proper moment of political maturity, includes the right to choose full independence from Egypt just as much as the right to choose autonomy in a union with Egypt.

At the same time it disclaims any intention to influence the Sudanese either for or against either ultimate status. It has given repeated pledges to the Sudanese that they shall eventually be free to choose their own destiny and cannot sign away a people's right of self-determination in a treaty with a third party.

Among the suggestions put forward by the United Kingdom Government to meet this difficulty was a proposal that the treaty should be signed, leaving the Sudan question to be settled later at a Conference at which the Sudan would be represented. Another proposal was that a Sudan protocol should be attached to the treaty providing that both parties acknowledged the Sudan's right of free decision for the future. The United Kingdom Government for its part would declare that it would do nothing to encourage the Sudanese to separate themselves from Egypt.

None of these suggestions has been accepted by the Egyptian Government.

It is chiefly on the search for a formula for protocol satisfactory to both Governments that the recent exchange of views between London and Cairo have been concentrated.

There is talk in Cairo of the Egyptian Government, in the event of the admitted failure of the two Governments to agree on the Sudan, bringing the question of the duration of Egyptian sovereignty over the Sudan before the United Nations.

What is clear is that if negotiations for the revision of the Anglo-Egyptian Treaty were finally broken off, then the existing treaty of 1936, which was freely entered into by both parties, would remain in force until 1956 unless both parties agreed to denounce it earlier.

TIME TO SETTLE UP

It may surprise some people who believed that our lend-lease obligations ended on V-J Day to learn that the United States has supplied $2,113,186,000 worth of goods and services to the world during the year following victory.

China, the major beneficiary, received $694,263,000 worth of postwar goods and services. The British Empire's share of the post-victory aid was $442,491,000—although Britain has meanwhile come to a settlement of its lend-lease accounts. Russia, which has made no gesture toward settlement, received $239,050,000 of the postwar aid.

The total cost of lend-lease to date is fixed at $50,692,000,000.

That lend-lease has cost us $2,113,186,000 since V-J Day shouldn't be too shocking, since, as President Truman pointed out, "the sudden termination of hostilities made it impossible to cease the aid abruptly."

It is, however, time for a settlement of accounts.—Los Angeles Times.

NON-FICTION

FERGUSON, C.: Mink, Mary and Me; the Story of a Wilderness Trapline.

Here is romance and rugged adventure, and a love that knew no turning back. An expert with gun or pen alike, Chick Ferguson knows nature and wild animals, and how to write about them. His is a story as invigorating and challenging as the country it tells about.

GOMERY, P. and B.: Hot and Cold Laid On.

Based on a motor trip through England and Scotland in the days just prior to the war, and viewed in the light of present day events, this interesting and humorous account of British customs and ways of life takes the reader on a crazy figure eight tour South of the Thames and then along the East coast of England up through Scotland and down along the West coast. As they revel amongst cathedrals and ruins, marvel at the "laid on" water systems, and glory in the delights of the English countryside, a cavalcade of Great Britain marches through scenes that are steeped in history.

HALSEY, Margaret: Color Blind.

Miss Halsey is a humoroist turned for the moment serious. She has written a "different" kind of book about Negroes and white people. It is different because it is not a problem book —it is a solution book for each individual. During the war the author worked in an interracial canteen. In Color Blind she tells casually about some critical moments, and of the many, many more occasions that were deeply rewarding. Miss Halsey has surpassed herself in her humorous yet wise comments on the inconsistencies which are characteristic of general public opinion on racial issues.

KERR, Constance: John Kerr.

An authentic piece of Canadiana, an engaging portrait of a young man in the seventies, and an accurate study of life on the plains in the days before the settler's plow drove the buffalo from the prairies and the Indians onto reservations. John Kerr is as Canadian as the maple leaf, invigorating as a prairie Winter, and refreshing as a Chinook from the foothills of the Rockies.

MASON, A. T.: Brandeis: a Free Man's Life.

When Louis D Brandeis, son of immigrants, died in 1941, he had long been a revered and influential public figure, and had spent the last 23 years of a great career as a Justice of the U. S. Supreme Court. This full-scale biography gives the authoritative record; it gives also a personal appraisal of his character, the influences that shaped him, and the impression that he made on law and life.

NORMAN, Charles: The Muses' Darling; Life of Christopher Marlowe.

To rescue Shakespeare's greatest contemporary from the scholars in whose archives he has been buried. Norman has presented Marlowe, his friends and enemies, against a background of their times. When thrust through the head by a dagger in a tavern quarrel, Marlowe at 29 had achieved much. Born a shoemaker's son in Canterbury, he had graduated from Cambridge, and gained acclaim from the audiences of the Elizabethan stage. He became embroiled in the Queen's business as a spy—like many young men of that lusty period, when talent and genius were rife in the land, and poets came out of their ivory towers and meddled with politics, Marlowe flung himself with more zeal than judgment into the cauldron of intrigue which was at last his undoing.

PAPASHVILY, George and Helen: Yes and No Stories.

A book of Georgian folk tales, by the authors of "Anything Can Happen".

PERKINS, Frances: The Roosevelt I Knew.

An intimate friend and close political associate gives her personal account of Roosevelt's evolution during 35 history-making years.

ROUCHAUD, Martine: The Time of Our Lives.

An authentic story of the adventures of a French family between 1940 and 1944, recorded by a girl of 14; a story never intended for publication. It was sent in manuscript form to her father, who showed it to some friends who happened to be publishers, and publication in English was immediately decided upon, much to the surprise of the author. Recently brought out in France, the book was awarded the first literary prize of 1946 for the best autobiographical record.

If Le Petit Poisson Won't Come to Ste. Anne, Ste. Anne Will Go to Them

By ETIENNE CHEVROLET
Canadian Press Staff Writer

STE. ANNE DE LA PERADE, Que., Feb. 18 (CP)—A colony of gay-colored "Cabanes" on the frozen Ste. Anne River may be hauled a mile and a half down to the St. Lawrence next year because "Le Petit Poisson" has twice failed to pay his annual visit in any considerable numbers.

Residents of this 280-year-old village are worried by the non-appearance of the guest of honor at what for years was a Winter carnival of gaiety in the rural heart of old Quebec. Without "Le Petit Poisson" the village has no excuse for its happy time.

Most English speaking people call the tasty little fish "Tommy-Cod." They look like miniature cod fish, averaging eight or nine inches in length. Their origin is still debated. No one knows where they come from—or, for sure, where they have gone.

ANNUAL VISITORS FOR OVER A CENTURY

Each December for more than a century they swam up the shallow Ste. Anne by the thousands to spawn—and to battle in frenzy for the liver-baited hooks dropped through the two-foot ice by villagers of Ste. Anne de la Perade.

Last Winter, though lights glowed through the night in hundreds of cosy little cabins, the average catch was 50 to a cabin instead of pails-full counting into the hundreds. This year, "Le Petit Poisson" was even more capricious.

"Something must be done," says Mayor Gus Baribeau. "Obviously they are not coming this far up the river to spawn. If they will not come to Ste. Anne, we have been friends for enough years that surely Ste. Anne can go to them."

If further tests bear out Mayor Baribeau's theory, many of Ste. Anne's "Cabanes," which in Summer are children's playhouses on river-bank lawns, will be sledged by horse or tractor down to the St. Lawrence.

TOURIST MAGNET

"If they are biting, the villagers will still go down each evening. They can walk or ski or go by carriole—but they will go. For visitors who have less time, we can set up a taxi service by snowmobile and they will be there in 10 or 15 minutes. We must get Le Petit Poisson back again."

The mayor who has the well-being of his 2500 constitutents at heart knows also that visitors are drawn by the Mardi Gras atmosphere when the cabins are packed with fishermen, young and old—and the little fish are biting. He wants his people to sing excitedly once again their fishing song, "Mordez, Mordez, Petits Poissons!"—and to measure their catch by the hundreds.

TO DISCUSS WHEAT AGREEMENT AT COUNCIL MEET

By JAMES McCOOK
Canadian Press Staff Writer

LONDON, Feb. 17 (CP)—Agreement between the chief wheat exporting and imoprting countries on basic maximum and minimum prices for periods of two years will be discussed at the International Wheat Council meeting opening here on March 6.

The meeting is an outcome of a 1942 interim agreement between Canada, Australia, Argentina, United States and United Kingdom, the four major exporters and the largest importer, that they would try to obtain more stability in wheat trading in the future. In addition to price limits producing countries would abide by quotas which in effect would divide world wheat markets equitably between them.

Skiers Cost Most For Olympics

MONTREAL, Feb. 18 (CP) — It costs more to send a skier to the Olympic Games than any other athlete. Not only that, but a sizable portion of the bill results from ski breakage.

A. Sidney Dawes, President of the Canadian Olympic Games Committee figures that the average layout where such athletes as swimmers and boxers are concerned is about $600. But when it comes to skiers, the average zooms up to approximately $900.

"For most other athletes there is little preparation on the Olympic grounds involved," said Mr. Dawes. "They go through the trials here in Canada and, in effect, they could step on the boat next day and go right into the games. But it's a good deal different where skiers are concerned."

Mr. Dawes said that the members of the Canadian Olympic ski team—there'll be 12 chosen for the 1948 team — likely will leave Canada early next year in time to go through a month's training at Davos, Switzerland, near where the ski championships will be held.

That accounts for part of the heavier expenses marked up by the skiers. Then there's the matter of swashing skis. The Canadian Olympic offical said it's likely that "each skier will break about three pairs of skis and that would mean a cost of about $100."

Former B. C. Liberal Association President Is Dead

Manitoba, Bay Juniors at Playoff Stage

WINNIPEG, Feb. 18 (CP) — It's playoff time in Manitoba and Thunder Bay junior hockey circles — the seniors haven't quite reached that stage yet although the participants are known — but no one is rushing forward with prophecies about the next champions.

The Manitoba Junior A final is almost certain to be between Brandon until Fort William dethroned don Elks, who finished atop the regular schedule, and Winnipeg Monarchs, 1946 Memorial Cup champions, who were runners-up. The Elks took the first game of their best-of-three series with Winnipeg Rangers, third-place club, 7-2, and Monarchs easily turned back Canadiens 7-1 in the first of a similar semi-final.

But no one has fogotten that while the Elks finished five points ahead of the Monarchs, The latter administered the only two set-backs the Brandon team suffered in the regular schedule.

In the Thunder Bay District, Fort William Hurricane Rangers and Port Arthur West End Bruins are deadlocked at one game each in a best-of-three semi-final, the survivor of which meets Fort William Columbus Club in a best-of-five series for the title. Columbus went through the schedule undefeated.

OPENER THURSDAY

In the Manitoba senior, two Winnipeg teams, Flyers and Stylists, will meet in a best-of-seven series opening Thursday night with Flyers favored because of their success against their city rivals during the season. They took five of the seven games.

Port Arthur Bearcats, eight points ahead of Fort William Legion in the International Senior League, have expectations of resuming their sovereignty over Lakehead senior hockey. The Bearcats enjoyed a seven-year supremacy unt liFort William dethroned them last year and with six victories in eight games with the Legion this season are favored to meet Fort Frances in the district playoff.

TWO-TOED SLOTH BORN AT ZOO

CHICAGO, Feb. 18 (AP) — A two-toed sloth, which Director R. Martin Perkins of the Lincoln Park Zoo calls one of nature's strangest creations, was born at the Zoo yesterday.

Perkins said the baby sloth was nine inches long, weighed 14 ounces and was born with eyes wide open, teeth intact, well-developed claws and could move about under its own power.

Its mother showed no interest, Perkins said.

Playing Coach

—Vogue photo

Len Bicknell, Coach of the Nelson Maple Leafs, who is to take to the ice for the Leafs in his old position as defenceman following a minor shakeup in the Club. The move followed release of Les Mitchell, rearguard who came to the Leafs this season from Nanaimo and who is now expected to return to his home there.

Bicknell will continue to act as Coach, but will be assisted by members of the Club Executive, probably former Leaf players. His first game as Playing Coach will be in Spokane Wednesday night.

Bicknell was in the first Kootenay Hockey League game played in the Civic Centre in the 1935-36 season. He led League defencemen in scoring in 1940-41 season and won the Dr. McKay Memorial Trophy as the most sportsmanlike and valuable player on the team, the first to win the shield.

Leafs' recent string of defeats led to overhauling of the Club, it was stated Tuesday.

Meanwhile, Leo Atwell, last season's Coach who this season has been acting as business manager will relinquish his duties to enable him to give more time to his job as Secrtary of the B.C. Amateur Hockey Association.

At Least 23 Teams for 5-Pin Tourney

TRAIL, B.C., Feb. 18 — There will be at least 23 entries representing Fernie, Kimberley, Nelson, Rossland, Shavers Bench and Trail competing in the first annual Interior Mixed Bowling Tournament, according to Evelyn Burrows, Secretary of the host Trail club.

Mrs. Burrows said that there is a likelihood that an entry from Kelowna has been delayed, and that it would be accepted if it arrived in the next day or so. Entries were originally supposed to have been closed last weekend for the two-day tournament which will be run off March 6 and 7.

There will be two trophies at stake—the C.M. & S. Company Ttrophy going to the tournament champion and the E. L. Hodge Trophy to the runnerup.

The tourney will be run on a straight knockout basis, with each match of three strings being decided by total pins.

Each team consists of two men and three ladies.

KASLO, PROCTER TIE HOCKEY GAME

KASLO, B. C., Feb. 18 — The Kaslo Crocks and Procter tangled Sunday in their third exhibition hockey game of the season.

In the first period Procter got away to a good lead when Matheson scored four goals with assists on two from Bob Noakes. Four more were netted by C. Noakes from B. Noakes, Graham McMullin, Gilbert McMullin from B. Noakes and Grant Sonby.

Haywood of Kaslo scored three goals with two assists, one each from Sutherland and Jones and Matsuzaki from Speirs put across one.

In the second period Kaslo pulled up when Haywood scored three goals, Sutherland from Matsuzaki and Haywood and Matsuzaki from Jones scored one each. Matheson of Procter and Bob Noakes from Gilbert McMullin netted one each. The game was tied in the third period when Jones put in 3 goals with one assist from Haywood and Haywood one more from Matsuzaki. Gilbert McMullin netted two with one assist from Matheson and Matheson one to tie the score 13-13.

A ten minute overtime period was played when Matheson of Procter and Jones of Kaslo each scored one to make it 14-14. Matheson and Bob Noakes starred with their fine combination and Gilbert McMullin proved a strong and tricky defence. Haywood of Kaslo, the man who seldom missed the net was well supported by Bob Jones, while Hubbo Matsuzaki who was playing his usual good game and seemed to be on the receiving end of cuts and bruises was equally well supported by smiling stone wall Allan Speirs.

Both goalies had few slack moments throughout the game.

Lineups:

Procter: Goal, Gordon Brady, Gilbert McMullin, Art Matheson, Bob Noakes, C. Noakes, M. Sokoloski, Graham McMullin, Ian McLeod, Grant Sonby, John Bowles.

Kaslo: Goal, Frank Carney, C. Lind, Allan Speirs, Hubbo Matsuzaki, Bob Jones, Albert Haywood, C. Sutherland, Hedley Dunn, M. McLanders, L. Macpherson.

There were nine penalties:
Scorer: Shiego Shinmoto.
Timekeeper, Akira Furakawa.
Referee C. J. White.
Linesman: Brian Thompson.

CASES SHOW INCREASE

VANCOUVER, Feb. 18 (CP)—The number of communicable disease cases increased considerably in city schools during the severe Winter weather in January.

Superintendent H. N. MacCorkindale reported at a school board meeting yesterday that there were 1022 cases last month while in December the total was only 491.

In January, 1946, the number of cases reported was 436.

Ask Coast Teams When Ready for Allan Playoffs

VANCOUVER, Feb. 18 (CP) — The two Canadian entries in the Pacific Coast Amateur Hockey League, Vancouver Canucks and New Westminster Royals, have been ordered to inform the Canadian Amateur Hockey Association when they will be ready to enter Allan Cup playoffs.

The order was issued by Doug Grimston, President of the B.C. branch of the Canadian Association, on instructions from Al Pickard, First Vice-President of the national body.

Coley Hall and Kenny McKenzie, owners of the Canucks and Royals respectively, have both announced that they intend to enter the playoffs as soon as they completed their commitments in the Coast League, but they don't know when their teams will finish loop play.

NOT FAIR TO KOOTENAYS

Pickard, who said that the vagueness on the part of the two coast teams is not fair to the Kootenays, wants to know immediately when they are prepared to start.

Grimston is trying to get an answer to Pickard's ultimatum, but is having a hard time running down the two club owners. Hall is in New York in search of players for next year and McKenzie is touring the California section of the Coast League with his Royals.

MAY HAVE TO FORGET CUP

If Grimston cannot get an immediate answer, the clubs will probably have to forget about the Allan Cup.

B.C. must declare a champion by March 21 to play the Alberta-Saskatchewan winner.

The same trouble cropped up last Spring, but was disposed of when Royals failed to make the Coast League playoffs. This year, however, both teams made them, and the situation is complicated as a result.

WINNIPEG, Feb. 18 (CP)—Ken Watson's Winnipeg Strathcona rink, almost certain to take the aggregate championship of the Manitoba Bonspiel for the six consecutive season, finally dropped a match tonight after winning 15 straight.

The match was in a minor event of the spiel, however, and Watson himself was not playing. He was resting for Consols play later tonight. At that, it took Johnny Erzinger's Winnipeg Granite rink an extra end to defeat the Strathcona entry, 8-7.

Market Trends

CHICAGO (AP)—New-crop wheat futures reached 27-year highs when advances in the deferred deliveries broke through previous highs and touched off late stop-loss buying at the Board of Trade. Corn moved upward with wheat. The advance in wheat and corn was not so pronounced in oats, which reflected a weaker spot market. At the close, wheat was ¼ lower to 4¼ cents higher, corn ⅞ to ¾ lower, and oats were ¼ to ⅞ lower.

VANCOUVER (CP) — Oils continued their fall while mines and industrials were unsteady. Sales totalled 60,320 shares.

WINNIPEG (CP)—American buying and light offerings kept the October rye future firm. However, other futures traded at lower levels.

At the close prices were 1¼ lower to 4⅛ higher, with May $2.85, July $2.58⅛ and October $2.15⅛.

NEW YORK (AP)—Again it was a case of selectivity, with assorted rubbers and steels edging forward while many leaders in other departments failed.

LONDON (Reuters)—Trading was restricted but the recovery movement of the last few days continued, especially in industrials.

TORONTO (CP)—All groups were down fractionally for minor losses except Western oils, which gave way on a broad front following the last few days' advances.

MONTREAL (CP)—Changes were mostly fractional and trends mixed.

NELSON REPS PREPARE FOR KOOTENAY FINALS

Nelson Juvenile hockey team which areslated to meet the high flying Fernie Juveniles at Nelson on Thursday night will hold a light workout at the Arena this afternoon at five o'clock.

The Nelson team disposed of the Trail Juveniles last Monday and will now meet the East Kootenay champs, the Fernie Gyros in a two game total goal series, this Thursday and Friday.

Hockey fan interest in the Nelson team has developed to a new high with over four hundred fans attending last Monday's contest. The lineup for this afternoon's practice will be the same as in the game against Trail with the addition of Al Hood.

More Cougars Fall to Stewart Guns and Hounds

For two weeks Pete Stewart endured extremes of weather, worked with tired dogs, and then returned to Nelson from a cougar hunt in the Arrow Lakes district with seven more pelts to his credit. They bring his season's bag to 20.

Pete was camped on the West side of the Arrow Lakes, foraging out from the camp into the hills on his snowshoes. Frequent freezeups and thaws made it tough for both man and dogs. Soft snow hampered travel as the leather in the snowshoes became wet and stretched. The heavy snow also stuck to the "shoes".

A yelping pack of cougar hounds is a hard taskmaster, but Stewart is a hardened gamester. In the end the dogs took more punishment than the hunter.

At the time Stewart was crossing the Arrow Lakes it was five below zero. The lake froze. Ice had to be hacked away to make passage for the boat.

Stewart will go out again when his dogs are rested.

Barbara Ann Is Queen of Ball

STOCKHOLM, Feb. 18 (CP) — Cinderella's Fairy Godmother could not have added a more glittering touch to the ball given in honor of Barbara Ann Scott, Canada's newly-crowned ice queen, and the other world figure skating rulers—Switzerland's Hans Gerschwiler, the men's king, and the pairs champions Michelline Lannoy and Pierre Bouguet of Belgium.

Last night in the large mirrored hall of Stockholm's fashionable Grand Hotel, Sweden's Skating Society turned out to fete the world ice rulers and for the first time in many months Ottawa's Barbara Ann relaxed from her rigid training.

She danced and laughed well past midnight with her dinner partner, Richard Button of Englewood, N.J., runner-up in the world men's competition.

Just as she had charmed thousands of admirers in the concluded championships in Stockholm Stadium, Barbara Ann was the centre of attraction among the 200 guests and her fellow competitors.

NORMANS TAKE SPARTANS 14-9

Following the example set Monday by the house girls, the Norman Senior boys trampled the Spartan hoopsters 14-9 Tuesday afternoon. Spartans—G. Butler, D. Robbins, J. Misuraca, K. White, D. Ludlow, G. Nutter, T. Scales, S. Grill, P. Zaitsoff, J. Burgoyne.

VERNON, B. C., Feb. 18 (CP) — New Westminster Cubs battled to an 8-6 victory over Vernon Rotary Club juniors in the opening game of their best-of-three semi-final series for the British Columbia junior hockey championship here Monday night.

After a scoreless opening period, Cubs took a commanding 5-2 lead in the second period and managed to hold off a determined Vernon rally in the final session for an 8-6 margin.

Denny Barkley paced the New Westminster sextet with three goals, including the winning marker, while Don Berry, MacDonald, Reid, Rabichuk and Ramsden tallied one each.

Stan Berry also achieved the coveted hat trick for Vernon, with Ansley, Cramer and Wolgram getting the others.

Second game in the series will be played here Wednesday night, with a third game if necessary Thursday. The winner will meet the Kootenay District Champion.

Nelson, Fernie To Battle for Juve Title Here

The Nelson juveniles, who Monday night wrested the West Kootenay title from Trail, meet the Fernie juveniles here Thursday and Friday nights.

Fernie came out on top of the East Kootenay playoffs by one goal when they defeated their Kimberley opponents 10-6 at Fernie Saturday night. Kimberley won the first encounter 5-2.

With scores of 7-3 and 5-2, Nelson juveniles won both of their games against Trail to gain the right to meet Fernie at Nelson.

Urges "Old English System" of Dispensing Liquor

VICTORIA, Feb. 18 (CP) — The adoption ofthe "old English inn" system of dispensing liquor was advocated by Air Vice-Marshall Leigh F. Stevenson (Cln-Point Grey) during the Throne Speech debate in the British Columbia Legislature today.

Referring to the Throne Speech which forecast changes in the Liquor Act, Air Vice-Marshall Stevenson said it was high hime for a change as he disliked the present "throat-spraying, filling-station system."

"I have travelled a good deal and have yet to see any system which approaches the 'Old English Inn.'

"This system meets the requirements of all classes of society and all wage groups. It provides a club for the working man in his own district to which he can go with his friends and take a glass of ale if he so desires. These inns possess a standard of department and moderation far beyond anything I have seen in this province or in Canada."

More schools were necessary for the increasing population and the standard of teachers and their salaries should be raised to respectable limits.

He said he was disturbed at the part teachers tend to play in politics. They were public servants in every sense and should present to their pupils all matters of public and national importance entirely without bias.

"The theories and policies of various political parties and trade unions should be carefully prepared and presented to pupils and any deviation from the text of these eliminated," he said.

All reasonable measures should be taken to see that medical school facilities for the province and U.B.C. are adequate.

R. Anderson Leaves for Coast For Presentation

ROSSLAND, B. C., Feb. 18—Robert Anderson, who retired from the position of manager of the Brackman Kerr Office here at the end of January, left Sunday for New Westminster, where he will be the guest of the B. and K. Co., for a week. The Head Office staff are having a farewell and presentation for him having been with the company for 47 years, a record in the company. Previously he was in the employ of the Thomas and Smith, who sold out to the Brackman Kerr Company and Mr. Anderson continued as their employee.

At that time the office and warehouse was on Columbia Avenue, opposite the Miner's Union Hall, now the K. of P. Hall. Later they moved to the present location on Second Avenue.

Mr. Anderson came to Rossland in 1896 from Trail on foot after arriving in Trail on the boat from Northport. While Mr. Anderson was studying at Pullman College, the lure of the gold strike in Rossland made him forsake his studies and try his luck in the new mining camp.

He started work with the Thomas and Smith Feed store, thus being in the Feed Store business over 51 years.

During his residence in the city, Mr. Anderson has taken an active part in the fraternal organizations among them being the Fraternal Order of Eagles, I. O. O. F. and the Masonic Order.

Mrs. Anderson, daughter of the late R. W. Northey, a newspaperman in the early days and a contemporary of the late W. K. Esling, arrived in Rossland in February 1897. She has been very active in community life. She was active in the Red Cross Circles for the War I and II, also a charter member of the Ladies' Curling Club in its early years, and in the St. George's Anglican Church work having organized the present Evening Guild and was President for three years and also active in choir work and the Altar Guild.

Mrs. Anderson has been Secretary of Alpha Chapter of the Order of Eastern Star for 25 years. She was also a charter member of the Ladies' Hospital Auxiliary. Failing health has caused Mrs. Anderson to give up many of her activities.

Mr. and Mrs. Anderson have two sons, L. G. Anderson, city accountant Trail, who with his wife and two children reside on Monte Christo Street, Rossland and Dr. R. N. Anderson, who with Mrs. Anderson and son reside at Ladner, B. C.

Mr. and Mrs. Anderson will continue to reside in their home here at 2064 Monte Christo Street.

Wants Quick Access to Boundary Bay Airport

VICTORIA, B. C., Feb. 18 (CP)—Construction of a bridge over the Lower Fraser River to provide quick access to Boundary Bay airport and to give residents of the Delta area a short road to Vancouver, was urged in the House today by Air Vice-Marshall Leigh F. Stevenson (Cln-Point Grey). Sea Island airport has, or soon will reach its safe capacity, he said. Tonight the Coalition Government would bring pressure to bear upon the Federal Government to see that people of the Interior were afforded air service at the earliest possible moment.

The former officer commanding Western Air Command suggested that consideration be given to establishing a "respectable air service which would serve all departments of the Government and undertake fire protection, photography, transportation, and many other useful services."

He said he hoped a scientific and biological body could be set up to study and improve fisheries and game fishing.

Air Vice-Marshall Stevenson suggested that a contributory plan of pensions, such as the social security scheme of the United States, be put into effect in Canada for old age pensions and disability.

The Marpole Infirmary, he said, was small credit to B.C. and should be replaced by an establishment suitable for the needs and treatment of its patients.

The Federal Government by refund of tax, or some other way, and lumber operators by tax or levy, should assume greater share of responsibility for forestration to stop the waste caused by indiscriminate cutting and fire.

Nelson Fans Enjoy Major Pictures, C. J. Hughes Tells City Council; Plan to Re-Open Second Theatre

"Nelson movie fans enjoy the entire output of seven major producers," Famous Players representative C. J. Hughes told the Nelson City Council Monday night. Mr. Hughes had been requested by the Council to explain the "run of poor shows". The issue came up last week after Mayor T. H. Waters announced that he had signed a second 10-year option with Famous Players for use of the Civic Theatre.

"The films shown here last year," Mr. Hughes stated, "without exception were major products . . . what else can we play?"

He explained to Alderman G. C. Wallach who had questioned the February listings for the Civic Theatre, that in the "show business" different types of people had to be catered to. "We are up against different classes. Some enjoy Westerns, some like other shows."

The Council was told that the distributors for Famous Players told the theatres when the pictures could be run, what pictures were to be run and for how long. "We have nothing to say about it," Mr. Hughes said.

The biggest complaint was that Trail got better shows than the theatre here, he said. Trail had two theatres and competition afforded called for better pictures and longer running. Half the time they ran top pictures and then "stuff we wouldn't play at all."

WILL OPEN CAPITOL AGAIN

Capitol Theatre had been opened, he said, because it was thought that the population was growing. The plan was to run only "action" pictures, but, Mr. Hughes said, the cold weather and hockey games Saturday night put an end to that. "Hockey games are our biggest competition. But we will open the Capitol again."

Alderman Allan said he didn't believe that the plays were worse than in any other theatre and that all pictures produced couldn't be first class.

"The situation will become worse. Producers, instead of turning out 25 pictures, plan on only 10. Then the pictures will be better, but will run for a full week — even in small towns."

Noise caused by kiddies on Saturdays and youngsters Friday night was discussed.

Mr. Hughes told the Mayor and Aldermen that the projection equipment was one of the quietest ones available.

The theatre has been since the middle of last Summer running on its 10-year option.

Priest-Founder of French-Canada Theatre Group Plans English Wing

By DON GILBERT
Canadian Press Staff Writer

MONTREAL, Feb. 18 (CP) — Father Emile Legault, the Montreal priest who founded French Canada's thriving theatrical group, Les Compagnons De Saint Laurent, believes the theatre is a natural meeting ground for Canada's English and French-language communities.

His French group firmly established with regularly scheduled seasons in Montreal, Ottawa and Quebec, the energetic, 40-year-old priest is looking to the day when he can set up an English-language wing of his successful repertory.

"At this moment I'm in touch with a group interested in coming with us," said Father Legault, whose players live a communal life on a 150-acre estate near Montreal and have ambitious plans to extend their activities to France and South America.

Father Legault was 30 when he got the idea that what French-Canadian cultured life needed most was a strong theatre. Starting with religious plays, often produced on the steps of parish churches, he soon branched out into the classical theatre and took as his model Jacques Copeau's famous group at the Vieux Colombier Theatre in Paris.

SOLVES PERSONAL PROBLEMS

Everything needed for a play — sets, costumes, masks, music arrangements, dance routines—is devised in workshops in a large house at Vaudreuil, 25 miles from Montreal where rehearsal studios are located and where unmarried members of the group live when they are not on the road. In eight houses dotted about the 150-acre estate the married actors live with their families.

"The actor lives so special a life that he cannot be at his best if he has problems athome," Father Legault explained. "That is why we founded the Vaudreuil community. The personal problems of the actors? I take care of them."

The company shuns the idea of stars—the names of the actors are not even printed in the programs.

Father Legault is producer, director, dramatic coach, business manager, and a dozen other things about the stage. He also writes lively articles on the theatre for every edition of the group's bi-monthly magazine.

Capture Bonspiel Trophy

The Burns Cup winners, at rear, in the B. C. Bonspiel, were E. J. Avery, L. G. Meir, O. Lindstrom and D. Gibbon of Salmo. They defeated J. Smith, Austin Moore, R. Palmer and R. Pickering of Nelson, shown with brooms.

To Ask Hunting To Represent Canada at Wheat Conference

OTTAWA, Feb. 17 (CP) — Trade Minister MacKinnon told the Commons today he intended to ask Charles Huntting, former member of the Canadian Wheat Board, if he would represent the Board at the International Wheat Conference in London.

He made the statement on a notice on the order paper by John Diefenbaker (PC-Lake Centre) asking for production of papers relating to Mr. Huntting's recent resignation from the Board, particularly as to whether he had expressed any complaint about the Board and its membership.

Mr. MacKinnon said Mr. Huntting had resigned verbally and there was no record of any formal resignation. Relations between Mr. Huntting and the Board were "most cordial" and the Government had a "high regard" for him. He added that Mr. Huntting had indicated no complaint with the Board or any of its members.
