To Scout Mystery Valley for Lost Gold-Seeker

FORT ST. JOHN, B.C., Oct. 11 (CP)—A search by air of the legendary "Headless Valley" of the South Nahanni region of Northern wilderness is planned in the hunt for John Patterson, 55-year-old veteran prospector, missing for six weeks.

Indian legend links the valley with the mysterious disappearance of 13 white men—prospectors, traders and trappers—since 1838. Two of the victims were found head-less, but the mystery of their deaths was never solved.

Patterson's partner, Frank M. Henderson, came here today to plan the search. Henderson and Patterson were to have met at Watson Lake, rugged trading post in the Yukon, Sept. 5.

In the North West Territories, the Nahanni has long been a storied country of mysterious death, prospectors lured to its vast fastness by tales of a lost gold mine.

PROSPECTOR LAST VICTIM

The last known victim was Ernest Savard, a pioneer Ontario and British Columbia prospector, who entered the valley early in the year and was given up as dead three months ago.

Patterson entered the region last March with three Indian guides and a six months food supply. At the same time, Henderson went into the Nahanni country with two Indian guides who later deserted him, fearing "the head hunters."

Henderson fears his partner has been killed. "I don't think the murderers are native head hunters so much as possibly fugitives from justice in the North."

He told of the "sinister atmosphere" of the valley.

"The weird, continual wailing of the wind is something I won't forget."

HAS TALE OF GOLD

Henderson found gold during his Summer travels, and arriving here carried a poke of 30 ounces, and samples of ore.

"It lies in the bottom of a creek," he said. "It is strung in quartz along the cliffs of a river as far as the eye can see."

He will start his search for Patterson from Watson Lake where he hopes to charter a plane for the search.

'Peg Air Gunner Wins 16th V.C.

Po. Mynarski Gave Life in Bid to Free Officer From Flaming Craft

By H. DENT HODGSON
Canadian Press Staff Writer

OTTAWA, Oct. 11 (CP) — Air Force Headquarters today announced the award of the Victoria Cross, posthumously, to PO. Andrew Charles (Andy) Mynarski, 27, of Winnipeg, R.C.A.F. air gunner, who died in an attempt to save a fellow crew member when their Lancaster was shot down in flames over Cambrai, France, in June, 1944.

Five other members of the crew leaped to safety while the rear gunner PO. Mynarski had fought to save miraculously survived the crash although trapped in his gun turret.

The citation accompanying the award—16th Canadian V.C. of the Second Great War, and second in the history of the R.C.A.F.—painted a grim picture of the heroic action in which Andy Mynarski, former Winnipeg leather worker, finally leaped from the Lancaster with parachute and clothing in flames after a hopeless attempt to free the rear gunner.

The action occurred on the night of June 12, 1944—a week after D-Day—when an enemy fighter attacked the big Lancaster during a night bombing mission, setting both port engines aflame.

Fire broke out in the mid-upper turret and the rear turret, as well as in the port wing, and as the fire began to devour the aircraft, the pilot ordered the crew to bail out.

PO. Mynarski, mid-upper gunner, started for the escape hatch when he saw the rear gunner, FO. George Brophy of (287 Argyle Street) Port Arthur, was trapped in his turret. The turret was immovable because both hydraulic and manual gear had been damaged.

His own clothing and parachute ablaze, Mynarski made his way to the tail and fought to free the rear gunner until FO. Brophy indicated there was nothing more he could do and that he should try to save his own life.

PO. Mynarski reluctantly went back through the flames to the escape hatch," the citation said. "There, as a last gesture to the trapped gunner, he turned toward him, stood to attention in his flaming clothing and saluted, before he jumped out of the aircraft."

French Partisans on the ground watched his flaming descent. He was so severely burned he died of injuries.

FO. Brophy, sealed in the blazing, bomb-laden aircraft, had an amazing escape when the Lancaster crashed. After the rest of the crew had baled out, he could no nothing but sit in the cramped rear turret, awaiting the crash. The Lancaster broke into several sections, its bombs exploded, and he found himself, 20 minutes later, lying alone in a French field some distance from the wreckage.

PO. Friday and Flt. Sgt. Vigars were captured by the enemy. The other members of the crew, aided by the French underground, evaded capture until liberated by advancing United States forces.

Pilot of the Lancaster, FO. De Brayne, said the aircraft was flying at only 5000 feet when attacked by the fighters. He held the aircraft steady while the other crew members jumped and finally made a narrow escape himself, leaping at only 800 or 1000 feet.

"I pulled the ripcord and had swung only twice before I landed in a French wheat field," he recalled.

FO. Brophy, now employed at a Port Arthur electrical equipment store, said there was "no doubt that Andy would have gotten out O.K. if he had gone ahead and jumped." The V.C. winner had tugged at the stuck rear turret with his bare hands while his clothing, spattered with hydraulic fluid, was on fire.

"Andy was a popular fellow with everybody on the squadron," he said. "We two were awfully close pals and he must have thought of me as soon as things got bad, just as I thought of him."

PO. Mynarski's mother was informed of her son's award in a message delivered personally by Air Vice Marshal K. M. Guthrie.

The message, from Air Marshal Gibson, said:

"It is with a feeling of great pride that I inform you that His Majesty the King has been graciously pleased to confer the award of the Victoria Cross, the British Empire's highest decoration for valour, upon your son, the late PO. Andrew Charles Mynarski, in recognition of his most gallant and distinguished conduct during air operations against the enemy.

"I regret exceedingly that your son did not survive the action, but I am confident that you and your family will derive some comfort from the thrilling story of his superlative bravery which will be forwarded to you in official form as soon as it is received at this headquarters. May I express on behalf of all ranks of the armed forces of Canada profound admiration of your son's gallantry, together with sincere sympathy for your great loss."

PO. Mynarski is the second member of the R.C.A.F. in history to win the V.C., and the fourth Canadian airman to win it during the late war. Flt. Lt. David E. Hornell of Mimico, Ont., received the award posthumously for pressing home a successful U-boat attack in June, 1944, and Sqdn. Ldr. I. W. Bazalgette of Calgary, a Canadian in the R.A.F., was the other winner. He also lost his life in an attempt to save comrades in a bomber over France.

Another Canadian flier, Lieut. Robert Hampton Gray of Nelson, B. C., a Navy pilot with the Fleet Air Arm, also received the award posthumously.

P.O. Mynarski was born in Winnipeg and educated at the King Edward and Isaac Newton Schools there. He worked for four years as a leather worker before enlisting when 23 years old.

He trained at Calgary, Edmonton and Macdonald, Man., graduating in November, 1943, as an air gunner, and proceeding overseas in December of the same year.

On Stana

MRS. EVELYN DICK

By ALAN RANDAL
Canadian Press Staff Writer

HAMILTON, Ont., Oct. 11 (CP) — This, so far as the torso murder trial of Mrs. Evelyn MacLean Dick was concerned, was the day spectators had been waiting for. Mrs. Dick took the witness stand.

But what she said was a closed book, part of the court record concerned with the arguments of opposing counsel for the benefit of Mr. Justice F. H. Barlow of the Ontario Supreme Court for his decision on the admissability of certain crown evidence—statements given to the police by the woman accused of murdering her tram-driving husband, John Dick, last March 6.

When she took the stand, the jury was excluded and Mr. Justice Barlow ruled that any evidence submitted to the court during the absence of the jury should not be published. He warned newspapermen against this.

Her counsel, John T. Sullivan, called her to the witness stand at 4:35 p.m. after the bench had ruled admissable her first statement given to police.

For defence counsel, the accused testified only four or five minutes at most. For the rest of the time she was under examination by J. T. Rigney, K. C., Special Crown Prosecutor, who in quiet, fatherly fashion drew forth his testimony from her in a low voice that matched her own low-pitched, pleasant tones.

Sometimes Mr. Rigney smiled at her. Mrs. Dick smiled back, a pretty young woman whose good looks were enhanced by the color contrast as she stood in the witness box with the dark ornate woodwork of the courtroom behind her and the evening sun going down.

NO VERDICT TODAY

When court adjourned the argument admissability of proposed crown evidence was still going on. Court was called for 10 a.m. tomorrow with the indication of a full day's session and a further session during Thanksgiving Day should it be necessary. Gone were suggestions of a verdict some time tomorrow.

Ceiling Prices For Newsprint Raised $10 Ton

WASHINGTON, Oct. 11 (AP)—Office of Price Administration today raised manufacturers' ceiling prices for newsprint $10 a ton but refused a decontrol request by newspaper publishers.

The agency said the decontrol request was still under study, but the price increase was granted "to assure that United States publishers will continue to receive maximum possible shipments of newsprint."

The increase, effective today, applies to all newsprint sold for use in the United States, both domestic and imported.

OPA said the new ceiling for standard newsprint delivered to 38 "port" cities will be $84 a ton. Ceilings for deliveries in 10 zones are specified in line with trade practices.

California Gold Rush Perked Up

GRANTS PASS, Ore., Oct. 11—(AP)—A report by mining experts of two states today perked up the modern California gold rush, which crammed Crescent City, Calif. with prospectors last month and later almost petered out on the word of independent assays.

An assay on a sample from the claim that started the rush disclosed gold visible to the naked eye, said John C. O'Brien, district mining engineer of the California State Division of Mines, and Hollis Cole, of Oregon State College's Mining Department.

The ore was tested yesterday at the offices of Erle C. Annes here. The sample came from the Myrtle Creek claim along the Oregon-California border staked by veteran prospector Tom Cronin.

The Ernest Hay process was used. It was Hay, Del Norte County assayer, who touched off the original boom when he announced that a special process he invented showed ore worth $50 to $75 a ton from Cronin's claim.

U.S. STANDS WITH TURKS AGAINST RUSS DEMANDS

Say Dardanelles Primarily Turkey's Responsibility

RETAIN VOICE

By JOHN HIGHTOWER

WASHINGTON, Oct. 11 (AP) —The United States, strongly backing Turkey against Russian demands for a dominant position on the Dardanelles, has advised Moscow that the United States does not intend to be squeezed out of a voice in control of the strategic waterway.

At the same time the State Department emphasized again its opposition to a Russian proposal to take over a direct share in defence of the Black Sea Gateway.

The communication delivered by Ambassador Walter Bedell Smith was the United States' reaction to Russian proposals for direct conversations with Turkey on revision of the control arrangements for the Straits, and for Russian participation in defence.

Mr. Smith reminded the Russian Government that the Big Three had agreed at Potsdam that they would propose to Turkey their views on revision of the Montreux Convention, which now sets up the rules for use of the Dardanelles.

BRITON TO REAFFIRM STAND

The United States again told Russia, as it had in previous notes that Turkey "should continue to be primarily responsible for the defence of the Straits." Though in case of direct or threatened attack "by an aggressor" the United Nations Security Council should go into action.

London reports have been to the effect that the British Government also was reaffirming to Turkey and Russia its objection to any Russian Military expansion into the Straits area.

From Istanbul, meanwhile, came dispatches predicting that Turkey, assured of continued American and British opposition to Russia's main demand, might agree to a Soviet request for direct Ankara-Moscow talks.

SEAMEN FROM TERROR VOYAGE ARE CHARGED

VANCOUVER, Oct. 11 (CP) — Twenty six crew members of the freighter Waihemo, arrested here yesterday on the ship's arrival from Auckland, N. Z., were remanded to Oct. 15 when arraigned in court today.

The men were charged with wilfully disobeying commands of officers while docked at Auckland.

The trip here was described as "a voyage of terror," with fist fights between officers and men, of officers being threatened by knife-wielders, and of armed crew members on decks.

Gets 5 Years

OTTAWA, Oct. 11 (CP) — Harold Samuel Gerson, a 41-year-old geological engineer, today was sentenced to Kingston penitentiary for five years after a jury unanimously found him guilty of conspiring while a Government official, to communicate confidential information to Soviet Russia.

The sentence was passed by Mr. Justice G. F. McFarland of the Ontario Supreme Court almost immediately after George Tutchings, a mechanic from nearby Gloucester Township, announced the decision the jury had reached in three hours of deliberation.

Gerson, a dark, bespectacled, Montreal-born son of Russian-Jewish parents and a former key man in the Wartime Munitions Department's Ammunition branch, showed no outward emotion.

His was the fifth conviction since Canada's probe of Russian fifth column activities was announced last Feb. 15, the day Gerson and 12 others were detained by RCMP Defence Counsel A. W. Beament of Ottawa said the decision would be appealed.

Of the five sentences to date, Gerson's ranked second only to that of six years given Fred Rose, Labor-Progressive member of Parliament for Montreal-Cartier and alleged recruiting agent for the Russian espionage ring.

CONFERENCE ON GERMANY LIKELY IN '47

Canadian Press Staff Writer

PARIS, Oct. 11 (CP Cable) — A full-scale conference on Germany may be held in the Spring or Summer of 1947, possibly at Geneva, diplomatic sources here said today.

The parley would not be a peace conference in the sense of the 21-power meeting now nearing its end here. A high United States source said it probably would be called "A Conference on Germany" to try to establish a general policy toward Germany and to work out a basis for a peace settlement.

It could not be a full-blown peace conference until there was a central German Government to present Germany's case and to sign the treaty. It is not expected there will be any such Government by next year.

Possibly by 1948, should there be a Central German Government, a regular peace conference could be held.

3 Nabbed by F.B.I.; Seek to Peddle A-Bomb Snapshots

Vet Took Secret Pictures of Equipment on Pacific Island; Editors Tip Off Authorities

BALTIMORE, Oct. 11 (AP) — Six snapshots taken on Tinian Island of material and equipment relating to the atom bomb were in the hands of U. S. Federal agencies today after three men were taken into custody on a tip from alert Baltimore News-Post editors.

Federal Bureau of Investigation agents and Military Intelligence agents arrested the men on accusations they attempted to peddle (to the News-Post) the unauthorized pictures, described by the FBI as "most detrimental to the security of the United States," for $7000.

The first announcement of the arrests said that the pictures were of an atom bomb, but a Bureau announcement later from Washington said further study of the photographs showed the pictures "were not of the atomic bomb itself, but were of material and related equipment to the atomic bomb . . ."

One of the men, a former private in the U.S. Army Air Forces, explained his possession of the pictures by saying he and four other servicemen surreptitiously removed the covering of an atomic bomb and took a photograph on Tinian Island in the late Summer of 1945, the FBI said in announcing the arrests.

But how the private, George Wallace Comer, 23, Bel Air, Md., managed to slip the photographs through security safeguards was without explanation.

HELD FOR HEARING

Comer, with Miles Frederick Daubenheyer, a veteran, also of Bel Air, and Capt. James Arnes Rike, Chattanooga, Tenn., were arraigned before United States Commissioner Ernsel Volkart here today but were not asked to enter pleas. They were ordered held under $1000 bond each for another hearing Oct. 23.

Fred Halford, agent in charge of the FBI here, said the Department of Justice specifically charged that the men "did unlawfully publish a photograph of a piece of classified Military equipment without first obtaining the permission of the commanding officer of the Army Air Forces based on Tinian."

He said conviction on the charges carries a penalty of a fine of not more than $1000 or imprisonment for not more than one year, or both, for each offence.

Price of Cup of Coffee May Be Reduced Soon

TORONTO, Oct. 11 (CP)—Donald Gordon, chairman of the Prices Board, today told a reporter the question of reducing the price of a cup of coffee from 10 to five cents in all restaurants which now set it for a dime is under examination by his Board.

Says B. C. Will Protest Freight Increase

VICTORIA, Oct. 11 (CP) — Premier John Hart said today British Columbia would protest to the Board of Transport Commissioners to proposed raising of Canadian rail freight rates.

At the same time the Premier said he would ask the Board to withhold making any adjustments until it had heard representations from British Columbia for equalization.

Mr. Hart said he had been in touch with Premier Manning of Alberta who had said his government would take similar action.

Mr. Hart said he also understood that similar action was being studied by Saskatchewan.

Preparations for making representations to the Board have already been discussed.

Approval of the Railway Association of Canada's aplications to the Board of Transport Commissioners for a 30 per cent increase in rail freight rates, would have a two-way effect on British Columbia industry, a survey here indicated.

While some officials described the effect of the increase if granted as a paralyzing blow, others suggested that it would give added impetus to steamship and trucking companies and give some British Columbia industries, now in competition with Eastern firms, a greater margin for competition.

Although some officials questioned whether the Board would approve an increase in rates as high as 30 per cent, others thought some increase would be granted to cover operating expenses of the railways.

The application has also renewed attention on the campaign of some Western provinces for equalization of freight rates.

Seek Missing Brother In Shaughnessy

VANCOUVER, Oct. 11 (CP) — A Dominion-wide search by Mrs. Helen Churchman and Mrs. Selma Somma of California for their brother, Lieut. Robert A. Tunnell, who was reported killed in battle, has extended to Vancouver.

Twenty-eight year old Peter Kirk Owen of West Vancouver, B. C., who served with Tunnell in the Royal Canadian Air Force, is searching Shaughnessy Military hospital here for his former buddy.

The sisters have searched hospitals in Eastern Canada and now are en route to Edmonton where Lieut. Tunniell enlisted in the RCAF. The search started when a boyhood friend claimed he had talked with Tunnel lin a Canadian military hospital.

VINEGAR JOE FIGHTING FOR LIFE IN HOSPITAL GETS COVETED AWARD

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 11 (AP —General Joseph (Uncle Joe) Stilwell fought the grimmest battle of his life tonight as he was awarded the decoration he has coveted most in all his fighting career.

It was the Combat Infantryman's Badge.

The award was directed by Secretary of War Patterson, who instructed 6th Army Headquarters from Washington to present the Combat Infantryman's badge to the leathery old soldier now waging a battle gainst death at Letterman General Hospital.

This afternoon, in the latest bulletin from the hospital, "Vinegar Joe" was reported growing weaker.

The noon bulletin said "his condition has taken a turn for the worse in the past six hours" and that he was growing progressively weaker.

By his bedside were his wife, his two sons and his three daughters.

The 63-year-old hero of the Burman campaign, and the 6th Army commander at the Presidio, underwent an operation on October 3 for a liver condition thought to have been contracted in the Burma jungles where, in Stilwell's classic phrase, he "took a hell of a beating."

Widespread Polio Virus Points To Humans As Disease Carriers

By HOWARD W. BLAKESLEE
Associated Press Science Writer

NEW YORK, Oct. 11 (AP)—Polio virus, the invisibly small agent that causes infantile paralysis, apparently was spread everywhere in the epidemic areas of this year's great outbreak of the disease in the United States.

Shortly before the end of September the cases had reached 18,500 and had only a little more than 500 to go to make this year the second greatest in the country's records.

(Canada also had a severe outbreak of the disease this year).

There is evidence that virus this year was carried by the families and friends of the patients, and by insects and in sewage and occasionally in food. This spread of virus is not really new in polio epidemics, but it is a cumulation of years of work to discover how it spread.

The secret of the spread still escapes physicians.

The secret of the spread still escapes physicians.

Suspicion just now points first at human beings as the most dangerous carriers. That is, polio virus, under this evidence, probably spreads from person to person. It is a contagion.

The virus has been found in sewage in numerous places. Charleston, S. C., New York city, Detroit, and Chicago have found this.

The polio agent lives only a little more than a day after it enters sewage. This does not rule out the possibility of getting polio from sewage contamination, or from garbage, or swimming pools and beaches where there is sewage contamination. But the chances look poor for contaminated sewage being the main cause of polio epidemics.

Flies have been found to carry polio virus and other insects are suspected. But again the evidence points away from flies as prime causes of polio. The virus does not appear to breed in the flies and dies in a day or so.

The only breeding place of the infantile paralysis virus at present seems to be the human body. This is an added reason why the medical profession is working on the human carrier angle.

Issues Account Of Hush-Hush Sub Cruise

WASHINGTON, Oct. 11 (AP)—The Navy today issued a belated account of a hush-hush submarine cruise July 15 to Aug. 22 which took its submarine on active duty closer to the North Pole than ever before.

Anti-submarine detection beams are seriously deflected by layers of seawater which vary with temperature and the Navy said much information on this effect was obtained near Arctic ice floes.

Operating with four submarines of the Pacific fleet were an undisclosed number of long-range four-engine patrol bombers.

The cruise, billed as a "training and familiarization" trip, was kept top secret at the time, although there were some "leaks" on the West coast and at Alaskan ports where the subs visited.

"This and other recent submarine cruises into arctic waters have marked a resumption of periodic training cruises interrupted by the war," the Navy said. It did not elaborate on "other recent submarine cruises."

The Submarines, Trumpetfish, Blackfin, Tusk and Diodon, were blocked by the solid wall of the icepack on their Northward course above the Bering Straits at 70 degrees 21 minutes North, some 250 miles Southwest of Point Barrow, Alaska.

A naval authority said this was the farthest North American submarines ever have gone on active duty.

The reconditioned navy submarine Nautilus which Sir Hubert Wilkins used for Arctic exploration in 1931, however, went considerably farther North at Spitzbergen.

COMPOSER OF POPULAR SONGS DIES

SCOOP TORSO OF MAN

SAINT JOHN, N. B., Oct. 11 (CP) —The torso of a man without head, hands or feet, was scooped up from West Saint John Harbor today in the bucket of a dredge. An autopsy established the age of the unidentified man at about 20 and clothing indicated he was a sailor.

RAILWAYS ASK INCREASE ON BASIS OF EXPANDING OPERATIONAL COSTS

Supporting its application to the Board of Transport Commissioners and the Prices and Trade Board for a general increase of freight rates throughout Canada, with exception of a few single items like coal and coke, the Railyay Association of of Canada submitted the following:

"Canadian railway companies are in the unique and perilous position that they have been operating under rigidly controlled freight rates in the face of steadily mounting costs, and not merely since the adoption of price control in 1941, but since the outbreak of war.

In the first two years of war, industry generally took full advantage of its freedom to increase prices, and when price control became effective in December, 1941, industrial prices were frozen at such higher levels.

Subsequently, however, increases in the prices of many products have been authorized by the Wartime Prices and Trade Board. Railway rates, on the other hand, have not been increased since the outbreak of war (with the exception of increases limited in their application to international through rates and in import and export rates from and to United States ports).

The general level of freight rates has not been increased over the reduced level established by the Board of Transport Commissioners in 1922, but in many instances rates had actually been decreased prior to the war."

COSTS FAR UP

In contrast, the submission points out, there has been an enormous increase in railway operating costs. The effect of the cumulative increases in wages (exclusive of the wage increases of 10 cents per hour recently granted by two member roads) and in prices of materials since 1939 "will be to increase the railway operating costs in 1946 by $79,200,000 for wages and $52,000,000 for materials, a total of $132,000,000 more than would have been the case had the 1939 levels of wages and prices prevailed.

Smart Girls Always Carry Paradol in their Handbags

They know that Paradol will relieve them quickly of headaches, and other discomforts, as well as help to check colds.

One girl writes,—"Until I used Paradol every month I suffered almost unbearable pains. It is the most quickly effective relief I have ever used and there is no disagreeable after effect."

Dr. Chase's PARADOL For Quick Relief of Pain

TOAST and TEA BY J. V. McAREE

"In all my religion," writes Cyril Connolly, in The Unquiet Grave, "all believers would stop work at sundown and have a drink together 'pour chasser la honte du jour'. This would be taken in remembrance of the first sunset, when man must have thought the oncoming night would prove eternal—and in honor of the gift of wine to Noah, as a relief from the abysmal boredom of the brave new world after the flood. Hence the institution of my 'Sundowner,' with which all believers, whether acquainted or not, would render holy that moment of nostalgia and evening apprehension. In my religion there would be no exclusive doctrine; all would be love, poetry and doubt. Life would be sacred because it is all we have, and death, our common denominator, the fountain of consideration."

Trail Society Discusses Claims Signature Fee

TRAIL, B.C., Oct. 11—The Consolidated Mining and Smelting Company Employees Benevolent Society at its annual meeting Friday made a number of changes in the bylaws. It was pointed out that many more changes would be necessary with the coming into effect of the new medical agreement. Major topic of the evening was the charge of one dollar to be made by doctors for signing sick benefit claims.

Up to the present time the local doctors have not been collecting this normal fee. The doctors suggested that they would be agreeable to a flat rate of $50 per month to be paid by the Society covering all claims. The meeting turned the suggestion down and passed a motion stating that it will be necessary for the person making the claim for sick benefit, to pay the doctor a $1 fee and that the directors of the Society would contact the officials of the M.S.A., which has a medical agreement with the C. M. & S. covering its employees, for the purpose of reaching a more satisfactory solution.

Minister Gets Competition From Charlie McCarthy

OKLAHOMA CITY, Oct. 11 (AP) —The mystery of how Charlie McCarthy broke into the Rev. Caradine R. Hooton's Sunday night sermon was believed solved today.

The Minister was addressing his congregation at the First Methodist Church over a laudspeaker system when the voice of Charlie, the radio imp, suddenly broke in, much to the audience's delight.

"It looks like a Boy Scout radio class conducted in the church weekdays inadvertently cut a crystal set into our loudspeaker system. "Someone apparently turned the set on while I was speaking and I got a little competition."

Erection of Roosevelt Memorial In London Approved By House

By GLENN WILLIAMS

LONDON, Oct. 17 (AP) — The House of Commons laid aside law-making today to express its admiration for Franklin Delano Roosevelt, whom Winston Churchill ranks above Washington and Lincoln.

Led by Prime Minister Attlee and Opposition Leader Churchill, all political parties joined in approving a bill to erect a Roosevelt memorial in Grosvenor Square, site of the United States Embassy and centre of American planning for European liberation.

Mr. Attlee described the late President as one who "combined the qualities of the fearless idealist with those of the far-seeing and prudent man of affairs."

The memorial plan was sponsored by the American Pilgrims Soviet in London. Its $160,000 cost is to be raised by $1 subscriptions.

Mr. Churchill, Britain's wartime leader, said that he "felt buoyed in the ordeal of war by walking hand in hand with this outstanding chief of the American people."

Mr. Attlee observed that Mr. Roosevelt would join Washington and Lincoln as the only American Presidents memorialized in London. The Washington memorial overlooks Trafalgar Square and a duplicate of the Lincoln statue in the Springfield memorial faces Westminster Abbey.

Mr. Churchill said: "There are many tests by which we can try to measure the greatness of men who have served high causes. I shall select only one . . . the favorable influence exerted upon the fortunes of mankind. In this respect the name of President Roosevelt gains pre-eminence even over the illustrious figures we have mentioned."

Mr. Churchill termed Roosevelt "the greatest champion of freedom" and said he "not only anticipated history but also its course, and altered in in a manner that saved the freedom and earned the gratitude of the human race for generations to come."

Liberal Party Leader Clement Davis, Henderson Stuart, head of the Liberal National Party, Sir William Allen, speaking for Northern Ireland, and Mayor Edward H. Keeling of Westminster also paid tribute to the late President.

Misses Two Days Of Work to Get Two Boxes Soap

DECATUR, Ill., Oct. 11 (AP)—One Decatur family learned that cleanliness can be an expensive proposition.

The laundry was piling up, and no soap. The wife saw an advertisement on sale of soap chips but she couldn't leave the house.

But she kept her husband home from work and he got in line at the store and got one package of the hard-to-get product. He repeated the procedure the next day.

The score: Two days off work for two boxes of soap chips.

URGES BRITAIN TO TAKE LEAD IN UNITY MOVE

United States of Europe Needed Declares Smuts

MODESTY?

THE HAGUE, Oct. 11 (Reuters) —Prime Minister Smuts of South Africa today called on Britain to take the lead in forming a United States of Europe.

Addressing a joint session of the Upper and Lower Houses of the Dutch Parliament, the South African Prime Minister said if Britain would not take the initiative, some of the smaller European countries should try to persuade her to do so.

"In Eastern Europe a Slav general group is already forming under our eyes," Mr. Smuts declared, adding, "and why not? Why should this be resented or feared as a menace to others?"

"Is it not wiser and safer to regularize these groups which correspond to deep-seated national and economic interests?

"I do believe that the United Nations needs such buttresses to its overall world structure."

Mr. Smuts recalled that Winston Churchill, Britain's wartime leader, in pleading for a European federation, had suggested that France should take the lead and had urged reconciliation between France and Germany as a condition.

As France has rejected Mr. Churchill's plan, he said, Britain should step in because "in her setup of the British Commonwealth she has already created an example and model of international cooperation among free states far in advance of anything existing in the international sphere."

Of Mr. Churchill's proposals, Mr. Smuts said: "No one alive today can speak with greater authority on such a subject."

Mr. Churchill was "our great European."

Mr. Smuts added: "In private conversation with many representative Europeans I have often heard the suggestion: "Why does not Britain herself take the lead in this greatest of European interests?

"If modesty restrains her, could not some of the smaller European states, convinced of her disinterestedness and wise leadership, exercise some influence with her?".

"The state fo all small powers today was so precarious as to become unendurable and sooner or later they might be forced to attach themselves as satellites to some planetary great power," Mr. Smuts said.

"Could this not be prevented by timely actions which will preserve their independence in a European system guaranteeing their freedom and security?"

Deadlocked After Operators Ask Manning of Eastern Gulf Ships

WASHINGTON, Oct. 11 (AP)—A surprise walkout by Eastern and Gulf ship operators all but scuttled government efforts today to settle the 600-ship maritime tieup in the United States which began Oct. 1.

The Maritime Commission and Labor Department conciliators cast about for a way to rescue the discussions, but a representative of a two-coast Negotiating Committee said its members had decided not to stay in Washington any longer.

He added they would be receptive if the unions wished to resume the talks in New York.

In announcing its withdrawal from the government-sponsored negotiations shortly before last midnight, the committee declared "the positions of the unions make a continuation of negotiations futile.

The deadlock arose after the operators asked the two unions involved for pledges to man Eastern and Gulf ships imemdiately if these owners agreed to a union security settlement apart from their Pacific Coast colelagues.

The committee said the AFL masters, mates and pilots agreed to give the assurance if the CIO National Marine Engineers Beneficial Association would do likewise.

But, the committee continued, the engineers demanded that the Maritime Commission first order its West coast agents to put into effect on government-owned ships there any terms negotiated for the East coast and Gulf.

Gather Only 20 Per Cent Honey Crop in Banner Producing Province

GUELPH, Ont., Oct. 11 (CP)—The traditionally-busy bee went on a work stoppage in Ontario this summer and apiarists have garnered only a 20 per cent crop in the Dominion's banner honey-producing province.

Official reports to the Ontario Agricultural College here indicate a yield of from 2,400,000 to 3,900,000 pounds compared with normal production of 11,000,000 to 19,000,000. In good years it is much higher—the 1938 yield, best in recent years, amounted to 24,092,000.

The situation stumps the experts. M. M. Webster of the Agriculture Department remarks that "the only way we can account for it is that teh bees must be on strike like everyone else."

Fritsche Says He Doesn't Fear Verdict

By G. K. HODENFIELD

NUERNBERG, Oct. 11 (AP) — Hans Fritsche, his home watched by German police, said today he knew he would be sentenced by a Denazification court but he did not fear the verdict.

"It goes without saying that after 17 months in prison I do not look forward to new imprisonment, be it American, Russian or German," the one-time Nazi radio propagandist said in an interview.

"But I am of the opinion that we who have been acquitted by the International Tribunal must submit ourselves to German law."

Fritsche, industrialist Hjalmar Schacht and Diplomat Franz von Papen were acquitted by the tribunal here Oct. 1 when it convicted 19 other high Nazis of war crimes. Von Papen still is in the Palace of Justice jail. Schacht went to Backnang, near Suttgart, and wasarrested by German police for denazification proceedings.

In a denazification court, said Fritsche, "my defence will be not only a defence but also an indictment. This indictment will be directed against Hitler, Bormann, Himmler and the former Reich press chief, Doctor Otto Dietrich. Dietrich is still alive and can answer me."

(Dietrich is held in an internment camp as a former S.S. General.

"I shall not defend my propaganda. I shall show that not all Germany was a den of criminals," Fritsche went on. "I was a National Socialist and that was the reason for my Nazi propaganda."

Curious Egg Shaped Object Goes to Astronomer

PORTLAND, Ore., Oct. 10 (AP)—A curious egg-shaped object, which "fell red-hot from the sky," was sent to an astronomer for study today to determine whether it was a fallen meteorite.

Mrs. Marshall Cowie, Vancouver, Wash., nurse, said the fragment had dropped "like a brilliant ball of light" in front of her car during last night's shooting star display.

The fragment Mrs. Cowie retrieved was sent to Dr. J. Hugh Pruett, Eugene, Ore., astronomer, after a State Geologist here was unable to determine whether it was part of the Giacobini-Zinner comet's meteor tail.

Observers said the falling object appeared the size of a baseball, but was shattered into hot fragments when they reached it. The spot today was scorched for a four to six inch radius.

The dead are:

Capt. Warren E. Jenks, assistant U. S. Military attache.

Baby Dies of Broken Neck

PITTSBURGH, Oct. 11 (AP) — Playing hide-and-seek with her step brother, 2-year-old Elaine Schelinski, ostrich-like, thrust her head into the partially opened bottom drawer of a bureau, then she could not get her head back out. The step-brother, Lawrence Schelinski, 5, hauled and tugged but could not free his sister. The child's parents smashed the drawer to free the tot. They found her dead of a broken neck.

ARCHBISHOP TO GO TO JAIL FOR 16 YEARS

Confiscate Property; Lisak, Gunlin To Be Executed

PEOPLE CHEER

ZAGREB, Yugoslavia, Oct. 11—Archbishop Stepinac, charged with Axis collaboration, was convicted today on all main points of the indictment against him and was sentenced to 16 years imprisonment at forced labor.

The three-judge People's Court of Croatia, which since September 30 has been trying the Archbishop, head of the Roman Catholic Church of Yugoslavia, also ordered that all his property should be confiscated and deprived him of all legal rights for five years.

Archbishop Stepinac was accused of aiding the Axis, the puppet Croatian Republic of Dr. Ante Pavelic and the Ustashi terrorist organization.

Erik Lisak, Ustashi colonel, was convicted also, and was sentenced to be hanged.

A third defendant, Paule Gunlin, described by the court as a "Ustashi terrorist," will be shot.

In all, 13 men were convicted and were given sentences ranging from six months' imprisonment to death. Three were acquitted.

Lisak, informed of his death sentence, shook his fist at the court and shouted in a high-pitched voice: "I will die for Croatia. Long live the independent state of Croatia."

The Archbishop stood expressionless and looked straight at the court throughout the hour-long reading of the judgment and showed no emotion when his sentence was pronounced.

The audience, which had stood throughout the reading, cheered and clapped when the sentences of the Archbishop and Lisak were announced.

The Court President read a long list of findings against the Archbishop. He was convicted of alleged approval of the forced conversion of Serbs to Catholicism, of sponsoring the organization of terrorist units and of glorifying the Ustashi in the Catholic press and in pastoral letters and speeches.

Archbishop Stepinac also was found to have inspired the hope that the present Tito Government would be short lived and to have been seen in public with German and Italian officers during the occupation.

The Archbishop's Secretary, Ivan Schalic, was sentenced to 12 years at forced labor upon conviction of having introduced Lisak into the Episcopal Palace and helped him organize terrorist bands.

(In Rome, Pope Pius decried the trial as "most sad," and denied he had ever approved forced conversions. Vatican sources, charging the arrest had come after all Catholic pastors in Yugoslavia had read from their pulpits a letter from the Archbishop insisting upon religious freedoms, said that during the war the Prelate actually protested to Pavelic against the excesses of the Croatian regime.)

Search Charred Ruins of House; 3 Lose Lives

PORTLAND, Ore., Oct. 11 (AP)—Firemen searched the charred ruins of a two-storey rooming house today where three unidentified persons died in flames last night.

They said there was only slight possibility that other bodies would be found, but that two persons still were missing. They said the two probably were given refuge last night by residents of the hotel and warehouse area where the fire broke out.

Twenty persons were rescued from window ledges by firemen's ladders. Three of them were overcome by smoke. Six firemen also needed hospital treatment.

As Far As This Man Is Concerned, No Meat Shortage

CHICAGO, Oct. 11 (AP)— R. Marlin Perkins Director of Lincoln Park Zoo, says as far as he is concerned there is no meat shortage.

"Why worry about a lack of beef, pork, or lamb," Perkins asked, "when roast stuffed crow is just as good."

He added that any clean living animal would make a good substitute for a regular meat dish. Personally, he likes chicken-fried snake.

Bulgarian Treaty Taken Up at Meet

By MEL MOST

PARIS, Oct. 11 (AP) — The United States told the Peace Conference today it was ready to join in any United Nations defence of Greece "if Greece's security is endangered by the acts of an agressor nations."

Jefferson Caffery, United States Ambassador to France, speaking on the peace treaty with Bulgaria, said United States had consented to leave Bulgaria her present frontier with Greece only because Americans relied on United Nations safeguards to protect Greece from any attack.

Greek Premier Constantin Tsaldaris, said bitterly in an earlier address that the terms of the treaty draft with Bulgaria would permit that country to emerge from her second war against the Allied nations larger and stronger than ever before.

He accused the Western powers—"whose fate we did not hesitate to share in the most critical hours of the war"—of yielding to Soviet pressure on border issues and charged them with lack of gratitude for the role his country played in the war.

Under the terms of the treaty, Mr. Tsaldaris declared, the Axis alliance entered into by the late King Boris and former Bulgarian Premier Bogdan Philov in 1941 "will have been justified."

The Greek Premier took the floor to counter—by requesting a strip of Bulgarian territory—a demand from a Polish delegate Stephan Wierblowski that Bulgaria be given an outlet to the Aegean Sea through Greece.

The renewed demand by the Slasic group that Bulgaria be given Greece's North Aegean Panhandle was presented at the outset of plenary session discussion on the Bulgarian treaty, the third to come before the conference as a whole. The Italian treaty was approved yesterday and the Romanian pact early this morning.

"Bulgaria needs an outlet on the Aegean Sea," Mr. Wierblowski declared in a speech protesting a commission recommendation to defostify Bulgaria's side of the frontier with Greece and another requiring Bulgaria to pay $62,500,000 each in reparations to Greece and Yugoslavia.

Smallwood Leads Faction Favoring Federation With Canada

By D'ARCY O'DONNELL

ST. JOHN'S, Nfld., Oct. 11 (CP)—Joseph Stallwood of Gander, a slight, bespectacled, loquacious man in his mid-forties, is carrying on a strenuous campaign to have Newfoundland enter Canadian Confederation and become the Dominion's 10th province.

A member of the 45-man convention elected to recommend a future form of government for the island Mr. Stallwood now is the sole outsponen advocate of confederation but there are indications that his campaign is gaining ground.

Some members of the convention gradually are swinging to his support, but they have not yet made up their minds to the point where they will join him publicly uging confederation.

Mr. Smallwood who has dabbled in free lance writing radio comment, farming and politics, was one of two candidates in the conventions election to campaign for a definite form of government. The other was Peter Coshin of St. John's who advorates a return to responsible government, lost in 1934 when the United Kingdom appointed a rommission of government to help bring the island's finances back on a sound basis.

Smallwood as a Confederationist stood little chance of being elected. Newfoundlanders were believed not to have forgotten what they considered was ill treatment at the hands of Canada when they sought to enter confederation in 1895.

When the votes were counted, however, Mr. Smallwood had 2129 ond his opponent 277. Veteran Newfoundlanders say the reason for it was Mr. Smallwood's personality and not his platform.

Now with the convention meeting in private committee sessions after three weeks of public sessions, Mr. Smallwood is continuing his campaign and he is openly confident of success.

Freight Increase To Apply to Grain Shipments

OTTAWA, Oct. 11 (CP)—An increase of 30 per cent in railroad freight rates being sought by the Railway Association of Canada would apply to shipments of grain and flour from the West—if it goes into efect—despite the Crow's Nest Pass agreement, an official of the Federal Board of Transport Commissioners said today.

"Zulu" Parents

By Garry Cleveland Myers, Ph. D.

In Zulu, the mother provides affection for the child, and the father restraint. In New Guinea, the father is the family agent of affection and the mother of restraint. On this continent, we have samples of both these primitive types of family relationships, but more Zulu than New Guinea. We have all too many families with little affection or restraint from either parent.

Ideally both parents afford both affection and restraint properly balanced. About the meanest mother is the one who tattles on the child to the father, expecting him to discipline the youngster in the evening for his misdemeanors during the day.

About the most futile father is the one who leaves all discipline and care of the child to the mother, best illustrated, perhaps, by the dad who is home only a day or so a week and spoils the children then with gifts and bribes, and lectures the mother for not managing the children better.

While it is unusual for two parents to be as one in relation to the child, no other relationship can be a wholesome one.

In the United States, the Zulu type seems to predominate, the father strong for authority, the mother for affection. And the more the father emphasizes authority the more the mother relaxes on it, causing the father in turn to become more severe, and so on. As one parent elans to one extreme, the other tends to lean to the opposite extreme.

Many a father would exercise far less harshness and far more tenderness to the child, if the mother would stiffen up a little in her management of this child. Furthermore, her affection and his would then be more enduring.

But the balancing love ad restraint should be in each parent rather than in one parent against the other. There hardly can be most happy family life without this balance in each parent, as well as in both parents combined.

Restraint without affection is brutal; affection without restraint is self-destructive. Where lives the parent who always can be tender and affectionate toward the child who has never learned to mind? In the place of affection arise chronic mutual irritations of the child and parent, accompanied with arguments, wordy warfare nagging and ugly shrieking voices.

The child who very early learns the unambiguous meaning of "no" rarely heard, has the best opportunity, all else equal, to enjoy affectionate companionship with his parents and to escape tongue lashing and innumerable other family vexations.

Blessed is the child whose parents long before his birth, have planned together for a wholesome balance of his up-bringing, of affection and restraint, being neither old Zulu nor New Guinea.

Incidentally, fewer mothers, then would go to untimely graves if they early taught their children to obey.

Pounds Are So Contrary!

By IDA JEAN KAIN

It's plain to be seen that overweight begins in the middle But it isn't the waist that widens first. Actually it's the muscles that form the abdominal wall that become soft and flabby and collect fat. When these important foundation muscles lose tone, the waist follows.

So slimming should begin with the middle muscles. With exercise. But most of us postpone exercise, regarding it as very difficult. However, just stretching is excellent. Stretching reflexly contracts the long muscles that run straight up and down the front of the abdominal wall.

Arc your arms above your head and stretch. Start with the lower obdominal muscles and carry up through the ribcage. Since the important girdle muscles are attached to the ribcage and wishbone, not to the shoulders, that's your line of stretch, keeping tthe shoulders relaxed. An easy upstretch contracts the middle muscles, pulls the waist out of the slump and the ribs out of the waist.

There are big diagonal muscles banding the waist. It's easy to figure that adding a twist or sidebend to the stretch puts the squeeze on the waist muscles. Try it. Hold the up-pull, then bend sideward as far as comfortable. Do not take your feet off the floor. Come back to position, pull up again through the midriff, keeping shoulders relaxed, and bend to the opposite side.

You're more sure to stay on the beam if you do the stretch-bends by a full-length mirror. Stand at an angle o see the full effect, stretch up, pulling slim, bend to the side. Don't let the small of the back cave in; that doesn't help your figure. Don't raise your shoulders. Pull strongly along the outside instead of collapsing at the waist . . . that's cheating. Six thorough-going bends are right for a starter. By the third or fourth day you'll be limber enough to add a twist.

Just that smal lamount of stretching can be streamlining, particularly if you'll back it up with a fairly good posture. It won't be uncomfortable! In sitting you pull up with the girdle muscles and with the wishbone. That's beautiful posture.

In standing and walking this same up-pull pulls your figure slim through the middle. Then with shoulders relaxed you have an easy, graceful walk, and every step you take gives you a nicer and nicer figure!

Look for More Serious Girl

By JANE ATKINSON

Dear Miss Atkinson:

Since my return from Overseas, I met a very attractive young girl. I am four years older than she. I have known her now for 2 months and have fallen very much in love with her. I have told her that, and she keeps saying she loves me, but she never believes anything I say to her. When we're out on the street she doesn't want to take my arm and she looks all around her and throws smiles at other boys. In fact, she makes goo-goo eyes at everything in trousers.

I keep blowing my top about this and she says it won't happen again. Then I turn my back and she laughs at me. I've proved in every possible way that I love her, but she keeps insisting it's just another of my lines. She keeps telling me she wants only me and I believe her, but when she gets with her friends she forgets all about me and is entirely set on what her friends are talking about, and it's generally other boys. I can't figure it out.

"A Guy in Love"

You seem to have fallen in love with a very frivolous and silly girl. You don't say how old you are, but, if she is four years younger than you, perhaps it's just that she is not old enough yet to get serious about anyone. She might even be at the giggling teen age when, as you put it, "everything in trousers" interests her.

My advice to you—though you probably will not take it—is to forget about this girl and look around for someone a little more serious-minded.

The meritorious service of newspapermen during the war was recently recognized when, in the latest list of awards, the King honored 21 British war correspondents with the O.B.E.

Hints for Housewives

By BETSY NEWMAN

With practically everything in the food line available in frozen form, it seems that there is little left for the housewife to do in the baking line but bake the frozen product. However, I have a hunch that these frozen products—which are excellent eating—will make too large a dent in our family budgets if used often. In order to make the money allotted to food come within bounds, I expect these frozen delicacies will have to be served only once in awhile, on special occasions, in most families.

BAKED POTATO SLICES

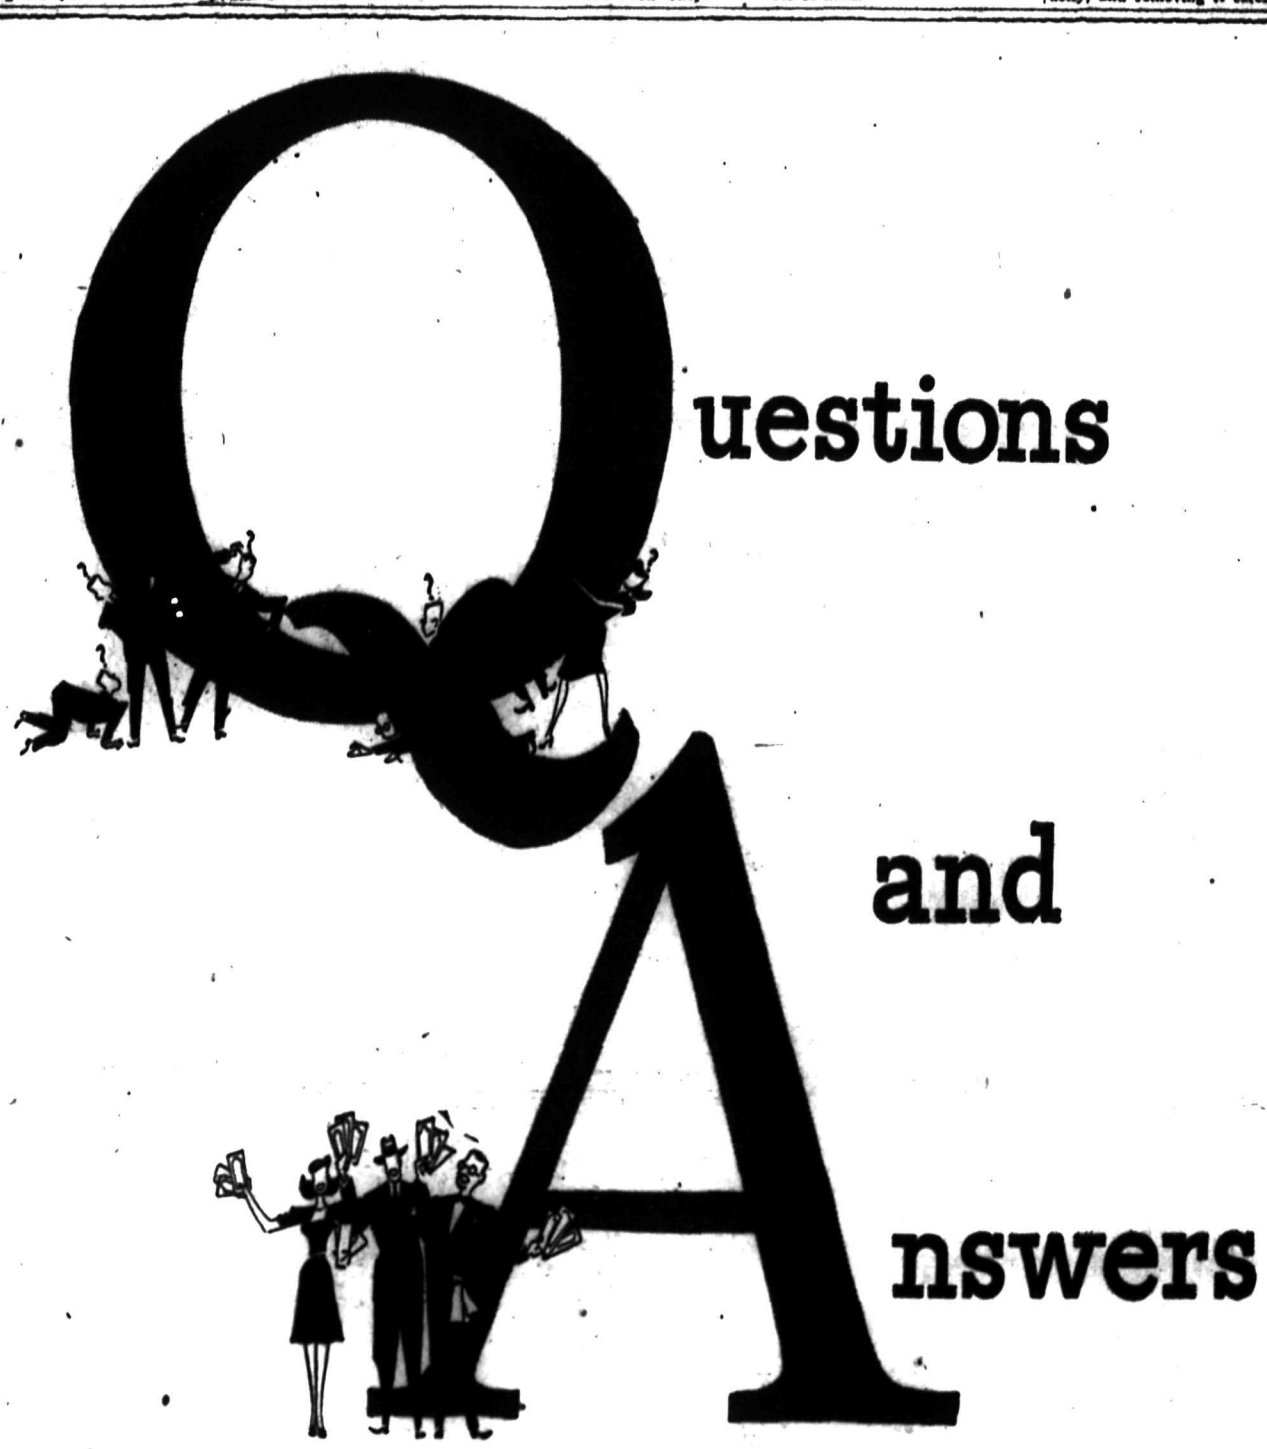
Boil potatoes in jackets until tender, but not, mushy. You may do this the evening before you are entertaining and leave in the refrigerator until next day. When you are preparing dinner and have the oven lighted, pare and cut each potato in thin slices crosswise. Place a thin slice of onion on each potato slice, sprinkle with salt and buttered bread crumbs, dot with butter and put in greased baking dish. Bake in moderate oven (350 deg. F.) for 30 mins.

WASHINGTON CREAM PIE

One cup cake flour, 1½ teaspoons baking powder, ¼ teaspoon salt, ½ cup sugar, ¼ cup butter or margarine, 1 egg, 1-3 cup milk, ½ teaspoon vanilla.

Grease bottom of 1 8-in. layer cake pan, line with waxed paper and grease paper. Sift flour, measure and sift again with baking powder and salt. Cream fat, add sugar gradually, creaming well as added. Add egg and beat until light and fluffy; add dry ingredients alternately with milk, beating after each addition until batter is smooth, but no longer. Over-beating will make cake fall. Add vanilla. Turn into prepared pan and bake in preheated oven at 350 deg. F. 30 to 35 min.

Let stand in pan for 5 min. Remove to cake rack, peel off paper and turn over, top side up. Leave until next night, when you will split it through the center, spread with prepared cream or lemon filling, and garnish top by sprinkling confectioner's sugar through a paper doily, and removing it carefully.



GENERAL

Q What are Canada Savings Bonds?

A Canada Savings Bonds are the successor to Victory Bonds and War Savings Certificates. They are your country's promise to return your money to you at any time and to pay you interest at an attractive rate.

Q Why are Canada Savings Bonds being offered?

A Because during the war, millions of Canadians learned the savings habit by buying Victory Bonds and War Savings Certificates. A recent survey shows that 82% of them want to keep on saving by a similar plan.

Q Is the Government selling Canada Savings Bonds just to raise money?

A No. Borrowing needs of the Government can be met by other types of loans. The main purpose of the Canada Savings Bond is to provide Canadians with a convenient way to continue this kind of saving and investment in peacetime.

Q Is there any limit to the amount of Canada Savings Bonds that one person may hold? If so, why?

A Yes. There is a limit of $2,000 for each individual, but each member of a family may hold bonds up to the limit.

Q What is the price of Canada Savings Bonds?

A 100%. That is, a $100 bond costs $100. If payment is not completed on or before November 15th, 1946, interest will be added to the purchase price.

Q In what denominations are Canada Savings Bonds available?

A $50, $100, $500 and $1,000.

CASHING OF BONDS

Q Can I cash my bond at any time before November 1st, 1956?

A Yes, any branch in Canada of any chartered bank will cash your bond immediately at full face value, plus interest at 2¾%, upon your identification as the registered holder.

Q Can Canada Savings Bonds be assigned or transferred?

A They can be cashed, but not assigned or transferred. This is necessary to prevent any individual from acquiring more than the authorized limit.

INTEREST COUPONS

Q What interest is paid on Canada Savings Bonds?

A 2¾%—payable yearly on November 1st from 1947 to 1956, by coupon cashable without charge at any branch in Canada of any bank.

Q Are interest coupons registered?

A No. They are payable to bearer.

REGISTRATION PROTECTION

Q Why is it necessary to register Canada Savings Bonds?

A Registration gives protection in case your bond is lost, stolen or destroyed. It is also the simplest way to ensure that individuals do not hold more than the $2,000 limit.

Q In whose name can Canada Savings Bonds be registered?

A They can be registered only in the name of one individual, adult or minor, up to the amount of the authorized limit.

Q Can Canada Savings Bonds registered in the name of a child be cashed?

A Yes. Banks are familiar with the necessary regulations.

Q Can Canada Savings Bonds be disposed of when registered in the name of a deceased person?

A Yes, any bank will supply the necessary information.

Q Can I replace my Canada Savings Bonds, if they are lost, stolen or destroyed?

A Yes. It is wise, however, to keep Canada Savings Bonds in a safe place, as you would any other valuable documents. In case of loss you should immediately notify the Bank of Canada, Ottawa, of the circumstances.

HOW, WHEN AND WHERE TO BUY

Q Where can I buy Canada Savings Bonds?

A At any branch of a bank or from an authorized investment dealer, stock broker, trust or loan company—or through the payroll savings plan if this is in operation at your place of employment.

Q How do I pay for Canada Savings Bonds?

A In any of the following 3 ways:

1. By payment in full at time of purchase.
2. By monthly instalments through a bank, trust or loan company.
3. By regular deductions from pay, where employers operate the Payroll Savings Plan.

8 out of 10 will buy again....

Mothers Don't Be Alarmed

VANCOUVER, Oct. 11 (CP) — Mothers—if Junior suddenly asks you for a nickel for some seaweed, don't be alarmed. The British Columbia Research Council has been at it again.

Investigations of the scientists, mainly the work of Ben Farrar of the Council and Robert Scagel, on loan from the Fisheries Research Board of Canada, indicate that "Algin," a jelly-like substance essential to a large variety of industries, can be extracted from marine plants.

Algin, formerly produced only in England and Eastern North America is used to make the thick, rich-tasting whipping cream used at soda fountains and bakeries. It gives a smoother toste to milk puddings, too the scientists say.

An Allied Naval Defeat

Surprise has been expressed now that the details of the Allied naval reverse off Savo Island four years ago are known, that the United States public has so quietly accepted the revelations. Landing parties had been put ashore on Tulagi, a tiny island off the big island of Florida, and on Guadalcanal Island, the U.S. Marines were making their first major effort to recover lost ground in the Pacific. Much depended on the outcome of the invasion effort. At all cost the landing parties had to be protected against raiding Japanese warships and planes.

Admiral Turner of the U.S. Navy was in supreme command. Under him was a squadron of six heavy cruisers, including the Australian warships, Canberra and Australia. The main task of the naval force was to protect the transports unloading troops and supplies. Almost midway between Florida and Guadalcanal was the fair-sized island of Savo. Rear-Admiral Turner placed the destroyer Blue to keep watch on the West side of Savo and the destroyer Ralph Talbot to stand on guard on the East side. Behind these destroyers on the East were the heavy cruisers Vincennes, Quincy and Astoria. To the South some miles away were the heavy cruisers Chicago and Canberra. Well back from these warships were the heavy cruiser Australia and the armed transport McCawley. The McCawley possessed little fighting value but was used as the flagship of the commander-in-chief. The Australia was the flagship of Vice-Admiral Crutchley of the British Navy, who was on loan to the Australian Navy and in command of the screen of Allied heavy cruisers.

Three days before the Japanese attack, the Marines had been put ashore on Tulagi and Guadalcanal. An air pilot reported that a Japanese force of heavy cruisers was approaching from a point 300 miles to the Northwest. Neither Rear-Admiral Turner nor Vice-Admiral Crutchley imagined the Japanese would dare to attack as their strength seemed scarcely equal to the occasion. A desperate onslaught should have been anticipated. Turner summoned Crutchley to his flagship and they discussed the situation. Crutchley remained on the McCawley. Turner said he thought the Japanese were headed for a point 125 miles away. But the Japanese commander, Rear-Admiral Kikawa, had been ordered to bore in and smash the invasion force, particularly the transports. He resolved to attack at night.

It was vital that the two desroyers on night patrol on either side of Savo Island should be vigilant but they were not told that an enemy task force was approaching. The cruiser captains knew of the Japanese movement but were given no special instructions. Crutchley thought his previous night's instructions called for all the necessary alertness. The captain of the Vincennes is said to have stressed the need of vigilance. All the crews were tired from long hours on duty.

The Japanese task force was extremely lucky. It got by the U.S. destroyer Blue, West of Savo Island, without being detected. It let fly with a host of torpedoes and sunk the cruiser Canberra and crippled the cruiser Chicago. The Japanese commander then sent three light vessels back Westward while he moved Northward to attack the Vincennes, Astoria and Quincy. These ships had had a little warning but not all their crews were at general quarters. In a few minutes these heavy cruisers were sunk or in a sinking condition.

Thus the American Navy suffered the worst defeat in its history. After winning a decisive victory, the Japanese admiral madly decided to retire Northward. This was due to his light vessels having separated from him and to a chance American shot having destroyed his operations room and precious charts. Had Mikawa pressed his advantage, there is little doubt that the Allied invasion forces would have been wiped out andthe ultimate defeat of Japan delayed.

The various Allied naval commanders backed one another and were vindicated by Admiral King, the naval Chief of Staff, who said, "Those two officers were in no way inefficient, much less at fault." A naval board of inquiry confirmed that view.

Demands for Capital in Britain Below Expectation

The two special financial organizations that were set up in 1945 (under the sponsorship but not the control of the Treasury) to help fill the two "gaps" in British industrial finance, have now reported on their first year's work. The first institution—Financial Corporation for Industry Ltd.—has a capital of $100 million and borrowing powers of $400 million, and deals with larger firms; the second—Industrial and Commercial Finance Corporation Ltd.—has a capital of $60 million and loan capital up to $120 million, and is designed to help small businesses in sums of from $20,000 to $800,000 which are too small for public issues and might not be forthcoming from banks.

In both cases activity in the first year has been less than was expected. The F.C.I. by March had made loans amounting only to £1,350,000 ($5.4 million) with a further $8 million of loans in the offing. Originally the F.C.I. was to have helped the basic industries like coal, steel, cotton, etc., which needed large sums for re-equipment; but the nationalization of coal, the projected partial nationalization of steel, and the plans of the Working Parties in other industries have either removed the need for or delayed decisions on private financing. Nevertheless the F.C.I. believes that as reconversion proceeds the demands for its services will increase from firms, outside the nationalization orbit, who wish to adopt mass production methods or introduce new manufacturing processes. Although the banks and the capital market are at present providing all the new capital for such purposes for which licences and permits can be obtained, there will be many useful projects which may not find finance on purely commercial terms.

The same is true of the I.C.F.C. The Chairman reported on June 20 that they had so far contracted to lend a little more than £2.5 million ($10 million). They were ready to make well secured advances at from 4 to 4½ per cent, repayable by installments over periods running up to 20 years or so; but a large part of their business would be to provide risk capital where competence of management and a sound business policy would be the chief security. Comment in Britain is that the stimulation of individual enterprise in this way will be a most useful function of the I.C.F.C.

Today's Horoscope

You love, work and play with enthusiasm and energy. You are proud and reserved, discreet in your associations, and strive to attain high ideals. Choose a mate born under your own sign, and you will be happy. Depression or the "blues" may assail you today if you have not had proper rest. It is best to take things slowly all day, the aspects are not conducive to clear thinking, so postpone difficult jobs until late in the day. The pace of living will be halted somewhat on this date, so fit your pace to that of the stars. All mental work, thought processes and speaking are under restrictive rays.

HOROSCOPE FOR SUNDAY

A birthday on this date means you have the qualities of a great leader. You can grasp any situation quickly and accurately, and your judgment is good. You have an excellent memory, learn readily and can command the attention and respect of others. You require a strong love and like attention. Today mental horizons are limited, so don't plan your future. Creative efforts get little planetary help. Government, legal and career matters all receive solar stimulation, so attend to them. The moon enters Gemini at 2:37 P. M. All types of activity slowed down at the week ended. Focus your thoughts on the Sabbath, devoting some of the evening hours to study, meditation and prayer.

W. M. J.—Could you tell me the directions for tanning deer hides? I would like to know the directions for tanning hides, using alum, saltpeter, salt and flour. Please tell me how to remove the hair with lime, and also how to do oil tanning.

In tanning hides, the hides should be very thoroughly soaked in order to soften them completely. For drier hides this will require a longer time than for salted. A heavy hide requires longer soaking than a skin. Thus it is impossible to set a certain length of time. After soaking, the hide is fleshed clean, and now is ready to go into the tan liquor, which is made up as follows: One part alum, one part salt, ¼ to ½ part japonica. These are dissolved in hot water in sufficient quantity to make a 35 degree liquor. The hide, according to the thickness, is left in the tan from five to 10 days. Skins are finished in from one to two days. The hide should be run in a drum for about two hours before going into tan, and again after that process. In tanning hides for robes, shaving them down is a main requisite for success, as it is impossible to get soft leather otherwise. After shaving, put back into the tan liquor again for a day or two, and hang up to dry. When good and hard, shave again, and lay away in moist sawdust and give a heavy coat of oil. When dry, apply a solution of soft soap; roll up and lay away in moist sawdust again. Run the hides on a drum or wheel until thoroughly soft. The composition of the tan liquor may be changed considerably. If the brownish tinge of the japonica be objectionable, that article may be left out entirely. The japonica has the effect of making the robe more able to resist water, as the alum and salt alone are readily soaked out by rain.

We are attempting to get information on your other questions.

B. E., Castlegar—How does one remove the squeak from shoes?

We suggest that the shoes be taken to a shoemaker, who has several methods of removing the squeak. One way is to part the soles, apply some talcum powder, then close the leather up again.

L. P., Cranbrook—Further to your question about sending parcels from Canada to Germany, D. G. says parcels are now permitted to be sent to German civilians in the British zone. Parcels must not weigh more than 11 pounds, and the value must not exceed $25. Food, clothing and soap may be sent. This information is confirmed by the Post Office.

Press Comment

By J. A. Hume, in Ottawa Citizen

"That's nonsense, pure tripe, just a smear to say, as has been alleged before this committee, that Donald Gordon, W.P.T.B. Chairman, and I are tied up with the steel employers," emphatically declared Labor Minister Humphrey Mitchell when he had his "day in court" as a witness before the Commons Industrial Relations Committee Friday afternoon.

"I wish to put on the record an emphatic denial of the allegation that the so-called 10-cent wage line was simply an adaptation of the limitation fixed by the offer of the (Stelco) employers," Mr. Mitchell asserted.

Observing that "the steel dispute hinges on the question of how much wage increases may be granted without creating a situation which would bring inflation" and that "the price of failure (to hold the price ceiling) is far too great for any chance-taking," Mr. Mitchell held that "anyone who heard Mr. Gordon's evidence could not be other than impressed by it and form the opinion they were hearing the honest view of a man who was putting all he had into his job of doing something which the Canadian people want done, namely preventing inflation.

"The committee will be doing what the vast majority of citizens of Canada wish done if it gives its influence in support of the efforts of the W.P.T.B. to maintain prices and prevent inflation," Mr. Mitchell averred, "rather than lend its support to the Canadian Congress of Labor policy of abolition of wage control and the consequent wrecking of price control."

Mr. Mitchell, in his 45-minute preliminary, prepared statement, "wondered" how much of the responsibility for "brushing aside" the authority of war labor boards (in the steel dispute) flows back to the Canadian Congress of Labor Wage Coordination Committee under Pat Conroy as Chairman. Questioned by L. Smith (P.C., Calgary), Mr. Mitchell said he felt the responsibility for brushing off and passing by the labor board machinery on the steel dispute was due to Mr. Conroy's committee.

Replying to questions by Mr. Smith about whether the liaison between WP.T.B. and war labor boards was adequate, Mr. Mitchell said, "Price and wage control, and you can't have one without the other, are not an exact science and they cannot be when you are dealing with human beings: at present, you can't jam the lid on prices and you can't jam the lid on wage increases; that's the reason I have favored evolution on both angles."

Mr. Mitchell reiterated his view that the judgement of Mr. Gordon, whose responsibility it was to control the price ceiling in the difficult years of war, should be followed now, rather than the judgement of union leaders, or other third-rate economists who might attempt to give advice contrary to that Mr. Gordon has given in such definite terms.

Etiquette Hints

Do you find yourself pushing and shoving when you are in a line about to board a train, street car or bus? Relax and "remember your manners" and you will probably get a seat just as easily, and you will not feel guilty of discourteous conduct.

Film Making Slows Down as Hollywood Labor Battle Enters Third Week

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD, Oct. 11 (AP) — Cameras were still grinding and stars were still glittering in front of them today as the Hollywood labor battle entered its third week. Film making has been slowed, but not stopped.

Some studios have been cagey about releasing production news, fearing that an optimistic report would bring bigger picket lines. But it is apparent that although not all studio jobs are being done, the "stuff" is getting on celluloid. And that's what pays off.

Selznick has postponed two epics, but most of the other studios are plodding along. How much new production can be started is problematical, although two films, a Maisie picture and the expensive "Forever Amber" got the starting gun this week.

The actors seem to be more concerned about the studio strife than any of the other workers. After a picture starts, anyone can be replaced but the actors. Some performers are even sleeping at their studios.

The Screen Actors Guild has instructed its members to pass the picket lines, but most of them do so reluctantly, some fearful of their personal safety.

At Jerry Wald's opening at the Paladium Frank Sinatra made his first public appearance since his break-up with his wife . . . Henry Fonda was bitten in the eye by an insect resulting in the temporary shutting down of production on the "A Time to Kill" set, costing thousands of dollars.

Pucksters' Flying Plans Hit Snag

TRAIL, B.C., Oct. 11 — Plans of Manager Fred Holger and his Los Angeles Ramblers to travel by plane to Trail in fulfilling their 1946-47 Western International League commitments came up against a snag today. The Tadanac Municipal Council ruled that the Columbia Gardens airport, in its present state could not accommodate an aircraft of the size necessary to transport a hockey team, its equipment ond managerial staff. No definite plans have yet been advanced regarding extension of the airport facilities.

Krizan Rejoins Leafs Today; New Prospects

Steve Krizan, husky Nelson Maple Leafs defenceman who has been trying out with Calgary Stampeders, returns to Nelson Saturday to rejoin the Leafs, Club officials said Friday night. The Club saw a speedy workou at the Civic, with about 20 showing up, including three Calgary boys newly in town.

Former Trail juvenile Red Koehle and Jack Prestley of Nelson also turned out. These two lads played on Nanaimo Clippers last year along with Swede Larson of Salmo and Bud Whitfield of Nelson, and all four are now seeking spots on the Leafian lineup. Jim Heuston of Balfour continued to work out in goal and his style was liked by Leo Atwell, who has been officiating at practices. Next week Atwell will be in Vancouver, and Len Bicknell will keep the sessions going.

Butch McDonald, who played with Kansas City last season, is expected to join the Leafs in about a week. Jack Kilpatrick will likely turn out next week. He has been under the doctor's care with sinus trouble.

Possibility of an exhibition game with Los Angeles Ramblers before the U.S. team leaves for its game at Calgary Thursday, is being discussed.

Managerial Kiss Dobson Reward; Cardinal Woe Fills Clubhouse

BOSTON, Oct. 11 (AP) — It's certainly nice to see the clubhouse crowded again," said the first Red Socker to reach the dressing room today after the American Leaguers had gained their three games to two World Series lead over the Cardinals.

"It certainly is," agreed Manager Joe Cronin. "This is one game I'm willing to talk about for hours."

But first Cronin zig-zagged his way to Joe Dobson and kissed that 29-year-old righthander on both cheeks before bestowing oral decorations for Dobson's four-hit pitching performance.

To Dobson, his 6-3 victory was the greatest thrill of his baseball career.

"I wasn't told I was going to start until two hours before game time, but I had a hunch and felt great about it," Dobson said.

BRECHEEN SUNDAY

BOSTON, Oct. 11 (AP) — The gloom in the St. Louis Cardinal dressing room was so thick you could cut it with a knife after the National League champs dropped a 6-3 decision to Boston Red Sox in the fifth game of the World Series today.

Manager Eddie Dyer, the second to come in, announced that Harry Brecheen, who pitched the four-hit shutout in St. Louis last Monday, would hurl the sixth game in St. Louis Sunday.

"There'll be a seventh game, too," Dyer said, "but I don't know who I will pitch. Dobson pitched a great game for Boston. It's either a feast or a famine." He was referring to the measley four hits the Red Birds made after the 20 of Thursday.

"The turning point of the game happened in the second inning," Dyer said. "Garagiola's arm still shows the spike mark and Ballanfant (plate umpire Lee Ballanfant of the National League) missed the tag on Partee. That was in the second inning with the score tied."

Catcher Joe Garagiola, who had his hitting streak stopped by Joe Dobson, was one of the last players to enter the dressing room. He was still complaining about the second inning play at the plate that gave the Red Sox a 2-1 lead.

"I had Partee (Catcher Roy Partee who scored on Don Gutteridge's second successive single) out with plenty to spare," said Garagiola. "I squawked to Ballanfant and even showed him the spike mark on my arm when he said I wasn't cut by Partee's spikes. He's still talking about the play after the game which proves to me that he still isn't sure."

F.A.C. Spends $1000 on Youth In Year; Clubhouse Mooted; Award Cups

Plans for the making of a larger and better Fairview Athletic Club were laid at the annual meeting and banquet of the Club at the Club Cafe last Thursday evening. Over 70 members, including players and executive as well as life members, sat down to the yearly banquet and afterwards laid plans for continued work and support.

Highlights of the dinner were presentations to Ron Macintyre, Roddy Carmichael, Wilfred Chrishop and members of the Club's bantam and pee wee baseball teams.

Perhaps one of the most important things for the furtherance of the prominent sports organization was Jimmy Ringrose's proposed Club house. It will be built with the idea of providing a meeting place for the Club. Also brought forward was Ross Fleming's and Manager Slim Porter's suggestion of the Club being incorporated under the Society Act.

SPEND $1000 ON YOUTH

Financial statement by Secretary-Treasurer Al Silverwood revealed that the Club had expended almost a thousand dollars in support of its kid sports and while receipts were considerably below expenditures only a small deficit remained, for which arrangements will be made to balance. President Van Linden in his annual report expressed the opinion that the Club had enjoyed a very successful season and that plans were being laid for an even better year. Manager Slim Porter, laid emphasis on the financial end, but was confident that the Club would enjoy a better season coming up. He paid tribute to Van Linden, Wilf Chrishop, Roddy Carmichael, Ron Macintyre, Ron Brown and Jimmy Todd.

Ross Fleming, veteran life member of the Club presented individual trophy cups to Ron Macintyre of the F.A.C. Juveniles and Roddy Carmichael of the Bantams in honor of their winning of the Wilfred Marquis Sportsmanship Trophy. Both players in receiving the Cups expressed their thanks to the Club and appreciation of the work being done by its executive members. In the absence of Wilf Chrishop, who resides at Fernie, Alec Ioanin accepted a Life Membership Scroll. Mr. Ioanin, himself a life member, spoke enthusiastically of the executives choice in selecting Mr. Chrishop for the honor, and further stated that "Kish", as he was known to the boys, was one of those quiet workers whose faith and loyalty to the Club was above all else. He gave generously and asked nothing in return. Manager Slim Porter distributed Club crests to the winning Pee Wee Athletics and the Bantam Yankees.

Alec Ioanin spoke humorously of the time 25 years ago when the Bogus Town F.A.C.'s won the City Junior baseball title. The spirit to win from those days was still being carried forward to present day Club members, concluded Ioanin.

Jimmy Ringrose, one of the originals and still prominent in kid hockey arbitrating, felt the time was ripe for the Club to secure or build a real Club house of its own. Coach Roy Anderson of the Club's Junior baseball squad felt that the boys had had a very good season of ball even though nosed out of the West Kootenay playdowns by Rossland. Johnny O'Genski, Honorary President, urged the boys to pay strict attention to their coaches.

Alec Ringrose, Jimmy Todd, Fritz Koehle, Bob Hallbauer, Bob McNabb, Johnny Langstaff, Jack Burgoyne, Bob Pitts, Denny Colman and Alec Clark all expressed thanks for the work being done by Van Linden and Slim Porter.

In a closing address, Ross Fleming urged the Club to build a Club house and to do it themselves for in doing so it gave the members something with which to keep busy. In keeping busy in a great Club like the Fairview Athletic it meant the building of better youth. He paid special tribute to Alec Ioanin, Slim Porter and Jimmy Ringrose.

The Spirit Was Willing—

It all started when "Tubby" Armstrong pounded his fist on the table and proceeded to enlighten those gathered about the table as to the extent of his physical prowesses. Armstrong came to Nelson with intentions of playing hockey but that 25 extra pounds placed in the wrong places was the impetus for seeking other employment.

To make a story short or at least less painful "Inventor" MacLean bet Armstrong five dollars that he couldn't run from Baker Street to a point high on Ward Street. The time for the event was set at 10 o'clock in the morning.

The morning was brisk, the air had the Fall tang which has that invigorating quality, if one believes what the adherents of fresh air and exercise say. Gathered at the corner of Ward and Baker were friends and of course Armstrong and MacLean, both with dollar signs twinkling in their eyes. Pulling off his loud overcoat and displaying a well filled out sweat shirt, Armstrong again assured the bystanders that victory was certainly his.

At the word go Armstrong began to tudge up Ward Street. At the Central School MacLean, who was following in a car, set up a great cry—it seemed that the racer was slowing down and MacLean pointed out quite emphatically that the terms ofthe bet said run, not walk. At the Fire Hall it was noticed that Armstrong wasn't picking 'em up and laying 'em down as fast as before. Of a sudden, with a doomed look Armstrong stopped and reached for his wallet . . . between the loud gasps could be heard Armstrong's comment . . . something about "when I was in shape."

Sox Joe Dobson Ties Up Cardinals 6-3

By GAYLE TALBOT

BOSTON, Oct. 11 (AP)—Joe Dobson, a poor but honest relation of Boston's pitching peerage, twirled himself a spectacular four-hit, eight-strikeout game today to halt the Cardinals, 6-3, and send the Red Sox flying back to St. Louis needing only one more victory to wrap up the World Series.

The big, moon-faced righthander, a last-hour choice of Manager Joe Cronin to pitch today's vital contest, fairly covered himself with baseball glory. He did not permit a single earned run, all three St. Louis scores crossing the dish as an outgrowth of errors in the second and ninth innings by Shortstop Johnny Pesky.

While the Cards, who only yesterday tied a World Series record by smashing 20 hits, were swinging futilely at Dobson's sharp curves, the Sox came back to life and belted three National League moundsmen for 11 blows, including their almost daily four-bagger, by Leon Culbertson.

In every frame except the third the lead-off Boston batter slammed a hit of some sort, and it was due solely to some lionhearted slinging by Alpha Brazle in the clutches that the Sox did not run up a higher count.

RESPECTS YORK

Three times Brazle, who relieved Howie Pollet in the first frame with only one out and a run already across, faced the illustrious Ted Williams with men on the sacks. Twice he sent Ted down swinging at third strikes, and once he made him pop a weak foul to the catcher.

One of the game's more amazing sights was to see Brable pitch to Williams as though he owned him, and then on three occasions follow up with an intentional pass to Rudy York, who blasted homers in the first and third series contests.

Pollet, the victim of York's 10th-inning swipe in the opener at St. Louis, pitched to only four Red Sox before Manager Eddie Dyer brought out the hook.

Don Gutteridge, who played second for the Sox in place of Bobby Doerr, who still was suffering with the headache which forced him to quit yesterday's game in the last inning, greeted Pollet with a sharp single through second base, and Pesky followed with a liner into right.

Dom DiMaggio rapped into a forceout, but Williams, braving the Cards' "overbalanced" lineup in right, came through handsomely with a sock over Red Schoendienst that scored Pesky and that was a day's work for Pollet.

Brazle from that point on pitched splendid ball, almost matching Dobson.

The Cards had tied it up at 1-1 in the second on Pesky's first error with two down, which was followed by Harry Walker's screaming double down the leftfield line.

Roy Partee, Sox relief catcher, led off the second with a rap into centre. Dobson laid down a bunt, and both runners were safe on Whitey Kurowski's throw to second.

Gutteridge came through with his second straight single, a hot shot right at Terry Moore in centrefield. Partee, off with the crack of the bat, rounded third like a race horse and tore for home as Moore got off a perfect throw to the plate. Catcher Joe Garagiola grabbed the ball and threw himself at Partee, just as the latter went into his slide.

FIND FAULT WITH UMP

It was close, but Umpire Lee Ballanfant signalled safe, and the fun began. Garagiola and several other Cards raved loud and long, and when the inning was over Manager Dyer again cornered the arbiter and expostulated angrily near the plate.

As it turned out, with Dobson limiting the Cards to a brace of hits for the next seven innings, the play wasn't so important, but it might, at that, have been the turning point. The crowd of 35,982 booed Dyer lustily for his antics.

Culberson's four-master in the sixth made it 3-1, and the Sox sewed it up in the next with a three-run splurge on doubles by DiMaggio and Pinky Higgins, sandwiched between a couple of intentional walks and an error by the usually immaculate Marty Marion—his second in two days.

Before the Sox took off on a special plane for St. Louis, Cronin said he would pitch Dave (Boo) Ferriss, the crack righthander who throttled the Cards here two days back, in the sixth game. Dyer had Harry (The Cat) Brecheen, four-hit victor of the second game, ready to throw back at the American Leaguers. It promised to be the pitching duel of the Series.

N. H. L. Training Camp News

When Coach Frank Boucher decided to alternate two goalies during the course of play as his New York Rangers hobbled along in the National Hockey League cellar last season, there was plenty of critics from the fans, some of whom also thought it unfair that one club should hold two topflight netmen.

But the heckling never bothered Boucher and the logic of his judgment may pay off early in the current campaign. Just after he'd named Chuck Rayner as his starter, the goalie stopped a puck with his nose in practice at Winnipeg and suffered fractures in two places.

How long Rayner will be on the sidelines in questionable but Jim Henry, other half of the Rangers' net duo, will see duty for the "important" series with Chicago Black Hawks in Winnipeg Friday and Saturday. The Blueshirts are most anxious to trim the Hawks because they figure it was pre-season durbings administered by Chicago that set them off on the wrong foot last year.

Boucher says both Rayner and Henry receive major league salaries and "why should I give a top-notch goalie to another club when I might need him for my own team some time?"

George Mara, promising Toronto amateur, who left the Rangers' camp due to the illness of his mother, wrote Boucher that he was sorry he had to pass up his chance to make the big-time but that his mother was still not well enough for him to leave Toronto.

Conny Smyth is always coming up with surprises in Toroto Maple Leafs camp but he hit the jackpot when he announced at St. Catharines camp that Harry Watson would play left wing instead of defence. This move followed weeks of ballyhoo which labelled the former Detroit Red Wing forward as the saviour of a wobbly Toronto defence setup.

But behind Smyth's sudden move was the encouraging showing of two young defencemen — Jimmy Thomson and Gus (Nugget) Mortson. Watson will play on a line with Syl Apps at centre and Wild Bill Ezinicki on the right boards. Said Conn: "I feel for the first time since camp opened that we have a hockey team out there."

Out West it's getting to be a habit for minor leaguers to down NHL clubs. Kansas City Pla-Mors started the fad by trimming Chicago Black Hawks and last night New Haven Ramblers edged out their parent club, New York Rangers, 4-3.

Boss Art Ross of Boston Bruins is happy today about completing a deal with Hershey Bears to reestablish a "working agreement" on exchanging hockey players. He does not plan to pluck any players from the Bears on short notice unless the Bruins are in dire need.

Frederick C. Crawford, former President of the National Association of Manufacturers in the United States, recently said: "Shakespeare wrote, 'All the world's a stage and all the men and women merely players.' I want to all, all except newspapermen, for they must look on and report events."

Prime Minister Attlee recently stated: "In a democratic approach to the problems of the world there is no freedom more important than freedom of the press."

MONEY BY-LAW FOR $290,000

Questions and Answers

Regarding the proposed Money By-Law for $290,000.00 2½% 15 year Serial Bonds to cover the cost of a new Hydro-Electric Unit at the Power Plant, purchase tie-in equipment between the City lines and the West Kootenay Power and Light Company Limited, and repair the existing units, at a total cost of approximately $412,000.00.

QUESTION: What was the amount authorized under By-Law No. 890 dated February 1, 1940?

ANSWER: $150,000.00 4½% 20 year Sinking Fund Debentures were issued for repairs to dam and forebay and to instal a new unit, of which $122,000.00 is on hand. $28,000.00 was spent in excavating rock and concrete at the dam and in the forebay, sealing all fissures found in rocks, placing concrete on North side of forebay and rock wall joining rock at entrance of forebay to dam, installing sluice gates and stoplog guides to permit dewatering of forebay and fixing intakes to four pits.

QUESTION: Why was a new unit not installed in 1940 with the $122,000.00?

ANSWER: The war was in progress and it was impossible to procure a new unit or competent engineers to prepare plans and install same.

QUESTION: Is a new unit necessary?

ANSWER: Yes. The rated capacity of existing units are as follows:

No. 1	750 K.V.A.
No. 2	1000 K.V.A.
No. 3	2650 K.V.A.
	4400 K.V.A.

If either of the units are out of service the plant will be overloaded before next year. If only the smaller unit was shut down then the remaining two would only have a capacity of 3650 K.W. at 100% power factor. The necessity of a new unit in 1940 was based on the 1939 figures.

	Peak Load	Generated
1939	2625 K.W.	10,749,050 K.W.H.
1943	2633 K.W.	11,705,500 K.W.H.
1944	2900 K.W.	12,526,950 K.W.H.
1945	3360 K.W.	13,656,150 K.W.H.

If this increase has taken place during the war years when there was a real shortage of both industrial and domestic appliances and line extensions could only be made with Government consent, it is logical to expect an enormous increase in the use of domestic appliances and line extensions not even considered in 1940. In the industrial field the load will increase some 200 H.P. before the end of the year and therefore the addition of a larger unit than that contemplated in 1940 must be installed if the City is to give an efficient service in the future.

QUESTION: Will the new By-Law increase taxes?

ANSWER: No. The City will be retiring debentures issued for No. 3 Unit amounting to $240,000.00 in 1946 and the City has set aside sinking fund requirements to date for the $122,000.00 issued in 1940 during the last 3 years, and the increased consumption should not only cover fixed charges on the proposed issue but provide the cost of bringing lines up to standard and also the necessary transformers required to carry the ever increasing load.

QUESTION: Who can vote on the proposed By-Law?

ANSWER: This profitable utility belongs to the owners of property within the City. Nelson Gymnastic Experts Show In Pro Rec Activity

Johnny Irvine, back in Nelson after a lengthy tour with the Clyde Beatty Circus, displays one of the stunts he did atop a 30-foot pole balanced on the head of another performer in the circus. He had long been a member of Ed Kelter's Pro Rec senior men's class.

Canuck Seeks Share

Frank W. Mills of Montreal is one of two Canadians seeking a share in the $8,000,000 estate left by the late David B. Mills, of Montclair, N. J. Mills left his money to the Davella Mills Foundation, a philanthropic trust. Mrs. Margaret Horne, of Vancouver, a cousin, is also seeking a share in the estate.

Halloween Hat

Actress Madge Meredith models the bewitching headpiece, ideal for Hallowe'en. Its creator threw into the boiling pot such ingredients as night black gabardine and broomstraw yellow feathers (for the crowning feature), and put a swoop into the brim to facilitate easier riding of whirlwinds on Hallowe'en Night. Need we say more?

Skeleton Found

Finding of the armless skeleton of a teen-age girl in a thicket near Towson, Md., may clear up the mystery of the disappearance of Jane Hildreth, a 17-year-old banker's daughter, above. Miss Hildreth vanished while vacationing in Baltimore from classes at Northampton (Mass.) School for Girls in December, 1944. Her father was en route to Baltimore to make positive identification. Maryland police are investigating possibility of foul play.

MELBOURNE, Australia (CP) — There's a professional finish to the 4000 tons of dripping shipped by members of the Victoria Housewives' Association to overseas countries needing fats. The Association's clubrooms are now a pocket edition of a factory, where fat contributed by housewives throughout the state is clarified, rendered and canned on the spot with a handy little home canning machine

AUCKLAND, N. Z., (CP) — A New Zealand syndicate of ex-servicemen has bought a tank landing-craft and a gun landing-craft from the Royal Navy and will use them for trading on the New Zealand coast. The syndicate consists mainly of former naval officers.

It sent one of its members to Singapore to buy the craft. They have begun operations by loading urgently needed steel cargoes in Australia on their delivery voyage, for transport to New Zealand.

The ships will carry 500 to 600 tons of freight. Because of their shallow draught they are very suitable for operating small harbors which offer difficulties to most ships. Several offers have already been made for their services.

The ships will be manned as far as possible by former naval crews.

Market Trends

VANCOUVER — Mines continued to slip slightly on the stock ex- change while oils were unchanged and industrials were quiet. Sales— 23,050 shares.

LONDON — Stocks in the market were firmer, encouraged by the im- provement in gilt-edge shares, gen- erally up ¼.

NEW YORK — Stocks generally extended their recovery push in the market although buying lacked the aggressiveness of Thursday's late rally.

TORONTO — Buying demand ta- pered off late in the exchange ses- sion and part of the midday gains were dropped in mining groups. In industrials the heavy demand for papers at rising prices was the fea- ture, and these retained their gains. Aggregate volume around 850,000 shares was off narrowly from the total for the previous session. The market will observe Thanksgiving day.

MONTREAL — Sparked by pa- pers, all pivotal groups moved up in the indices in trading on the stock exchange and curb market ex- cept golds, which were lower.

Commerce Chamber Urges National Highway System, Vigorous Immigration Plan, Tax Review

By JACK AVESON

WINNIPEG, Oct. 11 (CP)—Moving swiftly toward the close of its major business sessions, the 17th annual meeting of the Canadian Chambes of Commerce last night studied two prophecies of what Canada's fate might be in any future war.

The warnings, by William K. Jackson, President ofthe United States Chamber of Commerce, and Mr. Justice T. C. Davis, former Canadian High Commissioner to Australia, were delivered in a day which saw the Chamber approve a vigorous immigration policy and diversification of farm crops.

The day also witnessed approval of resolutions urging review of income tax and excess profit laws, construction of a national system of highways, development of direct shipping services out of Canadian ports, irrigation and other matters.

Mr. Jackson told the nearly 500 delegates that aggressive forces were on the loose in the world and that Canadian-United States military cooperation had become a matter of "irreducible necessity." In the world today "neither your country nor mine can afford to relax its vigilance nor neglect its defences."

The United Nations still held the world's hope for permanent peace but that the same time "as practical peoples in a time of danger we cannot and dare not evade the realities. We must face up to the harsh truth that aggressive forces are on the loose in the world."

Mr. Justice Davis said Canada ran a greater risk than most nations of becoming involved in any future war.

"Our political associations, our geographical associations, inevitably place this nation in such a position. If we accept that fact then it must naturally follow that we are as much interested as any nation on the face of the earth that international policies shall be adopted and pursued which will eliminate the threat of war."

The brief on immigration approved by the meeting called for a "much greater population" by selection. If the opportunity were ignored, it warned, it might not come again.

Johnny Canuck Writing to His Gov't Does Fret Over Address

By GEORGE KITCHEN
Canadian Press Staff Writer

OTTAWA, Oct. 11 (CP)—Almost every time John Q. Public sits down to write a letter to the Government the boys of 42 Besserer Street in Ottawa get a headache.

That's because John Q. usually doesn't address his Government mail correctly and the boys at No. 42 the Ottawa City Post Office, have to tax their memories and their talents to make sure the letter reaches the right official in the right department.

They get a lot of mail for the Government in the big grey-stone building, so much that they have a special division with a staff of 28 who do nothing but sort out letters and parcels for Government departments. In fact, this is one place where the Government is just about its own best customer.

The run-of-the-mill stuff, from outside Government branches, companies and other people who deal regularly with the administration, gets to its proper place in proper order but its the little guy who's taking his first stab at governmental correspondence who produces the grey hairs you see around the division.

Likely as not, he'll simply address his letter to "The Government, Ottawa" and some, with far greater ambitions, have sent their to "The King" or "The Queen" or "The Royal Princesses."

F. B. Duguay, brisk district director of postal services for Ottawa, estimates that the division handles anywhere from 10,000 to 30,000 pieces of Government mail a day.

Official mail going out from Ottawa through the post office runs around 28,000,000 pieces a month now compared with 10,000,000 before the war and nearly 32,000,000 in 1943, the peak year. Much of the bulk is made up in checks covering periods and war gratuities.

NO A-BOMBS IN BRITAIN

WASHINGTON, Oct. 11 (CP) — President Truman yesterday told a press conference that Britain has no atomic bombs and that no stock pile of the weapons is being created there.

He was asked about a persistent report that atomic bombs had been sent to the United Kingdom. He sharply replied they have not.

Diplomats expressed belief that Mr. Truman's statement might help to relieve tension abroad.

TO EX-SERVICE MEN, AND OTHERS INTERESTED

It is extremely important that all ex-service men who are not property owners, but who have paid poll tax or business tax, get on the Municipal voters' list so they can vote in the December elections. To get on this voters' list it is necessary that you fill in a declaration form at the City Hall to the effect that you have paid the tax, or that you are exempt. Those who are exempt such as veterans discharged medically unfit or have disability pensions are also entitled to vote. These declarations must be made before October 31st. By payment of the $2.00 road tax, wives also can qualify to vote. While the Legion is not in politics, we do strongly urge all veterans to use their vote and influence in support of those candidates who have shown they are interested in the general welfare of the ex-service man, particularly with regard to veteran's housing in this city.
