Indians Repel Kashmir Invaders

Land-Air Offensive Cracks Main Column of Pathan Moslems; Clamp Down on Arms Smuggling

SRINAGAR, India, Nov. 7 (Reuters)—The main column of Pathan Moslem invaders in Kashmir was reported tonight to be "reeling back, groggy and disorganized" after Indian Army troops, supported by armor, light artillery and fighter planes, launched a dawn offensive against 800 to 1000 tribesmen, five miles West of Srinagar, the capital.

The invaders had dug themselves in across the road to Baramula, invader-held township 20 miles further West.

"We outflanked the raiders, fought them in a pocket and mowed them down," a military spokesman said.

He added that "300 casualties on the raiders would be a conservative estimate."

Ground-air co-ordination was so close that Indian troops heard screams from tribesmen when a haystack behind which they had taken shelter was set on fire by machine-gun fire from Spitfires.

MOVE AGAINST ARMS SMUGGLING

The Madras Government announced today it had issued "very strict instructions" to authorities in districts adjoining Hyderabad State to guard against arms smuggling and prevent "infiltration of undesirable elements and influences," a cable from Madras reported.

Five Northern districts of Madras Province border on Hyderabad, India's premier state, whose Moslem ruler, The Nizam, has declared his state's independence and is negotiating about accession to the Dominion of India.

Reports from Manmad in Bombay Province, near the Northern border of the Nizam's Dominions, said 12 armed policemen belonging to Hyderabad had been arrested for being in the town "without any satisfactory reason."

Job Hunters Outnumber Vacancies Here

Unplaced applicants for jobs at the National Employment and Unemployment Insurance Commission offices at Nelson outnumbered vacancies by 30 during October. Of the 85 unplaced, 71 were male, 14 female. There were 38 vacancies for male and 17 for female vacancies.

Claims for unemployment insurance this year are about half the number handled last year. In October this year, 44 claimants were drawing unemployment insurance against 83 during the same period in 1946.

Out-of-work allowance was paid to one claimant this year as compared with 22 in October last year.

Majority of the male vacancies listed were for laborers, while female vacancies were for kitchen workers and waitresses. Mine and lumber camps still operating all report full crews, possibly resulting from seasonal closing of smaller logging and mining operations.

NEW WESTMINSTER, B.C., Nov. 7 (CP).—Employment officials here today were reported alarmed over an influx of Prairie residents to the Fraser Valley in search of employment.

Employment office officials reported about 60 per cent of the male and 30 per cent of the female registrations are from outside British Columbia. Most of them are said to be arriving in old model automobiles and without funds, seeking work on farms and in sawmills.

Wilkinson Proposed For Member of Labor Relations Board

VICTORIA, Nov. 7 (CP)—George A. Wilkinson, Secretary of the Victoria and District Trades and Labor Council, has been proposed by the Trades and Labor Council Unions of the Province as a member for the Labor Relations Board which Labor Minister Gordon S. Wismer is planning to set up shortly.

Other members to the five-man Board suggested by the T.L.C. were H. W. Watts of the Building Council and Robert McCullock of the Milk Drivers' Union.

Meanwhile the C.C.L. Unions of the Province, through the B. C. Federation of Labor, have proposed three nominees—Harold Pritchett, District President of the International Woodworkers of America; Harvey Murphy, of the International Union of Mine, Mill and Smelter Workers, and Alex Mckenzie, C.C.L. officer.

It is understood that the Board will be composed of two representatives of Labor, two of industry and a Chairman. Six names have been proposed by the B. C. branch of the Canadian Manufacturers' Association, but the names have not yet been released.

PROVISIONAL PARLIAMENT FOR WESTERN GERMANY IF BIG-4 TALKS FAIL

LONDON, Nov. 7 (AP)—Authoritative Government quarters said today that Britain and the United States have tentatively agreed to unite Western Germany politically as well as economically early next year if the four-power Foreign Ministers Council fails to settle the peace terms.

WOULD TEACH STUDENTS HOW TO DRIVE CARS

VICTORIA, Nov. 7 (CP) — The Provincial Cabinet today heard representations for the setting up of a program to train British Columbia High School students how to drive cars.

The representations were made by a group representing the New Westminster Junior Board of Trade, the B. C. Automobile Club, New Westminster School Board, and Vancouver and New Westminster Traffic Association.

Polish Vets May Now Buy Own Farms

OTTAWA, Nov. 6 (CP) —Polish veterans brought to Canada last year as farm laborers now may buy or rent their own farms, Labor Minister Mitchell said today.

The Minister said the new arrangement is in line with the general plan for which the Poles were taken to Canada—to increase food production in the Dominion.

Almost two-thirds of the 2876 Polish veterans of the Second World War brought to Canada last November still are working on the original farms to which they were assigned.

"It is felt that those veterans who have so fully cooperated should be given some freedom of choice of the farm on which they will be employed during the second year of their two-year contract," Mr. Mitchell said. As a result, they will be allowed to make arrangements for employment in the second year with farmers of their own choice.

Says Lesser Verdict Of Jury Hard to Understand

VANCOUVER, Nov. 7 (CP) — John Kneller, 26-year-old truck-driver convicted of manslaughter, and his common-law wife, Eva Boucher, 21, today walked down the steps of the Appeal Court on their way to prison, after Chief Justice Sloan denied to interfere in their sentences which will send them behind bars for 15 and five years respectively.

Tried on a murder charge following the death last June 17 of aged Chinese cannery foreman Harry Woo, the pair subsequently were convicted on a reduced manslaughter charge.

"It is difficult to understand on what grounds the jury brought in a verdict of manslaughter and not murder," Justice Sloan told the burly Kneller.

Round the World Fliers to Travel Home Via Edmonton

ANCHORAGE, Alaska, Nov. 7 (AP).—Pilots of the two 'round-the-world midget planes announced today that they would return to the United States via Edmonton, Alta., instead of attempting to fly non-stop to Los Angeles from Annette Island.

Pilots George Truman, Los Angeles, and Clifford Evans, Washington, D.C., said their revised route would take them via the Alaska Highway. Because of unfavorable weather, they do not expect to start the flight until Sunday or Monday.

Scheduled stops will be Edmonton, Spokane, Seattle, Portland and Eugene,—and then southward to Los Angeles.

Defends Mosquitos

LONDON, Nov. 7 (CP)—An Air Ministry spokesman said today that the wooden Mosquito bomber, used by the R.C.A.F. and R.A.F. during the war, "was one of the many weapons which helped defeat night raids" and "I should think on the whole they were exceedingly satisfactory."

(Testifying before the United States Senate War Investigating Committee examining multi-million dollar war contracts given the Howard Hughes Aircraft Company, Ralph R. Graichen, Aeronautical Engineer for the U.S. Air Force, said Thursday that some 13 of the British-designed and Canadian-built planes were imported from Canada during the war and found "unsatisfactory.")

QUESTION 10 IN HUNT FOR SLAYER

Father Feels Death May Bring Training For Unfortunates

COMPANION SEEN

TORONTO, Nov. 7 (CP)—Police were disclosed tonight to have questioned 10 men while the city-wide hunt continued for the slayer of Arlene Anderson, 13-year-old cerebral palsy cripple whose body was found in a field near her home Thursday.

Police said the 10 men were picked up in various sections of the city although the hunt still centred in the area where the child's body was found. The girl had been raped and strangled. She disappeared from outside her home Sunday while waiting for the return of her father, a railway employee, from a union meeting.

CHECK PERVERTS

Since discovery of the body, police have conducted a house-to-house search in the neighborhood for clues to the slayer's identity. Files also have been checked for the whereabouts and movements of known and suspected sadistic perverts.

Still underway was a search for a man seen with the Anderson girl Sunday night, a few hours after she disappeared from her home.

"It might never have happened if she had had some training and some association with people," said Mr. Anderson. "It's strange and it's hard for me to understand just now, but maybe some good may come of it all. Maybe now something will be done for other children like Arlene who are so helpless without training that they can be victimized by anyone."

VIOLENT DEATHS STUN PARENT

BRANTFORD, Ont., Nov. 7 (CP) —Stunned by the official disclosure her two infant children apparently had died by violence 14 months apart, Mrs. George Draper said tonight neither she nor her husband had ever harmed the children.

Crown Attorney F. E. D. Wallace said earlier an examination showed that Nancy Carol Draper and Betty Ann Draper had died of fractured skulls. Nancy Carol was five weeks old when she died in Brantford General Hospital Oct. 24. Betty Ann was six months old at the time of her death Aug. 24, 1946.

Crown Attorney Wallace said an inquest would be held.

"I know, God knows, and my children know I didn't do anything to them; neither did George," said Mrs. Draper. "My husband and I wondered what caused the death of Nancy Carol. George signed the paper authorizing an autopsy. Apparently nobody knew what she died of, and George said he would like to know. The nurse asked him if he would like an autopsy performed and George said he would and signed the paper."

Mrs. George Draper, Sr., said she was sure Betty Ann died of pneumonia.

Magistrate Under Fire of Coast Church Presbytery

VANCOUVER, Nov. 7 (CP) — Magistrate Mackenzie Matheson today came under fire from the Vancouver Church Presbytery, which asked that the Magistrate be "called to account" for remarks he made in connection with a recent liquor trial here.

At the conclusion of the trial, in which three defendants were acquitted, Magistrate Matheson criticized the police, saying, "I think they could find other things to do than try to convict these men (the defendants) of the illegal sale of liquor."

The Senior Police Court Magistrate directed the remark at police officers who participated in a raid on a Vancouver "penthouse" night club, and subsequently gave prosecution evidence at the trial of the three men involved.

In a resolution which requested the Provincial Government to take action, the Presbytery declared:

"We are of the opinion that action should be taken by the Government to call the Magistrate to account for the uncalled-for criticism of police officers in the performance of their duty, and the evident indifference toward enforcement of the liquor law, revealed in his comment on the case."

Advised of the church's action, Magistrate Matheson said:

"I have no statement to make. I reserve my defence for a higher court."

80-Year-Olds Rouse Others When Flames Threaten

VANCOUVER, Nov. 7 (CP) — Presence of mind of an 80-year-old couple averted possible tragedy here today as they aroused 17 tenants of a blazing rooming house in time for them all to flee to safety while flames caused $3000 damage.

Aroused by the crackling fire adjacent to their room, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Desormeau rushed to the room occupied by Miss Norma Brown, 19, who had left for work just prior to the blaze.

An "explosion of fire" hurled them back from the roaring inferno. After arousing 17 other tenants, the elderly couple stumbled out of the house.

The suite of the Desormeau couple, Miss Brown, and three others were damaged by the blaze.

Hope Fades for Plane Crash Survivors . . .

Battle Snow, Rugged Terrain in Hunt

Four crews, battling adverse conditions and a fading hope of finding the R.C.A.F. photographic plane, believed down in the Edgewood district following its disappearance on a Calgary-Penticton run three weeks ago, pressed deeper into the rugged Burrell and Cranberry Creeks vicinity this week to probe into the 50,000 acre area believed to be holding the secret of the aircraft.

Hope, which rose with reported sighting of flares, thought to be fired by living members of the plane's passengers, is receding with the advent of heavy snowfalls over the entire area. Search parties have been wading through deep drifts and supplies had to be dropped in by plane. A triangulation taken on a flare reported by several citizens in the valley was worked over by two R.C.A.F. aircraft to its theoretical source to no avail.

Daily radio contact has been kept up with two of the search parties, but no reports have been received from two independent groups for two days. It is expected that the crews will come into camp sometime Saturday to give word of their efforts.

At present there are three base camps from which the parties are carrying out their search. All three are located in the vicinity where the flares were believed to originate. Supply lines leading to the camps have been stretched out and made more difficult to travel with each new snowfall.

Men hardened to climbing in the mountains are showing signs of fatigue. Some have been out with search parties for the three weeks. The terrain, precarious enough in fair weather, has become a hell's area with the coming of Winter. Eighteen miles covered in one day by natives familiar with the lay of the country is the record distance travelled by the searchers.

Despair is replacing early optimism. It is now three full weeks ago that the plane disappeared. Any food carried on the aircraft would have been used up during the first week. Freezing temperatures have occurred in the mountains almost nightly. Chances of any of the persons finding their way out of the unfamiliar country have been cut down by snow now over four feet deep in the higher regions.

Arson Attempt Uncovered at Slocan School

Provincial Police said Friday they are investigating what is believed to have ben an arson attempt on the Hills' or Hunter Siding School near Rosebery in the Slocan District. The attempted firing was unsuccessful, and little damage resulted.

The school's teacher, Mrs. V. M. Papov, discovered the plot around 8 p.m. on Oct. 31 when she returned to the school to check on whether the radio had been turned off. She found devices left for the firing, and spatterings of blood, caused presumably when the intruder was injured in breaking a window pane to gain entrance. A slow-burning fuse led to bottles of gasoline.

Her husband informed Provincial Police, and officers of the New Denver detachment investigated.

From evidence at the scene, it was "definitely established" that arson had been attempted.

King of Greece Has Fever

ATHENS, Nov. 7 (AP) — King Paul I of Greece is suffering from paratyphoid fever, his court announced today.

The disease resembles typhoid fever.

King Paul, 45, succeeded to the throne of Greece on the death of his brother, King George II, last April 1.

Plan English Bay Remembrance

VANCOUVER, Nov. 7 (CP) — While mourning Canadians bow their heads in humble tribute to the dead of two world wars next Tuesday, floral wreaths will float on the waters of English Bay near the Royal Canadian Air Force Jericho station, marking the first floating Armistice Day in Canada's history.

The memorial service, similar to those held by Royal Yacht Clubs in England, is being held by the local organization. Rev. J. Noel Bracher of the Church of England Diocese will read the service from the deck of one of many craft which will spot the harbor.

Missing Searchers Turn Up

CLINTON, B.C., Nov. 7 (CP).—Two members of a search party, missing since Tuesday, returned to Canim Lake, today.

They did not know the man they were looking for, Wilfrid Johnson, Vancouver hunter, had been found, and said they were unable to reach a telephone to notify the main search party of their whereabouts.

2224 Nelsonites X-Rayed To Date

Approximately 2224 Nelsonites and residents in the immediate vicinity have been examined for lung infections by the Travelling Tuberculosis Clinic in the five days it has been here. Thursday 651 persons were X-rayed, and 690 on Friday.

Un-X-rayed citizens will have their last chance to do so Wednesday, final day of the unit's visit. Those who have not been tested have been urged to call at the Armories Saturday and Monday between the hours of 9 a.m. to noon, 1 p.m. to 4 p.m. or 7 p.m. to 9 p.m., or on Wednesday.

The unit will not operate on Tuesday, Remembrance Day.

Lord Mottistone, Who "Lived Dangerously", Dies

LONDON, Nov. 7 (CP).—Lord Mottistone, soldier, author and politician whose motto was "live dangerously," died today of bronchitis at the age of 79.

He began his army career in the South African War where he won the D.S.O. and five clasps to the Queen's medal. He was Minister of War from 1912 to 1914.

The youngest son of Sir Charles Seely, he was best known to the public as Maj.-Gen. Jack Seely. He sat in Parliament from 1900 to 1922.

He held a variety of Cabinet posts during the First World War and was five times mentioned in dispatches.

For 16 years prior to 1943 he was Chairman of the National Savings Committee.

He was the author of a number of books including "Adventure," "Forever England" and "Paths of Happiness."

Lord Mottistone commanded the Canadian Cavalry Brigade in France in the First World War and to the day of his death his admiration for his comrades from the Dominion remained intense.

Strive to Get Line To Crippled Ship

Three Ships Rush to Aid of Wave-Battered Freighter; Four Killed by U.S. Tornadoes

MUSKEGON, Mich., Nov. 8 (Saturday) (AP)—The United States Coast Guard reported at 12:30 a.m. EST today that a railroad car ferry had come within 200 feet of the crippled freighter Jupiter, struggling in stormy Lake Michigan.

The Coast Guard said the Chesapeake and Ohio Railroad's car ferry, City of Saginaw, had reached the Jupiter's vicinity and was trying to get a line to her.

At the time, the Jupiter was reported seven miles Southwest of Ludington, Mich., and wallowing in waves from a 40-mile-an-hour wind.

Virtually helpless, the 346-foot craft with 28 aboard struggled five miles offshore as two Coast Guard vessels and the railroad car ferry battled high waves in an effort to bring aid.

FORMER "GHOST SHIP"

The Jupiter, known as a "ghost ship' 'earlier this year when the Martime Union (A.F.L.) picketed her port, was wallowing in high seas at midnight in the area known as Lake Michigan's "graveyard of ships."

It was that area—between Ludington and Muskegon—that took the greater proportion of lives in the disastrous Armistice Day storm of 1940 when some 60 sailors drowned.

The Jupiter, owned by the Jupiter Steamship Co. of Cleveland, broke her steam line about 7 p.m., the Coast Guard here reported, and called for help. She was unable to keep steerage.

An on-shore wind was pushing her toward the beach and she informed the Coast Guard by radiotelephone that her chances of escaping being beached were "slim."

The Jupiter, which has a gross tonnage of 3719, was first reported on a trip from Manistee, Mich., with a cargo of rock salt, but Manistee later said she had been in port there as much as two weeks ago and was probably now on a return trip.

SHEEPS SEEK HAVEN

PORT ARTHUR, Ont. Nov. 7 (CP)—Winds threatening to reach 40 and 50 mile-an-hour proportions tonight sent ships sailing the Western end of Lake Superior scuttling for shelter.

Weather officials said the storm was part of the same pattern which has churned Lake Michigan in a perilous sea, with distress signals already reported from the freighter S.S. Jupiter.

Rains, whipped in by the driving winds, had reached more than an inch by noon and continued at intermittent intervals throughout the afternoon and evening. They were expected to change to snow.

HOMES FLOODED

ERIEAU, Ont., Nov. 7 (CP) — Strong winds lashed this Lake Erie port today and fishermen predicted it was the start of a gale. Homes along the lake front were flooded and the ferry service ticket office was swept off the pier by waves.

GOLDEN MEADOW, La., Nov. 7 (AP) — Fall tornadoes, which skipped about over Louisiana and East Texas overnight, left a toll of four dead, a baby missing and possibly a score of persons injured.

Property damage was estimated at many thousands of dollars as the storms roared down on scattered communities, razing nearly two score homes.

One of the hardest hit sections was the little French-speaking settlement of Gallano, about six miles North of Golden Meadow, where two women were killed and a dozen homes of trappers and fishermen were destroyed.

2 Die Striving To Save Woman From Kidnapper

ROCKFORD, Ill., Nov. 7 (AP)—Two men were killed today struggling with a gunman who broke into a Rockford home and then kidnapped a young mother of three children, wife of one of the slain men.

Police identified the slain men as Vernon Anderson, 28, of Rural Route One, Rockford, and his father-in-law, Grant Muhrlein, 52, of Detroit.

The police gave this account:

The intruder gained entrance to the home of Anderson's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Anderson, by smashing in a rear door. Anderson and Muhrlein struggled with the gunman, losing their lives in the scuffle. The gunman then forced Anderson's wife, Kathy, 26-year-old mother of three children, into his automobile and drove away.

Mrs. Anderson tried to jump out of a window in an unsuccessful effort to escape from her abductor but he caught her and forced her into his car. Other members of the family were said to have recognized the gunman as a Rockford resident.

Coast Awaits Workers Decision

VANCOUVER, Nov. 7 (CP)—British Columbia tram and bus riders, anxiously awaiting decision of striking transit workers on a return-to-work vote, tonight learned there may be a delay in announcing the result.

Delay in arrival of ballots from Victoria may postpone the announcement until tomorrow. It had been planned to fly the ballot boxes here for counting in hopes the result would be known late tonight.

The workers, 2800 in Vancouver, Victoria and New Westminster, on strike since Oct. 20, have before them a proposal for a 10-cent-an-hour pay boost and a 40-hour week by the Fall of 1948. They had demanded 20-cents-an-hour and an immediate 40-hour week.

ENGLAND FREED OF FOG TIE-UP

LONDON, Nov. 7 (CP)—A Southwest wind late tonight cleared away a fog blanket which had covered England from Yorkshire in the North to London and the Thames estuary and had extended Westward to Wales.

The fog, Britain's worst during the last 15 months, had crippled traffic movement in London during the last 36 hours and was blamed for three suburban train crashes Thursday night which took five lives and injured some 80 persons.

Police tonight were reported searching for five repair crew working ships out of the Royal Albert Dock in London which has been missing in the Thames since Thursday night.

Canada's Research in Nuclear Chemistry Released to Public

By JOHN LEBLANC
Canadian Press Staff Writer

OTTAWA, Nov. 7 (CP)— Many a spymaster would have dug deeply into his treasury—and not too long ago—to place his hands on a document that now is available here for the price of a couple of theatre tickets.

For this modest sum, the Cloak-and-Dagger Brigade—and the scientific world in general—can obtain a 228-page work detailing much of Canada's research in nuclear chemistry and containing gobs of material that was top secret until a few weeks ago.

The two-volume publication, neatly bound in blue, is being put out by the Chemical Institute of Canada. It contains 27 scientific papers delivered at the Institute's Conference on nuclear physics at Hamilton last May.

Actually, it is the most comprehensive public work on nuclear science of an authoritative nature ever put together.

Much of the material in it is still regarded as of top-drawer secrecy in such countries as the United States.

Despite the fact the lectures were delivered to the scientists at Hamilton, publication of some of them was prohibited by Federal authorities at the time.

All have been cleared for public consumption in the Institute's book, but it is understood that organization had considerable difficulty breaking down the barrier against disclosure of atomic "secrets" to permit publication. Eventually, it came up with the sanction of the National Research Council and the Atomic Energy Control Board.

Foreign as well as Canadian organizations have been displaying an eagerness to obtain the publication since word of it got noised around. Most of the Ottawa Embassies and Legations have applied for copies, and they will be getting them in a week or so, after laying that nominal sum on the line.

However, from a preview of the volume, it can be said—so far as a layman can tell—that they won't find anything that will help in putting together an atomic bomb or other instrument of war.

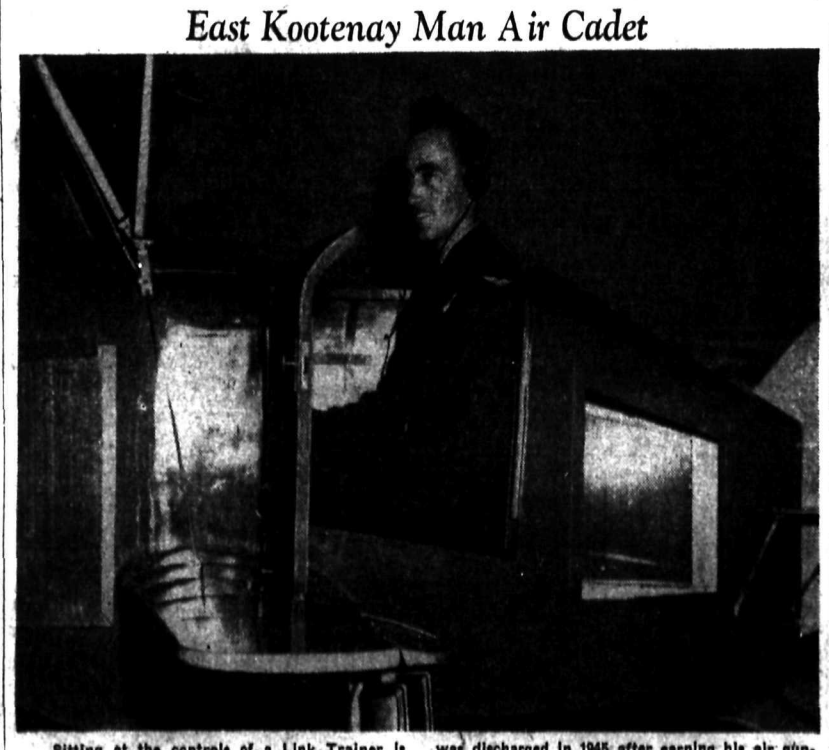
ATOM IN PEACETIME

Gen. A. G. L. McNaughton, President of the Atomic Energy Control Board, observes in a foreword that because the first use of atomic energy was for destructive purposes, people are apt to forget its possible peacetime uses.

"Readers of these papers," he says, "will learn of applications now being made in the fields of Chemistry, Biology and Medicine and will be better able to appreciate the important contribution of Canadian scientists to the development of atomic energy for peaceful purposes."

The Chemical Institute expects the book will find wide use as a textbook on nuclear chemistry, the first of its kind in the world. Already much of the limited 1000-copy edition has gone to Canadian universities, and the remainder is going fast.

East Kootenay Man Air Cadet



Sitting at the controls of a Link Trainer is Flight Cadet R. P. Roshau of Wasa, B. C., one of 21 cadets starting their careers as aircrew officers in the R.C.A.F. at No. 1 Manning Depot, R.C.A.F. Station, Toronto. Most of the 21, like Roshau, were selected from the ranks of serving airmen to qualify for aircrew duties and commissions. Roshau, who saw service with the R.C.A.F. during the war, was discharged in 1945 after earning his air gunner's wing. He reenlisted as an airman radio technician last year. He is a graduate of Shaunavon High School, Shaunavon, Sask. The cadets now going through the Depot make up the first postwar class of aircrew trainees for the Regular Air Force.

Nelson To Wear Poppies, Attend Remembrance Day Services

In solemn tribute of the sacrifice made by the men of this City and of every town and village in Canada who gave their lives in two world wars, Nelson will wear poppies Saturday and attend special church services Sunday.

A church procession and a commemoration ceremony at the Cenotaph will mark Remembrance Day Tuesday. Women's organizations, including the Legion Women's Auxiliary and I.O.D.E., are expected to join with the ex-servicemen and women in a Canadian Legion march to the Cenotaph where prayers will be recited and hymns sung. Wreaths will be laid at the base of the stone shaft.

Sunday special services will be held in all of the Churches. St. Paul's United Church will dedicate the Memorial Chimes in a rites "honoring the boys from St. Paul's who lost their lives in the last war." Members of the Canadian Legion will attend the service in a body to hear the boys' choir sing at the quiet observance.

Armistice ceremonies will be conducted in Trinity United by Rev. Gordon G. McL. Boothroyd and similar services will be held in other Nelson churches.

Nelson stores, business places and banks will be closed. While Remembrance Day in Canada is a Federal statutor yholiday, observance is not compulsory except for banks and Dominion Government offices.

Poppies will be sold Saturday under the auspices of the Legion W.A.

Mustangs After 21st Straight Win

By The Canadian Press

The Grey Cup teams wind up most of the preliminaries today and get set for the decisive battles of the next two weeks leading to the East-West classic November 29.

In the interprovincial Big Four the season's schedule comes to an end. At Ottawa the hometown Roughriders and Toronto Argonauts square off in a preview of their home-and-home points-to-count playoff series next week. At Hamilton, Montreal Alouettes and the Tigers wind up their strong for the year. They can put their gear in mothballs after the final whistle as both were knocked out of playoff contention weeks ago.

An Ontario Rugby Football Union semi-final is on the bill in Toronto where Balmy Beach, 1946 champions, entertain Ottawa Trojans. The winner goes up against Hamilton Wildcats in the sudden-death final at Hamilton next Saturday.

The Wildcats won their semi-final game yesterday, taking the measure of Toronto Indians 14-0 after a tough battle in Hamilton.

In the intercollegiate, the high-stepping Western Mustangs move into Montreal for a go at McGill Redmen. The undefeated Mustangs are out for their fifth straight victory this season and their 21st straight in intercollegiate play—A string they started back in 1939. In the other college game, University of Toronto entertains Queen's Golden Gaels. Varsity, which still has a chance of tying the Mustangs in the final standing, has to win to retain that chance.

NELSON WOMEN WORK FOR BLOOD DONOR CLINIC

Women's organizations in Nelson Dec. 1 will hear a talk on women's activities in Britain during the years since the outbreak of war by Mrs. E. H. Hughes, Ph.D. Mrs. Hughes, who started a Canada-wide speaking tour Nov. 6 under the auspices of the United Kingdom Information Office, will also visit Trail and Rossland.

"A Housewife in Britain Today" will be the subject of the London woman's discussions on the six-week tour across the Dominion. Wife of a Chief Inspector of Schools for the London County Council, Mrs. Hughes was a Training College Lecturer in Education prior to the war, and was co-author with her husband of a book on teaching matters. She was responsible for war Women's Voluntary Service activities in her Borough and in 1947 became W.V.S. County Organizer for South Middlesex.

TOAST and TEA

BY J. V. McAREE

"When you have finished the day's work" said Mr. Somerset Maugham" and you have to take your leisure and wait for your creative gift to be restored next morning, anything you can do in the remaining hours of the day seems a little pale and flat." And commenting upon Mr. Maugham's career in Harper's, Glenway Wescott, author of Apartment in Athens, says: "To have commenced literature half a century ago, and still, in spite of life—and by life I mean disillusionment and unlucky affections, increase of pain and worldly losses, shames and impertinences of human nature, along with horrible war and civil war, and the ruin of nations, and the failure of a whole structure of delectable usages—still to enjoy writing so much that nothing compares with it and so write to the end, is a grand and enviable thing and a spiritual thing. There are a number of good reasons for dedicating oneself to the art of writing; surely this is as good as any."

Man Involved in Party Fracas Must Keep Peace

ROSSLAND, B.C., Nov. 7 — A charge of assault against one accused was dismissed in City Police Court Friday morning and on a plea of guilty another accused was bound over for one year.

Magistrate R. E. Plewman dismissed charges against Terance Clegg because of lack of evidence, while Duncan Keffer pleaded guilty to a charge of common assault and was told to "be of good behaviour" during the next year.

Information against the pair was laid by a High School teacher, W. Baldrey, who was injured during a rumpus at the school when Clegg and Keffer refused to leave a party to which they had not been invited.

In handing down judgment, Magistrate Plewman said "this disposition is not entirely satisfactory to me. It was an outrage and a grave blot on the youth of the city that persons who had no right to be present and who, as I was informed, refused to leave when requested so to do, broke up a peaceful gathering of high school students. My desire for a suitable punishment of the guilty must be outweighed with a consideration of the public interest particularly the disruption of the high school . . . ."

"Of regards Mr. Baldrey, I may say that after the trouble he admitted that he struck the first blow and I consider this was justified if, as I believe, he did. He first asked the intruder to leave. The fact the counter charge against him was only laid 10 days after the event and has now been withdrawn by the person who made it. It is in my opinion a complete indication of his conduct."

Leafs, Spartans Meet on Nelson Ice Tonight

Nelson Maple Leafs will be out to break the back of their three-game losing streak when they meet the Spokane Spartans in the Civic Arena tonight. Leafs, lacking essential finish, gave up their first three encounters in the Western International circuit, one to the Smokies here last Saturday night and a twin bill at Spokane Sunday and Monday nights.

A slightly revamped crew will take to the ice. Imports Bob Lunney and Pete Smith have returned to Vancouver and there is a possibility that Jack Kilpatrick will don the green and white. Kilpatrick has turned out several times this week and while he will be working in the East Kootenays until January he will be in town long enough to take in tonight's fray with the Spokes.

The Smokies are on top of the week-old circuit with two wins and no losses. Spartans are a close second at two wins and one loss. The Leafs are the cellar dwellers by virtue of three straight defeats. Kimberley Dynamiters have yet to see action. The Spartans will ice their regular completment of Vern Kneeshaw, Steve Krizan, Lorne Nadeau, George Steeves and Meyer Flett, defence; Pat Uetrucci, Hugh Scott, Johnny Ursaki, Don Anderson, Bob Porter, Sonny Barchyn, Johnny McLellan, Norm Blackett.

N. Denver Legion To Send Wedding Gift Food

NEW DENVER, B. C., Nov. 7—The November meeting of the Canadian Legion Branch No. 101, New Denver, discussed Legion President Brig.-Gen. Price's suggestion of food parcels for Britain in honor of H.R.H. Princess Elizabeth's wedding. The Branch decided to send two $10 parcels.

Fred B. Tessman suggested that the Legion vote a grant of $50 toward the purchase of a projecting machine for the school, but it was decided to defer action.

R. Gillespi, 79, Leads A.C.T. Amateur Contest

Amateurs are usually thought to be young people, but the rule sustained a setback on the stage of the Capitol Theatre Friday night when Richard Gellespi, 79-year-old "groaner," emerged a potential winner over 18 other contestants hoofing and vocalizing in the Associated Canadian Traveller's amateur show.

Gillespi's rendition of a religious ballad earned him top spot in the voting up to press time. Harley Scales and his piano accordion were in second position, while George Spence, well known Nelson vocalist, was third. Final results were not abailable, but voting indicated that Gillespi, Scales and Spence would place first, second and third.

Entertainment varied from cowboy melodies to excerpts from the classics. Seven-year-old Colin Stout delighted the audience with a Scottish jig to the tune of the bagpipes.

"When You Were Sixteen," a vocal by Anne Bergman accompanied on the piano by Marian Learmonth was well received as was Enid Prime's interpretation of Chopin's "Polonaise." Musical polish was also evidenced by Tommy Shorthouse and Tommy Pagdin playing a piano duet.

Other musicians heard were Jack Kanigan, guitar and song; Marilyn Brown, piano solo; Jack and Jimmy Stout, bagpipes; George Moojilsky, guitar and song; Robert Reisterer, piano, Helen Valansky, vocalist; Evelyn Reisterer, vocalist; Frank Kankin, guitar and song; Paul Heilscher, vocalist; David Unger and Milton Wilbur, mouth organ and song, and Marjorie Boyd, vocalist.

MARKETS TO CLOSE FOR NOV. 11

NEW YORK, Nov. 7 (CP)—Securities and commodity markets in the United States will be closed Tuesday, Nov. 11, in observance of Armistice Day. In Canada, where the day is observed as Remembrance Day, the Toronto and Montreal stock markets and the Winnipeg Grain Exchange will be closed.

The London stock and metals markets will remain open.

END POULTRYLESS DAY

WASHINGTON, Nov. 7 (AP)—Poultryless Thursdays in the United States were abolished suddenly today amid the cackles of chickens sent here by angry growers in a "Hens- for-Harry," "Leghorns-for-Luckman," campaign.

LONDON, Nov. 7 (AP)—Saheb Khan, President of the Pakistan Moslem League of Great Britain, today said he had appealed to the rulers of all Moslem States in the Middle East to ban Time Magazine from their countries.

He said his action was motivated by a recent article in Time concerning the current situation in India, which he described as "most shameful," and by the publication of an accompanying illustration showing the prophet Mohammed mounted on horseback and waving a sword.

A dispatch from Cairo said police there had confiscated copies of the Oct. 27 issue of the magazine because the illustration violated Moslem regulations against graven images of the prophet.

Attack Problem Of Sex Criminals

TORONTO, Nov. 7 (CP) — A sweeping attack on the problem of sex criminals and offenders now under way across Canada by medical, welfare and legal experts, will be intensified as a result of the sex murder here of crippled, 13-year-old Arelen Anderson, it was revealed today.

A committee of the Canadian Penal Association, headed by J. A. Edmison of Toronto, will meet in a few weeks to consider an amendment to the Criminal Code calling for a special approach to sexual psychopaths.

"In Canada we have to start from zero," Mr. Edmison said. "There is no special provision whatever for dealing with sex offenders. When the murderer of Arlene Anderson is brought to justice, I am sure it will be found he has a previous record of indecent exposure or indecent assault."

Dr. A. D. Kelly, President of the Canadian Medical Association and a member of the committee, said doctors were taking a more active interest in the problem.

Dr. Kenneth Rogers of Ottawa, representing the Canadian Welfare Council on the committee, stressed the value of sex education from a preventive point of view.

"I think it is wise for parents to tell their children not to go away with strange men, but I also think they should tell them why," he said. "Right now we are studying to what extent correct information on sex behavior can prevent abuses taking place.

Dr. Kelly said there was some doubt about the value and the type of the medical treatment needed.

"Recognizing that a person of this kind is abnormal to start with, we do not know whether he can be transformed into a normal one," he said, pointing out the "deeply-rooted personality effect" of abnormal sex behavior.

A program of medical and legal research has been mapped out for the committee, Mr. Edmison said. Dr. J. D. M. Griffin, representing the National Committee for Mental Hygiene, will visit California, Minnesota, Illinois, New York and Massachusetts to gather information on special legislation in those states.

Mr. Edmison described the murder of little Arlene Anderson as "consistent with the pattern of sex criminals."

"Sometimes they use strangulation as their method of murder and sometimes beating and shooting, as in the case of the two little boys in Winnipeg. They all have a record of previous offences. A man executed at Lethbridge a year ago had six previous offences."

He advised parents to warn their school-age children not to accept rides, toys or candy from strange men or to go on messages for them.

Mr. Edmison said that in 1945 there were 428 cases of indecent exposure brought before Canadian courts, 274 of indecent assault, 79 of assaults on females, 12 of rape, 11 of attempted rape and 376 offences against public morals.

Other members of the committee are Dr. L. P. Gendreau, Winnipeg psychiatrist and Deputy Commissioner of Penitentiaries; Kenneth F. Mackenzie, Toronto, representing the Canadian Bar Association, and Dr. Donald Fraser, Professor of Preventive Medicine at the University of Toronto, representing the Canadian Public Health League.

"Anti-Canadian Arrogance" Charged

QUEBEC, Nov. 7 (CP)—Premier Duplessis today accused the Federal authorities of "anti-Canadian arrogance" in negotiations for what he termed the "annexation" of Newfoundland.

The Quebec Premier at his weekly press conference questioned the right of the Federal Government to offer terms to Newfoundland "without consulting the provinces, particularly Quebec."

Vernon Street Project Nears End

Laying of water main on Vernon Street was expected to be completed by the end of next week, Mayor T. H. Waters said Friday night.

An effort had been made to confine the project to the in-between season of Civic Centre activities, making the most of the lull between Summer and Winter activities at the recreational centre. Thus public inconvenience had been kept to a minimum. Some delay had been necessitated by the changing of services from the old main to the new, especially in the 700 Block where a large number of residences were served.

"There has been very good progress by the Waterworks Department on the entire project," His Worship said. Slightly over 10,000 feet of mains had been laid throughout the City, and approximately another 1000 feet had yet to be put in.

"I Know Just How You Feel"

Greatest Military Parade . . .

Vishinsky Says Russia To Continue Struggle Against War Propaganda

MOSCOW, Nov. 7 (CP) — The diplomatic corps and foreign delegations in the Soviet capital today took off their hats in salute to each division of the greatest military parade of the Red Army yet seen in Moscow's Red Square, as armored might roared past Soviet leaders assembled on Lenin's tomb to celebrate the 30th anniversary of the Bolshevik revolution.

For the third year in succession, Marshal Stalin was not present at the parade. He was believed on a holiday at a Black Sea port.

Overnight early Winter snows had turned to rain and hail as Marshal Nikolai Bulganin, Armed Forces Minister, galloped on to the square to review the assembled troops. A simultaneous fly-past by the Red Air Force was cancelled because of the weather.

After the review Marshal Bulganin mounted the specially-built tribunal over Lenin's tomb where the Soviet Union's political and military leaders, headed by Foreign Minister Molotov, took the salute.

Massed artillery and tanks climaxed the military section of the parade.

Then came columns of Moscow workers, followed by 40,000 Russian athletes, including members of the famous Dynamo Sports Club.

Leningrad, which bears the title of "Hero City" earned by its unconquered resistance to German siege, lined up flag-bedecked warships along the Nava River.

The cruiser Aurora was stationed near the Lieut. Schmidt Bridge, at the spot where it fired 30 years ago on the Czar's Winter palace.

MOST SACRED HOLIDAY

The anniversary is Russia's most sacred holiday. By reckoning of the new-style calendar the date is Nov. 7, but under the old calendar in Russia the revolution occurred in October, and orators still refer to it as the October revolution.

Messages of congratulation were reported pouring into Moscow from both Western and Eastern powers.

President Truman, a broadcast said, transmitted "the sincere greetings of the people of the United States to the Soviet people."

Prime Minister Attlee of Britain sent his "good wishes and congratulations" to Stalin.

From the Eastern countries, many of which have Communist-dominated Governments, the messages were more enthusiastic, and leaders linked the future of their own nations with that of Russia.

Highest praise for "the glorious armed forces of the U.S.S.R." was voiced by Marshal Bulganin. He charged "the forces of capitalism are making plans for a new imperialist war."

Andrei Y. Vishinsky, Soviet Deputy Foreign Minister said, in a Russian-language broadcast over United Nations facilities that "the Soviet Union will continue in the future its struggle against any war propaganda and any instigators of a new war."

"The Soviet Union," Vishinsky said, "is a faithful and consistent champion of peace and security for the peoples of the world, a champion of international cooperation."

The text of his statement:

TRUMAN GREETINGS

WASHINGTON, Nov. 7 (AP) — President Truman sent "sincere greetings" to the Russian people on the occasion of their national holiday today.

His formal message addressed to Nikolai Mikhailovich Shvernik, President of the Presidium, made no reference to Soviet Government officials.

It said:

"On this national anniversary of the Union of Soviet Socialist Republics, pelase convey to the people of the Soviet Union the sincere greetings of the people of the United States."

Seize Private Bombers for Use In Revolution

PONCA CITY, Okla., Nov. 7 (AP) —The United States has seized two privately owned heavy bombers on Oklahoma airfields to stop their use in a revolution believed pending in South America, a Government-official announced today

Customs Inspector O. C. Millican of Kansas City made the statement after impounding both planes under a wartime law governing arms exports.

"We have been working on this thing for months," he said. "It involves a lot more than just two bombers."

Millican said both planes were destined for the abortive exhibition against the Dominican Republic organized earlier this Fall in Cuba.

"When that revolution blew up, the planes were immobilized in the United States," Millican said. "Then we got word they might be used in another revolution brewing in South America, and we decided to seize them."

The customs official said he could not name the country that may be facing a revolt.

Shelton named as legal owner of the planes Lius Bordas, alias Jose Diaz.

He said Bordas was born in the Dominican Republic, became a naturalized American citizen, served as a major during the war, and is now in Puerto Rico. He will be questioned in the case.

Molotov Declaration Believed Intended for Fellow Communists

By DEWITT MACKENZIE
Associated Press
Foreign Affairs Analyst

There is no need for you and me to lie awake nights worrying over Foreign Minister Molotov's disclosures that the secret of the atom bomb "has long ceased to exist," and that "we live in a period when all roads lead to Communism."

These striking declarations—and others—which were made in a Moscow address yesterday on the eve of the Russian revolution's 30th anniversary, appear to have been intended more as a pep talk to Communists and fellow travellers, both at home and abroad, than as an effort to bedevil the Democracies. That's not to try to belittle Molotov's efforts, since he is an accomplished speaker and did a workmanlike job of propaganda-making for those at whom it was aimed.

The Foreign Minister's announcement about the atomic bomb has the high-point of his pronouncement. He made it calmly and with studied language, such as would befit a revelation about the most momentous development of our age. It was a clever move.

Of course Molotov is right. The broad information about the structure of the bomb long ago ceased to be a secret, the experts tell us. The information is available to Russia, or even to you and me. However, it's equally true that there are a thousand-and-one technical details which still are secret, and without them the bomb couldn't be made.

There's no great secret about making an ordinary automobile, so far as your correspondent knows. But let the average citizen try to build one, starting with the making of the steel and other metals employed. His blue-print of an automobile wouldn't be worth a row of beans to him. See what I mean?

Another interesting point in Molotov's address was his reiteration of what recently has become a Red theme song—that Capitalism and Communism can exist side by side in peace. This is a complete about-face for the Bolshevist tenet that there was no place in the world for capitalism and it must be destroyed.

At first blush it looks as though Moscow might feel that it has just about reached the limit of its expansion in Europe and is figuring on a live-and-let-live attitude between the Russian bloc and the Democracies. Be that as may, we shouldn't let ourselves become confused over the issue of whether Communism and any other ism can mingle in the same state.

As this column has remarked more than once, it might be possible for two neighboring countries—one capitalistic and the other Communistic—to live in peace. However — and let's not forget this—there is no possibility whatever for Communism to exist side by side with another ism within the boundaries of the same country. The most dangerous fallacy of our time is the belief by some that Communism can be combined with anything else.

Clipper Turns Back

SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 7 (AP)—A Pan American Airways Clipper bound for Honolulu turned back because of trouble in one of its four engines last night and landed safely at San Francisco Airport early today.

Immediately after its arrival, the [illegible] passengers and their baggage were transferred to another clipper for resumption of the flight which was interrupted by the mechanical trouble 1080 miles at sea, about halfway to the Hawaiian Islands.

An airline spokesman said there were no incidents, that it only resulted in a delay of several hours in the passengers' trip.

AWAIT BIG-THREE BARGAINING RESULTS

TORONTO, Nov. 7 (CP)—Independent meat-packing companies are operating without contracts, awaiting completion of collective bargaining agreements with the "Big Three," the Canadian director of the United Packinghouse Workers of America (C.I.O.), said today.

CALLS MEET ON FRENCH POLICY

PARIS, Nov. 7 (Reuters)Premier Paul Ramadier today summoned all 90 Prefects of France for talks here tomorrow on general government policy including the plan for holding down agricultural prices while raising prices of coal and certain basic industrial products to eliminate government subsidies.

ONT. POWER RATIONING ANNOUNCED

TORONTO, Nov. 7 (CP) — A modified form of power rationing, effective next Monday, Nov. 10 and coupled with penalties for infractions of the regulations, was announced today by the Ontario Hydro-Electric Power Commission.

The announcement, by W. Ross Strike, second Vice-Chairman of the Commission, bans use of electricity for these purposes:

Signs, show-windows and ornamental lighting for decorative or advertising purposes; electric heating devices in stores or offices; interior lighting of business premises after business hours unless work is being done—with the exception of banks and other business places requiring light for protection.

The order restricts use of electricity for floodlighting of parking lots used car lots, service stations and outdoor industrial premises.

The Commission said no change would be made in domestic and hospital use of power but Mr. Strike issued a new appeal to householders and industry to cut consumption as much as possible.

Penalty for breach of the regulations will be $100 a day, the Commission said. This is provided for by the Public Utilities Act.

TO URGE VISIT BY ROYAL COUPLE

By JAMES McCOOK
Canadian Press Staff Writer

SOUTHAMPTON, England, Nov. 7 (CP)—Prime Minister Mackenzie King arrived from Canada today aboard the liner Queen Elizabeth for a three-week visit to Britain and Northwest Europe during which he will attend the Nov. 20 wedding of Princess Elizabeth and Lieut. Philip Mountbatten.

The Prime Minister leaves tomorrow for Paris and goes Monday to Brussels where he will receive an honorary degree from Brussels University. Wednesday he will drive to The Hague where he is scheduled to address The Netherlands Parliament. He expects to return to London Saturday.

He was going to express "very strongly" the hope that Princess Elizabeth and Lieut. Mountbatten would find it possible to visit Canada.

He said migration from the United Kingdom to Canada depended on the keenness of British immigrants. "I understand here you don't want too many people leaving and we don't want to embarrass anyone," he said.

Conditions in Canada were "extraordinarily good."

"I don't think we've ever had so many employed. To the United Kingdom I would say we are doing all we can to produce and fulfill our contracts.

"We're all beginning to realize that the world is increasingly one and we are working towards better conditions."

The last week of his visit would be devoted entirely to the Royal Wedding. The Canadian Parliament opens Dec. 5 and he plans to return via New York on the Nieuw Amsterdam Nov. 26.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 7 (AP) — Stung by the vigor of Russia's propaganda barrage, high government officials here were reported today to be considering an intensified United States "truth campaign" abroad.

At the same time it was learned that the State Department is planning to ask Congress, possibly during the approaching special session, for an additional $1,500,000 for its "voice of America" and other foreign information programs.

"The Authority on Authorities"

WHAT'S THE BIG RUSH?

IT IS ALL very well and good to assure the defeat of the opponent's doubled contract by cashing the trick that does it. Risking possible failure to beat the contract is obviously expensive. But when there is no question whatever about the certainty of beating it, the able defender should ordinarily go all-out in his effort to beat it as badly as possible. If postponing your own side's trick taking promises to increase the punishment without endangering the assurance of setting it, there is no point to being in a hurry.

Pretty bad bidding, especially by South, a "bidding fool," and by his partner, who in spite of knowing South's reputation should have considered his vulnerable opponents over their depth, which they were. They didn't have a chance to make the No Trump game. In the 4-Spades, South should have been punished much worse than he was, but East was in too much of a hurry to set the contract at all.

The club K and A were scored and the 4 led, which East ruffed with the spade Q so he could immediately cash the setting trick with the heart A. Thereby he limited his side to taking only one more trick, with the spade K so that the set was of only two tricks.

East's hasty play of the heart A was worth plenty to South, as it set up all of the hearts in dummy, considering the marked finesse, while leaving the diamond A as a re-entry.

Having decided to ruff the third trick with his spade Q, East could have made much better use of his chance to lead. If he had returned a diamond to the A, and decided to hold his heart A until the second round, South never could have used the heart suit for diamond discards. Just figure out the play from there on, and you will see how that would have complicated things for the declarer, putting him down at least one more than he actually was beaten.

Sees Interior Junior College, Normal School as Future Event In Education Talk To Kinsmen

It was his personal belief that the junior college movement was coming to British Columbia, Gerald Lee, High School Principal, told the Nelson Kinsmen Club at the Hume Thursday night. Mr. Lee said he felt Nelson was the logical place for such a centre if one was established in the Interior, and that he felt an effort to have it built in Nelson should be made if junior colleges were set up in B.C.

Mr. Lee, speaking in the interests of Education Week, is one of several speakers who have recently discussed the possibility of establishment of a junior college and a normal school in the Interior. He said he thought Nelson the logical location for such schools by virtue of its central position in relation to Interior points.

In explaining the meaning of the new School District No. 7, Mr. Lee said it was important that "we endeavor to come to the rescue of less fortunate parts of the District," to make education equitable in all parts. The country had suffered in education in comparison with the municipal area, yet all revenue came from the country, the forest, mines and land. The "people who have, must be prepared to aid the people who have not." Cities depended upon the country and the things it produced.

He thought the most important cog in the educational plan for this District the teacher. Nelson's policy of always maintaining good salaries had "paid off" in that it had no difficulty in obtaining good teachers. He saw quite a change for the better in the profession since it became compulsory to join the Teachers' Federation.

TOO ACADEMIC

However, he thought, there would be further need of improvement in teachers' qualifications, and he felt that people in other ways of life should be drawn into the profession for vocational guidance. There was a tendency to become too academic, and steer a child into academic fields that he sometimes was not best fitted for. As growth of the District continued, he foresaw setting up of a teachers' training college which, he thought, should be built at Nelson.

There was great need for adequate school buildings throughout the District, which was not well equipped to handle the job of teaching the modern curriculum. There was an unhealthy environment in some schools, while in the City, schools were better, but very much out of date and overcrowded.

Trends of the times had led to this. Population was growing and many people were pouring into the province. New pupils were coming to the High School all the time, he said, as people from the Prairies moved here. There must be preparation for a large increase, which would be further bolstered by the fact that the compulsory school age would undoubtedly be raised from 15 to 16, as had been done in Great Britain. There, 33,000 more teachers were required as a result of this action.

The taxpayers now were facing a large building program which had to come. The Department of Education insisted on safe, healthy schools, all of one-story construction with an occasional exception in secondary schools. The proper environment for the modern curriculum was a definite necessity.

He thought schools had fallen down in not teaching people to live together, and the new curriculum was attempting to take care of this. This was where the so-called "frills" came in. In the modern school, the gymnasium, library and industrial arts room were every bit as important as the ordinary classroom. He could not help but feel that in leaning heavily to academic teachings the world had made a mistake, had been "too clever," leaving it now standing at the "pit of disaster."

The new idea in schools made schools more expensive, but this must be expected.

Mr. Lee also asked businessmen for cooperation when visited by students on their vocational survey, to be conducted next week by High School students.

Tasty Recipes

By ALICE DENHOFF

I, for one, got a little tired of Pot Roast during the meat shortages. However, one that I bought recently to try to escape the high prices, tasted very good indeed.

You can use flour to dredge your pot roast, if you like, or you can brown it without benefit of flour in a little of its own fat or other meat drippings.

Vegetables are optional. I cooked some onion during the browning of the meat, but cooked other vegetables served with the meat separately. The meat of a pot roast, cooked until very tender, and sliced cold makes a good cold meat platter for next day's meal, also excellent sandwich material.

TODAY'S MENU

Beef Pot Roast — Boiled Potatoes
Gravy — Southern Corn Pudding
Sliced Tomatoes
Steamed Date Pudding — Coffee

BEEF POT ROAST

3 tbsp. fat
4 to 6 lb. pot roast beef
Salt, pepper and flour if you like
2 small carrots, sliced if liked
1 small onion, sliced
1 bay leaf (may be omitted)

Melt fat in a deep, heavy pan, put in pot roast, and brown on both sides. Brown onion with the meat, or at least ,cook it until soft but not burned. Sprinkle meat with pepper and salt, and add bay leaf if you like the flavbr, or insert a few cloves here and there in the meat. Slip a low rack under the meat, add 1 c. boiling water, cover closely, and cook over low heat until tender—2 or 3 hours.

You may need to add a little more hot water from time to time to prevent burning. If you cook the carrots with the meat, add them half an hour before the meat is done. Serves 6 to 8.

When meat is done, remove to hot platter, pour off excess fat, if any, leaving 3 tbsp. in the pan. Add 2 tbsp. flour to fat, blend smooth, and water gradually, stirring all the time, to make gravy. Taste and add extra salt and pepper, if necessary.

SOUTHERN CORN PUDDING

2 c. corn grated from cob, frozen or chopped canned corn
1 tsp. sugar
2 eggs, slightly beaten
1½ tbsp. melted butter
2 c. scalded milk
1 tsp. salt
⅛ tsp. pepper

Combine the ingredients, pour into buttered baking dish and bake in slow oven (325 F.) until firm. Serves 6.

STEAMED DATE PUDDING

½ lb. dates, stoned and cut in pieces
½ c. milk
½ tsp. soda
1⅞ c. flour
3 tbsp. butter
¼ tsp. each salt, cloves, allspice, nutmeg.
½ c. molasses

Melt butter, add molasses and milk, dry ingredients mixed and sifted together. Steam 2½ hours and serve with Thin Lemon Sauce or Wine Sauce, if preferred. Serves 4.

THIN LEMON SAUCE

2 tbsp. light corn syrup
¾ c. sugar
1 tbsp. lemon juice
¼ c. water
2 tsp. butter

Boil sugar, corn syrup and water in small saucepan 5 minutes without stirring. Remove from heat, and add butter and lemon juice.

For Parents

By GARRY CLEVELAND MYERS, Ph.D.

Let Meal Dawdler Choose Between What is Offered him, and Nothing

Repeatedly in this column I have advised parents always to let the young child, say from fifteen months to five years of age, choose between what is offered him at mealtimes, and nothing.

Also I have urged, especially where there are eating problems, that the helpings be very, very small. Here is where the average mother errs more often than anywhere else. She gives the child too much at a time. Then a particular food may be so disliked that the child will dawdle a long, long while and finally may win his way.

NOT ENOUGH MILK

Suppose your child, three, has not been drinking nearly enough milk, or none at all, except under protest. Then suppose you place before him a whole cup or glass of milk with the information that he shall have no other food till the cup or glass is empty. You may get away with this if you hold literally to your word. But there are strong chances that the youngster will wait so long before drinking any or all the milk that you will begin urging him, even growing angry with him.

You would have been so much wiser if you had presented a very small amount of milk in the cup or glass, probably only a few tablespoonsful. This small amount he may drink readily. The portion can easily be increased gradually at later meals. Be sure the increase is not too rapid. My bulletin, "Eating Problems: Their Prevention and Correction" may be had in a stamped envelope.

Or suppose it is carrot, beet or spinach mash he at first refuses. If you put a tablespoon full of this food before him, the amount might seem so big to him that he would choose to go without any other food rather than to eat this food. In desperation, still resolving to have some other food, he might cram much of the helping into his mouth at once to get rid of it quickly, resulting perhaps in choking or gagging. What so often happens, however, is that the mother soon will urge the child to eat all the helping of food, even to spoon it into him. Or she may be so doubtful of possible success or so sorry for the youngster that she will remove the remaining portion of food.

Such could not happen if the mother always made the portion for some days not bigger than a lima bean, and a "second" very hard to get. It can be fun for the tot to clean up each very small portion, getting a portion of the next food and the next and so on, feeling he has been achieving, avoiding the while needless annoyances.

ONLY ONE FOOD

Why it is well to serve a portion of only one food at a time must be apparent. Several foods more readily encourage stirring and mixing the foods and playing with them. Besides, they make it hard for the child to have a clean plate soon.

Of course, I know what some mothers will say — that the poor child will starve or will lose weight. He won't starve. He may lose weight for a few days. But while he does so he will gain an appetite which will put far more weight on him later.

The Doctor

By HERMAN N. BUNDESEN, M.D.

Violent Attacks of Coughing Brought on by Lung Disorder

The person with bronchiectasis is truly to be pitied.

In this disorder the tubes of the lungars are dilated, or stretched, and filled with infected material. The patient is consequently subject to violent attacks of coughing, during which he brings up quantities of foul-smelling sputum.

In addition, because so much of the lungs are out of service, none of the cells of the body get as much oxygen as they need for health and the whole body is impoverished. The coloring matter of the blood is lessened, and weight and strength may be lost to the extent that ambition is dulled and mere existence a burden.

EXACT CAUSE UNKNOWN

We do not know the exact cause for this condition but apparently it may develop as an aftermath of the damage caused by asthma or chronic bronchitis.

Treatment by medical means is usually successful only in slowing the progress of the disease, not in its cure. For this reason, Dr. Earle B. Kay of Cleveland, and his coworkers, believe that medical treatment should only be used when the symptoms are very mild or when the parts of the lung involved make operative treatment impossible.

When the symptoms of bronchiectasis persist, the disorder may become disabling and may even end fatally unless the scarred, infected tissue is removed. The decision to operate on one or more lobes of the lung, in cases of bronchiectasis, depends on how much the patient is disabled, the extent of damage to the lung tissues and signs of chronic or prolonged infection.

Operative treatment consisting of removing a portion or even a whole lung was carried out on 220 patients by Dr. Kay and his co-workers. Before carrying out the operation, X-rays were taken of the lungs after iodized oil had been breathed in to make the bronchi visible in the X-ray plate. In this way, the extent of bronchiectasis was determined.

IN GOOD CONDITION

The operation was not done until the patient was in good condition. During this period, the material from the lungs was gotten rid of by what is known as postural drainage, that is, with the patient lying over the side of the bed with his head lower than his feet, so that in coughing the fluid in the lungs was brought out.

Penicillin was administered directly into the windpipe and throat and into the nose to help overcome any sinus infection which may have been present. It was given by injection into a muscle the evening before the operation.

INJECTION OF BLOOD

During the operation the patient is given an injection of blood into a vein. Also, following the operation, the patient is given oxygen for twelve to twenty-four hours and penicillin by injection into a muscle every three hours for seven days. Coughing, deep breathing and changes of position are encouraged in order to keep the lung functioning. If infection is prevented, the function of the lung on the side which is operated on may be brought back to normal within two to three months.

It would seem that operative treatment for bronchiectasis, in severe cases particularly, is well worth while. The restoration of such patients to normal and useful lives is one of the great victories of surgery. Penicillin, new surgical techniques and ever-increasing skill have made intricate operation on one of the body's most vital organs not only possible but comparatively safe.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

A.B.: What is Aortitis?

Answer: Aortitis means inflammation of the aorta, which is the large blood vessel that starts from the left side of the heart. The condition is produced by certain infections and is often caused by syphilis.

Homemakers' Half Dozen Can Be Welcome Break in Work Routine

Exercises can be fun, and more exhilarating than dancing. Take them to music and feel the rhythm in the uplifting stretch and smooth side bends, all done in harmonious movement to the cadence of music. There's joy in rhythm.

Of course, if you think of exercise as dull and arduous, it's difficult to whip up much enthusiasm. Why not regard them as a welcome break in the morning's work routine, a time to frolic through some stretch, twists and bends? The way to get the most out of it is to untie your apron strings, and unzip the housedress at the side so as to have freedom of motion. Then turn on the radio or phonograph to a lively tune and stretch and swing for sheer joy of feeling the release of muscles that are stiff from the forward bending, with arms out in front position, which is necessary in doing most housework.

IDEAL TIME

The working girl can't take exercise in the middle of the morning, but it's an ideal time for the homemaker. The house is warm . . . it's never a good plan to work muscles that are stiff and cold . . . the family is off to work and school and the house is all yours.

Exercise can be most informal, and still very slimming. Just stretch, centering the up-pull through the middle of the figure to get those important middle muscles. Then holding the up-stretch, bend, centering the bend through the midriff, and keep it rhythmical to avoid any jerkiness.

And don't get the notion that exercise will make you more tired. You'll feel more alive, for these stretch-bend movements bring more blood into the muscles and bring into the motion bigger and different muscles from those used in routine housework.

To straighten up shoulders, swing alternate arms in wide, backward circles, slowly and rhythmically, and as you swing stretch upward through the midriff and get a real lift out of the exercise.

Anyone who is heavy should take the stretching exercises lying down to relieve any strain. It's easier. Spread a blanket or mat on the floor and lie down, arms stretched above the head, legs down, and stretch, pulling slim through the middle, stretch until you feel inches longer.

If there is any question as to whether you should take calisthenics, be sure to ask your doctor.

CONFESSES TO HOLD-UP

VICTORIA, Nov. 6 (CP) — Five days of close investigation by Saanich Police with the cooperation of other police forces in the area into the armed hold-up of Harold Porter, 1017 Burdett Avenue, Royal Mail truck driver, last Saturday night in Saanich was climaxed last night with the arrest of a 16-year-old local youth.

The boy was picked up in the View Royal District by B.C. Police while on patrol duty in their prowler car.

The young gunman is scheduled to appear in Saanich Juvenile Court tomorrow. Being a juvenile, his name is being withheld in accordance with the Canadian criminal laws.

Saanich Police reported that the boy had confessed to the holdup.

New Families Move Into Natal-Michel

NATAL, B.C., Nov. 7 — With the Michel mines working on a steady scale of new men at the mine regularly, a number of families have moved to Natal-Michel from the Prairie Provinces, especially from Saskatchewan.

A number of families were forced to return back due to the present housing shortage.

In the meantime a number of old time residents have left for other destinations. Mr. and Mrs. T. Colonello left for Detroit, Mich. where they will join their two sons, who left some months previous. Mr. and Mrs. W. McKay and family left for the Edmonton district where Mr. McKay will be mine superintendent in one of the mines. Mr. and Mrs. J. Hamer, Jr., and family will also leave shortly for the West Coast. T. Owen, Jr., left for the Coast where he has secured a job at Port Alberni. He will be joined by his wife and son just as soon as living accommodations have been secured.

Salmo Farmers Discuss Problems

SALMO, B. C., Nov. 7 — Salmo Farmer's Institute held a well attended meeting in the Community Hall when problems facing local farmers were discussed.

Arrangements for the mobile X-ray van were reported progressing. It is to visit Salmo on Nov. 13.

AGREE TO INCREASE IN PAYROLL GRANT TO NATAL DOCTORS

NATAL, B.C., Nov. 7 — A special meeting of the Michel Medical Board, regarding the proposed doctor's increase, was held in the Union Hall. After much discussion it was decided to grant the doctors an increase of 73 cents every four weeks bringing the monthly deduction for the Michel doctors from $2.77 to $3.50.

The increase was granted to cover the extra cost of the present nurses salary and to reduce the nurses weekly hours. Recently three qualified nurses arrived to take up their new duties at the Michel Hospital.

The doctor's payroll deduction every four weeks pertains only to the mine employees at Michel and Natal.

NIGHT SCHOOL CLASSES POPULAR AT KIMBERLEY

KIMBERLEY, B.C., Nov. 7—Night School classes at the Kimberley High School are proving exceptionally popular this year with registrations totalling 118.

R. C. Bastedo is acting as principal and C. I. Taylor, Inspector of Schools is supervising the classes in conjunction with the Kimberley School Board.

Farewell Party For Two Michel Mining Officials

NATAL, B.C., Nov. 7 — The St. Paul's Church Hall at Michel was the scene of a farewell presentation made to two officials of the Crow's Nest Pass Coal Company, who served for many years at the Michel Colliery.

Walter McKay, mine overman for a number of years, left over the weekend to take up a position as mine manager in the Edmonton coal fields, commencing his new duties at the Beverly Mine from the first of November.

Up until his sudden departure, Overman McKay had served at the Michel mines for the past 25 years, getting his first job as a miner in September, 1922. He started as a fireboss in January, 1926 and in April, 1939 he rose to a pitboss or mine overman. Since that time he passed the necessary specifications for mine manager or superintendent in both provinces of Alberta and B.C.

On behalf of the officials of the Crow's Nest Pass Coal Company, Mr. McKay was presented with a handsome brief case and a beautiful pen and pencil set.

The second official to leave the services of the Crow's Nest Pass Coal Company was that of Joe Hamer, Jr., who will leave Michel shortly for the West Coast.

It is expected that he will continue mining on Vancouver Island. He too spent many years working in the Michel mines, first as a miner and then as a fireboss in which capacity he had served for the past few years.

Mr. Hamer was well known in both Natal-Michel and in Fernie, especially as a sportsman which featured fishing and hunting. He was presented with an engraved wallet and a sum of money.

Those attending the farewell presentation gathering included H. W. Clark, General Superintendent of the Crow's Nest Pass Coal Company at Fernie; William Chapman, Colliery manager at Michel, all overman, firebosses and shotlighters of Michel, W. R. Wilson, Mr. Graham, G. Lancaster, R. Winstanley, J. Lyne, J. Pollack and Ed. Chappell of Michel and Fernie.

H. Beard of Natal acted as chairman during the evening and presentation. Appropriate addresses were made by H. Clark, W. Chapman and H. Beard.

The evening was enjoyed by numerous local artists taking part with vocal solos. S. Boulstridge and R. Barrass of Michel accompanied on the piano.

Successful Bridge, Whist Party

KIMBERLEY, B.C., Nov. 7—The local Rebecca Lodge held a very successful bridge and whist party recently in the Oddfellows Hall.

Whist winners were Mrs. M. Bidder, Mrs. M. Johnson, J. Crossley and W. Bidder. In bridge, prizes went to Mrs. J. G. Williams, Mrs. M. Higgins, Mrs. W. Cox and Mrs. D. Mackie.

Rossland

ROSSLAND, B.C. — The home of Mrs. Marzocco was the scene of a jolly Hallowe'en party when the friends of her daughters, Joanne and Gail, gathered to help them celebrate Hallowe'en. The rooms were seasonally decorated. Games and contests were enjoyed and prizes given to all. A dainty supper was served by the hostess, assisted by Mrs. Jean Cozzetti, Margaret and Eileen Jani of Trail. The nicely appointed tea table was decorated with Hallowe'en motifs and was centred with a prettily decorated Hallowe'en cake. Invited guests were Dianne and Frances Thompson, Lorraine and Mercedes Schwartzenhaeur, Bridie and Eileen Keane, Yvonne Jeffers, Eileen and Marilyn Grimard, Lois and Donna Faye Haley, Caron Driscoll, Irene Davis, Bernardette, Joanne and Gail Marzzocco, Mrs. Elmer Thompson, Mrs. P. Bateman, Mrs. Jean Cozzetti, and Margaret and Eileen Jani of Trail.

Mrs. W. A. Turner entertained the Mothers' Club of the Jobs Daughters Bethel. Plans were made to assist the girls in their various projects, among which will be a home cooking and rummage sale in mid-November. Refreshments were served. Present were Mrs. L. Laslett, Mrs. A. Hubner, Mrs. D. A. Burnett, Mrs. P. Elmes, Mrs. R. Rose, Mrs. E. Perkins, Mrs. R. Donaldson and the hostess.

Mr. and Mrs. J. F. Cooper and son Farron, left for Saanichton, Victoria B.C., where they plan to make their home. Mr. and Mrs. Cooper have resided in Rossland for over 20 years and conducted the Marie's Ladies' Ready To Wear store here. They were active in the community. Mrs. Cooper was a member of St. George's Anglican Choir and a charter member of the Rossland Trail Soroptomist Club, while Mr. Cooper served as a alderman on the Rossland City Council, a member of various men's organizations and was active in St. George's Anglican Church for 16 years.

Mrs. C. Hutton, who has been visiting her father, J. Forrester in Vancouver, is expected home this weekend. She is accompanied by her small son, Jimmy.

The Manse of St. Andrew's United Church, Rossland, was the scene of a quiet wedding on Wednesday afternoon when at two o'clock, Rev. T. B. McMillan, B.A., heard the marriage vows of Mrs. Olive Curtis Joss, younger daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Emmanuel Triggs, LeRoi Avenue, and Fernand Noel Boutry, son of Mr. and Mrs. Nestor Boutry of Newton, B.C.

The bride was attractively attired in a grey tailored afternoon frock, which featured a round neckline, short puffed sleeves and a self belt trimmed with silver nail heads, with which she wore a chic navy flowered chapeau and her other accessories were navy.

The bride's brother-in-law and sister, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Blaibut of Trail were the only witnesses. Both ladies wore shoulder corsages entone. Immediately after the ceremony the happy couple left on a honeymoon to be spent motoring in the Kootenays. For travelling Mrs. Boutry donned a fur muskrat coat.

Round-World Fliers On Final Flight

ANCHORAGE, Alaska, Nov. 7 (AP)—The round-the-world fliers, George Truman and Cliff Evans, today decided to take off Saturday on the final laps of their world flight back to the United States in their tiny 100-horsepower planes.

In event of bad weather, they will fly the Alaska Highway route South to Edmonton rather than their previously-planned flight route to Annette Island, Southeastern Alaska, and then to Los Angeles.

Shot to Death In Argument

ROCHESTER, N. Y., Nov. 7 (AP) —Roland Price, who claimed he had been short-changed $4, was shot to death last night by a squad of policemen who said he threatened to draw a gun. Price had no gun, it developed after he had been shot eight times in a street near the restaurant where the change argument took place.

MARRIAGE FAIR SUCCESSFUL FOR MANY JAPANESE

TOKYO, Nov. 7 (AP) — Three hundred Japanese—women hunting husbands and men seeking wives—paraded the banks of the Tama River looking each other over in a marriage fair sponsored by a marriage magazine, the newspaper Asahi reported today.

Dressed in their best, "a considerable number" found mates, Asahi said. Some of the women "were accompanied by their mothers, which probably didn't help."

The procedure:

1. Register at the entrance to the grounds.
2. Get a number.
3. Place number on chest.
4. Walk up and down the bank, ogling each passerby.
5. Spot a likely prospect, take down the number, run to the registration tent and get a card file, giving the prospect's life history (bank balance included!).
6. Propose, if desired.

Salmo

SALMO, B. C. — Friday evening the second annual Hallowe'en party for Salmo youngsters was held in the rink.

With funds donated by business firms and interested individuals, enough candies, cookies, apples and hot dogs were secured to satisfy all who attended. Games, races and bingo were enjoyed. Ed Avery and Bob Rotter as energetic clowns kept everyone on their toes. The judges, Misses Walthers, Lindsay and Irvin, Mrs. Hulme and Mr. Grey had a difficult time choosing six winners from among the masqueraders.

Although quite a bit of fireworks were heard, no property damage was done.

Later in the evening the K. P. Lodge sponsored a masquerade dance in their hall. One of the best attended in years. After the grand march at midnight the following received handsome prizes: Best dressed, Ruth Larsen and June Fair and Skinny Anderson; original, Miss Kay Gould, R. Hulme and comic, Mrs. J. Bendis and Chet Bush. A spot dance prize was won by Laura Zarchukoff and Cecil Gretchin. The out-of-town music and delicious refreshments completed an enjoyable evening.

Miss Ann Barkley entertained Salmo's younger set at a Hallowe'en party Saturday night. About thirty guests spent the evening in traditional Hallowe'end style with trick games and refreshments.

F. R. Rotter plans to leave this week for a vacation with his brother and sister-in-law in California.

Mrs. Antefeoff has as her guests her brother-in-law and sister.

Messrs. L. Lang, M. Tarawoff and B. Bartsoff plan to leave for Vancouver where they expect to log for the next several months.

Members of an Instructional Unit of the Fire Marshalls Department have been giving lectures and showing films in connection with their work in Salmo for the past several days.

Miss Lucille Rose of Erie was taken to Nelson for treatment for foot injuries received while playing.

COLEMAN-AXELSON

● On Wednesday evening, Oct. 29, at seven o'clock, Rev. G. G. Boothroyd united in marriage at a candlelight ceremony, at Trinity United Church, Martha May Axelson, eldest daughter of Mrs. V. Peressini and the late Herbert Axelson of Nelson, and James William Coleman, only son of William Coleman and the late Mrs. Coleman of Nelson. For her marriage the youthful bride chose a white satin floor length gown featuring a rounded nylon neckline and long pointed sleeves over which hung her net chapel length veil, held in place by a coronet of orange blossoms. Her bouquet was made up of pink roses. Her bridesmaid was Miss Rose Hrynuik and the groom was supported by Frank Turner. Her flower girl was her young sister Linda Peressini. The wedding music was played by Mrs. C. W. Tyler, organist of the Trinity United Church. About 30 guests assembled at the Canadian Legion for the reception. For travelling to the Coast cities on their honeymoon, Mrs. Coleman changed to a beige dressmaker suit and matching hat over which she wore a fur coat. Out of town guests included Mr. and Mrs. C. Holm, Mr. and Mrs. H. Coleman, Mr. and Mrs. G. A. Cole and Mrs. D. Johnson all of Grand Forks, Mr. and Mrs. V. Holms of Cascade, Mrs. E. Canadian Airmen Prepared for Flying Near-Supersonic Speed Planes

OTTAWA, Nov. 7 (CP) — Canada's regular Air Force is preparing personnel to fly the near-supersonic speed planes of tomorrow.

Air Force Headquarters disclosed today that the first group of 21 post-war aircrew now undergoing training at No. 1 Manning Depot, Toronto, have been given, among other tests, special scientific screening to determine whether they "are physically capable of flying at near supersonic speeds."

The Air Force said that special equipment of the Institute of Aviation Medicine at Toronto and is being used to make these tests.

The class, 15 of whom were selected from the ranks of serving airmen who enlisted last year, begin their careers as commissioned aircrew officers on the eight-week initial training course during which they are given many other tests besides those for near-supersonic speed flying.

On completion of initial training they will have been typed either as pilots or radio-navigators and will be posted to the flying training school at Centralia, Ont., or to the Radar and Communications School at Clinton, Ont., for pilot and radio-navigator training.

The Air Force said that although wartime veterans of the RCAF younger men for future aircrew. form a large pool of trained fliers which could be drawn upon in an emergency, "it is considered necessary to reach into the ranks of

QUEEN TO WEAR APRICOT-GOLD LANE GOWN

LONDON, Nov. 7 (AP)—Spokesman for the Royal Family announced today that the Queen will wear an apricot-and-gold lame gown with a pointed train and the Order of the Garter for the wedding of Princess Elizabeth and Lieut. Philip Mountbatten Nov. 20.

"From a V-shaped waistline bands of brocade are drawn up to each shoulder, where the drapery is gathered, and falls over the shoulders in the shape of a semi-circular draped cape," an official description said.

The gown has long, tight sleeves and a full-length skirt ending in the pointed train.

The Queen will wear a hip-length sable cape, presented by the Hudson's Bay Company. Her hat will be of apricot shade with amber-tinted feathers.

HAS HIS DAY

LONDON, Nov. 7 (CP) — Every dog has his day, and so did the dog that was bumped by Frank Shielding's motorcar here. When Shielding got out to investigate, the canine bit his left hand. Shielding went to hospital for treatment, and the dog limped off.

People in Many Lands to Taste Princess' Cake

LONDON, Nov. 6 (AP)—Friends of Princess Elizabeth in many parts of the world will be able to sample her wedding cake, court sources said today.

Of the 12 cakes which the Princess consented to accept, only one is "official." It will be served at the wedding breakfast in Buckingham Palace, and she herself will have a portion of it. The others will be displayed at the palace reception and later cut and distributed among friends at home and abroad, in keeping with royal tradition.

"The cakes, being masterpieces of the bakers' and confectioners' art, will be beautifuly ornamental," one court source said.

"But let no one think their purpose is exclusively artistic nor that time—within reasonable limits—will stale their fine quality."

Girls' organizations and other groups in Australia and elsewhere in the Commonwealth who sent ingredients for the cakes will be remembered in the sharing. So also will be relatives and friends of the Royal Family abroad who are unable to attend the wedding.

When the King and Queen were married, their No. 1 wedding cake stood nine feet tall, weighed 800 pounds, and provided scores of gift slices which were sent all over the world. Nothing so ambitious was attempted for the Princess' wedding in an austere age.

Princess Elizabeth's cakes are being made from recipes kept secret by the bakers. Into their production have gone the skill of many experts—chemists, dietitians, bride cake "architects' and other specialists.

Substitute Sugar For Sunlight to Grow Tomatoes

By HOWARD W. BLAKESLEE
Associated Press Science Editor

NEW YORK, Nov. 7 (AP)—Ordinary table sugar is being used as a substitute for sunlight to make tomatoes grow.

This is reported by Dr. Robert Hockett, Scientific Director of the Sugar Research Foundation, which sponsored the sugar-sunlight experiments.

The sugar was sprayed in liquid form on the under sides of tomato leaves by Prof. F. W. Went of the California Institute of Technology. These tomatoes were grown in a greenhouse. Their natural light was cut down until the plants became stunted.

Then the sugar spray was used and the stunted tomatoes grew as well as those getting adequate light.

Hockett said no practical tests of the uses of this discovery have been made, but that it is hoped to make some this Winter.

The results are not expected to be confined to tomatoes. The sugar ought to work on all kinds of plants. Hockett said it seems possible that sugar, supplementing light in greenhouses, may pay off in terms of larger, earlier and more numerous fruits and flowers.

Went found also that when tomatoes are transplanted, they recover from the shock quicker if their leaves have been sugar-sprayed a few hours before the transplanting.

Hockett explained that substituting sugar for light seemed a natural experiment because of the way that plants make their own sugar. All plants produce some sugar along with their starches.

Students Sit in Town Hall Every Day

BRADFORD, Ont., Nov. 7 (CP)—Public school students in this town 40 miles North of Toronto sit in the Town Hall every day. They were moved because of overcrowding in the school, and in their new room have a sight-saving green blackboard. Councillors are not allowed in class.

Escaped Lion Caged

DALLAS, Tex., Nov. 7 (AP)—The survivor of a pair of lions that wandered about five hours yesterday was safely caged. The male and female full-grown African lions escaped from the cage of their private owner. Before a posse of 50 armed men and women ended a five-hour hunt, one man had been bitten and the female lion killed.

Miner Unable to Aid Trapped Brother

BRANCHDALE, Pa., Nov. 7 (AP) George Krammes, 32-year-old miner of Cressona, was killed when he was trapped 350 feet below the surface in an independent mine. His brother, Clarke, managed to escape but was unable to aid George, whose cries he could hear through an 18-foot barrier.

KNOW YOUR TREES

Engelmann Spruce
(Picea Engelmann)
A coniferous tree occuring in the interior of the province, preferring land moist from springs, seepage or overflow. Of merchantable size at middle and lower elevations; stunted or depressed at timber line. Occupies plateau sites in southern interior, gradually approaching valley floors as you progress north. In dense stands, reaches height of from 80 to 135 feet and diameter from 18 to 36 inches. At high altitudes is often only 2 to 4 feet high.
Similar to White Spruce, the two may be cut together without distinguishing them. Suitable for pulp wood, cooperage, sounding boards in pianos, violins and normal lumber products.

Learning to See

At the Yerkes Laboratories of Primate Biology at Orange Park, Fla., baby chimpanzees were raised in darkness until they were 16 months old. By that time they were able to sit and reach and run around in a way like that of a 2-year-old human child. Naturally, they had never used their eyes.

Then these babies were brought into the light for their first look. They were blind!

They would turn their heads toward a light. Their eye pupils would dilate or contract with changes in light intensity. They would be startled by sudden changes in illumination. But aside from these responses to light, they saw nothing. Even if a chimp playmate hit one of them in the face with something, he did not blink or show any sign of avoidance until the object actually touched the skin. Then he jumped, startled.

If the nursing bottle was held before them they gave not a single sign of recognition. It was not until one of them had been in the light for 11 days that she puckered up her lips on sight of the bottle. Not for 16 days—48 meals—did she learn to reach for it.

Study of humans born blind and later given their first sight by removal of cataracts showed that they, too, have great difficulty learning to "see". The prompt visual learning so characteristic of adult humans and apes is not, therefore, an inborn capacity, but requires a long apprenticeship in the use of the eyes, Dr. Austin H. Riesen concludes in his report of the experiment in The Journal of Science.

The Family Allowance

Officials of the Department of Health and Welfare are congratulating themselves that the family allowance scheme has turned up only one case of fraud in more than two years. They have reason for satisfaction with the way it has worked, but perhaps it is a little too early for them to uncross their fingers.

The detection of one abuse does not necessarily mean it is the only abuse. In view of the hundreds of thousands who are receiving this aid, it will not be surprising if other cases of dishonesty are exposed from time to time. The near-perfection achieved upto the present is almost too good to be true.

Just the same, the operation of this social security measure to date is a compliment to Canadian integrity. In making applications for it, parents were placed on their honor, and, by and large, they have lived up to this trust.

Early allegations that the system established would lead inevitably to petty larceny have not been borne out. The Department in charge proceeded on the conviction that most persons are "thoroughly honest," and events have justified this trust.

Court Dignity

At Kingston, during a murder trial, Chief Justice J. C. McRuer had to reprimand spectators for laughing in the court. At Parry Sound, when a woman was acquitted, after sordid evidence, of the charge of murdering her husband, Mr. Justice D. P. J. Kelly frowned upon an outburst of applause.

These incidents reflect upon the mentality of persons who commit such outbursts in courts. They also do no credit upon any judge who permits them without giving stern warnings. Court cases are serious, especially to those involved, and particularly when murder is charged.

It is strength and protection to our judicial system that trials are in public. It is an assurance that the law is being administered fairly. But another bulwark of the system is that there shall be dignity and order in the courtroom. It is the responsibility of judges and other court officials to see that the bad manners of some spectators are not permitted to lower the atmosphere in which justice is being meted out.

They whose guilt within their bosom lies, imagine every eye beholds their blame.
—Shakespeare.

The Adventurous

Despite lack of adequate sleeping and dining accommodations, more than 6000 persons took out permits to travel over the Alaska Highway during the past season.

Canada's Northland is rugged and challenging. Probably just because it is challenging does it hold such a lure. There are people from the Southern States, for instance, who make their way up to the end of steel at Moosonee, the entrance to James Bay.

These tourists take the black flies, the mosquitoes and the rather primitive conditions of the North in their stride. As long as there are railroads and highways, there will always be people who want to go to the end of them—if only to see what is there.

Class Warfare

To the Editor:

Sir—Mankind is being compelled to think, actually to think! The sloppy, one-sided explanations and assumptions of yesterday will no longer suffice for the critical examination of man's actions, that this NEW AGE requires. "Former things have passed away, all things have become new." Thinking is no easy and pleasant job. Most of us hate it and try to settle our political problems by calling those who do not agree with us Communists or Fascists. But think we must, and think honestly. Our very survival will depend on the quality of our thinking; not on our power to hurl bombs or fire bullets at each other.

The term "class warfare" is terrifying to very many. The good mother who searches from store to store, trying to find cheap supplies for her family, is utterly unaware that she is taking an active part in it, bless her kindly soul. She may grumble at the prices and even think that some wicket capitalists or agitators in the trade unions have caused her difficulties, or the grasping storekeepers are to blame, or Government officials are the bad men; even the poor old farmers may get a little of her displeasure, if it is butter or eggs that she is bargaining for. She does not consider that, as she buys, she is an employer of LABOR, and, like all employers, is anxious to get the full value of her money and perhaps a good deal more. Yes, we are all "capitalist-minded." We cannot help it in a capitalistic society. Just as the good Christian theoretically condemns war and knows that it is un-Christian to shoot other theoretical Christians, or even heathens. But what are we to do when those horrid Russians are so ill natured as to laugh at us and our ways, and keep calling us names and sending spies? Something that we would never do!

That good mother, trying to do the best she can for her family, can at least teach us sympathy and humility. She does not understand the forces that have her in their grip. She is very shortsighted, but so are "our leading statesmen," who are only beginning to see the new problems arising on "Old Mother Earth".

At least we can learn that mankind does divide very naturally into two classes, whose interests are opposed. The producers and the consumers. Of course all producers are also consumers. Alas! All consumers are not producers. They ought to be! Canada would be much healthier and happier if they were. Great numbers contrive to get fat livings by very shabby tricks, and our legal machinery is often of very great assistance to these parasites. These are our real enemies, who artfully contrive to make the real workmen bear their burdens and who too often despise "the poor fools" who "have to do their dirty work." Do not blame them excessively. They are the victims of circumstances, but we must stop this rascality.

In old England there are immense numbers of rooks. The English variety of crows. These rooks are very valuable by devouring wire worms, grubs, etc. If, however, they become too numerous, the supply of grubs runs short and they turn to new-sown grain for a living. Humanity behaves in exactly the same way. If Canada becomes oversupplied with any particular class, many must degenerate into parasites, which explains why so many cults and sects spring up and live on their differences. Insignificant differences become their principal reason for being.

It is always the fate of human societies, where wealth is unevenly produced and very unjustly shared, to become the prey of parasites. Canada is an excellent example of this. A very intelligent foreigner declared that we are rapidly becoming a "nation of pedlars," "despising honest work, which we think is degrading." So our "white collar class" grows and grows, and the population swarms into our bloated cities, which will presently spew them forth—desperate and USELESS.

Our duty, then, in this great class struggle, is to bring about proportion and planning. Our real enemies are these swarming crowds of misapplied humanity, whose work is very often worse than useless. They may be most respectable and prosperous in appearance, and make lots of money, and yet be parasites. "By their fruits we shall know them." This is practical politics, the most practical politics. But be tolerant. Tolerance is the essential oil in human machinery, far better and more effective than mere cleverness.

Most people would like to feel that they are USEFUL, and everyone in Canada could attain this most noble ambition by doing a little real work. Not too much.

Yours for JUSTICE.

J. C. HARRIS.

A. A., Kimberley—I have made a bet on the population of Canada at the last census. As we can't find figures, would you please print them?

Subscriber, Trail—H. M., Kimberley, writes that one of the best eradicants for bedbugs is a powder known as Black Death, put up by Smythe's Drugstore in Nelson. The bug will come out in the open and die when contacted, a second application will destroy the eggs, and your room will be perfectly clean.

Reader, Creston—Could I have the Horoscope for Friday, Oct. 31?

If your birthday anniversary is today, you are kind, and loving, sympathetic and quite sensitive, are very popular aand a comfortable person to have around. Although you are retiring and unassuming, you have good judgment, once you make up your mind. You have many friends. Your day is doubtful concerning friends, hopes, wishes, travel and speculation. Do not spend all your substance on doubtful pleasures and worthless associates. Avoid speculation and law. Conserve your resources. Born on this date a child should be early taught the value of money and the dangers attending extravagance and excessive love of pleasure. Ambition will prove the best antidote.

D. G., Nelson—At what point does water freeze on the Centigrade thermometer and on the Fahrenheit? What formula is used to change Fahrenheit to Centigrade?

Water freezes at 0 degrees Centigrade and 32 degrees Fahrenheit. To reduce Fahrenheit to Centigrade, subtract 32 degrees and multiply by 5/9; to reduce Centigrade to Fahrenheit, multiply by 9/5 and add 32 degrees.

John Kirkup, Gold Commissioner of Rossland, was a visitor in the city yesterday.

Harry Wright has been appointed Justice of the Peace.

Today's Horoscope

If this is your birthday, you are determined, discreet and conservative. Your tastes are fastidious; you like comfort and ease of luxurious surroundings. You are an ardent lover; have musical ability, are shrewd and resourceful, and few people can get the better of you. The day is doubtful regarding bills, joint monies, receipts and dates. In your next year do not spoil your chances of success and happiness by carping criticism and erratic actions. Exercise self-control and patience. Defer changes and travel; safeguard your health. Born today a child will be hyper-critical, fault-finding, peculiar-tempered, and difficult to control. Abundant rest and open-air life will be necessary to maintain good health.

HOROSCOPE FOR SUNDAY

You have persistence and determination and never acknowledge defeat. You do not confide in others but like to work out your plans alone and in your own way. You have many friends and are well liked by all. Your home life will be contented and happy, and you will have the undivided devotion of your mate. Your birthday will be good for social interests, romance, travel, out-of-town, foreign, past matters; and also where friends and groups are concerned. Love, domestic and/or social affairs loom large on the horizon of your next year, promising happiness and success, but beware of some disputation. This will be a memorable year. Born on this date, a child will evince outstanding artistic and musical talent, and be very successful and popular. Romance will play an exceptionally important part in the life.

WORLD FULL OF NOISES

The world is full of noises, the honking of horns, the whistle of trains, the chatter of people and, running like an undertone through it all, the familiar sounds of Nature.

Wind whispers about leaves and grasses, sighs through treetops, whimpers around the house corners. Rain taps on the window, patters on the roof and beats out a rhythm on the earth.

Waves thunder and crash. Brooks ripple and laugh. Rivers sing contentedly. Trees murmur and whisper together. Grasses rustle. Wings flutter. Crickets chirp and birds carol joyously.

These sounds of Nature are not obtrusive sounds. They are not heard above the hum of traffic or the tumult of thought. But they have a way of filtering into consciousness, broadening and diffusing, leaving ever widening streams of quiet.—Montreal Gazette.

Urges Movie Projectors for Lardo Schools

HOWSER, Nov. 7—Many attended the regular monthly meeting of the Lardo Board of Trade held at Howser School on Tuesday. All Lardeau communities were represented.

R. Humble of Argenta suggested to the Board that a movie projector be bought in the very near future as the need is intrinsic for education and recreational purposes.

The Board was honored by the presence of Miss M. J. Matthews, the District Public Health Nurse. It was hoped by the people of the Lardeau Valley that some way would be provided for them, to benefit the free T. B. examinations to be given at Kaslo, Nov. 17. Over 100 people will miss this opportunity if transportation is not available.

Another subject discussed was the distribution of the children's Xmas fund of $98.60 which was raised recently. It was decided that the teacher in each community be allotted equal amounts for each child.

Frank Willis moved, following a vote decision, that a letter be sent to the Assistant Superintendent of the C. P. R. requesting a change in the weekly route of the "S.S.Moyie" Kootenay Lake boat to call at Lardeau before Argenta. This change would enable the people of all points North of Lardeau to obtain their freight, mail, etc., about 1½ hours earlier. The present schedule being Argenta prior to Lardeau.

Moose Convention Huge Success At Kimberley

KIMBERLEY, B.C., Nov. 7—The most successful Moose Convention ever held in Kimberley took place last weekend when visitors started to pour in about 2 p.m. Saturday afternoon and accommodations were taxed to the limit.

Over 75 visitors were here from Spokane, Troy, Colville, Loon Lake, Bonners Ferry, Chewela, Libbey, Fernie and one member from Toronto.

To open the celebration an International Dance was held at Oughtred Hall were a huge crowd turned out to welcome the visitors. Sunday morning, sightseeing trips throughout the city were held including a trip to the tunnel and mine model, where Jay Colthorpe gave a very interesting lecture to over 50 people on the workings of the Sullivan Mine.

Enthusiastic meetings were held in the K.P. Hall in the afternoon when a class of 24 candidates were initiated into the first degree. These included 17 from Kimberley, five from Fernie and two from Troy. This class was led by J. D. Fraser.

Later 15 members were initiated into the second degree known as the Legion of the Moose. The degree work was very ably put on by the ritualistic team from Spokane under the direction of Pete Reilly.

To complete the day the convention banquet was held in the I.O.O.F. Hall. E. White Smith of Spokane acted as toastmaster who very ably introduced the visitors and speakers. The banquet was catered to by members of the Canadian Legion Auxiliary.

For those who stayed over till Monday a trip through the mine and concentrator was arranged.

These International meetings were discontinued during the war years and Kimberley Lodge has taken the initiative to have them revived.

COLLECT $57 TO AID BLIND

NAKUSP, B. C., Nov. 7—Nakusp Women's Institute meeting heard Mrs. J. Parent Jr., report that $57.53 had been collected on the tag day for the blind. Young ladies assisting the tag were Misses Lorraine Armstrong, Marjorie Lee, Yvonne Bedard, Doreen Parent, Rosemarie Portelance, Donna McQuair, Emily Hurry, Beth Rushton, Joy Oxenham, Lorraine Henke.

Mrs. M. Embree reported for the cemetery committee stating that it had not been possible to obtain anyone to do clean up work and that a new plan was being drawn of cemetery grounds.

Secretary Mrs. Armstrong stated library collections had not yet been completed. Final arrangements are to be completed at directors' meeting in December. The annual meeting will be held in December and election of officers in January.

The December program by members' children will be in charge of Mrs. A. B. S. Stanley, Mrs. O. M. Armstrong and Mrs. B. Crowell.

Mrs. E. C. Johnson reported for the National Film Board.

Afternoon tea was served by the hostesses, Mrs. A. B. Stanley, Mrs. P. R. Henke and Mrs. A. E. Fowler.

Truckers to Compete In "Roadeo"

VANCOUVER, Nov. 7 (CP) — British Columbia's modern "knights of the road" — the men who wheel the big transport trucks over Provincial highways—will demonstrate their skill here Saturday and Sunday during elimination contests for Canada's first truck "Roadeo."

Five drivers will be selected to represent the province at the national contests being held at the the Canadian National Exhibition grounds in Toronto Dec. 2.

A B.C.-wide Roadeo is planned here in February.

"The truck roadeo was conceived by the American Trucking Association," Gene L. Buckman, Secretary-Manager of the Automotive Transport Association of B.C., said.

"It started this year and now is a major attraction in Madison Square Garden, New York. The purpose of the roadeo is to give annual recognition to the best and safest truck drivers in the nation."

Love Problems

Married Women Regard Divorcee As Ruthless, Designing Creature

A few weeks ago a letter printed in this column, from a married woman, complained of an unattached woman making a play for my correspondents husband. The writer of the letter found it hard to know which one to be most angry at—her husand, who was apparently flattered by this woman's attention, or the woman herself.

One of my readers who saw the letter and who has been turned into an "unattached woman" through divorce, felt that such things were very far from always being the fault of the single woman, and takes up the argument from that point of view.

She writes:

"In your column you bring us the letter of a jealous wife who has a grudge at 'unattached women' as she calls us.

"I happen to be a divorcee, in my late 30s. I lived with my husband 17 years and have two children 16 and 11 years old. Now I have a chance to understand the unattached woman's view-point. I work in a place where there are a lot of men and women, and where I live here are about 15 couples with whom I come in contact nearly every day. If any of the husbands so much as pay me a compliment on my apeparance, or my ability to carry on and make a home for my children, their wives turn very cold shoulders to me, and some even make cutting remarks.

"Now, Miss Atkinson, what is a woman in my shoes supposed to do? How are we going to make men friends? We can't go up to an unattached man and ask him for a date. All I want out of life is what I have always wanted; a home, a good husband that I can love and make a nice home for, and have him, his love, and my children in return. I certainly don't want any*one else's husband, either. How am* I to find this love and home?"

This letter points up the fact that the unattached woman has two distinct problems: One is to keep on good terms with married women who are prepared to resent any slight attention their husbands may pay to her; and the second is to find a husband and home for herself and her children.

The latter problem is the same as any single woman has to face, and the social rules are the same in all cases. That is, all the single woman can do is to enlarge her social life as much as possible so that she will have the maximum opportunity to to meet eligible men.

As for the other problem, it is a very real one, particularly in the case of a divorced woman. For some reason or other, a woman with a divorce is almost invariably supposed to be a designing creature with an eye for any man who crosses her path. She is apparently thought of as extremely sophisticated and ready to be ruthless in taking a man away from another woman if she can. Even the most intelligent wives are instinctively suspicious of her.

All this is something about which a divorced woman can do very little exxcept to watch her step as carefully as she can and have enough worldly wisdom to accept the situation for what it is. If she can look at it with humor, she is that much to the good. Humor and understanding will go far in helping such a woman make a good life for herself and may even have a part in making her so attractive that when an eligible man comes along he won't be able to resist her.

DEBATE CONTINUES ON QUESTION OF CLEANING NOTED PAINTINGS

By MONTAGUE TAYLOR

LONDON, Nov. 7 (Reuters)—The National Gallery's current exhibition of the paintings by oldmasters cleaned by scientific process during the last 12 years has brought into bold relief the old controversy over whether pictures should be left to age or whether they are restored to their original beauty by cleaning.

Most competent observers see startling changes—some think for the better, others declare for the worse.

The controversy, which reached a climax before the war over the cleaning of the Velasquez portrait of Philip IV of Spain, flared up again last Winter over the cleaning of more world famous paintings at the National Gallery.

The broad conclusion has been that while many critics complain bitterly of loss of tone and alteration of contours, the paintings have revealed in many respects the artists' original intentions and often brilliant colors which had become dulled by off-color protective varnishes.

Infra-red, X-ray and ultra-violet photography was used to enable the experts to determine what damage had been caused to the pictures by the passage of time, how colors were affected by the varnish which yellows with age, and what changes were actually brought about by the cleaning process. All these stages are illustrated at the exhibition now being held.

18th century has ben subject to one or more cleanings. Since there is no varnish which does not yellow with age, it has become generally accepted that there comes a time in the life of every old picture when careful cleaning is imperative.

Nevertheless there are many—among them prominent artists like Augustus John and the French artist, Jacques Emile Blanche—who argue that other treasures besides the controversial Velasquez have been little short of ruined by being sent to the cleaners.

The cleaning problem is an involved one. One critic compared a painting to a four-decker sandwich comprised of the support (canvas of panel), the ground (a coating covering the porous support, the paint itself and the varnish.

The National Gallery exhibition, apart from giving the public some general groundwork on which to base their views on a very controversial subject, has demonstrated another point. Thousands of dollars worth of damage has already been done by damp in Britain's famous galelry. The nation's treasures are in danger because shortage of labor and materials is delaying installation of the necessary air-conditioning plant.

Rubens "Chateau de Steen" has split almost from side to side as a result of last Winter's severe cold.

NURSES CHAPTER AT KIMBERLEY TO DECORATE WARD

KIMBERLEY, B.C., Nov. 7 — At the regular monthly meeting of the Kimberley Nurses' Chapter, plans were made for the decorating of the Children's Ward in McDougall Hospital. It will also keep it supplied with toys, books and other comforts for its tiny patients.

A donation of $25 was voted to the Community Chest.

Proceeds of the recent tea and home baking sale were $47.

Deaths at Waterfront

VANCOUVER, Nov. 7 (CP)—Two separate accidents on the Vancouver waterfront in the last two days have claimed the lives of city man, Robert Keleny, and Praxton Adams, 19-year-old seaman from Pritchard, Alabama.

Keleny at a fish company plant fell and struck his face on a box. He later became violently ill and died in a doctor's office.

LONDON, Nov. 7 (CP) — John Ahearne, Secretary of the British Ice Hockey Association, announced today that the Amateur Athletic Union of the United States plans to send a hockey team to the Winter Olympics at St. Moritz, Switzerland, next February.

Ahearne commented that "such a club won't be allowed to compete and will only be wasting time and money if they attempt to go through with it."

He said hockey officials of Europe and North America are taking steps to squelch such a trip. "The move, in all probability, was inspired by Avery Brundage, Chairman of the United States Olympic Committee. It will be the last kick in the two-year-old feud between the A.A.U. and A.H.A. (Amateur Hockey Association of the United States) but it won't work."

It also was reported here that Brundage has informed the International Olympic Committee that if an A.H.A. of U.S. team is accepted no other American competitor in any sport will participate in the games.

The American feud was brought to a head at Prague last February when the A.H.A. of U.S., with Canada's blessing, replaced the A.A.U. as a member of the International Ice Hockey Federation.

Revised Plans For Aquatic Centre Completed

Revised plans for Nelson Aquatic Centre have been completed by W. F. Williams, Architect, it was announced Friday.

Final details for the year-round athletic and recreational centre at Lakeside Park will be discussed at a joint Committee meeting of City Council and Nelson Kinsmen Club members. Mayor T. H. Waters, Aldermen T. D. Rosling, A. H. Allan and T. S. Shorthouse and Kinsmen H. A. D. Greenwood, A. T. Godfrey and J. B. Stark will attend.

The Kinsmen Club will donate $1000 toward the project each night of its four coming Kinauctions.

Lowly Rangers Snare Rawleigh

WINNIPEG, Nov. 7 (CP) — The long-drawn battle for services of 21-year-old Don Raleigh ended yesterday with the Winnipeg lad's announcement he again would turn professional with New York Rangers of the National Hockey League.

Raleigh's announcement ended a three-year struggle by Ranger Coach Frankie Boucher to lure back to the fold the speedy youngster who played the first 13 games with Rangers in the 1943-44 season.

Boucher didn't forget the promise showed by Raleigh, who at 17 held his own in major league competition, retiring only after breaking his jaw.

But if Boucher was elated over his delayed conquest, Winnipeg was correspondingly desolate.

From 1942, when Raleigh could have qualified for the Manitoba midget hockey championship — he scored six goals and set up four more to help fashion a 12-2 victory —he shone brilliantly in the local hockey picture.

He was named top provincial junior in 1946 after an Army hitch in 1945 and last season performed for six teams.

This feat, nigh impossible for any one but "The Count," saw him play in the Western Canada senior finals, tour with the Brandon Elk Juniors and travel with the University of Manitoba Bisons. He also played for and coached the Brandon College sextet.

ON THE LEGION ALLEYS

V. J. Graves and teammates copped the first draw of the Christmas Tournament on the Legion Alleys by downing the W. Leslie quintet by a score of 1112-1096.

High individual score, 141, was notched up by G. Strong. Mrs. C. DeFerro rolled out the high aggregate for the evening. Her tally was 268.

Scores follow:

W. LESLIE: Mrs. M. Adams 153, G. Strong 250, Mrs. C. Cummins 230. B. Vecchio 203, W. Leslie 260. Total 1096.

V. J. GRAVES: Mrs. O. Anderson 201, C. Cummins 213, J. Medelec 180, Mrs. C. Deferro 268, V. J. Graves 250. Total 1112.

Louis Looks Sharp in First Workout For Joe Walcott Bout December 5th

By WHITNEY MARTIN

POMPTON LAKES, N. J., Nov. 7 (AP)—The place was silent except for the soft swish, swish of shoes scraping over canvas, the soggy thud of big gloves meeting human flesh, and an occasional explosive grunt.

Finally Marshall Miles, a wispy little man who serves as the champion's manager, said "Time," and Joe Louis, breathing easily and quite unperturbed, walked to a corner of the ring, and Jimmy Bell, a lithe 188-pound Negro, wobbled to another and climbed through the ropes, obviously quite happy his chore was over.

Another Negro, George Fitch, who has served as the champ's sparring partner for years, hunched his way into the ring, adjusted his massive headguard, and Miles again said 'Time."

It was Joe's first serious ring work since his knockout of Tami Mauriello 14 months ago, but looking at him you would have imagined he had been training every day and this was his last workout before a big fight, instead of the first.

"HE'S SHARP"

He stalked the apprehensive Fitch relentlessly. He jabbed, he hooked, he crossed his right, and whichever way Fitch turned there was the sloe-eyed, inscrutable destroyer in front of him, and you remembered the champion's casual remark before his second fight with Billy Conn: "He can run, but he can't hide."

Fitch took a thorough battering in his two rounds. Perspiring and puffing, he ventured an opinion.

"He's sharp," he said. "Sharper than he was the first day of training for Conn."

The faithful Manny Seamon steered the champion through a door into a rubbing room, and the score or so of spectators arose and moved aimlessly in the clean, orderly room, obeying the "No Smoking" signs without exception.

JOE READY NOW

In the rubbing room the champion was stretched out on a table as Manny and George Nicholson, another faithful employee, oiled him and rubbed him vigorously. Joe was docile and passive, his marvelous body showing no trace of the extra eight pounds he is supposed to be carrying at 216.

"You looked like a million dollars," a reporter told him. Joe grinned and stretched out a hand.

"Here's five," he said, then added: "I've 'bout convinced myself I'm only 28 instead of 33. You know, down where I was born they didn't keep records very good. My mother might have made a mistake."

He'll be ready for Jersey Joe Walcott Dec. 5. In fact, we have an idea he's ready right now.

David Scott, Well-Known Nelson Author, Has First Plays Published

Radio listeners across Canada have tuned into his plays, stage-goers in British Columbia have seen them enacted, and now they are available to producers everywhere.

David Scott, widely-known Nelson playwright, has had two plays, an historical script, "Paths of Glory," and a comedy, "A Sudden Shock," printed by a Canadian publishing company.

Both of one-act length, the plays are of diverse themes, and illustrate to some extent the versatility of their author.

"Paths of Glory," which involved detailed study and research of the subject matter, deals with General Wolfe and the capture of Quebec in 1759. Written about five years ago, it was later produced at the Toronto Conservatory.

"I am particularly interested in Canadian history, especially at the time about which this play is written, and I feel it is the more important of the two plays," Mr. Scott commented. "The period was crucial, in that Canada's future (whether or not the country would be under French or English rule) depended on its outcome."

Just how General Wolfe captured the French stronghold has been debated by historians, so Mr. Scott was free to use all the authentic background material he could obtain to "work out a solution, and found much of his references at Nelson Municipal Library.

"A Sudden Shock" is a homorous story involving an unwanted role in a play, a masked robber, youthful love and a case of stammers. Its cast is chiefly teen-age.

The plays are published in a booklet entitled "Variety Plays," designated for intermediates or seniors. Included is a play by Nora Kelly, another Canadian playwright.

Mr. Scott's literary leanings are being devoted at present to radio work, including writing of scripts for school broadcasts. On Oct. 29 a program on forest conservation was aired by the Canadian Broadcasting Corporation in a school series, and on Nov. 24 "Tale of the Trossacks," a script based on Sir Walter Scott's Lady of the Lake, will be heard. Both were penned by Mr. Scott.

Mr. Scott's accomplishments as a playwright began at an early age. His first play was staged at Nelson Junior High School when its author was only 12 years old, and when in High School, his first sale was made. In 1945 the C.B.C. accepted one of his plays, and since then has produced his scripts regularly.

Rangers Sign Raleigh Of Winnipeg Flyers

WINNIPEG, Nov. 7 (CP) — Don Raleigh, brilliant centre with Winnipeg Flyers in the City Senior League, today announced he had agreed to sign a contract with New York Rangers of the National Hockey League following a telephone conversation yesterday with Ranger Coach Frank Boucher.

It will be his second time in the N.H.L. He played for Rangers three years ago, at 17 being one of the youngest players in the League.

DUCHAK GOAL WINS FOR QUAKERS

SASKATOON, Nov. 7 (CP) — Johnny Duchak, on a pass from Keith Burgess, tonight broke a 4-4, third-period tie with Calgary Stampeders in Saskatoon Quakers' favor, sending his team up into second slot in the Western Canada Senior Hockey League.

The keenly-contested game saw each of the preceding periods end in draws, the first 1-1, the second 3-3 and the third 4-4 until minutes before the final whistle.

The victory placed the Quakers two points behind the league-leading Regina Caps, and left the Stamps in third position.

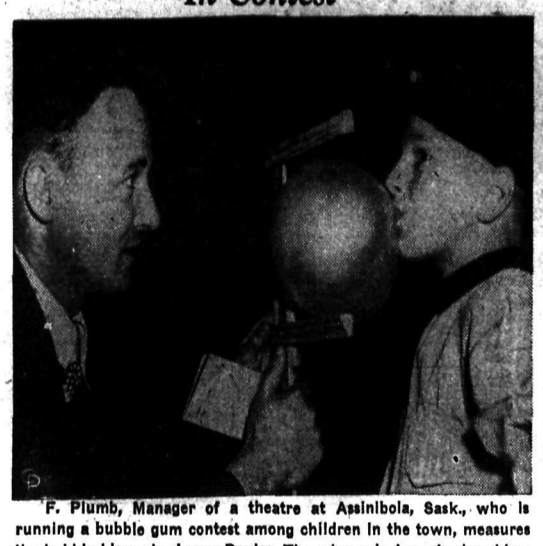
Yougsters Enjoy This "Blow" In Contest



F. Plumb, Manager of a theatre at Assiniboia, Sask., who is running a bubble gum contest among children in the town, measures the bubble blown by Larry Davies. The winner in Larry's class blew a whopper which exceeded eight inches the one Larry blew. The contest is expected to run for about eight weeks until children of all ages have had their blow. The youngsters accumulate gum over a period of several days and have as many as a dozen sticks in their mouths for the contest.

Demonstration Re Gas Rationing Held in London

Thousands of motorists from many parts of England converged on the West End of London to take part in the monster "Save the Basic Petrol Ration" demonstration held in Hyde Park at noon. Ten protest meetings were held in the Park, and later six representatives of the motorists presented a petition to the Minister of Fuel. Biggest job of the rally fell to the police, who had to keep a check on the motorists as they entered London along the special routes previously fixed. Here, motorists cheer the car containing the deputation as it leaves Hyde Park, London, to drive to the Ministry of Fuel, where the petition was presented.

Sails for London

One of the few Americans to have received an invitation to attend the wedding of Princess Elizabeth and Lieut. Philip Mountbatten Nov. 20, Mrs. Cobina Wright is shown just before she sailed from New York for England. Mrs. Wright has known the Royal groom-to-be for about 12 years.

No Lumber Shortage in Russia

Russia is lacking in many things, but lumber is not one of them. With proper conservation, the timber supply of the U.S.S.R. is practically unlimited. Here are some big rafts, each containing from 6000 to 8000 cubic feet of lumber, about to be floated down the Volga from various tributaries.

DOVER, England, (CP) — Civic officials of Dover, which had more than 3000 air raid alerts during the war, were present when German prisoners-of-war gave a piano recital at the Town Hall.

Canadian Restaurants Will Try to Hold American Trade

OTTAWA, Nov. 7 (CP) — The Canadian Restaurant Association is going to try to send American tourists home with a "good taste in their mouths."

Earl Nichols of London, Ont., National President of the CRA said last night the Association aims at holding on to the tourist trade by raising standards in Canadian restaurants.

TRIED TO OUST U.N.E.S.C.O. DELEGATE

CANBERRA, Nov. 7 (AP) —John Thomas Lang, Independent Labor Member from New South Wales, demanded unsuccessfully today that the Government cancel the credentials of Samuel P. Lewis of Sydney, Australian delegate o the U.N.E.S.C.O. conference in Mexico City, on the grounds he is a "notorious Communist". Prime Minister Chifley replied that Lewis had been nominated by the New South Wales Teachers' Federation.

Market Trends

TORONTO, Nov. 7 (CP)—Prices advanced substantially in rising share volume as strong newsprints, group and sizeable jumps in better group an dsizeable jumps in better grade golds and base metals advanced the mining lists. Industrials posted gains ranging from fractions to more than four points while gains of up to 20 cents were common in junior golds.

NEW YORK (AP)—A handful of special oils and industrials tilted moderately upward while many leaders did nothing or limped into losing territory.

MONTREAL (CP) — Industrials were active and led by papers and utilities, they generally sought higher levels. Mines likewise exhibited an upward trend.

LONDON (Reuters) — The stock market experienced its quietest day of the week with prices lower in the absence of interest pending presentation of the interim budget next week.

CHICAGO (AP)—Grains moved upward under the leadership of new crop wheat contracts, responding to increasing pessimism concerning prospects for the Winter wheat crop. Gains ran to several cents.

WINNIPEG (CP)—Some 320,000 bushels of wheat were consigned to the United Kingdom under the Canadian wheat agreement.

STRIKES AND SPARES

Mixed League five-pin records fell this week at the Bowladrome when the Mad Hatters chalked up a team total of 2977 pins, highest this season, and G. Dahlsten marked up a high aggregate of 834.

Only last week, Mad Hatters had broken the previous team record of 2803 held by Tars and Deuces with 2808, only to see Flying Saucers roll 2886 for a new mark. Dahlsten's new high aggregate superseded that of Dave Meakins, who had bowled 774. The new record holder bowled 275, 240 and 319, just missing the 324 high single set up by F. Simister of Rinky Dinks.

. . . P. E. I. Joyoudly Preparing Election
. . . Premier a Much-Colleged Farmer

Prince Edward Island, the Garden of the Gulf, is pleasantly athrob these days with the most pleasant of all the pre-occupations that engross it from time to time, the selection of its Provincial legislative personnel.

I don't believe the electors of any other Province begin to get the kick out of a Provincial election that the P. I. Islanders do. For one thing, an elector is almost sure to be making a choice among neighbors, for the most part well known to him, for the 15 electoral districts are relatively small in area, and each district's electors have to produce two legislators.

In addition to the neighborly atmosphere, due to proximity, there is the pleasing complication of two different franchises. Property-owners vote for both offices to be filled, those of both councillor and assemblyman, and non-property-owners vote for the office of assemblyman. I suppose it is argued that this system encourages the proletariat to become property-owning, though everybody knows the system is descended from the amalgamation of the legislative council and legislative assembly, which was P.E.I.'s unique way of "abolishing" its upper house.

Once in a while the P. E. Islanders get in an extra byelection, when a newly sworn in minister of the crown goes back to his constituency for confirmation; or a whole series of them, when a new cabinet signalizes a change of government. I think P.E.I. is the only Province that still requires this "confirmation." It still considers a member of the house who takes a cabinet portfolio has "vacated his seat by acceptance of an office of emolument under the crown."

As I understand it, there are three main groups of P.E. Islanders: The farmers (including the fur-farming division), the fishermen, and the intellectuals. Chief exports I believe to be the products of agriculture (including horses), the products of the sea, and intellectuals. I have met the intellectuals everywhere I have lived, from East to West.

BYELECTIONS GO OPPOSITION

When Premier J. Walter Jones announced the decision to hold a general election, recently, he connected it with the government's loss in the last two byelections. That is practically standard procedure in P.E.I. A party will have a sweep at the polls, and then will shortly start to lose byelections.

I recall one case where the opposition became equal in numbers with the government, and and when the house met, the opposition expected to force the issue, but to the amazement of the opposition and the public, the latest opposition seat-winner announced he had seen the light since being elected, and would support the Liberal government. Later this man, an Acadian, turned up at Ottawa to — so the Conservatives claimed—get his reward. He was reported to be haunting Hon. J. Israel Tarte, Laurier's Minister of Public Works, for his expected government job.

While most P.E.I. Premiers are learned in the law, including two, members of whose families became Nelsonites—Judge McLeod, Conservative, and Hon. F. W. Peters, Liberal—Hon. J. Walter Jones is a farmer.

STUDENT IN N.S.

I have a mental picture of him as a student in my home town in Nova Scotia. He was fairly solid, with broad shoulders, and a rather high-pitched or tenor voice, and I found it hard to understand him at first. My chum, however, whose cousin he was, explained to me that "Walter has a Scotch accent." In that respect he was different from all the rest of the P.E.I. student delegation, which, however, abounded in Scotch names, such as McNeil and McLeod.

About the only things I remember about him are, that he seemed completely indifferent to college tradition, and that he entered for a sophomore essay prize, and declaimed it before a large audience in College Hall. I don't recall his subject— the competitors had a choice of three subjects, and each of the three that entered chose a different one—and while the judges, one of whom was an uncle of mine, gave the prize to another fellow, my own opinion was that Jones, who was surpassed in oratory by the other non-winner, had the most sensible, pungent and effective discourse of the three.

SAMPLED 7 SEATS OF LEARNING

Jones must have been a born taster or sampler. Prince of Wales College, Charlottetown, a junior college, took him to the end of what would be his first year in University. He had his sophomore year at Acadia University in Nova Scotia, completing it in 1900. Then he sampled in succession Toronto University, Chicago University, Cornell University, Columbia University, and Clark University. He wound up with an M.A. and a B.Sc. A.—Bachelor of Science, Agriculture. If he spent one year at each institution, this would just bring him to 1905, when he started a three years principalship of McDonald Consolidated School. Then he was with the U.S. Department of Agriculture at Washington, D.C., 1909-12—beating across the line Mackenzie King, who worked on labor relations for Rockefeller during the war—and then was a year or so with the Conservation Commission at Ottawa. He was the author in 1914 of "Fur-Farming in Canada," probably under the aforesaid Commission.

After this I suppose Jones got busy farming, and I would say he was one of the most-colleged young farmers in Canada. We hear nothing more of him till 1921, when there is an entry: "Canadian Farmers Progressive Party." I suppose this was an abortive political movement. Silence again till 1935, when he entered the Legislature. He was reelected in 1935, and became Premier in 1943, succeeding Hon. Thane A. Campbell, who accepted the Chief Justiceship of P.E.I. Jones has four Ministerial posts, President of the Executive Council, Premier, Minister of Education, and Minister of Reconstruction; and has eight colleagues in his Cabinet, four with portfolios and four without.

One more sidelight. I think I read this in Maclean's. When the P.E.I. Cabinet accepted Ottawa's financial terms a year or so ago, and its signature was affixed to the deal, it was hot wire news. But Premier Jones kept it under cover two days, concealing it from both the Charlottetown Guardian, Conservative, and a Liberal paper with which he was at outs—and of course from the P.E.I. public—so it could be published in his Liberal home weekly. His address, I might add, is R.R. No. 5, Charlottetown.

Veterans Affairs Act Revision to Be Studied Herridge Tells Legion

M. L. Herridge, M.P. for Kootenay West, speaking before the Canadian Legion at Nelson Thursday night, emphasized "the necessity of veterans standing together to support their policies." He stated that rectification of veteran's problems "will depend on the strength, solidity and the unity of veterans of the First and Second Great Wars."

Mr. Herridge, a member of the Canadian Legion since the First Great War, reminded the younger members that much of the Government's policy on veterans affairs directly resulted from proposals introduced by the Canadian Legion. He called the period following the First Great War when veterans had no organization to fall back on and traced the development of the Legion since that time. The speaker lauded the "sound administration of the Legion and ventured that if the younger veterans were more familiar with the historical background of the Canadian Legion there would be more widespread attendance at Legion meetings.

Mr. Herridge disclosed that veteran's affairs would be studied by a committee during the next sitting of the House of Commons for possible amendment and revision of policy. The speaker referred to three pertinent problems directly or indirectly facing the veteran today. One was the veterans' preference in the Civil Service Act. Mr. Herridge said that carrying out veterans' preference provisions in the past had been lax and suggested a classification of the former servicemen and women as a possible solution.

BUSINESS LOANS

It was the opinion of the speaker that policy pertaining to Government loans to veterans entering into a business would be modified to make loans possible for servicemen already established in a business. He explained that adoption of the scheme would permit the veteran to borrow on real estate and thereby better his chances of success.

Mr. Herridge asserted that most of the monies in the Canteen Fund accumulated by the armed forces would be used to educate the children of veterans. It will be in the hands of the Veterans' Committee during the next sitting of Commons to allocate the fund to provincial centres for distribution through administration machinery set up by the Dominion Government.

W. Riley, N. Planders, K. Forbes, J. MacMath, G. H. Lee, H. E. Dalilquist and A. T. Romano were inducted into the Canadian Legion membership during the meeting.

IMPORTED SCOTCH MIGHT AS WELL BE OFF RATION

TORONTO, Nov. 7 (CP)—Imported Scotch whisky still is rationed in Ontario but Chairman William Griesinger of the Ontario Liquor Control Board said today the quota of 12 25-ounce bottles a month is so high that "it could practically be considered free sale."

The quota jump from one monthly bottle of imported Scotch Nov. 1 passed almost unnoticed in liquor stores, which report the supply plentiful. All other types of liquor have been off ration since last March 1.

Supplies of Scotch whisky arriving from Great Britain have increased recently as Britain increased export efforts to obtain Canadian and American currency to ease her dollar shortage.

The permit sale system of handling liquor is being continued in Ontario. Started about 1927, it is required by provisions of the Liquor Control Act as a control measure.

Liquor rationing was introduced in Canada as a Federal wartime measure Dec. 16, 1942. Beer and domestic wine rationing started in Ontario April 1, 1943, and ended last Feb. 1.
