Big Allied Force Begins Attack on Lae in Pacific

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS, Southwest Pacific, Sept. 6 (Monday) (AP)—Allied troops have landed "in force" on the coast of Huon Gulf, East of Lae, New Guinea, Gen. Douglas MacArthur's Headquarters announced today.

Lae is one of the principal Japanese strongholds in New Guinea. It is approximately 15 miles Northeast of Salamaua, Where Australian and American troops have been closing in on the Japanese airdrome.

Striking a new land blow in the battle for Central New Guinea, the Allied forces, comprised principally of Australian jungle fighters, landed in force along the coast Saturday.

MacArthur, in the New Guinea field in personal command of operations, is assisted by Gen. Sir Thomas Blamey, Commander of Allied land forces, Vice Admiral Carpender, Commander of Naval Forces, and Lt.-Gen. George C. Kenney, Commander of the Air Forces.

"The investment of Lae has begun," MacArthur announced.

The landing was supported by Air and Naval Forces and was preceded by a naval bombardment

Landing craft were protected by a smoke screen laid down by escorting naval vessels.

Observers at MacArthur's Headquarters said the manoeuvre cut off the enemy forces in the Lae area from reinforcements and separated them from the main Japanese bodies at Finschhafen, 60 miles East of Lae on the Huon Peninsula, and from others farther up the coast.

First reports were that the landing was unopposed. Gen. Blamey, at a Press Conference, said the Japanese evidently were caught by surprise and failed to offer any resistance during the first hour of the operation.

Allied naval vessels shelled Lae before and during the landings to the East and thus held the enemy's attention until beachheads were established.

Gen. Blamey said the Japanese also apparently had been deceived by the operations at Salamaua to the South. They evidently thought, he said, that Salamaua was the main Allied objective, whereas actually, for several weeks, the ground fighting there has been of a diversionary nature to keep the enemy occupied.

The landing was protected from the air by Allied fighter forces. Bombers also participated in the early phase of the operation, pounding Lae itself.

Gen. Blamey said the Japanese positions at Lae were the best they had established anywhere in this campaign so far. Lae has two airstrips three miles apart—the Lae airdrome and Malahang. A road 25 miles long leads up the broad and fertile Markham Valley but beyond the road's end there are only jungle tracks leading into the Japanese-occupied area.

Commando Landing on Ushant Reported by Nazis

LONDON, Sept. 5 (CP) — The German radio asserted today without Allied confirmation that British Commandos had attempted a landing Friday night on the tiny island of Ushant, just off the Westernmost point on the Atlantic Coast of France.

Berlin claimed the attack was beaten after a single vessel had reached the beach.

Combined Operations Headquarters and other officials declined to confirm or deny the reported action.

Italians Give Up to Canucks by the Hundreds

By ROSS MUNRO
Canadian Press War Correspondent

WITH THE CANADIANS IN ITALY, Sept. 4 (Delayed), (CP Cable)—Hundreds of Italian prisoners including a full colonel in charge of coastal defences at Reggio Calabria have been rounded up by the invading Canadians who landed in Italy along with British troops Friday.

They are coming in hourly from the hills to give themselves up. They plod the road unescorted, showing even less interest in battle here than they did in Sicily. They retreated rapidly from the coastal area as soon as the landing became imminent.

Forward Canadian elements reported at noon today they had taken the first German prisoners but it was not known yet whether there had been any fighting.

Patrols reported practically all the enemy positions deserted with white flags fluttering over the guns. Some of the best Italian troops are voluntarily surrendering. Forts stocked with enough ammunition and food to hold out for a month are giving up without firing a shot.

Officers say that civilians here are even more helpful to the Canadians than they were in Sicily. They nearly mob the Canadians, crowding around cars and loading them with wine and any gifts they can.

Coast Restaurants Ask Second Meatless Day

VANCOUVER, Sept. 5 (CP) — Vancouver restaurant operators have appealed to the Prices Board ration administration to introduce a second meatless day each week in cafes throughout Canada, A. Feddersen, Secretary of the Vancouver Restaurant Owners' Association said yesterday. He said Vancouver restaurants "are having such a difficult time getting enough meat to take care of the heavy demand that we believe another meatless day is inevitable."

REPORT IMPORTANT PORT TAKEN BY YUGOSLAV FORCES

NEW YORK, Sept. 5 (AP.) — A BBC broadcast quoting the Moscow radio said today that Yugoslav forces had captured the seaport of Susak, on the Adriatic in Northwestern Yugoslavia just South of Fiume. The broadcast said "Susak is the most important Yugoslav port in the Northern Adriatic. Only a small stream seprates it from Fiume," recently reported occupied by the Germans.

Hong Kong Heavily Raided by Americans

CHUNGKING, Sept. 5 (AP.) — American medium bombers and fighters, heavily raiding the former British naval base at Hong Kong, left many fires blazing Thursday in warehouses, gasoline storage tanks and other buildings, United States headquarters announced today. Raids on Yangtze River shipping resulted in the sinking of two 100-foot oil tankers and damage to others near Ichang, and the damaging of a 100-foot steamship near Wuhsueh about 95 miles Southeast of Hankow.

Churchill to Speak in U.S. Today

WASHINGTON, Sept. 5 (AP) — The White House announced Saturday night that Prime Minister Churchill will make an address tomorrow in a United States city, but did not identify the city.

It said the speech would be made "in fulfillment of the long standing engagement in a city to be announced later in a program which will begin at noon.

(The Canadian Broadcasting Corporation will carry the address from 8:15 p.m. to 9:45.)

Canadian 1st, British 5th Divisions First to Land in Italy

By PAUL KERN LEE

ABOARD THE BRITISH DESTROYER QUAIL IN MESSINA STRAIT, Sept. 4 (Delayed). (AP)—The first landings on the toe of Italy early Friday were made by the Canadian 1st and the British 5th Divisions.

(This was the first dispatch naming specific divisions taking part in the invasion. It had been virtually taken for granted however, that the Canadian formations engaged were the 1st Division which fought with the British 8th Army in the Sicilian campaign. The British 4th Division also fought in Sicily.)

"We are back on the pitch," as British Navy men say, after visiting the Italian mainland and taking off six weary Commandos and seven Italian prisoners and depositing them in a landing craft off Sicily.

As they went into the craft to go to Sicilian prison camps the Italians cheered and tossed helmets back to our sailors for souvenirs.

Light Coastal Ships Clash With Axis Minesweepers

LONDON, Sept. 5 (CP)—Royal Navy light coastal forces engaged a "large group of enemy armed minesweepers" off the French coast early today in a two-hour battle, obtaining a torpedo hit on one of the enemy patrol vessel and severely damaging two others, the Admiralty announced.

The communique said a number of attacks were carried out against "strong and determined defence" but that all the British ships returned to port safely with only slight casualties.

Berlin Government Buildings Hit

STOCKHOLM, Sept. 5 (AP.) — Government buildings in the heart of Berlin were hit in Friday night's heavy R.A.F. and Canadian bombing, dispatches from neutral correspondents in the Nazi capital said.

The dispatches said the Germans described the raid as "obviously one of the largest ever undertaken against Berlin."

INVASION AREAS AND RUHR HEAVILY RAIDED

Railways, Airfields, Shipping Blasted; Heavies Shake Berlin

CANUCKS DOWN 8

By SYDNEY GRUSON
Canadian Press Staff Writer

LONDON, Sept. 5 (CP Cable)—Railway yards and airfields in potential invasion areas of Western Europe were blasted by Allied bombers during the weekend and R.A.F. Mosquitos jabbed into the Ruhr and Rhineland Saturday night, following up a smashing blow at Berlin Friday night.

R.C.A.F. Spitfires continued to support and escort the bombers on their day missions after a brilliant Saturday in which they knocked down eight enemy aircraft. Altogether 19 enemy fighters were downed Saturday.

The German radio Deutschlandsender went off the air about 10:30 p.m. tonight indicating the R.A.F. was on another night mission over Europe.

R.A.F. medium bombers attacked air fields at Woensdrecht, a Netherlands sea coast town on the West Scheldt five miles North of the Belgian border.

United States 8th Airforce Mediums raked the freight yards in Ghent, Belgium, this morning.

Canadian fighters helped escort the bombers in both attacks and no Canadian planes were lost.

Typhoon bombers escorted by Typhoon fighters attacked enemy shipping today in a Dutch Estuary, destroyed two small motor ships, a tug and two barges, and damaged other small vessels.

Later other Typhoons attacked an airfield at Mardyck near Dunkerque. One plane was missing from these attacks.

Although the German air force sent up many fighters to challenge the Allied raiders, the Nazis failed to knock down a single bomber Saturday night or today.

The bombers destroyed three enemy fighters and escorting Spitfires shot down three more today. One Spitfire was lost today and one is missing from patrol Saturday night.

The German communique asserted an air attack on an unspecified town in occupied territory caused "considerable losses" among civilians and destruction of buildings.

1000 TONS OF BOMBS FALL

A great bombardment fleet of Lancasters smashed Berlin from a clear sky, casting down 1000 tons of fire bombs and howling steel in 20 minutes of attack officially described by the Air Ministry as "highly concentrated".

From a night of far-ranging operations—other British and Canadian airmen rode the skies above the Rhineland and beat at enemy flying fields in France and sowed miles in enemy waters—the British lost 22 bombers.

The Berlin raid was the third within 11 days but was not on the terrible scale of destructiveness of the two that went immediately before it.

But if struck the city already scarred and smoking from attacks that have already thrown upon it more tons of bombs than fell on London in all the long months of Hermann Goering's attacks, and thus had a cumulative effect far beyond the weight of explosives let loose.

Unknown Torpedo Plane Attacks Swedish Motorship

STOCKHOLM, Sept. 5 (AP.) — Six crewmen were killed when a torpedo plane attacked the Swedish tanker Svea Reuter, a 1700-ton motorship, in the Baltic Sea near the Gulf of Riga Thursday, a Swedish communique disclosed yesterday.

The Foreign Office said the nationality of the plane which fired a torpedo had not been determined.

The tanker reached a Swedish port yesterday after 13 crewmen who escaped injured managed to keep the vessel afloat with pumps.

NOTED ANTHROPOLOGIST DIES

WASHINGTON, Sept. 5 (AP) — Dr. Ales Hrdlicka, famous anthropologist, died today at his home. He was 74.

Dr. Hrdlicka was a native of Bohemia who came to the United States at the age of 18, and became one of the world's most noted authorities on mankind's history and development.

NAZIS RUSH MEDITERRANEAN DEFENCES

As evidence of her fear of a second front, German magazines strive constantly to reassure the German people with pictures of walls being built in various coast areas. This wall is being hastily built on the Mediterranean coast of France by members of the German Labor Corps.

BIG INDUSTRIAL CITY FALLS TO RED ARMY

Artillery Only 15 Miles From Big Stalino Base

120 POINTS FALL

LONDON, Sept. 5 (CP) — Russian forces sweeping through the Donets Basin captured the mining and manufacturing city of Artemovsk today in nine-mile plunges that overran more than 120 towns and villages and placed Red artillery only 15 miles from the Axis bastion of Stalino.

A Moscow communique also announced the seizure of Khutormikhaylovsky, rail junction 85 miles South of Bryansk. This gave the Red Army a grip on a 70-mile stretch of the Bryansk-Kiev railway North of Konotop, Northern Ukraine citadel which is menaced with imminent capture or encirclement.

Gains West and Southwest of Kharkov and before Smolensk on the Central Front also were reported as the Russians captured more than 250 villages on all fronts during the day to boost their total bag to more than 1500 in the last week.

On Saturday the Red Army captured the heart of Germany's supply network in the Donets Basin in a crushing 15-mile drive that killed 1000 enemy troops and put the Russians astride three railways leading into Stalino.

Ilovalskaya, only 18 miles Southeast of Stalino, was seized, Moscow announced, as were Nikitovka, and Gorlovka, 20 miles to the North, and Yenakievo and Debaltsevo, 25 and 35 miles respectively, to the Northeast.

The Russians overran more than 90 villages, captured huge stores of Axis guns, tanks and ammunition dumps in their semi-encirclement of Stalino. The swift gains probably will hasten a German withdrawal from the Donets to the Dnieper River 125 miles to the West.

In the Northern Ukraine the Red Army, spilling across the severed Bryansk-Kiev railway, captured Korop, 17 miles West of that line, in a drive so swift that 3000 Russian civilians held in a German concentration camp were free before the Germans could evacuate them.

"Our troops are giving the enemy no respite, dealing continual blows on him," said the Saturday communique of this Westward surge which was coordinated with parallel Russian smashes in the Bryansk and Smolensk sectors.

Mounting signs of Axis disaster in the Donets were evident in the communique which said several Soviet formations alone destroyed 65 German tanks during the day, and captured scores of guns and hundreds of supply trucks.

A Berlin broadcast acknowledged an Axis withdrawal all along the Donets Basin front, terming it as usual, "movements for shortening of the front."

Allies Make Big Haul of Railroad Materials

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS IN NORTH AFRICA, Sept. 5 (AP.)—Daring British and American railway men, moving in on the heels of the assault troops, began operating Sicilian railroads the third day after the initial landings on that island and now operate 421 miles of track there, Brig.-Gen. Carl R. Gray, Director General of the military railway service, announced today. Railroad prizes captured in Sicily included 300 locomotives, 5500 cars of various kinds and 1373 miles of standard and narrow gauge tracks.

Italian Radio Makes Plea for Peace

LONDON, Sept. 5 (AP)— While Allied troops bit deeper into the mainland of Italy, the Italians continued their indirect peace pleas today in a gloomy Rome radio broadcast which said the "sooner we have an honorable peace the better."

This English-language broadcast, came from a closely controlled station in the Italian Capital and obviously was a fully authorized attempt to arouse British and American sympathies.

The Algiers radio broadcast a report, unconfirmed from any other source, that the Italian fleet had abandoned its Taranto base presumably to withdraw into the Adriatic—a move which would not surprise British Navy men since the base lies only about 175 miles from the present fighting front.

After acknowledging the need for swift peace, the Rome broadcast said "the enemy, supported by huge quantities of material and the largest air umbrella ever seen, is advancing on our mainland.

"Our soldiers in Calabria are fighting without pause, but they have not adequate means at their disposal.

"They are far from their supply bases. Such lines of communications as do exist are being continually broken and often rendered useless by the enemy."

RUBBER DIRECTOR RESIGNS

WASHINGTON, Sept. 5 (AP.) — Rubber Director William M. Jeffers has submitted his resignation to President Roosevelt, associates in his office disclosed.

Jeffers is leaving Washington, they said, in order to devote full time to the management of the Union Pacific Railroad, of which he is President, feeling that the United States is "over the hump" in meeting the rubber problem.

HERRIOT REPORTED ILL

NEW YORK, Sept. 5 (AP.) —The Brazzaville radio in a broadcast Saturday reported that the Berlin radio had said, Edouard Herriot, former French Premier, is seriously ill. No other details were given.

SET MAXIMUM PRICES FOR POTATOES

Delivered Prices at Vancouver Range From $2 to $2.60

OTTAWA, Sept. 5 (CP.) — The Prices Board tonight issued an order, effective Sept. 8, establishing maximum prices at which potatoes may be sold by growers, wholesalers and retailers in any part of Canada, and providing that prices at all levels of distribution will be kept closely in line with those prevailing last year.

The order fixes maximum prices for sales and growers or other shippers in each of four zones in Canada, and specifies maximum markups on subsequent sales by wholesale distributors and retailers.

Zone No. 1 is designated as all that part of Canada East of the 86th degree of West longitude, just East of Port William and Port Arthur. Zone No. 2 is the remainder of Ontario and all of Manitoba and Saskatchewan South of the 54th parallel of latitude.

Zone No. 3 is the Province of Alberta and all of British Columbia North of the 55th parallel and East of the 125th degree of longitude, while zone No. 4 is all the rest of British Columbia.

Delivered prices at Vancouver in zone No. 4 per 100-pound container of other than Netted Gems are $2.60 for Canada No. 1 large, $2.20 for Canada No. 1, and $2 for Canada No. 2. At any other distributing point in zone No. 4 the price is varied by a freight differential based on normal carload shipping costs from Kamloops to Vancouver.

Provision is made in zones Nos. 2, 3 and 4 for customary premiums for the Netted Gem variety of potato. On sales by a wholesale distributor to ordinary retailers a mark-up may be added to 15 cents per 75-pound container or 20 cents per 100-pounds container, and the same mark-up is permitted on sales by a grocer or other shipper to a retailer. This markup must in no case exceed 15 per cent of the selling price.

A grower selling to dehydrating plants, to commercial processors or to large retailers who operate central warehouses and take delivery at the warehouses will have the same ceiling prices as for sales to wholesale distributors.

To his delivered cost a retailer selling to consumers may add a mark-up of 40 cents per 100-pound container, 30 cents per 75-pound container; 25 cents for a 50-pound container; 15 cents for 25 pounds; 12 cents for 15 pounds; eight cents for 10 pounds, or 8-10 cent per pound for a container of less than 10 pounds size.

A grower or shipper selling direct to a consumer may add this same mark-up to the price at which he may sell to a retailer. All prices specified in the order apply to sales made between now and Jan. 10, 1944. After that date, maximum prices may be increased at a designated rate to June 1, 1944, to cover storage and shrinkage charges.

Fiercely Driving Armies Fan Out in 40-Mile Arc

By EDWARD KENNEDY
Associated Press War Correspondent

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS IN NORTH AFRICA, Sept. 5 (AP)—British and Canadian invasion forces throwing commando, claw-like pincers over the top of the Italian toe have seized Bagnara, clamped a firm hold on a 40-mile invasion arc from Melito to Bagnara, and taken more than 2000 prisoners.

Repeating the highly-successful Allied landing jumps along the Sicilian North and East coasts, a big commando force captured Bagnara 10 miles Northeast of San Giovanni and was joined by infantrymen speeding up the shores against stiff-feeble enemy resistance, Allied Headquarters announced today.

Other Commandos landed at Melito, rounding the Southern edge of the toe 15 miles below Reggio Calabria, but found that road junction already evacuated by the Italians. . . .

Under personal leadership of Gen. Sir Bernard Montgomery, British and Canadian troops in the third day of invasion were fanning in both directions along the coast and plunging deeper inland on the toe, where the Axis might elect to stand in natural mountainous defences.

Paul Kern Lee, Associated Press War Correspondent aboard a British destroyer, reported that the first landings Friday morning were made by the Canadian 1st and British 5th Divisions, both veterans of the Sicilian campaign. Units engaged in Italy have not yet been named officially.

DRIVE BEYOND BAGNARA

(An Algiers broadcast said Allied troops were on the outskirts of Palmi, five miles beyond Bagnara.

(Italian headquarters reported Allied armored units were knifing inland and that "violent fighting is in progress in the area East of Bagnara and on the slopes of the Aspromonte (Bitter) Mountains," inside the lower toe.

("Between Palmi and Bagnara, the defending forces after having thrown the first British contingent back into the sea, had to withdraw from Bagnara," the Italian communique said.

(Reuters News Agency quoted an Algiers broadcast saying that the Italian fleet had abandoned Taranto, naval base inside the Italian heel).

The tremendous drubbing of Italian railroads has knocked out their usefulness to the Germans in any effort to rush large reinforcement armies into Southern or central Italy, Allied headquarters announced. Reconnaissance showed the terrible destruction of rail routes exceeded previous reports.

United States heavy bombers heaped fresh destruction on air fields, railroads and highways in the Naples area yesterday and were followed up last night by British Wellingtons. R.A.F. heavy bombers from the Middle East battered the Grottaglie airdrome near Taranto Friday night.

Other fleets of Allied planes smashed at enemy positions ahead of the invasion troops, and broke up the first Italian attempt to harry the Allied ground troops, knocking down eight out of a force of 20 fighter-bombers.

Two of the enemy planes were destroyed over the coast of the Italian toe by Canadians. Sgt. Pilot R. Gray of Ontario got one and FO. J. Woolgar of Edmonton shared the other with Flt. Lt. L. Parrott, an Australia.

OVER 2000 PRISONERS

Aground, casualties thus far have been light on both sides. The bag of prisoners soared over 2000 by last night, most of them Italians.

But the enemy resorted to extensive demolitions before withdrawing, and these are slowing the advance along both the North and South coastal roads. So far no mines have been found, and the strong artillery and anti-aircraft batteries that the Axis formerly had on this tip of continental Europe obviously had been pulled back.

The campaign appears similar to that in Sicily in that the Axis plan apparently was to let the Allies land without heavy opposition, and then oppose them at points offering the best natural defences.

The Italian toe area has two serious bottlenecks, one between the Gulfs of St. Eufemia and Squillace halfway up from the Southern tip, and the other between the Gulfs of Policastro and Taranto. Fear of being cut off by additional landings at these points presumably led the Axis not to keep strong forces posted near the tip of the toe.

Among villages occupied by columns sweeping up the coast road were San Gregoria, San Leo, Pellaro, Madonnella, Lazzaro, Cannitello and Porto Salvo.

One town lying some 50 miles ahead of Bagnara is Filadelfia. Like so many Calabrian towns, it was founded by the Greeks.

Melito, whose loss was announced by the Italians yesterday, is the Southern terminal of a cross peninsular road.

A South African lieutenant, one of the first fliers to land at the Reggio Calabria airdrome, said "many Italian soldiers in full marching order came from the hills to surrender. Some were still armed."

The preponderance of Italians among the prisoners indicated the Germans again were using them as rearguards to cover their own withdrawal, as they did repeatedly in Africa and Sicily.

Associated Press Correspondent Daniel de Luce, who followed the first invasion troops, said the Italian defences were "astoundingly weak" and that Italians were surrendering happily.

Correspondent Paul Kern Lee said the coastal area blossomed with white flags soon after the invasion was launched, with hundreds of civilians waving tokens of surrender.

A tremendous barrage of 900 guns lined up hub to hub on the Sicilian shore preceded the first assault forces, Lee added.

An Allied military spokesman said Saturday the enemy had not yet employed tanks.

Make Daring Trip to Greek Guerillas' Hideout

LONDON, Sept. 6 (Monday) (CP) —In one of the most audacious acts of the war, British and Greek staff officers from Cairo have travelled hundreds of miles through enemy-held territory for a secret rendezvous at Balkan headquarters of Greek guerillas.

There it was disclosed today, they conferred with 600 leaders representing 50,000 Greek patriots and effected a unified command for an underground fight against the Axis.

The conference established a long-term policy to fit in with the Allied Middle East Command's plans for intensification of sabotage in the Axis-occupied Balkan country.

According to reports reaching here they also perfected methods to assure arms and other equipment to the guerillas.

Jap Fined Again for Having Home Made Beer

VERNON, B. C., Sept. 5 (CP) — For the second time in two months Kyotaco Matsumoto, District Japanese, was fined $150 by Police Magistrate William Morley for having possession of home-brewed beer.

Vice-Regal Party Visits Prince Rupert

PRINCE RUPERT, B. C., Sept. 5 (CP.)—The Governor-General and Princess Alice today began a six-day visit to the Prince Rupert area during which they will visit military establishments.

The vice-regal party attended service this morning at St. Andrew's Anglican Cathedral. At noon his excellency took the salute in a march past of Canadian naval, army and air force men and American troops.

Social Legislation Highlights Kootenay Municipalities Meeting; 55 Resolutions Taken Up

Social legislation, with the emphasis on assistance for the aged, highlighted the meeting of the Association of Kootenay Municipalities at the City Hall, Nelson, Saturday. The meeting, called largely to consider resolutions which will come before the Union of British Columbia Municipalities at Port Alberni later this month, dealt with 53 resolutions already listed by the Union; indorsed two more proposed by the City of Nelson; and made a reference to the Union seeking uniform policy in dealing with poll tax refunds for members of the Reserve Army. Mayor John A. Gordon of Rossland, President, was in the chair.

E. H. Bridgman, Deputy Minister of Municipalities for the Province, attended. He was the target for many questions by delegates, particularly on questions dealing with municipal legislation.

Fifteen of the total of 55 resolutions dealt with social welfare of one kind or another; six concerned schools, with the emphasis on relieving land of the burden of school taxes; three were connected with hospitals, and two with cemeteries. Rehabilitation and compulsory voting were other highlight resolutions. The remainder dealt with a wide variety of subjects.

FOUR FROM KOOTENTY

There were four Kootenay resolutions, and all were indorsed. One from Trail, taken up by the Association at its last meeting at Kaslo, sought power for municipalities to create maintenance funds for cemeteries out of sums paid for plots, and for municipalities to operate cemeteries jointly.

Nelson's first resolution asked the Provincial Government to establish a home for the aged and infirm in this district, since it was extremely difficult to obtain admissions to established homes at the Coast due to overcrowding, and since sending persons from this district to homes at the Coast was expensive. This resolution was indorsed.

Cost of living bonus for old age pensioners, previously urged by the Kootenay group, was reindorsed.

The Association also indorsed a Nelson resolution asking Hon. Herbert Anscomb to define plans for postwar development of the Southern Transprovincial Highway, since announcement had been made that large sums were allocated to it out of the proposed Provincial program.

Interior B. C. had long been neglected so far as an adequate road was concerned, commented Mayor N. C. Stibbs, and municipalities should join in the effort to make sure it was not neglected after the war. With a proper road "we'd have so many visitors this district would be transformed overnight," he contended. He asked member municipalities to forward similar resolutions to Mr. Anscomb.

POLL TAX REFUNDS

How to deal with applications by members of the Reserve Army for refund of poll tax was a question by Mayor Gordon. The applicants felt they were entitled to refund under Dominion law, but Rossland's City Solicitor held that only men on active service and pensioners of previous wars were entitled to refund. Mr. Bridgman felt this should be a matter of policy for each municipality. Ald. George Turner of Nelson argued the poll tax was a "nuisance tax," that it was unfair and "unfairly collected," and suggested the Provincial Government should be requested to take it off the statute books. His motion was not seconded.

The Association decided to ask the B. C. Union to take up the problem with a view to arriving at a uniform policy through the Province.

HOSPITAL CHARGES

Mr. Bridgman promised to take up at Victoria the question of patients going to tuberculosis hospitals without knowledge of the municipality responsible for the per diem grant.

Rossland, stating it was not seeking to avoid responsibility for such cases but did want an opportunity to adjudge its responsibility before being charged, placed the question before the convention. Mayor Herbert Clark of Trail stated there was a standard form, which must be signed by the Mayor, before a patient could be sent to such institutions. Sometimes, however, doctors neglected to present the form for signature.

Mayor Gordon asserted that in many instances the Rossland Council had no knowledge of such cases until it received an account and that it had no opportunity to dispute an account of this nature because it was simply deducted from the city's share of motor vehicle licence fees. The problem was left in Mr. Bridgman's hands to straighten out.

Two resolutions urging the expulsion of Japanese from Canada, one from Alberni and the other from Port Alberni, were passed over without action by the Kootenay Association.

POWER FOR REMOVAL OF AGED AND DISEASED

Among social welfare resolutions was one from Victoria proposing that power should be provided for municipalities to obtain court orders for removal of aged and diseased persons from unsanitary lodgings to places where they could be properly cared for. This was indorsed.

No action was taken on the Victoria proposal that, notwithstanding the Residence and Responsibility Act, every person becoming a member of His Majesty's Forces should be deemed the responsibility of the area where he had established residence previous to joining up. Such procedure would be dangerous, Mr. Bridgman said.

The Kootenays backed the Langley resolution urging that allowances for children under the Mothers' Allowance Act should be continued to the age of 18, instead of to 16 as at present, since under the school curriculum it was impossible for the majority of children to complete High School until they were over 16.

Allowances for the widows of pensioned war veterans were asked in another Langley resolution.

Old age pensions produced three resolutions, one of them the Kootenay request for cost of living bonus for pensioners. Richmond proposed a minimum pension of $50 per month payable at the age of 65. Surrey asked for a pension of $1 a day plus cost of living bonus, without forfeiture of homes, at the age of 65 for men and 60 for women. Mayor Stibbs felt the plan should include medical care, hospitalization and "decent burial."

BACK ALL ATTEMPTS TO AID PENSIONERS

All three resolutions were indorsed, on the grounds that the Kootenay would back all attempts to improve the position of old age pensioners.

Okanagan Valley Municipal Association asked the Dominion Government to incorporate provision for medical care of old age pensioners and mothers' allowance recipients in a national health insurance plan. No action was taken on this nor on the North Cowichan resolution urging the Provincial Government to take over the cost of medical aid for pensioners, mothers' allowance cases and social assistance cases.

In this connection a letter from Hon. George S. Pearson, Provincial Secretary to the B. C. Union, was read, explaining the Government's plan for contributing part of the costs where municipalities made arrangements with doctors and druggists for medical aid. In answer to Mr. Bridgman, Trail, Nelson and Rossland reported they had not yet made any such arrangement. The Deputy Minister stated the present trend was toward making such arrangements mandatory.

Setting out that use of radium was common practice in treating cancer but that the cost was "prohibitive and beyond the ability of the average person to pay", Penticton suggested the Provincial and Federal Governments should "take immediate action to make radium treatment available to the public at a price which the ordinary man can pay." The Kootenay Association indorsed this.

The Association indorsed in principle Surrey's resolution urging "the Federal and Provincial Governments be pressed for the institution of health and physical culture centres, together with the provision of medical, dental and hospital services to be available to all citizens under a contributory plan which will eventually be made compulsory."

ASK INCREASE FOR UNEMPLOYABLES

Another Surrey resolution asked for increase of the allowance for unemployables to $30 a month and the Kootenay Association approved by drafting a resolution without mentioning any amount, as follows: "That the Provincial Government be requested to increase the allowance for unemployables, with an increase in the allowance for dependents sufficient to provide a decent standard of living."

No action was taken on the Victoria proposal for the Pension Department to act in securing contributions from a son or daughter of an old age pensioner rather than the applicant for pension.

Feeling post-war rehabilitation was a responsibility of all governments, the meeting refused to support, without qualification, a Burnaby resolution urging that the entire cost of reconstruction and rehabilitation should be borne by the Provincial and Federal Governments. Alderman Turner opposed "trying to duck responsibility" and suggested municipalities should deliberately budget now for surpluses and create funds for post-war years. Such funds would be of great help in securing the assistance which would undoubtedly be needed.

All workers, other than casual workers, should be obliged to participate in the unemployment insurance plan, urged Penticton, objecting to optional clauses applying to government and municipal employees. The meeting backed Penticton's stand.

FIVE RESOLUTIONS ON SCHOOL COSTS, TAXES

Five resolutions dealing with school costs were included in the agenda. Burnaby wanted school taxes taken off the land and paid by the Federal Government from consolidated revenue. Richmond asked for a Province-wide scale of teachers' salaries, paid by the Provincial Government. Saanich proposed that the Province assume the entire cost of education and "relieve the land of this unjust burden." Kent asked the B. C. Union to form a committee to study means of relieving the burden on land and "devise some way or means . . . as will place the cost of education in rural districts on a more equitable basis or remove the cost of education from the land entirely."

The Kootenay Association indorsed the Burnaby resolution in principle, looking toward a national system of education, and summed up the remainder by indorsing Surrey's request that the Union "redouble its efforts to have the burden of school taxation removed from the land and homes, and the necessary funds provided from the consolidated revenue of the Province."

MORE VOCATIONAL TRAINING DESIRABLE

Action was deferred on Surrey's resolution urging a more extensive program of vocational training in schools.

Leslie Craufurd, representing the B. C. School Trustees' Association, stated the Trustees were in accord with the desire for wider vocational training, but added they were continually faced with requests for additions to the curriculum without compensating eliminations. It was difficult to add subjects in the hours available.

He also wished the municipalities success in their efforts to change the form of taxation for schools.

A suggestion that in post-war years, memorials to the fallen of the war might take the form of providing proper care for aged, infirm and underprivileged children, was indorsed. It originated in Victoria.

Penticton asked for a ceiling on hospital rates to the public, but the Kootenay Association took no action.

Nor was action taken on the Hope and Smithers proposal that municipalities with a revenue of less than $7500 a year should be exempt from paying hospitals 70 cents per patient per day, a statutory charge.

WOULD DEFINE TAX EXEMPTION, HOSPITALS

Power for municipalities to define the area of hospital properties exempt from taxation, proposed by Burnaby, was indorsed. Burnaby also asked for the right for municipalities to tax Government land within municipal boundaries.

Another Burnaby resolution, asking power for municipalities to govern and regulate the keeping of furbearing animals within a municipality, was indorsed when Rossland delegates told of their lack of control over a former mink farm in Rossland.

Indorsation of Burnaby's proposal for a uniform system of bookkeeping in all municipalities was accorded unanimously.

Burnaby also asked power to create municipal trust funds for specific purposes. Mr. Bridgman explained that some power was already provided, but additional authority might be necessary. It was suggested municipalities should endeavor now to build up funds for postwar work. The Kootenay Association indorsed the Burnaby proposal.

COMPULSORY VOTING IS PROPOSED

Oak Bay asked for provision for an incapacitated voter to mark his ballot in a polling station but not necessarily in a polling booth, and this was indorsed.

No action was taken on the Saanich resolution proposing compulsory voting in municipalities.

The Saanich proposal that municipalities should be empowered to set up fire, indemnity and accident schemes was indorsed in principle.

Victoria asked that the Provincial Government remove the limit of $670,000 on motor licence fees paid to municipalities, and instead pay one-third of the fees such as applies under $570,000. The meeting indorsed this.

Inclusion of rural electrification in postwar projects, urged by Surrey, was indorsed.

Other resolutions dealt with cascara bark, the municipal franchise, town planning, cemetery companies, septic tanks, trades licences, scholarships, keeping of dogs, local improvements and so on. In a number of cases no action was taken because additional information was needed.

FLIERS SAIL AND SAILORS FLY TO LEARN EACH OTHER'S JOB

A new scheme of liaison between officers of Royal Air Force and the Merchant Navy has brought about another strange war-time switch in jobs. From planes of air convoys skippers of cargo vessels study the tactics of airmen protecting their vessels while, on the water, airmen from the decks of merchant ships learn the routine and difficulties from the seaman's point of view. In this way each gets a realistic idea of the others work and cooperation between convoys and protecting aircraft is facilitated. In the top picture an officer of a Merchan Navy vessel takes time out to talk to his two R.A.F. guests, who have been watching the line of ships stretching up the Channel. Below, two Merchant Navy officers up front with the pilot of an R.A.F. plane keep a sharp watch on other escorting aircraft.

Bridgman Tells Municipalities to Prepare for Post-War Years by Creating Funds Out of Surpluses

Finances of British Columbia municipalities were much improved at the present time, but much of the improvement was due to inability to carry out work because materials and men were lacking and when the war was over "you will have to pick up a lot of slack."

With this summary E. H. Bridgman, Deputy Minister of Municipalities, told the Association of Kootenay Municipalities at a banquet at the Hume Saturday night that they should keep up their normal tax rates, and set aside surpluses for "specific purposes and works when the war is over." He anticipated a need for funds of this nature in the postwar years.

Mr. Bridgman urged all municipalities to send their representatives to municipal conventions. "No government can be insensible of a gathering of men elected in municipalities," he said, for no one was closer to the people. In British Columbia three-quarters of the people lived in organized municipalities.

"Keep on carrying your troubles to your government year by year," he counselled.

RELIEF FOR LAND

Municipalities were asking for relief from land taxation, not because they objected to services but because the burden was so heavy. "You have a sound case and the Government realizes it," he said. Adjustment would probably have to wait until the end of the war and readjustment of Provincial revenues.

Policy of the Department of Municipalities was cooperation and assistance, the policy laid down by Hon. A. Wells Gray, Minister, when the Department was created. "The last thing we want to do is use the power given us," Mr. Bridgman asserted.

He also urged that officials be sent to the Municipal Officers Convention for the real and practical assistance they received there.

DAWSON CREEK GROWTH

The Deputy Minister outlined some of the difficulties encountered by the Dawson Creek municipal government when its population jumped from 500 to 5000 overnight, and told how they were met. He described the Dawson Creek area and the effect of Alaska Highway construction activities.

Mayor N. C. Stibbs of Nelson presided.

Mayor John A. Gordon of Rossland, President, spoke of the success of the meeting and of the value of Mr. Bridgman's assistance. Mayor Herbert Clark of Trail proposed the toast "The Ladies" and Ald. Margaret Whittaker of Kaslo replied. Mrs. Whittaker hoped for improvement of schools and provision for higher education. Mayor E. H. Latham of Kaslo spoke of the progress his city was making.

Other speakers were Commissioner James Cook, Creston; Commissioner W. F Jeffery of New Denver; Reeve A. L. Johannson of Tadanac; W. E. Wasson of Nelson, first life member of the Kootenay Association; Ald. H. H. Hnitt of Nelson and City Clerk J. A. McLeod of Rossland.

Allied Commission to Handle Mediterranean Political Problems

By J. F. SANDERSON
Canadian Press Staff Writer

WASHINGTON, Sept. 5 (CP)—The Allies have established a Mediterranean Commission to handle political problems arising in that war sector, it was learned here today, as hope dimmed of an early conference among Prime Minister Churchill, President Roosevelt and Premier Stalin.

The composition of the Commission was not revealed here, but it was learned that Russia is represented on it in addition to Britain and the United States.

Although prospects of a Roosevelt-Churchill-Stalin conference in the immediate future grew dimmer, a meeting of foreign secretaries of Britain, the United States and Russia now is assured. It likely will be held in London at an early date and will be concerned primarily with political problems facing the United Nations, including postwar planning.

STRATEGY FOR 1944

It was also learned that barring an internal collapse in Germany, regarded as improbable, Allied leaders expect the war in Europe to extend through 1944 and are basing their strategic plans accordingly.

Allied leaders believe the German Army, totalling more than 250 divisions, will remain strong for some time. Even if it has to withdraw inside the frontiers of Germany, the possibility that it will be strong enough to spring like a leopard in counter-offensives in 1944 is one basic consideration of those mapping Allied strategy.

The Canadian Press was told that many invitations have gone to Premier Stalin from Mr. Churchill and Mr. Roosevelt in the past year or two, none of which he could accept. Only a few days ago it was believed that everything was set and one or perhaps both the Western democratic leaders would travel 4000 or 5000 miles to confer with the Russian Premier.

But each time Stalin has found it impossible to accept the invitation because he is the active head of Russia's military forces, the man who makes the strategic decisions and directs all operations.

Large Convoy of Canadians Arrives Overseas

A BRITISH PORT, Sept. 5 (CP Cable)—One of the largest convoys of reinforcements ever to reach the Canadian Army overseas has arrived safely at a British port, it was announced yesterday.

The draft of fighting men was the second largest in size ever to leave Canada for Britain since the 1st Division landed in Sicily and included men in all branches of the service, fit and ready to fight.

They are ready to take their place in whatever operational role is decided upon for them, Canadian military headquarters said.

Valuable Furs Lost in Fire; 21 Men Injured

VANCOUVER, Sept. 5 (CP) — Furs worth hundreds of thousands of dollars were destroyed or damaged and 21 firemen were taken to hospital suffering from fumes when fire broke out today in the downtown premises of G. L. Pop, Furriers.

Seven other firemen suffered minor injuries and 17 families living in suites above the fur store were evacuated, many of them in night attire.

Fumes from broken refrigeration pipes were blamed for the collapse of the firemen, none of whom is in serious condition. Cause of the blaze has not been determined.

Pop has won prizes for his furs at exhibitions throughout the world, and many of his finest pieces were destroyed. Thousands of Vancouver women had their fur coats in storage there.

Danes Ordered to Give Up Weapons

STOCKHOLM, Sept. 5 (AP) — Gen. Hermann von Hannecken, Nazi military dictator of Denmark, yesterday ordered Danish citizens to surrender all weapons and ammunition by September 7 under pain of the most severe punishment.

The order accompanied a decree issued Friday night rescinding the recent modification of martial law because of continuous anti-German sabotage, and was announced by the Nazi-controlled Danish radio.

The Germans had permitted theatres to reopen and had extended their first curfew order from 9 p.m. to 11 p.m. Hereafter all business and other establishments must be closed at 8 p.m. and all traffic except for the military and physicians will be prohibited on the streets between 9 p.m. and 5 a.m.

Enforcement of the new crufew and weapon decrees will be carried out by the Danish police, the German announcement said.

This was interpreted here as a further sign that the Germans had been forced to yield some enforcement powers to the Danish authorities because they were not prepared to handle the country's administrative functions when they established their military dictatorship last Sunday. During Thursday and Friday 110 persons were arrested in Copenhagen alone for violation of the curfew, the Free Danish Press Bureau in Stockholm said.

The Press Bureau also reported that a bomb had exploded in a Copenhagen hotel Thursday night, killing several German officers.

Manning Cuts Out Consumer Bonus

EDMONTON, Sept. 5 (CP) —Premier Manning in a statement today announced the elimination of the consumers' bonus and a complete revision and reorganization of the Alberta Government's iterim program and treasury branch services. Certain changes have already been made effective.

Elimination of the purchase of Alberta trade-marked goods as a basis for the Consumer's bonus was made, Mr. Manning said, because it was considered expedient in view of the complete change which has taken place in the field of manufacturing and distribution of consumers' goods under existing wartime restrictions.

Almost a Spirit of Apathy Settles in Italy After First Surprise

BERNE, Sept. 3 (delayed) (AP) — The initial surprise over the Allied landing in Calabria apparently passed quickly in Italy today and was followed by almost a spirit of apathy as the Italians realized that the hoped for peace was not on the immediate horizon.

A Swiss Telegraphic Agency dispatch from Rome said "there is no particular uneasiness in the capital."

The Rome correspondent of the Tribune de Geneve reported that the Italians have now realized that "nothing less than a miracle" could spare the country the tragic lot of being transformed into a battlefield.

A dispatch to the Zurich Die Tat from the Italian frontier said the first reaction in Italy to the invasion was one of "complete calm, almost indifference," adding that the landing was a diversion while the real invasion would be launched at some other point.

A Milan dispatch to the Berne newspaper Der Bund said the Italian people had reckoned on an imminent attack on the mainland but nonetheless had hoped that the Badoglio Government would succeed in withdrawing the country from the war before the Allies set foot on the peninsula.

The break in the Allied bombing of Northern Italian cities had nourished the belief that negotiations were in progress between Rome and the Allies. Today's landing, the Milan dispatch added, "ends these illusions, while Italian newspapers themselves admit that the armament and equipment of Italian soldiers is inadequate to meet strong British and American forces."

Davis Remanded Week; Defence Says Amount of Strychnine Not Fatal

VANCOUVER, Sept. 5 (CP) — Charles W. Davis, former Army Staff Sergeant, charged with possession of drugs, was remanded one week in police court Saturday after his defence counsel declared strychnine allegedly placed in syrettes as substitutes for other drugs would not have caused death.

At Davis' first hearing last Saturday Prosecutor Gordon S. Wismer charged Davis had replaced opiates in army stores with calomel and strychnine, and asserted use of the latter would have endangered the lives of Canadian soldiers.

"I am assured by experts that the amount placed in as a substitute was not sufficient to cause death— in other words, it was not a fatal dose," Thomas F. Hurley, Defence Counsel said, "I merely wish to correct the bad impression made by the statement in court. Obviously it would cause a great deal of prejudice and might prevent Davis from having a fair trial."

"The facts will be brought out by the analyst, who is now working on the samples submitted to him," said Mr. Wismer. "He will certainly be given a fair trial."

Davis is held in custody, having been unable to raise bail of $10,000.

Board Approves Wage Increases for Alberta and B. C. Mine Fields

OTTAWA, Sept. 5 (CP) — The National War Labor Board today announced that it has approved pay increases ranging from six to 57 cents a day in the basic wages paid in a number of Alberta and British Columbia coal fields, and also a number of increases in contract rates in the same areas.

"All increases should be retroactive to May 16, 1943," the Board said in an official statement. "The question of ability to pay is of importance, and also we think that uniformity in retroactivity is desirable."

Following are the Board's decisions on basic rates of pay:

"1. In the coal branch district where the existing rate is at present $5.51 per day the conditions of mining and proximity of the mines to the bituminous mine area justify us in advancing the rate to $5.78 as requested (by District 18, United Mine Workers of America).

"2. In the Saunders and Alexo district where the existing rate is $5.59 per day, on the same evidence and reasoning we think the rate should be increased to $5.78 per day.

"3. In the Drumheller and East Coulee district and the Lethbridge district where the rate at present paid is $5.51 per day we find that the 1926-29 rate was $5.57 per day and on a comparitive basis the present rate may be said to be to some extent depressed. Accordingly we think that an increase to $5.57 per day is justified.

"4. In the Edmonton and Carbon districts where the rate was increased by our former interim directive to $5 per day we are of the opinion that the conditions of mining are sufficiently similar to those in the Drumheller and Lethbridge districts that it should be increased to $5.57 per day.

"5. In the Princeton district where the rate is $5.51 per day we feel that it should be increased to $5.78 per day, the rate now in effect at one of the mines on Vancouver Island."

In regard to contract rates, the Board ruled:

"1. The application for increase in mine contract rates and timbering at East Coulee Mines cannot be given effect to under Section 25 (of Order-in-Council P.C. 5963).

"2. Timbering rates at Rosedale Collieries should be increased to the level of those prevailing at Drumheller; viz.: entries and rooms notched and lagged, $1.13 per set; entries and rooms round timber lagged 75 cents per set; bridge sticks not notched, $1.70 per set; needle sets, 42½ cents per set.

"3. In Edmonton and Carbon districts contract mining rates should be increased by 12½ per cent.

"4. There should also be 12½ per cent increases in mining contract rates at the Chester Mine, the J. J. Hamilton Mine and the Strickland and Tenant Mine in the Lethbridge coal fields."

After hearing held May 18 and 19, the National War Labor Board issued on July 2 an interim directive by which upward adjustments of wages in the Edmonton and Carbon areas were authorized. The questions of adjustments in other areas and any further adjustments in the Edmonton and Carbon areas were referred to W. H. Ley, one of the Labor Board's permanent officials, for investigation and report.

The findings announced today were based on Mr. Ley's report.

Japs Abandon Base at Rekata Bay

UNITED STATES HEADQUARTERS, the South Pacific, Sept. 5—(AP)—The Japanese have abandoned their, once important seaplane base at Rekata Bay on Santa Isabel, 145 miles Northwest of Guadalcanal, a South Pacific Headquarters spokesman said yesterday.

Unofficially, it was thought here the Japanese had evacuated the entire island as well as Rekata Bay, but there was no intimation that United States forces have occupied Santa Isabel as yet.

Presbyterians Observe Day of Prayer

First Presbyterian Church of Nelson observed the "Day of Prayer" anniversary at Sunday morning's service. Archibald Stewart chose "The Deluge of War" as his sermon topic.

At the evening service he gave the first of a series of sermons on "Temptation". To be conscious of temptation meant that the human soul was awake, he held.

"It is a comfort to know that Christ Himself was tempted, for it means that temptation in itself is not wrong. If we are never conscious of being tempted it may mean that we are not conscious of any call of God to duty or service," Mr. Stewart asserted.

Board to Again Discuss Moving Japanese

Resolution of the Nelson Board of Trade asking the Government to implement a pledge to remove Japanese from this district after the war and possibly to remove them from Canada, will be held up until the October meeting of the Board, for additional discussion. Under the original motion it was proposed to seek the support of District Boards of Trade for the resolution.

This action followed a plea by City Engineer H. D. Dawson for careful consideration of the Japanese problem and a lengthy discussion as to the purpose and wording of the resolution passed by the last meeting of the Council of the Board.

"DOESN'T HELP AT ALL"

Mr. Dawson said the resolution "doesn't help at all." He urged care in dealing with minorities, stating Hitler had spread his power by using them. The resolution would make Japanese now in this district responsible for the actions of their cousins of their homeland, with which they had nothing to do.

This was not a war of nations against nations, but of ideals against brutal ideologies, Mr. Dawson said. If Japanese were sent back to Japan smouldering resentment would follow. He doubted whether post-war international authority would permit it.

The solution must be found by clear thinking. He was opposed to Japanese setting up communities. They should be dispersed and placed at points where they would be of value to the country. They should not be exploited, he asserted.

Lengthy discussion, with a variety of viewpoints presented, followed.

Wrens Get Great Welcome Overseas

AN EASTERN CANADIAN PORT Sept. 5 (CP) —Selection for overseas duty fulfilled ambitions which they never expected to see realized, said 11 members of the Women's Royal Canadian Naval Service before they boarded a troopship here en route to serve as clerical workers at Royal Canadian Navy Headquarters in London.

(Arrival in Britain of a group of 14 Canadian Wrens—first draft of W.R.C.N.S. personnel to be sent overseas—was announced in London Friday.)

The group was in charge of Sub.-Lt. Margaret Mackie of Victoria, who observed, "we sort of feel we are the pioneers," as she herded the girls to their quarters aboard ship. "Our girls will relieve British girls. British girls will relieve British sailors . . . It means more men available to go to sea in the Royal Navy."

Hailing from nearly every Province in Canada, the Wrens paraded up the gangplank, respirators and tin hats slung from their shoulders and, dripping rain, were greeted by thousands of cheering and whistling sailors, soldiers and airmen.

Only other officer in the draft was Sub.-Lt. Grace Lovatt of Winnipeg. "Most of the girls have been in the Navy only a few months, and they still can't realize . . . . that their hopes are being realized," she said.

Until accommodation for them is ready, the Navy girls will be quartered in barracks with the British Wrens.

Included in the group were three from British Columbia, Wrens Doreen Davies, and Lorna Green, Vancouver, and Jean Davidson, Port Washington.

Chinese Ideals

The drive for funds for Chinese Relief is having two good effects. It is raising money which will assist in a small measure to relieve the terrible sufferings of a brave and patriotic people, and it is bringing us information about the Chinese which will enable us to understand them better.

In a Vancouver store window has been displayed a large placard urging gifts to the Relief Fund and emphasizing the "Four Pillars of Chinese Government." The "Four Pillars," the four cardinal principles upon which the Chinese believe that good government and individual character-building depend, are:

Courtesy.
Modesty.
Integrity.
Loyalty.

The Chinese use the word "government" in its broadest application. They mean it as applying to self-government of the individual as well as to government in the narrower sense.

Chinese ideals are expressed in features of their national character which the world has for long admired.

British Submarine Aids Loyal Norsemen

Last Easter there was much disturbance in German circles in Norway over "sabotage" in Oslo harbor when several Nazi ships were destroyed. Norwegians were blamed and Nazidom was jittery over this unexpected indication of further extension of underground activities.

Loyal Norwegians are doing a splendid job of work in interfering in many practical ways with the German occupationists. They are keeping them on tenderhooks. The Nazis never know what will happen next. They are consequently being forced to maintain heavier occupation forces than would be necessary with a less patriotic and less virile people.

But, actually, the destruction of Nazi ships was not an example of Norwegian activities. It represented a brilliant feat by an adventurous British submarine which sneaked into Oslo harbor behind a Nazi merchant vessel under protection of darkness and fog, and then proceeded to sink every Nazi ship in sight.

Norwegians chuckled at the mystification of the Nazis and kept the secret until divulging of the truth became useful against the enemies of their country.

Lack of Frankness Bad Policy

It seems impossible for some departments at Ottawa to learn, no matter how many the sad experiences, that when radical changes in policy are to be made the only sensible policy is to make a frank statement of reasons.

The recent disturbance in the shipbuilding industry at the Coast is merely another case of the Bourbonic inability of a type of Ottawa officialdom to remember that they are dealing with the public's business, and not their own, and that nothing will create more trouble than indefinite and vague statements of reasons for changes.

Instructions went out to Vancouver to slow down shipbuilding. Ships are to be completed in 80 instead of 70 days. This will require less men, so men are to be laid off.

Men are laid off. Those upon whom the axe falls are those with bad records of absenteeism.

Labor becomes suspicious. Is this a scheme to "create artificial employment"? For months labor has been urged to build ships faster. Now it is told ships are needed less quickly.

After the trouble and suspicions have developed, Ottawa explains that the ocean shipping situation has improved, that economies can be made by slower construction, and that men laid off are to be diverted to essential work in other plants. No one would wish Ottawa to divulge any facts of value to the enemy, but much more convincing information could be given out.

Did the United Nations decide that Canada's shipbuilding effort could advantageously be slowed down and some of the shipbuilders employed on other war work? Or is the transfer of men from shipbuilding based upon more urgent needs elsewhere, rather than a plethora of ships? If so, what are the needs? Airplanes? Base metals? Logs?

Ottawa doesn't say. An angry critic might suggest that it didn't know and was merely fumbling as so often it has fumbled in production and labor policies.

10 Minutes to Destroy Work of 3½ Years

It took the American Flying Fortresses which bombed Trondheim on July 24 only 10 minutes to destroy what the Germans had taken 3½ years to construct, say recent reports from inside Norway. A U-boat bunker housing six submarines was alone left undamaged, but this will be of little use to the Germans with all equipment, all machine shops and repair installations lying in ruins. In the harbor a destroyer, U-boat, a floating dock, four tugs and a salvage ship were destroyed. Other destruction included a large combined office building and warehouse, several sheds, garages, 15 houses, several barracks, a second German warehouse, and the gas works which supplied gas for the German-operated "Frostfilet" plant which exported frozen fish fillets to Germany. Damage to Norwegian civilian property was confined to three houses, the Aas shipyards which were situated in the centre of the target area, and the gas works mentioned above.

The attack occurred in bright sunshine. The Germans tried to cloak the city with an artificial fog but succeeded only in destroying the visibility for their own anti-aircraft batteries. Several German fighter planes went aloft, but showed little inclination to attack. No American bombers were shot down. The townspeople took it all very calmly, retreating to air raid shelters in good order. They had long been expecting a large-scale attack since they realized the Allies were not going to allow the Germans to keep on repairing their U-boats at Trondheim forever without some interference.

The number of German deaths due to the bombing is being kept secret, but it is known that about 35 officers, including the submarine base commandant as well as his first assistant, were killed in the combined office building and warehouse. Norwegian fatalities totalled seven.

German morale at Trondheim has been very low since the attack. The plan of making Trondheim into a great U-boat base now seems doomed. But the townspeople are satisfied; they now regard their city eliminated as a U-boat base and figure that further bombings are unlikely because they are not necessary.

Suggests Dividing Line in Centre of Highway

To the Editor, Sir—I would suggest, to avoid a recurrence of such accidents as happened recently between a Greyhound bus and a truck, in which several persons lost their lives, that the Public Works Engineer require that a colored strip of white or yellow cement be made in the centre of the road of all but-turns, on the highway, and to extend on either end, far enough so that there should not be any danger of a collision if each driver kept to his own side of that line.

Surely the loss of life would warrant this precaution to avoid accidents in the future, and in the event of a collision it could easily be determined which driver was on the wrong side of the line. SAFETY FIRST.

SABOTAGING CROPS

Despite labor shortages, crops in the Balkans this year are reported to be good, so Yugoslav guerrillas are striking a blow on the food front by adding "Not one grain of wheat for the Germans" to their battle cries.

These guerrillas are out to sabotage the harvest, knowing that the people have nothing to lose from such tactics. The Germans themselves have made that clear by pointing out that they will not be the ones who will starve in Europe. Good crops or bad, the Yugoslavs will go hungry.—Windsor Star.

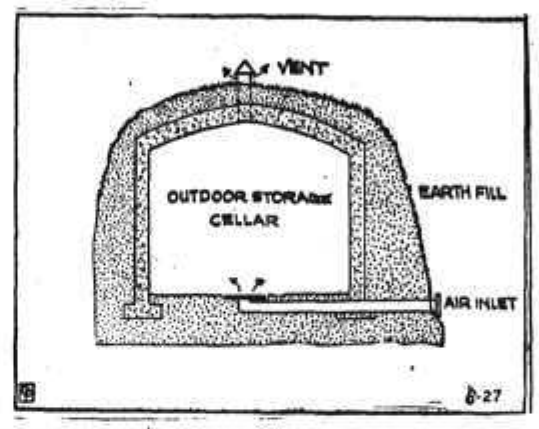
Today's VICTORY GARDEN-GRAPH

By DEAN HALLIDAY



OUTDOOR STORAGE CELLAR FOR VICTORY GARDEN PRODUCE

Where it is possible (especially on a side hill) the outdoor storage cellar is superior to the basement cool room for storage of Victory Garden produce.

This storage room must be weatherproof and free from moisture and frost. Usually such cellars are built partly below the ground level and all but the door covered with a foot or two of earth to prevent freezing. The amount of earth covering necessarily varies with the severity of the climate. In the extreme North a covering of two to three feet deep is required, and over this can be piled straw or corn husks.

As illustrated in the accompanying Garden-Graph, a ventilating flue is set into the roof and an air inlet in the floor or side wall to allow for circulation of air. These openings must be covered with a screening to keep out rodents.

In a storage cellar, or "root cellar" of this type, a dirt floor is desirable. The walls should be waterproofed on the outside.

Fire Damages Cranbrook Bakery

CRANBROOK, B. C.—An early morning blaze in the Bigatinni Bakery on Cranbrook Street this morning resulted in serious damage unofficially estimated at about $1000. The fire started when a kettle of tar on the stove boiled over and exploded. The flames spread quickly into the kitchen and through the rear of the recently completed building to which the bakery was to move.

The family living quarters upstairs were damaged by smoke, water and heat, but were not a complete loss, while the store in the lower front of the building was undamaged.

Egisto Bigatinni, Proprietor, had recently purchased baking equipment at Kimberley and the damage sustained to this is not yet known.

An insurance adjustor is expected to appraise the damage officially tomorrow.

Only a Handful of Italian Troops and a Little Barbed Wire on Shores

In the following dispatch Ross Munro, Canadian Press War Correspondent who followed the Canadian troops from Sicily to the Italian mainland in the invasion jump, tells of the reception the soldiers received when first landing on Europe.

BY ROSS MUNRO
Canadian Press War Correspondent

WITH THE CANADIANS SOMEWHERE IN SOUTHERN ITALY, Sept. 3 (Delayed) (CP Cable)—The coastal defences here are negligible. The beaches are unmined and there is little barbed wire and only a handful of Italian troops on the shoreline. And these surrendered immediately.

A few civilians greeted the Canucks with handwaves and smiles, some of them parading about with white flags. They said the Germans had withdrawn to the hills. And so far I haven't seen a single German, although I've seen one batch of 30 Italians rounded up near the beach.

British troops shared the honor of making the first beachhead on the European mainland with the Canadians.

Royal Navy and flotilla of Royal Canadian Navy ships ferried the Canadians over Messina Straits in various types of assault craft after a two-hour thundering barrage from 8th Army gunners on Sicily.

Occasionally the enemy guns winked back, but on the Canadian sector the whole operation was as complete a success as was the one that took the beaches of Pachino on Sicily.

Sailing in under the tremendous British barrage which lighted the smooth water of Messina Straits with a thousand flashes as the guns pounded from 3:30 a.m. until daylight was one of the most thrilling sights this war has produced.

We could see the whole Sicilian coast as a flaming mass of gunfire. Shells whined overhead and ears were pained with the crash of artillery. Searchlights spitted the starlight sky over the Straits like Klieg lights at a gigantic premiere. Tracer shells fired on fixed lines from the Sicilian coast right to our beach directed the invading Canadians in.

Allied Planes Dominated the Sky Over Southern Italy

BY NOLAND NORGAARD
Associated Press War Correspondent

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS, North Africa, Sept 5 (AP)—Allied planes "completely dominated the sky over Southern Italy Friday while our ground forces entered the fortress of Europe," meeting virtually no opposition from the Germans, an official announcement said yesterday.

"Pilots reported little traffic on the roads and saw several white sheets laid out in fields and gardens," it added.

Fighter and bomber planes ranging in great strength over the invasion area found only a few Axis troops or truck convoys on the highways, and "sortie after sortie . . . from dawn to dusk returned to report no targets for their guns or bombs."

Of the few enemy planes sighted by the fleets from North Africa, five were destroyed. One Allied ship was missing.

United States bombers from the Middle East meanwhile smacked the railyards at Sulmona, 75 miles East of Rome by daylight Friday, encountering stern opposition from Axis planes and downing 27 of them. Six planes were lost in this and other attacks, Cairo reported, bringing the total bag of enemy planes to 32 against loss of seven Allied aircraft.

The Tactical Air Force of American medium bombers attacked the airdrome at Camigliatello and Crotone about 30 miles Northeast of Catanzaro, hitting in three waves.

U. S. Bostons attacked gun positions in the invasion area, while Mitchells and R.A.F. Bostons and Baltimores hammered Maria Di Catanzaro, Nova Di Marina, and Cosenza, their bombs striking on or near a number of bridges and buildings.

Meanwhile American fighters swooped over Sardina, planting four bombs squarely on the radio station at Cape Carbonara, and also damaged radio installations at Pula 20 miles South of Cagliari without encountering a single enemy plane.

R.A.F. Wellingtons followed up with flare raids on enemy airfields at Capua and Capodichino in the Naples area. At Capua, the crews saw as many as 20 planes on the ground where bombs were striking. None of the Wellingtons was lost.

Burma Factories Hit in Raid

NEW DELHI, Sept. 5 (CP) — Three factories in the Prome district of Burma were damaged yesterday by R.A.F. fighters and other aircraft dive-bombed targets at Kyauktaw on the Kaladan River to the North, starting fires in three buildings, a British communique said Saturday.

In Southwestern Burma the fighters also shot up a variety of other targets, including more than 80 sampans on the Irawaddy, a locomotive and several army trucks.

Afghanistan has an area of 251,000 square miles.

Women in North Larger Than Southern Sisters

By DENISE D. LTROFF
Canadian Press Staff Writer

LONDON (CP)—If anybody is going out on a search for Britain's "standard" type woman, they can stop now. Authorities say there isn't such a thing.

Women in Britain's North are bigger than women in Southern England. That is what clothes manufacturers say.

The matter came up when a production manageress of a clothes manufacturer who produces tens of thousands of women's garments every year referred to a case in court which concerned women's dresses returned because they did not fit. The manageress explained that on the whole women are two sizes larger in the North than in the Midlands and about one size larger in the Midlands than in the South.

SOME EXCEPTIONS

"That does not mean they are all alike and that there are no fat women in the South, but generally speaking this is the case," she said. "In the North we could not sell on any scale the American 14 size, the hips of which are at least three sizes smaller than the requirements of the North. Yet an American 14 is the average size for the South."

Food experts say that Northerners eat heavier meals than people in the South. Starchy foods like dumplings and puddings are more popular in the North than in the South. These foods tend to put on weight. Also the heavier and more manual work carried on by the industrial population of the North and Midlands developed women's muscles.

A man who handled the evacuation into Birmingham and the outskirts, of many thousands of young children and their mothers from the South and Southeast Coast said, "People from the South seemed to devote more attention to themselves. Care invariably gives a neater appearance and makes them look smaller. Girls from the South are a lot more particular about their clothes and make sure that they fit."

Balanced Diet . . .

Eating to Beat the Heat

By IDA JEAN KAIN

Nutrition is apt to go into a Summer slump. It isn't the heat that bogs you down as much as lopsided meals. You don't have as keen an appetite in hot weather, so you don't bother much what you eat. You take a cold snack and let it go at that.

When you are used to hot foods, you can bring on a digestive upset by switching to all cold foods. Also, it's just as important to balance the meals in Summer. You require fewer calories, for while the weather doesn't affect internal activities, the lessened muscular tension induced by the heat cuts down the need for as many energy-giving foods. But you need just as good quality nutrition.

Don't try to get by with coffee and a sweet roll for breakfast. You should have fresh fruit or juice, a whole grain cereal and milk or an egg and toast and a hot beverage. You can do better work on a good breakfast.

Lunch can be your light meal with a fresh green salad and cottage cheese or a sliced hard cooked egg or a poached egg and thinly sliced whole grain bread and butter, some fresh fruit and a glass of milk. Or if there is not much humidity in the air, you might like hot tea. I don't mind a cold luncheon, because I like salads and milk at noon, but if your digestion is easily upset, you'll get along better with one hot food in this meal. It can be a combination of creamed vegetables and chipped meat left over from the previous dinner. Add a glass of milk, whole grain bread and fresh fruit and you have a good meal.

If you are at all inclined to a digestive upset in hot weather, avoid taking iced foods or beverages when you are feeling the heat. Cool water would be better than ice water. Ice cream is a grand dessert, but eat it slowly at the end of a meal. It's a shock to the nerves of the stomach to gulp down anything iced.

Outdoor play is a tonic, aside from slimming you down, it promotes a feeling of well being. Lovely Ava Gardner, screen newcomer, frolics on the beach to keep in condition. She advises walking in the sand to strengthen the arches and improve the leg contour.

Baked Tomatoes Baked Potatoes
Salad in Apples
Hard Cooked Eggs
Spiced Cake Iced or Hot Tea

SCALLOPED CABBAGE

1 firm head of cabbage, white sauce, bread crumbs.

Slice cabbage and cook for 10 minutes in boiling salted water, then drain. Prepare white sauce, and place alternate layers of cabbage and white sauce in greased baking dish. Top with buttered bread crumbs and bake until crumbs are brown—about 20 minutes. Grated cheese over crumbs is a welcome addition.

BAKED TOMATOES

Grease a baking dish, peel tomatoes and lay them in whole, sprinkle sugar and salt over them and fine bread or cracker crumbs. Bake for 40 minutes in 350 degrees F. oven for about 40 minutes. When they are done, dip syrup in baking dish over tops of tomatoes.

SALAD IN APPLES

6 perfect apples, 1 cup chopped walnut meats, 2 cups celery hearts, diced, mayonnaise.

Cut a small round slice from the tops of apples, hollow them out, making pieces as large as possible; cut scoopings into dice, add same quantity of diced celery hearts and add nut meats. Blend and mix all with mayonnaise. Refill apples with mixture and serve on lettuce, watercress or other salad greens.

SPICE CAKE

1 cup sugar, 2½ tablespoons butter, 1 egg, separated, 1 cup sweet milk, 2 cups flour, 2 teaspoons baking powder, ½ teaspoon cinnamon, ½ teaspoon cloves, 1 cup raisins.

Cream butter, add sugar and cream well. Beat yolk of egg, add milk and add alternately with flour which has been sifted, measured and sifted again with spices and baking powder. Sift some of the flour over raisins and add next. Fold in stiffly beaten egg white last, and bake in loaf or ginger cake pan in 350 degree F. oven for about 40 to 45 minutes or until done.

Can't Forget . . .

Old Sweethearts Meet Again

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

Dear Miss Fairfax:—When I was a small girl we moved to a neighborhood where there were a lot of boys and girls, and one of these little boys is the man I now love. When very young we were together all the time, and even promised we would marry each other when we were old enough. But as time went on, he took out other girls, and I accepted dates from other boys.

I married another man and later, the boy met and married another girl, but still he kept coming to my house. And we have a problem now. He says he can't forget me and that he was wrong, and that I'm the one he really loves. I too, love him more than I do my husband. However, I can't think of giving up my husband, as he is now serving overseas in the Armed Forces. I'm very

PUZZLED.

One of our philosophers said something like, it's the man or the woman we didn't marry who holds the key to Paradise. But the key we find may be the wrong one. And you can't get into Paradise by climbing through a window or sneaking in the back way.

Don't take this old sweetheart too seriously. The reason you both think you are the only one now is because you've never experienced the monotony of existence with each other. If you had married, in all probability, your present mates would seem the escape or change you may subconsciously seek.

There's an important word called "duty", and a longer one called "responsibility" and I hope sincerely for your happiness that you're going to respect these two words and be loyal to your soldier-husband.

Dear Miss Fairfax—Will you help me plan for the future? I was graduated from high school in June, and my father and I don't agree on what I should do.

Father wants me to work for him at two dollars a day plus board and room in his automobile repair shop, where I can learn other trades in the same line. I had planned to go to Vancouver and take a position — where I can be near my girl friend who is already there.

Miss G. H.

The impulse of young people is always to try "green fields and pastures new." New surroundings beckon, and there is the thrill of meeting interesting people and seeing new places. All this is easy to understand and I hope your father will let you try it out. If he doesn't and you have to remain at home, make the best of it; learn all you can about the type of work at hand.

Canada to Make Penicillin for the Armed Forces

OTTAWA, Sept. 5 (CP) — The Munitions Department is expected to assist enlarged production of the wonder drug penicillin for use of the Armed Forces. The Canadian Press learned Saturday.

A process adaptable to large-scale production has been worked out by the Banting Institute at the University of Toronto and Canadian production, with the military forces having the first call, is eagerly sought.

Some production may be obtained from the University of Toronto, where a pilot plant has been built, but it was understood other establishments will be necessary.

In the development of these, the Munitions Department probably will be willing to assist to "a substantial amount," one official said.

Penicillin has proved dramatically effective in dealing with certain stubborn infections.

Women Get Along on Clothes Quota

By DENISE DALTROFF
Canadian Press Staff Writer

MANCHESTER, (CP) — The myth that women need more clothes than men—that in days of coupon clothes rationing wives "borrow" their husband's clothing coupons—has been dispelled.

A survey by the British Board of Trade on the second anniversary of clothes rationing shows that few women use more clothing coupons than their quota; that parents do not make sacrifices for children's cloths; and that boys between 14 and 16 years of age leaving school are the heaviest coupon users while girls of the same age follow them closely.

Women use 18 per cent of their coupons on stockings and 19 per cent on underwear while men spend 36 per cent of their coupons on shirts and underwear and 15 per cent on socks.

PLAY THE GAME

At the end of the first year of clothes rationing people had an average of two or three coupons remaining out of the 66 issued. At the end of the second year few had any of their 48 coupons left.

"People have played the game remarkably well," said a Board of Trade official. "There have been few difficulties and the system, aside from such things as the shortage of children's shoes, has worked like clockwork."

In two years clothes rationing has saved 500,000 tons of shipping space and released more than 400,000 workers while $3,000,000,000 of the public's money has been diverted from clothes buying to more profitable purposes.

New Book . . .

Praises Russian War Hospitals

By LOGAN CLENDENING, M. D.

I confess to a weakness for the books about conditions within beleaguered countries at war. The newspaper correspondents' accounts are far better than the ambassadorial or official versions—the correspondents get around more, have a more comprehensive view of what the common people think.

The Last Train From Berlin seems to me the best account of the German situation, and Russia Fights, by James E. Brown, far and away the most vivid picture I have encountered of what the Russians are doing.

The Russians, according to Mr. Brown, are thinking this—they are for Russia and nobody else. They have done four-fifths of the work in stopping the Nazis and when they get what they want they are probably going to quit. Unless Japan attacks them, they are not going to declare war on Japan for us or anybody else. Their post-war policy is isolationism and plenty of it.

The account of Mr. Churchill's visit to Moscow is rich. He appeared at an official Soviet banquet in overalls, which didn't make near the hit that he makes at the White House.

HOSPITAL WORK

I was interested in the accounts Mr. Brown gives of the work of the hospitals. However we may feel about it here, socialized medicine works in Russia.

"There are fewer deaths from serious wounds than in other wars: we take care of casualties better; we give emergency treatment on the battlefield," a military surgeon told the author. "Then the sulfa drugs have saved many lives. We get a good deal of sulfa from America, but we need more of it."

All that sounds very alert and up-to-date.

Nakusp Woman Is Laid at Rest

NAKUSP, B. C. — Final tribute was paid Friday to Mrs. Ena Maria Welch, wife of Albert C. Welch, who died in the Arrow Lakes Hospital August 26.

Funeral service at the graveside was conducted by G. H. Keys.

Mrs. Welch was born in Patten, Maine, December 28, 1882. Mr. and Mrs. Welch and family resided in the Province about 20 years — 10 years spent in Vancouver, five years in Arrow Park, and five years in Nakusp.

Besides her husband, she is survived by two sons, Ralph at Tisdale, Sask.; David at Ocean Park, B. C.; another daughter, Mrs. Cecil Turner, at Great Central Lake, V.I., and a young daughter, Dorothy, at home.

The pall bearers were W. Moseley, A. Bourn, A. Burling, and Ronald Somers. There were a large number of wreaths and floral tributes.

A Real Art in Painting Legs

NEW YORK (CP) — Bare legs have taken New York by storm and a Fifth Avenue salon has instituted a class of instruction in the art of applying leg makeup!

A brand new way to apply the liquid to prevent streaks was demonstrated to Rockefeller Centre working girls by the salon directress.

A sponge, she says, should be used to apply the liquid. Dip the sponge in water, then squeeze out the excess pouring some of the liquid on the sponge. After painting the feet, stroke up the leg in long sweeps from the ankle to about six inches above the thigh. Keep stroking until your leg is dry and the liquid well blended. Then if you happen to have a chamois cloth, shine your legs to get that "chiffon finish." It should give you a sheer bronzed, lovely leg—and give it a slimmer appearance beside.

It takes only about five minutes to apply the makeup and the best way to do it to save your rugs, is to stand on some newspapers in the bathroom.

Be sure to apply the liquid before dressing and to have your legs thoroughly defuzzed.

There is also, a legstick which will conceal veins, blemishes and imperfections on the legs. This is applied by drawing long even lines the length of the leg and smoothing out with the hands.

It is very easily spread and like the leg makeup will not spot in the rain.

The circle in the map above indicates the three Scandinavian ports which figured in the scuttling of forty-five Danish ships and the escape of nine. Those that escaped reached ports of Malmoe and Landskrona in Sweden bearing civilians and government officials.

SITTING IN A HOT SEAT

THERE IS no more uncomfortable position than that of opening leader after complex bidding, followed by a final business double from your partner, which fills you with doubt about what suit he wishes opened. This is most especially true when your hand is so worthless that you know you can't strike a single lick for your side except with the first lead. Whatever you do may work out finely or get you in trouble with your partner, who may consider that your choice should have been clear-cut.

West thought and thought and thought. He knew the pair was supposed to be using a convention that a penalty double of a No Trump game called for a lead of the dummy's first suit, when two had been bid there. But he also recalled that his partner had bid spades not once or twice, but three times. So, though South had twice called No Trumps over spades, West could not conceive of the suit as being stopped twice, especially since he himself had four to the 10.

"Can't you realize that, when I have bid the same suit three times before doubling, the situation is unusual and that therefore you should disregard the convention about the dummy's first suit?" That is what West decided his partner would say if he opened a heart. So he led a spade, his fourth best 4.

The A took that, the spade J got the second trick, and then East's diamond A was knocked out. East could now score his two heart tops if he wished, but nothing he could do would stop the game. Incidentally, a heart lead at once any heart at all, would have enabled East to take the first five tricks.

What is the moral of this? Nothing at all, except don't spoil a good partnership by bawling at your mate if he picks an unfortunate lead in a difficult situation.

Three Months Hard Labor for Phony Time Sheet

VANCOUVER, Sept. 5 (CP) — Because he put in a time-sheet for $7.01 for a day's work which he hadn't performed, Lyle Harkness, 34, shipyard worker, was sent to jail for three months at hard labor by Magistrate Mackenzie Matheson in Police Court Friday. He pleaded guilty to attempting to obtain $7.01 by false pretences from Burrard Dry Dock Co., Ltd.

"This is as low a crime as one can commit in these times," Magistrate Matheson told the accused. "People are lending money to the Government to build ships and manufacture munitions and you are taking it back by deceitfully trying to make your employers think you had worked when you had not."

BRITAIN SEEKS MINE MACHINERY IN U. S.

LONDON, Sept. 5 (CP) — Maj.-Gen. K. C. Appleyard, who was Chief Engineer to the British Army in France, is now in the United States negotiating for strip mining machinery by which Britain hopes to obtain 20,000,000 tons of coal from pits next year, it was disclosed yesterday.

The present annual pit output is about 5,200,000 tons.

Market Trends . . .

NEW YORK, Sept. 5 (AP.)—Wall Street was virtually a deserted village today as brokers and customers generally got an early start on the Labor Day recess.

Dividends, both actual and prospective, aided individual issues. Imminence of the big United States Government bond drive, coupled with persistent tax doubts, still served to restrain bullish contingents.

TORONTO—Gains predominated in the gold listings while other groups were steady to slightly lower. The trading action was better than in the previous session and about 275,000 shares changed hands.

MONTREAL—Some leading golds and utilities made rising gestures in trading up to near the close.

Stronger spots in utilities were Quebec Power, Winnipeg Electric and Southern Canada Power Preferred.

WINNIPEG—Wheat futures closed unchanged to ¼ cent a bushel higher in mixed trading. October was quoted at 1.09¼.

Dealings in the pit were minor with buying in earlier stages credited to shippers and exported in the October and selling in later stages to locals. No export business was reported in Canadian wheat or flour.

CHICAGO—Grains generally eased in a light trade Saturday, although wheat recovered in the closing minutes to cancel most of early losses. Most traders remained on the sidelines in view of the extended holiday and the Allied invasion of the Italian mainland.

New Fly Casting Record Set

CHICAGO, Sept. 5 (AP) — The world record for salmon distance fly casting fell yesterday to Dick Miller of Huntington Beach, Calif., who bettered the seven-year-old mark in the 35th annual tournament of the National Association of Casting and Angling clubs. His average for three casts of 180 1-3 feet topped the mark set in 1936 by E. C. Braddon of Cleveland, O.

Miller's longest cast was 183 feet.

Betz Retains Net Crown

FOREST HILLS, N. Y., Sept. 5 — (AP.) — Pauline Betz of Los Angeles retained her United States women's tennis title today with a 6-3, 5-7, 6-3 triumph over Louise Brough of Beverly Hills, Calif., runner up for the second successive year, after the men's tournament had reached the final stage with third-seeded Jack Kramer qualifying to meet seventh-ranked Lieut. Joe Hunt in tomorrow's final.

Kramer, a seaman in the United States Coast Guard, eliminated the highly regarded invader from Ecuador, Francisco Segura, 2-6, 6-4, 7-5, 6-3.

Kramer needed just one set to locate Seguar's backhand weakness and three more to run out the match while gaining the men's final.

Later Kramer returned to team with Cpl. Frank Parker of the Army Air Force and win the men's doubles title in a straight-set match. They whipped William Talbert of Indianapolis and Pfc. Dave Freeman of Pomona, Calif., the national badminton champion, 6-2, 6-4, 6-4.

Soccer Favorites Score Victories

LONDON, Sept. 5 (CP) — Favorites in the various leagues scored victories Saturday, the second Saturday of the new Soccer season.

Fourteen teams of the 74 participating in three English competitions remained undefeated. They included Blackpool, Bristol City, Burnley, Chesterfield, Queen's Park Rangers, Aston Villa and Huddersfield.

The day's most exciting game was played at Crewe where the home team established a goal lead in the first minute and threatened to defeat Wolverhampton Wanderers for the second time in succession in the Northern League. But the Wolves came through with a sensational rally, tying the score and with the last kick of the game Emello Aldecoa, Spanish refugee, scored the winning goal giving the Wolves the game 2-1.

Blackpool, considered the hot team of the North League, scored its second victory without loss, defeating Rochdale 6-2. Other scores included Sheffield Wednesday 2, Barnsley 1; Aston Villa 2, Stoke 1; Doncaster 2, Sheffield United 1; Burnley 2, Bolton 0.

Other scores in the South League included Chelsea 3, Brighton 1; Millwall 5, Portsmouth 1; Fulham 4, Brentford 2.

In the West League Bristol City and Lovell's Athletic are the only unbeaten teams with two victories each. Bristol today defeated Swansea 6-0 and Lovell's won from Cardiff 3-1.

Rangers and Dumbarton are the only undefeated teams in the Scottish Southern League which has been under way a month. They have four victories each. Rangers had no trouble today in defeating Airdreonians 3-1 while Dumbarton kept pace with a 4-1 triumph over Celtic.

Pat Egan Nice Quiet Boy

By CHARLIE EDWARDS

TORONTO, Sept. 5 (CP) — Ebullient Egan has become Patient Pat. Since he hit Montreal with the Army, the former Brooklyn Americans Hockey star has become a model of lacrosse and hockey virtue. Baz (Montreal Star) O'Meara says: "If you were to name the athlete who had become most popular around here in the past year you would have to cast your vote for Pat Egan. Egan is a quiet fellow and not the swashbuckling type all thought him when he played for the aggressive Amerks." Next thing we know, Pat'll be taking lemon with his tea.

Alberta came out of the meet with one crown, while another went to St. Paul, Minn.

Feature of Saturday's final program was three victories by Quebec swimmers, who had won three titles earlier in the meet.

Among swimmers to collect double wins in the championships were Sgt. Aurel Thomas, Montreal soldier; Joan Langdon of Vancouver and Charlie West of Montreal.

Thomas broke a record in the men's 150-yard medley race and won the 100-yard breast stroke event; Miss Langdon finished first in the senior women's 150-yard medley swim and the 100-yard breast stroke and West triumphed in both the junior men's 150-yard medley swim and the 100-yard free style.

Kootenay Municipalities Will Hold Annual Meeting in New Denver

Annual meeting of the Associatio of Kootenay Municipalities will be held at New Denver, probably in November. New Denver's invitation, extended by Commissioner W. F. Jeffery, was accepted by the quarterly meeting in Nelson Saturday. It will be the first meeting of the Association in New Denver, and it is hoped Slocan City and Silverton will be represented.

The meeting was among the largest that the Association has held in Nelson. Some of the delegates arrived early and visited city beauty spots under the guidance of Ald. H. H. Hinitt, Parks Chairman.

Following the business session at the City Hall in the afternoon visitors were guests of the City at a dinner at the Hume.

CITY'S WELCOME

Mayor N. C. Stibbs at the opening extended the civic welcome, mentioning especially Mrs. Margaret Whittaker of Kaslo, first "lady Alderman" to attend a meeting of the Kootenay Association at Nelson; and W. E. Wasson, former Nelson City Clerk, who was recently elected a life member.

E. H. Bridgman of Victoria, Deputy Minister of Municipalities, welcomed by Mayor Gordon, also was attending the Kootenay Association for the first time. He urged all municipalities to make sure of representation at the annual meeting of the Union of British Columbia Municipalities.

It was the first meeting at which the British Columbia School Trustees' Association was formally represented, Leslie Craufurd of Nelson, a member of the Provincial Executive, acting in this capacity.

Invitation to be represented at the convention of the Northwest Aviation Planning Council at Wenatchee, Wash., September 17 and 18, was received. Mayor Gordon suggested delegates to the U.B.C.M. at Port Alberni might be able to attend the Wenatchee convention during their homeward journey.

DELEGATES

Attending were:

Nelson—Mayor N. C. Stibbs, Aldermen Ross Fleming, J. E. McKenzie, H. H. Hinitt, Thomas H. Waters and George Turner; City Clerk W. A. Gordon; City Engineer H. D. Dawson; W. E. Wasson, life member; Leslie Craufurd, British Columbia School Trustees' Association.

Kaslo—Mayor E. H. Latham, Aldermen F. T. Abey, C. W. Webster, Mrs. Margaret Whittaker and G. R. Tinkess; Clerk R. D. Gardner.

Miss Thom, Former Trail Girl, Joins CWAC at Coast

VANCOUVER, B. C., Sept. 5 — Miss Barbara Jean Thom, only daughter of the late Dr. J. B. Thom of Trail and Mrs. Thom now of Vancouver, was sworn in as a member of the Canadian Women's Army Corps at Vancouver Barracks. She was educated at Queen Margaret's School, Duncan, and was prominent in Girl Guide Work in Trail. Pte. Thom will leave for four weeks' basic training at the C.W.A.C. training centre, Vermilion, Alta.

EDINBURGH (CP)—British people suffer from two forms of snobbery, it was reported at the National Council of Labor. Citizens comfortably off frequently regarded the manual worker as an inferior, while some manual laborers affected to despise the middle class because the latter did not work with its hands.

Pte. Ken Smith of Nelson With Sicily Invaders

Pte. Ken Smith of Nelson received his baptism of fire with a Canadian Army Tank Brigade in Sicily. In an air mail letter to friends in Nelson he writes of the landing in Sicily: " . . . we came in at night and Jerry came over to give us a welcome, so things were a bit warm for awhile—some fun getting ye olde baptism of fire, but it became a regular occurrence for awhile . . ."

Pte. Smith, who enlisted in July, 1942, was formerly on the Bank of Montreal branch staff here. His mother resides in Fairview.

"The last while or so has given us a change in scenery and weather," his letter opens. "The sun takes no holidays in this country, and Scotland was the exact opposite with all its rain.

"We had an uneventful trip down with very little sub activity, passed 'The Rock' at night so saw it only in outline, stayed at Algiers and Malta a few days before we landed in Sicily . . .

" . . . At the present time we're camped in a beautiful valley where there's grapes, watermelons, figs, oranges, lemons and almonds in abundance . . ."

LONDON (CP)—They swept together for three years but now the minesweepers Wyoming and Franc-Tireur have parted. Known as the inseparables their association ended when the Franc-Tireur was transferred to a Northern port.

No Adversity Could Take Smile From Face of George Gordon or Dampen Spirit of His Pioneer Wife

By J. C. HARRIS

NEW DENVER, B. C., Sept. 5 — By the death of George Gordon the Slocan Mining District lost one of its most distinguished and popular old timers who has left us the memory of a most friendly gentleman, and many mills and buildings as monuments to his energy and skill.

George left his home in Ontario in the year 1889, and headed for California, thence he arrived in Utah and from there he went to Butte where he worked for a time. Next he turned up in the Coeur D'Alene country but returned to Canada in 1894, heading for the Slocan which was attracting the attention of mining men the world over for its rich silver ores.

George's first work in British Columbia, was as one of a syndicate that built the Washington mine mill. Full of hope and energy, he had taken to himself a wife, but the course of true love has its ups and downs even in a Western mining camp, and the Washington mine went broke. George and his wife walked to Sandon with total cash assets of $1. Mrs. Gordon was a good sport. She fed the family on much three times a day with tea and coffee strictly rationed. Not even this diet could remove George's celebrated smile. George had made a great reputation for skill and energy and they pulled through the hard times, and had many a laugh at their troubles.

The next big job was the remodelling of the Wakefield concentrator in 1907. In this work George was foreman. Then together with that carpenter genius Jack Chapman, they constructed the Van Roi mill in the year 1911.

Later George became foreman at the big Standard mine mill, right in Silverton, and he remained foreman until the Standard mine closed down.

Even to the very end George Gordon worked. He ran the compressor plant up Four Mile Creek for the Northwest Mining Company, to within a few weeks of his death.

The first-class foreman is like the poet—born not made—and Gordon was a grand foreman—skillful, kindly, prompt and reliable, both to his crews and his bosses. In figure, he would have made a grand Santa Claus and with his twinkling eyes, merry smile and very pleasant voice only the beard was missing to complete the roll. He died young at 82.

Interpreting The War News

By HAMILTON W. FARON
Associated Press War Analyst

A bad case of invasion jitters seems to be a partial answer to the apparent impotence of Axis troops falling back before British and Canadian invasion armies in Southern Italy.

Germany seems to be fearful of where the Allies might next strike, so fearful, in fact that the Nazi leaders hesitate to turn needed strength into Italy. Instead they are deploying forces along the thousands of miles of probable invasion coastlines, guarding every possible landing spot and weakening all.

Strategy seems to dictate that the nervous Nazis shall not have a chance to calm down sufficiently to solidify their lines before invasion comes. Instead, from day to day they may expect raids—raids that may be only Commando-type sorties but at any time may be the real thing. One such raid was reported Sunday by the Nazis on the island of Ushant off the Atlantic coast of France but there has been no confirmation from Allied sources.

Similar uncertainty is being built up in the minds of the Japanese. Reaching deep into enemy territory, bombing planes are striking hard at Japanese installations, and have brought apprehensive statements from Japanese leaders that the enemy mainland may be bombed at any time.

The latest of the far-flung raids in the war in the Orient took bombers over a 2000-mile route from India to hit enemy installations on Car Nicobar, tiny island off the Northern tip of Japanese-held Sumatra in the Netherland Indies and not far from the coast of Burma.

Presumably a mission that combined attack and reconnaissance, the flight have been undertaken in mapping plans for the amphibious operations expected off the coast of Burma when Lord Louis Mountbatten takes over Supreme Command of the Southeast Asia theatre to drive the Japanese out of Burma.

The island, in Allied hands, could become the base for bombing raids against enemy strongholds not only in Burma but in the adjoining Andaman Islands, Sumatra and the Malay Peninsula. Also it could provide a base for operations against enemy shipping out of Singapore on the tip of the Malay Peninsula up the coastline to Burma.

HERE ARE ENGLAND'S INVASION REPELLERS

These twin six-pounder guns bristle from the coast of England ready to repel an enemy invasion which thus far has not materialized. Just off the military "secrets" list, this rapid-fire weapon has a range of over 5000 yards. Its chief purpose is to deal with light coastal motorboats and small torpedo boats. Mounted in pairs in turrets that have a turning circle of 360 degrees, the guns have high muzzle velocity and throw high explosive projectiles.
