ALLIES PLEDGED TO BEAT JAPAN TO UNCONDITIONAL SURRENDER

To Strip Her of Imperialistic Gains of 50 Years

Churchill, Roosevelt, Chiang Lay Plans at Five-Day North African Meet; Believed Now With Stalin in Teheran

By JOHN F. CHESTER
Associated Press Staff Writer

CAIRO, Dec. 1 (AP) — Prime Minister Churchill, President Roosevelt and President Chiang Kai-shek have held an historic five-day conference, have bound their countries in an agreement to beat Japan into unconditional surrender and to strip her of all her imperialistic gains of the last half century, and have left for unannounced destinations.

Details for a new front in Europe and concerning Mediterranean and Middle East affairs also probably were decided upon, it was learned tonight. A reliable source confirmed reports that the British-American General Staffs had gathered in greater strength than ever before in a separate session, with the Chinese not participating.

(In Washington it was assumed that an even more important meeting, particularly on the European phases of the war, would be held with Premier Joseph Stalin of Russia. Reuters News Agency dispatches from Lisbon, Portugal, said the three had left for Teheran, capital of Iran, there to meet Stalin in the biggest United Nations conference of the war.

(Berlin broadcasts claimed the conference already was under way in Teheran—on the Russian supply corridor where Anglo-American-Russian wartime cooperation has had its most conspicuous success.)

In an extraordinary atmosphere of secrecy and precaution, the leaders of Britain, the U. S. and China, met for five days—from Nov. 22 through Nov. 26—surrounded by the highest galaxy of military, supply and political advisers, and departed at least three days before the news was given to the public. It was the first conference for Mr. Churchill and Mr. Roosevelt since they met in Quebec last August.

A communique issued at the close declared they had agreed upon a plan of military operations against Japan which would "bring unrelenting pressure against their brutal enemies by sea, land and air."

FOUR-POINT PROGRAM

Declaring their purpose to drive Japan back into her home islands, the Three Powers outlined this specific four-point program.

1. Japan must disgorge all the islands she has seized in the Pacific since the beginning of the First Great War in 1914 (from which she gained, from Germany, the Marshall Caroline and Mariana Archipelagoes in which she planted bases or her attack on the United States.)

2. Manchuria, Formosa, the Pescadores (the 21 Islands lying between Formosa and the Chinese mainland) and all other territories taken from China must be restored to her.

3. Korea is to be made free and independent "in due course."

4. Japan must be expelled from "all other territories which she has taken by violence and greed." (This would cover all the lands she has seized since the Pacific war started—the Philippines, Wake and Guam; Hong Kong, Malaya, Burma and islands of the Pacific; the Netherlands East Indies and French Indo-China.)

The above blueprint for breaking up the Japanese empire and liberating its conquered peoples in effect would divest Japan of the territorial loot won by aggression or trickery in five wars—from the Sino-Japanese war of 1894 to the present conflict, climaxed by her surprise attack on Pearl Harbor and her rapid conquests in the South Pacific.

Japan's possessions would be reduced from some 3,000,000 miles and 500,000,000 people to a little more than 148,000 square miles and a Japanese population of 75,000,000.

Thus, the three chief conferees apparently had agreed on a program which did not specifically include Sakhalin Island, half of which Japan acquired from Russia in the Treaty of Portsmouth in 1904. Presumably this was because Russia was not represented at the conference and is not now at war with Japan.

The conferences were held in a strictly guarded zone which restrictions even yet permit only to be described as in North Africa (in Washington it was presumed that the meeting took place in Cairo or nearby, since the news came under that dateline, and the principal participants visited the Sphinx and pyramids which are in the vicinity.)

That the decisions reached were not merely long-range planning was suggested by the fact that good fighting weather now prevails in China, Burma, and India and that Admiral Lord Louis Mountbatten, Lt.-Gen. Joseph W. Stilwell and Maj.-Gen. Claire L. Chennault, the three Allied commanders in that theatre, had plenty of time to present their plans to the conference.

The Southwest Pacific Command of Gen. Douglas MacArthur was not ignored, for it was learned that his chief of staff, Maj.-Gen. Richard K. Sutherland, was present. Sutherland's name was not included in the communique of conference headliners but it also had omitted naming Lord Louis, Stilwell and Chennault.

Gen. and Mrs. Chiang arrived by plane on the morning of Nov. 21, Prime Minister Churchill arrived by sea the same evening after stops at Gibraltar, Algiers and Malta, and President Roosevelt arrived the next morning by plane.

Behind a guard of thousands of soldiers and secret agents who toured the bedlam of bars, hotels and night spots seething with rumors, the three chiefs of government, their chiefs of staff and highest advisers conferred morning, noon and night.

Newspaper correspondents were not permitted to see a single principal in the drama, and the only news given out by four non-journalistic observers was largely limited to the physical facts, such as who conferred with whom, and various social phases of the discussions.

MANY KEY FIGURES

From such outlines it was learned that these took an important role:

For Britain—Admiral Lord Louis Mountbatten, Allied Commander-in-Chief in Southeast Asia; Anthony Eden, Foreign Secretary; Sir Archibald Clark Kerr, Ambassador to Russia; Admiral Sir Andrew Browne Cunningham, Chief of the Naval Staff; Lord Leathers, Minister of War Transport; Field Marshal Sir John Dill, member of the combined Chiefs of Staff in Washington; Gen. Sir Alan Brooke, Chief of the Imperial General Staff; Air Marshal Sir Charles Portal, Chief of Air Staff; Air Chief Marshal Sir Arthur Tedder, Air Chief in the Mediterranean; Maj.-Gen. R. E. Laycock, Chief o the Commandos; Lt.-Gen. Sir Hastings Ismay, Mr. Churchill's Chief of Staff; Gen. Sir Thomas Riddell-Webster, Quartermaster General; Maj.-Gen. Carton de Wiart, special military representative in China; and Sir Alexander Cadogan, permanent Under-Secretary for Foreign Affairs.

For the United States—Admiral William D. Leahy, Chief of Staff to President Roosevelt; Admiral Ernest J. King, Commander-in-Chief of the Fleet and Chief of Naval Operations; Gen. George C. Marshall, Army Chief of Staff; Gen. Henry H. Arnold, Chief of Army Air Forces; Lt.-Gen. Brehon B. Somervell, Chief of Army Service of Supply; Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower, Allied Commander-in-Chief in the Mediterranean theatre; John J. McCloy, Assistant Secretary of War; Lewis W. Douglas, Deputy Shipping Administrator; Harry Hopkins, Advisor to the President; W. Averell Harriman, Ambassador to Russia; John G. Winant, Ambassador to Britain; Laurence A. Steinhardt, Ambassador to Turkey and former Ambassador to Russia; Maj.-Gen. George E. Stratemeyer, United States Army theatre air officer in China, Burma and India; Gen. Stilwell, Commander of United States forces in China, Burma and India; and Gen. Chennault, American Air Force Commander in China.

For the Chinese—Wang Chung-Hui, former Foreign Minister; Admiral Shuen Chen-Yang, Director of Military Intelligence; and Generals Cheng Chen and Chow Chi-Shou.

Reliable reports said the American and British General Staffs engaged in a long discussion on the details of a European invasion.

A British source said the controversial subject of "island hopping" in the Pacific—already combed over in public by MacArthur—was gone into thoroughly.

STRONG NAVAL STAFF

This source outlined these five issues as in the forefront of discussions on the British-American side:

1. Carrying the sea-air offensive to the gate of Japan. The determination to do this was reflected in the strength of the naval staffs present. The British Admiralty alone was represented by 18 officials.

2. Avoidance of local operations. This was where "island hopping" was reported to have come in for extended talks.

3. Correlating future strategy on the basis of broader liaison between staffs.

4. Settling the enormous problems of transporting troops and supplies.

5. Developing the weight of the Pacific air assault.

The same source said the four main and urgent problems brought to the conference by the Chinese were:

1. Combined strategy for the Pacific, Southeast Asia and China for the quick defeat of Japan by an all-out offensive.

2. Reopening the Burma road by attack from India.

3. Badly needed supplies for the Chinese armies and people.

4. Post-war reconstruction in China and help from the British and United States Governments.

While the generals and admirals weighed their plans, the three chiefs of government were said to have talked in an atmosphere of warmest friendship, with Chiang's serene demeanor, unbowed by his years of bitter warfare, contrasting with Churchill's buoyant enthusiasm and Roosevelt' engaging spirits.

The official statement announcing the news which friend and foe alike had been excitedly speculating about for weeks began in almost casual language:

It said:

"President Roosevelt, Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek and Prime Minister Churchill, together with their respective military and diplomatic advisors, have completed a conference in North Africa.

"The several military missions have agreed upon future military operations against Japan. The three great allies expressed their resolve to bring unrelenting pressure against their brutal enemies by sea, land and air. This pressure is already rising.

"The three great Allies are fighting this war to restrain and punish the aggression of Japan.

"They covet no gain for themselves and have no thought of territorial expansion."

"It is their purpose that Japan shall be stripped of all the islands in the Pacific which she seized or occupied since the beginning of the First World War in 1914, and that all the territories Japan has stolen from the Chinese, such as Manchuria, Formosa, and the Pescadores, shall be restored to the republic of China. Japan also will be expelled from all other territories which she has taken by violence and greed.

"The aforesaid three great powers, mindful of the enslavement of the people of Korea, are determined that in due course Korea shall become free and independent.

"With these objects in view the three allies, in harmony with those of the United Nations at war with Japan, will continue to persevere in the serious and prolonged operations necessary to procure the unconditional surrender of Japan."

ACTION IMMINENT

A sense of immediacy was given the decisions against Japan by the fact that Admiral Lord Louis Mountbatten, Allied Commander in Southeastern Asia, and his subordinates had considerable time to formulate plans for a smash against Japan before the conference met.

Mr. Churchill, President Roosevelt, Gen. Chiang and Mrs. Chiang conferred frequently with the three power general staffs and met separately on non-military matters with diplomats, including Eden, Kerr, (Hopkins, Harriman, Winant and Steinhardt.

Throughout the five-day period, filled with morning, afternoon and night sessions, reporters were not permitted to see a single principal. The only news they were allowed came from four non-journalistic observers who reported only the physical facts, such as who conferred, who lunched or who dined with whom, so their view of the conference unwarrantedly was given some thing of a social calendar tinge.

The entire conference area was surrounded by barb wire and thousands of soldiers. No non-participants, particularly newsmen, were allowed near.

At the same time censorship and security bars were raised against many facts most reporters knew.

The security of the huge collection of famous personages naturally played a part in the situation, as the meeting was held within Nazi bombing range and the Nazis knew of it. A spokesman for President Roosevelt conceded that the session was an "open secret" and Associated Press staff men in various parts of the world heard the conference discussed by strangers and casual acquaintances even before it started.

8th Army Surges Ahead Under Air Umbrella

By NOLAND NORGAARD
Associated Press War Correspondent

ALGIERS, Dec. 1 (AP)—Under the heaviest tactical air support of the entire Italian campaign, the British 8th Army smashed through German defences beyond fallen Sangro Ridge today while American troops of the 5th Army fought forward three miles in the Central sector, possibly heralding the start of an "all-out" Allied drive on Rome.

At every point the Germans fought with desperation to stem the attack. Despite raids by hundreds of Allied fighters, fighter-bombers and bombers, the enemy troops clung to their positions until they were killed or captured in bloody hand-to-hand fighting. An Allied communique described Nazi losses as "very heavy."

"The Germans are offering very fierce resistance for every inch of ground," a military commentator said. He predicted they would make violent efforts to retake Sangro Ridge, the powerful Eastern anchor of their Winter line from which Gen. Sir Bernard Montgomery's British, Indian and New Zealand infantry drove them yesterday after 48 hours of continuous fighting.

The 8th Army beat off several determined Nazi counterattacks as it fought up the Adriatic coastal plain toward the important seaport of Pescara, about 20 miles away. One enemy counter-thrust cut off a portion of Gen. Montgomery's spearhead that captured the town of Mozzagrogna, but fresh British units drove forward to effect a rescue.

Enemy casualties mounted swiftly as low-flying Allied fighter-bombers carved a path for Gen. Montgomery's troops by blasting German concrete fortifications to bits. Army infantry methodically wiped out enemy strongpoints that had been bypassed and encircled.

A measure of the shattering aerial support accorded Gen. Montgomery's attack was given in the announcement that nine waves of Allied bombers and 50 formations of fighters and fighter-bombers swept over the 13-mile long battlefield during the day, shaking Nazi positions with high explosives, machine gunning troops and scattering German fighters that attempted to interfere. Five Focke-Wulf fighters were shot down.

PRISONERS STUNNED

Tanks have played a comparatively insignificant part in the past weeks' bloody fighting North of the Sangro. Infantry and planes have carried the brunt. Prisoners streaming into Allied hands continue to be in a highly-nervous state from bombing. Adding to the terror of the bombing attacks, two British destroyers have been shelling the Nazis pointblank from offshore.

The three-mile American advance West of Montaquila, hacked out through elaborate Nazi defences, enabled Lt.-Gen. Mark Clark to straighten out his 5th Army lines and gained new valuable high ground for observation toward Cassino and a broad valley running thence to Rome.

NAZIS STRIKE BACK AT RUSS ON ALL SECTORS

Red Army Slowed to Minor Gains on 600-Mile Front

TEST STRENGTH

By JAMES M. LONG
Associated Press Staff Writer

LONDON, Dec. 1 (AP) — The Germans have struck out with new vigor on every sector of the Russian front in a major bid to stem the Russian offensive, counter-attacking today as many as 15 times in one area and slowing the Red Army to minor gains along the 600-mile front.

The intensity of the fighting was equal perhaps to the heaviest of the war, but Moscow reported only a dozen populated places taken—a slowdown after four months of steady progress—all of them in three areas—North of Gomel, along the Pripet River, and in the Dnieper River Bend.

There was fighting in other sectors but it won no mention in either today's Russian communique or its midnight supplement.

More than 2000 Germans were reported killed in the Dnieper Bend where in two areas the Russians and Germans struggled for villages and strongpoints, attacking and counter-attacking. At the Cherkasy bridgehead, German counter-pushes swirled against the Russians moving South toward Smela. All were repulsed, the Russians said, the Germans losing 26 tanks, many prisoners and 16 planes in addition to their dead.

Southwest of Kremenchug, German defences were pierced for a local victory and the frantic Germans hurled 15 counter-attacks to retrieve their positions. They failed and a portion of their equipment was destroyed or disabled.

Soviet planes again pounded at the railway junction of Apostolovo in this area, blowing up two trains while other airmen wrecked more than 100 trucks.

Northwest of Gomel, the Russians surged through intermediate German defence lines to capture several populated places and killed 700 Germans.

To the South, in the Pripet River area, the Russians crossed the river and captured Narovl, 14 miles East of Yelsk.

The fighting all along the front appeared to be testing both sides' ability to get a steady flow of reinforcements and materials to the vital areas over round-about rail lines and sodden roads.

The communique made no mention of the vital Kiev salient where the Germans have scored their greatest successes in counter-attack. With the rail centres of Korosten and Zhitomir recaptured by the Germans, the Russians were battling to hold not only their salient but indirectly the Ukraine capital of Kiev, won back at the cost of heavy attack.

Nor did the communique mention the race for Zhlobin, key junction on the escape route for the retreating German garrisons of Gomel. The Russians were last reported closing a pincer whose ends were 17 miles apart at Zhlobin. The new Berezina River front also failed to win mention despite its importance in flanking the German line protecting the Dnieper and Minsk.

Moscow dispatches, however, gave some explanation of the lack of Soviet progress. They said the Germans were moving into the attack in a concerted effort at regaining lost lines of communications. German reserves have poured into the front on railroads that run from Germany through Poland and have been deployed over large sectors of the front.

Their major effort appeared aimed at obtaining again the Leningrad-Odessa North-South railway which they lost when the Russians surged out from Kiev and straddled the line from Zhitomir North to Yelsk.

Jap Riots at U.S. Camp Will Bring "Retaliation"

WASHINGTON, Dec. 1 (AP) — Recent riots at the Tule Lake, Calif., Japanese Relocation Centre have culminated in an "international incident which may have laid the groundwork for Japanese retaliation against our nationals in Japan," Representative Engle (Dem.-Calif.) told a Dies Sub-Committee today.

Blaming what he called "lack of firmness" by the War Relocation Authority in handling the Japanese Relocation problem, Engle said W.R.A. "social workers" had encouraged Japanese in their camps to assert what they believed were their "rights" which, he added, resulted in disturbances on "trivial and unreasonable grounds."

Farmer Confesses to McCoy Murder

TOLEDO, O., Dec. 1 (AP)—James W. Collett, prosperous 60-year-old Clinton County farm leader, confessed tonight, Prosecutor John B. Hill of Fayette County announced, that he killed Elmer McCoy, his wealthy brother-in-law, in a dispute over money.

The purported confession left unsolved, for the moment, the slaying of McCoy's wife, Forrest, 64, and their daughter, Mildred, 22, who were shot to death at the same time—last Wednesday night—near Washington Court House.

Gen. Chiang Quick on Uptake Boettiger Discovers

CAIRO, Dec. 1 (AP) — Major John Boettiger, son-in-law of President Roosevelt, found Generalissimo Chiang Kaishek pretty quick on the uptake at the big conference.

Boettiger has been engaged in Allied military government (AMG) work in Italy, and remarked to Chiang he would be interested in similar work in the Far East. Chiang replied quickly, through an interpreter:

"Sure, we'll take you into Tokyo with us."

U.S. BOMBERS AGAIN HIT SOLINGEN

Allies Lose 42, Huns 35 Planes; Rockets Fill Skies

FRANCE BLASTED

By ROBERT N. STURDEVANT
Associated Press Staff Writer

LONDON, Dec. 2 (Thursday)—(AP)—Large formations of fighter-escorted United States heavy bombers attacked the Rhineland industrial city of Solingen yesterday for the second time in two days, it was announced early today.

Twenty-seven of the heavy bombers failed to return. Returning pilots said the Germans threw up an unusually wide variety of fighters against them and filled the air with rockets.

A total of 42 Allied planes were missing from the operations yesterday, including, in addition to the heavy bombers, one light bomber and 14 fighters. The Allied forces accounted for 35 German planes.

American medium bombers escorted by R.A.F., Dominion and Allied Spitfires bombed German-controlled airfields at Lille-Vendeville in North France and the Epinoy and Niergnies airfields in Belgium. R. A. F. Mitchells with Typhoon escorts attacked the German aircraft works at Albert in France while Mosquitoes bombed targets in Holland and attacked shipping off the Brest Peninsula.

Two Canadian planes were missing, one from the force escorting the American heavy bombers and the other from the escort for the medium bombers.

CANUCKS DOWN TWO

Canadians shot down two planes while protecting the medium bombers. One of the successful Canadian pilots was shot down after destroying a Focke-Wulf 190. Fo. S. A. Mills of Toronto bagged a F-W 190 while going to the assistance of the other Canadian pilot.

London had an air raid alarm last night but no bombs were dropped in the metropolitan area, although the roar of planes was heard over some districts. Flares were dropped and anti-aircraft fire was heavy.

The American 8th Air Force lost 140 planes of all types over Europe in to November while destroying 247 German craft. The R.A.F. lost 224 ships over Europe during the month. German losses in all theatres were placed at 521.

Heavy Air Blow Cripples Big Burma City

NEW DELHI, Dec. 1 (CP) —The United States 10th Army Air Force struck its mightiest blows in the China-Burma-India theatre when two heavy bomber formations pounded Rangoon during the weekend, dropping approximately 250 tons of bombs.

Medium bombers followed and hurled explosives on special targets.

Japanese fighters, making an effort to half the onslaught, fell back after losing 14 aircraft shot down.

American authorities said they believed Rangoon, which has been subjected to many raids, undoubtedly was well on the road to becoming useless to its Japanese captors. It previously was stated that 75 per cent of the transport facilities in the city had been knocked out by British and American attacks.

1000 Dead, 2500 Wounded in Tarawa Attack

WASHINGTON, Dec. 1 (AP) — Tarawa, the bloodiest fight in United States Marine Corps' proud history, cost the American victors 1026 dead and 2587 wounded.

Reporting the heavy toll in taking the two-mile long Atoll and cracking Japan's Central Pacific defences, the Navy said tonight that casualties totalled 3772 in the three Gilbert Island operations.

Sixty-five were killed and 121 wounded at Makin and one killed and two wounded at Abemama.

Japanese losses were estimated at 5700 by Navy officials at Honolulu.

(By comparison with the Gilbert Islands toll, American casualties in the landing at Salerno, Italy last September and the first six days of fighting thereafter totalled 5497.)

U. S. WARSHIPS SHELL NEW GUINEA BASES

First Bombardment From Sea Hits Installations

NEW AIR BLOWS

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS IN SOUTHWEST PACIFIC, Dec. 2—(Thursday)—(AP)—Carrying the naval war to Japan's front door, United States light naval craft shelled Gasmata, New Britain, and Madang, New Guinea, during the night and dawn hours of Nov. 29 and 30 in the first sea bombardment of these enemy strongholds.

The naval vessels sought to blast out Japanese shore installations at Gasmata and aerial spotters, a headquarters spokesman said, terming their marksmanship "effective."

The attack on Madang, strong enemy aerial and barge point on Astrolabe harbor, Northwest New Guinea, was a foray deep into Japanese territory. Shells were hurled into shore installations and a small, unidentified enemy vessel was sunk in Dallman Passage.

Today's communique made no mention of ground action on Huon Peninsula, but the Australians were reported pushing Westward from Bonga, which they captured Tuesday, continuing their advance along the South bank of Kaluseng River toward Wareo. They ran into an isolated Japanese force and killed the entire group of 31.

Aerial blows were struck at the Japanese air base at Cape Gloucester on the extreme Western point of New Britain. Heavy and medium bombers with an escort of fighters dropped 20 tons of explosives in this second attack within 24 hours. Enemy bombers were destroyed on the runways and supply dumps were set afire. Barges were destroyed and gun positions silenced in the extension of the Cape Gloucester assault from Borgen Bay to Reibeck Bay on the North coast of the island.

Heavy bombers hit Alexishafen, 10 miles North of Madang, with 70 tons of bombs the night of Nov. 29-30, and also visited destruction on Kalasa in the Sio area to the South.

Other aerial groups at night attacked two enemy warships and two merchantmen North of Talasea which is on the North coast of New Britain. A 1000-pound bomb exploded within 75 feet of a destroyer.

In the Solomons area, where the Americans hold a beachhead at Empress Augusta Bay on Bougainville, divebombers and torpedo bombers escorted by fighters, bombed and strafed enemy strongpoints nearby with 46 tons of explosives.

Winnipeg Physician Arouses Interest in Work on Cancer

WINNIPEG, Dec. 1 (CP) — Dr. J. R. Davidson, 73, Winnipeg physician whose experiments in cancer research have aroused considerable interest throughout Canada and the United States, is to have an assistant in his work.

Realizing the need for a cancer cure the Winnipeg Kiwanis Club today made a grant of $2,500 to provide the services of a qualified graduate in medicine to aid Dr. Davidson.

Nearly 20 cancer cases have been cleared up by Dr. Davidson who used injections of blood serum from cancer-resistant mice, it is claimed.

VETERANS GET BEST CHRISTMAS TREE CORNERS AT COAST

VANCOUVER, Dec. 1 (CP)—Despite an expected shortage of Christmas trees this year, applications to City Hall for permits to sell trees on the streets so far total 86, or twice the number made last year. Sixty of the best corners have been allotted to war veterans.

German Hope to Prolong War Doomed to Defeat Says MacDonald

VANCOUVER, Dec. 1 (CP) — Rt. Hon. Malcolm MacDonald, United Kingdom High Commissioner to Canada, said today that when the Germans began suffering setbacks in Russia they felt that if they could not obtain outright victory they could prolong the war "until our peoples grew war weary and demanded a compromise peace."

In an address prepared for delivery before the Canadian Club here, Mr. MacDonald said the Germans pinned their hopes of avoiding total defeat:

1. On the submarine war, which they hoped would sink so many ships that the Allies would not be able to muster enough strength in Britain or North Africa to hurl a big offensive against Europe.

2. On diplomacy and propaganda which would provoke quarrels between Britain and America, or between the two Democracies and Russia.

3. On the withdrawal of her armies from Russia and Italy to strong defensive positions around Germany and conquered countries from where the Allies could be worn down until they asked for a negotiated peace.

"Each of these German hopes have been recently defeated," Mr. MacDonald said.

"There have certainly been periods when the U-boat menace was the most anxious preoccupation of our leaders. But that time seems to be, on even a cautious estimate, passing. Our troop ships and merchant vessels, faithfully guarded by our warships and aircraft, are crossing the ocean with comparative little interruption."

The Moscow conference last month was a "crushing defeat to German hopes" of dividing the Allied nations by propaganda and diplomacy, Mr. MacDonald said.

"We may be sure that when the promised meeting between these four titans, Churchill, Roosevelt, Stalin and Chiang Kai-shek occurs, they will take powerful decisions confirming our partnership. One result of this potent diplomatic intercourse will be that the various offensive military arms of the United Nations will all strike in unison at Nazi Germany until she breaks."

The Germans might have fulfilled their hope of avoiding a total defeat by withdrawing their armies to an impregnable fortress around Germany and the conquered countries "if our Air Forces had not gained such an ascendancy over the Luftwaffe."

Day and night raids on Germany served the dual purpose of crippling industry, transport and organization and playing havoc with German morale.

"In one sense these raids are absolutely merciless," he said. "In another they are merciful.

"They will save the lives of countless Russian, British, American and other Allied soldiers who would otherwise have to batter for a much longer period at Hitler's fortress. And they will enable us to start earlier than we otherwise could the healing work of reconstruction which will need all our energy, resources and wisdom after the war."

Senior Naval Officer and Daughter Disappear at Halifax

HALIFAX, Dec. 1 (CP) — Police tonight were investigating the disappearance of Paymaster Commander F. M. Johnson, R. N., Senior Officer representing the Royal Navy in Halifax, and his nine-year-old daughter Nadia.

Only possible clue to the disappearance, Chief City Detective J. Baker said, was afforded by tracks leading through the snow from the Johnson home to the water's edge of Halifax's harbor Northwest arm.

The officer and his child vanished today, shortly after Cmdr. Johnson had returned here from New York, where his wife is ill in hospital.

A Pimple Covered Face Kills Many a Romance

The lives of many young people are made miserable by the breaking out of pimples, and you probably know of cases where a promising romance has been spoiled by those red, white, festering and pus filled sores on the face.

The trouble is not so much physical pain, but the mental suffering caused by the embarrassing disfigurement which very often makes the sufferer ashamed to go out in company.

The quickest way to get rid of pimples is to improve the general health by a thorough cleansing of the blood.

Burdock Blood Bitters helps to cleanse the blood and with the blood cleansed the complexion should clear up.

Sweden Urges Nazis to Cancel Order for Students' Arrest

STOCKHOLM, Dec. 1 (AP) — The Swedish Government has lodged a "most urgent request" with the German Government to cancel an order for the arrest and pending deportation of 1200 Norwegian students and professors at Oslo university, a communique said tonight.

A statement from the Swedish Minister of Foreign Affairs to the German Minister in Stockholm said the appeal was made "in the interest of future Swedish-German relations."

The students are to be sent to a special camp in Germany because of "illegal activity against Germany," an Oslo dispatch said.

Police were continuing to round them up today.

217 CANADIANS FROM JAPAN SPEEDING HOME

Repatriates "Choked With Joy" on Reaching New York

JERSEY CITY, Dec. 1 (CP)—With every turn of the wheels bringing them nearer the homes they admit they often believed they would never see again, 217 Canadians repatriated from Japan were speeding toward Montreal tonight, having disembarked from the Swedish exchange liner Gripsholm here this afternoon.

Most of the repatriates, still hardly able to believe they were actually free with "no one looking over our shoulders," had little to say, but through two Canadian Wartime Information Board public relations officers who boarded the exchange ship they expressed their joy at once more being in a free country.

However, only a little of that joy was evident as the liner swung up the mist-choked harbor. As tugs nuzzled the 18,134-ton liner into her pier, the people jamming the decks fell silent.

As one repatriate put it, "we were too choked with joy to cheer."

In addition to the Canadians, the Gripsholm brought back 1233 Americans and some Latin-American nationals.

Resting after a 5-week trip from Mormugao, Portuguese East Indies, where she exchanged Japanese nationals rounded up in Canada and the United States for the Canadian and American passengers, the Gripsholm looked almost indecently gay, her gleaming white hull emblazoned with the blue and yellow flag of Sweden and her cream funnels standing out in sharp contrast to Allied ships in their dull war coats.

First to leave the liner were the Canadians, being taken in bond under an arrangement between the Dominion and United States governments, directly to Montreal, where they will be greeted by families, friends after they have passed through customs and immigration officials. They went directly to buses that sped them to their train.

Making up for lack of greeting, however, was a brief but sincere "welcome home" message sent them by Prime Minister Mackenzie King. It was read the Canadians as they gathered in the cocktail lounge of the Gripsholm by Hugh Scully, Canadian Consul-General in New York.

"On behalf of the people of Canada," the message said, "I wish to send to you all upon your arrival on the shores of our continent, the warmest of 'Welcomes Home.'—We are glad to have your cooperation as we continue to put fourth what efforts lie in our power to help those who have had to remain behind and speed the day of their return."

The Prime Minister's promise to speed return of those still in Japanese hand struck an echoing note with the repatriates.

"All we want to do," said Frederick F. Sullivan of Winnipeg, former President of the Canadian Club in Shanghai and official spokesman for the Canadian repatriates, "is to hasten in every way possible the liberation of those who are still back there."

DAGENHAM, Sussex, England (CP) — An engagement ring sent air mail from Canada and a wedding cake which travelled 6500 miles in a service kit bag featured the wedding of Frederick Edgington and Doris Messent. Edgington made arrangements for the ring and cake while training for the R.A.F. in Canada.

Cairo Meeting "Answer to U. S. Critics"

LONDON, Dec. 2 Thursday (AP) —British morning newspapers said today the North African conference should wipe out forever any doubt that Britain is neglecting the Far Eastern campaign or doubt of her determination to fight until every aggressor is beaten.

The Yorkshire Post declared "it should answer those American critics who have persistently complained that Britain, having got the U. S. to devote her vast resources to the war against Germany, was deliberately and selfishly neglecting the Far Eastern campaign."

The Press raised questions—especially what is to be done with the territory freed from Japan—but the general feeling was that this would be taken care of in due time.

The Daily Herald, Labor organ, said that while it was time to begin considering this, it was "not a task for the big three."

"Our own Pacific Dominions, India and Burma, the Dutch and the French are all deeply and immediately interested," the Herald said, suggesting that the handling of the freed territories presented a strong case for an early conference of all United Nations concerned in areas overrun by the Japanese.

Failure to mention Premier Stalin in the first announcement of the conference was passed over in the morning editorials but the Express said "in due course we shall no doubt see arrangements made with Stalin for the disposal of Hitler's Europe, stated as clearly and as precisely as they are now stated for the disposal of Japan."

Red Cross Plans Far East Work

OTTAWA, Dec. 1 (CP)—A joint policy and plan of future action for providing relief through Red Cross channels to prisoners of war and civilian internees in the Far East has been agreed upon at a conference between the American, British and Canadian Red Cross organizations it was announced tonight.

Aim of the conference was to establish a regular relief service which would benefit prisoners of war and internees in the Far East and supplement what has been done so far.

A regular flow of relief to the Far East cannot be established, the conference found, without the cooperation of Japanese authorities, and this, despite numerous representations by Governments and Red Cross Societies, has not yet been forthcoming.

The joint machinery of the conference is already in operation and is being applied to handling shipments of relief supplies to Vladivostok, which recently have been made through a West coast port.

The conference agreed that Red Cross Societies will continue to press for every possible means whereby the Japanese authorities may be influenced to permit regular shipment of relief supplies to the Far East prisoners' camps, and will be prepared to take full advantage of any new opportunity thus obtained.

OWI PROTESTS "SCOOP" ON CONFERENCE

British Censorship Failed Davis Declares

WASHINGTON, Dec. 1 (AP) — Director Elmer Davis of the United States Office of War Information was reported tonight to have sent a note of protest to Brendan Bracken, British Minister of Information, over the premature publication by Reuters News Agency yesterday of the North African meeting of United Nations leaders.

This disclosure followed an earlier statement by Davis that he would "do everything feasible" to protect the American Press from being scooped on inter-Allied news while holding to the United States' censorship code. Asked specifically what he planned to do, Davis would not elaborate, but the fact that a protest had been forwarded came out later from other sources.

Davis pointed out that the story had been distributed to North American newspapers to be held in strictest secrecy until 7:30 p.m., E.D.T. today.

Davis spurned an explanatory statement issued by Reuters today —which said that its dispatch resulted from "spontaneous journalistic enterprise" at Lisbon, Portugal. He made it clear that he felt there had been a failure in British censorship in London.

Bracken, as head of the British Ministry of Information, also is in charge of British censorship.

Making no effort to hide his indignation, Davis said the Reuters story, which gave the first definite announcement on the Cairo conference, was objectionable for two reasons:

PAPERS HANDS TIED

1. North American newspapers had the full story, including the agreements reached, at the time but were bound not to print it by warnings to take "extraordinary precautions" to preserve its secrecy until 7:30 p.m. E.D.T. today.

2. The premature release gave the Axis propaganda mill a 30-hour interval, unchallenged by Allied broadcasts, to put its own twist on the conference and discount its importance.

O.W.I., fearing that the result would be to turn the long-expected political bombshell into a psychological warfare dud, felt that it had to act on counter-measures.

Accordingly, the Lisbon dispatch was broadcast by O.W.I. to the areas where the news would have its most telling effect—the Axis occupied and neutral countries. Transmission, O.W.I. said, began within three-quarters of an hour of receipt of the Lisbon report.

British Women Fight to Keep Wife's Housekeeping Money Her Own

By SYDNEY GRUSON
Canadian Press Staff Writer

LONDON, Dec. 1 (CP)—The women of Britain did not let go unchallenged, the appeal court's ruling that a wife's saving from her housekeeping money belonged to the husband.

What started as a minor court case was now a "cause celebre." The issue had gone far enough beyond whether Mrs. Dorothy Blackwell could keep the money she had put away from what she claimed was received from lodgers in the years between 1925 and 1941 when she was married to John Henry Blackwell.

A county court judge held that the money was derived from the wife's housekeeping money, and, as such, belonged to the husband if no prior agreement as to disposition of the money had been made.

"The savings, as far as we are concerned," said Dr. Edith Summerskill, M.P. and President of the British Married Women's Association, "are only a secondary matter. We stand for the right of a wife to have an equal share of the husband's income once all the household expenses have been paid."

Bewigged and gowned, three women lawyers fought the appeal in a courtroom crowded by women of all ages, aroused and concerned that their rights were being impinged on.

Chief Counsel Constance Colwell answered with a strong "No, my Lord," to the question by Lord Justice Muxmoore: "Do you admit that the wife's savings from housekeeping would be the husband's?"

"Then," said Lord Justice Goddard, "if a husband gives his wife £5 a week and she wants to save it all and put it in the bank, is the husband to go short of food while she builds up a banking account? That does not seem right to me."

"And," he continued, "if the husband asked for roast beef for dinner, his wife could say 'No, you will have corned beef; I will save the balance.' That is a most astonishing proposition, that she can spend as little as she likes and save the rest."

Indignantly, Miss Colwill said their Lordships' arguments put the wife "in a worse position than a housekeeper." If the wife were able to save money "by the exercise of her brain and energy," it should be hers.

To assertion that housekeeping is a skilled job and even if a wife saves only two or three shillings a week she has used her talent and industry to do it and is entitled to keep the money," Lord Justice Goddard replied: "That is not the law; that is ethics."

"And," said Lord Justice Luxmoore at the end of two hours' debate, "the law is that, so far as money represents savings from housekeeping money, it belongs to the husband" and "if you want the law altered you must get Parliament to do it."

That is just what the women now are trying to do. Led by Dr. Summerskill they have asked Attorney-General Sir Donald Somervell to meet a deputation seeking alteration of the Married Women's Property Act passed in 1882. And they are prepared to carry their fight before the bar of the House of Lords.

Control Saves Billion in Consumer Prices

VANCOUVER, Dec. 1—Today Canada entered her third year of price control. After two war years have ended, more people are employed, and average earnings are the highest on record.

W. R. Dowrey, prices and supply representative in British Columbia for the Wartime Prices and Trade Board reviewing the Dominion's war effort, points out that virtually half of all production is used for war purposes and the supply of things to buy therefore is distinctly limited.

"In past wars this condition of having more money to pay for fewer goods led to the bidding up of prices. As the cost of living rose workers demanded higher wages which increased production costs and the spiral of inflation was under way," says Mr. Dowrey.

"If price control had not been imposed and had prices risen as they did in the last war, about one billion dollars might have been added to the cost of consumer goods and services during the past 24 months.

"On Oct. 1, 1941, the cost of living index stood at 115.5, while on Oct. 1 1942, it was 119.3, a rise of only 3.8 per cent. During the comparable period of the last war, Oct. 1, 1916, to Oct. 1, 1918, when the proportion of our productive resources devoted to war materials was only about one-quarter of what it is today, the Canadian index rose by 33.2 per cent. It is therefore on the conservative side to estimate that if the price ceiling had not been in effect, the cost of living in Canada would have risen at least 30 per cent during the past 24 months.

"The stark fact is that if the cost of living had increased by 30 per cent, the cost of war supplies and the size of national debt would have increased accordingly," Mr. Dowrey continued. "At the same time the people on fixed incomes such as pensions, the purchasers of war bonds, the depositors in savings banks, the beneficiaries of insurance policies, the dependants of our fighting men would be left with just that much less potential buying power, just that much less financial security."

Okanagan to Urge Inland Feeder Route to Alaska

PENTICTON, B. C., Dec. 1 (CP)—Extension of the Okanagan Valley Highway as a feeder route to the Alaska Highway will be urged at a meeting of the Okanagan Valley-Cariboo Trail Association at Omak, Wash., Sunday. Delegates from many points in Interior B. C. will attend.

Association officials claim the inland route has weather and other advantages over a coast route. The proposed Okanagan Road would go via Kamloops and Prince George from where a connection to the Alaska Road might be built under the Provincial Government's post-war program.

The convention also will discuss need for a highway on the East side of Okanagan Lake from Naramata to Kelowna.

Bacon Shipment Cut Due to Poor Feed Crop

OTTAWA, Dec. 1 (CP) — B. M. Hill, Liberal Member of Parliament for Charlotte, said today before the Commons Reconstruction Committee that the Government should issue an early statement on post-war agriculture requirements to end a "chaotic" condition developing in farming communities.

Earlier in the discussion, two Ontario Progressive Conservative Members, Joseph Harris (Toronto Davenport) and G. J. Tustin (Prince Edward-Lennox) said agricultural communities would be "disrupted" by a statement by Agriculture Minister Gardiner that Canada did not feel justified in asking farmers to produce more bacon for Britain than had been done in the past year.

J. G. Turgeon (Lib. Cariboo), Chairman, this afternoon read to the Committee a letter from Dr. G. S. H. Barton, Deputy Minister of Agriculture, on the bacon export situation. It was in reply to an inquiry from the Committee this morning.

Dr. Barton said the reduction in proposed 1944 bacon shipments to the United Kingdom was due to the disappointing feed crop in Eastern Canada, crop losses in Alberta and Saskatchewan and to an improvement in the prices of grains to Western farmers which led them to market grain rather than feed it.

Even to maintain Eastern livestock numbers on a decreased basis, feed grain shipments from Western Canada would need to be almost double those of last year.

While there was a reduction in bacon shipments to the United Kingdom under the new agreement, shipments still would be substantial. The largest shipment in a single year between the First Great War and the present war had been 192,000,000 pounds.

If Canada continued shipments on the basis of 450,000,000 pounds annually to the end of the war she should be in a position to fill an important place in supplying bacon markets after the war, Dr. Barton said.

American Heavies Bombing Reich by Daylight Again

By GLADWIN HILL
Associated Press Staff Writer

LONDON, Dec. 1 (AP)—American heavy bombers, in their third assault in three days, bombed Western Germany again today while medium bombers made the operation an American double-header by battering airfields in Northern France.

The daylight attacks made it the fourth day of uninterrupted round-the-clock bombings of Germany itself. Monday it was Bremen, yesterday it was Solingen in the Ruhr. The daylight raids came in conjunction with both day and night attacks by R.A.F. Mosquitoes on Germany.

The heavy bombers were supported by R.A.F. and United States fighters and the mediums were escorted by R.A.F., Dominion and Allied fighters.

Specific targets were not announced immediately. The new peak of intensity in the aerial warfare across the Channel reflected the Germans' inability to break up daylight bombing with their new rocket guns or any other means.

It was the second raid by the mediums in three days.

Today's attacks topped off the Allies' best air offensive month with 21 major R.A.F. and U.S.A.A.F. raids from Britain pouring down a record month's bomb weight, including 13,000 tons by the R.A.F. on Germany alone.

Air Secretary Sir Archibald Sinclair told the House of Commons today that since the beginning of the year the U.S.A.A.F. has lost 829 bombers over Europe compared with the R.A.F.'s loss of 2,063 at night and 106 by day.

The morning foray followed close on the heels of another night attack on Western Germany by the R.A.F.'s fleet Mosquito bombers. Beaufighters of the Royal Canadian Air Force also attacked an enemy convoy off the Norwegian Coast last night, damaging two merchant vessels, and mines were laid in enemy waters, an Air Ministry Communique said.

Other Canadian airmen, escorting U.S. heavy bombers returning from a raid on the Ruhr city of Solingen, downed two of six German planes knocked out of the skies by Allied fighters yesterday.

The successful pilots were Fo. Clifford R. Abbott of Edmonton and Fo. John F. Williams of Toronto.

The overnight forays were carried out without the loss of a single plane, the announcement declared.

Deny Peace Feelers Made From Vatican

LONDON, Dec. 1 (CP)—The German-controlled Paris radio quoted anonymous Vatican officials today as denying that any peace overtures hade been made through the Holy See "in order to eliminate any vain hopes that the world might have."

The broadcast apparently was intended as an answer to recent round about reports that Franz Von Papen, German Ambassador to Turkey and diplomatic trouble shooter, had visited the Vatican—possibly to extend a peace feeler.

Ask Formation of Canadian Travel Advisory Council

QUEBEC, Dec. 1 (CP) —A three-day meeting of the first Federal Government-sponsored convention of tourist industry wound up here today with the adoption of more than 20 resolutions, including one asking for the establishment of a Canadian travel advisory council, composed of Provincial cabinet ministers charged with the administration of the tourist industry of their respective provinces.

Maj.-Gen. L. R. Laflèche, Minister of War Services and Chairman of the Convention, was chosen as President of the Council. Leo Dolan, Chief of the Canadian Travel Bureau, was unanimously elected director.

E. G. Rowebottom, British Columbia Deputy-Minister of Trade and Industry and Chairman of the Resolutions Committee, said that the Committee recommended that in all undertakings arising out of the implementation of the resolutions, "provision be made of the maximum employment of returned men and women and war industry workers."

A resolution asking that "the tourist industry, at the close of the war be recognized by the formation of a distinct department of tourism," was rejected by the resolution committee but later was adopted on a vote by the delegates.

Air Cover Helps Chinese Drive Japs From Changteh

CHUNGKING, Dec. 1 (AP) — American and Chinese planes, providing "brilliant air cover," helped Chinese troops drive the Japanese from Changteh, the gateway to Changsha and the vital rice area, Gen. Chiang Kai-Shek's headquarters announced tonight. Japanese forces had entered the city Monday.

The Chinese also claimed the recapture of Tehshan on the highway between Changteh and Changsha in Hunan Province.

Two Chinese columns, by-passing Changteh with the intention of surrounding the invading forces, converged on the highway town of Linli, 20 miles North of Changteh. A major portion of the Japanese troops there was withdrawn.

Earlier, the Chinese High Command disclosed that the city was "still firmly in Chinese hands," indicating a general improvement in the fighting in Northern Hunan Province.

Morrison Offers to Resign During Debate Over Mosley

LONDON, Dec. 1 (CP)—Home Secretary Herbert Morrison today won an overwhelming victory in the House of Commons over the release of Sir Oswald Mosley as the House voted 327 to 62 to reject an amendment to the address in reply to the speech from the throne to criticize the freeing of Britain's former Fascist leader from detention at Holloway Prison.

During the debate Morrison repeatedly offered to resign, saying that "the House can find another Home Secretary, I will not have the job" if forced to yield to "likes or dislikes or according to mobs."

He defended his action in releasing Mosley on the ground "I came to the honest conclusion it was my duty to do so. If anyone thinks I enjoyed putting my name to this order they make a mistake."

The amendment was proposed by Sir Richard Acland, head of the Commonwealth Party.

Morrison was assailed by a barrage of charges that Mosley's Fascist followers were waiting to rise again.

Sir Donald Somervell, Attorney-General, told the House that about 600 members of the British Union of Fascists, originally detained in May, 1940, with Mosley, now have been released with only about 30 still in prison.

Defending Morrison's action, Sir Donald said: "The most detested feature of our enemies is the concentration camp. This action, if you like, is administration of these regulations (British Defence Regulation 18B under which Mosley was detained) which is humane."

Challenging his critics, Morrison said: "All the House can do about the release of Mosley is to fire the Home Secretary or change the regulations."

Arthur Greenwood, a leader in the Labor Party, said that Mosley had made no recantation of his Fascist views and added, "that man's mind is a bad mind. He is a public enemy."

In discussing Mosley's health, which was the reason for his release from prison, Morrison said the Fascist leader had suffered recurring attacks of phlebitis through out his three and a half years in custody but that these gave no cause for anxiety "until June of this year when concern was felt about his general condition."

John Parker, Labor, opened the debate by asking whether the Government, in releasing Mosley, planned "a similar line for Rudolph Hess and Hitler after the war."

As debate warmed, Sir Lambert Ward, Conservative, rose to defend Morrison's action, declaring, "had Mosley died in prison he would have been made a martyr and Fascism would have become a permanent factor in the political issues in this country."

"Will you say that if we shoot Hitler?" asked Frank Collindridge, Labor.

Before Commons assembled Morrison made a last-minute appeal to his fellow party members to support him in debate and at a private Labor meeting won by a majority of about 20 votes.

There was a bare possibility Morrison might be forced to resign from the Government in that event. Clement Attlee, who is both leader of the Parliamentary Labor Party and Deputy Prime Minister, might support Morrison to the point of resigning.

It was understood, however, that the vote at the private meeting meant an official decision of the 160 Labor members of Parliament to support Morrison, at least to the extent of upholding the Government.

At the end of the debate Commons had scheduled a vote on a proposed amendment to the address in reply to the speech from the throne.

The amendment read, "we humbly regret the decision of your Majesty's advisers to release Sir Oswald Mosley, which is calculated to retard the war effort and lead to misunderstanding at home and abroad."

Development of Rural Industry Is Discussed

OTTAWA, Dec. 1 (CP) — Means by which rural industry may be developed in Canada, with present waste products turned to good use, were discussed before the House of Commons Reconstruction Committee today by two agricultural scientists—Dr. W. H. Cook, Director of Applied Biology, National Research Council, and Prof. W. D. McFarlane, Department of Chemistry, MacDonald College, Ste. Anne de Bellevue, Que.

Dr. McFarlane said Western Canada in particular would benefit from the development of rural industries so that farm produce would leave the community in a processed or a semi-processed state. The utilization of straw, which might be used for building materials, fuel, cigaret papers, and other purposes, should be an early subject of study.

The burning of straw piles, represented a "terrible waste" said Dr. Cook.

Dr. McFarlane said that if a research institute on agriculture were established the location was not vital but other things being equal it should be near the area where raw materials were produced.

If research were concentrated in the Prairie Provinces it should not be divorced from the universities there and should work close to them.

Dr. Cook said the difficulty in using Western straw was in gathering it to one central point for processing. A solution might be rural industries and the use of straw for insulation and fuel. Development of a binder process to make straw suitable for fuel was necessary.

Protest Formation of Shipyard Employees Assoc.

VANCOUVER, Dec. 1 (CP) — Amalgamated Shipwrights Local No. 2 has protested to Labor Minister Pearson, formation of the Vancouver Shipyards Limited Employees Association, which the Union considers a violation of the Industrial Conciliation and Arbitration Act.

Lawrence Anderson, union business agent, wrote Mr. Pearson that the Association had circulated ballots in the yard asking "are you in favor of the Employees Association bargaining with the company for vacations with pay for you?"

"This, in our opinion is a trick ballot," Anderson said. "Many workers felt they are voting for vacations with pay rather than to establish the Employees Association as their bargaining agent."

A Phenomenal Wartime Industrial Growth In Which Kootenay Now Has a Share

Canada's aircraft industry, in which Nelson is now playing a direct part, will by the end of this year have produced 10,000 planes. Output has risen to 80 planes a week.

Here in Nelson we are producing belt frames for Catalinas, a patrol seaplane which is being used by the United Nations on all war fronts. Canada has recently commenced production of Lancasters, Mosquitoes and Curiss Helldiver, and output of these first line combat planes will increase steadily. In all, we are manufacturing nine types of airplanes. We are making four types of trainer, four service planes and one type of transport plane. More than 100,000 workers, of whom 25 per cent are women, are employed in this contribution to the United Nations war effort.

Backlog of orders amounts to more than $1 billion. That just about equals Canada's total exports of munitions and other war materials during World War I.

When the war began Canada had little more than the nucleus of an airplane industry. Its war development is one of the outstanding achievements of Canadian management, research and labor.

Freedom of Speech of Little Value Without Freedom to Disseminate

Speaking the other day in London, Brendan Bracken, Minister of Information, congratulated the British Press upon its sense of responsibility, the immense part it had played "in preserving the freedom of England and in building this country up to the position we now hold in overcoming the almost desperate danger in which we were four years ago."

It was absolutely necessary, he said, to have "a strong and critical press, which certainly pushed the government along from time to time and made them do things which they might not have like to do, but there was no sense of rivalry between Parliament and Press. They were complementary." The Press, said Mr. Bracken, was a great safeguard for the public. "No British politician will ever dare interfere with its liberty."

What Mr. Bracken says of the part which the Press has played in stimulating the war effort in Great Britain may be said with at least equal force of the Press in Canada.

Mr. Bracken was not speaking exclusively of the daily press. His speech, in fact, was made at a gathering in honor of a weekly newspaper.

Freedom of the Press goes far deeper than liberty of expression through either daily or weekly press. It means the fundamental right to disseminate opinion. Without it public opinion would go underground as it was compelled to do in all countries controlled by dictatorships, whether the dictatorships were of right or left.

Without Freedom of the Press the effectiveness of the democratic right of Free Speech is nullified.

It is not a narrow right or a narrow privilege, this Freedom of the Press. It is founded on the right to print and distribute opinions. The right may be exercised through publication in a newspaper, or in a magazine, or in a periodical review, or in a pamphlet or a circular or a mimeographed sheet. No matter whether an idea seems sound or crackpot the individual must have his right not only to express it but to disseminate it.

Nor can there be compulsion, under the democratic right of Freedom of the Press, for any publication to publish any particular views, because such compulsion would have the practical effect of destroying Freedom of Press and Freedom of Speech. To tell people what opinions they must disseminate would be as destructive of free speech as to tell them what they may not disseminate, subject always to the recognized laws of libel, the necessary provisions in the Criminal Code prohibiting obscenity, etc.

Significant of the basic nature of Freedom of the Press was the decision of the United States Supreme Court that a municipality had no power to prohibit the distribution of handbills, because it interfered with the constitutional safeguards for freedom of speech. While British laws protecting the right of Freedom of Speech and the right to disseminate through Freedom of the Press are largely unwritten, but sometimes underlined by repeal of restrictive legislation, they are in essence the same as the written law of the United States. British courts may not have had to decide whether an individual should have the right to distribute his opinions by ways of handbills, but if they did there is not much doubt as to what the decision might be.

The point is important, because when we speak of Freedom of the Press we are too inclined to think of the London Daily Express, or the Toronto Star or the New York Daily News, rather than of the fundamental principle which underlies it.

Nation Needs Thrift or Will Grow Soft; Middle Line Suggested

To the Editor:

Sir—I have read with interest the correspondence in your columns between "Citizen" and J. C. Harris. There is sense on both sides—but may not some practical truth lie between the two views? A society where thrift and far-sightedness get no rewards must produce a soft nation. At the same time it is impossible for everyone to learn to be thrifty and moderately successful. Human nature is too one-sided and varied—varied, too, the misfortunes and luck in private lives. People living with very little or no cash margin cannot possibly be expected to worry about their future, for the present takes all their contriving. It is right, it seems to me, that such people should have some security in sickness and bad times through social services. Unthrifty people still have other virtues. They are often generous neighbors—giving time and effort—money when they can, and when they can't. They are an asset to the community and should be cared for.

I am not politically-minded; I care little for any party. But how would a "Give and Get" program work (not forgetting to sound the "give")? I want to see family allowances—hospitalization for low dues—Government assistance with higher education and with trade apprenticeships. And in return for these services, I think that the youth of the country, with their government-assisted training, should give two years of their lives to work for board and pocket-money at Government-chosen jobs. They would help to pay for their training in this way, and they would be experienced and valuable when returned to the employment market.

Why isn't this practicable? Why shouldn't we give when young, to receive when needy—not relief—not charity—but earned service available to all?

Mr. J. C. Harris seems very satisfied with the C.C.F. I should like to hear something more concrete and down-to-earth in their proposals. Mr. Winch speaks with wild relish of the day when the Government will be riding high in power, allotting and dividing as never before in Canada. He may be misquoted, but that flavor certainly comes through. Presumably, he will then be in power—will then have the task of satisfying his own dreams and at the same time successfully operating through his associates, widely-differing Government enterprises—mines, oil, lumber, and transport, etc. He may lose money on any or all of these.

Who will be taxed when the owners are gone—who will keep up high wages to produce taxable incomes in sufficient volume? What, in short, will Mr. Winch use for money, if Government officials are not skilled in these crowding new enterprises? New to them, that is. There is a good deal of waste in Government business. If a road is built, a culvert is often a cache for crowbars, axes, and other handy tools stored by thrifty but dishonest souls. The foreman may be such a good party man that he is too busy to check over the Government property. This sort of thing on a bigger scale runs away with real profits.

Some changes must come, but they should be gradual ones that can be implemented further, when found serviceable, in a constant progression.

Canada is a grand country. I love her. I want to see her great natural resources wisely used without depletion—I want to see the great object realized of a good living for all—something beyond bread and shelter for even the unwise and incapable. I want to see Canada a good place to live in after the war, when we shall have a bit of time to think of these things.

PORCUPINE.

Grey Creek, B. C., Nov. 27, 1943.

Whole Question Is Britain's Ability to Pay for Canadian Bacon After War

WASHINGTON, Dec. 1 (CP) — Dr. J. A. Scott Watson, Agricultural advisor to the British Embassy in Washington, today said he feared Britain would lack Canadian exchange for the purchase of bacon in the Dominion after the war although "sentiment in Britain is all in favor of buying Canadian bacon."

"The whole question is Britain's ability to pay, not a question of what she wants," Dr. Watson said in a 150 word statement amplifying his recent remarks about Britain's postwar bacon purchases at the annual meeting of the Saskatchewan Wheat Pool in Regina.

The statement followed a statement by Dominion Agriculture Minister Gardiner in Regina yesterday that "with the advice representatives of the British Ministry of Agriculture have given farm organizations we would not be justified in asking farmers to produce (hogs) to the level of last year, until the end of the war."

The Minister said that Dr. Watson told the Wheat Pool that Britain would practically be forced to choose her postwar customers from among countries that would accept her goods and that Danish bacon would come into direct competition with Canadian bacon.

Dr. Watson's statement:

"The thought I meant to convey at Regina was that Great Britain will want Canadian wheat and also a great deal of Canadian cheese after the war. Cheese is a good poor man's food.

"What I fear, is after we have bought Canadian wheat and cheese we will be hard up for Canadian exchange to buy bacon. The whole question is Britain's ability to pay, not a question of what she wants. Britain will be a poor nation after the war.

"This raises the question of whether she will be able to import any bacon. In exchange for Danish bacon, Britain could exchange coal, bicycles and the like. It is my fear that there will be nothing similar that would be acceptable exchange for Canadian bacon we would sooner buy from Canada and we are grateful for all that Canada has done in boosting her bacon production. Sentiment in Britain is all in favor of buying Canadian bacon."

OTTAWA, Dec. 1 (CP) — John Bracken, National Progressive Conservative leader, said in a statement today that the Canadian people face "shame" by forcing the United Kingdom into a reduction of their bacon ration from four to three ounces weekly.

(Under a new agreement with the United Kingdom, Canada will not supply less than 460,000,000 lbs. of bacon annualy in the next two years, compared with 673,000,000 pounds being provided in the present calendar year.

(Agriculture Minister Gardiner said at Regina last night that in light of advice received from British authorities Canada would not be justified in urging Canadian farmers to continue to produce hogs to the level of last year until the end of the war.

"Canadian farmers and hog producers in particular will not soon forget the disservice of the present Federal Government's adminstration of agricultural policies," said Mr. Bracken.

The Canadian people, as a whole, will likewise not be plessed with the shame we face in forcing the people of Britain into a reduction of their bacon ration from four to three ounces weekly.

The utter lack of intelligent planning in negotiating a feasible contract and lack of guidance to Canadian hog producers is a matter of failure in public policy. The Federal Department of Agriculture encouraged our Canadian farmers to expand their production of hogs to fill the contract with Britain without giving proper consideration to the important matter of quality.

The failure of the Government to provide controls and inspection services has now resulted in a scandalous condition of frustration. Now, we are in a position where we cannot be as good as our word, to our leading customers, and a full and frank statement on the matter is the least the Government can do for the public.

Japs Claim U.S. Troops Land at Cape Torokina

LONDON, Dec. 1 (CP)—The Tokyo radio announced today that United States forces had made a new landing at Cape Torokina on the West Coast of Bougainville Island, some distance North of Empress Augusta Bay where the original bridgehead was established. The broadcast recorded by Reuters News Agency, said the troops came ashore in six large landing barges under cover of a bombardment by cruisers and destroyers.

The Japanese claimed their defences had "annihilated two companies," of the landing forces. There was no immediate confirmation of the reported landings from Allied sources.

Another Tokyo broadcast recorded by the Associated Press in New York quoted an Imperial headquarters communique as saying that Japanese naval aircraft had sunk two Allied aircraft carriers and another unidentified warship East of the Gilbert Islands on the night of November 29. A large cruiser also was set afire, said the communique, which was wholly unconfirmed by any Allied reports on shipping losses. The Japanese acknowledged the loss of six planes.

It was announced from Allied headquarters in the Southwest Pacific November 30 that additional Allied troops had established another beachhead on Bougainville near the mouth of the Piva River, three miles from the original landing point.

It was not clear whether the Japanese broadcast today referred to the same action.

BRITAIN DEMANDS APOLOGY FOR FALANGIST ACTION

LONDON, Dec. 1 (CP)—The British Government has demanded an official apology from Spain on a charge that uniformed Falangists in November forced their way into the British Vice-Consulate at Saragossa and insulted the Vice-Consul and members of his family.

The Foreign Office here, it was learned, has taken a serious view of the incident and is demanding an assurance from Spain that the guilty persons will be punished.

Famous Canadian Flier Retires

LONDON, Dec. 1 (CP Cable) — Air Commodore Raymond Collishaw famous Canadian flier of the last war and Commander of R.A.F. units in the Western desert offensive in this war, has retired with the rank of Air Vice Marshal, the London Gazette announced today.

Collishaw, 48-year-old native of Nanaimo, B. C., shot down 60 enemy planes in the First Great War.

Among Canadian pilots only Air Marshal W. A. (Billy) Bishop, V.C., and the late Capt. W. G. Barker outranked him in this respect. He was among the first six most successful pilots of that war.

For the past year, following his transfer back from the Middle East Collishaw has held an important but undisclosed post in the R.A.F. in Britain.

Canada's Trade Balance Near $1 Billion Mark

EDMONTON, Dec. 1 (CP)— Hon. James A. MacKinnon, Federal Minister of Trade and Commerce, announced here today a favorable trade balance for Canada of nearly $1,000,000,000 for the 10 months ended Oct. 31.

Exports for this period, he said, were $2,400,000,000 and imports just under $1,500,000,000. "The favorable balance of trade for the 10 months is just over nine times greater than for the similar period of 1940," he said.

Nearly 48 per cent of Canada's exports went to the United Kingdom and other countries, Mr. MacKinnon said, adding "this is an indication of the tremendous flood of food and war products being sent from Canada."

"If it were possible," Mr. MacKinnon said, "to release figures of exports to our allies in the war zones, these would show that Canada's contribution was having a distinct bearing on the successful progress of the war."

ALGIERS, Dec. 1 (CP Cable) — It was announced officially today that the 166th Newfoundland Field Regiment is operating with the British 8th Army in Italy.

Such official mention of a unit is customarily made in recognition of the fact the Regiment has fought bravely.

The 166th Field Regiment is believed to be an artillery unit.

Marketing Firm Fined $50 for Storing Potatoes

VICTORIA, Dec. 1 (CP) — A fine of $50 and $2.50 costs was imposed today by Magistrate H. C. Hall on G. H. Snow, Victoria and Vancouver vegetable marketing firm, found guilty of storing potatoes at its Victoria warehouse without authority of the B. C. Coast Vegetable Marketing Board.

Gilbert Hogg, who prosecuted for the Board, asked a heavy penalty for, he said, the firm had for several years served as agency for the Marketing Board.

Two charges laid under the natural products marketing act against A. P. Slade Ltd., were withdrawn at the request of Mr. Hogg.

Charges were made last week by H. W. Davey, Counsel for Snow, that the Board had become a conspiracy to control the prices of commodities were answered by Magistrate Hall. He said the Board had departed from its former practice of appointing an outside agent by constituting its own firm to act as agent.

He said the Board could designate any firm as agency and have complete control over that firm, the formation of its own agency did not seem to him to constitute an infraction on the criminal code, he said.

War Marriages . . .

Mutual Interests and Background Are Important

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

Greater than charm on the part of the blushing bride or the ability to make a dollar and a quarter grow where only one dollar grew before, is the safe and sane matrimonial insurance of marrying in your own class.

If you've decided to be a war bride or groom, try to think sanely and sensibly ahead to the time when this hellish conflict will be over. The girl might do well to put to herself a series of frank, fearless questions. Among them:

How is John going to look in civilian clothes? Suppose he falls in love with some charmer overseas? Will he be counting the hours until he comes back to me? Suppose I marry him and have a child, am I going to make out on the family allowance, or must I come home to my parents and how will they receive me?

Will I get tired of waiting for John to come home and may I possibly get interested in someone else? Suppose he doesn't come home—can I support myself and my child? Suppose he comes home wounded, shocked, incapable of making a living, do I love him well enough to work for him? Do we belong to the same walk of life, the same class socially speaking, the same religion, the same political party?

And John, about to go overseas, might question himself along these lines: If a war were not keying everything up to concert pitch, would I think of marrying Mary? Am I really in love or is it just the war magic in the air? Do I really love her or am I just lonesome away from home, and in these strange surroundings?

Is Mary above me or below me in the social scale? Would she be snooty about the way we lived back home, or the reverse? Would my family be snooty to her? In fact, are we in the same class?

Do we belong to the same church? We may argue that civilized people worship God according to their own consciences, but what are we going to do when the showdown comes? And are the children to be brought up in Mary's church or in mine?

And how about that old devil politics? Perhaps neither one of us cares enough about politics to vote, but it never fails as a source of domestic squabble.

Everyone is getting married, why not I? But please don't buy your license until you consider well these questions.

The first collected edition of Chaucer's works appeared 132 years after his death.

Self Reliance . . .

Getting Child to Cooperate

By Garry Cleveland Myers, Ph.D.

While some punishment is desirable to train in inhibitions, it is not a good means for cultivating cooperation in the young child, or for getting him to do those things you wish him to do. This I explain at length in my bulletin on "Stubbornness" which I wish every mother of a child under six would read together with the one, "How to Teach Tot the Meaning of NO" each to be had by writing me in care of this paper enclosing a self-addressed envelope with a three cent stamp on it.

MOTHER'S LETTER

"Dear Dr. Myers: My little boy three years old presents a dressing problem that I need help with. Until his baby sister was born nine months ago, I did virtually everything for him. He could however, feed himself quite skillfully and it not slow to learn anything.

Soon after the baby's arrival, I was told by Billy's play school teacher that I should teach him to do some things for himself. I did start very gradually, letting him remove his shoes and socks and then teaching him to put them on. As long as I was sitting right over him he did very well but as soon as I tried to explain that I had other things to do and that he should go on alone and show me the job when it was done, he immediately left the job of lacing his boots to become interested in some kind of play.

"When I insist that he finish it, he cries and says he can't though if I sit and watch him he does very well. Today I sent him to his room with his shoes and told him not to come out till his shoes were on and laced. When I went in there half an hour later I found him lying on the floor talking to himself with his shoes still off. For this I put him to bed."

Cuddle that older child more, read often to him, you and Dad. Waited on entirely until the second baby came, he must feel that the baby helps keep you from doing for him what you used to do. You expect progress far too fast.

Try to make this child feel he is your fine big boy. Punishment is not the solution to the problem you name.

As a "protecting" food-drink, New, Improved Ovaltine adds to a child's meals the essential food elements most likely to be deficient.

Three servings of New, Improved Ovaltine furnish a child with a significant portion of his daily requirement of Vitamins A, B_1 and D, Calcium, Phosphorus and Iron—all from Ovaltine alone. Also quick food-energy elements and high quality proteins for building sturdy bodies.

So—if your child is thin, nervous, under par, or eats poorly, start giving him New, Improved Ovaltine regularly. Get Ovaltine today at drug or food store.

Meat and Milk . . .

High Protein Breakfast Best Energizer

By LOGAN CLENDENING, M.D.

The scientific application of dietetics involves not only what is in the meal, but how much of each ingredient and when the meal is taken. During war times nutrition experts have been experimenting to find out which meal pattern will give the worker the most energy.

Leaving out the minerals and vitamins which do not concern us in this discussion—the three elementary substances in a diet are the carbohydrates, the fats and the protein.

The carbohydrates are sugars and starches and you get them mostly from vegetables, bread, sugar and fruits. The fats are in many vegetables, but the principle source is what is attached to meat, and also butter and cream. Protein is in some vegetables — peas and beans have a good deal—but vegetable protein is not easily digested or absorbed and our best source of protein is meat and milk.

USE OF DIFFERENT SUBSTANCES

What these substances do when they get in the body is to furnish energy and replace tissue. They all do both of these to a certain extent. Any overweight person can tell you that fat is converted into tissue, and when he starves himself to reduce he burns his own fat to produce energy. But fat is a slow burner, and is not a good energizer. The question arises as to whether protein or carbohydrate is the fastest and best energizer.

HIGH PROTEIN BREAKFAST

~~In general it has been found that~~ In general it has been found that if the worker gets a high protein meal at breakfast he does better than under any other system. This means eggs, milk, and meat rather than buckwheat cakes and syrup.

A worker eating a high protein breakfast can go from 9 a.m. to 2 p.m. with hardly any feeling of fatigue. If he does the buckwheat cakes and syrup stunt he gets tired about 10 a.m.

If he wants to spare his protein reserve energy, the worker can give himself a jolt with a little quick acting and quickly absorbed carbohydrate. Many industrial plants supply mid-morning and mid-afternoon lunches. It is the secret of the efficiency of the mid-morning visit to the soda fountain.

In other words, start yourself out with protein and keep it supplemented by carbohydrate during the day.

Dress Tall . . .

"Shorty" May Still Grow

By IDA JEAN KAIN

You girls who are just a hairbreadth under or over five feet tall seem to be simply obsessed these days with growing up— or, anyway, with being able to look as though you were taller.

If you are not over 5; without the plus, there is still the chance you may really grow.

Your best bets in foods to grow on are a quart of milk a day, an egg, a serving of lean meat, fish or fowl, green and yellow vegetables and citrus fruits along with the whole grain cereals and breads.

The whole grain cereals and bread furnish the B vitamins and while you need all the vitamins these are especially important to growth. You also get them in wheat germ, yeast tablets, and in the vitamin complex concentrates.

It it is too late for you to grow, use the tricks that make you look taller. You can "dress tall." Have your hat the same color as your dress, with a brim that carries the eye upward.

Don't buy sailors' or flat hats with turned down brims. They all cut your height.

And don't buy a dress with a yoke of one color and the rest of the dress another. The color difference takes you down by inches. Another combination to avoid is the jacket of one color and the skirt, or dress, of another.

To keep the up and down line unbroken, have the belt the same color, as your dress and, if possible, of the same fabric. Keep away from wide, shiny belts, or any lines that go round and round. If your waistline isn't as trim as it could be, this is even more important.

One of the most successful tricks is no trick at all. It is to stand up to every inch of your height.

The quantity of paper available in Britain is about one-fifth the prewar supply. Newspapers are cut accordingly.

Miss K. Johnston Invermere, Is Bride of W. Bond

INVERMERE, B.C. — Trinity United Church, Invermere, was the scene of a pretty wedding on Saturday, when Kathleen Joyce, elder daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. S. Johnston, Invermere, became the bride of Lt.-Sig. William Bond, eldest son of Mr. and Mrs. Bond of Calgary.

The bride, who was given in marriage by her father, chose for the occasion a dress of turquoise silk crepe with brown hat and accessories. She carried a bouquet of pink roses and fern.

She was attended by her sister, Miss Doreen Johnston who was attractive in golden beige crepe self trimmed with brown accessories. She wore a corsage bouquet of bronze chrysanthemums.

Mr. William Lockhart of Invermere was best man. Rev. E. F. Ennals officiated at the ceremony.

A reception was held at the home of the bride's parents where Mrs. Johnston assisted the bridal couple in receiving the guests. She had chosen an apple green crepe dress and green hat and she wore a corsage of pink roses and fern.

Contract... By Shepard Barclay

BEWARE OF RUFFING

WHEN YOUR opponents have given an indication of unbalanced suit lengths, with assorted long and short suits, it may be dangerous for your side, with the preponderance of high cards, to land in a suit contract. Defensive ruffs of your high cards may wreak havoc with you, whereas that is impossible if you select No Trump as your spot to play the hand.

North: ♠ 10 7 5 4 ♥ Q J 4 ♦ A 10 9 8 ♣ K 9

West: ♠ 3 ♥ 10 9 3 ♦ Q 7 6 4 ♣ J 10 7 5 3

East: ♠ A J 8 6 2 ♥ A 8 6 ♦ K J 2 ♣ 8 4

South: ♠ K Q 9 ♥ K 7 5 2 ♦ 5 3 ♣ A Q 6 2

(Dealer: West. North-South vulnerable.)

West	North	East	South
Pass	Pass	1 ♠	1 NT
Pass	1 ♦	2 ♠	3 ♥

It was indeed bad bidding for North and South to get into that contract, especially since a defensive player like J. Harlin (Pat) O'Connell, star of New York's Union club, sat in the West. When he led the club 2, not the 3, to make his hand hard to read, it was easy for the writer in the East to figure it out, as with five clubs South would almost surely have bid the suit.

To carry out the deception, a high-low was avoided, the 4 being played in third hand position. Wishing to lead toward spades, South led to the club K, then brought out the spade 4. In came the A and South was wrecked. The spade 6 caused the K to be ruffed by the heart 2, the club 7 was ruffed by the heart 4 and overruffed by the 6. The spade 3 got the Q ruffed by the heart 9, the club J was ruffed by the heart J and over-ruffed by the A, and the spade 8 was ruffed by the heart 7 and over-ruffed by the 10. Later the diamond J scored, putting the declarer down three.

No possible defense could have hampered him at 3-No Trumps, but in hearts he saw his opponents score ruffing tricks with the A, 10, 9, 6 and 2, plus the spade A and diamond J. Their five trumps which took tricks knocked off the spade K and Q, the club A and Q, otherwise winners, and in the process they over-ruffed the declarer's heart J, 7 and 4. They got five tricks with their six trumps to only three taken by his seven trumps.

Golf Enthusiasts Still Playing on Nelson Course

It may be December—but several Nelson golf enthusiasts refuse to recognize that fact. Two of them, John Cartmel and J. A. Stewart, played over the Nelson Golf and Country Club course last weekend, getting in 18 holes Sunday.

This weekend — if the weather continues anywhere near reasonable —a foursome plans to play. In it will probably be Mr. Cartmel, Mr. Stewart, William Blane and T. R. Wilson.

The clubhouse was closed at the end of October.

Minor League Revolt Collapses

NEW YORK, Dec. 1 (AP)—The revolution against the control of Kenesaw M. Landis and William G. Bramham over minor league baseball collapsed today in a bitter brawl that brought roars of illegality and threats to take the entire minor league set-up into the courts.

When the smoke cleared away, Landis still was the head man in power and Bramham was reelected President of the National Association of Professional Baseball Leagues for five more years at $25,000 annually.

The two remained right in the drivers' seats, although it took some fast "footwork" by Bramham in his handling of the National Association meeting to remain there.

The explosion on the floor of the convention and the resultant reelection of Bramham and renewal for one year of the major-minor league agreement, by which Landis controls the minors, was by far the hottest action of the week-long Winter baseball meetings to date.

PENNOCK PHILS' BOSS

Even announcement of the signing of Herb Pennock for a five-year term as General Manager of the Phillies—easily the biggest deal of the conclaves to date—received no more than a smattering of raised eyebrows. Pennock, one-time ace of southpaw pitchers, leaves a job as head of the Boston Red Sox farm system to hook up with young Bob Carpenter's new regime in Philadelphia.

Bivins Victory Given Razz

CLEVELAND, Dec. 1 (AP) —Jimmy Bivins, Cleveland negro, ranked by the National Boxing Association as the country's top active heavyweight, was awarded a thunderously booed 10-round decision over Lee Q. Murray of South Norwalk, Conn., at the arena tonight. Bivins weighed 187¼ pounds to an even 200 for Murray.

The decision of Referee Jackie Davis and Judges Jim Parker and Herb Williams was unanimous but the record crowd of 14,500 greeted the decision with almost solid disapproval and continued booing for more than 10 minutes after the decision was announced.

The Associated Press score card awarded Murray six rounds, gave Bivins three and called one even.

Bivins' face was a mass of blood at the finish and Referee Jackie Davis' shirt was drenched in gore from a deep cut which Murray opened above Bivins' left eye in the sixth stanza.

In that round, Murray caught Bivins with a solid right hook and blood started spurting from the eye. Bivins was hurt badly and his handlers worked feverishly at the end of the round.

Market Trends . . .

LONDON, Dec. 1 (AP) — The stock market generally closed steady today in quiet dealings.

Industrials advanced selectively. Those finishing higher included Tobaccos, Textiles, Oils, Kaffirs, Coppers and Teas. Home Rails were steady.

NEW YORK, — Stocks carrying plus signs of fractions to more than a point today included Chrysler, Bethlehem Steel, Dupont, Westinghouse, Allied Chemical, American Distilling and Preferred stocks of several electric power companies.

The Canadian list was strong with C.P.R., Dome Mines, Hiram Walker and Distillers Seagram all on the upside.

TORONTO, — Pioneer Gold dropped 15 cents. Malartic Gold Fields fell 10 and other golds down 2 to 5 cents included San Antonio, East Malartic, Powell Rouyn, Coniaurum, McKenzie, Little Long Lac, Pickle Crow.

The price for Pacific Oil and refineries cracked under moderate selling pressure, dropping 50 cents to the '15 market before steadying. The closing price around 90 was off 35 cents net.

MONTREAL, — Brazilian and Bell Telephone diff better but down were Montreal Power, Twin City and Saguenay Pfd. Steamship Pfd was higher.

VANCOUVER, — Mines and Oils remained unchanged.

WINNIPEG, — Rye futures moved irregular today, scoring gains early, losses near mid-session, and gains again at the close.

Final prices were ⅛ to ½ higher with December at $1.16, May $1.16 and July $1.14½.

Reports from Fort William and Port Arthur said that 40 vessels cleared Lakehead ports before insurance rates were increased at mid-night last night. Estimates of the grain moved esterday totalled near 5,000,000 bushels.

CHICAGO, — Wheat prices advanced sharply at one time today on moderate mill buying, coupled with a dearth of offerings, but once the milling demand was satisfied prices started to retreat. Gains ranging to more than a cent were generally reduced to fractions.

Hockey Fees Due at Once; Age Proof Also

All boys playing hockey for the different teams under the Nelson Amateur Hockey Association must have their ice fees in by this weekend. Only ice time will be given to teams with paid-up fees. All teams are requested to carry at least 12 players, with 14 being the limit. Club officials must furnish Secretary Ed Keller with a list of players when paying fees.

Slim Porter, N.A.H.A. President, states that all birth certificates must also be turned in for newcomers and beginners by the fifteenth of the month. In previous years there has been considerable leniency shown, and it has led to disputes at playoff time, but this year players who fail to produce birth certificates, or the necessary credentials acceptable to the Nelson Amateur Hockey Association officials, will be barred until they procure the necessary credentials.

Porter also stated that no players of bantam or midget age are to be allowed to smoke in the dressing room, and club officials are asked specifically to warn their players on this matter.

Cowley Picks Up Seven Points to Shoot Up to First Place

MONTREAL, Dec. 1 (CP) —About this time each National Hockey League season, play-making Bill Cowley of Boston Bruins can be expected to start moving to the top of the League's scoring race, and official figures released today show that this year is no exception.

The official figures, which do not include last night's Chicago-Boston game, show Cowley with 21 points, compiled on four goals and 17 assists, a gain of seven for the week and a rise from fifth place to first.

Pat Egan of Detroit continued to lead the penalty parade with 34 minutes in majors and minors, closely followed by Canadiens' Mike McMahon with 22.

Attendance Slides in U.S. Football

NEW YORK, Dec. 1 (AP)—Football attendance during the season just closed suffered a drop of 18.4 per cent compared to 1942, a survey of 57 major colleges in the United States discloses.

The decline was greatest in the South, where a drop of 28.4 per cent was reported, and the least in the East, 6.4 per cent.

The national falling-off almost duplicated the decline suffered last season over the attendance of 1941, which was an even 19 per cent.

West Coast crowds, which slaughed off approximately 30 per cent during the season a year ago, dropped only 6.8 per cent this Fall.

18 Out for First Girls Hockey

Eighteen girls, brandishing hockey clubs in purposeful fashion, turned out at the Civic Centre Wednesday evening for the first girls hockey practice of the season.

The turnout was divided into two teams, and No. 1 squad with Jean Hammer in goal piled up a 4-1 win over Bessie McLeod's No. 2 outfit. Goals were marked by Betty Dronsfield, Fern Openshaw, Georgina Fisher and Mary McLeod of the winners, and by Shirley Hall.

A second practice has been alloted the girls for next Wednesday.

Lineups were:

No. 1 team: Jean Hammer goal; Betty Dronsfield, Mary McLeod, Marjorie Cawley, Fern Openshaw, Geordie Procter, Jean Hunt, Jean Young, Isabel Kay and Georgina Fisher.

No. 2 team: Bessie McLeod, goal; Shirley Hall, M. Goggin, Isabel Goggin, Shirley Robinson, Kathie Paddon, Betty Brown, and Elaine Hughes.

Sports Roundup

By HUGH FULLERTON, JR.
Associated Press Sport Writer

NEW YORK, Dec. 1 (AP) — Service men overseas will get the first look at the American League's swell movie of the 1943 world series. . . . The League is sending over 125 copies of the film, which takes in every scoring play. . . . The next showing will be at camps on this side and civilian organizations will have to wait until the Service demand slackens.

LOBBY PATROL

The reason Kiki Cuyler took a Southern Association managerial post is that Jimmy Wilson was so sure of being fired that he couldn't assure Kiki that he could continue as a Cub coach. . . . Bob Carpenter, the Phillies' rookie boss, likes to tell about the time he started to warm up with ex-Yankee Arndt Jorgens and his first pitch caught Arndt right on the knee. . . . Carpenter can talk with a lot more authority about hunting dogs, mostly retrievers, than he can about baseball. . . . He might do well to send out a couple of Chesapeake Bays or Labradors to retrieve a few ball players for his club.

FISH STORY

Soldiers at Camp Edwards, Mass., vouch for this yarn—so naturally we wouldn't argue with them . . . . seems that two of the boys were walking along the beach near that Cape Cod camp when they noticed a large school of rock bass in pursuit of a swarm of minnows. Running into the breakers the soldiers waited until the fish came close enough and then put their football training to good use by kicking the fish out of the water onto the beach. They claim they booted out 80 pounds of bass, ranging in size from three to seven pounds.

East Trail Licks Gulch 8-1 Commerk Opener

TRAIL, B. C., Dec. 1— Gulch and East Trail opened the season for Trail's Commercial Hockey League Tuesday night, when East Trail defeated the Gulch by 8-1 in a hard fought game which included the use of kid lines as well as of nationally prominent ex-Smoke Eaters.

Scoring by East Trail was well distributed with Joe Benoit tallying three times and Ken Stanton and Lee Christenson twice each, Johnny Cameron getting the other tally. The Gulch was scoreless until the third period, when Ab Cronie at last found the net.

East Trail— Ed Benson, Jimmy Morris, Lee Christenson, Joe Benoit, Bunny Dame, Ken Stanton, Maurice Mawdsley, Ed Crowder, Julie Bilecky, Secco, John Cameron, Jim Malley, Gord Robertson, Red Koehle.

N.H.L. Cracks Down on Scribes

By CHARLIE EDWARDS
Canadian Press Staff Writer

TORONTO, Dec. 1 (CP)—Hand the palm for stupid rules to the National Hockey League which has just incorporated into its rule book the following: "Any player who gives to the Press for publication any statement reflecting in any way on the conduct or performance of any official, any club official or player shall be subject to a penalty of not less than $200 and not more than $1000." . . . For years players have been orally berating officials and the printable quotations have made fine reading for the fans. Feuds between players have been played up by the press, liberally spiced with quotations and counter quotations. All this has swelled attendance by thousands. Maybe the N.H.L. doesn't want the publicity—can't stand the big profits. Maybe the excess profits tax gets them down. They slap a threatened $1000 fine in the face of players who ordinarily talk freely and fluently about "the lousy officials" and the poor guys will be stricken dumb. They'll have absolutely no topics for conversation.

Witticisms such as flew from the tongue of Babe Pratt will cost him as much as 100 kopeks a word. His tongue (and hands) tied, the man's play, will suffer.

High Degree of Unity Coming to Pacific Area

WASHINGTON, Dec. 1 (AP)—Allied forces in the Pacific and Asia now appear assured of an unprecedented unity of command for the rest of the war against Japan.

This is implied in the official announcement of the first war strategy conference held by Prime Minister Churchill, President Roosevelt and President Chiang Kai-shek.

The talks, the announcement reveals, were paralleled by military staff discussions which agreed upon future operations in the Pacific-Asiatic theatre. Observers here assumed that agreements also were reached on methods of meeting changing war conditions in future with the same high degree of unity which these discussions produced.

The possibility was suggested that Chinese, whose armies are destined to play a major role in the final crushing defeat of Japan, would assign liaison officers and observers to the Anglo-American global command cut out for Gen. George C. Marshall, the United States Army Chief of Staff.

Beyond this, it is certain that as British and American land, sea and air forces advance upon Japan proper in offensives now developing they must have maximum coordination with Chinese forces attacking the enemy in Asia if they are to achieve victory. The conference just held appears to clear the way for that coordination.

Mail-early reminders to Christmas givers from the Post Office Department have been distributed to Nelson householders by mail carriers.

"War responsibilities have greatly increased the work of the Postal Service," the pamphlets state. "Last year's volume of Christmas mail made a new high record—this year it may reach even greater proportions. Regular Post Office staffs have been depleted through enlistments—inexperienced help is being taken on."

The importance of careful packaging and early mailing, in view of these circumstances, is emphasized.

Interpreting The War News

By KIRKE L. SIMPSON
Associated Press War Analyst

Under terms of the British-American-Chinese pact reached in North Africa the fate of Japan as a world power is sealed. She is to be cut down ruthlessly; stripped of all her mainland and island loot; to be quarantined within the Japanese islands themselves as an international leper.

That is the plain meaning of the declaration issued by Messrs. Churchill, Roosevelt and Chiang Kai-shek. The fact of their meetings in North Africa was perhaps the worst kept secret of this war; but what they did there dooms Japan to a worse fate than the Russian-Allied pact of Moscow has decreed for Germany.

It verifies the long known fact that in the eyes of President Roosevelt and Prime Minister Churchill as well as President Chiang, Japan is a more criminal nation than Nazi Germany and to be treated as such. With defeat, she faces international exile, ostracized from the world family of nations until her people have proven their moral fitness for readmission.

That stern decree by the big three of the Pacific-Asiatic war theatre is given added significance by the circumstances and the scene of its drafting. There can be no question that it represents Russian official thought as to how a defeated Japan should be dealt with although the Soviet Government stood rigidly aloof from the conference as a neutral in the Allied-Japanese phases of the global war.

Russian endorsement of China's objectives in the Pacific was at least broadly implied in the inclusion of China as a signatory of the Moscow four-power pact. The North African meetings were obviously staged as a preliminary to the foregathering of Churchill, Roosevelt, Stalin and probably Chiang, which already may have occurred. At that meeting, among other things, the big four of the United Nations will personally approve the Moscow blueprint for a new world order of enforced peace. Chiang's presence foreshadowed his participation in that phase of the Russian-Allied conversations to implement the Moscow agreements with action.

Nor is there any barrier to his participation in Anglo-American-Russian military planning against Germany and her European satellites such as keep the Russians out of the Anglo-American-Chinese proceedings in North Africa aimed at Japan. China is at war with Germany and her nerve-racked Balkan accomplices. It is an essential that the Chinese President and military commander should understand the pattern of Russian-Allied strategy in Europe as that Moscow should appreciate the demands in the Pacific upon Anglo-American war-making resources.

The smash-Hitler-first axiom of Anglo-American war strategy was last reaffirmed at Quebec. That it was repeated in principle at Moscow and now is about to be translated into military plans at Teheran or wherever else the Churchill-Roosevelt-Stalin conference is staged goes without saying.

Cairo Declaration Significant at This Stage—Premier King

OTTAWA, Dec. 1 (CP) —Prime Minister Mackenzie King tonight described as "particularly significant at this stage of the war" the Cairo declaration of allied determination to smash Japan and strip her of her stolen empire.

"Had it been issued at the time of Pearl Harbor, or at the time of the United Nations conference (in Washington) on Jan. 1, 1942, it might have been regarded as a declaration of high resolves," Mr. King said of the statement which came from the North African meeting of Prime Minister Churchill, President Roosevelt and President Chiang Kai-shek.

"With the power of the United Nations what it is at present, and the capacity they have shown to carry the war to the enemy, the statement has a vastly greater significante," he added.

Mr. King said the Cairo declaration was "not to be viewed as a mere assertion of intentions."

"It speaks of achievements that already are far in the making, and concerning the accomplishment of which there is no longer reason to doubt, he continued in a statement issued from his office.

The Prime Minister said the declaration would bring "general satisfaction throughout Canada."

"The statement issued leaves no doubt as to the intention of the nations now united in the war against Japan to put an end to Japanese aggression and to effect restitution of invaded and stolen territories.

"The Canadian people will be particularly pleased that the people of China who have suffered so grievously through Japanese aggression, and have fought so valiantly in resistance of further conquests by force, have been given so definite an assurance of the determination of their allies to right their wrongs in the fullest measure possible.

"There will be equal satisfaction in Canada over the determination to remove once and for all any further menace on the part of Japan across and upon the waters of the Pacific."

"Sphinx Conference" Sidelights . . .

By John Chester and William McGaffin
Associated Press Staff Writers

CAIRO, Dec. 1 (AP) —The meeting of Prime Minister Churchill, President Roosevelt and President Chiang Kai-shek in North Africa probably will go down in history as the "Sphinx Conference" since the heads of the governments visited the monument during the conference.

Mr. Churchill and Mr. Roosevelt, two of the greatest public speakers alive, finally met their match in the person of Hadji Ali No. 1—of all places, in front of the Sphinx.

Hadji Ali No. 1 is Senior Dragoman, or guide, at the Giza Pyramids which Mr. Roosevelt and Mr. Churchill and his daughter, Sarah Oliver of the WAAFS, visited.

Hadji Ali No. 1 took charge of the proceedings like a seasoned campaigner. He talked 15 minutes straight, hardly pausing for breath.

After leaving the Sphinx Mr. Roosevelt and Mr. Churchill drove up the sandy hill crowned by the Giza Pyramids, of which big Cheops is the king. The sun was setting as they reached the hilltop, and they stopped the car twice to admire the magnificent desert view before inspecting the time worn crumbling structures.

Two days later Gen. Chiang Kai shek followed suit in visiting the pyramids. He was dressed in blue Chinese robes, with khaki trousers showing underneath.

Probably the earliest riser at the conference was Chiang, who got up at 5 a.m. daily, as at home, and prayed half an hour before breakfast—the same English fare as the other delegates ate.

The only Chinese food Chiang got was while in Cairo when the wife of Tang Wu, Chinese Charge d'Affaires, did the cooking.

Late in the afternoons the President and Mrs. Chiang Kai-shek, who interpreted for Chiang during the conversations with Mr. Churchill and Mr. Roosevelt, would walk for half an hour in the garden exchanging views on the latest problems. Madame Chiang was in poor health when she arrived, but quickly improved under the stimulus of the African sun.

Mr. Churchill alone among the big three came to the conference by sea. Mr. Roosevelt and Chiang flew. Mr. Churchill stopped at Gibraltar Algiers, and Malta. He was almost mobbed by cheering Maltese as he drove around the island on his first visit there since the war started. While there he conferred with Gens. Dwight D. Eisenhower and Sir Harold Alexander.

Chinese Drive Japs Out of Changteh

CHUNGKING, Dec. 1 (AP) — Chinese troops drove the Japanese out of Changteh today and tonight the High Command announced, in addition, the occupation of six towns and the routing of two Japanese divisions amid mounting reports of widespread Chinese successes in Hunan, Hupeh and Honan Provinces.

The Japanese had forced their way into Changteh, gateway to China's vital "rice bowl" region, on Monday, and both sides had been locked in bloody hand-to-hand street fighting for control of the city. The Chinese High Command charged the invaders used poison gas to gain entrance to Changteh.

Vice-President Wins Game, Loses Free Feed

TRAIL, B. C., Dec. 1 — Though Vice-President E. L. Jones came through with a 9-7 win over President A. E. Allison's rink Wednesday night his rinks will be paying the season-closing Trail Curling Club bean feed anyway. The annual President vs. Vice-President battle was over Wednesday and when the scores were added, the President rinks led 344-189. Losing rinks in this event yearly stand treat to the final banquet.

In the only other match of the tournament victory also went to a Vice-President rink, Sam Gray edging out W. S. Ross 8-7.

Bloody Pacific Battle Near

By WILLIAM WORDEN
Associated Press Staff Writer

U. S. PACIFIC FLEET HEADQUARTERS, Dec. 1 (AP)—All indications here today pointed to a beginning soon of perhaps the bloodiest campaign of the Pacific war on the longest war-front in the world.

This war-front is the seemingly endless Pacific from the Kuriles to the Solomons. Gory Tarawa Island in the Gilberts was just an overture to a campaign which likely will be one of the war's longest.

The Japanese have sent some of their finest army and navy troops, apparently with orders to stay until killed, on literally hundreds of islands which form concentric rings of defences for their valuable conquests in the Philippines, Indies and elsewhere.

Around the perimeter of these rings is gathered the greatest naval concentration in history plus hundreds of thousands of Allied troops—all awaiting attack order which may come any minute.

The American Naval High Command already has demonstrated at Tarawa that it was committed to a policy of attacking Japanese island positions with overwhelming force.

This involves pounding by land-based bombers where feasible, as in the Gilberts and Marshalls, plus tremendous concentration with dive-bombing and naval gunfire attacks such as at Tarawa.

This means tremendous expenditures of ammunition and naturally forces the Americans to concentrate and therefore risk, large war fleets both aerial and surface.

In Great Britain, an allocation of three eggs per week is made to infants between the ages of 8 months and 18 months, and certain classes of invalids, for the period from September 1st to February 1st. This is a much larger ration than that allowed to the general public.

Senators Win Night Games Request

NEW YORK, Dec. 1 (AP)—Washington Senators were given permission by both the National and American Leagues today to play as many night games as they want to in 1944, but a request of St. Louis Browns for extra arc-light tilts was turned down by the National league.

Meeting in separate sessions to prepare for their joint meeting Friday, the American League approved the request of the Browns and St. Louis Cardinals might agree upon.

However, the National League, after granting Clark Griffith's request for unlimited night games in Washington, voted to hold all other clubs to the maximum 14. The question now comes before the joint meeting.
