Flay Bread Company For Price Actions

Attacks Follow Evidence Bakery Upped Loaf Tag During Best Profit Month; Claim Adjusting Loss

OTTAWA, March 10 (CP) — Liberal members of the Commons Price Committee delivered a verbal lashing today to a bread company, claiming it failed to reduce prices when profits were high but quickly passed on to the public a "slight" loss that developed in one type of bread.

In the most outspoken criticism of any firm appearing before the committee in a month, several members rawhided Christie's Bread, Ltd., of Toronto for launching a one-cent increase in the wholesale price of its standard loaf in late January.

Evidence indicated that Christie's was the first Toronto bakery to undertake this increase, which was followed by a general jump in the retail price from 13 to 14 cents.

During a round of critical cross-examination on the action, witnesses for the United States-owned firm admitted it was enjoying a good profit on its over-all operations at the time but said it was losing 58 cents per 1000 loaves on its standard unit.

Health Minister Martin, Committee Chairman, and R. H. Winters (L-Queens-Lunenburg) launched the hardest attacks against the price-increase policy—declaring the company explanation was not going to allay public "suspicion" — and they were joined by Ralph Maybank, Mr. Martin's parliamentary assistant, and Jean Lesage (L-Montmagny-L'Islet).

RECORD PROFITS LIKELY

Under fire in the session were Daniel E. Wilson, Christie's President, and Lloyd I. Stormer, Vice-President, both of Toronto. They underwent a grilling almost solely on the January rise for most of today's 1½-hour sitting.

Before the heavy attack started, Mr. Stormer had told the committee that, without the increase, the company would have made a net profit of about $11,000 on its bread operations in January. If that pace had been continued through 1948, the company would have its biggest profit year in bread in its seven-year history.

But Mr. Stormer said costs sheets indicated the company was losing money on its standard bread, then wholesaling for 10½ cents.

"But the fact is," asked Mr. Martin, "that in what seems to have been your highest month, you chose to raise prices?"

Mr. Wilson said the company had "looked at the costs."

"But the fact was, your general position was at its best," insisted Mr. Martin.

"Yes, but we didn't know that at the time," Mr. Wilson replied.

To Mr. Lesage, he said he did not know the result of January operations until February.

"You didn't decrease the price when you found you had made a profit?" asked Mr. Lesage.

Mr. Wilson said the company had not. It had thought of improving its formula for bread.

The Liberal member estimated that the new formula had cost the company an additional .015 cent per loaf.

PROFIT POSSIBILITY AHEAD

Mr. Winters said that in January, when the company said it was losing on bread, there were prospects of a drop in flour prices.

"If the company had waited a month without putting up its price, it might have made a profit," he said.

"That is clear," Chairman Martin commented.

"At the present time," Mr. Winters went on, "you are enjoying a good profit, and the conclusion will be drawn that, when you are enjoying a good profit, you don't pass it on to the public; but the minute you incur a loss in one commodity you allow it to reflect itself to the consumer in higher prices."

District Church Delegates Gather to Elect Bishop

Clergy and laymen of the Church of England met at Nelson Wednesday and elected Very Rev. F. P. Clark, Dean of Kootenay, as Bishop of Kootenay.

Leading figures in the meeting of the Synod, seated above in the front row, from left to right, were Ven. D. S. Catchpole, Archdeacon of Okanagan, Clerical Secretary who was one of the seven candidates for the Bishopric; O. St. Aitkens of Kelowna, Treasurer; Most Rev. W. R. Adams, D.D., Bishop of Yukon; E. C. Weddell, K.C. of Kelowna, Chancellor; the Bishop-Elect; C. H. Hamilton of Nelson, Registrar; Ven. Archdeacon F. H. Graham; H. J. Barotree, of Enderby, Lay Secretary; and Ven. B. A. Resker of Castlegar, Archdeacon of Kootenay.

Dean Clark Elected Bishop of Kootenay

Successor to Archbishop Adams May Be Canada's Youngest Anglican Bishop; Consecration April 25

Very Rev. Frederick Patrick Clark, M.A., Dean of Kootenay and Rector of St. Saviour's Pro-Cathedral at Nelson, was elected Bishop of Kootenay at a meeting in Nelson Wednesday of the Synod of the Diocese of Kootenay. He succeeds Most Rev. W. R. Adams, D.D., now Bishop of Yukon and Metropolitan of British Columbia.

The Synod met under the chairmanship of Dean Clark, who in December, 1945, was installed as first Dean of Kootenay at the same time he was inducted as Rector of St. Saviour's. He is also Administrator of the Diocese, and as third Bishop of Kootenay is probably the youngest Bishop of the Church of England in Canada.

The Bishop-elect was chosen on two ballots—the first by the clergy and the second by the whole Synod. His election will be submitted to the General House of Bishops of the Ecclesiastical Province of British Columbia for approval, and he will likely be consecrated by Archbishop Adams at Nelson St. Mark's Day, April 25.

TO ENGLAND

He is then expected to leave for England where he will attend the Lambeth Conference for the Diocese of Kootenay and may return early in the Fall. His family will remain in Nelson while he is gone.

A successor will be named to replace him as Rector of St. Saviour's Pro-Cathedral.

Dean Clark has signified that he wishes his home to be in Nelson. If wishes his home to be in Nelson. As this has met with approval, a precedent will be set, for both previous Bishops of Kootenay made Vernon their place of residence.

Dean Clark was the first of three Bishops elected in the Kootenays to be carried on only two ballots. Most Rev. A. J. Doull, D.D., first Bishop of Kootenay and elected in 1914, was named with six ballots, while Archbishop Adams was elected in 1935 with nine.

ARCHBISHOP REJOICES

In a statement after the election Archbishop Adams said he "rejoices as wholly as the whole Anglican Church of the Kootenay in having as my successor Dean Clark, who has the ability, and temperament for undertaking the work of a Bishop."

In his contacts with the parish clergy and various congregations, the Archbishop added, he felt that a "good future is in front for all."

The new Bishop is 39, the youngest of the seven candidates. He came to Nelson in 1945 from Vancouver, where he had been Rector of Holy Trinity Church from 1941 to 1945.

He graduated in Arts and Theology from Lennoxville University and was ordained in Montreal in 1932. From 1932 to 1934, he was Assistant Curate of the Church of Advent in Westmount, and Sub-Warden from 1934 to 1940 of St. Chad's College in Regina.

He was also Examining Chaplain to the Bishopric of Qu'Appelle and Rector at Pense, Sask., from 1936 to 1938, and from 1938 to 1941 was Rector of the Parish of St. Matthew's at Regina.

Licensed Clery of the Diocese and Lay Delegates appointed by each Parish, took part in the Synod, the Clergy and Lay Delegates forming themselves into separate chambers for the purpose of voting.

Other candidates were as follows:

Rev. Canon William Askey, L. Th., age 59, Rector of All Saints' Church, Winnipeg, since 1932, and latterly Senior Divisional Chaplain.

Ven. Archdeacon D. S. Catchpole, B.A., B.D., age 47, former Vicar of Bonnington and Rector of Rossland, now Canon of Kootenay, Archdeacon of Okanagan and Rector of Kelowna since 1942.

Rev. G. P. Gower, B.A., L. Th., age 48, Rector of St. Paul's Church, Vancouver.

Rev. Norman D. B. Larmonth, L. Th., age 54, who is well known in the Kootenays. He served in East Kootenay in 1919 and came to Nelson as an Assistant Clergyman in 1921. From 1923 to 1926 he was Vicar of the Church of the Redeemer at Nelson, and for the next five years was Rector at Trail. He was Rural Dean of Nelson from 1928 to 1931, when he went to the Coast. Since 1941 he has been Rector at St. John's, Shaughnessy.

Very Rev. A. G. Trendell, D.D., age 48, Dean of Edmonton since January, 1945.

Very Rev. G. N. Luxton, age 46, Rector of St. Paul's Cathedral, London, Ont., and Dean of Huron since 1944. President of the Bible Reading Fellowship and Chairman of the Spiritual Advance Committee of the Anglican Advance Appeal.

Registration of 40 clergymen and 25 laity opened the Synod meeting Tuesday night, after which a Service of Preparation was conducted by Archbishop Adams. During the service in St. Saviour's Pro-Cathedral, the Archbishop stressed the responsibility of the Synod in its choice of a new Bishop.

Wednesday morning the Synod assembled in the Memorial Hall to be presented the list of nominees by the Clerical Secretary, Ven. D. S. Catchpole, Archdeacon of Okanagan.

A dinner, prepared by the women of Pro-Cathedral circles, was held in the Memorial Hall at noon Wednesday.

ACCEPTANCE CEREMONY

"You have elected me to a position of privilege, but more of responsibility," the youthful Bishop-Elect told the Clergy and Lay Delegates at his formal acceptance in Memorial Hall in the afternoon. The Metropolitan, Ven. Archdeacon F. H. Graham and other clergymen also spoke at the brief ceremony.

He said he had been "overwhelmed" at the majority of Synod delegates who voted in his favor, and admitted the majority spoke well for the Diocese.

Dean Clark added: "I promise to do my best, and to be a good Bishop. I hope that with the power of the Holy Ghost, we will be able to solve the problems and post-war perplexities facing us."

Plans for the consecration, in the hands of the Metropolitan, were outlined. As many Bishops as possible are expected to attend the event, which will be held in Nelson, first Kootenay city to be host to the consecration of a Bishop of the Diocese. In the two previous cases, Bishop Doull was consecrated in Victoria and Archbishop Adams in Kamloops.

His Grace extended to the Bishop-Elect the episcopal help of the senior clergy in the Diocese, and spoke also on matters pertaining to his new post as Bishop of Yukon, and the coming Jubilee anniversary of the first Synod of the Diocese.

He saw a need for speedy re-adjustment of Diocesan boundaries in the Province, and a "better use of manpower." "There must be a more sane division of Dioceses if we are to function successfully," he said.

TRIBUTE TO ARCHBISHOP

Rev. W. S. Beames, Rector of Penticton, paid tribute to the services of the past Bishop of Kootenay, citing the Archbishop's work in the stabilization of finances, the "fatherly interest" he had taken in the clergy of the Diocese, and his familiarity with the Diocese. He extended "affection, sympathy and admiration" to Archbishop Adams in his new field.

Mr. Beames also expressed "goodwill" to Rev. H. C. B. Gibson, Rector of Vernon for 28 years, who has left for Agassiz in the Diocese of New Westminster, and "profound sympathy" to the wife of the late Rev. F. C. Briscall, who served for 12 years at Oliver.

The Preparatory Devotional Address delivered by the Archbishop was praised by Archdeacon Graham, who requested that it be printed as part of the Synod minutes. "I was deeply impressed with the excellent and most carefully prepared address, and feel the Church would be loser if no permanent record of it were kept," Mr. Graham stated.

A vote of thanks was given Dean Clark and others who directed the Synod meeting.

REJECT MOTION ON HONG KONG LETTERS

Follows Tabling Of Evidence on Sending Expedition

P. C. MOVE

OTTAWA, March 10 (CP)—By a vote of 146 to 61, the Commons today rejected a Progressive Conservative motion for the production of all correspondence between the British and Canadian Governments in connection with the Canadian Expeditionary force sent to Hong Kong in 1941.

John Bracken, Progressive Conservative Leader and sponsor of the motion, forced the division after Prime Minister Mackenzie King refused to table the correspondence on the ground that letters between governments can not be made public without the consent of the two governments concerned.

He cited a ruling from the clerk of the House which pointed out that the motion did not take into consideration matters which it might not be in the public interest to disclose.

The vote followed by a short time the tabling by Defence Minister Claxton of the evidence taken by the Royal Commission which probed the sending of the expedition.

In the division, the Progressive Conservatives drew support from Patrick Ashby (SC-Edmonton East) and a handful of Independents, including J. L. Gibson (Ind-Comox-Alberni), P. E. Gagnon (Ind-Chicoutimo), Frederic Dorion (Ind-Charlevoix-Saguenay), Maxime Raymond (BP-Beauharnois-LaPrairie) and Real Caouette (L'Union des Electeurs-Pontiac).

Other Social Credit members and the CCF party voted with the Government.

GOLD PRODUCTION SUBSIDIES BILL TO BE STUDIED

OTTAWA, March 10 (CP) — Finance Minister Abbott said today in the Commons that study of a bill providing for subsidies on gold production will be taken up as soon as approval is given the resolution authorizing the collection of the 25 per cent excise taxes that form part of the exchange conservation program.

He was replying to H. W. Herridge (People's C.C.F.--Kootenay West), who also asked if the Government had decided to lift the ban on the importation of kerosene refrigerators.

Mr. Abbott said the refrigeration matter was still under active consideration.

Pope Stresses Importance Of Elections

VATICAN CITY, March 10 (AP) —Pope Pius, in his annual Lenten address to the Rome clergy, told them today it is their right and duty to impress upon Roman Catholics "the extraordinary importance" of Italy's elections April 18.

This is considered the Pontiff's reply to his critics in the Communist-dominated "Popular Front," who for weeks have been charging that the church is improperly and illegally intervening in politics.

The Pope's speech, the most forthright political pronouncement yet, placed his personal prestige squarely behind the efforts of Italy's Cardinals, Bishops and Priests to mobilize Catholic votes to defeat the left in the coming Parliamentary elections.

The Pope said the Church "remains outside and above political parties."

But, he asked, how could it remain indifferent to the makeup of the Italian Republic's first Parliament if the Parliament is to legislate "in matters which so directly affect the highest religious interests and the conditions of the life of the Church itself in Italy?"

Catholics must vote for candidates who safeguard the rights "of God and of souls, for the true God of individuals, of families and of society, according to the law of God and Christian moral doctrine."

Failure to vote because of "indolence or cowardice" would be a grave sin.

The Pope, however, warned priests "not to stoop to mean questions of political parties, to harsh factional contests which irritate souls, sharpen discord, impede charity, and impair your very dignity and the efficiency of your holy ministry."

Earlier in his address the Pope said that motion pictures take up so much time of the youth of Italy they have not enough left for religious instruction.

Movie-goers are exposed to "doctrines of error and portraiture of criminal passions and monstrous offences, presented with vivacity to their imagination and sensibility . . . Youth must learn to judge and distinguish the true from the false, the good from the bad, the licit from the illicit."

Regrets Light Use of Airmail In District

CRANBROOK, B. C., March 10—Light use of airmail by this District, with the quickest mail service in the world available, was regretted by F. J. Colpman, Post Office Airmail Inspector, on an official trip through here. He said extent of the use to which the District was putting this service hardly merits its continued operations.

He pointed out that the few cents additional postage for airmail assured arrival of letters posted by 12:30 p.m. here at airports at any point including Vancouver and Regina the same day, at airports including New York, Halifax and Victoria the following day, and at London, England, the day after that.

For incoming mail the service brought letters mailed by airmail closing time from Vancouver and Regina the same day, points including Victoria and Halifax the following day, and from London in two days.

The service operates daily except Sunday.

Czechs Under Reign of Terror Says Marshall

WASHINGTON, March 10 (CP) —State Secretary Marshall declared today that Czechoslovakia is under "a reign of terror."

The death of Foreign Minister Jan Masaryk "indicates very plainly what is going on," Marshall told a Press Conference.

Marshall also said the conditions created by Russian expansion in Europe and the "passions" aroused in the United States created "a very, very serious" situation.

DEATH "TRAGIC"

OTTAWA, March 10 (CP) — The Canadian Government described the Communist Coup in Czechoslovakia as "tragic" in a statement read to the Commons today by External Affairs Minister St. Laurent on the death of Jan Masaryk, former Czech Foreign Minister.

It was the first formal Canadian Government objection to the Red grab, and in it Mr. St. Laurent associated the Dominion firmly with the Feb. 26 declaration by Britain, the United States and France condemning the seizure.

"The Canadian Government and the Canadian people at large associate themselves with the Feb. 26 declaration of the three great powers," the Minister said.

In his statement, he made reference to Czechoslovakia's Democratic freedom for which Mr. Masaryk had fought and which, he said, she now had "so tragically lost."

Mr. St. Laurent declared the Government had been "shocked and grieved" to learn today of the death of Masaryk, described in a Prague Government announcement as having taken his own life.

He had devoted himself to the service of the state, the External Affairs Minister said, and when the Nazis had overrun his country, he had shown "courage and resource in carrying on the struggle" from abroad.

John Bracken, Progressive Conservative leader, quickly seconded Mr. St. Laurent's tribute. He said all parties in the Commons would associate themselves with the Minister's statement.

Million Words of Evidence, but Hong Kong Controversy Unsettled

By ROSS MUNRO
Canadian Press Staff Writer

OTTAWA, March 10 (CP) — Absence of five secret British dispatches from the 1,000,000 words of evidence and exhibits of the 1942 Hong Kong inquiry tabled in the Commons today leaves the Hong Kong controversy still vaguely unsettled.

These dispatches from the United Kingdom Government on the general political situation in the Far East are being kept secret on Britain's request.

But they are the key to a focal point of the Hong Kong dispute—did the Canadian Government know that war was imminent in the Far East before the Canadian expedition sailed on Oct. 27, 1941?

The evidence and exhibits of the Royal Commission inquiry into the dispatch of the two-battalion Canadian force do not in themselves show that the Canadian Government received any clear-cut warning that war with Japan was an early possibility.

CLAIMS HAD WARNING

Col. George A. Drew, now Premier of Ontario who was Opposition counsel in the inquiry, charged that three days before the force sailed the Government received explicit warning that war was coming.

The British documents were not included in the evidence but they were part of the inquiry as they were made available to the Commissioner, Sir Lyman P. Duff, then Chief Justice of Canada, with the proviso they be not disclosed.

Documents tabled in the Commons disclose some differences of opinion among senior army officers of the training of the Royal Rifles of Canada from Quebec City and the Winnipeg Grenadiers which went to Hong Kong.

One training report placed both battalions in category "C"—ones not recommended for operational considerations at that time.

Gen. H. D. G. Crerar, then Chief of the General Staff, however, said both units were "of proven efficiency." He opposed taking better trained units, placed in category "A" in the training report, from the 4th Division because it would do that formation injury.

The Royal Commission report found the troops "well-trained," while Col. Drew charged they were "hopelessly untrained for war."

After the voluminous documents were tabled, the Commons rejected a Progressive Conservative motion, by a vote of 146 to 61, that all correspondence between the British and Canadian Governments on Hong Kong be tabled. C.C.F. and Social Credit members generally supported the Government.

SEEK ENTRY OF CHINESE WIVES INTO CANADA

OTTAWA, March 10 (CP) — The Canadian Government was asked today to permit married Chinese residents of Canada—whether citizens or not—to bring their wives and children to this country.

The request that the 1947 immigration relaxation be extended was made by a group of Canadians including religious, labor and university officials.

The Committee for the Repeal of the Chinese Immigration Act, in a brief prepared for submission to the Senate Committee on Immigration and Labor, asked repeal of order in council P.C. 2115 which "discriminates against the Chinese and is therefore contrary to Canada's obligations under the United Nations Assembly."

The brief said that Canada had protested to Soviet Russia against its refusal to allow Russian-born wives of Canadians to leave that country.

"How can we, in all integrity, protest against their refusal when we refuse to let Chinese wives join their husbands here, except upon their production of a citizenship certificate which in the case of most Chinese will take them about two years to obtain?"

The committee has for co-chairman Dr. A. E. Armstrong, head of the Overseas Missions of the United Church of Canada, and Dr. S. K. Ngai, prominent Chinese surgeon of Toronto.

$459,119 Loaned for Vets Farms in Kootenay, $606,929 for Small Holdings

The Federal Government under the Veterans Land Act has loaned $459,119 to veterans in the Kootenays for the purchase of farms. Similiarly $606,929 has been loaned for purchase of small holdings.

These figures were provided in a Sessional Paper on the request of H. W. Herridge, M.P. for Kootenay West, who asked for the information from the floor of the Commons.

It was also disclosed in the paper that 88 separate loans had been made to veterans to purchase farms and 134 loans for purchase of small holdings. At the same time $20,880 was granted for settlement on provincial land. These grants were made in nine separate cases.

The Veterans Land Act in this district is administered from offices at Nelson by D. Dodding, Regional Supervisor, and an office staff of five, H. E. Thain, J. W. Wade, Miss A. Downey, Miss A. Johnstone and Miss S. C. Caliguiri. Also employed by the administration are four settlement supervisors, F. Barber, W. P. F. Green, W. W. Wilson, W. Mackie and a supervisor of construction, R. D. Field.

Above Normal Water Runoffs Expected For B. C. Farmers

VICTORIA, March 10 (CP) — Above average precipitation during the Winter probably will give Interior British Columbia farmers an "above normal" Summer run-off this year, the Water Rights Branch of the Lands Ministry announced here today.

Heavy precipitation in February increased snow cover and provided greater potential run-off.

A survey of Columbia basin weather stations showed November-February precipitation above a 10-year normal. Heaviest fall—143 per cent or normal—was at Deer Park. The lowest—107 per cent—at Cranberry Lake.

Kootenay basin precipitation averaged 133 per cent of normal.

The Council now is in convention in Ottawa. It is an organization of fisheries operators.

The Sun said: "Accusations of Communist 'domination' of the Cooperative Federation may be behind the application 'deferment.'"

APPROVE MOVE FOR DOMINION, PROVINCIAL MEET

EDMONTON, March 10 (CP)—The Alberta Legislature, voting 50-3, today carried a Government-sponsored motion urging the early calling of a Dominion-Provincial conference.

The motion, introduced by Attorney-General Lucien Maynard yesterday, caused debate on the cost of living, Dominion-Provincial relations, and what Opposition members termed the incorporation of Social Credit theories in the resolution.

Only opposing members in the vote were Liberal Leader Harper Prowse, J. Percy Page, Opposition leader and independent member for Edmonton and Andrew Davison (Ind.-Calgary).

C.C.F. Leader Elmer Roper supported the resolution.

TORONTO, March 10 (CP) — Within an hour of the death here today of Mrs. Margaret (Mickey) Meredith, 23, waitress and former night club singer, her one-time partner, pianist Leslie Davidson, 29, was arraigned on a murder charge. He was remanded to March 17.

SCORES DOLLAR SAVING AS HOSTILE TO TRADE FREEDOM

OTTAWA, March 10 (CP) — A charge that the Government's exchange-conservation bill is "hostile to freedom of trade" was challenged in the Senate today by Senator Wishart Robertson, Government leader, who described it as a move toward economic stability.

Senator John T. Haig, Progressive Conservative leader, led off the criticism and later won support from Senator Arthur Roebuck (L-Ontario).

"No bill in the history of Confederation was ever more hostile to freedom of trade than this one," said Senator Haig, speaking during debate on a motion for second reading. Three Government policies had made the need for the bill "absolutely inevitable":

1. Canada had loaned or sold too many goods on credit to war-devastated countries.

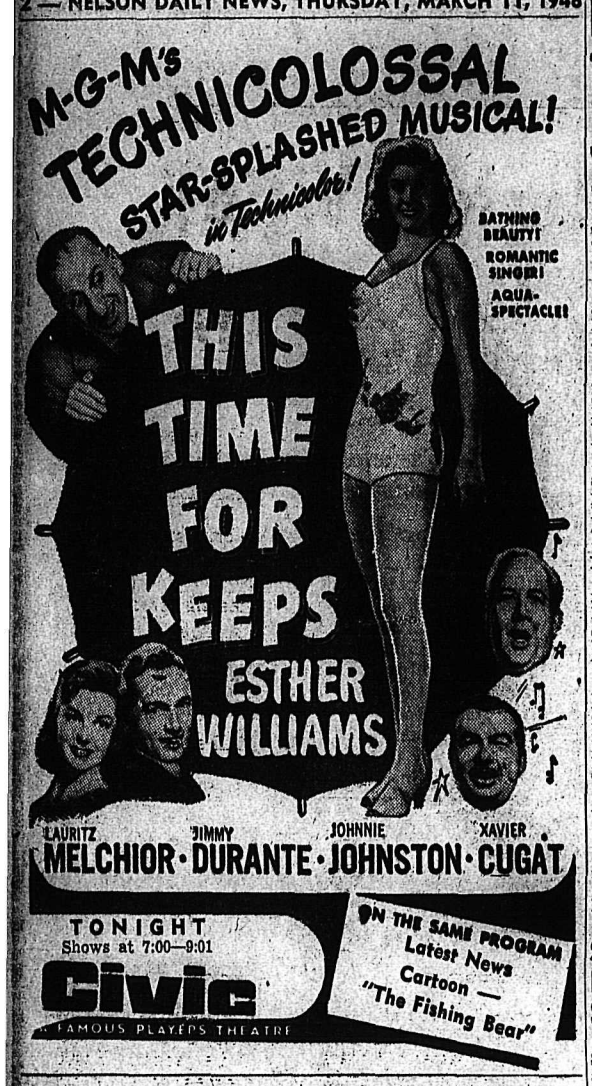
2. Return of the Canadian dollar to parity with the United States dollar had reduced the flow of United States currency into Canada.

3. Free flow of the Dominion's natural products to the United States market had been halted by, among other things, the Anglo-Canadian food contracts.

Men Support Striking Waitresses

CALGARY, March 10 (CP) — Members of the Beverage Dispensers' Union and male members of the Hotel and Restaurant Employees' Union today joined picket lines in front of the Commodore Cafe in downtown Calgary in support of striking waitresses. The supporting pickets joined the lines during their off duty hours.

The picket line was being maintained today despite an injunction granted a few hours after 12 waitresses at the cafe went on strike yesterday in protest over the dismissal of a fellow employee. It was not immediately known what action, if any, would be taken against the A.F.L. affiliated unions and the waitresses for ignoring the injunction.



School Estimates Rejected by Rossland Council

ROSSLAND, B.C., March 10—By a deciding vote cast by Mayor J. Corner, Rossland City Council rejected Rossland's estimate of school costs for 1948. Opposition was raised after a motion that the estimates be accepted had been entered. Aldermen C. Bacon, H. Lefevre and R. T. Fraser voted in favor of the motion, and Ald. W. Cunningham, R. Allison and H. S. Elmes against. Mayor Corner then voted in favor of it.

Trail City Council however, accepted its share of the District No. 11 school costs, with the proviso that any benefits in the way of additional Government school grants be deducted from Trail's portion.

A Town Planning Commission Bylaw was also introduced to the Rossland Council, and given first and second readings. The Bylaw authorizes that a Town Planning Commission be set up to assist the Council in an advisory capacity in carrying out the Town Planning Act.

That an agreement had not yet been reached between members of the Fire Department on the wage schedule and other matters, was reported by Ald. Bacon, Chairman of the Fire, Water and Light Committee.

Application for letter carrier service in the City was moved.

PRINCETON, N.J., March 10 (AP)—Henry W. Safarik, defenceman on the Princeton University hockey team, was suspended today on charges of playing in the Metropolitan and Eastern United States Hockey Leagues under the assumed name of "Lee."

Kenneth Fairman, Director of University Athletics, said the suspension would continue until Safarik's eligibility status is clarified. The action was taken under an Ivy League rule which calls for forfeiture of amateur standing for competing under an assumed name.

The Amazons were fighting fiercely for a second victory over the Redwings, and the Redwings fighting even more fiercely to defeat their opponents. Although there were only three penalties, this is no sign that the game was not rough. The battle still goes on on Baker Street and over coffee cups.

Columbia River Project Arouses High Interest

CRANBROOK, B. C., March 10—Announcement by the Department of Mines and Resources of foundation investigation work along the Kootenay River as part of an international project to utilize the resources of the Columbia River has aroused interest here, though no information is available locally.

According to the announcement, a contract amounting to $25,405 has been let to Western Water Wells of Calgary for exploration of foundation at Wardner, Plumbob and Torrent dam sites on the river, work to start immediately.

Torrent is located in the Skookumchuck District about eight miles South of Canal Flats, Wardner is 20 miles East of Cranbrook and about 40 miles down-river from Torrent, while Plumbob is South and down-river about 10 miles from Wardner.

Some exploration work was done at Wardner last Summer.

The master project is under direction of the International Columbia River Investigation Committee, with the purpose of utilizing the entire ColumbiaRiver system for power, irrigation and flood control.

The Kootenay is the Columbia's most important tributary. It rises in Kootenay National Park and flows Southward into Idaho, passing within a mile of the Columbia's source, which flows Northward to Golden and Revelstoke. The Kootenay weaves some 300 miles and crosses the border twice before joining the Columbia at Castlegar.

Investigation of the Upper Kootenay so far has been made by Dominion water power engineers, and this is the initial awarding of a contract for further work.

Former Ontario Teacher Directs Junior High Show

On Friday night the Capitol Theatre will be the scene of a light operatic production by the Nelson Junior High School Glee Club. The operetta to be presented is entitled "Rumpelstiltzkin," a musical version of the well-known old fairy tale of the same name which has been adapted and set to music by Keith Bissell, an exchange teacher on the Junior High School staff.

Mr. Bissell was formerly music supervisor in the Humbercrest School in Toronto, Ont. He has a Bachelor of Music degree from the University of Toronto and his compositions, which include school operettas, songs, and various piano and orchestral selections, have been played and well received in Ontario. Mr. Bissell recently gave a recital of his own compositions in Trail, under the auspices of the Trail Ladies' Choral Society.

Those working with Mr. Bissell in the direction of the operetta are Miss Rankin and Mrs. Whiteside. Special scenery is being prepared by the school art department under the guidance of B. B. Crawford.

Principal parts in a brightly-costumed cast of 40 are being taken by June Kelley, Nora Solheim, Helen Brader, Shelagh Hopwood, Dawn DeFoe, Dawn Miller, Mike Fraser, Lee Spencer, Brian Roberts, Tony Banks and Peter Godfrey.

Assisting in the program will be the newly-formed school orchestra and a choral group from grade eight.

An added attraction will be a vocal number by Jerry Pickering and a musical comedy skit by Harvey Oxspring and Herb Klein.

$100 PROFIT FROM HIGH SCHOOL SHOW

Net proceeds of the annual High School concert are expected to amount to $100, it was stated Wednesday. The money will be used to further High School activities.

Both afternoon and evening shows ran smoothly ,and at the latter performance a full house saw teachers Miss Barbara Lang and Mrs. Percy Young presented with bouquets by Betty Wassick and Margaret McCosham. The girls, on behalf of those participating in the concert, thanked the teachers, who in turn congratulated the students for their "calm and smooth management."

Notable feature of the show was the fact that directing, staging and scenery were arranged by the students, most capably handled effect being the scenery in "The Romancers"—a garden setting with shrubs, trees and an old stone wall.

Refreshments were enjoyed backstage by the players and stage crew after the evening show.

$65,784 Sought in Japanese Claims In 3 Days Here; $44,814 Wednesday

Property claims involving $48,814 were brought before the Japanese Property Claims Commission in Nelson by six Japanese Wednesday. The figure, twice as large as the previous two-days total, brought the sum requested by 18 Japanese to $65,784.

Saichi Shinmoto, who claimed his real and personal property to be valued at $2743, asked $1682, the difference between the value and the credit given him by the Custodian.

The sum of $778 was sought by Fusajiro Obayashi, who said his real estate was $2350 and his personal property $338. He had received $1900 for his land no credit was given for chattels.

A joint claim for $13,227 was entered by Kanetoshi Morioka and Mrs. Matsuki Morioka. They had received $3958 for real and personal property which they testified was worth $17,873.

Kyumatsu Mori entered a brief asking the difference between the $1830 value he placed on his business and the house and the $812 he had received.

Kozo Shinotakahara and Mrs. Shinotakahara claimed $18,000. They testified that their real estate was worth $31,000, while they had been credited only $14,100, leaving a $16,900 claim. In chattels, both of house and a business block, they sought $1200, the difference between the $2416 value and the $1216 credited.

Russian People Live in Fear Under Reds, Ex-Communist Says

That the Russian people lived in fear under a capitalistic system was the view of John Hladun, author of "They Taught Me Treason," who spoke to a large audience in Capitol Theatre Tuesday night.

Mr. Hladun, who was introduced by John Learmonth, President of the Nelson Board of Trade, is an ex-member of the Communist Party. He is lecturing across Canada under the auspices of the Canadian Club, and after his address here, went on to Trail. Mr. Hladun will also speak in Rossland and Kimberley.

Communism as it is now is still very much of a mystery, Mr. Hladun said, because it was the purpose of the Communists to keep a clear definition of the word as far from the people as possible. "They give the people an idea that the Party is set on abolishing the capitalistic system, to do away with classes and make everyone equal. They made the plan so wonderful that everyone who suffers from some injustice under our present form of government is willing to embrace it."

Members of the Communist Party were radicals, obsessed with an ideal, Mr. Hladun continued. A prospective member was told that religion was "an opium of the people," used to keep them docile so as not to turn against the capitalists. He was told that in Russia there was freedom of religion, but also freedom for all anti-religious factions.

Insight into the workings of Communist leaders in Canada was given by the speaker, who as a party leader did considerable organizing and was later chosen to attend the school for Communists in Moscow. The students, from all parts of the world, were accepted as Soviet citizens, he said.

"Concerning religious freedom, of 1600 churches in Moscow only six functioned owing to heavy taxes. I found the communal farms were essentially correct, but application of the Communists was wrong. The work standard was set by the efficient worker, and the others had to do as well or make less, and the profits did not go back to those who produce.

NO FREEDOM

"This is state capitalism, pure and simple," Mr. Hladun remarked. There is no freedom, for the people live in fear of saying something against the Party and being sent to a labor camp." He added that the world is not now ready to accept Communism, but that it must be done progressively. Perhaps the world would be ready in 1000 years hence.

In conclusion, Mr. Hladun explained the purpose of his mission, which he said was a campaign to abolish Communism, and conditions in Canada that will always give rise to feelings that will accept such a system.

BIGGEST POINTS AGREED ON IN WESTERN UNION

Claims U. S. Will Not Be Asked for Military Aid

BRUSSELS, March 10 (CP)—Agreement in principle has been reached on all outstanding points of the proposed "Western Union" treaty, Fernand van Langehove, chief Belgian delegate to the current five-power conference, told reporters today.

Pierre Elvinger, Luxembourg delegate, said a Drafting Committee has prepared eight articles of the proposed treaty. Four remain to be drafted, he said.

It was understood the articles drafted today included provisions for mutual assistance, machinery for settlement of disagreements arising among the five powers, and economic questions.

Van Langehove denied that the five countries — Britain, France, Belgium, the Netherlands and Luxembourg — might ask the United States to back the proposed union with a guarantee of military aid.

French diplomatic sources in Paris said yesterday the Brussels conference might ask for such a pledge.

Conference sources said British delegates had been authorized by London to yield on their original proposal for a series of bilateral military pacts among the five countries.

The British leaders were said to have accepted the Benelux (Belgium, Netherlands, Luxembourg) counter-proposal for a single, multilateral pact.

In turn, the Benelux powers were reported to have yielded on their initial proposal to limit the alliance to the defence of all five, excluding their colonies.

SEEK FORMULA

A British informant said the delegates were threshing out a formula which would recognize that threats outside Europe by other European powers can be at the same time a threat to the peace of Europe.

A Dutch spokesman said the negotiators had virtually agreed on a plan under which the four countries with colonies would pool the resources of their respective overseas territories for mutual benefit.

BRITISH NEED FOR EXPORTING EMPHASIZED

Will Launch Drive To Increase Exports To Pay for Food

LOOK TO CANADA

By The Canadian Press

The British Government's economic survey, now made public, once again emphasized how vitally necessary it is for that nation to continue increasing exports to maintain even her present living standards.

Post-war purchases in Canada of essential foodstuffs have been made largely on the basis of a Canadian loan of $1,250,000,000 which now is almost exhausted.

Important foreign markets for Britain are becoming saturated with goods and the 1948 export target has been reduced, but an all-out drive is to be launched to increase exports to Canada to pay for the large quantities of food purchased here.

Last year's sales by Britain to Canada, about £40,000,000 ($160,000,000) are expected to increase to £70,000,000 in 1948. Of this hoped-for total much emphasis is placed on the sale of textiles, especially cotton. This is a good field since Canada's imports of chief textiles from the United States last year, not including raw materials, was more than $150,000,000.

Canada, also faced with the problem of disappearing United States dollars, must look to sources outside the U. S. for the things she is not yet producing herself. There is ample evidence that Britain does produce the things Canada needs.

Although the situation looks "ready-made" for both countries, there is the complaint by Canadian importers that British prices are too high.

Recurrent rumors of sterling devaluation, although denied by the British Government, when added to what must be a problem not only for Canadian importers but for U. S. importers as well, may be an indicator of coming events.

Denies Dying Firm Set Up By Liberal Party

REGINA, March 10 (CP)—Peter S. Deis, Regina barrister and principal shareholder of Acme Dye and Chemicals Ltd., today denied Premier T. C. Douglas' charge that the firm was a dummy corporation set-up by the Liberal party to bolster campaign funds during the administration of former Liberal Premier W. J. Patterson.

The company "never at any time made any contributions to any political party," Mr. Deis said, nor had he ever been Secretary of any Party organization.

Mr. Douglas said the firm was a "dummy" corporation whose sole function was selling the Government aniline dye for coloring tax-free gasoline for farm equipment. From 1940 to 1942 the Company sold 20,000 pounds to the Saskatchewan Tab Commission at $5.80 a pound—$4.44 more than the C.C.F. Government now was paying, he said.

Mr. Douglas claimed the Government had paid $69,160 more for the dye than necessary and two letters from a Winnipeg firm offering the dye for "considerably less" were "very conveniently" missing from Government files.

Mr. Deis' statement said the actual facts of the company's dealings with the Government were at "complete variance" with the Premier's statement, and that the facts were "readily available."

"Acme Dye and Chemicals Ltd., never at any time made any contributions to any political party," he said. "I, personally, have made contributions to the Liberal Party, and propose to continue to do so."

CZECH FRIEND OF DEMOCRACIES . . .

Popular Dr. Masaryk Falls to Death

PRAGUE, March 10 (CP)—Dr. Jan Masaryk, colorful 61-year-old Czechoslovak Foreign Minister and warm friend of democratic leaders the world over, was killed today in a fall from a third-floor window in his Ministry offices, just 16 days after the Communist coup in the Czech Government.

It was officially announced that Masaryk, son of the founder of the Czech Republic, had committed suicide "in a moment of nervous disturbance." The sparse Government announcement attributed the statesman's reason to illness and insomnia.

A tight censorship was suddenly enforced after the Government radio broadcast the news of Masaryk's death. Details of whether the Czech leader had died instantly in the plunge were lacking. Neither was there any word whether he had left a suicide note.

Vaclav Nosek, Communist Interior Minister and one of the key figures in the Red purge, told the Czech Parliament that Masaryk threw himself from his window about 6 a.m. today. His body was found half an hour later.

Nosek said that previously Masaryk had been reading letters and telegrams from Western Europe and the United States, expressing disapproval of his action in accepting a cabinet post.

Masaryk's acceptance of office in the Communist-dominated Government set up two weeks ago surprised Western observers.

His flat endorsement several days later of close co-operation with Russia, coupled with an "I am with you" message to the Army and to his "Czech and Slovak brothers," however, seemed to most qualified observers to mean that he had embarked on a definite course of action. There were two schools of thought as to what that course might be.

One felt he was playing a most dangerous double game.

The other felt he had lent himself to the new Government, in the possible hope that he could steer it on a middle course and bring Moscow and the West together in the peace he always insisted must be maintained.

His death recalled that Dr. Prokop Drtina, the Minister of Justice before the Communist Coup, was found under a window outside his home two days after the Communists took over. Prague police said he had attempted suicide and suffered a serious head injury.

News of Masaryk's suicide caused great disturbance among members of the Government.

The official statement issued by Prime Minister Klement Gottwald's office added: "Neither on the day before his tragic death nor yesterday evening did Dr. Masaryk show any signs of mental depression, on the contrary, he was full of life and of his usual optimism."

First reaction of the authorities was to cut off all communications from abroad, but these were restored after the official announcement.

Officials of the Ministry of Foreign Affairs said that no further details concerning Masaryk's death could be divulged.

The Interior Ministry ordered all flags on public buildings to be flown at half-mast.

The order was immediately carried out and black flags of mourning appeared on private houses.

The general attitude of the people here was described by one observer as "stunned but cautious."

Masaryk's last public appearance was in the old town square Sunday when he attended a combined celebration of the 98th birthday anniversary of his late father and the 30th anniversary of a battle in which the Czech and Russian troops fought side by side.

Photographs taken then made him appear harassed, haggard and worried.

His body was found in the palace courtyard at about 8 a.m. It was carried away quickly. Neighbors said the lights in Masaryk's offices burned all night.

Masaryk became Foreign Minister of the Czech Government-in-exile July 8, 1940. After his country was freed from the Germans in 1946 he returned there and has held the Foreign Affairs post since.

A non-party man, he was retained as Foreign Minister when the Communists took over the Government on Feb. 25.

ATTLEE STATEMENT

LONDON, March 10 (AP)—Prime Minister Attlee said today that Foreign Minister Jan Masaryk of Czechoslovakia may have killed himself because "he could not endure to live in the suffocating atmosphere of totalitarianism when all that he had striven for was being ruthlessly destroyed.'

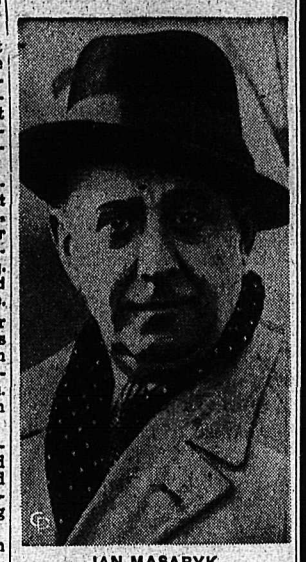
Attlee specified clearly his statement was a "personal one."

In the House of Commons Foreign Secretary Bevin said, "We do not know what really has occurred except that he has passed."

"But Jan Masaryk's name and that of his father will always live in the affectionate memory of the British people."

Winston Churchill, wartime Prime Minister, said:

"It is a heavy loss, but one cannot help rejoicing that the famous name he bears will continue to be an inspiration to the peoples of Czechoslovakia."



JAN MASARYK

Stunned amazement characterized the reaction in Western countries to news of Masaryk's death.

The British Foreign Office said the gay, wise-cracking diplomat was driven to suicide by Communist betrayal of Czechoslovakia.

A Foreign Office spokesman told a press conference:

"I can only say that nothing could more clearly demonstrate the character of recent events in that country (Czechoslovakia) and the betrayal of that country by a small minority taking its orders from abroad, than the death by his own hand of the son of the late President of Czechoslovakia . . ."

Anthony Eden, wartime Foreign Secretary and long a close friend of Masaryk, commented: "This is indeed a tragedy. He inherited a tradition of freedom to which he could never be false. He has now given his life in its cause. His name will always be remembered wherever free men meet . . ."

The news of Masaryk's death was received by a Parliamentary Labor Party meeting in what was described as "an appalled silence." In Parliamentary circles the same sense of shock was registered everywhere.

In all Western capitals, newspapers devoted most of their front pages to the story, and many were quick to react editorially.

Old friends and associates of Masaryk in Washington also were shocked.

The Czechoslovak Consul General in Sydney, Australia, declared Masaryk's death "is not suicide, it is plain murder."

"I had news from London several days ago telling me Masaryk was practically a prisoner," he said. "I was expecting to hear that he had resigned or escaped from the country."

DEMANDS U.N. ACTION

LAKE SUCCESS, March 10—(AP) — Dr. Jan Papanek, Czechoslovak delegate to the United Nations, demanded today that the U.N. Security Council investigate the Communist coup in Czechoslovakia.

Dr. Papanek told a hurriedly-called press conference at U.N. headquarters that he had submitted to Trygve Lie, U.N. Secretary-General, a formal demand that the Security Council consider the Feb. 20 change in the Czechoslovak Government.

Dr. Papanek was a friend of Jan Masaryk, who fell to his death in Prague today.

Papanek said:

"I represented the Czechoslovak Government that existed before Feb. 20. I was never a representative of the new regime. I am not resigning my office (as Czechoslovak delegate to the United Nations).

"It is upon the members of the United Nations to decide whether they will recognize the regime in Prague now or recognize the Republic as it was before Feb. 20. But I will not go out and leave the post empty."

He charged that Soviet Russia engineered the Communist coup. The coup had terrorized the Czechoslovak people.

Russia had violated the independence of Czechoslovakia and Premier Stalin was personally insincere in going back on promises to President Benes to recognize the sovereignty of the Republic.

Will Redraft New Czech Constitution

PRAGUE, March 10 (CP)—Premier Klement Gottwald told Parliament today at its first session since the Communist coup that the new Czechoslovak constitution will be redrafted.

Gottwald outlined the Government's action program as follows:

1. To realize the most urgent tasks.

2. Realization of the demands of the trade unions and the farmer organizations made Feb. 22 and 28.

3. Measures to destroy all conspiracies directed against the regime.

Teleprinter Circuits in Prague Disturbed

PRAGUE, March 10 (AP)—The leased teleprinter circuits of leading foreign news agencies in Prague were halted for 30 minutes today, without explanation.

The disturbance occurred while the lines were busy with news of the death of Foreign Minister Jan G. Masaryk.

The Ministry of Posts said there was a "local line disturbance", but service on the Associated Press lines through Nuernberg to Frankfurt, Germany, was not restored for more than two hours.

The United Press, Agence France-Presse and Reuters were similarly affected. The military teleprinted line leading from the United States Embassy to United States Army Headquarters in Frankfurt also was interrupted.

The Ministry of Posts' contracts for leasing teleprinter circuits in Czechoslovakia contain a clause saying that in times of disturbance, the Government may take over any such circuits for "the safety of the public."

Sutherland Favored Gas Rate Compromise

Approval of the original Gas Committee recommendation calling for a straight charge of $2.50 per 1000 cubic feet for all gas used by Nelson consumers was voted by Aldermen B. C. Affleck, G. C. Wallach and J. W. Ringrose at City Council Monday night. Previously it had been stated that Ald. Alex Sutherland, instead of Ald. Ringrose, had voted in favor of the recommendation.

Ald. Sutherland offered a "compromise" motion, seeking "something between the extreme high and the extreme low," suggesting $2.50 per 1000 cubic feet for the first 2000 cubic feet used and $1.75 per 1000 cubic feet thereafter. This motion was passed, and the suggested increase submitted to the Public Utilities Commission for approval.

Helicopter To Become an Asset To Air Rescue, G. H. Lee Tells Kinsmen

The helicopter becoming a major factor in land rescue work was envisioned by G. H. Lee before the Nelson Kinsmen Club at the Hume Tuesday night.

Mr. Lee was speaking from a background of air rescue work in which he was engaged while in the Air Force. Principal of the Nelson High School here, Mr. Lee was Administration Officer of Land Rescue, Western Command for two and a half years.

The speaker related many case histories of wrecks to which he personally led rescue parties. He recalled that the work was "intensely interesting" and traced some of the developments which had been written into rescue journals as the result of the findings of two and a half years in the work.

Mr. Lee stressed the difficulty of sighting aircraft down in timbered terrain and cited from his experiences to prove his point. Outstanding piece of location and rescue work was that of a Liberator bomber which had gone down in the Coastal range. Mr. Lee told the meeting that he and a party of searchers first were transported 18 miles through a rough trail into the general locality of the crash and afterwards had to follow creek beds and snow slides to reach the scene of the crash.

Mr. Lee attributed the efficiency of rescue crews to the adoption of the use of photographs of the country in which the plane was believed lost as reference by competent parties combing the terrain. The use of pictures and other phases were accepted as standard method for rescue, the speaker said.

Personnel of a search party should always include people of the particular community where a lost aircraft was down, Mr. Lee emphasized. It was his opinion that men familiar with the lay of the land were an invaluable asset in a search and he suggested that a nucleus for such groups should be assembled in populated sections of the province.

In relation to rescue work in the future Mr. Lee predicted that the helicopter would play a major role. The increased visability afforded by the craft plus its revolutionary manouvreability would cut down on the time and size of rescue crews required to find downed planes, it was felt.

Al Jeffery, Jack Stuart, Don Porteous, G. Price and Bert Wickstrom were guests.

The Doctor

By HERMAN N. BUNDESEN, M.D.

Worry Said to Be Most Common Cause of Inability to Sleep

Many people find it difficult to get a good night's rest. Either they have trouble getting to sleep in the first place, or else after a few hours slumber they awaken to spend the rest of the night tossing and turning.

Sleeplessness or insomnia is just a symptom. Hence, before much can be done to help the situation, a thorough study by a physician is needed to find the cause. Once the cause is found, the physician is in a position to take the proper measures to correct the condition.

COMMON CAUSE

There is little doubt that the most common cause of sleeplessness is worry. It is not always easy to eliminate the cause of worry and it does little good to tell a person to stop worrying when he has something to worry about. Nonetheless, worry — even in a good cause—can become a habit. With cooperation between doctor and patient, it is possible to cultivate a more serene frame of mind in regard to the numberless little anxieties which so many people seem to take to bed with them.

Of course, sleeplessness may be due to a number of simple things, such as keeping the bedroom too warm, not having enough fresh air in the room, or having too many or too few covers on the bed. Overeating late at night is one of the commonest causes of insomnia in the middle-aged. Sleeping in a room in which mirrors reflect lights into the eyes, or sleeping on surroundings that are noisy, are other factors.

Then, too, illness of one type or another may contribute to sleeplessness because these illnesses are accompanied by pain or other symptoms.

TEMPORARY DISCOMFORT

In many instances in which there is temporary nervousness or discomfort, the doctor may suggest the use of sleeping drugs. These drugs, used wisely under the direction of the physician, are an important aid to the patient. They are often used before operations to save the patient from a night of worry and fear.

Just as these drugs can be of great benefit they can be equally harmful when they are abused. In fact, taken too frequently, or in too large amounts, they may be extremely dangerous. It has been found that people who have acquired the habit of taking these preparations often go to sleep just as well when a harmless pill is substituted for the sleeping drug.

So, if you are having trouble getting to sleep, consult your physician. If he thinks sleep-inducing pills are necessary to tide you over, he will prescribe the proper ones in the right dose; otherwise, leave them alone.

Complete Mill On Santiago's Dolomi Property

VANCOUVER, B.C., March 10 — Construction of a milling plant with a capacity of 100 tons per day has been completed on the Dolomi property of Santiago Mines Limited, according to an announcement by R. Crowe-Swords, President. Tuning up and test runs will be completed and actual production of gold bullion started on April 3. The mine has indicated ore reserves of 2,100,000, averaging $15 per ton, or a total of approximately $31,000,000, he said. Cost of mining and milling is not expected to exceed $8 per ton. The plant is so constructed that additional 100-ton units can be installed at will, and the company plans to steadily increase operations until 1000 tons of ore is being treated daily.

Santiago has also shipped concentrating equipment to its "Bosun" mine in the Slocan. This mine has actually been in operation for some time, the ore being shipped to the Consolidated Smelters at Trail. It has been averaging better than $100 per ton in silver, lead and zinc. Various of these carloads of high grade have exceeded that figure by a considerable margin.

Santiago Mines, therefore, will bring two mining plants to production almost simultaneously, the Dolomi on or about April 3 and the Bosun about June. Cash will be available for all immediate needs through an arrangement recently made with U.S. and Canadian interests.

"The Authority on Authorities"

A THREE-WAY PLAY

THERE ARE frequent plays which offer two chances of success. One chance would be through the direct operation of the play itself. The other would come after its failure, from inviting a mistake by one of the defenders. On rare occasions a three-way play is encountered. First it may work by itself, bringing your contract home. Second, if it fails, one defender may make a particular error. Third, if he does not, his partner then has a chance to slip and present your contract to you.

North: ♠ 7 6 3 ♥ 10 7 4 ♦ K 9 8 6 ♣ Q 10 3

West: ♠ 10 5 ♥ Q 9 6 3 ♦ A 5 ♣ 9 8 6 4 2

East: ♠ J 9 2 ♥ K 8 5 ♦ Q 4 3 2 ♣ K J 7

South: ♠ A K Q 8 4 ♥ A J 2 ♦ J 10 7 ♣ A 5

(Dealer: East. North - South vulnerable.)

East	South	West	North
Pass	1 ♠	Pass	Pass
2 ♦	2 ♠	Pass	3 ♠
Pass	4 ♠

East later regretted deeply that he had not passed the 1-Spade, but his side had a part score of 80; and that lured him, in the hope that West had passed almost enough to bid.

In response to the diamond call, West led the A. But when he got the 2 from East and South played the J, West switched to the club 4. The 10 from dummy brought forth the J and A. Thereupon the declarer, Fenton Johnston, one of the best in New York's University Club, went to work. With a probability of one loser each in all suits except spades, he first took out the trumps in three rounds and then made his real try for game.

It happened to be a three-way play. It was a finesse of the diamond J. If this worked, he would be home. It didn't, however, and now the second chance was at hand. If East would only lead a club, either his good K or a smaller one, two hearts could be discarded on a club and a diamond. East saw that himself, so returned a heart, the 5. South played low and let the Q win.

Now came the third chance. A club return would beat the contract, but a heart would assure it. West guessed wrong, leading the heart 3. That trapped the K, so diamonds furnished a discard of the club 5 and the rubber was in the bag.

Post-Pregnancy Exercises Vital If Figure Isn't to Be Ruined

It's quite difficult for the new mother to ppreciate the urgent need for post-pregnancy exercises. For one reason, after Junior arrives she feels so miraculously flat. That is, right at first. But the overly stretched muscles, if not restored to tone, tend to become flabby and take on fat that expands the figure. Five to six weeks later the new mother is horrified to find her measurements expanding! She had counted on nature taking up the slack.

Secondly, the suggestion that exercise is needed right then is certainly one we'd rather sleep through. It does seem too much to ask! But since it is either put the tone back in those middle muscles . . . or lose one's figure entirely . . . exercise it is!

When is the best time to start? The minute your doctor allows them. Some doctors recommend simple muscular movements a day or two after the baby arrives. Others believe it advisable to wait until the tenth day. Follow the doctor's advice but do not postpone them once he has given his consent.

This set includes some for beginners, and some for those who did not begin on time.

The simple knee-chest exercise is one of the first exercises allowed. The purpose is to help restore the organs to normal position and to stimulate circulation. Stand on knees on bed, knees well separated— at least 12 inches apart. Then rest chest on bed, with arms bent, head resting on folded arms. This posture should be held for five minutes at a time, and assumed night and morning.

Another mild beginner is to raise head and shoulders off the bed from a lying-down position. Fold arms across chest and lift head and neck off bed a few inches. Very gradually try to come up a bit higher. If normally strong, three weeks after the baby is born you should be able to come up from lying flat to a sitting position . . . arms folded.

The third week the following exercise is safe for normal cases. Lie on back, knees flexed, feet on floor, arms down at sides. The exercise is to raise hips off the floor to a straight line, as arms are lifted and swung back on floor overhead. Bring arms back to position and hips back to floor. Repeat three times, gradually increasing the number of counts, and later add a vigorous up and in pull with the abdominal muscles with hips in the drawn-up position.

Love Problems

By JANE ATKINSON

Stop, Look and Listen Before Continuing to Go With This Man

Dear Miss. Atkinson:

I am a young girl of 18, and recently I met a boy who says he is 21 and unmarried. I love him very much, and he says he loves me.

After seeing him a few times, his friends tell me he is married. At first, they said he was single. Theykeep changing all the time, and so I don't know what to believe. He says he is single and doesn't want any girl but me. What should I believe? I was always taught not to go with married men and I don't if I know.

"WORRIED"

Dear "Worried:"

If you girls just wouldn't be so much of a hurry to say "I love you," you'd get into far fewer difficulties. There's nothing more foolish than for a girl to tell a man she loves him, and listen to his protestations of love, while she knows as little about him as you evidently do about this one.

I advise you to stop, look and listen very carefully before you go any further in this affair. No man with serious and sincere intentions toward a girl would permit such a situation as you describe to go on for a minute. If you really want to be on the safe side, you'll stop associating with him. I don't think you'll get anything but trouble out of playing around with him.

Canada Helps With Fertilizer Exports

Canada's present production of nitrogen chemicals for fertilizer purposes is approximately 100,000 tons of cyanamid, 180,000 tons of sulphate of ammonia, 250,000 tons of ammonium nitrate, 100,000 tons of 16-20 ammonium phosphate, and 75,000 tons of 11-48 ammonium phosphate.

The domestic requirement is only about 12,500 tons of cyanamid, 50,000 tons of sulphate of ammonia, 30,000 tons of ammonium nitrate, 12,000 tons of 16-20 ammonium phosphate, and 55,000 tons of 11-48 ammonium phosphate.

The large production, most of which is produced by the C. M. & S., in excess of domestic requirements is exported under allocation of International Emergency Food Council of the United Nations.

Canada is therefore helping considerably in supplying hungry countries with nitrogen fertilizers for producing food crops. Furthermore, Canada is one of the few countries in the world now with ample nitrogen fertilizer for domestic requirements.

Fortunately, Canada's production of nitrogen fertilizer is of the three forms needed for agricultural purposes—nitrate, ammoniacal and organic. The cyanamid provides synthetic organic nitrogen; the sulphate of ammonia, ammonium phosphate; and ammonium nitrate, ammoniacal nitrogen; and the nitrate in ammonium nitrate, nitrate nitrogen.

Mrs. Britain Swaps

The women of Britain are trying all ways and means of coping with the clothing coupon problem—latest idea is the swap shop, run on the lines of their clothing exchange. If Mrs. Britain has a coat, suit or dress which is still good, but which she doesn't like or has ceased to fit her, she takes it along to the swap shop and has it valued. There it is given an allowance of "points", and its value assessed. After four days, Mrs. Britain may use her points certificate to fit herself out with a garment which she really does want of the same point value. No money is paid and no coupons surrendered, since all the clothes are second-hand.

The swap shop is run by a Birmingham firm who make it pay by charging a fee for the points valuation. Two attractive models are there to give expert advice on the type of clothes best suited to Mrs. Britain's face and figure. The swap shop's made a hit—around 500 women go there every day. When Mrs. Britain buys a garment these days, and surrenders coupons, she chooses it very carefully, but just occasionally she makes a mistake—the swap shop gives her a chance to put it right, and no precious clothes or coupons are wasted.

Misquotation

The Saskatchewan student who improved his case in an argument by quoting an alleged message from Bernard Shaw, only to be rebutted by a public statement from Mr. Shaw that he had said no such thing, obviously has a lot to learn about the art of misquotation. The only people who can be misquoted with tolerable safety are the dead and imaginary characters of one's own creation. Mr. Shaw does not belong in either category.

Even the presumably dead must be quoted with gingerly care. Some time ago, during a lively controversy over the future government of a British colony in the Far East, a man wrote to a London newspaper that if only Sir XY were still alive he would settle the argument speedily in favor of policy B. Sir XY had been Governor of the colony 50 years ago. He wrote to the newspaper from his country retreat saying that he was still very much alive at 96, and disapproved of policy B entirely.

On the whole, the best imaginary quotations are supplied by characters who are themselves fictional. The politician who invented a founder of his party and quoted him freely on suitable occasions had an almost foolproof if immoral idea. It is even possible to engage in this sort of deception quite lavishly. There was once a man who made a living writing the biographies of imaginary Dutch botanists for encyclopaedias. Following this example, the Saskatchewaan misquoter could have attributed his message to a Chinese philosopher named Chung with little fear of detection.

If he insists on using bogus quotations from live contemporaries, he ought to choose people less famous and wide-awake than Bernard Shaw. Mr. Shaw's lightest word has been news for many years, and still is. If someone quotes him in Timbuctoo to the effect that Shakespeare was a greater dramatist after all, the remark will go around the world and Mr. Shaw will spot it. The moral of it is: If you must misquote, choose someone your own size.

Time for Action on Interference Feels Radio Fan

To the Editor:

Sir—It was with keen interest that I read in your valuable paper this morning the letter you had received from Mr. Albert Brown, re the matter of local radio interference.

Frankly, I have toyed with the idea of presenting my views for some little time. However, being more or less of a new resident of Nelson, I have suffered in silence. Thanks to Mr. Brown, I feel that there must be many more good citizens who will raise their voices to his and mine, and recall the many instances when only through the efforts of the good lady of the house, they have been restrained from committing murder, mayhem, assault and battery, and all those terrible things which appear, underlined in the Big Book.

From past experience, my wife and I cannot recall ever having lived in a city which caused so much trouble to radio reception. I recall the evening very well which Mr. Brown has mentioned. However, I can go a little better, I think. Sunday usually is the day when we appreciate our radio more than any other; but when one has to suffer from 10 o'clock in the morning until 9 o'clock at night because Mr. A is using an electric drill, Mr. B shaves in time for church, using of course one of those horrible weapons known as a vibrator type electric razor, which he probably got for 17 coupons and a dime, and then some energetic housewife who works in the office all week, decides at night to vacuum the rugs, or catch up on the family wash.

All these little gadgets which electrical science has given the backyard mechanic or the tardy housewife, cause interference to radio reception. However, something can be done about them; the city can boast of several excellent appliance stores, the gentlemen who operate these establishments know the product they handle, and too, some of them are very excellent radio technicians, who are always ready to advise and assist, in any way they can. A simple gadget can be procured with their help, for a matter of a very few cents, which, when inserted in the electrical outlet, will eliminate all radio interference from that particular outlet.

However, from information which has come to me from men who follow the electrical trade, the poor householder is not entirely at fault; it appears that we have quite a number of transformers which require attention, to say nothing of wiring to and from the transformers, from which the insulation has long since deteriorated and fallen off. On that point, Mr. Editor, I shall say no more—but quite definitely a licensed operator in this city has a real complaint. I am quite sure that the Department of Transport should be solicited by the City to make a thorough check of all interference, and, might I add, their findings should not be committed "to the files".

Your valuable paper reported not so very long ago that Nakusp had authorized a letter to be written to the authorities, seeking their assistance. If officialdom at Nakusp can see the need, why cannot we?

Yours very truly,
H. SUDLOW.

D. P., Trail—My husband pays $5 a month to the Blue Cross Medical Association. Is this deductible from his income as medical expenses?

No. The Blue Cross payments are insurance and are not medical expenses. Only medical expenses over 4% of gross income are deductible.

M. D. W., Nelson—Can a widower marry his wife's sister in Canada?

Yes. There are no regulations against such a marriage.

Reader, Blewett—Could you please tell me where Avak the Great is, and in which city?

We have no information at present on the whereabouts of Avak the Great. We understand the Armenian faith healer's visit to the United States was for a limited time. His application for an extension faced rejection by U. S. immigration authorities, which would necessitate his return to his native land.

Your Future

You can make headway at this time if you are energetic. The year ahead may, at first glance, seem somewhat disappointing and unhappy. Exercise caution in all financial matters, and neither lend, borrow nor stand guarantor.

Modern Manners

Occasions when a man offers his arm to a woman as a matter of course are in taking her in at a formal dinner or supper at a ball; when he is an usher at a wedding, or even when walking across a ballroom. When walking in a march at a ball, young people often walk side by side, not arm-in-arm. At a public ball, during the grand march, however, arm-in-arm is the rule.

THE OLD GARDENING-WOMAN

Rock for my bedspring;
Loam for my bed!
Let me down firmly;
No jar feel the Dead.

Let this old seed-case
Fall as it may—
My soul, the quick seed,
Will be light-years away.

But quilt me with flowers—
My flesh and their petal
Shall sink to one dust
As the long years settle.

My life had its bloom;
It fruited—it nourished—
Now lay me away
In the earth I have cherished.

Let's continue to bask while we can in that little burst of sunshine which we conjured up yesterday out of Western Europe's efforts at rehabilitation.

Take the Brussels Conference among Britain, France, Belgium, the Netherlands and Luxembourg which already has laid down the political and legal basis of a Western European economic and military union. There are of course many implications in this development but to me the most important is the tacit recognition that self-help must be the essential feature of peace and plenty.

Several things have helped bring about the realization that self-help is the real answer to the problem. One is the growing fear of the Westward advance of Communism which can best be combatted by economic rehabilitation. Another probably has been the stern scrutiny which the United States Congress has been giving foreign aid proposals. Then recently a fresh element of hope has been injected into the situation by an improvement in crop prospects.

One of the hardest hit of all the countries is Britain, and she has taken the realistic attitude that while she must have outside help yet recovery must depend mainly upon herself.

Yesterday we saw further evidence of this determination. Sir Stafford Cripps, Chancellor of the Exchequer, summed up Britain's outlook for the coming year in a White Paper which made it clear that the already-hard-pinched public would have less to eat and wear. However, while "the year is bound to be one of great anxiety . . . we can help to make it the first year of the great upward turn in the European economic recovery . . . .

"This year will beyond doubt be dominated by the decisions of the United States Congress on the grant of aid to Europe for reconstruction."

It's interesting to note that Sir Stafford was speaking of American aid for Europe in general. We are warranted in assuming he had in mind that continental recovery is vital to British rehabilitation for the simple reason that the continent is Britain's best customer—and she must live by exports.

Where Reporters Look More Like Detectives

By NORMAN CRIBBENS
Canadian Press Staff Writer

LONDON, March 10 (CP) — Along the Thames embankment, almost in the shadow of Big Ben and directly facing the swirling river, is a small, green door set in a high stone wall.

On the other side is Scotland Yard—sprawling warren of buildings wherein energies of 16,000 policemen are directed towards capture of every type of wrong-doer.

The green door opens directly into a small room full of people who look more like detectives than detectives usually do. They are crime reporters—the flying squad of Fleet Street.

They sit around a table piled with rumpled newspapers. Some wear hats set at an angle, some are in shirt sleeves, some are scribbling furiously while others gesticulate inside telephone boxes.

Here facts trickling down through public relations officers from the big men of the yard are turned into headlines.

In a room just above the reporters sits Scott of Scotland Yard—Sir Harold Scott, Commissioner of the metropolitan police. Large-built, with thick black hair and merry blue eyes, he never has walked a beat, never solved a crime, yet as an organizer he is recognized as one of the best brains of the yard.

In some of the other rooms are Deputy Commander George Rawlings—the man who is supposed to know everybody in London; Acting Superintendent Bob Fabian—the man who "never gives up"; Finger-Print Expert Fred Cherrill and his assistant Harold Birch.

CRIME KEEPS THEM BUSY

These and a score of other celebrated crook-chasers wander daily in and out of the yard. Their working hours range from eight to 18 hours a day.

For the amount of work they do their salaries are moderate. Superintendents earn between £15 ($60) and £18 a week; Chief Inspectors from £9 to £12 10s; Detectives from £7 to £12.

BRANDON, Man.(CP)—Brandon Consumers, complaining about the obnoxious odor of gas here, have been told they have to put up with it. Brandon's gas is manufactured from coal, and recent coal-mine strikes forced the utilities commission to accept a substitute with high sulphur content.

. . . Caught in the Ice Pack
. . . When Wharf Went A-Sailing

Various radio broadcasts I've heard, and the Halifax dispatches I have seen, regarding the Honduran freighter Everagra, caught in and disabled by pack ice off Nova Scotia, and now at Halifax after rescue, have alike failed to indicate the origin of the ice pack.

The snatches I heard over the radio first rather suggested to me the possibility the location was contiguous to Cape Breton Island, perhaps, even in the Strait of Canso—it was said to be 125 miles Northeast of Halifax—but the final dispatches state the 3700-ton freight carrier was 150 miles East of Halifax when the ice closed in around her. That would put the floating ice out in the Atlantic at least 100 miles from the nearest land.

It is interesting to speculate on the origin of that ice field, which consisted of loose ice, that is to say, of ice cakes or broken pieces of ice floe.

While the Winter traffic lanes across the Atlantic are purposely well to the South of the Summer lanes, to avoid the iceberg zone, the main drift of bergs Southward is commonly expected in the Spring. I think it is too early for Arctic ice to have appeared. Anyway, bergs have not been mentioned, but only pack ice.

Ice will build up readily from a "starting sheet" about the way refined metal will build up from starting sheets in the electrolytic tanks at Tadanac, and in high latitudes, after the mercury gets low, the first calm night will provide the essential starting sheet in all sheltered areas, including channels between ice fields. Once there is an ice floe, it will extend rapidly even against wind, as well as thickens, and different ice fields will join. That is up North.

PROBABLY OF SHORE ORIGIN

But on the open ocean, in navigable latitudes, there is never the placid surface to freeze. What freezing there is must be along the shoes, or in contained areas, where a few motionless hours will fabricate the starting sheet. Once started, the shore ice will build up all Winter. The tides lift these shore ice sheets(and drop them, and if the winds are in the right direction they will go out to sea, while new ice is built up in the old moulds.

At this time of year, brown ice cakes must be bobbing on the tides all around Nova Scotia , brown because they are now melting, and their content of suspended silt—remember, they were formed out of muddy tide-water—is producing a mud covering at the surface of each cake. I used to see them in our little harbor of Mud Creek any hard Winter when I was a boy. There were always some of them stranded after a tide.

It would take a rather peculiar coordination of varying winds over a considerable stretch of time, I would imagine, to produce a concentration of shoe ice 100 miles out at sea. Ordinarily one would expect it to be completely dispersed.

Perhaps the belt of ice cakes didn't look hard to cross when the Everagra entered it; perhaps there was a mist; perhaps a change of wind drove the pack ice together after the freighter was committed and couldn't back out.

In any event, it took wind to cause the ice to exert a damaging pressure on the ship's external mechanism and on its steel hull.

Happily the weather ship St. Stephen, heading for her Northern station, arrived in response to the S.O.S., and the ice pack opened sufficiently to let her penetrate to the crippled freighter, and pull her out of her jail-yard, so the tug Grenadier could tow her 150 miles to Halifax.

While it is clear that the Honduran ship must have encountered very unusual conditions, to get jammed in loose pack ice out on the ocean, it is not a rare occurrence for a vessel to get trapped in an ice field in an enclosed area, such, for instance, as Minas Basin.

Whether an ice field remains in place and retains its form, in contact with the shore, depends, as I have indicated, on winds and tides. They may cooperate to detach it and send it roving, even early in the Winter, when it is one great glistening white ice sheet.

SCHOONER CAUGHT IN SHEET

Such an ice field I have seen make its appearance on the horizon, on Minas Basin, credited supposedly to Cobequid Bay, the most Easterly corner of that inland sea, where it makes its greatest penetration into Nova Scotia's roughly triangular land mass; and move Southward, and after a day or so, Westward, into the zone of influence of Minas Gut, the 10-to-14 mile wide gap connecting with the Bay of Fundy, which merges with the ocean.

And the interesting thing to us observers in the Blomidon school district,' where I was a male schoolma'am, was that one of our skippers—or possibly an outside skipper—was making a last run from Parrsboro', on the North side of the Gut, to our little Mill Creek haven to lie up for the Winter, and time and tide brought the floating ice field and the schooner together, and there before our eyes the schooner was wedged in the middle of the ice field for a couple of days, as the sheet worked its way along the foot of Cape Blomidon, to eventually "round the Cape," and get sucked away by the powerful tide in the Gut.

Oddly, I can't remember what schooner it was—we had three, the Blackbird, Linnet and Golden Light, beside the strictly Summer pleasure schooner, the Naiad—but I think it was the Linnet, captained by Hib Green. Anyway, the schooner escaped from the clutch of the ice sheet when it disintegrated in the turbulent Gut, and got into some little cove at the outer end of the Gut, near "Cape Seckenecter," which was the way our captains pronounced Chignecto, and lay up there.

Conditions were not uniform from year to year. The normal Winter in Nova Scotia had a mid-season partial break-up during the "January thaw." From my home town, most Winters we would see the marsh lands about the Cornwallis River sheeted in white, for part of the Winter anyway. But some severe Winters the ice sheet was much more than nominal.

POLITICAL WHARVES

When Laurier got into power, the Maritimes, with four cabinet ministers—including three top-notchers, Fielding, Blair, and Davies, and in addition, Dr. F. W. Borden of my home county—came in for a great spree of political "fence-building," in the shape of every public work for which an excuse could be found.

I remember hearing the vivid Bergeron, of Montreal, describe one of these public works in Yarmouth County, where the Liberals built a wharf on a lake, and then cut a channel to connect it with salt water—"and the water ran out and did not come back."

Kings County came in for its share of new wharves. My home town still had its fully serviceable wharves on Mud Creek, but Dr. Borden had a new one built a mile from town on the dyke along the Cornwallis River; and the long tidal flats at the foot of Cape Blomidon also got one, a very long structure. In each case the local Liberal chairman was clerk of the works during building, and later became wharfinger, for a very slight traffic.

No doubt the wharves were well and truly built, but the ice sheet on the Cornwallis River area didn't seen to know it.

The very first Spring, the Cornwallis ice sheet caught one of its corners on the new wharf on the dykes, and planed it off the bank with neatness and dispatch, and took it out into the Basin, and never more was it seen.

A new wharf was promptly built in the same exposed location. Whether history repeated itself in later years, I cannot testify. But "them wuz the days!"

June Allyson, Peter Lawford Capture Another Picture in Salesmanship

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD, March 10 (AP) — A clever bit of salesmanship has resulted in another co-starring picture for June Allyson and Peter Lawford.

Frank Sinatra was slated to star in a musicalized remake of "The Shop Around the Corner." When Lawford heard that Sinatra couldn't do the film, he rounded up June Allyson and Director Chuck Walters. The "Good News" trio wired Producer Joe Pasternak in Sun Valley to hold the picture for them. It is scheduled after Lawford's "Vespers in Vienna" and June's "The Three Musketeers."

Peggy Lee looks set for singing specialties in "Words and Music" and perhaps an M.G.M. contract. It's about time—the gal is a looker and is fast becoming the country's most popular girl singer . . .

Explains Wanton Vandalism Among Well-to-Do Children

Frequently in this column I have expressed grave concern over pilfering, vandalism and other anti-social acts among children of the well-to-do. In the papers during recent years wanton vandalism by these children has been reported from various parts of the nation.

Recently, in a news dispatch from Miami, Florida, I read that Walter H. Beckham, Dade County juvenile court judge stated that juvenile delinquency of the over-privileged is more serious than petty crimes committed by under-privileged children.

SHOPLIFTING IN STORES

For a number of years I have been distressed at learning from neighborhood merchants in favored economic areas of the prevalence of shoplifting in their stores; from teachers, Sunday school teachers, and various leaders of youths in choice economic areas, of the growing lack of self-control among children of the well-to-do.

Now most of our social uplifters come from comfortable homes. Unselfishly these persons serve on all sorts of social welfare boards. Generally they assume that all we have to do is "to improve the conditions of the poor" and we will have delinquency and crime well checked. It's amazing how smug many a club woman and socialite in the United States is over this matter. Blinded by the log in her own eye she tries to poke out the speck she thinks she sees in her under-privileged neighbor's eye. See what a big lumber business some of these persons could do in their own homes and communities!

ADULT SELF-CONTROL

It is my guess that adult self-control among the well-to-do has been declining at a more rapid rate than among the general population. I'm very sure that self-control among most children of these persons has declined in recent years faster than among all children.

As I have said before, I think one reason is obvious. When the philosophy of excessive self-expression got going in this country, its first and most-fervent recruits were among the well-to-do and socially elite. You see, it gave them a tremendous feeling of superiority. "The poor and ignorant have to discipline their children," they would say. "They can't give these children good environment and prestige of social status. But our children can have freedom and rich personality. If they go astray a bit they just naturally will come back to good conduct and citizenship, thanks to their family influence."

RAY OF LIGHT

I do see one ray of light shining through the shadows—many of our most highly educated parents among the well-to-do have been disillusioned and are recruiting disciples of a common sense philosophy. This philosophy is that the child should learn from his very early years the unambiguous meaning of No. (My bulletin, "How Teach Tot Meaning of No" may be had in a stamped envelope.) That they also need to have practice at doing many useful things they would rather not do.

The philosophy of no restraint and no requirement has passed its peak in the United States. But the practice of this philosophy will go on for some years and "the worst is yet to be," resulting inevitably in more broken homes, more mental ill health, more delinquency and crime. My bulletin, "Juvenile Delinquency Can Be Curbed" may be had in a stamped envelope.

Veteran Test Pilot Dies as Experimental Plane Crashes

L. A. Perrett, veteran test pilot, aged 42, died when he remained at the controls of this three-engined experimental passenger-cargo ship, shown at Los Angeles, Calif., after it crashed into a steel tower and burned, long enough to permit to men with him to jump to safety. Perrett himself jumped from the falling plane but it was too close to the ground, and he was instantly killed. The tower which the plane hit and crumpled was bent almost double. Witnesses said that the plane's tail broke off in mid-air and the plane banked sharply and began going down. When it hit it narrowly missed a huge oil storage tank.

Fourth Expose Sports Gambling Since 1945

NEW YORK, March 10 (AP)—The present hockey scandal is the fourth major expose of sports gambling since 1945. Earlier inquiries have uncovered links in the United States between athletes and the betting fraternity in college basketball, pro football and boxing.

Clarence S. Campbell, President of the National Hockey League has expelled Billy Taylor, a New York Ranger and suspended Don Gallinger of Boston Bruins.

The first sport to bump into trouble during the current period of probes was college basketball. Five Brooklyn college players were expelled from school and two gamblers were jailed for offering them $1000 to "throw" a game to Akron. The game, scheduled for Boston, January, 1945, never was played.

Pro football weathered a full-scale scandal late in 1946. Frank Filchock and Merle Hapes, both of New York Giants, were implicated with Alvin J. Paris. Wined and dined by Paris, the two players were offered cash to "fix" the Giant-Chicago Bears playoff game for the National League title.

A JOKE

The story came out on the eve of the big game. Both Filchock and Hapes were suspended indefinitely by the League for conduct detrimental to football. Filchock played last Summer with Hamilton Tigers of the Ontario Rugby Football Union.

Rock Graziano's case received the most publicity. The middleweight boxer, then a challenger for Tony Zale's middleweight crown, failed to report two $100,000 bribe offers. He said he considered them a joke.

The boxer was taken to a New York police station for a night-long grilling in January, 1947, about a month after his scheduled fight with Reuben Shank had been postponed.

Rocky admitted he had received the bribe offer to lose to Shank, and had not reported it to the Boxing Commission as required by law. He was said to have been offered a similar bribe earlier for a fight with the late Bummy Davis.

Graziano's licence was revoked in New York State. Although he won the middleweight championship last Summer at Chicago, he is not recognized here.

There also has been evidence of skullduggery in the minors. Baseball, above reproach since the 1919 Black Sox scandal, was involved in the Evangeline League, a Class D loop in Louisiana. Players were linked with bookies and five were suspended.

There was the case of Hawaiian Warriors of the Pacific Coast Football League who, last December, pooled their money and bet on themselves. The League office suspended four of the players for life and handed out 10 indefinite suspensions to the others.

Large Audience Hears Kimberley Organ Recital

KIMBERLEY, B. C., March 10—A capacity audience last Sunday night heard Mrs. Josephine Suart, L.M.U.S. (McGill) in recital on the new Hammond electric organ at the Kimberley United Church.

An anthem "God Is Love" by Shelley was sung by the choir, E. McNicholas being soloist.

Beethoven's "Adagio Cantabile" was played as a piano and organ duet, with Mrs. J. Glanville at the piano.

Mrs. Suart then played "Chanson de Nuit" by Sir Edward Elgar, "Intermezzo" by Hollins and the choral prelude from "Eventide" by C. H. Parry.

With Mrs. Glanville, A.T.C.M., L.R.S.M., as soloist the choir sang Pounod's anthem "Blessed Is He That Cometh"

Dubois' "Grand Chorus" was Mrs. Suart's concluding number.

Kimberley Ousts Trail To Enter Senior B Semis

TRAIL, B.C., March 10—Kimberley 67's won the right to enter the Provincial Senior B semi-final playdowns at Vernon Friday by defeating the Trail All-Stars here Wednesday night 6-1 in the second of a two-game total-goal series.

The Kimberley club won the total goal series by a score of 11-7. They dropped the first game to the Trailites Tuesday night 6-5.

Coached by veteran ex-Dynamite hockey played Puffy Kemp, the veteran weathered the All-Stars attacks. The Trailites dominated the play most of the time, but were unable to penetrate Cliff Kilburn's net during. The 67's retaliated with two goals in each period.

GOOD ON STARS

It was a tough game for the All Stars to lose. After winning the first game 6-5 the Coy Cup holders were favored to go into the semi-final but it was just not their night or day. Time after time shots were aimed for goals were turned aside. The Kimberley's squad, seasoned with several months of League play in the East Kootenay, put up a close checking game and at times clever passing game that proved a little too much for the locals.

Dalzell, Claude Bell, McLean and Sullivan spearheaded the Kimberley attacks.

All's lone marker was marked up by Bill Milne in the last few minutes of the game with brother Bill assisting. Jake McLeod, who played a spell of hockey with the Kimberley Spartans a year ago, was a standout for Bob Marshall's All-Stars.

Lineups:

Canadians Set Up for Allan Cup Hunt

PORT ARTHUR, March 10 (CP)—Fort Francis Canadians stood on the verge tonight of making a little hockey history, which explains why they're so happy about the way things are turning out in their Thunder Bay senior final with Fort William Legion.

For 25 years now, hockey teams from the town of Fort Francis on the Minnesota-Ontario border have come to grief in playoffs against the Lakehead champions, but this looks like Fort Frances' year. The Canadians, Northern Amateur Hockey League champions, have scored three straight over the Legionnaires in the best-of-seven final and could wind up the playoff here tomorrow night.

Canadians, who won 23 of 30 games in their regular schedule against Eveleth, Hibbing and Duluth, whipped the Legionnaires 3-1 here last night after 8-3 and 5-4 triumphs in the first two contests.

An oddity about Canadians is the fact that there are five Robertsons—four of them brothers—on the club. The brothers are Murray, Spike, Sam and Ken, who goes by the nickname "Sugar." Then there is Percy Robertson, no relation.

As champions of the Northern League, Canadians were eligible to continue in the United States Amateur National playoffs but they turned down that opportunity in favor of the Allan Cup hunt.

On The 10-Pin Alleys

J. MacMillan skipped his team to a 1614 total to top other team totals in Legion 10 pin bowling

Just Beaten Says D'Amour Opponents

WINNIPEG, March 10 (CP) — George Sangster's Manitoba rink is offering no excuses for its defeat in recent Canadian title curling play at Calgary.

The Manitoba foursome wound up as runner-up in the final to Theo D'Amour's Trail, B.C., quartet, finishing one game behind D'Amour.

Skip Sangster's comment was brief. "We were beaten . . . that's all there was to it," he said. He entered the championship with the job of trying to add to Manitoba's 11 victories in 18 years of play—best provincial record in the event.

Despite Sangster's record of seven victories and two losses, some curlers wondered what had happened to the Manitoba entry. For years curlers like Howard Wood, Jimmy Welsh, Ken Watson and Leo Johnson have dominated play in the Manitoba 'Spiel and carried the province's colors into the Canadian final.

Sangster, a member of Winnipeg Granite Club, moved to the front by capturing the provincial aggregate and championship. He did it with three men. One of his players was declared ineligible for provincial play.

NO "NAME" RINKS

The result was that Manitoba, a hotbed of curling since the ancient Scottish game first was introduced in the West, was represented in the Canadian final by other than a "name" rink.

In capturing the provincial aggregate, Sangster's rink won 13 games, lost two in what is considered the toughest 'spiel on the continent.

After the final, Jimmy Welsh of Winnipeg Deer Lodge — 1947 Canadian champion—was one of the first to say there no longer is such a thing as a "name" rink.

"Competition has become too keen; rinks all over are improving and it is impossible to say this rink or that rink will come through without a defeat," said Welsh.

Sangster's was the only rink in the Canadian final to hang a defeat on D'Amour's powerful quartet, runners-up in the 1947 championship.

SPARES STRIKES

A new high single and high aggregate score was set in the Nelson Men's Ten-Pin League play Tuesday night by Jack Ostlin of the South Slocan team. After rolling a score of 130 in his first game he came back in the second game with eight in the first frame, ten strikes in a row and 9 on the last ball a total of 277, just three pins under his record score of 280 bowled on the South Slocan alleys in tournament play just before Christmas. He had an aggregate of 574, but even this was not enough to stop the Gashouse Goofers from taking two games to one and total pins for three points.

The Pinbusters took over first place in the league standings by dropping the City team two games to one behind the steady bowling of Bill Fouracres who had a single of 201 and an aggregate of 545.

Old Cornwall Cup Falls To Slocan City Squad

NEW DENVER, B. C., March 10—The Slocan Hockey League schedule was brought to a close by the Slocan City team again defeating the New Denver team 7-3, to win the final playoff series two games to nil.

A capacity crowd saw a good and fast hockey game although the ice was on the soft side. It was not until the third period that Slocan were able to salt away the game for a certainty. L. Balbirnie in the Denver goal again played a very good game stopping numerous hard shots.

At the end of the game both teams lined up at center ice while Andy Jacobsen, the remaining trustee of the Cornwall Cup, presented it to Des Hood, Captain of the Slocan team. Pictures were taken of the victorious team with the cup, and of the losing team.

The Cornwall Cup has been played for as the championship of the Slocan Hockey League for a number of years. The earliest inscription on it is for the year 1909 at which time Slocan City won it. The cup has been held by Sandon, Silverton, New Denver and Slocan at various times.

DENVER LEADS

New Denver opened scoring at the 7:00 minute mark when J. Yakenchuk scored after carrying the puck the length of the rink. Ted Hicks on a pass from Hood evened the score for Slocan at the 10 minute mark. Ellie Crellin from his brother Dave put Denver one goal up at the 18:00 minute mark to end the scoring for this period.

EARLY TIE

Three minutes from the face off of the second period True Hicks *tied the score for Slocan after car*rying the puck from his own defence zone. Turk Avison, who played a bang up game as a rushing defence man, achieved a long sought ambition when he scored a goal on a pass from Forsythe at the 5:00 minute mark. At the 12 minute mark James Heslip scored on a rebound from the end boards which came over the top of the Denver goal when S. Heslip missed the goal by inches. At the 17 minute mark, Pinchbeck put Slocan one goal ahead on a pass from Ted Hicks.

3 GOALS, NO REPLY

In the third period Slocan scored three times without a reply from New Denver. Des Hood from Ted Hicks scoring at the 11:30 minute mark. Then Ted Hicks counted unassisted at the 13 minute mark. The final goal of the game was scored at the 15 minute mark by Slocan's kid line. N. Sakamoto from F. Hufty and F. Russell.

DEWEY WINS FIRST ROUND

CONCORD, N. H. March 10 (AP)—Governor Thomas E. Dewey of New York yesterday won the first round in the ballot box fight for the Republican Presidential nomination.

The New York Governor swept six of the eight delegates in the New Hampshire Presidential primary yesterday—the first in the 1948 campaign and one that politicians held important from a psychological viewpoint.

President Truman won endorse*ment of the Democrats in their pri*mary. He was unopposed.

Nelson Midgets, Juveniles Play At Trail Tonight

Nelson's hockey machine is determined to grind out some provincial honors yet.

Tonight the Midgets and Juveniles will pack their gear and head for the Smokey City to pick up their second games of a two game, total-goal series. The Midgets go into the second round with an eight goal deficit by virtue of their 10-2 trouncing by the Trailites here in the opener. On the other hand Nelson's Juveniles are three goals up in their pursuit of the provincial title.

While the Midgets were snowed under by a stronger Trail club the Juveniles won their encounter 9-6 in the first game. The hockey put out by both Juvenile clubs was played at high gear all the way and though the Trail crew was never out in front they gave the Nelsonites a rough time.

Al Euerby will be travelling helmsman.

The bus leaves here at 2 p.m.

Making the trip will be:

Midgets — S. Benedetti, D. Kennedy, L. Irwin, G. Twells, R. Johnson, R. Brown, Rod Carmichael, E. McGinnis, K. Coskey, G. Davis, Stan Donaldson, Ackhart, Jarrett, Stringer.

Juveniles—J. Stedile, Dozzi, R. McIntyre, B. Halbauer, E. Duffy, J. Bachynski, N. Hyssop, A. Hood, J. Todd, B. Pitts, C. Christensen, L. Hufty, G. Pickering, Stainton O'Genski, Loewen, J. Todd.

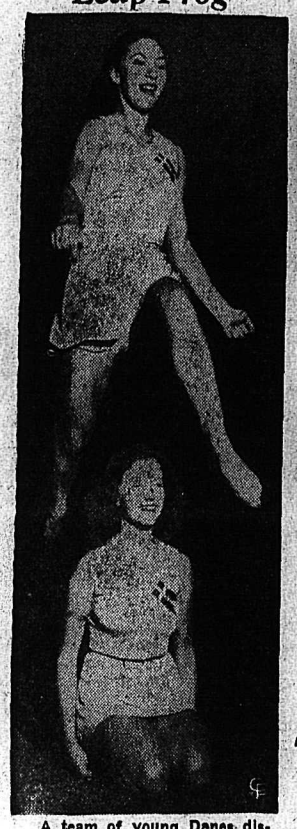
"Annex" Antarctic Area For Chile

Warmly clad against the frigid weather, President Gabriel Gonzalez Videla and his daughter Silvia are pictured at Port Soberania, Antarctica, where they claimed for Chile sectors of the vast Antarctic continent. Chile, along with Argentina and Great Britain, has been currently fighting for possession of the territory.

Answers Charge

Film star Joan Crawford walks along a corridor in a Los Angeles office building after making a deposition in the office of Attorney Albert Pearlson. She denied that she had witnessed an electric shock treatment being given to Mrs. Pauline W. McKay. The actress is being sued for $200,000 on grounds that she invaded Mrs. McKay's privacy during a visit to Pasadena Sanitarium while in search of technical information for a film role.

Leap-Frog



A team of young Danes displayed their national dancing and gymnastics at Royal Albert Hall in London, England, recently. Here we have a leap-frog in the Danish manner. The high-speed camera "stops" one of the Danish girls in full flight over another member of the team.

Cherry Pie Queen

Can she make a cherry pie, Billy Boy? And how! Fact is, Valeria Johnson, 17, Chicago high school senior, has been chosen No. 1 cherry pie maker. Eleven State champions participated.

Takes Arab Credit

Swashbuckling Abdul Kadir Husseini, Arab military commander of Jerusalem, is reported to have claimed Arab responsibility for the bombing of Ben Yehuda Street in the centre of the Jewish section of the Holy City. Abdul Kadir, who is a cousin of the Grand Mufti of Jerusalem, is quoted by Arab newspapers as saying that a "unit of Arab fighters" carried out the bombing that killed more than 50 persons in retaliation for the Jewish bombing of the market place in Arab Ramleh, in which seven Arabs were killed.

No. 1 Saboteur

The late Capt. Lewis Allison, the O.S.S. operator who has been labelled "America's No. 1 saboteur in Europe" during the Second World War, is shown here with a young Yugoslav boy who helped him wreck Nazi installations in Yugoslavia. Allison credited the youth with blowing up three Nazi trains singlehanded. Train destruction was the specialty of Allison, who died recently in an army hospital in Albuquerque, N. M., and who made a fabulous record while behind enemy lines for two years in Europe.

EGAN HAS NEW FIND

LAKELAND, Fla., March 10 (AP)—Aloysius J. (Wish) Egan, discoverer of Hal Newhouser, predicted today that 20-year-old Art Houtteman, his latest "find," would become as great a pitcher as Detroit Tigers' ace lefthander.

The silver-haired Egan generally regarded as the best baseball scout in the business, said that "Houtteman is the nearest thing to a perfect pitcher I have ever seen.

"If he doesn't win from 15 to 20 games this season, I'll never tout another pitcher."

A native of Detroit, Houtteman appears certain to be a regular starter for Manager Steve O'Neill this season. The young righthander made a tremendous impression on veteran observers last Summer by winning seven games in nine starts after being recalled by the Tigers from Buffalo.

He is counted upon to take his regular turn alongside such established workmen as Newhouser, Dizzy Trout, Fred Hutchinson and Virgil Trucks.

Local Garage Gives Best Service

Car and truck owners some- times are inclined to think that the local garage operator cannot do as good a job as the big city garage, and so they put off and defer much-needed service till they make annual or semi-annual visits to large cities. The majority of garage owners have on their staff factory trained mechanics and technicians and as a general rule can give you better service than a stranger.

In addition to this, your local garage man stands behind and guarantees the job, and if all is not well he will make suitable adjustments on any job that he does for you. In addition to this, garages carry large stocks of parts. This is for your conveni- ence. Repair jobs on cars or trucks should first of all be sub- mitted to your local garage man, who is your neighbor. He will "treat you right," in every mean- ing of that well-worn phrase.

5 YEARS ON DRUG COUNT

VANCOUVER, March 10 (CP) — David Perry, 48-year-old drug addict, was convicted and sentenced to five years in penitentiary on a charge of selling narcotics.

Evidence was based on the sensational underground investigation last Summer of R.C.M.P. Constable G. L. Skatfield.

Perry, who complained of "getting more than the other boys," also was fined $200.

Five other persons have been convicted on Skatfield's evidence.

WINDSOR, Ont. (CP)—The semi-annual police school conducted by the Windsor Police Department opens an eight-week course at the armories March 1. For the first time since the school started in 1945, police from nearby towns will be invited.

Wheat Shipments To Britain Held Up by Heavy Ice

MONTREAL, March 10 (CP) — Heavy ice conditions between Montreal and Great Lakes grain ports, described by mariners as the worst in years, will hold up the heavy movement of wheat to Britain until well into May, marine sources said today.

"We had planned getting our first shipload out of here long before that date," one shipping official said, "but it looks now as though we'll be much later than last year. From reports reaching us the cold weather on the Great Lakes is making ice instead of reducing it and icebreakers are having a tough time getting a channel opened from the grain ports."

Once navigation hits its stride, however, grain movement through St. Lawrence River ports would be extremely heavy, particularly during June and July.

EDMONTON (CP)—A new law permitting courts to impose a life sentence on persons found to be "habitual criminals"—with more than three convictions on serious charges—may be invoked here. Crown Prosecutor Donald Masson has been instructed to report to the Attorney-General's Department any accused he considers a habitual criminal.

DRINK FROM WRONG BOTTLE FATAL

MISSION, B.C., March 10 (CP)—Sam Eaton, 40-year-old sheet metal worker, died here Sunday after he drank from a bottle of muriatic acid, mistaken for liquor in the poorly-lighted shop where he worked.

A coroner's jury today was told that Eaton, in agony and speechless, frantically attempted to attract the attention of other workers. Two doctors attempted vainly to save his life.

Eaton is survived by his widow and four children.

Starlings were introduced into North America in 1890.
