Living Index Dips Tenth of a Point

Food Prices Continue To Drop; Rents, Up; Clothing Unchanged, Coal Lower

OTTAWA (CP)—The consumer price index dropped y one-tenth of a point in April to 115.5 from 115.6 as food rices continued to decline.

Rents continued to rise and there were higher prices April for coffee, tea and some meats, as well as linoleum, lassware and ice.

But these were overcome by lower prices for butter, gs, bananas, oranges and some meats as well as electrical pliances, furniture, textiles d coal.

The consumer price index, yardick for measuring living costs, based on 1949 prices equalling 0. It had been declining for five onths when it suddenly made a e of a tenth of a point in March, e first jump in six months.

This resulted mainly from higher vice costs, such as medical, den- and hospital charges, even ough food prices were lower.

In April food price changes asted their strength, overbalanc- the other price fluctuations.

The yardstick's April level of 5 was the same as that in Febary and is the lowest since the 4 registered in June, 1953. It mpares with the all-time high of 2 in December, 1951.

In April, the food sub-group pped by a fifth of a point to 2, third consecutive monthly de- e, reflecting lower prices for ry products, tropical fruits and some meats. Prices were higher for processed cheese, apples, pork, beef, coffee and tea.

The shelter column increased by a fifth of a point to a new high of 125.8 as both rents and home-ownership costs jumped.

Up to a new high was the miscellaneous column of commodities and services which rose by three-tenths of a point to 117.5, resulting from higher prices for theatre admissions and hairdressing. Automobile tires were lower.

CLOTHING UNCHANGED

The clothing column was unchanged at 109.9. This compared with the peak of 115.2 in November 1951.

The household operations column which climbed to a peak of 11.1 in March dropped by four-fifths of a point to 117.3. Prices dropped for coal, which usually declines during the summer, appliances, furniture and textiles, offsetting rise for ice, glassware and linoleum.

SELASSIE HAS FAITH IN UN

Sees World Peace If UN Stands Against Aggression

OTTAWA (CP) — Haile Selassie of Ethiopia, whose empire fell before an invader 18 years ago, Friday expressed a renewal of his belief that the United Nations can avert war.

The slight, bearded emperor of 19,000,000 East Africans, on a goodwill tour of Canada that lasts 3½ days, told of his faith in the UN at a press conference here before flying to Montreal on the next leg of his trip.

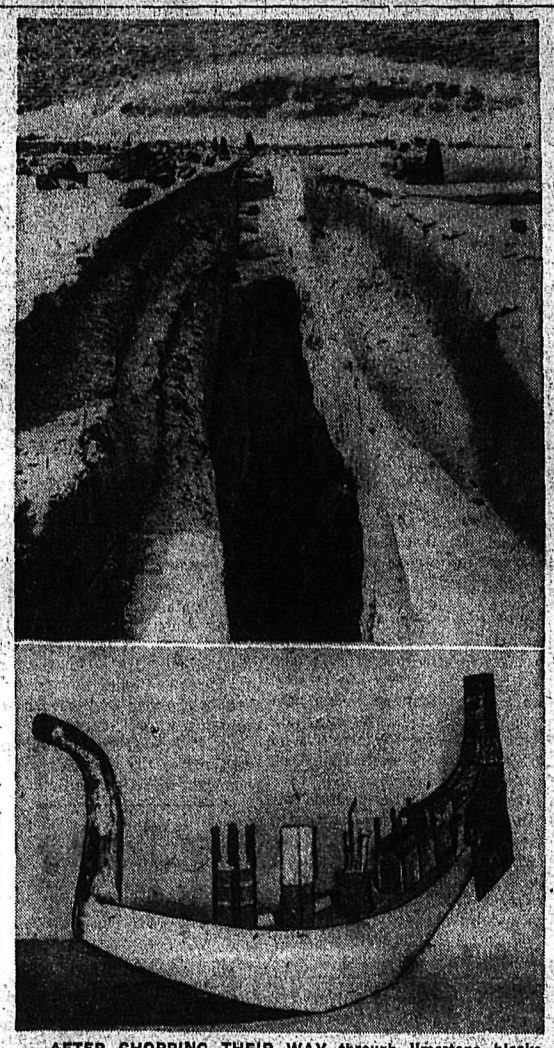
Selassie, who was restored to his ancient throne in 1941 after the Italian conquest of 1935-36, made his feelings clear about the old League of Nations' letdown of Ethiopia in the 1930s and his hope in

If the UN continues to stand against aggression as it has done in Korea, he said, it is his conviction that world peace will be continued.

The 61-year-old Selassie, a small man, whose finely-chiselled features and gentle bearing belie his thundering title of "King of Kings and Conquering Lion of the tribe of Judah," was an overnight visitor in Ottawa in a North American tour which he will resume in the U. S. Monday.

In the meantime, he visits Montreal where he arrived late Friday Quebec City and Windsor.

In Ottawa the emperor's main engagement was a trip to the centre block of parliament, where he saw the opening of Friday's Commons session, toured some of the main spots of the building, gave his press conference and engaged in a television interview.



AFTER CHOPPING THEIR WAY through limestone blocks near the foot of the Great Pyramid of Giza, Egypt, 50 workmen dug this causeway, and thus came upon the 5000-year-old southern tomb of Pharoah Cheops. There, members of a special expedition discovered a "sun boat," or "death ship," which ancient rulers believed would carry them into the hereafter. The boat and its contents were so well preserved that even the smell of perfume was clear to those who peered into the tomb. The discovery was made as workers were building a tourist road around the pyramids. Below is a scale model of an ancient funerary boat believed to be similar to that discovered in the tomb of Cheops. This model, only 42 inches long, dates from about 2000 BC. The Cheops discovery at Giza is said to be 165 feet long and dates from about 2900 BC. —Central Press Canadian.

DULLES URGES FOREIGN AID

Asks U.S. Invest $3.5 Billion To Halt Red Surge

By WILMOT HERCHER

WASHINGTON (AP) — State Secretary John Foster Dulles urged Friday that the United States invest $3,500,000,000 in foreign aid during the next 12 months to help prevent "Red domination" of the world.

"The United States cannot gain security in isolation," he told the Senate foreign relations committee, "but only through a system of collective defence."

Dulles said a number of free world countries cannot maintain their military strength and economic stability in the face of Communist threats unless the U. S. helps them.

Congress voted last year to end all foreign aid spending authority in 1954, and Senator Alexander Wiley (Rep.—Wis.) chairman of the foreign relations committee, said Friday his group would review the whole international situation carefully before authorizing new funds.

The secretary told the committee the destruction of free world unity is the principal goal of Soviet strategy.

Halt Passenger Car Production for Week; To Reduce Schedule

WINDSOR, Ont. (CP)—A series of layoffs affecting 6650 employees of the Windsor and Oakville, Ont., plants of Ford of Canada were announced today.

President Rhys M. Sale said in a letter to Ford employees that passenger car production at Ford Oakville will be shut down from June 7 to June 15 and about 2700 employees will be laid off for that week. When assembly starts up again on a reduced schedule June 15, about 850 employees will continue on indefinite layoff.

At Windsor, about 250 men will go on indefinite layoff effective June 8. "These are men," the letter said, "who will be affected by the reduced schedules which will be in effect after the assembly plant at Oakville reopens."

Effective June 9, when a number of operations in the Windsor plants will be closed for periods ranging from five to eight days, about half of the present working force at Windsor will go on temporary layoff. This will be about 3700 men.

Mr. Sale's letter said that present estimates showed that the total Canadian market for passenger cars of North American types for the year 1954 will be about 15 per cent below that of 1953. The truck market would be down almost 30 per cent over the previous year.

"This shrinkage of the over-all market has now caught up with us, as it had already with some other companies, and we do not have enough orders ahead of us to support our present production schedules. We have no alternative but to cut back production and . . . we must reduce our working force both at Windsor and Oakville.

DREW RECOMMENDS

OTTAWA (CP) — Progressive Conservative Leader Drew today suggested that the government examine anti-dumping legislation in the light of an announcement by Ford of Canada of layoffs affecting 6650 at its Windsor and Oakville, Ont., plants.

Mr. Drew, speaking during examination of revenue department estimates in the Commons, read Revenue Minister McCann a news dispatch quoting Rhys M. Sale, Ford of Canada president, as announcing the layoffs. Mr. Drew said this indicates a 15-per-cent reduction in Canadian automobile production which will have wide effects on the economy.

Dr. McCann replied that the question of auto imports is a matter of policy and should be discussed with Finance Minister Abbott. He said there has been no evidence to his knowledge of dumping of foreign automobiles on the Canadian market.

Chiropractors Claim Polio Cure

VANCOUVER (CP) — The chiropractic profession has "found the cause of polio . . . and we have the cure," Dr. E. R. Dunn said here Thursday night.

Dr. Dunn, of the Dunn Polio Clinic, Oklahoma City, Okla., made the statement to the Western Canadian ciropractic convention here.

The cure, he said, lay in chiropractic treatment. He described one girl at his clinic walked 30 minutes after certain massage techniques had been employed.

He said a five-day cure was possible if polio was discovered within three days of contact and cited fatigue, injuries and tension as the main causes. The disease is more prevalent during hot weather, he said, because during summer months there are no enforced rest periods such as children get at school during the winter.

NUN'S DEATH FOUND SUICIDE

BADDESLEY CLINTON, England (AP) — Sister Antony, a nun of the barefoot order of Poor Clare, once lied about her age. As penance, she is believed to have soaked her sackcloth robes in kerosene and burned herself to death.

A group of sisters found the aged woman's body Monday in an outbuilding of the secluded Catholic convent here. A coroner's court moved inside the convent walls Thursday to investigate Sister Antony's death.

The convent chaplain, Rev. John Dale, told the dead sister's story:

"Two days before her death," he said, "Sister Antony came to me and said she felt very guilty. I asked her what was wrong and she told me that many years ago she had given the date of her birth on an insurance form as 1894, whereas she knew it was 1891.

"I told her it was ridiculous to worry, but she seemed to think it was a heinous crime."

The coroner commented: "To her in the high religious standard of her life in the convent, it was great trouble."

The verdict: Suicide while of unsound mind.

Municipalities At Coast Consider Amalgamation

VANCOUVER (CP) — A step which could lead to the eventual amalgamation of Vancouver and surrounding municipalities was taken Thursday at a meeting of mayors and reeves in Burnaby.

"Something will have to be done to co-ordinate the departments of our civic governments before we run into the same situation as Toronto did. They were finally told what to do by the provincial government," said Councillor James Stewart of Fraser Mills.

The meeting of reeves and mayors finally agreed to meet periodically on an informal basis to discuss municipal problems and to work more closely with the provincial government and the Lower Mainland Municipal Planning Board.

A motion was passed to meet Public Works Minister P. A. Gaglardi as soon as possible to discuss the construction of arterial highways and traffic problems.

IWA Recommends Acceptance of Proposed Settlement, Vote, Sunday

VANCOUVER (CP) — District policy committee of the International Woodworkers of America (CIO-CCL) announced Friday night it is recommending acceptance of a proposed settlement in the coast lumber dispute to go before the membership Sunday.

In a paid radio statement, the committee said all IWA locals on the coast, totalling some 32,000 wood workers, will hold mass meetings Sunday to vote acceptance or rejection.

Details of the proposed agreement will not be disclosed until Sunday night, said William Gray, IWA vice-president.

"After weeks of strenuous bargaining," the committee's statement said, "a proposed settlement now has been reached. The District Policy Committee has decided to place the agreement before the membership immediately, with a recommendation for acceptance."

The IWA asked for no general wage increase this year, but placed fringe benefit demands before employers which the operators said would add up to about 7½ cents an hour.

Government conciliator Reg Clements took part in the negotiations.

Bennett Accused Of Patronizing

SMITHERS, B. C. (CP)— Frank Howard, CCF member of the Legislature for Skeena, charged at Smithers Thursday that Premier Bennett has set up "the basis of a corrupt system of patronage."

Mr. Howard said that "true to his conservative background and training, Premier Bennett is out to channel all public business through the Social Credit party and treat the elected members as a necessary evil to be spurned as much as possible."

Mr. Howard complained the defeated Social Credit candidate in his riding was "spuriously passing himself off as the representative of the government."

He added, "whenever I have requested information on public works, I have either been referred to the defeated candidate or refused an answer."

RANK AND FILE APPROVES LABOR ACT SAYS BENNETT

VICTORIA (CP) — Premier Bennett today denied labor charges that the province's new Labor Relations Act will lead to bitterness in labor-management relations.

"It is designed rather to produce harmony in labor-management relations, Mr. Bennett said in an interview. He was answering criticism of the act voiced in a report released in Vancouver Thursday by a special labor research committee.

The report, drafted by the Trades and Labor Congress, the Canadian Congress of Labor and the Railway Brotherhoods in B.C., will be submitted to a special labor rally in Vancouver Saturday. B.C. Labor leaders predicted the rally would demand that the government rescind the new act at the next session of the legislature.

Mr. Bennett described the criticism of the act as just certain politicians talking.

Labor Minister Lyle Wicks was not available for comment.

The premier said he spoke before hundreds of people in public meetings last week at Courtenay and Port Alberni, both labor centres. He said there was no criticism at the meetings in regard to the new act.

"It shows our labor act is meeting with approval by the rank and file," he said.

Minister Has Too Much Power Says Gervin

PENTICTON, B. C. (CP)—R. K. Gervin, vice-president of the trades and labor congress of Canada, said at a meeting here Thursday night that the congress is opposing the new labor relations act.

Addressing the fourth annual convention of the hospital employees federal union, he said the present act practically discharged the labor relations board by taking away all of its authority and placing it in the hand of the minister of labor.

"No matter how good or how fair the minister may be, this is too much authority to vest in one man," he said.

STABBED MAN SAID VIOLENT

VANCOUVER (CP) — Sam Messer, 21-year-old plasterer, who died May 26 of a stab wound, fought savagely and atempted to bite one of five staff physicians at St. Paul's hospital who waged a one-hour battle in an attempt to save his life.

Mary Mellish, 18, charged with the knife-slaying of Messer, sat in the coroner's court here today and listened quietly to the inquest evidence.

Dr. Joseph Fleming told of the violent attitude of Messer, which cut down the chances of successful treatment.

Messer had lost almost all the blood in his system and was in a state of great shock, doctor-witnesses testified. He did not respond to treatment of any kind.

Dr. John Varley described how he and is associates had administered blood, gave artificial respiration and other treatment.

"When admitted to hospital he was swearing and when placed on his back so as to undergo treatment, he attempted to bite me," said Dr. Varley.

A double wound on Messer's left thigh was the actual cause of death.

Dr. T. R. Harmon, pathologist, said the knife had been partially withdrawn and then re-insterted.

After the medical evidence was taken, Coroner Glen McDonald adjourned the inquest until June 18.

Viet Nam Outnumbered 3-1 Lose Bloody 7-Hour Battle

n slipped on blood-soaked floors and were hurled from ws in hand to hand combat e seminary at the village of phunga, 75 miles southeast of l.

tminh rebels also crushed the Namese defence post of Cho 24 miles southeast of Hanoi. garrison of 60 men had been attack for seven consecutive nights. Fall of Cho Noi posed a new threat for the vital Haiphong-Hanoi supply lifeline only nine miles away.

The twin victories were the biggest for the Vietminh in recent weeks in the delta. They came as a rebel force of 45,000 men with heavy artillery and anti-aircraft units continued to move toward the western edge of the delta defences from fallen Dien Bien Phu.

A French high command spokesman Friday gave a vivid picture of the battle that turned the seminary at the village of Quanphunga into a last-ditch fortress. The village is near Bui Chi in Phat Diem province, where 400,000 of the 1,000,000 population are Catholics. There are bishoprics at both the town of Phat Diem and Bui Chi.

In the last stages the rebels battled the defenders in the seminary halls. The rebels forced the doors at 7:30 a.m., but did not succeed in vanquishing the Viet Namese until seven hours later.

No casualty figures were announced but the high command spokesman said losses were extremely heavy on both sides. He expressed hope that from 200 to 300 survivors might reach safety—an indication that as many as 800 of the defenders may have been killed or captured.

OKLAHOMA CITY (AP)—The tales about stoic Indians are not just legend. The vanishing American is actually poker-faced all over.

"It's an amazing thing, but it's apparently true," said R. H. H. Donahue, state mental health director who has conducted lie-detector tests on several Indians.

The full-bloods defy all theories of emotional and galvanic response on which the polygraph (lie detector) is based.

"Every Indian tested here has shown nil," said the veteran psychiatrist. "We get no results at all. The graph just runs along with no quivers at all. We think it's because of their very stoic nature."

PHOENIX, Ariz. (AP)—Little Johnny Fellet's trouble began under the Christmas tree five months ago when he grabbed an apple from his sister, Kathy.

Kathy grabbed it back. Johnny sucked in his breath to protest, and choked. His father patted him on the back and out popped an apple seed.

But the 10-month-old youngster couldn't stop wheezing. He developed alergies and pneumonia. His condition grew worse.

Thursday doctors slipped a tube with a light on it into Johnny's lungs. They removed a small, cone-shaped Christmas tree ornament. Now Johnny feels fine.

CM & H Branch Delaying District Home Building, Contractors Claim

Manager Says 26 Loans Approved, But Builders Charge Work Bogged Down Because of Technicalities

TRAIL—Representatives of the Trail, Nelson and district building industry, banks and the Chamber of Commerce met in Trail Friday afternoon to discuss their objections to present delays being experienced in having Central Mortgage and Housing Corporation loans approved.

No definite action was planned immediately, it being decided to wait a few days to see what changes may result as regards to the activities of the CHMC office in Trail as a result of the present situation being aired. If an improvement in the situation does not come, the building contractors, bankers and chamber will meet again with the hope that G. B. Wood, manager of the Trail branch of CMHC, attend this meeting.

It was said at the meeting that plans submitted to CMHC are being rejected for small technicalities. Plans submitted as far back as March have not yet been approved. Some have been resubmitted more than once and have still not been approved but are returned "red marked." In contrast the CMHC office said plans were usually approved in about three days.

LOT INSPECTIONS

Another complaint was that in some cases a number of lots in a sub-division are approved as a group but later must be approved singly as well. A complaint that contractors were having difficulty getting homes approved after they are built was also expressed. One contractor said the only approvals he had obtained were verbal ones which had been received only after visiting the CMHC office. Others had had difficulty obtaining approvals too.

This situation was having serious effects on the building industry locally. Last year at this time 140 homes were being built compared to about four now.

"We can't wait any longer," said one contractor. "If they were legitimate faults it would be fine but they aren't." Another said he was "going no further until the situation is cleared up." The contractors say this is a local situation for in other centres building is going ahead on a large scale. Those at the meeting asked that the individual names not be published.

The contractors said that many other contractors have "pulled out" and those still here are doing little or no work.

Down payment necessary for a house has also been raised through downward adjustment of and price which governs amoun' of mortgage obtainable, said the contractors. The amount of detail required in the plans was also criticized. The contractors felt it was not necessary to include such detail in plans as it is taken for granted that a home will be built according to the CMHC standards, thus such detail is not needed in the plans.

On the other hand CMHC office pointed out that this detail was required in order to give an accurate appraisal.

One of the contractors asked "when does the inspection cease?" He said he had been asked to make changes in some houses after they had been occupied for five months. He also felt that the Nelson area was being slighted as far as getting NHA information for there was no office in Nelson. Queries must be made mainly by mail.

One of the contractors said his firm put about 18 applications to the Central Mortgage and Housing Corporation last March and that so far none had been approved.

G. B. Wood, local CMHC manager, denied the approvals were being held up. He said that since April 6, when the first application was received, 26 out of 43 requests had been approved. Another five were approved Friday. Delays had occurred where insufficient information was provided.

Vocal Stars to Sing on Boys' Choir Program

Don Brown of Toronto, who is currently holidaying in Nelson, will sing a set of favorite songs at St. Paul's Boys' Choir Concert next Monday. Don is a former member of the choir and is now well known across Canada as a radio and concert artist.

The boys will also have as their guest Miss Flora Johnson, who has spent the last year studying singing in Toronto. Miss Johnson will be heard in a group of songs and also in a comedy number with Don.

Several members of the Tuxis Choir, including Jerry Pickering, Neil Horswill, Billy Horswill and Douglas Skilton, will contribute vocal and instrumental numbers.

Prior to leaving next week for England with the Elgar Choir, two St. Paul's choristers, Carol Coventry and Billy Harrison, will also be heard.

St. Paul's Boys' Choir consisting at present of 45 boy sopranos is now in its 23rd year. These boys are linked together with many of their former members who throughout the years have maintained a high standard of vocal work, in various centers of Canada and the United States. At the closing concert they will lay aside their serious music and enjoy themselves in favorite choruses they have been preparing for this event.

Mrs. T. J. S. Ferguson, choir director, shares the evening's accompaniments with Douglas Skilton.

Horizon Unlimited as Time at Hand To Map Own Courses, 85 Grads Told

Eighty-five Nelson girls and boys were "graduating into life" valedictorian Bill Horswill said to his fellow students at commencement exercises Friday night at the Capitol Theatre.

The theatre was filled to capacity to meet the 1954 graduates, introduced by Gordon Sargent, trustees on the school board.

Bill, in continuing on his theme of graduating into life, spoke of the pattern to follow as a sequence of circumstances, all of which will go to make each a "better man." He said that through the efforts and work of teachers through the past 12 years students were prepared for the various circumstances and problems that would arise.

Ralph D. Perry, assistant general manager of Consolidated Mining & Smelting Co., at Trail, in the graduation address said that for the first time in the lives of the graduates, many were faced with the problem of securing employment, all were faced with the problem of greater individual responsibility. He said that up to the present their courses had been mapped out for them but now they were on the brink of going their separate ways. They should realize the factors involved and the possibilities open to them. He spoke of the present as being "Canada's Century" and told of this being a land of limitless opportunity.

He told the class that while some may feel certain professional fields were barred to them through not being able to afford further education "there is not a single high school student today who cannot afford such education." He said for many it would be hard going, but if they were willing to work hard, and even in some cases stop education for a year or so and work and save it was by no means impossible.

ALWAYS A BETTER ONE

On the other hand, he spoke of any furtherance of education past high school graduation as being merely a waste in some cases. Numerous opportunities were open to high school graduates positions that in themselves were an education. As examples, he listed the types and numbers of positions to be found at Cominco which required no more education than the class had now reached. In all of Canada, he said, there is an astonishing field to pick from—"You can afford to pick selfishly, wisely."

He finished his speech with an accompanying thought—"When you get a new job, try to work yourself up—you will always get a better one."

At the graduation banquet preceding the exercises toast to the school was given by Ronald Graham and responded to by Gerald Lee, principal; to the department of education by Doris Graves and responded to by J. J. McKenzie; district inspector; to the school board by Verna Mae Murphy and responded to by trustee, G. Sargent; to the staff of Nelson High School by Gordon Halsey; responded to by Earl Jorgensen; to the graduating class from Grades X and XI, Bill DeFoe, responded to by graduate Alyse Mathison.

"The Class Will"—past, was given by Marylyn Waterer and Sally Butling; future, by Margaret Farenholtz. Grace at the banquet and invocation at the exercises was by Rev. G. W. Payne. Dorothy Barrett and Neil Horswill provided musical selections at the banquet while Eric Iles conducted orchestration at the Capitol Theatre.

2 a.m. Death Shot Intended For Bear

NAKUSP — A food-stealing bear was blamed today as underlying cause of the death of Alfred Staff, 52.

A bear had been, and still is taking a toll of food, brought in at extra expense from Needles. For two days it had raided the Beatty-Johnson staff camp, and on May 28 a rifle had been borrowed at a camp across the lake from Jack Cowley.

The men retired at 9:00 o'clock after talking of shooting the bear. At midnight, Johnson told an inquest jury Friday, he thought he heard the bear, got up to investigate. Again at two o'clock he was awakened, and seeing a shadow on the window overlooking the porch, he picked up the loaded rifle and fired. Then he turned on the flashligt and found that he had shot Staff. Apparently Staff had gone to the corner near the window for matches.

Jury was composed of C. H. Horrie, foreman, D. LeLievre, Bert Gardner, Norman Bedard, Bob Joy and Don Smith. Jury Judge, was Dr. F. B. Maxfield; clerk, Mrs. Don Smith; coroner, Dr. F. C. Robinson of New Denver.

Jury in its verdict said it found that Alfred Staff, came to his death at or near 2 p.m. on Saturday, May 29, 1954, in a cabin located at Grizzly Point on the Upper Whatshan Lake in the County of Kootenay West, province of Britis Columbia, death being the result of a gunshot wound, fired from a rifle held by John Robert Jonson. We the jury find the death of Alfred Staff to be accidental, with no blame attached to any person.

Mr. Staff is not known to have any near relatives.

Witnesses were Corporal Pye, John Robert Johnson, Karl Edward Beatty, Jack Cowley and Harry McTague.

Work on the site began in late May at the corner of Howard Avenue and Kimberley Street. The new frame building with brick and stone masonry, stucco finish and flat roof will be built primarily by volunteer labor. Until its completion, services are being held in the Union Hall. Rev. Richard Braem is pastor.

$500 Damage Done at Cranbrook . . .

Lightning Turns Meter Unit Into Giant Arc

CRANBROOK — A lightning bolt Thursday night struck a city metering unit at the corner of the Kennelly Lumber Company plant just north of Cranbrook and created a short circuit and an arc like a huge welding torch which burned for more than a minute. It threw light for a 10-mile range.

Damage to the city unit containing current and a potential transformer which will require replacement, was about $500. Fuses in nine transformers jarred by the bolt mostly on Fourteenth Avenue, had to be replaced by the city electrical department.

Though rain at the time of the strike was light and sporadic, there was no damage to the lumber stacked in the Kennelly yard, the planer, garages or offices and production on a direct supply line began again on schedule this morning.

Golden To Get New Post Office

GOLDEN — Word has been received here from J. A. Byrne, MP for Kootenay East, that $45,000 was included in supplementary estimates of late May in the House of Commons for construction of a new post office at this community. It will replace the present frame building.

The proposed building will be a single storey on a basement, measuring 30 by 60 feet. Proposed location is on the Henderson lot facing Second Street and Second Avenue. The new building will be brick and concrete and will have bank style counters and wickets and night lobby space.

$20,000 Damage Suit Dismissed

CRANBROOK — Suit of Mabel Ellen Jordon and Ben Jordon for damages of approximately $20,000 claimed from Perry Creek Tie and Lumber Company Ltd., was dismissed at civil assizes here. Suit arose because of damage allegedly done to a flume on Perry Creek by lumber company construction of a timber access road in the area. R. E. Read represented the lumber company and Michelangelo Provenzano Mr. and Mrs. Jordon.

Judgment for auto damages was awarded at the same hearing to Mr. and Mrs. William Wasiliew, represented by Peter Graham, who were suing Zane Grey, represented by B. K. Arlidge, following an auto accident, and the counter-claim was dismissed. Samuel Bruce Irvin was awarded $750 general damages and $73 special damages in his suit against Alexander Drummond Pearson, also dealing with a car accident. F. W. Barry represented the plaintiff and the defendant made no appearance.

Divorce decrees absolute were granted at the session to Gabriella Dominick from Joseph Dominick, both fo Fernie, to Joseph Priemasa from Anna Priemasa, Fernie; with D. M. Mitchell and H. W. McKay representing both petitioners; to Ida Coulter, represented by F. W. Barry, from Garnet Coulter, represented by B. K. Arlidge, both of Kimberley; to Grant Stewart Jackson of Kimberley, represented by F. W. Barry, from Hazel Elizabeth Jackson; and to Dorothy Anna Shaw of Cranbrook, represented by R. E. Read, from Albert Nevin Shaw.

Fauquier Finding New Industry in Eggs

FAUQUIER — Industry in this small centre that sits snug on Arrow Lake shores, has undergone sharp changes in the past few years.

In the words of one of its oldest residents, 84-year-old Mrs. P. A. Spiller, the quiet community has swung from fruit growing to poultry and lumbering.

Winter kill and loss of daily fruit boats about 20 years ago set the change in motion.

The little gray-haired woman reminisced when she came to Fauquier on the Minto in 1907. It was a "prosperous looking district" with strawberries, rapsberries, blackberries, cherries and apples as main crops and bringing "a lot of money in."

HARDSHIPS

But gradually hardships of reaching markets and cold weather had swung farmers from fruits. In their place has come logging and egg production. Egg industry has grown during the past two years, the old timer explained with about six producers finding markets for 15-odd crates a week, mainly at Castlegar."

And, not completely happy that the community should change too much, Mrs. Spiller recalled when roads were but paths and Fauquier township was owned by Mr. Fauquier.

Still, it is "almost an old people's home", she admitted unwillingly, for it is also her home and she "loves it."

Churches Mobilize

Inherent in the Christian faith is a belief in the dignity of man and in the freedom of the individual. Anything that runs counter to these fundamentals essentially is counter to Christianity itself.

Though it has survived much persecution at various stages of history in various parts of the world, the Christian Church has thrived best where freedom has prevailed. And, conversely, where Christianity has prevailed it has contributed to the freedom of mankind.

It follows, therefore, that churchmen should be leaders in the fight to preserve essential liberties against any threat—whatever be the source of that threat.

That they are prepared to assume this responsibility is evident from three important pronouncements in the United States, pointed up by the Windsor Daily Star. The General Assembly of the Presbyterian Church, in convention in Detroit, heard its retiring moderator, Dr. John A. Mackey of Princeton, warn against the "invisible informer".

Dr. Ralph W. Sockman, of the Christ Methodist Church, New York, spoke to the Fourth Assembly of Methodist Women at Milwaukee. He alluded to the "fear psychosis" sweeping his country, and declared "it would be difficult to secure signers of the Declaration of Independence" today.

The same day, the American Baptist convention in Minneapolis passed a unanimous resolution condemning Communism but also against those who are "so intent upon combating the menace of Communism that they adopt the very principles and methods which make Communism itself so frightening.

"They attack nonconformity as subversive, make no distinction between dissent and disloyalty, confuse disagreement with disaffection, equate accusation with guilt. Truth is slanted for ulterior purposes or submerged in suspicion and fear."

In recent months certain Roman Catholic spokesmen have condemned current influences the methods of which are not in conformity with essential freedoms or the Christian attitude to these freedoms.

The mobilization by Christian churches is timely and necessary. Freedom of religion is inextricably interwoven with all other fundamental freedoms. If these other freedoms are lost, or restricted, that of religion cannot remain unimpaired.

All Christians, because of their beliefs, should be opposed to Communism as practised in such countries as Russia and China. It is the antithesis of Christianity. But, likewise, they should be alert to dangers from other quarters.

What has been transpiring in the United States the past couple of years rightly has aroused church leaders. It is an affront to the dignity of man; a threat to the freedoms which have their basis in Christian precepts and on which the Christian Church itself is dependent.

Betty's Weekly Letter to:

Dear Jane:

Did you read about the grandmother who was flagged down from a speed of 75 miles an hour to be told a little boy in a cowboy hat was riding on the rear bumper? Said grandma, in shocked surprise, "Patrick, what are you doing here?" It seems to me a 75-mile-an-hour grandma shouldn't be too surprised to find she had a bumper-riding grandson.

I've just been reading an article about safety on the highways. We seem to have come a long way from the days when the old grey mare stepped along at a speed of twelve miles an hour. But where we've come hasn't always been good.

Last Monday was Memorial Day in the U.S.A. and last weekend the people of the U.S.A. remembered their war dead. And in the process of remembering and in the process of the long weekend there were 362 dead on the highways of that country. It makes a heartbreaking picture, without thinking of the thousands who are left injured, crippled, shocked and saddened.

If every person has a car (and isn't that the dream of every person old enough to dream?) and if every person wants to go places, and if every persons wants to go to those places as fast as possible, it would appear to be an ever-increasing problem. That is unless television will be the answer—will folks sit at home and watch the world rush by on the television screen?

Some provinces and some states have maximum speed limits and some do not. There is that old question again, to legislate or not to legislate; to tell folks what they mustn't do or to educate them to do what they should. Then there is the argument that the fact of having a sign at the side of the highway saying "Speed Limit 60 Miles Per Hour" makes one who is only travelling at 55 feel pansy.

Where there is no speed limit, as in the state of Oregon, there is the Crusade for Safety. It is a pledge, and printed in the Oregon Journal, reads this way:

I WANT TO LIVE

This is my pledge:

I PLEDGE myself to drive with caution and walk with care from this day forward.

I PLEDGE this sincerely, knowing that on our highways human lives are taken by human carelessness.

I PLEDGE myself to exercise road courtesy at all times.

I PLEDGE myself further to talk safety to my family, friends and fellow workers, to educate them by example, and to promote safety activities in every organization to which I belong.

For these reasons I am joining
THE CRUSADE FOR SAFETY.
Signed .....

This at least draws attention to the situation and might help to make folks safety-minded. Of course there are some among the older generation who have a strong abhorrence of signing pledges. (This abhorrence, I think, stems from such things as elderly aunts pressuring the youth of long ago into signing pledges promising to never, no never, drink pop, coke or soda water.) The younger generation, having had less to do with pledges, is freer from inhibitions about signing.

Anyway, whatever the method, let's hope we will find a way in which to cut down traffic accidents, for most of us could sign "I WANT TO LIVE." As my better half says, "Just let me live till we get the atomic power really working for peace, and until war is outmoded and until I can take a trip to the ... until . . .

BETTY BLYTHE

Canadian Oil

Less than seven years ago Canada imported over 90 per cent of her crude petroleum needs. Today we are getting about half of it from our own fields in western Canada.

"Within two or three years," Imperial Oil's J. R. White told shareholders last week, the market for Prairie oil may be close to three times its present size, Canada, says White, is now in the "big oil country" class

What does this mean to all of us?

There's a tremendous saving in exchange. Money we used to spend on foreign oil we can now use for other imports.

There are new industries and new jobs, not just in oil refineries and pipelines but in vast associated lines such as the new petrochemical industry. And most of these new jobs and new industries are developing in a part of Canada that was almost an industrial blank prior to the large scale discovery of oil and gas.

Oil and gas are bringing real and major diversification to Prairie Canada, are broadening an economy which for so long was almost completely dependent on one or two farm products.

The whole of Canada gains from this significant change.—Financial Post.

Reader, R.R. 1—Where would I apply for a copy of a relative's will in Britain? This relative died a year or two ago.

Write to the General Register Office, Somerset House, Strand, Londoh, W.C. 2, England. Cost of copying a will would depend on length of document. If short, fee for research and copying would be small, if a lengthy one, the charge would be more.

R. D., Nakusp—The mirror dropped out of my Brownie camera. Where can I have it repaired? Also, how do I go about offering a song for publication? How are my song rights protected?

Ramsay's Camera Store, 497 Baker Street, or Stevens' Studio, 659 Baker Street, would repair camera for you. Regarding song: The easiest way for an amateur in song-publishing to overcome the complex matter of copyright is to submit song to music publisher who, if accepting, will attend to copyright on behalf of author and himself. Gordon V. Thompson, Ltd., Music Publishers, 902 Yonge Street, Toronto, Ontario, are always in the market for good Canadian compositions.

Interested, Castlegar—Could you give me an outline of the history of McIntyre Porcupine Mines Ltd.?

The company was one of the original gold producers of Porcupine camp. In 1916 the property was enlarged by acquiring claims of McIntyre Extension Mines, including property formerly held by Pearl Lake Gold Mines (in liquidation), and claims formerly held by Jupiter Mines; 1924 acquired property of Plenaurum Mines Ltd., and in 1925 of Platt Veteran Gold Mines, Ltd.; 1933, acquired Vickers property adjoining Coniaurum Mines; 1937 added Holtyrex property purchased at tax sale, also bought complete block of ground from Hollinger; 1951 acquired Dome property from Temiskaming Mining Co. Ltd.

Press Comment

Most Canadians would rather have this country respected than envied, thinks the Sydney Post-Record. "An envied individual or country often is resented rather than liked, and suspected of smugness and unpleasant self-satisfaction. Let us be spared becoming an object of envy."

Historic old buildings are still disappearing at a rapid rate, mourns the Hamilton Spectator. "In a country which has grown to nationhood faster than most, it is easy for the past's memorials to be undervalued. The day will come when a mature Canada begins to look back and to recognize the significance of its roots. Against that day, it is our duty to preserve what we can."

The Case of the Purple Grommet

By MILTON K. OZAKI

(Author of "A Date With the Devil", "Murder in My House", "Holding Hands With Death")

Dime was silent for awhile. Then he said: "I had the lab examine that canvas and grommet, Seth. They said the stain was caused by a solution of ammonium thioglycolate. It's a chemical used to test for the presence of iron, and it's also used in home permanent waving solutions. We figure that Mrs. Stanhope was passing the time by curling her hair."

Seth grunted skeptically. "Didn't find no curlers, or hairpins, or other fixings, did you?" he asked.

"Well . . . no, we didn't."

"What was she curling it on, then eh?"

Dime didn't reply. Instead, he smote his forehead with his fist and started for the clubhouse as fast as he could run.

A half-hour later, Dime's office looked like a madhouse. Investigators, officials and squad men milled about Dime's desk, making reports and getting new orders.

"I tell you," Dime declared, "we've approached this case from the wrong angle! We were trying to find someone who hated Stanhope, while the real motive is that $200,000 worth of jewels. Can't you get that through your heads? Now, go out and locate Stanhope's physician. Bring him in. I want to talk to him."

Gradually, the chaos subsided and the intricate police organization began to function smoothly. A squad radioed a report from the north side of the city that Leonard Binney had not returned to his hotel, that the manager of the honky-tonk where he had worked remembered Stanhope and Marie Ronelle, and that Stanhope and the bartender named Whitey used to joke about their resemblance.

"Locate Binney!" Dime ordered. "Check every hangout he ever frequented if necessary—but locate him!"

Descriptions of Binney and Marie Ronelle were teletyped to all police stations in the Midwest. Railroad stations, bus depots, and airlines were alerted. Finally, Dime phoned the Powder Box Beauty Salon and asked that a permanent waving specialist be sent to his office.

Fifteen minutes later, Sergeant Regan reported: "The fellow from the beauty shop is here, Lieutenant. His name is Wylie."

"Send him in," Dime ordered. A tall, handsome man in a beautifully tailored gray suit strode into the office. Dime waved him to a chair. "Thank you for coming so promptly, Mr. Wylie," Dime said. "You're a specialist on cold permanent waving methods and solutions?"

"I'm supposed to be," the hairdresser said in a slow drawl. "What is it you wanted to know?"

"I want to know exactly what function ammonium thioglycolate performs in curling hair."

"Well, it's rather difficult to explain, Lieutenant, without getting real technical. Actually, it softens and relaxes the hair so that the hair can assume the shape of the rods on which it is wrapped."

"It relaxes the hair?"

"That's right. After the hair is relaxed, we neutralize it with another chemical and the hair retains its new shape permanently."

"I see." Dime chewed his lip thoughtfully. "What if you used it on a head of naturally curly hair?"

"It'd relax that hair, too," the hairdresser said. "When hair is too curly, we sometimes comb the solution through it in order to straighten it."

"Do you mean," Dime asked slowly, "that, if I had curly hair, I could straighten it merely by combing such a solution through it?"

"Yes, indeed. You'd have to do quite a lot of combing, but the hair would certainly become straight."

"I'll be darned!" Dime exclaimed. "I'm certainly greatly obliged to you, Mr. Wylie. You may not realize it, but I think you've supplied a vital link in the solution of a very clever murder case. Again—thanks very much!"

The phone on Dime's desk buzzed peremptorily. "Yes?" he growled into the transmitter. A voice clattered excitedly over the wire.

"She's where?" Dime demanded. "Did you find out where she's going?" He listened intently, and then said: "All right. Let her go, but don't lose her. Keep close to her every minute, understand?"

A moment later a flash came over the police teletype. A man answering Binney's description had been seen in Waukegan where he had chartered a small cruiser. Receipt of this information sent Dime into a frenzy of activity and, three minutes later, his black police sedan, with Sergeant Regan driving, was screaming its way to Grant Harbor.

The UBCM

. . . F. S. Pearce

Mayor Claude Harrison of Victoria, of book burning fame, doesn't think much of the Union of British Columbia Municipalities. He thinks the Union is all tosh and poppycock and so forth. That is not surprising from the mayor who has a reputation for exhibitionism but what is surprising is that he is supported by James K. Nesbitt who is ordinarily so suave and unimpassioned, and Mr. Nesbitt supports him in no uncertain terms.

If you are like me you will incline to the belief that it is a good thing for our worthy city councillors, once a year, to leave our fair city, if only to find that there are other cities in B. C. You will think it is good for them to mix with those engaged in the same work, to get new ideas (if possible) and to enlarge their horizons. You will think, too, that it is only right and proper that they should have a small holiday at our expense. Why not? To quote the Good Book, "The laborer is worthy of his hire," and if that is not sufficiently apposite, "Thou shalt not muzzle the ox that treadeth out the corn." No, we should not grudge them their little blaze of glory as delegates from the great and prosperous city of Nelson. It is indeed a pleasure to be a delegate, for duty mixed with entertainment makes a very good combination.

PUSSYFOOTING RELIEF

At the same time Mr. Nesbitt should not be condemned for his article. Far from it. It was a very good article. In these days when everyone pussyfoots around saying nothing but sweet words it is refreshing to read an article which has a smack in every paragraph. It is a revolt against what Roger Babson calls "the mediocrity of conformity" and shows that we haven't quite sunk into a state of democratic apathy. That is all to the good, for it is difficult to argue that the things that Mr. Nesbitt says are wrong or untrue, even if they are unpalatable.

Mr. Nesbitt is a parliamentary reporter and it may be that he is biased in favor of provincial governments. On the other hand it may be that it was just one of those days, the sort that we all get occasionally, when we start the day wrong or the boss takes the ... out of our hearts. Those are the d... when we see no good in anyth... not even in municipal unions.

A Canadian Tree Becomes a Newspaper

Every day, from Florida to Alaska, from California to Newfoundland, millions of people grab a newspaper to scan it rapidly and discard it, or to read it carefully from front page to last. They seldom stop to think that the newsprint on which their daily is printed is the end product of the hard work of thousands of Canadians, and the final form of millions of Canadian trees. Rich in forests, waterways, and water power, Canada is the world's largest producer of this short-lived commodity, with an output of nearly 6 million tons a year.

How fast this paper is produced and printed is shown in the above photographs by Harry Rowed, of Jasper, Alta., a top flight Canadian photographer, who followed a log from a raft on Lake Superior to the hands of a reader in Minneapolis, Minnesota, in order to get this story. Rowed chose the Port Arthur mill of the Abitibi Power and Paper Company, and the newspaper plant of the Minneapolis Star & Tribune. The Port Arthur mill, a medium size plant, turns out some 100,000 tons of newsprint annually. Like most U.S. newspapers the Star & Tribune purchases its newsprint in Canada where some 80 percent of all the newsprint consumed in the United States is made. With a daily circulation of almost half a million, and over 600,000 Sundays, it uses roughly two-thirds of all the newsprint turned out by this one Canadian mill.

Top row. Left: in mill pond, the log is shepherded toward slasher feeder. Centre: one hour and 25 minutes later, cut and barked, it is being pushed into grinder. Right: another 50 minutes, and the log, after going through beaters, thickener, and decker, has been turned into pulp which is entering wet end of the paper machine, 20 feet wide and several hundred feet long. Middle row. Left: it takes one minute for the wet pulp to become dry paper. Centre: less than one hour later, paper has been rewound, examined, cut in regular size rolls, wrapped, and is being loaded into box-car. At 12.30, train will steam out of port Arthur on its way to Minneapolis, arriving at its destination four days later. Right: removed from box-car, rolls are shown nearing Star-Tribune building. Bottom. Left: twenty minutes later, two rolls are being spooled prior to press run. Centre: it takes only 40 seconds for paper to go through press, and be printed, folded, trimmed and picked up by mailroom conveyor. Right: less than five minutes later, paper bought at first drop-off point in Minneapolis is being read by an office worker during his lunch hour. Note that the front page of his copy of the Minneapolis Tribune features Rowed's first Port Arthur picture which is at top left. From the time paper arrived in Minneapolis to hands of the reader, less than one hour has elapsed. In both instances, these are the fastest times attainable, and have, when the need arose, been attained.

IODE Contributes $500,000 To Varied Causes in Year

By PAULINE KENNEDY
Canadian Press Staff Writer

SAINT JOHN, N. B. (CP)— The Imperial Order Daughters of the Empire in a year of record activity contributed more than $500,000 to such varied causes as disaster relief, cigarets for the troops and institutional aids.

In 1953-54 the program cost $558,065.14, exceeding the 1952-53 total by $130,526.96.

In a report prepared for delivery at the annual meeting of the national IODE, services convener, Mrs. R. C. Altimer of Toronto, outlined part of the work accomplished by the committee on national services at home and abroad.

WIDE VARIETY

The order has given everything from television sets, room furnishings, oxygen units and band instruments to hospitals and institutions. Members contributed $116,899 in cash and kind for Britain and Holland flood relief, and came to the rescue of Greek earthquake victims with $11,393.14 worth of clothing and equipment.

An appeal was made in April for used hearing aids to be turned over for repair and re-use. More than 150 have come in to date.

Mrs. B. B. Osler of Toronto, the order's civil defence liaison officer, explained the relatively new field in her report. Members have been working locally in civil defence for two or three years, but the IODE as an organization did not participate until last year.

Civil defence welfare work is of particular interest to the order. Members have attended courses and many municipal chapters have appointed CD liaison officers.

Reporting for the immigration and Canadianization committee, convener Mrs. G. L. Hamilton of Windsor said that 168,868 immigrants entered Canada during 1953-54.

IMMIGRANTS AIDED

She said many of them had been reached by various IODE services. The order greets immigrants at ports of arrival, runs basic English classes and sponsors an organization which translates Canadian descriptive material into foreign languages. Members make a point of visiting sick and lonely new Canadians.

SOCIAL FUNCTIONS

Mrs. C. L. Brown of Hamilton, convener of the Empire and world affairs committee, reported an increased interest in international affairs.

"Many chapters have made use of special speakers from outside the order," Mrs. Brown said. "Alberta reports a notable increase in the number of guest speakers."

She said study of the United Nations was accelerated in Alberta by chapters sponsoring a high school students seminar on the organization at Banff. Students reported their findings to the chapters after the seminar.

IODE Spent $192,571 on Education in 1953-54

SAINT JOHN, N.B. (CP) — The Imperial Order Daughters of the Empire spent a record total of $192,571 on educational projects in the last fiscal year.

As an organization primarily interested in "the welfare of our country," it is obvious that much of the activities of the IODE must be in the field of education, said Mrs. O. M. Martin of Toronto educational secretary, in a report prepared for delivery at the national meeting of the IODE here.

"Today, Canada is confronted with the task of how to provide a sufficiently broad general education to fit our children to be useful, patriotic citizens, and also equip them for a profession or trade," she said.

At present, she said, there is a division of opinion about the road education should follow. But the IODE's reply is a highly organized program of student assistance.

Much general educational assistance is given, but the emphasis is on the individual. Scholarships were given for advanced study in English, history, science, music, art, agriculture, nurse and teacher training.

In all, 1060 students were aided, 201 of whom came from homes of ex-service personnel.

The IODE library plan, which has just completed its first year, is working well, Mrs. Martin said. In 1953, 1086 libraries were placed in schools.

A primary chapter in Quebec provided $300 for a school reference library; one in Alberta donated the $6000 contents of its own chapter library to the municipality. In British Columbia, a chapter contributed $1600 to the art centre of the University of British Columbia; another offered a bursary in theology for the first time.

During the year various chapters have sponsored art clubs, musicians and orchestras, concerts and lectures, tours for school children, special classes for blind, retarded and immigrant children, and many other services.

The national film convener, Mrs. D. W. McGibbon of Toronto, reported that the IODE pulled out all the stops in purchase and circulation of films covering the Coronation.

Titles such as "The Queen Is Crowned," "House of Windsor," "Coronation of Her Majesty," and "Canada at the Coronation," were among films in popular demand.

Our Father's Business

Blessed is the man that walketh not in the council of the ungodly, Nor standeth in the way of sinners, nor sitteth in the seat of the scornful. Psalm 1:1.

The first psalm is short, but very potent; containing a stern warning for the ungodly, and contrasting the misery and doom of the wicked to the blessedness of those who love and fear their creator.

The first thing we notice from our text is the progressiveness of sin. Men seldom grow better; except through the transforming power of God. The rule is that we grow progressively worse. The longer we remain in our sins the more we indulge in them. In the first stage, we seem to be "ungodly." To be Godly is to be devout, to be ungodly is to be unconcerned and disinterested in God and spiritual matters. That in itself is, of course, sinful, but the Psalmist puts "sinners" into another category; that is the second stage—we add transgression to ungodliness, and become openly sinful. Now we only have to look around us to see many in each of these categories. Yet it is possible to sink even more deeply into sin; to become scornful. The "ungodly", and the "sinners" are nevertheless usually respectful, but the scorner, how awful will be his doom! The scripture tells us that "fools make a mock at sin."

The outcome of sin in any degree is separation from God and eternal punishment. "The ungodly are like the chaff that the wind driveth away — tey shall not stand driveth away — they shall not stand in te judgement, nor shal lthe "sin- of the righteous. Consider then, the blessedness of those who do not fall into any of these categories. — "He shall be like a tree planted by the rivers of water, that bringeth forth his fruit in his season; his leaf also shall not wither; and whatsoever he doeth shall prosper." My friend, where do you walk or stand, or sit; in the ways of wicked men; or in the paths of righteousness. Remember, "The lord knoweth the way of the righteous; but the way of the "ungodly" shall perish."

ENDORSE RESOLUTION FOR LOTTERIES

VANCOUVER (CP) — Women's Institutes of British Columbia have gone on record as favoring the legalization of hospital lotteries in Canada.

Delegates attending the final session of the organization's three-day biennial conference here, endorsed a resolution urging the federal government to legalize such lotteries.

Delegates said lotteries are supported by a great number of Canadians and have proven beneficial to hospitals and charities in other countries.

Mrs. Ada A. Shaw of Vancouver was re-elected president of the organization.

Other resolutions called for more severe punishment for drug agents and drug peddlers; establishment of a dental faculty at UBC; and urged the provincial government to take further steps towards training and education of mentally handicapped children.

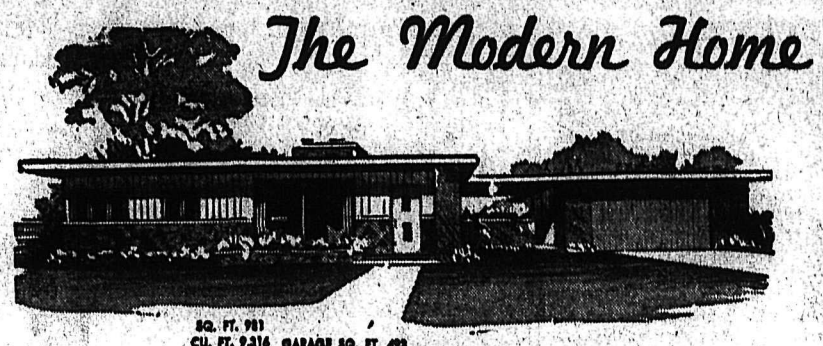
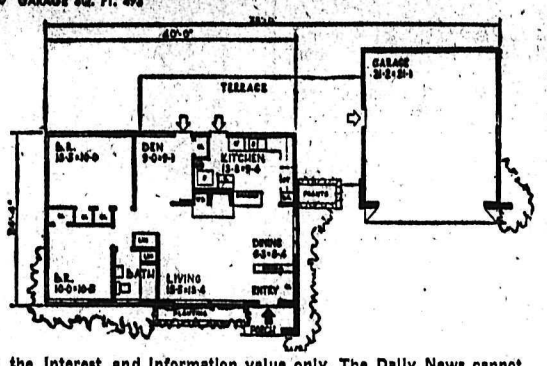
The Modern Home



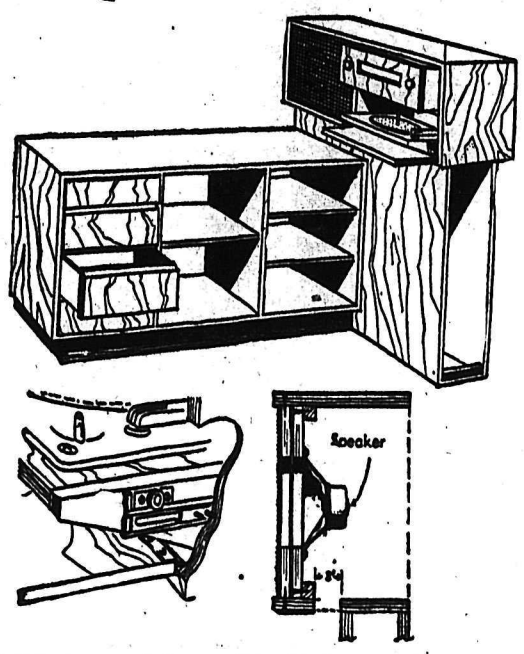
SQ. FT. 981
CU. FT. 9,316 GARAGE SQ. FT. 493



Flat roof lines, cleverly arranged "Open Planning" and an abundance of closets and windows are notable features in this home. A large fireplace is featured in the living-dining area with a snack bar opening into the kitchen.

These plans are published for the interest and information value only. The Daily News cannot supply detailed blueprints or specifications. Those contemplating building homes should consult a local architect, designer or builder.

It's Easy to Build Compact Music Nook



Built-in storage units have probably contributed more to the general comfort, convenience and good looks of the modern home than any other single innovation of recent years.

When fashioned from light, strong and easily worked plywood, their clean-cut lines and smart finish give added distinction to any contemporary interior.

From the practical point of view, their adaptability to every home storage problem is a source of constant delight to the harried housewife. To the man of the house they offer an outlet for his natural bent for tinkering and an opportunity to add considerably to the value of his property at a minimum expense in materials and time.

There is not a room in the house that could not be made more livable as well as more attractive with the help of plywood built-ins, and a typical example is the simple, uncluttered design for a combination radio-phonograph cabinet and all-purpose storage unit shown here. Suitable for living room, den or bedroom, it consists essentially of three rectangular boxes of ¾-inch fir plywood with corners mitred or plain butted and fastened with nails and glue.

Working parts for the radio unit can, of course, be transferred direct from an outmoded cabinet and built into a drawer that pulls out for easy servicing. The radio speaker should be firmly mounted on a fir plywood panel and covered with any fabric that matches the scheme of interior decoration. Simply fold the fabric over the edges and fasten it out of sight on the back of the panel with glue and tacks.

Mount the base of the record player on standard ball-bearing slides to pull out when the cabinet door is opened, as shown in the detailed sketch in the accompanying drawing.

Particularly popular with every housewife who has sought vainly for a convenient corner in which to stow card tables where they will be out of the way when not in use is the card table storage box which forms a stand for the radio-phonograph cabinet in this space-saving combination. The roller at the base is easily made from a hardwood dowel mounted on screws that rotate in small metal bearings that can be easily cut from ¾-inch pipe.

Completing the combination is the highly practical all-purpose storage unit providing space for the storage of record albums, magazines, stationery and writing implements, and the many miscellaneous odds and ends that will accumulate in the living quarters of even the most conscientious of housekeepers.

Resting on a frame of 2x4's faced with ¼-inch fir plywood and set back three inches from the face of the cabinet to provide toe room, the storage unit has top, bottom, sides, doors and partitions of ¾-inch fir plywood and is backed with a sheet of ¼-inch material, to take which the back edges of the frame should have a ¼-inchc rabbet. Shelves should also be recessed ¼ inch at the back for the same reason.

Housewives Join in Do-It-Yourself Fun

By HERMAN HANDY

Move over, men! The little lady wants a place at your work-bench.

That's the cry that is sweeping the do-it-yourself trade all over the country as woman, emancipated from the kitchen, is carving a niche for herself in the workshop.

According to latest communiques the movement is meeting with isolated pockets of resistance in some provinces, but most husbands, it seems, are only too willing to put the gals to work.

Joe, who rides to work with me, is in the vanguard of the liberation movement.

"With a dishwasher, automatic washer and dryer, the mussus just hasn't enough work to keep her busy any more," he confided a few months ago. "I'm going to try to get her down in the basement to help out."

PRODUCTION DOUBLED

He did, and before long his workshop was turning out double his former production, and his wife was boasting to her friends that she could run a plane or a drill as easy as a vacuum cleaner. She also mentioned, quite casually, that she found sawing, planing, sanding and painting far more effective than exercises for keeping the waistline down. That did it.

Soon her girl friends were down in her basement to see for themselves, and before long in our neighborhood half the women were pestering their menfolk to join in the fun. Nowadays, when they get together over a cup of tea, the ladies are more likely to be discussing Douglas Fir Plywood than knitting.

EASY TO TRACE

It's the same story in many parts of the country. Lumber dealers are distributing how-to-do-it plans simple enough, that gals who are used to following patterns for the sewing machine can trace similar patterns on the big plywood sheets now used almost universally for home crafts.

And in a few forward-looking high schools, we understand, young ladies are encouraged to attend shop-work classes with the boys.

A few husbands are still swimming against the tide, barking at their women-folk whenever they poke a nose inside the workroom door. But the smart boys are welcoming their wives (and daughters) into the once sacred precincts and putting them to work.

SIMPLE JOBS FIRST

Most women like to win their spurs on the simpler jobs—sanding down plywood edges, oiling and painting. They often display a patience in these areas that their husbands lack, and produce a smoother-finished product.

From here they can go on to planing, drilling holes, sawing, and . . . well, the sky's the limit. One woman we heard about started out building a bird-house, and, encouraged by the results, next built a four-room doll house for her little girl.

Mrs. Farquason, who lives a few blocks away, worked hand in glove with the architect and builder on their new home. Her husband was at work all day when the owner-supervision had to be done, and, besides, he wasn't much good at that sort of thing. But his wife Marguerite studied everything she could find about houses, and was quite an expert by the time they moved in.

WORK TOGETHER

Other gals go to work beside their husbands in putting up partitions, building or finishing new rooms, or making furniture.

My friend Joe told me on the bus the other morning his husband-wife partnership was going fine.

"In fact," he said, "I'm hoping in a few weeks the missus will be able to do all the work, and I'll just sit and supervise."

TABLE PLANTER

By DONALD R. BRANN

Bridge and party favors have become "big business." I recently received a letter from a man who wrote to say that three months ago doctors told him he would never walk again. He went on to say he didn't care whether he lived or died when he heard their verdict. Slowly, he started puttering around a specially built workbench his wife rigged up. His letter went on to say that now, thanks to the patterns they have been ordering each week, he's developed a growing business and a better appreciation of being alive.

He particularly mentioned this Pony Table Planter as being a very popular item. Besides making them for the gift market, many flower shops are beginning to sell these completely planted.

If you haven't tried your hand making anything out of wood, here's a one night project that you ought to try. It can be used as a child's pull-toy, as a centerpiece for the table, or as a receptacle for cigarettes, matches, swizzle sticks, coasters or other whatnots. Children love this kind of a pull-toy and if you have one in the family, let him help in making it.

I asked a child psychologist some time ago how early he thought a child should be allowed to use tools. His reply surprised me. Let every child join in the fun of making something. While he may be too young to comprehend the what, when, where or why of tools, or materials he'll long remember helping Dad. It's one of the best ways to build a feeling of belonging. He went on to say that character can be built in a child as rapidly as an individual builds with wood. If only people would appreciate how easy it is to mould a child's mind, his habits, self confidence and general outlook on life, they could do much to eliminate disappointments later in life. A child who is given a hammer, a piece of wood or a dry paint brush to hold until Daddy needs it, or holds a piece of wood while it is being nailed, develops an interest far greater than the average parent realizes.

This doctor went on to say that these full size patterns provide excellent teaching aids in that even a child quickly comprehends the relationship between a full size paper pattern and a piece of wood cut to the same shape.

Few grownups fully appreciate why these patterns are so easy to use. Since each part of the project is shown full size in its exact position on the pattern, the subconscious fear of not being able to build the article is completely eliminated.

Having a clear mind to analyze each step of procedure even the unskilled person can quickly and professionally build something he is proud to display.

To further help in turning out a first rate job, painting guides are provided. These are traced directly onto the article and painted with the colors specified.

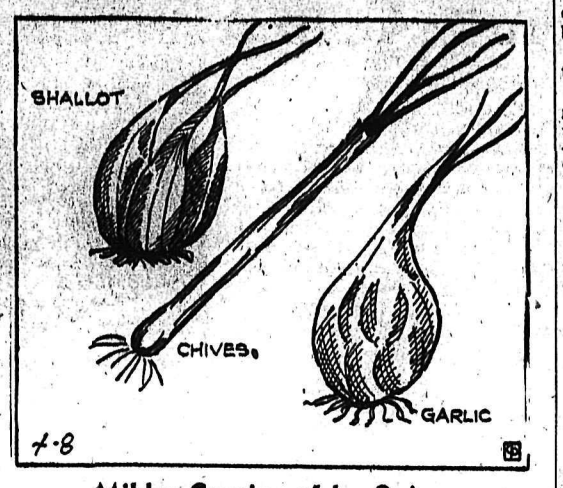
Home, Garden Hints



Milder Cousins of he Onion

By DEAN HALLIDAY
Distributed by
Central Press Association

This department frequently receives requests for information about relatives of onions which are not quite so forceful in character and personality.

There are three cousins of the onion which home gardeners should cultivate. They are the shallot, chives and garlic. All three are shown in the accompanying Garden-Graph.

Many cooking recipes call for shallots, but the housewife generally has to substitute young onions. In spite of similarity in appearance and taste, the shallot is not an onion, although it is a close relative.

Shallots should be grown in the home vegetable garden, as they are not often found in the market. Most seed catalogues list them and they are not difficult to grow.

Sets planted this spring will mature in late summer. They keep well. They are multipliers and one set will produce a cluster of bulbs or cloves when mature, as illustrated. The strong smell of garlic is absent.

Chives are often named in connection with shallots for salad dressings, but chives are fairly well known and can often be purchased in the market. They have a delicate flavor, and their slender leaves are often chopped up and used in small quantities in a green salad.

It is a perennial herb which is quite ornamental in appearance, having heads of lavender bloom in early summer.

Garlic may be grown in home gardens in the more southerly sections of the country. It is not so successfully grown in the north where it develops an unusually strong flavor.

Around the KOOTENAY in Sport

By LEN WALKER

The history of the British Empire and Commonwealth Games dates back to the date of the Coronation of His Majesty, King George V, in 1911. In connection with the Coronation, special celebrations were held including one known as the Festival of Empire, at the Crystal Palace Grounds.

One of the features of this program was an Inter-Empire Sports Meeting, and invitations were sent to Canada, Australia and South Africa. The program consisted of track and field athletics, boxing, swimming and wrestling events, and a trophy, presented by the Earl of Lonsdale, was won by the Canadian team.

As far as can be ascertained, the honor of first conceiving the idea of Empire Games should go to Mr. Richard Coombes of Sydney, Australia, who, before the period of the Festival of Empire, advocated their institution, and who, after that event, continually drew attention to their Imperial value.

Nothing very much happened, however, until 1928, when teams from the widely-scattered countries of the Empire gathered at Amsterdam for the Olympic Games. The friendliness between the Empire athletes shown here strengthened the feeling that Empire Games should be held, in which amateur athletes should meet and compete.

In view of Canada's victory at the 1911 Coronation, it was appropriate that it should have been mainly through the initiative of a Canadian, M. M. Robinson, manager of the track and field section of the Canadian Olympic team, that the Empire Games took definite shape.

They were revived then at Hamilton, Ontario, in 1930. A council was formed in London, with the Earl of Derby as president, Sir James Leigh-Wood as chairman, and Mr. Evan Hunter as organizing secretary.

Support was forthcoming from Scotland, Wales and Ireland, with the result that strong teams were sent to Hamilton. Teams also went to Hamilton from Australia, Bermuda, British Guiana, Newfoundland, New Zealand and South Africa and the events included track and field, bowling, boxing, rowing, swimming and wrestling.

No aggregate totals were kept, but it is interesting to note that England captured a majority of awards.

EVERY FOUR YEARS

The Hamilton Games were extremely successful from every point of view. During the Games, it was decided that similar Games should be held every four years, and that a British Empire Games Federation should be formed.

In 1932 the Olympic Games were held at Los Angeles, California, at which officials of the British Commonwealth were in attendance. Later, a meeting was held in London, and the Federation constituted. Sir James Leigh-Wood, KBE, CB, CMG, was named chairman; E. J. Holt was elected treasurer and E. A. Hunter, OBE, was named secretary.

In 1934 the Games were held in London and in 1938 they went to Sydney, Australia. The games were suspended during the war, and this year, of course, they are being held in Vancouver.

A few of the rules might be of interest. The Games are open to any member of the constituent parts of the British Commonwealth of Nations.

Each contestant must be a British subject, and either born in one of the constituent parts of the Commonwealth of Nations, or resident therein for at least six months prior to the Games.

No athlete may compete for one country and then, at future Games, represent another country.

And anyone having been classified as a professional at any time, in any sport, cannot compete in the British Empire Games.

THE BIGGEST

The 1954 Games will be bigger than any ever held. Whereas in 1950, 13 countries competed in the New Zealand show, at least 23 will be on hand in Vancouver. It is quite possible that the number of countries will reach 25 before the opening ceremonies.

The presence of so many different nations, from every country of the world, is, of course, creating tremendous enthusiasm throughout the Dominion. His Royal Highness, the Duke of Edinburgh will spend several days in Vancouver, attending the competitions at the various venues.

Majority of the athletes will be housed at Arcadia Camp at the University of British Columbia. The rowing will be held at the Vedder Canal, near Chilliwack and Abbotsford, and the rowers will be put up at a special camp near the site of their events.

It is expected that the first of the 800 competitors will arrive in the city two weeks prior to July 30. They are coming by every means of transportation, land, sea and air.

Between now and early July, each of the nations competing will be staging their individual trials. From scores of athletes trying to make the trip, only a few will succeed.

But the 700 who do succeed will certainly be the cream of the Commonwealth athletic crop, and many of these will be the best in the world at their particular sports.

PRODUCT OF HOURS OF HARD WORK and drive by Little League baseball officials and volunteers is the stadium pictured here and to be the scene soon of opening of the new season. New bleachers, centre, will bring seating accommodation up to about 250 and the new seats will have back rests. Field was sown to grass this Spring. The Little League has spent nearly $3000 in developing the stadium and this does not include work of volunteers who last year hauled out 75 truckloads of rock and hauled in 200 loads of soil. Business firms assisted by donating material such as poles, grass seed and so on, or by providing it at cost. City crews planted grass, but cost of their labor was borne by the league. Funds to pay for the task were raised by League workers.—Daily News photo.

French Horses Take Top Honors In Oaks Stakes

EPSOM, England (CP) — France swept the board at Epsom Friday. Her fillies filled the first three places in the 176th Oaks Stakes, companion classic to Wednesday's Derby.

Sun Cap, the only grey in the field, came from last to first to win by six lengths going away. Marcel Boussac's Altana was second, a length ahead of Paul Buboscq's Philante, which beat the Aga Khan's Bara Bibi in a photo finish for third.

Thus three of the four French-owned entries froze the 16 English fillies right out of the money. The fourth French horse, Rabella, was far back.

Sun Cap, owned by Mme. R. Forget, was the last away, gained steadily to be seventh at Tattenham corner, then drew away in the run for home.

She was ridden by W. R. (Snapper) Johnstone, Australian jockey who has won 26 classic races in England, Ireland and France.

Sun Cap paid 100 to 8. Altana, ridden by Manny Mercer, was at 8 to 1 and Philante at 20 to 1.

The Cleveland Indians lost all but .007 of their American League lead Friday.

The Indians were beaten for the second straight day by the New York Yankees, 8-3, while second place Chicago defeated Boston 7-3.

Bob Keegan became the first pitcher in either league to win eight games as he scattered 11 Red Sox hits. Minnie Minoso collected three singles, was hit by a pitch, scored twice and drove in a run.

The Yankees got another look at Early Wynn, the big victim in their seven run first inning barrage of Wednesday night, and this time they got to him for three runs in the first. A single and a walk set up a home run by Yogi Berra.

Bobby Avila of the Indians, the league's top hitter, was banished in the sixth for jostling umpire Bill Grieve, after being called out on strikes. The Mexican second baseman faces a 10-day suspension for the run-in.

WIN ON ERROR

Roy Sievers drove in both Washington runs but he misplayed a fly ball into a three-base error in the eighth inning to allow Detroit's winning run to score as the Tigers beat the Senators 3-2. Sievers contributed a home run and two singles to the Washington attack.

Philadelphia pulled a game and a half ahead of Baltimore in their battle to stay out of last place, defeating the Orioles 7-6. Ed McGhee drove in four runs with a two-run homer and a bases-loaded single for the Athletics. Bob Chakales, making his first start for Baltimore since being traded by Cleveland, failed to last through the third inning.

In the National League's only day game Brooklyn shaded Chicago 2-1 as Carl Erskine won in Wrigley Field for the first time in his career. Roy Campanella drove in Jackie Robinson with the winning run in the sixth inning. Bob Rush was the loser.

Leafs, Smokies to Continue League Rivalry Sunday

The Nelson Maple Leafs will play host to the Trail Smoke Eaters Sunday afternoon and evening when a doubleheader will be played in the West Kootenay Baseball League at Recreation Grounds.

The Leafs along with Fruitvale are atop the league with one victory each. The Leafs downed the Smokies last Sunday at Butler Park 6-2 while Fruitvale took the measure of the fourth club in the league Rossland by a 4-0 win.

Coach Bob McNabb expects to start Les Hufty in te first game and follow up with Don Lefty McKinnon. In the second game it is likely that Roy Driver will get the starting assignment.

The Leafs in their effort to climb further up the ladder will be using Swede Larsen behind the plate with Marsh Severyn at first McNabb at second, Herb Lovett at short stop and Dunc Kennedy on third base.

The starting outfield will probably see Ken White, Frank Hufty and Bob Koehle patrolling the pastures with Reni Masi, Johnny Cone, Jim Todd and Ron Brown as reserves.

Plans are under way for both the Fairchild Airbase team and the George Builders of Spokane to make an appearance in Nelson on the 13th and 27th of June.

The loss went to Fred Hoodicoff who relieved in the ninth, giving up one hit, walking one and striking out one. Bill Rerehodoff pitched the first six frames and allowed but two hits and three runs.

Eight Tournaments Lined Up by Golfers

Dates for the various golf tournament trophy plays have been lined up by the Nelson golf club.

Heading the list of eight tournaments is the Reno Gold mine event which will get under way Sunday with its completion expected by next weekend.

Commencing at 9 a.m., the mixed two-ball will consist of nine hole play on three-quarter handicap. Partners for this event will be drawn at the dance Saturday at the club house.

July 1 will see play for the CIL Cup in a 27 hole medal play with a full handicap.

The club championship for the Appleyard-Lowe Cup will be staged on July 23. This tourney is expected to draw a large entry and it is anticipated that last year's winner, Johnny Leschuk will be back in action to defend his title.

The event of the year for the seniors of 50 years of age for the McBride Cup will be played August 8 and 15. This event is match play with a three-quarter handicap.

The Nelson Open for the Ken McBride trophy to be staged September 3, will see open flight play, and again a large entry is anticipated.

BORDER SERIES

Besides these events the annual international home and home series between Metaline Falls, Newport and Nelson will be staged.

Already in play is the Elmer Horton trophy event on full handicap. This continues all season with games being played almost every weekend.

The season will close this year with the Auld Lang Syne Tournament, the dates to be announced later.

Diamond, Going Concern Behind BEG Fund-Raising

VANCOUVER (CP) — The athletes who compete in the British Empire Games here July 30 to Aug. 7 will do so in the shadow of hundreds of other performers.

The games special events committee has closed out its books—ledgers which show a total of $205,000 raised in aid of the spectacle by professional and amateur athletes from the United States and Canada and show people.

Jack Diamond, Polish-born president of a Pacific coast meat-packing firm and head of the committee, Friday gave thanks to those who helped put the monumental task over in 13 months.

But the ones who know, give most of the credit to the husky 44-year-old sportsman who organized professional golfers, hockey players, bowlers, pro and amateur baseballers, square dancers, racing officials across Canada and visiting entertainers.

NAILED DOWN NICKELS

Diamond set up "days," the Caledonian Games, put on carnivals, home-cooking exhibitions and wherever there was a loose nickel, nailed it.

He cut Canada-wide red tape when he arranged to have special horse racing days declared, two last year and three in 1954. The only difficulty he couldn't overcome was encountered in his own home town. A home cooking exhibition was declared illegal when a television set was donated as a door prize. He refunded the admission to all who insisted.

Biggest single donor was horse racing, ironically since it stands to lose heavily to the games. Provincial and federal taxes were waved for both special meets and the games netted $80,000 last year and $75,000 this year. Racing stands to suffer since the games fall in the midst of the 70-day race meeting here this summer.

Diamond, the man behind the $205,000 project, still has time to act as "mayor of Marpole," a post for which he was unanimously selected by service clubs, merchants and the Chamber of Commerce. Marpole is a suburban district south of Vancouver. The unofficial mayoralty post goes to the resident or businessman chosen most popular each year.

Hogan Delays Try On Stiff Course

NEW YORK (AP) — Ben Hogan, the champion of all golf, has put off his first official crack at the heavyweight champion of golf courses—massive, fanged Baltusrol, but 150,000 handicap golfers still will get a chance to outscore him today.

Hogan was to test the 7027-yard, par 70, Baltusrol which has been par 70, Baltusrol which has been traps, in the third annual National Golf Day in which handicap golfers match their scores against his.

They still will shoot their rounds but Bantam Ben will wait until June 12 before testing Baltusrol, scene of the national open June 17-19.

4-Team Columbia League Names Leader

INVERMERE — Annual meeting of the Columbia Valley Baseball League elected E. A. Wilder of Invermere president, Dominic Nicholas of Fairmont vice-president, Tim Thygessen of Invermere secretary-treasurer and Vaughan Kimpton of Windermere commissioner.

Four teams will comprise the league this year as last year. They are Edgewater, Canal Flat, Lake Windermere and Wilders' Camp.

Denver-Silverton To Tangle With Nakusp Sunday

NEW DENVER — The New Denver-Silverton ball club will tangle with the strong Nakusp club this Sunday at the Dewis Memorial park in Silverton. This will be the first time these two teams have met this year.

The New Denver-Silverton squad started off the season with a convincing 4-2 win over Kaslo but dropped both ends of a double-header to a smart playing Creston crew on Victoria Day losing 4-3 and 5-3. The Nakusp nine have a win and a loss with Kaslo and a win over Edgewood on Victoria Day. The New Denver-Silverton club has a strong mound crew in right-handers Ken Gordon and Tom Bryan and lefty Ray Kynock, a youngster who has improved with each time out. Nakusp has three right handers with plenty of promise in Patterson, James and Hale.

The New Denver-Silverton nine will be strengthened with the return of third baseman Dutch Groenhousen and hard hitting shortstop Dave Crellin. Speedy Nobby Hayashi will probably get the catching chores with Barry Morrison and Andy Avison rounding out the infield. Patrolling the outfield will be Maz Yoshida, Kenje Hayashi, Tom Ida and Wayne Morrison.

Charged With Bribe Attempt

By MURRAY ROSE

NEW YORK (AP) — Clarence Henry, ranked as the No. 3 heavyweight contender only two years ago, was arrested Friday on a charge of offering a $15,000 bribe to middleweight contender Bobby Jones to throw his June 11 fight with Joey Giardello.

District-Attorney Frank S. Hogan announced the arrest of the 27-year-old boxer shortly after Robert K. Christenberry, chairman of the state athletic commission, and Jones' eastern representative, Bobby Melnick, disclosed that two attempts had been made to bribe Jones last Saturday and last Tuesday.

Christenberry praised both the 28-year-old Oakland, Calif., Negro, father of five children, and Melnick, for promptly reporting the approaches.

The commissioner said the 10-round bout between Jones, No. 7 middleweight contender, and Giardello, third-ranking 160-pounder from Philadelphia, would go on as scheduled in Madison Square Garden.

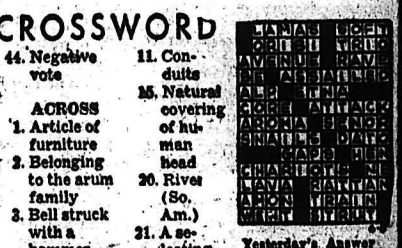
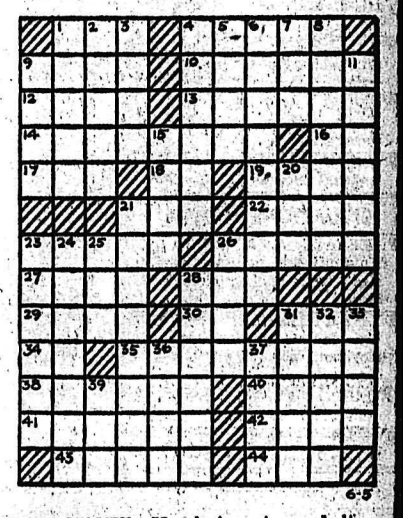
Yesterday's Answer





DAILY CRYPTOQUOTE—Here's how to work it:

is L O N G F E L L O W

One letter simply stands for another. In this example A is used for the three L's, X for the two O's, etc. Single letters, apostrophies, the length and formation of the words are all hints. Each day the code letters are different.

A Cryptogram Quotation

W I W Y M O I A Y S N G K W J N W Q S J K T Y H I O J, W K M M P I Q N Y L U Q K M Z Y N G K C L J P W G Y W B I L' W T C I O J— V M Y L N G J.

Yesterday's Cryptoquote: STRANGE TO SEE HOW A GOOD DINNER AND FEASTING RECONCILES EVERYBODY—PEPYS.

Aid to Korea Started at IODE Annual Meeting

By PAULINE KENNEDY
Canadian Press Staff Writer

SAINT JOHN, N.B. (CP)—A project to aid Korea was born at the national annual meeting of the Imperial Order Daughters of the Empire.

A newly-created "Korea projects fund," will provide equipment and food to alleviate suffering. The IODE will concentrate on needy children, working through the "save the children" fund.

First objective is a $6000 x-ray machine for a children's health centre in Pusan. Mrs. R. C. Latimer of Toronto, convener of services at home and abroad, proposed the idea in her report. She said recently the children's clinic has only had the use of a Swedish Red Cross machine a few hours each week.

Highlighting the country's distress, Mrs. Latimer said that the Korean ministry of health lists 1,300,000 active cases of tuberculosis, many of them children.

WELFARE NEGLECTED

She said the "save the children" fund is promoting child welfare because it is largely neglected in Korea. Widows are prohibited by law from re-marrying, and there is no government allowance for fatherless children, or relief of any kind.

Surplus from the IODE fund will be used for baby food, powdered milk, hospital supplies and nursery school apparatus.

Earlier, during a report on the IODE Empire and world affairs committee, convener Mrs. C. L. Brown of Hamilton, Ont., warned of apathy towards Communism, saying it seemed to be paralyzing the nation.

Nelson Jaycees Outstanding Unit At Penticton

The Nelson Jaycees were chosen the outstanding unit at the Junior Chamber of Commerce convention in Penticton. They were presented with a speakers stand with a message to this effect on it.

Jack Morgan mentioned that the Nelson Jaycees had had only about nine delegates there compared to several larger representations by other units. In view of this the receiving of this honor was the more remarkable. President Alan Ramsden mentioned the fine job done by Mr. Morgan in promoting the Nelson unit at the convention.

Nelson Jaycees will not have a representative at the national Junior Chamber meeting at Regina. A motion was passed that President James Cameron of the Trail Jaycees carry the Nelson proxy and vote for them at the Regina meeting. Resolutions to be presented at the Regina convention were discussed briefly.

ISSUE CHALLENGE

Earl Jorgensen, in presenting the report of the bonspiel committee, said no meeting had been held recently. However, at the Penticton convention Mayor Don McKay of Calgary was presented with a curling sweater and a plaid cap and a challenge to curl against the Mayor and Council of Nelson. In return Mr. Jorgensen was presented with a 10-gallon hat.

The hoedown and beach party, bonspiel week activities the Jaycees will sponsor, were discussed. William Horner is chairman of this committee. Plans are under way for this event. Mr. Jorgensen suggested that a curling booster button similar to the hockey ones might be a method of promoting the bonspiel.

It was decided to seek the assistance of the Jaycee-ettes in giving refreshments to incoming curlers at the ferry at bonspiel time. Desire to raise the bonspiel to the national prominence of the Calgary Stampede and the Kelowna Regatta was expressed.

Guests were Secretary J. A. Bracken and tourist committee T. D. Rosling of the Senior Chamber, Ernest Busch of Kelowna and Neil Hood of Nelson.

Baffin Island, a vast peninsula north of Hudson strait, was discovered by the navigator William Baffin in 1616.

Strong Demand for Dry Lumber; 10 More Men To Go on Second Ferry

A general improvement may now be reported in employment conditions throughout the Nelson Employment Service office area. Conditions, however, are not quite as favorable as they were during the same period last year. Reports on agriculture from various sources indicate good crops are expected in tree fruits. Late frosts did not damage crops to the extent that was previously forecast.

The logging industry is not in full swing owing to a late "run-off" at higher levels. Many smaller operators are working at lower levels. As soon as the larger stands of timber can be more readily reached, which under normal summer weather should be in two weeks, the larger companies will then go into full scale operations. This could mean throughout the Local Office area an increase of up to 250-300 in employed loggers. The demand for logs is quite heavy as the sawmill operators report a strong demand for "dry" lumber both from the Canadian and U. S. markets. Prices for "dry" lumber although not good is such that it can be offset by heavier sales volume. The 1954 season for lumbering and logging from all indications will be good with every possibility of employing more men than last year particularly in the Nakusp area served by the Local Office.

From indications and information received, it would appear that the unemployment situation in regard to base-metal mining will remain unchanged. Active properties do not contemplate any increase in present crews as plans for expansion and full development are still curtailed owing to a "confused" feeling which is apparently being felt throughout the base-metal mining industry from mines to markets.

Construction work is more or less confined to the City of Nelson, with work being centered mainly on school construction. Employment opportunities in the construction field throughout the local office area will not be plentiful at any time during the 1954 season.

Business establishments, wholesale and retail, report business for this time of year to be anywhere from poor, fair, to fairly good depending on the type of merchandise handled. Various types of "sales" are necessary in order to stimulate sales and maintain volume. Tourist trade is off about nine per cent of last year's volume, but is expected to increase.

Production of small fruits will reach the same as previous years with the exception of strawberries where there is a decided decrease in acreage.

It is not anticipated that farm work will affect the labor situation as this work is normally taken care of by the farmer and family and by mutual exchange of labor between farmers.

TO STEP UP CREW

One of the three larger logging operators, who also operates a sawmill with dry kiln facilities, will increase the present logging crew of approximately 70 by an additional 90 in two weeks time if normal summer weather prevails.

A second operator will shortly increase present logging crew of 40 by approximately 100 men.

Reports indicate that more men will be engaged in logging this year as compared to last year particularly in the Nakusp area. Fewer men will be engaged in pole logging owing to a falling off in the demand for poles, but this condition will be more than offset by the expected increase in logging crews. It is difficult to estimate fairly accurately the number engaged in logging throughout the area due to the fact that a large number of farmers periodically log timber on their own property which is sold to nearby sawmills.

NEED BETTER PRICES

The prices for lead and zinc are the same now as they were last year when the smaller operators decided it was not a profitable undertaking to continue operations, consequently closed. There is at this time a feeling that some of the smaller inactive properties with higher grade ore may reopen and again attempt to operate on a more profitable basis. A slight increase in lead and zinc prices would more definitely assure the reopening of these mines. This could mean employment for approximately 100 to 150 men throughout the area.

The market for match blocks has been good during the month but few orders are now unfilled and it is expected that three male and 12 female workers will be temporarily laid off within one or two weeks.

The four larger sawmills in the area are operating to full capacity, double shifts operating both in mills and planers. Approximately 550 men are now engaged by all companies. The two mills with dry kiln facilities report a strong demand for lumber but prices weak. Prices have dropped as much as $12 per thousand over last year's. If this condition does not improve or if it deteriorates, one of these two operators maintains that ways and means must be devised to increase production at less cost in order to operate on a profitable basis.

The market for "green" lumber is rather spotty as the demand fluctuates. However, conditions are expected to remain the same this year as experienced last year, which means full employment for men in both types of mills.

WATER DAMAGE

One sawmill operator is concerned over the flood threat—if the present river level rises another five feet the mill will close until the waters abate. Approximately 100 men would be affected. At the present time it would appear that a 50-50 chance exists in regard to high water closing the mill.

Work at the Junior High School extension is expected to last for another two or three months with Bennett & White employing skeleton crews and sub-contractors supplying tradesmen.

At the Hume School extension work is proceeding satisfactorily. Thirteen men are employed and it is expected vacancies will occur for two or three more carpenters in 10 days. This contract should be finished in August. Total number employed at peak of construction will be 10-12 men.

A local contractor has commenced work on a $40,000 extension to the Truck Terminus. This should be finished within two months. At present 10 men are employed and during the next month a further five or six tradesmen may be engaged.

MORE FERRY CREWS

The new auxiliary ferry for Kootenay Lake was constructed by Yarrows at Victoria and shipped to Nelson for assembly.

The work of assembly is proceeding well and it is confidently stated the ferry will be in operation at the end of June. This ferry will enable 16 crossings of the main lake daily and additional crews of approximately 10 men to operate the ferry will be engaged by the Provincial Public Works Department. At present, in addition to the crew from Yarrows, about 10 local laborers are employed in the assembly of the ferry.

One hundred and fifty-one workers are now employed at the CPR diesel shops.

During the month a further 40 maintenance men were re-employed also three tradesmen on the B & B crews. The Company still has approximately 75 men not yet re-employed and is unable at this time to state if they will be needed this year. Much depends on flood conditions.

Two work trains have been put into operation on flood control and two operating crews taken off the auxiliary board.

Bland Honored for Scouting Aid As Commissioner Meets Leaders

Colonel C. T. Batten, new chief commissioner for British Columbia Scout Association, spoke to executives and scoutmasters from Nelson, Emerald Mine, Granite Road and Willow Point Thursday night in the Scout Hall. Accompanying him in the visit, part of a tour of 41 provincial points, was R. K. Jordan, provincial secretary.

Before the visitors gave their addresses to the Scout representatives, a "Thanks Badge" was presented by chairman J. J. McEwen to C. H. Bland, for his outstanding and ceaseless work in Scouting. Mr. Bland, who has worked with Scouts for 25 years, told of his belief that scouting is a fine movement for grownups taking part, as well as for the boys who receive the training and guidance.

Col. Batten described the organization as a fence, with its principles the fenceposts. He explained that with strong fenceposts the superstructure could be built high and kept high; with weak "posts" the structure could have no hope to survive and would tumble. As an instance, he stated that the Scout Law should not solely fill the category of a tenderfoot test, but should be taught as a thing to be practised always.

He explained how the proper use of the patrol system and court of honor in scouting furnished the thing every boy wants to have—the feeling of being in a "gang." He pointed out "you can't expect boys to develop a sense of responsibility unless you hand it to them."

MEMBERSHIP UP

In showing the progress of the Scout movement in B. C. he said that a membership of 20,000 had been passed, with a gain of over 100 per cent in the past six years, incorporated in 40 active districts, with 42 other groups in scattered areas. The parallel between Cubs and Scouts, however, (12,000 Cubs as compared with 6000 Scouts), showed that the program for the older boys "must be made more interesting." He outlined the Gilwell Training Course for scoutmasters and urged that every leader look into it with a view to taking its three courses.

Mr. Jordan told of the opportunity offered to two Scouts and two Junior Forest Wardens to participate in a horseback hike through Banff or another national park, and gave details on submission of applications.

He told of the one-week tour of B. C. planned by F. J. Finlay, chief executive commissioner of Boy Scouts for Canada. Among other points Mr. Finlay hopes to include in his strenuous schedule of visits is Trail, on October 25, and Mr. Jordan invited members to attend a meeting planned on that date.

Remainder of the meeting was taken up with discussion of the 8th Boy Scout World Jamboree to be held in August, 1955, at Niagara on the Lake. As 15,000 boys are expected to attend, planning for the event started over a year ago. This will be the first time the jamboree has been held outside of Europe.
