Prisoners Riot As Fire Fought

Kingston Penitentiary Scene of 2nd Fire; 3½-Hour Blaze Said Set; 750 Riot

KINGSTON, Ont. (CP) — Soldiers, police and prison guards quelled a riot by some 750 inmates at Kingston penitentiary Sunday while firemen battled a major fire in the penitentiary's trade shop.

Prison officials said the blaze, which burned out of control for 3½ hours, was deliberately set.

Only one person was injured — guard Ray Cole of Kingston, taken to hospital for treatment of eye burns.

Officials said the fire — second in three days at the penitentiary — broke out shortly after 11 a.m. Almost immediately most of the 1,000 prisoners started rioting. Guards left the prison yard and manned the walls and watch towers to prevent any attempt at a mass escape.

Police reinforcements were rushed in from Kingston city and provincial police detachments. A squad of 160 armed soldiers was sent from the army camp at nearby Barriefield.

Soldiers and police managed to force their way into the penitentiary yard shortly after noon and escorted in two Kingston fire trucks which had been parked outside the walls for more than an hour.

Surrounded by soldiers with rifles at the ready, firemen brought the blaze under control at about 2:40 p.m.

When Sunday's disturbance began, convict work parties were still clearing wreckage and water-soaked debris of a major fire Friday. That fire destroyed two roofs of the cross-shaped main building and severely damaged two others.

Prison officials said the Friday fire was caused by defective electrical wiring. Damage amounted to thousands of dollars but there was no detailed estimate.

SEARCHED CONVICTS

Police said they had little trouble once reinforcements arrived. They said the prisoners were forced to back suddenly toward the south yard as guards and police moved in a line toward them with drawn guns. The convicts were grabbed in pairs, searched and returned to their cells.

Fire damage Sunday was not estimated immediately.

During Friday's more serious fire, the convicts had remained orderly. Some helped fight the blaze; others carried coffee and sandwiches to the firemen.

No escape attempts were made, officials said. But a ring of armed guards was thrown around the thick limestone walls of the 131-year-old federal prison — just in case.

Paratrooper, Two Women Shot

NORANDA, Que. (CP) — The body of a 24-year-old Canadian Army paratrooper was found shot to death in a field near here Sunday about 400 yards from the spot where two women were shot Saturday afternoon. Police described the deaths as a double murder and suicide.

Police said the paratrooper, Jean-Claude Levesque, 24, or Noranda, who recently returned from Korea with the Royal 22nd Regiment, was shot through the mouth with a .22 calibre rifle.

They said Levesque was being sought in connection with the shooting of Mrs. Arthur Cousineau, 45, and her sister, Mrs. Boyd Edwards, 37, in the field near their Noranda home Saturday.

Police said Mrs. Edwards' daughter, 12-year-old Janice, told them she and her mother were picking blueberries with two other sisters when a man came up to them and demanded money. Mrs. Edwards said she had no money.

Then, she said, he ordered her mother to take off her clothes so he could make sure she had no money. Mrs. Edwards refused.

Janice said the man ordered her to take her clothes off. As Mrs. Edwards told him to "leave the girl alone," he shot her.

Mrs. Cousineau, in another part of the field, heard the screams and came running over, and told the man to "beat it," Janice said.

Instead, she said, he calmly reloaded his gun and shot Mrs. Cousineau. Then he fled.

W. GERMAN EXPORTS UP

BONN (AP) — Booming West Germany's exports increased by 20 per cent in the first six months of this year over the same period of 1953, the federal statistical office announced Sunday. Exports during the January-June period of 1954 totalled 12,059,000 marks ($2,867,000,000). Imports increased by 15 per cent to a total of 11,172,000,000 marks ($2,410,460,000).

Young Guard Retains Keys

KINGSTON, Ont. (CP) — Leslie McCallum, keeper of the keys, threw a monkey wrench into escape plans of 400-odd rioting prisoners at Kingston penitentiary Sunday by locking himself in a lookout dome.

The 23-year-old guard, exhausted and shaky but glad to be alive, told how he dashed to the lookout dome when the riot broke out and screaming, yelling mobs of prisoners rushed at him for the keys to the main gates of the fortress-like prison. He stayed there for three hours before running to safety.

"I was standing in the shop dome when I heard a noise.

"I shut the barricades and locked myself inside. The prisoners poured into the corridors but there was no way for them to get into the working area. I had the keys.

"They were yelling, just like one of those movie scenes of a prison riot.

"'Give us the keys or we'll burn you alive,' one of them yelled. I didn't say anything.

"The smoke was getting so bad I could hardly see.

"A pair of convict's overalls were hanging on a nail in the room. I grabbed them and pulled them over my uniform. Then I unlocked the barricade and went out.

"The power had gone off and it was dark as pitch. The smoke was getting worse. I figured I had only one thing left to do—go out and mingle with the prisoners and trust to heaven I could get by wearing the overalls.

"Nobody paid any attention to me. They were too busy trying to burn and smash everything. I joined one mob and started to work my way along the east wall. I was past the main cellblock and about to head for the main gate when they recognized me."

McCallum, a native of Moscow, Ont., reached the main gate which was eased open just far enough for him to squeeze by.

The howling prisoners, armed with knives, baseball bats, sticks and just about anything they could use for weapons, were left behind the gate.

Eight Countries Planning SE Asia Defence Meeting

LONDON (Reuters) — Eight countries announced Saturday they will meet in The Philippines on Sept. 6 to draw up a defence blueprint covering 4,000,000 square miles of land and sea radiating from Indo-China.

The U.S. state department said in Washington that the "like-minded" nations will confer at Bagiuo to set up a defensive organization "in the general area of Southeast Asia and the southwest Pacific."

A similar announcement was made by the foreign ministries of Britain, France, Australia, New Zealand, The Philippines and Pakistan.

But Pakistan—the only one of the five Colombo powers attending the conference—refused to commit herself to join any treaty the negotiators set up.

In Manila, Philippine senate president Eulogio Rodriguez said his country is "proud to be the host" to the conference. He urged steps to try to convince the four other Colombo powers — Burma, India, Ceylon and Indonisia — to send observers to Bagiuo.

In Canberra, informed Australian sources said Prime Minister Robert G. Menzies valued Southeast Asian defence plans so highly that he hoped to go to The Phillipines personally on Sept. 6 to lead his country's delegation.

The announcement came only a few hours after Communist Chinese Premier Chou En-lai alleged that the proposed pact is "being organized mainly against China" and called for resolute opposition to a Bagiuo treaty.

The state department said U. S. State Secretary Dulles will confer with Phillipine officials on Sept. 4, two days before the conference.

But in Paris, the French government's announcement said an opening date had not yet been fixed. Later a spokesman said it was "most probable" the meeting would open in September.

The French communique described the object of the conference as "to examine the present situation in Southeast Asia and to establish foundations for an agreement to assure peaceful development of the states concerned and mutual security in this part of the world.

The exact area of the alliance will be worked out in Baguio. But the directly-interested countries form a rough triangle with its points in Australia, The Phillipines and Pakistan.

COLLECTIVE ARRANGEMENT

The state department said the eight governments have agreed upon the need for "a collective security arrangement, in accordance with the purpose and principles of the charter of the United Nations, to strengthen the fabric of peace in the general area of Southeast Asia and the southwest Pacific."

Laos and Cambodia, the two smaller associated states of Indo-China, are considering sending observers to Bagiuo. The cease-fire agreements they signed at Geneva last month permit them to seek outside help if their security is threatened.

The pace first was suggested last April in a communique issued after talks between President Eisenhower and Prime Minister Churchill. It will probably be called the Southeast Asia Treaty Organization (SEATO).

Small Tea Party For Princess Anne

BALLATER, Scotland (AP)—Curly-locked Princess Anne, second in line of succession to the throne, celebrated her fourth birthday Sunday in rainy northeastern Scotland.

The smiling, golden-haired princess opened gifts of dolls, toy animals and books, and went to Crathie Church, near Balmoral Castle where the Royal Family is vacationing.

By tradition, birthdays in the Royal Family are spent quietly, but some young guests were invited for a tea party with Princess Anne and big brother Prince Charles, who is nearly six. Royal chef Ronald Aubrey baked an iced sponge cake with four candles. A telephone call from her father was expected Sunday.

Copter Rescues Inspector of Chimneys

SAINT JOHN, N. B. (CP)—"What I need in my business is a helicopter," F. J. Esson said with a tired grin Saturday afternoon when assisted from a helicopter basket after an ordeal of six hours and 16 minutes atop a 150-foot chimney here.

The 41-year-old chimney inspector from Toronto had been marooned on the lofty perch from 10:30 a.m., when a ladder broke, until 4:36 p.m., when the RCAF "flying egg-beater" from Greenwood, N.S., took him off. He left hospital at noon Sunday after admission for examination and rest.

The worst effects were exhaustion and sore eyes. An updraft had blown ash and soot into his face as he sat on the chimney top — six feet in diameter — towering over the manufacturing plant of T. McAvity and Sons, Ltd., on Rothesay Avenue.

His predicament posed a dilemma for police and firemen, as the highest aerial ladder of the fire department here is 88 feet, so an RCAF helicopter was requested. The nearest, based at Greenwood, lacked a pilot at the time and FO. J. C. Smith 24, Winnipeg, flew from Torbay, Nfld., to Greenwood for the emergency and lowered a basket.

GOBLINS ABROAD AT KOOLAREE

"The Goblins did it" was the note left to explain the Friday the 13th prank played on the Cabin 3 Desperadoes of Camp Koolaree. When the girls arrived at supper they found their whole table set backwards and their benches overturned.

Cabins 5 and 6 took to the lake for their boat-hike to Sheffield's Point. The girls swam, sun bathed and sang before preparing their supper over campfires.

Cabin 5 girls delighted the campers at campfire Friday night with their presentation of "Bratinella Buys a Doll." Included in the cast were: Olive Geldsbury, Martha Moore, Bev Daly, Lois Haley, Bev Salter, Doris Valentine, Eva Walker Barrie Huxtable, Anne Barrett and Avril McLaughlin.

Massive Drive Is Futile Trickle

NEW DELHI, India (AP) — The long-heralded "liberation" march by nationalists seeking an end to Portugal's 400-year colonial hold on territories in India appeared Sunday to have dwindled to a trickle of demonstrators, most of them teenagers.

The Portuguese national radio in Lisbon called the invasion a failure. It said all who did cross over from India into Portuguese territory were arrested. Those taken to Nova Goa, capital of the biggest territory of Goa, were amazed to find big meals and beds awaiting them in the local prison, the broadcast said. It added the "invaders" had to be protected by police from clubbings by the angry local population.

Four small groups, made up mainly of persons under 20, were reported to have launched what it had publicized in advance as a massive drive on the Portuguese territories of Goa, Damao and Diu on this seventh anniversary of India's independence.

The reports reaching here from Goa said none of the groups of marchers numbered more than 24 persons, all Goans. The expected support by Indians failed to materialize after Prime Minister Nehru's government demanded in granting permission for the demonstrations that all participants be Goans, with Indians lending only moral support.

FIND ANCIENT TOMBS

PAESTUM, Italy (AP) — Archaeologists announced that 20 Greek tombs of the fourth century BC were uncovered Saturday near this former Greek colony.

Fail To Save Infant

VANCOUVER (CP) — A four-day-old Tofino, B.C., baby taken to hospital here Thursday aboard an RCAF plane, died Saturday of a respiratory ailment.

The child, Jennifer Highfield, had been in serious condition since birth. Neighbors had administered artificial respiration in relays from the time of the child's birth to the arrival of the plane, held up by fog.

The baby was the daughter of Rev. and Mrs. Wilfred Highfield of Tofino.

Pakistan Gains 1st Innings Lead

LONDON (Reuters) — The Pakistan cricket team gained a first innings lead of three runs over England Saturday on the third day of the fourth and final test match at the Oval here.

England, which dismissed the visitors on Thursday for 133 runs, was put out for 130. Only some audacious hitting by Dennis Compton, who made 53, saved England from being dismissed for less than three figures.

Batting a second time, Pakistan scored 63 for four wickets to lead England by 66 runs, with six batsmen still to fall.

The match ends on Tuesday. Pakistan must win to avoid defeat in the series, since England is one up.

With the weather uncertain the match is still in the balance—though the odds appear to be that England will repeat its Nottingham victory and finish two up in the series.

48 Countries Represented As World Churchmen Meet

By GEORGE W. CORNELL

EVANSTON, Ill. (AP)—Christian churchmen from around the globe mingled Sunday in a stirring service of worship to open the second assembly of the World Council of Churches.

It was a colorful, dramatic inauguration as ranking prelates and dignitraies of 161 denominations in 48 countries strode up the aisle of Evanston's First Methodist Church to the strains of "A Mighty Fortress is Our God."

"We have learned how to study, to speak, to stand and to serve together," declared Methodist Bishop G. Bromley Oxnam, of Washington, D.C., in the sermon.

"In humility, but with firm resolve, we intend to stay together."

The 1,500-seat church was filled to capacity. Other hundreds sat in an outdoor chapel or stood outside to hear the service from loudspeakers.

There were bishops and priests, in black cassocks and varicolored stoles and hoods, leaders of ancient eastern churches in staid black robes with gold-filligreed crowns, sandal-clad black men draped in bright blankets, Orientals in brilliant silk kimonos, men in ruffed collars and tall mitres and flowing veils.

CHICAGO (AP) — More than 125,000 people jammed Soldier Field Sunday night in a mighty outpouring of worship climaxing the opening day of the second assembly of the World Council of Churches.

It was one of the greatest throngs ever to fill the vast stadium.

The climactic moment came with this question by Dr. Marc Boegner, president of the World Council and head of the Reformed Churches of France:

"Who are you to have come here?"

The congregation responded, "We are Christians."

Then Dr. Boegner asked: "Why have you come?"

And the reply was: "We have come to worship God."

The response came from a 200-member chorus in yellow, red, green, blue, and purple robes standing in the centre of the stadium facing Boegner.

The scene in the darkened stadium was focused at the north end where three pylons draped in gold cloth were bathed in light. The centre one, 19 feet high, was used by the narrator, Rev. George E. Johnson, of Evanston. On the other two, each 13 feet high, stood four presidents of the world council.

Albertan Drowns in Arrow Lake Tragedy

2nd Calgary Man and RCMP Officer Escape Same Fate in All-Night Ordeal

NAKUSP—A Calgary man drowned in Upper Arrow Lake 12 miles North of here Friday night, and another Calgary man and an RCMP officer from Nakusp narrowly escaped losing their lives in the same accident.

When their boat overturned, Jack Molyneaux of Calgary drowned, and Robert Lorne McGillivary of Calgary and Cpl. Donald Pye of Nakusp spent a night of unbelievable ordeal before being rescued Saturday morning.

Dragging operations had failed to locate Molyneaux's body by late Sunday night.

These are the details of the trip which began happily but ended in the death of one person and nightmarish experiences for the other two:

The party left Arrowhead at 7 p.m. Friday for Nakusp, and by 8:15 had reached a point about half-way between St. Leon and Cape Horn. They planned to stop at Cape Horn to do some fly fishing.

Cpl. Pye, in the prow of the boat, was fixing his fly rod and eating a snack, and McGillivray was steering the boat.

Suddenly Molyneaux, who had sight only in one eye, stumbled and fell part way out of the boat. The craft tipped over, and the three men fell into the water. Cpl. Pye was the only one able to swim.

The boat, of aluminum construction, with a small front cabin and powered by an outboard motor, capsized in a second. It was capable of holding two men when righted underwater without the motor.

Cpl. Pye swam under the boat, loosened the motor and attempted to extricate the air cushions. But the motor, being cabled to the boat, would not come free. In his efforts to right the boat, the corporal exhausted himself.

McGillivray lost his hold on the boat and floated away a distance of about 25 feet, but was held afloat by Cpl. Pye.

Molyneaux lost his hold and sank before Cpl. Pye was able to reach him.

HEROIC BID

At 11 p.m., Cpl. Pye, suffering cramps, decided to swim ashore to get help. He succeeded in reaching the shore and made a valiant bid to walk the six miles to a telephone at St. Leon. He started toward that destination and kept calling to McGillivary on the boat and for quite a time received answers from him.

But finally, after skirting the rock bluff, Pye gave up, completely exhausted, within four miles of his destination. Mosquitos were swarming about him, he was cut and bruised, having stripped in the water to his underwear and socks. His strength sapped, he lay down until daylight.

In the meantime, Mrs. Pye had become alarmed, and telephoned the boat men, Fred Levett and Howard Jeal of Celgar Development Company, who started out with two boats to search each side of the lake.

Levett, scanning the water with binoculars, sighted the shining hull of the boat and rescued McGillivary, who told them that Cpl. Pye was on shore a couple of miles North.

The two men were rescued by the Celgar boat "Horseshoe" and an airplane owned by Dave Duncan at about 9:30 a.m. The boat men tried to right the boat and tow it to town before picking up Cpl. Pye.

McGillivary, after 13 hours in the water, was utterly exhausted, and was taken by plane to the Arrow Lakes hospital here. On the return trip, Mr. Duncan brought Cpl. Pye, who spent the next day in bed recovering his energy.

Mr. McGillivary, who is Western representative for the Toledo Scale Company, was able to leave hospital Sunday afternoon. Mr. Molyneaux was a salesman for the same company.

The two men had gone to Arrowhead Friday morning by plane, and had attempted to go on Thursday by car but had met with misfortune and the car had been damaged, forcing them to return to Nakusp.

They reported the accident to Cpl. Pye, and he assisted them in getting to Arrowhead and offered to go there and bring them back to Nakusp.

Mr. McGillivary was visiting Arrowhead in order to see his daughter, Mrs. Dan Crawford, whom he had not seen for many years.

It is the fifth drowning in the Kootenays since July 19. On that day Dr. W. A. Kickham of Westlock, Alta., and his son Thomas, 15, drowned in Slocan Lake. On July 25 Cpl Ralph Simbalist of RCMP at Taber, Alta., drowned in Colgan's Lake near Wasa, and the day before Neils Hanson of Renata drowned in Lower Arrow Lake.

Besides his wife, Mr. Molyneaux is survived by two small children, a son and daughter; two brothers, Roy and James; and two sisters, Mrs. evelyn Hodge and Mrs. Arthur Monroe, all of Calgary.

REDS ABSORB VIET NAM

Vietminh Pose As New Gov't, Censorship Heavy

PARIS (AP) — Despite the Indo-Chinese armistice agreements, all of Viet Nam seems to be slipping into control of the Communists. The Viet Namese army, organized by the French during the last two or three years, is slowly melting away. Communist-led Vietminh civic committees are active in the South as well as the North, propagandizing the Red cause.

This type of information has come to Paris through diplomatic channels and through letters from correspondents on the spot which seem to escape censorship. News cables, both from Hanoi in the North and Saigon in the South, are either stopped or so badly censored that correspondents find it almost useless to file stories.

Within 24 hours of the cease-fire in the Delta, Communist-controlled committees took over the government in the major part of 7000 villages and towns.

"We are the new government," said the committees as they moved into control in the section north of the 17th parallel which was ceded at Geneva to the Communist-trained Vietminh.

Sourdoughs Hold Reunion

VANCOUVER (CP) — The stirring days of the Klondike Gold Rush are being relived here this week by men and women who trod the "Trail of '98."

Here to commemorate the anniversary of the discovery of gold on Bonanza Creek on Aug. 17, 1896, are some 1000 members of the International Sourdough Association, holding their 23rd annual reunion here, Aug. 16-19.

URGE INQUIRY IN ALCAN AGREEMENT

VICTORIA (CP) — Liberal and CCF party members are lining up in support of liberal leader Arthur Laing's call for a legislative inquiry into the government's 1950 agreement with the Aluminum Company of Canada.

Mr. Laing made his demand after the premier announced "hundreds of thousands of dollars" extra had poured in from Alcan after he had asked company officials to "search their souls."

Frank Snowsell, former CCF member of the legislature, says he thinks there should be an investigation with both the premier and Alcan officials testifying.

CBRE Makes New Demands Rail Talks Start Tuesday

By JOHN LeBLANC
Canadian Press Staff Writer

OTTAWA (CP) — Union chiefs empowered to call a general rail strike to enforce contract demands resumed long-stalled negotiations with the railways here Tuesday at the urging of the federal government.

The disputants will get together at 10 a.m. in the Parliament hill's Centre Block to try to find a settlement in a fight that has been running almost eight months.

As they prepared to convene at the personal request of Prime Minister St. Laurent, the railways were faced with new labor demands apart from the multi-million-dollar fringe benefits sought by the non-operating unions representing the 145,000 members engaged in the big struggle.

During the weekend, the Canadian Brotherhood of Railway Employees—one of 14 unions in the strike-threatened dispute — made known it is going after concessions for about 5000 workers in hotels operated by the two transcontinental railway companies.

An announcement to the CBRE membership by W. J. Smith of Montreal, secretary of the union's joint protective board, said the 34,000-member union will seek a 15-per-cent general wage increase and the same fringe benefits that the larger group want from the railways.

These consist of eight paid statutory holidays a year, 18 days annual sick leave with pay, longer holidays and higher overtime pay for Sunday work.

Up to now, the railways have rejected these proposals outright.

The hotel workers had their last general increase in 1950, when they joined the railmen in the general strike of August of that year. They got a four-cents-an-hour boost against seven for the rail workers. Since then, there have been some scattered increases, for the hotel employes but no over-all one, though their work week has been shortened.

EAST-WEST TRADE DISCUSSED WITH CHOU EN-LAI

PEIPING (Reuter) — Clement Attlee and his British Labor party delegation wielded knives and forks instead of the traditional chopsticks at an exotic Oriental faest given in their honor Sunday by Chinese Communist Premier Chou En-lai.

Later, the Britons spent five hours discussing East-West trade with Chou and other government leaders in the beautiful pavilions of the former Chung Nan Hai Imperial Palace.

Attlee and his party will attend a government dinner in their honor Monday and an official luncheon Wednesday.

This week's program includes visits to a prison, hospitals, schools, textile factories, railways and a coal mine.

No. 1 Fire Insurance Rating for Nelson

Dwelling Rates Down to 40 Cents From 55; Decreases for Most Risks

General progress of British Columbia in standards of housing and construction are reflecting to the benefit of fire insurance policy holders. Premiums have been markedly reduced.

The new dwelling rates follow a general reduction in insurance tariffs on all re-inforced concrete buildings and mercantile risks. Industrial policies also may now be written on a term insurance basis, that is on the basis of a rate for a three-year period, instead of being subject to renewal annually.

The effect of these successive rate revisions and changes in policies has been a general reduction in board company fire insurance rates. Some reductions are up to 20 per cent.

The new dwelling tariff on a comparative basis:

	Old rate	New rate
On house	.55 per $100	.40 per $100
Contents	.65 per $100	.45 per $100

Rate on insured properties outside municipal boundaries but within 1000 feet of hydrants is 45 cents per $100 on dwelling and 50 cents on contents.

Country rate is 85 cents on dwellings and 85 cents on contents with a 90 cent rate on dwellings with wood shingle roofs.

Summer homes coverage is on a flat basis of $1.05 per $100 in insured value. This is decreased from a former $2 rating that allowed credits for certain superior construction features that reduced risk.

All rates are for three-year terms.

Nelson now has a British Columbia Underwriters' Association No. 1 fire rating, identical to Vancouver's. Fire insurance premiums, therefore, are equal to the lowest in the province.

Rate reductions improve the competitive position of insurance agencies, who maintain personal contact and advisory services supported by insurance engineering and survey advice, in relation to direct writing companies, such as have entered the auto insurance field. The new rates, it is expected, will improve the ability of policy holders to insure up to real values to provide fuller protection against fire loss.

LOSS RATIOS BACK CUTS

New dwelling rates are based on the fact that in the last several years there has been a substantial upswing in the proportion of new buildings to old; that better wiring, construction methods, foundationing and roofing tend to lower fire hazard. These considerations have also been upheld by loss statistics for 1948-52 that show loss ratios of 26.38 per cent for frame protected buildings and 35.59 per cent for unprotected dwellings. (A protected building is one in an area served by fire fighting service and equipment.)

SUPPLEMENTARY EXAMS BEGIN HERE TODAY

Supplementary examinations begin today at Nelson Senior High School for students in Nelson as well as students from district points, students doing private study and Notre Dame College students. Supplementals are for students who failed to pass the regular June examinations and students who for certain reasons could not write the June tests.

Supplementals are held in all subjects for which June examinations were conducted. They are as nearly as possible of the same degree of difficulty as the June papers. Exams for both entry into Senior Matriculation and University will be written.

"SOUL" IS SUBJECT

That true happiness is to be found through understanding the spiritual laws which govern the universe, including man, was brought out at Christian Science services Sunday in the Lesson-Sermon entitled "Soul."

The spiritual nature of happiness is set forth in the following passage which was among those read from "Science and Health With Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy:

"Soul has indefinite resources with which to bless mankind, and happiness would be more readily attained and would be more secure in our keeping, if sought in Soul. Higher enjoyments alone can satisfy the cravings of immortal man. We cannot circumspect happiness within the limits of personal sense."

The prophet Isaiah's promise of peace and joy to those who spiritually understand God was included in the readings from the Bible (Isaiah 55:12): "For ye shall go out with joy, and be led forth with peace; the mountains and the hills shall break forth before you into singing, and all trees of the field shall clap their hands."

E. Owens Begins Fire Chief Duties

Nelson's new fire chief arrived in the city by car Sunday afternoon and wasted little time in commencing his new duties. When contacted Sunday evening as to when he would begin his new job, the new chief, Elwin Owens, said, "I'm on duty right now."

As to plans for fire department changes, Chief Owens felt it was too early to commit himself in this respect. Mr. Owens comes to Nelson from Edmonton where he was Northern Alberta representative for LaFrance Fire Engine and Foamlite. He was fire chief in North Battleford from 1946 to 1950. During this time the Saskatchewan city had "an excellent record as far as fire losses were concerned, Nelson City Council learned when negotiating for a new chief.

During his time as fire chief, the North Battleford department won several fire prevention and achievement awards. Mr. Owens explained to the Nelson City Council when applying for the position that he was "interested in returning to the fire service."

Fire Chief Owens is a married man with two children. Mrs. Owens and the children are in Nelson too.

Big Potato Crop Seen For Grand Forks Area

Potato crops in the Grand Forks area promise to return heavy yields, according to the fortnightly horticultural news letter of the B. C. Department of Agriculture.

Prices may be satisfactory to producers, judging from a good clean-up of earlies. Vegetables are in good supply locally, and first corn is going on the market. Tomatoes are mostly free from troubles experienced last year, but are several weeks late. Commercial onions are sizing a little, but thrips and mildew are destroying the tops fairly quickly.

Seed crops continue to appear very promising, with the exception of some flower seed crops which were late in developing. However, there is mildew in the onion seed crops which could easily wipe out the crops if too much rain falls in the next two weeks. Carrots are heavy, and lettuce generally good. Clover seed crops are quite satisfactory so far.

Tree fruits are going ahead satisfactorily, and in the berry line, the report notes that the raspberry crop was very good.

In the Creston, Kootenay and Arrow Lakes district, the news letter states that the cherry crop in the Creston valley was a comparatively good one and that in the Kootenay-Arrow Lakes district brown rot did not cause the heavy losses it did last year. Apricots are being picked in early sections, and yellow transparent apples are also moving.

Seed peas are slow in maturing, and very few growers have begun swathing.

NAKUSP — Legal advice is being sought in connection with the loss of Nakusp's partially-constructed skating rink, it was announced after a recent meeting of the rink committee.

East Kootenay Grain Yield To Be Higher Than Average

CRANBROOK — Grain crops in this district appear good this year, though a week or two later than usual, and are on the edge of being ready for harvest.

Wheat headed well and straw is a good length following the sunshine and heat of July which finally culminated the late, cold, wet Spring. Yields will probably be above average. Some other grain crops have been cut for green feed already.

First hay harvest in July, also about two weeks later than usual, gave fairly ogod yields which were slightly below average. But intense Summer heat brought second crops along better than anticipated and later in August a second cut of alfalfa appears likely. The entire district needs rain badly.

Beef cattle are in excellent condition from a good natural range which is only now in the decline, and 1954 calves have grown well.

Burton Church WA Plans Annual Sale

BURTON — Arrangements for their annual sale were made by members of the Woman's Auxiliary to St. Stephen's Anglican Church here at a meeting in the vestry.

The Scripture reading was given by Mrs. Drummond, and the financial statement was approved.

More District Students Win UBC Scholarships

Five West Kootenay senior matriculation graduates are among winners of scholarships totalling $7300 which University of British Columbia has awarded to 15 more entering freshmen from all parts of the province.

A $5000 gift of the Pacific Brewers' Agents, Ltd., has enabled the University to award scholarships to 13 entering freshmen from parts of B. C. outside main centres of population. Among them are:

Gwen Delmas of Rossland, who receives a $400 scholarship; Myrna Joy of Nakusp, $400; Beverly Lipsett of Castlegar, $200; John L. Northey of Trail, $400, and Frank Tyers of Kaslo, $400.

Miss Delmas, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. L. G. Delmas of Rossland, received her elementary and high school education there, and plans to study law.

Frank Tyers, son of Mr. and Mrs. W. F. Tyers of Kaslo, also won the Parent-Teacher Association scholarship for his outstanding marks in all subjects during the 1953-54 term.

Beverly Joan Lipsett, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. E. J. Lipsett of Castlegar, has also been an outstanding student there. She has just won a $200 Royal Institution scholarship and a $100 Parent-Teacher Association scholarship as the Stanley Humphries high school student gaining highest marks in senior matriculation.

3 Escape Death In Car Plunge

TRAIL — A Castlegar woman is in satisfactory condition in Trail-Tadanac hospital after she and two other people narrowly escaped death in an accident between East Trail and Glenmerry early Saturday morning.

D. W. Langille of Oasis, driver, and Arnold Talbot of Genelle received only a bad shaking up when the late model car in which they were returning from a dance in Salmo, failed to negotiate a turn and plunged 400 feet down a gully, but Mary Harshenin, third occupant of the car, was sent to hospital.

The 1951 sedan, however, was a total wreck, and parts were strewn in its descent. The car came to rest upside down in a dry creek bed.

RCMP are investigating.

Castlegar Ferry Traffic Declines

CASTLEGAR — A decrease in traffic on the Castlegar ferry was noted last month in a comparison with figures for July, 1953.

Whereas 100,931 passengers, exclusive of drivers, were transported across the Columbia River here in July of last year, last month 84,239 were carried. The number of automobiles and their drivers was down from 39,784 to 33,727, and the total of trucks of all types was 13,150 compared with 15,019 in the same month last year.

In other departments, the figures (July of this year shown first and July, 1953, second, are: trailers and semi-trailers 260, 351; motor buses, 441, 537; motorcycles 78, 210; horse-drawn rigs, five, none; freight in tons 2489, 4251; livestock 62, 54.

The ferry operated 3127 round trips compared with 3495 in July, 1953.

Bogus Car "Buyer" Gets Oakalla Term

CRANBROOK — A car privately purchased in Cranbrook by Frank Halmas of Montreal with a $1900 check, was located by the RCMP in Fernie and the "purchaser" brought back to Cranbrook when efforts to cash the check showed no bank account funds. Halmas was charged with acting under false pretences and pleaded guilty before Magistrate Richard Shiell, who sentenced him to two years less one day at Oakalla prison.

Three trucking infractions resulted in charges in district court, with all three operators pleading guilty. JS and B Lumber Company paid a fine of $25 and costs when one of their trucks loaded with lumber was found loaded beyond the limit set for it. For failure to have the proper carrier licence for work in which his truck was engaged, Steve Ceravolo was fined $25 and costs, and similarly charged, Anthony Komar was fined $10 and costs.

Large Crowds Attend 2nd Kimberley Fair

KIMBERLEY — The second annual Fall Fair and Flower Show sponsored by Kimberley Kinsmen Club, drew exceptionally large crowds to the arena here Friday and Saturday.

Proceeds will go to the club's charities.

The flower, vegetable and fancy work competitive exhibits, varied and colorful, and attractive and interesting booth exhibits placed by more than a score of Kimberley, Cranbrook and national firms, were the big drawing cards as far as the crowds were concerned.

But there were also hobby and shell craft displays, an exhibition of ribbon tying by the Penticton representative of a large concern, a doll display by Mrs. Diane Major of Kimberley.

In the arena parking lot, Royal Canadian Shows midway held sway, and in Coronation Park, a production entitled "Parade of Stars" was presented by a travelling company.

Among booths was a Royal Canadian Army recruiting unit entry, which showed a Bailey bridge. The Consolidated Mining and Smelting Company display showed spectators the operations of its fertilizer plant.

Garages in Kimberley and Cranbrook, firms dealing in furniture and household appliances, the Dynamiters' Fourth Line booster club, the Kinsmen Club itself, and a sports shop were some of the host of firms and organizations which arranged eye-catching booths. Many offered treats for the youngsters and prizes. A leading prize winner was Peter Thorliefson of Kimberley who won gasoline for a 1000-mile trip.

OUTDOOR SERVICES ATTRACT CROWDS AT CRANBROOK

CRANBROOK — Knox Presbyterian and First Baptist Church congregations here, which have merged for services over the Summer months, have met with success in establishment of outdoor Sunday evening services in Rotary Park, where a corner has been reserved for their use. Chairs and an amplifier have been temrorarily installed.

Presbyterian minister Rev. William Black has been conducting the services in the absence of Baptist Minister Rev. E. E. Jessop, who has been undergoing treatment this Summer in a Vancouver hospital.

Congregation response has been good. Speaker Sunday was a visiting clergyman, Rev. E. Swanson, and the services have been advanced to 7 o'clock for the rest of the month.

An evangelistic team of four young women and two young men on tour under the name of God's Invasion Army arrive here today and plan daily morning services at 10:30 at Rotary Park all week for children. A banquet welcome will be extended to them in the Baptist Church tonight, and this will be followed by a conference on Sunday School work.

When Lights Went Out on Broadway

By JACK BEST
Canadian Press Staff Writer

NEW YORK (CP)—Broadway at Times Square, which millions know as the Great White Way, lost much of its customary glitter one recent night.

At a prearranged time, thousands of marquee lights on famous movie houses lining the cavernous stretch from 42nd to 47th streets began to flicker out. Other theatres all over the city joined the flight to darkness. The lights were not switched on again until the next afternoon.

The dim-out was part of a campaign of New York's vast entertainment industry against a five per cent amusement tax proposed by Mayor Robert F. Wagner.

The mayor claims the measure is needed to raise $17,500,000 to help balance the city's $1,639,438,325 budget, largest city budget in the world.

UNPOPULAR MEASURE

To help meet its heavy obligations, the city has already resorted to such unpopular measures as a three per cent sales tax and a $5-$10 "usage tax" on automobiles owned in New York.

The entertainment industry mobilized all its resources to fight the box-office tax. Theatre marquees exhorted the people in big, black letters to get behind the protest.

On the movie screens messages were flashed asking the public's support. Leaders in the fight claimed nearly 1,000,000 people signed anti-tax petitions. Five thousand pickets representing 450 theatres and 24 theatrical unions stayed away from work one morning to parade in front of city hall.

WON DELAY

The industry's efforts failed to win over the mayor and city council, but they won a delay to July 1 in the effective date of the tax.

A Turning Point?

The truce in Indo-China, shaky though it may be, has almost certainly changed the French attitude to the yet unratified treaty setting up the European Defense Community. Indo-China, while the war lasted, used up much of France's military strength in both manpower and material. So long as this drain went on, France's normal and reasonable fear of German rearmament was accentuated.

There was an obvious danger of German predominance in EDC if the slaughter of the best French troops was to continue in Asia while the Germans raised and armed their twelve divisions in the comparative safety of Europe. The armistice, points out the Toronto Globe and Mail, has lessened the danger; and this is true even if peace in Ind-China proves short-lived.

It is highly unlikely, whatever the Communists may do, that France will attempt a second single-handed campaign to regain Asian possessions. Relieved of the Indo-China burden, except for the maintenance of a garrison, the Mendes-France Government can devote more attention and more money to building up home forces. Thus there is at least a chance that EDC, though not necessarily in its present form, will be approved by the National Assembly.

Premier Mendes-France has in the past been non-committal about EDC; but there is reason to think that his vagueness, and the shilly-shally of his predecessors, has been due not so much to lack of conviction as to the party situation. M. Mendes-France, like other realistic French leaders knows that the practical choice for his country is between an armed Germany inside EDC and an independent armed Germany.

Every Frenchman would plump for the first of these alternatives; but the difficulty has been to devise any scheme for arming Germans which could pick up the necessary number of Assembly votes from right, left and centre. M. Mendes-France has now decided to take the plunge and risk defeat as the champion of a possibly revised EDC. He has fixed August 24 as the date of an EDC debate.

There is a long list of suggested treaty amendments, some of which would entirely rewrite the original plan. One would let West Germany into the North Atlantic Treaty Organization rather than EDC. Another would whittle down the power of the proposed supra-national authority which is to control EDC fighting strength. A third would pool only arms, for a start, instead of armies.

How some of these schemes could possibly prove acceptable all round, and how they would serve French interests, is not clear. Yet each has its partisans; and the very complexity of the debate may wreck the chances of agreement. But suppose that M. Mendes-France does win a victory for the principle of a rearmed Germany somehow controlled within a European alliance, the political and diplomatic picture will change sharply.

With France at last committed to the idea of Germany as a military partner, the West could afford to say "Yes" to Russia's latest bid for a conference on European security. To resume East-West talks on that subject now would be to invite another long and fruitless wrangle. To resume talks with the advantage of French ratification of EDC would be to negotiate from strength. It is perhaps along these lines that M. Mendes-France, a believer in negotiation with Moscow, is now thinking; and the approaching Assembly decision may be a critical point in European history.

NON-FICTION

BRIANT, ARTHUR: The Story of England: Makers of the Realm.

In the sweep of this story the energy, the achievements and the astonishing diverse genius of this country emerge with a vigor and sense of proportion that we have learned to expect from the author.

CHURCHILL, RANDOLPH S.: Fifteen Famous English Homes.

Mr. Churchill has sought to tell the story not only of the houses themselves but of the people to built them and lived in them through the centuries. The 60 pages of photographs which this work contains illustrate the theme of the continuity of English history, which Mr. Churchill has been at pains to exemplify in the text.

CRILE, JANE AND BARNEY: Treasure Diving Holidays.

Besides being excellent writers, the Criles are superb photographers, and the pictures contained in the book are the cream of their huge collection. "Treasure Diving Holidays" is a family chronicle for many families to enjoy, for it combines adventure, humor, information, and the thrill of the discovery of a new world.

DURRELL, GERALD: Three Singles to Adventure.

A wonderful account of Mr. Durrell's travels to the little known areas of British Guiana, first explored by Sir Walter Raleigh at the end of the 16th century, and not again by any European until the 19th century. There he stalks, traps, nets, lassoes, and, when necessary, buys from co-operative natives, the most eccentric individual and delightful assortment of rare lizards, birds, monkeys, anteaters, snakes, alligators, toads and other creatures.

QUENNELL, PETER: Mayhew's Characters.

"Mayhew's Characters" in its immensely rich and varied material from the lips of the people themselves, reflects the comedy and the tragedy of the Victorian street.

ROBERTSON, R. B.: Of Whales and Men.

An absorbing first-hand account of a way of life as outlandish as any devised by the human race. As senior medical officer on one of the largest whaling expeditions of the 1950-51 season, Dr. Robertson sailed with the fleet for eight months over some 48,000 miles in search for whales. Here is a fascinating account of that voyage.

STANLEY, GEORGE J. S.: Canada's Soldiers.

It follows the development of Canada's military organization over 400 years from the days of marauding Indians to the recent action in Korea.

WARD, A. C.: Chaucer to Shakespeare. An illustrated history of English literature.

The author records straightforwardly—without pedantry, bias or pre-conceived theory—what has happened in the history of English writings from Chaucer onward, with a preliminary backward glance at Chaucer's forerunners.

WARREN, C. E. T., and BENSO, JAMES: Above Us the Waves.

The exploits of the "Underwater Commandos" and their tiny craft are late in being told, but the story is worth the telling, and well worth waiting for. The development of human torpedoes and midget submarines is described in a narrative of great detail and intrinsic drama.

YATES, DORA E.: My Gipsy Days.

Here is the vital, curious story—of a race which is with us, but not of us, and it is uniquely illustrated with 23 photographs, some very rare.

Gather berries when quite ripe. Put them into large crock, bruise them down and pour the boiling water over. Cover close, leave for 24 hours, then strain through fine sieve or jelly bag, measure liquid, and put into preserving pan. Add sugar, raisins, ground ginger and cloves in above proportion, bring slowly to boil and boil one hour, skimming when necessary. Church's Back Seat Drivers

...F. B. Pearce

Jeff, as you may recall, was not in a particularly good humor when last I saw him, but today he had not only recovered his equanimity but was bubbling over with merriment. I always have the feeling that there is a slight touch of malice in his makeup, for, when I asked him what made him so cheerful, he referred to a letter in the paper. Apparently, like many more people, he likes to sit in on an argument between other people. In his way, too, he is a student of human nature. He hasn't much use for women in an argument. He says they are too erratic and are lisble to bring in all sorts of things which have nothing to do with the argument. At that, he said that they were often quite funny, unconsciously of course, but no one dare laugh at them. Then he went on to give some of his views on religion.

"Have you read the Acts of the Apostles?"

"Not lately," I said.

"Then you should, for then you would understand what sort of people the early Christians were and what they believed. People always want to have one church these days instead of all the numerous denominations we have today. I'm not sure that in Bible times that the seven churches in Asia were all alike. But they all believed in Christ and remember that the qualifications for a Christian is to believe in Christ. All these denominations that we have today are the same. They believe in Christ, and when you look at them, the things they do not agree in are not very important.

"Then you think there should be church union?"

"No, I don't. I think that every church meets the need of its own kind of people. They would not be happy out of their own church and I should not be happy in their's."

"But if there were only one church wouldn't the church be in a stronger position to ask for peace?"

"What makes you think the church should ask for peace?"

"Well, everyone expects the church to work for peace."

PREACH THE GOSPEL

"Who says so? When Christ sent out his disciples did he say 'Go out and clean up the red light districts, close the liquor outlets and send the gamblers to jail?' he did not. All he said was, 'Go out and preach the gospel.' And that's all that the church has to do. It is not a pressure group influencing governments, or asking for local option, or demanding that capital punishment be abolished. None of the early churches sent deputations to Herod of the Roman emperor for any of these things, they just got on with the job of preaching. There is no mention in the Acts of a marriage counselling school in the Christian churches, and the early Christians would not have understood such a thing. They thought that just being a Christian settled the marriage question and they did not think it was their duty to settle the troubles of those who were not Christians. As for peace, it never entered their heads to agitate for that. You must remember, too, that Christ flatly refused to put himself at the head of a nationalist movement to free the Jews from Roman tyranny. His kingdom has nothing to do with this world."

"That's all very well, Jeff, but these days are different. There are a lot of people who think the church should be more active in these matters."

SOMETHING TO HATE

"You mean that there are a lot of back seat drivers who stand outside the church and tell it what to do. They don't really want the church to be better. All they want is an excuse to attack it."

"Nonsense, Jeff. Why should they attack the church?"

"Why? Have you ever thought that all humans seem to need something to hate. The communist hates religion. Christians hate the evil of communism and the church is disliked by many because it won't be what they want it to be."

Bannister Feels "Fine", Peters "Pretty Fair"

MANSTON, England (AP) — A Trans-Canada Airlines plane carrying Dr. Roger Bannister and 62 other English athletes home from the British Empire Games developed trouble Saturday and was forced to divert to this Kent aerodrome.

The plane circled London airport for 50 minutes hoping for fog to clear. The Super-Constellation's undercarriage was affected by difficulty with the hydraulic system and it was deemed advisable not to come down by radar. So the plane moved the 70 miles to Manston where visibility was good.

DIGNITARIES DISAPPOINTED

Meanwhile, a group of civic dignitaries and members of the athletes' families had waited anxiously at the airport.

Also on the plane was Jim Peters, the English marathon runner who collapsed near the finish at Vancouver and failed to finish.

At Manston the athletes waited to be cleared by customs before taking the train to Victoria station, London, where the welcome party had gone.

"It's grand to be back," said Bannister. "We have had a wonderful time. I feel fine."

"I feel pretty fair," said Peters. "It has been a long, long trip."

New Threat to TV Announcers

LONDON (Reuters)—A 40-year-old television announcer is under threat of death Saturday because his handsome face alienated the affections of a TV-viewing British housewife.

The threat was contained in a letter to TV announced Donald Grey at the British Broadcast ing Corporation's television studios here.

In it the author declared: "You have wrecked my life and I no longer have my wife's affections."

"But," the writer added, "I refuse to give up my TV set because of my small daughter."

"I have come to hate your face, voice and everything about you," the writer declared. "It has come to the point where I give you seven days to resign your job as TV announcer.

"I shall use all my energy and resources and even if it takes six months, I will get you. Before I kill myself I will kill you."

Friday night tall, handsome announcer Grey, who lost an arm during the Second World War, slept with a shotgun beside his bed at his suburban home.

Outside, the unarmed village policeman kept watch while London police and postal officials tried to track down the anonymous, embittered husband. The BBC made special preparations for guarding the announcer at the studio.

British Columbia's Premiers

BY JAMES K. NESBITT

VICTORIA—The 12th Premier of British Columbia was Charles Augustus Semlin—Aug. 12, 1898-Feb. 27, 1900.

He guided the government through one of the stormiest periods in this province's political history. For months on end, no one could ever quite tell what was going to happen, from day to day, from hour to hour.

Semlin became Premier when J. H. Turner was dismissed; in his turn he, too, was to be dismissed by that rugged individualist of a lieutenant-governor, Dr. T. R. McInnes, who likewise, was dismissed.

What hectic years those were! They make tame the recent political uproar in B. C.

Semlin seems to have been a man of very little color. He was no tub-thumper, no spell-binder. He pales beside such premiers as de Cosmos, Robson, McBride. He was, however, a man suited to his times; a streak of tenacity in him and a patience few politicians have, kept more than once the ship of state from foundering.

BACHELOR

Born in Ontario in 1836, Semlin came west in the 60's. Like de Cosmos, he was a bachelor premier — extremely rare, for politicians, for some reason, are looked upon as catches by the ladies, who, having won their man, proceed to say they hate politics.

Semlin's long-time friend, James B. Leighton, wrote of him: "Mr. Semlin was a man who had a good word and kind thoughts for everyone. At times when he suffered defeat at the polls he took it like a man and never made any uncharitable remarks against those who opposed him.

"Mr. Semlin tried mining in Cariboo, without success, then turned to packing supplies from Lillooet to Quesnel Forks, which at that time was a very lucrative business. He came to Cache Creek in the spring of 1866—shortly after he was hired to take charge of Wayside House, and the ranch of Messrs. Cornwall Brothers—in the fall of 1866 he joined forces with Philip Parks and bought the Bonaparte House.

"In 1870, Mr. Semlin traded the hotel and property to the late James Campbell for the Dominion Ranch. He held the ranch from that time until his death in 1927, at 91 years, and developed it into one of the best ranches in B. C. At one time he carried over 1500 head of cattle and 200 head of extra good horses.

SOLD IT, DIDN'T DRINK IT

Mr. Semlin was strictly a temperance man and notwithstanding the fact he ran a hotel and bar he never was known to take a drink of liquor.

As premier, Semlin appointed his cabinet: Hon. Joseph Martin, attorney-general; Hon. Fred J. Hume, provincial secretary and minister of mines; Hon. F. L. Carter Cotton, minister of finance; Hon. R. E. McKechnie, president of the council.

Martin was the trouble-maker of the Semlin cabinet. One day he was with Semlin, the next day against.

Historians Scholefield and Howay tell something of this unsettled period: "The Semlin ministry hobbled along—sometimes with a majority of one on the floor of the House, sometimes on the casting vote of the speaker. Personalities and mutual recriminations were indulged in; time-killing strategies were resorted to, and the whole arsenal of parliamentary obstruction ransacked for weapons to annoy and hamper the ministry."

Finally came defeat for the Semlin government on the floor of the House. Such defeat happened once again, for Premier Martin, a few months later, and then not until 1953 when the Bennet government was defeated.

Semlin, however, attempted to carry on. Lieut.-Governor McInnes had other ideas.

Scholefield and Howay again: "He (the lieut.-governor) gave the premier until Feb. 27 to decide whether he would resign or ask for a new election. Mr. Semlin did neither: but in the interval arranged a coalition with certain members of the opposition—Messrs. Baker, Irving, Helmcken—and informed the governor ment had control of the situation by a good working majority."

McInnes paid no attention to this: He would run the political affairs of British Columbia. That's why he was later fired.

HISTORIC SPECTACLE

At noon on Feb. 27, 1900, McInnes dismissed the Semlin government.

That afternoon came a most extraordinary spectacle—the spectacle of a majority of the Legislature censuring a lieutenant-governor. There was never anything like it before in our history, certainly nothing since.

The House, on Semlin's motion, said: "This House, being fully alive to the great loss, inconvenience and expense to the country of any interruption of the business of tis House at the present time, begs hereby to express its regret that his honor has seen fit to dismiss his advisers, as in the present crisis they have efficient control of the House."

This didn't worry lieutenant-governor McInnes. By nightfall he had called Martin to the Premiership. Semlin was through!

Labor Leaders Favor Free Senior Matric for B. C. High Students

VANCOUVER (CP)—Belief that greater opportunity for higher education in B. C. should be extended to capable children has been expressed by a number of business and labor leaders here.

A poll conducted by the Vancouver News-Herald indicated Saturday that the labor leaders favor making Grade 13 or senior matriculation, free for all students. The majority of senior matric students now pay tuition fees of $100 or more.

Tom Alsbury, president of the AFL Labor Council in Vancouver and principal of Fairview High school said:

"Labor's view is that we must keep extending upward the opportunities for education, in line with the increasing demands for greater knowledge and skills made by industry and business."

WILLISTON DOUBTFUL

However, Education Minister Ray Williston said the province can not afford to make Grade 13 free.

"Free Grade 13 would lead to a demand for free university," he said.

Mr. Williston says B. C. pays more, percentagewise, in grants for schools than any other province.

Business leaders interviewed refrained endorsing outright free senior matric in B.C., but said capable boys and girls prevented from taking Grade 13 for financial reasons should be given an opportunity to do so.

Said William Borrie, president of the Canadian Chamber of Commerce: "Deserving youngsters should have every opportunity and encouragement to get a high education."

The bride wore a floor-length net and lace gown accented by sequins and Pearls. Orange blossoms held her fingertip veil in place. Her bouquet was of carnations and roses. Hats Will Be Hats This Fall

By DOROTHY ROE

NEW YORK (AP)—No hat is old hat this fall.

Beleaguered milliners, fighting the hatless trend that has appeared periodically over the last 20 years hope they have pulled a winning number out of the hat this time.

The newest hat tricks cover the head, hide the straggly ends of the growing-out boy cut and provide a necessary bit of drama to balance the casual look of the new fall clothes.

No longer will people have to look closely to see whether a woman is wearing a hat or not, as has happened in the past in the case of such fashion leaders as the Duchess of Windsor, long addicted to the miniature beanie, and others who elected to wear a scrap of veil or a band of ribbon and call it a hat.

Some of New York's best-known hat designers are speaking their minds on the subject, while presenting the new important look of "hattier" hats. Says trend-setting Mr. John, presenting a collection dedicated to Cleopatra, the most famous siren of all:

"Neither Cleopatra nor the current femmes fatales of Paris, New York and Hollywood would dream of dashing about bareheaded, mussed, flustered and windblown. They select fitting frames for their most precious feature — the face."

Giants Drop to Half-Game Lead

NEW YORK (AP) — Brooklyn slashed the New York Giants' National League lead to a half game Sunday with red hot Milwaukee close behind while Cleveland lengthened its American League advantage to three full games over the New York Yankees.

The Dodgers made it three straight over the Giants who once led by seven lengths 9-4, accepting three gift runs from Wild Jim Hearn. Although Willie Mays hit his 37th, his first home run since July 28, and Al Dark, Hank Thompson and Ray Katt also homered, Billy Loes went the distance for his eighth victory. Duke Snider and Gil Hodges homered for Brooklyn.

Milwaukee won its ninth straight and 20th in its last 22 games, downing Chicago 2-1. Johnny Logan's single behind Joe Adcock's double in the fourth provided the winning run for rookie Gene Conley. The victory, coupled with the Giants' defeat left the Braves only 3½ games off the pace.

Home runs by Larry Doby and Bobby Avila helped Cleveland take two from Baltimore 5-2 and 3-1 while the Yankees battered Boston 14-9 in a single game. The double victory added a half game to the Tribe's lead. The Indians have won six in a row and the Yanks seven in their battle that seems certain to wind up with two clubs winning more than 100 games.

DOUBLE TRIUMPH

Detroit practically knocked the Chicago White Sox out of the race by defeating them twice, 2-1 and 8-7. The double setback left the White Sox 9½ games behind Cleveland with only 36 to play. Steve Gromek held the Sox to four hits in the first game for his 14th victory. In the second game Virgil Trucks, seeking his 18th victory, was given his worst drubbing of the season. Fred Hatfield led the Detroit attack on Trucks, knocking in four runs with a single, double and a squeeze bunt.

Doby's homer with two on and a two-run single by Al Rosen gave the Cleveland club its punch in the opener. Doby's smash came in the sixth after Baltimore had scored twice in its half of the inning. Winner Art Houtteman was lifted for a pinchhitter in the sixth with Ray Narleski finishing. Don Mossi came in to help out Mike Garcia nail down the second game.

The Yanks ran up an 11-0 lead in the first three innings, scoring eight in the first on five singles and five walks. The Red Sox rallied strong in the late innings when Harry Agganis hit a grand slam homer and Sam White hit one with one man on. Mickey Mantle smashed No. 26 for New York.

OUT OF THE CELLAR

Washington downed the Philadelphia A's 4-1 on a seven-hitter by Johnny Schmitz. Although defeated, the A's climbed out of the American League cellar, a half game ahead of Baltimore. Jim Busby drove in three of the runs with a pair of singles off loser John Gray.

Despite consecutive ninth-inning home runs by Cincinnati's Gus Bell, Ted Kluszewski and Jim Greengrass—tying a record held by many clubs—St. Louis outscored Cincinnati 14-12. Stan Musial and Joe Cunningham homered for the Cards who scored half their runs in the fourth inning.

Pittsburgh ran its longest winning streak of the year to four games by grabbing the first game from Philadelphia 9-6. The second game was tied 6-6 at the end of the eighth when it was stopped by the curfew law. It will be completed later. Frank Thomas' homer and four well-spaced triples won the opener. The Pirates scored two in the eighth to tie the second game.

SATURDAY GAMES

In the National League Saturday, Brooklyn Dodgers defeated New York Giants 6-5, on the strength of Carl Furillo's bases-loaded homer. Frank Thomas homered and doubled to lead a 12-hit Pirate attack as Pittsburgh beat Philadelphia 8-4. At night, Milwaukee Braves won another, 3-1, over Chicago Cubs on Chet Nichols' three-hitter. St. Louis Cardinals lost to Cincinnati Reds 6-5 in 10 innings.

In the American League, Cleveland Indians won another game from Baltimore Orioles, 4-3, but needed 11 innings to do the trick. New York Yankees kept pace by defeating Boston Red Sox 3-1 as Ralph Branca picked up his first Yankee win. Home runs by Chico Carrasquel and Cass Michaels featured a Chicago attack as the White Sox defeated Detroit Tigers 4-3. In a night game, Philadelphia Athletics won over Washington Senators 6-4 in 11 innings.

JUNIOR GOLF TITLE TO MONTREAL LAD

By W. R. WHEATLEY
Canadian Press Staff Writer

LONDON, Ont. (CP) — Grant Dearnaley, chunky 18-year-old high school graduate from Montreal, won the Canadian junior golf championship Saturday with a 36-hole medal score of 153.

It was a battle royal among eight provincial junior champions over the squashy London Hunt Club course that was pelted with rain all through the afternoon.

When the eight soaking wet youngsters finally finished their day's work, Dearnaley found that his two-stroke lead acquired in the morning with a 74 was a life-saver. It was the best score—four over par—for either round.

Wilf Homeniuk, crew-cut lad of 16 from Yorkton, Sask., and 17-year-old George Knudson from Winnipeg made it uncomfortably close for Dearnaley, each finishing with 154. Homeniuk won the play-off for runner-up spot Sunday, shooting a 76 to Knudson's 77.

Marlene Takes Second Women's Golf Crown

BRIGHTWOOD GOLF CLUB, N.S. (CP) — Stroking smoothly and wearing her trademark — a gay tartan cap — Marlene Stewart won her second Canadian women's open golf title here Saturday, but she still doesn't like the course.

While the win didn't give her as much of a thrill as her first Open win in 1951, she said she would always remember "this terribly-tough course."

It was the second Canadian grand slam for the Fonthill, Ont., star who won her fourth successive Close title last week. She has held the Canadian women's Close crown since 1951.

In winning Saturday she defeated Mary Gay of Kitchener, Ont., 9 and 8 in the 36-hole final. She built up a six-hole lead in the first nine holes, and was never pressed.

NOT SO EASY

Little Marlene advanced with ease to the finals defeating Mrs. David B. Collinson of Vancouver, Roma Neundorf of Toronto Scarboro, Rae Milligan of Jasper, Alta. and Mrs. Maurice Glick of Baltimore, Md.

Mary Gay didn't have so easy a time, in fact the pretty 22-year-old was forced into extra holes in three of her four matches.

Mary outdrove Marlene from the tee, but Marlene was in there with her putts when they counted.

Dorothy Herbertson of Vancouver won the championship consolation flight by defeating Mrs. George Wilcox of Miami, Fla., 2 and 1 earlier Saturday.

A's Meet Giants In Junior Ball Playoffs Tonight

West Kootenay Junior Baseball League playoffs get under way here tonight with Fairview Athletics meeting Trail CYO Giants in the first game of a best of three semi-final series.

The Athletics finished on top of the five-team league this season with a record of 10 wins, five losses and a tie. However, it was the Giants, who finished third, who gave them the most trouble and in view of this the series should be a tight affair. In the other semi-final Fruitvale vs. Rossland.

The infield will have George Benwell (.411) at first, Keith Harmsten (.464) at second, Jim McNabb (.526) at third, and John Moore (.225) at shortstop. In the outfield, Merideth Moody (.220) will be in left, Frank Eisener (.320) in centre and Arnold Sherwood (275) in right. By W. R. WHEATLEY

LONDON, Ont. (CP) — British Columbia's golfers, paying no more attention to a steady downpour of rain than to an over-charged dewfall blown in off the Pacific, won the Willingdon Cup interprovincial team championship Saturday with an aggregate medal score of 582.

Despite desperate bids by Quebec and Ontario, the west coast foursman team proved the most consistent and led the eight-team parade at every nine-hole check-off station of the 36-hole medal-play match.

The B. C. boys increased their lead over the last nine-hole stretch to win by 13 strokes and capture the cup for the sixth time in the 22 years it has been up for competition.

Quebec squeezed in ahead of Ontario for second place with 595 to the defending Ontario team's 598.

Finds Swimming Cures Asthma

VANCOUVER (CP) — Margaret (Pip) Linton of Wales started swimming to cure bronchial asthma and became a record-breaking swimmer in her homeland.

The 25-year-old member of a Welsh team of 17 here for the British Empire Games was on the Welsh Olympic teams in 1948 and 1952 and holds women's records in Wales for freestyle swimming. She won the Great Britain freestyle competition in 1950.

"I took up swimming seriously on medical advice that the breathing technique would strengthen my lungs," she said. "I may have grown out of the ailment or the swimming may have cured it."

Only other woman member of the Welsh team is Aileen Harding, 21, woman fencing champion of Wales.

Vancouver Club Steals Kelowna Regatta Points

KELOWNA, B.C. (CP) — The star-studded Vancouver Amateur Swimming Club retained its team laurels Saturday as a record-smashing Kelowna international regatta wound up four days of competition and entertainment.

The Vancouver club, whose ranks included many swimmers from Canada's British Empire Games team, compiled a whopping 163½ points. Portland's Multnomah Athletic Club was runner-up with 117 points.

In the senior men's aggregate race, Vancouver's Ted Simpson, Gerry McNamee and Bob Gair placed one, two, three.

In junior girl's aggregate competition, Carolyn Wattenburger from California, tied Vancouver's Helen Stewart for top honors.

Beth Whittal of Montreal captured the senior women's aggregate title.

Other aggregate winners were: Junior boys, Steven Seteroff of Oakland, Calif.; Intermediate boys, Allan Brew of Crescent Beach, B.C.; Intermediate girls, Joanne Stagnaro of Berkeley, Calif.; Juvenile boys, Richard Pound of Ocean Falls, B.C.; and Juvenile girls, Sylvia Ruska of Berkeley.

The regatta, with the largest entry list in its history, broke attendance records and established 31 new swimming marks, many of them for the Canadian northwest championships.

In diving, Don Harper of Ohio State University took the men's tower event and the springboard championship of the Canadian north west, Bill Patrick of Calgary.

Harper also won the men's diving aggregate, while the women's counterpart went to Jeannette Laws of New Zealand by a wide margin.

In boating events, Penticton Rowing Club won its first Okanagan Lake senior fours crown when the Vancouver and Seattle crews were swamped as they neared the finish line.

Kelowna's Ray Bostock won the sculls race at the sprint distance of a quarter mile. In the Henley race Howard Duncan pulled down the pennant a shade ahead of Bruce Butcher of Kelowna. Bostock finished third.

"Miss Kelowna," one of the fastest boats in interior B.C., lost some of its prestige when Kelowna's Tom Capozzi piloted "Strip Teaser" to victory in the closed lake championship race.

Joe's Hit Wins Game For American Oldsters

NEW YORK (AP) — Joe Dimaggio, the former Yankee clipper, boomed a 350-foot home run into the left field stands as of old Saturday to produce a 3-2 victory for American League oldtimers over their National League counterparts at Yankee Stadium.

The two-inning game, bringing together 18 living members of the Hall of Fame and other notables of the diamond, was played as a prelude to the regular Yankee-Boston Red Sox fixture.

Dimaggio's blow came off Carl Hubbell, the former New York Giants' ace, after Jimmy Fox and Joe Cronin had singled in the first inning.

Bill Terry, recently enshrined in the Hall of Fame, lined a four-bagger into the rightfield stands in the first inning for one of the Nationals' runs. The other came in the second inning when Hank Greenberg doubled, moved up on Ted Williams' single and scored on Gabby Hartnett's sacrifice fly.

This rally came off Frank Crosett, Yankee coach who pitched as a stand-in for Ed Walsh, the 75-year-old ex-spitballer of the Chicago White Sox.

Other National League immortals who returned for the occasion included: Frank Frisch, Paul Waner, Rogers Hornsby, Pie Traynor and Fred Clarke. Among the American League former greats were: Cy Young, Al Simmons, Charley Gehringer, Mickey Cochrane, George Sisler, Bill Dickey, Lefty Grove, Ed Walsh and Connie Mack.

Flett said he expects the game will be a sell-out long before Oct. 16 when the game is scheduled for Varsity Stadium. It is hoped the game will become an annual affair, he said.

Hard Luck, Baby Sitting and New Business Favored in U. S. Tax Laws

BABSON DISCUSSES NEW TAX LAWS

BABSON PARK, Mass. — United States has made the first complete revision of all the federal tax laws for many years.

One of the first things recognized is that we all should get easier tax treatment for misfortune. This includes everything from sickness and accident to business losses. Not only are allowances made for this year's hard luck, but Americans are also allowed to charge these losses against a greater number of previous years' gains. Limited child-care expenses for low-income parents are exempted.

They may deduct medical expenses above 3 per cent of income, instead of 5 per cent as at present. But, they must remember that from now on they may only deduct sums spent for drugs and medicine above 1 per cent of their income. Mothers, or widowers, who must work to support children under 12 or other dependents, and any woman whose husband is incapacitated, or working couples with combined family income of less than $4500 may deduct up to $600 spent for child care. If a person misses work because of an illness or an injury, he is entitled to tax exemption on payments made by an employer up to $100 a week. The exemption does not apply in the first seven days of an illness, unless he is hospitalized.

RELIEF FOR DIVIDEND AND RETIREMENT MONEY

A stockholder doesn't have to pay any tax at all on the first $50 of income in dividends. Furthermore, he can take 4 per cent of any dividend income above $50 and deduct that from tax payment. Although the double taxation of dividends is wrong and dishonest, I do not feel so badly that the President's request was not fully granted, especially in the case of young people. Older people who cannot work and are wholly dependent upon dividends should have total relief, but not everyone. In fact, the discrimination should perhaps be by ages, rather than by the total dividends received, except when they are reinvested in the stock of the same company. Americans won't have the basic 20 per cent tax rate on the first $1,200 of retirement income received after you pass 65. A retired Government employee such as a teacher, fireman, or policeman, gets the benefit even though under 65. Parents who have a child who is under 19 or is in college and who has a job which pays him more than $600 a year, can continue to list him as a dependent with a $600 exemption if they pay half of his support. If a husband or wife dies, the other may continue for two years to get the full benefit of income splitting by a joint return.

HELP FOR BUSINESSMEN

A businessman or farmer may use the new double declining-balance method of quick depreciation on a plant or piece of equipment. This means that in the first years of life, he can write off twice the amount for depreciation now allowed; thus can be concentrated most of the write-off in the early years of use of the item. A corporation may get other relief, including: More liberal treatment for research expenditures; greater freedom to set aside surpluses; the right to offset a loss against profits of two prior years instead of one as now; greatly expanded depletion allowances for mining companies; a cut-off date of April 1, 1955, for the 52 per cent corporation tax rate, when it automatically drops to 47 per cent. A farmer putting a lot of money into soil rebuilding, may deduct these outlays up to 25 per cent of gross business income.

INSTALLMENT BUYING

To help business, installment buying is being encouraged by allowing deduction of the carrying charges on all such purchases. To help churches, hospitals, and colleges, Americans can deduct, as tax-exempt income, 30 per cent of contributions to such, instead of the former 20 per cent. The main purpose of these new tax laws is to help struggling parents and struggling businessmen. Big business and the rich are benefited very little.

The date for filing returns is extended from March 15 to April 15. Furthermore, married couples filing joint returns and who have a family annual income of less than $10,000 (most of it subject to withholding) no longer need to file an advance estimate of their tax. This simplifies filing for millions of people.

ViolaMac Profit Down In First Five Months

The modest metal price improvement boosted the estimated operating profit of ViolaMac Mines (B.C.) to $52,813 in May, from $38,921 in the similar month last year, President V. R. MacMillan reports.

Net profit for the first five months is estimated at $149,243 and compares with $215,362 in the comparatively high metal price period in the five months to May 31, 1953.

Net value of production was $503,996 from 9400 tons shipped for treatment to May 31, 1954, against $644,063 from 13,315 tons shipped in the first five months of 1953, when the mine was shipping approximately 125 tons daily to take advantage of prevailing higher prices. In the year to date the Company has been shipping approximately 80 tons daily of higher grade ore.

The mine crew is erecting an internal headframe and sinking hoist on the seventh level, preparatory to sinking a winze to the ninth level (3800-foot elevation) to permit mining the downward projection of the Victor ore body. A drift is also going out at the 3800-foot elevation to develop the ore body on this bottom level of the mine.

Currently the Company is mining a total of 10 stopes on the fifth and seventh levels with all production shipped by truck over a 10-mile haul to the custom mill of Western Exploration for concentrating. Re-examination of surface geology is also under way to assess other productive possibilities near the mine proper.

Besides its own productive efforts the Company is also supervising underground development at the nearby Lone Bachelor Mine and is conducting programs on other holdings at widespread points.

General geological reconnaissance and surface exploration are being done on the adjoining Cinderella claims where original operators shipped high grade lead and silver from old workings.

The Company is participating directly in drilling a test well on a Hudson Bay Gas and Oil Company farmout in the Hughenden field in Alberta. The parent Company, ViolaMac Mines Limited, has undertaken a sampling program on the recently acquired "Blende" group of claims at the southwest end of Beaverlodge Lake and has a substantial interest in Uranium Ridge Mines Limited. The latter company has acquired the promising "Pitche" property, adjoining the Blende and Lorado properties at Beaverlodge Lake.

Working capital, excluding $177,914 in advances and investments, totalled $267,436 at May 31 after payment of $200,000 in dividends to the parent company, ViolaMac Mines Limited.

French To Take Part In Asian Meeting

PARIS (AP)—The French government announced Saturday it would take part in the eight-power meeting aimed at setting up a Southeast Asia defence alliance.

The meeting will be held in September in Baguio, the Philippines summer capital. Other powers taking part are the United States, Britain, the Philippines, Thailand, New Zealand, Australia and Pakistan.

Victoria Lad Killed In New York Crash

CLAYTON, N.Y. (AP) — Lance Cpl. John L. Cool, 17, of the Canadian army, was killed Saturday when the automobile in which he was riding failed to round a curve and struck a tree.

Cool, son of Walter S. Cool of Victoria, B.C., was stationed at Kingston, Ont.

N. Y. Forecast Remains Good

By WALTER BREEDE Jr.

NEW YORK (AP) — Business volume slipped in several basic lines in the U. S. last week. But a strongly optimistic undertone persisted.

Confidence was the keynote of President Eisenhower's business message.

The recession, he said, has come to a halt, living costs have remained stable and "the value of the people's money has remained intact." In the months ahead, he said, the U. S. can expect "an improving state of economic welfare."

The stock market staged a sharp recovery during the week; construction boomed along at record highs; retail trade, although down a shade, was still close to year-ago peaks.

Further declines were reported, however, in production of steel and autos. Freight carloadings continued to lag 15 per cent behind last year. There were new signs of labor unrest in the rubber industry.

CAR WAR TO CONTINUE

Ford and Chevrolet are reported girding for a no-holds-barred production war; virtually all manufacturers are expected to make a big splash in new fall models, with new refinements in engineering and style.

Biggest problem now is the clean-up of 1954 models to make room for the 1955s, some of which may appear by October. Meanwhile production will remain low.

Department stores sales in the week ended Aug. 7 held even with the comparable week of 1953.

Merchants continued to rely heavily on price promotion. Sears, Roebuck and Co., for example, put out a new fall catalogue which listed more than 2000 price reductions.

REFINERIES SLOW DOWN

Although still confronted with a sizable surplus of unsold gasoline, the oil industry welcomed evidence of firming prices for both motor and heating fuels. Standard Oil Co. (Ohio) lifted the price of its gasoline 0.6 of a cent a gallon. The Company's July reductions had totalled 1.6 cents.

Meanwhile refiners continued to throttle down production. Last week they operated at 81.8 per cent of capacity—lowest since April 30.

Marathon Meets More Criticism

LONDON (Reuters) — A track coach Saturday criticized the organization of the Empire Games marathon race at Vancouver in which Britain's runner, iJm Peters, collapsed a few yards from the finishing tape.

H. A. Johnston, an amateur athletics association coach, said the officials who arranged the race to be run during the hottest period of the day committed an error of judgment.

In a letter to The Daily Telegraph, Johnston said: "The winning man, we are informed, fell six times and was only persuaded to get out of the ditch by his supporters—who contrary to the organizers' instructions, followed his welfare—when they heard of the withdrawal from the race of both Peters and Cox.

QUESTIONS MEASUREMENTS

"Further official 'ill-planning' concerned the measurement of the course, which was not carried out with a surveyor's wheel over the actual road on which the race was run, and the exact distance is still in dispute.

"But the competitors, we are told, agreed to settle for 27 miles, although the international rule states the marathon distance to be 26 miles, 385 yards."

The "greatest error of all" was made by the medical officers in allowing Peters to grovel about semi-conscious in the stadium for 19 minutes before he disqualified himself by further "ill-planning" in permitting an official to pick him up.

oJhnston said that such "ill-planning" should never occur again.

Netherlands Agree To U.S. Air Base

WASHINGTON (AP)—The U. S. announced Saturday an agreement with The Netherlands government to station a U. S. air force fighter squadron at the Dutch air base at Soesterberg.

This move, a state department announcement said, "is of the utmost importance for the defence of The Netherlands."

"It increases the individual and joint capacity of allied nations to resist armed attack, an important objective to NATO and of United States foreign policy," the department said.

The agreement was signed at The Hague and will take effect as soon as Dutch parliamentary approval has been obtained.

Claims B. C.-Grown Tea Equal in Flavor to Imported Varieties

VICTORIA (CP)—Tea is being grown in Canada, and Arthur William Jervis hopes to see the day when British Columbia-grown tea will supply the nation's requirements.

The 80-year-old ex-magistrate operates Canada's only tea plantation here. He plants his own tea-producing shrubs, harvests the leaf crop eight to 10 times each season and cures and packages the finished product in his big farm home.

Mr. Jervis was stipendiary magistrate at Ashcroft for many years. Four years ago he started experimenting with tea-growing. Last year he grew, processed and packaged 1000 pounds of tea.

LIKES BLACK WALNUT

He found that imported tea plants from India do not thrive here, needing more heat. So the five varieties of Jervis tea are made entirely from leaves of trees native to British Columbia. He has found Canadian black walnut best suited for a fine-tasting tea.

He also produces tea from Canadian shrubs and other trees, names of which he is keeping secret for the present.

"My B. C.-grown tea is fully as good as any imported tea," he said. "I had trouble for a time with what people described as a slightly green taste, but I've beaten that now."

He has sold his product to two department stores, but is seeking markets in the United States and expects to incorporate a company shortly. The tea retails at 90 cents a pound.

Dairy Executives To Meet, Ottawa

OTTAWA (CP) — Some 300 of Canada's top dairy executives will meet here Sept. 13 for the three-day annual meeting of the National Dairy Council of Canada.

The council, representing dairy processors and distributors, said Friday it is meeting at a time of growing apprehension in the industry over the loss of export markets and mounting surpluses at home.

Copper Sales Continue Steady Rise, Lead Prices Stay Firm

NEW YORK (AP)—Steady buyers continued in the copper market last week and lead sales improved over July. Zinc buyers again were cautious.

More than 66,000 tons of copper have been purchased so far this month, compared with 54,000 tons at the same time last month. Some industry officials are predicting that August sales will top July's.

The copper institute reported that shipments of refined copper to U. S. consumers in July declined to the lower point in four months at 97,436 tons. However, the trade had expected this; many copper fabricating plants were closed for vacations during July.

Primary production dropped to 84,504 tons in July from 74,113 tons in June, in part because of seasonal factors.

July shipments to foreign fabricators decreased to 108,216 tons from June's record high of 130,323 tons. Stocks held abroad at the end of July totalled 170,558 tons, lowest level in a year. One reason was deliveries of Chilean copper to the U. S. government stockpile.

Lead producers reported sales at a better pace than in July. The price was firm at 14 cents a pound, New York.

Major metals prices:

Copper—30 cents a pound, delivered. Foreign 29.50-30 cents, New York.

Lead—14 cents a pound, New York; 13.80 cents, St. Louis.

Zinc—11 cents a pound, east St. Louis; 11.50 cents, New York.

Aluminum—22.3 cents a pound, ingots, shipping points. Pigs 20 cents.

Antimony—31.97 cents a pound, cased less than carload lots, New York. Bulk, 28.50 cents, carload, producer's plant.

Ferromanganese—$200 a net ton, shipping point.

Nickel—60 cents a pound, electrolytic cathodes, Port Colborne, Ont., U. S. duty included.

Platinum—$84 an ounce, wholesale; $87 retail.

Silver—85.25 cents an ounce, New York; 72.25 pence, London.

Tin—92.62 cents a pound, New York.

Quicksilver — $290-$295 a flask (76 pounds), New York.

Tungsten ore—$24-25 a ton units, 20 pounds, duty extra.

Outlaw Bill Displeases Ike

By MARTIN L. ARROWSMITH

THURMONT, Md. (AP) — President Eisenhower was pictured Saturday as convinced a Senate-approved bill to outlaw the Communist party would make "propaganda martyrs" of Reds in this country. He reportedly will try to persuade the House of Representatives to kill the measure.

An administration official familiar with the views of the president, who is spending the weekend at his mountain lodge here, also told reporters Eisenhower is in complete agreement with Attorney-General Herbert Brownell and FBI chief J. Edgar Hoover on the matter.

Both men have opposed outlawing the Communists on the grounds it would drive them underground and make it much more difficult to keep track of them.

Despite Eisenhower's reported opposition to outlawing the Reds, his aides declined to speculate on whether he would veto the combination bill if the House goes along with the Senate and approves it.

Famous Polio Victims Who Fought Back, Encourage Today's Sufferers

By FRANK CAREY
Associated Press Science Reporter

WASHINGTON (AP) — William O. Douglas, justice of the Supreme Court, singer Dinah Shore, world high jump champ Walter F. Davis, inventor Allen B. Dumont . . .

All were polio victims. All fought back.

All have overcome, in Douglas' words, "not only the disease, but the challenge of life itself."

ONE OF MANY

Justice Douglas fought back from his illness to rise to a position on the highest court in the U. S. and became an accomplished mountain climber, golfer, horseman and a swimmer. But he is only one of the many famous personalities who had licked polio. Among others listed by the national foundation are:

Actress Ida Lupino, Judy Holliday, Kitty Carlisle and Mari Blanchard; Paul Winchell, television ventriloquist; Tenley Albright of Newton, Mass., holder of the world's figure skating title for women; Nancy Merki of Portland, Ore.; who came back from polio to shatter more than a score of swimming records; Nina Warren, daughter of the present chief justice of the U. S. supreme court, and orchestra leader Elliot Lawrence.

Their active careers emphasize a point which polio experts frequently make:

Of all victims of infantile paralysis, 50 per cent recover completely. Another 30 per cent may have after effects, but they are not serious enough to be disabling. Still another 14 per cent are left severely paralyzed, but even some of these learn to carry on active and productive lives despite a handicap. For only six per cent does the disease prove fatal.

F.D.R. MOST FAMOUS

Dinah Shore was only 18 months old when polio struck. Until she was six she took daily exercises under the direction of a trained masseuse. Today the only after-effect of her childhood polio is an unusually high-arched foot.

Perhaps the most famous of all polio victims was Franklin D. Roosevelt, stricken in the 1920s but became governor of New York and President of the U. S. Until his death, from another cause, Roosevelt was disabled to such an extent he required a cane and the support of a friendly arm and often used a wheel chair.

Unfriendly Welcome Leads to Arrest

MONTREAL (CP)—A 47-year-old Montreal man was charged with defrauding Canadian immigrants by leaving them stranded in various Ontario towns after promising them harvesting jobs.

Aime Guertin was ordered for preliminary hearing Aug. 19 after being arraigned on six charges of obtaining money by false pretences.

Police said Guertin was arrested after at least 50 immigrants—mostly Italians and Greeks—had been driven to Ontario and promised tobacco harvesting jobs at wages of $12 a day plus room and board.

The applicants paid up to $20 each to cover minor "arrangements." They were stranded on their arrival because the promised jobs didn't exist.

BUT IT DIDN'T EXPLODE

LIVERPOOL, Eng. (Reuters)—Two bomb disposal experts took an anxious five minutes Friday to dismantle an exploded 500-pound German bomb buried on a war-blitz site here for 10 years. A steam shovel scooped it up with a load of debris, then dropped it.

LONDON, Ont. (CP)—More than one-third of the 4000 Dutch families who have immigrated to Southwestern Ontario in the past five years have purchased their own farms.

Nightmare Trip Ends in Death

NOTTINGHAM, Eng. (Reuters)—James Merrin, 38, ran out of money on his vacation, and decided to go home, but his trip turned into a nightmare of confusion ending in death.

His journey from the vacation spot Isle of Man, was uneventful until he reached Manchester. Then things began happening.

He asked for the train to his home town, Leicester, but went to the wrong platform and had to lug his heavy suitcase back to the right one.

Once there, he got on the train, but it turned out to be the wrong section of the train—one that didn't go as far as Leicester—and there were no connecting doors to the right section. Merrin got off at the next stop and asked fresh directions. Either the directions were wrong or he misunderstood them. In any case he wound up at Ripley, nowhere near where he wanted to go.

Next he asked the way to Nottingham, from which he knew he could make his way home.

WRONG WAY AGAIN

But he got into a bus going in the opposite direction—and found himself in Belper. There, police put him on a bus to Derby. There he boarded the right section of the right train for home.

But he never got there. He was found dead on the railroad tracks 14 miles from his home.

Merrins journeying last Tuesday were pieced together before a coroner's court here.

Police said they believed the confused, absent-minded traveller thought the train had reached its destination, opened the door and stepped out—into the path of an oncoming freight train.

The coroner's verdict: Accidental death.

Views Differ on Outlaw Ballot

LONDON (TP) — The Conservative Daily Telegraph urged Britons today to lay off criticizing the United States Senate vote to outlawthe American Communist party. But the Liberal Manchester Guardian tabbedthe ballot "rather foolish."

Said the Telegraph:

"American Communists are no different from British or any other Communists. They all have a callous contempt for the principles of liberty which they seek to use for the destruction of liberty.

"What has shaken the American is not the danger, but the utter dishonor of Communist tactics. This is the thing they wish to end.

"The American method may not be the best, but it has the saving virtue of recognizing the quality and nature of the challenge. If we have no better method, we shall do well to restrain our criticism."

Commented the Guardian:

"It is a pity that the excellent senators do not see that in rushing through legislation of this sort (even if they may hope the House of Representatives will kill it) they do not increase the world's respect for American tolerance or the American strength."

Studebaker To Lower 1955 Car Prices

SOUTH BEND, Ind. (AP)—Studebaker Corporation says it will reduce prices by about $100 on its 1955 models. The announcement was made Friday, a day after workers at the big automotive plant voted to accept a 14 per cent pay cut in a move to save their jobs and the company.

The company also said it soon may obtain a "big volume" defence contract for guided missiles.

Guatemala Reds Claim Banana's Power Splits More Than Sundaes

By CHARLESTON MERCER

BOSTON (AP) — The banana is a curious fruit. Tropical, it is adored in the temperate zones. Requiring tender human care and sensitive to weather and diseases, it also can wield great power.

It has helped overthrow governments and create business empires. Men have fought, died, gone broke and made fortunes for the sake of the long, delicately flavored, green-gold Grand Michel—the particular banana Americans buy.

Almost as fabulous is that strange mixture of fact and legend known as the United Fruit Co. of Boston. Now United Fruit—or la Frutera as it is known in Latin America—has moved centre-stage in an international drama involving democracy, Communism, nationalism and the Yankee dollar.

A few weeks ago, when anti-Communist Carlos Castillo Armas was toppling the pro-Communist government of Jacobo Arbenz from power in Guatemala, Communists spread their propaganda through Latin America.

"It's an imperialist Yankee revolution!" they cried. "La Frutera is paying for it!"

CLAIM "RIDICULOUS"

This, they claimed, was because the late pro-Communist Guatemalan government had expropriated 239,000 acres of uncultivated United Fruit lands.

But of this claim a company spokesman says, "It's so ridiculous we rfuse to comment on it."

What stunned the Communist propagandists, however, was that on the heels of the Guatemala revolution the United States department of justice brought a civil anti-trust suit against United Fruit, accusing it of being a banana monopoly and demanding that it break up its allegedly restrictive structure and give competitors a chance.

Today United Fruit is one of the largest American companies in foreign operations with total assets of $579,342,684 and nearly 100,000 employees.

There is no record, however, of specific instances in which the company has overthrown governments or faced legislation favoring its interests.

REDS CHIEF ENEMY

The Communist party has been for many years the chief enemy of United Fruit. The Reds call it "the United States Fruit Co.," and say State Secretary John Foster Dulles is a big stockholder. He does not and never has owned United Fruit stock. They twist to their own propaganda ends such an incident as this.

WOULD GIVE HOSPITAL

Some Latin nationalists claim the company is paternalistic. This is, it plays too big a role in the personal lives of its Latin American employees. It willingly agreed to turn over its hospitals to the Costa Rican government, for instance. Yet thus far the government has made no effort to take on that responsibility.

Glory of Wooden Ships Undefeated

CHURCHILL, Man. (CP) — Talk about a girl in every port. The veteran coastal vessel Terra Nova could match her varied cargoes with sailors' sweethearts anytime.

Ordinarily a sealing vessel in the Strait of Belle Isle, the Terra Nova picked up a cargo of molasses in Barbados a few weeks ago. Then she took prefabricated houses to Baker Lake, 375 miles north of here, dropped down to the new sub-Arctic mining camp at Rankin Inlet, picked up empty oil drums and docked there.

After another run to the inlet with supplies the proud wooden vessel will return home to St. John's Nfld.

Radio-Active Gold Used on Cancer

WINNIPEG (CP) — Every two weeks—generally on Wednesday—a quarter of an ounce of radio-active gold is flown into Winnipeg from England for use in the continuing fight against cancer.

It is immediately taken to Dr. H. Blondal, medical director of the Manitoba cancer relief and research institute here, who is the only doctor in the province conducting the treatments.

Each shipment, although only one-quarter ounce, serves two patients with one dose each.

"One dose often does the trick," said Dr. Bondal.

The treatments are, however, palliative, he said. That is, they relieve the complications rather than cure the disease itself.

Morrison Plans To Visit the States

LONDON (Reuters) — Herbert Morrison, deputy leader of the British Labor party, will visit the United States in October to lend support to the Israel bond campaign, it was announced here Friday. Henry Montor, chief executive officer of the Israel Bond Organization, who issued the invitation, said Morrison would arrive in New York Oct. 5 and return to Britain Oct. 20.

East Germans Jailed On Sabotage Charge

BERLIN (Reuters)—Four leading officials of the Communist East German heavy machinery ministry, including one woman, were Saturday sentenced to hard labor terms for "economic sabotage" and "fascist propaganda."

U. S. Buyers and St. Lawrence Project Boost Brokers' Hopes

By GEORGE LINTON
Canadian Press Staff Writer

Bullish activity this week lifted stock market prices off the skids at Toronto, Montreal and New York.

Brokers pointed to two influences they said they felt were at work—optimism over the eventual effect of the St. Lawrence seaway on the Canadian economy and United States buying of Canadian stocks through investment funds.

More than 30 industrial issues climbed $1 or more in the week, while only a half-dozen issues had such losses. Most construction and a number of steel and financial institution issues moved well up. Climbs of $1 or more were down by General Dynamics, Canadian Industries, British American Oil and Dominion Tar.

In senior base metals, Falconbridge and Hudson Bay both gained more than $1. Sherritt Gordon climbed 70 cents. Its Lynn Lake mines reported recovering more nickel than expected.

Calgary and Edmonton moved up $1 in western oils and Pacific Petroleum gained almost as much. Hollinger climbed $1.50 in senior golds.

The week's index changes at Toronto: Industrials up 4.29 to 355.54, golds up 1.48 to 77.86, base metals up 2.85 to 151.76, and western oils up 1.79 to 85.46.

New York, after a weak session Monday, hit an upcurrent that reached its strongest Wednesday when many prices moved up as much as two points. The going got rough Thursday and Friday but The Associated Press average of 60 stocks managed a gain of $1.80 on the week, more than making up for a $1.40 loss the week before.

Montreal prices followed Toronto trends fairly closely, with most sections, notably papers, making good gains.

Light activity on the Canadian bond market this week left prices "just a whisker stronger," a trader said.

Dr. Eckner Dies at Ripe Age

Inventor of Once-Famous Zeppelin Denounced Hitler as Criminal Fool

FRIEDRICHSHAFEN, Germany (AP) — Dr. Hugo Eckener, who commanded the Graf Zeppelin on its round-the-world flight, died at his home here Saturday at the age of 86.

The noted aeronautical engineer succumbed to a heart ailment after a lingering illness.

He made the round-the-world flight in the Graf Zeppelin in 1929.

Eckener retained his faith in travel by lighter-than-air craft despite disaster and the obstacles of politics and war.

The famed scientist seemed on the point of success in his unflagging efforts to popularize trans-Atlantic commerce by dirigible when the explosion of the giant Hindenburg at Lakeshurt, N.J., on May 6, 1937 at a cost of 36 lives, proved once and for all the impracticability of hydrogen-filled ships.

Balked from obtaining fireproof helium gas from the United States, virtually the only source, he had not given up hope when the Second World War broke out.

CRAFT DESTROYED

Herman Goering, then reichsminister of air, ridiculed Eckener's zeppelins as "big sausages."

Adolf Hitler, too, was unsympathetic, seeing little military value in the dirigible. So at the outbreak of the war the LZ-130, which Eckener had built to replace the Hindenburg, was tied up in its mammoth hangar at Friedrichshafen. Work on a sister ship was stopped. Before the war was over the two zeppelins were melted down for their materials and the hangars bombed by the allies.

With the end of the war, however, Eckener returned to the U. S. in 1947, still keen in his belief that the time would come when dirigibles would carry heavy freight loads throughout the world.

He spent seven months in the United States as a consultant for the Goodyear Corporation in lighter-than-air research. He discounted Germany's place, however, in the future of the dirigible. He said that country's future was wrecked "by that fool with criminal instincts"—Hitler.

Passively anti-Nazi, Eckener was fined 100,000 marks ($10,000) by a French zone denazification court in January, 1948. But an American zone denazification court later the same year said his activities as an industrialist were "not incriminating" and acquitted him.

The French then gave him a licence to publish a newspaper. His first job as a young man had been as a newspaper reporter.

British Soccer Fans Prepare For Opening Day on Aug. 21

By JEFF RYAN
Canadian Press Staff Writer

LONDON (CP)—Another soccer season opens Aug. 21 and the fans in their millions will be watching for a new look in an old favorite.

The sport that spells spectator and betting thrills to the British Isles through a long, dank winter begins this year against a back-drop of international reverses. As a result chanegs have been predicted in style, organization and training.

The full 92-team professional English Football League will play opening day, along with 5000 other amateur and professional clubs throughout the United Kingdom. At the windup next spring, some 17,000,000 persons will have turned over millions of pounds in football pools, there will be new champions—and there may be a clear-cut master plan for regaining international mastery.

One view which is thrown at the clubs, is that they have been encouraging a "safe" but dull brand of football for the sake of league standings. As a result, the players picked for England are sadly outclassed by the precise passing and footwork of other countries.

England has already started a program emphasizing youth, naming a "B" international team from which players are expected to graduate.

But there appears no solution yet to the demands that the heavy league schedules make on assembling a team which can get to know itself, and play accordingly.

First big international game this year is against Germany, World Cup champion, at Wembley, Dec. 1.

Magistrate Killed In Car Accident

KAMLOOPS, B.C. (CP)—O. G. Easterbrook, stipendiary magistrate of Lillooet, died in hospital here Saturday after his car plunged 310 feet over a cliff Friday.

Magistrate Easterbrook suffered the fatal injuries when his car hurtled down the cliff after bouncing out of a deep hole in the road.

Mrs. Easterbrook, who received only slight injuries, clambered up the embankment and ran for help.

Police said a heavy rain at the time of the accident may have been a contributing factor to the accident.

The magistrate was rushed to hospital by ambulance, but died 12 hours later from internal injuries.

Crippled Children Run Little BEG

PORT COLBORNE, Ont. (CP)—The British Empire Games were run all over again this week with Canada coming out on top.

This reshuffling of international sports prestige took place at nearby Lakewood Camp where all competitors were crippled Ontario children. They grouped into teams under the names of various Commonwealth countries.

While the 60 days did not manage the variety of events as were staged at Vancouver, they had one or two unique ones of their own, including a wheel-chair race.

Even the "duke"—in the person of camp counselor Bob Salter—was on hand to present prizes.

Berlin Reds Jail Nine Witnesses

BERLIN (AP) — A Communist court has ordered imprisonment of nine more East German members of the Jehovah's Witnesses religious sect, the West Berlin free jurists committee announced today. The sect, outlawed in the Soviet zone, reported 10 days ago that 1334 Jehovah's witnesses are now in East German jails.

The free jurists committee said a Potsdam court handed down the sentences earlier this week. The main defendant, a man identified only as Kerger, received 10 years in prison at hard labor. The others were given a total of 54 years.

German Jet Experts Return to E. Zone

BERLIN (AP)—A group of 30 German experts on airplane and jet construction has returned to East Germany after years of post-war work in Soviet Russia, the West Berlin free jurists' committee said Friday. The committee, an organization gathering information on East Germany, said the experts are likely to be assigned to revive the development of guided missiles and planes in the Soviet zone.
