UN Refuses To Consider Oman Issue

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) — The United Nations security council refused Tuesday to take up Soviet-supported charges by 11 Arab countries that Britain threatened world peace by sending armed forces to put down a rebellion in the sultanate of Muscat and Oman.

Seven affirmative votes were needed in the 11 - nation council for a full scale airing of the accusations. But only four — Russia, Iraq, Sweden and the Philippines —voted in favor. Britain, France, Australia, Cuba and Columbia opposed council debate and the United States abstained. China did not participate in the vote.

Arkady A. Sobolev of the Soviet Union charged that the British by armed intervention sought to protect the interests of British and British - American oil companies in the sultanate on the southeastern tip of the Arabian Peninsula.

He said recent statements by U.S. State Secretary Dulles indicated Britain and the U.S. are planning joint "aggressive actions" against the Arab people.

SHARP U.S. REPLY

Sobolev's remarks brought a sharp reply from Henry Cabot Lodge, the chief U.S. delegate.

"For those who have even a faint memory for recent history," Lodge said, "there was something monstrously quaint about the Soviet representatives' attack on Mr. Dulles, as well as his words about foreign aggression."

Lodge asserted that a representative of the government "which promoted aggression by the creation in the Second World War of the Molotov-Ribbontrop pact; the representative of a government which committed the rape of Hungary — two events which bracket a long list of other brutalities—is in no position to speak sanctimoniously of foreign aggression."

Lodge said the United States abstained because statements made in the council debate "and other information available to us" were not sufficient to justify committing the U. S. for or against taking up the issue at this time.

But he said the U.S. does not accept as valid the arguments set forth by the 11 Arab nations in asking the council to consider charges against the British.

Pearkes Issues Plans For Reorganization

OTTAWA (CP) — Text of a statement Tuesday by Defence Minister Pearkes announcing that Canadian army units are to be armed for the first time with guided missiles:

It is planned to re-organize the 1st Light Anti-Aircraft Regiment, which at present has a headquarters and two batteries at Picton, Ont., and one at Work Point, Esquimalt, B.C. The first stage will necessitate the concentration and relocation of personnel now at Work Point to the regiment at Picton and other Royal Canadian Artillery units during the next few months. It is the intention, as soon as suitable modern anti-aircraft weapons become available, to re-equip the light anti-aircraft regiment to meet any immediated requirements of the regular army.

It is inteded that units of the regiment should be equipped eventually with missiles. No decision has yet been taken regarding the type of missile system that will be adopted.

At the same time, it is intended to move the 3rd Field Squadron of the Royal Canadian Engineers, which now is at Work Point barracks, to accommodation in Chilliwack which will become vacant when the 4th Field Squadron moves from Chilliwack to Germany this autumn.

The removal of the light anti-aircraft battery and the field squadron from Work Point barracks will make that accommodation available for the 1st Battalion of the Princess Patricia's Canadian Light Infantry on their return from Germany in October and November of this year.

Distress Tariff On Lead, Zinc Turned Down

WASHINGTON (AP) — A U.S. posal to impose a three-cent-a-pound distress tariff on lead and zinc imports was scrapped Tuesday when it got a cold shoulder from the Eisenhower administration.

The committee left the way open, however, for the Senate to take up before adjournment the administration's own plan for a sliding scale of import fees on lead and zinc. Whether this would be done was not certain.

Committee chairman Harry Byrd (Dem. Va.) announced after a closed meeting of the group that the three-cent tariff—to be effective when metal prices drop below stipulated peril points—was abandoned.

Warnings that any kind of lead-zinc tariff bill will face trouble in the House of Representatives were repeated Tuesday.

Boat Punctured By Swordfish

MATTAPOISETT, Mass. (AP) — Four local fishermen told an unusual fish story Tuesday. And they had proof to back it up.

The hull of their 32-foot craft had been punctured by a swordfish. They pulled into port with the sword still protruding about six inches through the bow. Frederick Brownell, owner of the craft, the Shan-Lin, said the incident occurred Monday night when he and three companions were fishing.

Brownell said Lloyd S. Haskell hooked the 250-pound fish and was reeling it in when it dived and rammed its sword through a 6⅞ inch keel plank. The Shan-Lin began taking water immediately.

Another Mattapoisett fishing boat, the Jeanie Claire II, pulled the fish free with a towline. The sword snapped off, however and remained in the hull.

The fish was taken aboard the Shan-Lin and the craft continued to port.

Says U.S. Planned His Assassination

DAMASCUS, Syria (AP) — Maj.-Gen. Afif Bizry, new army chief of staff, charged Tuesday that he was marked for assassination in a plot he said the United States directed against the Syrian government.

At the same time Syria told the United Nations the United States conspired to overthrow the Damascus government, but the Syrians refrained from asking for any UN action.

In the story told here Bizry said his chief staff officiers also were marked for death.

The general said that Howard E. Stone, the U.S. embassy's second secretary for political affairs, was the mastermind.

Ambulance Service Outside Cities Studied —Black

PORT ALBERNI (CP) — Provision of ambulance services outside municipalities is being studied by the provincial government, provincial secretary W. D. Black said in a letter to council here.

The council has asked if government assistance would be available in cases where fees were not able to be collected for trips outside the city.

Find Tot's Death Was Avoidable

COURTENAY, B. C. (CP) — A coroner's jury found Tuesday the July 14 traffic death of a four-year-old girl could have been avoided if Mrs. Vera Garseth of Alberni had been in control of her car.

The jury found that Mary Jane Cottingham died as a result of a broken neck.

Broader Setting Needed for Fan?

VANCOUVER (CP) — The management of Vancouver's Empire Stadium has had to answer a tricky question: how broad is a football fan?

It decided the answer is 18 inches. But generously-proportioned spectators at the stadium's first Western Interprovincial Football Union game of the season Saturday say it underestimated.

Other fans complain that the management overestimated on the number of seats available. They say eight non-existent ones were sold.

Stadium officials said Tuesday seats previously varied in width from 34 to 17½ inches but now have been readjusted to the uniform size. They said this increased capacity by 330 to 25,887.

Oakalla Guard Suspended

VANCOUVER (CP) — A guard at Oakalla prison farm in suburban Burnaby has been suspended following investigation of a stolen cheque racket at the prison.

A prison official said Tuesday the guard is suspected of having cashed stolen cheques on which signatures were forged by a prisoner.

He said the guard was suspended several weeks ago after a number of income tax cheques for prisoners disappeared from the mailing room.

Burnaby RCMP are investigating the possibility that a second guard, suspended earlier for other reasons, was also involved.

The forgeries were discovered after prisoners complained they were not receiving their tax refunds.

The missing cheques, all for small amounts, were found to have been cashed at a local bank.

Prison officials said the guard broke down and cried when they confronted him with the theft. He later repaid the money.

Two prisoners suspected of being involved have been shuffled to other wings, officials said. They refused to say anything.

"Things Look Good" For PCs Says Green

By H. L. JONES
Canadian Press Staff Writer

OTTAWA (CP)—Politically-wise Howard Green, the new minister of public works, has a feeling that "things look good" for the Progressive Conservatives in the next federal election.

But the tall, 61-year-old veteran of 21 years in Parliament, now one of Prime Minister Diefenbaker's chief lieutenants, wouldn't be pinned down on just when the next election might be.

To an interviewer Tuesday he described as "just an off-hand comment" his recent remark to reporters at Trail, B.C., that a new election would be called "before next July." He said at the time it was just a personal opinion.

"Actually I don't know any more than you do," said the bespectacled, greying minister who took over his new job with others of the Diefenbaker cabinet June 21. Besides being full-time public works minister, he also is acting minister of defence production and has spent some two weeks of his two months in office as acting prime minister.

WONDERFUL CAMPAIGN

The B.C.-born politician feels the downfall of the Liberals in the June 10 election was due mainly to growing confidence of the public in John Diefenbaker as a leader because of the "wonderful campaign he put on." It was that and the "desire for a change" after 22 years of Liberal rule that did the trick.

Did he feel his party would get an over-all majority in the next election: "I don't want to be a prophet but I would say that things look good."

Soars 102,000 Feet . . .

'Balloon Man' Glad To Return To Earth

CROSBY, Minn. (AP)—Appearing drowsy but happy, a U.S. air force doctor-pilot landed safely late Tuesday near Ellensdale, N.D., after riding the gondola of a plastic balloon to a record 102,000 feet in his 32 hours of exploring outer space.

Asked his most exciting experience, Dr. David G. Simons said as he stepped from the gondola: "Getting back to earth."

Simons, ordered to start down at 7:30 a.m. MDT, finally brought the giant polyethylene bag down on the shores of Elm Lake at 4:28 p.m. The lake is on the North Dakota-South Dakota border about 10 miles southwest of Ellendale.

Ground winds shifted the balloon about precariously during Simons' nine-hour battle to get the gondola and its cargo of instruments safely back to earth.

MASTERFUL LANDING

Observers said that by a masterful use of his ballast, Simons touched the ground gently. He suffered a slight cut on the chin when the gondola tipped over before the balloon could be cut loose.

"You can tell the folks that, up high, the stars don't twinkle, they just burn," he said in a brief interview.

Simons was led to a waiting helicopter and whisked away to an unknown destination.

Radar trackers estimated the balloon hit 102,000 feet early Tuesday over Wahpeton, N.D. Confirmation awaits calibration of instruments the balloon carried.

BAG BACK INTO SKY

Immediately after the landing, members of the ground crew cut loose the plastic bag and it soared skyward. They said it again will go up to 100,000 feet where a mechanical device will explode it into small fragments.

The balloon covered about 400 air miles in the 32 hours. First predictions were that its course would be across North Dakota with the landing in eastern Montana.

Ground parties immediately picked up the gondola and its cargo, which included many photographs Simons took.

STONHOUSES' DAUGHTER DIES OF POLIO

LONDON (Reuters) — Mrs. Marjorie Mitchell, 33 - year - old daughter of Lady Stonhouse, died of polio in a hospital here Tuesday.

Her mother, who had flown from Calgary following an emergency appeal from England, never talked with Mrs. Mitchell. She lapsed into a coma shortly before Lady Stonhouse arrived.

In the same hospital, also suffering from polio, are Mrs. Mitchell's children, Barbara, 7, and Philip, 9. They were said to be improving.

Lady Stonhouse, wife of rancher baronet Sir Arthur Stonhouse, heard the news of her daughter's illness while she was on vacation with her husband in Alberta. RC MP searched the province to tell her.

Four Mountain Climbers Saved

TRENT, Italy (AP) — Rescue parties found four mountain climbers alive Tuesday on Marmolada Peak in the Dolomites. At least two others trapped by snow and ice on the mountain still were missing and believed dead.

Rescued were two German and two Italian climbers.

Rescuers had been searching for two German-speaking and five Italian climbers reported to have been marooned when a blizzard struck during the weekend.

Canada Council To Grant 300 Scholarships

OTTAWA (CP) — The Canada Council Tuesday decided to grant some 300 scholarships and fellowships, ward prizes and medals, finance lecturers and launch other projects to aid in the advancement of Canadian culture.

At the same time it agreed to set up a 26-member national commission to co - operate with the United Nations Educational, Scientific and Cultural Organization and named Dr. N. A. M. MacKenzie, head of the University of British Columbia, as commission president.

Dr. MacKenzie, member of the 21-person council sat on the royal commission on arts which in 1951 made a number of recommendations for federal aid to Canadian culture, including mass scholarships.

The scholarships, to be paid out of the council's expected $2,500,000 - a - year revenue, may total about $800,000 annually. They will range between $300 and $5000 and will be granted only to those doing work in the fields of arts, humanities and social sciences.

UN To Have Film Of Kitimat

KITIMAT (CP) — The United Nations is going to put Kitimat on film.

J. C. Sheers, an associate producer and writer for the film division of UN, is in Kitimat to do research on the project. He arrived last Wednesday, plans to visit Kemano before leaving this week for New York.

Mr. Sheers plans to return to Kitimat in November with a crew of about seven. They will "shoot miles of film" and later edit it down to a 15-minute, 35-millimetre color documentary. It will appear as part of a program entitled "An Evening With the United Nations."

The actual filming will take four to five weeks. Mr. Sheers said the film likely will have its premiere at the 1958 world fair at Brussels.

The UN is interested in Kitimat "because it's an outstanding example of human endeavor," Mr. Sheers said.

"There is nothing like it anywhere. We want to film the people of Kitimat, the people who have built it and the people who are staking their future here."

The film will be made available in Kitimat late next year in 16-millimetre form.

RECORD 6-CENT PREMIUM ON CANADA DOLLAR

NEW YORK (AP) — The high-flying Canadian dollar rose to an unprecedented premium of more than six cents over the U.S. dollar in foreign exchange trading Tuesday.

At $1.06 1-32 in terms of U.S. currency, the Canadian dollar was up 3-32 of a cent over Monday's close. Last Thursday the Dominion dollar broke through a record high, which had stood since November, 1933.

The strength in Canadian money was attributed in part to reports that British, French and West German investors have been stepping up their investments in Canadian enterprises. The recent influx of European money is in addition to the steady stream of U.S. investment in Canada in recent years.

ONE-THIRD OF DOLLAR RUNS CAR

NANAIMO (CP) — One-third of the spending power of residents of the Nanaimo area is taken up by automobiles, an economic survey conducted by the Chamber of Commerce shows.

The survey, made under direction of the provincial department of trade and industry, shows 33.3 cents of the spending dollar of the average consumer in Nanaimo, Harewood, Chase River and Wellington, is spent on cars, gasoline and automotive supplies.

Food and non-alcoholic beverages account for 26.7 cents; general merchandise 14.8 cents; building materials and hardware 5.9 cents; furniture and household appliances 4.2 cents; drugs and health supplies 1.9 cents and other purchases 6.5 cents.

Warned of Gang's Plan To Capture 3 in Hotel

By GUY RONDEAU
Canadian Press Staff Writer

MURDOCHVILLE, Que. (CP)—Provincial police took up posts outside the local hotel Tuesday "to stop a gang" from reaching three officials of the United Steelworkers of America (CLC) in a room inside.

Police armed with nightsticks asked all persons with no specific business there to leave the hotel. They said they were warned a gang planned to invade the hotel and capture the three union men.

Inside the hotel were Roger Bedard, USWA official who came here when the strike started five months ago; Theo Gagne, president of the USWA's Murdochville local and Bruno MacDonald, another union official.

One union officer from Montreal, Jean - Gerin Lajoie, telephoned the Quebec attorney - general's department in Quebc City and told an official there the union would hold the provincial governmet responsible "if anything happens to the men."

Mr. Lajoie said the official said he was getting in touch with provincial police immediately.

It was the termination of Mr. Gagne's employment with Gaspe Copper Mines Ltd., that brought about the strike after a long-smouldering dispute. The USWA claimed he was fired for his union activities. The company said his job had ended and it had no other employment for him.

Earlier the three union men said they were warned by police their "lives are in danger" and were invited to leave town.

Provincial police Sgt. Rene Marchand and Guy Buckley, local police chief, met with the union officials in their room at the hotel. When he emerged from the meeting, Mr. Bedard said he had been told he and other union men should leave for their own safety.

Lieut. Edouard Boisjily, in charge of a 120 - man provincial police detachment in this strike-gripped town, said he had not heard of the reported threat.

"I don't know anything about it," he said.

CURFEFW ORDERED

Mayor Emile Duhamel, who ordered a curfew between 8 p.m. and 6 a.m. following outbreaks of violence Monday, declined to comment on the union statement.

But a qualified municipal official who asked that his name be withheld, said he had been told "trouble can be expected until the union officers leave town."

Mr. Bedard said he told Sgt. Marchand and Chief Buckley he will not leave Murdochville until "Gaspe Copper Mines signs a collective agreement with the USWA."

Stern, Wife Deny Morros Spy Charges

PRAGUE (Reuters) — American stock broker Alfred K. Stern said Tuesday he and his wife renounced their U. S. citizenship for Praguayan nationality two months ago to avoid being deported from Mexico to the United States.

The couple arrived in Prague July 21 via Montreal from Mexico.

In a statement to reporters, Stern dismissed as "fantastic" allegations that he and his wife, were Russian agents. His wife is the former Martha Dodd, daughter of the late William E. Dodd, U. S. ambassador to Germany from 1933 to 1938.

Stern said such charges, made before the House of Representatives un-American activities committee by movie producer Boris Morros, were aimed at "furthering the spy hysteria in the U. S.."

In his statement, Stern said he was briefly associated with Morros in 1944 in a small music publishing company.

"I have not seen Morros since 1945—12 years ago."

Stern said Morros' accusations were lies and Morros a publicity seeker.

New Civic Group For Vancouver

VANCOUVER (CP) — The standard of civic government here has deteriorated because of lack of "an organized responsible alternative," a newly-formed voters organization says in a circular to 15,000 home owners.

The circular appeals for "moral and financial" public support for the new group, the Civic Voters' Association.

The association said it intends to sponsor candidates for civic office "so that voters would have some other choice than voting NPA."

The NPA is the non-partisan association, which has operated for 22 years and now has a full slate of nominees on city council.

LONDON (AP)—Red China's farmers are learning something Western dairymen have known for a long time: Cows produce more milk under the influence of soft, sweet music.

Radio Peiping, quoting the official People's Daily, said Shansi province farmers have thus increased the output of their cows by 16 per cent, but "when the music stopped or become too noisy, the milk output dropped."

CHICAGO (AP)—A dozen persons came forward with claims for injuries they said they suffered in a Chicago Transit Authority bus which had a minor collision with a truck Monday night.

Authorities said the bus had only eight passengers.

NEWARK, N.J. (AP)—Mrs. Elsa Schenkel, a city tax clerk, dropped her pencil Monday and got fast action from 10 males.

The 10, all policemen, showed up when Mrs. Schenkel, in picking up the pencil, accidentally triggered the holdup alarm.

LONDON (AP)—It had to happen someday on London's complex network of electrified and old-fashioned steam train tracks.

Men in the control towers along London's southern approaches were routing trains all over the place to clear a blockage caused by a locomotive breakdown.

When everything seemed to be going smoothly, one worried little engineer climbed down from his train a few miles out of town and phoned back the news: his electric train had been switched onto a steam line and just couldn't move.

Embarrassed railwaymen rushed an old-fashioned locomotive down the line.

War Memorial Park Plan Not Yet Approved by Legion

Nelson branch of the Canadian Legion has not yet approved complete plans for War Memorial park city building inspector G. A. Butling said Tuesday.

He was referring to an account of a City Council discussion on the plans for the park reported in Tuesday's paper. Plan for providing a parade area on Vernon Street near the park to accommodate Remembrance Day parades and thus leaving the "park area as park" by leaving a gap in the boulevard, was approved by Legion representative C. R. Higgens when he met with Mr. Butling recently, the latter said. However, Mr. Higgens had yet to get his organization's approval of this aspect of the plan, Mr. Butling explained.

Complete plan for the park has not been finalized, he said. He termed the plan he presented to Council Monday night "only a plan of considerations."

Trailer Park For Tourists Only

The new trailer park was built for tourist use, and City Council does not wish it to become a "residential area."

Parks chairman Ald. W. S. Ramsay said at least one man wanted to live in the park during the Winter, and had offered to act as caretaker. Works superintendent E. E. Olson said the facilities were not designed for winter use, and Ald. Elizabeth Wallach said the health department had objected "strenuously" to persons living all year in the area some years ago.

Mr. Olson said trailers have different - size water pipe connections. For this reason, all are being encouraged to use Park washroom facilities instead of their own taps.

VISITORS WRITE

Facilities provided were "the very best we encountered anywhere," Mr. and Mrs. Norman McLeod of Mount Royal, Quebec, wrote Council after a trip from Montreal to Vancouver through Canada this year by trailer. They offered a "sincere thanks for your hospitality at a fair and reasonable cost," in the "clean, bright, and modern and complete facilities." Blue-colored hand towels provided were "the crowning touch," they said.

The letter spoke of "a little difficulty finding it in the dark," and said "a few signs would be a big help." Council discussed that matter at previous meeting.

Donations Made To Aid Homeless Family

No organized appeal has been made for funds to aid a Nelson family made homeless by fire Saturday night, but funds, clothing, blankets, and so on, have already been received, D. M. Sample said Tuesday. One donation was also sent to The Daily News, and Rotary Club decided to give $25 at its Tuesday meeting.

Mr. Sample has acted in an unofficial capacity as Lions Club Welfare Committee chairman, and appealed Tuesday to other service clubs and interested persons to send representatives to a meeting at the Chamber of Commerce rooms tonight.

Mr. and Mrs. Elwood Clum and five children lost their North Shore home, and belongings across from the city wharf, in the fire.

Known donations in cash total $67. Of this, $10 was sent to The Daily News and $32 to Mr. Sample. It is planned to set up a trust fund.

Maximum of $50 set by the Red Cross for purchase of supplies has been spent. Civil Defence Coordinator E. W. White said his organization would also assist. An announcement made at St. Paul's - Trinity United Church Sunday won quick response, with blankets and clothing as well as cash, donated.

PLAN BUILDING BEE

Mr. Sample said household goods such as cooking utensils were needed. The three school age children would receive school supplies.

M. B. Ryalls is receiving clothing at his downtown office.

The meeting tonight would try to arrange weekend building bees in an effort to replace the house, Mr. Sample said. The family is living temporarity in a house provided by G. M. Williscroft on the North Shore, but will move into a building adjoining the burned home as soon as it can be made livable. It had been used as a tool house by Mr. Clum.

The donor who sent money to The Daily News said the family was in genuine need of help and enclosed $10 "to start the ball rolling."

Mr. Sample, in an effort to obtain proper fitting clothing, obtained the family's measurements. They are:

George, 13, 4' 9", 89 lbs.; Arthur, 12, 4' 11', 88 lbs.; Vayla, 10, 4' 6¾", 63 lbs.; Rose Marie, 5, 4½", 38 lbs.; Bennie, 5, 43¾", 42 lbs.; Mrs. Clum, 5' 1½", 142 lbs.; Mr. Clum, 6', 170 lbs.

Work This Year In 700 Block Mill

Sewer connections, excavating and backfilling will possibly be done on the 700 block Mill Street this year to prepare the block for paving later under the City's street bylaw, works superintendent E. E. Olson said.

He was replying to criticism from E. M. Jones, 714 Mill Street, that no start had been made on reconstruction and backfilling of the block which, Mr. Jones said, was to have begun when work in the Junior High School area was finished, about a month ago.

Mr. Jones also suggested installation of a proper drain at the end of the curb on Hendryx Street, and proper grading of the alley in the 700 block Mill Street. This was referred to the works committee.

Extension of sewer facilities to the home of J. H. Cone, 305 Behnsen Street, was approved. Mr. Olson had suggested Mr. Cone write to Council since it would involve a "considerable extension" of present services, costing a "large amount" of money. The superintendent told Council there was enough in the works budget to do the job this year.

Also referred to the works committee with power to act was a complaint from J. H. Turnbull, 921 Edgewood Avenue, about a "snag" (dead tree) at the rear of his property which was menacing power lines to Kootenay Lake General Hospital and other buildings. Mr. Turnbull said the parks department told him two years ago the tree would be removed. Question is, is the tree on City or private property?

Outside Areas Could Organize Water Systems, Mayor Suggests

Adding one or two water connections to houses outside the city limits is just "delaying the day when a proper solution will be arrived at," Mayor Joseph Kary said Monday night. He suggested outside areas could organize systems of their own.

D. W. Guy sought permission to connect his newly-built house at 218 Morgan Street onto a City sewer at 216 Morgan Street, home of J. Halliwell. Mr. Guy, who said he was "a resident of Nelson for 37 years," agreed to pay for about 50 feet of sewer pipe which would be needed, and said an engineer told him a septic tank "would never function satisfactorily" due to the location and formation of his property.

Letters from Mr. Halliwell and Dr. K.I.G. Benson, director of the Selkirk Medical Health Unit, were enclosed. Mr. Halliwell agreed to the connection if the city approved and Mr. Guy agreed to pay one-half the original cost of installation. Dr. Benson said it would be unlawful for Mr. Guy to occupy the house without proper facilities. He suggested using a post-hole auger to locate a gravel bed in the subsoil, where a septic tank could be laid.

STATES POLICY

Council's policy in recent years has been "no outside connections," and Mayor Kary reminded other councillors they had turned down similar requests previously this year.

Double connections "cause us a lot of grief," according to works superintendent E. E. Olson. He said problems cropped up daily in street work because of waste material from streets outside the city.

The septic tank problem is an "awful thing," Mayor Kary said, and "quite a health problem." He did not want to force anyone to incorporate but pointed out the new Municipal Act gave special consideration to unorganized territories becoming organized or joining the nearest municipality. Mr. Olson said the block affected "should really be in the city."

Asks Broken Light Globes Be Reported

Request that broken street lights be reported to the electrical substation was made by City electrical superintendent A. C. VanSacker at City Council meeting Monday after Ald. J. W McClelland reported the light at Baker and Hendryx Streets was broken. Mr. VanSacker said he would investigate.

Mayor Joseph Kary said he and Ald. Elizabeth Wallach recently had seen a crane on a large truck break a light globe recently. The driver did not stop, and Mr. VanSacker said persons who break globes could be made to pay for them. However, some truck drivers would never know they had broken a globe.

Council May Change Meet Night

Change of weekly store closing from Wednesday to Monday may also result in City council changing its meeting night. The matter will be discussed further.

Mayor Joseph Kary noted most statutory holidays now fall on Monday. Most council members are wholesalers or retailers and are affected by the new store closing regulations.

Tuesday meetings are out because Ald. Mermet, a bus driver, is away that night. City clerk C. W. R. Harper said Thursday and Friday would be insufficient time for him to look after business arising from a Wednesday night meeting, and some business would have to be delayed over the weekend.

Next regular meeting would be September 2, Labor Day. It has been postponed to September 6. Special meetings may have to be held before then to deal with such matters as the Union of B.C. Municipalities annual meeting here next month and the new hospital bylaw.

George Leece, Here in 1907, Revisiting City

George Leece of Victoria first saw Nelson in 1907 when he had just emigrated from England, and landed a job as a printer on The Daily Canadian.

The Canadian, published by Sam Carley, was taken over by The Nelson Daily News a few months later and its operations were closed.

Leece, who then turned to mechanical engineering in a number of district mines and now follows the shipbuilding trade at Victoria, is back in Nelson on a holiday trip with his wife, visiting his sister Mrs. Cecil Crossley, 624 Delbruck Street.

Things have changed since he first saw Nelson 50 years ago, he says. But in the same breath, he says, that British Columbia has been and is the place of opportunity for a young man.

It was so in his earliest days here.

"On The Daily Canadian, I got $10 a week and a $1 a week raise for every week following up to six months. That was more than my former boss was being paid in the printing business in England."

F. J. Deane was then The Nelson Daily News proprietor. Leece knew him, and Daily News men who followed such as the late Garland Foster and the late H. H. Currie.

From the demise of The Daily Canadian until 1922 when he moved to the Coast, Leece worked at a number of district mines such as the Motherlode, the Sheep Creek, Nugget and Van Roi.

Through the war years he was engaged in shipbuilding. Now at Victoria Machinery Depot he is installing refrigeration and air conditioning in HMCS Antigonish.

This trip to Nelson is his first since 1928.

Hospital Bylaw Expected Back From Victoria Thursday

A bylaw to raise $161,861.61, as the City's share of the increased cost of completing the new Kootenay Lake General Hospital as originally planned, was sent to Victoria last Thursday for perusal by the Department of Municipalities, R. H. Procter, administrator, told the KLGH Society Board of Directors on Tuesday night.

Hon. W. D. Black, MLA for Nelson-Creston and minister of municipalities, has offered the full cooperation of his department in expediting the bylaw if it is technically correct.

The bylaw is expected back this Thursday, and Mr. Procter said City Council would give it three readings "immediately" at a special meeting. Two weeks must be allowed for advertising prior to the vote of ratepayers.

Charges for conducting the voting, printing of bonds, bond interest, and commission to the bond agents would have to added, making the amount $170,000. The Hospital Improvement District has been asked to provide $190,000. Anything up to three mills can be enacted immediately by trustees of the District, Mr. Procter said.

Finance chairman A. K. McAdams, honorary treasurer H. D. Harrison, Mayor Joseph Kary, Mrs. L. G. Catley, and Mrs. H. E. Doelle will act with chairman E. M. Stiles on a bylaw information committee. Purpose of this committee is to answer questions from the public about the need for additional funds.

CAPITAL INCREASES

A "nice increase" in working capital over July 1, 1956, was reported by Mr. Harrison in presenting the monthly financial statement. Net operating revenue last month was $48,806; for the year to date, $258,074. Net operating expenditure for last month was $36,121; for the year to date, $245,099. Food cost per meal day last month was 96 cents; for the year to date, $1. Write-offs last month were $1512.39.

Last month was "exceedingly busy" at the Hospital, Mr. Procter stated.

Dietitian Mrs. Hood has resigned effective September 14 to teach home economics, Superintendent of Nurses Mrs. Eileen Welsh reported, and attempts are being made to find a substitute. A butcher-cook is still required.

Mr. Stiles reported on a recent meeting of the planning committee, of which he is chairman. They authorized the first progress payment of $52,000 to general contractors, Cloverdale Construction Company, and worked out a method of payment for architects Williams and Fairbank. A request has been made to B.C. Hospital Insurance for their share of the money, and the Board authorized a request to the Hospital Improvement District for their share.

Board members approved a decision of the planning committee to install automatic telephone equipment in the new building. Cost of installation would be about $2000, and rent $147 monthly, more than for manual equipment. It was felt this additional expense would be compensated for by dispensing with two operators and having an intercommunication system in the building.

Mr. Procter said the provincial assessor had agreed to "carry" houses that were on the new hospital site on the list of properties exempt from assessments. The houses are not occupied.

Application to practice at KLGH of Dr. Max E. Geissinger, formerly of Alberta, who joined the Medical Associate Clinic shortly after Dr. J. McCabe left this month has been accepted subject to approval of the medical staff committee.

It was one of the shortest hospital board meetings in recent months, with only a quorum on hand.

Lumber Company Plans To Install Burner

City Council decided Monday night to grant Powell Lumber Company permission to install a burner to eliminate its sawdust pile rather than possibly lose the industry.

Fire Chief E. S. Owen said the Company had been instructed by the Canadian Pacific Railway Company to make "immediate removal" of the existing sawdust, with "definitely" no further discharge. The Company formerly sold sawdust to an American market, but this was found impractical recently, and Powell Lumber officials said they would have to cease business here if the burner could not be installed.

Chief Owens said the burner would have to meet underwriters' and government requirements, and warned Council they would be subject to criticism whether they granted or refused permission for the burner. He closed his letter, "Good Luck, E. S. Owens."

"I don't think we want to lose the industry," said Ald. George Eckmier. Mayor Joseph Kary said Company officials were prepared to follow advice of the best engineers. He said there would be "very little but some" nuisance. The present sawdust nuisance was, he said, "getting greater and greater."

Ald. W. S. Ramsay reiterated that it was a matter of putting up with some nuisance or losing the industry. Here, Mayor Kary mentioned loss of Interior Breweries' plant which is moving to Creston.

Mayor Kary thought the Kootenay Forest Products burner was "good" as far as fly ash was concerned, but has been "tremendously overloaded."

Touring U.S. Scouts Stop Here

A group of seven Boy Scouts and two leaders from Walla Walla, Washington, now on tour in a school bus, stopped briefly in Nelson Tuesday. They spent the night at Camp Busk.

It was the first visit of American scouts to Nelson since 1948, district cubmaster F. S. Aikens stated. Another group from the state of Washington is to visit Nelson August 31 and September 1 and 2, the Labor Day weekend, he said.

The Walla Walla scouts are members of Post Five belonging to the Blue Mountain Council. They have been on tour a week and have to be home by next Friday. They planned to continue to Metaline today.

The group included advisor (leader) Edward H. Unruh, assistant advisor Orris May and Scouts David O. Mayn, secretary-treasurer; Lee May, senior crew leader, Stephen C. Maxson and Larry Anderson, crew leaders; Dale Unruh, deputy senior crew leader; and Mike Sanders and Bill German, apprentices.

Walla Walla is in the southeastern part of the state.

BOOSTING NELSON

Rev. K. Imayoshi of First Baptist Church in Nelson who is spending his Summer holiday in California, recently wrote from Los Angeles to Nelson Chamber of Commerce:

"Since I did not have time to drop in before leaving Nelson and pick up publicity of the city, could you airmail some as soon as possible. I will be here until August 25.

"Enjoying my vacation very much, preaching three times yesterday, with two more Sundays to go. I am also showing colored slides of Nelson district at every opportunity."

THEATRE CLOSES

BOURNEMOUTH, Eng. (CP) — The last variety theatre in this seaside resort, the New Royal will close down this summer to help meet death duties of the late owner.

MENTAL HEALTH GROUP PLANS SPEAKERS

Hopes for a "real start" in public education next month were expressed following a meeting of the Nelson branch, Canadian Mental Health Association.

Vice-president Dr. S. M. LeBer gave a list of proposed speakers who will be available to service clubs and others wishing them.

The group now has sufficient members to form a Nelson branch, and expect formal authority to do so from the Vancouver branch about the end of August.

President Rev. E. D. Jones chaired the meeting.

Don Mollison Addresses Rotary . . .

B.C. Glorious Past, Future To Be in Focus in Centennial Year

When B. C. celebrates its 100th anniversary next year, it will be looking back on development of a magnitude that would never have been dreamed of.

At the time, the province has much to look forward to, D.H.T. Mollison of Victoria told Nelson Rotary Club's luncheon meeting Tuesday. Now administrative assistant with the department of industrial development, trade, and commerce of B. C., Mr. Mollison was formerly in Nelson as a trade and industry representative and is a former president of Nelson Rotary club. He is holidaying here.

Commenting on the historic aspects of the country's growth, he noted that on the weekend the Windermere will celebrate the 100th anniversary of the death of the first white man in the area, David Thompson, and the 150th anniversary of his establishment of the first trading post in this part of the west.

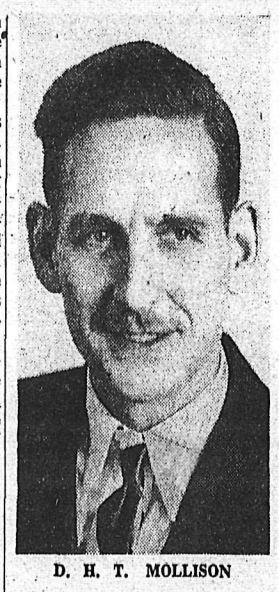
POTENTIALS REALIZED

The potentials of the country were realized soon afterwards. The first missionary, Father Pierre Jean De Smet, had written to Archbishop John Hughes of New York, in a letter datelined "head of the Columbia, September 9, 1845."

When emigration, accompanied by industry, the arts and sciences shall have penetrated into the numberless valleys of the Rocky mountains, the source of the Columbia will prove a very important point. The laborious hand that would till these valleys would be repaid a hundredfold."

Today, Mr. Mollison continued, one had only to look around and see tremendous developments.

"We have the largest non-ferrous smelter in the world, one of the largest coal deposits on the North American continent, and forest, manufacturing and integrated industries."



D. H. T. MOLLISON

It was generally recognized, he added, that metallurgical industries will have to get close to coal supplies.

Favored with the raw materials, power for their development, and year-round ice free ports, B.C. could look to an expanding export trade. The Orient in particular represented a great potential trading area.

However, the province also had the problem of having to increase its imports from countries which are short of dollars.

Last year's trade figures showed that $700,000,000 in products went to foreign countries, and imports amounted to $370,000,000.

J. H. Coventry introduced Mr. Mollison to club members.

FIRE FUND DONATION

Among business, the club voted $25 to the Clum family which was left homeless by fire over the weekend. A suggestion was made that Mr. Marcus Bach be invited to speak on his recent trip to Russia.

Revised Tree Fruit Estimates Announced

CRESTON — Revised tree fruit estimates for the Kootenay and Lower Arrow Lakes and for the Creston areas have been drawn up. They are as follows:

Kootenay and Lower Arrow Lakes

	1956 Crop	1957 Estimates
Apples (boxes	13,465	12,900
Crabapples (boxes	335	300
Pears (boxes)	3,495	1,500
Peaches (crates)	1,880	3,000
Prunes (crates)	1,610	1,500

CRESTON

	1956 Crop	1957 Estimates
Apples	247,193	292,500
Crabapples	613	600
Pears	13,273	13,500
Peaches	1,632	3,000
Prunes	16,282	18,000

The apple crop in Creston Valley appears to be the best for a number of years. The fruit is clean, of good size, and is beginning to take on color. Growers are now busy picking Rob Roys which are showing a tendency to drop. Wealthy cookers are also being picked. Bartlett pears are maturing very rapidly and it is expected that the bulk of the Bartlett crop will be off in Creston Valley by this weekend. Early varieties of peaches are being picked in the early sections.

The wet weather delayed the harvest of seed peas but during the past five days harvesting has again been in full swing.

TEMPORARY JOB

NEW DENVER — E. A. McHugh of Vancouver has taken over at the local liquor store for the three weeks vendor John MacLean is on holiday.

Geologist To Be Buried At Victoria

CRANBROOK — The body of Dr. Cecil George Hewlett of Victoria, who was killed in a fall from Monument Peak in the Purcell range last week, was brought to Cranbrook and will be sent to Victoria for funeral service and burial.

He was born 31 years ago at Kelowna where he grew up. He graduated in engineering from the University of B.C. in 1949 and subsequently earned his doctor of philosophy degree in geology. He was on the provincial department of mines staff, and for the past two months had been engaged in a field survey up Toby Creek 30 miles west of Invermere. His student assistant from Toronto, Arthur Jellinek, witnessed his fall down 2000 feet and after efforts to locate him, summoned aid of RCMP, game wardens and mining personnel in the area, who located the body Thursday and brought it out by stretcher.

He is survived by his wife and infant son at Victoria.

MAKING CERTAIN they have all the equipment necessary for a trip over Rose Pass this weekend are Fred Ingram, president of the Associated Boards of Trade and Chambers of Commerce of Southeastern B.C., and Warren Keer, guide, whose dog Duke will also be a member of the Kimberley party. Eight or 10 men will travel from East Kootenay side, meeting a party from West Kootenay en route. Rose Pass, between St. Mary's River country and Crawford Creek, which flows into Kootenay Lake, has long been considered a possible highway route.—Charles Wormington photo.

Bonnington To Pay Tribute To Old-Timers

BONNINGTON — The Bonnington-Corra Linn Centennial committee has received the sum of $32 as its share of the 40 cents per capita grant for a centennial celebration.

The grant, based on a population figure of 80, has been revised by the provincial committee, after investigation, to 120. Adjustment of the moneys to be received by Bonnington-Corra Linn will be made when the project grant is made, and a total of $120 will be received.

A celebration honoring the district old timers is planned, though no date has been set. The permanent centennial project will be the further development of a playground which the Bonnington people have been equipping with teeter totters, swings, etc. A backstop and fence will be added, and basketball hoops are also planned.

A hose sprinkling system for grass which was planted last fall, has been purchased with a request being made to the Nelson School District for a further length of hose to assist in the upkeep of the area which is also the school grounds. Word from the school board has been received that this request has been tabled until a decision has been made as to whether the Bonnington school will re-open this September, due to the small enrolment.

A meeting will be called soon to elect a new treasurer for the commission, to replace Trevor Crossley who is leaving for Campbell river.

ROCK 'N ROLL POPULAR AT CRANBROOK

CRANBROOK —Initial rock and roll session for teen-agers arranged by city recreational director Bert DeArmond at the Memorial Arena drew a satisfactory attendance and will be followed by a similar gathering August 31. The fans came from Cranbrook, Creston, and Kimberley and ranged in ages from 14 to 20.

Master of ceremonies was Joe Remus, Trail radio disc jockey, and music was by recordings amplified over the public address system. The temporary flooring for the arena was put in for the occasion. Winners of long-playing records when judged best dancers at the session were Hiroki Nakahara and Neda Zemp, both of Cranbrook. The coffee booth in the rink operated during the evening.

BUSINESS TRANSFER

WYNNDEL — Pawluk Brothers are transferring their lumber operations from Wynndel to Yahk and are removing their machinery.

Greenwood To Celebrate Its 60 Years as City On Labor Day

GREENWOOD—Greenwood is to celebrate its diamond anniversary on Labor Day.

Greenwood was incorporated as a city on July 12, 1897, and the Greenwood Board of Trade will be 58 years old this year. The celebration of both anniversaries will be held on Labor Day.

The famous MacIntosh Girls' Pipe Band of Vernon will lead the parade and it is expected that there will be a fine display of floats in the parade.

To start the festivities, on Sunday, September 1, the Pony League baseball club will hold a baseball game between Grand Forks and Greenwood and on Labor Day, Midway will play the winner. At noon the parade will be started in the traditional manner with the 'miners' salute', a dynamite blast. There will be races for the children and adults, special contests such as pie-eating, a millinery contest, where the men show their artistic tastes by decorating a hat on a woman's head; horseshoe pitching, many other novelty races and a special event, a pancake race, in which the contestant grabs a frying pan, runs to the other end, lights a fire, cooks the pancake and tosses it and then eats it. This was tried last year and caused much mirth. Another feature is airplane rides, which give the visitors a chance to see the valley from the air. The local theatre will have two shows with an intermission to view a fireworks display, and rounding out the day's activities will be a grand dance.

A few of the oldtimers remember Greenwood's 60 years, and its ups and downs, to the present activity in mining ventures.

A. H. Playle Dies At Wynndel

CRANBROOK — A dairy operator in Cranbrook for 25 years, Archie Henry Playle died Sunday at Creston. He was 79 years old.

He was born in London, England, and came to Canada as a boy, settling at Pincher Creek. In 1911 he came to this district to engage in dairy work and four years later established the Big Butte Dairy three miles from Cranbrook in Patton's Lake area. He developed and operated this business until 1940 when he sold it, and moved to Wynndel where he had operated a small farm since then. He was a member of Cranbrook Lodge, AF and AM, and of Key City Lodge, IOOF.

Surviving him are his wife, Ella, at their Wynndel home, two daughters, Mrs. Gunnar Billmark (Hope) and Mrs. Carl Engelhardt (Irene) at Cranbrook, and one son, Norman at the Coast and several grandchildren. The funeral took place Tuesday at McPherson Funeral Chapel in Cranbrook and burial was in Westlawn Cemetery.

Wynndel Scouts At Midge Creek

WYNNDEL — The annual summer camp of the Wyndel Boy Scouts was held at Midge creek, with a large attendance. Fishing was good and swimming was also enjoyed.

Overnight trips up the creek were made for passing tests and many other tests were passed in the various grades of scouting.

Scoutmaster F. Merriam was in charge assisted by Robert and John Merriam.

REG STONE FIRST TO BEAT PAR ON SLOCAN COURSE

NEW DENVER — For the first time in the 25-year history of the Slocan Lake golf club's course here, par has been surpassed.

Trail's Reg Stone performed the feat during the Slocan Lake open tournament, winning the Wood Vallance cup.

In beating par on the tough little course, Stone, three under on the first nine, coasted in with a 66 and two under par for the 18.

Only once had par been equalled on the course in competitive play. That was by Stan Angus of Trail in 1955.

ALL IN FAMILY

Roy Stone, who has been hammering at par with his brother consistently for the past 15 years, was runnerup. Young Ron Stone took third spot in low gross.

Alex Allan of Nelson was on hand to present the championship cup to Reg Stone, and complimented club members on their work in getting the course in good playing condition.

Collingwood Heads Parks Committee

WARFIELD (CP) — The village commission Monday night dissolved the parks commission as a result of new provincial legislation on municipalities.

Commission chairman Harry Simpkinson appointed F. W. Collingwood as head of the new parks committee. Other members are G. B. Cady, E. C. Romano and A. R. Though.

Electrical Storm Hits Wynndel Area

WYNNDEL — A severe electrical storm roused the residents at Wynndel around 7 a.m. Monday morning. Several transformers are reported to have been hit and one fire was reported, but heavy rain which followed has extinguished it. The storm lasted about 20 minutes.

Fruitvale To Study Cost of Sewer System

FRUITVALE — At Monday night's meeting, the Board of Commissioners of the village decided to contact an Edmonton firm of consulting engineers to make a preliminary survey of the village to determine the cost of installing a sewer system. The clerk was instructed to contact the firm immediately so that commissioners can have an idea of what the sewer costs will be to present to the ratepayers.

Starting Sept. 1 the village employees will take over the maintenance of street lights.

Three building permits were approved, all for alterations, totalling $2600.

The new grader, when it arrives this week, will be put to use grading the village roads, commissioners were told.

1200 Scientists To Take Part In Talks On Earth

By JOHN TRACY
Canadian Press Staff Writer

TORONTO (CP) — Some 1,200 scientists, many of international fame, are coming to Toronto next month to talk about the earth and what's happening to it.

The International Union of Geodesy and Geophysics is holding its 11th general assembly on the University of Toronto campus Sept. 3-14, bringing together scientists from 50 countries.

They will discuss such things as the age of the earth, now estimated at 4,500,000,000 years; whether the earth's climate is getting warmer; jet streams in the upper atmosphere; magnetic storms and radio communications.

Scientists attach special importance to the assembly because it comes just after the start of the International Geophysical Year.

IGY men now are investigating the earth from pole to pole, from ocean floor to outer space, but little of what they have newly learned is expected to be available at the IUGG assembly. Scientists are still correlating information obtained in the last similar international study, the International Polar Year, held in 1932.

The only two public addresses on the program, however, are to be delivered by men closely associated with IGY studies. E. I. Tolstikov, deputy head of the Russian Northern Sea Routes Administration, is to talk on the IGY Arctic and Antarctic programs. Tolstikov is one of the brains of the Soviet plan to carry Russian commerce through the frozen seas between the North Pole and the Russian mainland.

Prof. L. V. Berkner of New York is to talk on the IGY rocket and satellite program. Berkner, a rear-admiral in the United States naval reserve and an expert on the upper atmosphere, is expected to throw some light on plans to launch man-made satellites which will encircle the earth in outer space. Both Russia and the United States have announced such projects.

The assembly brings together two groups of scientists—the geodists who measure the earth and make many of the calculations on which accurate maps are based, and the geophysists who work in such fields as seismology, meteorology and oceanography.

Most of the delegates are from Europe. Britain is sending more than 90 scientists and Russia probably will send at least 50. More than 300 Americans and 150 Canadians will attend.

The assembly, being held outside Europe for the second time since formation of the IUGG in 1919, is being held in Canada at the invitation of the National Research Council. Prime Minister Diefenbaker is to open the assembly.

Former District Woman Victim of U.S. Hold-up

A former district woman now living in Berkeley, Calif., was recently threatened with death and left bound and gagged by two bandits.

She is Mrs. Bert George, the former Ernestine Coleman, whose parents, Mr. and Mrs. E. T. Coleman, live at 904 Front Street.

Mrs. George, whose husband owns Bert's Hobby and Sporting Goods Shop in Berkeley, had taken charge of the store while her husband and sons watched a baseball game on television in their apartment upstairs.

In a letter to her parents, in which she enclosed a newspaper article on the holdup, she related how two men in their thirties entered, inquired about purchasing an archery bow, and then turned on her.

One pointed an automatic at her and said: "If you move I'll shoot you dead."

They bound her hands behind her with adhesive tape, tied her ankles with an archery bow string and bound her mouth with adhesive.

Then they took $40, two .38 calibre revolvers and another gun from the store gun case, plus a box of shells and departed. All the time they were there, no one entered the store which, in view of the circumstances, Mrs. George later considered to have been fortunate.

ATTRACTED ATTENTION

Mrs. George managed to reach an outside stairway leading to the apartment and attracted her family's attention by pounding on the stairway.

At latest reports the bandits had not been found. A picture accompanying the newspaper story showed Mrs. George looking at photographs in the police files to try to identify the two men.

The eldest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Coleman, she attended school at Deer Park during the family's residence there and later graduated from Royal Inland Hospital school of nursing at Kamloops. She attended the nursing school's reunion in May of this year, but did not visit Nelson at that time. She was last here in 1956.

A sister and a brother also live in Nelson. They are Mrs. Eric Guy, 824 Front Street, and Donald G. Coleman, 1023 Cherry Street. There is also a brother H. C. Coleman in Deer Park and another brother Philip Coleman in Victoria.

A Good Starting Point

The United Auto Workers Union has proposed to the big three of the auto industry, General Motors, Ford and the Chrysler Corporation, that they cut prices on 1958 models by an average of $100 a car and in return the UAW will modify its new contract demands next year in a joint move to combat inflation.

This is the first time that any other body except governments have suggested means of combatting inflation and whatever criticism may be levelled against the proposals, they are an encouraging sign that Labor is concerned with the problem that seems to have left economic experts and governments baffled.

The UAW has always been highly regarded in the field of labor - employer relationship, not only because of their numbers but because they represent a body of skilled and intelligent men. The union is, in many ways, a leader in the field of industrial relations.

It is because of this high status that the proposal of the union should have far-reaching effect on the thinking of other unions and may lead to some action on their part. This is as it should be. Inflation, despite the best efforts of economists and governments, does not seem as if it can be halted from the top and it may perhaps be curbed by action from the bottom.

The suggested drop in the price of cars would reduce the individual's expenditure on cars but hardly sufficient to make much difference to most people. It would also reduce corporation profits, but if the union's demands for a new contract should include a shorter working week and the same take home pay, it is difficult to see how they will be able to operate successfully.

Fundamentally, inflation is the result of a continuing rise in wages. Leaving out of consideration all the factors which go to cause this rise, it seems probable that inflation could be halted if wages were stabilized. The UAW makes no mention of this. Instead it relates wages to profits—which is not without its merits—but that only leaves the employers and not the employees combatting inflation.

Nothing would please the average worker more than to have wages stabilized, providing that prices were also stabilized. Today his chief anxiety is not the price of cars, but the increasing cost of foodstuffs. If both prices and wages could be stabilized there would be no inflation. The auto workers' proposals do not take this into account, but at least they provide a good starting point for thought on the matter.

Urge Curbs on Gov't Welfare Spending

A warning that government spending on welfare cannot continue at its present rate without interfering with the national economic balance was sounded in a report which followed an economic study of government welfare spending carried out by Dr. William Lougheed, Toronto economist, commissioned jointly by the Canadian Chamber of Commerce and the Canadian Life Insurance Officers Association.

In what it terms a "collision course", the report points out that if welfare spending and the nation's gross national product could continue mounting at their present rates, the former would amount to five times the current figure and would be 49 per cent of total government outlays by 1980.

It is made clear that this is an observation based on present trends and the projections of GNP by the Royal Commission on Canada's Economic Prospects, and is not a forecast.

"The expenditure data are not predictions of things to come; they serve to illustrate incompatibilities between the (assumed) growth of national output and government policy . . . ", the report states. "The two sets of projections are, therefore, basically incompatible. One of them, or perhaps both, must be wrong."

"The disturbing feature of this situation is that both sets of projections seem to be not unreasonable in themselves. Only when they are set side by side does the dilemma emerge: if any such trend in government outlays prevails it would so seriously affect economic development that the growth of national output would fall far short of $76 billions in 1980. This in turn would force a lower limit on government outlays and prevent the implementation of otherwise desirable public programs."

"The main conflict posed by these two objectives is that an excessive concern with welfare expenditures may stunt the wealth-creating capacity of the community." The report goes on to affirm that "wealth" must come before "welfare"—the ability to provide for welfare must come before serious substantial extensions to the felfare program. "To achieve welfare, one must first have wealth and any attempt to reverse unduly this historic sequence is to invite trouble."

"The crucial point about financing health care is not who is going to pay for it or whether the underwriting is best handled by private or public bodies, or a combination of both. While this question does have some bearing on the control of health care costs, a more basic and elusive question is how much health care the nation, as distinct from the individual, can afford in relation to other good uses to which our productive resources can be put."

While the report deals with the general welfare scene, special attention is devoted to hospital insurance. In referring to the cost of hospital insurance specifically, the report notes: "The question is how much the national plan will be likely to cost over a period of years when an expanded, public version of traditional private coverage is made universally available."

Having examined the cost pattern of various provincial plans in existence, the report says:

"On the basis of estimates so far available, the hospital plan, if it commences in 1960, will start out with an outlay for that year of $500 million, representing for the most part a switch of private outlays to public payments."

The report concludes with a section dealing with "areas for further study"" in which it is pointed out that a "catastrophic" type of health insurance might be the answer. Under this plan, all citizens would be liable for the first costs in any illness in the same manner as "deductible" collision insurance on automobiles.

Other areas the report suggests for further study include:

—More current data for establishment of trends in morbidity, health care and effect of health care on family budgets.

—Additional co-ordinated research by economists, sociologists, physicians and political scientists on "what has been described as the accelerating nature of medical science".

—Greater concern with the position of welfare spending in the federal budgets as opposedto provincial budgets.

"Difficult Visualize Distinction Claimed"

To The Editor:

Sir: After reading the account in a recent issue of your paper under the heading of "Michel Legion Brings Distinction to Zone", please permit us a little space in this column to bring to light certain factors of the article in question.

While we of the West Kootenay Zone do not claim any such distinction, yet for ten years or more we have been comprised of 12 Legions and 12 Auxiliaries, and not 10 as stated.

There are many zones and District Councils throughout British Columbia which have been formed for many years longer than the West Kootenay Zone. So it would be difficult to visualize such a distinction as the East Kootenay Zone how claims. We wish every success to the East Kootenay and its newly formed Auxiliary, still such a statement could hardly pass without comment and correction.

MRS. A. O. ALLEN,
President, L.A. Br. 51, Nelson
Past President

Says Date Incorrect

To The Editor:

Sir: I noticed in a filler on page 8 of your August 8th issue, that the Cistercians were founded in France in 1125. This date is not correct. A Benedictine monk, Robert, of the monastery of Montier founded the order in 1098. In fact ten years before your 1125, your affiliated houses were started. This small number was due to the order's slow growth at first, it being of extraordinary austerity. But by 1130 the number jumped to 30.

These fillers are always interesting, and should be accurate.

Gloves for The Ladies

British Columbia, fat and prosperous, is saved from a nouveau riche brashness by the old-world ways of its senior citizens. We have account, from a traveller of a Vancouver Island gentleman who, whenever dinner guests arrived, presented each lady with a pair of long white gloves, finely made. He liked to see ladies sit down with gloves and he always had a pair to fit every hand.

A little time ago he died and they found drawers full of white gloves, of all sizes, for he was a hospitable man and looked forward to many guests.

We neither know nor care what happened to these gloves but they seem to us as so many roses of remembrance of a kindly man, a little fastidious, who liked his dinner table just so but took care not to inconvenience or embarrass his guests.

Canada's Wheat Exports Skid As Sales To IWA Take Tumble

By HAROLD MORRISON
Canadian Press Staff Writer

OTTAWA (CP) — Canada's wheat exports dropped in the last crop year as sales declined both to International Wheat Agreement customers and those behind the Iron Curtain.

Federal grain men estimate over - all shipments skidded to some 260,000,000 bushels in the year ended July 31, compared with exports of 309,000,000 in the year previous. Exports averaged about 282,000,000 bushels in the last eight years with the high of 385,500,000 reached in 1952-53.

The drop occurred despite a gradual 12-cents-a - bushel Canadian price decline. Some of this drop was due to dollar exchange fluctuations and some because of federal policy. Current lakehead price for No. 1 northern is about $1.61 a bushel, compared with $1.73 a year ago. In 1953 Canadian wheat was quoted at $2.03 at the crop year opening.

For many years the International Wheat Agreement had been considered by Canadian authorities as a stabilizing force to reduce world wheat market turbulence and bring some security for Canadian farmers.

TRADE CUT SHARPLY

But trade under the existing 47-country IWA has been sharply reduced. Britain, the world's chief buyer, has refused to enter the pact. Under the current three-year agreement signed last yar, Canada accepted a lower export quota—reduced by one-third to 99,700,000 bushels—in line with a smaller over-all IWA market.

However, Canada seemed to have difficulty finding customers for even this small quota. Her sales to IWA customers totalled just 58,000,000 bushels. The United States, the other major exporter, fared better. Customers took up 123,500,000 of her 128,000,000-bushel quota. Other exporters are Australia, Argentina, France and Sweden.

Of the whole 293,600,000-bushel IWA market shared by the six exporters, about 214,700,000 bushels were sold. The ceiling price is $2 a bushel and the floor $1.50. Under the pact, customers do not have to take up their import quotas unless the price falls to the floor. Exporters cannot be forced to make deliveries unless the price goes to the ceiling.

For the new crop year which opened Aug. 1, quotas have remained unchanged. Canada entered the new crop year with unprecedented stocks of some 723,000,000 bushels, up 143,000,000, from last year. Canada accepts only dollars for her wheat. The U.S. exchanges some of her wheat for other goods, provides long-term credit and accepts local currencies.

Along with a decline in IWA sales, Canada also experienced a drop in shipments to Iron Curtain countries. In the 1955-56 crop year, Canada sold about 40,000,000 bushels to Communist countries. Shipments dropped to some 10,000,000 last year. She may do slightly better in the months ahead.

Russia has agreed to buy a minimum of 14,800,000 bushels for three years under a Canadian-Soviet trade pact. The second year of the pact ends next February and Canadian authorities are confident she will abide by the agreement and take up purchases in the next few months. Poland is expected to buy about 5,500,000 bushels.

While buying policies of IWA members and those behind the Iron Curtain will have a decided impact on Canadian sales, Britain will undoubtedly continue to exercise a major influence on the market.

She is the world's biggest buyer and the top buyer of Canadian wheat. In some post-war years Canada has sold her as much as 150,000,000 bushels in a year. However, in the first 11 months of the last crop year, Canadian exports to that country dipped to 72,000,000 bushels, down from 90,000,000 in the year previous.

Trans-Canada as Good As U.S. Roads—Green

OTTAWA (CP) — Just back from a trip across a 1,500-mile section of the Trans - Canada Highway, Works Minister Green said Tuesday the national road compares favorably with American highways and he's hopeful it will be completed coast to coast by the 1960 deadline.

He said the 4,500 - mile Newfoundland - to - Vancouver Island road begun in 1950 is an example of "excellent" federal - provincial co-operation. He planned no changes in the policy by which road-building costs are split 50-50 with the provinces doing the work. The federal government also paying 90 per cent for construction of vital link-up gaps.

"Everyone laughed when I said I was going to drive over the Trans - Canada Highway," Mr. Green said in an interview. "I even found one of our own engineers who had been advised to drive through the states when going west on an inspection trip.

PRAISES ACCOMMODATION

"That's ridiculous. What has been completed is as good as American highways. There is ample roadway in the 24 - foot standard width—at one point I was driven at high speed over the road to show how good it was. And there is first class accommodation along the way—some of the finest motels on North America."

Returning from a trip to the coast with his wife, the 61-year-old minister said he visited his old hometown of Kaslo, B.C., and then drove north to Banff National Park, picking up the Trans-Canada Highway at Eisenhower junction near Banff.

From there the minister sped close to 1,500 miles to Kenora, Ont., in 3½ days. But because there is a 164-mile gap in the route between Agawa and Marathon, Ont., the minister went south to Duluth, Minn., along the south shore of Lake Superior and then to Sault Ste. Marie. He got back to Ottawa Friday.

PUSHING WORK

All provinces were doing a good job, Mr. Green said. At Regina Wednesday Saskatchewan celebrates completion of its 406 miles of highway route, Manitoba would have most of its mileage completed by the year end.

Questioned about the possibility of federal assistance to the provinces on any projects to build north - south roads, the minister said "we're going to concentrate on getting the Trans - Canada Highway finished."

Close to 2,800 miles of the 4,470-mile national road now are paved, though only 1,500 - odd miles are new construction laid down to the 24-foot width standards provided for in the Trans-Canada Highway agreement. The road on completion will have cost an estimated $500,000,000.

Your Individual HOROSCOPE

By Frances Drake

Look in the section in which your birthday comes, and find what your outlook is, according to the stars.

For Thursday, August 22, 1957

MARCH 21 to APRIL 20 (Aries) —It is never too late to do the things which must be done—even if they should have been done before. This is a day for strength, determination, courtesy and thoughtfulness. Try to fulfill your obligations NOW.

APRIL 21 to MAY 21 (Taurus) —Wait long enough before you speak to be sure that you say the right thing, but don't hesitate to say what ought to be said. Use extra courtesy and diplomacy to win real co-operation.

MAY 22 to JUNE 21 (Gemini) —There are some periods when one just cannot seem to get ahead. If today is one for you, press for more optimism, have greater confidence in what you must do, and KEEP AT IT, capable friend.

JUNE 22 to JULY 23 (Cancer) —This is a time for giving your best to all essential matters; also a time for faith—not faith alone but faith backed by consistent, systematic will power; also for less talk and more action.

JULY 24 to AUGUST 23 (Leo) —Don't "clutter up" day's schedule with pointless endeavor. Lost time is never regained. Mostly this is an auspicious period. Stick to high principles, ideals.

AUGUST 24 to SEPTEMBER 23 (Virgo) — Give everyone reasonable benefit of the doubt, forget trifles, work as best you can, and you should have a satisfactory day. Heed good suggestions; study new trends.

SEPTEMBER 24 to OCTOBER 23 (Libra) — Put everything in order—and with ease. This does not mean that you should exert yourself, but rather that you do not waste your efforts "beating about the bush." Allocate tasks sensibly.

OCTOBER 24 to NOVEMBER 22 (Scorpio)—There may be competitive pressure now and, although there are stimulating, helpful influences, you may have to hustle a little harder, be more systematic to get best results. You can do it.

NOVEMBER 23 to DECEMBER 21 (Sagittarius) — Keep your desire to accomplish steadily active and the law of averages will be on your side. Day has many fresh opportunities for gain, benefits; seek and use them.

DECEMBER 22 to JANUARY 20 (Capricorn) — Show a clear, decisive spark in all your efforts now. Don't be too aggressive or falter when the tide begins to turn in your favor.

JANUARY 21 to FEBRUARY 19 (Aquarius) — You have the choice to think and act as you wish; be sure you don't compromise where high principles are concerned and you will not only be respected but will succeed even in the most difficult situations. Fine aspects now!

FEBRUARY 20 to MARCH 20 (Pisces) — Favorable influences for you and your interests. The day promises openings through which you can achieve new and worthwhile friends and occupational benefits. Be alert; work for good results.

YOU BORN TODAY are a Leo-Virgo combination, born toward the change of Signs, and having characteristics from both. You are artistic, active; have many talents. You know what you want and like, and at times won't permit others to voice their opinions as you should. Watch for this tendency, and go out of your way to tolerate and listen to all, but hold firmly to your innate high principles. Don't be hurt at "slights"; avoid overindulgence; mingle with happy, conscientious people.

Coast Hospital Plans At Impasse

NORTH VANCOUVER (CP) — Leaders of the three North Shore municipalities will meet with provincial Health Minister Eric Martin Thursday in a bid to break an impasse on the projected new hospital.

The meeting will be attended by Mayor Charles Cates, City of North Vancouver, Reeve Sam McCrea of North Vancouver district; and Reeve Russel Richards, West Vancouver.

Mayor Cates reported to Council Monday night that the conference with the minister was arranged "to see if we can unravel some of the stumbling blocks contained in Mr. Martin's approval of the hospital plans."

These include a construction ceiling of $4,413,000 on which provincial grants will be paid and a requirement that each Council must give the government approval of the plans in writing.

"We haven't even seen them," said Mayor Cates. "They haven't been passed by Ottawa or Victoria. This whole thing seems to be a complete impasse."

Vancouver Flood Problem "Serious"

WEST VANCOUVER (CP) — Municipal Council Monday ordered an immediate flood control report from its consulting engineer following a warning that "some members of this Council may not realize how serious the problem really is."

Several councillors criticized a delay in submission of the report from Engineer F. C. Stewart.

"This is an extremely serious problem," Councillor William Mercer said. "Some members of this Council don't realize how serious it is. There are just six weeks before the floods could start again. We can't just sit back and hope."

Luxury, But No Safety Belts In Russ Jetliner

By STERLING SLAPPEY

MOSCOW (AP)—The most luxurious thing in the Soviet Union is the Russian jetliner TU-104.

Three stewardesses serve vodka, caviar on toast and fresh oranges. They fuss over you just like stewardesses do between Paris and London—but there is a difference. You get fussed over so little in the Soviet Union that when it does happen you glow.

Seats are soft and comfortable. The interior color pattern is red and pink and there are two capitalistic - looking front lounges where the fortunates relax in flight and appear for all the world like corporation vice-presidents on the way to a sales conference.

The blast from two big jet power plants is bothersome toward the back of the plane but up front it is a kittenish purr and after two or three of those vodkas you can't hear the noise at all.

Stories spread around 18 months ago when the TU-104 first flew in the Western world that the plane was not pressurized properly, that when she climbed to 30,000 feet you were practically flat on your back gasping for air. That is not true. But just in case the pressurization does go bad there are emergency bottles of oxygen on each seat.

NO SAFETY BELTS

Each of the 70 seats, however, is without a safety belt. Russians don't believe in them.

The TU-104 is so fast you haven't got long to enjoy the comforts. The medium jet flies from Moscow to Prague every day in 2½ hours. Other TU-104 routes go out of Moscow daily to Tashkent in the Uzbek republic, to southern Russia and all the way across Siberia to Peiping.

The TU-104 is the only jetliner in the world on regular flights. But it drinks jet fuel at such a prodigious rate no commercial airline could afford to operate it.

The plane is a full brother to the Badger bomber also designed by Andrei Nikolaevich Tupolev. The "TU" part of the 104's name comes from the first two letters of Tupolev's name.

CAN'T INTERFERE

NEW DELHI (AP) — The experimental women's police force in Uttar Pradesh has been disbanded because of quarreling among its members. The state's home minister K. Tripathi told the legislature: "The police can stop men from cutting each other's throats but even the gods can do nothing except watch helplessly when Eve is in fury."

Hoffa Returned Over $7500 To Grocers, Hearing Told

WASHINGTON (AP) — James R. Hoffa, midwest teamsters' union boss, acknowledged Tuesday he once returned more than $7,500 to some grocers after he had been charged with extortion.

But Hoffa protested to the Senate rackets investigating committee that the charge had been reduced to a misdemeanor, and contended the matter was being put in an unfair light in its presentation at the committee's hearings.

Hoffa, 44, was brought to the stand as the culmination of three weeks of hearings into charges that he placed racketeers in key New York teamsters unions posts to capture union political control of the area for Hoffa.

But committee counsel Robert F. Kennedy, opening the questioning, swung first into Hoffa's background and police record.

17 ARRESTS

Kennedy asked how many times Hoffa had been arrested.

"I don't know, Bob," Hoffa said. "I think it was about 17 times I was picked up. In many instances the charges were dismissed but in three of these cases there were convictions."

Kennedy said in one case the grand jury charged Hoffa with extortion in the collection of money from some grocers.

Flaring up, Hoffa said this charge was later reduced to a misdemeanor.

"I'm not saying you were guilty of extortion," Kennedy told him.

"You're implying it, sir," Hoffa retorted. "You're implying that I am guilty of extortion and it isn't true."

MORE THAN $7,500

Kennedy said that anyway, as a result of the case, Hoffa returned some $7,500.

"I think really it was something more than that," Hoffa said.

Hoffa, now the odds on favorite to succeed Dave Beck as president of the biggest union in the United States, told the senators when he took the witness chair that he was reserving the right to refuse to answer any questions he regarded as outside the scope of their investigation.

Skin Test Quickly Points To Allergy

By DR. H. N. BUNDESEN

If you have an allergy, let me urge you to get a skin test.

Except for certain cases of drug and food allergy, a skin test probably is the best, as well as the quickest, way of determining the allergens to which you are sensitive.

In fact, this is the most widely-used method of determining allergic sensitizations since the skin is involved in most such reactions.

There are four general methods of making skin tests. Just which should be used in your specific case, or, indeed, whether you should have any type of skin test, must, of course, be determined by your doctor.

The patch test takes the longest time and can be used only with agents which penetrate the skin surface and with those possessing delayed action. Usually, it's used to determine allergies in cases of contact dermatitis.

With this test, an allergen is placed upon the unbroken skin and permitted to remain there for a minimum of 24 hours. When an allergen to which you are allergic is used, there will be a reaction on your skin.

In the scratch test, the antigen is placed over a scratch which breaks the outer layer of skin cells.

The puncture test is somewhat similar. Procedure in this test is to place a drop of antigen on the skin surface and then prick the skin with a needle.

FOURTH METHOD

A fourth method is the intracutaneous test in which a hypodermic needle is used to inject a small amount of the antigen solution under the outer layers of the skin.

The three latter methods are used to produce immediate allergic reactions on the skin.

By studying the severity of the various reactions, your doctor can determine the best method of treating your allergy.

These tests are quick, practically painless and generally pretty reliable. If you need such a check, get it right away. There's no use suffering if you don't have to.

Lifetime Behind, Remarque Takes Chance On Screen Play

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — "I no longer have a lifetime to look forward to and take care of. At the most, it is 20 or 25 years. So now I can afford to take chances."

This, Erich Maria Remarque reasons, is why he agreed to write the screen play for his book, A Time to Love and a Time to Die—and act in it, too. At latest report, the film is being called There's a Time to Love—don't ask why.

I came across the famed novelist, handsome at 59, as he had finished the last pages of the screen play and was cleaning out his desk. Among the things he found was a pair of falsies left by a previous occupant of the sumptuous office. Remarque pondered on their significance and then attended to a scotch and soda from a nearby bar.

OBVIOUS CHARM

It is easy to see how his charm has fascinated such famous women as Marlene Dietrich, Greta Garbo and Paulette Goddard.

About his screen writing—"this is another departure for me. The first was last year when I went to Berlin to open my first play, The Last Station.

"Before we opened, the cast came to me and asked me what they should do if the audience started throwing stones. We just didn't know what they would do. Here was a story of the last days of Berlin before the fall of Hitler. There were scenes of the rape of women and we knew thre would be women in the audience who had been through such things. How would they react?

"The play had 35 curtain calls. It was a great hit and encouraged me to attempt this screen play. After all, it wasn't too far different, since I have always written my novels in scenes and dialogue."

Why hasn't he adapted his novels before? Six of the eight have been bought for the screen.

"Because I reach the point in writing of a novel when I could become violently ill if I had to look at it again," he sighed. "Although I have lived in this country over 20 years, I still write in German and have someone else translate. I couldn't stand to look at the novel myself."

It's the first time in 30 years that he has worked in an office. The last was when he edited a sports car magazine in Germany. He took time out from his work to write a novel, "All Quiet on the Western Front. Writing time: Five weeks.

Some of the best publishing minds turned it down before it was finally printed and became a runaway best-seller. He has had the supreme satisfaction of an author in seeing that happen with two more of his books.

Remarque writes the hard way —pencil on paper. "I never learned to type," he explained. "When I was an editor in Germany, inflation had wiped out everyone's earnings and labor was cheap. I swore I would never have a job in which I had to do my own typing."

Scholar Sheds Different Light On Anna and the King of Siam

By BRUCE RUSSELL

BANGKOK, Thailand (Reuters) — A book, Anna and the King of Siam, a film of the book, a stage musical comedy and a film of the stage play have made Mrs. Anna Leonowens, an English teacher at the Siamese court during the last century, something of a heroine to the outside world.

But in Thailand she is not nearly so popular.

Thais consider the two books written by Anna after her return to England, the works on which her recent renown are based, to be a distortion of fact and an insult to one of the greatest kings in their history.

STARTS REHABILITATION

An American scholar in Thailand, A. B. Griswold, set out to get the true story of Anna's stay at the court of Siam and to restore the reputation overseas of King Mongkut—the king of Anna and the King of Siam—whom he regards as one of the greatest figures in Asian history.

Griswold's findings appear in the Journal of the Siam Society, a periodical published by one of the most noted cultural and scientific bodies here.

"No one these days thinks of Gilbert and Sullivan's Mikado as being a true representation of Japan, but the trouble is that many people think Anna and the King represents Thailand," he says.

By a close study of Anna's two books, The English Governess at the Court of Siam and The Romance of the Harem, Griswold seeks to prove that she fabricated many of the things she said about the Siamese royal family.

HITS THE EYE

"Some of her fabrications are easy to spot," he says, "as when she tells us that King Mongkut locked up disobedient wives in a subterranean dungeon in the palace.

"Anyone who has lived in Bangkok knows that is is impossible to build any sort of an underground room in the watery soil here. It is just like a sponge."

Griswold believes that Anna's accounts of an unfaithful wife of King Mongkut and her monk lover being burned at the stake highlights of the recent film and musical comedy, were imagined by her after her return to England.

"No other Siamese or European writer mentions this very unusual event, even though it was supposed to have been seen by half of Bangkok," he declares.

SERIOUS CHARGE

Anna's description of how King Mongkut had some innocent passersby butchered and their corpses buried under gate posts so that their spirits would drive off intruders is, in Griswold's opinion, the most serious fabrication of all.

He believes that it was taken almost word for word from a description, by a French missionary, of a similar event in an earlier and much more uncivilized period of Thai history.

Anna's description of the royal harem is "really too absurd to stand unchallenged," Griswold continues. "She describes it with all the time-worn stage properties that Victorian writers kept on hand in case they wanted to depict the organized lechery of Oriental despots — the Eunuchs, the hideous sufferings of the women, the brutality of the sensual monarch."

GREAT PATRIOT

Having disposed of Anna, Griswold turns to an assessment of King Mongkut, who, he says, now is known in the West as a "petulant barbarian or a melodious clown." But, he continues, he was a monarch who guided his country toward being a modern nation and saved it from falling into the hands of the colonial powers, a keen-minded scholar and linguist, a zealous Buddhist and a reformer of Buddhism in Thailand.

"He probably knew a great deal more about the Western world than Anna did even though he had never left Siam," Griswold declares. "His correspondence shows that he was a devoted and even tender husband to more than one of his wives, and an affectionate father to his many children."

Prince George Mayor To Push Gas Demands

PRINCE GEORGE (CP) — Mayor John R. Morrison plans to make a personal effort to bring natural gas and restore prosperity to this area.

Mayor Morrison will fly to Ottawa later this month to place details of the natural gas distribution situation here before Trade Minister Churchill.

Simultaneously his worship said he will launch a personal investigation into the waning lumber industry in the Prince George area.

"As mayor of a city whose economy is directly linked with the prosperity of the interior lumber producers I feel it is my duty to examine the problems which face the industry today," he told reporters.

The mayor indicated he may press the provincial government for a reduction in forest stumpage rates. "I have seen indications that the provincial government's formula for computing stumpage may be burdening the local industry with an unnecessary hardship."

At Ottawa he will seek an order requiring the Westcoast Transmission Co. to supply gas to Prince George Gas Co. or alternatively the City of Prince George at wholesale rates comparable to those enjoyed by B.C. Electric and Inland Natural Gas.

"I am confident the federal government will take a very serious view of a situation which allows residents of a foreign country to buy gas at a cheaper rate than Canadian consumers being served by the same transmission line," the mayor said.

Prince George Gas Co. officials have charged that Westcoast will be wholesaling gas cheaper in Washington State cities than in B.C. communities."

VANCOUVER (CP) — A former night club skating star said her $500 mink stole was stolen in a daylight raid here Monday.

Mrs. Margaret Ryan of San Francisco, a former Vancouver resident who left here in 1949 to star in a Kansas City ice show, said the stole was taken from a closet while she was visiting her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Barts of Vancouver.

Young Executives To Get Grooming at Banff School

By FORBES RHUDE
Canadian Press Business Editor

The fall and winter courses of the Banff school of advanced management, jointly sponsored British Columbia, Manitoba and Saskatchewan, will be held at Banff, Alta., Nov. 4 to Dec. 14 and Feb. 3 to March 15.

The course, in the words of a brochure from the school, "is designed for young or mature executives mainly at the middle management level and up. They should all be individuals who are being groomed for executive positions of more responsibility. The age range should be between 28 and 50."

The program of studies will include: The Canadian Economic Scene; Government and Business; Communication; Objectives of Industry; Administrative Action; Marketing Management; Production Management; Financing Enterprise; Financing and Accounting Controls; and Industrial and Public Relations.

The school's first sessions were held in 1952.

The Canadian Gas Association will hold a "workshop conference" in Edmonton Oct. 24-25. Topics for discussion will be sales, promotion and public relations.

The annual national foreign trade council, sponsored by the National Foreign Trade Council Inc. of the United States, will be held in New York Nov. 18-20.

Theme of the conference will be "international trade and investment open boundless economic frontiers." An advance notice of the meeting comments:

"The world now is well embarked upon an era of rapid technological progress. The lives of hundreds of millions of people at home and abroad are being materially revolutionized and improved, and, thanks to brilliant technological advances, a richer life now is attainable.

"World economic activity is greatly stimulated and nourished by international trade and investment. The future poses a direct challenge to United States foreign trade and investment to play an ever more important role in overcoming whatever stands in the way of expanding world productivity and commerce."

About 2,500 delegates are expected to attend.

The Japanese exhibit at this year's Canadian National Exhibition at Toronto will tend towards durable goods, with less emphasis on textiles.

A major part of the exhibit will be put on by the Tokyo Metropolitan Trade Mission, which has already put on displays in Edmonton and Winnipeg.

The Japan Trade Centre, Toronto, co-sponsors of the exhibit, will add items from other parts of Japan.

The Tokyo display will include high-speed cameras, motor scooters, bicycles, chinaware, pearls, toys, sporting goods, office supplies, portable radios and hundreds of other items.

The seven - man mission is headed by Jajami Takagi, executive director of the Japan Chamber of Commerce and Industry.

Black Light Building Seeks Asiatic Flu Bug

By RENNIE TAYLOR

LIVERMORE, Calif. (AP)—A hospital building internally bathed in "black light" is the setting for an experiment designed to show whether Asiatic flu can be transmitted from one person to another through the air.

The 140 long-term patients—as long as they are patients—will not be allowed to leave the structure, which has been equipped with a barber shop, a chapel and other features to make it virtually self-contained.

The building and its occupants, await the expected flu epidemic which some authorities say could affect as much as one-third of the United States population.

The Veterans Administration said patients in the building plus 520 employees of the entire unit have volunteered for the test.

SPREAD OBSCURE

The experiment is important because medical science does not know how the influenza virus moves from one human being to another. Some authorities say it travels through the air. Others say it can infect a person only by direct contact.

Evidence on how it is spread might show whether the flu organism could be stopped by radiation or whether isolation is effective.

Black light, or ultra-violet, as it is called, is a form of radiation. It kills some germs.

The walls of building 62 are studded with ultra-violet lamps so aimed that their rays do not strike patients but irradiate the air volume.

Samples of blood serum have been taken from every patient in building 62 and all employees of the hospital.

These samples are being checked for Asiatic flu at the government's communicable disease centre in Atlanta. From this the public health service will know just which ones, if any, have had the flu and which have not.

WILL TEST BLOOD

After the expected epidemic sweeps through, blood samples will be taken and checkd again for signs of flu infction.

The employees generally will not have the benefit of ultra-violet radiated air. If the percentage of infection among them turns out to be higher than among the patients of building 62 it will be an indication that ultra-violet has some deterrent effect on the disease.

Marpole Bridge Action Stalled

VANCOUVER (CP) — Legal action by Richmond Council to force the provincial government to reopen the Marpole bridge was stopped when council deadlocked on the issue Monday.

Former municipal solicitor Dougald Donaghy advised council that the municipality was not certain to win its case.

Reeve Ray Parsons, who is due to go to Ottawa to discuss the bridge situation, said he personally believed the federal government would either pay 50 per cent of the costs of the new Oak Street bridge or build another bridge to Sea Island.

Council decided to ask the B.C. government when the Marpole bridge will be reopened. It was pointed out no formal notice had been issued saying the bridge was closed permanently.

Vet Keegan Throws No-Hitter

CHICAGO (AP)—Bob Keegan of the Chicago White Sox pitched the first no-hitter of the major league season Tuesday night, turning back the Washington Senators, 6-0, after the Sox had dropped the first game of a twi-night doubleheader, 5-4.

Keegan, 36, from Rochester, N.Y., faced 28 men and gave up two walks. Several defensive plays, one by Keegan himself, helped him become the first White Sox pitcher to toss a no-hitter since Bill Dietrich turned the trick in 1937 against St. Louis.

It was also the first no hitter in Comiskey Park since Bob Feller's effort against the White Sox on opening day of the 1940 season.

Keegan retired the first 14 men to face him before he walked Lou Berberet with two out in the fifth. Bob Usher then flied to left to end the inning. Another walk came with one out in the sixth to pinch batter Faye Throneberry but Eddie Yost bounced into a double play which was launched by Keegan.

Robinson Sues IBC; Calls Off Defence

NEW YORK (AP) — Middleweight champion Sugar Ray Robinson said Tuesday he was calling off his scheduled title fight with welterweight champion Carmen Basilio and suing the International Boxing Club for breach of contract.

The IBC, sponsor of the fight at Yankee Stadium Sept. 23, replied that "the fight is still on."

"Before we signed for the fight it was agreed that we would accept the best television and radio offer," Robinson said. "I have a written agreement with Norris that I must okay any deal on TV and radio that is made."

Sugar Ray said Norris told him that he had an offer from Nat Helpern for TV and radio promising 250,000 seats. This is the vernacular for such receipts.

BIGGER GUARANTEE

"I told Mr. Norris that this was not agreeable to me," Robinson said. "I told him I had an offer which was better. I made arrangements to see him Monday but I couldn't. Then today I brought in a representative of Teleprompter with a guarantee of 400,000 seats.

"This is 150,000 seats more than Halpern could offer and in money it would amount to about $300,000 more.

"Mr. Norris told me that it didn't matter. He had done business with Mr. Halpern before and he had already agreed to work with him on this deal.

"I protested. I told Mr. Norris of my contract and the written stipulation. But he wouldn't listen. So I told him the fight is off."

MARLENE COPS EASY VICTORY

SACRAMENTO, Calif. (CP) — Defending champion Marlene Stewart Streit of Toronto breezed to victory Tuesday in 90-plus heat in the second round of the U. S. women's amateur golf championship.

Mrs. Streit, playing with her usual machine-like precision, toyed with Jan Tarble of Los Angeles and finished the match on the 11th hole, 8 and 7.

Marlene was three over par for the 36-36—74 El Paso Country Club course.

Joanne Gunderson, long-hitting redhead from Seattle who was Marlene's victim in last year's championship final, disposed of Florence Minch of Sacramento 5 and 3. Joanne was two under for the 15 holes.

Rosemary Neundorf of Toronto was defeated by Mrs. Jane Cadotte of Long Beach, Calif., 1 up.

Rae Milligan of Calgary was defeated by Mrs. Dorothy Stamps, Pleasanton, Calif., 1 up.

Coming home defeated as the late finishers straggled in, were Mary Gay of Calgary, beaten 5 and 4 by Mrs. Philip Cudone of Mountclair, N. J., and Judy Stanhope of Edmonton, beaten 1 up by Judy Anderson of Sacramento, Calif.

OLD TIMERS' GAME POSTPONED

Ron Nash of Nelson Outlaws Tuesday announced that the Old-Timers game scheduled to be played tonight at Civic Recreation Grounds has been postponed.

Ron said he had been told the Old-Timers would be unable to field a team likely to give Outlaws severe competition, because many who played in a similar game earlier this season were away on holidays or otherwise indisposed.

Young Winnipeg Golfer Ties Joe Carr for Medal Honor

By AL VICKERY
Canadian Press Staff Writer

WINNIPEG (CP) — The par-breaking of a youthful Canadian and a veteran British Walker Cup player, a caddy's error and the honesty of a 25-year-old Scottish golfer highlighted play Tuesday in the 36-hole qualifying round of the Canadian amateur golf championship.

Twenty-year-old George Knudson of Winnipeg and 35-year-old Joe Carr of Dublin, Ireland, tied for medal honors with three-under-par 141s in the field of 132.

Sixty golfers with scores of 154 or better qualified outright for match play starting today. Seven others with scores of 155 went into a suden - death playoff for the four remaining berth. They were Mike Barrett, Jim Collins and Stan Topolniski, all of Winnipeg, Leonard Bjorklund of Minneapolis, Minn., Bill Wakeham of Victoria, Myron Hampton of Aylmer, Que., and Robert Leonard of Fargo, N.D.

WAKEHAM ELIMINATED

Wakeham, 1957 Canadian junior champion, took a two-stroke out-of-bounds penalty and was eliminated on the first extra hole along with Barrett. The others were all down in par fours.

After the drives on the second hole, Hampton, a 25-year-old Aberdeen, Scotland, resident now in Ottawa on a National Research Council fellowship, reported officials that his caddy had turned over his ball to identify it. Hampton was automatically penalized two strokes and was down in six while the other four qualified with par fours.

Carr, 1953 British amateur champion, birdied the last three hopes with threes as he ripped the course apart with a 33 after an outgoing 39. He was three-under 69 on Monday. Knudson, with a two-under 70 Monday, continued his consistent shooting into the second round, going out in 35 and returning in par 36 for a 71.

BRITISH ALL IN

All 10 members of the British Walker team, which plays in matches against the United States team at Minneapolis later this month, qualified for today's opening round. They were Carr, British amateur champion Reid Jack, Douglas Sewell, Alan Bussell, Alex Shepperson, Michael Bonallack, Guy Wolstenholme, Philip Scrutton, Dr. Frank Deighton and Alan Thirlwell.

Their non-playing team captain Gerald Micklem, withdrew after nine holes Tuesday as he said he "couldn't concentrate because I'm worrying about how my youngsters are doing."

Jack and Wolstenholme were tied with 19-year-old Gary Cowan of Kitchener, Ont., and Bob Kidd of Vancouver in the runner - up spot with 142s. Jack and Wilf Homenuik of Winnipeg, 1957 Manitoba amateur champion, had 68s Tuesday for the best scores of the day.

Hurley Orders "No Bulletins" Of Title Bout

SEATTLE (AP) — Promoter Jack Hurley said Tuesday no radio or television station may broadcast details of the heavyweight championship fight Thursday between champion Floyd Patterson and challenger Pete Rademacher while the fight is in progress.

The contest Thursday will be the first time since Jack Dempsey held the title that radio has been barred from the ringside of a heavyweight title fight.

He also ruled no news service may send details to radio stations during the fight even though such information would carry an embargo that it could not be broadcast until after the fight.

"The stations would use it as soon as they got it," Hurley contended. "Besides, the sports writers say the fight will last only a round or two so they don't need any information while the fight is in progress."

FLO POSTPONES SWIM ATTEMPT

DONAGHADEE, Northern Ireland (AP) — Florence Chadwick postponed her attempt to swim the Irish Sea for the third straight time Tuesday because of unfavorable weather forecasts.

The San Diego, Calif., swimmer said that if she didn't start the swim by Thursday the attempt would have to be abandoned for this year.

MARATHON STARTS LATE

DOVER, Eng. (Reuters) — The international English Channel swimming race started from Cap Gris Nez, France, early today 20 minutes behind schedule, the promoters announced here.

Plenty Exercise for Pete

SEATTLE (AP) — Heavyweight challenger Pete Rademacher counted some 350 rounds of boxing, bag punching and rope skipping behind him Tuesday as he concluded major preparations for his brash attempt to win the world championship from Floyd Patterson.

This is a considerable number of rounds for a bout most critics suspect won't last more than five.

But Rademacher, crown prince of world amateurs, who won the Olympic Games gold medal last winter and then picked the king of professionals for his first fight as a pro, remained calm and amazingly confident a miracle will take place Thursday night in the local baseball park.

The 28-year-old one-time farmboy from Washington, now an adopted son of Columbus, Ga., quietly observed:

"I'm in the best condition of my life. I feel confident about my chances. Otherwise I would not have gone for this match."

Patterson, the 22-year-old stylish hitter from New York, took things easy at his camp at suburban Kent. He completed his serious work yesterday.

Als Top Toronto As Ti-Cats Beaten

MONTREAL (CP) — Montreal Alouettes edged out a fighting Toronto Argonauts team 29-28 Tuesday night in the opening game of the Big Four Football League season.

Every touchdown but one was scored on passes, with Montreal's Sam Etcheverry connecting his long ones more consistently than Tom Dublinski and Gerry Doucette of the Argos.

Statistically, the Argos outplayed the Alouettes in just about every department. They gained 429 yards passing, where Montreal gained 297, outrushed the Alouettes 112 yards to 85, and racked up 26 first downs to Montreal's 13.

Ends Hal Patterson and Red O'Quinn, guard Herb Trawick and halfback Pete Karpuk scored touchdowns for Montreal. Art Powell scored two for Toronto. Boyd Carter and Pete O'Garro got one each.

Other Montreal points came on four converts by Bill Bewley and a single by Etcheverry when Billy Hudson nailed Dick Brown in the Toronto end zone.

Toronto's extra points were on two converts by Bart Moll and two singles by Reg Meserve, one conceded by Montreal's Bruce (Bones) Coulter.

The Argos missed an opportunity to tie the game with less than five minutes to play when the Montreal line charged through to block Moll's convert attempt on O'Garro's touchdown.

OTTAWA (CP)—Ottawa Rough Riders opened their Big Four football season with a 20-7 victory Tuesday night over Hamilton Tiger-Cats before a crowd of about 16,000 fans including Prime Minister and Mrs. Diefenbaker.

Rough Riders, who tied Tiger-Cats for second place in last year's final Big Four standings, jumped to a 7-0 lead in the first quarter and never looked back.

Although Ticats tied it 7-7 at the half, Ottawa picked up a converted touchdown to lead 14-7 after three quarters and scored their final touchdown about a minute before the end.

Hal Ledyard's 44-yard pass to George Brancato set up Judd for a one-yard touchdown plunge in the first quarter. Later in the game Hal marched his team down field from Riders 47-yard line in 10 plays and one Tiger-Cat penalty, finally sending Lewis through from two yards out for a touchdown.

Gary Schreider converted Ottawa's first two touchdowns and missed out on a field goal attempt from about the Hamilton 18-yard line.

Rookie Canadian halfback Billy Graham was the lone Hamilton point-getter, scoring on a 19-yard touchdown pass from quarterback Bernie Faloney. Graham also kicked the convert.

Rain Halts Tourney

QUEBEC (CP) — Rain washed out play Tuesday in the Quebec tennis championships after a few morning matches in the men's and women's singles. Seeded players continued to move easily ahead. Brazil's Anne Bagge Vieira, second out of province seed in the women's singles, won over Lise Godin of Montreal.

Anna Stacey Bedard of Sherbrooke, Que., advanced on a default by Montreal's Therese Gilbert. Mrs. Bedard ranked fourth.

In men's singles play, Jacques Giguere, ranked sixth in Canadian entries, took an easy 6-1, 6-0 victory over Marc Blondeau of Quebec and seventh-ranked John Swann of Vancouver posted a 6-3, 6-0 win over Guy Durocher of Sherbrooke, Que.

Armando Vieira, Brazil, ranked as second foreign player after fellow countryman Carlos Fernandez, advanced on two love sets over Montreal's Hector Leblanc.

Matches for defending singles champion Bob Bedard from Sherbrooke, Que., top Canadian seed, second ranked Don Fontana of Toronto and Vancouver's Paul Willey, seeded third, were rained out.

Bandit Queen Asks Help of Nehru

AGRA India (Reuters)—India's notorious bandit queen, a 26-year - old former dancing girl known as Putli ("the doll"), is reported to have written to Prime Minister Nehru asking him to help her return to a normal, civilized life free from the fear of the police and rival gangs.

For the last six years, this short, thin, one-armed woman—latest reports say Putli had her left arm amputated after a gun battle with police—has terrorized the towns and villages of an area of some 8,000 square miles of jungle country in north-central India. She is wanted for at least a dozen killings.

Putli is said to have written to the prime minister and the home minister, Pandit Govind Ballabh Pant, asking them to hep her to reform. If they did not, she said, she would have to continue her life of banditry and eventually die a violent death.

Father, Two Sons Drowning Victims

HUNTSVILLE, Ont. (CP) — A 68-year-old father jumped into the water in a vain effort to save his two sons after their heavily-laden outboard motor boat foundered in Skeleton Lake, 30 miles southwest of here Monday.

All three were drowned.

David Rankin, a farmer from nearby Aspidin, stood on shore near Tomelin's Bluffs, while his sons, Malcolm, 29, and Alfred, 27, loaded shingles and nails in their boats. The stern suddenly went down and the boat sank.

The father, a one-time district swimming champion, plunged into the water to save his sons. Their bodies were recovered.

Calgary Livestock

CALGARY (CP) — Trading was moderately active and prices uneven on the livestock market. On offer were 2000 cattle and 50 calves. The bulk were medium to good butcher steers and heifers. The balance of the run was mostly cows.

Good and choice butcher steers continued to meet good demand at firm prices. Fair to medium grass steers were under pressure with prices 50 cents or more lower. Good and choice butcher heifers were meeting fair demand with price steady at Monday afternoon's decline of 25-50 cents. Fair to medium grades were generally 50 lower.

All classes of cows were meeting good demand at steady to strong prices with odd tops up to 11.75. Bulls were weak to 50 cents lower.

Good replacement steers were meeting only fair demand at about steady prices. Common and medium grades were slow with prices barely steady. The plain end of the stock steers were selling as boners down as low as $8. Veal and butcherweight heifer calves were generally steady.

Choice butcher steers 18.75-19.50; good 17-18.25; medium 14.50-16.50; common 13-14; choice heifers 16.25-17; good 15-16; medium 13-14.50; common 12-13; good cows 10.50-11.50; medium 10-10.50; common 9.50-10; canners and cutters 6.50-9.50; good bulls 12-12.50; common to medium 9-11.50; good feeder steers 17-18; good stock steers 16.50-17.50; common to medium 10-15; good butcherweight heifer calves 16.50-18; good to choice veal 17.50-19.50; common to medium 13-16.50.

Hogs sold 40 cents lower Monday at $33.50; cows steady $16 liveweight.

Good lambs steady 18-18.50.

China Surprises Tourist With Comfort and Beauty

By DAVID HOTHAM

PEIPING (AP)—Travelling in China is the easiest thing in the world, especially if you are someone the Chinese wish to impress, such as a foreign journalist.

From the moment you cross the frontier from Hong Kong you are in the hands of the Chinese Intourist. Intourist acts as your guardian angel wherever you go in China. They book your seat for you, put you on the train, put your luggage on the train, pay the porters, hand you your tickets, help you through the customs, make excellent conversation in your own particular language—and of course charge for it. But not unreasonably.

The Intourist interpreters are young men employed by the Chinese state, and all of them have three or four good years of Marx-Leninism at the university behind them as well as the study of English or other languages. They are ideologically well equipped, and there is no fear that they will be corrupted by any bourgeois ideas.

Nursed by these paragons, one has nothing to do but lean back in one's comfortable seat as the train rolls through the countryside of China, to the inevitable accompaniment of Chinese music from the train radio.

The windows of Chinese trains seem to be designed to prevent the traveller looking out of them. This is achieved by placing a broad band of extremely untransparent wood across the window at exactly the level of the eye. In order to observe the countryside, one must either crane one's neck like a giraffe or bend oneself almost double.

What does one see as one chugs for hour after hour through this immense country. What does China look like through the carriage window?

To begin with, what surprised me, despite the fact that I had so often been told, China is surpassingly beautiful. South China is a land of strange and haunting beauty. It consists of an infinity of terraced paddy fields between smallish rounded hills.

The whole country is sliced, as with a giant's palette knife, into a bewildering series of geometrical areas — squares, triangles, semicircles, oblongs and trapezoids—each of which is a little field, and, each packed with the shoots of the rice crop.

Every cranny between the hills is worked and sown, and the carpets or rice plants descend like long gentle staircases of brilliant green to the level of the lower ground. The whole land is chiselled and moulded by the toil of centuries.

There are few overt signs as one travels that China is a country under Communist rule—the red star at the stations, an occasional picture of Mao Tse-Tung, a good deal of official talk on the radio. Otherwise it all looks much like what one sees travelling in any other country.

One of the most curious aspects of Communist China is the passion for cleanliness. At every station the buffet attendants wear white mouthpads impregnated with menthol. The practice is not obligatory, but many people have become conscious through publicity campaigns of the number of germs in the air to which they are continually exposed.

Sometimes this becomes almost a mania. Several times an hour throughout one three-day journey we were forced to lift our feet off the carriage floor while it was mopped by the railway attendant. Wherever one looked, people seemed to be mopping and scouring.

Even so, Chinese spitting, which has always been a remarkable feature of the race, seems hardly to have diminished at all under communism.

At the great plain of the Yellow River, and still more to the north of it, wheat and kao-liang—a sort of Chinese corn—replace rice as the main crop. The ox and the donkey, and the occasional horse, replace the water buffalo. The farming becomes almost European in character, but I did not see a single tractor throughout the journey. Nor, for that matter, a single machine more complicated than a wheelbarrow.

Catholics Refuse To Pay Back Taxes on Three Schools

NEW WESTMINSTER (CP) — The Roman Catholic School Board Monday night told Coquitlam Municipal Council it refuses to pay nearly $11,000 in back taxes owed on three parochial schools.

Instead the board offered $1 in settlement of the long fight over the tax bill. The board's position was outlined in a letter from secretary Leo Comeau.

The Council was told by Reeve James L. Christmas that if it settled for a dollar, the municipality would be faced with an injunction from a man who has offered $15,000 for the buildings.

The municipality seized the buildings after four years of back taxes were owing.

Councillor Rene Gamache said he understood that if the Roman Catholic School Board were required to put up the $10,780 owing, it would close the schools, throwing 900 pupils into already crowded public schools next month.

Council decided to ask the British Columbia government to arrange a meeting among the cabinet, church officials and municipal representatives.

Odds . . . and Ends

by M. D. B.

Having written about a private citizen's annoyance over litter on the sand at the park and such yesterday, it seems only fair to give you a little of the other side of the story from the man in charge.

* * *

A good deal of their time in the morning is taken up with gathering up bridge debris that has washed in at the park — boards with nails in and such that could be harmful to swimmers and paddlers. Saturdays and Sundays Mr. Holt, parks superintendent, is at the park by himself, these being the other men's days off, which means that papers and litter tossed by unthinking people may not always get as well cleaned up as on other days.

* * *

From seven to nine every morning the bathhouses are washed out and disinfected — some 500 gallons of disinfectant are used a season, toilet paper containers are checked and all is left in ship shape condition and from there on it's up to Mr. and Mrs. John Citizen and their small fry as to how tidy they stay until the following morning.

* * *

Mr. Holt observed that if rolls run out in the ladies' quarters, either the lifeguards or the check room woman must change them since, obviously, he can't. He had been unaware of any friction in the park's management.

* * *

"Yes, the sand does get littered at times," he said, "but we have had this bridge litter to clear up all this summer and it seemed most important that this dangerous stuff be removed."

"As for the bathhouse, I just wish you'd come down in the morning around 8:30 a.m. and see how fresh and spotless we leave it, why, I take particular pride with it," he added.

* * *

So there you have the two sides to the story and it looks as though the best remedy would be for adults to be thoughtful enough to put their garbage in the containers and teach the children to do likewise — by example and training.

$500,000 Damage In Spokane Fire

SPOKANE, Wash. (AP) — A three-alarm fire raced through five shops Monday causing damage estimated at more than $500,000.

Fourteen firemen were hurt or overcome by smoke.

It was the second major fire in the building in six years.

The blaze broke out in the basement of the block housing a bakery, shoe repair shop, women's clothing store, shoe repair shop and a cheese shop.

Dense rolling smoke hampered firemen trying to find the seat of the blaze.

Fire department investigators were trying to determine the cause of the blaze.

"HISTORIC" STEAM ENGINE JUST A MYTH

PRINCE GEORGE (CP) — Rumor had it, but it's now official.

The small, antiquated steam engine which was said to have pulled the first string of freight and passenger cars over the Jasper-Prince Rupert line is a phoney.

A railway official who asked that his name not be used reluctantly admitted that the engine is not genuine.

The engine, known in these parts as "The Old Number One," was built from scrap metal in the railway roundhouse here about 1924.

It has never pulled a single car and never will.

It has been one of the main tourist attractions in this city. Hundred of visitors every year crowded to be pictured beside it.

It has been painted, preserved and placed in a small, hedged sanctuary by the CNR as an item of "great historical importance."

It has been watched for years by railway policemen to make sure some of its "vital parts" were not carried away by curio hunters.

Publicity Given Discontented Immigrants Hit by Guardian

MANCHESTER, England (Reuters)—The Manchester Guardian has criticized British newspapers for giving publicity to British emigrants who return home openly discontented after staying only a few days in Canada or Australia.

"This is the kind of impertinence that reflects chiefly on the traveller's own country," the Guardian says in an editorial.

"It is surprising therefore to find so much publicity given in this country to interviews with and letters from United Kingdom citizens who have emigrated to Canada or Australia and then returned almost at once, proclaiming that these countries are nothing like the El Dorado they had anticipated.

"They prove mainly their own lack of wisdom and unsuitability. . . .

"The worst result of their failures is that they make prospects worse for those genuinely keen and intelligent emigrants from the British Isles whom the receiving governments desire.

"It is in fact the sort of thing which leads to the shameful sentence 'no English need apply' being tacked on to announcements of vacancies by possible employers."

The London Daily Herald today printed a story of an English father of two who decided Canada was "not what I wanted" during an immigration lasting 98 hours.

Gilbert Irving of Petts Wood, Kent, arrived in Toronto by air last Tuesday. He was back home for lunch on Sunday.

During his four-day stay he decided that the country was brown and drab, declared Toronto to be like London's east end, was told he would not be able to get a job as a printer easily, and found there were no home-type pubs.

He said he left at least a dozen fellow emigrants, equally disillusioned, at the Ford Hotel in Toronto.

His conclusion: "Canada's like many other places in the world, not like what it's painted."

Reserve Conversion To CD Seen Unlikely

VANCOUVER (CP) — Senior military officers here give little support to an Ottawa report that the Defence Department is trying to convert the Reserve Army into a Civil Defence organization.

The report was based on an Ottawa order to militia units to "pay attention" to civil defence. Eastern commanders term this "the handwriting on the wall."

Lieut. Col. W. E. McKinney, senior administrative officer for 24 Militia Group here, said group commanders met with Civil Defence leaders in B.C. last year and "at no time has there been any thought of merging the two organizations."

Top Trade Record Per Capita Basis

OTTAWA (CP) — Canada led the world in trade last year on a per capita basis, the bureau of statistics estimates.

Her exports and imports, reaching all-time highs, worked out to an average of $657.21 for each Canadian, up from $577.38 in 1955 and the previous high of $578.81 in 1953.

Canada held this top spot in 1953 but lost it to New Zealand in 1954 and 1955. New Zealand dropped to second place last year when she clamped on import curbs.

In over-all trade, Canada held her rank as fourth among the world leaders, surpassed only by the United States, Britain and West Germany. Canadian exports rose by 11.8 per cent to a record $4,863,100,000 from $4,352,300,000 in 1955. Her imports swelled by 21.1 per cent to $10,568,600,000 from $9,063,700,000.

However ,the increased emphasis on imports boosted her foreign debt. The Canadian deficit in foreign trade climbed to an unprecedented $842,300,000, more than double the $361,100,000 deficit in 1955.

As usual, the U.S. and Britain were her main trading partners.

Low Streamflow To Cut Power In Pacific Northwest

PORTLAND (AP) — The Bonneville Administration will cut off interruptible power to 17 Pacific Northwest plants at midnight Aug. 31, it announced Monday.

The agency attributed the action to low stream flow in the Columbia River and its tributaries.

Thirteen industries with 17 plants will be affected. Bonneville said interruptible power — supplied with the understanding that it can be cut off during shortage periods — produces about one-third of their needs.

However, other power sources are available and no immediate production cutbacks were expected.

William A. Pearl, Bonneville administrator, said river flows have dropped to below critical levels nearly a month earlier than usual because of the early Spring runoff and light Summer rains.
