Six Mile Death Path Swept When Riviera Dam Bursts

MARSEILLE, France (Reuters)—A dam on the French Riviera burst Wednesday and loosed a 15-foot wall of water which smashed a path of destruction six miles wide.

The town of Frejus, near St. Raphael, was right in the path of the deluge which poured out of the wrecked Malpasset dam.

About 50 bodies had been recovered five hours after the storm-weakened dam gave way, rescue officials said.

One rescuer said the roaring waters "hit like a hammer over six miles."

A train turned over near Frejus and two coaches were submerged in the water. At least two passengers were reported missing.

SWIRLING MASS

The swirling mass of water sliced right through to the sea, forming two huge arms around a promontory on which Frejus is sited.

The rescue official said the wall of water "tumbled farm buildings and houses as if they were cards and tore away the railroad line as if it had been made of straw."

Frejus is on the main Riviera railway line. The overturned train was travelling through Frejus from Nice, one of the many Riviera centres suffering damage from a five-day storm.

Rescuers were prevented at first from approaching the submerged coaches by deep, swirling water.

RESCUE HEADQUARTERS

Rescue headquarters were set up north of Frejus in Draguignan and maintained radio contact with police patrol cars in the region.

One patrol car sent this message:

"This is horrible. Everything is under water. Only dim lights here and there. We hear heart-rending cries."

RESIDENTS FLEE

Many Frejus residents were reported to be fleeing to nearby St. Raphael.

A report from Frejus received here told of inhabitants in the northern part of the town hearing a loud rumbling "as if several trains were rushing at us" when a 15-foot wall of water swept down the Reyan River valley.

Houses collapsed under the impact and automobile and trucks were swept away.

The flood rushed through the town for more than half an hour, followed by a mass of red mud from the river.

Marseille firemen and army engineers from Avignon were rushed to the area early today. Small boats were requisitioned, loaded on trucks and sent toward Frejus.

DAM HELD LAKE

The Malpasset dam, built eight years ago on the Reyran River, held an artificial lake about five miles long and 2½ miles wide which provided the water supply for most of the deparment (province) of Var.

Frejus itself, a quiet country town just north of the resort of St. Raphael, was cut off after reporting the dam had burst.

Chaos spread throughout the town, early reports said, as the electricity supply failed. The torrent cut telephone and telegraph lines.

The dam collapsed after several days of pelting rain had raised the river level.

HAD WARNING

The Associated Press reported that the first warning of danger at the dam came Tuesday morning. Dull thuds from the pounding of water were heard. Technicians flew over by helicopter and also inspected the footings of the 185-foot-high dam. They decided to free some of the impounded flood waters but the break beat their efforts to ease the strain.

It came at 9:45 p.m. when people living at the edge of Frejus heard the thundering sound of water rushing to the sea.

The water head hit the city's eastern edge, first flooding the ruins of the Roman amphitheatre. Frejus, which has 13,500 people, was founded by Julius Ceasar.

In Paris the interior ministry dispatched an official to organize rescue work and a fund was started to aid victims.

"Wet" Diving Suits Please Navy On Test

VICTORIA (CP) — Navy officials expressed satisfaction Wednesday with a newly designed "wet suit" diving gear used by a team of 10 navy divers 175 feet under icy Alaskan waters in a recent manoeuvre.

Earlier reports said a record may have been set in the dive, but the leader of the team, Lieut.-Cmdr. Ben Ackerman of Peterborough, Ont., said: "No records were set but we were delighted with the performance of the wet suit under the conditions."

The diving team returned here Tuesday, a week after making the dive more than 800 miles northwest of Victoria off Alaska's Taku glacier.

"For several years we have been looking for the best suit for our purpose," Lieut. - Cmdr. Ackerman said.

"We are one of the few navies faced with cold water diving and the suits we used . . . are the best we have found yet. They exceeded expectations."

MADE IN B.C.

The suits, manufactured by a British Columbia firm to navy specifications, are tailor-made of ¼-inch foam peoprene, a type of synthetic rubber. They are called "wet suits" because water actually penetrates through unsealed neck, arm and leg openings in the suit to come in contact with the diver's skin. There it becomes heated to body temperature and acts as an insulator.

Other members of the navy diving team who were immersed for a total of 38 minutes in the dive were PO George W. Ackerman, 35, formerly of Toronto, no relation to Leiut-Cmdr. Ackerman; PO Julian G. Verschuere, 36, LS Charles F. Greengrass, 29, Winnipeg; LS Robert Larsen, 26, Toronto; LS Fred W. Olkivick, 29, Vancouver; AB Albert Lodge, 21, Winnipeg; AB Ernest W. Maddam, Edmonton; AB Ronald MacKenzie, 24, Welland, Ont.; and AB Padriac Dutton, 21.

Lost: One Small Island

TORONTO (CP) — Mrs. Richard Meyer can't find the island in Georgian Bay that she bought from the federal government for $100.

Mrs. Meyer, who lives in Bethesda, Md., said she submitted a successful bid on the island after reading an advertisement by the Indian affairs department.

"The ad had in fine print that it was up to the purchaser to find the property," Mrs. Meyer said.

Equipped with the title and an aerial photograph, Mrs. Meyer hired a boat and a guide last August and conducted an unsuccessful search for the half-acre property she expected to find off Honey Harbour, Ont.

"We looked and looked, but my little island just wasn't there," she said.

WRECKAGE OF BALLOON GONDOLA — Ground crewmen begin removing the recording instruments of the gondola that ascended to 13 miles over Nebraska Nov. 29 while Cmdr. Malcolm Ross and Dr. Charles B. Moore took a closer look at the planet Venus through a special telescope. Ross was injured in the landing in a Kansas field, near Manhattan, while the gondola was carried across a road behind its parachute. Ross and Dr. Moore were evacuated by helicopter to Schilling Air Force Base.

Government Studies Transmission Means

VANCOUVER (CP)—Plans for construction of a hydro-power dam on the Peace River in northeastern British Columbia were given final approval Wednesday by directors of Peace River Power Developmnt Company Limited.

This was announced in a statement released following a meeting of the directors here.

Sir Andrew MacTaggart, chairman of the board, said that documents outlining the plan and the proposals will be printed and handed to the provincial government within the next two weeks.

The document must be in the hands of the provincial government by Dec. 31 to meet requirements of the agreements signed between the development company and the government two years ago when Peace River Power Development undertook a detailed power study on the Peace River.

Before the company can proceed with construction government approval must be given.

If it is obtained, the company said in a statement Wednesday, construction could begin on the $611,000,000 project by next summer.

The approval involves the water rights board, the public utilities commission and the government.

APPROVE FINAL DRAFT

Directors of Peace River Power Development Company, in which Wenner-Gren B. C. Development Company holds controlling interest, have been meeting here this week to approve the final drafting of the documents setting out plans and proposals for the Peace River dam.

They said Wednesday the report fills nine volumes.

Last October, Peace River power announced that its engineering reports indicated development of hydro on the Peace is completely feasible from every standpoint.

Initially the company would construct a $375,000,000 first-stage dam 600 feet high and 7,000 feet long. It would generate 4,000,000 horsepower and would be the largest in the world. It would form a 26-mile-long lake.

The main earth-fill dam would be built near Hudson Hope, nearly 600 miles northeast of Vancouver. Eventually a series of smaller downstream dams would double the output to more than 8,000,000 horsepower.

VICTORIA (CP) — The new field of high voltage, long distance power transmission—perhaps the key to the feasibility of the Peace River power development—is being studied by the B.C. government.

Deputy water comptroller Walter Raudsepp left here Tuesday to confer with eastern power officials on recent power experiments in this line.

"The result might be the hiring of another eminent consultant by this branch—we are hoping it will," said water comptroller A. F. Paget.

SECOND INDICATION

It was the second recent indication that the water rights branch, which has jurisdiction over granting a water licence to Peace River Power Development Company, will be armed with experts before examining the company's submission late this month.

Recently Lands and Forests Minister Williston announced the commissioning of Donald Blayfuss, internationally-known dam construction expert, to assist the water rights branch in assessing the development plans.

He is still in Iraq and it was not immediately known when he would arrive here. But the company feasibility report must be filed by Dec. 31, at the latest.

It was indicated the newest expert to be sought would be of similar stature in world engineering circles.

NARROW FIELD

The field of high voltage transmission across long distances is still a narrow one, according to power authorities. So far Russia claims to lead the world and attributes the success of the Stalingrad project, the world's largest, to the capability of Russian engineers in transmitting over great distance with a minimum cost and power loss.

Some experts have expressed doubt that Peace River power could be brought hundreds of miles to the lower mainland at competitive costs. However Peace River Power Development Company manager W. C. Mainwaring has been emphatic that he believes it can be done.

If a water licence is granted for the Peace scheme, work on the first phase of the 4,000,000 horsepower development has been promised to get under way in the spring of 1960.

Bushnell Quits CBC

By DON HANRIGHT
Canadian Press Staff Writer

OTTAWA (CP) — Ernest L. Bushnell, the former vaudeville tenor who became the chief architect of CBC program policies, resigned Wednesday as vice-president of the corporation.

He told a reporter his decision to quit, effective Dec. 31, has "absolutely nothing to do" with his central role in last spring's stormy inquiry by the Commons broadcasting committee into charges of political intenference with the publicly-owned CBC.

Mr. Bushnell, 59, said he plans to set himself up in Ottawa as a management consultant to the private broadcasting industry. He felt the time was ripe for such a move, now that "the broadcasting pot is boiling."

WITH CBC 26 YEARS

He has been associated with the CBC for 26 years — most of that time as a programming director —and has been No. 2 man on the corporation management since 1952. The cabinet made him vice-president last year, a post created by the 1958 Broadcasting Act.

He said his break with the CBC will be complete. That means giving up his membership on the CBC board of directors in addition to his management post. He didn't attend the board's meeting in Montreal Wednesday.

Mr. Bushnell's resignation was announced formally by Revenue Minister Nowlan, who said it had been accepted with "real regret." He described the vice-president as having "played a very important part in the development of radio and television in Canada."

Chisholm Statements Raise Controversy

VICTORIA (CP) — Dr. Brock Chisholm, former director - general of the World Health Organization, said Wednesday he believes President Eisenhower was "swayed by religious pressures" in opposing the giving of birth control advice to other nations.

Dr. Chisholm noted the president told his Washington press conference the subject had "religious aspects."

But, said Dr. Chisholm in an interview these religious aspects have no weight in India or other countries suffering over - population and who need help.

"It is getting close to an election year in the United States and one cannot expect an objective attitude about such things."

Dr. Chisholm, now a prominent lecturer on birth control and health and food problems, said the president's attitude has apparently "killed" the recommendations of a committee studying the foreign aid program. The committee had recommended that the U.S. give advice to other nations who requested it on methods of preventing over - population.

VANCOUVER (CP) — Most Rev. W. M. Duke, Roman Catholic archbishop of Vancouver, said Wednesday Dr. Brock Chisholm is suggesting a moral evil to solve a physical one.

In a statement Archbishop Duke was commenting on remarks by Dr. Chisholm, former director-general of the World Health Organization, criticizing the Roman Catholic's stand on birth control.

Dr. Chisholm said Monday the church should abandon its faith that God will feed the world's soaring population and should remove its ban on artificial birth control.

Archbishop Duke said the church's solution to over population is to feed the hungry.

"The whole free world must pool its resources in a global enterprise comparable to the colossal enterprise that won the Second World War.

"This gigantic foreign aid project entails not only shipment of food . . . but it requires the sending of technicians and implements to teach the people in those countries how to increase their production and to make use of modern implements for this purpose."

He said the church condemns birth control as an unnatural and immoral vice prohibited in the fifth and sixth commandments.

"Non-Catholics frequently misunderstand our position on birth control for they believe that Catholic married couples are bound to have children to the utmost capacity of the mother for child bearing. This is not true, it is perfectly ethical to limit the family, if the method is self-control by abstinence and continence."

Ray Acquitted

DETROIT (AP)—Singer Johnnie Ray was acquitted on a morals charge Wednesday and promptly fell in a dead faint.

Revived amid applause and cheers, Ray told the all-woman jury in recorders court:

"It's the nicest thing I could hear."

Ray was accused of accosting and soliciting here Nov. 21. Patrolman Eugene Caviston of the police vice-squad testified that the singer made an indecent proposal to him outside a downtown bar. Caviston had posed as a salemsan.

Ray, who pleaded guilty and was fined $25 on a similar charge in 1951, denied the accusation. He said Caviston asked for his autograph in the bar and then Ray invited the new acquaintance to a party at his hotel suite.

NORAD Site Work Halted

COLORADO SPRINGS, Colo. (AP)—All preliminary work has been halted at the site of a new headquarters for the North American Air Defence Command.

Defence authorities have urged transfer of the NORAD headquarters from the air force base here to an underground site blasted into the granite of Cheyenne Mountain, southeast of Pikes Peak.

NORAD is the nerve centre of continental aerial defence. The U.S. Congress has approved a $10,000,000 appropriation for a start on the underground headquarters.

Col. Barney Oldfield, chief of information for NORAD, said "there has been a stoppage of construction or planned construction on all such planned continental control centres while another look is being taken to ensure that the present plans and types of construction are adequate in the face of a determined missile attack."

He said a U.S. defence department decision is expected within a month on whether to go ahead with present or modified plans of construction.

EXPELS PILOTS

PRAGUE (Reuters) — Czechoslovakia Wednesday night expelled two West German air force pilots who crashed in this country Oct. 22.

Czech authorities handed over the two pilots to West German frontier police in no-man's-land near Waidhaus.

The two men were informed Wednesday that criminal proceedings against them would be dropped and they would be expelled as "undesirable persons."

The pilots, Rolf Hofmann and Helmut Kraus, crashed during a training flight in jet fighter planes.

Negotiations for their return were conducted through the U.S. embassy here. West Germany has no diplomatic relations with Czechoslovakia.

Thieves Try Cranbrook Bank Safe

CRANBROOK—RCMP are investigating the forced entry of the Imperial Bank of Canada branch at the city centre Tuesday night.

The entry was reported by the janitor who discovered it at 7:15 a.m. The plate glass window on one side of the building had been broken. Police found the dials and handle of the safe taped and damaged apparently with an axe, but the thieves had not been able to force it open. Nothing was reported missing.

Local Boy Missing

A nine-year-old Nelson boy was reported missing from his foster home Wednesday night.

Robert (Bobby) Sneddon failed to return to his foster home on Cedar Street. It was thought he was involved in a minor scrap with another youth and was afraid to go home after school.

The boy's foster mother teamed up with police and a social worker in a city-wide search for the young wanderer.

MONTREAL (CP) — The U.S. dollar closed at a discount of 4 11-16 per cent in terms of Canadian funds, down 3-32. Pound sterling 2.66¾, up ¼.

U.S. dollar bid 95 9-32, asked 95 5-16.

Wheat For Uruguay

WASHINGTON (AP) — The agriculture department announced Wednesday the sale of $20,800,000 worth of wheat to Uruguay under its farm surplus disposal program.

The purchase will cover about 11,000,000 bushels of the grain. Payment will be in Uruguayan pesos.

The sales agreement provides that 25 per cent of the pesos received as payment will be set aside for loans to U.S. and Uruguayan private business firms in that country.

Street Corners

By PYRAMUS

The noon whistle toots. This is the signal they have been waiting for—from the government yard, an orange and black light truck passes through the gate and slowly heads along the main route from town to the suburb. With dignified unhaste and lumbering gait a large flatdeck truck with a mammoth steamshovel on its deck follows close behind the little truck, which has a sign "wide load" on its front.

And just in time—for here, right on the dot, are all the cars hurrying to get home for lunch, and the first place they can turn off is Chatham Street. It's a parade!

Government matters take time. And there's no election for awhile.

Eddison Terms Union Trial "Gangsterism"

VANCOUVER (CP)—Interference by the international union in local affairs started discontentment as far back as 1951, business agent Norman Eddison of Ironworkers Local 97 said Wednesday.

Eddison quit the union and denounced a union trial being held here as a "vivid example of international gangsterism."

Eddison was being tried with financial secretary Tom McGrath and president Fernand Whitemore, all of Local 97 of the International Association of Bridge, Structural and Ornamental Ironworkers (CLC) on charges of conducting an unauthorized strike in B. C. last summer.

"BLEW MY TOP"

"I blew my top Tuesday evening at what was going on," Eddison told reporters. "All evidence favorable to the prosecution was allowed and all evidence favorable to the defence was disallowed."

He said he had wanted to call certain witnesses from outside the Ironworkers Union and had been denied any right to do so.

"What happened was a vivid example of international gangsterism in union control," he said.

The union trial is being held in connection with the 50-day strike last summer of ironworkers across B. C. in which $90,000,000 in construction work was held up.

LEADERS CHARGED

Eddison, McGrath and Whitemore were involved in court proceedings when members of Local 97 did not return to work under a court injunction that ordered the union leaders to instruct the men to return to work to complete a part of the $23,000,000 Second Narrows bridge here.

The three officers and the local were fined $19,000 for contempt of court in connection with the failure to return to work but recently had this conviction reversed in appeal court and had fines refunded.

The international said it did not authorize the strike and that telegrams to the effect the walkout had been approved were not genuine.

The union trial here is being conducted under international officer Gay Borrelli of Philadelphia. He has refused to talk with reporters.

Eddison, in an interview Wednesday, said the discontent with the international began when the Kitimat aluminum construction job began in 1951.

TOOK CHARGE

He said the international stepped in and directed the president of the local to accept a contract that the local had refused as unsatisfactory.

The international, Eddison said, had signed a province - wide "sweetheart" agreement in 1956, committing the ironworkers to a three-year pact when they never before had signed for more than one year.

Meanwhile the trial of McGrath and Whitemore apparently continued behind closed doors here and when Eddison refused to appear, his trial was carried on in absentia.

Eddison said international officers asked him to appear Wednesday. "I told them to go to hell," he said.

MACHIAS, Me. (AP)—One little penny has become a big problem for town manager Robert Smith.

Recently the board of assessors told a complaining taxpayer his property was "worth every cent" of its assessed value.

"And here it is, every cent of it," remarked the unidentified taxpayer's wife as she handed Smith eight quarts of pennies.

The woman left, and Smith began counting.

He counted 8001 pennies—and the taxpayer only owed $80.

Now, the problem is this: The woman and her husband have moved to another community, and it would cost more than the penny involved to mail them the refund.

Smith says that until he reaches a decision on what to do with the penny, he'll hold it in case the woman should call for it.

Brilliant Chemist, Formerly Of Nelson, Dies at Chalk River

Word has been received of the death yesterday at the Deep River, Ontario, Hospital of 36-year-old Dr. Richard Willoughby Attree, only son of Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Attree of Queen's Bay.

After a brilliant scholastic career Dr. Attree joined the staff of the National Research Council and for the past seven years has worked at Canada's atomic reactor in Chalk River.

Born in Nelson and educated here and in Queen's Bay he later attended the University of British Columbia, Princeton, U.S.A., and Bristol (England) Universities. At the latter he was awarded the Ramsay Memorial Scholarship for chemical research.

Among other honors he received during his university days were the LaFevere Medal in chemistry at UBC and the American Cyanamid Company Fellowship at Princeton.

Since 1952 he has worked at Chalk River as a research chemist. Married in 1958 to the former Pamela Dyson, Dr. Attree and his wife visited his parents at Queen's Bay only last summer.

DR. RICHARD ATTREE

Besides his mother and father and his wife, Dr. Attree is survived by an uncle, Alec Attree of Victoria, and an aunt, Mrs. G. A. Hirst of Queen's Bay, and a great aunt in Cornwall, England.

Funeral arrangements will be announced later.

TRUSTEE WILL NOT SEEK RE-ELECTION

"It has been a privilege to serve as school trustee for my community . . . but I will not stand for re-election," Mrs. R. Palmer told the News last night.

Mrs. Palmer, who has been a board member representing the city of Nelson for four years, added that she hoped "responsible citizens will come forward and stand for election in December."

Four vacancies will occur this year, two in Nelson, and one each in the extra-municipal district, and the Taghum, Bonnington, Blewett and Sproule Creek area.

Building Down

Building permits registered during November hit a record low for the year of $3679.

This is the lowest figure recorded since December, 1957, when $1052 worth of permits were taken out. Last month's total was $43,502, while the total for November, 1958 was $44,774.

Total for the year to date is $850,795, compared with last year's 11-month total of $344,182.

Most of the permits were taken out by Columbia Trading Company, for the re-roofing of 10 houses. The highest permit was one of these, valued at $574.

RCMP Checking Reported Truant

Royal Canadian Mounted Police are investigating a lone case of truancy reported from school among children of the Krestova district.

A father of a seven-year-old boy, who denies he is either a Doukhobor or a Freedomite, is reported to have refused to send the child to school because he is opposed to department of education regulations.

Police claim this is the only case of truancy since the Sons sent their children back to school last September. Leaders of the Sons of Freedom sect strongly deny that the father is a member of their group.

Two Accidents Open Safe Driving Week

RCMP accident statistics for Tuesday, opening day of safe-driving week in the Nelson subdivision, revealed two property damage accidents, one at Fernie and the second at Kimberley. No estimate as to damage was given.

The Nelson subdivision reaches from Natal to Greenwood and from Nakusp to the U.S. border.

Accident occurences reported in the Nelson subdivision from the week ending Nov. 29 revealed 27 accidents resulting in one death. Nine drivers faced prosecution.

On the province-wide scale, 225 accidents took place on British Columbia highways resulting in four deaths and 97 prosecutions. These figures include all districts under the jurisdiction of the RCMP but not those under municipal law enforcement agencies.

Longtime Trail Resident Dies Here

The death occurred Wednesday morning in Mount St. Francis Infirmary of Cecil Andrews, 85, a long-time resident of Trail.

A native of England, Mr. Andrews came to Canada 53 years ago, eventually settling in Trail where he worked as a carpenter and contractor.

One brother, F. Andrews, of Gilford House, Broughton, England, survives him.

Funeral arrangements will be announced later.

Shorter Days Make Driving More Dangerous

VICTORIA — There will be more "after dark driving" in December than in any other month of the year, it was emphasized by Superintendent George Lindsay of the Motor Vehicle Branch.

"This is the month of short days and long nights," he pointed out. "Most workers are finding that they must use their headlights when driving home from work now. Soon the stores will be opened extra hours for Christmas shopping."

Plans are in the making for holiday parties later this month, and automobiles are the favorite means of transportation to and from such events, he added.

"Mix these factors with quick changes in the weather, add snow and ice to make the going tough, and you can appreciate that the problems of traffic law enforcement officers become aggravated at this time of year," Mr. Lindsay declared.

"Individual citizens can help a great deal to alleviate these problems if they will accept greater personal responsibility," the Provincial official advised.

"Officers of the law are ready to assist any motorist who is in distress but so often the driver finds himself in a winter-time difficulty simply because he failed to check the battery, he forgot his gas tank was close to empty, he overlooked replacing his old wiper blades that smear and streak his windshield instead of wiping it clean, or he took a chance that it would not snow and he left his tire chains home. Now is the time when every driver should be prepared for the worst of winter," Mr. Lindsay declared.

The provincial official cautioned citizens to show good sense in driving and walking, since "obeying the rules of courteous conduct will enable everyone to enjoy the entire holiday month." Failure to heed traffic laws, he warned, could make December indeed "the darkest month of the year."

Government Workers Name Walsh President

D. E. Walsh has been appointed president of the Nelson Branch of the British Columbia Government Employees Association for 1960, it was disclosed Wednesday.

Mr. Walsh was named following the election of an executive of 10 at the Legion Hall Tuesday night.

The executive also appointed Melvyn Mikkelson, vice-president, and Mrs. S. M. Staysn, secretary. Florence Jeffreys was named treasurer.

In addition to these officers the following were elected by ballots mailed to the membership:

T. J. Rutherglen, D. A. Carmichael, James Watson, C. G. Jeffs, L. F. Cote, Edward Hunter and Mrs. Margaret M. Giles.

NEED PERSONNEL

VANCOUVER (CP) —Mrs. Win Goepel, executive director of the British Columbia Association for Retarded Children, told a service club there was a need for more and better-paid personnel in the provincial mental health service. "They must be subsidized if necessary," she said, "not penalized as at present by getting less money."

Funeral Service For Mrs. Armstrong

Funeral service for the late Matilda Hanna Armstrong was held yesterday from the Thompson Funeral Home. Rev. John A. Harvey of Hillcrest Pentecostal Church, Salmo, officiated.

Mrs. Armstrong died in Nelson November 30 at the age of 80.

Many floral offerings decorated the chapel for the service. Mrs. W. A. Manson was organist and two hymns were sung.

Interment was in Nelson Memorial Park. Pallbearers were Jack Hale, M. Hanson, A. Harvey, Ivan Lewis, Jewell Lewis, and Gerald Armstrong.

THEFT RING CRACKE

MONTREAL (CP) — Six young Hungarian immigrants Tuesday pleaded guilty to a total of 24 armed robbery charges and will be sentenced Friday. They were arrested last week by police investigating a series of petty holdups in central Montreal. The loot ranged up to $300. Police said all six came to Canada after the 1956 Hungarian uprising.

MONTREAL (CP) — For the first time in Montreal's history, value of building permits issued during any one year is more than $200,000,000. By Nov. 30, the city reported, a total of 5,946 permits were issued involving work valued at $201,798,922. The compares with $164,656,946 for all of 1958.

Winter Works Program Lined Up At Castlegar

CASTLEGAR—Deputy inspector of municipalities J. D. Baird said at a meeting of the Village Council that two winter works programs were accepted and a third will be if council will pay the cost of removal of B.C. Telephone Company poles.

This was one of many subjects discussed at the council meeting. Other topics on the agenda were requests for the annual grant of $200 for the airport, a light on the east side of the village library, which will be investigated, and that the village clerk's salary be increased commensurate with the ability and responsibility brought to his position.

R. Maddocks reported that A. Gerunazzo will sell his gravel pit for sanitary fill. Council will seek more information on this matter.

Commissioner A. Sylvest reported that the B.C. Telephone Company is stringing a line from the water tank to the well for automatic operation of the pump.

Works superintendent N. McNabb reported that the arena is ready for water connection, which will be made at no cost to the arena.

Chairman Nick Oglow said he had discussed with Inland Gas Company possibility of the Tozer property being used as sanitary fill and incinerator. The company will send more information, Mr. Oglow said. The company has an easement across the property.

Commissioner C. Carr reported the first television fire in the district at the home of Walter Popoff Saturday. The commissioner stressed that it is important not to put water on a fire in a television set, but to throw a blanket around the machine if possible and throw it out of the house.

The Commission was told by W. Black, representative of the Electrical Workers Union, that a large number of local men employed in this trade by Celgar. This was in reply to a protest lodged with Celgar by the Commission at the request of a delegation of unemployed men recently.

Mr. Black's explanation was an extension of a reply from L. S. McGill, administrative assistant of the Celgar Company, stating that the order of priority in hiring members of the union was the responsibility of the Castlegar local.

Turkeys and bonuses will be given to village employees this Christmas season, it was announced.

DEFICIT LIKELY

KELOWNA (CP) — A $15,000 deficit, $4,000 more than expected, is likely on Memorial Arena operations this year, city council was told. Mayor R. F. Parksinson said the entire operation of the arena will be reviewed next year.

This Is Easier Than Hunting

CRANBROOK — In this fabulous East Kootenay country where game pours into the city a new crime appears to have been invented, truck-picking.

During the jackpot hunting week of anterless deer hunting and the wind-up of the big game season one of every three vehicles seems to have been wearing a trophy. At the weekend two grieved hunters appeared at the police station to report separate incidents of theft of game animals.

Visiting hunter Anthony Stoltz of Hope, with three deer atop his car parked on the street outside a hotel on Baker Street and found only two when he came out a little later. Cranbrook hunter Ken Moore, whose whitetail buck was in the back of his pickup truck outside another hotel, found the deer gone when he came out. The latter was recovered by RCMP shortly afterward and juvenile court proceedings are scheduled in this case.

Throws Daughters From Burning House

Quick-Thinking Mother Saves Children

FRUITVALE — A quick-thinking mother, who tossed her two young daughters bodily out of her blazing home today was credited with saving the lives of the youngsters. The children received only minor cuts and bruises, but the heroic mother was severely burned.

Mrs. Ray Boilard of Fruitvale related to police and fire officials later that she had been taking an afternoon nap when she was awakened about 1 p.m. to find the ceiling of her kitchen ablaze. Mrs. Boilard ran into an adjoining room where her two small daughters, 4½ year old Debby and 2½ year old Cindy, were sleeping.

She picked up one of the children and threw her out of the front door. She then rushed back into the house, where by this time flames were covering the walls and furniture and filling the house with smoke, picked up her second child and threw her through the bedroom window.

She then ran from the blazing building.

A third child, five year old Wayne, was playing outside at the time of the fire and was not injured.

Mrs. Boilard is reported in good condition in the Fruitvale clinic where she is being treated for severe burns. Her second daughter, who was thrown through the bedroom window, is being treated for lacerations, while the other received scratches and bruises when she landed on the front sidewalk.

Mr. Boilard, an employee of the Helco Lumber Co. Ltd., was called from work when the fire was reported.

Despite vigorous attempts by firemen, they were unable to save the house or the furniture and all is considered a total loss. Fire officials said the blaze probably started from clothing that had been hung on a line near the stove.

Owners of the house Mr. and Mrs. Svene Wilson of Fruitvale said the house was insured but did not know if the furnishings were.

Police spokesman said later Mrs. Boilard's actions in saving her children was one of great heroism and undoubtedly saved their lives.

More Deaths, Less Births in November

Vital statistics totals for the city dropped during November with the exception of deaths.

In comparison with October figures, births dropped from 46 to 34, deaths rose from eight to 12, and marriages dropped from nine to six.

In the district, deaths fell from six to five, and marriages from two to nil. There were no births in either month.

Kimberley Readies for Colorful Snow Fiesta

KIMBERLEY—Plans are shaping up rapidly for the Snow Fiesta. Regular meeting this week heard suggestions from Mrs. W. Aikins of the poster judging committee.

The poster contest will be confined to elementary and junior high school groups, with three divisions. Prizes will run from $7.50 downward for the first three and the honorable mention in each division. It is also hoped to give winners a small cup each.

Judges for the contest will be Mrs. A. E. Oliver, Mrs. W. Aikins and G. Kershaw.

Men of the Moose will sponsor a teen-age dance Friday night of the Fiesta, and the ladies' chapter a farmers' dance Saturday night.

A showcase containing samples of ore from the district will be made up by the CM and S Company for display at Fiesta headquarters.

Mrs. Marjorie Cunningham, instructress and manager of the Kimberley School of Dancing, accompanied by Mrs. D. Molander, attended the meeting and offered to stage the ballet, "Dance Little Lady" on the Saturday night if arrangements could be made.

Two possible sponsors for queen candidates, Marysville Lions Club and the "Car Cruisers" have enquired about details and information is being sent to them.

The Film Council reported it was prepared to show films Thursday, Friday and Saturday if required.

Drama Group Plans for Year

CASTLEGAR — First constitution for the West Kootenay region of the B.C. Drama Association, drawn up by C. White of Trail, was heard and approved by representatives of the Kinnaird-Trail-Nelson drama group.

The occasion was the annual meeting held in Kinnaird Tuesday. Election of officers was held following reading of the constitution.

Mrs. S. J. Kemp of Trail was named president of the provincial association during election ceremonies conducted by Cliff Carne of Nelson. Vice-president is G. Hughes of Kinnaird; secretary-treasurer is Mrs. J. Burroughs of Kinnaird. Chairman of the festival committee is Mr. Hughes.

Objects of the association as shown in the constitution are encouragement and formation of new groups; establishment and promotion of cooperation between groups; presentation of one one-act play each spring.

Club calendars will be distributed to all clubs interested in various arts, advising them of any forthcoming entertainment to avoid conflict of performance dates.

The association will approach the Community Programs Branch in Victoria for more assistance with lighting during play production. The branch loans lighting equipment for drama productions.

Kinnaird Little Theatre will be host at the spring drama festival.

Yule Tree Cut Tops Last Year

INVERMERE — The Christmas tree harvest in this area has exceeded 1958 shipments. To date 435,000 trees have been shipped from Lake Windermere station, consigned mostly to central and southern U.S. points.

Last year shipments totalled 429,000 trees.

Truck shipments to the Calgary market are now in full swing as rail shipments come to a halt.

Trees are in prime condition this year but weather conditions have made it difficult for the cutters. Ten companies and a number of individual operators have been active in the valley this season.

Police Announce Clamp Down On Juvenile Smokers

GRAND FORKS — A clampdown on smoking by juveniles under 16 has been announced by the local detachment of the RCMP.

Local merchants have been warned that they will face charges if they sell cigarettes to juveniles under 16, and also will detain juveniles under 16 who have cigarettes or tobacco products on them.

Any juveniles apprehended with tobacco in any form, can be questioned and made to tell from which store they purchased the cigarettes or other forms of tobacco.

The clampdown has been the result of a number of complaints by parents of stores selling smoking materials to those in the under 16 age group.

The police hope merchants will co-operate in the matter, and clear up the problem quickly.

Let's Give Christmas a Merry Greeting

The Christmas season is almost upon us and all around us district centres have announced their plans to welcome the event in gay attire.

Soon, we expect, the Queen City of the Kootenays will also burst out with Christmassy decorations, in the streets, in the stores, at the homes. This is the time for colored lights, tinkling bells, that bring excitement and anticipation to the children for whom this wonderful season is really meant.

It is already December, and soon we should see the Christmas star shining from Gyro Park; the evergreen trees on the downtown corners.

Even the reminders that there are only a few more shopping days to Christmas seem to bring the great day so much nearer.

To adults Christmas is the anniversary of the birth of the Saviour of the world. To children, however, it is the birthday of the Christ Child and a time for gay colors of red and green, tinsel and holly and the happy exchange of presents, symbolizing the presents brought by the wisemen and shepherds to the manger.

It is time to deck the halls and to get the Christmas mood of goodwill, that Santa brought with him Saturday.

There are few of us who do not like the heady excitement of going through crowded stores looking for presents for those we love. Only at this time of year can we enjoy the pleasure of giving unrestrictedly.

Those of our friends from the district who come to shop in Nelson look for the decorations, the lights, the noise and the merriment of happy people.

This is what puts us into the mood which makes Christmas the happiest time of the year.

Interpreting the News

By ED SIMON
Canadian Press Staff Writer

The arrival in London of Premier Antonio Segni and Foreign Minister Giuseppe Pella of Italy completes Britain's six-week round of talks with members of the European Common Market.

The discussions, which began with a visit to Paris by Foreign Secretary Selwyn Lloyd in mid-October and were carried on during Chancellor Adenauer's visit to Britain, were not deliberately begun as a roll-call of the six members of the new-born economic community.

They were designed rather as a fence-mending operation to deal with the strains between Britain and her European allies that had grown up in the protracted negotiations towards a summit meeting.

But with the summit temporarily thrust into the background and new uncertainties posed by the formation of a European Outer Seven under Britain's leadership, the function and relationship of the two groups have become increasingly important.

Britain's chief aims have been to convince the six common market partners that the new alliance wants to co-operate with them and to gain assurance that political outgrowths of the economic community do not get out of hand

British spokesmen concede that the Outer Seven is a second best substitute for the European free-trade area they hoped to establish as an adjunct to the common market and which foundered in disagreement as to the terms of affiliation. They now seek to build a bridge between the two groups as soon as the Outer Seven becomes a going concern.

Meanwhile, they are worried that the growing political arm of the common market may cut across organizations that already exist to promote unity in Western Europe.

France's President de Gaulle is known to be hostile to close ties with the North Atlantic Treaty Organization which he regards as infringing on his country's sovereignty and unduly susceptible to the influence of the United States.

But Britain has won a friendlier response from de Gaulle by urging that he bring purely continental problems to the Western European union, in which the six common market powers—France, Germany, Italy, Belgium, Luxembourg and The Netherlands—share membership with Britain.

British officials expect to find the Italians co-operative in the political side of the discussions but less so in their economic aspects.

Politically, relations between Britain and Italy are trouble-free, but ever since the inception of the common market, the Italians have pressed vigorously for early implementation of the projected removal of trade restrictions among its members within its protective tariff wall against the outside world.

The talks with Segni and Pella, like those with their common market partners, aim to do no more than improve the general atmosphere. All parties are resigned to a period of patient and painstaking negotiations before European alignments cease to be at sixes and sevens.

Fewer Guns, More Cars

The parade with which Moscow celebrated the 42nd anniversary of the founding of the Soviet Union contained less than the usual Communist emphasis on new weapons and more on civilian accomplishments. This is in keeping with the theme of co-existence which Premier Khrushchev has proclaimed to the world; and it may very well be keyed to normal desires of the Soviet people for more comfortable living.

Two reservations should not be ignored in assessing the significance of Moscow's show: Mr. Khrushchev told newsmen the armaments shown were not the best in the Soviet arsenal, illustrating the obvious fact that weapons developmen goes on. And the sputniks and moon rocket, which the parade extolled, are evidence that Russia is well ahead in rocketry that can be turned either to research or to military purposes.

The fact that the same anniversary went off quietly in Berlin is attributable to a marked show of determination by Western governments represented there. A renewed display of Communist East German flags on subway stations in West Berlin could have been a prelude to reiterated assertions that West Berlin is part of East German (Communist-ruled) soil. Notice was served that such flags would be taken down by police, backed by American, French, or British soldiers if necessary.

The Berlin episode is a reminder that even a peace-talking Soviet regime is not averse to using force or pressure. But fortunately the Nov. 7 parade in Moscow probably does reflect accurately the sentiments of the Soviet population. Second-generation Communist leaders, dealing with a people seared in the fires of World War II, will find it easier to rouse enthusiasm for sports cars (a new feature of the parade) and roomier apartments than for martial preparations and Marxian crusades.

—Christian Science Monitor.

F. B. Pearce... ...Writes

Working reporters, that hard-worked and sometimes abused class of people, have no politics. Their business is to report accurately what they see and hear. The publisher decides the policy of a newspaper, and the editor is responsible for the editorials which reflect that policy. The columnist has freedom of speech subject to two limitations, the law of libel and good taste.

Nobody wants to come up against the law of libel. It is far too expensive. What good taste means can be illustrated by reference to the city hall.

My own idea is that neither the old post office nor the old hospital building will make good city halls. I would like an entirely new one. From this you can see that I am in very much of a minority.

I am opposed to the ideas of many of those on the council, but I see no reason why I should get unpleasant because I cannot have my own way. There is no reason why I cannot be good friends with all of them. Tommy Shorthouse has long been a friend of mine. I had his children in school just as I had Chester Bradshaw's — and very nice children they all were. After you have enjoyed the children it is not possible to be anything but friends with their parents.

I had Mr. Affleck's granddaughter in school and I still remember what a charming little thing she was. Despite the fact that I do not agree with all Mr. Affleck advocates, I still admire his outstanding honesty and sincerity.

In fact Nelson is fortunate, for I believe she has always been served by honest councillors as is the case today, though sometimes it has not treated them very well.

On the other hand Mrs. Van Maarion is a new friend of mine. I disagree entirely with her over the city hall. I am always pleased to meet her and I enjoy talking with her, but not about city politics.

But what I do think should be realized is that you cannot expect me to say unkind things about my friends. I don't have to do that over something so ridiculous as the city hall.

Those fairy tales were the outcome of exasperation. The city hall question has dragged on far too long and I dislike quarrels and unpleasantness. What is needed is a mayor with the same gift as President Eisenhower; the ability to make people work together harmoniously. He doesn't have to boss the council around or thrust his ideas on them, he has only to guide and direct

With the council in a constant state of volcanic eruption, it is highly improbable that any of those on the present council can do this. What is needed is somebody entirely outside the council not involved in their quarrels.

Snow

Snow is a silence falling. It is thought without words.

Snow is a quiet dream, rest that outlives the awakening.

Snow is the unsought experience, infused with unexpected benignity.

Snow is a gentle critic. The stark tree blooms in whiteness. The angular roofline is clothed.

Snow is the kind historian. The record vanishes.

Snow is a master disciplinarian. It does not preach about your morals. It tests them.

Snow is the good companion. It makes you believe the thoughts you are thinking are your own.

Snow is the children's playmate. For the lone child it is a crowd. And snow disputes adulthood wherever it finds it.

Snow is the political hero. Whatever you say of it—someone holds the opposite view.

Snow is the sophisticated guest. It knows there are places where it is wanted and places where it is not. The snowshovel is not an affront to it.

P.S.—You'll find it (the shovel, that is) just outside the back door.

Your Individual Horoscope

By Frances Drake

Look in the section in which your birthday comes and find what your outlook is, according to the stars.

For Friday, December 4, 1959

MARCH 21 to APRIL 20 (Aries) — Wonderful opportunities! Many planets are in auspicious positions. Laugh off irritating situations and maintain a cheerful outlook. Put your best foot forward — and achieve!

APRIL 21 to MAY 21 (Taurus)—Generous influences should help you solve difficult situations, handle laborious tasks. Scientific work, domestic interests, the artistic professions and mental work generally are under fine aspects. Avoid contension, however.

MAY 22 to JUNE 21 (Gemini)—This can be a big and important day for you. New ideas, study, writing and research especially favored. You can make real headway now. Don't become upset if you must revise plans. New ones will turn out for the better.

JUNE 22 to JULY 23 (Cancer)—Notable achievement is possible now. Inspiring and challenging ideas should stimulate your best efforts. Don't remain in the background. Exploit your best skills.

JULY 24 to AUGUST 23 (Leo)—A peak day for Leoites! Take advantage of all opportunities and make the best use of your talents. Secure present holdings; advance where you can.

AUGUST 24 to SEPTEMBER 23 (Virgo) — Your influences similar to those of Gemini. The day has grand opportunities. Both useful and artistic matters encouraged.

SEPTEMBER 24 to OCTOBER 23 (Libra) — You should have lively, ambitious and good ideas this generous planetary day. Laborious work, banking, real estate, artistic and scientific interests honored. Don't make rash promises, however.

OCTOBER 24 to NOVEMBER 22 (Scorpio) — Unusual ventures, if worthwhile, encouraged. A good period in which to expand, business-wise. Improve your skills, too.

NOVEMBER 23 to DECEMBER 21 (Sagittarius). — Rays stimulate ambition, ingenuity, some daring, perhaps. Business and financial transactions are governed by especially generous influences.

DECEMBER 22 to JANUARY 20 (Capricorn) — This day encourages your finest efforts, new trys. It's also a fine period in which to complete projects already started.

JANUARY 21 to FEBRUARY 19 (Aquarius) — Deal with superiors, exchange ideas with others who are making progress; try to get farther up front. Don't be content to stay put. Unfettered by anxiety, keep step with true progress, but be conservative as you advance.

FEBRUARY 20 to MARCH 20 (Pisces) — Take a hand in, and compete with, the best in your class. You are practical and artistic, perhaps scientifically-minded. Follow your ambition; but don't be disappointed if some things move slowly.

YOU BORN TODAY are frank, outspoken, capable of enduring much for your family's good and for the advancement of fine causes. Your clearcut honesty and fairness are fine qualities, and leave no doubt as to what you think and stand for. You have many talents and the qualities needed to achieve lasting success. Cultivate them daily. Birthdate: Thomas Carlyle, essayist, historian; Edith Cavell, British nurse, martyr.

Aunt Het

Sippin' soup from the side of your spoon is elegant, but slow, and I never saw a hearty eater waste time that way except in public.

EDMONTON (CP) — Progressive Conservative students at the University of Alberta Tuesday called for the resignation of pro-Kirby of Red Deer. The young PCS also asked for the resignation of the president, chairman of the finance committee and chairman of the public relations committee.

Large Crowd Attends Service Club Christmas Tea, Bazaar

Santa Clauses centred tea tables at the Church of Redeemer Service Club Christmas tea and bazaar, which attracted a capacity crowd Wednesday afternoon.

Individual tables, scattered throughout the Parish Hall, were centred with Santa figures made of pipe cleaners and floam plastic with sequins for eyes. These were set on a sprig of evergreen with silvered cones.

Poinsetttias, evergreens and red candles ornamented the large table at the front of the hall, and on the wall were evergreen boughs with poinsettias and colored Christmas balls. On the windowsills were boughs and candy canes.

Mrs. W. J. Silverwood and service club president Mrs. H. Whitely received guests at the seasonal event, and Mrs. A. C. VanSacker was cashier.

At the bake table were Mrs. E. E. Hopwood, Mrs. E. J. Smith, Mrs. E. S. W. Batty, Mrs. J. S. McIntosh and Mrs. N. H. Collett. Looking after the sewing, knitting and work articles were Miss J. Crabtree, Mrs. J. R. Taylor, Mrs. Stan Morris, Mrs. R. O. Christie, Mrs. E. G. Kidd and Mrs. L. W. Lehrle.

A Christmas tree hung with gifts and topped with an angel was the centre of attraction for youngsters. This was in charge of Mrs. William DeFoe and Mrs. A. W. Gibbon.

Serviteurs were Mrs. R. A. Phillips, Mrs. Fraser Tees, Mrs. Reginald Taylor, Mrs. H. F. Lake, Mrs. R. Roberts, Mrs. A. K. McAdams, Mrs. C. J. Hughes and Mrs. Robert Foxall.

In the kitchen were Mrs. A. L. Furman, Mrs. S. E. Briard, Mrs. J. P. Horswill, Mrs. E. K. Evans, Mrs. J. P. Favelle, Mrs. G. R. Coletti and Mrs. R. L. Anderson.

Fins Response To Gift Appeal Says Sorority

A "wonderful response" was reported from Beta Sigma Phi Sorority, which has been asking for Christmas gifts for mental patients on behalf of the Canadian Mental Health Association this year.

The sorority spent the weekend packing more than 600 gifts for mailing. The gifts were sent in to members of the three chapters who were working at the Capitol Theatre all day Saturday and again Sunday tagging and parcelling the mountain of gifts. They had appealed to individuals and organizations, both in the city and district.

District donors were asked to send their gifts directly to CMHA headquarters in Vancouver, and response from these centres was also "extremely good" according to a member of the sorority.

The gifts were mailed Monday to Coast headquarters where they will be sorted out as to suitability for individual patients, and name of the patient to receive each gift will be put on the tag with the donor's name. Christmas parties for the patients are held in mental hospital wards by local volunteer committees.

There are 6000 patients in British Columbia to receive the gifts.

CHILD WAS SICK

QUESNEL (CP) —Hazards of "off - the - highway" living were marked in the Cariboo district when 18-month-old Laura Bragg, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Bragg of Pelican Lake, was stricken with polio. Her father spent two days bulldozing a road through snow so she could be brought 75 miles to hospital here. Laura had a mild polio affliction and was reported to be recovering.

Christmas Centerpieces Give Seasonal Air to Pythian Tea

Guests at the Pythian Sisters tea and sale Wednesday enjoyed their afternoon tea in a Christmas atmosphere, with small seasonal decorations centering the individual tea tables.

They were greeted at the door by Mrs. James Bereau and Mrs. Norman Richardson, who was the cashier. Convener of the event was Mrs. I. J. Butcher.

Presiding at the tea table, which was centred with a large bouquet of lavender - shaded chrysanthemums, were Mrs. J. Johnson and Mrs. Lilliam Gray, and Mrs. H. Cain and Mrs. F. Norcross attended to preparation of tea and refreshments in the kitchen.

At the sale tables were Mrs. C. Robinson and Mrs. D. Heddle, who were in charge of the bake table; Mrs. F. H. Selby and Mrs. E. J. Olson looked after the sewing table, while Mrs. E. Swanson was in charge of the white elephant table.

Serviteurs were Mrs. E. Morgan, Mrs. Charles Isaakson, Mrs. W. H. Davis, Mrs. L. S. Ott and Mrs. K. C. Berryman.

Liberian Delegate at United Nations Becoming Legendary

By TOM HOGE

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) A loquacious woman lawyer from Liberia is on her way to becoming a UN legend.

Angie Brooks, 31, buxom, gingery daughter of a Liberian Baptist preacher has been bubbling forth views in the UN trusteeship committee for five years to the delight of the gallery.

Colleagues fondly refer to her as Our Miss Brooks after the television schoolmarm. They estimate she speaks out in the committee about once every 20 minutes, quite an average in a body of 82 delegates.

"It isn't so much how often she speaks," commented one delegate, "but what she says."

STARTLING APPROACH

Miss Brooks usually says whatever pops into her head. In a diplomatic forum usually guided by protocol, such an approach can be startling.

During heated debate on a trusteeship issue last year, Miss Brooks suddenly asked for the floor to announce she had just been named assistant foreign minister of Liberia.

"That gave us a bit of a start," said a delegate from the British Commonwealth, "but it didn't hold a candle to her remarks during the farewell speeches at the close of the 1959 session. When it came to Angie's, she informed us she would be happy to serve the following year as chairman of the committee. You could have heard a pin drop after that one."

The following year Miss Brooks was elected vice-chairman—only one step from her goal.

DEDICATED CRUSADER

Despite her ebullient manner, she is a dedicated crusader for the rights of African peoples. Last year she spearheaded a battle for women's votes in the British North Cameroons. She lost that campaign.

Miss Brooks is fond of pert cocktail hats festooned with sequins, and goes in heavily for costume jewelry. Her dresses usually are of native African fabric in bold patterns, smartly tailored.

Recently Miss Brooks gave a vivid demonstration of the unique place she holds in the estimation of fellow delegates. Arriving late for a session, she found a speaker had just wound up. Would he repeat his speech for her edification? This touched off a procedural hassle, but the delegate in question finally raised his hand. He would repeat his remarks, he said resignedly, to keep peace in the family.

Fair Board Holds Annual Meeting

The annual meeting of the Fall Fair Board which engineers the East Kootenay Agricultural and Industrial Exhibition elected a board of nine members at the annual meeting, from which the members will choose their own executive officers.

Named were George Annis, Beverly Harris, Ray Crook, Jim Boyle, E. E. Trethewey, Tony Lyenduk, E. C. Peatfield, Alfred Tegart and Winston Wolfenden.

Honorary president Norman Marples was renamed as were honorary vice-presidents Murray McFarlane, MP, R. O. Newton, MLA; Tom Uphill, MLA; Leo Nimsick, MLA; Joe Awmack, district agriculturist, and Alan Fry, Indian agent.

In his president's report, Mr. Harris termed the 1958-59 season successful.

The meeting enjoyed a moving picture of events and people at the 1959 fair which had been taken, edited and presented to the Fair Board by Peter Vallance of Calgary.

Future Royal Visits Likely To Be Often

By JACK BRAYLEY
Canadian Press Staff Writer

HALIFAX (CP) — The Queen's six - hour flight back to London from Halifax after the summer Royal Tour of Canada emphasizes that the monarch no longer is remote as to distance or personality. Future visits now can be simple excursions instead of complicated expeditions.

There's little doubt there will be more Royal Tours. Some of them may be nearly as big as the sometimes controversial 1959 progress that took the Queen 15,000 miles in 45 days, in some instances to spots that a few years ago seemed inaccessible to royalty.

So, if there aren't any royal tourists lunching in Montreal after breakfast in Buckingham Palace in the immediate future, it's a pretty safe bet we'll see them in 1967 — Canada's centenary year. By that time at least, Prince Charles will be old enough to see the country he learned about this year from a specially-selected officer of the Royal 22nd Regiment.

NEW TRAVELER

Anything is possible now that the mechanics of travel have changed. It required a steamship passage at both ends of the 1951 tour, plus time-consuming train journeys in limited movement across the country. With the safe and accepted role of jet aircraft, the Queen is closer to her subjects in Canada than her grandfather was to his in Scotland.

As for the concern about the Queen's staying power, she made it clear — at a time when only she and her immediate advisers knew about her pregnancy—that she thought the marathon tours were necessary and useful, that she could take them in her stride and that she was ready for any future similar assignments.

Leading Canadians—like Prime Minister Diefenbaker and Rt. Hon. Vincent Massey — are on record as agreeing with her on the need and value of the tours but they had reservations and concern about taking advantage of her willingness.

The prime minister, who certainly must have had a big say in planning the trip, told the Queen publicly on the eve of her departure it had been "sometimes too arduous an ordeal." He added significantly that he hoped she might be able to make "less formal and less strenuous visits and vacations" in the future.

EXPECTS SHORTER TOURS

On his return from a stint of Buckingham Palace service, Esmond Butler, the new secretary to the Governor-General, said: "It's felt that six-week Canadian coast-to-coast tours are a thing of the past. . .the Queen will likely make more frequent visits for specific Canadian engagements and shorter regional tours."

Both the Queen and the prime minister emphasized in several speeches that Rideau Hall was her Canadian home — giving the vice-regal residence a new significance. So, based on present knowledge from reliable sources, it is believed the program for a future tour will be a compromise on what the Queen feels to be her rewarding duty and what her Canadian advisers think her stamina will take.

But the mechanics of Royal Tours aren't the only change since the days when formality was almost on a basis of reverence. This time—and in spite of some authoritative pre-tour forecasts of indifference and even opposition — the Queen and Canadians got together in an easy friendliness and unceremonious informality that set a new pattern for royal relations.

As a result, planners say it would be easy for the Queen to make a fast trip to Ottawa any time for a brief, relaxed stay at Rideau Hall because there's no longer any formidable barrier of sheltering protocol between the Queen and her easy-going Canadians.

BRITANNIA BIG HELP

Another comforting factor introduced in the '59 tour was the use of the royal yacht Britannia for some of the toughest milage and there is little doubt the Queen will use it, where possible, in future.

Many think the Queen's day will be cut by at least two hours to give her more time for relaxation after she finishes her routine paper work.

Also there will be little change in the program that usually brings wide criticism of repetition and dullness. The Queen made it clear, as she conscientiously participated at each similar function, that she appreciated the effort that had gone into it and that it was not dull or repetitious for the people involved. As for the endless reception lines, they'll likely be just as endless in the future for the Queen feels she must meet as many representatives of the people as possible.

One suggestion that she made privately will likely be acted upon. That is that a future tour should be held in the spring or fall—a better season to see more children who were scattered in vacation spots when she was here in July.

Business Picks Up On B.C. Coast

VANCOUVER (CP) — Business is picking up for the lumber and newsprint industry on the British Columbia coast.

A survey of industry sources Tuesday indicated orders are coming in steadily from the large market on the United States Atlantic coast, although prices to that area are about $15 a thousand board feet lower than last summer.

Housing was regarded as a question mark in both U.S. and Canadian markets. Home building was expected to decline, but much would depend on interest rates and government policy.

United Kingdom business was reported to be good in the specialty items which now comprise much of the B.C. market. Newsprint sales to America sources were also up, by five per cent.

Indian Official Impressed By Canada's Wild Life Work

By ARTHUR WILKES
Canadian Press Staff Writer

OTTAWA (CP) — An official from India plans recommendations to his government based on ideas he gathered during a six-month study of Canadian wildlife projects this year.

M. A. Badshah, chief of the Madras forest service, said in an interview here that he was "most impressed" with Canada's wildlife work. In Canada under auspices of the Colombo plan he travelled some 20,000 miles, mostly by car, working on and studying numerous wildlife projects in Ontario and the four western provinces.

"Canadians do much work but still aren't satisfied," said the 49-year-old expert who has been engaged in wildlife conservation in his country for 26 years.

"Canadian wildlife field men work long hours and are away from their families for long periods. I hardly had a weekend to myself."

MAJOR FINDINGS

He said his recommendations will include:

1. A population survey to determine the various species of wildlife in India and their approximate numbers.

2. Bird banding similar to Canada's well-organized program.

3. Acquring of more biologists to study wildlife behavior — particularly the wild dog.

Wild dogs in India, similar to coyotes in Canada, travel in packs of 50 to 100 and kill thousands of deer annually.

"This has been worrying us for years," Mr. Badshah said. New traps and poisons would be tried and the dogs' behavior studied more closely.

TAME IN PARKS

He joined Canadian field men studying caribou, moose, deer, wolf, bear and other wildlife.

"I was very fascinated by your bear, moose, caribou and elk. The animals were so tame in your parks that I was able to photograph them from as close as six feet. This shows they are very well taken care of."

The broad - shouldered Indian, who looks as if he could tangle with a bear, said India has 30 to 40 sanctuaries, including reserves for rhinoceros, lions and water buffalo.

"We now are working on formation of a national park in Madras."

Mr. Badshah agreed with his Canadian counterparts that the general public isn't well enough acquainted with wildlife work and how it affects them.

He said India plans to inaugurate a wildlife week next year. An appeal would be made to all hunters to stop shooting for the week Oct. 1-7.

Films would be shown and lectures given in schools and badges with a "save wildlife" theme would be distributed.

Wildlife sancuaries would be thrown open to the public and visitors would be asked to take a pledge that they would help preserve the wildlife resources.

Football Men Reliable In War and Peace – MacArthur

NEW YORK (AP) — "In war and in peace, in football men I have found my greatest reliance."

The words came from Gen. Douglas MacArthur, who Tuesday night received the National Football Foundation's gold medal award for contributions to the sport.

"No one ever deserved the honor less or treasured it more," he said.

MacArthur was principal guest at a $50-a-plate dinner which also honored 10 new inductees into United States football's hall of fame.

Still firm of voice despite his near 80 years, the general told how a succession of presidents had attached great importance to football and how graduates of the sport distinguished themselves in battle.

He cited incidents involving end Jim Trent and quarterback Arnie Galiffa of Army's great 1949 team.

Trent, he said was defending an important flank in the Korean campaign when he fell, mortally wounded. But the enemy did not break through.

QUOTES LAST WORDS

"Through bloody lips," MacArthur said, "Captain Trent gasped just before he died: 'Stupid, thinking they could turn my end.'"

Galiffa, famed for his passes, was leading an assault against a stubborn enemy line. The enemy refused to yield. Galiffa's platoon moved to within 30 yards of the enemy and began tossing hand grenades.

The line cracked and MacArthur quoted Galiffa as exulting: "Colonel Blaik (Earl Blaik, former army football coach) always told me when I couldn't move on the ground to take to the air."

Galiffa, now out of football, once played for Toronto Argonauts of the Big Four and British Columbia Lions of the Western Interprovincial Football Union.

Added to the hall of fame were: Henry Disbrow Phillips, James (Stan) Keck, Herman Hickman, Clarence (Biggie) Munn, Doak Walker, Charles Trippi, James Banks McFadden, Carl Hinkle, Bobby Dodd and Doc Blanchard.

MENZIES IN INDONESIA

JAKARTA, Indonesia (Reuters) Australia's Prime Minister Robert Menzies arrived here Tuesday by air for a week-long visit which diplomats believe can set the tone of relations between the two countries for years to come. The Australian leader, who will spend five days in Malay after leaving Indonesia, will meet government leaders and have private talks with President Sukarno.

Forest Fire Figures Show B.C. Careful

VICTORIA (CP) —Forest fires in British Columbia last summer burned more than 273,631 acres and did $2,212,418 damage, Lands and Forests Minister Williston said Tuesday.

The province recorded 2,010 fires during the summer months and fighting them cost the taxpayers directly, $678,000.

The figures were above the 1952-57 yearly average of 1,642 fires but was extremely light compared to the $5,500,000 fire-fighting bill in 1958.

Operating railways caused the most fires with a total of 641 marked up against them. Miscellaneous known — mostly range fires in the Cariboo District—totalled 443.

Smokers caused 211; forest industries, 204; lightning 184; campers and travellers 172—well below the average in most previous years.

"The figures show," said Mr. Williston, "that the average British Columbian today is more careful with fire in the woods especially with more people than ever before using our forests."

Finesse Will Win—Webb

By JACK STEVENSON

LOGAN, Utah (AP) — Middleweight challenger Spider Webb predicts ring finesse will carry him to the NBA championship here Friday night when he battles titlist Gene Fullmer.

"He's strong and smart but he doesn't have the finesse of some fighters I've seen," declares the former collegiate star who turned pro after the 1952 Olympic games.

"I have the equipment to beat him. I think I punch sharper than he does."

Webb said his ring strategy depends largely on what the champion does.

"NOBODY KNOWS"

"Nobody knows what Fullmer will do," he says. "You'll see my strategy as the fight progresses."

The televised 15-round bout in the Utah State University Fieldhouse marks the first defence for Fullmer of the title he won last August 28 in San Francisco by stopping Carmen Basilio in the 14th round. The NBA designated that fight to decide the championship after stripping it from Ray Robinson for not defending.

Before he captured the crown, Fullmer beat Webb by a decision over 10 rounds.

ONE MISTAKE

"I thought I had that fight won going into the eighth round," Spider declares. "I just made a mistake by going on the defensive to protect my lead. His bull rushing type of fighting made him look good in the final rounds."

The fighters, both 28, have wound up heavy workouts.

Since losing the verdict to Fullmer, Webb has stopped four straight foes — Joey Giardello, Terry Downes, Bobby Boyd and Neal Rivers. Fullmer hasn't been beaten since Ray Robinson stopped him on May 1, 1957, to take back the title after Fullmer held it four months.

Brown Retains Title On Technical KO

HOUSTON, Tex. (AP)—Joe Brown retained his world lightweight boxing championship Wednesday night when Dave Charnley, the British challenger, suffered a deep cut over the right eye and the fight was stopped in the fifth round.

It went as a technical knockout.

The end came as Brown looped a left hook to Charnley's head just before the round ended. Charnley, the British Empire champion, staggered back and put his hand to his head as the bell rang.

Referee Jimmy Webb stopped the fight with Charnley sitting in his corner with his handlers working over him.

It was Brown's eighth title defence in three years.

A crowd of about 6,500 saw the first international championship fight in Texas.

Brown weighed 134 pounds, Charnley 133¾.

Brown, the little Louisiana Negro who has held the championship since Aug. 24, 1956, was ahead on points when the end came. He had opened a cut under Charnley's left eye in the second round and in the third had pummelled the stocky Briton with left-right combinations.

Charnley did well in the fourth, but in the fifth Brown started out with a left hook to the head and Charnley came in close for an exchange. Then came Brown's left that finished Charnley.

TIED RECORD

By winning Brown tied the all-time record for defences of the title in this class. Benny Leonard set it before retiring in 1925.

Webb scored the fight 50-46 for Brown under the 10-point must system. Judge Ernie Taylor had it 49-46 and judge W. H. Cornelius 50-45. The Associated Press card was 50-45.

Charnley and his manager, Arthur Boggis, claimed it was an unintentional butt and not a blow that opened the cut over the challenger's eye in the second and Boggis said he asked the referee to stop the fight.

Webb said, however, that it was not a butt but a blow to the head. He said it was a right although it looked like a left from ringside.

Brown, taller and with a longer reach, never let Charnley inside. Instead he kept circling to keep away from the Englishmen's left —he is a southpaw—and would tag Charnley with his flicking left, then hook with his right to the body or chin.

Charnley's face was crimson after the first round. Brown got his combinations working by the third round. Charnley was boring in but seldom could reach Brown because of the latter's superiority in reach.

Canadiens' Win Streak Broken by Maple Leafs

By The Canadian Press

Toronto Maple Leafs outchecked and outbumped the Montreal Canadiens Wednesday night and collected a 1-0 win over the high-flying National Hockey League leaders. The Canadiens were knocked down after a winning streak of 18 games.

Big Frank Mahovlich, in the dog house lately for poor showing in scoring plays, scored the lone goal. Goaltender Johnny Bower collected his second shutout of the season.

A late goal by Ron Murphy enabled Chicago Black Hawks to tie Boston Bruins 2-2 in the other NHL game Wednesday, a penalty-fight-filled meeting.

Leafs' win, their fourth in five games, moved them four points ahead of third-place Detroit and to within eight points of front-running Montreal.

BREAK STRING

Besides ending Canadiens' undefeated streak, Leafs halted Jean Beliveau's scoring string at seven straight games.

It was the first time Canadiens had been shut out since last Dec. 31 when Leafs blanked them 2-0 here.

Bower and Jacques Plante, the Montreal netminder, were by far the two best players on the ice. Time and again both goalies performed fantastic acrobatics to keep the puck out of their nets.

Bower made 28 stops, including at least three really big ones. Plante had 29 saves and was in no way responsible for the lone shot which beat him near the mid-way mark of the first period.

Mahovlich, standing just beside the Montreal net, flicked the puck over Plante's body after the netminder had fallen to stop defenceman Marc Reaume's long drive from the blueline. The goal, at 8:23, was the fourth by Mahovlich this season and his second game-winning counter.

GREAT GAME

It was a great game, one of the best seen here and a sellout crowd of 14,632 fans, the largest here in 13 years, got their money's worth.

Bower's biggest saves were against Marcel Bonin, Beliveau and Ab McDonald. At 11:30 of the second period, Beliveau blazed a 25-footer but Bower just got the toe of his skate on the shot.

He made the key save of the game at 6:16 of the third when Bonin broke in all alone but couldn't get Bower to make the first move. Bower successfully smothered Bonin's close-in drive.

Plante's biggest save was against Dick Duff with four minutes to play. Duff was left unprotected at the right of the Montreal net but Plante slid across the goal to get his toe on the low drive.

Shortly before Murphy's tying tally, the Bruins had taken a 2-1 lead on goals by Bronco Horvath and Doug Mohns, which came less than a minute apart.

HULL'S 11TH GOAL

Chicago's first goal, Bobby Hull's 11th of the season, had broken a wild scoreless tie at the 6:07 mark of the last period.

The tie moved Chicago into undisputed possession of fifth place. The Hawks had been tied for the spot with idle New York.

Eric Nesterenko of the Hawks and Boston's big Vic Stasiuk engaged in the wildest battle of the angry contest. Late in the first period they came up from a tangle behind the Chicago cage and began punching. The battle continued for several seconds before officials broke it up, Nesterenko getting a five-minute fighting penalty and Stasiuk getting a total of 20 minutes in assessments. He was given five for fighting, five more for drawing Nesterenko's blood with a high stick and a 10-minute misconduct. Six stitches were required to close a cut on Nesterenko's scalp.

Goalies Harry Lumley of the Bruins and Glen Hall of Chicago put in busy nights with Lumley turning in the stronger performance. He was credited with 39 stops to only 20 for Hall.

U OF F LOSES BOB WOODRUFF

GAINESVILLE, Fla. (AP)—Bob Woodruff resigned Wednesday as head football coach and athletic director at the University of Florida. A successor has not yet been named.

Woodruff took the Florida post in 1950 and his teams have won 53 games, lost 42 and tied six. The 1959 squad won five, lost four and tied one.

The former Tennessee tackle has been under fire this season since a 13-13 tie with Rice followed by an upset 13-6 loss to Vanderbilt.

Thunderbirds Edge Cloverleafs 66-64

VANCOUVER (CP) — University of British Columbia Thunderbirds came up with a strong fourth quarter Tuesday night to gain a close 66-64 win over Vancouver Cloverleafs in an inter-city basketball game.

The university team then jumped to a seven-point lead in the fourth quarter and held on as Leafs crept to within two points.

High scorer for the Birds was Wayne Osborne with 27. High for the losers were Chuck Dean and Lorne Holyoak each with 14 points.

Thunderbirds — Osborne (27), Martin (16), Lusk (4), Drummond (4), Way (4), Pedersen (4), Winslade (3), Treleaven (2), Totkanjak (2), Gushue, Hartley, Berardino. Total — 66.

Leafs — Dean (14), Holyoak (14), Heathcote (10), Jennings (10), Lorenz (5) Terris (3), Olafsen (3) Braithwaite (2), Lescinson (2), Gimple (1), Glover. Total — 64.

40 Inch, Near-Record Rainbow Trout Netted

SANDPOINT, Idaho (CP) — A near-record rainbow trout caught Sunday would have broken the recognized world record if it had been weighed officially immediately after being landed, angler Cecil Hulbert said Wednesday.

Hulbert, of Spokane, Wash., landed the rainbow after a 10-minute battle in Lake Pend Oreille. When placed on scales at a resort on the lake shore shortly after being landed, it weighed 39 pounds, 12 ounces, Hulbert said.

But by the time he had taken it to a state-tested scales for official weighing—three hours later—it had shrunk to 36 pounds, eight ounces. It was 40 inches long and 28 inches in girth.

RECORD 37 POUNDS

The world record recognized by Field and Stream Magazine is 37 pounds. The record fish was caught by Wes Hamlet of Coeur d'Alene, Idaho, Nov. 25, 1947, and measured 40½ inches in length and 28 inches in girth.

Hulbert called his trout a Kamloops, but a Field and Stream spokesman said the Kamloops is a sub-species of rainbow and is grouped with the rainbow and steelhead trout for the magazine's records.

The spokesman said the magazine has no record of a 52 pound, eight ounce kamloops caught in Jewell Lake, B. C., in 1933.

This fish is believed to be the Canadian record for kamloops.

Hulbert had been trolling, using a five-inch flatfish as lure, before the fish struck. He was using a five-foot trolling rod and a drag-type reel with 500 feet of 20-pound test line and 100 feet of 10-pound test monofilament.

100-FOOT LINE

He said he didn't have any luck trolling with about 500 feet of line out, so he reeled in 400 feet, leaving out only the 100 feet of monofilament.

The flatfish was running near the surface when the rainbow struck. As it took the lure in its mouth, one of the treble hooks caught the edge of one of the fish's gill coverings. The pressure on the line kept the gill covering closed interfering with the trout's breathing and preventing it putting up a good fight.

After Hulbert brought the fish to the boat and netted it, he removed the hooks and the rainbow "just about tore the net to pieces" he said.

The fish was so big it bent the aluminum landing net out of shape.

Hockey Refs School Tonight

The first of 3 instruction sessions for minor and commercial hockey referees will get under way tonight at 8 o'clock in the Civic Arena.

The first session from 8 to 9:30 will be spent on discussion of the rule book and the more important rules of the game. The last hour from 9:30 to 10:30 will be a practical session down on the arena with referees actually spending time on positional play, methods of facing-off, and working on improving their system of refereeing during Minor League Hockey games.

Bernie Loff, referee in chief for minor and commercial hockey, will lead the informal discussions on the rule book, while both he and Ernie Gare will work with the referees on the actual ice practices.

Referees asked to attend are John Misurelli, Atillio Mores, Arnold Sherwood, Mickey McMasters, Buddy Andrews, Vic Smtih, Danny Lang, Benny Arcure, Dave Elywyn, Ray Stack, Irwin Black.

The sessions are the first in a series of three to be spread out during the entire season with the hope of having the last session as a full day scheduled clinic under the supervision of a WIHL referee, similar to the one sponsored by the Nelson Recreation Commission Western International Joint League and the Nelson Minor Hockey Association open to all interested referees in the West Kootenay.

SENTINEL TOPS IN FIRST MATCH

SOUTH SLOCAN — The first basketball match between Mount Sentinel Junior-Senior High School and New Denver was played at Mt. Sentinel, with the home team winning both games.

The first contest saw the Sentinel girls romp to an easy 24-9 win over New Denver. They were paced by Gloria Catton with nine points. High scorer for the visitors was Cathy Markin with six points.

Mt. Sentinel also won the second game 41-28, in which the South Slocan boys met the New Denver team. Dwight Jones and Pat Latondras led the winners with 13 markers each. New Denver's David Gruenhousen led his team with seven.

The game was the first match of a new Slocan Valley league which takes in the Mount Sentinel school, New Denver, Nakusp and Kaslo.

SEEKS ANGRY YOUNG MEN

MONTREAL (CP)—W. J. Sheridan, assistant ganeral manager of the Canadian Chamber of Commerce, calls for more angry young men to fight the world's apathy towards evil. Addressing the young men's section of the Montreal Board of Trade Tuesday night, he said there is too much lethargy towards and acceptance of such things as fixed prize fights and television quizzes, misleading advertising, juvenile delinquency and "mink coats and politicians."

Labor Member Suggests Nuclear Force To Reduce Relying On U.S.

PARIS (Reuters) — A British Labor member of parliament proposed Wednesday that Western Europe create a nuclear striking force for "limited war" to lessen its dependence on the United States.

Fred Mulley told the seven-country Western European Union Assembly that intercontinental ballistic missiles have diminished fence.

No European country, therefore, could reasonably expect the U.S. to expose itself to nuclear retaliation in response to any and every attack on Western Europe.

In the absence of disarm ament agreements or a "non - nuclear club," Europe's answer to limited aggression lies in the creation of a joint nuclear striking force, Mulley said.

This would create several problems. "Britain would have to give up being an independent nuclear power and supply the initial basis for such a European nuclear pool.

"There is also the question of agreements with the United States which forbid the passing on of nuclear information. These agreements would need to be modified."

Paul - Henri Spaak, secretary-general of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization, Tuesday criticized Mulley's proposals, which had been released earlier in a report.

Spaak argued that it is dangerous for Western Europe to accept the idea of limited warfare. He could not imagine an attack on any NATO country being called a limited war.

URGES CO-OPERATION

He asked instead for the West to face boldly Russia's challenge of peaceful coexistence, and urged greater concentration of political, economic and military co-operation within NATO.

Mr. Spaak told the assembly the Western world should tackle the problem of aid to underdeveloped countries in the face of Soviet Communist penetration.

DAILY CRYPTOQUOTE — Here's how to work it:

A X Y D L B A A X R
is L O N G F E L L O W

One letter simply stands for another. In this sample A is used for the three L's, X for the two O's, etc. Single letters, apostrophes, the length and formation of the words are all hints. Each day the code letters are different.

Massey To Chair Commonwealth Study Conference

LONDON (CP) — British government officials have warmly welcomed the decision of former governor-general Vincent Massey to accept the chairmanship of the second Commonwealth study conference.

The Commonwealth relations office was reported Monday to be particularly gratified that the second conference to be held in Canada in July, 1962, will be under Massey's direction.

Prince Philip, president of the study conference, is understood to have sent a message of thanks to Massey, who is well known here as a former Canadian high commissioner in London. Philip was chairman of the first conference, held at Oxford in 1956.

The conferences are designed to study and dramatize the effect of changing industrial trends in Commonwealth countries.

Explosion Deaths Accidental

VANCOUVER (CP) — A coroner's jury ruled Tuesday the death of two men last week following an explosion at the B.C. Electric plant at Bridge River was accidental. It recommended a review of operational procedures at the plant to ensure more positive communication between employees.

Plant superintendent C. L. Hunt, 56, and sub-foreman C. S. Johnson, 42, both of Shalalth, died of injuries after they were showered with hot oil and metal fragments when a 12,000 - volt transformer exploded. A third man escaped with less-severe injuries.

UN Official Says No Pressure Used Against Birth Control

VICTORIA (CP) — Dr. Brock Chisholm, former director - general of the World Health Organization, said Tuesday night the United Nation's population commission has not recommended any action on its latest report because it would conflict with the Roman Catholic Church's stand against birth control.

"It's common knowledge that the Roman Catholic Church controls a lot of government committees and commissions," he said in an interview. "But you won't catch a Canadian politician saying so."

Dr. Chisholm said the Church's ban on birth control through artificial means should be eliminated by the Church.

The Canadian Press erroneously reported Monday that Dr. Chisholm said the Church was controlling the release of "terrifying" information on world population increases, and that a recent UN report on world population increases was not given out because of the Church's position regarding birth control.

UN OFFICIAL COMMENTS

In New York a UN official said the Church had not attempted pressure against the UN's latest report.

"It is purely a routine matter for our reports to be published when they are ready," said the official, who asked that his name not be used.

UN reports estimate the world population at the end of this century will be about 6,300,000,000 compared with 2,800,000,000 now.

"Birth control alone is not the answer," the official said, adding it involved industrialization, improved agriculture, land reform and economic development in general.

"Each expert believes he has the solution. The solution for each country must come from within the country."

Business Spotlight . . .

Nfld. Community Centres Great Potential Area

This south coast community is the heart of an area in which economic assayers find great potential. But developments, if any, are in the future.

It has been tagged as a region with great potential as a port and industrial region.

Premier Smallwood and others have endorsed the idea of a third Newfoundland paper mill here. The British Newfoundland Corporation has had the area surveyed as a likely prospect for the development of hydro power.

Back in 1957 the new-defunct Newfoundland south coast commission called it the most likely place for industrial development in Newfoundland. With interests at the time along Premier Smallwood's line of thinking, the commission estimated that the area could produce between 35,000 and 40,000 cords of wood annually for 20 years.

The bay is ice - free the year round. This, on many occasions, has brought suggestions for a harbor development that could make the village a major shipping port. Situated between St. John's and Port aux Basques the bay is located near world shipping lanes.

As for accessibility, from the interior and other sections of the province, there's just one means at present—a woods road built and owned by Bowater's Pulp and Paper Mill Ltd. of Corner Brook. But the provincial government has proposed the building of a road from the trans-Canada highway at Grand Falls, about 75 miles to the north.

Another suggestion of the south coast commission was a refining plant for metals produced in Newfoundland.

Besides a base metal mine at Buchans, producing lead, copper and zinc concentrates, there are two copper mines on the Burlington peninsula.

MARKET TRENDS

TORONTO (CP) — The stock market climbed higher Wednesday amid moderately heavy trading.

Industrials led index winners gaining more than three-quarters of a point. Western oils were next in line, increasing slightly more than one - quarter point, while golds went up several decimal points.

Base metals were the only loser falling one-quarter point.

Final volume for the day was 2,165,000 shares, much heavier than Tuesday's 1,885,000 shares but below Monday's final turnover of 2,197,000.

Eddy Paper led industrial winners with a gain of two points at 62 on a single sale of 50 shares.

Empire Life Insurance took the biggest loss going down three points on a single sale of 25 shares.

Mines were relatively quiet with only a few lower-priced issues actively trading. However, it was a bad day for senior uraniums. Algom, the only one of the three managing to keep above $10 fell off ⅛ at 11. Consolidated Denison dropped 25 cents at $9.65. Gunnar lost 15 cents at $9.10 and earlier in the day it struck a new low when it fell to $9.00.

Western oils, with the exception of a few lower-priced issues such as American Leduc and Spooner, were quiet.

NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market tried mightily Wednesday to extend its recent rally, but just wasn't equal to the task.

Early gains were erased and by the close losses reaching a point and more were fairly common.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks declined 50 cents to $225.10.

Utilities, nonferrous metals, oils and rails were the only major groups still mixed by the close. Steels were weakened by a loss of 1 by Republic and U. S. Steel's ⅞ decline. These more than offset Lukens' gain of ⅝ and a 1-point increase by Youngstown Sheet and Tube.

American Motors and Studebaker-Packard ran one-two on the most active list. American Motors, leading the way in volume for the third straight day, was off ⅛ at 83⅜ on 124,600 shares while Studebaker - Packard was off ⅜ at 21⅛ on 82,400 shares. Ford lost 1⅞ and General Motors a minor fraction.

Standard Oil (New Jersey) provided a ray of hope for its group by placing third on the most active list with a gain of 1 to 48¾ on 47,900 shares.

Volume declined to 3,490,000.

Among the Canadian stocks, McIntyre Porcupine rose ¾, International Nickel, ⅜, and Dome Mines, ¼. Hudson Bay Mining and Aluminium Ltd. both dropped ⅝ and Walker Gooderham fell ⅜.

American Stock Exchange prices were mixed on volume of 1,520,000 shares.

Molybdenite and Fargo Oil, both gained 1-16 while Canadian Marconi lost ⅛ and Jupiter Oils 1-16 on the Canadian list.

MONTREAL (CP) — Prices were irregularly higher Wednesday during moderately active trading on the Montreal and Canadian stock exchanges.

All sections but golds closed with increases on index in a session in which utilities saw most of the action in late trading.

Jamaica featured the section with a gain of 1½ at 31½. Fractional gainers included B. C. Power, Calgary Power and Brazilian.

Papers were up on index on the strength of one-point gains by International at 129¾ and Price Brothers at 84 and fractional gains by Great Lakes, Fraser and Abitibi.

Canada Iron Foundries dropped 1½ at 20 to lead steels down.

Half-point gains in base metals went to Nickel at 100½ and Noranda at 45½ with Hudson Bay off the same at 49.

Pipelines were firm on one-point gains by Interprovincial at 57½ and Union Gas at 17. Trans-Mountain made ½ at 11½ and Trans-Canada dropped the same at 25.

Banks had half - point increase in Royal at 79 and Nova Scotia at 70½.

Volumes were 93,700 industrials and 273,600 mines and oils.

Closing averages showed banks up .9 at 59.18, utilities up .9 at 143.2, industrials up 1.4 at 310.0, combined up 1.3 at 254.4, papers up .5 at 445.1 and golds off .6 at a new low of 78.32.

FARMERS IN TROUBLE

REGINA (CP) — Saskatchewan Liberal leader Ross Thatcher said Tuesday the CCF government should call an emergency session of the legislature to deal with the agricultural crisis in northern Saskatchewan. He said thousands of farmers in the northern part of the province are facing hardship as the winter begins.

SEEKS RE-ELECTION

ENDERBY (CP) — Mayor J. B. Smith announced he will seek re-election at the Dec. 17 civic elections.

Ike Warns Steel Strikers of Gov't Action

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Eisenhower implied strongly Wednesday that the government will take decisive action to settle the steel strike if management and labor do not reach agreement before a federal back-to-work injunction expires.

If the parties cannot get anywhere by their bargaining, he told his press conference, the government cannot sit idly on its hands.

Eisenhower said further that it would be a bad day for the United States if the government was obliged to step in and abridge the right of free collective bargaining.

Anybody Can Make Million Dollars Says One Who Has

NEW YORK (AP) — "If I succeeded, anyone can succeed," said J. J. Freke-Hayes, whom courage made a millionaire.

"I don't understand healthy people who don't make the grade. You can do whatever you decide to—if you put your mind to it."

The life of Freke-Hayes, founder of the $178,000,000-a-year telephone answering industry in the U.S., bears vivid testimony to the truth of his creed.

Jay, now 59, is a man who simply doesn't know how to quit.

WORKED ALONE

Thirty-nine years ago, as a young clerk in Akron, O., Jay was paralyzed after an injury in a dive into shallow water.

First the doctors said he would die, then they told him he would never walk again.

"I didn't believe it," he recalled. "I don't know whether it was faith or ignorance. But I knew I was going to walk."

Stubbornly and alone Jay worked at his reluctant muscles until, almost by sheer willpower, he could move haltingly about under his own power.

In 1921 he conceived the idea of a direct telephone answering service for doctors. Painfully he tottered from door to door here until he got 12 doctors to put up $120 each to start the service.

"For a year I ran it myself, sleeping at night by the switchboard," he said. "Then I hired a girl to run the service during the day, and I set out to get new business."

OFTEN FELL

Few salesmen ever had to sell under greater handicaps. Paralysis lingered in his left foot and made every step perilous. Fifteen to 20 times a day Jay would fall to the ground, pick himself up and move on to his next call.

By 1953 Freke-Hayes had 30 telephone answering exchanges, 7,000 subscribers, 500 employees and was grossing more than $3,000,000 a year. He sold out and moved to Babson Park, Fla., intending to retire and take life easy.

But again he found he simply couldn't quit. He now has 10 more telephone answering exchanges, and is ready to launch out in a new field—organic farming.

Khrushchev Indicates Meeting Objections To Hungarian Aid

BUDAPEST (AP) — Nikita Khrushchev indicated Wednesday that he sent troops and tanks to put down the 1956 revolution in Hungary over the opposition of some of his Kremlin comrades.

"At the time of the counter-revolution in 1956," the Soviet premier told a meeting of workers, "we thought in the Soviet Union on how we could help against the counter-revolutionary forces.

"Some Soviet comrades expressed anxiety that any aid would be misconstrued. But we said that in time they would see we were right and we had to help the working class."

Khrushchev declared that in 1956 "the saliva of the imperialists was running in their mouths at the prospects of Hungary leaving the socialist camp."

The Soviet leader was taking time out from Hungary's seventh Communist party congress to address workers at Budapest's giant Ganz - Mawag engineering and railway factory.

COMMUNISTS SUPPRESSED

Khrushchev said the West was not ashamed to put down the Greek Communist uprising after the Second World War—"capitalism never hesitates to preserve another capitalist regime."

He said the external forces of imperialism no longer constitute any danger to the Communist bloc.

"Our strength is greater than theirs. Our armaments are better. Our rockets are on the moon. Their's have fallen into the sea."

Khrushchev said a relaxation in international tension was not due to "imperialist efforts, but to ours. We will see that the warming-up process continues."

Shipping Companies View Jet Air-Freight In Alarm

By STEWART MacLEOD
Canadian Press Staff Writer

BELFAST (CP)—As swift jet aircraft bring Australia within one day of Britain, shipping companies are up against frightening competition. The sea voyage takes four weeks.

The only answer, say shipping experts, is to make the trip into a monumental holiday.

The Peninsular and Oriental Steam Navigation Company, biggest Britain-Pacific carrier, plans to take a crack at it.

Company officials point proudly to the giant hull of the 45,000-ton Canberra, being whipped into shape at the Harland and Wolff Shipbuilding yard here. Next March she will slip down the ways and, boast the owners, she will be about the hottest thing afloat.

LIFE OF LUXURY

Slicing through the water at 27½ knots, the Canberra will clip a week off the Britain-Australia schedule while her 2,250 passengers live a life of luxury. Nothing like existing ships, say the owners.

The Canberra, in some ways, won't even resemble conventional ships. Her bow, instead of being sharp, will have a huge bulb below the water line, which, scientists say, gives better performance at high speeds. Conventional funnels will be replaced by two small stacks at the stern. They will sit side by side.

Lifeboats won't hang from top decks. They will be tucked in nooks half way down the ship's side. This will make room for private verandahs.

Engines will be in the stern—first time it has been done in a big liner. The superstructure will be built of aluminum, another first for a big ship.

LITTLE ROLL

Four stabilizers will reduce roll to three degrees.

This is some of the standard equipment in cabins: Air conditioning, iced drinking water, wall-to-wall carpets, soundproof walls and light switches, radios broadcasting from the ship's two stations, showers and indirect lighting.

Some inside cabins have companionways leading to private verandahs.

The public sections of the ship will include half a dozen games areas, three swimming pools, a sunken dance floor for open-air parties, coffee bars, canteens, a teen-age room with juke box, movie theatres and automatic luggage conveyors. Like other ships, it will have such things as nurseries, laundries and hospital facilities.

The £15,000,000 Canberra, biggest ship built in Britain since the Queen Elizabeth in 1937, will make regular calls at Vancouver.

Award Priest Britain's George Medal

LONDON (Reuters) — The colonial office Tuesday announced the George Medal has been awarded to a Roman Catholic French missionary for quelling a "threatening mob" in Northern Rhodesia while alone and unarmed.

The medal, highest British civilian honor for gallantry that can be awarded to a foreigner, goes to Father Agustine Louis Boumier, 52, of the White Fathers mission at Santa Maria on Chilubi Island, Northern Rhodesia.

The citation describes how last March "a rioting crowd" attacked the district commissioner and members of his party at Muchinshi on Chilubi Island. Two European officers were wounded, one critically, and four rioters were killed.

When the news reached Father Boumier at his mission 10 miles away, he hurried to the spot on his motorcycle and, alone and unarmed, went to meet the rioters.

The crowd was in a dangerous mood, engaged in looting and burning government buildings.

Father Boumier succeeded in pacifying them "by the sustained exercise of moral and physical courage of the highest order."

TO SEE RUSSIAN ART

LONDON (CP) — Eighty Russian paintings will be exhibited at the Montreal Museum of Fine Arts next March, it was learned Tuesday. Murray Chipman, chairman of the museum's 1960 centennial exhibition, said the paintings will be shown later in Toronto and probably in Ottawa. Chipman has just concluded an 11-day visit to Russia. He described the Russian collections as "mouthwatering in their glory."

Odds... and Ends

... by M. D. B.

What kind of an animal was that hurrying along, we wondered. It had antlers, but it was built too low to the ground to qualify for any of the deer family. Never did city streets see such an oddity. A dog had found a set of antlers and with the skull bone in his mouth the antlers mounted up from either side of his face giving him the most incongruous look you can imagine.

On my days off when the opportunity presents itself I like to watch the day's ending and take joy in the changing colors of the western sky. It gives a feeling of space and timelessness and a measure of peace, difficult to describe. I often wonder if the twilight of living holds the same contentment or whether we rebel against the aging process to the end. At any rate that strange afterglow of day is wonderful to watch during all seasons when the weather is clear.

* * *

Glancing through my notebook, I find a few notes on this subject made at Lakeside park one warm day last summer, which I had not shared with you. So while the wintry winds finger their way around windows and doors and the days grow shorter join me on this warm summer evening, on the sand at Lakeside Park.

* * *

And now the mountain's shadow steals the molten silver of the lake, quenching the fire of diamond studded wavelets. Only distant hills and clouds retain the sunset's gold for yet a little while. The sands lie empty, dimpled by the day's many feet and the laughs and shouts of homing children blend with the distance. Trees, their topmost leaves catching the last of the sunny shafts, carry on whispered conversations with the wind. Shadows on the western mountains deepen as day by the water waits for long slow twilight to light the evening star and draw night's velvet curtain.

* * *

Never mind, summer will come again and let's hope it is a little longer than the last one.

CAUGHT WITH BOMBS

MIAMI, Fla. (AP) — Five Cubans face federal prosecution for attempting a flight, possibly over their homeland, with homemade bombs. They were seized lugging three bombs from an automobile to an airplane on a seldom-used airstrip south of Miami Sunday.

Customs supervising agent Joseph A. Fortier said the bombs, totalling 96 pounds, contained a nitroglycerine compound which "had begun to leak in their containers and had reached a critically dangerous stage."

Over Million French Civil Servants Out

PARIS (Reuters) — More than 1,000,000 French civil servants and public utility workers launched a 24-hour token strike Wednesday, halting mail deliveries, air traffic and garbage disposal.

Most government offices closed down for the day, hospitals concentrated on emergency cases only, water supplies were curtailed and customs checks were slowed down.

Strikers demanding "a living wage" want the minmum salary to be set no lower than 45,000 francs ($90) a month. Some unmarried post office workers and government clerks now earn less than 10,000 francs for a 45-hour week.

Maintenance crews of the state-run airline, air France, walked off the job late Tuesday night and were joined by air traffic control technicians. Some French flights were being run from military airports, but foreign airlines were bypassing Paris in the morning.

Paris bus and subway workers marked a "day of protest" by appointing delegations to the public works and transport ministry to ask for more pay but didn't join the stoppage.

Rockefeller Said On Behind-Scenes Drive

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP) — Governor Nelson A. Rockefeller is opening a behind-the-scenes drive to wipe out any public impression he is backed by big - money interests for the Republican nomination for president.

The current strategy is to picture Rockefeller as an underdog amateur challenging the powerful professionals.

Authoritative sources said the governor portrays vice-president Richard M. Nixon as the favorite of the business community and Republican newspapers and rejects the idea that the description fits Rockefeller.

Some political observers have drawn analogies between the Nixon-Rockefeller battle and the 1952 Republican contest in which the late senator Robert A. Taft of Ohio, a leading contender for the nomination, lost to a political newcomer, Dwight D. Eisenhower.

Comparisons with the 1952 race received an impetus last week with the publication of a memorandum in which Taft said Eisenhower had won with support from Republican newspapers and eastern financiers.

REJECT COMPARISON

The Rockefeller forces hold this does not compare with current events.

The governor has met with many businessmen and come away with the idea that most of them considered him too liberal, especially in his proposals for long - range planning of national goals.

In drafting a picture of the current status of the presidential nomination battle, Rockefeller advisers array Republican organizations, big contributors and Republican newspapers around the vice-president.

The governor is pictured as a bold, imaginative political newcomer who can rally popular support with fresh ideas regardless of forces against him.

Rockefeller's attempts to divorce himself from big-money interests are complicated by the fact that he is a member of one of the wealthiest families in the world.

Rockefeller will announce next month whether he is a formal candidate.

Weather Looks Bit Confusing

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Canada's weather picture is a little topsy-turvy. It's as warm on the Prairies as it is in the East. In some western points it's even warmer.

Prairies temperatures Wednesday were expected to range from 40 to 50 degrees in Alberta and western Saskatchewan and to about 35 in Manitoba.

Highs in the East were expected to be 35-38 in Southern Ontario, 25-30 in the north, and 25-30 in Quebec.

In the Maritimes, the mercury Tuesday was in the 20s and little change is expected today.

The western warm spell started on the coast where Vancouver's temperature Tuesday was 53. Rain and stiff winds were forecast with colder weather in the British Columbia interior.

Slightly colder temperatures and some light rain were forecast for Northern Alberta and Western Saskatchewan.

Dull, cloudy weather covered Ontario Tuesday with some light snow in Northern Ontario and some melting snow and rain in the south. Little change was expected.

Freezing rain was forecast for Quebec, where temperatures were below freezing Tuesday with snowflurries. The maximum temperature Tuesday at Quebec City was 19, Montreal 24 and Ottawa 23.

Six Freighters Slip Through St. Lawrence

MONTREAL (CP) — Six more ocean - bound freighters slipped through the St. Lawrence Seaway Tuesday night as winter weather started to encrust locks with ice.

Compressors were brought into use for the first time to close the gates against the ice and ships approaching the seaway exit—the St. Lambert lock — crunched through thin shell ice that was spreading over the quiet waters.

Fourteen ships are still heading for the exit and the open water of the St. Lawrence River below Montreal. A seaway official said "if the weather holds out another 24 hours there should be no trouble at all."

Light snow was falling in Montreal early Wednesday but the forecast called for milder weather.
