Mainwaring Gives Gov't Wenner-Gren Report Today

$600 Million Development Project Hinges on Gov't Okay

By JIM PEACOCK
Canadian Press Staff Writer

VANCOUVER (CP)—President W. C. Mainwaring of Peace River Power Development Company will fly to Victoria today carrying a nine-volume confidential report.

It is concerned with proposals and prospects for development of hydro-electric power on British Columbia's Peace River. Under an agreement signed two years ago between interests of Swedish industrialist Axel Wenner-Gren and the province it was to be in government hands no later than Dec. 31.

Other development data, including plans for a 600-mile railway through Northern B. C., has been compiled by Wenner-Gren B. C. Development Company which undertook a vast exploration program three years ago and which holds controlling interest in Peace River Power Development.

The government has been advised of some of this information, but Wenner-Gren B. C. Development has no deadlines to beat with its reports on mineral, forestry and other exploration.

Mr. Mainwaring will beat the power report deadline with a personal delivery to A. S. Pagent, provincial water rights controller, who then will have a deadline to meet himself.

Mr. Paget has three months in which to study the report and to make recommendations to the government—recommendations which will have an important bearing on whether Peace River Power Development is given the go-ahead to conduct a multi-million-dollar hydro project in North-Central B.C.

START IN 1960

The company already has announced it is prepared to start first stage construction in 1960 on a $600,000,000 project that eventually would develop 4,000,000 horse power and become the largest single hydro-power development in North America.

The first stage would cost $375,000,000, develop 1,000,000 horsepower and bring power more than 500 miles south to Vancouver by about 1966.

Mr. Mainwaring's office said Tuesday nothing more than has been released already will be made public immediately on the proposed project.

Mr. Paget said the report will be a confidential document while his office has it under study and until a report is made to the government.

LONG TUNNEL

If the water rights board, the public utilities commission and the government approve the Peace River power plans, work is expected to begin on a 3,000-foot pilot tunnel, access roads and damsite clearing by early summer.

Few details have been released about the Wenner-Gren B. C. Development Explorations, but it is known the company has outlined to the government a railway route running from near Prince George, where it links with the Pacific Great Eastern Railway, to the Yukon boundary.

A Crown reserve was placed on the land concerned to prevent nuisance claims staking. This will be lifted as the railway is built.

Wenner - Gren has carried out explorations in northern B. C. since signing a memorandum of intent in November, 1956. In it, Wenner - Gren pledged to start construction of a railway to the Yukon boundary by June, 1960.

With preliminary surveys finished and a route chosen, Wenner-Gren now is investigating possibilities of extending the railway through the Yukon to the Alaska boundary and it has held some talks with federal authorities on land for Yukon right-of-way.

The memorandum of intention also committed Wenner - Gren to spend at least $5,000,000 on its explorations. Estimates now run to between $10,000,000 and $15,000,000 on the amount spent in compiling its reports.

Less Than Third Stock Offered

OTTAWA (CP) — Financing plans for the proposed $360,000,000 Alberta-to-California natural gas pipeline would see the Canadian public offered less than one-third of the common stock.

This is revealed in the gas-export application filed by Alberta and Southern Gas Company Limited, one of five companies which will seek gas export licences at hearings which the new national energy board will open in Ottawa Jan. 5.

Five companies are involved in the mammoth Alberta and Southern scheme. The Canadian public would be offered ownership in two of these.

First refusal will be given to Canadians on one-third of the common stock to be issued by Alberta Natural Gas Company, and on 25 per cent of the stock issued by Pacific Gas Transmission. In each case, the rest of the shares will be sold to the original backers of these firms.

In comparison, 46.51 per cent of the equity stock of Trans-Canada Pipe Lines Limited was offered to the Canadian public when it announced its financing in 1957. The original backers got 33.11 per cent, 17.89 per cent was sold in the United States and the rest went to company executives under stock option plans.

Stalled Motorist Takes a Snooze

ALBURG, Vt. (AP) — What can you do when your car breaks down in the middle of a snowstorm.

You can always take a nap.

That's what a Canadian motorist did Monday. State trooper Dana Goodnow spotted a small foreign car stopped beside the road, a body beside it.

He ran to the car and found the man asleep.

"Are you all right?" asked Goodnow.

"Why, I'm very comfortable, thank you," said the Canadian, who was not identified.

He explained that his car had broken down. He didn't know how far he would have to walk to get help so he decided to stay by the car.

There wasn't room to curl up inside the small vehicle, so he crawled into a sleeping bag and took a nap on the ground.

When Goodnow found him the bag was covered with an inch or more of new-fallen snow.

Goodnow helped get the car going again, and the Canadian drove off.

Miffed Suitor Takes Revenge

TORONTO (CP) — William Shaver, 23, admitted in court Tuesday he took steps to get revenge on an 18-year-old girl who spurned him.

He sent Christmas cards to every man in the office where the girl works, signed with the girl's name and inviting the boys to date her. Then he wrote a letter to her boss, a trust company executive stating: "Leave my sister alone, punk. You're married and have a couple of brats — if you don't I'll kill you."

Shaver pleaded guilty to sending a threatening letter and was fined $100.

Toronto Recovering After Crippling Freezing Rain

Power Interruption Reported Worst in City's History

TORONTO (CP)—The Toronto area was expected to be back to normal today after the worst power interruption in its history, brought on by Monday's freezing rain that coated hydro poles and wires and sent them crashing to the ground by the hundreds.

A spokesman for the Ontario Hydro-Electric Power Commission said much of the damage to power lines, coated with two inches of ice in the storm that started Sunday night, would be repaired by Tuesday night.

The worst remaining trouble spots Tuesday were Orangeville, about 40 miles northwest of here, and the northern suburbs of Scarborough and York. About 200 linemen were working in Orangeville where 4,600 customers lost their power supply at midnight Sunday.

MEN AT WORK

Another 300 men in 70 trucks were working in the Richmond Hill area where between 600-700 customers were cut off and in the Markham area where 2,000 were without electricity.

Orangeville resident Dickson Melville said the temperature in his home, which depends on electricity to power the oil furnace, was 28 degrees. The forecast for Tuesday night was 10 degrees.

"My wife and I may be chilled right through," said Mr. Melville, "but our plight is nothing compared with that of Mr. and Mrs. Gudd and their four children."

The Gurr family was forced out into the cold when their farm home was destroyed by fire. Neighbors took them in.

COOKED WITH CANDLES

Mr. Melville, who sent his six-year-old son to Galt to stay with relatives, described this supper scene:

"I tied three candles together and, believe it or not, I fried three eggs. But it took a long, long time and I must admit they did not seem too appetizing.

"So we went to the basement and lighted our barbecue stove, using charcoal. We were smoked out in minutes."

He and his wife drove to Orangeville's main business section in search of a dinner. "The only two restaurants that cook with gas were packed. It would be hours, we could see, before we would have any hope of eating. So we went to the town's only theatre."

The theatre still had power "and we sat in the lobby through two shows eating bags and bags of buttered popcorn."

PHONES OUT

In addition to heating problems, sump pumps failed and many basements threatened to flood. Bell Telephone Company reported 2,500 phones out of order in this area.

Despite falling branches and slippery streets there were no serious pedestrian injuries or traffic accidents. One lineman broke his arm in a fall from a pole.

Halifax Too

HALIFAX (CP) — The season's first heavy snowfall snarled highway traffic in some parts of the Maritimes Tuesday. A gale and high tides caused flooding in other areas.

Airlines cancelled many flights as night came on and the storm continued. Some parts of Southern Nova Scotia had 10 inches of snow by mid-afternoon.

The Halifax weather office issued a heavy snowfall warning to all Nova Scotia, Prince Edward Island and Southern New Brunswick as the storm centre moved northeast from a point about 150 miles south of Yarmouth, N.S.

The snowfall was forecast to reach 12 to 14 inches in Southwestern Nova Scotia, tapering off to three inches in central New Brunswick.

Tides Flood Towns

BOSTON (AP)—A one-two punch of heavy snow and gale-lashed seas buffeted the northeastern states Tuesday. Hundreds were forced from their homes as record tides flooded coastal towns.

Northern New England was buried under six to 15 inches of snow.

The storm claimed at least nine lives — six in New England and three in New York state.

Damage to shore front property may run into millions.

While the northeaster gradually abated in New York, Connecticut, Rhode Island and Massachusetts, heavy snow warnings continued for portions of Maine.

Hazardous driving conditions prevailed in New York state and New England, except for Connecticut.

DOLLAR HIGHER

NEW YORK (CP) — Canadian dollar up 7-64 at $1.05 7-64 in terms of U. S. funds. Week ago $1.05 5-16.

Pound sterling up 1-16 at 2.79 13-16.

MONTREAL (CP) — The U. S. dollar closed at a discount of 4 27-32 per cent in terms of Canadian funds, down 3-32. Pound sterling $2.66¼, down 3-16.

U. S. dollar bid 95⅛, asked 95 5-32.

Chan Files Libel Suit

VANCOUVER (CP) — Weldon Chan, Hong Kong-born Chinese sought for deportation, filed a claim in Supreme Court Tuesday seeking libel damages from Douglas Jung, Progressive Conservative member of Parliament for Vancouver Centre.

The writ was issued by lawyer Harry Fan and it gave Chan's address as 607 East 18th Avenue in Vancouver.

The claim is based on libel he alleges was contained in a letter written by Mr. Jung about Dec. 4 to a West Vancouver woman.

Chan, 40, brought his wife and five-year-old daughter here on a tourist visa in April, 1958. Immigration officials ruled Chan was in Canada illegally and ordered him deported Nov. 3. He has been in hiding for two months.

May 16 Suggested Summit Date

By VINCENT BUIST

MOSCOW (Reuters) — The United States, Britain and France Tuesday formally asked Russia to accept May 16 as the date for the start of four-power summit talks in Paris.

Ambassadors of the three Western powers handed over personal letters from President Eisenhower, Prime Minister Macmillan and President de Gaulle.

Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko received the letters. He promised to give them immediately to Premier Khrushchev.

Observers here said the Soviet leader is likely to accept the proposed date.

Although there are standing invitations for Khrushchev to visit several countries of Africa and the Middle East, no firm dates for May have yet been published and it appeared unlikely that these visits would stand in the way of summit talks.

Wrist Watch Warning Issued

OTTAWA (CP) — Upwards of 150 Canadians may be wearing potentially dangerous wrist watches giving off strontium-90 radiation, a federal government committee announced Tuesday.

The committee, composed of scientists from the health department and the atomic energy control board, called on owners of Rolex GMT-Master wrist watches to mail their time-pieces by registered mail to Rolex Watch Company of Canada, Victory Building, Toronto, for testing.

A number of radioactive watches of the same make were discovered in the U. S.

This led to testing of a number of similar timepieces owned by Canadians.

"Tests carried out by the department of national health and welfare and the University of Toronto showed that two or three of these watches contained radio-active strontium in sufficient quantities to be a possible long-term health hazard to wearers," the committee said Tuesday in a statement.

Man Anticipated Death

DETROIT (AP)—"It's incredible, fantastic—I still cannot believe it happened," said Nicholas Kallas, who told Tuesday of his 77-year-old bachelor uncle who made dates with Kallas and death—and kept them both.

Kallas, 44, who had seen his uncle, Mike Hazas of Bucyrus, Ohio, only once in 20 years, said his uncle wrote that he would like to see his nephew and the latter's three children for Christmas.

Accompanied by his wife and family, Kallas drove to Bucyrus last Saturday. Back home in suburban Dearborn Tuesday, he recounted what happened.

"Uncle Mike first took us to the cemetery. He showed us a headstone with his name on it. Then he took us to a funeral home and explained that he had made all the arrangements.

"Then he took us to his one-room, basement apartment. Here he began to distribute all the things he owned. He instructed me to give his clothes to a brother-in-law and he told me to take the canned goods from the shelves.

"He handed me his will, which was dated Dec. 22, and he gave me a pair of shoe brushes, saying: 'This is to shine your shoes with.' " " 'But Uncle Mike,' I protested, 'You may need these things yourself.'

"He replied: 'I won't need anything any more.' And with those words Uncle Mike dropped dead."

A death certificate showed that Hazas died of a heart attack.

Stock Promoter Offices Raided

VANCOUVER (CP) — RCMP have raided the offices of stock promoter George Caldough after an inquiry started by the provincial superintendent of brokers.

Caldough was host to Errol Flynn when the swashbuckling star died here in October.

Stuart Smith, Superintendent of Brokers, said Tuesday in Victoria the inquiry was initiated by his office through RCMP.

Books and records in Caldough's downtown office were seized last Tuesday by RCMP. The raid was on RCMP initiative, without consultation with Mr. Smith.

The Sun says the raids were made following investigation of two companies with headquarters at Whitehorse, Y.T., which were recently promoted by Caldough.

One of the companies, Great Northwest Investments Ltd., circulated thousands of brochures in the United States seeking investment in the other company, Eagle Plain Developments Ltd., which has an interest in Yukon oil and mining claims.

Caldough declined comment Tuesday on the raid. He said he was attempting to carry on without his books.

Son Sends Mother Greeting

VANCOUVER (CP) — An 80-year-old Chinese woman will get some soothing words from her son on her arrival at Vancouver today (Wednesday) en route to Washington, D.C.

Rev. Victor Wong, a Roman Catholic priest in Washington, has tape-recorded a message of welcome in Chinese for his mother, urging her to relax after the Pacific crossing from Hong Kong and reassuring her that she will arrive safely in Washington.

Mrs. Li Choy Yee Wong will arrive by Canadian Pacific Airlines and arrangements have been made to play the recording for her at the airport while she awaits transfer to a United Air Lines plane for the remainder of the journey.

JAPAN PM TO VISIT CANADA

OTTAWA (CP) — Prime Minister Nobusuke Kishi of Japan will pay an official two-day visit to Canada starting Jan. 21, it was announced Tuesday night.

Prime Minister Diefenbaker's office said in a statement that Mr. Kishi is due in Ottawa at 11 a.m. EST Jan. 21 and will leave the next day at noon to return to Tokyo.

He will be accompanied by Aiichiro Fujiyama, foreign affairs minister.

The Japanese prime minister will arrive in Ottawa after a visit of several days to the United States, designed primarily to sign the U. S.-Japan security treaty.

Iraq, Iran Want No Border Trouble

TEHRAN, Iran (Reuters) —Iran and Iraq issued public statements Tuesday that neither country wants trouble over their disputed border, but both are prepared to fight if necessary.

At the same time, there were signs that tension was lessening in the troubled area along the Persian Gulf.

Iranian Premier Manushar Eghbal warned in Rawalpindi, Pakistan that his country will call for help from all its allies including the United States if neighboring Iraq provokes war.

In Baghdad, Iraqi Foreign Minister Hashem Jawad appealed to the world to indict Iran for endangering peace in the Middle East.

Street Corners

By PYRAMUS

As the New Year approaches, do you find yourself looking forward to that brand new stretch of slate which, with the turn of the calendar to January 1, jobs so far neglected around the house will be taken on magically one by one, and done to a turn and on which all daily routines which have sadly slipped during the past few months will be given a shot in the arm and on which we can clothe our minds with a new philosophy?

This will last for a week or two, until we slip gratefully back to the comfortable feeling of our real personalities—like putting on old slippers with the inner sole flapping.

For in the midst of all our renewed hope and vigor, the mailman arrives with our Christmas bills, the larder gives forth hollow sounds and the stomach registers objections to the festive past.

Thank heaven for these leavening agents, for after all, we are WE and sudden improvements can be revolting. N'est - ce pas?

All On Lookout for Jinty

DETROIT (AP)—Note to blonde Judy Ferren: as a 17 - year - old girl far from home your anxiety may be eased to know that a city of more than 3,000,000 persons is on the lookout for your missing dog, Jinty.

And some of the 3,016,197 people in Metropolitan Detroit, including policemen, railroad detectives and dog wardens, are on special lookout.

Your hitch-hike, 114 - mile trip from St. Thomas, Ont., and your two-day search in a big, cold city for Jinty was page-one today in Detroit newspapers, along with your picture.

As if that wasn't enough to set everybody looking for Jinty, the New York Central Railroad had the biggest advertisement of all in the lost and found columns. It read:

"Lost — Alsatian dog, 'Jinty.' Black nose, brown ears, black-tan head, grey body with black. One-year-old female. 60-65 lbs. TA5-7000, ext. 472. Mr. Kline."

The railroad people have their folks across the river in Windsor, Ont., on the lookout for Jinty, just in case he wandered back through the New York Central's international tunnel.

Judy and her mother, Grace Ferren, 58, and Jinty arrived in New York last week from Southampton, England en route to visit Judy's sister and her husband, Mr. and Mrs. Paul Carpenter, in St. Thomas.

Judy rode in a baggage car to Buffalo with Jinty. There she and her mother changed to another train for St. Thomas. It didn't have a baggage car. So Jinty rode on to Detroit and was to be transferred there in time to reach St. Thomas for Christmas.

But Jinty slipped his leash and bolted the car in Detroit, disappearing into the New York Central yards.

SEARCHED DETROIT

Judy heard what had happened. She got up early Sunday and hitch - hiked to Detroit. She tramped the streets in a drizzle, calling "Jinty, Jinty, Jinty," and stopping folks on the street to ask if they had seen a dog.

She spent the night in a railway station women's room and looked some more Monday. Then, tearfully she went to railway police. She needed help in finding Jinty.

She got more. She got a full meal. The $1 she started with had bought its last hamburger. She got some warm dry socks for her wet ones, too. Then Al Faust, who is New York Central police chief and also a dog fancier, bought her a ticket back to St. Thomas.

And in This Corner . . .

PITTSBURGT (AP)—Before leaving his printing office Christmas Eve, George Dudiak recorded the song Rudolph the Red-Nosed Reindeer on his telephone answering device.

Word spread fast and calls poured in. When Dudiak returned to work Monday hundreds of persons—mostly children—continued to call the number.

Dudiak didn't want to disappoint the youngsters, so "the only thing I could do was put another message on saying Rudolph had gone back to the North Pole and would be back next year."

NEWCASTLE, England (AP)—A near-sighted mouse has paid the penalty for ducking into the wrong hiding place—the open mouth of sleeping Andrew Leech.

"I snapped awake and gulped before I realized what it was," said Leach at a police station where he rushed for aid. "Down it went."

Said a spokesman at a hospital where the 49-year-old plumber received emergency treatment:

"He should have no ill-effects. Nature will take its course."

LONDON (AP)—An abandoned automobile was construed to be "litter" by a London court Monday.

It is against the law to scatter litter in the streets, so Peter Wainwright was fined £2 plus costs for leaving an old car lying around. He didn't want it any more because it had no engine and all the tires were flat.

Harvey Murphy Back With Mine-Mill in B.C.

VANCOUVER (CP) — Harvey Murphy, one of the stormy petrels of the labor world, has returned to British Columbia as western vice-president of the International Union of Mine, Mill and Smelter Workers after four years in the union's Toronto office.

The move is part of a general reshuffle of executives since the defeat of the union's left wing in local elections at Sudbury, Ont.

Mr. Murphy will replace Ken Smith of Vancouver, who was recently elected president and goes to Toronto Feb. 2 to replace Nels Thibault, who resigned his presidency to fight the Sudbury election but was defeated.

Mr. Murphy, who was once prominent in the Communist party but claimed three years ago to have quit, will have his headquarters in Vancouver.

Fined, Car Held In Car Accident

Charles Penny of Bonnington was fined $50 and costs in police court Monday morning after pleading guilty to a charge of driving with undue care and attention resulting in a car-truck accident on Anderson Street recently.

Penny was in the process of making a left turn into a service station when he collided with a department of highways truck driven by Thomas Nutter of Nelson. Damage was estimated at about $150.

Penny's vehicle was also impounded after investigation revealed that no insurance was carried.

Ship Less Lumber From B. C. Ports

Waterborne lumber shipments from B.C. ports declined sharply in November, despite a rise in exports.

Total shipments in the month to domestic and overseas markets totalled 89,798,293 board feet, a drop of 24,261,508 board feet from the corresponding month last year.

Exports accounted for a major share of the shipments, 67,378,508 board feet. In the 1958 month exports were 48,820,765 board feet.

Domestic shipments, including points to the United States, totalled 22,419,785 board feet, down from 65,239,036 board feet in November last year.

The United Kingdom almost doubled its purchase of lumber in one month. Shipments to Australia, India, Holland and South America were also up sharply.

Australia increased its take by some 2 million board feet. India's purchase rose from 86,366 board feet in November last year to more than 2 million board feet.

Shipments to all markets continued to lag in the 11 month period, due largely to the long strike of IWA workers.

End of Tacoma Strike Sparks Greenwood Mine

The end of the strike of employees of the Tacoma, Wash., smelter of American Smelting and Refining Co. in mid-December after a full four months of suspended activity has brought considerable relief to British Columbia coper producers.

In no case were any operations shut down but some were not operated at capacity and there was certainly no inducement toward expansion. Some mills declined to accept custom shipments because of the concentrate-storage problem.

Two Greenwood area mines were affected.

Phoenix Copper Co., wholly-owned subsidiary of The Granby Mining Co., had about 2,500 tons of concentrate in stockpile at the first of December. The Phoenix operation is to be stepped up from 700 to 1,000 tons of ore daily before the end of the year.

Concentrate storage proved to be a handicap to Consolidated Woodgreen Mines, which stockpiled some 1,500 tons during the shutdown. This material contained some 1,400 ounces gold, 5,000 ounces silver, and 700,000 pounds copper on which 25 per cent of the returns has been withheld until actual treatment can be made by the smelter. With Consolidated Woodgreen's expansion and improvement program in hand, the loss of revenue was felt.

Accident Victim Improving

Ven. Archdeacon B. A. Resker, retired Anglican minister who was injured in an auto collision at the Harrop ferry junction Dec. 20, is reported "coming along fine" at Kootenay Lake General Hospital.

Archdeacon Resker suffered a broken hip and facial injuries when his car was in collision with a car driven by Kenneth Hingwing of Nelson. The collision occurred as the minister attempted to turn left off the highway to the Harrop ferry.

No Broken Ribs For Injured Girl

Seven-year-old Linda Caroline Rozinkin, who was injured in a sleighriding accident in Nelson Monday is expected to be released from Kootenay Lake General Hospital today. Further examination revealed that there were no serious injuries. Monday night it was believed she had three broken ribs.

Father Abandons Search Temporarily

KAMLOOPS (CP) — Alfred Claudpierre, a German immigrant whose 15-year-old son has been missing since Nov. 12, said Tuesday he must get his sawmill job back before he will be able to continue the hunt for his son.

Mr. Claudpierre said he will go to "all lengths" to find the boy but "all my money is gone."

He left his job at a sawmill to aid in the search and to help his wife, sick with worry over the disappearance of the boy.

Holgar Fred Claudpierre left his home Nov. 12 on an errand and has been unreported since. RCMP reported this week he might have been headed in the direction of Nelson.

Certificates for completion of courses in various phases of commercial training were received by three pupils of the Nelson Commercial Training School.

The certificates were presented to Mrs. John C. Blight for typing and business English; to Mrs. C. L. McDonough for typing, shorthand, bookkeeping and business English.

The awards were presented to the pupils at December closing exercises when students of the business English class read their own compositions to the other students.

12-Year-Old Girl Dies in Hospital

Born in New Denver and raised in Slocan, where her father is employed by the CPR as a carpenter, the young girl was in grade 7 of the Slocan School.

Besides her parents, Miss Yamamoto is survived by one brother, Kiyoshi of Toronto, two sisters, Marion of New Westminster and Grayce of Slocan, and her grandmother, Mrs. H. Yamamoto of New Denver.

Picture Library To Be Opened In Nelson Studio

First picture library in the Interior of British Columbia is opening in Nelson Janaury 4.

A comparatively new idea, painting libraries were operated first in England, shortly after World War II. In the last few years, a number of libraries have been opened in Canada, operating successfully in Toronto, Calgary and Vancouver.

In the picture library at Nelson will be the work of Zeljko Kujundzic and many other artists, Mr Kujundzic said Monday. He will open his studio to the public on the first Monday of each month. Paintings may be borrowed for a four-week period, and renewals arranged if required.

A representative collection of some of the most interesting Scottish contemporary artists is planned on the first occasion. They will include George Carson, Brian Lounsbach, James Chisholm, L. Kovacs and Marty Stewart Gibson.

The libraries are "a necessary function in bringing contemporary art to the public," Mr. Kujundzic said. A modern painting "will take on a very different aspect to a viewer who had had the opportunity of 'living with it' rather than the startling effect it may produce at first sight."

The L. V. Rogers High School art instructor designed the cover for the current edition of The B. C. Teacher magazine. His design was chosen over those submitted by five Vancouver artists.

Gov't Men Deny Rumors

Rumors that Nelson's government employees were not too pleased with Premier W. A. C. Bennett's Christmas address, given over a closed telephone circuit to all government offices in the province, have been denied by representatives of the staff.

Although president of the Employees' Association, David Walsh of Balfour could not be located for definite comment on the rumor that employees anxiously awaiting the Premier's Christmas address expected either their long-awaited raise in pay or a comment on the Carruthers Report, Nelson game official Howard Phillips remarked that 'anyone who expected confirmation on either of these items was very silly. I personally did not anticipate anything more than what was given by the Premier, a Merry Christmas to all'.

The brief Christmas address, lasting only a few minutes, was sent over telephone wires into 29 provincial centres at 10:30 a.m., Wednesday from the Premier's home in Victoria.

Approximately 150 Nelson government employees gathered in the court room where the transmitter was set up. Reports related many persons left their homes and travelled miles to hear the address.

Mr. Phillips remarked that the Premier was in no position at the time to give confirmation on any such subjects as were allegedly expected.

Death in East Breaks Link With Nelson Early Days

One of the men who put the Kootenays and Nelson on the map of Canada back in the early days of this century died recently at his family home in Beaton, Ontario. He was Harry Wright, once gold commissioner, tax collector, assessor and justice of the peace for Nelson, and Member of the Provincial Parliament for Ymir riding.

Harry W. Wright is remembered today by few in Nelson, for most of his generation have long since passed on, but at least one active Nelson citizen recalls him with considerable pleasure. "I'll always remember Harry Wright," smiles Harry Mansfield, now a CPR trainman, but back in the early days when the other Harry was a member of the legislature, just a boy living on his father's ranch, which ran up the hillside on what is now the south side of the Taghum bridge crossing.

"I was hired to drive a team hauling timbers and such for the road being cut along that area," Mr. Mansfield recalls, "and my pay was pretty low, but Harry Wright saw that it was doubled before I got it — so I guess I won't forget him for a long time. That meant quite a thing for a youngster in those days."

First records of Harry Wright's days in this area see him installed in May 4, 1899 as a clerk in the government agent's office here. In 1901 he was named assessor and collector for Nelson district, and in 1903 collector of votes.

Among other offices he held were those of gold commissioner and commissioner of lands and works.

During 1907-08 Mr. Wright was an MPP (Member of the Provincial Legislature), the equivalent of today's MLA.

Those still living who remember Mr. Wright recall him as a man very interested in sport of all kinds, playing baseball and active in promotion of sports.

One of his sons, Dr. Jack Wright, later became famous as Canada's outstanding Davis Cup tennis player of the thirties.

Among his other civic duties the late Mr. Wright was a member of the board of Kootenay Lake General Hospital in the years 1908 and 1909.

Nurse Shortage Threat To Good Patient Care

CASTLEGAR — The continuing shortage of nurses at Castlegar and District Hospital sometimes makes it difficult for a doctor to get his patient a bed there, the hospital board was told at its recent meeting by administrator Jack Bainbridge.

Securing the necessary nursing staff for the hospital still presented a considerable problem, Mr. Bainbridge commented. While the nursing establishment was set at 10, it had been necessary for the hospital to get along with nine, and sometimes fewer, nurses, he pointed out.

Mr. Bainbridge said sickness had brought about some of the shortage, while one nurse was leaving the staff and her replacement was not due until January 4. Two English nurses who had promised to come out in January had been delayed and were not expected now until February.

The board authorized Mr. Bainbridge to go over the establishment of 10 nurses and utilize the surplus for relief work, in order to stop the staff situation from dropping to such a low level where the closing of beds would be necessary.

LOOK TO FUTURE

Looking towards the future, when the demand for beds at the hospital is expected to be even greater, the board appointed a research committee to study the probable expansion of the district to arrive at an estimate of the greater pressure likely to be placed on the hospital.

After considering negotiations carried on regionally by other hospitals, the board approved salary revisions for 1960 that will cost $8500.

The board accepted a provincial agreement to increase the basic salary for nurses registered in B.C. to $285 a month. Board members also approved other salary increases which will bring different job classifications into line with salaries paid for similar work at other hospitals.

Radium Loggers Protest Firing

KELOWNA (CP)—Dismissal of 18 loggers from jobs at a portable sawmill near Radium, B.C., will be challenged on grounds they were dismissed "in contravention of the Labor Relations Act," a union spokesman said Tuesday.

J. Clayton Walls, Interior regional director of the International Woodworkers of America (CLC), said the 18 men were dismissed by Wilder Bros. Lumber Company Dec. 8, the day after they had formed an IWA local.

"This constitutes a technical lockout," Mr. Walls said. Under the Labor Relations Act, 48 hours notice must be given before dismissal and this step is taken only after conciliation procedures, he said.

Mr. Walls said charges will be laid with the B.C. Labor Relations Board.

Ski Capital Past Week

Canada's Best Try at Kimberley Team Tests

Skiers from all over Canada were busy waxing their skis, checking and rechecking calculations and formulas used for each individual condition and going through their daily exercises for the International Olympic tryouts in Kimberley this past week.

The Canadian Olympic tryouts, which began on December 9 at Kimberley, will name the male and female finalists who will represent Canada in the Olympic downhill skiing championships.

Competitors have been conditioning on the ski run at Kimberley after weather conditions proved unsuitable at Rossland where the tryouts were originally planned.

Dubbin on leather gloves and crash helmets, polish for the ski boots and goggles, fresh wax applied carefully to the surface of the skis and a thousand and one other small but important tasks had to be completed before skiers fitted their boots into the ski straps for the first run.

Canada's finest downhill skiers were swarming over Kimberley's North Star ski run in hopes of having the privilege of wearing Canada's crest.

Casual chatter filled the ski lodge and amid busy scrubbing, pounding and scraping and tenseness for the moment was forgotten. But when the skiers slipped their straps securely over their boots, donned their gloves and made their way toward the ski lift, the seriousness of the task they were about to attempt was obvious by the grim-set faces and lack of chatter.

Above, Vern Anderson, Rossland (top right); Darcy Marsh (top left), and Al Perrett, Quebec (bottom), are caught by the camera as they test their footing on the North Star slopes. The skiers will travel to Rossland later in the week to continue their tryouts where snow has finally reached the ideal conditions necessary for top second timing.

Christmas Happy At New Denver

NEW DENVER—Christmas was a happy one in this town for children and for the families of those in needy circumstances, due to the efforts of community and service groups.

More than 50 school-age children received toys and bags of goodies when they visited with Santa Claus in the high school auditorium Saturday afternoon, Dec. 19.

Their mothers, sponsoring local merchants and members of the Kinsmen Club joined the youngsters in appreciating having the jolly old Saint take time out to visit here.

New Denver-Silverton Kinsmen once again distributed hampers and toys to less-fortunate families of the district. Eight hampers and about 80 toys were handed out.

Cominco Pays Out $895 Cash For Employee Suggestions

TRAIL — An employee of the Consolidated Mining and Smelting Company refining department, C. A. Nagel, has been awarded $250 by the company for a suggestion that has resulted in more economical bracing of jumbo lead pigs in railway cars.

Cominco regularly rewards employees for useful suggestions through a suggestion plan committee. The award to Mr. Nagel was the largest single award during the past few months. In the latest awards, Cominco paid a total of $895 to employees at Trail, Kimberley and Yellowknife for 72 practical suggestions.

Mayor Read of Trail Recounts Good Year

TRAIL — Mayor Leslie A. Read of Trail Tuesday called on the residents of the city to continue their support of civic projects into 1960. Submitting his annual report to council and to the city at a special meeting of council Tuesday afternoon, Mayor Read thanked the residents for supporting council's plans during the past year.

In his report, the mayor gave a summary of some of the major projects carried out during 1959. These were headed by the $2,000,000 water works bylaw and the $350,000 paving bylaw, of which the 1959 sections have been completed.

Mayor Read pointed out the the bridge is now underway, and hoped there would be no delay in completing it. He also made mention of the urban renewal study, and said that a start should be made on phases of this project in 1960.

Word is expected shortly, he said, on the CPR's decision to remove tracks on Rossland Avenue, and allow the work to go ahead.

Other projects carried out included: 1957 and 1958 bylaw work; miscellaneous rock walls: street lighting; land purchase for future use; new warehouse construction, and opening of the new Kinsmen health centre and the Lions' Daniel Street Park.

In his report, Mayor Read paid tribute to retiring Alderman Stuart Mitchell, and offered a welcome-back to alderman-elect Alex Brokenshire.

In other business at the meeting, Ald. Mitchell accepted an appointment to the conciliation board which will settle the 1960 contract between the city and the Firefighters Local 941.

Under the new setup, which will bring the Trail-Tadanac board of parks commissioners under the direct control of the councils of Trail and Tadanac, three Trail commissioners were appointed for 1960.

They are: Perry Landucci, who is presently a member of the existing board; Kenneth Campbell and George William Barnsley. Tadanac will also appoint three members, and the new commission will take effect as of Jan. 1.

Third Dies After Head-on Collision

CRANBROOK—Death toll of the head-on highway collision Dec. 12 eight miles east of Cranbrook rose to three with the death in St. Eugene Hospital Thursday of Gustav Harold Holm, age 51.

He was sole occupant of the car which was in collision with one driven by Ray Monesmith, Sr., of Baynes' Lake, in which the latter and his wife died. Mr. Holm died two weeks after the accident without regaining full consciousness.

Inquest into his death started Monday with viewing of the body by the same jury impanelled in the Monesmith inquests and all three inquests are expected to be completed in one session this week.

Mr. Holm was born at Wardner in 1908 and grew up there, working at logging and milling in Wardner area until a few months ago when he became edgerman for Crestbrook Timber Ltd. at Canal Flat. He had served in the Canadian Army in the First World War.

New-Type Auto Licence Forms Now Being Issued

The Motor Vehicle Branch in Victoria is now printing 1960 licence renewal applications for all registered motor vehicles. Mailing commenced November 20, and it is expected the work will be completed so that vehicle owners will receive their application by the first week in January at the latest.

A new type of form is being introduced this year. An owner will receive a set of three cards for each vehicle in place of the four-sectioned form used in the past. The owner must sign each card, place his address on two of the cards, and take ALL THREE CARDS to the issuing office when applying for the 1960 motor vehicle licence.

Gross vehicle weight forms the basis for commercial vehicle licence fees for 1960. The Motor Vehicle Branch has sent enquiries to all commercial vehicle operators seeking this information. Unfortunately, some 20,000 of these operators have failed to send necessary particulars to Victoria. These operators will not receive their receive, their renewal applications and unless they give this omission their early attention, they will encounter delay and inconvenience in obtaining 1960 licences.

FARM VEHICLE FEES

The Minister of Commercial Transport recently announced that 1960 licence fees payable by farmers for their farm trucks will not exceed the fees chargeable in 1959.

Farmers will receive 1960 licence aplications for their farm trucks based on the gross weight fee schedule. When they apply for their new licences, they should advise the issuing clerk that the vehicle is a farm truck an dthe clerk will provide a declaration which the farmer may sign. The signed statement will permit the clerk to issue the 1960 licence at the 1959 licence fee rate.

1. The farmer does not need to (and must not) return his licence application to the Superintendent of Motor Vehicles for correction. The farmer can only gain the benefit of the Government concession at the time he obtains his licence at his local motor licence office.

2. This concession applies only if the vehicle is used by the owner solely for farm purposes, and not for any other business in which the farmer may be engaged.

3. Farmers who have not advised the Superintendent of Motor Vehicles of the gross weight of the vehicle, must do so immediately—otherwise they will not receive the essential renewal applications.

1960 Licences will go on sale on January 4, 1960. February 29, 1960 will be the last date on which 1959 licences are valid. Owners who operate vehicles on or after March 1, 1960 without displaying 1960 licence plates will be liable to prosecution.

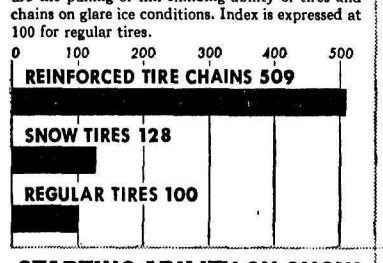
Coincident with the issuance of the new licences George Lindsay, Superintendent of Motor Vehicles, issued a call to motorists to "slow down and live this winter."

To the "Braking figures" in the following chart must be added 22 feet, which is the distance travelled during average "reaction time" needed for the driver to think and get his foot on the brake after seeing a reason to stop.

DRIVING FACTS YOU SHOULD KNOW

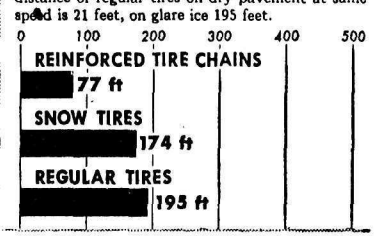
STARTING ABILITY ON ICE

Traction ratings, based on hundreds of tests, measure the pulling or hill-climbing ability of tires and chains on glare ice conditions. Index is expressed at 100 for regular tires.



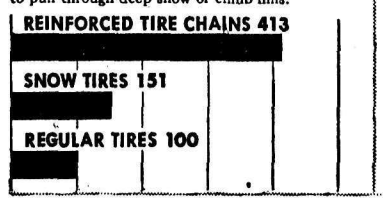
STOPPING ABILITY ON ICE

Average braking distances, based on tests from 20 MPH on glare ice. For comparison, average braking distance of regular tires on dry pavement at same speed is 21 feet, on glare ice 195 feet.



STARTING ABILITY ON SNOW

Traction ratings, based on draw bar pull tests on loosely packed snow, also indicate relative ability to pull through deep snow or climb hills.



STOPPING ABILITY ON SNOW

This shows the comparative stopping ability of regular and snow tires and reinforced tire chains on loosely packed snow, from 20 MPH.

EFFECT OF TEMPERATURE

Rising temperatures make ice more slippery. A car with regular tires, moving at 20 MPH on glare ice, requires 114 ft. at 0° and 235 ft. at 30° above. Reinforced tire chains provide consistently shorter stops, about 77 ft., regardless of temperatures.

STOPPING ABILITY ON DRY PAVEMENT

A Dilution of Justice

The atrocious murder of a woman in Vancouver at the weekend is the latest in a series of brutal slayings in British Columbia. There is no redeeming feature in any of them, there is no moral excuse for them and they seem to be nothing but the satisfaction of cruel and wanton lust.

At the same time, all across Canada there seems to be a growing feeling that the death penalty should not be imposed on murderers. Our minister of justice and the federal cabinet have so far given the movement for the abolition of capital punishment their tacit consent by commuting most of the sentences of death imposed on murderers.

There is, of course, no reason why these officers of the crown should not hold the view that murderers should not be executed, but having sworn to uphold justice they should be prepared to enforce it according to the statutes of parliament. They should not dilute justice by their own sentiment, and whatever their beliefs they should carry out the law. They are failing in their duty and their own private belief is not excuse.

It is useless to talk grandiloquently about a bill of rights for the individual. His rights today are ensured by the courts of law. Passing a bill would not increase them if at the same time ministers of the crown should decide, as they are doing in the case of those convicted of murder, to ignore the purpose of the law. Our liberties are at stake by this corrosion of the law. We should have a strict interpretation of the law, which only parliament should amend.

We are told that the abolition of the death penalty does not increase the number of murders. This may be true and it may be coincidence that there has been an increase in murders of a particularly horrifying nature in Britain since that country abolished the death penalty; and that the same is true in Canada since the government commenced its wholesale commutations.

So far there has been no explanation as to how the nation benefits by the abolition of the death sentence. Neither has it been shown that after a period of incarceration the murderer is returned to a society where he can become a useful citizen. While there are, in a few cases, murders which can be excused by emotion, there are others where the murderer should be treated as a mad dog. Sometimes it appears there is more sympathy for murderers than for their victims.

Interpreting the News

By HAROLD MORRISON
Canadian Press Staff Writer

Richard Nixon has become, in effect, the uncrowned king of the Republican party.

The measure of his tremendous power within the party's hierarchy is disclosed by the sudden decision of Nelson Rockefeller that he couldn't possibly stand up against the vice-president in any head-on clash for the party's presidential nomination.

The sandy-haired Rockefeller, governor of New York State, is no political weakling. And yet with all his campaigning ability and huge financial resources, Rockefeller apparently concluded he hasn't a ghost of a chance of victory.

Key to his decision—taken after months of probing the depths of Nixon's political strength — is contained in this part of his weekend statement: "The great majority of those who will control the Republican convention stand opposed to any contest for the nomination."

It is perhaps odd that Rockefeller should use the word "control," for this could lead one to believe the convention at Chicago next July 25 will be in the nature of a political fix with its outcome well known beforehand

What Rockefeller probably was thinking is that there are certain figures with tremendous power in the party and that these have disclosed themselves as on the side of Nixon.

One man who has not publicly shown any favoritism is President Eisenhower but Nixon, his successful running mate in two elections, has become known as an "Eisenhower man," publicly defending Eisenhower's programs and policies.

Through his personal popularity with the public, Eisenhower undoubtedly could exert influence on a possible successor when he steps down as a two-term Republican standard-bearer.

Apparently from Rockefeller's viewpoint, it would seem that if Eisenhower did any political leaning, it would be toward the vice-president rather than the New York state governor.

On the national horizon there is no one in sight with sufficient strength to challenge or dispute Nixon's power among Republicans.

Though Nixon, at 46, is five years younger than Rockefeller, the California lawyer is a political veteran with 14 years of national political experience. Rockefeller entered state politics only a year ago.

It seems that Nixon wasted no time in his seven years as vice-president: That he did his political homework well and that a lot of top men in the party feel indebted to him.

This, together with his popularity with the populace, will make Nixon a tough man to beat in the presidential election next Nov. 8.

Obedience

Discussing his tennis techniques, a stout, bald man panted, "My brain immediately barks out a command to my body. 'Run forward, but fast!' it says. 'Start right now! Drop the ball gracefully over the net and then walk back slowly.'"

"And then what happens?" he was asked.

"And then," replied the stout man, "my body says, 'Who—me?'"

—Ottawa Journal.

Those Memoirs

Gen. Carl Spaatz, wartime chief of the United States strategic bomber fleets, has probably spoken for that growing section of the public which considers memoirs to be the occupational hazard of retirement for noted military figures.

"Is it possible," asks the general, "that the war was won by a succession of strategic or tactical blunders by Churchill, Marshall and Eisenhower and could have been lost by the more brilliant plans now being exposed by Montgomery and Allanbrooke?"

Gen. Spaatz could, of course, be somewhat biased in his acid question. At the same time he draws attention to a point of view which must be gaining strength.

The viewpoint is that since Caesar's Gallic Wars, and perhaps before, history seems to depend on which book the student reads.—Victoria News.

Suggests Aid for Logging Truckers

To the Editor:

Sir—Our top industry in B.C. is the lumber industry. Along with its secondary and associated industries it accounts, by far for the largest source of income to the people of B.C. and of course the largest source of revenue to the B.C. government.

These forest products from logs, ties, poles, etc., right through to any finished product are bulky and heavy and of an uncertain weight for any measured quantity.

To a very great extent these products are moved on roads built and maintained by the lumbermen themselves, but as soon as these loads cross or come onto a public highway they are subject to load and weight restrictions which are unrealistic to say the least. The loads are often weighed and the parties concerned are penalized for any overload which is based on weight per axle.

I have taken particular notice of a number of these stretches of highway, over which heavy loads of forest products are being moved. We must realize that the load is hauled on one side of the highway, the empty truck going back on the other, and over a number of years I can see no difference in the condition of the road, one side to the other.

However, if our roads won't stand the traffic of our top industry it's time some of the revenue derived from this industry was applied to building and maintaining roads which will carry the loads, particularly in areas where the need is greatest for this kind of traffic.

In spring when the roadbed is soft, I can clearly appreciate the needs for restrictions; but I definitely think it's being carried too far the rest of the time. What do you think?

Remembers the Lone Dutchman Mine

To the Editor:

Sir—Re your letter in the Daily News of today (Dec. 23) from Bruce Ramsay, librarian, the Province, Vancouver: as far as I know I am about the only one living around here that knows of the Lone Dutchman. I knew the owner of this mine about 1906-07, Henry Rickart. He had a cabin on the Lemon Creek on the Golden Wedge property where we made our headquarters when hunting.

We took quite a number of caribou, deer, bear and goat from that district. This mine, the Lone Dutchman, was situated about a mile due north of the Alpine group. Another mine, the Crazy Jane, was just over the ridge. Outside of myself, the others have passed on, including Tom Powell, Henry Rickart, George Sarver.

This mine was never worked commercially as far as I know and was at the head of Sitkum Creek, 8 miles from Nelson.

The Alpine mine produced about 2 million in gold and there is a road up to it. Coarse gold was also found in Sitkum Creek.

Rockefeller Sees His Responsibility

Governor Nelson A. Rockefeller of New York demonstrated his political sagacity and his present heavy responsibilities in announcing his decision not to contest the Republican presidential nomination in 1960.

Mr. Rockefeller's statement carried a clear ring of finality and utmost sincerity. While it was not expected at this time, his "withdrawal" from a race he had not yet entered officially, now gives the governor an increased stature in his own state and an increased appreciation of him elsewhere throughout the nation.

Those persons and political interests recently enthused over Mr. Rockefeller's potentialities as a president are keenly disappointed today. Many of them would have liked to engage in a fight for the GOP nomination—and some of them will continue to be persistent from now until the time of the party convention.

Mr. Rockefeller has seen that he could not, in good conscience, conduct the kind of a pre-convention campaign that would be required and still perform his duties at Albany in a satisfactory manner.

There have been other candidates who have won their party's nomination while serving as governor of New York — Franklin D. Roosevelt and Thomas E. Dewey, for example. Mr. Rockefeller has recognized, however, that he has lacked the long professional experience and the political ties which a nominee must have. He has also recognized that he can continue to serve his nation, his state and his party without making what had appeared to be a futile campaign at this time for the presidency.

Report From Victoria

By HON. W. D. BLACK
Minister of Municipal Affairs,
Provincial Secretary,
Minister of Social Welfare

A New Year seems always accompanied by new resolutions. We assume, at least for a time, a new perspective. Our ambitions and our goals are set a little higher. Perhaps we do not carry through with all our proposed plans, but nevertheless in each individual the intent must have been present. However, we may safely assume that so long as an idea is planted in our minds, although we may not complete our plans, or we may modify it for various reasons, if it is a good plan, we will not be satisfied until we arrive at a final accomplishment.

Ideas are born through a need. It may be a need to improve ourselves or our lot. As each idea is brought forward to the planning stage and if it appears practical, we then progress through the necessary stages until the final stage is reached. When this is accomplished, we may attempt to improve on the original idea. If this is not possible, being what we are, we are again in search of a new idea.

This, of course, as we know, is the foundation of human progress. It is not in our building as human beings to stand still, but we must forever be involved in the struggle to improve ourselves. It was through this urge nature has implanted in us that has brought us forward from what we know of the pre-historic man to what we are today.

We may then reflect as the New Year approaches the progress that has been accomplished in our province, say, in a hundred years, by the thoughts, ideas and work of man.

A hundred years ago, our province contained a handful of hardy pioneers seeking their livelihood trapping furs and hunting precious metals. Today, our population numbers one and a half million hard-working, freedom-loving citizens employed in agriculture, fishing, mining, logging and in the manufacture of products our forefathers of a hundred years ago never heard of. Roads now go where once there was wilderness. Railways push into many parts of our province and airlines criss-cross over it.

We may well reflect as we enter a new year what, through man's ingenuity, the next fifty or a hundred years may bring. No doubt technological progress through automation, precision machinery and nuclear fission will open up horizons never before dreamed of. Such is the way of man.

So, as the bells ring to herald in the New Year, my family join me in wishing everyone a healthful, prosperous and happy new year.

Push-Button Train Control Expected In Near Future

By DAL WARRINGTON
Canadian Press Staff Writer

HALIFAX (CP) — A man touches a button on a control panel in a big railway terminal. A hundred miles up the line red lights change to yellow and green. A track switch moves automatically and a 100 - car freight train enters a passing track without stopping while a fast passenger train roars by.

That's push-button railroading, now used on more than 1,100 miles of track in Canada and expanding fast. In three or four years, if all goes well, trains will be running coast to coast under push-button control.

The CNR proposes to spend about $40,000,000 for push-button systems on 4,000 miles of main line from Vancouver to Halifax and Sydney, N.S. The company says the program, started last year, is the biggest installation of its kind ever undertaken by a railroad.

CPR INSTALLATIONS

The CPR has turned to electronics too, although on a smaller scale so far. It is installing the system on sections of line in Ontario, Quebec and Saskatchewan.

Centralized traffic control —CTC for short—is the railroad name for it. With CTC, train dispatchers at central points run things much as a boy runs his electric train. They set the signals and throw the switches by manipulating buttons on a control board.

No more written train orders. No more stopping a train while a brakeman runs ahead to switch it into a siding. Before CTC dispatchers had to issue written orders for every train movement. Switches had to be turned by hand. Trains often waited long periods in sidings and yards for orders to be issued or trains to pass.

The control panels, situated at main division points, look something like a cross between a pipe-organ console and a telephone switchboard. At the top of the panel a track - layout diagram shows the location of all passing tracks, switches and crossovers. Lights show where trains are and how switches and signals are set.

"It's mechanically impossible for trains to receive conflicting orders," says Douglas V. Gonder, CNR Atlantic region vice - president. An interlocking device prevents it.

PROGRESS INDICATORS

When a train passes a switch or crossover a red light on the board tells the dispatcher. A white light signals the train's progress between these points.

The railroads say CTC makes one track do the work of two, speeds traffic, saves money and reduces the chances of accidents. The CNR has more than 1,000 miles of CTC in operation now and expects to double that by the end of 1960.

Push-button control isn't exactly new. The first stretch of CTC in Canada was installed in the Maritimes in 1941 on 127 miles of CNR track between Moncton and Truro, N.S. It was a closely-guarded defence secret then, designed to relieve a bottleneck in wartime traffic through Halifax.

An additional 51 miles between Truro and Halifax was converted in 1944. This combined stretch of 178 miles was the longest CTC installation in the country until this year. At the moment the longest is 297 miles of CNR line between Capreol and Hornepayne, Ont.

STARTED BIG PROGRAM

In 1958 the CNR embarked on a full-scale program to install the automatic signalling and switching system on its main lines from Atlantic to Pacific.

This year 564 miles were installed in heavy traffic areas in New Brunswick, Ontario, Manitoba and British Columbia. The 1960 program calls for 865 miles to be added, bringing the total to more than 2,000 miles.

The CPR is installing CTC on its main line between Montreal and Toronto and on a 108-mile stretch from Moose Jaw to Swift Current, Sask.

CTC isn't cheap. It cost about $1,200,000 to install this year on a 112-mile section in New Brunswick. But Vice-President Gonder says it is worth it. The experts consider a CTC-controlled single track can carry 75 per cent as much traffic as ordinary double-track.

LINED UP SIGNALS

Demonstrating his equipment, dispatcher Nestor Genik, a Saskatchewan railroader who come to Halifax during the war, lined up signals for the Ocean Limited, the CNR's fastest train between Montreal and Halifax.

As the Limited pulled out of Truro station a red light came on at the left-hand end of the track diagram. That told Genik the train had entered his section of CTC. West of Truro the train had been controlled by a similar CTC centre at Moncton.

"This is a real modern system," said Genik. "We've had many visitors here to study it, some from as far off as Pakistan."

"If a train, even a freight, is held up more than five minutes nowadays we have to explain why. In the old days it would take 20 minutes just to get a freight on to a siding and back again."

Professor Says Rulers and Bosses Smart but Deranged

CHICAGO (AP) — Rulers and bosses are generally smarter—but more mentally deranged—than other people, a socialist says.

And the moral behavior of ruling groups tends to be more criminal and subnormal, adds Prof. Walter A. Lunden of Iowa State University, in a paper prepared for the American Association for the Advancement of Science.

"Ruling groups contain a larger proportion of the extreme mental types of the gifted and the mentally sick than the rank and file of the ruled population," he said.

The greater the power of the rulers, political leaders and big executives, the more corrupt and criminal they tended to be.

"Not all leaders tend to show higher rates of criminality, but a great majority of them do. Present-day society tends to promote and to advance to high positions certain types of men."

But Lunden holds out hope for change.

Now, he said, we are passing through the end of a 600 - year period of culture in which advanced technology has produced power, violence and crime in high places.

"Very gradually the West is calling and hope for new types of leaders and rulers who combine a high moral sense with sound scientific knowledge."

If such leaders don't arise, "society is due for a very stormy period in the years ahead."

Snow and Ice Batter U.S.

NEW YORK (AP) — Snow and ice storms pounded the northeast United States Tuesday, a repeat performance of the blustery wintry weather which dealt damaging blows across wide areas of the midwest states during the weekend.

The storms in the midwest appeared diminishing. Only light snow and snow mixed with rain fell in the upper Mississippi Valley and the Great Lakes region. The new storms blew into the northeast on stiff northerly winds.

As the snow abated in the midwest, many highways and roads remained clogged, leaving hundreds of motorists still stranded. Blowing and drifting hampered snow removal operations.

At least nine deaths, mostly in traffic accidents, were attributed to storms from the plains to New England.

Communications and power services were disrupted in many areas. Ice-coated lines broke and high winds pulled down wires. Plane and bus travel was halted in many places, curtailed in others. Shipping in many eastern ports was halted Monday by fog.

Wind gusts of more than 80 miles an hour sent 20-foot waves against the shore of Lake Superior in Minnesota and Superior, Wis. Snow and sleet lashed wide areas in northeastern and western Minnesota and eastern South Dakota.

Saskatchewan To Start First Medical Aid Plan

REGINA (CP) — Saskatchewan's CCF government, its eye on a provincial general election expected in six months, is planning Canada's first government - run medical care plan.

The scheme would take in the present hospital insurance plan which the socialist administration instituted in 1947, three years after being voted into office.

While the major benefit of the hospital insurance plan is public ward accommodation, the medical care plan presumably would include doctors' fees and most other expenses incurred by the ill.

Premier T. C. Douglas gave an outline of the plan in a radio broadcast from Regina Dec. 16, but has been reticent about filling in the details.

He said the plan would be province - wide and compulsory. The public would pay part of the cost on a prepayment basis. A possible starting date of 1961 has been mentioned.

SETTLE DETAILS

Other details will be set by a 10 - member advisory planning committee on medical care, to be appointed by the government—provided it is returned in the election expected next June.

The committee's job will include the task of deciding whether doctors will be on a fee-for-service or salaries basis, or a combination of both.

Dentists and optometrists would not be included. No estimate of the cost has been made.

The proposed plan would be all-embracing, replacing the present provincial hospital plan, and would combine both hospital and medical services under one scheme.

The present plan is compulsory and about 98.5 per cent of the province's population of more than 900,000 is covered. Only persons who do not fall under the plan are members of the armed services, mental patients and jail inmates, all of whom receive free hospital care.

$35 MAXIMUM

The direct cost to the citizen of the hospital scheme is $17.50 annually for single persons and $35 for a family regardless of number. The plan provides general ward care, hospital operation room coverage and diagnostic services.

Most residents now supplement the hospital plan with group medical services incorporated, provided by private companies at a cost of about $85 a year a family.

Mr. Douglas forecast that every province in Canada would have such a plan by 1970. Government medical care is necessary, he said.

The government's reluctance to give details of the plan has left critics with little on which to hang their attacks. Biggest bone or contention is that doctors feel they would lose revenue and freedom, and would become virtual civil servants.

HELP RESEARCH

The premier said there is nothing wrong with physicians being on a salary. He said he foresees no exodus of doctors from Saskatchewan. The government-run program would foster research and aid doctors in post-graduate work or refresher courses.

Liberal leader Ross Thatcher, caught by surprise by the announcement, quickly urged that any such program be preceded by a prebiscite. The Liberals have been working on a private-enterprise plan which would provide increased coverage.

Mr. Thatcher said a move with such far - reaching consequences as a medical care plan and involving huge expenditures should not be made without direct consultation of the people.

"The socialists are planning to ram their scheme down our throats whether we want it or not," Mr. Thatcher said.

The Liberals hold 14 seats in the legislature. The CCF has 36, Social Credit three.

Social Credit leader Rev. G.T. Froese said he felt a medical care plan will come some day, "but at the moment we as a province are not ready."

Progressive Conservative leader Martin Pederson, striving to drag his party out of a political morass in this province, said medical care plans should not be an issue in the election.

VANCOUVER (CP)—A father collapsed and died at the bedside of his injured son in the ward of a Vancouver hospital Monday night.

Walter Merke of Richmond apparently was stricken by a heart attack as he visited his son David 13, who had earlier been struck by a car.

Expert Says Women Too Cautious With Good China

By EDNA BLAKELY
Canadian Press Staff Writer

TORONTO (CP) — Handling good china is like handling a baby, says Hugh B. Parker, president of a large china manufacturing firm.

"Women are far too cautious with their dishes," he said. "It's just like handling a baby — he won't break, either."

His particular reproach is against those women who are afraid to use good china every day.

"They buy cheap earthenware and keep replacing it. Actually they're paying as much in the long run as they would for good china," he says.

ELEVATES MEAL

"Good china elevates the whole meal to a relaxed, gracious way of living, and we're not spending enough time living graciously."

The casual post-war living is on its way out, he says. So is dinner in the living room sandwiched between television programs.

"TVs are going into recreation rooms and dining rooms are coming back," he said.

In January, his firm is introducing a new British tableware which members of his company describe as "bone china without the bone."

The china is designed to compete with Japanese, German and other Continental china which is selling well in Canada, the United States and Australia.

HISTORIC INDUSTRY

The traditional English ceramic materials, earthenware and bone china, were developed by the master potters in the 18th century, Mr. Parker explained. The new product is designed to be intermediate in both price and use.

The three types of tablewear produced by Mr. Parker's firm are explained by his staff members.

Fine earthenware was developed in Staffordshire nearly 200 years ago and consists mainly of plastic ball clay, china clay, flint and Cornish stone, a type of felspathic rock. It has an opaque body and is porous under the glaze. In the undercorated, unglazed state the color is cream to off - white. The mechanical strength of earthenware and its resistance to breaking and chipping is lower than china.

Bone china was first experimented with at Bow, Lowestoft and Chelsea in the 18th century and perfected in Staffordshire towards the end of the same century. It contains up to 50 per cent of calcined bone ash. The other principal ingredients are china clay and china stone. It has a fine, pure white non-porous body which is translucent and delicate in appearance, although it is the strongest tableware body so far invented.

The new English translucent china is a felspathic china because it contains a proportion of felspar in its composition. It differs from Continental porcelain in both composition of the body itself and in the technique employed for firing both the body and the glaze.

Turkey May Be Stored Easily, All Parts Used

By EDNA BLAKELY
Canadian Press Staff Writer

TORONTO (CP)—The Christmas turkey has hardly vanished when New Year's comes along, and the family clamors for more.

The problem of storing the turkey in a refrigerator already crowded with festive food will be easier if the bird is taken apart after the first big dinner.

The meat and dressing should be wrapped separately. Frozen cooked turkey will stay fresh for several weeks. If it's just stored in the ordinary part of the refrigerator it should be used up within a few days.

Large pieces pulled from the carcass can be sliced at a later date, or they can be reheated in foil, or broiled with barbecue sauce. Leftover turkey is delicious if dipped in batter or eggs and crumbs and fried in deep fat. For a cold lunch, poultry can be coated with mayonnaise and served on lettuce with a garnish of chopped toasted almonds.

SMALLER TREATS

With the large pieces tucked away in the refrigerator, pick off the smaller chunks to be used for a la kings, salads, sandwiches or casseroles.

The tidbits and skin can be used later for soup or ground up for croquettes and sandwiches.

The gravy can be used up later for hot turkey sandwiches or may be added to soup. The bones should be saved for soup too.

Turkey stuffed bread cases make turkey re-appear on the table in a novel manner.

Here's an easy recipe: 1 cup coarsely chopped cooked turkey, ½ tsp. grated onion, 1 egg yolk, 4 slices of bread 1¼ inches thick, 4 thin slices of bread, salt and pepper to taste, ½ cup thick white sauce or 1-3 cup condensed cream of mushroom, chicken or celery soup with 2 tbsps. of water.

Trim the crusts from the bread and make four "cases" with walls and a bottom about ½ inch thick or less by removing centres from thick slices. Cut thin slices to form four lids for the cases. Combine resulting bread crumbs, turkey, onion, egg yolk, seasoning and sauce. Butter outsides and lids of cases and fill with turkey mixture. Place on a baking sheet and bake in moderately hot oven (375 degrees) for about 20 minutes until thoroughly hot and golden brown. Serve plain or with additional sauce to which a little curry has been added, or remaining cream soup diluted to gravy consistency with water or milk.

JUMBO DISH

For a party, use a whole loaf of bread with all the crusts removed. Cut slice off the top for a lid before removing the centre to make one large case. Butter all over, combining crumbs with double the ingredients listed above. Serve on a hot platter garnished with parsley.

Turkey soup, which is nourishing, appetizing and economical, can be made from the bones of the turkey carcass. Crack the bone and place in a kettle. Add skin, several sticks of celery, 1 carrot, 1 onion, 6 peppercorns, tip of 1 bay leaf and 4 cloves. Cover with water and simmer gently for 2 hours. Cool slightly, strain and return diced meat scraps to the stock. Chill thoroughly so the fat may be removed as a hardened layer from the top.

Britain Awaits Ban Decision On Bomb Tests

LONDON (AP) — Britain announced Tuesday night it will never resume nuclear weapons tests as long as there is a chance for a world ban on them.

A foreign office spokesman, asked about President Eisenhower's statement in Augusta Tuesday that the United States considers itself free to resume nuclear testing after announcing its intentions to the rest of the world, said:

"The British position on this question remains the same as it was last July 30.

"At that time the government issued a statement in the House of Commons stating that as long as useful discussions continue at the conference on the discontinuance of nuclear tests, Her Majesty's government would not propose to authorize the resumption of testing."

Metropolitan Makes History

NEW YORK (AP) — Birgit Nilsson, the Metropolitan Opera's sensational new Swedish star, sang Isolde to three Tristans Monday night — one Chilean, one German and one American.

But internationalism was not behind the history-making event. It was caused by three head colds.

Originally Miss Nilsson, whose Met debut on Dec. 18 as Isolde was an unqualified success, was to sing with Chilean tenor Ramon Vinay in "Tristan and Isolde."

But he had a cold and felt he couldn't sing more than one act.

And because of the recent furore over the Swedish singer — described by some as the greatest Wagnerian soprano since Kirsten Flagstad — the house was sold out and the Met didn't want to disappoint 4000 fans.

The Met then considered German tenor Karl Liebl. But Liebl also had a cold and felt up to only one act. Next was American Albert da Costa. But he also had a cold and strength for just one act.

So the Met took the obvious — though believed to be unprecedented — way out and scheduled each tenor to sing one act.

Vinay was Tristan in the first act, Liebl in the second and da Costa in the third, and the fans went away happy — because there was only one Isolde.

New Navy Trade Plans To Meet Fleet's Need

OTTAWA (CP)—A major revision of the navy's trade structure tailored to fit advances in the design of weapons and equipment was announced Tuesday by naval headquarters.

The new trade structure, effective in January, is designed to meet the needs of a fleet in which the seaman's duties are becoming increasingly technical, an announcement said.

"Science is producing weapons and equipment whose operation is steadily becoming more automatic but whose complexity places increasing emphasis on maintenance and the associated technical skills. It is to match strides with these developments that the RCN's trade structure is being revised."

A feature of the new structure is that it will combine, in one trade, operation and maintenance duties that previously were separate functions. For example, where the gunnery branch operated a gun and the ordnance branch maintained it, weapon men now will be trained to do both.

NAMES DISAPPEAR

Introduction of the system will mean the disappearance of some familiar titles and trade names.

The master-at-arms will be absorbed in the boatswain trade, gunnery rates become weapon men or firecontrolmen, and shipwrights will be known as hull technicians.

All chief petty officers, petty officers and men will be transferred to new trades. They will retain their rank, trade group and seniority.

The revision applies only to the regular navy. Its adoption by the naval reserve will take place later.

Introduction of the new system is one of a series of steps started in 1958 to enable the navy to operate at maxium efficiency and readiness.

The recent changes were the reduction to three years from five of the initial term of engagement and the adoption of a system of common entry. Under the common entry system men are channelled into trade, according to aptitude, after enrolment, rather than being assigned a trade at the time of enlistment.

Postpone Dead Sea Search For Cities

AMMAN, Jordan (Reuters)—Diving operations in the Dead Sea in search of the lost ruins of the biblical cities of Sodom and Gomorrah were postponed Tuesday for 24 hours owing to bad weather and the failure of some equipment to arrive on time.

The Canadian-American expedition seeking the two lost cities of sin left here for the southern area of the landlocked sea to study points at which to start the underwater search.

Scheduled to last a week, the operation will cost $5,000. The will co-operate with the divers.

Sodom and Gomorrah are believed to have been destroyed by an earthquake in about 1900 B.C. and submerged beneath the Dead Sea, which lies 1,298 feet below sea level.

The group includes Prof. Allen Vincent Barwood of Victoria, B.C., a professor of visual aids at the American University in Beirut, Mrs. Barwood, also a Canadian; Melvin Rizzi, an American, and a Jordanian photographer, Parkev Paltikyan.

Khrushchev Raps Soviet Leaders

LONDON (Reuters) — Moscow radio Tuesday disclosed Premier Khrushchev has scolded the leaders of the second largest Soviet republic for "bad organization" of agriculture.

The radio quoted Khrushchev's address Christmas Day to the central committee of the Soviet Communist party, attended by leaders of Kazakhstan.

Kazakhstan Premier Unayev and party chief Nikolai Belyayev spoke earlier in the meeting, but Khrushchev was not satisfied. He said they "did not have the courage to speak about shortcomings in a party-like manner"—so he would do it for them.

MUST TELL TRUTH

The premier declared: "Friendship is one thing and good service another. People say: 'You are my brother. But truth is my mother.'

"If we here do not tell you the truth, you will of course not be told it in Kazakhstan. You will be applauded there.

"In actual fact, however, things are bad, very bad indeed.

"Kazakhstan has raised a good crop, but owing to bad organization of work the crop has not been fully harvested."

Rye, Flaxseed Exports Make Up For Losses

OTTAWA (CP)—Increased exports of rye and flaxseed in the first quarter of the current crop year offset most of a decline in oats and barley shipments, the Bureau of Statistics reported Tuesday.

Rye exports in the August-October period, at 1,800,000 bushels, were double the 600,000 bushels shipped a year earlier while flaxseed exports rose to 2,700,000 bushels from 2,500,000.

Barley exports declined to 11,300,000 bushels from 12,500,000 and oats exports fell to 1,300,000 from

Total exports of 17,100,000 bushels of the four grains were 40 per cent below the 10-year average of 28,400,000 for the 1948-57 period.

The Netherlands took 800,000 bushels of oats, more than half of total exports of that grain in the three months. Some 300,000 bushels of oats were exported to the United Kingdom and 200,000 to the United States.

Barley exports went to nine countries, including 4,800,000 bushels to the U.K. and 4,600,000,000 to the U.S.

The United States purchased most of the rye exports, at 1,700,000 bushels, while 2,100,000 bushels of flaxseed were shipped to the U.K.

Mountainous Seas Batter Pacific Ships

HONOLULU (AP) — A tale of three ships adrift in mountainous seas, whipped by gale - force winds and squalls in mid-Pacific, was told Monday night by a Dutch sea captain.

"We were not immediately in danger," said Arie Poot. "We never sent out SOS signals, but you never know what could happen in such seas."

Poot, 42, commanded the 825-ton Dutch tug Elbe which was towing two decommissioned U.S. baby aircraft carriers to Japan for scrapping when a tow line snapped Dec. 16 some 1,300 miles west of Hawaii.

A tow line fouled the tug's propeller and the 26 Hollanders aboard the tug and the eight aboard each carrier were tossed on gale-whipped seas for nine days. One of the carriers was taken in tow by the Sudbury II, owned by Island Tug and Barge Limited of Victoria, B.C.

After the Dutch tug reached Honolulu under her own power, Poot recalled that when the trouble started "we were moving slowly, about three knots, in very heavy seas."

20-FOOT WAVES

"The waves rose to 15 and 20 feet. Then, because of the heavy seas, one tow line broke. . . .

"We were taking on water and it was a difficult, dangerous operation. We succeeded in heaving in 400 metres of rope when there was a sudden, heavy squall. We were lifted up on a huge wave. The boat shook all over. We were sent crashing onto the heavy rope and wire. The propeller got fouled up. The engine suddenly sopped."

Divers from a U.S. Navy tug cleared the Elbe's propeller on Christmas Day and it continued on its way to Honolulu.

A Dutch tug took the other aircraft carrier in tow.

Oh, WHERE is my wandering ad tonight?

That's a fair question and deserves a factual answer. When you buy newspaper advertising you have an investment in every copy of the paper that carries your sales message because the circulation of the newspaper is also the circulation of your advertising. So, what you get in return for your advertising dollars depends on the newspaper's circulation. In order that you may buy space in this newspaper as you would make any sound business investment, we hold membership in the Audit Bureau of Circulations,* well known to advertisers and publishers as A.B.C. Only publications with paid circulation—evidence that people want the paper—are eligible for membership.

At regular intervals one of the Bureau's large staff of experienced circulation auditors comes to our office to make a thorough audit of our circulation records. The FACTS that he obtains as a result of the audit are published in A.B.C. reports which tell you: How much circulation we have; Where it goes; How obtained; How much people pay for our paper, and many other FACTS that you need in order to KNOW what you get for your advertising money.

It's never necessary for our advertisers to ask, "Oh, where is my wandering ad?" They get the FACTS from our A.B.C. report and KNOW. Ask for a copy today.

*The Audit Bureau of Circulations is a cooperative, nonprofit association of 3,450 advertisers, advertising agencies and publishers. Leafs are still tied with Smokies for the league leadership at 25 points. Rossland is nine points down with 16.

Referee Harry Harris meted out five penalties during the period, Nelson picking up three. Ernie Gare and Tony Paolone were awarded minors for highsticking, Maglio for tripping, Stewart for roughing Mailey and Mailey for roughing Stewart.

Mailey gave Warriors a 5-2 lead early in the third stanza, as he dunked the puck past Koehle, Secco and Paolone getting the assist credits. Andrews waited until the halfway mark to notch the final marker, while the last Leaf goal was notched by Fritz Koehle from Gare.

Newsmen's 'Spiel Draws 27 Rinks

WINNIPEG (CP)—Twenty-seven rinks have entered the second annual Western Canada Newsmen's Bonspiel here Jan. 8-9, and chairman Johnny Esaw said Tuesday the limit of 32 is expected to be reached by the deadline, Jan. 6.

Saskatoon tops the list of 16 rinks from outside Greater Winnipeg with six entries under skips Cam McKenzie, Ian Bickle, Fred Randall, Bob Hosie, Clyde McMurchy and Laurie Korchin.

Other Western entries include: Jim Reid of Brandon, Bill Good of Vancouver, Ken Milton and Red Wilkinson, both of Regina, Bill Drever of Calgary, Al Eaton of Flin Flon, Man., and Don Fleming, Glen Bjarnson and Ernie Afaganis, all of Edmonton.

A Toronto rink, skipped by Jim Vipond, will give the two-day bonspiel a nall-Canada flavor. Billed as "Ontario and Eastern champions," the rink also consists of Bob Frewin, Jim Hunt and Wes McKnight.

Indications are that a Montreal foursome, skipped by Vern de Geer, might file an entry and challenge the Vipond rink's right as "Eastern champions."

Winnipeg rinks entered to date are skipped by Don Blanchard, Hugh Brown, Elman Guttormson, Stewart MacPherson, John Esaw, Jack Wells, Herb Nixon, George Gallagher, Ralph Bagley and Harold Raine.

Each rink is guaranteed three games in the three-event 'spiel. Joe McDonald of Regina won last year's bonspiel in Saskatoon.

Anne Heggtveit Skiing "Better Than Ever"

By DON ATTFIELD
Canadian Press Staff Writer

OTTAWA (CP) — Anne Heggtveit says in a letter to her parents that she's skiing better than ever.

Canada's top woman athlete of 1959 and main ski hope in this winter's Olympics is preparing in Austria for the biggest event of her sports career.

Her father, Halvor L. Heggtveit, said in an interview she sounded very happy in a letter received Tuesday.

"She said she's skiing better than she ever has before at this time of year."

FATHER WORRIED

Father is more worried than daughter. "I'm afraid to be hopeful," he said.

Halvor Heggtveit was Canadian cross - country ski champion in 1934. He had to turn down his own chance to compete in the 1932 Olympics for lack of money.

"There are so many uncertainties," he said. "Most people don't realize all the factors involved. You have to be feeling just right the day of the race and your wax and equipment have to be just right."

Mr. Heggtveit said his 21-year-old daughter has felt well from the start of this year's skiing. Her legs didn't hurt at all after her first time on the slopes. She worked only afternoons during the summer so she could golf mornings and play tennis evenings to keep in condition.

NO LUCK IN 1956

Anne, who has been skiing since the age of two, fared poorly in the 1956 Olympics after breaking her leg in 1955.

Last year she proved herself ready by winning the tough Arlberg-Kandahar combined title.

She was winner by a wide margin in the Canadian Press poll for woman athlete of the year.

Anne will compete in four major races before going to Squaw Valley, Calif., Feb. 18 for the winter Olympics.

She'll be entered in the Grindelwald ladies international in Switzerland Jan. 6-8, and the following weekend will compete in the Hahnenkamm races in Austria.

After a stop Jan. 19 in Montreal, she'll head for Alta, Utah, for the United States national races Jan. 29-31. The following weekend she'll be in the Roch Cup races at Aspen, Colo.

Three Rossland Skiers Top Women's Ski Trials

KIMBERLEY (CP) — Three Rossland, B.C., skiers, two of them sisters, took the first three places in final points based on four women's events at the Canadian Olympic ski trials here.

Elizabeth Green topped national competition with 28.3 points for the slalom, giant slalom and two downhills. Her sister Nancy was second with 23.4 points and Pat Nora was third with 22.6.

Jean Lessade of Sherbrooke, Que., gained 28.9 points to win the men's final based on the same four events. Behind him were Bob Gilmour of Montreal with 25.1 and Fred Pommy, Ottawa, with 21.1.

The skiers move to Rossland Wednesday for five more races spread over a two-week period.

Following the three Rossland girls in the women's final were Linda Crutchfield, Shawnigan Falls, Que., 19.3; Ginger Edwards Rossland, 14.0; Faye Pitt, Montreal, 11.1 and Sandra Osborne, Rossland, 3.6.

Fourth place in the men's event went to Shaun Tripp, Ottawa with 21 points. Behind him were Rod Hepburn, Vancouver, 18.6; Vern Anderson, Rossland, 17.8, Al Perrep, Vancouver, 17.5, Arnold Midgeley, Ottawa, 14.4, Jean Guy Burnet, St. Agathe, Que., Don Bruneski, Rossland, 9.9, and D'Arcy Marsh, Ottawa, 9.5.

Also training here for the 1960 winter olympics is Norwegian jumper Torbjon Yggeseth. He made one jump of 249 feet in practice Monday.

RINKS ON WAY TO SCOTLAND

VANCOUVER (CP) — Dudley Little of Terrace, B.C., and Victoria's Elmer Hoffman were to leave for Montreal Tuesday en route to Scotland as British Columbia's representatives on the Canadian curling team to that country.

The B.C. representatives will join in Montreal with 26 other Canadian curlers. The team's first game in Scotland is scheduled for Jan. 8.

Six Canadian rinks are expected to make the trip, including two spares for each rink. Climax of the tour will be the Strathcona Cup games. The Canadians may play also in an international invitational championship bonspiel at Falkirk.

Riders Sign Second End

OTTAWA (CP)—Ottawa Rough Riders Tuesday announced signing of their second all-purpose end for the 1960 Big Four football season.

He is Tom Smolanovich, rugged-looking product of Youngstown University, Youngstown, Ohio, whom general manager George Terlep describes as a sleeper.

He is 23, six feet tall, weighs 190 pounds and plays defensive half as well as offensive end. Riders' one other new import signed to date is 21 - year - old James Reynolds from Hillsdale College, Hillsdale, Mich., a two-way end who holds the pass-receiving record for the last three years in Michigan.

Both new ends are good punters, and Smolanovich also kicks converts. Both are described as having outstanding speed.

Bombers Edge Vets 45-41 Bomberettes Fall 16-15

Ex-Bombers fell before the co-ordinated 1959 version of L. V. Rogers High School Bombers 45-41, but not before a crowd of some 400 had seen some of the best and at times, roughest basketball of the season.

In the preview game, the Ex-Bomberettes edged the '59 Bomberettes by the amazingly low score of 16-15.

Action during the first half of the main game was slow and painful, as the Bombers met players who had picked up experience on other courts and found things a bit rougher than their own league.

All the players were out of condition from the Christmas season, but well-co-ordinated high school squad were able to hold down veterans. Ex-Bombers consistently picked rebounds off the backboard, and were adept at faking, but Roger's crew proved a faster-moving club.

Things got going early in last quarter with Bombers leading 28-27. Mike Borch slapped in two quick field goals to give Vets the lead, then Mike Ingledew pulled Bombers ahead.

With one minute to play and the score 41-39 for Bombers, Earl Farenholtz was fouled. He pulled the game into a 41-41 tie. Then Ingledew dropped in what turned out to be the winning goal.

In a last-ditch effort to tie the game, Ex's Bernie Monteleone tried a floor-length pass which was intercepted by one of Bomber's outstanding players, John Austin. As he drove toward the basket, a body check by Monteleone sent him sprawling. Vets took possession of the ball again, drove it down to Bomber's basket, but were unable to score when the buzzer sounded ending the game.

Monteleone and Earl Farenholtz led the Ex-Bombers attack, while Earl's brother, Doug and Ingledew were tops for Bombers. Outstanding playmakers on the teams were Wayne Wharton for vets and Austin for Bombers.

In the earlier game, a restless crowd watched slow-paced Ex-Bomberettes steam-roller Bomberettes. Marilyn Ure led vets with seven points, while Bomberette's high scorer was Marilyn Kary with six.

The life of the game was upped Suddenly in the second half with the appearance of four "cheerleaders", members of the Ex-Bombers.

With a minute to play and Ex-Bomberettes ahead by a solid point, they took over for the girls, running the limp Bomberettes wild with their antics. No points were scored.

Bombers (45) — D. Farenholtz 13, Ingledew 13, Rogers 7, McClelland 6, Phillips 3, Austin 3, Laughton, Carter, E. Wah.

Ex-Bombers (41) — Monteleone 16, E. Farenholtz 9, Borch 6, Wharton 4, Peterson 2, Elmes 2, Simpson 2, F. Wah.

Bomberettes (16) — Ure 7, Leroy 4, Kary 2, Dewar; 2, Young 1, Hellekson, Butling, Johnson, Lusk, Hoffman.

Bomberettes (15) — Kary 6, Pucello 4, McEwen 3, Szkica 2, Borch Hooker, Shannon, Yates, Waldie, McGovern.

Philly Giants Meet All-Stars Saturday

A show to round off the New Year's weekend will be presented at the Civic Centre gymnasium Saturday, with the appearance of the Philadelphia Colored Giants basketball team.

The Giants will play the newly-formed Nelson Senior B All-Stars in the third game of their Kootenay tour.

Bill Rogers, a six foot, one inch set shot artist is team captain and a product of Long Island University. Jasper "Jumping Jack" Jennings, six foot, five inches, is a high-jumping ball player who usually stuffs the ball through the hoop from the top.

Rebounder for the team is "Mr. Backbboards", six foot, six inch Butch Hutton, a former All-Scholastic star in New York. "The Bearded Giant" is the name given to six foot, four inch Ronnie Clifton, a towering left-hand shooter from Seton Hall University.

Smallest man on the visiting team, and the most amazing, is diminutive five foot, nine inch Eddie West, a jump shot artist. Before joining the Giants, he was chosen for the All Armed Forces Team of the United States, and was the most valuable player at the Gold Medal Tournament on the eastern seaboard.

Opposing the Giants will be the Nelson All-Stars, who will include the tallest man on the floor, towering six foot, seven inch Jeff Craig, who has collected 34 points in five games.

Backing Craig up will be Lorne Shockey, forward, second on the city league scoring list, Rudy Lanki, leader of individual scoring with 44 points.

Maurice Renwick, Garth Strong, Dave Borch, Joe Postnikoff and Corky Correale will round out the team.

Two players now at the University of B.C., and formerly players in the City League, will join All-Stars for Saturday's game. Bernie Monteleone and Earl Farenholtz, both stars in last year's league, will be out to sink points for the All-Stars.

Also billed with the show is a half-time act featuring Chanin, "the man with the magic hands", who will perform magical feats.

A second special feature of the game will be a show by the Giants using a fluorescent basketball in the dark.

Game time at the Civic Centre is 8 p.m.

Goalie Masks Up to Individual

"Goalie masks are up to the individual," was the comment by BCAHA president Leo Atwell on the latest interest in hockey in an interview Tuesday.

He said the B.C. Amateur Hockey Association leaves the use of masks to the individual players, provided the mask is made of a material that is not injurious or dangerous to other players.

"If the mask is made of a hard material, it must be padded to protect the other players. The goalies are the only ones allowed to wear masks normally, but an injured player can wear a mask to protect the injury if he desires."

He recalled the use of a mask by a Victoria goalie several years ago, but said there were no masks in use in B.C. amateur hockey circles at present.

Commenting on the use of masks by goalies in the Bantam and Midget leagues, he said that again it is up to the individual, but that the puck rarely travels through the air. If it does, it is usually going so slow the goalie can duck.

"Unless the goalie is right down on the ice, he stands less chance of injury than a forward."

The Fish Doesn't Stand a Chance

LOS ANGELES (AP) — "Boy, whatta battle, whatta fish! He fought like a tiger!"

You've heard the man of the house talk like that lots of times.

Here's something he doesn't mention: The deck's stacked against the fish.

An expert says fish can't stand much exercise. In fact, says Dr. Edgar Black, too much fatigue at once can kill a fish — especially trout and salmon.

Fish aren't built for a tough struggle. They lead a leisurely life, poking along at one or two miles an hour.

A flip of their tail and they are gone — but only for short sprints.

The fish's fatigue problem, Black says, stems partly from the fact that it must breathe 30 times as much water as man does air to get the same amount of oxygen. The fisherman can increase his consumption of oxygen about 20 times during exercise; the best a fish can do in times of stress is to hike his oxygen input about five times normal.

A paper by Black, a biologist at the University of British Columbia, was presented Monday before 300 biologists and zoologists at a meeting of the Western Society of Naturalists.

Ingo's Training to Be "Even Easier"

STOCKHOLM (AP) — Now that a rematch with Floyd Patterson has been arranged, Ingemar Johansson jokingly said Tuesday he'll be even lazier in training than for the bout that brought him the world heavyweight boxing crown.

The return bout, set for June in New York at either Yankee Stadium or the Polo Grounds, was announced Sunday by Edwin Ahlquist, the champion's adviser, and Roy Cohn, New York lawyer heading a 10 - man promotional group.

Johansson said in an interview he is set for the return match despite a little too much of his mother's cooking.

"Just before Christmas," Ingo said, "I was just over my best fighting weight, 198 pounds." He was 196 when he knocked out Patterson in the third round last June in Yankee Stadium.

"During the holidays I was at home, and of course Ma's meatballs may have put on some extra weight. But my clothes still fit me, so I guess I don't have to worry. I train every day and keep in shape easily."

LITTLE CHANGE

Asked whether he plans to train as he did for the first meeting with Patterson, Johansson said he always trains the same way.

"As lazily as you did before?" he was asked.

"This time I will be lazier," he said with a grin.

One of Johansson's favorite subjects in speeches and at appearances is a recital of boxing writers' criticism of his seemingly lazy training methods for the first bout.

Ingemar met with Cohn and several other members of the promotional group Monday night over a smorgasbord.

Cohn, former counsel to the senate investigating committee headed by late senator Joseph McCarthy, and his associates recently bought control of the old Rosensohn Enterprises, now known as Feature Sports Incorporated.

Cohn said he will make a formal application to the New York State Athletic Commission for a promoting licence. The commission revoked the licence of Rosensohn Enterprises because of irregularities in the promotion of last June's title fight.

Promoter Humbert (Jack) Fugazy, a member of the Cohn group, predicted a gate of $1,250,000 for the return bout, not counting film or closed - circuit television revenue.

Under terms of the contract formerly held by Rosensohn Enterprises, Johansson and Patterson each would receive 25 per cent of the gate plus an equal split of 70 per cent of radio, TV and movie receipts.

Johansson said he will settle final details of the return when he is in New York next month. He will then head for Geneva, where he maintains a residence, to begin training.

Storm Rages Over Noumea

NOUMEA, New Caledonia (Reuters)—A tropical storm of terrific force raged across the New Hebrides Islands in the South Pacific overnight, wrecking towns and crops in its path.

Port Vila, administrative centre of the group of Anglo-French islands, was almost totally destroyed, according to reports reaching here Tuesday. The reports did not mention casualties.

About 80 per cent of the town was flattened and about 90 per cent of crops in the island destroyed, the reports said.

The village of Mele was raded, and another village, Erakor, was flooded by the sea.

A French hospital at Port Vila was reported wrecked and the patients evacuated.

Moscow Radio Optimistic

LONDON (Reuters) — Moscow radio Tuesday broadcast a hopeful forecast of East-West understanding for 1960 arising from next spring summit talks.

The summit prospect "makes one hope that 1960 will bring much more understanding and co-operation between East and West," the Moscow radio commentator said.

"Only a profound pessimist can now say that personal contacts between heads of government will not help to improve the international atmosphere."

The commentator said there were far more Soviet-American contacts on all levels in 1959 than in previous years, and "they were all very important and fruitful and did much to melt the ice of the cold war."

There was every reason to hope that the summit meeting would adjust some outstanding problems and "bring about a more stable peace."

Canada and U.S. To Discuss Postal Rulings

OTTAWA (CP) — Canada and the United States early in 1960 will attempt to iron out postal regulations that resulted in large numbers of Christmas cards addressed to Canadians being burned by U.S. postal authorities because they carried insufficient postage.

The effort will be part of an attempt, initiated by Canada, to write a new postal agreement to replace one in operation for the last 37 years.

The Canadian object, informed sources said Tuesday, is to work out an arrangement providing that domestic postal rates in either country will be acceptable to both on mail crossing the border.

RATES USUALLY ACCEPTED

In practically all cases, Canadian rates of postage are accepted by the U.S. on mail moving south of the border.

But the reverse isn't always the case. One example was the Christmas card burning this year. U.S. postage rates for cards mailed to U.S. destinations is three cents. For cards going out of the country the rate is four cents.

Many Americans, used to the three-cent rate on domestic mailings, but insufficient postage on their cards to Canadians.

'Copter Lifts Seven From Floating Ice

QUEBEC (CP) — Seven men were plucked from a St. Lawrence River ice floe Monday night after drifting for four hours when ice gave way under their fishing cabins.

They were believed the only ones swept into the river as three break-ups along the St. Lawrence north shore carried away about 40 of the shacks used by Tommycod fishermen.

The helicopter that rescued the seven men later checked other cabin-dotted floes but found no one else.

Early reports said another group of five or seven men was also adrift. It appeared confusion resulted when the one group was spotted twice.

Rescued after a frigid three-mile drift were Theodore Dussault, Georges Marois, Emile Lambert, Roland Legare, Rene Patterson, Roland Patterson and William Patterson. All are from Donnacona, 20 miles west of Quebec.

They were fishing from a cluster of cabins at Cap Sante, on the river edge near Donnacona. Mr. Legare said the shore ice was 15 to 18 inches thick.

But when low tide arrived it gave way — apparently because there was no longer water underneath to support it.

TURNED BACK

Two Cap Sante men tried to reach the floe—carrying six cabins—with a boat, Mr. Legare said. They were unable to push through the jumble of broken ice and had to turn back.

As the floe drifted down river the men waved oil lamps to signal their position. Watchers on shore pointed car headlights across the water to try to pick out the floe's position.

Reports of their plight were given to provincial police and the transport department.

Montreal's Autair Helicopter Service, which had a helicopter stationed at Quebec's Ancienne Lorette Airport, sent it to search the river.

Pilot Peter Hort spotted the men, loaded them aboard and ferried them to shore. In 1958 he picked three men from a drifting floe near Montreal's Jacques Cartier bridge.

The pilot and police chief Paul Lavallee of Donnacona went out over the river again to check other floes for trapped persons.

Electrical Industry Products Decline

TORONTO (CP) — Production and employment in the Canadian electrical manufacturing industry have declined while the gross national product has been going up, J. Herbert Smith, president of Canadian General Electric Co. Ltd., says in a year - end review.

Preliminary estimates, Mr. Smith says, indicate that electrical products shipped by Canadian manufacturers in 1959 will reach approximately $1,100,000,000, a decline of two per cent from 1958, and compared with $1,229,900,000 in the peak year 1956.

Employment in 1959 is estimated at something over 70,000 compared with a peak of 83,296 in 1956.

Chinese Reds By-Pass The Panchen Lama

TOKYO (AP) — The Chinese Communists are by - passing the Panchen Lama in remaking the craggy face of Tibet.

Since he left Lhasa, his capital, shortly before the October anniversary celebrations in Peking, the Red Chinese have put the Himalayan "roof of the world" firmly on the path to eventual Communism.

Days ago they created a Tibetan "people's political consultative committee," a first step toward regional autonomy under Red control. The Panchen Lama was not named to it.

Peking has so far offered no word of explanation for the prolonged vacation they have given the 21-year-old puppet ruler at a critical period in his country's history. There also have been no hints of the expected departure for Tibet of the eminent young sightseer, who left Monday for Nanning in south China after 11 days of visiting factories, movie studios and exhibitions in Shanghai.

But the Communists obviously feel they can push ahead with their drastic political reforms with or without his approval an indication that the once-tight religious domination of the remote country has been broken.

The Panchen Lama is the highest - ranking religious figure in Tibet in the absence of the Dalai Lama, the youthful God-king who fled to India after the unsuccessful revolt against the Communists last March.

Since the Dalai Lama's flight and his subsequent denunciation of communism, Peking has indicated it will no longer rely on the Buddhist priesthood who formerly ruled Tibet to lead the country into the Communist version of democracy.

The fact that it has been able in the Panchen's absence to push through the important first phase of Tibet's conversion from feudalism suggests that instead the Chinese are using the old nobel class as a front.

Iran Relies On Allies if Iraq Starts War

LONDON (Reuters)—Iran will call for help from all its allies, including the United States, if neighboring Iraq provokes open warfare in their border dispute, Premier Manushar Eghbal warned Tuesday.

The Iranian leader gave this notice in Rawalpindi, Pakistan, as both sides continued talking about their dispute over a three-mile strip of Persian Gulf territory. However, some signs were reported that actual tension was lessening.

Iraqui Premier Abdul Karim Kassem charged in his Baghdad capital Monday night that Iran had "threatened the peace" and "shall be responsible for this."

Both sides claimed they wanted peace, however, and the Shah of Iran and Queen Farah left Tehran, the Iranian capital.

SEE EASING

The Shah and Queen Farah were married eight days ago, but stuck close to the capital during the tension. He held a meeting with his cabinet Monday night.

Political observers said his departure Tuesday with his bride for a planned 10 days of riding, hunting and yachting by the Caspian Sea indicated an improvement in Iranian-Iraqui relations.

Eghbal, visiting Pakistan, said Iran would "protect our interests and rights with all the means at our disposal" and would call on all its allies for aid in the event of Iraqui aggression.

The dispute is over the Shatt-el-Arab, which forms the mouth of the Tigris and Euphrates rivers. Kassem recently claimed rights to it. Border incidents since then have included the killing of both Iranian and Iraqui peasants.

Ships May Be Icebound but Canada's Largest Port Busy

MONTREAL (CP) — 'Twas the season before spring, and all through the harbor not a vessel was stirring. . . .

But in shipping offices, harbor sheds, along ice-crusted docks, in winter-bound ships, in grain elevators, on diesel locomotives on the harbor railroad, there's work aplenty all winter long in Canada's biggest inland port.

In the signal service radio room, an operator flicks switches and talks to government icebreakers gnawing their way through ice in the St. Lawrence River.

Along the river, a farmer spots a growing ice blockade, crackling and crunching in the winter cold. He telephones the signal service and the information is broadcast to the icebreakers for action.

In the St. Lawrence ship channel office in Montreal, engineers, tanned and weatherworn after a summer in the field, map and mark, compute and calculate all through the winter, preparing final surveys of channel work, lining up next summer's channel improvement projects.

GROWING LIBRARY

In another office, ice information, water levels, weather data are compiled to form a growing library of material on winter's impact on the St. Lawrence River. They're building up data that someday—perhaps 10 years from now—will help ships sail all year round in the ice-clogged inland waterway.

In Montreal harbor itself, about 900 men work throughout the winter, repairing sheds, clearing roads, loading box cars and shifting imports. Grain elevators dump their contents into trucks and box cars for movement to local millers and other industries. Other goods, stored in warehouses, are cleared.

"If a ship should happen to call in February, we'd be ready for her," said Capt. F. C. Oppen, deputy harbor master. "We're ready all year round."

The National Harbors Board police force still patrols the snow-banked docks. The fire department stands ready for a sudden emergency.

There are no ships for months. But the work goes on as winter deepens and ice locks Montreal harbor tight until spring's thaw in April.

Steel Board Readies Data For President

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Eisenhower's inquiry board called on the American steel companies Tuesday to state their side of the industry's deadlocked labor controversy.

The three-man board headed by Prof. George W. Taylor is gathering data for a report due to be submitted to Eisenhower Jan. 6.

In open hearings Monday the panel heard the Steelworkers Union outline its position in testimony marked by bitterness and a scarcely veiled threat of a renewed walkout in late January.

The union labelled the steel firms "industrial isolationists" out of step with the rest of American management.

Union president David J. McDonald hinted that when the present 80-day Taft - Hartley law injunction expires Jan. 26, the union may strike again in only part of the industry in a divide-and-conquer strategy.

IKE TELL K?

Asked to be specific on plans for a renewed strike, McDonald said only, "would Ike tell Khrushchev?"

R. Conrad Cooper, chief industry negotiator, said he considered the notion of a selective stride only academic because the union has traditionally conducted walkouts on an industry-wide basis.

McDonald said nobody can predict accurately what the union may do if there is no settlement when the injunction runs out. The court order interrupted a record 116-day strike in early November.

The exposition of the union's side of the dispute lacked any ray of hope for an early settlement.

NO HOPE BEFORE REPORT

Taylor said the industry and union now are so hopelessly deadlocked that there's no point in even trying to get them together on an agreement before the Jan. 6 report to Eisenhower.

The government will conduct a poll of 500,000 steel workers Jan. 11-13 on the various company "last offers" of settlement in the rules-wages dispute. These are all alike except for minor details.

McDonald said returns from a union postcard straw poll of workers is running about 95 per cent in favor of rejecting the company offer. But he dispatched nearly 100 union subordinates back to their home areas with instructions to "go to work to roll up as big a vote as possible against the companies' last offer."

"I'd like to see a 99 99-100ths vote against," McDonald told his subordinate leaders.

Reasons Given For Halting TV Sponsorship

TORONTO (CP)—General Motors of Canada said Monday it withdrew sponsorship from a television play scheduled for Sunday because it isn't "the kind which we would like to have presented."

Larry Gough, GM public relations head, said "We don't think this play is consistent with the kind of entertainment that has been presented to date on this series."

GM withdrew its sponsorship from the drama, Shadow of a Pale Horse. It was to be part of the series of GM Presents. The CBC said it will present the play Sunday without GM sponsorship.

Mr. Gough described the play as "grim" and added: "This drama has a hanging scene that to put it mildly is just too realistic for the kind of program we want to sponsor."

Leslie McFarlane, script chief at the CBC, said the play had already been moved back in the schedule. It was originally to have been shown the Sunday before Christmas, "but the feeling here was that it was rather too grim for this time of year, so we moved it back a week."

Khrushchev Makes Light of Farm Output Rivalry

MOSCOW (AP)—Nikita Khrushchev has told the Americans that they won't be "scratched or bruised" if the Russians outstrip them in farm production.

The Soviet press Tuesday published the premier's speech to the Communist party central committee last Friday in which he said Soviet farmers already are ahead of the United States in per capita production of milk and butter. He predicted they will soon pass the Americans in meat output.

"The Americans don't need to be offended; they won't be scratched or bruised," said Khrushchev.

"Our people will lead a better life if there is more meat, milk and butter. The Soviet people will knock down a peg or two the boasting of those, who admire the American way of life."

Austrian Slide Kills Two School Students

GRAZ, Austria (AP)—A great snowslide roared down near here Tuesday and swept away 12 school children skiers, killing two of them.

Six of the children were buried completely. The others, only partly covered by snow, dug themselves out. Some ran for help. The rest dug frantically into the snow seeking their companions.

Adult rescue teams reached four of the buried children and found them suffering only from slight injuries or shock.

Press Condemns People Who Keep Mum On Slayer

BIRMINGHAM, England (Reuters)—Police hunting a maniac killer who beheaded a girl here last week are worried that he may strike again on New Year's Eve unless captured.

A police spokesman said Tuesday:

"Many young girls will be coming home late from parties on New Year's Eve. We are anxious about them. This man is really dangerous. Parents should make sure their daughters are escorted."

The unknown murderer invaded a Young Women's Christian Association hostel here last Wednesday and attacked a girl working in the laundry. She escaped, screaming for help.

Police called to the hostel then found in a cubicle the decapitated, unclothed and mutilated body of Stephanie Baird, 29, an out-of-work typist.

A man, heavily bloodstained, boarded a crowded bus soon after the crime was committed. But despite police appeals only 10 of the 60 passengers have come forward to give information.

WITNESS SILENT

Still missing are two main witnesses — who were on the platform of the bus when the killer got off and ought to be able to describe him in detail. Even more vital, they will know the exact point at which he left the bus.

One was overheard asking him: "Have you been in a fight?"

Newspapers have expressed anxiety at the attitude of the bus passengers who have refused to become involved in the hunt for a dangerous killer.

The London Daily Express says: "This natural ostrich attitude is reinforced by the present I'm-all-right-Jack atmosphere. It is the major price we pay for the featureless comforts of the welfare state."

Edmonton Firm Orders Latest Gas Turbine

HAMILTON (CP) — Canadian Westinghouse won a round Monday in its battle to get a share of the turbine-generator business which is expected to play a big role in power development projects in this country in the future.

Westinghouse was awarded a contract by Canadian Utilities Limited, of Edmonton, for a gas turbine generator worth nearly $2,000,000.

The order marked the initial entry of Canada's electrical manufacturing firms into the gas turbine manufacturing field.

Orders for several steam turbine generators have gone to United Kingdom firms, the latest being an $8,000,000 contract awarded by Ontario Hydro to Associated Electrical Industries (Canada) Limited for its Lakeview power station.

NO MORE EMPLOYMENT

The Edmonton order will not mean increased employment at Westinghouse but it will strengthen the work program in the motor and generator division at Hamilton which has gone through a slack period.

strengthen the work program in the motor and generator division at Hamilton which has gone through a slack period.

A. A. McArthur, general manager of Westinghouse's apparatus products division, described the Edmonton contract as a "particularly significant one."

"For the last few decades, Canadian electrical manufacturers have filled the needs for hydraulic generating equipment while the market for gas and steam turbines was supplied from outside the country," Mr. McArthur said.

FIGHTING HARD

"We are engaged in a hard battle against competition for the turbine business that is a definite key to our future activity in the field of apparatus manufacture.

"With the market for hydraulic generators substantially reduced because most major water power sources within economical transmission distance have been harnessed, the future of thousands of people in the electrical manufacturing industry will depend upon the Canadian industry's success in capturing a share of the growing turbine market."

Astronomers Find Space Produces Energy

PASADENA, Calif. (AP)—Radio astronomers have found some regions in outer space where fantastic amounts of energy are produced by collisions of cosmic rays and exploding gas, says a British scientist.

Radio impulses of great intensity come out of these areas, suggesting that they are produced in a process which heats particles of matter to thousands of millions of degrees, adds Dr. Fred Hoyle.

If this mechanism could be brought down to earth and into the laboratory, it would give man an enormous amount of power and plenty of heat to solve the problem of controlled thermonuclear energy, the scientist told the American Physical Society Monday.

Although Hoyle expressed doubt that the process ever would come under human control, he said it constitutes a challenge for nuclear physicians who are now striving to achieve hundred-million-degree temperatures to produce thermonuclear power for peaceful purposes.

The best they have done so far is to produce temperatures of a few tens of millions of degrees.

These outer space "hot spots" have been located by radio telescopes and through observations made at the Mount Wilson and Palomar Observatory, where Hoyle is working now. He is from the University of Cambridge.
