German Soldiers Arrive in France

First to Enter France Peacefully in 100 Years

By LOUIS MARCEROU

MOURMELON, France (Reuters) — French villagers paused Saturday only briefly in their work to glance at a once-familiar sight — men in German uniforms in the village streets.

The soldiers were part of a 200-man advance guard of 2,400 West German troops due next Thursday for training here and at Sissoune, both in the French Champagne region.

The advance party arrived Wednesday following the signing of a French-West German agreement for 35,000 West German troops a year to train in France.

They were the first uniformed German soldiers to enter France peacefully in 100 years.

Two of them asked directions in halting French from an old villager. They were polite and he pointed the way.

About the only notice taken of the Germans was an occasional stare at their uniforms. Storekeepers and restaurant owners thought they might provide some extra business.

DIDN'T SERVE IN FRANCE

None of the soldiers served in France during the Second World War, but the village baker here remarked laconically when he saw them arrive: "I was a prisoner of war for five years in East Prussia."

Then he returned to his ovens without further comment.

The county council in Rheims by a vote of 33 to 6 with two abstentions Friday turned down a Communist resolution expressing "the population's refusal of the presence of German troops."

In neighboring Meurthe-et-Moselle department, a law passed Friday by the Communist mayor of Auboue banning the German troops for "reasons of public order" was declared illegal.

The Communists have called for a protest demonstration Nov. 6 at Auboue.

The West German troops were reported to have been given psychological briefings in which they were told not to talk about the Second World War, to ignore anti-German slogans and "not to laugh if the slogans are funny."

THE YEARS FLEW BACK for Minister of Public Works David Walker when he returned to Toronto to the school where he began kindergarten 50 years ago this month. Attending the opening of a new addition to the school, he sat in a desk in a Grade I classroom and his hand went up when questioned by a reporter. "We thought it was the biggest building in the world then," he said. "I felt I was the dumbest guy in the class. Why, I didn't even read and had to memorize everything."—TNS Service.

Trust Reporter to Put Foot In It

MOUNT SYDNEY, Va. (AP) —The president of the United States planted a pine seedling "liberty tree" and a reporter promptly stepped on it.

President Eisenhower officiated at the tree planting at his mother's birthplace and spaded in earth from his own birthplace in Dennison, Tex., and his boyhood home at Alibene, Kan.

Then as the crowd surged forward, Guy Friddell of the Richmond News Leader unaware of frenzied cries of "watch the tree, watch the tree!" stepped on it and undid most of the President's handiwork.

While Senator Harry F. Byrd (Dem. Va.) chuckled loudly, Friddell bent over and muddied his hands repairing the damage.

YOUNG NAZIS SEEN ON CBC-TV

TORONTO (CP) — The self-styled "fuehrer" of a Canadian Nazi party said to number 400 to 500 members appeared on the CBC national television program Newsmagazines Sunday night to tell of the activities of his group.

In a filmed interview, Andre Bellefuille, 40, a Sorel, Que., draughtsman, said his party meets once a month in Montreal and wears a modified uniform, white shirt and black tie. It soon will include jack-boots and tan shirts.

Bellefeuille, who said his Canadian Nazis are mostly native-born Canadians, told the interviewer he is "anti-Semitic and proud of it."

Man Well-Known in Nelson Dies in Crash

Among the 12 killed in an airline crash near Missoula, Mont., Friday was E. W. Johnson of Spokane, well-known in this district.

Mr. Johnson is past district governor of District 19 of Lions International and a director of the Spokane Chamber of Commerce. He was in Nelson Sept. 24 to present Frank Beresford with Lions master key on the club's 15th anniversary celebration.

A frequent visitor to Nelson, he and his wife were good friends of the Beresford family.

Mr. Johnson was president of General Distributors and part owner of several drive-in theatres in Portland and Spokane.

He is survived by his wife May, one married daughter and another daughter attending university in Seattle.

A theory that the Northwest Airlines plane, in which Mr. Johnson was a passenger, may have hit a high peak before hurtling earthward, was gaining support.

The DC-4—flight 104 from Spokane en route to Missoula, smashed into Cayuse Hill, just off U. S. highway 10 at Nine Mile House, 26 miles west of here. All eight passengers, three crew members and a hitch-hiking stewardess, were killed when it hit the earth on its back and exploded.

The speculation is based on the fact that the plane had its landing gear retracted and that it was seen to have flipped over just before crashing. Robert R. Johnson, of the Johnson Flying service here, a veteran mountain pilot, said it could have hit a fog-shrouded peak and thrown out of control.

Killed were Capt. James R. Perkins, E3405 Congress, Spokane; first officer Harry C. La Bart, Bellevue, Wash., Stewardess Ethel Marine De Freese, W2012 Fourth, Spokane; Stewardess Eva Louise Kight, S420 Coeur d'Alene, Spokane, and passengers A. P. Martinelli, E9427 Grace, Spokane; E. W. Johnson, S3011 High Drive, Spokane.

Mrs. Betty Hurl and her son, John, Phillipsburg, Mont.; J. A. Deuton Portland; B. Leonard, Salem, Ore.; R. Anderson, Los Angeles and A. W. Jensen, Alexandria, Va.

Northwest Airlines yesterday had not yet disclosed which of the Spokane-based stewardesses was hitch-hiking a ride east.

REAL BONFIRE FOR GOBLINS

VICTORIA (CP) — A Hallowe'en bonfire to end all Hallowe'en bonfires will be touched off near Victoria today.

The fiery fare will be a 10-room, double-storey wooden house in the Prospect Lake area.

The old house had to be removed to clear the land for a new park, and officials decided some time ago that burning would be the best way. Resident of the area asked that it be used for a giant Hallowe'en bonfire.

To make the night of witches and goblins all the more delightful for the children, the local community association will provide hot dogs and refreshments while Prospect Lake parents will put up some money to buy fireworks.

Votes in Four Ridings May Tell How Gov't Standing Up

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Four federal byelections which could be important indicators of which way Canada's political winds are blowing will be held Monday in three eastern provinces.

The contests in the Ontario constituencies of Peterborough and Niagra Falls, Quebec's Labelle and New Brunswick's Royal will have little impact on party standings in the Commons where the Progressive Conservatives have a record majority.

But the votes will be closely watched for signs of how the government's standing with the public has weathered more than three years in office, and whether things are looking up for the Liberals and the CCF party — soon to merge itself in a new party setup.

Three of the constituencies—all but Niagara Falls—were held by Conservatives. Niagara Falls was held for seven years by Liberal William Houck who died last May.

Unemployment is reported to have been the main issue in the two Ontario constituencies, both of which contain large urban populations. During the campaign the government placed contracts with industries in both ridings. In the other two constituencies, local and provincial issues were dominant.

Government prestige is especially at stake in Royal where former New Brunswick premier Hugh John Flemming, named to the cabinet earlier this month as forestry minister, is seeking to enter the Commons.

He is trying to hold the riding —a Conservative stronghold since it was formed in 1917—against Liberal Harold A. Fredericks and CCF candidate George H. Wheaton.

The royal seat was made vacant by the Senate appointment of former veterans minister A. J. Brocks. He had held the riding for 5 years, winning in 1958 by a 3,452-vote majority.

Perhaps the liveliest contest has been in Niagara Falls where the only woman candidate, Liberal Judy LaMarsh, 35-year-old lawyer, has waged a spirited campaign against two schoolteacher candidates. The Commons now has three woman members, all Conservatives.

Miss LaMarsh's opponents are Conservative candidate Keith Lougheed, 41, a high school teacher, and Ed Mitchelson, 50, a science and agriculture teacher and reeve of populous Stamford Township. Mr. Mitchelson is running under the New Party label—the party to be formed next year under sponsorship of the CCF and the Canadian Labor Congress.

Niagara Falls is regarded as a key constituency. The likeable Mr. Houck, former mayor and the seat in the 1958 election by a elections there since 1934, held winner in provincial and federal scant 51 of some 31,000 votes polled.

There is also a New Party candidate in Peterborough where three men are battling for the seat vacated by the death of Gordon K. Fraser, Conservative incumbent for 20 years.

The New Party man is Walter Pitman, 31 - year - old high school teacher. Conservative candidate Harold Matthews, 37-year-old insurance Agent. The other corner in the three-way fight is occupied by Liberal Donald Munro, 58, a Peterborough alderman who retired last year after a 35-year teaching career.

LIBERALS CAME CLOSE

In the 20 years Mr. Fraser held the seat for the Conservatives, Liberals twice came within about 200 votes of beating him. But in 1958 he rolled up a majority of 11,778.

The only two-way contest is in Labelle, which has elected only two Conservatives since it was created in 1892. Former state secretary Henri Courtemanche, who won in 1949, 1957 and 1958, was appointed to the Senate last January.

The candidates are Paul-Emile Lesage, 40, for the Conservatives, and Liberal Gaston Clermont, 46. Mr. Lesage, an insurance broker at Mont Laurier, was once secretary to a cabinet minister in Quebec's Union Nationale government. Mr. Clermont, a Thurso businessman, is president of the Ottawa district of the Canadian Amateur Hockey Association.

ONE B.C. SEAT VACANT

The four byelections still will leave one vacancy in the 265-seat Commons. That is the Esquimalt-Saanich seat held by former defence minister Pearkes before his appointment as lieutenant-governor of British Columbia. No date has been set for a by-election there.

The other Commons seats are divided: Progressive Conservatives 205, Liberals 48, CCF 8.

Cuba Ready To Repulse Invaders

HAVANA (AP) — Fidel Castro appealed Saturday for calm in Cuba but warned that any invaders would be thrown back by his expanding civilian militia.

The Cuban premier did not refer directly either to the United States or the Soviet Union during an hour long televised speech, which was set against the background of these events involving the two great powers:

1. A weekend visit of 1,450 U.S. marines to Guantanamo naval base in eastern Cuba for rest and recreation and a reported concentration of U.S. warships near Puerto Rico. Government-controlled newspapers said these two incidents heighten "invasion fever" here. In Washington, the marines' landing was seen as a classic show of force.

2. Publication by the Soviet news agency Tass of a statement by Premier Khrushchev that Soviet rocket support for Cuba must be regarded as "symbolic."

3. A report in a Cairo magazine quoting Castro as saying that he and his government would not be such "idiots" as to attempt to seize the Guantanamo base by force.

In his speech Saturday, Castro dealt with his growing armed forces. But when he said Cuba has arms to defend itself, he did not say where the arms are coming from.

"With every week that passes we will have thousands more organized defenders in Cuba," Castro said. "Our enemies know, too, that with every day that passes their hopes for successfully invading Cuba are less."

CNR Shows $5 Million Deficit

MONTREAL (CP) — Canadian National Railways reports net deficit of $5,054,000 for September, 1960, compared with a profit of $485,000 in September, 1959.

Railway revenue was $53,715,000, compared with $64,158,000 and expenses $58,769,000, compared to $63,673,000.

From January 1 to Sept. 30 this year, net deficit was $19,030,000 compared with $1,623,000 for the same period last year.

Comparative figures for revenue were $521,333,000 and $554,187,000; for expenses $540,363,000 and $555,810,000.

Reds Helping Algerian Rebels

ROME (Reuters) — Algerian nationalist leader Ferhat Abbas says the rebels are accepting military and diplomatic help from Russia and Communist China as the sixth anniversary of the North African territory's fight for independence from France neared.

"We would prefer to defend ourselves with Chinese arms than to allow ourselves to be killed by the arms of the West," he said in an interview with the Italian Communist newspaper L'Unita.

The interview came amid reports from Algeria that the insurgents intend to make Tuesday, the anniversary of the start of the Algerian war, a "day of blood."

However, similar but unfulfilled warnings have preceded previous anniversaries of All Saints Day, 1954, when the war started with 30 bomb and gun attacks on Europeans, mainly in the Constantine area of Algeria.

Seven persons were killed in the attacks and since then official estimates are that more than 300,000 persons have been killed, injured or declared missing by both sides.

Abbas, who recently returned from visits to Russia and Communist China, termed it "premature" to say whether Algeria would espouse Communism as a result of his visits.

But he said that "the socialist camp helps us without conditions in a crucial period of our existence" and that he thought "the Algerian people will take that into account" once they gain independence.

16 Football Players Die in Air Crash

TOLEDO, Ohio (CP) — A chartered airplane taking a college football squad home to San Luis Obispo, Calif., crashed in dense fog at Toledo Airport Saturday night, and 22 of the 48 persons aboard died in the flaming crash.

Sixteen of the dead were members of the California State Polytechnic College team.

The injured football players included Walter Shimick, 20, a native of Picture Butte, Alta. He was reported in fair condition in hospital here with a shoulder injury.

The twin - engined C-46 rose about 100 feet on takeoff, then its engines apparently failed and it plunged to the runway

The fog was so thick the traffic controller in the airport tower, E. D. Richards, said he couldn't see the plane on the runway while it was preparing to take off and couldn't even see the flames of the fire a quarter of a mile away at the east end of the main runway.

Accounts by survivors indicated the plane encountered some sort of mechanical trouble. Halfback Jim Fahey said the motor "started sputtering and then the left motor apparently stopped."

Assistant coach Sheldon Harden said the plane began "fish-tailing" as it took off.

"Just as we left the ground, the tail seemed to drop and the plane fell of to the let," Harden said. "The next thing I knew I was on my hands and knees trying to crawl out."

A "FLIP-FLOP"

Fahey said the plane did "a complete flip - flop — the tail went right over the top of it."

Fahey was in the rear of the plane and escaped with head cuts, most of the dead had been at the front.

The Arctic Pacific Lines plane had brought the California team —36 players, plus coaches, managers and trainers—here Thursday. The squad continued on by chartered bus for the game with Bowling Green State University.

Federal aviation agency co-ordinator W. J. Kingston said the impact broke off the 30-foot rear section.

Survivors said the stewardess, Mrs. Faith Miller, 34, of Seattle, risked her life to help get passengers from the plane. Then, in stocking feet, she instructed rescuers on how to handle the injured.

In addition to the 16 players, the dead included the team student manager, an insurance man travelling with the team and the pilot and co-pilot. Also killed were two women, the mother and sister of the co-pilot. Mrs. Miller was the only one of the three crew members to survive.

Julian McPhee, college president, seemed stunned when told of the tragic crash. He was reached in Washington, where he has been recruiting additional faculty members.

Coast Symphony To Visit Here

VANCOUVER (CP) — A $25,000 Canada Council grant to the Vancouver Symphony Society will finance a trip to the Kootenays in the spring for the symphony orchestra.

The 68-piece orchestra will play in Grand Forks, Trail, Nelson, Creston and Kimberley from March 2 0to 24. It will also perform at a morning children's concert in Castlegar, March 22.

EUROPE UNION IDEA MAY BE DUSTED OFF

NICE, France (Reuters) — The age-old dream of a United States of Europe will be revived at a three-day conference of 250 Western European legislators and civic leaders.

The principal aim of the meeting, which began Sunday, is to discuss a possible referendum through six nations of Western Europe. Voters would ballot for or against the idea of a political federation of their nation.

LEAPS FROM BRIDGE

VANCOUVER (CP) — A 33-year-old librarian leaped 150 feet to her death from Vancouver's Lions Gate bridge early Sunday.

The woman, still unidentified, parked her car on the span over Burrard Inlet at 2:15 a.m. and leaped over the railing. Her body has not yet been recovered.

FLOODS HIT EAST ANGLIA

LONDON (Reuters) — More rain brought flooding to many parts of East Anglia and the counties surrounding London Sunday.

But in the west country, deluged last week, only a few places were still under water Sunday night.

Water was 18 inches deep on roads and farmland in parts of Bedfordshire, Suffolk and Essex.

The River Thames continued to rise and at Windsor it was more than three feet above normal. Much of the surrounding low-lying land was under water.

In Exeter, the worst-hit area in last week's floods, the people were able to start cleaning up.

The Devon county council said that 3,000 houses had been damaged in the county by the floods.

And in This Corner . . .

LEXINGTON, Ky. (AP) — Because of a gust of wind Mrs. John Brannon can't vote in the Nov. 8 election.

The woman wrote Fayette County clerk Luther Land and asked if she could have a second absentee ballot.

The wind, she explained, blew the first one away.

Sorry, replied Land, but only one ballot to a voter.

VIMODRONE, Italy (AP) — Police had to call a brick mason to get Ernesto Brabanti to jail. They said the 220-pound Brabanti got stuck in a hole in a brick hen house wall when he tried to crawl out with a bag full of poultry. Brabanti was charged with breaking and entering and attempted larceny.

Extra Police, Cars on Duty; Goblins Stalk the Streets

Extra policemen will patrol the city tonight and incidents of vandalism will be investigated and charges laid, Police Chief Robert Harshaw said Sunday.

"I would advise all citizens to remain at home and look after their property — especially their cars," Chief Harshaw said.

He said seven policemen, one patrol car and two ghost cars will patrol the city.

"But we can't be everywhere at once and we hope people won't leave their homes and cars unattended," he said.

"Nelson never has very much serious trouble — except for the time four years ago when about 50 cars were found with flat tires."

"The less we say about it the better," he said.

There will be less accidents involving motorists and children on the streets tonight if parents dress their children in white costumes.

"If they can't wear white they should carry something white," officials of the B. C. Automobile Association advise.

SAFETY RULES

The B. C. Safety Council lists 13 rules for Halloween safety.

Provide your youngsters with flame-resistant costumes.

Light costumes are easier to see by motorists.

Neat costumes prevent tripping or catching on hedges and fences.

Masks should provide openings for breathing.

Youngsters should not carry knives or sharp objects. Rubber knives are safer. Flashlights are safer than torches or candles.

You should know where your youngster is going. Neighborhood or community parties are safe — and fun.

Youngsters should carry matches and fireworks in separate pockets. Tell your children their "punk" must be out before they put it in coat pockets.

Explode fireworks a distance away from other children. Don't explode fireworks inside any kind of container. Children have been fatally burned by exploding firecrackers inside gasoline barrels or automobile tanks.

Keep porch lights on to light the streets. Porch lights will minimize the danger of car accidents, tripping, and falling.

Home decorations should be flame-proof.

Very young children should not play frightening games including "Hall of Horror," or "Torture Chamber."

At the same time children of 84 countries will be given food and medicine because an estimated 300,000 Canadian youngsters are sharing their Hallowe'en tonight with the sixth United Nations Children's Fund.

Children collecting coins tonight under the authority of the black and orange United Nations International Children's Emergency Fund will raise an estimated $200,000.

Canada's total contribution through the Hallowe'en program since 1955 is close to half a million dollars.

Last of Nelson's Slaters, Alfred Wood Dies

Alfred Wood, of Nelson, a well-known horticulturist and sportsman died Sunday morning in the Mount St. Francis Infirmary, aged 78 years.

Born at Manchester, England, he married the former Matilda Stirzaker there in 1903, bringing his family to Nelson in 1909.

He was a slater by trade and because he was the only man in the city who understood the construction of slate roofs he repaired the court house roof here.

He worked with the city public works department for two years, and built one of the first sidewalks here. He helped build the Royal Bank building and the former YMCA building (now the Canadian Legion building).

Prior to his retirement in 1947 he worked for 36 years as a shipper with the MacDonald Consolidated Company, later the Kelly Douglas company.

He was a charter and life member of the Sons of England group here and belonged to the Nelson Horticutural Society.

He won several cross country races, was a rowing club member, and managed the Corinthian Soccer Team in 1920 when four teams formed a soccer league. Before coming to this country he was a member of the Manchester Harriers.

His first wife died in 1938. He married the former Bertha Gordon of Nelson, in 1939. His second wife died in Nov. 1951. In April, 1953 he married Charlotte Emily Beatty.

He is survived by the widow, three sons, Alfred of Rossland, John of Fruitvale, Wilfred of Burnaby, three daughters, Mrs. Edith MacDonald, Mrs. Howard Moore, both of Nelson, and Mrs. Hilda Gormley of Vancouver, one brother, Jack, of Calgary, 22 grandchildren, and 10 great grandchildren.

Introduced Singing in Mental Therapy, Tenor Sings for Nelson

Emanuel Mansfield, a native of Wake, Virginia, has been a waiter, farmer, stevedore, and psychiatric attendant, but he will be remembered as a singer.

The critics call him great.

Mansfield arrived in Nelson Saturday. He's an American tenor and an interpreter of Negro Spirituals and will sing four separate times during his four-day visit here.

His longest concert here — 90 minutes — is sponsored by St. Pauls - Trinity United Church. It will be presented Tuesday evening in the Capitol Theatre. Students of two Nelson schools will hear him sing English and American folk songs and excerpts from Porgy and Bess, Show Boat and Green Pastures.

"I sing songs that even the smallest child will get a kick out of," he said. Marriage Licence, Cabin Boy Call, Primrose Path and Sing-a-Song-of-Six-Pence (with apologies to Handel) are some of the songs the children will hear. He compares English and American folk songs and comments on the history of the two countries.

After his appearances in Nelson he will continue his tour in the U.S., singing at cities in Washington, Idaho, Colorado and Kansas.

Mansfield has been singing since 1926 and has toured Canada about six times. He jokes about his age. "I knew Paul Robson and travelled with him professionally before he was famous—that shows how old I am," he said.

Mansfield enjoys the work of other singers and considers Harry Belafonte "a fine folk singer whose work borders on Calypso."

"Belafonte can sing anything — and he has great acting ability," he said.

When Mansfield is not singing he is helping to rehabilitate the mentally ill at the St. Elizabeth Mental Hospital in Washington, D.C. He is granted leave of absence from his government job for concert tours.

The mental therapy work, with singing, began when Mansfield organized a group of five patients and taught them music. The method has spread to other institutions.

"Singing builds up the morale of the patient. Soon they are proud of themselves. It helps rehabilitate them," he said. He uses hymns in the therapy work because "everyone has been to a church sometime in his life and knows a hymn or two."

His job in the hospital came about after his marriage to Zelma D. Mansfield, a former seamstress and notary public. His wife objected to his being away from home on concert tours for long periods.

Griffin and Co. In or Near Trail

Kevin Griffin, 25, of Cape Breton Island, and Matt Deane, 32, of Toronto, are presumed to be in Trail or about two steps further in their ant-crawl-across-a-dance-floor marathon walk to the Vancouver Grey Cup game.

The two men arrived in Nelson late Friday afternoon.

Griffin is walking toward a $10,000 medical scholarship — if he makes it to the football game in time.

Hitchhiking back to Creston early Saturday, he hiked over the Creston-Salmo cutoff to arrive in Salmo that evening.

Then he caught a ride back to Nelson and stayed in the city Saturday night—the guest of the Nelson city police. The new road is cold and snowed under by two feet in places he said.

Sunday morning he rode to Salmo then started his 25-mile walk to Trail, where he will rejoin Deane.

Deane is going along for half of $5000 cash also offered and is acting as the pacer.

He will perform at Central Elemenary on Monday at 12:45 p.m. and at the Junior High on Tuesday at 11:45 a.m.

Broken Neck Result of Car Accident

A Nelson man, Edward Jones, had a broken neck for four days before it was known.

On Oct. 22 he was involved in a minor accident at Kinnaird, a 3-car collision. Jones lay home in bed until Thursday morning when taken to hospital with a broken neck.

The accident occurred when Jones was travelling along the highway, signalled to turn left. The car immediately behind him, saw the signal but the car following that vehicle and driven by Karen Randall of Kinnaird failed to see the signal and pulled out to pass the vehicle immediately behind Jones. As she passed, Jones turned left and was hit broadside. An estimated $1000 damage resulted to the three cars.

Injunction Heads Civil Cases at Assize Today

The injunction case against the City will be brought in front of the court at the assizes which began Monday and a request for adjournment will be placed before the judge then, Mayor T. S. Shorthouse said during the weekend.

Plaintiffs are Boyd C. Affleck and George Turner, who are suing the city fathers in their capacity of mayor and aldermen and in their individual capacities over the city hall issue.

Rumble Halted By City Police

City police quickly squelched any chance of a full scale "rumble" among a half-dozen teenagers Saturday night in the alley back of the Dapartment of Highways Building.

Constables corralled ten youths, all between the ages of 16-20 years and hustled them off in the paddy wagon to city cells. All were released pending charges.

Several were expected to appear in court this morning to face a charge of disturbing the peace.

City police believe that the incident started in a local cafe over some chance "wisecrack" which mushroomed into challenges which led to the back alley brawl.

Five youths were involved in the brawl and as far as the police police know the only weapons used were fists. Of the five contestants, two from the city and three from outside, worst injury suffered was a black eye and a split lip.

Trades Licence Solution Still Sought in Kimberley

KIMBERLEY — Discussion on issuing of trades licences is still a hot topic between retail merchants and City Council in Kimberley.

Ald. Jack Glennie brought the Retail Merchants Association up-to-date on progress in the matter at a meeting held Monday night.

City Council is revising the trades licence bylaw, he assured the merchants, who have recently complained to council about unlicensed merchants operating from their homes and also about transient tradesmen operating without a licence.

Mr. Glennie said the Union of B. C. Municipalities convention had discussed stabilizing issuance of trades licences but had come to no solution.

Speaking on the past practice of issuing licences in the residential areas, Mr. Glennie said they had continued to issue licences in some instances because sometimes it meant a case of social assistance if the party was not given a licence to operate from their home.

He explained there were widows and others who could not afford to build or rent in the commercial zone.

He said any resolutions governing trade licences should be approved by the merchants before final adoption by city council, who, he said, are not merchants and probably not familiar with all aspects of the retail trade.

In answer to the complaint by merchants of transient traders operating in the city without a licence, Ald. Glennie said it is the duty of residents to report them as it is impossible for one mayor and six aldermen to try and track them down.

Speaking on door to door salesmen, Ald. Glennie stated they had not made it a practice to charge licences to organizations selling and contributing the proceeds to a charitable cause and children were also allowed to sell cards, etc., without being assessed a fee.

Trophies Presented at Little League Banquet

FRUITVALE — Seven championship trophies were presented on Saturday night when 200 boys, parents and dignitaries attended the Beaver Valley Little League and Babe Ruth League Boys' Baseball banquet.

Commissioner A. Borrow, representing the Village Commission, congratulated league officers, managers, and coaches for their valuable work.

W. Corbett of the Fruitvale Community Chest, said the number of persons at the banquet made him realize the importance of baseball in the community. A large number of people in the valley were benefitted by the Community Chest's generous grant, he said. He regretted the lack of adult attendance at the games.

M. Scodellaro, of the Montrose Improvement Association, talked on baseball ethics and stressed the importance of good sportsmanship.

The Babe Ruth championship trophy was presented to the Jets baseball club and H. "Sandy" McInnis, manager. It was presented by M. Scodellaro, on behalf of the Montrose Improvement Association, and was received by Donald Graham on behalf of the team.

The Silver Line trophy, for champions in league play, was presented to the Yankees and Jim Burroughs, manager. It was received by Alan Doherty and was presented by R. Mason, of the Fruitvale Fire Department.

The Yankees won the Canadian Legion Branch Number 196 Trophy for winning the league playoffs. Doug Jefferson received the trophy on behalf of the team. It was presented by A. Redding.

The Fruitvale Co-Operative Pitchers' Cups were awarded to Tom Lewis, of the Jets, (Babe Ruth league) and Doug Jefferson, of the Yankees, (Little League). R. Spratt made the presentations.

Cam Payette Junior, of the Orioles, and Alan Doherty, of the Yankees, best batters in their leagues, received the Pythian Sisters and Knights of Pythias Trophies, presented by Mrs. J. Rothwell.

The managers, coaches, umpires, score keepers, and executive members were introduced by Douglas Haines, league president. He said the continuing success of the leagues would be ensured by a good attendance at the annual meeting — scheduled in the Memorial Hall, Nov. 7.

The league supported 12 baseball clubs in 1960 and enabled 180 boys, from eight to 15 years of age, to play.

Mrs. C. Payette and Mrs. J. Lewis were in charge of catering on a voluntary basis. Fred Peitzsche helped as "chef."

PNR Appealing PUC Ruling

VICTORIA (CP) —The Pacific Northern Railway has launched appeals both to the British Columbia cabinet and to the courts against a Public Utilities Commission ruling that it is a utility and therefore comes within the jurisdiction of the commission.

The PUC decision would mean that the railway must apply for PUC permission before proceeding further with construction of its 700-mile line from Prince George to the Yukon border.

The company has appealed to the cabinet to over-rule the PUC and has lodged an application for leave to appeal to the B.C. Court of Appeal for an order quashing the ruling. The court application will be heard Tuesday.

PUC member A. B. Jackson said Friday the commission has received notice of the appeals.

The PNR started constructed at Summit Lake, 30 miles north of Prince George, June 28, at a ceremony resided over by Premier Bennett. It claimed authority under an order granted by the provincial government in accordance with the B.C. Railway Act.

The PUC ruling would require that a public hearing be held to determine whether a certificate of public convenience and necessity should be granted authorizing construction of the line.

The railway is backed by Swedish industrialist Axel Wenner-Gren.

No Need To Fear Loggers' Methods, Public To Be Told

VANCOUVER (CP)—A meeting of Pacific Northwest logging industry representatives was told here the public is becoming increasingly interested in the forests and often is unduly alarmed at what the logger appears to be doing with them.

Brice Hammack of Portland told 1,400 B.C. and U.S. northwest lumbermen they must pay more attention to the industry's relations with the general public.

As a result of a shorter working week, hunters, fishermen and "just plain people" are spilling out into logging lands, he said.

The general public has been very critical of logging methods, said Jack Morgan of New Meadows, Idaho, but in most cases there has been very little truth in charges levied against the industry.

"They look at a hillside that has just been logged and they think it has been destroyed," he said.

"In many cases the area has not been destroyed at all. The soil must be shaken up for proper re-seeding, in the same way that farm land must be ploughed. But when the soil is disturbed through logging it looks bad to the public."

Tom Fraser of B.C. Forest Products, Vancouver, said the public must be educated about its personal stake in the logging industry.

He said the B.C. provincial government collects nearly $100,000,000 a year in taxes, stumpage and other revenues from the forest.

"We must make the public understand that they should be just as interested in getting the logs out as we are," he said. The public would take better care of logging roads if it knew the importance of roads to the industry.

"Maybe we should have tried harder to educate the public," he said.

Junior High School

UNICEF HALLOWE'EN

Last year many Nelson school children incorporated a drive for money in support of the United Nations Children's Fund along with their usual Hallowe'en activities.

The more than $600.00 which they collected brought food, clothing and medical aid for underprivileged children everywhere, many of whom have never gone to bed without feeling hungry.

This year our Junior High School students are once again going to ring our doorbells as emmissaries of the needy and underprivileged children of the world.

You will be able to identify these good young Samaritans by the orange and black UNICEF emblem they will be wearing.

I urge you all to support them this Hallowe'en. The treat you shell out may treat a child to life itself.

A Slow Approach Is Needed

From time to time suggestions are made to the effect that certain public decisions should be taken from the hands of the voters and entrusted to the care of their representatives.

It is essential that these suggestions be considered separately on their merits, and with the utmost caution.

One such proposal is being made by Mayor Harry Hays of Calgary to the Union of Alberta Municipalities. Mayor Hays says he will seek the power for the city to build bridges without taking each bridge to the electorate in the form of a money bylaw.

There may be great merit to this suggestion.

It can perhaps be said with fairness, however, that the time to alter a principle such as this is not when the city is confronted with a specific problem.

The problem in this case is that the money bylaw covering the 24th Street bridge could not be prepared in time for the Oct. 19 municipal election. Unless the rules of the game are changed, this will necessitate a vote, at the cost of several thousand dollars, in the near future if the project is to be commenced this winter.

To save the city this expense, it is suggested that the administration be empowered to build the bridge without submitting the matter to the electorate.

There would appear to be little argument as to the necessity for the bridge. But, of course, in 1956 there seemed to be little doubt as to the wisdom of building a new library, yet the voters rejected the idea.

It is relatively easy for honest, conscientious city administrators to satisfy themselves as to the need of a specific project, and then to desire its completion as soon as possible.

The senior administrator is in an excellent position to assess the needs of the community, and may watch with heartbreak while the voters turn down a project he considers vital to the city's welfare.

Yet it is only right that the people have the final word. Cities have limited sources of revenue, and their capital expenditures must be carefully considered. City politics are now blessedly free of attempts to capture votes through the erection of public works.

Mayor Hays' idea may be a good one, but it should not be implemented simply because the city faces an immediate problem.—Calgary Herald.

Interpreting the News

By ED SIMON

In view of Nikita Khrushchev's fondness for making bloodcurdling threats against the West, it is intriguing to analyze the claim made on his behalf that he has never backed down on one yet.

At first glance, the claim would appear to be belied by the simple fact that the world has not yet disappeared under a gigantic mushroom cloud.

But a Khrushchev press conference with a covey of visiting Cubans throws some light on his technique.

Having promised armed assistance to Fidel Castro's government in the event of armed aggression, Khrushchev told them he would like the pledge "really to be symbolic."

Ticking off a few more of his more impressive rumblings, it appears that the same preference applies in other instances.

The most striking example was the Suez affair. When British, French and Israeli troops moved into Egypt in 1956, the Russians threatened full-scale action unless they broke off their campaign.

But the record shows that the Soviet Union, although it had voiced its displeasure at an earlier stage, never got around to the ultimate threat until after the conclusion of a ceasefire agreement.

Khrushchev's footwork was equally painstaking during the U-2 controversy. It was only after United States had made it plain that no more reconnaissance aircraft would be sent over Russian territory that he promised destruction to any western base that dared to dispatch one.

Similarly, it may be presumed that the Russians are perfectly aware that the United States has no plans to invade Cuba and that they reserve the right to interpret the phrase "armed aggression" as inapplicable to an uprising originating in Cuba itself.

In short, Khrushchev's horrendous threats are invariably directed at straw men. His bluff has never been called, simply because he has always taken pains to leave plenty of room for the west to avoid calling it without losing face.

Our Greatest Composer

All Canadians might, with good reason, have joined to extend felicitations to Dr. Healey Willan on the occasion of his 80th birthday. Such would have been a fitting tribute to the man who is still recognized as Canada's greatest composer. It also would have been no more than sufficient recognition of one who stands as a symbol, in the intellectual field, of the international recognition Canadians continually strive for in areas as widely separated as sports and the cultural arts.

Those whose primary interest is sports, at times bemoan our failure at the Olympics as a sign of national decadence; yet during the last 50 years Canadians, particularly musicians, have taken their place among the world's greatest. Dr. Willan was one of the first to achieve this international acclaim, as a composer and as a lecturer and organist. In his time he has watched the growing recognition of fellow musicians — of soloists in international competition and in the world's greatest opera houses and concert halls; of instrumental chamber ensembles and choirs; and of composers.

Sabotage In the Schools

Starting school is compulsory; finishing is not. Of each 100 students who start grade one in Canada, it is found that only eight graduate from high school. And of those eight, only three came from the most intelligent 25 who started grade one. In other words, 22 of the 25 most intelligent in that group of 100 students did not graduate from high school.

The same investigators (Industrial Foundation on Education) found that of the 25 most intelligent students in each group of 100, 20 are not making grades equal to their intelligence.

The conclusion is that the school system is inadequately serving the brighter students. They are not being trained to use their heads, and they are not getting an education commensurate with their ability.

That has been obvious for some time. In democratizing the school system, in paying so much attention to the less capable, the system has lowered its standards too much.

Hard Role For President

On two foreign fronts, the next president, whether Republican or Democrat, already has been attacked. Cuba's Fidel Castro has lumped Vice President Nixon and Senator Kennedy together as "cowardly hypocrites" and "two ignorant, beardless kids."

There is strong feeling among the Arab states, as voiced by Saudi Arabia, relative to the alleged pro-Israeli position of both Mr. Nixon and Mr. Kennedy.

The next president, no matter which party he belongs to, is committed to certain basic foreign policies which unavoidably will alienate certain foreign groups. It is not a question simply of a new face, or even a new approach. The United States has no intention, for example, of ever abandoning Israel, even while this nation seeks to make friends with the Arab countries. This position is an affront to the determined Arab opposition to Israel's continued existence in the Middle East.

The fact of a new incoming administration will not change certain situations, of the Castro regime's making, which legislate against legitimate U.S. interests, and which cannot be ignored or excused. The old tough problems will remain, and it will not be U.S. policy alone which will determine what turn these issues may take in the period ahead.

Hey, Diddle, Diddle

Three mice, hurled 700 miles out into space in a U.S. rocket, have returned safely to earth, which has prompted a wag to remark that the next step in scientific research should be to send the mice around the moon, to determine whether or not it really is made of green cheese. Lovers of nursery rhymes, young and old, are entitled to argue that as governments are spending huge sums turning space fiction into fact, a little can be spared to investigate the relativity of ancient tradition.

Governments, however, would be well-advised to proceed cautiously in determining space questions, for just as scientists might find a moon made of green cheese quite indigestible, the moon might find an invasion of mice incompatible. Nature has a way of making man pay when he interferes with her balance. The latest evidence of this is the death-dive of a jet plane into Boston harbor, reportedly caused by a flock of starlings.

Starlings were introduced into this continent only two generations (of mankind, not of starlings) ago, by a man who thought he knew better than nature what kind of birds were suitable to this climate. His purpose was a scientific one, to find out if starlings would eat bugs.

By the time he found out they preferred other food, it was too late to correct the mistake. They ignored their assigned duties to agriculture and swarmed into the cities, mocking the man who introduced them with their noise and their foulness, visiting his sin upon the whole nation. Let the scientists consider this well before they set mice nibbling at the moon—whatever it is made of, it is an old friend and we wish to keep it.

Life of Leisure

Average working hours in Canada are among the shortest in the Western world, a recent survey of 17 countries by the International Labor Office reveals. The ILO report lists average normal yearly working hours in Canada as 1928, only eight hours more than France, the lowest.

The ILO took as "normal" the maximum number of hours which could be worked at regular rates of pay. Thus neither layoffs nor overtime were considered.

Hours of work in some other countries were: United States, 1984; United Kingdom, 2192-2152; Sweden, 2212; West Germany, 2296-2140; Switzerland, 2416-2370.

In most countries actual working hours, considering overtime and other special circumstances, were longer than normal hours. Largest difference was 14 per cent, in France.—Ottawa Journal.

Oral Polio Vaccine Expected

MILVERTON, Ont. (CP) Health Minister Monteith said Saturday oral polio vaccine may be in use in Canada "some time next year."

Mr. Monteith told a meeting of Perth County Progressive Conservative Association the testing of such oral vaccines will be made in Canada this year and next.

"Although no firm estimate can be made of the time needed to complete these tests," he said, "there are indications that supplies for licensing in Canada may be available some time next year."

Oral vaccine could mean the elimination of polio vaccinations by needle. Under the newly-developed system the vaccine is taken like a headache pill.

Tiny Tasker, Big Man for Big Job, Produces Bomarc Engines

By JERRY O'BRIEN

OGDEN, Utah (AP)—One May day last year Donald Kenniston Tasker — aviation pioneer, successful industrialist, boss of 1,600 Utah missile workers—took stock of himself and decided he was just too big a man for his own good.

It was an obvious decision: He weighed 370 pounds, was known as the most prodigious mammal in the missiledom and a most unlikely-looking producer of the Marquardt Corporation's sleek ramjet engine for the supersonic Bomarc.

With the same zeal that made him a leader in an exacting profession, Tiny Tasker tackled the problem of his monumental girth.

In 14 months he shed 175 pounds and today stands a semi trim 195 at 6-2, a heroic figure to Marquardt men and women already awed by his mental dimensions.

But while the diet reduced the burden on his feet, it did nothing for the weight he shouldered as manager of a $30,000,000 plant involved in the vagaries of defence production.

The Bomarc—named for the Boeing Airplane Company, which makes the frame, and the Michigan Aero Research Centre, an early ramjet designer — is intended to do only one thing—shoot down manned enemy bombers. Canada is building two Bomarc bases.

BOMARC BLUES

To some planners, the manned bomber is a passe threat. There were fears at Ogden last spring that Congress wouldn't approve the $244,500,000 recommended for Bomarc, that the program would go the way of the buggy whip.

To combat the gloom in his plant, Tiny Tasker ordered keep-smiling rallies and predicted Bomarc would stay "when the truth is known."

For him, the truth came from Lt.-Gen. Thomas White, air force chief of staff told the Senate: "In my opinion the manned bomber will be a threat for another decade at least."

Enough money has now been allocated to keep the program going through the third quarter of 1962. After that, Marquardt and Tasker will have to explore other things to produce.

Tasker was born in New England and weighed more than 200 pounds as a Dartmouth freshman bent on a career in medicine.

But when a pal quit and took up flying, Tasker also decided to become a pilot.

When the depression made jobs hard to get, Tasker went back to college to learn more about airplanes, mastered courses simultaneously at Massachusetts Institute of Technology and Harvard, then took off again as a pilot and field engineer.

In 1940 he joined Republic Aircraft and in 1943 was sent overseas as a chief civilian technician.

In a Nazi ramjet buzz bomb sputtering across London skies, Tasker saw his future—and it almost knocked him down as he walked in Grosvenor Square on an August night in 1944. Republic assigned him to scour the countryside and gather pieces of the new German propulsion system for closer scrutiny.

Four years ago when he left his executive position with Republic to join the Marquardt Corporation.

At 52, he puts in 13-hour days and runs the plant with a quiet-voice, firm-hand policy. It's said he can personally operate every machine at Marquardt but the typewriters.

Roy Marquardt needs such do-it-yourself executives. He is one himself and more than 35 per cent of his 5,200 employees are scientists, engineers or skilled technicians.

With 1959 sales of $69,000,000, Marquardt Corp. now devotes 63 per cent of its effort to the Bomarc, Marquardt obviously feels that's too much, and is moving into other fields. But whatever the company's future, the ramjet will propel it.

Ramjets have no moving parts, are carefully contoured pipes open at both ends. As they move through the atmosphere, air rammed through the front end is heated near the centre by combustion of fuel. The hot gasses accelerate out the nozzle at the rear to provide thrust.

In its inexpensive simplicity lies its major weakness. It does nothing standing still and must be boosted into motion by a rocket. But on its own at 2,000 m.p.h., the ramjets may be the most efficient of all air-breathing propulsion systems, could possibly be practical at 6,000 m.p.h.

Women's Fashions Not Taking Any Tips From TV

By CYNTHIA LOWRY

NEW YORK (AP) — It is one of the paradoxes of television that, while it has been used effectively to sell everything from breath purifiers to pickup trucks, TV has yet—even incidentally—to influence women's fashions.

In the heyday of motion pictures, during the late '20s and early '30s there were a lot of great women stars who single-handedly launched fashions.

But television, reaching vast ine, has had no such effect. In fact, it is robable that Perry Como, with his sweaters, and Jack Webb with his sorts jackets, have had more influence on men's fashions than any woman stars of TV have had on their own sex.

"How can television do anything for women's clothes?" asked singer-anelist Polly Bergen. "Ninety-nine per cent of the women who appear on television aren't well-dressed."

IT'S A MAN'S WORLD

One reason for this, well-dressed Polly suggests, is that TV is run largely by men.

"And most men think that women's clothes are a joke and a financial hazard a husband must meet. Most of them have an idea that money spent on women's clothes is squandered on something that looks silly."

Polly, a slim, pretty girl with excellent quiet taste in clothes, observes that the main reason TV has failed as a fashion-starter is that the small-screen medium cannot do justice to a woman performer and her clothes at the same time.

"On those big secials, most of the gowns would be absolutely unwearable for the average woman," she continued. "As a matter of fact, the performers have a hard time with them."

SHE'S CAREFUL GAL

Polly herself chooses her own TV clothes with great care.

"I know that the less stuff on a dress, the smarter it is," she continued. "I seem to send my life taking bows and sashes off clothes. That's one of the biggest problems on television — sashes, bows, accessories and—this articularly—jewelry."

The TV camera has an unpleansant magnifying quality — it invariably adds 10 or 15 pounds to very performer, always in the wrong spots. It catches a discreet rhinestone and blows it up to a big blob of light. It can distort a draped piece of material so that it makes the wearer look like a deformed barrel.

"On television it is always a good idea to wear skirts at least an inch longer than you would wear them for street wear," confided Polly. "You can't control every movement of the camera and if they shoot from a bad angle, it is most unattractive."

Sin's Destruction Sermon Subject

Comforting assurance of the final destruction of all sin was given in the Lesson-Sermon entitled "Everlasting Punishment", presented Sunday at Christian Science church services.

God's mercy was emphasized in the scriptural selections from Psalms (130: 7, 8): "Let Israel hope in the Lord, for with the Lord there is mercy and with Him is plenteous redemption. And He shall redeem Israel from all His Iniquities."

The following is one of the passages read from "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy: "Mortals must gravitate Godward, their affections and aims grow spiritual, they must near the broader interpretations of being, and gain some proper sense of the infinite—in order that sin and mortality may be put off."

Maple Leafs Ready for First WIHL Battle With Rossland

Car trouble caused the delay of Gil Desrosier and Alex Birukow, formerly of Rossland Warriors of the Western International Hockey League, who were expected to lace on their skates in Civic arena for a tilt with the Nelson Leafs Sunday.

Desrosier and Birukow contacted Leaf spokesman, Cec Hughes Saturday night and said they would not be in Nelson for the weekend practice as had been planned. The pair are expected to be at the Thursday practice.

Leo Lucchini, also a former Warrior, has still not made up his mind as to whether he will join the Leafs this season. Definite word on the trio's plans should be received by Thursday night, Hughes said.

Mickey Maglio, playing-coach of the Leafs, spoke highly optomistically of the first WIHL home game for the Leafs Wednesday when Trail Smoke Eaters travel to Nelson.

"We have a good crop of rookies this year," he said. "And while we are still missing some of the old-timers such as Lee Hyssop and Red and Fritz Koehle, we expect to use our youngsters to an advantage. If there's one thing we do have," Maglio stated, "it's youth, stamina and speed."

Hughes said earlier that the club has "a number of irons in the fire and we are just waiting for some definite results."

Big goal-getter for the Leafs for the past 10 seasons, Hyssop may be out with the club when they tangle with Rossland Tuesday in Rossland. However, word on the plans of the speedy centre has not been received.

MICKEY MAGLIO
. . . Plenty of Rookies

Nelson will be facing their first live competition of the season Tuesday, one game behind Rossland and two behind the Smokies. The Leafs will not be holding practices during the first half of the week but will be back on the practice ice Thursday.

Maglio has not as yet mapped out his lineups for the Rossland-Nelson game Tuesday but he will have everything down on paper by tonight.

Nelson will have a tough fight this year against the always-strong Warriors and the dominating Smokies. "But," Maglio said, "with the eight-or-so rookies and the remaining veterans on the club, we'll give them a run."

"After all," he said, "the Rossland club has been changed in structure too. They have a new coach. Anything can happen."

Hughie Hooker, a Nelson minor hockey league product, has been signed with the Lethbridge Native Sons of the Big Six Hockey League. Hooker, a big right winger who stands six foot and tips the scales at 185, played a number of games with the Leafs.

Wings, Bruins Mark Victories

Leafs Take Fifth Straight With Win Over Rangers

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Frank Mahovlich and Tim Horton scored third-period goals Sunday night to break a 1-1 tie and give Toronto Maple Leafs their fifth win in the last six National Hockey League starts 3-1 over New York Rangers.

In Detroit, the Red Wings scored a 2-1 triumph over Chicago Black Hawks and Boston Bruins downed Montreal Canadiens 5-3 in Boston.

Montreal and Chicago are tied in first place with 14 points each. Toronto has 12, Detroit 11, Boston nine and New York eight.

The goals by Mahovlich and Horton nullified Andy Bathgate's score early in the period that had brought New York the tie. Dick Duff had put Toronto ahead 1-0 in the second period.

Leafs beat Olympic hero Jack McCartan, making his third start this year for the Rangers. He turned back 31 Toronto shots. His counterpart, John Bower, had 30 saves — 13 in the final period when New York applied a lot of pressure.

Duff's second - period goal at 10:32 broke a tight defensive struggle. He took a carom shot off the boards by Dave Keon and beat McCartan who started out to field the puck on the left side of his cage.

Bathgate, to the delight of 10,668 New York fans, tied it at 1:37 of the third period, slamming home a pass from Brian Cullen.

Mahovlich's tie - breaker, and winner, came at 8:47 when he beat McCartan with a back-hand shot after taking a pass from Red Kelly.

LAST-MINUTE GOAL

In Detroit, Alex Delvecchio swarmed in on Norm Ullman's rebound with less than two minutes to play and scored the goal that gave Detroit the triumph over Chicago.

Red Wings, who had seen their best efforts turned back by Glenn Hall's brilliant goal tending, got the winning goal when Ullman slapped a hard shot from 15 feet and Hall could not get back into position to stop Delvecchio's flick from close range.

Hall made 42 saves in a great effort and was defenceless against Detroit's final goal.

Wings came from behind and tied the game late in the second period on Gary Aldcorn's first goal of the season. Aldcorn, blanked in 10 previous games, took a pass from Allan Johnson and rapped in a shot from the left corner of the net.

It matched Bobby Hull's first-period goal for Black Hawks. Hull, the NHL's leading scorer last season, got his seventh goal when Red Hay fed him a pass from behind the Detroit net.

Draftee Jimmy Bartlett, a tireless hustler who refuses to quit, scored two of Boston's goals and set up the clincher against Montreal.

The 28-year-old right winger, picked up from New York in the spring draft, put Boston ahead to stay with his first two goals of the NHL season, in the opening period.

Bartlett barged in on Montreal goalie Jacques Plante. His shot was stopped but Bartlett retrieved the puck, skated behind the net, brought it out the other side, faked a jab at the corner and quickly passed to Jerry Toppazzini, who lifted a backhander into the upper corner to put it out of reach.

Determined Bartlett, who scored only eight goals all last season, battled to slam in a pair of second-rebound efforts after Montreal had jumped ahead on Bernie Geoffrion's 15-footer.

Vic Stasiuk and Johnny Bucyk got the other Boston goals while Bronco Horvath drew three assists.

Dickie Moore notched his 13th goal in as many games for the visitors, who also got a tally from Henri Richard.

The Bruins also got spectacular, 39-save goaltending from Don Simmons.

Carry Back Romps To Richest Victory

NEW YORK (AP)—Carry Back romped to a 3½-length victory in the Garden State Stakes, the world's richest race.

Owner Jack Price had to sweat out a foul claim for 15 minutes before it became official.

Carry Back, who ran last in the Champagne Stakes in New York earlier this month, left behind a field of 15 two-year-olds.

Ambiopoise was second and Guadalcanal third.

Fourth choice of the crowd of 33,330, Carry Back earned $160,782 of the $287,970 purse rewarding the confidence of his owner who paid $10,000 earlier this week to make the colt a supplementary entry.

The favorite, Roving Minstrel, Day, finished eighth and 14th respectively.

Carry Back, ridden by John Seller, was timed in 1:46.4 for the mile and a sixteenth and returned $18.40, $11.60 and $7.80.

Ambiopoise paid $31.80 and $16.20. Guadalcanal returned $7.80.

PROTEST FAILS

Jockey Larry Adams, on Ambipoise, claimed Carry Back bore in on him in the stretch and lodged a foul protest. After viewing the pictures of the race the stewards disallowed the claim.

At Aqueduct, Kelso, a three-year-old gelding, set an American track record of 3:19.4 for two miles by winning the Jockey Club Gold Cup on a sloppy track.

In taking the $109,700 Gold Cup, the 4-to-5 favorite scored his eighth victory in nine starts this year, including six consecutive stakes races.

Eddie Arcaro brought Kelso home 3½ lengths ahead of Don Poggio. Bald Eagle was 10 lengths farther back.

Kelso paid $3.60, $2.80, $2.20.

Smokies Get First Win of WIHL Season

TRAIL (CP) — Trail Smoke Eaters, bound for the world championships, opened the 1960-61 WIHL season Saturday night by downing Rossland Warriors 5-3.

Trail took a 1-0 edge at the end of the first period and never looked back. The game was watched by 1100 fans.

Norm Lenardon opened the scoring for the Smokies on a long unassisted drive. Hal Jones came back to tie the game up in the early stages of the second, then Gerry Penner tallied for Trail.

Smokies had control of the game the rest of the way except for two occasions on which Lorne Nadeau broke through to complete the Rossland scoring.

Cal Hockley, Dave Russnel and Ernie Secco scored the remaining Trail markers.

Play was rough in the second period with Rossland drawing the bulk of the fighting penalties. The Warriors' John Palone was given a game misconduct for tangling with referee Sarge Sammartino.

Play was faster in the final period when two more penalties were handed out.

Can Hicke Take the Place of the Rocket?

By BEN OLAN

NEW YORK (AP) — Billy Hicke, a baby-faced 22-year old, is tackling one of the most challenging sports assignments in 25 years. He is taking the place of Maurice "Rocket" Richard, the all-time goal-scoring leader of professional hockey.

Hicke's task ranks with the undertaking of George (Twinkletoes) Selkirk, who replaced the immortal Babe Ruth in right field for the New York Yankees in 1935. Richard, sometimes called "the Babe Ruth of hockey" retired last month with 544 goals.

Hicke, in his second season with the champion Montreal Canadiens of the National Hockey League, is playing right wing on a line with Henri Richard, the Dickie Moore. Billy had two goals and seven assists in his first 10 games.

"There's more pressure playing in the Rocket's place than if I had been spotted elsewhere on the team," Hicke admitted. "I've been overanxious, but once I get used to playing with Henri and Dickie I'm sure the puck will go in more often. I'm hoping for 20 goals.

SET SCORING RECORD

Two years ago, Billy scored 41 goals for Rochester of the American Hockey League. He set a scoring record for rookies with 97 points. Last season, he played 43 games for Montreal and 14 for Rochester.

"I've got to learn to shoot faster," he said determinedly. "In the minors they gave you more time to shoot. Up here, those defencemen are right on top of you once you get near the net.

"That's one thing I learned just by watching the Rocket last year. I don't think his shot was the fastest I've seen, but he could sure get it off in a hurry. I also admired the way he skated down from the right, cut sharply toward the centre and then was in position to take a good shot. I've been practicing that move and hope to have it down pat pretty soon."

Billy, a native of Regina, Sask., stands 5-8 and weighs 165 pounds.

"It would be easier for him if he were a little bigger," said Toe Blake, the Canadiens' coach. "But he's going to be all right."

"Let's not have any more talk about Hicke and the Rocket," added Blake. "Let's just compare Billy with the ordinary players for the time being."

Lions Crush Roughies In Final WIFU Game

Fleming Scores 25 Points; Misses 5th T. D. for Title

VANCOUVER (CP) — Halfback Willie Fleming scored 25 points Saturday night as British Columbia Lions crushed Saskatchewan Roughriders 38-0 in the last scheduled game of the 1960 Western Interprovincial Football Union season.

But the 21,114 fans in Empire Stadium went home disappointed when Fleming failed in three other close tries for a fifth touchdown that would have given him the individual scoring championship.

As it was the second-year Lion wound up in second place with 109 points, five behind fullback Gerry James of Winnipeg Blue Bombers.

The outcome of the game, feature by Fleming's running and the passing of quarterback Randy Duncan who threw for all but one of Lions five touchdowns, had no bearing on the league's final standings.

Lions finished fourth, out of the playoffs, and Riders finished last.

The game, played in fine football weather, was billed as By Bailey night, and the veteran Lion fullback, who joined the club when it came into the WIFU in 1954, was given nearly $5,000 in gifts during halftime ceremonies.

But on the field it was Fleming's night.

He caught three passes from Duncan for touchdowns and went around end for a fourth, then took a pass from quarter Jim Walden on the convert attempt to give him his 25th point.

This manoeuvre, after Fleming's fourth touchdown, was designed to put him in position to pass James. Lions had three series of plays within scoring range after that, but Riders kept Fleming too well covered and he fell short each time, getting to the one-yard line once.

Halfback Bob Jeter made the night an all-Iowa affair when he scored the other Lion touchdown on a pass from Duncan. Tackle George Grant scored four converts and Lions got two more points when Rider quarterback Bob Ptacek was dumped behind his own goal line by Mike Cacic for a safety touch.

Lions led 16-0 after the first quarter 17-0 at the half and 31-0 at three quarter time.

Statistically, Lions had 22 first downs on 178 yards rushing and 229 yards passing. They completed 13 of 28, halfback Baz Nagle missing on his one attempt, and Duncan had two passes intercepted.

Riders got 12 first downs on a net gain of 13 yards rushing--Ptacek lost many as he was smeared time and again on passing attempts and 146 yards on 12 completions in 11 attempts. Lions intercepted two Ptacek tries.

Fleming's four touchdowns gave him 1 for the season and a team record, passing by four the 14 scored by halfback Ed Vereb in 1956. He was one short of James league record 19 in a single season, set in 1957.

Bailey, with Norm Fieldgate the only remaining member of the Lions who joined the WIFU in 1954, carried the ball eight times for 32 yards during the night.

Leafs Clip Hawks; Habs Win 3-2

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Toronto Maple Leafs had their highest goal output of the season Saturday night as they downed Chicago Black Hawks 8-4 in Toronto. At Montreal, the Canadiens edged Boston Bruins 3-2.

The results left Canadiens tied for the lead with Chicago. The Leafs were in third place with 10 points, one up on the idle Detroit Red Wings.

Frank Mahovlich, temperamental Toronto left - winger, lashed into brilliant form with a three-goal effort as the Leafs clipped the Hawks.

The Leafs, beaten 3-1 by Chicago in their first meeting of the 1960-61 season in the American city, swarmed all over the Hawks and practically demolished them with a 4-1 first-period lead. Chicago never could get untracked and trailed 2-6 going into the final 20 minutes.

Close behind Mahovlich for honors was veteran Bert Olmstead who clicked on two goals and assisted on three others. Other Leaf snipers were George Armstrong, Allan Stanley and Ron Stewart.

Chicago marksmen were Earl and Murray Balfour, Ab McDonald and Eric Nesterenko.

Referee Udvari kept a close check and handed out 19 penalties, 10 to Chicago.

SCORES WINNER

In Montreal, Jean Beliveau engineered and then scored the winning goal at 1:45 of the third period for the Montreal win.

The big Montreal centre took a pass from Doug Harvey almost behind the Boston net, managed to send out a perfect pass to Bernie (Boom Boom) Geoffrion, then hopped around the cage to slap in the rebound of Geoffrion's shot.

Until Beliveau scored the Bruins were never trailing. First and second period goals by Bronco Horvath and Jerry Toppazzini were matched by Montreal's Dickie Moore—his 12th of the season—and Harvey.

Argos Finish Season on Top; Whip Als 63-27

By WILF GRUSON

TORONTO (CP)—Toronto Argonauts, powered by the 27-point scoring performance of fullback Cookie Gilchrist, Sunday walloped Montreal Alouettes 63-27 to wind up the Big Four Football Union schedule in first place and win the bye into the playoff final.

Gilchrist scored three touchdowns, eight converts and a single to bring his point total for the season to 115 points to retain the league scoring championship he won last year with 75 points. The 25-year-old backfielder went into Sunday's game with 88 points, 20 behind Montreal's George Dixon who was held off the scoresheet.

Gilchrist and quarterback Tobin Rote combined to practically demolish the Als with a blistering fourth-quarter attack that netted Argos 35 points and broke up a fairly right ball game. Rote threw seven touchdown passes for a record 38 over the season. It broke the previous mark of 32 set by Sam Etcheverry of the Alouettes and Arnie Galiffa of Argonauts in 1956.

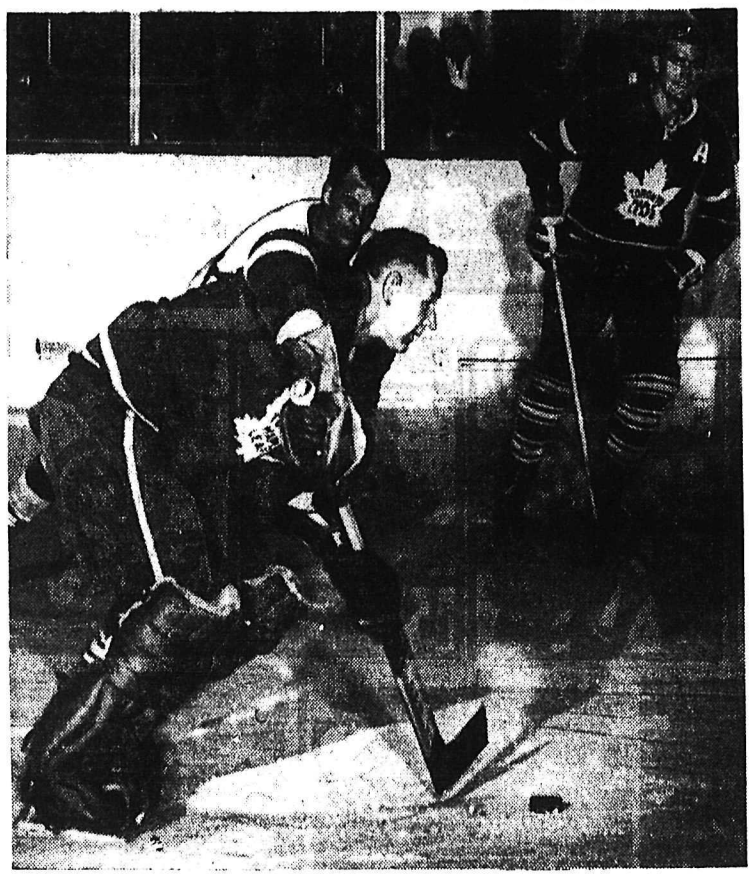
Argos needed this game to win the bye into the two-game total-point final Nov. 12 and 19.

The victory gave them sole possession of first place with a record of 10 wins and four losses and they now meet the winner of the sudden-death semi-final between Ottawa Rough Riders and the Alouettes in Ottawa next Saturday.

The Rough Riders lost 26-24 to Hamilton Tiger - Cats Saturday, leaving the door open for Argos to take the No. 1 position for the first time in 13 years.

Ottawa ended two points behind Argos with nine wins and five losses and Montreal was third with five wins in 14 games. Hamilton, league champions the last three years, finished with a won-loss 4-10 record.

Argos, in whipping the Alouettes for the fifth time this season, did it with another of their patented explosive second - half rallies. The teams were tied 14-14 at the end of the first quarter, 21-21 at halftime and in the third quarter Argos went ahead 28-21 before blowing the game wide open with their 35 points in the last 15 minutes.



BOWER MAKES LIKE A FORWARD

TO THE ASTONISHMENT of Gordie Howe, Maple Leaf goalie Johnny Bower made like a forward in the final minutes of National Hockey League game in Toronto. Bower was trying to get off the ice in favor of another forward but with Detroit's Howe chasing him, he shot the puck over the blue line and retreated to his goal. Leaf defenseman Allan Stanley (right) seems to be trying to figure out this new play. Detroit won, 2-1.—TNS photo.

Dinsdale, Man of Experience, Holds Key Post in Ottawa

By ARCH MacKENZIE
Canadian Press Staff Writer

OTTAWA (CP)—Walter Dinsdale, 44, new minister of northern affairs and natural resources, has the key post in the Progressive Conservative government's vision of national development.

His boyish countenance was among four new faces injected by Prime Minister Diefenbaker into the federal cabinet.

Hotshot fighter pilot, devout Salvation Army supporter and holder of a master's degree in social work, he got there nine years after winning the Manitoba riding of Brandon-Souris from the Liberals in a byelection.

His new responsibilities for Canada's undeveloped north and for resources planning aren't out of line with his background.

WAS OPPOSITION CRITIC

"I think Westerners tend to be more conscious of the north's potential," he said in an interview, recalling that he had served as an Opposition spokesman on northern affairs.

His social-work experience will come in handy in continuing the policy of vastly-expanded education and health facilities for northern residents—including 10,400 Eskimos—begun a deacde ago.

His predominantly rural riding contains the Manitoba oil field centred around Virden, which gives him some basis for insight into the huge petroleum search under way in the Yukon, the western half of the Northwest Territories and on the Arctic islands.

"Philosophically I see eye to eye with Alvin Hamilton," says Mr. Dinsdale of his predecessor, regarded as author of the script for the "vision."

PLANS NORTHERN TOUR

It was Mr. Hamilton, whose Saskatchewan riding is next door to Mr. Dinsdale's, who sought to assure Canadian participation in northern oil development, plumped for broad surveys of Canadian mineral potential and issued warning that Canada has 40 years to regain control of her resources or face empty holes in the ground when they are exhausted.

One of the early steps Mr. Dinsdale plans to take is a tour of the north. He spent two weeks in northern Manitoba several years ago and RCAF auxiliary work took him as far north as Whitehorse in the Yukon.

The young man rom Brandon is regarded as a gentleman inside and outside the Commons, prone to the reasoned, non-contentious approach in debate. Slender with light-brown hair and a quick smile, he is well-liked. He neither smokes nor drinks—"one of those teetotallers," as he puts it.

By coincidence or otherwise, the three previous incumbents of the department, formed in 1953, have all gone on to bigger things. Jean Lesage became Quebec premier; the new defence minister, Douglas Harkness, had a brief stay there and moved to agriculture, where he has been succeeded by Mr. Hamilton.

PLAYS IN BAND

Mr. Dinsdale's political bent is inherited. His English - born father, George Dinsdale, settled in Brandon and became alderman, mayor and the city's member of the Manitoba legislature from 1932 until his death in 1943.

The young Dinsdale grew up in Brandon where, he recalls, he learned to play the cornet in the Salvation Army Band. He is still a bandmaster and derives much enjoyment from his collection of band music. He was educated in Brandon, earned a bachelor of arts degree from McMaster University in Hamilton and took postgraduate work at the university of Toronto and Chicago.

He worked for the CPR Express from 1935 to 1939, rang up social service experience with the Salvation Army in Toronto and Montreal until 1941 and then joined the RCAF where he served until 1945, lying with 410 Mosquito night fighter squadron.

Mr. Dinsdale scored 4½ kills—he has to stop and think out the total—and won the Distinguished Flying Cross as the first Allied fighter pilot to knock down a German piggyback plane, the type borne by a larger aircra t which then cut it loose with its bomb burden over the target. That was in June, 1944, over the invasion beaches where the device was used against shipping.

He was back at Brandon College in 1946, serving as director of public relations and the social science department until his 1951 election victory. In 1947 he married Lenore Gusdal of Erickson, Man., and their four children are all in school.

Mr. Dinsdale won quick recognition when the Conservative government was set up after the 1957 general election victory. He was named parliamentary assistant to the veterans affairs minister, a post he again filled last session under the title of parliamentary secretary.

Creation of the new department of forestry, part of whose functions formerly came under the resources department, will lighten Mr. Dinsdale's administrative load. But his field of responsibility still cuts a wide swath.

It covers administration of the natural resources in the Yukon and Northwest Territories—more than one-third of Canada's land mass. Water resources, irrigation, national parks and historic sites, tourist information and services, the Eskimos and the national museum are included.

Cloudbursts Flood Texas Homes, Roads

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP) — Cloudbursts struck Austin and surrounding areas during the night, taking at least six lives. Several motorists, swept down raging creeks, were missing Saturday.

The deluge flooded homes and sent some residents fleeing.

The bodies of two children were recovered at Fredericksburg, west of Austin, after floods swept an automobile away. Another child in the car was found alive, but the parents were missing.

The bodies of two women were recovered just west of the Austin city limits.

And at Giddings, 45 miles east of Austin, officers found the body of Mrs. Oscar Blasig, 60, who drowned in Elm Creek. Her husband and another woman are missing.

Red Berlin Accuses Western Powers of Misusing Corridors

BERLIN (AP) — Communist East Germany Saturday accused Western powers of "misusing" the air corridors to Berlin for he transport of West German recruits.

The charge, made in an editorial in Neues Deutschland, the official party organ, contained no new threat to the communications of the city, but reasserted the claim of the Communist East Germans to control them.

The Western powers earlier this week warned the Russians to avoid tampering with air corridors to West Berlin and to restrain the Communist East Germans from squeeing that isolated city on the ground.

The three air corridors from West Germany to West Berlin, the East German paper asserted, are only for the supply of the Western garrisons in the city.

West German customs officials disclosed the East Germans have seized two big trailer trucks en route from Berlin to West Germany.

The Communists freed the drivers, but told them the freight was being held because it included 10 pieces of radio equipment for the West German army. Customs officials said the equipment was consigned to a West German firm.

Claim Heated Bow Speeds Ship

LONDON (Reuters) — Russian scientists have suggested that a ship's speed can be increased by heating the bow and thereby reducing friction, the Soviet news agency Tass reported Saturday.

Experiments showed a ship's speed increases up to 10 per cent if high - temerature exhaust steam from the ship's turbine is injected into pipes laid around the bow, Tass said.

Sea water boils as it comes into contact with the heated bow and the hull is enveloped by a layer of steam which acts as a kind of lubricant, it said.

Weekly Metals Review

NEW YORK (AP) — No significant upturn in demand for U.S. copper was sighted last week despite the recent price reduction of 30 cents a pound.

Buying abroad was down some from a month ago although still in good volume. Inventories continued to increase slowly.

On the London exchange the price closed Friday at the equivalent of about 27.6 cents a pound, slightly above a week ago.

Union Miniere du Haut Katanga cut its rate roughly one-hal cent a pound. The Congo producer dropped its quotation to 27.45 cents a pound at New York and Antwerp, bringing it more into line with the London market.

A movement in the opposite direction, upward, came from the manufacturing segment.

Revere Copper and Brass Inc. announced a ¼-cent to one-cent increase in its mill product prices, effective Oct. 31. Other brass firms were expected to follow suit.

Revere said the increase reflected higher labor and other costs.

Demand for lead increased sharply last week as buyers bought or November shipment. The price held firm at 12 cents New York.

Zinc buying also improved, spurred by quickened activity in the auto industry.

Major metals prices:

Copper—30 cents a pound, denominal, New York.

Lead—12 cents a pound, New York; 11.8 cents, St. Louis.

Zinc — 13 cents a pound, east St. Louis; 13.5 cents, New York

Aluminum—26 cents a pound unalloyed ingots, delivered.

Nickel—74 cents a pound, electrolytic cathodes, Port Colborne, Ont., U.S. duty included.

Opinions Differ on Business Conditions in United States

NEW YORK (AP)—Are economic conditions in the United States good, bad or just so-so? That question boiled through business and politics this week with widespread disagreement.

Vice-President Nixon's contention that the U.S. economy is strong was disputed by Senator John Kennedy with the statement that it is slipping into a recession.

The chairman of President Eisenhower's council of economic advisers, Raymond J. Saulnier, said the economy "is in a good position to make another advance . . . and I don't think we are going to wait too long."

Dr. John Lintner, Harvard University professor of business administration, asserted that "a recession fo substantial proportions is in the making."

Officers of the American Retail Federation, representing 800,000 retailers, predicted 1960 will be the biggest sales year in history and said the economy is robust but going through a little pause.

Roger Blough, chairman of U.S. Steel Corp., said:

"I don't think there is any reason to be too pessimistic about business."

The stock market, discouraged by the business outlook, hit a two-year low Tuesday. Then it staged a snappy rally.

A spate of brighter business developments improved sentiment. They included:

Federal Reserve Board action to expand the lending powers of banks; a cut in the British bank rate, which it was hoped would help keep American investment funds at home; increasing automobile sales; and a good rate of reight carloadings.

Auto production kept humming with an estimated output of 148,856 passenger cars, up 1.6 per cent rom 146,571 last week and 101,786 a year ago.

Sales for the first two-thirds of October totalled 352,000 cars compared with 338,000 in October 1959.

The commerce department reported new orders received by manufacturers in September rose for the second straight month to a seasonally-adjusted $30,400,000,000 from $30,000,000,000 in August.

The cost of living rose to an all - time high, advancing two-tenths of one per cent in September. This put the department of labor's living cost index at 126.8 per cent of the 1947-49 base period. Costs of practically everything except new and used cars went up. The department said another rise can be expected this month.

Bonn Official Held On Suspicion of Passing Information

BONN (AP)—A Socialist deputy, member of the West German Bundestag's defence committee, has been arrested on suspicion of passing secret documents to a Communist espionage agent, the interior ministry said Saturday.

The deputy was identified as Alfred Frenzel, 61, chairman of the lower house restitution committee, which deals with compensation of all victims of the Nazi regime. The interior ministry said the deputy has made a confession.

Officials of Frenzel's party declined comment, but the party executive committee is slated to deal with the matter Monday.

A government spokesman said Frenzel was arrested in the parliament building by agents of the federal criminal police security group.

Deputies normally enjoy parliamentary protection but the interior ministry explained immunity is void if a suspect is caught red-handed and added that Frenzel was observed passing material to what it called an agent of an "Eastern" secret service. The agent also was arrested.

The arrests apparently took place some time Friday night.

The government announced Friday that a Communist spy ring of eight persons had been smashed. The identity of only one of the eight has been learned so far—a secretary in the West German ministry of defence described as a "very attractive" 30-year-old redhead.

Informants said she was very close to high officials of the ministry.

SHIPMENT UP

VANCOUVER (CP)—The Pacivic Lumber Inspection Bureau reported Friday a total of 1,251,000,000 board feet of timber was shipped by water from B.C. points in the irst nine months of this year compared with 878,000,000 board feet in the same period of last year. Increases were registered in exports both to the U.K. and the U.S.

Rattle of Coins at Hallowe'en Replaces Buzz of Pagan Priests

By BRUCE LEVETT
Canadian Press Staff Writer

Hallowe'en, once celebrated as a festival of death in the ancient world, is becoming more a holiday of hope throughout the new.

The rattle of coins collected by children to help other children is replacing the buzz of medicine rattles in the hands of pagan priests.

This year, more than 300,000 Canadian youngsters will participate in "Hallowe'en for UNICEF," the program sponsored by the United Nations Children's Fund to supply food and medicine to children of other lands.

Last year the program collected $200,000 to bring the total to nearly $500,000 in the five years it has been going, a gift augmented annually by the Canadian government's contribution of $650,000.

The two chief characteristics of ancient Hallowe'en — or All Hallows Eve—were the lighting of bonfires and the belief that of all nights in the year, Oct. 31 was the one during which ghosts and witches were most likely to wander abroad.

Further, it was a Druidic belief that on the eve of the festival Saman, lord of death, called together all the wicked souls that within the past 12 months had been condemned to inhabit the bodies of animals.

A cross-Canada survey by The Canadian Press indicates that while a certain amount of deviltry will be perpetrated this Hallowe'en, this aspect of the celebrations is losing ground.

Mummers will walk the streets in fewer numbers in Newfoundland. Traditional masquerade house parties will be held and children and oldsters alike will roam with the plea "trick or treat," but no large celebrations are planned.

There is a tradition of fireworks in the Maritime provinces, but today many centres have banned this form of celebration. In others, sale is restricted to adults. Prince Edward Island has a law allowing confiscation of dangerous fireworks under the Fire Prevention Act.

Windows will be soaped in the cities and gates will vanish as usual in the rural areas.

Hallowe'en is not the large-scale festival in Quebec City that Mardi Gras is. Such celebrating that is done Oct. 31 is carried on in the English-speaking areas. The Mardi Gras celebration—which takes similar orm to Hallow'en—comes later, at the end of the Quebec Winter Carnival.

Nothing has been organized in Montreal by schools, police or service agencies. The parks department, however, plans to pass out candy to children at their 22 recreation centres. Police and firemen expect to be out in force as usual in the Pointe St. Charles and St. Henri districts, where vandalism has been rife in previous years.

Toronto, where Hallowe'en has been quiet in recent times, will have all police leaves cancelled and about 1,500 officers patrolling. Extra help will come from the auxiliarly police wing of the Civil Defence organization.

Molotov Making Comeback Visits

By ERIC WAHA

VIENNA (AP) — Vyacheslav M. Molotov, who played star roles in Stalin's show only to have his option dropped by Nikita Khrushchev; is making a comeback appearance here with bit parts.

But from his point of view it might be said that at least he's not doing the circuit in Outer Mongolia.

Close to the wellspring of Kremlin power or many years, old Bolshevik Molotov in 1957 was stripped of his cabinet rank by Khrushchev. For a time he served as ambassador to Outer Mongolia.

Today, he's the Soviet Union's permanent representative to the International Atomic Energy Agency. He leads a withdrawn life in this sociable capital of Austria.

NO INTERVIEWS

Requests for interviews elicit a firm nyet.

"Mr. Molotov is very sorry but he does not see gentlemen from the press," said a smiling Russian at the Soviet headquarters of IAEA.

An American diplomat who knew him in Moscow before his fall from power and who saw him again in Vienna says:

"He looks like a tired old man looking at his past, like an old war horse who feels he did not get what he deserved for his services."

Molotov attends all parties and public events where his presence is expected, but mostly puts in brief appearances.

Molotov and his wife Zhemhuhina live in a graying house at No. 4 Wohllebengasse, which means Well-Living Street.

There is a large oil ainting of Deputy Prime Minister Anastas Mikoyan on the wall facing the entrance, none of Khrushchev.

ALWAYS ACCOMPANIED

Molotov is virtually never seen in public alone.

When he shows up at diplomatic gatherings, where he seldom stays longer than 15 minutes he is usually accompanied by the No. 1 Russian at IAEA, Prof. Vasily Yemelianov, a nuclear scientist.

Molotov is only No. 2 man, and he knows it.

He waits behind Yemelianov when they make an entry.

There had been some speculation that Molotiv was tranferred here from Ulan Bator, capital of Outer Mongolia, because his relations with Chinese Communist emissaries there were closer than the Kremlin liked.

Another report, from a veteran Western diplomat in Moscow said Mrs. Molotov pleaded for her husband's transfer from Ulan Bator because its altitude affected his health.

The annual plea of the Manitoba Dental Association has been sounded in Winnipeg:

"Don't give the children candy. Bring out apples or nuts. Some children collect enough candy to last until Christmas — all the housewives are doing is passing out new cavities."

The Manitoba health department issues a safety plea, which is supported by similar organizations throughout the country:

"Parents should incorporate some white material into costumes or better still, use reflector tape. Masks should be well-fitted so vision will not be limited. If paper costumes are to be worn, make sure they're flame-proof."
