Swedish People March in Tribute To Fallen Hero, Hammarskjold

Funeral Services To Be Held Today for Former UN Chief

By EDDY GILMORE

STOCKHOLM (AP)—More than 250,000 Swedes in a silent, moving spectacle paid tribute Thursday night to Dag Hammarskjold, their fellow countryman who lost his life on a quest for peace.

Hammarskjold's body arrived earlier Thursday in a flag-draped coffin at the airport whence he departed eight years ago to become secretary-general of the United Nations. He was killed Sept. 18 in a plane crash in the African bush.

Funeral services will be today at the university town of Uppsala.

"Nothing like this has ever happened in Stockholm before," a veteran police official commented. "Just look . . ."

In four huge columns, men, women and children streamed into the old Gaerdet parade grounds.

RED FLAG FLOWN

At the head of each column marched Swedish UN soldiers followed by more troops carrying the flags of other nations. One flag was that of the Soviet Union whose premier once called Hammarskjold "this lackey of the colonist powers whose hands stream with the blood of Lumumba."

Behind the soldiers trudged laborers, businessmen, housewives, civil servants, athletes, doctors, students and children.

With Hammarskjold's body arrived 14 others—three Americans, a Canadian, an Irishman, a Haitian and eight Swedes. Their lives were snuffed out Sept. 18 as Hammarskjold flew on a mission to try to settle the trouble in Katanga the secessionist Congo province.

TAKEN HOME

The body of the 15th victim, Vladimir Fabry, an American whose home was in Switzerland, was taken to Geneva Wednesday.

Flaming torches were carried by hundreds of the marchers whose ranks totalled about one-fourth of this city's 1,000,000 population. The only sounds came from the slogging of feet and the muffled drums which thumped from the heads of the columns.

Traffic came to a halt for many square miles around the old parade grounds, a vast park-like space within the city.

The crowd marched silently towards a single goal—a huge portrait of Hammarskjold. Two military bands played quietly.

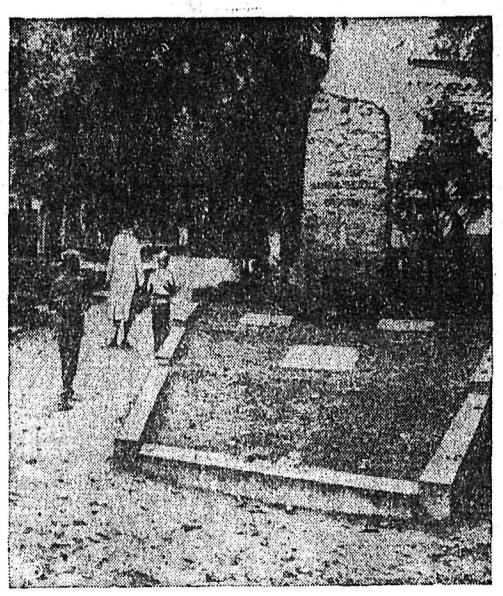
LAUDS DAG

When no more people seemed able to jam inside the grounds, Foreign Minister Oesten Unden walked onto a hastily erected platform beneath Hammarskjold's portrait.

"International problems appeared to him as a science and a passion," he said of Hammarskjold. Then, raising his voice:

"The thinking of this government is the same as that of Hammarskjold's and the (UN) security council — that United Nations intervention is justified to prevent civil war in The Congo."

Hammarskjold's body lay in state 45 miles away in the cathedral at Uppsala. Police said marchers passed by the bier at a rate of more than 1,000 an hour while crowds thronged the narrow streets outside.



HAMMARSKJOLD GRAVE—This is the Hammarskjold burial ground in the churchyard at Uppsala, Sweden. His father Hjalmar, mother Agnes and brother Ake are buried here. Now, Sept. 29, late secretary general of the U.N. joins them.

SENATOR HINTS ELECTION NEAR

OTTAWA (CP) — Federal-provincial relations have reached the "lowest ebb in our history" under Prime Minister Diefenbaker, Senator Arthur W. Roebuck (L—Ontario) said Thursday.

The prime minister has done more to "intensify the evil" in the system of federal subsidies to provinces than any predecessor, using the worst features as election bait, he said in the Senate.

But the government must face the voters on "this mess" — and it may not be very long either, said the one-time Ontario cabinet minister who threw back Mr. Diefenbaker's challenge Wednesday night that the people at the proper time won't listen to the whiners and wailers.

Rain Shows High Radiation Count

VANCOUVER (CP) —Overnight rain had a very high radiation count, a UBC professor said Thursday.

Prof. G. M. Griffiths made the tests but did not give figures.

"There is definitely an increase," he said. "It is very high, comparable to the period after the extensive tests in 1958."

Park Fee Discourages Campers

VICTORIA (CP) — A sharp slump was recorded this summer at three B.C. parks where the government has charged a fee for camping.

Attendance figures released Wednesday by Recreation Minister Westwood showed fewer campers this summer at Miracle Beach, Cultus Lake and Shuswap Lake parks.

The fourth park where a fee of $2 a night was charged every camper who stayed more than two days, Okanagan Lake, had a slight increase in attendance.

There was also an over-all decrease in camp use at all parks, according to Mr. Westwood's figures. However, he claimed there has been "a general and sustained increase."

Mr. Westwood listed figures for 18 B.C. parks showing a total attendance of 343,000 campers. The same camps in 1960 attracted 346,000.

Diefenbaker Expects Increased Expansion

By JAMES NELSON

VERNON, B.C. (CP) — Prime Minister Diefenbaker said Thursday night the Canadian economic picture is brightening and Canada can look forward to a period of continued and increased expansion.

Addressing the annual banquet of the Union of British Columbia Municipalities, Mr. Diefenbaker also said federal government transfer payments to the provinces — a large part of them designed to alleviate the burden on hard - pressed municipal treasuries — have increased five-fold since his government took office.

On the international scene, Mr. Diefenbaker described President Kennedy's recent disarmament proposals, which included Canadian suggestions, as the most far-reaching and realistic yet made.

Mr. Diefenbaker flew to Kelowna, 25 miles south of here, from Ottawa to make what his aides described as a major speech on the domestic scene, targeted at municipal leaders.

The importance of the speech was emphasized by the schedule he had set for himself — nearly 4300 round - trip miles in 20 hours of flying.

His government recognized the limited resources of municipal treasuries and since 1956-57 total grants, payments and other monies transferred from the federal to provincial and municipal treasuries, rose from $111,000,000 to $550,000,000.

He described the improved economic outlook as "heartening" but said the country would soon be faced again with the problem of winter unemployment.

C of C AGAINST SOCIALIZED MEDICINE

OTTAWA (CP) — Socialized medicine in Canada would seriously interfere with people's freedom, the Canadian Chamber of Commerce said Thursday in a statement to the royal commission on health services.

Approximately 45 per cent of all federal taxes go to meet current welfare payments, said the Chamber on the second and final day of preliminary sittings of the commission, and any further welfare obligations should be considered with caution to avoid payments becoming unbearable in the national economy.

Parliament Thursday

By The Canadian Press

The fourth session of the 24th Parliament, which opened Nov. 17, 1960, was prorogued in its 174th sitting day—the longest session in history.

Transport Minister Balcer announced the reappointment of Donald Gordon as a director and chairman of the board of directors of the CNR.

Lionel Chevrier, a former Liberal transport minister, charged the government is "out to destroy Trans-Canada Air Lines."

Transport Minister Balcer denied the charge and predicted TCA will emerge strongly from the present jet changeover.

Finance Minister Fleming denied opposition suggestions that Canada led a Commonwealth "ganging up" on Britain at Accra on the Common Market question.

The Commons and Senate passed the new Federal-Provincial Fiscal Arrangements Act under which the provinces will levy their own income taxes, starting April 1.

Health Minister Monteith announced a sharp increase in radioactive fallout readings at air samplings stations across Canada in the week Sept. 11-17.

C. A. Banks, Mining Man, Dies

VANCOUVER (CP) — Charles A. Banks, 77-year-old retired mining magnate and a former lieutenant-governor of British Columbia, died at his West Vancouver home early Thursday.

Mr. Banks, who served as lieutenant-governor from 1946 to 1950, had been in ill health since retiring two years ago as chairman of the board of Placer Development Ltd., a mining company with subsidiaries around the world.

New Zealand-born, Mr. Banks first came to B.C. in 1912 on a visit and, after serving with the Royal Engineers in the First World War, returned to make the province his home. During the Second World War he represented the Canadian department of munitions and supply in Britain.

Butter "Wrinkled-Looking" After Long in Storage

OTTAWA (CP) — The gabbiest session in Commons history ended hilariously early today but true to form — with more words.

There is a traditional half-hour of fun in the Commons after it winds up its business and waits for the Senate to do the same before prorogation of Parliament.

Part of this time was filled this morning by an impromptu speech on the butter surplus by A. Deb. McPhillips (PC — Victoria, B.C.) who said he has no farmers in his riding.

Mr. McPhillips said butter becomes "wrinkled looking" after it has been in storage "a hell of a long time."

He was constantly interrupted by catcalls, desk-banging and a chorus of Goodnight Irene, the latter by O. W. Weichel (PC—Waterloo North) and James R. Tucker (L — Trinity - Conception).

READS BUTTER STOCKS

The interruptions became noisier as Mr. McPhillips began reading off butter stocks held in each major Canadian city.

Because the Commons was not officially in session, Mr. McPhillips' words were not recorded by the Hansard reporters. This didn't appear to alarm him.

As more MPs wandered into the chamber for the final ritual, Mr. McPhillips advised them to take their seats and listen carefully to what he was saying.

He was finally interrupted for good by the arrival of the gentleman usher of the Black Rod summoning the Commoners to the Senate for the final throne speech.

Suddenly, the chamber was absolutely quiet as this ancient ritual was performed.

Then members trooped out for the last time from the 174-day fourth session of the 24th Parliament.

Speaker Roland Michener invited them to take "nourishment" with him after the arduous 10½ - hour sitting.

Army Revolt in Syria Gains Support of Forces

Nasser Determined to Keep Egypt-Syrian Union Intact

CP from AP-Reuters

BEIRUT, Lebanon — Army officers revolted in Syria Thursday in an apparent bid to tear the region loose from its union with Egypt in the United Arab Republic headed by Gamal Abdel Nasser. The U.A.R. president called the uprising more serious than the 1956 British-French-Israeli invasion of Suez.

The uprising appeared to be gaining steam Thursday night as Syrian army, navy and air force units were reported throwing their support behind the rebels.

At the same time, Nasser vowed he would make no compromise or bargains with the rebels in his determination to preserve the Egyptian - Syrian union proclaimed in February, 1958.

In a Cairo radio broadcast, Nasser spurned all ideas that he might "join the enemies of nationalism and announce the dissolution of the United Arab Republic."

DUTY ORDER OUT

In a later broadcast, he appealed to all officers and men of the U.A.R. armed forces to do their duty but stopped short of issuing an outright order to loyal troops to start shooting.

In an earlier broadcast he or equipped units of the Egyptian army in Syria, about 15,000 strong, to crush the rebellion.

Fragmentary reports reaching Beirut indicated some fighting and confusion in Damascus, the Syria capital. The revolutionary command proclaimed the city under curfew.

The country appeared divided, with the west and south reported rallying to the rebels and Nasser claiming northern districts around Aleppo standing loyal to him. The rebels also claimed Aleppo.

The revolt followed by two days the resignation of the one-time Syrian strongman, Abdul Hamid Serraj, as U.A.R. vice-president. Serraj helped agitate for tre union with Egypt but he broke with Nasser this week in a dispute over his lessening influence in the U.A.R. government.

NOT KEY MAN

Sarraj long has feuded with Field Marshal Abdel Hakim vAmer, U.A.R. commander - in-chief and Nasser's right-hand man in Syria. But Egyptian sources claimed Serraj was not the key figure in the revolt.

Nasser said the mutiny was undertaken by a small army element at Camp Katana and "received no support from the public." He said he was in constant radio contact with Amer in Syria, contradicting a rebel claim that Amer was forced to fly back to Cairo.

"What happened today cannot permit of bargain or compromise," declared Nasser, his voice grave. "The United Arab Republic was not built on bargaining but rather on principle."

There Was a Difference

Ronald the Drake, who's been in love with a plastic duck all summer, saw the light Thursday. He ended the mad affair when he met two live ones.

All summer long, Ronald refused to leave the plastic girl and her three ducklings. They were lawn ornaments at neighbor's summer cottage.

Ronald's owners, Mr. and Mrs. Erland H. Jordan, didn't object to this diversion until the chilly autumn days came. But they could not persuade Ronald to come home, even when the plastic ornaments were put away.

The Jordans decided enough was enough. They used the plastic duck to lure Ronald to within snatching distance and brought him home.

They also accepted a couple of ducks from a neighbor who sympathized with their plight.

Mrs. Jordan reported that Ronald is interested. He doesn't give a thought any more to his plastic summertime friend.

UBCM Heads To Study Revenue Source

VERNON (CP) — The Union of B.C. Municipalities convention Thursday gave unanimous approval to a resolution giving the incoming executive power to do an exhaustive study of revenue sources, "and particularly the income tax," for financing school costs.

The special executive resolution, which replaces three resolutions withdrawn earlier by convention consent, will result in establishing the claims of B.C. municipalities for the best possible deal in the proposed provincial government income tax-rental revenue legislation.

And it will keep the door open for continued discussion with the government on the principle, established at last year's convention, that income tax should be used to finance education costs.

UBCM President Halford Wilson, Vancouver, said it was the hope of the executive that the entire operating costs of B.C. schools will be borne out of the municipal share of the proposed provincial income tax.

"But capital costs would still be paid for on a 50-50 sharing basis between the government and the municipalities."

Nigeria to Buy Canadian Planes

OTTAWA (CP) — Nigerian Defence Minister Ribadu said Thursday he will recommend his government purchase about $6,000,000 worth of transport planes from de Havilland Aircraft of Canada, Downsview, Ont.

He also said in an interview he has asked Canada to supply instructors for the Nigerian armed forces and to train 30 student officers in this country each year.

Mr. Ribadu, who has conferred here with Prime Minister Diefenbaker and Defence Minister Harkness, said Nigeria will need "many more" instructors than the 30 Canada has sent to Ghana, another African member of the Commonwealth.

He said there is every indication Nigeria's request will receive every sympathetic consideration from the Canadian government.

Girl Rescued by Rope-Swinging Policeman

NEW YORK (AP) — A policeman swinging from a rope made a circus-style rescue of a 10-year-old girl Wednesday as she was about to topple from a fourth-floor fire escape.

Mr. and Mrs. Jon Monponte said their daughter, Diosa, who had been under psychiatric treatment, balanced on the fire escape's outer guard railing.

The child ignored all attempts to talk her in.

Patrolman Jack Leonard and several other policemen went to the roof of the building. Leonard looped a rope around his waist and held the slack himself while other men held the end.

As hundreds watched from the street below and from nearby windows, Leonard lowered himself over the roof edge. Diosa did not see him. As he descended, he saw her lean far over and start to lose her balance.

The patrolman let go of the slack and dropped about five feet as the men on the roof braced themselves.

He swung inward as the line tautened, toppled the child backward with a thrust of his palm and then scissored her between his legs. Other police hauled Diosa and Leonard inside.

Heap Big Smoke – Very Little Fire

By JOHN F. DAFFRON

RICHMOND, Va. (AP)—Out of the misty haze that hung heavy over a hotel lobby, Arthur Gerdes of Flint, Mich., emerged Thursday as champion pipe smoker of 1961.

He puffed and got results from his straight stem, square bowl briar for one hour, four minutes and 17 seconds to outlast a field of 19, including his wife and two other women contestants. Thus he won the world's championship of the International Association of Pipe Clubs.

It's the deliberate smoker, not the fast draw, who wins these competitions. But flame-out — bugaboo of pipe smokers.... long before anyone heard of jet engines — can get the smoker who tries to be too deliberate. Re-lights are not allowed.

Richard J. Austin, the dethroned champion — also from Flint — was left smokeless in the comparatively short time of 26:17.

"Well, here's another has-been," said Austin, yielding his entry card to the judges. "I smoked too slow, that's all."

To anyone who didn't know it was a pipe smoking contest it could have resembled a bad day at Cape Canaveral — lots of flame and smoke, little apparent action.

"Even, easy smoking does it," said Gerdes in explaining his victory.

He pocketed his pipe and lit a cigarette.

U.S. Not Prepared To "Knuckle Under"

By HAROLD MORRISON

WASHINGTON (CP)—Fear of humilitation runs like a thread through United States diplomatic strategy in dealing with the Berlin crisis.

In quiet off-the-record conferences, in briefings where names of officials present are never made public, the world "humiliation" springs up frequently. One high official says the United States must by all means avoid being humiliated by the Russians in their attempts to boot the Western powers out of Berlin.

The U.S. officials insist there will be no "knuckling under" that would cast doubt on American pledges of protection in other parts of the world. One capitulation could lead to another.

But there is conviction here also that the Berlin crisis will not lead to a calculated war.

USE. ALL WEAPONS

Authorities emphasize that even in a limited war, the United States would be prepared to use not only conventional weapons but nuclear weapons as well on a scale warranted by the political situation that develops.

"Soviet Premier Khrushchev should know this," one defence strategist said. "He should know also that even if he struck first with nuclear weapons, our capacity to retaliate is so great that in the end we could inflict far greater damage on the Soviet Union than the Soviets could on us."

While the United States would never use nuclear weapons to fight subversion and infiltration, the fact that a limited war would not preclude firing atomic warheads is seen by the Americans as a deterrent to make the Russians think twice before taking any step that would lead to a head-on collision.

Ottawa Not Against Short Term Sale

VANCOUVER (CP) — Justice Minister Davie Fulton said Thursday British Columbia will get no federal financial aid for the $458,000,000 Columbia River project if it insists on selling all Canada's downstream benefits to the United States for cash.

In a speech to the B.C. Bond Dealers Association in which he reviewed Ottawa's dispute with Premier Bennett's Social Credit government on the Columbia proposition the minister declared Ottawa is not against selling surplus power to the U.S. on a short-term basis, but added:

"B.C.'s position has become a commercial proposition for B.C. to sell an asset outright to the U.S. and we wouldn't participate on that basis."

If B.C. lost the Columbia, the cheapest prospective source of power in Canada, it would have to rely on other sources for more expensive power.

It would mean loss of 31,000,000 man-hours of employment at the sites of the three proposed huge dams, Duncan Lake, High Arrow and Mica Creek. It would mean the loss of power cheaper by 25 per cent than from other projected source. It would mean the loss of a chance to develop and diversify B.C.'s present seasonal economy on ths basis of this cheap power.

And in This Corner . . .

LONDON (AP)—Who puts the sauce on the spaghetti — the waiter or the chef?

Spanish waiter Louis Leon's solution landed him in court Wednesday charged with assaulting the chef.

Leon, waiter in a swank Soho restaurant, thought it was his job. Greek chef Coumis Achilleas said it was his.

So Leon emptied a plate of spaghetti all over the chef's head, the court was told, and followed up with a swipe with a silver dish. The chef had to have 17 stitches to close the head wound.

The court freed Leon on condition he keeps the spaghetti on the plate in the future.

DETROIT (AP)—Is a barmaid dressed in a leotard with a bikini cut and mesh hose respectably attired?

Probate Judge Nathan J. Kaufman has been asked to decide.

Detroit Bartenders Union Local 526 filed suit Wednesday to keep barmaids "respecatbly attired." The suit against Edward and Joanne Lesinski, owners of a Detroit bar, was filed on behalf of Madalin Haviland, 30.

The union contended Miss Haviland was fired from her job as a barmaid Sept. 9 because she refused to work in "a costume which was immodest and offensive."

The suit asked Miss Haviland be reinstated and that the bar stop dressing its barmaids "like burlesque queens."

Kaufman said a hearing would be held Friday.

Chamber Backs Low Arrow, Kootenay Diversion Brief

Nelson Chamber of Commerce stepped out against High Arrow dam Thursday.

The group at its monthly dinner meeting in the Hume Hotel decided to support a brief composed by its Columbia Basin Committee which called for diversion of Kootenay River waters, construction of Lower Arrow dam at Murphy Creek and omission of High Arrow from the Columbia river development.

The brief will be presented at either the hearings under water comptroller A. M. Paget in Nakusp today or tomorrow or in Castlegar Wednesday.

The new diversion plan would allow Canada to fulfill its 15,500,000 acre feet of water storage under the treaty but would at the same time, said Ald. B. C. Affleck, committee chairman, allow Canada to retain the beautiful Arrow and Windermere valleys.

Key to the whole unit would be Mica Creek, which Mr. Affleck said, could be built within five years.

"It can be carried out if the will is there," said the elderly civil engineer, recalling that Kitimat, a far more difficult and complex construction, was built in four years.

DIVERSION WEIR

The brief calls for a diversion weir to be built on the Kootenay River at Canal Flat, draining the water off via a dredged canal about a mile long across gravel flats to Columbia Lake, and thence the Columbia system. This would divert the entire flow of Kootenay River at this point into the Columbia system.

"This is the former course of the Kootenay River and has required heavy bank protection works to prevent it from resuming its former channel during high water periods," said Ald. Affleck.

"The existing channel of the Columbia River would require widening by dredging from Columbia Lake to Windermere Lake and for several miles down - stream from Athalmer in order to accommodate the 3500 cubic feet per second average proposed diversional flow without raising the level of either lake."

FRAMEWORK ONLY

"All these figures are approximate only, and will in any case vary considerably from year to year, but they are substantially correct," the chairman said. "This is purely a framework proposal."

Such a diversion would boost Mica Creek's storing capacity to 9,500,000 acre feet. Under the present treaty, Mica Creek is capable of storing 11,000,000 acre feet but its watershed can only provide 7,000,000 acre feet.

At the same time it would ease the burden on the Libby dam. It has a capacity of 5,000,000 acre-feet storage but has a water shed of 7,500,000 acre feet which means 2,500,000 acre feet per annum would be wasted.

"If those 2,500,000 acre feet were diverted at Canal Flat and stored at Mica Creek, they would add immensely to Canadian power possibilities without doing any harm to the Libby dam project," Ald. Affleck read from the brief.

He admitted that a diversion of this type had been suggested before, but it involved creating a dam at Copper Creek and at Edgewater which creates a large lake flooding the Windermere Valley.

"Our committee has strongly opposed diversion at Canal Flat in spite of its obvious advantages, because of one of our most attractive tourist resort areas and of so much painfully won development," he said. "We have not opposed the diversion as such but the manner in which it was proposed to make it."

He admitted that dams at Luxor or Calamity Curve would be wiped out under his committee's scheme but felt they could not produce power as cheaply as the giant Mica Creek.

CHEAP PRICE

"Our committee feels that this power loss is a very cheap price to pay for the preservation of the Windermere Valley," he said.

Some of the benefits of his proposal he outlined:

Bull River Dam, proposed to supplement the Libby Dam storage and to flood 47,000 acres in the Skookumchuck vicinity, would be unnecessary and the only East Kootenay lands flooded would be 17,000 acres between the international boundary and Wardner, destroyed when Libby dam is completed.

The power production potential of Mica Creek, Downie Creek and Revelstoke Canyon Dams would be increased by 35 per cent at no extra cost.

The feasibility of an ultimate diversion to the Fraser River would be much improved.

Integration of the proposed diversion and construciton of Mica Creek completely removes flood danger from Creston flats and Trail. It would also greatly increase productivity of large areas of river bottom land now subject to flooding between Revelstoke and Arrowhead.

"Murphy Creek dam, holding water to 1400 foot level, would flood only a few non-productive acres of land below Castlegar and none on the Arrow Lakes," said Ald. Affleck. "It would store 3,000,000 acre feet, readily increased to 3,500,000 acre feet by dredging shallows between the lakes and with the regulated flow of both rivers could produce up to 250,000 horsepower, even with its Arrow Lakes reservoir empty."

SECOND TO MICA

"This dam seems to the committee to be second only to Mica Creek dam in importance and desirability."

Under the proposal, acre feet storage would be, Mica Creek (with diversion) 9,500,000, Murphy Creek (with dredging) 3,500,000, Duncan Lake (as per treaty) 1,400,000, Kootenay Lake storage at Corra Linn (already existing but not considered in the treaty) 600,000.

"This is practically the same amount of storage, 15,500,000, as is mentioned in the treaty and is readily available with the additional immense advantage of rendering available, in Canada, and at inconsiderable extra expense, large quantities of very cheap hydro-electric power," he said.

"It will be noticed that nowhere in this discussion has the High Arrow dam been mentioned. It appears to this committee to be completely redundant."

"We believe that the Mica Creek and Canal Flat diversion constructed concurrently could be operative within five years and would thus fulfill the storage requirements laid down in the treaty," he said.

"Murphy and Duncan Lake projects would complete the treaty requirements and all with a minimal damage to lands and improvements."

He said that to meet the full terms of the treaty, 15,500,000 acre feet, nine feet of water instead of six could be stored in Kootenay Lake. By dredging shallows in the West Arm it would permit lowering of the main lake by three to five feet.

Increased Kootenay Lake storage would offset the detrimental effect on Kootenay River dams by the diversion draw off at Canal Flat.

Terry Maber questioned the loss of a tourist attraction in the disappearance of High Arrow from the development.

Robert Foxall replied that the real tourist attraction will be at Mica Creek and High Arrow would be nothing but an eyesore "mud flat" during low water period.

Mr. Foxall moved that the Chamber support the brief. D. P. Fairbank seconded the motion.

Help for His People Goal Of East African Student

Samuel Mungai Ndegwa

A 22-year-old East African is going to study medicine in Canada and then return to his native land to practise because of what he feels in his heart.

Samuel Mungai Ndegwa of Nairobi, Kenya, has entered his first year at Notre Dame College — on his way to a seven-year course in medicine. When he has attained his degree he will return to Kenya to practice.

"I must go back. My people need me there and I've got to go and help them," he said with serious concern written on his face, during an interview Wednesday.

His first time out of Kenya, he said he chose Notre Dame after hearing of it from friends in Kenya. He was unable to enroll in East Africa's two junior colleges.

Ndegwa finds the British Columbia climate cold but is looking forward to seeing snow. His first impression of Canada was that it is "hilly and very green." He had never seen a lake before coming to Canada.

Ndegwa still has vivid memories of the horror which swept over Kenya during the Mau Mau revolution. Killings occurred near his home. "They killed for the sake of killing. Often there was no provocation for the murders," he said as he recalled the terrorism in his country during his mid-teens.

SMOOTHED OVER

Ndegwa stated that politics in Kenya today run smoothly and to his knowledge there is no Mau Mau feeling left in the country.

He was one of 135 students who left Nairobi on the same flight for North America. Only 38 came to Canada, the rest staying in New York.

The student began learning the English language when he started his fourth year in school. He intends to spend three years at Notre Dame before going on to a larger university. At present he is enrolled in Arts and Science.

He would like to return to Kenya for a visit with his family and friends before he receives his degree in medicine but at present the chance seems remote. He is attending classes here on scholarships.

Bayoff Committed On Explosives Charge

CRESTON — Mike Bayoff of Wynndel was committed to trial by Magistrate Harold Langston here at noon Thursday, the third day of his preliminary hearing.

Bayoff is expected to be tried at the fall assize in Nelson on a charge of unlawfully having dynamite with intent to cause serious damage to property. He is alleged to have had dynamite in his possession between March 26 and April 15.

Among 38 exhibits entered during the hearing were photographs of the Anglican Church at Wynndel and dynamite under the church.

Witnesses Thursday were Mr. and Mrs. S. J. Cox of Canyon, Prof. Ross of University of British Columbia representing the federal research laboratory and specializing in the pathology of wood; and Const. Kzuba of Nelson detachment.

Mr. and Mrs. Cox identified a sack shown to court as one they had used when selling poultry to Bayoff and samples of chicken concentrate and barley were also identified as being involved in their dealings with him.

Samples of shavings from a powder box of dynamite which was alleged to have been emptied from the sack near a rose bush on the Cox farm were identified by Professor Ross.

Forest Fires Near 600 Mark

Nelson forest district had six fires during the week ending Friday bringing the total for the year to 593 fires fought at an estimated cost of $238,000 compared to a cost of $1,314,000 estimated at this date last year.

Fire hazard is low in the Nelson forest district.

At this time last year there had been 584 fires.

The B.C. Forest Service reported that province-wide the fire picture is relatively quiet. The fire hazard is expected to remain high on the west side of Vancouver Island, moderate in the coastal Vancouver district and the Kamloops district.

MORE CAMPERS USE SITES IN KOOTENAY

Use of government campsites in the Kootenay showed an appreciable increase for the summer season of 1961.

Number of camper nights spent in Kokanee Creek Park were 7948 as compared to 5348 in 1960.

Other Kootenay parks are as follows, with 1960 figures in brackets: Champion Lakes 7564 (7868), Jimsmith Lake 7308 (8228) and Wasa Lake 17,100 (26,164).

NEW YORK (CP) — Canadian dollar 1-16 higher at 97 5-64 in terms of U.S. funds. Week ago 97 1-32.

21 ACCIDENTS DURING WEEK

Twenty-one traffic accidents were investigated by the Nelson RCMP subdivision for the week ending September 24.

There were 11 prosecutions.

For the province there were 261 accidents, three fatal accidents, five deaths and 130 prosecutions.

Chahko Mika Spar to Stay

The Chahko-Mika 90-foot spar tree will make the Civic Centre grounds its home for the next year. Civic Centre Commission decided Wednesday night it will grant the lumbering and mining promotion group permission to group permission to leave the tree resting in its 8-foot deep steel encasing and concrete base on a one-year trial.

The tree is situated between the fence and the track in left field and would not be an obstacle to any function other than baseball, being performed on the grounds. Its guide lines will be anchored outside the fence.

Because of its location, about six feet from the left field foul line by the ence, it is felt that it will pose only a minimum hazard to ambitious outielders.

It was suggested that the base of the tree be padded or painted but no definite instructions were decided upon.

By leaving the tree in the park the Chahko-Mika group will be able to economize on the search of and hauling of the tree to Nelson.

Today Last Day to Get On Voters List

Nelsonites have only one more day to have their names added to the general voters' list for the December civic elections.

Property owners are automatically placed on the list.

Those wishing to have their names added on the list may do so today at city hall, which will not be open Saturday, the official deadline for registering.

It is possible that E. Willmott, deputy city clerk, may register others Saturday if they appear at the Chamber of Commerce offices during the tax sale by the city.

In the last week about 50 persons have registered.

Mayor T. S. Shorthouse and two aldermen will act as a court of revision on the voters' list on Monday.

CPR Earnings Up

MONTREAL (CP) — The CPR Thursday reported net earnings in August increased to $2,337,822 from $2,107,676 in August last year.

That boosted net earnings in the first eight months of 1961 to $23,651,949, compared with $19,728,637 in the corresponding period of 1960.

Rites for Infant

Funeral service for the infant daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. K. Pearson, Sandra Mary Pearson, who died in Nelson Wednesday, age 27 days, was conducted at Thompson Funeral Home Thursday.

Rev. W. Edington officiated. Interment followed in Nelson Memorial Park.

Hymns sung were "Around the Throne of God in Heaven" and "The Lord's My Shepherd."

Year-Round Daylight Time Again Studied

Nelson Chamber of Commerce resurrected from near oblivion Thursday the demand that the Kootenays be established on daylight time on a year-round basis.

President J. H. Coventry told the monthly dinner meeting that it is time again to convince Trail and others that the Kootenay should be in one time zone.

At present centres east of Kootenay Lake are an hour ahead of those west of the main lake.

It is argued that a time change would provide an extra hour of sunlight in the evening, and facilitate travelling and commercial movements throughout the area.

Several years ago the Chamber launched a movement for a time change to daylight saving year-round, but it failed when Trail failed to support the move.

The matter was referred to the civic affairs committee for report.

Mr. Coventry, in a short report on the progress of the provincial vocational school said that work would begin as soon as plans are made available to the department of education.

He said that Rosemont is the favored site and that an unidentified person is willing to donate 25 acres in Rosemont for the site.

"We are just getting started to work," said the president, as he called upon the members to give all their assistance and encouragement to make the school a success.

New member George Bergeron, proprietor of Lakeside Auto Court, was welcomed to the chamber while the membership application of Michael Carlton, publisher of the Kootenay Graphic News, was accepted.

Minutes of the group reveal that the club's Nelson tourist pamphlets have dwindled from 60,000 to 17,000 in the last 18 months. It was also learned that the Tourist and Publicity Committee has been authorized to revamp the old folder and order a new printing before the tourist season hits its peak. It is expected that the brochures will be off the press by March.

It is expected that the revised pamphlet will include the recent amalgamated areas, Notre Dame College expansion and University status, and the vocational school.

A GEYSER OF WATER, rock and sand shot skyward in the gorge of the Elk River, in East Kootenay, recently as explosives opened a trench in the river for Alberta Natural Gas Company's 36-inch pipe, being installed as part of the Alberta-California pipeline. All pipe on the company's 107-mile B.C. section now is in the ground. Rapid progress continues on construction of the 13,600-horsepower Crows Nest compressor station, the Cranbrook maintenance base and on the border meter station at Kingsgate.

107 Miles Pipeline Now Complete, Being Tested

CRANBROOK — The entire 107 miles of 36-inch pipe for natural gas between Crowsnest on the Alberta-B. C. boundary to Kingsgate on the International border has now been laid. This is the key section to the export of Alberta natural gas at the rate of 600 million cubic feet daily for consumption in western and southern U. S., scheduled to start flowing Nov. 1.

Price-Poole Pipelines joint venture is contractor and laid the final section Saturday at the 6600-foot summit over Flathead Ridge east to Elko. Work started last Nov. 1 in clearing a right of way for the line which runs from Kingsgate up the Moyie River, over Moyie mountain at 6500 feet and cross country south of Cranbrook to cross the Elk River, then the Kootenay River and up over Flathead Ridge, then northeastward to Crows Nest. Topography issued a challenge and peak crew reached nearly 500 men toward completion date.

TESTING

Contract with Alberta Natural Gas, owners of the 107-mile link, called for readiness for testing Oct. 1. Canadian Bechtel Ltd., contract agent for ANG, report that 55 miles has already been hydro-tested on contract by the Mannix Construction Ltd., starting from the southern end, and this is continuing northeastward.

The compressor station at Crowsnest to regulate the pressure of the export gas at Kingsgate is 65 per cent complete, structural work is finished and equipment is now being installed. Nov. 15 is target date for completion.

Ralph C. Dodge, resident ANG representative, is acting superintendent of the 107-mile section in B. C., pending a permanent appointment in late spring. The company is building a maintenance station one mile southeast of Cranbrook on the Gold Creek Road with A. E. Jones Construction Ltd., builder. ANG office will be located here, and it will be headquarters for the maintenance crew of about a dozen, mainly skilled workers as pipe welders, equipment operators and technicians, responsible for the 107 miles. The company has appointed E. O. Wedekind of Vancouver, superintendent of the Crowsnest compressor station crew of about six men.

Canadian Bechtel supervising engineer T. B. Johnson says his company will continue work here at their Star Building headquarters toward winding up details of the contract and will begin closing out probably in mid-December.

EQUIPMENT RECALLED

J. D. Bruce, Price-Poole office manager at the company field headquarters two miles north of Cranbrook near the highway-railway overpass, reports the company's formidable array of equipment, rows of power shovels, tractors, trucks and other machines, has been called into the yard here, and expects a maintenance crew of about five or six men will be employed there over the winter overhauling it. The company has no plans for moving out these field headquarters at present.

The British Columbia section is the focal point of the whole 1400 miles project of gathering the gas in Alberta and distributing it between Kingsgate and San Francisco. It appears now the entire $300,000,000 pipeline project will be completed within the year of the announced start, October 1, 1960.

Alberta Natural Gas Company Limited operates only the British Columbia section, including the compressor station at Crowsnest, and the metering station at Kingsgate, also nearing completion, where accurate measuring of volume exported will be recorded.

Fernie Casts Doubt On Census Results

FERNIE — The City of Fernie will notify the Census Division of the Dominion Bureau of Statistics that it has reason to doubt accuracy of the preliminary population list of the city as disclosed recently.

This decision was made at a meeting of council.

According to the preliminary figures made public, Fernie's population is listed at 2588, down 220 from the 2808 listed in 1956 when the last census was taken.

It was estimated this reduction in population if correct would mean a reduction in grants equalling two mills in taxation.

Doubt as to the accuracy of this year's figures was based on the fact that living space in the city is at a premium and that a number of new homes have been built since 1956 while none have been removed or torn down.

As a result of discussions it was agreed that the city should make a survey of its own. If a serious discrepancy in the official tabulation is indicated, the city will lodge a protest and ask for an official re-count.

NEW SUBDIVISION

First obstacle in the development of the city's proposed new subdivision in the airport area was hurdled when official notification was received from the Crow's Nest Pass Coal Co. that it would agree to removal of a covenant dated May 1, 1905, restricting the area to park purposes. The necessary documents are now being prepared, the meeting was told.

Extension of the city limits to include the airport site would also require inclusion of some Coal Company property and a small strip of crown land, it was revealed, and negotiations for acquisition of this property will be undertaken immediately.

It was also disclosed that a plebiscite of local taxpayers would be necessary before the city limits can be extended.

Alderman Jack Minton submitted costs of developing the proposed site as estimated by former public works superintendent Jeff Hunt and suggested this expense could be considerably reduced by including the work in the annual winter works program under which federal and provincial governments shoulder 75 per cent of labor costs.

The figures and plans were tabled until confirmation of the federal winter works program has been received and other details of the project straightened out.

Cranbrook CD Mobile Unit Goes to Vernon

CRANBROOK — This area's civil defence mobile communications unit has gone to Vernon this week to participate in the major civil defence exercise scheduled to coincide with the annual meeting of the Union of B.C. Municipalities. Early plans also called for shipment to Vernon of the portable equipped scale model fallout shelter built by Grade 12 students at Mount Baker High School over the winter, and now located at city hall civil defence headquarters, but plans were changed.

The communications unit is a truck with built-in radio transmitter and receiver equipped for walkie-talkie communication. Its headquarters are in Kimberley where James Gillespie of Kimberley and Cranbrook is in charge. He plans to travel to Vernon by plane today to participate, and Cranbrook Civil Defence officer Frank Bertoia will accompany him.

Seven hundred trained civil defence volunteers and 800 militia will take part in this largest exercise ever held in the province, to bring to public attention the necessity for being prepared for any type of disaster.

Cranbrook civil defence course in heavy rescue is proceeding well in weekly sessions for the nine persons enrolled, and is into the outdoor work on temporary shoring of buildings in various types of collapse for rescue of trapped people. This team will travel to Nelson October 21 and will put on a morning demonstration at the Civic Centre as part of a Kootenay exercise there. A major disaster will be simulated for that city, and other participating services will be establishment of an advance treatment centre and of the welfare centre for immediate assistance.

Oct. 11 Deadline Tenders for Church Construction

Architects for the proposed church are Smith and McCulloch of Trail.

James Moir, Ardent Union Worker, Dies

SILVERTON — The Slocan lost one of its most ardent union and political leaders in the recent passing of James A. Moir of Silverton, B.C.

Born in Scotland in 1879, Mr. Moir became a member of the Glasgow Street Railway Union before the turn of the century.

He came to Canada in 1912, settling at Appledale. However, fruit farming did not offer too great a return, so he moved to the Standard Mine in 1914, where he was employed until the mine's closing.

While there, he was a leading figure in obtaining the company's consent to establishment of a modern school at the mine. The first such venture in Slocan mining.

After the mine's closing, he became active with the old Western Federation of Miners at Sandon. When the WFM became the International Union of Mine and Mill Workers, he was one of the central figures in a rebellion which formed the One Big Union, with headquarters at Winnipeg.

However, when the principal of One Big Union became unworkable, he returned to the International, remaining one of its staunchest workers to the end.

While a socialist in politics, he never lost sight of the fact that every man had a right to his own beliefs, numbering among among his friends men and women, embracing every political belief and lodge affiliation.

Surviving are one son, J. L. Moir of Cranbrook; three daughters, Mrs. J. C. Coope, Farmington, B.C.; Mrs. Harry Elsmore, Silverton; Mrs. Chas. E. Towgood, Silverton; 10 grandchildren and 15 great grandchildren.

Kelowna to Take Over Part Of WK Power

VICTORIA (CP)—The City of Kelowna will take over part of the West Kootenay Power and Light Company system, which was being eyed by the B.C. government.

The move, for a price of approximately $226,000, was approved by a cabinet order Tuesday.

It virtually rules out any possibility of a government take-over of the whole company. Premier Bennett told the special session of the legislature in August the take-over was being studied.

He later said the study indicated it was not necessary to add it to the B.C. Electric as another public utility.

Natal Licensing Office Established

NATAL — Natal will have a motor vehicle licensing branch in the new village office by Nov. 1, Chairman Orlando Ungaro informed Natal Village Commission.

This information, said Chairman Ungaro, was contained in a letter from J. H. Harding, traffic engineer at Nelson, who agreed at the same time to use the village office to conduct driver exams twice each year.

These results were the outcome of months of negotiating for this service to local residents, which will include the selling of plates and renewing drivers' licences.

The new village clerk, Miss Loretta Montemurro, was authorized to spend several days at the provincial government offices in Fernie to learn details of the duties involved.

The Natal office will be a sub-office for the Fernie branch.

The commission will request a meeting with officials of the Crow's Nest Pass Coal Company for discussions on obtaining more land for the local cemetery, the the use of the company's power poles for street lighting and an access road to the creek for the village fire truck.

The commissioners also agreed to purchase of a portable fire pump and an extra length of suction hose from the Silver Line Fire Equipment Co., at a cost of around $500.

Approval was given to the purchase of insurance on the office building to the amount on $9000 and $1000 on equipment.

Following complaint of some "Middletown" residents that they were paying garbage dispostal rates to both the coal company and the village, the commission decided to inform the company that these residents are now subject to village regulations, and asked that the duplication of the service be discontinued.

A Desirable Objective

Money cannot do everything and the $5,000,000 which the federal government has allocated for a "People's Program" of physical fitness, generous though it may be, may not achieve its desired aim of physical fitness for everyone. It is, however, a step in the right direction.

The physical fitness of the nation has tended to decline because of changes in social habits. There has grown up a general feeling in North America against physical effort. It is considered wrong for a woman to wash her dishes or clothes save by automatic machines. She must have more leisure in which to rest her body if not her mind.

Houses built today are labor saving which means the muscles are not exercised. There are few stairs and many children have never known as tiny tots the joys of crawling up them. Children rarely go for walks with their mother and so exercise little muscles. Instean they are taken for a ride in the family car.

There is even a belief that the school bus should stop at the child's house.

It is almost impossible to change this attitude but at least the schools can exercise some influence on their pupils. The elementary schools could set the example by having fitness programs with carefully worked out exercises. Even at that age children are not too young to benefit by the discipline of muscular effort.

The high schools have struggled for years with an insufficient number of teachers but they turn out good athletes. Then, when they leave school, too often that is the end of their athleticism.

This is where the federal government proposes to begin but it cannot do much without the whole-hearted co-operation of the people. It will need a great many leaders who will devote their energies to the program. Voluntary leadership is essential if the program is to succeed but at present there is no great supply of trained leaders.

As a prelude to the program the provinces should organize and train more leaders. The Minister of Recreation, Mr. Westwood, should give this his earnest attention.

Objective Tests Critic

Writing in the Winnipeg Tribune, Mary Morrison had some pungent and timely things to say about the latest fad of modern educators—the "objective" test.

The objective test was invented, apparently, not to determine the knowledge or qualifications of the student, but to ease the work of the teacher who examines the pupil's answers.

"The 'objective' test," Mary Morrison writes, "much favored by modern educators, is a test where a student has only to choose one word to complete the required answer.

This makes an examination a pleasant kind of guessing game. If you know your work and have a photographic memory, you can get 100 per cent without the horrible effort of constructing complete sentences, making sure that the tests of good composition have been employed, and, best of all, without the physically wearying task of pushing a pen.

Furthermore, what a joy for the marker of the papers! Just a checking of a list of words against another list of words — no nasty necessity for really appraising whether the student understood what he was doing. This was supposed to get away from the variation in marks caused by errors in judgment on the part of teachers.

It may have succeeded in doing that but, at the same time, it failed to develop for the student his most basic tool for getting along in life. Without knowledge or a memory, there was still a chance to pick up an excellent mark by being inordinately lucky. With objective tests, very few pupils ever fail in language.

The excellent sets of marks obtained under such testing also provided a most satisfactory set of statistics for the adminisration to present to the school board and the public as proof positive that the new type of education was a complete success — nearly everybody was able to pass!

The public, unfortunately, never dreamed of asking "able to pass what?" So, for years we went on happily. Today we are reaping the harvest of the sham.

—Penticton Herald.

Demonstration for Peace or War

The thousands of demonstrators against nuclear arms who squatted in London's Trafalgar Square thought that they were serving the cause of peace; the danger is that they may have been serving the cause of war. The wave of pacifist sentiment which is now so evident in Britain bears an unmistakable likeness to the pacifist campaigns of the 1930s in Britain which did so much to make Hitler's war possible.

Published histories and diaries of those times leave no doubt that the giant pacifist petitions which circulated through the universities and the general public helped to convince the British government that a rearmament program which might have deterred Hitler was not politically acceptable. In addition, the pacifist uproar in Britain encouraged Hitler to believe that there would be no interference with his plans.

There is a deadly parallel in the world situation today. The greatest threat of war arises from the danger of miscalcu[illegible]on, from the fact that Premier Nikita Khrushchev might undervalue the West's determination to resist Soviet ambitions, and be tempted to grab at West Berlin.

[illegible] public opinion such as that in Trafalgar Square will certainly be taken into account in the Kremlin's planning, although it must be hoped that Mr. Khrushchev has more sense than to imagine that the antics of a few thousand British eccentrics truly reflect British opinion. He should remember that many of the university students who were among the first to sign the peace petitions in the 1930s were also among the first to volunteer in 1939.

Those people in Britain, in Canada, in every democratic country, who wish to express their legitimate fears of nuclear war, and to influence the policy of their government, would be much better advised to work through the established political parties than to stage juvenile demonstrations. In the parties, they would have to weigh their opinions against the opinions of others, to face the responsibilities of government or opposition.

If their views prevailed, they would have the power to act; if they found themselves to be in a minority, they would have to submit to democratic decision, and the true voice of the nation would be heard abroad.

Russia Presents UN With Cure For Internl. Tensions

By TOM HOGE

UNITED NATIONS (AP) — The Soviet Union sought Thursday to counter President Kennedy's peace appeal with an eight-point program billed as a cure for international tensions.

The Soviet proposals—mainly a restatement of earlier ones put out by the Kremlin—were submitted to the UN Wednesday night with two other memoranda dealing with the nuclear test issue and colonialism.

The eight-point plan promised by Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko's policy speech when he spoke to the General Assembly Tuesday included such Kremlin favorites as:

A non - aggression pact between the NATO and Warsaw powers, renunciation of use of atomic weapons, withdrawal of foreign troops from alien soil and measures to lessen the danger of surprise attack.

Kennedy's statement to the United Nations Monday on "general and complete disarmament in a peaceful world" contained several ideas which U.S. officials said could be acted on at once. They included an offer to sign a nuclear test ban treaty. 0 The Soviet memorandum on nuclear testing ignored this. It repeated Russian insistence that "under the present conditions its proposal to resolve the question of a nuclear test cessation on the basis of general and complete disarmament is the sole correct and practical suggestion."

The Soviet memorandum on colonialism would set up a UN committee to supervise and control all colonies and dependent territories.

ACCUSES AMERICANS

This document which ran nearly 6000 words portrayed the United States as the mastermind behind the colonial powers and accused the Americans of pushing colonial schemes of their own.

The latest Soviet arms program emphasized these main points:

1. A freeze of military budgets.
2. A renunciation of the use of atomic weapons.

Foreigners Cross Berlin Barrier Without Trouble

By ROLF STEINBERG

BERLIN (AP) — A bearded youth with an Austrian flag on his motor scooter zig - zagged slowly westward through the barriers of the Communist checkpoint at Friedrichstrasse.

"I had no difficulties with the People's Police," said Peter Riedel, a student from Vienna who was returning from a trip to East Berlin. "They only wanted to see my passport."

The fence and the barbed wire that divided their city form an impassable barrier for most Berliners. But every day hundreds of foreigners cross without trouble.

There are seven official crossing points where traffic through Berlin's iron curtain still is permitted by the Communists.

Friedrichstrasse, a street leading into the American sector, is the only Communist checkpoint for U.S., British and French military personnel and other non-Germans.

600 PASS DAILY

"We register about 500 to 600 cars a day," said Pfc. Barry Woodwill, 21, a military policeman. He was one of the U.S. soldiers on duty at checkpoint Charlie on the American side.

"About 50 to 75 Allied cars pass daily," Woodwill said. "Most of the others are foreigners going out of curiosity.

"In fact, I would not go over there myself. There is nothing to be seen in the Soviet sector but unhappy people."

Traffic is at its peak in early afternoon.

"They come from all countries," said a West Berlin official as he checked the papers of a group of Iranian students.

His job was to turn back "unwanted persons." These are senior Communist officials forbidden by West Berlin authorities to enter.

"We have a list of their names," the official said. "But none of them has shown up as yet."

About two miles away is another gap at East Berlin's Heinrich Heine Strasse. A grey tent about 100 yards east of the wall is one of the two checkpoints where West German visitors can get a permit for a one-day visit to East Berlin.

Good Manners Mark Diplomatic Luncheon

By SAUL PETT

NEW YORK (AP)—What is a diplomatic luncheon like in the cold war?

It is four hours long. It is half small talk, half big talk and half of the second half is taken up with translation.

The food is good, the wine chilled to perfection and everyone is well - mannered and polite. The tone of their conversation never reflects the fact that both countries involved have rockets with nuclear warheads aimed at each other.

Nobody at a cold-war diplomatic luncheon loses his temper. Nobody raises his voice. Nobody even implies the other man may be a liar although nobody assumes he isn't.

Nobody takes stenographic notes because these are purely informal exploratory talks between two adversaries, but the moment the party breaks up both sides hurry back to their offices to record everything they can remember to report to their governments.

DELEGATES INFORMAL

It was that way Wednesday when Andrei Gromyko, Soviet foreign minister, played host to Dean Rusk, U.S. secretary of state, in their continuing talks on the Berlin crisis. Each man had six aides and an interpreter with him.

The scene was the brick home of the Russian delegation to the United Nations, on Park Avenue and 68th Street, a neighborhood best known for capitalists and psychoanalysts.

At the Russian mission, Gromyko was the first to arrive, in a black Cadillac limousine.

Promptly at one, Rusk and the other Americans began to arrive, also in black Cadillacs.

Inside, the Americans were led up a broad circular staircase to a reception room, darkly panelled and abounding in overstuffed furniture.

There was time for one drink, the favorites being orange juice, vodka and cordials, separately.

Gromyko led his guests into the dining room. The participants were seated around a round table, places for 14, each including glasses for vodka, white wine, red wine and cognac. For openers the diplomats ate smoked salmon, black caviar, tomatoes and cucumbers.

The fish course was "yellow pike, Polish style." The meat was chopped steak. Dessert was strawberries and cream, then coffee and liqueurs.

There were boxes of Russian cigarettes on the table, one of which produced the biggest laugh of the lunch. The brand was labelled Troika, and the box showed three horses pulling a cart.

GROMYKO JOKES

Said Gromyko to his guests: "You will notice that the horses are all pulling in the same direction."

President Kennedy had told the UN Monday that three horses might provide one direction, but would three drivers?

For more than an hour, the diplomats ate, sipped and made small talk about their home towns, their common experiences in Europe, the weather, non-controversial aspects of the UN and, in one case, professional baseball.

The interpreters were not overworked during the light luncheon dialogue. Gromyko, in his gentle basso, spoke English with Rusk. Most of the others communicated in English or Russian and when that failed got by in German.

But once the chit-chat ended and they got down to serious business—Berlin—each side reverted to its own language and used interpreters so that their meanings could be precisely understood.

Nixon To Run For Governor Of California

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Former vice - president Richard Nixon announced Wednesday night he will run for governor of California next year.

Nixon told a televised press conference "I have two decisions to announce: First, I shall not be a candidate for president in 1964. Second, I shall be a candidate for governor in 1962."

The 48 - year - old Republican who just missed the White House last year set a militant tone in his announcement.

Nixon sized up Democratic Governor Edmund G. (Pat) Brown as "that amiable bug bungling man." He promised a campaign that would "beat Pat Brown to a pulp."

Stung by a question on his personal finances, Nixon said he had been threatened and warned that "every dead cat and every old story would be thrown up and used against me."

"Let me just say that nobody is going to frighten me. Nobody is going to drive me out of this contest."

Nixon's decision brightened the prospects of Governor Nelson Rockefeller of New York for the 1964 Republican presidential nomination.

Gromyko Still Keeps Dean Rusk Guessing

By JOHN M. HIGHTOWER

NEW YORK (AP) — Seven days and two meetings after the start of his talks with Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko, State Secretary Dean Rusk does not know whether the Soviet government has any intention of negotiating a compromise settlement of the Berlin crisis.

But he still hopes to find out and will make another attempt Saturday.

Gromyo for ris part appears to be playing the classic game of Soviet diplomacy. In private talks he is sticking to the hard line of Premier Khrushchev's public statements for a change in the status of West Berlin. If he intends to give ground in order to get agreement on negotiations, he is expected to wait as long as possible while pressing Rusk for all possible concessions.

It now is apparent that both Rusk and Gromyko are as interested in sounding each other out on the results of possible negotiations as they are in finding a formula to get negotiations started.

SEEK FIRM GUARANTEE

Rusk wants to know, for example, what guarantees Khrushchev means to offer when he talks about "guaranteed access" to West Berlin after he signs a peace treaty with Communist East Germany.

The issue is a crucial one because the Western powers have indicated they will not tolerate any Communist blockade of Berlin.

Rusk is trying to learn, in essence, whether Khrushchev is willing to write into the treaty a section spelling out the guarantee. By such an act the Soviet government itself would assume some responsibility for keeping the Berlin routes open. If the guarantee is not in the treaty, Rusk would like to know what concrete form it could take and what reliability it would have.

Gromyko evidently is trying to determine whether the Western powers can be pressured into modifying their Berlin stand to accommodate some or all of Khrushchev's demands.

TALK AT LUNCH

The two men first met a week ago today when Rusk invited Gromyko to lunch. They talked for 4½ hours. They met a second time Wednesday when Rusk went to lunch with Gromyko at Soviet headquarters on Park Avenue. They were together four hours.

When Rusk emerged, accompanied by Gromyko, he said the two had a "very good lunch and a very good talk." He declined to say whether any progress had been made toward agreeing on negotiations, remarking only "we'll see, we'll see." Both men, who appeared relaxed and smiling, said they had agreed to meet again Saturday.

Rusk and British Foreign Secretary Lord Home both cancelled travel plans today to keep in close touch with each other on the developing crisis.

A spokesman for Rusk reported that he had decided against a scheduled trip to Washington early today. A British spokesman said Home had decided to delay his return to Britain. He had planned to go Friday. He now expects to stay here until Saturday night or Sunday morning.

Saskatchewan Advised To Set Up Compulsory Medical Care Plan

By SCOTT SCHILL

REGINA (CP) — The CCF government of Saskatchewan has been advised by a government - appointed committee to set up and administer a comprehensive compulsory scheme of medical care for the province.

The recommendations made Wednesday in a 150 - page interim report by the Thompson advisory committee on medical care probably will form the basis for medical-care legislation to be introduced at a special session of the legislature starting Oct. 11.

The plan will cover almost all of the province's 930000 residents and will cost an estimated committee said.

The per capita cost will be from $20.43 to $24.18 for the first year.

The lower figures are based on the assumption that nominal utilization fees would be charged to limit costs and discourage frivolous or unnecessary requests.

PAY DETERRENT FEES

The utilization or deterrent fees would be paid by patients to doctors on a $1 an office visit $2 a day home call and $3 a night home call basis.

The committee expects costs to rise three to five per cent annually for the first few years.

The report did not receive the support of all 12 members of the committee formed in April 1960 to study the province's health needs.

Financing would be by direct premiums and supplemented by public funds.

The government a close source says is considering four means of paying for the plan :increased income tax increased corporation tax an increase in the three per cent education and hospitalization (Sales) tax and personal premiums.

The only recommendation by the committee was for premiums to be levied in a similar manner to premiums paid now under the compulsory Saskatchewan hospital services plan.

Premiums under this 14-year program are $48 yearly for a family and $24 yearly for a single person.

BENEFITS FOR ALL

The proposed plan provides for "a comprehensive range of medical service benefits" for all residents except those eligible for direct medical services under federal and provincial government programs already existing.

The exceptions would include reserve Indians members of the regular armed forces and RCMP jail and penitentiary inmates cancer tuberculosis and mental patients.

There would be no restrictions in income age or pre-existing health condition.

The plan recommends in general payment to doctors on a fee-for-service basis with some provisions for special methods of payment in specific situations.

Administration would be by a public commission of five to seven members with a full-time chairman, preferably a physician. The body would be responsible to the government through the public health minister and would be "free from political interference and influence."

REJECTS PROPOSAL

In general the committee rejected the proposal by the Saskatchewan College of Physicians and Surgeons of expansion of present private plans with subsidization for those unable to pay.

However, three doctors and a Saskatchewan Chamber of Commerce representative on the committee, submitted a minority report recommending the college proposal.

The doctors, Dr. J. F. C. Anderson of Saskatoon, Dr. E. W. Barootes of Regina and Dr. C. J. Houston of Yorkton, along with D. M. McPherson of Regina, the chamber representative, objected to the "compulsory" aspect of the majority proposal.

They also objected to submitting an interim report as requested by the government.

Walter Smishek of Regina, secretary of the Saskatchewan Federation of Labor, submitted a dissenting report, objecting to administration, remuneration of physicians, utilization fees and financing of costs.

HAS RESERVATIONS

*He said he endorses the ma*jority report, but with "reservations."

The labor representative said the plan should be administered through the department of public health and remuneration of physicians should be on a salary basis.

Compulsory state medicine has been a hot political issue in Saskatchewan since the provincial general election campaign last year.

The CCF government of Premier T. C. Douglas won 37 seats in the 55 - member legislature and promised the province a comprehensive medical - care program. The plan was strongly opposed by the College of Physi*cians and Surgeons.*

After the election, Mr. Douglas appointed the committee, headed by Walter P. Thompson, former president of the University of Saskatchewan.

Others named to the committee: Deputy Health Minister F. B. Roth vice-chairman of the committee; Cliff Whiting former chairman of the University of Saskatchewan's board of governors; Dr. Irwin Hilliard professor of medicine at the university; Dr. V. L. Matthews director of medical and hospital services for the public health department; Mrs. Beatrice Trew women's president of the Saskatchewan Farmers' Union and retired welfare minister T. J. Bentley.

ALL SHOULD BENEFIT

Detailing the scope of benefits the committee said "it was generally agreed they should be as comprehensive as feasible in order to assure that residents of the province will have available to them on an insurance basis all the services necessary for health maintenance and for treatment and supervision of disease conditions and disabilities."

Benefits would include almost all medical care except eye glasses, wheelchairs, appliances, drugs, special duty nurses, vaccines and most dental care.

On the subject of diagnostic services the committee recommended further study. It agreed diagnostic services should be "comprehensive" but with an eye to limitations of services and facilities in many areas.

Piloting the program through the legislature will be one of the final acts Mr. Douglas' 17-year reign as premier. He will resign at the Nov. 1-3 provincial CCF convention in Regina to assume full-time duties as national leader of the New Democratic Party.

BRITISH COLUMBIA CIVIL DEFENCE

Civil Defence is here to stay and should be regarded as another municipal service similar to fire, police, water, sanitation, etc., and be equally well organized.

Women Urged Take Advantage Weekly Clinic

How to encourage more women to take advantage of the Well Women's Clinic held each Wednesday in the Selkirk Health Unit office was discussed at a meeting of the Nelson Kinette Club at the home of Mrs. G. E. Wakeham, 1300 Selby Street, Tuesday night.

Support of Nelson women's organizations will be sought in urging women to take advantage of this clinic, which makes possible early detection of cervical cancer.

A report on the Kinette participation in the West Kootenay Agricultural and Industrial Exhibition indicated success in their doll raffle and in their women's organization display, for which they won third prize.

Two represntatives were named to attend the Voice of Women meeting held Wednesday night, Mrs. B. J. Hughes and Mrs. Marvin Leverington.

Tentative plans were made for Kinette participation in the Kinsmen fall zone meeting to be held October 28 and 29, and for a rummage and bake sale.

Vanners Tell of Work in Summer

The story of their summer activities with the Anglican mission caravan in the North Okanagan and Grand Forks districts was told to members of the Woman's Auxiliary to St. Saviour's Pro-Cathedral.

The auxiliary held its first fall meeting this week with a good attendance and three new members welcomed into the group.

President Mrs. H. Bobroske conducted the meeting and reports were heard from the executive meeting. Arrangements were made for the tea to be hld at the forthcoming annual parish bazaar. Mrs. S. Zabawa will convene the tea and Mrs. V. Fink will convene the "Nearly new" stall, to be operated by the W.A. at the affair.

Mrs. R. E. Ashcroft and Mrs. C. M. Beltner will visit Mount St. Francis and Mrs. Zabawa and Mrs. G. E. Wakeham will be hospital visitors. Mrs. Wakeham and Mrs. D. Crozier-Smith will visit homes.

Miss Seagar and Mrs. Evans, vanners, told of their experiences in the isolated areas of North Okanagan and Grand Forks districts and in part of the West Kootenay parish. The parishes, they said, were large and the roads rough. They met many elderly people, unbaptized children and unmarried couples in these remote areas.

The vanners found it disheartening never to know whether or not their visit had accomplished anything worthwhile unless they returned the following year.

The two women took services at places seldom visited by a minister and names of children in these districts were sent to the Sunday School by Post, which will send them lessons. Miss Seagar and Mrs. Evans are now en route to Vernon where they will leave the van for the winter and will continue north to spend the winter working for the Church at Stewart, B.C.

The W.A. assists van work by sending financial aid to the vanners and by paying for the Sunday School lesson magazines.

Following the talk, refreshments were served by Mrs. Beltner and Mrs. Wakeham.

Columbia Treaty Delay Makes U.S. Impatient

By HAROLD MORRISON

WASHINGTON (CP) — The United States is slowly losing patience with Canadian delay in ratifying a joint treaty to harness the huge Columbia River for power and flood control.

Qualified informants said that if a Canadian federal-provincial squabble over the $458,000,000 project is not settled within a few months, the U.S. may insist the Canadian government complete its side of the bargain and obtain ratification of the pact early in 1962.

This ratification, they figure, will allow the United States to proceed with construction of the long - delayed Libby dam in northern Montana even if it doesn't end the haggling between Premier W. A. C. Bennett of British Columbia and Prime Minister Diefenbaker's administration.

While the U.S. may seek to employ the most influential means possible to get Canada to complete its side of the treaty bargain, informants emphasized this would not be any open ultimatum. Officially and publicly, the U.S. government maintains a hands-off policy on Canadian internal politics.

MAY GO ALONE

However, it would be made clear to the Canadian government that unless Canadian ratification is obtained, the United States would withdraw from the treaty and seek to develop alternative projects to meet the growing power shortage in northwestern states.

Before such a step is taken, U.S. authorities would make a last - ditch effort — probably through President Kennedy—to urge Diefenbaker to settle differences with the B.C. administration and prevent destruction of the treaty.

Among some U.S. experts, opinion seems to favor a settlement on terms proposed by Bennett—a rivision of Canadian federal policy to allow long-term export of surplu s Canadian power to U.S. buyers. The Diefenbaker administration is opposed to this, maintaining Canadian power should be developed mainly for use in Canada to attract new industry and help expansion.

U.S. authorities say there is a big market in northwestern states which can absorb all surplus Canadian power. While Bennett's proposed export price of five mills was considered "a little high," there were indications a firm deal could be worked at just below this price.

SEEK FIRM CONTRACT

The officials emphasized, however, that U.S. customers would not be interested in obtaining Canadian power for short periods. They would want firm supply contracts ranging up to 15 and 20 years.

They suggested that if the Canadian government would agree to such an export policy, it would be economically feasible for simultaneous construction of the Columbia and the Peace River power projects. There would be sufficient markets to absorb surpluses. A U.S. argument in favor of this view is that no one can be sure whether hydro power will still be able to maintain its big competitive margin over atomic electrical power in 30 or 40 years.

Some attempt to persuade the Canadian government to revise its approach to the power export issue may be made when James Carr, interior undersecretary, meets Canadian Justice Minister E. D. Fulton at Spokane Wash., in October. Both are scheduled to make speeches there about Oct. 23. Informants said they will hold talks on the Columbia.

A joint Canada - U.S. agreement to develop the Columbia was signed last Jan. 17 and ratified by the U.S. Senate March 16. The U.S. moved quickly on ratification in the hope it would lead to speedy ratification in the Canadian Parliament.

COMPLICATIONS ARISE

But financial complications arose when the B.C. government asked for a federal grant to cover all or part of the estimated $458,000,000 cost of building three Canadian dams to control the water to be fed into U.S. generators. British Columbia would get a $65,000,000 payment from the U.S. for flood control while power developed from new dam construction would be shared between the two countries on a 50-50 basis.

The Canadian government was prepared to make a loan to B.C. but not an outright gift of money.

Meanwhile, the B.C. government wanted to move ahead in development of the Peace River in the northern interior. American authorities support the Canadian government view that B.C. participated in Canada-U.S. meetings leading to signing of the Columbia River treaty and raised no protest against the pact.

The Diefenbaker government could move to take over the Columbia River project and develop it as a national undertaking if this was found to be in the national interest. U.S. officials said they think such a move would raise so many political difficulties for the Diefenbaker administration that it could not possible be considered a practical solution.

U.S. 'Copters Rescue German Refugees

BERLIN (AP) — Flying over Communist territory, two U.S. army helicopters rescued seven East German refugees from Steinstuecken—the hamlet that the United States has made a symbol of Western rights in Berlin.

The Communists made no attempt to interfere with the airlift Wednesday from the isolated enclave a mile beyond the border of West Berlin.

An army spokesman said the helicopters were on a routine visit to Steinstuecken—a community of only 200 inhabitants—and agreed to fly the refugees to the West.

The East German authorities permit only the residents of Steinstuecken to use the one road leading from the hamlet to West Berlin.

With guards along the road, the East German police were in a position to seize the refugees should they try to enter Berlin by land.

SENT TOKEN FORCE

Gen. Lucius D. Clay sent a token force of three soldiers to establish an outpost in Steinstuecken within hours after his arrival here last week as President Kennedy's personal envoy to Berlin.

Clay himself made the first trip by an American to Steinstuecken in years.

This new potential escape hatch for East Germans developed as a dozen others found holes in the Communist wall to flee to the West.

Most made their escapes out of windows from apartments lining the border of divided Berlin. The Communists are strengthening their wall by destroying houses on their side of the line to create a virtual no man's land.

KILLED BY TRAIN

TORONTO (CP)—A man and a woman were killed Thursday when they drove around railway crossing gates, past flashing red lights, and into the path of a CPR passenger train. The victims were identified as John G. MacKenzie, 65, and Mrs. Helen Walker, 57, both of Toronto.

FACE 200 CHARGES

TORONTO (CP) — Metropolitan Toronto police have laid a total of 200 charges against four 14-year-old boys in the last few days. Two of the juveniles face 64 charges each. The latest charges include purse-snatchings, some dating back three years. Six charges involve arson and most of the others break-ins.

Canadian Takes Broad View of U.K. Entering Common Market

MONTREAL (CP) — F. D. Mathers president of the Canadian Manufacturers' Association, said Thursday the effects on Canada of Britain's probable entry in the European Common Market may not be all bad.

Canada, he said, cannot be indifferent to Britain joining the Common Market because she is Canada's second most important customer — next to the United States — taking about 17 per cent of total Canadian exports.

However, it is too early to know what proportion of these exports will be lost, said Mr. Mathers, who was meeting the Quebec section of the CMA for the first time as president of the association.

"While hoping for the best," he said, "we should prepare for the worst in the sense that we should expect no particular consideration by the Common Market nations for a wide range of our products and certainly not for our manufactured goods.

SHOULDN'T BE BLAMED

"There can be no doubt about the gravity of the British application from our standpoint. In these circumstances Canada in common with most of the other Commonwealth countries can hardly be blamed for making the most strenuous efforts to maintain that access to the British market she has enjoyed over the past generation."

Mr. Mathers, president of a New Westminster, B.C. food company, said Canada would be "very ill - advised" to expect Britain will find her entry into the Common Market incompatible with her standing as head of the Commonwealth.

"Clearly we must be prepared for some loss of our privileged position in the U.K. market, almost certainly within the next two or three years. Even so, Britain will continue to have need of much that we export to her now and trade between us may very well be less drastically affected than might suppose.

"Then again, there are possible compensatory factors, notably the improvement in the sales opportunities here in Canada for our own industries which would follow the removal —or at any rate the progressive reduction—of the preferential tariff rates which British exporters currently enjoy in this country.

"Apart from this, I think there is much to be said for the belief that British membership in the European Common Market may actually rebound to the benefit of certain of our own industries, for, with more favorable access to the whole West European market, Britain's industries may be expected to step up their imports of necessary raw materials."

CLAIM VISAS DELAYED

MOSCOW (Reuters) — Soviet newspaper men complained today that the U.S. state department failed to issue them with visas in time to allow them to cover the current United Nations session in New York. A letter published in the Communist party paper Pravda and signed by correspondents from Pravda, Izvestia and others alleged the Americans were trying to prevent Soviet journalists from covering the UN proceedings.

MARKET TRENDS

NEW YORK (AP)—The stock market's technical rally continued Thursday but weakened late in the session. Statistically, the list remained higher.

Announcement of a strike deadline in the Ford labor negotiations was depressing to motor shares. All of them declined, though narrowly.

On the Canadian list, Dome Mines moved up ⅝, Canadian Pacific ½, and Walker Goodham ⅜ while Hudson Bay Mining dropped ⅜ and Distillers Seagrams ⅛.

Prices of the American exchange were generally higher on a volume of 1,680,000 shares, compared with 1,560,000 Wednesday. Scurry Rainbow Oil increased ¼ while Brazilian Traction and Jupiter Oils each increased by ⅛. Shawinigan dropped ¼.

TORONTO (CP)—Speculation interest waned on the Toronto stock market Thursday as junior base metals fell victim to profit-taking.

Lake Dufault was the hardest hit, falling 40 cents at $4.40 a share after earlier going as low as $4. It's volume for the day was 250,064 shares. Wiltsey-Coghlin, which has property adjoining in Lake Dufault in Quebec's Rouyn-Noranda area and which has traded over the million-share mark in the last two sessions, was down 1½ cents at 18½ cents. It's volume was also down from previous days— 603,305 shares.

Volume was high among many of the junior issues but there were gains. Losses ranged between one and five cents.

The industrial market was again strong. Pipeline issues enjoyed an exceptionally good day with Trans-Canada ahead 1¾, Interprovincial ⅞ and Trans - Mountain ⅜. Dominion Bridge was ahead 1⅞. Chrysler bested motor issues, ahead two points and U.S. Ford advanced 1⅞.

The losses in the junior base metal sections accounted for the loss on the industrial index. In the senior list, Labrador gained ¾, Falconbridge and Ventures each ½.

Western Oils had one of their best days in recent weeks. Home B was ahead 55 cents, Home a 15 cents and Pacific petroleum ⅜. Great Plains Development dropped ¼.

MONTREAL (CP)—Dominion Bridge and Dominion Engineering, both up 1¾, were the highlights of trading on the Montreal and Canadian stock exchanges Thursday. Activity in mines, though heavy, was only about half of Wednesday's total.

Stocks were generally mixed to fractionally higher. Trading was light among the industrials.

International Paper declined ⅜ at 34⅞, Consolidated fell ¼ at 45½ and Price at 49½ and McLaren B at 24½ both added ¼.

Among banks, Imperial eased ⅝ at 67½, Provincial added ½ at 43½, Montreal slipped ¼ at 68 and Royal advanced ¼ at 78.

In utilities, B.C. Power at 49½ and Quebec Natural Gas at 25½ both declined ½.

Among industrials, Dominion Bridge at 22⅝ and Dominion Engineering at 36 each rose 1¾, following announcement of a bid by Canadian General Electric to buy all the shares of Dominion Engineering. Trans - Canada Pipeline added 1¼ at 23¾. Up one point were Argus Corporation at 45 and Salada at 16½. Interprovincial Pipelines at 76 increased ⅝.

In mines, New West Amulet was unchanged at 23 on a turnover of 119,000 shares.

Among base metals, Aluminum at 28¾ and Consolidated Smelters at 23½ both fell ⅛.

In western oils, Pacific Pete added ½ at 11⅛, Home A added ½ at 10 and Home B rose 35 cents at $9.25.

Stampeders To Windup Interlocking Schedule

TORONTO (CP) — Calgary Stampeders, who have shown signs of becoming the hottest team in the west, invade the east tonight for the first of a two-game series in the windup of the Canadian Football League's interlocking schedule.

Stampeders, tied for third in the CFL's western conference, come up first against the slipping and patched-up Toronto Argonauts, then head for Montreal to tangle Monday night with the Alouettes, the last-place club in the eastern conference who have developed into mid-season terrors.

Even a two-game sweep by Calgary would not give the west an even record in the 20-game interlocking schedule, introduced this year on a two-season trial basis. The east now leads with 10 wins against six losses with two games tied.

ARGOS LIMPING

Calgary runs up against a Toronto club hard-hit by injuries and their fans disheartened by their third-place position.

Montreal is pressing only two points behind for the last playoff spot. Argos had five regulars out of action when they lost 29-10 to Ottawa last Sunday and only defensive halfback Stan Wallace is likely to be ready to play against the Stampeders.

Cookie Gilchrist, the team's power - running fullback and leading scorer, is expected to miss his second game in a row. He has an ankle injury and until last Sunday had never missed a game because of an injury in nine seasons in professional football.

Coach Lou Agase has indicated he plans not to use him against Stampeders, preferring to give his ankle more time to heal and have him in the best of shape when the Argos meet Montreal Oct. 7. Argos feel that is a game they have to win in their battle with Alouettes for third place.

Bobby Kuntz took over Gilchrist's place in the offensive backfield against Ottawa and will be used again if Cookie is out. He was Argos' best runner against Ottawa, gaining 60 yards.

O'Toole, Ford to Hurl Series Opener

By JOE REICHLER

NEW YORK (AP) — Barring a change in plans by Wednesday, the opening - game pitchers for the 1961 world series will be lefthanders Whitey Ford (25-4) for New York Yankees and Jim O'Toole (18-9) for Cincinnati Reds.

Managers Ralph Houk of the Yankees and Fred Hutchinson of the Reds have indicated they will employ no moer than three starters in the series, even it it goes the limit of seven games.

Righthander Ralph Terry (15-3) will pitch the second game for the Yankees. Joey Jay, another righthander with a 21-9 record, is expected to be Hutchinson's second - game choice. The first two games will be played at Yankee Stadium next Wednesday and Thursday.

Righthanders Bill Stafford (13-9) of New York and Bob Purkey (16-12) of Cincinnati will be the opposing pitchers in the third game at Cincinnati's Crosley Field Saturday, Oct. 7. After that, it will be Ford against O'Toole again.

The American League Yankees have been installed 11-to-5 favorites to win the series. They are favored 8½ to 5 to win the opening game against the National Leaguers.

TO USE 3 STARTERS

"I see no reason why I can't go with three pitchers," Houk said. "With the days off after the second and fifth games, it means three pitchers can go every four days.

"I've been using my pitchers, more or less, every fourth day during the season and I see no reason why I should change my method, especially since it has proved successful all year."

Houk said he probably will use Jim Coates, Roland Sheldon and lefthander Bud Daley as his "long men" in relief, preserving relief ace Luis Arroyo for the final innings.

Long men is a baseball term for relief pitchers called upon in early innings. A short man is a reliever of the type of the Reds' Jim Brosnan and Bill Henry, and also Arroyo, who are not summoned until the seventh, eighth or ninth innings. Such pitchers usually go into action to preserve a slim lead or when the score is tied.

Houk has a dual purpose in giving Ford the opening - day assignment. Whitey is the Yankees' best pitcher and Houk wants him available for three starts, if necessary.

Bruins Sign Defenceman

NIAGARA FALLS, Ont. (CP)—Boston Bruins of the National Hockey League Thursday signed rookie defenceman Ed Westfall to a professional contract.

Westfall, 21, was an all-star last season with Niagara Falls Flyers of the Ontario Hockey Association junior A series. He was high among the point-getters and averaged almost 50 minutes of ice time a game.

General manager Lynn Patrick said Westfall will start the season with Bruins — "the rest will be up to him."

Caraway Sold On Waivers

TORONTO (CP)—Toronto Argonauts ran afoul of a Canadian Football League rule Thursday in their attempt to trade Don Caraway to Ottawa Rough Riders.

As a result the former New York Gaints lineman is the property of Hamilton Tiger-Cats.

The Argos put Caraway on weivers last June but withdrew the waiver call after Montreal Alouettes claimed him. Last week the process was repeated, Hamilton entered a claim and the waivers with withdrawn again.

Thursday night the Argos announced they had traded Caraway to Ottawa Rough Riders for Ottawa's first choice in the next college draft.

But the Argos discovered Thursday the rules allow a player to be withdrawn only after going on waivers—and the Ticats got him for the $350 waiver price.

VANCOUVER (CP) — Gogie Stewart of Westminster Royals and Dave Hutton of Vancouver Firefighters have been suspended as a result of a fight in a Pacific Coast Soccer League game. Stewart was set down for three games, and Hutton two. The fight occurred on Sept. 16.

Arena Goes From Pucks to Rocks

WINNIPEG (CP)—The rafters of the Olympic Arena, cradle of junior hockey in this city for almost 50 years, will no longer echo to the boom of a frozen puck on the end boards.

The north - end rink, which probably has spawned more outstanding hockey players since 1922 than any other in the country, has become Winnipeg's first pay-as-you-play curling establishment.

The conversion from hockey to curling is another milestone in the ice-based career of Jack Perrin, who claims he lost about $200,000 in a five-year attempt to promote professional hockey in this city.

A few weeks ago the Western Hockey League granted Perrin's Winnipeg Warriors a year's leave of absence. People close to the scene say the leave of absence is likely to be permanent.

WANTS TO SELL

The tall, handsome and often unpredictable Perrin announced his curling project early in September. He makes no bones about being interested in selling his hockey interests, which include the WHL franchise and two entries in the five-team Manitoba Junior Hockey League.

This winter the junior teams, St. Boniface Canadiens and Winnipeg Braves, will share the facilities of the city - operated Winnipeg Arena with two other MJHL clubs, Winnipeg Monarchs and Winnipeg Rangers.

Perrin says a commercial curling enterprise should do well in Winnipeg, one of Canada's strongest curling communities. Before switching the Olympic to the broom-and-stone game he looked over the field and found that Winnipeg's 19 private curling clubs have been crying for more ice space for their members. And a good many casual curlers want a place where they can play once or twice a week.

"I'm confident this will be a success," he said. "We have five sheets of artificial ice in operation right now and we're tearing down some seats so that by Christmas we'll have seven sheets going."

If business is good he plans additional renovations next year to provide 15 sheets of ice.

HOCKEY TO SUFFER

The change from hockey leaves old-time fans and players sad. They recalled happier days such as the 1920s when Elmwood Millionaires and Columbus Club waged their classic junior battles, the 1938 Memorial Cup championship won by St. Boniface Seals, and the great Monarch clubs of the 1940s.

Minor hockey will suffer, too. The Greater Winnipeg Minor Hockey Association and the Red, White and Blue Association, both of which produced outstanding players, have been evicted from the Olympic.

Since no other covered arena is available, they'll have to use chilly outdoor rinks. And spring thaws have a nasty habit of turning natural ice rinks into ponds just at playoff time, they say.

Hopes To Redeem British Boxing

LONDON (CP)—Heavyweight Joe Erskine is in Toronto for a fight he hopes will help redeem British boxing in the eyes of the Canadian public.

Erskine fights George Chuvalo at Maple Leaf Gardens Monday. Last spring his countryman, Brian London, left a lot of fans disgusted by withdrawing from a bout with Chuvalo. The Canadian had asked for a postponement because of illness and London was unhappy about the financial arrangements.

A similar fiasco is unlikely this time. The 27-year-old Erskine is not given to London-style outbursts. He is taking this fight seriously and regards it as the first on his comeback trail.

The big Welshman hasn't fought since March when he was badly battered in an unsuccessful effort to lift Henry Cooper's British and Empire heavyweight titles. Eye cuts received in that contest and an attack of gout have kept him inactive.

RANKED FOURTH

Cardiff-born Erskine, ranked fourth in Britain, has been fighting as a professional for six years. He is a stylist and fast on his feet but lacks a knockout punch, a common failing of British fighters.

Between 1956 and 1958 he was British and Empire champion. In 1958 he went 13 rounds with Sweden's Ingemar Johansson in a losing effort.

Britain's small band of heavyweights—there are only about a dozen—have been stealing the limelight lately.

Top of the list is Cooper, whom the U.S. National Boxing Association has nominated as No. 1 challenger for Floyd Patterson's world title.

Patterson was scheduled to face Tom McNeeley, unknown and undefeated, in Boston this fall but the bout has run into legal snags. The NBA has given the world champion until March 13 to defend his crown against its nominee. But heavyweight champions have been known to ignore NBA edicts.

One way Cooper can keep in the top spot until the spring is to defend his Empire title against a reasonably strong opponent. Either Chuvalo or Canadian champion Bob Cleroux of Montreal would fit the bill.

The temperamental London is back in the news too. He fights Eddie Machen here Oct. 17. Many feel London has bitten off more than he can chew by agreeing to take on the American.

Yet no one is quite sure what the inconsistent London's capabilities are. He has beaten three experienced Americans — Pete Rademacher, Billy Hunter and Willie Pastrano—but has twice been flattened by Cooper.

Another Welshman, Dick Richardson, the European champion, is recovering from an injured hand and when it has healed will defend his crown against Italy's Sante Amonti.

Moss Expected to Win Grand Prix

TORONTO (CP)—Odds on the winner of Canada's first sports car grand prix at Mosport Park Saturday wavered Thursday between a 19 - year - old Mexican and Stirling Moss, motor racing's maestro.

Ricardo Rodriguez arrived here determined to wrest $10,000 prize money from the 33-year-old British ace and 24 other entries in the 250-mile event.

The Mexican youth who, along with brother Pedro, 21, has soared to motor racing fame in the last two years, had one thing in his favor—his car is a factory-entered rear-engine three-litre Dino Ferrari.

The car won the Italian factory the sports car constructor's championship this year and roared to victory in the 24-hour Le Mans classic with Belgium's Olivier Gendebien and world champion Phil Hill at the wheel.

WON IN LOTUS

Moss, however, was favored by the experts simply because he's Moss. He won a 200-mile race on the new $750,000 road circuit in June in a Lotus 19, identical to the car he'll drive Saturday. He did this without using the car's highest gear.

In June, Gendebien said the only car that "might beat Moss and the Lotus on this track is the rear-engine Ferrari."

The Belgian, a three-time winner at Le Mans, headed the list of formidable opposition. He'll drive a Lotus 19 as will Peter Ryan from Mont Tremblant, Que.

Pedro Rodriguez will be at the wheel of a 246 Dino Ferrari, the same car in which he and his brother led Gendebien and Hill at Le Mans for 22 hours.

CANADIAN CARS IN

The two most powerful cars on the track will be the Sadler Mark Vs from the St. Catharines factory of designer-builder Bill Sadler. One will be driven by Dan Shaw of Toronto who lowered Moss' June lap record for the 2.5-mile circuit to 1:39 from 1:40.

The other Sadler will be driven by 1960 Canadian champion Grant Clark of Georgetown, Ont.

George Constantine of Sturbridge, Mass., fresh from winning the Watkins Glen, N.Y., grand prix Sunday, will be in a three-litre Testa Rossa Ferrari as will Bob Hert and George Reed, both of Chicago. John Fulp of New York will have a 246 Dino Ferrari and Wayne Burnett of Chicago will drive a two-litre Testa Rossa.

The sponsoring British Empire Motor Club said the 30,000 attendance in June was expected to be exceeded Saturday. Some 100 police have been assigned to handle traffic to the track 60 miles east of here.

Dynamiters Sign Two More Players

KIMBERLEY (CP) — Kimberley Dynamiters of the WIHL have signed two star players from Moose Jaw Pla-Mors of the Saskatchewan Senior Hockey League.

Signed by contracts are defenceman Bill Steenson and goalie Ken Kuntz. The latter was No. 1 goalie with Pla-Mors last year. Steenson was on the league all-star team last year.

Dynamiters now have two goalies lined up for this year. Last month they signed netminder Bobby Wardle, 22, who formerly played with Flin Flon Bombers and Medicine Hat Monarchs. Also signed is 21-year-old Walter Sauter, a forward who also played at Flin Flon.

Heavyweight Site Moved

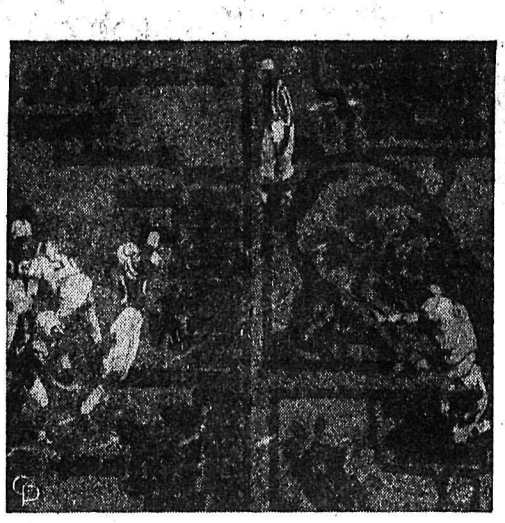
BOSTON (AP) — The world heavyweight championship bout between champion Floyd Patterson and Tom McNeely, scheduled for Boston Garden Nov. 13, will be held in another city, it was announced Thursday night.

Tom Bolan, president of Championship Sports Incorporated, said the bout probably would be held Nov. 20 and that the new site would be announced in a few days.

Change of the site came after a dispute between Bolan and the Massachusetts Boxing Commission on selection of a referee.

Strikes 'n' Spares

Following are results in mixed commercial league bowling Thursday night: Forestry 0, Savoy 4; Outlaws 1, Hume 3; Queens 0, Malkins 4; Tip Top ½, Mel Buerge 3½; Kingpins 3, Topsys 1; Eatons 4, Ambassadors 0; UIC 4, Court Jesters 0; McElroys 3, Palm Dairies 1; Simpson Sears 1, Overwaitea 3. Ladies' high single and aggregate went to Lena Koehle of Hume with 263 and 630. Men's high single and aggregate went to Chuck Symmonds of Savoys with 310 and 781. Other top scorer was Dawn McKenzie with 308.



PROS GETTING KICK OUT OF IT—The pro gridders are getting a big kick out of the season to date as field goals play important parts in winning. On the last Sunday sked, 13 field goals were booted in six games, with Jim Martin of the Lions (kicking one here) sending three over the bars. Martin's last one, going 49 yards, whipped the Baltimore Colts, 16 to 15, at Baltimore.

SKI SLANTS

With all the enjoyment of a good summer slowly dropping into the past, skiers of the last few years and newcomers to the sport shall look forward to a good season with greatly improved facilities on the ski hill.

Much publicity has been given to the efforts of the Silver King Ski Club towards finishing the first stage of our development program. Those of you who have not been out to look around lately will see many changes and new things compared to last winter.

It is hard to list all the work done so far. Why don't you come out this weekend and see for yourselves. The Rotary ski lodge, no doubt our proudest project this season, is nearing completion fast. A new three acre clearing for beginners classes to the right of the little T-bar lift has been finished and awaits the snow. The new road improvement will most likely be the first visible asset with its new parking area situated where the old cabin used to stand.

Much work has been done to get the big lift line ready for the additional 15 T-bars. The bullwheel on the top of the line will go up this Sunday and with the diesel engine brought in tip top shape the 2800 foot T-bar lift should operate without trouble this winter. Still worked on is the electrical line to light up the entire ski hill for night skiing. This also will be a spectacular improvement of our facilities, offering the skiers many more hours of skiing pleasure during the weeks ahead.

Every member of last year's club has received in the mail a letter from the president asking each member to come out on Sundays to help cut the brush on the mainslope. Although we had a good turn out last Sunday more skiers, friends and parents are needed to complete this most important job. If the brush is left standing skiing will be not only miserable but also dangerous. So join us this Sunday for the second giant brush cutting party on the ski hill. Bring your own tools such as machetas, brush cutters, clippers, and small axes and make sure they are sharpened.

This year again as during the past five seasons the Nelson Daily News will be sponsoring the free ski lessons for beginners. The instructors are volunteers and will teach, free of charge all beginners in supervised classes the skill of skiing in a six week course which will begin sometime after Christmas. Last season a total of 152 beginners took advantage of those lessons and the club has reasons to believe that this year over two hundred will apply. Watch the paper for further announcements.

Skiing is a recreational sport that has grown tremendously in our city over the past few years. It is rapidly becoming the most popular winter sport, mostly because everyone can participate regardless of age or sex, and the best way of doing it is with the whole family. The addition of the new ski lodge will give many people the opportunity to come and watch the doings on the slopes.

So, this weekend come out and let's cut the brush. Parties start at 10:00 a.m. and at 1:00 p.m.

1962 Summer Bonspiel Program Plans Launched

Ray Commons was elected chairman of the 1962 Midsummer Bonspiel Steering Committee last night at the committee's annual meeting. He succeeds D. M. Sample.

Other officers elected were: Henry LeMoigne, secretary-treasurer, and Art Waters, V. L. Davies, Howard Moore, James Harvey, Fred Boates and Alan R. Ramsden, directors.

This year's Midsummer Bonspiel was one of the best and most successful ever held, it was felt. Financially the committee was in the black, having a $639 surplus. In holding the annual event the committee spent $6685 and received $7305, with a $115 bank balance from the 1960 curling event.

Many ideas on how the bonspiel could be improved for next year's competition were tabled. It was decided to negotiate a contract which would extend the curling schedule to seven days, starting on July 2 and ending July 7. Purpose was so that the square dance committee could hold a penguin badge dance in the arena while the ice was still set. Walter Wait, spokesman for the square dance club, called the event "the first of its kind in the world." The extension would also alleviate the pressure put on by the municipal curling competition, which is held on the Saturday at the end of the curling week.

Promotion of the bonspiel was one of the major subjects. A motion was tabled that the Nelson club investigate the possibilities of publishing a joint poster with other locations such as Penticton Peach Festival, Kelowna Regatta and Creston Blossom Festival. If this could be accomplished then all would receive the advantage of a more extensive coverage to other cities, it was pointed out.

Changes in the number of entries and prizes were also suggested. Because the entry list was becoming large it was decided to make the limit 100 rinks. Winning curlers, unable to keep the cup which they win, would receive miniature trophies.

Promotion is to be stepped up. This year the club will use two posters; one to be delivered before Christmas, the other to be sent out in late winter.

Fred Leno, committee member, said that he had made a survey at the last bonspiel of what the visiting curlers liked and disliked about the summer event. Most of those questioned said that they did not like the pancake breakfast because there were too many local people there and they had to wait too long in line before being served.

Some curlers came up with ideas on how the week's schedule could be improved. One curler said that he would like to see the return of the curlers' parade to start the week rolling. Another said he would like to see something for the children. One improvement on which the majority agreed was that a curlers' banquet, strictly for curlers and their families, should be held.

All the motions were tabled and will be decided upon at the next meeting, October 19.

Rod and Gun Club Holds Meeting

Discussions on future plans and election of a new secretary highlighted the Nelson Rod and Gun Club monthly meeting held at the Legion Tuesday night.

Mickey McEwan, well known Nelson sportsman, was elected secretary to replace Bruce Bradshaw, who, because of other business commitments had to give up the position.

It was decided to winterize the partially built club house on the trap and rifle range at Porto Rico Creek range, and to continue construction of the building in the spring.

Shown at the meeting were two films, "Columbia Adventure" and "Skeena Trap Line." Columbia Adventure was the story of an American family who followed the Columbia river from its source to its mouth in the Pacific. Skeena trap line was the more interesting of the films as it showed the life and habits of the Skeena River Indian.

STRONG ARM OF LAW DIDN'T HAVE A CHANCE

MOUNDSVILLE, W. Va. (AP)—The strong arm of the law didn't have a chance Thursday night in West Virginia State Penitentiary.

Prison heavyweight boxing champion Thomas Dejarnette scored a technical knockout over Tunney Hunsaker, former Fayetteville, W. Va., police chief, in the eighth and final round of a fight behind prison walls.

Hunsaker has been fighting professionally for several years. He was stopped in the ninth round of a scheduled 10-rounder in Boston last April by Tom McNeely, who has signed to meet Floyd Patterson in a heavyweight title bout.

Dejarnette knocked Hunsaker down twice in the final round before referee Jimmy Colombo stopped it with 50 seconds gone.

Hunsaker never had a chance. The crowd included an estimated 400 paid and another 450 of the prison's 1600 inhabitants who were for Dejarnette all the way.

Dejarnette is serving a life term for murder.

HURT DURING INITIATION

TORONTO (CP) — The Students' Administrative Council at the University of Toronto has agreed to ask student groups to abolish "non-constructive initiations." Its action followed an incident in which Barry Thorpe, 18, of Woodville, Ont., crashed into a brick wall during a "hazing" in which he and several other first-year students were blindfolded with pillowcases. The university college student cracked a vertebra but was not seriously injured.

GOING AFTER SPEEDERS

MONTREAL (CP) — Aroused parents in a west-end Montreal neighborhood set up a vigilante group Thursday to help police crack down on speeding in their school zone. Within a week, said Hal Wardell, president of the Willingdon Home and School Association, they hope to have parents on duty at intersections every school-day during the hours when children are going to or coming home from school.

DAILY CRYPTOQUOTE — Here's how to work it:

A X Y D L B A A X R
is L O N G F E L L O W

One letter simply stands for another. In this sample A is used for the three L's, X for the two O's, etc. Single letters, apostrophies, the length and formation of the words are all hints. Each day the code letters are different.

A Cryptogram Quotation

J E J S P N Y Q T J T W Y L Z T L I W I L S M I F Q J L N J, U Q W T W Y L Z T I L M Y B T — T W I S P.

Yesterday's Cryptoquote: OH, HOW HARD IT IS TO FIND THE ONE JUST SUITED TO OUR MIND!--CAMPBELL.

Baby Gives Up Drinking

RED DEER, Alta. (CP)— Twenty - two - month - old Craig Walt hasn't had a drink for for eight months.

Yet the son of Mr. and Mrs. A. J. Walt is in good health.

Last Jan. 7 Craig threw his bottle from his crib and since then has refused to take any kind of fluid although his mother makes daily attempts.

For eight months the baby has lived solely on baby - food custard.

Craig eats nine tins of custard daily and physicians say the 43 ounces of custard give him 32 fluid ounces, normal liquid intake for the lad's age.

Craig, youngest of six children, is not walking yet but doctors hesitate to say there is any connection with this tardiness and his diet. They're not alarmed at the situation.

His mother is only mildly alarmed.

"If he weren't so darned content, I'd worry more," she said.

Katanga Flareup Subsides But May Break Out Again

By CARMAN CUMMING
Canadian Press Staff Writer

The worst of the heat in The Congo's Katanga flareup has subsided, leaving the opposing sides licking their wounds uneasily and wondering just how it all happened—and where the next blowup will be.

Moise Tshombe, the erratic Katanga leader who beat off the United Nations attempt to break up his army, claims he is sitting pretty. There are indications he has more cause for concern than he cares to show.

The UN Congo force, stung badly by the eight - day clash with Katanga's army, is taking steps—mainly in air strength — to ensure that it will have the force to back up its orders next time.

Cyrille Adoula's central Leopoldville regime is reported divided to some extent on how hard it dares to bear down on Katanga to bring the breakaway province to heel. By an ironic twist, the Lumumbists of Oriental province, who had their own flying at independence, are said to be the strongest proponents of an outright attack on Katanga.

CALLS FOR TALKS

Tshombe says he wants to meet at a neutral place with Adoula to find "a solution satisfactory to everyone." The solution Tshombe wants, of course, would be for the UN to pull out and the central government to leave him alone with his copper mines.

But there are a number of reasons why Tshombe might be tempted to back off a little now and accept some form of loose federation with the Leopoldville regime.

There are several thousand UN troops in Katanga. With added air strength, they will constitute a force not easily pushed around.

The central government is making threatening moves toward the Katanga border, possibly aiming to bring pressure on Tshombe without actual shooting.

And Tshombe has little international support for his demands that the UN get out. The Communists and many neutrals consider him a stooge of Belgian industrialists — with some justification. The Soviet Union's only criticism of the UN action was that it didn't go far enough.

Among the big Western powers, the United States supported the UN move while Britain and France appear to have fallen silent after their first expressions of dismay. Belgium and Rhodesia, Tshombe's firmest backers, can do little without support of the major Western powers.

CRITICAL PRECEDENT

Whatever the outcome, the Katanga clash will be weighed for some time in connection with the UN's scope and powers in such police actions.

Still to be clarified is the question of which UN official actually issued the order for Katanga's white officers to be disarmed and expelled, in compliance with the Feb. 21 Security Council resolution.

Michel Tomberlaine of France, second-ranking UN official in Katanga, indicated to reporters Monday that the order had been issued with the approval of the late Secretary-General Dag Hammarskjold and had been cleared by UN headquarters in Leopoldville.

But Tombelaine added this strange comment:

"There were so many calbes at the time that I could not say who signed the actual go-ahead."

Considering the importance of the issue—in terms of the UN's stature as a peacemaker—a fuller explanation seems to be indicated.

Suite Owners Seek Renters

VANCOUVER (CP) — Many of Vancouver's posh and costly self-owned apartment suites are going begging for buyers. "For rent" instead of "for sale" signs are going up.

The self-owned apartment, the buyer of which has a say in running the apartment block, was introduced to the Vancouver area 15 years ago. Now there are so many that vacancies have forced the builders to try renting them.

There are more than 2,500 such suites in the Greater Vancouver area. Real estate men say many building companies are operating at a loss because of vacancies ranging as high as 50 per cent.

The suites cost buyers from $10,000 for a small, one-bedroom apartment to $95,000 for a penthouse. Rents will run from $140 to $300 a month.

Despite the glut, more such apartment blocks are going up. A $1,000,000, 13-storey apartment building has been completed in West Vancouver. Another $6,000,000, 13 - storey block with ultra-modern conveniences is nearing completion in the same area and will sell suites anywhere from $68,000 to a top of $95,000 each for two penthouses overlooking the entrance to Vancouver harbor.

Those renting suites are being given an option to buy later. But tenants are hard to find because there is also a glut of cheaper, unoccupied rental suites.

Broadcast Governors Against Sale of CFTO-TV To U.S. Firm

OTTAWA (CP) — The Board of Broadcast Governors Thursday recommended government denial of an application by CFTO-TV of Toronto to sell capital stock to the American Broadcasting Company.

The board said it is "not prepared to recommend any transaction involving financial participation of American networks in Canadian television stations."

One of the 15 governors, Edward Dunlop of Toronto, dissented from the board recommendation and said the stock transfer should be recommended.

Mr. Dunlop recalled that the board said in an Aug. 28 announcement that it would approve the stock transfer unless Canadian interests submitted before noon last Monday offers "on terms and conditions substantially as favorable" as ABC's.

The announcement by the board said in part:

"In Mr. Dunlop's view no such offer has been made or received, no new evidence has been introduced, and there was no new element in the case."

BRISTOL, England (AP)—The city council gave its okay Wednesday night for the operation of a drive-in bingo parlor. Players will sit inside their cars in a large garage. Those who get a winning line in their cards will sound their horns. The promoters said they could accommodate up to 400 cars at a time.

Community, Industry, Urged To Assess Responsibility

NIAGARA FALLS, Ont. (CP) The fates of industries are determined by the people who work for them, Karl E. Scott, president of Ford Motor Company of Canada Ltd., said Wednesday night.

Stating that it is not enough on a community's part to attract an industry to its locale, and not enough on an industry's part to build a plant there, Mr. Scott urged both community and industry to "look beyond the water towers" to assess their full responsibility to one another.

He spoke to the combined Chambers of Commerce of Fort Erie, Greater Niagara, Niagara - on - the - Lake, Port Colbourne, St. Catharines, Thorold and Welland to mark the official opening near here of Ford of Canada's glass fabricating plant.

He also urged industries to diversify so as to assure the future of both themselves and the communities in which they operate.

Salesmanship rests not only with a company, Mr. Scott said.

MUST SELL PRIDE

"The industrial community can make an important contribution to the success of its local industries by practising a different form of salesmanship. This calls for you to 'sell' your fellow citizens constantly on the urgent need for greater pride by all industrial employees in better quality products and higher standards of workmanship; in greater efficiency and improved productivity."

When industries had reason to be enthusiastic about their communities, other industries were attracted to the same environment. In the case of Ford's new glass plant, for instance, if company and community salesmanship were sufficiently successful, land had already been purchased to allow for expansion.

"There is a false premise," Mr. Scott said, "accepted by many employees, shopkeepers and suppliers dependent for their livelihoods on the existence of industries, as well as some politicians in whose constituencies industries are established, that large companies are permanent, inviolate, immovable, almost eternal; that because their installations are substantial the companies are bound to survive, irrespective of whether their products are competitive in quality and price."
