3 Vehicles Fall in Hole as River Wall Section Collapses at Trail

Tons of Fill Poured in Cavity Washed Out by Earlier Flooding

TRAIL — Two cars and a truck fell into a huge cavity 120 feet long, 100 feet wide, and 35 feet deep caused Thursday night when the rushing Columbia River tore out a 120-foot section of cement retaining wall.

The two-mile-long retaining wall was built after disastrous floods in 1948 to hold back the Columbia as it flowed past Trail.

Engineers said the washout was caused by undermining when the river was at its peak level of 45 feet, inches below the top of the wall, two weeks ago.

Work crews recovered the truck and one of the cars with a crane early Friday.

Police said the extreme edge of the cavity is alongside the foundation of a three-storey cement structure. They said the building was apparently saved from undermining because the collapsed wall diverted the main flow of the river into midstream.

Work crews Friday were dumping tons of fill into the cavity. Police had blocked off a five-block section along the river front.

Wide sections of the city were flooded during the peak snow runoff when water seeped under the retaining wall. Thirty-five families were evacuated from their homes.

NOTICED LIGHTS FALL

Reports indicated the river wall collapsed about 11:20 p.m. Thursday.

It was apparently noticed falling by a woman who saw one of the Esplanade flourescent street lights falling into the river.

One light standard and several traffic meters have been lost.

The wall has collapsed at a point where the city expended considerable funds some months ago to repair undermining caused by a back-eddy.

Its collapse permitted the river to gouge out a hole which stretched from the river wall line to within inches of a corner of the Merry Lumber Co. Warehouse.

Equipment operators on the river wall were hampered by the cracking of large pieces of surface which fell into the river under the weight of machines.

Part of the damaged river wall remained in sight.

Between the end of the still stable upstream wall and the piece of damaged wall still in evidence, there was a gap through which tremendous volumes of water flowed.

The back eddy entered through the main breach, scoured away more and more fill, and then rejoined the main stream through the smaller gap.

A Cominco crane lowered a huge concrete tank into position to block this smaller gap.

Alongside the big tank, concrete slabs were lowered into place, and this afternoon huge quantities of rock are to thrown in, too.

CRACKS APPEAR

Ominous cracks have appeared elsewhere in the wall, and there has been some cracking of pavement.

Works and services department chairman Ald. Harold Dixon, also on the job since daylight, says the entire area is highly dangerous, and urges the public to stay well clear.

Ald. Dixon said it was altogether possible other sections of the Esplanade wall have been undermined and may collapse at any moment.

Thorough examination of the wall, however, will have to wait until the river has fallen to winter level.

A department of highways boat was expected at the scene and soundings were to be made in an effort to determine the depth of the damage and the volumes of fill likely to be required.

At the point of collapse, the river wall consisted of two structures — a higher concrete wall built upon the top of the original wall since the 1948 flood.

Appearances indicate that most of the 150-odd feet affected has been swept away into the river altogether.

With it, of course, has gone much of the centennial Esplanade project — sidewalks, trees, curbs gutters and pavement.

Full cost of replacement is not known now, but it is expected to run into many thousands of dollars.

Mayor Leslie Read said the City of Trail could not bear the cost alone.

"It would break us," he said.

The mayor said he would call a special meeting of the council Monday to consider financial aspects of the disaster.

He said it was certain the council would have to seek assistance from senior government.

"The provincial government," he said, "for a start should send someone in here to see precisely what is going on."

225 Fighters, 14 Tractors Battle 18,000-Acre Fire

PRINCE GEORGE (CP) — Suppression crews have been strengthened at a huge fire 30 miles southwest of Quesnel as forest service officials Friday attempted to bring it under control.

The 18,000-acre blaze has been burning since the weekend, destroying spruce and fir stands, and twice during the last 24 hours flared up at hot spots.

A forestry spokesman said 225 men and 14 tractors were working around the clock to build sufficient guards to prevent the fire spreading into new stands should the weather remain hot or a stiff wind develop.

STILL SERIOUS

"This is still a serious fire and it could be a problem again," the spokesman said. "We need a good heavy rain before we'll be able to get rid of it."

The prospects of cool or rain weather this weekend were dim as the forecast for the province is for warm and clear weather for the next several days.

Another 115 men and 17 tractors were suppressing outbreaks of fire at 41 other locations in the vast Prince George forest district, which covers one-third of the province's physical area, much of it ladened with rich stands of timber.

Included among the fires were nine small blazes that were reported overnight.

HAZARD CLIMBING

The fire hazard in the district is moderate but climbing steadily in the face of the warm weather.

In the central Kamloops district, seven new fires were reported Friday morning to bring the total there to 83. More than 500 men and 38 tractors, manned the fire lines.

Mopping up operations began at the Jamieson Creek fire, which destroyed 1,400 acres of fir, hemlock and lodgepole pine 40 miles north of Kamloops, before being brought under control.

Also brought under control was the Lan fire at Clinton, which has covered about 4,000 acres. About 80 men and eight tractors were at the scene of this outbreak.

But still out of control was the Nol fire at Alexis Lake which is burning over 3,500 acres. Much of this is bushland on semi-open range. Four tractors and 45 men attempted to check its progress.

Special Session To Deal With Tax Agreement

VICTORIA (CP) — Premier Bennett announced Friday a special session of the B. C. legislature will be held Aug. 1 to pass legislation necessary before the signing of a new five-year tax agreement with the federal government.

He said in a press conference the legislation became necessary with the presentation of the federal budget this week.

He also said the budget shows B. C. will get less than at present under the new agreement but he did not think that there would be any increase in B. C. taxation.

The premier declined to go into further details including a question of whether other legislation will be presented at the special session.

Strikers Reject Suspension Call

NEW YORK (AP) — Three big seamen's unions flatly turned down a 60-day government fact-finding armistice in the U.S. maritime strike Friday.

Shipowners earlier had agreed to the proposed truce in an effort to head off eventual tieup of nearly 1000 of their vessels.

The rejection by the Seafarers International Union, the Marine Engineers Union and the Masters, Mates and Pilots Union—three of the six involved in the eight-day strike — apparently doomed the plan outlined Thursday by Labor Secretary Arthur Goldberg for a three-man fact-finding committee to settle the deadlock. The three unions represent 47,000 strikers.

In addition, the biggest, the National Maritime Union, with 37,000 members, was expected to follow the recommendation of its leaders and turn down Goldberg's proposal in a scheduled vote.

The rejections increased the likelihood of an injunction to halt the strike which already has cost the economy millions of dollars.

More Driver Training Urged

VCTORIA (CP) —A plea for more education and public responsibility for teenage drivers was issued Thursday of B. C. motor vehicle superintendent George Lindsay.

"Our investigations reveal a large percentage of drivers in the 16 to 18 age group have never received driver - training instruction," he said.

"It is my opinion that we are often ready to admit that this group is indeed prone to criticism, but what have we done as parents or citzens to promote remedial action?"

Mr. Lindsay said that fatal road accidents this year have killed 122 persons in B. C. to the end of May, a 35-per-cent increase over 1960.

Of these, six victims and seven of the drivers involved were between 16 and 18.

However, despite their lack of experience, the younger group was not as dangerous on the road as drivers of around 20 and 21.

"We are concerned with this 16 to 18 group," said Mr. Lindsay, "because many of them are being killed and the toll in injuries leaves many young people with premature injuries which can handicap them for the rest of their lives."

U. S. NOT CLOSING BORDER

WASHINGTON (CP) — A qualified government source said Friday the U. S. has no intention of closing the border against Canadians who commute daily to jobs in American border communities.

The informant said the government may go through the motions of making a study of complaints that these commutters are taking jobs away from Americans but there will be no interference with the Canadians and no changes in the present pattern of crossings along the Canada-U.S. border.

Water Bomber Crash Snuffs Four Lives

VANCOUVER (CP) — Four men died in the rugged Mount Benson area on Vancouver Island Friday when a huge Second World War Martin Mars bomber crashed in flames.

There were no survivors in the crash of the aircraft, converted to a flying water tanker for fighting forest fires.

The dead were identified as W. C. Richmond, Sidney, B. C., the pilot; W. J. Wiggins, Alberni, B. C., co-pilot; J. V. Edwards, Victoria, first flight engineer and R. A. Morin, Richmond, B. C., second flight engineer.

The crash was 20 miles northwest of Nanaimo, directly across Georgia Strait from this city.

First reports said the plane started a small bush blaze.

Eyewitnesses told an RCMP officer the aircraft appeared to make a pass over a small forest fire burning in the area, but it failed to release its cargo of water.

"I gather that the plane was unable to gain altitude because of the weight of the water," said the RCMP corporal.

SHEARED TREE TOPS

He said the Martin Mars came down in a heavily wooded area and sheared the tops off trees along a half-mile strip.

The aircraft burst into flames and wreckage was scattered over a large area.

"The wreckage was still burning when we arrived at the scene,' he said.

Bodies of the victims, found in the wreckage, will be taken to nearby Parksville today and a preliminary inquest will be held.

LOSES HAND

VANCOUVER (CP) — Mrs. Betty Risch, 31, of Vancouver, Friday lost her right hand when she was caught in a meat grinder in a large grocery store. Mrs. Risch was putting meat through the machine when the accident occurred.

Newfoundland Fires Drive Thousands From Their Homes

ST. JOHN'S, Nfld. (CP)—The 1300 residents of Hare Bay, Nfld., fled by car and boat Friday night as a forest fire bore down on the Bonavista community 120 miles northwest of here. Ten houses had been destroyed. Telephone operator Randolph Fifield said "there's only a handful of us left here."

A total of 3000 persons were reported to have been evacuated from their homes along Bonavista Bay as tree-hopping flames raced northward up the eastern Newfoundland coast.

Earlier, 2000 left Trinity, Indian Bay, Wareham, Parsons Point and Centreville.

About 15 homes in the six settlements were destroyed. A good many of the evacuees were jammed into the tiny village of Wesleyville, a few miles to the north which so far is out of reach of the flames, Mr. Fifield said. Others crowded into boats and lay offshore where they will spend the night.

Light rain began falling along Bonavista Bay but it was expected to have little effect, Mr. Fifield said. Communications with all the settlements except Hare Bay were cut off.

Before Hare Bay was evacuated and flames destroyed nine homes and a barn on the outskirts.

Elsewhere in eastern Newfoundland, which has received only nine-tenths of an inch of rain so far this month, a 20-year record, fires burned out of control along the south shore of Gander Lake.

Stuart Peters, deputy resources minister, said he was hopeful the lake, less than a mile wide at some spots, would act a a firebreak. As a precaution, firefighters had taken a stand on the north shore. If the fire breaks through it could cross the Trans-Canada Highway and also reach Gander.

A pall of smoke hung over St. John's, as a blaze forced the evacuation of about 50 homes in the western outskirts. Six homes were destroyed as the flames moved in a northwesterly direction towards Torbay Airport. Mr. Peters said it was expected the fire would be contained.

Baby Improving After Rat Attack

OTTAWA (CP) — The condition of three - month - old Kimberley Scott, in hospital here with terrible facial wounds inflicted by a rat, was described Friday as "improving."

"She seems to be improving," a hospital spokesman said of the tiny tot who had her nose chewed off and her lips, gums, arms and legs bitten by a rat that jumped into her crib as she slept Wednesday.

The youngster was rushed here for treatment by her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Floyd Scott, from their home at Fournier, Ont., about 45 miles south of here. Doctors say it will be a matter of years before plastic surgery will be able to replace the features of the child.

Castro Turns Down Tractors Proposition

HAVANA (CP)—Premier Fidel Castro refused Friday to accept the tractors-for-freedom committee's final offer of 500 light tractors in exchange for 1,200 Cuban expatriates taken prisoner here in the April invasion attempt.

DETROIT (AP)—The tractors for freedom committee said Friday night it was disbanding because Cuban Premier Fidel Castro's rejection of its plan to trade tractors for prisoners "has made impossible a realization of our humanitarian goals."

The committee had set noon Friday as the deadline for acceptance by Castro. But the Cuban premier cabled the committee saying he wanted 500 heavy tractors or a proportionately larger number of smaller machines.

The idea of the exchange has not necessarily been killed, however. Castro also offered to send a 10-man prisoners' delegation back to the United States to "explain the facts to the American people."

Castro accused the committee Friday of trying to disrupt the negotiations. He complained that it had ignored his proposal to exchange the Cuban expatriates for a like number of "political prisoners" whom he said are being held in the U.S., Spain, Puerto Rico, Nicaragua and Guatemala.

On Tuesday the tractors-for-freedom committee had cabled Castro accusing him of changing the original offer.

Castro said the cable was aimed solely at breaking off the negotiations and placing the blame for the break on Cuba.

See Cent Rise In Bread Price

VANCOUVER (CP) — A cent-a-loaf increase in the price of bread was forecast here Friday by Allan McGavin, president of McGavin Bakeries Limited.

He said a "multiplicity or rising costs," among them an increase in flour prices would force the change before the end of July.

Mr. McGavin said Vancouver bread prices were increased by about two cents a loaf in 1958.

OTTAWA (CP) — Arthur May, president of the National Council of the Baking Industry, said Friday that a one-cent increase in the price of bread is "inevitable."

Mr. May said the drop in the dollar value which has resulted in the increase in the price of wheat and flour makes an increase in the cost of bread "more than a probability."

Laos Gov't to End Geneva Boycott

ZURICH, Switzerland (Reuters)—The pro-Western Laotian government will end its boycott of the 14-power conference on Laos at Geneva, it was announced Friday.

The announcement by Cambodian head of state Prince Norodom Sihanouk was seen as a development that could speed the work of the 14-power gathering, aimed at finding a formula for Laotian neutrality.

Leaders of the three Laotian factions met here Thursday with Norodom after winding up their four-day "summit" meeting.

Norodom said a two-part proposal for Laotian neutrality will be submitted to the conference next week.

The first part will outline a plan for Laotian neutrality, while the second will deal with remaining differences between the faction leaders.

The three Laotian leaders agreed Thursday to form a coalition government. Souphanouvong told a press conference that the next meeting between himself, Souvanna and Boun should take place in Laos. He said the "summit" was "crowned with success."

Bennett Mum on BCE Takeover

VICTORIA (CP) — Premier W. A. C. Bennett refused Friday to state government policy on the possible take over of the B.C. Electric and a Wenner-Gren project to develop Peace River.

He was asked to comment on an Ottawa report that this part of a "grand design" for public power development in B.C. which would tie in with a United States grid stretching to California.

"I wouldn't want to say anything," said the premier as he entered a cabinet meeting which was to hear a report of his trip to Alaska for a conference on northwestern development.

Asked about taking over either the Peace project or B.C. Electric, he said:

"I wouldn't say yes, and I wouldn't say no."

Asked if this meant it was an open question, Mr. Bennett said he wouldn't call it that, but it would be a question of policy.

Mr. Bennett threatened, at the last session of the B.C. legislature, to take over B.C. Electric because the province was not getting a fair share of taxes it paid to Ottawa.

The Ottawa story suggested Mr. Bennett would use profits from the sale of Columbia power to the U.S. for developing the Peace. The Columbia involves expenditures of $458,000,000 while the Peace is expected to cost $600,000,000 to develop.

Mr. Bennett while in Alaska this week said he would not subsidize the Peace through Columbia revenue.

"What can I do with a cow?" she asked, looking around her yard.

Mrs. Weir caught the Holstein surveying her flower beds. She told dairymen to take her away. They did.

ROCHESTER, N.Y. (AP)—The Rochester and Genesee Valley Railroad, which has not had a foot of track or a piece of rolling stock since 1871, has paid its stockholders a dividend for the 89th consecutive year.

Directors of the railroad met Thursday, declared the $4 dividend and re-elected John Remington president of the line.

The railroad, which was organized in 1851 by James Wadsworth, leased its right of way to the Erie Railroad in 1871 for a guaranteed $4 a year for each $100 share of stock. The lease expires in 2051.

Verigin Asks Goodwill Toward All Doukhobors

The Vancouver Sun was scored here Friday by J. J. Verigin for a front page cartoon earlier this month, levelled at the Doukhobors.

Mr. Verigin, spritual leader - designate of the Orthodox Doukhobors, speaking at the closing banquet of the B.C. Credit Union League, said, "the cartoon was a ridiculous representation of what Doukhobors really are."

He told 200 persons he considered Len Norris "a capable artist, but the cartoon was defamatory."

The cartoon showed a Doukhobor woman saying, "Here comes that Mrs. Stripoff to borrow another cup of gunpowder."

Mr. Verigin said there has been a misunderstanding on both sides in the past.

"But those who live up to the Doukhobor faith, the most idealistic in the world, should not be smeared because of the acts of a few radicals outside the faith."

In a plea for understanding he said: "When you read or hear of ill-doings blamed on Doukhobors, take into consideration what their faith means rather than the words of ill-minded people."

Defining what Doukhobors are, he referred to a joke of "the days when the Canadian Pacific Railways were still carrying passenger traffic through the Kootenays"

A porter on a train, asked who the Doukhobors are, replied, said Mr. Verigin, "They are those hardworking individual people who strip every time the government comes through."

Mr. Verigin spoke during an intermission of a concert by the Doukhobor Choir of Brilliant.

At the banquet the Provincial Bowling Trophy went begging when no official delegate was present from New Westminster to accept it. It was finally taken by Feth Edmunds, treasurer of the CNRE credit union.

Credit Union League officers for 1961-62 are R. F. Williams of Victoria, president; M. J. Roger of Victoria, 1st vice president; Stanley Stonier of Vancouver, 2nd vice-president; R. A. Monrufet of Vancouver, secretary.

Others elected were N. S. Bentley of Trail, A. G. Vrancackaert of New Westminster, G. C. Allen of Vancouver, Mrs. Myrtle Vickberg of Courtney.

Elected to the national directorate were A. R. Glen of Nanaimo, J. P. Lundie of Vancouver, Mr. Williams and Mr. Stonier.

Nelson Kids Head For Gyro Park Pool

Nelson youngsters will have their first chance to beat the heat in a supervised city swimming pool today — as summer becomes officially four days old.

Gyro Park swimming and wading pool opens today with supervised swimming from 12 noon to 7 p.m. A lifeguard will be on duty again Sunday on the same time schedule.

City of Nelson parks workers filled the pool Friday night so the water will be a bit cold. It will soon warm up — temperatures in Nelson have been hovering around the 85-degrees-above mark for days.

Water will be chlorinated in the near future and is expected to be changed about twice each week.

Nelson recreation director Ernie Gare said Friday the commission will maintain lifeguards, on a part-time basis, for the remainder of the summer swimming season.

KFP in Three Years--More Workers, Glued Products

A healthier more stable economy for Nelson through expansion of diversified wood products by Kootenay Forest Products Ltd. was forecast Thursday.

F. A. Varseveld, head of the KFP research division, told Nelson Chamber of Commerce that greater expansion in glued products, resulting in a greater utilization of residue wood material and more stable markets will occur in about three years time.

"We are looking forward to three years from now," said Mr. Varseveld to his Hume Hotel audience, "when we expect to be producing a number of laminated and other products which will upgrade about one-quarter of our lumber production and utilize possibly 80 per cent of the residues that are now costing us money to burn."

He said that it requires three times as many people to produce 1000 board feet of glued product (laminated) as are required to produce 1000 board feet of lumber.

"This means an increase in our labor force," he said, recalling that in 1960 the KFP payroll was $1½ million, purchases of logs, poles and payments to contractors amounted to $500,000 and purchases of supplies and equipment amounted to $700,000.

Another effect on the district will be that KFP will be in the position to assist small sawmills by purchasing certain low grade lumber items that they have difficulty in selling today.

"I think there will be a further effect on the economy inasmuch as new products will be sold on a much more stable market than we experience for lumber," he said.

PLANT DIVERSIFIED

Currently underway at KFP, major western producer of decorative panelling and roof decorating, are several items reflecting the diversification of the plant:

Panelling cut to a given length and complete wrapped in a paper carton;

A simple clip device which makes face nailing of panelling obsolete;

Process of determining the strength of every board coming out of the planer;

Laminating structural panels from lumber to do a job that plywood and other sheet materials cannot do;

Laminating roof decking with clear wood skins, (high-value wood is for appearance, the lower-value wood supplies necessary strength.)

"Our research program during the past three years has led us to installing the first fast laminating process in Canada," he said. "We are starting out on a rather small scale but we plan to expand our facilities as rapidly as the markets will allow."

THREE KEY WORDS

Claiming that the three key words in the lumber industry today are utilization, integration, and diversification, Mr. Varseveld said in today's methods that only about 46 per cent of logs destined for sawmills provides lumber for market.

The industry's present problem is to utilize the remaining 67 per cent. If KFP could deliver pulp chips to Celgar, approximately one-half of the 54 per cent of residue from the tree could be utilized.

"Unforunately we have not been able to negotiate a pulp chip contract that will justify our investment of approximately $400,000 in barking and chipping facilities," said Mr. Varseveld. "We certainly hope that this will materialize soon."

In closing, Mr. Varseveld admitted his address was optomistic but it was also a confident one.

"Our objective is to integrate our manufacturing facility and utilize as much residue material as possible and at the same time diversify our line of products and manufacturing facilities," he said.

"This will give us some insurance for future years and certainly will provide economic benefits for the Nelson area."

Youth's Death By Misadventure

Death of James Terry Solecki, 18, of Slocan, was ruled "due to misadventure" by a coroner's jury in New Denver Wednesday night.

The young high school student had been celebrating his graduation when the truck which he occupied left the highway a quarter of a mile south of Slocan City, and overturned, about 5 a.m., June 10.

Evidence at the inquest revealed that the vehicle had not been travelling at an excessive speed.

The medical report stated that the youth died of multiple head fractures.

The survivor of the accident, a juvenile, recalled that the vehicle struck the shoulder of the road, and a large pole loomed up. Believing they were going to hit the pole, the driver said he swerved the vehicle to the left, crossing the road, plunging into the ditch and flipped over into the field.

Prepares for Public Hearings . . .

Dam Construction's Human Problems To Be Studied

VICTORIA — B.C. Hydro is gearing up for re-development of the Arrow Lakes area in the event that its water licence applications for dams on the Columbia River are approved and the international treaty is ratified.

Dr. H. L. Keenleyside, chairman of the publicly-owned utility, said recently that a B.C. Hydro work group has been formed to look into social, human, economic and technical problems which will be created by the proposed reservoirs.

The B.C. cabinet recently granted permission for B.C. Hydro to apply to Water Comptroller A. F. Paget for water licenses on the Arrow Lake, Duncan Lake, and at Mica Creek. The water license applications were posted and filed on June 15, at the Arrow Lakes, and at Duncan Lake and on June 16 at Mica Creek.

The re - development committee, said Dr. Keenlyside, will interview organizations and persons in the affected areas as one of the first steps in assembling data. "Written submissions will be welcome," said the utility chairman. "The Government has stated that it is its intention to insure that any adjustments required by the Columbia River developments shall be made in a completely fair and equitable manner. The Commission will act in full accordance with this principle."

The committee's terms of reference include: Establishment of necessary contacts with affected communities, organizations and persons to work out problems on an individual and personal basis; Discussion with departments of government and their respective interests in the areas (transportation, education, health, agriculture, forestry, labour, etc.); Discussion of reservoir operations with forest industry companies located in the area o fthe reservoirs.

Chairman of the committee is B.C. Hydro solicitor H. D. C. Hunter, graduate in law from Cambridge University.

Other members of the committee are Mrs. P. Ross Kidd, executive assistant to the Power Commissioners; A. W. McDowall, right-of-way agent; J. W. Milligan, executive assistant to engineering and operations; and F. W. Earle, committee secretary.

The inclusion of Mrs. Kidd is designed to give the committee the benefit of a woman's point of view. "This should prove valuable in negotiations which will involve personal problems of many individual families," said Dr. Keenleyside.

The Columbia re-development committee will prepare the material that may be required for public hearings called by the Water Somptroller. It will also provide information required to support an application to the federal authorities under the Navigable Waters Protection Act.

The committee will work under the general guidance of Co-ordinator of Columbia River Development Garth Griffiths, and will report periodically to the Commission.

Change At Trail RCMP Detachment

TRAIL — A new RCMP NCO has arrived at the Trail police detachment to replace Cpl. Robert Gilday, transferred to the East Kootenay.

He is Corporal George Hacking and he comes to Trail after serving several years at Greenwood.

Cpl. Gilday has been assigned to an RCMP post at Radium. He is currently on leave.

Discuss Getting Water From Ryan Lake

INVERMERE — Eradication of dust on Invermere village roads is one of the major problems facing village commissioners this summer. Commissioner James Chabot is investigating possibility of obtaining oil for laying on main street areas.

Commissioner Roy Lake has been authorized to purchase a quantity of weedkiller to be used on large weeds lining village roads.

Village Clerk Murray Henderson reported to the commissioners on his visit to the Comptroller of Water Rights in Victoria concerning the proposed acquisition of water from the Paddy Ryan Lake source through agreement with the West Side Improvement District.

Mr. Henderson said the West Side Improvement District owns all the water rights to sources which feed the Paddy Ryans Lakes, therefore the Village must reach agreement with the West Side if it wishes water from this source. The important point to the Water Rights branch, which governs all their actions in dealing with the West Side, is that the West Side raised monies for improvements to its water distribution system through debentures, which are guaranteed by the province of B. C.

Mr. Henderson said if the Village could prove that it is acutely dependent on water from the West Side water rights source, and could not reach an agreement with the West Side for supply, it might be able to reach a favorable decision through arbitration, but there are many factors involved.

Grand Forks Society Is Incorporated

GRAND FORKS — The Grand Forks District Projects Society has been incorporated as a society under the Societies Act, it is announced in the British Columbia Gazette of June 1.

Object of the Society is to promote the financing, planning, construction, purchase, leasing and operation of projects and facilities for general benefit of the community.

Seek Extension of Castlegar Boundaries

CASTLEGAR — A canvass of residents of the unorganized area between Castlegar and Kinnaird will be made soon to record their views on proposed incorporation with the village of Castlegar. This is in keeping with a motion adopted this week by Castlegar Commission to extend Castlegar boundaries to Kinnaird village limits and from the river to the CPR tracks.

A provision of this motion states that the proposed extension would result in no additional costs to Castlegar ratepayers. Chairman Nick Oglow pointed out that no changes would be involved in assessment, hospital or school levies should the incorporation take place. Those living in the unorganized area would experience an increase in the general purpose levy, however, which would be raised from 10 to 15 mills and would involve approximately, $15.

This additional output would be realized, however, in benefits of garbage collection, fire protection and other facilities provided by the village of Castlegar. The saving on fire insurance rates on their homes would more than pay for the increased municipal levy, commented Mr. Oglow.

The motion was made as a result of a request from two residents living in the unorganized area.

$100,000 To Be Spent on Valley Transmission System

INVERMERE—Dr. H. L. Keenleyside, chairman of the B.C. Power Commission, told an open meeting at Invermere Thursday that the immediately preceding meeting of the commission had voted $100,000 be spent on improvements to the transmission system of the Columbia Valley power district, involving substations at Golden and Athalmer.

Accompanying Dr. Keenleyside were commissioners F. A. Lee and F. A. Smith and Garth Griffiths, manager of the administration department; I. R. A. Mills, controller; A. J. G. Leighton, director of engineering; Mrs. P. R. Kidd, executive assistant to the commissioners, and Mrs. P. R. Brown, secretary to the commission; J. N. Olsen, director of consumer services, and R. McMordie, director of engineering operations.

The Athalmer Improvement district handed a brief to Dr. Keenleyside asking dredging of the Columbia River to prevent flooding of the Columbia. Dr. Keenleyside promised to see it reached the officials concerned, but stated his commission had no authority.

The officials toured the B.C. Hydro plant at Spillimacheen and inspected Columbia Valley installations from Golden to Kimberley.

REA HUNT DIES

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—Rea M. Hunt, 68, an original Keystone Kop in silent movies, died of a heart attack Wednesday at his home in suburban Pacoima. During a 40-year movie-industry career, Hunt was a producer, director and cameraman as well as actor in Mack Sennett's early comedies. He retired last October after serving 20 years as property master for Columbia Pictures.

Against Any U.S. - Canada Barter Deal

KELLOGG, Idaho (AP) — A proposed "lead for wheat" barter deal between the United States and Canada was assaulted Thursday by the head of the second largest domestic lead producer.

Charles Schwab, president of the Bunker Hill Co., said: "The barter program seems discriminatory against our domestic industry. Barter is no substitute for adequate import controls."

The U.S. department of agriculture now is negotiating with Canada to trade U.S. commodities for lead from the stockpiles of Consolidated Mining and Smelting Co. of Trail, B.C. A similar deal is under way with an Australian lead producer.

He said it is difficult for domestic producers to understand why the U.S. government is lending a hand to Canadian and Australian producers but "continues to completely ignore action that will assist the U.S. mining industry."

He said the world lead markets collapsed after previous barter deals in 1954-1955 and 1956.

LIFT TRAVEL BAN

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Hungarian government has lifted the restriction on travel of American diplomats in Budapest, imposed July, 1959. The United States in return is expected to lift a similar restriction soon.

Warfield Uses Flame Throwers for Pests

WARFIELD — Caterpillars in the village and Celgar pulp fibres in the water supply held the attention of the Warfield Village Council Monday night.

Commissioner George Cary, in making his report on parks and property, reported he had received many complaints about the caterpillar plague. He stated that Len Hiebert, of the West Kootenay Health Unit had also received complaints.

Commissioner Cady stated that a program of flame-throwing had been carried out in most infected areas of Annable and had aided some in destroying the caterpillars.

All felt use of the blow-torch on any accumulate bunch was the most effective way at this late date.

VALVES CLOGGED

Commissioner Charlie Fenton stated when making his works and services committee report that a daily clean-up of the screens of the valves was required to keep them functioning properly. Particles of wood fibre and algae were collecting so rapidly, he said, such cleaning was necessary.

Comm. Cady stated that samples taken from these screens and from East Trail as well, have contained wood fibre which came from Celgar. These samples, he said, had been sent down to Victoria with the Kootenay Committee River Pollution Committee.

Work on the six - inch water main to serve Eliot Street and Scott Avenue should be under way this week. Comm. Fenton said. When this main is in use it should improve the water supply for Eliot Street residents.

Council had to decline with regret the invitation of Castlegar Council to meet them in a curling playdown, scheduled for July 8 at the Nelson Civic Centre immediately after the Nelson Midsummer Bonspiel.

TUG SALVAGED

NEW WESTMINSTER (CP)— Salvage crews have re-floated a $35,000 tug boat which sank in the Fraser River after colliding with a freighter docked here. The Fury's two-man crew were working on a log boom when a tow line snapped and the vessel capsized after striking the freighter King Edward.

View Progress on Salmo-Creston Cutoff . . .

Trail, Salmo Chambers See Trek Along Completed Section

TRAIL — Although their contract for 15 miles between the Salmo-Nelway highway and the Salmo-Creston cutoff summit is on schedule, the road definitely will not be open this year, said officials of the Anderson Construction Comuany Wednesday.

This opinion is reported following a trek by executives of the Trail and Salmo Chambers of Commerce who made a "safari" Wednesday to view the completed portion of the cutoff.

The trekkers found that contractors had run into extremely hard type of silica rock which forced the drilling and blasting crews to operate on an around-the-clock basis to keep up with demands for rock and dirt to keep the fill crews busy. The investigators found the eight and one-half miles of road on the Salmo side to be of an even, gradual grade, rising smoothly through rugged terrain.

The construction crew makes rock cuts in a series of "lifts" then dumps the broken rock into valleys between the rock cuts, explained the construction men. Heavy duty power shovels handling two and one-half yards of rock at a time are used.

General superintendent for the present job is Tommy Collopy.

The trekkers were shown a large creek valley, which has to be filled with half a million cubic yards of rock to bring the road bed up to level of rock cuts on either side of it. The creek in the valley will be changed from its normal course to shorten necessary length of the culvert.

Anderson Company officials said that all contracts for the 40-mile highway have been let. View Construction is starting work now on the 11-mile stretch to join the 15-mile Anderson section, which stops at the summit. Mannix Construction has the contract for approximately 14 miles from Nick's Island ferry on the Creston end.

It was pointed out that Highways Minister P. A. Gaglardi has announced that tenders for the bridge across the Kootenay will be called this fall.

Member Claims CBC-BBG Have Power to Break News Monopoly

OTTAWA (CP) — B. G. Allmark (PC — Kingston) said Thursday night it is the responsibility of the CBC and the Board of Broadcast Governors to take any necessary steps to "break up" news monopolies in Canada.

Mr. Allmark apparently was referring in his Commons remarks to Senator Rupert Davies, president of the Kingston Whig-Standard Company Limited, although he did not identify the Ontario Liberal senator by name.

Mr. Allmark prefaced his remarks, during budget debate, this way:

"While I have admiration for the qualities of the man whose empire I propose to bring to the attention of this Parliament, I think it proper that I should level criticism because of the great concern expressed to me by members of my constituency.

"I refer to the control of the news media over a wide area of eastern Ontario which is held by one man. Not only does he control the news media in my riding, but also in adjoining ridings."

Mr. Allmark said there is one daily newspaper in Kingston and one in Peterborough and "this man owns both." He also controls two TV stations, Mr. Allmark said, and two of four area radio stations.

"Licences for both the TV and the radio stations were granted to this Liberal senator by the previous Liberal government."

BBG 'AUTOCRATIC'

He said "this man, whose newspapers pose as being politically independent," had told the Commonwealth Press Union last year that the BBG had proven to be "autocratic" in instructing radio stations on various matters.

Said Mr. Allmark:

"Here is a man who has gained control of the news media over a large area who is obviously concerned only that this government should not disturb his empire.

"I believe it is utterly impossible to have freedom of the press or to have an informed public, when almost 100 per cent of the control of the news media over a large area is held by one man.

"It is in my opinion impossible for any person to have such a monopoly of the news, such a power to influence people's minds, without using it for his own personal advantage.

"Frankly, I see little difference between the government-controlled press such as exists in some countries and a news monopoly held by one person such as we have in this instance.

Glenmerry Driveways to Meet Roll-Type Curb-and-Gutters

TRAIL — A type of curb-and-gutter installation entirely new to Trail, is to be installed in the Glenmerry FPLA shortly.

It is known as a "roll - type" curb - and - gutter and it eliminates entirely the 90-degree angle feature of road-edge finish familiar to Trail citizens.

A sample of the new installation has been poured in the city warehouse grounds under the supervision of roads superintendent Norman Hinton.

Recently, Mr. Hinton was sent by the council to Penticton to observe methods of constructing roll-type curbs.

Mr. Hinton said the new curb-and-gutter arrangements was essential for the FPLA — or in any subdivision where municipal services were being installed fully before home building began.

This came about, he said, because orthodox curbs and gutters have to be cut to accommodate drive-ways into homes—and nobody now knows where the Glenmerry FPLA drive - ways are to be located.

The roll-type curb-and-gutter, on the other hand, does not have to be cut.

EASY WAY

Home owners merely complete their drive-ways to the edge of the curb at any convenient place, and then are able to roll their vehicles off the pavement and on to their own property.

About two miles of curbs and gutters are to be constructed this summer and fall in the FPLA.

The installation is 24 inches wide and has a six-inch rise from gutter floor to curb top. It is poured in sections ten feet long.

Mr. Hinton said curb-and-gutter forms already owned by the city are adequate for constructing the roll-type installation.

Slightly different position plates for use with existing forms have been acquired.

Mr. Hinton said that despite their strange appearance, the new roll-type curbs and gutters would handle storm water efficiently.

He said standard catch-basins would be inset into the floor of the gutter at appropriate intervals.

Part of the catch-basin cover would, he said, extend slightly onto the pavement.

At Kinnaird . . .

Building Permits to $38,760 Value Issued

KINNAIRD — Additions to Kinnaird elementary school, construction of three new homes and minor improvements to others will boost Kinnaird construction permit values by $38,760 this month.

The permits were authorized by the village commission this week, which also agreed to obtain copies of charts giving poison antidotes from the Trail and District Safety Council following a talk by A. B. Condy, Council representative. The copies will be distributed in Kinnaird.

Following a meeting with Celgar, the company agreed to raise level of three hydrants in Woodland Park. The company will also arrange for steamports on all the park hydrants to be changed from four inch to 4½-inch so they may be connected to village fire department equipment.

Castlegar Children Benefit From $1000 Memorial Gift

CASTLEGAR — A gift of $1000 for purchase of playground equipment as a memorial to his wife, Ivy, was presented by A. Couch to the village commission at this week's meeting.

Mr. Couch suggested the money be invested in a double swing, double babies' swing, merry-go-round, four teeter-totters, slide, climber and two park benches for the kiddies' park. He asked too, that council consider placing a suitable memorial plaque in the park, to which council readily agreed.

Other business included a request from R. A. D. West, chairman of the airport committee, for a $200 grant from council towards airport upkeep and use of the village grader to improve the airport parking area. The grant was sanctioned by council who felt the airport fills a definite communications need for the area.

A grant of $50 was made also to the Chamber of Commerce to help meet the cost of operating the tourist booth for two months from July 1. The Chamber is preparing a brochure giving information on accommodation and facilities in the village.

A $20 grant was made to the hospital auxiliary for its thrift shop and ten dollar membership dues were paid to the Silver Birch Handicapped School.

Amendments to the water by-law were deferred until next year, but council emphasized that unnecessary wastage of water will not be tolerated, with warnings to be issued to people abusing sprinkling privileges.

Not in Canada's Best Interests

What is the common factor in all the disputes which at present centre around public officials in high places? It cannot be lack of ability for all of them have ability above average.

Mr. Coyne, whatever may be said of him, has proposals for the economic recovery of the country which certainly merit more than casual consideration and as head of the Bank of Canada his words should be listened to with respect. Mr. Gordon, president of the CNR, a man of immense knowledge of railway matters, is at loggerheads with the Commons Railway Committee, and Premier Bennett of British Columbia is not exactly on good terms with the minister of finance in the Dominion parliament.

Money may be at the root of the trouble. Mr. Coyne and Mr. Fleming have different views on what the fiscal policy of this country should be, the CNR is struggling with deficits and Mr. Bennett does not agree with the federal government's financial proposals for the Columbia development.

Mr. Coyne complains that the minister of finance, Mr. Fleming, has not found time to discuss his February 16 proposals and for four years has refused to allow the Commons Banking Committee to examine his views, which seems to suggest that there is a lack of sympathy between the two, while Mr. Fleming's own speeches indicate that Premier Bennett is also not in favor with him. Mr. Coyne can be fired by act of Parliament but Premier Bennett is still very much in command of the situation, and cannot be ousted.

So far there has been no suggestion that Donald Gordon should be fired but the Commons committee is making things uncomfortable for him. He may be right when he says that some MPs are maliciously inclined toward him. The minister of finance does not figure in this dispute and it would be unfair to suggest that he is in any way connected with it, but it is evident that those with important government jobs are the target of criticism which comes all too readily to the surface.

Mr. Fleming may consider that the Governor of the Bank of Canada is more of an authority on finance than he is and so may not be able to work cordially with him. The Commons railway committee may well feel that Mr. Gordon is too big and should be brought down. Canada does not take kindly to greatness and the art of diplomacy seems to have been lost.

Mr. Fleming, had he been sufficiently wise, could have managed Mr. Coyne, he could have managed Mr. Bennett, too, or at least refrained from open hostility to him. Quite likely his attitude influenced the Commons committee. In all these disputes, however, it is difficult to see how the best interests of Canada are served.

It's Just Tribal Vengeance

Justice Minister Fulton says his new capital punishment bill is Canada's most "progressive" step in this field since public hanging was abolished in 1868.

But whoever said the abolition of public hanging was progressive?

The only reason hanging was ever adopted as a punishment was so that the corpse, like the goose, might hang high and be seen far and wide as a warning.

If there were any validity in that theory, shifting the scene of executions to penitentiary "death chambers" wasn't progressive. It was just wasteful, like holding an exhibition of pictures in a coal mine after hours.

But in fact, as even the most bloodthirsty judges eventually conceded, the spectacle of felons swinging on gibbets did not frighten the criminally inclined.

This being so, how can hanging in private have any deterrent value? It hasn't. The evidence from all times and places is conclusive that capital punishment has no effect on the murder rate one way or the other.

The death penalty is just an old-fashioned form of tribal vengeance and the only progressive thing anybody can do about it is abolish it.

Water From the Sun

Switzerland has found a way to make the sun water the desert. In pleasing contrast to the complicated engines of destruction man is making for himself, this invention is pure simplicity.

A large panel, containing winding tubes which are filled with a liquid with a low boiling point, is mounted on a tripod. It is turned by hand to face the sun. The sun boils the liquid. The steam drives an engine. The engine drives a pump. The pump draws the water that often lies deep beneath desert sand and the desert blossoms as the rose.

We tend to drag out our inventions that "triumph over nature." Here is one that works hand in hand with nature with surprising results. If this invention works in the regions where it is needed we would prefer to make a headline out of it than out of the next rocket that goes off into the unknown.—Ottawa Journal.

War, Gentlemen?

Protect us from any proliferation of pamphlet poopers.

Plans call for launching of mass attacks on suburban stoops, porches and driveways. Teams armed with popping pressure guns are to go out and shoot pamphlets, circulars and credit application forms in barrages from the windows of slow-moving cars.

With our neighbors, we will have to learn to dodge, duck and deflect. Misfires will litter lawns, sidewalks and boulevards. There will be no escape.

Police say the poopers are legal. What then, to do?

Oh, there are ways and means. Turn the other way when Junior happens to have his pea-shooter handy. Perhaps the odd tack or two on the roadway would help. Spitballs slingshot-fired from the shrubbery would also be effective.

War, gentlemen?

Women in Hotels

Women may be the housekeepers of the world, but they leave their talents at home when they go travelling. This is the verdict of Phil G. Grise, of the Hotel Sherman in Chicago, after twenty-six years as a hotel manager.

"An all-female convention," he says, "will leave a staggering debris of rooms dusted with powder, lipstick-stained towels, even when tissues are provided, and bathrooms and bedrooms are in complete disarray.

"With a few notable exceptions, the 'homes away from home' of the men will be as neat as a pin."

Interpreting The News

By CARMAN CUMMING
Canadian Press Staff Writer

The Soviet Union, which exported such words as nyet, vodka and sputnik, has brought forth another candidate for international usage—troika.

As with some of the earlier exports, the new word bodes little good for the Western world.

It's a deceptively fair-sounding principle, as outlined by Premier Khrushchev.

A troika, he explains, is a three-horse hitch used in Russia to pull sleds. He visualizes a similar three-way split of power and responsibility—between the East, West and neutralists—in the leadership of international groups.

BASIC FAULTS

But his analogy collapses on two fundamental points. First, who's to drive the three-horse team? Second, what happens if one horse lies down in the traces?

It would be less than common sense to think Khrushchev himself has not weighed these angles carefully.

It also is no longer possible to brush the troika idea aside as just another Soviet manoeuvre that will fade as quickly as it arose.

Khrushchev has advanced it tenaciously as a basic Soviet policy with regard to the United Nations secretariat, the proposed nuclear control commission and the commission that would supervise Laotian neutrality.

The plan apparently is an outgrowth of Soviet frustration over the successful UN operation in The Congo. Secretary-General Dag Hammarskjold wielded significant power in guiding that operation, and the results have not been to Khrushchev's liking.

It convinced him, he says, that "while there are neutral states, there are not and cannot be neutral men."

MUST BE UNANIMOUS

The catch in the troika idea, as the West sees it, is that each member of the proposed triumvirates would exercise veto power. If the system had been in effect when The Congo troubles broke, the Communist member of the UN secretariat could simply have lain down in the traces and stalled the entire operation.

Khrushchev is well aware that under a troika setup the West would have an equal right to decide when to stop pulling.

And, considering his own governmental setup, he must have no illusions about the probable effectiveness of a committee of three opposing men, each with the power to kill any project under discussion.

The inescapable conclusion is that Khrushchev feels the confusion and bickering that would come with a troika system would work to the advantage of his side. Possibly he visualizes himself at the reins of the three-horse teams.

The reaction of the West to all this has been a firm "nyet." Under the circumstances, there seems to be no other acceptable response.

Jim was popular and his grocery store should o' been a success; but too many relatives and in-laws and old friends started havin' things charged.

Unexpected Vaniers Call On Unprepared Yellowknife

By BRUCE LEVETT
Canadian Press Staff Writer

YELLOWKNIFE, N.W.T. (CP)—This gold - mining town had only half an hour to prepare a welcome for Governor-General and Madame Vanier Thursday, but the result was the wildest demonstration so far during the 6,000-mile vice-regal tour that began June 12.

The aircraft carrying the vice-regal party was already in the air when Yellowknife Mayor Ted Horton was informed the party would land at Yellowknife three days ahead of schedule.

The town was caught flat-footed. When the first plane landed 15 minutes ahead of the vice-regal plane the reporters aboard found the airport almost deserted.

Reason for the sudden change in arrival time at Yellowknife was steady rains which washed out airstrips ahead of the Vaniers' giant C-5 aircraft.

DELAYED BY RAINS

The confusion began in Fort Simpson, previous stop on the tour. The party had already been delayed 24 hours there by the rains and when reports of more rain came in from Norman Wells and Fort Norman—next stop along the route—it was decided whether to fly ahead to Inuvik or go to Yellowknife.

The Vaniers had been scheduled to arrive in Yellowknife Sunday on their way back from Inuvik.

The entire 30-man party finally transferred without baggage into two twin-engine DC-3s which had been backstopping the C-5 and took off for Yellowknife, one hour and 50 minutes flying time away.

After the aircraft were on their way here, radio operators on the ground were unsuccessful in trying to contract Yellowknife to warn them the Governor-General would be three days early.

Finally, at 12:30 p.m. MST, word was passed to the aircraft which radioed ahead. The radio operator in Yellowknife relayed the information to Mayor Horton.

DIDN'T BELIEVE IT

The mayor said later he didn't believe the message that the vice-regal party was dropping in unexpectedly—"but the radio operator put the telephone close to the loudspeaker and when I heard the pilot's voice I knew this was it. I don't remember what he said, but one message ended 'Keep a stiff upper lip.' "

The mayor has a new headline now for the weekly News of the North, of which he is editor and publisher, but he said "I'll have to take another look at those advertisements saying the Governor-General's arriving Sunday."

People began arriving at the airport within minutes after word of the impending arrival was received.

Four RCMP officers—one of them had been paiting a boat minutes before—arrived, checking each other for buttons undone. Their red coats had been in the cleaners moments before.

Murray Pickard, manager of Giant Yellowknife Mines, where the Vaniers will stay in the guest house, just made it to the airport in time to join the hurriedly - assembled welcoming party in a red plaid sport shirt.

ARRIVE HUNGRY

The Vaniers arrived hungry—an electrical malfunction put out the galley aboard their aircraft—and were driven to a dinner downtown.

The first words on arrival were from Madame Vanier: "Aren't we a nuisance," she called from the aircraft steps.

"Here we are a little early, but we knew nothing would faze you," the Governor - General said to Mayor Horton.

Crowds of cheering children lined the streets with flags and the din was so loud that people rushed from stores as the Governor - General's procession of cars turned into town.

The vice - regal couple left their cars and walked down the main street waving to the crowds in a response they have employed nowhere else on the trip.

After the procession, during which the youngsters broke lines and surged around the Vaniers in the street, Madame Vanier said:

"Have you ever seen or heard anything so fantastic? We have completely lost our hearts to this north country."

Tentative schedules call for the Vaniers to stay here two days before going on to Inuvik and having another try at Fort Norman and Norman Wells on the way home.

Lead for Wheat Deal Termed Discriminatory

KELLOGG, Idaho (AP) — A proposed "lead for wheat" barter deal between the United States and Canada was assaulted Thursday by the head of the second largest domestic lead producer.

Charles Schwab, president of the Bunker Hill Co., said: "The barter program seems discriminatory against our domestic industry. Barter is no substitute for adequate import controls."

The U.S. Department of Agriculture now is negotiating with Canada to trade U.S. commodities for lead from the stockpiles of Consolidated Mining and Smelting Co., of Trail, B. C. A Similar deal is underway with an Australian lead producer.

He said it is difficult for domestic producers to understand why the U. S. government is lending a hand to Canadian and Australian producers but "continues to completely ignore action that will assist the U. S. mining industry."

He said the world lead markets collapsed after previous barter deals in 1954, 1955 and 1956.

Mum On U.S. Action

MONTREAL (CP)—The Royal Bank of Canada Friday declined to comment on court action in New York by the United States government which is suing the bank for $352,000.

"Since the matter is in litigation we have no comment," said R. W. Shannon, associate general manager of the Royal Bank.

The U.S. government claims the money on the ground the bank was negligent in failing to cancel a transfer of the amount to a Cuban bank after Cuba had nationalized the Cuban assets of nickel processing corporation of New York last Oct. 24.

Canadian Dollar Somewhat of An Oddity Among Currencies

By FORBES RHUDE
Canadian Press Business Editor

The Canadian dollar, free-swinging for a decade, has been somewhat of an oddity among currencies.

Other countries give their currencies a stated value in terms of gold and try to hold them to that value. Canada, on the other hand, has not given its currency a stated value for about 10 years, but has allowed its international value to move up and down according to the laws of supply and demand in the world market place.

Now, apparently, we are heading back towards a fixed value, but what it will be remains for the future to say.

Finance Minister Fleming, in his budget speech, said the value "must ultimately depend upon our pursuit of appropriate economic policies," but announced a policy of controlling the value so that it will be lower than it has been.

A. T. Lambert, president of the Toronto-Dominion Bank, in an address June 5 to the annual meeting in Vancouver of the Canadian Manufacturers' Association, suggested a course of action which appears to be much in line with what Mr. Fleming proposes. He felt a return to a fixed rate would create some problems of its own, but it might prove to be the best solution.

MUST MOVE SLOWLY

He added: "Even if it is decided that a fixed rate is desirable it might be unwise to move too rapidly toward it. Public understanding and confidence must keep pace with whatever is done. Probably the first step should be to make an effort over an extended period of time to reduce the range of its fluctuations.

"At the very least, we should publicly commit ourselves to a policy of actively opposing undue appreciation of the Canadian dollar and should modify our present strictly short - run policy of smoothing day-to-day fluctuations."

Background of the fluctuating Canadian dollar goes back to the earlier post-war years.

During the war years and up to July, 1946, we fixed our dollar at a value which was about equivalent to 91 cents in U.S. currency. Then we fixed it at par with the American dollar until Sept. 1949, when we put it back to about 91 cents.

However, with our developing post-war boom and inflow of foreign investment this valuation became unrealistic in the eyes of the international monetary world. Speculators started betting that we would have to go back to par and expected to make a fast profit by buying Canadian dollars at below - par prices.

Faced with these and a variety of other circumstances, Canada decided to set its dollar free and let the market place set the value. This was done Oct. 2, 1950.

Eichmann Claims He Saved Jews By Diverting Them to Ghetto

By THOMAS A. REEDY

JERUSALEM (AP) — Adolf Eichmann claimed Friday that he saved 20,000 Jews from extermination by diverting them to an already overcrowded ghetto in Lodz, Poland.

The former Gestapo officer charged by Israel with major responsibility for the nazi extermination of 6,000,000 Jews also claimed that the diversion of the 20,000 to Lodz was the first and only time he had the chance to make such a decision.

Otherwise, he asserted, his superiors were responsible for extermination orders and he only arranged for the transport of the Jews to the death camps.

"I had the choice personally to determine the fate of these 20,000 Jews," he told the three-judge Israeli court, "and I did not want them to be sent to the east where I knew extermination was going on but sent them to Lodz where I knew that no such thing was going on."

Eichmann's counsel, Robert Servatius, had cited a document previously introduced by the prosecution in which German representatives in Occupied Poland complained that Eichmann was responsible for sending transports of Jews to the crowded Lodz ghetto.

BLAMES SUPERIORS

Again and again Eichmann insisted that his superiors were to blame for the mass slaughter of the Jews and that he was only an underling who carried out policies, not one who made them.

The former Gestapo lieutenant-colonel, in his fourth day on the witness stand, testified:

1. SS Gen. Geinrich Mueller, his immediate superior, had "the direct contact" with the Einsatz Commandos, the blitz battalions that murdered 2,000,000 Jews, partisans and gypsies in the east.

2. Interior Minister Wilhelm Frick and SS Reichsfuehrer Heinrich Himmler teamed to create the framework that led to the deliberate extermination of the Jws eon an ordr from Adolf Hitler.

There was a constant battle for power in the higher echelons of Hitler's lieutenants. Himmler and the interior ministry jockey all the time in an atmosphere of "irrationality and friction."

Servatius established through documents that the order for all Jews to wear the star of David originated with Propaganda Minister Paul Joseph Goebbels.

All it meant to him as a policeman, Eichmann said, was that "external marking naturally facilitated police work, roundups, considerably."

BIG YIELD

The tomato crop in the United States reached a value of $250,000,000 in 1960, nearly double the yield of lettuce.

Archer-Reimer Vows Exchanged at Invermere

INVERMERE — Apple blossoms on the altar of St. Andrew's Anglican Church at Wilmer provided a lovely setting for the recent wedding which united in marriage Elizabeth Reimer, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. A. A. Reimer of Wilmer, and Walter Albert Archer, son of Mrs. M. Archer of Windermere and the late Mr. Archer. Rev. O. R. Endicott of Golden officiated.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a gown of lace over taffeta in ballerina length, featuring a portrait collar trimmed with sequins matching those on the full skirt, which was gathered to a fitted bodice, with fingertip sleeves. A tiny tiara of seed pearls and sequins held a double petal veil. The briadl bouquet was of pink roses.

For her daughter's wedding Mrs. Reimer had chosen a pink dress with a white feather hat and a pink corsage. The mother of the groom wore a mauve suit with a white hat and accessories and a white corsage.

The bridesmaid, Miss Theresa Dreier of Athalmer, was in aqua tulle over nylon with a white flower hat and white accessories and she carried a bouquet of pink and white roses.

Russian Women Aim For Female Elegance

LONDON (AP)—Soviet Culture Minister Ekaterina Furtseva revealed a new Russian objective — female elegance—during a short visit here.

Fifty-one-year-old Mrs. Furtseva said in an interview:

"Our ambition is to become even more elegant than the women of the West. Not in a silly way, however, but with sound stylish values."

In contrast with her last visit to London five years ago, madame minister appeared to be setting the pace.

She arrived from a visit to Iceland in a very feminine light turquoise linen suit under a beige gabardine coat.

A black bandeau held back her fluffy blonde hair.

Her stockings were sheer, but alas, there was a run down her shapely right leg.

And she has lost nearly 15 pounds.

NEVER DIETS

"Isn't it marvelous?" she asked the reporter. "Diet? Heavens, no. I never diet. I eat everything."

"Tennis," she explained. "Tennis is the secret of a good figure.

"Some time ago I felt very poorly. I felt tired, not myself. Then I realized it was from too much sitting around and no exercise.

"So," she continued, her sea-green eyes lighting up, "I turned to tennis and now I love it. I play as often as I can with anyone who will play. I won't say I'm brilliant, but I've become pretty good at it.

"I only wish I could stay here to watch the games at Wimbledon. That would be wonderful. But I've got to get back to Moscow. We're terribly busy, you know."

Mrs. Furtseva, the only woman member of the Soviet Praesidium, wore a plain black gown with a touch of mascara as her only makeup when she was a guest for an evening of Lord Harewood, first cousin of the Queen.

Newly confirmed members of the congregation made their first Communion at the morning service at St. Saviour's Pro-Cathedral.

In recognition of 30 years' service teaching Sunday School, Mrs. H. M. Greenwood, now retired from this work, received a presentation from Rev. Canon G. W. Lang.

It was the occasion also for presentation of awards to the Junior Auxiliary and the Sunday School.

Sunday School awards follow: perfect attendance, Mark Apostoliuk, beginners; Alan Kilpatrick, primary; Karen Whitfield and Joy Johnson, juniors.

For best homework book and examination paper: book, Alan Kilpatrick, Naomi Lang, Bobby Bobroske, primary; Karen Whitfield, Joy Johnson, John Whitfield, Dena Calbick, juniors; Cindy Whitfield, beginner.

For best examination paper: John Phelps, primary; Karen Whitfield, Sandra Tedesco, John Whitfield, Dena Calbick, juniors.

The Anglican Young People's Association junior class was awarded the presentation for best average attendance for a class of senior boys and girls.

School superintendent is Mrs. Lang.

Feels Ministry Is Her Calling

MONTREAL (CP)—A Ministerial "calling" is more than just a pat phrase for Rev. Eleanor Carr.

The pretty 26-year-old brunette, native of Grand Bank, Nfld., admitted after her recent ordination as a United Church minister that the decision had been a struggle.

"On the one hand, I wanted to lead a comfortable life not subject to the strains and stresses of church work," she said.

"But I found I just couldn't escape, and friends told me this was what a call to the ministry was."

She said that when her final decision to become a minister was made, "my family found the whole idea incredible, but they didn't oppose it."

WORKED HARD

Miss Carr, who had graduated from high school in Ottawa, entered the faculty of divinity at McGill University in 1958. Summers were spent serving under the home missions board of the United Church in Montreal and in Ontario and Alberta.

She conducted children's classes and organized new congregations in suburban communities, and preached three services each Sunday in a rural area.

The young minister will serve under the missions board for another two years—part of the time in Ghana—before she is free to accept any pastoral charge that is offered.

She does not feel that being a woman is any drawback to her work.

"A woman minister wins the confidence of a congregation more readily than a man does, I think. And I don't feel that a man's reluctance to confide in a woman minister is any greater than a woman's hesitance in discussing personal problems with a man."

Warn Gas Companies Against U.S. Loans

BANFF, Alta. (CP)—A Toronto financial executive Friday issued a word of caution to Canadian natural gas exploration and production companies about borrowing in United States markets.

David Stanley of Wood, Gundy and Company Limited said there is a risk when borrowing from U.S. lenders because exchange rates vary.

"Except in case of a very wide discrepancy in U.S. and Canadian interest rates, U.S. dollar borrowing should generally be avoided if possible," he told the annual convention of the Canadian Gas Association.

Borrowing from U.S. lenders does not always entail borrowing in U.S. dollars, he said. Many of the major U.S. institutional investors make substantial Canadian dollar investments and it is to these U.S. lenders of Canadian funds that investment dealers marketing Canadian gas securities can often most usefully have recourse.

"Exchange risk, size of funds required, incidental costs and time consumed in completing the financing should not be forgotten when attention is focused on interest cost."

CITES BASIS

Successful equity financing is the basis of the growth of most Canadian independent gas exploration companies, he said.

"The continuing attractiveness of the Canadian economy as a field for investment depends on the maintenance of a good investment climate in this country."

Mr. Stanley said that wholly foreign-owned companies operating in Canada can make a major contribution to the good investment climate by admitting the Canadian public to part ownership.

Management was the most important criterion in judging the investment attractiveness of shares of a a gas exploration company.

"Possession of outstanding management will often make the shares of a gas exploration company attractive even though at first sight they may appear considerably over - priced relative to the available alternatives."

Kennedy Able To Meet Japan's PM

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Kennedy left his sick bed Friday and was host to Japanese Prime Minister Hayato Ikeda.

Alta.-U.S. Gas Line Inspiring

BANFF, Alta. (CP)—The 1,400-mile Alberta - to - California natural gas pipeline is an "inspiring and earthy examples" of traditional friendship between Canada and the United States, a California industrialist said today.

"If ever there were a thoroughly tangible example of what can be done through the co-operation of intelligent, far-sighted men of vision, this is it," Robert R. Gros of San Francisco said in an address to the annual convention of the Canadian Gas Association.

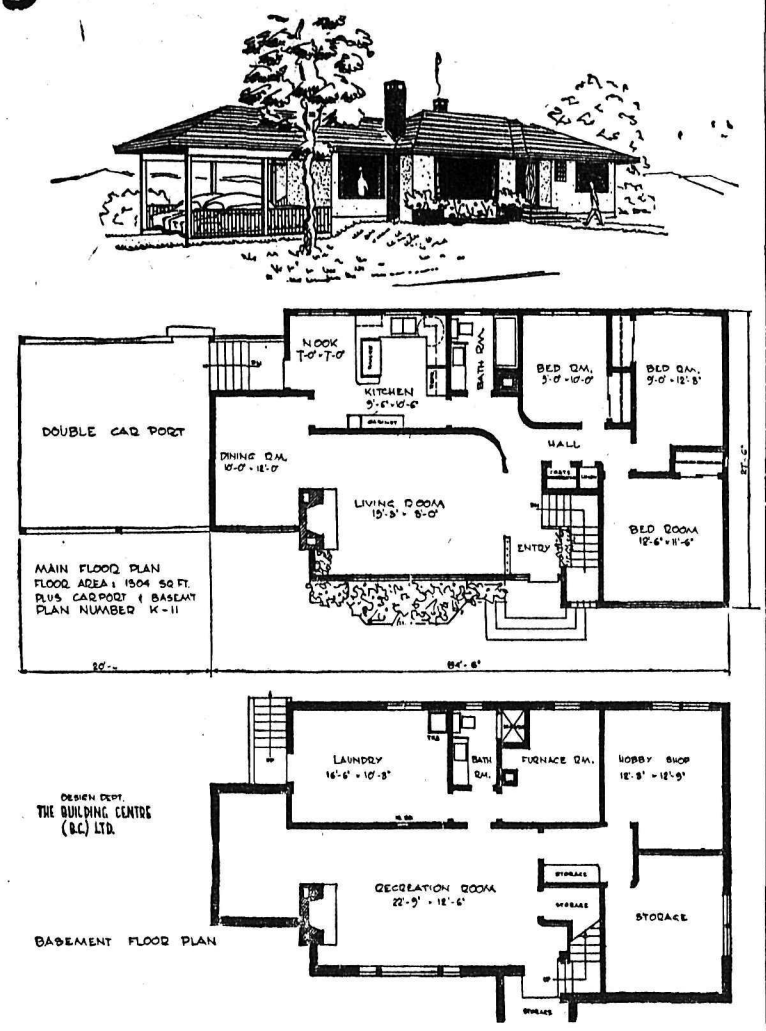
Mr. Gros, vice - president of Pacific Gas and Electric Company, said the pipeline symbolized faith in the "incentive system which has spurred our economies to ever greater heights and soundness."

"I see our incentive system as a shining beacon which can do a mighty lot in helping enlighten the world in the ways of sovereign, independent nations of free men whose mutual trust and co-operation allow them to live in amity, side by side."

SMOKE BYLAW

VICTORIA (CP) — The city legal department is drafting a bylaw to curb air pollution. City council was told Thursday the bylaw would reduce sawmill fly ash by 50 per cent and visible smoke by 80 pr cent.

The Modern Home



If it's dignity and the look of luxury that attracts your eye, then consider K-11, with its double carport and breezeway, and it's long low look. The living-dining areas are shown on the left front of the house, but the dining area is slightly recessed to give it the appearance of standing on its own — entry into the spacious bar-type kitchen with its own family eating nook. The bathroom has a full-sized vanity, the centre hall has curved walls (easy cleaning) leading into the three bedrooms, thus giving privacy to all. Distinction is added to the main entry of the house, where the basement stairs go down in two stages. Look at the beautiful front elevation of this distinguished looking house. It is particularly suited to a lot that takes a sharp slope from the front to the back, so that the front entrance has only one or two risers, and the planters are directly under the living room windows. The basement area shows recreation room with fireplace located directly under the living room fireplace — hobby room, laundry room, storage area. Extra plumbing is also shown in the basement. Yet, with all this, this is a practical house, plumbing is located back to back for economy, fireplaces use the same chimney. Designed for NHA approval, working drawings are available from the Building Centre, 116 East Broadway, Vancouver 10. K-11 (copyright No. 117093).

ST. JOHN'S, Nfld. (CP)—Feeding canned milk from a nippled pop bottle to a caribou calf in the bush or gingerly experimenting with British Columbia salmon in a remote inland river are all part of a day's work for a Newfoundland wildlife biologist.

Teams of foresters and biologists from the provincial resources department now are in the interior teaching new-born calves to drink canned milk.

The calves, housed in tents, will eventually be airlifted to the Salmonier Line, near here, for close scrutiny. Tom Bergerud, the province's chief biologist who is heading the program, says the plan is to study the effects of controlled feeding of the caribou from calf stage to adulthood.

While the calves are being removed from the herds, the females and stags are being tagged. They're "shot" with a sleep-inducing anaesthetic needle fired from a shotgun. While the animal sleeps, the tag is applied to its back for easy spotting from the air.

MYSTERY DISEASE

The scientific teams are also continuing investigations of a mysterious disease that recurs every few years. It wiped out 80 per cent of Newfoundland's caribou calves in 1957.

Later in the summer other teams will make the first checks on an experiment begun two years ago to determine whether B.C. salmon can survive in Newfoundland waters.

Some 250,000 eggs were released in North Harbor River on St. Mary's Bay on the southeast coast.

B.C. salmon eggs were released on the St. John River in New Brunswick in the early 1900s but few survived.

The project is part of the program to meet the threat to the wildlife population of civilization.

In sparsely settled but fast-developing Labrador, for example, the trout and land-locked salmon are in danger of serious depletion.

Resources Minister W. J. Keough has announced plans to stop Canadian mainland and American anglers from "airlifting hundreds of pounds of game fish each year out of Labrador in private aircraft."

He proposes to limit the number that may fish any Labrador water.

If You Have a Varian Rubidium Magnometer Here's How to Fix It

What do you do when you're near the North Pole with a sensitive instrument that needs a replacement part? In this story, a Canadian Press reporter tells how scientists with the Polar Continental Shelf project employ ingenuity to keep the operation on schedule.

By JIM WHELLY
Canadian Press Staff Writer

ISACHSEN, N.W.T. (CP)—You may not have thought so, but you can fix a broken varian rubidium vapor magnetometer with an old ballpoint pen.

When Dr. W. N. English of Vancouver did it, the temperature was 20 below zero and he was about 600 miles from the North Pole. He is the deputy superintendent of the defence department's Pacific Naval Laboratory at Esquimalt, B.C., and since March he has been working with the Canadian Polar Continental Shelf Project at Isachsen on Ellef Ringnes Island, some 2,200 miles nort hof Winnipeg.

What is a varian rubidium vapor magnetometer anyway?

It's an experimental machine for studying the earth's magnetic field and the one Dr. English is using is the only one in North America near the north magnetic pole. The magnetic pole, once thought to be a point in the Arctic Archipelago, has been shown by recent investigations to extend across the polar basin passing close to Isachsen and terminating in the Taimyr peninsula in Siberia.

PEN WAS BENT

The machine charts the magnetic field with a tiny drawing pen on a moving roll of graph paper. During the flight north, the pen was bent and eventually stopped marking altogether.

Dr. English found that if he held his mouth just right, he could "fix the 50-cent end of our $10,000 instrument" by replacing the drawing pen with a ball point pen refill. The makeshift kept the chart rolling during the three weeks before a replacement could be flown in.

Much of the story of Canada's most northerly research project is the story of man's ingenuity in continuing work despite breakdowns or shortages. Ellef Ringnes is surrounded by unnavigable pack ice the year round and supplies cannot be taken there over water even by icebreaker. The RCAF Transport Command flies supplies to Isachsen from Resolute, on Cornwallis Island, the most northerly shipping port, and from farther south but these supply missions last only a few days in spring and fall.

Anything needed between these missions can be flown in by chartered aircraft providing it is not too heavy but because of the small number of aircraft chartered, the distance involved and the vagaries of the weather, delivery may take as long as a month.

TIME IS PRECIOUS

Since the project operates only through the continuous daylight months of March to September, a month is too much to lose.

One day in April, an oceanographic crew working on the ice of McClure Strait, between Melville and Banks islands, found their ice drill wouldn't work.

The drill seemed essential to their job of getting through the six-to-nine-foot thick pack ice to measure the Arctic Ocean's temperature, depth, salinity and oxygen and animal content.

But an ice chisel was found among the party and they began the tortuous work of cutting through the ice with that. It was the final day on the ice for the party if they could complete the last few holes through the ice and make a final measurement just beyond the point where the continental shelf dropped into the Arctic basin.

They did it and were ready when one of the project's two tightly scheduled Otter aircraft alighted on the ice to return them to Isachsen.

"We were on our bellies on the ice and leaning down the holes," one of the party said afterward, "and if the ice had been just two inches thicker we couldn't have done it."

Not all of the project's problems can be so handily solved.

STUCK IN MUD

Late in the summer of 1960, one Otter with four men aboard got stuck in mud on the island, about 70 miles from Isachsen. Attempting a take-off, it damaged a propeller. A propeller from the second Otter was flown out by helicopter but still mud glued the aircraft to the ground.

Then fog began to ground the supply helicopters while the stranded men dug into their emergency rations. More than two weeks after they became grounded the fog lifted and the Otter, using its own floorboards as a runway, lifted into a strong wind and made it safely back to Isachsen.

Bad luck struck twice in a week of late April this year. First a Hercules C-130B RCAF transport aircraft, one of the last of the spring airlift, crunched off balance in a cross-wind and seriously damaged one wing on the Resolute landing strip.

Then disaster struck an Isachsen-based helicopter visiting the Pacific Naval Laboratory's Operation Ice Pack, about 50 miles out on the ice, offshore from Isachsen. Someone unthinkingly drove a tracked vehicle with a whip antenna under the moving main rotors of the Bell helicopter.

HUNTED LOST PLANE

Damage to the reinforced balsa rotors was estimated at $12,000, not including lost flying time and the cost of shipping new rotors from Eastern Canada.

Such accidents call for a different kind of ingenuity in rescheduling flight plans for the aircraft which remain serviceable and this work is shared by project co - ordinator Dr. Frederick Roots and Fred DuVernay, a Second World War navigator, both from Ottawa.

Toughest problem of 1960 came in May when a Mayday international distress signal was received from one of the chartered McMurray Air Service Otters flown by Bert Burry of Uranium City, Sask.

The five-plane search for the Otter and its three passengers and pilot was given priority over all other projects and within 32 hours the plane was found. It was hanging through the Arctic Ocean ice by its wing-tips, 175 miles north of Isachsen. The four men were brought back alive and well.

The aircraft, however, couldn't be economically salvaged and until a replacement arrived the polar shelf crews just kept on proving they could do with one aircraft what everyone thought required a minimum of two.

Britain Grants Air Licence to Cunard Eagles

LONDON (Reuters)—Cunard Eagle air lines has been granted a licence for flights between Britain and the United States, it was announced Thursday.

Cunard Eagle, the air branch of the Cunard Steam-Ship Company, was the first major company to apply for an air licence from Britain's new air transport licensing board.

The application was strongly opposed by British Overseas Airways Corporation. A BOAC spokesman said the company was "deeply disappointed" by the board's decisions.

"We shall certainly appeal against them," he added.

Under the terms of the new licence, Cunard Eagle will be allowed to operate flights to New York, Philadelphia, Boston, Baltimore and Washington.

A spokesman for Cunard Eagle said the service, the "first operated by a private British firm on a prime air route," would begin next May.

The licensing board's decision said that the air traffic to and from the Mid-Western United States and Canada would not support another airline.

Cunard Eagle had also asked permission to fly to Montreal, Toronto, Chicago and Los Angeles.

Law Society To Make Amendments

HARRISON HOT SPRINGS, B.C. (CP)—The Law Society of B.C. Thursday voted in favor of an increase to $25 from $5 a year of the annual assessment made on members for a fund from which members of the public are compensated for misappropriation by lawyers.

The society's annual meeting voted to seek an amendment of the B.C. Legal Professions Act providing for the increased assessment and for increase in the fund to $200,000 from $100,000.

The increased assessment would be continued until the fund reaches its new maximum figure.

The meeting was told that 200 complaints had been received during the past year against lawyers but only 15 of these called for further investigation and consideration of suspension or disbarment. Three lawyers were disbarred during the year.

T.E.H. Ellis, Q.C., was elected treasurer, succeeding A. J. Cowan, Q.C., also of Vancouver.

Yours Truly...
Don Sawatsky

THE MUCH anticipated Western International Hockey League meeting in Kimberley has been cancelled. This fine how-do-you-do was received by Yours Truly Friday afternoon after talking with my friend Mr. Bruce Hogle of the Trail Times.

Mr. Hogle said that another meeting date has not yet been set but it will probably be put back in the schedule bock after the summer holidays are a thing of the past.

* * *

YOU HAVE probably been wondering why the Nelson Outlaws aren't competing in the Kimberley Baseball Tournament this weekend.

Well the answer isn't too unhappy. Charlie Burdette, the big bat boy of the Outlaws will be listening to wedding bells. And nine or so of the club will be on hand to support the big man.

Congratulations and best of luck to you and your bride, Loreen, Charlie.

STILL WITH THE Outlaws, manager Ron Nash was not his usual jovial self Thursday night at the Trail Smoke Eater - Outlaw ball game.

As a matter of fact, Mr. Nash was off his feed completely. The point of his unhappy state was the scattered piles of lumber and debris lying helter-skelter all over the park and especially around the dug-out.

RED WASSICK
. . . Ouch ! ! !

"This is disgraceful," the usually easy-going Nash muttered. "I'll bet the city doesn't even know we have a ball park in this town.

"Look at this mess!" he gestured angrily. "Have you ever seen anything so disgraceful?"

And he didn't stop there. "And furthermore, we had to go running around five minutes before game time and clear the field of all the parked cars. It's discouraging, to say the least."

The cars, by the way, were owned by members of the Credit Union conventioners.

WALTER WAIT just came in and dropped a little notice on my lap regarding the West Kootenay Municipal Curling Challenge Trophy bonspiel set for July 8-9.

There was mention of this in the June 17 edition of this column. Walter said that the promoters of this enterprising scheme are working toward making it an annual affair.

It will be curling and a general conference of municipal members. Walter Thorp of Castlegar is said to be in the main-stay of this idea.

RED WASSICK had a very pained expression on his face after Thursday's ball game with the Smokies.

Poor old Red got hit in the lower extremities twice in one game. He tried his best to get out of the way by turning his back on the ball but that didn't change the shape of things too much.

* * *

I SUPPOSE YOU'VE noticed the fine art work that has been adhorning this space now and again.

It all comes from the twinkling pen of one of our reporters D'Arcy Richard, a man of bubbling talent.

UNRANKED HEAVYWEIGHT Tom McNeely will have at least one backer when he meets champ Floyd Patterson in the fall.

This enthusiastic fight fan is ready to wager his shirt that McNeely will turn the old upset and head for the stars.

I hope he doesn't wager his best shirt.

Reds Stretch Lead to Three

By The Canadian Press

Cincinnati Redlegs, battling from behind all the way, defeated Los Angeles Dodgers 5-4 Wednesday night on Eddie Kasko's bases-loaded single in the ninth inning. The win stretched the Reds' National League lead to three games over the Dodgers.

In other NL games, St. Louis Cardinals whipped San Francisco Giants 10-5, Chicago Cubs defeated Milwaukee Braves 5-3 and the Philadelphia Phillies defeated the Pittsburgh Pirates 12-11.

In the American League, Detroit Tigers walloped Cleveland Indians 15-7, Chicago White Sox beat Washington Senators 4-3; Minnesota Twins blanked New York Yankees 4-0, Boston Red Sox defeated Kansas City 5-4 and Baltimore Orioles defeated Los Angeles Angels 8-6.

LED OFF WITH DOUBLE

Gene Freese led off the Cincinnati ninth with a double and moved to third on Gordy Coleman's sacrifice bunt. The Dodgers intentionally walked pinch batters Jerry Lynch and Dick Gernert to load the bases. Kasko lined reliever Norm Sherry's pitch for the game-winning hit.

Chicago Cubs' rookie lefthander, Jack Curtis, tossed a five-hitter needing help in the ninth to beat Milwaukee Braves.

Two of the hits given up by Curtis were home runs. Milwaukee's Frank Thomas hit a homer in the second inning and Hank Aaron unloaded a homer in the fourth.

Stan Musial, elder batsman of the National League, hit two home runs, one a grand slam, to drive in seven runs for St. Louis.

The grand slam, which Musial delivered in the seventh inning off Giants pitcher Bob Bolin, was the ninth of his career.

TAGGED 15 HITS

Detroit tagged 15 hits, four of them homers, while handing third place Cleveland a fifth straight defeat. The Indians have given up 41 runs in their last three games. Billy Bruton drove in four runs with two homers, both off loser Jim Perry (6-5). Don Mossi, whose lone defeat was by Cleveland, won his eighth, but gave up five home runs—all solo shots—and needed relief help.

Harmon Killebrew drove in all four Minensota runs, two with his 20th home run, off Bob Turley (3-4). It was the first time the Yankees had been shut out since opening day, when the Twins' Pedro Ramos did it. Pascual (5-9) struck out eight.

Quick Recovery Ties Palmer

GRAND RAPIDS, Mich. (AP)—Don January recovered after a shaky start to tie Arnold Palmer for the lead Friday at the midway point in the 72-hole Western Open golf tournament.

A sloppy combination of rain, 30-mile wind gusts and chilling temperatures turned the Blythefield Country Club course into a nerve-wracking test for the 149 golfers.

Palmer, who shared the first-day lead at 65 with Al Geiberger, settled for 70 Friday. He and January tied with 135s after 36 holes. Geiberger had a disastrous 76 for 141.

January recovered after a shaky first hole and took only 29 putts on his round. One was a 50-foot birdie putt on the 12th. He finished his round with a 69.

Sam Snead's day was typical of many. He had a brilliant opening day 66 but soared to 74 Friday including a three-putt green from 10 feet out on the ninth.

Defending-champion Stan Leonard of Vancouver, playing with Snead, shot a one-under-par 70 to go with his first round 71 for a 141 total. Al Balding of Toronto had 139 on rounds of 67 and 72.

Canadian Open Record Tied By 17-Year-Old Ottawa Boy

ST. LAMBERT, Que. (CP)—Bob Fisher-Smith, 17-year-old sprinter from Ottawa Friday night tied the Canadian Open record for the 100 - yard dash with a 9.6 run at the Canadian senior track and field championships in this Montreal suburb.

The slightly - built youngster, a student at Ridgemont High School, won his heat, the semi-final and the final in times all under 10 seconds.

Eighteen events of the 33 slated for the weekend were run off Friday night. There are 235 competitors — 193 men and 42 women, from Canada, Great Britain and the United States.

Fisher - Smith's spectacular win brought the 1,200 fans to their feet. He was a whisker ahead of Jim Allen of Hamilton, Ont., who finished in 9.7 seconds.

Officials had to go into a huddle to declare a winner because the race was so close.

Toronto's Bill Crothers beat out a field of highly - ranked competitors in the 440-yard run in 47.9 seconds, five-tenths of a second off the native Canadian mark he set last Saturday.

The 20-year-old pharmacy student from the University of Toronto won his heat and semi-final and then went on to edge Mike Davis of Britain at the wire.

Orville Atkins, 25, of Toronto won the six-mile run in a slow 32:40.5 24-lap race.

John Boulter, running for the 18-man combined Oxford-Cambridge team, won the mile run in 4:12.5.

Bruce Kidd of Toronto did not compete in either the six-mile or the mile runs. He wrote an examination in Toronto Friday morning, but will be here Saturday for the three-mile event.

In the 120-yard high hurdles Britain's John Parker and Michael Robinson placed one-two, eclipsing the Quebec open record of 15.2 seconds. Parker ran the distance in 14.6 seconds.

In the only women's track final run, Gillian Bastien Harding, mother of a year-old girl, won the 100-yard dash in 11 seconds flat. Her time equalled the Quebec open record.

In the field events broad-shouldered Dave Dorman of Smiths Falls, Ont., cleared the bar at six feet one and one half inches to win the men's running high jump.

Ottawa's Bruce Campbell and Albert Leisenring of the Oxford-Cambridge team failed to make the six foot one mark and placed second and third.

BROKE RECORD

David Harrison of the touring Oxford - Cambridge club smashed the Quebec provincial record of 50 feet five and one half inches with a heave of 51 feet two and one-half inches, in the shot put.

Harrison also won the hammer throw with a 139 foot one inch shot.

A leap of 22 feet, nine-inches gave the men's broad jump to Pat Liles, a native of Memphis, Tenn., competing for the Oxford-Cambridge team.

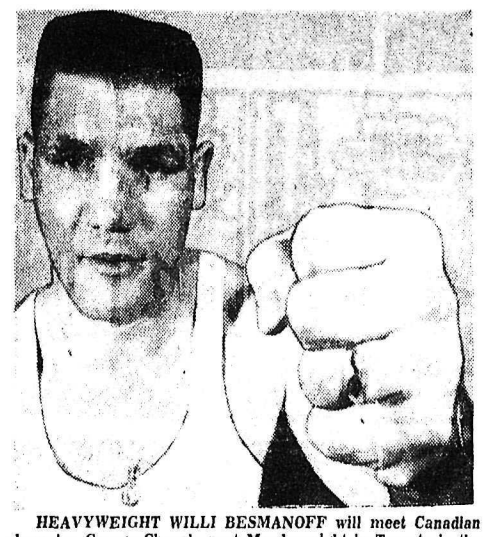
Pony Leaguers Even Finals

Whiteleys parred the score in the second game of the Pony League baseball Friday night by downing Algar-Dunlops 9-4. Both teams have won one game apiece in the playoffs.

Don Ross was the winning pitcher and Dave Shankland was relieved by Ralph Beatty on the Algar mound.

Whiteley sluggers Evans and Owens led the hitting parade. Whiteleys scored many of their runs on errors and poor field support by the Algars.

Third and final game of the final will be held today at 6 p.m. at Queen Elizabeth Park.



HEAVYWEIGHT WILLI BESMANOFF will meet Canadian champion George Chuvalo next Monday night in Toronto in the first challenge to Chuvalo since the Canadian was ranked fifth in world competition by the National Boxing Association of the U.S. The former German heavyweight has beaten three of the men who have beaten Chuvalo.—TNS photo.

Knudson Retains Strongman Role

ISLINGTON, Ont. (CP)—George Knudson of Toronto and Winnipeg proved himself the strong man in the Ontario Open golf championship Friday when he posted a 36-hole score of 132 to take a five-stroke lead over his nearest rival.

He was 12 under par for the route.

Knudson, 23, fired a four-under-par 68 Friday. With his record-breaking 64 of Thursday he was not in immediate danger from Bob Rose, professional at Toronto's Pleasure Park, who added a 69 to his 68 of Thursday for a 137 total.

Knudson, defending champion, knocked one stroke from the competitive record at Islington Golf Club with his 64 Thursday.

The play Friday brought disappointment for many in the field of 137 golfers who started the second round of the four-round tournament which ends Saturday.

TOP 60 PLAY ON

Only the top 60 and ties will play the 36 final holes. The unofficial cut-off score was pegged at 150.

Behind Knudson and Rose with 139s, were Rudy Horvath of Windsor and Gary Cowan of Kitchener, both with 70 - 69 scores. Next, with 141, was professional Gordon DeLapp, of Weston, Ont., with scores of 72-69.

One of the next in line with 142 was Brian Wilcox, 17-year-old Canadian junior champion, who held the lead for a time Friday.

Wilcox, playing out of Thornhill in Toronto, bounced back from a 77 Thursday with a 65 Friday and was in the lead for several hours.

At stake in the tournament is $2,500 for the professionals and eight trophies for the leading amateurs.

Mired Minnesota Makes Mele Manager

MINNEAPOLIS (AP)—Minnesota Twins, mired deep in the American League after a disastrous losing streak, Friday fired Harry (Cookie) Lavagetto as manager and replaced him with coach Sam Mele.

Owner Cal Griffith, announcing the switchover at a news conference, said the 38-year-old Mele would take over immediately.

It was the second firing in one week in the American League. Joe Gordon got the gate from Kansas City Athletics, who are one notch above the Twins.

The abrupt firing of Lavagetto, 46, came after he had failed to get the Twins back on the winning track that surprised other American League cluds at the beginning of the season.

From an initial 5-1 won-lost record in the east, the former Washington Senators skidded into a prolonged slump and disappointed the home crowds that kept flocking to the stadium. They've lost 27 of their last 34 games and once had a losing streak of 13 in a row.

Going into the three - game series against the Yankees, who swept a series here last month, Minnesota was in ninth place, 17½ games behind leading Detroit. The Twins have won 25 and lost 41.

Mele, who joined the Senators in 1958 as scout and coach, joined Griffith at the news conference and told reporters:

"The big thing is to try to snap the club out of its losing complex. If that doesn't work then we will have to think about bringing up some players from our farm system."

During the week he replaced Lavagetto earlier this month, while Griffith talked over the club's troubles with Cookie, Mele had a 2-5 record.

The new Twins manager spent most of his playing days as outfielder with Boston Red Sox and the Senators.

Top Prize in Canadian Open Increased $800

MONTREAL (CP)—Top money prize in the $30,000 Canadian Open, to be held in Winnipeg July 12-15, has been increased to $4300 from $3500, the Royal Canadian Golf Association said Friday.

The runner-up's share has been boosted to $3000 from $2300 and the prize money for each professional finisher from third to eighth has been boosted by $200.

The cash awards now are: third place, $2000; fourth, $1700; fifth, $1500; sixth, $1400; seventh, $1300, and eighth, $1200.

Prize money also is to be distributed all the way down to 35th position, which gets $100.

Also at stake will be prize money of $1000 exclusively for Canadian professionals, with $300 going to the one with the best score, $200 to the runner-up, and $100 each to the next five.

Only Canadian to win the open since 1936 is Pat Fletcher of Saskatoon, victor at the 1954 tournament in Vancouver.

Defending champion is Art Wall Jr., of Pocono Manor, Pa., who posted a 72-hole score of 269 last year at Toronto St. George's.

Russian Army Training Camps?

No Miracles in Sight for IOC

By JACK SULLIVAN
Canadian Press Staff Writer

If the International Olympic Committee can come up with a workable amateur code without putting a serious crimp in the Games, or even wrecking them, it will be the miracle of the age. And don't look for miracles.

The big question apparently concerns training camps. This could be of great importance to Russia and the other Communist countries and could be of equal import to Canada and the United States. First of all, though, the IOC must decide what is meant by a training camp.

Is the Soviet army one huge training camp for its athletes? Does it mean young men attending colleges on athletic scholarships or does the IOC simply mean camps set up by governments to train athletes?

No hint of this came out of the IOC meeting at Athens the other day when the international committee drew up proposed new rules. "We now can interpret the rules to meet new situations, like training camps," chancellor Otto Mayer of the IOC said.

He didn't expand on this remark.

WORKING FROM AVERY

Last December, IOC President Avery Brundage of Chicago said there was so much commotion after the 1960 Rome Games over the allegedly poor showing of some teams "that we sent a letter to all national committees warning against subsidies, training camps, and such like, as a means of building national prestige."

For years, since the Russians first entered the Games back in 1952, sports officials from the Western world have been saying the Soviet athletes are subsidized by the government. Most of the Soviet hockey players and track and field athletes are army men.

AVERY BRUNDAGE

"It is tough to come right out and say they are sibsidized by the government," one Canadian sports official said this week. "But it makes a person wonder how Russian hockey players can become almost as good as Canadian amateurs in a few short years without being given unlimited time for training.

Then, again, how do we judge whether a person in the Russian armed forces is supported by the state—because he can play hockey or run or because he can shoot a gun? How can we police what they do?"

FUTURE FOGGY

The official, who wished to remain anonymous, said many people in sport in the Western world figured the Russian army was a big athletic training camp.

The same, to a degree, could apply to athletic scholarships in the U.S. Most of Canada's male track and field athletes competing in Olympic, British Empire and Pan-American over the last 10 years were on scholarships to U.S. universities.

Could these be defined as training camps?

Jim Worrall of Toronto, president of the Canadian Olympic Association, says he doesn't know "whether the new definition will improve the over-all situation or make it worse."

"It will still be a question of interpretation and supervision. Then, of course, there is the question of who is going to police the situation in each country.

"Meanwhile," he added, "I guess we shouldn't panic."

DAILY CRYPTOQUOTE — Here's how to work it:

A X Y D L B A A X R
is L O N G F E L L O W

One letter simply stands for another. In this sample A is used for the three L's, X for the two O's, etc. Single letters, apostrophies, the length and formation of the words are all hints. Each day the code letters are different.

A Cryptogram Quotation

N M B U G L S L T U B D E U X J S U X O S W W S U D X Z, M G L E U X J S U G L X Z L N S U S Q — D S U S Q G W M.

B.C. Economy Shows Gain

VICTORIA (CP) — A trade department business report shows that 22 of 35 business indicators surveyed to measure B. C.'s economic climate have shown definite gains for the first quarter of the year.

Natural gas production and construction starts increased 24 per cent; value of fish landings 74 per cent; tourist permits 12 per cent; pulp production six per cent and electric power was generated 5.5 per cent.

However, retail sales show a four-per-cent decline ($461,894,000 against $377,266,000 last year), life insurance sales 1.1 per cent, factory shipments of 2.2 per cent, and timber scaled more than 20 per cent.

Farm cash income has been boosted 1.2 per cent, coal and lead production are up, exports are well ahead of 1960 although a figure for January only showing a 20-per-cent jump is available.

Cheques cashed totalled $4,426,097,000, a rise of 2.8 per per cent over the first quarter of 1960.

SCOUTS SAVED

FRESNO, Calif. (AP) — Ten Explorer Scouts, stranded on a narrow ledge in Kings Canyon National Park for 24 hours, were rescued, one by one, in a daring helicopter operation Thursday. The youngsters, aged 14 to 17, and their 35-year-old leader, were without food or water for the last 16 hours but no ill effects were reported.

BOY KIDNAPPED

KUALA LUMPUR, Malaya (Reuters)—The 13-year-old son of a wealthy Chinese miner owner was kidnapped here on his way to school, police said today. The incident occurred the same day the Malayan parliament passed a law imposing the death penalty for kidnapping for ransom.

CELEBRATE XMAS

SCOTIA, N.Y. (AP)—A fifth-grade class at the Sacandaga School celebrated Christmas on the eve of summer vacations. All 26 pupils received gift-wrapped pencils from their teacher, Miss Cecilia Dowling, who wished them a Merry Christmas while a music box chimed Jingle Bells. She said the party had been delayed because the gifts she ordered last December had just arrived.

INVITES NEHRU

NEW DELHI (Reuters)—President Kennedy has sent Prime Minister Nehru an official invitation to visit the United States, informed sources said Friday. The invitation was conveyed Thursday to Nehru by the Canadian-born U.S. Ambassador John Galbraith after his return from Washington. No date has yet been fixed.

KOVACS OWES TAXES?

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Federal tax liens against comedian Ernie Kovacs and his wife, entertainer Edie Adams, allege the couple owes $71,628 on income for 1959. The Bureau of Internal Revenue filed the liens Thursday.

Benny Sponsors Canada's Wayne And Shuster

By CYNTHIA LOWRY

NEW YORK (AP) — Wayne and Shuster, the team of Canadian comedians who made their U.S. debut as proteges of Ed Sullivan, now star in a situation comedy beginning Sunday night under the wing of Jack Benny.

The program was seen in Canada this week on CBC-TV.

In terms of prestige, this is excellent sponsorship.

The two comedians play social directors at a resort, one of those setups close to the heart of Hollywood comedy writers because it opens the door on a wide variety of situations. Holiday Lodge is made by Benny's production company and will be his summer replacement.

"We aren't completely sold on the Holiday Lodge title," Johnny Wayne says. "We thought it would be helpful if we could call it The Jack Benny Show.

A BIT DUBIOUS

The team also is a little dubious about the format.

"What we really wanted to make," Frank Shuster says, "was an underwater western set in the 1920s. That would have caught on."

The team has specialized during their long career in Canada, where they are important TV stars, on satiric sketches and this is a real departure."

"But in Hollywood they tell you that satire is something that closes in Philadelphia," Wayne says. "Besides, we thought it was about time to try something else. We've worked in the American TV variety shows — Sullivan, of course, and Dinah Shore. But we felt that we'd like to move in another direction."

THEY COMMUTED

But they are moving cautiously. Neither comedian has pulled up any roots in Toronto where they live. During the shooting of the first four shows, the pair commuted weekly between Los Angeles and their homes. Now they have rented houses for their families in Hollywood for the summer.

Movie - making has been a most enlightening experience for the team that has worked together since 1940 when they met as boy scouts.

In the past they have written all their own material as well as acted it out.

"We're not writing this, and we're just actors," Wayne says.

"Anyway, it's an interesting experience."

And, undoubtedly, a profitable one.

RECEIVES DIVORCE

SEATTLE (AP)—The wife of Representative Don Magnuson, Washington state Democrat, was granted a divorce Thursday in Superior Court. Mrs. June Magnuson testified her husband was so busy he neglected her and their family. She was awarded custody of their three children.

MARKET TRENDS

NEW YORK (AP) — Some defence issues had a burst of late strength as the stock market edged higher Friday on the lightest trading of 1961. Volume dipped to 2,720,000 shares from 2,880,000 Thursday.

Some of the aircraft-missiles made good gains. Selective gains among oils, electronics, nonferrous metals and electrical equipments helped produce more gainers than losers in the over-all list. Steels, motors and chemicals were mostly lower.

The Dow Jones industrial average advanced 3.04 to 688.66 while The Associated Press average of 60 stocks closed unchanged at 244.40.

Canadian Pacific was up ½, McIntyre Porcupine ¾ and Aluminium ¼ among Canadian issues. Hudson Bay was down ⅝ and Walker Gooderham lost ⅞.

American Stock Exchange prices were irregular. Canadian Marconi and Brazilian Traction each gained ⅛, while Shawinigan was off a similar fraction.

Canadian mines were fractionally higher. Oils were mixed.

MONTREAL (CP) — In light trading, papers were mixed to higher, industrials improved and base metals advanced strongly on the Montreal and Canadian exchanges Friday.

Following the budget, papers jumped ahead to gain 23.5 and industrials improved 9.5 points on index this week, new 1961 highs. Other indexes were moderately higher.

On index, banks were up 0.19 at 65.27, utilities off 0.4 at 147.4, industrials up 1.9 at 327.6, combined up 1.2 at 267.6, papers up 0.2 at 505.8 and golds up 0.81 at 78.59.

Papers consolidated major gains and moved fractionally higher Friday. Price Bros. gained ⅜ on 7,276 shares and was the most active paper stock Great Lakes gained ⅜.

Base metals improved in late trading Friday. International Nickel gained four points to 80, Noranda improved ¾, British Aluminium improved ⅞ and Asbestos and Smelters were fractionally higher.

STEELS GAIN

Steels made major gains in a mixed industrial section. Dominion Foundries rose 1⅜ and Algoma Steel gained 1¾. Ford of Canada was up five points at 165, Page-Hersey up 1⅛.

Utilities and banks were mixed. Banque Canadienne Nationale gained 1½ and Bell Telephone lost ½.

In mines, Falconbridge improved a point, Jubilee Iron gained 70 cents and Chemalloy eased 10 cents, the main changes in a moderately active section.

Western oils were dull. Canadian Delhi was up 45 cents and Cent Del Rio up 15 cents.

TORONTO (CP)—Spectacular gains in the industrial and base metals market helped push the exchange index to a new record high at the close of moderate trading Friday.

Ford of Canada jumped five dollars to 165 to lead the industrial pack, while International Nickel's 3⅞-point rise to 80 followed close behind. Steels led the general upward thrust, with Algoma and Dominion Steel and Coal taking more-than-a-point gains.

Foods strung along behind steels. Loblaw A and B, Oshawa Wholesale A and Dominion Stores were all up, along with Weston B.

In the papers, Consolidated, Price Brothers and St. Lawrence were all ahead while among financial institutions, Investment Syndicate A, Imperial Investment A, Industrial Acceptance Corporation and Bank of Nova Scotia all advanced smartly.

On index, industrial srose 3.63 to 593.83 and base metals 3.39 to 199.19. Golds fell .08 to 83.54 and western oils .83 to 95.89.

BASE METALS CLIMB

The base metals market was held back by gold losses but nevertheless climbed steadily all day.

Besides the big gain by International Nickel, others in the senior list who registered wins included Falconbridge, Gunnar, Noranda and Denison. Gains among speculative mines went to Kirkland Minerals and Murray.

On the minus side of the ledger, Geco and Quemont both had small losses.

Gold trading was light with Giant Yellowknife, Hollinger and Kerr Addison all down fractionally.

In poor western oil trading, both volume and prices fell. Canadian Devonian and Bailey Selburn A were down, along with Pacific Petroleum, while Home A and B and Hudson's Bay Oil had small wins.

Stevenson Makes Big Impression

By MAX HARRELSON

WASHINGTON (AP) — The scorebard on Adlai Stevenson's South American tour still is incomplete but he seems to have succeeded in achieving at least one broad objective of his special presidential mission.

The main goal of this mission appears to have been to convince South America leaders that the Kennedy administration is giving their problems a high-level priority in its foreign policy.

The 16,500-mile Stevenson trip was intended to call attention to this new emphasis on hemispheric problems and to dramatize the president's alliance-for-progress program to raise living standards of Latin American people.

There is little doub that he did a good selling job on the Kennedy program and it seems likely that the forthcoming meeting in Uruguay to consider the alliance - for - progress plan plan will strike a popular note in Latin America.

NO CRUSADE LIKELY

Stevenson scored some other points, but there also were some big minuses. One of these was ..... failure to interest some of the key countries in a political program to halt the spread of communism in the hemisphere.

It is known that he felt out each country on this question and that he was disappointed at the response.

As a result he concluded that it would not be worthwhile to call for a Latin American political conference at least until after the results of the Uruguayn economic conference are known. It is hoped that once the alliance - for - progress program has been launched the climate might be more suitable for political action.

On the positive side of his trip was the generally warm reception he received and the friendliness of both governments and popular majorities to him personally and to the United States. There were some manifestations of hostility, but these were the exceptions and they mostly involved small groups of hard-core leftists.

Stevenson came home with a generally gloomy picture of the South American situation both economically and politically. He said conditions had deteriorated since he visited the same countries a year ago and that Communist subversion had increased.

While he found this was offset somewhat by the eagerness of the leaders to improve conditions, the impression remained that Stevenson would seek to impress upon Kennedy the urgency of the situation and the danger of inaction.

Laos More Interested In Gaiety Than Making War

VIENTIANE, Laos (Reuters) While anxious minds around a Geneva conference table mull the fate of this tiny, strategic Southeast Asian kingdom, most Laotians are thinking of festivals and the courts of love.

To all but a few, what matters most is merry-making, not war-making; wine and laughter rather than armaments.

Throughout the swampy ricelands, dense jungles and lush highlands of this varied kingdom, the people's minds turn to thoughts of festival and fun to celebrate each event of life.

Birth or death, planting or harvesting, arrival or departure —each has its festival or ceremony in this land of gentle, relaxed people who have become as it were pawns in the game of international power politics.

LOW LITERACY RATE

Although the literacy rate in Laos is amongst the lowest in the world and the powers of the sorcerer are greatly feared, Chinese and Indian cultures are blended to produce a rich, full culture which, while often profane, is always warm and vivid.

Festivals and ritual vary greatly throughout Laos, but mainly in form, not in spirit.

Although many festivals are intrinsically religious, young men and women usually are able to take advantage of opportunities for courtship and lovemaking after the religious part of a festival has ended.

Courtship and fun-making always seem near at hand in Laos, with a national attitude of "After work, play."

Of all the Laotian festivals and ceremonies, the baci, or boun, is most common, and most expresses the willingness of the people to shrug off everyday cares and wink gently at life.

A baci is held for many reasons: To wish a new-born child a happy life, to bid a traveller about to undertake a long journey godspeed, to welcome an old friend returning after a long absence, or for almost any reason at all.

There is a general belief in Laos that the soul loves to leave the body and it is necessary to recall it, at least once a month, by offering it the delights of a baci.

Food, wine and flowers are packed by the hosts into phakuans (trays) covered with banana leaves and topped by flowers.

An unfrocked Buddhist monk of senior rank celebrates the religious aspect of the ceremony.

WINE FLOWS FREELY

This done, the rice wine flows freely and laughter drifts out into the night.

Young men and women, watched by indulgent parents, talk of youth and life.

The young men strive to turn compliments which will fall sweetly on the ears of the young women receiving their court. The girls turn away the compliments offered with protestations of unworthiness.

The wine flows on, the laughter becomes a little louder, the compliments a little more extravagant, the smiles a little more frequent.

This now has become a court of love.

Perhaps, as the night goes on, there is a more ardent note in the suitor's poetic protestations of love, perhaps more acceptance than rejection in the girl's answers.

ORIGINAL WILL LOST

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Jeff Chandler's lawyer has filed in Superior Court a signed carbon copy of the actor's will, under which Chandler left more than $600,000 in trust for his two daughters. A petition accompanying the will Thursday said the original of the document, dated June 9, 1959, had not been found. The court was asked to recognize the carbon copy. The will made no provision for Chandler's former wife, Marjorie.
