Fulton Says Hot Reception Ready for Organized Crime

POLICE CHIEFS MEET

By KEN SMITH

MONTREAL (CP)—Justice Minister Davie Fulton said Wednesday night a number of organized crime syndicates are operating in Canada, but there is no "Mr. Big" in control.

He told the 68th annual conference of the International Association of Chiefs of Police that the Canadian government is "fully aware" that crime is becoming more highly organized and international in character.

He promised an early study to find the most effective ways of combatting organized crime.

"As we know, these organized groups do not necessarily restrict themselves to one type of criminal activity, but will apply themselves with equal fervor to gambling, counterfeiting, narcotics, liquor and prostitution," the minister told 1,800 police chiefs from four continents.

"We do not believe that there is in Canada any one 'Mr. Big' sufficiently powerful and well-organzied to control, syndicated, organized crime. It is considered that there are a number of organized crime syndicates, each having someone in control."

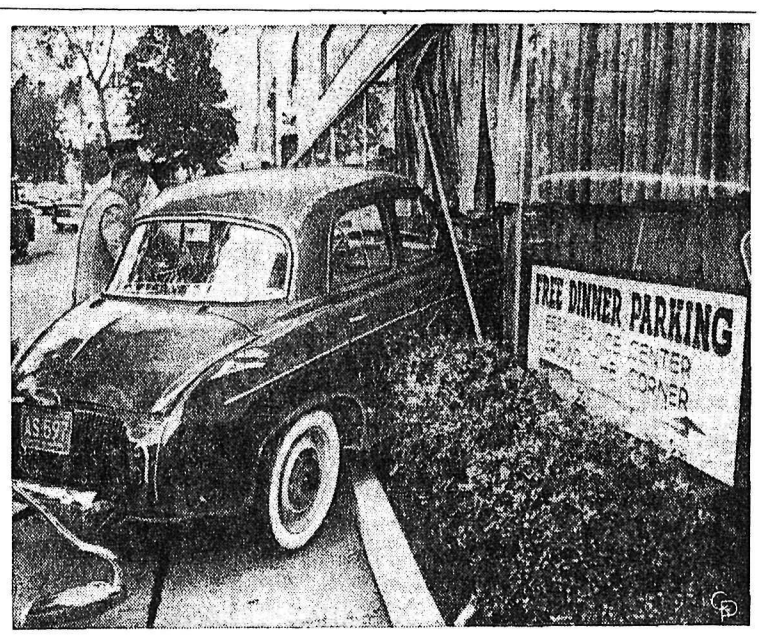
MUST BE VIGILANT

Mr. Fulton said measures passed recently in the United States against organized crime "mean we will have to keep our eyes open" in Canada.

"The more difficult it becomes for a malefactor to make a crooked dollar in one country, the more likely is he to seek opportunity in another country."

There was ample evidence of gambling combines operating into Montreal from major cities in the U.S.

"It is our objective, it is our intention, to destroy organized crime syndicates where they do exist in this country and to guarantee a very hostile reception to anyone who proposes to enter the field," he promised.



BELIEVES IN SIGNS—This little foreign car apparently believes in signs, but this isn't what the Washington restaurant proprietor had in mind. It's the windup of an accident.

PREMIER SPEAKS ON HYDRO POWER

OLIVER, B.C. (CP) — Government takeover of the West Kootenay Power and Light Company is not in British Columbia's best interesets at the present time, Premier Bennett has told municipalities in the Interior.

The takeover, however, might become desirable once details of the Columbia River development are settled, the premier said.

He said the three proposed dams on the Columbia would generate 2,000,000 horsepower for domestic use with the remainder being sold to the U.S. at five mills under the B.C. plan which Ottawa has rejected.

DETROIT (AP)— John Driver, 46, executive city editor of the Detroit Free Press, died of cancer at his home Wednesday.

Reds Hail Revolt

Syria Captures 'Paid' Saboteurs

By DAVID LANCASHIRE

DAMASCUS (AP) — Syria's revolutionary government announced Wednesday it has rounded up infiltrating saboteurs who had been hired abroad. It hinted strongly they were being paid by Egypt.

The captives were on the payroll of "those who claim Arabism, claim faith in unity," declared Information Minister Mustafa Baroodi in a statement broadcast by Damascus radio.

President Nasser of the United Arab Republic, from which Syria broke away, is the No. 1 exponent of unification of all Arabs, from northwest Africa to the Persian Gulf.

Nasser has called the Syrian revolt last week against Cairo's rule in the U.A.R. a setback "which must be the starting point for destroying reaction and treason" throughout the Arab sphere.

Baroodi said some fugitives from Syrian death sentences and others sought on criminal charges were among the sabotage suspects arrested by the revolutionary army.

He did not disclose the number held. Fuguitives from Syrian death sentences could include members of any of several proscribed groups — the Communist party, the nationalistic Greater Syria party and former right-wing organizations. All these had a hand in Syrian affairs before Syria joined Egypt in the U.A.R. in 1958.

REDS HAIL REVOLUTION

The Communists, still active underground, issued a statement hailing the revolution as "a historic victory . . . against imperialism and pharonic (Egyptian) rule." Bidding for legal sanction and a hand in the government, they called on Premier Mamoun Kuzbari's conservative regime for creation of a national front.

Kuzbari's 12-man cabinet, however, appeared to look on the Communists with no more favor than Nasser, who drove home-grown Reds away or underground even while maintaining friendly relations with Moscow.

Bridges West Of Terrace Flooded Out

TERRACE (CP) — Rain-swollen rivers washed out two bridges and threatened four others Wednesday along the northern transprovincial highway, severing the only road link between Terrace and Prince Rupert.

Dozens of travellers were stranded here by the washout of the bridges across the Cree and Delta rivers seven and nine miles west of Terrace. Highway crews expected to have a temporary, one-way crossing constructed by Thursday.

But they said streams flooded by rain which has been falling since early Tuesday also is threatening four other bridge crossings west of the washouts.

1 Dies; 2 Hurt In Hunt Mishap

GRANGEVILLE, Idaho (AP)—One man has been killed and two seriously wounded within 24 hours in hunting accidents in Idaho's elk-rich primitive area east of here, Idaho County authorities said Wednesday night.

B.C. Briefs

NANAIMO (CP)—Fire of unknown origin early Wednesday destroyed a disused sawmill at McKay Lake, 14 miles southwest of Nanaimo but B.C. Forest service firefighters were able to save an adjoining planer mill. Before it ceased operation last May the mill was valued at between $150,000 and $200,000.

NEW WESTMINSTER (CP) Salvage operations were under way Wednesday for three railway boxcars loaded with wheat which plunged into the Fraser River at Tilbury Island. The cars were being loaded aboard a ferry when a turnbuckle snapped and the ferry drifted away from the dock.

ELECTION FEVER

PENTICTON (CP) -- Election fever already is hitting Penticton. Former Alderman W. H. Whimster, Alderman Doug Southworth and former MP Frank Christian all have indicated they will seek the mayor's chair in the December civic elections. Mayor C. E. Oliver has not yet indicated if he will seek re-election.

MORE CUSTOMERS

VERNON (CP) — The North Okanagan Power District had 12,333 customers in the 1960-61 fiscal year, an increase of 483 over a year ago, officials reported Wednesday. The total electrical energy consumption in the district was more than 80,000,000 kilowatt hours.

BUILDING INCREASES

SUMMERLAND (CP) — The value of building permits issued for the Summerland area for the first nine months of 1961 are up $262,000 over the same period of a year ago. A total of 111 permits were issued in the period, 26 more than last year, to a value of $601,550.

Steals Aunt's Savings But Has Plan To Repay

TORONTO (CP) — A 28-year-old man pleaded guilty Wednesday to stealing his maiden aunt's $10,500 life savings.

John A. Vale was remanded a week for sentence while Magistrate Hugh Foster considers his offer to pay the money back at $15 a week.

Rev. Paul Vale told the court his brother was suffering from the shock of his mother's death when he fled to Vancouver with $10,500 worth of company bonds his aunt had entrusted to him.

His mother died 11 years ago, but the accused had never recovered, his brother said.

His aunt, Miss Mary Power, testified she had been given a promissory note by the accused 15 minutes before court began. The last thing she wanted was for him to go to jail, she said.

Magistrate Foster noted that it would take 20 years for Vale to pay his debt at $15 a week.

Need Student Clergymen; Church Felt Powerless

By JACK BEST

OTTAWA (CP)—In the opinion of many young Canadians, the Christian church lacks the ability to perform useful work in the world, an Anglican meeting was told Wednesday.

A report presented to the executive council of the Anglican Church of Canada cited this attitude as one reason for a severe shortage of recruits to the Anglican priesthood.

The report was prepared by the council's commission on church vocations.

Several different studies have shown that the number of student clergymen "falls far below that needed to supply the needs of the church," said the report, read by Rev. Bernard Barrett of Toronto, commission secretary.

Chief cause of the shortage was that the possibility of entering the priesthood was not presented to most Canadian boys in a meaningful way.

Aggressive development of the church's work in colleges and among youth will help overcome the shortage of priests, said the report.

NEAR BREAKTHROUGH

A feeling that the church may be on the threshold by Most Rev. H. H. Clark, archbishop of Rupert's Land and Primate of All Canada. He cited the experience of the Church of England, which today was ordaining more priests than at any time since 1902.

The council adopted a resolution calling for the establishment in each diocese of "the necessary structures" to promote recruitment of priests at the local level.

A report of the council's religious education department drew attention to what it termed the secularization of Canadian universities.

This was an indirect result of the growing number of students —in 10 years about one person in six of college age would actually be in college.

Universities had become heavily dependent on the state for money, and most denominational foundations had become relatively impoverished.

To further the work of the church at Canadian universities, the council unanimously adopted a resolution calling for a program to train campus chaplains.

Anderson:

W. Kootenay Power Appreciates Support To Counter Takeover

TRAIL (CP) — The West Kootenay Power and Light Co. Ltd. Wednesday viewed with caution Premier Bennett's announcement that take-over of the company is not contemplated at present.

President and General Manager R. G. Anderson noted that the premier, speaking in Oliver Tuesday night, had not definitely said he would not expropriate the company at some time.

The premier said take-over might be in the interests of lower power rates after Columbia River development had proceeded.

"The company appreciates that the studies carried on by the government have borne out the opinion of our customers that there was no advantage to the public inherent in expropriation," Mr. Anderson said.

Mr. Anderson said his company was "most appreciative of the support given by the municipalities and the public" to counter the threat of expropriation.

"We shall continue to operate as efficiently as possible in order that our low rates may be maintained," he added.

Informed local opinion is that West Kootenay customers and affected municipalities will continue to experience private enterprise service for perhaps 10 years — at least until Mica Creek, High Arrow and Duncan Lake dams have been constructed and Mica Creek energy produced.

German Police Exchange Shots

Refugee Dies in Fall

BERLIN (AP)—West and East German police engaged in a gunfight across the East-West border during a Communist police pursuit at dusk Wednesday night of two East German refugees over the rooftops, eyewitnesses reported.

One refugee's flight to the West ended in a fall to his death. The other was captured by the East Germans, one of whose policemen apparently was wounded.

The exchange of fire ocurred as the Communists chased the refugees over houses in Bernauerestrasse — the scene of many dramatic escapes to the West.

West Berlin police then drew pistols and fired at the roof in an attempt to hold back the pursuers, the eyewitnesses said.

POLICEMAN HIT

One East German policeman apparently was hit in the thigh and was dragged away by his comrades.

It could turn out to be the most serious shooting incident on the sector border since the East Germans began erecting their barricade Aug. 13.

About 200 West Berliners witnessed the shooting on the Bernauerstrasse. This is the street where East Berliners have been jumping from residences in Communist territory to sidewalks in the West.

Weset Berlin police confirmed that they opened firee. They said shots fired by the East German police at the refugees hit the sidewalk near West German police and firemen.

Therefore, a police spokesman said, the West Berlin police considered theye had been fired at and were entitled to return the fire in defence.

Gaglardi Charged Careless Driving

VICTORIA (CP)—An official of the attorney-general's department said Wednesday a charge of driving without due care and attention has been laid against Highways Minister Gaglardi.

The offence is alleged to have occurred Friday on the Trans-Canada Highway near Savona, 26 miles west of Kamloops.

The official in the attorney-general's department said the department had been notified of the charge as a matter of courtesy.

Nationalists Oppose Red China at UN

UNITED NATIONS (CP)—Nationalist China warned Wednesday the United Nations faces disaster if international bullies have their way on adding members "clearly disqualified" by provisions of the UN charter

"Appeasement is very much in the air," Shen Chang-huan, Nationalist Chinese foreign minister, told the 100-nation assembly which will come to grips soon on the issue of seating Communist China

As usual, the entire Soviet bloc snubbed Nationalist China and left the assembly hall when Shen spoke

Soviet Foreign Minister Gromyko showed up to listen to the next speaker, Romanian Foreign Minister Corneliu Manescu, who called for admission of Communist China and the ousting of the Chinese Nationalists

SEES DANGER AHEAD

Shen declared the UN "is now in danger of being perverted to serve the interests of powerful warmakers and international bullies, who have no respect for the principles and purposes enshrined in the charter"

"If they are allowed to have their way," he added, then the era of collective aggression, not of collective security, is upon us

"This is a grim state of affairs, indeed Unless the majority of the state members accept the reality of the danger and unite their efforts to meet it, the United Nations is destined to go the way of the Leagu eof Nations"

He told neutral nations who are supporting seating of China that they are being used by the Communists

Shen said he saw nothing wrong in a newly independent nation staying clear of power blocs, but added that neutralism "does not mean the repudiation of moral judgment on what is right and what is wrong, what is justice and what is injustice"

Brief Says Tax Up If Gov't Takes W. Kootenay Power

OLIVER (CP) — A brief backed by 19 Interior municipalities told the B.C. cabinet meeting in Oliver Tuesday that tax rates would jump 11.83 mills if the government took over the West Kootenay Light and Power Company.

DANICA D'HONDT of Vancouver, former Miss Canada, now a TV star, has joined the fight. Connie-Gail Feller of Ottawa was dethroned by contest manager S. Radcliffe Weaver and replaced by Nina Holden of Victoria. Miss D'Hondt agreed with Miss Feller in her complaints over accommodation, chaperones and transportation. She also said she had trouble collecting her money from Weaver.—TNS photo.

NEW YORK (CP) — Canadian dollar 1-64 higher at 97 3-32 in terms of U.S. funds. Week ago 97 1-64. Pound sterling 1-16 lower at $2.81½.

AT TORONTO airport Georgie Jessel pulled out a Churchill cigar. He allowed a reporter to light it for him. He said: "Don't light it too good. This is the last of 50 given me by Sir Winston Churchill six years ago. I want to make it last until I retire next March." Jessel is making speeches in Canada for the Israel Bond drive.—TNS photo.

Question 'At Core of Free Enterprise'

Chamber Resolution Tossed About; Deplores Gov't Takeover of BCE

By FORBES RHUDE
Canadian Press Business Editor

HALIFAX (CP) — In the most dramatic session of its three-day annual meeting the Canadian Chamber of Commerce Wednesday directed its board of directors to consider this morning what attitude the chamber should take in regard to the expropriation by the British Columbia government of the B.C. Electric Company.

This was the solution to a warm debate in which a large number of delegates wanted an immediate declaration; others felt a resolution presented on the matter should be improved in its wording and wanted it sent to the executive council for what might have been a more indefinite referral; and still others felt the matter was already adequately covered in chamber policy statements.

Highlight was a plea by H. Gordon Love of Calgary, former chamber president, that the organization "stop straddling the fence."

QUESTION MANNER

The right of the British Columbia government to expropriate was not questioned, but rather the manner of doing so.

Manuel Zive of Halifax got permission to introduce the subject as "new business" near the end of the chamber's closing policy session — a situation htat requires assent of two-thirds of delegates voting in order to have a matter discussed.

Mr. Zive then presented a resolution saying "a provincial government" had recently expropriated a privately-owned public utility without adequately demonstrating that the public would thereby be better served; that such action could seriously jeopardize the confidence of investors in Canadian industry; and that the chamber deplored such action.

E. L. Harrison of Vancouver said the "excuse" had been used in British Columbia that a federal income tax had to be paid by a private company, while a publicly-owned company is exempt. He wouldn't oppose the resolution but he thought one respecting taxation would be more pertinent.

RECALL POLICY

Leonard Hynes of Montreal referred delegates to already-expressed chamber policy that "opposes the exercise of power either by government or its delegates without safeguards of the liberty of the individual and the freedom of Canadian institutions;" and which adds that "the right of the citizen to appeal to the courts is a fundamental concept of democracy."

Mr. Hynes added that public-owned and operated power utilities are not new, but he was concerned with the manner of the B.C. expropriation without right of appeal to the courts.

Mr. Love said the question was at "the very core of free enterprise . . . "it's time we got our word in and stopped straddling the fence. We should have the guts to pass this right here now like men."

The motion to refer the resolution to the executive council was defeated on a close vote and was sent to the board of directors "for action tomorrow morning."

LONDON (AP)—The owners of London's skyscraper have spent the equivalent of $246,400 just to make sure its employees get a cup of tea twice daily.

Going on the theory that if you interfere with an Englishman's "cuppa," you ruin his efficiency and spoil his disposition, Shell International is installing tea service with an electric brain.

The new Shell building is on the south bank of the Thames. It is one of London's tallest buildings, with 25 storeys.

When the builders began planning six years ago, one of their first thoughts was how to deliver 5000 cups of hot tea twice daily

Months were spent in consultations. A conveyor-belt system was decided upon — a series of belts all bearing big jugs of hot tea.

Each belt will serve a set number of floors. The planners say that with four conveyors working at once, they can whisk 5000 cups to all the floors in just eight minutes.

Through operations of electronic brains, each jug is supposed to let itself off at the floor at the right time.

Catering employees — standing beside tea trollys — will rush the cups and saucers down corridors and into the numerous offices.

SACRAMENTO, Calif. (AP) — Floyd W. Kalo, 20, decided to have a cup of coffee while driving his lunch wagon Tuesday.

The hot coffee spilled on him and within seconds:

A utility pole was sheared off, crashed onto the truck and a 12,000-volt power line threatened to electrocute Kalo.

A section of suburban Sacramento was without power for 52 minutes.

Kalo suffered only minor injuries.

Castlegar Chamber Spokesman Scores Columbia Plan "Experts"

CASTLEGAR — "So called experts" were scored here Wednesday at the final session of public hearings heeld during the past three weeks into the application of B.C. Poweer Commission for water licence to construct storage dams on the Columbia River.

J. M. Macbeth, represeenting the Castlegar and District Chamber of Commerce, speaking on the engineering aspects of the project stated, "There exists much diverse opinion in engineering among the so-called experts."

Mr. Macbeth, maintaining that the wealth of the Arrow Lakes Valley lies in the lumber and tourist industries, felt strongly about the "ruination of one of British Columbia's most beautiful valleys."

In supporting his claim that the wealth of the valley lies in tourism, he stated that in one two-hour period 75 American boats were counted and similarly in a three-day period American boats from eight states were counted.

His chambeer also opposes the construction of High Arrow because of the "detrimental effect it would have on the lumber industry."

On a question of navigation water rights, comptroller A. Paget ruled that any remarks on the topic would not be considered by the board but he allowed discussion to carry on for the benefit of Mr. Macbeth, who was seeking specific information.

Mr. Macbeth asked for estimated costs of installation at the High Arrow dam for carrying pleasure and work boats, logs and barges over the dam. He was told that the cost would amount to nearly $2,000,000.

No figures on the annual operating costs of these installations could be given.

Howard Hunter, counsel for the B.C. Power Commission, said that the acreage flooded by High Arrow was estimated at 24,600 and not 40,000 acres, which many people believe is the amount of land to be flooded by High Arrow.

Mr. Macbeth questioned the economics of the project and was told by Dr. Hugh Keenleyside, chairman of the commission, that if the commission were not sure of a market for the power they would not be making the application.

He continued, "There have been some 30 alternative schemes examined and we finally came to the conclusion that the best sequence for the whole project included High Arrow."

Kinsmen to Push Centre

Plans for the Kinsmen-sponsored health centre will proceed whether or not an additional grant of $15,000 is forthcoming.

At the general club meeting at the Nelson Hotel Tuesday night the members decided grants from the senior governments and various health agencies were sufficent to go ahead with a building to cost in the vicinity of $47,000.

Should the additional grant of $15,000 from an undisclosed source be made, the plans for a building costing $62,000 will be in effect.

George Bruce was elected to the re-instated office of vice-president. The office was dropped several years ago. Elmer Mercer was elected director to fill the vacancy created by Bruce's election.

The Kinsmen's annually sponsored Mother's March on Polio will be held February 1, 2, and 3, it was announced.

Russian Claim "Propaganda"

Russia claims she has a 100-megaton bomb and provincial civil defence officer K. R. H. Roberts calls the statement "a good propaganda device."

At Civil Defence coordination classes held in the junior high school Mr. Roberts said the 100 megaton bomb, equivalent to 100 million tons of TNT, would not be as effective as it might seem as a large portion of the energy would blow into the atmosphere.

Winter Works Cutdown Anticipated by Council

It appears that Nelson's winter works program will be on a less expansive scale than last year.

A feeling pervaded the special city council meeting Monday night that there are not enough funds in the treasury to carry out any large works this year, but the new council of 1962 may be able to launch a large program.

Council was informed that the bulk of the city's work projects for 1961 is completed and that the budget does not allow for any new large projects this year.

Ald. Edith Van Maarion said that the city's inability to take advantage of the federal and provincial government's assistance now, does not mean that the new council cannot launch a winter works program in the new year.

MORE AID

More financial assistance is being offered by the provincial government this year. Besides the 25 per cent of the past for all labor costs for men hired from unemployment ranks, the government will pay a further 25 per cent of the wages of any person employed on an accepted project who had been continously in receipt of welfare assistance from or before June 15, 1961 to date of being angaged on the project.

The federal government will contribute 50 per cent of wages of any person hired from the unemployed ranks.

Council gave three readings to bylaw No. 1318, amending No. 1302, which empowered council to borrow up to $150,000 for construction of the Lakeside Interceptor Sewer System.

Since then, the federal government through its agency, Central Mortgage Housing Corporation, has agreed to loan the city 75 per cent of the cost of the project, approximately $99,000.

The project has been completed prior to 1963 and under the terms of the loan the city is entitled to 25 per cent of the principal and interest accrued on the loan. This refund makes the outstanding loan $74,000. This sum, plus the $50,000 in debentures to be sold to private interests, makes the bylaw total about $124,000.

The difference of $25,000 in the bylaw is the reason for amending the bylaw to read $124,000 instead of $150,000.

Because of administrative difficulties between the federal and provincial governments on how to amend the bylaw, a long delay has resulted in the payment by the government.

Nelson has yet to receive its 399,000 loan, or distribute its $50,000 worth of debentures. It is hoped that this may be accomplished in the next month, as soon as the Lieutenant-Governor approves bylaw No. 1318 and it is in turn given its fourth reading by council, then forwarded to CMHC for approval.

City works superintendent Dragutin Likar was authorized to advertise for such staff as is necessary to carry out work pursuant to the money bylaws for the three fringe areas.

Mr. Likar was also authorized to employ B.C. land surveyors to carry out the surveys in the fringe areas.

Council passed a motion authorizing the city to borrow temporary funds of $150,000 to carry out city business. The borrowing is necessitated by the delay in implementing by-law 1302.

McElroy Motors Ltd. of Nelson informed council that its five-year-old operation in Nelson has gone into receivership and is now in the hands of Laurentide Financial Corporation, (formerly Imperial Investments Corp. Ltd), because of the company's inability to honor committments made to the finance company.

Presentations Best Heard, Says Paget

CASTLEGAR — Provincial water rights comptroller Arthur Paget wound up three weeeks of intensive public hearings here Wednesday noon into the application of the B.C. Power Commission to begin the Columbia River power project.

"My deliberations on these applications will not be entered into either casually or lightly," he said, refererng to the many thousands of words on record expreessing a "considerable width of opinion."

During the past three weeks Mr. Paget and his staff members have travelled over 3000 miles by car, boat and plane and inspected the major sites and all areas which would be affected if High Arrow were constructed.

"I draw to your attention that all objections to this application are sustained and objectors will all be notified in due course as to the disposition made of this application," he stated.

In conclusion the water rights comptroller said, "I think it is appropriate to comment that I have heard some of the best presentations in my experience during these hearings, and many authors should feel a real pride ni their accomplisments."

He adjourned the hearings to Victoria, the date and place to be announced later.

W. Young, District Pioneer, Dies

William Young, Nelson district pioneer, died in Kootenay Lake General Hospital Weednesday, aged 93 years.

Born in Dundee, Scotland, he moved as a child to Sunderland, England with his parents. Later he worked in the shipyards until coming to Canoda in 1906.

He worked as a miner in Sudbury, Copper Cliff, and Cobalt, Ontario and came to Nelson in 1908, working in district mines around Nelson, Slocan, Kaslo, Lardeau until his enlistment in the Canadian Army in January, 1916.

He went overseas with the Pioneers, later being transferred to engineers and served in France He helped on the tunnelling on the famed Hill 60.

Returning to Nelson in May, 1919, he moved to Passmore the same year and farmed until 1946.

He was married at Sunderland, England in May 22, 1896, to the former Margaret Carr.

Besides his wife, he is survived by one son, Percy of Nelson; one daughter, Mrs. W. E. (Effie) Douthwaite of Burnt Island, Scotland; three grandsons and two great grandchildren.

Emergency Centres To Be Seen in Nelson

Two emergency hospitals and four advanced treatment centres are awaited by the Nelson branch of Civil Defence, Walter Wait, Civil Defence coordinator for the Eastern zone, told a class at CD orientation courses Tuesday night.

The evening session held at Nelson Junior High School was the second of a three-night orientation course offered Nelson and district residents by the Civil Defence.

Guest speaker is K. R. H. Roberts, provincial civil defence officer, who outlined eight services which are already keyed or are being training to aid the general public in the event of a nuclear attack.

Two such services are the police and firemen. Mr. Roberts emphasized that for every policeman and fireman now in service six more auxiliaries will be needed to efficiently cope with a national disaster.

Another service put on an emergency footing is that of health. Over the last six or seven years many thousands of British Columbia residents have received training in first aid and home nursing programs and the programs are still continuing throughout the province

ON CALL

Retired registered nurses are all on record and will be called upon if the need arises, he said. To service the province at the time of a nuclear attack there is $1,000,000 in medical supplies in store at a military camp in the Fraser Valley, the CD officer stated.

The advanced treatment centres, (ATA) which are expected to be shown in Nelson Oct. 21 are geared to treat 500 casualties in 24 hours. A 130-staff operation, the ATA is a speed-up production because of the numbers it is to handle. From there the patients will be taken either to hospital or home, depending on the extent of the injuries.

There are "quite a number" of advanced treatment centres in storage at Chilliwack, each of which is composed of 50 stretchers, individual lighting plants, and medical supplies for initial stages of treatment.

There are ten 200-bed emergency hospitals ready to be set up in a building such as a school. All equipment will fit in a semi-trailer transport truck, he said, and is so developed that it will take little space in storage or hauling but will do an adequate job of treatment if the need arises. The units come complete with lighting plants, auxiliary water systems, operating theatres and sterilizing equipment.

Fourth service geared for the benfit of the public is that of welfare. The welfare operation will care for those who lose all possessions in a disaster, emergency feeding, lodging and clothing.

Another service is that of the engineers: comprised of Department of Highways workmen, public utilities, city waterworks, and equipment belonging to private contractors.

The three services remaining fall under the Civil Defence organization and are Rescue, Warden Service and Headquarter Service.

Mr. Wait explained to the class the headway this branch of Civil Defence has made in regard to the eight services the provincial officer outlined.

Paget Plans Further Study Into Nelson Chamber Brief

CASTLEGAR —Highlighting the final hours of three weeks of public hearings into B.C. Power Commission's application to obtain water rights to begin the Columbia River hydro project was a submission made on behalf of the Nelson Chamber of Commerce by Ald .Boyd C. Affleck.

Following Mr. Affleck's presentation, which suggested diversion of the Kootenay River in place of the High Arrow Dam storage project, provincial water comptroller Arthur Paget indicated he would like to meet again with Mr. Affleck and his committee to discuss further the possibility of diversion.

The water rights comptroller showed much interest in Mr. Affleck's presentation and discussed with him several points made in the brief.

Mr. Paget contended that complete diversion of the Kootenay River would not be feasible but Mr. Affleck took exception to this, saying that the area which would be flooded, if the river was diverted, is almost entirely uninhabited.

Mr. Affleck's proposal as an alternative to High Arrow Dam is the construction of a diversion weir on Kootenay River at Canal Flat, opening into a dredged canal one mile long across gravel flats to Columbia Lake, which is approximately eight feet lower, diverting the entire flow of the Kootenay at this point into Columbia Lake.

He stated that this is the former course of the Kootenay River and has required heavy bank protection works to prevent it from resuming its former channel during high water periods.

Mr. Affleck contended that this plan would be simple and comparatively modest in cost and would flood only a few unproductive acres instead of the large acreage which would be flooded in the High Arrow project.

Howard Hunter, counsel for the commission, said that to suggest an alternative was not pertinent to the application, but Mr. Affleck insisted that every alternative should be considered "to the limit" before any destruction which would be caused by High Arrow could be justified.

Yanks 4 to 1 Favorites

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (AP) — Bookmakers here reported the new odds favoring New York to win the world series are 4 to 1. Before Wednesday's 2-0 victory over Cincinnati Reds, the Yankees were favored to take the best-of-seven series by 2½ to 1 odds.

Odds on today's game are 8½ to 5 for New York. The odds against New York winning in four stragiht games are 3½ to 1.

Boys Town Choir Sings Here Tonight

Boys Town Choir members singing in Nelson tonight come from a school that has become famed across the continent. The choir is singing here under sponsorship of the Knights of Columbus.

With a borrowed $90 and five boys, three from the juvenile court and two homeless waifs, Father Flanagan's Boys' Town was founded at Omaha, Nebraska, in December, 1917, by the late Rt. Rev. Msgr. Edward J. Flanagan. In the nearly 44 years which have since passed, 10,000 homeless, neglected and underprivileged boys have called Boys' Town their home.

Boys Town is a home and school for boys without a home. There are no barriers of race, creed or color. Boys from every state in the nation, the District of Columbia, Hawaii, Alaska, the Canal Zone, Costa Rica, the Phillipines, Canada and Mexico have been citizens of Boys Town. Six years ago a young Korean amputee, befriended by American soldiers who interceded with Msgr. Nicholas H. Wegner, director of Boys Town, to accept the young victim of war in that unhappy land, became a Boys Town citizen.

The various choirs number more than 200 voices. From these, boys were selected in 1946 for a concert tour which made an eight-week swing of the midwest and east, singing to more than 90 thousand people in 45 cities. Highlights of the tour were concerts at Carnegie Hall, New York City; Symphony Hall, Boston; Orchestra Hall, Chicago; the Mesonic Temple in Detroit; Kiel Auditorium in St. Louis; the Eastman Theatre in Rochester, N.Y., and Constitution Hall in Washington, D.C.

The following year the concert choir made a five-week tour of the west, principally through Arizona, California, Nevada, Utah and Colorado, and succeeding years have seen tours through various sections of the United States and several provinces of Canada. In 1957 a flying 10-day trip to Cuba was included in the tour. This year's tour, the choir's 16th, will take the group into the midwest, west and Canada.

Forks Hospital Given Go-Ahead

GRAND FORKS — Permission was received here Tuesday night by M. J. McGarry, chairman of the Boundary Hospital building committee, from Premier W. A. C. Bennett to go to tender on the new hospital.

Tenders for the $575,000 structure are to be in by Nov. 2 and construction is expected to begin within two weeks of that date. Plans indicate now that the hospital will be ready for occupancy 14 months after construction begins.

Approval for the hospital to go to tender was obtained at the cabinet meeting in Oliver by McGarry and his committee, who interrupted the busy session there.

Architect for the 35-bed hospital is D. P. Fairbank of Nelson.

Pays Fine For Trespassing

In Provincial Court on Tuesday before Stipendiary Magistrate William Evans, W. J. Bennett of Nelson pleaded guilty and was fined $25 and costs for trespassing on city property. The offense occurred at the city reservoir.

Vincezo Covucei of Riondel was fined $10 and costs for speeding.

H. E. Sanders of Nelson and a Nelson juvenile were convicted of separate counts of driving without due care and attention and fined $10 and costs each. The juvenile also had his license suspended for 12 months. He appeared before Juvenile Court Judge William Evans.

Mrs. Josephine Venaas of Slocan City was fined $10 and costs for driving while her license was expired.

Celgar, Local 480 Present Briefs at Castlegar

CASTLEGAR — The effects which construction of the High Arrow dam would have on operations of Celgar Ltd., have already been brought to the attention of the B.C. Power Company, revealed Ian Barclay, assistant general manager of the company, during the public hearings held here Tuesday.

He said discussions had been held between officials of the company and members of the commission in an endeavor to solve the problems which the provision of the dam and the storage reservoir would create.

The preliminary deliberations had given rise to the hope, said Mr. Barclay, that all the company's objections could be satisfactorily overcome.

Mr. Barclay went on to add that further discussions were to take place between the company and the commission, and he asked too, that Celgar might have the opportunity to make further submissions and representations to the water rights comptroller before a decision regarding a licence was reached.

The comptroller recalled that Celgar had filed a submission at the Revelstoke public hearings. This, he said, was still under advisement.

Mr. Barclay stated that discussions with the B.C. Power Commission had taken place as a result of the objection which the company had filed July 18 of this year.

He explained that his company objected in principle to any action which would affect Celgar's operations, since the company was not only a water rights licensee but also a riparian owner.

Specifically, continued Mr. Barclay, the company objected to the High Arrow scheme since the proposed work would have a detrimental effect on the Celgar operation and substantially increase operating costs, to a point where the future of the company would be jeopardized.

During the course of the dam's construction, said Mr. Barclay, the company felt the purity of the river water would be seriously impaired by silt and other foreign material, and since there would be changes in river levels it was felt that the transportation of logs on the river would be seriously impeded.

Following completion of the dam, he went on, the company feared there might be permanent and continuing detrimental effects caused to its operations.

The company thought, he said, that the quality of the water might continue to be impaired, transportation of wood would be seriously impeded, damage and flooding would be caused to company property and increased costs of operation would continue on a permanent basis.

Additionally, said Mr. Barclay, the company was concerned about the re-location of roads and ferries, the resettlement of communities, seepage from the proposed dam, and the likely accumulation of debris.

Representing the Consolidated Mining and Smelting Company and the West Kootenay Power and Light Company at the hearing, company solicitor Miller Mason recalled the brief on the Duncan Lake storage dam proposal which he had presented at the Kaslo inquiry.

Mr. Paget confirmed the receipt of that brief and said it would be taken under consideration at an adjourned meeting in Victoria. For the benefit of the Castlegar onlookers, he explained that the brief was of a technical nature, concerning water elevations and regulation of river levels.

UNION BRIEF

A lengthy brief was presented during the afternoon by Bill Muir, on behalf of Local 480, Mine-Mill.

The counsel for the B.C. Power Commission, Howard Hunter, contended, however, that much of the submission was "quite valueless."

In considerable detail, the brief objected to the draft treaty on the Columbia River hydro development as "the condoning of an encroachment on Canadian sovereignty."

Mr. Muir said the brief was presented to protect the interests of 3100 workers and their families who "naturally treasure outdoor recreation during their leisure time and at vacation periods, and who find the Lower Arrow Lakes most accessible."

The brief continued: "As the treaty puts a Canadian river under United States' control not only for 60 years, but for so long as the United States considers the dam useful, then such a dam is not in the best interests of the Canadian people now or for future generations."

Going on to say that the dam would be "a hideous sight" and would harm an area that has valuable farming land and great tourist potential, the brief asked that the High Arrow storage dam licence be refused and consideration given, instead, to the erection of a dam at Murphy Creek.

The brief contended that a dam in that location, when combined with the suggested Mica Creek dam, would provide adequate flood control and water storage.

Another submission made in the brief was that the erection of the High Arrow dam would be detrimental to industrial growth in the area.

"I submit that very, very large parts of this brief are quite irrelevant," remarked the commission's counsel when Mr. Muir had concluded.

The Mine-Mill representative was told by Mr. Paget: "The brief will be studied to a degree. If we find errors or inconsistencies we will draw these to your attention at a later date."

HERRIDGE INTERVENES

While the Renata Women's Institute was submitting a brief concerning the cemetery which it maintains, H. W. Herridge, MP for Kootenay West asked permission to question the witness.

He said that a confidential brief had indicated the intention for cement to be laid over cemeteries that would be inundated by the reservoir flooding. The Member of Parliament said that "the Anglican bishop" had protested at the Nakusp hearing to this action.

Dr. Keenleyside, chairman of the B.C. Power Commission, declared that it was "quite improper" for Mr. Herridge to introduce the remarks of a so-called confidential brief into the public hearing.

Mr. Paget also agreed that Mr. Herridge's remarks were improper. He pointed out, too, that it was an Anglican deacon who had made the submission at Nakusp.

Mr. Herridge insisted that the submission had been made on behalf of the bishop.

The B.C. Power Commission counsel suggested to the witness that the Women's Institute might care to get in touch with the relatives of the persons interred in the cemetery to discuss the possibility of transferring remains to new cemetery sites.

He assured her that the commission would bear the cost of exhumation and re-interment.

FISH LIFE

C. A. Anderson questioned Dr. Keenleyside concerning the effect which the dam would have on the fish life of the river.

Dr. Keenleyside replied that it had been generally found that raising of water levels was beneficial to fish life.

Again, Mr. Herridge asked leave to interject, insisting that it had been established it would cost one million dollars to restock the river and an additional $5000 each year to operate hatcheries.

"There is no assurance that that is a statement of fact at all," retorted Dr. Keenleyside.

Dealing with a further question concerning the payment of compensation, Dr. Keenleyside said the commission found it difficult to make any definite or specific proposals until it knew whether the licence had been granted.

"But we will do whatever is reasonably possible to meet the requirements of the individual," he asserted.

Pressed for further information, he again stated that improvements to land would be "considered in a generous manner" when arriving at a figure for compensation.

Two briefs made during the afternoon neither opposed nor endorsed the building of the dam: they merely made requests.

N. H. Hinton, commodore of the Arrow Boat Club, asked that consideration be given to retaining the waterway in a suitable condition for its continued use by boat owners.

H. Mottershead of Deer Park, presenting a brief he said had been endorsed by a hundred people living between Broadwater and Syringa, sought an assurance that if the dam were to be built residents of that area would have the benefits of a paved highway, telephone service and hydro power.

FIRST SUPPORT

The briefest submission made to the hearing was that of D. W. Forteath, who said he lived right at the dam site.

Mr. Forteath, succinctly stated: "All I have to say is I'm in favor of the dam going in and the quicker the better."

During the several days of hearings which the water rights comptroller has conducted, this was the first time he had heard unqualified support for the application of the B.C. Power Commission to build storage dams along the Columbia River.

Highlight of the weekend will be a match Monday between Royals and Columbus here. The Victoria matches feature Firefighters Saturday and St. Andrews Monday.

No Rate Increase Results From B.C. Hydro Deficit

VICTORIA — B.C. Hydro's 16th annual report, released here this week, revealed a small deficit in operations in the last fiscal year and indicated a probable surplus for 1961-62 operations.

The financial section of the report showed a deficit of $93,000 or 0.45% of revenue.

The report stated that reserves were adequate to meet the small deficit, and no rate increases were contemplated.

Total revenue for the fiscal year ended March 31 of this year was shown as $20,610,029, an increase of 8.1% over the corresponding year. The increase in expenses was held to 7.1%.

Average revenue per kilowatt hour from residential sales declined slightly from 2.41 cents to 2.40 cents. Residential electrical use on an average annual basis was metered at 4396 kilowatt hours up by about 4.3%.

Commercial users increased their average consumption by 16%. Average cost per kilowatt hour to business establishments was 2.79 cents, down 3.1% from the previous year.

The 16th Hydro report stated that work of the "Panel on Organization and Procedures," established in 1959, will be continued "to ensure maximum effectiveness and economy of operation."

The total payroll, including fringe benefit costs, amounted to $6,773,263, down more than $1,009,000 from the 1958-59 fiscal year.

CUSTOMER STATISTICS

The number of customers increased by 6.3% from 84,304, to 89,662. Almost 5000 new customers were added by new line construction and 393 were acquired by acquisition of utility properties at Valemount and Fort Nelson.

The customer increase was slightly ahead of the previous year and reflected the continuing population growth and public acceptance of rural electrification assistance program.

Density of customers in the B.C. Hydro service area decreased to 15.5 per mile of distribution line, against 16.1 at the beginning of the year.

The annual report stated that the projected development, under international treaty, of the Columbia River, received extensive attention by commission and staff during the year.

Daylight Saving Issue Alive Again

Most people at the end of September, when daylight saving time ends, feel that it would be as well if it continued throughout the year. They can see many advantages if it did, but it takes only a little opposition to prevent any such change.

As early as 1955 there was a movement on foot to have West Kootenay placed on Mountain Time rather than Pacific Standard and while almost every community was in favor of it it failed because of the lack of support from Trail city council.

The Trail position was that the municipalities have no power to hold plebiscites on the matter. This should now be clarified for it seems obvious that a city council can hold a plebiscite on anything it chooses, though whether it should implement any by-laws as a result is another matter.

It is possible that since 1955 the Trail council may have changed its mind. If it will not hold a plebiscite some other means might be found to test the present feeling in Trail. Perhaps the Chamber of Commerce, which indicated support at one stage, can suggest a way in which this might be done.

The Nelson Chamber of Commerce has re-opened the question and those communities which were in favor of the change still hold their views. The time may now be ripe for re-opening of the question in West Kootenay.

Nobody Is Very Pure

It is an unmitigated calamity that competitive testing of nuclear bombs has begun again; and the blame clearly belongs to Khrushchev or the military men who put pressure on him. Soviet propaganda on the subject is almost apologetic.

Yet it is clear from American comment that testing was pretty certain to be resumed some time soon—by one side or the other.

According to U.S. News and World Report, "there was a sigh of relief in military services of U.S." when Khrushchev made his announcement.

Admiral Lewis L. Strauss, former chairman of the U.S. Atomic Energy Commission, says: "President Eisenhower had made up his mind last fall . . . that he intended to resume testing. . . . But the turn of events in November (election of a Democrat as president) made it impossible for him to resume testing without tying the hands of his successor. . . . The minuet in Geneva (negotiation of a permanent test ban) is over. We should be glad it's over."

And here is the comment of Joseph Alsop, the political columnist: "It was highly desirable for the U.S. not to be the scapegoat for the resumption of nuclear testing. . . . The decision was taken in principle to resume U.S. testing if the Soviets continued intransigent about the treaty. . . . But a second decision was also taken to wait and see for a little, just in case the scapegoat role could be avoided." It was avoided.

Evidently there was some eagerness on both sides to start a new series of explosions. But great nations do not engage in such dangerous and possibly suicidal contests out of sheer recklessness or megalomania. Every arms race springs from mutual fear and distrust.

Nations fear one another when each suspects that "the enemy" may use force to impose its will in a disputed issue. The only way to remove the fear is to settle the disputes. There is no hope whatever of any agreement to limit arms until the political questions, like Berlin's future, are resolved.—Financial Post.

A Time for Strength

Prime Minister Diefenbaker's prediction that the cold war will be a part of our lives for many years to come is both gloomy and realistic. It is also a challenge to the free world to strengthen its determination to halt the Communist enslavement of the hearts and minds of men everywhere.

What Mr. Diefenbaker is advocating is not that the democracies arm themselves to the teeth with death-dealing weapons to frighten away their enemies but rather the initiation of a program to meet Premier Khrushchev's boast to take over the world without firing a shot.

For long the prime minister has called for a Western "Declaration of Freedom" which would enunciate clearly before all the uncommitted nations of the world our principles and our creed.

Such a statement of faith would offset our present negative approach to the ever-growing threat of Communism by injecting a spirit of hope into the smaller nations of the world now completely cowed by the threatening might of the U.S.S.R.

More than this, it would strengthen our own will to resist the mounting Russian campaign of terror—a campaign described by Mr. Diefenbaker as one of "infiltration, subversion, fright, propaganda and attrition designed to wear down and by piecemeal nibbling to destroy the weaker nations."

"Time," he adds, "is running short for the West. The contest . . . will not be won by default or by spasmodic approach."

The aspect of existing under the constant threat of war is not pleasant, but it is better than war itself. A show of moral strength on the part of the free nations and a display of positive action to regain the initiative could perhaps achieve a peace which a contest of arms could not.

As a first step toward this, the free nations must declare their principles and move toward a closer unity of purpose. As long as the West presents a weak front of divided interests Mr. Khrushchev can look for an easy victory.

But if we close our ranks he cannot win.—Victoria Colonist.

Ain't It Awful

When we were young we attended a school in an area where "cockney" accents were the rule rather than the exception. G. B. Shaw's Professor Higgins would have suffered if he had entered the school yard. We had male counterparts of Liza Doolittle by the bushel basket.

At home, any suspicion of dropped aitches called for swift punishment only equalled by the retribution meted out by using ain't.

We are therefore permanently inhibited from any kindly acceptance of that awful word ain't. To our horror, therefore, we read that the president of a U.S. publishing company has issued his approval. Ain't is now a respectable word, so says this company president, in fact, says he, ain't is "significant and enjoyable to average persons as well as scholars."

We ain't no scholar but we ain't going to take this order lying down. We shall shudder whenever we hear it and we shall blue-pencil it if anybody writes it. It's awful, ain't it?

Nakusp Hearings Please Teacher

To the Editor:

Sir — As a teacher for 15 years on the Arrow Lakes at four points in the much-criticized 'little red schoolhouse', it gave me a great deal of pleasure to attend the hearings in Nakusp on Friday and Saturday last, and witnessed with gratification how well and intelligently, as Mr. Paget admits, many of my former pupils testified at the hearings. If I had my former acute hearing I should have been further interested than I was, as unfortunately only those speakers who were used to public speaking were able to make their points understandable to everyone in the room, whose acoustic properties are none too good.

Although the persons attending varied from time to time, it was again most gratifying to see how splendidly residents from every district rallied to the defence of their homes and livelihood, and I do not think I am exaggerating when I say that at least 500 people at one time or other attended the hearings.

The hearings have certainly shown up the disadvantages and cruelty of the High Arrow to most of the settlers who invested their time and capital at a period when the dollar had the spending power of three or four under present conditions, and I am at a loss how Mr. Keenleyside can so easily testify that "the commission would assist the homeowners to find other places where they would be "comfortable and happy." How does he know how happy people will be when they are callously uorooted from their homes and evicted from their surroundings?

I wish also to express my agreement with both Mr. Donald Waterfield and Mr. Cook, who claimed with justice that the present hearings should have been held years ago, before any treaty had been signed. Many of us have felt that this is the case, and yet powerless except through letters to the newspapers to express any opinion.

I very much trust and hope that Mr. Affleck's plan, based largely on General MacNaughton's research, and approved by the Chamber of Commerce, will be utilized by the authorities, so that power without loss of the Arrow Lakes' beauty and agricultural potential will be possible.

Sell Waste Water To U.S., Urges

To the Editor:

Sir — Reading so many pros and cons and mathematical prophesies as to profits to be derived from the Columbia flood waters, and the many varied opinions thereon, I am led to believe that most people don't understand mathematical verdicts as good as horse-trades. And here is the way the Columbia horsetrade looks to me. Hoping I shall not hurt Canada's feelings too hard.

Canada has never been a favorable spot for export manufacturing. Partly because of high labor cost and investment profits; and partly because of her small population and home market, both rendering her ex-competitive in foreign markets. And even with cheap kilowatt power we have no reason to hope for a big change, for the cost of manpower is still against us in the race.

Canada's natural products for sale are those continually replenished by nature — her crops and forest products. And what we should be glad to get rid of most of all is the Columbia flood-waters running over the spillways and causing a lot of flood damage. We should be all the more jubilant to get a chance to dam it up and export it at a profit.

To claim that we need this power in B.C. is nonsense considering the enormous power potentials available in B.C., while selling our waste water to the U.S. would help to lessen our crippling trade deficit with that country.

On the other hand by retaining our share could we manufacture things here and sell them to the U.S. or anywhere else and be dollars ahead? It's impossible to see how we could better our position by refusing to export the flood water, as we could likely get stuck for their money more than they would get stuck for sources of power.

Departure From Justice?

To the Edtor:

Sir — When I arose on a point of procedure in the Public Hearing conducted in this city by the Comptroller of Water Rights in the matter of the conduct and percedure of the hearings, I did so because I felt that the Comptroller of Water Rights had no moral right to sit here and adjudicate the sworn testimony that was being given.

The Comptroller of Water Rights did, in 1955, make statement prejudicial to his position regarding the Columbia Development before the External Affairs Committee of the House of Commons.

He also received warm praise from the Minister of Lands and Forests when reading from a prepared address on the floor of the B.C. Legislature on February 8, 1961, wherein the Minister listed him among the members of the Policy Committee who assisted in consummating the Columbia River Treaty between Canada and the United States. How could he appraise any evidence objective with already preconceived views?

When I asked Mr. Paget to suspend the hearings forthwith, I did so on the basis that he had no moral and legal grounds to adjudicate or come to a judicial decision on this very important matter because of his already, close association with the formation of the Columbia River Treaty terms. He is, in effect, now adjudicating a policy which he himself helped to formulate.

Acting as he was, as a J.P. under authority of Clause 2(g) of the Water Act, he had right to sit as such with the already stated prejudices and it seems likely that the courts might well disallow the entire hearings in the event of an appeal being taken.

This in my well considered opinion is a complete departure from British Justice.

I have discovered something else in learning to read type. After I have got used to the letter I have to get used to making the combinations. This is very much the same as a child with a word though mine are usually syllables. Another thing which puzzles me is that the type seems smaller than the words it prints. This suggests that use accustoms one to print and that is perhaps why some people take so much time to read. They do not recognize words because of their small size.

Do you think I should have a different heading for this column? Some of my friends think so, but I would not know what to choose. I always liked the way my first city editor made headings for it. He had such a light humorous touch. I did think of calling it pot pourri, pronounced po puri, which is a jar of sweet smelling herbs and leaves but I can see some of m friends objecting that my column is anything but sweet smelling. A rose by any name would smell as sweet and the the same is conversely true of anything which does not smell as sweet, I suppose.

When does a baby become a child? We were watching our granddaughter climbing the stairs. She climbed one stair and then came down and then she climbed another and came down. "There", said her mother, "she is a girl. The boys would have climbed to the top and never thought of coming down but she is cautious." She has definitely passed the baby stage and true to her sex is now displaying her feminine appeal — and showing off.

For some time she has been able to stand up from a sitting position. She doesn't have to use her hands to help herself but she can't walk, though she tries, and laughs heartily at her failures. She is always laughing and reminds me of Wordsworth's "laughing Allegra."

I see Dean Scarfe is to speak at Castlegar on the Chant Report. I've been wondering lately who made the demand for the Chant Commission. It certainly wasn't the parents or the teachers. It must have been the newspapers (sic) and the Report itself seems to me to be a wasted and costly effort.

Of course, all sorts of people feel competent to tell teachers what to do just as there are many who can make better diagnoses than the doctors. The Penticton Herald devotes an editorial to condemning the objective test. I doubt if the writer knows how they are used and how often or why but it makes a nice column.

One statement I strongly disbelieve is that we are suffering from badly educated youth as a result. It has never been proved and just isn't so.

About Books

Say Uncle, by Eric Nicol and Peter Whalley.

It is not the easiest task to review a humorous book. A funny book is easy to read and "Say, Uncle," is witty, the cartoon sketches are a riot and it is a thoroughly enjoyable effort.

I think the reason "Say, Uncle" will undoubtedly seem funny to readers is because it seems to be an effortless book. The little volume looks like it was just tossed off, complete with cartoons, in about two evenings. Good cartoons, and great comedians, seem to make their fun effortlessly and this book does not try too hard to be funny.

It is a "completely uncalled-for history of the U.S." The clear, short, simple sentences put together with great charm by Mr. Nicol, make this nonsense almost believable. Or else if it is not believable we wish it were believable because it's a lot easier to digest than the average high school history text book.

Whalley's cartoons, just in case you haven't seen them in Canada's national magazines, are the style of cartoon that makes you think you drew the page yourself. It looks deceptively easy. It isn't.

And Whalley's cartoons are not bitter. The line is a kindly line; a black brush line that bulges to a fat cheerful middle; a line that has snap and dash; and a line which looks like someone was enjoying himself at the drawing board.

The text gets hopelessly but delightfully mixed-up. Reviewing the old west Nicol writes: "Most celebrated of the western desperadoes was Jesse James, who had a less distinguished brother, William, who was also known in England as Henry James. Between them the James boys pretty well covered the lively arts, though some of the credit goes to Whistler's Mother (Grandma Moses)."

Only criticism I have is there is too much art work and too little prose. The writing is brief and packs a punch, however. It is satire, or social criticism, or something or other and I suggest you find a place for it on your bedside table.

Mental Hospital Employee's Quick Action Saved Lives

WEYBURN, Sask. (CP)—The courage of a 21-year-old employee who locked himself and 14 patients in a room when flames licked through his escape route was credited with limiting the death toll in a fire Tuesday at the Saskatchewan Mental Hospital here.

Six elderly patients suffocated as a result of the yet - unexplained fire. Provincial health and fire officials started separate investigations.

Vic Messer, an employee at the hospital for only three weeks, found his escape route through a corridor blocked by heat and flames and herded 14 patients into a dormitory ward locking the doors.

He plugged a crack beneath the doors with a blanket to keep out the smoke, tried in vain to smash a window of tough safety glass, then waited until firemen chopped through the wall to rescue the group.

The six victims were suffocated in heavy smoke from a fire which apparently started in an isolation room opening onto a 50-bed male sick ward room.

No other patients were reported seriously affected by the fire. Three male nurses, overcome by smoke, recovered.

EVACUATE 64

Sixty-four patients were evacuated successfully by the staff of the 1,540-patient hospital from two wards on the fourth, and top, floor of the hospital in this town 100 miles southeast of Regina.

Stanley Rands, deputy director of the provincial health department's psychiatrist services branch, said damage to the building was confined mostly to that done by smoke and water.

Dead are: Frank Leonard, 71, Estevan, Sask.; Stuart McGibney, 79, Welwyn, Sask.; Gordon Archibald, 83, Regina; Clarence wanderson, 72, Churchbridge, Sask.; Thomas Sinclair 87, Cornduff, Sask., and Oliver Talseth, 73, originally from Norway and with no known relatives in Canada.

Messer waited for firemen and maintainance men to chop through a wall as he calmed the patients and moved their beds closer to fresh air, from open vents.

TELLS OF EVENTS

While his pretty young bride of six months gazed at him proudly, Messer told of events at the time of the fire.

He and some fellow employees were about to have a cup of coffee in the corridor shortly after 8 a.m. when they heard a patient call fire.

They found smoke coming from a small isolation room. Armed with a fire extinguisher and a pail of water they opened the door to be greeted by smoke and flames. They managed, however, to remove the patients without injury.

As the fire flashed along the corridor Messer helped to evacuate some seriously ill female patients from a dormitory and then went across the hall to check on the men's dormitory. But he found his way barred by the smoke.

"It was so thick I knew I couldn't get through it," he said.

"So I went back inside and blocked the door to keep as much smoke out as I could."

He said he had no idea of how long he waited in the smoke-filled dormitory until help arrived "but it sure seemed a long time."

Canada's Beer and Movies To Draw Crowds in Accra

By ALAN DONNELLY

ACCRA, Ghana (CP) — Canadian beer and movies are planned as crowd-pullers for a 10-day trade fair to be put on by Canada here next February

The fair will be part of a one-two punch aimed at eventually cracking the potentially big export market in West Africa. It will make a 10-day stand in Lagos, Nigeria, before moving to a 6½-acre site in front of Ghana's Parliament building.

Canadian exporters can expect to find plenty of competition in their efforts to sell in this part of the world.

A Communist Chinese trade fair was on when Trade Minister Hees was attending the Commonwealth economic ministers conference and he dropped in for a look at what the competition was offering.

Compared with what Canada is planning, the Chinese exhibition seemed unimaginative. The main crowd attractions were Chinese music and teams of Chinese operating industrial machinery.

OLD-FASHIONED

Deputy Trade Minister James A. Roberts, who knows the textile industry, described a Chinese spinning frame as old-fashioned.

Outside was a grain combine, antiquated by Canadian standards and out of place in a country that doesn't grow the kind of crops it is made for.

Canadians here aren't writing off the Chinese effort, however. Along with luxury goods—far out of the reach of the average Chanaian—were items such as inexpensive plows, treadle-driven sewing machines and gasoline lamps patterned after a Canadian model that is popular in Africa.

Another competitor for Canada is the United States, holding a trade fair in November. The Americans plan exhibits such as daily dismantling and erection of a prefabricated house, and an automatic laundry that will wash Ghanaian shirts while their owners tour the exhibits.

NO TARIFF EDGE

Moreover, Canadian goods must compete on equal tariff terms with American products. Commonwealth tariff preferences don't exist here.

The fair, scheduled for Feb. 14, will be the first exclusively Canadian. More than 80 firms are planning to exhibit their wares. This makes Canadian trade commissioner Kevin Osmond happy.

"I think we can do very much better here. The people who get the business here are those who come over and have a look at things and mak personal contacts."

Few Canadian salesmen have come till now—22 last year and 12 so far this year.

"But once they come, very few go back empty-handed," Osmond said.

Last year Canada exported $3,880,000 worth of goods to Ghana, a nation of 6,500,000. That was slightly more than 1959 and almost twice as much as China sent. U.S. exports were many times greater than either.

Main Canadian items were owned factory, office machinflour, aluminum for a Canadianery, marine engines and automobiles.

SELLS PEANUTS

The sales pitch in February will be much wider: textiles and shoes, household appliances, chemicals and pharmaceuticals, electrical, industrial and transport equipment, and food and beverages, including beer.

A Kitchener, Ont., firm already is selling canned peanuts in this land of the peanut. It's a luxury item here and there is no Ghanaian-canned product to compete.

Osmond sees little hope of Canada competing with the cheap goods from Japan and Hong Kong. But there was a growing market for consumer goods among the rising middle classes throughout the newly independent West African states. Canadian firms that had made good in selling to Ghana had found the door open, through local firms or agents, to other countries along the coast.

In the first four months of this year Canadian exports to Ghana had already exceeded half the total for all of last year though much of the gain resulted from the sale of 34 small aircraft. Ghana's ambitious program of economic expansion has raised hopes for Canadian sales of heavy equipment and engineering services.

Your Individual Horoscope

For Friday, October 6, 1961

MARCH 21 to APRIL 20 (Aries) — Accomplish as much as possible when opportunity presents itself. Recognize it, use it to advantage. If pressure and momentum build up, keep a calm, sane tempo so you don't overdo.

APRIL 21 to MAY 21 (Taurus) — Transmit your enthusiasm to those around you. Cheerful associations lend themselves to productive areas. Exercise your fine qualties daily adequately, you'll progress noticeably.

MAY 22 to JUNE 21 (Gemini) — Not all favorable nor all restricting. Be careful to analyze offerings for "bests" to accept. Don't take hearsay as agreement or something on which to base opinion. Tact essential.

JUNE 22 to JULY 23 (Cancer) — If you run into snags, stop sufficently long to consider whether you are proceeding correctly. Don't join with dissenters, pessimists, objectionists. Be kind to health, nerves.

JULY 24 to AUGUST 23 (Leo) — Set sights on only worthy objectives. Waste no time with cluttered details, immaterial projects. Concentrate on needs. Retain cheerful, common sense attitude, rewards will be yours.

AUGUST 24 to SEPTEMBER 23 (Virgo) — Do not lose sight of determined objective while browsing about on other matters. Suddenly the day is gone and the opportunity might slip by wth it. Keep head up, eyes open wide.

SEPTEMBER 24 to OCTOBER 23 (Libra) — Your plants well aspected. Right day for certain things but others need further evaluation. Be observing, mindful of future needs. Temptation to veer off course, don't be a victim.

OCTOBER 24 to NOVEMBER 22 (Scorpio) — Planetary indications on up trend. Don't mind obstacles, you have the wherewithal to offset and surmount them. You aid progress by noting what clicks, or fails, about you.

NOVEMBER 23 to DECEMBER 21 (Sagittarius) — Invigorating Mars advocates a genuinely strong program, augmented by sustained effort. Keep up to par on routine, and look for that something extra to advance other items, too.

DECEMBER 22 to JANUARY 20 (Capricorn) — Don't be left out of day's promising picture through lack of enthusiasm or sturdy desire to improve. You have great ability, use it in constructive channels. Promote worthy ideas.

JANUARY 21 to FEBRUARY 19 (Aquarius) — Uranus indicates an urge to accomplish progress in a concrete manner. Make new tries where you missed before. Consistent application in sound productive lines sponsored.

FEBRUARY 20 to MARCH 20 (Pisces) — Detach yourself from hindering agencies such as fear, doubt, lack of confidence. Be free to act on your own, backed up by sage advice of competent heads. Think in terms of progress.

YOU BORN TODAY are roundly able, keen, with strong will power, definite ideas. Magnetic personality, very talented, and may possess considerable mechanical skill. You usually train self to take the disappointments in life "in stride," and don't permit them to affect work, disposition. But you Are sensitive. Think happy and you will be happy all through life. That, faith in God, and good health are most precious things, cannot be bought with money. You can be depended upon. Be not distracted by the irrelevant. Do a thorough job in whatever your line or duty. Must take occasional recreational periods, mingle with interesting people, replenish spent energies. Millar-Jones Wedding Vows Heard at Sacred Heart Church

CRESTON — Sacred Heart Church in Kimberley was scene of a Nuptial Mass for the marriage service uniting the former Maurine Evelyn Jones, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Maurice Jones of Wynndel, and Mr. Danny Richard Millar of Marysville, son of Mr. and Mrs. Richard Millar of Calgary.

Rev. J. J. Cheevers officiated at the double ring service.

The bride was lovely in her waltz-length nylon net wedding gown as she walked down the aisle on the arm of her father. Her gown featured a bouffant skirt with nylon lace over-panels to the hemline. Embroidered nylon lace ornamented the bodice, with its scalloped neckline trimmed with mother of pearl sequins and seed pearls and lily-point sleeves. She carried a spray of pink rosebuds on a prayer book and her fingertip veil was held by a pearl-trimmed coronet.

Her sister, Miss Lorraine Jones, as bridesmaid chose pale blue brocaded taffeta with white accessories, and she carried white and pink gladioli.

Mr. Robert Millar, brother of the bridegroom, was best man and usher was Mr. Anthony Spence.

Mrs. Wieghill of Kimberley was organist and soloist Mrs. M. Sykes sang "Panis Angelicus" and "On This Day."

A reception was held in Sacred Heart Church Parish Hall, which was decorated with pink and white streamers and bells and clusters of pink roses. The bride's table was centered with a three-tiered wedding cake, flanked with lighted tapers and seasonal blooms.

Father Cheevers proposed a toast to the bride and the best man proposed a toast to the bridesmaid.

For going away, the bride changed into a yellow sheath dress with beige topcoat and white accessories. Following a wedding trip to points west, the newlyweds are taking up residence in Kimberley.

Principals Creston Wedding Make Their Home in Nelson

Nelson is the home of recent newlyweds RCMP Constable and Mrs. R. J. Williams, who were united in marriage at a pretty wedding ceremony held at the Holy Cross Church in Creston.

Rev. J. J. Morelli officiated at the double ring wedding service at which the former Kathleen Ellen Woolsey, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. C. W. Woolsey of Creston, became the bride of Constable Williams, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Williams of Saskatoon.

Roses ornamented the church for the service and guests were ushered to pews marked with red roses and white streamers, carrying out the red and white color theme emphasized in the wedding procession by scarlet tunics of the R.C.M.P. and white gowns of the bride and her attendants.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride was gowned in floor-length nylon over satin. The gown's sequin-trimmed lace bodice featured short sleeves and she wore matching lace elbow-length mitts. A sequin-covered tiara held her waist-length veil and she carried a prayer book on which was fastened a nosegay of six red roses tied with white satin streamers.

Matron of honor Mrs. Harold Leadbetter and bridesmaid Miss Judy Plank wore identical ballerina-length dresses of white nylon over taffeta with matching elbow-length gloves, red cummerbund, red velvet hats trimmed with a white tulle frill and red shoes. Little flower girl, Melaine Arbuckle wore a red velvet frock with white accessories and floral bandeau.

The mother of the bride was attired in blue silk with pink accessories and corsage of pink carnations. The mother of the groom choose navy with magenta accessories and white carnation corsage.

Constable J. I. Randle supported the bridegroom as best man and Constables L. L. Doyle and R. M. Bennington were ushers. All wore the R.C.M.P. full dress uniform.

Wedding music was played by organist Sister Mary of the Cross and soloist Mrs. Ed Gatzke sang "On This Day."

White, blue and gold streamers ornamented the Prince Charles High School Cafeteria, where the reception was held. The bride's table was covered with a white linen cloth and held arrangements of roses. A separate table held the wedding cake, flanked by tapers in silver holders.

Mr. William Lechuk of Trail proposed a toast to the bride and Constable Randle to the attendants. Telegrams from Por Coquitlam, Vancouver, Rosthern, Sask., and Saskatoon were read.

A dance followed the reception. Music was provided by Mr. Charles Bayton, Mr. Jack Potyok and Mr. Adrian Kromhout.

For a wedding trip to Spokane and points south, the bride changed into a tan knitted suit with brown asseccories and red rose corsage.

They have taken up residence at 710 Josephine Street in Nelson.

Out of town guests were: Mrs. Sadie Caston, Vancouver; Mr. and Mrs. William Lechuk, Trail; Mrs. Henry Le Moigne and Miss Effie Caston, Nelson; Miss Betty Anne McMillan, Kamloops; Mr. and Mrs. Harold Leadbetter, Mrs. Vince Smith, Cranbrook; Mr. and Mrs. Percy Woolsey and Garry, Calgary; Mr. and Mrs. J. Williams, Saskatoon, Sask.; Mrs. W. L. Kerr, Sutherland, Sask.; and Mr. and Mrs. Mike Talarico, Fernie.

Principals Kinnaird Wedding Go to Coast

KINNAIRD — Marriage vows uniting Sharon Maureen White and Mr. James William Bishop were spoken at a pretty afternoon ceremony. Baskets of pink, yellow and mauve gladoli lent a gracious effect, spaced on either side of the altar in the United Church at Kinnaird for the wedding of the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Henry White of Kinnaird and the son of Mr. and Mrs. Walter Bishop of Trail.

Rev. R. Booth of Trail officiated. Wedding music was played by Mrs. W. Walper.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride was attended by Miss Barbara Bishop, sister of the groom, and Miss Roberta White, sister of the bride.

The bride wore a semi-formal length taffeta gown, fitted on princess lines to the hips, with bodice of imported lace. Matching lace medallions were featured on the full net overskirt and on the softly draped neckpiece, which extended to the back of the neck in gathers, falling to streamer effect to the waistline. Lily-point sleeves complemented the back-interest of the wedding gown.

Her chapel veil, layers of illusion net, was fastened to a coronet of pearls and arranged on the fashionable coiffure of her bronze gold hair. She carried a spray of talisman roses.

The bridal attendants wore identical dresses of aqua organdy, full-skirted, with boleros. Thei rhats were white nylon with softly pleated brims. Their bouquets were sprays of yellow and bronze mums. Flower girl, Catherine White, sister of the bride wore flocked nylon in white with headband of daisies. She carried a basket of white daisies, off-set with a huge bow of aqua satin.

The bridegroom was supported by Mr. Roger Watson of Trail and ushers were Mr. Dennis Williamson, Mr. Terry Keefe, both of Trail and Mr. Kieran O'Neil of Vancouver.

Parents of the principals and Mrs. "Grandma" Palm of Christina Lake, the groom's grandmother, assisted the wedding party in receiving the guests in an outdoor setting at the home of the bride's parents.

Mrs. White chose a boucle suit in sapphire blue for her daughter's wedding. She wore a hat of rosewood, with matching gloves and a corsage of pink carnations. The groom's mother wore a black and white afternoon dress with black accessories and corsage of blue tinted carnations.

A buffet supper was served in the Kinnaird Hall, prepared by a number of close friends of the White family.

The three tiered wedding cake, with traditional decor, was surrounded by tiny rose buds set in an attractive base and flanked by pink tapers. The cake was cut by Mrs. E. A. Montpellier of Trail, aunt of the bride, and later was served by the bridesmaids.

Toasting the bride was her uncle, Mr. E. Montpellier, while Mr. Roger Watson proposed the toast to the maid of honor and bridesmaid.

For travelling on a honeymoon to Coeur d'Alene and Spokane, the bride changed to a black tailored suit with mauve top coat and mauve accessories. She wore a corsage of gold-sprayed carnations.

The happy couple reside in Vancouver where Mr. Bishop is continuing his study in accountancy at the University of British Columbia and Mrs. Bishop is employed in secretarial work with Associated Engineers.

Out of town guests included Miss Donna Billingsley, Miss Lori Degan and Mr. Kieran O'Neil, all of Vancouver, and Mrs. Palm of Christina Lake.

CONFIDENTIALLY YOURS
—by Byrne Hope Sanders

TORONTO, October 5th — Maybe the price is right . . . but ready cash is the problem . . . that's when you should take a trip to your neighbourhood branch of the BANK OF MONTREAL. Tell the people there about your problem and, chances are, you'll find them ready and willing to finance your new car or household furnishings — or whatever it is you want — on the famous B of M Family Finance Plan. That's the low-cost plan that lets you put all your personal credit needs under one roof — and it's life-insured, too! So, whenever there's something you'd really like to own — remember the B of M and the Family Finance Plan.

I'VE REDISCOVERED A WONDERFUL VEGETABLE TREAT for the whole family! Sauerkraut served hot with meat or cold in salads is both healthful and economical. I always look for LIBBY'S SAUERKRAUT because Libby's have found the secret of making the most delicious sauerkraut I've ever tasted — crisp, mellow-flavored, always just perfect. I guess that's why 9 out of every 10 cans of sauerkraut sold in Canada come from Libby's — a name you can trust. Write to me at 1411 Crescent St., Montreal, for Libby's new recipe folder "Quick 'N Thrifty Sauerkraut Recipes" or pick one up at your grocer's.

BE HEALTHIER, WEALTHIER AND WISER . . . make a habit of using BLUE BONNET MARGARINE instead of the costly spread now on your table. Yes, when you serve Blue Bonnet, you'll be serving yourself to health and wealth — because all-vegetable Blue Bonnet's both nutritious and budget-wise. What's more, it's truly delicious, with a fresh, sunny-sweet flavour everyone will enjoy. Use Blue Bonnet in your cooking and baking and as a topping for vegetables, as well as a spread for bread. I know you'll agree that Blue Bonnet Margarine makes just about everything taste better.

IT'S FALL-CLEANING TIME . . . a time to carry on the war against slow, sluggish drains. How? Just use GILLETT'S DRAIN CLEANER in every drain . . . once a week. And I specifically recommend Gillett's Drain Cleaner . . . for I know from experience that no liquid disinfectant can budge the muck that lodges in sink and bathtub drains. You see, Gillett's Drain Cleaner has a special churning, boiling action . . . quickly and completely scours away every bit of this germ-breeding mess that collects in clogged-up drains. All you do is put 2 tablespoons of Gillett's Drain Cleaner in every drain and instantly they're fast-running, clean and sanitary.

Training Tops But Pro Ballet 'Overcrowded'

By ALAN WALKER

TORONTO (CP) — When Janice Mercer was nine she started taking ballet lessons. Two years later she quit.

Now she's 15, goes to high school, likes rock 'n' roll, automobiles and boys. And she is thinking of resuming her ballet training.

Not that she has any real hopes of becoming a professional ballerina. But she says she now realizes that her dance training benefited her in a way she never was aware of before.

She took a look at herself and her friends this year and noticed she was different.

"I walk straighter. I move better. I don't seem to be as awkward."

She is more graceful and poised than many of her friends and this is noticed by the boys.

CAN BE FUN

Janice is like hundreds of girls who take ballet lessons when they're young but never become professional dancers.

Marjorie Haskinns, associate teacher with the Academy of Ballet here, says ballet is an "overcrowded, heart - breaking profession."

For this reason the academy is not particularly concerned with training career dancers. As a matter of fact, the possibility of dancing in Swan Lake is never mentioned to the student.

"We don't encourage them to think professionally," Miss Haskinns said.

The ballet instructor's main problem is to keep the students interested. It's difficult to make the complex exercises of a professional ballerina seem like fun and the academy sprinkles rigid, silent limb - stretching movements with folk dances.

MANY RETURN

Some of the academy's 200 students have at one time or another stopped lessons and then have returned to the fold years later.

"They're annoyed with themselves because they quit," said Miss Haskinns.

The National Ballet School, connected with the National Ballet of Canada, is, on the other hand, primarily interested in turning out professionals. But Principal Betty Oliphant uses the same methods to maintain interest among the students.

"The beginning of formal ballet is too static for young children," said Miss Oliphant. "They must see a reason for what they are doing."

Young people like Janice can come back to their lessons after a lapse of a few years and can recover some of their previous proficiency. But muscles have to be caught young and trained rigorously over a period of time.

Ballet teachers have a constant struggle to convince their students of the benefits of ballet training. Janice is one of the lucky ones. She realized before it was too late what she could gain. So it's back to the practice bar.

Coast Laundry Owner Hears From Kai-shek

VANCOUVER (CP) — An 84-year - old Vancouver Chinese has received personal messages from Chiang Kai-shek, president of Nationalist China, and vice-president Chen Cheng.

The messages were sent in tribute to Woo Kee, the retired owner of one of Vancouver's two remaining Chinese laundries.

About 25 years ago there were many Chinese laundries in Vancouver. However, the introduction of modern equipment has resulted in all but two closing down.

Woo Kee came to Canada from China in his teens and worked in the B.C. interior before starting his business here in a Chinatown shack in 1900.

This summer he celebrated his 84th birthday and a banquet was held in his honor. About 450 relatives and friends attended.

Wealthy Hong Kong businessman Sam Sheu Lim, a relative, was one of the guests. The messages from Chiang Kai-shek and Chen Cheng were read at the banquet.

Fake Love Call Bugs All Male Mosquitoes

By JOHN E. BIRD

OTTAWA (CP) — Scientists poking gently into the "ears" of mosquitoes with sensitive electronic apparatus have determined that certain sounds appeal to the pesky insect.

And they have produced one artificial sound that puts the love call of the female skeeter to shame. It's so alluring to male mosquitoes that they fly in swarms to its source—a death trap.

By finding ways to entice the male mosquito from its mate, scientists have added greatly to the fund of information in their search for a method to control this foe of the fisherman, the hunter and the summer vacationer.

The electronic gear that can produce a better mating call than that of a female skeeter has been used at Belleville, Ont., by the Entomology Research Institute for Biological Control, a branch of the federal department of agriculture.

MORE SEX APPEAL

Officials of the institute say tests they have conducted make it obvious that their complicated equipment can produce a sound that has more sex appeal than that given off by female mosquitoes.

Scientists, working under Dr. George Wishart, senior research officer at the institute, placed a tiny electrode in the Johnston's organ or "ear" of both male and female mosquitoes. The electrode is much smaller than the mosquito's hearing organ, which is about the size of the head of a small pin.

In this test, Dr. Wishart learned that both male and female mosquitoes have the ability to hear sounds. But while microphonics are set up in the "ears" of both sexes, only the male mosquito responds or is attracted by sounds.

Dr. Wishart then simulated the flight sound—mating call—of the female mosquito. This attracted male mosquitoes at distances of up to 10 inches. However, artificial sounds produced by Dr. Wishart's electronic equipment attracted males from much greater distances.

NOT PRACTICAL

Controlling mosquitoes by luring the male into traps with sexy sounds is not expected to be practical or economic. The number of male mosquitoes that would be prevented from mating would not be enough to justify the cost of the complicated equipment required.

However, the present work forms part of an over-all research effort to find a satisfactory method to control mosquitoes. Any information about their habits aids in this work.

Another part of this research involves control of mosquitoes by repelling them with static electricity. This would prevent them from finding resting places, hindering reproduction.

Meanwhile, best results in mosquito control continue to be through biological methods. Small parasitic worms are distributed in mosquito - infested areas to feed on the larvae of mosquitoes.

Hours After Fall Lies Hurt 9

RISING FAWN, Ga. (AP)— An injured teen-age boy was lifted by stretcher from a crevasse in a mountain cave Wednesday after lying semi-conscious about nine hours on a ledge about 50 feet below the cave's floor.

Rescue workers estimated it might take another two or three hours to work their way half a mile to the exit of the narrow cave.

The boy, 15-year-old Ronnie Reese, was on a ledge halfway down a 100-foot crevasse where he fell shortly after dark Tuesday while exploring the cave with three other youths.

Rescue operations were hampered by loose rocks, some several feet in diameter, around the top of the crevasse. Workers feared that the slightest nudge might send the rocks crashing down onto the injured boy.

The crevasse where he fell is about half a mile from the opening of the cave. Workers had to inch their way across another deep pit to reach the scene.

The extend of the boy's injuries was not known, but workers who reached him from time to time described him as "swinging in and out of consciousness." Ronnie's brother Byron, 17, who was another member of the party exploring the cave, said the boy appeared to have broken both legs.

Armstrong-Jones' Elevation Meets Mixed Reaction

LONDON (Reuters) — Disappointment and regret were the overwhelming sentiments in the British press Wednesday on the news that commoner Antony Armstrong-Jones has been given a title.

The Queen Tuesday bestowed the title of Earl of Snowdon on the 31-year-old former society photographer who married Princess Margaret last year. Margaret is expecting her first baby soon.

The Earldom of Snowdon was chosen to note Armstrong-Jones' Welsh origins. Snowdon is the highest mountain (3,560) feet in Wales and is in County Carenarvonshire, where the new earl's father, Ronald Armstrong-Jones, is a county deputy lieutenant, an honorary title.

Lord Beaverbrook's Daily Express reproduced a gazeteer-style reference to Snowdon, describing its position, height and altitude and headlined the announcement Tony the Mountain Peer.

COOL TO TITLE?

But The Daily Mirror in a front-page editorial says: "The Mirror has a feeling—despite official indications to the contrary—that he did not really want this title.

"We have a feeling that he would much prefer to go on being known as Mr. Antony Armstrong-Jones.

"This newspaper has every sympathy with his very likable and unassuming bloke.

"And because we think he will take it as a compliment it is certainly intended to be, The Mirror will continue to refer to him as Mr. Jones. Or, better still, as Tony."

The Guardian says in an editorial that "commoners may feel a tinge of disappointment that the plain, honest Mr. Armstrong - Jones has had a title thrust upon him."

Daily Mail writer Anne-Scott-James sees the title as "the complete submergence of Tony, the person, who, as from today, is only Lord Snowdon, the shadowy public figure."

TITLE 'A PITY'

The Daily Sketch depicts Armstrong-Jones in an earl's regalia with the heading Lord Tony, it's a pity.

The Daily Herald says "goodbye Mr. Jones" and adds: "Fascinating prospect—he may take part in debates" in the House of Lords."

Under the editorial banner of No Honor the Communist Daily Worker asks: "What, may we ask, has he done to achieve this distinction? Has it been given for proficiency in parenthood?

If so, he still needs to prove himself."

Buckingham Palace also announced Tuesday that the Queen had conferred upon him the subsidiary title, Viscount Linley of Hymas — a title that may be passed on in a few weeks if the child Princess Margaret is expecting is a boy.

If the child is a girl, she will be known as "Lady (first name) Armstrong-Jones."

Boy or girl, the child will be fifth in line of succession to the throne.

Linley is a name in the family of the Armstrong - Jones' mother, the Countess of Rosse, and Hymas is the name of her family home in Sussex. She was married to the Earl of Rosse after her divorce from the elder Armstrong-Jones.

CANADA, U.K., HELP ARAB REFUGEE GIRLS

LONDON (CP)—Canadian and British funds raised under the World Refugee Relief Year campaign will be used to build vocational training schools for 630 girls at Ramalah in Jordan.

Canada contributed a little more than $1,000,000 and the British committee earmarked $1,239,000 to provide vocational education for refugee Arab girls from Palestine.

The money will be handled by the education department of the United Nations World Relief Agency.

The agency plans to build a school to train teachers and a vocational institute that will teach, among other things, dressmaking, hairdressing and various crafts connected with food.

Outlook Brighter For New UN Secretary

UNITED NATIONS (CP)—Prospects appeared a little brighter today for East - West agreement on naming a United Nations secretary-general.

Informed American sources expressed guarded optimism that a formula might be announced—perhaps when Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko meets U.S. State Secretary Dean Rusk in Washington later this week.

External Affairs Minister Howard Green of Canada, in a major policy speech to the 100-country UN General Assembly Tuesday, stressed the urgency of picking a successor to the late Dag Hammarskjold in view of the uncertainties confronting the UN in The Congo.

This could be done on an interim basis while a longer-range solution is being worked out, Green said, but the appointee should have full powers to make decisions and keep going the essential work of the UN secretariat.

REJECTS PROPOSALS

Green rejected Soviet and other proposals to dilute the authority of the secretariat. He also urged the UN to "find means of compelling" the nuclear powers to stop testing atomic weapons and to help the great powers seek a solution in Berlin.

Soviet delegates were giving the impression that their only demand on the naming of a temporary successor to Hammarskjold is that he be screened by the Security Council, where Russia holds the veto power.

But if the selection is left to the General Assembly alone, as advocated by some Western nations, the Soviet Union will refuse to recognize the new secretary-general "even if he were a Russian," one high Soviet source said. There is no veto in the General Assembly.

Latest speculation centred on a plan to name an acting secretary-general with five deputies. Two would come from the Soviet Union and the United States, the other three from Latin America, Asia and Africa.

There was no indication whether such a plan would be acceptable to the Russians, who have proposed naming a secretary-general to work with three deputies representing East, West and neutrals.

The Russians are telling other delegations that this formula is a far-reaching compromise and that they have dropped the idea that the deputies would exercise any veto over the actions of the temporary secretary-general.

BUYS PITCHER

PORTLAND (AP) — Pitcher Gordon Jones, 31, a veteran of several major league campaigns with San Francisco and Baltimore, Tuesday was purchased by Portland Beavers of the Pacific Coast Baseball League. The Beavers bought his contract from Rochester of the International League.

British Gov't Reviews Sunday Laws

LONDON (Reuters)—The government has settled itself to exorcise the spectre of the wicked continental Sunday.

Home Secretary R. A. Butler has ordered a review of the Sunday observance laws, hotly defended by some religious groups but cheerfully ignored by most Englishmen.

This is not to imply that Britons are Sabbath law-breakers. But it is difficult to take seriously a hodgepodge of archaic legislation that, for example, says you can paddle but not row a boat on Sunday.

England's Sunday laws reach back into the 14th century when Sunday fairs and markets were banned.

A law still on the books prohibits Englishmen from indulging in such sports as cricket and golf in a neighboring parish on Sunday. Hence, Prince Philip could be put in the stocks or fined if he left his home palace area on the Sabbath for a game of polo.

The laws are particularly hard on performers. They can appear on stage, but can't dress up.

Among other things, Britons can buy fresh peas, but not canned peas; buy a pint of beer, out not a Bible; go to the movies if they live in the right town.

The review of Sunday laws will cover England and Wales, but not Scotland or Northern Ireland.

Chamber Speakers Agree On Need For Faster Economy

By FORBES RHUDE
Canadian Press Business Editor

HALIFAX (CP) — Canada's economy must grow faster if jobs are to be found for people who will need them in the future, three speakers at the Canadian Chamber of Commerce annual meeting said Tuesday.

New thinking is needed in government, business and labor in such fields as taxation, trade, education, research and production, they said.

Speakers in a session on "Canada's economic ills" were Dr. John J. Deutsch, vice-principal of Queen's University; N. R. Crump, chairman and president Canadian Pacific Railways; and A. J. Little, Toronto, chairman of the Canadian Tax Foundation.

Dr. Deutsch put the needed growth at between four and five per cent annually in real production compared with the growth in gross national product of around two per cent in recent years.

AGAINST ISOLATION

Dr. Deutsch and Mr. Crump both turned down protectionism as an answer to Canada's problems. Dr. Deutsch said:

"The answer to the problems of trading blocs and of increasing low-wage competition does not lie in a retreat to some new form of economic isolationism. Inside a protective shell the Canadian market is much too small for a satisfactory rate of growth."

Mr. Crump said "our problems cannot be removed by tariff action. Canada must export. The danger in further enclosure of the Canadian market to goods of foreign manufacture is that other countries may retaliate and this will damage our export markets for many Canadian raw materials and some processed goods. The crux of the problem is to find our niche in the world economy."

Dr. Deutsch and Mr. Little both emphasized a need for technical education.

SKILLS OBSOLETE

"Old occupations and traditional skills are becoming obsolte with amazing rapidity," Dr. Deutsch said, "and this calls for an entirely new approach to the retraining of manpower."

Mr. Little said the recent tax amendment granting a form of accelerated depreciation to companies was "an example of an incentive that is timid and cautious, not bold and imaginative."

He said Canada needs a national plan and suggested a planning department which might be an adjunct of the department of finance or of trade and commerce, but which could be under a separate ministry of economic development.

Mr. Crump said the European Common Market presents both problems and opportunities for Canada. On the opportunity side was the rapidly increasing prosperity of the Common Market countries. In certain areas demand might increase at a faster rate than could be supplied from within the market.

Two Types of Problem Boys In B.C. Industrial School

BRANNEN LAKE, B.C. (CP) There are two types of "problem" boy at the British Columbia Industrial School here—the one who runs away and the one who wants to come back.

It's easy enough for either to have his way.

To get out of the provincial correctional institution, a group of low modern buildings on the shore of this central Vancouver Island lake, all you have to do is start walking. The honor system substitutes for bars, armed guards and locked gates.

To get back all you have to do is commit another offence—the transportation is provided.

Superintendent F. G. Hassard says neither of the problem types should be here at all. The runaways — 47 of the 366 admitted last year—should be put in a closed institution and the ones who want to return usually are too young to be at an institution at all.

NEED DECENT HOMES

The boys who come to rely on the security of the school life usually are in need of a decent home rather than institutional discipline, Mr. Hassard says.

This type of boy is usually under 12 and is terrified when the time comes to face again the insecurity of the world from which he came. Staff members say they have found such youngsters in tears when released at the end of their sentences.

But there is no minimum age for the school—it must take all offenders up to 18 years of age sent to it by the courts.

Youngest boy here at present is nine years old; he was sentenced for lighting a fire by dropping a burning match into a garbage can. Mr. Hassard says he was "a little lost soul" when he arrived and was issued with khaki shirt and trousers, army boots and melton jacket.

OLDER BOYS WORK

These youngsters are given special classes while the older boys are working in the woods, on the farm or in the trade workshops. The older boys do a full eight-hour work day.

The number of runaways and repeaters recently attracted criticism in the B.C. legislature. Magistrate Gordon Scott of Vancouver has said the school is inefficient because most of the boys aren't kept here long enough.

Mr. Hassard is opposed to introduction of security measures designed to prevent escapes. These would destroy the emphasis on responsibility and mutual trust, he says.

And if the community was doing its bit, there wouldn't be so many repeaters, he says. The real need is for efforts to straighten out delinquent parents, for places with homelike atmosphere for the "little Fellows" and a break for youngsters when they get out.

He doubts that longer terms would help, either.

A group which spent an average of only three months here last year produced 10 per cent repeaters. Of a group with an average of 8.3 months in 1956, 14.4 per cent proved to be repeaters.

HELICOPTERS OUT

OLYMPIA, Wash. (AP) —The State Game Commission has ruled against a proposal by a Moses Lake firm to shuttle hunters by helicopters to and from shooting areas in central Washington. One commissioner said Tuesday: "Can you imagine sitting in a blind ready to shoot and in comes a helicopter? I don't think the duck hunters would be very happy."

U.K. Postmen Have Troubles

HASELEY (CP)—Delivering letters to this secluded British village near Oxford is a frustrating hit - or - miss affair for postman Bill Slater.

The village has no street names and most of the numbers of the community's 170 houses are on the inside, not the outside of the front doors.

Even the few numbers Slater can see are scattered haphazardly across the village instead of running consecutively.

"The problem is when you get letters simply addressed to 'The occupier, number so-and-so,'" he said. "I can deliver only because I know people by name. Now I'm asking the local council to name the streets and give the houses numbers."

The reason why Haseley's 600 residents are so secretive is that the village was once part of a large estate which has since been broken up.

The estate agent gave the houses numbers for his own bookkeeping purposes. They were not postal numbers, so he put them on the inside of the houses.

Accuse Nasser of Weakening Syrians

By DAVID LANCASHIRE

DAMASCUS, Syria (AP) —President Nasser's agents moved "like an octopus to weaken the Syrian Army, suffocate freedom of citizens and to fill prisons," says the new Syrian Army commander.

Gen. Abdel Karim Zahredin told reporters Tuesday that was the reason the Syrian Army rose against Nasser's United Arab Republic last week and forcibly severed Syria's 3½-year-old ties with Egypt.

Zahredin also accused Cairo agents of stealing millions of pounds worth of Syrian arms and equipment for shipment to Egypt.

He said Nasser's intelligence officers filled Syria's prisons with political prisoners and stifled individual liberties.

"The army's only aim was to redress wrongs and it was pledged not to interfere with the political life of Syria," he said.

Informed sources said that one way Nasser weakened the Syrian Army was to send several dozen Syrian officers to Communist countries as students. They said the action was aimed at preventing such an uprising as that which occurred and that Syria now has demanded their prompt return.

CAPTURE PRISONERS

Interior Minister Adnan Kuwatly told newspaper men the new Syrian regime had found a large number of political prisoners but had been unable to come up with an accurate count. Premier Mamoun Kuzbari estimated the number at about 30,000 Tuesday.

Kuwatly said the dreaded internal security system at one time had about 6,500 secret agents with a monthly payroll of about £1,000,000 Syrian ($2,800,000).

Syria will continue its ban on the Communist party, Kuwatly said, adding that "we will leave the question of political parties to parliament."

Syria's four non - Communist parties also were barred under the U.A.R. their leaders have announced support of the new regime.

Kuzbari has set a four-month limit within which elections are to be arranged. He announced that he and his 12-man dominantly pro-Western cabinet will not serve beyond that period.

OPTIMISTIC—Commerce Secretary Luther H. Hodges predicts increasing growth of business in the months and years ahead at a press conference in Chicago, where he addressed the National Stationery and Office Equipment Association Convention.

ON GUARD IN DAMASCUS—Armored cars and trucks of the Syrian army guard official buildings in Damascus, the capital, during turmoil following the revolt against Egypt.

Natural Playground Provided Ottawa by Gatineau Park

By JACK VAN DUSEN

OTTAWA (CP)—A 75,000-acre natural playground lies right at Ottawa's door.

The 35 - mile - long Gatineau Park, 20 minutes from Ottawa, was conceived as a federal government preserve in the early 1900s. Last year it was visited by 573,391 fishermen, skiers, hikers, nature lovers and motorists.

The area where nomadic Algonquin Indians once roamed and where Nicholas Gatineau, the Trois-Rivieres notary, explored and traded 300 years ago, now has a network of paved highways and meandering footpaths and is dotted with picnic and camping areas.

It contains 40 lakes, Canada's largest ski club, the summer home of the prime ministers of Canada—yet it retains the air of being virtually untouched by man.

The National Capital Commission, charged with care of the parn and the development of the Ottawa area as a national capital site, has filled the park with conveniences ranging from beaches to toilets without spoiling the view.

PAVED PARKWAY

A modern, paved parkway takes the motorist through 16 miles of rolling countryside, past brooks and quiet lakes, to Champlain Lookout, perched on the top of the Gatineau Hills.

The underbrush is cleared to allow the best possible view of the countryside, but big trees are left untouched and camp sites and picnic areas are screened from sight.

Future plans call for a 60-mile parkway. Five miles being added to the present road this year will cost $975,000 since construction is expensive in the rocky, rolling terrain.

Park attractions include the facilities of the Ottawa Skiing Club, which has a membership of 10,800, largest in Canada.

The club has 20 open slopes, 14 lifts and 30 miles of ski trails.

Tourists swarm over the 600-acre summer estate of the late prime minister W. L. Mackenzie King, bequeathed to the people of Canada. A student of history, the wartime prime minister built "ruins" on his property with stones from war-damaged Westminster in London and the fire-damaged Parliament Buildings in Ottawa.

FULL OF LAKES

The park's Lac Philippe, about 20 miles from Ottawa, has two beaches and camping facilities for 600 persons. You can rent a boat to explore the 3½-mile-long lake.

The other 39 lakes range from 10-acre Lac Leblanc, where a new penal work camp is being located, to Lac Lapeche, which has a 35-mile shoreline.

Most have plenty of bass and trout. Fishing is allowed in the park, but no hunting. There are many deer and beaver, a few wolves and moose.

Headless Valley Decapitators Just Fictional

FORT NELSON, B.C. (CP)—The Indian decapitators of Headless Valley are entirely fictional, but the hazards of nature in this wilderness area are grimly real, say two prospectors who spent three months in the valley.

Bill Lietz, 31, and Erhard Fisher, 32, of Prince George, B.C., went into the area, 1,000 miles north of Vancouver, looking for gold like most men who have taken the same route.

They came out with no gold and no money but 2,000 feet of color film which they hope to show to sportsmen's clubs.

The pair went in at spring breakup with $2,500 worth of gear and grubstake. They were flown into the upper valley of the Spring River where they built themselves a 13-foot canoe of willow and canvas.

For the next 12 weeks they paddled, portaged and slogged their way through 400 miles of picturesque but dangerous wilderness.

BAGGED BEAR

The only man they saw was an airborne game warden who swooped in to make sure they were not eating fresh meat. Even in one of B.C.'s most remote areas, deer and moose are protected. Their bag consisted of one black bear that raided their stores.

In the deep, twisting canyon valley, with its roaring river and towering peaks, they found a couple of rotting cabins and a few long - dead campfire remains.

They found no sign of two prospectors who disappeared in the valley last year and no evidence to support the stories that a lost band of Indians lives in the valley. This tribe was reputed to be responsible for the Headless Valley's name.

Steeplejack Enjoys High Life

CALGARY (CP) — Steeplejack Stan McFadden of Vancouver says straddling sky-grazing structures gives him "a zip of life."

Here on one of his periodic tours of Western Canada on the hunt for painting jobs on flagpoles, water towers and other high objects, he shrugs off the danger with the comment: "The pay isn't so bad."

Since his youth he has had a penchant for heights, working as a logger, painter or iron worker high on the girders of new buildings or bridges.

In the search for business, he cranes his neck for flagpoles, smokestacks or water towers, then calls the owner and offers to paint the structures.

He regards wooden flagpoles as the most hazardous. "sometimes they have dry rot and could snap off in a wind."

When working on a wooden pole near the edge of a building, Mr. McFadden employs someone to hold a line attached to the top of the pole to pull it inwards should a break occur.

Close calls include the time someone lit a fire while he was painting a smokestack. His rigging ropes burned through but he was close to the ground when they broke.

He says there used to be many more steeplejacks "but I know of only a few now."

"There are not as many flagpoles any more, and smokestacks are getting smaller or becoming useless as companies switch to gas or electricity. They'll always need a few of us, though."

U.S. Senator Will Support East Germany If All Conditions Suit

By HAROLD MORRISON

WASHINGTON (CP) — Senator William Fulbright says he would support de facto recognition of the East German Communist regime if other conditions for a Berlin settlement proved satisfactory.

The chairman of the Senate foreign policy, said in an interview the Western powers should seek a compromise with Russia that would enable West Berlin to remain free "under the best guarantees we can get."

He also advocated location in West Berlin of some United Nations agencies, such as the World Health Organization or the Food and Agricultural Organization, so that no - aligned countries attending such meetings could see the contrast between East and West Berlin.

The Arkansas Democrat, whose recent statements on Berlin aroused resentment in the state department, reiterated his view that the Kennedy administratgon and the previous Eisenhower administration had been "damned slow" in attempting to resolve the Berlin dispute with Russia.

DEPLORES STATEMENTS

State department officials privately deplored Fulbright's statements and maintained they may undermine the Western negotiating position and embarrass the Kennedy administration. Made aware of state department reaction, Fulbright said he had no intention of prejudicing current negotiations.

He was merely expressing a personal view, mainly on the origin of the dispute.

He added, however, that Senator Mike Mansfield, Senate majority leader, shared his view that the West had delayed too long in attempting to settle the Berlin issue. Mansfield also supported de facto — informal— recognition of East Germany as part of a Berlin settlement.

Fullbright and the Kennedy administration have been at odds before, particularly at the time of the Cuban invasion failure. Fulbright had advised Kennedy not to go through with it. Secretary of State Dean Rusk supported the president's decision to encourage the invaders through arms, instructors and aircraft.

VIEW ANGERS

The latest Fulbright view that aroused Rusk's associates was his statement in London that the United States had failed to nail down full legal rights to ground routes between West Germany and West Berlin at the time of Allied occupation in 1944 and 1945. West Berlin is 110 miles inside Communist territory.

Asked whether his statement did not provide the Russians with another argument for challenge.

Russia's Crop Failure May Cause Soviet Uneasiness

MOSCOW (AP) — Russia has disclosed a virtual crop failure in Kasakhstan and the virgin lands, long a pet project of Soviet Premier Khrushchev.

The bad crop may have a considerable effect upon both domestic and international policies. Internationally, Russia almost always lowers its demands when there is a bad harvest since it has almost no reserves to fall back on.

Pravda reports that delegates to a Communist party meeting in the central Asian republic "spoke with great uneasiness about the fact that this year Kazakhstan cannot give the state much grain."

D. A. Kunayev, the first secretary of the Communist party in Kazakhstan, said:

"We must report to the congress (the 22nd congress of the Communist party, meeting here Oct. 17) that we do not cope with our task in the production of grain. We cope with our tasks completely unsatisfactorily."

Last year Kazakhstan and the virgin lands also had a disastrous harvest. Nikolai Belyaev, the first secretary, was fired from his local job and from his top job on the Moscow presidium.

Whether this fate will befall Kunayev is not immediately apparent.

In the development of the virgin lands, Premier Khrushchev sees those vast reaches of central Asia as a means of overtaking the United States in food production.

By all accounts, the harvest in western reaches of Russia is not much better.

Pravda blamed both bad weather and faulty techniques for the failure of the harvest.

REGIONAL MEETING

VANCOUVER (CP) — The Stationers and Office Equipment Guild of Canada Incorporated will hold a regional meeting here Oct. 11. Guild president Jean Ayotte of Trois-Rivieres, Que., will attend.

Siberia Seems To Be Getting Colder

ROME (AP)—The earth has been getting gradually warmer since 1900, but now wide reaches from Soviet Siberia to Greenland are getting colder. Climate experts don't know why.

Meteorologists and climatologists here for the world meteorological organization meeting say the pattern is so mottled they cannot tell even if a trend to warmer or cooler climate has set in.

Dr. J. Murray Mitchell, climatologist with the U.S weather bureau, said the United States still is warming up along with central Europe and the Pacific Coast of Asia.

"Some places are getting colder—the Kurile (Kamchatka) Peninsula of Russia and parts of Canada, Greenland and Alaska," he told reporters. "But it's too early yet to tell if a trend in that direction has started."

Mitchell and two British colleagues discussed with reporters Tuesday what came up at the first technical session of the six-day gathering.

R. G. Veryard, climatologist with the British meteorological service, said the warming trend since 1900 was greatest around the Arctic.

Veryard said barley now grows much farther north in Iceland and Canada, Soviet Arctic ports once blocked by ice half the year are now clear only three months annually, and cod fish have emigrated to Greenland, where they were almost unknown before 1930.

Chamber of Commerce Hears Hard-Hitting Speech

By FORBES RHUDE
Canadian Press Business Editor

HALIFAX (CP) — Business has itself to blame for most of its problems, F. M. Covert, Halifax lawyer and industrialist, said Tuesday in an address to the annual meeting of the Canadian Chamber of Commerce.

In a hard-hitting talk to his fellow businessmen, Mr. Covert said their failure to give leadership is responsible for bad labor - management relations, for the so-called welfare state and for the heavy taxation levied by governments.

Management, he said, should have solved the problems which now have become burdens under government solutions. Business could do anything better, more efficiently and cheaper than government could do it.

"It is bad leadership on our part," Mr. Covert declared, "that has put management and labor in opposite camps. This is not only unnatural but it is bad for both labor and management as well as for the consumer.

JOB SECURITY COUNTS

"Management must show employees and the public that union security is a fancy name that means very little. What counts is job security.

"What makes job security? The answer is a profitable plant, one that produces goods better than anyone else, earns enough to pay first class wages and good dividends, and plows back enough into the business to research and always maintain its position."

Mr. Covert, who is president of Moirs Ltd. and of Maritime Paper Products Ltd., and a director of a number of leading Canadian companies, recommended systems of incentives to employees.

"Don't tell me it can't be done," he said. "I know three plants that have started it and every one of these plants is unionized. In one plant production has been increased by more than 16 per cent and labor has been cut by nearly 30 per cent. In another, production has been increased in one year by 12 per cent and labor cut by over 10 per cent. In all plants employees are receiving higher pay per hour than before and overtime has been cut."

LAYS BLAME

E. L. Harrison, president of the Vancouvr Board of Trade, said in an address that Canada's adverse trade balance results from dealings with the United States. He added:

"Canadian imports of Japanese electrical apparatus in a recent year totalled less than $250,000, while from the United States they were in the order of $30,000,000. In 1960 our exports to Japan were $178,000,000, while we bought only $110,000,0 worth of Japanese goods.

"Yet, in the face of such figures we hear many voices calling for higher tariffs on Japanese goods or restrictive quotas against their manufacturers."

Mr. Harrison, who is vice-president, industrial relations, British Columbia Packers Ltd., said the great trading basin of the future is the Pacific.

"Asia's millions are restless—they are becoming more educated, more aware of the goods and services available to other peoples. Here is a tide of human need and consumer capacity which is relentlessly thrusting itself into the world trading pattern. The market potential is massive, much greater than that of the Atlantic basin."

Salvas Commission Adjourned For Lieut.-Gov'nor Funeral

QUEBEC (CP) — The Salvas royal commission into purchasing practices under the Union Nationale stood adjourned Wednesday for the funeral of Lieutenant-Governor Onesime Gagnon and to await the outcome of a petition seeking to block the commission's work.

The commission heard 11 witnesses Tuesday in its first full sitting since last June, then adjourned as a mark of respect for Mr. Gagnon, who died Saturday.

A decision on whether to grant a petition for an injunction was expected during the afternoon in Superior Court. The petition was made last June by Joseph Boulanger, Union Nationale member of the Legislative Council — Quebec's upper house—who said the cabinet of Premier Jean Lesage had exceeded its power in establishing the royal commission and that rights and privileges of legislature members had been violated.

If granted, the injunction would halt any further work on the commission's probe of purchasing practices under the Union Nationale.

WOULD STOP REPORT

It would also have the effect of preventing the three-member board from making a report on the 1957 sale of Hydro-Quebec's Montreal gas distribution system to the Quebec Natural Gas Corporation.

At Tuesday's sitting the name of the late premier Maurice Duplessis was linked to a kickback. In addition, three witnesses testified they had taken kickbacks from Gerald Martineau, a Legislative Council member and treasurer of the UN.

Leo Roy, 46, a Cap - de - la - Madeleine salesman testified he received a $600 cheque made out by Sico Paint Company from the premier's office in 1958.

Roy testified he went to see two or three political personalities, including Mr. Duplessis, because he needed money. He received two other cheques for $617, from Automotiv Products Limited, and $779 from Charles Cusson Limitee but these did not come from the premier's office.

RECEIVED $6,600

Rene Bedard, who said he was chairman of the UN party organization in St. Sauveur riding for five years, testified he received some $6,600 directly from Mr. Martineau. Bedard, a manufacturer's agent, said he knew the amounts "by heart."

He received cheques of $1,200 and $1,500 made out by Brandram - Henderson Paint Company, Sico Paint Company and Charles Cusson Limitee.

Lorzneo Audet, manager of a Quebec photo - engraving firm, said he received $3,367 in kickbacks between 1955 and 1958. Mr. Martineau, he testified, gave him a cheque for $1,500 made out by Brandram-Henderson.

Maurice Tetu, a commercial traveller who said he had been involved in politics "only occasionally" said he had received money directly from Mr. Martineau and from Armand Maltais, UN member for Quebec-East and former cabinet minister. He was uncertain which cheques had been given to him by which man. He said he received a total of $2,234.

Manitoba's Water Supply Threatens Many Farmers

WINNIPEG (CP)—The same drought that has cut Manitoba's wheat crop by half this year now threatens the winter water supply of many farmers and sevral communities.

Lake levels are lower and the flow of rivers has slowed. Many smaller streams have dried up and farm wells are going dry.

Unless heavy rains swell farm dugouts before freeze-up, they will freeze to the bottom and be useless to the farmer.

Brandon city council has been told by its engineer that unless the flow of the Assiniboine River is increased it may freeze to the bottom, robbing the western Manitoba city of its water supply.

The level is being kept up by taking some water from the Prairie Farm Rehabilitation Administration storage basin at nearby Rivers by way of the Minnedosa River. The engineer recommended emergency masurs, including drilling a well near the present pumping station.

BOYNE IS DRY

At Carman, 52 miles southwest of Winnipeg, a storage dam holds back about 17,000,000 gallons but the Boyne River, which maintains the reservoir at that level, is dry.

The level has dropped more than a foot in a month and estimates are that the water supply in the Boyne channel will be exhausted by Dec. 1.

Gladstone, 100 miles northwest of Winnipeg, faced a similar problem when the Whitemud River stopped flowing. But two beaver dams upstream were destroyed and the release water provided temporary relif.

At Portage la Prairie, council passed a resolution requesting construction of a low-level dam on the Assiniboine near the pumping station intake.

Mayor H. E. Wright of Souris, 154 miles west of Winnipeg, says the town will seek permission to sandbag the dam on the Souris River to increase local water supply.

SINK WELL

At Minnedosa, 140 miles northwest of Winnipeg, council has approved sinking a deep well.

Livestock men in the Carman and Dauphin areas are hauling water to their herds from town. At Elkhorn, 203 miles west of Winnipeg, the source of farm water is the CPR water tank, used before the railway switched to diesels.

Department of agriculture pumps have filled 48 dugouts in the southwestern municipalities of Edward, Arthur, Albert and Pipestone before moving into the Swan River Valley.

If a farm dugout is within four miles of a water source it can be filled by pumps. But beyond this range and most of them, if present conditions continue, will freeze to the bottom.

Ford Shuts Door on Reds in Series Opener

Dressing Room Comments

By TED SMITS

NEW YORK (AP)—This is the year for the attack on the records of the mighty Babe Ruth. But the man who threatened the Babe Wednesday did it with his stout left arm and not with his bat.

Whitey Ford, ace of the New York Yankee pitching staff, spun his third consecutive world series shutout which adds up to 27 scoreless innings — and in the words of manager Ralph Houk it "was as nice a one as he has pitched all year."

"I did it with a sinker, a fast ball, a slider, and some curves," Ford said. "I didn't have a good chance of pace."

Ruth's record, back when he pitched for Boston Red Sox in the 1916 and 1918 world series, is 29 2-3 scoreless innings. Ford will get a solid chance to beat this when the series moves to Cincinnati this weekend.

Roger Maris, who came within one home run of breaking Ruth's 154-game record total of 60, but wound up with 61 in the American League's expanded 162-game schedule, went hitless in four at-bats.

But Ford, all grins and his blond hair rumpled from sweat, was the centre of attraction in the Yankees' dressing room.

"Someone told me about Ruth's pitching record before the game," he said. "But it wasn't on my mind. All I wanted to do was win."

Off in the office where once the gravel-voiced Casey Stengel held forth in fractured English Houk leaned back with a broad grin on his face, puffed a cigar, and gave out rounded, grammatical sentences.

"It's always good to win the first one," he said. "Ford's the guy who did it, and of course those homers (by Moose Skowron and Elston Howard) helped.

"And you'd have to say Clete Boyer played a lot of third. That was a heck of a play he made on Dick Gernert in the eighth."

Boyer trapped a terrific smash and, on his knees, threw to first to catch Gernert.

Hutchinson Praises Ford, Boyer

By HAROLD HARRISON

NEW YORK (AP) — "That's what you would call a good, clean incision."

That was Cincinnati manager Fred Hutchinson's description of the New York Yankees' 2-0 victory over the Reds today in the opener of the 1961 world series.

"There's not a helluva lot you can say about that game," the grim-faced Hutchinson said in the subdued Redleg clubhouse.

"You have to give Mr. (Whitey) Ford a lot of credit. The only thing he (O'Toole) could have done was shut them out."

The Yankees' first run off O'Toole was Elston Howard's homer in the fourth which barely dropped into the right field seats. It appeared for a bit that Cincinnati right fielder Wally Post might have gotten a glove on the ball.

Post said, however, his stab for the ball was about a foot or two short, and it dropped into the first row of seats.

"I thought I had a chance for it," Post said, "but it kept drifting away."

Post explained he was playing Howard a bit toward right centre.

"He hits a lot to right centre and he has a lot of power there," Post added.

Hutchinson merely shook his head and said, "I don't know" when he was asked whether he believed the faster Frank Robinson might have made the catch. Robinson usually plays in right field but was shifted to left today.

Hutchinson also had some praise for Clete Boyer, the Yankees' third baseman, who made two brilliant stops to rob the Reds of hits.

"Our scouting reports said he was better than his brother and I said I'd have to see it," Hutchinson declared. "Well, I saw it. But his brother makes those stops too."

Boyer's brother is Ken Boyer of St. Louis Cardinals.

McNeeley Ranked 10 On Heavyweight List

PROVIDENCE, R.I. (AP)—Tom McNeeley of Boston, who will get a shot at the world heavyweight championship in his bout with champion Floyd Patterson in Toronto Dec. 4, was ranked among the top 10 of his division for the first time by the National Boxing Association in the September ratings announced Wednesday night.

The 24-year-old McNeeley, unbeaten in 23 fights, was ranked 10th. Britain's Joe Erskine also returned to the top 10 with an eight-place position. Erskine and McNeeley replace Mike DeJohn of Syracuse and Dick Richardson of Wales.

Bob Cleroux of Montreal, Canadian heavyweight champion, was ranked sixth and George Chuvalo of Toronto, who lost by a disqualification to Erskine in Toronto last Monday, was rated ninth.

They were the only Canadians to make the ratings.

LISTON NOT RANKED

Tony Petronella, chairman of the NBA's ratings committee, said that Sonny Liston of Philadelphia, the No. 1 title contender until suspended because of difficulties with the law, would not be given a rating until reinstated in Pennsylvania. He recently was acquitted of various charges in Philadelphia.

Benny (Kid) Paret of Cuba was named boxer-of-the-month for his achievement in regaining the world welterweight title with his triumph over Emile Griffith of New York last Saturday night.

The ratings :

Heavyweight: Champion, Floyd Patterson, New York. 1. Henry Cooper, England; 2. Ingemar Johansson, Sweden; 3. Eddie Machen, Portland, Ore.

Light - Heavyweight: Champion, Gene Fullmer, West Jordan, Utah; 1. Terry Downes, England; 2. Florentino Fernandez, Cuba; 3. Dick Tiger, Nigeria.

Homers Give Yanks Win

NEW YORK (AP)—Whitey Ford spun his southpaw magic over Cincinnati Reds with a two-hit, 2-0 victory for New York Yankees in the opening game of the 1961 world series Wednesday and set a series record with eight victories.

Once again the Yankees, who hit 240 homers in the regular American League season, fell back on their familiar weapon with home runs by Elston Howard and Bill Skowron and broke the back of the National League champions.

Jim O'Toole, 24-year-old Cincinnati left hander, hadn't allowed a home run since July 28 in 16 regular season games. But Howard hit one in the fourth and Skowron whacked a 420-footer in the sixth.

Sensational fielding by third-baseman Clete Boyer eased Ford's path as he ran his world series string of consecutive scoreless innings to 27 over a two-year span.

Boyer thrilled a chilly crowd of 62,387 with a brilliant stop of pinch - hitter Dick Gernert's smash in the eighth. Throwing himself into the dirt as he dived to his left, Boyer gloved the ball. Then he threw out Gernert from his knees. In the second, Boyer made another difficult stop and perfect throw from his knees, nipping Gene Freese.

MANTLE ON BENCH

Mickey Mantle was not in the New York lineup, still hobbled by the effects of minor surgery on an abscess on his right hip. Roger Maris, whose 61 homers set a season record, failed to hit the ball out of the infield on four trips, striking out once.

Eddie aKsko singled with one out in the first inning and Wally Post singled in the fifth for the only hits off Ford. The 32-year-old lefty from Lake Success, N.Y., walked only one man, Frank Robinson in the seventh, and struck out six. The strikeouts boosted his own series record to 69.

Red Ruffing and Allie Reynolds, a couple of Yankees of former days, each had won seven series games but Ford's brilliant effort made him the top winner in his 15th start.

Only Babe Ruth with 29 2-3 scoreless innings and Christy Mathewson with 28 1-3 (he pitched three shutouts in 1905) have blanked the opposition for as many consecutive innings. Ford undoubtedly will get a chance to top them in the fourth game at Cincinnati Sunday.

TERRY FACES JAY

Ralph Terry, a 25 - year - old right hander who will be remembered as the fellow who threw the series-deciding home run ball to Bill Mazeroski in Pittsburgh last October, will pitch for the Yankees in today's second game. He had a 16-3 won-lost record and pitched this year's pennant clincher.

Joey Jay, a 26-year-old right hander who was acquired from Milwaukee last winter, will ptich for Cincinnati. Joey, the first little league grad to make the majors, had a 21-10 season for the Reds.

Manager Ralph Houk said he would use Johnny Blanchard in right field today against Jay if Mantle, still a doubtful starter, is unable to play.

The Yankees had O'Toole on the ropes in the first when they loaded the bases on Bobby Richardson's first of three singles and walks to Tony Kubek and Skowron. Yogi Berra popped up for the third out.

Howard, a .348 hitter for the season, hit a 1-1 pitch into the lower seats in right leading off the fourth. He said it was a slider.

Skowron's blast came off an O'Toole curve ball and drilled its way into the eighth row of the lower stands in left. It was his seventh in world series play. Howard's was his fifth.

GOT BEHIND HITTERS

It was a tough game for O'Toole, who had finished the regular season with eight straight victories while compiling a 19-9 record. However, the 24-year-old son of a Chicago policemen kept getting behind the Yankee hitters.

There was only one semblance of a rhubarb. That came in the fifth when Boyer fielded Darrell Johnson's grounder and instead of throwing to first elected to tag out Post, coming toward third from second. Post crashed into Boyer with a football-type arm - and - shoulder block and knocked Boyer off balance The fans booed but the Yankees merely trotted off the field.

O'Toole finally was lifted for a pinch hitter after yielding both runs and all six hits in seven innings Jim (The Author) Brosnan, a bespectacled right hander, pitched the eighth.

Berra set a series record every time he came out of the dugout for this was his 12th series and his 69th game, most of them as a catcher. He played in left field.

With Mantle on the sidelines, Houk used Hector Lopez in right field and moved Maris to centre.

Richardson got three of New York's six singles The little second baseman led the club in last year's world series with 11 hits and set a record with 12 runs batted in.

New York has won 18 of 25 previous series.

Comets May Be "Bad Men" of WHL

VICTORIA (CP) — Western Hockey League players will be keeping their heads up and eyes open when they meet Spokane Comets during the 1961-62 season.

Coach Roy McBride, whose Comets piled up 1016 minutes in penalties last season, has added a few more heavy-hitters to his lineup.

It's part of a judicious off-season program by McBride to bolster his defences and plug some of the weak spots in the Comets' lineup that finished fifth last season.

"I figure we gave away 50 goals too many last year," he said in an interview at the Comets' training camp here. "All the blame isn't on our defence though. Our forwards weren't coming back and we took too many penalties.

Returning are hard-knocking defencemen Bill Folk, Sandy Hucul, Jim Holdaway and Carl Kaiser. Challengers for a defensive post include Connie Madigan, the most penalized player last season in the International League; Larry McNabb, who started last year with Comets; and Wally Floan from Great Falls.

Forwards back in the Comets fold include fiery Colin Kilburn, who helps out with the coaching, Dick Lamoureux, Bev Bell, Steve Witiuk, Bob McCusker, Del Topoll and Max Mekilok. Mekilok was the top scorer with 22 goals and 49 assists.

LIST NEW MEN

New forwards include wingers Gerry Brisson from Winnipeg Warriors and Bill Shvetz, a one-time defenceman. Shvetz sat out last season with a back injury.

Centre Red Johansen from Victoria and right winger Gord Stratton, who scored 54 goals and 58 assists with New Haven of the Eastern League last year are also bidding for a spot with Comets.

Among the missing are veteran Ching Johnson and Forbes Kennedy, who followed Mekilok in the club scoring. Johnson, a veteran WHL campaigner, led the club in goals with 32 and with 30 assists had one more point than the volatile Kennedy.

Ed Johnson, who compiled an impressive 2.67 goals - against average and had 11 shutouts with Ottawa-Hull of the Eastern Professional League in 1960-61, gives the Comets strength in goal.

Gilles Boisvert and Cesare Maniago shared the duties most of last season, a system disliked by Maniago, now bidding for net-minding honors with Montreal Canadiens, the National League club which has a working agreement with Spokane.

New NL Teams to Pick Rosters From Many Former Ball Stars

NEW YORK (AP) — New York Mets and Houston Colts, the two new National League baseball clubs, will be able to form their teams from a list that includes former league stars Robin Roberts, Gil Hodges, Red Schoendienst, Sam Jones, Richie Ashburn and Johnny Antonelli, The Associated Press has learned.

The selections from the lists of 15 players made available by each of the eight established clubs will be made by Houston and New York the day after the world series ends.

Although the lists are in the hands of officials of the Mets and Colts, they will not be officially disclosed by the league.

GIL HODGES

ROBIN ROBERTS

The AP has learned, however, that Roberts, Hodges, Schoendienst, Jones, Ashburn and Antonelli are on the lists together with such other name players as Clem Labine, Johnny Logan, Vinegar Bend Mizell, and Bobby Shantz of Pittsburgh Pirates, Billy Loes and Eddie Bressoud of San Francisco Giants; Norm Larker and Roger Craig of Los Angeles Dodgers, and Pancho Herrera of Philadelphia Phillies.

Cincinnati's current list, The AP learned, contains only the names of those not eligible for the world series. It is reported that Gus Bell, Dick Gernert and Jay Hook may be among those made available once the series ends.

MUST TAKE 16

In the grab - bag selection to man the new teams, each club must take 16 — two from each list — at $75,000 each. Each may take another player from each list at $50,000 apiece.

After this drawing is complete, a special premium player list will be submitted that includes two more players from each of the established clubs. Houston and New York each can take a total of four of these "premium" players at $125,000 apiece, with no more than one chosen from each established club.

General Manager Paul Richards and manager Harry Craft of Houston have indicated they will concentrate on youngsters while George Weiss and Casey Stengel say the Mets are after experience and players the fans in New York remember back in 1957, when the Dodgers and Giants moved to the West Coast.

"We will be operating against some strong competition in New York," said Weiss, referring to the Yankees. "The Houston club has no such opposition. Therefore, we must go for the name players the fans want to see."

Other players made eligible include:

Chicago—Pitchers Dick Drott and Mel Wright; infielders Ed Bouchee, Mel Roach and George Freese; outfielders Ashburn and Solly Drake and catcher Moe Thacker.

Los Angeles — Pitcher Jim Golden, Nelson Chittum and Rene Valdez; infielders Hodges, Larker and Bob Aspromonte; outfielder Gordon Windhorn and catcher Norm Sherry.

Milwaukee — Pitchers Antonelli, Ken MacKenzie and Seth Morehead; infielders Felix Mantilla and Bob Boyd; outfielder Gino Cimoli and catcher Sammy White.

Philadelphia — Pitchers Roberts, Ken Lehman and Ruben Gomez; infielder Bob Sadowski; outfielder Elmer Valo and catcher Clarence Coleman.

Pittsburgh — Pitchers Curt Raydon, Jim Umbricht and Al Jackson; infielder Rocky Nelson; outfielders Walt Moryn, Roman Mejias and John Powers and catcher Elmo Plaskett.

St. Louis—Pitcher Al Cicotte; infielder Schoendienst; outfielder Don Landrum; and catchers: Chris Cannizzaro and Roberto Herrera.

San Francisco—Pitcher Jones and catcher Hobie Landrith.

Calgary Shooting For WHL Crown

By DENNIS ORCHARD

CALGARY (CP)—It will take some doing, but Calgary Stampeders count on starting the new Western Hockey League season stronger than last year when they wound up in first place.

They'll have to make up for the loss of a goaltender, a 40-goal forward and two defencemen.

Coach Alf Pike, notoriously non - committal, has predicted that Stamps will have a "little more balance and strength" than in 1960 - 61.

This has been taken to mean Pike has a suitable answer to the vacanvy on right wing, Wally Hergeshmeirmer's spot last year, the loss of defencemen Bill Burega and Ed Van Impe and the retirement of goalie Lucien Dechene.

Bergesheimer and Burega were sold to the new Los Angeles Blades, Van Impe moved up to Buffalo Bisons of the American League, and Dechene made a good a long-standing threat to return permanently to his Quebec home.

Pike, taking up coach's cudgels in the WHL again after a National League stint with New York Rangers, is banking on a couple of staunch replacements and an experiment with his best scoring combination.

BREAKS UP BIG LINE

Until he is persuaded it won't work, Pike is breaking up last year's all - star punch of centre Norm Johnson (22 goals), left winger Lou Jankowski (57) and right winger Ron Leopold (52).

Jankowski and Leopold will be centred by either sophomore Cliff Bristowe or speedster Gordie Vejprava, releasing Johnson to work with wingers John Kosiacic and Bert Fizzell, another pair of WHL sophomores.

"This is a trial and error situation," Pike explains. I'll change it anytime if I have to."

The replacements are Fizzell, 20 - goal man last year with the now-defunct Victoria Cougars, Wayne North, Jim Moro and Bob Riou, three young wingers, and defencemen Al Willis, Hugh Currie and Doug Barkley.

Pike hopes Johnson — a 28-year - old playmaker — will have the veteran's steadying influence to draw out the potential of Fizzell and inexperienced Kosiancic, who came up last year from college hockey in the United States.

Centre Sid Finney, who has been around the WHL for eight years, is expected to slip between a pair of young wingers on a third forward unit.

Fred Hucul and George McAvoy, a pair of steady veterans, return at defence.

SETTLES ON LARIVIERE

Pike says his goaltending spot is a "question mark" now, but he will go with Art Lariviere understudy in his rookie year last season to Dechene.

If Lariviere's pre - season performances mean anything, he'll stand up under the strain of the 70-game schedule. He was nothing short of sensational Tuesday night, kicking out 37 shots from the sticks of Montreal Canadiens as Stampeders scored an upset 3-2 exhibition victory.

Pike admits there was trade talk last week with Edmonton Flyers, but the talks came to naught. And he denies any connection with talks of a trade to bring back Hergesheimer.

Misunderstanding Causes Release of Waiver List

HAMILTON (CP)—Jake Gaudaur of Hamilton Tiger - Cats said Wednesday night he made public the names of players placed on waivers by Montreal Alouettes through a misunderstanding.

Coach Perry Moss of Montreal accused Gaudaur of "breaching the ethics of professional football" by disclosing the list in a Hamilton radio program. The list is confidential under Canadian Football League rules.

Gaudaur emphatically denied that he intended to hurt the Montreal team.

"I was talking to coach (Jim) Trimble just before my broadcast, and he said that he had seen the names on the wire," Gaudaur explained.

"I thought he meant a news service wire, rather than a telegram from the CFL. As soon as I found out what happened, I called Moss to apologize.

"The statement that I did it deliberately to disrupt his team's morale is ridiculous."

Gaudaur admitted the existence of the confidential waiver list, but said "I don't happen to agree with it. I don't think it's fair to the player and would never take advantage of it. But the majority (of CFL teams) wanted it, and it is a rule of the CFL."

Roger doffs his cap to the crowd as they gave him a great ovation after he clouted the record blast.

Club Personnel Dissatisfied

NEW YORK (AP)—President George Weiss of New York Mets and general manager Paul Richards of the Houston Colts, dissatisfied with the list of players offered them for the $75,000 draft price, have asked National League officials to amend the original list to include higher calibre men.

Richards, while refusing to confirm or deny this information learned by The Associated Press Wednesday night, admitted he was not happy with the 15-player lists presented to the baseball clubs by the eight teams now in the National League.

"Just say we have had a few conferences with National League club officials," he said. "Things may imorove."

"Don't forget," he added, "the Cincinnati club hasn't presented its list yet. They won't until after the world series and we selection to choose from."

Weiss was not immediately available for comment.

CLUBS LIST MEN

Each of the eight clubs placed 15 men on the list, seven of whom had to be on the 25-player roster of Aug. 31, Houston and New York, entering the league next year, must take a total of 16, two from each club, at $75,000 each. Each may also take another player from each list at $50,000.

A special premium player list, including two from each of the eight clubs, will be made available later. Houston and New York each can take a total of four of these players, no more than one from a club, at $125,000 each.

Kilpatrick Cut From Calgary

Garry Kilpatrick, who has shown much promise and ability at the Calgary Stampeders hockey camp was cut from the Stamps as coach Alf Pike began swinging the hatchet.

Kilpatrick, who had drawn much praise from the Calgary personnel will now report to the Moose Jaw Canucks of the Saskatchewan Junior Hockey League. This will be his third season with the Canucks.

Also cut from the team was right winer Harvey Nash, who is to report to the New York Rovers of the Eastern Amateur League.

Sellers Equals Riding Record

ATLANTIC CITY, N.J. (AP)—Jockey Johnny Sellers equalled an American record Wednesday by extending his winning streak to eight at the Atlantic City race course. After winning the last three races Tuesday, Sellers brought home the winners of the first five Wednesday before his string ended.

This duplicated Howard Craig's feat of riding the last six winners at Waterford Park, W. Va., July 2, 1951, and the first two on the next day's program.

Sellers, 24, rocketed into prominence this year as the regular jockey of Carry Back, the Kentucky Derby and Preakness winner.

PAT HAND — New general manager of the Kansas City Athletics, Pat Friday smiles as he looks over the 1962 contracts of his players, all signed even before the season ended. Many of the players received pay increases.

On the Hockey Fronts

WINNIPEG (CP) — Detroit Red Wings and Toronto Maple Leafs battled to a 2-2 tie Wednesday night in a sometimes exciting exhibition National Hockey League game before a standing room-only crowd of 9895 in the Winnipeg arena.

Vic Stasiuk's 15-footer past rookie Leaf goalie Jerry Cheevers, after a sharp passing play with Alex Delvecchio and Gordie Howe, earned the Wings their tie midway through the third period.

The goal came just as the first of two over-lapping Toronto penalties ended.

Wings held the edge in the first period, but finished it trailing 1-0 on Red Kelly's goal on a deflection of a screen blueline shot.

Young Bruce MacGregor tied it just past the midway mark of the second, lifting Bill Gadsby's long pass over the shoulder of Leaf goalie Johnny Bower.

Dave Keon put the Leafs ahead again at 6:14 of the third when his weak shot from a scramble behind the Detroit net trickled in off goalie Terry Sawchuk's foot.

Bower was the hero in the early going, stopping 16 drives in each of the first and second periods. Cheevers stopped seven in the third, while Sawchuk, who handled all the Detroit goalkeeping, stopped 27 in all.

KITCHENER (CP) — Boston Bruins registered a 4-2 victory over New York Rangers here Wednesday night in the final exhibition game for both clubs before the opening of the National Hockey League season.

Left winger John Bucyk paced the Bruins with a goal and two assists. Other Boston markers went to Doug Mohns, Don McKenney and Murray Oliver.

The Ranger goals were scored by Harry Howell and Andy Bathgate.

SAULT ST. MARIE, Ont. (CP) — Chicago Black Hawks of the National Hockey League loaned their farm club Sault Ste. Marie Thunderbirds three players Wednesday night, then trounced the Eastern Professional Hockey League club 6-3 in exhibition play here.

Ron Murphy led the Hawks with two goals, one in the opening period and the other in the third. Singles came from Jerry Melnyk, Stan Mikita, Eric Nesterenko and Bobby Hull.

Bob Turner, who together with Murray Hall and Dennis DeJordy adopted Sault colors for the evening, scored a single for the Thunderbirds. Others came from Milan Marcetta and Mery Kuryluk.

Comets Nip Blades In Tight Battle

KIMBERLEY, B.C. — Jim Holdaway smacked in the winning goal in a wild third period to give Spokane Comets a 4-3 victory over Los Angeles Blades in a Western Hockey League exhibition game here Wednesday night.

The crowd of 1207 saw ordinary hockey for two periods but watched an exciting display of icemanship during the 20-minute windup.

A scoreless first period was followed with goals by Bob McCusker of Spokane and Blade Bruce Carmichael in the second. The third period saw the contest break open.

Sandy Hucul beat Blade goalkeeper Marcel Pelletier from the blue line at 4:37 of the third when Los Angeles was a man short.

Two seconds later the score was tied at 2-2 when a quick pass by Don McLeod to rookie Dave Richardson scored.

Los Angeles took its only lead at 5:56. Comet goalie Eddie Johnston made a nice save on Gerry Goyer's try but he was down on the ice when Danny Belisle popped in the rebound.

The Comets, who outshot the Blades 37-28, came back at 8 with Steve Witiuk's half golf-h slap shot lighting the light.

It was Holdaway's turn to pl hero and at 12:13 he gave it Spokane.

LINCOLN, England (CP) Education officials received report that many Lincolnshi children were suffering fro "valgoid ankles and incipie hallux valgus." After learn this meant bandy legs and formed toes, they asked medical officer to write his ports in laymen's language.

Yesterday's Answer

DAILY CRYPTOQUOTE — Here's how to work it:

A X Y D L B A A X R
is L O N G F E L L O W

One letter simply stands for another. In this sample A is used for the three L's, X for the two O's, etc. Single letters, apostrophies, the length and formation of the words are all hints. Each day the code letters are different.

A Cryptogram Quotation

A S A X U B U R O U A Q W I X R U A R O R G Q Y S I G Y U I O J A W U X — K S N S A - Q U O I.

Yesterday's Cryptoquote: VANITY IS AS ADVANTAGEOUS TO A GOVERNMENT, AS PRIDE IS DANGEROUS—MONTESQUIEU.

BRITISH COLUMBIA INTERIOR VEGETABLE MARKETING BOARD

NOTICE TO REGISTERED OWNERS IN DISTRICT NO. 9
NELSON — TRAIL

THE ANNUAL MEETING OF THE REGISTERED OWNERS for the purpose of electing one (1) delegate to represent them during the coming season will be held at the residence of Mr. EARL SHANNON, R. R. No. 1, NORTH SHORE, NELSON, B.C., ON THURSDAY, NOVEMBER 9th, 1961 at 8:00 P.M.

ALL REGISTERED OWNERS are urged to attend this meeting.

The B.C. Interior Vegetable Scheme requires that all owners register with the Board and defines an Owner as any person registered in the books of any Land-Registry Office as the owner in fee-simple of any land within the area, or as the holder of the last agreement to purchase any land within the area, and includes the holder of an agreement to purchase land from the Director of Soldier Settlement (or his predecessor, the Soldier Settlement Board) or Director, Veterans' Land Act, and who in any case grows or causes to be grown for sale upon such land, comprising one-quarter of an acre or more, any regulated product, and any holder of a lease of land in the area, of which land not less than three acres is used for growing any regulated product for sale and which lease is for a term of three years or more.

ALL OWNERS are required to register with the Board. Those persons not registered may obtain the necessary form by writing to the Secretary, B.C. Interior Vegetable Marketing Board, 1476 Water Street, Kelowna, B.C., and in the case of a leasee, should produce evidence as to his lease.

NOTE: Any owner who has not registered can at the time of the meeting file with the Chairman a statutory declaration showing that he is qualified to be so registered.

BY ORDER OF THE BOARD.
Dated at Kelowna, B.C., this
2nd day of October, 1961

MARKET TRENDS

NEW YORK (AP)—Rails provided strong leadership Wednesday as the stock market scored its biggest gain in nine months and its second largest advance of 1961. Trading was fairly active.

The rails have been edging up in recent sessions to their August rally peak in the Dow Jones rail average and Wednesday they not only topped that but also the May high.

The Associated Press 60-stock average rose 3.10 to 255.60, the sharpest rise in the average since Jan. 4 when the gain was 3.20.

Early in the day the Dow Jones rails component topped the Aug. 22 rally peak of 144.92 and it ended at 149.85, rising 5.40, and bettering the May 17 peak of 148.02, although still remaining below the 1961 high.

Volume was 3,380,000 shares compared with 2,680,000 Tuesday.

Ford, still affected by a nationwide strike, was lower in early dealings but erased its loss and was bought heavily as it advanced 2¾ to 108, touching a new high.

The most active rail issue, Pennsylvania Railroad, rose ⅞ to 15⅝.

Among Canadian issues, Hudson Bay Mining increased ½ while International Nickel was up ⅜ and Canadian Pacific ¼. Distillers Seagrams dropped ⅜.

American exchange prices advanced, with volume reaching 1,430,000 shares compared with 1,560,000 Tuesday. Shawinigan was up ¼ while Preston and Brazilian Traction each gained ⅛. Scurry Rainbow Oil dropped ⅛.

TORONTO (CP)—The stock market reversed Tuesday's falling trend and rose on the heels of renewed interest in speculative mines in heavy trading Wednesday.

Lorado was the big winner with a gain of 21 cents on a volume of more than 200,000 shares while Headway Red Lake and Central Porcupine exhibited high volume but little in the way of marked price changes. Lake Dufault seemingly bounced back from a poor assay report to rise a hefty 30 cents to $5.05, with a volume of more than 111,000 shares.

The inudstrial list was sparked by widespread fractional advances in foods, steels and utilities.

Among utilities, B.C. Power and CPR, rose as much as ¼, while International Utilities bucked the trend and fell 1¼.

Empire Life posted the day's biggest individual gain—$20—to a new high of $160.

On index, industrials rose 1.75 to 597.02, base metals .25 to 199.59 and western oils .15 to 97.77. Golds fell .48 to 87.21 and the final volume was 3,155,000 shares compared with 4,107,000 Tuesday.

The senior base metals market was strong. Hudson Bay Mining and Smelting led the pack higher with a gain of 1¼.

Gold trading was light.

In weak western oil trade, Calgary and Edmonton, Dome and Great Plains all lost ground in the 25-cent range, while Pacific Petroleum and Home B advanced moderately.

MONTREAL (CP) — Prices were mixed to higher on the Montreal and Canadian stock exchanges Tuesday. Trading was light among the industrials and active among the mines.

In papers, Minnesota and Ontario Paper dipped 4¾ at 30¾ on a volume of 100 shares, International Paper added ¼ at 37, Price lost ⅜ at 49⅝, Anglo Canadian Pulp and Paper rose ⅜ at 37½ and Bathurst A gained ¼ at 51.

Among the utilities International Utilities lost one point at 39½, Calgary Power at 24⅛, rose ¼.

In banks, Imperial Bank of Commerce added ¾ at 69¾.

In mines, Jubilee Iron added 25 cents at $3.95 and Hollinger rose ½ at 27.

Among the base metals, Hudson Bay rose 1½ at 52½ and International Nickel added ¾ at 83.

In western oils, Pacific Pete rose ⅜ at 11⅜ and Royalite declined ⅛ at 10⅞.

On index, banks were up 0.07 at 66.99, utilities up 0.4 at 144.7, industrials up 0.1 at 323.4, combined up 0.3 at 263.9, papers off 0.9 at 497.4 and golds up 043 at 8528 Some 12 issues reached new yearly highs and three fell to new yearly lows

Industrial volume was 127,400 shares, mines and junior oils 404,100 shares.

Queen's Principal Warns of Dilemmas Ahead of Colleges

KINGSTON, Ont. (CP)— The new principal of Queen's University sees "a number of distressing dilemmas" for Canadian universities in the next decade.

Dr. James Alexander Corry, who succeeded Dr. William A. Mackintosh Sept. 1 and who will be installed at a special convocation Oct. 20, declared:

"There must be very substantial additions to university staffs. At the same time industry and the professions also need to recruit persons of superior education in ever greater numbers.

"This will result in a sharpening of competition every year throughout the '60s because there will not be nearly enough able and suitably educated people to meet the demands for them."

The crisis of increasing student enrolment was taking shape and would make its full weight felt in the next three or four years. Universities would need much more money to meet the crisis.

OTHER PITFALLS

But money alone wouldn't solve the emerging problems. The schools themselves would have to "adjust everywhere to new dimensions."

And they must avoid the pitfall of turning out specialists who "get lost among their gadgets."

"Indeed, we are all in danger of getting lost among the gadgets and losing sight of the human purposes they should be made to serve."

For this reason, Dr. Corry said, there is a greater need than ever for persons with a broad general education.

"Just as we are getting ready to fly to the moon, we must study how this great adventure bears on the chief end of man."

A former Rhodes Scholar, Dr. Corry, 62, was born near Stratford, Ont., and graduated in law from the University of Saskatchewan. After coming to Queen's in 1936 as professor of political science, he was named vice-principal in 1951. He was a member of the CBC Board of Governors for nine years.

Dr. Mackintosh will remain at Queen's as vice-chancellor.

Grain Exports Down Sharply In Year

OTTAWA (CP) — Exports of oats, barley, rye and flaxseed fell sharply to a total 59,700,000 bushels during the crop year ended July 31 from 80,300,000 bushels in the 1959-60 year.

A coarse grains report Wednesday by Dominion Bureau of Statistics showed that the total would have fallen even more sharply if it had not been for the re-entry of Communist China to the Canadian barley market.

Mainland China bought 20,400,000 bushels of barley during the year—nearly half of the 41,500,000 bushels exported. In 1959-60, Canada exported 57,700,000 bushels of barley.

Oats exports fell to 1,900,000 bushels, a fraction of the preceding year's 5,600,000 and the lowest export amount on record for the last 40 years.

Rye exports fell to 2,600,000 bushels from 4,500,000.

The only export increase among the four coarse grains was in flaxseed, with shipments rising to 13,600,000 bushels from 12,500,000.

The report also said supplies of feed grains in the current crop year "are expected to be substantially below last year's levels" due to the prairie drought.

EXPECT SMALL CROP

Total supply of oats is expected to be 422,600,000 bushels —lowest in more than a decade and less than the amount used in Canada in any of the last four years.

Supply of barley, including this fall's crop, is estimated at 222,400,000 bushels—the smallest amount since 1950-51 and about two-thirds of the average of 335,100,000 bushels during the last 10 years.

In the last crop year's barley exports, the second - largest buyer after Communist China was the United States, with 12,000,000 bushels, followed by the United Kingdom which bought 8,700,000 bushels.

Oats exports went mainly to the United States—800,000 bushels—and the U.K.—700,000 bushels.

Only four countries imported Canadian rye last crop year, the United states bought 1,600,000 bushels, Japan 700,000, U.K. 300,000 and Rhodesia-Nyasaland 600 bushels.

The United Kingdom bought 7,300,000 bushels of flaxseed and Japan bought 4,000,000 bushels.

Odds... and Ends

Russia has set off her 16th nuclear explosion in her present series of tests. I suppose we can expect an announcement any day now that Russia is not going to do any more testing — no more that is until next time when she has built up another arsenal of untried nuclear devices. Meantime, O World, see how Russia imposed a voluntary ban on herself!

* * *

A few months ago a friend up Kaslo way told of a rose bush in his garden bearing both red and white roses. A friend at Taghum writes that it might be a "York and Lancaster" rose. She says there is one in the garden at government house at Victoria, the legend being that it evolved from the red and white roses of York and Lancaster at the conclusion of the Wars of the Roses. She says it has held its form ever since, and although it does not stand up after cutting it is an attractive and free bloomer in the garden as well as being quite hardy. So thanks to my Taghum friend for this interesting sidelight.

* * *

I meant to tell you while I was away I attended the first showing of a film in a theatre that had wide, WIDE screen. Not only was it difficult enough to keep all the action in one's vision but the dialogue was in Italian with the sentences dubbed in at the bottom of the picture. By the time I had read the sentence from one side of that wide screen to the other I had missed the action and while I was watching the action, expressions and gestures of the actors I would suddenly realize there was another sentence at the bottom of the picture to be read and either I wouldn't get it read before it disappeared or else the end of it would be blotted out by the tall man's head in front of me and just to the right! It was quite an experience along with the fact that the picture was rather a controversial one.

* * *

One other treat I had while away was seeing the production "Do You Know the Milky Way?" It was a fascinating play, all the more so because there were only two men, who between them portrayed over 15 characters during the two acts. The play had been presented, according to the program, over 5000 times in French, Swedish and Italian. It was a gentle satire in which you found yourself liking all the "wrong" people and finding the man who was supposed to be insane more sane and reasonable than the so called sane people he met following the end of World War II. We had opera glasses and it was fascinating to watch the two men's faces as they donned their various personalities. The two men were George Voskoyec and Hal Holbrook — I could have seen it over again, for it certainly tugged at the heart strings. It was the North American premiere of the play and was put on as part of the Vancouver International Festival.

Broadway's New Season Boasts New Production, Fresh Talent

By WILLIAM GLOVER
Associated Press Drama Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — Broadway's new season is starting on the up and up. There's an upturn in show production and an upsurge of fresh talent.

The big trend is to more musicals.

Twenty - nine premieres are scheduled between now and Christmas, the mid-point of the theatrical year. This is five more than during the same span last year. Early planning for the latter half indicates total output by the end of May could easily outdo the 1960-61 total of 45 shows.

The 10 song-and-dance diversions due by New Year fall just one shy of the previous season's entire effort.

The agenda represents investments of about $6,000,000.

People who are always saying Broadway should give greater opportunity to fledgling artists should note with relish that 10 ventures involve new authors and composers. Several others have verdant directors and producers.

THE OLD AND NEW

Familiar stars will dominate the on-stage action, but a sprinkling of fresh faces have leading roles.

Established headliners include Barbara Cook, Bette Davis, Julie Harris, Sally Ann Howes, Kim Hunter, Molly Picon, Elaine Stritch and Julie Wilson—who is making her initial bid in drama instead of song. The overseas contingent includes Elisabeth Bergner, Katina Paxinou and Googie Withers.

The stellar male company lists Sydney Chaplin, Alfred Drake, George Gobel, Frederic March, Burgess Meredith, Rod Steiger and Rudy Vallee. Yves Montand, Sir Michael Redgrave and Emlyn Williams are among transatlantic visitors.

The opera-concert world provides Mimi Benzell, Jean Fenn and Robert Weede.

Young performers tackling important assignments are Peter Fonda, the son of star Henry, in Blood, Sweat and Stanley Poole; Collin Wilcox and Clinton Kimbrough in Look, We've Come Through, another drama; and Lee Venora and Joan Weldon, in the musical Kean.

Two English newcomers are Richard Johnson in The Complaisant Lover and Bill Travers in A Cook for Mr. General.

TV EXPATRIATES

The freshman writing contingent includes three who have whetted their skills in TV—Steven Gethers, author of A Cook For Mr. General; Arthur Carter, High Fidelity, and A. E. Hotchner, The Short, Happy Life, a drama based on the works of Ernest Hemingway.

Also coming out with first scripts are actor Ossie Davis (Purlie Victorious); Waldemar Hansen (The Garden Sweets); the brothers James and William Goldman (Blood, Sweat and Stanley Poole); Harold Pinter (The Caretaker); Morris L. West (Daughter of Silence).

In the musical division, Jerre Herman does his first score in Milk and Honey, and Peter Stone supplies the book for Kean.

Departing from the pattern of recent seasons, only four early arrivals are imports from abroad. Pinter's avant garde charade, Graham Greene's comedy The Complaisant Lover, and Robert Bolt's historic drama, A Man For All Seasons, were London hits. The Maid's Room is an adaptation from a Paris fondant by Marcel Achard.

The established drama writing contingent includes Tennessee Williams (Night of the Iguana) and Paddy Chayevsky (Gideon). Prominent on the musical lineup are Frank Loessner (How To Succeed in Business Without Really Trying), Arthur Schwartz (The Gay Life), Richard Adler (Kwamina), Noel Coward (Sail Away), and Betty Comden, Adolph Green, Jule Styne (Subways Are For Sleeping).

Business News

OTTAWA (CP) — Vehicles crossing the border into Canada from the United States numbered 2,820,283 in July compared with 2,778,731 in the corresponding month last year, the Dominion Bureau of Statistics reported Wednesday.

Persons entering Canada from the United States by rail, bus, boat and plane numbered 454,811 in July compared with 470,249 in July, 1960.

Index of farm prices of Canadian agricultural products in August declined to 237.3 from 238.6 in July. The index is based on the average 1935 - 39 price equalling 100. A sharp drop in the price of potatoes in August was accompanied by minor reductions in livestock and poultry prices and small increases in the prices of grains and dairy products.

Nkrumah Opponents Put Under Arrest

By HORACE CASTELL

ACCRA, Ghana (Reuters)—Dozens of opponents of President Kwame Nkrumah were under arrest today following allegations by the government of a plot to assassinate Nkrumah and some members of his cabinet.

A government statement listed 48 persons who were in custody, but opposition United Party leaders J. B. Danquah and Obetsebi Lamptey escaped the roundup and were being sought.

Among those arrested was 38-year - old lawyer Joe Appiah, deputy leader of the parliamentary opposition since 1958. He is married to Peggy Cripps, daughter of the late British Labor chancellor of the exchequer, Sir Stafford Cripps.

Other well - known names among those arrested included Kwame Kesse, city editor of the Ashanti Pioneer, a newspaper opposing Nkrumah; and P. K. Quaidoo, once an Nkrumah minister and now an outspoken parliamentary opponent of the government.

EDITOR ARRESTED

A. P. Appiah, former editor of The Ashanti Pioneer, also was arrested.

A government statement referred to "clandestine and dangerous activities of certain individuals" calculated to "subvert and endanger the security of the state."

The statement said the acts included "violence, secret meetings, the taking of oaths to assassinate the president and certain members of the government, strikes, sabotage and

"These are all designed to effect the violent overthrow of the lawfully - constituted government," the statement added.

The arrests brought to almost 300 the number of Nkrumah opponents who are being held.

There's a
HEAT THIEF
In Your Attic Stealing Heating Dollars

This notorious thief has victimized innocent home-owners for years, robbing them of fuel dollars and comfort. He's in your attic right now if your insulation thickness is less than the 4" fuel saving level.
What to do? Measure your attic insulation.
If it's less than 4" thick, see us for Zonolite. We'll show you how easy it is to beat the Heat Thief forever by pouring lightweight Zonolite right over the existing insulation.
We'll show you how about $50 in extra Zonolite can bring you a return of 15% to 28% on your investment — not only the first year, but every year.

WHAT'S THIS, BESSIE? A little TV between chewing cuds? Farm experts say "impersonal touch" of milking machines upsets cows, that they give more milk when surrounded by humans — or at least images of humans. So TV was called into play at Brampton, Ont., farm of John Bull.
