Britain Backs Kennedy in Call for Disarmament Talks

RUSSIA ACCUSED

By JOSEPH MacSWEEN

UNITED NATIONS (CP)—Britain accused the Soviet Union Wednesday of "deliberate deception" in negotiations for a nuclear test ban.

British Foreign Secretary Lord Home said progress had been made in the Geneva negotiations that continued intermittently for some four years but Russia sabotaged the effort.

Disarmament was one of the major topics discussed by Home before the 16th United Nations General Assembly as he delivered Britain's major policy speech following earlier addresses by United States President Kennedy and Soviet Foreign Minister Gromyko.

Home said Russia resumed nuclear - bomb tests although "very few points" remained for settlement in the Geneva talks among the Soviet Union, the U.S. and Britain.

Britain and the U.S. had come forward with new proposals "designed to meet some of Russia's criticisms which we thought to be real," the Briton declared.

BEGIN TESTS

"They were not even discussed. Instead Russia announced that she was resuming tests in the atmosphere and in fact began the process immediately with a whole series of explosions.

"We know enough to be sure that such an extensive range of 16 explosions, all involving fallout, took months of careful preparation.

"In other words, while one side was negotiating in good faith, the other was engaged in deliberate deception. If there is to be any confidence between nations—any hope of peaceful coexistence—that way of negotiation must be renounced by public example, for the plain truth is that the world cannot survive such double dealing."

Home pledged Britain's all-out effort to find a basis for negotiation on Berlin, and called for new East - West disarmament talks on the basis of proposals outlined by Kennedy Monday.

He urged the Soviet Union to join in making the UN's collective machinery for peace truly effective, including the setting up of an efficient international police force.

DEPARTS FROM TEXT

The Briton departed considerably from his prepared text. He deleted an accusation that Russia was "playing with nuclear fire" in exploiting civil strife. But a British delegation spokesman said Home stood behind all statements in the prepared text.

Applause greeted his declaration that Britain would insist upon the right of self-determination and freedom for the people of West Berlin in any negotiations with the Russians.

Home said Kennedy gave a "stirring lead" in disarmament Monday and he was further encouraged by an agreement in disarmament principles between the U.S. and Russia. This was similar in essence to principles enunciated by the Commonwealth prime ministers at their last meeting in London.

But the difficulty was constantly found in efforts to "translate principles into action."

"In particular the difference has centred upon the function of inspection not so much of arms destroyed but of the manufacturing capacity which remains."

WANTS TALKS RESUMED

The British leader suggested that over-all disarmament negotiations be resumed either within the 10-power East-West group which broke up in disagreement in June, 1960, or by that group with agreed-upon additions.

He outlined strongly the Western insistence upon a strong UN executive as opposed to the Soviet demand for a three-man secretariat, the "troika," representing the West, communism and neutralism with a three-way veto.

The Briton hit by implication at non-aligned nations whom he accused of using a double standard for East and West.

"Is there growing up a code of international behavior in which one rule is to be applied to the Communists and another to the Western democracies?

"For instance, if it had been Britain or America who had lately conducted a series of 16 nuclear tests in the atmosphere . . . would the voices of criticism have been so hushed?"

Russia, said Home, was "pushing a door that is already open" when it criticized Britain regarding colonialism. Kennedy, he noted, had reminded the assembly that the U.S. was once a colony of Britain.

Lost Hunters Found Alive

PRINCE GEORGE, B.C. (CP) Four hunters, missing since Sunday in whe wilderness of Tweedsmuir Park, 110 miles south west of this interior city, were found alive Wednesday.

Earlier in the day, the first blast of winter, with snow, sleet and rain, had hampered a search for the party, identified as Douglas Fletcher, a gunsmith, and taxi drivers Rudy Keilbiski, Andrew Brassard and Russell Brandner, all of Prince George.

Reports said the men had camped near Petachuk Lake, 90 miles south west of here, to await better weather, then went by boat to the Kenney Dam, where they had last been seen Monday morning, riding out a storm in their 16-foot boat.

All four Wednesday went on to Vanderhoof and at night were returning here.

Reports said the men were cold but unharmed.

Two other members of the party which went into the area Sunday for a week's hunting—Tommy Dennison and Mervin Stade, also of Prince George—came out to civilization to tell of the disappearance of their companions.

Dennison told this story:

The party set off from Kenney Dam in two boats Sunday. Monday morning the storm struck. The four missing men were towing a small punt behind their cruiser when last seen and Dennison and Stade were in another small boat powered by an outboard motor.

IN GREAT FORM and spirits in Toronto the other day as he accepted the keys of a new library at the University of Toronto to officially open it was Prime Minister Diefenbaker. But as the prime minister spoke he grew serious and solemn as he said that though he found it "difficult to believe" there will be a third world war, the cold war will last "a long, long time."—TNS photo.

Autumn in Nelson . . . . . Snow at Quesnel

VANCOUVER (CP)—First general snow of the season fell in British Columbia Wednesday.

Heavy snow was reported in the Kenney Dam area south of Vanderhoof, 300 miles north of here. Snow with some rain was reported at Williams Lake and Carmi, 200 miles north, and at Quesnel, 250 miles north.

PREMIER'S SPEECH NOT EVIDENCE AT COLUMBIA SITTING

REVELSTOKE, B.C. (CP)—A CCF member of the British Columbia legislature Wednesday blamed the B.C. Power Commission for a "crippling war of nerves" in a district destined for flooding and hydro-electric development.

George Hobbs, the member for Revelstoke, was speaking at hearings into the application of the B.C. Power Commission for a licence to proceed with the vast $458,000,000 Columbia development scheme.

Wednesday afternoon's session lasted only 45 minutes.

Mr. Hobbs said he blamed the power commission for increased unemployment in the district, and charged commission officers at the hearings had inadequate answers to witnesses questions.

The MLA said no allowance had been made in Columbia plans for surges in the river level.

Provincial water comptroller A. F. Paget, conducting the hearings, said in reply "it is not as devastating as you are trying to make it sound."

Earlier Wednesday, Vancouver consulting engineer F. J. Bartholomew tried unsuccessfully to dispute assertions that Columbia power would be the cheapest of any hydro development in the world.

Mr. Bartholomew, representing the Revelstoke board of trade, tried to introduce at the hearing the speech made by Premier Bennett recently in Prince George. The premier had said that the Columbia treaty with the United States was "not good enough" but could be made to work if B.C. could get five mills per kilowatt hour from the U.S. for its share of downstream benefit power.

Comptroller Paget told Mr. Bartholomew to stick to evidence of an engineering character and not delve into the treaty itself.

The comptroller's ruling came after Mr. Bartholomew maintained that a recent speech by Justice Minister Fulton indicated that treaty could be changed without reopening the whole issue with the United States.

He referred to Mr. Fulton's disclosure that the U.S. was prepared to build a transmission line from the U.S. northwest to the Canadian border, which could forestall a Canadian outlay of $110,000,000 for a line from Oliver, B.C. to the coast.

Mr. Bartholomew confused the hearing when he at first said that both he and the Revelstoke board of trade were unalterably opposed to the Columbia and then reversed his position.

He said he had "made a mistake" and that he and the board were not opposed to the whole Columbia development but only certain phases of it.

"I asked you three times if you were opposed and you replied in the affirmative," said Mr. Paget. "I warn you to be more careful in the future when giving evidence under oath."

Faculty Urges Construction UBC Hospital

VERNON (CP)—A brief urging construction of a University of B.C. hospital was submitted wednesday for consideration by the 58th annual Union of B.C. Municipalities convention.

The brief was prepared by the medical faculty of UBC and earlier presented to the UBCM executive.

Ald. Halford D. Wilson of Vancouver, UBCM president, made it clear that the UBCM is not in a position to commit any member municipality to a cause involving financial commitments and therefore municipal support would have to remain on a local level.

An urgent requirement for the university hospital was the training of personnel for the chronic care and rehabilitation program which was announced by the provincial government on Sept. 1, 1960;

It would be possible in a university hospital to conduct research which will allow evaluation of new methods of treatment;

The hospital would also serve as a laboratory for the British Columbia Hospital Insurance Service;

The university hospital would become a referral centre for many of the problem cases in B.C.

The brief also suggested that such a hospital would provide consultation services of a kind not now available to the average man.

MUNICIPAL BANK IDEA TOLD UBCM

VERNON (CP) — Establishment of a municipal development bank to make available low-interest capital for municipal purposes was urged here Wednesday by George S. Mooney, president of the Canadian Federation of Mayors and Municipalities.

Mr. Mooney was key speaker at the opening session Wednesday morning of the 58th annual convention of the Union of B.C. Municipalities before some 500 delegates from throughout the province.

Municipal governments have been operating in a financial straight-jacket where there is room neither for development of local capital works nor to keep pace with accelerated urban development and re-development, he said.

Pearson Airs Views on UN

EDMONTON (CP) — If the United Nations General Assembly appoints an acting secretary-general, "he will probably have to be an Asian or an African," national Liberal Leader Lester B. Pearson said Wednesday.

Mr. Pearson said during a televised press conference that an Asian or African from one of the neutralist countries would be needed to gain the necessary two-thirds support of the General Assembly.

He said Russia's troika demand — a three-man secretariat composed of Communist, Western and neutralist representatives — would handcuff the UN.

Mr. Pearson said he was opposed to Canada's acquisition of nuclear weapons under Canadian control since this would mean enlarging the "nuclear club" at a time when Canada is striving for disarmament.

Bonner, Shrum Meet On Bid To Sue

VICTORIA (CP)—Attorney-General Bonner said Wednesday the B.C. Power Corporation bid to sue the government for better compensation in the B.C. Electric takeover is "under advisement."

B.C. Power has asked for a fiat to sue the crown for $225,000,000 compensation for the takeover of B.C. Electric common stock. The government paid $110,985,045 for it.

Decision on whether or not to grant the petition allowing the case to go to court rests with the cabinet.

But the attorney-general's department is investigating the issue, and Mr. Bonner Monday had a meeting here with Dr. Gordon Shrum, president and chairman of the Crown-owned B.C. Electric.

CBC Will Warn If Attack Comes

By DON HANRIGHT

OTTAWA (CP)—The Canadian government has ordered a crash program to set up the emergency broadcasting system for use in the event of nuclear attack.

The object is to dovetail the army's siren warning sysem with all possible radio and television stations so the public, hearing sirens, could get information quickly from radio or TV.

Reliable informants said Wednesday that Saturday the army will have completed direct links to key CBC stations from the regional warning centres across the country.

These centres already are tied electronically to defence headquarters in Ottawa where the army has put the warning announcements into teletype tapes for transmission the moment it gets government authority to sound the sirens.

The CBC in turn has the task of building a single national network of radio and TV stations. It involves patching together the corporation's existing regional networks and adding to them.

Now that would be done "very quickly," a CBC source said Wednesday.

20 MINUTES WARNING

The army believes it would it would get 15 to 20 minutes' warning of any attack.

In the event that any key radio station was destroyed in an attack, the government would use mobile transmitters to take up the broadcasting slack in that area.

The entire scheme labels the publicly-owned CBC as the agent of the government in any emergency. It will take its instructions from the army and only the CBC will do programming.

Once an attack has occurred, the CBC and a group of privately - owned radio stations would be blended into a broadcasting chain capable of reaching 97 per cent of the country's population of 18,000,000. Most, if not all, TV stations would go off the air.

Private radio stations involved in this post-attack network would be under government control and the CBC programs would be fed into them. A 1958 order-in-council gives the government that power.

USE NORMAL FREQUENCY

Both CBC and privately-owned stations, would broadcast on their normal frequencies since it is felt here that people, penned up wherever they could find some fallout protection, would be turning radio dials anyway to see what stations they could receive.

PM TO ADDRESS UBCM MEETING

VERNON (CP) — Prime Minister Diefenbaker flies into the Okanagan today for a one-day visit which will include a speech to the Union of B.C. Municipalities' convention.

The prime minister and Mrs. Diefenbaker will be greeted at Kelowna's Ellison field by Vernon Mayor Frank Becker, Kelowna Mayor Dick Parkinson, Okanagan-Revelstoke MP Stuart Fleming and Vancouver Alderman Halford Wilson, president of the UBCM.

NEW MISS CANADA is Nina Holden of Victoria but she comes to her crown under a cloud. S. Radcliffe Weaver, director of the contest, says he will have no trouble with Miss Holden after firing the girl who won the contest, Miss Connie-Gail Feller of Ottawa, for "not being humble enough." Weaver maintained Miss Feller had not met her commitments and made Miss Holden, runner-up in the contest, the new Miss Canada.—TNS photo.

'Berlin' Was U.S.-Russ Subject 'We'll See' Rusk's Only Comment

NEW YORK (AP)—American State Secretary Dean Rusk and Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko conferred for four hours Wednesday on the Berlin crisis, then announced they will meet again Saturday.

Rusk, leaving Gromyko's headquarters about 5 p.m., declined to say whether any progress had been made in arriving at a formula to start detailed negotiations on a possible Berlin settlement.

He would say only "we'll see, we'll see."

The two men and their advisers met at 1 p.m. Rusk said they had "a very good lunch and a very good talk." Gromyko, who had accompanied him to the sidewalk, said "our conversations are not concluded."

After Rusk left, Gromyko was asked whether he thought it would be possible to work out a compromise on the problem of naming a temporary successor to the late United Nations Secretary - General Dag Hammarskjold.

Referring to some reports that Russia has proposed the appointment of four secretaries-general, Gromyko said he had made no such proposal. What he has in mind, he said, is to select four persons, one of whom would be considered as a chairman. The other three would be deputies.

Western diplomats consider this a slightly disguised form of the Soviet "troika" plan which calls for three men to hold office of secretary-general jointly. For an interim period, Gromyko is willing, as he made clear again Wednesday, to have the "troika" at the level of deputies or undersecretaries.

Asked whether there would be a veto in this interim arrangement, Gromyko in effect affirmed that there would, although he did not use the word. He said the four persons should work as a team and do their utmost in association with the UN Security Council to "solve questions on the basis of understanding."

Lead-Zinc Deposits Prompt Start of New North Rail

OTTAWA (CP)—A bill to build the first rail link into the Northwest Territories skipped through Senate committee approval and final reading Wednesday and awaits royal assent to become law.

The measure, subjected to considerable criticism in the Commons and some Tuesday night in the Senate itself, was passed without amendment but on division — dissent recorded without a formal vote being called.

For the 438-mile line from Grimshaw in northern Alberta will run to Hay River, a south shore port on Great Slave Lake, and to huge lead-zinc deposits east at Pine Point.

The government would provide the publicly-owned CPR up to $36,250,000 for the line. Pine Point Mines Limited, subsidiary of Consolidated Mining and Smelting Company of Canada Limited which in turn is controlled by the CPR, would be the main immediate customer.

Under an agreement to be signed, Pine Point would guarantee 215,000 tons of ore concentrates at $7.50 a ton for 10 years, covering railway operating and maintenance costs. Additionally over 10 years, it would pay a maximum $20,000,000—or a maximum $2,000,000 a year.

VARIES WITH MARKET

This would vary on the basis of the market value of the ore being shipped south to the Cominco smelters at Trail, B.C., where ore supplies are waning.

Criticism of members of the Senate's Liberal majority in committee Wednesday echoed that of the Liberals and CCF in the Commons where doubt was expressed about provisions for getting a return on the public investment.

Senator W. Ross Macdonald, Senate opposition leader, asked why the CPR wasn't contributing anything to the line when it could expect advantages on the ensuing traffic—not only minerals but farm produce, timber and fish.

Transport Minister Balcer said the CNR wasn't putting up anything either. The CNR would haul more of the traffic on its lines than the CPR would despite the all-CPR route from Calgary to Trail.

The CPR subsidiaries were investing millions in the mine and extra smelting facilities at Trail, besides guaranteeing the initial 10-year operation.

The committee was told that the route survey begun last December should be completed this December. Conditions were better than originally anticipated so that the maximum allotment of $86,250,000 might not be required.

100 UN Members; Sierra Leone In

UNITED NATIONS (CP) — The United Nations General Assembly unanimously approved Wednesday night the application for membership of Sierra Leone. The former British African colony became the 100th member of the world organization.

Municipalities Urged to Become Emergency Minded

VERNON (CP)—Greater emergency consciousness at the municipal level was urged Wednesday by Municipal Affairs Minister Wesley Black.

In a potpourri address to the annual convention of the Union of British Columbia Municipalities, he proposed that local government use all its personnel, facilities and equipment in civil defence training.

Mr. Black, before more than 400 convention delegates, urged that municipalities identify the emergency functions of government, reinforce those departments, augment their staff with volunteer auxiliaries, and train all personnel in their emergency functions.

He said his department hoped to introduce amendments to the Municipal Act which would counter what he termed delaying tactics by determined persons who use the courts to "adversely affect the carrying out of municipal business."

He praised as "one of the finest examples of co-operative efforts between municipal councils" the district of Glenmore and city of Kelowna amalgamation.

HOT RESOLUTIONS

Of 22 resolutions considered during the afternoon session, five were defeated on the floor and one was withdrawan because of duplication. Two were amended.

The hottest debate arose, as expected, over a resolution from the municipality of Burnaby asking for legislation which would extend the borrowing powers of municipalities for extension, and renewal of those municipal utilities enjoying a provincial guarantee.

Reeve Alan Emmott, in proposing the resolution, following a rejection by the resolutions committee, said he felt it "completely ridiculous" that municipal elected representatives were denied powers to approve borrowing of money without public approval, held by their colleagues in senior governments.

Courtenay's mayor William Moore agreed, adding: "When MLAs and MPs want to do something like take over the B.C. Electric company, they go ahead and do it. We must be a bunch of knuckleheads if we can't assume this sort of responsibility."

Earlier in the day, UBCM president Ald. Halford D. Wilson of Vancouver, in his annual report, urged municipal sharing in the proposed provincial income tax and corporation taxes to help pay for such things as education — becoming an increasingly heavy burden on muncipal resources.

He suggested that the municipal portion of provincial income tax would necessitate an increase in the rate over and above other provincial needs.

The convention adjourned at 5 p.m. and will resume today. Prime Minister Diefenbaker will speak tonight.

Delegates showed concern Wednesday about the difficulty of getting ratepayer approval for money bylaws.

By wide margins they passed separate resolutions which would reduce the necessary majority for money bylaws from 60 per cent to a simple majority and eliminate the necessity altogether of putting certain money bylaws to ratepayers, under specific conditions.

Similar resolutions were approved by the UBCM in 1959 and 1960.

The convention also approved a resolution to change the municipal voting day from Thursday to Saturday. This would effect every city, district and village, except Vancouver.

Power Pole Sheared by Skidding Car

Two Kootenay Lake men discovered Sunday morning that the horsepower under the modern motor vehicle hood can be wild as its animal counterpart.

Their 1958 vehicle failed to take a corner, two miles west of Balfour. It went into a side skid, over some rocks, sheared off a 12-inch diameter power pole four feet above the ground, flipped over and skidded 20 feet from the stump before stopping.

Samuel John Ralph, of Crawford Bay, the driver, and passenger John Cox of Balfour were not injured. The vehicle was owned by Joseph Hummel of Saskatoon.

Damage to the vehicle was estimated at $1700.

A charge will be laid against the driver, the RCMP said.

Public Invited To Join Fine Arts School

Membership to the Nelson Summer School of Fine Arts will be opened to the general public, it was decided at a directors' meeting Monday.

A $5 membership fee will allow any interested person to join the organization. In the past, the opportunity to join was by invitation only.

The new members will soon have a chance to assert their authority as a meeting to elect an executive of seven officers for 1961-62 has been scheduled for October 16 in the Capitol. The changed bylaws will be discussed and the new memberships also will be accepted.

The effect of this change is to dissolve the present board of directors and to ensure that any interested Nelsonite has the opportunity to show interest and take an active part in the school.

A nominating committee has been appointed and includes Vincent Fink, Mrs. J. A. McDonald and Mrs. J. G. McMurchy.

It is understood that many of the current directors will allow their names to stand for office at the meeting.

Nearly $300 In Fines Levied Here

Four traffic charges netted George E. Longden of Nelson a fine total of $60 in police court.

Longden paid $15 and costs on each of the charges which were: failing to stop at a stop sign, proceeding the wrong way on a one-way street, speeding in excess in a 30-mile-per-hour speed zone and driving without headlights.

His license also was suspended for one month.

Albert Erickosn of Calgary received the minimum penalty on an impaired driving charge by stipendiary magistrate K. D. McRae in provincial court. Erikson was fined $50 on the charge. He had been picked up by the RCMP while sleeping in his vehicle parked on the side of the road.

D. L. Kelly of Nelson for driving against a highway sign was $10 poorer following his appearance in court.

A $10 fine was also issued to L. A. Prive of RR 1, Nelson when convicted of driving a motor vehicle without trailer plates.

D. R. Parker of Nelson paid a $50 fine for consuming liquor in a public place.

Appearing before Magistrate R. S. Nelson Monday, Wayne H. Martin, 18, of Nelson was sentenced to three days in jail and fined $100 Monday for breaking, entering and theft.

The offence occurred Sept. 20 on the premises of Finning Tractor Ltd. A juvenile charged in the same case will appear in court Oct. 6.

Martin was also charged with stealing a wheel and tire the same night from a parked car near the fish hatchery. On this count he was given a six months suspended sentence and required to put up a $200 bond to keep the peace.

John R. Humphrey was sentenced to 18 months in Oakalla prison on two separate charges of theft in a downtown rooming house.

Humphrey, a transient, was sentenced to 12 months on a charge of stealing a television set. He received a six-month sentence for stealing an electric razor.

VANCOUVER (CP) — B. C. Forest Service warned Tuesday that the fire season is not over. A spokesman said that although the weather is cooler, the hazard is still high. One fire, in the Courtenay district had reached 8,000 acres before it was extinguished.

30 Exhibits Entered In Bayoff Hearing

CRESTON — Thirty exhibits have been entered in the hearing of Mike Bayoff of Wynndel, charged with unlawfully having dynamite with intent to cause serious damage to property.

During the second day of his hearing Wednesday eight witnesses testified.

Exhibits entered included a vial of sawdust, burlap sack, wrapper from a stick of dynamite, watch, two batteries, electrician's tape, wire, and a charcoal carcoat.

Bayoff is said to have had dynamite in his possession between March 26 and April 15 of this year at Goatfell or elsewhere in the Kootenay.

Witnesses who testified were: Sgt. E. J. Thalen of the Creston RCMP detachment; Const. Fred Bodnaruk of the Nelson RCMP detachment; Const. R. L. Carlson of Nelson; M. Graham, CPR investigator; Staff-Sgt. J. N. Robinson of the RCMP laboratory in Regina; Sgt. J. C. Spencer, Chilliwack; William Berikoff, Creston, and Nick Evdokimoff of Passmore.

Defence counsel G. Bruce Arnesen confined cross-examination mainly to the RCMP witnesses.

The hearing, before Magistrate Harold Langston, drew little attention. Spectators in the gallery stayed only long enough to hear one or two witnesses.

Students Win Scholarships

JAMES BEDARD

JUDY FRANSEN

Miss Judy Fransen and James Bedard were announced as winners of the Nelson and District Teacher's Association scholarships. The awards of $100 each were announced at the general meeting of the association September 26 by the scholarship committee.

This annual award is presented each September to a student graduting from the high schools of School District No. 7. The award arises from the desire of local teachers to encourage suitable candidates to enter the teaching profession. The recipient must be enrolled in a Teachers Training Institution, have a good scholastic record and be deserving of the assistance. Both are graduates of L. V. Rogers High School and are now attending Victoria College and University of B.C. respectively.

Salmo-Creston Trek Set For Sunday

The annual Salmo-Creston trek has been scheduled for Sunday.

Western Chambers of Commerce representatives from Rossland, Trail, Nelson, Castlegar will congregate at F. B. Rotter's garage in Salmo at 10:30 a.m. Sunday for the annual trek to view the progress of the Creston-Salmo cutoff.

East Kootenay chamber representatives will be from Creston Cranbrook and Kimberley. H. Lloyd Miller of Creston is in charge of organizing the eastern section.

It is hoped that provincial secretary Hon. W. D. Black and Donald Brothers of Trail, MLA for Rossland-Trail, will make the jaunt.

All interested parties are to supply their own steaks for the barbecue while salad and refreshment will be supplied by the hosts, the Salmo group.

Two-wheel drive vehicles will be able to travel from Salmo but only four-wheel drive vehicles will be able to travel on the cutoff from Creston.

Mrs. Jackman Laid at Rest

Funeral services were held Wednesday for Mrs. Mary Louise Jackman of Nelson who died Sunday at the age of 71 years.

Officiating clergyman was Rev. Robert C. Vaughan. Hymns sung were "Abide With Me" and "Rock of Ages."

Four sons and two sons-in-law were pallbearers: James G. Wiseman, Robert Irving, Edwin C., Robert A., Leonard W. and James P. Jackman.

Interment took place in Nelson Memorial Park.

Notre Dame Courses Under Way, College Lines Up Lecture Series

Final first semester registration figures have been released by the Registrar at Notre Dame University College.

The total number of students enrolled is 129. Of this figure, 92 are men students, and 37 are women. First year students comprise 93 of the 129 students and 36 are taking second year courses. There are 92 registered Catholic students, and 37 of other faiths. The students come from eight geographic divisions: British Columbia, 95; Alberta, 9; Nova Scotia, 2; Northwest Territories, 1; Washington, 19; Idaho, 1; California, 1; Kenya, East Africa, 1.

The Registrar also announced that 11 students from eight British Columbia high schools had won academic scholarships worth $1200.

The awards are tenable for one year and are made to entering first year students achieving first or second class honors in the Provincial Junior Matriculation examinations.

Scholarships each worth one-half tuition, were awarded to Eileen Heal and Ilona Schwartz. Both obtained first class honors in their examinations. Miss Heal of Oliver graduated from Southern Okanagan High School with an average of 84 percent. Miss Schwartz, from Revelstoke, attended Revelstoke High School, graduating with an 82 percent average.

One-third tuition scholarships for attaining second class honors went to nine other students. They are: Rosemary Gansner, Nelson; Joanne DePaul, St. Ann's Academy, New Westminster; Maureen Topping, Oliver; John Vernon Rokosh, Kimberley; Marie Hilton, St. Ann's Academy, New Westminster; Peter Lancaster, Michel; Linda Hesketh, Castlegar; and Jimmy Schmaltz, Natal.

GOVERNMENT OFFER

The scholarships are granted by the University College "in view of the offering by the government of British Columbia of scholarships to students of the province attending other colleges" and schools. The grants are made available to Notre Dame by the Roman Catholic Diocese of Nelson.

Another scholarship worth $250 was awarded to a Lumby, B.C. girl by the New Westminster Lions Club.

The award went to Anna Marie Dyck, 18, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Peter Dyck of Lumby. Miss Dyck, who was born in Vernon and educated at the Lumby High School and St. Ann's Academy, New Westminster, is a first year Arts student at Notre Dame University College.

LECTURERS NAMED

The Registrar also announced the schedule for the annual series of lectures given by the Notre Dame College staff.

The lectures, geared to public interest and aimed at both the students, deal with contemporary problems and trends. The first general public and to serious lecture will be delivered October 11 by J. J. Hanus, speaking on "The Natural Law in Today's World." He is to be followed by:

Rev. J. Postma, speaking on "Social Justice and the Church" (Nov. 8); Rev. J. DuLong, "Analysis of Some Trends in Modern Literature" (Dec. 13); J. M. MacAulay, "Fact and Fiction in Theories of Modern Psychology" (Jan. 10); Rev. Aquinas Thomas, "Parental Rights in the Education of Children" (Feb 14); E. Randall, "Some Effects of the Theory of Evolution on Modern Thought" (Mar. 14); and Martin L. Brown, "Canada and Latin America" (April 11).

For the first time, the College will institute a season's ticket to help defray costs of the presentation. All lectures will begin at 8:00 p.m. in room 111, Arts Building.

Progressive Recreation Program Proposed

A superintendent of recreation, voluntary leadership, a city wide survey of the public's recreational needs, expanded program and facilities were suggested for the improvement of the city's recreation program Wednesday.

M. B. Slater, Richard McKeen and commissioner R. D. Bradshaw, professionals in the fields of physical education and recreation told the Civic Centre Commission they felt implementation of their suggestions would result in a more progressive education program and at the same time proportionally save the taxpayer money.

All felt that the administration of the Civic Centre and recreation needs should come under one man, a superintendent of recreation. He would be responsible to the commissioners, they in turn to the city council.

This one-man administration idea was originally presented to commissioners by Mr. Bradshaw two weeks ago. Under his proposed plan, parks department would eventually also come under the administration of the superintendent of recreation, thereby, correlating all the facilities and personnel directly related to recreation.

It would be the superintendent's duty to keep the commissioners informed on every aspect and to give guidance in outlining future programs.

NEED PROFESSIONAL

The trio recommended that a fully qualified professional man in administration and recreation be sought. They admitted that he would initially cost more than an untrained man, but in the long run the cost would be lower.

"I think the place that the money should go is into the man, not into your program," said Mr. Slater, an L. V. Rogers High School teacher and voluntary athletic director at the school. "You won't do it for $5,000 a year."

"You get what you pay for," chairman Dr. C. E. Bradshaw commented.

"By putting the money into a professionally trained man your costs will be proportionally lower," said Mr. McKeen.

SURVEY PROPOSED

Mr. Slater suggested that a survey of the city be undertaken, either by phone, questionnaire or a door-to-door campaign.

He also urged that the recreation program be decentralized from the Civic Centre, that public facilities like school auditoriums be implemented in the program to meet the public's tastes.

"Recreation revolves around three things in Nelson," said Mr. Slater, "hockey, curling and what goes on in the gymnasium.

"Anything that you do in your worthwhile leisure time activity is recreation.

"The scope of recreation is so broad that in order to get people interested in what you are doing for them, you must go out to the people. You cannot wait until the people come to you.

In commenting on the program of recreation director Ernie Gare, who resigned in August, he said, "Ernie's recreation program was as good as any in Nelson's history."

"We actually had a summer program that ran for six weeks and was successful."

Mr. McKeen said that administration was still desired.

NEED ADMINISTRATION

"I think there has not been a successful administration established," said Mr. McKeen. "You have had people here who have been enthusiastic but they have failed to set up an administration."

In reply to a query by Dr. Bradshaw, Mr. McKeen said he felt that the recreation program in Nelson in the past had been good but had failed in providing public recreation.

By this he meant a program which provided facilities, evaluated facilities, full utilization of facilities by the public and to plan a program which could fit in the city budget, and at the same time provide the training needed for voluntary leaders.

"Training of voluntary leaders has not taken place. If we do not give training, it will come down to the Civic Centre trying to fulfil all the recreational needs of the people without voluntary help," he said.

Commissioner Bradshaw, in his plan, suggested three major changes: a change in personnel of the commission, duties of superintendent of recreation to be defined and Civic Centre management and recreational duties be combined under one administrator.

By change in personnel, Mr. Bradshaw said he would like to see a person each interested in horticulture, athletics, special events, arts and crafts, a representative from the school board, a representative from city council comprise the commission.

The commissioner also moved that because he is deeply interested in recreation that he be named to the three-man committee, already appointed, that is looking into the recreation picture.

"I move that I am appointed to this committee which will look into this matter of co-ordinating the facilities in the future," said Mr. Bradshaw.

Chairman Bradshaw said that this was an unheard of parliamentary procedure manoeuvre.

"It is not out of order," challenged Mr. Bradshaw.

"It is not in order," countered the chairman. "It is never in order."

The matter was dismissed without asking for a seconder.

No motion followed the suggestions put forth by three recreational men and the commissioners moved into "committee of the whole."

No indication of what steps will be taken to provide a successor to Mr. Gare were given.

Lions' Tussle Startles Visitor

The Nelson Lions Club might well claim the title of the liveliest service club in Nelson.

A Lion visitor from the East at the regular dinner meeting of the club Tuesday night was treated to a vivid picture of "the wild an' woolly west" when members broke into teams and staged a tug of war to settle their dinner.

On the business agenda, R. A. Phillips reported on the club's light bulb campaign. The Lions will stage the annual sale of light bulbs Oct. 11 and 12. The sale will be conducted house-to-house as in previous years.

On the list of entertainment for the evening Chris Trkla showed slides of his recent five-month holiday in Europe.

Guests were Donald Budge of Winnipeg, L. D. Gray of Quebec and Donald T. MacDonald of Nelson.

MOOSE SEEN ON HIGHWAY

The moose which swam across Kootenay Lake from Pilot Bay point to Balfour is apparently "heading west."

Thus observed D. G. R. Sargent after he nearly hit a moose when it lumbered across the road as he drove home to Longbeach from Nelson Wednesday night. It was in the Willow Point area.

"I've never seen one around here before," Mr. Sargent told the Daily News. He said the animal ran on into the B. Schneider property.

Injured Boys Taken to Coast

Two Salmo teenagers injured in a dynamite cap explosion in the mining town Sunday were flown to a Vancouver hospital Monday morning.

Dr. R. M. McCullough said that the injured eyes of Wayne Boychuk and of Gregory Fisher have shown marked improvement.

There is a possibility still that Boychuk may lose the sight in one eye. He will undergo an operation.

As yet no definite theory has been advanced on how the explosion occurred. The RCMP believed that the explosion may have involved between 20 and 30 dynamite caps. Only three unexploded caps were found at the scene.

RCMP reported that the box containing the caps apparently had been stored in the vacant barn for about ten years. This is based upon the fact that the caps are no longer produced. They are similar to the present day number 6 caps.

Fireworks Bylaw Passes At Cranbrook

CRANBROOK — City council gave final reading to a by-law which prohibits the sale or explosion of fireworks within city limits at any time. Application has now been made to lead to eventual extension of the by-law to a three-mile limit around city limits, which would also prevent extra-municipal sale or detonation of fireworks.

The by-law is supplementary to the provincial Explosives Act which contorls sale and explosion of fireworks year-round excepting the final week in October, which allows for Hallowe'en. The Municipal Act would cover the prohibition in this week.

Seven Local Improvements by-laws for concrete sidewalks in residential areas were given three readings, and two more petitions are expected for consideration for the 1961 fall concrete sidewalk program.

Reliable Homes, Ltd., application for a sewer layers' trade license was considered and approved subject to posting of the required bond. Also approved were applications for water connections over one-half inch by A. E. Jones Construction Ltd. for an apartment house on 13th Avenue South, and by the Zenith Cafe owners.

Midnight Fire Destroys Ainsworth Home

AINSWORTH — A fire which broke out at midnight Monday in the Ainsworth home belonging to M. D. Currie burned the house to the ground and only a few belongings were saved.

A single man, Mr. Currie had just moved into the house last weekend after bringing his effects from Peace River.

No water was available to fight the fire as there was a defect in the water line, according to a report from Ainsworth.

Nominations Called at Greenwood

GREENWOOD—Paul Forshaw, an alderman of the city of Greenwood since 1957, has submitted his resignation to council following disposal of his business interests.

Mr. Forshaw was owner of Supreme Auto Court, which he has sold to Boyd Mitchell, and the Forshaw family will be leaving Greenwood for North Vancouver.

Greenwood city council is calling for candidates to fill the unexpired term of 15 months. Nomination papers were to be in the hands of the returning officer, R. Jenkyns, by Thursday.

In the event of a poll being necessary, such poll will be opened at the city hall on Friday, Oct. 6, 1961.

PREPARE FOR TEACHER-BOARD NEGOTIATIONS

CRANBROOK — East Kootenay branch of the B.C. School Trustees Association and East Kootenay Teachers' Association are naming committees for the district-wide negotiations toward the individual 1962 teacher-board contracts. In the past few years these contracts have required annual renewal and have been on a school district basis only, with some settling terms in direct negotiations, and some requiring arbitration hearings. Teacher associations and school boards involved in the district-wide basis are Golden, Lake Windermere, Kimberley, Fernie, Creston and Cranbrook. Sept. 30 is final date for notification by either contract party of termination of the current agreement Dec. 31.

Tenders Called For School Construction

Tenders have been called for the construction of an addition to Twin Rivers Elementary School in Castlegar. Last day for submitting a tender has been set at Oct. 12.

David P. Fairbank of Nelson is the architect.

Plans Art Classes at Valley Points

INVERMERE—Plans for continuing art classes at Columbia Valley points were made recently when Beverley Harris, Windermere artist who has been teaching art under the Provincial Recreation Commission for the past several years, met members of his classes at a combined picnic-sketching trip-meeting at Spillimacheen.

Two carloads of Golden art students, one carload from Edgewater and one from Windermere joined forces to plan a winter program.

Mr. Harris hopes to go to Golden occasionally during the winter to help and encourage the group there who have benefitted by the classes he conducted last winter. Edgewater also had classes last year and Mr. Harris has taught a night-school art class at Windermere for several years.

Plans for opening of the winter session this year will be announced later.

8200 Feet Asphalt Get Seal Coating

CRANBROOK — Using city-owned street material plant and equipment, the city works department last moth seal-coated 8,200 lineal feet of previously asphalted streets, laid 4,580 lineal feet of street-to-curb asphalt, and recapped 2,550 lineal feet of asphalt streets during the peak of its streets program for 1961.

City Works Superintendent Emil Erickson also reported his department installed ten new water connection, and laid more than 1,300 feet of two-inch, four-inch and six-inch water pipe.

The Municipal Airport accomodater 337 aircraft arrivals and departures during the month of which 92 were commercial flights.

The City Tourist Park reported receipts during the season to August 31 of $13,618.76 compared with a total of $12,922.28 for the same period last year.

FLATTENED-OUT FEELING LUCKY

GRAY CREEK — Elmer Bjorman may consider a flat tire lucky.

When driving the mail truck from Nelson to Cranbrook, Mr. Bjorman stopped after leaving the 2 a.m. ferry at Kootenay Bay, thinking he had a flat tire.

As soon as he got out of his truck near the Gray Creek B.C. Forest Service station, where he had stopped, the truck's front wheel fell off.

He had to get help from Cranbrook, which delayed him for five hours.

First Perfect Hand in 30 Years

INVERMERE — George Prodaehl of Brisco held a 29 crib hand recently, the only one he has ever seen in 30 years of playing crib.

Mr. Prodaehl, who was playing with Edward Murphy, was dealt a five of hearts, five of clubs, five of diamonds and jack of spades, and the five of spades turned up.

Public Can Help Fight Vandalism

A $100 reward has been offered by the City Council for information leading to the arrest and conviction of the person or persons responsible for vandalism at Lakeside Park in the early hours of Monday.

It was hoped that vandalism was on the way out in Nelson and that teenagers and older individuals had acquired some sense of their responsibility to keep city property from damage. Apparently this is not the case for globe lights and windows were broken to the value of $80 in Lakeside Park while in the Gyro Park heavy rock slab steps were rolled away. The damage is inexcusable and the moving of the rock slabs understandable. To the immature male mind they are a challenge to his strength and ingenuity. It can only be hoped that such persons will grow up.

Much of this vandalism is attributed to juveniles, possibly our own native Nelson teenagers, and equally likely those from out of town. The police cannot be expected to foresee all these happenings but they can continue to keep an eye on all young people after nine o'clock; they might in the case of cars full of teenagers ask for the driver's license and the names of those with him on the theory that prevention is better than cure.

That the general public can help is unquestionable. A visitor to Vernon who saw a car being driven over flower beds in Polson Park took the number of the car license and reported to the police. The case was judged so serious that bail was set at $1500. Vandalism and wilful damage to property should not be treated as minor offences.

But the first aim of everyone should be to prevent such occurrences and citizens will be serving the public good if they report all suspicious action by persons, young or old.

Tightsqueeze Stands Firm

It comes to attention that the inhabitants of Tightsqueeze, Virginia, have rebelled successfully against an attempt by officialdom to change the name of their town to Fairview. This is a small victory, yet a significant one, and may encourage others who find themselves under pressure from the prettyfiers.

In Canada, these misguided busybodies have not done too much damage up to now, except in such cases as the altering of historic Rat Portage to Kenora and of Castle Mountain (beyond Banff) to Mt. Eisenhower. Transforming Pile-O-Bones to Regina may have been forgiveable when the seat of Territorial government was selected, especially as the Indian form of the old name was allowed to persist, although in corrupt form, as attached to Regina's Wascana Lake.

But every so often suggestions are heard that Moose Jaw isn't dignified enough for a modern Canadian city. It would be as shameful to abolish Moose Jaw as that other prairie wonder, Medicine Hat. Or Flin Flon, or the Pas, or Pouce Coupe.

But don't count on it. Even in Newfoundland there is talk of name-changing and, by all accunts, the offensive work has already begun. Some of the more robust names may be doomed. But if there is any widespread assault on Pushthrough, Cow Head, Confusion Bay, Witless Bay, Sop's Arm, Sho Cove, Come-by-Chance, Bay Bulls, Chimney Tickle, Joe Batt's Arm and all the rest of that glorious collection that never fails to amaze and delight mainlanders, it will be a sad day indeed. Might as well go the whole way and change the name of the tenth province to Smallwoodia.

Ottawa Citizen.

Little Comfort

A peculiar sidelight has been focussed on the current nuclear tests being carried out by the Soviet Union and the United States by The Insider's Newsletter, a publication of the American company of Cowles Magazines and Broadcasting, Inc.

In its September 18 issue datelined New York, it carries the news that scientists have now discovered that the dangers of fallout are not as great as first feared.

British researchers, it reports, have been conducting a study of the problem during the three-year moratorium and have found that past tests have created appreciably less nuclear fallout than anticipated.

They now believe "testing of small nuclear weapons for battlefield use is no more dangerous to present or future generations than underground tests."

Among other findings noted was that radioactivity does not linger in the stratosphere but falls quickly to the ground to be absorbed and rendered harmless in a matter of months. Added reassurance is given by quoting the Medical Research Council of Britain as endorsing the conclusion that below a certain "threshold" the human body "shrugs off" small doses of radiation.

Another note of dubious optimism is injected into the item with the announcement that by next spring U.S. research agencies may have a pill developed which will help protect man from nuclear exposure.

At the moment it is not clear whether this release is designed to justify the resumption of nuclear testing or simply an attempt to allay the fears of millions of people throughout the world.

Whatever its intention, it will bring little ease to those who cannot overlook the ultimate purpose for which nuclear weapons now being tested have been designed.

Least comfort of all will be taken from the ominous warning contained almost as an afterthought in the newsletter's concluding paragraph: "The pills . . . will not be substitutes for shelters."—Victoria Colonist.

No Hallux Valgus

What would you do if your doctor said you were suffering from incipient hallux valgus? Make out your last will and testament? It sounds grim, but when education officials in Lincolnshire, England, were told some students had this ailment they asked the school medical officer for a translation. (It means deformed toes.) Give a doctor a vocabulary and he will use it, if not to baffle the patient then to show he's not forgotten his Latin. Coryza sounds more difficult to cure than "common cold."

Silver Lining

The United Nations Educational, Scientific and Cultural Organization reports that nearly 70 per cent of the world's population lives out its life without knowing what's going on at home or abroad.

At times, we suspect, the other 30 per cent may view this condition less in sorrow than in envy.

See No Sense of Urgency In People of Nelson

To The Editor:

Sir — Who on earth do you think you are fooling with your editorial in Monday's newspaper?

The showing of such smug self-satisfaction is one of the worst things you can do to a community and, whilst Nelson may be developing — almost an inevitability with the normal increase in population — it has no central industry through which to draw its wealth and relies on the sporadic attractions of tourists and a summer school. Because it won more matches than it lost last year the ice hockey team is now short of money — it would appear that it pays to lose — and we are in danger of losing it. We have also lost a first class leader to the physical department.

It is people with incentive that we require in this community not just buildings.

When we encourage, and obtain, a more concrete economic attachment with neighboring towns so that this area of B.C. can become unified then, and only then, will we be able to say that we are achieving something. I have spoken to many people in this community and know that, far from feeling happy with their lot, many would like to leave and go to more constructive localities where there is a greater sense of urgency than one finds around here.

The economic aches in this community are reflected right across the country. What sense of belonging exists in this community for other communities? Did anybody suggest that we should all get together to help the lumber industry when it suffered numerous fires during the past summer? These fires are a major disaster affecting the lives and economy of the whole of B.C.

According to unconfirmed, but fairly reliable figures, more people left than migrated into Canada during the first five months of this year. Here we have a young, pioneering country with everything to offer that a man could possibly want and yet we do not show the prospective newcomer what possibilities there are. The various professions do not acknowledge professional qualifications from other countries even though they are, in some cases, of a higher quality than the basic qualification required in this country.

The thinking, at best, is muddled, backward and obtuse when it comes to encouraging people to develop this country. The Federal and Provincial governments show no sign of leadership and seem to be as far away from the people as if they were on the other side of the world.

Why don't you newspapers spur the people on more? It is your duty to give them something to think about and strive for — not to sit back and admire themselves.

This is a rough, tough world where we are all the time competing with other communities and countries and unless a sense of urgency is instilled into the people nothing will be accomplished.

KFP Submission On Resource Behalf

To The Editor:

Sir—We wish to amplify your report of our submission to the hearings on the Duncan Dam project.

This brief was submitted on behalf of the forest resource of the Duncan River drainage. While we used our own company's operating experience to make cost comparisons, our appeal was made on behalf of forest management generally and of the contribution to the provincial economy which should derive from the Duncan.

We, as a commercial enterprise, are certainly interested in the forest products of the Duncan Valley but, no matter who is to be the main operator of the timber from the Duncan, we cannot stand silently by while the resource is placed beyond economic reach.

We wish to commend you on what was otherwise a fair coverage of our submission and of the hearings generally.

Tourists Spent $420 Million In Canada

OTTAWA (CP) — Travellers from the United States and other countries spent a record $420,000,000 in Canada in 1960, an increase of 7.4 per cent over 1959, the Dominion Bureau of Statistics reported Wednesday.

However, for the 10th straight year Canadians spent more in foreign countries than foreign travellers spent in Canada. Canadian spending in the U.S. and abroad was $627,000,000, an increase of 4.9 per cent over 1959.

U.S. travellers to Canada in 1960 spent $375,000,000 compared to $351,000,000 a year earlier. Canadians travelling in the U.S. spent $462,000,000 compared to $448,000,000 in 1959.

Visitors to Canada from overseas spent $45,000,000 in 1960, up 12.5 per cent from the previous year. Canadians travelling overseas spent $165,000,000, an increase of $15,000,000 from 1959.

A total of 29,703,000 persons visited Canada during 1960—29,655,000 from the U.S. and 47,900 arrived directly from other countries.

HUBERT

"Where the heck did NEXT month's salary go?"

F. B. Pearce ...Writes

It would be a dull world without dogs and cats. Children especially like pets, and every home, when it can, should have a dog or a cat. I remember when I was a boy that we had a cat — a common ordinary cat of which we were fond. If I stood at the gate on a quiet early summer evening with the warm velvety blackness around me and the scent of the lilacs in the air, there would be a thump and the cat had jumped on to the gate post beside me.

Father sent the cat to a friend 50 miles away because it killed our next door neighbor's pigeons. We children did not think that was right and were glad when one evening it appeared on the window near the door, rattling the knob to be let in.

I can sympathize with children who cannot keep their dogs from following them to school. We had a dog, who when I told him he couldn't come with me, used to sit and watch me to see which way I went and then dash around the block and meet me half a mile away.

He was an Irish terrier—chiefly, and he lived up to his ancestry. There was nothing he liked better than a fight. He would go round looking miserable and unhappy and then another dog would appear. Pat would immediately perk up, strut and do his stuff and then the fur would fly. I found that he had to let go if I grabbed his legs and kept them off the ground.

I think he licked every dog in town except a bull terrier who lived two doors away. They spent some months warily circling around one another and when they did fight its was the sensation of the street. Everybody was there from the colonel to the chimney sweep. It lasted for two hours and then the weary combattants called it a draw and retired to their kennels. They stayed there for a week too exhausted to move.

I think I have found the way to foil terrorists. Have you ever noticed that the Doukhobors seem to have no pets? If you drive by the houses you see no cat sunning itself on the front step and no children playing with kittens, there are no dogs barking or running after cars and the cows come home without one at their heels.

Now, if each Doukhobor had a dog — any kind of dog but preferably one of the yapping kind to act as a watchdog — no terrorist could sneak up at the house. If they had Alsations no one would dare come near at night.

Of course the older Doukhobors would not know how to treat a dog, but give the youngsters puppies and they would quickly learn and look at the fun they would have. I'm sure that Mama Doukhobor would spoil the puppies before very long.

Possibility Ahe ad UN Will Play Role In Berlin Crisis

By JOHN M. HIGHTOWER

UNITED NATIONS (AP) — The possibility that the United Nations will play some role in efforts to settle the Berlin crisis appeared to be gaining headway today.

If the United States and Russia in current diplomatic talks fail to agree on a formula for starting negotiations, the war-threatening dispute likely will become an issue of prime concern for the General Assembly.

If negotiations can be agreed on, both Russia and the Allied powers may propose that the United Nations take a hand in carrying out any plan they can devise for the future of West Berlin. Indications are that Soviet and Western leaders alike are thinking along these lines.

by the United States, Britain and France, the first indica-

U.S. State Secretary Dean Rusk and Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko scheduled another meeting today on the East-West deadlock over how to get negotiations started.

The central issue is what to negotiate about.

On that issue Western diplomats found little encouragement in the Soviet policy speech Gromyko delivered to the Central Assembly Tuesday dealing at length with the Berlin situation.

SPEECH NOT NEW

In their view the speech contained nothing essentially new on Berlin policy, but that had been expected. If the Soviet government is willing to engage in the wide negotiations demanded tions of change inits position almost certainly would be made known by Gromyko not in a speech but in his private talks with Rusk.

Diplomats noted that Gromyko's report on the Berlin crisis was presented more as an argument for Soviet demands than as a diatribe against the Western powers, although he accused them as usual of threatening war to block Moscow's German peace treaty plan. Some encouragement for hopes of a peaceful settlement was found in the relatively mild tone he employed.

Gromyko placed heavy emphasis on UN interest in the dispute and ways in which the United Nations might take an active part in a settlement. He said the United Nations might serve as a "guarantor of the status of the free city" which Russia has been demanding for West Berlin, and which the Western powers have rejected.

The status of the free city, he said, could be registered with the United Nations and "other forms of United Nations participation" could be envisaged.

President Kennedy, speaking Monday, already had recognized a major UN interest in the Berlin crisis by devoting a long section of his address to it.

OTTAWA (CP)—Arthur Goldberg, U.S. secretary of labor, will visit Ottawa next week. The labor department said Mr. Goldberg will arrive for a three-day visit next Wednesday.

Katanga Dispute Seems Back Where It Started

By GERALD RATZIN

ELISABETHVILLE (Reuters) The Katanga dispute Wednesday appeared to be back where it started following demands by the Katanga regime for the withdrawal of all United Nations forces from The Congo's breakaway province.

The demand was made Tuesday at the first meeting of the United Nations-Katanga cease-fire commission.

Following the meeting, Foreign Minister Evariste Kimba of Katanga termed further sessions of the commission "pointless" until a reply to the Katanga demands are received from UN headquarters in New York.

The commission was set up last week after a cease-fire agreement was reached between President Moise Tshombe of Katanga and the UN after eight days of fierce fighting in the world body's attempt to end the secession of the province.

DEMANDS NOT NEW

The latest Katanga demands seemed to put the situation in Katanga, which broke away from the central Congolese government shortly after The Congo gained independence from Belgium in June, 1960, back where it started.

Fighting began between Katanga and UN forces about two weeks ago after the UN attempted peacefully to take control of the key centres in the Katanga capital here following a bid by the world body to remove the white officers running the Katanga armed forces.

In another development Tuesday, Conor O'Brien, the chief UN official here, said that Tshombe was willing to send a delegation to start talks with the central Congolese government.

Tshombe and the central government, which has its capital in Leopoldville, have been reported recently to have been exchanging messages via Brazzaville, capital of the former French Congo, which is across the Congo River from Leopoldville.

Hundreds Die In Chinese Camps Near Lhasa, Tibet

By DELIP BOSE

DARJEELING, India (AP)—A Buddhist lama estimates that hundreds of persons have died recently in a Chinese concentration camp near Lhasa, Tibet.

Lobsang Changba, 57, an Indian citizen from Ladakh Province just west of Tibet, said most of the deaths were from starvation. They occurred in the last few months before the Chinese released him last July from Dhapchi camp.

Lobsang said the camp contained some Chinese Communists imprisoned on unknown charges, some who formerly had collaborated with the Chinese, a few persons from China's far wester province of Sinkiang and numerous Tibetan Buddhist monks and lamas.

The prisoners were interrogated frequently — Lobsang estimated he was questioned 53 times in nine months — and subjected to brainwashing.

The prisoners were told that all countries except the United States were Communist-minded.

DID FORCED LABOR

Lobsang had gone to Tibet from Ladakh 42 years ago to study Buddhism. He was living in Drepung, one of the three big monasteries near Lhasa, at the time of the Tibetan uprising in March, 1959. He and other religious men were arrested by the Chinese and forced to carry stones for a hydro-electric project, working long hours on insufficient food.

Lobsang spent nine months in Dhapchi concentration camp and then was released and escorted to a mountain pass into India.

Reuters news agency quoted Gyalo Thondup, brother of the exiled Dalai Lama, as saying today that anti-Communist resistance has been active in many parts of Tibet as Chinese atrocities continue there.

Thondup will lead a Tibet as Chinese atrocities continue there.

Thondup will lead a Tibetan delegation to the United Nations next month, when the Chinese occupation of Tibet will be discussed.

The Dalai Lama, spiritual and temporal leader of Tibet, fled to exile in India after occupying Chinese Communist forces crushed an anti-Communist revolt in March, 1959.

Audience With Pope Full Of Laughter and Clapping

By ROD CURRIE

ROME (CP) — A public audience with the Pope is not the solemn occasion one might expect. There is much hand clapping and laughing and shouting "Viva il Papa!"

In his summer residence at Castel Gandolfo, in the Alban Hills about 15 miles southeast of here, Pope John receives visitors in audience Saturday morning and sometimes of Wednesday mornings.

They come by the hundreds, most of them tourists, by bus and private car and on foot.

Groups who consider a papal audience a major part of their tour usually make arrangements in advance to ensure that they will be admitted. But many others—both the devout and the curious—discover after they arrive here that it is a fairly simple matter to gain admittance.

The best plan is to take one of the sightseeing bus tours that include the Saturday morning audience. The price is 1,600 lire (about $2.75) and the three-hour guided tour includes a ride through Rome and the trip along the Appian Way to the fertile grape-and-wine country surrounding Castel Gandolfo.

From there the bus climbs the Alban Hills, passing the mirror-like Lake Albana which lies in the crater of an extinct volcano.

From the parking lot the visitors make their way up stone steps and along narrow, cobblestone streets to the entrance of the auditorium grounds where two Swiss Guards in helmets and orange-and-blue uniforms tend the gate.

The informality for which the 79-year-old Pope is noted is evident in the manner which the audiences are conducted.

Tourists wear bright summer clothes, although women are required to have their arms covered at least to the elbows—as they are upon entering any church or holy place in Rome. At the more formal Vatican City audiences men wear dark or formal suits and women wear black. There is no restriction on cameras at Castel Gandolfo.

During the bus trip the passengers are issued pink slips admitting them to the audience but no one collects these and it appears anyone can wander into the hall until it is full or until a few minutes before the Pope arrives.

The auditorium, set amid trees and flowers and terraced lawns, is a long, narrow building with a wide aisle leading from the doors to the red-carpeted steps and the throne at the other end.

Near the platform there are seats for several hundred persons — usually church officials and groups who have made previous arrangements. The rest of the hall is devoted to standing room with the floor sloping upwards from the centre aisle.

At a recent audience, the Pope arrived 10 minutes late. As the doors swung open and he was borne in on a portable throne, there was a great burst of applause which grew in volume as many, surprised at first by this outburst, joined in.

Near the front a group of student priests started the chant, "Viva il Papa!"

In a place of honor near the Pope was a group of Boy Scouts from France. Other groups included children from a school in England, representatives of an athletic club in New York and a group of tourists from Spain.

The Pope addressed the audience for about 15 minutes and there was considerable laughter—his own and that of those who understood Italian. Later, a priest speaking in a heavy Irish accent gave a summary of what he said — but eliminated the jokes. He was followed by priests speaking in French, German and Spanish.

The Pope then spoke briefly in French to the Boy Scouts before he rose to give his blessing and depart.

Berlin Wall Most Recent of Barriers

By STANLEY JOHNSON

MIKULOV, Czechoslovakia (AP) — The Berlin wall is only the most recent of the barriers sealing the Communist empire.

Here, beneath the shadow of a medieval caste, in gently rolling farmland, is another just as dour. In wooden watchtowers, soldiers have machine - guns aimed at neighboring Austria but at Czechoslovakia itself. A strip of plowed land about 25 feet wide gives gunners a clear field of fire at any seeking to leave Czechoslovakia.

Sown in this plowed land is not grain but land mines. Inside are three rows of electrified barbed wire.

This is no product of Western anti - Communist imagination. It is, one must believe, an accurate appraisal by the Czechoslovak authorities of what is needed to keep their people home.

The official explanation is that it is intended to keep out Western "spies and saboteurs" and it no doubt could do this, too.

The Austrian customs station was a strictly civilian operation without a gun in sight, cornfields and vineyards all around. There was quick inspection of passports and car documents, a matter of a minute or two, before exit from Austria was permitted.

CHANGE NOTED

Then came the 500-yard drive across no man's land.

The cumbersome formalities mean you have left the Western world. You count out currency. "No, we have no camera."

"The only radio we have is the one built in the car."

"What's in this bag?"

"Open up the motor."

Then a suspicious waving on into the brilliantly sunlit countryside. It has rich farmlands, lovely villages and immaculate cities.

Of all the peoples in the Communist world, the Czechs look and act most like Western Europeans. The women have the latest hair styles and the latest clothes. Men in the street of Brno would fit just as easily into Vienna or Frankfurt. The roads are crowded with vacationers in their own cars, with young couples off to the country on motor bikes and scooters.

CIVIL DEFENCE

Civil Defence is here to stay and should be regarded as another municipal service similar to fire, police, water, sanitation, etc., and be equally well organized.

Picturesque Church Scene Dixon-Craft Nuptial Rite

EDGEWOOD — Edgewood Anglican Church was the setting for a lovely early fall wedding when Dorothy Phyllis, only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Craft of Needles, became the bride of Mr. Roy Noble Dixon, son of Mr. Dixon of Missouri and Mrs. E. Anderson of Quesnel, B.C.

Rev. B. Pellegrin of Nakusp officiated at the late afternoon double ring marriage service.

Fall shades of mauve, yellow and white in gladioli with ferns were used in decorating the altar and windows of the little church, which is situated among towering evergreen trees overlooking the beauty of the Arrow Lakes valley. The guest pews were marked with satin bows and sweetpeas.

The bride, entering the church on the arm of her father, was lovely in a floor-length gown of nylon lace over satin with net yoke trimmed with pearls. Her floor-length veil swept from a nylon headdress trimmed with matching pearls and rhinestones. She carried a bouquet of American Beauty roses and white feathered 'mums. The bridal attendants were Mrs. Sylvia Underwood as matron-of-honor and Miss Virginia Dixon, sister of the groom, as bridesmaid. They wore identical lilac waltz-length gowns with nylon lace bodice and a two-tiered skirt of silk organza over rayon taffeta. They carried identical bouquets of yellow and white 'mums.

Supporting the bridegroom was his brother, Mr. Earl Dixon, and Mr. Edward Craft was usher

Music for the occasion was played by Mrs. Minnie Nesbitt, organist of St. Agnes Church.

Needles Hall was scene of the large wedding reception. The mother of the bride was attractively attired in a two-piece beige brocaded dress with spindrift green accessories, and with the mother of the groom, in a powder-blue dress with white accessories, assisted in the receiving line. They both wore pink carnation corsages.

Over 150 guests sat down to a turkey dinner.

The bride's table, covered with a hand-made lace cloth made by the bride's late grandmother, Mrs. Edith Craft, was centred by a four-tiered wedding cake made and decorated by the bride's mother. It was flanked by tall tapers in crystal candleholders and crystal bowls of yellow and mauve fall flowers.

Master of ceremonies for the occasion was Mr. Harold Simpson, principal of Needles High School. The toast to the bride was proposed by her uncle, Mr. George Craft, of South Slocan.

Assisting in cutting and serving the wedding cake were the bride's aunts, Mrs. Winnie Detta and Mrs. Tillie Vennard of Fauquier, and Mrs. Lillan Craft of South Slocan, during which Mrs. Ewings sang "I Love You Truly" and "Because" accompanied by Mrs. Nesbitt of Edgewood.

Out-of-town guests included Mr. and Mrs. E. Anderson and Colleen and Mr. and Mrs. N. Spicer of Quesnel, Mr. and Mrs. G. Webster of Terrace, Mr. and Mrs. E. Clark of Nakusp, Mr. and Mrs. G. Craft and Alan of South Slocan, Mr. and Mrs. J. Shaw of Vancouver; Mr. George Childs, Mr. and Mrs. W. Stringer, Ken Russel, Jack Simmons, Bob Stringer, Mr. and Mrs. B. Kennett and boys, Mr. and Mrs. D. Kennett and boys, Mr. and Mrs. J. Singer, Joe and Jacob Ingier, Earl Dixon, Mr. and Mrs. Allan Forry, of Vernon; Virginia Dixon of Kamloops, and Miss Avonne Dixon of Victoria.

Bertuzzi-Fulkco Wedding Ceremony Held at Nakusp

NAKUSP — At Our Lady of Lourdes Church in Nakusp, Rev. D. J. Cullen of Nelson officiated at the double ring wedding ceremony uniting the former Mildred Elizabeth Fulkco and Mr. Mario G. Bertuzzi in marriage.

The church altar was ornamented with gladioli and asters for the nuptial event.

Given in marriage by her father, the petite bride was a picture in her floor-length gown of white nylon over taffeta in princess style, her hooped skirt appliqued with satin flowers. The bodice featured lily point sleeves and a scalloped neckline embroidered with pearls and sequins.

Her embroidered illusion veil fell from a tiny iridescent coronet. She wore pearl earrings and necklace, gift of the bridegroom, and carried a sculptured bouquet of red roses and ivy tied with wide white ribbon.

Her attendants were identically gowned in peacock blue, bouffant knee-length dresses with matching chapeaux of net and blue flowers. Their bouquets were of yellow carnations.

Matron of honor was Mrs. J. F. Ryan, sister of the bride, from Nelson, and Miss Hope Fulkco was bridesmaid. Little flower girl Lois DeBiasio of Trail, niece of the bridegroom, was dressed in white flocked nylon over peacock blue with wreath of matching flowers in her hair. She carried a basket of yellow daisies.

The bridegroom was attended by Mr. Don Qualia of Trail and by his cousin, Mr. Beppi Bertuzzi, also of Trail. Ushers were brothers of the bride, Frank and Wallie Fulkco, and the altar boys were her two youngest brothers, Billy and Jerry Fulkco. Her brother Leo was in charge of a camera which recorded the wedding events on film.

A wedding breakfast at the Leland Hotel followed the ceremony. Mr. R. Islip proposed a toast to the bride. Mr. Hakeman, as MC, read a number of telegrams. Father Cullen addressed the gathering as did the bride's father.

Miss Jean Campion of Trail was soloist during the breakfast and chose "My Task" and "If Ever I Marry" as her selections. Mrs. O'Neal was accompanist, and also organist at the church.

An open reception at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Fulkco was held during the afternoon and evening. The tea table was centred with a beautifully decorated three-tiered cake amid summer flowers.

The bride's book was in charge of Miss Carol Fulkco. Pouring tea in the afternoon were Mrs. Hepworth and Mrs. Ferrie. The CWL assisted in serving refreshments. Bob Murphy was in charge of the punch bowl. Assisting Mrs. Fulkco in welcoming the guests was Mrs. McLeod of Regina, a twin sister to Mrs. Fulkco, who had come here for the wedding.

For a honeymoon to be spent in the Kootenays, the bride changed to a tan tweed suit with white accessories and wore a yellow corsage.

Out-of-town guests besides the bride's aunt, Mrs. McLeod of Regina, was her brother Tom, from the coast; Mrs. G. Campion and daughter Jean from Trail; Mr. and Mrs. A. Bertuzzi, Mr. and Mrs. R. DeBiasio and family, Beppi Bertuzzi of Trail; Mr. and Mrs. Ryan and family of Nelson; Mr. and Mrs. J. Ryan of Nelson; Mr. and Mrs. C. Campeau and family, Mr. Jigs McDonaugh; Mr. and Mrs. E. DeRosa and family of New Denver.

The young couple will make their home in Kelowna where Mario is with the Canadian Bank of Commerce.

Guide Code of Living Theme of Talk, Meet

"The work of Guide leaders and the code of living for Guides themselves is based on the Guide promise and law" was the theme of a short address by Deputy Girl Guide Commissioner of B.C. Mrs. H. Ruhl at a banquet held in Nelson recently following the day-long semi-annual area meeting.

Mrs. Ruhl brought greetings from the provincial executive to the Guide leaders, commissioners and L.A. members attending the meeting and ended her talk with a short account of the Canadian Council Annual meeting, held in the Maritimes.

Fellow guest speaker at the banquet was Dr. B. A. Resker of Balfour, a long-time active member of the Scout movement.

The all-day session covered many aspects of the Guide movement, the Guiders giving and exchanging ideas in lively discussion groups on various topics. The importance of aiming at and maintaining high standards for Gold Cord Guides was stressed by Mrs. Ruhl who stated that a special camp may soon be established in the province for the purpose of observing Gold Cord candidates.

The qualifications and eligibility of the girls working towards this highest Guide achievement should be observed by Guiders while they are still Brownies and be evident throughout their Guide career, she said. "It is not the number of Badges they wear on their sleeve but the hidden qualities which make a Gold Cord Guide."

Badge work for both Brownies and Guides also came in for a good deal of discussion, with Badge Secretary Mrs. L. Cross of Trail stressing the importance of high standards in this field also. Mrs. Cross said that girls should not be passed in their tests unless they are really proficient, and that only one qualified person should be responsible for passing each specific test, preferably someone whose job is connected in some way with the particular requirements. The girls should be encouraged to seek further knowledge on the subject of their test and not be content with simply passing it. If the girl does not live up to the requirements of the Badge, it should be removed, she suggested.

TRAINING COMMITTEE

The ever-present need for more leaders in the field of Guiding and the need for more Training sessions was brought up for discussion and Area Commissioner Mrs. H. Hyson stated that she hoped a Training Committee would soon be set up in the area made up of individuals with specific training such as music director, camp advisor. Miss M. Kirkman has been appointed as handicrafts advisor for the Area, Mrs. Hyson told the meeting.

Reports were read by Columbia Division Commissioner Mrs. H. Hutchinson; Slocan Lake Division Commissioner Miss M. Kirkman; and Nelson Deputy-Division Commissioner Miss F. Moss.

UNUSUAL AWARD

Highlights from these reports included: unusual awards — the Fortitude Award presented to a polio victim, Brenda Flanagan; a Signallers Badge and Friend to the Blind Badge won by Brownies of the Columbia Division; the acquisition of a camp-site at long last for the Slocan Division; the re-opening of the Willow Point Guide Company and the closing down of the Fairview Brownie Pack through lack of leadership; a Friendship Camp held at Slocan by Miss Kirkman attended by nine Girl Scouts and two leaders from Clairmont, U.S.A.; collecting of the Debbie Oliver fund to help a child who needed hospital attention; the final payment made on th East Trail Girl Guide hall and two overseas visitors to the Columbia Division, Miss Crawford from Australia and Mrs. Davis from England.

The matter of dousing out camp-fires and tidying up sites was urgently brought to the attention of the meeting by Camp Advisor, Mrs. A. Rizzuto, in view of the recent adverse publicty given to Scouting activities in the woods.

In giving her report on the Inter-Provincial Camp Advisors conference held in Edmonton recently, Mrs. Rizzuto stated that 33 Guides attended, 19 of them from B.C. Findings of the conference stressed the importance of uniformity of dress in Guides travelling to and from the Camp. Camp uniforms may be worn but should be of the same shade of blue and the same style.

In Pioneer Camps, Guides should have 20 days of experience and then run a Camp entirely on their own. Mrs. Rizzuto stressed the importance of health certificates for Guides as an insurance for Camp Leaders. All campers ar insured and the health certificate is connected with the insurance, whereas other campers are not covered by insurance, she explained.

Brown Owl Mrs. J. Iglziel of Castlegar reported on the Maple Leaf Advanced Training camp held at Camp Rory and attended by 12 Brownie Guiders from the province. Mrs. M. Parrott of Vancouver conducted this course, which included advanced training in the Brownie program, the leaders sleeping together as Brownies in huts, with much fun reported by all.

A Blue and Brown Guiders training camp held at Summerland was attended by 40 leaders who had had two years or more experience, Mrs. S. Martin of Trail and Mrs. S. Heslip of New Denver gave a short report on this course.

Mrs. S. Rizzuto of Castlegar was presented with a Warrant as First Deputy for the West Kootenay Area and her 10-year Warranted Service Award by Area-Commissioner Mrs. Hyson.

Fruitvale Church Little Helpers Have Annual Party

FRUITVALE — The Little Helpers annual party for St. John's Anglican Church was held with Rev. D. N. Robinson taking the opening service in the church. After telling the Little Helpers a story, they went outside to play games under the direction of Mrs. J. Startup and Mrs. W. Clarke. The Little Helpers Secretary, Mrs. Startup, in her report stated that there are 44 Little Helpers in St. John's and $10 was raised through their Mite Boxes last year for the missionary work of the Church. She sent birthday cards to all the Little Helpers on their birthday.

The Blue Bird Corner Guild served refreshments.

In the foreword of The Swinging Flesh (McClelland and Stewart) Irving Layton restates his disdain for all humanity except "the few intrepid souls who delight in taking a hard look at themselves, their neighbors and the cosmos they inhabit."

It's fair warning of what is to come in this book which contains short stories the Montreal-born author and poet wrote between 1943 and 1960 and a group of poems written recently.

In seven introductory pages of tigerish prose, Layton expresses disgust with large segments of the human race. He dislikes philistines — whether Jew, Arab or Russian — and "pie - in - the - sky religionists—Marxian or Baptist." He declares his devotion to truth, "and the truth about ourselves is very uncomplimentary, very unpleasant."

The short stories in The Swinging Flesh are comparatively inoffensive. Trey ridicule pretentious people and lacerate some of society's preoccupations—such as making money—but unless the reader sees his own image in a Layton target the stories are more likely to amuse than offend.

The stories are little vignettes of the lives of an assortment of people. Layton writes sympathetically of the oddball, the jobless and the downtrodden. In Death in the Family, he gives a devastating word portrait of Strul Goldbloom, an energetic entrepreneur whose business success is founded on selling rosaries and medallions.

"Ex-smugglers of spirits endowed this library:

"Aren't books also a kind of distillery?"

Some of his poems are topical. Why I Don't Make Love to the First Lady concerns the present incumbents of the White House. Layton claims he could attract the president's wife with a snap of his fingers but he refuses to take advantage of a man harassed by world problems.

"I'll wait until the international situation has cleared.

"After that it's every poet for himself."

The problems of translating English nonsense verse into French didn't scare Francis Steegmuller who has turned out a translation of Edward Lear's The Owl and the Pussycat. It's called, naturally enough, Le Hibou et la Poussiquette (Little, Brown—Canada).

NEWSPAPER NOVEL

In the public image, built up by movies and TV, newspaper reporters are a hard lot.

If they aren't solving murder cases that have baffled the best brains on the police department they're hobnobbing with big-time gangsters. When they're not in a bar they're telling the managing editor how to run the paper.

Real-life newspaper men know it just isn't so.

William Weintraub knows that, too, and in Why Rock the Boat (Little, Brown) he doesn't take that tack. Still, he has done nothing to dispel the idea that reporters are zany and the papers they work for, to say the least, odd.

As satire on the newspaper world of Montreal, Why Rock the Boat is amusing fiction. It's not aimed at the old pro who knows that some of the things it relates—such as getting a profane story about the cub reporter's boss on page one—just don't happen.

Weintraub, who lives in Montreal, has worked on newspapers and has written for radio and T . He now is with the National Film Board. This is his first novel.

A special committee at the University of Toronto has been enlisted to advise the Encyclopaedia Britannica on Canadian content in future editions. It will also nominate possible Canadian contributors.

J. W. B. Sisam achieves a dual purpose in Forestry Education at Toronto (University of Toronto Press), a history of Canada's oldest university forestry faculty.

Dean of the faculty since 1947, Sisam has produced a readable account of the Toronto school, founded in 1907. He has coupled with it a clear picture of Canada's comparatively slow acceptance of the need for professionally trained foresters.

He attributes the public attitude to the pioneering aim of clearing the land of trees to make way for agricultural settlement. It was late in the last century before Canadians began to realize the forests wouldn't last forever unless conservation measures were adopted.

Your Individual Horoscope

Look in the section in which your birthday comes and find what your outlook is, according to the stars.

For Friday, September 29, 1961

MARCH 21 to APRIL 20 (Aries) — Sporadic efforts often defeat themselves. Day calls for continued action, augmented by cohesive planning. Don't fly off handle at provocation, it won't help. Look at humorous side.

APRIL 21 to MAY 21 (Taurus) — Self-control important, especially now. With the world charged with conflicting emotions it is well to be one of the cool heads to come up with more right answers. Do your bit.

MAY 22 to JUNE 21 (Gemini) — Pause to ponder, think before acting on spur of moment. Hasty decisions can be cause of later regrets. Excellent results if you act calmly, accurately, concisely.

JUNE 22 to JULY 23 (Cancer) — "Don't tempt fate!" One often comes out on the short end of such procedure. Keep in a cheerful vein, regardless of feelings around you. Be original, understanding, neighborly.

JULY 24 to AUGUST 23 (Leo) — Idleness tempts. It leads thoughts, efforts into channels foreign to wise behavior. Encouraging rays say take full advantage of signals, warnings, treatments, profferred aid.

AUGUST 24 to SEPTEMBER 23 (Virgo) — May not be propitious to put over the "big idea" today. That is all right, you can still refine it, build it up to make it more salable. Sincere effort, intelligent thinking best.

SEPTEMBER 24 to OCTOBER 23 (Libra) — Advancement in private matters, essential affairs, public interests. Study, research, finishing up incompleted items sponsored. Be conscientious in all you do.

OCTOBER 24 to NOVEMBER 22 (Scorpio) — Take note of what opposition is doing. Thus can you measure what your efforts must be. Life is a big game, play it fairly, squarely, enthusiastically.

NOVEMBER 23 to DECEMBER 21 (Sagittarius) — Invigorating Mars advocates an energetic, spirited program. Don't feel downhearted if plans are not progressing as fas as you would like or expect. Continued work required.

DECEMBER 22 to JANUARY 20 (Capricorn) — Pep up, be of good cheer and you will be the star of the party, the leader of the meeting, business or social. Use your natural assets well. Activity, stimulus in the air.

JANUARY 21 to FEBRUARY 19 (Aquarius) — Your planet's position wisely admonishes not to punish self in your drive toward goals. Health and peace of mind of more value. This does not mean to become a "loafer."

FEBRUARY 20 to MARCH 20 (Pisces) — Like Aquarius, gear efforts to accomplish your ends without overstrain. Fresh attainment, if you cooperate with superiors, teachers, parents, intelligent associates, coaches.

YOU BORN TODAY are innately even-tempered cheerful, full of the joy of living. So long as you retain this attitude you will feel young, truly enjoy things. A natural knack for doing hatever you do well without following set rules. This, too, has the added advantage of confusing opposition. You champion the underprivileged — very commendable. Should never cease in your desire to absorb more knowledge; keep studying, improving your life. Otherwise you are wasting your wide talents, your time. Don't give in to gambling beyond your means, a temptation. Birthdate of: Admiral Nelson, British naval hero; Mrs. Elizabeth Gaskell, novelist; Gene Autry, movie star.

Toronto Club Enters Eastern Soccer Finals

TORONTO (CP) — Toronto Italia advanced into the finals of the Eastern Canada Professional Soccer League Wednesday night by defeating Toronto City twice—4-2 and 2-0—and taking a prolonged best-of-three semi-final 2-1 with one game tied.

A crowd of 3,758 fans saw 110 minutes of soccer. In a regulation 90-minute contest, Italia defeated City 4-2. Two 10-minute overtime periods ordered by league officials resulted in a 2-0 decision for Italia.

Italia now meets Montreal Cantalia here Saturday night in the first game for the President Cup. The second game is scheduled for Oct. 8.

The semi-final series opened with a scoreless tie. The second game of the series went to City 2-1. After Italia's victory in the first game Wednesday night—leaving both teams tied with three points on a win and a tie apiece.

On the Hockey Fronts

EDMONTON (CP) — Detroit Red Wings of the National Hockey League exploded with four final-period goals in an exhibition game in Edmonton Wednesday night to defeat Edmonton Flyers of the Western League 7-1 before about 3,000 fans.

Detroit held 2-0 and 3-1 period leads before the outburst. The win maintained Red Wings' six-year record of exhibition play in Western Canada without defeat.

Veteran Alex Delvecchio scored twice for Detroit, as did Al Johnson, with Vic Stasiuk, Howie Glover and Parker Macdonald scoring singles.

Edmonton's lone goal late in the third period was scored by centre Eddie Joyal.

Detroit used both veteran goalie Terry Sawchuk, who made 12 stops in a period and a half played, and goalie Hank Bassen with 11 stops, while Dennis Riggin made 34 stops for Edmonton.

What started as a slow game developed tension as it progressed with veteran rightwinger Eddie Litzenberger, last with Chicago Black Hawks, picking up a third-period ten-minute misconduct and leaving the ice late in the third period after scuffling on the boards with rookie defenceman Doug Messier.

Litzenberger's last penalty was served by Delvecchio.

The Edmonton goal, possibly the prettiest of the night, came when Joyal moved in alone over the blueline and skipped and weaved past Detroit defenceman Gerry Adrowski to beat Bassen with a hard wirst shot from 10 feet.

COMETS BATTLE HABS

VICTORIA (CP) — Montreal Canadiens got a tough tussle from a former teammate Wednesday night before they outscored Spokane Comets 4-2 in an exhibition game before a sell-out crowd of 5200 here.

Eddie Johnston, who last year played with Ottawa-Hull of the Eastern Professional Hockey League, came up with a brilliant performance in the Spokane goal to get the biggest cheers. It was the second exhibition game in a series which the National Hockey League club is playing with teams of the Western Hockey League.

Comets went ahead in the first period when speedy winger Gerry Brisson drove in his own rebound after being put cleverly through by Max Mekilok.

The goal came in the sixth minute and stood up until Bernie Geoffrion rifled in a pass-out from Jean Beliveau in the first minute of the second period.

Bill Hicke put the Canadiens ahead, getting a high screened shot past Johnston after a pass from Hicke.

But the stubborn Comets pulled even again in the last minute of the period when rookie winger Gordie Stratton finished off a good rush down the right boards with a hard shot.

Goals by Phil Goyette, who was selected as the outstanding player for Canadiens, and Beliveau won the game for Montreal in the third period.

Montreal was without three players, two of whom were injured in an exhibition game at Vancouver the previous night.

A club spokesman said winger Henri Richard would be out indefinitely with two pulled muscles. Bobby Rousseau, another winger, suffered a sprained ankle.

Earlier in the week Dickie Moore was sent back to Montreal for physiotherapy treatment to a sprained ligament.

NEEDS NO HELPING HAND—Born with only one arm, Larry Shafer, 14, of Topeka, Kan., still plays baseball and when he isn't pitching in the Babe Ruth League he is playing the outfield. He has a 2-2 pitching mark and is hitting .294.

Argonauts Trade Caraway to Ottawa

TORONTO (CP)—Toronto Argonauts announced Wednesday they have traded linebacker Don Caraway to Ottawa for the Rough Riders' first college draft choice.

Caraway came to Argos from New York Giants of the National Football League in 1958 but suffered a broken foot in an exhibition game the following summer and never regained a regular spot on the Eastern Football Conference club.

Meanwhile, no decision had been made whether injured Cookie Gilchrist, Toronto's top scorer, will see action Friday night when Calgary Stampeders visit the Argonauts in a Canadian Football League interlocking game. Gilchrist, hurt 10 days ago in Vancouver, has a stretched achilles tendon and strained ligaments in his ankle and knee.

Canada Grand Prix To Be Hard Battle

TORONTO (CP) — The first sports car Grand Prix of Canada, scheduled for Mosport Park Saturday, is shaping up as a battle btween Italy and Britain.

The two countries, arch rivals for decades in motor racing, will be represented on the grid of the $750,000 track by the most powerful selection of racing machinery ever seen in this country.

In numbers, Italy holds the edge, with eight Ferraris. They will face three British Lotus 19s. Only one, that driven by Britain's Stirling Moss, will bear the British racing green. One will be Belgium's yellow with Olivier Gendebien in the cockpit while the third will be the white and green of Canada with Peter Ryan of Mont Tremblant, Que., behind the wheel.

Recognized as the world's best by his rivals, Moss is favored to take the winner's share of $10,000 for the 100-lap race.

Booster Club To Reduce Maple Leafs' Problems

By DAVE GRANT

Nelson Maple Leafs, after a near disastrous opening, could be on the road leading to new hockey heights thank to the newly-elected hockey booster club.

The booster club, headed by fiery Bob McKee, have raised the Leafs hopes of operation in the WIHL from the cellar to the roof. Leafs, up a to a week ago, faced extermination from the league due to lack of players and finances. Now, with booster club backing, the team will enter league play.

The booster club held its first meeting Tuesday night and basic policies of the club were outlined. They were: raising $1000 per month for five months, to procure enough finances so that there will be a holdover for next year's team, to publish a financial statement at the end of the year, and to improve relations between the hockey executive and the booster club.

Raising the $1000 per month will be the hardest and most difficult task for the club. The most suitable arrangement discussed at the meeting was to sell tickets for a contest in which a $1000 prize will be at stake. A monthly dance, with all proceeds for the Leafs, is also on the list of suggestons.

To reduce the financial burden, the booster club is busily looking for jobs for players which the Maple Leafs must import. Thus far the club has located three possible jobs. It was also pointed out at the meeting that there are hockey players in the outlying regions of Nelson capable of playing senior hockey, who are currently employed.

The Okanagan League, having folded, could supply the players needed to bolster the club roster and club strength. It is hoped that imported players will stay in Nelson and work in the Queen City throughout the year so that the club will not have to import players to complete the roster.

In other years hockey has suffered because relations between the booster club and hockey executive were poor. This year the situation is to be remedied by having two members of each committee sit in on the other members' meetings. In this way both executive and booster club will know each other's feelings on various phases of the operation.

What the booster club can accomplish remains to be seen, but by all indications this year's booster club will be one of the best ever formed in Nelson.

Harriet Bell Leads Salmo Lady Curlers

SALMO — Mrs. Harriet Bell was re-elected president of the Salmo Curling Club at a recent meeting here. Other officers elected were Mrs. Jim Grant, vice-president; Mrs. Floyd Fleming, secretary; Miss Lillian Haigh, treasurer.

A draw committee and prize committee were formed. The former was made up of Mrs. John Blacklock and Mrs. W. A. Stewart; the latter of Mrs. Jim Grant, Mrs. Floyd Fleming and Mrs. Bert Valeur.

Teams will be drawn at the social planned for the first ice. Skips will be asked to make sure their team members adhere to rules more closely than in the past. Curling will commence around Nov. 1.

Yanks Favoured To Take Series

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (AP) — New York Yankees were 11-to-5 favorites Wednesday to defeat Cincinnati Reds in the world series, but Las Vegas oddsmakers figured it won't be a rout.

They were offering six-to-one against the Yankees taking the series in four straight.

Chesser Cup Again Won by Rossland

The Chesser Cup, emblematic of West Kootenay tennis mixed doubles supremacy, fell to the Rossland team of Haley and Yerex at the annual competition held at Nelson in which 10 teams, four from Trail and six from Nelson were entered.

The Rossland two-some won the tournament by downing the Nelson team of Major and Major in the final match. Both two-somes entered the finals unbeaten in the round robin play.

At the end of the competition cups and prizes were awarded to the winners.

Reds May Hurl O'Toole Against Yanks in Opener

CINCINNATI (AP) — Jim O'Toole, power-throwing southpaw of the National League Cincinnati Reds, is the best prospect to start the world series, manager Fred Hutchinson indicated Wednesday.

Hutch didn't pick a series starter against the New York Yankees, because the Reds have three more regular season games to play at Pittsburgh this weekend.

But he tabbed O'Toole to start Friday and said he would continue his regular rotation with Joey Jay, 21-game winner, pitching Saturday and veteran Bob Purkey wrapping up the season Sunday.

That puts O'Toole squarely in the spot Oct. 4 for the first series game in Yankee Stadium.

Hutch said he could figure on some letdown on the squad after the Reds took their first flag in 21 years Tuesday night.

Cincinnati had a king-sized hangover Wednesday after a celebration that left store windows broken, streets littered with paper and broken beer bottles.

The crowd of fans that swarmed into central downtown Cincinnati poured detergent into the water of Fountain Square, climbed up on signs, lampposts, theatre marquees and even swarmed atop the bus carrying the Reds.

Junior Entry Takes Shape

Coach Brian Roche reported that a total of 18 boys turned out for an organization meeting of the team Tuesday night. Practice sessions will be announced shortly with the team scheduled to meet Vernon in its first game there Oct. 31.

THE CRAZIEST implement in any American game is the shuttlecock, which is the "ball" used in badminton.

Crazy looking, for it isn't a ball at all, only half of a round cork an inch in diameter, with 16 feathers two inches long fanning out from the flat face of the half-ball. Called the bird — what else?—it weighs 73 to 85 grains, one-fifth of an ounce!

Crazy acting, because you swing with all your might, the bird flies off your racquet at 90 miles an hour and, on the other side of the net, it stops suddenly and drops straight to the ground. Or lobbed lightly, it sails high over an opponents head and, again, falls abruptly right behind him.

Batting the bird, as they say, is done with a racquet so light it stuns the person handed one for the first time. Five ounces. The net, 30 inches deep, is raised off the court to a height of five feet at the taped top. The bird must be hit in flight—reasonable, since the darn thing won't bounce. Failure to return a shot over the net wins a point or loses the serve. Game, 15 points.

Badminton is a simple pastime for male and female of all ages, for a lad of 10 or a grandmother of three score and 10. Fine family fun. Five dollars will buy all the equipment needed: four racquets, net and two poles, three shuttlecocks and the rules of play.

The court, only 20 by 44 feet, can be marked off in the back yard of almost any home — and inside many.

How many Americans play badminton is unknown. The national association embraces 250 clubs with about 3,000 members. The Athletic Institute, which takes a continuing census of all sports, reports 849,758 badminton racquets sold in 1958. A known seven million tennis players bought 571,981 racquets.

Good show, badminton. It was called "poona" in India, where it originated centuries ago. British army officers brought it home with them about 1871 and the Duke of Beaufort is credited with its introduction to his countrymen at a party on his summer estate of Badminton.

The lady gets the "bird".

Can Canada Develop All Amateur Hockey Team?

OTTAWA (CP) — Is there any chance of Canada developing a hockey team of "simon pure" amateurs for Olympic competition?

The query was posed, and answered with a flat "no," in the Senate health committee today.

Senator C. G. Power (L—Quebec) said Canada's Olympic hockey entries of recent years have been made up of "dubious amateurs" who have gone back to professional play afterwards.

He wondered if the government's bill to grant $5,000,000 a year to amateur sports and fitness activity might remedy the situation.

"Is there any chance of developing teams of simon pure amateurs such as we had in the old days?" Senator Power asked.

"No, absolutely not," said Senator Joseph A. Sullivan (PC—Ontario), who played on Canada's Olympic championship hockey team in 1928. "The only amateur hockey players left today are at the high school level."

In Simcoe, Ont., Jack Roxburgh, president of the Canadian Amateur Hockey Association, said:

"The senators are not thinking in terms of today. We can't think in the past all the time.

"Just as the horse-and-buggy era went out, it would be utterly impossible today for any person to play international sports on his own.

"A professional is a player who makes enough money from sports to live and keep a family. It's his vocation. An amateur is one who doesn't make his living at it.

"Nowadays, senior hockey players, whose teams operate on a share - the - wealth basis, might get $600 at most for a season. They certainly couldn't keep a wife and family on that.

"But because of antiquated Olympic rules they have to take the money behind doors. The result is that it makes rogues of all of us.

"I don't see how any of our Olympic teams could operate under the Olympic Code which says that a player can't receive any remuneration for any participation in sports. It's utterly impossible for us to enter a team under those circumstances."

Machen Moves Up In Heavyweight List

NEW YORK (AP) — Eddie Machen of Portland, Ore., replaced Britain's Henry Cooper as No. 2 heavyweight contender in the new Ring magazine boxing ratings released Wednesday.

Ring editor Nat Fleischer made the shift after Machen's impressive knockout of Mike Dejohn of Syracue, N.Y., and Cooper's idleness. Sonny Liston of Philadelphia is ranked first.

Cooper is ranked No. 1 among challengers for Floyd Patterson's world crown by the National Boxing Association, which dropped Liston out of the ratings because of his suspension by Pennsylvania.

Bob Cleroux of Montreal held his No. 6 position in the heavyweight field, while Toronto's George Chuvalo slipped to eighth spot from seventh.

The August ratings of the National Boxing Association put Chuvalo in third place and Cleroux eighth.

Ring shows two new No. 1 contenders in other divisions. Rafiu King of Nigeria was made the leading challenger in the featherweight division following his knockout of European champion Gracieux Lamperti of France. The Frenchman who had been No. 1, was demoted tosecond.

DEAD AT 46—One of golf's long-time favorites, Ed (Porky) Oliver, is dead at Wilmington, Del., at the age of 46 after a long battle with cancer.

Canada's 1960 average of 530 telephone conversations per person was the highest in the world.

Sport Organization Caters To Middle-Aged Group

VICTORIA (CP) — Fred (Stuffy) McGinnis has built up a sports organization catering to the middl-aged set.

Brainchild of the former Victoria sports star and retired trucker is the 500-member Independent Athletic Association.

In three years it has created an energy outlet for the almost-forgotten member of the sporting fraternity—the adult over 40 but still active.

The youngsters aren't forgotten entirely but the emphasis lies with the not so young.

The association sponsors hockey, softball, soccer, bowling and curling and plans to add basketball, ping-pong and horseshoes.

Stuffy, 61, took up the challenge in the spring of 1959 when he was asked to help form a softball league, lined up a sponsor and cajoled the parks board into allowing the use of a sadly neglected field. The result was a 25-game season and a group of players who wanted to play hockey.

WORLD SERIES TRIP

Stuffy soon had a four-team hockey league in action. Bowling and curling leagues followed. A need for organization resulted from this bustle of activity. The association held its first meeting in a warehouse and elected a board of directors and appointed Stuffy as manager.

It set up headquarters in a house which was converted into club rooms and living quarters for Stuffy and his wife Jessie.

At the end of the first season, members rewarded Stuffy with a trip to Los Angeles for the world series.

His organization has since won support and praise from civic officials and merchants. City council has placed Victoria's largest athletic field at its disposal. Merchants have donated shirts, sweaters and equipment and 15 trophies.

Among the keenest competitors are the housewives of the ladies' softball league. Most are women who have given up keeping track of birthdays in favor of a close watch on their battin' averages.

One of Stuffy's biggest s cesses was a stunt to pron interest in softball. He st the first game between a t of RCMP officers and play from the William Head m mim security prison. T prisoners won 5-3 before 1,5 fans, and the association pla to make the event an annu affair with a trophy for the winner.

SEATTLE (CP) — The fifth annual Western Hockey League all-star game will be played Jan. 8 in Portland, home of the defending league champions. The league announced team coaches will select northern and southern division all-star clubs, each being allowed those on his own team.

Hockey Tough But Not Rough

MONTREAL (CP) — Red Storey, former National Hockey League referee, says he disagrees with the contention of Senator Hartland Molson, president of Montreal Canadiens, that hockey is too rough.

In an interview, Storey said it is inevitable that players will be injured.

"Hockey is not a parlor game," he said. "A rink affords just so much space for skating and the skaters are certainly going to meet and bump together from time to time.

"An NHL player's salary takes account of the risks he is running and, if a player were to complain that the game is too rough, I would take his statement more seriously than that of somebody sitting on the other side of the boards."

SHOULD ENFORCE RULES

Senator Molson said last week that the current brand of big-time hockey is too rough and the NHL must see to it that the rules are strictly enforced.

Storey said hockey fans would be content with less rough hockey in Montreal, Toronto and Detroit, "where they know enough about the game to appreciate its fine points."

In Boston, New York and Chicago, he said, fans like only the kind of hockey that "offers some rough stuff."

Storey resigned from the NHL's staff during the 1959 Stanley Cup playoffs when League President Clarence Campbell publicly criticized his handling of the last game of the semi-finals in which the Canadians defeated Chicago Black Hawks.

Smokies Take to Ice

TRAIL (CP)—The 1961 world hockey champion Trail Smoke Eaters start practices for the coming season Saturday with 12 players returning from the team which gave the city its second world title. The 1938-39 Smoke Eaters also won the world crown.

Coach Bobby Kromm, back for his third season, said players already signed for 1961-62 include goalie Seth Martin; defencemen Don Fletcher, George Ferguson, Harry Smith and Ed Cristofoli; and forwards Harold Jones, Pinoke McIntyre, Norm Lenardon, Dave Rusnel, Cal Hockley, Addy Tambellini and Gerry Penner.

Free agent Russ Kowalchuk, former Edmonton Oil King and Kelowna Packers star, will also come out. Kromm said the camp is open to anyone. He predicted at least 20 would be at the opening workout.

Not returning is sub-goalie Claude Cyr, defenceman Darryl Sly and forwards Jackie McLeod, Walt Peacosh and Michele Lagace.

Kromm said he is still undecided as to whether he will be a playing coach or bench coach.

"It just depends on how the team fares," he said. Kromm played all league and exhibition games last season and performed in two games in the world championships for the injured Addy Tambellini. But he coached from the bench for the other championship games.

Trail's first game is scheduled for Oct. 5 here when they meet the new Los Angeles Blades of the WHL.

SEATTLE (AP) —There was a light in the eye of Seattle Totem coach Keith Allen Tuesday, occasioned by the return to the hockey wars of veteran Rudy Filion. Filion, a Western Hockey League standout for 14 years, had indicated he would retire this year. But, Tuesday, Filion returned to the fold.

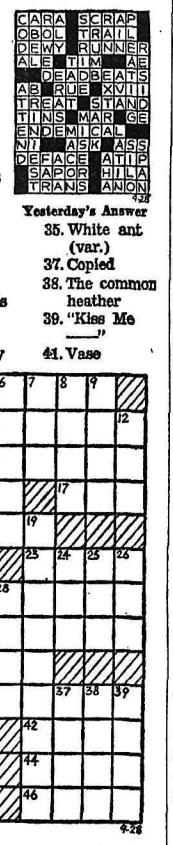
Yesterday's Answer



DAILY CRYPTOQUOTE — Here's how to work it:

A X Y D L B A A X E is L O N G F E L L O W

One letter simply stands for another. In this sample A is used for the three L's, X for the two O's, etc. Single letters, apostrophies, the length and formation of the words are all hints. Each day the code letters are different.

MARKET TRENDS

NEW YORK (AP)—The stock market had its best rally in about two weeks in moderate trading Wednesday.

Motors, chemicals, electrical equipments, aircrafts, electronics and other "growth" stocks led in the advance.

Early reports of the swift pace in putting together a new labor contract for Ford were linked to a substantial rise in that stock and gains by other motors. The momentum generated by the auto stocks spread to other industrials.

Report of merger talks between Montgomery Ward and Interstate Department Stores caused both stocks to rise a point or so before Wall Street Heard the complete story, then they fell.

Montgomery Ward was the most active stock, dropping ½ to 31½ on 190,000 shares. Interstate was third most active, falling 4¼ to 34½ on 73,000 shares.

General Motors was the second most active issue, rising 1¼ to 49¾ on 75,700 shares.

Ford was up 3½ at 104.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks rose 2.10 to 250.90.

An estimated $3,000,000,000 was added to the quoted value of stocks listed on the New York Stock Exchange, based on the rise in the AP average.

Volume was 3,440,000 shares compared with 3,320,000 Tuesday.

Aluminum Ltd. added a point among the Canadian stocks. International Nickel gained ⅛. Canadian Pacific and Hudson Bay Mining declined ⅛.

American Stock Exchange prices advanced. Shawinigan added ¼; Jupiter Oils and Sanhire Petroleums 1-16. Brazilian Traction and Scurry Rainbow Oil dropped ⅛.

TORONTO (CP)—Speculative fever gripped the Toronto stock market Wednesday as junior base metals swelled the volume to its highest point in two years.

In one of the wildest trading sessions in recent years the junior issues turned over shares in the millions and many showed minor gains.

Lake Dufault Mines, which started it all last Wednesday, dropped for the first time Wednesday and closed at $4.80 a share, down five cents on the day. It had earlier gone as high as $5.90. However, assay results on the second section of the drill hole sunk by the company last week were revealed and the stock lost ground. The results were not as good as the first report earlier this week.

The total volume for the day was 6,817,000 shares, heaviest since March 12, 1959 when it was 6,969,000. Tuesday's was 5,974,000 shares.

Industrials scored their first solid advance in two weeks as nearly every group moved ahead in moderate trade.

Empire Life led the higher-priced stocks up with a gain of nine points at 129. Bathurst Pulp and Paper A, and Consolidated Paper all were ahead one point, and Aluminium ⅞.

International Paper was down 1¼ and Abitibi was down ⅝.

Senior base metals had a rough day. Consolidated Mining and Smelting lost ½, Hudson Bay Mining ⅞ and Noranda ¼. International Nickel went against the trend and gained ½.

Western oils moved onto the plus side with gains of ⅛ by Calgary and Edmonton and Pacific Petroleum.

MONTREAL (CP)—Trading in mines on the Montreal and Canadian Stock Exchanges Wednesday reached 1,005,700 shares, highest since April 7, 1959 when 1,200,000 shares were traded.

Feature of the day's activity was New West Amulet mines which added 5½ cents at 26 cents on a turnover of 556,100 shares, following announcement Tuesday that 400,000 shares of the company had been underwritten at 15 cents and another 600,000 shares had been optioned at prices ranging from 20 to 30 cents.

In papers, Great Lakes gained ¾ at 18⅞, Abitibi added ⅜ at 39⅜ and Price at 49¼ and Bathurst B at 35½ both off ¼.

Among the utilities, Calgary Power dropped ⅜ at 26, and Power Corp. at 57 eased ¼.

In banks, Royal dipped 1¾ at 77¾. Imperial Bank of Commerce lost ⅞ at 68⅛ and Nova Scotia declined ⅝ at 75¾.

Among the industrials, Dominion Engineering rose 3¼ at 34¼ following announcement of a take - over offer by Canadian General Electric. Industrial Acceptance fell 1⅛ at 63⅜ after approval by shareholders of a two for one stock split. Alberta Gas trunk line A improved ⅝ at 35, West Coast Transmission fell ⅜ at 17 and Hudson Bay Co. was unchanged at 12½.

In mines, Falconbridge advanced ½ at 55 and McIntyre-Porcupine eased ¼ at 41½.

Among the base metals, Aluminium rose ¾ at 28⅞, Hudson Bay Mining fell ⅝ at 52¼. International Nickel gained ½ at 85 and Consolidated Smelters declined ⅜ at 23½.

In western oils, Royalite dropped ½ at 8⅝, Pacific Pete gained ⅛ at 10⅝, Bailey Selburn A lost 10 cents at $7.80 and Central Del Rio declined five cents at $6.15.

On index, banks were off 0.41 at 66.80, utilities up 0.4 at 144.3, industrials up 0.8 at 322.5, combined up 0.6 at 263.1, papers up 1.3 at 495.6 and golds off .42 at 87.15.

World Briefs

DEFECTOR SHOT DOWN

ROME (Reuters) — A man who crossed the Yugoslav border near Trieste Tuesday night claimed to be a Romanian Air Force officer who had tried to fly a MiG-15 jet plane to the West, it was reported Wednesday. The Italian news agency ANSA said the man, who crossed the frontier on foot, gave his name as Jon Ginea, 36. He said he had flown the MiG from Brazov base in Romania but was forced down by Yugoslav anti-aircraft fire.

MOVIE HEROINE DIES

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—Juanita Hanse, 66, heroine of early-day movie serials, died at her home in West Hollywood Tuesday. Miss Hansen suffered from a heart ailment. She began her silent film career in 1915 in Keystone Cop comedies, succeeded Pearl White as the queen of Hollywood's serial trrillers, then retired after she was scalded in a New York hotel accident in 1921.

ACCRA, Ghana (Reuters) — Professor Keith Callard, 37, lecturer in political science at McGill University of Montreal, died here Tuesday. Callard came to Ghana last month for six weeks of research on a book.

To Approach Russia On World Law

OTTAWA (CP) — Approaches will be made to Russia this year to support a world authority to preserve world peace through world law, the chairman of the British parliamentary group for world government said Wednesday.

Sir James Pitman, here to address an organization meeting of members of the Canadian Parliament, told a press conference that such a world authority and total disarmament must be established soon to avoid war.

World government advocates in the United Kingdom and Sweden have already had some contact with iron curtain countries, he said.

He expected Earl Attlee, former Labor Prime Minister of the United Kingdom, would visit Moscow this autumn and follow up the approaches.

"We have got to try," Sir James said. "We have got to take the horse to the trough and see if he wants water."

The managing director of the publishing firm of Sir Isaac Pitman and Son Limited, and a former director of the Bank of England, Sir James was accompanied by Sir William Hildred, chairman of the International Air Transport Association.

EAST BERLIN—This department store is nice and neat mostly because there's not much merchandise to get awry.

WEST BERLIN—This food store is well stocked and well staffed. There are plenty of fruits and vegetables in sight.

EAST BERLIN—This sidewalk food market in Alexanderplatz features mostly empty crates, customers just hoping.

NO WONDER East Berliners are trying to escape to free West Berlin—consumer goods and jobs are plentiful there, with a choice, even. These photos show the contrast in part. Some East Berlin shops don't even have window samples.

Joining Common Market Need Not Break Up Commonwealth

By FORBES RHUDE
Canadian Press Business Editor

TORONTO (CP)—If the price of joining the European Common Market is to disrupt the Commonwealth, then the price is too high to pay, Reginald Maudling, president of Britain's Board of Trade, said Tuesday.

However, he believed it would be possible for Britain to enter the market without incurring the Commonwealth penalty that some feared.

Mr. Maudling, whose position in the British cabinet is similar to the Canadian portfolio of trade and commerce, spoke at a press conference which followed his address to the current three-day annual conference of the Canadian Institute of Chartered Accountants.

Stating that one-quarter of Britain's exports are within the Commonwealth preference set-up, he said the preferences are more important that some people seem to think. Asked if they could be maintained if Britain enters the European market, he replied:

"It is wrong to anticipate what may or may not be done before negotiations start. The preferences we enjoy are very important and I hope to see them preserved as much as possible."

He described the recent meeting of Commonwealth ministers at Accra, Ghana, as "the best discussion we ever had." He didn't agree with all that was said but he considered that everything said was "reasonable."

Britain's position was that she was not prepared to enter the market unless there were proper safeguards for the Commonwealth. Other representatives expressed worry that Britain might not be able to achieve such safeguards and that the negotiations might break down, causing harm all round.

Mr. Maudling didn't think Sterling area countries would suffer in an over-all sense in regard to their access to the London money market.

In his address Mr. Maudling advised countries wishing investment to be careful about expropriating private companies.

Asked at the press conference if he had in mind British Columbia's action in taking over the B.C. Electric Company, he replied:

"No, it was a very general remark. I hadn't Canada in mind at all."

Canada, he added, is a very attractive place for investment and he was referring to countries not so well placed in this regard.

He termed British sales to Canada "disappointing," and in reply to a further question he said there had been disappointment in Britain about "one or two" decisions of the Canadian government affecting British sales here.

$420,000 Turns Miner Into Painter

LEEDS, England (Reuters) Keith Nicholson, 23, today became a former miner and fledgling artist.

Nicholson, a coal digger for eight years, won the equivalent of more than $420,000 in one of Britain's weekly soccer lotteries.

When notified of his win, Nicholson, father of three children and a Sunday painter, announced:

"I've always wanted to be a great painter. Now with the future secure for the kids that's what I'll try to do."

His wife, Vivian, 25, an ex-movie house usherette, also had plans for the future.

With $420,000 behind her, she wants to become a hairdresser and makeup consultant.

Two other big soccer lottery winners also were announced today. Henry Broadstock, 73, an electrician, won $204,000, and Ernest Wilbraham, 50, a hospital orderly shared a $170,000 win with his son-in-law, Charles Sheldon, 39.

Business Briefs

OTTAWA (CP) — Stocks of creamery butter in nine major cities of Canada Sept. 21 totalled 94,634,000 pounds, 16.3 per cent higher than at the same time last year, the Dominion Bureau of Statistics reported Wednesday.

Amounts by cities (last year's figures bracketed):

Quebec 11,994,000 pounds (7,280,000); Montreal 44,327,000 (37,631,000); Toronto 9,570,000 (7,141,000); Winnipeg 14,193,000 (15,948,000); Regina 3,396,000 (3,272,000); Saskatoon 3,880,00 (3,022,000); Edmonton 5,416,000 (4,301,000); Calgary 891,000 (1,361,000); Vancouver 957,000 (1,385,000).

Hogs on Canadian farms at Sept. 1 totalled to an estimated 6,170,000, an increase of nine per cent over last year's corresponding figure. This indicated that moderate expansion has continued during the summer quarter as June 1 hog numbers were seven per cent above year-earlier totals.

Reporter Finds Reporting Pleasanter Than Some Jobs

WINNIPEG (CP) — A Winnipeg newspaper man is back at his own job after a rather hectic experiment at what the other fellow does for a living.

Peter Liba, Tribune reporter, spent more than three weeks doing a full day's work at 18 different jobs. He worked about 18 hours a day, including the extra shift spent writing about each job.

"This assignment cleared up many wrong impressions I had about various jobs," he said after it was over.

He learned, for example, that grocers do not make money by the fistful. Their markup was small and they often had to scrimp to make ends meet.

Street-sweeping was the hardest job he tried, upsetting his notion that sweepers spent their time sitting on curbs when the foreman left. Incidentally, he was offered a permanent job sweeping streets by city engineer W. D. Hurst after the night foreman said he was most impressed with Liba's work.

HARD ON FEET

Zookeepers, Liba reports, are not men who walk fearlessly into the cages of ferocious lions. They keep at a safe distance—on the other side of the bars.

Door-to-door salesmen do not make sales by sticking their foot in the door. Liba has two bruised toes to prove it.

Bellboys knew how to extract a tip from the stingiest person—by standing there and waiting for it.

Two jobs "almost drove me out of my mind" — being a housewife and running a railway control tower. "It was go-go on both of them, with hardly a moment of rest."

Biggest laughs were in the ladies shoe business, watching the women try to squeeze their feet into smaller sizes while pretending they were a perfect fit.

"I spent a day as a farmer and found it's true that it's hard to make any money out of it now. This year many farmers are working for nothing because of the drought."

A member of the Winnipeg Free Press solemnly offered Liba a job for one day as, of all things, a reporter. He declined.
