Kasavubu, Tshombe Unite Against Gizenga

Pact Signed at Elisabethville; Aim To Solve Congo Difficulties

By PATRICK MASSEY

LEOPOLDVILLE (AP)—The Kasavubu and Tshombe governments joined forces in a military pact Tuesday along with the splinter regime in southern Kasai province.

The result, on paper at least, is a united force of about 13,000 troops in a position to take on the Lumumbist regime of Antoine Gizenga, recognized by a number of Communist and neutral nations as the Congo's legitimate government.

The agreement came as a Gizenga military thrust toward Leopoldville dissolved and Congolese leaders charted a round-table talk next week with the announced aim of untangling the Congo's political situation.

The agreement was signed at Elisabethville by Premier Joseph Ileo, representing President Joseph Kasavubu; Moise Tshombe, president of the secessionist Katanga regime; and Albert Kalonji, leader of the Kasai section called the Mining State.

It was a strictly military affair, stressing that Kasavubu's government did not recognize the independence of Tshombe and Kalonji, while in turn "Katanga and South Kasai do not recognize the Leopoldville government."

FORM COMMON FRONT

"The agreements were made to form a common bloc against the danger of UN trusteeship, Communist tyranny and a Korean-style war . . . they are not directed as such against the governments of Oriental and Kivu provinces but they do denounce the danger of Communist tyranny over the whole of The Congo," an announcement said.

In announcing the conference to start next Monday, Ileo, Tshombe and Kalonji emphasized it will be held in what they called "an African atmosphere" on the island of Madagascar.

Gizenga, successor to slain Patrice Lumumba, is being invited, along with Anicet Kashamura of Kivu province.

The military pact adds to the Leopoldville government's scattered and disorganized troop force of 7,500 the 5,000 well-paid troops of Tshombe, trained and led by Belgian officers; and about 1,000 soldiers and an undetermined number of Baluba tribesmen controlled by Kalonji.

Gizenga's troops, believed to number more than 5,000 men, are spread thinly about The Congo. He controls about one-third of the country.

Over the weekend a Gizenga force moved south to Luluabourg, about 500 miles from Leopoldville. One advance detachment reached Port Francqui on the border of Leopoldville province.

NO FIGHT NEEDED

But faced with a threat of force from UN Ghanaian contingents in Luluabourg when they tried to occupy the airport, the rebels began to stream back north, or drift into the bush. The Port Francqui thrust dissolved.

At no time in the whole invasion scare was there any fighting.

G. Mennen Williams, U.S. assistant secretary of state for African affairs, had a half hour talk with Kasavubu Tuesday. The president was said to have promised co-operation with the United Nations if his government is consulted on UN action.

UN Secretary - General Dag Hammarskjold has sent a letter to Kasavubu demanding full co-operation in averting civil war. Hammarskjold told Kasavubu that the United Nations has the strength and determination to carry out its mission even without Kasavubu's co-operation.

A hint that Gizenga may be getting disillusioned with his Communist backers came in a UN announcement that the Stanleyville regime has expelled five Communist journalists — a Soviet Tass correspondent, three Czechs and a Pole.

Hoffa to be Back In Driver's Seat

WASHINGTON (AP) — James R. Hoffa today won his three-year battle with the board of monitors assigned to clean up the Teamsters Union.

Federal district Judge F. Dickinson Letts, who established the monitorship, authorized the union to call a convention. When the convention is held, the board of monitors will automatically go out of business.

Hoffa intends to run for re-election as president of the 1,700,000-member union, along with other top officers, and he almost certainly will win easily.

He thus will regain full control of the Teamsters, free of supervision by the monitors and the courts.

Will Allow Leeway-Bennett

VICTORIA (CP) — British Columbia will not delay start on the Columbia River power development project by holding the federal government rigidly to its estimated 3.77 mills as cost of Columbia River down-stream benefit power delivered in Vancouver, Premier Bennett assured the legislature Tuesday.

But, he added, the leeway in this figure must be held to a minimum and this factor will be kept in mind in arranging the financial details of the multi-million-dollar job.

"We will allow leeway of perhaps 10 per cent," said the premier, "but we won't allow 50 or 60 per cent leeway."

"We don't want to wind up as six-mill power to wind up us get the blame."

Sir Winston Has Night Out

LONDON (AP) — Sir Winston Churchill went out with the boys Tuesday night for food and drink and showed them how to carry on heartily at 86. A Canadian suckling pig served as the main course.

The old statesman kept an annual dinner date at the swank Savoy Hotel with The Other Club, a stag group he organized 50 years ago.

There was an impressive ceremony in the hotel. Sir Winston got a standing ovation. The next cheers were reserved for the suckling pig with a big red apple in its mouth.

The main course came by plane from Medicine Hat, Alta. It was offered by Medicine Hat Mayor Harry Veiner to Churchill for Christmas and Sir Winston suggested it be reserved for this occasion.

John Doe Under Microscope Today

VICTORIA (CP) — The 13th annual British Columbia resources conference opens here today on the theme of the province's most important resource—its citizens.

The British Columbian as a product of his environment is the theme of the three-day meeting at which a dozen experts will speak on living habits and trends in Canada's westernmost province.

Education and Labor Minister Peterson will open the meeting.

The status of the B.C. citizen, the province's youth, culture and law will also be discussed. Relationship to industries and pollution control are also topics for panel discussions.

Peter Bennett of the Vancouver Festival Society will speak and G. R. Knight, research supervisor for the provincial bureau of economics, will discuss the citizens' status, and Prof. William Dixon of the University of B.C.'s school of social work will speak on youth.

Labor Legislation Under Scrutiny

OTTAWA (CP) — Top labor leaders from across Canada Tuesday discussed British Columbia's controversial legislation aimed at banning unions from using for political purposes funds collected through the dues check-off.

The matter came up at the three-day conference of officers of the Canadian Labor Congress and representatives of provincial federations of labor.

Informants said the discussion ranged into what might be done to combat the proposed provincial legislation, but no decisions were taken.

25 Appointed to Productivity Council

By JAMES NELSON
Canadian Press Staff Writer

OTTAWA (CP) — Prime Minister Diefenbaker Tuesday announced the appointment of 24 men and one woman as members of the National Productivity Council, set up to breathe new life into Canadian industry.

He immediately ran into criticism both in the Commons from opposition party leaders and outside the House from one of the appointees, Claude Jodoin president of the Canadian Labor Congress. The government had not consulted the CLC on labor representation, Mr. Jodoin said.

Liberal leader Pearson said the persons named are distinguished Canadians but the council's powers were too limited to deal with the economic problems facing the country.

CCF leader Argue said the list is heavily weighted towards big business and the ideas produced by the council for sprucing up Canadian industry are unlikely to be progressive.

H. George DeYoung, 53-year-old president of Atlas Steels Limited, Welland, Ont., was appointed chairman for a three-year term. He came to Canada 10 years ago from the United States to be works manager for Atlas, and became president of the firm in 1956.

John Dickinson of Northern Electric Company, Montreal whom Mr. Diefenbaker described as an economist of outstanding reputation, was named executive director. Under the act passed by Parliament in December, his appointment is a continuing one, while there will be an annual rotation of one-third of the other members.

PAY IS TOKEN

Mr. DeYoung will be paid an honorarium, which can be up to $3,000 a year under the act authorizing the council, plus expenses. Other members receive out-of-pocket expenses for attending meetings.

Mr. Dickinson will be paid a salary at a rate set by order-in-council.

Mr. DeYoung and one other new member of the council, W. S. Kirkpatrick, president of Consolidated Mining and Smelting Company of Canada Limited, Montreal, were members of a 15 - man mission which toured European markets last October.

The council, whose only woman member is Miss Anna Speers, a Winnipeg businesswoman, will be financed by a $150,000 annual grant from the treasury but will be counted a charitable organization for income tax purposes and will employ private funds subscribed for its work. The government will match private contributions.

Rocket Base Fire Damage $2,000,000

CHURCHILL, Man. (CP) —An explosion and fire hit the Canadian - American rocket testing base 12 miles east of here in 25-below weather early Tuesday, causing damage estimated by the Canadian army at $2,000,000.

All firemen in the area 610 miles north of Winnipeg battled the flames, which could be seen from the town at the mouth of the Churchill River.

No injuries were reported.

The army said the outbreak started in a generator room. It swept through buildings and equipment that mainly were under United States control.

Few details were released on the grounds of security.

Demands Bennett Answer Questions . . . Or Else

VICTORIA (CP) — The Social Credit government was accused Tuesday of breaking all its election promises within six months of the September election.

As a result, said Opposition Leader Robert Strachan, the government should resign.

It was the CCF leader's reply to an arm-waving speech by Premier Bennett at the close of Monday's sitting of the provincial house, a performance Mr. Strachan described as a "circus" act and one of "going into orbit."

It brought an early retort from the premier, a bitter exchange between the premier and Tony Gargrave (CCF—MacKenzie) and later an admonition to both the CCF and Social Credit leaders from Alan Macfarlane (L—Oak Bay).

It set the stage for a later exchange when Mr. Strachan warned the premier that unless he answered questions put to him another ruckus would develop.

FEARS NEW PARTY

Mr. Strachan said Mr. Bennett had made his noisy speech Monday because he feared the new party and knew he was "heading for the last roundup" politically.

The Social Credit had become desperate and now had taken an attitude of maintaining office at any price, sacrificing friends and principles to stay in power.

"Smear, still smear," shouted the premier. "Same old smear."

During the election campaign Mr. Strachan said, the premier had said the CCF plan to take over British Columbia Electric Company as a publicly-owned utility would wreck the province's economy.

"Yet yesterday the premier made statements that left the impression that take-over of B.C. Electric is very likely under this government."

Mr. Strachan said the Social Credit party had not mentioned tax increases during the election campaign, but now had introduced six bills that would boost taxes, n spite of its campaign promises.

"Considering how much the premier has gone back on his election promises and the statements he made then, this government should resign. You have no right to sit in office."

Mr. Strachan also said the government has introduced legislation that will interfere with the operations of their political opponents—"the first time in the history of the commonwealth that we have a government instituting political vengeance."

When the CCF leader sat down, Mr. Macfarlane was on his feet and was recognized by the committee chairman.

REVERSES DECISION

But the premier jumped up to reply and demanded the floor. Mr. Macfarlane demanded a ruling and the chairman Alex Matthew (SC—Vancouver Centre) let the premier speak.

Mr. Gargrave bounced up, shouting that the premier had forced "a frightful indignity" on the chairman.

Mr. Bennett retorted that the premier is never refused the floor during discussion of his salary vote.

When Mr. Macfarlane got the floor, he said:

"The premier vented his spleen for 20 minutes yesterday and didn't give us the answers to our questions. Now the leader of the opposition has vented his spleen and I hope we now can get down to business."

Mr. Macfarlane asked a series of questions and the premier said he would answer them after other members had also asked questions.

Third reading and royal assent were given to an act amending the Court of Appeal Act to make provision for continuity in cases before the courts at the time of retirement of any judge.

Committee of supply approved expenditures in estimates of the premier's office and department of finance.

Premier Bennett said no consideration has been given to having public funds used to pay contempt of court fine or court costs incurred in the case by Highways Minister Gaglardi.

The premier said some flexibility will be accepted in the final figure for Columbia River downstream-power benefits, delivered in Vancouver, but it will be limited.

The house rose at 5:30 p.m., adjourned until 2 p.m. Wednesday.

Jaycee Head Arranging Group's Reorganization

Arthur Murray, of Prince George, British Columbia president of the Junior Chamber of Commerce, spent several hours in Nelson Wednesday to arrange a re-organization of the Nelson group.

He met with Kenneth Frederickson, past-president of the Nelson Jaycees, and has agreed to try and arrange a visit here in May of the national president, Donald LeBlanc, of Halifax. Mr. LeBlanc will be enroute to the provincial conference at Penticton at that time. It is hoped he will re-charter the Nelson Jaycees.

"There is a fair amount of enthusiasm here. We have at present about 15 men who hope to get the club re-established. We can eventually hope for about 50 members," Mr. Fredrickson said.

The Nelson club was originally chartered several years ago but has been inactive for some months now.

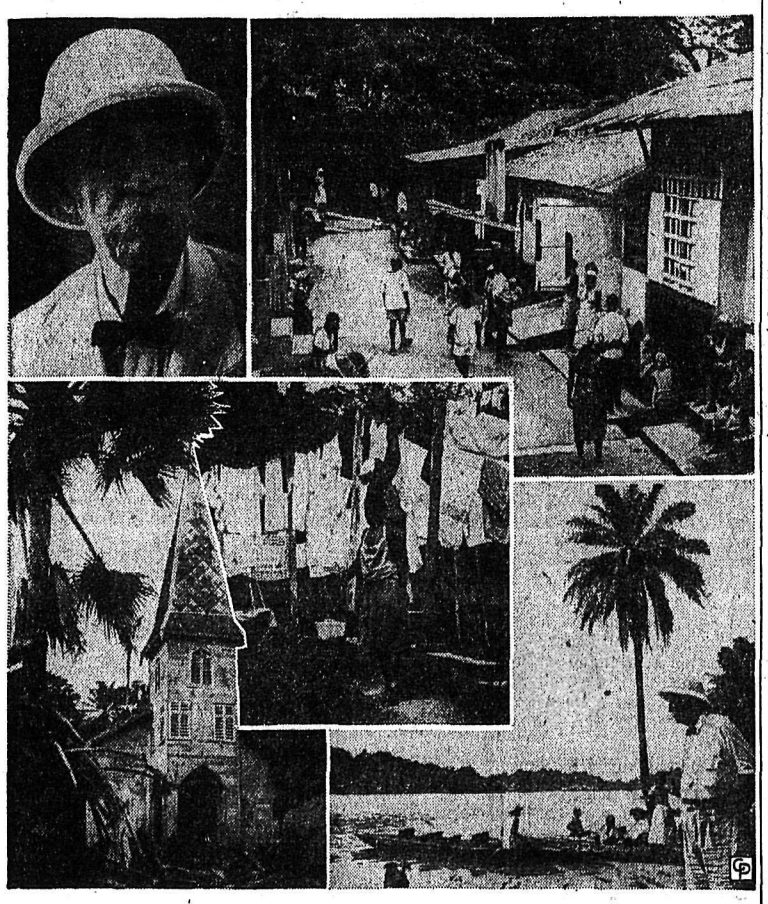
ARTHUR MURRAY

Mr. Murray was elected provincial president in June. He has recently returned from an International Relations Brotherhood Convention in Hawaii where delegates from B.C. Chambers and Hawaiian Chambers met. He was scheduled to meet with the Creston Jaycees Wednesday night and the Cranbrook group today. He is on the way to a national board meeting in Toronto to meet with directors of Canadian Chambers.

"The whole districts of Kootenay are now experiencing a revival of interest in Junior Chamber work," Mr. Murray said.

Murray Mackie of Trail, a former Nelson resident, is the district president of the Jaycees and will be responsible for re-organization of the Nelson club.

William Brown, former charter president of the Williams Lake Jaycees, Mr. Frederickson, and Stanley Buchanan, a past member of the Sault Ste. Marie club, are handling reorganization plans.



'GOOD MEDICINE' DOCTOR IN AFRICA—While a large part of Africa is warring in political unrest, one tiny spot, Lambarene, in the new Gabon Republic, is the essence of serenity. It is the site of Dr. Albert Schweitzer's headquarters and hospital on the Ogooue River. Here are scenes from there, showing the pith-helmeted doctor, now 86, the hospital area (upper right), its laundry, the chapel, and the landing area on the river bank. Retiring Manson Says

Not "Hanging Judge," Just Fearless

VANCOUVER (CP)—"Judges are like whisky in a cask. They mature with the years."

Alexander M. Manson, who reluctantly retired Tuesday as a justice of the British Columbia Supreme Court because of his age, said that in an interview about his 25 years on the bench.

The 77-year-old veteran jurist was forced to retire by a recent amendment to the British North American Act fostered by the federal government. It makes the retirement age 75.

Going with him into retirement Tuesday were Mr. Justice Arthur D. Macfarlane, also of the Supreme Court, and Mr. Justice James M. Coady of the Appeal Court.

Mr. Justice Manson once said: "Justices are appointed for life . . . nobody, not even the prime minister can say 'Manson—your fired.' "

He was called the "hanging judge" by Harold and Ernie Winch in the legislature who also questioned his "mental stability." He has been criticized as anti-labor by unions.

In his interview he had these comments:

"I'm not a hanging judge. I am a fearless judge. Some think it's the sole duty of court to protect the accused. But it's also the duty to see that society is protected. I don't fear death and I've never lost a night's sleep over a capital case."

"Charges that I am prejudiced against labor are downright bunk . . . I believe labor must do right, as others must do right . . . my answer to these charges is that as attorney-general and minister of labor (1922 - 28 in B.C.) there wasn't a single strike."

"As a judge I violated all the rules. I used to tell stories from the bench . . . why sit up there like the Sphinx in Egypt?"

"As for juries, some are excellent, some are dumb. But I've got great faith in juries. It's a damn safe thing to have 12 men finding on the facts instead of one. I've only disagreed with the jury in five cases in 25 years. I do think, though, it is wrong to demand a unanimous finding from a jury. We should accept 10. One man can hang it, gum it up."

'SWAN SONG' TYPICAL

As a sort of summation of his career on the bench, Mr. Justice Manson's last case had mixed abuse and tribute. A lawyer spoke stirringly on his contribution to jurisprudence. A mother of a convicted rapist screamed obscenity at him after he passed sentence of 15 years.

He said he never had a nasty letter from a prisoner.

"I'm not a sob sister. I'm not against hanging. I'm not trying to punish—hell no—I'm trying to scare the living daylights out of the people contemplating these dreadful crimes."

Mr. Justice Manson, always outspoken, swung out against the Vancouver police force. He criticized the apparent blundering and inefficiency of detectives. Some officers in charge of criminal cases were dumb-bells. Their work was terrible.

He called for a three - man composed of an expert and scholarly criminologist, a scientist and a pathologist and a lower mainland police training academy.

KIRKCALDY, Scotland (AP)—Farmer Thomas Alston, 35, drove off from home in his car the other night.

Hiding in the trunk was his pretty wife, Elizabeth, 29.

The car stopped and in stepped an attractive, 28-year-old girl. Alston drove to a "lover's lane."

Out popped Mrs. Alston.

Alston was in court Tuesday on a charge of assaulting his wife. She said he threw her out of the car and drove off with her rival.

Alston, who pleaded guilty, said he had to use force to keep his wife from giving his girl friend a beating. He was fined £10 ($28) and left the court with his girl friend.

LONDON (AP)—The British treasury is giving aid and comfort to criminals by overtaxing judo mats, Parliament heard Tuesday.

Conservative Gerald Nabarro, equally famous for his splendid moustache and his hatred of the national sales tax, demanded in the Commons why judo mats are taxed at 25 per cent whereas other floor coverings are taxed only 12½ per cent.

Moustache a-bristle, Nabarro sharply rebuked Selwyn Lloyd, the chancellor of the exchequer.

Nabarro said the least Lloyd could do would be to cut the judo mat sales tax to the level charged on throw rugs.

Lloyd said it is true that a judo mat is a floor covering but it is also sporting goods, subject to higher tax.

"Should it not be a matter of treasury policy to teach people to defend themselves against violent crimes?" Nabarro shouted.

Selwyn Lloyd looked at Nabarro and said: "I think we have here not only a question of self-defence but also one of self-restraint."

New Licences A Must Today

Tally on the number of 1961 car licenses sold at the Motor Vehicle Branch is expected today.

The office was open on Saturday to give motorists an opportunity to pick up their plates. Kenneth McRae, government agent, said "great response" was shown.

It was illegal for motorists to drive with their 1960 plates after midnight Tuesday.

R. H. Harshaw, city police chief, said any vehicle parked on a public highway without the new plates will be impounded. People driving without the plates are liable to prosecution.

WKPL Head Denies Brothers' Charge

TRAIL (CP) — President R. G. Anderson of the West Kootenay Power and Light Company Limited Tuesday described as irresponsible statements made in the legislature that the company was not providing power to rural dwellers.

Mr. Anderson said in an interview his company has spent much time and effort in making studies of proposed rural electrification schemes.

In the house, Donald Brothers (SC—Rossland-Trail) said Monday the company was "engaging in a lot of fancy footwork" but providing no power to rural dwellers.

Words Fly as Museum Contract Awarded

Contract for the construction of a mezzanine floor in the Municipal Library was awarded to the city at Monday's council meeting but only after strained words and tense arguments had been traded.

City's tender of $6012 was the lowest of five received.

Clash of wills followed presentation of a brief by Dr. C. E. Bradshaw, temporary chairman of the Library Board and chairman of the Civic Centre Commission, two boards directly involved in the matter. (Full text of the brief is carried elsewhere in the Daily News.)

Dr. Bradshaw in his brief questioned the judgment of council in putting the Kootenay Museum on a mezzanine floor above the library in its present quarters in the Civic Centre. The museum is currently housed in the city hall building.

He charged that the move was almost dictator-like as neither the Library board or Civic Centre Commission had been informed of the plan until tenders had been called.

"The plans of the changes were never submitted or discussed with the Library board at any time," he said.

"It definitely appears that the museum is being foisted onto the Civic Centre and Library Board in particular," he added, suggesting that the board take up the Rotary Club's offer and build a separate building for the museum at Lakeside Park.

Quick to reply to Dr. Bradshaw's charges was Ald. B. C. Affleck, chairman of the city hall renovation committe which conceived the plan of moving the museum to the Library mezzanine when it is constructed.

He said the council had heard constant demands by the library for more space and by this scheme were providing such. Besides building a mezzanine floor, the width and length of the building, plans also call for enlarging the library space by removing the hall and adjoining Women Institute's room partitions.

He also said that the Library Board had been contacted and he personally had talked to the Civic Centre manager at the time and the manager was all in favor of such a move.

"I don't feel guilty about any part of it except one thing, that we didn't inform the Women's Institute," said Mr. Affleck. "We now have no alternative but to put the library where it is now."

ASKS "OPEN MIND"

As to the Rotary Club suggestion, Mr. Affleck said "I would have given it some serious consideration if I had a definite tangible statement."

Mayor T. S. Shorthouse, a member of Rotary, defended the club's position and asked Mr. Affleck to keep an open mind on the situation. He said that he himself had approached Mr. Affleck with the proposal that Rotary Club funds be joined with the money the city is willing to put forward and build a new structure in Lakeside Park.

"Purely verbal, purely verbal," countered Mr. Affleck.

"The Rotary Club's bluff should be called and their cheque put on the line," interjected Ald. Dr. W. K. Massey.

"Museum people said they did not want to be out of the city in the park," continued Ald. Affleck. "They have no use for their display down there. For one thing for six months they would not have anyone down there."

Mayor Shorthouse tried to soft pedal this idea but Ald. J. S. M. Harts broke in, "I have been insulted by Dr. Bradshaw and I am sick of it. I think it is time we should move."

He also said he could not see a satisfactorily built structure to house the museum for the price of $13,000 — $6,000-$7,000 bid of city's tender plus Rotary donation. He added that upkeep and heating of such a building would be an even heavier financial load. This is not the case in connection with the mezzanine floor, it was pointed out.

"I am amazed that this brief is read now," said Ald J. W. McClelland, adding that the old city council had brought up the lakeside park proposal several times only to be voted down.

"That was another thing altogether," mumbled the mayor.

Dr. Massey and the mayor both voiced the opinion, "We are moving too fast." Ald. Harts, McClelland and Affleck voiced the opinion that we should move fast, to create employment.

Beginning of the project is expected as soon as approval is received from the building inspector, who has yet to study the specification in great detail and the fire marshal.

City works superintendent D. (Charlie) Likar stated that he forgot one item in the specifications but this in no way affected the five tenders. He forgot to include fire wall protection for the stage wall.

Other tenders were: Williscroft Construction, $8,200; and certified cheque enclosed; T. H. Waters and Co., $9,500, no cheque or bid bond enclosed; GWF Construction, $7,600, no bid bond or cheque enclosed; Louis Maglio, $8,666, certified cheque enclosed.

Sportsman Park Plans Sought

Five suggestions for revisions in the zoning bylaw proposals of planning consultants were made by the Advisory Planning Commission meeting Tuesday night. The draft bylaw was prepared by Community Planning Consultants Ltd. of Vancouver.

The Commission's suggestions, made in resolution form, encompassed the providing of school, park and playground sites; regulation of building heights and front yard offsets for residences.

Study of the traffic flow and parking report of the consultants will be undertaken by the Commission members at their March 13 meeting.

An effort to relocate the draft landscaping plans for Sportman's Park was being made, the City Hall notified the Commission. The preliminary drawings were prepared by M. Roberts, North Shore for the project originated by the Nelson Rod and Gun Club. The Commission had recommended that the project be revised and the plans obtained for submission to the community planning consultants.

The Cottonwood Falls area for some years has been designated for development as Sportman's Park.

Estimates for the Commission's 1961 operation, required by bylaw, were approved for submission to the City Council for consideration in the year's budget.

Notice of the re-appointment of D. P. Fairbank and Dr. G. R. Callbeck was received from the Council along with advice on the School Board's nomination of Donald Porteous as a new member.

Final Word on Sewer Contract Expected Today

A definite decision on the lakeside interceptor sewer system contract to be awarded to H.B. Contracting Company of Cloverdale will be known today.

H.B. was awarded the contract for its low tender of the ten submitted, $54,593, pending approval of R. J. Cave, consultant engineer of Vancouver, and city works superintendent D. (Charlie) Likar after company officials have clarified a few points which arose out of its tender.

Mr. Cave met with representatives of the company here Tuesday and returns to the coast today where he will discuss the matter with the manager of the company.

He is expected to contact Mayor T. S. Shorthouse on the outcome of the meeting some time this afternoon.

Council Jottings

Reconsideration of the recent hike in parking meter fines was asked of City Council Monday night.

Correspondence from the Nelson, Trail and District Labor Council secretary George Turner of Nelson stated that the hike from $1 to $2 last fall was not serving its purpose of keeping traffic moving and was harmful to district residents visiting in Nelson.

Mayor T. S. Shorthouse informed council that it had nothing to do with the hike in fines, which were authorized by city magistrate R. S. Nelson, who has the power to do so.

Ald. J. S. M. Harts spoke out against the increase, siding with Mr. Turner, stating that he felt better policing would serve the purpose as well as the increase in parking fines.

The matter was referred to the transporation committee for study and a copy of the correspondence forwarded to the police commission for a report.

A four-man delegation from the city band appeared before council requesting that it give thought to locating an area which the band could call its own for practice rehearsals. Also sought is a city grant to enable the band to pay the bandmaster salary, purchase new sheet music, repair band instruments, and possibly buy new instruments.

Ald. J. W. McClelland assured the group that the city was making arrangements now to have the band store its instruments and practice in what is now the civil defence room in the City Hall. The band would probably have to share the room on different nights of the week with one or two other citizen groups.

Regarding a grant, A. E. Lashmar, band master, stated it would be in the neighborhood of $700. This was needed because many organizations believe because it is a city sponsored band it doesn't have to be paid for a parade, concert, etc.

Mayor Shorthouse suggested it might be a good idea if one of the service clubs sponsored it as a civic project.

A reguest of a financial statement was asked of the band by the city and the matter referred to the finance committee for study.

Theatre Confections Ltd. was awarded the franchise to operate the Lakeside Park refreshment concession this season when council accepted its tender of $260. The only other tender, $210, was submitted by F. C. Wah of Nelson.

A request was heard from T. McDonald, executive director, Community Planning Association of Canada, B.C. Division, that the city send one if not more persons to attend the one-week course on Community Planning at U.B.C. this spring. The matter was referred to the Advisory Planning Commission for study.

Received and filed was correspondence from the Police Commission which stated that at present the maintenance of parking meters adjacent to alley ways is not a serious problem.

A letter from Robertson-Hilliard-Cattell Realty Co. Ltd. outlining the passenger hazard insurance carried on city vehicles was referred to the Finance Committee for report.

Before doing so Ald. Harts stated that he was in favor of scrapping such passenger insurance because all city employees were covered by other benefit forms, and no one but city employees on the job are supposed to be passengers in city vehicles.

Ceramist Carl L. duBellier informed council that he was agreeable to the terms outlined by the city in the use of its coat of arms on souvenir plaques made by the ceramist. At the same time the council approved a motion enabling the Midsummer Bonspiel Committee to put the coat of arms on crests to be awarded to winners, pending presentation of the design to council for approval.

Another offer for the 25-foot-wide strip of land lying adjacent to R. Phillips Motel was heard. The Sacred Heart parish requested that the city reconsider their offer to purchase the strip of land which was first made in 1954. The bid was turned down then and the group was informed that the land was to stay in council's hands.

The parish letter stated that sale of land to R. Phillips would block the only access to the church. The matter was referred to the finance committee.

A tender to remove about 20 large stumps on the beach area at Lakeside Park was referred to the parks committee and city works superintendent with power to act.

In their tender, J. E. and D. E. Marquis stated that they wish the city to supply two men to work on Saturday and Sunday and possibly pay for any dynamite which might be used.

The removed stumps would be placed in the fill west of the swimming pool.

The council gave support to a Penticton request that it file a letter of protest over the abandonment of the Coquihalla subdivision by Canadian Pacific Railways, with the Board of Transport Commissioners.

Copies of the correspondence were also to be forwarded to the CPR and to H. W. Herridge, MP for West Kootenay.

Because of national defence, it was felt that this short route to Fraser Valley, about 49.6 miles of track, should remain in service. Abandoned it would leave only one route to Fraser Valley, through the Fraser Canyon.

Referred to the finance committee were architect fees of $3302.49 submitted by David P. Fairbank, architect, for work done on the old hospital building prior to the injunction last summer.

A request from Norman Buckley for expenses incurred in repairs made to his vehicle following collision with a large rock, which fell from a city truck on Gyro Park road widening project, was referred to the city solicitors.

Mr. Buckley stated that he had been crossing the widening section of the road when a rock fell from a truck in front of his vehicle. Collision with the rock ruined the muffler and punched a hole in the exhaust pipe.

City works superintendent D. Likar stated signs had been posted at that stretch to drive at a speed of 10 miles per hour.

Received and filed was correspondence from Norman Howard and Associates of Vancouver, management consultants, offering their services. It was the opinion of council that such work will be needed in Nelson in the future but the city is unable at the moment to find the finances for such an undertaking.

The city was handed a bill for $2875 for 11½ months rental of the old provincial gaol as a police station and at the same time told that the provincial government would no longer furnish a caretaker for the building. It would be up to the city to furnish a caretaker in the future, as its cost, but rent of the building would remain at $250 a month. The new lease on the building would begin on April 1, 1961.

The matter was referred to the finance committee for study and report back to council.

A delegation from the Midsummer Bonspiel Committee to discuss the city's recent grant of $1000, down from $1500, was unable to attend the meeting. A two-man delegation, Ralph Hofmann and Mike Arishenkoff, who requested a meeting with council on the road requirements of 1405-1500 Vancouver Street also failed to appear. The latter was referred to the public works committee for report.

A request for an easement sought by H. Sather was referred to the city works superintendent for report. Kootenay Forest Product is willing to grant a 15-foot easement to the city on its property if the city will extend its easement through to Government Street.

City authorized the acquisition of the required easement on installation of a fire hydrant at the company's own cost.

Old Hospital Property For Sale; To Donate Land For Health Centre

The old hospital site and its buildings are to be put up for sale, City Council agreed Monday night during a five-hour-long meeting.

At the same time it was agreed that the city would donate the property of the old city hall site to the Nelson Kinsmen Club to be the site of a new Selkirk Health Unit.

By putting the building and site up for sale the council ended over a year's deliberation on the future of the old hospital, vacated in 1958.

The resolution passed by council states that the city offers to sell the old hospital site and buildings, subject to the existing lease *of the old nurses home and isola*tion hospital and also subject to the city retaining a lease on the portion of the main floor of the hospital building and subject also to other conditions.

Part of the portion of the main floor to be leased by the city will be made available to Walter Waite, civil defence co-ordinator for the Eastern zone, subject to providing an office room for the city's civil defence officer is also made available.

Only one organization has made overtures towards buying the site and buildings. Notre Dame College of Nelson, which is leasing the old nurses home and isolation hospital presently using them for male dormitories, applied to purchase the building for conversion to classrooms.

It is believed that the College offer is in the neighborhood of $60,000.

Sale of the site and buildings will be tendered.

Council also was informed by a reliable source, it was learned, that the selling of the hospital site and buildings would in no way jeopardize its chances of having a provincial vocational training school established here.

At one time it was believed that the old hospital would make an excellent accommodation for a vocational school.

Jack White of Vancouver, head of the provincial vocational training schools, is expected to arrive in Nelson in March to look the city over on its possibilities for a vocational school for the Kootenay.

Dr. A. S. Arneil, director of the Selkirk Health Unit, was pleased by the city's granting of the old city hall site for a new health unit.

He believes if various financial arrangements are successful it may be possible to start the new building at the end of May.

Nelson Men to Cancer Meeting

Roy Pollard, president, and J. Paul Riley, vice-president of the Nelson branch of the Canadian Cancer Society will attend the annual conference of the British Columbia and Yukon division March 20-21 in Vancouver.

Cancer research, education and welfare services will be under review.

Delegates representing Cancer Units from Dawson City to White Rock to Fernie will attend to discuss progress in the fight against cancer and to finalize plans for the annual Conquer Cancer campaign.

The conference theme, "Education Can Save More Lives," has been chosen to dramatize the challenge which faces lay cancer workers today.

R. Bruce Buckerfield, president of the B.C. and Yukon division, summarized the challenge in this way:

"Medical science is making available new techniques for the earlier detection of some forms of cancer but these advances will fall far short of their life-saving potential if we in the front line of cancer education can't get 100 per cent of the public to act on them."

Mr. Buckerfield said recently that those in the Cancer Society also *"must accept the responsi*bility of bringing medical and statistical evidence linking smoking and lung cancer to the attention of young people.

"Smoking is a matter of personal and individual choice, but we must consider our work a failure if any young person makes his decision to smoke while in ignorance of the hazards he risks."

McKenzie Chose Confab Delegate

NAKUSP — T. G. McKenzie, chairman, Nakusp Recreation Commission, was the unanimous choice to represent Nakusp at the Provincial Convention in Penticton, May 4 to 6.

Elmo Wolfe, Argenta, British Columbia Recreation Commission president, addressed the gathering on recreation in the province. He called for more dynamic enthusiasm from those assuming leadership in their communities. "Leadership involvment" ultimately leads to a better community because it encourages contributions from all levels of ability and interest," he said.

Recreation commissions from Silverton, Edgewood and West Arrow Park were hosted by Nakusp. The conference was jointly sponsored by the Nakusp Recreation and the Community Programs Branch.

Commerce Students Test Abilities With City Firms

High school students are taking their first crack at the business world this week. Six were placed with Nelson firms this week; an*other eight will follow next week.*

The students are those in their final year of commerce at L. V. Rogers High School. They have been spotted in verious businesses around town, and are thus getting practical training to complement school theory.

They are marked on the school rolls just as if they had been present there.

Students are placed mostly in the bigger businesses around town.

This year for the first time a boy, Bob Butchard, has been placed.

VALUABLE TRAINING

According to Peter Klassen, high school teacher, the training has been found to be valuable. The students come back after their weeks work with a new insight into the problems of the work. As a result of this, he said, they apply themselves with more vigor to their school studies.

Mr. Klassen stated this is the fourth year of the on-the-job program. As a result of this training students find less difficulty in getting jobs when graduating.

"Before the institution of the program," said Mr. Klassen, "I think a lot of business men were unaware of the quality of our students."

He also expressed appreciation for the cooperation given by business men in town, and felt that a great help was given the students' education.

Working this week are Robert Butchard, school board; Jeanne Hollington, hospital; Elaine Chernenko, North American Life; Patricia Gordon, Government offices; Bernice Hannon, Daily News and Frances Threatful, Peebles Motors.

Dr. Bradshaw Gives Commission, Library Board's View on Mezzanine

The following is the address in part given by Dr. C. E. Bradshaw to city council Monday night. It presents some reasons why the Civic Centre Commission and Library Board are against the creation of a mezzanine floor in the present Municipal Library quarters in the Civic Centre to house the museum.

The members of the Library Board have been appointed by you to run the Library Board in the best interests of the citizens of the city of Nelson. You have delegated them this specific duty and without any doubt either in your mind or the minds of the members of the board it is run most efficiently and has been kept up to a very high standard.

The councils over the years must have been pleased with the boards' work and must have held the members in high regard — for they have seen fit to reappoint its members many times. Judge Dawson has served on the board 35 years or more, Mr. Garland at least 25 years, I am now on my 11th year, and Mrs. McMurchy about five years, with Mr. McRae, government agent, and Mr. Appleyard, to a lesser degree.

With so many years of service on the board, I feel their opinions are worthy of some consideration — that they should in all fairness not be bypassed with the thought that "If they don't like what the council is planning, they're going to get it anyway," or thoughts to that effect. Such thinking is very dictatorial.

The plans of the changes in design were never submitted or discussed with the Library Board at any time — a queer attitude to say the least! It would look as if the board was no longer held in high esteem — that the council no longer had confidence in them — is that your thinking? As the temporary chairman of the board, I feel that such is not the case— you are only hard pressed for space.

You have been advised by the Library Board that the changes anticipated are neither desirable nor practical and also that it is not compatible with the Public Libraries Act according to a letter from Mr. Davidson, the superintendent of the Public Library Commission.

There is no such combination of library and museum in British Columbia.

USE GROWING

The library, of course, does require more space according to a survey made some five or six years ago — such a change as you anticipate would do little to alleviate this situation and would be but a temporary stop-gap for one year. The use of the library is growing by leaps and bounds and in five years' time the number of users will be four times its present capacity. This requires more reference books resulting, naturally, in less room. The need for space is absolutely necessary — but it would be better to do nothing than to mess up the situation.

The building of a balcony in a Library would of course give it a "Victorian Look" and it would naturally be known as the "Library with a Fringe on Top" — truly 19th century thinking. No one would ever consider it a "halo".

To add a museum to an area already hard pressed for space would add confusion to the quiescence of a Library — so essential to its patrons. It would be a Hall of Pandemonium! Can you not just picture this situation? It would also cut down the natural light to its patrons—another must for good reading. I therefore cannot think that such an arrangement best projects or serves Nelson's citizens. Do you honestly believe this would add to its efficiency?

I believe you are putting the cart before the horse. The Library Board never asked for this situation and is not desirous of being cluttered up with old fossills and moth-eaten relics any more than the City Hall. We also need the space. There is a place for everything — and the park is a museum's natural abode, such as in Kelowna and Banff.

So much for the library itself. What becomes of the Women's Institute Room — the home of the Women's Institute, the meeting place of those who administer the Mary Davis Fund? Also what becomes of the Senior Citizens, a growing organization? Many other noteworthy organizations use this room, such as those who make cancer dressings, the I.O.D.E., the Red Cross, and several smaller organizations where heavy rental would become a burden. If the grapevine is any criterion, then my reputable information is that they are to be relegated to a former house of ill repute. Is this portecting or serving our citizens? Of course not! Such action can only break down their years of service which many citizens have given so faithfully.

NO VOICE

Now, as Chairman of your Civic Centre Commission, they, too, have not had the plans submitted to them for their consideration. Why? They were not notified that the tenders were to be called. They had no voice in any discussion. Again, is this not a dictatorial attitude? To use a parallel case, I am certain that you would not add or subtract a partition to the Hospital or a school without first consultng the respective Board in each case.

Why should the Civic Centre Commission be placed in such a different category? Remember, the tenders were called before the Civic Centre Commission had an opportunity to see or discuss the proposition. It definitely appears that the Museum is being foisted onto the Civic Centre, and the Library Board in particular.

The Civic Cntre Commission expressed to Council in their minutes that such action is a backward step, believing that a museum should be in a building by itself.

Incidentally, no rental has ever been suggested for this foster child. It would take the city a long time to recover $5000 at the small rental that the museum might be able to afford.

Remember, this whole idea stems from Council to alleviate their needs and definitely did not come as a request from the Library Board or the Civic Centre Commission. By "their needs" I mean space for council chambers. Such action may move the museum out of the City Hall but it does nothing to protect or serve its citizens, so vital to the welfare of the City. Therefore, I would like to call your attention to Bylaw 1147 — first, to section 15 of the Bylaw which reads: The Board shall maintain, operate and manage the Nelson Civic Centre in such a manner as to best protect and serve the citizens and as far as possible make the undertaking self-sustaining."

QUOTES ACT

Also I would like to direct your attention to the Act of 1936 in which those responsible for such an act foresaw the possibility of outside interference and thus had incorporated in the act the following:

"To establish a board of commissioners and to vest in or delegate to such board the sole and exclusive management, administration, and operation of the undertaking of the corporation consisting of Nelson Civic Centre and premises thereof, and the civic recreation grounds thereto adjoining, referred to in the preamble of this act . . ."

As you can see, outside interference would be detrimental and this is the intention of the act. Mr. F. F. Payne, former publisher of the Nelson News and an instigator of the Civic Centre movement, was most insistent that this power be incorporated into the act.

True, the city council is the senior governing body and is recognized as such, but there is little need to spend a half mill of the taxpayers' money on such a useless effort.

My criticism would all be in vain perhaps if I did not offer some alternative. Why not accept the excellent offer of the service club to put up a new building for the museum, and add the $5000 to it — because $12,000 would do a fine job and it would also enhance our park. This would leave the Civic Centre building intact and overcome many difficulties which will definitely arise from public opinion should you persist in such a project.

Your continued and persistent shortsightedness in not supplying proper facilities for such services as the police, Civil Defence, City Band, a larger library, museum, public rest rooms, and council chambers is the cause of such a situation and therefore I ask you to review the whole situation. It will then place the museum in its proper location, will prove the council has the good of citizens at heart, and will recognize the value of your library board and your Civic Centre Commission.

Second Session Of In-Service Training Held

KINNAIRD — The second in a series of in-service training for teachers was held in the Kinnaird Elementary School under the chairmanship of Miss B. Tarbet.

Mrs. MacCabe and a demonstration class of 18 regular grade six pupils illustrated comprehension and rate in a reading session, to approximately 50 teachers. Mrs. McCabe developed the lesson by giving the background of the heroine, taking up new words, arousing interest in the story, letting the pupils read it silently, assigning comprehension type questions on it, and then discussing various aspects of it.

Natural Resources No Longer Irreplacable

By FORBES RHUDE
Canadian Press Business Editor

A sort of modern philosopher's stone is disturbing Canada's export markets, with a variation of the old dream of turning one metal into another becoming a present-day reality.

This theme was advanced at the week-end winter conference of the Canadian Institute on Public Affairs by Douglas LePan, professor of English literature at Queen's University.

Canada's natural resources, it seems, are not quite the irreplaceable items which they once were.

Prof. LePan, who was secretary and director of research for the royal commission on Canada's economic prospects, and who has served on other bodies of an economic and diplomatic nature, said:

INDUSTRY OUTPUT

"The output of industry everywhere is becoming more sophisticated in the sense that it contains relatively higher inputs of skill and science. The importance of what is done to raw materials in the process of converting them into finished goods is growing so rapidly in relation to raw material inputs that we sometimes seem to be almost on the threshold of an age of metamorphosis when industry will be subtle enough and skillful enough to virtually disregard the nature of the raw materials that it uses and will be able to transmute them as it pleases.

"No longer are our stands of black spruce and our deposits of high-grade iron ore to be regarded as such unique resources as we once considered them. Technology is changing the valency table of international trade, and we can no longer be confident that we enjoy a comparative advantage in one export line or another simply because that was the case at an earlier stage of technological development."

All these technological changes, Prof. LePan continued are putting a high premium on human skills, trained manpower and on scientific and industrial research, and a significant amount of current unemployment results from a shift from demand for unskilled workers to demand for those more highly qualified.

The pace of technological advance could be seen dramatically in the aircraft industry, Prof. LePan said, and added:

"When I tried some months ago in Whitehall to explain what a damaging blow it had been to Canada's national pride to realize that weapon systems now had become so complex and so expensive that we could not expect to manufacture economically even one major component for our own defensive system, I met with less sympathy than I had anticipated.

"Officials in the treasury with whom I was talking insisted tht that was also true of the United Kingdom. . . .

"It is natural for a Canadian minister of defence to ask his United States counterprt to inform him in good time of what is likely to be the outline of the U.S. defence program. That would seem a reasonable request.

"But in fact it is a request that is exceptionally difficult to meet. For the U.S. defence program itself is dependent on two unknown variables—on the advances made by scientists and engineers in the U.S. and on the advances made by their competitors in the Soviet Union and elsewhere."

Westwood To Speak To Fernie Chamber

FERNIE — Hon. Earle C. Westwood, minister of recreation in the British Columbia government, will be featured speaker at the annual meeting of the Fernie Chamber of Commerce on March 25, it was disclosed at the Chamber's regular meeting this week at which Eric Mansbridge was reelected for a second term as president.

In response to a request from the Lethbridge Chamber, it was decided that the Fernie group will play host to approximately 100 members of that organization when they stop over on May 10 during a good will visit.

The meeting voted unanimously to support a resolution of the Salmo Chamber protesting the recently announced three cent increase in gasoline and diesel fuel taxes.

The Chamber ended the year's operations with a bank balance of $1500, but activities planned for 1961 are expected to result in a deficit of about $1475.

Other officers will be: first vice-president, Jack Minton; second vice - president, M. Baher; secretary, J. Ryley; treasurer, A. Price. Executive members: R. Colgur, F. Butula, A. Dawson, L. Hamer, J. Savage, T. Taverna and W. Thomson.

School Properties Now Being Tapped for Water

CASTLEGAR — School properties in th Castlegar district are being probed for water. Success in these attempts to provide water supplies for the outlying schools of the district was reported to the monthly meeting of the Castlegar School Board.

PASS CREEK SATISFACTORY

It was stated that a satisfactory well had been drilled at the Pass Creek school property and that a drilling machine was now working at the Tarrys school. It is hoped to drill at Gibson Greek and probably at Ootischenia.

The board approved installation of iron gates in the main corridors of the Stanley Humphries High School. Fluorescent lights have been placed in the lounge room and main corridor of the high school.

Schools superintendent C. Bissell informed the board that the Vancouver Symphony Orchestra will visit Castlegar March 22 and will present a program of children's music.

Mr. Bissell gave a report on the recent in-service training program carried out in the district. He said that this had proved worthwhile and was well attended by the teachers.

Get a Few Geese To Keep Strawberry Patch Clear

SIMCOE, Ont. (CP) — If you want to keep your strawberry patch clear of weeds, get some geese.

They're not interested in the berries but they like to eat the weed shoots.

But what are you going to do if the goose gorges itself in the morning and then refuses to stir in the afternoon?

Ralph Moore, fruit and vegetable specialist for the Ontario department of agriculture, told the Norfolk Berry Growers' Association about the problem and how it was solved.

The provincial horticultural station established here last year experimented with the geese as weed-eaters but found that after gobbling up the unwanted shoots for the first few hours each morning they became lazy.

The station then received research information from California that geese, unlike chickens, have no crops in which to store food until they need it.

The problem was solved by giving the geese a light feeding before releasing them in the strawberry patch. The snack took the edge off their appetite and the tendency to gorge the weeds. It increased their weed-cropping efficiency up to 50 per cent, Mr. Moore said.

Recommending the geese for the job, he said the initial cost is high but they keep the patch relatively clean and provide harvest value at the end of the season.

He suggested six geese to the acre—"any more is a luxury."

Tourist Park a Possibility – After Sewers

CASTLEGAR — Castlegar will seek information form the CPR regarding the possibility of a tourist park being established by the village on property owned by the CPR on Front Street, north of the Mitchell Supply lumber division across from the old Catholic Church.

The suggestion was made by Commissioner V. R. Cook at the last council meeting.

Commissioner Walter Thorp cautioned that money may not be available for parks until the village knows where it is going on sewage.

Commissioner Aage Sylvest urged that the CPR's views be otbained since it may take some time to ascertain the company's position.

Castlegar Chamber Names Committee

CASTLEGAR — Nakusp Chamber of Commerce will receive assistance in its investigations, regarding Columbia River development, from the Castlegar Chamber, which named new committees at its regular February meeting.

Castlegar will send Nakusp $25 to help defray part of its expenses in connection with its Columbia investigations.

New committees are: L. V. Campbell, membership committee; Fred Gibson, tourist and publicity activities; Lloyd Ackney, business development; roads and bridges, Fred Pressacco and R. A. D. West, chairman of the finance committee.

Gilbert Fowler was selected to supervise public affairs activities, W. Jennings the caternig committee and J. Macbeth, entertainment. W. T. Waldie will serve on the Columbia river development committee.

Celgar Exonerated From Blame After Water Samples Tested

KINNAIRD—Celgar stands accused of poor public relations in correspondence which has been exchanged between Kinnaird village officials and Celgar officials concerning the "offensive" smell detectable in the village's water supply by some Kinnaird residents.

Letter writing between the Village and Celgar continues over the matter of alleged pollution of the Columbia river by the company.

On Jan. 28, the village wrote Celgar concerning a sample of water taken from the Columbia on Jan. 20.

Ian Barclay, secretary of Celgar, replied to the village letter noting that, although the village had urged immediate and urgent discussion with officials on the matter, he had since been informed that council did not wish to meet with Celgar representativs at present.

Reason for this was West Kootenay Health Unit director Dr. James Lindsay's report on results of a sanitary inspector's investigation of the water which showed that the dirty water tested was polluted from spilling of earth and water into the river by a department of northern affairs crew, exonerating the Kraft plant of any blame for the water pollution.

"You state in your letter," continued Mr. Barclay, "that many strongly-worded complaints from residents and taxpayers were received and that the protests were perfectly legitimate. It would be most helpful in future if you would indicate to the company the nature of these complaints.

"I am sure you are aware and we have repeated, both to you and to your council on many occasions, that we are always prepared to meet with you or your council at any time."

A reply to Mr. Barclay's letter, sent to the company over the signature of Kinnaird village chairman Carl Loeblich follows:

"We heave received results of the tests of the water sample tests.

"We must apologize for acting hastily, especially in view of the fact that the tests exonerated the Kraft plant. The fact remains that on the day prior to the taking of the above samples, the water was most offensive.

"A description received from three independent sources described the domestic hot water as smelling of rotton cabbage. This peculiarity has not been explained."

LACK GOOD RELATIONSHIP

"However, as I stated to Messrs. Penny, DeLuca, McGill, Scott and Dalley, we still feel most strongly that there is a lac kof good public relations between your officials and the general public.

"While there is perhaps no doubt in the minds of our council members that your operations at Kraft are in no manner affecting our water, we find that we cannot convince the people of the village of this. My council and I have been branded as not having the interests of our ratepayers at heart, and as having cast our lot with your industry.

"These remarks are difficult for even the most callous of us to take, but unless you are prepared to make periodic statements exonerating Kraft plant from charges of contributing to the offensive taste, discoloration or pollution of the water, you will have to be prepared to accept the criticism of public opinion.

"The general consensus of opinion is that "If Celgar won't deny dumping, then it must be guilty." To cope with this thinking is beyond us.

"I regret that this matter had to be placed before you so bluntly, but it was not done without exhausting every method within our power to change the opinion of the public."

Both Celgar and the Village of Kinnaird have been sending copies of all their correspondence on this matter to R. Bowering, division of public health Unit; A. F. Paget, Comptroller of water rights; E. M. McGauley, village solicitor; H. W. Herridge, MP; and Donlad L. Brothers, Rossland-Trail MLA.

Welcome Change of Heart

It's a pity more Canadians cannot hear the message of Bruce Hutchison, editor of the Victoria Times.

A proud Canadian, Mr. Hutchison has not let pride blind him to the facts of life. When he recently visited Japan, Germany and Great Britain he left those countries for Canada with "a great feeling of humility." That humility sprang from the realization that Canada had wasted so many years in obvious mismanagement of affairs federal, provincial and domestic, while other countries were forging their future with energy and sacrifice.

If Mr. Hutchison's message had a central theme it was that Canadians must, at last, realize that the world does not owe them a living; that because they are Canadians does not automatically mean world traders seek the path to their door.

He saw a ray of hope for the future for he felt that the nation is at last awakening to the tough, hard, competitive world around it. We hope his optimism is not unfounded.

Mr. Hutchison travels widely, speaks with many people and has a depth of perception infrequently found. His opinion that the change of heart and mind is stirring among Canadians must therefore be accepted in good faith for he is not a man to mistake visions for reality.

We confess that we are not as sure as he that such a change is taking place. Looking at Canada from the Okanagan we still see, across this nation, selfish, grasping men from all walks of life who think first of themselves and only remotely of their neighbors and their nation. We see politicians more interested in their own image and gain than in the people they are supposed to guide; union men who demand unreasonable benefits while knowing full well their demands can bring chaos or ruin; individuals who place petty gain above principles.

Our knowledge is gained from newspaper reports from across the country, but Mr. Hutchison, a newspaperman for many years, tells us what we already know: that the true story lies behind the headlines.

He says if we wandered across the country as he does, we would see heartening awakening of conscience. We believe him for several reasons. One, because we want to believe a change of heart and mind has to come and two, because we know a change of heart and mind has to come if this nation is to grow to the full stature of nationhood.

Interpreting the News

By ALAN HARVEY

The visit of President Bourguiba to Paris adds to the optimism about a possible settlement of the Algerian war.

All shades of opinion see the meeting between the Tunisian president and General de Gaulle as a further step toward a peaceful solution of a war that seems gradually to be burning itself out.

The next step, after the talks between Bourguiba and de Gaulle, will probably be public negotiations between France and the rebel leaders. There is a general belief that informal contacts have already taken place.

Die-hard adherents of continued warfare are still in evidence. Plastic bombs are being hurled in Paris and Algiers, causing a few casualties, and some extreme right-wing groups appear to be going underground in Algeria, committed to continued resistance to peace moves.

But the number of dissidents appears to be dwindling. There is a sense of confidence in Paris that conditions are more favorable for peace talks now than they have ever been.

It is a moment of triumph for Bourguiba, the animated, clever and likeable man who is the most pro-Western of all Arab leaders. A few years ago he was in a French prison. Now he has a rising reputation as the leader of a country that exerts a diplomatic influence out of all proportion to its 4,000,000 population.

Educated in Paris, married to a Frenchwoman, sympathetic to French culture, Bourguiba is ideally placed to mediate between France and the Arab world from which he springs.

Bourguiba is thought to be an ardent admirer of de Gaulle. The French president, in fact, is probably his ideal of a world statesman. It will be surprising if the two men do not see eye to eye on the next move.

A possible development, observers feel, is an announcement shortly of the release of Ahmed Ben Bella, a prominent rebel leader who has been held in custody on the Isle of Aix, near La Rochelle, since 1956.

His liberation would show that France genuinely seeks conciliation.

End of Long Battle?

The long United States fight to keep Red China out of the United Nations may be defeated by the facts of life on disarmament.

U.S. leaders are leaning to the idea of inviting Red China to the disarmament conference table and, in the view of some UN diplomats, this would be the first step towards seating the Peking regime in the UN.

State Secretary Dean Rusk of the U.S. made it formal Monday when he said his disarmament experts are studying when and how the country of 650,000,000 might be brought into disarmament talks.

Many UN diplomats have long held that attempts to reach disarmament agreement are futile without Red China in view of its growing industrial might and potential for nuclear weapons.

While conceding that actual disarmament negotiations are held outside the UN, they maintain that principles must be laid down by the world body and the exclusion of Peking is thus unrealistic.

Some sources predict Peking would in any case demand UN membership as the price of negotiations. This is a prediction that causes the faces of U.S. leaders to harden with forbidding resolution. Peking was an aggressor against the UN itself in Korea and has repeatedly threatened to take Formosa by force.

The U.S. — backed by Britain, France and Canada — managed to block discussion of the "Chinese question" in the UN Oct. 8 for the 10th year, but by the smallest margin so far.

It was freely predicted that Red China's admittance was only a matter of time and since then there have been indications of pressure on Washington.

Some U.S. spokesmen reacted with such vigor that they threatened their country would leave the UN if Red China were admitted, but Chester Bowles, the new U.S. undersecretary of state, has rejected this.

It's possible that all this will be discussed in President Kennedy's forthcoming separate talks with Prime Ministers Macmillan of Britain and Diefenbaker of Canada.

Revere the Rod

Eton boys must differ sharply from any variety of schoolboy found in Canada.

The English are sticklers for tradition, and like father, like son. But what Canadian parent or teacher could expect a boy to revere tradition so much that he will risk a blistered backside for it?

Yet the Eton boys cheered almost unanimously when the Etonian grandson of Prime Minister Macmillan addressed them in favor of continuing the 500-year tradition whereby senior boys are entitled to cane juniors across the seat of their pants. In contrast, they heard in polite silence a young Etonian who denounced the practice as "a feudal anachronism."

Obviously the "permissive" theories of child psychology—which spare the rod to allow a child's personality full bloom—have made no dent in the classrooms or on the playing fields of Eton.

Opinion in The Establishment still seems rather in line with the outlook expressed in 1775 by Dr. Johnson: "There is now less flogging in our great schools than formerly — but then, less is learned there; so what the boys gain at one end, they lose at the other."

A viewpoint encrusted in tradition, but apparently endorsed by young Etonians.—Toronto Star.

See Who Salutes

For a moment we thought the millennium had almost arrived. Members of the advertising profession at a Philadelphia convention, according to the New York Times, heard a magazine publisher call for the addition of a "staff philosopher" to advertising agencies. The publisher was worried that too many decisions were being based on statistics digested and analyzed by machines and that advertising was shirking personal responsibility. The philosopher was to make meaningful all the diverse influences on the consumers' decisions.

Then the publisher added that "the whole marriage relationship, the matters of conscience and integrity and morals . . . the question of religion and education of children . . . the ideological struggle with Russia—these are all decision-making phases of our lives that are at least as important as our purchase of food products or drugs or cosmetics, or even automobiles and liquor and cigarettes."

And the millennium resumed its customary distance.

Unexpected Witness Gets a Hearing

In a democracy each voice counts, says the national newsletter of the National Committee for the Control of Radiation Hazards. The letter suggests that one person can —

Gather neighbors for a discussion on nuclear weapons;

Become informed about radiation hazards;

Get churches, clubs, and other organizations to discuss such matters;

Confront the church minister with the moral issues involved in the production of nuclear weapons;

Enlist the interest of relatives and friends;

Write letters to the Prime Minister and the local MP;

Try and get the neighbors to do the same.

Certainly anybody whose conscience is troubled by any trend in today's pattern of living should be prepared to take some such action in the matter. Too many retrograde steps in the social pattern have been allowed to win acceptance through the apathy of those who should proclaim the Christian point of view. Don't leave this to the clergyman. After all, "the world" (in the New Testament sense) regards the clergyman as a spoil-sport anyway, and so disregards him. But if the next-door neighbor—with no apparent axe to grind — begins developing a social consciousness, "the world" may be impressed. But — a word of warning — don't spoil your opportunity for Christian witness by making yourself a bore!—Canadian Churchman (Anglican monthly).

Britain Seems Ready to End Euratom Trade Split

By DAVE OANCIA
Canadian Press Staff Writer

LONDON (CP) — Britain apparently is ready to give the six - nation European Common Market the same preferential trading arrangements as it gives Commonwealth countries in a bid to end Europe's trade split.

This was the interpretation here of a speech in Paris by Edward Heath, lord privy seal and the country's untitled minister of European affairs.

Heath told a meeting Monday of the seven-nation council of the Western European Union that the British government is prepared to make a "fundamental change of principle" to obtain admission to the Common Market formed by France, Germany, Italy and the Benelux countries.

This is viewed as an offer to reorganize her whole system of Commonwealth preferences in exchange for associate membership in the economic community.

OFFERS CONCESSIONS

Heath offered two major concessions:

1. Britain is prepared to open her Commonwealth markets to direct European competition as part of an over-all agreement with the six.

2. She will accept a common or uniform tariff with the six for all raw materials or manufactured goods coming from countries outside the Commonwealth or from Britain's partners in the seven-nation European Free Trade Area.

Heath, however, stressed that Britain could only consider the move if the six could meet her Commonwealth and agricultural difficulties.

He also said that, as part of an over - all settlement, the United Kingdom could see no obstacles that would prevent discussions between the six and Commonwealth countries about possible reductions in tariff preferences which she enjoyed in the family of nations.

British newspapers generally welcomed the speech and said the Heath proposals are a major British concession.

The Daily Mail described them as a "promising step forward."

"The general idea has been developed since the Commonwealth economic consultative committee met last September," it adds. "Commonwealth governments have been kept fully informed of the moves."

The Financial Times says the British line appears to be to leave open the question of whether Britain joins the Common Market while awaiting continental reactions to the Heath plan.

The paper's Paris correspondent says that in connection with the Commonwealth, Britain seems ready to abandon preference in one direction and not the other.

"Thus Commonwealth countries would be free to import French cars with the same tariff as British, but Britain would not direct her common tariff against imports from the Commonwealth," he says.

"It is thus Britain, rather than the Commonwealth, which is offering to sacrifice the advantage." Mr. Heath said he had every hope that this arrangement would be welcome to the Commonwealth although further discussion would be necessary."

CCFer Makes Scathing Attack on CNR President

By DAVE McINTOSH
Canadian Press Staff Writer

OTTAWA (CP)—CNR President Donald Gordon "has got to go," says the CCF's Douglas Fisher.

The MP for Port Arthur, in one of the most scathing attacks on a public servant ever heard in the Commons, said Monday night Mr. Gordon "has about reached the end of the road as president of Canadian National Railways."

"He has had his decade in charge of CNR and it seems to me that all he has come up with every year is a bigger and bigger spending program and in most cases a bigger and bigger deficit."

Morale among railway employees was "shot." There appeared to be no hope for efficiency or a balanced budget in the CNR as long as Mr. Gordon was president.

Some Progressive Conservatives applauded Mr. Fisher.

Terry Nugent (PC — Edmonton Strathcona) tried to steer Mr. Fisher away from the subject but Ernest Broome (PC—Vancouver South) urged him to go on "as long as he wants."

PENSION REVIEW SOUGHT

Mr. Fisher was speaking on a government motion, still not approved, to establish the Commons railways committee which would also review pension rights of CNR employees, including those who have retired.

Lionel Chevrier (L—Montreal Laurier) put in an amendment to extend this review to all railway employees in Canada.

He maintained, and Mr. Fisher supported him, that Prime Minister Diefenbaker had given such a pledge during debate last December on the legislation which averted, until May 16 at least, a national rail strike.

Deputy Speaker Jacques Flynn ruled Mr. Chevrier's amendment out of order. His ruling was upheld by a vote of 90 to 24 on Mr. Chevrier's appeal.

STILL STUMPED

Earlier, the Commons tackled for a fifth time a government resolution calling for definition of the term "goods of a class or kind made in Canada" as applied to the customs tariff. Again, no progress was made.

Goods of a class or kind made in Canada carry a much higher rate of duty, when imported, than goods of a class or kind not made in Canada.

CCF Leader Argue described the proposed change in the customs law as a payoff to "certain financial interests."

Mr. Diefenbaker said Canada has asked the United Nations to make an immediate investigation into recent Congo incidents involving 10 Canadian servicemen.

Today, the Commons is scheduled to debate ratification of Canadian membership in the Organization for Economic Co-operation and Development. This should throw open the doors to a far-ranging debate on trade policy.

Kasavubu's Gov't Joins Other Forces To Make United Front

By PETER GROSE

LEOPOLDVILLE (AP)—President Joseph Kasavubu's government today joined with two other anti - Communist Congo forces for a united front in fighting the leftist pro - Lumumba troops now advancing toward the capital.

An agreement signed in Elisabethville, capital of the secessionist province of Katanga, provides badly needed aid for Kasavubu's disorganized forces.

It was signed by Premier Joseph Ileo, who represented Kasavubu's Leopoldville government; Albert Kalonji, leader of the mining state of South Kasai, and Katanga President Moise Tshombe.

Under terms of the pact they will pool their troops to combat the "communist dictatorial regime" of Antoine Gizenga in Stanleyville. Permanent contacts for both military and political co-operation are to be set up.

KASAVUBU GAINS

Ksavubu has most to gain from the agreement. Tshombe's 3,000 well-paid troops are The Congo's best trained and supplied and are led by Belgian officers who can co-ordinate strategy. Kalonji has about 1,000 soldiers and an undetermined number of Baluba tribesmen.

The Leopoldville government's 7,300 men are scattered and disorganized. Kasavubu called for general mobilization Monday in an attempt to beef his forces.

Gizenga's troops, numbering between 3,000 and 7,000 are spread out in the sections of The Congo—more than one-third of the country—his regime controls.

Tshombe also has reinforced his military posture by calling off his agreement with the United Nations to suspend military action and resuming, as he put it, Katanga's "freedom of action."

A UN spokesman in Elisabethville said today the decision to renew Katanga troop movements might lead to open civil war.

TROOPS NEAR CAPITAL

Kasavubu acted as advance units from Stanleyville came within 300 miles of Leopoldville.

As the president called for a general mobilization, G. Mennen Williams, U.S. assistant secretary of state for African affairs, arrived "to find out what is going on." Under criticism by whites elsewhere for his earlier statements supporting African nationalism, Williams was not talking here.

Soldiers in Leopoldville, believed angered because the United Nations has done nothing to stop the rebel march, went on a rampage Sunday night and early Monday, raping a UN woman employee and manhandling UN troops and personnel.

UN headquarters said the woman was dragged from a cr and raped by Congolese soldiers while her eskort, an unarmed Sudanese officer of the UN command, was forced to look on at gunpoint. The woman's identity and nationality were withheld.

CANADIANS HIT

Canadian UN personnel were involved in two incidents. Monday four Canadian soldiers were hit with rifle butts after the jeep and small truck in which they were riding was halted by about 13 Congolese soldiers. They were forced to run a mile on a gravel road near the Binza Congolese army camp ouoside Leopoldville in their bare feet. All suffered cuts and bruises. Their money and their weapons were taken.

The Canadians were Lieut. Patrick Douglas Furlott, of Ottawa, whose family lives in St. Catharines, Ont.; Capt. William Michal Kedziora, a Montrealer whose last posting was Camp Gagetown, N.B.; Signm. Jean Joseph Dufour of St. Jean-Eudes, Que., and L. Cpl. Joseph Alexander Joly of St. Charles de Mandeville, Que.

A UN spokesman sent a stiff protest to Kasavubu warning that future attacks would be resisted with force. UN troops, armed with sub-machine-guns, were loaded into trucks and driven through the capital in a show of force.

Kasavubu replied with his own threat. He went on the radio Monday and told his commanders "to open fire if necessary against anyone who opposes the mission to which he is assigned." Reports from the Leopoldville army camp said artillery was being readied for action.

The United Nations says it cannot intervene against the Lumumbist advance because it has been accomplished without fighting.

The New York Herald Tribune, in a dispatch from Washington, says the Stanleyville regime has put outnumbered Ethiopian UN troops in the Lumumbist capital in a state of "semi-siege" and now can assure Soviet planes a friendly reception at the airport.

Red China To Get Extra Wheat From Canada, Aussies

HONG KONG (AP) — Communist China is negotiating with Canada and Australia for additional shipments of wheat to supplement the massive grain lift that started flowing across the Pacific last month.

The Chinese have requested no publicity and no details are available on the quantities involved in current negotiations or the progress of negotiations. But Australians at least apparently are close to concluding a second major deal with Peking.

C. J. Perrett, general manager of the Australian Wheat Board, conducting negotiations with Chinese Communist agents here, said today he is going to Peking, probably before the end of the week.

Informed sources said only technical problems remain to be worked out.

Red China paid nearly $200,000,000 to buy and ship 2,300,000 tons of Canadian and Australian grain last month.

A series of natural calamities and, according to Western experts, bureaucratic bungling and popular unrest have led to widespread food shortages on the China mainland.

Informed sources said the first deliveries of Australian wheat reached Shanghai and north China ports earlier this month. But, as one Western observer said, even 2,000,000 tons of grain is "a drop in the bucket" if it is meant to feed China's 650,000,000 people.

Australia is believed to have another 2,000,000 tons available for sale.

The negotiators apparently have been dickering over the price. The terms are hard cash.

Canadian representatives here also are negotiating with the Chinese.

RARE STAMP SOLD

NEW YORK (AP) — The world's rarest air mail stamp—the black Honduras—was auctioned Monday for $24,500,a record price for an air mail. It is a Honduran 10-centavo stamp printed in 1925 and overprinted with "Aero Correo 25" to convert it from airmail service.

One-Woman Delegation Lauds Trading Stamps

OTTAWA (CP)—A one-woman delegation in favor of trading stamps Monday told Labor Minister Starr that 95 per cent of a $10,000,000 annual spending budget goes to Canadian manufacturers.

Mrs. Mary Sim of Toronto, executive seiretary of the Canadian Association of Stamp Companies, said only a few of the items offered in exchange for the stamps were not manufactured in Canada.

She said 300 Canadian firms supply the stamp market and benefit from its existence.

Mrs. Sim also argued that firms that did not offer the stamps countered the competition by lowering their prices and thereby forced the stamp-giving stores to match the lower prices.

Bethel Symbols, Council Motto Provide Motif For Spring Tea

A stunning motif in purple and white woven around the motto of the Job's Supreme Council, "First the Cross and Then the Crown" combined with symbols signifying Bethel No. 10 Job's Daughters in decor at the Bethel's annual spring tea held in the Silver Room of the Hume Hotel last weekend.

Centering the ecru lace covered serving table, a huge sparkl*ing purple candle embedded in* purple tulle was surrounded by banked lily of the valley and arrangements of white baby chrysanthemums and purple iris. At the four corners were white doves, significant of the Bethel's symbol, the Dove of Peace.

The centrepiece was flanked by purple tapers in white candle holders in shape of cornucopia, another symbol.

Individual tea tables featured *other symbols a purple felt tri*angle, on which were arranged a gold cross and a golden crown with a single stalk of lily of the valley as a sceptre.

Honored Queen Sandra Ryalls and Mrs. W. B. Christie, Bethel guardian, received the tea guests.

Pouring during the afternoon were Mrs. M. B. Ryalls, Mrs. J. S. Livingstone, Mrs. D. H. Johnston, Mrs. D. N. Jamieson, Mrs. A. W. Betton and Mrs. Roy McKenzie.

Serving table conveners were Misses Andrea Manson, Nandine Hendrickson, Shirley Bird and Nancy Ferguson. Refreshments were in charge of Mrs. Earl Shannon.

Convener of the apron table was Miss Joy Livingstone, assisted by Misses Pam Ross, Carol Betton and Marilyn Jacobson. Bake table convener was Mrs. F. J. Bird assisted by Misses Shannon Norris, Donna Drew, Sharon Harshaw and Brenda Palmer. The main contest was in charge of Miss Vcki Sparkes and Miss Dana Dsney and the cake contest was n charge of Miss Cheryl Smith and Miss Cheryl Sommerville. Author Finds Inspiration For 14 Books at Dishpan

By Elizabeth Motherwell
Canadian Press Staff Writer

OTTAWA (CP) — Dismayed by diapers and dishes, housewife Mary Lee Axelson beat domestic blues by writing books.

The inspirations were born over a dishpan in her home at Markham, near Toronto. Helped by her three young sons as critics, and her husband as agent, she has published 14 children's books.

Printed in five languages, they have a circulation of more than 100,000 in Canada alone. Two are recommended reading in Quebec schools.

Mrs. Axelson, who visited Ottawa recently with her husband, says housewives need interests that divorce their minds from housework or babies for a few hours a day.

"I was bogged down by diapers," remarked the petite 35-year-old mother who wrote her first book in 1952 while two of her sons were still on formula feedings.

In the midst of a diaper crisis she announced to her husband Eric that a woman can do anything a man can do — except move a piano.

"Go ahead and try," was the challenge from the Swedish-born editor of Canadian Marine and Shipping News.

He advised his wife to take up writing on a familiar subject.

"He told me I had a captive audience with children, so we started there. He was as surprised as I was with the results.

"Now he plays the game of money with the publisher, and I sit back waiting for the cheques."

Mrs. Axelson didn't cast aside domestic duty for a literary fling.

Eric is equally proud of his pretty wife's ability as house painter, tailor, cook and organizer. Money from her writings goes into home improvements.

The stories for books "come when I'm hanging over the dishpan," Mrs. Axelson says. The stories, mostly about animals, are based on fact. The research required is fitted around domestic chores.

Her children made the difference between success and failure in child - appeal for her first book, Chubby Beaver's Secret Door.

The author intended to explain adoptions, there being several in her neighborhood, by introducing an orphan beaver into a beaver family circle.

KIDS WERE UNHAPPY

"When are the real parents coming to get the beaver?" was a wail from her small - fry critics after a premiere bedtime reading. Tears were dried only when parents were hastily resurrected.

"Children have such literal minds; they didn't like the idea of adoption at all," says Mrs. Axelson who considers this episode her most helpful lesson in writing for Children.

The literal approach applies in acceptance of an author-mother by her sons, now aged 8 and 10.

"At first they thought I printed the books. It was a big disappointment to learn that I didn't."

Floyd Baillargeon, a Toronto commercial artist, did the illustrations for the first book and cartoonist Ben Wilson of Toronto did the art work for the second, Sentry Skunk Foils the Hunters.

A woman of broad interests, Mrs. Axelson took a flyer at public office in 1959 and missed becoming a school trustee for Markham Township by two votes.

*Behind her multiple accom*plishments is a simple philosophy: "I want to feel I have done the most with the time I have here to live."

The Toronto - born author is the only writer in an artistic family. Her mother is a pianist. Her sister, the former Dianne Forhan, now Mrs. Malcolm Black, was with Sadler's Wells Ballet, now the Royal Ballet, from 1947 to 1954 and now is choreographer with the Stratford Shakespearean Festival.

One letter simply stands for another. In this sample A is used for the three L's, X for the two O's, etc. Single letters, apostrophies, the length and formation of the words are all hints. Each day the code letters are different.

Dedicated Teachers Called Menace

WINNIPEG (CP) — "Dedicated" teachers are a menace to education, says a University of Manitoba professor.

Prof. Keith Wilson made the remark during a panel discussion at a teachers' convention here.

He said the so-called dedicated teachers are usually women who lack outside interests.

"Men are seldom dedicated teachers. They are either too sensible or too lazy."

Dedicated teachers were fired by a crusading zeal and lacked a sense of humor. They were convinced that everything they do is important.

"They are a menace to our attaining a true professional status."

School Inspector J. K. MacKay countered with the argument that a teacher who lacks dedication is a greater menace. They regarded teaching as "just a job."

"They are frequently late for class, are unavailable to parents and pupils before and after school hours. They are critical of new methods and ideas and come to class inadequately prepared."

Mr. MacKay said public criticism of teachers is increasing because of the "thoughtless, selfish actions of such teachers" who are often cited as being typical of the profession.

Queen Reviews Gurkha Vets

KATMANDU, Nepal (Reuters) — The Queen reviewed 200 veterans of the Gurkha regiments, the fierce Nepalese hillmen who form some of the elite units of the British army.

The Queen and Prince Philip inspected the old soldiers after flying to Pokhra, the orange-growing valley which is the centre of the Gurkha areas of this Himalayan kingdom.

The Gurkhas, all wearing medals and some on crutches, trekked to Pokhra from nearby hill villages to greet the Queen when she flew in from Meghauli scene of a royal tiger hunt Monday.

The prince was still nursing an infected finger that prevented him from shooting Monday. The finger still is in a splint but a royal household spokesman said the infection was clearing up.

AIM NOT TOO GOOD

Meanwhile, Foreign Secretary *Lord Home, who missed a ti*gress with four shots in the hunt, confessed today:

"I couldn't have hit it in a hundred years.

Boswell Notes

BOSWELL — The Memorial Hall Committee really "went ti town" Friday evening when they entertained a large crowd to steak supper, a smoker and dance. The Boswell irchestra supplied music, led by Mrs. Frank Cummings and assisted by Bill Thimpson, H⅝ Bell and Tony Kunst, who carried on, until early morning.

William Henry Harrison, at 68 the oldest president of the U.S. ever invested, was also the first to die in office.

Italians Fall 9-2 In Smokie Onslaught

CORTINA, Italy (CP) — Trail Smoke Eaters, Canada's entry in the world hockey championships starting Thursday, trounced the Italian hockey team 9-2 Tuesday night.

About 6000 fans watched the game at this Alpine resort in northern Italy. Scuffling between the Canadians and Italians broke out three times during the game but officials intervened each time before any blows were struck.

The Smokies went ahead 3-1 in the first period, gave up a goal to the Italians in the second period, but scored six unanswered goals in the final session.

The exhibition game was Trail's last before the opening of the championships in Switzerland.

Smoke Eaters finished their 18-game exhibition schedule with a record of 15 victories, two losses and one tie. The Canadians scored a total of 104 goals, while 47 goals were scored against them.

Their losses came at the hands of the Swedish national team and a Russian team. The 4-0 loss to Sweden was the only shutout game of the exhibition series.

In Moscow, the Canadians won one game and tied another, besides their 3-2 defeat.

Tuesday's victory was the 10th straight for Trail.

Jackie McLeod, Mike Legace and Ad Tambellini all scored twice for the Canadians, who were penalized eight times in the game — which appeared rough from the European viewpoint. The Italians did not draw a single penalty.

Other Trail scorers were Walt Peacosh, Norm Lenardon and Hugh McIntyre.

Volleyball Workshop On Tonight

A volleyball workshop is planned tonight at the Civic Centre.

The evening will get underway with two films on volleyball fundamentals. Following that will be demonstrations of play and refereeing.

The workshop is open to anyone interested.

30-Foot Telegram Sent to Smokies

TRAIL (CP)—A 30-foot telegram of good wishes was sent to Trail Smoke Eaters hockey club Tuesday night, signed by 500 hometown fans. The telegram wished the club success in the coming world hockey championships in Switzerland, and assured the players of the support of fans back home.

The telegram is expected to arrive at the Royal Hotel in Lausanne at about the same time as the Canadian representatives arrive from Cortina, Italy.

Warrior Protest May Alter Playoff Picture

The Western International Hockey League playoff picture today depends on a protest lodged by Rossland Warriors Monday.

Rossland is protesting its 7-4 two-game, total-point loss to East Kootenay Rams over the weekend in Cranbrook. Sore point of their protest was the appearance of Vernon Canadians goaltender Hal Gordon in Rams' nets in place of Jim Anderson.

Anderson was hurt in practice and British Columbia Amateur Hockey Association gave Rams permission to use Gordon during the series.

A decision on the protest is expected today.

If the protest is tossed out the WIHL final between the Nelson Maple Leafs and East Kootenay would begin Saturday and Sunday in Cranbrook.

Third and fourth games would be played here the following weekend and a fifth game, if necessary, here Monday, March 13.

Leafs are disappointed over the playoff arrangement, stating they believed they should have had the first game in Civic Centre.

In this belief there had been talk of pressing for the opening game tonight, but nothing came of the talk.

It was also believed a Leaf player meeting was to be held following Monday night's practice but no meeting was held.

Stasiuk Bangs In Two For Wings' 3-1 Win

DETROIT (AP) — Vic Stasiuk scored twice before the game was nine minutes old Tuesday night and Howie Glover added a third-period clincher to give Detroit Red Wings a 3-1 victory over Chicago Black Hawks in a National Hockey League contest before 10,002 persons.

Despite three earlier power-play chances it was touch and go for Detroit until Glover put in his 19th goal of the season at 17:07 with Chicago two men short.

Ken Wharram scored Chicago's only goal on a second-period power play.

Stasiuk knocked in Alex Delvecchio's pass from the corner for his first goal at 1:51 and then batted in Warren Godfrey's long shot at 8:07 for his second and 12th of the season.

Referee Frank Udvari called 18 penalties with Chicago's Reg Fleming picking up 22 minutes on a minor, two majors and a misconduct. He got the two majors for high sticking and fighting with Leo Labine in the second period. The misconduct is automatic for getting two majors on the same play.

Trail-Rossland Captures Series Opener

NEW WESTMINSTER — The Trail-Rossland team captured the first game of a best-of-three final series 5-3 against New Westminster in B.C. junior hockey competition here Tuesday night.

The Kootenay team notched four goals in the first period off the sticks of Holm, who counted two, Mondin and Legare. They were scoreless in the second but Legare picked up another marker in the third.

New Westminster marksmen were Mottrom with two in the second stanza, and Wilson with one in the third.

the GREATEST! (by Walter Johns)

Babe Didrikson Zaharias . . . the best

STORIES of the athletic prowess of Mildred (Babe) Didrikson Zaharias are legion but one fact stood out—she was the GREATEST of all women athletes and, believe it or not, may have been among the GREATEST athletes (men or women) of all time.

They tell the story about the time she walked on an athletic field and picked up a javelin. She asked a coach what it was. He told her and explained how it was thrown.

Babe poised, made a throw and heaved it way out there. When the amazed coach measured the distance he found that this Texas girl had thrown it farther than the existing world record!

Babe Didrikson could do everything well—run, throw, jump, bowl, play billiards, shoot a rifle and ride a horse.

Born at Port Arthur, Tex., June 26, 1914, she became a schoolgirl sensation in Texas as a runner, swimmer, baseball and basketball player.

They say she entered 634 amateur contests and won 632, one of her defeats coming in the 1932 Olympics where she first gained her national fame.

In the 1932 Games she won the 80-meter hurdle event and the javelin and broke the world's record for high-jumping only to be disqualified in the high jump by the judges for using what they termed the "Texas roll." The Babe had to be content with second prize.

* * *

WHILE SHE was a champion in all these fields, her greatest triumphs were yet to come.

She had played a little golf but in 1935 she decided to take up that game in earnest.

A great natural ability and a desire to be a champion in that, too, put her over.

She became the GREATEST of our women golfers, winning every major women's championship including the U.S. Open three times, national amateur, the world championship event four times and the British amateur.

She turned golf pro in 1947 and continued to star until 1953 when she was stricken by cancer. She recovered and made a comeback, winning the U.S. Women's Open in 1954.

On the golf course Babe was the most colorful performer in the game. She played well, but had a good time doing it. Her antics and quips kept audiences in stitches everywhere she went.

Babe, who was married to the rassler, George Zaharias, suffered a relapse in 1955. She died in Galveston, Tex., September 27, 1956.

Rod and Gun Club Elects Ralph Northrup President

Ralph H. Northrup of Nelson Tuesday night was elected president of the Nelson Rod and Gun Club for the 1961 term of office at the annual meeting attended by 50 members.

Mr. Northrup succeeds G. M. (Mel) Davies.

The new executive includes John Farkas, vice-president. Nello Stedile was re-elected to the secretary-treasurer's office.

Directors for the 1961 term include the following: George W. Clerihew, Percy H. Dutton, Robert J. Cox, Philip Prysiazniuk, Jack W. Kelly, Andrew Speirs, George J. Turner, Adam J. Doyle and W. E. Smith.

Members were told the junior firearms program, under the chairmanship of Melvin I. Buerge will commence Monday. A total of 75 students have enrolled in the Rod and Gun Club's firearms safety class.

A. C. Morton, reporting on the recent Federation of Rod and Gun Clubs meeting, said "in one respect the junior firearms program last year was a pitiful flop."

"The Nelson and Kokanee clubs gave examinations to 81 students. This was 23 per cent of the provincial total," Mr. Morton said.

"Many clubs of over 1000 members did not graduate one youngster," Mr. Morton said.

"If we save one life our efforts are worth it," he said.

Mr. Morton said it was distressing that centres of dense population could organize bowling activities for youngsters but could not do something about a firearms safety program. He said his personal feeling was that "we have more chance of being shot at than they have" because more hunters were coming to the Kootenay from the densely populated areas.

"It's something to think about," he said.

PRAISES SCHOOLS

Mr. Morton paid tribute to the schools of this district in assisting with the registration of students for the program. He commended Charles Estlin, of the Fish and Game Department, saying: "Not many clubs have a fellow like Inspector Estlin to push the program.

"Unless the clubs are going to work to get the youngsters scheduled and at it between their Christmas and Easter examinations it will be impossible to do it," Mr. Morton said.

Mr. Estlin brought some information to the meeting.

NRA PROGRAMS

"Much has been done during recent years to promote firearms safety education. Since 1950 the National Rifle Association of America has prepared and published the Uniform Hunter Casualty Report showing the causes of hunting accidents with firearms as reported by 36 states and two Canadian provinces.

"Based on these findings the NRA Hunter Safety Course was instituted in the U.S. It now is recognized and promoted in 28 states.

"In 11 states, hunters under a certain age are required by law to take and pass this course or a similar course in safe gun handling, before being eligible to obtain their first hunting licence.

"Courses are conducted by at least 30,000 NRA-certified hunter safety instructors in the U.S. now on a voluntary basis, and members of fish and game departments," it was reported.

The membership heard the federation of clubs is requesting a portion of each licence fee to establish a general fund.

"We feel that 16,000 active Rod and Gun Club members should not be working to finance 150,000 licence holders," Mr. Morton said.

The federation also proposes to ask members to increase the assessment from 25 cents to 50 cents for each member.

Mr. Morton said he opposed this resolution on the basis that the "interior clubs have projects which are taking up all the reserves."

He said the resolution would come before the convention at Penticton in May. "I feel if the assessment is increased we will lose a lot of affiliated clubs and those smaller clubs just getting started," Mr. Morton said.

Members were notified of the Trail Rod and Gun Club's annual banquet Saturday. Presentation of the West Kootenay Big Game Trophy competition prizes will take place.

Two films were shown, "Above the Timberline," and "World in the Marsh."

Geoffrion Boosts Scoring Lead

MONTREAL (CP) — Bernie Geoffrion, scoring steadily, widened his lead in the National Hockey League scoring race to seven points last week by scoring two goals and two assists.

Geoffrion, with 40 goals and 42 assists, is beginning to look like a good bet to win his second NHL scoring title. His closest rivals are Frank Mahovlich of Toronto Maple Leafs and Jean Beliveau, Geoffrion's line-mate with Montreal Canadiens.

Beliveau also scored two goals and two assists last week to move up into a tie with Mahovlich, held to two assists.

Mahovlich has 45 goals and 30 assists while Beliveau has 28 goals and 47 assists.

Montreal winger Dickie Moore, who broke a bone in his foot Feb. 18 and is expected to be out for two more weeks, remained in fourth place with 69 points—35 goals and 34 assists.

Johnny Bower of Toronto and Glenn Hall of Chicago were neck and neck in the race for the Vezina Trophy, awarded to the goalie who plays the most games for the team that allows the lowest number of goals.

Each club has been scored against 157 times, but at week's end Toronto had played one more game than Chicago, giving Bower the edge.

European Teams Learning To Play Rough as Smokies

GENEVA (AP) — Canada's hockey stars, accustomed to tough and rough play back home, will find European teams ready to mix it up in the world championships March 2-12, says United States coach John (Connie) Pleban.

Trail Smoke Eaters, Canada's representatives, have already come under criticism—particularly in Sweden—for their rough play during an exhibition tour of Europe and Russia.

From what Pleban says, more arguments and fist fights seem likely to break out in the championships at Geneva and Lausanne, Switzerland.

"The Europeans now are much readier to go in for body contact then they were when I was last over here in 1952," said Pleban, 46, of Duluth, Minn.

right in the game when it comes to bodily contact. The trouble between the Canadians and Sweden was unfortunate. But I don't think it's a discredit to the Canadians. It could happen in any match. Anybody could get injured."

Three Swedish hockey players were injured in games against the Smoke Eaters.

HAPPY IF FIFTH

Pleban believes the world title will go to either Russia or Canada. "If we finish fifth I'll be quite satisfied, he said with an inexperienced and youthful squad."

The 20 teams entered for the championship have been divided into three pools. Only the eight teams in the top pool will be bidding for the crown.

Those eight are Russia, Canada, Czechoslovakia, Sweden, and the U.S.—"the big five"—plus Finland and the winners of the west Germany - Switzerland and East Germany - Norway matches.

Most experts claim the final issue will rest between Russia and Canada. And if that's the case it will mean a great finish. Those two teams play in the final match March 12.

West Germany and Switzerland will meet in their qualification match Wednesday and East Germany and Norway will clash Thursday.

Ivan "The Terrible" May Spell Trouble for Smokies

By JACK SULLIVAN
Canadian Press Staff Writer

Ivan Tregubov is back in the good graces of Soviet sports officials and goalkeeper Nikolai Puchkov couldn't hold his job. This intelligence could mean only one thing — trouble for Canada in the world amateur hockey championship.

Ivan, who has been playing the game for 15 of his 30 years, is back on defence with his old sidekick, Nikolai (Solly) Sologubov. The combination was broken up last year when Ivan didn't show at the Winter Olympics in California.

"He broke his leg," a Soviet hockey official told inquiring sports writers. But word soon filtered out that this solid-checking member of the Soviet army had broken training rules by hitting the grape a little too hard.

The absence of Puchkov isn't a good omen for Trail Smoke Eaters, or for any team in the round - robin tournament opening in Switzerland Thursday. He's a better - than - average netminder and his successor, either Viktor Konovalnko or Vladimir Chinov, must be another Johnny Bower or Glenn Hall.

EIGHT NEWCOMERS

Makeup of the team, issued by the Russian Embassy in Ottawa, shows a bunch of familiar faces. Included is defenceman Genrikh Sidorenkov, the only member of the 1954 team that won the title with an easy 7-2 decision over Toronto East York at Stockholm.

Eight players are making their debut in international competition, but holdovers well-known to Canadian teams besides Tregubov, Solly and Sidorenkov, are Russia's first line of Alexander Almetov, Konstantin Loktev and Veniamin Alexandrov.

This unit has been playing together for five years and always has been troublesome to Canadian teams, both on exhibition tours of Canada and in world and Olympic competition.

Insertion of 37 - year - old Solly is a bit of a surprise. Last year, when Russia finished third behind the United States and Canada in the Olympics, Solly was awarded a trophy as the outstanding defenceman in the tournament.

Solly really didn't deserve it. Canadian sports writers went wild over him in the 1956 Olympics in Italy when Russia shut out Kitchener - Waterloo Dutchmen 2-0, but by 1960 Russia's honored master of sport had slowed up considerably.

SOLLY STAYED BACK

One of the best two-way defencemen Canadians had seen in a long time, Solly didn't have the legs to steam up and down the ice. He stayed mainly behind his own blueline and expertly steered puck - carriers into the corners.

He's such an engaging, carefree individual that officials of the International Ice Hockey Federation felt they should do something to mark his exit after a 20 - year hockey career. Solly was supposed to retire after the Olympics, but here he is back again for another crack at the Canadians.

Jack Roxburgh of Simcoe, Ont., president of the Canadian Amateur Hockey Association who has been with the Smoke Eaters on their pre - tournament swing in Europe, says the Smokies will have a rough time with the Russians.

Trail played three games in the Soviet Union and won one, lost one and tied one. The rubber match is scheduled for Geneva March 12, closing date of the world tournament.

Four Vernon Players Make All-Star Team

KELOWNA (CP)—Vernon Canadians, winners of first place in the Okanagan Senior Hockey League, have captured four berths on the 1960-61 all-star team.

League president Bob Gilhooly said Monday the selections were made by the three league coaches.

Veteran Hal Gordon of Vernon Canadians, who won goaltending honors in the league, takes goal position.

Stalwarts Johnny Harms and Ron Morgan are on defence, while Merv Bidoski, in 17th place in the scoring race, was named to left wing. The three are from Vernon Canadians.

The two other positions went to Kamloops players; centreman Fred Gaber, league scoring champion, and right-wing Rex Turple, a newcomer to the league who earned a second place finish in the scoring race.

Combines playing-coach Jim Middleton, at present sidelined with a fractured jaw, was named coach.

The Kelowna - Penticton Combines made an almost clean sweep of the second all-star team.

Combine players selected include Jim Middleton and Reo Touzin on defence; Brian Roche, right wing, and Mike Durban and Walt Peacosh tied for left wing. Newcomer John Panagrot won the goaltending nod, while Vernon's playing coach, Odie Lowe, took the centre slot, and also tied with Kamloops Chiefs' Willie Schmidt for the coaching spot.

Saskatchewan Leads; B.C. Rink in Tie for Second

By ARCH MacKENZIE

OTTAWA (CP) — Saskatchewan staved off a spirited bid from winless Nova Scotia Tuesday to forge into undisputed possession of first place after four rounds of the Canadian women's curling championships.

British Columbia was knocked into a tie for second with Alberta by losing its first game to that club and Ontario fell off the pace with a pair of losses that left it ranked with Manitoba, Prince Edward Island and New Brunswick.

Quebec won its first to join Newfoundland near the bottom of the standing.

Joyce McKee's Saskatoon rink started play Tuesday in a three-way tie with Mrs. Emily Wooley's Toronto entry and Mrs. Margaret Fuller of Nanaimo, B.C. The cool little prairie miss bombed Mrs. Woolley 10-4 first, drawing a distinct advantage on heavy ice that clipped the wings of her older opponents. The big round was a five-ender on the third end when Mrs. Woolley's attempted takeout was wide.

But Miss McKee was in trouble against the Lunenberg rink led by Mrs. Mona Rhodenizer who gamely attempted to match the takeout style of their younger opponents and excelled at draw shots.

Today the fifth and sixth rounds will be started at 12:30 p.m. and 8 p.m.

In the fifth draw, Saskatchewan puts its unbeaten record against New Brunswick and Alberta plays P.E.I. B.C. meets Nova Scotia, Quebec plays Manitoba and Newfoundland plays Ontario.

This first national women's bonspiel is expected to name a winner after the ninth round Thursday night.

Well, Well . . .

LONDON (Reuters) — Soviet Premier Khrushchev's son - in-law, Alexei Adjubei, was told Monday night that his own comments on a British radio discussion had been jammed by Russia.

British Labor MP Christopher Mayhew pointed this out to Adjubei during a television discussion on Russian censorship.

Adjubei commented that there are certain things which the West allows which Russia does not think are good for the Russian people.

However, Adjubei, editor of the Moscow newspaper Izvestia, made no specific reference to the jamming of his comments on a radio panel show with a fellow Russian and two British panelists.

Earlier Adjubei spoke at a press conference after conclusion of a week-long meeting on peaceful coexistence between East and West of British and Soviet politicians and newspaper sored by the Great Britain-U.S.S.R. Association.

The ticker tape, at worst, fell 18 minutes behind transactions, its worst lag since Feb. 29, 1956.

The Associated Press average and Standard and Poor's 500-stock index pushed ahead to new highs from Monday's all-time peaks.

Volume swelled to 5,830,000 shares from Monday's 5,470,000 and was the largest since Sept. 26, 1955 when 7,720,000 shares changed hands in the first market session after former president Eisenhower's heart attack.

Brighter prospects for an upturn in steel production continued to boom steel shares and feed optimism in Wall Street.

The 1,304 issues traded made Tuesday's the broadest market in history, topping the previous record of 1,303 Jan. 31.

The AP 60-stock average rose .40 to a new high of 238.90.

Studebaker - Packard was the most active stock, up ⅞ at 8¼ on 169,300 shares. Second was Brunswick, up 1½ at 62 on 124,700 shares.

U.S. Steel rose 2⅛, Republic Steel 2¾, and Jones and Laughlin 1½.

Airlines and aircraft - missiles were among the losers. United Air Lines fell 1¾, Eastern Air Lines 1, and Douglas Aircraft 1.

Among Canadian stocks on the New York exchange, Distillers Seagrams rose ½ and McIntyre Porcupine ⅜ while Aluminium Ltd., Canadian Pacific, Hudson Bay Mining, International Nickel and Walker Gooderham lost ⅛.

American Stock Exchange prices were irregularly lower on the greatest volume in 14 months. Turnover was 2,580,000 shares.

Moore Corporation had the best paper gain ahead one point at 53. Molson's A led beverages with a 1¼ point gain at 27¾.

Odds . . . and Ends

. . . by M. D. B.

We get a great deal of overseas advertising here at the News — pamphlets showing enticing pictures of faraway places, luxury liners, quaint old world scenes and pictures of gondolas in Venice — pictures to make the blood race a little faster and the feet a little itchier. It is all tourism advertising trying to convince us that we should see Paris and die or see someplace else and live — you know the sort of stuff.

In among the welter of 'come hithers' was a story about the fish market in Hamburg. Now don't wrinkle your nose, for it sounded like a wonderful place to visit. It has been held for over 200 years, every Sunday morning at six. It is a regular folk festival.

There are sellers of everything imaginable. A lion's voice praises smoked eels, while another sing-song describes a novel household gadget. On push cars there are clothing, books, live poultry, rabbits and objets d'art. The crowd mills around, looking for bargains. An old man buys a potted plant for his balcony flower boxes, and a newsboy, who has saved his pennies, finds the pet dog he has been wanting. This fantastic market attracts, not only the early risers, but the night owls who have not reached their beds.

There are slightly dishevelled wedding parties in tails and dinner jackets and party gowns rubbing shoulders with stevedores and dockworkers on their way to their morning shift. Soon dance music strikes up in the nearby small picturesque pubs. But over it all comes the call of the fishwives praising their wonderful living ells. That was the only thing I didn't like about the whole business was the eels, but then there is always some fly in the ointment.

By the way, Odds and Ends had its fifth birthday on the 28th of February — five years I have been chattering at you, and you not seeming to mind! I do hope I'll be able to continue to find something of interest to go with your morning coffee so the next five years will be no worse than the last, and thanks for listening.

Sincerely,

M.D.B.

Eisenhower Denies Mundt Remark

WASHINGTON (AP) — Senator Karl E. Mundt (Rep. S.D.) said Wednesday he was giving only his own impressions when he said former president Eisenhower was critical of President Kennedy's administration.

Mundt's report that Eisenhower felt Kennedy was veering too far to the left was firmly disavowed by Eisenhower from his Palm Springs, Calif., vacation spot Sunday.

Congolese Leaders to Fight Reds

ELISABETHVILLE (AP) — The three major Congolese leaders outside the control of the Stanleyville Lumumbist government today signed a military agreement to pool their troops to combat the "Communist dictatorial regime" in The Congo.

The agreement unites — militarily at least—President Moise Tshombe's secessionist Katanga government and the central government of President Joseph Kasavubu with Albert Kalonji's mining state of South Kasai.

Newspaper men watched the signing of the agreement at Tshombe's residence by Kalonji, Tshombe and Premier Joseph Ileo of the Leopoldville government.

The agreement called for the establishment of permanent contacts for political and military co-operation and said the military authorities of Ktanga, South Kasai and Leopoldville will set up an organization to realize these objectives.

Congo Gov't Signs Pact With Katanga

By PETER GROSE

LEOPOLDVILLE (AP)—The central Congo government Tuesday signed a military pact with independent Katanga forces and the Kasai mining state for a united front against the pro-Lumumba rebels. But a Lumumbist threat to this capital seemed to be evaporating.

As the pact was signed in Katanga, President Moise Tshombe's capital of Elisabethville, the UN reported that Lumumbist troops had pulled out of the Kasai provincial capital of Luluabourg while their spearhead at the frontier of Leopoldville province had vanished.

The pact among the three frequently feuding regimes could lead to a political federation capable of challenging the Communist-backed regime of Antoine Gizenga, the dead Patrice Lumumba's political heir, in Stanleyville.

SOUGHT TSHOMBE'S AID

Premier Joseph Ileo, sent by President Joseph Kasavubu to Elisabethville to seek Tshombe's help, signed for the Leopoldville government. President Albert Kalonji signed for his independent mining state of South Kasai province. Tshombe signed for Katanga.

One clause of the agreement said the signatories "are determined to solve their problems themselves and will not accept any outside intervention."

Meanwhile, Kasavubu had a half hour's private talk with G. Mennen Williams, touring U.S. assistant secretary of state, for African affairs.

Williams assured Kasavubu of President Kennedy's continued support for the Leopoldville government against the Stanleyville Lumumbists. Kasavubu was said to have asserted his will to co-operate with the United Nations if it consults with and works with The Congo central government.

CAPITAL TENSE

Tension in Leopoldville continued high following the outbreak of violence and rape by Congolese soldiers Sunday night against UN personnel.

Lt.-Gen. Sean McKeown, Irish commander of the UN troops, conferred with Col. Kiembe, Congolese army chief of staff, and was reported to have received some assurance the Congolese command would try to restrain further outbreaks.

The UN said Gizenga's troops who reached Luluabourg, originally estimated at 350, now were reported to be about 150. Apparently disgruntled, the troops pulled out north, leaving their commander in the lurch. He took asylum at UN headquarters.

The spearhead that had advanced from Luluabourg and was reported Monday to have crossed into Leopoldville province also seemed to have vanished.

To Release Troops in Rhodesia

SALISBURY (Reuters) — Reserve army troops called up in the racially - tense Rhodesian Federation will be released from duty from Wednesday, the defence ministry announced.

A ban on police leave imposed in Southern Rhodesia last week also was lifted.

Some 5,000 reservists were called up earlier this month. Monday, federation Premier Sir Roy Welensky announced several reserve battalions would be called out for training next month.

The release of the troops was ordered as reports from Lusaka, capital of Northern Rhodesia where open revolt was threatened last week, indicated the situation was less tense.

Welensky Monday accused Britain of offering a "half-baked" plan for a new Northern Rhodesian constitution to appease Negro nationalists.

Bonn To Pay More to NATO, U.S. Pays Less

PARIS (Reuters)—West Germany will pay a larger share of NATO infrastructure costs—military installations, communications and supplies — while the United States will pay less, sources close to the Atlantic Alliance said today.

Under an agreement reached among the 15 NATO allies, it was understood that the U.S. percentage share of these costs would be reduced to 31 from about 36 while the West German contribution — the next largest—would be raised to 20 per cent from 13 per cent.

Britain will pay 10.6 per cent, an increase of about 1½ per cent, according to these sources, while the Turkish and Greek contributions will be reduced.

The complex problem of resharing infrastructure costs and the possibility of West Germany paying more to ease the American burden, was raised during the NATO ministerial meeting here last December.

Since then, the sources said, talks have continued on "a basis of co-operation and goodwill," leading to recent agreement on solving the problems.

REJECT TV PLAN

KARLSRUHE, Germany (AP) Chancellor Adenauer suffered a major domestic defeat today when his action to set up a federally-controlled second TV network was judged unconstitutional. The ruling by the constitutional court resulted from a suit filed five months ago by four Socialist-dominated West German state governments. The much publicized new network was to be financed largely through commercials.

Transatlantic Cars Cut Into Canada Market

OTTAWA (CP) — Imports of British and European cars continued last year to carve out a larger share of the Canadian automobile market, winning 28 per cent of new-car sales. In 1959 they had 26.8 per cent of the market.

A report by the bureau of statistics showed total new car sales hit a record 448,120 in 1960, up 5.4 per cent from 425,038 in 1959.

Sales of transatlantic imports rose 10.3 per cent to 125,900 from 114,118, while sales of new North American cars gained 3.6 per cent to 322,220 from 310,820.

Sales of all commercial vehicles declined 2.9 per cent in 1960 to 75,368 from 77,588 the previous year. Sales of imported trucks shared in the decline, falling to 7,065 from 8,222.

Freedman Calls For Tolerance

MONTREAL (CP)—Dr. Justice Samuel Freedman, chancellor of the University of Manitoba, Monday night called for the formation of a truly tolerant Canada.

Mr. Freedman, a justice of the Manitoba Court of Appeals, nade his remarks at the annual fellowship meeting of Roman Catholics, Protestants and Jews of the Temple Emanuel Brotherhood.

Mr. Freedman warned against accepting an abstract concept of democracy without putting it into effect in private conduct.

"It is easy to grant toleration to those who agree with us," he said. "It is not so easy to grant it to dissenters.

"The test of a nation's democracy is the extent to which it accepts the dissenters within its own borders and those outside.

"There is slowly growing in Canada a spirit and independence recognized as a compound of all factors, ethnic and social, that have gone into the making of the country."

He said Canadians would achieve tolerance and independence by being loyal to their ethnic backgrounds and seeing the values in other traditions.

Mr. Freedman was awarded the brotherhood citation of merit for his "efforts on behalf of the Hebrew University of Jerusalem and his life as a Canadian and a Jew."

Brewing Industry Seeks Lower Taxes

MONTREAL (CP)—J. A. Desrochers, president of Dow Brewery Ltd., said today the brewing industry needs lower taxes if it is to maintain the price of beer at reasonable levels.

He told the annual meeting of shareholders that consumer spending was reduced in 1960 because of the recession and company earnings were lower than in 1959.
