Jet Crash Survivor in Hospital; Grosse's Body Not Yet Recovered

Wind, Cloud Prevent Helicopter From Landing Near Victim's Body

PENTICTON (CP)—Capt. Donald Adcock of Kent, Wash., who survived a United States National Air Guard jet plane crash in interior British Columbia, was described as in satisfactory condition in hospital here Friday night.

He was taken to hospital after being plucked from snow-covered bushland by an RCAF helicopter.

High winds, low cloud and approaching darkness made it impossible for the helicopter to pick up the body of the second man who was aboard the F-89 Scorpion which apparently exploded at 35,000 feet and then crashed Thursday night.

The helicopter will pick up the body of Lieut. Larry Grosse, 25, of Spokane, radar observer on the aircraft, this morning, weather permitting.

Flight Surgeon Dudley Scott of the U.S. Air Force said here he suspected that Capt. Adcock suffered fractures. He would make no further comment.

The two men were on a routine night training flight from the Geiger air force base at Spokane when their craft went down on Thursday night.

A second F-89 that had been on the same flight reported on its return to base that it had lost control with the plane after seeing an explosion in mid-air.

An RCAF Albatross* search plane went into the area Thursday night and early Friday picked up a signal from a battery - operated radio apparently carried by the survivor for emergency use.

Two Hearst Newspapers On Way Out

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Two of Los Angeles' four metropolitan daily newspapers, The Morning Examiner and The Evening Mirror, announced Friday they are ceasing publication.

The 13-year-old Mirror, youngest of the major newspapers in the U.S., published its last edition Friday afternoon.

The 58-year-old-Examiner, formerly the headquarters paper of the late published William Randolph Hearst, will publish its last edition on Sunday.

The surviving papers are The Morning Times and The Evening Herald-Express.

Boy's Leg Amputated

VANCOUVER (CP) — The left leg of 11-year-old shotgun victim Paul St. Pierre Jr., was amputated in an operation, but hospital officials say his overall condition is showing steady improvement.

The boy is now in fair condition in Vancouver General Hospital suffering from wounds incurred when his 20-gauge shotgun accidentaly discharged into the left side of his groin while he was hunting at Harrison Lake.

His condition had previously been listed as poor .

Slide Blocks Hart Highway

PRINCE GEORGE (CP) — Traffic on the Hart Highway was halted 12 hours overnight by a huge snowslide at the north end of Pine Pass, 148 miles north of here.

Mild temperatures sent the snow plunging across the highway to a length of 100 feet and from 15 to 30 feet deep. Highways department equipment had the slide partially cleared Friday to permit regulated movement of light traffic. But officials said the highway would not be completely cleared until Saturday.

It was the first major snowslide in the pass this winter.

Judge Sings Serenade

DETROIT (CP) — Lois Sloan was given an unexpected serenade after circuit judge James Montante granted her a divorce from her husband.

Judge Montante interrupted Mrs. Sloan's testimony to ask how old she was.

"I'm 59 today," she replied.

"I sure would like to sing 'Happy Birthday' to you," said the judge, "but court is in session and it wouldn't be proper."

But after granting the divorce decree, Judge Montante declared a recess and surprised court officials and spectators by singing "Happy Birthday" to Mrs. Sloan.

Freighter's Fate To Be Decided

VICTORIA (CP) — Decision on whether to have the badly damaged hull of the 18-year-old Greek freighter Glafkos repaired will be made within two or three days, a spokesman for the ship's owners said Friday.

"It doesn't look very promising," said Peter Kostas, representative of the owners of the 10,000-ton Glafkos. The repair bill might total $250,000.

The Glafkos sustained an 80-foot tear on the port side when she slammed into a rock at the entrance to Barkley Sound, 100 miles north of here on the west coast of Vancouver Island.

She was pulled off and towed here Friday by two Island Tug and Barge Ltd. towboats in a rescue operation regarded as one of the most difficult in the firm's long salvage history.

Mr. Kostas, who flew here from New York, said an accurate estimate of the damage would be arrived at only after complete survey. but it would be more than $200,000 and "most likely over $250,000."

If it is decided that the ship is not worth the cost of repairs she will be offered for sale as scrap. Vessels of similar size and vintage have been bought in the United States for $100,000 to $135,000.

Destroyers Leave Victoria on Training Cruise

VICTORIA (CP) — A group of damp and dispirited spectators peered through a curtain of rain here Friday to watch three navy destroyers sail for faraway places.

HMC Ships Assiniboine, Margaret and Ottawa slipped lines on a training cruise which will last until April 19, taking them into the Indian Ocean where they will exercise with units of other Commonwealth fleets.

Senior officer for the cruise is Capt. Victor Browne, commander of the 2nd Canadian Escort Squadron and commanding officer of the Assiniboine.

Among the ports at which they will be calling are Pearl Harbor, Hawaii; Yokusuka, Japan; Subic Bay, Philippines; Langkawi, Malayan Islands; Port Swettenham, Malaya; and Bangkok, Siam.

DOLLAR LOWER

NEW YORK (CP) — Canadian dollar 1-64 lower at 95 47-64 in terms of U.S. funds. Pound sterling 3-32 lower at $2.80 63-64.

Ontario Looks Into Meat Inspection

TORONTO (CP) — The Ontario government moved Friday to make sure tainted or diseased meat will not in the future be sold for human consumption in the province.

Health Minister Matthew Dymond called recent reported sales of meat from animals that drowned or died of disease "a dreadful thing" and promised he would bring the matter up at a cabinet meeting next week.

At the same time meat inspection showed signs of mushrooming into an issue in five crucial byelections being held in the province Jan. 18.

Donald MacDonald, New Democratic Party provincial leader, said failure to enforce the Dead Animals Disposal Act "comes very close to being criminal."

His charge and complaints by Toronto city council members came in the wake of charges laid by the RCMP against 14 men in connection with the sale of meat from diseased, dead or crippled animals.

The RCMP estimated that up to 200,000 pounds of such meat had been sold in the province in each month since their investigation began last August.

The RCMP roundup of suspects began with 12 arrests in Southern Ontario and the Ottawa area Thursday and grew with two more arrests in the Ottawa area today.

No charges have been laid against packinghouses, retail outlets or other wholesalers because the RCMP says they bought the meat in apparent good faith because it had a seal of approval on it.

B.C. LUMBER SHIPMENTS UP

VANCOUVER (CP) — Lumber shipments from the coastal area of British Columbia increased five per cent to 2,200,000,000 board feet in the 11-month period ended Nov. 30, the B.C. Lumber Manufacturers Association reports.

The increase was largely accounted for by waterborne shipments from B.C. ports which were more than 1,600,000,000 board feet, compared with 1,500,000,000 board feet in the same period of 1960.

Export shipments declined slightly, but this was more than offset by increased domestic demand, particularly on the U.S. Atlantic seaboard. Export shipments at 787,500,000 board feet were down 16,600,000 board feet.

Sniffers May Lead Fish Back to Birthplace

OTTAWA (CP) — Canadian fisheries scientists are beginning to solve one of nature's most intriguing mysteries — how salmon find their way back from the ocean to their fresh water birthplace.

They may smell their way home.

The annual meeting of the Fisheries Research Board of Canada Friday heard a report on experiments which show the salmon has a highly developed sense of smell.

Scientists of the board's Vancouver station have found that young sockeye salmon can detect certain food substances in dilutions as low as one part in 800,000.

They plugged the nasal sacs of captive sockeyes held in tanks and found the fish no longer responded to food. When the plugs were removed the fish found the food easily.

Other experiments carried out by research vessels in the North Pacific ocean, where salmon from North America and Asia intermingle, have shown that foreign bodies carried by the fish varied from area to area of the two continents.

Scientists also found that scales on the Asian fish differed from the North American fish.

Earl of Snowdon Joins Times Staff

LONDON (Reuters) — Princess Margaret's husband, former society photographer Antony Armstrong-Jones, will return to professional photography as a paid artistic adviser to the Canadian-owned London Sunday Times starting Feb. 1, it was announced Friday.

The announcement that the princess' husband — now the Earl of Snowdon — was taking a job with the paper headed by Canadian publisher Roy Thomson, was made by Maj. John Griffin, press secretary at Clarence House, home of Queen Mother Elizabeth.

Griffin said Lord Snowdon had discussed the job with the Sunday Times with Princess Margaret and with Queen Elizabeth before accepting it.

Snowdon will also retain his current post as an unpaid adviser to the council for industrial design.

The editor of the Sunday Times, C. D. Hamilton, described Snowdon's new post as a "real job of work" and termed it "the logical sequel to Lord Snowdon's earlier photographic career."

Hamilton added that Snowdon occasionally would take pictures himself in his new post but is "not going to work on the hot side of newspaper work which might be an embarrassment to him."

Hamilton added: "We shall not be taking advantage in any way of his connection with the Royal Family by way of asking him to take any royal pictures."

His work will consist in briefing reporters and photographers on projects initially associated with a color magazine which the Sunday Times plans to bring out Feb. 4.

Hamilton said: "He will also be available for consultation on the high-class books and quality magazines both existing and projected."

He said Snowden was "uniquely qualified for the job which we offered" and added that, at the time of his engagement to Princess Margaret, Snowden was "one of the outstanding photographers in this country—if not in the world."

ANTIGUA, West Indies (Reuters) — Princess Margaret and her husband, the Earl of Snowdon, arrived here by plane Friday for a vacation in the sun.

They were greeted at the airport by a cheering crowd estimated at 10,000.

They then drove from the airport to Government House where thousands more waited to cheer them.

The couple travelled by BOAC plane from London via Gander, Nfld.

Students to Visit Oakalla

VANCOUVER (CP) — Groups of University of British Columbia students will make regular visits to prisoners at Oakalla Prison Farm during the next few months. Warden Hugh Christie said Friday the program, in which students hold get-togethers with prisoners and take part in prison sports, brightens the lives of the inmates.

HOPES TO PRESERVE CHAPEL

By ALAN HARVEY

LONDON (CP) — A Canadian student's initiative may result in some permanent action to preserve the West Country burial site of John Graves Simcoe, first lieutenant-governor of Upper Canada.

The student, John Colston of McGill University, recently wrote to British newspaper publisher Geoffrey Harmsworth, owner of the chapel where Simcoe is buried, suggesting that a trust found be created to ensure that the chapel is preserved in good condition.

Harmsworth, a nephew of the late newspaper publisher Lord Northcliffe, wrote to Colston saying the trust fund seemed a good idea and proposing a meeting to discuss it. But he said the money for the fund should probably come from Canadian sources.

Harmsworth is out of London for a few days but a spokesman said he may see Colston on return.

The chapel is at Wolford, near Honiton, in Devon.

Indonesia Mobilizing

MAKASSAR (Reuters) — Air space was closed and the general mobilization of men and women was ordered in Eastern Indonesia Friday to prepare for the announced invasion of Netherlands New Guinea, which Indonesia claims as West Irian.

Jakarta radio said Col. Busjiri, East Indonesian commander, ordered the mobilization of all persons between the ages of 16 and 45 in the area.

The air force announced the closure of air space over the eastern part of Indonesia, which faces West New Guinea. A naval spokesman said fleet exercises were under way in East Indonesian waters.

With a reported 250,000 battle-ready troops in this area on the alert for the invasion, President Sukarno inspected paratroops at Parepare, 100 miles north of Makassar.

Sukarno has designated this port in the south Celebes as the main invasion springboard to West New Guinea, 850 miles from here, because of its harbor and airport facilities.

Brig.-Gen. Roelmit Hendraningrat, Indonesian ambassador to Pakistan, flew into Jakarta from Karachi Friday on an urgent summons from Sukarno.

Experts Say Signature Not Dorion's

MONTREAL (CP) —Two Montreal handwriting experts agreed Friday after separate studies that the signature "Noel Dorion" on a letter addressed to the late Wellie Cote in 1958 was not that of State Secretary Noel Dorion.

The experts are Dr. Rosario Fontaine, Quebec provincial medico-legal expert, and Det. - Capt. Armand Morin of Montreal city police identification bureau.

Their reports were released by Jacques Marquis, Quebec city lawyer and Mr. Dorion's political organizer.

The letter to Cote, which Mr. Dorion denied writing or signing, expressed thanks to Cote and members of his staff on the now-disbanded Quebec liquor police for their assistance during the 1958 federal election campaign in Bellechasse, Mr. Dorion's constituency.

Geese Hit Plane

HOUSTON, Tex. (AP) — Three geese slammed through the windshield of a private plane Thursday night. One bird knocked the pilot unconscious but a passenger, Ted Raines, who had never received formal flight training, kept the plane in the air until the pilot revived and helped to land it. The plane, a Cessna 120, clipped a power line but pancaked in a field safely. The pilot, Leonard Bolton, 39, also of Houston, was treated for a cut above the left eye.

Named to Medical Commission

REGINA (CP) — Three physicians, a lawyer, a health region board chairman, a farmer Friday were named to the newly-established Saskatchewan Medical Care Insurance Commission.

Chairman of the commission is Donald D. Tansly, 36, of Regina, who will resign immediately as executive director of the crown-owned Saskatchewan government finance office to take over his new job.

Other members of the commission are Dr. Samuel Wolfe, 35, of Saskatoon, Dr. O. K. Hjertaas, 44, of Prince Albert, Dr. F. B. Roth, 46, of Regina, George J. D. Taylor, 46, of Saskatoon, A. V. Kipling, 55, of Melfort and Stuart Robertson, 60, of Swift Current.

Under terms of the Saskatchewan Medical Care Insurance Act, passed at the special fall session of the legislature, the minister of public health is empowered to appoint a six to eight-member commission to administer the plan.

Council To Decide Eligible Industries

By JOHN E. BIRD

OTTAWA (CP) — A federally-sponsored plan to help encourage an increased level of industrial research in Canada will be announced in the throne speech at the opening of Parliament Jan. 18, it was learned Friday.

Under the plan the government is expected to provide upwards of $1,000,000 in the 1962-63 fiscal year to help private industry pay the cost of basic long-term research, perhaps totalling $10,000,000 over a period of years.

The National Research Council will be charged with the responsibility of selecting industries which will receive assistance. Funds will be made available to NRC through an item in the government's estimates for 1962-63, expected to be tabled in the Commons shortly after Parliament opens.

The assistance program will be tied in with the duties of the newly-appointed NRC industrial advisory committee made up of representatives of top management and government scientists.

This 14- member committee has been appointed to bring about a closer liaison between top management and federal research scientists. It will give scientists an opportunity to discuss policy with management instead of this contact being confined to technical representatives of industry.

The committee will keep NRC informed of problems encountered by industry and generally consider ways of encouraging research by industry.

Under the plan the government envisages an expenditure of some $10,000,000 over a period of years. Details of how aid will be provided to industry will be made public after the official announcement is made in the throne speech.

Green Raps Bennett

VANCOUVER (CP) — External Affairs Minister Green charged Friday Premier Bennett of British Columbia showed a "dictatorial approach" when he said he would meet Federal Finance Minister Fleming in Toronto.

Mr. Green arrived here by air to give several talks. The first is on Monday.

Premier Bennett proposed a meeting with Mr. Fleming on the olumbia River at Toronto Jan. 12. Mr. Fleming has told the premier he cannot make it on that date.

Mr. Green said apparently Mr. Bennett brushed aside a recent letter from Mr. Fleming which set out the federal position on the deadlocked Columbia dispute.

"Then he wired Mr. Fleming and said he would be in Toronto and would meet him for an hour and a half — that's a pretty dictatorial kind of approach."

Commenting in an interview on a charge by Liberal Member of Parliament Paul Martin that Canada's prestige in the world has slumped, Mr. Green said: "He's very anxious to get my job. He's thinking more about an election than Canada's good name. It certainly is not true."

Miners' Bodies Recovered

TIMMINS (CP) — The bodies of two Timmins gold miners were recovered from under tons of wet sand in the Paymaster Consolidated Mines Friday after an all-night search by their fellow workers.

The victims were shift boss John Barkley, 47, and Rondanino Palumbo, 50.

Recovery of their bodies came after a night of frantic digging by fellow workers who held out hope they had survived the sand slide at the 3750-foot level around 5 p.m. Thursday.

The light can be sent through a tube or pipe, and bent around corners by mirrors. It is called a gaseous optical maser.

Odds 3 to 1 That Britain Joins Common Market

By DAVID OANCIA

LONDON (CP)—Betting men at the European Economic Community headquarters in Brussels are giving odds of up to 3 to 1 that Britain will eventually be a full member of the continental group.

To them it's no longer a question of if, but of when.

And a few of the more intrepid British and continental experts have even worked out a timetable.

They say the negotiations between representatives of Britain and the community formed by West Germany, France, Italy, Belgium, The Netherlands and Luxembourg will likely reach a decisive point by Easter.

If satisfactory arrangements are worked out, the way would be cleared for a spring meeting of Commonwealth prime ministers on the Common Market question. Debate and ratification of any ultimate agreement by the British Parliament could occur before the summer recess.

IN BY 1963

By Jan. 1, 1963—or as the more cautious predict, July 1, 1963 — British representatives will sit around the Brussels conference table as full members of a movement that could develop into a United States of Europe.

Their predictions could prove true. The governments of Britain and the six Common Market countries appear to be demonstrating a strong political will to overcome Europe's economic divisions.

"We desire to become full, wholehearted and active members of the European community in the widest sense and to go forward with you in the building of the new Europe," said Edward Heath, chief of Britain's Common Market negotiating team.

The continental countries welcomed the firm British declaration of intent as the "most important single event in the history of the community to date." It was also hailed as a turning point in post-war European politics.

Britain, which for centuries looked less towards Europe than outwards across the sea, had turned her attention to her next-door neighbors.

And in This Corner . . .

VANCOUVER (CP)—King Henry VIII's six wives will be flying into Vancouver first class over the polar route in March, it was announced here Friday.

In color and costume they will be en route for the remodelled and enlarged Royal London Wax Museum in Victoria.

Present plans call for Henry VIII to make a leisurely journey* by government ferry to Vancouver to meet the wives.

OTTAWA (CP)—The public school teacher herding her class through the security-conscious National Art Gallery here used a whistle to control her flock.

The first shrill blast brought more action than she expected.

"All hell broke loose. Guards came running from every direction," said a witness.

A whistle is a signal that a theft is taking place.

BOY SOPRANO, DAVID McELROY TO SING ON CKLN

Nelson's leading boy soprano will present a half-hour radio program over CKLN Sunday afternoon.

A member of the Boys' Studio Choir, David McElroy won the highest mark of all vocal classes in the West Kootenay Music Festival last spring. In June he sang at Queen's Avenue United Church in Vancouver where former Nelsonite Don Brown is choir director. He also sang at the B.C. Music Teachers' convention at Chilliwack.

David, a high school student, is 14 and has won a B.C. Silver Medal for singing. His program will feature both sacred and secular numbers.

EXPERT TUTOR

Joe Louis, former world heavyweight boxing champion, was the backstage tutor for Coley Wallace, starring in the Joe Palooka movie.

Cupid Busier, But Fewer Births, Deaths

There were fewer births and deaths in Nelson in 1961 than in the previous year, but there were more marriages.

Last year saw 384 births in the city as compared to 406 in 1960. There were 108 deaths in the city and 64 in the district in 1961, compared to 121 and 67 the previous year.

A total of 84 marriages were performed, 74 in the city and 10 in the district, which contrasted to 57 and six in 1960.

Contrary to popular opinion, June is not the big month for marriages. July saw the greatest number with 14 performed while June was in a three-way tie for sixth place. In 1960, May was the big month with 15 marriages.

August had the highest birth-rate, 48, all in the city.

The months of March and December recorded the most deaths each with 19. More deaths were recorded in the city in the latter part of the year, due in part to extended city boundaries.

Last month, there were 31 births, 19 deaths and three marriages, compared to 29, 24 and three in December, 1960.

RUBY RING was presented to George A. Mermet, above, Nelson driver for Greyhound Lines of Canada Ltd., recognizing 15 consecutive years of driving without an accident. Superintendent John Learmonth, who made the presentation, said this represented 1,267,000 accident-free miles, the equivalent of 50 safe trips around the world. Mr. Mermet has driven most of his miles between Nelson and Penticton. He has served eight years on the Nelson School Board, five as chairman; and for two years on City Council. He has also served on the Civic Centre and Recreation Commissions.

Freedomites Face Trial on Rape Charge

CRESTON — Two Sons of Freedom Doukhobors were committed to stand trial on a charge of rape while a third was released from the action.

Committed to stand trial at the Spring Assize in Nelson were Joe Chernoff and Fred Hadikin, who live in nearby Wynndel. The young men are originally from Krestova. The third man, Pete Hadikin, was released from the action by Magistrate Harold Langston.

The preliminary hearing concluded Dec. 29 with the two being committed and judgment reserved on Pete Hadikin until Jan. 4. On Jan. 4 Magistrate Langston discharged Hadikin.

The three lived together in a shack where the offence is alleged to have taken place.

The charge involved a 16-year-old Indian girl.

Prosecuting for the crown was Leo Gansner of Nelson while William Kapak was representing Fred Hadikin and Chernoff and Ray McL. Cooper was representing Pete Hadikin.

Kiwanians Go to School

A workshop for new committees marked the start of 1962 activities of the Nelson Kiwanis Club.

Chairman reported back to new president Don L. Appleton after a 30-minute workshop period at the Thursday night meeting at the Hume Hotel. Discussion was designed to familiarize the new chairmen and their committee members with their tasks for the coming year.

Guests were B. D. Balderston of Calgary, a former member who left Nelson three years ago; and John Kristensen, new resident of Nelson.

The club also made plans for its coming installation ceremonies to be attended by new division 6 lieutenant-governor W. T. Waldie of Castlegar.

The installation meeting will also see presentation of long term perfect attendance pins. Presentation of pins to members with perfect attendance of less than 10 years were given to A. W. Gibbon, nine years; Walter Clarkson and W. B. Christie, seven years; J. W. McClelland, six; A. J. Hamson, five; George Paxton and Don L. Appleton, three; E. J. Chambers, two; and M. L. Craig, A. E. Lashmar, David Gill and H. Bobroske, one.

Home Building Soars In East Kootenay Centres

Housing starts in Cranbrook-Kimberley area showed a tremendous increase over 1960 with 74 housing starts as compared to 25 in the previous year, to lead Kootenay home building in 1961.

A levelling off to normal at Castlegar-Kinnaird was noted following a peak year in 1960 when 112 units were built, due to the opening of the Celgar pulp mill. Last year saw 20 units begun, according to Central Mortgage and Housing Corporation figures.

According to figures released by the Trail office, there were 159 units begun throughout the area compared to 174 in 1960.

The distribution of units in '61 is considered average for a normal year. There are two apartment projects reflected in the figures, one 15 unit apartment in the city of Cranbrook and a project of two 10-unit apartments in the city of Trail. The rest of the units are detached houses.

Infanticide Hearing Adjourned

CRANBROOK — The hearing of an infanticide charge against Patricia Ann Olafson has been adjourned until Jan. 19, to permit two technicians from the RCMP laboratory at Regina to testify.

The charge against Mrs. Olafson was reduced to infanticide from capital murder on Thursday. She was charged following discovery of a new-born child's body in the city dump Nov. 25.

Nine witnesses were heard at Friday's hearing. They were two RCMP officers, one psychiatrist, three medical doctors and the three men who found the body wrapped in a sheet and encased in a cardboard box.

Mrs. Olafson is free on $1000 bail.

December Bit Fuel Budget

December was a cold, snowy month as more than two feet of snow fell in just eight days and on two successive days the mercury dropped to a chilly eight degrees.

Total snowfall was 26.4 inches and 1.24 inches of rain in five days added to the month's precipitation.

It was a month of contrasting temperatures as the mercury fell to eight degrees on Dec. 11 and 12 and the high recorded was 42 degrees on the first day of the month.

Average temperature for the month, however, remained cold at 29.68 degrees. To account for the rising fuel bills was the fact that there were 18 days when the thermometer never climbed the frost point of 32 degrees.

Gaglardi Wants Suspended Licence Back

VICTORIA (CP)— Highways Minister Gaglardi wants his suspended driver's licence returned pending the outcome of his appeal against a conviction for careless driving.

"I think it should be returned," he said Thursday. "I just want to be treated the same as everyone else."

But Motor Vehicle Branch officials said Mr. Gaglardi was.

"If he wants the same treatment as everyone else he will get it," said an official "It is not our custom to give licences back."

Mr. Gaglardi said that until he had his licence returned he would be driven around the province by departmental employees.

He surrendered his licence to the Motor Vehicles Branch Thursday on orders of the court.

Postal Revenue Shows Increase

Postage stamp sales showed a slight increase in 1961, due in part to a recent increase in parcel postage rates.

Also showing an increase, according to figures released by the Nelson post office, was revenue from other sources, such as box rentals.

However, total receipts and disbursements in 1961 dropped over $22,000.

Last month there was a slight increase of stamp sales compared to December, 1960. Other revenue showed an increase although total receipts and disbursements fell below that of the previous December.

His licence was also suspended for three months.

Court was told that Salikin was warned by police to make some necessary adjustments to his vehicle but the accused failed to do so. He was warned a second time and when he still failed to make repairs, he was charged.

The prosecutor told the court that Salikin had caused the police a good deal of trouble in failing to comply with police orders.

Salikin was fined $15 and costs or 10 days in lieu of payment for failing to have adequate brakes. He had pleaded not guilty.

On a second charge, to which he also pleaded not guilty, he was fined $15 and costs or 10 days in jail for driving without a muffler on his car.

Today Marks Feast of Epiphany

The Feast of the Epiphany, celebrated, today and commonly named Twelfth Night, commemorates the visit of the Wise Men from the East to pay homage to the infant Jesus.

It is recognized as the close of the Christmas season, though several bodies of the Eastern Orthodox Church still use this day as the celebration of the Birth of Christ.

Very little is actually known about the Wise Men, either as to their exact rank, where they came from or how they happened to get together. Sometimes called "Magi," it was a name given to the priests of the Medes and Persians.

The Feast is first mentioned by Clement of Alexandria in the second century. According to tradition, two other important events in the life of Christ took place on this day; His baptism, and His first miracle at Cana of Galilee.

A number of ceremonies have been held on Epiphany in different parts of the world.

In Orthodox churches, it is the "Blessings of the Waters," in which local divers try to retrieve a crucifix thrown in the water by the bishop.

Spanish children place carrots and hay in their shoes for the Magi's camels to eat as they pass by. In return, the Wise Men leave gifts in their shoes.

In England the reigning monarch visits the Royal Chapel of St. James' and lays the crown upon the altar to pay homage to the King of Kings.

In the United States and Canada, the custom of burning Christmas trees in huge community bonfires is developing. This will take place in Nelson, Jan. 16.

Mayor Sang Honored By City Employees

CRANBROOK — Mayor R. E. Sang was taken completely by surprise when employees of the city of Cranbrook held a gathering at the council chamber of the city hall Wednesday evening and presented him with a plaque. His term expires with oath of office Monday of his successor, George Haddad.

Fifty-three employees signed the card accompanying the metal engraved wooden plaque reading: "Presented to Robert Earl Sang by employees of the citly of Cranbrook in appreciation of the happy relationship enjoyed 1947-1961 inclusive."

A senior employee for many years, fire chief and now city building inspector, James Gordon presented the plaque to the surprised mayor, and as senior office employee Miss Minnie Howard presented flowers to Mrs. Sang, who had been consulted in advance to arrange the presence of Mr. Sang at the gathering.

Graceful acknowledgement of the gesture was made by Mr. Sang, who was obviously moved at the surprise tribute.

Now Time Parties Should Plan

Canada will have a general election in the not too distant future and no doubt the Progressive Conservatives hope to be returned with a majority — not too heavily reduced — and the Liberals will expect to defeat the Conservatives and New Democratic Party to sweep the country. Only time and the election itself can say who is right.

There was a time when, as one of Gilbert and Sullivan's songs said, every child born was either a little Liberal or a Conservative. Each followed faithfully the creed that what was good enough for grandfather was good enough for them and political clubs flourished.

They are not so flourishing today and to a student of sociology nothing is more interesting than the emergence of a new force in politics — the voter without party affiliations.

This is true not only in Canada but in Britain and the United States. In Britain the Labor Party suddenly found it had lost its power in the country through the emergence of a new middle class. In the U.S., it was noted during the last presidential election that there was a heavy swing vote and that the Republican and Democratic governments were much alike; while in Canada the difference between the parties seems apparent only to the politicians. In all three countries, the voters who are not affiliated with any party control the election.

If the New Democratic Party is meant to represent Labor then its formation is fifty years too late. Britain, by its treatment of the Labor Party, has shown that there is no place in national politics for class distinctions. Nor is there really a need for a third party.

This must not be taken to mean that the New Democratic Party should not have been formed. Far from it. It is the right of citizens to form parties and a sign of political virility that they do so.

In the meantime the lesson is clear for all parties. They should start now to strengthen their organizations and make plans for the forthcoming campaigns. They should direct their energies towards those voters who do not belong to parties, for they are the people who decide elections.

Right on Time Again

Almost as certain as death and taxes is the probability that Canadians will be faced with the possibility of a railroad strike each year.

And 1962 had not dawned, but the New Year's message had been received. CPR and CNR engineers are to take a strike vote and spokesmen expect, with every reasonable justification, that the vote will favor a strike when necessary.

The non-operating unions, which finally arrived at a settlement last year when the government threw in a sizable subsidy, are about due to start another round.

A royal commission on the railway situation is still in the process of reporting, having only presented an initial report. Based on previous experience of railway commissions, it is safe to say it is a long way down the track and may not arrive for a long time.

The railway problem is complicated to the point of idiocy. No attempt is being made to relate wages and staffs to economic productivity or costs. Railway management is tied hand and foot in its negotiations by the government will prevent a strike.

The railway unions assuredly have a right to seek pay increases for their members. It doesn't mean they have any right to get them. Their big club is, of course, that a strike on the railroad would hurt a considerable part of the Canadian economy. It would also hurt the railroads a great deal, for there is no doubt business would be lost to other forms of transport which would never come back to the railways.

The business of government subsidies means that the unions need not consider the economic position of the railways, but can assume that money will come from the public treasury. This makes it very tempting for the unions to resist change in outmoded methods of operation and in manpower requirements as long as they can.

For a government to impose compulsory arbitration, which has a good deal to recommend it in terms of preventing strikes which could hurt many Canadians not otherwise involved in the strike, means also that the government would have to assume responsibilities in any settlements which were more costly than the railroads could pay out of their revenues.

Still, going on from year to year as we have been doing in Canada for the past decade at least, is plain foolish. The railroads must be overhauled in terms of manpower, service and duplication. A long-range program should be introduced. Then, if it appears that services are required which are uneconomic but still essential to the development of Canada, government will have to contribute on some realistic, practical basis. On that basis it might be practical to outlaw railway strikes and eliminate a perennial Canadian problem.

This is a lot more difficult than it sounds. But at the moment the railroads in Canada have no destination. Like a toy train at Christmas they are just running in circles. Their only schedule is an annual strike threat — right on time.—Calgary Herald.

Shining Sword

A prominent advertising man — Charles H. Bower, president of Batten, Barton, Durstine and Osborne, Inc. — thinks that as gauged by any sort of world Neilsen Audit this country's diplomatic sales pitch would be a floperoo.

Mr. Bower asks: "Why are we, who are so expert at moving packaged goods, so ineffective at moving men's souls?"

Mr. Bower doesn't let this interesting question just hang there.

The answer, he says, is the government's failure to "grasp the bright sword of our creative skills and wield it against the enemy."

The particular sword he has in mind is the nation's advertising men whom, it turns out, he wants to wrap up into a shiny new government department all their own, then turn them loose on the Russians.

Even if the government does not immediately leap up in response to the Bower proposal, let Mr. Bower not think that either his sincerity or the power of the advertising world goes unrespected.

One wonders, however, how Mr. Khrushchev manages, in Mr. Bower's words, to "cuff about" the United States so handily without a single bona fide advertising man to tell him how it's done.—Baltimore Sun.

Sees Inspiration in Solving SOF Problem

To the Editor:

SIR—Congratulations to Marie Shlakoff for giving your readers the laugh of the year. In answer to her bit of poetry I add my ideas on solving the Sons of Freedom problem:

Here it is in all its glory,
From the heavenly to the gory.
With tales of woe and police raiders too,
It's just a bit too much to chew.

While spouting passages from the Bible,
They're biting back and turning libel.

"Open the gates to the gas chambers wide,
March all the SOF inside."
Now there's inspiration,
It shows education.

(Her poem, like mine, needs some edification)
But whom could we bribe for the importation
Of Eichmann and his form of annihilation?

Interpreting the News

By DAVE McINTOSH
Canadian Press Staff Writer

Canada has refused since November, 1960, to ship any arms to Portugal, a NATO ally.

This continuing ban on arms shipments still sums up better than any verbal explanation the Canadian government's policy toward Portugal.

The policy, adopted because of Portugal's denial of any move toward independence in its West African colony of Angola and the suppression of revolt there, may have been tempered slightly by India's invasion of Goa, another Portuguese colony.

But it won't be tempered to such an extent that Canada will give tacit support to Portugal in the United Nations when the General Assembly resumes Jan. 15 with Angola on its agenda.

OPPOSED PORTUGAL

When the Angolan issue arose at the 1960-61 UN session, Canada stood in opposition to Portugal in favoring some UN investigation of the situation in Angola.

It is not yet clear what form resolutions on Angola will take at the current session. Canada would not be in favor of extreme measures but likely would support resolutions similar to those passed in the previous session.

Canada and Portugal have also been at loggerheads in the NATO council on the issue of colonialism.

Canada, along with some other NATO members, notably Norway, has complained that Portugal by its policy in Angola is making NATO appear in the eyes of Asia and Africa as an alliance of colonial powers bent on maintaining territories for economic exploitation.

SUGGESTED STATEMENT

This country has suggested that a simple NATO statement about eventual independence for colonies would get the alliance off the colonialist hook.

The Canadian mutual aid program for NATO partners in Europe was designed a decade ago to help these allies build up their capacity to resist Communist aggression. The assistance has been given on the understanding that it be used only in defence of the NATO area.

Canada has supplied Portugal with $81,659,000 worth of military equipment. The amount in 1960 was only $896,000 up to November when all shipments ceased. Since then, NATO requests to Canada for military equipment for Portugal have gone unheeded.

Premier Antonio Salazar, dictator of Portugal, threatened Wednesday to pull Portugal out of the UN. The Angolan debate in the UN later this month may give him a push in this direction.

Teen-Ager Held In Murder Said Bright, Normal

LONDON, Ont. (CP)—A Psychiatrist at the Ontario Hospital here said in juvenile court Thursday a 13-year-old boy, charged with murder in the strangulation of a young girl, was normal with no signs of psychosis.

Dr. J. C. Bryce was testifying at the opening day of the trial of the boy, arrested after seven-year-old Sylvia Finks was found dead in the attic of an abandoned store here Nov. 13.

Dr. Bryce said in his opinion the boy was "bright and normal" with more than an average intelligence.

U.S. Coal and Railroads Fighting Side by Side

The future of the U.S. coal industry and railroads, economic Siamese twins in a century of progress and lately in decline, depend importantly on what happens in Washington and other capitals. This aspect of coal's struggle for a comeback is discussed in the following story, the second of two articles.

By ROGER LANE
AP Business News Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — The U.S. coal industry and the country's railroads, handmaidens in a century of progress and relative prosperity, landed in the economic sickbed together.

Now they are trying to climb out together, and one seems unlikely to get really well without the other. Coal movements account for one - fourth of rail freight tonnage, and nearly $1 of every $7 in rail revenue.

On the other hand, coal needs the rails to get to market — and at rates that won't kill its basic price advantage over rival fuels. Three out of every four tons travel by rail.

Both industries feel they need government medicine to get well, and lately have stepped up campaigns for it in Washington.

There are germs of possible dissension between the two in coal's desire for lower freight rates and in the development of techniques to bypass the railroads.

EXPECT DECISION

But both at the moment, particularly as they serve the eastern seaboard, are fighting shoulder to shoulder against further lowering of the bars imports of residual fuel oil. A decision may come in mid-1962.

George H. Love, a joint spokesman as chairman of the National Coal Policy Conference, has labelled residual fuel oil, brought in mostly from Venezuela, as coal's enemy No. 1.

"We figure that the present rate of import residual oil has knocked out about 40,000,000 tons of coal a year in eastern seaboard consumption of coal, mostly by industry," Love said.

"If quotas were taken off, it would mean another 50,000,000 tons."

Residual users, chiefly in New England, scoff at such figures as far too high.

Atomic energy is viewed as a far - off threat perhaps 20 years away barring government intervention in its behalf.

In his role as chairman of Consolidation Coal Company, the industry's top producer, Love is strong on the need for coal to cut transportation costs, half of coal's delivered price in even more unpalatable to railroad men, and his attitude makes them nervous.

SORRY JOB

Some industry analysts believe coal has done a sorry job on market research, especially on promoting up - to - the - minute furnace equipment for small industrial and commercial users of fuel.

Even in the leading coal-mining state of West Virginia, where tens of thousands of jobless miners subsist partly on surplus government food, most of the public school boilers are fuelled by oil or natural gas.

A few years ago when the United Mine Workers Union welfare and retirement fund set out to equip 10 hospitals in West Virginia and Kentucky it was hard put to find satisfactory automatic units and burn the product that supports it.

But remedial steps are being taken. An affiliate of the National Coal Association only this year moved into new laboratory facilities at Monroeville, Pa., outside Pittsburgh.

In a detailed study, Coal Age, a trade magazine, estimated U.S. coal production, now at 400,000,000 tons a year against 1947's peak of 632,000,000, will hit between 625,000,000 and 650,000,000 tons in 1970.

The magazine projected an 80 per cent rise in electric utility and a 50-per-cent rise in general industry consumption. It foresaw a slight decline in exports, and allocated 30,000,000 tons for conversion into gasoline and gas.

Canada To Use U.S. Heavy Water Formula

OTTAWA (CP) — Canadian companies soon will be able to use American techniques to produce heavy water for atomic power plants of the future.

J. L. Gray, president of Atomic Energy of Canada Limited, said in an interview that arrangements now are being made with the United States Atomic Energy Commission for the release to Canadian companies of technical know-how in heavy water production.

Any Canadian companies deciding to produce heavy water will be launching into a venture involving capital expenditures in the multi-million-dollar range and an annual output with a sales value ranging upward from some $10,000,000.

A Canadian heavy water plant would likely be located in an area where large quantities of low-cost steam and electricity are available. An area with a strip-mining coal operation or an easily accessible supply of natural gas would be suitable.

Heavy water now used in Canadian-designed atomic power plants and nuclear research reactors is purchased from the United States at $28 a pound.

Gaitskell Calls on West To Consider East Germany

BERLIN (Reuters) — British Opposition Leader Hugh Gaitskell Friday called on the West to consider token recognition of East Germany in a give-and-take international agreement on Berlin.

Gaitskell said the West should be prepared to consider East German participation in an international control team supervising free travel to the divided city.

"This degree of de facto recognition must be considered," he said.

The West has so far refused to grant any diplomatic recognition to the Communist regime despite heavy pressure from the Soviet Union.

Gaitskell made his proposal in speaking to reporters after a one-hour tour of Communist East Berlin. At the end of the visit he said he found the eastern sector "empty and dreary."

The socialist leader said an international Berlin agreement would not "be worth much" unless it included international supervision of free access to Berlin by road, rail and water.

AGREEMENT POSSIBLE

"It is easily possible to come to an agreement with the Soviet Union on promises and guarantees," he said, but "I would not regard this as worth much for the West if we cannot get international control of access."

On the sensitive subject of air control, Gaitskell said if the hitherto purely East German control of German civilian traffic by road, rail and water was to be internationalized, it might be worth conceding East Germany some sort of participation in technical air control.

But he emphasized that he was not proposing that East Germany participate in any way in checking passengers coming in or going out of Berlin by air.

Gaitskell also suggested that the international control team should supervise the traffic of goods in and out of Berlin, a task at present performed only by the East Germans.

He said Western troops would have to stay in Berlin "because if they were withdrawn there would be the very grave danger of a Communist military coup."

The British leader is here on an official visit to West Berlin as guest of the city government. He crossed into East Berlin at the Friedrichstrasse crossing point in an official car of the British consulate-general.

Italian Trains Collide at 62 Miles Per Hour

TREVIGLIO, Italy (AP)—The Arrow of the Dolomites express crashed at 62 miles an hour early Friday into the rear of a 10-car passenger train that had been flagged to a stop because a dead man was on the tracks.

Three persons aboard the express, crowded with skiers returning to Milan from Cortina d'Ampezzo, were killed. Forty-six were injured, 14 of them critically.

Two trainmen and an Italian passenger on the express were killed.

Police said the express rounded a curve and sped past red signal lanterns that had been put out after the other train was stopped.

The body on the tracks was not immediately identified and the manner of his death was a mystery.

MARKET TRENDS

NEW YORK (AP)—The stock market Friday took its sharpest loss in more than eight months as selling snowballed. Trading was heavy.

The tape fell behind transactions at the close. The Dow Jones industrial average broke below its December closing low of 720.10, falling 7.69 to 714.84.

Early declines expanded into much larger ones when stop-loss orders were touched off, causing automatic "sell at the market" orders to take effect when a number of leading stocks dropped below certain price levels.

An assortment of stocks which have been clobbered recently by long-term profit taking made brisk recoveries.

Losses among other issues, many of them recent big favorites, were severe.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks fell 3.20 to 257.50 for its worst loss since April 24 when it dropped 3.70.

An estimated $4,700,000,000 was clipped from the quoted value of stocks listed on the New York Stock Exchange based on the fall in the AP average.

Among Canadian issues, McIntyre Porcupine advanced ⅛ while Aluminium Ltd. and Distillers Seagrams each lost ⅝. Hudson Bay Mining was down ⅜.

Prices on the America Exchange were generally lower. Molybdenite was up 1-16 while Scurry Rainbow Oil, Sapphire Petroleums, Preston, Canadian Marconi and Brazilian Traction each took losses of ⅛.

TORONTO (CP)—What began as a routine day on the stock market erupted suddenly with speculative action Friday as a little-known mine issue vaulted almost $1 in price.

Tormont mines opened at 38 cents, but shortly before noon it spiralled to $1.30 on rumors of a drill hole find at its property adjacent to Craigmont mines in British Columbia's Merritt area.

The stock settled back to close at 79 cents, up 41, on a turnover of 2,304,224 shares.

The remainder of the market went into a tailspin as steels, which showed strength recently, fell abruptly. Steel Company of Canada tumbled 1¼, Dominion Foundries and Steel one point, and Atlas Steel ¾.

Oils and pipelines were also down. BA Oil lost ½, Imperial ⅝ and Texaco ½, while Interprovincial Pipeline dropped ¼ and Alberta Gas Trunk A ⅝.

Gains were few and far between. Canadian Breweries advanced ⅜, Consumers' Gas ¼ and Price Brothers ¼.

On the exchange index, industrials lost 2.44 at 620.46, base metals .93 at 215.16 and western oils 1.35 at 119.28. Golds gained .13 at 90.85. Closing volume was 5,837,000 shares compared with Thursday's 4,337,000.

In base metals, Falconbridge lost 1¼, Ventures ¼ and International Nickel ⅜. Noranda advanced ⅜.

Western oils were hit by losses to Calgary and Edmonton, Dome and Home B, all off in a ⅝ to ⅛ range.

I am not so enthusiastic about the change to dial phones. I rather like having the operator ask for the number. It makes it seem more human than listening for the dial tone, then dialing and if you are lucky in dialing the proper number hearing the bell ring miles away.

It is going to be hard on the children who want to phone to Grandma, especially if there is a sequence of six numbers. A large number of other persons will find it hard at first.

I was watching one of my small friends phone her husband at the pay phone in the washeteria. She had to stand on top toe to put the coins in. It just shows how tradtions are carried on, for the phone in the early days was placed at the average height for one to speak into the mouthpiece in the wall box. It should be at waist level with the modern phones.

I am highly interested to note that the new city hall—old post office to you, Fred—is to be opened with all due swank and ceremony on Monday next. All members of the Council will wear white ties and tails, the City Band will be in attendance and will play "Hail to the Chief" in honor of his worship the Mayor and the Pipe Band will play "Will Ye No Come Back Again" as a lament for the missing Mrs. Van Maarion. It should really be quite a "do".

The general public is invited to attend—but please note there will be no coffee or donuts. Be sure to wipe your shoes carefully before treading on the new carpet and George, if you have any side remarks about it costing $1000 you had better stay at home. That is entirely out of place at this time.

I think you will all agree that the decorations of Temple of Civic Government are very attractive and particularly three younger member of the staff. If you find me huddled up in a corner with one or all of them you must realize that my deafness makes it desirable that I should be as close to the speaker as possible. I shall probably be recalling the time when their mothers brought them to school, pitying me for the trouble ahead.

Oh, yes—I shall be there. I have not been invited but I shall make use of my press card and sneak in at the back door. After all, we press hounds must get our story.

Young Woman's Death Underscores Tragedy of Many Filmland Children

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—The death this week of Barbara Burns played a tragic note on a recurring Hollywood theme — the plight of stars' children.

Barbara was the daughter of Bob Burns, the bazooka-playing buddy of Bing Crosby on radio and in films. The sage of Van Buren, Ark., died in 1956 when she was 17. Barbara had her first dope arrest when she was 19.

For the next four years, she was in and out of the news with various troubles, largely her addiction to narcotics. She tried for a show business career but never got close. Death came in hospital from an overdose of barbiturates, her third in six months.

Many children of the famous manage to lead normal, useful lives. But others get into serious trouble to make their actions a pattern of behavior. Why? I sought an answer from Dr. Marcel Frym.

GIVES VIEWS

Dr. Frym's credentials are impressive: Member, commission on narcotic addictions; teacher, University of Southern California; staff member, Hacker Clinic. At the clinic he has served as psychotherapist for many film figures and their children.

His anlysis:

"A natural, unavoidable struggle of every adolescent with a father and mother figure is solved in a satisfactory manner in so-called normal, healthy people. If one parent figure is especially outstanding or famous, the child is even more strained because of competition with the parent.

"In the case of the daughter of a famous man, her fight for his love and for position as the preferred child might be intensified."

Dr. Frym pointed out that there can be a discrepancy between the public and private images of noted figures:

"The glamorous figure of a movie star can look quite different at home. Often he can seem very small to his own child.

"Also, movie stars can be busy, self-centred people. The rearing of their children is often turned over to employed personnel. The children are often shunted off to expensive boarding schools, where they may or may not fall under bad influences."

Some children actually admire their famous parents and try to copy them, Dr. Frym explained. This can be a problem if the children also seek careers in show business, as a large percentage of them do.

"They will always have to fight the unfair comparison with their famous parents."

Miner's Wife Backs Husband's Union Work . . .

Planning Impracticable If Husband Union Chief

By IRA DRYSDALE

NEW WATERFORD, N.S. (CP)—Women have not been left entirely out of the struggle to keep coal mining alive in Nova Scotia.

Mrs. Bill Marsh, wife of the union chief of the province's 7,000 coal miners, is proof of this.

In her quiet way the 38-year-old mother of four is a pillar behind the man who has led the miners' fight. And it hasn't always been easy for her.

For Bill might be called underground anytime. Or he might have to take off quickly for talks with government or company officials in Halifax or Ottawa. Mrs. Marsh is left alone a lot.

Interviewed in her rose-colored home within sound of the whistle of New Waterford's three mines, Mrs. Marsh said: "Bill hardly has time for anything now, recreation, home life or hobbies. It's an endless round of meetings. I can never plan anything."

HAD TUBERCULOSIS

Bill, a New Waterford native who began mining after finishing high school, became president of District 26 of the United Mine Workers of America (Ind.) three years ago. Bill is a year older than his wife, the former Helen Sarah Byzenke of Glace Bay, another Cape Breton Island coal town.

Mrs. Marsh, dark-eyed, brunette and quick to smile, doesn't dwell on complaints. She's conditioned to having things tough from time to time.

In 1948 tuberculosis sent her to the sanatorium in Kentville, N.S. That was when their only son, Billy, was six and their oldest daughter Valerie was two.

"Bill had it pretty hard then with the children and all. I was in the sanatorium for 21 months."

The two other Marsh children are Ramona, 7, and Brenda, 10.

CAMPING IN SUMMER

Mr. and Mrs. Marsh do get time to bowl. They won a league championship last year. And in summer the whole family goes camping.

"We do this every vacation. The children get a big kick out of it and I didn't get much chance to camp out when I was little so I like it, too. I like to swim but don't do much of that now since I've had the treatment."

In their tidy home, Mrs. Marsh does all her own work. She admits her husband makes a little more money now than he did as a miner, but adds that because of the demands on him they haven't anything more.

Not that she would want things any other way. She was 18 when they were married and even then Bill was involved in union work.

"He likes to try for better working conditions for the men —that has been his fight—and I'd rather see him do this than anything else."

Cheese 'n Meat Pies Good Television Fare

By MARGARET CARR

Children and TV sets seem to go together. Or so the children think. And especially at dinner time. If you, like many mothers, are fighting a losing battle with the television set, you'll welcome this sound approach to the problem.

Don't fight the TV, co-operate with it by serving dinner on trays in the living-room occasionally. The children will love the idea, and so will you, when you see how clean their plates are.

Of course, with Cheese 'n' Meat Pies as the main dish, they would probably clean the plates off, anyway. Served in individual casserole dishes, these pies boast ground beef, cooked green beans, cream of tomato soup, Cheddar cheese and many other ingredients that make them good to eat.

Because these are really an all-in-one dish, Cheese 'n' Meat Pies means less washing up.

While the pies bubble to a fragrant turn, slice a few carrot stocks, some green pepper slices, a little celery and green onions, or any fresh vegetable you prefer. Add a hard roll to each plate and a generous pat of butter.

At the last minute, fill the glasses with cold milk and whisk the casseroles from the oven to the trays.

CHEESE 'N' MEAT PIES

Pastry to line six individual casseroles (about three inches in diameter)

¼ cup butter
1 medium onion, chopped
½ cup chopped celery
1½ pound ground beef
1 teaspoon salt
⅛ teaspoon pepper
1 teaspoon Worcestershire sauce
⅛ teaspoon chili powder
¼ teaspoon garlic salt
1 can (10-oz.) cream of tomato soup
2 cups cooked cut green beans
1½ cups shredded sharp Cheddar cheese
2 tablespoons grated Parmesan cheese

Line tart pans with pastry and flute the edges. Chill while preparing the filling. Melt butter in skillet. Saute onion and celery until transparent. Add beef and cook until browned. Add seasonings and tomato soup. Blend well. Add green beans and ¾ cup of the Cheddar chese and cook over low heat until cheese is melted. Divide meat mixture into pastry-lined individual casseroles. Top with the grated Parmesan cheese and the remaining ¾ cup of Cheddar cheese. Bake in a 375 deg. F. oven for 20 to 25 minutes or until crust is browned and cheese is melted.

Our Father's Business

"A wise use of the wastebasket," says a distinguished editor, "is the secret of all successful editing." Perhaps only those who have spent years of doing the work of an editor know how true that observation really is.

But a wise use of the wastebasket is the secret not only of successful editing; it is, in a sense, the secret of successful living too.

Too many lives are encumbered with rubbish that should have been discarded and thrown into the wastebasket long ago. Old worries, silly grudges, and smoldering resentments which should have been consigned to oblivion long since, are frequently held on to and nursed along from day to day as though we were afraid of mislaying them.

There is only one place for the petty piques, the festering feuds, and the smouldering grudges of an old year. That place is the wastebasket! We dare not permit the unholy emotions of last year to befoul the air of this fresh new year.

In the Bible we are told: "Lay aside every weight and the sin that doth so easily beset us" Heb. 12:1. We are not to carry our besetting sins — our pet temptations, our pet prejudices, our pet grievances, and our pet worries — from one day unto another, much less one year to another.

Happy indeed is the person who has learned to "lay aside", to "forget" the angry thoughts and base desires which pile up within his heart from day to day and to start each day new.

The Apostle Paul had learned the blessed use of a wastebasket in the nurture of his own spiritual life. "Forgetting those things which are behind . . . I press toward the mark" Phil. 3:13,14.

Let us also forget those things that God would have us forget and press toward those things that He would have us achieve.

E. HANSON.

Goalby Sets Hot Pace In Los Angeles Tourney

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Bob Goalby knocked seven strokes off par Friday for a first round 64 in the $45,000 Los Angeles golf tournament for the second straight year.

The 30-year-old onetime all-round athlete at the University of Illinois toured the Rancho Municipal Golf Club course in 33-31—64, one stroke shy of the tournament and course record.

The score placed him three strokes in front of his nearest competitors in the winter classic—Doug Sanders, Phil Rodgers, Tommy Jacobs and Bob Keller.

Well back at 73 were the two pre-tournament favorites, Gary Player of South Africa and Arnold Palmer.

And even farther back in his first crack at professional tournament play was the newly-turned pro and 1961 national amateur champion, Jack Nicklaus of Columbus, Ohio.

NOT TOO BAD

The 21 - year - old Nicklaus scored 38-36—74 and later said: "I don't think I played too bad. I did play sloppy the first six holes but on the last 12 I hit the ball flush on the nose every time."

Four strokes back of Goalby, who won the $7,500 first prize on this same course last year, were five pros—Lionel Hebert, Fred Hawkins, Bud Holscher, Jack McGowan and Frank Wharton.

Such familiar tournament names as U.S. open champion Gene Littler, Bob Rosburg, Stan Leonard and Julius Boros were included in the 69 bracket.

The National PGA champion, Jerry Barber, took 72 blows to get around the place this sunny afternoon, while the 73 division was crowded with familiar names. Included were Jay Hebert, Mike Souchak, Billy Casper Jr., as well as Player and Palmer. Also with 73 was Dave Ragan, whose 63 won the pro-celebrity honors Thursday.

Art Wall, Jr., still a gallery favorite here, and Tommy Bolt were in the crowded 72's.

Final Day Today For Ski Applications

About 115 registrations for the Nelson Daily News free ski classes have been received, Silver King Ski Club director Helmuth Mayrhofer reported Friday.

A record turnout of 200, 50 more than capacity, is expected to be on the hill Sunday for the initial class. Helmuth said that he expects many last-minute hopefuls to come out Sunday and that the club will attempt to fit all the beginners into classes. The only way to ensure a place in the classes is to send or deliver the application form to the Daily News office today.

Eight qualified instructors have been chosen to tutor the three classes for the first-year skiers to be held each Sunday for five weeks. Class times are 11 a.m., 1 p.m. and 2:30 p.m. Registrants are asked to be at the ski lodge half an hour before the class begins so that they can be divided into their respective groups.

Pelletier Stops 49 in Rough, Tough Play

SAN FRANCISCO (CP)—Los Angeles goaltender Marcel Pelletier made 49 stops Friday night as the Blades and San Francisco Seals played to a 1-1 overtime tie in a Western Hockey League game.

Pelletier kept San Francisco shut out until 9:31 of the third period, making 15 stops in the first, 13 in the second, 12 in the third and nine in the overtime period.

Real Chevrefils scored the only goal for the Blades, third in Southern Division standings, at 8:03 in the first period.

Bob Girard tied it up for the last-place Seals in the third period.

Fists flew faster than pucks in the second period when eight penalties were called, including two majors and a misconduct. Duke Edmundson of the Seals drew a five - minute penalty when he landed a haymaker over the eye of Ralph Keller. Keller was penalized five minutes for returning the blow.

Blade Willie O'Ree drew a misconduct plus two minutes for hooking at 3:54 and was penalized again at 16:42 for slashing. Edmundson was penalized twice more in the same frame for high sticking, and Jim Hay, also of the Seals, drew a slashing penalty.

Three minutes into the overtime, a Los Angeles skater was thrown completely over the boards and Seals' trainer Bill Gray was called on to administer first aid to a spectator.

The attendance at the Cow Palace was 6,327. The two teams meet again here tonight.

EDMONTON (CP) — Edmonton Flyers came up with a tight defensive display and a strong scoring punch to defeat Seattle Totems 6-3 in a Western Hockey League game Friday night before 3,420 fans.

The win broke a two - game home - ice losing streak for Edmonton, leader in the WHL's Northern Division.

Pilla Suffers Gash In Head From Kowalchuk

By DAVE GRANT
Daily News Sports Writer

Nelson Maple Leafs handed Trail Smoke Eaters their second loss of the season in a bloodstained rhubarb Friday night at the Civic Arena, upsetting Trail 6-4.

Leafs' Jim Pilla had to be helped from the ice late in the third period, after Trail's Russ Kowalchuk smashed his stick over Pilla's head. The clubbing resulted in a four-inch gash on Pilla's head which required immediate hospital treatment. Earlier in the game "the Killer" had laid Pilla out on the ice with an elbow and butt end to the jaw.

Kowalchuk's maiming actions came near the 14-minute mark when Pilla stole the puck from Kowalchuk as he crossed the Leaf blue line. Kowalchuk immediately swung his stick and ripped the blade across Pilla's head.

Pilla, blood gushing from the wound, crawled to his feet and began chasing the lance artist, but the officials intervened before the rampaging Pilla could cut open his share.

CLASH EARLIER

Kowalchuk attacked Pilla in the second period when the "Jet" had control of the puck in the Smokies' end of the ice. Kowalchuk laid Pilla out on the ice with a vicious elbow and butt end as he by-passed Pilla. Kowalchuk seemed to start his drive for Pilla from the Nelson end as he drew a bead on the speed artist.

Kowalchuk was handed two five minute majors, one 10-minute misconduct and a game misconduct. It is also likely he will receive a number of game suspensions from the league.

The game was held up several times as the 1100 screaming fans pelted the ice with debris to show their anger towards Kowalchuk's actions. One fan leaped onto the ice and attempted to attack the Smokies as they huddled around the "orange and black" bench.

WAY BLOCKED

The unpopular Kowalchuk was pelted by paraphernalia by Leaf fans as he was escorted to the dressing room by police and Trail players.

At the start of the second period Smokie coach Bobby Kromm was evicted from the press box where he was coaching his team. Kromm, sitting out a five-game suspension, was asked to leave the box by John Law.

Leafs protested to the referees that Kromm was calling to his bench and it is understood that Nelson made a long distance call to WIHL president Ernie Cook in Trail regarding Kromm's actions.

At the start of the third frame, Smokies, possibly thinking they were back in the world championship, protested poor ice conditions and asked that the two clubs switch ends at the 10-minute mark.

LEAFS ROAR BACK

The "green and white" seemed driven to victory after Pilla was injured, roaring back from a one-goal deficit to drive in three quick unanswered goals. Nelson

The third period outburst was a climax to the Leafs' uphill struggle as they held Trail to a 2-2 tie at the end of the first and 3-3 at end of the second.

Nelson tallied the first goal just past the one-minute mark of the first period as Touzin beat Martin on a hard screened slapshot from the point. Nearly seven minutes later Doug Kilburn put Leafs out in front 2-0, deflecting Dave Stewart's shot from the point into the twine.

Smokies, near the halfway mark, cut the lead to one goal when Hockley flipped the puck over the outstretched Gerry Koehle and 10 minutes later they evened the score on a goal by Ferguson.

Hyssop and Trail's Pinoke McIntyre kept the game on par in the second period, both scoring once. Hyssop's shot was partially blocked by Martin but trickled into the net, while McIntyre drilled a shot though a maze of legs.

Cal Hockley put Trail out in front near the halfway mark of the final frame, before Leafs scored the trio of goals for the victory.

LEAFS ANGERED

In the dressing room after the game Leafs showed disgust towards Kowalchuk's actions. "Trail was always criticizing Ted Leboda, but Leboda always dropped his stick when he fought. Kowalchuk is worse than Leboda, Ted never did anything like this," said Shorty Malacko. One Leaf player thought that Pilla "should have had a chance to get even with "the Killer."

Coach Maglio was all praise for his crew. "We went out there to win and every man gave one hundred per cent. Our forechecking was the difference, we never gave Trail a chance to start a drive," said Maglio.

Leafs will have an opportunity to make it two straight over Trail tonight when they travel to the Smelter City to play Bobby Kromm's men.

Lee Hyssop for the second successive time was chosen player of the night award and this week's winner of the McLachlan silver spoon award. Honorable mention went to Reo Touzin and Gerry Koehle.

Trail's Margin Cut In WIHL Statistics

Trail Smoke Eaters' domination in the Western International Hockey League slipped slightly in the past two weeks.

WIHL statistics, released by league secretary Glenn Mason of Trail, show that Smokies still monopolize all departments, although the margin has decreased.

In the scoring parade Trail's Pinoke McIntyre has taken over the lead from teammate Ad Tambellini. McIntyre in the 20 games he has played has an even split of goals and assists with 22 of each.

The "orange and blacks' " domination in the points column dropped from seven of the top ten positions to five. The five outsiders climbing the scoring ladder are Nelson's Howie Hornby (35 points), Rossland's Wiggy Davis (31 points), Ray Demore (26 points) and Jerry Godfrey (24 pionts) and Kimberley's Dick Vincent (25 points).

Tambellini continues to set the goal-scoring pace with 27, while Trail's Harold Jones has the most assists, 24.

Ed Polesel of Trail remained the bad man of the league with 106 minutes in the sin-bin, far ahead of Rossland's Bill Gallamore who has 75 minutes.

In the goaltending department Kimberley's Bob Wardle made the only big advance, dropping his goals against average to six goals per game. Seth Martin of Trail leads with a 3.2 average.

Your Individual Horoscope

By Frances Drake

For Sunday, January 7, 1962

Look in the section in which your birthday comes, and find what your outlook is, according to the stars,

MARCH 21 to APRIL 20 (Aries) — The right start is again the vital factor for your day, week, year. This year will call for consistent right starts, and finishes with as much care. YOU can produce top results.

APRIL 21 to MAY 21 (Taurus) —There were changes and re-doings you did not wish or anticipate, but looking back, were not many of them good, better than they looked Take this vigorous, healthy period in brisk step.

MAY 22 to JUNE 21 (Gemini) — Pare dofn overtiring activity or you will be less capable of your best performance and think ing. Look about for a novel device, adequate deviation — you know what to do with them.

JUNE 22 to JULY 23 (Cancer) — Neatness and accuracy (two of your Sign's winners) stand out now. Don't wander from a well-prescribed course, don't be stubborn either. Saunter a bit for ease, relieving tension.

JULY 24 to AUGUST 23 (Leo) —Your bearing may tend to droop (actually and in feeling), if you don't watch it. This is a day and period for strengthening such matters as form,method, purpose and understanding.

AUGUST 24 to SEPTEMBER 23 (Virgo) —We never appreciate a person or possession until we lose it or alter it to disadvantage. On the double! To protect little or big assets! But shun skepticism and doubt.

SEPTEMBER 24 to OCTOBER 23 (Libra) — Imperturbability can win high laurels. So will forbearance and knowing what is needed where. Your intelligent mind and isposition toward life was destined to succeed: don't flub it!

OCTOBER 24 to NOVEMBER 22 (Scorpio) — Wait before you sepak or act today if you would aviod indiscretion, saying what later you wish you had not. Get YOUR interests off to a good start, be not overcrowded by others'.

NOVEMBER 23 to DECEMBER 21 (Sagittarius) — Remember the true meaning of Sunday. When we render to God his due (never enough for all He has granted us), we gain status, live with ourselves happily. Fine rays.

DECEMBER 22 to JANUARY 20 (Capricorn) — Here is a day for quiet thinking to know better how to approach tomorrow's work, tasks. Constant activity without time out for though never ges afr, nor as ably. Mind diet.

JANUARY 21 to FEBRUARY 19 (Aquarius) — Artists, travelers, homemakers, children's and oldsters' affairs ask teamwork, understanding but can be rewarding. Your especial talents needed strongly now and in future:

FEBRUARY 20 to MARCH 20 (Pisces) — Triumphing over unpleasant incidents or circumstances is second nature to your ability, though you do not always like having to do this. Take heart, begin at church, trust in God.

YOU BORN TODAY have more than a few assets with which to succeed at a chosen field, hobby, pastime, whatever. You particu*larly have dominant spirit,* unswerving confidence in matters at hand, and no fear that what you tackle cannot be completed. This is well, so long as you direct *your energies along worthy, intel*lect-satisfying routes, not placing too much emphasis on money or other material gains. A sturdy worker, and you like people. You may be fortunate at money transactions, but heed wise cautions, don't overspeculate. Can be frugal, but you like good fun and parties. Do details need mending? Should you do a favour NOW and anonymously? Don't expand beyond the reasonable. Birthdate of: Pope Gregory XII, reformer of the calendar; many noted doctors, researchers, investigators, financiers.

For Monday, January 8, 1962

Look in the section in which your birthday comes and find what your outlook is, according to the stars,

MARCH 21 to APRIL 20 (Aries) —Mars points up the possibility of hidden snags. Muster your best efforts, sharpened by tools or precautions and precision. With a good start, things should roll smoothly.

APRIL 21 to MAY 21 (Taurus) — Commence with definite plan but not so set as to bypass reasonable revisions. Justify changes on the basis of value presented. Mind associations, they influence greatly.

MAY 22 to JUNE 21 (Gemini) —Ready to conquer the world? This requires judicious planning, pruning, and a generous dose of persistency. Mix them up well and apply in sensible amounts to attainable objective.

JUNE 22 to JULY 23 (Cancer) —Your planet Moon auspicious. Be alert to garner profferred opportunities. If you miss, then tackle duties and make own "breaks" with a permanent flavor added for strength.

JULY 24 to AUGUST 23 (Leo) —Align activities to parallel day's requirements. Thoroughly brush up on procedures, needs. Be among those tracing the effect *of your labors for future direc*tion.

AUGUST 24 to SEPTEMBER 23 (Virgo) — Mercury in league with the optimistic, the energetic. Fresh ambition can stimulate gains, augment progress through continued effort. Composure and ability reflect your inner peace.

SEPTEMBER 24 to OCTOBER 23 (Libra) — Urgent items first, then clear the decks. Sudden needless changes not advised. Be prudent about schedule. Tap your memory for solution to your puzzles.

OCTOBER 24 to NOVEMBER 22 (Scorpio) — Transfer slipshod methods to the never-never land. Reactivate a potential movement to establish further gains. Develop those gifts you possess.

NOVEMBER 23 to DECEMBER 21 (Sagittarius) — Don't let mind, efforts deviate from main objective. Be neither curt nor abrupt in your rush to get things done. Show your sunny nature, optimistic mood.

DECEMBER 22 to JANUARY 20 (Capricorn)—Fine Saturn influences, especially for necessary work, lending a helping hand where most appreciated. Take chores in stride. Allocate extra time to the pursuit of original ideas.

JANUARY 21 to FEBRUARY 19 (Aquarius) — Entertain thoughts of diversification of energies to benefit from current opportunities. We get into a rut when we ignore trying something new. Differentiate carefully.

FEBRUARY 20 to MARCH 20 (Pisces) — Results from reliance on tried and true methods during changeable period. Some obstacles on horizon. By vigilance, application you overcome opposition.

YOU BORN TODAY are hard workers, practical thinkers, steadfast friends. Progress may be slow at times but the foundation is firm and your desire unshaken. You often upset competition with your quiet, yet consistent, approach. Though not flashy it is concentrated and result-getting. Avoid a tendency to be too cautious, when expenditure of more effort can speed success.

Telegraph Links Netherlands And Montreal

THE HAGUE (Reuters) — A direct telegraph circuit between The Netherlands and Montreal went into operation Friday, the Dutch postal, telegraph and telephone services announced here.

Some 80 telegraph offices in The Netherlands now are able to dial Montreal and the same facilities have been provided for automatic telegraph transmission from Montreal to these Dutch offices.

Predicts Russia to Lag Behind U.S. in Missiles

WASHINGTON (AP) — U.S. intelligence officials believe Russia will trail the United States by about six months in getting an advanced intercontinental ballistic missile ready for combat.

Informed sources said Friday the latest estimate is that the first such Russian ICBM will be ready in early 1963.

The first solid-fuel Minuteman, the most advanced U.S. ICBM, is due to become operational this summer.

Intelligence information also indicates the Russians may have three Polaris-type missile firing submarines by the end of this year.

The United States now has six nuclear - powered submarines, each capable of firing 16 Polaris missiles. Before the end of this year the U.S. fleet will have nine Polaris subs mounting 144 missiles.

DISCUSS ESTIMATES

The most recent intelligence estimates were believed to have been discussed by President Kennedy and U.S. military leaders at meetings in Palm Beach, Fla., earlier this week.

During the 1960 presidential campaign, Democrats contended a serious "missile gap" was shaping up and that it would give the Russians as much as a 3 to 1 advantage in ICBMS by the end of 1961.

The missile gap assumptions evidently were based on what was known of Russian capacity to build, rather than on any firm knowledge of Soviet intentions.

U.S. intelligence credits the Russians with a decided edge in 300-to-500-mile range missiles in Europe, where they could be used against Western countries. Many of these missiles, estimated to total 300 to 400, are said to be on mobile firing beds.

However, U.S. officials feel American aircraft carrying nuclear bombs more than counterbalance this Russian power.

Kennedy Seeks Way to Handle Government Export Subsidies

By HAROLD MORRISON

WASHINGTON (CP) — Confronted by mounting demands on the federal treasury, President Kennedy is seeking some method whereby he can reduce or eliminate the hudge U.S. government export subsidies on wheat, estimated to total more than $400,000,000 this year.

These subsidies have been sharply attacked by Canada and other wheat exporters on the grounds the United States is using its huge financial resources to compete unfairly in world wheat markets.

Informants said a shift in the subsidy plan would be a feature of a new long-range farm policy Agriculture Secretary Orville Freeman is working out for presentation to Congress soon after it reconvenes next Wednesday.

But Freeman will have his work cut out for him trying to convince Congress to accept his ideas. The 1,600,000 - member Farm Bureau Federation, biggest of the American organizations, plans a sharp attack on the grounds the new measures may curtail opportunities for farmers to meet rising costs through increased income.

MUST CUT SURPLUSES

Federal officials say they don't want to hurt the farmers but at the same time some effort must be made to reduce surpluses and cut federal outlays for price supports. In the first year of Freeman's tenure, the federal price - support program for agriculture was estimated to have risen by about $1,000,000,000 to a total of $2,300,000,000.

Despite the 1961 drought, the U.S. wheat carryover next July 1 is estimated by the agricultur department to total 1,365,000,000 bushels down just 45,000,000 from a year ago.

Under the present system, the U.S. government supports wheat at higher than world prices and then provides shippers with an export subsidy so that U.S. wheat prices can be reduced in world markets to a range competitive with Canadian and other wheat.

Last year this subsidy averaged about 55 cents a bushel. This was based on an average domestic wheat price support of $1.80 a bushel. The support is increased to $2 a bushel this year, provided farmers reduce their allotted wheat acreage by 10 per cent.

On the basis of this $2 price-support, federal officials estimate the export subsidy could rise to about 75 cents a bushel this year and that the over-all federal export - subsidy cost would range between $400,000,000 and $500,000,000.

Curtailment or elimination of this subsidy would give the appearance of American wheat being more freely competitive with wheat from other exporting countries. But under the Freeman plan, the basic U.S. two-price system would be retained.

American millers buying wheat for American customers would have to pay a special premium on what would be known as "certificate wheat." American consumers would have to pay a higher price for American flour than would overseas buyers.

Indeed, there is a farm view that the domestic price of bread would rise by perhaps one cent a loaf if the Freeman plan is accepted.

The Farm Bureau says the administration's ideas might find more favor if the government agreed at the same time to lift production controls so that farmers could move surplus wheat into non-bread channels—into feed grain or dumped in overseas markets for whatever the market can bear. Federal officials said this would destroy the basic administration aim of reducing acreage to what the market requires.

Odds . . . and Ends

*So many people have been call*ing my attention to the many robins to be seen around Fairview and one friend reported seeing two woodpeckers. It seems every winter brings a few unseasonal visitors who don't know what time it is or just enjoy being non-conformists.

Well, here we are well into a New Year. Christmas decorations have disappeared from the Baker Street scene. Stores have taken on a more orderly look after the hectic last-minute rush and the usual exchanges between Christmas and New Years and some have begun the annual headache of stock-taking.

Was interesting to read that the new trans-Atlantic telephone cable can carry "60 high quality conversations" simultaneously. I suppose this means, nothing but the purest English or French — "as long as they pronounce it properly." The old cable could only take 48 conversations at once and perhaps the "lowbrow" conversations will be relegated to this one.

A few days ago (before school started) I noticed a number of youngsters skating on the tennis courts at Lakeside Park and a few who probably got skis for Christmas were trying them out on the hill at Queen Elizabeth Park. This seemed a dandy little slope for the youngsters.

The city bus driver is having a rough time of it on Gordon Road where the road was dug up for sewer lines late in the Fall and it puts a lot of bounce in the ride for the passengers. One corner I dread is the one at Fell and Tenth streets. The bus starts down Fell with the nose of the bus headed out to the wild blue yonder and only a sharp rough turn in the road — a bone rattling, tooth chattering turn —saves bus and passengers from a steep plunge. I look at the few pine trees at the road's edge and think maybe they would save the day if the worst came, but that corner does give me an awful feeling in the pit of my stomach — though it doesn't seem to faze the driver, bless him.
