Broad Railway Legislation Due for Parliament Study

MacPherson Report Recommendations To Be Dealt With First

By ROBERT RICE

OTTAWA (CP)—A great railway debate is shaping up for the coming session of Parliament.

It will centre on government legislation to streamline Canada's railways.

Government sources say that at the session starting Tuesday top priority will be given to the legislation based on the MacPherson royal commission report on transportation.

The legislative package, it is understood, involves amendments to the Transport Act and the Railway Act and repeal of the Canadian National-Canadian Pacific Act.

The MacPherson legislation is expected to:

1. Scrap government regulation of freight rate increases.

2. Set up new machinery whereby the railways will be free to peg their prices in the competitive market place, subject only to a ceiling to protect so-called "captive" shippers.

3. Create a brand new federal agency—the branch line rationalization authority—to set the pace for shutting down hundreds of miles of unprofitable branch lines, chiefly in western Canada.

4. Abolish a series of railway and freight rate subsidies now totalling more than $90,000,000 a year.

5. Pdovide a new set of federal subsidies amounting to about $100,000,000 in the first year, but rapidly diminishing over the first five years.

COVER LOSSES

The new subsidies would cover railway losses on passenger trains and branch lines that are operated in the red. They would also offset railway losses in hauling western export grain at freight rates set originally under the Crows Nest Pass Agreement of 1897-estimated at $23,000,000 annually. Part of the money will pay the railways for carrying mail, armed services and police.

The passenger subsidies are designed to start at about $60,000,000 in the first year, then decline each year until they are scrapped in the sixth year.

The branch line subsidies — amounting to about $13,000,000 annually — would be continued for 15 years to allow the railways to abandon uneconomic lines gradually. This pace of abandonments will be set after public hearings by the proposed three-man rationalization authority.

The core of the legislation will be the new freight rate structure.

The railways have endorsed the recommendations of the royal commission, appointed in 1959 by the previous conservative government. Headed by Regina lewyer M. A. MacPherson, the royal commission spent more than two years in a cross-Canada study of railway problems, then delivered three reports spelling out its ideas and proposals.

The trucking industry has served notice it will fight hard against the proposed subsidies for the railways.

Since many MPs regard themselves as experts on railways, the legislation is expected to get a thorough airing in Parliament.

World Agreement To Cut Military Spending, Urged

GENEVA (AP) — The Soviet Union said Thursday a universal agreement to reduce military spending is the most urgent initial step toward world disarmament.

Soviet negotiator Semyon K. Tsarapkin told the 17-nation disarmament conference all nations of the world, big and small, should agree to reduce their military expenditures by 10 to 15 per cent. He said the conference must give this issue top priority.

Tsarapkin's proposal followed a similar suggestion by Brazilian delegate Josue de Castro, who called on the big powers to make simultaneous and equal cuts in their military budgets and devote 20 per cent to helping underdeveloped countries of the world.

The Soviet delegate agreed with the idea of a cut in military spending but said all nations would have to join in. He sharply disagreed with de Castro's proposal to set up a sub-committee for detailed negotiations. A subcommittee would be an obstacle to agreement, he said.

EASE BURDEN

Tsarapkin told the meeting the world's total military spending exceeds $120,000,000,000 a year He said steps must be taken quickly to ease this burden.

An American spokesman said the U.S. delegation will study Tsarapkin's suggestion carefully. He noted one unacceptable condition: The Soviet delegate demanded that the Western powers give "agreement in principle" to the idea and that no detailed discussions precede such an agreement. The West rejects this procedure as putting the cart before the horse.

The U.S. spokesman emphasized that there must be clear definition of what constitutes military spending. He recalled that recent cuts in Soviet defence expenditures were accompanied by a large increase in Russia's scientific research budget.

The Brazilian delegate said "the vast economic and social imbalance now prevailing in the world represents — through the social tensions it entails — a serious threat to international peace and security."

An international agreement to devote part of the military budgets to the less-developed countries would "put an end once and for all to war and armed insecurity," he added.

River Being Rerouted As Dam Near Completion

OUTLOOK, Sask. (CP) — The sluggish South Saskatchewan River, last barrier to completion of a mighty irrigation dam in the heart of one of Saskatchewan's drought areas, is to be shunted aside Friday.

The river will be rerouted through five giant diversion tunnels, clearing the way for workmen to add the final links to a dam a mile wide, three miles long and 210 feet high — one of the largest of its kind in the world.

The dam is the main one in the South Saskatchewan River Project, a four-fold task started seven years ago that will create a storage reservoir to irrigate 500,000 acres of land, a 135-mile-long lake with miles of sandy beaches for recreation, hydro-electric power and a good year-round water supply for southern Saskatchewan communities, some of which now must resort to canals and pumps to gather the precious liquid.

The shape of the final earth-fill dam structure has already emerged and the river at this point — 60 miles south of Saskatoon — normally 800 feet wide, has been squeezed down to a width of 350 feet. The two ends of the dam are completed.

A closure dike at the upstream end of the dam is to be completed today, blocking the river channel and causing the entire flow to be diverted through the tunnels.

It is expected that at the time of diversion, the river flow will be approximately 3,000 cubic feet per second. Later the tunnels will be partially closed in order to create a pond of water at the tunnel portals. This pond will be maintained until after ice in the reservoir formed by the dike has melted, thus preventing ice from entering the tunnels.

CANADIAN TROOPS FOR CYPRUS STUDIED

LONDON (CP) — Lionel Chevrier, Canada's new high commissioner in London, said here Thursday Canada is not yet committed to contribute troops to the Cyprus peace force, but is studying the British request for 1000 men "with sympathy."

The formation of the force, he told a press conference, depends on a firm decision from Archbishop Makarios, president of Cyprus.

On the question of Anglo-Canadian trade, he said a Canadian government committee is studying the problem and that "there should be an improvement of the position in 1964."

W. German Doctor Hangs Self in Cell

FRANKFURT (AP) — A West German doctor hanged himself in prison Thursday and escaped trial on charges that he was the man who headed Adolf Hitler's program for killing 200,000 mental and physical defectives during the Second World War.

The suicide of Dr. Werner Heyde, scholarly, 61-year-old professor of medicine — fourth death of a Nazi war crimes trial followed by one day Friedrich Tillmann's fatal fall from an eighth-floor window in Cologne in what the state prosecutor, Dr. Fritz Bauer, said also was a suicide.

Heyde and Tillmann were to have gone on trial Tuesday at Limburg as the two top defendants accused of responsibility for the slaughter of 70,000 of the 200,000 defectives exterminated in Nazi death camps.

Heyde hanged himself with a belt from a heating pipe in his cell at Butzbach prison. Tillman, 60, administrative expert in ridding Hitler's touted superrace of defectives, fell from an office-building window.

Bauer, in describing Tillmann's death as a suicide, had charged that a conspiracy is trying to thwart a trial at which names of more Nazi criminals might come to light.

JESUIT OUSTER "GRAVE MOVE"

VATICAN CITY (AP)—L'Osservatore Romano, reporting Thursday the government of Haiti had expelled 18 Canadian Jesuits, says the expulsion was an exceptionally grave move.

L.Osservatore carries a front-page story from Port au Prince about the ouster of the Jesuits.

OTTAWA (CP) — External Affairs Minister Martin summoned the Haitian charge d'affaires to his office Thursday to inform him of Canada's rejection of allegations against Canadian Jesuit missionaries expelled from the island republic.

His action was taken after the Canadian government learned that the government of Haiti circulated to diplomatic missions and the press in Port au Prince a statement accusing the Jesuits of planning to overthrow the regime of President Francois Duvalier.

Speaks Against Drug Clinic

VICTORIA (CP) — An Opposition member told the B.C. Legislature Thursday a new $7,000,000 federal treatment clinic for drug addicts being built in his riding is a "terrible error."

David Barrett (NDP—Dewdney) said the federal government is "making a move the Attorney-General should say is foolish."

He said Attorney-General Bonner should use his office to dissuade Ottawa from continuing with the project.

Mr. Barrett, speaking in the budget debate, said the new treatment centre will be similar to one built at Lexington, Ky., 27 years ago.

He said the supervisor of the Lexington centre said recently that after spending $60,000,000 on trying to rehabilitate narcotics the clinic had found "only two things—that narcotics addicts had an insatiable desire for drugs and that they like chocolate cake."

The NDP backbencher, a former social worker, said the successful treatment rate at the Kentucky institution had been only two per cent.

He contrasted the clinic's failure with the initial success of an experiment by the federal parole board, which had experimentally released 16 addicts from penitentiaries under special parole arrangements involving close supervision.

Six of the original 16 had not gone back to the habit and the pilot program was being extended.

Powerful Rockets Being Developed at Churchill

Black Brants To Be Used for Upper Atmospheric Studies

By JOHN E. BIRD

OTTAWA (CP) — Black Brant research rockets capable of lifting 40-pound instrument payloads to altitudes of 600 miles and 150-pound payloads to 240 miles have been designed for space research at the Fort Churchill, Man., rocket range.

The rockets are being developed for upper atmospheric studies, including cosmic rays and the aurora borealis or northern lights which occur in the lower part of the ionosphere seriously disrupting communications.

Details of the new rocket development program were given Thursday in papers presented at an Ottawa symposium sponsored by the Canadian Aeronautics and Space Institute on space research in Canada.

The Churchill high altitude research rocket program is a joint government-industry project involving the Defence Research Board, the National Research Council and Canadian Bristol Aerojet Limited, Winnipeg, commercial producer of solid propellent rockets.

One new 10-inch rocket known as the Black Brant III now has been developed to carry a 40-pound package of instruments to an altitude of 110 miles. Two others known as the Black Brant V and Black Brant IVA are in the development stage for research at higher altitudes.

The meeting was told that two Black Brant IIA rockets with Black Brant V fins were fired at Churchill Jan. 20 by DRB's Canadian Armament Research and Development Establishment.

SEEM SUCCESSFUL

"Preliminary assessment indicates that both flights were a complete success with a 267-pound gross payload being lifted to approximately 126 miles," one institute report said.

This represented an increase of more than 30 per cent in altitude performance compared with standard Black Brant IIA rockets.

The Black Brant V rocket is designed to hurtle a 150-pound package of scientific instruments 240 miles into space.

After it has been flight-proved it will be redesignated into what will be known as the Black Brant VB rocket.

CARDE hopes to be able to launch the VB rocket late this year. It predicts that ultimately this rocket will carry a 150-pound payload to an altitude of 300 miles.

BUTTER SURPLUS

OTTAWA (CP) — The chronic butter surplus was 204,478,000 pounds Feb. 1 or about the same as a year ago, the bureau of statistics reports.

Creamery butter stocks of 124,827,000 pounds were higher than the 124,316,000 pounds a year ago but holdings in butter oil of 79,500 pounds were down somewhat due to exports at below-cost prices.

Wall May Open At Easter

BERLIN (AP) — The East German Communist government said Thursday night it is willing to reopen the Berlin wall during the Easter and Whitsun holidays to West Berliners who want to visit their families in the Soviet sector of the city.

Easter Sunday is March 29 this year and Whitsun is seven weeks later.

A government statement said West Berliners would be issued permits to cross through the wall under the same condtions that prevailed during the 18-day Christmas holiday arrangement.

The offer was made Thursday by Erich Wendt, East German deputy cultural affairs minister, to Horst Korber, a West Berlin city official. The two men, who negotiated the Christmas permit agreement, had met for talks about a permanent arrangement.

It was their sixth meeting since the Christmas operation ended Jan. 5.

Commodore Brock Dies

VANNCOUVER (CP) — Commodore E. Reginald Brock, 72, O.B.E., a member of one of Canada's outstanding naval families, died Thursday in Shaughnessy Hospital.

A brother, Capt. Eustace Brock, was in command of HMCS Niobe, the Canadian Naval depot in the United Kingdom during the Second World War, and a nephew Rear Admiral Jeffrey Brock, is in command of Canada's Atlantic fleet.

Commodore Brock was the highest-ranking officer in Canada's volunteer reserve and was in charge of naval divisions at Toronto during the Second World War.

In 1942 he became director of Reserve Naval Divisions, which was then made a separate command of the Royal Canadian Navy.

Commodore Brock was responsible for organizing and enlarging 20 divisions across Canada.

He was one of the original officers of the Volunteer Reserve and the first to be decorated by King George VI with the Order of the British Empire.

In civilian life, he was manager of the Accident and Health Department of Great West Life Assurance Company in Winnipeg, a firm his father founded.

Gold Coin For Centenary?

OTTAWA (CP) — Pressure is reported to be mounting on the government to strike a gold coin to mark Canada's 100th birthday of Confederation in 1967.

Canada has not minted a gold coin since pre - Confederation days, but the Royal Canadian Mint produced gold sovereigns for the British government just before the First World War.

Some of them now are worth hundreds of dollars to coin collectors.

But the government and its agencies are playing their cards close to the vest on the current suggestion that a $10 or $25 gold piece be circulated for 1967.

A $1 silver coin marking the 1964 pre-Confederation conferences in Charlottetown and Quebec City now is in circulation. Numismatists, those who study and collect coins—describe it as plain but not unattractive. What its value will be as a collectors' item in the years ahead is anyone's guess.

Gov't Investment Fund Mooted In Alberta

EDMONTON (CP) — Legislation to establish a government investment fund paying higher rates of interest than chartered banks and authorized to grant loans to new industries was forecast in the speech from the throne Thursday.

Lieutenant-Governor J. Percy Page read the speech amid the traditional pomp which accompanied the opening of the legislative session—the first session of Alberta's 15th legislature.

Canada Finds It Costly To Guard Nuclear Dumps

OTTAWA (CP)—It's going to cost more than $8,000,000 a year to guard the storage dumps where nuclear warheads are kept for Canada's armed forces, informants said Thursday.

This figure includes dog food.

But not the nuclear warheads themselves. The United States supplies them free.

The dog food bill will be fairly substantial because the RCAF bought 34 German police dogs to help guard the two dumps on the airfields at Zweibruecken and Baden-Soellingen in West Germany.

The dogs cost $100 each.

The other nuclear dumps are or will be at: Werl and Hemer in West Germany for the army's Honest John rocket; at Nroth Bay, Ont., and La Macaza, Que., for the Bomarc anti-aircraft missile; and at Chatham, N.B., for the Voodoo jet interceptor.

There are no immediate plans for security staff dogs at the dumps in Canada.

What's troubling the defence department, at a time when it's trying to cut overhead costs, is that it will require literally hundreds of men — the source said more than 1000 — to guard the dumps. The RCAF said the number of guards is a military secret.

Coast Pipers Big Hit in Quebec

MONTREAL (CP) — Weary but happy, 50 kilted boy pipers *from Vancouver ended a fun-*packed eight days in Quebec province Thursday, minor sensations wherever they went.

They so thrilled Mayor Jean Drapeau — playing for him at city hall Tuesday — that he pleaded with them to return for the 1967 Montreal World's Fair.

The boys make up the Optimist Junior Pipe Band of Vancouver and wound up their tour with a visit Thursday to the fair's St. Lawrence River site, playing their bagpipes in the open air amid the din of construction work for the 1967 exhibit.

Originally, the band was invited to play at the four-day international peewee hockey tournament last week in Quebec City. But Quebecers were so taken with the "wee laddies" that they stayed on, playing numerous engagements. They arrived in Montreal Tuesday and have been touring the city in between appearances. They attended Wednesday night's National Hockey League game at the Forum.

Some of them brought their pipes along, and attracted a crowd by playing in the Forum corridors after the game.

But it was Quebec City the boys enjoyed most.

GIRLS ARE PRETTIEST

Queried Thursday, the majority agreed Quebec hospitality was wonderful but Quebec girls were the prettiest and friendliest in Canada, and that included Vancouver.

"The girls are so friendly," one lad said. "They wave to you in the street and talk to you."

Don Bellamy, the bands founder and co-director said "we are all agreed that we have never encountered such hospitality as in Quebec."

He said the band was given a place of honor in the winter carnival parade escorting the carnival queen's float.

"We had a standing ovation from the 20,000 people in the stadium when the boys marched in with the famous Van Doos regiment, and they gave a mass tattoo together," he said.

The pipers were billeted in the Van Doos barracks in the Qoebec Citadel. The siggestion that the pipers join in the tattoo came from the Van Doos. There was only one rehearsal, Mr. Bellamy said, but the boys, accustomed to ceremonial marching, had no trouble "fitting in with the experts."

FIND COLD IRKSOME

Accustomed to the mild climate of Vancouver, the young pipers found the cold Quebec weather irksome.

"The night of the parade it was around zero," Mr. Bellamy recalled. "I didn't think the boys would make it, but they did. They even managed to play well even though their fingers were numb."

Altohugh veteran travellers — they have played in Hawaii, Los Angeles, San Francisco and other U.S. cities — the Quebec trip was the first the boys made during school terms.

To make up for lost school time, they brought along their own teacher, Miss Jan Spraggs, who has been conducting daily classes during lulls in the band's schedule.

Mr. Bellamy, a drum major with the Vancouver city police, founded the band in 1956. He recruits boys from eight to 15 years, and each gets two years of intensive training before joining as a regular.

"The boys all read music and must pass exams with better than 80 per cent, plus have a repertoire of 21 pieces before he is accepted," Mr. Bellamy said.

Mr. Bellamy, a railway employee, claims his band is the youngest organized pipe band in the world. "They don't come any younger, even in Scotland," he says.

BRIGHTON, England (AP)—Albert Watts has the problem of what to do with 170 white mice. Watts is an inspector for the *Royal Society for Prevention of Cruelty to Animals.

A lady was evicted from her apartment and fined £5 ($15) for allegedly causing suffering to 192 of them. Twenty-two were destroyed on court order.

Watts, saying "I like white mice in small numbers but this is too much," added: "I shall pass the problem on to my head office, otherwise it looks as though I may be lumbered (cluttered up) with them for the rest of their lives."

He noted that white mice usually live five to seven years.

NOTTINGHAM, England (Reuters)—A tattooist was cleared without trial Wednesday of indecently assaulting a 14-year-old boy by tattooing a nude woman on his arm.

The court upheld a defence argument that there was no case to answer.

Another charge against tattooist Dennis Dilks, 32, of assault causing actual bodily harm also was dismissed.

Dilks' lawyer said the boy asked to be tattooed and chose the nude woman design.

On the charge of causing bodily harm, the lawyer said there was no law making tattooing illegal.

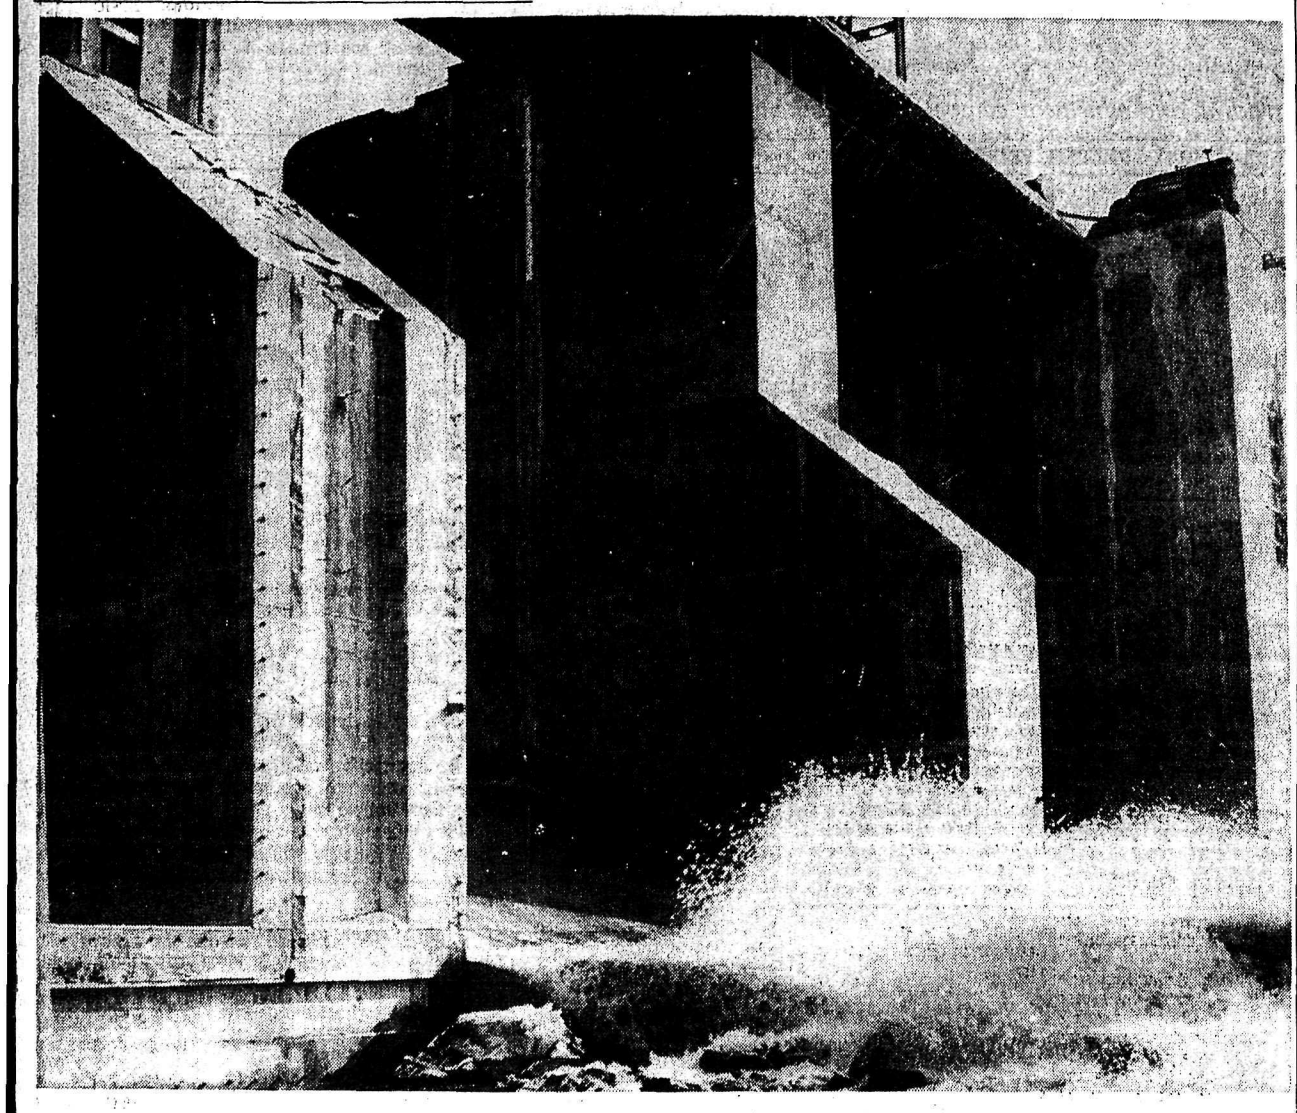
COLORADO SPRINGS (AP) — Patrolman J. Earle Scott didn't recognize the car he ticketed Wednesday for overtime parking. His wife, Shirley, showed him the $2 ticket when he got home.



CONSTRUCTION PROJECT below the lower Bonnington plant of West Kootenay Power and Light Company has progressed to the point where water is flowing through the new steel spillway gates with the cutting out of the coffer dam. The $2,500,000 concrete gravity replacement dam stretches across Kootenay River for 675 feet and the steel spillways are 42 feet wide and 28 feet high. The dam replaces a wooden crib dam installed in 1924. It will not alter power production or water storage. It will control elevation of the water for the No. 1 plant forebay. # Nelson Men At Coast For Mining Course

Sheep Creek Mines staff members J. S. McIntosh and Don Edwards are in Vancouver this week taking advantage of a four-week course in geophysical exploration offered by the B.C. and Yukon Chamber of Mines.

Held in the B.C. Hydro building, the lectures apply to "Application of Geophysical Methods in Mining Exploration." This type of investigation is being used increasingly in the search for new ore deposits particularly in potential mineral-bearing areas covered with overburden.

The purpose of the course is to explain the underlying principles and some of the procedures in applying geophysics to exploration. This field is so new in mining techniques that textbooks, even in universities, are as yet unwritten and information must be transferred through lectures by those with experience and knowledge.

WIDOW AWARDED DAMAGES

KELOWNA (CP) — A supreme court jury Thursday night awarded damages of $10,578.25 in favor of the widow and two children of a man killed five years ago when his car plunged off a bridge into Okanagan Lake.

The eight-member jury found the victim, Robert Thomson of Westbank, B.C., was 75 per cent to blame in the accident.

The British Columbia Toll Highway and Bridges Authority, defendant in the suit, was found to be 25 per cent at fault.

Mrs. Mdeleine Thomson, her daughter Bonnie and her son David therefore received one-quarter of $42,313, the total assessment of damages which the jury was instructed to make regardless of fault.

Blood Donor Clinic In Trail June 24-26

TRAIL — The 1964 blood donor clinic is to be conducted by the Trail branch of the Canadian Red Cross Society for three days, June 24 to June 26 inclusive. The dates were announced Wednesday night by the Trail branch executive.

The Trail quota is expected to be similar to last year's 1,300 pints.

A work shop on the operation of blood donor clinics is expected to be held here between mid-May and early June, according to a letter received by the Trail branch, from Col. W. A. Freeman, divisional director of blood donor panels.

Trail branch president R. J. Thompson, chairman of the executive meeting, voiced appreciation of an offer by A. Soles, principal of the J. Lloyd Crowe High School, that the school's Future Nurses' club would be available for Red Cross activity.

The meeting agreed the future nurses could contribute extensively in the operation of this year's clinic.

The Trail branch of the Canadian Red Cross Society will oppose a proposal by the Red Cross national executive to cancel the 10 and 20-time donor pins awarded to blood donors in recognition of their services.

A recommendation against the proposal was approved by the Trail executive Wednesday night. It will be presented at the annual meeting in Vancouver of the British Columbia division Feb. 24-25 by the Trail delegates, branch president R. J. Thompson and C. W. MacBey, vice-president of the West Kootenay zone.

Mr. MacBey said the proposal also will be opposed by the Rossland and Nelson branches.

WANT PINS STILL

In the past, blood donor pins have been awarded to five, 10 and 20-time donors with scrolls also presented to the 10 and 20-time donors. Now it is proposed, "in the interest of economy" to award pins only to the five-time donors and continue awarding the scrolls.

The Trail executive agreed that donors especially appreciated the pins as these are worn and are emblematic to all of an individual's contribution to saving lives.

"But only a few people see a scroll," said president Thompson. "You can't year it around."

The executive also approved the establishment of a home nursing class for the Montrose Girl Guide Association, on a request from Mrs. James Forrest. Mrs. Rose Kumorek, chairman of the home nursing committee, was assigned to arrange details.

G. Fleming New Scout Commissioner

Gordon Fleming, a Nelson boy scout leader for more than 10 years, was appointed district commissioner for Nelson district at the monthly scout meeting in the Scout Hall this week.

Associated with the scouting movement since boyhood in Nelson, he succeeds Eldred K. Evans, who recently retired.

Lloyd Galbraith of Willow Point was appointed district cubmaster for Nelson district. He also has been active in the movement for many years and had been cubmaster at Willow Point.

Mr. Fleming was welcomed to his new position by Dr. B. A. Resker, regional commissioner.

In 1962, Mr. Fleming was presented with a 10-year medal for outstanding duty by his predecessor, Mr. Evans. He was trained in cubbing and scouting here and in 1962, he took a Gilwell leaders' course at Ottawa.

Mr. Evans was honored at a Troop scouters meeting Jan. 6 on entering his 25th year in scouting He was commissioner from March 1958 to January of this year. He was assistant commissioner from December 1953 to March 1958.

PCs Must Set Policy on Biculturalism — Allan

B.C. should be represented on any committee formulating party policy on biculturalism, the Nelson-Creston Progressive Conservative Party was told Thursday night.

This view was expressed by a delegate during a report on the recent Ottawa PC convention by Nelson delegate R. B. Allan.

Mr. Allan felt that biculturalism was a key issue and one on which the party must soon formulate policy.

"I thought it was a real issue and something important," said Mr. Allan. "Everywhere I went people felt the same way.

"Most of us felt that something had to be done to recognize Quebec. I feel that the people who organized this meeting overlook Quebec," he referred to the bypassing of Quebec during introduction of provincial dignitaries.

"The Progressive Conservatives are going to have to decide to what extent we are going to give the Quebec people what they are asking for. Even the Quebec people don't know what they want but they are dissatisfied with what they've got."

Mr. Allan believed that the B.C. delegates were more in sympathy with the Quebec cause and there is more antagonism between Ontario and Quebec.

On the leadership question, which was heavily publicized, Mr. Allan said that the B.C. delegation felt that this was not the time to contest it.

"The number of rebels was very small and Mr. Diefenbaker won it hands down," said Mr. Allan.

Mrs. B. B. Crawford succeeded E. T. Taylor as president of the association. L. M. McBride was named vice-president and Mr. Taylor, secretary-treasurer.

Professional Bargainer For Area To Be Studied

Discussion on the feasibility of jointly hiring a full-time professional bargainer by municipalities throughout the Kootenay to bargain with civic workers, is expected to be high on the agenda of the spring meeting of the Association of Kootenay Municipalities.

An elecutive meeting of the Association held here tentatively set the spring meeting date as April 25 in Cranbrook.

The professional bargainer would bargain on behalf of the municipalities, thereby releasing the responsibility from often-inexperienced councillors and commissioners.

The executive also decided to circulate among its members a letter from the Associated Chambers of Commerce suggesting that money for a publicity fund to avertise the Kootenay, come off the tax structure.

This suggestion, too, is expected to be fully aired at the spring meeting.

The executive elected Ald. Jim Avis of Kimberley as vice-president. Two new members were also welcomed to the executive. They were Mayor Gene Bodard of Nelson and Commissioner George Knezacek of Creston.

House Validates BCE Settlement

VICTORIA (CP) — The legislature gave unanimous approval in principle Thursday night to a bill validating a $197,114,358 out-of-court settlement with the B.C. Electric Company — but not until after four opposition members had deplored the bill's necessity.

Gordon Dowding (NDP — Burnaby) termed the bill "a patching job on a patchwork quilt started in 1961."

He said the government might have acquired the power company under the Power Act. "Instead, prolonged and extensive battles in the courts have cost the people of this province a great deal of money."

Nelson Junior High School Notes 35th Anniversary

Today, our palatial, ultramodern palace, our new Nelson Junior High School was declared officially open. Principal H. MacArthur declares that life at the new school is a keen adventure for the 259 students.

Superintendent of Education, Dr. S. J. Willis, officiated in the opening ceremony naming the new school, Trafalgar School. The beautiful structure embodies all that is latest in modern school architecture. Its auditorium and gymnasium are the finest in the interior, its classrooms notably commodious. This excellent structure has been completed at a cost of $130,774.00.

These words are taken from an old copy of The Nelson Daily News, owned by J. Houston, counsellor to the boys at the Junior High School today. By present day standards, the building may not be ultramodern or palatial but it is still doing its job as well as it did in 1929 — satisfying the thirst for Knowledge of all young people who come to its doors. Those students now number almost eight hundred a year and the "commodious" classrooms seem to bulge a little now.

B. B. Crawford, the present principal, says: "Perhaps the building is no longer the most exciting architecturally, and the courses may have been entirely changed, but we still feel that Nelson Junior High offers the same "keen adventure" for its students.

Scout Awarded 2nd Class Badge

Scout David Hogg of the newly formed 1st North Shore Troop became the first boy to earn his 2nd Class Badge.

Scoutmaster Paul Deakin presented the badge to Scout Hogg at the troop meeting. Other badges earned in the Troop since it began in September were by Mike Deakin, receiving badges for Public Health and Ambulance Man.

Wednesday evening also saw the number of invested scouts in the troop rise to 14 with the investing of Ken Sutherland and Ross Elliott. Other Scouts invested during the past two months were Gordon Frocklage, Barry Turner, Graham Askew, Dennis and Ian MacDonald.

The Troop, under the leadership of Paul Deakin and Larry Samuelson, has 19 boys. A Church Parade is planned for Feb. 23.

Mrs. J. Harris Passes at 54

A staunch supporter of the Evangelical Covenant Church, Mrs. Dorothy May Harris, died in Kootenay Lake General Hospital Wednesday night. She was 54 years of age.

Born in London, England in 1909 she came with her parents to Clyde, Alberta in 1919, living there until her marriage to Joseph Harris in 1929. She and her husband lived at Smith, Nestow and Flatbush before coming to Balfour in 1941. They moved to Nelson the following year and have resided here since.

She was active in church work, being a Sunday school teacher and superintendent for several years and was also a member of the Ladies' Aid.

Besides her husband she is survived by one son, Harvey of Nelson and three daughters, Mrs. J. (Inez) Cote of Princeton; Mrs. E. K. (Norma) Davis of New Westminster; and Miss Mrgaret of Nelson; one brother, George Vallis of Oxnard, Calif.; one sister, Mrs. Lillian Moulds of Westlock, Alta. and 14 grandchildren. She was predeceased by a son, Robert in 1947.

NDU Students Lectured on Medical Records

Students of the School for Medical Record Librarians and Medical Secretaries at Notre Dame University of Nelson heard a lecture by Dr. W. K. Massey, Tuesday night, in the conference room of the hospital.

Speaking on the development and significance of the medical record, Dr. Massey commented on the records of medical history since ancient times. These early records, he said, "do not constiutte real medical records as we use the term today for they were not associated with the planning of the patient's treatment." Instead, they are records of what was accomplished.

Mentioning some principles which should underlie the development of any type of knowledge, he applied these principles to the work of the modern medical record librarian.

At the conclusion of the lecture, an informal question and answer period took place.

In the Courts

Peter Poznikoff of Nelson was fined $15 and had his licence endorsed in city magistrate's court Thursday, when he was convicted of speeding in a 30 mph zone on Stanley Street.

Hall Burns At Krestova

The Krestova Fire Department was asleep at the switch once again Wednesday.

Scene of many strippings, the old tumble-down community hall building vanished in flames early Wednesday morning but RCMP were not notified of the fire until Wednesday night.

RCMP are convinced the fire was set deliberately but were unable to discover any material evidence to support their arson premise.

Cold ashes and ruins were all that greeted RCMP on their arrival at Krestova at 7 p.m. Wednesday night. Tracks in the snow were useless as a special meeting had been held Tuesday afternoon by Sons of Freedom Sect members still living in the area.

Police have no clues as to how the fire originated but set the time of the blaze at approximately 3 a.m. A neighbor looked out her window at that time and noticed the fire but did not see anyone about.

Firemen's Spiel Has Boisterous Sendoff

TRAIL — Sirens, band music and blaring horns kicked off the sixth annual B.C. Firefighters' Curling Association bonspiel here Thursday morning.

The howling sirens, though startling Trailites, were music to the some 160 curlers from throughout British Columbia for they are all members of various fire departments in the province.

A large parade brought the firefighters through downtown to the Trail curling rink where play will continue until Saturday.

Mayor Joe Palyga officially kicked off the action by throwing the first rock.

The bonspiel is a double draw knockout event and is divided into four sections, categorizing by number of losses.

The winner of the bonspiel will advance to the Dominion play offs to be held in Vancouver late in March.

Nine fire departments from the Trail and district area are sponsoring the competition. They are the departments of Trail, Rossland, Warfield, Fruitvale, Salmo, Castlegar, Kinnaird, Montrose and Tadanac.

A local rink, skipped by Bert Stanley of Trail, won its first game by defeating G. Giske 10-5.

But a former Dominion champion, Aubrey Neff of Vancouver went down in defeat.

Play was halted Thursday night when the firemen got together for a banquet.

Friday night they will be the guests of the Warfield Fire Department at a social evening.

NDU Protestants Plan Quiet Day At Redeemer

Protestant students of Notre Dame University of Nelson will observe their first Quiet Day Sunday at the Church of the Redeemer.

Organized especially for Anglican students but open to all protestants attending the university, the afternoon service will begin at 1:00 p.m. in the church, and conclude at 6:00 p.m. when supper and a discussion period will be held in the church hall.

Anglican chaplain for Notre Dame, Rev. F. D. Wyatt, Archdeacon of Kootenay and rector of the Church of the Redeemer, will conduct the service. Three thought-provoking addresses will be given throughout the afternoon. Light refreshments will be served in the church hall.

Rt. Rev. W. R. Coleman, Anglican Bishop of Kootenay, will speak at the supper. Rev. R. W. S. Brown, Dean of St. Saviour's Pro-Cathedral and NDU chaplain, will also be present.

The day will conclude with a discussion. It is hoped that this will lead to an organization of NDU protestant students similar to the Canterbury club found on most North American campuses. Almost half of the student body at NDU is protestant.

East Kootenay Benefits From $116,685 Winter Works Program

CRANBROOK — The winter works program, under which senior governments share labor costs for approved projects, has so far covered 15 items in the Cranbrook National Employment Service office area for the current season, affording 4459 man-days of employment. Further projects by the various municipalities are in preparation or on file toward the April 30 deadline for completion.

Total estimated cost of the projects, including materials is $116,685. Method of implementing assistance is to prepare a total cost estimate with itemized labor cost, for which federal and provincial assistance is available if the project is approved.

Most costly item approved this season was the Creston village water line renewal under a by-law at $31,900, while Creston's approved street preparation program was estimated at $15,000.

CRANBROOK

Cranbrook's most costly project approved for winter works was installation of some sewer and mains on 15th Avenue as extension of the new sewer construction bylaw in 1963. Second city project was additional improvements at the site of the new 1963 sewage lagoon bylaw project. Minor Cranbrook projects were road access to the new city dump, sowing grass at Westlawn Cemetery, and a water by-pass at the city reservoir.

INVERMERE

At Invermere a project totalling $13,340 was approved for the village to reconstruct some of the facilities at its community centre, and add a location there for the fire hall and works garage, along with a $14,500 village works project of preparing location, profiles and grade for a planned five miles of village streets.

INDIAN AFFAIRS

Five projects of the Department of Indian Affairs received approval, with the estimated value of $13,500 almost entirely labor cost. These were for Christmas tree cultivation and fencing at St. Mary's, Tobacco Plains, Columbia Lake and Shuswap Reserves, and development of parkland and construction of a community kitchen on Lower Kootenay Reserve near Creston.

Single Kimberley project done so far is clearing of a site for city parkland at $2000, though other Kimberley applications are contemplated.

Asks Cutting Prohibitions Be Reviewed

CRANBROOK — Resuming monthly meetings after a considerable interval, the Cranbrook-Kimberley Local Employment advisory committee has given further consideration to a resolution, regarding timber, forwarded last spring to the regional employment officer. The committee members are approved representatives of industries and unions in the area.

The original resolution asked that in view of present capacity use of available timber for the lumber industry, which is now on a strict quota in East Kootenay, consideration be given by the national government to permit use of designated timber in national parks, particularly of overmature stands.

The committee has now asked that the entire matter of cutting prohibitions be reviewed, with particular further reference to regulations forbidding selling of timber off mining claims, many of which are held on a year-to-year long-term lease basis.

Dog Dies, Two Thieves Get Year Sentence

TRAIL (CP) — Two Grand Forks juveniles who beat a watchdog to death in the course of burglarizing a garage Thursday were sentenced to one year definite and one year indeterminate.

Alex Robert Chursinoff, 16, and Douglas Richard White, 17, were tried in adult court here before district magistrate Parker Williams.

Police said the youths stole $90 from a Grand Forks garage and silenced a watchdog with a two-pound wrench after the dog had failed to accept a bone.

Left bleeding from ears and forehead, the dog had to be destroyed.

Chursinoff and White received an indentical concurrent sentence for stealing a truck from a Trail transportation firm. The truck was found abandoned near Cranbrook.

Police said the pair had been travelling extensively by bus and stolen truck, visiting towns as far apart as Osoyoos and Calgary.

He was a past noble grand of Key City Lodge 42, IOOF, and member for more than 40 years and also was a member of Maple Leaf Rebekah Lodge, Branch 24, Royal Canadian Legion, and an active worker in the Baptist Church. He was also a hunter and fisherman of note.

MEASLES ON WANE

EDMONTON (CP)—A report from the Edmonton health department Wednesday said the outbreak of measles in the city has been decreasing. The report said 114 cases were reported last week compared with 124 the previous week and a weekly high in mid-January of 229 cases. The disease had afflicted about 1,500 children here since November.

Smaller Babies Predicted for Smoking Mothers

VANCOUVER (CP) — Expectant mothers who smoke during pregnancy increase their chances of having smaller-than-average babies, a leading U.S. child specialist said Thursday.

Dr. William A. Silverman, associate professor of pediatrics at New York's Columbia University, said studies in the U.S. and Britain have confirmed that the proportion of babies under 5½ pounds at birth is higher among smoking mothers.

Dr. Silverman, who heads the premature birth unit at New York Presbyterian Hospital, is attending a three-day convention of the North Pacific Pediatric Society here. The convention opened Thursday.

The New York specialist said it has not yet been ascertained how smoking affects unborn children.

"But one thing is clear," he said. "Expectant mothers should not smoke at all during pregnancy."

Describing some of the work being done in New York on premature babies—such as keeping them in warmer temperatures than previously thought necessary and feeding them sooner after birth — Dr. Stevenson said the medical profession still has a great deal to learn about such children.

Park Now Out Of Bounds for Commercial

NAKUSP — Kinsmen Park at Summit Lake, 11 miles east of Nakusp, is now officially a class C park, due to an order-in-council.

The park was formerly held by reserve. The order-in-council has the effect of clarifying the legal status.

Class C classification denotes that the park must be used strictly for recreational purposes and no one can enter the property for commercial purposes, such as for logging.

"This, thus, protects the Kinsmen money, time and labor," said Burt Campbell, Social Credit candidate for the Kaslo-Slocan riding, when the order-in-council was announced.

There are 15 acres involved. The Kinsmen have constructed a change house, picnic tables, toilet facilities, parking area and boom swimming area in the park.

Intense Use of Gym-Auditorium Shows Great Need

CRANBROOK — Showing the excellent use the Tenth Avenue primary school has put into operation of its new detached multi-purpose room, Grade 1 presented rhythm band numbers, grade 2 folk dancing, and grade 3 boys and girls choral numbers for Cranbrook Parent-Teachers Association February meeting, marking initial public use of the combined gymnasium - auditorium.

Principal Mrs. Ernest Benedik, in announcing the numbers said the new facility was in maximum use, meeting a pressing need.

Mrs. A. E. Oliver of Kimberley, currently East Kootenay regional director on the provincial PTA board, who is completing her term in April, outlined the responsibilities of this office, and urged the Cranbrook group to nominate a successor for her. M. D. McPhee, Laurie School principal, and Jack Smith, PTA past president were named committee to screen resolutions from Cranbrook to the annual provincial PTA convention at New Westminster in Easter holidays, when the theme will be "Counselling and Guidance."

A local resolution urged board consideration of appointment of a qualified education psychologist to its district staff.

IGNORE CLINIC

REGINA (CP) — Dr. David Road, director of the Regina Community Clinic, says obstetricians to whom he has tried to refer obstetrics cases recently have refused to accept patients on his referral. # Says Peace, Columbia Development To Bring Welter of Welfare Woes

VANCOUVER (CP) — Vigorous welfare action is needed to prevent the roads to development of the Peace and Columbia Rivers becoming "twin Tobacco Roads," a university social work authority said Wednesday.

Prof W. G. Dixon, director of the University of British Columbia's School of Social Work, was commenting on the resignation of social worker W. G. du Temple, who charged that provincial welfare facilities in the B.C. North are a farce.

"Du Temple has shown the great welter of problems that can emerge when a new territory starts to develop," Prof. Dixon said.

"Unless we take vigorous action on a community level the road to the Peace and the road to the Columbia can be twin Tobacco Roads in terms of the lives of the people.

"In effect we are going to get another gold rush. But it is not going to be largely confined to single men. The phenomenon of today is that the entire family will move because the old car is the covered wagon of today.

"Unless we engage in some form of community development we are going to be in real trouble in these communities."

Prof. Dixon said community development workers can be catalysts in getting people to face up to problems and work them out in terms of government aid and whatever is required.

"They can mobilize the people to deal wit hwhatever problems arise — lack of welfare services, housing, education — before it is too late."

BANKS NAMED TO FILL SLATE

CHAPMAN CAMP — Hubert N. Banks was elected to serve the two-year term on the Chapman Camp Village Commission, defeating his only opponent, Joseph Richard Clement, 54 votes to 27. Only 30.7 per cent of those eligible recorded their vote.

The byelection was necessitated by transfer of commissioner-elect Basil McDonnell to Trail by Cominco.

RANKED HIGH

FAO statistics for 1962 show Norway was No. 6 among the world's leading fishing nations, with total catch of 1,338,000 metric tons.

HEADS TRAIL CLUB ITALICO

TRAIL — Cesare Crema has been elected 1964 president of the Trail Club Italico.

The civil defence headquarters addition to the fire hall is to be completed by March 31.

Another motor will be placed in the crusher in preparation for the winter works general crushing project.

Girls Yes, The Press No!

A girl can change her mind about anything, as quickly and as often as she wishes.

This is traditional. It's a thing we've come to expect. But, it comes as a surprise when a newspaper adopts the same tactics. No editor should take a stand on an issue until he is satisfied with his own views.

The editorial reproduced below is a glaring example of what happens when (presumably from a lapse of memory, or worse), an editor takes both sides of an issue, only 12 days apart.

The following comments are taken from an editorial of February 1 from the same source as one reproduced below, of February 12:

"His (Mayor E. T. Bodard of Nelson) proposal that a telegram signed by 10,000 Kootenay citizens should be sent to Prime Minister Pearson urging ratification of the (Columbia) Treaty and its protocol is a good one, but it is properly within the field of the Chamber of Commerce."

"By all means let the chambers of commerce send a petition signed by 10,000 Kootenaians to the prime minister. By all means let the nation know where Kootenaians really stand."

Upon reading the editorial below, it will readily be seen that here we have a conflict of opinions.

No need for the petition on the Columbia, it states. Certainly not, in the sense that ratification needs salvation in the form of telegrams. The petition was not intended for this purpose. Nor was it intended as a show of non-confidence in the Dominion government. On the contrary, it was an opportunity for those who support the treaty to express their confidence in the government.

We thought it was a good idea on February 1, on February 12, and we still think so, regardless of how many signatures are obtained in Nelson, or in any other community.

The editorial follows:

Confidence Needs No Petition

As indicated in an editorial reproduced below, some anxiety has arisen in Nelson concerning an apparent absence of enthusiasm in Trail for a petition calling upon the prime minister to implement the Columbia River Treaty and protocol with every despatch.

The petition was the brainchild of Nelson's glory-boy mayor, Mr. Gene Bodard, who conceived it to be necessary to discredit, by means of a petition bearing 10,000 signatures, the anti-treaty attitude of the Member of Parliament for Kootenay West, Mr. Herbert W. Herridge.

The gathering of signatures for this petition seems to be going well in some places but the response in Trail has been a bit tardy. This is probably because the Trail Chamber of Commerce has not at its disposal the driving force found in other chambers elsewhere in the region.

But the failure of Trail to become greatly excited at the prospect of a petition to the prime minister may have other causes too.

It may well be that sensible people in Trail know what little value is to be attached to a petition.

In Canada, we do not have government by petition. We have government by statute devised by a responsible government and approved by a more or less responsible parliament.

It has probably occurred to a great many people in Trail that despatching of a petition urging the government to do what it says it is going to do, and that all of us know very well the government will do, is a rather ridiculous action.

Mr. Pearson and his senior cabinet colleagues have already made it perfectly clear that they will recommend to parliament the ratification of the treaty and protocol, and the statutory implementation of the treaty's projects.

A petition urging the government to precisely such a course of action therefore smacks of obtuseness.

There is no need for such a petition, no need in the slightest.

A government which has gone through all the phases of negotiation with the Americans, and an opposition with exactly similar experience, are hardly likely to be deterred now by the Member for Kootenay West. All that Mr. Herridge will say now he has said a score of times before, and what he has to say now is no more to be feared than it was on earlier occasions.

In the circumstances, it can be safely assumed that Mr. Pearson and his colleagues are well equipped to deal with the Member for Kootenay West, not being complete fools and not being without the best expert engineering and other advice available to a Dominion government.

Perhaps this is why many people in Trail are not rushing out to sign a petition. Perhaps they already have all the confidence in the Dominion government they need without resort to supplication by telegram. Perhaps they believe that a responsible government can be relied upon to do the right thing by the nation, including the right thing by the people of Kootenay West.

People Are Stubborn

It might or might not be a good thing for the human race if the tobacco plant, along with hemp, the poppy and the grape, could be extirpated. What should be noted, amid the current North American furor, is that determined efforts to eliminate cigarettes elsewhere have flopped.

For two years the British government, acting on a 1962 report from the Royal College of Physicians, has been conducting a vigorous anti-cigarette campaign by posters, lectures and exhortations to school children.

The net result: British cigarette sales went up from 109 billion in 1962 to 115 billion in 1963. British teenagers, according to one quite scarifying report, say they smoke cigarettes "to relieve the nervous tensions caused by our love affairs."

This may be depressing from the moralist's point of view; but here is a thought that might cheer him up. He has overlooked the elementary truth that widespread advertisement of any habit or experience as dangerous gives it a fascination many young persons find irresistible.

—Financial Post.

Cheers

When Winston Churchill drove from Monaco through Haute Provence with an escort of policemen and protographers, citizens of the little villages thought it was a wedding party and shouted: "Long live the bride." At the end of the trip, the former prime minister of England commented, "That was one of the nicest honeymoons I've ever had."

—Nice Matin.

Throne Speech Feb. 18

Railway Branch Lines Will Be Parliamentary Subject

By KEN KELLY

OTTAWA (CP) — Parliament faces the prospect of a long, hard, legislation-packed grind starting next week.

The government has given indications it will bring before Parliament major legislation in transportation, government organization, welfare and labor.

In addition, such major subjects as defence, foreign affairs and, of course, the budget will get their unusual big share of MPs' attention.

First peek at the legislative bill of fare will be given parliamentarians Tuesday with the reading of the speech from the throne by Governor - General Vanier. The rest of the week will be marked by Opposition Leader Diefenbaker launching the Opposition's criticisms and Prime Minister Pearson replying.

In the field of transportation, the government has said it plans to deal with the long-standing problem of abandonment of railway branch lines. Mr. Pearson has announced plans to create a special agency under the agriculture department to plan and supervise the future of branch lines.

ELEVATING RATES

Another government proposal may be to permit the railways to raise and lower their freight rates between specified minimums and maximums without prior approval by the Board of Transport Commissioners. This was one recommendation of the MacPherson royal commission on transportation in 1961-62.

The government's reorganization plans call for legislation to combine the departments of agriculture and forestry with two ministers — Agriculture Minister Hays and Forestry Minister Sauve at the head. Mr. Sauve will become minister of forestry and rural development.

The government also plans to ask parliamentary approval for creating a new department whose minister—Privy Council President McIlraith — will be designated president of the treasury board.

Besides acting as a watchdog on proposed government spending, the new minister will be responsible for government administrative co-ordination and standards and improving management in the public service.

In welfare, the revised Canada Pension Plan, changed to conform with the demand of the provincial governments, will be back before the Commons with the prospect of extended hearings on its provisions by a Commons committee.

LABOR CODE PROMISED

Labor Minister MacEachen has hinted the government is planning to introduce its promised federal labor code dealing with wages, hours, holidays and vacations in industries under federal jurisdiction.

Also in prospect in the labor field is a major overhaul of unemployment insurance legislation, possibly instituting a universal unemployment insurance fund covering some 6,000,000 Canadian workers.

Defence Minister Hellyer has been working on a white paper outlining future Canadian defence policy. He has said it probably will be presented to Parliament before the second week of March.

It may be referred to the Commons defence committee which is expected to be re-established. The committee made policy recommendations to the government at the last session.

Presentation of the budget, always a major event of the parliamentary session, is expected before mid-April. Finance Minister Gordon has already hinted at higher spending and pretty well ruled out major tax changes.

Another deficit is in prospect for the fiscal year which starts April 1.

In foreign affairs, the government faces opposition probing on whether Canada will participate in an international peacekeeping force for troubled Cyprus and whether Red China will get Canadian backing for a United Nations seat.

BRITAIN WANTS TROOPS

Britain has asked for 1,000 Canadian troops for a Cyprus force. Since Mr. Pearson's talks in January with Presidents de Gaulle and Johnson, diplomatic sources have forecast that Canada will be in Red China's corner for UN seat but won't extend diplomatic recognition to the mainland government.

The recently-signed financing and power-sale provisions of the Canada-United States treaty to develop the potential of the Columbia River is to go before a Commons committee.

Apart from these matters, early attention among the politicians will centre on eating arrangements in the Commons.

Both the Liberals and the Progressive Conservatives have new chief lieutenants to the party leaders.

Members may get an idea of Mr. Pearson's chief lieutenant from the arrangement made to provide him with a deskmate to replace Lionel Chevrier, who left the cabinet to become Canadian high commissioner to Britain. Current betting is that Justice Minister Favreau will get the nod.

Mr. Diefenbaker has already acknowledged Leon Balcer as deputy leader and Quebec lieutenant and may make him his seatmate in the adjoining desk occupied last session by George Nowlan.

One early formality will probably be the seating of two new MPs — Marcel Prud'homme, 29, a lawyer, and Fernand Leblanc, 46, a chartered accountant—who retained Montreal St. Denis and Montreal Laurier, respectively, for the Liberals in byelections Feb. 10.

A long list of additional governmental matters awaits Parliament. It includes:

1. Possible steps to protect Canadian publications from foreign competition.

2. An investigation by the Commons broadcasting committee of legislation governing broadcasting and operations of the publicly-owned CBC.

3. Promised postal rate increased on mailed advertising matter.

4. Establishment of an Indian claims commission.

5. Further committee study of government plans to split the Northwest Territories into two administrative units.

6. Applications to establish two new chartered banks in Western Canada and possible government legislation to guard against foreign control on chartered banks.

7. Completion on work on revision of election laws and establishing ground rules by legislation for redistributing parliamentary constituencies by independent commissions.

Diefenbaker Impresses French Language Papers

EDITORIALS

from French-language papers

Sherbrooke La Tribune—In certain circumstances Mr. John Diefenbaker can show himself to be a truly extraordinary man. He gave a new demonstration at the Conservative convention in Ottawa, during which he was confirmed in his functions as leader of the party. . . .

Despite this visible personal triumph of Mr. Diefenbaker, the Conservative party appeared deeply divided. The leader's speech was capable of repairing some cracks but it could not suffice to restore that unity so necessary to an opposition party aspiring to regain power.

Mr. Diefenbaker remains the undisputed leader, without doubt, but it is in order to point out that the convention delegates had no choice. If they had withdrawn their confidence from the former prime minister, they would have put themselves in the ridiculous position of a party that denies its leader but forgets to choose a replacement for him. Those who were against Mr. Diefenbaker had no successor to propose.

Barring sudden and unforeseen changes, Mr. Diefenbaker will thus lead the Conservative forces in the next federal election. We shall leave to the Liberals the care of evaluating their chances of winning, but it remains certain that Mr. Diefenbaker is capable of striking big blows and seriously weakening the Liberal positions. . . . (Feb. 6)

Quebec Le Soleil — Two events at the Conservative convention in Ottawa will stand out above all else: The overwhelming victory of John Diefenbaker, who was confirmed in his functions as party leader, and the nomination of Leon Balcer, member for Trois-Rivieres, as leader of the Quebec Conservative wing, which will entitle him to play the role of official spokesman for Quebec in the party and to become one of the chief, if not the chief, collaborators of Mr. Diefenbaker. . . .

While admitting that the initiative did not come from Mr. Diefenbaker, but from the Quebec Conservative wing, it must be recognized that he agreed without any reluctance or hesitation to the choice (of Mr. Balcer) made at the Quebec caucus, in Mr. Diefenbaker's presence, on motion of Paul Martineau, former mines minister. . . .

For the member for Trois-Rivieres this official recognition must have a flavor all its own and it ought to make him forget how slowly he climbed in the Conservative hierarchy. It has not been forgotten that he was one of the most tenacious opponents of Mr. Diefenbaker at the convention called to choose a leader after the departure of George Drew, and that he had to wait almost three years before getting an important cabinet post, after occupying the post of solicitor - general following the 1957 and 1958 elections. . . .

His task now will consist of regrouping the Conservative forces, to emphasize the presence of the French-Canadian element in his party, not only in matters concerning the leadership, but also in working out a program under the inspiration of policies that will take into account present conditions and the crisis the country is experiencing. (Feb. 7)

Quebec L'Action — Whether one likes it or not, a man who was head of state for a long time in a democracy remains the symbol and the image of the entire people whom he led. Stamping on the beaten man, pursuing him even into the grave to sully his memory hardly has any effect on the person thus loaded down with so much resentment. It is a period in the life of a people that is being put to shame.

That is the way it is with this debate as juvenile as it is odious that has arisen concerning the Duplessis monument.

The Duplessis administration, like any other political phase, knew its hours of initial greatness and of decadence. Like all governments, it accumulated mistakes and successes. The normal processes of democratic opinion decided, in the long run, that the mistakes had triumphed over the successes. . . .

Premier Duplessis is indeed a dead man still too much alive to have a monument erected to him. The controversy would annul any spirit of homage. Contemporary prejudices must never be substituted for the judgment of history. If there is no charity, we ought at least to recognize the difficulties of government in an era when the successor is always fixing things so as to condemn his predecessor. . . .

The Duplessis monument has been consigned to the dungeon by his enemies and his friends would like to bring it out. Their quarrel in the legislature was so wretched that there is probably no malice left to pour out. Call a truce in this wrangling and posterity will find the way to speak out, if this is necessary, to rehabilitate an era in the history of Quebec, not just a single man. For the era and the man are tied together — Lornzo Pare. (Feb. 7)

Montreal La Press — A ray of hope has begun to shine for our French - speaking Catholic compatriots of Manitoba.

The throne speech inaugurating the Manitoba session promised a governmental declaration on the relations between the public school system and private schools. . . .

There are grounds for believing that, if the government intends to pronounce itself on this prickly question (which does not interest only Catholics), it is because it is disposed to do something. It has never felt the need for formulating a position for the purpose of doing nothing.

All the people of Quebec will turn their eyes toward Winnipeg for the next while, to see what Premier Duff Roblin has decided. It is our ardent wish that they shall not be disappointed. . . .

The private or separate parochial school is not prohibited but it may as well be. You have to be truly a 110 per cent believer to accept a system under which you are taxed for the school you attend and for the one you don't attend.

It ought not to be believed that the Roblin government has decided, all in one stroke and by pure accident, to become a crusader on this question. If it agrees, finally, to accept its responsibilities and to indicate of what metal it is made, it is because the advocates of the denominational school (even a certain number of Protestants) have been pressing hard upon it for some time. They are at the end of their patience and they are not letting up, because the private parochial school is famished and threatening to expire.

The taxpayers who pay double taxation believe they have been victims of this injustice rather long enough. . . .— Vincent Prince. (Feb. 7)

CIVIL DEFENCE

At the municipal level as elsewhere, Civil Defence planning should be considered an emergency activity of government for which plans must be made ahead of time as a normal procedure.

Income Tax for the Worker

By C. A. MILLER

When a husband and wife have separated in the taxation year, they are often at a loss as to what exemptions they are allowed to claim.

The exemptions allowable depend on whether the separation was by written agreement, court order or other legal proceedings. For the husband, it will also depend on his wife's income, if any, before the separation. If the wife had no income and was supported by the husband before separation, he can claim $1000 for her.

If he was ordered by the courts to make payments to her after the separation, then he should claim the greater of $1000 exemption or the total of the separation payments. He cannot claim both. If his wife became employed after separation, what she earned has no bearing on the husband's return.

In the case of the wife receiving separation payments which the courts had ordered, she must report them as income on her return. If her husband pays her any amount in excess of what the court has ordered, such excess need not be shown on her return. Likewise the husband cannot deduct the excess on his return.

If there were children and the custody of them was given to the wife, then she is allowed to claim the equivalent to married on one child, and any other child can only be claimed for the applicable deduction for such a child.

Separations by mutual consent without legal action have no special provisions. For income tax purposes, the same procedure applies as if they were living together.

For personal replies pertaining to income tax problems, please enclose a self-addressed five cent stamped envelope and 25c in coin for question you wish answered and mail to the Daily News.

QUESTION: My wife left me and went back to her parents. She sued me for support and I have to pay her $100 a month. Do I claim exemption for her or deduct the payments I make?

ANSWER: This is deemed to be a legal separation. You will deduct the amount you paid her in the year.

QUESTION: My wife and I were both employed. We decided to separate and live apart. I give her extra cash and buy some of her clothes. What is my exemption?

ANSWER: $1000 as it is presumed she earns more than $1250 in the year.

Interpreting the News

By ALAN HARVEY
Canadian Press Staff Writer

Western comment on French recognition of Communist China tends to overlook a vital point—how will it affect Peking?

Early reaction to France's new Oriental look, mainly interprets the French action as another victory for Gaullist diplomacy, and another rebuff for the United States.

More important in the long term may be whether Mao Tse-tung's China is finally moving out of the isolation imposed upon her first by the U.S. and later by the Soviet Union, and whether the increased contacts with the outside world will rub some of the rough edges off China's mood of revolutionary intransigence.

Chou En-lai's visit to Africa and the soothing bedside manner he employed in his talks with African leaders indicate that for the time being the Red Dragon is no longer breathing fire.

Obviously, China is interested in gaining Afro-Asian friends through diplomacy as well as armed strength.

WEST OFFERS MORE

The interesting point is whether China's main interest will remain with the poor, undeveloped areas or whether, in pursuit of trade, she will turn increasingly to the rich, developed countries that have so much more to offer, however alien their ideology.

Tempted by the propaganda potential of Africa and Asia, China may nevertheless find greater attractions in the commercial opportunities offered by more industrial countries.

Already, Western trade missions are jostling for priority in Peking and there are clear signs that the Chinese are not averse to being courted.

The Sino-Soviet rupture must be a major factor in future Chinese calculations. A few years ago Peking was heavily dependent on Russian trade; the ideological schism signalled a sharp drop in Soviet supplies.

ONCE BITTEN, TWICE SHY

Mao Tse-tung's men appear determined not to be caught in the same trap again. Indications are that they want to diversify their trade as much as possible, and their commercial net is being cast widely in Britain, France, Italy and elsewhere.

The possibilities in relation to future Chinese developments are obvious.

Nearly two centuries ago, it is recalled in London, a Chinese emperor wrote to King George III of England saying that Oriental countries attached no value to the "ingenios objects" of Occidental trade. Today there seems no such indifference to such "ingenious objects" as chemical fertilizers, machine tools and other Western industrial products.

RCN Enlisted All It Needed Says Recruiter

VANCOUVER (CP) — The Royal Canadian Navy enlisted only 51 persons in December "because that is all we needed," the RCN's recruiting officer for British Columbia said Wednesday night.

Lt.-Cmdr. W. F. McGown was commenting on an Ottawa report that the bottom has fallen out of navy recruiting.

He said since the navy established a manpower ceiling of 20,700, "rather than recruit to build over-all strength we now just have to recruit to maintain numbers."

Defence department officials said in Ottawa that they attributed a big drop in enlistments to several factors. Prominent were cancellation of the superfrigate program, mothballing of 14 older warships and the attack on the navy last summer by retired commodore James Plomer.

Lt.-Cmdr. McGowan said the navy now is in the position where it can recruit men with better education and all-round qualifications.

"The navy has a waiting list of qualified men and when they are needed, they are notified," he said. "I don't foresee any difficulty in recruiting the right sort of young man."

He said he had one of his biggest recruiting days here Wednesday. "Seventeen signed and one nursing sister."

In Victoria, Chief Petty Officer Edwin Moodie, local recruiting officer, said:

"We're just as busy with young men asking for information as we ever were."

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. B. Post of Kinnaird.

Attractively gowned in waltz-length white net over satin, the bride wore a lace jacket with three-quarter length sleeves over her frothy dress and a bandeau with short spotted veil as headdress. She carried a colonial bouquet of pink carnations and her only necklace was of pearls-on-ice, a gift of the bridegroom.

Her attendant, Miss Sandra Craig of Kinnaird, wore a white sheath with blue accessories and carried a white and blue colonial bouquet.

Mr. Gordon Dewar of Nelson was best man and Mr. Graham Walls, brother-in-law of the bridegroom, was usher.

Letters on Divorce Balance, Says Pearson

OTTAWA (CP) — Prime Minister Pearson told a delegation from the National Council of Women Thursday that he received an "almost equal" number of letters opposing changes in Canada's divorce laws as he did letters advocating changes.

The prime minister, who met with the delegation for more than 1½ hours, said his government was in a quandary about the laws on divorce and annulment because no clear cut majority of public opinion seemed to be shown.

He said the problem would have to be given much greater consideration before any action could be taken.

Included in the 17-page brief presented to the prime minister and members of the cabinet was a resolution recommending that a royal commission be set up to study divorce laws.

PROMISES FACTS

WINNIPEG (CP) — Premier Duff Roblin promised Wednesday to reveal all the technical aspects affecting the proposed Portage diversion from the Assiniboine River to Lake Manitoba.

PRINCE GEORGE (CP) — Loss was estimated at $40,000 in a fire which destroyed a service station, a store and an adjoining home Thursday just west of Prince George on the Vanderhoof Highway. Mr. and Mrs. Harry Peterson were owners.

Women Seek Better Deal for Themselves

Divorce Law Revision Among Few Requests of National Council

OTTAWA (CP)—The National Council of Women wants the federal government to set up a royal commission to study Canada's divorce laws.

In a brief Thursday to Prime Minister Pearson and his cabinet, the 700,000-member organization called the present divorce and annulment laws "narrow, outdated and illogical."

It said they "invite continued fraud upon the courts and Parliament."

The strongly - worded resolution, one of 16 presented, said recommendations of a royal commission would "acquaint the public with the evils of the present situation, and provide an objective and non-partisan basis for amending the laws."

"The need and desire for change is recognized across Canada."

The council, which presents a brief to the federal government annually is made up of 2000 federated societies in Canada.

Three resolutions suggested amendments to the Income Tax Act.

One asked that a dependent spouse be allowed to earn $950 without reducing the exemption of the other spouse. A wife now is permitted to earn $250 before her husband's marital exemption is reduced.

Another requested that deductions from taxable income be allowed to those employing full-time household assistants. A deduction now is allowed for a full-time servant who lives in.

The third asked that a husband employing his wife in private business be allowed to claim remuneration paid to her as an income producing expense.

The appointment of not fewer than four women to the Board of Broadcast Governors was sought on grounds that "the women of Canada comprise a very large segment of the listening and viewing audience of radio and television . . . and the listening and viewing of children is controlled generally by their mothers."

The resolution asked that at least one of the four women be from a rural area and that at least one be a full-time member of the board.

The BBG now has 12 part-time and three full-time members. Only one, a part-time member, is a woman. She is Mrs. Lorraine Sweatman of Winnipeg.

Recommendations also were made regarding the integration of North American Indians into communities throughout Canada, further studies of part-time work for women, the preservation of national parks, and the elimination of hazardous level crossings.

The brief was presented to the prime minister by an eight-woman delegation led by Mrs. Saul Hayes of Montreal, national president.

BROWNIES ENTERTAIN AT TEA

WILLOW POINT —A successful Valentine tea was held on Wednesday by the First and Second Willow Point Brownie packs. The church hall was filled to capacity with many mothers and friends of the girls. The tea tables were decorated with Valentine flowers and with heart-shaped napkins, made by the girls. The hall was suitably decorated with the Valentine theme.

The junior Brownies arrived early to do their part in setting up tables and put out the daily decorated cookies. The senior brownies looked after the many guests, thus putting into practice one of their many brownie tests.

Brown Owl Mrs. W. Hamilton, welcomed everyone and mentioned the proceeds would go to buy brownie supplies for the two groups, which number 42.

A group of brownies entertained with a few songs during tea and a popular spot was the candy guessing table, which was won by Mrs. J. Richards.

Leaders Mrs. H. Learmonth, Mrs. G. Bond, and Mrs. R. Haycroft and Brown Owl looked after the kitchen.

Women Liberals Hear Byrne on Washington Trip

Mr. Byrne was a member of the Canadian parliamentary group attending a joint Canadian - American "in camera" discussion of mutual problems. He was accompanied on the trip by Mrs. Byrne.

An informal question and answer period followed.

Plans were completed to hold the annual contest for a hand-carved purse to provide funds for the Association's teaching scholarship.

Notre Dame Knights grabbed the first five spots in the final scoring statistics of the Kootenay International Junior Hockey League.

Miles Desharnais won the scoring title with a total of 43 points and also tied for the most goals and assists. His effort keeps the trophy on the NDU shelf, as Colin Patterson won the title for Notre Dame last season.

Desharnais scored 20 goals, the same as Redford McDougall of Gonzaga Bulldogs and Pat Riva of the Knights.

Runnerup to Desharnais in the scoring totals, teammate Jim Shkwarok tied the Cranbrook product in most assists, each with 23.

Jets Sink Smoke Eaters

Playoff Hopes Gone for Trail

TRAIL (Special to the Daily News) — Spokane Jets prepared the coffin for the playoff hopes of Trail Smoke Eaters here Thursday night by lacing them 5-2 in a Western International Hockey League game. All that remains is for someone to drive the last nail.

Nearly 800 Cominco Arena fans watched as Jets virtually eliminated the Smokies from the playoffs.

Trail is seven points behind the fourth-place Rossland Warriors and has only four games left in the regular schedule. Rossland, with 37 points, has three games in hand over the Smokies.

The Jets propelled themselves into a 2-0 lead in the first period and after a scoreless second period went on to clinch the game with three more goals to Trail's two in the third period.

Lorne Nadeau and Joe Morneau counted twice for Spokane, the fifth coming from Tom Hodges. Norm Lenardon and Cal Hockley potted Trail's goals.

Mickey Caputo chose Spokane goalie Kuntz, Nadeau and McLaren as three stars.

The game was rough with Jets picking up seven minors and a 10-minute misconduct, the major coming when Buddy Bodman argued with the referee over a bench penalty called against Spokane. Trail received four minors.

The major followed a hot session with the referee as Nadeau took the penalty when Jets were declared to have too many men on the ice.

Lineups:

Spokane — Goal, Kuntz; defence, McGowan, McDonald, Collins, Hodges; forwards, Gibson, Morneau, Kenny, Turlik, Goodwin, Boyce, Bahr, Nadeau, Bodman, Johnson.

Suspensions Follow Kimberley Fracas; Others Face Penalties

TRAIL (CP) — Two players have been suspended and others face possible suspension or fine pending an investigation by the Western International Hockey League into a fracas in Kimberley Tuesday night, league secretary Glenn Mason of Trail said Thursday.

Reo Touzin of Kimberley, who received a match penalty during a game between Kimberley Dynamiters and Spokane Jets Tuesday, is under automatic suspension because of the penalty until the B.C. Amateur Hockey Association rules on the incident.

Don MacDonald of Spokane has been suspended by the WIHL. Length of the suspension will not be known until the investigation is complete.

"We are investigating the whole incident and possible disciplinary action against others is pending," Mr. Mason said.

The incident arose out of a fight between MacDonald and Kimberley forward Walt Peacosh.

MacDonald first picked up a minor penalty for a rough body check.

The Spokane player then started to hit Peacosh and was given a five-minute misconduct and after officials failed to stop MacDonald, they handed him a further 10-minute misconduct.

REO TOUZIN
. . . suspended

Touzin cross-checked MacDonald during the fracas and later was involved in another fight with MacDonald and was given the match penalty.

Spokane players then left their bench and immediately all the other Kimberley players skated on the ice, touching off a major incident between the two clubs.

Bruce Kidd Still Unbeaten at Garden

NEW YORK (AP) — Bruce Kidd of Toronto's East York Track Club held on to his record of never being beaten at Madison Square Garden by winning the two-mile run in a pulsating finish in eight minutes 42.6 seconds at the New York Athletic Club games Thursday night.

Kidd, 20-year-old University of Toronto student and winner of this same Toussaint Cup two-mile in both 1962 and 1963, took the lead late, lost it, then bolted from behind to nip Bob Schul of Oxford, Ohio, by two feet.

Ron Clarke of Australia, who recently broke the world outdoor six-mile and 10,000-yard records in Melbourne, was third and Pat Clohessy of the Texas Olympic Club fourth.

Schul's time was 8:42.8, Clarke's 8:43.8 and Clohessy's 8:50.8.

In nine starts in New York in four years, Kidd has never lost a race, winning eight of the Garden track and one at Van Cortlandt Park in Bronx. He holds the Garden and meet two-mile records of 8:30, set last year.

Another Torontonian, Bill Crothers, won the 880-yard event earlier in the evening in one minute, 50.8 seconds — one-tenth of a second off the meet record.

Little Tom O'Hara of Chicago Loyola raced to a record indoor mile of 3:56.6.

Poile Ousted, Stays as Boss

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Norman (Bud) Poile was ousted as coach of the sagging San Francisco Seals Thursday and replaced by National Hockey League veteran Nick Mickoski, the club's leading scorer last year.

Coleman E. Hall, president of the Western Hockey League franchise, said Poile would remain as the Seals' manager, a job he has also been handling.

The Seals, who won the league championship after finishing second in the WHL Southern Division last year, have lost eight straight in their most recent slump. They are in fifth place in the six-club league.

In explaining his decision, Hall said: "Hockey today is big business, and the manager has enough to do without worrying about coaching. Now Bud can devote full time to his duties in the front office."

Poile had major-league hockey experience with Toronto, Chicago, Detroit, New York and Boston.

The Big M Stays - Imlach

TORONTO (CP) — It looks as though the Big M will be staying with Toronto Maple Leafs.

Coach Punch Imlach indicated Thursday night he wants to keep Frank Mahovlich for the balance of this National Hockey League season.

And vice-president Harold Ballard of Maple Leaf Gardens brushed aside any straight money deal to buy the Toronto left winger.

"Greenback won't play hockey for you," Ballard said in an interview. "If you remember, we were once offered $1,000,000 for him."

Imlach gave out orders Thursday re-uniting Mahovlich with his former linemates, winger Red Kelly and centre Bob Nevin. The line counted 89 goals in the 1960-61 season.

IOC Head Retires

LAUSANNE, Switzerland (AP) —A triumvirate of world sport officials is to reorganize the secretariat of the International Olympic Committee following the resignation of chancellor Otto Mayer, IOC sources said Thursday night.

Mayer, 63-year-old Swiss jeweller and diamond merchant, said earlier in the day that he will retire on Oct. 1. Mayer has directed the IOC secretariat without salary since the end of the Second World War. He has helped organize 10 Summer and Winter Olympics, including the Innsbruck games which ended Sunday.

The three officials named to reorganize the IOC secretariat are Mayer's younger brother, Albert, president of the Swiss Olympic Committee; Marc Hodler, Swiss president of the International Ski Federation, and Mohhammed Taher, special assistant to IOC President Avery Brundage of Chicago.

The reasons for Mayer's resignation or for the reorganization were not announced.

REAL MADRID OUSTS MILAN

CP from Reuters-AP

MILAN — Five-time champion Real Madrid of Spain Thursday eliminated defending-champion Milan of Italy from this season's European Cup soccer competition.

Milan won the second leg of the two-game home-and-home quarter-final here 2-0. But the Spaniards, 4-1 winners of the first leg, qualified on aggregate 4-3 to enter the semi-final.

Injured Howe Leads Detroit to 4-1 Win

DETROIT (AP) — Gordie Howe, playing despite a groin injury, broke up a tight game with two goals midway in the third period Thursday night to give Detroit Red Wings a 4-1 NHL triumph over Boston Bruins.

Howe stole the puck from Bruin defenceman Leo Boivin who had spilled Howe earlier, and scored at 12:10 of the final period. He clicked again at 1400.

Howe's 17th and 18th goals and first-period markers by Floyd Smith and Norm Ullman, boosted the Wings to their fourth straight victory, their best string of the season.

The victory also moved Detroit to within four points of the slumping third-place Toronto Maple Leafs and gave the Wings a seven-point cushion over New York Rangers in the battle for fourth place — the final Stanley Cup playoff spot.

Johnny Bucyk scored the lone Boston goal at 2:57 of the second period.

Bruin goalie Ed Johnston was outstanding with 42 saves to only 18 by Detroit's Terry Sawchuk.

Detroit defenceman Doug Barkley was taken to hospital for x-rays of his cheekbone after running into Jean-Guy Gendron. Bruin rookie Gary Dorhoefer played the last two periods wearing a helmet after being knocked unconscious early in the game by an elbow from Larry Jeffrey.

Both Barkley and Dornhoefer suffered broken cheekbones and will be lost indefinitely to their teams. The injuries were verified at hospital.

The Wings had U.S. Olympic team goalkeeper Pat Rupp on hand Thursday night as standby goalie. Red Wing officials said if Rupp's obligations with Philadelphia of the Eastern Amateur League can be settled, the netminder wil back up Terry Sawchuk again Saturday in Montreal.

Detroit holds pro rights to Rupp, but he has signed to play with the Philadelphia amateur team.

Menard, 22, has scored 18 goals at Cincinnati.

Faulkner has a badly sprained right ankle.

The Red Wings meet the Canadiens at Montreal Saturday and play a return match in Detroit Sunday.

Insults Fly as Clay, Liston Meet Press

Preparing to face less passive opponents, RCAF Officer Cadet James H. James works out in the gymnasium at Royal Roads where the annual boxing championship will shortly take place. Cadet James, 19, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. G. James, 623 Latimer Street, is now in his first year at the Canadian Services College where heavy emphasis is placed on physical fitness as well as academic attainment. His present training will lead to commissioned rank on completion of his university degree. Cadet James was active in the Air Force Cadets at Nelson. In the summer of 1962 he was one of 18 Canadian Air Cadets who travelled to Europe on a three-week exchange visit.

Reporters 1500 Miles Away Talk to Two Camps

By JACK HAND

NEW YORK (AP) — Cassius Clay and Sonny Liston swapped insults Thursday in an unusual press conference carried by closed - circuit television from their Miami Beach, Fla., training camps to a laboratory on Long Island, N.Y.

Clay boxed one fast round, concentrating on moving backward. Liston pummeled the heavy bag for three minutes. Then they settled back for questions at their separate camps from reporters located some 1,500 miles away.

The conference was arranged by Theatre Network Television, which will carry the Feb. 25 heavyweight title fight.

"I'm going to upset the whole world," said Clay, known as the Louisville Lip and with good reason.

Clay went into his routine, more expansive than ever.

PREDICTS EIGHT

"I'm predicting eight to prove I'm great," he rhymed. "If he whups me, I'm leaving the country. I'm bigger than he is. I'll be about 221 pounds. This is not going to be a giant fighting any Floyd Patterson."

After listening to Clay promise again that, if he loses, he will crawl across the ring on his hands and knees and kiss Liston's shoes, the cameras switched to Liston.

Sonny sat at ringside with a towel over his head and beads of sweat standing on his face.

"He'll still be talking on the way down," said the world heavyweight champion. "I want to keep up that one - round knockout record as long as I can. All I have to do is corner him and clobber him."

At the end of the interview Clay and Liston engaged in a spirited exchange that may have lasted longer than the fight will.

WENT LIKE THIS

It went something like this:

Liston: "Would he want to fight me winner take all?"

Clay: "I tell you what we'll do. Your backers take their cut and mine take theirs and I'll meet you at the front door."

Liston: "Listen, Cassius, I'm gonna give you half of mine if you show up."

Clay: "Listen to the king. I'm going to whup you. If I do will you crawl across the ring and kiss my feet?"

Liston: "I'm not going to be around that long waiting for you to come to . . . but if you last through the third round into the fourth I'll kiss your feet."

Clay: "Only one thing I hate —my man, Joe Louis, is with you. He belongs to me. Chump, you are gonig to embarrass Joe Louis. I'm the king. I'm the king."

Boxer Injured

PONTEDERA, Italy (AP)— World junior middleweight boxing champion Alessandro Mazzinghi was injured Tuesday night in an automobile accident and the bride he married nine days ago was killed.

Police said Mazzighi's car ran off the highway and crashed against a tree.

His bride, the former Vera Maffei, died of a skull fracture. Mazzinghi suffered a stomach injury and severe facial bruises.

The Italian boxer won the world championship from American Ralph Dupas in Italy last Sept. 6. He successfully defended the title in a return bout with Dupas in Sydney Australia, last November.

"Big Man" Should Run Pro Tourneys—Palmer

NEW CORK (AP)— What pro golf needs, says Arnold Palmer are fewer tournaments and a "big man" to run them.

Also, the golfing star from Labtrobe, Pa., added Wednesday, the current television squabble between the sponsors and players is ridiculous and could not occur if the game were placed in the hands of a single, strong executive.

"We need a man such as Joe Day (executive director of the U.S. Golf Association) to administer our affairs," Palmer said. "He should be an executive, with power to make decisions, such as on this television question.

"It is ridiculous to put such important decisions in the hands of a players' committee. Jay Hebert (chairman of the players' committee) shouldn't be making decisions and announcements on long range policy. Our players' committees change from one year to the next."

Palmer said the tour needed a director with broader powers than those now vested in Jim Gaquin, the present nominal head of the tour.

"Don't misunderstand me, Jim is a very fine guy and quite capable in his field, he added. "But he is a newspaper man. His field is public relations. He knows little about the actual operations of the tour."

FAVORS 30 TOURS

"With 30 tournaments, I think all the top players would play in all of them, or virtually all of them. I know I would. With more than that, it is necessary to lay out at times for rest and practice, and this agitates sponsors.

"I don't mean there couldn't be more than 30 but there should only be 30 approved events. Others could be held on a non-sanctioned basis, a sort of secondary tour, if the players wanted it."

Palmer was the leading money winner last year with a record $128,230.

Palmer, here to add a laundry and dry cleaning business to his mushrooming enterprises frankly discussed the ticklish issue threatening to drive a wedge between the tournament players and the men who put up the money.

The players are demanding rights to the television money. The sponsors contend this should be part of their revenue.

Palmer hasn't chosen sides in the dispute but currently he seems more in the corner of the sponsors.

REGINA (CP) — Programs which will benefit Saskatchewan's population are more important in the eyes of the provincial government than reduction of debt or taxes, premier Woodrow Lloyd said Wednesday during debate on the address in reply to the speech from the throne.

Real Goal Fitness, Not Stars, For School Children of B.C.

By ROGER STONEBANKS

VICTORIA (CP)—If another Harry Jerome emerges from the British Columbia school fitness program in future years, the authorities won't really mind.

In fact, they suspect that with more emphasis on fitness, it's inevitable that more topnotch athletes will be turned out, even if they don't quite match the calibre of the world - class sprinter.

But the real goal is simply fitness for its own sake, and if the program does no more than instil good habits that will carry on into adulthood, they'll be satisfied.

School children in B.C. are spending 10 per cent more time in fitness training than they did three years ago, and they're not complaining.

"We are aiming at a minimum of three periods a week at all schools," says Education Minister Leslie Peterson who outlined the program in 1960 and had it instituted the following year.

Peterson, who keeps himself in trim with daily exercises plus volleyball sessions at the YMCA, says the objective is mass participation.

NOT AFTER STARS

"There used to be too much emphasis on team sports and reserving of fields and gymnasiums for the top teams to practise. There was not enough mass participation.

"The aim is to produce physically fit children, not star athletes, but with greater emphasis on participation there is bound to be some filtering up of talent."

This Saturday, the second provincial amateur sports and physical fitness conference will be held in New Westminster. Among those attending will be federal Health Minister Judy LaMarsh and Jim Worrall, president of the Canadian Olympic Association.

"The purpose of the conference is to bring B.C. sports and fitness leaders together to enable them to discuss trends, developments and procedure and to make themselves aware of services available for the improvement of sports and fitness programs," says Peterson.

Encouragement has been given to track and field competitions in conjunction with the Royal Canadian Legion Junior Olympic program but otherwise no single sport is emphasized.

One of Peterson's complaints is that too many parents are leaving the whole fitness field to the school. They should take a hand in promoting fitness among their children, he says.

And he is giving a personal lead in this direction, working out with his 11-year-old son Raymond for 10 or 15 minutes each morning on the RCAF 5BX exercises.

LITTLE GRIEVANCE—It took some small talk from the little guys in foreground to go over big with the members of the Toronto, Canada, City Parks and Recreation committee at a recent meeting. Dressed in over-sized hockey uniforms, the youngsters made a pitch for a place to play hockey. The committee approved construction of a $700,000 artificial ice arena in a park.

Swedes Yielding to Cash, Age, Jealousy

STOCKHOLM (AP) — The end of the road may be in sight for Sweden's national hockey team, the winner of the silver medal at the Winter Olympics at Innsbruck, Austria, last week and world champions just two years ago.

A combination of age, jealousy and cash appear to be the primary factors behind the breakup.

Newspaper reports say the 8-3 victory over Czechoslovakia which clinched the Olympic silver medal was the last appearance for several of the team's internationally known veterans. Even Sven Tumba Johansson, team captain, veteran of four Olympics and national hero for a decade has been unable to prevent the breakup.

Actually, the seeds for the split were planted last fall when three members of the team trained with National Hockey League teams in the United States and Canada.

Ulf Sterner, who trained with New York Rangers, has said he will sign a contract with the NHL team. Carl-Goran Oberg and goalie Kjell Svensson trained with Toronto Maple Leafs but have not announced their plans as yet.

STERNER IS ANNOYED

Sterner, who shared the Olympic scoring title with Johansson, was reportedly annoyed with criticism of his play from Rudolf Ekloew, sports editor of Sweden's biggest morning paper, Dagens Nyheter, and a vice - president of the Swedish Ice Hockey Association.

Nils Nilsson, a high scoring centre and Roland Stoltz, a burly defenseman, told reporters there had been too much coddling of certain players on the team.

"I say no thanks to any international meets from now on," said Nilsson.

Hans Mild, another star, returned to Stockholm.

"I would never have gone to Innsbruck if I had known it would turn out like this," he said, referring to the atmosphere within the team.

"No fun to play with them any more," said Gert Blome, another defenseman.

Several of the players on the team have capitalized handsomely by manufacturing ing hockey equipment. They compete openly here with trade marks referring directly to their initials.

AL Ball Clubs Head For Stadium Clash

KANSAS CITY (AP)—Owner Charles O. Finley of Kansas City Athletics and other American League club owners appear on the way to another collision after a session here Wednesday left Finley and the city still far apart over a stadium lease.

In the first collision Jan. 16 in New York, the owners flatly rejected Finley's bid to move to Louisville and by a 9-1 vote ordered him to sign a lease in Kansas City by Feb. 1 or face expulsion from the league.

The deadline was extended to Saturday after Finley said he might take his case to court and hired Louis Nizer, famed trial attorney.

It's doubtful a lease will be signed before the deadline and the league is expected to call another meeting for next week. Finley obtained a firm commitment from Oakland, Calif., Jan. 27 and it's likely he'll ask the league for permission to move the club to Oakland.

The club owners doubtless will first try to get Finley and the city together on a compromise three-year pact. Failing that, the owners would then seem to have only two other choices:

1. Grant him permission to move the club to Oakland.

2. Follow through with their threat to take over Finley's franchise, thereby risking a law suit.

The owners want to avoid a law suit if possible because they fear a change in the baseball's exemption from anti-trust laws.

All talks of a compromise evaporated at the session Wednesday when Finley insisted at the outset he couldn't and wouldn't sign for more than two years. The city seeks a four or five year pact.

Set World Speed Skating Marks

OSLO, Norway (AP) — Two world speed skating records were set Tuesday night in a post - Olympic meet at Bislet Stadium.

Ants Antson, the Soviet Union's 1,500-metre Olympic gold medalist, set a record of four minutes, 27.3 seconds for the 3,000 - metre event. The time was three-tenths of a second faster than the mark set by Sweden's Johnny Nilsson at Tolga, Norway last year.

Japan's Keitti Suzuki became the first speed skater to break the 40-second barrier for 500 metres on a lowland rink. Suzuki won the event in 39.9, two-tenths of a second faster than Terry McDermott's winning Olympic time. McDermott, a barber from Essexville, Mich., did not skate in Tuesday's competition.

Suzuki placed fifth in the 500 metres at Innsbruck.

Japan Pressured For China Recognition

By JOHN RODERICK

TOKYO (AP) — Japan's left wing and some businessmen are applying the pressure on the government to follow the example of France and recognize Communist China.

Prime Minister Hayato Ikeda refuses to be stampeded into abandoning his policy of non-recognition. But he shows signs of wavering on some points.

In debate with the Socialists and Communists in parliament Wednesday, Ikeda conceded that a new situation would arise should Red China be seated in the United Nations this fall as the sole representative of the Chinese people.

If that happens, Foreign Minister Masayoshi Ohira told Socialist Shichiro Hozumi, Japan will "normalize" its diplomatic relations with the mainland. He did not use the word recognition, however. This position leaves the conservative government room to manoeuvre once the issue reaches the decision-making stage.

UNDETERMINED POLICY

Ohira said Japan has yet to determine what policy to follow toward the question of seating the Red Chinese in the United Nations. This appeared to be a retreat from declarations that Japan and the United States would consult closely with the view of staving off Red Chinese entry.

Business pressure for closer ties with Peking has come from firms that believe a considerable expansion of trade between the two countries is possible. Such leaders of Ikeda's Liberal - Democratic party as former prime minister Tanzan Ishibashi and former ministers Kenzo Matsumura and Tatsunosuke Takasaki share this view.

TRADE LIMITED

Ikeda's answer is to point out that the government is stepping up economic exchanges on a non-governmental, non - political basis. But trade, totalling $123,000,000 in 1963, is limited. This figure could be enlarged considerably if Japan were to extend generous credit.

The United States and the Chinese Nationalists oppose any arrangements which could be interpreted as aid, not trade, with Red China.

The international trade and industry minister, Hajime Fukuda, told the legislators that Japan could not extend deferred payments to Peking. Despite Red China's rapid economic growth, he said, it remains relatively weak and Southeast Asia, Africa and Latin American have priorities for such favorable trade agreements.

DAILY CRYPTOQUOTE — Here's how to work it:
A X Y D L B A A X R
is L O N G F E L L O W

One letter simply stands for another. In this sample A is used for the three L's, X for the two O's, etc. Single letters, apostrophies, the length and formation of the words are all hints. Each day the code letters are different.

Fierce Fighting Breaks Out Again On Cyprus

NICOSIA, Cyprus — Heavy fighting broke out Thursday in the southern port of Limassol and casualties among Turkish-Cypriots were reported running high before the British arranged a cease-fire.

The British said it appeared the fighting had stopped at 11:30 a.m. (1:30 a.m. PST). For a time the Greek - Cypriots seemed to be on the verge of wiping out the Turks there.

British military sources said about 50 persons have been killed and 100 wounded in the inter-communal fighting at Lamassol.

Maj.-Gen. Peter Young, British commander of the Cyprus truce force, had flown to Limassol with the Greek-Cypriot interior minister, Polycarpos Yeogodjis, to talk to the combatants.

The fighting broke a cease-fire between Greek- and Turkish-Cypriots reached Wednesday night.

Limassol was the scene of bitter fighting Wednesday which flared anew Thursday.

It was the highest casualty toll on the strife-torn island since pre - Christmas fighting claimed the lives of between 200 and 300 persons.

The latest clashes came as George Ball, U.S. undersecretary of state, headed into his second day of talks with Cypriot officials to try to find a solution to the Cyprus problem.

The battle between the Greek- and Turkish - Cypriots came after President Makarios was reported by Greek-Cypriot sources to have rejected a British-American peace plan calling for an international peace-keeping force.

An informed British source said the Turks had been taking "a very bad beating" from the Greek - Cypriots and were in danger of being wiped out.

The Turkish - Cypriots in the area were reported surrounded and the source said the Greeks have launched a complete military operation against them.

The government radio said the new battle, the third in as many days at Limassol, broke out at dawn around Berengaria Castle at the approaches of the second largest city of Cyprus.

The Turkish - Cypriots reported they could last only two hours without calling in help.

There are an estimated 6,000 Britons, including military families, living in Limassol.

The British and Americans have proposed an international peacekeeping force for the island of 10,000 men. Under original proposals the force was to be made up from NATO countries.

However, Makarios wanted the force linked to the United Nations Security Council.

British and American specialists were reported in Washington to be working on a fall-back proposal, ordered after Ball's lack of progress was reported to President Johnson and British Prime Minister Sir Alec Douglas-Home.

MORE COFFEE TO OFFSET PRICES

LONDON (AP)—The International Coffee Council agreed Wednesday night to put 2,300,000 more bags of coffee on world markets to help ease rising coffee prices.

This quantity, representing roughly five per cent of the present yearly total of coffee exported by producer countries, will be exported until Oct. 1, 1964.

The 1963-4 quota, which this year stood at 99 per cent of the basic quota, was raised to 102.15 per cent.

The quota increase will provide 1,352,000 bags. The other 948,000 bags will come from temporary and exceptional increases.

Boston Police Take Interest In Latest California Slaying

By JAMES CALOGERO

BOSTON (AP)—Reports of a fourth unsolved strangling in northern California has stirred more than casual interest in Boston, in spite of a geographical separation of nearly 3,000 miles.

Especially interested is a group of men in the office of the Massachusetts attorney-general, Edward W. Brooke. They have the job of co-ordinating the efforts of eastern Massachusetts police trying to solve the strangulations of 11 women in the last 20 months.

Jerry Sadow, an aide in the attorney - general's office said Wednesday a professional kinship exists between the police of the U.S. East and West Coasts because of the stranglings—"although any connection between the two sets of slayings is highly unlikely."

No arrests have been made in any of the 11 Massachusetts stranglings, although police have accumulated four large filing cabinets of investigation reports.

Eight of the slayings were in Boston and one each in the cities of Lynn, Salem and Lawrence, all just north of Boston.

FORM COMMISSION

Until three weeks ago, each Boston-area police department worked independently in its investigations. Last month, in the face of public criticism over lack of arrests, Brooke formed a co-ordinating commission of high police officials and put one of his assistants, John S. Bottomly in charge.

A computer is being used, Brooke said, "to enable law enforcement officials to compare and correlate all significant information, evidence and leads."

Bottomly explained use of the computer would enable investigators to create a psychological profile of the killer or killers.

The attorney - general's office—using private funds—even went so far as to engage the services of Peter Hurkos, 52, who claims extrasensory perception, in their efforts to nab the killer or killers.

Hurkos said he believes all 11 unsolved women stranglings in Eastern Massachusetts were committed by one man.

EXAMINE SUSPECT

Hurkos pointed a finger of suspicion to a man Brooke said came "uncannily close" to the description of a shoe salesman who already had been taken into custody. The man is undergoing mental tests.

A few days after leaving Boston, Hurkos was arrested in New York on charges of impersonating an FBI agent in Wisconsin. He said it was all a misunderstanding.

Most of the women victims in Massachusetts were strangled with items of their own clothing — nylon stockings, a bra, an underslip.

Nearly all had been sexually molested. All but two lived alone. The other two had roommates who were not at home at the time. In no case was there any evidence of forced entry.

An aide in the attorney - general's office said "the slayings on the West Coast seem to show many similarities to ours, but they could be as wide apart in any connection as the mileage between the two coasts."

Boston police sent one of their top homicide investigators, Lieut. John Donovan, to Oakland, Calif., after Mrs. Mary E. Martin, 43, and her daughter, Carolyn, 18, were strangled and sexually abused in their home Jan. 22.

SEES NO CONNECTION

He said there were no connections between those slayings and those in Massachusetts.

Since then two other women have been slain in northern California, the most recent this week.

Near Monterey, Calif., 125 miles from Oakland and San Francisco Bay, an 18-year-old hotel maid was found on a lonely road Tuesday, strangled with her own brassiere. Officers said the victim, Barbara Jane Morritz, apparently had been raped.

Police in Oakland said they could see no connection between the maid's death and the Martin killings, but they were checking.

And 15 miles from Oakland, in San Pablo, Police Chief Walter Pedretti said there is no indication now of a link with the Jan. 27 suffocation of Mrs. Amanda Jane Stapleton, 42, wife of a police sergeant who was on duty at the time. She was killed at home and was not assaulted.

The last strangling in the Boston area was Jan. 4, that of Mary E. Sullivan, 19, who roomed at the foot of Beacon Hill. Like the other 10 since June, 1962, it is unsolved.

Commonwealth Force for Cyprus Hard to Organize

By DOUG MARSHALL

LONDON (CP)—The concept of a Commonwealth force to keep the peace in Cyprus is not much liked in Whitehall.

The suggestion for such a force is believed to have originated with Archbishop Makarios but the Greek-Cypriot leader has not yet issued any specific invitation.

Makarios has rejected the proposed Anglo-American force, expressed unease about a NATO force and demanded a United Nations peace-keeping body that might involve the East bloc powers.

The idea of an all-Commonwealth force was discussed in the Ottawa talks between Prime Ministers Sir Alec Douglas-Home and Lester B. Pearson. Meanwhile a spokesman for the Commonwealth relations office in London noted that a purely Commonwealth force "would be terribly difficult to organize."

"Australia and New Zealand are tied up with their own commitments," he said, "and have even shown reluctance to contribute troops to help Malaysia in North Borneo."

India and Pakistan are believed preoccupied with their own problems, particularly over the question of Kashmir.

A third possible source of troops would be the various East African regiments which recently mutinied against white officers and poor pay conditions.

QUESTION RELIABILITY

"They are still being reorganized and their reliability is questionable," said the spokesman. "In any case we know from past experience that Negro troops would be abhorrent to the Cypriots.

"That just leaves Britain and Canada. What sort of Commonwealth force would that be? And we can't ask Canada to throw 10,000 troops into Cyprus on her own."

Canada is reported reluctant but ready to contribute about 1,000 troops to some international peace force and hopes that it can somehow be linked with the United Nations.

Such an international force might include units from NATO, the Commonwealth and possibly one of the neutral countries.

Douglas-Home hopes a final decision on the composition of the force will come before the end of his North American tour this week. But everything hinges on a specific invitation from Makarios.

In Cyprus the situation continues shaky. British observers feel that sporadic outbursts of violence could spark a full civil war. This in turn would probably mean invasion of the island by Turkey.

In such circumstances the position of the 10,000 British troops now stationed in Cyprus would be difficult.

MARKET TRENDS

NEW YORK (AP)—The stock market pursued an uneven course Thursday as the excitement over American Telephone and its big rights issue subsided. Tradnig was fairly active.

A.T. and T. common was still traded heavily but was "ex" its rights and its final quotation was off ⅜ at 145¾. Its 84,700-share turnover made it the second most active stock.

The rights to buy one share of A.T. and T. common at $100 for every 20 shares held closed unchanged at 2⅜. Total rights traded was 931,000 compared with 3,375,900 Wednesday.

Cigar stocks moved generally higher again and gains by selected blue chips in other sections of the market cushioned the averages so that they declined only slightly.

CIGARETTES LOWER

The Dow Jones industrial average dipped .40 to 794.42. The Associated Press average of 60 stocks took a minor loss of .2 at 294.5.

Prices on the American Exchange were mixed. Canadian issues were generally quiet with Scurry Rainbow Oil losing ¾ and Brazilian Traction ⅛.

TORONTO (CP) — Several special size transactions colored an otherwise drab day on the stock market Thursday.

Canadian Breweries was one of the heaviest traders on the board with a turnover of 150,300, shares. This included three special transactions of 25,000, 50,000 and 69,000 shares at $9.80 a share.

The issue, however, closed unchanged at 10 and brokers attributed the blocs to trading between institutions.

Banks were stronger than they have been for several days. Montreal advanced ⅜ and Nova Scotia, Royal and Toronto - Dominion ¼ each. Toronto - Dominion traded a special bloc of 2,400 shares at $62.50 a share.

Imperial Oil also registered a special transaction of 3,000 shares at $45.20 a share.

STEELS EASE

Elsewhere on the industrial board, steels softened, Dominion Foundries and Steel off ¼, while utilities made gains, Bell up ¾. Slater Steel rose ⅜ and Aluminium dipped ¼.

On index, the exchange index was ahead .18 to 131.93, industrials .17 to 141.10, western oils .76 to 82.47, golds 1.07 to 132.92 to 61.38. Volume for the day was 3,387,000 shares compared with 3,971,000 Wednesday.

Eager Quebec Villagers Get Ready for Steel Plant

BECANCOUR, Que. (CP) — Becancour residents, convinced that their tiny community will be the site of a huge steel-making complex backed by the Quebec government, are preparing eagerly to make an overnight transition from general - store village to supermarket town.

The selection of a site hasn't been made official, but there are reliable indications that this is the spot government experts have in mind.

Becancour, situated about halfway between Montreal and Quebec City on the south shore of the St. Lawrence River, has long been favored in speculation about a possible site.

That guesswork was reinforced last month when the General Investment Corporation, a body set up by the Quebec government to finance new industry with public and private funds, took 92 options to buy 11 square miles of land here.

Five farmers who wouldn't extend existing options until April 1 were bought out on the spot.

PLAN OTHER PLANTS

Gerard Filion, general director of the corporation, has announced since that the proposed steel complex will occupy one square mile of land, and the remaining 10 - square - mile area will be developed for the use of secondary industries wanting to become established close to the steel source.

That's as close as anyone has come to saying there will be a steel industry here, but it's convincing enough for the people of Becancour.

The government of Premier Jean Lesage has been studying the possibility of building a steel mill in Quebec province almost since it took office in 1960. Expert reports received by the government so far have been in favor of going ahead with the project.

The Becancour village council, calculating that an industry of this magnitude could swell population to 40,000 from 850 in five years, reacted quickly.

They dispatched a request to the provincial government for the services of a town planning consultant, and began drawing up plans for a $35,000 sewage disposal system.

A hasty survey of available land in the village indicated there is room to build 1,500 new homes.

Mayor Pierre Blondin was quick to point out, however, that a village can't do much economic planning on a $2,000 annual budget.

WANTS A PLAN

"In any case, we absolutely must have an over-all plan," he said. "We are starting with nothing. Thus we have every chance to do the job well."

Becancour today is a village with one street, a general store, two cafes, two funeral parlors. It hasn't a movie house, a tavern or even a shoemaker. Surrounding farms contribute to a marginal dairy industry.

The five farmers who already have sold their land said they were glad to get rid of it at $200 an arpent and will be happy to give up their pitchforks for lunch pails. An arpent is a land measure equivalent to .8448 of an acre.

Pierre Piche sold the biggest individual parcel of land for $60,000.

Farmers reasoned that the price was not too high, but if they had asked for more the corporation might have gone elsewhere. At least the children of Becancour would be able to find jobs at home.

Residents cited the experience of nearby Nicolet, where a defence department plant now employs 300 persons in the manufacture of explosives.

In Nicolet's case, only one or two of the landowners who sold out to the factory thought it worthwhile to buy another farm.

WINNIPEG (CP)—The Manitoba legislature voted Wednesday to urge the federal government to restore the TCA overhaul and maintenance base in Winnipeg in order to serve present and future TCA aircraft. TCA is phasing out the Winnipeg overhaul base over a period of years. The jet overhaul work is to be done at Montreal.
