Pearson Invites Premiers to Sept. 9 Meeting

To Discuss Pension Plan Technical Details

By JAMES NELSON

OTTAWA (CP)—Policy problems as well as technical details of the new Canada Pensions Plan will be discussed with provincial delegations at a conference opening here Sept. 9, if the provinces agree.

Prime Minister Pearson, who issued the invitation last Monday, says the discussions will be "fairly technical," but it is impossible to separate questions of policy from them.

Mr. Pearson's letter of invitation, sent to provincial premiers when they were meeting in Halifax, was made public by his office Thursday.

Chairman of the conference will be Health Minister Judy LaMarsh.

Mr. Pearson told reporters Thursday that if the premiers wish, the question of unemployment can also be the subject of federal - provincial talks at the same time. The premiers suggested such a discussion at their Halifax conference.

The pensions plan includes a government intention to raise basic pensions to $75 a month from $65 for everyone age 70 and over. The government has said it will not separate the $10 increase from the over-all plan.

The contributory retirement pensions would start at the option of the pensioner at any age between 65 and 70. Payments would be available to surviving spouses at any age after 65.

During the first 10 years of the plan—Which the government hopes can start next Jan. 1—contributions by individuals would not exceed two per cent of earnings. Employers would pay half this amount.

Contributions would be deductible for income tax purposes.

Miss LaMarsh has said that with the new basic pension of $75 a month, the contributory feature would mean that a person at age 70 could receive up to $175 a month.

"Hot Line" Cut

HELSINKI, Finland (Reuters) A Finnish construction worker drove an excavator through the Moscow - Washington "hot line" Thursday and broke telecommunications.

The worker was clearing ground for a new highway on the outskirts of Helsinki when his metal grab sliced through the underground cable.

He noticed nothing and went on working. Finnish post office engineers rushed to the spot.

The line, which carried both telephone and teleprinter connections, was repaired about four hours after being cut.

It is expected to be ready for service as an emergency link between Moscow and Washington next month.

Former Dictator Arrested

BOGOTA, Colombia (AP) — Former dictator Gustavo Rojas Pinilla, sought for 36 hours on a charge of plotting to seize the government, was arrested at a hide-out in northern Bogota Thursday, security officers announced.

A police spokesman said 10 others accused of involvement in the conspiracy, including a son-in-law of Rojas, also were captured. And Gen. Gabriel Reveiz Pizzaro, commander of the armed forces, said "all those implicated in the plot have been taken into custody."

The announcement of the arrests came as President Guillermo Leon Valencia returned to Columbia from a visit to Venezuela, where he and Venezuelan President Romulo Betancourt signed a pledge to defend their nations and other Latin American countries against plots to overthrow them.

Three former officials of the armed forces were reported arrested in the house raid that netted Rojas, who ran this coffee republic of 15,000,000 people from 1953 until he was ousted in 1957.

Political bloodshed that marked his reign has been followed by banditry that still takes scores of lives annually across Colombia.

Gas Well Blaze Awaits Red Adair

FORT ST. JOHN, B.C. (CP)—Paul (Red) Adair, globe-trotting fighter of oil and gas field fires, was scheduled to arrive here at 8 a.m. Thursday to help control a wildy blazing natural gas well fire that has killed one man and injured four others.

Adair was expected in by chartered aircraft from Mexico.

The fire started with an explosion Wednesday morning at the well, located in heavy bush country 65 miles northeast of here, and has been feeding on an estimated 250,000 cubic feet of gas daily.

An attempt to extinguish the blaze was called off Thursday when an insurance company dealing with the well owners, Altair Oil and Gas Company, insisted that Adair be consulted first.

Halliburton Oilwell Cementing Company of Calgary was to have made the attempt using a chemical fire extinguishing compound.

Although Adair is expected today, it may be several days before he has his equipment and plans ready to make his attempt to snuff out the fire. The derrick over the well site was reported tilted dangerously.

As part of the preparations for the fire-extinguishing attempt, more than 150,000 gallons of water had been pumped into a pit dug near the well by bulldozers.

Tony Guay, 16, of Dawson Creek, B.C., was killed in the initial explosion. In serious condition in Edmonton hosptal were Edward Flath and Nel Fournier, both of Fort St. John. Arthur Groenig of Fort St. John and Doug Smithson of Taylor, B.C., were in fair condition in hospital here.

Haiti Invasion Appears Over

PORT AU PRINCE (CP-AP) —Indications grew that northeast Haiti, scene of a reported "invasion" by Haitian exiles earlier this week, has returned to normal.

Rumors here still spoke of fighting in the area, but on a less-extravagant scale.

A spokesman for the U.S.-owned Esso Standard Oil said Thursday the company's two bulk plants near Fort Liberte, close to the scene of the reported exile penetration, have returned to normal operation.

The spokesman added that his information tends to confirm government claims that only a hit - and - run force of exiles who want to topple the Duvalier dictatorship had been involved.

The Miami, Florida news reports two travellers in the Cap Haitien area said exile Gen. Leon Cantava and a band of 15 landed in Haiti Monday morning and retreated at about 2 p.m. A Port au Prince dispatch to the newspaper says the invaders stole two automobiles, drove to Fort Liberte, killed a soldier on guard duty and then left the country.

CLC Wants Say in Civil Service Bargaining Setup

OTTAWA (CP)— The Canadian Labor Congress has told the government it wants a voice in the preparation of collective bargaining machinery for the civil service.

CLC President Claude Jodoin said in an interview Thursday the congress plans to present its views to the cabinet as well as to the special committee set up by the government to draft a blueprint for collective bargaining and arbitration for Canada's 10,000 federal civil servants.

He said the CLC has endorsed the government's plan to institute collective bargaining, but at the same time has staked a claim as spokesman for many of the so - called "prevailing rate" employees of the federal government.

"The prevailing rate employees are, for the most part, represented by craft unions such as the plumbers, carpenters, machinists, electricians and more are in local unions directly chartered by the Canadian Labor Congress."

Mr. Jodoin said the CLC feels these employees have an equal right to collective bargaining privileges.

The government, he added, has been urged by the congress to include them in any collective bargaining system devised for the civil service.

Prime Minister Pearson announced Wednesday that a special committee of senior officials will consult with Civil Service Associations in preparing plans for collective bargaining. He made no mention of consultation with the CLC.

There are four major civil service associations—the Civil Service Federation of Canada, which has about 72,000 members; the 33,000-member Civil Service Association of Canada; the Professional Institute of the Public Service of Canada, which has about 6,000 members, and the Canadian Postal Employees Association (CLC) with about 10,000 members.

Most of their membership strength lies among the classified civil servants — those on salaries. There are some "prevailing rate" employees—those on hourly wages—who belong to one of the civil service groups while simultaneously holding membership in a trade union.

MORE MONEY PER STUDENT, UBC's NEED

VANCOUVER (CP) — The University of B.C. must get more money per student if it is to compete scholastically with other universities, UBC president J. B. Macdonald said Thursday.

"UBC gets $250 less per stu*dent in income from all sources* than the Canadian university average," he said. "This must be corrected."

Huge Breathing Device Aids Kennedy Baby

BOSTON (AP) — An enormous breathing device—the only one of its kind—was put to use Thursday to aid the baby son of President and Mrs. Kennedy.

One - day - old Patrick Bouvier Kennedy's condition was listed as improved but still serious.

Doctors at the Children's Medical Centre placed the baby, born 5½ weeks prematurely on Cape Cod Wednesday, into a three-compartment device that measures 31 feet long and eight feet in diameter. The baby weighed four pounds 10 ounces at birth.

Press Secretary Pierre Salinger told reporters at 6 p.m. the child then showed improvement immediately.

Earlier in the afternoon the president telephoned Mrs. Kennedy, who is recovering from the caesarean delivery at Otis Air Force Base Hospital, that the baby was "slightly improved."

Mrs. Jacqueline Kennedy's press secretary, Pamela Turnure, said Mrs. Kennedy was "pleased to hear the baby was feeling better."

NDP Re-Elects T.C. Douglas

By KEN KELLY

REGINA (CP) — New Democratic leader T. C. Douglas said Thursday the Liberal government has no right to sign an agreement with the United States to acquire nuclear arms without first consulting Parliament and the people.

Mr. Douglas, speaking to the party's national convention shortly after he was unanimously re-elected to a second two-year term as leader, said the New Democrats in Parliament will continue to oppose the signing of such an agreement.

If one is signed, they would do all in their power to take Canada out of the agreement at the earliest opportunity.

He noted that the Canadian cabinet now has before it the draft agreement for acquiring nuclear arms for Canadian forces.

But since Parliament had debated the question of acquisition shortly after it met in May, the cold war had thawed and tensions had eased as a result of a limited test-ban treaty and divisions between Russia and Communist China.

One Third World's Countries Sign Pact

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Nearly one - third of the countries of the world, including Canada, subscribed to the limited nuclear test - ban treaty on Thursday — the first day it was open to general signing.

Diplomats queued up in Washington, London and Moscow for the honor of pledging their governments as associate charter members of the U.S. - British - Soviet pact to outlaw all atomic explosions except those underground. (See also story Page 4).

Canadian representatives signed in all three capitals.

George Drew, Canadian high commissioner, put his name to the London copy to lead off 23 first - day signatories in the British capital.

Australian Ambassador Howard Beale headed 31 signers in Washington. C. A. Ritchie, Canada's ambassador to the United States, registered a short time later.

In Moscow, where 22 countries recorded their approval of the treaty on opening day, ambas*sador Arnold Smith signed for* Canada.

Allowing for many duplications, Thursday's total of signatories came to 34, making a total of 37, counting the originators who signed last Monday.

The U.S. state department said 62 of the world's 114 countries already have announced their intention to sign and more are expected to do so eventually.

FORMER B .C. NURSES' REGISTRAR DIES

WINNIPEG (CP) — Helen Louise Randal, former registrar of nurses for British Columbia, died here Thursday. She was 91.

A native of Compton, Que., Miss Randal was educated at Compton Ladies' college and after two years' teaching in Quebec and New York state, entered Royal Victoria Hospital School of Nursing in Montreal where she graduated in 1903.

After two years' nursing in Montreal, she became superintendent of nurses at City Hospital, Rutland, Vt. She served later in the same position at St. Luke's Hospital, San Francisco, and Vancouver General Hospital.

Active in promoting the Graduate Nurses Association of B.C., she was its first president from 1917 to 1919.

Lesage Shuffles Cabinet to Study Municipal Loans

QUEBEC (CP) — Premier Jean Lesage of Quebec shuffled his cabinet Thursday and called a special session of the legislature Aug. 21 to set up machinery for handling federal loans to municipalities.

His cabinet changes involved adding a new revenue minister and realigning three other portfolios.

Eric W. Kierans, 49, Liberal candidate at a byelection Sept. 25 in Montreal Notre-Dame-de Grace, was brought into the cabinet as revenue minister.

Mr. Kierans, who resigned last week as president of the Montreal and Canadian stock exchanges, is seeking election in the riding left vacant by the death of Revenue Minister Paul Earl last May.

Georges Lapalme, 56, gave up the attorney-general's portfolio to devote all his time to the cultural affairs department.

Rene Hamel, 53, switched from labor minister to attorney-general.

Carrier Fortin, 48, minister without portfolio, takes over as labor minister.

Attorney-General Mum On "Major" Development

VANCOUVER (CP) — Attorney-General Robert Bonner has promised a major announcement today in the government-power company struggles over the B.C. Electric.

He indicated an important development had taken place in activity outside the courtroom where a legal battle exists between the province and B.C. Power Corporation, parent of the giant power-gas-transportation utility.

Speaking in a telephone interview Thursday night from Victoria, Mr. Bonner declined to elaborate further than to tell a reporter: "There will be lots for you to write about."

He would not say whether the parties had found a mutually-acceptable formula for compensation to B.C. Power for the weekend, after counsel for B.C. Power called a new government offer to negotiate worth of BCE "fantastic and impossible."

The corporation claims it again owns the utility—which the government expropriated for $172,000,000 in 1961—by right of a judgment by Chief Justice Sherwood Lett finding constitutionally invalid, not only the expropriation but BCE integration into the authority in 1962.

B.C. Power now seeks a court order to dismiss a receiver appointed during a lengthy court battle to protect the *utility's property and to repos*sess and operate the company again.

The government seeks to stay the judgment pending its appeal of findings that the province exceeded its constitutional authority in expropriating and manipulating BCE.

BREAK UNTIL TUESDAY

After a day of legal give-and-take Mr. Justice J. G. Ruttan adjourned proceedings to Tuesday—he has other commitments in the meantime. He said he was adjourning the case without issuing a stay order as vigorously sought by C. W. Brazier, counsel for the Attorney-General.

The judge expressed the hope both sides would show good faith by getting together during the recess, warning: "I am not going to be available indefinitely."

He had no fear, he said, that B.C. Power in the interim would move to repossess BCE.

Douglas McK. Brown, counsel for the power corporation, brought Mr. Brazier to his feet several times in protest during the day as he charged the government had not operated BCE separately as required by the order appointing a receiver. He said with the government legislation concerning BCE "all semblance of legal discipline disappeared."

Mr. Brazier said he had nothing to do with acts of the legislature.

Mr. Brown said there was a "concerted" plan to so intermingle BCE in the authority that its assets could never be untangled.

Mr. Brazier, jumping up again, declared: "I must challenge that . . . The evidence doesn't show that."

COMPANY'S FUNDS USED

Mr. Brown said $16,000,000 of the company's money had been spent on the proposed Peace River development and $4,000,000 was loaned to the former B.C. Power Commission before BCE and the commission were combined to form the authority.

He said if the damage was to be repaired by separating BCE from the authority it should be started now, not two years from now, the time needed for the case to get to the Supreme Court of Canada for final decision.

Earlier Mr. Brown said BCP sought repossession of BCE because the utility now belonged to it and other persons' rights were affected as well.

The new government offer was put to the court by M. M. McFarlane, counsel for Attorney-General Bonner. The government now suggested that preliminary, non-binding negotiations be held between representatives of both sides while the status quo was maintained and BCE assets remained in receivership.

He said this was the alternative to asking Chief Justice Lett to determine what additional amount, if any, was due the power corporation above the $193,000,000 he placed on BCE in his judgment.

Mr. Brown, terming the offer "fantastic and impossible" said the government had now abandoned the procedure first suggested by Premier Bennett that the Chief Justice be asked to give a yes-or-no answer to the question of whether his $193,000,000 figure included estimated BCE earnings since the takeover—estimated in some quarters to be about $30,000,000.

Train Robbery Rocks Britain

CHEDDINGTON, England (CP)—A gang of masked bandits ambushed a royal mail train Thursday and staged what was believed to be the world's greatest train robbery.

The pre - dawn holdup, in a lonely stretch of the English countryside, gave them a haul which one official said could amount to £1,000,000 ($3,000,000) in cash and registered mail. (See also story Page 4).

Police and postal authorities first estimated the gang at 30 men. Later a police spokesman said it probably numbered about 15.

The brash and brazen robbery jolted Britain with its massive organization and split - second timing.

Postmaster - General Reginald Bevins cut short his vacation and immediately offered a £10,000 ($30,000) reward for information leading to the agng's arrest.

Police with tracking dogs scoured the countryside and threw up roadblocks around Cheddington, 40 miles northwest of London, where the gang struck after faking a red signal to stop the 12 - car diesel - powered train at a rural junction.

City Tried to Sell Land It Didn't Own

PRINCE GEORGE (CP) — The city has posted for sale land it now finds it doesn't own.

Council has been advised by telegram the provincial government has deferred transferring a 600-acre tract on the western outskirts.

Council agreed July 31 to post for sale a 9.2-acre site and a 22.3-acre site for use as a shopping centre and commercial development.

The land was posted for sale on the strength of an earlier telegram from the lands department approving the move.

A telegram arrived saying the provincial cabinet had not given approval to the sale. It is reported the cabinet won't take any action until Lands and Forests Minister Williston returns to Victoria from here and takes part in discussions.

Canada Pension Plan Good One Britons Feel

LONDON (CP) — Judy La Marsh, Canadian Minister o Health and Welfare, said Thursday her talks so far with Britis officials confirm that Canada proposed pension plan is "a goo one."

Referring to the pension pr gram outlined in a white pape she said her inquiries make h confident "the decisions we ha taken are right."

Miss LaMarsh, speaking at press conference in Cana House, said that because of t divisions of authority betwe the federal and provincial g ernments it is impossible enact a program along the lir of the British plan.

But she admired the "fle ibility" of the British syste which packages old age, di ability and other pensions in one plan.

Miss LaMarsh, who also wi study welfare in West Ge many, The Netherlands, Swede and France during this tour. said she would like to see old age pensions for women at age 60 instead of 65.

"But being the only woman in the cabinet I haven't convinced some of my colleagues yet," she said. "They haven't said 'no' but it isn't in our planning yet."

In 1957, she became Mrs. Jack Desoares in Woodstock, Ont., but the marriage ended after two months.

One month later she went through a form of marriage with George Chester Craig in Hamilton, later moving to Toronto. She was living with Craig when arrested.

VANCOUVER (CP)—Motor vehicle branch officials say B.C.'s 1964 licence plates will bear the words "Beautiful British Columbia."

They will have blue numerals on a white background, the reverse of this year's color scheme.

Deputy superintendent R. A. Hadfield said prisoners at Oakalla Prison Farm are already turning out 700,000 new plates for sale next year.

Worker Denied Silicosis Pension Because Time Element in Doubt

Failure to establish a three-year working period in British Columbia mines, was the basis for denial of a silicosis pension to a Trail worker.

At the current sitting of the Workmen's Compensation Board in Nelson Thursday, counsel learned unemployed 53-year-old Carmine DeGirolamo had proved he worked 31 months, five short of the required time, in the Workmen's Compensation Act.

The injustice of the pension refusal, Al King, general secretary of western district union, International Union of Mine, Mill and Smelter Workers, said is based on the fact Mr. DeGirolamo had worked three years in B.C. mines but was unable to prove it.

Mr. DeGirolamo said he had worked in six provincial mines but has no time record of three of the mines. A second employment at the Euphrates Mine was questioned regarding time element.

"This would indicate the Board would not take the word of an honest miner," Mr. King said.

The Board demanded proof of the three-year period because Mr. DeGirolamo had worked for a short period in the Cascade tunnel in Washington during 1927-28.

Following his employment at the American mine, he returned to B.C., working in the Yankee Girl-Whitehorse mine, Euphrates, Silver Leaf, Keno Gold Mines, Molly Gibson and then again in the Euphrates mine.

He quit the mining industry and started working for Consolidated Mining and Smelting Co. Ltd., of Canada in 1935 in the lead refinery.

During his mining stint at Cascade Tunnels, Mr. DeGirolamo worked six months above ground and the remainder below, doing maintenance work. He said dust conditions necessitated fans but they were so constructed that dust was kept to a minimum.

NO X-RAYS

When he started with Cominco he had a physical examination, although no x-rays were taken.

During interrogation of the witness, Mr. King tried to establish to counsel that Mr. DeGirolamo had been exposed to gas and dust, while he was working in the drossing process of the lead.

In 1938 the native Italian consulted a doctor in Trail when his previous excellent health began to "teeter-totter." Although his physician advised him to leave the lead refinery he remained five more years.

Then because of failing health he was moved to the Warfield plant two miles away where he assumed a repairman's job. He returned to the lead refinery for 10 days in December and then returned to Warfield as a first-class operator, staying until 1956.

He then moved to the zinc plant in the same capacity and two years later he worked in the Chemical and Fertilizer plant.

LUMP ON CHEST

His first inkling of silicosis showed in a lump that erupted on his chest in March, 1959, and following an operation to remove the abscess, he returned to work three weeks later.

He applied for compensation in May but was refused. In 1961 he was again hospitalized and has not worked since.

Mr. King stated Mr. DeGirolamo had been exposed to silica dust in the Cominco area for over 20 years.

Peter Dewdney, representing Cominco, retored that if there had been silica dust in the plant in which he was exposed, the claim would have been allowed.

Mr. DeGirolamo is now short of breath and told the Commissioner, Hon. A. C. DesBrisay he will hemorrhage at the least physical exertion. Under the doctor's care he is taking pills to subdue the pain in his chest.

RESPIRATORY AILMENTS

Trail and District Smelter Workers' Union Local 480's brief, president J. G. Flanigan insisted that industrial diseases of pulmonary and respiratory ailments occur in the mining and smelting industry.

He said where respirators and masks are used as a defence against pulmonary hazards in these plants, they themselves constitute a hazard when oxygen intake on extreme exertion is insufficient and cardiac failure of one type or another ensues.

In concluding this aspect of their brief, Mr. Flanigan said that any malady working on already weakened respiratory systems advances with greater freedom in its deadly work than on the healthy organs of those never being exposed to such conditions.

Hearing continues today at Nelson Court House.

Don Appleton Going To Prince George

One of Nelson's most popular and colorful hockey players will leave the Queen City at the end of this month.

Don Appleton, for years considered one of the top centremen in the Western International Hockey League, will leave Nelson at the end of August for a new position with an insurance adjusting firm in Prince George.

For the past five years Mr. Appleton has been employed with the E. T. Bodard Adjusting firm.

Mr. Appleton was first lured to the Kootenays by the scent of hockey in the 1949 hockey season. That year he donned the green and white of Nelson Maple Leafs and captured the WIHL outstanding rookie award. He came to Nelson from the Wetaskiwin Canadians.

In the 1950 season he played for the Trail Smoke Eaters, then for Stratham in the English Hockey League, with five years of hockey on the European continent.

In the 1952-53 hockey season he was appointed coach of a Swiss hockey team in Davos, Switzerland.

During 1957 the ace centreman spent a few months in the professional hockey ranks with Vancouver Canucks of the Western Hockey League. One year later he withdrew from active participation in senior hockey, at the age of 28.

Mr. Appleton is married to the former Shirley Craig of Nelson. They have one daughter, Ladonna, age 10.

He has been a strong member of the Nelson Kiwanis Club for a number of years and was elected president in 1961.

26 New Fires Flare in District; Hazard Climbs

Fires erupted at the rate of one every hour Thursday as the forest fire situation continued to worsen in the Nelson Forestry district.

Twenty-six new fires were reported in the district, mostly spot fires flamed on the lightning storm which passed over the district last weekend. A fire can lay dormant for a length of time until warm temperatures and dry winds fan it into action.

The 26 new blazes brought the number of fires, which have started in the district in the past two days, to 38. On Wednesday 12 new fires were reported. There are 37 fires burning in the district.

The fire hazard in East Kootenay and Boundary area is rated as high, and in Nelson area moderate-to-high.

Two water bombers, two helicopters and 34 men are used on the fire lines to contain the numerous blazes. The large 50-acre blaze near Moyie Lake is still in the mopping up stage, although the number of fire fighters has been decreased.

Thus far, forestry officials have not closed any forest areas to the public, although some closures may come into effect if the current heat wave continues and berry pickers continue to be careless.

Forestry officials report that in the past few weeks 12 fires have been caused by berry pickers, who carelessly discard cigarettes. If this carelessness continues, the Forestry department will be forced to close these berry picking areas to the public and leave the berries to the bears.

Nelson Girl Wins First Class Honors

Miss Terry Anne Beauchamp of Nelson earned first class honors in the spring semester at Gonzaga University in Spokane.

She is the daughter of Dr. and Mrs. A. J. Beauchamp of 909 Ninth Street.

AA Gone From Nelson Scene

Anonymous? They're non-existent in Nelson, claims a member of Alcoholics Anonymous from the Coast, Bill Miner, who tried unsuccessfully Thursday to find an associate in Nelson.

Called into the act to try and penetrate the anonymity of just one member, a Daily News reporter ran into "Sorry, but I haven't been around there (the A.A. room on Baker Street) for 12 years now. I won't know any who belong now," from a former member. "In fact, I think they've closed down."

Another member of the Association had no number listed for this and others were not in. The Chamber of Commerce was unable to help as were the city police.

The name of one present member was finally traced, but there was no answer to telephone.

The club room was locked.

Mr. Miner is not presently in need of A.A. assistance, but he wanted to visit the Nelson headquarters and talk things over.

"If this had been a few years ago, when I was driving out from Saskatchewan and came to town, tired, needing a friendly word and someone to have coffee with me, I would probably have ended up by going into the pub," he said.

Towards afternoon, after diligent searching, a contact was found.

District Residents Pass IWA Exams

Four West Kootenay residents were among 79 B.C. accountants who were successful in the recent primary accounting and auditing examinations of the Institute of Chartered Accountants of B.C.

Two Nelsonites and one each from Trail and Grand Forks shared passing honors. The four are M. D. Skapple and Hugh R. Sewell of Nelson, Bruce MacCabe of Trail and Daniel A. Nishi of Grand Forks.

D. E. Smuin Receives Promotion

Joining the growing list of B.C. Government civil servants being promoted is Donald E. Smuin, assistant district engineer of the water rights branch here.

Mr. Smuin has been appointed Administrative Officer in charge of the licensing divison of the Water Resources Service at Victoria. His new duties will place him in charge of licensing in the entire province.

Originally from Penticton, Mr. Smuin spent six years in Victoria with the government before being transferred here in April, 1957. His successor here has not yet been named.

Mr. Smuin is a former member of the Nelson Toastmasters and at one time belonged to the golf club. He is an enthusiastic outdoorsman and sportsman.

He and his family are expected in Victoria at the end of the month.

Mrs. H. Ayris Formerly of Nelson, Dies

Mrs. Harold Ayris, formerly of Nelson and known here as Edythe Lever Hawes, died in Vancouver Wednesday night after a lengthy illness.

Mr. and Mrs. Ayris were married in Nelson in June 1962, and they have made their home in Vancouver since.

Mrs. Ayris spent much of her life teaching singing prior to coming to Nelson in 1957. She had resided in Winninpeg and Portage la Prairie and lived in Vancouver for about 30 years. She was a member of the Eastern Star.

Besides her husband, she is survived by one son, Russell C., of Nelson, who leaves today to attend the funeral services in Vancouver Saturday.

High Grade Ore Found at Ottawa Mine

A high-grade ore shoot has been encountered during drifting operations at Ottawa Silver Mines, producing property located six miles from Slocan City in the Kootenays.

President T. C. Hughes reports that ore, assaying 67.3 ounces of silver per ton, was encountered during work on the No. 3 sublevel drift running north and south from the main raise above No. 8 adit.

Drifting along this shoot has given Ottawa continuous ore for a length of 200 feet across a mining width of five feet.

Average of all the face samples, taken at five-foot intervals across an average width of 5.25 feet, assayed at 67.3 ounces silver per ton, or at present silver prices an approximate value of $93 per ton.

Both ends of this drift are still in ore. The north face of the drift is seven feet wide and averaging 62.6 ounces and the south face is five feet, averaging 34.4 ounces silver.

"Status of the Ottawa Mine continues to improve," reports Jay Van Gundy, P. Eng.

Work is continuing at Ottawa's 100-ton mill site with all concrete foundations poured and cement retaining walls now in place. The mill is scheduled for production in mid-September.

Mine Manager Clarence Thickett reports also that provision is being made for custom-milling ores from outside properties. Thickett estimates that the Ottawa has enough development ore at hand to keep its mill in steady production for two years.

S.S. Nelson Bound for Dump

The S. S. Nelson has been scuttled.

Fire Chief E. S. Owens reported Thursday the trailer unit has been taken off the popular float and the remains of the steam ship replica will be discarded at the city dump in the near future.

The float was wrecked two weeks ago on a return trip from Priest River, Idaho, when a tire blowout overturned the float, completely demolishing the fulcrum of much of the Queen City promotion.

No decision has been made yet on the type of float which will replace the S. S. Nelson.

Over 100 Expected At IWA Convention

Over 100 delegates from the Kootenays are expected to attend the annual convention of the International Woodworkers of America Local 1-405 in Nelson Saturday.

The convention will mark the first time that the annual event has been held outside of Cranbrook. IWA recently decided to change its policy of holding the convention in the East Kootenay each year, and alternating between Nelson and Cranbrook.

Most of the convention work will be centred about 45 resolutions which have been submitted to the IWA in the past year. Many of these resolutions deal with negotiations with respective employers.

The 100 delegates, 10 representative delegates and 30 to 40 fraternal delegates, will also elect delegates to represent the Local at different conventions throughout the coming year.

Guest speaker at the convention to be held in the Nelson Hotel, will be J. Holst of Vancouver, vice-president of Regional Council No. 1.

Following the convention which begins 9:30 a.m. Saturday, a banquet will be held for the convention delegates. The banquet will be followed by a dance for IWA members and friends.

Kiwanian Impressed by Spirit at Prince George

The progressiveness of the city of Prince George, to be his new home, impressed Don L. Appleton, but the sight of a spanking new modern hotel of the type that had been designed originally for Nelson saddened him, he told the Kiwanis Club Thursday night.

Mr. Appleton had been asked to describe the city as he had seen it on a recent trip there with Mrs. Appleton in preparation for their move to Prince George at the end of August.

Mr. Appleton said that heavy traffic they encountered through the Okanagan area continued north from Cache Creek to Prince George. In this lumber centre, he found an amazing amount of new building underway and business moving briskly. The highway was paved all the way.

Mr. Appleton said he was also impressed with the progressive spirit of the people. He said they did not ask a newcomer how he liked the city; instead they said, "Welcome to Prince George, the most progressive city in interior B.C."

His reference to the new hotel was in connection with the once proposed Towers Hotel to have been built on Vernon Street in Nelson. The same group that planned the Towers Hotel had built the "fabulous Simon Fraser Hotel" in Prince George. Nelson, he felt, made one of its biggest mistakes in turning down the project.

Another speaker was Major Thomas Powell of the Salvation Army, Chilliwack, who once lived in Nelson. Major Powell described his work at Chilliwack and said he was a director of a newly-formed Kiwanis Club in Chilliwack.

Club members continued a series of talks in which they described their summer holiday activities.

Beasley Bluffs Paving Finished

Paving on the Beasley Bluffs section of Highway No. 3, nine miles west of Nelson, has been completed.

Department of Highways regional engineer D. F. Martin said Thursday the Dawson and Wade company have completed paving the three-mile section of the new road and will complete the Apex paving job next.

The centre line crew, which paints the dividing white stripe on the highway is expected to reach the Beasley Bluffs section soon. The crew is presently at Rossland.

When the Apex section has been completed the company will then repave the Nelson arterial highway.

Mr. Martin also said paving has started on the Salmo-Creston cutoff. On the Salmo side approximately six miles of pavement have been rolled, while the crews are just beginning at Creston.

Construction on the new 50-mile highway, which is expected to be opened this Fall, is near completion except for the difficult area at the summit of the cutoff.

In the Courts

L. M. Johnson of Nelson was fined $35 and costs in provincial court by Magistrate William Evans Thursday.

Johnson was charged with driving without due care and attention in Salmo. Court was told he was "squealing tires" on several occasions and continued to do so after being warned. Johnson pleaded guilty.

It cost D. E. Johnson of Nelson $20 and costs for speeding on the North Shore. Court was told Johnson was driving 58 miles per hour in a 35-mile-per-hour zone. He pleaded guilty.

In city court before Magistrate R. S. Nelson, Walter Popow, R.R.2, charged with driving with a disconnected muffler, was fined $10 and costs.

No Word On Villa Grant

Nelson Kiwanis Club will telephone Hon. W. D. Black, provincial secretary, to see if the provincial grant for the senior citizens villa to be built here can be speeded up.

The one-third grant towards construction of the project must be assured officially before application for a loan can be made to Central Mortgage and Housing Corporation.

Secretary John Kristensen reported to the club that no word had been received as to progress of the grant. The club asked chairman J. W. McClelland to telephone Mr. Black to see if action could be taken to expedite the grant.

RCMP Increase Patrols With Traffic Upsurge

In view of the density of traffic on the highways in the summer and the high rate of accidents involving personal injuries the RCMP has substantially increased its highway patrol units in the province. Additional men and cars have been posted to strategic locations on the main highways, D. O. Forrest, assistant commissioner and officer commanding "E" division, said.

Additionally, the RCMP are experimenting with ghost cars manned by uniformed personnel and will carefully assess the results of this type of operation as compared with the use of orthodox black and white traffic cars. Continued operation and possible expansion of the use of ghost cars will receive study.

RCMP reiterate that traffic enforcement — even with a maximum number of patrol cars on the highways — can never be a complete answer to the problem of traffic safety. The motoring public must accept their responsibilities and co-operate fully by rigid observance of proper driving attitudes and safety measures. These aspects must be fostered and encouraged by a continual program of public education, the RCMP stress.

Some of the more serious traffic accidents in the last few months in this province indicate clearly that poor driving attitudes and disregard for even elementary safety rules were the main factors responsible, police report.

Cranbrook Project Cost Over $300,000

Rental Housing Development Planned for New Extension

CRANBROOK — The first major development of land located in the city extension area is being planned in a $300,000 rental housing project and subdivision development.

The project, to take place on a 15-acre block of property south of 11th Street off Third Avenue, is being handled by Selkirk Realty Ltd.

The area had been surveyed into lots a year ago, but the city had not established requirements for a developer .

Modified requirements for the developer include water, sewer, lanes and power.

Planner are a 40-unit garden court rental housing development, with 20 units planned for the first phase and an ultimate total of 40 two and three-bedroom units overlooking a park area.

Total cost of rental units would run about $250,000. This development would be on a portion of the 66 lots, with remainder of the lots to be put on the market as home sites.

Subdivision costs are expected to be about $60,000 for a total estimated cost of over $300,000.

Work may start this fal.

Creston Mill Blaze Guts Control Room

CRESTON — Creston Sawmills Ltd. plant suffered damages between $500 to $10,000 from a sudden blaze which is believed to have been caused by a spark from a welder's torch.

The fire gutted the control room of the de-barker and chipper plant.

The fire started about 1:15 p.m. and within minutes burned out the monitor with all the switches and wiring. Sawmill employees attempted to put out the fire with extinguishers but to no avail and efforts of the village fire department were also unsuccessful.

Technicians have arrived to make the necessary replacements.

There will be no loss of time at the mill proper or planer, but the veneer plant is forced to close down for a few days.

Foresees Cranbrook As Medical Centre, Ft. Steele as Reno

CRANBROOK — A city alderman this week proposed development of Cranbrook as a major medical centre and of Fort Steele as the Reno of Canada.

Alderman Eddie Leonard at Monday night's city council meeting, commenting on the "sadly neglected" tourist trade, suggested hitting tourism hard at the proposed joint industrial committee meeting planned for Aug. 26 by the Cranbrook Chamber of Commerce and Junior Chamber of Commerce and the city.

"Stores and motels are feeling the pinch due to lack of tourists," he declared. "The idea seems to be to sit back and wait for the Creston-Salmo cutoff to open and our worries will be over. I don't feel this, it is up to the people to come up with something to bring tourists back."

"I think we have a golden opportunity to attract people by the millions into our area."

Ald. Leonard outlined two ideas that could be developed.

MEDICAL CENTRE

First suggestion dealt with the proposed new Cranbrook District Hospital. "The Green Clinic is expanding and we have the start of a new clinic. Cranbrook should go all out to make this a medical centre," he declared.

Pointing out that he had occasion to visit Mayo Clinic in Rochester, Ald. Leonard said that between 40 and 50 million people a year come from all over the world to visit the clinic.

He felt that if the Cranbrook hospital was built with the proper facilities, the specialists could be attracted to this area.

He pointed out that Dr. W. O. Green was considered "equal to anyone in Mayo Clinic as a surgeon, but this was never publicized."

"If we get the people coming here they will fill the hotels and motels by the thousands every year."

Council members agreed with this thinking and endorsed a resolution by Ald. Leonard that all city doctors be invited to the Aug. 26 joint industrial meeting.

LEGALIZED GAMBLING

As for Fort Steele, Ald. Leonard was strongly in favor of legalized gambling in the historic centre, providing it was under government control.

"This would guarantee 10 million people each year," Ald. Leonard contended, "and the proceeds would build all the hospitals in Canada."

He felt that the council and the joint industrial committee should look into this possibility. "Everybody loves to gamble," he declared, "we should get the people behind us and demand some action."

Mayor George Haddad pointed out that the Union of B.C. Municipalities had some resolutions on record urging the federal government to legalize gambling under government control to provide public services.

Fruitvale Couple Honored On Golden Anniversary

FRUITVALE — Mr. and Mrs. Ely Ralph, Sr., were honored recently at a family reception and social evening on the occasion of their golden wedding anniversary.

The reception was held in the crystal room of the Crown Point Hotel. The couple's elder son, Ely Ralph Jr., was master of ceremonies and he said Grace. Following a toast "to Mom and Dad", Mr. Ralph, Sr., responded with thanks to the family.

Open house followed at the Fruitvale Royal Canadian Legion Hall. Approximately 75 guests had been invited, including many old friends and members of the family that had not seen each other for years.

In the hall decorated in yellow and white streamers and white bells, the feted couple cut a three-tiered anniversary cake decorated in white and yellow roses with gold leaves and golden bells. The layers were separated by white plastic pillars with swans resting at the bottom. It was topped with an elaborate arch in white and yellow with a yellow bell hanging from the center. The arch stood over a white heart, lillies of the valley, and a golden "50" in a golden bow.

The couple was married at St. Budock Parish Church, Cornwall, England. The bride was the former Florence May Cocks, daughter of the late Captain and Mrs. Charles H. Cocks.

Mr. Ralph practiced farming until the First World War. He was honorably discharged from service after being wounded and became caretaker of the R. E. Barracks in Falmouth.

MR. AND MRS. ELY RALPH OF FRUITVALE

After the couple came to Canada in 1927, they farmed in Grand Forks, Mr. Ralph became a guard at the smelter, and later spent years of service with the Bank of Montreal in Trail.

At the reception, Mrs. Ralph wore a mottled grey nylon dress and a gold chain holding an English coin given to her by her father when she was a girl. She wore a corsage of yellow carnations and pink rosebuds.

Their daughter, Mrs. P. Wolfe of Mirror Lake, and their two daughters-in-law, Mrs. H. Dalph and Mrs. E. Ralph Jr., both of Fruitvale, acted as hostesses.

Telegrams were read from the Rugg family in Scotland, Premier and Mrs. W. A. C. Bennett, Donald Brothers, MLA for Rossland-Trail, and from Jim and Doris Ralph of Vancouver, the groom's brother and sister-in-law, who were unable to attend.

Asphalt, Sidewalks Topic of Six Bylaws

CRANBROOK—Three readings were given by city council this week to six local improvements bylaws authorizing asphalt street flanking on petition of property owners in six locations, and to five local improvement bylaws for concrete sidewalks on the sidewalk petitions will now be accepted toward the fall program of carrying this construction out by the works department before winter.

Several housing subdivision matters came up for discussion at council meeting this week. Terms of a city agreement with Mrs. Louise Walkley are being prepared toward extension of sewer and right-of-way for a lane through her South 14th Avenue property for a subdivision proposed for that area southward to Eleventh Street.

Also discussed were the subdivision plans for area west of Third Avenue owned by Florentino Brothers, where street and lane extensions graded and gravelled to city engineering standards and provision of adequate power supply for the proposed seven-residential lots will be required of the subdivision.

Applications for five residential building permits for another city area, ranging from $12,000 to $18,500 were approved by council at the meeting. Also approved was payment of $250 moving expense for John M. Davis, recently named building inspector, who is expected from Kitimat August 15.

Kimberley Merchants Plan Shopping Spree

KIMBERLEY — Everybody's going shopping.

The Retail Merchants Association Monday set up committees to plan and promote a gigantic shopping weekend in conjunction with a rodeo to be staged by the Dynamiter Hockey Club September 20 and 21.

It is expected that some 5,000 people will partake of the two-day event which will include super special buys in every store, a ping pong ball drop over the city with specials marked for each store in town. Those catching the balls will have chances on prizes from the stores in town. A main prize of $50 will be on one of the balls.

A twist contest and limbo contest will be featured in a giant street dance to be staged September 20 evening, along with square dancing.

Promotion of the event, possibly the greatest shopping spree to be held in the East Kootenay by a group of retail merchants, will come in the form of saturation radio and print media coverage listing all special buys for the two days.

Mila Fabro will head the finance committee with Kelly Childs at the helm for advertising. Bill Spence is chairman of the entertainment committee, with Mark Redding and Frank Aikins in charge of arrangements for the ping pong ball drop. All added attractions will be in the hands of Bill Taylor.

Funeral Rites Today for Mrs. McWhinnie

KINNAIRD — Funeral services will be held from the chapel of the Castlegar Funeral Home Friday evening for a Kinnaird resident, Mrs. Lillias Grant McWhinnie, who died after a short illness in Castlegar and District Hospital Wednesday afternoon.

Mrs. McWhinnie was born in Dundee, Scotland in 1879. She married Andrew McWhinnie in 1909, residing at the Isle of Wight and Barrow-in-Fulness, where two children, Mary and Andrew were born. The family came to Canada in 1924 and settled in Trail, moving to Kinnaird in 1944.

Mrs. McWhinnie was a past honored royal lady of the Order of Royal Purple and had been an active member of the Trail United Church where she had belonged to the Ladies' Auxiliaries' Daly Club. She was an honorary member of the Kinnaird United Church Ladies' Auxiliaries and an honorary member of the Kinnaird Improvement Society.

Mrs. McWhinnie was predeceased by her husband in 1944. She is survived by her daughter, Mrs. W. J. Evans of Kinnaird and Andrew of Richmond, B.C., seven grandchildren and three great grandchildren.

Rev. F. Willie will officiate at the funeral services. Cremation will follow.

Bush Foreman Finds Springboard in Tree, As Fixed 50 Years Ago

CRANBROOK — East Kootenay Historical Association, with its museum of early industrial items in mind, had a "find" recently above Lumberton.

Allan Verch, bush foreman for JS&B Lumber Company Ltd., in thick bush found a logging springboard, which had apparently been prepared and wedged into a big larch for falling some 50 years ago, when something intervened.

Second growth in the vicinity indicated it had been for the A. E. Watts Lumber Company which operated in the first two decades of the century in the area of what later became Lumberton, headquarters for B.C. Spruce Mills Ltd.

The springboard and tree were so sound that a company faller with a powersaw, Pete Boggs stepped up on the springboard and completed falling the tree, then the springboard was removed and is in Historical Association hands. This was the early method of falling trees by hand with a crosscut saw.

The springboard is about five feet long, two inches thick, tapering at the end for wedging in the initial cut, and fitted with an iron horseshoe to hold it firmly in the cut.

Dan MacDonald of the Historical Association plans to try to get out the five-foot stump into which the springboard was fitted so it can be reassembled complete for museum purposes. Springboard falling was discontinued many years ago as wasteful logging method which left tall stumps in the woods and hindered natural reforestation.

BANK

19,000 SEEK WORK

VANCOUVER (CP)—National Employment Service figures show 19,000 persons were seeking work in B.C. this month, 1,000 fewer than at the end of June but 2,000 more than July, 1962.

Cranbrook Public Figures Involved

City Contracts With Television Company To Be Investigated

CRANBROOK — City council this week passed a resolution authorizing Alderman Don Sherling and Alderman Ed Leonard to examine and investigate all city records pertaining to contracts between the city and Cranbrook Television Ltd., closed circuit cable operators, with reference to terms for pole rental, line maintenance and installation of subscriber connections.

Their findings will be reported to city council at an unnamed date.

Contract relationship between the city and this company has been the subject of considerable discussion since it went into business six or seven years ago. Former Mayor R. E. Sang is president of the TV company and City Electrical Superintendent George Burch is a director of the company. Several weeks ago Mr. Burch reported to city council that Mr. Sherling had privately questioned him as to what financial hardship it would impose on him if he disposed of his interest in the company, and alleged unwarranted invasion of privacy.

City council at that time passed a resolution of complete confidence in Mr. Burch as electrical superintendent, with only Alderman Sherling dissenting, and also approved written assurance to the television company that it was satisfied with the terms of the contract agreement.

GIVE UP HOPE OF FINDING BOY

DEEP LAKE, Wash. (AP) — Searchers have all but given up hope of finding four-year-old Bobby Pankin alive.

An estimated 4,000 searchers, aided by a German Shepherd dog from Canada, have tramped the densely-wooded area where the Spokane boy wandered off from his mother and brothers during a hike Saturday.

Sheriff A. E. Holter sai donly a few persons would be continuing the search Thursday.

Fined $25 for Misleading UIC

CASTLEGAR — A Castlegar resident was fined $25 and costs in police court at Castlegar August 3 for giving misleading information to the Unemployment Insurance Commission.

Claude Martel pleaded guilty to misleading the Commission concerning the reasons for his separation from employment at time of filing a claim for benefits.

The case was adjudicated by Magistrate H. E. Pitts of Castlegar, B.C.

Civic Centre Bylaw Terms Plain

General Montgomery was right when he said that business and industry are like war. They both depend on people and the business leader, like the general, must understand how to use them. Much of Montgomery's success depended on this. He exploited the talents of his subordinates to the full, he delegated authority freely and never at any time, once the battle was joined, did he interfere or override his subordinates' orders. Such was his confidence in his officers and men that he could sleep peacefully while the battle raged.

It is the weak point of government departments that there is little real delegation of authority.

This delegation of authority should be the strongest feature of democracy since it is the very antithesis of autocracy. It should be so inherent in the minds of everyone that the subordinate in every case will be free to make his own decisions and be sure of the support of his superiors.

This was the intent of the city bylaw under which the Civic Centre Commission operates. It provides that the amount of money to be spent must be decided by the City Council but that matters of policy must be decided by the Commission.

No one questions the good intentions of members of Council who are attempting to bring about a settlement of the dispute between the Curling Club and the Civic Centre Commission, but before they go any further in the matter they might well consider whether legally they have any right to pass resolutions or seek to influence the Civic Centre Commission. They might also reflect that they are not a court of appeal from the Commission's decisions and that they should abide strictly by the terms of the bylaw. There is not one law for the Council and one for other people.

Frustration Flourishes When Gadgets Go Ga-Ga

Be he ever so adaptable and even-tempered, the modern householder frequently finds himself at odds with the fruits of modern industry. In the throes of such occasions he sneers at the vaunted know-how of manufacturers and growls at the shortcomings of some article whose performance fails to live up to the standard he demands.

In this, of course, the householder is not altogether just, but instead is displaying that very human irritation which is invariably aroused by the perversity of inanimate objects. It is, nevertheless, true that there are times when he is given sufficient provocation to justify his irritation.

Take as an example such a simple article as a paste pot. This is a glass jar about three inches in diameter and the same in depth. It has a built-in brush for a lid and comes from the manufacturer neatly labelled and filled with paste. Altogether a neat and efficient-looking product.

But the paste pot, innocent though it appears, is a snare and a delusion. The problem lies in that built-in brush which, for some reason the manufacturer makes about a half-inch too short to reach the bottom of the bottle. In consequence a time arrives when the user finds himself vainly wiggling and twisting the brush in an attempt to gather up some of the half-inch or more of paste which he can plainly see remaining in the bottle, but which cannot be reached by even the most intricate contortions.

The effort to so much as moisten the brush tip with paste invariably gives rise to a monumental exasperation, for the problem can be solved only by mixing the residue of paste with water in a messy operation, by refilling the bottle if a ready source of paste exists which it probably does not, or by throwing away the whole thing and purchasing a new bottle, an act likely to fill the thrifty with resentment.

Surely, in this day of industrial efficiency, it should be possible to equip a paste pot with a brush long enough to reach the bottom and flexible enough to gather paste from the edges of the bottle's interior.

A little study of the problem and the adoption of a remedy would do much to soothe the customer's shattered nerves and enhance his good will toward the manufacturer.

The paste pot is but one instance of an all-too-prevalent casualness about the consumer's feelings. It is, in fact, repeated in innumerable instances ranging from the cereal box whose top fails to tear along the dotted line to the do-it-yourself kit from which a vital screw or irreplaceable nut has been accidentally omitted.

Instances of this sort of thing are legion. There is the paint brush from which bristles periodically escape, the shirt on which one or two buttons are insecurely sewn, the tap whose washer never quite fits so that it drips and drips and drips, the comb with points that are too sharp and scratch the scalp, the scissors whose grips are just too small for fingers to fit with comfort, the new shoes with a nail left protruding in an inaccessable spot, the clock which can never be kept from running a minute or so too fast or too slow, a hundred and one such defects with the power to test human feelings beyond all endurance.

The industrial age has performed many marvels. It has supplied the average home with luxuries undreamed of a century ago. It has found solutions to most problems of living in comfort. It has created and filled needs the pioneer never knew. But in doing all these things it has at times lost sight of the fact that the most useful and attractive gadget in the world can bring its purchaser nothing but frustration if it fails to work.

No one has any desire to return to the hardy and frugal life of the pioneer, discarding the advantages of modern technology to do so. All that any man or woman asks is that there be the occasional pause in the rush of progress to examine what has been done and perfect the current model before retooling to produce something even more intricate and streamlined and susceptible to soul-searing and frustrating imperfections of manufacture.

Strange Oaths

It's probably a good move to include something about not taking drugs in the Olympic oath, which I see is being suggested; but I think we should ask ourselves whether the oath is really the place for this undertaking. Does this really sound all right? — "We swear that we will take part in the Olympic Games in loyal competition, respecting the regulations which govern them, and desirous of participating in them in the true spirit of sportsmanship, for the honor of our country and for the glory of sport, and without using benzedrine or marijuana."—Punch

Negro Mad, Filled With Hate Say Leading NAACP Officials

What is it like to be a U.S. Negro today in both the North and the South? Here is the way a cross-section of U.S. Negroes view the small and the large irritations which have culminated in a year of racial crisis.

By JUNIUS GRIFFIN
Associated Press Staff Writer

"We are not something from Porgy and Bess. . . . We want to share equally with our white brothers—yes, brothers."

These are the words of Herbert Fielding, businessman and a leader of the Negro community of Charleston, S.C.

An official of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People, Fielding prides himself on being a moderate. But he sums up the temptation to violence, to express old angers that many American Negroes feel in this summer of crisis.

"The Negro is mad," he says, "not angry, but mad and filled with a hate he has nourished for almost a lifetime."

The feeling is echoed in the North as a Negro youth suddenly snatches a white woman's handbag and flings it into the street.

"I did it because I hate white people," he explains.

You hear the word "hate" again and again as Negroes, packed into the ghettos of Harlem and Washington, try to articulate their feelings. In Savannah and Charleston you hear it once more.

BARES DISLIKE

In Columbia, S.C., a Negro talks of his "intense dislike" of the white man.

In Charlotte, N.C., a Negro says simply: "We dislike the white man, but he's doing better.

North and South, animosity is a palpable thing. In the South because the Negro feels the weight of "Jim Crow" laws, written and unwritten; in the North because he faces discrimination when he wants to get a job or live in certain neighborhoods.

Where did it all begin . . . and where will it end?

Hosea Williams, 37, militant head of the Chatham County Voters League in Savannah, said:

"We Negroes weren't born hating the white man. We have cultivated this hatred and nourished it for years hoping that one day he would make us ashamed of ourselves. But he hasn't. . . . He has given us pride . . . pride to protest and if necessary to tell him to go to hell if he doesn't allow us full and equal opportunities.

"I don't believe in tomorrow. I want equal rights for my people now. If necessary, I intend to die in Georgia fighting for what I believe is right.

In Charleston, speaking of the deepening racial crisis, Fielding said:

"We are at the bottom, the end of the rope. The only way the Negro can go is up. And if we must fight to get there, both races will wear the battle scars for generations to come."

SEES VICTORY

"From where I view the racial situation, I see us emerging with a victory. And I see the white man going down in defeat. With just a little sincere effort on the white man's part we can both leave the battle scene in victory, knowing that we have solved a century-old problem through mutual effort."

Rev. I. Dequincey Newman, NAACP state field secretary, foresees a long and bitter fight ahead for Negroes in Charleston and other parts of South Carolina.

"If the white man had any sincere desire about ending this problem," he said, "he would take down the barriers of segregation and allow responsible Negro leaders to concentrate on preparing the poor and impoverished Negro for the role he is to play in our new society.

"We no longer ask the Negro masses not to hate. We tell him that if he must hate he should try to show a little mercy. This is a harsh but realistic view."

In Columbia, Dr. Howard E. Wright, president of Allen University, an all-Negro school, said: "The task of helping our students to face the realities of our times is just as important as sending them out into the world with an academic education.

"The racial tempo here is such that any incident in a downtown restaurant or store can cause our students to drop their books and take to the street.

It's too bad that I can't join them. I can't tell them that everything will work itself out. This would be a lie."

Negroes in Columbia and Charleston live in a caste system within their own race.

Negroes who have light complexions are disdainful of their darker brothers, so much so that often they do not worship in the same churches, frequent the same clubs, live in the same neighborhoods, or even speak to each other.

E. Cedric Hart, publisher and editor of South Carolina's only Negro newspaper, said this intra-racial color problem hinders the solving of the larger racial conflict.

"My attitudes are those of a militant person," Hart said, "but I refuse to use my newspaper as a militant mouthpiece for the NAACP and disgruntled persons in the Negro community until they unite for a common good and stop bickering among themselves."

Charlotte, N.C., has eased racial barriers in hotels, restaurants, schools and recreational facilities, but still is plagued with racial problems in hospitals and in job opportunities.

Dr. Reginald A. Hawkins, a Charlotte dentist and ordained Presbyterian minister, says:

"I served in World War II and the Korean War and I have no intention of stopping my people's fight for equal rights. We want those rights now, not gradually. . . but now."

Dr. Emory L. Rann, a Charlotte physician and leading Negro moderate, has spoken against racial demonstrations.

"Our demonstrations have simply outgrown their usefulness," Dr. Rann said. "It is time we started negotiating with the city council. I don't see what good we can derive from an ugly incident which could occur during a demonstration."

Dr. Rann stands almost alone in Charlotte's Negro community.

Interpreting the News

By JOSEPH McSWEEN
Canadian Press Staf Writer

The United States has in effect demanded that the European Common Market prove by actions that it is an outward-looking community seeking general improvement in trade.

That is the interpretation in Britain of the U.S. threat to take reprisals against the six-nation community unless it reduces levies on American chickens in the so - called chicken war.

The U.S. suspicion is apparently strong that despite liberal-type statements of intention by President de Gaulle and Chancellor Adenauer, the community is moving more and more toward an exclusive posture.

In other words, France and West Germany—along with the Netherlands, Belgium, Italy and Luxembourg — are accused of looking out strictly for their own interests at the expense, if necessary, of other countries in the Atlantic community.

COMPROMISE POSSIBLE

Some experts see the conflict as so serious that they cannot believe the U.S. and the Common Market will fail to reach a compromise before Sept. 16, when the American reprisals would take effect. These would involve withdrawing $46,000,000 worth of tariff concessions on common market exports.

The background is that the Common Market has begun to put into operation a common agricultural protective system, based on variable levies on imported foods so that their prices give European farm products a preference.

The poultry case is the first in which the variable levy has seriously stung the U.S., which previously exported annually about $50,000,000 worth of frozen chickens to the Common Market, mostly to West Germany.

COULD HIT CANADA

But the fight is not really over poultry, one of the few farm products on which the European Community has managed to work out a common duty. More serious items are feared. These include cereals, where restriction by the community would be serious not only for the U.S. but for Canada.

Europe, however, feels there now should be a reconsideration of national agricultural policies, including subsidies and support systems, so that a fair and rational, as well as a liberal, farm trade system can be evolved. Europe is unhappy about the vast trade surplus the U.S. enjoys over Western Europe.

To the American administration, perhaps the greatest concern is the possible fat of the "Kennedy round" of tariff negotiations, scheduled to begin early next year after a 60-nation Geneva meeting held this summer.

President Kennedy's plan for a general slashing of tariffs—haunted by dangers since its inception—would face disaster if the atmosphere worsened between the U.S. and the Common Market.

CIVIL DEFENCE

Warning sirens are now being installed at Kootenay points under army supervision. This will greatly facilitate the Civil Defence plan for alerting the public in the event of an emergency.

Train Robbery Recalls Many Crimes That Were Similar

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

The robbery of a British mail train in England Thursday—with loss expected to exceed £1,000,000 ($3,000,000), an undetermined portion of it in cash—recalled a similar case in the United States.

In 1924, a gang stuck up an eight-car special train of the Milwaukee Railroad at Roundout, Ill., and took $2,000,000 in federal reserve cash and securities. The gang later was caught.

The biggest cash robbery in U.S. history was the $1,551,277, hijacked from a mail truck outside Plymouth, Mass., last Aug. 14.

There have been numerous cases involving loot of more than $1,000,000 but much of it in the form of securities or jewelry, rather than cash. These include the largest U.S. bank robbery on record, the $3,000,000 holdup of the Manhattan Bank Oct. 27, 1878.

FOUR TOP MILLION

In Canada, big robberies include the $3,350,000 stolen from vaults of the Brockville, Ont., Trust and Savings Company May 3-4; $1,800,000 from La Caisse Nationale d'Economic in Montreal, the previous Jan. 25-26; $1,100,000 from Bank of Montreal safety deposit boxes in Outremont, Que., Jan. 13-14, 1957, and about $1,000,000 from the Premier Trust Company in St. Catharines, Ont., Feb. 1, 1959.

Ranking second to the Plymouth case as the biggest cash haul in U.S. robberies is the Brink's holdup in Boston Jan. 17, 1950. Nine men wearing Hallowe'en masks took $1,219,000 in cash and $500,000 in non-negotiable securities from the offices of the money delivery service.

Among other big U.S. robberies were a mail truck holdup in New York's financial district by the Gerald Chapman gang in 1921, with total loot of $2,400,000; The $2,268,700 robbery—only $25,000 of it in cash—of the Lincoln, Neb. National Bank and Trust Company in September, 1930; a $1,500,000 safecracking at the home of La Vere Redfield in Reno, Nev., Feb. 29, 1952; and the theft of $1,000,000 in stocks and bonds March 19, 1952, from the home of Melvin Gutherie in Detroit.

Canada has had its share of train robberies, too.

The first was Sept. 12, 1904, when Bill Miner, Kentucky-born stage coach bandit, led a three-man gang that boarded a CPR train near Mission, B.C. They forced the engineer to unhook the mail cars and locomotive and got away with $6,000 in gold dust and $900 cash.

TRIED AGAIN

Miner tried again in 1906 east of Kamloops, B.C. But he and two companions bungled the job and were captured shortly after holding up a train. Miner was sentenced to life imprisonment but escaped after two years. He died in prison in Georgia.

On Aug. 2, 1920, three Russians held up a CPR passenger train in B.C.'s Crowsnest Pass and got away with about $300. One man, Ausby Auloff, escaped to the United States. The other two, George Akoff and Tom Basoff, were cornered in Bellevue, Alta., and in a gunbattle Akoff and two policemen were killed. Basoff got away but eventually was caught and hanged for murder.

Auloff was captured in the western United States when a watch taken from the conductor of the robbed train turned up in a pawn shop. Auloff, posing as a miner in Butte, Mont., was brought back to Canada and sentenced to seven years' imprisonment.

On June 20, 1928, eight men robbed a mail car in Toronto's Union Station, escaping to the United States with $300,000. It was the largest mail-car theft in Canadian history.

On Aug. 28, 1957, three men got $5,400 in U.S. currency from a CNR passenger train between Woodstock and Ingersoll in Ontario.

Canada's last train robbery was April 17, 1958. Then, a bandit held up the CNR Halifax-Sydney, N.S., night express and escaped with 38 packages of registered mail and two 25-pound packages of stamps.

Furniture Makers Have Lot To Learn

By REFORD MacDOUGALL

MONTREAL (CP)—The Canadian wood furniture industry has some giant steps to take if it is to grow domestically and export abroad, says Lawrence Diagneault, president of Dufresne, McLagan, Daigneault Inc., consultants to furniture and woodworking industries.

Mr. Daigneault said in an interview the Canadian wood furniture industry is in most cases unimaginative, unorganized and unwilling to adopt the latest techniques.

He based his conclusions on more than 25 years consulting experience and on impressions gained in western Europe while on a recent Ottawa-sponsored technical mission.

There are about 25 important wood furniture manufacturing firms and 300 small ones in Quebec, said Mr. Daigneault. Equally "fragmented" industry exists in Ontario.

Quebec's natural market in the U.S. is the New York area and Ontario's the American middle west.

BLAMES IMBALANCE

Canadian wood furniture exports to the U.S. amount to about $1,000,000 a year while U.S. exports to Canada total about $10,000,000.

Mr. Daigneault blames the trade imbalance on high production costs in Canada, uninspired design and the fact "our furniture is often merely a copy of U.S. designs."

"So far American firms have made no special effort to export to Canada, but should they wake up to us I don't know how our pitifully fragmented and erratically managed industry will resist them."

Mr. Daigneault suggested that the Canadian wood furniture manufacturing industry look quickly at the experiences of Denmark and Sweden, "great furniture exporters who have developed all kinds of new techniques and designs."

If Canadian furniture manufacturers develop similar techniques "it would be the fastest way of getting our products across the border."

JUMPED RIGHT IN

Another thing these countries had were craft schools which produced craftsmen able to interpret and adapt good design.

"Having no craftsmen here," Mr. Daigneault said, "we have jumped right into mass production."

The furniture manufacturing consultant had praise too for associations in Sweden and Denmark that certify furniture only after it has been tested. "This avoids junk being exported."

These countries also spent a lot of money to advertise.

Canada could do these things too, Mr. Daigneault said, "but first mergers are needed in the industry to cut distribution cost nancial, creative and managerial."

Hospital Pickets Continue

NEW YORK (AP) — Pickets returned Thursday to a hospital construction site in Brooklyn in defiance of a truce proclaimed by Negro clergymen after a conference with State Governor Nelson A. Rockefeller.

Some of the pickets posted themselves at entrances to the project, but moved away quickly when police requested them not to interfere with the movements of supply trucks.

Arnold Goldwag, a leader of the Brooklyn chapter of the Congress of Racial Equality, was in the line of 21 pickets.

About 100 policemen were at the scene.

Goldwag announced Wednesday night that picketing would continue at the Downtown Medical Center project "until we see constructive evidence of more employment opportunities for Negroes and Puerto Ricans" in the building trades.

Rev. William A. Jones Jr., spokesman for six Brooklyn clergymen who met with the governor, commented:

"We have given the governor our words of honor. We shall abide by them. We shall not let a group of irresponsible persons cause us to betray our promise."

Today In History

Aug. 9, 1963 . . .

The Ashburton - Webster Treaty was signed at Washington 121 years ago today—in 1842 — to settle outstanding differences between Canada and the United States. The treaty was negotiated by Lord Ashburton and Daniel Webster and settled, among other things, disputes on boundaries between the two neighbors. Although the treaty was not popular in Canada, the United States or Britain, it served as a compromise.

Canada Signs Treaty

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Canada Thursday signed in London, Washington and Moscow the East-West treaty outlawing nuclear tests everywhere but underground, joining the first nations in a parade of about 60 expected to join the historic pact eventually.

Champagne toasts marked the occasion in London, where High Commissioner George Drew signed for Canada. In Washington, Ambassador S. A. Ritchie's signature followed those of the Australian and Mexican envoys. Ambassador Arnold C. Smith signed in Moscow's Spiridonovka Palace with 23 other diplomats.

In Ottawa, External Affairs Minister Paul Martin marked the occasion with a statement hailing the treaty as eliminating the most serious source of radioactive contamination "which constitutes such a hazard to human health and future generations."

Mr. Martin said it would be "premature and rash" to assume that the cold war will cease as a result of "this limited instrument."

"On the other hand it has now been demonstrated that agreement can be achieved by patient exploration of areas of common interest."

France, an atomic power, China and West Germany were noticeably absent from Thursday's signing ceremonies.

Drew interrupted his vacation on the island of Elba for the London ceremony.

In Washington, the signing parade started through the diplomatic reception room of the state department a few hours before the time chosen by President Kennedy to submit the new East-West pact to the Senate along with a special message urging Senate approval.

NEED SENATE VOTE

Senate ratification by the necessary two-thirds vote is expected in about a month, but not before, some reservations to the ban on blasts in the atmosphere, the sea and outer space have been registered.

The day-long series of signing ceremonies was expected to have the effect, if not the intent, of showing the senators some of the worldwide backing for the pact they are called upon to judge.

Ambassador Sir Howard Beale, signing for Australia, led the line of dignitaries in the Washington signing of the pact, putting his name on the document shortly before 9 a.m. EDT. He was followed by Mexico's plenipotentiary, Ambassador Antonio Carrillo Flores, and Canada's ambassador to the United States, S. A. Ritchie.

Significantly absent from all the lists of countries joining the test ban were the two most important nations outside the big three—France and Communist China.

France is in process of becoming a nuclear power and President Charles de Gaulle made clear to President Kennedy in a letter this week that he will not be diverted by the test ban and does not intend to sign it. China is waging a bitter propaganda campaign against the treaty, denouncing the Soviet Union for participating.

In all, more than 90 countries were expected to affix signatures in the next few days to the document signed in Moscow a week ago by State Secretary Dean Rusk of the United States, Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko of the Soviet Union and the Earl of Home, British foreign minister.

Legal aspects of the signing by regimes not recognized by all three depository governments—the U.S., Russia and Britain—are still under examination.

East European countries not recognized by the western countries were signing in Moscow while countries not recognized in Moscow were to sign in Washington and London.

MOSCOW (Reuters) — U.S. State Secretary Dean Rusk flew from here Thursday for talks on easing East-West tensions with Premier Nikita Khrushchev at his summer villa at Gagra on the Black Sea coast.

Rusk was accompanied by American Ambassador Foy Kohler and Ambassador at Large Llewellyn Thompson, who preceded Kohler at the Moscow post.

Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko also flew to the Black Sea coast, accompanied by Anatoli Dobrynin, the Soviet ambassador to the United States.

KASLO — At the Sacred Heart Church at Kaslo, Judy May Command, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ken Command of Kaslo, was united in marriage with Mr. Adrian Dupuis, son of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Dupuis of Nakusp, August 3 at 11 a.m.

Rev. Father Boyle officiated at the quiet family service.

The bride was lovely in an off-white suit with a box jacket and pink accessories. She wore a corsage of pink carnations and red rosebuds.

The bride was attended by her sister, Mrs. R. Ferguson, as matron of honor. Mrs. Ferguson wore a yellow linen suit and white accessories. She chose a corsage of white carnations and pink rosebuds.

The groom was supported by Mr. Richard Ferguson, the bride's brother-in-law, as best man.

A reception followed at the home of the bride's parents. A family luncheon was followed by open house, the buffet-style lunch served at 2 p.m.

For the reception, the bride's mother chose a dress of rose lace with white accessories. She wore a corsage of white carnations.

Mrs. Edward Allen made the wedding cake. It was a single layer cake decorated in pure white with silver leaves. The cake was surrounded with pink tulle and two vases of red roses.

After a short honeymoon trip the couple will set up residence at Nakusp where the groom is employed by Celgar.

Out of town guests for the occasion were the groom's family; his brothers, sisters and father, from Nakusp. His mother was unable to attend.

District Brownies Enjoy Four Days at Camp Rory

Eighteen Nelson and District Brownies and leaders have just returned from a successful first four-day pack holiday held at Camp Rory, south of Rossland.

"Theme" of the camp was "Alice in Wonderland" and those attending were:

Cabin 1 — The "Mad Hatters" — junior leader: Jan Wik from the First Willow Point Guide Company; Brownies, Sherry Heddle, Heather Kettleson, Kim Olson, Wendy Frocklage, Mary Lou Maglio, Lavonne Ridge.

Cabin 2 — The "Dormice" — junior leader: Lynne Johnson from the Third Nelson Guide Company; Brownies, Linda Hamilton, Chris Sabiston, Colleen Laughton, Rose Mary Maglio, Norma West, Sharon Jones.

Cabin 3 — The "White Rabbits" — junior leader: Judy Anderson from the First Willow Point Guide Company; Brownies, Debbie Gold, Penny Freno, Margaret Richardson, Jo-Anne McClenaghan, Yvonne Cole, Stephanie Allan.

Leaders for the camp were: Mrs. Marion Haverstock, (Brown Owl and Guide captain) from Crawford Bay as "Alice", leaders in training, Mrs. W. Hamilton (Brown Owl from Willow Point) and Mrs. J. S. Hamilton (Div. Commissioner) of Nelson as "Tweedle Dum and Tweedle Dee".

Camp cook was Mrs. C. Richardson as "Queenie" and cook's helper, Robert Richardson, as "Chester". Everybody's Helper was little Kathy Hamilton as "Bunny".

All the Brownies learned to "lend a hand" at camp by keeping their cabins neat and tidy, washing dishes, doing cleaning chores, and helping prepare vegetables.

Other activities were: handicraft sessions, swimming in the pool, games, sing songs and nature rambles.

At the end of the camp, the Mad Hatters were the guests at a Mad Hatters Tea Party, as they were the winners of the inspection chart, which took the Brownies through Alice's Wonderland. Each girl made a "mad hat" and wore it to the party. Each Brownie was awarded a "badge" for outstanding achievements at camp and Good Camper Awards were given to Chris Sabiston, Linda Hamilton, Sherry Heddle, Debbie Gold, Rose Mary Maglio, Mary Lou Maglio, Penny Freno, Margaret Richardson and Lavonne Ridge.

Morehouse - Kosiancic

Nuptial Vows Heard In Fairview Church

Blessed Sacrament Church in Fairview was scene of a pretty midsummer wedding when Shirley Annette Kosiancic exchanged marriage vows and rings with Mr. Dale Munro Morehouse before Rev. D. Langi.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. V. J. Kosiancic and the bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. I. F. Morehouse.

The bride was charming in her full-length white sheer organza gown over peau de soie and net. The bodice featured lily point sleeves and Alencon lace appliques added interest to the neck and waistlines, repeated on the skirt front in small appliques. A large bow was featured in the back.

Her satin-covered crown headpiece was trimmed with tiny pearls and tulle veiling. She carried a colonial bouquet of white carnations and pink roses.

Bridesmaid Laura Hecker of Passmore chose a street-length bouffant gown of white chiffon over taffeta with green cummerbund and matching jacket with white lace overlay.

Junior bridesmaids Carol Anne Winstanley of Nelson wore a street-length, full-skirted white arnel dress with pink taffeta cummerbund and matching jacket featuring white lace overlay.

Both attendants wore identical headpieces with white satin ribbon, organza flower and veiling. Their bouquets were of white carnations and pink rosebuds.

Mr. Richard Catton of Crescent Valley supported the bridegroom as best man and Mr. Wally Fulkco of Nakusp was usher.

The mother of the bride was gowned in mauve brocaded satin, sheath style, with white accessories and tinted carnation corsage. The mother of the bridegroom chose an embossed beige silk sheath with green shoes and touches of green on her beige cloche hat. Her corsage was of yellow roses.

At a reception held in the Nelson Hotel, a three-tiered wedding cake centred the bride's table. The cake, baked by the mother of the bride, was decorated by a long-time friend of the family, Mrs. J. D. Yeatman of South Slocan.

Telegrams were read by master of ceremonies Mr. Ray Kosiancic. The messages of congratulation were from Duncan, White Rock, Revelstoke, Cranbrook and Kimberley.

For travelling to Vancouver, the bride changed into a yellow two-piece ensemble with matching whimsie hat and gloves and gardenia corsage.

The newlyweds are temporarily residing at Nakusp, where the bridegroom is employed by Celgar Ltd.

NDP Women's Program Head Attracts Women to Public Life

REGINA (CP) — Miss Eva Latham of Ottawa, director of the New Democratic Party women's program, said Tuesday 144 federal constituencies now have NDP women's groups.

She said NDP women have organized provincial councils in seven provinces.

Miss Latham was recruited by the party a year and a half ago to develop women's activities with the objective of attracting more women to public life.

"There is a women's point of view which needs to be presented," she said in an interview during the NDP national convention. "In certain areas such as welfare women have the experience—in their care for their children and sometimes their parents, and in caring for illnesses in the home.

"Women are closer to their children's educational needs than men are, and tend to understand more fully the problems of the schools."

She said she hopes the NDP women's program will attract housewives with small childen, so that when their children reach school age the mothers will be ready to take part in political life.

The program is designed to give women experience in running and planning meetings, in speaking from platforms and taking part in panel discussions.

An indication of the success of the program, Miss Latham said, was that there were six NDP women candidates in the April 8 federal election.

For the most part, she has seen "a great eagerness on the part of women to discover how to make the best contribution."

Miss Latham joined the CCF party, parent of the NDP, in the 1930's and was executive director of the YWCA here for six years before assuming her position with the NDP.

She said that this summer she will accompany NDP officials including National Leader T. C. Douglas to Germany at eeeeee vitation of th Grman Socialist party.

In Amsterdam, The Netherlands, she will attend the International Council of Social Dmocratic Women and in Scotland will attend the conference of Scottish Women Socialists.

Miss Latham said sh also plans to attend a meeting of British Socialist Women in London.

Peaches Shortcake Alaska Simple, Tasty

Peaches Shortcake Alaska is a glamorous dessert that is simple to make. The shortcake is a rich biscuit dough baked in a rectangular pan instead of cut into rounds. Topped with vanilla ice cream and fresh peach halves, the shortcake is frosted generously with meringue. Only the tops of the peaches peek out from under the delicately browned snowcaps.

Shortcake is one of many quick breads which take few ingredients and little time to prepare. Most popular of these are baking powder biscuits. Served plain or fancy they are always favoured at the breakfast table or with soup and a salad for lunch.

When the shortcake for the Peaches Alaska comes out of the oven it is allowed to cool before being transferred to a cutting board. It is the wooden board on the bottom and the meringue on top which act as insulation and keep the ice cream from melting during the browning of the meringue.

PEACHES SHORTCAKE ALASKA: Yield: 8 servings

SHORTCAKE: ½ cup shortening, 2¼ cups sifted pastry flour, 3 teaspoons baking powder, 2 tablespoons sugar, ½ teaspoon salt, 2 egg yolks, ½ cup milk (about).

TOPPING: 2 egg whites, 3 tablespoons sugar, 1 pint vanilla ice cream, 8 peach halves.

Sift together dry ingredients for the shortcake. Cut the shortening into the flour with a pastry blender until the mixture is the consistency of corn meal.

Separate eggs, reserving whites for topping. Place egg yolks in a measuring cup. Add enough milk to measure ¾ cup. Stir well. Add to dry ingredients and blend until a soft dough is formed.

Turn onto a lightly floured board. Knead 10 times.

Place in an 11 by 7 by 1½ inch baking pan. Pat to fit the pan.

Bake in a very hot oven (450 deg. F.) about 20 minutes. Remove from oven and cool.

Beat 2 egg whites until frothy. Gradually add 3 tablespons sugar and continue beating until stiff but not dry.

Place cake on a wooden cutting board. Slice ice cream and place on top of shortcake. Arrange peach halves, cut side down over ice cream. Cover cake thoroughly with a thick coating of meringue, leaving only tops of peaches uncovered.

Bake in a very hot oven (475 deg. F.) for 2 to 4 minutes, until merinkue is delicately browned Slip cake from board onto a platter.

Slice and serve immediately.

FAMILY'S FAVOURITE BISCUITS — Yield: 14 small or 7 large biscuits: 1/3 cup shortening, 2¼ cups sifted pastry flour, 2½ teaspoons baking powder, ½ teaspoon salt, 2/3 cup milk.

Cut shortening into flour which has been sifted with baking powder and salt, until the mixture is the consistency of corn meal. Make a well in dry ingredients, add milk and stir.

Turn onto lightly floured board. Knead 6 times. Roll or pat to ½ inch thickness. Cut. Will make 14 small (2 inches in diameter) or 7 large (2¾ inches in diameter) biscuits.

Place on baking sheet and bake in a very hot even (450 deg. F.) for 12 to 15 minutes.

Mrs. Webb in Fine Fettle On Her 96th Birthday

KASLO — A surprise birthday party was held for Mrs. S. Webb on her 96th birthday, at the home of Mrs. Mac Laybourne.

At a table centered with an angel food cake decorated in off-white icing and topped with a large red rose, the 12 guests were served a light lunch. Following this Mrs. Webb opened the many gifts that were offered.

Mrs. Webb, a lively 96, has never had to wear glasses and can still boast of being able to read the newspaper without them. As a pastime, when she has finished her share of the housework, Mrs. Webb works in her garden.

Her only complaint at having her picture taken was: "I didn't use to mind having my picture taken — I used to be prettier than I am now!"

A word of wisdom on her birthday was the comment: "Take care of yourself, don't pretend that you can't do it — Don't be one of these dummies."

Trail Father and Son Team Top Fishermen

A father and son fishing team from Trail took two of the largest fish from Kootenay Lake in the past week.

Dr. Wilson and his son George led the tens of fishermen dropping their lines into the lake by landing two prized Rainbows, 15 and 19 pounds. The 19-pounder, although not the biggest fish of the year, was large enough to be the week's largest fish.

Reports from Balfour, Kaslo and Nelson show that fishing is "very good" and comparable to past weeks.

A Kaslo couple, Mr. and Mrs. Cameron Clark, boated the week's second largest fish, a 17-pound Rainbow, while a visiting Bonner's Ferry couple hooked a 7½-pound Rainbow.

A Nelson fisherman, Don Nutter, and his brother Eugene of Calgary, established a spinning high for the year when he landed an 11-pounder, after fighting the Rainbow fury for over two hours.

Another Nelson fishing family, Mrs. D'Arcy Hughes and her sons, caught a 10-pound Rainbow.

Reports from Kaslo show that most of the fish were in the two to 10-pound bracket, with Gibbs No. 5, Kamlures and Gatley spoons the best lures.

Fly fishing is also good in the area, especially around the rock bluffs and creek mouths.

BEST CREEK

Kaslo Creek is the best creek in the area, with many fishermen limiting out with 10 to 14-inch trout.

Fishing at Balfour has also been good, especially for G. Battistella of Trail, who caught almost 23 pounds of Rainbows. The Trail fisherman, using a fly, caught 9½, 7 and 6-pound Rainbows respectively.

Jim Craigdallie of Balfour also caught a 9½-pounder to share the biggest catch with the Trail fisherman.

Other large catches were: Grant Gariepy of Trail, 7 pound Kamloops trout; David Demore, Trail, 2½-pound Rainbow; Al Davidson, 7 and 3-pound Rainbows; Jack Johnston, Trail, 4 and 6-pound Rainbows, and Jack Weber, Balfour, 8-pounder.

Most of the catches have been made on willow leaf and worm, followed by deadly dicks. The deadly dicks are the best lures for the Kokanee which have nested in the Balfour area for the past few weeks.

Fishing below Nelson is reported as slow with the exception of Slocan Pool and the dams.

All the creeks in the area are reported as excellent for fly fishing.

SUCCESSFUL ANGLER in Balfour during the past week was Jim Craigdallie of Balfour, who holds 9½-pound Rainbow trout he caught. A similar size trout was caught by G. Battistella of Trail.

Fishing, Riding Attract Visitors to Harrop Area

HARROP — Many visitors from various parts of Canada and the United States have been attracted to the Harrop area this summer.

Fishing has been excellent and frequent nibblers at this time are Kokanee and Rainbow trout.

Enthusiastic horse lovers are also a daily sight in this hamlet. During July more than 100 children from Lourdes Camp were given an afternoon of riding by Herbert Harrop, who operates the Harrop Riding School.

Every weekend children from Castlegar and Trail are keen riders. Two carloads of Spokane residents took out horses and last week several tourists from Texas spent a day riding.

In two years, more than 1500 rides have been organized, some locally, and many long treks to Kokanee Glacier Park have been arranged. There have been trips also to Crawford Bay via the main lake ferries.

Local children often exercise the horses when necessary.

Group Still Hopes to Organize Team

Nelson Maple Leaf centreman Howie Hornby let it be known Thursday that he did not wish his name to stand as being instrumental in a possible last-ditch reorganization of the hockey team.

Instead, he said, he had suggested to the Daily News only that names of persons interested in getting behind such a reorganization be forwarded to the News sports editor. In turn, he was willing to see that the names were forwarded to persons he knew would work for reorganization if enough volunteers were available. He preferred to work anonymously.

WIHL secretary - treasurer Glen Mason announced in Trail this week that Nelson would not be in the league this season, but it is the hope of some interested persons that Nelson can make another attempt at having a team in the league.

Lumber Unions Settle Terms

PORTLAND (AP) — The big Georgia-Pacific Corporation and the lumber unions came to terms Thursday.

Their settlement with a 30½-cent average wage increase spread over three years could lead to an end of the two-month industry strike that only last week had idled as many as 29,000 men.

Georgia-Pacific said it considered it a pacemaking agreement toward settlement. Georgia-Pacific is large enough that other employers will give thought to it.

The company employs some 5000 persons in its struck operations in Northern California, Oregon and Washington.

Only one other big employer had settled earlier. That was Simpson Timber Co. — also with upward of 5000 men — which signed July 20 for an increase of 33½ cents on a three-year agreement.

Rookie Kempf's Kicking Carries Lions To Decisive Victory Over Roughriders

REGINA (CP) — The kicking of rookie Canadian Peter Kempf carried British Columbia Lions to a 16-7 win over Saskatchewan Roughriders in a Western Football Conference game before 12,605 fans Thursday night.

Kempf, an end who played his college ball at Western Washington, booted three field goals and converted a first-quarter touchdown by fullback Nub Beamer for a 16-point outing during his team's first regular league game of the season.

The win moved Lions into a first-place tie with Calgary Stampeders and the Riders, each with a single win.

Halfback Bill Gray scored a Rider touchdown in the first quarter which was converted by Reg Whitehouse and Riders were held in check the rest of the way.

Lions, who swamped Saskatchewan 40-0 in an exhibition game, dominated play but a tough defence kept Roughriders in the game. The clubs battled to a 7-7 deadlock in the first quarter and Lions led 13-7 at the half. Lions lengthened the margin to 16-7 in the third quarter. The final session was scoreless.

Beamer and halfback Willie Fleming sparked the Lions with a great running display as the along the ground and had 24 B.C. club amassed 269 yards first downs compared with a meagre 54 yards running by Riders and only nine first downs.

Statistics showed Fleming with a net gain of 145 yards on 14 carries and Beamer with 105 on 20.

Neither team did too much through the air. B.C. quarterback Joe Kapp completed seven of 17 pass attempts for 77 while Bob Ptacek and M. C. Reynolds, who shared signal calling duties for Riders, completed seven of 21 for 68 yards.

Ptacek was a defensive standout, intercepting two of Kapp's passes, one of them in the Saskatchewan end zone late in the game. Linebacker Neil Habig also intercepted a Kapp pass.

Linebacker Norm Fieldgate intercepted one of Ptacek's passes and defensive halfback Neil Beaumont intercepted one of Reynold's aerials behind the goal-line to snuff out a Rider threat in the third quarter.

The game started spectacularly with Lions scoring a touchdown after three minutes of play and Riders coming back with a touchdown just three minutes later. However, neither club could finish off its touchdown drives the rest of the way.

Lions rolled for 68 yards in seven plays for their opening salvo the first time they got their hands on the ball. Fine running by Beamer and Fleming and a Kapp pass to Hanley Sonny Homer for 22 yards highlighted the march which culminated in Beamer barging over from one yard out.

Riders came back on a scintillating run of 75 yards by Gray who then carried from the Lion three-yard line for six points.

Kempf then took over the balance of the scoring. He booted field goals from 14 and 23 yards in the second quarter and added a 12-yard field goal in the third quarter.

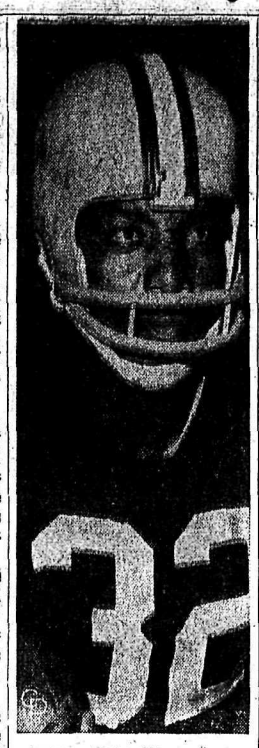
BOOTS FIELD GOAL

A pass interference call against Riders in their end zone gave Lions a first down at the Rider 10 early in the second quarter. Halfback Norris Stevenson carried for four yards but Kapp failed to click on a second-down pass and Kempf booted his first field goal to give Lions a 10-7 lead.

Late in the second quarter, Reynolds fumbled when hit by a horde of Lions tacklers and guard Barney Therrien recovered the ball for B.C. at the Rider 30. Kempf kicked his second field goal with one second remaining in the half.

The final scoring play came early in the third quarter and was set up by the interception by Fieldgate. The B.C. linebacker latched onto Ptacek's pass at the Rider 31 and ran to the 20-yard line.

Lions then advanced for a first down at the Rider nine and a Saskatchewan offside gave them a first down at the four-yard-line. Ptacek knifed in to drop Fleming for a one-yard loss and a second-down pass by Kapp was no good, setting the stage for Kempf's final field goal.



BROWNS' BOMBER — Jimmy Brown, five times National Football League leader in rushing, has eyes set on regaining that crown again this season. It was won last year by the Green Bay Packers' powerful Jim Taylor.

Argos Say Parker To Play In Tonight's EFC Opener

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Not long ago Toronto Argonauts lured customers into exhibition football games with such enticing newspaper blurbs as "come and see Jackie Parker play."

Folks didn't get much of a look—two plays in Toronto to be precise — but Argos say they'll fix all that tonight when they open the 1963 Eastern Football Conference season in Toronto against Ottawa Rough Riders.

"Parker will start at quarterback," the Argonauts declared in Thursday's newspapers. There were no ifs, ands or buts.

The brilliant but gimpy-legged quarter, the most glittering box-office attraction in Canadian football, apparently is fully recovered from an ankle injury that knocked him out of most pre-season exhibition action.

BAD NEWS FOR CLAIR

This is anything but heartening news for coach Frank Clair and his Rough Riders.

The Argonauts and Riders launch the 1963 campaign—a 14-game schedule with a partial interlocking hookup with the Western Conference—at 8 p.m. EDT.

The other two Eastern clubs, ton Tiger-Cats, start their campaign in Hamilton Saturday night. Kickoff time is 8 p.m.

Each of the Eastern teams plays four interlocking games with the West.

Argos, who finished last in 1962 with only four victories behind the faltering arm of quarterback Tobin Rote, have made 17 changes in their squad of last season. The biggest switch involved Parker.

COST FIVE PLAYERS

Argonauts picked him up from Edmonton Eskimos of the Western Conference, giving the Esks five players and $15,000. They were so tickled with the deal that they started thinking about the Grey Cup and lost no time in reminding fans they had hailed the best quarterback in the country, even though he had been bothered by knee troubles at the age of 31.

Parker injured his ankle in an Argonaut inter-squad game. You had to be an early arrival to see him in Toronto's first exhibition game. He took part only in pre-game callisthenics. He was in for only two plays in the next game, then limped off the field. Argonauts ended their four-game exhibition series with two wins and two losses.

Toronto coach Nobby Wirkowski made other trades that strengthened the club, including the acquisition of fullback Larry Hickman and linebackers Ron Brewer and Dick Schnell.

The Riders, who finished second behind the Ticats and ahead of the Als last season, will have 14 rookies in the lineup. Clair says the club is not as good right now as it was last year but he looks for big improvement before the end of the campaign.

NOT GOOD ENOUGH

"We didn't finish well last year," he said. "We just weren't good enough so we had to make some changes, ones we feel will pay off in the future.

"We'll lose some games but we'll never look terrible. These boys won't die on me, I know that."

The Als invade Hamilton behind the leadership of coach Jim Trimble. It will be the first league appearance against the club he coached so successfully for four years. He left the Ticat head-coaching job at the end of the 1962 season and moved to Montreal.

Trimble says he has a couple of defensive wrinkles to spring on the Ticats, being guided by former assistant coach Ralph Sazio since Trimble's departure.

Jungle Jim's problem at the moment is to cut two imports by Saturday noon. The cuts are expected to be made among fullback-linebacker John Nichols and quarterbacks Tom Maudlin and Francis Marriott.

Santo, Carmel Play Giant Killers in Cub, Met Wins

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Ron Santo and Duke Carmel played the giant killer roles Thursday in the National League for Chicago Cubs and New York Mets.

Santo's 10th inning homer, his second of the day, gave the Cubs a 5-4 victory over Los Angeles Dodgers. Carmel, a Cardinal until July 29, beat his old St. Louis mates with an eighth-inning homer 3-2.

As a result of the defeats of the Dodgers and Cardinals, idle San Francisco Giants edged into second place, and gained one-half game on the Dodgers, whose lead now measures 5½ games. The Cards dropped out of a second-place tie.

New York Yankees continued to roll, beating Washington again 3-1, on a six-hitter by Ralph Terry. Phil Linz started the Yanks on their way with a fifth inning homer off Don Rudolph.

RADATZ LOSES AGAIN

Rocky Colavito's 10th inning single sent Dick Radatz down to his third straight defeat as Detroit topped Boston 6-3. Minnesota whipped Los Angeles Angels 3-0 behind Dick Stigman's five-hitter.

In night games, Cincinnati defeated Philadelphia 6-3, Pittsburgh blanked Milwaukee 1-0 behind Bob Friend's six-hitter, Cleveland's Dick Donovan shut out Baltimore 2-0 on three hits and Gary Peters won his sixth in a row as the Chicago White Sox downed Kansas City 5-3.

Santo had tied the score for the Cubs with his 19th homer in the fifth after a Dodger home run barrage had routed Bob Buhl and rolled up a 4-3 lead. Santo hit No. 20 off Larry Sherry in the 10th.

Buhl retired the first 14 Dodgers before rookie Al Ferrara hit his first major league homer in the fifth. After a double by Johnny Roseboro, Frank Howard hit a two-run pinch homer. Bill Skowron followed with a pinch homer off relief man Don Elston.

HAUNTS OLD TEAM

Carmel came back to haunt his old mates with his first homer as a Met. It came off loser Bobby Shantz in the eighth. Ray Sadecki knocked in the first Card run off Al Jackson in the second with a single and Charlie James homered in the fourth. The Mets got to Sadecki for two in the fourth on singles by Ron Hunt, Frank Thomas, Carmel and Al Moran.

Terry had to put down a Washington threat in the ninth when he lost his shutout. Don Blasingame led off the ninth with a double, took third on an infield out and scored on Chuck Hinton's sacrifice fly. Jim King beat out a bunt but Don Lock popped to second for the final out.

Tony Kubek's single, Bobby Richardson's double and Tom Tresh's single knocked out Rudolph in the eighth inning.

SCORE IN 10TH

The Tigers scored in the 10th when Billy Bruton singled, stole second, moved to third on a wild pitch and came home on Colavito's fly to tag Radatz with his third defeat in six days. Gary Geiger hit two homers for Boston for the second straight day.

A two - run second against Paul Foytack gave the Twins all they needed against the Angels. Earl Battey tripled and scored on a single by Zoilo Versalles. Versalles came home on a single by Rich Rollins.

SAVOY SOCCER CLUB TO PLAY IN TOURNAMENT

Nelson Savoy Soccer Club, idle during the months of July and August, will have a chance to limber up this coming Saturday and Sunday, when it travels to Spokane to take part in Spokane's first soccer tournament.

Besides Nelson, clubs from Seattle, Vernon, Kelowna and Grand Forks will be participating.

The teams will play for a trophy, which can be held permanently if the same club wins the tournament two years in a row.

There will be a practice session for the Nelson squad tonight and the team will leave for Spokane Saturday morning at 8 from the Civic Centre.

Stasiuk Appointed Coach of Hornets

PITTSBURGH (AP) — Vic Stasiuk, a veteran hockey player, has been appointed player-coach of Pittsburgh Hornets in the American Hockey League.

He will replace Jack Stewart, who guided Hornets last season.

Stasiuk, who has been playing professional hockey since 1948, played 22 games for Hornets during the 1962-63 season. He usually plays left wing but was on defence in most of the games with Hornets.

Hornets manager Baz Bastien also announced the sale of centre Norm Corcoran to Providence Reds. The price wasn't disclosed.

Church Complaint Brings Darwin Ban

By WESSEL de KOCK

PRETORIA, South Africa (AP)—Education Minister Jan de Klerk has banned exhibits on the evolution of man from the Transvaal Museum here after complaints from ministers of Dutch Reformed Churches.

In a letter to the museum's curators he said the exhibits are offensive to a large section of the population. The display was only recently completed.

Ten years ago, after complaints from Dutch Reformed Churches, the labels on a similar exhibit in the Transvaal Museum were changed to make it clear that Darwinism was a theory. But the churches were not satisfied. They arranged that schoolchildren on conducted tours of the museum should not be shown the exhibit.

A memorandum about the present evolution display was put before a recent synod of the Dutch Reformed Church, which represents the 60-percent Afrikaners in the country's white population—South Africans of mainly Dutch, French and German stock.

'ADAM WAS FIRST'

The synod's commission on public morals complained to de Klerk that the theory of evolution conflicts with holy writ. They insisted Adam was the first man and that man did not evolve from apelike creatures.

"Man was formed in God's image and there is no question of a gradual change from animals to man," the memorandum said.

Comments the Johannesburg Star: "If man really was made in the image of God, all that can be said without disrespect is that this has proved no compliment to God."

Another paper finds it "bizarre" that South Africa, which has produced more evidence of the evolution than any other single country, should be in the throes of a controversy about the theory.

ILLUSTRATE THEORIES

Still another paper holds that, whether one belives in evolution or "instant man," the normal function of a museum is to illustrate scientific theories.

But de Klerk preferred the church's viewpoint. In the past it has swayed him to ban nude sculpture from public buildings in the administrative capital of Pretoria.

His department is gradually regimenting South Africa's education to the standards of Christian national education—the declared policy of the white nationalist government of Premier Hendrik Verwoerd. According to this policy all learning should be "Christian"—based on the teaching of the Afrikaans-speaking churches—and students must be protected against "foreign" theories.

"One newspaper complain "The spirit of free inquiry in South Africa is being shrunk, along with so many other freedoms."

B.C. Highlights

MISSION (CP) —The $1,348,000 hospital project which has just started here will provide more than 100 jobs to skilled and unskilled workers in this Fraser Valley Community, the contractor said Wednesday. R. G. Saunders, manager of Smith Bros. and Wilson of Vancouver said it will take about 16 months to complete the 70-bed hospital.

VANCOUVER (CP) — A 27-year-old mother was convicted of attempting to procure an abortion here. Magistrate Gordon Scott found Shirley Wilkinson, 27, guilty despite her plea that arrangements for the abortion had not been completed. He postponed sentence to Friday to give her time to arrange care for her children.

World Briefs

HAZARD UP

PRINCE GEORGE (CP) — Continuing high temperatures combined with occasional lightning strikes Wednesday increased the forest fire hazard in the Prince George forest district to moderate. Six new fires have broken out in the last 24 hours. All are under control.

EQUIPMENT PRESENTED

PRINCE GEORGE (CP) — Mobile equipment valued at $28,000 was turned over to the Prince George Civil Defence Zone by Lands and Forests Minister Williston here Wednesday. The two units, a mobile disaster feeding truck and a rescue truck, bringing to 6 the number of CD units stationed here. Mr. Williston said civil defence has been the subject of public controversy because Canadians cannot accept the fact disasters can happen in Canada.

ROOMS AVAILABLE

VANCOUVER (CP) — There still are more than 200 first-class hotel rooms with bath available in downtown Vancouver for Grey Cup week in November. J. Roy Corbett, managing director of the B.C. Hotels Association, denied reports that no such accommodation was available. In addition, there are another 500 good hotel rooms in the suburbs, he said.

Freighter Crew Returns On Plane

CHURCHILL, Man. (CP)—A chartered aircraft carrying the crew of the sunken grain carrier Kastela returned here early Thursday, two hours after departure for Yugoslavia.

The cause of the return was reported to have been the failure of an engine. The aircraft left this Hudson Bay shipping centre 610 miles north of Winnipeg carrying the 34 crew taken off the 7,000-ton Yugoslav ship Saturday by the Canadian icebreaker N.B. McLean.

The ship, carrying 10,000 tons of wheat for Britain, sank near the mouth of Hudson Strait, north of Hudson Bay.

B.C. Highlights

PATROLS INCREASED

PRINCE GEORGE (CP) — The RCMP highway patrol here is being beefed up as part of a province wide campaign to cut down on traffic deaths and injuries. An additional marked car will arrive here in the next few days and a ghost car will be put into service on the Cariboo Highway, a spokesman said Wednesday.

MAN FIND

PRINCE GEORGE (CP) — James Ralph Arseneault, 24, of Abbotsford was fined $200 after he was found guilty in magistrates court of fraud involving a worthless $11.68 cheque. He was ordered to make restitution.

Report on Russia

Soviet Rate of Growth Has Been Steep

Alan Harvey, London bureau chief of The Canadian Press, has been a month in the Soviet Union. In this story he discusses current Russian ideological attitudes and their consequences.

By ALAN HARVEY

MOSCOW (CP)—The gap between what is and what could be constitutes one of the fundamental riddles of changing Russia.

Though great progress has been made since Stalin's time toward a more relaxed and sensible approach, the Soviet Union has not yet fully accomplished the leap into rationality.

When the Communist party line permits freedom to Soviet thinkers, ideas sprout like mushrooms after rain.

"It's absolutely fantastic," said a Czech-born Western expert. "In all th escientific areas of which I have personal experience, the rate of growth has been tremendously steep. It shows what could be done if professional talents were completely liberated."

But the nation is still harnessed to a myth, still trying to prove that the Marxist tablets of stone are untarnished, still obsessively suspicious of the West.

It drives you dizzy trying to remain strictly objective. Friendly Russians keep insisting that you are seeing things with Western eyes, that you have been "shaped" from the cradle to detest Communist methods, that you can never really understand Russian ways.

NO SELF-DOUBT

With the best will in the world, having come to appreciate the intrinsic qualities of a notable people and having made allowance for historical handicaps, a visitor may reluctantly assert some doubts. For instance, the impression emerges of:

A huge, waterlogged bureaucracy, seesawing between self-importance and servility; an officious machine that evades responsibility and sticks to the safety of "channels."

A rank - ridden society, conservative and bound to a central orthodoxy.

A heavily moralizing ideology, repetitive and often artificial, immune to self-doubt or inner questioning.

All this, plus a prickly defensiveness toward the outer world designed to shut out "dangerous" ideas. A distorting mirror is held toward the West, portrayed as riddled with strikes, racial discrimination and colonialism.

Fortunately, the holy writ of Marxism is subject to an inner elasticity of interpretation. Nikita Khrushchev is a pragmatic man, and his flexibility enables him to stickhandle deftly through the packed defence of the ideological diehards.

BASIC NEEDS FILLED

In essence, many Westerners agree, much of internal Communist policy may be applauded. I have been frequently reminded, during a month-long tour, that nobody need fall below a certain level; communal services are among the best in the world; material comforts have improved in the last few years and will go on improving.

Much else may be praised—the attitude to education, the attention to sport, the attempt to shape a "new Soviet man" who puts the collective good ahead of individual gratification.

After recent spy trials and espionage scares, the attitude toward Western contacts was said to have stiffened. This is probably true but could not be corroborated from my own experience. I travelled freely about the country without interference and was met invariably with courtesy, often with real kindness.

Gradually the impression grew of a climate of genuine idealism, particularly among younger people. There was something refreshing, almost touching, in the way many spoke of their Communist faith. There are also cities, grumblers and malcontents; but their objections are usually made within the context of an acceptance that the Soviet Union will remain a Communist state.

"I think other people worry more about our system than we do," one party supporter said thoughtfully, puzzled by a barrage of questions. It seemed "natural to him to be Communist.

Soviet citizens are chauvinistic. Love of country is often equated with ideology, just as Communism is identified with Russia's rapid industrialization.

When I remarked on what seemed to be a kind of springtime sincerity among youth, a Western observer commented:

"They are innocents manipulated by cynics. I think I'd rather have it our way—cynics manipulated by cynics."

Nevertheless there is a quality of earnestness, of dedication, hard to find elsewhere. In conversation with two touring American professors of Russian history, the theory was thrown out that perhaps the Soviets are the "hungry fighters," the civilization advancing determinedly toward the top of the hill, and that Western nations, already at the crest, don't know where to go next.

"The question that really interests me, though, is what happens to the Russians when they get two cars in every garage," said one professor, who is perturbed by the fact that his oldest son in Wisconsin is training to be a sociologist, yet regards having a good time as the main aim of life.

While experts ponder political questions, economics may prove a major determinant. There is talk of a "crisis" in agriculture. Khrushchev wants to increase agricultural investment but the Sino-Soviet dispute keeps him hopping.

GRAFT IN INDUSTRY

Surface impressions suggest that the non-competitive economy goes in fits and starts. Lack of incentive, free enterprisers say, is the main factor. There are reports of graft and corruption, with "tolkachi" — fixers or pushers — lubricating the wheels of industry in an illicit way.

There is a sense of bustle. Cranes and trucks are everywhere, the green-painted lorries lumbering along with their licence numbers repeated in huge letters on the tailboard, but shops and markets are subject to baffling variations in supply.

Which brings up the charming story of Soviet string bags. Everybody, it seems — banker, broker or businessman—carries a bag in purse or briefcase, on the off-chance he may blunder into a bargain on the way home. "Who knows, there may be oranges at the corner stall tonight," says Sacha.

So they call the string bags "avoska," from an ancient word meaning "just in case" or "maybe we'll be lucky." And in a way, a street philosopher reflected, the word says something basic about Russian character, suggesting a "little bit of hope, a little bit of faith and maybe, a little laziness."

More than hope and faith will be needed to sustain Khrushchev's pledge that the Soviet Union will soon surpass the United States in economic power, but these are attractive qualities nevertheless.

HERRIDGE WON'T SEEK REELECTION

REGINA (CP) — H. W. Herridge, veteran New Democratic member of Parliament for Kootenay West, said Tuesday that he will not seek re-election if the present Parliament lasts for two or three years.

"I've changed my mind on three previous occasions but I will not run again," he said in an interview. "I believe I have done my best."

Mr. Herridge, 68, here to attend the national NDP convention, has represented Kootenay West in Parliament since 1945.

He said he opposes softening of the party's socialist philosophy in order to attract "the timid, the hesitant and people with bandwagon minds."

There was a move in the NDP toward elimination of some of the party's socialist policies to gain wider appeal, he said.

"But if we want to represent definite alternatives to the old line parties, then our policies must be based on democratic socialism."

Sniff the air at 51° North 114° West Air is not the same everywhere. Crisp winter prairie air is different from humid summer city air. Mountain air is different from sea level air. And there is another reason why ADL rye whiskys taste smoother, finer. They age in the cool dry air that sweeps in from mile-high Rocky Mountain passes. This marriage of air and ageing whisky gives the character and quality you enjoy – and only ADL whiskys offer this unique distilling advantage. Next time, ask for an ADL rye. You'll probably ask for it again.

MARKET TRENDS

NEW YORK (AP)—The stock market took in stride Thursday the final report of the Securities and Exchange Commission on its investigation of the securities industry.

Prices were mixed at the close after having been down mildly when the report came out. Trading was moderately active.

The SEC's recommendations and conclusions were taken by the investment community to be considerably less harsh than those in the second instalment three weeks ago.

The SEC proposed closer regulation of stock exchanges and the over-the-counter market and criticized some mutual fund activities. It found no evidence of manipulation or illegal conduct in connection with the May 1962 market break.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks dipped .2 to 271.0. The Dow Jones average of 30 industrials gained .26 at 704.18.

Canadian issues were generally actime in mixed trading. Aluminium Ltd., dropped ⅜, Canadian Pacific and International Nickel ¼ and Dome Mines and McIntyre Porcupine ⅛. Distillers Seagrams gained ¼, Granby Mining ⅜, Hudson Bay Mining ⅛ and Walker Gooderham ½.

Prices on the American Stock Exchange were slightly higher. Among Canadian issues, Canadian Marconi and Brazilian Traction fell ⅛ and Molybdenite ⅜. Fargo Oil gained 1-16 and Scurry Rainbow Oil ⅜.

TORONTO (CP)—The stock marked rambled on lower ground during a day of feeble trading Thursday.

The industrial index pulled out of its 2.14 loss at 2 p.m. closing off 1.34. Golds made the only advance.

Toronto - Dominion Bank slipped one to 60½ and Imperial Bank of Commerce and Royal dropped ½ among bank issues.

Other losses on the industrial list included Canada Steamship Lines off ¾, Calgary Power down ⅝, Union Gas ½ and Burns ⅜.

International Minerals and Chemicals rose one to 57 on light volume among industrial gainers. Investors Syndicate A and Levy gained ½ and Ontario Steel advanced ⅜.

International Nickel dipped ⅜ and Falconbridge declined ¼ in senior base metals.

Among speculative mines, Satellite climbed two to 23 cents and Wiltsey slipped 1to 16½ cents. Other actives included Purdex and New Senator, both changing slightly.

Standouts among gold issues included Dome up 1⅜ to 33⅝ and Kerr-Addison up 25 cents to $6.25.

Some western oils were active although changes were slight. Central Del Rio climbed 10 cents to $7.65 and Unisphere rose three to 35 cents.

On index, industrials dipped 1.34 to 616.47; golds climbed .78 to 91.88; base metals fell .32 to 202.79 and western oils dipped .22 to 113.30. Volume was 2,155,000 shares compared with 2,479,000 Wednesday.

MONTREAL (CP) — The stock market suffered a sharp setback on the Montreal and Canadian exchanges Thursday. The composite index fell 0.6 to 119.8 in moderate trading and declines outnumbered advances 93 to 44.

Papers were the heaviest losers. International fell ½, MacMillan-Bloedel dropped ½ and Fraser and Abitibi were down ¼ each. The index dropped 0.8 to 105.3.

The utilities index lost 0.7 to 117.4, as Calgary Power slipped ⅜ and Bell Telephone eased ¼.

Banks were off 0.3 on the index, at 121.5, led by Toronto-Dominion, down a point. Imperial and Royal dropped ⅜ each, Montreal rose ⅜ and Nova Scotia was up ¼.

In refining oils, prices were mixed. Trans - Mountain Pipe Lines and B.A. Oil added ⅛ each. Sheel and Royalite preferred were off ¼ each and Imperial fell ⅛.

CIL fell ¼, Canadian Marconi lost five cents, Industrial Acceptance was lower by ⅜ and Massey-Ferguson eased ⅛, as the industrial index dropped 0.6 to 120.2.

Buddhists Stage Hunger Strike

HUE, South Viet Nam (AP)—A group of 108 Buddhists began a 48-hour hunger strike in this central Vietnamese holy city Thursday to protest policies of President Ngo Dinh Diem's government. Supporting them, nearly half the shops in the city closed down.

Hunger strikers demanded that the government punish police and troops they claim killed one Buddhist and injured 56 others in hitherto unreported clashes July 27 and 31.

The strike began on the eve of a national conference of Roman Catholic students at which Archbishop Ngo Dinh Thuc, the president's brother, was expected to speak.

In Saigon, 400 miles to the south, police geared for trouble as a young, unidentified monk announced plans to burn himself to death in the continuing Buddhist struggle for what they consider their civil rights and religious liberty.

Scottish Visitor Inspiration for Family Reunions

SOUTH SLOCAN — Enjoying a family reunion at South Slocan, and with other members scattered throughout the area and the province is Mrs. R. Wilson of Blantyre, Lanarkshire, Scotland, the daughter of Mrs. M. A. McFadden, long-time resident of Bonnington-South Slocan.

Mrs. Wilson is staying with her brother and sister-in-law Mr. and Mrs. Jock Hawkins of South Slocan. It is 40 years since brother and sister last met in Scotland, and 25 years have elapsed since mother and daughter last saw one another.

Mrs. Wilson has been visiting since the 14th of July and will leave for Calgary accompanied by her brother Jock, where she will fly to Prestwick, Scotland, August 14.

Many family gatherings have been enjoyed as the McFaddens, Hawkins. and Dunsmores congregated for the visit. Living in the area and immediate family besides Mrs. McFadden Sr., and Jock Hawkins, are Mrs. Ina Dunsmore, a sister; and R. McFadden, a half-brother.
