Woman Was Unaware Of Explosion Threat

NORPHLET, Ark. (AP)—All of this town's 700 residents were evacuated Friday under threat of a possible ammonium nitrate explosion — that is, all except one.

She is Mrs. Katie Loper, a 60-year-old widow, who lives alone a block from the grade crossing where a freight train and a gasoline truck collided just before dawn.

A fire that ensued threatened to detonate a carload of ammonium nitrate. Civil defence workers evacuated everyone in town but somehow they missed Mrs. Loper.

She ate breakfast and walked to the business section to watch the fire.

"Young man, there's a fire under one of those tank cars," she told a fireman. "Yes, ma'm," he replied, and went on fighting the fire.

Mrs. Loper walked to the post office. It was locked. Suddenly she realized no one was in town except firemen.

" 'The devil and Tom Walker,' I said to myself," she recounted later. " 'There must be something wrong here'."

She went home and locked her doors. She has no car so she couldn't leave town.

At 11:30 a.m. when the fire had been extinguished and the danger was over, her son, Harvey Ray Loper who lives two miles away, knocked on her door.

Officers hadn't let him through a roadblock when he tried to reach his mother.

"I felt real shaky when I got back to the house," she said. "But now I'm mad. Why didn't somebody tell me about it?"

Photographer To Hang For Shooting Wife

WINNIPEG (CP) — John More, a 38-year-old Transcona Man., photographer, Friday was sentenced to be hanged June 19 after having been found guilty of the Sept. 27 shooting of his wife.

More was charged with capital murder in connection with the death of his 38-year-old wife, Marjorie.

The jury, after being out two hours and 45 minutes, recommended clemency in rendering their verdict.

Prior to Mr. Justice Israel Nikitman addressing the jury Friday, More's lawyer, John Scollin, asked that a verdict of not guilty by reason of insanity not be considered.

Mrs. More was found shot in the head by a .22 calibre rifle bullet in the bedroom of their home.

More was found, also shot in the head by a bullet from the same rifle, in another room.

Speaking in his own behalf Thursday, More told of debts of between $18,000 and $20,000 and pressure for payment from creditors.

He said he had been told payment was to made by Sept. 28 or his wife's salary would be attached.

He said he had purchased the gun a day or two earlier, with the intention of killing himself.

He lost the sight of his left eye while in hospital following the shooting.

The trial lasted five days.

SLIDE FORCES 75 FROM HOMES

NAPLES, Italy (Reuters) — An avalanche of mud about 450 yards wide Friday night engulfed the village of St. Antonio a few miles from here, forcing the 75 inhabitants to abandon their homes and possessions.

The landslide had been loosened from surrounding hills by days of incessant rains throughout southern Italy. The slide took villagers by surprise but they quickly got away from their their homes.

Meanwhile firemen and engineers were using bulldozers in an attemp to divert a landslide closing in on the village of Nerano in the hills of the Sorrento peninsula. Some 400 inhabitants were evacuated.

Diefenbaker Off to London

To Discuss Trade, NATO In Meet With Macmillan

OTTAWA (CP)—Prime Minister Diefenbaker said Friday night he plans to discuss suggestions for world and Commonwealth conferences on trade during weekend talks in London.

Shortly before he left Uplands Airport by RCAF Yukon transport aircraft for Britain, he also told reporters that he intends to bring up problems concerning NATO.

The prime minister is scheduled to have a "working supper" tonight with Prime Minister Macmillan at Admiralty House.

Mr. Diefenbaker said "we will present something of our views on the expansion of trade everywhere in the world."

"In particular, we will discuss further the suggestion I put forward at the prime ministers' conference in London regarding a world conference on trade.

MINISTERS GO TOO

The prime minister was accompanied by his wife, Trade Minister Wallace McCutcheon, trade department officials, Senator Allister M. Grosart and Defence Minister Churchill.

Of NATO, Mr. Diefenbaker said consideration is necessary of the multi-lateral nuclear force proposed by the United States at Nassau and problems related to that proposal.

In other general remarks, before boarding the aircraft which took off at 9:20 p.m. EST, he said:

"We will discuss world affairs and matters affecting the Commonwealth of particular interest to Canada and the United Kingdom."

The prime minister's aircraft is scheduled to arrive at London airport about 11:30 a.m. British time (6:30 a.m. EST).

On Monday, Mr. Diefenbaker receives the freedom of the City of London, official purpose of the visit. He is to leave London for Ottawa late Monday night or early Tuesday.

Threatens Nuclear Retaliation in Devastating Degree

MOSCOW (AP)—Defence Minister Rodion Malinovsky threatened the United States Friday with nuclear devastation should it attack Cuba.

"We would like to warn the aggressive circles of the United States that an attack on the Cuban republic would mean a third world war," the 64-year-old marshal declared.

If an attack on Cuba is made, he said, "the Soviet Union will be in the first ranks of those who will come to its assistance."

Malinovsky told a Kremlin gathering: "We once again firmly remind the Western leaders that the Soviet Union cannot be intimidated. The might of our retaliatory blow will be more than enough to make the aggressors burn in the very first hours of war."

WOULD BE LAST WAR

Malinovsky wound up be declaring that a war started by the West "will be the last war" and "the entire system of capitalism will be buried, once and for all."

Seated just behind him as he addressed an audience of 6,000 in the Kremlin Palace of Congresses was Premier Khrushchev, originator of the threat to bury capitalism. Khrushchev wore the gold-trimmed pale blue uniform of a lieutenant-general and a full array of decorations on his chest.

The occasion was the eve of the 45th anniversary of the Soviet armed forces.

Khrushchev did not address the gathering which included diplomats and military attaches of East and West stationed in Moscow.

Malinovsky warned that a war involving Cuba "will be waged not only in the territory of Cuba but in the territory of the United States, too."

CHARGES AGGRESSION

He charged U.S. policy in relation to Cuba "is part of its general aggressive policy."

Referring to a recent statement to the U.S. House of Representatives' armed services committee by his American counterpart, Defence Secretary Robert McNamara, Malinovsky declared:

"I maintain emphatically that in retaliation to the 344 missiles with which Mr. McNamara is threatening us, we shall deal a simultaneous blow of several times more missiles and of such a tremendous nuclear yield that it will wipe off the earth all targets, industrial and administrative - political centres of the United States, and will destroy completely the countries which have made available their territories for American war bases."

Malinovsky declared the Soviet Union can overcome American plans to replace ground rocket bases around Communist countries with nuclear submarines carrying Polaris missiles.

ACCUSES BENNETT

VANCOUVER (CP) — Dr. W. N. Kemp said Friday that Premier W. A. C. Bennett dictates the policies of the provincial Workmen's Compensation Board and appoints his political friends as board commissioners.

The Vancouver physician made the charge under cross-examination by royal commissioner A. C. DesBrisay into the provincial board.

Earlier in the week Dr. Kemp said in a brief to the commission that the present compensation board is "ill-motivated and politics-ridden." This brought from the commission Friday an instruction to use the term "ill-advised" instead of "ill-motivated."

Dr. Kemp said he would not retract the term "ill-motivated" even after being pressed by compensation board counsel David Sigler.

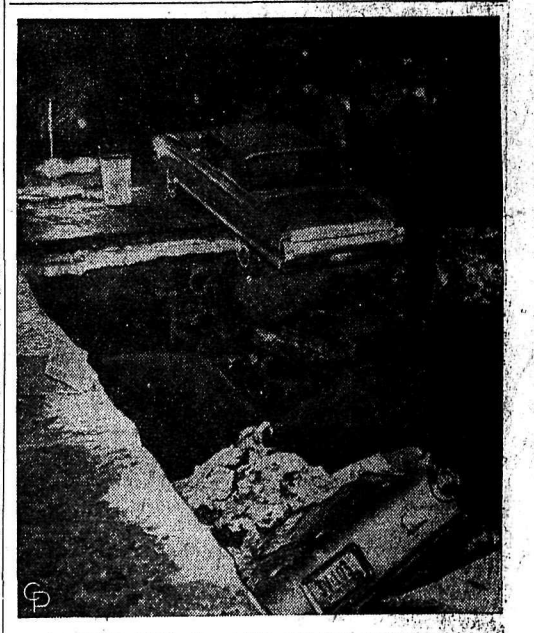
Under Mr. Sigler's cross-examination Dr. Kemp said "politics-ridden" meant directed directed by politicians, by one politician."

When asked what politician was directing the board, the physician replied:

"Premier Bennett, who else?"

Wall Eye Charts On Way Out

VANCOUVER (CP)—A new, simple eye test which makes the old wall chart obsolete in checking children's eye problems, was unveiled here at the two-day convention of the B.C. Optometric Association.



DOWNTURN ONLY—The driver was just waiting for the light to turn green when suddenly the street dropped out from under the car in New York. A broken water main had undermined the pavement. The auto down in the hole was parked at the curb and it slid down there.

Nimsick Urges More Spent On "Basic Human Things"

VICTORIA (CP)—Leo Nimsick (NDP—Cranbrook) charged Friday that Premier Bennett thinks that "going into debt is worse than saving human lives."

Mr. Nimsick was speaking in the budget debate in the legislature on the government's policy of refusing to have any direct debt.

He charged that the government is using extra money — including $10,000,000 not spent on highways projects — to pay off the debt on toll bridges and to increase the home-owner grant by $20.

He said the money should be used for slum clearance, foster homes, medicare and other "basic human things."

The government plans to take the tolls off the Okanagan, Nelson and Agassiz bridges and those over the first and second Narrows in Vancouver.

Mr. Nimsick charged that the government will use the money that has not been spent on highways—he specifically mentioned the Salmo-Creston cutoff—to pay off the bridges.

He said the government should take over the debt and use the extra money for other things.

"From the Premier's remarks I would think that he thinks that going into debt is worse than saving human lives," remarked Mr. Nimsick.

He said he would sooner see the province in debt than see people demoralized and out of work.

At the same time he said that mining companies should not be permitted a 3-year tax-free period when they are starting operations.

Craigmont Copper near Merritt made $10,000,000 last year, he said.

The member said highways in his district are not getting the proper treatment from the department.

The Salmo-Creston cutoff was a disgrace. Provincial secretary Black, MLA for Nelson-Creston, turned the first sod of the cutoff in 1956 and said he hoped it would be completed in 1958. But the cutoff is not completed yet.

He said B.C. Hydro and Power Authority, the government-owned power company, should take over from the private companies in his area.

The Kootenay is served by the East and West Kootenay Power companies.

Mr. Nimsick said the first job in restoring the historic gold mining community of Fort Steele is putting electricity into the area.

He said Mr. Black should meet with representatives of all municipalities to discuss the restoration of the community.

Disaster Town Still Shaken by Tremors

CP from AP-Reuters

BARCE, Libya — More tremors Friday night shook the desert town of Barce where 300 persons, mostly children, were officially reported killed in an earthquake Thursday.

The new tremors caused no further damage — all buildings in the area already were devastated and uninhabitable.

Many more persons were feared missing beneath the rubble and some 12,000 were homeless.

A state of emergency was in force and British and American planes were following one another in and out of the town taking in supplies and flying out with the injured.

Estimates of the total casualties varied widely. Reuters news agency said some reports put the death toll at more than 500 with 1,000 injured. The Associated Press said the best available estimates showed at least 250 dead and another 150 injured. An unconfirmed report from a U.S. Air Force spokesman agreed with the 500 dead and 1,000 injured total.

A government communique issued in Tripoli Friday night said rescue operations at Barce had been successfully concluded and an official report would be published after a visit to the scene today by Premier Mohammed Othman.

Sale Near Riot

NEW YORK (AP) — A crowd of 5,000 bargain hunters, mostly women, smashed two windows in a near riot Friday in jamming into a Bronx department store's Washington's birthday.

Two persons were injured, one of them a woman pushed through a window.

Fifty policemen and an ambulance were sent to the store, Alexander's, to augment three policemen originally assigned there.

Items on sale ranged from toothpaste for 29 cents to mink coats for $999. The store was selling electric boilers for $1.99, imported cashmere sweaters for $9.95 and phonograph records for as low as nine cents.

IN THE LEGISLATURE

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

J. Donald Smith (SC — Victoria) said the NDP charges of shake down were irresponsible, unfair, insulting and smears.

Works minister Chant suggested voters pay two cents a day to the political party of his choice .

Murder Charge Upheld at Hearing

INVERMERE — Reduction of a capital murder charge to one of non-capital was refused here Friday at the preliminary hearing of Moses Jimmy, Kootenay Indian.

Jimmy is charged with capital murder in the death of Margaret Mahseelah, Dec. 19. The woman was found shot between the eyes in the Jimmy cabin on the Kootenay reserve near Windermere.

Defence counsel Henry Castilou of Vancouver asked for a reduction of the charge, but district magistrate G. S. Denroche said he saw no evidence for reduction.

Crown counsel was Michael Provenzano of Cranbrook.

This is the second murder charge to be heard at the forthcoming Spring assizes. The other case is Frank Sam, a Shuswap Indian.

ASIAN FLU

ATLANTA, Ga. (AP) — Asian influenza has reached epidemic stage in 10 states and the District of Columbia, the U.S. Communicable Disease Centre reported Friday.

And in This Corner . . .

LONDON (AP)—Mrs. Anne Hopkinson, mother of six, and wife of a director of the Industrial Christian Fellowship, wants new prayers which will reflect the world of 1963.

Writing in the fellowship's magazine Compass, she said: "The Bible stories of men and women who grew their own food and wove their own cloth have little to do with the world children today know. Let the little ones praise the Lord for steel girders, tinned soup, plastic boats, nylon, television and food-mixers."

An example of Mrs. Hopkinson's idea for a pop-age prayer:

"Thank God for the food we eat,
"The tinned soup and processed meat.
"Thank God for my plastic boat,
"The telly and my nylon coat."

GREENVILLE, N.C. (AP)—When a patrolman charged Claxton G. Stancil Jr., 26, with reckless driving, Stancil became so angry he tore the ticket to bits and threw it on the ground.

Officer R. E. Tayloe then handed Stancil another ticket, this one charging him with being a litterbug.

City recorder's court judge Charles Whidbee heard the two charges. He found Stancil innocent of the reckless driving charge, but fined him $25 for being a litterbug.

TORONTO (CP)—"Whoever has them, will you please return them," Rev. Melville Buttars pleaded amid laughter from fellow United Church officials Friday.

Missing: Two or three "girlie" magazines — one featuring a full-breasted nude on the cover — from a dozen Mr. Buttars distributed among 34 officials to illustrate an address on obscene literature to the church's board of evangelism and social services.

When the conference closed, the magazines were still missing.

Labor Party Offers Plan

Would Remove or Remodel Old Houses in U.K.

LONDON (CP) — The Labor party Friday unveiled a plan for eliminating old houses in Britain where, it says, there are an estimated 15,000,000 persons living in 5,000,000 households without baths and hot water systems.

The opposition's report adds that nearly half the houses now inhabited — about 7,000,000— were built before the First World War, the vast majority owned by private landlords. Nearly 2,000,000 of them were built before 1850.

Detailed figures for the whole country will not be available until the full report on the 1961 census. But the 1958 figures for England alone show that 63 per cent of the 5,000,000 rented accommodations had no baths of their own, 53 per cent had no hot water supply and 25 per cent did not have an unshared flush toilet.

Many houses still in use, particularly in the north, were built during the Industrial Revolution. They were cheaply constructed, without basements, plumbing or other facilities.

One of the major labor complaints is that much construction today is of a scale beyond the reach of the average income.

A 1955 government report said there were 963,000 houses in England, Wales and Scotland that rated as slums. But the Labor party says this figure is "plainly unrealistic" because "local authorities applied standards much to their own choosing."

It quotes the Association of Public Health Inspectors report as saying that "houses without proper heating arrangements, artificial lighting, fuel stores, bathrooms or hot water are still regarded as fit for occupation" under present standards. The Labor Statement adds:

"The official total number of unfit houses therefore represents only a fraction of all the houses that are really slums if judged by a realistic modern standard."

The party policy statement adds that at the present rate of slum clearance "it would be nearly 2000 AD before Birmingham, Hull, Manchester and Oldham have got rid of all the houses designated as slums in 1955." In Liverpool, it adds, "it would take about 40 years longer still."

WILL TAKE TIME

The Labor party, although critical of present progress, admits that the problem is of such magnitude it will take a great deal of time, money and effort to bring about a general over-all improvement.

Basically, its policy is to improve all houses capable of being improved, clear away as rapidly as possible houses not capable of improvement and improve up to an adequate standard houses impossible to clear within the first five years of the scheme.

Landlords would be offered government grants to help bring buildings up to standard or would be invited to sell the buildings to the local authority.

"When the landlord declines both alternatives," the statement says, "the local authority will compulsorily acquire the house."

A labor government also would control the timing of major private building projects and thus free "scarce building capacity for more essential work." It would "encourage the very numerous small building firms to form large, efficient groups by the offer of long-term contracts of house - improvement work."

New Mathematics Approach Related

The modern approach to mathematics for primary students was explained and illustrated to the Rotary Club Friday.

W. H. Elmes, superintendent of elementary education, said the modern teaching device is to give youngsters the idea of reasoning and insight into the mathematics problems.

Mr. Elmes told Rotarians the emphasis today is based on understanding of mathematics rather than pupils being dependent on their memory.

By this new method, three goals are in view. First, that concrete material be used for addition and subtraction; second, mathematics will follow a new structure or "law of order", and third, a new concept in mathematical language will be spoken.

These methods are used so youngsters can discover for themselves what transpires in mathematics, Mr. Elmes said.

In this modern age there is such a rapid change, that in 15 years there will be jobs created not thought of today.

"Therefore, through this system, we are providing a set of tools so students can recreate math for their own purposes."

He implored Rotarians not to discourage their children from approaching mathematics in this way, but to let them discover for themselves the correct answers.

Throughout B. C. grade 3 courses have been changed and notification of changes for grade 4 have been received for next year.

Mr. Elmes, a UBC graduate, came to Nelson in 1939.

WASHINGTON (AP) — The United States disclosed Friday night it has told the Soviet Union it might accept seven on-site inspections to police an atomic test ban if the Russians agree to "meaningful" inspection procedures.

The United States has been insisting on eight.

Driver in Fatal Accident Fined $40

CASTLEGAR — Paul Pereversoff of Pass Creek, driver of a car in which George N. Makortoff died Dec. 9, was fined $40 for failing to be on his own side of the highway.

"He has had a great deal of punishment up to this time," district magistrate Parker Williams of Trail said in passing sentence. "My reaching out to an extensive penalty would be finding him guilty of an act for which he has not been charged."

George Soukoroff, also of Pass Creek, told the court his vehicle had been sideswiped by Pereversoff's car while driving to Thrums from Brilliant.

Const. R. Kostynsky said he found Makortoff dead on arriving at the scene, where the Pereversoff car rested on a rock.

He said the accused and Mr. Makortoff suffered injuries to their legs and arms as well as bruises and lacerations. Mr. Makortoff had a deep gash on his chin.

Physiotherapists To Intern Here

Student physiotherapists have spent internships at Kootenay Lake for the past two years, and this recognition of the department's excellence will continue in 1963. Two graduates of McGill University will spend intern periods under Mrs. Helen Butling, chartered physiotherapist.

This year graduate interns will be Miss Carol Leiper of Edmonton who will be in the department May 30 to July 25, and a Miss Cordon of Eastern Canada, who will be here August 12 to October 12.

University of British Columbia will soon be graduating its first class in physiotherapy and it is anticipated interning programs, possibly by 1964, will be including B.C. undergraduates and graduate students. Previously the interning program, developed through the Canadian Physiotherapy Association, has involved students from Alberta, Manitoba, Montreal, Toronto and McGill only.

Rabbi Tells Kiwanis

Prayer, Knowledge, Deeds Necessary for Brotherhood

To be effective brotherhood needs prayer, knowledge and deeds, a Jewish rabbi told the Kiwanis Club Thursday night.

Rabbi Michael L. Kurz of Calgary addressed the group on Brotherhood Week. It was during the regular meeting of the Kiwanis Club but other clubs throughout the city were invited to hear rabbi Kurz.

He said that brotherhood is manly, demands vigor and is not "sickly or mushy" as some people believed.

He illustrated his point with a reference to the second chapter of Isaiah which was being read in a class.

The reference was to the "era that will come" and went on to explain "what God will teach us." It was the familiar chapter about beating swords into plowshares he said.

A youth at that point stood up and said: "And they'll be softies ever after."

This is the unfortunate thinking about brotherhood that many people have, said the New York born rabbi.

STERN DEMANDS

"Brotherhood," he said "is not a Utopian ideal. It is a beating of swords into plowshares with many stern demands on individuals."

He said that the word brother is clear, one that everyone should readily understand.

Brotherhood is a human institution and as such is subject to vagueness and misunderstanding.

Rabbi Kurz cited several instances of misunderstanding that have occurred recently.

African students were invited to study Communism in Bulgaria. The students attended with enormous expectations for learning but found only abuse. They were called black monkeys, jungle people and generally treated like dirt.

Closer to home, there are similar instances, said the rabbi.

IN SLUM AREAS

In Vancouver slum areas, Indian boys and girls looking for a life for themselves find their backs against the wall.

These young people in desperation become dope addicts and some commit suicide, he said.

He mentioned the Kapuskasing affair in which three loggers were shot and he called it "civil war."

"A lack of brotherhood is a tragedy," he stated.

In the United States, rabbi Kurz said that as an American with pride in his country, he was also "sad and ashamed" over some of the troubles in that country.

He mentioned a young Negro student who graduated from Yale Uuniversity with honors. The young man wanted to serve his own people in the slums. In so doing he was killed when he tried to arbitrate between two rival gangs.

Persons should be treated as individualts not stereotyped, he said.

"A person is a human first, then he is a Doukhobor, or a Catholic, or a Jew. He is human first and then he becomes something additional because of his environment."

D. L. Appleton thanked the speaker for what he termed a refresher course in brotherhood.

H. J. Bobroske announced that four rinks would take part in the inter-Kiwanis Club bonspiel Sunday at Grand Forks.

Guests at the dinner meeting were George Wong and Robert Swinton, both of Nelson.

More than 100,000 ship passages through the Suez Canal were registered from its nationalization by Egypt in 1956 to October, 1962.

J. G. Best Dies at Trail

TRAIL (Staff) — A resident of Trail and Kinnaird for the last 34 years, John (Jack) George Best, 157 Seventh Avenue, Kinnaird, died Thursday in Trail-Tadanac Hospital. He was 73.

Born in Sunderland, Durham, England, March 10, 1889, Mr. Best arrived in Britannia, B. C. a year before moving to Trail where he lived for 30 years. The last four years he lived in Kinnaird.

He retired in 1955 as foreman of Warfield Plumbing Shop.

Mr. Best was a member of St. Andrew's Anglican Church, Trail.

He is survived by his wife, Edith; two sons, John George, of Victoria and Norman Sanderson, Trail; two daughters, Mrs. Edith Ison of Penner, England; Mrs. Gordon (Margaret) Reith of Kinnaird. one brother, James W., in England; one sister, Mrs. Mary Edgeworth of Vancouver, and 10 grandchildren.

Funeral services will be held in Trail Monday morning.

Liquor Prices To Be Cut

VICTORIA (CP) — B.C. liquor prices will be cut early next week, Attorney-General Bonner announced Friday.

He promised that B.C. prices will be reduced to reflect a revision in federal tariffs.

An official of the federal customs office here said that a special surcharge imposed on imported beer, wine and spirits last June has been cut from 15 to 10 per cent.

"Our prices will reflect any revision," Mr. Bonner said.

"The new price list will go into effect as soon as it can be worked out."

This should be within a few days and probably early next week, Mr. Bonner said.

Joint Choirs Present Treat of Choral Music

Centuries old choir music developing from the 14th century to the present day was performed by the combined choirs of the Church of the Redeemer and Fairview United Church Thursday night.

More than 250 people heard numerous selections of diversified choral music by composers of centuries ago up to contemporary times.

The principal idea of the recital was to get the choirs together in fellowship, organist Angus Fraser said.

Mr. Fraser started the hour and a half program with a 14th century organ selection, "The Agincourt Hymn" by English composer John Dunstable.

The combined choir then sang "Bread of the World in Mercy Broken," a French hymn composed by Louis Bourgois. A melody by English composer Henry Purcell "Now That the Sun Hath Veiled His Light," was sung by mezzo soprano, Mrs. H. R. Whitmore.

The improvised chorale hymns harmonized by J. S. Bach, "O Jesu Sweet, O Jesu Mild" and "Jesu, Joy of Man's Desiring" were sung by the choir.

The next selection which, while Mozart was composing it, became a premonition of his approaching death ("Benedictus from "The Requiem") was sung by a choral group. The full choir followed with an early 19th century Beethoven selection "The Creation's Hymn."

English composer Mendelssohn's music suggests grace and beauty, Mr. Fraser said. A choral group sang "Grant Us Thy Peace" by the composer, followed by a selection by soprano Jennifer Paterson who sang "I Will Sing of Thy Great Mercies."

W. S. Bennett, English composer's hymn "God Is a Spirit" was sung by the choral group followed by Mr. Fraser playing Brahms' chorale prelude "A Lovely Rose Is Blooming." The selection was published after Brahms' death and was one of the most beautiful from his prelude, Mr. Fraser said.

The next selection was by 20th century composer Sir Walter Davies who, it was noted, had a tremendous influence in church music in England. The choir sang a Davies piece, entitled "God Be in My Head and in My Understanding."

"All in the April Evening" by well known Scottish composer, Sir Hugh Robertson, who died in 1952, was presented by the combined choirs.

Miss Sheila Fraser, daughter of Mr. Fraser then sang "Our Father Who Art In Heaven" by Flor Peeters, who has achieved considerable fame in Europe with his unique writing.

The final portion of the program was devoted to Canadian composers.

Mr. Fraser played "Chorale Prelude: On St. Columba" by Healey William known as "Dean of the Canadian Composers." Mr. Fraser said Willan's music suggests great beauty, breadth and dignity.

The choir was heard in the two final selections "Blest Are the Pure in Heart" by Richard Eaton and "Good Christians Now Let All Rejoice" by Hugh Bancroft.

These two talented young composers are currently in Edmonton attending "University of Alberta" Mr. Fraser said.

Castlegar Students' "Expulsion" Stirs Storm

CASTLEGAR (CP) — A controversy which has boiled up over the alleged expulsion of 15 male high school students from classes has been sent to the provincial education department for an investigation.

Both the Castlegar School Board and Roy Brown, principal of Stanley Humphries High School, have asked provincial authorities to look into the matter.

The 15 male students say Mr. Brown expelled them from school. The principal maintains he suggested they leave for the duration of the term because of poor marks.

Parents of the students claim the principal "violated procedure" in "expelling" the boys. By statute a principal is not permitted to expell students but may recommend their dismissal to the School board which has the final say.

Mr. Brown asked provincial education department assistance "in that the high school discipline is being undermined by members of the school board." The school board also asked for an inquiry but no word has come from Victoria.

Tree Saves Students in Car

Two Notre Dame students are healthy and active today, thanks to the toughness of a tree.

The car in which they were travelling down Davies Street about 4 p.m. went out of control at Fourth Street when the brakes failed. It crossed Nelson Avenue, shot through the parish hall ground of the Church of the Redeemer and down a 30-foot bank, grazing the home of J. R. Trigg, 524 First Street and stopping against the tree. Beyond this lay a deep gully.

Driver of the car was Thomas Joseph Kelly.

Sees April as Date for Start Columbia R. Bridge

ROSSLAND — Construction of the high-level, pre-stressed concrete Columbia River bridge at Kinnaird should be under way by April, superintendent of highways A. E. Staite predicted here this week.

The bridge is the key to an extension of the Southern Trans-provincial Highway eastward from Kinnaird to Salmo via the Champion Lakes.

Mr. Staite said he believed the new section of No. 3 linking the recently-opened Blueberry-Paulson to the about-to-be-completed Salmo-Creston sections, would also go under construction this year.

In the meantime, work also is to begin shortly on completion of the Rossland-Sheep Lake leg of the Christina-Columbia section of No. 3.

Tenders for the final six-odd miles are to be opened by highways minister P. A. Gaglardi in Victoria, March 5.

It is hoped the Rossland - Sheep Lake link will be completed to gravel stage by year-end.

In other highways department projects, Mr. Staite said construction of the new Kinnaird river crossing would also see building of a new piece of highway from the easternmost side of the bridge to the Brilliant Bluffs.

Involved is construction of a new bridge across the Kootenay River below the Brilliant dam, and widening of the present No. 3 as it winds around the bluffs.

Mr. Staite hesitated to forecast when the project would get under way.

FERRY TO STAY

He said, however, it was the department's intention to keep one of the Castlegar-Robson ferry boats in operation after construction of the Kinnaird bridge, otherwise, Robson citizens wishing to do business in Castlegar would be faced with a long detour.

Construction of the Kinnaird-Champion Lakes-Salmo road will see Mr. Staite's territorial limits extended.

He has been advised the Rossland-Trail division of the department of highways will be expected to service and maintain the new link as far as Meadows.

Construction of the road should prove relatively easy, said Mr. Staite.

Apart from a couple or three miles at the summit east from the Columbia River, the going should be good.

CHAMPION LAKES RD.

South of the Champion Lakes, the new route will not follow the present Champion Lakes road from No. 3-A. It will parallel it in places, then swing off towards Meadows.

Mr. Staite also reported a new system of highway numbering in the West Kootenay, following opening of the Blueberry-Paulson.

The Southern Trans-Provincial No. 3 now moves from Christina east to Nelson via Paulson, Sheep Lake, Kinnaird, Castlegar and South Slocan.

The former No. 3 between Cascade City and Rossland now has no route number. It is classified as a district road only, to be kept open in winter only on a low priority.

In an attempt to preserve the old road, 50 per cent load restrictions will be imposed in the spring break-up this year. Elsewhere in the district, load limits will be 75 per cent.

In the new highway numbering scheme, the route from Kinnaird to Trail, Fruitvale, Salmo, Nelson, is now known as Highway No. 3A.

From Salmo to Nelson, it is known as No. 6-3A. No. 6 is the highway running from Kamloops to Nelway via Vernon, the Monashee Pass, Needles, Nakusp, New Denver, Slocan City, South Slocan, Nelson, Ymir and Salmo.

The road from Paterson through Rossland to Trail via Warfield now is known as No. 22. The road from Warfield past the chemical plants on Bingay Road to its junction with Aldridge Avenue, is also known as No. 22. Aldridge Avenue itself is part of No. 3A.

The road from the junction of No. 3A, at the foot of the Montrose hill, to Columbia Gardens and Waneta, now is known as No. 22A.

Mr. Staite warned, however, that these designations again will change in a couple of years — opening of the Kinnaird-Champion Lakes-Salmo link will see the No. 3 title removed from the Castlegar-Nelson road, for instance.

Salmo Legion, LA To Aid Pool Project

SALMO — The recently installed slate of officers headed the regular monthly meeting of Branch 217 of the Royal Canadian Legion, for the first time Monday evening.

Newly elected officers for the current year are, J. Forgaard, president; H. Mang, first vice-president; A. E. Turner, second vice-president; M. J. Bush, secretary; A. W. Hearne, treasurer and executive members consisting of W. Blackey, A. B. Lundeberg and Bill Peters.

Two applications were accepted, bringing the total to four new members since the start of the new year. Three of these, residing at the Canadian Exploration Mine are: Colin E. Brown, Kelvin J. Erne and Joseph L. Gregoire. The fourth, William Kinakin, is a resident of Salmo. Two honorary members were accepted for their services rendered in the athletic and welfare fields.

The membership decided to donate the use of the hall to the ladies' auxiliary for their use in sponsoring a meal of their choice, to assist in the current fund-raising campaign sponsored by other service clubs, in support of the planned swimming pool. This was adopted as a joint Legion contribution to that effort.

An invitation was read from the Nelson Branch 51 to those interested in attending that branch's Presidential Ball on March 8.

Cranbrook Library Nurses Section One of Two in B.C.

CRANBROOK — Cranbrook Public Library board of directors at its February meeting Thursday reviewed with satisfaction success of a recent innovation, a seven-day limitation with no renewal for designated books in the library in heaviest demand. Good public cooperation on this was reported by the librarian.

Library space has been made available for a nurses' section, which includes bound volumes of the Nursing Journal, access to which is limited to nurses. Only other library in the province offering this service is at New Westminster.

During January, circulation reached the highest point in history, with 4385 volumes exchanged by members during the month, Mrs. Wilbur Abbey reported as librarian. It was over 1000 more volumes than in December. New book stock delivered to the library during the month totalled 203 volumes, 68 for adults and 135 for juveniles. Membership was increased by 27 adults and 28 children.

Ray Jones as Film Council representative reported that apart from the predominant use of the council's films in the city schools, 141 persons saw films on a variety of subjects through the services of the council, whose films are now available to member organizations and individuals through Cranbrook Public Library.

The board will continue to keep before city council its proposal that a new city library building take top priority when the city begins consideration of its lasting project to mark Canada's hundredth birthday in 1967.

Plan March Call for Tenders On Woodland School Addition

CRANBROOK — Plans for a six-room addition to Amy Woodland Elementary School for use in the fall term are now being awaited by the Cranbrook District School Board from the Department of Education.

Tentative plans are for a March call for tenders and an early start on the contract. It will bring to 12 the number of classes this third newest city elementary school will accommodate.

Steven Bahry is principal.

Occupation of the new rural Wardner Elementary School in early February was reported at the February meeting of the Cranbrook District School Board.

It has about 53 pupils, and two teachers, Dale Samuelson in charge of Grades 1 to 3, and William Wolodko grades 4 to 6.

The single-storey frame and stucco building on a new location in the community was built by Einar Damstrom Construction Ltd., and will be formally opened early in May.

RESIGNATION TENDERED

Notification by Miss Muriel Baxter, long-time principal of Central School and for the past several years supervisor of elementary education for Fernie and Cranbrook School Districts, that she is retiring in June was heard with regret. Miss Baxter grew up in Cranbrook and had her own schooling here prior to start of an outstanding teaching career.

The meeting, attended also by representatives of the seven rural attendance areas, reviewed and again approved the 1963 budget of $1,053,782, which has also been accepted by the city.

The Department of Education budget review team is expected from Victoria in March to examine the proposed budget, and at that time the city's share of the whole cost will be determined.

Board secretary Mrs. Stanley McNeil was authorized to attend the provincial annual convention of board secretary-treasurers at Kamloops in April.

Accounts totalling $88,945 were approved for payment.

Creston Board Seeks To Have Grain Freight Rates Equalized

CRESTON — Every effort should be made to have equalization of freight rates between Creston and Peace River grain-growing areas to the coast, it was resolved at a meeting of the Creston Board of Trade Tuesday.

The Board felt that there should be lifting of the subsidy on grain feeds from Peace River to the coast, a benefit which Creston enjoyed before the PGE was built, but no longer. Art Sutcliffe gave the report, supported by Guy Constable.

The board also resolved to urge ratification of the Columbia Treaty as it now stands as soon as parliament convenes.

O. Salvador suggested plans would be made shortly for brochures dealing with tourism and industry.

E. R. McFarland felt consideration should be given to pooling a portion of the money for an over-all Kootenay publicity campaign and suggested letterheads, with Creston's history inscribed on the back. He felt the centralization theme should be used now that completion of the Salmo-Creston cutoff is near, in a concentrated effort to encourage industry into the valley.

Frank Merriam, for the Southern Trans-provincial Highways Association, said all communities along the route are in accord with standardization of the highway.

C. W. Allan, village commission chairman, outlined 1963 civic road plans and said 50 per cent of the road program would be completed this year.

He was congratulated on donating $500 towards local publicity.

He stated that the last section of the storm sewer will be installed and the main street resurfaced by the governmen this year.

E. Salvador spoke on a B.C. government 12-day transportation-paid trip to the Southern States, composed of Kootenay board members to encourage American tourists into Canada.

H. B. Johnson felt the board should press for government expenditures between Hope and Allison Pass to make the highway one of the best.

J. Salvador asked concerted action be taken to have Alberta press, radio and Motor Association stop using Kingsgate as a B.C. destination point when referring to weather and road conditions. Kingsgate is not on No. 3 highway.

Mr. McFarland felt the Nelson News and The Lethbridge Herald should co-ordinate their efforts on weather and road conditions with a definite point on the highway.

Results of New Technique In Teaching Music Shown

SOUTH SLOCAN — Students from the South Slocan Elementary School were guests at the West Kootenay-Boundary teachers' convention in Nelson on Saturday, to demonstrate under Schools Superintendent Charles Cuthbert's direction, the new approach to the teaching of music. Contrary to older established methods of teaching the technicalities of music, the new program trains the child in appreciation of sound and rhythm.

R. Toogood, principal of the South Slocan Elementary School with little music training background himself, and with the guidance of Mrs. O. Muir, district elementary counselor, has in little more than two months taught the children to make music in an orchestra composed mainly of flutophones, recorders, auto-harp and rhythm instruments. Few of these students had had any previous training on instruments.

Although several district classes have been performing musically with these instruments longer, the South Slocan School was selected to attend the convention because it was a small two-room elementary rural school with an ungraded situation, and the orchestra used students from both primary and secondary levels.

Mr. Cuthbert conducted the class, during an illustrated lecture.

Changing Life on the Farm

Rev. Homer R. Lane of the United Church says the profit motive is threatening the concept of farming as a way of life and that farming itself is threatened by waves of economic exploitation which see it as only a commercial enterprise.

Farming was once highly regarded as a way of life, when farmers were reasonably well off, not too hard worked and could indulge in such field sports as hunting and fishing. Many of our delightful Kootenay Lake communities were founded by settlers from England who had this in mind. They planted apple orchards and for many years, with their work and their sport, their lives were almost idyllic. Unfortunately they had to live, their apples did not sell and gradually the once beautiful orchards fell into decay. They turned to other ways of making a livelihood.

It was inevitable that farming should fall into disrepute. Society was changing. Where once the farm had provided a high standard of living now, all around them, in towns and villages as well as cities the standards were higher. It was not the profit motive of the farmers which destroyed farming but pressure from without. Farmers were no longer high income earners and they could not afford to pay wages comparable with those in the city. Inevitably workers drifted from the land and farms decayed.

In its palmy days the farm was a happy little world of its own with the members of the family taking their part in the work and sharing its pleasures. Changing society has altered that. The farmer's wife, who still does a great deal, does not expect to spend all her hours in chores around the farm. Good roads and a car enable her to go to town when she wishes and to take a more active part in social activities. The children go to city schools. They start early and arrive home late by bus and have no time for chores. There is not that intimate connection with the land, the crops and the animals that there once was.

Farming practices have changed. There is a tendency towards larger farms since small ones are uneconomic and more capital is required. Crops are specialized and more scientific knowledge is needed to grow them successfully, markets and marketting have changed and profits are of prime importance.

The children who once grew up on the farm and looked forward to farms of their own now go on to university and to some other profession where the means of subsistence are more easily obtainable. The profit motive, which Mr. Lane deplores, is in most cases only the outcome of the age-old desire of parents to provide for their children. Money they must have to send them to university and if farming as a way of life is dying, its virtues may not all have been lost.

Pygmies in Space

Man's slow march toward the stars is growing faster as America and Russia race for the moon and nearer planets.

We have come a long way since early men looked upward and saw the twinkling spots as celestial lights and awesome with portent for good or evil. We have learned much through mathematics and reason. Giant telescopes have brought them closer.

Now the powerful nations seek to land their men on the moon, reports the Sarnia Observer. It will be the first venture to further goals. The effort, for whatever its reason or reasons may be, is costing and will cost untold billions. The result is largely conjecture.

"As man expands his knowledge he discovers how little he knows. So it will be in his attempt to what he calls the "conquest of space," the writer continues.

"Only one thing is sure. Space as we know it is unconquerable, whatever the boasts of rocket men of America and Russia. Even though Einstein cast doubt on the one-time infinity of space, mankind can only expect to putter around the fringes of the earth and venture but a short step into the void in which we swing and spin.

"It is not impossible that science may devise rockets powerful enough to propel space craft far beyond limits. But time will limit him in space. Optimistic experts put the present limit of man's ventures into space to the orbit of Pluto, the sun's furthest satellite which spins its 7600 miles of diameter 4600 billion miles from the sun which heats the earth from a mere 94,552 million miles.

"Machinery may be made to go questioning in the skies. Man is not made to last long enough for a trip to even a short distance into the Milky Way, the galaxy of which we are a part. When we talk of the Moon and Mars and Pluto we can measure in miles. Beyond we shift to light years, a measuring stick in which one second represents 186,000 miles.

"Our oval-shaped Milky Way is estimated to contain around 10,000 million suns in an area from 200,000 to 300,000 light years long and 20,000 to 40,000 across. Multiply those years by the speed light travels in a second and it is obvious why man's conquest of space will be mathematical rather than material. It will be done with slide rules and equations and not space ships.

"The Milky Way and the millions of other galaxies are not for us. There will be no flags flaunting stars and stripes or hammer and sickle planted on these far places. The best President Kennedy and Chairman Khrushchev can expect to do after all their billions are spent is to be able to putter around in our own small solar system yard where we can measure distance in miles. Even in this tiny space there are walls of time and distance we cannot climb."—Kamloops Sentinel.

Uneven Honors

U.S. citizens, seven-tenths of whom are shown by an opinion poll to want an honors list something like ours, are a little short of decorations outside the Congressional Medal for service to the state and the Purple Heart for "extraordinary fidelity" or essential service. Other countries may not be as rich in chivalric titles as we are but they challenge us for picturesqueness. China, for instance, offers the Orders of Jade, of the Precious Tripod and of the Pavilion in the Sky, which might do for space-station pioneers. U.S. politics would rule out Denmark's Order of the Elephant, even more so the Laotian Order of the Million of Elephants and the Siamese Order of the White Elephant. For the U.S. I recommend something half-way between Bolivia's flamboyant Condor of the Andes or Russia's Hero of the Soviet Union and Italy's too humdrum Order of Merit in Working.—Punch.

Bomb Threat Kept Aussie Police Alert

ADELAIDE, Australia (AP) A bomb threat was made against the Queen when she arrived in Adelaide Tuesday, the Adelaide News reports.

The Queen and Prince Philip left Adelaide Friday aboard the royal yacht Britannia for Melbourne.

The newspaper says it complied with a police request not to publish word of the threat until she had left the state.

The newspaper says an unidentified man phoned one of its senior executives Tuesday and said: "There is a bomb planted at Holdens." Holdens is a large motor works outside Adelaide.

The News says three detectives investigated. The visit by the Queen and Philip to the plant went off without a hitch Wednesday.

The News says police also investigated reports that three men were overheard plotting to open the weir gates and drain Adelaide's River Torrens on which the party sailed to hear a concert at Elder Park Tuesday night. The objective was to prevent the Queen drifting on a barge to the festival.

GUARD APPROACHES

Police kept the Torrens weir and its approaches under close guard, the newspaper adds.

The Britannia spent part of Friday dodging lobster pots.

A message received from the escort ship Anzac said both vessels were forced to manoeuvre several times to avoid the pots set out in shipping lanes.

Several fishing boats approached the Britannia to wave to the yacht, which is carrying the couple on their current Pacific tour.

YOGA DEVOTEE IMPERVIOUS TO CANADA COLD

HALIFAX (CP)—Radio officer Naval Kamode of the Indian freighter Jaladuta says he isn't bothered by the cold of Canadian winters.

Kamode explained that he's a devotee of yoga and that yoga renders the body impervious to cold.

At 55 one of the oldest members of the 57-man crew, Kamode gave crewmates extra shivers when the Jaladuta called here. Every morning while the ship was berthed in the Nova Scotia port, Kamode appeared on the open upper deck stripped to the waist to practise breath control and posture exercises.

Interpreting the News

By ALAN HARVEY
Canadian Press Staff Writer

It was a tiny "filler" story, tucked away between the society gossip and the classified ads, but it had wider significance.

Flying home from Paris, the little news item said, Londoner Robert Sanderson scrawled on his embarkation card: "Profession — anti-Gaullist."

And the French authorities, unsmiling, told Sanderson to keep out of Paris from now on.

That's how things are between France and Britain these days. Ever since President de Gaulle shut the European door, there has been a distinct coolness between John Bull and Maid Marianne.

Things are getting so tense, they say, that British gourmets are refusing pepper on their steaks au poivre, and sipping Spanish burgundy instead of French claret.

CHILL SETS IN

The Entente Cordiale, it seems, is becoming the Entente Glaciale.

French newspapers have carefully noted British hostility. A lighthearted poem broadcast on the BBC was published by several papers, along with a newspaper columnist's comment that de Gaulle is a "bottled-nosed old giraffe."

The columnist is a real live lord—the Earl of Arran—which made the description seem all the more outrageous to the French.

All this is on the public level. Undoubtedly most of it comes under the heading of good clean fun, and will vanish completely by the time the tourist season rolls around.

At the government level, however, a sense of estrangement may persist for some time. The Elysee Palace and Admiralty House are no longer on the same wave-length. British ministers feel genuinely let down after their failure at Brussels, and there is no sign yet that the French are feeling any remorse.

ANGRY REACTION

A London magazine, The Spectator, wrote angrily after the Brussels breakdown that the French negotiators must have been all "liars or lackeys." British officials might not go all the way with that, but they probably would claim that they were misled by repeated assurances from Foreign Minister Maurice Couve de Murville that France had no political objections to British entry.

The French meanwhile are saying that the negotiations with Britain not only were negative, but were preventing progress in discussions among the Common Market countries on other subjects.

CIVIL DEFENCE

Under Civil Defence co-ordinated school planning is nearing completion in the Nelson zone and parents will be advised of the plans when they are completed.

Mexican troops under Gen. Santa Anna laid siege to The Alamo 127 years ago today—in 1836—in the war of the Mission San Antonio de Valero. The mission was held 13 days by an original force of about 180 Texans against some 4,000 Mexicans, led by William B. Travis, James Bowie and Davy Crockett, were eventually overcome and slaughtered in a hand-to-hand struggle.

Kokanee Chapter's Donations For Local Needs Total $1034

A total of $1034 has been given to various causes in Nelson and district by the Kokanee Chapter Imperial Order Daughters of the Empire, it was learned at the annual meeting, held at the home of Mrs. W. G. Lambert, 907 Third Street.

This was the 48th annual meeting of the chapter, which has served the community and country now for nearly half a century.

Of the total mentioned above, $588 was given in scholarships and bursaries to the Summer School of Fine Arts, Notre Dame College and L. V. Rogers High School. Education secretary Mrs. R. B. Brummitt gave this report.

For milk, welfare and hampers, $446 was expended by the chapter and a large amount of used clothing was given to those in need. Mrs. W. DeFoe reported these details for Services at Home and Abroad.

Other donations amounted to $480 for provincial and national funds.

Mrs. Harold Lakes, Thrift Shop convener, specially mentioned with thanks the many hours of work members of the chapter had put in at the shop and asked them for donations of clothing, dishes and miscellany for the shop.

Mrs. Hector Mackenzie, regent, said in the emigration and citizenship report that two citizenship courts had been attended during the year and ceritifcates were presented to 63 new Canadians.

Cohostesses for the afternoon were Mrs. Arthur Foster and Mrs. K. D. McRae.

Varied Topics Discussed by Toastmistresses

KINNAIRD — Monetary rewards for a good report card, pros and cons of United States and Canada amalgamation, equality for women and steady dating during high school were topics of discussion at a meeting of the Vali Toastmistress Club.

Mrs. W. Abrosimoff was toastmistress, Mrs. Pat Haley, hostess, and an impromptu speech was given on St. Valentine's Day by Mrs. J. Scott.

Table topic discussions were led by Mrs. Sam Lanzarotta.

To highlight the meeting, parliamentary procedure in presenting a motion was put forth in a skit.

The interesting meeting commenced with the Blessing asked by Mrs. Dave Campbell. The inspirational message was given by Mrs. R. Watters.

Made Scale Model of Columbia

VANCOUVER (CP)—A mile and a half of the turbulent Columbia River north of Revelstoke, B.C., has been reproduced to scale in a 95-foot working model by a U.S. hydraulic engineer for the B.C. Hydro Authority.

The $40,000 model, product of two years of survey work, was built by James W. Ball at Western Canada Hydraulic Laboratories in nearby Coquitlam.

Plans for the Columbia power development call for one of the world's largest earth-fill dams across the river at Mica Creek. The engineers hope the model will help them overcome construction problems in advance.

The $350,000,000 dam, more than 600 feet high and 3,400 feet long, would generate 2,500,000 horsepower.

"Mrs. Cook Book" Guest Speaker At WI Meeting

CRAWFORD BAY — Crawford Bay Women's Institute had as their guest speaker, Mrs. Clyde B. White of Willow Point, at the February meeting, held at the home of Mrs. Emilie LaPlante. Mrs. White is the B.C. W.I. representative on the Federal Board, where she holds the office of convener for home economics and health.

First Mrs. White spoke of Adelaide Hoodless, the Ontario woman whose determination that others should not suffer as she had done when her child's death was caused by impure milk, sparked the W.I. movement. Mrs. Hoodless's home has been purchased, repaired and redecorated, the grounds landscaped and is now a great tourist attraction.

"The Tweedsmuir Competitions" was also topic for discussion. This was originated and endowed by Lord and Lady Tweedsmuir when he was governor general, to encourage arts and crafts among groups. Every four years there are three classes, decided by a committee. Always a village history, then an original song, play or specified embroidery. Cups are awarded to an Institute, not individual members. On one occasion, hooked chair seats were discarded because coats of arms had been used. These cannot be sat on.

CENTENNIAL COOK BOOK

"The W.I. Centennial Cook" took two years of my life, said Mrs. White, known as "Mrs. Cook Book." Recipes had come from different districts, but the out-lay had been her own. When in the Yukon, Mrs. White had taken advantage of the cook's absence to scrape and clean the sour dough pail; it never tasted the same again.

Typing, galley proofs and finally proof reading all went to produce this attractive and useful souvenir book. It is now in its second edition and still in demand.

W.I. members to sit on the newly formed Crawford Bay Christmas Tree Committee are Mrs. LaPlante and Mrs. Roy McGregor.

Visitors to the meeting were Mrs. Hummel, Mrs. Fraser, Mrs. Dobie and Mrs. Floyd Oliver.

Woman Celebrates 100th Birthday by Aiming at Politics

JASPER TOWNSHIP, Mich. (AP)—Mrs. Clara Moyer, who celebrated her 100th birthday last Feb. 11, figures it is about time she got into politics.

She is a candidate for justice of the peace in the April 1 election is this tiny central Michigan community of 15 persons.

"I've always wanted to perform a mariage ceremony," said Mrs. Moyer who was nominated by seven write-in votes, one of them her own, in last Monday's primary.

Mrs. Moyer who told reporters she is "dead serious" about her belated political debut, said she was filling out a ballot when she noted there were no candidates for justice of the peace.

SUITS with long jackets, others sleeveless, have been in every spring collection. Right, the middy look by Nat Kaplan has a long overblouse and V neckline. Left, sleeves very important when they are absent in this new suit.

Central Auxiliary Plans Open House

At the meeting of the Central Home and School Auxiliary held Wednesday night a tea was planned for open house, with the grade 6 girls as serviteurs.

President Mrs. F. N. Haukaas called for volunteers to organize the event. These were Mrs. C. Jonkers, Mrs. J. W. Lucas and Mrs. N. Wooley.

Miss Greta Curwen asked for some of the mothers to sew 50 pairs of spats for her band uniforms. Volunteers were Mrs. J. Taylor, Mrs. R. L. Ramsay, Mrs. J. Martin, Mrs. J. H. Crozier, Mrs. R. Butchart, Mrs. N. Wooley and Mrs. J. Carter.

It was decided to plan a card party. W. H. Costain was asked to look into the possibility of having a social evening of cards.

Miss K. Porter asked if the auxiliary would undertake to collect coupons for a coffee urn, which would be used by the Central staff.

A talk was given by guest speaker W. H. Elmes, district superintendent of elementary schools, on a new approach to mathematics. A question period followed.

Refreshments were served by Mrs. J. Phelps and Mrs. N. Popoff.

Principals Ward-Pinchbeck Wedding Make Home in Nelson

Fairview United Church was the setting for a pretty wedding when Rev. H. R. Whitmore recently read the marriage service for Sharon Mae, eldest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harold Pinchbeck of Slocan City, and Mr. Gary R. Ward, only son of Mr. and Mrs. Hordce Ward of Nelson.

Given in marriage by her father, the brunette bride was radiant in her gown of white brocade satin with scalloped neckline and lily point sleeves. Her chapel length veil was held by a coronet of pearls and she carried a bouquet of white carnations and Lady Love red rosebuds. Her only ornament was a pearl necklace with matching earrings, gift of the bridegroom.

Miss Beverlee Ward, sister of the bridegroom, was bridesmaid. She wore blue organda over taffeta, complemented with shrimp-colored accessories. She carried a nosegay of carnations.

Miss Judith Foster, a family friend, was soloist. She sang "The Wedding Prayer" accompanied by organist Mr. Angus Fraser, who played the wedding music.

Mr. Bernard Arcuri supported the bridegroom, and Mr. Clair Palmer and Mrs. Terry Elmes were ushers.

At the wedding reception held in the church hall, a wedding cake made by Mrs. Kato of Slocan City was arranged in the centre of the bride's table. The bottom layer of the cake was in four sections and featured an open book, bells and cupids. White chrysanthemums and pink carnations were used throughout the hall.

The bride's mother looked charming in an aqua brocade jacket dress with beige accessories. The mother of the bridegroom was gowned in an apple green brocade jacket dress. They both wore green carnation corsages.

Out of town guests included the bride's grandmothers, Mrs. Pinchbeck of Slocan City, and Mrs. Gresedale of Vernon, also her great uncle, Mr. W. Pinchbeck of Balfour.

Mr. Jack Weldon of Balfour proposed the toast to the bride and Mr. Arcuri to the bridesmaid.

Miss Lynn Cooper was in charge of the guest book. Relatives, friends and classmates acted as serviteurs.

Following a short honeymoon in Spokane and Coeur d'Alene, the newlyweds have taken up residence on the North Shore.

Your Individual Horoscope

By Frances Drake

For Sunday, February 24, 1963

Look in the section in which your birthday comes, and find what your outlook is, according to the stars.

MARCH 21 to APRIL 20 (Aries)—In discussions be clear and definite so there will be no misunderstandings. Such will also help to stabilize your program. Face all matters in a mature manner, befitting your ability.

APRIL 21 to MAY 21 (Taurus) — How you go about the simple things, as well as your attitude in all issues can register the tone and amount of your accomplishment. This is the time to project the real You.

MAY 22 to JUNE 21 (Gemini) — Others are looking at you for encouragement. Give willingly, as is your wont. You will be compensated many fold.

JUNE 22 to JULY 23 (Cancer) — Diplomacy and orderliness should be stressed now. It never hurts to recheck, thereby avoiding new errors and having to retrace steps. Day needs alertness.

JULY 24 to AUGUST 23 (Leo) — Be partial to the best, in performance and plan. There's no substitute for quality! In obligations, negotiate from strength, clarified resolve.

AUGUST 24 to SEPTEMBER 23 (Virgo) — You can have a productive, enjoyable day if doing your best. But don't undertake a schedule so exacting that it leaves no time for recreation. Over-activity unwise; sidestep all extremes.

SEPTEMBER 24 to OCTOBER 23 (Libra) — Eliminate all matters unworthy of your routine. This favorably aspected day hails wisdom dispensed with responsible tone. Be slow to criticize, quick to praise.

OCTOBER 24 to NOVEMBER 22 (Scorpio) — One acquires stamina along with knowledge and experience. Gain what you can today. Planetary configurations indicate bountiful rewards, offer new vistas.

NOVEMBER 23 to DECEMBER 21 (Sagittarius) — Be encouraged by the regard and sincerity of associates, the feeling of being one of the earnest lives. Deliberate well, and solidify your thoughts and faith in what you know to be right.

DECEMBER 22 to JANUARY 20 (Capricorn) — As long as you do your tasks ably and selectively, you are bound to be a winner. If one way doesn't work, try another. You don't give up easily — good! And retain that sense of humor.

JANUARY 21 to FEBRUARY 19 (Aquarius) — Far from being dull or defeating, this day, which may begin slowly, can blossom forth, be a happy memory later. Make up your mind to conquer obstacles, play up good will.

FEBRUARY 20 to MARCH 20 (Pisces) — Do not expect a rash of good luck or complimentary additions to your notebook. It is a stable type of day and offers time for serious examination of behavior pattern, habits.

YOU BORN TODAY of the Sign Pisces, may seem meek and mild, but actually are quite sensitive and diplomatic. If a principle is involved or an injustice done, however, you can arouse a counter-attack that brooks no nonsense. You possess many outstanding qualities that spell unusual success if rightly developed. But like anything else, they become rusty through neglect, non-use. Your problem is to keep on the move, exploiting your talents to the hilt. AND on subjects worthy of your efforts. A road without detours and bumps is not in the realm of possiblity, even if you were born with a golden spoon in your mouth. There is no replacement for hard work, earnest planning, energetic endeavor. So carry on as is your wont! Prompt, cautious with details, leading a straight-forward life. Birthdate: Admiral Chester Nimitz, U.S.N.

For Monday, February 25, 1963

Look in the section in which your birthday comes and find what your outlook is, according to the stars.

MARCH 21 to APRIL 20 (Aries) — Planets mildly cooperative. A word of caution: You can be trying for more than reasonable accomplishment and wind up exhausted. Poise! Keep your manner easy yet touch all the bases needed.

APRIL 21 to MAY 21 (Taurus) — Venus indicates less energy than usual. Avoid the company of climbers or flatterers. They create animosity, deter really constructive thinking, doing.

MAY 22 to JUNE 21 (Gemini) — Counter the less than friendly hours with thoughtfully expressive ideas, perceptive initiative, forebearance. Valued aims count first, then extra-curricular activities, hobbies, untried interests.

JUNE 22 to JULY 23 (Cancer) — Lunar aspects now urge you to be tenacious of purpose, constructive in plan. Method and flexibility are both needed. Channel efforts in sound directions.

JULY 24 to AUGUST 23 (Leo) — Matters of a personal nature worrying you? Review them calmly. How you treat dilemmas determines how smoothly you advance. Benefit from others' experiences, advice.

AUGUST 24 to SEPTEMBER 23 (Virgo) — There will be moments, even hours when people and things will oppose you radically, or seemingly needlessly. Be circumspect, take it in your normally philosophical stride. Some top benefits coming.

SEPTEMBER 24 to OCTOBER 23 (Libra) — A better-than-average day. Make moments, not just an hour or two, count for something special. Put forth best efforts, and you Can achieve.

OCTOBER 24 to NOVEMBER 22 (Scorpio) — Note Libra today. Your outlook similar. Your Sign is a wonder-worker, once it gets rolling.

NOVEMBER 23 to DECEMBER 21 (Sagittarius) — There may be less to do than you believe at first glance. The secret will be in coordination, efficiency and taking firsts First. Shun doubts.

DECEMBER 22 to JANUARY 20 (Capricorn) — Why you Do a certain thing is sometimes not the reason you do it in a definite way. Put full knowledge and concentration back of day's matters to insure that emphatic touch.

JANUARY 21 to FEBRUARY 19 (Aquarius) — Here you find an affirmative, pronounced type of day urging you to be choosey in items on your schedule, and in how you confront them. Guarantee solid action, and give it.

FEBRUARY 20 to MARCH 20 (Pisces) — Aside from an admonition to avoid strain, day has openings for all sorts of worthwhile endeavors. If at first you don't succeed—remember?

YOU BORN TODAY must, during 1963, emphasize your initiative and keep adaptability, your talents and possibilities, and generally make your niche easier. Determine early your method of attack, insure a steady effort to accomplish: gains will be larger, more rewarding with this extra striving. You have more versatility and genuine know-how than you believe but you often do not press forth with sufficient vigor. This year asks much patience, but every try will be the greater blessing, added joy. Mix with people, discuss plans, action; express your views, but once the general vote is taken for well-founded achievement, pitch in with all your might, no matter whose idea has won. It is the final success picture that counts. Birthdate: Enrico Caruso, noted singer.

Injuries May Change Toronto Lines Again

By BILL MacDOUGALL
Canadian Press Staff Writer

Never Gamble against Punch Imlach. He plays with loaded dice.

When he's down, the Toronto Maple Leaf manager-coach will resort to any combination in his search for a winning throw. Using players for the bones, he threw seven-eleven Wednesday night and won a crucial National Hockey League game.

Circumstances permitting, he will almost certainly try the same combination tonight when the second-place Leafs meet last place Boston Bruins in Toronto.

That would mean another whirl for the newly-formed line of Bob Pulford—who has played most of this season as a left winger—at centre; Carl Brewer a top - notch defenceman by trade who had some forward experience in amateur hockey, at left wing, and Bob Nevin playing his normal right-wing position.

Injuries could set things awry.

DEPENDS ON DEFENCE

Imlach says that whether the new line gets another try "depends on the defence situation." Moving Brewer to left wing leaves Toronto with only four rearguards, and one of them, Kent Douglas, has a bruised shoulder from Wednesday nights game. He's expected to be in action tonight but if he's not up to par Brewer will move back to the spot that gained him all-star rating in mid - season voting.

Imlach has a more serious injury problem in Frank Mahovlich, who suffered a charley-horse Wednesday night. The Leaf coach has said he thinks the high-scoring left winger will be ready for action tonight. Medical opinion has been otherwise, but no firm decision is likely to be announced until today.

LEAFS MEET HAWKS

After meeting Boston tonight, the Leafs are idle until Wednesday night when they take on Chicago Black Hawks, the club they have to catch to get into first place.

In other games tonight, New York Rangers are at Montreal and fourth-place Detroit Red Wings are at Chicago.

Sunday both Canadian clubs are idle as the Wings visit New York and the Black Hawks have their second home game in two nights, against the Bruins.

Golf Club Elects Board Of Directors

Members of the Nelson Golf and Country Club, after hearing reports from various committees, elected their new board of directors at the club's annual general meeting Wednesday night.

Elected to the board were: Vic Davies, Arnold Sherwood, Jim Geddis, Tom Shrieves, Milt Ryalls, Leo Atwell, Floyd Searle, G. W. Cameron, Reg. Dill, Walter Duckworth, Mickey Magio and Tom Stacey. Alex Allen was declared club auditor.

The incoming board of directors was given the support of those present to continue with all plans now completed for the new club house.

Tom Shrieves reported the club's 1962 membership was up 16 over the previous season and all committee reports showed that the club had a reasonably successful year, with the exception of the fire which destroyed the old club house.

Arnold Sherwood brought those present up to date on what has been done by work parties in clearing the sight for the new club house.

Although turnouts for the work parties have been disappointing, Sherwood said approximately three quarters of the proposed area, or about two acres, had been cleared of brush and trees.

Leo Atwell, stressing the point that work should start as soon as possible, showed the group the proposed floor plans of the new building.

The Pro Shop, lockers, showers and heating unit will occupy the lower floor, while the kitchen, caterers living quarters and lounge will be situated on the upper floor.

The new club house will have a total of 1300 square feet of floor space as opposed to the old building's 840 square feet.

Tiger Favored in Return Title Bout

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (AP) — Middleweight champion Dick Tiger remained the general favorite Friday to defeat Gene Fullmer and retain the title he won from the durable Utah veteran in their roughhouse brawl last fall in San Francisco.

Billed for 15 rounds for a title recognized everywhere except by the state of Massachusetts, the bout goes on tonight before a possible sellout crowd of 8,000 in the Las Vegas Convention Centre.

It will be televised by ABC. Fight time is 7 p.m.

Tiger, 33, a veteran of 61 ring encounters and now the idol of his native Nigeria, whipped Fullmer in 15 bruising, bloody rounds last Oct. 23.

The decision was unanimous and the Las Vegas betting people like him at odds that are fluctuating betwee 3 to 1 and 2 to 1 to score a repeat victory in this, his first defence of the championship.

Neither boxer appeared too concerned about making the required 160 pounds.

Money terms are equal. Each fighter is guaranteed $30,000 from the $100,000 television revenue and 30 per cent of the gate receipts.

The co-promoters, Mel Greb, Norman Rothschild and Jack Doyle, anticipate a gate of around $120,000.

The 31 - year - old Fullmer, whose 62 matches stretch back to 1951, will be striving to win the title for the third time.

Alberta Wins Schoolboy Title

By PAUL RIMSTEAD

GUELPH, Ont. (CP) — In a match that had been touted as the highlight of the Canadian schoolboy curling championships, Alberta Friday night dumped Quebec 11-8 with ridiculous ease to win the title.

Wayne Saboe's smoothies from Edmonton's Bonnie Doon Composite High School, curling strongly as a unit, showed little regard for John Hammond's hot streak as they swept to the title without a loss.

The Quebec team had been the Cinderella rink—one which won nine successive games before Friday night's round, a record show by a Quebec rink in national competition.

Hammond had been the backbone of his rink in the week-long round-robin competition, making comeback shots in tight spots with regularity.

However, he had one of his poorer nights Friday night and nobody elsecould take over.

Saboe, a slight, bespectacled fellow with a high-pitched voice, was a giant.

He continued in his cool and determined style, missing some shots along the way, but curling as well as he had to.

He jumped to a 4-0 lead in the first end, Hammond came back with one in the second, Saboe counted one in the third, Hammond two in the fourth—then the roof fell in.

Saboe took another big four —end in the fifth to take an unsurmountable 9-4 lead.

Hammond also made fine shots—but he missed more than usual. While he was sometimes fantastic in other games, he was only average tonight.

The shots he missed hurt him. In the first end, with Saboe lying three, Hammond missed. Saboe drew to the four-foot ring, Hammond nudged one out and stayed, but Saboe counted four with a takeout on the last rock.

Alberta's big fifth started with them lying four in the back of the house. Hammond drew to the four-foot ring, lying shot, but Saboe took him out and went out himself. Hammond drew again, nudged one out and stayed shot, but Saboe won it with another good takeout.

The Quebec rink, from the High School of Montreal, came back with singles in the seventh and eighth and a double in the 10th and final end.

There was little doubt throughout the week, after Alberta's stunning win over Saskatchewan Tuesday, that Saboe had the best rin in the competition.

However, things were going the right way for Hammond—he seemed unable to do anything wrong.

Alberta's worry Friday night was that perhaps Quebec—with everything to win and nothing to lose—would pick this one for its biggest upset.

The rinks were piped in in a colorful presentation ceremony after the game with Saboe, vice-skip Ron Hampton, second Rick Aldridge and lead Mick Adams being the centre of attention.

Hammond and his mates, vice-skip Dick Creese, second Don Aitkens and lead Ross Betts, stood quietly, obviously very disappointed.

WINS THIRD SPOT

Dick Rafuse, a young fellow from F. R. Davis Memorial High School at Bridgewater, N.S., led his rink into third place with a 14-9 win over Prince Edward Island's Wayne Matheson from Charlottetown.

In other action Friday night, New Brunswick sent Newfoundland home with another winless record with an 11-5 victory, British Columbia downed Northern Ontario 10-9 and Saskatchewan topped Ontario 103.

URGES GOV'T OFFER UNIFORM WOLF BOUNTY

PRINCE ALBERT, Sask. (CP)—The federal government should offer a uniform bounty for wolves killed anywhere in Canada, says Fred Riddle, predatory control officer for the Canadian Wildlife Service.

"If a wolf is killed in Manitoba or the Northwest Territories the same price should be paid in Saskatchewan," he says, adding that a bounty would encourage Indians to "hunt the wolf as well as the beaver."

Mr. Riddle, 68, who has been working in the barrens of the Northwest Territories for 37 years, was here to confer on caribou movements with officials of the Saskatchewan game branch.

"It is necessary that the government continue to exterminate the wolves because if they don't then there will be nothing for the tourists to come to Canada's north to hunt.

"Every wolf, after it reaches one year of age, can kill and devour one caribou a week—enough to feed an Indian family for almost a year."

April 8 Election May Be More Regionalized 1962

By ARCH MacKENZIE

OTTAWA (CP)—The April 8 election campaign may be more regionalized than in 1962, party strategists say.

In other words, things may be said in one part of Canada that won't be repeated elsewhere.

By contrast, all four parties in 1962 tended to lay down a firm platform nationally in the early stages of the campaign for last June's election.

The situation arises in part from the results of 1962 when the Progressive Conservatives survived as a minority government on rural support and Liberal gains were made mainly in the cities.

Thus, it was probably no accident that Prime Minister Diefenbaker's Toronto speech Tuesday laid heavy emphasis on Conservative promises for urban development and redevelopment assistance.

Liberal party sources agree that the prospect of a regionalized campaign is one reason for attempting to ensure more flexibility this time in itineraries and other plans.

The Social Credit and New Democratic parties have similar problems. Social Credit won 30 seats in 1962 but 26 were in Quebec and most were rural. Of the NDP's 19 seats, 10 were won in British Columbia and six in Ontario—most of an urban-industrial nature.

CRITICIZE DISSIDENTS?

It is reported the Conservative party anticipates presenting a line of argument in some Prairie constituencies and in rural Ontario that will be critical of Toronto dissidents who questioned Mr. Diefenbaker's leadership.

This argument, which can hardly be used in seeking to regain party strength in Toronto or other urban areas, may cultivate voting support among Prairie and other rural voters who have a traditional suspicion of Eastern industrial circles.

National policy of the Social Credit and Liberal parties on nuclear weapons is expected to be at odds with a substantial body of opinion in Quebec.

Social Credit Leader Thompson favors a decision by a non-partisan parliamentary committee. Deputy Leader Real Caouette, head of the party's Quebec wing, has opposed nuclear arms at home or abroad. Liberal Leader Pearson has called for acceptance of nuclear warheads for defensive weapons to fulfil Canada's defence commitments in NATO and NORAD.

It is reckoned that about 121 of the 263 Canadian constituencies are influenced wholly or substantially by the rural vote. The Conservatives, electing 116 last June 18, got most support from rurally-tinged ridings including 42 of the 48 on the Prairies.

On the other hand the Liberals, in winning 100 seats, scored heaviest in Montreal, Toronto and other urban centres. Of 17 seats in traditionally-Conservative Toronto, they came up with 11.

MARKET TRENDS

TORONTO (CP) — The stock market closed higher in all sections Friday as the number of shares traded was the lowest in five weeks.

Reason for the dull trading session was attributed to the fact that all major United States exchanges were closed Friday in observance of George Washington's birthday.

Industrials, ahead nearly one-half point on index, were paced by Investors Syndicate A, up 1⅛ and Canada Cement, ahead ⅞. Other gains in the ¼ to ½ range went to Gatineau Power, Steel Company of Canada and Dominion Foundries and Steel.

Among losers Walker-Gooderham ⅝, Canada Packers B, ⅞, and Federal Grain, down two on a light turnover.

On index industrials rose .48 to 593.32, golds .02 to 91.70, base metals .78 to 199.03, and western oils .48 to 114.66. Final volume was 2,453,000 shares compared with 2,938,000 Thursday.

Trading in base metals saw Falconbridge and Hudson Bay Mining both up ½, while International Nickel dropped ¼. Among golds, Hollinger was up ⅜ and McIntyre Porcupine ¼.

Western oils action was slow with Home A down ¼, Home B off ⅛ and Hudson's Bay Oil ahead ⅛.

MONTREAL (CP) — Stocks moved higher on the Montreal and Canadian exchanges Friday. Trading was moderately light among industrials and active in mines.

Quebec power stocks were higher following Friday's announcement by Quebec Premier Jean Lesage of full details of the provincial government's take - over offer. Shawinigan gained ¼ to 30 in active trading, Gatineau rose ⅜ to 34¼ and Quebec Power was up ½ at 36⅜.

Building Products jumped 2¼ to 26¼, Dominion Glass rose ⅝ to 20⅜ and Massey-Ferguson at 12⅞ and Dominion Textile at 19 both gained ¼ in active trading.

Asbestos fell a point to 26 among base metals and Consolidated Smelters fell ¼ to 23¼.

Canada Cement rose ¾ to 34½, Banque Canadienne Nationale rose ¾ to 72¾ and Hudson's Bay Company fell ⅛ to 12⅝.

The composite index rose 0.2 to 118.1, industrials gained 0.2 to 118.5, uilities rose 0.1 to 113.9, banks added 0.3 to 123.5 and papers were unchanged at 103.0.

Mistango rose 13 cents to 83 cents on a turnover of 233,700 shares among mines. Roberval gained 5½ cents to 29½ cents in heavy trading, North American Rare gained four cents to 57 cents and Dominion Leasehold fell four cents to $1.05.

Volvo's Decision To Make Cars In Canada Will Help N. Scotia

HALIFAX (CP)—The decision of Volvo of Canada to produce cars in Canada at a plant in neighboring Dartmouth brings to 27 the number of industries Industrial Estates Limited has helped to begin or expand operations in Nova Scotia.

The firm, a subsidiary of Volvo of Sweden, announced Thursday it has entered into an agreement with the Nova Scotia crown company to start the assembly of cars in a one-storey concrete building owned and formerly occupied by Acadia Atlantic Sugar Refinery Ltd.

ISL has agreed to construct a $2,500,000 to $3,000,000 plant for Volvo within 30 months. The site is to be chosen by the company.

The federal government has extended to the company certain temporary tariff arrangements to assist in the establishment of production facilities.

Since ISL was set up in 1957 to encourage development of secondary industry, it has helped in the establishment or expansion of 26 manufacturing firms in various parts of Nova Scotia. Its chief function is to provide a plant for a manufacturer on a rental basis.

Under the temporary tariff arrangements, Volvo will receive relief from normal tariffs on certain items it must import during the early stages of its operation, said Finance Minister George Nowlan in Ottawa Thursday.

Mr. Nowlan said Volvo will increase its purchases in Canada "quite quickly" once it becomes well established.

The company will be permitted to import car bodies from its Swedish plant duty-free for the first five years of operation, or until annual production reaches 10,000 units. It also will be permitted to import some engines duty-free.

For the first year, duties will also be waived on certain automobile parts Volvo will import.

After the first year of production, existing provisions of the Canadian tariff on automobile parts with respect to content will apply to imports by the company.

The minister said the decision to manufacture Volvo cars in Canada "will have a significant impact on Canada's balance of payments, since cars which hitherto have been imported now will be supplied from Canadian producers."

Volvo, a leading manufacturer of cars, trucks, engines and heavy engineering equipment, expects to purchase the bulk of necessary capital equipment in Canada.

Kennedy Warns Cuba U.S. Firepower Can Blast Ships

By FRED S. HOFFMAN

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Kennedy has warned that U.S. firepower will blast any Cuban - based warships or planes that attack U.S. vessels or aircraft.

But Kennedy indicated Thursday that, for the time being at least, U.S. jet fighters and navy craft will be restrained from chasing attackers back to Cuba to punish them.

If Wednesday's MiG strafing of a disabled shrimp boat develops into a pattern of attacks, the president may then give the signal for "hot pursuit."

Several hours after Kennedy made the warning public at a press conference, the Cuban government "rejected and denied categorically" the charge that its jets fired near the disabled shrimp boat Ala in the Florida Straits Wednesday.

Once before, when a U-2 was shot down at the height of the Cuban crisis last fall, a U.S. warning apparently deterred any more anti-aircraft missile firing on U.S. reconnaissance planes operating over Cuba.

REVISES ORDERS

Kennedy said he had instructed the Pentagon to make "any necessary revisions in standing orders so as to ensure that action will be taken against any vessel or aircraft" which strikes at a U.S. ship or plane in Caribbean international waters.

He didn't elaborate, and defence officials refused to discuss either the standing orders or the changes.

Competent sources said the president's orders probably will result in placing more fast jets on "strip alert"—ready to take off.

Asked if an assault similar to the one on the shrimp boat might have been responsible for the disappearance earlier this month of the U.S. tanker Marine Sulphur Queen, Kennedy said he had no information indicating this.

"But certainly we would examine it," he said.

REASONS NOT KNOWN

The Sulphur Queen disappeared with 39 crew members aboard.

There is much the United States is not sure of—and may never know—about the attack on the shrimp boat.

"I don't think we know the full reasons behind this attack on this vessel, whether it was a deliberate decision by the Cuban government or a decision by the pilots involved," Kennedy said.

He noted that the 67-foot boat was lying in the water without flying any flag.

Some military officials suggested the MiGs flying at perhaps 400 or 500 miles an hour may have taken the drifting boat for a derelict and aimed pot shots at it for the practice. They missed by some 400 yards, Kennedy said.

The U.S. government sent a sharp diplomatic note to Castro's government Thursday night demanding a prompt and unequivocal explanation of what was denounced an "unprovoked and wilful attack" on the shrimp boat.

Friday's Cabinet Crisis Started Long Before 1896

By KEN KELLY

OTTAWA (CP)—This month's cabinet crisis, in which three ministers resigned on a matter of principle, started political observers talking about 1896.

In that year, seven senior ministers quit the Conservative cabinet of Sir Mackenzie Bowell and later were described by Bowell as a nest of traitors.

In his reminiscences, Lord Aberdeen, then governor - general, says that after the seven announced their resignations in the Commons Bowell crossed the floor to shake hands with opposition members and was heard to say:

"It is such a comfort to shake hands with honest men after being in company with traitors for months."

Bowell had been government leader in the Senate when Sir John Thompson, the prime minister, died suddenly in England. Thompson's political legacy to Bowell who succeeded him was the Manitoba school question.

Manitoba had done away with the province's separate schools and Bowell was under pressure from his Quebec ministers to pass legislation through Parliament re-establishing them. Exasperated by Bowell's delays in this, a Quebec minister, A.R. Angers, resigned.

WALLACE ALSO LEAVES

This left Bowell with two problems—the Manitoba school question and a ministry with inadequate Quebec representation. Also quitting the cabinet at the time was an Ontario minister, Clarke Wallace, who was grand master of the Orange Association of British North America.

In the memoirs of one of the leading figures of Bowell's cabinet, this resignation was attributed to reluctance by Wallace to defend in the powerful Orange lodges of Ontario federal legislation to settle the Manitoba school question.

While Bowell unsuccessfully offered the vacant Quebec post to several Quebec men, his English-speaking ministers kept up the pressure on him to repair the gap in French - Canada's cabinet representation.

They also pressed for federal legislation on the Manitoba school question and were under the impression that such legislation and the gap in cabinet ranks would be taken care of by Jan. 2, 1896, the opening day of a new session of Parliament.

When neither problem had been solved, seven ministers, led by Finance Minister George E. Foster, quit the cabinet. In a statement in the Commons, they said they were doing so in hopes of forcing Bowell's resignation and the formation of a new government under another leader.

Twice in the next 48 hours, Lord Aberdeen says, Bowell offered his resignation but Aberdeen expressed the view there were insufficient grounds for it.

There followed a period in which Bowell sought to fill the vacant cabinet posts, only to be blocked by the seven renegade ministers on every man he approached.

The final compromise was that the seven ministers returned to the fold, Bowell remained prime minister and Sir Charles Tupper entered the cabinet as secretary of state. Tupper was earmarked as Bowell's successor. The Quebec cabinet gap was filled by appointment of Alphonse Desjardins.

An attempt was made to solve the Manitoba school question with a bill introduced by Tupper but a combination of opposition and renegade government supporters under the leadership of Wallace and D'Alton McCarthy launched a filibuster which blocked its passage.

Parliament was prorogued, Bowell resigned and Tupper became prime minister. Tupper the called an election on the issue of the Manitoba school remedial bill but was defeated by the Liberals under Sir Wilfrid Laurier.

Prairie Grain Growers May Hear of Big Payment

By ARCH MacKENZIE

OTTAWA (CP) — Before federal election day rolls around April 8, Prairie grain growers may be informed of a whopping final payment on their 1961-62 wheat pool account.

Such timing would coincide with the 1962 pattern.

The payment, known to exceed $100,000,000, is the farmers' own money. It will go direct to the farmer from the Canadian wheat board, the crown agency that has served since the 1930s as the compulsory outlet for all Prairie wheat, oats and barley sold commercially.

However, the federal government can be expected to claim some of the credit on grounds of promotion of wheat exports and prices increased by the devaluation of the Canadian dollar last May in terms of United States currency.

It tends to be a political maxim that the government of the day does itself no harm when money flows — whatever the source.

Just a year ago Friday, Prime Minister Diefenbaker told the Commons that the previous wheat pool account—for 1960-61—was being closed out six days later. This was earlier than usual and he credited brisk exports.

Other factors were the impact of the previous harvest's drought which halved Prairie Prairie cash for seeding. The impending June 18 election was also seen by some as a factor.

March 30, Agriculture Minister Hamilton announced a final wheat payment totalling a record $125,088,385 or a record average of nearly 3.2 cents a bushel.

The payment this time may exceed that, although sales have slowed in the current crop year begun Aug. 1.

Normally, the wheat board pays farmers the bulk of their grain returns on delivery. It adds an interim payment and then completes payment when it finally tidies up its calculation of sales for the year.

Last year's payment of 32 cents a bushel on average compares with 12 cents for the previous period. Britain as usual remained the best Canadian wheat customer but sales to Red China, Japan, and other countries remained good.

ACREAGE PAYMENT DUE?

Less certainty blankets another feature of Prairie revenue in recent years. This is the acreage payment—paid for the crop years 1958-59, 1960-61 and 1961-62. It amounts to about $40,000,000 when made and represents $1 an acre for grain growers up to a maximum $200.

California Establishes Contact With Planet Mars

PASADENA, Calif. (AP) — Radar contact has been established with the planet Mars for the first time, the California Institute of Technology said Thursday.

Caltech said preliminary data analysis indicates Mars has both rough and smooth surfaces, much the same as the earth and moon.

The institute said scientists from its jet propulsion laboratory made the first contact in late January from the Goldstone Tracking Station in the California Desert. The announcement was delayed because of the time required for data analysis.

The Mars experiment will continue 12 hours a day until early March, when the planet will move out of radar range.

The distance to and from Mars was about 125,000,000 miles Feb. 2, when the planet made its closest approach to earth. On that date it took 11.1 minutes to get a signal to Mars and back.
