NEW INDUSTRY FOR NELSON. April target was met by Kootenay Forest Products of Nelson when its $300,000 barker and chipper construction program reached the "start-up" stage this week to enable shipping of chips to Celgar Ltd., Castlegar, on schedule. In this picture, bark of huge cedar log is shredded by the barker before being sawn. The bark falls into a deep bin and is fed into the burner. Previously it piled up in the mill, forcing periodic stops to clear the debris. Waste wood is now fed into the chipper, instead of the burner, then converted to chips, which are blown through nearly 500 feet of conveyor pipe and poured into cars waiting on a new 800-foot railway spur for shipment. About five cars a day will move to Castlegar when the plant is running to capacity.

U.S. To Explore Diversion Of North American Waters

Water Route Would Link Pacific, Great Lakes

By HAROLD MORRISON

WASHINGTON (CP) — A mammoth water and power proposal that would create 4,000,000 new jobs, give Canada a new water route from the Pacific Ocean to the Great Lakes and boost Niagara Falls power by 50 per cent is to be studied by a new U.S. Senate subcommittee seeking ways of diverting more North American water to the parched areas of the southwestern United States.

"Unless Arizona, for example, gets more water, it will wither and die," Senator Frank Moss, Utah democrat, said in an interview Wednesday as he gave the basic ideas behind an unprecedented water diversion plan that would require outlays of more than $100,000,000,000 during a 30-year period. This money would be regained through the sale of water and power.

An equivalent $100,000,000,000 also would be spent on facilities to put the new water supplies to use—creating a vast new capital market for more than $200,000,000,000 in manpower and supplies.

Devised by Ralph M. Parsons Company, a Los Angeles engineering firm, the proposal envisages the collection of surplus water from the Yukon, Peace, Columbia, Fraser and Athabasca rivers and redistributing them to the parched areas through a system of reservoirs, canals, tunnels and rivers. One huge Rocky Mountain trench would be 500 miles long.

The estimated costs, described by the firm as "very preliminary," would include digging a new ship waterway to connect Vancouver to the Great Lakes at Duluth on Lake Superior, reducing the need for many Canadian ships to use the Panama Canal. The increased water flow through the lakes would boost Niagara power by 50 per cent.

More trenches, channels and reservoirs would take water down from the northern areas to the U.S. and Mexico, helping all three countries meet water, power and irrigation needs.

PLAN A SMOKESCREEN?

A federal reclamation bureau official, asked whether the U.S. government would consider such a project feasible, replied that it might, but suggested the Parsons company project may be more smokescreen than reality. Southern California and Arizona are fighting over division of Colorado River water and the proposal may be a California threat to force Arizona into some form of acceptable compromise.

"This huge project is not beyond the realm of possibility," said Moss, who maintained that the engineering firm held preliminary talks with unidentified Canadians on the Prairies and West Coast and found them "highly interested" in the diversion plan.

The firm suggested that under a proposed cost-sharing scheme, the preliminary outlay of more than $100,000,000,000 would include a Canadian contribution of $40,000,000,00.

INDEFINITE TERM

VANCOUVER (CP) — Hugh Singleton, 45, who has a record of 17 convictions since 1937, is a habitual criminal, magistrate Douglas Hume found Tuesday. He was sentenced to indefinite custody, to be released only on the authority of the minister of justice. Singleton is currently serving 2½ years for breaking and entering.

Canadians Bring Peace to Cyprus

By DAVE McINTOSH

KAZAPHANI (CP) — Canadians seem to bring peace to Cyprus wherever they go.

As soon as the Royal Canadian Dragoons moved into the western villages of Cyprus this week — they had 12 armored scout cars there Wednesday—hilltop fighting stopped.

All has been peaceful, also, in the areas patrolled by the 1st Battalion, Royal 22nd Regiment, in Nicosia's suburbs and in the mountains near the Kyrenian pass.

Things have reached the stage where Lieut. Michael Bernard of Valcartier, Que., plans to try Greek-Turk fraternization through movies in this northern foothills village overlooking the Mediterranean.

"As soon as it gets warm enough in the evenings we'll set up our movies in the street and see if both Greeks and Turks will come," he said Wednesday.

"But at the start my men will have to sit between them."

Kazaphani is one of the few villages, if not the only one, in Cyprus where Greeks and Turks both live, though divided by a street through the centre.

NO SHOOTING

"They aren't talking to each other but they aren't shooting each other either."

Greek and Turkish children are not permitted by their parents to play together in the village.

Maj. Patrice Tremblay of Chicoutimi, Que., commander of C-company Van Doos, said he is trying to get school reopened. He failed in his original attempt to achieve a meeting between Greek and Turkish elders here but plans to try again.

A convoy escorted by two cars of Dragoons reached Kokkina on the northwest coast without further incident after being held up Tuesday for 5 hours by Greeks at Morphou. The Dragoons have remained in Kokkina which was under Greek attack for three days.

Delay at Morphou demonstrated again how little control the government has over some outlying villages. The UN hopes order—if not law—will be re-established through firmer control from Nicosia.

Says Pesticides Not Harmful

HALIFAX (CP) — A United States agricultural scientist said here Tuesday pesticides are not widely harmful to humans and wildlife.

Dr. Robert H. White-Stevens, director of research and development for the American Cyanamid Company, said pesticides are essential to agricultural productivity.

Dr. White-Stevens said he had sympathy for people who felt pesticides were destroying fish and bird populations in various areas of North America but he said most people were not in possession of accurate statistics that proved the opposite situation existed.

During an interview Dr. White-Stevens said the human fatality rate from use of pesticides is low.

Belgian Gov't Claims Strike Faltering

CP from AP-Reuters

BRUSSELS—The Belgian government claimed Wednesday night a strike of 12,000 doctors and dentists against a revised socialized medical law shows signs of faltering.

A spokesman for the medical men promptly denied the government claim but independent checks revealed some cracks in the doctors' firm stand since the strike began eight days ago.

Meanwhile there were indications King Baudouin was seeking resumption of talks between the government and the medical men.

Reliable sources indicated the young monarch was trying to have Professor Jan-Jacques Bouckaert, rector of Ghen University and former dean of its medical faculty, act as mediator. The king and Bouckaert conferred in the royal palace but there was no immediate report of their conversations.

An interior ministry spokesman said in an interview that physicians in rural districts were drifting back to work. He added:

"Elsewhere doctors are functioning entirely normally. This is particularly true in the Flemish section of the country. In French-speaking districts inhabited by Walloons the strikers largely are maintaining their position."

In Brussels, where the strike is being directed, a group of pediatricians met and decided they would resume house calls.

Cleveland Reaches Truce in Civil Rights School Dispute

Demonstrators Disperse Following Announcement

CLEVELAND (AP)—Mayor Ralph S. Locher said Wednesday night all sides in the city's civil rights school dispute have agreed to a two-week truce.

The mayor's announcement came after a city hall meeting that lasted almost seven hours. Some 150 civil rights demonstrators, waiting in the lobby while their leaders met with officials of the city and school board, left without any trouble after they were told the outcome of that conference.

Locher said the agreement includes establishment of a 10-man committee to study the racial problem in Cleveland. The truce will end demonstrations and picketing at school construction sites, city hall or the board of education headquarters for two weeks and may be continued two more weeks if progress is being made, Locher said.

The agreement climaxed a long day for civil rights demonstrators. At noon they marched for an hour in rain and snow at the board of education's downtown office.

The number of participants — about one-third of them white persons — swelled from 150 to 400 for a march to city hall — two blocks away.

Shortly before the peaceful parade began at noon, a judge issued a temporary order banning further construction, picketing or trespassing at the site of the new public elementary school.

It was there that Rev. Bruce W. Klunder, 27, a white Presbyterian minister, died Tuesday when he was run over by a bulldozer. He had thrown himself face down on the dirt behind a big earth mover to prevent its moving. The tractor driver said he did not know the minister was there and backed over him. The coroner Wednesday ruled the death accidental.

Last Tributes Paid to MacArthur

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson, the last commander-in-chief of General of the Army Douglas MacArthur, saluted his memory with an impressive tribute Wednesday as the celebrated soldier's body was carried to the Capiitol to lie in state.

It was placed on a black-draped bier in the high-domed rotunda of the U.S. Capiitol, where, last November, president Kennedy's body lay in state.

Johnson went to meet the train that carried MacArthur's family and his coffin from New York to Washington. Then he rode in a cortege through about six miles of rain-fogged streets from the railway station to a point near the White House and then up Capitol Hill to the rotunda.

Finally, the president placed a huge wreath of red, white and blue flowers at the foot of the coffin, stepped back a pace, closed his eyes and bowed his head in silent prayer.

This was the last act of ceremonies in the rotunda that began at 3:20 p.m. and ended at 3:35.

Toronto Police Deny Tapping

TORONTO (CP) — Police Chief James Mackey said Wednesday the Metropolitan Toronto police department does not wire tap.

Other denials of wiretapping came from commissioner Eric Silk of the provincial police and RCMP Superintendent John Henry.

A retired RCMP sergeant said Tuesday in Vancouver he is appalled at the dgree to which wiretapping is used by police forces across Canada.

Ernest Nuttall 63, said he was thunderstruck to discover his own telephone had been tapped by RCMP at the request of the FBI in the 1950's.

The former sergeant said police forces secretly have telephone company officials make records of telephone conversations.

Robarts Recounts Stand On Canada Pension Plan

By BOB EXELL

TORONTO (CP) — Premier Robarts said Wednesday Ontario would be surrendering its constitutional position as a province if it participated in the proposed Canada Pension Plan.

In a speech widely interpreted as setting the record clear once and for all that Ontario will stay out of the federal pension scheme, Mr. Robarts made these points in favor of a separate Ontario plan:

1. Canada's constitution, the British North America Act, gives the provinces the right to pass legislation in the pension field.

2. By having a plan of its own, Ontario would have complete control over any future alterations to retirement benefits for the people of the province.

3. Ontario would have complete control over 100 per cent of the monies built up in a pension fund through contributions, to be used for investment. (The federal government has offered 50 per cent control.)

4. Through its broader legislative powers in the pensions field, Ontario could provide superior benefits to those offered in the federal scheme.

5. An Ontario plan could provide pensions that would be portable to other parts of the country where the Canada Pension Plan was in effect.

NO DECISION MADE

These points were outlined in a speech by the premier to a Canadian Club luncheon. Later, he said Ontario as yet has made no decision to remain outside of the federal plan, scheduled to come into effect in January, 1965.

"We may take it for granted now that Quebec will not participate," Mr. Robarts said.

From the context of his own remarks, observers took it for granted that Ontario would not participate either. Mr. Robarts said:

"The prime minister of Canada has indicated that the Canada Pension Plan is quite able to function and to provide benefits for the balance of the provinces of Canada which may wish to accept it, even if Quebec and Ontario are not to participate.

"Thus, from the point of view of Ontario, we are free to do what we consider best for our own people, without the worry that we might be keeping something from some other province."

Some observers felt Mr. Robarts could hardly make it plainer, short of an outright announcement, that Ontario would introduce a contributory public retirement scheme of its own.

Pension legislation now on the books in Ontario, but not yet in effect, would serve only to regulate private pension plans. Referring to this, the premier said:

"I can assure you, that in the final event, our people here in Ontario will receive at least the equivalent benefits of the Canada Pension Plan, and possibly wider benefits, and at the same time we are examining the possibility of obtaining the additional advantages which come with an Ontario plan, and which I have outlined.

Parliament Wednesday

By The Canadian Press

Labor Minister MacEachen said he will consider extending the time limit for the winter works program in certain areas.

Opposition Leader Diefenbaker attacked the government's social insurance registration program.

The New Democrats suggested a deadline be set for passing 1963-64 supplementary estimates

No action was taken on the proposal but the Commons dispensed with the private member's hour.

British Election Announcement Expected Today

By ALAN HARVEY

LONDON (CP) — The uncertainty over the British election may be resolved within 24 hours.

An announcement is expected today and the forecast is for a date in October, possibly Thursday, Oct. 8.

Prime Minister Sir Alec Douglas-Home is thought to have conveyed word of his decision to the Queen in a Buckingham Palace audience Wednesday.

The Queen came to London on personal business from Windsor Castle, where the Royal Family is in residence. The audience was officially described as routine, but political sources acknowledge that it could also have been a momentous one if the prime minister did indeed break the election secret.

Opinion has appeared to be hardening in the Conservative party in the last few days in favor of an October vote. Previously June was considered the most likely month. The election must be held by November.

Rocket Hurls Gemini Capsule Into Space

By HOWARD BENEDICT

CAPE KENNEDY, Fla. (AP) —An unmanned project Gemini capsule was propelled into orbit by a Titan II rocket Wednesday and the United States got a flying start toward a goal of launching two astronauts into space in a similar craft late this year.

Analysis of data on Wednesday's flight and a second unmanned firing scheduled in the summer will determine whether the manned mission will be achieved in November or December as planned.

The powerful Titan II, making its debut as a space booster, lifted off at 11 a.m. after a perfect countdown and hoisted the 7,000-pound space craft into an orbittal path ranging from 99.6 to 204 miles high.

"We've got an orbit . . . It's a beaut," said Operations Director Walter C. Williams six minutes after blastoff.

Williams told a press conference later the high point was 21 miles higher than desired because of faster - than - planned booster speed. But he said that on a manned mission, the astronauts easily could correct this with their on-board fuel supply.

Williams, who directed six astronaut flights in Project Mercury, bowed out of the U.S. manned space program with the launching. He is moving to a job with private industry.

Maj.-Gen. Ben I. Funk, commander of the U.S. Air Force space systems division, called the launching a "storybook sort of flight" and praised the National Aeronautics and Space Administration, air force and industry team that accomplished it.

Because officials sought only engineering data, no attempt was made to separate the space craft from the spent rocket casing.

Coup Rumors Spread In Confused Saigon

SAIGON (AP)—Coup rumors are circulating again in Saigon, which has seen two coups in the last five months.

In the background is confusion over a re-organization of the armed forces by Maj-Gen. Nguyen Khanh, the strongman premier, and a bogging down of South Viet Nam's normally sluggish bureaucracy.

One of the most vocal Saigon politicians, who declined to be identified by name, said Wednesday he would favor an entirely new government, "with none of the hold-over personnel and traditions of the Ngo Dinh Diem regime" deposed last November. He said there should be a shift in power either by a coup or a national revolution.

A United States diplomat said the trouble is "Gen. Khanh, a very good man, is trying to fly without a co-pilot."

"He can't do the whole job himself and he just doesn't have the help he needs," the American said.

A rift between Khanh and dissident political factions seems to be widening. The general, who seized power Jan. 30, has dissolved the council of notables, an advisory body supposedly representing most of the country's political factions.

Major military operations against Communist Viet Cong guerrillas in the Mekong River delta—a focal point of the war—have virtually halted in the last week as the U.S.-backed armed forces pass through the latest of their reorganizations. Thousands of troops are being realigned.

"It's all part of the new pacification plan, I guess," a U.S. military adviser said. "But in a few weeks the rainy season will begin and everything will slow down. We had all hoped to make some really big gains against the Viet Cong before then."

UBC Faculty Gets Wage Increase

VANCOUVER (CP)—The University of British Columbia has granted its faculty a wage increase.

The board said the amounts of the increase would not be announced until faculty members and their association have been informed of them.

The association, representing 750 teachers, asked for a $1000-a-year increase for all faculty members.

Caution Urged In New Vaccines

ATLANTIC CITY, N.J. (AP) A U.S. health official urged caution Tuesday in the use of new live vaccines until further study of them can be made.

Dr. Robert J. Huebner of the National Institute of Health said recent findings have indicated viruses used in the live vaccines could possibly cause cancer in humans.

He gave the lecture to some 3,000 doctors during the annual convention of the American College of Physicians.

Live vaccines often are administered for measles, smallpox, yellow fever and respiratory ailments.

VANCOUVER (CP) — On a waiting list almost since birth, a six-year-old mongoloid daughter of a Vancouver couple has been granted the right to enter Woodland School for retarded children.

The child was taken off a waiting list Tuesday within a few hours of a court decision ordering the government to accept her.

Bed Loan to Relieve Shortage Toronto Hospitals

TORONTO (CP) — The Ontario government announced an emergency hospital bed loan program Wednesday designed primarily to relieve the chronic shortage within Metropolitan Toronto.

Health Minister Dymond told a press conference that loans of up to $5,000 a bed will be made available to hospitals, in addition to the present Ontario government grant of $5,300 a bed.

This could cost the government up to $10,000,000 in Metro Toronto alone, Dr. Dymond said. The granting of loans must be approved by the Ontario Hospital Services Commission.

The loans, combined with provincial, federal and municipal grants, would leave only 20 per cent of the coast of hospital construction to be borne by the hospital boards themselves.

ARMSTRONG (CP)—Rudolph Hartfield, 9, was drowned at his parents' farm at Larkin near here, RCMP reported Tuesday. The boy's father, Walter Hartfield, found the body in a pond, police said.

And in This Corner . . .

MAIDSTONE, England (AP)—Richard Hulbert has been appointed assistant matron at Maidstone's Oakwood Hospital.

And Michael Curtins is Oakwood's new night sister, as British hospitals call their head ward nurses.

"I'm not really upset about being called matron," said Hulbert, "but I suppose I could be called something more suitable."

"People find it a bit hard to explain that a man is a sister," said Arthur Akers, general secretary of the Health Service Union. "But it really isn't easy to think of anything new."

Akers said most British hospitals give their nurses badges showing their rank.

"We've now reached the stage," he said, "where they need badges to say whether they're men or women."

Especially in Oakwood. It's a women's hospital.

VANCOUVER (CP)—A Roman-style chariot complete with cantering horses and bedecked driver clomped down arterial Granville Street here Wednesday.

The ride, a stunt to publicize the first showing of a movie about the Roman Empire, was halted at the "Rubicon" — the Oak Street bridge.

No horses, said bridge authorities.

Promoters loaded the chariot, horses and all, in a van and trucked it across the bridge.

The triumphal ride to the Stanley Theatre resumed on the other side, stalling traffic along parts of the six-mile route.

Hockey Attendance Up, But Not Receipts

The total attendance may be increasing at senior hockey games but the receipts are not, the Civic Centre Commission learned Wednesday.

Secretary-manager F. M. Boates said that though the average attendance at regular senior games appeared impressive, a large majority of the fans was in the lower-priced student and children's classification.

"You increase the number of heads but you don't increase the bucks," he said.

He reported that on the 1963-64 season the Civic Centre received just over $2000 from its 15 per cent of total receipts after deduction of direct game expenses. The Nelson Maple Leaf senior hockey club receives 85 per cent of the take.

The club asked the commission for the same arrangement the forthcoming season. They needed early confirmation to avoid a pitfall which has plagued the Nelson senior hockey organization since its birth, late season organizing.

The team is working toward organizing their ranks in late spring and begin filling the vacancies on the team, created by player retirement, through summer searching.

The commission agreed to the 85-15 split, feeling any greater percentage on its part would result in no senior hockey and a vacant arena.

Ald. F. A. Beresford, city council representative, chairman J. S. M. Harts and Mr. Boates will attend the B.C. Arena Managers Association annual convention in Nanaimo in May.

School District No. 7 has approved the use of the grounds of Hume, Rosemont and Junior High Schools for the summer playground program.

Pollution Control Board Pressing For Answer to Problem—Taylor

TRAIL — Legoons for treatment of sewage are on a par with mechanical treatment plants if properly constructed, the annual meeting of the West Kootenay Health Unit was told here Wednesday night.

Answering a question put by a Castlegar delegate during discussion of Columbia River pollution and treatment plants versus lagoons, Charles Goldie, health department sanitary engineer, confirmed this.

A satisfactory solution to the pollution problem is being sought by the pollution control board, Dr. J. A. Taylor, deputy health minister, told the meeting.

He said the board is studying information and suggestions of municipalities. A meeting is to be held with the city of Nelson soon to discuss what can be done in connection with discharge of sewage into the Kootenay River by the city.

Steps will be taken to improve the quality of river waters, he said, but it could not be done overnight.

A suggestion was made from the floor that some of the funds derived from an economy stimulated by dam construction in the Kootenays be diverted to overcoming the pollution problem.

Representatives from Rossland, Kinnaird, Castlegar, Tadanac, Fruitvale, Montrose, Grand Forks, Greenwood and Trail were here for the meeting.

Guests included director of local health service Dr. K. I. G. Benson.

RUST CHAIRMAN

Gerald Rust of Kinnaird was returned to commence his third year as chairman of the unit. Trail's Ald. Ugo DeBiasio was elected vice-chairman. J. H. D. Hargarve of Tadanac was elected treasurer.

In presenting the annual report, Mr. Rust said, "We were greatly relieved when the provincial health department acquired the services of a new medical health officer for this area and the arrival of Dr. James McAnulty this past June certainly paved the way for a more conscientious public health program in this area."

The annual report revealed that heart disease was blamed for the greatest number of deaths in the unit in 1963. It was disclosed that 102 of the 251 people who died last year died from some form of heart disease.

It was noted that a breakthrough has been recently announced in the United States regarding heart disease, the causes of which are more or less well defined.

According to the report there is reason to believe that heart disease will soon no longer be the leading cause of death. It was thought this would come about probably within the next five years.

20 District Residents Sworn in as Canadians

Twenty new Canadians took their oaths of allegiance in a citizenship ceremony before Judge E. P. Dawson in the Nelson Courthouse Wednesday.

The new citizens were presented with scrolls by members of the Kokanee Chapter, under the supervision of Regent Mrs. Hector Mackenzie and with bibles by Capt. R. A. Newbury of the Salvation Army, secretary-treasurer of the Nelson Ministerial Association.

Mayor E. T. Bodard also welcomed the new citizens in a brief address.

Recipients of citizenship papers were: (country of origin listed in brackets):

NELSON MAN'S BOOK IN SECOND EDITION

The second edition of a Nelsonite's autobiography, "Torn Canvas" has been prepared for general distribution throughout the province and the Prairies.

Kootenay Art School principal Zeljko Kujundzic's autobiography was originally published in England in 1957.

Mr. Kujundzic obtained the folios from the original publishers, Richard Paterson Ltd. The last four pages of the novel had been displaced. The Nelson Daily News job printing department printed the missing pages and the cover to complete the book and did the binding.

Mr. Kujundzic will act as his own distributor for this edition.

HUMAN SATELLITES

In space flight, astronauts who go outside their capsules to do experimental tasks will themselves become satellites travelling 17,500 miles an hour.

Queen Scouts Return, Ready for New Trip

A taste of travel has whetted the appetite of four Queen Scouts for more of the same.

The four were part of a group of six Nelson Queen Scouts who during the Easter week were presented to Lieutenant-Governor G. R. Pearkes at Government House in the Queen Scout ceremony.

Les Laithwaite is currently doing odd jobs to earn his travelling expenses to New Brunswick for the Canadian Jamboree Aug. 15-22.

Going a little farther south will be Dave Martyn, Bill Christie and Bill Hindle, who will attend the North American Jamboree at Valley Forge, New York, July 11-31. They will be joined by Nelson Scout Bob Adderley for the trip. They will start from here by bus to Calgary, then to New York State by train.

Queen Scouts Pat Deakin and Bruce Wright rounded out the Nelson group which journeyed to Victoria for the Queen Scout ceremony along with 301 other Scouts and numerous adult relatives.

Besides the actual certificate presentation, the highlight of the five-day trip was a two-way crossing of Georgia Strait on two Canadian Navy destroyers. During the crossing, the navy demonstrated the techniques of its trade from firefighting to armament bursts.

In Victoria the Scouts also toured the Legislative Buildings and provincial museum.

2000 Fewer Cars Carried By Anscomb

Passengers travelling across Kootenay Lake on the MV Anscomb in March dropped almost one-half below the corresponding figure in 1963.

Automobile and driver ferry carriage on the main lake ferry showed a drop of 2000 from March 1963, reflecting the movement of traffic on the Salmo-Creston link.

Number of round trips for last month's tally registered one less from the 311 tally in March 1963.

A breakdown of March ferry figures with March 1963 totals bracketed follows:

Round trips 310 (311); automobiles and drivers 3543 (5704); passengers 5912 (10,370); trucks 834 (1593); trailers 219 (645); motor buses nil (146); motorcycles 1 (nil).

KOOTENAY STUDENTS WIN SCHOLARSHIPS

Former Nelson student G. H. Wood, has been granted a $2400 scholarship from the National Research Council of Canada for 1964-65.

The studentship is for graduate work at University of British Columbia. Mr. Wood, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. L. Wood, 402 Fifth Street, is working towards his Masters' degree in Applied Science.

Other Kootenay students to receive grants were Miss F. J. McWhirter of Cranbrook, $2000 bursary and T. K. Gustafson of Trail, $2400 studentship.

Both Miss McWhirter and Mr. Gustafson will continue their studies at UBC.

The Council has granted 971 scholarships with a total value of $2,357,400.

Council Backs Air Application

A Pacific Western Airlines Ltd. pilot doesn't feel there would be a conflict of interest with the establishment of a daily interior flight by a Kelowna firm.

D. J. Thomson, PWA pilot here, felt the daily flight plan of Cariboo Air Charter Ltd. would prove financially infeasible.

The Kelowna firm Monday was seeking the support of city council in its application to the Department of Transport. The air transport board will hold a public hearing at Kamloops April 23 on the application to provide daily service between interior points, including Duncan Lake, Mica Creek, Nakusp, Revelstoke and Castlegar.

The Cariboo amphibian aircraft would be limited to visible flight readings making for irregular flight patterns during unfavorable weather, said Mr. Thomson.

City council approved of supporting the application, emphasizing that Nelson has suitable landing area for the service.

The Cariboo flights will be a passenger run charging regular passenger rates, not charter rates, for the entire seating occupancy of the aircraft.

In the Courts

Two Nelson minors were remanded until April 14 for sentencing on breaking and entering, and theft charges in Provincial Court Tuesday.

Magistrate William Evans remanded J. F. Lippingwell and G. W. Reese on the two charges pending the probation officer's report.

A Nelson juvenile also faces the same charges in Family and Children's Court, arising out of the theft of articles from two separate homes on the night of April 5.

Both minors pleaded guilty to forcing the door of the home of O. Moen on Silver King Road and stealing a couple of radios. They also admitted taking 20 car batteries from the property of E. C. Mason and Nick Maras on Granite Road.

The accsued were arrested after investigation by RCMP.

Logs, Lumber Presented To Pageant

Hefty logs, lumber and other material for the floating bandshell to be installed at Lakeside Park for the Water Pageant International are being provided by Nelson and district firms, pageant officials said Wednesday.

All float logs and cross-tie logs and the base for the stage form one donation that includes 17 logs up to 60 feet in length with butt-end diameters as big as four feet.

Another firm pledged material valued at $150 towards construction of the bandshell. Float committee chairman R. E. Sawyer was advised by another firm that 7000 feet of lumber would be available on request.

The stage will have a 40-person capacity and is designed after the Hollywood Bowl in California. Ample storage and dressing space is to be provided behind the stage proper. Other firms are being approached for donations of materials or cash for the building program.

Report Asks .05 Reading In Impairment

VANCOUVER (CP) — The health planning council of the B.C. Medical Association is trying to re-arouse public opinion in a renewed drive for stricter laws against drinking drivers.

The council's alcoholism committee has reprinted a report of its findings in the current issue of the B.C. Medical Journal. The report says the law is too lenient and that studies have shown the average person is a menace on the road with as little as .05 per cent of alcohol in his blood.

The report, first printed in 1960 and later adopted by the Canadian Medical Association, calls for recognizing .05 per cent as a base reading on a breath analysis machine that a driver is under the influence of alcohol.

There is presently no set standard recognized by law and breath analysis readings can only be used as corroborative evidence to back up sworn testimony of police and other witnesses.

In Vancouver courts and police generally recognized a reading of .15 per cent as an indication of impairment. But it was found too high and the figure was lowered to .1 per cent.

Outlook for Berry Growers In B.C. Good

VICTORIA (CP) —Agriculture Minister Frank Richter has predicted a record berry crop for B.C. this year.

Mr. Richter said in a statement Tuesday that with an expanding export market B.C. needs all the berries farmers can produce.

He also predicted a bumper fruit crop for the Okangan.

Only an unexpected late and severe frost could change the picture, he said.

Health Dept. Men Say

Castlegar Doing Right Thing In Solving Sewage Problem

CASTLEGAR — Considered "a move in the right direction" is Castlegar's current effort on sanitation. This was the opinion resulting from the meeting of three representatives of the department of public health with Castlegar's village commission Tuesday.

Engineering aspects of the lagoon system versus the mechanical treatment plant system came up for a thorough airing. It was noted that the two systems are comparable for efficiency depending on the degree of control employed by the latter method of affluent disposal.

Attending the meeting were Dr. J. A. Taylor, deputy minister of health; Dr. K. I. G. Benson, assistant provincial health officer, and C. Goldie, public health engineer.

Dr. Taylor said the department was in perfect harmony with the proposals on sewerage by the village of Castlegar, pointing to the fact that they had been ratified by the Pollution Control Board. C. Goldie said that the method had been thoroughly studied and that "any of these systems are satisfactory."

The three officials had been interested in attending a council meeting while here to discuss the matter further at a Union Board of Public Health meeting in Trail Wednesday.

To comments made by citizen Carl Rolph during the discussion period with the men from Victoria, that Dr. McAnulty, MHO for this area, is keeping the lagoon system a controversial issue, Mr. Rolph asked Dr. Taylor "could you clarify the position of Dr. McAnulty at the present time."

MHO's POSITION

The response told that the MHO had every right to take specific issue with septic tank facilities and other conditions in Castlegar prior to the passage of the sewerage bylaw. "He had lived up to his responsibilities."

"The motion as to what type of sewerage system Castlegar would employ rested with council," Dr. Taylor said. But he added that after the bylaw was advertised, accepted by the ratepayers and approved by the Pollution Control Board, "the department did not agree with Dr. McAnulty in raising criticism — he is in error." He told Mr. Rolph that after a permit for the lagoon had been granted, "the opportunity was given to everyone in the area to raise objection if they chose to do so." This was not the case, and therefore he said that the lagoon is the approved system.

"We will be for pollution control," he said.

Commissioner Lorne Zinio told the commission meeting that the contractor for the sewerage system construction is supplying office space for Associated Engineering Services Ltd., which will be overseeing the complete sewerage installation. He reported "they have rented the lobby of the curling arena and a small room next to the change rooms, also the vacant space at the rear of the curling sheets for the sum of $100 per month payable to the Projects Society. I assume that the money will be used for the purpose of paying their capital debts as they cannot spend it on any further capital expenditures."

Commissioner Leo Bosse welcomed Dr. Taylor and his colleagues from Victoria at the commencement of a report which covered dog pound, street lighting, parking and safety and fire department matters. He welcomed William Read, chairman of the Castlegar Commission, back to the commission after an absence of approximately eight weeks.

At this first meeting of the chairman's return, commissioner Bob Maddocks retained the acting chairmanship.

'COPTER FIRM PROFITS UP

VANCOUVER (CP) — Okanagan Helicopters Ltd. reported a net income of $237,000 for 1963, up considerably from a 1962 loss of $171,000.

The company said its gross revenues dropped $93,000 in 1963, but operating expenses were trimmed by $294,000.

Okanagan's Helicopters flew 1,000 hours more last year than in 1962, but earned less revenue because unlimited competition led to reduced rates, the annual report said.

Some of this competition has been eliminated by a merger with Pacific Helicopters.

The report said a large percentage of Okanagan's fleet is already committed for 1964. The company said it also intends to develop work in building of power lines and major construction projects using the heavy Sikorsky S58 helicopters.

Ship Canal From Vancouver to Lakes Mooted

WASHINGTON (CP-AP) — A proposal to build a ship canal from the Vancouver, B.C., area to the Great Lakes as part of a $100,000,000,000 idea for carrying water from Canada and Alaska to 33 states and Mexico was unveiled here Wednesday.

Senator Frank E. Moss (Dem. Utah), chairman of a new U.S. Senate public works subcommittee was excited over the project, proposed by a Los Angeles engineering and construction company.

Moss said the project would be constructed jointly by Canada and the United States.

If the proposal seems feasible, on an engineering and financial basis, U.S. Army and reclamation bureau engineers will be asked to make reports.

Trail Council Proposes Change In Coroner's Act

TRAIL — Trail city council is to propose amendments to the Coroner's Act of British Columbia so that municipalities in future would be relieved of heavy inquest costs, Mayor Joseph Palyga said Monday.

The mayor said the council had become concerned when it was sent a bill totalling almost $500 in connection with the death of a Trail man on Vancouver Island some months ago.

Mayor Palyga said the city solicitor Douglas Wetmore had prepared a resolution which Trail will present at the forthcoming spring session of the Association of Kootenay Municipalities in Cranbrook, calling for coroner's costs to be limited to $50 as far as municipalities are concerned.

In detail, the resolution calls as far as municipalities are concerned, for coroners to be permitted to dispense with the viewing of a body by jurors, and that inquest or inquiry expenses greater than $50 be met out of the consolidated revenue funds of the province.

If Trail wins support at AKM for its resolution, the views of the Kootenay municipalities will be conveyed to the provincial government with a request for action at the next session of the legislature.

Restorations, Continuing Projects Recalled at EKHA Annual Meet

CRANBROOK — Dan MacDonald, East Kootenay Historical Association field director, commented in his report to the annual Association meeting that it is the only one in the province, and possibly in western Canada, to specialize in field work in locating, restoring and marking historic points and sites.

Chief special event in 1963, he reported, was arranging the Fort Steele Restoration Foundation plan unveiling, done by deputy provincial secretary and Foundation chairman L. J. Wallace of Victoria. The ceremony attracted nearly 500 people, and also brought the gift of one of the hawsers used to tie up boats during Fort Steele days at the Kootenay River port.

CEMETERY, CUSTOMS

The late July field trip to Grasmere and Roosville, with 80 participators, located the original cemetery and customs house at Roosville where Michael Phillipps was customs officer, and the remnants of the large international lumber operation at Waldo.

Restoration of the cemetery and Frank Perry grave at Old Town on Perry Creek was also done. Tape recorded reminiscences of 31 district pioneers were made and filed at the provincial archives, and much newspaper file material was similarly recorded in this way.

SUGGESTS GRIFFITHS RESEARCH

He suggested as a new, continuing project, close ground research of the Dave Griffiths ranch up Wild Horse Creek from the Dewdney Trail terminal, which Association secretary Dave Kay said showed evidence of being the site of vanished Fisherville, the community spontaneously created by the Wild Horse gold rush of 1864.

Griffiths arrived there in 1864 and remained there until his death in the early 1930's. He left some eye-witness accounts of the gold rushes of 1864-65, and 1885. His house has vanished except for the chimney, but apple trees he planted in the 1880s continue to grow there. The Association also has the mining tools of Lee Jack, Chinese prospector of the 1864 gold rush on Wild Horse, who also spent the rest of his life to 1930 on the Wild Horse.

LOCATION UNKNOWN

According to Griffiths, Fisherville numbered 1500 to 2000 persons in 1864-65 with its own post office and gold commissioner. However legend, at least, claims the buildings were pushed over or blown up for staking on their location and its exact position is unknown. The Dewdney Trail terminal one mile eastward from Fort Steele, reclaimed from wilderness by the Association two years ago, ends abruptly at the edge of the creek.

Several other projects were also proposed for Association consideration, including restoration and possible transfer of the wooden water wheel and steam engine for another gold mining development on Perry Creek.

Coast Copper Nets $321,089

VANCOUVER (CP) — Coast Copper, Ltd., Wednesday reported a net profit for the year ending Dec. 31 of $321,089, compared to a net loss of $246,838 the previous year.

The company, operated by Consolidated Mining and Smelting Company which owns 83 per cent of the common stock, said the 1962 loss was the result of heavy expenses in starting up its central Vancouver Island Mine and Mill.

The profit for the year was $704,888, before depreciation of $69,000 and preproduction development and holding expense of $314,799.

A total of 281,347 tons of ore — 771 tons a day — were produced last year. Grade was 1.85.

May Ask Inquiry On Effect of Equalization Act

VANCOUVER (CP) — City Council Tuesday approved in principle a motion asking for a provincial inquiry into the effect of the assessment equalization act on taxation.

The motion from Alderman Hugh Bird, acting mayor, wants a commissioner appointed under the public inquiries act to conduct an investigation.

Ald. Bird said he introduced the motion in an attempt to get an enlarged study on the effect of zoning changes on land value. He said a study is already planned by the provincial assessment department.

Council decided to approve the motion in principle in hope of an assessment department reaction before proceeding with a formal request for the inquiry.

A Voice From a Simpler Time

To be remembered at his best, General MacArthur should be visualized against the background of West Point, where his character was shaped, and in the context of the sort of warfare of which he was one of the most brilliant practitioners, but which has now become nearly obsolete.

To America's hero of the Pacific the warrior's code was imperishable.

As late as May, 1962, the old hero spoke the three words of his lexicon — "Duty, Honor, Country" — to the cadets of his old academy. He warned the future soldiers of his country to avoid the discord of national and international controversies, and cried: "There is no substitute for victory."

This was the spirit of Marathon and Thermpylae, of Balaclava and Valley Forge and a hundred battles of long ago — the spirit that reconquered for the Allied cause all the lost, scattered territories of Southeast Asia during MacArthur's greatest war.

Alas! The bewildering years have smudged this simple creed, the shining figure has dimmed, the ringing accents lost in an alien babel.

Yet at this moment we pay tribute to West Point's most illustrious modern son, and hear once more his voice sounding from a simpler and more heroic age over which he helped to shed an aura of grandeur.

An Elephant Story

News from South Africa, that elephants in Kruger National Park have been going on mammoth drunks, sets up several trains of thought.

Can this be a result of man's contamination of nature? Or is it just that proneness to intoxication is a disease peculiar to animals of high intelligence?

That elephants are highly intelligent, as well as highly dignified, is hardly disputable. At any rate, there is an opinion that elephants never forget.

Why do men drink? To forget, of course. Never mind what. Perhaps to forget the fact they're men.

A dog has fleas to take its mind off the fact of being a dog. Men and elephants need something else.

Men drink the juice of the grape, of malt and hops, of corn squeezings. Elephants drink marula berry juice, which has the great advantage of fermenting in the tummy, thus making stills or vats or bottles unnecessary.

Kruger Park rangers describe the current elephant drunk as one of the biggest binges in history. Possibly the pachyderms are feeling the influence of general African unrest. Maybe they have more to forget than usual.

A final thought. If men with DT's see pink elephants, what do elephants see?—Vancouver Sun.

Short-Sighted

Japanese and Canadian representatives have begun their negotiations to establish voluntary quotas for 1964 on a number of commodities exported by Japan to this country. So far as Canada is concerned, the negotiations are an exercise in hypocrisy and short-sightedness.

There is nothing voluntary in Japan's acceptance of the quotas; they are forced upon her and are in reality barriers erected to prevent fair trade between our countries. That is the hypocrisy of the matter. The short-sightedness comes in when we delude ourselves into believing that we will always be able to force Japan to accept this unequal deal.

In the first nine months of 1963 Canadian exports to Japan rose to $212 million from $158 million for the same period in 1962. Japan's exports to us were unchanged at $93 million. Yet, over Japanese resentment, we continue to demand quotas.

It is time Canada abandoned this selfish attitude, if not on the grounds of justice then on those of self-interest. Japan buys nothing from us that she cannot buy from other nations. If we continue to act as we have in the past, Japan can switch her buying to nations who will trade on equal terms.

Bringing Home The Brains

The British are not content to grouse about their loss of scientists to the U.S. They do something about it, something Canada might imitate.

A British personnel man named Harry Hoff, on the public payroll, makes an annual coast-to-coast safari in the U.S. With him go colleagues from Britain's Atomic Energy Authority, Central Electricity Board and Civil Service Commission.

Their business is to find emigre British experts and woo them back home. In this work known as "boffinrepat" (boffin being British for "brainy fellow in the backroom") they do not make patriotic speeches and have no instant knighthoods to hand out.

Instead they offer attractive jobs, in the organizations named and the universities. In 1962 they had nibbles from 250 men and landed 70 of them. Hoff says they are most effective with young Ph.D.s nearing the end of two- or three-year research fellowships.

A score of 70 out of 250 in this venture is excellent, considering the money inducements the U.S. can offer and the exalted status of scientists in that country. But Canada should be able to do as well if we did something sensible about our taxes.

Canadian universities are already having some success in bringing back scholars who moved south. A systematic, official and continuous effort on a broader front should be begun. In the U.S. there are far more Canadian than British expatriates in scientific, technical and academic posts.—Financial Post.

Perverse Glass

The perversity of glass is well known or ought to be. Let the amateur try to cut a sheet of the stuff and it may break in all directions. Yet window panes have a way of outlasting even the oldest homes. A bottle may be shattered in a short fall or resist attempts to smash it.

One of those latter instances — and it wasn't the first of record — turned up the other day in Owen Sound when a new fireboat for Toronto was launched. The traditional bottle of champagne was on hand but had to be banged four times against the craft's side before it broke.

This has happened before, even at the launchings of much larger vessels. If it keeps up embarrassed officials may have to switch to that "breakaway" theatrical stuff, and toss off the champagne later.

Income Tax for the Worker

By C. A. MILLER

Some taxpayers find themselves in a position of having to pay tax, or having tax deducted on income received from outside Canada. Of course such income is also taxable in Canada. It is taxable here on the gross amount without any deduction from the gross for taxes paid or withheld in the other country.

As Canada does not allow the taxpayer to deduct his foreign tax withheld or paid, from the gross amount, provision is made to allow a credit for foreign taxes against his Canadian tax payable. Before the taxpayer enters any figures on is return, he should first bring his foreign income to its equivalent in Canadian currency. If the income is from the U.S.A. he must first increase the amount by the premium applicable to such funds. Likewise the taxes withheld must also be increased by the same percentage.

The foreign tax credit is allowable only to the extent of the Canadian tax on such income.

The taxpayer with this type of income must use the T1 General form and follow the equasion set up on it for computing foreign tax credit. If income is received from more than one foreign country, a separate calculation must be made for each one.

A taxpayer receiving income from an estate that has not as yet been distributed, should watch his T3 slip carefully for foreign income and foreign tax paid. This is one item that is often overlooked by the taxpayer. What is referred to in this article as a foreign country means any country other than Canada.

For personal replies pertaining to income tax problems, please enclose a self - addressed five cent stamped envelope and 25 cents in coin for each question you wish answered. Mail to Mr. C. A. Miller care of the Daily News.

Question: I receive a dividend cheque from the U.S.A. They take off 15 per cent for income taxes. Can I recover this from them?

Answer: No. But you may claim all or part of this on your Canadian return as a tax credit by applying the computation as outlined on the T1 General form. Be sure to bring your dividend and tax to its equivalent in Canadian funds.

Question: I commuted to the U.S.A. for part of the year and paid taxes to that country. How do I verify this on my Canadian return to get credit for U.S. taxes paid?

Answer: Attach to your Canadian return, a copy of your U.S. W2 and 1040 forms. Use the Canadian T1 General tax return.

Great Slave Lake Railway Pushes Toward Pine Point

MEANDER RIVER, Alta. (CP)—The ring of steel-driving equipment is echoing through the sub-zero air of northern Alberta as the Great Slave Lake Railway pushes toward its goal.

The end of steel now is 140 miles from its terminal point at Hay River, N.W.T., 500 miles north of Edmonton. It is already farther north than any line in Canada connecting with the North American railway network.

By 1966 the frontier line will be carrying lead and zinc from Pine Point, N.W.T., down its 430-mile length to Peace River, Alta. From there 215,000 tons of ore will be shipped annually to Trail, B.C., and Consolidated Mining and Smelting's huge processing centre.

The pioneering of the Great Slave Lake railway is not confined to opening up of a rich section of the Canadian North, however. Challenging weather and geography have combined with a rigid schedule to inspire new construction techniques.

Developments in the care and feeding of construction crews have made bush camp life almost unbelievably soft, says Reuben Steffanson, a superintendent at the Meander River bridge site.

His 40 - man camp enjoys meals, provided by a Peace River catering company, that would do credit to most major hotels.

And it has refinements such as flush toilets and showers—luxuries undreamed of when Mr. Steffanson first took to the bush with a railway construction gang more than 30 years ago.

With an electric generator, ample heat provided by gas, daily communication with the outside and occasional movies and trips to town, the bush camps on the Great Slave Lake railway are making pioneering almost pleasant.

But if the life is becoming easier, the engineering problems aren't.

"I don't want to make it sound like we're overcoming huge obstacles," says Vic Cox, project engineer. "But we have muskeg to cope with, and deep frost and a lot of bridges and a shortage of gravel for the roadbed base."

A total of 41 river and stream crossings, dozens of miles of muskeg and temperatures that drop to 50 below are among the problems facing the Canadian National Railways crews building the $86,250,000 line.

The tight schedule has forced engineers to adopt a "leap - frog" method of construction. Rail, ties, spikes and heavy equipment have been moved ahead on the Mackenzie highway which runs roughly parallel to the rail line.

By this method crews in bush camps along the route have been able to complete sections of grade and track for connecting with the main line of advancing steel.

Forty-five separate contracts have been let for bridges, grade, culverts and buildings along the line. The work is directed and co-ordinated by Mr. Cox, a CNR engineer, and railway crews do the track-laying itself.

The end of steel reached this major river crossing, Mile 223, just before a two-week Christmas vacation and right on schedule after 1½ years of construction.

To be in position for spring track-laying on the 55-mile line running east of Pine Point, the CNR has moved a 46-ton locomotive up the frozen gravel highway on a truck. By the end of winter weather 600 truck loads of building material, including five flat-cars, will have followed it to Pine Point Junction, about seven miles south of Hay River.

At the current rate of construction, says Mr. Cox, Hay River should have railroad service sometime in October. At that point the line will have poked 150 miles farther into Canada's northland than its nearest rival, the Hudson Bay Railroad to Churchill, Man.

The newest piece of track-laying equipment in use on the GSL railway is a CNR-designed unit dubbed The Pioneer. It is a self - propelled flat - car that moves rail, ties, plates and spokes by conveyor from cars behind. It splices line and fastens rail to every fifth or sixth tie with a pneumatic hammer.

Multiple spike - driver sand power bolt-tighteners follow to complete fastening of the rail. Using a five-man crew the Pioneer can lay about 700 feet of track an hour.

For the sections of line ahead of completed construction a tractor with a crane attachment is used. Fitted with "walking shoes," the crane can work right on the roadbed, using truck-hauled materials that have been stockpiled along the route.

Contractors preparing grade ahead of the rail are also working against the clock. They are ripping short sections of 18-inch-deep frost from the surface, building and packing grade before the ground beneath can freeze.

While peak construction takes place during the summer months, when up to 1,000 men are employed, the work schedule calls for year-round building. This winter's activity is concentrated around more than half a dozen camps that dot the railway's route through 145 miles of bush between here and Hay River.

About half the camps contain only skeleton crews of eight or 10 men, surveying and calculating for grade work that will resume in March. The others are track - laying or bridge - building camps with crews of up to 50 men.

British Interfered in Korea Charged Gen. MacArthur in Secret Interview

NEW YORK (AP)—A 10-year-old secret interview, published today, quotes Gen. Douglas MacArthur as saying he could have crushed the Communists in Korea but for "the perfidy of the British and . . . constant harassment and interference from Washington."

The New York World-Telegram and Sun published the account by Scripps - Howard correspondent Jim G. Lucas of an interview with MacArthur here Jan. 20, 1954.

"Jim felt honor-bound not to report any of it as long as General MacArthur was alive," the newspaper said in a story copyrighted by the Scripps-Howard Newspapers.

Lucas wrote that MacArthur "said every message he sent to Washington and every message Washington sent to him was shown to the British by the state department, and that, within 48 hours, was relayed by the British, either through India or through the Russian embassy in London, to the Chinese Communists."

KNEW PLANS

"Thus, he said, the Chinese Communists knew in advance every step he proposed to take. The Chinese communists decided to come into the Korean War, he said, 'after being assured by the British that MacArthur would be hamstrung and could not effectively oppose them.' "

(At Washington, a British embassy spokesman described the reported charges against Britain as being "without foundation." He said it was "utterly fantastic" to suggest that Britain would "sell out" Commonwealth troops in Korea by tipping the Communist Chinese to MacArthur's plans.

At the Wake Island conference with President Truman in October 1950, MacArthur was reported as saying "he told President Truman that if the Chinese Communists intervened in Korea, he would let them cross the Yalu River and then bomb their bridges behind them, cutting their supply lines and causing them to starve a while before being destroyed."

"He insists this strategy was relayed by the British to the Chinese Communists, with assurances he (MacArthur) would not be permitted to do any such thing."

Lucas said MacArthur planned to follow the defeat of the Chinese by sowing "a five-mile-wide belt of radioactive cobalt—which he assured me 'we had in abundance'—along the Yalu, thus permanently sealing Korea off from China."

The account continued:

"Gen. MacArthur frequently expressed bitterness when he spoke of Truman, but he paid him grudging respect as 'a man of raw courage and guts . . . the little bastard honestly believes he is a patriot'.

REACTED INSTINCTIVELY

When North Korea invaded South Korea, MacArthur was quoted as saying Truman "reacted instinctively, like the gutter fighter he is—and you've got to admire him."

Lucas' report was in the form of a memorandum to his editors. The newspaper said it was publishing the account "believing it is an important historic document."

The report, dated Jan. 25, five days after the interview, quoted MacArthur as having issued orders to the air force to bomb the Yalu River bridges after the Chinese intervened. It continued:

"Four hours later—just as the planes were preparing to take off on this mission—he said his order was 'peremptorily' countermanded by Gen. George Marshall, then U.S. secretary of defence. Similarly, he said, plans to bomb the Yalu River power plants were vetoed by Marshall 'acting as the errand boy of the state department'."

Lucas' memo contained many points, the first dealing with the Chinese Communist matter and MacArthur's view of the role played by Washington and Britain.

Other points:

2. "Gen. MacArthur is convinced there will be no further fighting in Korea, though there will be no permanent peace. . . ."

3. Having learned that infantry is not enough, the Chinese "sued for an armistice and embarked on a program to create a modern fighting machine. It may be five years or it may be 25, he said, but Red China will not again become an aggressor until she has a machine that can follow through. . . ."

4. "Gen. MacArthur believes we have lost Asia—and bitterly blames this on the 'Anglo-Saxonphiles' in the state department. He says time is on the Communists' side and they have only to wait and 'let this ripe apple drop in their laps'. . . ."

5. "Gen. MacArthur contended that President Dwight D. Eisenhower's order withdrawing two divisions from Korea after the war was 'part of the general plan to retreat to the Anglo-Saxon island fortress' . . . He charged the Eisenhower administration does not make decisions on the basis of 'is this right or wrong?' But purely on the basis of 're-electing Eisenhower and a Republican congress'. . . ." MacArthur said he was never consulted about the Far East.

6. "Gen. MacArthur said Gen. Mark Clark, our Far East commander in 1952, 'initiated his own retirement' because he couldn't take it any more'. He said Gen. Clark had done a magnificent job as commander of U.S. occupation forces in Austria, where he had complete authority, and came to Japan expecting the same backing. Clark had been there less than two weeks, Gen. MacArthur said, 'when Washington pulled the rug out from under him'. . . .

"Gen. MacArthur expressed pity—tinged with contempt—for Gens. John E. Hull and Maxwell Taylor, successors of Clark. . . . He said Taylor is a 'careful and extremely ambitious young man with the peak of his career still ahead of him' and will never do anything to jeopardize his career. . . ."

7. "Of all his field commanders, Gen. MacArthur rated Lt.-Gen. Walton Walker highest and Gen. Matthew Ridgway at the bottom. . . . He complains that Walker (killed in a jeep crash in Korea in December, 1950) was consistently vilified by the 'left-wing press' and the state department.

"Gen. MacArthur referred to Ridgway as 'a chameleon'. Ridgway, he said, was in full accord with his (MacArthur's) plan for winning the war, until he discovered these plans were regarded with disfavor in Washington 'and then Ridgway did a complete flip-flop in 24 hours'. . . .

"He said Ridgway was completely to blame for the prisoner-of-war riots on Koje Island but walked out and left Gen. Clark to solve the problem . . ."

"He spoke at great length about the present organization of the defence department which he says has reduced the chiefs of staffs to the role of 'press agents' pretty boys, speechmakers and front men'. . . .

"As of now, he said, all major tactical and strategic policies are arrived at by committees of 'frequently brilliant but invariably inexperienced' junior officers in secondary echelons. . . .

" 'In event of another war, we will certainly lose the first battles because this system is too unwieldy', he said."

CIVIL DEFENCE

Advance planning will enable Civil Defence officials to handle great numbers of people in emergencies. In the case of Hurricane Carla nearly 700,000 people were moved safely inland from coastal points without mishap or suffering.

Lack of Contemporary Works Noted

To the Editor:

Sir—Once again the Vancouver Symphony Orchestra has visited Nelson. Miss Esther Glazer, a mature and proficient violinist, was a welcome addition to the program. The cello section was excellent and had no weak players, in fact, the leader of the cellos was one of the best string players we have heard in this orchestra.

But why, in this year of 1964, in a concert sponsored by the Canada Council, did we not hear at least one "live" composer, Canadian or otherwise?

There are several active and internationally known Canadian composers. They write with freshness and vigor and are in touch with new developments in Canada and abroad in the field of composition.

With the exception of Debussy, the composers on the symphony program were representative of the 19th century, and the program did not have the balance one usually sees in this day of the more discriminating listener.

The worlds of literature and painting have shown us many developments since the charming nostalgia of the Victorian age.

The works of contemporary composers appear on programs in Vancouver, and other Canadian cities. Nelson is ready to hear them, too.

Mrs. G. H. Lee,
R.R. 1, Nelson.

Interpreting the News

By DOU GMARSHALL
Canadian Press Staff Writer

Britain's lapse into fighter-plane diplomacy to level a mud-walled Yemeni fortress Easter Saturday has predictably pleased nobody except possibly the Sherif of Beihan.

But who is the Sheriff of Beihan? One answer comes from the liberal-minded London Observer. This autocratic ruler of one of the 14 states that make up the British-protected south Arabian federation, the newspaper says, is "Britain's most demanding ally."

"Could even President Johnson or Chancellor Erhard get British military action on their behalf in violation of the United Nations charter and before the normal resources of peace-making have been exhausted?" asks the paper in an editorial.

The newspaper's severe tone echoes a large segment of published opinion in Britain about the government's decision to launch an RAF reprisal attack on the fortress close to the federation's borders.

CLAIMS DISCOUNTED

While British observers tend to discount Yemeni claims that 25 people—including women and children—were killed in the attack, they are hard pressed to find justifications for an action that was bound to damage Britain's fragile reputation as a reformed colonial power.

Just what was the point, ask the critics, in hardening Afro-Asian opinion against Britain, presenting the Arab world with a perfect anti-Western rallying cry and precipitating an embarrassing United Nations Security Council debate?

"This is a heavy debit balance—so heavy that it is impossible to understand how the cabinet could ever have come to such a decision," says the right-wing Sunday Times.

Whitehall sources said the cabinet reached its decision because of pressure from military and political authorities in Britain's Aden base—and only after internal disagreement.

The argument runs that Britain was obliged by treaties to retaliate for five attacks on federation territory by Yemeni aircraft in recent months. Moreover, Britain needs to retain the confidence of the federation's rulers in order to protect Aden—the bastion of influence over British Middle East oil interests.

Countering this argument, the critics say Aden will have to go sooner or later and the best way to prepare for British departure is to bring the UN into southern Arabia as soon as possible.

There is some suggestion that this moderate position was adopted by British Foreign Secretary R. A. Butler when the cabinet made its decision about the raid.

However it appears he was persuaded to favor a stronger response by Commonwealth Secretary Duncan Sandys and Defence Minister Peter Thorneycroft.

Ultimately, the decision to strike lay with Prime Minister Douglas-Home and he took it with the knowledge that the United States wasn't particularly happy about the possible results.

Events may justify him but meanwhile his critics are worried that in using a sledgehammer to crack a nut he may have wrenched Britain's Middle Eastern arm out of joint.

At Edgewood

St. Martin's Church Scene Of Lillico-Bargery Rites

EDGEWOOD — St. Martin's Roman Catholic Church was the setting for a pretty early spring wedding when Rev. Father Mulvihill united in marriage Sharon Janet, second daughter of Mr. and Mrs. D. H. Bargery of Edgewood, and Mr. Ivan Lillico of Nelson. Nuptial music was played by Mrs. R. N. Donselaar.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride was lovely in a floor length gown of traditional white nylon lace and net. The bodice featured lily point sleeves and was studded with cup sequins and simulated pearls. The bouffant skirt fell gracefully in net with lace insets. Her shoulder-length veil of nylon tulle was held in place with a pearl tiara and she carried a cascade bouquet of red roses.

The groom's sister, Mrs. I. From, as matron-of-honor, wore a street-length dress of nylon lace. The sheath style featured a fitted bodice with wrist-length sleeves. Bridesmaids were all sisters of the bride. Mrs. D. Williams, Miss Judy Bargery and Miss Wendy Bargery wore identical frocks of nylon sheer over taffeta. The scoop neckline of the bodice was topped with a fitted bolero of nylon lace. Little Jeannette Haggart as flower girl wore a dress on similar lines to the bridesmaids' and carried a basket of red roses. The other attendants all carried nosegays of white and red carnations and wore pert floral hats in pink to match the dresses which were of the same colour.

The groom was attended by his borther, Mr. Leonard Lillico and ushers were the bride's brother, Mr. Colin Bargery and her cousin, Mr. Jim Bargery. The bride's youngest brother, Brian, was ring bearer.

For her daughter's wedding, Mrs. Bargery chose a slim sheath of cotton and rayon brocade, topped with a matching jacket. Her accessories were en-tone and she wore a corsage of white carnations.

The wedding supper was served in the Legion Club room. The head table was centered with a three-tiered cake topped with a miniature bride and groom under an arch. Pink roses in low containers flanked the cake.

Mr. E. Johnson was master-of-ceremonies and proposed a toast to the bride. The attendants were toasted by the best man.

A dance in the Royal Canadian Legion hall followed.

For travelling the bride changed to a suit dress of rayon linen in yellow and her accessories were in white. She wore a corsage of yellow tulips.

The young couple will make their home in Nelson, where the groom is employed by Kootenay Forest Products.

Out of town guests included Mr. and Mrs. Harry Brown and Barbara; Mr. and Mrs. S. T. Lewis; Miss Wendy Webb of Nelson; Mrs. M. Butters; Mr. and Mrs. Frank Davy and Joy, Mrs. M. Hanson and Jim, Mr. and Mrs. Jim Butters and David of Vernon; Mr. and Mrs. Leonard Lillico and family of Pierceland, Sask., Mr. and Mrs. Alex Hill of Fruitvale, Mr. and Mrs. Jim Bargery and family, Mr. and Mrs. Doyle of Nakusp.

FAMILY OF 8 HAVE TONSILS OUT TODAY

TACOMA, Wash. (AP) —Eight tonsillectomies? All in one family and all on the same day?

St. Joseph's Hospital reacted with some degree of disbelief when Mr. and Mrs. Regina Orozoco asked for "reservations" for eight operations to remove their own tonsils and those of their six children.

The whole family was scheduled to move into the hospital Wednesday.

One at a time, the Orozocos will go to an operating room today, where one doctor will remove the tonsils.

Each operation may require from 30 minutes to an hour.

The sons and daughters range from 16 to 5.

B.C.'s 1200 Watchdogs Moving In on Producers

VICTORIA (CP) — The B.C. president of the Consumers' Association of Canada said Wednesday the organization is doing its best to live up to a reputation as "the watchdogs of the nation."

Mrs. A. B. Young of Victoria told the provincial association's annual meeting the group now has 20,000 members across Canada and 1200 in B.C.

"Our rapidly expanding economy in British Columbia brings problems as well as benefits," she told the meeting, "and since we are the only recognized voice of the consumer we must adjust our thinking and actions to fulfil our purpose.

"Our responsibility is threefold — education, representation and protection for the consumer," she said.

"We have been called the watchdogs of the nation and we are doing our best to live up to that reputation."

The president told the 75 delegates that in B.C. the association is suffering from poor communications.

"In B.C. our lines of communication are woefully poor," she said. "We are trying to improve them but lack of money makes it difficult."

Mrs. Young said that under existing legislation, the B.C. division won't be able to obtain its goal of representation on the Provincial Milk Board.

"However, the Milk Board consists of three well-qualified members and, after visiting them, I was assured we have the very finest milk in Canada."

There is no legislation for compulsory pasteurization, she said, but more than 95 per cent of the B.C. population now consumes pasteurized milk.

"Because of this trend towards pasteurization, no milk-borne epidemic has been reported in this province within the past 15 years."

Mrs. Young said the B.C. Association has made representations concerning the high cost of sugar and, since Feb. 1, prices in B.C. have been lower than in Winnipeg, where beet sugar is manufactured.

Urging better inspection of meat in B.C., Mrs. Young said there are at present only two properly-gazetted meat inspection areas in the province — in Coquitlam and Greater Victoria.

She asked members to press the B.C. legislature to pass provincial regulations paralleling federal regulations on meat inspection.

"The federal government has changed its policy and is now putting laymen in plants supervised by veterinarians. No new plants can be built unless the blueprints are approved by the health and animals branch."

Delegates will be received by Lieutenant-Governor and Mrs. George Pearkes at Government House today.

Advises Against Pregnancy for Girls Under 20

MONTREAL (CP) — In most cases, child-birth for the girl under 20 is "just too much," says Dr. W. J. McGanity, professor of obstetrics and gynecology at the University of Texas.

Dr. McGanity's views on child-birth were given Tuesday in an address to the College of General Practice of Canada.

He said the under-20 mother was subject to a three-fold stress.

She was still struggling to complete the maturity of her own body. Her body had to try to nourish a growing child during pregnancy. And often there was terrible emotional distress due to the fact that in a high percentage of cases the baby was illegitimate.

Dr. McGanity said also that the number of mentally retarded children could be significantly reduced by preventing premature births. He said nearly half of all premature babies are mentally retarded.

In the under-20 age group, the incidence of premature babies was double the average for mothers of all ages. One survey showed that 38 per cent of babies born to mothers under 20 were premature.

Wallace Polls Big Vote In Wisconsin

MILWAUKEE (AP) — Alabama Governor George C. Wallace, who said he would "shake the eye teeth" of both parties' leaders if he attracted more than 25,000 Wisconsin votes in his campaign against the civil rights bill, won 10 times that many in Tuesday's presidential primary.

But Wisconsin Governor John W. Reynolds, who headed a "favorite son" delegation as the personal choice of President Johnson, won all of the state's 46 Democratic national convention votes.

The southern segregationist's assertion that winning nearly 25 per cent of the total vote cast constituted a referendum that "will send a good message both to the Congress and to the two national parties" was challenged by the other principals.

"It just goes to show what we've known all along," Reynolds said. "There are prejudiced people in the north as well as in the south."

Representative John W. Byrnes, the Republican "favorite son" whose candidacy kept the Republican primary free of serious contenders for the presidential nomination, said "I don't think this election proves anything at all about the civil rights bill."

With 3,349 of the state's 3,352 voting districts reporting, the vote was: Reynolds, 483,066; Wallace, 246,275; Byrnes 287,632.

Ship Marks Early Opening Of Seaway

MONTREAL (CP)—The westbound freighter Totem Star entered the St. Lambert lock at 8 a.m. Wednesday, marking the earliest opening of the St. Lawrence seaway in history.

The 12,226-ton ship, registered in Nassau and commanded by Capt. J. C. Barney, moved into position near the Montreal lock Tuesday and will sail on to Duluth, Minn., to be loaded with grain there and at other ports on its return trip.

Four other vessels have taken up position behind the Totem Star and 23 ships are lined up at the Iroquois lock near Prescott, Ont., waiting for the locks to open at the other end of the inland waterway.

The seaway has opened near the middle of Aprinl in the past.

New Oil Firms Keep Banks Busy Lending

CALGARY (CP)—The oil industry is making greater use of bank loans than any other industry in Canada, says the Calgary manager of the oil-gas department of the Bank of Montreal.

R. C. Howard says this is particularly *true of the younger in*dependent companies that have crude production and refining capacity below 50,000 barrels daily.

Bulk of the lending is in Alberta.

Mr. Howard says Canadian chartered banks are doing a brisk business with the young independents and that Canadian insurance firms have entered into long-term loans to the petroleum industry.

The Porter Royal Commission on banking and finance was told that $99,000,000 in loans had been made to the oil industry up to June of 1962. This compares with $3,500,000 in 1947 during the industry's early stages.

The independents use the loans mainly for exploration. Secondary uses are for operating capital and short-term loans in bidding on crown land.

HIRES ENGINEERS

Since collateral for the bank loans is proven company oil-gas reserves, there has been a trend among chartered banks to hire professional oil engineers in their oil - natural gas departments.

These experts make wide use of consulting engineers' reports in evaluating an oil company's reserves for loan purposes.

"If the report has proven out, almost 100 per cent of loans are made," Mr. Howard says.

"There's hardly an independent in the country which has not used bank money. . . .

The theory is that if a bank makes a $50,000 loan to a young independent today, the company may be back in 10 years for $5,000,000. Loans of $15,000,000 to $20,000,000 are not unknown.

"To my knowledge," says Mr. Howard, "no Canadian bank has lost a dollar on a production loan."

FOUND GUILTY

NEW WESTMINSTER (CP)—Walter Lloyd Ainsworth, 30, was found guilty in county court here Tuesday of placing an explosive substance against a B.C. Hydro line tower in Matsqui Oct. 1. Judge Bruce Fraser will sentence Ainsworth April 21. RCMP constable Fred Bodnaruk of Nelson told the court he questioned Ainsworth at a Doukhobor encampment at Agassiz the day after the explosion.

Sellers May Survive Attack

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—Specialists attending British actor Peter Sellers agree that his condition is critical but that he may survive Monday's heart attack.

A medical bulletin issued by Cedars of Lebanon Hospital during the night indicated that physicians were planning further use of a pacemaker device during a 48-hour "crisis period."

This device sends electrical impulses to the heart in an effort to restore a rhythmic beat.

The 38 - year - old entertainer rallied sufficiently Tuesday for his doctors to express cautious optimism about his chances of survival. Earlier, his condition had deteriorated markedly.

Attached to Sellers' body, in addition to the pacemaker device, was a cardiac monitoring system to record heartbeat, respiration, blood pressure and other data. He also received anti-coagulants.

Britt Eklund, 21, the blonde Swedish actress Sellers married less than two months ago, was close to her husband's bedside at all times.

Richard Shepherd, the actor's agent, said Sellers was under sedation but quite lucid at times.

"He is in incredibly good spirits," Shepherd said.

MARKET TRENDS

NEW YORK (AP)—The threat of a U.S.-wide railway strike sent rail shares down sharply Wednesday but the rest of the stock list showed enough selective strength to give the market an irregular advance on balance. Trading was active.

In late trading Chrysler was bought heavily and advanced 2⅝ to 47⅛ to bolster the averages. Its turnover of 125,400 shares made it the most active stock.

Woolworth, which earlier had proposed a 3-for-1 stock split, also was heavily traded and rose 3⅛ to 81⅛. Other blue chips also bolstered the averages. Union Carbide gained 1¼, Eastman Kodak 1, Phelps Dodge 1 and Goodyear ⅝.

Airlines rallied as a group. Oils were higher on balance. Selected coppers, tobaccos, rubbers and steels advanced.

The steels were no worse than mixed as various companies said they would fight the price-fixing charges contained in the indictment of steel companies which was the main factor in Tuesday's market decline.

REGARDED AS STRONG

The ability of the market to digest the steel indictment one day and a rail strike threat the next was regarded by analysts as evidence of the market's technical strength.

The Dow Jones industrial average advanced 1.42 to 824.19.

Standard and Poor's 500-stock index rose .01 to 79.75.

Volume was 5,390,000 shares compared with 5,900,000 Tuesday.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks declined .2 to 303.7.

Second most active stock was U.S. Steel, up ¼ at 57⅜ on 69,800 shares. Third was Bethlehem, off ⅜ to 37½ on 67,800 shares.

None of the rails made the list of 15 volume leaders.

Among Canadian issues traded, Hudson Bay Mining lost 1, International Nickel ¾ and Canadian Pacific ⅛. Granby Mining and Dome Mines gained ⅛.

Prices on the American Exchange were irregularly higher. Brazilian Traction gained ¼, and Canadian Marconi ⅛. Canadian Javelin lost ¼, Jupiter Corp. and Preston ⅛ and Molybdenite 1-16.

MONTREAL (CP) — Prices underwent a decline early Wednesday but had almost recovered at the close of the Montreal and Canadian stock exchanges.

The composite index fell 0.1 to 139.6 and declines led advanced 96 to 74.

Trading was fairly active, but not up to the level of recent days. Industrials handled 218,200 shares and mines and oils 1,013,200 shares.

Papers were off 0.9 to 126.5. Fraser dropped ½ to 31⅛ and Dominion Tar ⅜ to 19½. Great Lakes advanced ½ to 23.

Industrials dipped 0.3 to 144.9. Canada Cement slid ¼ to 43¾. Southam climbed ⅝ to 28⅛ and Moore Corp. ¼ to 53⅞.

Banks edged up 0.4 to 123.0. Nova Scotia and Royal moved up ¾ each to 69½ and 73¾ respectively. Montreal dropped ⅝ to 63⅜.

Utilities rose 0.2 to 127.7. Bell Telephone advanced ⅝ to 53⅛ Interprovincial Pipe Lines slid one point to 81 and Trans Mountain Pipe Line ⅜ to 17½.

Senior base metals were hard hit with Falconbridge off one point to 68½ and International Nickel ⅝ to 83¼.

Algoma shot up two points to 63½ in primary metals. Canada Iron Foundry dropped ½ to 31.

In senior oils Imperial climbed ⅝ to 49½. Shell dipped ⅜ to 17 and Pacific Petroleum ⅛ to 12.

In speculative mines on the Canadian Exchange Transterre dipped 11 cents to $1.23 and Black Hawk six cents to $1.20.

Jubilee climbed 12 cents to $3.00.

Canadian Stock Market Busily Scoring Higher

By IAN MacKENZIE
Canadian Press Staff Writer

Frenetic, frantic and frenzied.

That's how traders describe the current wild outburst of activity on Canadian stock markets.

Major indexes have soared to record levels and the recent daily turnover of about 8,000,000 shares on the Toronto Stock Exchange is nearly quadruple that of last fall.

Much of the volume comes from low-priced industrial and speculative stocks, an indication that the small investor is coming in under the spell of a rising market and is taking an active part. Previously, institutional buying had been a major factor on the market.

Where is this leading and when will it end? This is the question nobody seems able to answer.

RISE STEADY

The New York stock market has been rising steadily for nearly two years—38 months discounting the slump following the Cuban crisis—and is well over the magic 800-mark on the Dow Johnes industrial average.

The Canadian boom generally has matched the New York market, except for a crisis last summer when Finance Minister Gordon's first federal budget threw a curve at the market, followed by the announcement of the proposed U.S. equalization tax on the purchase of foreign securities by American citizens.

Mr. Gordon withdrew his more radical proposals aimed at discouraging foreign investment in Canada but the proposed U.S. tax had much the same effect and has cut the flow of investment funds from south of the border to a trickle.

However, Canadians have proved themselves well able to support their own markets.

Brokers had been talking of a "massive amount of capital" poised ready to enter the market. This money, mainly from mutual and pension funds, insurance companies and other major financial institutions, apparently has taken up the slack left by the withdrawal of U.S. capital.

A further investment source which brokers are eyeing is the United Kingdom and Europe.

Inflation in Europe and the possibility of a Labor government in Britain has resulted in recent signs of a reawakening interest in Northern American security markets.

Two years ago the general feeling in Europe was unfavorable to Canada. But this is changing, observers say. One security salesman in Paris said last fall there was a "strongly favorable" reaction towards Canada following the announcement of the wheat deal with the Soviet Union, mirroring an over-all strengthening in the Canadian economy.

And investors appear encouraged by the prospects for Canada's economy, with the promise of heavy capital investment for several years.

I. D. Sinclair, a vice-president of the CNR, said in an address in Toronto in March the combined expenditure on such projects as the Columbia, Peace River and Hamilton River power developments, iron ore developments at Wabush and led-zinc ore at Pine Point and the 1967 world's fair in Montreal is estimated at $3,000,000,000—equivalent to the completion of a St. Lawrence Seaway in each of the next seven years.

Most of the major pulp and paper and steel companies have announced expansion projects for this year, as have pipeline companies. And within the next couple of years, a number of other firms will be investing in new equipment.

Auto sales are at record levels for the fourth year, confounding the two-year cycle theory, and recent increases in the price of and demand for metals—copper, for example—have placed the spotlight on Canada's mining industry.

"Our economy looks in good shape, even projecting it five years into the future," said Gordon Petersson of the Toronto brokerage firm of A. E. Osler Co. Ltd.

Mr. Petursson said he expects to see a minor correction on the market in the near future but "it will probably be offset by a further push."

A spokesman for the Montreal Stock Exchange does not forsee a decline for at least a month," and when the advance stops it will likely be consolidations before a further increase," he said, pointing to backing suppliers by increased corporate profits.

BECOMING EARY

Another analyst, however, said he was becoming wary of the continued rise in prices and was advising clients to buy ultra-safe stocks — "if things turn bad, they can turn bad with a vengeance," he said.

Brokers also pointed to new contract negotiations between major companies and unions due this year as a cause for some concern.

But when and where the boom will end is anyone's guess.

A spokesman for the Montreal brokerage firm of Kippen and Co. said he could not compare the current market price to any other period and the general economic swing is the biggest ever in peacetime.

As one observer commented, hang on to your hats on the way up, but be prepared to jump if necessary.

CONTINUES INCREASES

NORTH VANCOUVER (CP)—Total carloadings for the Pacific Great Eastern Railway continued to rise in March, reaching 4,991 from 4,639 in March, 1963, Joe Broadbent, vice-president and general manager reported Tuesday. Total for the year is 14,520 compared with 13,126 in the same period a year ago.

FALL TRAGEDY AVERTED AT FALLS—Police and firemen rescue 5-year-old Wayne Stadnyk (top, one foot circled), who tumbled 150 feet down a bank into the Niagara Gorge. The boy saved himself by grabbing a small tree only 100 feet from the Niagara River and hanging on for 90 minutes. Lower, Wayne rests in a hospital in Niagara Falls, Ont., under treatment for multiple abrasions to his back and head, and a chipped tooth.

Third Airliner Shoots Off N.Y. Runway

NEW YORK (AP)—An airliner skidded off a wet runway Wednesday in the third such mishap in little more than 12 hours at New York City airports.

There were no fatalities among the 228 persons aboard the planes, but about 40 were injured in the first mishap shortly before midnight Monday night.

An El Al Israel Boeing-707 jet liner on a ferry flight from Philadelphia went off the far end of a runway at Kennedy Airport at 11:36 a.m. EST Wednesday. Only five persons were aboard, all crew members.

Only about two hours earlier, a plane with 78 persons aboard similarly went off the end of a runway at neighboring La Guardia Airport.

A Pan American jet airliner carrying 136 passengers and crew of nine bounded into a swamp Monday night at Kennedy Airport injuring 40 persons.

The plane at La Guardia was an American Airlines craft, Electra flight 400, inbound from Buffalo at 9:45 a.m. with 73 passengers and a crew of five.

Airport authorities said the plane apparently skidded on the wet runway. The weather was hazy.

The Pan-Am jet at Kennedy cracked open as it landed.

SHEIK FREED AFTER 11 YEARS IMPRISONMENT

NEW DELHI (AP)—Sheik Mohammed Abdullah, Moslem leader of the independence movement in Lkashmir state, was set free Wednesday after 11 years imprisonment by Prime Minister Nehru's government.

Abdullah, the "Lion of Kashmir" who had been prime minister of the state until Nehru integrated it into India, was released in the town of Jammu, in the southwestern section of Kashmir, the government radio said.

Also set free were 13 other men arrested in 1953 on charges that they worked to break the state away from India and join it with Moslem Pakistan or to form an independent state.

A huge cheering crowd welcomed the 14 freed men, throwing garlands around their necks and shouting "long live Moslem-Hindu unity," the radio said.

Abdullah stayed in jail nine years before he was brought to trial. The trial dragged on inconclusively and Abdullah's case became a cause around which neighboring Pakistan and dissatisfied elements within Kashmir rallied.

The Indian government announced April 1 the charges against the imprisoned nationalists would be dropped and that they would be released to "stabilize" the tense political situation in Kashmir.

Nehru is thought to have obtained a firm guarantee from Abdullah that the nationalists will not resume their agitation against India. Nehru has invited Abdullah to visit him in New Delhi.

Says Specialist Has Lost Right To Personal Field

MONTREAL (CP)—Dr. J. T. McCullough, president of the College of General Practice of Canada, said Wednesday the medical specialist, "in narrowing his field of activity, has abrogated his right to personal or family practice."

Dr. McCullough said such narrowing of activity "will create an even greater demand for a physician who understands and deals with the patient as a whole man" while collaborating with the specialist.

The doctor made the remarks to the annual assembly of the college. The three-day meeting ends Thursday.

He said that with the specialist limiting himself to a particular field "the patient will have . . . a personal doctor . . . and the specialist will be a better specialist when he ceases to dilute his efficiency by occupying his time with non-specialist practice."

The general practitioner's work constitutes "a distinct and special field of medical science, not a thing compounded of bits and pieces left over from other medical disciplines."

In line with this observation, Dr. McCullough urged the establishment in medical schools of general practice divisions and eventually of full departments covering the field.

Would Be Assassin Sentenced To Death

ACCRA (Reuters) — Ghana's high court Tuesday sentenced former police constable Seth Kwame Ametewee to death for murder in connection with a gun attack against President Kwame Nkrumah.

Ametewee pleaded not guilty to the murder of chief security officer Salifu Dagarti Jan. 2.

He said he fired three shots at Nkrumah and missed each time as the president walked toward his car.

Ametewee said Dagarti "stood in front of the president, stretched out his arms and legs and told him to fire at him instead. Someone else might have shot Salifu Dagarti but not I."

Quebec Pension Plan May Cost More But Pay More

TORONTO (CP) — The Star says the pension plan being prepared by Premier Lesage's government in Quebec will collect higher premiums than the proposed Canada Pension Plan, but will pay more than the federal plan.

The story, which gives no source for the information, says the Quebec plan will collect premiums averaging three per cent of a worker's salary, compared with two per cent under the federal plan, but will pay a maximum pension of $125 a month after 20 years compared with $75 after 10 years under the Canada plan.

A Quebecer earning $4,500 a year will receive a monthly pension of $104, compared to $75 under the Canada Pension Plan," the story says.

"But he and his employer will contribute equally to provide premiums of 3.1 per cent of his salary, compared with two per cent under the national plan."

The Star says the Quebec plan will also provide for a lump-sum payment to cover funeral and other expenses when the pensioner dies, and a percentage payment to the widow regardless of her age when her husband dies.

PENSION FOR DEPENDENTS

The newspaper adds that the Quebec plan would set aside a specific amount for dependent children who survive a pensioner, and provide for pensions to a person if he becomes disabled and cannot work.

"While Quebec's maximum pension of $125 will go to those earning $6,000 a year or more, its sliding scale of payments will be used to subsidize lower-income groups."

Contributions would be calculated on a rising percentage of income, The Star says, providing this table:

Salary	Pct. Contributed
$3,000	2.6
$4,000	3.0
$5,000	3.2
$6,000	3.3

The proposed federal plan would apply a two-per-cent contribution to all levels of salary.

"Quebec's method is to pay a 50 per cent pension on the first $1,500 of earnings and 16 2-3 per cent on the remaining amount up to $6,000.

"Quebec will subsidize the low - income group by lowering the rate of contributions and increasing the percentage yield of the pension."

346 KILLED IN RIOTS IN INDIA

NEW DELHI (Reuters)—Indian Home Minister Gulzarilal Nanda told Parliament Wednesday 346 persons were killed and 458 injured during recent communal riots at Rourkela, Jamshedpur and Raigarh in central and estern India. He said more than 2,000 had been arrested.

Lawyer Received Gas Stock, Court Told

TORONTO (CP)—An Orillia lawyer who now is a county court judge was named today as having received some of the Northern Ontario Natural Gas Company stock involved in perjury charges against NONG president Ralph K. Farris of Vancouver, now on trial in Ontario Supreme Court.

Crown Attorney Harvey McCulloch told the Farris jury that Simcoe County Judge Archibald M. Carter owns 50 shares of NONG stock that originally came from a block distributed among officials of Ontario municipalities where the company obtained natural gas franchises in the 1950s.

Mr. McColloch said the county judge will be called as a crown witness. Mentioned for the first time today, he is the second member of the Ontario bench to have become involved in the NONG proceedings arising out of the disposal of company stock in its formative period.

Mr. Justice Leo Landreville of the Ontario Supreme Court, who also is to be called, has admitted getting 7,500 shares after joining the judiciary. He was mayor of Sudbury when NONG got its franchise there in 1956.

Farris is charged with swearing falsely before government investigations into NONG stock transactions that he was unaware of the disposition of a 14,000-share block from which municipal officials are alleged to have received free shares, and that he did not give instructions for the distribution specifically of 600 of these to officials of three Ontario towns.

Outlining his case to the jury as evidence opened today, Mr. McCulloch said Judge Carter holds 50 of these 600 shares, which he sai dwere originally delivered in 1957 to the judge's then law partner. The partner was William L. Moore, town solicitor of Orillia.

The Crown attorney did not indicate how the shares are alleged to have come into Judge Carter's possession. He said the witnesses will include Moore and Wilbur Cramp, who was mayor of Orillia at the time.

At Farris' preliminary hearing, G. Kelly McLean of Victoria, former assistant to the NONG head, testified he delivered 300 shares to Moore, of which he said 150 were for the lawyers and 150 for Cramp.

Mr. McCulloch said he did not know what evidence Moore and Cramp would give but Mrs. Wanda Miller, then mayor of Gravenhurst, and Glen Coates, then mayor of Bracebridge, would tell of receiving 150 shares apiece.

VANCOUVER (CP) — The price of hot dogs sold in school cafeterias here has been increased from 10 to 13 cents. The price of hot dogs and many other items was increased by the school board in an attempt to make the cafeterias self-supporting. They lost $18,229 in 1963, Gordon McOat, cafeteria committee chairman reported.

Singer Claims She Fooled Russ Network

NEW YORK (AP) — A U.S. soprano just out of an East German prison claimed Tuesday she fooled the Soviet spy network for 14 months by feeding agents phoney documents and names.

Gabrielle Hammerstein, 40, told her story during a press conference at her mother's home here.

When she returned to the U.S. March 26 after 19 months in an East German prison on a spying conviction, Miss Hammerstein declined to give any details of what led to the spy charges, saying she would have to talk first to U.S. authorities.

However, she claimed Tuesday that she pretended to spy for the Russians in order to protect her family in the United States and friends in West Germany.

She said she fed quantities of "information" to Russian officials in East Germany but all of it was made up out of her own head, typed by her, then photographed to make it look like excerpts from official documents.

She said she gave many names of persons she said were spies for various Western countries but the names were fictitious.

When the Russians caught on to her game, she said, "they figured I was a counterspy" and they put her under arrest and took her to Moscow.

"When they found out I wasn't a counter espionage agent, they felt that such a trial would embarrass the whole Soviet government."

Returned to East Germany, she said, she was given a secret trial and was not permitted to have a lawyer.

Greek, Dutch Princesses Eye Vacant Spain Throne

By HAROLD K. MILKS

MADRID (AP)—Dutch Princess Irene and her future husband are casting covetous eyes on the vacant throne of Spain, but Prince Juan Carlos and his Princess Sophie have the inside track.

Pretty, 24-year-old Irene, who gave up her right of succession to the Dutch throne for love of Prince Carlos of Bourbon-Parma, disclosed Tuesday she is joining her 34-year-old fiance's campaign for the Spanish crown.

Irene's announcement, plus the disclosure that Paris-born Prince Carlos has asked Generalissimo Francisco Franco's government to recognize him as a Spanish national, got a frigid reception in monarchist circles here.

"If the ministry of justice rules that Carlos is a Spaniard, then perhaps Prince Juan Carlos has something to worry about," said a leading monarchist.

"But if it is ruled that he is a Frenchman who carries some Spanish royal blood in his veins, then with or without Princess Irene's help, he had better go back to managing his father's estates."

ASKS CLARIFICATION

Some Spanish sources said Franco himself suggested to Prince Carlos that he "clarify" the question of his nationality through a request to the Spanish justice ministry. No official confirmation of this report could be obtained.

Franco will decide who, if anyone, will ascend the throne. He has long favored Prince Juan Carlos, 26-year-old son of Juan de Bourbon, eldest surviving son of the last Spanish king and himself a pretender.

Franco supervised Juan Carlos' education and many Spaniards had expected him to name Juan Carlos prince of the Asturias, traditional title for the heir of the Spanish throne, when he married comely Princess Sophie of Greece in May, 1962.

Franco may have been deterred by the refusal of the prince's father to renounce his claim to the throne. Juan Carlos has said he would not oppose the wishes of his father.

Prince Juan Carlos has long been a favorite of the Spanish people. And Princess Sophie has been a model of what most Spaniards expect of royalty, quietly joining her husband in civic activities deemed fitting for a pretender.

ASSAIL CLAIM

Old-line monarchists here assailed Don Carlos' claim to be a Spanish prince.

"He is neither a prince nor a Spaniard, but a Frenchman resident in Spain," asserted the influential monarchist organ ABC.

The newspaper said Carlos' father, Prince Xavier of Bourbon-Parma, is just another foreigner whose title as head of the Carlist branch of Spain's royal line "was just a simple courtesy."

Prince Xavier's family estate is in France, and Prince Carlos' chief occupation is managing them.

Communist China's annual population increase of 16,800,000 annually equals the entire population of Greece.

Skrien Squawks as Lions Lose Two in WFC Draft

WINNIPEG (CP) — The bottom clubs in the Western Football Conference snared two players from the British Columbia Lions and a Saskatchewan Roughrider in the 1964 equalization draft completed Wednesday.

Edmonton Eskimos, who finished a distant last in 1963, chose Lions' guard Barney Therrien and Saskatchewan fullback Bob Myers.

Fourth-place Winnipeg chose Peter Ohler, used sparingly by the Lions as a quarterback.

The selecting clubs pay $1,000 for each player who is obliged to change uniforms unless a deal is worked out between the clubs involved.

Under draft rules each club protects 12 Canadians and the other homebrews go into a draft pool, for selection by clubs at the lower end of the ladder. The draft rules allowed only three choices this year.

Syd Halter, Canadian Football League commissioner, announced the results of the third annual draft, which is aimed at spreading home-grown talent among have-not clubs.

In Edmonton, Neill Armstrong, head coach of the Eskimos, says Myers had been chosen because "he is young, big and versatile. He plays end and fullback and should be worthwhile on defence."

Eskimos had been trying to get Myers since he graduated from the Saskatoon Hilltops of the Saskatchewan-Manitoba junior Football League.

Armstrong said Therrien "is young enough to be a top man for years." Armstrong said he watched films of Therrien and said the lineman was "playing a very creditable first-string defensive spot."

A Vancouver boy, the 220-pound Therrien played college ball at the University of Washington before joining the Lions three years ago.

The Lions dropped Canadian quarterback veteran Earl Keeley last year to make room for Ohler, a six-foot-two Vancouver product. He is 21.

Jim Ausley, the Bombers' general manager, said the club went for Ohler because "we thought he was the best all-round football player on the unprotected list. He played quarterback at the University of Washington and did a good job for them." The club may use Ohler at defensive half.

It was Winnipeg's debut as a selecting team in the draft. Set up when the Bombers dominated the league, many felt it was aimed at distributing Winnipeg's homebrew talent around.

In Vancouver, Lions' coach Dave Skrien said an official protest of a "flagrant violation of the rules" by Winnipeg is in the hands of league commissioner Syd Halter.

The Lions earlier this week protested that the Blue Bombers violated draft rules when they contacted a player on B.C.'s unprotected list. The Bombers had also told the player the names on the B.C. list.

Skrien said there was not a player on the list that the Lions did not want back.

Ohler provided depth for the club and was a good prospect for the future. He did not figure to help the club immediately but "we sure would like to have him around."

"Therrien played a lot of first-string for us but we have adequate replacements."

Ohler said he is not happy about leaving Vancouver but will report to Winnipeg.

BUFFALOES WIN THIRD STRAIGHT

WINNIPEG (CP) — Winnipeg Buffaloes Wednesday registered their third straight comeback victory over the defending Canadian champion Lethbridge Broncos with a 75-57 win which gave them the Western Canada title in straight games.

Buffaloes' third consecutive victory eliminated Lethbridge from the best-of-five final following opening decisions of 85-65 and 86-69.

The newly-crowned western champions travel east to meet Toronto Kings in a best-of-five series for the Dominion crown, worn by Broders the last three years.

For the third game in as many nights, Lethbridge broke quickly for a 22-16 first quarter lead. But the younger, better-conditioned Winnipeg squad brought the margin back within range for the next two quarters, and in the fourth quarter turned a 51-49 deficit into the 75-57 victory.

SPORT SHORTS

TORONTO (CP) — The CBC said Wednesday its network will switch over to cover the finish of the Detroit-Chicago semi-final Thursday night if the Toronto-Montreal contest ends first.

Both pairs of teams will be playing the seventh and deciding game of their respective National Hockey League semi-finals. Th game in Montreal starts at 8 p.m. EST and the one in Chicago a half-hour later.

A CBC spokesman said the Toronto - Montreal game will be carried from the opening faceoff. If it is completed before the game in Chicago, the full network will then be switched to carry the windup of the other game.

WINNIPEG (CP) — Gerry James, former star fullback with Winnipeg Blue Bombers, said Wednesday he will try to earn a spot with the Saskatchewan Roughriders for the 1964 Western Football Conference season.

James, 29, has been out of action since Blue Bombers gave him his unconditional release in the 1963 season.

He said he expected to sign a contract with Roughriders next week. He did not specify what kind of a contract.

A league scoring champion with Winnipeg, James spent last winter coaching a hockey team in Switzerland.

He said Saskatchewan was the only club to approach him since his release and he appreciated the club "giving me a chance to play."

He said the year's rest "has done me good."

HOUSTON (AP) — Jim Umbricht, Houston Colts right handed pitcher who last year made a remarkable comeback after having a malignant tumor removed, died Wednesday of cancer.

Umbricht, 33, entered hospital March 16. Attendants at the University of Texas M.D. Anderson Hospital and Tumor Institute had declined comment on his condition.

VANCOUVER (CP) — Commissioner Tom Gordon of the inter-city lacrosse league Wednesday rejected an application by rookie goalie Norm Nestman of Vancouver to play for Victoria Shamrocks.

The ruling means Nestman must either play for the Vancouver team or sit out the season to become a free agent next year.

Alex Mackay, coach of the Vancouver team said he wants Nestman and "we'll carry him on our list of 20 players all season even if he refuses to play with us."

84-Year-Old Downs Pike

VICTORIA (CP) — A former Willingdon Cup golfer was knocked out of the championship flight of the Empress Hotel Golf Tournament Wednesday by an 84-year-old shotmaker by 6-4.

Mike Pyke of Calgary, a former Empress champion, could not cope with veteran Paul Glaser's 19 handicap and the Seattle player's steady play.

Even on the long 15th hole where Pyke scored a birdie, Glaser made his par five and with a two-stroke handicap, in effect, scored an eagle.

In the women's division, medallist Mrs. Jo Robertson of Calgary was eased from the championship flight by Mrs. John Flynn of Ashland, Ore., at the 19th hole.

Blow Three Goal Lead To Lose in Overtime

Special to the Daily News — Saskatoon Quakers roared back from behind a 3-0 first period deficit to dump the Kimberley Dynamiters 5-4 in overtime here Saturday, and take a commanding 3-0 lead in their best of seven Allan Cup semi-final series.

The Quakers, slow to begin, improved steadily as the game progressed, and were the dominant team during the final stages.

Frank Kuzma scored at the 14:41 mark of the second overtime session from a scramble in front of the net to clinch the win for the Saskatoon Club. Herb Jeffery notched two goals for the winers, with Jerry Esch and Tommy Rendall counting one apiece.

Walt Peacosh, Don White, Dave Rusnell and Les Lilley scored the Kimberley goals.

DYNAMITERS SCORE EARLY

The Dynamiters' famed Nitro line which fizzled in Saskatoon lost no time getting into action. The Lilley-McTeer-Peacosh combination displayed the form that made them the most feared unit in the WIHL when they cruised through the Quaker defence with a perfect passing play, which Peacosh polished off with a blast from 10 feet out at the :30 second mark.

Don White pulled a "Bobby Baun" on Kimberley's second goal. He took a mighty swipe at the puck from the side of the net, and missed it completely. The disk trickled into the corner, propelled by its own forward momentum, passed the surprised Saskatoon goaltender.

Dave Rusnell finished Kimberley's scoring in the first period when he banged home Les Lilley's rebound at 7:29.

Tommy Rendall showed that his three goal performance in Saskatoon, Monday was no fluke, when at the 14:03 mark he swooped in from his left wing position to slap home Jackie McLeod's rebound and put the Saskatchewan team on the scoreboard for the first time.

Quakers opened the scoring in the second period. Herb Jeffery was parked in front of the net at the 2:54 mark. Don Smith drifted around the Dynamiter defence, fed him a perfect pass which he had no trouble sliding past Betker.

Les Lilley got that one back at 15:44, with the prettiest goal of the night. Taking a rink wide pass from McTeer the smooth right winger streaked across the blueline, outraced the Quaker defence, and blasted home a drive that gave Campbell no chance.

Jeffery got his second goal with a weak shot from the left side. Earl Betker moved out to cover, but misjudged the angle, and the puck trickled in off the post.

In the third period Bill Steenson lost his balance at centre ice and fell while attempting to check Jerry Esch. Esch scooped up the loose puck, skated in unmolested on Betker and beat him with a clean shot to the upper right hand corner. That tied the count at 4-4.

PENALTY SHOT

For the second time in as many weeks referee Kubinec elected to award a penalty shot. It came early in the first overtime session. Ken McTeer was cut down from behind by McCrimmon on a breakaway play as he roared in on the Quaker goal.

Taking the puck at the blue line, McTeer bore directly down on the goal, and with nary a shift, shot and missed the goal completely.

That seemed to take the wind out of the Kimberley sails. The 10 minute overtime period ended without a goal being scored, and the game went into a 20-minute sudden-death overtime stanza.

It was at the 14:41 mark of this session that Kuzma fired his winning marker from a goal mouth scramble — the result of sloppy Dynamiter clearing.

Four game of the series will be played in Kimberley, Friday.

Maroons Advance in Allan Cup Playoffs

WINNIPEG (CP) — Winnipeg Maroons battered Port Arthur Bearcats 9-0 Wednesday to sweep their best-of-seven Western Canada Allan Cup semi-final series in straight games and enter the western final for the third straight year.

Maroons will await a winner from the West's other semi-final between Kimberley and Saskatoon.

Their victory Wednesday over Bearcats, Thunder Bay champions this year for the sixth consecutive time, followed Monday's 8-3 win, also in Winnipeg. In the first two games, played at the Lakehead, Winnipeg took 5-3 and 6-3 decisions.

Chuck Lumsden, Ross Parke and Elliott Chorley each scored twice for Maroons as the host club routed the Lakehead champs for the third straight year. Aggie Kukulowicz, Jim Mackenzie and John Russell added singles.

Sharing the shutout were Maroon goaltenders Don Collins and Gord Dibley. Collins, coach Gord Simpson's choice throughout the series, made 171 saves before leaving the game after the second period in favor of veteran Dibley.

It was believed Collins aggravated an old injury while fending off one of Bearcats' few serious scoring threats. Dibley made 10 third-period saves to preserve the shutout.

Blades Take Opener 3-1

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Defenceman Camile Bedard scored two goals to spark Los Angeles to a 3-1 victory over San Francisco and take a 1-0 lead in the Western Hockey League playoffs at the Sports Arena Wednesday night.

Bedard, the 29-year-old veteran who played for the Seals last year, pushed the Blades to a 2-0 lead in the second period on a pair of long shots.

His first goal was a 40-footer which he let go from just inside the blueline and his second score was a 35-foot shot he took when the Seals were shorthanded.

San Francisco's Mo Mantha snapped goalie Jack Norris' chances for a shutout at 10:42 of the third period, connecting on a 25-foot shot which slammed into the top corner of the net.

But the Blades, who dominated the Seals all season, iced the game in the final minute when Stan Maxwell stole a pass and whipped the puck some 60 feet into the unguarded San Francisco net. The Seals, who had pulled Perrault some 30 seconds before Maxwell's clincher, were playing with six forwards.
