Last Minute Move Fails to Halt Flag Debate

IT ALMOST LOOKS as though Santa got stuck for a baby-sitting job, but this really wasn't the case. While visiting the Kinsmen's kiddies' party Sunday afternoon he took time out to sit down after his task of handing out presents. Since Santa loves them all, no matter what age, he couldn't resist holding one of the tiniest, wee David, son of Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Johnston. Mr. Johnston is Kinsmen Deputy Governor. David's reaction to the honor? He just continued napping. — Daily News photo.

U.S., Britain To Recall Attaches From Moscow

MOSCOW (Reuters) — The United States and Britain have decided to withdraw four military attaches, three Americans and a Briton, from diplomatic service in Moscow, it was announced Monday.

The Russians accused the four of spying on a trans-Siberian train trip last fall.

The reason given for the withdrawal of the four was that the Russians, in rejecting their applications for new travel permits outside Moscow, might as well have declared them persona non grata (unwelcome).

State department sources in Washington said the United States has asked for the withdrawal of three Soviet embassy military attaches there.

George Thomson, British minister of state for foreign affairs, told the House of Commons in London the Russians have been asked to withdraw a naval attache from the Russian embassy in London.

The four Western attaches are Col. George A. Aubrey of Annapolis, Md., army attache at the U.S. embassy; Lt.-Col Karl R Liewer of Osmond, Neb, assistant army attache; Maj. James A. F. Smith of Meers, Okla., assistant air attache, and Lt.-Cmdr. Nigel Laville, assistant air attache at the British embassy.

HOTEL ROOM RAIDED

Aubrey, Liewer, Smith and Laville were travelling the trans-Siberian railway last September on their way to Japan when, on Sept. 28, Soviet security men and police burst into their hotel rooms in Khabarovsk.

The Kremlin accused them of spying. The Soviet government newspaper Izvestia said the secret police confiscated from the men two telescopic camera lenses, a "reconnaissance radio receiver," 26 notebooks and rolls of film with more than 900 pictures.

Izvestia said four of the notebooks contained notes of intelligence tasks from the Pentagon and enumerated objects along the trans-Siberian railway "which are of most interest to imperialist intelligence."

DOLLAR GAINS

NEW YORK (CP)—Canadian dollar up 1-64 at 93 1-64 in terms of U.S. funds. Week ago 92 15-16. Pound sterling unchanged at $2.79 1-64.

MONTREAL (CP) — United States dollar in terms of Canadian funds was off 1-32 at $1.07½. Pound sterling was unchanged at $3.00.

Easter Islanders Overjoyed as Ship Docks

MONTREAL (CP) — A Canadian-led medical expedition is unloading supplies on Easter Island in the South Pacific after what is described as a "thunderous welcome" from the native population.

The arrival Sunday of the Canadian naval supply ship Cape Scott at the speck of land off the coast of Chile is described in a Montreal Star dispatch by D. B. Macfarlane, a staff reporter accompanying the scientific group.

"There was no mistaking the warmth of reception of islanders who confessed that they had not had a ship visit for 13 months," he wrote.

"Soon after daybreak scores of islanders pushed off from the shore in a flotilla of small craft and the eager smiles, laughs and song of the rowers captivated the crew and expedition members."

Hydro Ups Transit Fares at Coast

VICTORIA (CP) — B.C. Hydro and Power Authority, given the right Monday to charge Canada's highest urban transit fares, said the government body's transit services in the Vancouver and Victoria areas will still lose money.

Dr. Gordon Shrum, Hydro co-chairman, said the Authority will have "no recourse but to accept" the ruling of the B. C. Public Utilities Commission under which Hydro will be able to charge 20 cents cash or 18¾ cents for tokens after Jan. 1.

Present fares are 15 cents cash in Vancouver and 13 cents cash or four for 50 cents in Victoria.

Dr. Shrum said the 25-cent cash fare and 20-cent tokens sought by Hydro constituted "the minimum requirement, and even then we would lose money."

Mayor R. B. Wilson of Victoria described the commission ruling as "unpleasant news."

"Due to the situation in which the commission was placed by provincial terms of reference, whereby it was forced to study Hydro's bus operations in isolation, not in reference to overall operations of Hydro, it could not do much else."

The mayo rsaid he will meet with Mayors William Rathie of Vancouver and Stuart Gifford of New Westminster to discuss a new approach to the provincial cabinet on the matter.

He said the cabinet had refused an earlier request for talks on transit problems on grounds the Hydro application was before the PUC.

"The inference, I hope, is that now the Premier and his cabinet will be willing to sit down with us."

Premier Bennett was not immediately available for comment.

The commission ruling will make transit fares here and in Vancouver higher than any other in Canada by ¾ of a cent. Windsor, Ont., is the highest at present, 18 cents.

A recent Canadian Press survey of 22 major centres showed transit fares elsewhere ranged as low as 10 cents, in Medicine Hat.

Transit systems in Edmonton and Calgary also charge 20 cents cash for adults, but tickets cost 14 2/7 cents in Edmonton and 16 2/3 in Calgary.

Red Maple Leaf Flag Settled With Closure

OTTAWA (CP) — The selection of a red maple leaf national flag for Canada came to an end in the Commons early today as the debate-limiting device of closure stopped the flood of words.

The issue reached a stirring climax as the Commons approved by a vote of 163 to 78 the flag selected by a House committee after six weeks of study — a red maple leaf on a white field flanked by red panels.

The design still must go to the Senate for approval.

The wind-up to 33 days of flag debate brought stormy exchanges in the Commons in sharp contrast to the mildness exhibited at the start of the sitting Monday when the Liberals carired out their announced intention to use closure to end the debate.

Prime Minister Pearson closed the debate with an appeal to Canadians to "rally 'round this red maple leaf flag.

"This is a good flag," he said in appeal to the Conservative benches where Opposition Leader Diefenbaker sat glowering.

"It's a Canadian flag."

DIEF ENTERS FRAY

After Mr. Pearson said he hopes Canada can go forward as a strong, united country under the new flag, Mr. Diefenbaker leaped to his feet.

"You've done more to divide Canada than any other prime minister," he shouted, stabbing with his finger at Mr. Pearson.

"We should feel sympathetic towards the right honorable gentleman because he is feeling the frustration of failure," Mr. Pearson shot back.

A din of shouting from both sides of the House followed. Mr. Pearson said "there's no use making this appeal. . . ."

Mr Pearson's speech followed use of a procedural wrinkle by the Conservatives that produced the third Commons vote of the sitting. That ran the total for the sitting to four.

Creditiste Leader Real Caouette was speaking as the clock in the chamber inched toward 1 a.m.—the cutoff time under the closure rule. With about seven minutes left to the deadline, Mr. Caouette's time ran out. Mr. Pearson, Mr. Diefenbaker and Douglas Fisher (NDP—Port Arthur) all stood up.

Speaker Alan Macnaughton ruled that because two Conservatives and one Creditiste had spoken last in the debate he would recognize a Liberal—Mr. Pearson.

Eldon Woolliams (PC—Bow River) then stood on a point of order and moved a motion that the leader of the opposition be allowed to speak. The Conservatives forced a vote on the issue and were beaten back 155 to 72.

Earlier the Commons had defeated a Conservative amendment that would have turned back the committee - selected flag with a recommendation the committee pick the Red Ensign as the national flag. The vote on that issue was 162 to 80.

And the first vote of the day came on the Liberal motion to use closure to turn off the current phase of the flag debate at the close of its 11th straight day before the House. The vote was 152 to 85.

Canada Trade Surplus Hits $541 Million

OTTAWA (CP) — Canada has ended the first nine months of the year with a world - wide trade surplus of $541,000,000, the bureau of statistics said Monday.

The surplus after the first nine months of 1963 was $236,900,000.

While the deficit with the United States climbed during the nine months to $578,300,000 Canada showed a surplus of $1,215,200,000 in its dealings with all other countries.

The bureau said the value of all commodity imports shot up 13.7 per cent during September to $616,900,000 and increased 15.9 per cent to $5,522,700,000 during the nine-month period.

Total exports were earlier estimated at $743,800,000 for September and at $6,159,600,000 for the January-September period.

When adjusted for balance of payments purposes, the nine - month surplus of $636,900,000 was reduced to $541,000,000.

Imports from the U.S. during September were up 19.4 per cent to $420,300,000 and 17.4 per cent in the January - September period to $3,234,300,000.

Exports to the U.S. rose 16.4 per cent in the month to $393,500,000 and 12.5 per cent in the nine months to $3,256,000,000.

JERUSALEM (Reuters) — Prime Minister Levi Eshkol of Israel called on President Zalman Shazar Monday night and tendered the resignation of his government following a fresh storm over the 10-year-old "Lavon affair."

Brakeman Sank 50 Feet In Engine Plunge

VANCOUVER (CP) — A Pacific Great Eastern Railway brakeman estimated Monday that he sank 50 feet when an engine plunged into a lake, taking the engineer to his death.

Marcel Myette said he and fireman Jack Morrison were hanging onto the engine's catwalk when the train hit a landslide and went into Seton Lake, south of Lillooet.

Skin divers were searching for the body of engineer Melville Hunt, about 45, in the lake that is 900 feet deep in places.

Myette and Morrison swam to shore after the train plunged into the lake. It is believed that the slide was brought down by warm temperatures.

Myette said he and Morrison saw the slide as the train rounded a curve. They went out on the catwalk. The engine hit the slide and shot down a 20-foot bank.

"I must have gone down about 50 feet," he said. "I have no idea how long I was under but it must have been a while because Morrison had already swam 30 feet to shore and was looking for me when I came up."

SASKATOON (CP) — Senator Ralph Byron Horner, 80, who insisted on being described as a farmer through 31 years as a member of the Canadian Senate, died Monday in hospital here.

He had entered hospital Friday for exploratory surgery.

Death was attributed to a blood clot following the operation.

William Bendix Dies at 58

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Actor William Bendix, whose rough, gruff manner masked a marshmallow heart, died Monday. He was best known as the harried father in television's Life of Riley.

The end came at Good Samaritan Hospital, where he had been listed in critical condition for several days with lobar pneumonia. He was 58.

At his bedside were his wife of 37 years, Therese, 58, and daughters Stephanie, 20, and Lorraine, 30.

NATO Clash Averted; MLF Issue Shelved

PARIS (CP) — The threat of a crisis within the North Atlantic Treaty Organization, which opens ministerial talks here today, was reported to have been averted.

Informants from a number of delegations said Monday behind-the-scenes diplomatic manoeuvring, in which Canada participated, succeeded in averting a collision among major powers differing over the kind of nuclear force the 15-country alliance must have.

It was reported both the United States and West Germany have agreed this may not be the proper time for a major discussion as to whether a multilateral nuclear force should be adopted by the alliance. The French denunciation of the two concepts so far put forward has threatened to wreck the alliance.

Manlio Brosio of Italy, NATO secretary-general, told a press conference he believes the nuclear issue will be discussed at the three-day meeting of foreign, defence and finance ministers, but he indicated there likely would be no massive confrontation of fixed positions. He believed no crisis existed and that none would appear.

AGREES CANADIAN VIEW

Later, in an interview, he expressed agreement with the Canadian view that without France there can be no alliance. Under the present French leadership, France was irrevocably opposed to the U.S. proposed 25-ship Polaris missile-armed fleet of surface ships or the British concept of a smaller seaborne force but including parts of the British V-bomber fleet.

The question of how to satisfy the West German demand for participation in the Western nuclear deterrent remained. With a West German general election due next September, political pressure within West Germany would increase for some final solution.

One Canadian suggestion — that the NATO defence ministers meet perhaps at Ottawa or another place early next year in the hope of finding some final compromise between the U.S. and French positions—was being actively explored among the NATO delegations.

The West German delegation was reported to feel that the promise of decisive action early next year may meet Bonn's political needs.

U.S. State Secretary Dean Rusk told President de Gaulle Monday the door will always be open to France in any NATO nuclear command.

'FRANK DISCUSSION'

In the course of what was called a long "friendly and frank" discussion in the Elysee Palace presidential offices, Rusk told de Gaulle the U.S. has no desire to isolate France with proposals for a multilateral nuclear force or similar ideas.

Rusk told reporters that he had assured de Gaulle—who insists on building his own purely French nuclear arm—that arrangements now under study with Britain, West Germany and other NATO countries are deliberately being kept flexible so that France can join, too, whenever she wants.

Meanwhile, the British and French foreign ministers agreed that a meeting should take place between British Prime Minister Harold Wilson and de Gaulle. No date was set.

Senate Quashes B.C. Bank Bill

OTTAWA (CP) — The Senate banking and commerce committee voted 17 to 7 Monday night to kill a bill incorporating the Bank of British Columbia, in which the province intended to invest up to 10 per cent of its ownership.

The action was taken after Attorney-General Robert Bonner told the committee, on behalf of Premier Bennett, that the province would not subscribe to any shares in the bank until after Parliament deals with its regular revision of the Bank Act, the central legislation under which chartered banks operate.

At present, there is nothing in the Bank Act to prevent a provincial government from owning shares in a bank.

The vote was taken on a resolution presented earlier by Sen. A. K. Hugessen (L-Quebec) declaring that the bill should not pass because provincial government ownership of bank shares could lead to control of a federally-chartered bank by a province and would raise serious constitutional questions.

HOUSE TO REVISE WORK SCHEDULE

OTTAWA (CP) — Radical changes in Parliament's working schedule were proposed to the Commons Monday to ensure MPs a week in their constituencies for every four weeks in the capital through most of the session.

Under a setup suggested by the Commons special procedures committee, most of Parliament's detailed study of the government's multi-billion dollar spending program would be made by nine committees.

Parliament would adjourn two weeks in every five to allow half the MPs to work on spending in five of the committees while the other half went home to deal with riding affairs. In the second week, four more committees would take up the work, manned by the MPs who visit.

Regina Rallies To Yukon Kiddies' Plight

CARMACKS, Y. T. (CP)— It was about 40 below zero during the weekend when Santa pulled into town with a 475-pound package of toys for the children of the public school in this isolated Yukon village about 1300 miles from the North Pole.

Despite the temperature, made colder by a whipping polar wind, the hearts of three Regina girls who teach at the school were warm, overcome by the generosity of the donors.

It all started about two weeks ago when 19-year-old Sonia Webb one of the teachers working here, wrote to her father in Regina outlining a bleak Christmas for scores of destitute children at the school.

Robert Webb appealed for help through a small item in the local newspaper, and three days later was being deluged with toys, candy, dolls and assorted gifts from Reginans and kind-hearted people in southern Saskatchewan.

So great was the response that there will be gifts left over for other unfortunate children in the far northern area. Some will go to children at remote Pelly Rive Crossing, 50 miles north of here, and others to foster children being cared for at the Ridgeway Baptist Home in a suburb of Whitehorse.

Shipping charges from Regina to Carmacks were paid by the Regina Leader-Post, and other firms supplied the wrapping paper and cartons for the toys.

Winter With a Vengeance Forecast

By The Canadian Press

Frigid Arctic air and gusting winds swept across the Western Prairies Monday, plunging the region into its coldest weather this winter, with temperatures up to 30 degrees below normal.

So far no letup is in sight for the bitter cold. Overnight lows Sunday ranged from 34 below zero at Grande Prairie to 13 below at Medicine Hat, and 20-mile-an-hour winds combined with the cold for a wind chill equal to 65 below at some points.

Daytime highs were only slightly above zero through Northern Alberta, Saskatchewan and Manitoba Monday, and the stabbing cold was expected to move southward by Tuesday. Blizzard conditions were forecast for much of the Prairies late Monday, in an area extending South from Edmonton to as far East as Moose Jaw.

The weather office at Edmonton, where the thermometer recorded 30 below Sunday, warned of hazardous driving and drifting snow. Winds were expected to range from 15 to 20 miles an hour at most points.

The winter's fury had brought much Edmonton traffic to a crawl by Monday noon. Some commuters in Edmonton abandoned their cars and squeezed into already - crammed city buses. Extra buses were put on some lines, but vehicles were reported running behind schedule nevertheless.

In Grande Prairie, where winds gusted to 45 miles an hour in the freezing weather, 12 school bus drivers decided it was too cold to drive Monday. In Calgary, which recorded an overnight low Sunday of 10 below, Calgary Power Company officials said voluntary power rationing might be necessary.

They said that intense cold and chill winds strain the power load at peak times, and the Christmas lights which many householders have already strung up have added to the problem. Towing services in Calgary were inundated with calls Monday, and taxis were taking some bookings 12 hours in advance.

The coldest point in Canada Monday was Snag, in the Yukon, about 1500 miles north of Edmonton, which recorded 67 below zero. Dawson City's 60 below, and Watson Lake, near the Yukon-B.C. border, recorded 51 below.

Regina was 19 below Sunday, and Saskatoon 11 below. At the Edmonton International Airport the thermometer was 24 below Monday morning and the wind brought the effective temperature to 65 below.

The weather office predicted the cold snap probably would last until Thursday, and could continue until Christmas.

Edmonton was expected to reach 20 below Monday night, with Saskatchewan points even colder. Prince Albert was girding for an overnight low of 30 below, Saskatoon and North Battleford 25 below. Calgary and Medicine Hat were expected to become gradually colder, with overnight lows of 15 below predicted Tuesday.

SELLINGE, England (AP) — Reginald Reeks, 52, got the bird all right.

Travelling along a country road he saw a cock pheasant hustle into the path of his car.

Reeks put on the brakes.

"I thought I'd hit the bird, so I got out and looked," he said. "He was nowhere in sight. I looked along the sides of the road. Still no bird."

He returned to his car, drove 25 miles to see some friends, visited them, drove back home, parked his car and went to bed.

The next day he drove 55 miles to Lympne Airport, where he works as a communications officer, and stopped at a filling station to get gas and water.

As he opened his hood, the pheasant flew out.

"I can only deduce he was there all the time," Reeks said.

ESTERHAZY, Sask. (CP)—Mr. and Mrs. Michael Stadler of Esterhazy, were presented with a grandchild Saturday by each of their three children.

Their son, Ross Stadler of Regina, announced the birth of a daughter. Their daughter, Mrs. Scott Doreen of Esterhazy and Mrs. Dave Leftwich of Regina, gave birth to a son and daughter respectively.

Santa Visits Kinsmen Kiddies' Party With Gifts

Jingle Bells, screams of delight, candy, candlelit cake, Yuletide goodies and — Santa, were the main ingredients of the annual Kinsmen Christmas party Sunday afternoon.

Arriving a little later than his scheduled 3:15 p.m., deadline, Santa bounded into the room clutching his traditional white sack of joy and received the revered greetings of some 48 boys and girls who had patiently waited for his appearance since 2:00 p.m.

With an assist from Harvey Glock and Bill Johnson, Deputy Governor, Santa sat down to perform the function only he knows best. . . the distribution of Chirstmas presents. But before he got down to business, old St. Nick went around the long tables greeting his audience and reminding them of his little black book in which was recorded both good and bad deeds. He even stopped to admire the huge candle-lit cake that was a special treat of the luncheon buffet that preceded his arrival. The program also included a showing of cartoons and an hour-long movie.

Unfortunately, due to a few isolation cases, Santa's annual visit to the Kootenay Lake General Hospital was postponed until next week. Last year he gladdened the hearts of some 14 bed-ridden small fry. Due to an increase in admirers, Father Christmas had to add 12 more parcels to his bundle this year. . . with an assist from the Nelson Kinsmen Club and Kinettes.

The event was chaired by Gordon Wakeham, assisted by co-chairman Harvey Glock. Conducting the children in a sing-song and providing piano accompaniment for Santa was B. E. Ryall.

THREE-YEAR-OLD Heather Corbett, complete with pony-tail, happily accepts present from a man who needs no identification during annual Kinsmen Christmas party Sunday afternoon. Heather was one of 48 joyful recipients of Yuletide goodies who attended the three-hour yearly event.

Boys' Choir Tapes TV Performance

A special performance by the Nelson Boys' Choir will be featured in a video tape presentation on channel four, Spokane, December 26 at 6:30 p.m.

"They were very pleased with the boys," said Mrs. T. J. S. Ferguson, director of the 20-member choral group which journeyed across the border for the tape session Saturday in a convoy of eight cars, driven by parents of the boys.

Given at the request of the TV station, the performance encompassed Christmas carol selections and some classical and folksong numbers. Piano accompanist was Beverley Morrison. A personal interview with Mrs. Ferguson preceded the program which will be heard throughout the Pacific Northwest.

"I've had hundreds of boys pass through my choir," Mrs. Ferguson told the Daily News, adding that a recording made of a Vancouver performance in 1962 by one of her groups is nearing its 400th sale. She has been directing young Nelson choral groups since 1931. The last video performance of the Nelson Boys' Choir was made at the same Spokane station some years ago, Mrs. Ferguson added, but with a different group, since boys' voices break when they reach a certain age.

The choir has more recently acquired brand new all-silver insignia pins bearing the motto: Atao Feal (old French for Always Faithful).

More than 500,000 U.S. tourists visited Britain in 1963, spending $213,000,000.

How Taxpayers View Defeat of Bylaws

Lack of information, disinterest, concern for increased expenditures and just plain forgetfulness were some of the reasons expressed by Nelson ratepayers in a public opinion poll taken Monday by the Daily News on two money bylaws defeated in Saturday's vote.

"There are a few other things that have to be done before we put the ratepayers into more debt than they are now," said John Wade, of 114 Houston Street, who didn't vote for either of the money bylaws. It was his feeling that the city could have come up with "something a little better" than the proposed sewage treatment plant, and he was also against its location on the waterfront. Such a plant would not only be offensive to the area but would also take up too much space, he said.

"I didn't give it too much thought," he said of the View Street bylaw. "I'd like to have our own street fixed up," he added, "it's been the same for the last 20 years."

Although she didn't vote, but asuring she "didn't forget", one woman thought the sewage plant "should have gone through" and that "Nelson certainly needs it." She had no comment on the View Street bylaw, blaming lack of knowledge. "I don't think I would have cast a vote even if I had known," she added.

"I think Nelson should go ahead," said Mrs. H. Jonsson, of 401 Kokanee Street, who didn't have time to get down to the polls. "It's the first time," she admitted, adding that "I would have voted for everything."

WAS FOR PLANT

Asked why she would have approved the sewage treatment plant, Mrs. Jonsson said her main reason was "for our own protection." She thought the cost breakdown of the plant "wasn't too clear," and that it should be clarified in any future bylaw. As for the View Street bylaw, she felt "the sooner we improve our streets, the better off Nelson will be."

Another non-voter, who did not wish to be identified, thought he would have approved the sewage treatment bylaw "to help clear up our lake for one thing," he said. He was also in favor of the View Street bylaw on the premise that "we certainly need it."

Another non-voter candidly admitted she "forgot all about voting," but said she would have voted against the sewage treatment plant because she thought "we needed more information." She also disapproved of the proposed location, and was confused as to how much it was going to cost. She had no comment on the View Street bylaw, but was confident of the overall outcome. "I thought that's the way it would be," she said.

"I forgot all about it," said another woman who did not want to be identified. She evinced surprise that the View Street bylaw "didn't go through," but "expected" the treatment plant vote outcome.

Although she said she was not confused about the cost of the treatment plant, "I don't like the idea of borrowing money," she said. She thought she would have approved the View Street bylaw. "You just have to drive on it to be convinced," she added.

NOT TOO CLEAR

"I didn't know what I was voting for," replied a male non-voter to the reporter's questions. "The powers that be have to give us more information," he said, adding that the "treatment efficiency of the sewage plant wasn't too clear." Also confusing was the location of the plant, as was the notification of official sanction. "How can you vote on something before it's been approved by the government?" he asked. Blaming city council for lack of information on the View Street bylaw, he said "everyone knows the seriousness of the situation. The powers that be have to bring that to the public before the vote." He thought the vote was "ill-timed" due to the proximity of Christmas, and that "we are spending enough for taxes now."

"People aren't ready for a treatment plant," a woman who voted against the bylaw said. Emphasizing that the city was in need of "other things," she thought the sewage plant was "to premature" and that "I don't think anyone understands the situation." Approving of the View Street bylaw, she charged that "a lot of people are paying for sewers they haven't got, I hear." It was her opinion that "a lot of people were confused," and that there was "an awful lot of people who didn't vote who should have."

A man who declined identification said he had voted against the sewage treatment plant bylaw because "I don't think we can afford it," and that "I don't think it's the answer to what we need."

He said he thought the city could get a "much more modern treatment plant for the same price." Basing his argument from a "dollars and cents" standpoint, he thought the treatment plant was "just not for Nelson."

He approved of the View Street bylaw, stating that "Nelson is getting stuck for expansion," and that was "the way to go to get a decent street."

NEEDED EXPLAINING

Referring to the sewage bylaw, he said the public "wasn't informed as well as they should have been." He also thought the treatment plant "should

"One thing about Nelson," said R. F. Cummings, "when they have to do something, they do it three or four times." Although admitting that he "never thought" of voting, Mr. Cummings said he would have voted for the sewage treatment plant, even though "every time you turn around, taxes are going up."

He added that he thought "Alderman Van Maarlen's campaign influenced a lot of people." The View Street bylaw would have found his approval too, he said, if effects from a previous money bylaw involving sewer extension at Lakeside Park weren't still being felt. It was his contention that the View Street bylaw was the "same situation."

$279,000 Expansion Program Proposed for L. V. Rogers High

Nelson District No. 7 School Board Monday night heard detailed plans, and tentatively approved the inauguration of a $279,000 program to expand vocational and technical facilities at the L. V. Rogers Senior Secondary School.

In a detailed outline, G. H. Lee, principal of L. V. Rogers, showed the trustees what would be involved and how the ambitions could be achieved.

The biggest problem the board faced was to sell the idea to, first, the provincial government and secondly, the federal government. If it was able to prove to the senior governments that the facilities are needed and would be fully utilized, the two governments would pay 90 per cent of the cost, leaving the taxpayers with only 10 per cent of the total cost.

Mr. Lee estimated that when the program comes into effect, affecting approximately 480 students in Grades 11 and 12, the population would be broken up into the four programs available, with 40 per cent in the academic program, 25 per cent taking commercial subjects, 25 per cent majoring in industrial arts, and 10 per cent in the vocational program.

35 CLASSES

In a chart, breaking the four divisions down into subjects, he pointed out that 35 classes will be needed to handle students who would enrol in the last three programs making it clearly obvious that these new facilities would be utilized.

He offered a sketch to the board, showing a new wing to house the industrial arts shops, to be built on the southeast corner of the school property.

The commercial classes, he suggested, should be located on the second floor of the maintenance shops and the present commerce rooms used for home economics courses.

The estimated costs would be broken up into three categories. The new wing, with some 12,540 square feet of floor space, would cost $188,100; equipment for the commercial program to cost $81,891 and equipment for the industrial-vocational program to cost $80,500. This brought the estimated total to $279,891.

Mr. Lee admitted that some difficulty may be encountered in obtaining qualified teachers for the new programs but several good sources, among them the new B.C. Institute of Technology at Burnaby could be investigated.

"There is a lot of hard work to be done," Charles Cuthbert, superintendent of schools, warned. He suggested that in order to have the facilities available by September, 1965, the board must call tenders for the project in April.

The trustees unanimously approved a motion that a delegation, consisting of R. A. Phillips, Mr. Lee and Mr. Cuthbert, be sent to Victoria to meet with department of education officials and find a basis upon which the plans could be worked out.

Mr. Cuthbert stated that a special board meeting will probably be called for February 19 to hear a representative of the provincial government deal with the subject.

Thieves Steal Car Key Sets

Thieves escaped with some six sets of car keys over the weekend when they forcibly entered the Mel Buerge Motors showroom.

Police reported that the burglars entered the showroom by breaking a window, scattering glass over the floor and damaging a new car parked in the building.

Attempts were also made to start several of the cars, but none was reported stolen.

Police are also investigating two other thefts reported over the weekend. The first was a battery stolen from a parked car, owned by Kware Engstad of Nelson. The car was parked on Third Street when the theft was committed.

A set of licence plates was also reported stolen from a car parked on Baker Street. The auto was owned by Louis Kaplar.

NO RESPONSE TO ARROW LAND OFFER

VANCOUVER (CP) — A spokesman for the B.C. Hydro and Power Authority said Monday it had not yet received any response to its offer of land to Arrow Lakes families displaced by the Columbia River project.

The Authority had offered Fraser Valley land for sale to the 2000 persons, members of 600 families, who will lose their homes as the water levels rise behind power dams built under joint U.S. - Canada Columbia Treaty signed last September.

The spokesman said the Authority is not promoting a land sale and has advised residents affected not to move until they had explored the possible alternatives being planned for them.

Many Accidents on Slippery City Roads

Slippery road conditions were blamed for a rash of motor vehicle accidents in the city over the weekend.

Two rear-end collisions, which occurred within minutes of each other at the corner of Ward and Vernon Streets on Saturday afternoon, caused extensive damage to four vehicles.

The first occurred when a car driven by Arne Hansen of Alberta was unable to stop and smashed into the rear of a vehicle driven by John A. McDonald of Nelson.

Minutes later cars driven by Alven V. Del of Nelson and Nick Voykin of Passmore collided in a similar manner.

No injuries were sustained in either accident.

Two persons were treated for minor injuries at the scene of a collision accident Sunday at the corner of Mill and Hendryx Streets.

John Blaney of Nelson, driver of one of the cars, suffered a scraped head. His son, a passenger, suffered cuts and bruises.

Police said the Blaney vehicle was proceeding north on Hendryx when it was in collision with a car driven by Jack E. Isnor of Crawford Bay, proceeding east on Mill Street.

In another accident, a car driven by Octave Cote of Nelson received an estimated $200 damage when it was struck from the rear by a truck operated by David C. McElroy of Nelson. No injuries were reported.

Police also reported that a vehicle owned and operated by John Salliken was struck on the side as it attempted to back out of a driveway in the 1200 block, Robertson Avenue.

The other car was driven by Bela Tanu of Nakusp. Aggregate damage was estimated at $150.

Have you ever shot an Elephant? Well, I haven't either, the biggest animal I ever shot was a gopher but with my Camera, that is different. I am a hunter by camera rather than by gun and during our travels, we have accumulated a great collection of slides and photographs from many parts of the world and the collection grows every year. They are a wonderful reminder of our trips and help us greatly when talking to people who are interested in a certain area which we have visited. But if you want to shoot an elephant, we are able to book you on an African Safari this winter where you can shoot Elephants or Lions and the cost of the trip will include slides and movies of you making the big kill. KOOTENAY LAKE IN WINTER looks just as attractive as it does in summer. This view from the Queen's Bay shore is a familiar one to many who have their summer homes there, even to the main lake ferry plying its way across towards the outlet at Procter. Labor Federation Submission Seeks to Overcome Legislation

VICTORIA (CP) — A seven point program to combat "existing discriminatory legislation" was submitted to the cabinet Monday by the British Columbia Federation of Labor.

Employers are so encouraged by this legislation that "it is doubtful that there will be any significant improvements in the year ahead" in labor-management relations, says the labor body's annual brief.

The brief calls for legislation that would:

Set up a labor code guaranteeing rights to organize, bargain collectively, and strike:

Repeal bills 42, 43 and 123;

Require grievance procedure before dismissal of employees;

Force employers to show "proper cause" before any dismissals during union organization;

Prohibit importation of strikebreakers;

Prevent certification of non-union employees during a legal strike;

Enable both sides in a dispute to present their cases fully before any recommendations from a conciliation officer, and to bypass normal procedure by seeking appointment of a competent mediator on mutual agreement.

LIST VIOLATIONS

The brief also criticizes B.C.'s giant forest companies, and lists employer violations of labor laws with a plea for greater penalties and more enforcement.

"Inferior treatment" of provincial and municipal employees must end, with full collective bargaining rights granted to all government employees and the right to strike returned to B.C. Hydro workers.

The provincial government was also asked to establish drug stores throughout the province supplying drugs at cost.

Stolen Church Renovation Planned by Congregation

INVERMERE — St. Peter's Anglican Church at Windermere, better known to thousands of people in Canada as The Stolen Church, will undergo a thorough renovation in 1965 if funds can be raised for the project.

The picturesque little church on the hillside above Lake Windermere is in need of extensive repairs, and in 1964 the southern side of the roof was started on. In 1965 the Ladies' Guild to the church will endeavor to raise the cost of a complete renovation. President is Mrs. Rodney Stone.

Its romantic story came about when the church was transplanted early in the century from Donald, near Golden, to its present site because a devout woman loved her church so much she hated to leave it. About 1900, Rufus Kimpton moved his home and family to Windermere because Donald was losing its position as CPR divisional point and he had business interests at Windermere.

Loading his house on a railway car and later a barge, Mr. Kimpton moved it to the lakeside at Windermere. But Mrs. Kimpton pined for her church which was to be moved to Revelstoke along with other community buildings.

Mr. Kimpton determined that she should have the church she had been instrumental in building, and while ecclesiastical authorities at New Westminster debated its removal ,he quietly had it transplanted to its present site.

BELL "LIFTED"

Complete even to bell-tower and pews it stands, but alas it is minus the original bell which Golden churchgoers decided would be an asset to their church St. Paul's. While the bell lay on the station platform at Golden awaiting transportation to Windermere, the Golden church fathers "lifted" it and placed it in their own church and who was to say who stole what.

The first of several planned events to raise funds for the rehabilitation will be held Friday at Invermere, where a "fowl and fish" supper will be held in the Education Centre of the United Church.

Gaglardi Would Alter Highway Police Powers

VANCOUVER (CP) — Highways Minister Gaglardi said Monday British Columbia should have highway patrols with police powers similar to those in the United States.

He said in an interview the patrol is needed because radar traps are not sufficient deterrent to poor drivers.

Highway policing now is done by the RCMP, but the force's primary training is in crime detection, he said.

"I don't know whether the RCMP are really interested to that degree in the traffic business. Primarily their organization is better trained for other duties."

He said he was not criticizing the RCMP.

"They do a job—I know it by experience," said the minister who has been convicted of several traffic offences.

The minister was commenting on statements by safety officials that more policemen are needed on B.C. highways.

He said that the patrols on highways department freeways do not have police powers.

He said he has always believed there should be more patrolling of highways. Radar was "merely a collection agency" that didn't provide a deterrent.

"But if people know there are police in the area they always behave."

At Rossland

Supplemental Grants Made As Chest Closes Year's Books

ROSSLAND — Three supplemental grants were added to the final instalments on donations budgeted for by the Rossland Community Chest, at the final meeting of the 1964 board of directors.

The annual general meeting was called for January 27.

On the recommendation of the Budegt Committee, grants of $1000 to the R.C.A.A. Sports Fund, $325 to the Salvation Army, and $500 to the Rossland Welfare Society were authorized paid this month.

Three supplemental grants to be paid are $100 to the Kootenay Society for Handicapped Children, $100 to the Canadian Arthritis and Rheumatism Society, and $400 to the R.C.A.A. Sports Fund.

Correspondence dealt with included acknowledgement of grants from the Poliomyelitis and Rehabilitation Foundation, the Canadian National Institute for the Blind, the Salvation Army, and the Canadian Cancer Society. A letter from the Village of Creston conveyed thanks for the donation of $225 to the Creston District Tragedy Fund, and stated that the fund totalled $30,650. The money has been used to aid the widows of the men who died in a drowning accident near Creston, and a trust fund has been set up for the children involved.

JOHN HOWARD SOCIETY

A communication from the John Howard Society of British Columbia asked for assistance from the Community Chest, and outlined the work that organization is doing in B.C. penal institutions. Its objectives are to befriend first offenders, guide and help prisoners and their families, help re-establish released prisoners through counselling, job placement, financial assistance and psychiatric services where needed, etc. When more funds and staff are available, the Society hopes to extend its activities beyond the lower mainland to other areas of the province, including the Kootenays. The Chest directors noted that the John Howard Society is commended as worthy of support in the report of the Agency Review Committee of the B.C. Association of Community Chests.

A similar appeal for a yearly grant was received early in the year from the Big Brothers of B.C., a group which works with young people, particularly fatherless boys, who are in need of guidance to keep them out of trouble.

Both appeals will be referred to next year's Budget Committee for consideration when the 1965 budget is set up.

George Nixon Co-Author of Medical Paper

ROSSLAND—A Rossland man, George A. Nixon, who is well known in Nelson, where he attended Notre Dame University for two years, is co-author of an article published recently in the Journal of Medicine.

Mr. Nixon, who received his master's degree in January and is working toward his doctorate in chemistry at East Texas State University, Commerce, Texas, collaborated with D. S. Matteson, A. G. Soloway, D. W. Tomlinson and J. D. Campbell to produce a report of research to determine the possibility of treating intracranial tumors using neutron capture irradiation.

Mr. Nixon is the son of Mr. and Mrs. George Nixon of Rossland.

Kinnaird CWL Coup Plans Year's Events, Has Christmas Party

KINNAIRD — A Christmas party and business meeting were combnied when the St. Joseph's Council of the Catholic Women's League met recently at the Yule-decorated home of Mrs. Frank Murphy.

The date was set for the group's major project for the coming year, the bazaar, to be held next October. Guest speakers for the first two meetings of the new year will include an authority on legal matters.

A letter conveying appreciation of the council will be sent to the Department of Education and Hon. Leslie Peterson on the department's conditional recognition of Notre Dame University in Nelson as a teacher training centre.

The children's Christmas event will be held at the Kinnaird Improvement Society Hall Dec. 21. During the day, 98 children will receive Christmas treats through the sponsorship of CWL Council. To assist the Sisters of Atonement with this event will be Mrs. Wayne Newell, Mrs. G. K. McKinnon, Mrs. Pat Haley and Mrs. H. Briggeman.

A committee headed by Mrs. William McGauley of Castlegar and Mrs. Guy Guido of Kinnaird will plan catering to a Celgar Christmas function Wednesday.

A contest involving a best seller list proved an entertaining feature of the social program. Winners acepting prizes of Christmas novelties were Mrs. John Bosek, Mrs. Karl Soberlak, Mrs. Wayne Newell, Mrs. G. K. McKinnon and Mrs. J. Kaufman.

Christmas music was enjoyed.

BRAWL NEAR SHRINE

MEXICO CITY (AP) — One man was killed, 500 injured and 30 pickpockets and other thieves were arrested Sunday during the annual pilgrimage to the shrine of Our Lady of Guadalupe. Most of the casualties resulted from traffic accidents and drunken fights.

R. A. Skinner President Kinnaird Kin

KINNAIRD — The Kinsmen Club installed R. A. Skinner as president to succeed Don Blishen, who has since been transferred to North Surrey by his company.

The first meeting over which Mr. Skinner presided, found "disappointing as a fund-raising campaign" the recent giant bingo. He said the attendance had been about 600. The group provided for $1000 in prizes.

However, termed successful was the Grey Cup Pool, which produced approximately $300 profit as its outcome the day of the bingo.

Discussion at the meeting covered a number of commitments. George Jablonsky has been delegated to find a location to hold the children's Christmas party for members.

Undecided is the part to be played by the Kinsmen Club in the forthcoming celebrations to mark Castlegar's new status as a Town. The three days designated for the celebrations are Feb. 26, 27, 28.

Meanwhile members are carrying on the established Winter "work parties" in the construction of park benches for the Kinsmen Park.

A Change in Approach?

The majority of independent African republics appear to have accepted the Communist-inspired view that the U.S.-Belgian rescue operation in The Congo was not a mercy mission to save lives but a deliberate act of military aggression by white nations against black.

Such a thought obviously appeals to many of the African leaders who have long attempted to blame the white man for all the shortcomings, weaknesses and inefficiencies of their own governments.

Today it is the popular thing in Africa south of the Sahara to tell the white man to get out and stop interfering in the affairs of the African people.

Perhaps it is time that the white man did take the black leaders at their word and leave the dark continent to its own devices. However, if the white man did get out of Africa and take with him that which is his in the way of investment, factories, hospitals, medical missions, schools, universities, churches, advisers, railways and engineering works, Africa would destroy itself in a matter of months.

If the white man in Africa could leave the southern half of the vast continent as he found it a century or so ago, it would be nothing more than a gigantic unproductive piece of land, covered either by impenetrable and disease laden jungle or parched veldtland peopled by warring tribes of backward, half-starved savages bent on killing themselves and each other.

Is this what the African people of today want?

Or is it simply the desire of some of their more vociferous leaders who visualize themselves as the modern-day equivalent of the old-time paramount chiefs and native kings whose greatest pleasure was to torture and kill their subjects?

The white man today has authority over only two comparatively small areas of Africa — Rhodesia and South Africa. The white men who govern these countries are there simply because they believe that the Africans under their jurisdiction are not yet ready to govern themselves. For staunchly holding to this attitude they have been soundly condemned, punished and threatened by the rest of the world.

Perhaps as the United Nations debate on The Congo continues, Western government may find just cause and ample reason to look upon the Rhodesian and South African contention with considerably more sympathy and understanding than they have hitherto demonstrated. — Victoria Colonist.

It All Depends on Dad

Two items in the news underscore the role of the father in a boy's upbringing.

A team of psychiatrists told the Quebec Society of Criminology that in a study of 50 fathers of juvenile delinquents, four were found to be criminal, seven authoritarian, eight brutal, 12 alcoholic and 17 just plain inadequate.

And Dr. Daniel Paitich, of the Toronto Psychiatric Hospital, shot down the theory of a local toymaker that playing with a toy gun will help prevent a boy from becoming effeminate. It's the father not the toy, the doctor claims, who by precept and example makes a man of his son.

Nothing new in this. From the Bible to modern psychiatry, experts point to father as the key to character training. Ask any mother of a home where there is no male parent. She will tell you what an impossible job it is to rear a boy.

An inadequate father is about as good as no father. Yet every day men assume the role without the least idea of what it entails. A man must have training for a career. But we require no training for perhaps the most important career of all — being a father.

If we were logical, we would establish schools for fathers. Past generations never thought in such terms, yet they managed to produce adequate parents.

The answer is that a qualified father usually becomes one through inherited values. Integrity, decency, courage, self-sacrifice — they make the man, and they are transmitted only through traditions. — Toronto Telegram.

At Ease in Moscow

The large, red brick apartment house one block from the Kremlin, where Nikita Khrushchev now lives, has some other once-famous tenants, according to Moscow scuttlebutt.

Just across the hall from Nikita and nina lives Georgi Zhukov, ex-marshal of the Red Army, who was fired by Mr. K as defense minister in 1957. Elsewhere in the building is the apartment of Vyacheslav Molotov, former premier, whom Khrushchev booted into oblivion the same year.

Probably there is a certain coolness among these neighbors when they meet on the stairway. But if Molotov and Zhukov are as well provided for as Khrushchev is reported to be — a pension of 1000 rubles ($1,111) a month and car with chauffeur — they should be grateful to him. He established a precedent, the benefits of which he now is enjoying, by not sending them to Siberia or the execution chamber.

Some tenants of the apartment house may not be long in reaching the same kind of fairly comfortable retirement. They include Alexei N. Kosygin, who took over as premier when Khrushchev walked the plank, and Presidium members Mikhail Suslov and Dmitry Polyanski. Khrushchev did not succeed in making the corn grow tall or in keeping the Communist monolith from cracking, but he did establish social security for the golden years of former Soviet big shots. His neighbors should invite him in for a vodka on the rocks. — Portland Oregonian.

No Argument Now

As far as most of the English-speaking world is concerned Christmas comes on December 25 and there can be no argument about it.

But Christmas Day was not always December 25.

Early in our era the Nativity was celebrated at different times by different people. It depended on the group to which you belonged. January 6, February 2, March 25, April 19, May 20 and even November 17 were all dates chosen by one group or another.

In 345 AD, Pope Julius I started an investigation to establish the date of Jesus' birth and after five years decided December 25 was the most probable one.

The majority of Christians accept the datee. The Armenians are a notable exception. They observe January 6, Epiphany, as Christmas Day.

Liturgically this is a more important feast day than Christmas because it was the date of the visit of the Three Wise Men. — Hamilton Spectator.

Commonwealth Reviews On Year of Racial Tension

By DOUG MARSHALL

LONDON (CP) — The Commonwealth sails into 1965 like a scattered flotilla seemingly uncertain of its common direction. It is a fleet still in being, but some wonder for how long.

After a year of sporadic troubles—civil strife in Cyprus, racial tensions and rebellion in East Africa, famine in India—the Commonwealth faces a couple of rough passages in the immediate future.

One is the continuing threat of unilateral declaration of independence by Southern Rhodesia; the other is the intensification of the conflict between Malaysia and Indonesia.

Rhodesia may yet put a severe strain on the Commonwealth's moral role as a 750,000,000-member multiracial society sharing common ideals. Malaysia could prove to be a test of the Commonwealth's willingness to fight for its ideals.

Both topics were vigorously discussed during the July meeting of the 17 Commonwealth heads of government in London —a conference some pessimists predicted would herald the twilight of the Commonwealth as it has evolved since 1945.

As it was the member nations emerged from the meeting firmly dedicated to plans for closer economic and academic co-operation, plans possibly to be co-ordinated by a Commonwealth secretariat in Britain.

STRINGS CUT

During the conference Malawi, formerly Nyasaland, was welcomed into the fold as a newly independent nation. Malta celebrated its independence in September; Zambia, formerly Northern Rhodesia, in October. Gambia is scheduled to hoist her own flag in February.

The speed with which Britain is dismantling her former Empire raised doubts in some quarters about the readiness of some new nations for the responsibilities of statehood.

These doubts seemed valid early in the year when Britain was requested to help quell army mutinies in Zanzibar, Tanganyika and parts of Kenya. In the aftermath of the revolts Zanzibar and Tanganyika federated themselves under the new name of Tanzania and dropped a corrugated iron curtain around their frontier.

Correspondents remain uncertain how far the conflict, sparked by antagonism between Asians and Africans, has allowed Communist China to gain a foothold in Africa.

Most of the developments in Africa were overshadowed by the Rhodesian problem. During the London conference Afro-Asian members were reassured by Britain that Rhodesian independence would be conditional on a constitution representing the majority of the people—colored as well as white.

During the fall a tense dialogue between Salisbury and London came to a head when new Labor Prime Minister Harold Wilson issued a dramatic warning, worded with a bluntness unprecedented in recent Commonwealth relations.

Wilson served notice that a unilateral declaration of independence would be "rebellion" and acts to put it into effect "treasonable." The warning was effective enough to make Rhodesian Premier Ian Smith think twice and postpone plans for immediate self-rule.

There is every indication, however, that the crisis will boil up again early in the new year and the prospects of a constitutional settlement remain remote.

Other unresolved problems hanging over the Commonwealth are the states of emergency in British Guiana, Cyprus and Malaysia.

The Cyprus situation appears the most intractable. At the end of the year Greeks and Turks were maintaining an uneasy truce under the guardianship of a United Nations force. But the two sides were no nearer a political solution for the divided island.

In Malaysia there are signs that Australia and New Zealand, at any rate, are preparing to back their promises of military help with deeds as the Indonesian guerrilla raids become more brazen.

Despite strong internal opposition, the Australian government introduced selective conscription in November. The new year may see Anzac troops fighting beside Malaysian and British units in the jungles of Borneo.

Year-End Outlook

Britain Faces Possibility Of Another General Election

By JOSEPH MacSWEEN

LONDON (CP)—The big political question for Britons going into the new year is whether they will be plunged into their second general election in as many years.

Harold Wilson's new Labor government weathered a series of adversities with every sign of energetic confidence and some veterans of the political scene now swear the prime minister plans a full term—or near it—before going to the people.

But simple mathematics caused others to speculate whether Wilson, deeply resentful of the economic problems he inherited from the former Conservative government, may demand a new mandate in the hope of increasing his slim margin of power.

Labor obtained a majority of only five in the 630-member House of Commons in the Oct. 15 general election. Five by-elections, resulting from appointment of MPs to the House of Lords, will be held early in 1965 in a so-called "little general election" that may provide a pointer.

In any case, political activity in 1965 promises to be high with the first Labor government in 13 years pledged to plow ahead with controversial measures in both the domestic and the international spheres.

These included public ownership of building land, educational reforms and renationalization of steel, although the timing of the steel action was open.

OPPOSE PLAN

Sir Alec Douglas-Home, the former premier and now opposition leader, was implacably against Wilson's plan to take Britain out of the independent nuclear deterrent business in exchange for greater nuclear consultation with Washington within the Atlantic alliance.

Sir Alec, premier for one year less a day, made this one of the great issues of the campaign and another was the modernization of Britain—the issue of which party was better able to do it.

The election became perhaps the most exciting cliff-hanger in British history and one feature, possibly significant for the future, was the nearly-trebled popular vote polled by the Liberals under Jo Grimond, 51.

But the Liberals elected only two additional members to the House and the final election standings were: Labor 317; Tory 303; Liberals 9. The Tories had held an edge of nearly 100 in the last Parliament.

Sir Alec, 61, received considerable credit for rallying the Tories whose fortunes had been at a low ebb when he took the leadership. His future, however, remains one of the big question marks for 1965. Three likely candidates for the succession have been given prominent roles in opposition — Reginald Maudling, 47, former chancellor of the exchequer; Edward Heath, 48, former trade minister; and Iain Macleod, 50, former House leader.

Wilson came to power with a pledge of a "first 100 days of dynamic action"—a phrase he now may wish he never uttered —and nearly one - quarter of those days fall in the new year.

REVAMPED CABINET

The 48-year-old Yorkshireman set the pattern for his administration from the first hours of his rule when he revamped the traditional shape of the cabinet to emphasize economic planning and technology in a "new Britain."

The government, however, fell immediately into a financial crisis that threatened the pound sterling because of a huge balance-of-payments deficit—a deficit between the money Britain earned from foreign trade compared with the money spent for exports.

Socialist emergency measures failed to halt the run on the pound and devaluation disaster loomed until Nov. 25, the 41st of Wilson's 100 days, when 11 countries including Canada stepped in and provided $3,000,000,000 to stabilize the pound.

Britain, haunted for months by economic worries, thus returned to a measure of stability before Wilson went to Washington and Ottawa for his first talks as premier with President Johnson and Prime Minister Pearson.

CIVIL DEFENCE

The co-ordination between various services would be a vital factor in an emergency. Previous planning would assist in co-ordination and planning therefore should be done by all municipalities.

Centennial Club Pleased

To the Editor:

Sir—Inasmuch as the Centennial Club will not meet again till the 22nd, I would as an individual rather than a member of the board wish to sincerely thank you for the fine response to the referendum which gave us the project for the centennial.

On July 1, 1867, the Hon. John A. Macdonald issued those now famous words: "Gentlemen, we are here to create a nation." Thus Canada's birthday, Confederation. We, during 1967, celebrate the centenary of that great event. All over Canada this birthday party will carry on during the entire year. There will be no lull in the activities during those 365 days.

From ocean to ocean and from the 49th parallel to the Arctic there will be great jubilation. Then our relatives and friends below the 49th may be with us. It will be the biggest birthday party any of us will live through.

1967 will be the year for brass bands, bagpipes, bugles and drums, flags and bunting, military parades and tattoos marchpasts and reviews, majorettes, queens, pioneer exhibits, historical pageants and pageants of every nature. There will be ethnic group gatherings and general blending in of them. And, too, we will inevitably hear time-worn political platitudes.

1967 will go down as our greatest fun and frolic year. Nelson's ten thousand then will participate fully. They will enjoy all of this great big wow of a party. Each individual and group will just fall into line doing the part, and that includes the children.

On July 1st of that year — it is announced — each school child will be presented with a medal with which to commemorate the event. Ottawa expects to pay out on this one item alone over one-half million dollars.

I am confident that during this coming year the Centennial Club will keep you well informed on matters of interest. Meantime, may we all feel the spirit of togetherness as the people of Nelson have selected the one project that will be long-lasting, will benefit all of the people while aiding Nelson the most, especially as to tourism.

You have decided that the project now is Nelson's, so come out — attend our regular meetings held each fourth Tuesday.

This is not only Canada's birthday celebration. We will also be celebrating the birthday of each and every one of our (then) 21,000,000 Canadians.

Would mention — One city of 19,000 has taken on a $100,000 project, and half of the folding money is already in. Another community of 11,000 has in effect a $250,000 project; and so on, and so on.

As one grateful individual, I thank you.

Walter Davis,
1313 Front Street.

Dec. 15, 1964 . . .

The long and bitter siege of Stalingrad ended with the announcement by the Russian authorities that the German Army had been encircled, 22 years ago today —in 1942. The Red Army had mounted massive offences against the Germans and the eventual encirclement and two major attacks destroyed the power of 36 Nazi divisions. The Russians took 137,000 prisoners, most starving and ill, and killed some 175,000 officers and men.

1890—Sioux Indian Chief Sitting Bull was shot by police attempting to arrest him.

1961 — Former Nazi Gestapo officer Adolf Eichmann was sentenced to death by an Israeli court for his part in mass slaughters of the Jews.

First World War

Fifty years ago today—in 1914—Grand Duke Nicholas massed Russian troops in Poland for a decisive assault on German positions; British troops scored a minor victory in Belgium with a bayonet charge; Egypt was threatened by an uprising of the Senussi tribesmen.

Second World War

Twenty-five years ago today—in 1939 — Uruguayan authorities gave the German pocket battleship Graf Spee two more days to leave the port of Montevideo where the ship had fled from British war ships; British planes began a mass attack on German air and naval forces; Russia claimed the occupation of Finland's chief nickel industry sites.

Drinking, Driving, Sex Education Topics

Teenage Panel, Parents Have It Out at PTA-Sponsored Bout

INVERMERE — A Parent-Teacher Association sponsored panel discussion called "The Teenagers Speak Out," attracted a large attendance at the recent meeting in the David Thompson Secondary School.

Keenly interested parents listened to seven teenagers express the views tabulated in a questionnaire circulated in grades 10, 11 and 12.

Moderator Mrs. R. B. Harris, girls' counsellor and English teacher in the David Thompson School, introduced the young adult panelists and conducted the question period which followed, when parents had the opportunity to challenge and support the views voiced by the speakers.

Tackling such controversial subjects as teenage drinking, driving habits, smoking, dating and unchaperoned parties, sex education and allowances, the young panellists made their points clearly, quoted some interesting statistics derived from the questionnaire and came up with recommendations for improving relations in what panellist Doreen Wepper termed "the battle of adults versus teenagers."

Sigrid Sattman defended the privlege of unchaperoned parties saying teenagers have adult companionship all day and most evenings and wanted some occasions "when we all talk the same language."

She recommended that young people have their first drink in their own home where they could learn moderation, and said most teenagers are convinced that drinking and driving don't mix.

ALLOWANCES

Larry Hollybow said the questionnaire revealed student allowances ranged from $2 to $30 a month, with an average of $8. Part-time jobs, he added, enable most students to buy their own clothes and pay for their own entertainment.

Daryl Johnson recommended a driver's course be offered in the school so that students would have the opportunity of becoming expert drivers.

Marylou Delesalle stressed that sex education be taught in the home at all age levels and should not be considered a closed subject at 16.

The moderator in summing up the panel, said she hoped the parents would respond with a similar discussion later, to further the understanding between students and parents.

School principal George Eacrett welcomed the audience.

Young Women in Navy Blue Welcome Tea Guests Aboard

Nelson Wrenettes, smart in their navy uniforms, welcomed tea guests to their first social event since their organization as a branch of the Navy League of Canada Saturday in the ballroom of a downtown hotel.

Commanding officer of the Nelson division, Mrs. R. W. Ecclestone, with S.-Lt. Janet Evans and Wrenettes Pam Pepin and Suzanne Ecclestone, received the visitors to the tea and bake sale convened by the Wrenettes and general convener, Petty Officer Maureen Trott.

Presiding at the tea tables were Mrs. E. T. Bodard, Mrs. V. I. Graves, Mrs. N. Sapriken and Mrs. F. G. Trott. Attending to the bake table were Wrenettes Dale Parker, Shirley Cole, Erma Kuntz, Judy Smith and Joanne Bodard.

Serving tea were Wrenettes Ellen Bogaard, Linda Wilson and Nicole Dawson.

NAVY LEAGUE CADET Paul Bogaard did his duty at the Wrenette Division tea and bake sale Saturday when he washed and dried cups and saucers as they were used by the tea guests. Here, he receives a hand from Dale Parker, in background, and Joanne Bodard, who took a few minutes off from their job at the bake table. — Daily News photo.

Hints From Heloise

By Heloise Cruse

Dear Heloise:

If you aren't supposed to eat a lot of butter or margarine . . . don't put it in your refrigerator.

When spreading your bread or rolls, you will use less butter or margarine if it is soft instead of hard!

Carol Brady

Dear Heloise:

As aquariasts, we would like to submit the following suggestions on cleaning fish bowls:

Goldfish, like tropicals, need a certain water temperature in order to remain healthy . . . from 60 to 70 degrees.

The water supply in most cities and towns contans chlorine which can be fatal to fish.

We suggest cleaning two or three one-gallon jars with rock salt and warm water. Rinse well. Fill jars from the tap and let sit for 24 hours prior to cleaning bowl. The chlorine will then be gone and the temperature right.

Plac the fish in a separate jar with some of the old water while cleaning and changing bowl, then replace them.

If fish are not overfed, this job does not have to be done too often.

Mr. and Mrs. T. D. MacDonald

Dear Heloise:

Here's a hint for mothers of small children:

Round up three outdated telephone books (more if the books are thin) and buy about one-half yard of adhesive-backed paper to harmonize with your kitchen decor.

Tape the books together to prevent slipping, then cover them with the paper.

This makes a perfect booster-seat for the little one. It is easily wiped off, is not conspicuous and costs less than 50 cents.

Dear Roni:

What a cute idea! If one can't round up enough thick phone books, why not use outdated catalogues???

Motor Could Give World Range

BRIGHAM CITY, Utah (AP) The U.S. Air Force has finished the first research step toward a rocket motor that might give the United States a missile capable of hitting any spot on earth at a moment's notice.

Saturday's successful test-firing of a 156-inch diameter solid-fueled motor northwest of Brigham City was the third in a series of three static firings in the air force program to determine the feasibility of large, segmented motors.

All three firings were successful. Lockheed Propulsion Company built and tested the first two in California this year. The Wasatch Division of Thiokol Chemical Corporation built and fired the third one Saturday.

Charles Hunter, Thiokol vice-president and Wasatch divisional manager, said in an interview that such a powerful motor would be able to send a payload of several tons at least 12,500 miles, or halfway around the world.

The range, then, would be worldwide, depending on which direction it was fired. Minuteman's range is estimated at 6,000-8,000 miles.

The solid fuel would give the missile the same instant readiness of the Minuteman ICBM, for which Thiokol makes the first stage at its Wasatch division facilities 27 miles northeast of this northern Utah community.

In fact, the segmented motor is basically a scaled-up version of Minuteman's booster.

Europe's first heliport, at a cost of £80,000, has opened at Penzance in Cornwall, England, and includes both terminal and maintenance facilities.

FILIPINO SHOT

MANILA (AP)—A U.S. marine guard shot and killed a Filipino Sunday night near a store of bombs at the U.S. naval base on Subic Bay, the navy announced Monday. It was the second Filipino killed by an American military guard in three weeks. The navy said Gonzalo Villedo was shot as he and his brother Ricardo were in restricted waters adjacent to a magazine from which intruders had stolen 500-pound bombs.

SCORNS BUSINESS STUDY

NEW YORK (AP)—William Black, board chairman of a restaurant chain, explained in a letter Sunday why he once gave $5,000,000 to build a medical research building at Columbia University but refused to donate $20 to the school of business alumni fund: "I am of the opinion that, unlike engineering or medicine, the subject of business is not scientific enough to be taught . . . that I wasted my time at the Columbia School of Business."

4 HURT IN RAIL MISHAP

MARSEILLES, Ill. (AP) — Four persons were taken to hospital Sunday night when three cars of the Rock Island Lines' Golden State Limited passenger train derailed 1½ miles east of Marseilles. Widespread Havoc Rain Squalls Cause

SHREWSBURY, England (AP)—Hundreds of troops with amphibious vehicles were mobilized in Wales and the west of England Monday for relief operations after disastrous weekend floods.

More than two inches of rain in 24 hours sent the Severn and Wye rivers overflowing their banks, flooding thousands of acres of low-lying land.

In Newtown on the Severn, hundreds of houses and stores were flooded seven to eight feet deep. Aberystwyth, a Welsh coast resort with 10,000 population, was cut off by road and rail.

A six-year-old girl was swept away by flood waters at Aberkenfig, Glamorganshire. At Hampton Lode, Shropshire, a 20-year-old man was lost from a capsized ferry.

Flood waters were expected to send the Wye and Severn up to 18 feet above their normal level.

Manchester had its wettest Sunday since 1877 with two inches of rain in 18 hours.

Hundreds of families were feared stranded in the Welsh farming valleys.

Reg Kinsey, manager of a newtown supermarket, spent the night on top of an icebox trapped by the waters invading his store.

The Flintshire village of Bangor-on-Dee was five feet under water.

Heavy snows blocked roads in north and west Scotland. Fierce winds over the Atlantic delayed all Sunday plane flights into London from New York.

BOSTON (AP)—A courageous mother and the two sons she tried to save after they fell through thin ice were drowned Sunday in a pond near their home at Norton. Dead are Mrs. Richard L. Berg, 31, and her sons Lawrence, 6, and George, 5.

Resurgence of Nationalism Results in Quebec Labor Feud

By BEN WARD

OTTAWA (CP)—A long-simmering labor feud linked to the upsurge of nationalism in Quebec broke into the open in 1964 and may come to a boil in the months ahead.

Antagonists are the Canadian Labor Congress, with 1,106,000 affiliated members across the country, and the Confederation of National Trade Unions (CNTU) which has a membership of 121,500 concentrated in Quebec.

There has been an uneasy relationship between the two bodies for several years because of membership raiding. The Quebec Federation of Labor, representing the CLC's 235,000 members in that province, became concerned this year about a sharp upswing in CNTU raiding activity.

Three months ago presidents Claude Jodoin of the CLC and Jean Marchand of the CNTU traded sharp attacks on each other's organization, the first public evidence of the rising conflict.

Mr. Jodoin, without mentioning the CNTU by name, said some labor organizations practise "religious and national segregation."

Mr. Marchand said this was an attack aimed at keeping the CNTU confined to Quebec so the CLC could dominate the rest of Canada. He warned that his organization is a "Canadian union movement," thus indicating that the CNTU is serious in its moves towards the Atlantic provinces.

TALKS COLLAPSED

A few years ago the two bodies held a long and frank discussion of merger arrangements. They agreed to the principle that Canadian labor could speak best through a single voice, but the merger deal broke down over technical matters.

Any lingering hope for a renewal of merger talks was killed this year when a CNTU policy document stated bluntly that competition between labor groups is a good thing. The CLC is dedicated to the opposite view, that conflict within the trade union movement can only serve to hamper its advance.

Uppermost in the feud is the delicate issue of national unity, to which the CLC has devoted much of its energy since its founding in 1956.

The CNTU originally aimed its criticisms at international unions — those with headquarters in the United States. Now, the CLC says, the attack is against Canadian unions as well.

A CLC spokesman put it this way:

The CNTU used to tell workers they should join a Canadian union instead of sending dues to Washington. Now their organizers say: 'Join a Quebec union, don't send your dues to Ottawa.' "

In September a top executive officer of the CLC conferred with a group of Quebec federation leaders on a plan of action against the CNTU. They assembled a special "task force" to watch for the development of CNTU raiding moves and launch counter-measures.

During recent years CLC-affiliated unions have been putting special emphasis on the training of French-Canadian organizers for their Quebec regions.

BATTLE LOOMS

Raiding by both sides has so far resulted in only minor skirmishes. But two developments on the Quebec economic horizon contain the elements of a real battle.

Plans are in the works to build major auto and steel plants in the province. Two CLC affiliates, the United Steel Workers of America and the United Auto Workers, intend to organize the plants. The CNTU is likely to oppose them.

This would set a crucial test of the drawing power of the CNTU's nationalistic appeal against the money manpower of the two biggest industrial unions in Canada.

For Steel, which in 1964 became the first single union in Canadian history to top 100,000 in membership, a direct fight against the CNTU would be a strange turn of fate. In 1949 when the bitter asbestos strike put the CNTU on the brink of financial ruin, the Steelworkers sent a huge donation that helped the CNTU to survive.

Thieves Steal Gold Bullion From Airport

MONTREAL (CP)—Gold bullion and other goods worth an estimated $111,250 were stolen from an Air Canada freight shed at Montreal International Airport.

A spokesman for the airline said five armed men broke into the shed and locked up five persons after handcuffing them.

Then the men, wearing scarves over their faces, made off with the goods—gold bullion worth $81,000, coins worth $10,000, watches worth $15,000, jewelry worth $3,750, and pharmaceutical supplies valued at $1,500.

The stickup occurred at about 3:30 a.m. The men broke open two locked cages to get at the supplies.

The Air Canada spokesman said the gold, weighing 204 pounds, was part of a consignment being shipped by the Canadian line and Pan American World Airways from Nicaragua to Montreal.

The watches were part of a Swissair (Swiss air line) consignment. The spokesman had no information on the origin or ownership of the other goods.

There were no reports of injuries in the holdup. The men locked away by the bandits were two employees of Air Canada, an employee of British Overseas Airways Corporation, a cleaner at the shed and a customs man.

The holdup men broke into the rear of the shed, which is reserved for incoming freight, the Air Canada official said.

Only felons, aliens, lunatics and peers are barred from voting in a British general election —and anyone under 21 years of age.

"JOHN GOLDFARB, PLEASE STAY AWAY" is the way the University of Notre Dame feels about 20th Century-Fox's film "John Goldfarb, Please Come Home," and the university is suing to keep it from being shown. Two views show Shirley MacLaine rushing the goal line in an Arab-Notre Dame football game, and during harem activities which caused the filmdom Fighting Irish to lose to the Arabs. Notre Dame claims the film is damaging.

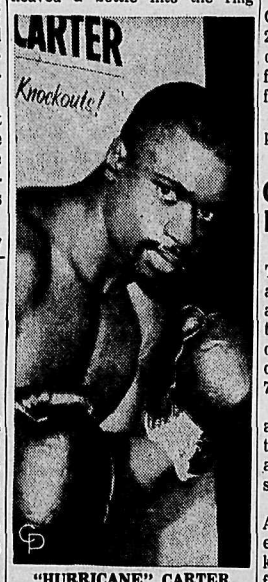
Giardello Wins Unanimous Decision Over Rubin Carter

PHILADELPHIA (AP)—Middleweight champion Joey Giardello, a battle-scarred veteran with 17 years of pro experience, fought off the savage drive of Rubin Carter Monday night and retained his title on a unanimous 15-round decision at Convention Hall.

Judge Jimmy Mina scored it 69-64 for the champ, judge Dave Beloff had it 70-67 and referee Bob Polis scored 72-66. The Associated Press scorecard was 69-68 for Giardello.

The decision was greeted by mingled cheers and boos by the crowd estimated at 6,000 paying about $100,000. One fan heaved a bottle into the ring as the two fighters left. Nobody was hit.



"HURRICANE" CARTER . . . Giardello knocks wind out of him

There were no knockdowns in the bitterly fought contest, the first defence for Joey, who won the crown from Dick Tiger of Nigeria Dec. 7, 1963, in Atlantic City.

Giardello, 34, was sliced around the left eye as early as the fourth round when he and Carter, 27, emerged from a close-up exchange. Medication stopped the blood between rounds but it leaked throughout the rest of the fight.

It was the 127th pro fight for Giardello. He has won 97, lost 22 and fought seven draws. One other bout was a no decision affair. It was Carter's fifth defeat in 25 bouts.

Giardello weighed it at 160 pounds and Carter at 158½.

Fight Promoter Eddie Quinn Dies at 58

MONTREAL (CP) — Montreal boxing and wrestling promoter Eddie Quinn died Monday at the nursing home he owned in Northampton, N.H.

Quinn, in his late fifties, came to Montreal more than 20 years ago from his native Waltham, Mass., and put this city on the world boxing map, promoting title fights involving such champions as Archie Moore, Sugar Ray Robinson, Jimmy Carter and Laurent Dauthuille.

His last promotion was aborted and brought an end to his career in the fight game. A scheduled heavyweight bout between Moore and Robert Cleroux in December, 1961, was called off a day before the fight because of what Quinn called "a sick gate" and his boxing licence was suspended.

He also lost his wrestling licence because of "irregularities," but recovered it a year later and promoted wrestling until 1963, when he retired to run the Dobbs nursing home in Northampton.

MIGRATING OWL

The U.S. Snowy owl is one of the few owl species that migrates—from the Arctic tundra to more temperate climes, but never the tropics.

Gonzaga Bulldogs Drop Knights 7-3

Gonzaga Bulldogs, paced by Tom Hufty with two goals and an assist, came out of a 3-3 tie at the end of the first period to two unanswered goals in each of the remaining frames to dump the Notre Dame Knights 7-3 here Friday night.

The win for the Bulldogs gives a 3-1 won-loss record against the Notre Dame squad this year and ended their rivalry for this season.

Eddie Mussio, Allan Bunn, Albert Pasqualotto and Ron Peterson added singles for the Spokane club in a game that saw five minors assessed to the Bulldogs and four go to the NDU team.

Mike McAstocker, Ernie Moisey and Pat Riva scored the single markers for the Knights, all in the first frame.

The Knights have a road series with the University of Alberta Dinsaurs in Calgary, January 8 and 9.

The Knights swept a two-game series from the Dinosaurs here December 5 and 6 by scores of 5-3 and 6-5 and hope to repeat their performance in Calgary.

An exhibition game with the University of British Columbia Thunderbirds, who dropped the Western International Hockey League's Rossland Warriors 4-0 in an exhibition game played in Vancouver, has been scheduled for January 15.

ON THE SPOT—The two quarterbacks of the New York Giants, aging Y. A. Tittle (left) and newcomer Gary Wood, are projected into key roles in the season's windup against the Cleveland Browns in New York. Wood has played most of the last two games. The Brownie meeting carries with it the Eastern division championship of the NFL.

National Racing Association Agrees To Form Thoroughbred Organizations

EDMONTON (CP) — Delegates to the third annual national conference of racing agreed Monday to consider formation of an association of all thoroughbred and harness racing organizations.

A special meeting was called for today for final decision. The delay was approved to permit some representatives to consult officials in their home provinces.

The decision will be presented to a general meeting which all 60 delegates are expected to attend.

Lou Davies of Edmonton, general manager of Western Canada Racing Association, said there was no objection to the proposal but some delegates were unable to present final decisions.

The meeting, at which John Mooney, president of the Jockey Club of Ontario, was chairman, was closed to the press.

Sid Pratt of Ottawa, chief of race track supervision of the federal agriculture department, said:

"As things stand now racing is a $300,000,000 industry with no recognized central office."

LACKS UNIFORMITY

The association would provide a central voice for all track operators and lead to uniformity which has been lacking, Pratt said.

"A national organization would give us an opportunity to build something more solid than the United States has, "because American associations are operated basically under state control."

Canada currently has only four operating commissions — British Columbia, Alberta, Ontario and Prince Edward Island.

Some provinces are governed by societies, which have less authority, and the Maritimes, where harness racing is the only form of racing, is controlled by the United States Trotting Association.

Bill Connolly of Edmonton, president of Western Harness Raceways, said maritime officials had indicated that they favored the proposed organization.

The Maritimes region was not represented.

He said head office for the organization probably would be established in Ottawa, "because we're all under federal jurisdiction."

Mr. Pratt said harness racing has reached the stage in its growth where an outlook of more national scope is necessary.

In 1953, there were fewer than 100 harness racing days in Canada, he said, compared with more than 1,000 days last year.

Light Kills Reported As Season Nears End

Hunting season for deer in game management area number 10 closes December 20 with a very light kill recorded thus far.

Game management area number 10 is comprised of Nelson-Creston electoral district west of the Kootenay Lake, Kaslo-Slocan and Trail-Rossland.

"The kill is lower than that which was recorded last year and this may be partially due to the adverse weather conditions which plagued the hunters at the beginning of the season."

There has also been a marked decline in the number of elk shot and to date only 11 kills have been recorded.

The season on migratory birds in the Nelson area closes December 16 under the migratory birds regulations laid down in the Fish and Game regulations.

"There has been quite a population of migratory birds brought out of the area this season, despite the few hunters that go out for birds in the district," Mr. Rutherglen commented.

Several cases of dogs running deer in nearly all districts have been reported in the East and West Kootenays and a firmer stand will be taken to deter the use of dogs in this capacity.

District residents have reported that cougars have been sighted in the area and two were reported killed this month as a result of complaints received.

League Officials See Intruder Arraigned

GRANDE PRAIRIE, Alta. (CP) — A charge of attempting to endanger the life of another was laid Monday against James Guiltner, 34, of Dawson Creek, B.C., after an incident at a hockey league meeting in November.

Guiltner was originally charged with attempted arson but this charge was dropped and he was remanded to Jan. 5 on the new count. No plea was entered.

The charge arose from a meeting of the South Peace Hockey League when a man burst into the meeting carrying a crude gasoline bomb. The man fled after being tackled by league officials.

Specifically, the charge cites Guiltner for "endangering the life of an individual, Barry Phillips, by attempting to ignite a container of gasoline."

Magistrate R. E. Baynes continued Guiltner's bail of $500 and told both the crown and defence to be prepared to proceed with the trial Jan. 5.

Varsity Hockey, Basketball Finals Set for Winnipeg

TORONTO (CP) — Canadian university championship games in 1966 in hockey and basketball will be played March 13-14 in Winnipeg and Halifax respectively, the Canadian Intercollegiate Athletic Union decided Monday.

A special meeting of the union's board of governors and administrative committee also decided that after 1966, all national finals must be completed by March 10, so students can study for final examinations.

The union also gave permission to the University of Manitoba to stage an invitational indoor track and field meet in Winnipeg next Feb. 27. Invitations will be issued to collegiate and non-collegiate track stars from Canada and the United States.

Racing Meet Votes to Reduce Weight Allowance

EDMONTON (CP)—Delegates to the third annual national racing conference recommended Monday that the weight allowance currently granted to Canadian-bred thoroughbreds in open races, be discontinued or reduced.

Representatives of flat-racing at the joint conference, meeting in committee, agreed there was some basis for protection of the interests of Canadian owners and breeders.

Scotty Kennedy of Winnipeg, general manager of Assiniboia Downs, said, however, he believed horsemen should eliminate "this subsidization of mediocrity.

"If the allowance is to be continued, we should provide three-pound concessions to two and three-year-old horses."

Older horses would be forced to run in open competition without an allowance.

Most Canadian organizations currently provide a five-pound allowance for young horses and three pounds for those four and over.

The allowance does not apply in stakes or handicaps or in races restricted to Canadian entries.

Leafs May Lose Stanley as Result Of Groin Injury

TORONTO (CP) — Defenceman Allan Stanley of Toronto Maple Leafs may miss Thursday's National Hockey League game against the Canadiens in Montreal.

Stanley suffered a groin injury in Saturday night's game against Boston Bruins in Toronto and was used infrequently in Sunday's game in New York against the Rangers.

Both Stanley and Don McKenney, Leaf left winger, missed Monday's practice. McKenney also suffered a groin injury Sunday but is expected to play against the Canadiens.

Norm Johnson Leads WHL Scoring Race

SEATTLE (AP)—Norm Johnson of Los Angeles blazed into first place in the Western Hockey League scoring race with three goals and assists on four others last week, the league office reported today.

Carlos Ortiz Wins Non-Title Contest

BOSTON (AP)—Carlos Ortiz, world lightweight boxing champion, won a technical knockout over Dick Divola of Boston at 2:07 of the first round in a non-title bout on a special card at Boston Garden Monday night.

Ortiz, who weighed 140½ pounds, watched Divola's tactics for about a minute and then floored the local favorite with a solid left cross to the head.

He dropped the 136½-pound Divola again a few seconds later with a brief flurry of lefts and one right. Referee Jimmy McCarron halted the bout as Divola climbed to his feet.

It was the 18th knockout of his career for Ortiz who now has won 28 fights against four losses.

PUTTERING WAY TO TITLE—Jack Nicklaus is doing the putting here during the final round of the Canada Cup International matches at Kaanapali, Maui, Hawaii, and it was good enough all day for Jack to fire a 70 and win the individual title from his teammate, Arnold Palmer. The two combined to give the U.S. its fifth straight win.

Kentucky Becomes First SEC College For Negro Players

LEXINGTON, Ky. (AP)—The University of Kentucky has become the first southeastern conference school to recruit Negro football players, the Associated Press learned Monday.

The attempt to integrate major athletic teams at Kentucky is the second this year. The school failed last spring in its bid to sign a Negro baskeball player.

Kentucky football coach Charlie Bradshaw said his plans call for signing of about five more players from Kentucky. It was learned that one of these is Garnett Phelps, a Negro quarterback at Louisville Male High.

British Fighter Reclaims Title

NOTTINGHAM, England (AP)—Wally Swift, 28-year-old former British welterweight boxing champion, used a smart left to dethrone Mick Leahy, 29, Monday night as the British middleweight champion.

Leahy weighed 159 pounds, Swift 157¾.

The fight ended without a knockdown and the points margin in favor of Swift was narrow.

Leahy forced much of the fight but Swift's better left did the damage in the later stages and Leahy was outboxed at the end.

Announce New Healing Substance: Shrinks Piles

Exclusive healing substance proven to shrink hemorrhoids and repair damaged tissue.

A renowned research institute has found a unique healing substance with the ability to shrink hemorrhoids painlessly. It relieves itching and discomfort in minutes and speeds up healing of the injured, inflamed tissue.

In case after case, while gently relieving pain, actual reduction (shrinkage) took place.

Most important of all—results were so thorough that this improvement was maintained over a period of many months.

This was accomplished with a new healing substance (Bio-Dyne) which quickly helps heal injured cells and stimulates growth of new tissue.

Now Bio-Dyne is offered in ointment and suppository form called Preparation H. Ask for it at all drug stores—money back guarantee.

Losers May Be Sad, but 1964 Turned Into Great Year at Canadian Tracks

By BEN WARD
Canadian Press Staff Writer

Losers may find it difficult to believe, but 1964 was a great year at Canada's racetracks. Betting on the thoroughbreds soared to $161,515,313 and set a national record for the 15th season in a row.

It was a healthy jump from the $153,506,144 that bettors shoved through the pari-mutuel windows in 1963.

Quebec, Ontario, Saskatchewan, Alberta and British Columbia reported provincial betting records. Manitoba, the only other province with thoroughbred racing, missed a record in a photo finish.

The four Atlantic provinces have only harness racing which is not covered in the thoroughbred figures but is compiled later.

A Cross-Canada Survey by The Canadian Press showed 18 tracks were in action a total of 497 racing days, compared with 18 and 493 days last year.

All but two of the tracks reported 1964 betting at an all-time high. The exceptions were Winnipeg's Assiniboia Downs, only thoroughbred track in Manitoba, where the handle of $8,328,965 was just $21,000 off the 1962 record, and Toronto Woodbine.

ONTARIO BETTORS BUSY

Lucky horse - players took home about $134,000,000 of the total amount wagered. The tracks kept $15,500,000 for purses and profit, provincial governments took a tax bite of $11,200,000 and the federal government collected about $800,000 as a fee for supervisory services. They include film patrol, saliva tests and RCMP surveillance.

As usual, Ontario's three big tracks accounted for about 60 per cent of the national betting total. Fans at Fort Erie, Toronto Woodbine and Toronto Greenwood backed their choices with $99,464,915 in cold cash, compared with $96,483,152 last year.

The Ontario racing season was unchanged at 196 days. Attendance was down slightly at 1,677,680, blamed chiefly on some conflict with harness racing dates, but per-capita betting rose to $59.31 from $56.71.

Montreal's Blue Bonnets Raceway, only track in Quebec, took in $15,562,205 for an increase of nearly 14 per cent over the 1963 betting total. Attendance on the 42 race days, same number as last year, rose five per cent to 391,462.

TRACK EXPANDS

A $5,000,000 expansion and renovation program is under way at Blue Bonnets this winter and track officials predict a big gain in every department for 1965. Weather was a problem this season, crippling attendance on 10 days.

Although it missed the record, the take at Assiniboia Downs was three per cent above 1963 on an identical 42-day season and the final day saw the one - race betting mark broken twice.

Saskatchewan's three tracks reflected the general rise in Prairie prosperity resulting from the massive wheat crop of 1963 and the subsequent export sales.

Lou Davies of Edmonton, general manager of the Western Canada Racing Association, also credited the dazzling performance of Northern Dancer, the Canadian horse that won the 1964 Kentucky Derby, with stirring new racing interest in the West.

Whatever the reason, Saskatchewan folk flocked to the tracks and put down $2,188,729, compared with $2,025,083 the year before.

It was much the same story in Alberta where six tracks took in $16,744,394 for a gain of $1,423,730.

The 18-day season was unchanged in Saskatchewan but Alberta tracks had 68, one day more than in 1963.

B.C. BETTING UP

British Columbia added three days to its 108-day race program of 1963 and watched $19,226,105 roll in from eager fans. This was up from $17,947,267 last year.

Most of the gain was at Exhibition Park, Vancouver, which drew more than 560,000 fans in 86 days.

The picture by province, with 1963 figures bracketed:

Quebec: Blue Bonnets, $15,562,205 ($13,654,825).

Ontario: Woodbine, $39,042,560 ($39,912,596); Greenwood (formerly Old Woodbine), $28,926,995 ($28,306,061); Fort Erie, $31,495,360 ($28,264,495).

Manitoba: Assiniboia Downs, $8,328,965 ($8,075,153).

Saskatchewan: Regina, $1,314,120 ($1,234,685); Saskatoon, $839,176 ($760,496); Prince Albert, $35,433 ($29,902).

Alberta: Edmonton $9,508,048 ($8,411,539); Calgary $6,783,543 ($6,530,932); Lethbridge, $414,761 ($356,973); Millarville, $23,098 ($9,384); Lake McGregor, $9,016 ($6,318); Stettler, $5,928 ($5,518).

British Columbia: Vancouver, $17,458,498 ($16,225,037); Victoria, $1,739,263 ($1,709,028); Prince George, $18,026 ($5,478); Williams Lake, $10,318 ($7,724).

Tom White—Inventor Of 'Mobile Hockey Puck'

By JOHN MOSHER

SAINT JOHN, N.B. (CP)—Tom White has produced a couple of hockey inventions to enable "every kid to play without needing a rink."

One is a "mobile hockey puck," the other a "hockey stick road adapter."

White, 49-year-old grocer who represented Canada in speedskating at the 1936 Olympics in Germany, has applied for patents. And invention brokers in the United States have submitted the designs to 117 sporting goods manufacturers in Canada and the U.S.

The two flat sides of the standard-size puck are fitted with round rollers. Similar rollers would be attachable to the bottom of the hockey stick blade.

The idea is to eliminate friction on level non-ice surfaces, such as the road or lane, allowing the puck to move freely and reducing wear on the stick.

For years White had noticed the common autumn and spring sight of boys trying to play hockey on pavement, ground or any available level - surfaced area. They usually use a ball which bounces and is difficult to control.

HELPED SON

Since he had concentrated on speedskating as a youth, he brought a fresh approach to street hockey when he began trying to teach his son Frank how to shoot a puck.

He tried using a piece of linoleum or a slab of wood as a platform from which to fire the shots but this wasn't successful as a substitute for the smoothness of ice.

"Friction from pavement or ground hinders free movement of the puck and quickly wears down the stick, like a wood rasp. That gave me the idea of overcoming friction by using rollers for otherwise standard hockey equipment.

"I think the slapshot may have originated from the way kids practise when ice isn't available for them. They can't slide the stick along a rough surface very well so the inclination is to take a slap at the puck.

"The improvements I've devised will allow boys to use a small area in spring, summer and fall in learning to shoot and stickhandle. This will leave them free in winter to develop skating, which is 90 per cent of hockey."

SPEED HIKER

Owen F. Allen holds the speed hiking record for the 2,050-mile Appalachian Trail in the U.S.—98 days, established in 1960.

Soviet Coach Unimpressed By National League Play

TORONTO (CP)—Coach Anatoli Tarasov watched Toronto Maple Leafs defeat Boston Bruins 6-3 Saturday night and concluded that Canada's professionals haven't improved too much of late.

"It is a matter of biology," Tarasov said after he and his Russian - Olympic hockey champions watched the National Hockey League game at Maple Leaf Gardens.

"It is like when a tree stands by itself. It gets lonely and dries out. So with your pros. They have no opponents, so they get no stronger. One of your good pro teams should meet a good amateur team and establish who is better.

"If we played your pros, however, you would be pleased at the performance. We would play the NHL if it played within our rules."

LIMIT BODYCHECKING

Under the international rules adherred to by the Russians, bodychecking is allowed only by the defending team in its own end, and the puck has to be carried out rather than shot the length of the ice during a penalty.

Tarasov applauds bodychecking. "It is very good technically," he said. "But unlike some of your pros, we treasure an athlete's health."

There were only two players in Saturday's game that impressed the Russian coach. They were Toronto defenceman Tim Horton and his rookie teammate Ron Ellis.

"Number seven (Tim Horton) is very good on defence. And number 11 (Ron Ellis) is young and very fast one."

Horton was a member of the NHL All-Star team last season, and Ellis Saturday night became the first Leaf player to score 10 goals this season.

Five Alternates Named To WIHL All-Star Team

Western International Hockey League All-Star coach, Bobby Kromm Monday named five alternates to the squad which will oppose the touring Russian national team in Trail, December 23.

They are forwards Leroy Mowery of Nelson Maple Leafs, John Kenny of Kimberley Dynamiters an Ron Bahr of Spokane Jets; defenceman Larry McLaren of Trail Smoke Eaters and goaltender Dave Cox of Spokane Jets.

The group will be called upon should any member of the All-Star team be injured in regular league games before the All-Star contest.

"Choosing an All-Star team is a great honor but it's a tough job," Kromm said. "There are so many fine players you have to bypass simply because there is not enough room for everybody who deserves a berth."

Marciano Doesn't Expect Cassius To Retain Crown

AMERICUS, Ga. (AP)—Rocky Marciano said Monday he doesn't expect Cassius Clay to hold on long to the world's heavyweight boxing crown which he lifted from Sonny Liston.

The former champion predicted that Liston will regain the title "if he doesn't get too old before they meet."

The return match, postponed because of Clay's hernia operation, is set tentatively for April. Marciano doubts that it will come off that early. He thinks it will be put off for one reason or another to June or July, maybe later.

The delay, he said in an interview, may hurt Liston because the challenger was all primed and keyed up at the time of the postponement and may suffer from the let-down.

Marciano, who retired in 1955 after 49 straight triumphs and no defeats, now is a businessman with varied interests.

Dornhoefer Put On Loan to Seals

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—San Francisco Seals have acquired right-winger Gary Dornhoefer on loan from Boston Bruins of the NHL, the Seals announced on Monday.

Dornhoefer is a rangy, six-foot-two, 21-year-old who weighs 175 pounds. He was last year's runnerup for the NHL rookie of the year award.

In 32 games with the Bruins he collected 22 points on 12 goals and 10 assists.

"Real happy to get him," said Seals manager-coach Bud Poile

"He should help us in our drive for a playoff spot," said Poile.

Reds Trade Bob Purkey To St. Louis

CINCINNATI (AP) — Cincinnati Reds said Monday they have traded pitcher Bob Purkey and a minor league player to St. Louis for Roger Craig, the famous former New York Mets loser, and outfielder Charley James.

"We're hopeful that Craig will be our right-hand relief man and that James will give us an extra right-hand hitter in the outfield," said owner-General Manager Bill DeWitt.

The 35-year-old Purkey compiled a 11-9 record last season. His earned run average was 3.03. The good-humored right-hander's best years were 1960-62 with records of 11-11, 16-12 and 23-5, respectively.

Craig won seven games and lost nine last season while hurling in 39 games for the Cardinals. The 35-year-old former Dodger broke into the major leagues in 1955 while the team was still in Brooklyn, later joining the New York Mets. In 1963, Craig finished with a 5-22 record, leading the league in defeats. Last season he had an E.R.A. of 3.25.

James batted .223 in 88 games with the Cardinals last year

Curling Finals Set for Scotland

TORONTO (CP) — The seventh annual international curling championship will be played in Perth, Scotland, March 15-18, it was announced Monday.

The six-team competition was held outside of Scotland for the first time last March in Calgary.

Competing in the four-day series will be Canada, Scotland, Norway, Sweden, Switzerland and the United States. The six teams will follow the same format introduced in Calgary—a single round robin followed by a knock-out playoff, with the first and fourth and second and third rinks meeting in a semi-final and the two winners in the final.

Canada is the defending champion, having won the title and the Scotch Cup six times.

MARKET TRENDS

NEW YORK (AP)—The stock market resumed its downward trend Monday with buying interest too light to counteract long-term profit-taking and tax-loss selling.

Volume fell off to 4,340,000 shares from 4,540,000 Friday and was the smallest since Dec. 3 when 4,270,000 shares changed hands.

The Dow Jones industrial average declined 3.69 to 860.65.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks took a fairly sharp loss of 1.1 at 321.2.

General Motors bucked the downward trend with a gain of 1⅛.

Chrysler lost 1⅜, Ford ½, American Motors and Studebaker ⅛ each.

Comsat continued to occupy the spotlight, making a new high as it advanced 6⅛ to 70¾ on 194,900 shares, making it by far the most active stock.

In golds, Homestake rose 1¾, American South African Investment 2⅝, Campbell Red Lake 1⅛, Dome Mines 1⅞ and McIntyre Porcupine 2½.

Among Other Canadian issues traded, Hudson Bay Mining gained ½, Canadian Pacific ⅛. Distillers Seagrams lost 1¾, International Nickel ½, Granby Mining ⅛.

Prices were generally lower on the American Stock Exchange. Preston gained 3-16, Canadian Javelin ⅛, Cargo Oil 1-16. Scurry Rainbow Oil lost 1⅛, Jupiter Corp. and Canadian Marconi ⅛, Molybdenite 1-16.

TORONTO (CP)—Gold stocks drew investor interest away from industrials in moderately heavy trading on the Toronto Stock Exchange Monday.

Golds advanced sharply with individual stocks and the 12-stock gold index establishing several record levels. Behind the gain was speculation that an increase in the price of gold may be forthcoming.

Sunday the National Planning Association—made up of business and labor leaders—issued a report by its steering committee which recommended that the price of gold be doubled from its present level of $35 (U.S. funds) an ounce. Such a move would alleviate the cost-price squeeze Canadian gold producers are caught in, and advance by stocks Monday mirrored this hope.

Dome Mines rose 2½ to a high of 40¾ and Campbell Red Lake ½ to 21½, also a high. Giant Yellowknife was ahead ¼ to 16⅛ and Dickenson 20 cents to $5.70.

INDEX JUMPS

The gold index jumped 5.89 to a record 166.97.

Among industrials, Abitibi lost ⅝ to 12⅞.

Interprovincial Pipe rose 1¼ to 95.

Hudson's Bay rose ¼ to 16¾ in slow senior Western oils trade.

On index, industrials fell .28 to 162.31 and the TSE index .13 to 151.96. Base metals rose .38 to 71.38 and western oils .21 to 92.88. Volume Monday was 4,696,000 shares compared with 4,061,000 shares traded Friday.

MONTREAL (CP) — Stocks fell off late Monday to close fractionally lower in moderate industrial trade on the Montreal and Canadian Stock Exchanges.

Industrial volume was 117,100 shares and 876,300 mines and oils issues changed hands.

The composite index dropped 0.4 on the day to 153.2 as declines outnumbered advances 96 to 76.

Papers lost 0.4 on index to 132.9. Fraser dropped ½ to 33 and MacMillan, Bloedel ¼ to 32. Greater Lakes added ½ to 23½.

In industrials, Moore Corp. gained 1¾ to 58¾.

In utilities, Trans - Canada Pipe Lines slipped ¼ to 19¾ and B.C. Telephone and CPR ⅛ each to 66⅝ and 52¼.

Among the other sections senior base metals, food and beverage, machinery and trade and finance issues lost ground while senior oils and primary metals registered gains.

Christmas Cards Add to Postman's Toil

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Canadian postmen will reel under the weight of more than 200,000,000 Christmas cards this month if the estimates of greeting card companies prove accurate.

Cards with religious themes are once again most popular, although there is also a strong trend toward modern designs.

A general rise in sales of Christmas cards is reflected in the increase in the number printed for such organizations as the Canadian Save the Children Fund and UNICEF.

UNICEF says it had 650,000 boxes of 10 cards each out on consignment before Dec. 1, as many as the total of all sales last Christmas. And the Save the Children Fund ordered 150,000 more cards than in 1963.

Most popular among designs offered by the fund is an adoration of the shepherds, a copy of a painting by Italian artist Guido Reni used with the permission of the National Gallery in Ottawa. Their other designs were donated by Canadian artists, including one chosen by fund officials from the work of high school students.

Some commercial firms are also emphasizing Canadian cards, many with the perennially popular, traditional Christmas scenes. In Montreal the favorites are old French-Canadian scenes in contemporary style, done on fabric.

Average price for cards is about 15 cents though Canadian cards, especially the hand-processed ones, average slightly more. Some cards run a dollar or more each and several retailers say they are selling more higher-priced cards than in past years.

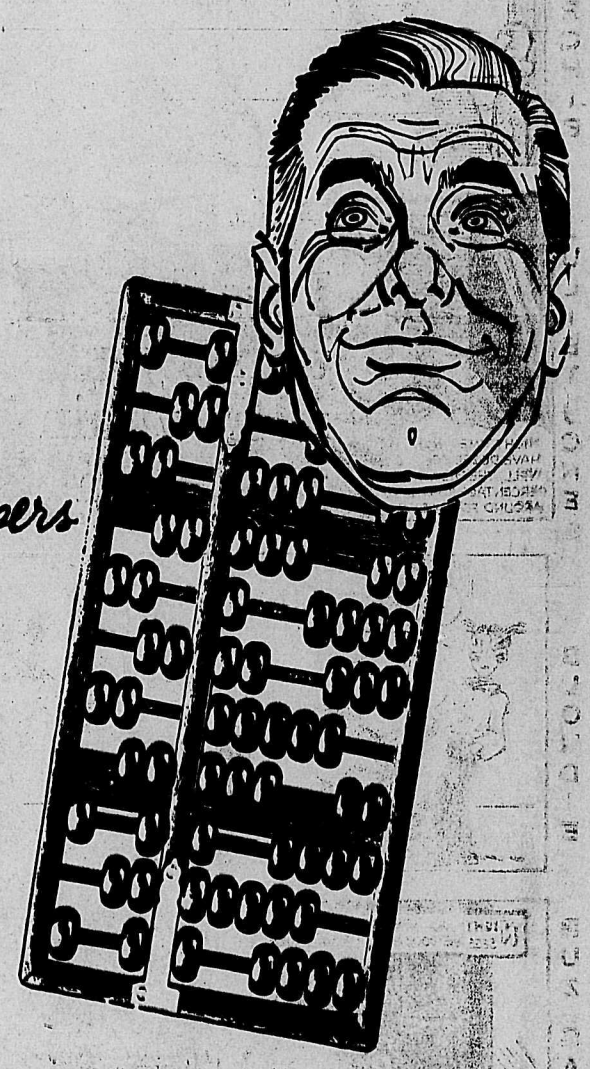
FOR Advertisers...



When you advertise in daily newspapers you know the size of your audience!

Your advertising budget has a big and vital job in building sales. The very health of your business depends on it. Hence, there should never be any substantial doubts about the size of the audience you reach, nor about the complete validity of the figures!

Some audience figures have been subject to a great deal of suspicion and mistrust and have come under serious fire from many sources. It will take a good deal of refurbishing before anyone can advance them as statistically and accurately sound.

Daily newspaper advertisers are able to buy a potential audience of known size on a basis of audited, responsible figures which for almost 50 years have been acceptable.

The Audit Bureau of Circulations, a buyer-controlled organization was organized to provide believable, reliable and provable circulation figures. A.B.C. protects the interests of daily newspaper advertisers that they may know exactly the size of their audience, where it is, and much more.

If you want to know what your advertising dollars buy, ask for a copy of our current A.B.C. report.

Fanciful figures are no match for facts!

BABY SNATCHER SOUGHT BY SCOTLAND YARD

LONDON (AP) — Scotland Yard ordered special patrols to St. James Park Monday to protect children from a baby snatcher who throws his victims into a lake.

The park, just across the road from Buckingham Palace, is a favorite airing ground for Prince Edward, infant son of the Queen, and his four-year-old brother Prince Andrew.

Detectives said that in the last week five children have been pitched into the lake near the park's teahouse. All were fished out safely, and the attacker — a man in his early 20s — ran off in the confusion.

The royal children are always accompanied in the park by one or two nursemaids and a detective. They have not been molested.

DEATH NOTICE

MacGREGOR — Mr. James Smith MacGregor of 724 Mill Street, Nelson, died at his home Monday, December 14th, aged 81 years. Funeral arrangements will be announced later. Thompson Funeral Service.

Tot Saved

NORTH VANCOUVER (CP)—A 19-month-old girl was snatched out of a burning house here Sunday, seconds before flames exploded into her room.

Richard Johnson, a neighbor, said he had just passed little Lea Kirkham out a second-storey storey window into the arms of her father, and was going out himself when the room became a blowtorch.

"It was stifling hot in there," he said. "Just as I got my foot out the window to get away the door blew in with the heat and flames swept into the room.

"The flames quickly filled the room and began shooting four or five feet out the window."

Both men jumped from the verandah roof after the baby had been handed down to a neighbor.

Laurence Kirkham, awakened by the sound of his child's cries, had carried three older children to safety before he and Mr. Johnson climbed onto the verandah and broke a window to get to her room.

Mr. Kirkham was the only casualty of the fire. He injured his ankle as he jumped from the roof.

Mrs. Kirkham was away at the time of the fire.

The Record Rack

by The Sour Notes

CARMEN (Vienna Philharmonic Orchestra and Vienna State Chorus).

In bringing Bizet's immortal classic to brilliant life with the most magnificent recording performances of their respective careers, Robert Merrill and Franco Coreli are overshadowed by the angelic offering of Leontyne Price as the most unangelic Carmen.

The New York critic who said of Miss Price:

"She turns everything into pure vocal gold," was guilty of an understatement.

Any attempt to find words to describe her exquisite flawless portrayal of the exciting faithless gypsy girl would result in understatement.

Her rendition of the Gypsy Song during the Tavern scene will probably never be equalled.

From the tense tobacco factory opening gambit to the tragic climax, the cast, choir and orchestra perform brilliantly.

As the most recent release in the popular Soria series, the three-piece album comes complete with an illustrated translated booklet and offers the perfect solution for the Christmas shopper whose list includes a music lover.

DRACULA'S FINEST HITS (Gene Moss).

From the crypts of Transylvania crawl the wierdest collection of creatures ever assembled in one record.

Count Dracula (Gene Moss) introduces the vocal talents of Frankenstein's monster, Godzilla, King Kong and assorted ghoulish creatures in this zany offering — the wackiest novelty record of the season.

Dracula leaves no rock unturned in his efforts to assemble a creepy choir.

The exploits of Jack the Ripper are extolled to the tune of "Little Brown Jug" while Frankenstein's tale is told to the melody of "My Darling Clementine."

Dracula paraphrases the Beetles with "I want to bite your hand!"

They sleep by day and kill by night.

Teen age chuckles with a grisly beat.

THE ORIGINAL RECORDINGS OF GLENN MILLER.

Memories of the tense but somehow wonderfully rewarding war years come cascading back through this fine re-release of the traditional Glenn Miller favorites played only as the old master's original brass band could play them.

Twenty years after the tragic death of the great arranger, his "swinging new" sound comes through loud and clear to create a new generation of Glenn Miller fans.

Miller at his smooth-swinging best.

MUSIC FOR DANCING (By The Living Strings).

The release of each new album by this most listenable group is an enthusiastically awaited event for Living Strings fans.

Music for Dancing will do nothing to change their attitude.

This unique album provides the perfect change of pace for the yuletide house parties.

Arranged and conducted by Gwraldo, Music For Dancing runs the gamut from waltz to bossa-nova; foxtrot to twist and meranque.

Irresistible rhythms whisk the listener from his chair, onto the dance floor and around the room with a wonderful diversification of musical magic.

Sweet sound by the Living Strings.

WELCOME TO THE PONDEROSA (By Lorne Greene).

From the sprawling Ponderosa comes the familiar voice of Ben Cartwright, reliving the legends of the old west and explaining in song, the history of the Ponderosa.

The booming bass-baritone, which became so familiar to Canadian radio audiences, as the CBC newscasting, "Voice of Doom," during the war years recounts the story of Ringo, the desperado with a heart, the sad tale of a miner and his dreams which were never realized as well as the history of the fabulous Ponderosa.

Greene reveals previously unsuspected vocal talents as he whisks his listener back into the wonderful world of the American frontier.

A visit to the Ponderosa.

RUBENSTEIN - CHOPIN WALTZES.

The piano artistry of the timeless Artur Rubinstein lends grandeur to Chopin's magnificent waltzes.

Rubinstein brings to his performance the sensitive understanding of Chopin which so many have imitated but none duplicated.

His newest interpretations of Chopin's waltzes, recorded now, for the second time in a decade, are perhaps his greatest in the more than 50 years during which he has been recognized as one of the world's foremost concert pianists.

Rubinstein was never greater than when displaying his magnificent dexterity through the difficult passages of "Waltz in A Flat Minor, Opus 34.

MUSIC WITH A HAPPY BEAT (By Living Strings and Living Voices.)

Arranger-conductor Johnny Douglas skillfully blends the Living Strings and Living Voices to produce delightful renditions of old standards combined with a pleasing selection of bouncy young numbers.

Their rich orchestrations give a vibrant new meaning to recent teen-age hits such as "White on White" and "Don't Let the Rains Come Down" while retaining the beauty and nostalgia of "Wheel of Fortune" and "Memories Are Made of This."

Presented in the Living Strings' smooth subdued style that never fails to please.

Canadian Brewer Wins U.K. Award For Best Beer

LONDON (CP) — Canadian was presented Monday with a silver trophy for the best bottled ver trophy for the best bottled beer in Commonwealth countries excluding Britain.

The trophy, won at a recent brewer's exhibition in London against competition from 21 Commonwealth countries, is awarded every four years by the British publication Brewers' Guardian, one of the trade papers owned by Canadian-born Lord Thomson of Fleet.

The ale is brewed in Vancouver. It won in all classes after a panel of 25 leading British brewers judged it on color, "nose," or bouquet, and taste.

At the presentation Taylor told a reporter that he first entered the British market about 11 years ago.

"Soon after that I observed the trend towards amalgamation — in this country you've either got to be very big or very small to be a success in the brewing industry."

The Ottawa-born industrialist now has interests in 14 British breweries. He said he plans to extend operations into the Far East next year with a brewery in Hong Kong.

In one year a jet plane can carry as many passengers from North America to Europe as the largest ship can transport in the same time.

Your Individual Horoscope

By Frances Drake

Look in the section in which your birthday comes, and find what your outlook is, according to the stars,

For Wednesday, Dec. 16, 1964

MARCH 21 to APRIL 20 (Aries)—Curb erratic tendencies now. In your innately capable and unobtrusive manner, guide your activiites and interests through constructive channels. Emphasize your best skills.

APRIL 21 to MAY 21 (Taurus) —Don't rely on "hunches" now. Instinct only aids when backed by knowledge, study, experience, data. Seek facts.

MAY 22 to JUNE 21 (Gemini) —For you, too, know-how will result from accurate information and facts — not fancies or wishful thinking. Avoid extremes.

JUNE 22 to JULY 23 (Cancer) Tabulate what really are essentials and handle them aggressively, but with due regard for others' joint and individual interests. Make no hasty decisions where important moves are concerned.

JULY 24 to AUGUST 23 (Leo) —If something is not going as it should, stop, investigate, ask questions, and re-trace steps if necessary. Much can always be done to eliminate — and counteract — errors.

AUGUST 24 to SEPTEMBER 23 (Virgo) — Review the inner forces that drive you. Are you sure you are on the right course and that you are looking at all sides of the picture? Day's aspects ask for better-than-average effort.

SEPTEMBER 24 to OCTOBER 23 (Libra) — Is your routine due for a tuning up? Then get busy, for others about you are — and are accomplishing. Emphasize the Libran's famous sense of balance.

OCTOBER 24 to NOVEMBER 22 (Scorpio) — Present aspects suggest keen observance of conditions and situations before embarking upon new ventures; in everyday matters, too. Be sure just where you stand.

NOVEMBER 23 to DECEMBER 21 (Sagittarius) — To be avoided: irrational moves, hasty conclusions, misjudgment through carelessness or prejudice. Not hard for you to shun when you are your clear-sighted self.

DECEMBER 22 to JANUARY 20 (Capricorn) — You can cut down costs tremendously — in both time and money — by heeding well-founded advice, looking for all clues, weighing all facts.

JANUARY 21 to FEBRUARY 19 (Aquarius) — A period for review, realignment, rebuilding, and re-studying what you though you knew all about. Make certain that you are quite sure about what you want.

FEBRUARY 20 to MARCH 20 (Pisces) — You may have to make some concessions now, but this would be better than losing out altogether.. Some small benefits indicated, Build on integrity.

YOU BORN TODAY are endowed with keen wit, sociable instincts, unusual and to-the-point ideas and a good knowledge of psychology; can be stubborn, quietly willful, and forceful to gain your point, also. The Sagittarian who lives on the higher plane will be a lovable charmer, and the recipient of many gifts and favors from close and unexpected sources.. Never yield to gloom or disillusionment; neither should you trust blindly. Do not lose faith in men, for mankind depends greatly upon the compassion and philosophy of those in your zodiacal sector. You have a big job to do well in this world.
