Yukon Appears to Favor Merger

Railroad Completed Into N.W. Territories

EDMONTON (CP) — Track laying for Canada's first railroad into the Northwest Territories — the $86,000,000 Great Slave Lake Railroad—was completed Thursday in Hay River, about 14 months ahead of schedule.

Built primarily to haul lead-zinc products from the rich deposits at Pine Point, 55 miles east of Hay River, the railroad stretches 377 miles from Roma, near Peace River, Alta., about 300 miles northwest of Edmonton, to the southern shore of Great Slave Lake.

The spur line to Pine Point was completed earlier this year and will be open to traffic Nov. 15, CNR officials said Friday.

G. R. Graham, vice - president of the CNR's Mountain Region, said the railway would not be completely finished until 1966 or 1967 although work now is far ahead of schedule.

STARTED IN 1962

As it now stands, the railway is a skeleton snaking through the northern wilderness, and months of work are necessary to complete grades and ballasting.

Construction of Canada's newest railway was started in February 1962, and Northern Affairs Minister Laing officiated at a special spike-driving ceremony Aug. 30 when the tracks crossed the 60th parallel into the Northwest Territories.

By 1966, and possibly sooner, the frontier line will be carrying lead and zinc at the rate of 215,000 tons annually to Peace River. From there it will be shipped to Consolidated Mining and Smelting Company's processing plant at Trail, B.C.

In the vast area between Peace River and the railroad's terminal point there is evidence of great growth on many fronts. New mills and grain elevators have gone up, and oil drilling rigs, service stations and tourist accommodation abound, surrounded by thousands of acres of newly - cleared farm land.

The Great Slave Railroad has pushed back the northern frontier another 375 miles.

Likes Roads Idea, But Wants To Keep Its Own Identity

VICTORIA (CP) — Recreation and Conservation Minister Ken Kiernan has returned from a goodwill journey into the Yukon and said Friday he is convinced there is strong support for Premier W. A. C. Bennett's plan for political union with British Columbia.

But he said those in favor of the merger want the assurance they will be able to retain their identity as Yukoners just as much as they want good highways.

Mr. Kiernan went to Whitehorse last Monday to explain Premier Bennett's offer to spend $300,000,000 building roads in the north if the Yukon and part of the Northwest Territories join B.C.

The minister said he discussed the scheme with more than 500 people in the Yukon capital, including businessmen, civil servants, geologists and the public generally.

He said talks with government officials revealed that many of the Yukon's administrative problems are similar to those in B.C.

"I have the impression the merger is looked upon with considerable favor by a lot of people. I came away with the feeling that if left to the business people the Yukon would probably go strongly in favor," he said.

Mr. Kiernan said the businessmen realize that development in the north has been slowed by lack of good highways.

"The chamber of commerce intends to set up a committee to give further study to the merger proposal and will likely follow this up with a plebiscite," he said.

"I told them B.C. is not prepared to take in their territory against the will of the people and that unless there is such an expression we wouldn't press further.

"We're not the bidder in an auction sale."

He said it may be necessary to hold further talks on the merger question either in Whitehorse or Victoria.

U.K. Builders Impressed On Tour Here

OTTAWA (CP)—A group of British home builders, fresh from a two-wek tour of Canada, is going home impressed with Canadian materials and building know-how.

Raymond O. Gerrard, leader of the 26-man mission invited here by the trade department, told a press conference:

"Give a chap a box of nails and a hammer here and he's away."

The mission, which visited Vancouver, Calgary, Toronto and Ottawa, is the second part of a three-phase project by the trade department to introduce Canadian construction methods to Britain. The object is to increase exports of lumber and other building materials.

Mr. Gerrard said his delegation's recommendations "will broadly encourage our people to use more timber." The mission included directors of 10 British construction firms.

The builders were impressed with Canadian methods of dressing and packaging lumber of "rationalized lengths" for easier application to building.

Students Warned Against "False Aristocracy"

VANCOUVER (CP) — Professor Hugh Trevor-Roper, distinguished British historian, warned Friday against university graduates becoming what he termed a "false aristocracy."

"In our status-ridden society, the university degree is tending to become a status symbol," he told 800 University of B.C. graduates at their fall congregation.

Extra Police Charge Draws Bonner Protest

VANCOUVER (CP)—Attorney-General Robert Bonner said Thursday the federal government proposes to charge $2,000,000 more a year for RCMP service in British Columbia and he plans a "profound protest."

Mr. Bonner said he will state his objections when attorney-generals of eight provinces served by the RCMP meet justice department officials in Ottawa Monday.

The new annual bill for B.C. would be slightly over $4,000,000.

"In return we would receive essentially the same RCMP services we are now getting. I plan to enter a profound protest."

Provincial authorities were informed last month that the present RCMP policing contract in B.C. would expire next May for the 700 men deployed in the province.

Mr. Bonner hinted at that time that if the federal government planned sweeping changes that B.C. might take steps of its own.

He refused to elaborate and would not discuss his statement Thursday.

Christmas Mailing Started

VANCOUVER (CP) — Post office officials said Friday they are glad to see Canadians are doing their Christmas mailing early — but some of the recipients won't be so happy.

"We're getting about 200 Christmas cards a day through here, mostly for overseas points, with two-cent stamps on them instead of three-cent stamps," a spokesman said.

He said the price went up a penny last April on cards in unsealed envelopes.

The Post Office forwards the cut-rate cards, but charges the receiver twice the amount owing.

Gov't Buys Park Land

VICTORIA (CP) — The provincial government will pay $30,000 for 32 acres of privately owned land within the boundaries of Bowron Lake Park in north-central B.C., and is negotiating for purchase of one or two more properties within the park.

An order in council Friday authorized payment of $15,000 to Paul Sidney Dannhauer and the same amount to partners Eugene Byron Krouse and Paul Pavich.

The three men acquired the land and built cabins on it before 300,000-acre Bowron Lake Park was established in 1961.

Parks director Harold MacWilliams said the government wants to get rid of private development within the park boundaries.

Glenn Gets Clean Bill Of Health

SAN ANTONIO, Tex. (AP) — Marine Col. John H. Glenn Jr. got a clean bill of health Friday from his doctors — something he'd waited nine months to hear.

However, the 43-year-old former U.S. astronaut still plans to retire from the marines "sometime around the first of the year."

Glenn had resigned as an astronaut and was planning to run for the U.S. Senate in Ohio when he fell Feb. 26 in the bathroom of his Columbus, Ohio apartment, struck his head against the bathtub and injured his inner ear.

He became the first American to orbit the earth Feb. 20, 1962, when he circled the globe three times in 4 hours, 55 minutes and 23 seconds.

Jessup To Succeed Applewhaite

VICTORIA (CP) — Former Prince Rupert Magistrate Harvey Charles Jessup will return to the bench Nov. 15 to fill the vacancy caused last month by the death of Magistrate E. T. Applewhaite.

Mr. Jessup served as magistrate from 1955 to 1959 when he resigned to take up a full time law practice. The cabinet order Friday also appointed him a judge of the Family and Children's Court.

Bolivia Rebellion Quashed

LA PAZ (AP)—The Bolivian army Friday night claimed complete peace had returned to this capital city and the tin-mining centre of Oruro. It said army units were in control and signs of rebellion crushed.

But a general strike of 27,000 miners in the Oruro region, 143 miles south of La Paz, continued.

Reports from that city said earlier stories of 30 persons killed in nearby Sora-Sora were untrue. These new reports said at most one soldier was killed and perhaps 15 miners injured.

PCs Say Provinces' Gain Undermining Canada Unity

OTTAWA (CP) — Conservative MPs kept the interim supply debate going for the sixth straight day in the Commons Friday, accusing the government of yielding too much power to the provinces and undermining national unity.

"The assassins of Canada," commented Eldon Woolliams (PC—Bow River).

"A howling gale of appeasement (of the provinces)," added Gerald W. Baldwin (PC—Peace River).

The Conservatives criticized the Liberals' opting out formula, under which Quebec, will withdraw from most federal-provincial joint programs, and the newly - approved formula to amend the constitution in Canada.

The Conservatives objected to a clause of the amending formula that opens the way for four provinces to take over certain federal powers with the consent of the federal government.

GRAVE SITUATION

"A grave and dangerous situation is liable to occur under a weak and indecisive federal government such as the one we now have," Mr. Baldwin said.

"If we continue to weaken the federal government, the experiment of Confederation is bound to failure."

Mr. Woolliams said the government is leading Canada toward Balkanization in order to appease the separatists of Quebec.

Transport Minister Pickersgill replied that "any person competent to read" can see that the amending formula approved recently by a federal - provincial conference is identical to a draft prepared by the Diefenbaker government in 1961.

Opposition Leader Diefenbaker's current opposition to a formula his government had proposed was "not what I would call political honesty," said the minister.

Mr. Baldwin said the formula contains dangerous pitfalls and he would have opposed it in 1961 if it had come before Parliament then. (Saskatchewan and Quebec had reservations about the formula until 1964).

The debate arose on a bill to give the government $740,000,000 in temporary spending authority for November and December.

Killed in the accident were Mrs. Edna Razey, 45, of Naches, Wash., and Mrs. Maude Leakvold, 73, of Wildwood, Alta. Merle Brant Razey, 56, of Naches, died in hospital.

Police said the car was demolished in the accident.

The operator of the packer, Ivan Livingstone of Lethbridge, was not injured.

New Charges Levelled

Khrushchev Relinquishes Last of Party Positions

By SIDNEY WEILAND

MOSCOW (Reuters)—Ex-premier Nikita Khrushchev Friday was reported to have stepped down from his last Soviet Communist party post, as Kremlin leaders circulated a new dossier of charges against him.

Informed sources said Khrushchev nad submitted his resignation as a member of the Communist party's central committee, the group which removed him as party leader and premier two weeks ago.

He also resigned as a member of the Supreme Soviet, Russia's parliament, the sources said.

The reports could not be officially confirmed, but Western observers said they came from sources which are usually reliable.

The sources said he sent letters of resignation, apparently in the last few days.

Khrushchev's withdrawal from the central committee and the Supreme Soviet means his total withdrawal from political life, observers said.

The reports came as Communist sources disclosed a list of charges against the ex-premier in a 29-point indictment said to have been circulated by the Kremlin, accusing him of one-man rule, nepotism and "bungling" on major issues of foreign policy.

Western observers said the charges amounted to the most slashing indictment levelled against any Russian leader since Khrushchev himself denounced Stalin in 1956.

Khrushchev was said to have come under fire for putting missiles into Cuba, for "immature" actions in many fields of foreign policy, for "undignified" behavior at home and abroad and for trying to put his family and favorites into important jobs.

Communist sources said the charges were listed in a document which appeared to be a compendium of allegations made against him when the party's central committee voted him out of office Oct. 14.

The first disclosure of the contents of the dossier became available from foreign Communist sources during Thursday night and more details were added by other informants Friday.

The sources said the ex-premier was blamed for taking Sino - Soviet relations to the brink of no return by his personal abuse of Chinese Communist leader Mao Tse-Tung.

The dossier said Khrushchev lowered Russia's prestige in the eyes of the world by his uninhibited personal style. One example was his shoe-banging incident at the United Nations four years ago, another that he abused Chinese Communist delegates at a Moscow dinner last year.

As reported here, the revelations made it clear that Khrushchev's colleagues on the party presidium were angered and embarrassed by many of the free-wheeling antics and humorous comments which endeared him to Western audiences.

He was said to have gradually built up a personality cult around himself and to have set up a personal directorate in the Kremlin which assured dictatorial powers over Soviet ministries.

Former Union Prexy Expelled

TORONTO (CP) — The Globe and Mail says that Michael Sheehan, former president of the Canadian Maritime Union (CLC), has been expelled from the union "after a trial on a variety of charges dealing with statements he made concerning the union."

Mr. Sheehan, who helped found the union, was defeated as president in February, 1963, and elected to a new post of vice-president. He has since launched court action in an effort to upset the election.

Union officials were unavailable for comment Friday night.

Mr. Sheehan, once a lieutenant of Harold Banks, former president of the Seafarers International Union (Ind.), was one of the key Crown witnesses this year when Banks was convicted.

Parliament Friday

By The Canadian Press

The Commons continued debate on the government's interim supply motion, seeking $740,000,000 to meet November and December bills.

Opposition MPs criticized the government's method for bringing the British North America Act to Canada and the amending formula for it.

Gerald W. Baldwin (PC—Peace River) said a "dangerous" situation could occur under such a "weak and indecisive" government as the present one.

Heath Macquarrie (PC—Queens) said the Liberals have eroded federal powers in favor of Quebec.

Eldon Woolliams (PC — Bow River) said Canada is being led toward balkanization to appease Quebec separatists.

Transport Minister Pickersgill said the formula is the same one the Conservatives tried to have adopted in 1961.

Prime Minister Pearson announced Privy Council President McIlraith would take over as government House leader from Justice Minister Favreau.

Kanester Goes Back To Try To Clear Self

VANCOUVER (CP)—Escapee Larry Kanester, serving 20 years for raping two Victoria co-eds, has traded his stolen freedom for a chance to proclaim his innocence.

He walked back into Essondale mental hospital Friday after 57 days loose in Alberta and British Columbia.

But first he told a newspaper his story, and won a pledge that his case will be taken to the provincial attorney-general for review.

The motive for Kanester's haphazard escape was one of many points left clouded by his contradictory statements.

He negotiated for more than two days with officials of the Vancouver Sun before walking into The Sun building late Thursday night, surrendering himself to city editor Bruce Larsen.

Virtually all of Kanester's 20-year sentence remains to be served.

He is charged additionally with escaping lawful custody and with being a criminal sexual psychopath, which carries an indefinite sentence upon conviction.

The 25-year-old Victoria man says he is innocent of the rape charges. The newspaper promised to have his trial transcripts read by a lawyer and to ask Attorney-General Robert Bonner to do the same and make a public statement.

Kanester, in a telephone call Wednesday to CJOR radio commentator Pat Burns, said he "really wanted to die" when he tried to commit suicide in Oakalla Prison in June, prompting his transfer to Essondale. But in the same conversation he said he has "the best years of my life ahead of me."

In a story copyrighted by The Sun, he told Mr. Larsen that he escaped to protest his innocence, yet in another copyrighted story under his own byline, Kanester says he refused twice to join escape attempts from Essondale.

He made his way to freedom Sept. 2, after discovering an escape route already set up through a mop room window.

HIDE-OUT

He worked under another name in Edmonton at what he called a co-op deep freeze, then came back to Vancouver and hid out in two different places.

He was almost caught on several occasions, the last Thursday afternoon when police entered his boarding house. Kanester fled down a fire escape.

"I have been downtown to shows, drinking public spots, bootleg spots, but not the booze cans often.

"I have been to a couple of night clubs but I did not feel right there because the police dry squad might come through and recognize me."

He set up a false identity as Donald Moriarty and got an unemployment insurance card.

Police sought him as an armed and dangerous criminal.

DENIES ARMS

"I've never shot anybody and I've never had any armed robbery charges. I've never carried a gun around . . . and I don't pack a knife.

"I don't know why they (the police) always do this 'armed and dangerous' bit."

At Kanester's sentencing June 13 Mr. Justice T. W. Brown said the attack on the Victoria University girls last January was a case of "sexual savagery."

Hearings on the sexual psychopath charge against Kanester opens Nov. 6. He says he wants to appeal the rape convictions upon which the sexual psychopath charge is based.

There would be three grounds to the appeal: That the two charges should not have been tried at the same time before the same jury; that some of the testimony against him was incorrect; and that not all the evidence in his favor was brought out.

Notre Dame News

By CAROL HAMM

Operation Books is in full swing! Our library is inadequate, and does not meet the needs of those who use it. A group of students got together of their own accord, and decided to try to rectify the situation. Result: OP Books.

Phase One of OP Books was staged October 22, when two folksingers performed in Maryhall. These widely known entertainers were Steve Barrett and Joe Mock. Steve is originally from Nelson, and has attended NDU. Although he now makes singing his profession, he is established as a painter, and has several pictures hanging in the National Art Gallery in Toronto. Joe spent a year at Notre Dame, and from there travelled to Gonzaga. He graduated from there with degrees in English and philosophy. We are indebted to these versatile entertainers. They put on the show with less than 24 hours notice.

The second phase of Operation Books is to be a slave auction. It will be held in front of the bus depot Friday evening and Saturday. Slaves can be bought for any purpose, from office work to carpentry. All residents of Nelson are invited to come and place their bids. Included in Phase Two of OP Books will be a used book sale in which second editions and books of a repetitious nature that have been donated to the library will be sold. The proceeds will go to the purchase of more needed reference material.

A Hoot 'n' Dance will be held at the university Saturday evening. This is Phase Three in our attempt to raise money for Operation Books. There will be a Hootenany first and then a dance. So, Notre Dame students, here is your chance to either PUT UP or SHUT UP!

In the Courts

In Nelson city police court, Lorrance Johnson of Nelson pleaded not guilty to operating a motor vehicle in B.C. while disqualified. He was convicted by Magistrate William Evans and fined $100 and costs or one month imprisonment in default of payment.

Donald W. Bozak of Nelson was fined $20 and costs for crossing a double white line. Police reported he had attempted to pass a car on Nelson Avenue when the charge was laid.

A 19-year-old youth, Allan Soukeroff of Pass Creek, pleaded guilty to being a minor in possession of liquor. He was fined $50 and costs by Magistrate Evans.

Kiddies Seek Treats, Funds For UNICEF

Hallowe'en celebrations will be watched with a close eye tonight by law enforcement officers.

Police Chief H. M. Thomlinson has reported that his department will be out in full force bolstered by members of the auxiliary police. Extra staff will also be on duty at the Nelson Fire Department, but officials state that these are only precautionary measures and no trouble is anticipated.

Several complaints have already been received of children setting off firecrackers in the city and police warn that it is illegal to sell or set off firecrackers within the city.

Hallowe'en, however, will also bring with it more pleasant memories as hundreds of children are expected in door to door trick or treating.

Included in the usual round will be youngsters from the Trafalgar Junior Secondary School collecting money for the UNICEF children's fund. Nearly 400 collection boxes wil be carried by students dressed in various costumes.

The money collected by these youngsters will be used towards feeding unfortunate youngsters in other continents.

CITY SINKING

Robson Men Injured In Car, Truck Crash

Two men were rushed to hospital Friday afternoon when their small European car collided with a truck on Highway No. 3 just north of Castlegar.

Taken to Trail-Tadanac Hospital where he is reported to be in only fair condition is the driver of the car, Raymond Lewis of Robson. A passenger in the auto, Neville Bernard, also of Robson, was taken to Castlegar Hospital and is in good condition.

Police report that the car collided head-on with the loaded gravel truck after it was unable to get back into the right lane while passing another vehicle.

The driver of the truck, Daryl Wall, escaped uninjured as the truck rolled over in the ditch when he swerved to miss the car.

RCMP in Castlegar are investigating the accident.

Church Plans "Visitations"

The Church of the Redeemer, Fairview, is engaged in an every-member visitation program, "Partnership in the Gospel", sponsored by the Canadian Council of Churches.

Preparation began some weeks ago and this week, the prospective visitors were active in a Bible study session, taking a look at the life of the parish and in making suggestions for its improvement which might become part of the "platform" at the visitations.

The program seeks to reveal the concept of Christian stewardship, which the church explains, relates to the whole person—his ability, time, money, his home, work and recreation. Stewardship is also applied to the congregation as a whole to assess the extent to which the Gospel and mission of Christ is being fulfilled.

J. Cornborough and T. C. Lambert are general chairmen and William DeFoe, J. P. Horswill, Neil Derby and T. W. Halsey are captains of visiting teams and E. P. Baker, publicity.

DOUKHOBORS MARK ANNIVERSARY

BRILLIANT — A few hundred Doukhobors trekked to the Verigin tomb Thursday for commemoration services that marked 40 years since the death of Peter (Lordly) Verigin.

The services were conducted in the Doukhobor tradition of singing and reciting prayers, with various speakers recalling the history of the life of Verigin as leader of the Doukhobors. It was under his leadership that they publicly renounced militarism by burning their arms for which act they were persecuted by Russian authorities in 1895, causing them to emigrate to Canada where, with the guidance of Lordly Verigin the Christian Community of Universal Brotherhood was established.

It was after this community saw economical well-being that Peter (Lordly) Verigin was mysteriously killed by a bomb in a railway coach at Farron, B.C., in 1924.

The film society organized this year, has elected Reg. Fuez president. Advisors to the organization are Rev. Dr. L. R. McKenzie and J. F. Secker of the university English department.

Membership is open to Notre Dame students and to the public.

Bank Alarm Alerts Police

It could have been a gang of bank robbers; it might have been a lone safe cracker, but it was just a short circuit in Royal Bank of Canada's burglar alarm system about 8:30 Friday night.

Quick to act to the emergency, city police answered the pealing bank bell and found one employee working late who had accidentally triggered the alarm.

Notified, the assistant bank manager came to the rescue and silence prevailed again.

England's Hampton Court Palace, Cardinal Wolsey's gift to Henry VIII, had more than 412,000 visitors in 1963.

Contradictions in Free Enterprise, Rotary Told

The philosophy of free enterprise received a harsh beating Friday in an address to Nelson Rotary Club by Martin Brown, professor of philosophy and economics at Notre Dame University.

In his topic, "Free Enterprise — a Challenge and a Philosophy," Mr. Brown pointed out many contradictions between free enterprise and modern day thinking.

"We all somehow or other believe in free enterprise," he stated, "however, we do not really accept this (free enterprise), we only give it lip service. I don't really think we want free enterprise — at least that's the impression I get."

He supported his statement by pointing out several factors that are implied by this policy, one of the first being competition.

"We are all afraid of it," he said, then went on to point out that this was mainly because "it is only the efficient who succeed, the rest go under. We all fear our own incompetence."

It is for this reason that government is called in to set up more laws and restrictive measures or form unions "so that we can bargain collectively," he said. He attacked this method of obtaining privileges because it was always obtained at someone else's expense.

Using welfare recipients as an example, he stated, "there is no question about it that in a wealthy nation we have to look after the weaker." However, this brought up the question of whether or not this was presenting a challenge.

Summing up his address, he told the group that, "I should not go after special privileges because I should want to persuade you not to either."

"If anything is going to be done, it's going to be done by individuals and not by groups. We must run the economy for everybody."

Early 1965 Target for Opening Of Retarded Children's School

Thirteen years of planning are bearing fruit in Creston, where work on the first custodial unit of the Dr. Endicott Home, a school for retarded children, is nearing completion. Alan McCulloch, architect for the Kootenay Society for Handicapped Children, announced Friday that it was expected the first 30-bed unit will be ready for occupancy early in 1965.

The idea of a residential home and school in the Kootenays for the mentally retarded, was first proposed by Dr. J. W. Endicott in 1951. The Kootenay Society for Handicapped Children was organized under the Societies Act the following year and now has branches in Trail, Nelson, Castlegar, Creston, Cranbrook and Kimberley, with a seventh in Invermere being organized. Day schools for the retarded are being operated by the branches in their own communities.

Since the Kootenay Society was organized, the Association for Retarded Children in B.C. has been formed. This organization covers the province, and is the co-ordinator of all local chapters. The Association for Retarded Children in B.C. is now recognized by the provincial government and is the instrument through which all matters pertaining to the care of the mentally retarded are presented to the government.

During the past 12 years, a fund has been built up by the Kootenay Society, through generous local contributions, which enabled the society to obtain its property in Creston — the Archibald estate. This property consists of approximately 40 acres of orchard and farm land, with a substantial residence.

On this property the first unit of the Dr. Endicott Home is now being built. A board of management is responsible for the operation of the home. Five Sisters of the order of Our Lady of the Cross have been engaged by the board of management and are already in residence. The Sisters will be responsible for the operation of the home, under policies set by the board of governors of the Society and the board of management of the home.

The Sisters have special qualifications to teach and train the mentally retarded, and arts and crafts will also be taught. Residents will also have the opportunity to participate in gardening and agricultural activities. Adequate recreation facilities will be provided on the property.

The Dr. Endicott Home will be fully licensed by the social welfare department of the provincial government. Limited financial grants have been authorized by the provincial government towards the capital cost of the project.

The society still requires financial support from the people of the Kootenays, for both capital and operating expenditures. It is the intention of the board of management that no person will be refused admission to the Dr. Endicott Home because of inability of the parents or guardians to meet the full cost of care.

The board estimates that the cost of completely furnishing a double room will be $475. Already service clubs and friends of the society throughout the Kootenays have shown great interest in establishing memorials by furnishing a room. A suitable plaque will be affixed in a prominent place for this type of memorial.

The board of management is seeking applications for admission to the home now.

Kootenay Home Building Totals Show General Gain

Housing projects in the Kootenay area varied greatly during September, but over-all totals for the year were generally up as compared to 1963.

In Nelson there were three housing starts during September, bringing to 33 the total for 1964. This is compared to two starts in September, 1963, and a total of nine for the same period last year. Three houses are under construction, an increase of one over last year.

In Trail, housing starts were down from ten to six during September, and the total to date was up by ten to 49 compared to last year. Nine houses are presently under construction in Trail. This is down from 14 during September, 1963.

Construction was relatively quite in Kimberley with two starts registered. This is compared to no starts during the same month last year. Totals for the year had doubled to six while two are presently under construction.

A sharp decrease in housing was registered in Cranbrook with only five starts and a total of 34 to date. This is compared to 32 starts during September, 1963, and an overall total of 41. Five houses are presently under construction, down from 33 during the same period in 1963.

The figures, released by the Central Mortgage and Housing Corporation, are generally down from a province wide increase of 11 per cent. The dominant feature of the housing scene in British Columbia is the continuing apartment boom, particularly evident in the Lower Mainland.

Students Go On Block At Auction

Notre Dame University students were out in good numbers in downtown Nelson Friday night offering their services to the highest bidder in a student sponsored "Slave Market."

You name it — rake your leaves, iron shirts, wash cars, scrub floors and even private tutoring lessons if the price is right.

Donned in weird and enticing costumes the "slaves" made their debut on downtown streets complete with transportation and a hog caller.

The idea of holding a slave market was conceived about a month ago by the students as a means to raise money to improve the library facilities at the university.

Over 300 students have volunteered their services to residents of the area. Willing to perform any job — at the right price — they are hoping for full support by residents.

The auction continues this afternoon as the students will gather in a blocked-off section of roadway on Hall Street ready to go into action when called upon.

A special telephone service is also being provided at Notre Dame for residents who wish to hire a student and are unable to come to the auction.

OSLO (AP)—The tide of migration between Norway and the United States has been reversed. Latest statistics show that the number of Americans emigrating to Norway exceeds the total flow towards the U.S. from Norway.

Baden Powell Society Seeks Memberships

FRUITVALE — The Baden Powell Society is seeking increased membership through letters sent to parents in the community.

This was main topic when the society met at the home of Mrs. G. Metcalfe, with eight members and one guest, Mrs. V. Halifax, attending. Rotary suppers were discussed also.

Refreshments were served by Mrs. F. Kragh and Mrs. H. Godin.

Britain earned more than $57,000,000 from the export of bicycles in 1963, with the U.S. being the largest single market.

Until Highway Links Complete

No Increased Bus Service Contemplated Through Rossland

ROSSLAND — Despite the fact that "a sizeable population in the Trail-Rossland area is not being served by the present bus schedule" according to Alderman Woodhouse, no change in the service is being contemplated at the present time, council learned Monday.

In reply to a request from Rossland, Greyhound Bus Lines wrote city council stating that no change in east-west service is under consideration at present, but that the matter will be reviewed when the new highway links are completed.

Council had asked that the buses now travelling from Christina through Castlegar, Nelson and Salmo to Creston be rerouted through Salmo, Trail and Rossland.

Ald. Woodhouse moved that Warfield and Trail councils be asked to support Rossland's request to the bus company. It was noted that the direct route through Rossland to Sheep Lake would be opened next week.

With the arrival of fall, reports from the various committees were light Monday night. Alderman Keane said he had been assured by the West Kootenay Power and Light Company that parts for the street lights would be here for October 28 and that installations would be completed immediately.

For Works and Services Ald. Wiltshire said the approach to the Lavorato property had been fixed but it immediately created another problem as evidenced by the delegation that had attended council earlier in the evening complaining of difficult access to their properties. Council gave assurance of action on this matter.

Reporting for the Water Department, Ald. Skinner said the Hannah Creek dam has been completed and the water supply is back to normal. Davis street project has also been completed and the crew is presently working on a large back-log of lateral changes.

No One Offers Yet for Castlegar-Kinnaird Commissioners' Seats

CASTLEGAR — This December's election will see Castlegar voters go to the polls for the last time to elect commissioners, since the municipality becomes a town January 1. Henceforth, ratepayers will vote on a mayor and council.

So far, there have been no candidates to fill the seats of R. C. Maddocks and Gwilym Hughes whose terms expire in December. Mr. Maddocks, who is senior commissioner in Castlegar in years of service, has indicated he may not seek re-election. Mr. Hughes, who was elected in a by-election 1½ years ago, has not announced his intentions yet.

In Kinnaird, the terms of commissioners G. S. Rust and Maurice Simpson both expire. Mr. Rust has been finance chairman in the village for four terms while Mr. Simpson was first elected to council two years ago. Both men have yet to announce their intentions with respect to seeking re-election.

Kinnaird voters will not likely have any money bylaws to decide upon in December, but Castlegar property owners will vote again on a $108,000 water extension bylaw.

Municipal voting in Castlegar and Kinnaird will be held on a Saturday this year.

In former years voting has been held on Thursdays. This year the municipal act has been amended at the request of the Union of B.C. Municipalities and voting will take place on Sat., Dec. 12.

Nominations will close at noon on Monday, Nov. 30.

Dr. Walker, Professor of Surgery from the University of Bristol, England, is on a lecture tour, and is visiting the medical faculties of the four Western Universities in Canada before going on to Seattle.

A reception was held at the Kimberley District Hospital Saturday, where Doctor and Mrs. Walker met the chairman and members of the Hospital Board and the medical staff of the hospital.

During their visit, they had an opportunity to see a pour at Cominco's iron plant in Kimberley. They also tried their hand at spotting big horn sheep on the White Knight Peak in the Rockies.

Pearson Keeps Mum on Early Election Issue

OTTAWA (CP)—Prime Minister Pearson gave no direct reply in the Commons Friday when Auguste Choquette (L—Lotbiniere) asked whether the government favors an early election.

Mr. Choquette prefaced his question with the comment that there have been newspaper reports about the possibility of an early election.

Mr. Pearson said Mr. Choquette shouldn't believe all he reads in the newspapers.

Branch Hears of Expanding Capacity of Essondale Ward

CRANBROOK — The Friend-in-Deed program of the Cranbrook White Cross branch of the Canadian Mental Health Association stressed a need for large sized clothing at the recent meeting, at which Mrs. P. H. Abbott spoke on the recent provincial conference in Vancouver.

Mrs. Abbott told of her visit to Cranbrook Branch's "adopted" ward at Essondale and reports it is being expanded to include longterm patients. In the past, its patients were at terminal treatment stage prior to discharge.

Cranbrook branch regularly sends gifts to this ward with special attention to recreation equipment, and the additional need for the longterm patients should now be kept in mind.

Mrs. Abbott reported developments in national, provincial and local aspects of CMHA work.

At the conference, Hon. Eric Martin told of steadily increasing costs for boarding day patients under treatment by department of health clinics.

Mrs. Abbott is White Cross chairman for Cranbrook. In speaking of the White Cross Friend-in-Deed program, she noted that it has its own cleaning plant for its apparel shop, and contributed clothes should be in condition for wear after minor repairs. White Cross notification will bring pickup of such items.

At Cranbrook the branch expects to begin its Christmas gift collection soon. These gifts, anything of a minor nature, are pooled at a central depot in Vancouver for classification and gift-wrapping toward personal distribution by volunteers in the lower mainland area at the mental treatment centres as evidence every patient is still part of a general community.

Peterson To Open New Kinnaird School Tuesday

CASTLEGAR — Education Minister L. R. Peterson will officiate at the opening of the new $440,000 Kinnaird Junior Secondary School next Tuesday evening.

Mr. Peterson will fly into Castlegar by government plane Tuesday afternoon for the opening.

The public is being invited to the opening of the school at 8 o'clock that evening. There are presently 200 students enrolled in the school, all in grade 8.

The school has a total present capacity of 270 students and ultimate plans call for both SHSS and KJSS to offer grades eight through 12. The present senior matric class at SHSS will ultimately be absorbed at the West Kootenay Regional College.

There are 10 teachers on the staff of the new school under principal John Klein, while Norman Fishwick and Miss Bernie Kavic of the SHSS music staff also teach part-time at KJSS.

The Kinnaird Junior Secondary School, reports district superintendent of schools Claude Bissell, has been designed on a flexible plan which will permit easy expansion to meet future educational requirements.

It presently has five classrooms, a library, a science laboratory, an industrial arts shop, a home economics laboratory, a lunchroom, administration areas, and a combination gymnasium-auditorium.

The SHSS band will be in attendance at the opening, as will be the KJSS choir. Refreshments will be served to the public following the opening ceremonies.

Prior to the public ceremony, Mr. Peterson will be entertained at dinner by members of the school board and their guests.

Plan Tour of Sheep Lake Link Next Week

ROSSLAND — A tour of the Rossland-Sheep Lake highway will be undertaken by a group of businessmen accompanied by Hon. Donald Brothers, minister of mines and petroleum resources early next week, the Rossland Chamber of Commerce has been advised.

While the road will not be officially opened until paving is completed next summer, the highway will be opened to traffic next week and will remain open during the winter months. All but a very short piece of constructon has been completed and gravelling of the final two miles is being pushed to completion. A number of motorists drove through to Sheep Lake last Sunday. All were impressed by the excellent condition and quality of the road and by the beauty of the country through which it passes.

Coal Production Up in September

Of the 87,457 short tons of coal produced in the collieries of British Columbia in September, Michel Colliery contributed 72,497 tons and Coleman Collieries 9116 tons.

The provincial total shows an increase of 12,391 short tons over the September, 1963, total.

The East Kootenay produced 81,613 tons as compared to 71,281 shown in September, 1963.

A survey has shown that almost 50 per cent of all male drivers in London fail their first driving examinations.

Former Crowsnest Boarding House Operator Dies

CRANBROOK — A woman who operated a railway boarding house at Crowsnest died at Cranbrook Tuesday night at the age of 85.

Mrs. Frank Caminiti, East Kootenay resident almost continuously since 1910, was taken ill at her home at 302 South Eighth Avenue and died before she could be moved to hospital.

Born in Wigan, England, she came to Canada and Michel in 1910. She lived there, and following the death of her first husband operated the railway boarding house at Crowsnest, where her marriage to Mr. Caminiti took place in 1928. In 1935 they moved to Vancouver then settled in Cranbrook in 1940 where she had lived since then. Her husband and a son, Henry Bay, and four grandchildren survive her at Cranbrook, and a sister, Mrs. Kitty Cunliffe in England.

Rev. J. F. McRae conducted the funeral at Christ Church Friday and burial was in Westlawn Cemetery.

Third Floor Shell Still Sought by Hospital Board

CRANBROOK — The BCHIS Construction Division will be urged to continue its approval in principle of the shell of a third nursing floor in the proposed new Cranbrook hospital.

The October board meeting of Cranbrook and District Hospital resolved to ask the BCHIS for this approval, which has been given the 90-bed hospital with 75 beds initially operating on two floors, with the shell of the third also included. Further principle approval of a separate 35-bed nursing home on the site appeared to eliminate the shell floor.

As a result of the Thursday decision the board contingent of trustee Mrs. Maurice MacKay, medical representative Dr. Laird Wylie, hospital administrator L. D. Swenerton, and architect David Fairbank, currently in Victoria to interview construction head A. W. Pitkethley, were phoned to stress the need for the shelled space.

The contingent has been visiting the new Holy Cross Hospital at San Fernando, Calif., which incorporates the Gordon Friesen design to coordinate hospital service areas toward maximum efficiency for patient treatment and comfort.

Early report on their Holy Cross observations, and on the Victoria BCHIS interview is expected from the group.

Lions Present $3500 Cheque To Handicapped

KIMBERLEY — Their first $50,000 donation mark was achieved by the Kimberley Lions when they delivered a cheque for $3500 to the Board of Governors of the Kootenay Society for Handicapped Children.

Norman Reid, president of the Kimberley Lions Club, made this report when he presented the cheque to Richard H. Vogel, president of the Society, at a ceremony held recently in Kimberley.

Mr. Vogel noted that the money will be utilized to complete construction of the first 30-bed unit which the Society is building in Creston. This building is expected to be completed and ready for occupancy early in the New Year.

The Kimberley Lions Club $50,000 donation mark has been reached over a 10-year period, since its organization. The executive remarked that it feels this is a national record, considering the size of the club and population of the area.

Presentation of the cheque represents the honoring of a pledge made during the Society's capital fund drive in 1963.

Our Hearts Bleed for Them

Canadian hearts bleed at the thought of their members of Parliament getting so bored and discontented with the long session in Ottawa that 90 per cent have been staying away from the House on recent weekends.

It was not so long ago that the MPs insisted on boosting their sessional indemnities and tax-free expense accounts to a figure equivalent to at least $20,000 for anyone employed in private business. We were told they worked themselves to exhaustion in the public service and that better pay would ensure a better performance and a higher calibre of MP.

Now, after 178 days of the present session, our representatives are finding their seats too hard and the speeches too tedious. If they are working themselves to exhaustion it is certainly not in public service in the House of Commons.

Most of them enjoy a long Friday-to-Monday weekend at home, even if home is Vancouver or Newfoundland. Why not, transportation is free via Air Canada.

Liberal whip James Walker offers one explanation: "When you get into the 178th day of a session, all parties are having trouble maintaining the interest of their members."

To this a great many Canadians in workshop, office and store will reply: "Isn't that just too bad. We work hard, too, and get bored and discontented. But if we stay away from the job we get fired."

There seems to be several solutions to parliamentary boredom.

Either the MPs contrive to make their sessions interesting, effective and brief or, if this is impossible, make way for public representatives who won't get bored and discontented at $20,000 a year.

The Specialized War on Pests

Some of the new insect-control methods described at the Canadian Entomological Society convention in Vancouver sound like pure science fiction — but in them lie the hopes of the Rachel Carsons of the world.

The late Miss Carson, an author-scientist who achieved fame with a book about the horrors of pesticides, believed that continued use of deadly chemicals on crops and forests might eventually poison the entire earth.

Since the publication of her warning more than two years ago there have been many tragedies to support this view. Common pest-poisons have killed people, decimated wildlife, destroyed salmon runs.

But some of the latest trends in pest-control research — as described by the Canadian entomologists here — indicate that scientists have heeded the warning and are doing something about it.

They are breaking away from the development of ever-deadlier chemicals and turning to the subtle and selective methods of biological control.

One phase of this means simply copying nature by introducing a type of insect, fungus or bacteria that will prey on the pest insect — just as "ladybird" beetles dispose of aphids.

A newer and stranger method was described in part at the recent conference in Vancouver and is based on treating insects so that they either become sterile or produce offspring which are deformed and soon die.

Experiments in this weird scheme have been tried on a large scale by luring male insects with sounds or smells and then sterilizing them with radioactivity. Success has been so great in some areas that researchers predict the extinction of some pests.

There are drawbacks to this kind of control, such as the need for expensive, specialized equipment and expert operators.

But when compared with the record of indiscriminate death and destruction that accompanies the high-powered poisons, cost becomes a less important factor.

The massive use of chemical sprays on cotton crops in the southern U.S., for example, has polluted the huge Mississippi River and badly impaired its fishery. No saving in pest control methods could cover such a loss.

We congratulate the entomologists for their skill and persistence in searching for new ways to safeguard crops and forests without endangering people, wildlife or fish.

Their efforts may spell the difference between a future world worth living in and that desolate "silent spring" foreshadowed by Rachel Carson.—Vancouver Province.

Notable Achievement

Nuclear electricity may not as yet mean very much as a provider of power on the North American continent, but this is not the case in some other parts of the world.

In Scotland, where hydro possibilities are almost exhausted and where coal is petering out as a source of steam generation, nuclear power is now providing one-fifth of all that country's domestic needs.

Last month, on the Firth of Clyde, near West Kilbride, and only 35 miles from the centre of Glasgow, the Queen Mother officially opened the two-reactor nuclear power station of Hunterston, which with its 323,000 kilowatt production is the largest nuclear generating station in the world.

The electricity generated at Hunterston is enough to serve the complete electrical needs of a community as large as Scotland's capital city of Edinburgh.

The Scots do not claim that Hunterston is giving them cheap electricity. When all capital costs are taken into consideration it will probably be more expensive than more conventional forms of generation, but as time goes on and methods are improved Britain hopes that costs will drop.

To the British, however, this is not the main concern. The importance to Britain and its self-respect, is that here is a great new scientific development in which British scientists and workers have acted as pioneers, and have made Scotland the country which at the moment generates and uses more nuclear electricity than any other country in the world.

The three existing British nuclear power stations produce about 1,000,000 kilowatts, but six more under construction will raise that total to about 3,700,000 kilowatts, and each of the nine will have greater productive capacity than Indian Point in New York State, the largest on this continent.

For many years to come British Columbia and many parts of Canada will have a sufficiency of hydro-electric power, but for many other parts of the world the events taking place in the U.K. are of the utmost importance.—Victoria Colonist.

Cigarette Manufacturers Still Trying To Recover From Surgeon-General's Report

By JOHN BARBOUR

WASHINGTON (AP) — Although only 10 months have passed since release of the U.S. surgeon - general's report condemning cigarettes as a health hazard and shortener of life, the best indications are that cigarette sales have yet to recover totally from its impact.

Firm statistics are difficult to come by, but perhaps 16,000,000,000 cigarettes went unsmoked in the U.S. between January and June of this year.

Before the report, cigarette smoking was burning its way to new heights of popularity. In the last six months of 1963, it was running 6,500,000,000 cigarettes ahead of the same six months of 1962.

But the 1964 story is different. Even with its erratic recovery, cigarette production may end the year down three per cent over-all—its longtime advance cut and, say federal experts, its future uncertain.

CIGARILLO POPULAR

A real gainer in the wake of the report has been the small cigar—the cigarillo—and cigars in general. They may finish the year with sales up 30 per cent over 1963.

Meanwhile, there have been these developments:

—The U.S. public health service embarked on a long-range education program to discourage smoking.

—The federal trade commission set deadlines for cigarette firms to begin labelling cigarette packages and advertisements with danger signs.

—The tobacco industry promised a court fight against the trade commission ruling.

—The industry vowed to set up its own advertising police bureau in New York and fine violators, but this is still in the organizational phase.

—Congress adjourned without acting on a barrage of bills giving cigarette - controlling powers to federal agencies, and a counter-barrage which would deny agencies those powers.

More than nine months have passed since the surgeon-general promised "no foot-dragging" in the follow-up to the committee's prime finding:

"Cigarette smoking is a health hazard of sufficient importance in the United States to warrant appropriate remedial action."

The most concrete action has come from the unilateral efforts of those who have quit smoking, switched to cigars or pipes, or at least tried.

SPREAD DISEASE

Dr. Eugne Guthrie, staff director for the surgeon-general's committee, sees cigarette smoking as a transmissible disease—smokers as the carriers — and one-third of high school students taking up the habit. There can be no doubt, Guthrie said, of human susceptibility.

There is, he said, an incubation period in that it takes from 1½ to two years for average youngsters to become habitual smokers. But by 18 or 19, half of them are smoking regularly.

But even if every teen-ager in the U.S. quit today, Guthrie said, it will be years before significant changes appear in the death rates. The person who most needs to quit—who has the highest risk of death, is the breadwinner of age 40 to 50.

"We do not buy the pessimistic view that this group cannot be helped," said Guthrie. "There are 10,000,000 to 15,000,000 ex-smokers in the population today. What they have done, others can accomplish."

Even before the committe's work was done, Surgeon-General Luther Terry himself one of some 70,000,000 American smokers, had switched to a pipe because of a slight cough.

There was a frantic, almost feverish air after the committee issued its report, the sum of 14 months of deliberating the validity of medical and statistical evidence.

The verdict, although expected, was electric.

The day of the report, evangelist Billy Graham suggested that smoking clergymen quit the habit, as an example. The Roman Catholic Review of the Baltimore archdiocese urged in an editorial that all Roman Catholic priests refrain from smoking.

Cigarette vending machines were banned in hospitals from Massachusetts to Pennsylvania to Minnesota.

The defence department banned free cigarettes in all military hospitals from Washington to San Francisco. The veterans administration did likewise in its 168 hospitals and 18 homes for infirm and aged veterans.

There were arrests for cigarette sales to minors in Chicago. There were smoking bans at high schools and colleges.

SALES DROPPED

Cigarette sales plunged, perhaps as much as 30 per cent.

Cigars and pipes, found relatively innocent in the report, were a sudden fashion.

In 1963, Americans consumed 510,000,000,000 cigarettes. In February, 1964, tax receipts indicated the annual rate had dropped to 385,000,000,00. It began to recover slowly as summer came on.

The tobacco industry has approached the matter cautiously. First, it acted to revise its advertising practices, indicating it would avoid appealing to youngsters.

Its advertising review board, under former New Jersey governor Robert Meyner, was given authority to fine offenders up to $100,000.

Secondly, at the outset, the industry seemed to avoid comment on the surgeon-general's committee or its report. At federal trade commission hearings, it challenged only the commission's legal powers to govern cigarette labelling.

PRO AN CON

Before the report, it had always seemed to be a partisan battle. Enemies of cigarette smoking would say, as did famed lung surgeon Dr. Alton Ochsner, that each cigarette smoked shortens life by 14.4 minutes.

Proponents of cigarette smoking would cite studies on laboratory animals that cigarette smoke was not cancer-causing. A greater danger, they said, was air pollution.

It was the job of the surgeon-general's panel to weigh the evidence and offer guidance. But its report was stronger than some observers had expected.

As much as he is against smoking, Dr. Charles S. Cameron, president of Philadelphia's Hahnemann Medical College and Hospital, cited recently the statistic that 83 per cent of males between the ages of 25 and 31 smoke cigarettes regularly.

"My own view," he said, "is that there are a great many people—and they range from bums to bishops—who have a need for something which smoking affords, and the insidious thing about cigarettes is that they are so very convenient."

Bottled Note Starts Correspondence

STAG HARBOR, Nfld. (CP)—A Newfoundland family and an American couple became friends this summer as a result of a bottled note dropped in the sea two years ago.

In August, 1962, Baxter Kinden Jr. of this Fogo Island community and his wife were taking their child to hospital at Twillingate by boat.

Mr. Kinden idly took a piece of brown paper and wrote: "Left Stag Harbor this morning for Twillingate eight of us and three children. Beautiful day so I'm sending this message by sea. Whoever finds it please inform us and we could become friends forever."

A man in Stornoway, Scotland found the bottle. He didn't write to Mr. Kinden, but a newspaper story reported the finding of the bottle and gave Mr. Kinden's name and address.

Ralph Baird, a 53-year-old lawyer in Blue Hills, Neb., read the newspaper report and wrote to Mr. Kinden, saying the Bairds knew little about Newfoundland and would like to carry on a correspondence.

Mr. and Mrs. Baird came to Newfoundland in June and spent four days with the Kindens, getting their first taste of lobster and other Newfoundland dishes.

The Bairds said they plan to return for another visit, but in the meantime the correspondence is to continue.

Interpreting the News

Anglo - French Relations

By JOSEPH MacSWEEN
Canadian Press Staff Writer

Prime Minister Harold Wilson's new hands-under-the-channel gesture to President Charles de Gaulle may take some of the tension out of relations between their countries.

The British labor government pledged Thursday to go ahead with France on plans for a channel tunnel, a project that has been mooted off and on for 162 years.

Significantly, the pledge came on the same day that Britain's aviation minister, Roy Jenkins, began a re - examination" in Paris of another Anglo-French project, the supersonic airliner Concorde. Doubts about the future of the Concorde caused gloom in France.

And the announcement also coincided with sharp French criticism of the new Labor government's import surcharges, which apply to a high proportion of the goods sold by France to Britain.

But, if the history of the channel tunnel is any guide, the Thursday announcement will mean no immediate or dramatic moves, although it does remove French anxiety that Britain might withdraw altogether.

COST RISING

The French and British governments made it clear in February that any cross-channel link would be a rail tunnel, not a bridge, but surveys have yet to determine whether it should be a bored tunnel or an immersed tube. There also are important legal and financial problems to be solved.

L. F. A. d'Erlanger, the British banker who is chairman of the channel tunnel study group, reported earlier this week the estimated cost now has climbed to £160,000,000 from the earlier figure of £130,000,000.

"Our expert consultants estimate that a bored twin tunnel, with services in between, will take five years to build and an immersed tube four years."

British officials have appeared less enthusiastic about the tunnel than the French and the Conservative government was criticized by Wilson during the recent election campaign for its approach to the project.

The project envisages two separate tunnels, each containing a single rail track, reducing the London-Paris train trip to 4½ from seven hours. Apart from normal passenger and freight trains, there would be automobile "ferry" trains at frequent intervals.

Traditional British objections to the scheme arose from defence considerations and these persisted until 1955 when former premier Harold Macmillan, then defence minister, said "strategic considerations" really were not involved.

Fiesta To End All Fiestas

SAN ANTONIO, Tex. (AP)—Long noted for its fiestas, this Spanish-American city wants a fiesta to top all fiestas on its 250th anniversary in 1968.

Plans centre on an $85,000,000 Hemisfair — hemisphere fair—to salute all the Americas.

San Antonio, a city of 700,000 people where the name Rodriguez appears as often as Smith, is a centre of inter-American culture and trade.

Congressman Henry B. Gonzalez said two years ago it would be fitting for the city to be host for the first "fair of the Americas."

His idea now is well past the talking stage. Money has been raised and a staff hired.

Backers want nothing short of the Seattle world's fair of 1962.

Earlier this year voters overwhelmingly approved the largest bond program in the city's history—a $30,000,000 issue geared mainly to support Hemisfair.

NEAR DOWNTOWN

The fair will spread over an 85-acre urban renewal area on the fringe of downtown. It is bordered on one side by the Alamo and on another by La Villita, a cluster of buildings of the original San Antonio.

After a 184-day run, the fair will leave to the city a $10,000,000 convention centre, exhibit areas, an inter-American trade institute, stadium, military museum and library. Any profits go to the city.

Every country in the western hemisphere with the exception of Cuba will be invited to build a pavilion or exhibit area.

Construction is to begin in 1965 or 1966.

Quebecers Fear Their Fast-Changing Province

By CY FOX

MONTREAL (CP) — The crackle and roar of debate among Quebecers about the future of their fast - changing province now can be sampled by English - speaking Canadians despite the language barrier.

French-speaking advocates of federalism, separatism and other projected solutions to the problems of the province are represented in a collection of speeches, editorials and statements, all translated and published in book form as Quebec States Her Case.

The book has been issued by Macmillan of Canada in paperback and hardback form. It was edited by two Montrealers connected with the royal commission on bilingualism and biculturalism.

Frank Scott, a member of the commission, and Michael Oliver, head of its research department, present their wide-ranging collection in a green and white cover that proclaims:

"(Quebec's) grievances are desperate enough to produce violence, urgent enough to threaten Confederation.'

SNUG DAYS GONE

A total of 24 selections make up the volume, including Marcel Chaput's thunderous advocacy of separatism, the anguished moderation of Andre Laurendeau, the socialist - oriented nationalism of Andre Major, the heated anti-separatist criticisms penned by Pierre-Elliott Trudeau.

In an introduction to the 153 pages of word-wars, Mr. Oliver writes that the "old, snug days" of indifference among English-speaking elements toward the problems of Quebec will be slow to return after the terrorist outbursts of 1963.

New industry, growing towns, greater educational opportunities, the impact of television and other forms of mass communication—all have produced a "social revolution" in Quebec, says Mr. Oliver.

The result has been a feverish moving forward, sometimes marked by verbal, if not physical, violence.

The contents of Quebec States Her Case feature a score of ideological clashes among the spokesmen represented, and thus they belie the title. For there is no single "case for Quebec" stated here. Instead, the reader witnesses the mind of a community, white-hot and split from contemplation of the national fate, thinking out loud.

There is Premier Lesage asking extra tax rights for Quebec under the constitution and a terrorist pamphleteer asserting that such structural changes are not enough, that "a national revolution in a framework of independence" is what Quebec needs.

There is the volatile resources minister, Rene Levesque, sounding off with salutary candor:

"Few things irritate me as much as the fiery speech of the separatist promising us heaven on earth as soon as we become a republic—unless it be the dogmatic tone of economists and sociologists who weightily proclaim (though they cannot provide proof) that independence is an economic impossibility . . ."

Mr. Trudeau, a law professor at the French-language University of Montreal ,declares that nationalism is "reactionary" and would mean death by suffocation for Quebec.

Opposition Leader Daniel Johnson demands an end to what he calls the "beggar's attitude" of Mr. Lesage toward Ottawa.

Mr. Chaput, formerly a leader of separatist parties, declares independence the only way for Quebecers to become "masters of their own destiny."

But Mr. Laurendeau, a co-chairman of the commission on bilingualism, assails such ideas though adding that "separatism will perhaps make people think."

"No more mysticism," cries Mr. Major, a 22-year-old poet, as Quebec's left and right-idea-men map their vision of the future.

Care of Geraniums, Ideal Recipe Topics From Newsletter

"Care of Geraniums" and an "Ideal Recipe" were read from the Women's Institute Newsletter at the recent meeting of the Nelson Women's Institute.

Guest speaker during the afternoon was city civil defense coordinator, W. H. Anderson.

It was noted that four children were supplied with glasses through the Mary E. Davidson Memorial Fund.

Mrs. G. Sutherland displayed Dorset stitchery, to be used in a contest.

Tea hostess was Mrs. H. E. Thain.

CARE OF GERANIUMS
(From W.I. Newsletter)

. . . For those who winter geraniums, here is a tip, or handy hint: After digging up the plants, store them in paper-lined baskets until March, when it is time to bring them up from the cellar to cut into slips and start again.

We have recently been told that in milder climates of the province the plants may be shaken clear of the soil and then hung in a place that is dry, very cool and dark. After slips are taken, the present plant may be "potted up"; resulting in earlier flowering than the plants from the slips.

IDEAL RECIPE

Take 12 full-grown months.

See that they are thoroughly free from all the old memories of bitterness, rancor, hate and jealousy.

Cleanse them completely of every clinging spite; pick off all the specks of littleness and pettiness: in short, see that these months are free from the past.

Cut them into 30 or 31 equal parts. This batch will keep for just one year. Prepare one day at a time as follows:

Into each day put 12 parts of faith, 10 of courage, nine of work (some people omit this and spoil all the rest), eight of hope, seven of fidelity, six of liberty, five of kindness, four of rest (leaving this out is like omitting mayonnaise from a salad, so don't do it), three of prayer, two of meditation, and one well-selected resolution.

If you have no conscientious scruples, put in about one teaspoon of good spirits, a dash of fun, a pinch of folly, a sprinkling of play, and a heaping cupful of good humour.

Pour into the whole a liberal amount of love and stir with vim. Garnish with a few smiles and a sprig of joy.

Serve with perfect ease, unselfishness and cheerfulness, and a happy year is a certainty.

Find Democracy Practical Application Christianity

Democracy is a practical application of Christianity, it was decided at a workshop held Monday.

The Relationship of Religion and Democracy was theme of a workshop held in the Fellowship Hall of Fairview United Church Monday night, convened by the United Church Women of St. Paul'sTrinity United Church and Fairview United Church.

Keynote speaker was John A. Charters of Castlegar, Trail Junior Secondary School vice-principal, tracing the trend of civilization from the time of the cave man to the Christian era. He explained how Christianity and democracy are interwoven.

The audience, comprised of representatives of various Nelson churches, formed small groups to discuss "What is a Christian" and "What is a Citizen."

Following refreshments, results of the group discussions were skilfully tabulated by Mrs. D. F. Griffths of Trail.

The meeting was opened by Mrs. H. O. Borch, Mrs. F. W. Rapley and Mrs. Earl Halliwell, who gave a short devotional. Mrs. F. A. Whiteley introduced the guest speaker, who was thanked for his address by Mrs. W. K. Massey.

Fewer Teen Homes in Foster Placements, Auxiliary Told

TRAIL — Members of the Foster Home Auxiliary who are selected to represent district areas in the finding of foster homes, held their first meeting of the fall at the home of the group's consultant, Mrs. H. B. Barrett, in Warfield.

The auxiliary has completed the first year of operation since its founding through the Trail Council of Women in September, 1963. During this time, 45 new homes have become known to the Department of Social Welfare through the action of auxiliary members and their fellow volunteers.

Miss Joan Ellingham, district supervisor of the Social Welfare Department, informed auxiliary members that cards introducing prospective foster homes for use in placing homeless youngsters come in regularly despite the fact that the auxiliary workers have not had a meeting since early spring.

She said, however, that among those opening their homes, few are making the offer for the teen-age group. She hastened to say that approximately 85 per cent of all placements are over 13 years of age.

"There are few teen homes but many baby homes," and of the "baby homes" she went on to explain that a successful adoption program soon completes, for the foster baby, a cycle of two to three months' stay in the home, which has a tendency to be "established" for use over and over again.

The meeting was told that willing homes for older children are often urgent by the fact that the social worker must draw on resources to fit the need of a specific child when the occasion arises. Diversified groupings of prescribed homes fulfill a choice not available unless homes have been sought out and their descriptions readily at hand.

So while the need for foster homes is continuous, the children needing homes frequently do not fit within the desired limits. If applicants decide they would be prepared to accept children who do not fit into the limits prescribed, then they may inform the Department of Social Welfare and their file card may be changed.

SUMMARY OF RESULTS

Miss Ellingham gave an interesting summary of results of the one year of the auxiliary's operation. Out of the 45 homes made available, 15 have been used, 17 children are being or have been cared for. Of these 17, three babies are in homes; four more have been in homes. Presently being cared for is one preschool boy, three pre-teen boys and three teen-age girls and one teen-age boy. Having used a foster home is one teen-age girl and one teen-age boy.

Homes offered and presently empty are: 16 homes for babies; 14 homes for pre-school group. Wanting pre-teens are six homes; wanting teens are five homes; 13 homes desire pre-one-year-olds. Of the 27 Protestant homes, eight are in use. Of the seven Catholic homes, one is in use.

Home studies are being undertaken by the professional workers for foster parents who have wished to proceed with adoptions. So far, the meeting was informed, one study is being done; another home is converting to an adoptive home and three more are in the process of changing into adoptive homes. These foster parents are part of a group who have all indicated, at the beginning, their willingness to accept children of mixed racial origin.

Hints From Heloise

By Heloise Cruse

Dear Heloise:

My wooden salad bowls are 30-years-old and they are just like new.

I have always followed the instructions that came with them: "Wash the bowls hastily in lukewarm water and just a drop of soap. (I don't use detergent.) Rinse at once in lukewarm water and wipe immediately."

I also put a lettuce leaf in the bottom of each bowl before putting in my salad and the bowls are soiled very little when they are ready for their quick bath.

Dear Heloise:

I am sure that many of your readers would like to grow African Violets. Since growing these flowers sometimes proves to be a bit difficult, I would like to give some tried and true instructions that have helped us:

Indirect light is best, preferably from east windows. The soil should be kept moist but not oversaturated. Use water that has been warmed to room temperature.

Take care not to splash water on the leaves or crown of the plant. Be sure the soil has good drainage.

To keep the high humidity around the plant, set it in a pan or tray of moist sand or gravel. Avoid drafts.

Good growing.

Dear Heloise:

You must dampen wallpaper to remove it from plastertype walls . . . and must wet it so that it will all come off before applying new paper.

My suggestion is to spray the warm water on with your vacuum attachment. This is the attachment ordinarily used to spray paint, etc.

MARKET TRENDS

NEW YORK (AP) — Selective gains by blue chips gave a cautious pre-election stock market a slightly higher tone Friday.

Volume fell to 4,140,000 shares from 4,390,000 Thursday.

Steels continued to work generally lower with the exception of Bethlehem, which advanced ¾ to 40 following that company's report of third - quarter profits that were exactly in line with Wall Street's expectations —unlike those of U.S. Steel Tuesday, which disappointed analysis.

General Motors lost ⅛ and Chrysler ¼ while Ford rose ⅛ and Studebaker ⅛.

The Dow Jones industrial average rose 1.22 to 873.08.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks rose .2 to 330.8.

Of 1,867 issues traded, 582 rose and 489 fell. New highs for the year totalled 54 and new lows 17.

Sunday DX Oil spurted 1⅛ to 35⅝ on 83,500 shares, making it the most active stock. Rumors were that the company was being offered a purchase proposition at $45 a share.

Among Canadian issues, Canadian Pacific rose ⅝, International Nickel ⅛ and Walker Gooderham ⅜.

Prices were thoroughly mixed on the American Stock Exchange.

MONTREAL (CP) — Utilities led the field as stocks traded fractionally higher in quiet trade Friday on the Montreal and Canadian Stock Exchanges.

Industrial volume was 274,400 and mines and oils turnover was 848,200 shares.

Composite was up 0.4 at 156.2 on index as advances outnumbered declines 115 to 76.

Utilities were up 0.8 on index to 146.8. B.C. Telephone highlighted the advance, moving up 1½ to 66½. Trans-Mountain Pipe Lines added ⅝ to 21¼ and CPR ½ to 52¼.

Papers were up 0.3 at 145.9. Consolidated picked up ¼ to 43 and Domtar ⅛ to 22¼.

Fraser dropped a point to 32½ and Great Lakes ⅜ to 24¾.

Senior base metals were stronger. Hudson Bay Mining gained a point to 75, Consolidated Mining and Smelting ¾ to 43¼ and International Nickel ¼ to 91¼. Hollinger lost ½ to 30½ and Noranda ¼ to 48¼.

Senior oils were slightly off. Texaco dropped ¾ to 62¾ and Husky ⅛ to 37⅛. Pacific Petd advanced ¾ to 12½ and Imperial and BA ¼ each to 36⅛ and 35⅛.

TORONTO (CP)—The stock market closed the week on a higher note in moderately heavy volume Friday. Speculative prices, strong all week, also improved.

The industrial list had more than a few issues that traded over 11,000 shares Friday, and quite a number that hit the 7,500-share mark. Gains, however, were mainly fractional and confined to the ½-point or less range.

Some issues had hefty rises. Included were Moore Corp. and Trans-Canada Pipe Lines, each ahead ⅝ to 56⅝ and 41⅝, and B.C. Telephone and Interprovincial Pipe Lines, each up to 66¼ and 93½.

Canada Packers B climbed a point to 74 while Alberta Gas Trunk A, Canada Cement and CPR each advanced ½ to 34¼, 47½ and 52¼. Trans Mountain Pipe Line was up to 21¼.

In speculatives, New Hosco helped spark a rise, but then fizzled itself. The stock at one point touched a high of $3.55 in heavy trading, but finished the day unchanged at $3.35. Consolidated Rambler gained 14 cents to $1.91, Anglo Rouyn 10 cents to $1.18 and Kay Anacon 12 cents to $2.63. In senior base metals trading Cominco jumped to 43¼ as did Hudson Bay to 75¼.

In steady but poor senior western oils trading, Great Plains gained ¼ to 11¾ and Home B ⅛ to 19⅝, while the A issue tacked on ⅜ to 19½. Canadian Delhi fell 15 cents to $8.85.

On index, industrials gained .26 to 165.50, the TSE index .29 to 154.31, golds .50 to 150.22, base metals .22 to 71.59 and western oils .68 to 92.47. Volume was 4,400,000 shares compared with 4,074,000 traded Thursday.

Clair's Job Could Be In Jeopardy With 'Riders

By JERRY GLADMAN
Canadian Press Staff Writer

Midway through the season, Frank Clair's job as head coach of the Ottawa Rough Riders' was never more secure.

Recently, however, rumor has it that after three straight losses, which saw the Riders relinquish first place to Hamilton Tiger - Cats, Clair's club will have to make a good showing in the EFC finals to save him from the chopping block.

But Ottawa club officials denied reports that Clair's job is in jeopardy.

"It is the most ridiculous thing I have heard in my two years with the Ottawa club," general manager Red O'Quinn said Friday.

"In all my time here Frank Clair's future has never been questioned or ever mentioned," he said. "I am in touch constantly with the club directors and the matter has never entered any conversation."

"There has been no discussion about Clair at all," agreed club president Barry O'Brien. "We are not the kind of employers to hold a gun to a man's head and say 'win or else.' The whole idea is nonsense."

O'Brien said that as far as he is concerned Clair will have "no trouble obtaining a contract renewal when the time comes."

COULD USE WIN

Clair is anxious to get started on a recovery program and, while today's match in Toronto against the last - place Argonauts is meaningless in the standings, an impressive win could be just the medicine Clair and the Riders need to silence the critics.

RUSS JACKSON
. . . goes to the air.

Hamilton and Montreal Alouettes wind up the regular schedule in Montreal Sunday in a game which likewise will have no effect on the standings.

Hamilton has first place locked up, with Ottawa second, Montreal third and Argos last.

The sudden - death eastern semi-final playoff opens in Ottawa Nov. 7 with Montreal visiting. If Ottawa wins, the first of a two-game, total-point final between the Rough Riders and Hamilton will be played at Ottawa Nov. 14. If the Alouettes win, the first game will be played at Montreal Nov. 14 or 15, depending on the outcome next week of an intercollegiate game.

Clair has refused to say the rumors bother him.

"I think we'll do all right when we meet Montreal in the semi-final," he said. "Our biggest problem is getting our offence working again. We have to get (quarterback Russ) Jackson passing like he is capable of doing and get Whit Tucker back in the lineup."

HAS BACK TROUBLE

Tucker, one of the country's outstanding pass receivers, has been out of action with back trouble. Clair has been working him out the last couple of weeks, but will most likely save him for the Montreal clash.

The Riders placed on waivers rookie quarterback Junior Edge from the University of North Carolina. The move was made necessary by the signing earlier this week of halfback Bo Scott from Ohio State.

Today's game will be broadcast on the CBC national television network starting at 2 p.m.

Argos have nothing at stake in today's outing and will take the opportunity to look over some of their youngsters. Karl Sweetan will start at quarterback, with regular pivot Jackie Parker holding down a halfback spot.

Liston's Fine After KO Number 10

PLYMOUTH, Mass. (AP)—"I should have worn 'em out the last time and I wouldn't have this fight coming up."

That's challenger Sonny Liston's view of the 10 fallen sparring partners in his preparations to regain the world heavyweight title from Cassius Clay Nov. 16.

Liston was asked about the way he's gone through sparmates after his savage left hook badly wobbled and hurt last-minute draftee Curtis Bruce, a fast and cute boxer.

Sonny admitted: I didn't work half as hard for the first fight as I have this time."

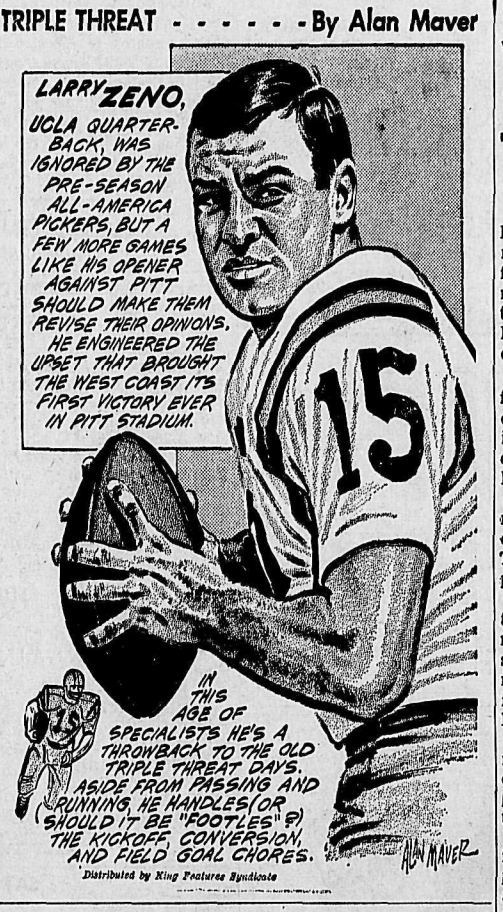
TRIPLE THREAT - - - - - - By Alan Maver



"Nitro Line" Paces Kimberley To 3-2 Win Over Rossland

ROSSLAND (Special to the Daily News)—Kimberley Dynamiters' "nitro line" exploded for two goals in a Western International Hockey League game to help defeat a tired band of Rossland Warriors 3-2 here Friday night.

Rossland appeared hot in the first period as Warriors pressed the attack and finally capitalized on a goal by Gerry Godfrey, on a passout from Johnny Paolone late in the period.

Kimberley roared back two minutes later when Walt Peacosh, Les Lilley and Ken McTeer teamed up for a three-way pass-play to tie the score.

Dynamiters took complete control of the play in the second period when John Vincent was left standing in front of the Warrior net to receive the puck from the face-off scramble and fire it past Rossland goalie Seth Martin.

The Warriors never seemed to regain the fire they had displayed in the early part of the first period, trying vainly to break through the Kimberley defence.

McTeer and Peacosh joined forces again late in the second period as Peacosh fed McTeer a short pass which he backhanded off the pads of Martin, ending the scoring in the period.

Apparently revived between periods, the Warriors bounded back in a minute and 30 seconds of the third frame, when Al Bentley, on passes from Charlie Goodwin and Ivan Shusheski, poked the puck past Kimberley's Dave Wardle.

Again and again the Warriors tried to penetrate the impregnable Dynamiter defence, but each time they failed.

Rossland had several opportunities to capitalize on Kimberley when they were a man short but could not beat the able penalty-killing of the Dynamiters' Bob Steenson.

Rossland pulled Martin in favor of three attackers with a minute and 30 seconds remaining in the final period and seemed to do everything but put the puck past Wardle.

This was Rossland's fourth game in six days and Kimberley appeared well-rested after a seven-day layoff.

Rossland's loss does not alter the first-place standings which have Rossland and Spokane tied with 11 points each but moves Kimberley two points ahead of Nelson and gives them sole possession of second place.

WIHL action continues here tonight when the Maple Leafs play host to Rossland Warriors and Spokane hosts the Dynamiters.

Lineups:

Kimberley—goal, Wardle; defence, Sinclair, Steenson, McTeer, Peacosh, Lilley, Hooker, Gallamore, Kenney, Vincent, Passmore, Souter, Manchester, Wildeman, King.

Rossland—goal, Martin; defence, Conn, Andrews, Bentley, Goodwin, Susheski, Gallamore, Paolone, Godfrey, Martin, Legare, Wyatt, Reid, Stoltz, Hamilton, Lee.

Summary:

First period—1, Rossland, Godfrey (Paolone) 12:37; 2, Kimberley, Peacosh (Lilley, McTeer) 14:35. Penalties: Susheski 1:18, Gallamore 11:02, Gallamore 18:50.

Second period—3, Kimberley Vincent (Kenney, Passmore) 7:55; 4, Kimberley, McTeer (Peacosh) 9:28. Penalties: Paolone 14:12; Gallamore 10:03; Gallamore 11:04; Hooker 11:31; Gallamore 14:32; Steenson 15:46 Gallamore 15:46 (10 min. misc.)

B.C. Needs Only Tie To Win WFC Title

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

British Columbia Lions and Saskatchewan Roughriders both assured of playoff berths, this weekend were expected to run into tough contests against Western Conference clubs who have nothing to lose, and only new contracts to gain.

Lions need only a tie with last-place Winnipeg Blue Bombers to win the conference championship and the bye into the western final.

Besides a victory, Roughriders are looking for a season's attendance mark of 130,000 fans when they meet Edmonton Eskimos there today.

Dave Skrien's powerful Lions are not particularly healthy for the league's last game, and the head coach says they'll try to inject as much import strength into the offence as possible.

This will mean replacing Canadian halfback Bill Lasseter, who started in Wednesday's game which Lions lost 26-14 to Calgary, with import rookie Lou Holland and putting Tom Hinton back in at tackle.

TAYLOR OUT

Hinton, out for one game with an ankle injury, was replaced in Calgary with Willie Taylor, but Taylor has since been declared ineligible.

But B.C. will be without punter Neal Beaumont and defensive back Steve Shafer. Skrien says Mack Burton will replace Beaumont and Ron Morris will replace Shafer and handle punting duties.

"It's a matter of Winnipeg's shape," said Skrien. "They haven't played for two weeks, and men playing despite injuries probably are in full health."

Bomber head coach Bud Grant murmured there wasn't much to chatter about. His team is on a 12-game losing streak and Grant says "we're just providing the opposition."

Said Grant: "Lions have to give it their best, but we've got nothing to lose and we're going to do that too. Aside from nine men still on the injured list, all hands are healthy and there are no additions.

LONG SEASON

"It's been a long season. We'll be glad when it's over so we can go to work on next year."

Meanwhile, Edmonton head coach Neill Armstrong, already under a new two-year contract, has started on next year.

"The boys all know we want them back next season, and after that tight 17-16 loss to Calgary, they want to win this one real bad. Not that their jobs hinge on wnning, but another victory would be nice," he said.

Regina hearts were warmed by the thought of the return of quarterback Ron Lancaster, sidelined for nearly four games with a severe rib injury.

Lancaster's return would allow substitute pivot Bob Ptacek to return to corner linebacker in the defensive backfield, adding strength to a faltering Regina pass defence.

Shaw feels this would be a help.

INJURY HIT

"It's been injuries more than anything else that have fouled up the pass defence. Larry Dumelie played the last two games with an injured neck, Gene Wlasiuk with an injured hip and Dale West with a heel that had to be frozen," he said.

Riders need 13,000 fans in the stadium to reach the 130,000 mark, and a victory to bring their record to 9-7, the best since 1956 when Frank Filchok piloted them to 10 wins and six losses.

"Look at the Eskimos' record in recent games. They beat Winnipeg twice, lost to Calgary by one point and stayed with Lions most of the way. They'll be loose for this one and should give us a real go," Shaw said.

Toronto's Defence Needs Some New Life

By JERRY GLADMAN
Canadian Press Staff Writer

Toronto Maple Leafs have a piece of first place and Boston Bruins are last in the National Hockey League race, but Leafs appear to have almost as many problems as the tail-end Bruins.

The defending Stanley Cup champion Leafs, who play host to Chicago Black Hawks in Saturday night action, are currently undergoing treatment for sloppy defence, erratic shooting and ineffective penalty killing.

The Bruins, who will be in Montreal against the Canadiens Saturday, are bogged down with similar ailments—too few goal scorers and seven losses and one tie in eight games.

Toronto, tied with Detroit Red Wings and Montreal for first place, will travel to Detroit Sunday while the Bruins are at home to Chicago. Montreal will toil in New York against the Rangers.

LEAFS ARE FORTUNATE

Despite their weaknesses to date, however, Leafs have been a sight more fortunate than Boston. Coach Punch Imlach's charges share first place with Montreal and Detroit and have lost only once in seven starts (three ties).

The Leafs' difficulties really came to light Wednesday when they dropped a 5-2 verdict to Montreal after shading Chicago 3-2 the previous night.

Imlach summed up his problems in three sentences:

"My defence wasn't moving the way it should. You can't beat a guy (goalie) if you can't hit the net. A lot of things have gone wrong with our penalty killing."

The downfall in the penalty killing department has hampered Leafs most. In 70 games last season, the quartet of Dave Keon, Ron Stewart, George Armstrong and Bob Pulford had the best record in the league — allowing rival power plays fewer than 30 goals.

This year it's an entirely different story. Toronto has been scored on 18 times, 10 of which were with a man disadvantage. It adds up to the worst record of penalty killing in the league.

The word is that Imlach might break up forward pairings of Keon-Armstrong and Pulford-Stewart and use defenceman Kent Douglas or wingers Don McKenney and Jim Pappin.

"It isn't all the forwards' fault," he said, "but I can't do much with the defence combinations. Defencemen get the majority of penalties so your pairings are predetermined."

Details for Russia Game Completed

TRAIL, B.C. (CP) — Arrangements were completed Friday for an exhibition hockey game between Western International League All-Stars and the Russian national team here Dec. 23.

Details of the arrangements have not been announced.

The game was announced some time ago but drew protests from the league that the Trail arena is too small and there was no protection against financial losses.

It was suggested that the Russians play in Spokane, Wash., which has a large arena.

The league asked the B.C. Amateur Hockey Association for financial assistance if the game was to be held here. The Association agreed only to forego its usual three per cent of the gate.

Negotiations continued and agreement was announced Friday.

Pat Murphy, vice-president of the Spokane Jets of the WIHL, said his city is the only one with proper facilities for the game.

The captains of each of the five teams in the senior league will submit a choice and an alternate choice for the all-star team.

MONEY FOR SCHOOLS

LONDON (AP)—An independent survey reports at least $1,400,000,000 is needed to replace unsanitary and inadequate school buildings in England and Wales. The available monies budgeted for such replacements through 1967 is $224,000,000.

NEW FACE IN NELSON Maple Leaf lineup? Yes! In keeping with the Hallowe'en spirit, playing coach Bobby Kromm promises to have a surprise in store for the visiting Rossland Warriors when they take to the ice for a Western International Hockey League game at Civic Centre tonight. Kromm wasn't revealing the name of the man behind the pumpkin Friday, but his initials are believed to be Howie Hornby.

ROME (AP)—The Chamber of Deputies has approved a bill for summer daylight time in Italy, putting clocks ahead one hour for the April 30-Sept. 30 period in 1965. Italians have shunned daylight time largely because they claim it reminds them of Mussolini, and wartime measures.

Reds Open Wall For First Time In Three Years

BERLIN (AP)—Thousands of happy West Berliners streamed into the Soviet sector Friday to visit relatives after the Communists opened the Berlin wall for the second time in three years.

A few hours after Red guards raised the candy-striped steel barriers and unlocked the steel gates, the official East German news agency reported that 6,000 West Berliners had crossed over.

This was far more than expected. On the first day of last year's visiting period, the first the Reds had allowed since they built their anti-refugee wall in August 1961, only about 4,000 crossed all day.

The wall will remain open to persons with the necessary passes until Nov. 12—over the All Saints' holiday. It is the first of four visiting periods within the next 12 months.

Changes in Water Temperatures May Affect River Fish

EPHRATA, Wash. (AP) — Future salmon and steelhead runs on the Columbia River will be endangered by increased water temperatures when the upper river is bottled up between the High Arrow Dam in British Columbia and Priest Rapids Dam, according to a report issued Thursday.

The report was prepared by Dr. F. A. Davidson, biologist for the Grant County Public Utility District, and Prof. J.J. Raphael, engineering consultant for the PUD.

It includes a study of present temperature changes in the river from Priest Rapids Dam to the Canadian border and what they may be after the High Arrow Dam is built.

When High Arrow is built the river could absorb so much heat during summer months that it could raise "downstream temperature in the vicinity of Priest Rapids to a point where it could become critical to the survival of the salmon and steelhead," the report said.

The report said the bottom of the reservoir behind the Canadian dam is expected to be 19 to 24 degrees below that now flowing out of the upper lakes during late summer. It suggested installation of a siphon to draw off this cooler water in order to lower the temperature of the river.

Your Individual Horoscope

By Frances Drake

For Monday, November 2, 1964

MARCH 21 to APRIL 20 (Aries) — A number of small matters well attended can add up to a winning day. Begin early to determine just where you wish to go, and why. Make time for relaxation, however.

APRIL 21 to MAY 21 (Taurus) — Your attitude and reactions to others and to situations you do not particularly like will be important now. A good day for improving the mind, receiving favors, making appointments.

MAY 22 to JUNE 21 (Gemini) — Your emotions will bear investigation now. Where can you help smooth out wrinkles, problems, ruffled feelings? Neatness and orderliness will be important.

Economy of Airliner in Some Doubt

LONDON (AP) — Aviation Minister Roy Jenkins said Friday he found French officials sympathetic and interested in doubts of the British Labor government about the joint project to build a supersonic airliner, the Concorde.

Jenkins, speaking to reporters after talks in Paris, denied Britain wanted to scrap its part of the agreement, but said he wished to explain to the French "why we wanted this project urgently reviewed."

"It is urgent because of the economic situation at home and we also have doubts about the economic viability of the plane —whether, when produced, it will be something airlines want to operate without a subsidy," Jenkins said.

The agrement to build the Concorde was signed Nov. 29, 1962. Builders are the British Aircraft Corp. and the Sud-Aviation Company. The schedule has called for the prototype to fly in 1966 and deliveries to begin in 1970.

The cost originally was estimated at from $420,000,000 to $476,000,000. This was increased to nearly $800,000,000 to be divided equally by the two nations.

"If we were convinced that the investment in the concorde from our point of view and from the French point of view would help us to pay our way in the world consistent with the amount of money spent on it, then of course we would have to go ahead, but at the moment we have our doubts," Jenkins said.

Noted Gems Stolen From N.Y. Museum

NEW YORK (AP)—Thieves stole approximately $200,000 worth of precious stones from Manhattan's famed Museum of Natural History sometime during the night, police reported Friday.

The items taken were from the J. P. Morgan collection of minerals and gems.

Among the eight stones missing were two of the most famous in the collection — the "star ruby" and the "star of India."

McIlraith Is New Gov't House Leader

OTTAWA (CP)—Privy Council President McIlraith has been named government House leader for the remainder of the session, succeeding Justice Minister Guy Favreau.

Prime Minister Pearson made the announcement to the Commons Friday and explained that Mr. Favreau had asked some time ago to be relieved of the post because of his other duties.

Besides holding down the House leadership this session and the justice post, Mr. Favreau is the prime minister's Quebec lieutenant and is responsible for party organization in that province.

It is understood that the choice of Mr. Favreau's successor was between Mr. McIlraith, a veteran of 24 years in the Commons, and Labor Minister MacEachen.

Mr. McIlraith, 56, represents the Ottawa west riding.

Following the Liberals minority election victory last year, Mr. McIlraith was named transport minister. He became Privy Council president early this year when Mr. Pearson altered his cabinet before the session opened in February.

The government House leader has the time-consuming task of conducting inter-party negotiations with other party House leaders in an attempt to organize the business of the Commons.

Passed Bad Cheque To Feed Family Says Father of 11

PRINCE GEORGE (CP)—Albert Hellens, 45, of Quesnel, who claimed he passed a worthless cheque to buy groceries for his family of 11, was given a six month suspended sentence for false pretences Thursday.

Hellens told magistrate G. O. Stewart he passed a $55 cheque at a Prince George supermarket at a time when he was unemployed and not able to receive welfare benefits for two weeks.

"I had no other alternative . . . it was either write that cheque or let the family go hungry," he said.

In passing sentence, Magistrate Stewart said "it has always been my policy to sentence the individual and not the offence."

Hellens was ordered to make restitution.

Scholarship Plan Far From Dead—Pearson

OTTAWA (CP)—The government's scholarship plan is "far from being dead," Prime Minister Pearson said Friday in the Commons.

He was replying to Opposition Leader Diefenbaker who suggested that Mr. Pearson had sounded the death knell of the plan to provide 10,000 scholarships for university students.

The subject arose in the question period when Mr. Diefenbaker asked whether the National Conference of Canadian Universities has asked for an increase in federal grants to universities.

Mr. Pearson said no request has yet been received. This year direct federal assistance totalling $224,000,000 was being given the universities. This was much greater than in any previous year.

Mr. Pearson also said in reply to Heward Grafftey (PC—Brome-Missisquoi) that he still believes that free education, though not possible for some time, is the ideal that should be realized eventually.
