Redistribution Report To Be Given January 27

Populous Lower Mainland Presses For Higher Representation

VANCOUVER (CP) — The British Columbia cabinet will have before the next sitting of the legislature a plan for the redistribution of provincial constituencies.

A royal commission headed by Dr. Henry Angus finished its work Tuesday and the chairman said his report will be ready before the legislature sits Jan. 27.

The commission toured the province. Its terms of reference said there should be no less than 48 members of the legislature and no more than the present 52.

No electoral district should have less than 7,500 voters. The vast Atlin constituency in northern B.C. now has 1,574 registered voters while Dewdney in the Fraser Valley has 38,638.

The commission was under strong pressure from the Lower Mainland areas to change the present pattern of a heavy rural representation in the legislature.

The populous Lower Mainland area, comprising Greater Vancouver, New Westminster and the Fraser Valley, has 55 per cent of B.C.'s population. But it has only 17 of the 52 seats in the House.

There were also strong complaints about multi-member constituencies in the Greater Vancouver area.

Two New Democratic Party MLAs complained it is possible for a party to win only 28 per cent of the population but still have a majority of seats in the legislature.

Dr. Angus implied he will recommend abolition of multi-member constituencies. He said if the provincial government desires such constituencies it could combine two constituencies.

The city of Vancouver and municipalities of West Vancouver, Burnaby and North Vancouver asked for more members.

Reeve Alex Forst of West Vancouver supported Liberal leader Ray Perrault who sought the abolition of the two-member North Vancouver constituency and formation of three one-member ridings.

Mr. Perrault also said representation by population would not be practical in B.C.

ROME (AP) — Cuba's delegate to the world conference of the United Nations Food and Agriculture Organization said Monday that 70 per cent of all his country's land now is owned by the state. Mario Garcia Inchaustegui, director of the international organizations department of the Cuban ministry of foreign trade, told the FAO the remaining land belongs to small farmers.

Pulp Surplus Forecast

VANCOUVER (CP)— Forest industry spokesmen in British Columbia are sticking to their prediction that there will be a serious surplus of pulp in the world in the next few years.

Some leaders in the field took issue Tuesday with Ralph Loffmark, British Columbia trade minister, for his statement:

"There are warnings of overproduction — don't you believe it."

J. V. Clyne, chairman and chief executive officer of MacMillan, Bloedel and Powell River Limited said:

"Mr. Loffmark's remarks are not in accordance with the facts."

T. N. Beaupre, chairman and chief executive officer of B.C. Forest Products Limited, said the minister's remarks were "shocking and irresponsible."

"He is taking B.C.'s capacity and trading it off against world demand as if there weren't any new mills going up in the U.S., eastern Canada and Scandinavia," Mr. Beaupre said.

L. L. G. Bentley, vice-president of Canadian forest Products Limited, which has major interests in two pulp mills under construction in the Prince George area, said Mr. Loffmark should correct his statement.

Canada Can Afford Medicare, Hospital Administrators Told

Health Services Should Be Left In Private Hands

OTTAWA (CP)—Governments should operate universal programs to insure the public against the costs of health care and leave to private, profit-making organizations the task of supplying the health care.

Dr. J. J. Madden, a former federal health department economist working now at the University of Guelph, said education and health insurance are the only fields where the free market system does not work successfully.

He was speaking to a working conference on health services sponsored by 21 church, labor, farm and business organizations. It is examining the Hall royal commission report on health services and proposals for medical insurance plans.

Dr. Madden said no private medical insurance plan can be successful because there is no compulsion to make people join. The patient is not competent to judge how to buy medical insurance, so the state should provide him with a full insurance program.

He said there is government interference or subsidies in all province-wide plans in operation in Canada.

INTERFERES IN MARKET

"We have gone so far in interfering with the free market that I say let's recognize the market doesn't work and offer a publicly-operated universal plan."

Dr. Madden said there is no reason why all health services cannot be provided by private, profit-making operations.

"Suppose we provide comprehensive health insurance for all individuals and families and that this generates sufficient funds to attract the resources the health services industry needs, why should not commercial companies selling health services compete for the consumer's dollar?

"Why should not profit-oriented group practices with their own hospitals compete with individual practitioners or . . . voluntary hospitals?"

Dr. Madden also said if everyone is put in the position of buying health insurance, the medical profession must be prepared to meet the demands for service. These demands must be met even if the result is a lowering in the quality of services.

"We must face the fact that it is no good for some people to go without any health care. We must expand even if it involves a loss of quality."

A SAD PARTING—Guide dog Penny and blind Wilfred D. Thibeault, 64, say goodby in Portland, Me., after Penny served him faithfully for seven years. Eye abcesses blinded Penny, so she was put to sleep forever. Thibeault went to the Guide Dog School in Smithtown, L.I., N.Y., for another helpmate.

Well Within Reach Of Affluent Society Says Hospital Head

OTTAWA (CP) — Hospital administrators from all provinces were told Tuesday Canada can afford the high cost of a comprehensive prepaid medical care program.

Dr. Arnold Swanson, executive-director of the London, Ont., Victoria Hospital, said in a speech to the first educational assembly on hospital administration that both the Saskatchewan government and the public "were unduly fearful of what the costs of medicare might be."

"The costs are indeed large but are well within the financial capability of a modern, wealthy society."

Dr. Swanson said government figures show that education and highway costs climbed much more sharply than did health in the years after comprehensive health plan was introduced in a province.

More patients were treated with no increase in the rate of cost. However, this was partly the result of government pressure on hospitals to keep costs down.

PUBLIC WORRIED

"The public too had been greatly alarmed in pre-medicare years by the wide-spread debate on possible ruinous costs of medicare and of a complete medical service."

A result was a probable lack of improvement in the quality of hospital services available in Saskatchewan because more patients were treated at about the same cost, Dr. Swanson said.

Comparing figures for health costs and highway and education costs, he used an eight-year period up to 1964, two years after the medical plan started there.

Dr. Swanson said "there is a crying need for all in the health field to present their case for the need of high quality and necessarily costly health services of all types in the interest of sound economy.

"The costs of providing good health programs and thereby a healthy community are not to be feared; they must be faced and met with determination in the interests of sound economic advance."

Dr. J. Wendall Macleod, executive-secretary of the Association of Canadian Medical Colleges, said introduction of a medical care program in Canada "would accentuate certain training problems in the teaching of medical students . . . but introduce no new problems of which I am aware."

Such a program could be a help in accelerating efforts to solve the present problems.

Prison Assaults Mount

VANCOUVER (CP) — The B.C. director of corrections said Tuesday an increasingly hostile attitude among inmates has led to a disturbing increase in assaults against prison guards.

Selwyn Rocksborough Smith said there were 31 assaults against prison officers in the 1964-65 fiscal year compared 24 and 16 in the two previous years.

He suggested the trend toward aggressive attitudes, particularly among inmates under the age of 30, could be a reflection of a lack of discipline in the community as a whole.

He said the assaults have ranged from minor to serious with two guards, one at Kamloops and the other at Oakalla Prison Farm, possibly having suffered permanent damage from attacks in the last year.

PLEAD GUILTY

MATSQUI (CP) — Fredrick Lambright and Robert Reid pleaded guilty and were remanded to Dec. 8 for sentence on three charges of breaking and entering and one of possession of housebreaking tools.

Canadians To Entertain Troops on Foreign Soil

TORONTO (CP) — Some of Canada's top entertainers head for Cyprus this weekend to stage pre - Christmas variety shows for Canadian and other United Nations peacekeeping troops.

Gordie Tapp, versatile emcee of CBC-TV's Country Hoedown and one of the best-known radio-TV personalities in Canada, heads the group.

With him are singer Doug Crosley of Oshawa, Ont., old-time fiddle champion Al Cherney, who started his career at the age of 12 in 1944 in Medicine Hat, and magician Bob Downey of Windsor, Ont.

And there are girls of course —Toronto's Jean Christopher, 24-year-old actress who has become, almost unwittingly, a sex symbol; Daniele Dorice of Quebec City, a star of French-Canadian TV; and the attractive Lounsbury sisters from St. Catharines, Ont., flaming baton twirlers.

MAKE TENTH TRIP

The trip to the Mediterranean island is the 10th in a series of concerts for Canadian troops, initiated by the defence department in 1961 and organized by producer Ken Dalziel of the CBC.

Shows have gone five times to the UN emergency force in the Middle East—the latest one in May this year—three times to European NATO bases and to Cyprus in 1964.

The entertainers and the 13-piece band of Toronto jazz clarinetist Phil Nimmons leave Trenton, Ont., Sunday and return Dec. 14. They will do six shows, including one at the British Imperial base at Famagusta on Cyprus.

SAFETY CONSCIOUSNESS is being graphically promoted in Nelson through the aid of the above wreck which was placed directly behind the John Houston Memorial as part of Safety Week campaign which began today.

Some Chronic Care Cases To Come Under BCHIS

VICTORIA (CP) — Chronic care in non-profit nursing homes will come under B.C. Hospital Insurance Wednesday, Health Minister Martin announced Tuesday.

The cost to the patient will be $1 a day.

Mr. Martin estimated there are 3,000 persons in the province who would be eligible for the benefits, but many in this group are welfare cases and their hospital care is paid in full by that department.

To be eligible, patients must have an illness or disability and be unable to move or do things for themselves without the aid of trained staff.

"In essence this means that patients to be eligible must require continuing skilled nursing services and continuing medical supervision," he said.

"The extended hospital care program will not cover people who can be looked after in a boarding home or rest home."

Mr. Martin said about 1020 beds will come under almost immediate coverage and the initial cost is about $3,000,000. The program was "worked out" with the federal government which will pay 50 per cent of the operational costs.

The eventual cost to cover the estimated 3,000 eligible was estimated at $10,000,000.

The announcement of the program, approved by cabinet order-in-council Tuesday, was an extension of a provincial scheme initiated last spring.

Storms Still Raking Europe

LONDON (AP) — Gales lashed much of Europe Tuesday while rain, snow, sleet and ice added to the harshness of the Continental winter.

In Britain, heavy snow spread further over Scotland and northern England. Gales in the English Channel and Irish Sea kept ferry and cargo boats in port at Liverpool and halted flights between London and the Channel Islands.

The forecast was for higher temperatures and rain, bringing the threat of floods in the low-lying English midlands. Along the Scottish-English border more highways were blocked with snow than at any time in the last 15 years. Hundreds of persons in northern country districts were marooned in their homes.

Gov't Workers Pay Hikes To Be Announced

OTTAWA (CP)—Civil service pay increases for professional employees will likely be announced Dec. 9, Revenue Minister Benson said Tuesday.

He disclosed in an interview new rates for administrative and clerical workers—the second and larger civil service group — will likely be announced Dec. 16.

Both are interim increases on a final settlement that is due next spring.

Man Charged With Woman's Slaying

BURNABY (CP)—A 42-year-old woman was shot and killed Tuesday before a son she had met only recently after a separation of 14 years.

Mrs. Lenora Wilson, 42, died instantly when she was shot in the chest by a high-powered hunting rifle just as she stepped out of a truck driven by the son, David McDougall of Whitehorse, Y.T.

A witness said she was walking away from the car in the parking lot of an Army, Navy and Air Force Veterans in Canada unit when a man put a rifle to his shoulder and fired from a distance of six feet. The man fled in a car.

Michael Gregory Kusyk, 38, was later charged with capital murder. He will appear in police court today.

Mrs. Wilson operated the lunch counter at the Army and Navy unit in this municipality adjoining Vancouver. Club manager Les Veale said the mother and son had not seen each other for 14 years.

Edward Chapoux said the gunman fired from a distance of six feet.

"He was facing in my direction. He had the rifle at his shoulder when he fired."

Mr. Veale said the gunman often waited for Mrs. Wilson.

Richard Wells, a bartender, said he heard a shot and ran to the parking lot.

"I saw her slumped beside the truck and heard her son scream: 'He shot my mother.'"

DISBARRED LAWYER GIVEN 5-YEAR TERM

TORONTO (CP)—John Mills Drysdale, 39, of Toronto, a disbarred lawyer who was an unsuccessful Liberal candidate for Scarborough East in the 1963 provincial election, was sentenced to five years Tuesday after pleading guilty to 28 charges of theft and uttering forged cheques.

Drysdale was charged with thefts involving $146,000.

He was disbarred Sept. 28 at a special convocation of the Upper Canada Law Society.

He was questioned by police Oct. 8 and charged with theft of $11,000 from a client's account. Monday police placed 24 charges linking him with the theft of $135,000 from clients' trust accounts. He was charged also with four counts of uttering.

Canada Would Consider Joining OAS—Pearson

From Reuters-AP

KINGSTON, Jamaica (AP)—Prime Minister Pearson said Tuesday Canada would seriously consider an official invitation to joi nthe Organization of American States.

The Canadian prime minister, who had two days of talks here with government leaders, told a press conference Canada's position is similar to that of Jamaica and Trinidad - Tobago, which also do not belong to the OAS.

He said the three countries, which sent observers to the two-week hemisphere conference that ended Tuesday in Rio de Janeiro, would keep in close touch so that they might act in unison on OAS membership.

The prime minister and Mrs. Pearson have been in Kingstor since Sunday. The official visit to Jamaica and one to Trinidad-Tobago that will follow are the first by a Canadian head of government since the islands became independent.

On wider issues, Pearson told his press conference it was his opinion economic sanctions imposed on Rhodesia up to now would not work, but that he preferred total sanctions, oil included, before military sanctions are tried.

CANADA CAN'T DICTATE

The Canadian government, he said, could not dictate to importers where they should get their sugar, but he hoped that Jamaican and West Indian sugar might replace some of the $2,500,000 worth of Rhodesian sugar orders that had been cancelled.

The prime minister said there would always be some tension between Canada and the United States. This was understandable, he said, since Washington as the seat of world power could control the destinies of Western Hemisphere countries.

But he said Canada had always expressed itself frankly and would continue to do so. Relations between the two countries are better now than they have been for a long time, he said.

War Toys—Out of Mouths of Babes

OTTAWA (CP)—The annual argument about whether war toys make suitable Christmas presents for children is about to reach its regular climax again.

The Ottawa Journal turned to grade 4 pupils of St. Daniel's separate school here for opinions on the matter.

Here are some of their views—in their own words, and spelling:

—"Well I think it is good if they want the guns. And if the parents agree. But they should stop them when they get to about 10 or 11. Not any latter or they will grow up like Hitteler."

—"I think war toys are in a way dangerous. But why should parennts wory. We aren't going to start a war. Like these gernades that exploding are dangerous but that is around the only thing. Parents are silly to worry. Some of their own husband are in the army and they don't worry."

—"I think that the growen-up people are right. We are all hoping not to have war and yet the stores are selling war toys. All the boys are getting war toys and everything was quite and now all you hear is bang! bang! and they are putting it on the telefision."

—"Why do adults don't let us have army toys? They don't hurt us. What harm has it done. And if we don't buy how will the storekeeper sell things to get money."

—"I personaly think war toys are harmful, not to the body but to the mind. Children who growup with guns and who like to see men shot or blown up usaly like to kill just for the fun of seeing things detstryed."

—"My mother is right that toy guns are very much fun to play with. When I grow up I will try not to buy a real one and if I do I will shot myself."

—"I don't like war toys because soldiers died for us. War toys should not be in stores. In the store they should have games like 'catch the mouse' and all the others. At Christmas don't ask for soliders."

All-Out Informational Program On School Referendum Planned

City residents won't go short on information on Nelson School District No. 7's proposed $778,675 capital school expansion program, which will go to referendum vote December 11.

Besides the conventional methods of communication, the signboard services of school buses will be utilized to get the message across to the voting public, it was decided by the school board Monday night.

Reporting for the finance committee, Mrs. B. K. Ryley told the meeting that a special brochure will be prepared on the facts and figures of the referendum by students at L. V. Rogers High School to be mailed to householders in the school district. In addition, a special outline of facts and figures has been supplied to all school district principals.

Chairman R. A. Phillips recommended that the finance committee be given a "free hand" as far as publicizing the referendum was concerned.

The idea of using school buses came from school principals, Mr. Phillips said. The suggestion precipitated some discussion on the dangers of setting precedent for future requests for publicity purposes. If such requests followed educational lines, they might be considered, said D. G. R. Sargent.

A motion by Mrs. Ryley to have bus posters prepared as soon as possible was approved. The board also approved a motion by Mr. Sargent to give the finance committee power to act. It was noted by Mrs. Ryley that preparation of the referendum brochure by L. V. Rogers students as well as those of Kootenay School of Art fell in line with their normal training and would constitute a beneficial part of their courses.

A resolution confirming the referendum polling date of December 11 was passed, as was a motion by Mrs. Ryley naming school board secretary C. B. Loff returning officer and C. M. McNown deputy returning officer. Remuneration of $50 to each of the above named was also approved.

Work of finance committee members in preparation of referendum publicity was lauded by Mr. Phillips.

Other business conducted included approval of a motion by Mrs. Ryley for payment of $100 to Rev. D. A. Cline as teacher negotiation officer. It was noted that a like sum would be put up by teachers themselves in payment for Mr. Cline's services.

A request from J. S. Pritchard, bursar for West Kootenay Regional College ,that the school board ask the department of education for temporary borrowing authority was approved.

The board also approved in principle permission for worthy senior - secondary students to take part in a two-day tour of the Legislature at an unspecified date. Motion was made by Mrs. C. E. Bradshaw, who told the board that to date no interior B.C. students had taken part in the annual tour. It was her understanding that special buses would be provided and no cost would be incurred to the board.

To Stop Parking at 3 Corners

City Council approved recommendations by the Police Department and City Engineer M. D. Puziak for the installation of "No Parking Here To Corner Signs" at three locations in the city due to limited access vision.

The three sites, 20 feet north of the north boundary of Victoria Street on the west side of Stanley Street, 20 feet west of the west boundary of Ward Street, on the north side of Latimer Street and 20 feet north of the north boundary of Silica Street on the east side of Stanley Street, were considered unsafe.

Parked cars caused an obstruction of vision at all three locations.

Regional District Letters Patent To Be Presented

Mayor E. T. Bodard, provisional chairman of Kootenay Central Regional District study committee advised City Council Monday night that the department of municipal affairs hopes to present provincial government approval of letters of patent December 13 in Nelson.

The December 13 meeting would then constitute Kootenay Regional District and appoint a chairman for the 20-member board.

Nelson City Council will entertain visiting representatives following the meeting at city hall.

W. K. Smith, director of finance and statistics division of the Department of Municipal Affairs, is expected to be present at the charter meeting.

Nelson Air Cadets Win High Rating

A general assessment of 97.7 per cent for the training year 1964-65 was received by 561 (Nelson) Squadron of the Royal Canadian Air Cadets.

The squadron, under commanding officer, Flt.-Lt. Norman G. MacLeod, DFC, CD, was rated "excellent" by senior air cadet liaison officer, Wing Commander Lewis of Air Force headquarters, Ottawa.

All three Kootenay squadrons were commended for the diversity of special activities in which they participate. These included a visit to Fairchild Air Force base in Spokane, a visit to a missile base at Davenport, west of Spokane, and participation in the Blossom Festival in Creston.

Many of these activities will be carried out again this year. In addition there will be flying familiarization by the RCAF, a junior hunters' firearm safety program and a physical fitness and judo course to be given Saturday mornings.

The new courses will supplement the existing syllabus of training which includes citizenship, leadership, small arms, theory of flight, navigation, meteorology engines, and with emphasis on citizenship, leadership and physical fitness.

The Nelson squadron parades Thursday nights.

Funeral Held For Pioneer

Funeral service for John Thomas Brown, well known Nelson pioneer who died at the age of 91, was held November 18 from St. Saviour's Pro-Cathedral.

Very Rev. R. W. S. Brown, Dean of Kootenay officiated.

Hymns were "Abide With Me" and "Nearer My God To Thee." Interment was in the IOOF plot in Nelson Memorial Park.

Pallbearers were Austin Moore, John Draper, Fred Brown, Bill Rozinkin, Mike Lindsay and David Brown.

To Extend Water Line

Water line extension of 125 feet was approved by City Council Monday night to service the Roynon property between Trevor and View Streets.

The two-inch line would service Lot 18 off Regent Street at a cost of $750, to come out of existing revenue.

J. A. Maber, water superintendent, reported that the remaining revenue from his capital works estimate for line extension totalled $2528.

Council had earlier discussed the possible amending of the water bylaw under Boundary Extension to include additional services.

Mayor E. T. Bodard stated that existing Boundary Extension projects must be completed first.

Another bylaw would then be created, with the approval of the Inspector of Municipalities.

Remaining funds could then be used to continue capital works projects, reduce debt, purchase or cancel debentures or form part of a reserve fund.

NDU Students Pass Tests

Three Notre Dame University medical records students have passed their examinations given by the Board of Registration of Canadian Association of Medical Record Librarians.

The students, Virginia Johnsen of Victoria; Susan Fowler of High River, Alberta and Catherine Carrall of Tappen, B.C., received the news from the Board of Registration office in Toronto.

Miss Johnsen is assistant medical record librarian at The Jewish Hospital in Montreal; Miss Fowler is assistant medical record librarian at the Calgary General Hospital and Miss Carrall is continuing her studies for a B.Sc. in MRLS at NDU, a four-year course.

Miss Johnsen and Miss Fowler plan to return to NDU to complete their studies for their degree in the 1966-67 academic year .

Cars Collide

SLOCAN CITY — A head-on collision due to slippery road conditions on the bluffs in the Cape Horn area near here saw only minor damage to the two vehicles.

Drivers, Rev. Father Hart of New Denver and Donald Blishen of Burnaby, were uninjured.

Cool Reception to Teacher's Request for Board Information

Too much information can be a dangerous thing. At least it can lead to complications, was the consensus of some school board members Monday night.

The object of discussion was a request from a teacher for personal and practical data on the inner workings of the Nelson School Board and its members for preparation of a thesis. Mrs. C. E. Bradshaw commented that a warning had been issued by school superintendent Charles Cuthbert "to be very wary" of such requests in that it might emanate from the Teacher's Federation itself.

Mrs. B. K. Ryley, who broached the subject, doubted that the information requested could be used "in any valid way." Board chairman R. A. Phillips thought that practical information would do no harm. Such a request from individual members of the board was "ridiculous," said D. G. R. Sargent. "I can't answer questions for the rest of the board," he added.

One of the questions concerned educational status of board members, and this found particular disapproval from Mr. Sargent, who felt such information could be "used against you" or incur unfavorable evaluation of the board's scholastic standing. The request, reminded Mrs. Ryley, was to supply research material for a thesis. Mrs. Bradshaw reiterated the warning sounded by the school superintendent and that such a case had actually occurred in the city.

The matter, said Mr. Sargent should be referred to the B.C. School Trustees Association. Mr. Phillips commented that the matter should be left to each individual board member, although he admitted that the question pertaining to educational standing might have been better left out.

Alex Stewart, Hit by Car, Seriously Hurt

Still in serious condition after being struck by a car in Vancouver is Alex Stewart, 91, former police chief of Nelson.

Mr. Stewart has been staying with his son Alex. He was struck by a car at an intersection two weeks ago after getting off a bus at Nanaimo and Seventh Streets to go to his son's home on Eighth Street.

He suffered a broken hip and severe head injuries. His daughter, Mrs. E. J. McGregor of Nelson, who resides at Horlick's Point, is in Vancouver during his hospitalization.

Mr. Stewart was police chief here from 1931 to 1940, and was a policeman for 43 years in Rossland and Nelson .

Kiwanians Enjoy Film

A film on a sharp shooting expert and humorous recordings were presented at the Kiwanis Club meeting Thursday night.

The recordings were brought to the meeting by a group of Trail Kiwanians headed by their president, Joseph Sutcliffe, on an inter-club visit. One featured a Kiwanis convention skit, the other an American entertainer with an amazing ability to imitate sounds such as trains, cars, jets and so on.

The film presented by program chairman Everett Kuhn featured world known marksman Herb Parsons in a demonstration of trick shooting and safe hunting procedures.

HIGH LIFE

Heckling Of Coach Deplored

The Bombers and Bomberettes from L. V. Rogers' high school were both badly beaten in their first basketball games of the season played in Grand Forks on Friday. We are all sorry and hope that they will redeem themselves at their home game this Friday. We also hope they will redeem themselves in another way.

It has been the custom of the members of the school team to give their coach a cheer on the way home on the bus for coaching the team to a win ,or at least trying. But, never have I known the team members to heckle their coach on a return trip. However, on the bus this past Friday night when the Bombers and Bomberettes travelled home from Grand Forks, they did this ungrateful thing.

Fun went a little too far and songs were sung which indirectly hinted nasty comments about the coach. The boys and girls on the team should be taught a little etiquette. Their coaches are there to assist them and they don't try to do things objected to by the team members. If something undesirable does happen, the team should be big enough to overlook it.

I'm sure the coach will let bygones be by-gones for the next trip. But kids, let's not do it again and spoil our chances for more out of town games, or maybe any home games.

City Tax Exemption List Adopted

Nelson City Council adopted a tax exemption bylaw at Monday night's special meeting, governing the Curling Club, Boy Scout and Girl Guide Hall, temporary Mormon Chapel of Church of Jesus Christ of Latter Day Saints, Mount St. Francis Infirmary, Salvation Army Citadel, Cathedral of Mary Immaculate and Parish Hall and Fairview United Church and Hall.

The Curling Rink is leased by the Civic Centre to Nelson Curling Club, which is incorporated under the Societies Act.

Living accommodations above the Salvation Army Citadel are taxable under the Municipal Act.

All exemptions are annually permissive under the Municipal Act and are not statutory exemptions from assessment.

Bus Service To School Popular

F. N. Jenkins, garage and transit department supervisor, reported that Vocational School service is fairly well patronized by local residents and students, in his quarterly report to City Council Monday night.

In the three-month period from August to October, the Transit system operation travelled 26,724 miles and consumed 6,439 gallons of fuel.

Peak month of the three-month period was August.

Vehicles travelled 9,106 miles on 2,106 gallons of fuel.

Revenue climbed in September from $2,285 to $3,144. It dropped slightly in October to $2830.

N. Garner resigned as a transit driver in September and L. Bourgeois was hired as a replacement.

Service to Chatham Street was discontinued November 8.

Safety Council Director To Visit City

S. C. Kershaw, executive director of the B.C. Safety Council, will visit Nelson and District Safety Council Friday and Saturday. At a luncheon Friday Mr. Kershaw will outline the fundamentals of safety and the continuous operation of local safety councils.

Mrs. Popoff Dies in Trail

Mrs. George (Lucy) Popoff, 54, resident of Ootischenia died at Trail-Tadanac Hospital Friday.

Born Jan. 9, 1911, in Verigin, Sask., she came to British Columbia when an infant. She lived in the Brilliant district until her death.

Besides her husband, she is survived by one son, John G. Popoff, and one daughter, Mrs. Pete (Lucy) Nevakshonoff, both of Ootischenia; one brother and one sister, also of Ootischenia; and four grandchildren.

Funeral services were held Sunday from the Ootischenia hall. Interment was in Ootischenia cemetery.

Nominate 1966 Chamber Slate

Art Foster has been nominated as president of the Nelson Chamber of Commerce for 1966.

The nomination committee told a Chamber meeting Thursday that Ron Nelson has been nominated first vice-president; Ross Mark, second vice-president, and John Stanger, third vice-president. George Hoover was nominated as honorary president, and Charles Marlatt as honorary secretary.

Karen Rothel, Lorraine Rankin Win Aggregate Trophies at Elk Valley Riding Club Windup

NATAL — The Elk Valley Riding Club, which organized last June, concluded its first year of activity with a windup banquet, social and dance, also presentation of trophies and ribbons to the various winners during the past season in senior, junior; and Little Britches competitions.

The Woman's Auxiliary to the Anglican Church catered to the banquet, which was attended by 80 members and invited guests. The affair was staged in St. Paul's Anglican Church Hall in Michel. During the evening games were also played for the younger group with prizes given to the winners. A horse auction was held, consisting of plastic bottles with horses painted on and binder twine tails. Each horse had a number which held a prize attached to it. The auctioneer for the occasion was Reega Gregson of Cardston, Alberta. Dancing was enjoyed also.

AGGREGATE WINNER

Winner of the grand aggregate trophy in senior competition, donated by Reega Gregson of Cardston and Stan Lawrence of Fernie, went to Karen Rothel, while top honors and grand aggregate trophy in junior and Little Britches competition, donated by Keith Bailey of Natal, went to Lorraine Rankin.

Miss Rankin was also presented with a silver buckle and won a ribbon for having the best attendance for members under 15 years of age.

The following winners were announced in the senior competition events based on points attained during the season, with first place receiving a trophy and the remainder ribbons.

Barrel Race: 1. Karen Rothel, 2. Howard Rankin, 3. Albert Caregnan, 4. Dick Cook, Allan Cook, Terry Myles (tied).

Stake race: 1. Allan Cook, 2. Karen Rothel, 3. Dick Cook, 4. Moly Schuffle, Albert Caregnan (tied).

Pole bending race: 1. Dick Cook, 2. Allan Cook, 3. Karen Rothel, Keith Bailey (tied), 4. Terry Myles.

Key hole race: 1. Karen Rothel, 2. Keith Bailey, 3. Nello Gioia, 4. Dick Cook .

In the junior and Little Britches competition, Lorraine Rankin won first and grand aggregate honors, with Gordon Polachik taking second place. Third spot was awarded Tillio Porco, with Wendy Rankin winning fourth place.

Judged as good sports in the younger competitions the following were presented with small cups: John Musil, Albert Gioia, Dawn M. and Kenny Rankin.

ORGANIZED IN JUNE

Top Winners in 4-Table Howell

CRESTON — Ernie Naccarato and Madeline Craig were top winning pair in the recent four-table Howell match point bridge game held at Creston.

Other winning pairs were Linda Sampson and Ivy Strand, second; Margaret Murray and Ethel Barnes, third.

Local Herds Top Canada Average

Records of Creston-Trail district milk cows producing for the first full year under the B.C. department of agriculture dairy herd improvement service were well above the Canadian average, records issued by the livestock branch in Victoria show.

Figures were given on animals that had completed records of 305 days or less in Creston Valley and Trail district.

Breed class averages, which take into account the ages of the animals at the time of calving, show percentages of milk and fat ranging from 101-117 to 180-169.

In the following listings, the first 26 are Creston Valley producers; and the last-named — J. Bouma, F. Cnossen and B. Tigchelaar — are from Trail district.

Pine Point's First Concentrate On Way

PINE POINT, N.W.T. (CP) — The first shipment of lead-zinc concentrate from Pine Point Mines Ltd. left for Trail, B.C., Monday.

Twenty railway cars loaded with between 70 and 80 tons of concentrate were to haul the initial load to the smelter of Consolidated Mining and Smelting Company of Canada Ltd.

J. M. B. Scarborough, superintendent of the Pine Point project, said he expects the mine will continue to ship concentrate on a twice-weekly basis.

Pine Point began shipping high grade ore last November. Shipments have been going out on Mondays and Thursdays.

A concentrator was completed this fall and with power newly available from the Taltson River hydro project has been undergoing shakedown tests.

Special 100-ton cars have been ordered to haul the mine's production now that it is going out as concentrate rather than ore.

Blood Donor Clinics for Both Fruitvale, Creston

TRAIL — The Village of Fruitvale will have a Blood Donor Clinic again next year, it was reported at an executive meeting of the Trail Red Cross Branch.

The 1965 Fruitvale clinic was suspended in favor of a clinic at Creston, where none had been established. The suspension was protested by the Trail branch and now arrangements have been made by the B.C. division of the Red Cross to include both Fruitvale and Creston in future clinics.

The 1966 clinic is expected to be held early in the second week of June, a week or so earlier than the 1965 clinic.

Murray Bowen, chairman of the blood donor committee, said the 1966 dates were an improvement but still not early enough to get maximum results, over the last clinic dates which ran into the last week of the month when many people in the district were leaving on holidays.

Mr. Bowen reported a total of 1026 donors had participated in the clinic which had met the quota set for Trail by the B. C. Division but had failed by some 200 donors to meet the branch's own quota.

L. M. McBride, regional Red Cross commissioner, indicated that all blood donor quotas may be extended next year as the demand for Red Cross blood is rapidly increasing. One of the main factors contributing to the increased demand is the rapid expansion of open heart surgery, each case of which may require 30 to 40 pints or more of blood.

Mr. McBride attended the meeting on behalf of Col. D. M. Howard, B.C. commissioner of the Red Cross, who had taken ill suddenly.

Divine Protection Sermon Subject

The divine protection given to David in his fight with Goliath and later his safety from the jealous rage of King Saul was included in the Lesson-Sermon on Sunday at Christian Science churches. The subject was "Ancient and Modern Necromancy, alias Mesmerism and Hypnotism, Denounced."

In the Responsive Reading was this verse from Ephesians 6: "Put on the whole armour of God, that ye may be able to stand against the wiles of the devil."

Damage Heavy In Crashes

SALMO — Two accidents at the Ymir Bridge injured two persons and totalled $1700 in damages over the weekend.

A car driven by David M. Stadler of Robson spun out of control and sustained $900 in damages. One of the three passengers riding in the Stadler car was thrown through the windshield as it struck the abutment and another received minor cuts and bruises.

David Simmons of Salmo escaped injury when his car skidded on the slippery surface and crashed into the bridge. Damage to the car was estimated at $800.

The Swedish Employers' Confederation is planning a rest centre on the Canary Islands for harried executives.

Life Begins at 40 Topic Vali Toastmistress' Club

CASTLEGAR — Vali Toastmistress club members sharpened wits at their November dinner meeting with a debate using the subject: "Resolved that Life Begin at 40!"

The evaluation covered points of technique used in debate. Research, statistics and references carry importance in judging. Members of each team should know in advance their entire plan of debate development to avoid duplication of argument and to pool all information for ready use in rebuttal, it was pointed out.

In the rebuttal, no new material or argument may be submitted, though stronger presentation of an existing argument can be desirable. Participants were reminded that all remarks must terminate at the time bell; otherwise points must be deducted.

WIN ON TECHNIQUE

The team presenting the negative side of debate won out on the strength of points for technique. This practice session prepares the way for a debate to be held with the Castlegar Toastmasters at their December joint dinner meeting and social.

Table topics were varied and animated. The purpose of table topics is to stimulate impromptu presentation of thoughts.

Members discussed such subjects as "Extrasensory Perception" and incidents occurring within their knowledge; "Especially at this time of year with the many cocktail parties in the offing, what are the obligations of a hostess when she knows her guests must travel after leaving the gathering?"; "What can we do to increase our awareness towards greater safety measures in our daily living?"; "What is our reaction to the phone call advising us of Junior's misdemeanors?"

Five guests attended meetings, and Mrs. Peter A. Obedkoff was inducted and welcomed into the Vali Club.

THE TOMATO

In her speech Mrs. R. H. Fenner spoke with authority on Strange Facts About Foods. For example ,the tomato when first grown was considered ornamental only. Some seeds were taken to Italy in the 15th century. More daring citizens there discovered its many fine food qualities and it has ever since been one of the staple products of that country. In England it was held in high esteem not only as a culinary delicacy but it was often presented by a young swain to his ladylove as a token of his affection.

An inspirational thought presented was: "Friends, in this world of hurry and work and sudden end, If a thought comes quick of doing a kindness to a friend — Do it this very instant! Don't put it off — don't wait: What's the use of doing a kindness, If you do it a day too late?

Knights Talk Christmas Project, Charity Fund

NATAL — A Christmas project and a proposed charity fund were planned at the meeting of Father Anthony OMI Council, Knights of Columbus, held in St. Michael's Hall in Natal.

Plans have been completed to undertake a project for the first time this festive season, a "Keep Christ in Christmas" campaign, with two prizes, $15 for first and $10 for second, for the best outdoor scene portraying the Christmas as the birthday of Christ, throughout Natal and District.

Other business transacted included setting aside of a charity fund whereby some assistance could be given to members who are sick for at least two months. A stipulated amount will be presented to every member in good standing who is entitled to the benefit.

In an effort to raise funds for this charity fund, all proceeds from the annual Knights of Columbus Christmas turkey bingo, to be held in St. Michael's Hall at Natal December 11, will go towards this endeavor.

Arrangements were completed for holding a New Year's Eve social and dance jointly with members of the Catholic Women's League and Mount Carmel Society December 31.

A report on the recently attended Knights of Columbus East Kootenay officers' indoctrination course by three members of Father Anthony Council was given and accepted. Those making the trip to Cranbrook to attend this officers' indoctrination course included Andy Latka, Harry Corrigan and Ettore Reghenas. Grand knight Andy Latka chaired the meeting, which was well attended.

CHILDREN ILL

ABBOTSFORD (CP) — The director of the Upper Fraser Valley Health Unit said Tuesday 24 cases of scarlet fever, most of them among children in one elementary school, have been reported.

SADIE HAWKINS DAY winners at Procter, Indian Joe and Hairless Joe took home a 100-pound sack of potatoes and a sack of garden vegetables as first and second prizes, respectively, for best Dogpatch costumes. Sadie Hawkins Day festivities are an annual affair at Procter.

No Place for Force

It is to be hoped that Britain and the other major and responsible nations of the West who have so expeditiously and rightly announced their refusal to condone Mr. Ian Smith's high-handed and illegal action in Rhodesia will also speedily reject any suggestion from irresponsible outside sources that military force be used to depose the present regime.

From a purely practical point of view the logistical and strategic obstacles facing any army, be it British or international, designed to invade Rhodesia are so formidable as to appear impossible — certainly well outside the present military capacity of Great Britain's conventional armed forces.

From a border security point of view it must not be forgotten that Rhodesia has only one neighbor, Zambia, to fear and it happens to be a neighbor who depends almost entirely on the goodwill of Rhodesian government (whether it be legal or illegal) for its major supply of electrical power from the Kariba hydro-power station situated 300 miles south of Victoria Falls in Rhodesia, and on the Rhodesian-controlled railway for its shortest and most economiral link with the sea.

At the moment there has been no interruption in either of these services, mainly because Prime Minister Kaunda of Zambia, though he may officially condemn the Smith government, has sense enough in a selfish way to continue his friendly relationship with the Rhodesian rebel government.

Apart from its common border with Bechuanaland, one of Britain's few remaining protectorates in Africa, Rhodesia is surrounded by countries not unsympathetic toward Mr. Smith's cause. And though they (Portugal and South Africa) may not openly recognize the rebel regime they certainly would not allow foreign troops to pass through their territories for the purpose of invading the beleaguered colony.

Thus the only way, even though it may be highly unsatisfactory to the more vociferous independent African republics, in which the Smith administration can now be brought to its knees or alternately a rapprochement reached between Britain and the wayward colony is for effective sanctions to be imposed against Rhodesia.

Whether this would require a full-scale blockade of all goods and material from or destined to Rhodesia is a matter of debate. It may well be that the measures already instituted by the government of Great Britain and followed by the Commonwealth and the United States will be sufficient, for though the full effect of them may not be felt for several months, they could in the long run cripple the Rhodesian economy.

Rhodesia, at best, could never be considered an affluent country with a viable and adaptable economy. Its only hope for the future is to encourage outside investment to develop its potential natural resources to the limit. And under the present situation it is doubtful if any further foreign support in this direction can be looked for.

Thus, though Rhodesia can live on its fat for perhaps the next six to twelve months the time will come when it will have little left but the bare bones upon which neither the white nor black Rhodesian, nor indeed, Mr. Smith himself, can live.

The dribs and drabs of buying and selling with South Africa, Portugal and Spain or any other countries which might now wish to trade with Rhodesia for purely economic reasons may help support Rhodesia for a short while longer, but the colony cannot go on indefinitely without such main trading partners as the United States, Britain and Canada.

What Mr. Smith has yet to learn is that no nation can be truly independent unless it remains interdependent.—Victoria Colonist.

Creed for Business

Broadcasting executive F. P. Fogarty in a speech at Omaha presented "A Creed for American Business" which certainly can be applied to the Canadian situation. Here are some of the highlights:

"We believe that business should earn a profit, and that it should wear its profits proudly. Too long have we permitted short-sighted critics to point the finger of shame at profits, as something to be schemed, bargained and taxed out of existence.

"We believe that business should be more eloquent in explaining and defending the profit system, otherwise known as free enterprise. We have failed to convince the people that out of profits must come the money to make jobs, to promote philanthropy, to support the government, and to finance the growth of the country.

"We believe that a business should be deeply integrated into the community it serves, so that it will know the needs, desires and problems of that community.

"We believe that a business should accept its full share of responsibility for the things that make a community a better place in which to work and live.

"We believe that a business should be a good citizen in the formal or political sense of the word. It should of course pay its just share of taxes fully and promptly. Over and above that, it should take an interest in government and encourage its employees, customers and associates to do so.

"We believe that business should sweep broad horizons in its thinking, that business should be accurately informed about and emotionally involved in the problems that confront the country, both in so-called normal times, such as you and I have seldom experienced in our lives, and also in these days of cold war and hot peace. We believe business should contribute to the nation its full share of thinking and leadership. We think business should speak out more frequently, more clearly, more bravely.

"We believe that a business should contribute to the economic health of its community. It should work vigorously for a political climate in which business can prosper, thereby broadening the base for taxation, creating jobs and developing opportunity for the young."

Canadian business, of course, has played and is playing an important role in areas outlined above, but it is useful to be reminded that we cannot afford to rest on our oars. These are challenging days of responsibility and opportunity!

MORE ROADS FOR THE NORTH—A $100,000,000 road-building program is planned to bring all potential resources in the Northwest Territories within 200 miles of a permanent road. Each year for the next 10 years, the Department of Northern Affairs plans to spend $10,000,000 to tap resource potentials and provide links between established communities. The department hopes the road program will aid a developing tourist industry and help bring costs more in line with the south. The roads program is confined to the western portion of the NWT.—CP Newsmap.

Compulsory Medicare Protested

To the Editor:

Sir — There is a lot being said these days about the proposed Medicare plan in Ottawa. Just recently I read an article in an Ontario paper regarding Medicare. The writer was trying to tell the people what a wonderful thing it would be when Medicare became a reality, so that people could get free medical care.

I wonder why people do not realize that they get nothing free from the government. Under compulsory Medicare, every person will be paying a large doctor bill every year whether they make use of it or not, plus administration costs.

Medicare may have its advantages, but it definitely should be "optional." People should have the right to take it or leave it as they wish. When any plan of that sort is made compulsory, it is taking away the freedom of the people, and it is strictly against the principles of Democracy.

Our B.C. Government is to be congratulated on that score, they made Medicare optional.

In my opinion, every Canadian citizen should write Ottawa to the effect that we do not want Medicare, if it is made compulsory.

Keeping Fit?

To The Editor:

Sir — The Civic Centre Commission and some of the Directors have been getting a bad time from some of the uninformed general public because of a supposedly lack of activities put on at the Centre.

From personal experience, I have found that the personnel at the Civic Centre Commission have at all times done their utmost to provide any activity that may be desired by a responsible number of people, however, they find themselves frustrated on many occasions.

For example, a Keep Fit session facetiously called "The Spare Tire Club" was commenced on Monday, October 18 and this class is conducted by one of the finest instructors that is possible to obtain for this type of activity. Just two people turned up the first Monday and three people turned up the second Monday. You can see what little encouragement the Commission or the Director must have in finding their efforts so futile. (There are no w12 in the class).

I am writing this letter in the hopes that interested parties may just feel a slight tinge of conscience and take advantage of this activity offered by the Commission and conducted by such an able person as Ted De Looze whose capabilities should be taken advantage of to our utmost ability.

How about a good turnout next Monday at the Civic Centre and we would even welcome you, Mr. Editor, if you feel the need for such an activity, or will you care to admit that you have, as I have.

A Spare Tire

Paper Criticized

To the Editor:

Sir — My dislike of your editorial of Nov. 18 was not due to the fact that it was not factually correct but that it was entirely unnecessary and most offensively phrased.

I hold no brief for Mr. Herridge, I do not like his political views and I have no acquaintance with him but I strongly believe his age and his length of service at Ottawa entitle him to be treated with dignity and respect. It should be expected that your newspaper should lead the way in showing him the courtesies to which he is entitled.

This lack of respect for the individual is shown, also, in your replies to letters on the subject of the editorial. It is surely not good editorial policy to quarrel with readers. Mr. Andrews is a citizen of good repute in this community. Jean Mita I do not know but neither letter seems to me to warrant the heavy handed treatment meted out in your heading to them.

It is not necessary for a newspaper to be always right or to have the last word. What is important is that it should have the liking and respect of its readers. To do this it must exercise fair play and set an example of courtesy and respect for others. I think this is a matter to which you should give consideration.

Today in History

By THE CANADIAN PRESS
Dec. 1, 1965 . . .

The Beveridge Report, a white paper on social welfare commissioned by the British wartime government, was published 23 years ago today—in 1942—and laid the foundations for the modern welfare state in Britain. Its author was William Beveridge, an economist and later a Liberal peer. The report recommended a co-ordinated system of unemployment and retraining benefits, a national health service, and special grants such as maternity benefits and widows' pensions, the whole to be supervised by a single ministry.

1775—The American armies of General Montgomery and Benedict Arnold assembled at Point aux Trembles for the assault on Quebec.

1872—Hon. A. G. Archibald, first lieutenant-governor of Manitoba, ended his term of office.

First World War

Fifty years ago today—in 1915—the German invasion of Montenegro began; Russia recaptured Czernowitz, the capital of Bucovina; the British Mesopotamian force fought off Turks on the retreat to Kut-el-Amara.

Second World War

Twenty-five years ago today—in 1940—the number of air raid casualties at Southampton rose to 370 after two days of raids; the British submarine Triad was presumed lost; Joseph P. Kennedy announced his resignation as United States ambassador to Britain.

INCREASE EXPECTED

PARIS (Reuters) — France's trade balance has improved and this year's exports are likely to show a 14-per-cent increase over 1964, Finance Minister Valery Giscard d'Estaing said Tuesday. He told an annual exporters day meeting that France has been able to restore her foreign exchange position without using such objectionable means as devaluation or customs barriers because of price stability at home.

Charm of African Life

The Mikumi Game Reserve in Tanzania is one of the few places in Africa specially set up to provide tourists with a close-up look at wild animals in their natural habitat. Canadian Press reporter Joseph MacSween tells of his visit to the tourist camp in the reserve.

By JOSEPH MacSWEEN

MIKUMI, Tanzania (CP)—A preposterous air of domestic serenity prevails at this camp on the broad savanna amid roaring lions and irritable elephants.

The early - morning arrival finds Anne Irwin, the 28-year-old matron of the place, strolling between safari tents, baby-bottle in hand, about to give breakfast to her daughter, 17-month-old Elizabeth.

Husband Terry Irwin is a mile away rousing 13 lions from sleep for the edification of a group of tourists from Dar es Salaam.

Two or three African tracker-mechanics are working with hammers, wrenches and a blow torch at a Land Rover which went kaput at dawn.

The scene, drowsy in the tropical sun, seems as peaceful as as Cape Breton farm—but then you remember that this is the heart of Mikumi Game Reserve and all those lions, elephants, warthogs and whatnots are prowling the area.

Terry Irwin, also 28, who is licensed as a professional hunter and was previously a game warden, arrives back in camp, plays with Elizabeth, examines the repaired Land Rover and chats with his wife about the chores of the day.

"This job enables me to spend more time with my family," said Irwin, who is in charge of the reserve. "On hunting safaris, I would be away from home for six weeks or more at a time."

FLED IN FEAR

There are eight sleeping-tents for guests and several other box-shaped toilet - tents, much smaller and strategically placed. An elephant, ambling into view, lifted his trunk and shook some fruit from a tree onto one toilet-tent at the far edge of camp. A startled female face appeared—then the rest of the woman emerged and she ran for dear life, a picture of outraged modesty and fright.

Irwin drove away to the town of Morogoro on business while his African helpers prepared to take the guests out on the prairie-like savanna to view the wild animals.

"We get people from all over the world, but mostly from Dar es Salaam, which is only 160 miles away," said Anne. "We charge 32 shillings ($4.80) for bed and breakfast. There are only three places like this in East Africa.

"Sometimes my friends in Dar es Salaam ask me how I can live away out here. I ask them how I could possibly live anywhere else.

"The Land Rover is ready now. You'd better look around."

M. T. Hamishi, 24-year-old African driver-tracker who has been with Irwin for six years, drove the big vehicle over the rough ground, startling impala, giraffe, springbok, wildebeeste and other game. The eyes of two Indian children in the group became liquid mirrors of pure delight.

CHASED BY ELEPHANT

An elephant, obviously angered at the intrusion, kept turning his rump to the vehicle. Hamishi edged closer. Suddenly the elephant spun about with incredible speed for such bulk and came tearing down on the Land Rover, ears flapping and trunk lifted high.

"Don't stall the engine, for heaven's sake!" someone yelled as the elephant rushed with alarming bellows, tearing up dust from the arid earth.

"Jambo!" shouted Hamishi, laughing, giving a mock Swahili "hello" to the enraged beast.

Hamishi did not flee in a straight line but veered and cornered until the elephant, badly off balance, lumbered away in disgust after a second half-hearted rush.

After that, the rest of the outing seemed tame stuff. Hamishi, chagrined because he had found no simbas (lions), turned back toward camp where the charms of a well-stocked bar and a meal awaited.

The day ended with guests sitting around a campfire, listening to lions roar at the flames from a distance, and occasionally the insane laughter of hyenas.

WATCH GAME

The opportunity of viewing the great and exotic animals in their natural habitat is surely one of the charms of life in Africa, particularly for children. Nairobi, the capital of neighboring Kenya, has a vast game reserve — Nairobi National Park — literally on its doorstep. City and park are separated only by a fence.

At that reserve a fearsome-visaged Masai taxi driver, his pierced and stretched ear lobes looped over the tops of his ears, demonstrated a favorite Sunday-evening sport. This is a sort of cat-and-mouse game with lions.

Wise in the ways of the big cats, he drove to a part of the reserve where lions sleep in six-foot grass during the sunny part of the day. Other cars formed a creeping semi-circle and eventually two lions emerged from the grass and looked sleepily about.

Dozens of baboons then appeared at the rear, scolding the lions from a safe distance. The humans and the baboons warily watched the lions who gazed back in disdain as the sun went down.

A more deadly game was observed next morning when a pair of lionesses went after breakfast. One of them crept upwind to give a giraffe her scent.

The tall animal ran in terror —straight into the leap of the other, waiting lioness. Goodbye, giraffe.

Hunters on Spot

By VERN LACEY

VICTORIA (CP) — The suspended British Columbia hunter stands expectantly before the licence - reinstatement committee.

He is handed a rifle, loaded and cocked.

With the grace of an apprentice juggler, he waves the muzzle hither and thither. Give him real cartridges for that weapon and with all that trigger-fumbling he might well mow down the entire tribunal.

The scene, in one form or another, is one that occurs often before Dr. James Hatter, B.C.'s conservation director, and the expert hunters he calls in to examine suspended hunters seeking to have their privileges restored.

The committees are the idea of Charles Estlin, chief conservation officer, who automatically suspends the licence of any hunter involved in an accident. Mishaps are "proof positive of careless handling of firearms," he says by way of explanation.

(M. Estlin was a former game officer of Nelson district.)

The committees examine hunters for attitude and gun knowledge as well as handling.

"Some will start sniffling," he says. "Some are real hard rocks—they don't give a damn about putting a hole in somebody's husband."

If the hunter is the sort who can't handle a weapon with care no amount of sniffling will get him back his right to hunt in the province.

STRESS PREVENTION

Estlin's department is also concerned with prevention as well as cure. It is gearing up to tender similar examinations to prospective new licence-holders, a requirement of a new provincial law.

Legislation fresh from the last session of the B.C. legislature requires hunters to "exercise due care for the safety of other persons or property" and permits the conservation department to prosecute almost anyone for action deemed unsafe.

"And it is an onus charge," Estlin says. "The hunter has to prove he was not careless."

Prosecution will often be impossible, but the mere threat of a $300 fine on conviction may jolt hunters into a new consciousness of safety measures, the department hopes.

B.C. had 10 hunting deaths and 22 injuries last year among its 138,740 registered firearm-holders. Three had died to the end of October this year.

Estlin concedes that accidents cannot be eliminated and the problem will become more difficult as the number of licence-holders increases.

"All I want to do is cut down the percentages."

New Technique

By ARCH MacKENZIE

WASHINGTON (CP)—President Johnson's manoeuvres with aluminum, copper ad now wheat suggest a new U.S. government technique for getting both guns and butter.

In each case, release of government stocks for sale has been used as a weapon against price increases and to give warning that the government will not just sit back and complain about commodity or wage increases it considers immoderate.

It is a modest kind of national economic planning in a country where many businessmen still think such terms are dirty words. They prefer the economy to reflect the natural forces of the market place and right now that would mean higher prices, because demand is rising.

ADDED PRESSURES

But Johnson is determined to keep the U.S. economy rolling along at the brisk pace of the last 57 months. At the same time, he has taken on a Vietnamese war role that means extra inflationary pressure—more and more demand for the items needed to arm, ship and maintain a U.S. force in Viet Nam that may total 250,000 men within a few months.

Wheat is the latest example of the decision to hold the price line and since Tuesday, when government sales were offered, wheat prices have softened, although there is no sign that scattered increases in bread prices are being rescinded.

U. S. Treasury Secretary Henry Fowler made the message plain a week ago when he said that "recent events demonstate that your government stands ready to blow the whistle impartially on labor and business, and indeed on its own employees."

He said government in the present situation has the "clear and undeniable responsibility to identify, without fear or favor, price or wage developments that threaten continued economic stability and expansion."

A NEW APPROACH

The administration of the late President Kennedy set up "guide posts" for business and labor, designed to state the official view of what was a logical and tolerable scale of price increases.

The new approach goes much further and may have stirred more resentment toward Johnson within the business community than anything else he has done since becoming president.

Part of his success formula has been painstaking attention to keeping labor and management in step and as mutually satisfied as he can make them.

Labor came off badly, however, when the impressive array of legislation passed by Congress this year failed to include any of its major requests.

Now, Johnson is having his most serious brush with management.

However, given the president's talents for healing wounds and general recognition of the hazards of inflation today, most observers think he has suffered no irreparable damage. He also has on his side appeal to patriotism, based on the war in Viet Nam.

DIES IN EXILE

LONDON (AP)—Antoni Pajak, 72, former Socialist premier of the Polish government-in-exile, died here Friday, of a heart attack, it was announced Tuesday. Before the Second World War he was a member of the Supreme Council of the Polish Socialist party and of the Polish Parliament. In 1940, after the Soviet seizure of eastern Poland, he was deported with his family to Siberia. He arrived in Britain in 1948 and became a member of the Council of the Polish Republic-In-Exile and was premier of the exile government from 1955 to 1965.

Rome Happy As Dirty Loafers Go

ROME (AP)—The first cold rains of fall have helped police cleanse Rome of the unwashed, unshorn, unruly loafers who cluttered the Spanish Steps all summer.

Annoyed tourists, ashamed Romans and perplexed police were glad to see them go. Francesco La Mela, chief of the foreigners section of the Rome police, summed up the shabby set: "They stink."

Twenty of the foreign beatniks were deported. A dozen unshaved Italians who loafed with them on the steps beneath Trinita dei Monti were scared off by threats of haircuts by force.

Rain and cold discouraged the rest.

Police couldn't remember anything to equal the Spanish Steps loafer problem which developed this year.

Untidy youths swarmed in and all but took over the wide stairs beneath the window of the room where Keats wrote his poetry, facing fashionable shopping streets where tourists throng.

They annoyed passing women with their remarks and other tourists by insistently begging alms. And they annoyed everybody by their looks.

Christmas Pictures Benefit From Beforehand Planning

By JEAN HARP
CP Women's Editor

TORONTO (CP)—If you want Christmas pictures that show how splendid the house looked or more of an excited child than a hasty left ear, a bit of planning and patience would help.

If you have an ordinary camera without sophisticated lens and time adjustments there are some limitations on what you can take with best results.

You probably won't get a shot of the Christmas tree that shows it as sparkling as it really was. Carl Cundiff of Canadian Kodak says you would need a time exposure to register the lights fully.

The same applies to pictures of an outdoor tree or the house taken from outdoors at night. An ordinary camera will probably only register spots of light.

BE PREPARED

He suggests you start planning Christmas pictures well ahead of time. Be sure your flash is working, for instance.

"We get cameras in all the time with complaints that the flash isn't working. Usually it's because they need new batteries. A lot of people don't realize the flash works on batteries. Especially if you haven't used the camera for a while, check the batteries by taking a couple of shots before Christmas Day.

"If you want to take pictures quickly, perhaps when the kids are opening presents, plan ahead. Have an idea where you will be taking pictures from. Know where your flash bulbs are and have an ash tray or something ready to dispose of old ones.

"Hold the camera steady. We sometimes suggest holding your breath the second you push the shutter, and squeeze it gently, don't rock the camera.

"Even if you want to work quickly, if you aren't sure you have your subject in the view finder, take a second look. The camera will only record what you put in it."

MEASURE DISTANCE

On the average camera the flash is adequate in a range of six to 10 feet. If you get much closer you will overexpose, much father away and your subject will look dark.

"Room light can fool you. Even if it looks bright, the flash is usually a requirement inside.

"With a flash, watch out for mirrors or shiny windows which will reflect it and light streak your pictures.

If you are taking a flash picture near the fire, the tree or any other light source, Mr. Cundiff says an angled shot will usually give you best lighting. Try not to point the camera at the light source.

If you are working outdoors, keep your back to the sun if possible. If it's a bright, snowy day you may have problems. Then if you can adjust the camera at all, adjust it one full stop under recommended exposure to cut light down.

"The middle of the day is usually best for truest colors. We generally recommend against taking outdoor pictures after four."

Indoors or out, he says, cluttered backgrounds are another frequent cause for disappointing pictures. Look behind your subject.

If you want closeups, remember you cannot use the flash closer than six feet without overexposing. Without the flash the six-foot rule will probably still hold unless you want to get a closeup attachment which will allow you to get as close as three feet.

SUGGESTS TAX

COURTENAY (CP) — Retiring president Charles Pearce of the Courtenay-Comox Chamber of Commerce has recommended that a business tax be investigated to finance advertising and promotion of the area.

Mr. and Mrs. W. R. Palmer, 1024 Hoover Street, were feted by friends and family at celebrations marking their 25th wedding anniversary. They were entertained at dinner at a downtown hotel on the anniversary evening, November 18, then were surprised by a group of friends who dropped in later in the evening.

Mrs. Tom Fox presented Mrs. Palmer with a corsage of pink carnations and G. F. Hartridge, life-long friend of Mr. Palmer, presented the celebrants with a square silver serving tray, on behalf of the assembled guests. Mr. and Mrs. Palmer's children presented them with an engraved silver tray and silver tea service.

The following evening, relatives and friends from Willow Point and Fruitvale surprised Mr. and Mrs. Palmer with another celebration. G. V. Peterson made a presentation of a silver ball and chain made from money pieces, the ball full of money also.

A cake which had been made by Mrs. Palmer and decorated by Mrs. J. M. Brader, was cut during the parties.

Mr. and Mrs. Palmer left for Vancouver for a five-day visit following their anniversary.

Mr. and Mrs. Donald E. McIvor of Vancouver are pleased to announce the engagement of their only daughter, Janet Lynne of Victoria, to Mr. Kerry Robert Joy, only son of Mrs. C. H. Joy and the late Mr. Conway H. Joy of Sidney. The wedding will take place at Christmas time in East Lansing, Michigan, where the groom is completing a master's degree. —280-280

WA Reelects Mrs. Holland

Mrs. J. Holland was re-elected president of the WA to the Church of the Redeemer at the annual meeting held at the home of Mrs. W. A. Triggs.

Others re-elected were: Mrs. S. C. Bright, vice-president; Mrs. K. Sjostrom, secretary-treasurer; Mrs. A. Ioanin, Living Message and social secretary; Miss E. Smith, Prayer Partner secretary; Mrs. Norah Crabtree, extra cent-a-day secretary; Mrs. Norah Underwood, Dorcas secretary replacing Mrs. C. Ward, who has moved to Victoria; Mrs. R. Smith, Little Helpers secretary.

Archdeacon F. D. Wyatt presided at the election.

It was reported that all calendars had been sold.

Mrs. S. C. Bright was welcomed back to the meeting after a two months' vacation in England.

Mrs. Holland gave a report of the WA Deanery held recently in Castlegar.

Willowhaven was visited this week and music and songs entertained the residents.

Plans were made for a Christmas party to be held in December at the home of Mrs. Robins, 616 Third Street, with Mrs. Bright in charge of entertainment.

IT'S FUN and easy to be nonchalant when suitably dressed for late afternoon occasions.

Designed for just such engagements is a suit of textured acrylic yarn which has the appearance of a matelassé knit.

The outfit has a jewel neck, short sleeves, self-covered buttons, flap pockets and a slender skirt.

Coast Girl Awarded Foreign Scholarships

VANCOUVER (CP) — Pianist Andrea Kalanj modestly declares she's just an "ordinary girl," and the Canada Council apparently believes her.

The council has twice turned down her application for scholarships. But music authorities in the Soviet Union and Belgium like her kind of ordinariness. She has won scholarships in both countries, and it may be in Europe that she first scores as a concert pianist.

The 20-year-old beauty has been away from her Vancouver home for the last year, living on a shoestring in Brussels to attend the Belgium Royal Conservatory of Music.

A recent telegram informed her parents that she had won a Belgian government scholarship expected to provide living expenses and tuition until she wins her Diploma Superior in December, 1966.

Six years ago, as a performer at the International Youth Festival, she was invited to make a tour of the U.S.S.R. During the tour she played at the Kiev Conservatory. Delighted conservatory directors offered her a scholarship to undertake their five-year program. She did, in 1960, and graduated three years later.

Her present teacher in Belgium is the renowned pianist and instructor, Eduardo del Pueyo. Del Pueyo has written Marshall Sumner, Andrea's former instructor in Vancouver, saying that Andrea has every hope of "a certain career" as concert pianist.

Church Refusal To Ease Divorce Laws Criticized

ATHENS (Reuters) — An organization claiming to represent 100,000 Greeks and their 50,000 illegitimate children has denounced the Greek Orthodox Church for its "anti-Christian and unconsidered" refusal to ease divorce laws.

The church, which still rules marriage laws in this country in which there are no civil marriages, turned down a motion favored by the justice minister, 65 deputies and a parliamentary committee, which charged that present divorce laws are rife with blackmail and perjury.

The motion recommended making divorce automatic after a couple has been separated for seven years.

The pro - divorce group, the Pan-Hellenic Union for the Protection of the Family Institution, charged that only 20 of the 55 metropolitans of the church were present when the proposal was turned down at a meeting lasting less than 15 minutes, and presided over by 85-year-old Archbishop Primate Chrysostomos.

NO FOURTH MARRIAGE

Divorce can already be granted by civil courts, but only after a lengthy procedure initiated by the "offended" party.

The church fathers also refused the motion's second plea, that Greek citizens be allowed to marry a fourth time. This is so far refused by the law and forbidden by the church.

The motion denounced the present divorce laws.

"The links of marriage, which are sacred, have been disgraced and the procedure of divorce becomes a comedy performed under the authority of justice which accepts both blackmail and false testimony," it charged.

"It is inadmissible that for reasons of sheer judicial procedure or because of the obstinacy of one of the parties a husband and wife who have been separated for more than seven years cannot reacquire their freedom."

Hints From Heloise

By Heloise Cruse

Dear Heloise:

While sewing one day, I found that a bar of used soap (which you always have around the house) makes an excellent marker for darts, etc. I like it much better than chalk.

It makes clear, even marks on my material, and washes out beautifully when washable clothes are laundered.

Colored soap could be used on light material, and white on the darker shades.

Bernice Platek.

Now, Bernice, you are about the trickiest that I have seen in a long while.

Certainly, green or pink soap would show beautifully on white or navy blue, etc., materials.

I especially love the leftover "slivers" for this, after the bar of soap has been used, and used, and used. Makes a real neat mark. It's so nice and slim.

Thanks from all of us who sew. I happen to be one.

Love, Heloise.

Dear Heloise:

When the plastic on the inside of your baby's pants tears or cracks,, you can cut the plastic out of the inside of the pants, and use the outside rayon as pants.

It works beautifully. Saves, too.

Dear Heloise:

When I buy frozen boxed pies, I save not only the tin but also the box.

When I make a pie to freeze (as long as I've messed up the kitchen, I may as well make an extra pie to freeze), I protect it by putting it back in the box.

I can easily write the date and type of pie on the box.

Jan Befort.

Dear Heloise:

If you have stopped using brush-type curlers, remove the brush. Sew the wire and net parts together, end to end (about four), making a circle, then make another circle of two rollers.

Sew the small circle inside the larger one.

There you are — you have a very nice bun-holder for your hair.

You can make them any size you wish. Deane Marie.

LETTER OF LAUGHTER

Dear Heloise:

Here's another solution to the problem of the slipping shirt tail: (Men's synthetic shirts won't stay in trousers)

Cut a strip of corduroy on the straight grain of the fabric. Attach on inside of trousers, skirts, slacks, etc.

Fran

Dear Heloise:

I am a "nut" on those paint-by-number pictures.

Once a picture is painted, the numbers do not mean anything. So, every time I open a jar, I paint a stripe right across the top of the lid. In this way I always know what color it contains.

These little jars of paint come in handy lots of times.

I have even touched up some old earrings, and they look like new.

Marquardt Remembers 'Rowdy' Winnipeg Grey Cup Team of 1935

By WALTER KREVENCHUK

WINNIPEG (CP) — His six-foot four-inch frame settled into a restaurant chair, Bud Marquardt began to reminisce about "seven wonderful years."

He had a lot to remember—a pass catch for a touchdown that helped the West win the Grey Cup for the first time; five Grey Cup appearances and a "rowdy bunch" who were his mates on the 1935 to 1941 editions of Winnipeg Blue Bombers.

"We were one big happy family," he said, "but when the whistle blew . . . I've never known a bunch that loved to play football so much."

The seven-year story began in 1935 after Bud and a fellow North Dakota State University graduate "rode freights" to California.

Right behind came a forwarded letter, inviting Bud to come to Canada to play basketball with Winnipeg Toilers.

Bud had been a centre in college basketball and an all-state selection with "the scourge of Minnesota high school basketball"—a unit from Moorhead.

SWITCHED TO FOOTBALL

But the 52-year-old native of Ettinger, N.D., never did get to play basketball in Winnipeg. Instead, a man named Joe Ryan gave him a $500 contract to play a game he took up only at his mother's urging.

"I was shy . . . afraid of people," said Bud of the turmoil of deciding whether to go out for high school football. "I wasn't going to . . . but my mother talked me into it."

Ryan was manager of the Winnipeg team in the Western Football League and was on the prowl for imports. Besides Marquardt, he enticed three other Dakotans into the fold—the great Fritzie Hanson, Herb Peschel and Joe Perpich.

That's how Bud came to play a role in the dawn of a new era for football in Western Canada—1935, the year the Winnipeg Rugby Football Club brought the Grey Cup west for the first time.

The 1935 Winnipeg squad carved a niche as the West's first undefeated team. Calgary Stampeders matched the performance in 1948.

The club won 11 games. They shut out the opposition four times and yielded just 3 points while scoring 228 themselves.

SCORED KEY TOUCHDOWN

Among the triumphs was a 3-1 decision over Sarnia Imperials, the first time a western senior team had beaten an eastern senior team.

Bud, noted for his pass catching, made most of his contributions that season playing defence.

He saved his first touchdown for the Grey Cup—an 18-12 victory for Winnipeg over Hamilton Tiger-Cats. Bud caught an 18-yard pass from fullback Bob Fritz after Herb Peschel had recovered the opening kickoff.

Marquardt and Bombers went on to win 49 of 66 games during the next six years, including an 8-7 Grey Cup win over Ottawa Rough Riders in 1939 and an 18-16 Grey Cup triumph over Ottawa in 1941. Bud's play earned him all-star berths in 1938, 1939, 1940 and 1941.

"Down inside we felt we were the best team," was Bud's explanation for the success.

Bud's last game was the 1941 Grey Cup and was "the best I ever played."

BROKE TIE

With the score tied 9-9 in the opening minutes of the second half Winnipeg's Bernie Thornton roared in from his right end position to tackle Ottawa's Orville Burke in the act of throwing a forward pass.

The ball popped up in the air. Marquardt grabbed it and ran 44 yards for a touchdown.

Bud had married Rene Walters in Winnipeg in 1939 and settled down to his job in the merchandise department of Hudson's Bay Co.

He was transferred to Edmonton in 1946 and was one of the original directors of the Eskimos when they re-entered the Western Interprovincial Football Union in 1948.

His next stop was Calgary, where he served 18 months as an executive member of the WIFU's Calgary Stampeders.

Bud returned to Winnipeg in 1963 as divisional merchandise manager.

He said the modern game is scientific but in his day "we had more fun."

PHIL MALONEY EARNS WIN FOR VANCOUVER

VANCOUVER (CP) — Phil Maloney hit the upper right-hand corner with just two seconds left to play to give Vancouver Canucks a narrow 4-3 victory over Springfield Indians in an interlocking game between American and Western Hockey League clubs Tuesday night.

Maloney picked up a relay from McNeil and Bruce Carmichael moved in and flicked the puck over Springfield goaltender George Wood for the victory for the Western club.

The game, played before 4111 fans, was sloppy. The only bright spots were Maloney and McNeil, last year's most valuable player in the WHL.

McNeil picked up two goals and one assist to lead Vancouver and to bring himself within one point of the WHL scoring lead behind Milan Marcetta of Victoria. Ron Hutchinson added the other Vancouver goal.

Bill Sweeney, Jim Anderson and Randy Miller replied for Springfield.

Junior Leafs Must Skate To Beat Smokies Tonight

Nelson Junior Maple Leafs will seek to enhance their position atop the West Kootenay Junior Hockey League tonight with a victory over the Trail Smoke Eaters.

The Leafs, who have won four in a row, including a 12-10 verdict the last time they met the Smokies, will have to skate if they intend to win.

Trail forwards Willie Wilson, Al DeCecco and Butch Simpson did their best to beat the Leafs in the last match, but fell short of their objective because of inadequate support from the rest of the Smokies.

But, if the Leafs give them a break they may just succeed tonight.

Wilson, who fired two goals in the previous contest, and Simpson, who skated circles around everyone, could easily break open the game early for Trail.

Coach Bill Freno is expected to insert a few new faces in the line-up for the game, the most prominent being that of Larry Zimmer. Freno expects big things from Zimmer and is hopeful that the line juggling which he has been doing will result in another three-some to match the "Scooter Line."

Davie Allen and Laurie Malott will have their work cut out for them tonight and the game could be won on the strength of one of these two.

Allen has played outstanding goal for the Leafs in their last three games and has been largely responsible for all three victories.

Trail netminder Malott, who was the victim of 12 goals when the teams last met at the Civic Centre, could be a big lift for the Smokies with his play and may turn the tide in their favor.

The Smoke Eaters will be fighting hard for a victory tonight and if the Leafs are not playing their best, the Smokies will get their win.

The Leafs will be trying to please Coach Freno, who just happens to be an easy man to please. As he put it, "All I want this year is the B.C. championship."

And he may just get it!

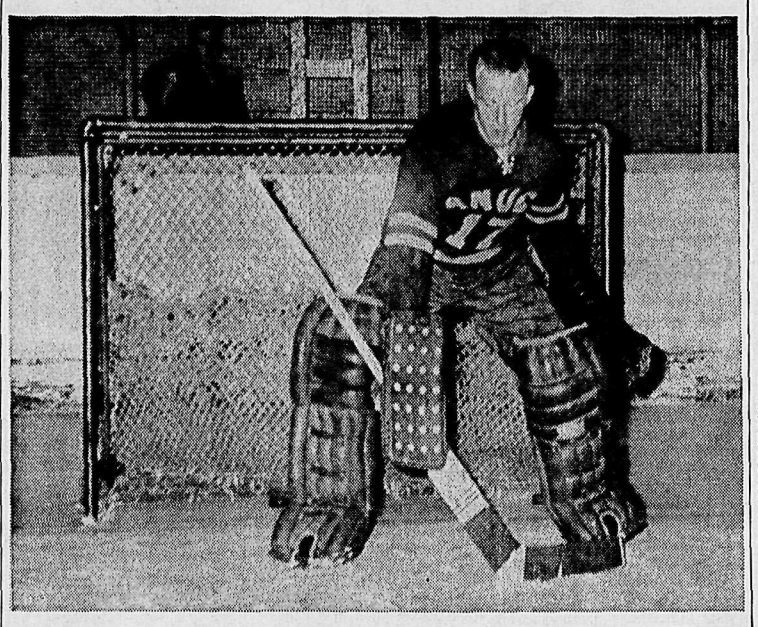
Letcher Back With Leafs



Brown Dealt To Smokies

By MIKE BENNETT
Daily News Sports Editor

Jim Letcher, the goaltender whose steady stick and quick glove-hand helped Nelson Maple Leafs to earn a berth in the Allan Cup final last season, is back in camp.

Letcher flew in Tuesday from Saskatoon after playing for the Quakers in the Western Canada Senior Hockey League and Johnstown Jets of the Eastern Hockey League.

In 44 league games last year, he had a 4.16 goals-against average with two shutouts.

Barry Brown, who came to the Leafs from Vancouver Canucks training camp, was drafted to Trail Smoke Eaters.

Leaf manager Gus Adams put it this way: "Barry played good goal for us in the past month, but when you have a chance to get a goaltender of the calibre of Letcher, you don't pass it up."

Brown will alternate with left-handed Barry Richardson for the fifth-place Smokies.

Letcher had his best series against Kimberley Dynamiters in the seven-game Savage Cup final.

He blocked 34 shots as the Leafs won the opener in Kimberley 5-1 and was brilliant throughout the entire series.

Kimberley won the next two games 3-2 and 3-1 and held a three-to-two lead in games going into Nelson.

The Leafs rapped it up on the road 6-2 as Letcher handled 28 shots and broke Kimberley fans' hearts.

When you rob goalscorers like Walt Peacosh and Ken McTeer, it's more than luck, it's talent.

The blond goaltender from Kamloops played in every winning game in the series against Drumheller Miners, Moose Jaw Pla-Mors and Warroad Lakers.

BARRY BROWN

His goals-against average in the Kimberley series: 3.43.

Seth Martin, playing-coach of Rossland Warriors, was picked up for Allan Cup series and was called in for the first game against Drumheller when Letcher pulled a shoulder muscle.

He shared in the 3-0 shutout in that game.

In the second game of the Allan Cup final against Sherbrooke Beavers, he stopped 48 shots as the Leafs dropped a 4-1 decision.

"Nelson and hockey have been good to me," Letcher said Tuesday night.

"I hope I can do as much for the team and the fans."

Letcher will probably see action tonight in Trail against the Smoke Eaters and may even face Brown at the other end of the rink.

Brown worked out with the Smokies Tuesday night and may be Frank Turik's choice to start against the Leafs.

Playing-Coach Frank Arnett will shift defenceman-forward Skip Holmes back on defence and move Mike Grace up to his spot with centre Gail Holden.

Grace scored two goals and added two assists against Trail last weekend as the Leafs won 10-3.

Arnett will probably act as the fifth defenceman.

ICE CHIPS: COLIN KILBURN of SPOKANE JETS will be without the services of FRANK ARNETT for the December 18 exhibition game against the RUSSIAN NATIONAL TEAM. Arnett will play for Notre Dame Knights against University of Alberta, Calgary Dinosaurs.

ERNIE GARE will be in the DINOSAURS lineup.

Bob Nevin Swings Trade In Favor of N.Y. Rangers

By JERRY GLADMAN
Canadian Press Staff Writer

It's probably no great secret Toronto Maple Leafs would jump at the chance to regain the services of rightwinger Bob Nevin if the right deal could be made with New York Rangers.

And it's even conceivable the Ranger captain would consider playing in Toronto again.

But one thing is certain—it would take a lot more than the Leafs would be willing to give up for the Rangers to give any thought to parting with the 27-year-old, 185-pound Nevin.

Rangers and Leafs clash in New York tonight in one of three mid-week National Hockey League games. Boston Bruins see action twice when they visit Chicago Black Hawks tonight and Detroit Red Wings Thursday.

The Leafs weren't really anxious to part with Nevin, but they knew they had to give up something to get something.

It was almost two years ago Toronto sent Nevin, Dick Duff, Rod Seiling, Arnie Brown and Bill Collins to New York in exchange for veterans Andy Bathgate and Donn McKenny.

The Leafs' reasons for acquiring Bathgate and McKenny were simple. They needed scoring power to help win a third successive Stanley Cup.

The deal paid off that year as both Bathgate and McKenny played major roles in the Cup win. But since then it was all downhill for the pair.

Prior to this season Bathgate and McKenny were traded to Detroit.

It appears now the rebuilding Rangers got the better of the deal. While Duff was traded to Montreal Canadiens last year and Collins is buried deep in the minors, Nevin, Seling and Brown are Ranger regulars.

The spotlight, however, is on Nevin. He currently ranks fifth in the NHL scoring race with 10 goals and seven assists and looms as a top candidate for all-star honors.

One of those most happy with the Nevin deal is general manager Emile Francis of New York.

WARWICK SHOCKS KINGS; HANDS IN RESIGNATION

EDMONTON (CP) — Bill Warwick Tuesday resigned as coach of the Edmonton Oil Kings, a job he took two months ago, "due to the pressure of business commitments."

Oil Kings, perennial Western Canada junior hockey champions, are in second place in the Alberta Senior Hockey League. The Edmonton club is the only junior team in the senior loop.

Warwick, 41, became coach of the Edmonton club Sept. 21 after long-time coach Buster Brayshaw resigned because of ill health. The Kings are sponsored by Detroit Red Wings of the National League.

"The choice is difficult, but due to the excellent future of Go magazine, I cannot let a temporary venture, such as coaching, interfere," Warwick said in a prepared statement. He is advertising sales manager for Go, a bi-monthly Edmonton magazine which concentrates on where to go and things to do in the city.

Kings manager Bill Hunter said the resignation "came out of a blue sky. There was no hint of it until Bill walked in and plunked it on my desk. Nor was there any anger or prior animosity."

Hunter said the Kings "will make no snap decisions on a coach to replace Bill."

Warwick said the "Oil King management has treated me with all fairness and has met all obligations to me." He said his only connection with hockey will be as a spectator.

There was no immediate comment from the Oil Kings.

Warwick played with New York Rangers of the NHL and combined with brothers Grant and Dick to lead Penticton to the Allan Cup championship in 1954 and the world amateur title in 1955.

UNDERGOES OPERATION

PHOENIX, Ariz. (AP)—Mrs. Barry Goldwater underwent surgery Tuesday for a genital tumor. She later was said to be "in good condition." Her husband, former U.S. senator Barry Goldwater, stood by during the operation at St. Joseph's hospital. A hospital spokesman refused to say whether or not the tumor was malignant.

Diefenbaker Promises Action On Spy Case

OTTAWA (CP) — Conservative Leader Diefenbaker said Monday the government handling of the Spencer spy case is "a cavalier way of dealing with espionage."

He told an impromptu press conference his party will take "appropriate action to get to the bottom of this" when Parliament opens Jan. 18.

He said the justice department gave an indication that it "had a case" at the time two Russians were expelled from Canada for paying money to two Canadians for information. The explulsion occurred last May.

At that time, he said, the government indicated that thousands of dollars had been paid for the information. Now the government was "running away from its own case" created by its own statement.

For Thursday, Dec. 2, 1965.

MARCH 21 to APRIL 20 (Aries)—A procession of events may keep you from accomplishing what you intended to, but be patient — you can eventually achieve considerable.

APRIL 21 to MAY 21 (Taurus) Don't let sentiment play a foolishly large part when common sense would give quickest, surest answers. Be careful in whom you place trust, whom you may offend.

MAY 22 to JUNE 21 (Gemini) May not be able to do all the things you would all of the time, but you surely can do a considerable number, so take revitalized ambition with you into the foray.

JUNE 22 to JULY 23 (Cancer) Example watched. Make yours count for the finest, not against. Respond promptly to right appeal, also ask time for contemplation, to be safe.

JULY 24 to AUGUST 23 (Leo) Bring others together (especially where rifts and widely separated views exist) for a meeting of minds. Surprise returns can please greatly.

AUGUST 24 to SEPTEMBER 23 (Virgo) — Technology, safe-footing, covering as much territory of your expected achievements as possible are due for gains. Be ready for criticism.

SEPTEMBER 24 to OCTOBER 23 (Libra) — Standards move along fairly smoothly, except for occasional spots; profits may not be what you dreamed of, but all honest, working-tries will attain.

OCTOBER 24 to NOVEMBER 22 (Scorpio)—Stay close to your interests and keep everybody on their toes if you deserve their support in loyalty. This Sign normally reigns in integrity. Yet do not be too hard-pressed or health will suffer.

NOVEMBER 23 to DECEMBER 21 (Sagittarius)—Meeting, joining activities, socials (where you keep a weather eye out for business contacts) are favored, in sensible part. Again, be the good listener.

DECEMBER 22 to JANUARY 20 (Capricorn)—If you go against tradition that has proven its worth, you may find tumult and shouting. If you maintain the best of what you have and know, you will be happy.

JANUARY 21 to FEBRUARY 19 (Aquarius)—A wide variety in many fields now. Take care, also in how you answer, whom you may be cutting through sharpness, prevalent now — it's a big cutting stone.

FEBRUARY 20 to MARCH 20 (Pisces)—Particular events, issues at stake? These trails are met throughout life, only sometimes individually some seem more trying. Stay calm.

YOU BORN TODAY: Vigorous mentally, usually ready for lots of activity — you thrive on it. But herein is a warning: All energies put together to fight out a cause can wreak havoc if you are not fully aware of the ramifications, some not so good. All energies must be controlled, else they can run into dead ends, even unwanted dark corners. Your personableness attracts the wrong as the right kind, so look out for smugness and then disillusionment. Among your top assets: love of life; friendships; desire to aim high, enterprise on many levels. Just don't go at anything or anyone too strong. Birthdate: Among many actor-stars, Wm. Gaxton; among many artists, Wm. Cummings; numerous business executives.

College Saint Joseph, the oldest French-speaking university in the Maritimes, was granted its charter in 1868.

MARKET TRENDS

NEW YORK (AP)—The stock market weathered a sharp selling squall Tuesday.

Trading was heavy. Volume mounted to 9,000,000 shares from 8,750,000 Monday. It was the biggest since Nov. 17 when 9,120,000 shares changed hands.

Prices were at their worst by noon when the Dow Jones industrial average showed a loss of 5.29. The final reading showed a drop of only .22 at 946.71.

The blue chips were mostly down in early trading. American Telephone was under selling pressure and sank to a low of 60¾ before it recovered to close at a net gain of ⅛ at 61½.

Du ont, General Motors, Standard Oil (New Jersey), Kennecott and others also put on a sad performance in early dealings. While they were fading there was some sharp profit-taking going on among recently-strong issues such as the aerospace stocks, electronics, airlines and color televisions. A scattering of these continued to rise but the selling was spreading from one stock to another.

LOST .1

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks ended the day with a minimal loss of .1 at 353.2.

Ten of the 15 most active stocks advanced, three declined and two were unchanged.

Among Canadian stocks, Granby Mining was up ⅛. International Nickel was down ½, Canadian Pacific and Walker Gooderham each lost ¼, and Aluminium Ltd. dropped ⅛.

Prices were irregularly lower on the American Stock Exchange. Volume was 4,430,000 shares compared with 3,810,000 Monday.

Canadian Javelin advanced ½ and Brazilian Traction gained ⅛. Fargo Oil dropped 3-16 and Scurry Rainbow Oil lost ⅜.

MONTREAL (CP) — Stocks drifted lower Tuesday on the Montreal and Canadian stock exchanges.

Speculative mines and oils continued active with Patricia Silver leading on 272,550 shares. It dropped eight cents to 72 cents.

Industrial volume was 172,100 shares, mines and oils 2,023,800. This compares with 183,000 and 2,957,000.

The composite index dropped 0.47 to 154.70. High for the year was 166.93.

Banks fell 0.13 to 118.03. High for the year was 138.56. Canadienne Nationale slipped ¼ to a low of 67½. Royal was off ¼ at 70¼.

INDUSTRIALS FALL

Industrials fell 0.42 to 160.33. Dupont fell one point to a 1965 low of 42. Asbestos eased ¾ to 25 and Chemcell ¼ to 14.

Utilities dropped 0.88 to 152.18. CPR fell one point to 68 and Bell ⅜ to 56⅜. Brinco and Calgary Power slipped ⅛ to 6½ and 27½.

Papers rose 0.53 to 113.26. B.C. Forest added ⅞ to 21¾. Price Bros. rose ¼ to 39 and Great Lakes ⅛ to 20⅝.

Base metals were off. Hollinger slipped 1¼ points to 25¼ and International Nickel ½ to 99. Primary issues were steady.

TORONTO (CP) — Volume soared with heavy buying in penny mining issues Tuesday on the Toronto Stock Exchange.

D'Eldona traded more than 1,770,000 shares, climbing 38 to 93 cents. The company announced Monday it had pulled a 5½-foot section of drill core which contained 37 per cent zinc and .60 per cent copper from its property in the Noranda area of Northern Quebec. Donalda, with holdings in the vicinity, added 6 at 26½ cents.

Place, in Western oils, dropped 41 cents to 1.62. Canadian Export Gas lost 15 cents to 2.60.

In the main list, Moore Corp., slipped 1⅝ to 77½, CPR 1 to 68¼, Simpsons ⅞ to 28¾, Distillers Seagram ½ to 36⅛, Walker-Gooderham ⅜ to 35⅝ and Bell Telephone and Rothmans ¼ each to 56⅜ and 23¼.

Banks were mixed with Montreal down ¼ to 59¼ and Royal ⅛ to 70⅝ while Nova Scotia added ⅞ at 69½, Imperial-Commerce ⅛ to 62⅛ and Toronto-Dominion held firm at 61.

Among base metals, Noranda and Inco dipped ½ to 51¼ and 98⅞ and Falconbridge ¼ to 108¼. On the plus side Hudson Bay pulled ahead ½ to 76½ and Cominco ¼ to 49¼.

On index, industrials declined .49 to 165.02, base metals .59 to 84.51, Western oils .38 to 101.92 and the TSE index .46 to 155.60. Golds advanced 1.98 to 158.01. Volume was 6,294,000 shares compared with 5,044,000 Monday.

Liquid Fire Cause of Ship Sinking

MIAMI, Fla. (AP)—A "liquid fire" apparently sank the Yarmouth Castle, the chief engineer of the cruise ship testified Monday.

"It was not a wood fire," George Vazeos told a United States Coast Guard board inquiring into circumstances of the Nov. 13 tragedy near the Bahamas in which 89 persons, includiing two Canadians, lost their lives.

"The flames were clear, like when you burn liquid or something," he said. "They were not dark as in wood fire."

Rear Admiral Loiis M. Thayer, presiding over the hearing, asked: "Could it have started from oil?"

"No," replied the engineer.

"From paint?"

"I can't say."

The engineer said he first learned of the fire about 1 a.m. when someone told him in the lobby: "Chief, I smell smoke."

Vazeos said: "I ran fast and saw smoke coming from the door of Room 610."

Vazeos testified that the cabin on the ship's main deck was a store room for things such as floor cleaner and wax, but was being repaired for other use.

SMOKE NOT HEAVY

"The smoke was not heavy," Vazeos said. "I hosed it with water, then there was lots of smoke.

"I sent the first engineer to the engine room to start the firepumps. I gave the hose to someone else. Then I went to the engine room to check on equipment. Everything seemed in perfect order.

"Then I heard the abandonship signal."

On the promenade deck he saw about 50 passengers gathered.

Vazeos related: "I heard the captain of the Bahama Star call to them, 'everybody jump into the water, you will be picked up'."

The Bahama Star was the first rescue vessel to reach the scene.

Net railway operating income for the 10 months ended Oct. 31 was $32,928,708 compared with $36,055,768 for the corresponding 1964 period.

Railway operating revenues for October were $46,364,871 and expenses were $41,961,120.

Operating revenues for the 10 months ended Oct. 31 were $429,095,268 and expenses $396,166,560. The comparable figures for 1964 were $427,980,211 and $36,055,768.

Claim Money To Be Divided Among Widows

SALT LAKE CITY, Utah (AP)—Texas Gulf Sulphur Co. has agreed to a $1,300,000 settlement in the deaths of 17 miners at the firm's potash mine at Moab, Utah, a federal judge said Monday.

Eighteen miners were killed two years ago when an explosion ripped through the mine, near the Four Corners area where Utah, Colorado, New Mexico and Arizona meet. A lawyer said one of the miners had no dependents.

Judge Willis W. Ritter said Texas Gulf lawyers agreed $1,312,000 is to be distributed among 17 widows and their 49 children. Four of the 17 widows live in Canada.

Delbert M. Draper, a lawyer for the widows, said the money will be parcelled on a formula based on the number of children in a family, projected wages and ages.

The widows had sued for $8,250,000 and the case had been due to come to trial shortly.

The U.S. government, which had contracted for the sulphur, was dismissed as a co-defendant when the settlement was announced.

The Canadian plaintiffs were Mrs. Alice Barber, Ottawa; Mrs. William Huzil, Yorkton, Sask.; Mrs. Jessie Roy, North Bay, Ont. and Mrs. Dorothy LeBlanc, Riverside, Ont.

MONTREAL (CP) — Claire Kirkland - Casgrain, Quebec transport minister says a planned 1.5-per - cent increase for car insurance in the province is "justifiable." The All Canada Insurance Federation announced Friday the province's insurance rates will increase by that much next year.
