NEW RESIDENT WINS $28,000

When Parents Phoned He Thought They Were Kidding

By BOB CAMPBELL

The happiest fellow in Nelson just HAS to be Albert Prentice, a 22-year-old former resident of Toronto, who just won $28,000 in the Jamaican sweepstakes—and is still recovering from the shock of his bountiful windfall.

"I won a clock at a dance once," he told the Daily News, "but I didn't stay to collect it."

A typewriter mechanic by trade, Mr. Prentice has been employed by a local firm for the past three weeks and has been in Canada for 6½ years, most of which were spent in Toronto.

"I don't know what I'm going to do yet," he said in answer to the question as to his plans for his winnings. "I might buy a car and build a house," he added. As for long-range plans, he said he had "no idea."

A disbeliever in sweepstakes generally, Mr. Prentice, who is unmarried, bought the lucky ticket from his brother under protest, after expounding on the foolishness of such a purchase to his parents, Mr. and Mrs. James Prentice. He once shared an Irish Sweepstake ticket with his father, he admitted.

"The odds on them are too great," he said, then contradicted his statement by revealing that he "might" buy in on the Jamaican sweepstakes next year.

Word of his lucky win came by long-distance telephone from his parents last Thursday.

"I thought they were kidding," he smiled. "I had a grin on my face a yard long all day," he added. He figures that it will be three weeks before the prize money actually reaches him in Nelson where he plans to continue working. "I like it here," he said.

Besides his parents, Mr. Prentice has four sisters and one brother in Toronto.

Immediate plans??

"I'm still full of ideas," replied the man who has 28,000 reasons for taking his time to decide what to do with a once-in-a-lifetime chunk of "good fortune."

THAT SMILE belongs to Albert Prentice, who won $28,000 in the Jamaican sweepstakes Thursday. Only three weeks in Nelson from Toronto, he is employed by a local typewriter firm and says he will continue to live and work in the city despite his sudden riches.—Daily News photo.

U.S. Planes Strike Deep In Heart of N. Viet Nam

17T ons of Bombs Dropped On Son La Barracks Area

From AP-Reuters

SAIGON (CP) — U. S. Air Force Thunderchiefs Tuesday attacked the Son La army barracks, 110 miles west northwest of Hanoi, for the second time in four days. The target marks their deepest penetration of North Viet Nam.

Also attacked was the Van Nuoc Cheu ammunition depot, 70 miles west northwest of Ho Chi Minh's Communist capital of Hanoi.

Son La was first raided June 18, but a communique located the target as west southwest of Hanoi. The Pentagon said this was a clerical error.

Eight of the fighter-bombers, with a 20-plane escort, made the strike, dropping 17 tons of 750-pound bombs. They were reported to have destroyed nine buildings and damaged 20 in a 30-minute attack. Anti-aircraft fire was said to be moderate and no enemy planes were reported sighted.

Opposition was again said confined to anti - aircraft fire. The depot was reported moderately damaged.

FRANCE LOST WAR

Son La, capital of a province of the same name, is 55 miles east of Dien Bien Phu, where France lost the Indochina war in 1954.

Son La is an area through which Western military observers claim much Chinese military aid is passing to the Communist Viet Cong guerrillas in South Viet Nam and to the pro-Communist Pathet Lao in Laos.

An American spokesman who announced the raids said it was the first time U.S. bombers had gone north of Hanoi.

Other U.S. raids on north Viet Nam by Skyhawk bombers Tuesday included strikes at bridges and communications targets. No planes were reported lost.

Meanwhile, U.S. officials said after intense fighting in early June the war on the ground in South Viet Nam appears to have died down.

Pearson Urges Backing for UN

LONDON (CP)—Prime Minister Pearson urged his Commonwealth colleagues Tuesday to put their money on the United Nations as the best hope for the future peace of the world.

He got encouraging responses in the Commonwealth leaders meeting, an informant said. Several leaders pledged action on defraying UN peacekeeping costs and verbal support also came from Kwame Nkrumah of Ghana.

Pearson, whose government has just pledged $4,000,000 towards the UN's peacekeeping deficit of some $108,000,000, delivered a lengthy appeal for UN support in the course of a session that dealt with world affairs in general and the progress of colonies towards independence in the Commonwealth.

The Canadian leader, in a separate speech, also pledged more Canadian aid for Caribbean countries and said Canada was anxious to promote political and economic stability in the West Indies.

On the troubles of the United Nations, Pearson said the world body's future would be jeopardized if deadlock over the payment of peacekeeping assessments prevented a normal UN assembly meeting this fall, as it did last year.

He reminded the 20 other Commonwealth heads of government that the UN was a valuable asset for small and middle powers. He urged Commonwealth governments now withholding peacekeeping payments—on the ground that such big powers as Russia and France refuse to pay—to reconsider their stand.

Several leaders — informants would not say which ones—said they would recommend payments toward peace - keeping costs to their governments.

Some Want Pearson On Peace Mission

LONDON (CP) — Published reports suggested Tuesday Afro-Asian delegates to the Commonwealth conference want to draft Prime Minister Pearson as a member of a four-country Viet Nam peace mission.

But a spokesman for Pearson said the Canadian leader had not been approached and would not favor a change in the character of the mission.

Some London newspapers which published the unconfirmed reports said certain delegates would like to see Pearson lead the mission in place of Prime Minister Wilson, the target of a tirade from China and North Viet Nam.

British officials confirmed some African prime ministers proposed Pearson for the leadership when the mission idea was introduced by Wilson last week. At that time Pearson turned it down, supporting Wilson for the chairmanship.

As fresh reports of Pearson's popularity with the Africans spread, a Canadian spokesman told reporters the question of a change in the composition of the mission had not arisen.

Asked whether he personally had been approached by the Africans about the prospects of getting Pearson to serve, the spokesman replied: "No comment."

Some of the Commonwealth leaders were reported deeply depressed when China launched its attack on Wilson, calling him a nitwit and a messenger for President Johnson.

ALGIERS (AP) — Hundreds of youths surged into downtown Algiers Tuesday night in the third day of rioting in support of deposed President Ahmed Ben Bella.

The new outbreak came as Col. Houari Boumedienne's strongman regime deployed security forces in the capital and other key points in this nation of 12,000,000 in an effort to avert further violence that might interfere with the upcoming African - Asian conference.

Selznick, Movie Magnate, Passes

By JAMES BACON

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — David O. Selznick, producer of the movies' all - time box - office champion, Gone With the Wind, died Tuesday of a heart attack. He was 63.

A spokesman for Mount Sinai Hospital said the famed producer, one of the movie industry greats, died two hours and 22 minutes after being admitted.

It ended thus: "Come home, D.O.S., the industry needs you."

Selznick, inactive in recent years, married actress Jennifer Jones in Portofino, Italy, in 1949. Previously, he was divorced by Irene Mayer Selznick, daughter of the late Louis B. Mayer, longtime boss of MGM.

MADE MAJOR MOVIES

The producer made some of the screen's major movies—Intermezzo, Rebecca, David Copperfield, Little Women, Tom Sawyer, The Prisoner of Zenda, Little Lord Fauntleroy, A Tale of Two Cities, Anna Karenina, Viva Villa, Dinner at Eight, Manhattan Melodrama, A Star is Born, Duel in The Sun, Farewell to Arms and his greatest, Gone With The Wind.

His trademark was quality: Top stars, the finest writers, no expense spared on production.

Among stars he introduced were Ingrid Bergman in Intermezzo, Vivien Leigh in Gone With The Wind and Joan Fontain in Rebecca.

And it was he who first brought Katharine Hepburn to the screen to co-star with John Barrymore in Bill of Divorcement.

Back To Work Movement Foils Strike in Dominican Republic

SANTO DOMINGO (AP) — A three-day strike called by Dominican Republic labor leaders supporting Col. Francisco Caamano Deno's rebel regime foundered Tuesday in the face of a back-to-work movement. The strike had faltered from its outset Monday.

Fewer than a dozen of Santo Domingo's 40 factories shut down and most of these—including producers of soap, cement and cardboard boxes—reopened Tuesday. A labor spokesman said he had reports that three sugar mills in the countryside were closed. This could not be confirmed.

The anti-rebel junta described the strike as a complete failure.

BLAME POLICE ARMY

Miguel Soto, president of the autonomous Confederation of Christian Unions, which sponsored the walkout, charged the poor response was due to "police and army repression."

A junta spokesman denied allegations that union leaders had been arrested and workers forced to return to their jobs.

There was a denial, too, of a rumor that troops of the inter-American peace force surrounding the rebel-held downtown sector would launch an attack Tuesday.

Parliament Tuesday

By The Canadian Press

The Commons continued study of the bill to establish an Indian claims commission, voting down a New Democrat amendment 153 to 13.

The amendment called for scrapping of the government bill and replacement by one with greater protection for treaty rights.

Citizenship Minister Nicholson said the 10-year life of the proposed commission should be adequate to hear all claims.

Gerald W. Baldwin (PC — River) said there should be a longer limit than three years for bands to file claims.

Frank Howard (NDP—Skeena) said there should be no set lifetime for the commission.

The Commons voted 102 to 58 to give second reading to the government's tax measures to protect Canadian newspapers and magazines.

The budget resolution also included the proposal for a 10-per-cent cut in personal income taxes.

Bank Bills Approved in Principle

OTTAWA (CP) — The Commons broke a minor log-jam Tuesday and sent two private bills incorporating new chartered banks to committee for detailed discussion.

The bills setting up the Laurentide Bank and the Bank of Western Canada had been stalled in the House in the face of a combined New Democrat-Creditiste filibuster.

In a surprise move, however, the two bills were given second reading, approval in principle, and referred to the Commons committee on finance, trade and economic affairs with nary a voice raised against them.

The 13 Creditistes, who had proposed amendments to both bills to set them aside for six months, were all absent from the House when the bills passed. En route, their amendments were defeated by a voice vote.

New Democrat spokesman Arnold Peters (Timiskaming) said his group still considers the bills raise several controversial questions. But the NDP was willing to let them go to committee where witnesses could be called to testify on various aspects of the legislation.

Japan, South Korea Resume Relations

TOKYO (AP) — Japan and South Korea signed a treaty and related documents restoring normal ties Tuesday while student demonstrations rocked both countries.

The signing ceremony, the most elaborate in post - war Japan, marked the first time in 60 years that the two former adversaries would enjoy official diplomatic relations.

The documents were signed by Foreign Minister Lee Dong Won of South Korea and his Japanese counterpart, Etsusaburo Shiina. Both countries are friendly with the West.

While the signing climaxed almost 14 years of disrupted negotiations, noisy demonstrations threatened to bog down ratification of the documents by parliaments in Tokyo and Seoul. The treaty and related protocols have to be ratified by both parliaments.

In Seoul, more than 8,000 South Korean students from 14 colleges and universities joined by 200 opposition politicians took part in violent demonstrations opposing the newly concluded treaty. The students and their supporters termed the treaty a product of "humiliating concessions."

ARREST HUNDREDS

Police said they arrested 593 students while 44 policemen were injured. Monday, police arrested 906 students in a similar demonstration.

In Tokyo, 14,000 left-wing groups held three separate demonstrations protesting reopening of normal relations between Japan and South Korea saying this will prevent unification of South Korea with the Communist North.

Moist Air May Aid Firefighters

PRINCE GEORGE (CP) — Firefighters at a 4,000-acre blaze 160 miles north of here were hoping they could control the fire with help from moist Pacific air forecast to cover the area today.

It is the only major blaze left in the sprawling Prince George fire district. It has been burning out of control since Monday, defying efforts of 118 men, 10 bulldozers and two aircraft trying to contain it.

A B.C. Forest Service official said Tuesday a Canso water bomber and an Otter water tanker attempted all day to quench spot fires igniting ahead of the main blaze.

He said the men and bulldozers were unsuccessful in trying to slash fire guards on the fire's perimeter.

The fire, believed started by lightning last Wednesday, was fanned by winds into a major conflagration. By Tuesday it had burned its way through commercially valuable timber and was into second growth spruce and pine.

Twenty-one fires burned in other parts of the district Tuesday, all under control and none considered serious.

Survivor Tells of Tragedy In Which Five Lost Lives

GIMLI, Man. (CP) — A 20-year - old construction worker who can't swim told Tuesday of plunging into Lake Winnipeg three times in vain attempts to save friends.

Halli Johnson, was the only survivor among six people who set out Saturday night for a pleasure cruise on the lake.

He said from a hospital bed in this town 50 miles north of Winnipeg. The water was calm when the outboard motor on the 18-foot fishing skiff was cut back too quickly. A wave splashed over the stern, and the motor was thrown overboard to keep the craft afloat.

Later, a squall developed, the three men besides Johnson jumped over and drowned, a child perished and the boat floated ashore.

Johnson said he then dragged the child's hysterical mother ashore, then passed out.

The woman apparently returned to the partly-submerged boat, in which the body of her husband lay. Searchers found her body inside the boat alongside her husband's.

UNDER TREATMENT

Johnson, is under treatment for fatigue and explosure. He was at Riverton, 20 miles north of here, for the weekend.

The party set out from Riverton to travel to Loon Strait, on the east side of the lake.

In Loon Strait, near the shore, "Gary throttled the motor too quickly, and a wave came over the back," Johnson said, They started drifting until about five miles out.

It had started to rain. "Then Gary panicked," Johnson said. "He jumped overboard and disappeared.

"The boat drifted all night. . . ."

Sunday morning, Spring, without a word, jumped from the boat.

"The skiff was then out of sight of land," Johnson said. "I dragged him in, but he had already drowned.

DRIFTED NORTH

"Then we drifted north. It was still raining. The waves were very, very high. I don't know how high, because I've hardly ever been in boats."

Later Sunday, Johannson jumped overboard.

Johnson said none of the three spoke a word before jumping into the water. The boat was drifting with the stern submerged and the bow section above water.

"Then, late Sunday, the baby died," he said.

The boat drifted up the shore near Loon Strait Monday morning.

DRAGGED WOMAN

"I placed the child on the bank and dragged Velma up on the shore. She was hysterical.

"Then I must have conked out.

"I must have slept for about four hours. When I awoke she (Velma) was gone. I thought she had tried to walk inland.

"I tried to walk but I couldn't get very far. Then three men came and found me. It must have been about 10 a.m. I never saw the woman again."

Johnson, who dived into the water after the three men, said "I can't swim at all. I guess I must have learned when I had to."

Dupuis Ordered To Appear

ST. JOHNS, Que. (CP)—Yvon Dupuis, former federal minister without portfolio, was ordered Tuesday to appear July 6 for voluntary statement on influence-peddling charges.

Judge Andre Regnier delivered his lengthy judgment following a preliminary hearing that lasted 10 days. Voluntary statement is a stage in Quebec legal proceedings at which the defence may present evidence in an attempt to have charges dismissed without trial.

Defence lawyer Raymond Daoust said Tuesday he intends to call witnesses and present a case at voluntary statement.

15 Traffic Deaths Forecast

OTTAWA (CP) — The Canadian Highway Safety Council said Tuesday it expects 15 traffic deaths during Dominion Day 1965.

This year the July 1 holiday is a one-day, mid-week observance. The council asks all who drive or walk to do everything to avoid making it Canada's "death day."

Fertilizer Demand Ahead Of Supply

By KEN CLARK

OTTAWA (CP) — Demand has edged ahead of supply as the chemical fertilizer industry in Canada heads for another big year.

Federal officials said Tuesday export sales in the 1965 calendar year will likely pass $100,000,000 for the first time. Last year, exports — primarily to the United States — totalled $86,700,000.

The big export demand has helped produce what one trade official here termed "a tight supply situation." The shortage is not too serious, but if the suppliers had more they could sell it, particularly outside Canada.

A big expansion program among fertilizer manufacturers is under way to meet the soaring demand.

Castlegar Election Victory by Little

CASTLEGAR — Murray Little topped the polls at Castlegar on Tuesday in a four-way election race to fill the vacancy created on the Village Council by the resignation six weeks ago of Commissioner Leo Bosse.

Mr. Bosse announced his resignation and said it was due to business pressure.

Mr. Little captured a total of 141 votes out of the 349 votes cast, and topped his nearest rival, Mrs. Gwilym Hughes by 62 votes. Mrs. Hughes received 79 votes.

In third place was Basel Shealds with 71 votes, while low man in the polls was Nick Kostiuk with 58 votes.

There were two spoiled ballots.

Only 351 of the 1155 eligible voters in Castlegar attended the polls Tuesday to register a vote of only 30.2 per cent.

Mr. Little will fill out the unexpired portion of Mr. Bosse's term until hegular election is held for the full village council in December.

He is a former village commissioner and is employed as a statistican. He favors a Castlegar zoning policy and also favors an open and vigorous inquiry into the advantages of a district municipality.

Mr. Little also came out in favor of mail delivery and for a program of black-topping on village streets and roads.

JAKARTA, Indonesia (Reuters)—President Sukarno Tuesday lifted a two year ban on political parties in West Irian, the former Dutch colony ceded to Indonesia in 1963.

AT HATCHERY

Charge City Failed Its Commitments

City council will be put on the griddle by the Nelson Rod and Gun Club over failure to fulfill commitments pertaining to the Nelson Fish Hatchery.

It seems that in 1938 an agreement was made between the city and club wherein land and landscaping of same would be provided if the club undertook the physical details of the hatchery.

"We built the pool and put in the refrigeration," said Mickey McEwen, "but the city never got around to finishing their part of the bargain." He added that a local landscaper, Mike Robbins, had been hired to draw up the necessary blueprints (which the city paid for) but that nothing further was done and the landscape layouts themselves finally disappeared.

Now that the provincial govern ment has decided to relinquish its management of the hatchery, executives of the club want to know the future fate of the enterprise which they began in 1938.

A delegation composed of Don Coleman, president of the club, as well as Mickey McEwen and other undesignated members will appear before council at its next regular meeting to determine their present status in the matter.

Crack Down on Litter

Bylaw Provides for Fine Against Owner or Tenant

A city bylaw forbidding undue littering and untidiness of property and premises was given two readings at the regular meeting of council Monday night.

The new dictum, containing a penalty of no less than $100 for each offence, covers owners of property as well as occupants and forbids the accumulation of rubbish, weeds and otherwise used or discarded material on home or rented property. Third and final reading of the bylaw will be given at the next meeting of council.

Amendment to the business license bylaw, stipulating a cash or bond outlay of $200 as a show of good faith for out-of-town or temporary business ventures, was given third reading by cuncil. Ald. D. F. Porteous, who objected to the bylaw because of its restrictive influence of business, reiterated his stand that "it doesn't do anyone any good," and does, further, "do harm to local residents."

Replying to an objection from Ald. Frank Beresford that the $200 license investment was negligible to a business firm, Ald. Porteous said the cash outlay was all right "if you have the money," but that some businesses could not afford the initial cash burden for license fees.

He added that council seemed to be setting a policy that catered to affluent businessmen and neglected the less financially stable.

This drew fire from Mayor E. T. Bodard, who said that the bylaw was "asking a show of good faith for the rest of the citizens" with whom the business man was going to deal.

As it now stands, the bylaw stipulates that out-of-town businessmen must pay a licence fee of $200 or post a bond in that amount to operate in the city.

Two items contained in the minutes of the Nelson Civic Centre Recreation Commission pertaining to buying of equipment and the financial loss incurred on a recent concert were referred to the financial committee for consideration.

A letter from C. B. Loff, secretary - treasurer of the Nelson School Board, noting that plans for a proposed addition to L. V. Rogers Senior Secondary School have not yet been approved by the Federal Government, was received and filed.

Excavation damage incurred by the installation of sewer service to the property of John Blight will be investigated by the superintendent of public works and the city engineer, council decided.

A request by the Nelson Savings Credit Union for establishment of a commercial electric heating rate was referred to the electrical superintendent for study.

GRADUATE from University of British Columbia this year was Donn Ashley Livingstone, who received his degree of doctor of medicine. Dr. Livingstone is the son of Mrs. J. S. Livingstone, and the late Mr. Livingstone, former district school board secretary.

Claim Class A Park Lost by Government

An area of land in the Pilot Bay vicinity that has been designated as a class "A" park by the Provincial Government, but "conveniently lost" in their filing system, will be the object of a probe by the Nelson Rod and Gun Club.

Brought on the floor by Mickey McEwen, who told members that according to rumor, the land in question has been traded for a "swampy" piece of real estate nearby.

"This is a class A park," Mr. McEwen charged, adding to think of trading it for another strip of land "is illegal even in the eyes of the government." Letters on the matter had been sent to W. D. Black, minister of social welfare, the speaker continued, but so far no answer has been received.

Adding support, Ed Sikula, elected vice-president of the organization at the meeting, declared that the file had been "conveniently lost" and "definitely done away with." This was concurred with by Mr. McEwen, who declared that "it looks like something is cooking," and that repeated attempts to locate an official file on the park had been unsuccessful. He added that B.C. wild life officials had run into the same difficulty and that zone headquarters of the Rod and Gun Club should be notified as to "what's going on."

Morrissey Reserve Not Yet Confirmed

Although being considered, the possibility of a game preserve in the Morrissey area has not been officially confirmed, said Jack Williams, conservation officer from Fernie, at the regular meeting of the Nelson Rod and Gun Club Tuesday night.

Queried on the matter by chairman, Don Coleman, Mr. Williams told members that the section concerned was a "closed area," but that he did not know if the region was destined for a game preserve. In answer to a question from Mickey McEwen whether the matter had been discussed by Rod and Gun Zone headquarters, Mr. Williams replied in the affirmative and that they had been in favor of opening of the preserve.

What about winter kill of sheep in the Morrissey area, asked Ed Secula. The conservation officer replied that foot and aerial surveys had determined not a single winter starvation death among sheep. He admitted that there was "one ram left" and said that 12 of the animals had been found in a group, victims of winter kill. A total of 32 others had been "killed by kindness" through the misguided benevolence of a farmer who had put out bales of hay for the animals. Unaccustomed to the feed, the sheep had gorged themselves and had been unable to absorb fibres in the hay fast enough. Mr. Williams estimated that there were a total of from 3000 to 3500 sheep in the East Kootenay area, which conflicted with a government count of approximately 8000 animals. "They're counting system isn't as good as they think it is," commented Mickey McEwen.

ROSSLAND NATIVE, J. C. MacLean has been appointed vice-president and director of Montana Phosphate Products Company, a subsidiary of Consolidated Mining and Smelting Company. Mr. MacLean received his degree in mining engineering from University of British Columbia in 1940. He has had 25 years of experience in mining and management with Cominco, where he was general superintendent of mines.

STOCKHOLM (Reuters)—Sweden has made a voluntary contribution of $2,000,000 to the United Nations to help solve the organization's financial difficulties, the foreign ministry announced Tuesday.

Officials Mum On Milk Hike

No comment on the possibility of an increase in milk prices could be obtained Monday from the agriculture minister's office or the Milk Board in Vancouver.

Kootenay Dairymen's Association reported over the weekend that it was seeking approval of a 10 per cent increase in the basic price of milk to West Kootenay producers. Such an increase would force the retail price up from one to 1½ cents per quart, Palm Dairies Ltd. branch manager Jack James said.

Present retail prices in Nelson are 27 cents per quart retail on home delivery and 25 cents through chain stores.

Square Dance Jamboree Planning Now Complete

Plans have been finalized for the biggest and best yet Midsummer Square Dance Jamboree to be held in conjunction with Nelson's Mid-summer bonspiel, the Jamboree committee announced on Tuesday.

A committee spokesman said that all phases of the Jamboree planning are under control, and a very successful weekend is anticipated.

Eleven callers have signified that they will be present and will call both on Friday and Saturday nights. The M.C. will be Art Ziegler from Vegreville, Alberta, who will also conduct a Workshop at the Civic Centre on Saturday afternoon.

A Cowboy breakfast will be served at the Civic Centre on Sunday morning, July 11th, followed by dancing on the ice, so that dancers may earn their Kool Kat badges. This will be under the direction of local callers, Vic Graves and Ev Kuhn, as will also be the street dancing during the Lions' breakfast on Monday morning, July 5th.

Over 500 brochures of Nelson and District have been sent to various clubs in Western Canada and the States, and a large number of visitors are expected to attend. Billetting and tenting arrangements are being made among local Square Dancers for those visitors desiring it.

The birth rate in the first quarter of 1965 in Canada was 22 per thousand, down from 23.9 in the same period a year ago.

Michel, Natal, Sparwood Consider Uniting, Relocating at Sparwood

Natal, Michel, and Sparwood are considering a plan to combine populations and relocate in a single municipality at Sparwood.

The largest community, Natal, has a population of 825, while Michel and Sparwood have 400 and 360 each. The villages, about three miles apart, are 20 miles north of Fernie on the main inter-provincial highway between British Columbia and Alberta.

The scheme that has been proposed to the federal and provincial governments would not only improve the area's housing environment through a relocation program, but it will beautify one of the principal road entrances to the province, a quarterly housing publication notes.

"The project would also provide lands for commercial and industrial development, vital to the strengthening of the long-term economic base for the area. If the scheme is feasible, the provincial government may create a large district municipality with financial resources and authority to undertake the program."

The village commissioners propose to analyze the scheme with an urban renewal study financed by the three levels of government. The study would provide an assessment of physical conditions and outline a development and services plan for Sparwood. Rehousing needs of Natal and Michel residents and arrangements with Crow's Nest Pass Coal Company, the major industry in the area, will be considered by provincial staff.

Many families with above-average incomes have already moved to Sparwood, located on a flat bench of land on the main highway, three miles north of Natal. The village consists essentially of the district high school and a 275-lot subdivision owned by the mining company. About 90 lots, sold to company employees for one dollar each, have been developed.

Michel is a company town owned by Crow's Nest Pass Coal Company and a large part of Natal is also company-owned. Both communities endure heavy concentrations of dust and smoke from surrounding strip mines and plant operations. There are no sewers and water is piped from wells. While there are a few good home in Natal, the majority in the two villages are 40 to 60-year old frame dwellings.

Crow's Nest and other operations near Ferme are the only important coke producers in the western areas of Canada and the United States.

FEDERAL SUBSIDY

The federal government has declared, Natal, Michel and Sparwood as a depressed area and the mining company is receiving a federal subsidy to improve its competitive position under an agreement which expires in 1967. The financial assistance has sparked renewed confidence in the area and the company recently embarked on a $15 million expansion program to meet future demands.

Urban renewal proposals for the villages have wider implications than normally anticipated under the National Housing Act. Because of the experimental nature of the program, federal assistance would be made available under Section 33 (1) (h) of the Act.

Preliminary proposals for implementation of the scheme envision substantial federal assistance for sewage treatment plants and land assembly as well as a variety of housing solutions, including subsidized housing.

The urban renewal scheme for Natal ,Michel and Sparwood represents a totally new concept under the National Housing Act which could have application wherever similar conditions exist in Canada, the housing publication notes.

Senior Citizens To Send Letter On Clearance

CRESTON — Senior citizens of Creston have lent their support to the effort of Kootenay organizations in petitioning for preflooding clearance of the Columbia projects reservoirs.

Branch No. 28 will send a letter to Premier W. A. C. Bennett and Hon. W. D. Black stating their support of the clearance, it was decided at the recent meeting.

Salmo and Cranbrook senior citizens have been invited to the annual picnic to be held June 27. This will be the last meeting of the season.

New Denver Rec Group Recesses For Summer

NEW DENVER — The New Denver Recreation Commission held its final meeting before the summer recess, although if it is necessary, the president will call a special meeting through the summer.

It is hoped that swimming lessons under J. R. McKeen of Nelson will be held at Bigelow Bay July 19 to 30 to give professional help in the art of swimming. Some assistance will be offered to get the beach in shape after high water.

The Royal Canadian Legion New Denver - Silverton Branch will be assisted financially with their track and field program.

Baseball was another topic discussed and it was decided to help the Little League and Babe Ruth teams again.

William Martin spoke of the centennial meeting held recently.

Reports were heard of the annual meeting of the B.C. Recreation Association held in Victoria in May, when J. Eric Granstrom acted as the regional representative.

There are 17 commissions, one group and four individual memberships from the West Kootenay region.

A further attempt will be made to bring the membership total closer to the 100 per cent desired.

Three Little Skunks Add to Zoo Atmosphere

KINNAIRD — A skunk and her eight babies were on their way across the highway recently when they became separated by traffic and five baby skunks remained behind in the driveway of the F. V. Watkin residence.

Mr. Watkin was at the weekly Monday night fireman's practice. Not knowing what else to do, Mrs. Watkin phoned her husband at the firehall for help. Mr. Watkin felt duty-bound to go home and help, but the rest of the firemen refused to become involved with skunks. Alan Woodrow from Robson had been called, and soon arrived to help. Mr. Woodrow caught two and Mr. Watkin caught one. These three little skunks now have a comfortable home at the Robson zoo.

Trail Wants Hydro Assurance on Water

TRAIL (CP) — City officials have decided to ask a B.C. Hydro and Power Authority representative to ensure the city will get adequate water during dredging of the Columbia River.

Ald. Dave Mawdsley said Monday night that the city should "order" a stoppage of the dredging if Trail's water supply is in jeopardy.

A report from Trail said B.C. Hydro asked the city to consider all aspects closely before requesting a stoppage because construction deadlines must be met.

The city, which normally takes its water from the Columbia, has been supplying residents on the East side of the river by using two wells — but the pumping equipment has been failing.

The dredge is cleaning the riverbed to bedrock in preparation for construction of the Arrow Dam, one of three dams to be built under the Columbia River Treaty with the United states.

Knights of Columbus Elect New Officers

NATAL — Nominations and election of officers took place at the regular monthly meeting of Father Anthony, OMI, Council, Knights of Columbus, held in St. Michael's Hall at Natal with Grand Knight Siro Cimolini presiding.

The nominating committee included Siro Cimolini, Silvio Fornasier and Harry Corrigan.

The following members were nominated and elected by acclamation to take office for the 1965-66 term: grand knight, Andy Latka; deputy grand knight, Pete Letasy; treasurer, Harry Corrigan; financial secretary, Silvio Fornasier; recording secretary, Joseph Katrichak; advocate, Paul J. Chala; chancellor, Ettore Reghenas; warden, Charlie Anselmo; inside guard, Adrian Roberge; outside guard, Al Rousseau; trustees, Pete Letasy, one - year term; Frank Schmaltz, two-year term; Siro Cimolini, three-year term; chaplain, Rev. L. M. Trainor.

To complete the list of officers the grand knight will appoint the council lecturer and six point program chairman. The annual installation of officers of Father Anthony Council will be held in August, with the district deputy the installing officer.

Other business transacted included the acceptance of an invitation to join the cavalcade of Knights of Columbus and their families from Fernie to the west and Lethbridge to the east who will travel across the border to Kalispell, Montana, to be the guests there of the Kalispell Knights of Coumbus for a day, July 25.

Judge Gansner Welcomed To First County Court Sitting

Senior counsel Harold Clegg offered "a warm and sincere welcome to our Rossland court,' and expressed pleasure and satisfaction at Judge Gansner's appointment.

"You have long been one of us and we have come to know you very well; and in that knowledge we are confident of your worthiness to hold the office to which you have been elevated."

Mr. Clegg added he and his fellow barristers wished for the new judge "many years of happiness and accomplishment in office in your quest for truth and judgment."

Judge Gansner replied that as he began his judicial duties, "I cannot help but feel very humble and very aware of my shortcomings."

But, said the judge, with the help and co-operation of the members of the bar, "I shall be able to discharge my responsibilities and I hope to be able to do it in a manner worthy of my predecessors."

Judge Gansner thanked the bar for its welcome and declared he would look forward to working on the Rossland bench in an atmosphere of co-operation and support.

The judge indicated he would hold court in Rossland on the Tuesday following the first Monday of each month.

He said he would hold chambers here on the Tuesday following the third Monday of each month.

At the current sitting he is faced with a few civil actions and a zoning bylaw appeal.

For the first time in the West Kootenay, two divorce actions are set down for trial in the county court.

County court processing of divorce cases was authorized by the legislature last year but has not taken place until now following a Supreme Court of Canada reversal of a B.C. Supreme Court ruling that the legislation was ultra vires.

Crow Firm Agrees To Pulp Changes

FERNIE — Crow's Nest Pass Coal Company has made known its approval of two changes in specifications for bidding in the forthcoming auction of timber rights in the Kootenays.

The changed specifications, higher standards of odor control and use of hardwood in its pulp production, were the result of a visit to Japan by Lands Minister Ray Williston, who found that the processing technique there involves use of hardwood, which has been considered waste in B.C., and a lack of noticeable odor.

Mr. Williston stated that a Japanese firm which would like to build an 1155-ton a day mill at Canal Flat would use the same process it uses in its own country which allows use of 100 per cent hardwood on some products.

Mr. Williston said the odor control standard at the Honshu Pulp and Paper Company was "terrific." Honshu is a partner in Canal Development.

Crow's Nest is competing against Canal for a pulp mill in pulpwood harvesting area 8. Canal will be competing also with Kicking Horse Forest Products for harvesting rights in area 9.

Other business included a donation of $25 towards the March of Dimes appeal and the sanctioning of the Union Hall to be used for two teen-age dances over the July 1 celebration weekend which is being held in the Natal-Michel district. The meeting also decided to hold the annual community picnic sponsored by the local union at the Crow's Nest picnic grounds Aug. 8, one week following the return of the miners to their jobs at the Michel Collieries after completing their annual two weeks holiday period.

The Michel Mines will cease full-time production for a two-week period to permit miners to enjoy their annual holidays with pay, the dates set from July 19 to Aug. 1 inclusive.

CLEARING ON RESERVOIR PROJECTS WILL EITHER RETAIN OR IMPROVE RECREATIONAL AMENITIES STOP ALL TREES AND SNAGS WILL BE FELLED AND REMOVED SO THAT NAVIGATION WILL NOT BE IMPEDED

RAY WILLISTON

MINISTER OF LANDS FORESTS AND WATER RESOURCES

Clearing Unclear

The clearing picture in the Kootenays is very clear and very unsatisfactory. In spite of tremendous pressure from many representative segments of B.C. population calling for the complete and proper clearing of Columbia River Development dam reservoirs . . . the government is consistently refusing to pay any heed to this pressure and further, in the words of Premier Bennett himself, disclaiming any responsibility for clearing policies.

It is known that the terms of the Columbia Treaty, signed between the United States and Canada, and the funds designated, were based on engineer's estimates that allocated some $70 million for reservoir clearing.

The government and B.C. Hydro have chosen to ignore this and have consistently refused to comment on this aspect of clearing.

Forests and Water Resources Minister Ray Williston has posed the question, "One might wonder whether those who advocate the complete clearing of all reservoirs in all circumstances realize the very large amounts of money that would have to be spent are public money."

This was included in a letter written by Mr. Williston on May 5.

My, my . . . how times do change!

On February 7, 1964, the telegram printed elsewhere on this page was received from Mr. Williston.

We certainly agree that funds designated for clearing purposes would be public money. However, we also are fully aware of the fact that these funds were received from the United States . . . and were specifically allocated for reservoir clearing purposes.

B.C. Hydro head, Dr. Hugh Keenleyside this evening is speaking in Castlegar. He will undoubtedly be referring to the Columbia Development. We are willing to bet, however, that he will shed no new light on the controversial clearing policies, nor will he provide his audience with the true and valid reason behind the adamant stand by the B.C. government and Hydro against the complete clearing of the dam reservoirs.

Once again for the record, coming out 100 per cent in favor of complete and proper clearance have been . . . the Chambers of Commerce at all levels from local units to the B.C. parent body . . . Rod and Gun clubs at all levels, local and provincial, the B.C. Wildlife Federation, and countess other organizations, groups and individuals almost too numerous to mention.

A large and important section of the British Columbia labor movement has also gone on record as favoring complete and proper clearance and further . . . has suggested that the Government and B.C. Hydro could provide the province's university students with sorely-needed summer employment by hiring them for clearing work.

Sad Admission

Prime Minister Harold Wilson's proposal that a Commonwealth mission be appointed to make contact with the countries chiefly concerned, in the Viet Nam war in an effort to bring about a peaceful end to the dangerously growing struggle is both imaginative and worthy.

However, whether the necessary conditions can be met to either establish the mission or ensure a hearing for it by the governments involved is a very different matter.

In the first place there appears very little unanimity of opinion on the matter among the majority of Commonwealth leaders, many of whom appear determined to allow their national interests and prejudices to overrule the broader objective visualized by the British prime minister.

Such Commonwealth republics as Tanzania, Kenya, Pakistan and Malaysia are among the most vociferous critics of the suggestion, and their reasons for opposing it are not difficult to find.

Tanzania, for instance, has in recent months fallen almost completely under the domination of Communist China and obviously is not anxious to be part of any move which might be interpreted as deviating from Peking line of policy.

The Kenya leader, Jomo Kenyatta whose main objection to the proposed mission is that Mr. Wilson is its chairman ,seems still to be governed by his intolerance toward all people with a white skin, while the Pakistani president will not support the plan because he looks upon China as his major ally against his fellow Commonwealth neighbor, India.

Malaysia's resistance to the peace mission, on the other hand, is for completely different reasons. Its government, now fighting an undeclared war against the pro-Communist Republic of Indonesia, feels that the move would hold too many advantages for China, North Viet Nam and Russia.

Thus, the idea, laudible as it is, may never get off the ground And, of course, even if it does there is still much doubt whether or not such a mission representing 21 nations and 750 million people would be given the hearing it would deserve — or even be welcomed — by Hanoi, Peking and Washington.

The very fact that such a dispute among Commonwealth leaders has arisen so quickly and violently over firstly the importance of the proposal and secondly the relatively unimportant make-up of the mission seems a sad admission by them that the Commonwealth's boast of still being a major force for peace in the world is no longer valid.—Daily Colonist.

New Pacific Threat

Was she really sunbathing or was she being used as a ruse to divert attention from what was going on around her?

This is aquestion which must be asked of fisheries department officials who report spotting a bikini-clad woman sunbathing on the deck of a Russian factory ship lying off Canada's west coast.

Ostensibly the Russian vessel was a factory ship on a fish-catching and processing voyage. But what mere male sent out to investigate from the air could make a thorough going check of the ship's real activities with a vision in a bikini distracting him?

The Russians could be building an underseas missile-launching site zeroed in on Port Alberni, for all we know. Maybe the ship really belongs to T.H.R.U.S.H. and an U.N.C.L.E. agent should be sent to investigate the situation without further delay.

In future, at any rate, we should send out inspectors in underwater craft if we want the job done correctly. That is, of course, unless the ship also carries shapely damsels adept at playing mermaid in abbreviated scuba-diving togs. They won't stop at anything.—Calgary Herald.

Celebrates Twentieth Birthday

By CARMAN CUMMING
Canadian Press Staff Writer

The United Nations celebrates its 20th birthday this week, and presents are already beginning to trickle in.

Britain came up with $10,000,000 Monday. Four Scandinavian countries provided $3,780,000. A Canadian ledge of $4,000,000 was announced Monday by External Affairs Minister Martin, who said this does not exclude the possibility of a supplementary Canadian contribution.

But a big question remains: What will the United States and Soviet Union be prepared to offer?

One report is that the U.S. may mark the occasion by officially laying to rest the corpse of Article 19. The New York Times says President Johnson's advisers are urging him to announce this Saturday at the anniversary celebrations in San Francisco.

CLEAR AIR

That would clear the air at UN headquarters and perhaps encourage the Russians to help the UN pay off its debts.

If Johnson does make such an announcement, it would be the first U.S. admission that the Article 19 fight is over; that the U.S. and its allies stand no chance of forcing Russia, France and 11 other UN members to pay peacekeeping dues or lose their general assembly votes.

Article 19 stipulates that the countries whose debts exceed the equivalent of two years' assessment have no vote in the assembly.

American attempts to enforce the article — and the refusal of the debtors to recognize the legality of the assessments — have left the assembly helpless for more than a year while debts have continued to pile up.

As a result the UN had a deficit of about $108,000,000 until Monday's gifts were announced.

Privately, some Western diplomats have long since agreed with the view of assembly President Alex Quaison-Sackey that "the article 19 issue is dead."

But publicly, U.S. spokesmen have continued to insist that the fight is still on. The aim apparently is to get the most concessions possible from Moscow before giving in.

Another motive may be to ease the effect of a backdown on American public opinion.

By and large, the whole issue has been painted in the U.S. as a simple attempt to make the Russians pay their UN debts, rather than a dispute over the principles of how peace forces are to be organized and financed.

PUSHED AROUND

Any American backdown thus will add strength to right-wing charges that the United States is being pushed around at the UN and should get out.

On the other hand, an official American retreat would almost certainly result in a healthy Russian contribution to a UN stabilization fund. Moscow has said several times that it would contribute as soon as Article 19 is put on the shelf.

The UN could then proceed to a normal Assembly session this fall, making up the ground lost when last year's session was wiped out because of the peacekeeping dispute.

That still would not settle the central issue revolving on the Soviet - French contention that only the Security Council, not the Assembly, can set up peacekeeping forces and vote funds for them.

It would leave UN peacekeeping on a catch-as-catch-can basis, with each force set up by whatever means are feasible in each particular circumstances.

But some diplomats say UN peacekeeping has always been like that — and no better arrangements are likely until East-West relations improve.

World Briefs

PARIS (AP) — Singer Maria Callas has arrived from Athens after a three-week cruise. Miss Callas, who took the cruise following a breakdown during a series of opera performances in Paris, told reporters upon her arrival Monday: "The three-week cruise permitted me to have complete rest and I am now perfectly well."

COUNCIL CRACKS DOWN

TIVERTON, R.I. (AP)—The town council has banned sleeping on public beaches during the Newport Jaz Festival starting June 30. The action Monday night means there are no beaches near Newport to accommodate the thousands of high school and college age patrons who traditionally attend the festival.

Auto Makers Leery of Exhaust Device

TORONTO (CP) — The automobile industry urged a go-slow approach Monday to moves in the United States to make exhaust - control devices compulsory on all cars by 1968.

B. W. Bogan of Highland Park, Mich., vice-president engineering of the Chrysler Corp., agreed that it has been established that automobile exhaust emissions are major contributors to smog conditions in California, particularly in the Los Angeles area.

Exhaust - control devices are to be compulsory on all cars sold in California after 1966 and moves are afoot in the U.S. Congress to make them compulsory throughout the country by 1968.

Mr. Bogan told the 58th annual meeting of the Air Pollution Control Association:

"We are far from convinced that such a move would be wise. It seems to us that the proposed legislation in Congress . . . is based pretty much on the specious reasoning that what is good for Los Angeles is good for the entire country."

He contended that in wide areas of Canada and the United States automobiles are not substantial contributors to air pollution. People in those areas would resent paying a substantial price for a device "that does little for their major air problems."

A team of General Motors researchers reported on results of studies with a "smog chamber" and said that decreasing the nitrogen oxide—an automobile exhaust ingredient—had no effect on eye irritation and actually increased the formation of ozone, a potent smog ingredient.

An Adventure

By TIM PETERS

MONTREAL (CP) — Somerset Maugham once wrote: "Every human being is an adventure to me."

"The same goes for me," says Frank Anderson.

A more appropriate slogan for the 37 - year - old adventurer might read: "Everything is an adventure to me."

Anderson overcame a crippling childhood ailment which left him with a severe physical handicap to immerse himself in a variety of fascinating hobbies including the sport of gliding.

Despite his small stature and the fact that he used crutches until two years ago, when he underwent a series of operations, he has led an intensely active life, following the motto, "Keep moving so no rust will accumulate."

This philosophy has enabled Anderson, a specialist in all types of electronic computers, to become a self-taught expert in chess, gliding, professional magic and handwriting analysis.

Is he wearying of adventure after years of intense intellectual and physical activity? No.

"I've just discovered a new career," he says. "Marriage."

BECAME CHESS EXPERT

A native of Edmonton, Frank Anderson moved to Toronto where he spent almost 11 of his first 21 years in bed battling acute rheumatoid arthritis.

During these years he learned to play chess, long his first love, and progressed from regional and provincial championships to a share in 1953 of the Canadian closed title which he won outright two years later.

He has competed for Canada in two chess Olympics, the most recent at Tel Aviv, Israel, last November when Canada placed 12th among 50 countries, its highest standing ever.

Anderson, who now lives in Montreal, is rated among the world's better players and holds the coveted title of international master.

"Chess has affected my whole life and taught me the virtues of patience, perseverance, logical reasoning and modesty in victory."

Always seeking a new challenge, Anderson has moved on from the championship matches and exhibitions in which he plays up to 40 games simultaneously against 40 opponents, to adapting chess to computers.

With a Toronto partner, one of four such teams in the world, he is trying to discover how a computer may be programmed to play chess.

COMPUTER CAN'T COPE

The formula, which could revolutionize the chess world and perhaps divide the world championships into classes—man and machine—has eluded man as yet.

"The fastest computer envisaged—and some are capable of billions of operations a second—could not begin to compile all the possible moves in chess if it worked for 24 hours each day for billions of years," he says.

"But in the future almost anything is possible."

Anderson took up gliding a year ago when a friend described it to him as "a three-dimensional game of chess."

He won his glider pilot's licence in one summer, an exceptional feat among gliding devotees.

The glider, a light, motorless plane of exceptionally long wingspan, usually is launched by catapult or tow plane.

A pilot towed to 2,000 feet may remain aloft for a considerable length of time by making use of the lift provided by columns of rising air. In favorable weather conditions, flights of 200 miles are possible.

Anderson says gliding—known to enthusiasts as soaring—is 95 per cent brain work and five per cent physical activity.

"A glider pilot must be able to think fast and accurately, possess a knowledge of meteorology and the air and combine a sense of daring and caution."

RELATED TO CHESS

His other hobbies revolve around chess.

Magic and chess are related in that the psychology a magician applies to his audience must also be applied between expert chess players, he says.

"I learned that magic to be entertaining and mystifying at its best is not sleight of hand but the art of diverting people through motions and entertaining talk.

"I've always dreamed of combining chess and magic to make my opponent's chess pieces disappear from the board."

The handwriting hobby, which he described as a popular party pastime, also was self-taught.

He believes most personality traits may be revealed more accurately through handwriting than through any test yet devised.

"Of course, at a party you have to be discreet and tactful."

He claims a 95-per-cent reliability average in determining such traits as intelligence, powers of concentration, reasoning ability, honesty, generosity and emotional characteristics.

Guides for the study include writing size and slope, curls, mannerisms and other writing characteristics.

Add to this impressive list such comparatively humdrum hobbies as bridge—"I like its social aspect"—and "rally driving—"I'd rather hold the wheel than do the navigating"—and you have Frank Anderson, long-time adventurer but above all thinker and human being.

Favorite Dinner Menu

CAMBRIDGE BAY, N.W.T. (CP)—An appetizer of raw, frozen trout, followed by a main course of caribou ribs and Eskimo ice cream may not be everybody's favorite dinner menu.

But at a recent dinner sponsored by the N.W.T. Residents' Association in Cambridge Bay many of the 100 white and Eskimo diners had second and third helpings.

Purpose of the dinner was to raise money for a community hall and to introduce association members to some foods native to the area 1,000 miles northeast of Edmonton.

Residents in several northern communities helped gather food for the Arctic dinner. Hunters in Coppermine, N.W.T., several hundred miles distant, trapped two caribou. As late as the afternoon of the meal, two Arctic hare were shot and popped into the stewpot.

Association chairman Fred Ross almost caused several diners to lose their smiles of well-being following the feast when he disclosed that Eskimo ice cream was in reality a mixture of cooking oil, snow, sugar and berries .

CIVIL DEFENCE

Municipalities are expected to pay only 10% of most of the Civil Defence cost. The outlay municipally for ensuring public safety, therefore, is very small.

Today In History

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

June 23, 1965 . . .

Robert Clive, the East India Company's chief military commander, won the battle of Plassey 208 years ago today—in 1757—and deposed Suraj-ud-Dowlah, who had invaded Calcutta and imprisoned the English survivors in the Black Hole, where most of them died in a single night. On his return to England after two terms as governor of Bengal, Clive was accused of corruption, but a parliamentary inquiry found that he had rendered "meritorious services to the State."

1870—Rupert's Land and the Northwest Territories joined Confederation.

1931—Wiley Post began his first flight round the world.

First World War

Fifty years ago today—in 1915—Allied armies returned to the attack on strong Turkish positions at Gallipoli; Lloyd George threatened to conscript labor in Britain if union leaders did not supply enough men to the arms factories within a week.

Second World War

Twenty-five years ago today — in 1940 — London announced the terms of the French surrender and recognized General de Gaulle as leader of the Free French; Germany would intern the French navy, dissolve the army, and occupy half of France.

Murder Victim Alive

ROME (Reuters)—The case of Salvatore Gallo, still technically guilty of murdering his brother who turned out to be alive, has reinforced the belief of many Italians that they have one of the most ponderous, widespread and incomprehensible state bureaucracies in the world.

In 1954, Gallo, a Sicilian peasant, was sentenced to life imprisonment for the murder of his brother Paolo after a quarrel over some land.

But Paolo was really alive, in hiding. He was found seven years later. Salvatore was consequently released from prison.

Salvatore's lawyer asked for a revision of the case.

The public prosecutor replied that this was impossible under existing laws. He should be rearrested and returned to prison to serve his sentence when, if necessary, the question of a pardon by the president of the republic, not a reversal of the verdict, could be considered.

But then legislation was submitted to parliament which will straighten out such anomalies in future. Salvatore, meanwhile, is still free —and still guilty.

The case aroused an outcry in the press. Public attention was focused on this and similar absurdities.

One magazine cited the case of a man living in a town in Umbria. While transacting business with the local authorities he learned he had been registered as having died three years previously.

He showed the local government official his identity card, his driving licence and his game licence, all in perfect order, and asked what could be done about it.

Unperturbed, the official answered: "To show that you are not dead, you must present a certificate of continued existence."

But asked if he would kindly issue such a certificate the official said: "I, of course, cannot do so, because as far as I am concerned you are legally deceased."

Setting Out for Yukon

CHATHAM, Ont. (CP)—A 53-year-old construction foreman from London, Ont., is planning to set out for the Yukon this summer in a homemade covered wagon.

Lawrence McIntyre, who has been spending spare weekends on a Chatham-area farm building the wagon, says the trip has no special significance—he's just looking for adventure. He also plans to do a little prospecting .

The 12-foot-long wagon is built of wood and covered with a canvas top. It's pulled by two horses.

Mr McIntyre, who has visited the Yukon before and says "you can enjoy the land," plans to leave in August, figuring the trip will take seven or eight months. He'll travel alone.

In recent weeks families have set out in covered wagons from various places in North America in search of new homes. One family left Texas bound for British Columbia and two couples left Calgary for Halifax.

However, Mr. McIntyre says his idea has been brewing for a long time. His main aim is to get away from city life.

Battered Mace Replaced

LONDON (CP) — An old wooden mace, now virtually a relic of Canadian history, is being flown to the Bahamas to replace one destroyed by a parliamentarian in a fit of temper.

Alan Macnaughton, Speaker of the Canadian Commons, ordered that the wooden mace, used briefly after the great fire hit the Ottawa Parliament in 1917, be flown to Nassau in time for the opening of the parliamentary session there July 1.

"When I heard of their plight, I naturally offered the Canadian replica mace, which is in a glass case in my office," Macnaughton said in an interview Monday.

He said Robbie Symonnette, the Bahamas Speaker, recounted his tale of woe during a meeting of the Commonwealth Speakers Association in London.

"He told me that last March the leader of the Opposition, in a fit of temper, grabbed the mace and threw it out of a second-storey window.

"The mace not only was broken but someone stole the staff and only the crown remains. It takes some time to have a new one made and the Speaker found he had no mace for the session opening July 1.

The mace is the symbol of the authority of Parliament. It is brought into the House of Commons when the House sits and taken out again when the House rises.

PARIS LINES INDICATE THAT GIRLS STILL FEMALE

THE BOYS ARE beginning to realize that girls are girls again, is the way one critic describes the new move in Paris towards prettier, more feminine line.

Model girls, for one thing, are no longer the tall, flat, elegant clothes hangers they were. Curves are on the way back and man again can cry, "Vive la femme!"

Congratulations Pour In to Walter Davis Home

Diamond Anniversary Brings Many Friends From Nelson and District

Civic dignitaries and a host of friends visited Mr. and Mrs. Walter Davis at their home overlooking the West Arm of Kootenay Lake to congratulate them on their Diamond wedding anniversary Saturday afternoon and evening.

Guests wandered over the green lawns surrounding the well-kept home of the former South Slocan residents, who honored Nelson by choosing the Queen City as the setting for the conspicuous occasion.

Harkening back to the June day in 1905 when Isobel Bain walked to the altar of College Street Presbyterian Church in Toronto to exchange wedding vows with Walter M. Davis before Dr. A. Gilray, the diamond wedding anniversary celebrants were recalling a day of top hats and horse-drawn carriages. Mr. Davis, who had five sisters at home, married into a family of six daughters. One of the bridesmaids at the wedding was present at the anniversary celebration, Mrs. J. D. Yeatman of South Slocan.

From the time they were married until today, the Davises have travelled to all parts of the North American continent.

Mr. Davis had come from Leeds, England, where he was born, in 1890 and became buyer in Toronto for A. E. Rea and Company of Montreal. He joined the Queen's Own Rifles in Toronto.

He and his bride moved out west where he held the same position with the David Spencer Company. They later moved to Seattle, where Mr. Davis formed his own business organization. Of an inventive turn of mind, he was able to set up his own manufacturing firm dealing in shipbuilding machinery and tools during the First World War. He and his wife travelled extensively, when his business took him to many shipyards on the continent.

When the war was over, he organized a property protection system which was widely used by large American oil firms and British and Canadian interests. He and his wife lived in Brighton and Bolton, Ontario, as well as Toronto. During the Second World War he did some work for the British government at their explosives plant at Niagara in conection with his protection system.

They moved out west a few years ago and settled in South Slocan, where Mrs. Yeatman, Mrs. Davis' sister, lives. They have resided in the former Morgan residence on the hill at the corner of Front and Anderson Streets for the past year or so.

There, Saturday, guests were entertained on the lawn by the Nelson City Band and soft, recorded music.

Guests arrived continually during the afternoon and evening and messages were received from a long list of friends and asociates as well as leaders of four levels of government.

Highlights of the day were long distance phone calls from Mr. and Mrs. Davis' son-in-law and daughter in Toronto, their daughter in Los Angeles and their son, Walter, who had visited in Nelson for two weeks as well as their granddaughter and five great grandchildren in Oklahoma.

Archdeacon F. D. Wyatt read wires of congratulation.

Presiding at the tea table were Mrs. Wyatt, Mrs. C. Gansner, Mrs. M. E. Baker and Mrs. K. Motley of South Slocan.

Receiving the continual stream of guests with Mrs. Davis, who was charming in a light blue silk print jacket dress, was Mrs. Maitland Harrison. In charge of tea table arrangements were Mrs. L. R. Hammond, Mrs. Allyn Taylor, Mrs. E. Hill, Mrs. J. C. Carpenter, Mrs. S. Baker and Mrs. R. Miller. The four-tiered wedding cake, covered with rosettes and topped by a miniature bouquet of rosebuds was made by Mrs. Hammond and Mrs. S. F. Fisher.

Mayor Bodard, accompanied by Mrs. Bodard, represented the City of Nelson at the reception.

Wires and special messages of congratulation were received from Her Majesty Queen Elizabeth, Prime Minister Lester B. Pearson, leader of the opposition, Hon. John Diefenbaker, Premier W. A. C. Bennett, Lt. Gov. George R. Pearkes, Hon. W. D. Black, provincial secretary, Hon. Ben Thompson, MP for Brighton, Ont., and from the Village of Brighton, as well as many other friends and associates. Bouquets of flowers from the city council, South Slocan, friends, their daughter and others ornamented the rooms of the Davis home, where visitors may see a large collection of ancient insignia and scrolls of significance in British history as well as mementos of the adventurous life led by the Davises during their travels.

The Nelson City Band was directed by Ted Gergely and the recorded music was looked after by Charles Buchanan.

WI Hears of Korea Poverty

CRAWFORD BAY — Conditions of desperate poverty in Korea were brought to the attention of the Women's Institute, which met at the home of Mrs. H. Haverstock.

The WI had planned their June meeting at Mrs. Fox's home. Unfortunately, she had been taken to hospital at Nelson. The meeting was therefore held under the big trees at Mrs. Haverstock's residence.

Mrs. Haverstock, the convener for United Nations and international exchange, read Dr. Lotta Hitschmanova's recent letter from Korea. It described conditions of hunger and hardship. A collection for "Pennies for Friendship" was taken.

A letter from U.S.C. acknowledging receipt of four boxes of clothing was read. "The men's heavy coats were worth their weight in gold. We do not get much clothing for men and it is so terribly needed in Korea. Dr. Hitschmanova has told us that in some families men have to share one pair of pants to go to look for work."

Arrangements were made for "Operation Doorstep" to be held Aug. 17, which will provide every man ,woman and child in the community with a free TB skin test and chest X-ray. To be successful, at least 70 per cent of the population must be tested. Mrs. T. Lymbery and Mrs. Haverstock will be volunteer clerks. An effort will be made to arrange for "rides."

The annual garden party will be held Aug. 11 at Gray Creek. Mrs. Myrna Strom has undertaken the duties of tea convener. Tickets will be sold on a local oil painting.

The English WI jubilee celebrations were described in the East and West Kent magazines which had been received from Mrs. Pryke of Boswell.

There was one visitor, Mrs. McLardie from Barnstaple, Devonshire, England.

HINTS FROM HELOISE

I found that my son's slacks were very bulky, and too thick to hang with clothespins after washing.

I took trouser hangers (wooden ones that clamp together) folded the slacks with the inseams together and clamped them together at the cuffs . . . just as if I were hanging them in the closet.

I then hang them by the hanger hook on the line 'til they are dry, put them on the bed, smooth them with my hands, and they are ready to put away. They look as if they had been pressed!

Bousquet Tops League Batters

Nelson Braves' second-sacker Lenny Bousquiet is top batsman in the Can-Am Twilight Baseball League, records compiled by league statistician Jim Elsener of Nelson, show.

The figures for 20 batters taking 15 or more turns at bat show Bousquet with an average of .473 per cent, with Drysdale of Cranbrook second at .445. Trail Smoke Eaters' hitters held a fair sized monopoly in batting row, and Trail hurlers Gustafson and McEwan led pitchers working in 10 or more innings.

Rossland's Martin, Trail's Bird and Nelson's Laughton top the home run section so far.

Dancer Gains Hall of Fame

TORONTO (CP)—A thoroughbred race horse, a driver-trainer of harness horses and a lacrosse great have been voted to Canada's sports hall of fame.

The racehorse is Northern Dancer, Canadian-bred winner of the 1964 Kentucky Derby, Preakness and Queen's Plate.

Joseph Cyril (Joe) O'Brien, a 48-year-old native of Alberton, P.E.I., is the standardbred personality.

The lacrosse representative is the late Patrick Joseph Lally of Cornwall, Ont., known to many as the father of the game.

The three were chosen from a field of 23 which was named earlier this year by selectors in each of the 10 provinces.

They will join 1964 Olympic rowing gold medallists George Hungerford and Roger Jackson, both of Vancouver; 1965 world figure skating champion Petra Burka of Toronto and the 1965 world champion Canadian four-man bobsled team of Terry Presley of Arnprior, Ont., Mike Young of Port Credit, Ont., Peter Kirby of St. Jovite, Que., and Vic Emery of Montreal. All qualified automatically.

Membership in the hall of fame, founded in 1955 and located on the Canadian National Exhibition grounds here, now totals 118.

MISSED TRIPLE CROWN

Northern Dancer, owned by Toronto industrialist E. P. Taylor and trained by Horatio Luro, became the first Canadian-bred to win the Derby and Preakness and missed capturing racing's triple crown by losing in the Belmont Stakes. He scored 14 victories in 18 starts before a bowed tendon forced him to retire to stud last autumn. In less than two seasons, Northern Dancer won $580,647.

O'Brien achieved fame as both a driver and trainer of harness horses. He drove more than 2,000 winners and twice piloted horses to victory in the Hambletonian, the North American classic for three-year-old trotters. His early career was in the Maritimes, but he now lives at the Castleton Farm in Shafter, Calif.

Lally was born in Cornwall in 1867 and died there in 1956 after a 57-year career covering all facets of lacrosse. He began as a player and was active in field lacrosse for several years. He later became a referee and executive. Finally, he took over the operation of a Cornwall lacrosse stick manufacturing firm started by his late brother, Frank.

England Wins Test

LONDON (Reuters) —English opener Geoff Boycott and former England captan Tex Dexter added 126 in 135 minutes for the third-wicket partnership and helped England to a seven-wicket victory over New Zealand Tuesday in the second cricket Test match at Lord's.

The victory was England's second in the three-match series.

England, 64 for 1 wicket overnight, had to score 152 runs in 175 minutes for victory.

The Press Box

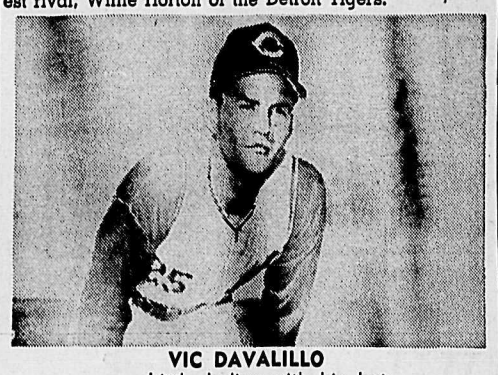
BY MIKE BENNETT
DAILY NEWS SPORTS EDITOR

Centre fielders like Willie Mays and Mickey Mantle, possibly the most exciting baseball personalities of the last dozen years, may be facing the position of second fiddle to the littlest Indian in Cleveland's camp—Vic Davalillo.

The American League's leading hitter, with a resounding .365 at last count, Davalillo is a miniature Mickey Mantle in the outfield and has the speed which allows him to roam freely between Leon Wagner and Rocky Colavito.

When the Indians brought him up from his native Venezuela three years ago, manager Gabe Paul made no secret of his belief that Davalillo would become one of the most colorful players in the big leagues—he's just about arrived.

In 222 trips to the plate, he has hit safely 81 times and is presently 22 per cent points away from his nearest rival, Willie Horton of the Detroit Tigers.



VIC DAVALILLO
. . . Little Indian with big bat.

The five - foot - seven, 150-pounder collected 12 hits in 33 at bats last week to hold his average at .365.

His performance at the plate has been a deciding factor in the Indians' ability to win ball games.

Cleveland has won its last nine games and the Indians' pitchers have allowed only three runs in the club's last six outings.

As a hitter, Davalillo is tough to get out.

A left-handed batter, he pops singles, slices hard doubles and has enough power, even for his 150 pounds to colect a few home runs along the way.

His speed on the base paths causes the opposition's pitcher to sweat in an effort to gain the extra base.

Colavito and Wagner don't have the speed in the outfield that Davalillo has and consequently he has come up with spectacular running catches in all fields.

He started his career in the United States with Visalia in 1958 and was a pitcher in his early days.

In 1959 with Palatka, he had a record of 16 and seven, striking out 150 in 147 innings.

He became a full-time outfielder with Jacksonville in 1962, hitting .346 and in his first season with the Indians, he batted .292.

Last season, he wound up with .270.

If Davalillo continues his present pace and captures the AL batting championship, he will be the first Indian to do so since 1954 when Bobby Avila hit .341 to win the crown.

That was also the last pennant year for the Indians.

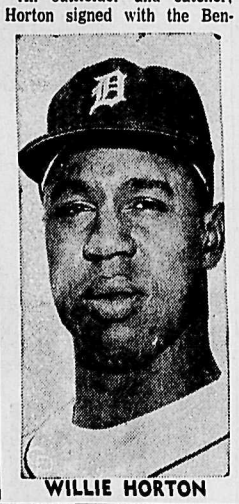
Avila was 5' 10" tall and weighed 170 pounds.

Horton in Hot Pursuit

Horton, runner-up to Davalillo, managed only seven safeties in 25 attempts, falling 10 per cent points to .343 last week.

Billed as a long-ball hitter, Horton powered a home run 440 feet in Baltimore earlier this season and connected for 430 into the wind in Tiger Stadium.

An outfielder and catcher, Horton signed with the Bengals, a Detroit farm club in 1961 for a sizeable bonus after a sensational sandlot - prep school career.



WILLIE HORTON

He was with Duluth of the International League in his first year in the pro circuit and hit .295 with 15 homers.

He presently leads the round-trip department with 16 and trails Boston's Felix Mantilla in the RBI category with 48.

Horton opened the 1963 season at Syracuse and then moved to Knoxville where he batted .333 and hit 14 homers in 118 games.

He finished the 1963 season with the Tigers, batting .326 in 15 games and the following winter shifted to the Florida league where he again hit over .300.

The slugging sensation of the Detroit club's spring training camp, Horton was later optioned to Syracuse where he drove in 99 runs in 135 games.

This past winter he played in the Puerto Rican loop.

Unlike the National League where such veterans as Hank Aaron and Willie Mays dominate the scene, the American League can look to the newcomers to provide material for the record books.

Braves Out To Break Losing Streak

Nelson Braves come out with a full club tonight for round one of their uphill battle to regain top spot in the Can-Am Twilight League when they face their nemesis, Trail Smoke Eaters, in their own back yard.

The Braves have yet to come up with a win over the Smokies this season and sit in the cellar with a two-and-five won-lost record.

Miles Desharnais and Les Hufty, who carried the pitching load for the club in six of seven starts, may have to continue to toe the rubber for tonight's game, although the Braves said last night a new pitcher was expected.

Lonnie Sherrick, an import from Spokane, is unable to make the trip, but will be in the lineup for Sunday's doubleheader with the Smokies.

Desharnais, five-and-two last season, allowed a paltry five hits last weekend, only to come out on the wrong end of a 4-3 decision.

Coach Johnny Brkich hinted that his long-awaited "mystery man" may not be a mystery for much longer.

"If we get him and I think we will, he'll be throwing flames," Brkich said.

The Smokies won six of their nine games for a .667 percentage and are trailed by Cranbrook Canucks and Rossland Capilanos, who are deadlocked with three-and-three records.

Not including tonight's game, the Braves have six home dates remaining, three of them doubleheaders.

"We've got the potential to price Cranbrook, Rossland and Trail right out of the league," Brkich said.

"We did it last year and we are going to do it again this year."

Despite what Brkich said following the Braves' twin loss to the Caps about not hitting the ball, a few of the players seem to be snapping into shape at the plate.

Second - sacker Lenny Bousquiet went two-for-three in both contests last weekend in Rossland, while Mike Laughton continued to set his sights on the home-run crown, belting out his second of the season.

Al Roemer, one of the top batters for the club last year, also had two safeties in three attempts in the second game of that twin bill.

MIKE LAUGHTON
. . . Chasing home-run title.

Joe Posnikoff, who alternated between catching and third base, moves over to the shortstop position, replacing Bernie Monteleone.

One of the Braves' most capable players, Monteleone will be lost to the club for the balance of the season.

Brian Dorey, brother to catcher Mel, is a welcome addition to the Braves' outfield and shows a lot of promise in the eyes of Brkich.

"I rate him as one of the finest ball players to come out of the Kootenays in a long time," Brkich said.

"He can't help but help us."

Help may be what the Braves need.

The club has yet to win a game since it swept a doubleheader from the Cranbrook Canucks June 6, 14-7 and 5-2 and are about due for a ride on the comeback train.

Posnikoff, incidentally, engineered possibly the only double-play of the season, during the Rossland series.

"Sherrick looked good, but was out of shape," Brkich said, commenting on the first Rossland game, which the Braves lost 6-1.

"When a pitcher has laid off for three weeks, you don't expect much the first game out."

Charlie Burdette, who showed some real power during pre-season training, connected for the only-extra-base hit of the first game for the Braves — a double — and appears ready to cause trouble for any pitcher in the league.

If confidence is the key to victory, the Braves should win the first round of their fight for the top and should continue to take them a round at a time after that.

Indian's 10th at Twins' Expense

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Chuck Hinton led off the 10th inning with a home run, giving Cleveland a 5-4 victory over American League-leading Minnesota Tuesday night for their 10th straight triumph.

The victory lifted Indians into a tie for second place with Chicago, just one-half game behind the Twins.

Hinton broke up the see-saw struggle by belting a 1-2 pitch by Al Worthington over the left centre field fence for his seventh homer.

The Indians pulled into a tie in the eighth when rookie Duke Sims, pinch hitter for relief pitcher Sam McDowell, hit his first major league homer.

Chicago Cubs put together a pair of thre-run innings, one on Doug Clemens' homer, and defeated Milwaukee Braves 6-1 behind the combined pitching of Cal Koonce and Lindy McDaniel.

The defeat was the Braves' third in the last four games. They were knocked out of second place in the National League for the first time since June 2.

Koonce ignited the decisive third inning by doubling and taking third on Glenn Beckert's single. Clemens fouled off a half dozen pitches and then lined his third homer down the right field line.

Koonce, whose record was boosted to 6 - 5, checked the Braves on one hit until weakening in the sixth. Singles by Hank Aaron and Joe Torre and a fielder's choice provided the Milwaukee run.

Boston Red Sox pounded out 11 hits, including a homer by Bob Tillman and four doubles, and whipped Baltimore Orioles 4-2 in the second game for a split in Tuesday's twi-night doubleheader.

Baltimore, winning for the 10th time in 11 games, took the opener 4-1, scoring three times in the sixth inning. Rookie John Miller, with three innings of relief help from Dick Hall, was winner in his first start since bing recalled from Indianapolis.

Felix Mantilla, the American League's runs-batted-in leader, upped his total to 52 with run-scoring singles in the second game off loser Robin Roberts.

Roberts, losing his seventh straight decision since winning his first four, also yielded a run-scoring double by Carl Yastrzemski and Tillman's homer before leaving after six innings.

Rain postponed the doubleheader between Washington and Chicago.

Bobby Richardson's run-scoring single capped a two-run seventh inning rally and Tom Tresh homered in the eighth, carrying New York Yankees to a 4-2 victory over Kansas City and a split of their doubleheader.

Athletics won the opener 6-2, Wayne Causey and Ken Harrelson pacing a 12 - hit attack against four Yankee pitchers.

New York erased a 2-1 Kansas City lead in the nightcap after right-hander Fred Talbot had allowed only four hits through the first six innings. Hector Lopez led off the seventh with a walk and Wes Stock replaced Talbot. Stock hit Ray Barker with a pitch before Phil Linz sacrificed the runners to second and third.

Palms Win

Jaycees dropped another Babe Ruth baseball game Tuesday night, going down 8-5 before Palm Dairies. They had taken a 12-6 beating Saturday from Crown Life.

Both pitchers went the distance without relief, the winning hurler, Bob Fitchner, giving up six hits, walking six and striking out 15. Palms' Don Johnston allowed eight hits, four walks and struck out 12.

Fitchner and Fred Allen were top batsmen for the winners, going three for four, the latter connecting for two triples. Jaycees' Kim Harrison was best hitter with two for three.

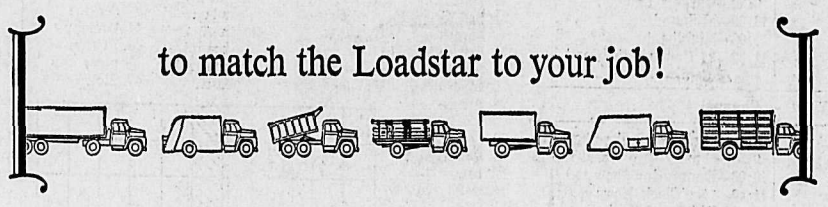
to match the Loadstar to your job!



Why do you see so many Loadstars? Because they're doing so many jobs! There are three basic series: the 1600, 1700 and 1800. Wheelbases go from 127" to 205" (even higher for school bus applications). GVW ratings range from 17,000 to 46,000 pounds. There are two-wheel drive and all-wheel drive models. Four wheelers and six wheelers. V-8 and 6 cylinder gasoline and diesel power too. Options to spare in axles, transmissions and other components. How do you choose? Easy. Talk to the truck men at your International Truck Dealer or Branch. They'll go to any length to match the Loadstar to your job! INTERNATIONAL TRUCKS

Your Individual Horoscope

By Frances Drake

Look in the section in which your birthday comes and find what your outlook is, according to the stars.

For Thursday, June 24, 1965

MARCH 21 to APRIL 20 (Aries) — Conserve energies now and emphasize tact and diligence. A lot can be gained through sincere effort, which you are innately ready to give.

APRIL 21 to MAY 21 (Taurus) — Another chance for fresh gains, or at least solidifying what you have, and preparing substantially for more. Note what to change in previous methods, what Not to alter.

MAY 22 to JUNE 21 (Gemini) —Yours is among several favorably aspected Signs, but you will face competition, occasional delays, setbacks, sometimes irksome waiting, nevertheless. Still you should go forward.

JUNE 22 to JULY 23 (Cancer) —A "mark-time" period for some matters; for others, a definite need for pressing forward. Be your usual discriminating self in deciding the urgency of each situation.

JULY 24 to AUGUST 23 (Leo) — Pull in the reins a bit to get your breath and re-check, if you are still on the sure path. This whole week will require measured gait, patience, but also sturdy faith in, and drive for, new gains.

AUGUST 24 to SEPTEMBER 23 (Virgo) — Mercury brightly auspicious. Give a grand account of your many talents, and avoid indignation, regrets, anxiety about results. Buckle down to business — but with a sense of humor.

SEPTEMBER 24 to OCTOBER 23 (Libra) — Good Venus influences encourage whatever is rightly expected of you and well done by you. Take for granted that you will encounter obstacles, the indisposition of others.

OCTOBER 24 to NOVEMBER 22 (Scorpio) — Just when you think you "have it made" with little annoyance, up comes the unexpected hurdle or the stymied situation. Here is where your ingenuity and versatility can play the hand.

NOVEMBER 23 to DECEMBER 21 (Sagittarius) — Wait before you offer that opinion, think twice before acting upon decisions made in haste. The mature person need not clash or browbeat to impress. Just be your clever self, quietly.

DECEMBER 22 to JANUARY 20 (Capricorn)—You face fewer obstacles than many will have, but by the same token you may have to put forth more effort and steady purpose to insure the good returns which can be yours. Shun contention.

JANUARY 21 to FEBRUARY 19 (Aquarius) — Uranus now shows up with a friendly smile for the best you proffer, when wisely dedicated. A day for you to show your wares and your personality in their true light.

FEBRUARY 20 to MARCH 20 (Pisces)—Mixed influences. Be prompt to reject unethical, or even slightly questionable schemes. Too much is at stake; too much can get out of hand. Protect properties.

YOU BORN TODAY are intellectually versatile and able to call up considerable physical capability in a pinch. You defend where there is defending to be done; are a patriot at heart, a sentimentalist, a strong believer in your goals. You must practice patience with people who do not see eye to eye with you. In fact, you must at times change your opinion. Once you learn to do this, you will be the healthy, cheerful, and very helpful individual you were meant to be. Your subtleness and personal magnetism are strong. Birthdate: Horatio Herbert (Lord Kitchener), British field marshal; Jack Dempsey, pugilist.

Odds... and Ends

by M. D. B.

When we were discussing old papers belonging to Mr. Crowther, he mentioned a Daily Mail Queen Victoria diamond jubilee paper printed in gold. Just recently I was loaned two of these papers called "The Golden Extra" by Mr. B. E. Ryall, and an impressive edition it is. Dated London, Wednesday, June 23, 1897 (68 years ago today), the eight large pages are printed entirely in gold. A massive picture drawn by an artist sitting in the ball of St. Paul's Cathedral is remarkable in detail and covers the entire back page of the edition.

* * *

* * *

Another page was devoted to pictures of the Queen's prime ministers — Melburne, Peel, Russell, Rosebery, Gladstone, Lord Derby, Lord Aberdeen, Lord Palmerston, Lord Beaconsfield and the "present prime minister," Salsbury. There were little stories of the queen's humanity and pictures of London Bridge, Waterloo Bridge and Blackfriar's Bridge. A headline said, "London Ablaze — Great Illuminations." Another story entitled "Outlook" began: "It is over, the great pageant has unrolled itself majestically before our eyes, and passed on till its gold and steel have faded, its clash of brass and drums died in the distance. It is over, an we rub our eyes and ears and try to tell ourselves what it all meant. It meant that we ought to be a proud nation to-day . . ."

* * *

A full page of drawings depicted the queen surrounded by members of her family and in the border were pictures of her at various times of her life. Another detailed drawing showed the parade route and for old Londoners here is the route of the Diamond Procession: Leave Buckingham Palace, Constitution Hill; Hyde Park Corner; Piccadilly; St. James Street; Pall Mall; St. Martin's Church; Strand; Law Courts; Fleet Street; St. Paul's; Cheapside; Mansion House; King William Street; London Bridge; High Street, Borough; St. George's Circus; Westminster Bridge; The Horse Guards and The Mall. This page also had drawings of some of the precious golden ornaments belonging to the crown, urns, a gold mask weighing 10 pounds, pictures of the crown, sceptre, orb, various swords, etc.

* * *

Included on the front page was the Queen's message, sent over the private wire from the palace to the Central Telegraph Office, whence it was despatched to every part of the Empire:

"From My Heart I Thank My Beloved People. May God Bless Them."

"V.R. and I."

The paper goes on to note "We are informed that, in reply to the message, twenty to thirty loyal and dutiful replies were yesterday afternoon received from the Governors of Her Majesty's colonial possessions. Some of the replies cannot be received for a week or more, because of there being no telegraphic communication. At this moment a native runner is speeding with the Royal Greeting through the forest and swamps of Central Africa to Uganda, while posts by sea and land are carrying it to the Falkland Islands, Thursday Island, and still more distant Fiji."

* * *

We are grateful to Mr. Ryall for letting us see these precious papers which he brought with him from England and has carried around with him for 68 years. At the News here there was a great deal of interest in it from a production point of view among members of all departments. That's the way it is with printers' ink and more so when it is gold to boot.

West Makes Move To Break Finance Snag

UNITED NATIONS (CP)—A group of Western countries, led by Britain and Canada, unveiled a new move Monday designed to break the deadlock over United Nations peacekeeping finances.

The countries announced unconditional grants to the UN totalling more than $17,000,000 in U.S. funds. They said they hoped to help the UN toward solvency and also to create a climate favorable to settlement of the long dispute over debts owed by the Soviet Union, France and 11 other countries.

Canadian Ambassador Paul Tremblay, after advising Secretary-General U. Thant of Ottawa's decision, said he hoped other countries would follow suit.

External Affairs Minister Martin announced the Canadian pledge in the House of Commons at Ottawa and said it was made "without prejudice to our support for the policy of collective financial responsibility for duly authorized peacekeeping operations."

This is the policy challenged by the principal UN debtors, who refuse to pay peace force assessments levied by the 114-country General Assembly. Both Russia and France say that the power to organize and finance such forces lies with the 11-country Security Council.

The aim of the voluntary contributions apparently is to encourage the debtor countries to make similar payments while the United States might set aside its insistence that the debtors should be barred from voting in the General Assembly until they pay up.

MINIMUM WAGE CODE WILL BEGIN JULY 1

OTTAWA (CP) — All federal government employees not now receiving the $1.25-an-hour minimum wage specified in the new labor code will start getting it July 1 when provisions of the code go into effect, Labor Minister MacEachen assured the Commons Monday.

It is uncertain, however, when the minimum 40-hour work week will prevail throughout the public service, he said in a reply to Stanley Knowles (NDP—Winnipeg North Centre).

ASK POLITICAL ASYLUM

STOCKHOLM (Reuters) — Four Czech tourists, who left the East German passenger ship Volkerfreundschft here Monday, asked for political asylum, police said. This brings to 11 the number of Czechs who have asked for political asylum since June 11.

Queen Mother Disdains Use Of Tour Car

TORONTO (CP) — The Queen Mother, eager to see and be seen by as many people as possible during her five-day private visit here, has rejected use of the car brought into service for the Queen's Canadian visit last year.

"She was extremely insistent" that the closed, bullet-proof car not be used, said Lt.-Col. Robert H. Hilborn, former commanding officer of the Toronto Scottish Regiment and Canadian equerry to Her Majesty for this visit, at a press conference Monday.

He said the Queen Mother told him in London that she had already heard about the car and she "resisted strongly" its use. Instead she decided on a large open car with maximum window so that she could be seen even if rain makes it necessary to put the top up.

The Queen Mother arrives Wednesday afternoon.

Someone Abducted Adviser Says Nazi

TORONTO (CP) — Neo-Nazi leader William John Beattie, 23, filed a complaint with Toronto police Monday charging that his "Christian adviser", Rev. Charles Philip Thompson, was abducted Saturday by a Jewish underground organization.

Police confirmed they had received the report and will investigate.

Mr. Beattie said in a telephone interview three men in a car approached Mr. Thompson, a Pentecostal minister, as he was about to make his "clerical rounds".

The men implied they were police officers and had Mr. Thompson step into the car, he said.

They threw him to the floor, covered him with burlap and drove him to an interrogation by about 20 persons "with the physical characteristics only found on the basic Jewish race," Mr. Beattie charged.

Mr. Beattie added that Mr. Thompson was shown pictures of people entering Canadian Nazi headquarters here and was told that he would be treated as a Nazi.

About 11 hours after the alleged abduction, Mr. Thompson was dumped along Highway 401 about 15 miles from his home, Mr. Beattie said.

NEGROES HONOR SLAIN CIVIL RIGHTS WORKERS

PHILADELPHIA, Miss. (AP) Negroes and whites marched to the charred ruins of a country church Monday to honor three murdered civil rights workers.

The detachment of protecting officers included Sheriff Lawrence Rainey, 42, and Chief Deputy Cecil Price, 27—both accused by the FBI of taking part in a Ku Klux Klan plot to execute the three men.

They were killed a year ago Monday. They were James Chaney, 21, of Meridian, Miss., a Negro, and two New York whites, Michael Schwerner, 24, and Andrew Goodman, 20.

The three were in Neshoba County to investigate the church burning when they were arrested on a speeding charge and subsequently disappeared.

INVENTOR DIES

BELLEVUE, Ohio (AP) — Claud Foster, 92, millionaire inventor and philanthropist, died Monday after a long illness. Foster invented the Gabriel automobile horn and was the developer of the first practical automotive shock absorber. He gave nearly $4,000,000 in 1952 to 16 hospitals and orphanages and to Western Reserve University.

LOSERS' LAMENT

LONDON (AP) — Ascot race track authorities report that among the items left behind by horse fans at last week's Royal Ascot meeting were a half-full box of tranquillizers and a Bible bookmarked at Psalm 22 which begins: "My God, my God, why hast Thou forsaken me?"

To Check Bursary Loan Deductions

QUEBEC (CP)—Tax declarations made by parents with children seeking bursary-loans from the Quebec ministry of education will be double-checked next year by the provincial auditor.

Education Minister Paul Gerin-Lajoie disclosed Monday that an auditor's examination showed "some 50 per cent" of students receiving loans for the current academic year had made, "together with their parents, false declarations in filling in the loan request forms."
