Miniature Airship Is Found

TRAPPER NEAR FERNIE MAKES AN ODD FIND

Miniature Dirigible Bears Toronto Address in Special Message

OFFERS REWARD FOR RETURN OF DIRIGIBLE

If Machine Flew From East it Covered 1800 Miles; Investigate

FERNIE, Jan. 23.—John Sandberg, a trapper in Gold Creek district, about 50 miles southwest of here, is reported to have made an unusual find while patrolling his trap line. The discovery is claimed to be an eight-foot miniature dirigible or airship, in almost every detail like a large air liner.

Inside the tiny cabin was a sealed glass receptacle with a note giving a name and a Toronto address which was the point of embarkation of the airship, and requesting that the party finding the craft should report fully, describing the territory where it was found.

A reward of $2.50 or $250 is reported to be payable to the discoverer, and Sandberg is not divulging the Toronto address until he has communicated with it.

The direct air line distance between Toronto and the point where the balloon was found is at least 1800 miles.

B.C. Reorganizes Its Promotion and Marketing Bodies

VICTORIA, Jan. 23—Hon. William Atkinson, minister of agriculture, has terminated the British Columbia prairie markets information and promotion service, has closed the office maintained at Calgary by British Columbia, and has called J. A. Grant, markets commissioner, to duty in the parliament buildings. He has been asked to close association with W. W. Deacan, marketing director, in efforts to secure for the agriculturists of British Columbia new outlets for forms of farm produce. The reorganization was attributed to the changed conditions which have been created in the prairie provinces by the development, in recent years, of other systems of gathering market information. J. B. Munro, deputy minister of agriculture, stated that duplication had been increasingly evident in recent years, and as the associated growers, the interior tree fruit and vegetable committee of direction were now providing an efficient service, the department of agriculture had decided to change its objective.

Charges Government Trying to Minimize Unemployment Gravity

OTTAWA, Jan. 23—Severe criticism of the Dominion government and the trades and Labor congress of Canada is expressed in a statement issued today by W. T. Burdford, secretary-treasurer of All-Canadian Congress of Labor. Mr. Burdford presents the view that the government is "trying to minimize the gravity of the unemployment situation for political purposes."

While the trades and labor congress might be expected to endorse any effort to co-ordinate industrial activities and improve the situation, it refused to endorse the proposed unemployment conference. Mr. Burdford contends, "simply because the suggestion came from the All-Canadian Congress of Labor."

LONDON CITY HAS WELCOME TO DELEGATES

Old Guild Hall Scene of Happy Gathering of Naval Delegates

LORD MAYOR GIVES OFFICIAL WELCOME

Premier Tardieu and Premier MacDonald Only Official Speakers

LONDON, Jan. 23.—London city tonight welcomed the delegates to the Five-Power naval conference, and as never before, has the old Guild hall resounded to pleas for international cooperation and good-will. They threaded their way through the welcoming speeches of Sir William Waterlow, lord mayor, and the replies alike of the premiers of Great Britain and France. In the historic hall was much that told of the city's far-flung commerce and the part her traders had played upon the sea. The calls of the trumpeters, resplendent in gold laced uniforms, rang back to the early days of the London Guild halls. About the walls were hung tattered colors of city regiments. The menu itself bore on the cover the picture of an old square-rigged ship, all sails set, driving its way to sea.

It was the trader's need for peace that the lord mayor emphasized in his welcoming words. "The people of all nations," he declared. "Are yearning for that international cooperation which will enable them to return with diligence and devotion to their peaceful vocations. The ultimate guarantee of security, individual or national is always good-will"

"To play its part among the people of this great world," Premier Tardieu echoes, "To make them understand each other and bring them together, commerce demands that there sould be no war," he proceeded.

DETERMINED TO SUCCEED

"I affirm in the name of all. American, British, French, Italians and Japanese, that we are determined to succeed. We have faith. That faith which it is said moves mountains and which therefore—at least we hope so—will move naval armaments from the perilous waters of our competition to the safe harbor of loyal understanding.

"We shall secure that triumph," Premier Tardieu added, "because with heart and soul, we are determined to win international peace through international law, because, following on the oft-repeated advice of my eminent friend and colleague, M. Briand, we seek that peace with the same creative energy which we in the past devoted to the cause of national independence and national security."

Prime Minister MacDonald spoke briefly. London city he said, stood in the forefront of British commerce and industry. There was no municipality more entitled than the corporation of London to proclaim such doctrines as those proclaimed by the lord mayor—that commerce and peace went hand in hand. "There is no municipality that knows better by experience," Premier MacDonald added, "that international peace and confidence are the great foundation stones of international prosperity."

Tonight the visiting flyers were guests at a banquet in the Cranbrook hotel sponsored by the city council and board of trade.

Major Tudhope told of the work being done to pick a suitable air route to the coast from the prairies. It was to see conditons as they existed that he was flying through this section. Other routes would be mapped out as well, he intimated. He urged Cranbrook to get busy on her airport, so that it might be in first class shape. Upon the condition of the landing fields would depend largely the picking of a route, he stated.

POWERS MAKE PLANS CARRY OUT MEETING

Views of Various Governments Carefully Outlined by Delegates

"OUR NAVY IS US" STATES MACDONALD

European Security French Stand; "Actual Reduction" Japan's Urge

LONDON, Jan. 23.—The five sea power nations today proclaimed at the London disarmament conference the essentials of their respective naval requirements. Meeting in St. James' Palace in the first business session of the conference, leaders of the various delegations made carefully prepared statements disclosing the view of their governments with respect to the question of possible naval limitation agreement.

Speaking for Great Britain, Premier Ramsay MacDonald, pleaded that the very life of Britain's tiny islands depended on free and open access to the whole world. "Our navy is us," he said, repeating the formula he had used at the opening session on Tuesday.

The chief of the United States delegation, Secretary of State Stimson declared that equality in naval power between the United States and Great Britain, was the basis of the American position.

EUROPEAN SECURITY

For France Premier Tardieu intimated that everything depends on some arrangement for European security. He pointed out that the French home fleet had to be cut into three parts because France had coast lines on three seas, and added that the French have the trade routes to and from the vast French colonial possessions. But, he went on, if the decisions of this conference result in an increase in the sense of security for France, so much the more will it be possible for France to reduce.

Foreign Minister Dino Grandi of Italy, asserted his country's claim was to naval disarmament equal to that of any other continental European power. He said that the conference must consider the problem of security in a relative reciprocal. Italy was ready for the maximum reduction but would leave the other powers to determine the size of armaments, reserving the right to regulate her own by theirs.

"ACTUAL REDUCTION"

For Japan former Premier Wakatsuki said that his country's policy was based on peace and economy and urged "Actual reduction" by all the powers.

Having outlined these national naval policies at their first business session this morning, the chief delegates gathered again in Downing street later and by nightfall they had agreed upon a working plan for procedure in their attempts to harmonize divergent viewpoints in a common international agreement realizing the reduction of fleets.

They drew up a program by which the "big five" delegation leaders will act as umpires or referees while the individual nations strive to settle their differences with one another. The leaders will be ready to take the field themselves and lend a helping hand if deadlocks arise.

The "big five" are Prime Minister MacDonald, Secretary of State Stimson, Premier Tardieu, Foreign Minister Grandi and former Premier Wakatsuki.

Thus the London conference slowly got slowly under way, likt a great ship moving out of port toward seas that are possibly stormy.

POWDER SMOKE NOT MENTIONED

CHICAGO, Jan. 23—Smoke belching from a million locomotive and stacks and chimneys lays such a pall over Chicago that the city never gets more than one-quarter of the health-giving rays to be found in the sunshine shed upon it, according to scientists at the University of Chicago. During the period from December 1 to January 31, the city gets none of the rays, the researchers say.

The conclusions are set forth and a survey of recent experimental work, published today under the title of "Ultra-Violet Light and Vitamin D in Nutrition."

Chicago's smoke pall is more impenetrable than that over almost any other city, it is stated.

He escaped from the store but was caught a few minutes later by the proprietor's son, George Manis. Driver was on his way to Stoney Mountain penitentiary less than 12 hours after his midnight escapade, a two-year stay at the institution facing him. He pleaded guilty and was given sentence in police court this morning.

Pincott presented the cases for the Grand Forks ranchers.

The Committee of Direction has commenced civil action, and are taking it to Ottawa to test the constitutionality of the Market Control act.

TRAIL, B. C., Jan. 23.—Women interested in first aid work organized here tonight. There were about 20 applications for membership.

To Relieve Catarrh, Catarrhal Deafness And Head Noises

Persons suffering from catarrhal deafness, or who are growing hard of hearing and have head noises will be glad to know that this distressing affliction can usually be successfully treated at home by an internal medicine that in many instances has effected complete relief after other treatments have failed. Sufferers who could scarcely hear have had their hearing restored to such an extent that the tick of a watch was plainly audible seven or eight inches away from either ear. Therefore, if you know of someone who is troubled with head noises or catarrhal deafness, cut out this formula and hand it to them and you may have been the means of saving some poor sufferer perhaps from total deafness. The prescription can be prepared at home and is made as follows:

Secure from your druggist 1 oz. Parmint (Double Strength). Take this home and add to it ¼ pint of hot water and a little granulated sugar; stir until dissolved. Take one tablespoonful four times a day.

Parmint is used in this way not only to reduce by tonic action the inflammation and swelling in the Eustachion Tubes, and thus to equalize the air pressure on the drum, but to correct any excess of secretions in the middle ear, and the results it gives are nearly always quick and effective.

Every person who has catarrh in any form, or distressing rumbling, hissing sounds in their ears, should give this recipe a trial.

WINTER FLYING AND NELSON'S AIRPORT

A survey is under way for the Canadian air mail route to the coast from the prairies. The southern route, via the Crow's Nest, Kootenay and Boundary, seems the probable course for the air mail ships to pursue. On Tuesday last, Major Tudhope and Captain Leitch made a trip from High River, Alberta, to Fernie. It was the first of a series in mapping out a proposed route. Later, probably within the next few days or weeks, the flyers will continue on to Cranbrook, Creston, probably Trail and Grand Forks.

The fact that the flyers have made the trip and a successful landing on the snow in Fernie in sub-zero weather proves that the southern route is practicable for both summer and winter flying where airports are established.

Every indication points to the selection of this southern route to the coast. On either side of Nelson there are cities with airports constructed or under construction. It looks at the present as if Nelson will be off the air mail route unless something is done soon toward the construction of an airport.

KEEPING THE STREETS CLEAR OF SNOW

During the recent inclemencies in the east the snow had to be removed from the pavements in the cities and carted off to the waterfront in large trucks covered with tarpaulins. In one city the driver of one of these loads stopped for a few minutes to make a call at a packiing house. When he came out the truck and its load were gone. Some thief had driven it off in the belief that he was getting a year's supply of meat. Later the truck with its snow load was found standing by the roadside several miles away. The robber must have had a fine kick out of it when he found that he had been scooting off with a couple of tons of fresh snow. Whittier's poem would not have made any sort of a hit under those circumstances.

FILM STARS ARE NOW ALLOWED TO EAT

Reports from Hollywood indicate that there may yet be a good time coming for denizens of the film world, who for long have been starving in the midst of plenty. An instalment of relief for the hungry rich has, in fact, already been granted in the form of a small helping of pie, for film directors, after having for long insisted that the screen shall be kept for the lean, have now decided that five or ten pounds more weight will not unduly shock "movie" patrons.

From all accounts this concession has come none too soon, for the demand for slimness had reached a point when film performers had to choose between being under-nourished or unemployed. A film star, after a hard day's "vamping," would return to her palace to dine on crackers and mustard. If able to lull her conscience into a drowsy state she might also allow herself half an apple.

Now that "contours are understood to be coming back, the starved darlings of a tyrannical public are toying with thoughts of cheese and salad, while those with a long-distance vision even foresee the day when they will renew their acquaintance with candy. No order issued from Hollywood calls for more unquestioning obedience than the command, "Size right!" but although the order is always the same its implications vary.

Just at present it implies that the merchants of Hollywood are demanding an extra pound or two of flesh, and those who are under bond to them will not complain. Indeed, if Portia appeared to show cause why the demand would run a risk of being bitten to death by hungry film "stars."

That Body of Yours

By JAS. W. BARTON, M.D.

WHAT ANGER DOES

Something has occurred that has aroused your anger, and it is some time before you become calm and collected again.

You feel uncomfortable afterwards, and are not more interested in food for one or more days, and your skin may assume a yellowish tint.

You feel that the "fit of anger" has certainly left its mark upon you, despite the fact that it was all over in a little while.

Why should your digestive system be so upset, when as a matter of fact your anger is "up in the mind," or the brain?

Now emotions of joy, sorrow, anxiety and anger can all interfere with the movements of the stomach and intestine so that food material lies in these organs without any digestion taking place. but anger has a special action on the flow of bile from the liver, that is most extraordniary.

Dr. E. Wittkower by means of the uodena tube, conducted 20 experimens in which the bile was collected in test tubes, at five minute inervals during emotions of joy, sorrow, anxiety and anger.

It was found that while the movements of stomach and intestine might be interfered with by these motions, flow of bile was actually increased for a short time during a joyful emotioi, and even during sorrow and anxiety

However anger had an entirely different effect It did not increase but almost completely stopped the flow of bile

Now it was found the liver still manufactures the bile even when one is angry, but the effect of the anger was to cause a spasm and a closinng of the tubes that carry the bile away from the liver and to the intestine. Hence this bile got carried back into the liver and some of it went out into the blood from the liver to all parts of the body. That is the reason why there is often a yellowness of the skin after you are angry.

CITY ENGINEER PROUD OF STAFF

Affleck Pays Tribute to His Working Force in Report

A warm tribute to the working force of the city pubilc works department was paid by City Engineer Boyd C. Affleck, in his annual report.

"During May and June," wrote Mr. Affleck, in concluding his report, "Cement Foreman Robert Hickey was loaned to the city of Fernie to supervise the construction of concrete pavements, the first to be laid in Fernie. The mayor of Fernie, in thanking us for this courtesy, expressed himself as greatly pleased with the fine quality of Mr. Hickey's work. During July and August City Foreman John McPhail was off duty owing to illness, and his place was taken by William Brodie, who carried on very satisfactorily. I am pleased to have this opportunity of putting on record my opinion that the public works employees are one and all a very energetic, skillful and loyal body of men, that it is a pleasure to work with them, and that they deserve a very large share of the credit for the successful completion of our many undertakings."

WILL CELEBRATE BURN'S BIRTHDAY

Clan McCleary and Friends to Hold 17th Annaul Celebration Tonight

Tonight will see the seventeenth local annual celebration of the birthday of "Bobbie Burns" held by the Clan McLeary and their friends in Nelson. No other man has had the anniversary of his birth so widely commerated as Burns and his birthday is the occasion of reunion among Scottish folk all over the civilized parts of the globe. As usual the "aggis" will hold pride of place at the supper, being played in by the bagpipes and having Burns' famous "Address to the Haggis" given before being cut. The address to "The Immortal Bard" will be paid by the Rev. John Sutherland after which there will be a program of Scottish song and story by some of Nelson's premier artists. Then will follow what will probably appeal most to the young folk, dancing. These celebrations in the past have been most successful. The one tonight promises to be no exception to the rule.

New York Has Liveliest Market Day of the Year

FOX FILM GIVES BEAR CROWD BIG SCARE ON WALL

Stock Market Boosted Out of Narrow Rut; Rails Fairly Firm

NEW YORK, Jan. 23.— Astampede of shorts in Fox Film gave the bear crowd its worst scare of the month today and boosted the stock market out of the narrow trading range in which it has been languishing for a fortnight.

The market was the liveliest so far this year, although the turnover of 3,229,290 shares was unimpressive in the light of the last year's experiences. Call loan rates were unchanged, ruling at 4 ½per cent, but again sagging to 4 in the afternoon. The bear panic in Fox Film "A" caused a turnover of more than half the total issue of 820,660 outstanding shares.

The rush to cover short commitments was precipitated by a report that Mr. Fox had agreed upon turning over his interests to a new trusteeship, in connection which such august names as Charles E. Hughes, and John W. Davis, were mentioned, this report was not borne out. However, when the corporation was ordered to show cause in federal court next week why a receiver should not be appointed, the stock was marked up 11 points to $34, quickly dropped back to $25, then rallied to close at $27½.

Rails were fairly firm, but it was notable that utilities, motors and oils failed to participate, notably in the advance.

Shares gaining about three to five points include United States SSteel. Air reduction, Chesapeake and Ohio, Colorado Fuel, Eastman Kodak, General Electric, Loos Wiles, J. C. Penney, Safeway Stores and United States industrial Alcohol. Underwood Elliott mounted about six and J. I. Case seven points, Western Union and Endicott Johnson each lost two points.

IRREGULAR CLOSE, MONTREAL MARKET

Selected Issues Continue to Hold Gains; Brazilian Is Irregular

MONTREAL, Jan. 23—Following a slower trading pace the local market closed somewhat irregular. Selected issues continued to hold gains while others could not withstand the selling and dropped off slightly at the close.

The difference between the two was narrowed to but quarter point during the day, and they closed ¾ of a point apart. Brazilian was off almost a point to close at 38 and Nickel was off ⅛ at $37¼. Montreal Power was considerably more active. Canada Wire and Cable "B" proved to be strong on time, closing 5¾ higher at $36. Abibiti led the newspoint group to close more than a point higher at $27¼. Montreal Power closed off half to $135½.

Steel of Canada found increased activity to close 1⅝ higher at $48.

Winnipeg Electric was in the same class and closed 1 lower to $48. Total sales were 30,928 shares, as compared with 57,265 shares yesterday.

Gains as High as Eight Points Restored; Page-Hersey to the Front

TORONTO, Jan. 23—Although trading was on the quiet side the day saw a majority of the stocks moving in a narrow range. Favored and active issues went on a rampage restoring gains as high as eight points on the Toronto stock exchange today. After all the excitement had died down, 22,920 shares had changed hands with more than 33 per cent accounted for by Nicked alone.

Page-Hersey with a 6¾ point jump, was the nucleus about which the interest was focused. Over 1,200 shares were called and at the close Hersey was quoted at $104¾. Steel of Canada was stronger, advancing 2 to $47½ on a heavy turnover, while Eastern Steel preferred gained a fraction to $98. Nickel led the field, being off to $37⅛, down ⅜. OIL BRIEFS

CALGARY, Alta., Jan. 23.—McLeod No. 1 in central Turner Valley, blew into production on Wednesday afternoon as preparations were being made to clean and possibly deepen the well from 3945 feet. The big burst of gas hurled out large pieces of rock and iron that had been placed in the hole to assist in sidetracking a string of tools at the bottom. A part of the town of Turner Valley was showered with the debris and citizens hurried to cover. The flow was estimated at about eight million feet and it is expected that recovery will amount to about 75 barrels a day, the previous rate of production.

Mid-Continental, offsetting Vanalta No. 1 in the Red Couliee Field, is expected to average over 200 barrels a day when placed on the pump, according to word from the field. An eight hour test on Tuesday resulted in delivery of 82 barrels by swabbing. A pump will be installed as soon as possible efforts to create a flowing well having been unsuccessful.

Western Alberta, on the highwood structure, was drilling steadily from 3030 feet on Wednesday. The bit was making good progress through the pokerchip shales, samples of which continue to show considerable gas and oil. While ahere is a pitch in the formation which adds to the thickness of the pokerchips the lime is expected at any time within the next few days.

Turner Basin, in the north end of Turner Valley, yesterday was down 3770 feet and 130 feet in the Dakotas. Casing was being carried behind the under reamer from 3739 feet.

Sterling Pacific was drilling at 5787 feet and 634 feet in lime yesterday with no apparent change in gas pressure.

Home No. 4 was drilling at 5544 feet and 131 feet in the lime yesterday. Formation had become softer and drillers were looking for an increase in gas at any time.

Dalhousie No. 7 was drilling from 4678 feet yesterday and expecting to encounter the Dalhousie Sands within another 50 feet.

Innerfield, in Waite Valley, completed a long fishing job on Wednesday and is preparing to deepen from 2115 feet.

Royalite No. 21 was preparing to drill deeper last night after a short test production from about 665 feet in the lime. Officials were not satisfied with about 75 barrels a day, believing that a big increase could be obtained with deeper drilling.

Hargal, just east of Home No. 3 was drilling at 4901 feet last night and still expecting the belemmites at any time.

A. P. Consolidated No. 1 was drilling at 5206 feet last night and appeared to be in the pokerchip shales just above the limestone.

Mid-Royal, in central Turner Valley and on the west flank, was drilling at 2149 feet yesterday.

ARIZONA MINING INDUSTRY HUMS

Mines and Smelters Are Working a Total of 19,000 Men

PHOENIX, Jan. 23.—Arizona's mines and smelters are employing 19,000 men, according to an estimate by Tom C. Foster, State mine inspector. This is to be compared with about 14,000 at the end of 1928.

In addition, about 2500 men are employed on prospecting or development work on small mines. With wage schedules 15 per cent higher than in 1928, combined pay rolls now are estimated at $3,375,000 a month, about $1,000,000 more than twelve months ago.

Thirty-two men—three more than in the previous year, died in mine accidents during 1929, but this is considered an excellent record, compared with figures from other States in the industry. Serious and lesser injuries numbered 674.

Mines listed as "producing" number 177. Mainly within such mining organizations, improvements now under way are to cost fully $10,000,000. The major items are: Calumet and Arizona Mining Company, $1,600,000 in the smelter at Douglas an dabout $1,000,000 for shaft and power additions at the Warren mines, with about $8,000,000 for mill and mine development on the New Cornelia subsidiary at Ajo; Phleps Dodge Corporation, $1,000,000 for smelter enlargement at Douglas; Miami Copper Company, $2,500,000 for enlargement of its mill at Miami; Inspiration Consolidated Copper Company, $650,000 for enlargement of the Miami leaching plant and power plant; United Verde Copper Company, $350,000 for what is to be the most powerful underground hoist in the world.

In addition, large improvement work is under way on the Magna property at Superior, the Christmas near Hayden, and on the Sheldon smelter and mill at Humboldt.

HOWEY FEATURE MINING MARKET

Irregular Trend Apparent During Session; Ajax Heavy Oil Trader

TORONTO, Jan. 23.—(By Hugh W. Robertson Ltd., leased wire). Activity in Howey again featured trading on the Toronto standard stock and mining exchange today. An irregular trend was apparent during the session with the gold issues prominent for their strength. Trading was more or less slow and transactions generally appeared to be on basic values of the issues rather than as the result of artificial conditions. The slow accumulation of the gold issues is a very interesting keynote to trading at the present time.

The mining section of the board today showed appreciations in Dome, Grandview, Hollinger, Lake Shore, McIntyre, Nipissing, Premier, San Antonio and Columario. Barry aollinger, Hudson's Bay, Kirkland Lake, Manitoba Basin, Newbec Pend Oreille, were all steady during the session and closed unchanged at yesterday's last quote. Recessions were noted in Abana, Amulet, Arno, Big Missouri, Mining Corporation, Sisco, Teck Hughes and Wright Hargreaves but losses were within small proportions.

Ajax was the heavy trader in the oil section today, from an opening at $1.65 to high of $1.80. Stock closed $1.77, anet gain of 1 2cents. Gains were also recorded in A. P. Consolidated, Baltac, Home Oil, Southwest Pete and Calmont. Associated, Commonwealth, East Crest, Mayland were a few cents lower at close. Dalhousie and Foothills closed unchanged from previous close.

Musical Director Surprises London in New Contract

LONDON, Jan. 23—Sir Henry Wood, noted British symphony conductor, exploded a bombshell in placid London music circles when he accepted a three-weeks engagement at the Coliseum, one of London's largest vaudeville houses.

The rumor that the famous conductor of the Promenade Concerts at Qneens Hall, which are the epitome of the musical season here, would appear in vaudeville was confirmed by Sir Oswald. Still who said that Sir Henry would start his turn in January and take with him his own orchestra, eighty strong, the cream of London's musicians.

"I intend to make no alterations whatever in the music played," said Sir Henry. "In fact, I shall include the best known classics of Bach, Beethoven, Brahms, Wagner and Strauss a swell as a liberal sprinkling of the best British composers such as Elgar Vaughan Williams and Delius.

"Also I shall try a symphony or, at any rate, a part of one. I do not think it will be too rash an experiment. There is a tendency nearly everywhere to underrate the intelligence of all audiences, theatrical as well as musical.

Sir Henry has been one of the keenest advocates of popularizing good music. He fought for months to get his Promenade concerts on the radio, and finally succeeded in breaking down the prejudices of the concerts' backers. For two seasons he has been alternating the concerts between Queens Hall and the studio of the British Broadcasting Company.

THREE PRODUCERS MILL STEADILY LAKES REPORTS

Noble Five, Ruth-Hope, Galena Farm Most Active in the Slocan

PROPERTIES ON EAST SLOPE DEVELOPING

Temperature so Low Snowshoe Trail to Bluebird Not Packed

"Both the Noble Five and the Ruth-Hope mines are operating at present capacity as determined by the power available for their mills,' remarked Arthur Lakes, consulting money engineer, Tuesday, after a tour of the Slocan.

"The Noble Five, owing to water shortage, is on a develoment basis, but is milling 80 or more tons of ore a day. The Ruth-Hope has surmounted its power shortage and is steadily milling according to program.

"While I was not at Silverton, I understand the Galena Farm is also going strong.

"These are the three Slocan properties at present operating their mills."

DEVELOPMENT WORK

Mr. Lakes stated there was no change in the position of the Lucky Jim, Whitewater, and Cork-Province, each of which is operating one shift a day, on development work.

In the Cork-Province, he stated development work is being carried out on the fourth and fifth levels under Peter Price.

One of the operations inspected by Mr. Lakes was that of the Bluebirrd, which is still carrying on with the tunnel from the Retallack side. This has not yet attained its objective.

The Bluebird is above the Rambler, and Mr. Lakes made the trip on snowshoes. Although the trail has been used for the best part of a month since the last snowfall, the temperatures have been so low that it has not yet become packed and there is no "bottom" to it.

Ford Motor Firm Dissociates Self on Tariff Feature

OTTAWA, Jan. 23—An eleventh-hour disclaimer of the Ford Motor company of Canada, to the effect that this corporation did not associate itself with some of the representations made by the other automobile manufacturers of Canada, featured the session of the tariff advisory board today. The hearing on that particular section bearing upon automobiles had closed with the lunch hour adjournment; but late this afternoon, W. R. Campbell, president of the Ford company informed the board that he desired to dissociate himself from the suggestion that the motor manufacturers were unanimous in their representations as had been intimated by T. A. Russell, of the Willys-Overland company. The Ford company adhered to its stand that the fifty per cent Canadian content requirement should be imposed on individual models and asked that all interpretations of that should be based on the wording of the clause.

TOTAL WHEAT YIELD IS WAY DOWN

OTTAWA, Jan. 23—The total yield of wheat in Canada for the year 1929 is estimated at 299,520,000 bushels from 25,255,000 acres, according to the Dominion bureau of statistics. This compared with 566,726,000 bushels from 24,119,140 acres in 1928 and with an annual average of 422,219,740 bushels from 22,464,089 acres for the five years 1924-28.

STRENGTH SHOWN, VANCOUVER LIST

Home Oil Advances to $10.50; Litte Excitement in the Mines Issues

VANCOUVER, B. C., Jan. 23.—(By H. W. Robertson Ltd., leased wire). Closing prices on the Vancouver stock exchange showed some return of strength to certain oil issues and the board at close imparted a better tone than it did at mid-session.

Home this morning opened steady at $10.20 and closed at $10.50. With appreciation in this stock several oil issues reflected an upward movement. A. P. Consolidated recovered from a low point of $2.19 to close $2.32, a net gain of 13 cents. United from a low opening of $1.16 closed with net gain of four cents at $1.20. Dalhousie showed a gain from the day's activiites although it was slightly down from Wednesday's close. Hargal picked up five cents, apparently on a report that Hargal No. 1 will be completed with diamond drill. McLeod also developed strength near the close of the market and recovered from a low price of $3.70 to a close of $4.00, unchanged from yesterday's close. Calmont closed with net gain of nine cents. The other oil issues traded near recent levels.

Snowflake was the highlight in the mining section today, This stock opened two down at 17 cents, touched a low of 15 cents and recovered at close to 16. George Copper, Noble Five, Pend Oreille were slightly down at close. Reeves McDonald was 10 up.

Nelson-Trail Seniors Tie; Nelson Juniors Win Here

NELSON CUBS TAKE JUNIOR GAME FROM ROSSLANDERS 6-3

Good Clean Hockey Is Played by Both Teams; Last Period Fast

ELSON FORWARDS STACK UP WELL

Number of Players From Championship Team Appear on Squad

In a clean, fast game of junior ockey played here last night the elson Cubs defeated the Rossland uniors by a score of 6-3 This is he first West Kootenay Junior league ame that the Nelson representative eam has played this season.

Appearing on the lineup last night vere several of the players who were n last year's team that won the nior hockey championship of the rovince. These players and the new nembers of the team played interesting ockey, last night, as did the Rossland eam.

CORING STARTS EARLY

The first period opened fairly fast th the Cubs' forward line crowding e play in behind the Rossland blue e. After chucking the rubber at Rossland goalie several times Cecil amsden dribbled from center ice, rough the enemy defense, and with short backhand shot scored the first al at 2:30.

Throughout the remainder of the riod the play continued fairly even th the Nelson forward line having e better of the combination. Both ecil and Carl Ramsden flashed rough some pretty combination plays at almost always included Hood the other wing who was right with e play all the time.

SHOP HAS CLOSE CALLS

Bishop in the Nelson goal had a uple of close calls in this period en he wandered too far from the ine after clearing a shot. Once, particular, he got outside about 10 t after a loose puck that he had ared from Hanson's stick. The Rossd center was right after him and hop got back to his net just in e to save a sure goal.

orswill, Gubisic and Hood were ed to the boards in the first perfor spilling other players.

uring the first period the Rossland rs did not break away fast with result that their play was usy broken up before it was fairly er way.

ood opened the scoring in the nd period 30 seconds after the gong when he took the puck off Couture's stick at center ice. Not ing to skate ahead he took a range shot at the Rossland goal landed knee-high in the corner e net.

BINATION IMPROVES

mbination on both teams improved iderably during this period and a smart display of passing Hood Cecil Ramsden took the puck down igh the Rossland defense where goalie came out to meet them ing Hood's shot but losing out to Ramsden who snaffled the red and scored at 6:10.

e playing improved all the way g during the second period with n and the Couture brothers often ng down to within shooting range e Nelson goal. Most of the shots by the Rossland boys, though were erratic.

y drew the only penalty in this for flopping L. Couture, un-is gave the Rosslanders additional and things began to happen he Nelson half of the ice. Hanson the puck and broke clean through Nelson defense. Bishop, howrushed out of the goal and took shot as it left Hanson's stick.

CUBS BORE IN

In this period the Cubs began to bore in on the Rossland goal after their shots. After taking a shot on goal Stromstead and Farenholtz followed the puck to one side and just back of the goal. In the scrimmage the puck was kicked out in front of the goal where Stromstead slashed it in at 10:05.

Two minutes later Hood and Cecil Ramsden worked through on a fast combination play on which Ramsden scored on a short lightning-like shot.

From this time on the whole Rossland team came down with each play and often during the remainder of the game there were 11 players inside the Nelson blue line. This was bad business ,as they soon found and took more care to cover their end of the ice after Cecil Ramsden broke through and was stopped only by the opposing goalie.

While slashing the puck around inside the Nelson blue line Bishop came out of his goal to save and was thrown to the ice. As he scrambled back another shot caromed at him and lodged in his pads. Adopting football tactics both teams piled into the goal mouth but not before Cecil Ramsden had rescued the rubber.

Facing off after an offside at the Rossland blue line Farenholtz took the puck, reversed his direction, and scored at 17:50.

PRESTLEY SCORES

Not to be discouraged Prestley grabbed a lose puck inside in Nelson territory and scored at 19:00.

In one of the prettiest and cleanest rushes of the game Hanson cleared all the players, drew the Nelson goalie out of his net, and scored at 19:10.

Bishop in the Nelson goal played a nice game but took too much for granted and wandered out of his goal in a dangerous manner.

Horswill and Kirby on defense showed their need of more experience in handling fast combination plays.

The Ramsden brothers and Hood on the first forward line played fast, steady hockey and were easily the best combination men on the ice. Their ability to break fast and return to a defensive position once they had lost the puck was one of the most dangerous factors as far as the Rossland team was concerned.

McLean, Stromstead and Farenholtz on the second forward line did not play the polished game of the first string men but were effective in breaking up the plays of the opposition.

McDONNELL GOOD

McDonnell in the Rossland goal did some excellent work and cleared difficult shots from all angles.

Gubisic and Hendrickson played a nice defensive game. Gubisic was a dangerous man in his rushes.

On the forward line the Couture brothers and Hanson were in the game all the time but did not turn in the combination that the opportunities afforded. Hanson and G. Couture did some pretty individual rushing.

The second forward line, another brotherley combination, with the Penny brothers and Prestly were able substitutes for the first string line.

NELSON I SFASTER TEAM

All in all the Nelson team was a faster skating aggregation than were the Rossland players and were more inclined to take their opportunities to play combination. On the other hand the Rossland boys were more aggressive when in enemy territory. After taking a shot they were right in behind the Nelson goal every time.

The game was particularly clean and every time a penalty was handed out, which wasn't often, the boys took it without a murmur.

George Benwell, handling the bell, kept the game well in hand.

The Rossland team was managed last night by T. Supple.

The teams were:

Rossland—McDonnell, goal; Gubisic and Hendrickson, defense; Hanson, L. Couture, G Couture, S. Penny, C. Penny, P. Prestley, forwards

Nelson—Bishop, goal; Horswill and Kirby, defense; C. Ramsden, C. Ramsden, Hood, Stromstead, Farenholtz, McLean.

TEAMS BATTLE NINETY FULL MINUTES, TIE

Leo Desireau and Art Mackie Score Goals in Trail Match

GAME IS LISTLESS FROM THE START

Notman Plays Good Game Along With Heximer; Large Crowd Out

TRAIL, B. C., Jan. 23—Scotty Notman, Nelson goalie, saved a defeat for Nelson when Trail and Nelson battled for three scoreless overtime periods to a 1-1 tie in the first meeting of their season on Trail ice. It was a ragged game throughout with every attempt at combination broken up before it had properly started.

It was an individual game with both goals scored on individual rushes. This remained the chief form of attack throughout the game.

A total of 14 penalties were handed out by Referee J. Vanetter and Judge-of-Play J O'Genski, chasing players continually. Offsides were so numerous that they broke up the game.

Syd Diseareau took three trips to the penalty box, Art Mackie, two, Pat Morris two, Houbergs two, Wheately one, Waite one. Richardson one, McDonald one, D. Mackie one, Heximer, one.

Leo Disearau opened the scoring 16 minutes after the start of the game. He went down on one of his smashing solo rushes, crashed his way through the Trail defence, and reached out to bat the puck past Garland

The bell at the end of the first period broke up what threatened to be a general mixup. Wheatley, penalized for checking O'Genski too strenuously started to argue the matter out with Judge-of-Play J. O'Genski Everybody joined in the argument but nobody got hurt.

Seven minutes after the start of the second period Art Mackie stickhandled through the Nelson defence and scored the tieing goal. He was blocked, with the puck going on ahead, and broke through to beat Scotty Notman.

Towards the end of the third overtime period Houbreg caught Leo Desireau's stick on the eye, cutting the eyelid. Leo was making a backhand shot and his stick caught Houbregs as he swung. It was purely an accident. McDonald replaced him on defence.

Nelson played the whole game with only four forwards. The two subs, Gillette and Stah O'Genski remaining in the box throughout.

Heximer, one of the four forwards, played the game through with only four minutes rest. He was the outstanding Nelson man on the ice.

The teams were:

Nelson — Notman, goal; Richardson and L. Desireau, defence; Heximer, Waite, F. O'Genski, Sid Desireau forwards; Stan O'Genski and W. Gillette, substitutes.

Trail—Garland, goal; Reddick and Houbregs, defence; D. Mackie, A. Mackie, Wheatley, McDonald, Morris and Botterill.

Officials—J. Vanetter, referee and J. O'Genski, judge-of-play; D. Morgan, Nelson, "Red" Dynart, Trail, timekeepers; J. Wallace, Nelson and H. Pollard, Trail, goal umpires.

Barberry Bush

By Kathleen Norris

The story thus far:
Barbara Bush Atherton and her sister Amy, live with their father, Professor Atherton, in a modest little bungalow in Cottonwood, Cal. Lincoln Mackenzie, the richest boy in town and one of the nicest, is interested in Barbara, but she, much to Amy's disgust, has given her heart to Barry du Spain, a poet and dreamer. They have all grow up together and Barry, not suspecting Bargara's feelings and quite content with their present companionship, never speaks of love. Marianne Scott, pretty and sophisticated, comes to Cottonwood to visit her cousin, Inez Wilson, and is presented to the younger set at a dance.

Link, walking with Barbara in the moonlight, tries to kiss her, and, when she objects, accuses her of being standoffish, and insists that her attitude is unnatural.

INSTALLMENT THREE

Later, she discussed it with Amy. Amy was sitting on the edge of her bed, rubbing cold cream into her face, Barbara was already comfortable on her own pillows.

"Amy, do you think I'm a prude?" Barbara demanded suddenly. "Well Link does," she added aggrievedly, as Amy laughed.

"Did he say so?" Amy asked, instantly alert.

"Practically."

"Oh, Babs, I think he is really crazy about you!" Amy said elatedly. "Imagine. With all the girls in town after him! I knew his never forgetting your birthday meant something!"

"He thinks girls ought to go in for kissing and petting and all the rest of it!" Barbara observed.

"Link Mackenzie! He does not. Maybe." Amy admitted, "he wanted to kiss you."

"No, it wasn't that. But he said that—that side of it was important.' Amy hesitated, looking thoughtfully at her sister.

"Well—and don't you think so, Babs?"

"Of course I think so—after you're married."

"But—but the point is, Babs that you can't just decide about it like that. It's an impulse—an emotion—it's like getting hungry. It takes possesson of you!"

Barbara flushed darkly.

"Oh, I can't see," she went on impatiently, "why there has to be so much fuss about it! Every one talking about uncontrollable passions! I'd be ashamed to have any feeling I couldn't control."

Amy was silent for a long minute, and Babs innocently suspected that she had entirely lost interest in the subject when Amy said suddenly;

"Sis, falling in love is that."

"Nonsense!" Barbara scoffed, but a little uneasily. "I've been having beaus since I was 15."

"That's just a phrase you use," Amy interrupted with unusual firmness. "Of course, youve had boy friends, and men have loved you. But you've never been in love, Babs."

Barbara, with a sudden quickening of heart beats, decided that this was the time for the revelation.

"Amy, I think I am in love," she said faintly. And she added, "with Barry du Spain."

Amy, whose face had lighted at the first admission, laughed scornfully.

"Babs, don't talk nonsense! Why, Barry isn't a man. He's just a dreaming kid. He idolizes you, the way he would a madonna painted on a wall."

"Do you think he does?" Barbara asked eagerly, diverted.

"Of course I think he does—I know he does, because lately he's been acting so pettish and silly. But Barry doesn't know anything about real love, any more than you do!"

"Any more than I do!" Barbara echoed, affronted. "Well, I'll bet I could have Link Mackenzie tomorrow, if I wanted him!"

"I think you could, too, darling. But I see poor Link's meaning. He wants you to—well, to kiss back, to sit in his lap—" She stopped, laughing ashamedly.

"Ugh, you make me sick!" Barbara ejaculated.

"Well, I know, and I was only fooling, in a way." Amy hastened to apologize. "But the truth is, Babs, that, for all your smartness, you're only a little girl in lots of ways. You haven't waked up. Now, I'm not half as popular with the boys as you are—or as you could be," Amy altered it thoughtfully. "But I understand all this more. You've got to—if you want to get a man and hold a man—you've got to let go, in these days. Here meanwhile, is Link Mackenzie, the finest match in town, just ready to fall in love with you, if he isn't already. All you have to do is to be gentle—loving—"

"My dear Amy, when we meet Link at Bartell's I'm crazy about him. When he gets all hoarse and gentle at dances, and wanto to paw me—and mutter things close in my ear—and mash kisses on to me—"

"Babs!" Amy gasped and laughed.

"Id much rather be down on the creek, making little water-dog villages with Barry!" Barbara finished.

"Well, I don't care whether you marry Link or not," Amy said finally, "but I will say that, if you go on much further with Barry du Spain, making him think he's a genius, and playing around with him as if you were both 8 years old, then I'll think you're a fool!"

"Barry's the hadsomest man I ever saw in my life, and Inez's cousin said so, too," Barbara said now.

"'Andsome is as 'andsome does, Miss!' said Amy. "She can have him. That'd be a very nice match."

"He loathes her."

"Well, you look out, or she'll get Link. She's very different from Inez. She's a siren, that girl."

"She can have him." Barbara snapped off her night light.

Barbara would have slept less soundly, perhaps, had she been able to hear another conversatios again between two girls only a few blocks away.

Inez Wilson, the town's richest girl, slender, sallow, fair and not without a sort of lifeless beauty, was seated on the foot of her visitor's bed. Marianne Scott, 26, dark, strikingly handsome, sat up in her pillows and hugged her knees, and occasionally looked self-consciously at herself in the mirror, far across the darkened room. The girls talked in cautious undertones; the household was long asleep.

"No, not the pretty, neat-looking one. The tall one, with the reddish hair."

"That's Barbara Atherton. They're sisters. The Englishman you liked was with them."

"Fox—what's his name? Yes, he was rather amusing," Marianne said, in her cool, sophisticated tones.

"Fox Madison. He's a younger son—we all think he got into some trouble at home. Anyway, his family in England send him about five hundred a quarter, to stay away."

"Exactly. He looks the part. But to go back to the red-headed girls—who are they?"

"The Athertons? Well, they were the big people of the place a few years ago. Their grandmother was old Mrs. Bush—their grandfather was an Englishman who came out here in '49, or something, and practically owned the whole place. But their mother died when Barbara was about 3, and their father was a professor at some college, and he retired, or something, and they sold the Bush place and bought a little Spanish bungalow here, and they live there."

"Not rich?" Marianne questioned, raising the fine, plucked line of beautifully groomed eyebrows.

AMERICA MODEL OF ZIONISTS

Jewish Official Tells of Adopting Methods in Palestine Farm Work

LOS ANGELES, Jan. 23—The success of the Zionist campaign to colonize Palestine will depend in a large degree according to Gedaliah Budlick, president of the Orthodox Zionists of America, and a member of the Greater Jewish Agency, on the adoption of American agricultural methods. Mr. Budlick said that large areas of land in Palestine have been planted to orange groves, vineyards and tobacco and are following the methods of planting and irrigation used in California.

Mr. Budlick, who was in Los Angeles visiting the chapter of his organization, said that farming conditions in Palestine are similar to those in California, and that a number of horticultural experts had been drafted from this state to give advice to the Jewish colonists.

In spite of the antagonism of the native Arabs and the adverse conditions met by the pioneers in the colonization movement, the Jewish settlements are prospering, Mr. Budlick said. There are approximately 100 settlements of immigrants in Palestine he said, mainly drawn from eastern Europe with a few from the United States.

"The Jews in Palestine are greatly outnumbered by the Arabs," Mr. Budlick declared, and said that he was there last August during the time of the Arab uprising.

Mr. Budlick said that in addition to training the Jewish immigrants in modern agricultural methods, the work there includes the maintenance of schools for approximately 20,000 children.

New Year Finds Youth Served in City Gay Paris

Cabinet, Shop, Cafe Business All Bear Unmistakable Signs of Youth

PARIS, Jan., 23—The young New Year coming to Paris finds youth being served , in more ways than one.

The new year sees only one beard in the new Tardinieu cabinet and that's a pretty fair symupton of a new state of things. The beard belongs to Henri Cheron Minister of Finance, indicating youth utilizes the caution of age.

Seen from an airplane, Paris hasn't changed her broad general outline but her face has been lifted and she is massaging her wrinkles; she needs a little more color.

Modern art has hit the stores. New fronts of geometrical angularity stick out like lighthouses green, blue and violet ights illuminate shops and evn the opera. The old bourgeoisie is afraid "the traditional beauty of old Paris" will be destroyed. There has even been legislation to protect historic spots from the ambition of those who want modern quarters.

Yet the thirsty traveler can rest as usual on cafe's sidewalk "terrasses". Many old landmark places are ogne, repaced by nice, new shiny ones with higher-priced beer and brisk, prosperous looking waiters. Soon the shabby friendly garcon who liked to gossip with his customers and aways said "Merci, Monsieur," will get his place in the museum.

"English spoken," no longer attracts attention on store windows. Foreign shoppers take for granted they can find in any store some one with enough polyglot to take their money. Even the cops are learning English.

Visitors who like their native hits—well-seasoned by a couple of years delay—can see them here. The theatre in fact, now runs largely to English, Russian, German and American shows and about half the French actors and three-fourths of the singers are out of work. Baron de Rothchild has given Paris the best equipped play houses in the world but modernism hasn't gone so far as to use printed tickets with seat checks. Illegibly penciled milmsy still used and the three solemn judge-like persons in evening clothes still sit in a rostrum and assign seats to those who pay as they enter without knowing where they can sit.

Strangtly, although there are more cars, there are ess noises. Buses are getting pneumatic tires and the police have forbidden horns after 1 o'clock in the morning. Paris, being a 9 o'clock town, most people have had half their sleep by that time and don't mind the silence.

ALL IS YOUTH

But the real youthfulness of France is in other directions—in government, business and social life.

Andre Tardieu, the new premier, although 52 is a young man, young in manner and method. He took on more younger men than ever before ran the government. He cut a lot of red tape and shocked his poitical ancestors by deciding taxes could be lowered and yet more money could be spent on things that woud increase prosperity, such as better roads, modern ports and more telephone and electricity.

Looking ahead the young premier decided Paris must have room to grow and he got behind the plan to build a boulevard out west from the edge of town along a new fast suburban express line so people could live in the air

Youth is in business both because of the after-war awakening and the heavy toll of death. A large proportion of the men who would be 40 to 45 today were kiled so their places have been taken by those who were too young to be soldiers.

Woman, likewise, came out of the war with a taste for work and women are everywhere, crowding men in the universities and often in business. As the women have no business traditions of their own and are exuberant in their new freedom, they accept new ideas rapidly.

Coupled with all this is the growth of modern art. There are more pictures than ever before. More force of quantity overwhelms traditional art so that Paris, and gradually France, is ever seeking the "new" in all things.

Yet the Eiffel tower still towers and the opera sings on the Louvre is full of old pictures and Paris still is Paris and French continues to be spoken.

Put you soap powder in an old cocoa tin and perforate holes in the lid. You will find it handier to use this way and less wasteful.

HALL OBJECTIVE OUTLET INSTITUTE

Balfour-Queen's Bay Reports a Very Active Ten Months

History of the first 10 months of the Balfour-Queens Bay Women's institue was covered in the first annual report of the directors, presented at the recent annual meeting. This report depicting a very active 10 months was as follows:

The Balfour-Queen's Bay Women's Institute was organized in March, 1929, by Mrs. H. H. Pitts, district organizer, with 22 members. The first monthly meeting was held on April 1, and at that meeting, it was decided to work for a hall, this being the first step towards getting the people together.

MANY ACTIVITIES

This is a very young institute, and has not the funds to carry out a lot of work. However, it has accomplished something. It has made and sent a quilt to the Solarium; donated $10 to the same collected and sent across to the construction camp at Proctor, (Kootenay- Landing-Protor Link, of the C. P. R.) magazines, books, etc., provided the milk for hot cocoa for the school children's lunch, purchased iodine tablets to combat goiter in the Balfour school, secured a tape of dimes to be filled for the crippled children, placed a wreath on the memorial on armistice day, remembered a bed-ridden member of the community at Christmas; secured a building for a hall and a site to put it on, and is now interesting itself in drumming up funds to fix up the hall.

"This institute has listened with great interest to addresses and demonstrations on the following:—Working in wax, and bag felt flower, and wool flower making by Mrs. H. H. Pitts, thrift, by Mrs. C. D. Ogilvie, first aid, by Mrs. Holt., rose layering and budding, by Mrs. O. Appleton, canning salmon by Mrs. John Peachey, hooked rug making by Mrs. McKay. Christmas cake making, by Mrs. Fraser.

Membership at the present time is 24, as some members have left the district. Altogether 10 meetings were held to the end of 1929. The financial statement shows a balance of about $23.

MIDWAY TAKES THE FINANCIAL TITLE

Raises $1500 During Year; Adds to Hall; $200 Expended on Benefits

All other financial accomplishments of the past year yet reported by Women's institutes of the Kootenay are outdistanced by the feat of the Midway institute in raising $1500. This is the outstanding fact in the institute's annual report, written by Mrs. H. Pannell, secretary, and submitted at the annual meeting. This report is as follows:

"The year 1929 was a banner one financially for the Midway Women's institute, the receipts being over $1500. Most of this money was raised by dances which have always proved successful.

"On Labor Day of the last year the new supper room addition to the farmers hall was used for the first time. This room has accomodation for 100 adults seated, and an open kitchen in connection from which the supper is served.

"There are 28 members in the institute, quite a number of whom have to travel many miles to the meetings.

"During 1929 benefits amounting to about $200 were distributed from this institute.

"The door receipts from a concert held in April amounted to $220, which defrayed the expense incurred by reshingling the Farmers hall.

STOCK IMPROVEMENT

"In cooperation with the Farmers institute the members' children are able to compete in the Boys and Girls Pig Raising club, Poultry club, and Calf club. The department of agriculture makes these clubs very attractive to the youngsters by offering money prizes and ribbons.

"Through the kindness of the Warfield Farm at Trail, several purebred calves were distributed through this district at a nominal cost.

"This year we hope to be able to clear the debt off the supper room, as we are greatly in need of a new piano and will need extra funds for this purpose.

"The Farmers hall, Midway, is the property of the Women's and Farmers institutes, and it has provided a long felt want for the social side of the community."

MANITOBA WOMEN CALLED TO ARMS BY FARM LEADER

In Much Better Position Than Contemporaries Across the Line

BRANDON, Man., Jan. 23—Farm women of Manitoba heard a call to arms today. At the 27th annual convention of the United Farmers of Manitoba, Mrs. S. E. Gee-Curtis, of Neepawa characterized current agrarian difficulties as a spur to greater effort. Yet the leader of the womn's section blended a tone of optimism into her presidential address.

"Despite the dry year and light crop we have reason to count our blessings," said Mrs. Gee-Curtis, who has headed the women's body for the past three years. Manitoba, she pointed out, is in a much better position generally than many other sections. In politically better off than his contemporary in the United States.

"However, though we may dwell upon the less ortunate position of our neighbors, the time has not yet arrived to rest on our oar," the president remarked. "In the United States, the farmer is at a disadvantage because the urban population outnumbers the rural—in Manitoba, there is an even balance of power between city and country. If we do not make our opinions felt in the public policies of government, then we have only ourselves to blame.

NEVER MORE NEEDED THAN TODAY

"The United Farmers of Manitoba were never more needed than they are today," contended Mrs. Gee-Curtis "From the east comes the premium on select bacon—from the north comes consideration of the Hudson Bay road—and the questions of freight rates and taxation are still with us."

Education of the farm public toward a sense of loyalty and responsibility to the pool must continue to be the function of the parent U.F.M. president. The fact that the pools organization, commented the women's have been established, se said, does not mean that the task is completed; there must be concerted effort to make the pools established success. Pension scheme is necessary, said Mrs. Gee-Curtis, to provide for payment only to those whose children are unable to aid in their support—otherwise an unfair burden devolves upon the taxpayer. She approved efforts of the Child Welfare department to throw upon the natural father responsibility for the support of the child of the unmaried mother. Value of the services of the Public Health Nurse is not fully appreciated in Manitoba, believed the president.

NEED AN INDUSTRIAL SCHOOL

Sorely needed in Manitoba, according to Mrs. Gee-Curtis, aren't an industrial school to care for delinquent girls and a training school for mentally defective boys and girls. Study groups she thought, should be developed in each community for the purpose of teaching folks how to think and how to live.

Fundamentally, the problem is to develop the individual in order that the individual may contribute to the betterment of the community, pointed Markham, the president of the women's section considered:

"In vain we build the work, unless The builder also grows."

Treatment Cancer Successfully Done With Isamin Blue

BERLIN, Jan. 23—Highly favorable results in the treatment of cancer with isamin blue, a dyestuff were reported by Dr. H. Bernard at the recent meeting of the Berlin Medical Society.

Dr. Bernard told of satisfactory treatment of 200 cases, undertaken since 1926 at the clinic for internal medicine at Charite Hospital.

Isamin blue was found especially efficacious in combination with irradiation treatment (Roentgen, radio or diathermic). The dye-stuff materially enhanced the efficacy of the rays in the dual sense of impregnating the local cancer tissues and diminishing their powers of resistance on the noe hand, and on the other, of increasing the body's resisting functions against the poisonous agents by virtue of the dyestuff's disinfectnig qualities.

In the ensuing discussion in which Prof. Ferdinand Blumenthal, head of the institute for cancer research, joined, it was agreed that the injection of isamin blue into the blood circulation in conjunction with irradiation represented a marked progress in the treatment of cancer.

Unexplored Ruins in Yucatan To Be Delved Into Now

Supposed to Be Rich in Ruins of Cultured Civilization Now Extinct

WASHINGTON, D. C., Jan. 23—Unexplored ruins of romantic cities and roads in Quintana Roo on the eastern coast of Yucatan described as the wildest and least known section of the New World will be studid soon by a small rgoup of scientists enthusiastic wih the confidence of bringing to light secrets of an old civilization.

With information from the leading archeologists and explorers of the Carnegie Institute and the Museum of the American Indian in the Heye Foundation of New York, the party leaves New Orleans January 3, to spend most of the winter in what Captain Robert R. Bennett, of Washington, its leader, says is a section rich in the ruins of a cultured civilization.

The tall erect army captain, whose small merry brown eyes and animated face, belie the snowy hair of nearly sixty-five years, has been exploring in Central America for forty years with success enough to give him an international reputation. He is confident of finding something really big in the hieroglyphics and other remains.

MANY DEAD CITIES

The captain says that Quintana Roo, holding within its borders the old empire city of Coba, is the territory of the Federal Government of Mexico. From Coba seven stone roads probably 2000 years old believed literally lined with dead cities trek in all directions.

The lure of this expedition, he explained, is the unexplored road going south which, eminent archaeologists hold, ribbons its nearly 500-mile march into the interior, fringed with rich ruins. Three of these cities, he pointed out were sighted by Colonel Charles A. Lindbergh, whose exploits in his belief will contribute immensely to an exhaustive exploration of the region. With sextant and compass the expedition will follow these roads, taking copious notes of all hieroglyphics and collecting such material as will be of use in narrating the story of a golden age.

Quintana Roo, bearing the name of Don Jose Quintana of Merida, the George Washington of his country, and his wife, Donna Rio Roo, according to well authenticated manuscripts, was a mecca of culture about the time Richard, the lion-hearted, sat at the English throne.

It fell, some archaeologists hold, because a ruler to keep his bautiful sweetheart from a rival king brought mercenaries from Mexico to repel successfully the attack upon the stronghold of his beloved. The soldiers, finding conquest easy, quickly overran the country and degeneracy set in bringing the early destruction of palaces with domes of silver and gold. The coming of the Spanish, and forays of pirates made destruction complete.

Coba, presumably named after a priest, is an old empire city, Captain Bennet says, surrounded by some eight beautiful lakes upon one of which Colonel Lindbergh landed. The water, he says, is infested with small fish who have the annoying habit of attacking bathers.

Although there are many obstacles to be surmounted, Captain Bennett is confident that the group will suffer from no privations.

A stock of the best canned goods, coupled with deer, turkey and other wild life which abound in the section will provide proper food. "Mosquito boots" of soft leather will join other equipment in keeping insects at bay, while anti-toxin will meet the emergency of possible snake bites. Five Chicleras Indians, with mules, will aid in transportation.

Father Time Hard on Leaders of the World Last Year

Takes Toll of Many Great Leaders in Short Span of Time

NEW YORK, N. Y., Jan. 23—Death, respecter of no class or creed, closed the careers during 1929 of an unusually large number of persons widely known for their leadership in their respective spheres or because of the high stations they occupied.

Among them were many whose achievements won for them fame throughout the world.

The most noted figures to pass from the world stage were Georges Clemenceau and Marshal Ferdinand Foch. It was Clemenceau, the statesman, who, as prime minister welded together all France for the final strike in the world war and made Foch commander of the French army. From that post the marshal advanced to command of the allied armies to finally achieve victory.

There was somewhat of a coincidence in the writing of "30" of the careers of two eminent journalists, Melville E. Stone, one of the organizers and for 25 years general manager of The Associated Press and Thomas (Tay Pay) O'Connor, "father of the house of commons." Mr. Stone preceded his famous Irish contemporary in life by two months and in death by nine months.

NOTED CHURCHMEN GO

Deaths among noted churchmen included Cardinal Gasquet, regarded as one of the most learned men in the world, and Cardinal Dubois, head of the Catholic Church in France Another religious and social work leader who died was General William Bramwell Booth, head of the Salvation Army.

Gustav Stressman, foreign minister of Germany, Lord Rosebury, noted British statesman, Prince Bernhard von Buelow, former German chancellor, and Prince Max von Baden, the last German imperial chancellor were prominent Europeans who died.

The curtain was rung down for the last time on several stars of the amusement world. Among them were Lily Langtry, an old-time actress noted for her beauty; Raymond Hitchcock and Frank Keenan, veteran actors; Jeanne Eagels, a young star; John Cort, theatrical producer and manager, and Henry Arthur Jones, a British dramatist.

The world of sports lost one of its most picturesque figures in the death of George L. (Tex) Rickard, promoter of world's champion boxing bouts; three who won fame in baseball,—Miller J. Huggins, manager of the New York Yankees; George T. Stallings, once called the Miracle Man of Baseball, and Joe McGinnity, whose pitching stunts earned him the title of "iron man."

RESCUE PARTIES SEEKING TO AID FLOOD VICTIMS

MEMPHIS, Tenn., Jan. 23—In the face of near-zero weather, which made the situation hourly more acute, rescue parties tonight battled from a new front to reach several hundred flood and ice-bound victims of the St. Francis and Big Lake overflows in scutheastern Missouri and northeastern Arkansas.

Futile efforts were made today to force boats through the ice-covered overflow. Rescue crews under the dirction of Walter Over, field representative of the American Red Cross, then set out from the base of operations at Blytheville, Ark., aboard a railroad motor train, and started inland in search of open water on which rescue boats could be launched.

WEST ARM WATER IS STILL FALLING

The water level in the West Arm yesterday reported to have reached a level of 7¼ inches below zero.

ALBERTA BELIEVES DOMINION SHOULD AID UNEMPLOYMENT

EDMONTON, Jan. 23—Because of the fact that the unemployment situation this year affects every province in the Dominion and because, too, that this province asked Dominion authorities to close down ther immigration policy, the Alberta government is of the opinon that a certain share of the government's expense in handling the unemployed situation in Alberta, should be borne by the Dominion administration.

BARNES EXTENDS THE RIGHT HAND OF FELLOWSHIP

Welcomes Campion and Gray to Their Duties On Council

COMMITTEES ARE NAMED BY MAYOR

Library Board and Court of Revision Are Constituted

A pledge by Mayor R. D. Barnes, of his best service and a welcome to the new aldermen, and brief maiden speeches from them, comprised the formalities with which the city council of 1930 entered last night upon its deliberations.

Following this pleasing interchange of compliments, composition of the standing committees for the year was announced by the mayor, and the council completed its task of organization by filling the vacancies on the library board and arranging for the court of revision of the assessment roll.

"Gentlemen, I would again like to voice my appreciation of the honor the citizens have done me in electing me mayor for the third time, and I assure you I will use my best judgment, in cooperation with the members of the council, for the benefit of the municipality," was his worship's opening speech.

"Have any members of the council anything to say?" he asked. There being no volunteers, his worship continued:

WELCOMES NEW MEMBERS

"On behalf of the older members of the council, I take great pleasure in welcoming the newly elected mempers, Aldermen Gray and Campion, to our board. Old J. P. (Alderman Morgan) doesn't need any introduction, and knows the ropes anyway."

Alderman W. R. Campion said, like the mayor, he appreciated the confidence the citizens had reposed in him, and especially the emphatic way they had expressed it. There were many important problems for the council, and he would devote himself to the work of the council the same way he had to that of the school board

Alderman J. B. Gray stated he was "glad to be here with the rest," and hoped all would pull together. He said he had made no promise during the election campaign except to do his best for the city, and those were still his sentiments.

Keeping his eyes modestly on the table, Alderman J. P. Morgan, veteran in service, resisted the temptation to join in the mutual congratulation.

The three hold-over members, Aldermn J. E. McKenzie, W. M. Walker and J. F. Coates, also let the opportunity for eloquence pass.

Formalities over, Mayor Barnes stated he had made up the committees for the year, which would be read by City Clerk W. E. Wasson. The list was as follows, the first named alderman on each committee being chairman:

YEAR'S COMMITTEES

Finance—Aldermen Walker, Morgan, Gray.

Fire, water and light—Aldermen McKenzie, Walker, Gray.

Street railway—Aldermen Gray, McKenzie, Campion.

Public works — Aldermen Morgan, Walker, Coates.

Gas — Alderman Coates, Morgan, Campion.

Parks, cemetery and health—Aldermen Campion, Coates, McKenzie.

Alderman Gray was appointed the city's representative on the hospital board, and Aldermen Morgan and Campion were appointed fire wardens.

On motion of Aldermen Coates and McKenzie, Principal H. McArthur, Dr. W. O. Rose, and Leslie Craufurd, retiring members of the municipal library board, were reelected.

The whole council, on motion of Aldermen Morgan and Campion, will compose the court of revision which on February 12 will hear appeals from the assessment.

ACCOUNTS PASSED

Accounts amounting to $5000 or $6000 outstanding at the end of the year, together with some current ones, were ordered paid if approved by the finance committee. The new committee held its first session at the close of the council session, to examine the vouchers and approve these accounts for payment.

It was decided to adhere to the old practice in regard to council meetings, which will be held on alternate Monday evenings, starting with February 3.

NORTHERN PART OF UPPER ARROW GETTING CLOGGED

Minto Now Has to Buck Ice From Nakusp Clear to Arrowhead

SERVICE STILL TO WEST DEMARS

Columbia Keeps Open Lower Arrow; Freight Moves Slocan Lake

Ice conditions on the lakes are getting worse every day, and operation of Canadian Pacific steamers on the various routes is carried on under increasing handicaps that make the situation precarious.

The Steamer Minto made West Demars again Wednesday on her downward trip, but now the northern section of the Upper Arrow lake is giving concern, and all the way from Nakusp north to Arrowhead she has to make her way through ice.

On the Lower Arrow lake there was no new report yesterday, except that the ice field was getting thicker, and that the steamer Columbia, on her temporary northern terminus at Edgewood, was expected to negotiate the down trip to West Robson last night.

SLOCAN SERVICE

While the ice is getting heavier all the time on Slocan lake, there is no report of it above Ten-Mile. Yesterday the steamer Rosebery took a barge-load of freight cars from Slocan City up the lake on her scheduled service.

In all three cases, ice-breaking barges are being used with the steamers concerned to break and keep open the steamer lanes in the ice-fields.

It was stated yesterday that the ice on the West Arm at the Nelson ferry lane was 2½ feet thick.

McKINNON AND PATERSON MOVE IN NELSON CUP

Two Rinks Default Games; Ledingham Plays With Three Men

ROSSLAND, B. C., Jan. 23.—J. A. McKinnon of Trail and F. Paterson of Rossland reached the semi-finals today in the Nelson cup competition in the bonspiel here, the former at the expense of the last Kimberley rink that of H. W. Stone in the latter by knocking out R. Sommerville's Trail rink.

In the semi-finals McKinnon will meet the winner of the T. W. Ledingham of Nelson and B. MacDonald of Trail, who battled in the eights. Paterson will meet the winner of the match between J. J. O'Neill of Kimberley and J. Finney of Rossland.

C. D. Blackwood's Nelson rink preferred to sleep this morning after last night's banquet, rather than roll out to curl at 8 o'clock, and defaulted in the first round to J. H. Woodburn of Trail, who were beaten in the next round by J. Finney of Rossland. R. Stephens' rink, which tonight won the Grand Challenge, also preferred to sleep this morning and defaulted its first round game to F. Paterson. Stephens learned just too late that it had been Paterson's intention to default. T. W. Ledingham's rink, playing with only three men, defeated the rink of A. Sutherland of Kimberley in this event today.

Penalties Beat Coal Creek Team in Fernie Game

FERNIE, B. C., Jan. 23.—After some trouble in organization, the Fernie Hockey League again got away to a good start tonight, with a game between Fernie and Coal Creek in which Fernie were victorious, with a score of 6-5.

The first period opened snappily with very fast ice and showed some of the best hockey of the season. Fernie led in scoring and when the bell rang there was a three to one advantage for Fernie.

The second period opened more slowly with much passing but soon picked up and it was not long till Coal Creek tied the score.

The third period provided a new sensation for the fans as the Coal Creek men in a series of penalties earned one way or another were put on the fence until only on man and the goal keeper remained.

During this break, Fernie scored three more goals.

When their men restored Coal Creek staged a fine rally but could get only two more goals before the final bell.

HUGE LIABILITIES

LONDON, Jan. 23—Gross liabilities of $147,500,000 and a final deficiency of $75,500,000—these were the staggering figures which Sir Gilbert Garnsey, noted accountant submitted to Mr. Justice Avery and the jury at the Old Bailey today on the trial of Clarence Charles Hatry and three co-defendants on charges of fraud and forgery.

Ohio school children will listen in on American School of Air as part of their classroom studies starting Feb.4.
