UN Assembly Faces Arab-Israeli Situation in Emergency Session

Kosygin Expected To Ask That Israel Be Censured for Aggression

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

A stream of high-level foreign officials flew into New York during the weekend as the United Nations prepared to take centre stage in the Middle East dispute with an emergency General Assembly session opening today.

Arab and Israeli leaders indicated in advance they would not accept any agreement that did not meet their separate — and opposite — points of view.

Ambassador Mohamed Awad el Kony of Egypt, commenting on a possible meeting between President Johnson and Soviet Premier Alexei N. Kosygin, said they "couldn't arrange anything without our consent."

And in Jerusalem, Israeli Ambassador Abba Eban indicated in an interview published Sunday that Israel will defy any UN resolution telling it to pull its troops back to its old frontiers.

U.S. Ambassador Arthur J. Goldberg was to open the General Assembly debate to be followed by Kosygin.

TO ASK FOR CENSURE

Soviet sources said Kosygin was expected to press the Soviet Union's demand that Israel be censured for aggression and withdraw from hundreds of square miles of Arab territory it conquered in the lightning Middle East war.

Egypt's Deputy Premier Mahmoud Fawzi and Israel's Eban also were scheduled to be heard today.

El Kony ruled out any Arab-Israeli negotiations in an interview televised Sunday and said any meeting of Kosygin and Johnson on the Middle East situation "is up to them," because they "couldn't arrange anything without our consent."

"By all means we are going to get our territory back," he said, "whatever the cost."

Eban told the Jerusalem Post:

"If the General Assembly were to vote by 121 to one in favor of Israel returning to the armistice lines tomorrow, Israel would refuse to comply with that decision."

Eban gave the interview before flying to New York for the special session on the Mideast war and its aftermath.

OCCUPY WIDE TERRITORY

Israeli forces occupied territory more than three times the size of their country during that war. They seized the Sinai Peninsula from Egypt, Jordanian territory west of the Jordan River, and the mountain plateau inside the Syrian border.

Asked about Israel's terms for a lasting settlement, Eban answered,

"What Israel wants is very simple: Security and peace.

"Security and peace have territorial implications."

He stressed that "we must avoid going back to an intermediate situation between war and peace, with all its ambivalence and obscurity."

Among the prominent heads of state and government expected in New York Sunday was President Nureddin Atassi of Syria, whom the Israelis regard as a major instigator of the tensions that exploded into war June 5.

Danish Premier Jens Otto Krag, who is also foreign minister; Premier Mika Spiljak of Yugoslavia, French Foreign Minister Maurice Couve de Murville and Fawzi also were among the scheduled arrivals.

Kosygin arrived Saturday with an entourage of 66 Russians.

U.S. State Secretary Dean Rusk had been expected in New York Sunday night, but his trip was postponed for at least 24 hours.

ITALIANS TO ATTEND

British Foreign Secretary George Brown was due in New York Tuesday, and the Italian UN mission announced Premier Aldo Moro and Foreign Minister Amintore Fanfani would fly here late today.

In Kuwait, Arab foreign ministers, working out plans for an Arab summit conference, broke off their meeting early Sunday to head for New York, where they said it would be resumed.

Arson Attempt At School Fails

Garbage Found Smouldering Against St. Joseph's Door

A serious arson attempt was made on St. Joseph's School in Nelson early Saturday morning.

Nelson Fire department was called to the large wooden elementary school at 9:15 a.m. Saturday, where they found the contents of a garbage can "still smouldering" against a partly-burned back door.

The alarm was turned in by Rev. F. Monaghan.

"If it hadn't more or less burned itself out, the school would have gone up pretty quickly," said Deputy-Chief Frank Yasek.

Damage to the Mill Street school was set at $100.

Police and fire department officials have questioned several juveniles in connection with the attempt but no charges have been laid.

"There no doubt someone tried to set the fire," said the deputy-chief.

"Garbage was taken from a nearby can and put in front of the door — you can see the trail of papers from the can."

The attempt was made on the west of the school at ground level.

Damage was limited to the door and base of the door, both of which were badly charred.

Firemen were also called out at 3:12 a.m. Sunday to fight a basement fire in a city home.

Fire "of unknown origin" had broken out in the basement of the home of Mrs. Frances Perrier, 1110 Cherry.

Damage to the basement was estimated at $100.

Burning Tanker Crew Rescued

NEW YORK (AP)—The 39 crew members of a blazing Swedish tanker abandoned ship in the Atlantic about 800 miles off Bermuda Sunday but were safe aboard a rescue ship 12 hours later with an assist from the U.S. Air Force.

The U.S. Coast Guard said the 19,697-ton tanker Emma Fernstroem radioed early Sunday that an engine-room fire had forced the crew to abandon ship.

Seven hours later, a U.S. plane from Bermuda spotted the crew in four lifeboats and parachuted a two-man rescue team with medical supplies, radios and lifeboats into the water.

A Norwegian tanker, Titus, picked up the crew about 4:30 p.m. EDT.

There was no indication of injuries.

The tanker was on its way from Portland, Me., to Aruba in the Caribbean islands. The ship's owner is the E. K. Fernstroem Co. of Karlshamn, Sweden.

One Survived Napalm Attack

CAIRO (Reuters)—A badly-burned Egyptian officer told reporters in a hospital here Saturday that he was the sole survivor of two infantry companies totaling 180 men after an Israeli napalm attack in the Sinai Desert.

Lieut. Shoukry Hanna, one of 200 men wounded in the Sinai who were shown to correspondents at Hemlieh Military HHospital here, said the two companies were killed on the first day of the war.

"In the morning, a single Israeli plane flew over and photographed our position," said Hanna, who was severely burned on head, chest, hands and feet "Five minutes later another plane came and dropped two napalm bombs.

"Two companies were wiped out except for myself and one other soldier who was terribly burned and died later at Suez."

Hanna said he was found in the desert by a Bedouin, who put him on his camel and hid him under a sack. But Israeli planes strafed them and killed the camel.

Col. Kamal el Rouby of an armored regiment, whose face was a charred mask, said that on June 6 he was sitting on a tank just east of the Suez Canal when he spotted Israeli planes diving.

He opened fire with a machine-gun but four bombs were dropped and the whole area was drenched in flaming napalm, he said.

Russia To Give Arabs Compensation

KUWAIT (Reuters) — An Arab foreign ministers conference was told Sunday the Soviet Union promised to compensate Arab nations for munitions lost in the Arab-Israeli war.

Algerian Foreign Minister Abdel-Aziz Bouteflika said the promise was made to Algerian Premier Houari Boumedienne when he visited Moscow after the war ended.

The official Algerian news agency reported in Algiers that Bouteflika told delegates of 13 Arab countries at the final session of their two-day conference that he and Boumedienne found a "firm commitment" in Moscow to help "in wiping out the traces of aggression."

Boat Debris Found, Man Sought

VANCOUVER (CP) — Debris and oil slick from the 35-foot fishboat Spray I were found off the north coast of B.C, Sunday about 35 miles south of Prince Rupert, a search and rescue official said.

The spokesman said the only person aboard the vessel was believed to be owner-operator Peter Jackson of Bella Bella, about 300 miles northwest of Vancouver.

The debris and oil slick was found by the federal fisheries vessel Laurier. An RCMP vessel from Nanaimo and the coast guard cutter Racer were dispatched to join the Laurier in a search for the missing man.

Bishop Faced Heresy Charges

MONTREAL (CP) — Bishop James Pike, who last year quit his post as Episcopalian bishop of San Francisco, said here Sunday his stand on racial issues led to charges of heresy from leaders of his own church.

The author of several books on legal and religious issues said charges of heresy voiced against him by southern bishops in the U.S. arose mainly from his refusal of an honorary degree from an all-white university, or what he termed "an honorary degree in white divinity."

Red China Bomb Seen as Complication

MOSCOW (Reuters) — The Kremlin was believed to view China's hydrogen bomb as an unwelcome complication at a time when Russia was concentrating on attacking the United States as an "accomplice of Israeli aggression," observers said Sunday night.

The news of the explosion of Communist China's first hydrogen bomb was reported Saturday by the official Soviet news agency Tass in a brief sentence without comment.

But it was believed that Soviet leaders would see the Chinese bomb as both a military threat from an apparently unstable China and a political threat to its influence in the developing countries.

Some observers here said it could have the effect of softening Soviet attacks on the U.S. for its role in the Middle East crisis. But others cautioned that Russia might take an even harder line on the Middle East to counter the boost in China's prestige among the uncommitted nations.

U.S. Says May Have Hit Russ Ship

WASHINGTON (AP) — The U.S. defence department conceded Sunday U.S. planes may have struck a Soviet ship with cannon fire aimed at a North Vietnamese anti - aircraft battery June 2.

The statement came 16 days after the Soviets said the 3,358-ton diesel ship Turkestan had been hit at the North Vietnamese port of Cam Pha.

It said a report from Gen. John D. Ryan of the U.S. Air Force disclosed new information which indicated the Turkistan was hit by cannon fire from U.S. F-105 jets.

Russ Missiles Captured, Draw Interest

TEL AVIV (AP)—The Israeli Army Sunday took the wraps off a surface-to-air missiles——along with other Soviet equipment captured intact from Egyptian and Syrian forces in the Middle East war.

The equipment was displayed at an army camp near Tel Aviv, and a Russian-speaking Israeli intelligence officer provided detailed explanations.

The Israelis believe most of the Soviet hardware is being shown intact to the West for the first time and Western military attaches have requested to see the exhibits, and will probably do so shortly, an officer said.

The SAM missiles, nine of which were reported to have been captured by Israel near the Suez Canal, are two-stage, radar-guided weapons with a 25-mile range. A fuse explodes the warhead near its target.

Brutus Lives Up To Name

MONTREAL (CP) — A pink-faced monkey named Brutus nearly chewed off the left leg of one of his four wives in the Happy Family cage at the World's fair.

Guy Loranger, manager of Man the Explorer pavilion, said Sunday he could not explain the unexpected and brutal attack on Expo Express, the 22 - pound wife of Brutus, who suffered a 12-inch gash near the groin.

The 50-pound Brutus sank his teeth right up to the bone, said Mr. Loranger, adding that when attempts to stop the bleeding had failed a veterinary was called.

The veterinary decided that Expo Express had to be taken immediately to hospital because she was in danger of losing her leg.

She was taken to the Van Horne Veterinary hospital where the monkey was anaesthetized and had the gash stitched up before being returned to Expo and placed in a special cage for her recovery.

The incident occurred in the Man and Life section of the pavilion where 22 stub - tailed Macaque monkeys from the London Zoo are on exhibit in three cages.

The purpose of the exhibit is to show how animals, and man, react under different conditions.

One cage, the Happy Family exhibit where Brutus lost his temper, is aimed at providing ideal and comfortable surroundings. The reaction of Brutus under these conditions is what is puzzling those connected with the exhibit.

A second cage separates the monkeys from their mates and families and provides a study of the monkeys under a somewhat lonely environment while the third cage keeps the monkeys in the dark to show their reactions under these conditions.

Mr. Loranger said this was the first time since the opening of the fair that Brutus had displayed his temper although he occasionally took a bite at one of his wives—but nothing like the assault on Expo Express.

Kosygin Goes Sight-Seeing

NEW YORK (AP) — Soviet Premier Alexei N. Kosygin, with a day to himself before resumption of the UN debate on the Middle East crisis, did Sunday what all tourists do on a first trip to New York—wandered around and looked at the sights.

Kosygin did most of his wandering well insulated in a limousine, surrounded by police security guards. But twice he got out to walk, once through the heart of the Fifth Avenue department store district and again on highly-capitalistic Wall Street.

The Soviet Premier was accompanied by his daughter, Ludmila Alexyevna Gvishiani, Anatoly F. Dobrynin, Soviet ambassador to the United States, and Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei A. Gromyko.

Although reporters were kept at least 50 feet from the party at all times, they saw a highly animated conversation between Dobrynin and Kosygin as the ambassador pointed out some of Fifth Avenue's fine stores and the Empire State Building.

MET TOURISTS

He was driven to Wall Street where he alighted again and met a group of California tourists doing exactly what the Soviet leader was doing. He exchanged brief pleasantries with the startled tourists then got back into his limousine.

Kosygin saw the city's best and its worst.

Among the sights shown Kosygin were Chinatown, Greenwich Village, City Hall, the Brooklyn Bridge, Trinity Church, the New York Stock Exchange, Harlem, Central Park, Times Square, Radio City, the Waldorf Astoria Hotel,, Grand Central Station, and the Bowery.

The tour took just over 2½ hours.

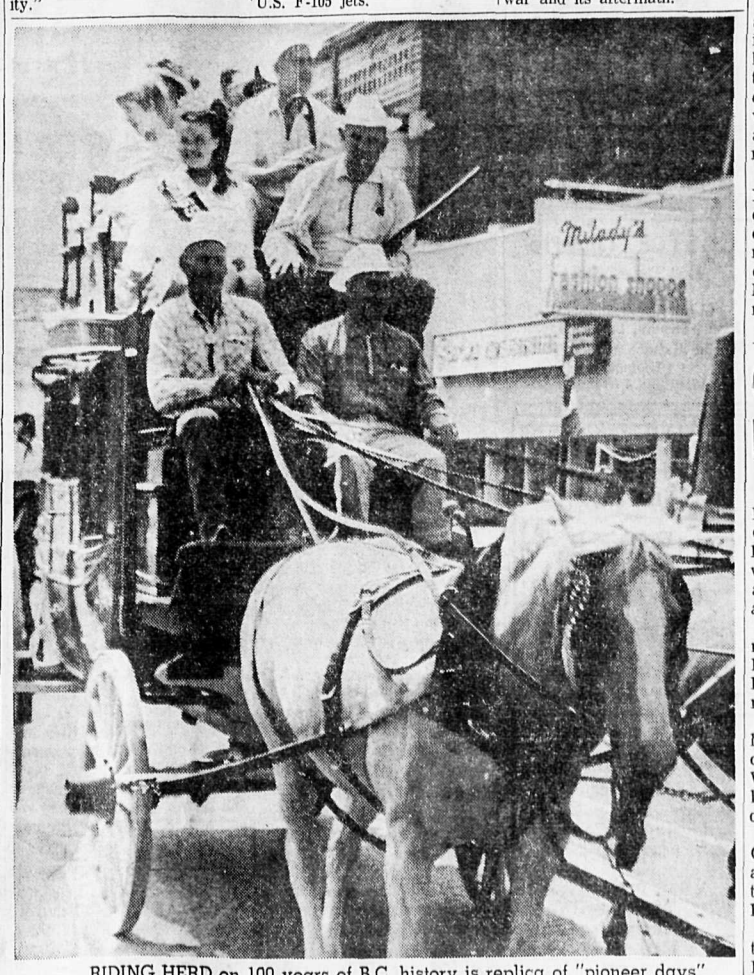
Traffic and pedestrians were scarce during the trip around Manhattan and there were no serious incidents.

In the Bowery, one of the human derelicts that have made the street famous approached Kosygin's limousine. He apparently intended to offer to wipe off the windshield for a handout —a means of support often used there—but police waved him off.

He left disgruntled, but made no trouble.

Kosygin summed up the trip through an interpreter with one word:

"Wonderful."



RIDING HERD on 100 years of B.C. history is replica of "pioneer days" stagecoach here for a few sunny hours Saturday. Coach travelled here from Victoria in past month, will be at Fort Steele next Saturday for opening of historic site to public. Here coach is on Baker Street near start of parade which took it and accompanying vehicles, horsemen and square dance troup, through downtown and Fairview.

Martin Leaves For UN Session

OTTAWA (CP)—External Affairs Minister Martin reported to Prime Minister Pearson Sunday on his week-long trip to Luxembourg and Paris and planned to leave later in the day for the United Nations special Middle East session in New York today.

It was unlikely that Mr. Pearson would attend the session in its opening phases but would hold himself in readiness to go to New York later, if a heads-of - government meeting was warranted, Mr. Martin indicated after talking with the prime minister.

Mr. Martin returned from Paris late Saturday after bilateral talks with Maurice Couve de Murville, French foreign minister. Earlier, he met President de Gaulle and attended the NATO foreign ministers spring meeting in Luxembourg.

Sources said, the gist of Mr. Martin's conclusions on the prospect for the UN meeting is that debate should be extensive, with every effort made by the smaller powers such as Canada to prevent the big powers from taking a hard line on the Israeli-Arab dispute.

Following his luncheon meeting with de Murville Saturday, Mr. Martin told reporters the General Assembly has the opportunity now to try to settle the Israeli-Arab crisis on a lasting basis.

On Two-Month Horseback Tour

EUREKA, Mont. (AP)—Mrs. Barbara Pavao and her 17-year-old son, Michael, have left Eureka for Alaska. The journey will take about two months along some unusual paths: They are going by horseback.

The pair will end their journey at Elmendorft Air Force Base in Alaska, where Mrs. Pavao's husband is a jet fuel maintenance man.

They are also carrying a letter from Governor Tim Babcock of Montana to Governor Walter J. Hickel of Alaska. The letter congratulates Gov. Hickel on the Alaskan Centennial.

The riders plan to travel to Golden, B.C., then hope to cut across wilderness area where there are no roads to Alemount, B.C.

Mrs. Pavao and Michael will then go to Prince George, Prince Rupert and then take the Alaska State Ferry to Juneau.

They expect to be in Fairbanks early in August.

The last lap of the trip will be by railroad or truck to Anchorage.

Israel Returns 19 Wounded

TEL AVIV (AP)—Israel returned 19 wounded Jordanian soldiers to their homeland Sunday. One of them left in tears after learning for the first time Israeli troops occupied Jordanian territory up to the River Jordan.

The prisoner had protested the fact that Israelis were sending him to Amman, the Jordanian capital, and not Jerusalem.

"Why am I not being driven through the Mandelbaum Gate?" he asked.

"But Jerusalem is in Israeli hands," an Israeli said.

"Isn't our army there?"

"No," he was told, the Israeli army was. Then he cried.

The 19 wounded Jordanians were flown home aboard a Red Cross plane. They were the first Jordanians to be repatriated by Israel since fighting.

Three planeloads of Egyptian wounded have already been repatriated by Israel under Red Cross supervision and more repatriations of Arab prisoners are expected.

LAKE LEVEL

The level of the lake rose sharply Sunday at Nelson and Queen's Bay. The level at Nelson, was 14.53 feet above zero, and 14.56 feet at Queen's Bay.

Centennial stagecoach is Fort Steele-bound.

Centennial Coach Brings Old Time Flavor to Nelson

By GLEN ALLEN
News Staff Writer

In this world of 1967 the mail goes by air, horses are animals that run around a racetrack, and the only high-button shoes you see are worn by lumberjacks.

But for a few sunny hours Saturday, the past, with horse-drawn stagecoach, high-button shoes and all, paid a call on Nelson.

Bearing the freight of a century, the Victoria-Fort Steel centennial coach, attended by square dancers, local horsemen, RCMP and the city's constabulary and fire personnel toured the downtown and Fairview areas.

The coach stopped first at City Hall where driver Alan Buckman presented scrolls recognizing the city as an official stop on the province-wide journey to Mayor Louis Maglio and Albert Maida, Centennial Committee chairman.

Sharing the coach's roof-top passenger accommodation for a parade down Vernon and back up Baker were the mayor (dressed in a stylish vintage waistcoat bought by his father in France) Mrs. Maglio, Chamber of Commerce president R. E. Nelson — riding shotgun — Miss Nelson, Karen Hegland, provincial agent George Brodie and 10-year-old Janet Jonker, many of them in "pioneer days" garb.

Also in the procession, which was led off with police and fire department vehicles, were 24 square dancers from Nelson and Castlegar — under caller J. M. McLuckie — and members of the Nelson Riding Club.

First class passengers, four of the city's pioneers, rode inside the coach for the first leg of the tour.

Two centenarians, William Hodge, and John Petras, were joined by Mrs. Hodge and former city alderman Ross Fleming.

Mr. Hodge told fellow passengers he hadn't had "so much fun in a long time." Mr. Petras' verdict — rather more restrained — "it felt like it had four flat tires.

If it doesn't have flat tires it's only because the coach has no tires at all.

Driver Alan Buckman said the coach left Victoria almost a month ago, on May 22nd, and has paid official calls on almost every community between there and here.

It is due in Fort Steele for the opening of the historic site next week. Mr. Buckman who is from Fort Steele himself will take visitors around the grounds on the coach, a replica of a mail coach once actually used in the province.

"We've had no trouble so far," he said Saturday. "She's not as new and shiny as she was of course.

He said his daughter, who with his wife had accompanied him and another Fort Steele driver on the trip "must be the only three-year-old in the province who has seen so much of it."

The coach and five horses, all belonging to Mr. Buckman, who himself rides ahead of the coach —are trucked from town to town by van.

Coach driver Alan Buckman gets centennial greeting through to Mayor Maglio.

"Mini Hurricane" Demolishes Hangar — Downs Trees

Rain and wind that ripped through the Nelson area late Saturday, demolished a hangar at the city's airstrip, played havoc with trees and flower gardens and caused minor power and telephone outages.

The roof was taken off a hangar belonging to Vern Nelson by winds estimated at 60 miles per hour in the thunderstorm, which lasted barely an hour.

Mr. Nelson's aircraft, parked inside the hangar, was not damaged.

The roof was found 600 feet towards the city, said police Sunday.

Tree branches littered city sidewalks and district highways this morning after the high northwest wind.

"It was like a mini hurricane," said a witness of the brief storm.

A tree fell on a power line on Taghum Hill causing an outage in the Salmo line, said a West Kootenay Power and Light spokesman.

Drive-in theatre patrons had their entertainment interrupted for about two minutes when North Shore power was temporarily cut off.

B.C. Telephone Co. reported only slight difficulties.

YAPS LACK POCKETS

Male and female inhabitants of South Pacific Yap island carry handbags—there are no pockets in loincloths and grass skirts.

The storm, confined mainly to the Nelson area followed a sultry hot Saturday afternoon.

Temperatures here reached 80 degrees with Grand Forks going over 90.

Castlegar airport, on the edge of Saturday's storm, recorded winds gusting to 40 miles per hour.

Driving rain accompanied the storm, which broke shortly after 10:30 p.m.

Mr. Koorbatoff Dies at 80

Mr. Alex A. Koorbatoff, long time resident of this district, died in Kootenay Lake General Hospital on Thursday, June 15. Born in Russia on June 28th, 1886, he came to Canada in 1898 and settled in Sask. He resided there until 1911 when he moved to Glade and later to Krestova. For the past five years he has made his home with his daughter at Taghum. Surviving in the family are three daughters, Mrs. N. (Molly) Saviskoff of Taghum, Mrs. S. (Ann) Tarasoff of Goose Creek, and Mrs. P. (Polly) Berisoff of Taghum. There are 13 grandchildren and seven great grandchildren. Also surviving are a sister, Mrs. Dora Kinnakin of Benito, Man., and two brothers Nick of Slocan Park and Andrew of Shore Acres.

EVADE CUSTOMS

ROME (Reuters) — Smuggling-prone Italians did the government out of 38,170,000 lire (about $60,000,000) last year, the house organ of the financial and customs police reported Saturday. The periodical listed big firms as the worst offenders and said they evaded 19,000,000,00 lire duty in imported goods.

Canadian Legion Holds Zone Meet

Sixty West Kootenay Royal Canadian Legion officers and their wives here for a conference over the weekend danced, banqueted and paraded— but above all they talked business.

The delegates, from all the larger West Kootenay communities, Grand Forks to Nakusp, dealt in committee and out — with pensions, veterans' affairs, sports programs and the recent provincial conference in the Okanagan.

"It was mostly routine internal business," said Zone Chairman Arol Weir, of Nelson.

Mr. Weir said "there may be some announcements "about the Legion sports program in the near future.

Guest of honor at the two-day meeting, held at branch No. 51 here, was Pacific Command president Dave Hunter.

Other guests of honor included Zone Commander Hugh McCutcheon and Mayor and Mrs. Maglio, who attended Saturday's banquet.

Nelson branch president E. W. White unfortunately fell ill Saturday night. He is reported in "fine" condition at Kootenay Lake General Hospital.

A laying - on - of - the - wreath ceremony at the Nelson cenotaph was held at 12:30 p.m. Sunday.

Legion members and delegates were joined by representatives of the RCMP in scarlet uniforms, the Kootenay Kilties Pipe Band of Nelson, and army, air force and sea cadets.

Parade marshal was Gordon Olson.

Next Legion West Kootenay zone conference will be held at Rossland in the fall.

Just Like Europe

TORONTO (CP) — Thousands of irate fans stormed over the playing field at Varsity Stadium Sunday to protest a referee's decision and halt a United Soccer Association game between Toronto City and Chicago Mustangs with eight minutes left to play.

Toronto City, leading 2-1 when the game was called, was awarded the victory.

It was the second time in three days the Chicago team was involved in a match which had to be halted. Friday night, fans rushed on to the field at New York with three minutes left in a game between Chicago and New York and the match had to be called.

Kootenay Pioneer Dies Aged 84

A pioneer of the Kootenays, Mrs. Petra Margaret Nelson, died aged 84 years in Willowhaven Private Hospital Sunday.

Born in Oslo, Norway, Mrs. Nelson came to this area in the early 1900's, settling first at Crawford Bay where she lived until 1950, then at Castlegar and Trail.

She has been a resident of Willowhaven Private Hospital for the past two and one-half years.

Mrs. Nelson was first married to Christian Jacobson who died in 1917. Her second husband, Alfred Nelson, died in 1950.

Mrs. Nelson was a life member of the Crawford Bay Women's Institute.

She is survived by three sons, Walter Jacobson of Kinnaird, Rolf Jacobson of Trail and Victor Jacobson of Courtenay; and five daughter, Mrs. J. Ink of Trail; Mrs. H. Stirzaker of Port Alberni, Mrs. C. S. Stephenson of Spokane, Mrs. M. Woodward of Chilliwack and Mrs. M. Bolton of Simmie, Sask.; 13 grandchildren and 13 great grandchildren.

Funeral services will be held 2 p.m. Wednesday at the chapel of the Trail Funeral Home.

Burial will be at Mountain View Cemetery, Trail.

Top Award Presented to Pair

Top achievement award, the McDonald Scholarship was presented to Terry Evans and Lee Humble when Trafalgar Junior-Secondary School held its annual awards day Friday. The scholarship was presented by Mrs. L. G. Catley.

The top citizenship award was won by Margo Lupien. Mrs. B. Clarkson, a former recipient of the Cornish Memorial Award, made the presentation.

The Elva Kettlewell Memorial Award, presented by Beta Sigma Phi Sorority to the outstanding student of the occupational program, was received by Fisher Crockett for the second year. Miss Eileen Mackenzie presented the award.

Principal B. B. Crawford presented certificates to the students graduating from the occupation course, Dave Percival, Fisher Crockett, Josephine Bandy, Jim McDonald, Rick Leverington, Ken Moore, Keith Morris, Ralph Maddison, Andy Sinclair, Heather McDonald, John Curran and Susan McIlroy.

Mr. Crawford also presented the driver training certificates to Lyle Bouness, Roy Johnson, Ken Couston, Mike Keegan, Andy Sinclair, Bill Latta, Wayne Proctor, Walter Popoff, Gary Jansens, Melton Low, Terry Evans, Fred Richley and Don Markin.

Sports awards were made by physical education instructors, R. N. Bradshaw, Mrs. G. Malcolm, Miss Frances Meikle and R. F. Eddy. Rep teams in soccer, basketball, volleyball, track and wrestling were given awards and team captains, referees and house secretaries were honored.

Miss Emily Hamson gave awards for typing proficiency to Judy Paul, Lena Gevatkow, Janet Fleming, Jackie Hammett, Barbara Baby, Ken Sookero, Allen Mar and Brian Matheson.

Mrs. C. E. Bradshaw presented her personal award to Georgina Gimpel for showing most improvement in the art of sewing. She also presented, on behalf of Mrs. B. Ryley, the home economics proficiency award in cooking to Sandra Arcuri.

Mrs. J. A. McDonald, home economics teacher, presented cook books to George Ronmark as best boy cook and to Loretta Wolkin as the most improved cook and to Teresa Horner for making the best dress.

Student council president, Margo Lupien, presented the champion chess players, Alfred Him and Deitre Offerman with prizes.

The Enid Etter Memorial Art Award was presented by Miss Eileen Mackenzie on behalf of the Beta Sigma Phi Sorority to Gerry Allard.

Girl Guide awards were presented by Mrs. Hector Mackenzie on behalf of the IODE to Cynthia Toews of West Nelson group and to Janet Fleming of the East Nelson Group. The award was for citizenship.

Runners up were Sheila Heighton and Joanne McInnis, who were presented with prizes by Guide Commissioner, Mrs. B. Thorshaug and Mrs. T. E. Cartlidge.

G. A. Walmsley presented the citizenship awards. Anne Massey and Bernard Crockett won the awards for Grade 7; Grade 8 awards went to Charlynne Frocklage, Barbara Dolman, Rosemary Maglio, Roxanna Dodman, Andrew Petter, Jerry Burdenie, Galin Forsyth and Lyle Reid.

Winners of citizenship awards for Grade 9 were Sherry Martin, Marnie Curran, Gail Johnson, Janet Fleming, Melton Low, Bill Steed, Dale Holmes and Paul Fazzino.

Kathy Stainton, Heather Denny, Pat Gelinas, Gerald Crickett and Lee Humble were awarded small blocks, while Terry Evans, Dale Parker, Don Markin, Ian Galbraith and Roy Johnson received big blocks.

Heather Denny and Brian Haigh received their three-year awards for attendance. Two year attendance awards went to Linda Day, Wendy Price, Larry Ivan, John Marion, Ron Cutler, Lee Humble, Nick Antifaeff, Alfred Him, Eric Kettleson, Dale Holmes and Jim Walgren.

Receiving one-year awards were Sheila Guenter, Melton Low, Martin Meyer and Michael Selsing.

SALMO ELEMENTARY STUDENTS HOLD ANNUAL SPORTS DAY

Many Events

TOOK PORTHOLE PLUNGE

KIEL, West Germany (Reuters)—An East German fishing boat Sunday reported plucking out of the Baltic a man in his pyjamas who said he had dreamed his ship was sinking and jumped out of a porthole. The unidentified man said he floated in the water for 45 minutes after jumping out of the West German ship on which he was a passenger.

Crestbrook Forest Products Win Approval For Using 545 Acres

The Regional District of East Kootenay has been advised that Crestbrook Forest Products Ltd. has been granted the use of 545 acres of crown land adjoining its own 480 acres.

This information, from provincial lands superintendent D. Borthwick, followed an RDEK query on a report that Crestbrook was seeking 1,635 acres of crown land.

The District had advised the Land Department that it opposed granting such a large parcel of land unless it was to be properly used by the forest products firm.

However, at the regular meeting recently in Cranbrook, the RDEK was advised that the application was for the smaller parcel and the lands department had approved the application. The balance of the area under question, Mr. Borthwick pointed out, is crown land and is "reserved from alienation."

In other business, the RDEK approved May 1-19 cheque register total of $5,542.66.

Approval was also given for chairman Henry Nelson of Galloway and directors Vern Uphill of Fernie and A. W. Rosicky of Wardner to attend a special meeting on the Libby Dam at Libby, Mont., June 15. Administrator Frank Bertoia and Planner Alfred Miller also to attend.

The meeting included forestry personnel from the U.S. and Canada, the U.S. Army Corps of Engineers and planners involved in the Columbia Treaty dam project.

The dam will create a reservoir which will back the Kootenay River up 42 miles past the border.

Some directors also indicated they were considering attending as "observing delegates," the annual convention of the Union of B.C. Municipalities at Prince George Sept. 20-22.

Mr. Bertoia was complimented by Director Orlando Ungaro of Sparwood for being named to a discussion panel at the June 9-10 local government seminar at Nelson, being sponsored by the Association of Kootenay-Boundary Municipalities.

Two highlight subjects of the seminar were capital budgeting and public relations.

Nakusp . . . Playground Fully Equipped

NAKUSP (Staff) — Nakusp has recently received additional playground equipment worth $267.86, it was announced at a recent Rotary meeting here.

A work bee was held last Tuesday night to pour cement to install this equipment in time for Dominion Day.

A Rotary committee was appointed to study a map of the village to determine if the town was progressing or standing still.

If there is no progress in a given time the federal government will assist.

Rotary Club Concessions

NAKUSP (Staff) — Nakusp Rotary Club will operate one of the concessions for the Recreation Commission on Dominion Day.

Members announced recently that they would take shifts in operating the concession.

Natal . . . Joint Board Meeting Termed Big Success

NATAL — Formation of a joint committee of members of Michel and Fernie Hospital Boards recently was described as a step in the right direction by Sparwood Reeve, Orlando Ungaro, at a recent meeting of council.

It was decided to set up the committee, composed of three members selected by each board, following a meeting of the two boards in Fernie. Appointed by Michel Hospital Board are Charlie Haigh, John (Jock) Myles and John Thomson, a member of Sparwood council.

Fernie hospital board will appoint its three delegates following an election of trustees, after which the new board will name its appointees.

The actions of the joint committee are subject to approval of both boards it was stressed, but the recent joint meeting was described as a great success.

Said Reeve Ungaro, "With the setting up of this committee, I think that most of our problems can be eradicated. Our problem is construction of a new hospital."

"I hope that formation of the committee will accomplish a great deal," said the reeve.

He said that the committee should be thinking of the improvement of service to a larger occupation area and that it will be the job of the committee to work together to achieve an end satisfactory to the areas served by the two boards.

Reeve Ungaro also discussed the recent legislation aimed at having hospitals in the province administered in all cases by a regional hospital board. He pointed out that areas such as Fernie, and Michel must have their hospital plans voted upon by Cranbrook - Kimberley, which having a larger population, can outweigh the views of the smaller area.

He also mentioned the fact that Cranbrook and Kimberley hospitals have large debts which areas such as Fernie - Sparwood will have to share, while the Fernie and Michel Hospitals are relatively debt free. This area would be better off, he said, if the hospitals were not as well off. The larger area would have to share their losses.

New Denver . . . Heavy Agenda Met By Village Council

NEW DENVER — The New Denver Village Council met recently with all the commissioners present except Commissioner J. Huntley who is a patient in the Slocan Community Hospital.

Mr. T. Bohan, chairman of the New Denver Centennial Committee met with the council to discuss the centennial project, which is that of cementing of the skating rink floor.

It was reported that one hundred steel posts had been ordered to repair the cemetery fence. Cement has been ordered and the sidewalk program is underway.

Commissioner S. Mori reported for the A.K.&B. meeting held in Kaslo.

A donation of $300 will be made to the local fire department. Village clerk, Mrs. G. Rowe, will be away on holidays between July 17 and July 28 and the Village Office will be closed during those two weeks.

A new flag has been ordered for the Centennial Park.

Building permits were approved to the following: F. Bone to build an addition to his home; J. C. Stewart to cement porch; W. G. Woodward to build a new home.

It was also reported that 700 bags of cement had been ordered between the Village and the Centennial Committee. Payment of accounts totalling $4,153.05 was approved.

New Denver . . . Mexico Bound; Students To Aid

NEW DENVER — Miss Mary P. Forsythe, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Q. A. Forsythe of New Denver, left recently for Vancouver. Mary is one of 10 students selected from U.B.C. to participate in the summer project run by the Conference of Inter-American Students (CIAS).

U.B.C. group which leaves Vancouver shortly, will work in the towns and villages of Oaxaca province in southwest Mexico, to promote the social and economic welfare of the community in which they will live.

Projects include the teaching of English, arts and crafts, working with health and welfare services and community centres.

The group has taken an intensive training program which gives them everything from a cram course in Spanish to a wide knowledge of the history, culture and customs of Mexico.

Students will board with local families and in the two months they spend in the village, will attempt to become part of the community.

At the same time, the project will give them an opportunity to enrich themselves by sharing in a new culture, a new way of life, and perhaps expand their social consciousness.

Students pay $116 to cover the cost of their transportation by bus to Mexico, orientation sessions in Mexico City, health insurance, and part of the expenses of their project.

The main cost of the trip and project is covered by various donations, and the Vancouver foundation.

U.B.C. group leader, Harold Armstrong, a law student, said they were not going to Mexico with the idea of changing the country overnight, but they could realistically hope to act as a catalyst; encouraging the efforts by local individuals to work together in solving their particular problems.

Regional Interests Should Be Served

Regional interests must be served if the Regional District of East Kootenay is to be part of the Association of Kootenay-Boundary Municipalities.

This was the message given directors, recently by Vince Downey who attended the recent annual AKBM convention at Kaslo and who was elected a director of that group.

Mr. Downey said two resolutions which had significance to the district were turned down by the convention.

A request that snow-plowing of private roads close to municipalities be resumed by the Department of Highways "did not get much sympathy."

It was felt that the AKBM did not want to deal with problems affecting areas outside of organized boundaries.

Another resolution rejected was for a special emergency fund which could be drawn upon, for example, in such disasters as the recent Natal mine explosion.

Director Downey, who represents Cranbrook extra-municipal area on the RDEK board, paid high tribute to Kaslo.

"I don't think you can beat a small town to put on something like this," he said. "Everyone seemed so tickled to do one part of the work.

"The whole deal was very well organized."

Mr. Downey also paid tribute to the fine job done by the AKBM sessions chairman, Vern Uphill, mayor of Fernie and Fernie director on the Regional District Board.

Nakusp . . . Tourist Booth Plans Adopted by Chamber

NAKUSP (Staff) — At a recent meeting of the Chamber of Commerce here recently it was announced that a Tourist Information Booth with attendant would open June 15.

Several sites are being considered for the location including the Centennial building.

Chairman Dan Santano told the membership that the Chamber is responsible for the marshaling of the July 1 parade and asked for volunteers.

He stated that the Chamber had been asked to invite outside quens and floats to the gala celebrations and that letters had been written to outside villages and centres asking participation in the event.

A letter from the department of recreation and conservation outlined the existing park reserves on the lakes before and after the flooding.

A committee will study maps showing the reserves and bring recommendations for adequate replacement of valuable flooded reserves.

Nakusp . . . Kinnettes Raise Money

NAKUSP (Staff) — The Nakusp Kinnette Club was noted recently as the B.C. club raising the most money for the National Kinsmen project.

The award was presented to the Nakusp club at the annual Kinsmen Convention held in North Vancouver.

The 50th anniversary project of the Kinsmen is a training centre to work with retarded children.

Grand Forks . . . Retarded Youth Focal Point

GRAND FORKS (Staff) — A film on the day in the life of retarded children was shown at an open house for the School of Retarded Children, here recently.

Teacher of the children, Mrs. Leander gave a short talk before the film which was made by Wally Forster.

The retiring president Mr. Glenn Betts, was given a vote of thanks.

Teenage Marriages

According to the Dominion Bureau of Statistics, 14 per cent of all grooms and 43.4 per cent of all brides who were married in 1964 were minors. That is the latest report from the bureau — statistics for 1965 and 1966 would undoubtedly show an increase in the number of minors taking on the awesome responsibility of marriage.

Thirty years ago, the average age for marriage was close to 30 for a man, and near 24 for a woman. Few minors got married. The principle reason was that the groom, the breadwinner, couldn't earn enough to support a wife.

Since the war, affluence has hit all but the most unfortunate. Two-car garages are commonplace. So are backyard swimming pools, even in northern climates. And if the husband doesn't earn enough to give the family the standard of living it wants, the wife goes to work.

All of this has made it inevitable that more young folk could afford to get married. Even more important, permissiveness has so shortened the childhood years and the dependence on parents that many boys and girls are "adults" at 16.

What's more, marriage provides an escape from the parental hearth and from boredom. It is a lure to many teenagers who want to be "with it", to move with the tide.

It is a pity that this should be so. Most marriage counsellors report that youthful marriages break up far more often than alliances made by more mature people. A teenage bride is often disappointed because her husband can't provide her with the nice things she had at home. A baby arrives and she feels tied down.

The teenage groom is less likely to survive the early years of marriage. Restlessness gets to him. He isn't ready for responsibility. He hasn't "really lived". And, as is well known, the male matures later than the female. Many men are always children — the majority of them until they reach 20 or 21. Marriage at 18, 19 or 20 can be a shattering experience.

As the report says that the average age of brides and grooms has declined steadily for the past 15 years, we can expect that at least 50 per cent of brides and 25 per cent of grooms will be under 21 by 1980. What this will mean to divorce figures, we can only hazard a guess. At the moment, however, it would seem to spell disaster.

There seems no solution to the teenage marriage rate and the thousands of heartbreaking divorces that result from it. As long as our society continues to be affluent, as long as parents and society as a whole remain permissive, and until such time as sex no longer dominates all media of expression, more and more teenagers will get married. And why not? What's to stop them? — Hamilton Spectator.

Don't Forget the Mosquito Spray

Promoting June as picnic month, the Ottawa city Centennial Committee has issued a pamphlet of instructions on how to make picnics successful.

Unnecessary? Not at all. In an age when urban children have to make special journeys to see a cow, the pamphlet may prove a godsend to urbanized parents, inexperienced in the perils of the countryside.

It wisely advises organizers to keep the kids busy in games, presumably to wear the little monsters out. It gives tips on essentials such as ensuring a supply of drinking water, toilet facilities, shade trees and shelter in case of rain.

But best of all, the instructions urge picnic parties to clean up after the feast and leave the place in condition for others to enjoy. If the Ottawa pamphlet encourages urbanites not to leave the countryside looking like a city dump, it could be the hit project of the whole century.

—Financial Post.

Belling the Cat

In the past eight years the U.S. population has grown 10 per cent, federal spending has increased 83 per cent, non-defense spending has increased 97 per cent and a cumulative federal deficit of $50 billion has been recorded.

These statistics have been given by Rep. Wendell Wyatt, R-Ore., in warning that the national budget, which has more than doubled from $76.5 billion in 1960, may double again — to $300 billion — for the year 1980.

Rep. Wyatt finds most disturbing that federal domestic spending has soared faster than war costs. He attributes this largely to the waste and extravagance of "crash" programs such as that for space and the "war on poverty."

How to slow down federal spending: "We must proceed to solve the problems of this country within our financial means in an orderly and financially responsible manner," Rep. Wyatt said in a House speech, "through education, training, research and cooperative development of men and resources with states, local government and private industry."

OK. So who puts the bell on the cat? The only brake on executive department budgeting is that which can be applied in Congress. But Congress has eagerly joined in "crash" programs as well as many less spectacular spending sprees. We wish Rep. Wyatt luck. If he stays in the House he will be in line for the Appropriations Committee where persistence in this field may pay off.

ARABS' ECONOMIES ON BRINK

By DAVID LANCASHIRE

BEIRUT, Lebanon (AP) — Egypt, Jordan and Syria emerged from the war with Israel with their economies on the edge of ruin.

Already dependent on outside aid to feed Egypt, President Gamal Abdel Nasser has now temporarily lost the income from the Suez Canal, Egypt's second largest source of revenue next to cotton.

Nasser closed the canal during the fighting and Egypt says the vital waterway is blocked by sunken ships which will take some time to raise. Estimates of how long the canal will be closed range from two months to a year. Suez was to have pumped $230,000,000 into the Egyptian treasury this year.

The press has been telling Egyptians they must tighten their belts.

The Soviet-built war machine, for which Nasser mortgaged Egypt's economy, is now a scattering of wreckage in the Sinai Desert.

Even before the Middle East crisis, Cairo's ramshackle economy was so hard pressed that Egypt was selling its gold reserves.

OWES MUCH MONEY

Nasser's threat last March that Egypt would refuse to pay back many of its international loans may make new loans difficult to obtain. Egypt now owes about $4,300,000,000 in the East and West.

The United States had provided most of the 200,000 tons of wheat Egypt needs from abroad each month but these shipments ended in mid-1966 when Cairo - Washington relations soured.

Egypt found other wheat, but on much stiffer terms than the 20-year repayments asked by Washington. Canada, France, Spain and the Soviet Union sold wheat, but all are reported to have insisted on hard cash, to be paid within a few years. Where Egypt will get the money is a mystery.

Jordan lost its only significant source of income to the Israeli advance—the money spent by some 2,000 tourists a day who come to visit the Holy Land.

Jerusalem and Bethlehem, the two main tourist attractions, now are in Israeli hands. Few visitors are likely to go to Jordan to see what little else the desert kingdom has to offer.

Aside from small phosphate exports, Jordan's only other major sources of revenue are a small British subsidy and U.S. military and civilian aid.

Jordan, the only country in the world except South Vietnam to get direct budget support from Washington, is due for $27,000,000 in American aid this year. In view of the war, it may be difficult to get another budget appropriation through the U.S. Congress.

Syria's Socialist economy was feeble before the war, with 66 per cent of its budget going to the Soviet - equipped armed forces and security units.

Syria took less of a beating than Egypt or Jordan and managed to salvage much of its military material. But political unrest may develop in Damascus to slow up what few development schemes are now under way in the country.

Iraq has cut off oil exports to the West which provide almost 90 per cent of the government's foreign exchange earnings—slightly more than $2,000,000 a day.

Iraq's economy has been staggering for years. Five years of sporadic war against Kurdish tribes in the northern mountains have helped drain the treasury. A prolonged halt in oil exports would have drastic results.

Libya also depends almost solely on oil exports, now halted.

Only Saudi Arabia, the world's third largest producer, and Kuwait, which floats on a fortune of oil yielding more than $400,000,000 a year, could long survive the halt in the oil flow. Neither is believed likely to maintain the cutoff for long.

Lebanon, the financial and resort centre of the Middle East, has felt the pinch severely. Its luxury hotels are empty and this year's tourist season is spoiled. To protect the Beirut banking complex, bank withdrawals have been restricted.

NEW EGYPTIAN PRESIDENT?

CAIRO (CP) — Zakaria Mohieddin, the man who may emerge as new Egyptian president, is an orthodox socialist who has often intervened for Western powers against the excesses of Gamal Abdel Nasser's policies.

The 52 - year - old Mohieddin was named by Nasser as his successor when Nasser announced his resignation as Egyptian president. Nasser later indicated he is reconsidering his decision.

Mohieddin was one of the "young officers" in Egypt's 1952 revolution that overthrew King Farouk and helped bring Nasser to power.

In recent years he has become identified with a group that viewed with distaste the attempts of their leader to place Egypt at the centre of a ramshackle pan-Arab coalition.

Their aim has been to lead Egypt back to the more fundamental paths of nationalism and socialism — setting aside false pretensions, as they saw it, of Egyptian grandeur.

COULD AID PEACE

For the West an Egypt headed by Mohieddin could bring an Arab-Israeli peace settlement closer to reality, ending one of the world's most dangerous flash points.

Mohieddin comes from a wealthy family and has been one of Nasser's closest friends since they fought together in the 1948 Palestine war.

The new president's suave, cultured manner conceals a tough personality which he showed shortly after the overthrow of Farouk when he succeeded Nasser as interior minister.

During Nasser's years in power, Mohieddin kept well in the background. In 1965, he became premier but was replaced the next year by Mohammed Sidky Soliman.

Mohieddin then became a vice-president and seven days ago led a mission to Algiers to brief Algerian leaders on Egypt's attitude towards the Middle East crisis.

Although he comes from a wealthy family, Mohieddin has always sympathized with the underprivileged in Egypt and surrendered a large amount of his land when agrarian reforms were introduced.

He is an infantry officer, passing through staff college in 1948, and served in the Palestine war of that year. He speaks English and has travelled widely, including visits to the United Nations, the Soviet Union and Yugoslavia.

In October, 1965, he was appointed premier and minister of the interior.

He is known for his realism, pragmatic approach, and discipline for hard work.

An Arab-Israeli peace would form the centre of an over-all Middle East settlement in which Russia, working together with the other big powers, could participate.

At first glance, Mohieddin looks like a man who, if he has not made too many enemies might fill the bill.

NIBMAR TO DIE

By JOSEPH MacSWEEN
Canadian Press Staff Writer

Prime Minister Wilson has, in his own nimble way, indicated that the unhappy political animal Nibmar, born of the Rhodesian affair, may not live to an old age.

Wilson's words on Nibmar—No Independence Before Majority Rule—could be the most important part of his announcement that a new emissary, Lord Alport, will go to Rhodesia in a few days.

Wilson's carefully - worded comments on Nibmar came in answer to Commons questions. There significance can be gauged by the way Reginald Maudling, former Tory Commonwealth secretary, and Jo Grimond, former Liberal leader, pursued the matter.

The Nibmar pledge was wrung from Wilson at last September's conference of Commonwealth prime ministers and gained him yet more time for another "final showdown" with rebel Premier Ian Smith.

SENT TO UN

After the Rhodesian cabinet rejected the now-famed "Tiger constitution" proffered to Smith by Wilson last December on a ship in the Mediterranean, the British premier sent the issue to the United Nations with the assurance that Rhodesia would not get independence before majority rule. This was a far harsher condition than hitherto imposed.

But Wilson now has indicated that Nibmar can change, as so many other things have changed in the 19 months since Rhodesia seized illegal independence.

Moreover, Wilson assured Maudling there was nothing new in the idea—which did not seem to convince the Tory frontbencher, who has been following the Rhodesian situation closely.

Wilson seemed to be saying that the pledge was binding under circumstances as they existed last year and exist now, but Britain might be able to release itself for more flexible action under other circumstances.

WOULD HOLD TALKS

He said: ". . . If there were a substantial change in circumstances, we should be prepared to discuss the situation which arose with the rest of the Commonwealth, but there would have to be a substantial and guaranteed change in circumstances."

However slight a change of policy this may mean, it is one of the few things that indicate any possibility of success for the Alport mission.

The general political feeling in Salisbury is that unless Nibmar is abandoned no real talks on independence could ever be resumed.

STATUS QUO FLOUTED

By KEN CLARK

OTTAWA (CP)—Since Confederation, Parliament has offered a haven for the politician who flouts the status quo. And the House of Commons has been livelier for it.

But dissent has its price. In the 100 years since Canada's birth as a nation, the offbeat MP has frequently paid it.

He was less likely to receive Establishment rewards such as cabinet posts. He therefore tended to remain outside the inner circles of federal power.

But from that vantage point, he could embarrass his colleagues in many ways. He could buck the party line, criticize the party leader or change sides in a huff in a crisis.

And there was always the satisfyingly dramatic move of resigning on principle. For those with a touch of the maverick, the stand on principle was a common thread to their existence.

One of the first MPs to weave his own parliamentary pattern was Henri Bourassa, the French-Canadian nationalist who founded the Montreal newspaper, Le Devoir.

RESIGNED SEAT

For him, dissent was a family tradition. His mother was a daughter of Louis Papineau, the fiery Quebec patriot who led an armed revolt against British rule and was later given an amnesty.

Born the year after Confederation, Mr. Bourassa resigned his parliamentary seat of Labelle in 1899 on a constitutional point arising from Canadian participation in the Boer War.

He got it back later, resigned again to enter Quebec provincial politics, but took it back again later. All the while he was Quebec's leading nationalist figure, a crusading pamphleteer and author.

Mr. Bourassa, a distinguished orator, finally lost Labelle in the 1935 election and died at 84 in 1952 in his native Montreal. He never made it into a Liberal cabinet.

Overlapping the Bourassa career was that of Jean-Francois Pouliot, now a 77-year-old senator, who also had a reputation to live up to. His great-grandfather, Louis Bertrand, voted against Confederation as a member of the Quebec legislature.

Small, round and peppery, lawyer Pouliot spent 31 years in the Commons, winning first in 1924 in the Quebec riding of Temiscouata.

ATTACKED OWN LEADER

His Liberal affilation did not prevent him from criticizing party policy or its leader, Mackenzie King. He delivered one such attack on Mr. King's last day in the Commons before retirement when others were paying tribute to the former prime minister.

In 1944, he crossed the Commons floor to sit as an independent to show his opposition to the Liberal government's wartime conscription policy. He returned to the fold later.

One writer said Mr. Pouliot had four types of smile, three of which were harmless. The cynical one meant trouble. The senator himself once said:

"I try the smooth way first, and if I do not succeed, I speaker louder."

The senator says he always gave the benefit of the doubt to his party when his conscience allowed, "but in fact I'm a radical."

Critical of "brass hats in swivel chairs" at defence headquarters, he also attacked the senior civil service which he felt was taking over the government. He never allowed his witty complaints to interfere with personal friendships and had friends on all sides of the House.

CONVICTED AS SPY

A tragic figure on the parliamentary stage was Fred Rose, only Communist to hold a seat in Parliament. He was convicted of espionage in 1946 in the aftermath of the discovery of a Soviet spy ring.

Igor Gouzenko, a cipher clerk in the Soviet embassy in Ottawa, went to the RCMP to blow the case wide open.

Mr. Rose, Labor-Progressive member for Montreal Cartier, lost his seat when he and eight others were sent to jail. After serving most of his six-year sentence, he went to Communist Czechoslovakia and later, Poland, his birthplace.

The Canadian government lifted his citizenship. And Mr. Rose hasn't been heard from in years.

Other memorable modern-day MPs include Charlie Van Horne, now New Brunswick Conservative leader. The Campbellton, N.B., lawyer, made it to the Commons in a 1955 byelection, winning Restigouche - Madawaska in New Brunswick.

BIDS WERE LOW

WOLFERTON, England (AP) Furnishings of the royal retiring room at the old Wolferton station, where monarchs and their friends visiting Sandringham House used to wait for trains, excited little interest at an auction. In sluggish bidding a mahogany dining table, various chairs, four sheepskin rugs and royal bric-a-brac brought only $1,081.

BEEF PRICES CLIMB

By DENNIS ORCHARD

OTTAWA (CP) — Agriculture officials are convinced that the appetites of American visitors account for a recent strange turn in the eastern cattle market.

They believe the scores of thousands of Americans bound for Expo 67 have profoundly affected red-meat consumption in the country.

It is not that so much expensive meat is consumed on Expo grounds, because relatively few visitors take time for meals in pavilion restaurants.

The big factor is believed to be consumption that goes on in big-city restaurants and in the homes of Canadians playing the good hosts to their American relatives and friends with servings of roast and steaks.

PRICES ARE HIGH

None of this can be backed with statistics, says R. K. Bennett, director of the agriculture department's livestock division.

But he and his officials say no other factor explains the unprecedented price situation now confronting the Toronto livestock market.

Prices there now stand at levels roughly $4 per hundredweight higher than in the U.S. for choice and good cattle, close to the difference that would encourage imports from the U.S.

Yet the supply of quality cattle this year is 11 per cent higher than in 1966, when prices were better in the U.S. and led to the highest exports of cattle and beef in more than 15 years.

Total exports for 1966 were 375,500 live cattle and 53,000,000 pounds of beef and veal, equivalent to another 260,000 cattle.

Exports this year are much lower with the price changes.

HOG SUPPLIES RISE

The American visitors also seem to have an appetite for pork. Although hog supplies are up 20 per cent this year over last, prices have dropped off less than 10 per cent.

Apart from Expo's effects, the short-term picture for supplies of beef is good, both for Canada and the United States.

Americans discovered in February that they had underestimated their cattle numbers by 2,800,000 in earlier census-taking. And Canadian figures reported Wednesday by the Dominion Bureau of Statistics set Canadian cattle numbers as of June 1, 1966, at 12,887,000, some 330,000 above agriculture department estimates.

Mr. Bennett predicts adequate supply of beef for North Americans until 1971 or 1972, but by that time even the most modern methods of feeding and land use will have been pressed to the limit.

After 1972, he says, a shortage of grazing land on the continent will force reduced per-capita consumption of beef, with higher prices providing the lever to discourage buying.

SEEDS GROW

WINNIPEG (CP) — Plastic-coated field crop seeds planted last fall in test plots at the University of Manitoba have germinated and one of the developers of the process said he is satisfied with the results.

Dr. Kurt Schrieber of the university's plant science department, who teamed with Lucien la Croix to develop a process for coating the seeds, said the test plots are well ahead of wheat which was planted in early spring.

The plastic coating stops the seed from germinating in the fall. The pressure of frost and soil in the winter cracks the plastic coating and the seed germinates when warm spring weather heats the soil.

Most desired time for germination is early spring.

"One day in spring is worth more than three days in the fall," says Dr. Schrieber.

Besides delaying germination, the coated seeds planted in fall eliminate worry of muddy field conditions in the spring.

Success of the seed here was the first step. Now, Dr. Schrieber says, coated seeds will be sent to other Western Canada and northern United States universities and experimental farms for testing under varying conditions.

Guides, Brownies, Rangers Enjoy Rally on Weekend

NEW DENVER — The Slocan Lake division rally for Brownies, Guides and Rangers was held on the weekend with the Brownie rally being held in Centennial Park on Saturday afternoon. A total of 35 Brownies from Nakusp were also in attendance with leaders Ann Waldie, Brown Owl; Joan Williams, Tawny Owl; Glenda Butt, helper.

Eleven Brownies from New Denver were accompanied by leaders Vera Angrignon, Brown Owl; Mio Mori, Tawny Owl, and Amy Mori, helper. Sheila Leathwood, district commissioner for the Kaslo-Slocan district from Kaslo, also spent the day with the Brownies, along with Mrs. F. Harding, division commissioner for the Slocan Lake division.

The Brownies participated in action games, dances, enjoyed action songs, held a treasure hunt and had a hike. The girls sang and entertained the leaders. A pot-luck supper was then enjoyed and novelties were received by the Brownies, which were made by Mrs. Angrignon and Mrs. Mori with the assistance of the other leaders. At the close of the rally, Mrs. F. Harding presented each Brownie with a little felt Brown Owl which had been made by Miss Kirkman of Vernon who is Slocan Lake camp adviser.

Meanwhile, the Guides camped at the Slocan Lake division campsite for their rally under the leadership of commandant Mrs. F. Harding. Twelve New Denver Guides and one lone Guide from Silverton were accompanied by Mrs. M. Thring, captain; Mrs. P. Turner, lieutenant; Mrs. A. Wright, lieutenant. A total of 22 Guides from Nakusp were accompanied by Agnes Nishimura, captain; Betty Tinker, lieutenant. There were also four Rangers from Nakusp camping with the Guides. A cooking competition was held for their Saturday evening meal judged by Mrs. Greer and Mrs. Butler, and the shield was won by the Nakusp Girl Guides. A competition for camping skills was judged by Mrs. Heslip and Mrs. Mills and this shield was won by No. 5 tent for the New Denver Guides. The evening was concluding by holding a campfire. A non-denominational church service called "Guides' Own", was held Sunday morning and the Guides broke camp in the afternoon, ending another successful annual rally.

School Beginners To Get Shots

Children starting school in September are to receive their "shots" early so there will be no need for them to cope with this at the same time as they are starting school, Miss Helen MacAleese, supervisor at the Selkirk Health Unit reported.

Booster doses for diphtheria, whooping cough, tetanus, polio and smallpox vaccinations for children who start Grade 1 in the Fall are being given at the Selkirk Health Unit Thursday.

Miss MacAleese says mothers are being advised to attend to this at this time, feeling it is better to have it over well beforehand.

Boswell Notes

BOSWELL — Mr. and Mrs. J. Pratt were visitors to the United States on the weekend.

Mr. and Mrs. F. Stewart are holidaying in Alberta.

Mr. and Mrs. S. Jeffries of Riondel spent a few days last week visiting Mr. and Mrs. M. MacGregor.

Mr. and Mrs. L. Baptie of Calgary visited Len Cailes' last week. It was the first time they had visited the Kootenays and they loved everything about them.

DEAR FOLKS:

Some evening when you get ready to have a backyard party and you don't have permanent yard lighting (which is expensive), one of the cutest tricks I learned while living overseas was to use flashlights!

Borrow them from your neighbor if you have to. But do you know what they do? They add just the exotic effect you want and at practically no cost.

My husband and I put flashlights under bushes and certain trees in such a way that they shine up and provide gorgeous indirect lighting.

Another cute place to put them is in an urn, pot, or vase that is filled with artificial flowers or shrubbery! You will be surprised at the lighting effect you get this way . . .

So why shouldn't we go all out to entertain our friends outdoors when we can create an interesting atmosphere?

Does it make the food taste better? I don't know, but people have told me it does, and we've been cooking the same old recipes for years and years and years.

Heloise

DEAR HELOISE:

I have found my string mop useful not only for mopping floors, but for washing our car as well.

I wet the mop thoroughly with the hose, squeeze liquid suds on it and swish away. I can now wash the top easily and I don't get half as wet as I did when using a rag or sponge.

Mrs. A. H. Newlin

DEAR HELOISE:

Do you know that storm windows are as good in the summer as they are in the winter if you have air-conditioning?

They keep COOL air in just as well as they kept that warm air in.

I suppose as some people go by, they think we are either lazy or crazy, but it sure is a money-saver and makes for the utmost comfort all summer long. Avoids all that work of removing and replacing 'em too.

We do have a vent in one window on the far side of the house to pull the air through.

Sharon

DEAR HELOISE:

My husband loves chicken anyway I fix it . . . just so long as it is not a live one!

Well, I always buy the frozen cut-up parts and my mother-in-law suggested that I soak the thawed chicken pieces in salt water for about an hour before cooking 'em.

It works and I have had many compliments on my chicken since then.

Mrs. Gary Leff

* * *

I am positive that you are right. I don't even wait until mine is thawed to soak it in salt water, but put it in a big bowl and let cold water run over it until the parts are divided.

Then I put the frozen parts in cold salty water until completely thawed. (This may be put back in your refrigerator in the morning and will be ready by supper time. Great for Moms who work).

Heloise

DEAR HELOISE:

Recently we purchased a lovely new sofa-and-chair set. I felt that the back and arms should be protected some way.

That famous nylon net came to my rescue.

I bought it in colors that matched the sofa. Then doubled it and put it over the back and arms of the furniture where they get the most soil.

Worked well as a protector and was hardly visible. But best of all, those pieces can be removed and washed easily.

Devoted Fan

DEAR HELOISE:

I've been saving those keys used to open shortening cans, etc.

After all, they are free, and are ideal as holders for that corn on the cob you'll be enjoying all summer.

Texans Topple Cranbrook Twice Despite Late Rallies

By JOHN KOROBANIK
Sports Editor, The News

It wasn't exactly a good day for the pitchers Sunday.

Nelson Texans and Cranbrook scored 32 runs between them in Kootenay Junior Baseball League action as the Texans won both ends of the doubleheader.

A bases-loaded walk gave the Texans the first game 7-6 and a five-run third inning powered the club to a 12-7 second-game victory.

Trailing 6-5 going into the bottom of the seventh inning in the opening game, the Texans put together a single, two throwing errors and three consecutive walks to take the 7-6 victory. Don Johnston led off with his only hit of the game, a single and Dan Olson reached first on a bunt when pitcher Nichol overthrew first base.

Bob Pace, Cranbrook catcher, overthrew second when Olson attempted the steal, allowing Johnston to race home from third with the tying run. Nichol then worked the count to three balls and two strikes on Bob Fitchner and Colin Kirk before walking both batters. With the count three and one on Tom Gawryletz and then issued the eighth walk of the game, sending home Olson with the winning run.

Cranbrook took a 6-5 lead in the top of the inning as Guy Salvador singled and two outs later Don Stewart slammed a towering home run.

Both clubs started strong in the first inning, scoring three runs. Cranbrook put together a walk, wild pitch, error and Bruce Sherley's double for their runs. The Texans got theirs off Ted Allen's lead-off triple, Bob Phillips' single and a two-run homer by Bob Jeffs.

The tie lasted until the fifth when Nelson scored one run.

Jeffs went the route for the pitching victory, giving up five hits, two in the seventh inning, walking three and striking out three.

Nichol gave up eight hits and struck out seven.

RALLIED AGAIN

Cranbrok rallied again in the second contest, but this time fell short. Trailing 8-0, the visitors struck for five runs in the sixth inning and two more in the seventh.

Handicapped by the four-hit pitching of Reg Cherenko through the first five innings, the visitors suddenly started getting wood on the ball as Sherley, Bob Wasiliew, Gord Ratcliffe and Marv Fergall collected hits.

An error allowed Don Stewart to reach first with one out but he was cut off at second as Bob Pace went to first. Then, with two out, disaster hit the Texans. Sherley tripled in Pace for their first run and then scored on Wasiliew's double. Ratcliffe's double sent Wasiliew home and the rally was underway. Ferg kept it going with a long single that scored Ratcliffe and he raced all the way home on Salvador's high pop fly that was dropped.

But Cherenke struck out Mike Wheaton to end the inning.

Fitchner's triple in the second inning gave Nelson a 2-0 lead, and the defending B.C. champions broke the game open with five runs in the third.

Cherenko's double and Olson's single were the only hits, but two walks and two errors helped.

Nelson scored two runs in the fourth and four in the sixth. Two hit batters, two walks, an error and a fielder's choice sent the score to 12-5.

Cranbrook's two runs in the seventh came off Pace's single and Sherley's home run over the left-field fence.

Cherenko gave up 10 hits in all, walked only one man while striking out eight. Pace, on the mound for Cranbrook, gave up five hits and struck out seven but walked seven and hit two batters.

The texans are idle now until June 28th when they host Castlegar.

Slocan Silver Kings Top Kaslo, Fruitvale

SLOCAN CITY — Slocan Silver Kings nipped Kaslo All-Stars 7-6 and then bombed Fruitvale Beavers 6-1 in an exhibition game Sunday afternoon before a large crowd.

Mike Linn and Bill Pomtonio shared mound duties for Kaslo, striking out five, walking six and giving up 11 hits.

Winn Stogard and Flem Berg were on the mound for Slocan, with Berg taking the win. The two gave up 11 hits, two walks and fanned 15.

Gordie Jeffs' pinch-hit two-run homer in the eighth inning pulled Slocan from a 6-5 deficit and gave them the margin of victory. Jerry Osis was on base, having doubled with two men out.

Al Roamer and Stogard also hit doubles for Slocan while Jim Moro had three hits for Kaslo.

Berg went the route in the second game, giving up seven hits, walking one and striking out seven. Lorne Ekstrom pitched for Fruitvale, giving up seven hits, four walks and striking out eight.

In the other game played in the Slocan-Arrow Lakes Senior League, New Denver-Silverton beat Slocan Park 17-4.

Rookie Wilson Hurls No-Hitter

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Don Wilson, a 22-year-old rookie in his third year of pro baseball, pitched a no-hitter for Houston as the Astros beat Atlanta Braves 2-0 Sunday.

The six-foot-three-inch right-hander, now 4-3, struck out 15 and walked three as he faced 30 hitters and allowed only six balls to be hit out of the infield. It was the first no-hitter in the National League since Sandy Koufax fired a perfect game in September, 1965.

The Astros got him enough runs in the fourth inning when Jim Wynn doubled in one and later scored on a foreceout.

St. Louis Cardinals jumped over Cincinnati Reds into first place in the National League by six percentage points on the four-hit pitching of Dick Hughes that beat San Francisco Giants 4-1.

Orlando Cepeda's two-run, two-out homer, his eighth, in the eighth inning broke a 1-1 tie.

Lou Johnson and pitcher Claude Osteen each drove in two runs and Osteen scattered 12 hits, leading Los Angeles to a 5-3 victory over the Reds. Tony Perez hit a solo homer, his 14th, for Cincinnati.

Pitcher Tommy Sisk highlighted a four-run second inning with a two-run single and Roberto Clemente drove in two more runs, lifting Pittsburgh Pirates by Philadelphia Phillies 5-3.

Sisk had a three-hitter before successive homers by John Callison and Gene Oliver started a three-run seventh that chased him.

Lee Thomas' sacrifice fly in the eighth inning carried Chicago Cubs to a 4-3 victory over New York Mets after Tom Reynolds' 10th inning homer gave the Mets a 4-3 triumph in the first game of their doubleheader.

The Cubs held 3-0 lead in each game with the help of homers by Ron Santo, Ernie Banks and Randy Hundley.

Chicago White Sox padded their American League lead to 3½ games over Detroit as Gary Peters and Tommy John gave New York Yankees five and six hits respectively in a 7-3, 4-0 doubleheader sweep.

Don Buford, whose error gave the Yankees a 2-0 lead in the opener, singled home the first Chicago run in the nightcap and Pete Ward later homered. A five-run third inning won the first game.

Danny Cater slammed a two-run triple in a three-run first inning and doubled to set up another run in the third as Kansas City beat Detroit Tigers 8-4 and dealt Joe Sparma his first loss after six victories.

Norm Cash homered with one on for Detroit, which lost for the ninth time in 11 games.

Woodie Held, traded last week by Baltimore, singled in two first - inning runs that started California to a 5-3 victory over the Orioles, giving the Angels 11 triumphs in 13 games.

Nakusp Tops Winlaw 18-11

WINLAW — A high scoring ball game saw Winlaw fall at the hands of Nakusp 18-11 in the Slocan-Arrow Lakes Senior Baseball League action Sunday afternoon.

Nakusp got their first run in the first inning on a single by Al Falkman and triple by Pete Savage.

Terrific fielding by the Winlaw club held Nakusp at bay for several innings, but in the fourth an error, a triple by Savage, plus several unanswered runs made the score 6-0 in favor of the visitors.

With the bases loaded in the fifth, a walk gave Nakusp another run. Winlaw came to life in the fifth as coach F. Towgood hit a long triple with the bases loaded. Another run scored to make it 7-4.

A triple by P. Walker and Winlaw errors gave the hard-hitting Nakusp team three more runs in the sixth.

In the seventh Nakusp went around their batting order collecting seven more runs. The determined Winlaw club had rallies in the seventh and eighth, collecting a total of five runs. Nakusp got their final run in the ninth and final inning.

With a last all-out effort, Winlaw got two runs when A. Pereverzoff hit a long triple with a runner on then stole home.

Nakusp pitcher D. McQuair and K. Kyano struck out seven and walked three. Winlaw chuckers H. Zarchikoff, A. Pereverzoff, D. Thompson, T. Chutskoff and G. Towgood struck out nine and walked five.

Winlaw saw the return of several veteran players, however, little could be done against the powerful Nakusp club. Next Sunday sees Winlaw battle the strong New Denver team.

Morris Wins Kootenay Open Golf Tournament

Shirley Morris shot a low gross 181 in the Ladies' Kootenay Open Golf Tournament Saturday and Sunday to capture top honors in the event at the Nelson Golf and Country Club.

With brilliant sunshine throughout both days, golfers from around the district all had their chances, only to be beaten by Morris.

In the first flight an extra hole playoff was needed before Gwen Miller won out. She ended the regular play with a 187, the same score as Kay Harris. Miller won the low gross prize on the first hole of the playoff.

Rene Perkins of Kaslo won the low net honors, shooting a 150 to top Elsie Shorthouse, who came in with a 168.

Jean Bedard's even 200 won her top spot in the low gross division of the second flight with Verlene Olsen runner up with a 207. Fern Atwell nipped Eve Couling by one stroke in the low net competition, shooting a 171.

Bert Jarrett put together a 204 good for a one-stroke victory over Dot Kilpatrick in the third flight's low gross division.

The tight battle for top spots continued in the low net division of the third flight where Fran James and Mae Larsen were neck and neck to the final hole. James won the prize with a 156 one shot less than Larsen.

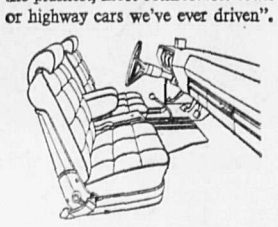
Shirley Morris, centre, holds the low gross championship trophy she won Sunday, shooting a 181 total to win the top award in the Ladies' Kootenay Open Golf Tournament held at the Nelson Golf and Country Club. With her are Gwen Miller (left) winner of the low gross prize in the first flight and Rene Perkins (right) low net winner of the first flight.

Motor Trend Magazine called Ambassador "one of the plushest, most comfortable town or highway cars we've ever driven".

Now, here's the sweetest part of the story: Ambassador is priced with Ford, Chev and Plymouth!

Motor Trend is one of the most authoritative auto magazines in North America. Their February edition included a comprehensive road test of an Ambassador DPL. Here are some of their comments:

"The Ambassador DPL is one of the plushest, most comfortable town or highway cars we've ever driven".



That's what it was designed to be. The seats are coil spring sprung, like fine furniture; there's plenty of head, leg and shoulder room for all passengers; and the ride and performance are just what you expect from a big car—very smooth. Motor Trend's test car was equipped with American Motors new 343 cu. in. V8—the newest and most efficient production engine available—and they clocked 0-60 mph in 9.9 seconds and 50 to 70 mph in 5.2 seconds.

"A number of built-ins make the Rebel and Ambassador safe and economical cars. The ceramic-coated exhaust system is still exclusive. Then there are the impact-absorbing steering column, the 5 year/50,000 mile warranty on major drive train items, unusually spacious and comfortable passenger compartments plus well planned overall design. It all adds up to cars that are easy to look at that are getting to be fun to drive, with the clincher being a well-earned reputation for quality construction."

With praise like that, it's no wonder that people think that Ambassador belongs up there in the Olds, Buick and Chrysler class. In terms of quality it does, but in terms of price, Ambassador is priced with Ford, Chev and Plymouth, model for model.

Birdies Give Nicklaus U.S. Open Record

SPRINGFIELD, N.J. (AP)—Powerful Jack Nicklaus came up with an awesome string of birdies Sunday to win his second National Open golf championship with a record breaking 275.

The 27-year-old Golden Bear climaxed his amazing round by knocking in a 30-foot birdie putt on the last hole for a final round of 65.

This was his eighth birdie of the day in an individual performance that shattered the 19-year-old record of 276 set by Ben Hogan at Los Angeles' Riviera in 1948.

Nicklaus won by four strokes over his long-time friend and chief rival, Arnold Palmer, who finished with a brace of birdies for a 69 and 279.

It was a one-man show for the blonde, 210-pound slugger from Columbus, Ohio, holder of every major professional title, as the sensational young amateur, Marty Fleckman of Port Arthur, Tex., finally came to earth with a bang.

The shy, 23-year-old Walker Cup alternate, who led the first and third rounds, started with three strings of one over par and finished with an 80 for 289.

Don January, a rangy Dallas veteran of 12 years on the tour, gained third place with an even par 70 for 281, followed by defending champion Billy Casper, who shot a 72 for 282.

It was a runaway for Nicklaus from the time he knocked in five birdies in the space of six holes on the outgoing nine until he climaxed his day with a dramatic windup on the 542-yard, uphill 72nd.

There, with Hogan's record in his sights, he played it cautiously, hitting a one-iron off the tee and playing his second short of the ditch with a seven-iron.

Then he pitched to the broad, marble-slick green and rolled in the putt that made golfing history.

It was a fabulous round for the chubby druggist's son from Ohio, who beat Palmer in a playoff for his first Open triumph in his first year as a professional in 1962.

The card for the 7,015-yard, par 70 course showed nine 3s, without an eagle. Besides his five outgoing birdies at the third, fourth, fifth, seventh and eighth holes, Nicklaus canned birds at the 13th, 14th and the 18th.

His prodigious drives gave him a tremendous advantage, and he frequently knocked his irons right up the pin, but he also had one of his greatest putting days.

He had eight one-putt greens, sinking assignments of 12, 15 and 18 feet in addition to his curling snake on the final hole.

His putts on the 13th and 14th were simple ones of five and three feet.

Nicklaus became intatuated with a centre-shafted putter belonging to a friend from Washington, D.C., Fred Mueller, during practice last week and immediately coaxed the friend to part with the blade.

Now the putter — a copper blade with a white paint on its face—may be destined for the Golf House Museum.

"I like it because it gets the ball in the hole," Nicklaus said.

Palmer, the tournament favorite, never got going. Playing with Nicklaus for the second straight day, he could do no more than put up pars while Nicklaus was canning birdies until the 17th hole.

Then the Latrobe, Pa., millionaire sank consecutive birdies—his only subpar holes of the round.

SAW RECORD BROKEN

Hogan, 55, bidding for his fifth Open crown, had finished approximately an hour before Nicklaus reached the final green, but the Texas Hawk realized his proud record was doomed.

"I thought several fellows might break the record here," Hogan said. "The fairways were wide, and the rough wasn't so bad. The greens, however, were very tricky. Nicklaus did a remarkable job."

Hogan finished with a 72 for 292. He had three rounds of 72 and a 76 on Saturday.

Nicklaus' victory was worth $30,000 and put him back into the year's money race after an unproductive season. He had failed to make the cut in the Masters tournament, where he was defending champion, and he had won only about $31,000 in official money prior to this tournament.

All-American Dan Gurney Wins Belgium Grand Prix

FRANCORCHAMPS, Belgium (AP)—Dan Gurney, the lone American among 18 starters, drove his American-made Eagle to a 63-second victory Sunday in the Grand Prix auto race of Belgium.

The victory was the first ever by an American driver in an American-made car in a Grand Prix race that counts toward the world championship.

Three months ago, Gurney, of Costa Mesa, Calif., became the first American in an American car to win a Formula One race in 46 years when he captured the International Race of Champions in England. That race, however, does not count toward the world crown.

Driving the car that he designed and built, Gurney set a lap record on the 20th lap of the 8.74 - mile Francorchamps circuit, then grabbed the lead from Jackie Stewart of Britain on the 21st lap and steadily increased his margin for the last quarter of the 28-lap race.

Gurney, who teamed with A. J. Foyt of Houston to win the Le Mans 24-hour race last week, completed the 244.776-mile contest in one hour, 40 minutes, 49.4 seconds for an average speed of 145.665 miles per hour.

BROKE OWN MARK

On the 20th lap he broke the record he set in the 1964 race by averaging 148.519 m.p.h. His old mark was 137.308.

Stewart, in a BRM, finished second 63 seconds back with a speed of 144.146 m.p.h. Chris Amon of New Zealand, in a Ferrari, was third.

There was one mishap in the race, and it occurred in the first lap. Coming out of the Blanchimont curve, Britain's Mike Parkes lost control of his Ferrari. The car hit the ground on one side and rolled over. Parkes was ejected before the car caught fire several yards from him.

The driver suffered a fractured left leg and a broken right wrist, race officials said.

Chuvalo On Card

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Heavyweight George Chuvalo of Toronto, light heavyweight Roger Rouse of Anaconda, Mont., and middleweight Don Fullmer of West Jordan, Utah, all ranking contenders in their respective divisions, will appear on the same boxing card Thursday at the University of Montana field house in Missoula, Mont.

Chuvalo, recently signed for a Madison Square Garden bout July 19 with unbeaten Joe Frazier of Philadelphia, will take on Archie Ray of Tucson, Ariz.

Rouse, who is due to meet Dick Tiger, the 175 - pound champ, in a title bout, will box Mexico's Bobby Rascon. Fullmer, former junior middleweight king, faces Luis Garduno of Las Vegas, Nev.

Fullmer, a younger brother of the former middleweight champ, hopes to get a shot at the winner of the Nino Benvenuti-Emile Griffith rematch.

Renaldo Victoria of Pittsfield, Mass., billed as the unbeaten New England lightweight champ, will box Hector Rodrigues of Providence, R.I., Friday in an outdoor show at Pittsfield.

OLD BONES DISCOVERED

MARTINA FRANCA, Italy (AP)—Workers digging a sewer trench near this southern Italian town have uncovered the remains of an ox estimated to be 10,000 years old. The bones were foound next to a sphere-like polished stone inside a cavern.

Bad Year for Indy

MOSPORT, Ont. (CP)—Rain Saturday washed out the Indy 200 and the 200-mile race for Indianapolis - type championship cars was rescheduled for Saturday, July 1.

It was the first time in the seven-year history of this road track 45 miles northeast of Toronto that a feature race has had to be postponed because of weather.

While sports cars have toured the 2.5-mile asphalt circuit in heavy rain, officials of the United States Auto Club said the wet track was too dangerous for the powerful championship-type cars.

Officials had counted 39,500 fans through the gates by 2 p.m., the scheduled starting time for the two-heat race. But by that time, a light rain was falling and drivers sat huddled under tarpaulins in their cars on the starting grid.

DRIVERS HOLD MEETING

Shortly afterwards a driver's meeting was held and it was decided the race would go on if the rain let up by 5 p.m., but by 4:45 p.m., the race was called off and fans were told over loudspeakers to hold onto their tickets for the July 1 contest.

The race was for the Toronto Telegram Trophy and $85,000 in prizes and accessory money. It would have been the first time Indianapolis-type cars had competed in a North American road race.

In the morning, before the rain became heavy, two races were run off. Al Peace of Toronto won a 12-lap race for sports cars in his Lotus 47. His time was 20 minutes 46.8 seconds, an average of 83 miles an hour.

Craig Fisher of Toronto won a 12-lap race for sedans covering the 30 miles in 21:09.5.

Damascus Victorious; Buckpasses Upest

STANTON, Del. (AP) — Damascus, with Canadian jockey Ron Turcotte up, toyed with five other three-year-old colts as expected Saturday before winning the $41,060 Leonard Richards Stakes at Delaware Park.

At the end of the 1⅛-mile test, Damascus—who won the Belmont Stakes and the Preakness—had 3¼ lengths to spare over Misty Cloud.

Under Turcotte, a Grand Falls, N.B., native who was riding as a substitute for the suspended Bill Shoemaker, Damascus was timed in 1:49 1-5. He paid $2.20, $2.10 and $2.10 to become the shortest-priced winner in the track's history.

The tremendous play on Damascus produced a minus show pool of $4,852.81.

Damascus picked up $26,689 for his easy triumph and boosted his career earnings to $417,964, of which $392,099 has come this year.

BUCKPASSER UPSET

At New York, Poker led from the start to upset mighty Buckpasser and Assagai Saturday in the 1⅝ - mile, $50,000 - added Bowling Green Handicap at Aqueduct.

Buckpasser not only had his debut on the grass ruined but also had his 15-race winning streak snapped. He was trying to equal the streak of 16 that Citation compiled 17 years ago.

Poker, coupled in the betting with stablemate Buckpasser, finished 1½ lengths ahead of Assagai, the 1966 purse champion. Buckpasser, the 1966 Horse of the Year, was another one-half length back.

Poker carried 112 pounds to 127 for Assagai and 135 for Buckpasser, one of the highest carried by a horse in a turf race in modern times.

At Inglewood, Calif., Pretense broke the American reecord for 1 1-16 miles on the turf course at Hollywood Park in winning his division of the split Inglewood Handicap.

Quicken Tree captured the first section of the Inglewood as favored Niarkos finished third.

Nakusp Tops Slocan 8-6

SLOCAN — Last Sunday afternoon the Nakusp senior baseball club motored to Slocan and dumped the Silver Kings 8-6 in an 11-inning tilt. The Slocan Silver Kings were trailing 5-4 in the ninth frame, with two men out and Jerry Osis drew a walk and then stole second base. Right fielder Grant Brons then came to the plate to tag a sharp single, scoring Osis from second to deadlock the contest 5-5.

After a scoreless tenth frame the Nakusp team came across with three runs in the eleventh. The Silver Kings fought back desperately but were able to capitalize on only one run. The Nakusp pitching and fielding performance was superb throughout the entire game. Flem Bjerg and Win Storgard combined on hill for the hosts, wth Storgard being charged with the loss. The Silver Kings' Clem Bjerg and Al Roemer hammered two-baggers apiece. The victory was Nakusp's first of the year against two losses. The Silver Kings also have the same record in league action.

Your Individual Horoscope

Look in the section in which your birthday comes, and find what your outlook is, according to the stars.

For Tuesday, June 20, 1967

MARCH 21 to APRIL 20 (Aries) — If faced with a quick change or un-expected suggestion, be sure to maintain poise, and consider its merits before rejecting it. In this way you can avoid antagonism.

APRIL 21 to MAY 21 (Taurus) — An excellent period for study, broadening your outlook, introducing new ideas and systems into your regular program. But do not switch position or tactics in a way that betokens instability.

MAY 22 to JUNE 21 (Gemini) — Another one of those days in which to employ your quick thinking — to prevent errors and to keep you from acting hastily or impulsively. Make the most of your talents in order to better earnings.

JUNE 22 to JULY 23 (Cancer) — Capitalize on present assets; convert to superior methods where feasible. But do not make drastic changes in projects now running smoothly.

JULY 24 to AUGUST 23 (Leo) — Map out a clearly defined program devoid of time-wasters. Accommodate to necessary changes, but emphasize stick-to-itiveness.

AUGUST 24 to SEPTEMBER 23 (Virgo) — Helpful influences, but you still will need to be alert, brightly eager and willing to try a new tack or make changes in plans you were "set on."

SEPTEMBER 24 to OCTOBER 23 (Libra) — Especially sponsored under day's somewhat unusual but, on the whole, friendly aspects: Secretarial and clerical work; mathematics, artistry, science generally.

OCTOBER 24 to NOVEMBER 22 (Scorpio) — Stretch a point where it will pay off later. A vote of confidence is often necessary to secure cooperation. You will be asked for a steady hand and a discerning eye now.

NOVEMBER 23 to DECEMBER 21 (Sagittarius) — Meet competition, but do not let it incite you to useless argument or irritability — with little accomplished constructively. Advancement notable in economics, industry, sales, educational pursuits.

DECEMBER 22 to JANUARY 20 (Capricorn) — Mixed planetary influences give you a total picture of alternating apathy, readiness, indecision, animation. Firm up!

JANUARY 21 to FEBRUARY 19 (Aquarius) — You may now experience a sense of frustration along with boredom and fretfulness. Your keen mind and innate good sense can, should, strongly counteract.

FEBRUARY 20 to MARCH 20 (Pisces) — Some earnings and credits may be less than expected, but the general outlook is very good for benefits through sustained efforts over a period of time.

YOU BORN TODAY are a quick thinker and are always ready ot move forward on knowledge and incentive. You are more sensitive than your outward bravado indicates; generous; may be frustrating to your family at times by shifting plans often. You do not always know why you head off in a different direction than designated, but a sixth sense urges you at the last moment. Your intuition is keen, but talk things over occasionally and avoid misunderstandings. You meet people with ease, exchange ideas readily; are morally impartial, but may tend to favor quick-movers like yourself.

DAILY CRYPTOQUOTE — Here's how to work it:

A X Y D L B A A X R
is L O N G F E L L O W

One letter simply stands for another. In this sample A is used for the three L's, X for the two O's, etc. Single letters, apostrophies, the length and formation of the words are all hints. Each day the code letters are different.

A Cryptogram Quotation

W J E P R G D Q Y D F G U W R P B E D F D .
G D Q Y Q C G U W R N G Q C G U W E G D O .
D X R G D Q Y Q C S Y Q L O W J M W . — L U D G W .
U W R J

Saturday's Cryptoquote: DO UNTO THE OTHER FELLER THE WAY HE'D LIKE TO DO UNTO YOU, AN' DO IT FUST. —WESTCOTT

Self Policing-Answer To Interference

MONTREAL (CP)—Business should do more self-policing if it is to avoid increasing government interference, R. A. Engholm, newly elected president of the Canadian Manufacturers' Association, said Thursday.

The Toronto businessman told the annual conference of the Federation of Canadian Advertising and Sales Clubs that business as a whole is discredited by "the widely publicized shenanigans of a comparative handful of less reputable members of the business fraternity."

"The feeling is created that there is need for government to step in and no government interested in its future survival is going to ignore it."

Mr. Engholm said business also should give more positive leadership in such issues as pollution, education, noise abatement and urban renewal.

He criticized the advertising industry for still using commercials that are noisy and witless.

He doubted whether these commercials gave the advertiser value for his money "and what harm they do the advertising industry . . . in the minds of the more mature elements of the population we shall probably never know."

Embargo Won't Affect U.S.

NEW YORK (AP)—Oil began to slow again in the Middle East this week.

Saudi Arabia, largest oil source in the Arab world, was the first to return to full production.

Tankers again began steaming to various world ports with cargoes of oil. They could not go to the United States or Britain, however, because of an embargo imposed by most of the Arab nations.

But the embargo was not expected to have much effect on the United States, which produces most of its own oil.

The closing of the Suez Canal has dislocated ocean shipping and shipping rates are being forced upward. Some shippers are reported to have chartered ocean tankers at rates increased by 50 per cent.

In other news of the week, U.S. auto production was estimated at 174,396 units, up slightly from the 173,410 cars built in the previous week but down six per cent from the 186,291 in the week a year ago.

The auto industry said its early June sales ran four per cent ahead of last year, totalling 247,989 cars. During the June 1-10 period, Ford Motor Co. said its retail deliveries were 20.7 per cent over 1966 and Chrysler Corp. had a 1.5 per cent gain. General Motors Corp., however, said its sales were down 2.7 per cent and American Motors Corp. reported a 5.3 per cent drop.

In a talk to the Automotive Analysts of New York, Chrysler President Virgil E. Boyd predicted 1967 would be the third best sales year in industry history, with total sales of about 8,300,000 units.

The commerce department reported during the week retail sales totalled $25,100,000,000 in April, or about four per cent above April 1966. Compared with March, the gain was about one per cent.

Durable goods sales decreased slightly from March but were two per cent over April, 1966. Non-durable goods gained one per cent over March and five per cent over 1966.

There was a six-per-cent drop in lumber, building, hardware and farm equipment.

The government's restoration of the seven-per-cent investment tax credit was cited for a spurt in rail equipment buying.

Arab Oil Uncertainty Boosts Canadian Stocks

By DOUGLAS ADAMSON
Canadian Press Staff Writer

Uncertainty about future relations between Arab oil-producing countries and the West was reflected in the rising prices of western oil stocks on Canadian stock exchanges this week.

The value of oil stocks had increased steadily since war broke out in the Middle East and the embargo on Britain and the United States by Arab oil producers went into effect. The United States government has declared an oil emergency as a result.

Analysts feel that, although the U.S. is the world's largest oil producer, importing only 2.6 per cent of its oil from the Middle East in 1966, its capacity to meet demands from domestic industry is decreasing despite significant new discoveries in the Gulf of Mexico and off the coasts of California and Alaska.

The analysts point out that if the U.S. is to avoid "economic blackmail" by the Arab states in the future it must look to politically stable countries such as Canada as sources for oil and gas. The analysts attribute the recent activity in the Canadian oil industry to investors looking for profits over the long term.

Some analysts say the Middle East crisis may break down the opposition by independent American oil interests trying to stall or prevent construction of pipelines to bring Canadian gas and oil into the U.S.

Trans-Canada Pipe Lines is currently awaiting a decision on this from the U.S. Federal Power Commission and Interprovincial has plans to take a line through Chicago.

Scurry-Rainbow rose 5¾ to 30¾. Dome gained 5¼ to 60¼ after announcing that shareholders had approved a proposal to acquire Provo Gas Producers Ltd. on a share exchange basis. Imperial Oil was up 1½ to 61⅜, B-A 1¼ to 37, Husky 1¾ to 17⅝, Texaco 1⅛ to 25⅝, Shell ⅛ to 28 and Pacific Petroleum ¼ to 14⅞.

Trans-Canada Pipe Lines and Interprovincial Pipe Line rose ⅞ each to 30⅝ and 22⅞, Pembina ¼ to 11⅝ and Trans Mountain Oil Pipe Line ½ to 19½.

Uranium issues advanced as investors maintained their expectation of good markets and higher prices in the 1970s. The Canadian Nuclear Association recently revised its prediction of uranium demand in 1975 to 35,000 tons from 28,000 tons.

RENEW OIL PROBE

Denison rose 3⅝ to 78, Preston ⅝ to 21¾, Rio Algom 2⅞ to 37¼ and Roman Corp. and Stanrock 1 each to 22 and 4.40. Stanrock announced it was starting exploration on its Elliot Lake, Ont., property acquired from Stanward Corp. in a recent consolidation of the two companies. Stanward drilled the property in the 1950s with "encouraging results."

In the industrial list, Maple Leaf Gardens rose 2¼ to 29½ after announcing a third-quarter dividend of 15 cents plus 1.50 extra. Bell Telephone lost 1⅛ to 49½ following news that its application to Parliament for a rewritten charter would be the occasion for an inquiry into the company's involvement in the communications industry.

Speculative activity was generally light with PCE Explorations up 8 cents to 1.13 on 1,324,000 shares and United Keno off 65 cents to 5.65.

On index, industrials rose .17 to 166.27, base metals 3.11 to 102.75 and western oils 10.48 to 172.18. Golds lost .91 to 172.73. Volume was 15,222,000 shares compared with 12,841,000 traded last week.

At Montreal, industrials rose .75 to 165.54 and utilities .63 to 148.50. Banks declined 2.68 to 124.42 and papers 1.40 to 111.77. Volume was 4,402,138 shares compared with 6,621,806 traded last week.

Tight Money Prospects May Up Housing Costs

By JANE BECKER
Canadian Press Staff Writer

The prospect of tight money and higher interest rates loomed across Canada last week with the resulting possibility that houses, at least in crowded urban centres, may become even more expensive.

Yields on long-term government bonds, a prime indicator of general interest rates, reached 5.95 per cent June 15, just .05 per cent lower than their recent high of six per cent last August, and almost .50 per cent higher than on April 1.

Yields on treasury bills have also been climbing steadily during the last few weeks, from 4.43 per cent on 182-day bills June 1 to 4.59 per cent June 15.

Day-to-day Bank of Canada loans, which brought average interest rates of 4.25 per cent at May 31, were up by .10 per cent two weeks later.

BOOSTING RATE

In Toronto, mortgage lenders said they were increasing interest on some conventional first mortgages to eight per cent this month from the 7⅞ per cent which prevailed in May.

This makes it likely that the ceiling on interest rates for National Housing Act mortgages may be raised by at least ¼ per cent when Central Mortgage and Housing Corp. reviews it July 1.

NHA mortgage lending rates have been pegged to long-term government security yields since last November, being kept at a ceiling of 1½ per cent above the security yield.

With bond yields at about 5.48 per cent last April the NHA rate was lowered to seven per cent. Now mortgage companies are betting it could go to 7½ per cent next month.

To the person borrowing to build a house, a ¼ per cent rise in the interest rate adds $625 to the cost of a $17,000 mortgage amortized over 25 years.

COULD PASS AVERAGE

This added expense could push house prices beyond the $30,000 now average through Metropolitan Toronto.

However there may be one long-term benefit from higher-interest lending. The problem so far this year, for builders and buyers, has been an extreme shortage of mortgage money.

Builders say the higher rates may encourage the chartered banks, which were freed to go into the mortgage lending market by the new Bank Act in May to release more of their funds for this purpose.

The week also saw the first formal meeting of provincial and federal politicians on the Carter Commission report on taxation.

The federal - provincial tax structure committee, headed by Finance Minister Sharp and including finance ministers of the 10 provinces, met for two days to discuss proposals.

STUDY PLANNED

The decision was to have senior officials make a crash study of what the report would mean to the provinces. Findings will be presented to another committee meeting in September.

It was clear the proposals were meeting a far-from-enthusiastic reception in the west.

Premier Thatcher of Saskatchewan said it would be a "sad day for Canada" if the report is implemented.

Its recommendations discriminate "viciously" against the western provinces, he said. This was understood to refer especially to the proposals to end tax incentives for mining and oil exploration and bring in a capital gains tax. Westerners fear this would discourage both resource exploration and United States capital.

A. O. Aalborg, Alberta provincial treasurer, said his government was concerned that the Carter proposals could reduce Alberta revenues to the point where the government would be forced to levy a sales tax.

Alberta is the only province without a retail sales tax.

ARABS HOMES SOUGHT

By PAUL KOHN

JERICHO (AP) — Over the hills and valleys of the Holy Land on this scorching day thousands of Arabs trudged the roads hoping to find their homes in Israeli-held territory intact.

Whether the Israelis liked it or not, Palestinians were crossing the Jordan River by homemade rafts—the Allenby Bridge was destroyed—to return to Jericho. They had fled when fighting broke out a week ago and crossed the Jordan to the east bank.

Many were from refugee camps on the west bank. But even these scanty mud-roof homes of nearly 20 years standing were apparently preferred to possible new refugee camps in Jordan.

The land now held by Israel contains about 1,500,000 Arabs. The situation presents a problem to Israel leaders.

The biggest Palestinian refugee camp along the west bank is in Jericho. A week ago it held 55,000, Jericho Mayor Abu Taher said. Forty thousand left at the first sounds of war.

Jericho was hardly touched by the war. It is a sprawling oasis of palm trees, orange groves, attractive rose gardens, swimming pools and a casino.

UN AT WORK

Among the dwellers of the Jericho camp now returning were, according to the mayor, "unsavory elements, including Fedayeen saboteurs."

Meanwhile, the UN Relief and Works Agency was at work in the refugee camp. Stores were well stocked and about 250 agency employees were on hand.

From Jericho, "the oldest city in the world," and one of the lowest—820 feet below sea level—the men, women and children started the climb up to the Jerusalem area.

A donkey hauled piles of mattresses. Now and again a little barefooted boy pulled along a goat, tied by twine. A kettle with some water was a treasure possession.

Many still carried a white flag on a stock, but it no longer was necessary.

The passing Israeli soldiers in captured Jordanian trucks and jeeps no longer cocked automatic guns.

What were the feelings of these Arab Palestinians as they saw the burned-out hulks of Jordanian tanks and trucks or the countless photo enlargements of King Hussein slapped on the front of Israeli troop carriers?

"We have only Allah left," said one man as he hauled himself and his family to the hilltop village of Abu Dis.
