46 HOLIDAY FATALITIES IN CANADA

By The Canadian Press

Traffic fatalities exceeded the prediction of the Canadian Highway Safety Council as the New Year weekend accidental death toll reached 46.

Of these, 33 were in traffic. The council had predicted 30 deaths for the 78-hour period which ended at midnight Monday. There were 30 deaths in the 78-hour New Year holiday in 1965.

A Canadian Press survey to 5 p.m. EST Monday showed four killed in fires, one drowning and eight dead from other causes. The survey started at 6 p.m. local times Friday.

562 IN U.S.

CHICAGO (AP) — A record New Year's holiday weekend toll of 562 carried to nearly 1300 Monday the number of Americans killed in heavy motor traffic over two long, successive weekends.

The Christmas weekend toll of 720 was the worst for any three-day holiday celebration on record.

Vancouver Staggers Under Third Heavy Snowstorm

Six Inches Snow Expected, City Still Digging Out

VANCOUVER (CP) — Vancouver was still digging out after two week-end snowstorms Monday afternoon when a third storm hit with unexpected fury.

By 6 p.m. (PST) two inches had fallen at the weather station on Sea Island south of Vancouver, and the official forecaster said he expected about six inches before the storm tapered off into flurries after midnight.

In addition to the new snow—which came on top of falls of up to two feet on the weekend—southern British Columbia faced the coldest night of the winter.

Predicted low for Vancouver was 20 above, with below freezing temperatures expected for all of today. At Abbotsford, 40 miles east of Vancouver in the Fraser Valley, the overnight low was expected to be 10 above, with a high of 28 above today.

Transit authorities reported jammed buses and slippery roads Monday morning and again during the evening rush hour. Police said traffic was slow but reported no serious tieups.

Towing companies said business was almost too good, with delays of three to four hours on calls. They said most calls were from motorists who had tried to drive through uncleared lanes or side streets.

The B.C. Automobile Association, however, said Vancouver drivers appear to be learning how to handle the snow. The Association received up to 1000 calls a day during last winter's month of heavy snow, but has received only 300 to 350 a day this winter.

On Vancouver Island, heavy snow was blamed for a power failure that blacked out Nanaimo, a city of 14,000, at the height of the evening rush hour.

Two main feeder lines went down at 5 p.m. and the power was not restored until shortly after 7 p.m.

At Abbotsford, an attempt to thaw out water pipes with flaming rags resulted in the home of William Dyck being destroyed by fire.

The five-day outlook for the Southern B.C. region is continuing below normal temperatures, with above average precipitation.

Steel Producers Boost Price $5

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Pentagon turned its big economic guns on Bethlehem Steel Corp. Monday. But the No. 2 producer, which has raised the price of structural steel, found an ally in the industry, the Inland Steel Co.

Defence Secretary Robert McNamara bracketed both firms in ordering a shift of military orders for future structural steel deliveries away from any firm which increases its price.

A third smaller company, Colorado Fuel and Iron Corp., boosted its price for structural steel $3 a ton, Dow Jones news agency reported.

McNamara moved almost simultaneously with Inland's announcement in New York that it is making an increase similar to the $5-a-ton boost posted last Friday by Bethlehem.

Inland's board chairman, Joseph L. Block, said the price rise, effective today for his company, "can hardly be deemed a potential cause of inflation." Its impact is "minor in relation to the average price of all steel"—a position taken earlier by Bethlehem.

The increase is the result of "inflationary forces already let loose in the economy — which have boosted the costs of labor and the prices of goods and services bought by the industry," Block's statement said.

But U.S. Steel, which led the industry parade in the bitter confrontation with President Kennedy in 1962, said "it may be some time" before it decides whether to join the new price move. All factors are being carefully considered, it said.

At Cleveland, Armco Steel Co. said it also is studying the situation. The same statement came from Kaiser Steel Corp. in San Francisco.

Since U.S. Steel is the biggest producer in the U.S., its refusal to post higher prices could influence other companies and leave Bethlehem and Inland vulnerable to government pressure.

Pacemaker Fails, But Baby's Life Saved

TORONTO (CP) — A Toronto heart surgeon described as "grand" the condition Monday night of [illegible] Lisa Farias, 4, whose [illegible] stopped [illegible] Friday morning.

[illegible] Dr. Wilfred Bigelow said [illegible] an RCAF carry flight after [illegible] minutes following failure of an electronic heart "pacemaker" she had worn since shortly after birth.

A cardiac catherization was performed on Lisa Friday to take the place of the faulty pacemaker.

The catherization involves inserting a thin tube up a heart vein and attaching it to an outside power source which delivers electrical impulses to the heart muscles and speeds up the heart beat.

Dr. George Trusler said a group of heart specialists is evaluating the condition of the heart through an oscilloscope attached to the stimulating apparatus.

He said the catherization is a temporary device and that a new pacemaker may be necessary.

The pacemaker differs from catherization in that the wire is attached to the outside of the heart rather than through a vein to the inside of the heart.

The pacemaker, usually battery-powered, is worn outside the chest.

Dr. Trusler said it is not known whether Lisa will have to wear the pacemaker for the rest of her life or if her heart muscles will become stronger as she grows older.

End Bus Strike or Go to Jail, Union Head, Officials Advised

Found Guilty of Violating Injunction Against Strike

NEW YORK (AP) — The president of the Transport Workers Union, Michael J. Quill, and eight other union officials were ordered Monday night to end New York's crippling subway and bus strike, or go to jail.

Justice Abraham Geller of the State Supreme Court found them guilty of civil contempt in violating an injunction against the strike, which was handed down nine hours before workers walked off their jobs early New Year's Day.

As the judge read his order, contract negotiations continued, but no progress was reported.

The contempt verdict, issued after a five-hour hearing and three hours of deliberation, also applied to TWU Local 100, and to two locals of the Amalgamated Transit Union, also on strike.

Geller said he would sign the order, but stay its execution until 11 a.m. today.

He said the defendants had "full knowledge of the injunction," and they "chose to deliberately disobey court orders," thereby causing "in calculable damage to the people in the City of New York."

COULD GO TO PRISON

Geller said the law provides for imprisonment of the defendants until they instruct "in good faith" all members of their unions to end the strike.

Quill has said repeatedly he would "rot in jail" if necessary, but that would not end the walkout, which has the largest city in the Western Hemisphere reeling under stalled commerce and a paralysing glut of auto traffic.

Union lawyers said they would make an immediate appeal.

The transit authority, which asked for the injunction, met all day with mediators and the unions, with "no significant change" reported.

One official said the outcome of the contempt proceedings would have a great effect on the progress of negotiations. He did not elaborate.

As night fell, much of the city's normally mobile population headed home on foot, but a feared jam of private vehicles, staved off in the morning, did pile up for about two hours at dusk.

MANY WALKED

Tens of thousands walked, as they had earlier in the day to reach their jobs, creating long, meandering lines on roadways and bridges.

But the flow of cars built up, too, in a thickening crawl that often came to enormous, tangled standstills, particularly in congested lower Manhattan, and at bridge approaches.

It was the first working day of a strike that started Saturday and the full effects hit the largest city in the United States, normally held together by its vast web of subway and bus lines.

About half of the city's workers never reached their jobs, delivering a staggering blow to commerce and industry.

Many stores, without shoppers, closed early. Others—including up to 50 per cent of the major restaurant chains — never opened, for lack of working crews.

Millions simply stayed home.

Labor Asks Manpower Agency

VANCOUVER (CP) — The British Columbia Federation of Labor will submit a brief to the provincial government Thursday, calling for a joint federal-provincial manpower agency to control the supply of labor in the automation age.

The brief will ask the B.C. government to take the initiative by proposing such an agency to work closely with the federal government's manpower department.

The joint agency would co-ordinate manpower programs, placement, training and retraining, relocation of workers, vocational guidance and research.

Its first job would be to make a precise analysis of the labor supply and demand so that skills can be accurately related to the needs.

Army Takes Over in Upper Volta

ABIDJAN (Reuters) — The army has taken over in Upper Volta after weekend clashes and a general strike Monday, it was learned from diplomatic sources in this Ivory Coast capital.

Lt.-Col. Sangoupa Lamizana calmed demonstrators in Ouagadougou, the capital of Upper Volta, Monday, telling them: "According to the will of the people, the army will assume its responsibility."

Negro Elected Mayor in Ohio

SPRINGFIELD, Ohio (AP) — Robert C. Henry, a 44-year-old Negro funeral director, became mayor of Springfield Monday night, the only member of his race to be mayor of a large Ohio city.

Henry led the ticket for city commission in a November election and fellow members of the five-member commission selected him unanimously Monday night for the largely ceremonial office.

The top vote-getter in previous elections did not always get the nod for mayor.

Swearing in Henry was city law director Charles Carter — also the first Negro to hold that post in Ohio's ninth largest city.

Party Caucus Gives Pearson Unanimous Confidence Vote

OTTAWA (CP) — A beaming Prime Minister Pearson told a press conference Monday the Liberal party caucus had just given him a unanimous vote of confidence.

Asked about reports some Quebec MPs are dissatisfied with the leadership of Privy Council President Guy Favreau the prime minister replied, grinning:

"Everybody was happy about everything. . . ."

The closed meeting of Liberal MPs and senators was the first since the Nov. 8 election, which did not produce the party's much-desired Commons majority. The sessions continued into Monday night and today.

Mr. Pearson said he was breaking precedent by calling a press conference after a caucus. This was a special caucus since it came so long before the opening of Parliament, set for Tuesday, Jan. 18.

SIX ABSENT

Only six of the 131 Liberal MPs were absent from the opening session of the caucus.

Mr. Pearson said the leadership motion of confidence was introduced by H.-Pit Lessard, MP for Montreal St. Henri, and seconded by Charles Granger, MP for Grand Falls-White Bay-Labrador. He quoted a latin phrase meaning: "Not a single voice was heard in dissent."

Asked whether Mr. Favreau had received a similar vote of confidence as Quebec leader, the prime minister hesitated, then said he thought the Quebec caucus had done so. The question had not been put to the whole caucus because that would be improper.

Mr. Pearson said the first session was devoted to introducing the 29 new Liberal members and discussing the "nuts and bolts" of Commons rules and party organization. Later sessions would deal with the last election campaign and government policies in the new Parliament.

Prairie Schools Closed

EDMONTON (CP) — Bitter cold, snow and high winds during the holiday weekend killed two Prairie residents, slowed highway traffic and rail service and closed schools in many localities.

The weather office Monday predicted no letup in the deep freeze until at least Saturday. Although winds have died down and skies have cleared, temperatures will remain far below zero on the Prairies, with only slight moderation expected during daylight.

Highs today in Alberta were expected to range from 21 to 30 below zero from overnight lows of 35 below in the north to 30 below in the south.

Dr. Frank Dyck, 28, of Winnipeg, was found frozen to death Sunday about five miles south of Oakville, Man., 40 miles west of Winnipeg. RCMP said his car had run out of gas, and he had started to walk for help.

Mrs. Florence Dixie McNabb, 60, of Regina, died of apparent exposure on a municipal road near Regina.

Christmas holidays were extended for many students in Alberta Monday as blocked roads and bitter cold prevented schools from opening.

Snow, driven by gusting winds with sub-zero temperatures delayed train schedules on both the Canadian National and Canadian Pacific Railways.

Trains arriving and departing from Edmonton on the CN line were as much as 11 hours late. Up to 10 hours delay was experienced on CPR lines.

CPR officials said the extreme cold was freezing diesel lines to passenger cars cutting off heat.

Air Canada officials in Regina and Edmonton said flights were back on schedule. However, a few morning flights from Regina were slightly off schedule.

Eastern Canada Hit Too

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Snow and freezing rain buffeted Quebec and the Maritimes Monday, disrupting airline schedules and causing major traffic snarls.

Montreal's International Airport closed down at the height of a storm that dumped about two inches of snow on the city and in western and southern Quebec. The snow was followed by one inch of freezing rain that iced-up highways causing one-to two-hour disruptions in rail and bus schedules.

The situation was similar in Nova Scotia, New Brunswick and Prince Edward Island, where an intensifying sleet snow storm already had dropped from four to six inches on those provinces. Air Canada planes couldn't land at Saint John, N.B., and Fredericton.

New Brunswick is expected to get more than eight inches of snow before the storm moves overnight to Newfoundland, which was mainly sunny Monday.

Ontario had some snow flurries Monday after experiencing freezing rain New Year's Day.

In Ottawa, a brief pre-dawn fall of freezing rain Monday caused little difficulty because government offices remained closed for the holiday.

Quebec City had received seven inches of snow by early evening and two more inches was expected to fall before the storm moves on. The storm caused only minor disruptions in airline and highway traffic.

VICTORIA (CP) — Alfred W. Toone, the city's new mayor, was sworn in Monday by Mr. Justice R. A. Wootton in a colorful ceremony at the law courts.

Mayor Toone replaces Richard Wilson, who has retired after four years of service.

Danish, Russian Sailors Battle

MONTREAL (CP) — Russian and Danish sailors were reported Monday to have engaged in fisticuffs after their ships arrived here Saturday.

La Presse says a row broke out when the Danes accused the Russians of using "certain tactics" in the race to be first into Montreal harbor in 1966. The Russian ship Indigirka won, getting in about 20 minutes ahead of the Danish ship Thora Dan.

Humphrey Reports

U.S. Offers Everything Toward Possible Peace

By JOHN HEFFERNAN

WASHINGTON (Reuters) — Vice-President Hubert Humphrey said Monday the United States has "put everything into the basket of peace except the surrender of South Viet Nam."

He spoke to reporters following a White House conference with President Johnson and other top U.S. government officials on Viet Nam and other world problems.

Humphrey had returned an hour earlier from a tour of four Far Eastern capitals, where he had explained U.S. Vietnamese policy and its efforts to reach a settlement

The vice-president distributed to reporters a three-page Viet Nam policy statement which, he said, he had given to the leaders of Japan, the Philippines, Formosa and South Korea.

A similar document was believed to have been carried by all the special envoys whom President Johnson has dispatched to various capitals in explanation of his diplomatic offensive. Among the envoys was McGeorge Bundy, who went to Ottawa last week.

SUMS UP PROPOSALS

This summed up the history of U.S. peace initiatives in 14 points, and reiterated a readiness to hold a conference on the basis of the 1954 and 1962 Geneva agreements on Southeast Asia, where Hanoi's conditions for peace could be discussed, along with any other matter.

"In other words, we have put everything into the basket of peace except the surrender of South Viet Nam," Humphrey said.

Humphrey said his Far East trip convinced him that Asians know the United States regards them as partners and is trying to help them to build a better world.

"I believe that the message the American purpose in Southeast Asia is beginning to take hold. There is a better understanding of the justice of our cause in Viet Nam."

Meanwhile, Ambassador Averell Harriman flew to Tehran to see the Shah of Iran after conferring with Pakistan President Ayub Khan at Peshawar. Assistant State Secretary Mennen Williams sped on to Kenya after meeting Emperor Haile Selassie in Ethiopia.

Radio Hanoi harshly attacked the U.S. moves as it has done before. It said "the U.S. aggressors" in "their peaceful negotiations swindle" are really trying to "conceal their acts of war expansion."

PESSIMISM HANGS OVER INDIA-PAKISTAN TALKS

By SIDNEY WEILAND

TASHKENT (Reuters) — The leaders of India and Pakistan arrived in this Soviet Asian city to a cheering, flag-waving welcome Monday, but stayed silent on their plans for approaching the problems facing them at a Kremlin - sponsored summit meeting.

Prime Minister Lal Bahadur Shastri of India and President Mohammed Ayub Khan of Pakistan are scheduled to begin a new search for reconciliation today, little more than three months after their countries were locked in a fierce war over Kashmir.

The atmosphere on the eve of the talks was sober, cautious, and frankly pessimistic.

The first order of business was a meeting of Shastri, Ayub and their host, Soviet Premier Alexei Kosygin, to chart procedures for the parley, expected to last for a week.

Thousands of citizens in this sunny Central Asian city were given a half-holiday Monday. They lined the streets as Kosygin drove by twice in an open car, first with the tall, handsome Pakistani, then with the diminutive, dhoti-clad Indian.

NO STATEMENTS MADE

Both brought large delegations, including their foreign and defence ministers. Both smiled and waved in acknowledgment of the cheers, but made no public statements.

Tashkent Airport officials had a busy time, first putting up Pakistani flags, then hauling them down and replacing them with the Indian flag in time for Shastri's arrival from New Delhi, 2½ hours later.

The Soviet premier and the two Asian leaders are expected to meet informally this morning —a Soviet initiative aimed at breaking the ice before the formal summit conference opens in the afternoon, with Kosygin in the chair.

After the first formal session, Kosygin plans to withdraw, leaving the two disputants to talk in private.

Kosygin began informal soundings with his guests within minutes of their arrival. He had a brief talk with Ayub after escorting him to his villa on the city outskirts, then talked with Shastri. Later, he was reported to have seen the Pakistani leader again.

BIG LEAGUE DEBUT

The Soviet Union is making its debut as a go-between in a big-league international dispute. Attaching major importance to the conference, the Kremlin has provided a range of facilities unprecedented in the Soviet Union to enable news to move quickly out of Tashkent to the rest of the world.

There is widespread belief that if the talks seem in danger of breaking down, Kosygin will present a peace plan of his own. But this is likely to be held back until and if it is deemed necessary.

The positions of India and Pakistan appeared almost irreconcilable on the eve of the conference.

Shastri has said he is prepared to talk about Kashmir, the Himalayan region in dispute for 18 years, but not to negotiate its ownership. Pakistan, which holds two - thirds of Kashmir, says its claim to the state is the nub of all Indo-Pakistani problems.

Inaugural Meetings Throughout Kootenay - Boundary

Six mayors were sworn in Monday night as cities, towns and villages throughout Kootenay-Boundary held inaugural meetings.

At Creston Magistrate H. Langston conducted the swearing in ceremony with Mayor H. L. Dodd and the entire council taking the declaration of office, since Creston, previously a village became a town as of January 1, 1966.

Keith Marling and T. H. Walhovd were the two new aldermen elected. Included in the meeting was the appointment of H. J. Shankland and Company as auditors and Cooper and Vogel, solicitors.

Retiring mayor, A. W. Downey was asked to swear in new mayor, J. A. H. Goddard and aldermen Ezra Henniger, Milo McGarry, Arthur Stavenjord and Peter Podovinikoff at Grand Forks.

The meeting was preceded by a banquet for the retiring council and the newly elected council and their wives.

Magistrate Parker Williams conducted the swearing in at Trail with members of the Ministerial Association in attendance. Those taking oath of office were Joseph Palyga as mayor, and aldermen George Wood, Perry Landucci and Ugo Debiasio. Included in the meeting were reports from aldermanic committees of last year.

In Rossland Mayor Harry Lefevre and aldermen Lloyd Austin, Cecil Skinner and Ben Fleming took oaths of office, Magistrate J. S. Urquhart conducting the swearing in. At the inaugural meeting the new mayor addressed the council and committees were appointed as follows:

Finance: W. Woodhouse, Lloyd Austin, Ben Fleming and Patrick Keane; works and service: Cecil Skinner, Austin, Fleming and T. Wiltshire; fire, light and property: Keane and Fleming; union liaison: Woodhouse, Wiltshire and Skinner; improvement and development: Wiltshire, Skinner, Austin and Woodhouse; health, sanitation and safety: Fleming and Keane.

At Salmo Magistrate T. S. Dawson was in charge of the swearing in of commissioners and chairman of the village council, A. W. Hearn as chairman and commissioners Merle Hanson and Frank Wasnea.

Magistrate David Lunn conducted the swearing in of chairman Lorne Haas and commissioners George Pontius and Joseph Walz at Montrose. Year end reports were given by the previous council and proposals outlined for the coming year, along with the regular business meeting. Committees were also appointed for the coming year. J. D. Rothwell as chairman, assisted by J. G. Pontius are in charge of finance, hospital, civil defence and publicity; while the two men with Mr. Pontius as chairman are also in charge of water, fire, dog pound, and street lights.

Chairman S. G. Henke assisted by J. Walz are in charge of sewer, health and garbage. Works are under J. Walz as chairman assisted by S. G. Henke and Parks under chairman Lorne C. Haas. Bargaining and court of revision are handled by the whole council as well as the new safety committee.

Since the swearing in was conducted by a Montrose resident and the village's new magistrate for the area, David Lunn, it was decided to have a picture taken of the swearing in ceremony to hang in the village office.

Mr. Haas, addressing the commission, spoke words of praise for last year's commission, thanked village clerk D. V. Smith for his assistance and praised village employees Allan Wilcox and Steve Mikalishen.

At Cranbrook, County Court Judge Michelangelo Provenzano was on hand to swear in the full council. Mayor George Haddad, new aldermen W. E. Leonard, E. H. Delamont and J. S. Johnston and two new school trustees took the oath of office.

A banquet given by a local bank with the village of Marysville and Chapman Camp as hosts in the Elks Hall at Kimberley, preceded joint installation of municipal officials of the three centers. With Magistrate W. E. Leaman administering the oath of office Mayor H. W. Buckle, three new aldermen C. S. Kinrade, S. Wilson and H. C. Tapp and school trustees J. H. Broadhurst and D. E. Jardine were among those sworn in, along with Marysville chairman Victor Dick and commissioners James Broster and James Ogilvie. Chapman Camp council was returned by acclamation, headed by chairman Phil Haverstock.

MAGLIO SWORN INTO OFFICE

Letters Patent Presented To New Town of Castlegar

CASTLEGAR — Castlegar's first mayor received letters patent on behalf of the newly-formed town of Castlegar Tuesday night. Deputy minister of municipal affairs J. E. Brown presented the letters patent to the Kootenays' youngest mayor, R. C. Maddocks.

Welsh-born Mayor Maddocks, 30, later blew out the candles on a birthday cake marking Castlegar's 18th birthday at a banquet following the induction.

Sworn in as council members by Magistrate H. C. Pitts were aldermen Virgil R. Cook, James H. Corbett, F. Cecil Gorse and Lawrence Zino.

The ceremony was held at the town hall with W. H. Reed as chairman.

The new mayor and council were escorted to the banquet room by a red-coated RCMP escort.

Work for Common Good He Urges City Council

With a firm promise to work with the members of City Council for the common good of the citizens, Louis Maglio Monday night was sworn in as Mayor of the City of Nelson.

"If we are to achieve progress over the next two years," Mayor Maglio declared, "the credit will go to members of council. We must all work together for the common good."

The oath of office was administered to Mayor Maglio by Magistrate William Evans before a crowd of nearly 100 persons, members of council, and municipal employees who jammed city council chambers and spilled over into the entrance hall.

Mr. Maglio gave an undertaking to support the majority decisions of council, made in the interests of the majority welfare. He said he would undoubtedly disagree with members of council on occasions.

The incoming mayor promised to make full use of the city's department heads during his two-year administration, and paid tribute and extended congratulations to past mayors.

At conclusion of the swearing-in ceremonies, Mr. Maglio assumed the seat of honor at the head of council, and immediately launched the city's 1966 agenda of business.

He presided as Magistrate Evans administered the oath of office to three aldermen-elect, Hans Farenholtz, Kennedy Facchina and E. W. White. Mr. Farenholtz and Mr. Facchina had been members of the 1965 council. Mr. White was assuming office for the first time.

Mr. Maglio, a newcomer to the political scene, was elected mayor in his first race for a council seat, defeating incumbent Mayor E. T. Bodard, and former Mayor Thomas S. Shorthouse.

Farenholtz to Represent City on Regional Board

Alderman H. "Fritz" Farenholtz Monday night was named Nelson City Council's representative on the Kootenay Central Regional District board, as newly-installed Mayor Louis Maglio named his committee appointments for 1966.

Mr. Farenholtz will assume the duties on the Regional District Board formerly administered by defeated Mayor E. T. Bodard.

Mr. Maglio named himself as chairman of the executive and finance committee with aldermen J. H. MacMillan, Mrs. Edith VanMaarion and D. F. Porteous as members.

Heading the works, utilities and services committee is Mrs. Van Maarion with the other aldermen as members. She was also named council representative on the airport committee.

Other council representatives appointed were, Ald. E. W. White, civil defence; Ald. Kennedy Facchina, Selkirk Health Unit; Ald. D. F. Porteous, school board liaison; Mr. Facchina, local employment advisory board; Ald. Farenholtz and White, museum board; Mr. White, safety council; Ald. MacMillan and Porteous, advisory planning commission; Mr. Maglio, hospital board; Mr. Farenholtz, civic centre and recreation; and Mr. Maglio, municipal library board.

Council decided to continue holding its meetings on alternate Mondays, beginning with yesterday's meeting.

Snow Cleaning Methods Criticized at Grand Forks

GRAND FORKS — The city works department has been under fire from local merchants, who are complaining about snow cleaning methods used by the department. One of the problems created is the annoyance caused by the crew and equipment working during the morning traffic hour, council was told.

Suggestions from the council on better methods and times for snow removal will be forwarded to the superintendent of the public works.

The council expressed disappointment at the failure of the arena management, hockey officials, the council and the general public to agree on a schedule for skating and hockey.

Lack of hockey promotion may have set back the junior hockey leagues one year as a result of the poor attendance in the recent Trail-Nelson endeavor to introduce the games in the city.

It was suggested that council should take control of the arena since they pay the expenses, and organize it to prevent future failures of this sort.

In other business, the council has accepted a recommendation by the RCMP to enforce parallel parking in some areas during the winter months. It was felt that a complete survey should be made by the city works superintendent and submitted to the traffic control board before any permanent change is made.

A building permit to A. C. Danvers for construction of a $15,000 home has been held up until the council can meet with the owner and present the picture of the possible change in the map structure of the land in question. The council has received from Rawson and Wiles, town planners, several variations on map design of Plan 5 which need studying before a suitable one can be adopted.

Winlaw Children Present Concert

Children of the Winlaw Elementary School presented an enjoyable program to a large audience in the Winlaw Recreation Hall under the direction of Miss Lina O. Lardizabal and Larry Ellingson.

The choir, in uniform of white blouses and red skirts for the girls, black pants and white shirts for the boys, and red ribboned bows for all, was directed by Miss Lardizabal.

The every popular Jingle Bells was played as a piano and melody bells duet while a recitation of 'Twas The Night Before Christmas was accompanied with puppets.

The play depicted "Christmas in Foreign Lands" with Santa as guide for a group of children.

Highlight of the evening was a Bamboo dance taught by Miss Lardizabal, who has danced this national dance in her home in the Philippines.

Teachers and parents helped with costumes, decorations, etc., and special thanks were given to Mrs. Stach, who gave her time at rehearsals, and John Braun, who helped in heating the hall.

Mine Work Progresses

ROSSLAND — Mine buildings for Red Mountain Mines Limited molybdenum property have been going up with good progress because of the long, open fall.

Manager Bryan C. Fillingham said that steel work has been completed and equipment installed in the crusher building. Concrete has been poured and steel is arriving immediately for installation in the concentrator building. Also nearing completion are the fine ore bins and the power transmission line.

A water line has been installed from the mill to the Cascade highway where it will be connected with the city main and water pumped to the mill site.

Heavy snow is hampering construction but work will continue in order to have the mill ready for operation when mining starts in the spring.

Kosygin To Mediate India-Pakistan Fight

By HAROLD MORRISON
Canadian Press Staff Writer

Soviet Premier Alexei Kosygin attempts a high-wire act next week on a diplomatic trapeze that has tripped the reputations of lesser lights.

But skilful footwork at the Tashkent summit can provide him with a handsome reputation as a world diplomatic troubleshooter. It also can provide him with a major foothold on the Asian subcontinent.

Diplomatic realism and experience would suggest the most that can be expected from the meeting between India's Lal Bahadur Shastri and Pakistan's Mohammed Ayub Khan is agreement to withdraw troops from battlefields to national positions held before the Kashmir cauldron boiled over last August.

Since Kosygin initiated the invitation to the bustling Soviet city and now finds all eyes on him, the temptation is to get as much out of the Tashkent conference as possible, to show the world that the Soviet Union can succeed where others fail. Getting the two sides to agree on the future of Kashmir would be an achievement of startling dimensions but those who have tried in the past found a quagmire at the end of the road.

For this reason British diplomats are betting Kosygin will walk warily, seeking no more at this time than is realistically possible and using minor achievements as stepping stones to exert greater influence over the Indian subcontinent in the future.

The India-Paistan war over Kashmir has been costly to both sides. It was a war they could not afford. India's problem has been aggravated by famine spreading over parts of the country. But it is unlikely Ayub Khan would be satisfied with a mere withdrawal and standstill. He wants to see Kashmir liberated from Indian dominance and since he has the sympathy of China, undoubtedly he will continue to press his case.

Shastri maintains India's position in Kashmir is not negotiable but since India is so heavily dependent on aid from the Soviet Union and the United States, outside pressure could possibly force some modification of Indian policy. It also could destroy Shastri's political future.

U.S. UNHAPPY

The prospect of any success at Tashkent which would enhance the Soviet position on the subcontinent is unlikely to be relished by the United States which finds its own position there slipping.

Soviet intervention in the affairs of India and Pakistan can also be viewed in the context of attempts to increase Soviet influence in North Viet Nam and to reassert Soviet leadership in the Communist world.

While the U.S. may not relish the prospect of increasing Soviet influence on the subcontinent, neither may China, which seeks to establish its own dominance in Southeast Asia and to challenge Soviet leadership over world communism.

Year's End

The year of 1965 ended on a note of almost unprecedented peace activity, though with no solid evidence discernible to warrant any considerable amount of optimism.

There is a pause of sorts in the undeclared war which has been gaining momentum over the past few months in South Vietnam. The U.S. has suspended its bombing over North Vietnam. A brief ground truce was effective in South Vietnam on Christmas Eve. Another one is scheduled for the Vietnamese Lunar holiday Jan. 20. Both cease-fires represent initiatives from the Communist side in South Vietnam.

Meanwhile, as though to demonstrate to the world once and for all that the United States government is sincere in its desire for an end to the Vietnamese conflict and sincere in its willingness to take part in unconditional negotiations aimed at a peaceful settlement, President Johnson has sent top U.S. diplomats scurrying about the world to sound out every possibility which may exist of getting peace talks started.

The Johnson administration has been under criticism lately for having missed previous opportunities to enter negotiations with the Communist side. Even though denials have been issued and documented to the effect that no genuine opportunities were ever presented, the criticisms left some shadows of doubt. Quite obviously, President Johnson wants every vestige of doubt as to his peaceful intentions removed. Political and religious leaders abroad have been asking for peace. Mr. Johnson wishes the world to know that the U.S. desires a peaceful world as much as any other nation.

It is possible that the diplomatic talks in foreign capitals and the forthcoming visit of Russian officials to Hanoi do, in fact, presage a setting up of negotiations between the two warring sides in Vietnam. The success of any such negotiations would depend on whether North Vietnam or the U.S. have any concessions to make from the hard stands they have been taking. Each now demands that the other pull its forces clear out of South Vietnam before there can be any thought of an end to the conflict. The U.S. has made it clear it will do nothing of the kind. There is no evidence that the Communist attackers have any more intention of pulling out.

Thus, the year ends with the vicious war in Southeast Asia dragging on. The world can only hope and pray that the New Year's dawning will reap a fruitful harvest of all the peace-making attempts which have been going on and are continuing as the old year ended.

There is every possibility that, if the present efforts to gain a truce fail, the war will increase in extent and intensity during the months ahead. Bombing raids on North Vietnam will be stepped up. The territories of Laos and Cambodia will not likely be permitted to continue as safe staging bases and refuges for communist invaders. —Calgary Herald.

$50,000 Dream

VANCOUVER (CP)—Eight men are spending all their spare time and money on a $50,000 dream — a three-masted barque.

A year from now the group hopes to have completed the 150-ton, 86-foot barque. And they hope their 18-passenger ship will carry them into a life of charter sailing in both hemispheres.

The charter business is the idea and dream of Alex Brigola, 31-year-old life insurance salesman.

Mr. Brigola has inspired his seven companions to pour in 12,000 man hours and $25,000 into the project.

"The final cost will be something like $50,000," says skipper Brigola. "But there are thoudsands of dollars saved in labor."

The ship is taking shape in a leaky shed in the shadow of the Second Narrows bridge in neighboring North Vancouver. if all goes well, the launching will be early in 1966.

It will take a year to complete the as yet unnamed barque, on which the first two masts will be square rigged and the mainmast Bermudian schooner rigged.

Working with Mr. Brigola on the project are Fred Kolowrat, Frank Perner, George Novak, Heinz Bergman, John Boeckler, Ingo Huber and Peter Loewen.

The 60-horsepower diesels will be the only part of the ship not built by the crew.

India Considering Conscription

By RAM SUNDAR
Canadian Press Correspondent

BOMBAY (CP)—The Indian government is giving serious consideration to proposals for selective conscription.

Press reports say the military affairs committee of the national defence council favors some form of conscription.

Defence Minister Yeshwantrao Chavan has, however, indicated that no firm decision will be taken until all aspects of the matter are processed by experts.

The political correspondent of the New Delhi Statesman reports the tentative idea is that every year military and educational authorities would pick from the country's graduates about 10,000 young men who might seem the most promising material for the officer cadre of the armed frces.

After a brief training, says the correspondent, these recruits would be put through a rigorous process of selection to handpick about 2,000. These would form the base for the annual intake of officers and the maintenance of a reasonable reserve.

Observers say the government's main idea is to augment the "qualitative strength" of the defence forces. "Selective" conscription at the college level will ensure the recruitment of better educated officers representing different segments of society.

CRITICS OPPOSED

There is some opposition to conscription in any form. Critics say India should have a purely volunteer army despite "the combined challenge from Red China and Islamic Pakistan."

Opponents of conscription note there is no dearth of volunteers for the army. They quote official figures which show that since the Chinese invasion of October, 1962, 1,500,000 men have offered to enlist. Of these, 300,000 were recruited.

There has also been a spurt in voluntary recruitment since the recent 22-day undeclared war with Pakistan. All battle casualties already have been replaced, says the Bombay Times of India, which opposes conscription editorially.

But informed observers think that considering the country's present mood, Parliament will have no difficulty in passing a law for "selective conscription."

The general feeling in the ruling Congress party and among the various non-Communist opposition groups is that even if there is a settlement with Pakistan, India will need a strong army to defend itself against possible Chinese aggression.

Refuse Report

By BORIS MISKEEW

NEW YORK (CP) — The political committee of the NATO parliamentarians' conference has refused to approve a French-prepared report criticizing the United States and implying that the Atlantic alliance is a "historical relic rather than a real political entity," it was learned Thursday night.

The report, prepared by M. Boscher, head of the French delegation, came up Friday for study at the plenary session of the 15-nation conference which opened Monday.

Thursday was taken up with the study of such committee reports as that of the cultural affairs and information committee, the special committee on developing NATO countries, the scientific and technical committee, the military committee and the economic committee.

The report by Boscher, rapporteur of the political committee, was prefaced with: " . . . . The committee does not approve the report but, in order to allow freedom of expression and debate in plenary session, has permitted the report to go forward."

AGREES ON POINTS

The political committee stated that it agreed to certain points of the report but "would not wish to subscribe to its contents as a whole."

Boscher began his report by quoting an Austrian periodical which recently published an article by a group of experts who had been studying the position of their countries in relation to various political blocs and which referred to NATO as a "historical relic."

"Unfortunately, there seems to be a considerable amount of truth in that harsh appraisal," Boscher said.

The last year has been marked by a "permanent division" between the North Atlantic alliance allies on the organization's political and strategic concepts, he said.

France herself in the last year had ordered NATO nuclear arms out of the country, had withdrawn the French naval force from the alliance and President de Gaulle has even threatened to quit NATO.

Conservative Senator Grattan O'Leary of Ottawa, a member of the Canadian delegation to the week-long conference and a member of the political committee, said prior to the release of the committee report that there was an undercurrent of friction between the French and American delegations.

O'Leary said he told the committee that the withdrawal of France from NATO would be "tragic" to the alliance nations. He said Canada has always carried out her commitments to the alliance but that in case of French withdrawal Canadians, many of whom have close ties with France, might become less enthusiastic in their support for NATO.

The report of the military committee, submitted by rapporteur David W. Groos, Liberal member of Parliament for Victoria, was the last item of business during Thursday's debate before the session adjourned until Friday.

Groos, who left for home Wednesday night because of the Nov. 8 general election, said in his report — approved by the committee—that "it must be a matter of great concern to all NATO parliamentarians to note the air of uncertainty about the future of NATO.. . . . "

But, said Groos, it appears that there is a "deep well of good will among the member countries of NATO which . . . could provide through the normal channels of consultation whatever changes are necessary to satisfy the legitimate requirements of any member nation."

However, it is essential that the NATO partners be advised in detail of the changes that are sought by any member nation, Groos' report stated.

Doubts Arising in Washington

By ARCH MacKENZIE

WASHINGTON (CP) — How many Viet Nams and Dominican Republics can the United States handle?

This is one of the questions which creates doubts here about American foreign policy—made plainer in 1965—of countering threats of Communist expansion with unilateral global police action.

In Viet Nam, the troop commitments may be near 400,000 before 1966 ends. In Santo Domingo, where recent events show how tenuous the peace still is, there remain 9,000 American troops, or the bulk of the peace force hastily patched together by the Organization of American States.

There still are about 50,000 soldiers in South Korea and the American NATO forces in Europe, which some European Allies fear will be tapped for Viet Nam.

JOHNSON CRITICIZED

Democratic Senator Frank Church of Idaho, one of the critics of the American Vietnamese policy, recently wrote:

"As president of the U.S., Lyndon B. Johnson can no more protect the world from insurrection than Woodrow Wilson could make it safe for democracy.

"People are wondering: Are we to be self-appointed firemen scurrying to quench every revolutionary blaze no matter how repugnant the government that sounds the alarm?

"How many Dominican Republics and Viet Nams can we take on? What if revolution should now occur in Bolivia, Nigeria and Iran?"

His question helps explain the U.S. preoccupation with creating a full - time hemisphere peace force, an idea quietly shot down by Latin America. It helps explain the renewed U.S. backing in 1965 for a more effective United Nations and firm if limited support for Britain's program to break the Rhodesian rebel regime.

It also played a part in the recent renewal within NATO to depict China and the Vietnamese war as just as great a threat to NATO as the Soviet Union ever was.

But Church says the U.S. is going to have to take more realistic look at its foreign policy because of the sweeping change abroad in the world, the natural tendency for communism to promote "liberation movements" and the sheer impossibility of being everywhere at once.

Johnson may find it difficult to dampen U.S. fear - inspired pressure for more interventions Church says, "but if he submits to the siren songs of the new crusaders, he may well forfeit the great place in history he deserves for it will ill serve our interest, as it lies beyond our power, to impose a pax Americana on an unwilling world."

Non-Ferrous Metal Field in '65

NEW YORK (AP) — Unsuccessful attempts to increase the prices of aluminum copper topped developments in the U.S. non-ferrous metals field in 1965.

The aluminum and copper industries boosted prices in November and then, under government pressure, rescinded the action.

Aluminum producers sought to raise the price of basic ingots one-half cent a pound to 25 cents a pound and of fabricated metal one cent a pound. The government called the action unjustified and inflationary.

The government used its stockpile as a weapon to force a roll-back, threatening to sell 300,000 tons of surplus aluminum. This was more than the industry could take, and the price rise collapsed.

To meet the world price, most copper producers boosted the price of the red metal to 38 cents a pound from 36 cents. Only Kennecott Copper Corp., the No. 1 producer, declined to go along.

The government met this with the same tactics it had used with aluminum. It ordered at least 200,000 tons of stockpiled copper sold on the open market.

The producers called off the price increase and some producers said they welcomed the release of metal from the stockpile because the heavy demand exceeded production.

The copper industry had been successful in raising the price to 36 cents a pound from 34 cents in May.

The accelerating use of copper in the Viet Nam war further tightened the U.S. supply situation.

Aluminum shipments, including exports, during the year were estimated at 8,060,000,000 pounds, a gain of 12.4 per cent over 1964.

The demand for lead and zinc remained strong but prices held steady.

Russ Venture Into Diplomatic Role Has Anti-China Overtones

By HENRY S. BRADSHER

MOSCOW (AP) — The Soviet Union has taken on a significant new diplomatic venture by being host at a conference this week between the government chiefs of feuding India and Pakistan.

The most important result of the meeting is likely to be the emergence of the Soviet Union as a would-be peacemaker for Asia.

This is a role that has anti-Chinese connotations.

Improvement of Indian-Pakistan relations is considered a remote prospect by some here who are familiar with the difficulties between the two countries.

Prime Minister Lal Bahadur Shastri of India and President Mohammad Ayub Khan of Pakistan will consider those difficulties in Tashkent, the main city of Soviet central Asia, at the invitiation of Premier Alexei N. Kosygin. Kosygin flew to Tashkent Sunday.

Kosygin's role will be that of a middleman who avoids urging any solutions, according to the Indians. They have taken pains to make sure Kosygin understands that they do not want interference.

INDIA RELUCTANT

Shastri has made it clear publicly that he was being dragged reluctantly to the conference table. He will be unwilling to make any meaningful change in India's stand on Kashmir.

The dispute over Kashmir is the heart of 18 years of hostility between India and Pakistan. It erupted late last summer into a 22-day undeclared war. India denies the Kashmiri people the right of self-determination because of a well-founded fear they would choose Pakistan, which covets the area.

When Kosygin first proposed the meeting Sept. 17, Ayub had hopes of United Nations action on Kashmir. But after the fighting ended Sept. 22, the hopes faded.

Pakistan finally agreed to the Tashkent meeting as a way of keeping the Kashmir issue alive. India had to agree to talk or look unreasonable.

The Soviet Union has in the past given complete support to the Indian grip on Kashmir. Soviet vetoes in the United Nations protected India from Pakistani demands for plebiscites at a time when Pakistan was an active member of two anti-Communist military alliances.

NOW FAVORS PAKISTAN

Now, however, Moscow is seeking to improve its relations with a Pakistan that has allowed its Western alliances to atrophy. The Kremlin no longer says India is completely right in Kashmir.

The Russians want to be more friendly with Pakistan in an effort to counter Ayub's increasingly serious flirtation with Communist China.

Indian sources here and in New Delhi contend Pakistan is getting from China the weapons it has been denied in the West. Soviet military aid for India, which began several years ago, has continued despite the September war.

The Soviet arms aid to India was originally intended to bolster that country against China. It thus constituted an indirect violation of the 1950 Soviet-Chinese military alliance.

Kosygin's peacemaking move can be interpreted primarily in terms of trying to reduce chances for Chinese gains in South Asia.

It also involves an effort to prevent India from turning more to the West in reaction to a Pakistani tie with China.

Better Chance for the Indians

The plight of Canada's reservation Indians is causing increased concern across the country. Yet an Indian Affairs Branch pilot scheme in Manitoba has proved so successful in dealing with the problems of poverty, alcoholism and hopelessness among one reservation band that it is being adopted on a nationwide basis.

The key to the scheme is the appointment of a community development officer. The first such officer appointed by the IAB was Garth Crockett, who started work four years ago with the 1700 Salteaux Indians on the sprawling 25,000-acre Fort Alexander reserve 70 miles northeast of Winnipeg.

Crockett's job was to give the Indians something to live for. By the time he had finished he had established:

—A pulpwood-cutting co-operative owned, managed and staffed entirely by Indians that has poured more than $200,000 in wages and investment into the reserve;

—A wild-rice co-operative made up of 10 reserves with its headquarters in Fort Alexander;

—A new fishing co-operative that has its own boats, motors, nets and an ice house, a packing station and a truck.

Crockett also sparked a palace revolution among the band councillors in which the old-guard chief and his men were ejected in favor of younger, more enterprising representatives.

Net result has been that some Indians on the reserve now make as much as $100 a week during the winter months and the band as a whole is regaining pride and confidence in itself.

The long-term hope; with the IAB now appointing 29 more community development officers and recruiting some 30 others, a solution is in sight to a situation that has long been Canada's shame.

What Next?

In the course of signing photographs for a new passport recently, a housewife we know learned to her surprise and delight that there remains a power capable of awing and mystifying today's blase moon children.

Ballpoint pens may write under water and on butter but, for signatures on glossy photos, they are a dead loss, our housewife discovered.

So she rooted in a junk box, found an old fountain pen, rejuvenated the ink sediment in the sac with tap water, identified her likeness palely but good enough for External Affairs, took an instant consensus of the dumbfounded leotard set which was her witness, and immediately appreciated that she'd stumbled on a find as momentous in its way as the Rosetta Stone, if not bouncing putty.

This was real scientific wizardy, and the kids knew it. A writing tool which sucked up juice by a flick of a lever and spat it down through a golden nib, ink spots and blue-black fingers and a gurgle as satisfying as sipping soda through a straw — this, for a generation raised on viscous-coated ball bearings rolling in sockets, had to be seen to be believed. Next day the pen was at school for Show and Tell.

Pupils Research Foghorn

SAINT JOHN, N.B. (CP)—Pupils in the Grade 5 class at St. Teresa School in Kitchener, Ont., shouldn't be too unhappy.

The inventor of the foghorn may have received little money for his device but he is at least remembered and recognized in Saint John, the city in which he worked.

The St. Teresa pupils, whose teacher is Francis Dentinger, did some research on Robert Foulis, an engineer, music teacher, artist and inventor, who built the first steam foghorn in 1854

They learned that the first commercial use of his invention was made on Partridge Island here in 1859 but they were disturbed to discover that he died penniless and felt he had not "received the honor which is due him for his invention."

What they may not have known was that the Historic Sites and Monuments Board of Canada installed a bronze tablet in his honor in the customs house here in 1928, also that many people here know the story of the invention.

Foulis was en route from Scotland to the United States when he was shipwrecked off the coast of Nova Scotia. He landed at Halifax and stayed there until 1822 when he moved to Saint John.

He was working as a music teacher when he got the idea for the foghorn. He asked his daughter to play the scale on the piano while he walked a hundred paces down the street listening. At the end of his walk he could hear only the low note on the piano.

He decided that a horn employing such a note would be useful in warning ships of danger. Money was collected to install the first foghorn on Partridge Island and a man was hired to blow it at one-minute intervals when there was fog.

There is still a foghorn on the island today but it's the modern type. Foulis's steam-operated horn was replaced years ago.

Sean Connery Tops List

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — James Bond's capture of the American movie market became official Sunday. His portrayer, Sean Connery, shot to the top of the list of money-making stars.

The rugged Scotsman was hailed the No. 1 draw in Motion Picture Herald's annual poll of movie exhibitors. He displaced the 1964 leader, Doris Day, who dropped to third after three years on top.

The top 10 money-makers, according to the poll:

Connery, John Wayne, Miss Day, Julie Andrews, Jack Lemmon, Elvis Presley, Cary Grant, James Stewart, Elizabeth Taylor, Richard Burton.

Motion Picture Herald has been polling theatre men since 1932, when the No. 1 star was Marie Dressler. The results provide a good idea of who is doing what at the box office.

Nature of God, Sermon Subject

A consideration of the nature of Deity was the theme of Sunday's service on "God" in all Christian Science churches throughout the world.

Included was Moses' well-known injunction from Deuteronomy: "Know therefore this day, and consider it in thine heart that the Lord he is God in heaven above, and upon the earth beneath: there is none else."

Guard, Girl Escape to West

BERLIN (Reuters)—A young East German border guard and a 16-year-old East German girl escaped together to West Berlin Saturday night under a hail of sub-machine-gun bullets, West Berlin police reported. Their only injuries were scratches from the three barbed-wire fences through which they climbed, a British spokesman said. The guard, a 20-year-old corporal, was in civilian clothes.

ESCAPEES CAPTURED

SUDBURY, Ont. (CP)—Seven of eight men who escaped New Year's Eve from the nearby Burwash prison farm were recaptured within two hours early Monday near Hartley Bay, 35 miles south of here, on the French River. U.K. FASHIONS WELL RECEIVED

LONDON (Reuters)—Britain's fashion invasion of wholesale markets in Canada and the United States fell just over $66,000 short of its million-dollar target, it was announced here.

The 17-strong British team of leading fashion houses last month braved Atlantic storms and the power blackout to show their collections to North American buyers at sea on the liner Queen Elizabeth, and in New York harbor.

"Over a thousand buyers, fashion executives and press saw our presentations and visited the firms' showrooms in the Plaza Hotel there," said Frederick Starke, chairman of the government-sponsored Cunard project committee.

He gave a breakdown of $805,383 worth of orders from the United States and $128,332 worth from Canada.

Hilarious Entertainment For 400 at Kaslo Concert

KASLO — Every available chair and bench was in use when over 400 people filled the auditorium of Kaslo school for the annual Christmas concert by the students of elementary grades.

Always the best-attended entertainment of the year, this was the most successful to date. "Excellent," "the best ever," and "quite outstanding," were comments heard at its conclusion. Over $115 was realized for the elementary school fund and for a gift to the children's ward of Victorian Hospital.

After the introduction by principal J. V. Humphries, tiny Irene Leathwood, dressed is a white bunny with huge ears, announced the original operetta, "Christmas in the Forest", by the primary grades. This was a forest scene and portrayed a Christmas party given for all the animals by the fairy queen when she overheard the wish of some children that animals could have fun at Christmas too.

Lasting some 40 minutes, the operetta consisted of fairy dances, a rhythm band number by ten baby rabbits, an hilarious square dance by eight penguins, and a "rock and roll" number by over 60 children in costume. Peter Panda and his trick horse, "Trigger", had the audience convulsed with laughter as did the antics of Sammy Skunk until he was reformed by the fairy queen. This part of the program closed with a chorus by the entire cast.

Next was a group of songs from "Mary Poppins" by the pupils from Mr. McKee's room. These were trained and accompanied by Mrs. M. Miller and featured some excellent solo parts.

After intermission the pupils from Mrs. Siler's room, grades 5A and 6B, put on "Moonlit Escalator", a skit on a well-known TV program. This featured commercials, recitations and a well-played "silent spot" where the difficulties of a local merchant to improve his business were portrayed in an hilarious manner.

The final number was Dickens' "Christmas Carol," by grades 6A and 7, Mrs. Miller's pupils. This was portrayed in a clever manner using opposite sides of the stage with effective lighting and costuming. From the first scene of Scrooge banishing the carol singers to the final one of his reformation, it held the attention of the audience and received hearty applause.

While the cast remained on the stage, the remaining elementary school students filed on for the two carols, "God Rest You Merry Gentlemen" and "Deck the Halls" in which the audience joined the 170 children to close a most successful concert.

Hints From Heloise

By Heloise Cruse

Dear Heloise:

I am almost 11 years old, and Mom suggested that I send my "idea for safety" to you and your readers.

We have an old freezer (the kind that is NOT upright) in our basement.

Since we don't use this freezer, I thought that it could be turned on its back so the door (top) would be against the wall.

Now, there is less danger that anyone will climb in and perhaps suffocate.

So, please ask your readers to turn old refrigerators and freezers around or over for safety's sake.

Love, Daisy.

Dear Heloise:

At present-opening time on Christmas Eve or Christmas Day, everyone used to open all of their packages at the same time.

In all the excitement, quite often we did not get to see what each person had received, and that is half the fun of opening the presents.

So . . . we decided it would be more fun for everyone to open one gift; the person seated next to him would open one, and so on until all of the gifts had been opened.

As gifts were opened, they were passed around or held up so everyone could see them.

This takes a lot more time — but who's in a hurry on this festive occasion.

Naturally, since the children receive more gifts than grown ups, they finish opening the rest of theirs afterwards.

Church Group Finds Abortion Can Be Sometimes Justifiable

By CAROL KENNEDY

LONDON (CP)—A committee set up by the Church of England to investigate the abortion problem in Britain concludes abortion is justifiable "in certain circumstances" but advocates a change in the present ambiguous law to put the back-street abortionist out of business.

The number of illegal abortions performed annually in Britain is sometimes estimated as high as 100,000.

In a report published Thursday by the church information office, the 10-member committee recommends legislation to enable a registered medical practitioner to terminate pregnancy "in the reasonble belief that if the pregnancy were allowed to continue there would be grave risk of the patient's death or of serious injury to her health or physical or mental well-being."

Such termination at the mother's request would only be performed after consultation and agreement with another registered doctor—except where consultation might involve a fatal delay.

No clearer definition of the term "well-being" is given in the report's recommendations, which take the form of an amendment to a bill recently submitted by Labor peer Lord Silkinand now undergoing redrafting after a second reading in the House of Lords.

CASES DIFFERENT

Canon I. T. Ramsey, chairman of the committee, told a press conference Thursday they did not want the phrasing more specific, because each case was bound to have different aspects and would have to be judged on its merits.

Noting Lord Silkin's bill suggested specific categories for legal abortion—including pregnancy resulting from rape, the possibility of a deformed birth and unfavorable social conditions for child-rearing—Canon Ramsey said the term "well-being" would take all such aspects into account.

He stressed the doctors' decision would be based on the effects of such facts on the mother, rather than on the facts themselves.

The report does not represent any official doctrinal position by the Church of England, which has no present defined stand on the problem.

The 10-member committee, which included four clergymen and three doctors, was set up by the church assembly's board of social responsibility, a body that has previously issued reports on social problems ranging from suicide to industrial redundancy.

HAS NO AUTHORITY

"This report has no authority beyond that of the people on the committee who produced it," said Canon Ramsey, adding it was hoped it would be studied by all who were socially and professionally concerned with the problem, including Parliament.

Three main considerations had been behind the committee's work, Ramsey said. They were:

—A need to regularize the present confused and uncertain state of the law where a doctor never knows whether, if he acts on one of the legal precedents for abortion, it may be overturned by a different court judgment.

—A need to sweep away widespread allegations of "one law for the rich and another for the poor." Women should be able to talk over the problem in the calm atmosphere of a hospital rather than resort to a hole-in-the-corner operation, whether in an expensive nursing home or in some sleazy back-street apartment.

—A need to match the law with "new insights into human needs and sufferings."

Rev. Gordon Dunstan, committee secretary, said a change in the law could only be a first step and must be backed up by an educational campaign to induce more responsibility in sexual relationships.

MARKET TRENDS

NEW YORK (AP)—The stock market made its 1966 debut Monday with a scrambled pattern, highlighted by strength in coppers and aerospace issues and weakness in steels.

Volume was dampened by the New York transit strike. Turnover of 5,950,000 shares compared with 7,250,000 Friday, a year - end session. A week ago Monday, 5,970,000 shares changed hands.

Bethlehem and Inland Steel were targets of selling because their price increase for structural steel drew fire not only from U.S. government economists but also from Defence Secretary McNamara, who directed government orders for structural steel away from any firm which raised prices.

Coppers advanced as prices for the metal were boosted in Africa and Chile.

The Dow Jones industrial average took a small loss of .72 at 968.54. The Associated Press averages of 60 stocks edged up .2 to a new closing high of 358.7 with industrials down .1, rails up .6 and utilities down .1.

Standard and Poor's broad, 500-stock index dropped .25 to 92.18.

Of 1,395 issues traded, gainers outnumbered losers by 630 to 547. New highs for 1965-66 totlled 58 and new lows 7. Eight of the 15 most active stocks rose, five fell and two were unchanged.

Inland Steel dropped 1½ and Bethlehem ended with a decline of ½. U.S. Steel, sitting on the fence, lost ⅜, Armco ½, Republic ¼, Jones and Laughlin ⅝. Lueksn rose ⅝.

Among coppers, Anaconda spurted 3½ and Kennecot 1⅛ while Cerro, Magma and Phelps Dodge were content with fractional gains.

NOVEMBER 23 to DECEMBER 21 (Sagittarius) — You dislike some things intensely, as do most of us. But we must not show it too readily else we shall have friction, squabbles. Remember this now.

DECEMBER 22 to JANUARY 20 (Capricorn) — Better-than-average aspects. Look back at your record thoroughly. Where can you inject a new, refreshing note, better strategy?

JANUARY 21 to FEBRUARY 19 (Aquarius) — Don't let good chances pass you by now. Emphasize your talents and be optimistic about the day. It is brighter than you may realize.

Erase the faults and the picture is clear, bright, attractive. The Capricornian can assist in remarkable fashion when he, she, wishes to. You should enjoy artistic things, outdoor life, travel, social events. Birthdate of: Stephen Decatur, early American Naval Commander.

COURT CASES PILE UP

TORONTO (CP)—A backlog of 4,500 criminal cases has piled up for metropolitan Toronto courts, 1,000 ahead of the number at the start of 1965, metro Property Commissioner Frank Cavill said Monday. He hopes to use space in the old city hall to ease the situation.

TORONTO (CP)—Believed to be the first young immigrant allowed out of Russia to Canada in many years, David Grunberg, 10, arrived Monday by air for a reunion with his father. Roger Crozier Records Two Shutouts As NHL Netminders Have Big Week

MONTREAL (CP) — Goaltenders stole the spotlight in the National Hockey League last week as sharpshooters found points harder to get than usual.

Statistics released by NHL headquarters today show that with the exception of league-leader Bobby Hull of Chicago Black Hawks and runner - up Bobby Rousseau of Montreal Canadiens, each of whom scored four points, none of the top 10 scorers gained more than three.

The points leader last week was George Armstrong of Toronto Maple Leafs, who scored five, including three goals.

Roger Crozier of Detroit Red Wings, last season's shutout leader with six and winner of the rookie award, chalked up two shutouts last week, giving him a league-leading five for the season.

RECEIVED HELP

He received some help from backup netminder Hank Bassen in Detroit's 1-0 victory over Boston last Tuesday when he needed medical attention. Bassen played seven minutes and 56 seconds of the first period.

TERRY SAWCHUK
. . . Assists Record

It was the first time since Dec. 2, 1950 that two goaltenders on the same team shared a shutout, but because Crozier played more of the game, he receives the shutout credit.

In 1950, Turk Broda replaced Al Rollins in the Toronto nets after Rollins received a cut over the eye. In the same game, goalie Harry Lumley of Chicago Black Hawks suffered a broken nose but finished the game, which ended in a 0-0 tie.

Glenn Hall of Chicago gained his fourth shutout of the season in a 3-0 victory over New York Rangers.

It was Hall's 71st NHL shutout and ties him with Lumley in third place among the all-time list of shutout leaders.

HOLDS RECORD

Terry Sawchuk, Toronto goaltender who holds the career record of 97 shutouts—three more than runner-up George Hainsworth, former Montreal and Toronto netminding great—set a record for assists by a goal tender when he received his sixth of his career during Toronto's 3 - 2 win over Montreal last Wednesday.

Hall is the runner-up in that category with five assists, one more than Jacques Plante had during his stint with Montreal and New York.

Hull, the Black Hawks star left winger, kept the scoring lead as he boosted his total to 49 points, including a league-leading 29 goals.

Rousseau is second with 40 points and the Canadiens' right winger leads the NHL in assists with 24.

Third is Stan Mikita of Chicago with 38 points, followed by Norm Ullman and Gordie Howe of Detroit, who have 37 and 35 points respectively.

Mikita has 18 goals and 20 assists. An assist credited to him in a Dec. 25 game at Toronto has been deleted.

Defenceman Jacques Laperriere of Montreal is the league's highest-scoring rear guard with 24 points.

Ted Green of Boston Bruins leads the league in individual penalty minutes with 85 while New York is the team leader with 444 minutes.

Buffalo Plans Seat Expansion

BUFFALO, N.Y. (AP) — The City of Buffalo is prepared to spend $2,500,000 to increase the seating capacity of Memorial Auditorium if Buffalo is given a National Hockey League franchise says the Courier-Express.

The Buffalo newspaper said Mayor Frank A. Sedita confirmed plans to expand the auditorium, now used by Buffalo Bisons of the American League.

MAKES BID

A Buffalo group made a bid for one of two uncommitted franchises in the NHL's proposed second, six-team division.

The project calls for an increase in seating capacity to 16,080 from 9,850 to be accomplished by elevation of the roof 18 feet and erection of a new balcony.

Sedita said he planned to include the necessary funds in his proposed 1966-67 capital expenditures budget.

Whales yield vitamins, cold cream, margarine, machine oil and glue.

Dineen Won't Join Nats For World Tournament

VANCOUVER (CP) — Centre Gary Dineen does not expect to join Canada's national hockey team for the world tournament in Yugoslavia in March.

"I can't sacrifice my academic career for one tournament," Dineen said in an interview Monday night.

A fourth-year economics student at the University of British Columbia, Dineen described the 1965-66 academic term as "the year I'm supposed to be out of hockey."

He retreated on this resolution long enough to star for the national team during the Christmas vacation at an international tournament in Colorado Springs.

"I don't want to go to Europe unless I'm ready to play," he said. "I'd have to practise two hours a day here and I don't think I can afford that with the extra academic load I'm carrying.

"I'd have to play at least three to six games with the team before the tournament to . . . get to work with my wings properly."

Dineen said he has discussed the matter in a general way with team advisor Rev. David Bauer and coach Jackie McLeod.

"But it's my own decision."

Calgary Spurs Dumped By Swedish Nationals

CALGARY (CP) — The touring Swedish national team displayed impeccable passing and superb conditioning Monday to down Calgary Spurs 6-3 in an exhibition hockey game before 5820 fans.

Spurs are runaway leaders in the Western Canada Senior Hockey League.

Swedish marksmen were paced by Hans Lindberg with two goals. Bjorn Palmqvist, Henric Hedlund, Lars-Ake Sivertson, and Tord Lundstrom added singles and the tourists led 3-1 and 5-1 by intervals.

Ken Cairns, Scott Watson and Warren Hicks replied for Spurs, who trailed 6-1 until Watson and Hicks tallied within a minute and 24 seconds early in the third period.

Calgary served 12 minor penalties in the rough contest. The Swedes were assessed seven minors and a 10-minute misconduct.

Swedish goaltender Ingemar Caris blocked 14 shots, compared with 28 by Calgary netminedrs Dave Butts and Adam Kryczka.

Palmqvist opened the scoring at 5:04 of the first period after Butts had made good stops on Lundstrom and Folke Bengtsson, and Hedlund tallied two minutes later with a low shot from a bad angle.

Cairns ,a graduate of Colorado State University ,took a pass from former pro Jimmy Brown to halve Spurs' deficit at 12:35. Cairns wrapped a hot 20-footer between Caris' pads.

Turning point of the game occurred with a minute and 20 seconds left in the first period when Sivertson broke away from Calgary pressure and whistled a high backhander past Butts.

Sivertson was given an avenue when Calgary defenceman Zeke Hamilton stumbled.

Clever passing set up Lindberg's first goal early in the second period and Lundstrom scored with Calgary two men short late in the frame.

Swedes' third power-play goal was tallied by Lindberg early in the third period after Lundstrom and Hakan Wickberg set him up. A penalty to Stig-Goran Johansson started the brief Calgary comeback.

Brown fed Watson a perfect pass up the middle and the former Regina Pat junior slipped a half-speed shot past Caris, then Marty Desmarais and Hicks combined neatly for the final goal.

The fans who attended despite 30-below temperatures watched both clubs play aggressively under international rules. Spurs came close to tying the score late in the first period but did not take control again until the brief stretch in the third when they tallied twice and came close on a third occasion.

Summary:

Reay Calls for Crackdown As Second Hawk Speared

CHICAGO (AP) — Manager Billy Reay of Chicago Black Hawks called for a crackdown Monday by National Hockey League officials against players who deliberately use their sticks as spears.

After Chico Maki scored the league-leading Hawks' last goal in the final period for a 3-1 victory over Boston Bruins Sunday night, Maki wound up in a heap in the corner behind the net.

Reay charged that Maki had been speared by Boston's Ron Stewart just as he was swinging away from the goal. Chico was penalized by referee John Ashley for slashing at Stewart just before he hit the ice. No penalty was called on Stewart.

"I didn't know who did it, but I saw a Bruins' sweater nearby as I was going down and took a swipe at it," said Maki, displaying a large welt on his stomach.

"I asked Ashley if he had seen me get speared and he told me he was sorry but he had missed it.

BILLY REAY

IS INDIGNANT

"That's great, isn't it? ' Guy could get killed and he missed it."

Reay said he wonders how much longer officials are going to allow his Hawks to be used for bayonet practice by the rest of the league.

Chico is the second guy to be pitchforked in two weeks," he said. "Eddie Shack got away with a minor penalty in Toronto Christmas night when he almost put his stick through the middle of Stan Mikita, and now Stewart gets away clean against Maki.

"I know that every time we complain out loud we are called cry babies, but you just can't keep your mouth shut when things like this are going on all the time."

Red Wings' Production Line Faces Canadiens' Punch Unit

MONTREAL (CP) — Can Detroit Red Wings' Production Line offset Montreal Canadiens' Punch Line?

Will the great Gordie Howe's stamina and all-round ice magic counteract the great scoring punch of the master opportunist Maurice (Rocket) Richard?

These are questions that might have faced hockey buffs of more than a decade ago, but the same questions will come to mind again Jan. 21.

The revived speculation surrounds the appearance at the Forum of Detroit Red Wings Oldtimers against the Quebec Oldtimers and a return engagement of the teams at Detroit Olympia Jan. 28.

Both games are on behalf of charities.

The Quebecers recently travelled to Sudbury, Ont., for a game against that district's former stars and came home with a 7-3 victory—four of their goals scored by the Rocket.

The Quebecers have been working out Monday nights at the suburban Lachine arena for the last two months and according to playing-coach Glen Harmon, the former Canadiens defence star, are in "pretty good shape."

TO REJOIN MATES

"However, you'll notice that we've scheduled the games a week apart," Harmon said. "If it goes the way we hope it does, it might take some of us that long to recuperate."

Hector (Toe) Blake, who says he will reunite with former linemates Elmer Lach and Richard to bring the Punch Line back, said with a smile he will appear because "who else have they got out there who can check Gordie Howe?"

Blake was referring to the fact that the Detroit group had received permission for Howe—still an active player—to appear with his old linemates, left-winger Ted Lindsay and centre Sid Abel.

Abel now is general manager and coach of the Wings.

In the Quebec lineup will be some not - so - old performers, and Detroit hopes to nullify these by the addition of Howe.

Dickie Moore, who announced his retirement from the National Hockey League at the start of this season, and Dollard St. Laurent have remained active in local hockey circles.

Jacques Plante, who came out of retirement to turn back the Russian national team 2-1 at the Forum in December, had been scheduled to play goal for the Quebec entry.

MAY NOT HAVE PLANTE

However, Plante cancelled out of the Sudbury trip at the last minute because of illness and the local former pros were forced to use a substitute netminder for that game.

"Right now we don't know if Jacques will play or not," Harmon said.

The Quebecers are reported to be seeking the services of former Canadiens star Gerry McNeil to fill in for the mercurial Plante.

Ken Reardon, a former all-star and vice-president of the Montreal club, will join Harmon on defence, as will St. Laurent and Butch Bouchard.

Up front, Richard, Lach and Blake, Moore, Floyd Curry, Ken Mosdell, Pete Morin and Buddy O'Connor will carry the load.

Harry Lumley will guard the nets for Detroit and coach Ebbie Goodfellow hopes to augment his production line with such former players as Leo Reise, Jimmy Orlando, Norm Smith, Stu Evans, Jimmy Peters, Joe Carveth, Marty Pavelich, Carl Liscombe and Bep Guidolin.

Carleton's Future Hinges On Exhibition

TORONTO (CP) — Wayne Carleton's future in the National Hockey League may hinge on how he comes out of Wednesday night's exhibition hockey game here between the Swedish national team and Toronto Marlboros of the Junior A Ontario Hockey Association.

Carleton, who played briefly but well with Toronto Maple Leafs in their NHL game here last Saturday in which they defeated Boston Bruins 6-3, and again Sunday in Detroit, will play for the Marlies Wednesday.

It will be his first full game this season.

Carleton, tabbed as a hot prospect by the Leafs, wrenched a knee playing baseball two years ago and has had four operations since then trying to correct ailments to both knees.

Carleton, 19, played four minutes against Boston Saturday. The six - foot - three, 215-pound winger had four shots on goal and drew an assist in his first NHL game. Sunday night in Detroit he took a regular turn on the ice for half the game as the Leafs lost 4-0 to the Red Wings, ending a 10-game undefeated string by Toronto.

Carleton's performance prompted speculation that Leaf manager-coach George (Punch) Imlach might keep him with the NHL club rather than send him back to the Marlboro farm team.

WITH STANE AND BESOM

Results of games held Monday night in Men's Curling Club:

E. Mason 11, J. Braybrook 8.
J. Sutherland 8, J. Leeming 10.
D. Winlaw 11, J. Thom 8.
F. Carmichael 2, G. Koehle 9.
W. Wait 9, M. Buerge 9.
E. Leeming 8, J. Harvey 9.

Draws scheduled for Thursday have been cancelled due to the hockey game and will be played at a later date.

Howe Will Play Three Years, Score 700 Goals — Sid Abel

By BEN OLAN

NEW YORK (AP) — Gordie Howe will score 700 goals and play hockey for another three years. That is the prediction of Jack Adams, the man who signed him for Detroit Red Wings.

"Gordie is so much better than most of the players that he could slow down by 50 per cent and still be one of the best in the National Hockey League," said Adams, the Wings' general manager for 35 years before resigning in 1962.

Adams, 70, recently won the Lester Patrick Memorial Award for long and meritorious service to hockey in the United States. He is currently president of the Central Professional Hockey League.

Howe, 37, a native of Floral, Sask., is in his 20th big league campaign. He is the circuit's career scoring leader, with 610 goals.

'EASY TO HANDLE'

"He's a great competitor and always was easy to handle," Adams said in a telephone interview from Detroit. "Of course, Gordie can handle himself out there on the ice, too. I remember early in his career that he had five fights in a row and won all of them. They respected him after that."

GORDIE HOWE

The veteran executive's other all - stars are centre Milt Schmidt and defenceman Eddie Shore of Boston Bruins, goalie Terry Sawchuk of Detroit and Toronto Maple Leafs and defenceman Jack Stewart of Detroit and Chicago Black Hawks.

"But, as an all-around player, no one in the history of the game compares to Howe," Adams emphasized.

Harris Reports To Pittsburgh

DETROIT (AP)—Billy Harris, suspended for refusing to report to Detroit Red Wings' Pittsburgh farm club, changed his mind Monday and will join the Hornets Wednesday, the Wings reported.

Gamble Closes Gap On Gord Labossiere

ROCHESTER, N.Y. (AP) — Veteran Dick Gamble of Rochester Americans is closing the gap on front-running Gordon Labossiere of Quebec Aces in the American Hockey League individual point race.

Gamble scored four goals last week, drawing within one point of Labossiere's total of 43 and climbing within two goals of slumping Al Caron of Buffalo Bisons, the No. 1 sharpshooter, official scoring figures showed today.

Caron, blanked in his last five games, has 22 goals for the season while Gamble has 20.

Labossiere has 18 goals and 25 assists for his 43 points. Bob Courcy of Cleveland Barons, third with 39 points, picked up six assists during the week to become the top playmaker with 26.

Rochester's Norm Armstrong went on a penalty binge in the Americans' New Year's Eve game against Providence and took the league lead with 86 penalty minutes. The brawny redhead was tagged with 28 minutes in the game, including two misconduct penalties. He holds the single-game penalty mark of 36 minutes.

Claude Dufour of Hershey, who missed 12 of the Bears' 29 games with a knee injury, regained the goaltending lead with a 2.62 goals-against average. George Gardner of Pittsburgh Hornets continues to lead in shutouts with five.

Barkley Named Abel's MVP

DETROIT (AP) — Detroit Red Wings coach Sid Abel Monday picked defenceman Doug Barkley to head his club's nominations for National Hockey League awards.

Abel named the six-foot-two, 195-pounder as his choice for the Hart Trophy, the most coveted of the annual honors bestowed on NHL players by sportswriters and sportscasters in the six league cities.

The last defenceman to get the trophy as the most valuable player in the league was Toronto's Babe Pratt in the 1943-44 season.

Abel won the award once.

INDIANS MAROONED

GEORGINA ISLAND, Ont. (CP)—Objiway Indians living on this Lake Simcoe reserve 15 miles south of Orillia have been marooned by warm weather which has broken up their ice road to the mainland into large, loose floes. Lorenzo Big Canoe, former chief, says boating is impossible and plans to ask the Ontario department of lands and forests to ferry school children and workers by helicopter.

Connor, Alias Cassandra, Wins Surprise Knighthood

By GRANVILLE J. WATTS

LONDON (AP—Sir Winston Churchill called him "an able writer dominated by malevolence."

The Communist London Daily Worker called him "that hysterical old woman."

The late U.S. Senator Joseph McCarthy withstood an attack by him and said: "Jeez, that was straight shooting."

They were all talking about a 59-year-old Irishman named William Neil Connor, better known as the columnist Cassandra of the 5,000,000 circulation London Daily Mirror.

After 30 years of hard-hitting and often savage criticism, Connor really astonished his readers Monday. He received a knighthood.

Although many of his words have been directed at excessive adulation of royalty, it was in the Queen's new year's honors list that Connor's award was announced.

Connor's blistering pen once described the late Richard Dimbleby, famed broadcaster who excelled in descriptions of royal events, as "the royal pussy cat . . . soused with the mayonnaise of his own unction."

Connor once said of the royal family: "It has been built up into a kind of Walt Disney land."

SOMETIMES ERRS

Married with three children and a passion for cats, the partly bald Connor admits that he occasionally makes mistakes.

"In the 3,000,000 words and 6,000 columns I have written, I did not pretend to be always right," he told friends.

Connor began his column in 1935. He joined the British army in 1942 and after serving as an infantryman, later helped run the army newspaper Union Jack.

On his return from the army, Connor started his first postwar column: "As I was saying when I was so rudely interrupted . . ."

Some of Connor's choice quotes in recent years:

On Richard Burton and Elizabeth Taylor—"This ear - splitting romance which makes anything that occurred between Romeo and Juliet and Antony and Cleopatra seem like a one-second nuzzle in a dark corner. . . ."

On trading stamps — "You get this buckshee fridge if you spend $12,000 on hundreds of gallons of soup, barrow-loads of soap, cubic yards of spaghetti and enough puffed wheat to pack the Taj Mahal."

On soccer — "I am probably the only man in this country who regards soccer with faint sorrow tinged with acute disgust."

On covering the Jack Ruby trial in Texas — "Sometimes I think that everybody down here is nuts."

On a well - known poet — "I claim to be the only journalist in London who goes to pubs and who never met Dylan Thomas."

Commenting on press arrangements for a royal birth at Buckingham Palace — "If the bearers of the news of the blessed event want to telephone, there are no telephones available . . . should the press be so impudent as to wish to go to the men's room, they were told this week that they could go round to the royal household mews and presumably do it with the regal ostlers (stable men)."

On King Edward VII: "Bertie loved other things besides women. And in gay recognition of his capacity at the platter, his intimate cronies called him 'tum-tum.' "

Connor writes his column under the pen-name Cassandra, a name taken from Greek mythology that applies to a prophet of woe.

He once commented:

"I did not choose the name Cassandra and when it was wished on me exactly 30 years ago, I had to look myself up in the encyclopedia to find out who I was.

"I was a bit surprised to discover that I had changed sex; was the daughter of the King of Troy . . . and that I was going to come to a sticky end by being efficiently murdered.

"So I went and had a beer to pull myself around."

DAILY CRYPTOQUOTE — Here's how to work it:
A X Y D L B A A X R
is L O N G F E L L O W

One letter simply stands for another. In this sample A is used for the three L's, X for the two O's, etc. Single letters, apostrophes, the length and formation of the words are all hints. Each day the code letters are different.

Verwoerd Says Not Going To Be Pressed Into Boycotting Rhodesia

By DENNIS LEE ROYLE

JOHANNESBURG (AP) — Many South Africans wonder how long their white supremacist government can remain neutral as Britain tightens the economic squeeze on Rhodesia.

The South African government insists its staying out of the British struggle with the white-minority government in Rhodesia. But South Africa has been quietly building its military muscle and observers say it may feel forced to help its northern neighbor in 1966.

Premier Hendrik Verwoerd vowed Friday to keep South Africa neutral in the British-Rhodesian clash.

In a New Year's message, Verwoerd said he will not let South Africa be pressured into joining the British economic boycott of Rhodesia.

The boycott, including an oil embargo, was slapped against Rhodesia in an effort to undermine the rebellious white minority government.

REMAINS NEUTRAL

Verwoerd denied press reports that his government made a secret deal with Britain to support measures against Rhodesia. He said he is keeping South Africa out of what he termed a "domestic confrontation between Britain and Rhodesia."

But at the same time, he made it clear South Africa opposes Britain's demands that the 4,000,000 black African majority in Rhodesia receive eventual political control. There are about 220,000 whites.

"It would be idle to hide . . . that most South Africans are convinced that it would be neither just, advantageous or wise to white or black in Rhodesia to seek to hasten a black government," Verwoerd said.

Some observers wonder whether one day South Africa may not feel forced to lend a hand to the Rhodesian regime or even fight on its side. The same question arises over possible aid to the white-ruled Portuguese colonies of Angola and Mozambique.

Verwoerd's government has beefed up its military might over the last three years, building it into what is considered the most powerful fighting force south of the Sahara.

The government has spent more than $280,000,000 on the air force alone, buying French Mirage jet fighters, British Canberra bombers and American Hercules transports. Its army can put 250,000 fighting men in the field.

Verwoerd said recently, "we are not fighters or war seekers," then added: "Whatever threats might be made against South Africa, and if the danger arises, we shall fight for the survival of the whites."

Observers say the "danger" that Verwoerd speaks of may arise across the Limpopo River in Rhodesia if the Smith regime starts to crumble.

Rhodesia, South Africa, Angola and Mozambique make up most of the area south of The Congo. They constitute the last holdouts of white rule in Africa.

With Rhodesia gone, so the reasoning goes, South Africa might feel dangerously isolated and fear repercussions among her own 14,100,000 non-whites. The non-whites include an estimated 11,000,000 African Bantu tribesmen. In contrast, the whites number 3,300,000.

Harnessing of Fundy Tides To Get Close Look This Year

HALIFAX (CP)—The Nova Scotia government has announced that a board to co-ordinate studies of the proposed harnessing of Bay of Fundy tidal power will hold meetings early this year.

The board, sponsored by the Atlantic Development Board, will comprise representatives from the federal government and the provinces of Nova Scotia and New Brunswick.

The nnouncement follows a statement by Prime Minister Pearson that the responsibility of the board would be "to propose, supervise and evaluate further studies in order to assess in detail, the potential power, probable costs of development, as well as the markets for power."

The two main Bay of Fundy power proposals—in the Minas Basin and Cumberland Basin-Shepody Bay areas—have an estimated potential of more than 9,000,000 kilowatts.

Ian MacKeigan, chairman of ADB, said the Fundy tides and other power facilities can make the Atlantic provinces "one of the great power houses of the Western world."

POTENTIAL GREAT

The Bay of Fundy, located between Nova Scotia and New Brunswick, is about 50 miles wide at its mouth and ends 160 miles inland in Nova Scotia's Minas Basin and Cobequid Bay. The greatest power potential lies near the estuary of the Salmon River. Another is close by at Cumberland Basin, lying between Nova Scotia and New Brunswick, and Shepody Bay in New Brunswick.

Tides of Minas Basin reach a height of more than 50 feet, the highest in the world. High tides at other development sites average more than 30 feet.

Several feasibility studies on tidal power have been made during the last 50 years but no announcement has ever been made regarding construction of facilities. More than $1,000,000 has been spent on research, including under water and land studies.

The ADB announced last August that development of the Cumberland Basin - Shepody Bay project was technically possible but construction costs were estimated at $400,000,000.

Cost of the Minas Basin project, by far the greater of the two, has been estimated at $1,000,000,000. It is similar to a development on the River Rance in France that is expected to produce 240,000 kilowatts annually beginning in 1967.

U.S. NEEDS POWER

Fundy energy would be marketed to the power-hungry eastern United States at a price between three and four mills. This would make it competitive with any other power source.

The cheap power would also speed up industrial development in the Maritimes.

Also aiming for the eastern U.S. market is the British Newfoundland Corp. proposed Churchill Falls power project in Labrador, said to be capable of generating 5,000,000 horsepower Another possible producer of more than 100,000 kilowatts is a proposed development at Passamaquoddy Bay on the Maine-New Brunswick border.

AFRICA LEADERS FACE SERIOUS TEST IN 1966

SALISBURY (AP) — Africa's leaders will be tested in 1966 as never before. One wrong step could set the lower third of the continent aflame.

The tinder for a race war of almost incalculable consequences to the world is accumulating along the Zambezi River.

An economic war between black-ruled Zambia and white-ruled Rhodesia, two natural trading partners, already is in progress. There is every indication that it will be intensified as pressures mount on the two neighbor nations.

It started Nov. 11 when Prime Minister Ian Smith of Rhodesia declared Britain's old colony in Central Africa a free and independent nation.

Britain, intent on obtaining eventual majority rule in Rhodesia, reacted immediately. It announced the exclusion of Rhodesia from the sterling bloc, trade sanctions, an oil embargo the blocking of Rhodesian funds in London and a ban on imports of Rhodesia's rich tobacco crop. Other countries followed suit.

RHODESIA RETALIATES

Rhodesia, where 225,000 whites now rule 4,000,000 Africans, met every blow with a counter-thrust. Smith cut off oil from Zambia, raised the price of coal to Zambia $14 a ton through increased royalties and threatened to raise the freight rates for hauling Zambia's copper exports to the port.

Smith has not played out his hand. The power station of the immense Kariba hydroelectric power complex on the Zambezi is on Smith's side of the river. Zambia needs the power for her copper mines and Britain needs the copper.

Rhodesia is cradled among South Africa and the Portuguese territories of Angola and Mozambique, all areas where white leaders reject Black African nationalism.

African nationalist guerrillas operate in the northern reaches of Angola and Mozambique. The 36 African nations in the Organization of African Unity have committed themselves to use force if necessary to crush the Smith government.

Nine African countries, including two members of the British Commonwealth, have broken relations with Britain for rejecting the use of force. They are Algeria, Congo (Brazzavilel) Ghana, Guinea, Mali, Mauritania, Sudan, Tanzania and Egypt.

NO WAR NOW

An armed conflict seems remote at present, due to logistics, but Tanzania, Ghana, Algeria and Egypt have collected large quantities of Communist Chinese weapons.

All African attention seemed to be focused on Rhodesia as the New Year opened. But the Congo (Leopoldville), an old trouble spot, remained uneasy under a military dictatorship es tablished by Gen. Joseph A. Mobutu. Rebellion still smoulders.

Nigeria survived months of political turmoil last year and should be able to achieve relative stability, but tribal and regional tensions persist there. The economic outlook has improved.

Ghana goes into the new year belligerent but nearly insolvent. The Ivory Coast and Gabon are relatively prosperous but Gabon faces political instability. Liberia is prospering with rich iron ore deposits. Much of the rest of West Africa has dismal economic prospects.

Kenya goes as President Jomo Kenyatta goes and he continues to gain stature as an African leader of moderation and vision, two qualities badly needed in 1966.

Five New Life Peerages On Queen's Honors List

LONDON (CP)—The Queen's New Year's honors list created five new life peerages, two in the field of commerce, two in writing and broadcasting, and one in education. The arts, journalism and the export business received considerable attention in the list.

Mrs. Mary Danvers Stocks, 74, regular member of the BBC's Any Questions? team and long-time battler for women's rights, becomes a baroness —the only woman receiving a peerage. She has sometimes crossed swords with Labor politicians.

The four new peers—all barons—are:

—Sir John (Jock) Middleton Campbell, 53, chairman of Booker Brothers, McDonnell and Co. Ltd., and also chairman of economic development committees for building and civil engineering. Regarded as one of the Labor party's bug-business friends, he also is chairman of the Statesman and Nation Publishing Co.

—Sir John Scott Fulton, 63, vice-chancellor of the new Sussex University, who is also a BBC vice-chairman.

—Cmdr. Sir Stephen King-Hall, president and founder of the Hansard Society for Parliamentary Government. Defeated by Harold Wilson, the present Labor prime minister, in the 1945 general election, King-Hall is a broadcaster and specialist in international affairs.

—Israel Moses Sieff, 76, chairman of the department-store chain Marks and Spencers, who has done much work for the Zionist movement.

The Queen makes the awards on the advice of her prime minister. The list this year has 671 names, compared with 680 a year ago, and there are many lesser awards. Besides the peerages, there are four privy councillors, 36 knights, two Companions of Honor and 179 members of the Order of the British Empire on the list. However, there were no Orders of Merit awarded.

Wilson maintained a custom he adopted on becoming prime minister of avoiding the recommendation of hereditary peerages and baronetcies. And none of the awards will cause a by-election—a delicate exercise in Britain these days when the government's majority is only two in the House of Commons.

New privy councillors are Miss Alice Bacon, minister of state in the home office in Wilson's government and former Labor party chairman, John Freeman, high commissioner to India and former editor of the weekly New Statesman, and two Australian ministers.

One of the most interesting awards is the knighthood bestowed on William Connor, Cassandra of The Daily Mirror, who has not always seen eye to eye with Labor politicians.

Geoffrey Cox, editor of Independent Television News, is another new knight, as is Captain B. H. Liddell Hart, military historian who has long enjoyed renown and was one of the experts to recognize early the significance of the tank.

Author Graham Greene becomes a Companion of Honor and Baroness Summerskill, whose elevation to a life peerage in 1961 ended 23 years in the House of Commons, receives the same honor. One of this doughty lady's targets is provessional boxing, which she would like to see abolished.

Services to exports are recognized in 20 awards.
