Bennett Cuts Taxes — Boosts Homeowner Grant

ELECTION BUDGET?

An Editorial

Unfair System Of School Financing

The tabling Thursday of the Nelson School District No. 7's 1966 budget in the amount of $2,091,000 provides once again a clear indication of the inadequate and unrealistic method provided for financing of education in Canada today.

Education costs have now reached the level where it is no longer possible to raise the necessary funds by means of property taxation, for property owners, in many instances, can no longer conveniently meet their rising tax bill.

The property taxation method is an unfair method at any rate, for it simply means that only persons owning property are saddled with education costs.

The present system means, in other words, that regardless of the number of persons receiving incomes in a given residence, only the owner of the residence is taxed for education purposes.

A complete change of concept and procedure is necessary at this time, and this change must be made without any undue delay.

The change necessary is a far-reaching one, and necessitates a complete reappraisal of our very constitution. The British North America Act was undoubtedly a wise and useful document, fulfilling a definite purpose at the time it was compiled.

In its present state, however, it is outmoded by present day standards, and fails to provide the necessary guidance for modern Canada.

Amendments must be made to the BNA Act that would place direction and financing for education in the hands of the Federal Government.

Education today can only equitably and sufficiently be financed by means of federal income tax, whereby every person would pay his just share of these costs on a basis in direct proportion to his annual income.

Education costs derived in this manner would provide a two-fold financial relief to property owners. Municipal mill rates would be reduced on an average of 50 per cent, and individual shares of education costs would be lowered due to the broader financial base provided by income tax.

School board officials across Canada are well aware of the inadequacies of the present taxation method. They are well aware of the sky-rocketing education costs, and they are well aware that they are virtually helpless, in any way, to stem this rising tide, for the increasing costs are coming in portions of the education budgets over which the boards have very little, if any, control at all.

It is time that the Federal Government took the situation in hand—time it disregarded political and religious pressures—and compiled the legislation necessary to allow education financing by means of income tax. It is time that the present inadequate and inequitable system of financing was brought to an end.

Winter Still Showing Her Handiwork In Iced Boughs Near Court House

Harrison Convicted

NEW WESTMINSTER (CP) — A former Vancouver and Nelson policeman was convicted Friday in the 1962 armed robbery of a bank in suburban Burnaby.

The jury deliberated for only 25 minutes before returning the guilty verdict against David Louis Harrison, 32.

Harrison was also convicted of possession of $6500 in stolen money.

Several witnesses, including an RCMP undercover man and a police informer, testified during the trial that Harrison had admitted to them being one of three men who robbed the Canadian Imperial Bank of Commerce of $106,000 on Christmas Eve, 1962.

The witnesses said Harrison told them Leonard Hogue and Joseph Percival, also former Vancouver policemen, had taken part in the robbery.

Harrison, testifying on his own behalf, said he had lied about his part in the robbery to impress underworld figures and that the $6500 was money he won gambling.

Harrison left the Vancouver police force in 1962 after serving six years. He later joined the Nelson Police Department.

Hogue died last April in what police said was a murder-suicide involving his wife and six children.

How the Gov't Is Spending It

VICTORIA (CP)—The following table shows how the B.C. government will spend its record $657,282,398 forecast in the 1966-67 budget brought down Friday by Premier Bennett. For the first time, the premier included federal grants in his estimates.

Education, Municipalities To Get Increased Assistance

VICTORIA (CP) — A balanced British Columbia budget combining a heady mixture of tax cuts and an increase in the home-owner grant with record expenditures and revenues was introduced in the legislature Friday by Premier and Finance Minister Bennett.

A change in bookkeeping method that brings in federal payments to the province produced record revenues and expenditure figures for the coming year in excess of $650,000,000.

Under the previous method, the figures are still approaching the $550,000,000 mark, far and away the largest in the province's history.

The budget provides for a small surplus.

At the same time Mr. Bennett announced increased aid to municipalities, schools, universities, education in general, elimination of the five per cent sales tax on such divergent things as newspapers and meals and elimination of some property taxes.

Other items included increased government investment in its own Pacific Great Eastern Railway and elimination of the debt of the B.C. Ferry Authority.

MUM ON ELECTION

At a press conference this morning the premier refused to deny or confirm that this was an election budget. The opposition has been claiming that the government plans to go to the people this year.

The premier managed to add confusion to such issues, mentioning next year's budget "whether there is an election or not."

In his 5,000-word address Mr. Bennett said: "British Columbia is emerging into a period of unprecedented prosperity, growth and expansion."

He said the province is advancing at a rate never before imagined "and each year sees new records in capital investment, in production of goods and services, and in personal incomes."

The premier changed his method of bookkeeping to put B.C. in line with the other provinces. He said in the past it has been impossible to compare budgets because the province used "net" figures instead of "total" figures that included federal government payments to the provinces.

He estimated that the "total" expenditures for the year starting April 1 will be $657,282,000 and "total" revenues will be $659,782,000 for a surplus of $2,500,000.

He said if the fiscal year now ending had been computed in the same manner the increase in expenditures would be $112,659,000 and the increase in revenues $90,526,000.

Using the previous "net" method of bookkeeping expenditures total $535,354,000 compared to $446,001,000 estimated for the year now ending for an increase of $89,353,000.

"Net" earnings will be $537,853,000 compared to $447,227,000 for the year now ending.

TAX ELIMINATIONS

The premier mentioned that Ontario recently announced tax increases but that B.C. did not need them to continue into the second year of its "dynamic society."

Goodies for the election-conscious electorate were: Increase in homeowner grant to $110 from $100; and removal of the five per cent sales tax on all meals, confections, candies, soft drinks, newspapers, periodicals, magazines, school supplies, removal of real property tax on non-profit organizations operating for community benefit and on community halls.

The premier also announced that the method of taxing clothing and footwear will be changed to exempt all clothing for children of 15 years and under. Under the present method of taxing by size large children were penalized.

The homeowner grant is paid to municipalities by the government on behalf of the owners of homes.

At present the sales tax is paid on all meals of $1 and over.

Mr. Bennett said he removed the tax on newspapers, periodicals and magazines because the government wants to encourage people to read. It did not want to put a tax on spreading of information.

The premier announced that subsidies to the province's less-than-a-year-old voluntary medical care plan will be increased by $8,000,000 to $14,000,000. The government would pay 90 per cent of the premiums of persons with no taxable income and 50 per cent of those with taxable incomes of up to $1,000. Previously the government paid 50 and 25 per cent.

For the third straight year education will be the biggest departmental expenditure. The government computes that it will spend $25,510,000 more for education at all levels, including $6,500,000 more for universities to bring their total of $33,000,000.

The actual education department expenditure will total $166,940,000.

Other departmental expenditures with their increase over the fiscal year now ending in brackets: attorney - general $6,026,574 ($2,724,820); finance $71,685,218 ($15,742,897); highways $95,667,679 ($16,452,289); provincial secretary whose department handles the medical care plan $22,057,418 ($10,874,058); social welfare $66,775,268 ($7,342,266); hospital insurance service $90,364,690 ($11,621,620).

The government will purchase 252,820 shares of the PGE for $25,282,000. It already holds the remaining stock in the company.

BUDGET HIGHLIGHTS

VICTORIA (CP) — Highlights of the budget presented in the British Columbia legislature Friday:

IMMIGRATION UP

OTTAWA (CP) — Immigration to Canada increased last year 30 per cent to 146,758 persons from 112,606 in 1964, the immigration department reported Friday.

CLC Sets Up Fund To Fight Injunctions

OSHAWA, Ont. (CP) — A defence fund will be set up by the Canadian Labor Congress to provide legal costs in fighting injunctions used against labor in union disputes, David Archer, president of the Ontario Federation of Labor, said Friday.

The fund will be set up to provide court costs, legal fees, fines, damage actions or any other expense involved for unions in battling the use of injunctions, he told a press conference after a two-hour meeting here of more than 60 Canadian labor heads.

Mr. Archer said the situation at Oshawa, where a strike by the Oshawa local of the Toronto Newspaper Guild against the Oshawa Times was settled Thursday after the use of mass picketing by other labor unions, was reviewed.

MONTREAL (CP) — The United States dollar in terms of Canadian funds was up 1-32 at $1.07⅝.

Bill Legalizes Homosexuality

LONDON (CP) — Members of Parliament, voting freely without party ties, approved Friday a bill legalizing homosexuality between consenting adults in private. The 164-to-107 vote followed more than eight years of impassioned argument since Sir John Wolfenden first urged reform in his 1957 report.

The bill, which also increases the penalties for corrupting youth, is virtually certain to become law after the formality of a third reading.

Housekeeping Budget—Opposition

By TERRY ROBERTS

VICTORIA (CP) — Opposition leaders expressed disappointment Friday with the budget speech read to the Legislature earlier in the day by Premier and Finance Minister Bennett.

"It's a housekeeping budget," said NDP Opposition Leader Robert Strachan.

The government's income is up and its costs up, he said.

Mr. Strachan said the Premier's failure to announce acceptance of the federal medical care plan "strengthens the belief he is separatist."

The Premier had no right to turn down such an opportunity, he said.

He was disappointed there was no mention of measures encompassing chronic care.

Sales tax exemptions announced were long overdue.

He charged that Mr. Bennett had gone back on his word in the way he proposed eliminating the Ferry Authority debt.

The Premier, he said, had long said the debt was a "contingent liability" and would never be retired with tax money.

The budget speech called for $37,000,000 to retire the debt in an effort to hold the line on ferry fares, the speech said.

This is an effort to save the Authority "from the bad management of this government," Mr. Strachan said.

Liberal Leader Ray Perrault said the promised tax reductions and increased grants "don't correct the basic flaws in the government program."

He said the Premier has been accumulating surpluses through a policy of overtaxation and underspending "to spend during election years."

"There is no indication of a major program to reform social welfare," he said.

"References to the chronically ill and child welfare programs and of social rehabilitation . . . are very vague and unspecific.

"The budget reflects no spirit of innovation and change in this area."

No Escalation, No Pull Out — Johnson

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson said Friday he has no desire either to escalate the war in Viet Nam or pull out. And, he said, that seems to be the view of those who have testified before Congress on the Vietnamese conflict.

"I think the country overwhelmingly supports the position we have taken and that the House of Representatives and Senate do likewise," Johnson told a press conference.

Johnson said he hopes to have a repeat performance in a few months of the just-concluded Honolulu summit conference with South Vietnamese leaders. They met to chart courses for continuing to oppose aggression while attempting to combat illiteracy, disease and hunger in the troubled Southeast Asian country.

He suggested June or July for the next meeting.

Johnson also said that more troops will be sent to South Viet Nam as they are needed, but "we have no present plans" for moving in a substantially greater number of men or calling up reserves.

Icy Roads Cause Accidents

Numerous automobile accidents, as a result of Friday's heavy snowfall, took a heavy toll in Nelson, with one youngster, Gordon Mowatt, 12, of Nelson, being sent to hospital, and much property damage reported. Another boy, Wayne Naka, was struck in the same accident but was not hospitalized.

Police reported that at 3:30 in the afternoon, three boys dashed out to cross the street, not seeing an approaching automobile. Because of the treacherous conditions, neither the boys, nor the car could stop. The two lads were hit glancing blows as the car skidded into them. The Mowatt boy was hit by the front of the car and received a leg injury, thought to be a broken thigh bone. The driver was not identified.

Wayne Naka was knocked by the side of the car and the extent of his injuries is as yet unknown.

Approximately $2000 damage was sustained by two cars, owned by Marvin Kempston and Stanley Campbell, both of Nelson. The accident took place at the intersection of Fifth and Behnsen Streets. Neither driver was injured.

One injury was reported as the result of a two-car collision on High Street. Involved were R. Jones of Cranbrook and Robert Ringrose of Nelson. Mr. Jones received a facial laceration and was taken to hospital for observation. The accident was described by police as unavoidable, due to the snow fall.

Damage amounted to $750 to one and $600 to the other.

Two more collisions occurred Friday night when cars unable to stop at stop signs collided with Front Street traffic. Damage was minor.

EXPORTS HIGH

British aerospace exports have varied between $18,850,000 and $42,200,000 a month since 1961.

TYPICAL SCENE in Nelson yesterday was this, as cars slithered along streets made hazardous by a four-inch snowfall. Hills throughout the city and district were a nightmare for motorists until sanders got into action. In this collision, Cranbrook and Nelson cars locked horns. Two youngsters were injured in another accident.

Woman Named Citizen Of Year at Kimberley

KIMBERLEY — Mrs. B. T. (Daisy) Lockhart, 520 Church Street, was named Kimberley's Citizen of the Year, first woman to be accorded the honor.

The announcement was made at Thursday night's second Snow Fiesta talent show. Mrs. Lockhart, who is in Vancouver on hospital auxiliary business, had remained over to attend Dr. J. F. Haszard's funeral, and presentation of her citation will be made Tuesday in the Council Chambers.

Mrs. Lockhart has long been interested in community affairs. She is president of the Kimberley Women's Hospital Auxiliary, publicity chairman of the B.C. Women's Hospital Auxiliary, president of the Kimberley and District Senior Citizens' Association, and has long been active in work of Sacred Heart Parish.

Long-time Kimberley residents, Mr. and Mrs. Lockhart have a son and daughter both married, and five grandchildren.

Genelle Residents Press Highway Safety Action

Need for the reconstruction of the Trail-Castlegar highway has been "persistently brought to" Hon. P. A. Gaglardi's attention, stated Hon. D. L. Brothers in a letter read at the executive meeting of the Genelle strategy committee, Thursday night. The meeting was called, reported chairman Mrs. Nelda Maryka, to discuss this letter and the further steps to be taken in their campaign.

The letter from Mr. Brothers went on to say that it was particularly necessary to re-route the road around Genelle in order to protect the residents. He stated that, "I have recommended to Mr. Gaglardi (minister of highways) that the speed limit through Genelle be reduced pending the reconstruction of the highway, and I have also recommended that the RCMP patrol the stretch of highway through Genelle much more vigorously."

The reaction of the committee was to draft a letter requesting knowledge of any specific action which is planned, especially action pertaining to four basic questions that appeared in the safety council's resolutions.

These questions dealt with the appropriation of funds for the reconstruction, the date anticipated for starting, assistance from the department of highways with a survey on pedestrian safety, and the standard of policing Genelle's stretch of the road.

The letter also requested Mr. Brothers to visit the area as soon as he conveniently could. Copies of this letter were to be sent to Mr. Bonner and Mr. Gaglardi.

SAIGON (AP) — U.S. helicopter-borne troops killed at least 27 Viet Cong guerrillas in South Viet Nam's central highland valleys Friday, and other U.S. soldiers found the bodies of 94 in an area 25 miles east of Saigon that had been churned up by bombers.

School Budget Clarified For Council at Meeting

Increases in the Nelson school district budget precipitated a conference Friday in the school board offices between council and board representatives.

The School Board had announced Thursday that its 1966 budget would be $2,091,000 a jump of $231,000 from the record 1965 budget of $1,860,000.

Mayor Louis Maglio said the meeting "discussed different points of the budget to clarify them."

The main question council asked, he stated, was, "why the increases were so great on the administration end of it." Also questioned were the jumps in expenditures for upkeep.

R. A. Phillips, chairman of the board of school trustees for District No. 7, explained that the union agreement with maintenance men, "went up last year," and this was reflected in the rising costs. He added that the council's "problem is this, this is a school budget and they are not familiar with all the ramifications and therfore I sympathize with them."

Emphasizing that the board also represents an elected body, he went on to say that, "we take our responsibilities very seriously. We don't merely represent the city of Nelson, but the whole district."

Mr. Maglio stated that the whole problem hinges upon the government grant. He added that, "the picture may not look too bad if the government comes in with a fair amount."

Though this meeting is an annual event, as explained by Mrs. B. K. Ryley, finance chairman of the board, the mayor stated that, "Everything seems to be up so high we just asked to talk for clarification. We wanted to see if there was any way to cut down any phases of the budget."

Mrs. Ryley felt the council wanted to be assured the school board was doing all in its power to keep the budget down without impairing the standards. She added that the council seemed to be so assured.

During the meeting it was asked whether or not the product of the system was worth the great expenditures. In answering a representative drew attention to figures released concerning the province-wide examinations held each year. It was reported that the District No. 7 average was above the provincial mean obtained on these tests.

Nelson Man's Mother Passes

Mother of John Ferguson Hogg of Nelson, Mrs. Henry A. (Ruby Alexandria) Hogg, 64, died in Markdale, Ontario. Funeral service was held Tuesday.

Mrs. Hogg and her husband had visited Nelson on a number of occasions. They left Toronto three years ago to retire in Markdale.

Mrs. Hogg is survived by two daughters, Mrs. H. M. (Betty) Preston and Mrs. Russell C. (Marian), both of Toronto; one brother, Arthur McNab, and one sister, Mrs. Joseph A. Hogg, both of Toronto; and eight grandchildren.

Skyway Closed Eight Hours

A number of smaller slides on both sides of the summit on the Kootenay Skyway kept that portion of highway closed Friday from about noon until around 9 p.m. Four plows were kept busy getting the road cleared for traffic. Otherwise road conditions in that area were reported good, with the temperature hovering around the 20-degree mark.

All equipment was out on district highways Friday night, D. F. Martin, regional engineer, reported, with sanding operations being carried out.

NDU Student Wins Award

A native of Saigon, South Viet nam, and fourth year arts student at Notre Dame University of Nelson, Miss Pauline Apiou, is one of three winners of the fifth annual Belmac scholarships.

The $200 scholarships are given to Canadian students with qualifications such as scholastic standing, leadership ability and financial need. They are presented at the beginning of the second semester each year.

EMPLOYEES' BONSPIEL ATTRACTS 18 RINKS

The annual C.P.R. Employees' Bonspiel will be held at Nelson curling rink Sunday, commencing at noon. Eighteen rinks are entered including two from the Trail-Castlegar area. Play will be on a point basis and each rink will play two 10-end games. At stake again this year is the William Mason Trophy which was won last year by the foursome skipped by Dave Cathcart of Nelson.

Castlegar Curling Club Under Fire at Council

CASTLEGAR — A three-man delegation from the Castlegar and District Curling Club descended on Town Council Thursday night to complain of ice conditions and over the attitude of the club manager in collecting playing fees.

Thursday's meeting was the first to be called by Castlegar Council to hear complaints from ratepayers.

The delegation complained of embarrassment caused some of the lady curlers when the manager refused to turn on lights in the ice arena until after fees had been paid.

The curler's delegation presented a motion passed at a meeting of the club Wednesday night demanding that the club "shall have sole authority for collection of fees for the curling ice."

The delegation demanded immediate council action on the motion by council.

Alderman Lorne Zinio promised that action would be taken. He said that nothing could be done, however, until the matter was brought before a regular meeting of town council. He gave a personal assurance that action would be taken.

Council was told that the ice surface at the rink is full of holes and is bumpy. Mr. Zinio also promised action to remedy the situation.

Snow Transforms World of Drabness

SALMO — Not being exactly a lover of deep snow but living in this marshmallow world we must admit like wallpaper, it covers a multitude of sins and even the garbage dump takes on airs of beauty with much of its ugliness snuggled under snow. Our ski hill is almost constantly dotted with bright and dark flashes of color as participants swish by. Last Sunday was a time of crashes, and breaks were the order of the day.

Jamie Almaas of Salmo and Jeff Murray of Ymir, each suffered a painful fractured leg when their boards failed to negotiate. Both youngsters gained their injuries within an hour. Dr. Ian Stewart was on the hill when the first incident occurred, dashing to the clinic with the lad to set him up. Number two arrived before the job was complete. Never a dull moment on the hill.

Troubles never come singly, or so it is said. Whilst probing for break in the water main the TV cable was damaged, thus, at this writing Glendale was temporarily waterless and TV less.

The Chamber of Commerce (very quiet these days) are nevertheless busy and informs me that a banquet for 150 is planned for the 19th of this month. Guests have been invited from points east and west, including Cranbrook, Creston, Castlegar, Trail and Nelson Queries regarding the setting up of a shopping centre continue to pour in. Our C of C members are an energetic lot.

We hear that Mr. and Mrs. Len Zachow and family have left to take up residence at North Surrey where Mr. Zachow will be employed.

With seed catalogues descending at a rate of several a week makes the green thumb itchy to get at the business of making our acre a thing of beauty. Plant now, urge the captions, for an early start. Well, I've never tried tunneling under the snow but it's a thought. It is easy to be seen that the compiler of these colorful catalogues is far removed from the whims of winter.

Indian Agencies To Be Combined

CRANBROOK — Okanagan-Kootenay Indian Agencies offices, covering 12 reserves and their population of 2544 of the southern interior are combining effective March 1 into a single office with proposed name of Selkirk Indian Agency. Headquarters will be at Vernon, with George Perret, at present of Kamloops as superintendent, and W. A. Anderson of Cranbrook his deputy.

Mr. Anderson, and clerical staff Mrs. Margaret Akerman and Miss Nada Birch will move to the new office, while assistant agent Sandy Pascuzzo will continue a small office and emergency service here.

Kootenay Band Council, of which Frank Whitehead of St. Mary's Reserve is head, has approved this merger toward improving conditions and prospects for residents of all 12 reserves. Kootenay Band Council represents 562 Indian population.

Services of the larger district will have more specialization than present decentralized conditions permit. These will include education supervisor from kindergarten to as advanced schooling as the student can take; community planning toward raising living standard on reserves; and an economic division toward assisting in maximum use of both natural and physical resources by Indians.

The five reserves in Kootenay Agency stretch from Shuswap in the Windermere Valley to Creston and the Flathead, and the seven in the Okanagan from Sicamous to the U.S. border.

LONDON (CP) — President Kenneth Kaunda of Zambia has extended warm thanks to Canada for its help in the joint airlift of oil to his country. The Zambian high commission here reported Friday that Kaunda, at a Thursday press conference, noted that Canadian participation has been extended to the end of April. It had been scheduled to end almost immediately.

UBC Administrator To Be Speaker at Rossland

ROSSLAND (Staff) — Individual differences in primary children are to be discussed at the next meeting of the MacLean Parent-Teacher Association. This was announced at an executive meeting of this PTA held recently in Rossland.

Discussed during the talks was the future dinner meeting of the district parent teacher council to take place soon in the J. Lloyd Crowe High School in Trail. Announced as guest speaker was Lorne Downie member of the administrative staff at UBC. His subject will be the' "Enquiry Method of Learning."

At the next regular PTA meeting W. E. Jones, special counsellor for School District No. 11, will speak about children in the primary grades. This will be heard in the school annex.

Arrangements for the annual MacLean School Valentine Tea to be held this month were also finalized.

Cranbrook Mailmen Approved

CRANBROOK — Five candidates have been approved and measured for uniforms for the postal delivery service to be started within the next couple of months in Cranbrook area. An additional three will be named following examinations scheduled for later this month, and a reserve list will be established There will be six walking routes within the city and a suburban vehicle service to group boxes. Tenders have also been called for parcel post delivery within the designated area.

Field officer for southern Alberta, J. N. Sackville of Calgary and letter carrier supervisor Albert Townsend of Lethbridge have made their initial inspection of Cranbrook post office and area facilities, Postmaster R. E. Fennessy reports.

Their recommendation has gone to federal post office headquarters for confirmation, following which layout of routes will be confirmed and the carriers will undergo a final short training period toward this major advance in city postal service.

The Highway Department has designated with corner posts the dozens of extra-municipal streets and roads, and delivery numbering of property by occupants has had full cooperatiton.

Your Individual Horoscope

Look in the section in which your birthday comes and find what your outlook is, according to the stars,

Sunday, February 13, 1966

MARCH 21 to APRIL 20 (Aries) — Everyone will not see things in the same way and, unless you are careful, needless arguments could ensue. Don't speak first and think afterwards. It could prove costly.

APRIL 21 to MAY 21 (Taurus) — "Where there's a will, there's a way." That should be this day's slogan. You can choose activities from several areas, but stay within reasonable limitations. Venus, fairly auspicious, stimulates your artistic leanings.

MAY 22 to JUNE 21 (Gemini) — You may inch your way through some hours, fly through others. So your inborn sense of balance and good judgment will be required. A generally favorable day if you cooperate.

JUNE 22 to JULY 23 (Cancer) — Lunar influences stimulate optimism and your senses of perception, and proportion. An excellent day for making ambitious plans — especially those of long-range value.

JULY 24 to AUGUST 23 (Leo) — You have so much going for you now that there should be no room for complaint. But, whatever you do, remember the small courtesies and details so often forgotten when one is "getting ahead."

AUGUST 24 to SEPTEMBER 23 (Virgo) — Not too much planetary help, but who is to prevent you from forging ahead on your own? There is a lot to work with, and surely you have the tools.

SEPTEMBER 24 to OCTOBER 23 (Libra) — Discard none of your "super" ideas while you are, of necessity, gathering information, selecting and sifting details concomitant to normal routine. Those big ideas will pay off soon.

OCTOBER 24 to NOVEMBER 22 (Scorpio) — Emphasize now: Discretion, tolerance and common sense. With this formula, you can accomplish a lot — especially in the furtherance of new projects.

NOVEMBER 23 to DECEMBER 21 (Sagittarius) — Jupiter's outstandingly benefic position places you in a position to display the magnanimous and outflowing characteristics native to this Sign. You should accomplish a great deal now.

DECEMBER 22 to JANUARY 20 (Capricorn) — An auspicious Saturn indicates new chances, receiving of delayed benefits, the successful conclusion of pending negotiations. Here's where the Capricornian's native intelligence can help put over a trick or two.

JANUARY 21 to FEBRUARY 19 (Aquarius) — Under good Uranus influences, you will be expected to maintain a stalwart position of responsibility. Do not become lost in a maze of non-essentials. Spirits up!

FEBRUARY 20 to MARCH 20 (Pisces) — Be alert now. Scrutinize all projects before acting. Rule out doubt, fear of failure. You have the know-how.

YOU BORN TODAY hold the key to great success, if you will open your purse of talents, count them out freely and distribute them judiciously. Your keen sense of justice, love of beauty, integrity and affectionate nature are outstanding. You love your heritage, the performing arts, family, friends and a good time. Watch the latter — it could get out of hand. Control emotions. Work for that harmony you so desire.

A Good Man To Know

PH. 352-5505

My name is Murphy. Friends call me Murph.

But I'm not sure I like the government getting that familiar.

It's not that we're trying to be familiar. We're trying to be efficient.

You'll remember last year's income tax form. That's the one we personalized. For computer purposes, we shortened everyone's name in the account number to the first five letters. We're doing it again this year.

So if your name's Murphy, it comes out Murph. If it's Zellinitsky, you'll get it as Zelli. If it's five letters or less, it stays that way.

Our people tell us this move will probably save the Department (therefore you) many thousands of dollars this year.

And if your government can save money like that, we're pretty sure you won't mind us getting just a little bit familiar with you.

"Is this the year I fill out my income tax right?"

Guidelines Not Far Away

The Canadian government should seriously consider setting up guidelines for wages and prices. And it should work more assiduously towards its long-term objective of eliminating Canada's huge deficit on international trade.

That blunt advice comes from the outspoken Organization for Economic Co-operation and Development. OECD performs for 21 industrial nations of the Western world, services very similar to those undertaken here by the Economic Council of Canada.

Its views merit wide examination. They represent the best efforts of the men devoted to making our trade world run as smoothly as possible. They may well foreshadow the shape of public policy in Canada.

Any formal decree in Canada that wages and prices be allowed to rise only when there is a compensating rise in productivity would be bound to create gigantic controversy. The experience of the U.S. administration suggests that government-set guideposts work well only when the tendency toward higher prices is very mild. When key industrial materials are getting scarce, as they are right now, price holdbacks actively distort the free market. They compound shortages by discouraging the construction of new production facilities.

Nevertheless, developments in the past two years or so have made urgent a more skillful use by government of its tax and budgetary weapons to help maintain stable growth without letting prices get out of hand. Ottawa used to rely a good deal on adjustments in the money supply and on interest rates to fight inflation, but these monetary weapons have been seriously blunted. Canada's fixed exchange rate and our agreement to keep the exchange reserves below a fairly low maximum locks our financial system right into the U.S. system and leaves Ottawa precious little room for independent monetary manoeuvre.

So the forthcoming federal budget may contain a few unpleasant surprises. This could involve fiddling with taxes, write-off rules, incentives and maybe even new restraints — measures bound to evoke cries of pain, recrimination and disapproval. Perhaps this time the cries will be muted by the knowledge, in business as well as in government, that further economic overheating could only lead to very unhealthy inflation, recession and unemployment.—Financial Post.

No Cause for Delay

Mayor Jack Leslie is correct when he says there is a need for a national policy on the financing and treatment of sewage disposal.

But while such a policy is being evolved no large urban community should adopt a do-nothing posture regarding its own pollution problems.

The City of Calgary is currently preparing a brief on this subject for presentation to the June meeting of the Canadian Federation of Mayors and Municipalities. This and briefs from other centres will be compiled into a joint submission for the federation's consideration.

The next step, no doubt, will be a list of recommendations to the federal and provincial governments, followed by a prolonged waiting period while the senior governments move towards evolving some sort of national policy. Only then will moves be made to implement such a policy.

All this could take quite a while, and in the meantime the problem of water pollution will continue to mount. Mayor Leslie suggests that "the problem of water pollution in the Bow River may not be too serious right now." In actual fact, the presence of any pollution, no matter how limited, should be considered a serious matter calling for immediate action to overcome the problems.

It is true that there should be a national policy on this grave problem. But the fact that none at present exists is no reason for individual towns or cities to shirk action on their own initiative. Calgary has a first-stage treatment for water pollution, but a need apparently exists for secondary treatment. It is regrettable that no federal or provincial grants are available for such programs. Calgary, along with other cities, should press for such assistance. But in the meantime, it has an obligation to carry out on its own initiative (and at its own expense) whatever measures are necessary to curb a mounting menace.

Just What The Doctor Ordered

It is begining to look more each day as if the best thing that ever happened to education in this province was the naming of Dr. Neil Perry as deputy minister of that vital portfolio.

The hand of the former UBC vice-president and labor trouble-shooter is clearly behind the throne speech hint that a separate department will be created to deal exclusively with higher education.

University well-wishers, at the time Dr. Perry made the move last year, felt that at last they had a man on the inside. It was felt Dr. Perry, who has never pulled his punches, wouldn't be taking the job unless he was convinced he could get the universities' needs across to the government.

Higher education certainly needs special attention in the province. It didn't rate such a high government priority two years ago when there was just one university and three vocational schools. Today there are three public universities, a two-year technical institute, three junior colleges and vocational schools in a number of cities across the province.

The need for special attention is all the more acute since Premier Bennett obstinately refuses to separate Mr. Peterson from either of his two portfolios, education and labor.

If the premier is going to continue his low regard for the talent waiting on the backbenches, Dr. Perry's special branch for a special brand of education may be just what is needed.—Vancouver Sun.

The Stamp Corner

Papua and New Guinea will release these and nine other butterfly stamps on February 14.

By JAMES MONTAGNES

A new series of skiing stamps is being issued by Norway on February 8 for the world ski championships being held at Oslo from the 17th to 27th of February. The stamps show the high Holmenkollen ski jump at Oslo on the site where ski jumping meets started a century ago, as well as modern ski jumping techniques, cross country skiing, and the petroglyph of a ski-jumper made some 4,000 years ago.

Norway has had stamps to skiers before this series, in 1961, 1954, 1951 and a wartime ski patrol on stamps of Norwegian government-in-exile in 1943.

For the ski enthusiast who also collects postage stamps, there have been many stamps issued to skiing. Canada had a stamp in 1957, one of four stamps featuring sports. United States showed a ski-jumper on a 1932 stamp for the winter Olympic games of that year.

Austria has had a number of such stamps ,the latest in 1963 for the winter Olympic Games at Innsbruck, three stamps of the series showing skiers in action. Earlier Austrian ski stamps are those of 1933 and 1936. Sweden had ski stamps in 1953 and 1954, and Finland in 1958, 1945 and 1938. Russia has used skiing on stamps of 1962, 1959 and 1954.

There have been ski stamps from Japan in 1949 and 1951, from France in 1962, Germany in 1935 for the winter Olympics at Garmisch, Poland in 1961 and 1962, Lebanon in 1957, San Marino in 1953 and 1955.

Chile, which has some of the finest skiing territory in the southern hemisphere, issued a few ski stamps last year. Skiing in the Andes is also featured with a ski-jumper on an Argentine stamp of 1959.

Other countries which have featured skiers on stamps in recent years have been Hungary on a 1963 series, Liechtenstein on a 1954 issue, Monaco on 1948 stamps, and Czechoslovakia on a 1964 series.

There are other skiing stamps issued over the years.

New issues . . . Papua and New Guinea issues a series of butterfly stamps in full color on February 14 . . . Guinea Republic features native African dancers on a new series . . . Costa Rica has a series for the late president John F. Kennedy . . . Gabon Republic has a high value gold embossed airmail stamp to the late Dr. Albert Schweitzer . . . Today in History

Alexander Selkirk, the prototype of Robinson Crusoe, set sail for England 257 years ago today — in 1709 — after being rescued from Juan Fernandez Island. He had not been wrecked or marooned but left his ship after a quarrel with the captain. He lived alone for more than four years, wild goats his only companions, before being picked up by William Dampier, the explorer, then on a privateering expedition. Selkirk was back in England late in 1711 with £800 prize-money in his pocket. He tried living as a hermit at his Scottish home, then eloped with a local girl, but soon went back to sea again.

First World War

Fifty years ago today—in 1916 — Austrian airmen bombed Ravenna; German armies began a general offensive on the Western Front; the German gunboat Von Weismann was reported sunk in Lake Tanganyika.

Second World War

Twenty-five years ago today—in 1941—Britain prepared to call 19-year-olds to the colors; the RAF found 86 unserviceable aircraft on the captured Benina airfield near Benghazi; observers reported Germany had 600,000 troops in Romania.

First World War

Fifty years ago today—in 1916—French lines sustained attacks between Neuville and La Folie; Bulgarians captured Elbassani, Albania; Russians advancing towards Erzerum captured Khopy.

Second World War

Twenty-five years ago today — in 1941 — General Franco of Spain visited Vichy after conferences with the Italian dictator; civilians were evacuated from the Romanian oilfields; Ottawa announced a chain of airfields would be built through Alberta and British Columbia.

HUBERT

Blind Operator

REGINA (CP)—Natural Resources Minister J. M. Cuelenaere wasn't entirely convinced that the blind man who had come to see him could successfully run a tourist resort in northeast Saskatchewan.

But Ted Ohlson, seeking to purchase Crown land for the resort, pulled out a map and traced with his finger a route to the proposed resort about 70 miles west of Flin Flon, Man.

"You should have seen the minister," a department spokesman reported. "He almost flipped."

Mr. Ohlson, whose blindness hasn't stopped him from golfing, bowling and water skiing, was well prepared. He had marked the route with pinpricks which he could feel with his fingertips.

The lodge opened in 1965 on the Crown land he wanted.

Mr. Ohlson lost both eyes in a hunting accident in 1960 when a gun discharged near him. Then 22, the German-born immigrant enrolled in a school of the Canadian National Institute for the Blind.

Within a year he had decided to become a physiotherapist. He completed a two-year course at Toronto which qualified him to attend a school for blind physiotherapists in London, England.

MAY EXPAND CAMP

The school refused him admission because of his German background, he said. Its officials didn't realize he could speak good English.

Mr. Ohlson, long an outdoorsman, thought of the tourist lodge. But the CNIB was unable to grant a loan. Other possible avenues of financial backing fell through.

Finally six Regina businessmen heard of his plans. Impressed with his "determination and tremendous drive" they formed a corporation to back the venture.

Mr. Ohlson, who married a year ago, took an assistant to the site last June to build the lodge. It accommodates 16 people but he hopes to expand it this year.

The site is near Deschambault Lake. In first-class fishing country, the lodge is the only one from which the northern interlake system can be reached by water.

Mr. Ohlson, who came to Canada in 1956, aims to build a series of satellite camps in the surrounding area. He now lives at Flin Flon but hopes to live permanently at the camp.

He bowls what he calls an average game, golfs in the low 90s and water skis with ease.

JUST A LINE . . .

by Jean Baker

Nelson had been born as a little community two years before Edward Charles Arthur, A.M., M.D., arrived here in 1890 to set up private practice as the only licensed physician in all that part of B.C. served by the Crow's Nest Pass Railway.

The brusque, sturdy doctor, who would have made a topnotch mining engineer or an equally fine teacher, brought his keen mind and extensive learning to the aid and comfort of construction crews and their families working on the railway which the Columbia and Kootenay Railway and Navigation Company, incorporated in 1889, had surveyed from Sproat's Landing to Nelson.

Travelling by foot more often than by horse, Dr. Arthur brought medical and surgical services to the railway construction workers.

The year before coming to the west from Ontario, he took as his bride Miss Isabel Delmage of St. Mary's, Ontario, who was to become one of the most enlightened and progressive women in the Kootenays.

The doctor was well known in all the towns of southeastern B.C., which he had seen in their conception with the exception of Ainsworth and Nelson, already germinating before he came to the province. His biography notes that "to the extent of his ability he has contributed to the general advancement of this section of B.C."

His wife, Isabel, was one of the handful of women adventurous enough to face the new west and to break away from the traditional sheltered life of that generation.

She entered the University of Oregon to study medicine in 1897, one of only three females in the class. On graduation she returned to Nelson to join her husband and set up private practice.

Their house stood on the site of the Royal Canadian Legion. Here, daughter Margaret was born. Now Mrs. Hector Mackenzie, she recalls that Rev. Mr. Rogers started Nelsons first school in the Arthur house in 1890 or '91.

"My father was very education-minded. He helped Mr. Rogers fix up one of the rooms upstairs for a school room," she says.

Dr. Arthur conducted his practice from his office above the Hudson's Bay Company, with stairs opening off the Stanley Street side. Dr. Isabel Arthur conducted her practice from a room in their home a block further up the street.

The YMCA, in 1912, bid for the property on which the three-storey Arthur house was situated. With some difficulty, the tall building was moved and finally reached its present resting place at 515 Silica Street.

Dr. Isabel became the first school health officer in Nelson. Her husband was the city health officer. When he went overseas during the First World War, his wife took over the city health post, and when she died in 1923, he took over as school health officer. I remember his sitting in the small office at Central School as he prepared to vaccinate us. His hair was white then and he was still brusque, but we all liked him, as all the small children seemed to.

Dr. Edward Charles opened a drug store on the site of the what later became the Canada Drug and Book Company, and in his free time he prospected.

He and a few other doctors, school principals and other university graduates met in a group called the University Club, where the arguments waged hot and heavy.

Daughter Margaret was brought up in the unusual atmosphere engendered by two professional people discussing medical problems at the only free times they had together, which was at mealtimes.

At least three times a week there were anywhere from two to five guests at the evening meals.

"My parents were always fighting," said Mrs. Mackenzie the other day, this jarred the picture I had of two dedicated doctors working as a team until she added that her mother was continually fighting for social welfare, especially help for crippled children, and her father waged a continual battle with the city administration to make it mandatory that all milk should be pasteurized.

Before telephones were installed, Dr. Edward seemed to know when he was needed at night. His wife would often awaken in the night to find him pulling on his clothes. "—— needs me," would be all the explanation he had and invariably, on the way out he would meet someone who had been sent to fetch him.

His calls took him out into the district of the Silver King Mine reached on horseback if an animal was available or on foot if not.

He walked to Nakusp on one occasion and is said to have tramped all the hills and trails in this area.

Edward Charles Arthur was born in Prince Edward county, Ontario, November 29, 1856, the son of Matthew and Margaret (Dougherty) Arthur. Both his grandfathers had come from Ireland as young men and had married in Ontario, their wives being of United Empire Loyalist stock.

He was educated in the public schools there and in high school at Brighton, Ontario. He graduated in arts from Victoria University of Cobourg, Ontario, in 1880.

Between 1874 and 1886, he indulged in one of his favorite professions, teaching, in Ontario public and high schools. He taught languages, Latin, French and German. He was also a student of Greek.

He started studying medicine at Trinity Medical College, Toronto, in 1885, and in 1888 he received his medical degree from the University of Trinity College, Ontario.

* * *

He practised in Lloydtown, Ontario, for a time, before coming to the west.

His politics were liberal and he was a Nelson alderman in 1900.

His great respect for education benefitted the new community in which he settled. He was a member of the school board continuously from 1891 until he resigned in 1913.

His name is perpetuated in the charters of Nelson lodges which he was instrumental in organizing, the Nelson Lodge No. 23 A.F. and A.M. of which he was a past master; the I.O.O.F., of which he was a past grand master of B.C.; and the Independent Order of Foresters.

The tall house on Silica Street contains many mementoes of the two Arthur medical practices and a diary kept by Dr. Edward of all the problems he and his wife encountered when Nelson was a baby.

Fears Chinese-American Clash

By BORIS MISKEW
Canadian Press Staff Writer

There is growing concern in the United States that the escalation of the Vietnamese war may touch off an American-Chinese clash in Southeast Asia.

There also is fear such a clash would not be confined to the Vietnamese theatre, but might rekindle the Korean War.

The undercurrent of anxiety over the risk of a Chinese-American conflict was indicated in the current U.S. senate foreign relations committee hearings in Washington, where Senator J. W. Fulbright, chairman, sought clarification of over-all American objectives in Asia, particularly long-range future policy toward China.

There are "rumors of drastic action" against China and, said Fulbright, "I don't know what the real policy is. That overshadows the whole thing."

Talk at United Nations headquarters has been that U.S. State Secretary Dean Rusk is convinced that Chinese expansion in Asia must be stopped—and the sooner the better—even at the expense of open warfare. This could be one source of the rumors disturbing Fulbright.

But Fulbright is not the only one disturbed. Committee members revealed by their questions that their dominant concern about the war in Viet Nam was the possibility of Chinese intervention, with the likelihood of a land war and perhaps the use of nuclear weapons.

Lt.-Gen. James M. Gavin, who advised President Eisenhower in 1954 against U.S. military intervention in support of the beleaguered French forces in Indochina, told the committee heavily - increased American military strength in Viet Nam might involve the risk of war with China.

The retired general, a former ambassador to France, said he expects additional U.S. troops in Viet Nam would be matched by the rebel Viet Cong as well as troops from North Viet Nam, with the possibility of reinforcements coming from China.

MIGHT REOPEN KOREA

Gavin suggested that the Chinese, if they decided to intervene, might not confine themselves to Viet Nam but might reopen the Korean front. He also warned the Soviet Union might get involved.

But, despite the concern about the risk of an American-Chinese war, President Johnson is expected to continue to increase the U.S. strength in South Viet Nam as attempts are made to initiate peace talks through UN Security Council efforts and by other parties.

The U.S. has committed itself to keep South Viet Nam from being overrun by the pro-Communist guerrillas, and South Vietnamese Premier Nguyen Cao Ky reminded Johnson of this commitment during their meeting in Honolulu.

This reminder came at a time when the U.S. appeared ready to agree to having the Viet Cong's political body—the National Liberation Front—sit as an independent group at a peace conference.

Ky said, however, he would not recognize the Viet Cong at any peace talks and urged the U.S. to increase the bombing of North Viet Nam as a means of bringing victory to his government.

Toronto Exchange Using Computer

TORONTO (CP)—A computer has replaced a dozen girls in the records department of the Toronto Stock Exchange.

The change, which took place Monday, had been expected to be implemented two years ago, but technical problems delayed the switch.

The girls' job consisted of marking each stock transaction on special boards, showing up-to-the minute prices, volume and net changes.

Transactions were fed to them on high-speed tapes. At times this task could be difficult, especially during heavy volume.

One girl said that during the excitement generated by Texas Gulf and Sulphur Co.'s major strike in the Timmins area in 1964 "the tape was running so fast we were up to our ankles in it."

One day during the excitement 28,000,000 shares were traded, the heaviest daily turnover on any North American exchange.

Now that the computer can handle the printing of prices and volumes, most of the girls have taken on other jobs, or will do so soon.

Three were kept by the exchange and trained to work in other departments. Two have taken positions with stock brokers and a few will be kept on at records to post hourly prices from the computer printouts.

Women to Join In World Day of Prayer

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Women across Canada and around the world will join in the World Day of Prayer Friday, Feb. 25. The theme is "Ye are My witnesses" and the basic service has been prepared by the Scottish Committee for the World Day of Prayer.

In Canada the day is sponsored by the Women's Inter-Church Council of Canada which had its beginnings in 1918. That year the Women's Missionary Society of the Presbyterian Church proposed in a letter to other women's organizations an interdenominational prayer meeting.

The first world day was in 1920, Canada and the United States joining in 1921. By 1929 some 35 countries were holding services and last year about 150 took part.

The basic service is prepared in a different country each year and adapted for local use.

Flanders Mud, Cold, Were Lot of WAACs

We were now well into the winter of 1917-18 and oh, it was cold! We had already experienced "Flanders mud" which made high rubber boots a necessity all day long but now it was all frozen hard. If the YCMCA had not just received a consignment of aluminum hot water bottles, I don't know what we should have done — our sponges froze on our washstands and the water in our jugs. Imagine, therefore, my surprise when coming home to lunch one bitter cold day and opening the door of our hut, I was met by a blast of lovely warm air and discovered that the stove was burning. My first thought was that someone must be ill in bed but this was dispelled when I saw a "Scotty" on his hands and knees in my doorway.

HEAT, FOR AWHILE

He explained that he was putting down linoleum and couldn't do it without heat. "Then please make the job last as long as possible," I said, "for it's the only time we've ever had the stove alight — and ever will probably." "Aye," he replied, "but the girls have heat." "Yes," I said, "but their quarters are inspected regularly and ours are not." "But this should not make a difference," I added.

During the winter we got to know some U.S. gas engineers who were stationed near us and being instructed in the art of poison gas warfare, then in its infancy. A French general called in one day and in the course of conversation, expressed his admiration for the work being done by the WAACs. I said, "It is nice to hear you say that, as I think we are the only country to have such a corps." He answered, "And you are the only country who could. French girls could never work together with men, like that."

Life was not without its humorous side. Most of the inhabitants of the row of cottages opposite the entrance to our camp kept hens, who got a good deal of their food by foraging near our kitchen hut. One day, when I came back at lunch time, I found a very excited Smith in my bedroom. "Oh M'am," she said, "one of the hens laid an egg on your shelf." (She referred to the narrow shelf above the clothes-pegs). "It must have flown in through the window. I saw it flying out and got the egg. I'm keeping it for your breakfast." "Oh, no," I said, "you must nave the egg — you found it — but how did the hen manage to do it without breaking the egg? It's such a narrow shelf and hens always seem such clumsy things," And we both laughed. We had a good cook and ample army rations, but I soon noticed that everything, especially the jam, had a flat, funny flavor — it made no difference whether it was strawberry or a good old plum and apple — it all tasted the same. I remarked on this and was told, "It is the disinfectant they put in our food to keep us healthy; there is a sewage farm near by."

One morning we arrived to find the office in a great state of excitement. During a surprise raid on one of the enemy's forward transmitting stations, a code book had been captured intact, and it was now in our office. On the outside was printed in large letters, "Auf Keinen Fall in Feindes Hande fallen lassen—so fort brennen" (On no account to be allowed to fall into enemy hands — burn at once.) It was the only time this had happened and it was a chance we should probably never get again to check our work and when we did, great was our joy to find that our solution of "Fritz" was quite correct. So that afternoon, those of us who were free, celebrated by having tea "Chez Madelaine" "Comme d'habitude."

But, of course, the enemy did not let us enjoy our triumph; scarcely had we ascertained that "Karl", "Fritz", etc., were indeed conquered, than we were faced with a new code and another two or three weeks of stumbling in the dark, to get it started. Nor were we helped by the delays, caused by Schultz, who seemed more interested in securing his promotion to major than in getting on with the work.

Eskimos Helped Her Teach

LONDON, Ont. (CP) — Mrs. William J. Berry, originally of Montreal, came to London the indirect way—via Baffin Island.

Mrs. Berry and her husband went to Frobisher Bay on Baffin Island in April, 1959, when he was posted as an assistant area administrator for Cape Dorset with the department of northern affairs.

The last two years of their stay was at Pond Inlet where they had a three-bedroom prefabricated house with an oil furnace and stove. She learned to speak Eskimo from an Eskimo woman who helped her in household jobs.

Besides raising three children of her own, Mrs. Berry found time for extensive community work.

During the first year at Pond Inlet she taught kindergarten and organized three patrols of girl guides. She was assisted by two young Eskimo women who were to carry on after she left. "We had a seal oil lamp for the closing ceremony at meetings instead of the usual campfire," she said.

"The north is still home to us," she says. "We really miss it."

Hints From Heloise

By Heloise Cruse

Dear Heloise:

To get my children to eat hard-boiled eggs, I remove the eggs from the hot water and peel them.

I then drop some food coloring in some water, and put the eggs in the colored water.

This way, the white of the egg is colored (instead of the shells), and the kids never leave one bit of the beautifully-colored egg.

Mrs. Joe Shook.

Yes, Mrs. Shook, and also, if you have any leftover pickled beet juice (plain beet juice will do, too), put some peeled hard-boiled eggs in this, and leave it in your refrigerator for a day or so.

These purple-tinted eggs may then be cut with your egg slicer, and put across the top of a lettuce salad!

Absolutely beautiful.

Heloise.

Dear Heloise:

Being the mother of three preschoolers, here is a trick I have used to save both time and money:

I change my youngsters' beds in the middle of the week, by turning both sheets (from head to foot). This gives them a clean change, since short little legs don't reach to the foot of the bed.

Dear Folks:

Many people have asked me if magnetic tape is permanent. The only thing I know for sure is that you can be carrying a tape recorder with a magnetic tape, and if you happen to go under a high-powered line (electrical cables, etc.), that it may possibly erase what is on the tape.

If you will wrap it in a bunch of newspapers, it helps. So, be careful what kind of high voltage wires you walk under!

Dear Heloise:

I made a laundry bag of nylon net to wash my quilted nylon robe and sweaters in.

The net acts like a thousand extra fingers — getting at soiled spots. No rubbing or wringing . . just sloshing and mashing.

Dear Heloise:

When my grandchildren visit, they know right where to find their own towels and washrags.

I bought six white plastic hooks (the kind that are dampened and stick to the wall permanently) from the dime store. I stuck them to the wall behind the kitchen door, about three feet from the floor, where they can be easily reached by the children.

This makes them feel important and happy, when they can claim their own towel and washrag (each in different colored sets), and they always wash their hands and faces before and after each meal, without being told.

A Grandmother.

Dear Heloise:

To protect a letter I want to leave outside for the postman to pick up when it is raining, I put the letter in a plastic bag before placing it outdoors.

Mrs. Joe Braden.

Dear Heloise:

If you have a number of envelopes to seal and stamp, just lay a wet sponge in a saucer of water.

Pat the flap of the envelopes on the sponge, press it down, turn it over and wet the corner for the stamp. Just a flip, and all is done.

When the sponge dries on one side, just turn it over.

Dear Heloise:

To fill the space between my kitchen cabinet and stove, I cut a one-and-one-half inch wide strip of adhesive-backed paper that matches my cabinet top, stuck it to the stove and cabinet top, and it barely shows.

It lasts a long time, is easily wiped off and is easy to replace when necessary.

Mrs. Frank E. Thompson.

Dear Heloise:

Another use for plastic bags is to use them for ice caps.

I notice the nurses in our hospital using different sizes for different places of the body.

Be sure there are no holes in them, and fasten them securely with rubber bands or other means.

FEBRUARY 14 VALENTINE'S DAY

A great day to discover how little long distance costs

On this special day the voices of loved ones, perhaps from hundreds of miles away, have a special place in our hearts. Memories are sharpened, experiences recaptured. It is a day when togetherness means so much and—as always with B.C. TEL—costs so little.

Now a student son or daughter away at college can afford a long distance call home (especially if they call "collect"!). Long distance rates are among the very few items of personal expenditures which, over the years, have lagged far behind the general rise in other living costs. In fact, many long distance calls actually cost less in dollars and cents today than 10 years ago. Moreover, after 6 pm and all day Sunday they are cheaper by about one-fifth.

Check the rates yourself in your telephone book or dial "O" and ask the operator. You'll be surprised how little it costs to enjoy "the next best thing to being there." Here, for example, are a few current charges:

VANCOUVER—PRINCE GEORGE..... $1.35
NEW WESTMINSTER—CALGARY..... $1.50
VICTORIA—TORONTO..... $2.35
(Evening, station-to-station calls, first 3 minutes)

On this important day of the year there's more reason than ever to use Long Distance for all it's worth!

In Nelson Call 352-7272

If calling long distance, ask the operator for ZENITH 7000 (there is no charge).

MAPLE LEAFS BOUNCE SPOKANE 5-3

Nelson Maple Leafs are considered a well balanced club, scoring wise. Friday night they proved again that teamwork beats individuality as five players scored goals in the Leafs' 5-3 win over Spokane Jets.

The win gave Nelson a three-point edge over the Jets and idle Kimberley Dynamiters in the battle for the top in the Western International Hockey League.

Mike Laughton, Buck Crawford, Murray Owens, Hugh Hooker and Danny Calles shared the Nelson scoring.

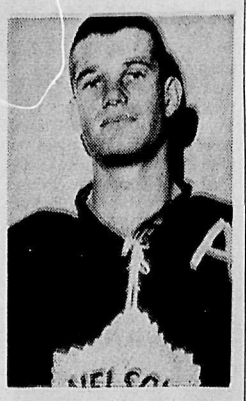
Ron Bahr, Tom Hodges and John Kenny scored for Spokane.

In a game that featured 18 penalties, an all-star officiating cast, rowdy fans and good hockey, the Leafs displayed the form that put them on top of the league in the first half of the season.

Nelson took a 3-1 second period lead, but the Jets fought back to tie it only to have defenceman Hooker blaze a slapshot past Jet netminder Dave Cox for the winning marker late in the second period.

Calles added the insurance marker midway through the final stanza when centre Howie Hornby laid a perfect pass on his stick and sent the tall winger into the clear.

The game showed signs of becoming a duplicate of the January 23 contest in Spokane in the first period, but the officials limited the roughness to one outbreak in the second period.



MIKE LAUGHTON

Laughton and Hodges got sticks up at each other and Felix LaVallee rushed in from the bench to enter the act. Hooker took after Hodges while Laughton held off LaVallee and the ruckus earned Hodges, LaValee and Hooker major penalties.

The all-star cast of officials, referee Carl Johanson, and linesmen Norm Mailley and Bill Waddell handed out 18 penalties, including the majors and a 10-minute misconduct to Leaf forward Gail Holden in the first period when he attempted to get his stick away from a fan (not from Nelson) who grabbed while the Leaf player fought for the puck along the boards with Jets' Vince Collins.

Holden's helmet may have saved an injury in the second period when he caught Hodges stick on the top of the head in a mix-up behind the Spokane net.

Leaf netminder Jim Letcher, called upon to make only 18 saves in the game, came up with the big one when he had to. He made possible the biggest save of the night when he stopped Kenny on two tries from close in.

Spokane Jets' general-manager-coach Colin Kilburn, sitting out the final game of his five-game suspension, may have seen the Jet loss coming in the first period when he became involved in a little mix-up with fans from Nelson. The spectators, rowdy and emotional in the first period, calmed down after a police warning to several of them. One fan was removed from the rink after grabbing a Jet player's stick.

Nelson coach Frank Arnett used Carl Chwachka on a line with Hornby and Calles while Holden centred Owens and Holmes. Leroy Mowery pivoted for Laughton and Don Borgeson.

HUGH HOOKER

Stan Ruzicka, playing a stand-up game on the blueline came up with a fine effort when he broke up a two man break by Jets' Ken Cameron and Bernie Gould.

The defensive corps, which has played lackadaisical hockey in the past few games, tightened up after Laughton's goal put the Leafs ahead in the first period, and played a major role in the victory as they limited the Jets to only 18 shots on net.

Bill Steinke had a golden opportunity to put the Leafs out front in the second period when the Jets roared back but he hit defenceman Gould on the back of the neck as he lay sprawled across the goal mouth with Cox off to one side. Steinke hit the goal post late in the final period with a slap-shot from 25 feet out.

The Leafs, after taking a 1-0 lead, faltered in the second period and the Jets took advantage to tie the game 3-3. But the thought of losing first place was too much and Nelson roared right back for the win.

The entire Nelson team, up for the game from the start, saw victory in their grasp in the third period and pressed for the insurance marker, which Calles finally got at the 13-minute mark. The goal assured Nelson of a win and the Leafs protected their lead for the final 10 minutes with determined checking.

With less than two minutes to play Spokane pulled Cox, but the move failed to pay off for them. It almost did for the Leafs on several occasions. Owens lifted a shot from the Jet blueline but Hodges moved into the goal crease to kick it out.

With first place theirs for a while longer, Nelson journeys to Trail to meet the Smoke Eaters tonight and to Kimberley to meet the second place Dynamiters Sunday.

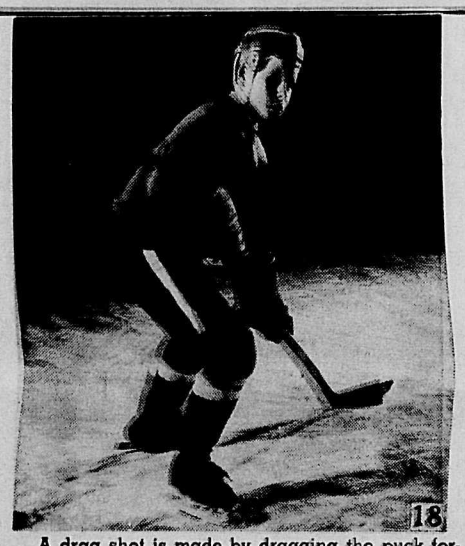
GORDIE HOWE'S HOCKEY



A drag shot is made by dragging the puck forward on the heel of the stick blade. Your weight should be forward and the stick square with the target. For the second part of the shot, use the push-pull action. The lower hand should push the puck while the upper hand pulls hard towards the body.

Juniors Seek To End Home Season With Win

Nelson Junior Maple Leafs tonight attempt to prove that their win over Rossland Warriors last week wasn't a fluke. The Leaf victory was their first over the Warriors this season, and snapped an 11 game losing streak that had knocked them out of competition for first place in the West Kootenay Junior Hockey League.

The Junior Leafs will be without the services of two players for the game, due to suspensions. Jim Boyce, originally scheduled to return last Sunday, will sit out the game; the last in his suspension. Greg Cook will also be absent, having been handed a match-misconduct in last Saturday's meeting between the two teams that leaves him suspended for one game.

The Warriors will be full strength and will be out to gain revenge for the loss to the Leafs.

The contest will be the last home league game for the juniors before the playoffs start. As a salute to minor hockey in Nelson the Leafs are allowing all minor hockey players into the game free.

The past week has found the players up early for 6:00 a.m. practices in preparation for the upcoming WKJHL playoffs against Trail Junior Smoke Eaters, beginning in the late stages of this month.

Tonight will be their first test since the early morning practices began and manager Ross Allen expressed confidence that the sessions will pay off in victories.

Reps, Comets Victorious In First Game of Playoffs

Skiers Chosen For Banff Meet

KIMBERLEY — Two junior Kimberley skiers, Judy Leinweber and Antoinette Sevensma, have been invited to compete in Canada's first international ski meet at Banff this weekend as part of the Canadian National Ski Team.

Both girls are members of the B.C. Junior Ski Team, and were chosen for the big meet because of their impressive records in recent ski races.

DAILY CRYPTOQUOTE — Here's how to work it:

A X Y D L B A A X R
is L O N G F E L L O W

One letter simply stands for another. In this sample A is used for the three L's, X for the two O's, etc. Single letters, apostrophies, the length and formation of the words are all hints. Each day the code letters are different.

MAKE MUCH WINE
Australia produces more than 35,000,000 gallons of wine a year.

Charter Bank Deposits Unchanged

OTTAWA (CP) — Total currency and chartered bank deposits remained virtually unchanged last week and little room was left for much change this week, figures released by the Bank of Canada indicated Friday.

Total money supply at Feb. 2 was $19,775,000,000, just $13,000,000 below the previous week. But there was a shift between the amount held by the general public and government of Canada deposits.

This probably was due to month-end payment of cheques in the process of being negotiated. The estimated float—money represented by cheques drawn on one account but not yet deposited in another because of the time needed for mailing and clearing—was up $136,000,000, compared with a drop in government deposits of $146,000,000 to $749,000,000.

The central bank reported that on Feb. 2, the chartered banks had cash reserves of $1,470,000,000. These rose this week to $1,473,000,000 on Wednesday, but the change of $3,000,000 was small compared with a reduction in the cash reserves of $17,000,000 between Jan. 26 and Feb. 2.

Under current banking law and regulations, the chartered banks are required to keep eight per cent of their Canadian dollar deposit liabilities in cash and on deposit with the Bank of Canada.

The yield on government of Canada 91-day treasury bills at this week's Thursday auction rose to a post-1962 record of 4.68 per cent, compared with 4.66 per cent the previous week. This rate, managed by the Bank of Canada through its participation in the weekly auction, indicates the high level of interest rates the central bank currently is prompting.

Cars Getting Safety Features

OTTAWA (CP) — The automobile industry announcement Wednesday that it is adopting collapsible steering columns and a double-braking system is welcome, says Howard Grafftey, the Conservative MP who is spearheading a drive for federal government auto safety action.

"But we have no way of knowing how significant the safety changes will be until they can be measured against standards of performance set by the federal government," he added in a statement Thursday.

Mr. Grafftey, MP for Brome-Missisquoi, said it is imperative that the federal government complete without delay a "definitive code on safety feature standards at the production stage."

Wednesday Mr. Grafftey testified on automobile safety before a New York state legislative committee where "I learned that legislators from all over the continent now agree that the automobile must be brought under the rule of law as are ships, railway rolling stock and aircraft."

MARKET TRENDS

TORONTO (CP) — Western oils dominated heavy trading on the Toronto Stock Exchange Friday as the oil index climbed 1.42 to 115.87, its highest level since August 1957.

Dynamic Petroleum gained the most attention as it added 5 cents to 3.35 on volume of 394,990 shares, after fluctuating between 3.35 and 2.85.

In other oil activity Central Del Rio was up ¾ and Banff ⅛. Canadian Export Gas slid 60 cents to 4.15.

Banks paced the industrial group higher with Imperial-Commerce ahead 1¼ to 68¼.

Algoma Steel advanced 1 to 71 and Bathurst Paper ⅝ to 24.

Among base metals, Inco increased 1 to 107, Noranda and Rio Algom ⅜ each to 53⅛ and 21⅜. Denison fell ½ to 39.

Dome led the gold section lower as it declined ⅜ to 41⅛.

Speculative mines were mixed. Con-Shawkey rose 8½ to 43 cents while United Buffadison slipped 6 to 84 cents.

On index, industrials were up .39 to 174.18, base metals .30 to 90.79 and the TSE .41 to 164.85. Golds were off 1.10 to 178.24. Volume was 6,700,000 shares compared with 6,829,000 Thursday.

NEW YORK (AP)—Rails went to new highs and more issues rose than fell in the stock market Friday but profit - taking made a scrambled pattern among leading stocks.

Volume was a lively 8,190,000 shares compared with 9,810,000 Thursday.

The ragged performance by many key stocks led to contradictions in the averages. The Dow Jones industrial average fell 1.78 to 989.03 and Standard and Poor's 500-stock index edged down .02 to 93.81.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks posted a gain of .8 to 367.9.

The rails gave the list whatever group leadership there was. Analysts said investors were attracted anew to the rails by President Johnson's food for-freedom proposals which, if adopted, would lead to a big increase in rail freight revenues.

Machine Landlords Forecast in Future

NEW WESTMINSTER, B.C. (CP) — Machine could be your landlord in the not too distant future, W. H. Ferry, vice-president of the centre for the study of democratic institutions, Santa Barbara, Calif., said Thursday.

Mr. Ferry, speaking at two-day convocation on automation and human values, told representatives of labor, management, education and religion that computers are growing in use and performance so rapidly that in future years the question may arise of extending some human privileges to them.

Computers may be permitted to own property or to vote in elections, he said.

Mr. Ferry said that electronic sales "girls" are already being used in a New York City department store.

The machine is smart enough to dispense different items in different styles and sizes, and to make exact change and reject counterfeit money, he said.

In another 20 years most of the routine tasks which can be done by computer-controlled machines will be taken over, he said.

OIn another 20

Even with a university education, the proposed four-day weekend for the remaining workers will tend to get boring, Mr. Ferry said.
