SERIOUS WRECK ON FRASER VALLEY LINE

Motorman H. J. Plews Killed and Five of Crew Hurt When Two Freight Trains on B. C. E. R. crash Head-on Near Abbotsford Yesterday Morning—Jos. Leckie Is Seriously Hurt—Cars Smashed to Matchwood.

One man is dead, another perhaps fatally injured, and four others not so seriously hurt because two trains of the B. C. E. R. yesterday afternoon collided head-on about three-quarters of a mile east of Abbotsford.

The dead man is Hudson J. Plews, of Edmonds.

The injured members of the crew are:

F. R. (Red) McMillan, broken thigh.

George McMillan, back dislocated.

James Fraser, slightly cut about the head and bruises on body.

Joe Leckie, fractured skull.

W. Eckles, badly shaken up and bruised.

The accident happened at 11:45 yesterday morning, when a westbound milk train, No. 1700, consisting of two express cars, rounded a sudden curve in the road, and bore down upon an eastbound freight motor and caboose, No. 972.

It was directly under the G. N. R. trestle that the trains met, both going at about 25 miles an hour and the impact was so terrific that the front trucks of the milk train were wrenched loose and jammed back against the motor slung under the centre of the car, the front crumpling up against the steel freight motor. Plews, the man who was killed, was motorman of the milk train and his leg was jammed against the front of the freight motor. The McMillan brothers were of the crew of No. 1700 and James Fraser was conductor. The man whose name was given as Eckles was motorman of the freight; Joe Leckie was also one of the crew of this.

In less than 15 minutes after the collision Dr. Swift, of Abbotsford with Dr. Dalton and Dr. Thompson, of Sumas, were on the scene and immediately all injured were taken to the Dalton private hospital at Sumas.

Motorman Plews was, from the first, thought to be fatally hurt, and although all was done to save him he died at 8:45 last night.

Of the others the only one whose injuries are considered serious is Joe Leckie, of 1651 Fifth avenue west, Vancouver. His skull was fractured and to relieve a serious compression of the brain it was necessary to trepan.

George McMillan was in much pain last night, according to the doctors, who said that he had suffered a dislocation of the vertabrae, but apparently of their own accord the bones had slipped back into place. He now has every chance to recover. The others are in no way seriously hurt.

From early yesterday afternoon until this morning the staff of the Dalton hospital worked incessantly and everything possible was done for the patients.

It would be hard to find a worse place on the whole line of the B.C.E.R. for a wreck than just where yesterday's took place. The grade is steep and the cut through the banks makes it impossible for a train to be seen very far ahead.

Evidence of the great force with which the two trains came together is given by the condition of the cars, not only the two which met but also the second car of the milk train which was smashed to the back of the fore vestibule and the empty milk cans thrown and stacked against the front as if piled there by hand.

This car did not leave the rails, and soon after the wreck was uncoupled and taken to Abbotsford by the auxiliary. The freight motor and the other milk train car were thrown from the track but both remained upright and after being jacked up, were put on the rails about 8 o'clock.

It is said there were between 500 and 600 empty cans in the two cars and these were piled along the bank near the wreck.

While he was being given first aid Motorman Plews asked that his wife be notified of the accident, and every effort was made by the railroad company to fulfill his wish. Before word came that he had died the company was arranging to send a special train to Sumas with Mrs. Plews.

It is understood that an inquest will be held and a rigid investigation made into the cause of the wreck.

NO TRUTH IN IT SAYS MARS

Charge of Mixing Politics With Civic Business Denied by Port Coquitlam's Mayor.

Port Coquitlam, Sept. 7.—"There is absolutely no truth in it and it is impossible to imagine how anyone could think there is, in view of the fact that I am the only Conservative and the only member of the old Conservative association on the council," declared Mayor Mars when interviewed by The News correspondent in reference to the charge made by one speaker at the recent meeting of the Independent Conservative association that a member of the city works staff had been threatened with dismissal if he joined the new association.

Apart from the above statement, the mayor had little to say on the subject. "The charge is so ridiculous," he observed, "that it is hardly worth paying attention to and I for one am not losing any sleep over it." His worship added that under no circumstances did the council mix politics with civic affairs.

That the charge was given fair credence by at least a percentage of the members of the independent association was admitted by a member of the executive of that organization.

The alleged threatened dismissal, this gentleman intimated, was the method the old administration used in expressing disfavor for the new organization. As a matter of fact, Mayor Mars has not made any public utterances nor has anything been said at the council meetings either in favor or against the new organization.

That the statement made at the council meetings either for or against the new organization.

That the statement made at the meeting of the independents was regarded as rash and indiscrete is evident from the fact that a motion was passed that all mention of the matter be removed from the minutes and withheld from the press.

SEEKS SOLACE IN MURDER.

Husband Spurned Kills Woman and Rival.

Los Angeles, Sept. 7.—Henry Sharpley and Mrs. Frank Kiser were shot to death here today and Frank Kiser was arrested on a charge of murder. The shooting occurred in Kiser's house.

Kiser and Sharpley had been rival admirers of the woman, then Mrs. Gertrude Brookinger, a boarding housekeeper in Wichita, Kas. The two men had lived in her house. Kiser admitted today he had been the least favored.

C. P. R. ENGINE DROPS OVERBOARD INTO FRASER

Port Coquitlam, Sept. 7.—While proceeding westward on Saturday morning the engine of a C. P. R. freight train slipped off a soft section of the track east of and near the Agassiz tunnel, and dumped right into the Fraser river. The engineer and fireman escaped with their lives by jumping.

The peculiar feature of the accident is that the cars following the engine remained on the tracks when the spill occurred. The engine is completely out of sight. Special apparatus is being sent out from Vancouver to recover it.

Mormons for Alberta.

Calgary, Sept. 7.—The large Mormon colonies in the states of Sonoro and Chihuahua, Mexico, may be abandoned by the Mormon church and the colonists moved to Cardston, Alta., according to the statement of R. J. McKinley, a recent arrival from Salt Lake City. The Mexican colonists are said to have suffered considerably from the effects of the two revolutions in the southern republic during the past three years. The church has a large body of land near Cardston, bought from the Dominion government many years ago at $3 per acre, now worth practically ten times that figure which is to be given Mormon settlers at the original cost to the church.

MAY EXHIBIT BIPLANE AT FAIR

Local Aviator Probably Will Put His Machine on Exhibition at the Big Show.

It may be that at the coming provincial exhibition of the R. A. & I. society there will be on exhibit the first aeroplane ever built in New Westminster, but which, if the present plans of the builder are realized, will be the forerunner of an industry, unique in this district.

Chris Roseneagle, expert aviator, second pupil of the famous Wright brothers, and one time holder of an American flight record, is the builder, and, as reported some time ago, he has the parts of a large biplane built and stored here awaiting an opportunity to assemble them.

Questioned on the matter, Mr. Roseneagle said, providing arrangements with the authorities could be made he would like to show this machine here.

The aviator says, however, that it is very unlikely that he will make a flight at present. Other matters have occupied his time, and it will probably be in the early spring that he will make a flight in his machine.

CHINA LOOKS LIKE EASY PICKING

Japs Howl and Rage in Effort to Force Government's Hand.

Seize Opportunity to Vent Spite on Ministry for Weakness in California Affair.

Tokio, Sept. 7.—The assassination of Mortiaro Abe, director of the political bureau of the Japanese foreign office, has inflamed the masses, and a dramatic chapter in the history of the new Japan was written today.

Fifteen thousand persons gathered in mass meeting in Hibiya park, calling for military action against China. A majority of these marched to the foreign office and clamored for admission. They demanded the despatch of troops to China to take such measures as were necessary to obtain satisfaction for the killing of Japanese at Nanking, or, failing this, the resignation of the minister of foreign affairs, Baron Nobuaki Makino.

The speakers denounced the emptiness of Japanese diplomacy in connection with California and China and insisted that the insult to the Japanese flag at Nanking should be wiped out. The manifestation clearly was an explosion of popular resentment against the ministry in its treatment of the California and Chinese questions.

Profiting by the lessons of the riots which followed the conclusion of peace between Russia and Japan, the government reduced the risk of violence today by refusing to allow a single soldier or policeman at the scene. The manifestants, many of whom were students, were orderly the early part of the proceedings. A score of agitators, including a girl, decried Japanese diplomacy and declared that it never had contributed to the upbuilding of the empire and always had ended in failure. The incidents in China were unbearable.

Become Angry.

Suddenly the cry to march on the foreign office was raised and there was a general stampede, many persons barely escaping being crushed. The crowds surged through the streets, headed by the gesticulating leaders, and reached the foreign office to find that the high iron gates were locked.

Scores of the demonstrators pounded on the gates and called for them to be opened, but in vain. The under officials refused. A delegation was appointed, the members of which climbed the gates, and then ensued a long parley. Meanwhile the crowd was cheerful, but determined. It showered compliments on a beautiful geisha girl struggling by in a rickshaw, but angrily stoned a photographer seeking to take snapshots of the chief delegate, who, having returned, mounted the portals to report progress. Perched unsteadily on the pickets, he made a fantastic picture and in a harsh harangue declared that the committee demanded either the despatch of troops or the retirement of the foreign minister.

"We told the officials," he shouted, "that the voice of the people speaks that the agitation will never end until our demands are granted."

The extraordinary situation continued for five hours, the delegates emerging periodically to pacify the crowd. Finally, when the discussion ended, they reported that Baron Makino had promised to resolve them September 15. This was greeted with howls and cheers, and many marched to the foreign minister's house, three miles distant. Police, however, prevented their near approach.

Another mass meeting was called for Sunday night at the Young Men's Christian association hall.

EDMONTON MAYOR AND ALDERMEN IN COURT

Edmonton, Sept. 7.—McDonald and Tighe, solicitors acting for C. L. Richardson, formerly city auditor, have been instructed to issue a writ for damages against the city, as well as the mayor and individual aldermen, voting for Mr. Richardson's dismissal. It has not been decided the amount of damages to be asked for alleged illegal dismissal of Mr. Richardson.

Another action will also be taken against the mayor and the same aldermen, charging conspiracy on their part to induce the city council to dismiss the former city auditor and claiming damages. The mayor and aldermen have been notified of Mr. Richardson's intention to institute these proceedings. Both writs will be issued on Monday.

Elevator Burned.

Saskatoon, Sept. 7.—The Goose Lake Grain company's elevator and coal shed at Zealandia were burned on Saturday night. There was little or no grain in the building. Part of the C. N. R. side track was also damaged.

Crop All Burned.

Moose Jaw, Sept. 7—Excepting a few scattered fields, harvesting has been completed in the Moose Jaw district. Saturday night many feared that it would freeze, but the official minimum was 35. All that now remains to be cut in this district is some of the late sown oats.

First Through Train.

Moose Jaw, Sept. 7—Late this afternoon the first through train from the west since Thursday, arrived, the trains having been held up by rock slides and washouts in the mountains.

LOG ROLLING COSTS A LIFE

Arthur Hill, of Vancouver, Drowned in Still Creek, Burnaby Yesterday Afternoon.

Attempting to emulate the feats of log rolling cost the life of Arthur Hill, 21 years of age, of Vancouver, who was drowned in Still creek, Burnaby, yesterday afternoon, while his two companions had difficulty in saving themselves.

Hill, who resides with two brothers at the corner of Twenty-fifth avenue and Main street, Vancouver, and is an employee of the David Spencer store, with two companions, one by the name of A. J. Wicks, went in bathing in Still creek, near Royal Oak avenue, about 12:30 in the afternoon. None of them could swim and, from the story told the Burnaby police by Wicks, it appears that all three got on a log and commenced rolling it in the water. The water at that point is from eight to ten feet deep, with the bottom covered with weeds, so that it is thought that the body is entangled at the bed of the stream.

Dragging operations were carried on all afternoon and evening. The police have located the spot where the body lies and will complete their work at sunrise.

An inquest will probably be held in this city.

MUCH TROUBLE IN SOUTHERN ISLANDS

Grandstand Breaks on Guadaloupe and Earth Trembles on Martinique.

Port-a-Pitre, Guadaloupe, Sept. 7.—While a French aviator, Leybaud, was making an attempt for the first time in the history of Guadaloupe to fly over Point-a-Pitre today, a stand in which 1500 spectators had gathered collapsed. Twenty-five persons were injured. The aeroplane flight proved a failure, for the machine had scarcely risen from the ground when it caught in a wire fence and one of the wings was broken.

Temblor Here.

Fort de France, Martinique, Sept. 7.—A series of earthquakes occurred at an early hour this morning. The shocks numbered 30 but no material damage is reported.

Sugar Magnate Dead.

New York, Sept. 7.—William F. Havemeyer, one of the organizers of the American Refining company that absorbed the business of the Havemeyer brothers refineries, founded by his father, who once was mayor of New York, died suddenly today at the home of his son-in-law, William R. Wilcox, former chairman of the New York public utilities commission. He was 63 years old. Heart disease was the cause.

Trading Visits.

Edmonton, Sept. 7.—Forty-six public men of the city of Fort William representing the commercial, business and manufacturing interests and headed by Mayor Graham, arrived in Edmonton by special train over the Grand Trunk Pacific from the East yesterday morning and spent the day as guests of the city council.

Going East Again.

Moose Jaw, Sept. 7.—H. V. Meredith, president of the Bank of Montreal, passed through here today with a party of friends, after touring western Canada.

THEY ALL WERE TREATED ALIKE

Everybody Who Went to Court at Edmonds on Saturday Paid into the Coffers.

Goats, firearms, autos, wagons and cows formed a great conglomeration of evidence in the Burnaby police court Saturday morning before Magistrate Beatty, a conviction being registered against every person summoned.

Oscar Scott owns two goats, which have shown a tendency to stray through the municipality to such an extent that they got the Angora of the patrolman. Oscar paid the costs of the case and was let off with a caution.

Murray Brown, for obstructing the street with a wagon, handed over two beaniets and a half, together with costs.

In the case of H. H. Holmes, for driving an auto on the wrong side of the street, the offense in the magistrate's eyes was a little more serious. Mr. Holmes was requested to come through with a double V.

R. J. Atkins was also mixed up in the matter of highway work. His offense was allowing a cow to stray on the road: $5 and costs.

Perhaps not straying, but at least wandering, was the offense of Will McCormick and Nick Munro. Wandering is permissable, but not with firearms for which a license had yet to be taken out. McCormack added a five and costs to the exchequer. Nothing was seen of Munro and he is likely to be asked the reason of his non-attendance.

NOTHING SURE ABOUT MEXICO

Huerta Not Looked Upon as Presidential Possibility, But—

Trevino to Succeed Blanquet—Dynamite Allowed in for the Mines.

Washington, Sept. 7.—While no announcements were made at any of the government's departments today of any change in the diplomatic side of the Mexican controversy, two phases of the situation attracted much attention in official circles.

One was the published disclaimer on the part of Nelson O'Shaughnessy, American charge d'affaires at Mexico City, that any positive assurances had been given him of the intention of Victoriano Huerta not to be a candidate in the approaching elections. The other was the receipt of private telegrams from sources close to the administration in Mexico City, stating that General Gerinimo Trevino would be made minister of war soon to succeed General Blanquet. It had been supposed here that Trevino was ordered back to Mexico City by Huerta to be given the reins of government as provisional president, while Huerta entered the presidential campaign.

Mr. O'Shaughnessy's statement was not surprising here, as it had been pointed out from time to time by Washington officials that they had relied only on the repeated emphasis by Federico Gamboa, Mexican minister of foreign affairs, of the statement that Huerta was ineligible by the constitution to succeed himself.

Have no Fear.

Mr. O'Shaughnessy incidentally disclosed the fact that the Mexican officials had supplemented the argument of the second Gamboa note, calling attention to Huerta's ineligibility, by verbal references to that part of the note. This further encourages Washington officials to believe that the Huerta candidacy will not materialize. They realize that Huerta could circumvent constitutional obstacles by resigning in advance of the elections, but such an act, it has been openly stated by high administration officials, would be regarded as a breach of faith and a subterfuge, and they still are proceeding on the assumption that Huerta has been eliminated.

The story that Trevino would be appointed to the cabinet and General Blanquet, the present minister of war, sent to the front, is in line with the various reports that have reached here of the alleged infidelity of some of Huerta's military chiefs. When Huerta recently issued an order re-

STOCKS SHOWING STEADIER TONE

Montreal and New York Both Reflect Stronger Feeling on the Market.

Montreal, Sept. 7.—Local stocks closed strong Saturday, the general level of the prices at the end of two hours' session being the highest of the week, but the market was quiet except in a few issues. One of the features was a rise of 3¼ points in Quebec railway which sold up to 15¼, as compared with last sales at 12 on Friday, and closed at the best. Concurrently there was some activity in the company's bonds, transactions amounting to a par value of $23,000 being recorded.

Iron attracted some interest in view of the sharp break Friday, but showed little change on a light volume of business. The price range was 46¼ to 46 7-8.

Toronto, Sept. 7.—That there is not much local bottom to the stock exchange for some stocks, was indicated by the way these stocks dwindled down Saturday with the London market close.

Rather Inactive.

New York, Sept. 7.—Speculative conditions yesterday did not favor active movement of the stocks and the market was a dull affair. The holiday on the London exchange deprived this market of stimulus from that source. Uncertainty of the weekly statement and the forthcoming crop report also tended to keep down speculative committments to a minimum. The undertone was distinctly strong and changes were generally lower.

The showing of the banks on the week was better than expected. Although fears had been expressed that the surplus reserve would be eliminated, leaving a deficit, the actual table showed a shrinkage of less than $500,000 notwithstanding a cash loss of $5,000,000. This was due to a scaling down of loans by $10,000,000. The average table, on the other hand, disclosed a loan expansion of $17,172,000, as well as a cash loss of $8,850,000 showing that it was due to a heavy reduction of loans late in the week that a deficit was not shown.

Bonds were steady. Total sales, par value, $680,000.

CLERKS ASK FOR WEDNESDAY ONLY

Arguments to Be Advanced at Council Meeting—Plea for Women.

Following are some of the points made by the advocates of the weekly half-holiday which will be presented at the city council meeting this evening:

Arguments for it.

The city needs unanimity among its citizens—workers and employers—if it is to progress.

Merchants should be willing to make concessions to employees. If the clerks did not get a half holiday their friends and co-unionists might resent this treatment and make a practice of trading in Vancouver and elsewhere.

If the city council turns down the clerks and Trades and Labor council, when other bylaws are put before the people organized opposition might develop. If workers are not to be considered in framing laws, why should they vote for measures to benefit other people?

The Trades Council represents over 5000 consumers, and they should be considered as well as merchants and outside people.

If this bylaw is passed it will be easier for all B. C. to get some benefit. Steps are now being taken to present the matter to the Vancouver city council Clerks would be willing to make Wednesday closing hour 2 o'clock. Have all stores close on Wednesday—hardware stores alone closing on aSturday.

Women employees should be considered. It is not a trade union movement, but a humanitarian one. Some employers do not think women workers are entitled to the consideration they would give to a horse or a dog.

Letter on Subject.

The editor of The News is in receipt of the following communication setting forth the cause of the women workers:

Dear Sir—I have been reading with much interest the controversy which has arisen with regard to the Early Closing bylaw which is, I believe, to come up for its third reading this evening, and I should be grateful if you would grant me a little space in your valuable paper in which to plead the cause of the women clerks of this city. At the present time these clerks work from 56 to 62 hours per week and surely everyone will agree that these hours are altogether too long. Forty-eight hours per week should be the maximum time any woman should be compelled to work and in this opinion I cannot but think every humane and right thinking person, male or female, will concur.

I cannot agree with the merchants that this enforced half holiday will be in any way detrimental to their trade or to the city in general; on the contrary, I believe that it will considerably add to the prestige of the Royal City when it becomes known that she has inaugurated this forward and progressive movement. This bogey of driving trade away has been brought up in every city when the subject of an early closing day has first been broached, but I have never yet heard of a city or town having had to revert to the old order of things after having once started the weekly half-holiday. I have said that I am writing principally on behalf of the women workers and as they have no direct representation on the council, I would appeal to all the women of the city who can, to attend the council meeting tonight and support by their presence, at least, this very important and much-needed bylaw.

POPE LOSES ONE OF BEST FRIENDS

Prominent Member of College of Cardinals Passed Away at Rome Yesterday.

Rome, Sept. 7.—Cardinal Joseph Calasanetinus Vives y Tuto, prefect of the congregation for religious affairs, died today. Recently he had undergone an operation for appendicitis.

Cardinal Vives y Tuto was born at San Andrea de Llevaneras, diocese of Barcelona, Spain, in 1854. Early in the summer it was reported that he had become insane, but later physicians diagnosed his case as neurasthenia and he retired to a monastery.

The cardinal acquired a prominent position at the vatican after the election of Pope Pius X, and had even been considered as a probable candidate for the succession.

The pope was deeply affected when he heard of the cardinal's death, and exclaimed: "I have lost one of my best friends, the church one of its greatest supports."

They Weren't Drowned.

Athabasca, Alta., Sept. 7.—Inspector Bayles, of the mounted police, who returned today from Grand Rapids, says that reports of the drowning of Waugh Dennis and two others while running the rapids with a scow was untrue.

BUSINESS MEN OPPOSE BYLAW

Strongly Against Weekly Half-Holiday—Would Mean Big Loss.

"It would be the greatest setback New Westminster has experienced in 20 years," said a city retailer yesterday in giving his reasons for opposing the proposed weekly half-holiday, which will again be considered at the council meeting tonight, "and by even entertaining the proposal the city is being made the laughing stock of the business men all over the province.

"I speak officially, as a member of the Retail Business Men's association, when I say that body is unanimous in its disapproval, but more than that anyone who has interviewed the influential men here, I can say that the manufacturers and professional men are all against such a move. In fact, one business man has estimated it would mean a loss to him of $65,000 in a year, while another estimates it would cost him $35,000.

"Why here we have been for years and years boosting this city and spending thousands of dollars for publicity, and then to turn buyers away would undo all our efforts. It's the most foolish proposition I've heard in my life," concluded the speaker.

Another One.

Another business man spoke in much the same vein. "Thirty-five per cent. of the trading done in this city is done by people from the district surrounding and to deliberately turn these buyers away is nothing short of commercial suicide."

This same retailer went on to show how, if ranchers and out of town people came to New Westminster once or twice and found every store closed, they would without doubt seek other places to buy, where they were assured of being able to trade any day of the week.

"There are in the lower valley many little settlements, each with its quota of stores, and each constantly growing stronger. As it is, we have to hustle to draw the country trade, and to play into the hands of our competitors in this way means only one thing: that all our money spent in bringing people to New Westminster would be thrown away, and all this trade lost for good and all."

Another man said that in Vancouver the business men were laughing at this city for even entertaining such a proposal. "What's the matter," this man said they are asking, "Is business so good that you can turn it away, and do you have to lock the door on prospective customers?"

From official statements of business men here, the passing of the half holiday measure means jeopardizing the whole commercial future of New Westminster. A petition signed by scores of business and professional men, protesting against the bylaw, will be presented to the city council tonight.

ANTI-TRUST LAWS ARE ON PROGRAM

U. S. Democrats Have Few Shots to Deliver at Real Rulers of American People.

Washington, Sept. 7.—The program of anti-trust railroad and currency legislation that faces congress for the ensuing 12 months has been fairly well outlined in the last week. President Wilson and the Democratic leaders in the two houses of congress apparently have agreed upon an ambitious plan of legislation which will bring all of the most important reforms contemplated by the Wilson administration within the period between now and the end of the next regular session of congress.

The tariff bill will be out of the senate and in the hands of a committee of the house and senate before the end of this week. Currency legislation promises to dominate congressional activity within a few days. Senate leaders are announcing that anti-trust legislation and further important amendments to the railroad laws are to be among the first and most important subjects taken up at the regular session of congress next December.

HARD ON THEIR HEELS.

Mob Chases Negro and Officers to Do a Lynching.

Guthrie, Okla., Sept. 7—With an excited mob hot on lynching their prisoner on their heels, Sheriff McKinney of Guthrie, and two officers reached Lewis Green, a negro, in Perry tonight, abandoned their motor car at Mulhall and took to the brush, according to a report reaching here.

Green shot and killed Chief of Police Lon Muxlow and Policemen I. H. Caldwell today. The officers were killed by Green when they went to make a liquor raid on Green's place of business.

Another Stage Finished.

Panama, Sept. 7.—The dry excavation of the canal has been completed, the steam shovel working in the Culebra cut, having removed the last yesterday. Further excavation of the canal will be completed by dredges.

ANOTHER WARNING.

Archibald Hurd, editorial writer of the London Daily Telegraph, has sounded another warning to Canada and to the Empire as a whole on the question of the Japanese menace. His remarks are quoted freely in the August issue of the Literary Digest and are grouped with similar statements made by a British Columbia authority, Dr. Frank B. Vrooman, of Vancouver, whose call, "Red Lights on the Pacific," issued some months ago in the old land, was the means of focussing for a time the attention of the empire on the peril which exists in this part of the world.

That the "occupation of British Columbia" is a part of the Japanese program is an opinion openly given and, coming from such high sources, it is calculated to make the average dweller on the British Pacific coast pause and think.

While Mr. Hurd is correct in his statement that the people on this outer boundary of the empire are alive to the danger, still it must be admitted that all the residents of British Columbia are not nearly so appreciative of the gravity of the situation as circumstances demand, and it is further to be regretted that in the eastern provinces there exists a feeling of sympathy for the Japanese and a distinctly marked opposition to any move to exclude them from this part of the British dominions.

Both Dr. Vrooman and Mr. Hurd are men among the last to be influenced by uncalled for anti-oriental hysteria and the fact that they have pronounced so definitely on the question furnishes food for thought to the white man on these shores.

With no attempt at concealing the impertinence of their demands, the Japanese refuse to grant to foreigners in Japan the very privileges which they seek in this country and Canadians are putting up with such a state of affairs without making a move to improve conditions.

The Japanese question and, in fact, the whole matter of oriental immigration have reached a stage at which it is necessary for some public body to undertake a course of education for the people of the Dominion. So long as the present feeling exists in the eastern provinces of Canada there will be no support forthcoming from them to any move which might be made by British Columbia to bar the undesirables from these shores. The desired end can be gained only by education, and the founding of a fund to send through the country lecturers on the subject, who would place all the facts before the people and give them a view of the situation as it really exists, would be a long step towards the goal that must be reached if western Canada is to be kept for the whites against the rising tide flowing in from the cesspools of the orient.

Hog cholera is reported to have killed a man in an eastern American farming district. Well, why should the disease be confined to the four-footed kind?

Back in Montreal they don't pinch criminals, they bite 'em. The other day one of the big city's cops found that the only way he could hold a man whom he had arrested was with his teeth.

Front page newspaper stories tell us of three bandits in North Carolina getting away with $16,000. Since Bill Miner died any old kind of a cheap thug can get his name in the news columns.

Several men have been landed in San Francisco with opium hidden in the heels of their shoes. It wouldn't do them as much harm there as it would if concealed in the recesses of their think tanks.

A Montreal report states that Americans are not liked in Mexico. What could you expect after President Wilson has talked to Huerta like a Dutch uncle to his nephew who has been caught in the jam closet.

The next time they get a man of the Diaz calibre in the presidential chair of Mexico they'll probably let him stay a while. It takes some weight to keep the lid on in that warm republic where things boil over so easily.

Following the opening of the peace palace at The Hague, Italy bounces into the spotlight with the announcement that her navy is to be strengthened. Evidently she expects a row to break out at one of those peace spiels.

The biggest gun in the world is to be located down along the Panama canal to help protect the ditch in time of war. The cannon is reported to be capable of carrying further than the sound of Teddy Roosevelt's voice at a bull moose convention.

NO PLACE FOR FRIEDMANN

Not Recognized on Program of Anti-Tuberculosis Conference

Recent progress in the world-wide fight against tuberculosis will be clearly set forth at the eleventh international conference, to be held this year in Berlin from October 22 to 26. One evidence will be the attendance. Twenty-eight states will be represented by delegates, and although no "cure" for tuberculosis can be reported, encouraging progress will be reported toward the control of the disease by natural restorative means, food and fresh air and by modern methods of sanitation, disinfection and isolation.

Dr. F. F. Friedmann has not applied for a place on the program and, according to one member of the committee of arrangements, none would have been given him had he done so. The German experts insisted on the submission of the Friedmann serum to the conventional tests before taking the doctor's pretensions seriously.

Visitors to the conference will, however, have opportunity to see the patients on whom Dr. Friedmann based his original claims of success, eighteen months to two years after treatment was begun, and to judge how his claims have been borne out by time.

FORGETS THE RULES

President Wilson Saved by Cop When He Disobeys Traffic Laws

Washington, Sept. 7.—President Wilson had a narrow escape from being killed by a street car here last night. The danger to the president was caused by his forgetting traffic regulations which forbid pedestrians from crossing the street except at corners.

The president was saved by a policeman who threw himself in front of the car. The speeding car stopped within ten feet of President Wilson. The policeman received warm thanks for his promptness.

The president and his physician, Dr. Cary Grayson, had been out for a short walk and were returning to the White House. Unmindful of the traffic regulations, they had started diagonally across Pensylvania avenue.

Just as they were crossing the track a trolley car came along at a lively clip. A policeman, seeing the danger to the president, jumped in front of the car with both hands upraised. The motorman brought the car to an emergency stop less than ten feet from the president and Dr. Grayson.

President Wilson was deeply engrossed in conversation at the time and was not aware of his close call until a secret service agent hurried across the track behind him. The president took the blame himself for the occurrence.

NEW GUNS FOR FRENCH ARTILLERY

They Will Be Capable of Throwing 100-Pound Projectile Distance of Five Miles

Paris, Sept. 7.—Now that the new system of military service is about to be introduced into the French army and the balance of "effectives" is more or less achieved, the attention of the war office is being turned to artillery. At present the only gun which the French possess more powerful than the 75mm. is the Remailho, somewhat heavy and lacking in mobility. For many years past Germany has had batteries of light howitzers of 105mm., with a view to counteracting the French quick firing 75mm. The dropping shells are able to search all masked or frontly fortified positions, but range being comparatively short, the Germans have now adopted a heavy 150mm. howitzer and a 210mm. mortar with carriage adopted for the roughest transport.

It was in response to this move that the French minister of war, after giving a trial to various types of howitzer offered by private industry, determined to adopt the ingenious invention of Commandant Malaudrin fro transforming the 75mm. quick firers at need into howitzers. The Berlin staff, however, had forestalled this retort by adding to its artillery long guns of 100 and 130mm., capable of firing at a target at a distance of seven kilometres or about four and one-half miles) without elevation. This placed the French 75mm. gun, which has not so long a range, at a great disadvantage, if not at the mercy of such an adversary, and the war office again applied to private enterprise to discover and manufacture something better.

The result has been the creation of new type of gun of 105mm. capable of firing a 100lb. projectile at least five miles. It is intended to furnish each corps d'armee with at least two sections of four guns each of this new type. It will be one of the effects of the three years' service that it will be possible to have a completely new organization of field artillery without touching the existing 75mm. batteries, which are the guns that so distinguished themselves in the Balkan war.

"WE ARE NOT GOING TO HANG YOUR BOY"

Governor's Message to Mother of Condemed Youth

Salem, Ore., Sept 7.—Governor West yesterday afternoon cummuted sentence of Robert Morgan, 18 years old, sentenced to be hanged tomorrow morning for killing Vergie Hart, his sweetheart, in Condon, October, 1912, to life imprisonment.

This action closely followed a telegram saying: "We are not going to hang your boy," which was sent by the governor to Mrs. Susie Morgan, mother of the condemned youth, of Richmond, Ky.

"The youth of the boy and the many petitions and pleas that his life be spared, were many reasons for cummuting his sentence," said the governor tonight.

Morgan's hair has turned from a raven black to a light iron grey and he has grown two inches in stature during his imprisonment.

Morgan and the girl had been sweethearts from childhood, and when he met her on the street in the company of another young man, he killed her. He was a deserter from the United States navy.

DOG AND HORSE SAVE MAN FROM DROWNING

New York, Sept. 7.—John Condrica, a waiter in the Hotel Shelburne, Coney Island, might have lost his life while bathing yesterday at the foot of Ocean Boulevard but for the assistance of a pet dog belonging to Mrs. Martha Haberland, a guest of the hotel.

Condrica swam out a long distance from the beach and because exhausted trying to get back against the strong tide. His actions attracted the dog, a large hound, and unusually intelligent. It plunged into the water and swam out to the struggling man.

Several thousand persons on the beach witnessed the performance and one of them notified Mounted Policeman Edwin Cody, who was on Surf avenue, while another hastened over to the Parkway baths to summon the life guards. Cody rode his mount into the surf and met the struggling man and his dog rescuer as they neared the shore, both exhausted from their efforts.

A breaker washed Cody from the saddle as he reached out to grasp Condrica. He held on to the horse, and the two men finished the swim shoreward with the animal heroes—horse and dog, supporting them on either side.

Three lifeguards in a boat reached them as they neared shore, and there was a cheer from the watching throng on the sand as it became evident that all were out of danger. Condrica was unconscious and had to be taken to the Coney Island hospital. Cody was back on post after a change of clothing and by nightfall Condrica had completely recovered. The horse and dog were unharmed.

GRANBY BAY IS PROSPEROUS TOWN

Wonderful Growth in North Coast Mining Centre During the Past Year

Victoria, Sept. 7.—Within a short space of time a new town has sprung into prominence in Northern British Columbia. This place is Granby Bay, situated at the head of Observatory inlet, and owing to the fact that it is the centre of a great undertaking on the part of the Granby Bay Smelting company, it will attract still further attention in the next few years. Millions of dollars are being expended there, and the great mineral holdings are being worked considerably at the present time.

Officers of the G. T. P. steamer Prince Rupert, which was in port yesterday, say that the place is rapidly assuming the proportions of a town. Last summer Granby Bay was but a small village. There were only a few bunk houses, a small dock and a trail up to the mines—in short, it was one of the most isolated places in this province. This year, however, a big wharf has been built, and the big three stack steamers Prince George and the Prince Rupert can dock there without difficulty. Fine houses have been erected and there are many stores, together with a first class hotel.

Great Push Expected

The Granby Bay Smelting company is spending about $3,500,000 at its new mining centre and the size of the venture is expected to give Granby Bay an enviable place among its sister towns of the coast. As soon as the great smelter is working to its full capacity and the miners are ripping open the sides of the mountains to get out the minerals, there will be a great rush of people to that part.

At the present time there are several thousand people there, the majority of whom are employed on the construction work at the mines. All the boats going in to that place are carrying many passengers. There is a tremendous amount of freight moving into Granby Bay at the present time, the Prince Rupert having her holds filled on every nothbound voyage. Cement, steel, iron and general stores are being shipped north in large quantities.

TOWN GETS OFF ON WRONG FOOT

Newly Incorporated Municipality is Located in Wrong Place and Error Must be Corrected

Seattle, Sept. 7.—On August 4 last, a bright pleasant day, citizens of the enterprising town of Ravendale repaired to their several voting places and by the conclusive vote of 65 to 39 voted to incorporate their community as a municipality of the fourth class in the virgin forest, six miles east of Ravensdale, where no man dwells. As a delicate compliment to the state the municipality was located on land belonging to the state of Washington.

Having accomplished this purpose under the impression that they were incorporating Ravensdale where it now stands, Mayor B. W. Shaw took control of affairs, thec ity council adopted a set of town ordinances, and Mat Starwich, the genial deputy sheriff, opened a saloon in a tent. Since August 4 the town has been doing business as a municipal entity under authority of a mandate of the people locating the town just six miles east of where it really is.

The error was discovered yesterday and Ravensdale is now face to face with the necessity of unscrambling itself as a town and resolving itself again to a component part of King county. Mat Starwich will be obliged to take down his tent and throw his bar into the discard, and Mayor Shaw, Treasurer H. McDouvell and the very competent members of the town council will be obliged to divest themselves of their robes of office.

John W. Pott, of Tacoma, prepared the proposed plan of Ravensdale, locating it on range 7 instead of 6. Every official that had anything to do with it, faithfully followed Pott's faux pas.

BIGGEST GUN AT PANAMA

Heaviest Piece in World Will Guard Canal

The largest gun in the world is to be used to guard what is perhaps the greatest material achievement of the human race—the Panama canal, says the New York correspondent of the London Standard. It is a sixteen inch breach-loading rifle, and is the first of several similar great cannon that are to be built for the seacoast defense of the United States.

The total length of this gun is forty feet, 3 inches. At the breach it has a diameter of 60 in., and tapers from this to 28 in. at the muzzle. The main bore is 37 feet, 4 1-32 in. long, and it has a diameter of 16 in. The cylindrical part of the powder chamber is 7 feet, 5 in. long with a diameter of 18.9 in. If smokeless powder is used it will require 576 pounds and if black powder is used 1176 pounds will be necessary.

The projectile of the gun measures 5 feet, 4 in. in length, weighs over a ton—2276 pounds—and when it leaves the muzzle it can pentrate 42.3 in. of steel. The range is no less than 21 miles, and the projectile will leave the gun at a speed of 2300 feet a second. In ranging this score of miles the shell reached an elevation of about 20,500 feet—higher than Mount Everest, the loftiest mountain in the world.

Boys Steal Church Money.

Toronto, Sept. 7.—The Presbyterian church at Broadview and Simpson avenue was entered early yesterday and $10 stolen from the collection box. Detective Wallace and plain clothes man Norris noticed two boys spending money freely at the exhibition and took them in charge. The greater part of the missing money was found on the two boys when they were examined at the station, and they will appear in the juvenile court.

BROWN MEN NOW SWARM TO BRAZIL

Subjects of Mikado Have Their Eyes on South America and Thousands Are Going There

The movement of Japanese to South American ports appears to promise reaching serious proportions, particularly in the case of Brazil. Exchanges to hand on the Sanuki Maru give considerable space to the situation which has arisen.

A contract has just been entered into by the Brazilian government and the Japanese immigration agents for a further introduction to that country of bapanese laborers to the number of five thousand. In September a batch of two thousand will leave for Brazil by the N. Y. K. South American liner Wakassa Maru, through the Tokio Immin Kaisha. Somewhat later in the same month another three thousand will be sent by the Suzuki liner Teiku Maru through the Takemura Immigration company.

Supplant Others

The labor in the cane fields and coffee plantations in Brazil has hitherto been chiefly supplied by China and Italy. Japan's share has been very limited. As a result of the Turko-Italian war the Italian government has been alive to the inconvenience arising from the ever increasing immigration of her youths to South America, and the outbreak of the Balkan trouble has caused Italian statesmen to feel more acutely the disadvantage of sending the flower of the nation overseas. The government has in consequence put a ban on immigration to South America. The Japanese immigrants to be sent under contract are to take the place of Italians.

Till last year very few Japanese went to settle in the East Indies or South America, but according to the prefectural returns of Tokyo-fu, over a fourth of the passports for foreign travel granted during during the three months ending June 30 were for travel either in the East Indies or South America. The same returns add that in July passports were issued for travellers in the East Indies and South America. Besides these there were a considerable number of applications for passports for travel in the East Indies and South America which were rejected on the ground of pecuriary incapacity, the greater number being from laborers. The settlers from the agricultural districts almost all go to Mexico or Brazil, while those from the industrial or commercial towns go to settle in the East Indies.

MINERS ARE HARD AT IT IN SHUSHANNA

Dawson, Sept. 7.—Christ Henry and Frank Hansen have arrived from the Shushanna, via Donjek, bringing letters dated August 22, one from Billy McLennan, who prospected the country before the strike, and found traces of gold a few years ago, but could not get grubstaked to return until the James discovery. Letters and arrivals at Dawson agree that two or three creeks show pay, and others have yet to be prospected. Considerable prospecting is being done on the creeks and in the deep canyons at many places, especially at Donjek. Considerable claim jumping is reported, but it is confined to ground which, the men contend, was taken by men who already had staked the full allowance. Some gun plays resulted but no shooting.

The Fairbanks crowd begins to arrive in good numbers. One 16-year old boy arrived with only $2.50. He hiked back quietly.

A press correspondent said there were 800 stampeders on the ground from Cordova. A launch which Donjek yesterday reports the steamers Vidette and Pauline stalled twenty miles below Donjek. They were unloaded onto launches to take the freight the rest of the way. The steamer Nasutlin, thirty miles below, is continuing slowly. Stampeders continue to leave here, many taking polling boats from the mouth of the White river. Ten or fifteen go daily. Arrangements are being made to freight horse teams from the motuh of the White to the Chisana, as soon as the river freezes in November.

ALL HE WORE WAS SMILE AND BANDANA

Smith's Falls, Sept. 7.—Consternation was caused in the home of Mr. Alex Clark a recent morning. On answering an early call at the door, he was confronted by a stoutly built man five feet six or seven in height, and whose entire wearing apparel consisted of a red pocket handkerchief tied around his neck.

Mr. Clark lives near the Rideau river, and the man said he had swam from the other side, his appearance indicating that he had done so. Mr. Clark supplied him with clothes and he was given a lift to town by a neighboring farmer.

He was a strange-looking and peculiar-acting person, and the chief, thinking he might be one of the men who escaped from the Brockville asylum, has made every effort to locate the man since he was left in town. All trace of him has disappeared.

SYNOPSIS OF COAL MINING REGULATIONS.

COAL MINING rights of the Dominion in Manitoba, Saskatchewan and Alberta, the Yukon Territory, the Northwest Territories and in a portion of the Province of British Columbia, may be leased for a term of twenty-one years at an annual rental of $1 an acre. Not more than 2560 acres will be leased to one applicant.

Application for a lease must be made by the applicant in person to the Agent or Sub-Agent of the district in which the rights applied for are situated.

In surveyed territory the land must be described by sections, or legal sub-divisions of sections, and in unsurveyed territory the tract applied for shall be staked out by the applicant himself.

Each application must be accompanied by a fee of $5 which will be refunded if the rights applied for are not available, but not otherwise. A royalty shall be paid on the merchantable output of the mine at the rate of five cents per ton.

The person operating the mine shall furnish the Agent with sworn returns accounting for the full quantity of merchantable coal mined and pay the royalty thereon. If the coal mining rights are not being operated such returns should be furnished at least once a year.

The lease will include the coal mining rights only, but the lease will be permitted to purchase whatever available surface rights may be considered necessary for the working of the mine at the rate of $10 an acre.

For full information application should be made to the Secretary of the Department of the Interior, Ottawa, or to any Agent or Sub-Agent of Dominion Lands.

W. W. CORY,
Deputy Minister of the Interior.

THOUSANDS BUSY IN VALLEY HOP FIELDS

Men, Women and Children, Indians, Negroes and Whites All Engaged in Gathering Harvest.

Chilliwack, Sept. 7.—Immense fields of hops in the Fraser valley around Agassiz and Chilliwack are now being populated with an army of pickers, men, women and children, who look forward to this harvest as the greatest opportunity they have for outdoor life, and combine business and pleasure.

Many families with no settled income go to the hopfields yearly, making wages which go far in keeping them through the winter. Earnings of from $5 to $8 a day, and even higher, are made by some of these families, al idepending upon the number and bility of the pickers and the abundance of the hops.

Indians make good pickers, and flock to the yards in large numbers every year. There are fully 3,000 of them inthe hop fields this season.

It is not unusual to see white men, women and children, Indians with their pappooses and negroes with their pickaninnies, all employed in the same yards. Each nationality forms a group by itself, however, both in the situation of the living quarters, and in the part of the field occupied, and they rarely come into any but the most casual contact.

In the largest yards several hundred pickers are employed; while in some sections where the yards are small, the picking becomes a neighborly affair, the wives and daughters of prosperous farmers taking part in it as a matter of course.

Growth Is Beautiful.

A healthy, vigorous hop field, under good cultivation, is a beautiful sight. The wires stretched from pole to pole, bear their lovely burden of dark green vines in long rows, from end to end of the field. Scattered over these, and depending in graceful clusters, are seen the lighter green of the cone-shaped hops, like flowers among their leaves. The odor is pungent and healthful, and many semi-invalids work at hop picking upon the advice of their physicians, that they may inhale this odor, and also be in the open air.

The care and cultivation of the crop affords work to all in the vicinity who wish it. Beginning with the preparation and cultivation of the ground, though twinging the young vines on the strings by women and children; training them on the wires by the men, and the entire season's care up to the gathering of the crop, which gives work for all from the time of blossoming to the harvest is only abou six weeks.

Busy Times in the Fields.

A hop field at picking time is a very busy place. Boxes, baskets and grain bags, open by inserting a barrel hoop at the top, form the receptacles for picking, these being empited later into the boxes provided by the growers. The size of these boxes varies in different yards. In some the box is a large one, containing twenty-six and one-half bushel grain measure, for which the picker receives $1.00; in others a box holding nine bushels brings 50 cents in payment, while in others $1.00 is paid for 100 pounds. Some growers pay a 5 per cent. bonus to those pickers who remain with them during the entire harvest.

Most growers seek to employ only respectable persons and discourage drunkenness and lawlessness, both for the purpose of making the work desirable to the better clas of pickers and because it is for their own interest to have things quiet and peaceable.

Call for Hop-Pole Man.

Should you visit one of these fields, you would hear the frequent cry of "hop-pole! hop-pole man!" which might puzzle you, until you saw a man ming carrying a long pole. This terminates in a knife and a hook in one end, and by a quick deft twist, it lifts the wire on which the hops are trained off the supporting post, and down within easy reach of the pickers. One man thus covers a large portion of the field.

When a box is filled the picker calls "Ticket! ticket!" when the "ticket man" or inspector answers. He looks the box over to see if it is clean and of good measure and if satisfactory a ticket is given for the amount due for the work. The ticket is marked with the name of the picker and the number of the box. This is done so that if the box is found deficient in any way it may be traced to the picker who filled it.

Two strong young fellows, called "rustlers" then appear. These wear straps over their shoulders to help them in lifting the heavy boxes, which are carried to the side of the road, after first heaping the hops high in the centre as a sign to the drivers that they are ready to be taken to the kilns. Twelve or fifteen boxes are loaded on a wagon at once and taken to the kilns for their final preparation for the market.

At the Kilns.

At the kilns the hops are shoveled into the dry room and spread about two feet thick over an open latticework floor. The room is very tightly built, and when the door is shut the heat in the furnace beneath is turned on being allowed to reach 140 or 150 degrees. Several pots of sulphur are also lighted in the furnace rooms, the fumes entering with the heat and bleaching the hops. After being kept in this heat for twenty-four hours the hops are shoveled out into the adjoining room where the final process, that of baling, is performed. This is done by machinery. The press is lined with the canvas for each bale, and when the bale is turned out the canvas is sewed on and it is ready to be hauled to the warehouse to await shipment.

HUNGARIAN SETTLERS FIND WEALTH HERE

Make Their Money in Canada, Keep It in Dominion and Refuse to Return to Home Land.

Regina, Sept. 7.—"Hungarian settlers in Canada are prosperous to a degree unknown in any other part of the world. There are 15,000 of them in the Dominion, the great majority resident in the west. In the United States our people work on construction undertakings and send their savings out of the country. In Canada they take up land, invest their savings in implements and stock, and take steps as soon as they are financially able to bring their relatives across the water. Ninety per cent. of the Hungarians in the Dominion are engaged in agriculture."

Such was the nature of the statement made by Joseph Ballay, Hungarian newspaper man and financier, who is spending a few weeks in the Canadian west in behalf of the Buda Pest News and a number of other journals devoted to the interests of his people. During the past few days he has visited the Hungarian colonies at Esterhazy and Otthon, and on his arrival he spoke with intense satisfaction of the progress that has been made during the past few years.

Have Made Fortunes.

"Since my arirval," he declared, "I have met quite a number of my countrymen who emigrated fifteen or twenty years ago without a dollar, who are today possessed of fortunes as great as $100,000. I am told by every farmer I meet that there is no other country in the world where the earth yields so plentifully for so little effort as in Saskatchewan. The British settlers of Esterhazy inform me that their Hungarian neighbors are all first class farmers, thrifty and industrious. They are very grateful to Canada for the opportunities which she has provided.

"Four or five years ago the Hungarian government awakened to the fact that all of our people who come to the Dominion stay here and keep their money here. Then it was that the authorities determined to check emigration. They did all that could be done but have now come to realize that the movement cannot be stopped, and they have abandoned the attempt. The temporary measures which have been adopted during the past few months have nothing at all to do with the government's permanent policy.

"The war in the Balkans has created an abnormal condition, and the authorities, while the necessity of mobilization seemed imminent, did not wish that any fighting men should leave the country. In normal times Hungarians who leave their country travel on a passport issued by the civil powers. The ministry of war of the Austria-Hungarian empire recently imposed special restrictions which will doubtless be removed in the near future."

There are in Saskatchewan two large settlements which, while not exclusively Hungarian, are mainly occupied by Hungarian farmers. Twenty years ago Count Esterhazy introduced the colonists now resident in the district which bears his name. Today in the vicinity of Esterhazy and of Stockholm, originally a Swedish, but now almost exclusively Hungarian territory, there are some 2,500 people of this race.

Are Roman Catholics.

The settlers in this colony profess the Roman Catholic faith. At Otthon, on the Grand Trunk Pacific railway fifteen miles north of Melville, there are about 1,000 Protestant Hungarians. In both districts the Hungarian tongue is spoken both by the settlers of the older generation and the new, but it is most fluently spoken at Otthon.

"It was a pleasant surprise to me to find myself in the midst of people who can speak my own language," said Mr. Ballay. "There's an old proverb to the effect that whoso passes the boundaries of Hungary hears no more his native tongue. There is, in fact, no other place I know of outside of my own country where Hungarian is spoken.

"I believe that our language will continue to be heard at Esterhazy and Otthon for about fifty years. It will not be until the third generation begins to grow up that Canadianization can become complete. In the United States, where our people work for wages and are compelled to travel about the country, they soon become Americanized. Here the process is much slower. I am sorry that our language is destined to extinction in Canada, but it is, of course, inevitable. The Hungarians are not less loyal to the country of their adoption because they cling to their own traditions. That they keep all their money in the country and decline to return to Hungary even when they have made fortunes is convincing evidence of their capacity for citizenship."

Falling Off in Immigration.

During the past few years there has been a falling off in the volume of Hungarian immigration in spite of the fact that the government has removed all restrictions. The movement continues, and will continue to be an important one for many years to come, but the gradual disappearance of the homestead lands, the difficulty which Hungarians are now experiencing in securing land in the vicinity of their countrymen, have in some measure checked the rate of immigration.

The opening up of Otthon by the Grand Trunk Pacific railway has been a great boon to the settlers of this district, Mr. Ballay averred. For many years they had struggled on against adverse external circumstances, hauling their grain to Yorkton and had found it extremely difficult to make "ends meet." They are now enjoying unexampled prosperity.

Today Mr. Ballay is making inquiries in regard to the number and condition of Hungarian workingmen living in Regina. The outcome of the present tour will be a series of articles on western Canada in the Buda Pest News, a newspaper in the Hungarian language, and The Hungarian, published in English. Mr. Ballay's visit was arranged by Louis Kon of the publicity department of the Grand Trunk Pacific railway.

BRITISH AFTER HUMAN LEOPARDS

Murderous West African Natives Will Be Exterminated by the Authorities

Freetown, Sierra Leone, West Africa, Sept. 7.—The murderous native organization of Sierra Leone, known all up and down the west coast as the Human Leopard society, is being relentlessly pursued by the British authorities to its furthermost h d ng places. The determination is to exterminate it, but the task will be difficult for this sinister and baneful association has obtained such a strong grip on the superstitions of the natives in its several years of existence that it will fight and die hard.

The society is a secret organization. It has operated with particular atrocity of recent years in the northern Sherbro district, and most, if not all, of the principal natives of this region belong to it.

Between twenty and thirty murders have been committed by members of the society since 1907. The purpose undoubtedly was to provide human flesh for their fellow members, but whether this was done merely for the gratification of the taste for canibalism, or whether the killings were a part of some secret rite of the organization whereby the natives believe their mental and physical powers are increased, has not been conclusively learned. Matters reached such a crisis a few months ago that a special court was appointed and many arrests were made. Among the members placed on trial were several paramount chiefs.

Eventually, under a special ordinance passed to suppress the society, seven men were executed for murder, two condemned to life imprisonment and eleven were expelled from the protectorate.

In a report of the society and its recent atrocities, the governor of Sierra Leone, Sir Edward M. Merewether, expresses the opinion that while his drastic action will tend to check the activities of the society, yet the blind belief of the natives in the efficiency of the medicines concocted by the organization; the fact that periodical sacrifices are considered necessary to renew the power of the remedies, and a tendency on the part of some natives to canibalism pure and simple, are causes likely to contribute to the survival of the organization.

NOT LIKE A SPANIARD.

Forgives Man Whose Nose He Pulled and Who Shot Him.

Seattle, Sept. 7.—Maximo de la Mosa, who was shot and seriously wounded by M. A. Lopez at the foot of Main street, bears no ill will toward Lopez. Yesterday de la Mosa, when he believed he was dying, said he forgave Lopez. De la Mosa is not yet out of danger.

De la Mosa's story of the shooting differs somewhat from the statement made by Lopez. In Spanish he told Alex Gandolfo, of 514 Second avenue, that his name was de la Mosa, and not Gutierrez, as his name was understood when he was taken to the hospital. De la Mosa said he did not threaten to use a knife at the time he was shot. He said an argument arose between himself and another Spaniard, whose name he did not know, while in the employment office near the railroad tracks. Upon going outside the trouble was renewed and both he and Lopez fought with their hands.

"He struck me in the face first," said he: "I grabbed his nose and he shot me. I am willing to forgive him. I did not have a knife. I know I have got to die, but I can not talk now. I have brothers and sisters in Pabria, Spain. I did not know the man."

T. Quinn, an employee of Hanley's employment office, at 801½ West Main street, said that the fight between the two men started in his office. De la Mosa, he says, threatened to use a pocket knife. Quinn disarmed de la Mosa and ejected the men from the office.

Lopez insists that he did not shoot until de la Mosa produced a long stiletto and threatened to stab him.

FATHER AND UNCLE STEAL CHILD FROM MOTHER

Seattle, Sept. 7.—While a grief-stricken mother lies prostrated at her home, mourning the loss of her 2-year-old boy, police detectives and members of the United States marshal's staff are scouring the city for John Schluep, the father, and Adolph Nieth, an uncle, both suspected of having kidnaped the child from the Abbotsford apartments, 150 Eleventh avenue. Tacoma and Portland authorities have also been asked to aid in the search.

Three years ago in New York city the mother became the wife of John Schluep, her sweetheart of school days in Switzerland. Shortly afterwards they came to Seattle. The marriage proved to be an unhappy one and three weeks ago Mrs. Schluep petitioned for a divorce on the grounds of cruelty and non-support. Since then the young woman has supported herself by working in a restaurant.

"I had been leaving the baby at the day nursery," said the mother, "but yesterday morning I left him with his uncle, Adolph Nieth, who called to see him just as I was leaving for work. This was about 11 o'clock and when my sister came here at 3 o'clock, the baby and all his clothes were gone."

It is the belief of detectives working on the case that Schluep and Nieth conspired to kidnap the child, Schluep according to his wife, had threatened to steal the baby unless she would return and live with him.

Mosquito Bite Killed Him.

Montreal, Sept. 7.—The bite of a mosquito proved fatal in the case of John H. Danes who came to Montreal a little over a week ago and was living at 2540 Mance street. When he arrived Danes had a mark on his forehead no larger than an ordinary mosquito bite. He scratched it so vigorously, however, that he soon had an open sore in its place. Then his head began to swell and he went to the general hospital. He died yesterday. Danes was 48 years of age. Coroner McMahon decided the facts of the case did not warrant the holding of an inquest.

WHAT RUSSIAN PEOPLE DRINK

Tremendous Increase in Consumption of Intoxicants in Czar's Domains

St. Petersburg, Sept. 7.—Startling proof of the tremendous increase in the consumption of intoxicants in the past ten years, and incidentally of the enormous financial success of the government's liquor monopoly, is presented in official statistics published today in connection with the new budget. The liberal press calls it the "drunken budget." The annual sale of alcohol is stated to have grown from 170,000,000 gallons to 240,000,000 gallons, and it is estimated that in the current year the total income from this source will be $400,000,000 or more than one-fourth of the entire revenue of the empire.

When the government monopoly of the sale of spirits was established in 1895, it was confined at first to four governmental departments, but within a decade it has been gradually extended to the whole of Russia with the exception of a half dozen of the smaller outlying provinces. Since the establishment of this system the government has sold to the people of Russia nearly three billion gallons of vodka alone, and socialogists agree that the amazing prevalence of drunkenness and crime among the lower classes is attributable almost solely to this fact. At the time the government piously announced that in taking over the liquor business it was actuated less by the hope of financial advantage than by moral and hygienic considerations. They said the private saloon keepers were ruining the people and that the government must step in and prevent so much intemperance.

Systematic Alcoholisation

The result has been just what the opponents of the project predicted—systematic alcoholisation of the Russian people. Graphic illustration of the system was furnished in the recent official inquiry among school children of Ekaterinodar. Out of 5,721 pupils it was learned that sixty-three per cent. drank. Of these 25 per cent. had taken to drink at the age of eight; twenty per cent. at the age of seven, and eleven per cent. at the age of six, while many were found who had been supplied a steady diet of vodka at four years of age.

A recent medical congress here ascribed the alarming spread of mental diseases among all classes to excessive use of intoxicants, and the official journal of the ministry of justice admits that "the general connection of alcoholism and criminality among the masses is becoming evident." Figures are given showing that in districts where the consumption of spirits is above the average, there is always an increase in crime.

The appalling increase of suicide also is attributed to the government's systematic alcoholisation of the empire, it being almost in direct ratio to the sale of intoxicants. In the past ten years suicides have risen from twenty-three in every million to thirty-five.

SAY HE POURED CARBOLIC ACID OVER THEM

Montreal, Sept. 7.—George Robley appeared before Mr. Recorder Geoffrion on a charge of assault and after the evidence had been heard the recorder reserved his judgment.

Robley was charged with having thrown the contents of a bottle of carbolic acid over two young girls, causing them very serious bodily injuries and damaging their clothes. The assault is alleged to have taken place at 43 Sanguinet street last night. Robley has a room on the upper flat of the house, and on the ground floor resides a young girl of 12 years of age, Rosah Vineberg, who was sitting with a friend of her, Sarah Lies, aged 16, who lives at 143 Villeneuve avenue, on her door step. The girls told the court the accused had deliberately emptied the contents of a bottle of carbolic acid over them, severely burning them on the back and limbs, and destroying their clothes.

Robley, who made a lengthy plea, and who kept the court listening for nearly half an hour, emphatically denied the statements. He swore that at the time of the alleged assault he was in his bed and denied that there was any light in his room as the plaintiffs had told the court. His daughter also swore she had removed the lamp from her father's room, and that he could not have committed the assault complained of.

The girl bore evidence of acid burns, and their clothing produced in court also gave evidence of the effect of some strong acid.

Smallpox Breaks Out.

Milverton, Ont., Sept. 7.—The citizens of Milverton are somewhat alarmed over the outbreak of smallpox in the village. Andrew Back, who resides with his employer, L. Schmidt, a contractor, has been complaining for some days of not feeling well. Last evening Dr. P. L. Tye, medical health officer of the village, diagnosed his case as smallpox and had him removed to a vacant shack. The house belonging to Mr. Schmidt, who has six children, was put under quarantine after the inmates had been vaccinated.

Frank Ranstad, divisional storekeeper for the C. N. R., Prince Albert, was seriously burned about the body when an alcohol lamp exploded while he was using it to heat water for shaving.

FISHERMEN MADE $1000 PER BOAT

Upriver Men Said to Have Done Well This Season—Day Set Aside for Sports.

The fishermen who have been drifting up river this season are reported to have made an average of $1000 a boat. There will be a day set aside on which the fishermen will hold all kinds of sports and a good time is waiting for anyone who wishes to avail himself of the opportunity.

It is about ten years since New Westminster held fishermen's sports and many will remember the occasions upon which Columbia street was turned into a race course and the greasy pig turned loose upon the public. The evening events took place upon raised platforms and cracker, pie and watermelon eating contests were held. Even the Chinaman was made to take part. Such will be the scene at Hammond at some date in the near future.

Lady's Shoe, Stocking and Pedal Extremity Found in Stomach of Shark.

New York, Sept. 7.—Added to the many mysteries of the sea is the identity of the woman whose left foot was found in the stomach of a shark that became enmeshed in one of the nets of the Barnegat Fisheries company two days ago. And in the reason for this is a whimsical bit of humor for the men who found the foot in the shark threw away the only possible means of identification, the shoe and the stocking.

It would not be impossible, however, that the foot belonged to Miss Consuela Rudriquez, the young Mexican woman who disappeared from on board the Mexico, of the Ward line, on her voyage from Vera Cruz to New York. Miss Rudriquez disappeared some time during August 18 and several passengers on board the Mexico told of having seen a school of sharks near the steamship on date that. No description of the clothing worn by the young Mexican woman could be given at the office of the Ward line yesterday, but an interesting detail was brought out by Mr. William I. Omher.

Mr. Omher, who is living at the Langhorne cottage in Spring Lake, N. J., was fishing close by when Captain Combes of the fisheries company landed the shark.

Describes the Shoe.

Mr. Omher explained that the stomach of the shark was all but thrown overbour dwhen the stocking showed, and one of the men hooked it as the organ slipped into the water.

"If they had found the foot before," he said, "they would have examined more closely into the contents of the stomach and something more might have been discovered. As it was the men passed the foot around. We had come up to them by this time and I had a close look at the shoe. The foot was a left one and the stocking was intact, save for several punctures where the teeth of the shark had cut through.

"The shoe was a little out of the ordinary. The toe was longer than usual and the whole last slenderer than common in American shoes." It is this description that gives rise to the belief that the foot may have been torn from Miss Rudriquez's thody, for Mr. Omher's idea is that the shoe was of foreign manufacture.

"The shoe was wet and the first process of digestion had begun on it. The foot was in an excellent state of preservation. I could tell this by the place where it had been torn from the limb, for the ligaments and flesh, although frayed, were not decomposed."

Mr. Ohmer expected Captain Combes here and his men would bring their find ashore at Lavalette, their station, but he was surprised to find yesterday that they had thrown the shoe and stocking overboard and buried the foot.

At Lavalette, where Captain Combes lives and the foot is buried, no communication has been received asking for information about the foot, nor have any of the life saving stations in a distance of twenty miles up or down the coast received any inquiries.

THRILLING RESCUE BY GOVERNMENT LIFE SAVERS

Marshfield, Ore., Sept. 7.—A thrilling rescue by government life-savers was performed on Coos bay bar last night, when a crew of foreign fishermen in a Columbia river boat were retrieved from the very edge of the breakers.

Three Columbia river boats had come down the coast, and as they were crossing the bar the engines of one broke down. The other two signalled vigorously for help and the life savers responded, rescuing the drifting boat just as it neared the breakers on the spit. So strong was the tide that the life-savers could not return against it and were forced to go to sea, returning this morning.

STOP ENGINES IN FOGGY WEATHER

U. S. Revenue Cutter Officer's Idea of Only Safe Way to Navigate Among Ice Bergs

How to navigate safely in waters where icebergs are frequent, is told by Captain C. E. Johnston, commanding officer of the Unted States revenue cutter Seneca, in his report just received at the United States navy department, following his return from the ice fields, where he did patrol duty The Seneca was accompanied by the Miami, under Captain A. S. Gamble. The ships were out from the beginning of April. Captain Johnston's report takes up various phases of his pakinds, number and size of the icebergs encountered. A feature of Captain Gamble's report is his description of the effect of a six pound shot fired into a large berg.

Regarding safety in the regions where icebergs may be found, the commanding officer of the Seneca makes the following statement:

"In my opinion the only way to safely navigate regions of icebergs is to stop during thick weather. In clear weather icebergs are not dangerous. I believe that a vessel might drift up against an iceberg in ordinary weather without much damage.

"The British steamer Mount Temple is the only one I have heard of this season that sustained any considerable damage from icebergs. She is reported to have drifted against one while stopped during a fog.

"In sheering off to avoid a berg it must be borne in mind that with the engines working ahead the vessel is pivoted on her stem so that as soon as the bow is clear of the berg the helm should be shifted in order to throw the stern away from the beg. At night and in thick fog I should post the lookout as low down as circumstances would permit. In addition to this the vigilance of the officer of the watch should be unremitting.

Algoa Has Record Load.

Portland, Ore., Sept. 7.—With 6,048,275 feet of lumber, said by local shippers to be the largest cargo of that commodity ever set afloat anywhere, the British steamer Algoa sailed today from this port for Sydney, Australia, via Tacoma. The Algoa loaded 3,300,000 feet of fir, valued at $42,000, at Linnton, while the remainder of her cargo, consisting of 2,748,275 feet of redwood, valued at $83,668, was loaded at Eureka, Cal.

Sailed: Steamers Norwood, Grays Harbor; Maverick, Seattle; Beaver, San Ramon, Yellowstone, Portland; Captain A. F. Lucas, Payta, Peru; schooner C. F. Hill, Cooks inlet.

WHEN LITTLE SOLLY SWALLOWED A CENT

Montreal, Sept. 7—When little Solly swallowed the cent! What an incident in the life of the cosmopolitan Hebrew population of St. Dominque street. Last night crowds of excited and gesticulating Hebrews were standing round the door of a house whence issued still louder cries, mingled with the bawling of a child. Soon an anxious father, a more anxious mother and eight excited brothers and sisters came out of the house, the father leading a little curly haired boy of seven or eight years of age, who was bawling as loud as he was able, and rushed up the front steps of the general hospital. The eager following wanted to go up the steps too, but three or four burly orderlies were sufficient to stem the tide. Nevertheless, all the relatives of the little boy got in, and knots of friends and accuaintances stood outside and discussed a question evidently very important and requiring grave consideration.

Inside the hospital it was learned that the youngster had swallowed a cent, and the doctors in the outdoor department were soon able to make the budding human orstrich disgorge, much to the relief of the parents and the joy of the lad. But what of the crowd; one of the few calm spectators of the scene was sufficiently callous to express a doubt as to whether they were discussing the condition of the lad, or the loss of the cent.

CLAIMS OF AUTOMOBILE VICTIMS ARE DENIED

Seattle, Sept. 7.—Personal injury claims to the total of $190,500, filed against thec ity during the past three months, were rejected Saturday by the finance committee of the city council. Included in the lot were six claims for alleged negligence on the part of the city for failing to properly protect the street end at Crockett street and Third avenue north, where an automobile containing Raynor D., Walter B. and Cedric Whittlesley, Mrs. Lillian Whittlesey, their mother, Miss Dora Haines and Miss Myrtle Beach, went into a ravine March 30 last, resulting in the death of Mrs. Whittlesey and injury to the other occupants of the car.

These claims amounted to $150,456. Mrs. Lina W. J. Bell, mother of Mrs. Whittlesey asks for $12,500 because of the death of her daughter and the son asks for $50,281 for the same cause For their own injuries the sons ask to be recompensed by the city to the extent of $12,675; Miss Beach asks for $15,000 and Miss Hayes, who was the most seriously injured, asks for $60,000.

The other personal injury claims turned down by the committee are for the most part results o alleged defective plank sidewalks or streets and amount to about $40,000. The only claim allowed by the committee was that of the "Washington Route" for injury to the Sound steamer Norwood, which was rammed by the fireboat Duwamash, August 5, 1911. This claim was for $25.65.

DREW BLAMES IT ON GEOGRAPHY

Disreputable Cur Hopes to Wriggle Out of Mire by Aid of Technicality.

San Francisco, Sept. 7.—F. Drew Caminetti believes he will escape the penalty of the Mann white slave law under which he and Maury I. Diggs were convicted in the United States district court.

"I believe we shall have no trouble in getting this verdict reversed by the United States court of appeals," he said, and this is the opinion of William A. Heister, a member of the jury that convicted Caminett', who now says he regrets having voted for conviction.

"I voted to find Caminetti guilty to save his father and his mother from a lot of useless counsel's fees," declared Heister. "I believe the verdict will be reversed. That is one of the main reasons I agreed to it.

"When we began to deliberate, the question was put up to the jurors that there was not a man among the twelve who had not at some time in his career done the same thing young Caminetti had done. This was debated, but it was finally agreed that the jury could do nothing but convict in the face of the instructions by Judge Van Fleet."

The thought of facing sentence next Wednesday fails to worry Caminetti. He says the case was one of "territorial morality."

"The only thing the jurors could find me guilty of," he said, "was in leaving for Reno with Lola Norris. I would have been guilty of no offence if I had not crossed the state line with her. It seems I am made a victim of this Mann law because of a matter of geography."

BRIDE AND GROOM FAIL TO ARRIVE

Montreal Man and Girl From Vancouver Disappoint Vicar, Curate and Friends

After failing to appear in Christ Church cathedral, where one hundred guests had assembled to see them married, H. C. Morley and Miss E. Brook, formerly of Vancouver, B. C., have both mysteriously disappeared from their respective places of residence, and cannot be found.

The occurrence is one of the strangest remembered by the clergy of Montreal. Never in the history of the cathedral had such a thing happened. The ceremony was to have been celebrated at 2.30 o'clock in the afternoon; but at nine o'clock in the morning the groom had left his lodgings, with nearly all his possessions, for places unknown. No intimation was given to the guests that the marriage would not take place that day, and the Rev. Dr. Herbert Symonds, the vicar of the cathedral, and the Rev. Mr. McGreer, the curate, waited for over an hour for the couple. Then one of the sidesmen announced that the groom was indisposed and could not come.

Didn't Tell Landlady

Mr. Morley, who had charge of the sample rooms of the Brodeur company on St. Peter street, was about 45 years of age. His financee was slightly younger. They had evidently known each other for many years; but Mr. Morley never mentioned his intended marriage, and his landlady only learned of it on Wednesday, when Mr. Morley was indisposed and his fiancee called to see him. On learning that her inteded husband was ill, Miss Brook exclaimed, "And tomorrow my wedding day." She stayed some hours with Mr. Morley preparing medicines, and then left. Whether the two had a dispute or not is not known. At nine o'clock in the morning Mr. Morley left his lodgings without saying where he was going.

A press representative called at Miss Brook's residence, but there was seemingly no person in the house. A neighbor informed him that Miss Brook had left and had not returned.

At the offices of the Brodeur company on St. Peter street, it was learned that Mr. Morley had taken ten days' leave from his duties for his holidays. He is regarded there as an energetic and capable salesman. Mr. Morley is of English birth but has been for many years in Montreal. Miss Brook is a native of Bournemouth, England, and has been some two years in Canada but only recently came to Montreal from Vancouver.

Mr. McGreer said that he did not know the whereabouts of the couple, but he had evidently reson to believe they are still in the city. He gave it as his opinion that the marriage would be performed next week.

They're About Right.

Como, Italy, Sept. 6.—The police have prohibited a cinematograph representation of the Charlton murder. They take the ground that such an exhibition would cause morbid curiosity in connection with the pending trial of Porter Charlton, who is charged with having killed his wife and thrown her body into Lake Como.

He Died, Not the Squirrel.

Nelson, Sept. 7.—Striking with a long steel rod at a squirrel, which was on one of the poles of the 20,000 volt electric current trunk line, Peter McEachren missed the squirrel, hit the line and fell to the ground dead. The accident occurred at the Silver King mine, near Nelson. He leaves relatives at Webster's Corners, P.E.I.

Social and Personal

Miss Stella Croll, of Alberni, arrived on Saturday and will attend Columbian college this winter.

Miss D. Postill leaves tonight for Moulton college, Toronto. Miss M. Postill also leaves for Vernon and will accompany her sister part of the journey.

WEDDING BELLS

Wilson-Brown.

A pretty wedding took place at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Brown, at Luman, on Thursday last when Miss Etta Brown became the bride of Enoch Wilson, of Pitt Meadows, B.C.

The ceremony was performed by Elder J. L. Wilson, of the Adventist church, father of the groom.

About 150 guests were present at the ceremony and a dainty breakfast was partaken of at the home of the bride.

The young couple were the recipients of many handsome and valuable gifts. Mr. and Mrs. Wilson are spending the honeymoon trip at Okanagan lake points.—Armstrong Advertiser.

Steffins-Colton.

A quiet wedding was solemnized on Saturday morning at St. Louis college chapel when Miss Hazel Colton became the bride of G. H. Steffins. Both are of this city, Mr. Steffins being assessor of the Burnaby municipality. Rev. Father Beck, of St. Peter's parish, performed the ceremony. The bride was attended by Miss Agnes Fitzgerald, while George McDonald of the staff at St. Louis college acted as best man.

WANTS WOMEN'S JURY.

Girl Arrested for Indecent Dressing Is Particular.

Tucson, Ariz., Sept. 7.—When she was arrested for wearing a diaphanous gown of the X-ray variety, Miss Claire Simons demanded a trial by a jury of women.

Her request was granted and the trial will take place Monday—the first with a jury of women in the history of the state.

The girl appeared on the street in the filmiest of filmy costumes and immediately was surrounded by a mob of several hundred men and boys. She was arrested under the city ordinance relating to "indecent dress."

Game Wardens Busy.

Port Coquitlam, Sept. —The game laws of the province are being strictly enforced in this neck of the woods this season. Last week A. Bryan Williams, provincial game warden, and five special provincial constables from Vancouver, made a surprise visit to Pitt Meadows by launch and corralled a round dozen game hunters for infringements of the shooting regulations. The charges against the men will probably be heard in Vancouver. They are liable to penalties of $50 each.

distributing his generals to various frontier parts of Mexico, the move was interpreted as of a military character only, but since then officials have been led to believe that Huerta fears the instigation of plots and intrigues among his generals and is moving them about to prevent any concerted action against him.

General Blanquet was the right hand man of Huerta in the days just preceding the overthrow of Madero. The war department received a report of the killing of Lieutenant Acosta, a Mexican federal officer, by American immigration agents at El Paso, Tex. The report confirmed press despatches of the incident, stating that Acosta was killed after he had crossed to American territory and fired on Americans. The affair is in the hands of the civil authorities at El Paso, though the immigration department here will make careful inquiry into the occurrence.

Dynamite Goes.

The state department announced tonight that shipments of dynamite and other explosives needed for working the great mines in Mexico will be authorized as heretofore.

Literally interpreted, President Wilson's message to congress indicated that the exportation into Mexico from the United States, even for industrial purposes would be discontinued. However, when representatives of the mining interests told the president through the state department that this would work a great hardship, they were told that such a step was not contemplated.

Every precaution will be taken by the government to guarantee that none of the explosives permitted to be shipped from the United States shall be diverted from industrial uses. It is understood that President Wilson also will authorize the exportation of limited quantities of arms for Americans in Mexico for self-defence, but any such orders from the White House will be exceptional.

Soon after the president announced in his message that an embargo would be placed on all arms out of this country, Mexican constitutionalists opposite Eagle Pass, Texas, petitioned in behalf of Americans in that country that they be permitted to equip themselves for defence with arms purchased in their own country, but officials doubted the disinterestedness of the motive for the constitutionalist petition and it was denied. In innumerable instances in the past arms sent for the defence of Americans have been taken from them and used by both sides of the opposing Mexican factions.

The state department has been asked to determine whether a Nevanda company can sell the Huerta government a dirigible airship without violating the neutrality act which forbids the exportation of "munitions of war" into Mexico. The question has not been passed on, but officials today pointed out that an airship for use in the Mexican federal campaign clearly fell within the definition of "munitions of war."

Lacrosse at the Fair.

To the Editor:

Sir—In reading your newsy sheet this morning I was, to say the least, surprised to read that our fair management wants to pay $4500 for lacrosse during fair week.

I anticipated from former experiences that lacrosse was a dead issue, as one previous year we were shy a few thousand dollars, all due to the enormous amount paid for lacrosse, which dismally failed to draw the crowd. The public in general has had enough of lacrosse, especially the professional kind, and, if the society is flush as far as money is concerned, there are a dozen better drawing cards. I say, and I think I am speaking for a large portion of the citizens, cut out the lacrosse, encourage the exhibitors in general and get larger and better exhibits.

COMMON SENSE.

New Westminster, Sept. 6, 1913.

Another of the same.

To the Editor:

Sir—I was much surprised to read in your columns this morning that the agricultural association intends to pay out $4500 for lacrosse matches between the V. A. C. and the Westminster team during fair week. Surely, Mr. Editor, there must be some mistake. I consider that the money will be wasted, as the V. A. C. (now professionals) are not a drawing card. I read in your paper some weeks ago they and the Jones team did not receive enough gate receipts to pay the help around the fence. They couldn't draw a crowd in the large city of Vancouver, then how in the name of goodness will they draw a crowd over here. People have been humbugged enough in lacrosse and everybody knows (except those interested) that those two games will not draw half the amount the teams are receiving.

Remember only a few moons ago the fair management lost a few thousand after the show was over, why? Because they paid out all their profits for lacrosse. Put the money to a sane exhibit and encourage the farmer, stock raiser and manufacturer.

AMATEUR.

At the Theatres

Stock at the Royal.

When Chas. E. Royal and his company of popular players were at the Royal theatre last June Mr. Royal stated at several performances that he would return in the all for an extended engagement and would present only the highest class comedies and dramas. The Royal stock company opens tonight at the Royal theatre in one of the most pleasing plays ever staged, "Under the Black Flag," a comedy drama in four acts. Mr. Royal claims to have the best repertoire of plays on the market and he will present them at the rate of two each week as long as the Westminster public wants them. The prices charged will suit everyone's purse and when one stops to consider that there is only one performance a night and that all the seats are reserved, they are getting a first-class show for very little money. The seats go on sale at 10 o'clock this morning and phone orders will be attended to, thus saving people coming down until it is time for the performance to start.

Specials at the Edison.

"The Power of Conscience," a strong and thrilling photoplay of the Essanay brand is to be pictured at the Edison today and tomorrow. This should appeal to all lovers of scenes that throb with sentiment, powerful pathos and gripping situations.

Francis X. Bushman, although he does not appear until the second reel, is the feature of the cast and this rising star among movie theatricals is seen at his best, pictured as Rev. Stanley Waters.

The plot hinges on a love affair in a coal mining town, where a girl falls in love with a mine foreman, although this affection is not countenanced by her father. The mine foreman is killed and suspicion falls on a miner by the name of Hale. A confession as the closing feature of the play results from a strong sermon on "The Power of Conscience," delivered by the murdered man's brother.

No Dead Ones There.

Port Coquitlam, Sept. 7.—In order to reserve the city hall for the purpose for which it was originally built—that of housing the civic administration headquarters, offices, police quarters and jail—the city council is seeking a place to erect a temporary morgue. The matter was discussed at the last council meeting and Alderman Morgan was appointed to provide the best morgue facilities procurable for $100. Whatever quarters are secured will only be used temporarily, it being the intention to erect a permanent morgue at a later date.

VISITORS SWAMPED

Armstrong Beaten by the Mann Cup Holders Sixteen Goals to Two in Vancouver.

The V. A. C. Mann cuppers were up to their old tricks again on Saturday afternoon in the matter of defending the famous amateur lacrosse trophy, when they swamped the Armstrong, B.C., aggregation, 16 goals to 2. The score is on a plane with the eastern hockey of last winter and also big four lacrosse this summer, as the dopesters were so far our with the stuff that they have yet to reach ground in order to find out just where they were at.

Armstrong looked good for just 20 minutes. They notched their only two tallies in the first quarter, against one by Vancouver. After that there was nothing to it but the shouting, and the noise was all in Vancouver's favor.

Lacrosse fans on the lower mainland, after the performances of the V. A. C. against New Westminster, had it all doped out that the first step towards the departure of the Mann cup from the Pacific shores would be taken Saturday afternoon. It was simple rule of three; if New Westminster could defeat V. A. C. 13 to 2, then how could Armstrong, champions of the interior of the province, score over the Mann cuppers.

Fred Lynch and Pat Feeney had the biggest cinch of a job, especially the latter, for only one penalty was handed out during the whole game. Referee Lynch perhaps worked a little harder and perspired more than did the Salmon Belly centre, in having to face off the rubber some 18 odd times, but if there had been any financial aspect to the job, it would have been a shame to take the money.

The two teams will battle again on Wednesday afternoon when a new alignment may be expected among the challengers.

FOLLOWERS OF RUGBY GET DOWN TO WORK

This week should see the real start in training for the winter rugby season. So far several promising youngsters have appeared at Queens park, while additional names have been mentioned as being anxious to make this season's team.

Although it cannot be said that the Royals will have an easy time in the Vancouver league, the prospects of a good season were never brighter than now and a few weeks of hard, solid practice at the park should enable the team to be on a par with either the Highlanders or the Vancouver Y. M. C. A.

Tomorrow evening the executive of the local club will hold a meeting in the Y. M. C. A., when plans will be discussed and regular practice dates arranged.

In some quarters English rugby is regarded as just as dangerous as either the Canadian or American game, where accidents to players are prevalent.

Last season the local club went through the season without one player being incapacitated, while injury to any player in the league was unheard of, thus dispelling the idea that the game is a more dangerous one than soccer.

GOLF SEMI-FINALS MAKE KEEN CONTESTS

The semi-finals in the mixed foursome competition at the Burquitlam links of the Vancouver Golf and Country club were disposed of on Saturday afternoon, good plays being the feature of both events.

Miss Ogilvie and G. S. Norman went into the finals by defeating Miss Peele and P. R. Brooks, while Mrs. E. A. McKenzie and W. Bone also qualified for the finals by winning out from Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Stewart.

The competition will be concluded some afternoon this week and, judging from the interest being taken in the event, there will be a large attendance present.

ON SOLID BASIS

Royal City High School Athletic Club Will Govern Sports in Future.

In order to place athletics on a firm and sound basis the Royal City high school Athletic club has been formed with a membership covering the entire school and with officers worthy of commanding attention when the call for candidates for the different lines of sport goes forth.

During this winter football, girls' field hockey and basketball will be the main features in the sport program although in the spring other games will be entered into.

Now that the school work is in full swing the new organization, which was organized last Friday evening, will commence at once to stir up interest. The captains and managers of the different branches of sport will ask for candidates this week.

The officers of the new association are as follows: Hon. president, R. A. Little, principal of high school; president, G. K. Haverstock; vice-president, Miss Graham; secretary, George Curtis; football captain, A. Annandale; manager, Miller Lougheed; girls' hockey captain, Miss Beth Gilley; manager, Miss Ethel Brown; basketball, captain, George Curtis; manager, D. Robson.

AMERICANS CAN RUN

Three Records go by Boards at the Toronto Athletic Meet—Hundred in 9 3-5 Seconds.

Toronto, Sept. 7.—Three Canadian track records went by the board at the Canadian national exhibition athletic meeting Saturday afternoon. The United States cracks outshone the best that Canada could produce in most of the events.

The records broken were in the 100 yards dash by Don. F. Lippincott, Philadelphia; the 440 yards race by Ted Meredith, Philadelphia, and the three mile handicap by Hannes Kohlemainen, the little Finnish runner.

Kohlemainen only finished fifth, but he started from scratch, while Harry Tressider, who won in 15:51, had a handicap of 50 seconds. Kohlemainen's time was 14:41. Lippincott did the 100 yards in 9: 3-5 seconds. In the quarter mile event Meredith set a new Canadian record by doing it in 47 1-5 seconds.

WESTMINSTER MEN MAKE GOOD SHOWING

Track Athletes Cop Points at Canadian Championship Meet at Vancouver.

Piling up a total of 72 points against the nearest competitor, Edmonton, with 28, the Vancouver Athletic club won a big victory on Saturday afternoon in the first Canadian championship meet held west of the Rockies in several years.

Weather conditions of the previous days caused the track to be in poor condition for the foot races, although one record was smashed by R. Sheppard, of Edmonton, in the standing high jump.

Westminster Does Well.

New Westminster did remarkably well in the meet, scoring six points with three entries, Jack Hoult running the best race in his life, when he trailed Tressidor, the Toronto crack. Hoult, by his performance on Saturday, made himself known as one of the best half milers in British Columbia and with a little more experience and training, will be in a position to meet the best in Canada.

Gordon, also of the local Y. M. C. A., ran a good race in the half mile, taking third place from the Vancouver entries.

R. C. McDonald secured third place in the 56 pound weight throw against McDiarmid and Dunc Gillis. The former Canadian champion, Gillis, appears to be going back and was forced to take second place to McDiarmid in total aggregate points.

Army Howard, the Winnipeg sprinter, made his first appearance on the coast, capturing both the 100 and 220 yards against Beasley, of Victoria, and McConnel, of Vancouver.

Some clever jockeying was done by the Vancouver officials when they switched the five mile run, scheduled to take place between the half and quarter mile events, further back on the program, which thus allowed the V. A. C. quarter milers to compete fresh against Tressidor, of Toronto, and Hoult and Gordon, of this city. Hoult refused to compete, but Gordon was nosed into fourth place by Jackson, of Calgary.

The events, winners and time follow:

220-yards Run.

1, J. A. Howard, North End A. A. C., Winnipeg; 2, J. N. Leggatt, V. A. C.; 3, R. Haliburton, Y. M. C. A., Edmonton. Time, 22 4-5 seconds.

120-yards Hurdles.

1, W. K. Sproule, V. A. C.; 2, G. C. Heath, V. A. C. Time, 18 1-8 seconds.

Just About Grabs Pennant.

Tacoma, Sept. 7.—Superior pitching won two games today for the Vancouver Beavers from the Tacoma Tigers. The locals were turned back time and again with men on bases while their pitchers weakened in the tight places. Scores:

First game:	R.	H.	E.
Vancouver	6	10	4
Tacoma	2	6	1

Batteries: Cadreau and Konnick; Kraft, Belford and Harris.

Second game:	R.	H.	E.
Vancouver	2	11	0
Tacoma	0	6	0

Batteries: Ingersoll and Konnick; McGinnity and Dunn.

Portland Gets Theirs.

Portland, Sept. 7.—Portland's pennant gathering hopes received a bad setback today when Seattle took both games of a double header, 3-1 and 3-2, thus giving Seattle an even break in the series.

Williams used three pinch hitters in the seventh innings of the first game, with Melchoir and Hellman on, but Kelly, the Seattle pitcher, tightened and Portland could not add to its lone tally.

In the second game Eastley and McIvor battled for eight innings in a 2-2 grapple, but in the ninth James' single and a two bagger by Killilay gave Seattle the game. Score:

First game:	R.	H.	E.
Seattle	3	8	2
Portland	1	7	5

Batteries: Kelly and Wally; Carron, Martinoni and Murray.

Second game:	R.	H.	E.
Seattle	3	9	0
Portland	2	7	1

Batteries: McIvor and Wally; Eastley and Murray.

Charlie Swain Again.

Spokane, Sept. 7.—Victoria took the series from Spokane today by landing the second game of the double header by a score of 2-1. Barham pitched almost perfect ball against the locals and deserved a shut out. In the first game Spokane hit Narveson and Fitzgerald hard and took advantage of the visiting pitchers' wildness to pile up a total of 14 runs against six.

Charlie Swain established a new home run record for the Pacific Coast and Northwestern leagues by putting two hits over the fence and raising his total for the season to 32. Scores:

First game:	R.	H.	E.
Spokane	14	13	1
Victoria	6	8	5

Batteries: McCorry and Hannah; Narveson, Fitzgerald, Slaton and Shea.

Second game:	R.	H.	E.

SPORT CHATTER.

(By the Potter.)

Jack Hoult made the Vancouver runners look like thirty cents at the Canadian championships meet in Vancouver Saturday afternoon. The way the Royal City boy trotted the half mile, keeping close to Tressidor, the Toronto star, until near the tape, was a surprise to the big crowd present and gave joy to the Westminster folk.

Tim Mahony has received notification of his appointment as one of the rugby referees for this winter. Tim is much in demand, having been appointed as a soccer official by the Vancouver league.

East Burnaby showed the way in the matter of getting players acquainted when they gave a rousing smoker last Friday evening. The suburbanites are after the city league championship this winter and, if enthusiasm counts, they will be heard from later.

Here's a little inside stuff to the hockey fans. Lawrence Lake, the star forward on the Beavers last winter, is being sought after by the local hockey company to go into the pro. game in the same manner as a pinch hitter. Lake has remarkable speed and is some artist with the stick, so that, should he decide to make the jump, he will find ready support from local fans.

The release of Ernie Johnson from the Montreal Wanderers' list probably means that Sam Lichtenhein has dropped his suit against the Moose.

Come to think of it, The News was the first paper on the coast to suggest that Frank Neighbor, of Toronto, would be with the Patricks this winter. That was several weeks ago when hockey talk was just beginning to simmer. Neighbor is not a Johnson or Cyclone Taylor, but, for combination stuff, he is alone.

Poor old Matty;
Tale of woe;
Big Six got his bumps
Three in a row.

School soccer got away to a start on Saturday morning when the boys from Richard McBride school defeated the Herbert Spencer school 6 to 5. The Sapperton aggregation was in the cellar position last season and the victory on Saturday has raised much enthusiasm.

HE LIKES BARRIEAU

Ritchie Offers Former Westminster Boy Nice Pay and Chance to See the World.

Following his showing against Leach Cross, the New York lightweight, a little over a week ago, Frank Barrieau has been taken in hand by Willie Ritchie, who has offered the Vancouver boy $75 per week to travel with the American champion as his sparring partner.

Ritchie was in attendance at the Cross-Barrieau fight when the latter just about made a punching bag of the Gotham dentist and it is very evident that Barrieau's science and age impressed the American champion to the extent of offering the former Sapperton boy a fine chance to see the world and also to glean experience in the way of going up against Ritchie in his exhibition stunts.

Should the deal go through it will be a feather in the cap of British Columbia boxing, for Barrieau was practically unheard of three years ago and came to the front only two years ago when he waded through the best that have been turned out by Seattle, Portland, Spokane and Victoria.

Bud Anderson, the Medford, Ore., lightweight, who was locked upon as a coming champion until he was taken down with an attack of appendicitis, is now rounding into shape following an operation and is altogether likely to meet Barrieau at an early date.

After the experience of Leach Cross at the hands of the Vancouver boy it is likely that Anderson will not enter the ring unless he is in the best of shape, but with Frank in the best of condition, the Oregon scrapper will be tested to capacity should ever they meet.

With two weeks to go, both Ritchie and Welsh have got down to real training and, unless the unexpected happens, both lightweights should be in the pink of condition when they enter the squared ring on the afternoon of September 20 to decide the lightweight championship of the world.

The Lonsdale belt, which was stolen from Freddie Welsh a week ago, was located in Seattle on Saturday when the police of the Sound City placed under arrest a man who was found to be wearing the emblem of the British lightweight championship.

Punctures vs. Pipes.

In order to settle the question of supremacy and also give the professionals a chance of getting into shape for the Minto cup games, the chauffeurs and plumbers will meet on the green sward at Queens park this evening at 5:30 o'clock. Something big in the matter of suppers in hanging on the result.

Swiss Are Good Shots.

Camp Perry, O., Sept. 6.—The international team match shooting trophy remains in Switzerland. The Swiss team, which has held the trophy for many years, was again victorious today, defeating its nearest competitor, France by 186 points.

HOLUS BOLUS

Wholesale Reinstatement of Soccer Players is Effected by B. C. Amateur Athletic Union

The expected has happened. The provincial executive of the B. C. A. A. U. has taken a tumble and, at a meeting held in Vancouver on Saturday evening, a motion was passed to the effect that all applications from outlaw soccer players received up to date have been accepted and that these players may now compete in amateur soccer. Another point was added to the motion to the effect that any players who have not sought reinstatement can do so up to the time of the annual meeting of the B. C. A. A. U. to be held in Victoria in the near future.

This action can be regarded as a great victory by soccer clubs in general in the province and ends a fight which has been waged unceasingly during the past few months.

As a matter of fact that B. C. A. A. U. was practically forced into making such a move. It saw the handwriting on the wall. It remembered the action of the Manitoba football clubs of some weeks ago, when a split with the amateur body was narrowly averted.

From now on the Westminster City Football league can go ahead with its plans for the coming season, which bids fair to be the best in the history of soccer on the coast.

The wholesale reinstatement means that all players who have figured with the Rovers are now eligible to play in the city league, which, considering the fact that the Rovers have had the cream of the city and district during the past few years, means that these players will have a chance to win the championship and challenge for the McBride trophy.

New Westminster will not enter the Vancouver and District league under any consideration this season. Flatly refused admission in the senior division, the men have disdained the offer of Dave Leith, at present czar of Vancouver soccer, to enter the second division, and will therefore steer clear of the Terminal City organization.

With the McBride trophy in the hands of the B. C. A. A. U., it is only reasonable to expect that this city will be eligible to compete at the close of the season against the best in Vancouver and Victoria.

NORA LOAT IS PERFECTLY RIGHT

Says Canada Doesn't Want Her—Unenviable Record of Arrests.

Spokane, Sept. 7.—Nora Loat, possibly deported more times than any other woman in the world, is now informing jailers and doctors at the county prison that she is sick and can not appear in the federal court on September 9, when it will be determined whether she shall be deported again or be sent to the federal penitentiary. The occasions upon which she has made escapes have been from hospital wards when she had ailments said by government officials to be similar to those she now suffers.

The officials who know her record unite in giving her credit for cunning. She is American born, but married a Canadian and lost her citizenship. When she was found to be an undesirable and deported the first time her husband, William Loat, was also sent over the line with her.

Since then her arrests have been coincident with those of several men of different nationalities, including Japanese, a mulatto prize fighter, a Greek and others, which, government officials say, appear on their records.

She is well supplied with aliases, such as May Earle, May Hammersly, May Howard, May Grant, Map Stumpff, Sumi and Hamilton.

She will be prosecuted under the act of 1910, which provides a two-year sentence in the penitentiary for the return of any who has been deported. She can be tried for but offense. If she does not receive the sentence she will be deported, providing Canada has no objections.

The prisoner complains that Canada will no longer have her and that she is a woman without a country.

Her Record.

Following is a list of the woman's arrests:

Deported from San Francisco April, 1909, to Canada.

Deported to Canada from Montana March, 1910.

Deported from Seattle to Canada, June, 1910.

Arrested for deportation in Helena, August, 1911.

Arrested in Walla Walla April, 1913.

Escaped from Walla Walla authorities same month.

Captured in Great Falls, Mont., June, 1913.

Now in Spokane county jail waiting deportation or two-year sentence in government prison.

PUSSIES ONLY TO BE PERMITTED

New Regulations Asked to Govern Ottawa's Bakeshops and Laundries.

Ottawa, Sept. 7—The board of health has requested the passage by the council of a by-law regulating sanitary conditions in city bakeshops, confectionery and ice cream manufacturies. The by-law will give the M. O. H. authority to prohibt the use of unsanitary buildings for such purposes, and provides that all places where bread, cakes, etc., ice cream and candy are made, shall be kept scrupulously clean. The working clothes worn by persons employed in these shops shall be clean, as shall be all the utensils used.

It is provided that all rigs in which the products of these shops are delivered must be kept clean and not used for other purposes, and the owner's name must be on each. No driver of rigs shall carry his wares in his arms or hands unless the articles are securely wrapped.

No animals except necessary cats shall be kept in bake shops.

Regulations governing launderies were also approved by the board. They provide that only porcelain, earthenware or enameled tubs shall be used in laundries, and the walls in the vicinity of the tubs shall be of similar material.

Among other things, sleeping in laundries is prohibited, as is the spraying of clothes with water from the mouth. No person suffering from a communicable disease shall be permitted to work in a laundry.

To make it possible to enforce these regulations it is provided that licenses to laundries shall be issued conditionally.

HYSTERICAL WITNESS DELAYS WORK OF JURY

Seattle, Sept. 7.—Because one of the witnesses before it, Mrs. Helen Kane, became hysterical while testifying and screamed so loudly as to arouse the entire federal building yesterday, the federal grand jury adjourned its morning session without reporting any results and took up fresh matters when it met again at 2 o'clock in the afternoon.

Mrs. Kane was subpoenaed in connection with a case the government is seking to press against one, J. W. Welch, alleging he had violated the Mann act. J. J. Sullivan, assistant district attorney, had hardly asked the first question when she started to scream, and after several minutes had passed, she was carried from grand jury room and Dr. R. France, prison physician, was summoned. After ministrations lasting half an hour she was finally calmed down but was not taken before the grand jury again during the morning.

In additinon to finding a true bill against Samuel Gross, charging him with perjury while testifying before it yesterday afternoon, the grand jury investigated alleged violations of the Mann act during the entire day, except for the temporary interruption caused by Mrs. Kane.

A true bill was returned against Joseph Bressi, charging him with violating naturalization laws in his petition for citizenship. It was alleged that Bressi had killed a man while in Italy before coming to this country and had served imprisonment for several years on the charge.

WOMEN'S PILGRIMAGE FOR RIGHT TO VOTE

Consequence to Imperial Government If This Is Refused—Possible that First Reforms of Enfranchisement May Be Moulded by Tory Government.

A great pilgrimage of women arrived in London a week ago, after having marched from Wales and Land's End, and from Yorkshire and East Anglia.

"The day-to-day report of the reception accorded to the several contingents supply," says the New Statesman, "the most conclusive proof so far available of the progress made by the suffrage cause in the country. Since the pilgrims started, five weeks ago, meetings have been held in practically every town throughout the country and in hundreds of villages.

Appeal of the Roads.

"No point has been missed in the pictorial appeal of the English roads. Every route followed by the pilgrims is crowded with history; most of them have memories of heroic women whose stories sing in the traditions of the countryside. Not the dullest policition engaged in such a demonstration could be indifferent to the memories called up by the towns and hamlets, the churches and tavern-signs, the streams and bridges, the downs and commons, which preserve in countless ways the records of English citizenship; and few will accuse the women suffragists of any lack of the historic or pictorial sense. They have, indeed, made the most of every landmark and every memory."

Steady Demand for Freedom.

"The last fortnight has added another to the long series of impressive demonstrations by which the constitutional suffragists have given testimony to the strength and reality of their convictions," says the Nation. "Their displays will throw color and life into the pages of a great reform movement, and they will show the historian of the future that the women who wrested their freedom from a democratic generation needed no less indomintable a spirit than the classes that emanicpated themselves in the days of oligarchy. The Liberal flag has been flying for seven years, and nothing has been done to touch the grievance that inspires these sacrifices."

"The movement for enfranchisement is not going to flicker out," adds the Nation. "It is not a fashion of the hour, or a passing fancy. The Liberal party is face to face with a steady demand for freedom and the consequence of refusing it is precisely what the consequence of refusing freedom has always been. It is no longer a question merely of delaying a reform, or waiting for it to ripen. If Liberals are going to take the view that the Tories took before 1832, that heaven or nature has drawn a line between those who have the franchise and those out in the cold, they will be driven to the methods by which the Tories defended their theory.

"A large class of people cannot be excluded from the franchise when once its interest has been aroused either in this country or any other, without disturbance or disorder, and the government tries to deal with it is drawn Liberal government coercing an unenfranchised class makes itself ridiculous or odious, or both.

Denied Suffrage.

"It is not too much to say that half of the reforms achieved or prosecuted in the last half-century have been directed to removing or mitigating the vast consequences that have followed to the British nation from the calamity that left the artisan class unrepresented during the revolution which created the new industry and the new town. The shadow of that calamity rests today on the health, the physique, the mind, and the homes of the working classes, and therefore of the race.

Legal Interference.

"Today the life of the nation is passing through another revolution. The insurance act is part of a general scheme of state interference with the lives and habits and property of the mass of men and women. Mr. Balfour did not exaggerate when he said that 'it touches more sets of people in more obscure and unanalysable ways than any measure which has been tried.' Among the persons whom it directly affects, not as wives and mothers, but as wage earners themselves, are three and a half millions of women. The wares of these women are taxed by a parliament of men representing men alone. For the administration of the act a huge state department has been created, and other departments have been enormously aggrandised. In these departments, touching the lives and special interests of women at a thousand points, a certain number of women officials are employed.

"What they shall be paid, what powers shall they enjoy, whether they are to have any influence on decisions of great moment to the women of England, depend entirely on the discretion of ministers responsible to a parliament representing men alone. Indeed the organization of the new state, involving, as it does, the rapidly increasing employment of women by government, raises in an acute form the whole question of the relative remuneration of men and women.

Laws Made for Women.

"Thus, directly and in other indirect ways the state is coming more and more to regulate the wages and conditions of employment. We can all see the injustice of allowing a parliament representing the employers to crush the efforts of the working classes to maintain a civilized standard of life a century ago. To Pitt and Eldon and Castlereagh and virtually the whole of the governing classes there seemed no injustice and no danger. Will it not appear to the future historian no less extraordinary that the Liberal party should pile law upon law, project upon project, for increasing the power of the state over every woman's home, and tell women, as Pitt and Castlereagh told the workmen, that they must trust to the wisdom and virtue of the privileged class?" concludes the Nation.

"It is quite certain," says the Daily Mail, "that if the organizing ability and argumentative skill, the eloquence and charm which these ladies devote to the suffragist cause were applied to the advocacy of definite and needed reforms affecting the lives and interests of women they could set in motion such a force of public opinion as would compel the removal of every real grievance of which they complain.

Hint to the Premier.

H. W. Massingham, in the Daily News, suggests a way in which the prime minister, who opposes the suffrage, might act.

"Supposing he stood aside from a government bill, based, if possible, on the Dickinson bill—i. e., on a fairly democratic settlement of the question—or on a local option bill, which would have no mandatory force which did not proceed from the definite will of an electoral group. Supposing the Liberals could face the general election with a pledge that Mr. Asquith was willing to give the predominant view of his followers its full place in the party counsel. I think that is a traditional leader's attitude. It is the kind of attitude by which a prime minister holds a cabinet together. There is historic justification for it. And there is an urgent need, which time can only strengthen, and every sign in the political heavens forebodes.

"It is not possible, not thinkable, for Liberalism to harden into an anti-suffrage society, and that it will in due time become unless it can convert its chiefs to the necessity of a government bill" adds Mr. Massingham. "It is quite possible that it will convert them too late, and that the first forms of women suffrage will be moulded, not by Liberalism, but by a Tory government."

Tore Four Cells to Pieces.

Woodstock, Ont., Sept. 7.—Having discovered that the Oxford county jail cells were absolutely unfit to hold energetic prisoners, the property committee of the county council has purchased a steel cell, which will be installed immediately. An insane man, H. Midgely, who was confined in jail this summer, tore four cells to pieces and nearly dug his way through the outside wall, his sole instruments being his boot heels. This was the cause of the purchase.

WOMEN EXPERTS IN HORTICULTURE

Ragged Cornfields Are Transformed Into Veritable Bowers of cf Bloom.

London, Sept. 7.—Lady Wolseley, who, since 1906, has been conducting a school at Glynde, in Sussex, for training women horticulturists, has twelve students this summer, all of whom are rapidly becoming expert gardeners.

The opoprtunity for women experts in gardening is manifest from letters which arrive at the school asking, "Will you send a lady gardener to look at my roses?" or 'Can I have a lady for three months to get my garden into order?"

When Lady Wolseley began her work the place in question was a poor cornfield, badly infested with wireworms. It was fittingly christened Ragged Lands, but after seven years of work—and all but the severer manual labor has been done by the women students—the place is a green and picturesque garden, looking anything but ragged. Each student has her own set of tools, which she must keep clean. Each sees her work for the day posted on the office wall and keeps a diary of her labors.

Lady Wolseley supervises everything, but the organization and direct management is in the hands of an expert, Miss More, who has found that new students are frequently so ignorant of first principles that it is necessary to allow $500 a year for crops spoiled by beginners

Builds Own Fires, Too.

The stoking of the greenhouse fires in winter is done by the students, while as pleasanter diversions they edit a magazine acilled the Ragged Rambler, have a chorus and keep up a team which plays the old Sussex game of stoolball.

Fruit, flowers and vegetables from Ragged Lands find many private customers in London, Brighton and Eastbourne.

PRECAUTIONS TAKEN TO GUARD KING

When His Majesty Goes a-Travelling Every Care Is Taken to Prevent Untoward Accidents.

London, Sept. 7.—Comparatively few people have any idea of the rigorous precautions that are taken by the British railway companies to ensure the safety of the king when he travels on their lines. When his majesty went to Balmoral a few days ago all that the public knew was that the train left Euston, and reached Aberdeen and then Balmoral at a particular time after a twelve or fourteen hour's run.

But the journey of 600 odd miles means the successful accomplishment of an elaborate scheme of arrangements, in which not only the chief officials of the line and the staff of the royal train, but nearly every railroad servant on the route, has had a responsible share. To begin with, with the times of departure or passing through every station and of arrival at Balleter (the terminus of the Great North of Scotland railway, nine miles from Balmoral), calculated to the tick, is prepared; and a copy, together with an exhaustive list of "general instructions," is placed in the hands of every person who may be in any way engaged in connection with the working of the train, including enginemen, guards, signalmen, crossing-keepers, flagmen and fogmen.

Gold Bordered Time Table

These men are individually warned that they must read the sheet carefully and strictly obey the instructions, as no want of knowledge of them can be accepted as an excuse for any failure or neglect. The sheets contains a number of general directions dictating speeds and times, emphasizing the necessity of travelling with caution over sharp curves and through junctions, and impressing the fact that an absolutely clear road must be kept for the royal train. When Queen Victoria used to travel from Windsor to toria travelled from Windsor to Balmoral, a neatly gold boredered time table was provided for her. It showed against the mileage and times, the levels and inclines of the line, the various sections of hills and valleys being indicated all the way to Ballater, which is 658 efet above the sea level.

The royal train itself carries telegraph and telephone instruments with all neccessary appliances so that communication can at once be established in case of emergency; and there are special telegraph and telephone calls pre-arranged for this emergency service. To these pre-arranged signals, of course, the strictest possible precedence must be given. The principal officers of the railway, including the locomotive and carriage superintendents, always accompany the royal train so as to be on the spot in the event of anything unforseen happening. On one occasion when Queen Victoria, in her later years, was travelling south, the engine driver of the royal train was killed near Aberdeen. He had occassion to go on to the tender of his engine for some purpose and while passing under a bridge his head struck the arch and he was fatally injured. But the train was not stopped, for the locomotive superintendent was on the footplate and he drove it on to Perth, where the body of the unfortunate driver was taken off the engine. It was not till then that the Queen was made aware of the accident.

Advance Pilot Engine

But it is very rare indeed that even the slightest untoward incident happens on a royal journey. Everything that is humanly possible is done to avoid accident. Fifteen minutes in advance of the royal train runs a pilot engine, so that if there is any danger ahead timely warning will be given. Anyone might suppose that even then, accidently or designedly, the line could be blocked after the passage of the pilot engine and before the arrival of the royal train.

That again would be impossible, for the intervening space, at distances not exceeding a quarter of a mile, is guarded by a line of plate layers with hand signals and detonators. Each man on his beat carefully examines the track before the royal train approaches. Each keeps in sight of ihs fellow on the right and on the left and this living link of British workmen stretches all the way from London to Ballater, in the Deeside Highlands.

But with all these elaborate precautions the anxiety of the railway managers is not satisfied. The line on which the king travels is kept under surveillance for at least ten miles ahead, the distance at which the pilot engine leads the way. But there is a possibility that a train passing southward as the king travels nothward may break down within the limit of this jealously guarded ten miles and obstruct the parallel line.

At Level Crossings

So on the up rail or the down parallel with that which the king travels travel is temporarily suspended, not only at the actual hour the royal train will pass, but for a precedent interval. For thirty minutes before it is due to pas sa given point, no engine, train or vehicle is allowed to proceed along or cross tae line. It is also decreed that for a similar period all shunting operations on lines adjoining the main line must be stopped.

In the early days of Queen Victoria's journeys to Scotland, when these rules were drawn up, it was ordered that no trains or engines might be permitted to travel between any two stations from the time the pilot engine was due to the time the royal train had passed, but that drastic order has since been modified by an exception in favor of passenger trains and of fish trains.

But while these trains moving southward are allowed to proceed, the drivers are instructed, when approaching any point towards which the royal train is advancing, to bring their train—whether containing fish or human freight—to a speed not exceeding 20 miles an hour. Nor must there be any steam whistling when anywhere near the presence of royalty. The blowing off of steam is also strictly forbidden while standing in sight waiting for the passage of the royal train.

Ordinary traffic is completely paralyzed by the bolting and pad-locking of all facing-points or switches over which the pilot engine or royal train pass, and as for the gates of level or grade crossings where there are no gate keepers, they are locked one hour before the royal train is due.

For the use of his majesty in England, there are reserved three of the most splendid trains in the world. The London and Northwestern Railway company's royal train, built at a cost of £60,000, is perhaps the finest of these, although the one built by the Great Northern company at Doncaster five years ago, is composed of magnificent coaches, and the one belonging to the Great Western company would be hard to beat for elegance and comfort.

VIA THE ROGUES' GALLERY.

How Lost Little Tot Was Identified by Police.

New York, Sept. 7.—The police of Passaic, N. J., found a 7-year-old child wandering about the streets yesterday morning, but the usual methods of determining who she was and where she belonged did not work, for she could not speak English. Nor could she make Polish persons—of her nationality understand her.

Detective Benjamin F. Turner had nothing strictly urgent, so he was given the case. Turner knows a little of several languages.

He at length learned her name and then recsled that he had arrested a man of the same name some months ago. The detective took the child to the rogues' gallery and she recognized the picture of her father. She was returned to her home.

CAMPAIGN TO PREVENT SALE OF FALSE JEWELS

Montreal, Sept. 7—Storekeepers who sell cheap jewellery by adding carats to gold rings and chains and dealing in watches in which the "jewels" are discovered to be bright blue bits of celluloid, will have to beware from now on. The government is waging a war on such petty pilferers and is determined to stamp out such infractions of the "gold and silver" act as these.

The man who is carrying out the government campaign is W. J. Ryan, inspector. Already many jewellers have felt the weight of his displeasure. Nine were prosecuted in the police court yesterday morning and fined amounts ranging from $10 to $25.

"We have got to stamp out this kind of thing," he said. "Infractions of the gold and silver act and the criminal code in regard to the sale of jewellery are too common. Not only must the public learn that all that glitters is not gold, but the jeweleir must be taught the same lesson."

Most of the jewellers prosecuted yesterday were fined for representing gold rings and chains of 15 and 16 carats as 18 carats. A number were penalized for selling the Grand Trunk special watch, an article imported at $2 net, and sold from $3 to $5. This watch has the much advertised celluloid jewels. Jewellers who sold the watches were prosecuted under the criminal code.

The Great Northern railway has commenced to operate the double track between Sapperton and Vancouver. During the summer months the single track has been used, the switch at Ardley being a meeting place, but the approach of the winter fogs and also the rains, which might affect the bog at Ardley, has caused the company to operate both tracks earlier than expected.

Committed for trial on a charge of perjury at a coroner's inquest, William Steveson was brought to the provincial jail on Saturday to await his hearing. Steveson was in the same boat as Frederick Webb on Thursday evening of last week near Ladner when the latter fell overboard and was drown. Steveson's testimony was disputed by the coroner, who turned his case over to Macgistrate McKee, the latter committing the accused for trial.

AUTO AND HORSE MEET AND BOTH ARE DAMAGED

What might have been a serious collision with disastrous results to the occupants of both vehicles took place on the Douglas road near Burnaby lake last night, when a wagon driven by A. L. Brown, of Vancouver, collided with the auto being operated by Adam Hicks, also of Vancouver.

Brown was driving towards Vancouver and was in the centre of the road when the auto, going at moderate speed, hit the horse, the left headlight and fender inflicting a surface wound on the animal. The rig was damaged to a considerable extent and the driver bruised somewhat, but he was able to wend his way towards Vancouver. The auto was also damaged, the windshield, headlight and fender being smashed.

DRUNKS SCARCE.

No Alcoholic Indulgers on Saturday Evening.

New Westminster set a new record which ought to gladden the hearts of all temperance advocates, since not a single arrest was made on Saturday evening for drunkenness.

This was the first time in months, in fact some of the older members of the force are still trying to remember when the blotter last presented a clean bill of health as regards the common variety of drunks.

Just to prevent Magistrate Edmonds from proceeding direct to his office this morning, Constable Walker picked up Andrew Gabriel on Saturday evening and discovered a loaded revolver in one of the pockets of Gabriel's jeans.

Gabriel a short time ago was the star witness against William Brownlee in the assize court, when the latter was charged with attempting to do bodily harm to Gabriel.

Horse Killed.

An accident resulting in the death of a delivery horse occurred on Saturday in front of the tram station in Vancouver. The horse, minus a driver rushed in front of a belt line car and was hit in such a manner as to break two of its legs. The horse had to be shot later.

OBITUARY.

FARRAND—The death of Mrs. Annie Farrand occurred at Central Park on Friday last. The funeral service will be held at the home of W. Wilson at the corner of the B. C. E. R. and Wilson road at 2:30 today. Interment will be made in the city cemetery at 3 o'clock. Rev. Mr. Pringle will officiate.

The death took place at the Royal Columbian hospital, after a lingering illness of many months, of Tillman R. Herring, fourth of the late John Herring and brother of the late Samuel Herring, all old residents of this city. The funeral will be held Monday morning at 10 o'clock from Murchie's undertaking parlors to the Masonic cemetery.

TROUBLE IN ROME OVER PARADE OF CATHOLICS

Rome, Sept. 7.—The streets of Rome were guarded today by police, carabineers and troops, from the church of St. John Lateran, where the Catholic athletes heard mass, to St. Peter's, to which edifice they marched to be received by the pope.

A great parade that had been arranged for was prohibited by the police on account of threatened reprisals by the anti-clericals. Notwithstanding the strictest measures to ensure order, a few scuffles occurred amid cries from the Catholics of "long live the pope," to which the anti-clericals responded by shouting "long live free thinking."

Four hours were occupied by the athletes in reaching St. Peter's where they unfurled flags and passed into the court of San Damaso. They knelt when the pope appeared on the balcony surrounded by the pontifical court.

The athletes, pilgrims and others in the assembly numbered 8000 and after the apostolic benediction had been imparted they arose and gave a triple hurrah. The pontiff inquired regarding the obstacles which had been placed in the way of the demonstration and urged extreme preducnee.

BIG PRESS GATHERING FOR PRAIRIE CITY

Edmonton, Sept. 7—When President Jennings calls "Order' gentlemen" to the members of the Alberta and Eastern British Columbia Press association, who are holding their tenth annual convention in Edmonton, commencing on Thursday morning, he will preside over the biggest and most representative gathering of publishers ever convened west of the great lakes. From Salmon Arm and Vernon on the west, Lethbridge and Magrath on the south, Medicine Hat and Redcliffe on the east and Athabasca Landing on the north have come hotel reservations. Every paper between Wainwright and Edson will send delegates and between Lloydminster and Stoney Plain, not an editor will be absent while visitors from Saskatchewan and Manitoba will also be on hand.

MAY BE JUVENILES BUT THEY KNOW THE ROPES

Tacoma, Sept. 7.—Two supposed juveniles, now believed by the police to be men with prison records, escaped from the city jail early this morning by unscrewing the bolts that held the weak bars of the juvenile department. They used a wrench made of the wire handle of a bucket. The pair went down a fire escape past the jailor's window, and it is believed they timed their escape by the gong of the patrol, a call for which would have taken the jailor out of his office. The fugitives are Will Ven Frank and Oscar Tillery, arrested in a room of the Tacoma Yacht club after they had robbed the yacht Corsair. They were found asleep with their loot.

POWELL WILL BE TRIED THIS FALL

No Ground for Assertion That His Case Will Not Be Called at the Coming Assize.

"I have every reason to believe that if the case takes its natural course, Martin Powell, in event of his being committed for trial, will appear at the coming assize court which convenes on Monday, Sept. 15." This statement was made to The News last evening, following the report which was circulated Saturday to the effect that it was certain that Powell's case could not be taken up this fall.

Mr. Phipps bore out the statement of The News of Saturday that, all going well, Chief Bradshaw and his charge should arrive back from Detroit about Friday of this week, along with the three witnesses from the Michigan city, who picked up Powell while in the act of passing bills which had been stolen from the Bank of Montreal in this city.

Several cases will be tried at the assizes including a murder hearing, that against a Chinaman named Jay Kum, so that, with the trial of Charles Dean, who is charged with looting the local bank here on the morning of Sept. 15, 1911, the court will likely last two weeks, which will give the crown authorities plenty of time with the preliminaries against Powell.

License for Haney.

Port Coquitlam, Sept. 7.—Messrs. Pappas, of this city, have taken an option on two lots opposite the Maple Ridge municipal hall at Port Haney with a view to purchasing them and erecting thereon a first class hotel at a cost of $25,000. They intend making application to the council for a hotel and liquor license shortly. There are no licensed hotels in the Maple Ridge municipality at the present time.

SONS OF ENGLAND.

Members are requested to attend the funeral of Mrs. W. Farrand, late wife of Brother W. Farrand, which will take place at the City cemetery at 3 o'clock this afternoon.
