FROM MEXICO IN AN AUTOMOBILE

Douglas Hardman and Harold Wooley Make Stiff Trip in Twenty-six Days.

Tanned like mulattos, grimy with dust and oil, Douglas Hardman and Harold Wooley arrived in the city yesterday noon after an eventful automobile trip from Mexico to New Westminster. Accompanying the two boys were A. S. Mills and A. Hardman, who had gone as far south as Medford, Ore., by train and caught the party there.

This was probably the first time that a New Westminster party has made the trip from the Mexican Pacific coast to British Columbia by auto, and according to the account given The News by Douglas Hardman, who had charge of the party, the trip will not be undertaken by many local people unless they are prepared to rough it and surmount all obstacles in the shape of swollen streams, four feet of snow and mountain trails, not forgetting temporary breakdowns of the car.

Hardman and Wooley, who hails from Chicago, left a point in Mexico 68 miles south of San Diego, on May 6, bound for New Westminster. The car was purchased by Mr. Hardman, sr., early in the winter in Los Angeles and had been driven 8000 miles before the northern trip was commenced. Los Angeles and San Francisco were made without mishap, but, after leaving the Golden Gate, their troubles commenced and until they reached Medford, Ore., enough experiences were gone through to furnish material for a book. Taking a roundabout way up California the two boys, each taking turns at the wheel, sometimes saw little human life for whole days at a time, while in the northern part of the state, they were compelled to back the car up a hill which was so steep as to be inaccessible on low gear.

Here they struck snow and what with having trouble with the engine and fording streams, life was one continual change until they struck the smaller towns of lower Oregon. At Klamath Falls the party was held up for ten days, due to the gearing being stripped. Mr. Hardman, sr., not content with enjoying the balmy breezes of California throughout the winter, fell for the chance of making the last lap of the trip and he and Mr. Mills left the city, arriving in Medford, Ore., in time to meet the party.

Poor Roads.

The roads through California were found to be in poor shape, while the Oregon trails were little better, but once Washington state was reached little difficulty was experienced in making good time.

Mr. Mills, to The News, stated that had he found time he would have made the trip from 'Frisco, but he had some thrills coming up from Oregon.

Through Oregon and Washington large signs decorated each side of the car bearing the words "Mexico to Canada" and, according to members of the party, they created no little attention, especially in Seattle where motorists gathered to meet them and the Sound City papers snapped them in the car.

One relic of the trip was exhibited by D. Hardman on Columbia street immediately they arrived in the shape of a harmless snake about three feet long which was captured just before the party started.

OUTLOOK ROSY IN CIVIC BUSINESS

Estimates of City Treasurer for This Year Show Big Increase.

Figures for Past Month as Compared with Same Period in 1912—Births Double.

Indications from the monthly returns for May, 1913, point to a banner year in the history of New Westminster. While several of the government offices show a decrease in the matter of receipts, these are offset by the increases in others and the prospects from now on throughout the summer point to these deficits being wiped out before the next months have passed.

City Treasurer MacKay's report for May brings out the interesting information that the estimated receipts for this year are $69,000 in advance of those in 1912, every one of the municipal owned departments making rapid strides ahead.

Figures from the Dominion land office show a big increase over the month of May, 1912, no less than $5816.08 being taken in last month, as against $1799.23 in May, 1912. This was caused by the land stampede held here two weeks ago when government land was thrown open for homesteading.

The vital statistics also show a large increase in the number of births, with a corresponding decrease in the number of deaths. These figures are: May, 1913, births, 107; death, 37; marriages, 24. May, 1912, births, 52; death, 50; marriages, 27.

Postmaster MacDonald had to show a slight decrease in receipts, the figures being as follows: Money orders sold, May, 1913, 2447; May, 1912, 2411. Money order commission, May, 1913, $318.82; May, 1912, $315.49. Box rents, May, 1913, $312.05; May, 1912, $232. Stamp sales, May, 1913, $3579; May, 1912, $3802.30.

Mining lands receipts were: May, 1913, $133.10; May, 1912, $124.90.

Crown timber receipts, while showing a decrease, appear to be in a satisfactory shape, the showing on the wrong side being caused by a reduction of the annual rental on timber lands. The figures are: May, 1913, $8972.08; May, 1912, $10,258.03.

The receipts at the customs office were: May, 1913, $69,769.69; May, 1912, $73,140.40.

NORTHERN RIVERS CLAIM THEIR TOLL

Four Drowned in Alberta Stream and Four More Lose Lives in the Fraser.

Edmonton, June 2.—News has been received in this city that four freighters have been drowned in Grand Canyon, Tete Juane Cache district, through the breaking of a scow which they were navigating. The victims of the accident were named St. John, Dutch, Nixon and Wm. Kennedy. The latter is a brother of Constable Kennedy of the King Edward hotel, and a native of Alexandria, Ont. Constable Kennedy has received no details of the accident.

Four in Alberta.

Edmonton, June 2.—Drowned in the Barter rapids of the Athabasca river between Grand Rapids and Fourt McMurray, their canoe found bottom up on the river bank and their blankets with provisions strewn about, four men who left the Landing a short time ago are probably drowned. Gordon Haight, of the Hudson's Bay company, brought the news to this city. Three of the men are A. Sharley, W. Campbell and John Papin of St. Albert.

LAY PLANS FOR BIG CONVENTION

Local W. C. T. U. Prepares for Large Gathering in This City Commencing June 17.

At a special meeting of the W. C. T. U. held in the parlors of the Queens Avenue Methodist church yesterday afternoon arrangements were partly made for the reception of the visiting delegates who will attend the convention in this city on June 17, 18 and 19.

Committees were appointed to complete the arrangements for billetting the out of town delegates and it was decided that all members and friends of the union who feel able to take care of one or more visitors should notify Mrs. White, Sixth avenue, convenor of the committee.

Another special meeting will be held on Tuesday afternoon, June 10, to make the final plans and it is hoped that every member of the New

RAILWAY FROM NORTHERN B. C. THROUGH YUKON TO ALASKA

Premier McBride Foreshadows Its Construction in Speech at Horse Show Arena Last Night—Thousands Gather to Celebrate Tenth Anniversary of Establishment of Party Government in Province—Pacific Great Eastern to Be Continued to Peace River—Prosperity and Progress of the Past But Forecast—Possibility of Election.

While outlining the policy of the government of the province of British Columbia as favorable to the extension of the Pacific & Great Eastern railway, now building from the coast to Fort George, on through to the Peace river country, Premier Sir Richard McBride, at last night's great gathering in the horse show arena in this city, to celebrate the tenth anniversary of the establishing of party line government in the province, foreshadowed in plain terms the building in the near future of a railway from northern British Columbia to the Yukon and Alaska. Speaking in the light of what he had learned on his recent trip to the east the premier intimated that such an undertaking should meet with no obstacles either at Ottawa or Washington.

Big Railway Plans.

On this subject Sir Richard said: "The C. N. R. you have under way. Another railroad directly affecting this city and Vancouver, promising to be equally strong, is the Pacific Great Eastern, connecting Vancouver and New Westminster with Fort George through an unexplored part of this province.

"This road is under construction. There are 3000 men employed on it and when the new surveys are completed as many more men will be at work. It is not the intention of the government that Fort George shall be the end. Other representations and institutions have pressed on the government to build a road to the Peace river, so that southern British Columbia should take advantage of the trade and growth of the Peace river country and the far north.

"The government felt that in providing for the first section to the Peace river they had done all that could be expected and that if in 1915 all necessary preliminary work was complete, assistance would be forthcoming to build the line into the heart of that promising country. The PG.E. is not one from Vancouver to Fort George and no further, but one that will penetrate through one of the most important centres of the country that promises so well from an agricultural and mining standpoint. I have ventured to suggest it would not be difficult and expensive if the United States and Canada would undertake the extension from B. C. to the Yukon and Alaska. My conviction is stronger than ever that we will never begin to get at the development policy properly until the time arrives when we will have a standard guage railroad through northern British Columbia to the Yukon and from thence to Alaska.

Now Is the Time.

"This is the time when we in the west feel that we have a right to look ahead. This is the time one wants thinkers and dreamers because these early things must have early commencements. It is not beyond the range of good business to expect the financial governments of Washington and Ottawa to concentrate upon these extensions from the Peace river to Alaska.

"Could there be a more fitting celebration of this 100 years peace than by building this Alaskan railway?

"We would gladly welcome any system that would enable us to enjoy travelling in the north as is done on southern shores. The more you investigate this project, the more it will appeal to you.

"There is an abundance of mineral wealth in the Yukon, Alaska and northern British Columbia; there would be a tourist traffic that would soon take front rank with the tourist traffic of the world. The government at Ottawa is seriously contemplating connecting by railroad with Hudson Bay to continue Canadian commerce in that direction four months in the year. It is equally good business for the government to go north from the Yukon to Alaska as to go to the Hudson Bay district for four months. Why should the people of B. C. hesitate for a moment to enter into this policy that will make for this extension? We may not be able as a province to make it. Perhaps the great nation behind us may give us their assistance. It seems to me that in what we have undertaken for the C. N. R. and the P. G. E., we have done considerable national service, financially and otherwise and we must move slowly lest we over-burden ourselves with responsibilities. So far our investments are good, our railway propects are sound and the people as a whole indorse them, but when you go to the far north the project assumes such huge national interests that it justifies national rather than provincial care."

Historical Gathering.

The gathering last night was a notable one. Many members of the provincial legislature were present, together with nearly all the prominent citizens of this city and district.

The progress made by the province during the past ten years was the keynote of the speeches and the applause which greeted each speaker was evidence of the faith which the people continue to have in the present government.

Extensive Decorations.

The arena was decorated with flags and bunting, acrostics adorning the gallery. Above the platform, which was located at the northwest end of the arena was the folloging banner in acrostic:

Paucity of treasury 1903.
Active reorganization.
Revival of business.
Toryism triumphant.
Young Conservatives help.
Labor protected.
Industrial prosperity.
Naturalization of immigrants.
Exchequer overflowing.
Solid results 1913.

Around the gallery the following were displayed: "One empire, one flag, one navy." "People no longer knock when they can boost." "Public interest never sacrificed to party."

Adorning the entrance to the arena was an illuminated portrait of "Our Dick."

Sharp at 8 o'clock the speakers arrived and were received with resounding applause by the gathering.

It was expected that Hon. W. J. Bowser, K.C., attorney general, would be present and his name appears on the program. He was unable to attend, however, and Hon. H. E. Young, minister of education, took his place and gave a stirring address on the progress made in his department.

Hon. Thomas Taylor also wired his regret at being unable to attend.

Nels. Nelson, president of the New Westminster Conservative association, occupied the chair and did justice to the position. He opened the meeting with a short address and then called on M. J. Knight of New Westminster who rendered "O Canada."

Hon. Mr. Ross.

Hon. W. R. Ross, K.C., minister of lands, was the first speaker and he received an enthusiastic reception.

"Let me say in commencement," said Mr. Ross, "that I deem it not only a privilege but a pleasure to have some part in the proceedings this evening, which give promise of being the largest and most representative gathering of British Columbia citizens held for some time.

"My mind goes back to 1903 when I was elected by not a very large majority by the people of Fernie to support the McBride government. It has been my pleasure ever since to occupy that position, not because of my personal attainments, but because I was supporting a government which had the faith of the people.

"When on the way to your city I was trying to think of something to say to the people of New Westminster and I have come to the conclusion since my arrival that this city and district should be called the city and district of superlatives.

"I am convinced of the fact that the people of New Westminster do not do things by halves and they have a reputation for doing all things well."

Here Mr. Ross referred to sports and particularly the lacrosse team.

"It was evidence again," said Mr. Ross, "when the voters elected such representatives as J. D. Taylor to the Dominion house and Thos. Gifford, F. J. MacKenzie, S. A. Cawley and W. J. Manson to the provincial house. I think you selected them from the best ever..

"Again is my statement borne out by the famous bank robbery.

Tribute to Premier.

"And so," went on the speaker, "when the people of New Westminster were called on in 1903, they sent one of their native sons to be leader of the government, gave their very best man and the only man in the province who could fill the position. (Applause.)

"It is a source of pride and pleasure to know that the premier has retoined the confidence of the people longer than any other premier of British Columbia since confederation.

"We are tonight celebrating the night of the tenth anniversary of the election of the McBride government, and when history is written I believe this will mark the culmination of only the first ten years and that there will be many more to come.

"I think we are only now beginning to bear the fruits; we are only at the beginning of things and we will appreciate in the near fture in a fulier measure the results which are sure to follow.

"Sir Richard is a home product, a native son and it must also be a source of gratification and pleasure that he has been honored by his king, who has realized the service he has rendered his country. It is also plain that British Columbians have appreciated what he has done for them.

Government Land Policy.

"I will now take a few minutes to speak on the land policy of the government. I have noticed during the last two years that whenever the Liberal party, or the remnants of it, have had occasion to gather they nearly always criticize or condemn that policy. They give the impression that the administration, or lack of administration, has something to do with the high cost of living.

"The main criticism appears to be that the department is unable to supply as full information about the lands for settlement as in the neighboring provinces of Alberta, Saskatchewan and Manitoba.

"You must bear in mind that in the question of getting information we have no assistance except from our own resources. This involves a large amount of money and labor.

"In 1903 and for some time after that it was impossible to devote large sums, but in 1908 we were able to pay more attention to this question. We have already expended over $2,000,000 in obtaining information and this year will spend a quarter of a million more.

"Large tracts have been surveyed and we are ahead of settlement. It is now possible to secure all information that the settler may require."

Forestry Branch.

Mr. Ross next spoke of the forestry branch, formed about two years ago and the work being done in that department.

"An extensive examination has been made of the whole province by this department," said Mr. Ross. "It has been published and is open to enquirers.

"I would point out that all land within easy distance of towns has passed away from the crown long ago, in fact before the McBride government came into power.

"I think that you will agree with me that the timber resources of the province should be conserved and that any increase in the lumber industry should go hand in hand with agricultural development.

"It is not right to ask people to come to British Columbia to settle until some advancements have been made and it is better that the land should remain unsettled than tenanted with a dissatisfied people.

"During the last session the charge of $1 per acre was abolished. Now we are offering practically free homesteads and I believe that with the natural resources, we offer better inducements than any other province in the Dominion."

Mr. Brewster Popular.

Turning from that subject to the recent Liberal convention at Revelstoke, Mr. Ross said:

"I notice from the papers that the Liberals have elected H. C. Brewster to be their leader. We know Mr. Brewster, as he was once a member in the house, and we like him. I think I express the feelings of every member when I say long may he live and long may he be the leader of the Liberal party."

The Premier.

On the announcement of Sir Richard McBride there was a great outburst of applause, amidst which three high school girls approached, accompanied by two stewards, bearing a

DOLLAR BARGAINS TO ATTRACT SHOPPERS

Thrifty housewives and men with an economical taste will have the greatest opportunity they have ever had next Thursday in New Westminster to buy goods for one dollar when at other times they would have to pay more than double that amount. Next Thursday is the Bargain Day of The News and many of the stores will be specially decorated for the occasion.

In The News on Wednesday and Thursday will appear advertisements of all kinds and descriptions, telling New Westminster shoppers exactly what they will be able to buy for $1.00, and there is little doubt that the pages of the paper will be eagerly scanned on that day, for the opportunity has never been offered before and may never be again.

Will Be Big Day.

There is little doubt but that Thursday will be the greatest shopping day in the history of the city and wise housewives should be up betimes and get to the stores early if they expect to get near the counters, for all the stores are expecting larger crowds than ever before. In the west where prices are not always within the measure of one's purse it is not an easy matter generally to buy very much for one dollar, but on Thursday, through The News Dollar Bargains, everyone will have a chance of buying for one dollar what he would at any other time have to pay much more for.

Everyone should scan very carefully the pages of The News on Wednesday and see the advertisements and look for themselves to see the great bargains that will be offered. Many of the storekeepers will specially decorate their windows with the goods that they will offer for the bargain prices and next Thursday will certainly be a red letter day in the history of shopping in this city.

The main thing to keep in mind is that it will be necessary to come early. Itl will be a case of first come, first served, and there will be thousands of eager shoppers to be attended to on the great bargain day. Come early or you may never get farther than the front door.

DELEGATION WAS ON DECK STRONG

Kickers Against Tax Rate Attended But Burnaby Council Adjourned Early.

Edmonds, June 2.—One of the shortest sessions of the Burnaby council was that held this evening when after passing the accounts and the minutes of the previous meeting, an adjournment was taken until Thursday evening at 7:30.

Councillors Mayne and MacDonald were absent, Reeve McGregor was unable to be present as he leaves for England on Tuesday and Acting Reeve FauVel, Councillors Coldicutt, Stride and Macpherson did not feel it was right to proceed with such a small attendance.

Tonight's meeting was changed to 6:30 o'clock in order to allow several present to attend the big celebration in the Royal City and an adjournment was taken just as a large delegation appeared at the hall to object to an increase of the tax rate which was made last week.

Practically every ward in the municipality was represented and prospects are bright for an even larger attendance on Thursday evening, when they promise to ask the council the why and wherefore of the increased taxation.

FISPA TAKES TO WATER YESTERDAY

New Fisheries Department Cruiser Launched from Ways on Lulu Island.

The fastest vessel in the service of the department of fisheries and marine on the Pacific coast slipped down the ways of the Westminster marine railways on Lulu island yesterday and is expected to go into commission on June 12. The "Fispa" is the name of the boat, which has a length of 82 feet with 14½ foot beam. When equipped with two 90 h.p. engines she is expected to cut the water at a speed of over 16 knots an hour.

Some difficulty was experienced by the department, according to Dominion Fisheries Inspector Cunningham, in naming the vessel in order not to clash with any other ship.

When completed, the Fispa will cost about $35,000 and will carry a crew of seven. While not built especially for the purpose of doing patrol work, she will be ready for such service should she be needed.

A boat of this type has become a necessity to the department, and it is the intention of Dominion Fisheries Inspector Cunningham to make the annual tour of inspection both on the mainland and also on the Vancouver island coasts by means of the Fispa.

The trial trip of the new boat will be made on Monday, June 9, and, if everything is satisfactory, she will be turned over to the department on the following Thursday.

Rains Lower Prices.

Winnipeg, June 2.—Slight rains have occurred in the southwestern states and over the Canadian west provinces which, although insufficient to help the crop materially, have weakened prices on both months. Last week there was good buying on dry weather and, with rain indications this week, sellers were numerous and prices consequently declined.

ELECTION EARLY IN NEXT WINTER

Possibility of Borden's Appeal to People is Discussed At Ottawa.

Hon. Sydney Fisher Likely to Return to Parliament—No Chance of By-Elections.

Ottawa, June 2.—The Evening Free Press, the local Liberal organ, says: "Hon. Sydney Fisher is likely to be a member of the house of commons again within a short time. It is understood that he will likely be offered the Liberal nomination of the riding of Chateauguay, opened by the death of J. P. Brown, who represented that riding in several parliaments.

"Hon. Mr. Fisher is expected to accept. Liberal members say that should he do so there will be no doubt as to his return with an increased Liberal majority. There are two other vacancies in the house, one occasioned by the death of the Hon. John Haggard and the other by the appointment of J. J. Donnelly to the senate.

"It is understood that the government is not anxious to have the sentiment in Chateauguay or South Bruce tested for some time and it will not be before next autumn that writs are issued.

"If the government finally decides to hold a general election early in the winter there are likely to be no by-elections."

FIRST LORD MUM ON NAVAL QUESTION

Churchill Declines to Answer Queries Involving Matter of Defeat of Borden's Bill.

London, June 2.—During question hour in the house of commons this afternoon, Sir John B. Lonsdale, Unionist member for Mid-Armagh, asked, whether in view of the fact that in the opinion of His Majesty's government the three proposed Canadian dreadnoughts were not additional to the whole world naval requirements of the British empire, it was proposed in the event of any delay in laying down the ships to bring down supplementary estimates providing for three additional capital vessels in the current year.

In reply, Winston Churchill, first lord of the admiralty, said: "The new situation which has arisen requires and will receive the attention of the government."

Lonsdale—May I ask this: If these three vessels are not commenced this year will not the navy fall below the requirements of the empire?

Churchill—I cannot add anything to the answer I have given.

A. H. Lee, Unionist member for the Fareham division of Hampshire, queried: "Can the first lord give the house any idea when he is likely to be able to make any statement to the house on this very vital question?"

Churchill—I should not like to commit myself, but I hope that during the present month the principal which is raised in this question will be the subject of a statement on the part of His Majesty's government."

The incident then closed.

STRIKES SUBMARINE

British Battleships in Collision Off Isle of Wight.

Portsmouth, Eng., June 2.—While engaged in manoeuvres off the Isle of Wight today a flotilla of submarines made a mimic attack on the battleships Irresistible and Prince of Wales, of the home fleet.

The latter collided with a submerged submarine, wrecking the conning tower and superstructure. The submarine, however, was able to reach the surface and return to Portsmouth. The damage to the battleship consisted of the indentation of a few bottom plates.

Murray to Investigate.

Washington, June 2.—Secretary Lane appointed today John F. Murray, of California, a special agent in the Indian service to study the methods of instruction at Indian schools. Mr. Murray was superintendent of schools of Coloradd for several years. He is a newspaperman and was secretary of the Democratic state central committee of California.

LOOKS LIKE LONG SIEGE.

Nanaimo, June 2.—Preparations for a long siege were begun by the officials of the Western Fuel company this morning and no attempt was made to start the mines as was expected. The entire clerical was expected. The entire clerical force has been laid off and all the rolling stock is being taken out of the Brechin mine. Both the miners and the company are standing fast, with little prospect of a break on either side.

TUESDAY MORNING, JUNE 3, 1913.

GOD SAVE THE KING!

The ordinary sentiments of loyalty which British subjects everywhere are accustomed to cherish toward their reigning monarch are in the case of George V.—as they were in that of Victoria and Edward VII.—enhanced by the admirable character of the object of their allegiance.

We may revere the throne as an institution. We would be loyal if the personality of the sovereign were not altogether all that could be wished, as in the case of the immediate predecessors of Victoria. But since the period of Victoria we have learned to expect in the occupant of the throne those qualities which evoke not only formal respect, but unbounded regard and affection.

Our present king, though so recently called to his high dignity, has already shown that he has set for himself a most exalted standard. While sedulously observing all the requirements of his position, and discharging all his duties, his tastes are quiet and domestic, and he has evinced the liveliest sympathy with all that tends to the moral as well as the material welfare of his people. Under him court life affords a beneficial example.

His anxiety to exhibit an interest in every class of his subjects is shown in his recent visits to the potteries and manufacturing districts of the Midlands. Fortunately he is not far advanced in life, and his vigor as well as his sailor habits enables him with pleasure to tour the most distant parts of his dominions. Some day, let us hope, he may visit Canada.

Then our loyalty will kindle into such a furore of enthusiasm as will set forever at rest the question of our destiny as an integral and incorporated part of the greatest empire on which the sun ever shone.

THE DEMONSTRATION AND AFTER.

The Progressive association and the Business Men's association of this city are to be congratulated upon the success which has attended their efforts to demonstrate to our citizens how they may aid the producers of New Westminster and the Fraser valley—and incidentally themselves also—by patronizing home industries.

The demonstration has proved successful and we earnestly hope that its effect will not soon be lost, but rather that the people will realize their share in attaining the object aimed at by the associations and those who have so excellently co-operated with them. We have to face peculiar trade conditions in B. C. at the present time, and, as has been pointed out over and over again the enormous drain of money from the pockets of British Columbians to those of foreigners cannot be allowed to continue.

It will not exist any longer than the time in which each resident here takes to grasp the great central truth that his very existence here, his job, depends largely today—and is likely to depend still further—upon those conditions being eliminated and B. C. money kept as far as possible in this province.

In aiding in the educational campaign which is inevitable before each person here appreciates the situation to the full, the Progressive and Business Men's associations have done yeoman service to the community and we trust that their efforts will not stop until the goal has been reached.

Other cities—Canada as a whole—are alive to the vital importance of beginning purchases at home of those goods which are to be got at home. In British Columbia, New Westminster has led the way in holding a demonstration such as that which closed yesterday. Spasmodic efforts are of no avail and we feel sure that with the backing of the public at large the men behind the present movement will keep on preaching and teaching and demonstrating until all the wide field of their endeavor is won.

LEARN GAELIC

We foresee an increase in the membership of the Gaelic club. An expert linguist has declared that language possesses more terms of endearment and more of vituperation than any other. And supremacy in those two lines is all that is necessary to make a language great.

How useful it would be to the editors of our Canadian political sheets! Very many of them are handicapped in that they cannot say some things which they want to say. They are neither hot nor cold—lukewarm all the time.—Regina Standard.

OPEN WINDOW IN SCHOOLS

Fresh air and sunshine are likely to become the watchword of the Philadelphia public schools. The authorities have made a most satisfactory and convincing experiment in "revitalizing devitalized children."

The tests were conducted under the direction of Dr. Walter W. Roach, supervising medical inspector for the fourth and fifth districts. The open window classroom was tested at the Bache school.

It was found that the pupils gained in weight an average of more than twice as much as those in warm air rooms. The children were wholly free from colds; they were more regular in attendance; they were quicker to learn; they were better behaved.

They were taught in a room where the windows were open at top and bottom throughout the winter, with heat shut off except on rare occasioens when the temperature fell below 45 degrees.

There seems to be no doubt that the open window is an advantage. An abundance of fresh air is thereby afforded, making for better health and for more solid development, both physical and mental.

The experiment is another demonstration of a well-known fact, established from a multitude of angles: Children ought not to be treated as house plants. They thrive better when their systems are made to fight against some of the rigors of existence.—Seattle Times.

BRITISH PUBLIC SERVICES

From statistics given by the Municipal Journal of London, England, it appears that the city of Nottingham is receiving from its public services $360,000 in relief of rates, an amount equal to 30 cents in each $5 of rental under the British system of taxation of rentals.

Towards that amount the gas department contributed $195,000, the street railway $95,000, the electricity department $40,000 and the bridge estate $31,000, in round figures. From its real estate Nottingham derived another $333,000, equivalent to a rate of relief of 28 cents, so that the municipal trading and ownership together yield a rate relief approximating 60 cents in each $5 of rental.

Birmingham again is even more strikingly favored since from its stree railways, gas and electrical services it receives a contribution of $750,000 out of profits for rate relief. Manchester street railway committee is protesting against more than $500,000 being allotted for that purpose from the city's street railways alone.

In this connection it has to be kept in mind that these large appropriations are possible after paying all working expenses and providing for reserve, renewal and sinking funds, and all other obligations. At the same time rates and charges are always being revised in the public interest and endless changes being made to meet the wants of the citizens.—Toronto World.

IN CANADA'S STORY

Robert Bell, the great Canadian geologist and explorer, was born in Toronto seventy-two years ago today, June 3, 1841. His father was the Rev. Andrew Bell, and his grandfather, the Rev. William Bell, both of the Church of Scotland. He was educated at McGill and Edinburgh universities, and in 1857 joined the geological survey of Canada, of which he later became director and chief.

He took part in topographical and geological surveys in all parts of the Dominion. He was geologist, naturalist and medical officer of the Neptune expedition in 1884, and of the Albert expedition the following year to Hudson's strait and bay; geologist of the Diana expedition in 1897, when he traversed the south coast of Baffinland and penetrated to the great lakes in the interior and surveyed the Athabasca, Beaver, Winnipeg, Slave, Churchill, Hayes, Nelson, English, Albany, Nipigon, Kenogami, Moose, Broadback, Notaway, Harricanaw, upper Gatineau and other rivers, as well as many lakes.

His reports and papers, over 200 in number, are a rich field of scientific information, covering the fields of geology, biology, geography and the folk-lore and archaeology of the Canadian Indians. He was one of the founders of the Royal Society of Canada, which he represented at the International Geological Congress in Vienna ten years ago. On one of his expeditions Dr. Bell was made honorary chief of the Algonquin Indians of Grand Lake.

His attainments won the recognition of the King's gold medal of the Royal Geographical Society in 1906 and the Cullum gold medal of the American Geographical Society was conferred upon him the same year.

Miriam Wentworth Gifford, famous clergyman and author, was born in Newcastle, Ont., sixty-two years ago today, and entered thre Methodist ministry in Canada in 1871.

OBJECTS TO COMING BACK TO VICTORIA

J. R. Moore Arrested in Connection With Bankers' Trust Case—Will Resist Extradition

Victoria, June 2.—Police authorities here state that information has been received that J. R. Moore, former officer of the Negotiators, Limited, selling agents of the stock of the Bankers' Trust Corporation, Limited, and also interested in the affairs of the latter concern, will resist the attempt being made by the attorney-general's department to bring him back to Victoria to stand trial.

Moore was arrested Wednesday evening in Seattle by Deputy Sheriff William Griffith on a warrant charging him and others with conspiracy to defraud. The warrant was issued here two months ago on information of Mr. Robert Hetherington, one of the gentlemen induced to purchase stock in the Bankers' Trust Corporation.

The other defendants were Frank In C. Cook, J.O. Hearn, R. N. O'Connor and Frank Skidmore. Cook, Hearn and O'Connor were arested here and committed for trial and their case, which came up at the recent assizes, was traversed to the next assizes. Moore and Skidmore had left the city prior to the issuance of the warrant and ever since the authorities have been endeavoring to have them apprehended. Moore, who lives in Seattle and owns a beautiful home there, has been in California for some time, only returning a short time ago.

The police here have been notified of Moore's arrest in Seattle, and it was intimated in the telegram that he would fight extradition from that city. The papers in the case are now in the possession of Mr. Harold B. Robertson, who has been retained by the attorney-general to take charge of the prosecutions against the accused. Immediate steps will be taken to send an officer to Seattle to prepare the necessary extradition case against the prisoner.

Moore was not arrested until late on Wednesday evening, while motoring with his wife. Business friends of his made an effort to secure bail but the lateness of the hour prevented this and he spent the night in jail.

UP TO THE MEN

Nanaimo Coal Interests Show No Sign of Giving in

Nanaimo, June 2.—Asked last night as to whether he anticipated an early resumption of work at the mines, General Manager Stockett, of the Western Fuel Co., replied as follows:

"The president and board of directors of the company, realizing that the present crisis in the industrial affairs at Nanaimo and the violation of the working agreement was forced upon the company and the employees by outside influences which are inimical to the best interests of the company, the workmen and the community, have instructed that work be not resumed until the men show sufficient interest to enable the work being carried on under the harmonious system that has existed during the past eight years.

"They deplore the conditions that exist, but feel that the ultimate welfare of the workmen and the community will be best served by this course, and in which course I fully concur. The company's system of dealing directly with its employees is too well known to call for any statement at this time other than to say that that system has always yielded to the employees the largest measure of return that the market conditions warranted and there is every reason to anticipate that a continuation of that system would prove as remunerative and satisfactory to both parties.

LONGEST TELEPHONE CONNECTION BUILT

Thirty-eight Mile Cable to Island Gives Westminster Better Service —Signs Bother Business Men.

Vancouver, June 2.—Now that the steamer Crown of Galicia has arrived with the long-looked for cable, the B. C. Telephone company will lose no time in laying it over the 38 miles between Newacstle Island and Point Grey. This will give Vancouver and New Westminster practically a double telephone service with the island and the longest submarine telephone connection in the world.

The necessity for protecting and improvement in the system between here, Victoria and Nanaimo has long been recognized, as the present connection is made by using the chain of islands and the American territory, which, as will be seen, is quite indirect.

Links Up Nanaimo.

The new line, however, in the shape of the submarine cable, will run directly from the local office by way of Point Grey, then under water for thirty-eight miles to Newcastle Island, a small plot of land about 1,000 feet from the city of Nanaimo. Here it will connect with the Victorian-Nanaimo line direct into the island city.

The cable was specially made in England and harmonized to local conditions, representing the latest phase of constructional work of this character. Great care was taken of the expensive line in bringing it to this country, it being immersed in a specially built tank containing 10,200 gallons of fresh water on the entire trip across. This was to prevent it rusting while the Crown of Galicia was in the tropics.

Signboard Controversy.

Consternation has been caused in the ranks of business men who advertise by means of the sign-board or boarding in the city of Vancouver. Announcement that this method of advertising is to be done away with completely by a new and stringent by-law now under discussion in council and to be brought up at tonight's meeting is the cause of anxiety. Already representations have been made to committees and will be made to the council also against the passing of the measure.

SEEK REPRIEVES

Two Murder Cases at Victoria—Dr. Doherty's Evidence Important

Victoria, June 2.—Reprieves of the death sentences pronounced against Ernest Atkinson, found guilty of wife murder, and Soo Quon, whose trial for a fatal assault on a countryman at the Cameron Lumber Company's mills resulted similarly will be sought by counsel for the prisoners.

That Mr. H. A. McLean, that acted for Atkinson before the assize court, would take some such action was thought altogether probable, in view of the evidence given by Dr. Doherty, of the New Westminster Asylum for the Insane, as to the man's mental condition, and also as a result of the rider to the jury's verdict recommending mercy.

It is understood that Mr. J. Charles McIntosh, who is acting for the condemned Chinaman, Soo Quon, will take exactly the same ground in his representations. He will dwell on the evidence of the Orientals who knew the prisoner during his early life, which is to the effect that he always was peculiar, being subject to the most grotesque hallucinations.

Some of these were that there were figures in the air in pursuit of him, that a huge reptile was on his trail, and that he could see a dragon which thirsted for his life. Mr. McIntosh will also be backed up by the jury's recommendation of Soo Quon to the court's mercy.

These petitions will be laid before the minister of justice at an early date, the two men being sentenced to hang on Wednesday, August 6.

TWO SCHOOL PRINCIPALS RESIGN AT SUMMERLAND

Summerland, B. C., June 2.—Mr. Douglas M. Brown, principal of the consolidated school, has tendered his resignation. It will therefore be necessary for the board to engage a new principal for the central as well as another for the high school. Two other teachers also are required.

Principal Hunting of the high school came before the board recently and tendered his resignation. In doing so he made some general remarks on the standing of the school and commented upon the recent report of the high school inspector, which he thought might unfairly reflect on himself and his work.

WILL HE GET IT?

Man Turned Back at Blaine Sues Official for $3,333.

Seattle, June 2.—Alleging he was illegally deported to British Columbia, although he has been a resident of Seattle for a number of years, Ernest Korte, a German subject, will attempt to collect $3,333 from John L. Zurbick, immigration official, stationed at Blaine, Wash.

The suit was started in the state court at Bellingham, but application was made by Assistant United States Attorney Brockway for its removal to the federal court here.

Korte and a companion left Seattle last December to go to work at Vancouver. They were there arrested in a police roundup of vagrants. After his release from jail, Korte sought to return to Seattle, but was detained at Blaine. He appealed to Secretary Nagel, and before action was taken at Washington, Zurbrick ordered him returned to Vancouver, where he was again arrested.

Nelson Firm's Profit.

Kaslo, June 2.—The contract for the new $40,000 school as Kaslo has been let to J. Dancy & Co., of Nelson, and work will be commenced as soon as possible in order that the building may be ready for occupancy immediately after the next Christmas vacation. The heating and plumbing contract has been let to the British Columbia Heating and Plumbing company, also of Nelson.

THE B. C. ELECTRIC SERVICE

Editor Daily News:—The writer desires to draw the attention of the travelling public in the city to the service carried on by the B. C. Electric Railway Co. The changes being made at Leopold Place have caused a broken link in the service round by the Queen's park, and during this change a connection is supposed to be made at Leopold Place, but here is where the traveller, having paid his fare, often gets fooled and it depends on what part of the above service the traveller resides whether he or she has not to walk after leaving the car as far as would have to be covered from the centre of the city.

The car supposed to connect frequently leaves Leopold Place either empty, or nearly so, just immediately before the Queen's park car up Columbia arrives, leaving the passengers either to wait from twenty to thirty-five minutes or find their way home as best they can.

Is this the treatment the public deserves as the result of granting the franchise to the B. C. E. R. Ry. Co?

Is the halter so strong and fixed around the neck of this city, by the terms of the franchise granted to the B. C. E. R. Co. that the public have got to submit to any treatment the above company mete out to us?

Again, I would ask, if such be the case, is it good business on the part of the B. C. E. R. Co to force the travelling public of this city to be their enemies, made so by the company's own tactics?

Our city, by its location, its educational, social, as well as other advantaegs, is equal, if not superior, to any other in the province, but all these advantages are largely offset by the miserable service given by the B. C. E. R. Co, and which, if allowed to continue, will in a large measure, destroy the good work inaugurated by our Progressive and other associations. The writer, can, if desired, offer proof for every allegation contained in this letter.

VICTORIA HAS SOME REASON FOR SMILING

Approximately $6,000,000 to Be Spent on Harbor—Drydock and Drill Hall Among Other Presents.

Victoria, June 2.—The recent congratulatory addresses to the city's representatives in the Dominion house are a reminder of the vast program of work which has been assured to Victoria. The Colonist, referring to this, gives editorially a short summary of the more important items. They are as follows:

Harbor improvement, approximately $6,000,000; available for immediate expenditure, $1,100,000. These improvements include: The breakwater the two 1000-foot piers, a mile of retaining wall for the inner harbor and extensive dredging operations. The Colonist is inclined to think that in placing the aggregate sum to be expended on this service in pursuance of existing plans, and exclusive of additional wharf accommodations at the outer harbor will well exceed $6,000,000, but it confines itself to what is now actually in sight.

The drydock, approximate cost, fully equipped, $4,000,000; amount available for immediate expenditure, $500,000.

The drill hall, approximate cost, $250,000; available for immediate expenditure, $100,000.

Quarantine station, approximate cost of improvements uncertain; available for immediate expenditure, $86,000.

Post office, available for improvements, $70,000.

Seismic observatory, available for expenditure, $12,000.

Wharf at Oak bay, available for immediate expenditure, $10,000.

New offices for marine fisheries department, plans in course of preparation, estimated cost $150,000.

Experimental farm, amount available for expenditure included in general appropriation. Probable cost when complete, $250,000.

There are numerous minor matters of local importance, but the several amounts involved therein are not large enough to call for special mention but they are sufficient in the aggregate to make a very considerable sum, and what is of especial significance they show that the minor matters have not been lost sight of in the consideration of greater questions.

In addition to these things, Victoria has the promised settlement of the sealing claims and the appointment of an engineer to make estimates of the cost of the bridging of Seymour Narrows.

ALBERNIANS ORGANIZE COMPANY OF MILITIA

Port Alberni, June 2.—Port Alberni is to have a militia company. It is to be part of a Vancouver Island regiment with detached companies at Duncans and Nanaimo and already fifty men from this district have signed the enrollment list. Mr. E. B. Garrard has had charge of the preliminary organization and it is largely through his efforts that the local company is to be organized.

The Vancouver Island regiment is to be an infantry organization and will not include the organization at Victoria.

Owing to the lateness of the move toward organization there probably will not be an encampment this summer. When permanent organization has been offered and the company has been recruited to its full strength local manoeuvres probably will be held. The company is expected to join in the general manoeuvres next summer.

GIRDLES PROVINCE WITH AUTO ROAD

Wonderful Scenery Along Highway Now Being Built Between Coast and Calgary.

Banff, June 2.—There is a great motor road now in course of construction from Banff to Windermere, in the Columbia valley, eighty-five miles south of Golden. From Calgary to Banff the road, ninety miles long, is now complete. From Banff, Alta., on the eastern slope of the Rocky mountains, to Windermere, B. C., is another ninety miles.

It is the intention to construct such a motor road that the trip can be made in four or five fours between Banff and Windermere, where the C. P. P. proposes, upon completion of the motor road and of the railway now being built south from Golden to Windermere, to establish at Invermere, on lovely Lake Windermere, one of its largest tourist hotels.

In time this great national highway will be continued from Invermere across the Selkirk mountains to West Kootenay, and from thence by way of the Monashee pass to Vernon, in the centre of the northern Okanagan district, connecting at this point with all the Okanagan roads; from there by way of Grand Prairie to Nicola, Princeton and across the Hope range into the Fraser valley at Hope, thence to New Westminster and Vancouver.

The total distance from Calgary to the coast by such a road, for the most part remote from the main line of railways, will be six hundred and fifty miles; it is hard to realize, much less describe, the possibilities it offers. The traveler, leaving Calgary in the morning, could lunch at Banff and spend the night at Inverness, lunch the following day on the west side of the Selkirk mountains and sleep at the Arrowhead lakes.

With an early start on the third day, he could lunch at Vernon and spend the night in the Nicola valley. The fourth day would take him through the Hope ridge, and with a good good he could make New Westminster or Vancouver that night.

The specifications call for a road at least twelve feet in width, with adequate drainage, built in the best possible grades and alignment. The surfaceing of the road will consist of a six-metal surface rolled with a five-ton roller.

Returning to the Banff-Windermere section of this route, the Dominion government is building that part within the present Rocky mountain park, a distance from Banff to the summit of approximately twenty-six miles. Vermillion summit to the Columbia valley government road at Sinclair Hot Springs is a distance of sixty-two miles.

The Dominion government has built a bridge over the Bow river and has two large parties of men working on the Castle division. The work between the Vermillion summit and Sinclair Hot Springs has been late and will be finished in 1913.

The Castle division, where the Domininion government is now at work, consists of an eight-mile ascent on an average grade of not over 2 per cent, through a country which has been partly burnt, but commands from practically all points of the road a magnificent view of the Bow river valley with Castle and Storm mountains close at hand.

LOGS ARE SAFE.

Rising Water on Slocan River Threatened Big Booms.

Nelson, June 2.—Although the Slocan river is about one foot higher than it has reached at any time since the construction of the British Canadian Lumber corporation's mill at Crescent valley, the arrangements made for holding the logs in the river have proved so successful that not one has been lost, and there is a margin of safety of some six or seven feet, accerding to T. S. Richardson, manager of the company.

The water is now ten feet five inches above low water mark, but has fallen eight inches during the last twenty-four hours, said Mr. Richardson. Not since Mr. Richardson took charge of the mill as manager some two years ago has the company lost a log, it is said, and he stated yesterday that he considered there was no danger of loss this year.

VICTORIA ADVERTISED BY BEAUTY OF FLOWERS

Victoria, June 2.—The beautiful show of rhododendrons and azaleas at the parliament buildings is one of the best advertisments which Victoria could possibly give to the newly-arriving visitors and settlers who disembark from the boats arriving here.

Under the careful pruning and culture of the head gardener, J. B. Partington, the several flower beds and shrubs have assumed a beautiful appearance, while the ivy borders and latterly more particularly the glowing azalea mollis which has been a mass of beautiful orange bloom for some time past, have provoked widespread comment of a most complimentary nature.

Mr. Brown, one of the assistant gardeners, has made a very attractive use of the piles of otherwise unsightly earth at the back by planting these out with sweet peas and other flowers.

HOMESTEADERS AND STOCKMEN AT WAR

Three Thousand Head Driven Over Border Into Montana—Small Farmers Allegedly Guilty.

Lethbridge June 2.—War to the finish has again broken out between the large stock and cattle raisers in this vicinity and the homesteaders, and the deepest mystery has been injected into the latest reprisals vented on the stockmen.

Today the stockmen are sending scores of cowboys into Montana to relmaim and round up more than 3,000 head of horses and cattle driven over the border into Montana Wednesday night. Blood Indians are blamed by the homesteaders, who declare they are not responsible for the outrage, but the general impression among the stockmen is that the homesteaders themselves are the ones to blame.

The two factions have been in constant warfare since the homesteaders took up the rich lands to the south of this city. Prior to that time the herds of the big stock interests, particularly the McIntyre and Page companies, roamed over thousands of acres of this land. The dividing of this land into homesteaders' farm cut off the grazing privileges of the stockmen, and war was the result.

n the sections remaining, the stockmen apepared to be half way satisfied, but constant complaints were being made that the great herds were over running the fences and devastating the crops. Especially in the spring time when the grains started to appear, was this true.

The affair last Wednesday night appears to have all the effectiveness of concerted action. Evidently a large number of men took part in the round up, and the cattle were gathered together in a systematic manner, something said to be entirely foreign to the nature of Indian raiders.

The homesteaders, however, declare that the Indians are particularly hostile to the stockmen because of two of their number being recently sentenced to the penitentiaary for horse stealing from the ranges. Members of the mounted police have been sent out through the homesteads and ranges investigating the raids, and arrests in connection with the case are expected soon.

ANOTHER EPISODE OF THE ROMANTIC

Englishman, Now Prosperous Farmer, Meets Lost Sweetheart on Road to Immigration Hall.

Edmonton, Alta., Jupne 2.—Five years ago William Bearcroft left the little English village of Hadleigh, Essex, it being understood that as soon as he had made a position for himself he should write home for his intended bride to join him.

In the bustle of western life Berecroft neglected to write for some considerable time, and when he finally did communicate his letter was returned as undelivered. Berecroft had also changed his address on several occasions, and for the last four and a half years had no idea of the whereabouts of his sweetheart.

During the last three years fortune had been kind to Berecroft and he is a prosperous farmer in the High river district. A week ago he decided he had earned a holiday and decided that he would spend a few days with friends at South Edmonton.

Having no particular business on hand yesterday morning, Berecroft walked down to the C. P. R. depot to watch the arrival of the train from the east. Among the immigrants was a girl whose face seemed familiar to him, and as she apepared to be undecided as to where she should go, Berecroft had an opportunity of studying her more closely.

Finally the girl asked one of the policemen on duty for directions as to how to find the immigration hall, and by her voice Berecroft recognized her as his lost sweetheart. After a sentimental scene on th platform, mutual explanations were exchanged and Berecroft learned that the girl had met with considerable misfortune in England and had decided to emigrate to the west. The incident will have the conventional ending beloved of the romantic novelist.

INCREASING PAYROLL.

Grand Forks Has the Power and Raw Material Nearby.

Grand Forks, B. C., June 2.—A steady increase in the local payroll at Grand Forks has recently been noted, the aggregate now being estimated at $125,000 monthly. Among the chief contributors to this amount are the Granby smelter, $35,000; three railways, $27,000; two lumber mills, $18,000; government highways, $10,000.

The opportunities for manufacturing concerns at Grand Forks are also proving a strong drawing card, an almost unlimited supply of power being available for al lthe industries, etc. Power rates at the present time are quoted at a very low figure, and raw material in great variety is also at hand in the surrounding district.

IT'S THE B. C. CLIMATE.

This Chicken Has Double-Barreled Fruit Machinery.

Armstrong, B. C., June 2.—The Advertiser has a novel one for poultry fanciers. It says:

"We were shown an egg on Monday by J. W. Patten, which, to say the least, is a curiosity worth seeing. It was the product of a Buff Orpington pullet and consisted of an egg within an egg, both eggs being perfectly formed and the larger one of abnormal size, being very much larger than an average sized goose egg.

"The inner egg was of average size and both had hard shells. This pullet has laid over a dozen of these same class of fruit since starting to lay last fall, and Mr. Patten naturally prizes his wonder-worker highly."

TRAINS BOYS TO BECOME FARMERS

Hon. George Foster Praises Work Being Done in New Zealand—Canada Could Profit by Example

Christchurch, New Zealand, June 2.—Speaking recently of his visit to the Hankshung agricultural college and the Pitt Town school for boys in company with the Dominion's trade commissioners, Hon. Geo. E. Foster said:

"The agricultural college struck me very favorably. The variety and thoroughness given in a practical and experimental way seemed to me exactly what was required by the students to fit them for the actualities of the life they would lead on the farms. The students are not only initiated into a theoretical knowledge of the conditions of soils and the atmosphere as well as the aids and hindrances that insect and bird life bring, but they are thoroughly versed in what may be caled the rougher forms of construction and repairs of everything connected with the farmer's new life on his location.

"They are taught to make and mend harness and to build gates and fences, and in short are given an experimental knowledge in all the different varieties of work which fall to a farmer's lot, together with that independance and self-reliance which give him a great advantage in a sparcely settled country, where he cannot find foundries,, factories and carpenters ready to hand.

"The students are also taught methods of preserving fruits of all kinds and making cheese and butter. They are not only shown how to do all these things, but the excellence of the instruction is chiefly to be found in the fact that they are made to do them themselves, therby becoming practical and obtaining confidence in the carrying out of the more theortical side of the work."

Comparison With Canada

"Have you any agricultural college of this character in Canada?" Mr. Foster was asked.

"There are," he replied, "institutions in Canada which are more fully equipped. But taking it all in all, I doubt if there is any institution which effects the end aimed at—namely, to make the boy acquire an experience of all the actualities of a farmer's busines—in the same way as at the Hawksbury college. The principal, Mr. Potts, struck me as being the very man for the position, and I think he has the faculty of inspiring his boys with his own energy and optimism."

"At the Pitt Town Farm," continued Mr. Foster, "one meets with almost the exact opposite of conditions obtaining at the agricultural college. The former institution takes the boy who knows little or nothing about farm life in Australia, and in three months initiates him into the method and spirit of the new work, a task of great difficulty, which requires the utmost tact and persistence.

"The boys are taken largely from the hearts of great cities, where mode of life and occupation were entirely different. It speaks volumes for the work of the Pitt Town Farm that we are told that a very large per centage of these boys after three months' preliminary training do, in a great majority of cases, make good.

Boys Well Pleased

"It is very gratifying to know that that element by kindly guidance and instruction can be placed in useful positions on Australian farm commanding good wages, after a three months' trial in the country. I found the boys well pleased with their conditions and interested in their work, and as a general rule eager to get out on to the farm to which they are destined, always with the idea that hev must be diligent in fitting themselves for their future work, and utilizing the three months' training to the best advantage. I saw boys from Sheffield, London and other cities of England, all apparently cheerful and happy."

Mr. Foster stated that there was no institution of this kind in Canada on a large scale. "Some private farms, of small capacity," he added "are being run by charitably disposed people. I think it well worthy of consideration by the governments of the overseas dominions.

"It is one thing for those overseas dominions to take from Great Britain all her best and most skillful workers. But it is quite another thing to pick up a certain proportion of the unqualified and perhaps unemployed who would be no benefit in the old country, and by this kind of reception and preliminary training give them a chance to do well for themselves and for a new country to which they come."

JAM FOR DOUKHOBORS.

Society Has Contracted for Fifty Acres of Berries Near Nelson.

Nelson, June 2.—The Doukhobor society has contracted for over 50 acres The fruit will be used for jam making of strawberries in the Nelson district. The fruit will be used for jam making at the Kootenay-Columbia preserving works, according to John Sherbinin, business agent for the community.

The Douhkobors agree to pick the fruit and to pay the owners of the land upon which it is growing a fixed price per pound.

This year the Doukhobors will not have much small fruit available for jam making from their own property, on acount of the large number of new arrivals from the prairies, stated Mr. Sherbinin, who explained that the fruit would be required for the domestic us of the society.

Runaway Kills Him.

New Denver, B. C., June 2—Thomas Barber, who was injured in a runaway in Silverton a week ago, died in the Slocan hospital on Friday evening. He leaves a widow and two young children. Having lived in the district for many years he was widely known and very much liked. He was a prominent member of the Knights of Pythias and had been until recently a member of the miners' union.

The Boy Scouts will be very proud of their new president, the Duke of Connaught, says a London, England exchange. They will know how to admire his self-sacrifice and fortitude in carrying out his public engagements at a time of such grave domestic anxiety.

In such circumstances His Royal Highness' speech in London had a double value, for it is part of a boy scout's training to learn a moral code and a code of conduct as well as a military discipline. The Duke of Connaught, like a good soldier and patriot, sees the value of the boy scout movement.

"If militarism means making boys respectable, respectful, moral and manly, then there is militarism at the back of it, and a very good thing that is." The organization has in fact taught boys to think not merely as individuals but as members of a body. They are made to feel that they are young Englishmen, that they have a duty to be chivalrous, humane, and useful according to the tradition of their corps, and to take their share when the time comes in the defence of their country.

"The Sydney Bulletin some ago a characterically clever and malicious cartoon. It showed John Bull, a very obese old gentleman, upon his knees in a terrible state of fear and trepidation, waiting the attack of a heavily armed and truculent-looking Teuton, while between him and the foe stood a tiny boy scout with his staff ready for action. Now there is this much truth in the caricature, that while the while the manhood of the country and its government are neglecting their clear duty of defence the boys of the united kingdom, its future manhood and government, are learning what national duty means in an excellent school.

"When they come to be voters they will not be terrified by the bogey of conscription, because they will know that military discipline is a good and wholesome thing. It has saved many a youth from making a mere wreck of life. Who can estimate the number of boys who have been turned from wastrels into strong, self-respecting men by enlisting in the army?

"And in the same way boys who join the boy scouts are saved from the idleness which leads to mischief, they are taught manly virtues, and they are also, as appears from Sir R. Baden-Powel's very interesting speech, helped to find a useful place in the work of the world.

"There were now, fifty centres where education authorities were running continuation and technical schools entirely for boy scouts. The experiment had been pre-eminently successful. They were touching all classes of schools and it was found by the authorities that they could teach character by the scout method in the schools, in addition to the book work.

There were now a great number of scouts beginning to pass out of their ranks into the world, and the reports as to how they got on had been most encouraging. There was a practical demand for them among employers of labor. That surely, is excellent work.

"The truth is that the scout movement appeals to the boy nature which was never moved to any wild enthusiasm by the Sunday school or Band of Hope movements. It gets him on his soft side, his romantic side, and it uses his sense of romance and adventure to inculcate qualities most useful to citizenship. It is plainly a movement to be encouraged, and General Baden-Powell and his public spirited colleagues are to be congratulated on the great work they have done in brining the movement to its present stage of success."

Chief Scout's Present

The fund for a wedding present for Sir Robert Baden-Powell is now closed and the final list of subscriptions shows that the total amount subscribed comes to over $2000.

The chief scout was asked for his views as to the form the present should take, and he expressed the desire that the money should be spent in the purchase of a motor car in which he could visit scouts all over the country.

The chief's wishes in this matter will be observed, but a small sum will be kept over for the purchase of some permanent memento in silver on which a suitable inscription can be placed.

NEW RIVER INDUSTRY

Brickworks at Steveston Will Renew Operations Closed Since 1908

Steveston, June 2.—After remaining idle since 1908, when litigation resulted in a shutdown, which threw many out of work, the B. C. Pressed Brickyard, Ltd., of this place, will resume operation this week under the control of Patterson Bros., of Glasgow. Mr. D. King will be the engineer in charge. After the desired machinery at the works has been given a trial a full force of men will be employed.

The process by which this brick is manufactured is much different from the process by which the ordinary clay brick is made and has been operating in Germany for a long time.

The bricks are made from sand dredged from the river, and mixed with a proportion of lime, which is ground up in a lime grinder in the works Before the mixture is made the sand is run through a revolving sand drier and thoroughly dried out. After the bricks are moulded they are put through a Komnick system presser and subjected to a pressure of 120 tons on each brick.

From the presser they are loaded on steel cars which are then run into the long steel retorts to be subjected to a steam pressure of 150 pounds for a period of ten hours. This process converts the bricks into sandstone. The capacity of the plant is 20,000 bricks in ten hours, and the sand taken from the river one day can be used for building the next.

ONE WAY OF BEATING IT.

Hotel Porter Collars Ticket and Makes Dive for Train.

Fernie, B. C., June 2.—When the evening train was about due last night Thomas Murphy a young man formerly employed at the Waldorf hotel as porter, stepped up to the ticket window and asked for a ticket to Calgary. The ticket was passed through the window and, instead of handing over the required cash, Murphy brabbed the ticket and made for the door.

The ticket agent gave chase and overtook his man before he was clear of the station platform. While they were grappling Chief of Police Hall and Chief-elect Brown arrived, and after a great deal of difficulty succeeded in handcuffing Murphy, who was meanwhile struggling fiercely. He had been drinking but did not seem to be drunk. When taken to the police station he said that he was trying to beat it out of town, as he had been discharged from his position.

Brought before City Magistrate Whimster, he was sentenced to 15 days' imprisonment for making a disturbance. He will be tried again on the more serious charge in connection with the theft of the ticket.

JOHN SPROTT IS HIGHLY HONORED

Retiring Government Official Guest of Honor at Banquet Last Evening.

One of the notable events of yesterday's program in connection with the great celebration at the horse show arena was the banquet tendered to John Sprott, who has just retired after being in the employ of the provincial government for 35 years, many of which he spent as road superintendent.

The affair was held at the Russell hotel, G. P. Napier, assistant engineer of the public works department, being in the chair, Mr. Sprott sitting on his right, while Sir Richard McBride supported the chairman on the left. Among those present were the members of the provincial legislature from New Westminster, Dewdney, Delta, Chilliwack and several from Vancouver, Dr. Young, provincial secretary, city aldermen and all the heads of the government offices in the city, together with reeves and councillors from the surrounding districts.

Following the toast to "The King," Sir Richard McBride was called upon to make a presentation to Mr. Sprott. The premier referred to his long and faithful service with the government in a very highly eulogistic speech. He spoke of Mr. Sprott as a model whose life might well be followed by many. He then presented the former road superintendent with a handsome arm chair, the gift of his colleagues, road superintendents from other sections in the province.

Mr. Sprott was deeply moved at the references and compliments paid to him and was unable to reply to the address or to the gift other than "Thank you, gentlemen."

RAILWAY FROM NORTHERN B.C. TO ALASKA

large and beautiful floral bouquet, deftly woven into the shape of a maple leaf. Miss Freda Nelson then presented the gift to Sir Richard, who thanked the little ladies and shook hands with them. The other two were Miss Marjory Richards and Miss Annie Smith.

Sir Richard was again received with cheers in essaying to speak, and the singing of "He's a Jolly Good Fellow." He first addressed and thanked his fellow students of the high school of New Westminster for their most kindly and generous recognition of a former pupil. He had spent many happy and useful hours of his life there. After paying a high compliment to the work of his old school in turning out scores of good and useful citizens and indulging in other pleasant reminiscences, Sir Richard turned to the proposal to hold the present celebration in New Westminster at the commencement of the eleventh year of Conservative administration in British Columbia.

No Birthday Gift for the King.

Before he proceeded to speak with regard to the government the premier said the thought came to his mind, when he listened to the strains of "Rule Britannia" that tomorrow was the birthday of the King and that they were not able to say as Canadians to his majesty: Here is a gift of three dreadnoughts for the defence and needs of the empire. It was not the will of the people of Canada that the empire was deprived of these vessels. It was simply the accident of the senate. While, as constitutionalists, they must abide by constitutional action, he thought the people of Canada would deal with the upper chamber as soon as opportunity offered and that sufficient safeguards would be provided as to ensure the country and the empire from a repetition of this national calamity perpetrated upon the people a few days ago under the leadership of Sir George Ross.

Referring to the accusation of some of the Liberal critics about flag-waving, he said he would rather have a man flag-waving all the time, than one who scarcely ever hoisted it. They should teach their boys and girls, their men and women what flag-waving meant and what it stood for.

It was not his intention that night to say anything about the naval bill. Mr. Borden was able to deal with the question. He knew well enough if the people of B. C. had to settle the question it would have been adjusted and the much needed battleships provided for the first line of defence. A hint would have been enough for them. He was quite satisfied that when the people of Canada viewed the problem in the imperial way that it deserved, there would be a stronger voice behind Mr. Borden than there was at the last election. (Cheers.)

If the old country had not been strong when Canada was weak where would Canada have been? (Voice, "Nowhere.") Well he would not attempt to qualify that answer. Everyone knew who had the slightest knowledge of their history that in season and out of season the old country had been behind them. If there was talk of tremendous development where did they turn for help—to London-town; if some wonderful measure that seem to call for national expansion and dollars and cents were necessary to move it along they were not going to New York, Paris or Berlin, they went to London.

Always to London.

The same thing applied when a city council wanted money for some deserving public work, they went to London where the treasure house was guarded by his majesty's fleet. When they were so ready to go there for financial aid they should be equally prepared to do their part by helping in the protection of the treasureship. It might afford Sir George Ross some satisfaction to know that the Liberal convention at Revelstoke had approved of what he had done, but he would guarantee that outside of that convention they would not find a corporal's gard in B. C. that would back him up in the lead he took. (Cheers.)

Election Possible.

He did not know what the premier of Canada's plan might be, possibly a general election. If it were, then this section of Canada would answer well and without the slightest hesitation. He could say to the premier just as soon as the call to arms came that they were prepared to send him a solid phalanx in support of his naval bill as they had done in the anti-reciprocity campaign.

Sir Richard then sketched the history of the Conservative administration from its entry into power in 1903, when the treasury was empty, the papers full of notices of tax sales and people who were able ready to take the first steamer away from B. C. None of the chartered banks would lend them a dollar. At the first election the Conservative party went in by a small majority of two. The leadership of the party was by no means an easy position. They had to increase taxation, cut down public works, make drastic economies in the civil service and do everything they could to restore B. C. in the credit of the financial world. Unless they had the confidence of the capitalists their bounteous, beautiful country, with its unrivalled forests, fisheries the wonder of the world, were worthless. They left nothing undone to rehabilitate themselves on the money market. Look at the change now. The credit of B. C. stood very high indeed. He was too loyal a Canadian to ask them to believe it was in advance of their sister provinces. He wanted to see them all at the top notch. They need not be ashamed of their own province. If they had anything legitimate they need not hesitate to go to London town. They would get a proper reception.

After getting the country upon a strong and business like footing they looked over the configuration of the country and the conclusion was quickly arrived at that transportation was her urgent need. Unless they had more railway trunk roads the benefits of the country could never be enjoyed as they deserved. An increased railway policy was at once inaugurated. No precaution was omitted to ensure that when the railroad was built B. C. would have an asest of the highest efficiency.

An Efficient Railway.

He was in a position to tell them that night that when the C.N.R. was completed from ocean to ocean, throughout B. C., they would have the advantage of a line in point of transportation which no other line crossing the continent of America had.

It was the advent of the C. N. R. that moved the C. P. R. to double its tracks from the eastern limit of B.C. to tide water. They had every assurance that within the next few years Sir William Mackenzie would be making provision to double his tracks. On the invitation of the C.N.R., he had enjoyed a trip from New Westminster to Spuzzum and next September they would be able to go from tide water to within 100 miles of the Thompson. Early next spring they would have the steel laid from ocean to ocean. That was what the assistance of B. C. to the C. N. R. had effected.

He could go this far without the slightest question that without cost to the province the government by following its railway policy had helped the C.N.R. in one of the greatest national undertakings in the Dominion of Canada. They never heard a Liberal crowing about the bargain Sir Wilfrid Laurier made with the Grand Trunk Pacific. He could not say how bad a bargain it was, but it amused him to read of their Liberal friends at Revelstoke lamenting over the B.C. government's railway policy. He read it was unanimously condemned by the followers of Sir Wilfrid, the man who made the rottenest railway bargain ever placed on the statute books of Canada. So long as this government had enemies of that kind they could rest assured that they had the confidence of the honest and fearless people of this country. A word more on their policy. They had not to put up one dollar and they never would have to, as a result of their railway policy. If the people of B.C. had to take over the C.N.R. tomorrow they would not need to hold it 24 hours. All the other lines were grasping for it. It was the best built and most profitable line in this part of North America. It is being built on the most modern and best engineering methods. The tunnels, grades, ballasting, bridging and all the work incidental to the construction was of the highest possible type. Next year they would have the finished project. If they had any confidence in their country they must have confidence in the railway. B.C. was no place for weak-kneed people. Right on this point one may single out New Westminster wherein and near which a great deal of its operations must be associated with the C.N.R. Port Mann where its shops, roundhouses and other works will be situated. Here in the Royal City they would have passenger and freight accommodation of the very first order. Then again, the city would have the great advantage of being on the main line leading from the city to Vancouver. Even now the most caustic of his Liberal critics, in his heart must admit the city was already feeling some benefit from the railway policy of the government, but it was nothing to what the future would bring with the C. N. R. express trains carrying in more people, more business, giving them a competing line, providing B. C. with an alternative line across the Rocky mountains.

Competition Necessary.

He was ready to admire the C.P.R. for the work they had done and were doing. Sir Thomas Shaughnessy was one of Canada's great captains of industry and a great imperialist and he enjoyed his personal friendship. It was the old story. Useful as the C. P. R. was and had been in their transportation and development, they would never enjoy what they were entitled to in this regard unless they had competition—and competition was better for the C. P. R. It might be an accident but while they were building branch lines in Alberta, Saskatchewan, Manitoba, Ontario and Quebec, B. C. had always been left to the last. It was gratifying to know that, not only were they double tracking their line, but they were building from Golden to Crow's Nest, 180 miles long.

They might possibly give New Westminster another line. They were also building extensions in Alberni and Comox and a $2,000,000 station at Vancouver. They would have also a better station at New Westminster.

Land for Settlers.

Turning to the land policy of the government, Sir Richard defended it vigorously from the untrue criticisms of the Liberal press. As soon as they had trails, schools and other conveniences ready for them millions of acres would be thrown open to settlers. It would be a crime for the government to induce people to rush in at present. He dwelt upon the services of Hon. W. R. Ross in this connection. Dr. Young had reviewed the educational matters so ably that he merely touched upon them. He also paid a high compliment to the honest conscientiousness of the city member, Mr. Gifford, and his other supporters and colleagues on the platform.

The people of B. C. had ten years of Conservative administration and they could take it as a guarantee for the next ten years. (Cheers.)

The Money Stringency.

Referring to the money stringency, he said a little set back at the present was rather wholesome. The province had never been boomed and he hoped never would be, but there was a disposition to place on the market with perhaps undue haste subdivisions of town and country property.

The programs of development submitted by the provincial and Dominion governments were on a much more elaborate scale than heretofore submitted to the people of this country. They had the money to spend and after all, as Dr. Young said, it was money that counted.

From his desk as minister of mines he was in close contact with mining propositions in B. C. and he prophesied greater development in the future than in the past. There were greater mines in the north than in the south. Possibly before 1913 was out there would be better and busier times in the mining industry.

The premier thanked President Nelson and the people there for the magnificent reception they had given him and their marks of confidence. They would not sit in office one moment longer than they felt they had the confidence of the people. The slightest disposition would make them seek their support in an election. The Liberal party need not bother on that score. They would give them all the elections they could take care of.

Dr. Young, provincial secretary and minister of education, spoke at some length upon the beneficial work of his departments.

A. E. McPhillips addressed the meeting in place of the Hon. Mr. Bowser, absent through indisposition.

GET THE FEVER FROM WASHINGTON

Lobbying in the Senate Is the Latest Charge—Waxes Indignant at Insinuations.

Ottawa, June 2.—"I must protest," said Mr. Meighen in the commons today, "against the too easy access of the lobbyist at Ottawa in recent years. I am told that when the banking bill was in the upper house, the paid solicitor for the Bankers' association sat within the railing, or just without it, and went so far as to interfere with statements which were being made by senators on the floor. It is no wonder the bill came back to us emasculated."

E. MacDonald came to the rescue of the senate and protested against such language. Mr. Clark, of Red Deer, also thought the senate had been unduly attacked and came to the defence of the members of the Red chamber.

E. W. Nesbitt (Oxford) rose indignantly to defend his brother, Wallace Nesbitt, of the charge of being a lobbyist.

"My brother does not stoop to be a lobbyist," he said. "He does not have to. He came here as a lawyer representing the Bankers' association and not to lobby. He was invited by the leader of the senate to take a seat on the floor of the committee room when the bank act was being considered and he would not have been courteous had he refused that invitation."

Mr. Nesbitt added that so far as he himself was concerned, he had never been approached by any lobbyist during the year that he had been a member of the house of commons.

"I don't," he said, "require any protection to keep my skirts clear of lobbyists and I would like to know by whose or what authority the member for Portage circulated such an insult to his fellow members in the house. He should take measures to protect himself."

SESSION CROWDED IN OLD TORONTO

Presbyterian Congress Opens with Enthusiasm—Prominent Ministers Speak.

Toronto, June 2.—Three sessions of the Presbyterian Eucharistic congress culminated tonight in two memorable mass meetings. These were held in Massey hall and Cooke's church, both of which were crowded to excess. The addresses were delivered by Rev. Dr. Murdoch Mackenzie, missionary from Honan; Rev. C. M. Wright, of Fort George; Rev. Dr. C. W. Gordon, of St. Stephen's church, Winnipeg. The attendance during the day steadily increased. At the morning meeting Massey hall was well filled. The interest was even deeper in the afternoon and the applause more frequent. The addresses in all cases are limited in time and during the day none of the speakers exceeded this limit.

During the afternoon addresses were made by Dr. Falconer, principal of Toronto university; Dr. R. Bruce Taylor, of Montreal, minister of what is said to be the wealthiest Presbyterian church in the Dominion; Rev. A. Macgillivray, well known from his connection for many years with the Sunday school work of the church; Rev. R. D. Frazer, editor of the Sunday school papers, and one or two others.

Compliments Press.

Dr. Frazer paid a compliment to the press, volunteering the statement that he was aware there was no metropolitan paper in Canada which could not safely be taken into a Canadian home and that the weekly papers, of which there were 1300 printed in the Dominion, followed closely the lead of the great dailies in this regard.

Principal Falconer in his address made a plea for greater religious freedom and for a willingness to trust the spirit of inquiry. He made the only reference of the day to the matter of church union, when he said, incidentally, that it was the newer thought of the old world which had led men to lay the emphasis on the essentials and to disregard in comparisons the essentials and had them prepare the way for organic unity.

Special prize—Popular Shoe Store, 93 1-3 per cent.

How It Was Done.

Following the announcement of the results, the judges made the following statement:

"The windows were judged on the following basis: (1) effectiveness of display; (2) novelty of ideas shown; (3) selling power of display.

"The judges noted with regret that, with few exceptions, no price tickets were displayed, which, in their opinion, detracts from the selling value of a window."

Secretary Darling of the Progressive association and Secretary Rashleigh of the Business Men's association, accompanied the judges.

Not only did the stores on the main streets show an interest in the competition, but those on Front street and the stores in the outlying districts displayed a keen interest and their windows were given the same consideration.

The Popular Shoe store on Front street gained the highest number of points. They had an excellent display of boots and shoes manufactured in Vancouver, the leather for which was prepared at the Fraser river tannery.

P. Burns and company were awarded 90 per cent and obtained first prize in their class. The display shows a steamer, the hull made out of a brisket of beef. The steamer is six feet long and is in tow of a tug made of a mutton carcass. Both vessels are fitted complete and are made entirely of meat and lard. T. Caine, who prepared the display has previously won trophies with his fine art in meats.

In the Windows.

W. S. Collister and company obtained first prize in class A and was awarded 87 per cent. The window was prettily arranged with drapery, curtains and millinery of their own make.

T. H. Smith, Ltd., who were awarded second prize in the same class obtained 83 per cent. The window was arranged with cushions, setees, drapery, costumes and draped forms.

Reid & McDonald, first prize for clothing stores, were awarded 75 per cent. The window was arranged with a display of Big Horn Brand overalls and a Big Horn head was placed in the centre. Shirts and woollen goods made up the balance of the window.

The Acme Clothing Store, second in this class, had a well arranged window of shirts, overalls and gloves.

J. E. Brown was awarded third place in this class for a well arranged window of woollen sweaters and sweater coats made in Vancouver. Gloves, overalls and clothes also added to the attractiveness of this display.

Up Town.

Matheson & Jacobson, grocers, Sixth street, second prize in section one of class C, had two windows, with a color scheme of green in one and red in the other. Nabob goods made up the green display and Empress jams and preserves, with B. C. Condensed milk, made up the other.

C. A. Welsh obtained third place in section C with his Columbia street window.

D. S. Curtis carried off first prize in section two of class C, with a window of Marb's chocolates.

Ira Reid obtained second in this class with a display of confectionery in one window and local cigars in another.

J. L. Duncan's cigar store was awarded third prize for a display of Beaver cigars with a mounted Beaver adorning the centre of the display.

Two Fine Windows.

T. J. Trapp and company had two excellent windows which won first prize in class D. One window was a display of leather goods prepared at the Fraser River Tannery. A British Columbia white bear and some stuffed pheasants added to the attractiveness. In the other window a Yale gasoline engine, manufactured by the Schnake Machine Works, was the centre of attraction with a display of wire nails, brooms, brass work and stoves, which, with the exception of the brooms, are all manufactured in New Westminster.

Denny & Ross were awarded second prize in this class. They had an excellent display of white enameled furniture in one window, a complete camping outfit in another, with bedding, brass bedsteads, curtains and drapery in the other window.

J. B. Gray, jeweler, was given third place for a showing of cut glass from the rough to the finished article. The process of manufacturing gold rings was also shown.

A display of baby buggies for home products was a source of attraction in Lees Limited. These were not in competition, however. Lees home craft furniture, settes, mattresses and framed pictures won fourth place for this firm.

Many in the List.

Other firms who entered the competition and by so doing assisted in the success of the affair were: New Westminster Co-operative association, Sixth street and Sixth avenue stores; Public Supply Stores, Eighth street; Fraser Valley Meat Market; C. B. Dean; T. A. Mills, T. A. Muir, J. W. Polson; A. Barran; C. A. Welsh, Sixth avenue and Twelfth street; C. Edmondson; West End Hardware Co.; T. ONE RESULT OF M'CARTY'S DEATH

Alberta Methodists Ask Government to Stop Boxing Bouts in the Future.

Medicine Hat, June 2.—After a lengthy discussion of the fatal result attending the McCarty-Pelkey fight in Calgary and expressing the view that a great difference existed between amateur and professional boxing bouts, the Alberta Methodist conference unanimously passed the following resolution today:

Moved by Rev. S. F. Marshall, of Calgary, seconded by Mr. W. H. Clegg, of Edmonton, that in view of our experiences in the province of Alberta in connection with professional boxing bouts, which citizens generally regard as virtual prize fights, we, the members of the Alberta conference of the Methodist church, both ministerial and lay, do most respectfully urge upon the parliament of Canada to amend, at the present session if possible the definition of prize fighting in the criminal code so as to include so-called boxing bouts that have the characteristics usually attendant upon prize fighting, which iis already under the ban of the criminal code.

BALS AND JUICERS TONIGHT

Some Ball Game Slated for This Evening.

The Balmorals and the B. C. E. R. will hitch up for the first time in 1913 on the Queen's Park diamond this evening in the second City league contest. It will be remembered that the Electrics suffered a rather disastrous defeat at the hands of the Moose aggregation last week, but Manager Corbett predicts a close run this evening, not only promising to twirl a nearhitless game himself, but also that his team mates will tighten up in the pinches.

Ken Mallen, who is handling the Bals this year, is in the same optimistic mood and threatens to have the score pasted up on the club house wall, denoting the glorious victory of the Bals and at the same time celebrating the King's birthday.

Mr. Peck, who gave much trouble to Bill Graham's hired help last week, will decorate the mound for Mallen's bunch and by the way he sent them over in his first game he promises to come out strong as one of the hurling finds of the season.

Tonight's game is scheduled to start at 6:45. Six-thirty was the time set by the league magnates, but as several of the players find it impossible to be there at that time of day the fans are informed of the slight change in the program.

On the Business End.

Following are the scores so far this season in the professional lacrosse series:

Lalonde, Vancouver	5
G. Spring, New Westminster	4
W. Turnbull, New Westminster	3
L. Turnbull, New Westminster	2
I. Wintemute, New Westminster	2
Adamson, Vancouver	2
Matheson, Vancouver	2
Feeney, New Westminster	1
Gorman, Vancouver	1
Allen, Vancouver	1

Mid-Week Cricket.

The first mid-week fixture of the season will be staged on the asylum grounds this afternoon, when the local cricket club entertains the Abbotsford eleven. The visitors are an unknown quantity to the Royals, but from all reports, they have been making a hit in the Valley towns, with the result that the yet unbeaten record of the Westminster club will be at stake when stumps are pitched at 1 o'clock today. The following is the lineup selected to represent the Royals: L. H. Miller, E. T. Dunford, V. E. Andrew, A. B. Tigar, Canon d'Easum, C. H. Judd, W. A. Wells, F. A. Rose, T. M. Yeadon, S. Graham, A. N. Other.

SPORT CHATTER.

(By the Potter.)

From the talk around the city yesterday it is up to Tommy Gifford and his brigands to be up and doing next Saturday afternoon.

Red Dohince, the Toronto home player, is still making trouble with the eastern magnates. Just because he was not allowed to trek to New Westminster, "Red" told Fleming where to get off at by turning out with the Cornwall "amateurs." The Queen City people are liable to raise the ante from $25 per week after having lost two straight games with the Irish Canadians.

The Big Four are going to do away with the present system of fining players and revert back to the old style of removing a player from the game should he become unduly rough. The public never appreciated the change, for any time they see a player laying on the hickory they holler their heads off for his removal. Any time that a club manager sees his team two or three men shy through rough work the players will soon be taught to stay on the field.

"Dad" Turnbull comes through with the statement that a medicore player who stays on the field is worth more than a star performer who is continually gracing the penalty bench. And "Dad" should know a thing or two about lacrosse.

With any kind of weather there will be a few thousand Vancouver fans over on Saturday all eager to watch the Salmon Bellies again bite the dust. A few of them might get stung.

It's an even bet that Fred Taylor will not be seen at centre on Saturday afternoon. Jones will probably use Nick Carter on the home, sending back Matheson to centre position.

It should be some battle in Victoria this afternoon when the Capitals and the V. A. C. hitch up for the second time this season. The Islanders are mighty sore over the result of the first game and their manager, Sam Lorimer, is confident that his aggregation can win a game from the Mannuppers without having to take recourse to quitting and filing protests. Aside from the fact that Victoria is out $25 for protesting, they have been taught a lesson that games are won on the field and not in the committee room.

"The gentle art of showing them how" is a book being prepared by the press agent of the Australian cricket team which won three games straight in Victoria last week. Such visits as these will do a world of good.

It should be a pitcher's duel at Queens park this evening when the Balmorals and the Electrics lock horns. Both Corbett and Peck, the opposing slabsmen, have previously shown they have the goods.

Cory Hess will have his peepers open next time he sights Doughy Spring in the act of shooting. Spring's shot on Saturday which laid out Hess bore the earmarks of a net breaker.

Mighty strange that the Vancouver press do not know of a runner who cops several firsts in field sports and who is a resident of the Terminal City. Leggat, according to some, is a New Westminster boy, but many remember his wearing V. A. C. colors at the provincial meet held at Queens park last October. Just the same, the Royal City would like to see him pack his grip and take up his residence here. He is a mighty good runner.

SPORTOGRAPHY.

(By "Gravy.")

TWENTY-FIFTH ANNIVERSARY OF BASEBALL CLASSIC.

Just a quarter of century ago, June 3, 1888, the San Francisco Examiner published some verses entitled "Casey at the Bat." The identity of the author was indicated only by the initials "E.L.T." Dozens of men have since claimed to be the true and rightful creator of the immortal epic of baseball, and scattered over the United States there are almost as many authors of "Casey" as drummer boys of Shiloh.

According to the records of The Examiner, however, the classic poem was submitted to that newspaper by Ernest L. Thayer, of Worcester, Mass., and doubtless his name will go thundering down the corridors of time as the bona fide parent of the mighty "Casey. Other claimants have failed to produce any publication containing "Casey" of an earlier date than The Examiner.

There are 13 stanzas in "Casey at the Bat," but the hoodoo number has certainly not injured the popularity of the poem.

What fan cannot recite right off the reel:

There was east in Casey's manner as he stepped into his place;
There was pride in Casey's bearing and a smile on Casey's face.
And when, responding to the cheers,
he lightly doffed his hat,
No stranger in the crowd could doubt
'twas Casey at the bat.

And this:

Ten thousands eyes were on him as he rubbed his hands with dirt;
Five thousand tongues applauded when he wiped them on his shirt;
Then while the writhing pitcher
ground the ball into his hip,
Defiance gleamed in Casey's eye, a sneer curled Casey's lip.
Then tragedy, deep and dark:
Oh! somewhere in this favored land
the sun is shining bright,
The band is playing somewhere and somewhere hearts are light,
And somewhere men are laughing and somewhere children shout:
But there is no joy in Mudville—mighty Casey has struck out.

"DIGGER" STANLEY LOSES BANTAM TITLE

Bill Beynon Wins Decision After Twenty Rounds—$2500 and Lord Lonsdale Belt.

London, June 2.—Bill Beynon won the English bantam championship from Digger Stanley, holder of the title, tonight. The fight, which was before the National Sporting club, went 20 rounds, Beynon winning the decision.

Eddie Morgan, the fast little champion of Wales, was scheduled to fight Stanley, but illness prevented him from appearing and Beynon took his place.

The contest was for a purse of $2500 and the Lord Lonsdale belt.

PUGILISTIC ANNALS.

1907—Sam Langford knocked out Jeff Thorne in third round at London.

1912—"Knockout" Brown, press-agented as one of the pugilistic wonders of the world on a very slender basis of achievement, was on this date bumped off his pedestal as the pride of Manhattan, Dr. Leach Cross, the Hebrew dentist doing the bumping. It was a great night, the Germans turning out to boost for Brown, while the Jews were equally enthusiastic for Cross. "Knockout" was outclassed for most of the ten rounds.

1912—Jem Driscoll knocked out Jean Poesy in 12th round at London.

HE GOT WHAT WAS COMING TO HIM

Young Seattle Woman, Alone in House with Children, Shoots Her Tormentor.

Seattle, June 2.—Mrs. Jennie Perry, 19 years old, wife of a cook on the steamship Senator, shot and killed Louis Perrica, aged 25, a Portuguese cook on the steamship Spokane, when Perrica entered the Perry home and attacked her tonight. When Perrica demanded admission Mrs. Perry told him to go away as her husband was not home, having sailed for Nome, Alaska, yesterday on the Senator. Perrica forced his way into the house and, seizing a pair of scissors, threatened to kill Mrs. Perry.

Pursued by Perrica, she fled into a bedroom where her three children, ranging in age from nine months to three years, were sleeping and, seizing a pistol shot the man four times. Mrs. Perry is held in the city jail. She was permitted to take the children to jail with her.

NO QUIBBLING ON SERIOUS CHARGE

Judges Go on Facts in Deciding Appeal of Italian White Slave Trafficker.

Toronto, June 2.—A judgment of considerable importance in connection with the suppression of the white slave traffic was given today by the appellate division at Osgoode Hall, when it dismissed a reversed case presented on behalf of Frank Salvino, from Judge Fitch. Salvino was convicted last October at Fort Frances on a charge of procuring a young girl in Eveleth, Minn., to come to Canada for immoral purposes.

For the prisoner it was urged that, as the procuring, if any, took place in the United States, it was outside the jurisdiction of the Canadian courts. This was dismissed, the court holding that the procuring was a continuing offense and might start for the purpose of the prosecution at the Canadian border.

Two letters from a man in Calgary, an agent of the trafficker, were held rightly admissable, though they had been received by Salvino in the United States.

Now It's More Pay.

Ottawa, June 2.—The Evening Citizen says: The movement to secure an increased indemnity this season, for members of the house is in full swing, but no decision is yet announced. If anything is done it will be in the form of a bonus rather than a straight increase. Owing to the length of the session $1000 is being aagitated for and the round robin is largely signed. The senate will not be in on the grant. "We have not decided the matter, but I should say the outlook is not unfavorable," said one of the ministers today.

UNITE TO MAKE MONTREAL DRY

Roman Catholic and Protestant Temperance Advocates Will Link to Fight Liquor Interests.

Montreal, June 2.—The French Catholic Temperance leagues under the direction of the Anti-Alcoholic league, at the head of which is Judge Lefontaine, will hold a meeting Wednesday night next to formulate plans to unite with the Dominion alliance branch in this city, to bring about a vote on the question of making Montreal a prohibition town.

The plans for the campaign will be formulated at a joint meeting of the two organizations to be held shortly.

Temperance advocates say Montreal has become a stronghold of the liquor interests and it is here the fight must be waged, especially as the crusade has met with such success throughout the other parts of Quebec. Liquor interests are getting active and a strenuous fight is expected. There is great jubilation in temperance camps over the action of the French section in calling out so strongly for a "dry town."

A Cheap Marine Telescope.

Make an oblong narrow box out of four pieces of quarter inch board about two feet long by sixteen inches wide, and fit a piece of clear, clean glass across one end, held in place by brass headed tacks driven into the wood and overlapping the glass. Fill all the cracks with sealing wax to keep out the light. Then plunge the glass end two or three inches into the water and look through the open end. This simple marine telescope is made on the principle of the more elaborate glasses through which to look at the famous gardens under the sea near the Catalina islands.—Christian Herald.

Soaking Salt Fish.

There is a wrong as well as a right way to freshen salt mackerel and other salt fish. Those who are familiar with evaporation processes know that salt falls to the bottom. Now, if you place your mackerel with the skin side down in the pan the salt falls to the skin and remains there. If placed with the flesh side down the salt falls to the bottom of the pan, and the mackerel is freshened by the soaking in water, as it should be.

The Scholar.

Dr. Evans, a witty member of the parliament at Melbourne, was an old man, and the other members jokingly spoke of him as belonging to the era of Queen Anne.

Once while making a speech he referred to Queen Anne and was greeted with cries of "Did you know her? What was she like?"

"Yes, sir," retorted the doctor, "I did know her. The scholar is contemporary with all time"

Going to an Expert.

When the butcher answered the telephone the shrill voice of a little girl greeted him:

"Hello! Is this Mr. Wilson?"

"Yes, Bessie," he answered kindly "What can I do for you?"

"Oh, Mr Wilson, please tell me where grandpa's liver is! The folks are out and I've got to put a hot flannel on it, and I don't know where it is."—Ladies' Home Journal.

Putting It Up to Him.

"Patience is a virtue," said the man philosophically.

"True," replied his wife, who thought he ought to be earning more money "And I'll provide the patience for this family if you'll only provide the hustle."—Detroit Free Press.

Borrowing Trouble.

"Ever since his wife has brought suit for divorce he has looked terribly worried."

"He oughtn't to worry; she'll probably get it."—Houston Post.

A judicious silence is always better than truth spoken without charity.—De Saies.

DOG BITES, MEALS AND OTHER THINGS

Judge Howay Has Varied Assortment Before Him in County Court Yesterday.

His honor Judge Howay presided in the county court yesterday and adjudicated on several cases.

Evidence was heard in the action by the Canadian Manufacturing, Importing and Distributing company, Vancouver, against J. Meiss, New Westminster, for business books, sold and delivered.

The defence was that the books were not up to expectation and unsatisfactory and he refused to take them. Judgment was deferred. Defendant conducted his case in person.

Gus Larsen, restauranteur, New Westminster, sued the Columbia Bitulithic company for the sum of $137.65, moneys alleged to have been received by defendant for plaintiff. The plaintiff's claim was for boarding a number of laborers.

Defendants denied liability and said that plaintiff had entered into an arrangement with a firm of the name of Philpot & Jeffries, who were responsible for the debt.

Although the case was down for trial, plaintiff made no appearance and evidently his counsel had no instructions.

The court took the view that if plaintiff was so careless of his own interests he could not expect the court to be indulgent. He had not complied with the order of the court to supply particulars, therefore he would treat the case as derelict and strike it out.

Questions Right.

In the action by the Butler Lumber company, Belleville, Wash., against the Walsh Sash & Door Factory, New Westminster, for a sum of $400, plaintiffs had assigned their claim to the Salt Lumber company, Vancouver.

Mr. Adam Johnston raised the point for the defence that plaintiffs were an unlicensed firm doing business in Canada and had no title to sue.

Plaintiffs' counsel rejoined that that special defence had not been raised in the defendants' dispute note and it could not be raised now.

The court ruled that, according to a decision of the appeal court, it could be raised at any time. There was no evidence before him that the contract services alleged were performed in Canada or the United States or partly in both. He would let the case stand over for a week to allow of affidavits on the point.

If the specific acts were performed in Canada plaintiff must have a license, not so if they were performed wholly in the United States.

Judgment for $200.

Judge Howay has given judgment in the suit by Charles M. Young, farmer, Chilliwack, against J. W. Derby, police officer, Chilliwack, for $200 and costs. The action was for illegal arrest and malicious prosecution and the damages sued for were $2500.

In a counter claim for damages by defendant on account of a bite from plaintiff's dog, Derby was awarded $50 and costs.

The grounds of plaintiff's claim were that he was arrested and detained for an hour in the police station at Chilliwack until he bailed himself out, in connection with a charge of keeping a vicious dog, that the charge had been dismissed by the magistrate and that he had thus suffered from annoyance, loss of time and loss of reputation.

ANCIENT SCHOONER COSTS U.S. BIG SUM

Canadian Claims $1,634,000 for Boat Worth $5,000 Seized Before War of 1812.

Toronto, June 2.—Over one hundred years ago a suit was brought against the United States government regarding a British-owned schooner, Lord Nelson, which had been seized just before the war of 1812 had commenced and used against the British. A settlement had been arranged and the money paid into court, but one of the officials, Theron Rudd, absconded with all the court funds, and the claimants never received their money.

The legality of the claim has been admitted from time to time, but it has never been paid. At the present time the case is before the international tribunal at Washington, and desptatches state that the claim will soon be paid in full. The amount of the original claim was $5,000, less $183, with interest at 6 per cent, compounded from 1812. Figured on a basis of 100 years the claim would now amount to about $1,634,408.

The suit now being pressed is in name of Mr. Henry James Bethune, a legal representative of the estate of the late Mon. James Crooks, whose grandson, Mr. A. D. Crooks, has been instrumental in bringing the case before the tribunal.

The memorial as prepared for the tribunal contains an interesting historical recital of the case. It is as follows:—

The Claim.

"This is a claim for $5,000 and interest from the 5th of June, 1812, arising from the wrongful seizure of the schooner Lord Nelson, at that date.

"The schooner Lord Nelson was jointly owned by James and William Crooks, British subjects, resident at the Niagara peninsula in the province of Ontario.

"The said Henry James Bethune, who is a British subject and resides at Watertown, in the province of Ontario, is the surviving legal representative of Robert H. Bethune, who was the surviving administrator of the estate of the Honorable James Crooks, one of the claimants, who was the executor of his brother, William Crooks, the other claimant.

"While plying her ordinary trade on Lake Ontario the Lord Nelson was seized by the brig Oneida, commanded by Lieutenant Woolsey, of the United States navy, on the 5th of June, 1812, nearly two weeks before the declaration of war between Great Britain and the United States.

"She was taken by him into Sackett's harbor in the state of New York, and on the 26th of August, at the suit of the United States government, was libeled in the district court of the United States of America for the district of New York, and afterwards a decree was made ordering the vessel to be sold and the proceeds to be brought into court to abide the event of a suit.

"The vessel, after seizure, was acquired by the United States navy, and turned into a war vessel and used against Great Britain in the war.

Sold for $2,999.

"The price paid for the vessel was $2,999.25, a price which was thelow her value, as was shown by subsequent investigation and report made by the navy department, which fixed the value of the vessel, exclusive of cargo, at $5,000.

"The United States government did not bring the libel to trial until the 11th July, 1817, when a decree was made by the court of the northern district of New York, pronouncing the seizure illegal, and directing the proceeds of the sale to be paid to Mr. Crooks.

"In the meantime Theron Rudd, the clerk of the court, had on May 17th 1817, absconded with all the funds of the court, and no part thereof was paid to the owners of the Lord Nelson.

"This claim has been constantly presented to the United States government and congress since the year 1815, and has at different times received the approval of the executive, the senate and the house of representatives, and numerous committees of both houses have reported favorably upon it. It has been twice recommended to the favorable consideration of congress in messages from the president—first by President Monroe in 1819, and second by President Cleveland, who, on the 1st of April, 1886 (49th congress, first session), recommended the claim to the favorable consideration of congress.

Illegal Seizure Admitted.

"The illegality of the seizure has been affirmed by the United States courts.

"The value of the vessel has been fixed by a tribunal apopinted under the direction of the house of representatives, and the amount, $5,000, was arrived at after a full investigation.

"The amount claimed, as stated, is $5,000 and interest from the date of seizure.

"The last report in favor of the claim is the one above referred to, and was submitted by the honorable Senator Daniel from the committee on foreign affairs, January 29th, 1900.

"The whole case is stated in a few lines that will be found in the report above referred to, viz.:

"There is no room for doubt that the vessel was illegally seized and taken possession of and used for the purpose of the United States government and that the owners, who are presented by the present claimants, have never received any pay for the vessel."

TWO YEAR CHASE ENDS IN CAPTURE

Austrian Interpreter Falls Foul of Imperial Bank—Traced to Port Arthur

Calgary, June 2.—After a search lasting almost two years, the Calgary police have caused the arrest of William Shasta, on a charge of forgery, and Detective Shoeppe left at midnight last night for Edmonton to bring the prisoner back to Calgary for trial.

The alleged forgery occured in Calgary on August 3, 1911. Shasta is an Austrian, and acted as interpreter for his countrymen, one of whom, Alec Lastiwka, had a deposit of $100 in the Imperial Bank of Canada's Edmonton branch. This deposit, with interest, amounted to $103.80. Lastiwaka wanted to withdraw the money went to the Calgary branch of the bank, and, presenting his bank book asked for a transfer of the funds Shasta acted as his interpreter.

The bank's Calgary manager sent through a draft for the funds, and in due time, the $103.80 was transferred to the local bank. Then Shasta presented himself to the manager, representing himself as Lastiwaka, and received a cashier's check for the amount. He endorsed Lasitwaka's name to the check, according to the complaint, and received the money.

A few days afterward, it is said Lastiwaka came to the bank and asked for his money. Then the fact that the money had been paid to the wrong person was disclosed, and a warrant sworn out for Shasta's arrest.

Shasta, in the meantime had disappeared, and the local detectives traced him to Port Arthur. He left Port Arthur, however, before he could be arested, and for a year his whereabouts were unknown. A few days ago he turned up in Edmonton and was arested. Detective and prisoner will arrive in Calgary at 10 o'clock this evening.

Southern Albertan Farmers Want a Chance at Indian Reserve

Lethbridge, Alta., June 2.—For a long time there has been a movement on foot to have the 350,000 acres of the most fertile land of Southern Alberta, known as the Blood Reserve, thrown open to the farmers of the south. The answer has always been that this could not be without the unanimous consent of the Indians

But heretofore the government has always leased a large portion of the reserve to ranchers, receiving therefore about one cent per annum per acre. At present, McKeown & Co hold the lease and have sub-let it to Gordon, Ironsides and Fares, the Winnipeg cattle dealers. It was on this tract of land that the Winnipeg firm ran a herd of several thousand Mexican steers a couple of years ago.

The lease expires in July next. The farmers in the vicinity of the reserve border desire that the lease be not renewed on expiry. They wish to have the privilege of leasing small tracts for farming and ranching purposes, and would be willing to pay from five to eight cents per acre per annum.

About 300,000 acres of the land are available for this purpose. There are few Indians now on the reserve, and even though some thousands of acres were leased there would still be plenty of room. Memorials are being prepared by the farmers of the district which will be forwarded to the department of Indian affairs, setting forth the above facts.

Hon. Duncan Marshall will also be memorialized, the farmers seeking his aid in the movement. The Indians are said to have held meetings when the disadvantages of the big lease were explained to them, and have declared in favor of the small leases.

Cattle Swim Mile.

Creston, B. C., June 2.—A number of cattle remained on the high parts of the Kootenay flats until surrounded by water. They had to be roped and taken off by the owners in boats, some of the animals having to swim over a mile.

A REFUGE FOR BIRDS

MISS MARSHALL SAUNDERS HAS A COLONY OF HER OWN.

Authoress Tells of Her Adventures in the Care of Feathered Pets and Pleads For Better Protection For Birds In Canada—Nova Scotia Prohibits the Keeping of Native Birds In Cages.

As a member of the Audubon Society, I do not believe in aviaries, except for scientific purposes, says Marshall Saunders, the widely-known Canadian authoress in Canadian Courier. Mine is rather a bird refuge. I rarely buy birds, unless they are in a distressed condition. When a native bird is brought to me, sick, wounded, or deserted, I doctor it, and, if possible, let it go when restored to health.

However, sometimes they won't go. My six fat robins, and my one tiny song sparrow, who follows me about like a little dog, would be very much hurt, if I put them out in the cold world. So I avail myself of the permit granted me by the Government, and let them stay amid the luxuries of civilized bird life.

Our excellent Nova Scotian provincial law forbids the capture or keeping in captivity of any native bird. I wish there could be all over Canada an equally kind law forbidding the importation of foreign wild birds, such as English larks, bullfinches, goldfinches, linnets and others that suffer untold torture in coming here. One sees them in tiny cages, piled one above the other in bird stores in Canadian cities, biting the bars of their cages, chirping their plaintive protests, and eating and drinking in misery of heart. There are a few persons who manage to keep these foreigners for some time in cages. Usually they die within a year.

A baker here in Halifax bought a bullfinch for which he paid, I think, three dollars.

"It won't live," I said. "I have hard work to keep these foreigners, even in my aviary."

He bought me the bird, and I gave him a canary. "Here," I said, is a domesticated bird. I let you have it, because you assure me you will keep it in a very large cage with other birds."

Then I went down to the bird store, and finding another bullfinch, bought it. For a few weeks, the two birds had a happy time flying about the aviary, then they died. I went back to the bird store, and said to the kind-hearted man who keeps it, "When I was last in Boston, I asked a man in the largest bird store there, why he had so few foreign birds, and so many canaries. He answered that the foreigners all died soon, and his customers were dispeased. Canaries are used to cage life, and live longer, and sing better than any foreigners he could import."

When I told this to our Halifax man, he said, "I shall import no more bullfinches."

Here is work for humane individuals and societies all over Canada—protest against the importation of any bird that is miserable in captivity.

Birds that we may look upon as semi-domesticated are the Australian parakeets, that used to be caught as they fed in large flocks on the seeds of tall grasses growing on the plains of Australia. Now they are raised in aviaries in Germany. I had a few of these birds, who gladly exchanged cage life for flight about my long basement aviary, and up the well to the big cage on the roof, where they have thirty-two feet by fifteen of sunshine. For a nesting place, they chose a hole in the ceiling of the basement aviary. There on the rough boards, they brought out young parakeets until, with others given to me, I finally found I had twenty. They amused themselves for a time in their partly natural surroundings of earth floor, shrubs, and small trees, then these youngsters having no housekeeping duties waxed mischievous.

They chose for victims, not my canaries nor the cardinals, pigeons, rabbits, the bantam hen who lives with the birds, nor our different dogs, who run in and out of the aviary, but a numerous family of ring-doves. The gentle dove of song and story is, of course, a fiction. Doves are the prize-fighters of the bird world, always slapping and banging each other between times of billing and cooing, and looking like angels. My oldest pair used to fight and overcome a purple gallinule, but they in turn were mastered by these parakeets. The little green rogues would fly swiftly to the doves heads, nibble the feathers, and fly away again. A sitting dove had a bad time, for she could not shake them off. The parakeets did not eat the feathers—I take care that they have a varied food supply—they simply nibbled until they wore bare spots. Finally I shut the doves in a part of the aviary by themselves, but they moped and became ill, so I let them out again to their great delight. They had missed the other birds, showing that, like us, they are fond of company, and would rather have a few troubles than be bored to death.

One young dove flew straight to the box of a big, white fantail pigeon, went in it, and the two have become a faithful and loving pair. I clipped the wing of the worst Australian, and watch the others, frequently taking away a dove that is too much set upon, so on the whole both doves and parakeets get on about as comfortably as most human beings do. Uninterrupted bliss does not fall to the lot of birds any more than it does to human beings.

Birds are very like ourselves—bullies and saints, and no one all good, and no one all bad. Environment counts, and heredity counts, and brother and sister birds are sometimes as far apart as the poles in their respective dispositions. They are an intensely interesting study, and the more one learns about them, the more one wants to know.

MUST HAVE MONEY.

Calgary Will Sell Another Issue Shortly—Notes Maturing.

Calgary, June 2.—To enable the city to keep the work going continuously so as to have as much of the large amount done during the summer it will be necessary to go into the money market with some more bonds very shortly. The treasury at present will probably be sufficient for another month according to the officials at the city hall.

As well as providing the coin for the work in the hand the city will have two lots of treasury bills maturing this year, one issue for $875,000 on October 1. The latter of these issues has been renewed once and bears interest at 5½ per cent.

The issue made a few days ago netted the city in round figures $1,892,000, and if the bills were sold at par the cost to the city, including interest for raising this loan wil lbe $54,304.46.

After clearing up its outstanding abligations there will be about $1,000,000 left and the city has now 1,500 men at work on public improvements.

The next meeting of the finance committee will probably be concerned with putting some of the bonds to carry out bylaws, which have been passed this year, on the market, as it is generally conceded in civic circles that such action is now necessary to ensure continuity of work on this year's program.

YELLOW MEN POUR IN DESPITE HATRED

Certain Class in California Anxious They Should Remain as Check on Labor Unions.

Boston, June 1.—The case of the Japanese in California is set forth by Mr. Yone Noguchi, in the Boston Transcript. He cites many instances of persecution of the Japanese at the hands of the Americans and declares that the desire of the people of California appears to be to get rid of their little brown brethren, a deduction that can hardly be questioned.

One point he makes, however, is a new one. He says that the almost universal opinion of these Japanese in the United States is that the imperial government of Japan is willing to sacrifice them to maintain friendly relations with the United States government. Therefore, he does not look with any confidence to Tokio for redress of the grievances of the Japanese.

His idea is that if help is come it is to come from the people of the United States, and particularly the people of the eastern states who know little or nothing about the prejudices of the Californians against the Japs. Similarly fifty years ago the negroes looked to that part of the country where there was no slavery for release from their bondage.

Not a Recent Prejudice.

At the beginning of his argument Mr. Noguchi says that before he left Japan for the United States he had been warned by his friends that he was entering among enemies. That is more than twenty years ago, so it is plain that for a generation the people of California have been hostile to the Japanese, and for reasons that have been so often cited that they need not now be repeated.

In spite of this hostility the Japanese have kept pouring into the United States in increasing numbers. Nor have they come welcomed. As the writer says, they have heard in Japan the loud invitations of the American fruit growers and other capitalists who desired cheap Japanese labor. They have been told that the hostility to the Japanese is confined to a few politicians and the people of the low class, and that by the good people in the United States the Japanese are esteemed and desired at citizens.

It is fair to the Japanese to say that most of them have not come uninvited, and that a certain class in California is very anxious that they should remain, as they constitute a check on the undue exactions of labor unions.

Want to Be Good Americans.

Mr. Noguchi reports with mingled feelings of indignation and astonishment that the popular sentiment regarding the Japanese was not altered by the war with Russia, so far as California is concerned. However, the Japanese opinion of themselves was very materialy altered and improved, and after the war the Japs were inclined to bear themselves with less humility, and no doubt the United States government was inclined to pay more attention to any injustices they might receive from a state.

He says that the Japanese desire to become American citizens and that the complaint that they are not American citizens comes from people who would not permit them to become such. They desired to take part in honoring Washington's birthday and the Fourth of July, but their presence was not welcomed by the Americans. So in self-defence they were driven to associate with each other, and so there developed a Japanese colony, which is now denounced by the Americans who forced it into existence.

It was in 1901 that the first outrage against the Japanese and Chinese citizens of California was perpetrated, says Mr. Noguchi. A case supposed to be bubonic plague was discovered in Chinatown, San Francisco. At once there was tremendous excitement. The whole foreign quarter was put under a sort of military law.

It was shut up and fenced about with barbed wire. Sentries were mounted, and no Chinaman or Japanese was allowed to go in or out, although white people were permitted to do so. The difficulty of getting vegetables about almost drove some of the population to starvation, especially after the Southern Pacific railroad had been instructed to refuse all goods sent by or to Japanese. The pretext was that the plague might thus be spread.

The fact is that there was no plague at all, the sickness of the line Chinaman having been seized upon as an excuse for harrying the foreigners by the politicians and by the medical health office for the purpose of getting larrer appropriations.

He mentioned the case of a steamship that stopped at Honolulu on her way to San Francisco. The white ladies on board were passed by the glance, but some Japanese ladies were stripped and subjected to unheard of examination. This outrage, however, was apologized for at Washington, and the zealous inspectors were dismissed.

GET KING'S MEDALS.

Premier Roblin Hands Out Decorations to Winnipeg Police.

Winnipeg, June 2.—In the presence of 225 as fine men as could be gathered together, many of whom he at one time commanded in the capacity of chief of police, John McRae was decorated with the king's medal by Sir Rodmond Roblin at Victoria park. Ex-Constable Brown, who was awarded a similar medal for his share in the arrest of Kelly and Jones, the two notorious criminals who terrorized the northeastern portion of Winnipeg until their apprehension, was similarly decorated.

Chief of Police Macpherson was given one of the medals to present to the widow of William Patrick Taylor, who participated in the gun fight at the arrest of Kelly and Jones and received serious wounds in the affray which, as the premier said, so undermined his constitution that he was unable to withstand the ravages of the virulent fever to which he succumbed but two weeks before he was to have been officially honored by his majesty the king.

Ex-Chief McRae was decorated for his long and efficient service as chief of the local department.

HOW GRIEG WROTE PEER GYNT MUSIC

Went Away Removed From Sight of Men Surrounded by Mountains and Sea

Copenhagen, June 2.—In the Copenhagen theatrical newspaper Teakret Mrs. Nina Greig, the widow of the composer, describes how he wrote the music to "Peer Gynt."

"One lovely day came a letter from Isben asking whether Greig would co-operate in putting "Peer Gynt" on the stage. Grieg was taken aback, for he could not imagine a performance of a work so philosphical and so strongly imbued with Isben's scepticism.

"For several days he went about in a nervous, restless state, in great doubt and anxiety as to the heavy task, but the more he saturated his mind with the powerful poem the more clearly he saw that he was the right man for a work of such wild witchery and so permeated with the Norweigian spirit.

"And so, at last, he girded himself up for the task, and longed to have a go at it. But where could he find a workroom to suit him? Finally, in the same surburb of Sandviken, outside Bergen, he found a pavillion, with windows on every side, high up on a hill, far removed from the sight of men and a magnificent view of the sea on one side and of the mountains on the other.

" 'Solveig's first song' was the first thing to see the light, and then 'Ase's Death.' I shal never forget the bright clear summer evening up there on the mountain as we sang and played together for the first time, Solveig's song. Greig himself smiled, well pleased at the song, and called it a 'public lamp,' and there he was right, for wherever Greig's name is known it was this song—and of course 'Ich libe dich' as well—that first made it known.

Peasants Song

"We had a clear proof of this when stayin gone spring in a hotel on the Semmering pass in Lower Austria, we were sitting one evening in the coffee room when in came a number of peasants with their zithers, and before we had time to turn around they were singing and playing Solveig's song.

"Grieg himself considered 'Ase's Death' the mourning music and Solveig's last song to be his best work. Autumn came and Greig much wanted to show some sign of gratitude to the old man who had so hospitably lent him his house and asked him if he might dedicate the music to him but the old man implored him for Heaven's sake not to put him in the pillory.

"Time passed, and the composition was done, but the instrumental part had to be accomplished. On one of our summer holidays in Denmark one of our friends at Fredensborg had lent us a house with rustic idyllic rooms and with an outlook over the Gerom Lake. In these simple surroundings Grieg lived while finishing the music.

"An old friend of mine who often passed by our window and saw Greig bending over his work, once remarked rather naively to me: 'You may be very glad my little friend you have got a husband like that, who sits from morning to night over his world instead of going to the club and playing cards."

P. A. THOMAS

Famous Coal Magnate—Plans Merger in British Columbia.

Merritt, B. C., June 2.—Resultant from the visit here last week of D. A. Thomas, a Welsh coal magnate, employing over 50,000 men, consolidation or merger of various large interests ensuring ample capital for development purposes and economy of operation may be effected. Mr. Thomas has now gone on a detailed inspection of various Vancouver Island coal properties.

Mr. Thomas is the most extensive individual coal mining operator in Europe, and is regarded as a world authority on the coal trade. He recently effected the consolidation of 20 Welsh pits as the Cambrian Consolidated Limited, with a capital of $10,000,000 and an output of 12,000,000 tons a year. He is chairman and managing director of that corporation.

NEW ISLAND PORT.

Engineer Examines Possibilities of Cowichan River.

Duncan, June 2.—Mr. J. S. MacLachlan, district engineer for the Dominion government at Victoria at the instigation of Mr. W. H. Hayward, visited here last week in order to enquire into the possibility of so dredging the Cowichan river as to make it possible for vessels to come to Duncan from tidewater.

The engineer was taken over the ground and at the conclusion of his inspection expressed himself as favorably impressed with the possibility of the scheme. He will send up a surveyor shortly to make a survey of the river from tidewater to the city limits and as soon as this is done will make a report to the board of trade giving estimates of the cost of the work if it is deemed advisable to further consider it.

FURTHEST WEST.

Island Civic Authorities Plan Invasion of Alberni.

Victoria, June 2.—Both Port Alberni and Alberni will be invaded by a large party representing every other island and other island centre of importance on June 11 if the plans now being outlined by Mr. Ernest McGaffey, secretary of the Vancouver Island Development League, are carried through successfully.

Mr. McGaffey said yesterday that all that was lacking in the arrangements now was the concluding of an understanding with the E. N. Railway company as to transportation. He has had a consultation with Mr. L. D. Chetham, local city passenger agent, and is confident that it will be possible to obtain the facilities sought. On this point he expects to be in a position to make a definite announcement in a day or two.

Acceptances of invitations extended the mayor and aldermen of Victoria and Nanaimo have been received. It is confidently expected that the officials of Duncan, Ladysmith and Cumberland will join hands in the effort to make the trip what it is hoped it will prove in point of enjoyment, the instruction received as to the resources and attractions of the west coast cities, and the development of a fraternal spirit that will have results in more wholehearted co-operation.

While the schedule is not yet available it is understood that the travelers will have at least a day of leisure at the west coast communities. Just how these will be spent cannot be said, but that there will be an expedition to Grand Central lake and to other points of interest in the district is assured.

Chasing Crown Jewels.

The mystery of the crown jewels which disappeared from Dublin Castle a few years ago, has never been cleared up. There are many people who have decided views on the subject, anl prominent among them is Mr. Laurence Ginnell, the Nationalist member for Westmeath.

Mr. Ginnell maintains that he possesses sufficient information to dissolve the mystery once and for all. On several occasions he made valiant attempts to induce the House of Commons to hear his views on the subject. Solemnly he arises, and members guess what is coming. Mr. Ginnell informs the House that he is in a position to make shocking revelations, and just as he is getting into his stride it is discovered that most of the members have disappeared, and the House is counted out. 'Tis very strange, and curious-minded people outside the House would like to see Mr. Ginnell given a free hand to probe the mystery. The member for Westmeath declares that the jewels could be recovered at any time, and a great scandal is being hushed up to save persons in high places. In fact, Mr. Ginnell recently called on the Irish Secretary "to lay them on the table of the House." A roar went up at the possible prospect of English, Irish, Scotch, and Welsh, to say nothing of other nationalities, scrambling for the precious jewels.

In private life there is no suggestion of the sleuth-hound about Mr Ginnell. He wears a beard, and a well-fitting frock coat. Though he is self-educated, he is a member of both the Irish and English Bar, and helped to found the Irish Literary Society in London.

Beresford vs. Churchill.

The long-threatened and much-advertised suit between Lord Charles Beresford and the terrible Winston Churchill has resulted in a unanimous verdict for the defendant. The two litigants are fond of the limelight, and neither of them has had much of it of late, so that they were feeling like the Irishman who complained that he was "blue-mouldy for want of a beating." The "bright and breezy" Charlie never looked so limp as when the First Lord had finished with him, for Winnie had — metaphorically speaking — taken Charlie across his knee and spanked him unmercifully. "Lulu" Harcourt once said of Lord Charles that he was for ever talking politics on the quarter-deck and navigation in the House of Commons, and Churchill bubbled over with epigrams of a not less deadly type. Perhaps his heaviest broadside was contained in the sentence: "The noble lord never knows what he is going to say when he is up, and he never knows what he has said when he sits down."

A Veteran Home Ruler.

Several veterans voted on the Home Rule Bill, and the appearance of Mr Robert Cameron in the British House of Commons attracted much interest. Mr. Cameron, who sits for the Houghton-le-Spring Division of Durham as a Liberal, is eighty-eight years of age, and the second oldest member in the House of Commons. Though he has been in very indifferent health of late he insisted in taking part in the historic division, and thus he has maintained a remarkable record. He entered Parliament in 1885 and voted for Home Rule in 1886, 1892, and 1913. Few remain who heard Mr. Gladstone introduce his first Home Rule Bill and Mr. Cameron has witnessed some remarkable changes in political life.

Isles of the Blest.

Between the Island of Madagascar and the coast of India there are 16,000 islands, only 600 of which are inhabitated. In most of these islands a man can live and support his family in luxury without working more than twenty-five days in the year, or at all, as nature provides the food and no clothes are required.

Help! Help!

Llanfairwilgwyllgogerychwrndrobwyllandyssiliogogogoch is the name of a village in Anglesea; for the postal purposes the first 20 letters are a sufficient address.

Singing For a Peerage.

Lord Castlemaine recently underwent the unpleasant experience of seeing his residence, Moydrum Castle, near Athlone, partly burnt to the ground. He is the fifth baron, and one of Ireland's representative peers.

The story of how the family entered the peerage is not without humor. William Handcock, who was the first Lord Castlemaine, represented Athlone in the Irish Parliament. There is this entry after his name to be found in Barrington's historic list: "An extraordinary instance; he made and sang songs against the Union in 1799 at a public dinner of the Opposition, and made and sang songs for it in 1800; he got a peerage." Evidently this accommodating politician did not mind on which side of the fence he fell so long as it was the comfortable side.

Swallow's Long Trip.

A communication from Utrecht, Natal, conveys the interesting fact that a swallow ringed at Rosehill, Cheadle, Staffordshire, by Mr. J. R. B. Masefield on May 6, 1911, was caught at the farm of Mr. J. Mayer, Roodeyand, 18 miles from Utrecht, on Dec. 23 last. There was a metal label round a leg of the bird with the words, "Witherby, High Holborn, London," and on the other side "B 830."

Fight Cost £30,000.

It is estimated that the British Medical Association has spent £30,000 in fighting the Insurance Act.

CROCHET INITIALS.

Something Quite New in Handkerchief Lettering.

A dainty way to mark handkerchiefs is to crochet very fine medallions of lace with letters in the center. Two corners of handkerchiefs are here illustrated with the letters "T" and "P" as inlets of transparent lace.

No. 26 thread is used, with a crochet hook No. 5.

First Row.—Work 39 chain, 3 treble in the ninth stitch from the needle, taking up two threads throughout the work, then 2 chain, miss two stitches, 1 treble to end of row, making eleven squares in every row.

Second Row.—Turn always with 5 chain, 1 treble on the second treble, 2 chain, 1 treble on a treble to end of row, the last treble being in the third chain of the turn.

Third Row.—Work 4 squares, repeat 2 treble under two chain and 1 treble on a treble three times, 4 squares.

Fourth Row.—Work 4 squares, 2 chain, miss two treble, 4 treble on four treble, 5 squares.

Fifth Row.—Work 5 squares, 4 treble on four treble, 5 squares.

Seventh Row.—As fifth row.

Eighth Row.—Work 2 squares, 2 treble under two chain, 1 treble on a treble, 1 square, 2 chain, 4 treble, 2 squares, 2 treble under two chain, 1 treble, 2 squares.

Ninth Row.—Work 1 square, 2 chain, 4 treble on four treble, 2 treble under 1 treble on, 2 treble under, 4 treble on four treble, 2 treble under, 1 treble on 2 treble under, 4 treble on four treble 2 squares.

Tenth and Eleventh Rows.—Plain with 11 squares in each.

These eleven rows complete the letter.

Do not turn, but proceed to work the border on all four sides, beginning on the left side of the letter.

The Border.—Put the ball of cotton through the stitch on the needle and draw it up tight. Bring the cotton through the next square to the corner and work 1 chain, * 3 double in this second square from the corner, 3 chain, join back to first double, 5 double in this small loop, 3 double in the next square; repeat from * to the first corner. Fill the corner loop with 6 double, then continue the border as in the illustration.

When the medallion is finished tack it crossways in the corner of a handkerchief and sew it with fine cotton along the edge of the border, bringing the needle under the chain of the border to the front, then placing it under the next chain and bringing it out on the under side of the handkerchief. Thus the medallion will be firmly sewed to the linen of the handkerchief.

When this is finished cut a square of the linen from under the lace, leaving about one-eighth of an inch from the sewing on line. Overcast this one-eighth inch very neatly, and the initial is complete.

The Letter "P."—Work 36 chain for the foundation line, then proceed as in the directions for letter "T," making 14 squares in each row and copying the number of squares and trebles from the illustration.

The Mannish Shirts.

The simpler blouses to complete the ratine and linen suit are built on the lines of the mannish shirt. The majority are either plaited or tucked. A neat design calls for clusters of pin tucks edged with valenciennes lace on either side of the front plait. Another dressier model has two broad tucks edged with valenciennes lace on either side of this front plait. The soft turn over collar and folded back cuffs edged with the lace carry out the color scheme suggested in the colored rings of the white buttons. The inevitable silk tie continues the color harmony and finishes a very dainty yet simple blouse.

Household Matters.

If you have a jabot which is troublesome to iron baste the plaits in before it is washed, then iron and remove the threads. Use fine thread.

Towels should not be put in the guest room when they are brand new. Use them until they have been laundered several times and lose their stiffness.

To wind a curtain remove it from the brackets, roll it up by hand and then put it into the brackets and pull it out full length. Repeat if necessary.

To Unscrew a Glass Jar.

It is often very difficult to unscrew a tin cover from a glass jar. A very simple and satisfactory way to get it off is to take a knife handle and tap the top of the cover all around the edge. This widens the thread of the screw of the cover and enables one to turn the cover very easily.

INTERIOR ELEVATORS.

Moose Jaw and Calgary Said to Be Selected Locations.

Moose Jaw, June 2.—According to the rumors which have been generally heard on the streets here today it is now definitely known by certain men in the city that the interior storage elevators which are to be build by the Dominion government will come to Moose Jaw. It is understood that the government has decided to build at Moose Jaw and Calgary.

The announcement, which is expected at any time nome, is looked upon with much favor by the city, and it is felt that it will mean the centralization of the milling business of Saskatchewan in this city.

The exact site of the elevators has not given out, although it is popularly believed that they will go to Britannia Park, where the huge flax mill of the Metzger interests of Toledo are locatinng

STARVING MINISTERS

Methodist Conference in Toronto Discloses Startling Circumstances

Toronto, June 2.—That Methodist ministers are in many cases are paid starvation wages and even at that are extremely lucky if they secure their money when it is due, also that not a few do not receive the minimum wage fixed by the general conference is the information given out in a report prepared by Toronto conference ministers, stewards and church treasurers. Some of the statements are:

"The standard of salaries has not increased in ratio corresponding to teh cost of living." One hundred and twelve ministers in Toronto received $19,537 less than they would have received if the general conference minimum had been paid.

During one quarter of the present year in the Toronto conference, three ministers received less than $20 each, nineteen less than $100 and thirty-seven less than $150 each. In other points outside the city of Toronto only thirty-one paid ministers in full. The end of February quarter the aggregate arrears of salary for the nine months amounted to $10,029.

CLOSE JINGLE POT MINE UNTIL SITUATION CLEARS

Nanaimo, June 2.—The management of the Jingle Pot mine will not recognize the United Mine Workers of America, and the mines will remain closed until the employees state their willingness to go to work, then, and not til lthen, will the mines be opened.

Such was the net result of a recent meeting of the employees of the Jingle Pot mine. Manager Mr. H. N. Freeman and several other speakers spoke on the situation, which before the trouble terminates will doubtless have serious consequences to the public at large.

The individual executor, acting in this capacity probably only once, can no more successfully perform the work than a man totally unacquainted could successfully handle your business.

Is not that a reasonable statement?

ONLY MARRIED TWO WEEKS.

Husband Fined for Beating up His Bride.

In the police court yesterday morning Thomas Olsen was fined $20 and costs for a cowardly assault upon his wife. The alternative was one month hard labor. The only excuse was that his wife used a perfume which offended his fastidious nostrils. Mrs. Olsen, a young woman, about two weeks married, showed the marks of her partner's brutality in a cut under the eye and a number of black and blue bruises.

Chief Bradshaw, who took the charge over the phone, did not realize the extent of Mrs. Olsen's injuries or her spouse would have been charged under a section of the code rendering him liable to the lash and a long term.

OPEN SEASON FOR FATHERS-IN-LAW

Lawrence Seems to Think He Has a License to Wallop His Wife's Dad—Three Months.

The sword of Damocles fell yesterday on Lawrence Tobby, an Indian of the Cheewashen reserve, Delta, for clubbing his father-in-law with some blunt instrument, on September 17 last. Lawrence was sentenced by Judge Howay to three months' hard labor.

The charge has been suspended over prisoner's head since last September.

Tobby elected for speedy trial. He was guilty, he was drunk at the time and he did not remember anything about it and he wanted a speedy trial. These were his pleas. At first his honor was curious to know why the charge had been so long maturing, but a few skilful questions and prisoner's ingenuous answers soon enlightened him.

The Court—Some people say you are a dangerous man when you are drunk. What did you do this for?

Prisoner—I don't know. (Pause—then happy thought.) He is my father-in-law.

The Court—Where have you been since last September?

Prisoner—I was over at the camps and in Washington. I was at Wickersham and came back in November to Cheewashen.

The Court—How is it this matter did not come up before May?

Prisoner related that a constable came to him last December, advised him to get across the line as it would be better for him. However, he stayed and last Wednesday they got him drunk again and then they revived this old case.

The Court—Had you some understanding that if you behaved yourself and did not get drunk, nothing more would be said about this charge. Your father-in-law let you off on suspended sentence, as it were—gave you another chance.

Prisoner—I guess that is it.

The Court—You were in trouble on the other side of the line for being drunk.

Prisoner—I was let go.

The Court—Everybody seems to have given you a chance and it is time you began to learn this cannot go on. Three months in jail.

TAKE A "CALORIC" FIRELESS COOKER

WITH YOU ON YOUR AUTOMOBILE PICNIC TRIPS.

"IT COOKS WHILE YOU RIDE

Read the following by one who knows the great comfort and satisfaction derived from this 20th century invention.

FIRELESS COOKER CUTS DOWN BILLS AND LABOR.

My family consists of my husband, two children and myself. Our income is small—only $20 a week. We live in a large city where the cost of everything has gone up. Gas is $1 per 1,000 cubic feet and coal $7.50 per ton. Though I had cut our expenses in every way I could our bills took nearly all of our income, writes a contributor to the Pictorial Review. I had to economize further; so I went over my grocery, meat, clothing and rent bills. Not an extra penny could be saved there.

I soon realized that my only opportunity lay in our fuel bills; in some manner they must be rereduced. I could not afford to purchase the high priced cuts of meat that require but little time for their preparation, yet the cheap cuts required long, slow cooking with a consequent use of coal or gas. It was then that I learned of a medium priced fireless cooker that would not only cut my fuel bills and make my housework easier, but which would make the cheap cuts of meat more wholesome and delicious. I began to save every penny I could toward purchasing one of these most helpful aids to economical housekeeping. At last I could buy one. It has reduced my fuel bills from $2 to $3 per month, so that in this way, if in no other, it has paid for itself.

What the cooker has done in the way of improved cooking is almost unbelievable. My breakfast cereal, slowly cooked all night in my fireless cooker, is a dish so different from what it was when cooked in the old way that it is hard to realize that it is the same food. Rump steak or brisket that went into the cooker as tough pieces of meat come out tender and delicious. I can bake, roast, boil, stew or steam in the cooker. My roasts do not require basting, yet they neither burn nor dry up, even when left in the cooker two or three hours after they are done, and all their meat juices are retained. I can place my entire meal in the fireless cooker; it requires no attention and will neither overcook, dry out, or burn, but will remain hot and tempting, ready to serve at my convenience. My dinner on hot days is prepared in the cool of the morning and there is never any hurried morning rush at breakfast time, as this meal is prepared overnight.

I find that my work in the kitchen is cut fairly in half by means of my freless cooker. The constant attention to the coal and ashes in my range, the careful watching of the food in my oven and the basting and turning of meats are done away with. I have no food burned or scroched, and consequently no burned, sticky pots to clean.

Before I purchased my fireless cooker I read and studied the magazine advertisements, sent for descriptive booklets and tried to make myself familiar with various processes. I can frankly say that I was skeptical regarding the claims of the manufacturers; but now, after using my cooker even a short time, I am fully convinced that every housewife who would economize should have one.

My fireless cooker has three roasting and baking compartments. I learned to use the roasting and baking disks and all the appliances that go with the cooker very readily. The directions for using the cooker are so simple that I have never had any trouble with it.

My two girls have taken the greatest interest in cooking since the advent of the fireless cooker in our home. The preparation of all food has been so much simplified that the girls are rapidly learning to make many tasteful and delicious dishes, and they take the greatest pleasure in it. This is an added advantage, for I want my children to be good housekeepers, and anything that will make housework more attractive to the younger generation is certainly important.

The mineral wool and metal lining of my fireless cooker make it absolutely safe, and I cannot but feel that to the busy mother this fact must make a strong appeal. Moreover on hot summer mornings my kitchen is perfectly cool and comfortable.

FOR WATER SYSTEM

Port Coquitlam Calls for Tenders for Mains.

Port Coquitlam, June 2.—Tenders are being called for the installation of trunk water mains on the chief thoroughfares throughout the city. The mains will form the nucleus of the city's first water system, provision for which was made by the ratepayers a short time ago when they passed the $160,000 water bylaw.

The trunk mains will stretch to every quarter of the city, Dewdney trunk road, Pitt river road, Kingsway and School and Flint roads being the most important streets to be covered. It is estimated that it will cost from $20,000 to $25,000 to install the trunks, from which small service pipes will be run on the other thoroughfares when required. Tenders are required to be in by Tuesday, June 10. The water will be taken from the Westminster pipe line.
