DECIDE FRANCHISE QUESTION TODAY

Burnaby Electors Expected to Turn Out in Large Numbers.

Money Bylaws Totalling $579,000 Also Presented—$500,000 for Permanent Roads.

One of the greatest municipal questions that has ever troubled Burnaby will come up for decision today when the B. C. E. R. franchise giving that company access to the streets and roads of the Burnaby municipality for the laying of tramways for a period of 36 years will be voted upon by the ratepayers.

The question has been before the people since 1909 when the council of that year voted to give the franchise to the B. C. E. R. but their action was questioned by the electorate on the grounds that they were not given a chance to vote, so that in October, 1911 the bylaw was submitted to the people for ratification, the vote being in the negative by a small majority.

Since that time action has been taken in the courts to quash the 1909 bylaw and it was only a few months ago that Mr. Justice Murphy handed down a decision in the supreme court favorable to the B. C. E. R.

Although the electorate had passed a mandate favoring the taking of the case to the highest court in the land and to the privy council if necessary, so many requests and petitions have been made to the present municipal council, that it was thought the time was ripe to again test the feeling of the people before appealing against the decision of Judge Murphy. That test will be decided today when it is expected that the largest vote ever polled in Burnaby will be registered.

The situation has not been without much bitterness for while the people living in the north, favor the passing of the franchise which would give them access to Vancouver this year by tramway, the people of the south, to a large extent have shown opposition to the bylaw with the result that today's battle is just a matter of a fight to a finish between the north and southern portions of Burnaby.

Should the bylaw receive the assent of the electorate the B. C. E. R. have agreed to reduce the rates on the Central Park and Burnaby Lake lines of the company and will build two miles of road in North Burnaby this summer and also one mile of track extending along the North road connecting with the Sapperton line.

Money Bylaws.

Three money bylaws aggregating $579,000 will also be voted on and the feeling of the residents as to whether they wish the council to embark on these big projects will be tested.

The bylaws are as follows: Permanent Roads bylaw, $500,000; School Loan bylaw, $29,000; Sidewalks bylaw, $50,000.

The results of the voting are expected to be made known at the Edmonds municipal hall by Returning Officer Moore at about 9 o'clock.

Find Body of Contractor.

Calgary, April 25.—The body of W. H. G. Hooley, who disappeared mysteriously from a fashionable hotel six weeks ago, was washed up on the shore of the Bow river today, which reveals in part the mystery of the Calgary man's disappearance. Hooley was a contractor who was believed to be in comfortable circumstances. He had been losing heavily at cards, and one night left a gay party of friends about midnight and no more was heard of him.

EARLY FIRE DESTROYS REEVE SCOTT'S HOME

New House Burned at Millside on Friday Morning—Was Unoccupied.

The fire fiend played havoc with the new home of Reeve R. H. Scott, surgeon at the mills of the Canadian Western Lumber Company at Fraser Mills early yesterday morning. The house, an eight roomed structure, had just been completed and Dr. Scott was preparing to move into the building.

Just how the fire started remains a mystery as no one was living in the building at the time.

The volunteer fire department at the mills was called out but not before the flames had made such headway that it was practically impossible to save the building and their efforts were turned to adjoining residences. The Westminster department was notified to hold themselves in readiness while a special car was ordered from the B. C. E. R. to transport the boys under Chief Watson should it have been necessary.

The total loss amounts to about $3000 which was covered by insurance. Dr. Scott only took out an insurance policy on the building three days ago. It is understood that he will rebuild at once.

INSTITUTE VIGOROUS PURE MILK CRUSADE

Health Department Will Make Tests Periodically—Dirt Tester Ordered—Inspection of Dairies.

A vigorous pure milk crusade will commence shortly at the instance of the health department of the city. Preparations are being made to test the lacteal fluid for butter fat and solids and to enforce hygienic conditions upon all suppliers of milk.

The department has also ordered a dirt tester, a machine which will at once exhibit the quantity of extraneous substances in the milk.

Samples will be drawn from the milk wagons periodically, of course, without warning to the milk suppliers and the systematic inspection and testing will begin next week.

The new Health act confers much greater powers upon municipalities than the old one and some of its clauses are rigorous respecting the production and sale of milk.

No one exposed to the danger of contagious or infectious diseases may have anything to do with the handling of milk and the medical officer of health can make it very hot for contraveners of the regulation.

SEATTLE EXTENDS INVITE TO SECRETARY OF STATE

Seattle, April 25.—The Seattle chamber of commerce tonight sent the following telegram to Secretary of State Bryan:

"The Seattle chamber of commerce extends an invitation for you to be its guest en route on your return from California to Washington City and would greatly appreciate the opportunity afforded to have you acquaint our people with the administration's attitude and policy toward the people of the Orient. We believe that such a visit to the port having the largest commerce with Japan would afford the administration an opportunity to make clear its attitude and impress the people of the Orient with the real sentiment of the American people toward their nation."

MAY SECURE LARGE DREDGE TO WIDEN FRASER RIVER CHANNEL

Board of Trade Discuss Matters Vital to Interests of City—Lighting at Mouth of River—Indignation at Removal of Public Offices—Better Communication With Delta and Port Moody Wanted—Wretched Accommodation Supplied by C. P. R. at Westminster Junction—Arrange to Entertain Four New Municipalities.

The board of trade sat for two hours last night and transacted a large amount of important business with celerity and dispatch.

The removal of public offices from New Westminster roused the ire of members to the deputation pitch and Mr. Gifford will be waited upon.

Indignation was strong on the ignoring of New Westminster by C. P. R. trainmen and the wretched accommodation at Westminster Junction.

The lighting at the mouth of the Fraser was described as a joke and an effort will be made to get the big dredge to operate on the channel there.

Port Moody tram connection was discussed and the B. C. E. R. will be communicated with as to its prospects.

Better road connection with Ladner and other matters affecting the trade and business of the city with outside centres also occupied a good deal of the board's attention.

The meeting was well attended and President John A. Lee presided.

Dredge River.

The president reported on the lightship at the mouth of the river in connection with its navigation. He had had an interview with Mr. Worsfield and received some information which he thought would be of value to them. The idea was that there should be a visitation by some of the members of the board to see, under proper conditions what was required in the way of lights and also in the way of dredging or improvements to the channel.

The new channel was working its way gradually but was not getting sufficient support. Owing to the peculiar conditions it was considered expedient that the big dredge operating in Vancouver harbor should be secured for a month or six weeks in which time the obstacle in the channel at the mouth of the river could be removed.

The sand in the part the big dredge was required for was too light for the Fruhling. The Fraser river dredges had been all over the lower part of the province and it was only fair that there should be some reciprocity and that they should get a loan of the big dredge to work on the Fraser.

The committee had not completed their work yet but they expected shortly when tides and weather were suitable to take a trip down the river and stay for the evening to see what the conditions of the river were at night.

Lightship.

Referring to the light of the lightship the president held up a piece of wick, scornfully, pointing out that instead of five or four inch wide wick there was only a wick of an inch in width.

Mr. W. R. Gilley related an incident which had happened to the captain of his firm's boat when the latter entered the mouth of the river just before daybreak. They then sighted the hull of the lightship before they saw the light. It was not so much, however, the light as the reflectors. The light was simply a joke.

The president—When the jetty is finished there will be a fine light at the end of it, but we cannot afford to wait.

Secretary Stuart Wade said he had secured the company of deep sea captains as well as local captains for the trip, one deep sea skipper with 40 year's experience. He agreed that the present light was a joke.

The report was approved and referred to the navigation committee with power to act.

Move Public Office.

Mr. Lusby brought up the subject of the removal of the Delta road superintendent's office from the city to Cloverdale. It had been here for over 35 years and he could not see why it should have been moved.

Mr. Wilkie said Cloverdale was not more central than New Westminster for the Delta riding.

Mr. D. S. Curtis said these things were gradually slipping away from them and there did not seem to be any one sufficiently interested to stop it. They were done without their knowing anything about it and when done it was the hardest thing in the world to get them back. He did not know what to suggest, but it seemed to him that some one had a little more pull than they had. The trick was done before they woke up. Could they do anything to head off this kind of thing. It was likely to recur at any time.

Mr. Lusby advocated a strong protest to the powers that be. They should see their city member and protest through him against the removal of the road superintendent's office.

The president pointed out that the work in any provincial constituency was vested in the hands of the member for that district. He was supposed to look after the work in his own district.

He did not seen any reason why the road superintendent should not be resident in the district in which he was doing his work. He saw no objection to that. The Dewdney road superintendent, for instance, had a perfect right to reside in Port Coquitlam.

Public Works.

When, however, it came to the removal of the department of public works he would seriously and strenuously object. When he read of the change in the government agent's office he immediately wired to New Westminster to strongly protest, by public meeting, against the removal of any part of the office as they were the centre of the entire district. The road superintendent was in a different position. He was doing no work in the city of New Westminsted and doing work entirely in his own district.

Mr. Curtis—I see no reason why we should not wait on Mr. Thomas Gifford and point out these things.

Land Registry.

The President—Yes, his attention might be drawn to the fact that certain offices were being removed. The land office, continued the president,

COLUMBIAN COLLEGE PRINCIPAL RESIGNS

Professor A. E. Hetherington Will Resume Studies—Appoint Successor on Tuesday.

In order to resume his studies, Professor A. E. Hetherington, the well known head of the Columbian college, has handed in his resignation to the board of directors of that institution. Mr. Hetherington has been connected with the Columbian college for the past six years, one year of which he spent at the Chicago university.

He has proved himself a most capable principal and his resignation will no doubt be much regretted by the board of directors and those who have interested themselves and given support to the college.

The directors will meet on Tuesday next to appoint a successor to the high office which he has filled so well. Other than that he intended to resume his studies Professor Hetherington could not announce anything last night as to his plans for the future.

ESCAPED PRISONER STILL AT LIBERTY

With Only Eighteen Days to Serve Albert Cvar Breaks Away from Burnaby Jail Farm.

With only 18 days of a six month sentence to serve Albert Cvar, a Bohemian, broke away from the Burnaby prison farm precincts yesterday morning about 8:15 and up to a late hour last evening he had not been captured, though a posse of guards was out all day searching the timber north of the farm.

Cvar was engaged in clearing land adjoining the prison when he made his escape. Heavy timber adjoins the stretch being cleared and he plunged into the bush and disappeared before his guard had an opportunity to raise an alarm.

The description given of the man by the jail authorities is that he is 5 feet 8½ inches in height; weighs 167 pounds, and has blue eyes and a fresh complexion. His right hand is deformed, the third finger being missing. He had also scars on the top of his left foot and left elbow.

CO-OPERATION AMONG FARMERS NECESSARY

Steveston, April 25.—A suggestion that the government reimburse farmers for cattle and grade cows up to the value of $100 and pure bred cows up to $200, was made by Mr. Joseph Steeves, a prominent dairyman, before the royal agricultural commission at their initial sitting of a new series of sessions here this afternoon. The suggestion applies where cattle are destroyed on account of disease.

Mr. Steeves informed the commissioners that he approved of tuberculosis tests being made on cattle and also testified that he found the freight rates of his district satisfactory.

Mr. W. P. Walker, a merchant, suggested a correct classification of all eggs for sale and thought that producers should be compelled to stamp all their eggs in order that the consumer might know when the egg had been produced and where it came from.

Mr. Henry Senterman, market gardener, stated he had difficulty in marketing his produce. Mr. R. L. Chaldecott, a grain and hay producer, said that labor was easy to procure, but very expensive. He thought co-operation among farmers was necessary if they were to secure a paying price for their product. Mr. P. S. Falkner, a realty broker, spoke generally on land values. The commission will hold two sessions in Ladner today.

ALLEGED TRUST IN SUGAR INDUSTRY

Democrat Causes Sensation in Tariff Revision Bill Discussion.

Says One Company Controls Every Sugar Beet Factory in United States—Selling Agreement.

Washington, April 25.—Frivolous and serious treatment was accorded the tariff question today in the house debate, Representative J. Hampton Moore, Republican of Pennsylvania, contributing a novelty by conducting a tariff primary class for the edification and amusement of his colleagues and Representative A. Mitchell Palmer, chairman of the Democratic caucus, delivering the principal argument of the day in behalf of the Underwood bill.

Representative Keating, Democrat of Colorado, who declared he was elected upon a free sugar platform, aroused representatives from beet sugar states with the declaration that every beet sugar factory in the United States was controlled by the American Sugar Refining company, either by stock or by selling agreement. He declared there was a selling agreement by which the trust fixed the price to the consumer, and when challenged by Representative Kelly, of Michigan, Mr. Keating declared he could prove it by business conditions and facts relating to the beet sugar industry of his own state.

Mr. Moore's innovation put the house into an uproar. He presented himself in the guise of a pupil arguing questions in a "tariff primer," put to him by the reading clerk of the house. The climax came when Representative Lobeck, of Nebraska, raising his hand while Mr. Moore was reciting his tariff lesson, demanding recognition.

"For what purpose does the gentleman rise?" asked Representative Garrett, of Tennessee, the presiding officer, who at this moment assumed the role of principal of the school.

"Please teacher," Mr. Lobeck grinningly responded, "may I go out."

The principal's answer was drowned in the laughter and applause while Mr. Garrett pounded his gavel to subdue his unruly pupils.

Representative Palmer championed the Underwood bill as a measure which would surely bring relief to the people of the nation if it received the united support of the Democratic party, and he predicted that it undoubtedly would survive the opposition of the "Republican remnant and the Progressive embryo." He lauded the Democratic leader, Mr. Underwood, whose name the new tariff law will bear, declaring that when the law became effective he would take his place among "the immortals of the Republic."

Mr. Palmer laid emphasis upon the "dumping clause" of the bill, which is designed to assess extra duties as high as 15 per cent. upon foreign goods sold in this country at a less price than abroad.

"To meet the just complaint of the American manufacturer that he cannot know what competition he must meet as long as the foreigner can sell his surplus product here below his home market price," said Mr. Palmer, "we have inserted the dumping clause. It will close the mouth of the American manufacturer against criticism of the law, while, otherwise, he would find a sympathetic audience in a people determined upon fair play."

Establish Municipal Foundry.

Calgary, April 25.—Calgary will probably establish a municipal foundry on account of the excessive price the city is compelled to pay for castings and iron work. The undertaking was favorably considered by the new industrial committee of the city council today.

INFAMOUS LETTER WRITTEN TO LADY

J. R. Boyce, Official of Collection Agency Charged With Libel.

A most extraordinary epistle alleged to have been written by a debt collecting agency forms the basis of a criminal libel against J. R. Boyce.

Boyce is charged with having written a letter to a lady in Steveston in the course of his debt collecting which for scurrility is difficult to describe. It is as follows:

Dear Madam—Re claim $10—We realize that most people would call you a dead beat and that it was beneath them either to write or speak to you. Our business, however, makes it necessary to associate with many that it would be just as pleasant not to know.

We also realize that God made even you, the same as he made snakes, toads, crabs, bedbugs, leeches, pool sharps, crap shooters and all other crawling, creeping, cringing, sneaking, slimp, slippery things.

We suppose that you like the rest of these creatures of the Almighty were made for a purpose, but up to the present time we will be d—d if we can imagine what that purpose was.

Mr. Collins, who placed the account against you with us, for collection, says that if we can touch the right spot in your makeup we will be able to induce you to pay. This is the last spot we can think of and we are wondering if even this will bring an answer.

Yours truly,
Dimock Rating & Mercantile Agency, Limited.
Successors to the Dominion Rating & Mercantile Agency.
Per J. R. BOYCE

The letter was brought before the attention of the attorney general who ordered a prosecution through Mr. W. F. Hansford. In due course information was laid by Senior Constable Dunwoody of the provincial police and Boyce was arrested, brought before Mr. H. L. Edmonds in the city police court, charged with having written and published a false and scandalous, malicious and defamatory libel, representing the lady as a dishonest person and classing her with reptiles and low forms of life.

He was admitted to bail on personal security of $1000 and two sureties of $500 each.

Yesterday the case was again before Magistrate Edmonds and was adjourned until April 30.

Mr. Boyce is understood to deny the writing of the letter and the charge will be investigated by the magistrate.

ATTACH NO BLAME FOR CORBETT'S DEATH

Aged Man Was Deaf and Failed to Hear Warning Whistle of the G. N. R. Train.

"William Corbett came to his death at 10 o'clock on April 24 by being struck by a Great Northern engine, No. 1065 just east of the North road on the Great Northern railway in the municipality of Coquitlam, B.C. No blame attaches to any person."

The above was the verdict returned last night by the jury who held an inquest into the death of William Corbett who was killed at the North road crossing of the G. N. R. on Thursday morning.

Testimony deduced from John Allison, the flagman at the North road crossing, Wm. Roope, the engineer of the train and the fireman, H. W. Parks, showed that every effort had been made to warn the deceased, who was totally deaf, of the approach of the train.

Dr. G. H. Manchester testified to the effect that Corbett's death must have been instantaneous, while W. H. Creech, a son-in-law of the deceased, identified the body and witnessed that Mr. Corbett was totally deaf.

The jury was composed of Messrs. C. W. Philip, foreman, George Alderson, William Tingley, Harry Mumby, Leonard Herrman and Joe Jackson. Coroner A. L. McQuarrie presided.

The inquest was held at Bowell's undertaking parlors where the remains were removed after the accidnet. The funeral of the late William Corbett will take place today, interment to be made in the Surrey cemetery. The body will be shipped on the B.C.E.R. tram at 2:30 o'clock.

Party of British Immigrants.

Calgary, April 25.—The first large contingent of British immigrants arrived in Calgary today. The party comprised 450, about half of whom will locate in Alberta, the remainder going on to British Columbia.

HOUSE MAY HOLD MORNING SESSIONS

Ottawa, April 25.—Premier Borden gave notice today that next Tuesday he will move that from Wednesday, April 30, until the end of the session the house shall meet in the morning as well as afternoon and evening.

This means that business would be rushed and there are predictions that the house may finish June 1.

CLAIMS PRESIDENT KNEW OF MURDER

Sensational Developments Follow Assassination of Minister.

Shanghai, April 25.—The governor of the province of Kiang Su has addressed to the government at Peking members of parliament, sensational correspondence which seeks to show President Yuan Shi Kai sanctioned the assassination of General Sung, former minister of education. General Sung was shot down at the railroad station here March 20, and died several days later. His assassin escaped, but later General Sung received a letter purporting to have been written by the assailant, apologizing for his attack and declared that Sung had been mistaken by him for General Hsing, commander-in-chief of the troops in Southern Fu Kien.

The correspondence which the Shanghai government has made public is alleged to have passed between the premier's secretary and a secret service man named Jung. It tends to show that the premier's secretary inspired Jung to manufacture evidence that General Sung was dangerous to the government and also that Jung arranged the murder of General Sung with the knowledge and sanction of President Yuan Shi Kai. It also alleges that Jung accused Dr. Sun Yat Sen, former provisional president, of scheming to make General Sung president of the republic.

It is said here that the revelations made in the correspondence will cause difficulties for President Yuan Shi Kai and possibly bring about a crisis.

Y. W. C. A. SHOWER TODAY.

Citizens Will Assist in Equipment of New Building—Good Program.

Much interest is being shown around town in the shower which will be held in the new Y. W. C. A. building, the old Premier hotel, this afternoon and evening, to aid in the furnishing of the future headquarters of the young women of the city, and it is expected that the event will have most satisfactory results.

Every citizen who can possibly do so is invited to attend and asked to bring along anything that will be suitable in the line of furnishings for the Y. W. C. A. Furniture, linen, china, pictures, kitchen utensils, bottled fruits, groceries, etc., are suggested contributions.

An excellent musical program will be given in the evening and refreshments will be served both in the afternoon and at night.

RIFT IN RANKS OF SUFFRAGETTES

London, April 25.—A rift between the Women's Social and Political union, the organization of militant suffragettes and its American members was indicated today by the summoning of a "court martial" composed of "General" Mrs. Flora Drummond, acting as judge advocate, and the "cabinet" of the union sitting as judges to try Mrs. Mary Ford, of New York, on a charge of alleged treason to the society.

The military features of the court were all in correct form with the exception that there was no means of compelling the attendance of the accused, who failed to appear.

Mrs. Ford said later that she knew nothing of the charge and did not expect to appear before the court.

The charges against Mrs. Ford as prepared by "General" Drummond were three, as follows:

First—Failing to inform the union as to the exact hour of the release of Miss Zelie Emerson, of Jackson, Mich., which fact was within Mrs. Ford's knowledge, and being valuable to the organization she was in duty bound to reveal.

Second—The allegation that Mrs. Ford had told American press representatives in London that the union planned the kidnapping of Miss Emerson from her mother.

Third—That Mrs. Ford had contravened a strict rule of the union by announcing publicly that she had committed specific acts of militancy.

In court today it was explained that this rule was very important, and the record was pointed out showing that the only suffragettes who had been caught were captured red-handed while the others went scot free. This, it was said, indicated that the perpetrations of militant acts, while glorying in their jail records, did not talk about their specific deeds.

In reciting these facts, which she claimed were proved by a sheaf of clippings from American papers which she waved aloft, "General" Drummond denounced the American woman as a traitor.

When informed of the charges, Mrs. Ford declared she knew nothing of them, and believed herself to be on the most friendly terms with the organization which she had been assisting by voluntary work in its press bureau.

Mrs. Ford ridiculed the second charge, stating that she had not informed anyone of such a plot which she herself was unaware existed.

Today's affair is considered as important, all the "cabinet" of the Women's Social and Political union out of jail being present.

"General" Drummond declares that the militant organization is full of spies, no less than six of its members, one of whom is an American woman, being agents of Scotland Yard.

BID FAREWELL TO AMBASSADOR BRYCE

New York, April 25.—James Bryce said farewell to the American people tonight at a dinner given here in his honor by the Pilgrims Society of the United States. After six years as British ambassador to this country, Mr. Bryce will sail for home from San Francisco May 3, via the Orient. Sir Cecil Spring-Rice, his successor, will arrive in New York early next week.

Many noted men sat at the guest table with Ambassador Bryce, who in a speech emphasized the relation of friendship existing between his country and the United States. The ambassador sat the right of Joseph H. Choate, former American ambassador to Great Britain, who is president of the Pilgrims Society, and acted as toastmaster tonight. At Mr. Choate's left was Walter Hines Page, present American ambassador.

Mr. Choate began his speech with an apology on behalf of the dinner committee.

"They have not furnished you with that improved, imperishable diplomatic beverage that has just been put forward," he said. "However, our committee had no other thing to do. The news of this new diplomatic beverage came to us too late; only this morning we heard of it from all papers—learned that the department of state had prescribed this new beverage and learned it was drunk in bumpers amid great applause. I can promise Mr. Bryce that he will have that when he comes to the United States again and surely he is coming again. We will give him full bumpers of that new beverage and he will find it a joy that will live forever."

Mr. Choate spoke of Mr. Bryce's work as an ambassador, declaring he has brought about a new feeling between the two countries—"union of peace that will secure the peace of the whole world." The American people, he declared, will never tolerate any action by the government that will tend to break the bond with Great Britain.

"We are terirbly sorry to lose you," he said, turning to Mr. Bryce. "Great Britain will send many ambassadors to this country but there is only one Bryce in the whole world. You have made Americans from the Atlantic to the Pacific love you."

SATURDAY MORNING, APRIL 26, 1913.

A SPLENDID SHOWING.

We are in receipt of the Annual Report and Financial Statement of the City of New Westminster for 1912 and must congratulate the treasurer, Mr. J. J. MacKay, and the Council upon the excellent matter contained therein.

The information embodied in these annual reports is of the greatest value, not only to the citizens, but to those interested in municipal affairs throughout the country. We do not know of any other municipality which gives such full details as have been set forth in the New Westminster reports for the last three years.

A glance at the various accounts show at once the gratifying position of New Westminster—with the splendid surplus of nearly $1,000,000 over all liabilities and the increasing value of its properties and utilities the city occupies a very unique and enviable position among organized communities. We have shown that public ownership of water and light systems can be made a success.

These two departments disclose the pleasing information that they have made a profit over and above all expenditure, including sinking fund and interest, on all the debentures, and, in the case of the Lighting department, under the superintendence of Mr. P. Bowler, there is revealed a very comfortable surplus, even after deducting the amount expended in lighting the streets and civic buildings.

Too much credit cannot be given for the careful management of this department. Indeed the report of each department makes it plain that very careful supervision and direction has been exercised therein.

The report of the engineer is excellent reading for any citizen who wishes to keep in touch with the development of the city. So few people realize the amount of work which has been done in this department during the past few years, that it would be well if every citizen gave the report a studious perusal. It would enlighten them not a little as to the quality and class of work carried out under the supervision of Mr. J. W. B. Blackman.

To the list of presidents of the council contained in this report there should be added the name of Mr. J. Stilwell Clute, senior, who served the balance of the term of Mr. John Robson in 1866 when that gentleman resigned after his election to the B. C. legislature.

THE CHANGED TIMES.

In a church meeting in the United States a deacon said, "When I moved to this locality, while the express was delivering my furniture, a grocer's cart drew up and asked for my custom, which that establishment obtained. It is probable that if a church visitor had made as early a call I should have been attracted to the church that had thus shown itself alive to do business and its interest in me."

Here the modern rule of competition asserts itself in the last strong hold of venerable conservatism. In business the people are not won by worth but by hustle, and by shouting in their ears with no matter what effrontery. The business which fails to shout out its own merits, no matter how distasteful the process, goes under.

Then the big business devours the little one, then the big ones combine and competition is swallowed up in monopoly. The painter of today if he would draw attention at all, must, it seems, do it by some screaming absurdity that will put all good pictures out of sight.

When he has got attention he can then possibly afford to be respectable. The newspaper of today must follow like tactics. If it would be talked of, it has to be made up in inch-long type, shouting any sort of folly that has a good shout in it.

Why this change in the world's ways? Is it one of the changes that are working for the world's good, as in the depths all things are working? The general fact is that a change has come over the world, and a good change.

The appeal used to be to a limited class. It is now to the whole people. Once the people were simply herded; now they must be deferred to Shakespeare had small respect for the groundlings. They were for the most part capable of nothing else but mere dumb show and noise. The tastes of the multitude are still crude, and it is surprising to note how high in the scale of living those crude tastes rule. When mingled with social assumption they become vulgarity.

Of that we have plenty. The tastes of the people are being gradually raised. Meantime the world has to be taken as it is, and he who would succeed must please the people. He who would do the people good must know them and love them.

Is there anything here for the church to learn. Are any new ways needed for the changed times—times in which the former church-goer buys him a flaming, blaring Sunday picture paper and forgets to go to church.

Can the church compete with that? It must reach the people; and if it must it can. It must face this problem with these conditions in view. Thoughtful and philosophical preaching, of which St. Paul's was a model, has its place. Paul said, "We speak wisdom among them that are perfect," but he also had milk for babies.

We mistake St. Paul if what has been preserved to us was his only method of address, if he was not able to adapt himself to simple people. In our own churches it is the little address to the children that even the learned remember best.

It will be the church that speaks to the people in the people's language in terms of the concrete things of daily life that will reach the people, and, for that matter, will reach the educated as well. The greatest of preachers followed that rule.

The preacher who keeps in his mind's eye a lad of fourteen or younger at the back of the audience, and makes sure of interesting him, may almost ignore the rest of his congregation. They will all listen and remember.

But to get the ear of such as do go to church—even to inspire them, is not all that is needed at a time when according to a veteran of the pulpit, the church-going habits of the people are falling off.

The question is not only how to reach those inside the church, but how to reach mankind. In the competition of churches mankind practically means the sort of people who can support a church, if those have to be pursued to the mountain tops. The church's task is the spread of human fellowship. Its task is in the valley.

For that it needs all its united forces, not in competition, but in firm alliance. Let it set this motto of fellowship before it—fellowship in the first place of all engaged in the same great service, but let it include in its aim of brotherhood every son and daughter of Adam.

Let it adopt every means by which it can show its good will to men, and, if these are even moderately adapted to their purpose, there will be no lack of response. The mission of the church is to society to make it over into the kingdom of God.

The way of the Founder was not to change the laws of the land, but to change indicidual men, and to implant the leaven of mutual love, mutual service, and mutual uplift.—Montreal Witness.

THE REAL ROOT OF ALL EVIL.

"The Question of Paying Ready Money" is the subject of a useful article in the Girl's Own Paper and Woman's Magazine, in which the writer mentions many points that are worth the serious attention of the newly-married.

For instance: What we "own" means happiness. What we "owe" means misery. Twenty per cent. of the increased cost of living during the past twenty years can be traced to the credit system. Ninety per cent. of the marital unhappiness can be traced to dissensions over financial matters. These percentages have been furnished by men who who have thoroughly studied the subject.

And the cure for these evils, so these authorities claim, is the perfect understanding and thorough appreciation of a dollar's purchasing value on the part of both husband and wife. These can be secured only by handling money, paying ready money, and carefully watching each cash transaction.

The man or woman who, when paid at the end of the week, the month, or the quarter, exchanges his or her salary for a stack of receipted bills, is the individual who complains that he does not know what becomes of his earnings. This is not a plea for penuriousness, but a direct, straight-from-the-shoulder blow at the credit account system in the enticing, and dissension-provoking forms in which it is practised in the present day.

The habit of having things booked, of saying, "I can pay next week, next month, next year, what I cannot pay today," piles up debt and breeds wrinkles. More cases of insomnia can be traced to debt than to overwork. The shadow of a man who holds a mortgage or a note that is overdue, or the collector for the piano or drawing room suite, or the milliners and dressmakers clamoring for money due on feminine finery long since worn out, has driven more men to suicide than has business or bank crashes.

In this twentieth century, it is the waste of money, not the love of it, which is the root of all evil, particularly domestic evils. More men—and women—are brought to trouble because they lack money to pay for what they have already eaten or worn out than because they desire to acquire or hoard money.

In the average home or with the average individual, hoarding maney has gone out of fashion, because it is spent before it really comes in. This is particularly true of salaried persons, high-salaried, medium-salaried, minimum-salaried. The only difference between the three classes lies in the amount of credit extended from one salary day to the next.

FIRST THINGS.

Order of Odd Fellows.

The first American lodge of Odd Fellows was founded in Baltimore ninety-four years ago today by five members of the Manchester Union of Odd Fellows, and English body founded in 1813, and which was one of the many orders of Odd Fellows existing in England since 1745.

The pioneer society in Baltimore was named Washington Lodge, No. 1. Two years later the grand lodge of Maryland and the United States was constituted. The American order continued its affiliation with the Manchester Unity until 1842, when the relations were severed. The American society extended its jurisdiction to Canada in 1843, when it issued a dispensation for opening the Prince of Wales Lodge, No. 1, in Montreal.

The present membership is 1,476,317 in the United States and 86,512 in Canada. Pennsylvania leads the states with a total of 148,508, and Ontario heads the Canadian provinces with 46,972. The anniversary of the founding of the order is celebrated annually on the twenty-sixth of April by many lodges.

SCRAP BOOK FOR TODAY

Cornaro, Greatest of Centenarians, Died 347 Years Ago Today.

A certain famous actress has recently been engaged in explaining to the public—for a consideration—the methods by which she hopes to live to be a hundred. Doubtless her recipe for longevity is excellent, but it remains to be proven.

In the meantime, the best method for attaining a ripe old age is probably that outlined by Luigi Cornora, a Venetian, who died, aged 103, at Padua, 347 years ago today, April 26, 1566.

The lapse of centuries has not dimmed his fame, and he remains the greatest of centenarians. There have been thousands of others who have since attained the century mark, but they have usualy been fortunate individuals endowed with strong constitutions and with a tremendous "will to live."

Cornaro, on the other hand, was born with a poor constitution and at forty was a physical wreck. Then he set about, deliberately and with intent, the task of living to a hundred.

Born to wealth, Carnaro in his youth indulged his appetites to the fullest extent. When he began his reformation, with one foot in the grave, and prematurely old at forty, his first step was to confine his diet to only such simple foods as an invalid might readily digest.

At the end of a year he was cured of most of his ailments. With returning health he increased his menu, but confined it to only such foods as agreed with him. This necessitated the elimination of pork, pastries, cold wines and other items of which he was very fond, but which upset his digestive processes. He also made it a point to eat always a little less than his appetite craved, and to leave the table with his demands for food and drink not quite satisfied.

"Moderation in everything," sums up the Cornaro recipe for long life, as set forth in his many pamphlets, which are still classics of their kind. He exercised regularly, but avoided excessive fatigue. He refused to remain in a room that was poorly ventilated, but always guarded against extremes of cold and heat. He kept regular hours for eating and sleeping and never permitted anything to interfere with them.

He cautioned against the indulgence of such emotions as anger and hatred, and cultivated a calm and philosophic attitude toward life. In his last treatise, written when he was nearing the century mark he had set for himself, he wrote: "The world was never so beautiful to me as now."

At seventy the Venetian sage seemed doomed to disappointment in his great ambition, for he suffered an accident that physicians declared would certainly prove fatal.

Cornaro refused the bleeding and purging treatment urged by the doctors as offering him his only chance of life, and, to the amazement of the medical men, speedily recovered from his injuries.

Although he has been dead nearly three and a half centuries, Cornaro continues to exercise a profound influence. His works were studied by the ancestors of Edison, with the result that several of the progenitors of the electrical wizard lived to be centenarians.

After all, the rules of Cornaro may be reduced to the phrase, "common sense," which, as has often been remarked, is about the uncommonest thing in this world of folly.

No man is stronger than his stomach, declared Cornaro. Common sense and moderation are to be applied to everything connected with human life, but to nothing so much as food. And the golden rule of all of Cornaro's rules is this:

When anything you have eaten causes distress, find out what that thing is, and then, in the language of moderns, cut it out.

SYNOPSIS OF COAL MINING REGULATIONS.

COAL MINING rights of the Dominion in Manitoba, Saskatchewan and Alberta, the Yukon Territory, the Northwest Territories and in a portion of the Province of British Columbia, may be leased for a term of twenty-one years at an annual rental of $1 an acre. Not more than 2560 acres will be leased to one applicant.

Application for a lease must be made by the applicant in person to the Agent or Sub-Agent of the district in which the rights applied for are situated.

In surveyed territory the land must be described by sections, or legal sub-divisions of sections, and in unsurveyed territory the tract applied for shall be staked out by the applicant himself.

Each application must be accompanied by a fee of $5 which will be refunded if the rights applied for are not available, but not otherwise. A royalty shall be paid on the merchantable output of the mine at the rate of five cents per ton.

The person operating the mine shall furnish the Agent with sworn returns accounting for the full quantity of merchantable coal mined and pay the royalty thereon. If the coal mining rights are not being operated such returns should be furnished at least once a year.

The lease will include the coal mining rights only, but the lease will be permitted to purchase whatever available surface rights may be considered necessary for the working of the mine at the rate of $10 an acre.

For full information application should be made to the Secretary of the Department of the Interior, Ottawa, or to any Agent or Sub-Agent of Dominion Lands.

W. W. CORY,
Deputy Minister of the Interior.

New Spring Shades Are of Rainbow Hue

The compounders of the new dyes, who are now manufacturing colors as subtle, as vivid and as artistic as the famous dyes of the east, do not hesitate to go to the Oriental sources and glean from them knowledge and inspiration for novel shades with which to delight the western world.

It is from Japan and China, the old China of the Ming dynasty, that they have culled the data for the soft, dull blues, the faded scarlets, the fascinating mauves and other carefully blended tones which make the new fabrics more alluring and more appealing than those of previous seasons.

And it is from Bulgaria that they have adopted the brilliant reds and blues, greens and yellows, intensified by the black outlines. If one would trace the changes in colors, as in fashions, it would be found that there is nine times out of ten a "news" interest as the source of inspiration.

The "Bals Persians" brought into vogue last summer all things Oriental and in order to have the eastern stuffs a clever reproduction it was essential that the colorings should be soft and subtle. The war in Bulgaria has had the same effect in bringing into favor all the vivid colorings so characteristic in the national dress of the country.

Yellow a Leading Color.

One of the leading colors is yellow in various shadings, from the soft pretty maize to the deep tangerine yellow. The newest tone is known as Chinese yellow, and has the intensity of the lemon color and the same intensity of the lemon color and the same suggestion of green which might be found in a lemon before it is quite ripe.

This shade is very similar to sulphur, which has been so very gashionable this winter. The delicate maize tones are often found in the new embroideries in place of the dead white. All the ecru tints are well liked, and cafe au lait is extremely fashionable. The deeper tones of tan will be well represented this spring, and though this is a trying color for the blonde, if she has a sallow skin, it is so becoming to the brunette with a high coloring that it is sure to find favor.

As it deepens into the tobacco shades it will be more universally becoming.

Browns Share Popularity.

The brown shades share the popularity showered on yellow, and the Havana and seal tones are particularly well liked. Brown and taupe will both be used as neutral coloring, much as black has been for the last few seasons, and tan gloves, it is expected, will be more stylish than white ones.

The taupe shade, though suggestive of winter, will be worn as one of the neutral tints, but it will have to give way somewhat to putty, one of the new spring shades. The putty tone is especially well liked in the cloth materials. Another shade, which is quite as fashionable, is covert.

These two shades are mong the novelties shown in the exclusive importations. Another color which has only a slight tint to differentiate it from putty is twine, the color of the faithful string which binds up our packages.

The Red Series.

The red series is particularly interesting. There are the reds, with much yellow in their make-up, some as deep as orange, others more suggestive of the salmon and coral tints. There is likewise a distinct yellowish cast to geranium, which is very stylish in afternoon and evening costumes.

There is a decided contrast in the reds with a violet tinge, such as the new Neil Rose, named for Miss Eleanor Wilson, and the aster colorings. There is still another red, more eastern in composition than the others, and this is reminiscent of the Chinese lacquer.

New Blues.

There are two distinct blue series—the soft, dull blues of the Orient and those with a marked purplish hue. There is large proportion of gray in the colder Japanese blues, which is lost in the more vivid Jersian blue and the bright blue of the Tunis sky.

In the deeper shares, such as raisin, there is a very noticeable addition of purple. Some of the blues are so very deep and intense in color that they are almost black, and in this category there must be included midnight blue and raven's wing.

In the latter there is just a suggestion of the iridescent blue which gives an appearance of richness and elegance to the pointed ends of the wings of this sombre bird.

Green a Spring Color.

Green is essentialy a spring color, and will be used more this season than for several years. Even the olive green, which heretofore has been considered a winter color, is expected to be popular.

Grass green will be very widely used. The greens which have a slight bluish cast, with yellow, in their make up, wil lbe found cooler in appearance during the hot months than those with a metallic hue.

Touch of High Color.

The purples show both the red tinge, as in royal purple, and the bluish hue as in the faded Japanese mauve or amethyst, and in both shadings they will be exceedingly popular.

Quantities of white will undoubtedly be worn, but invariably with discreet additions of a brilliant color to relieve the coldness of pure white.

THEATRE OF YESTERDAY.

Some Stage Reminiscences of Forbes Robertson.

London, April 4.—Forbes Robertson, the distinguished actor, who, after a short season at Drury Lane, is leaving England for a two years' tour in America, was entertained at a farewell dinner at the Hotel Cecil by the O. P. club.

In responding to the toast to his health, Mr. Robertson said that when he first went on the stage there were nine legitimate playhouses. There were now three times that number. That vast improvement made by the Bancroft regime, both before and behind the curtain, led to gradual reforms in theatrical management all round.

That spirit of reform was later splendidly maintained by Sir John Hare and Mr. and Mrs. Kendal, followed by the reign of Sir Henry Irving at the Lyceum. He was proud to have been connected with that distinguished generation of actors. They were part and parcel of his stage education and their encouragement lifted his sometimes drooping spirits to fresh hopes and aspirations.

From Mrs. Kendal he got not only encouragement, but lectures. One was on marriage. He obeyed her behest to marry an actress, and it turned out quite a success. Samuel Phelps he might well call his stage father, and the Bancrofts and the Kendals he liked to think of as his godfathers and his godmothers.

A later generation gave us, fortunately, Sir George Alexander and Sir Herbert Tree. He had acted with almost every prominent player in his early days, and he was proud to recall that all were his personal and dear friends.

The first lady he ever made love to—on the stage—was the beautiful Mrs. Rousby. The second he was called upon to woo was Miss Ellen Terry, then only in her 26th year. Henry Irving said to him one night when he was puzzled what to do next, "Play Hamlet, my boy, play Hamlet."

It was entirely due to the encouragement of Irving and Miss Ellen Terry that he attempted the part. Speaking of the state of the drama in the present day, Mr. Robertson expressed the opinion that it was a fortunate thing that variety houses and kindred establishments were giving stage plays, since it encouraged a taste for the legitimate drama in many that the regular playhouse did not reach.

Street promenading by young persons was called attention to at a conference of the Dundee committee on public morals. Chief Constable Carmichael stated that the practice of promenading the streets was more prevalent on Sundays than on any other day of the week. No offence appeared to be committed, and the police could not, therefore, interfere.

WEDDING BELLS

On Thursday, April 24.—Mr. Chas. Taylor and Miss Florence E. Dalrymple, both of New Westminster, were united in marriage at 1006 Dublin street by Rev. A. Dunn. Only a few intimate friends of the contracting parties were present at the ceremony. Mr. and Mrs. Taylor will continue to make their home in this city.

WIVES MAY MAKE MEN OF HUSBANDS

Next to Rearing Children Is Desire to Contribute to Uplift of Husband.

The first passion of a woman is her love for her children. Is that true? If it is true, her second passion is her desire to make a man of her husband.

We hear much about self-made men. It might do us good to hear more about wife-made men. There are a lot of them. Many of the best men in the world—the greatest in statesmanship, science, art and literature—have freely acknowledged their indebtedness to women. Prhaps to their wives they are indebted—possibly to other women.

A wise wife is she who completely fills her function, being comrade and source of inspiration. If she doesn't do it, some other woman may. Not every wife earnestly seeks to be a helpful companion. Not every one who tries succeeds.

The wife who contributes to her husband's uplift and helps to enlarge his vision must not be denied high credit for his career. The best part of many a man is the femininity which comes from his wife.

High character which counts for his success may have originated in her. His ideals may have come from her: to her he may owe his purposes.

And her joy in it is exquisite. This is a woman's greatest work, next to the rearing of her children—if it is second to that. And in all great work there is keen pleasure.

Altitude Record Broken.

Annapolis, Md., April 24.—The hydro-aeroplane altitude record was broken twice here today. Lieutenant F. W. L. Belding of the marine corps, ascended 5710 feet in a Curtiss machine. Later Ensign Victor Berbster climbed 4480 feet in a Wright machine. The former record was 3500 feet made by Lieutenant John H. Towers of the navy.

The Cameron Highlanders, now stationed at Edinburgh Castle, are keen on indulging in a cross-country run every week.

May Day Corner

Our May Day festival is year by year gaining additional charm and interest throughout the province and Canada, while at the same time the fact is never lost sight of by its workers that it is purely and simply a children's festival.

Therefore reminiscences and suggestions from old timers, native sons and daughters, from British Columbians born elsewhere, from any one who can tell his or her fellows something that may be of help to the still further improvement of the festival, or may be of general or historical interest, will be welcomed as contributions to this column by the New Westminster News.

"Happy hearts and happy faces,
Happy play in grassy places.
That was how in ancient ages
Children grew to kings and sages."

One of the most actively engaged of all committees during the past week has been the publicity committee, and, thanks to the efforts of its members the May Day celebration of 1913 will be more widely known than any of the previous fetes held in this city.

The committee has launched a most aggressive publicity campaign and every paper within a 200 mile radius of this city has been supplied with articles setting forth the many attractions of the celebration.

This includes two Seattle papers which have always been found ready to publish stories regarding New Westminsted, the Vancouver papers, the various weeklies of the Fraser valley, South Vancouver, and North Vancouver and the dailies of Victoria.

A number of articles have been published in the papers outside of the city and the majority of the publications have announced their readiness to accept more as the fete is creating widespread interest. Pictures of the May Queen and her consorts have also been widely published and will probably be more so as the day on which the great event approaches.

Decorate Market.

Through the efforts of the committee and the co-operation of Mr. D. E. MacKenzie, market clerk, the market was decorated with placards yesterday morning announcing the date of the celebration and instructing the farmers to bring along the children with them when they visit the market next Saturday.

Mr. MacKenzie gave his personal assurance to many of the farmers that their children and in fact all children, from the Fraser valley and this district would be entertained by the committee in charge of the arrangements in the most enjoyable manner possible.

"We asked them to bring them all," said Mr. MacKenzie to a News representative.

The committee chairman, Mr. P. W. Luce, has asked the editors of the various papers of the Fraser valley and representatives of the Vancouver, Seattle, Victoria and Nanaimo papers to act as judges in the decorated automobile competition and some have already acceded to his request.

Several members of the committee have been canvassing the various merchants of the city for their support to the May Day celebration in the way of decorating windows for Friday, May 2, and generally they have found the business men most anxious to co-operate. A number of merchants have yet to be approached but all will be got into line by Monday at the latest.

The window dressers of many of the stores are scratching their heads for ideas as to decorating the plate glass front windows of their establishments and no doubt Columbia street on the second will show as brilliant an array of dressed windows as has ever been seen in this city before or in any other city for that matter.

In Days of Old.

It is intensely interesting to contrast the May Day revels of 40 years ago with the present form of celebration. In the early seventies the Hyacks were the ruling spirits of the old time festival and right merrily do they seem to have performed their duties

Although New Westminster must have presented a very different aspect to what it does now the same gladsome spirit and kindly desire to give the children a happy day and to keep up a cherished old time custom prevailed.

In 1872 Miss Bonson was May Queen and the chariot in which she was drawn to the old cricket ground was the fire engine, yclept the "Fire King" all garlanded with flowers.

The ex-queen was Miss Lizzie Irving and both delivered speeches.

Queen Marian Bonson.

Miss Monson's speech was as follows. To the ex-queen, she said:

"Gentle Lady—I receive this diadem from your hands with the humility becoming my royal estate and thank you for your courtesy sincerely. I hope that your loyalty may be rewarded by future happiness."

To the audience she spake thus:

"My Beloved Subjects—In assuming the reigns of government for the day I trust that my reign may be a propitous one. My experience only extending to that time of life when happiness and gaiety are the ruling features of existence, I wish only to rule you with the anxious desire to cultivate these blessings in the hearts of my people and hope that I shall receive that loyal support and assistance that a sovereign may hope for who worthily strives to perform her mission.

"Let innocent sports stimulated by music and laughter be universal throughout the realm and I now command that care and sorrow be banished from your minds during my reign."

Played Kiss-in-the-Ring.

The children then formed circles and played "kiss-in-the-ring."

Dancing by adults also took place on the sward.

Refreshments were served to the children, then the ladies and then the gentlemen, the last of whom are said to have "reduced ham joints, etc." in a manner that appeared almost magical.

Mummers, four ladies and gentlemen masked, were a feature of the celebration in those days, although it is shrewdly suspected that the only feminine attribute of the "ladies" was their garments.

Their antics it is said, would give points to the most advanced suffragette.

It is noteworthy that Miss Bonson was the first British Columbian young lady to be elected May Queen.

First Lieutenant Welsh was in command of the Hyacks on this occasion.

was a disgrace to civilization. They cannot guarantee any title. Go to Mr. McQuarrie's firm and they won't guarantee any title.

He saw the land office was to be enlarged, but there was something radically wrong in the way they were doing their work there and the board should make a strong protest. Something could and should be done.

It was finally remitted to the legislation committee to wait upon Mr. Gifford, M.P.P., to point out to him the gradual removal of public offices from the city and assure him of their hearty support in any action he might take to retain them.

Road Grant.

Mr. Kerr raised the question of the Dominion road grant and the wrong that the province would sustain if it were granted on the basis of population which Ontario and Quebec were agitating for.

It was agreed to forward a resolution to Premier Borden, Sir Wilfrid Laurier and the members of the lower mainland at Ottawa urging that the grant for road purposes be based on the territorial principle.

Mr. T. H. Smith and Mr. W. G. McQuarrie voiced the sentiments of the community when they strongly denounced the disgraceful arrangements at the C. P. R. depot at Westminster Junction. Passengers for Westminster were often taken to Vancouver against their will, the train was often locked up and passengers could not alight at the depot.

Instances were given of passengers having to jump from moving trains at the risk of life and limb, land in the mud and travel back to the depot on foot.

It was resolved to communicate with the railway commission, the president pointing out that they had a specific case to lay before the commissioners.

Tram to Port Moody.

Mr. Curtis asked if there was any information about the tram line to Port Moody.

The president said the B. C. E. R. were willing to build the line, but could not at present owing to the condition of the money market and their having so many branch lines to operate. They had the line surveyed, however, and have taken it into their careful and sympathetic consideration. The city wanted communication with Port Moody and the desire was strongly reciprocated by the latter.

The secretary was instructed to communicate with the company and ascertain the prospects for the building of the line.

Industrial Commissioner.

The president reported on the conference with the Progressive Association and the city council as to the appointment of an industrial commissioner. It was suggested that the Progressive Association undertake the work of an industrial bureau and secure the services of a commissioner. The Progressive Association were considering the matter and the result remained to be seen. If they adopted the suggestion the matter would be referred back to the board and the city council. The report was received.

The secretary reported on several subjects referred to him to be taken up with the B. C. E. R. company. As to the overcrowding of the cars to Chilliwack the company would endeavor to remedy the grievance. As to local complaints he would have to see Mr. Purvis, the interurban manager, about them.

The exorbitant charges of the Telephone company for conversations with Coquitlam occasioned a lengthy discussion which gradually widened to embrace the iniquities of the company generally.

The president wound the subject up by advising the meeting not to lay down simply because the company said they could not reduce the toll.

A special committee consisting of Messrs. Lusby, W. J. Kerr, and the secretary was appointed to investigate further and report.

Coming Banquet.

The banquet to the four new municipalities, Port Coquitlam, Port Moody, Coquitlam and Fraser Mills, was considered and fixed for Friday, May 9.

The desirability of cultivating closer relations with the new cities and municipalities was emphasized and it was hoped the business men in the city would roll up in satisfactory numbers to the entertainment.

Mr. T. H. Smith directed attention to the deplorable state of the Yale road, opposite the green timber which was impracticable for auto or rig traffic.

From Delta.

A letter from S. W. Fisher, secretary of the Delta Board of Trade, was read as to the advisability and feasibility of improving the communication with New Westminster on the installation of the proposed ferry between Ladner and Woodward's Landing, in view of New Westminster's harbor improvements.

The president said there was a short piece of road to fix to connect with their present road. They were about seven miles distant from Woodward's.

The President—Now that our harbor bill is passed the B. C. E. R. will build there just as soon as the road is open.

On motion of Mr. O. Wilkie, the letter of the Delta board was endorsed and the matter remitted to the municipal committee to see the B. C. E. R. officials as to the reduction of the rates referred to, and along with the city council and Richmond to see what action could be taken to get communication between Ladner and New Westminster.

Mr. Wilkie gave particulars of the establishment of the Fraser Valley Development league in Vancouver and asked that the Board of Trade should send industrial exhibits representative of New Westminster by June 21, as the Vancouver Progress Club were holding an exhibition there on that date and they expected 20,000 visitors to the premises.

The matter was referred to the secretary to act.

Reeve Poppy, of Langley, wrote saying he had been appointed by his council a delegate to the agricultural convention to be held in the city on May 8, and informed the board that delegates from the Aldergrove and the Langley Farmers' Associations would also likely be in attendance.

MILLIONAIRE WILL APPEAR AS WITNESS

After Search of Two Days Banker Will Respond to Warrant—White Slave Investigation.

Los Angeles, Cal., April 25.—George H. Bixby, the Long Beach banker and capitalist, wanted as a witness in the county grand jury's white slavery investigation and for whom officers have been searching two days in an effort to arrest him on a bench warrant, will respond in court in person Monday morning.

That announcement was made tonight after Chief of Police Sebastian and Oscar Lawler, formerly assistant attorney general in the department of the interior at Washington, and now acting in a legal capacity for Bixby, had a lengthy conference at the police station.

Lawler declined to divulge the whereabouts of his client, who was believed to be either in Arizona or Nevada, but Chief Sebastian agreed to Lawler's propositions to produce him and let him personally respond in court to the bench warrant and later to the subpoena summoning him to testify before the grand jury.

The bench warrant was issued Wednesday afternoon by Township Justice Reeve when Bixby failed to respond to a summons to appear as a witness in the case of Mrs. Josie Rosenberg, proprietress of the Jonquil, a pseude hotel, who was charged with procuring white slaves for wealthy men.

Officers searched Bixby's Long Beach home twice, but said they found nothing except evidences that the millionaire had made a hasty departure in an automobile Monday afternoon.

PRAIRIE FIRES RAGE DESPITE HEAVY RAIN

Total Damage Will Not Be Known for Some Time, But Will Reach Thousands.

Moose Jaw, Sask., April 25.—Despite the rain, snow and sleet which has fallen recently, fires are still raging in the south country according to late advices.

It will be several weeks before the total damage is known, for the settlements are far apart and the homesteaders have poor facilities for sending out news.

Already the damage amounts to thousands of dollars for the fire has spread over a wide area and in places got within six or seven miles of the main line of the C. P. R. and stretched as far south as the international boundary. East and west the fire was in places fully 100 miles in width, for it is generally conceded that it is but one fire which has spread out and run in swaths in which ever direction the wind has taken it.

In the Blue Hills, almost directly to the south of the city, many settlers have been burned out and the losses there will run into thousands of dollars.

A farmer near Expanse named Wilson Latimer was burning a manure pile and the fire got away from him. Five families were completely burned out and their stock, feed and stables barned. This fire was directly traced to Wilson Latimer, who admitted that the fire had started on his place and he told how the accident happened. He was fined $25 and costs and it is probable that several suits will be started against him.

SUCCESSFUL DANCE

Graduate Nurses' Association Entertained in St. Patrick's Hall.

One of the most successful social events of the season took place at St. Patrick's hall last evening, the occasion being the second annual dance of the Graduate Nurses' Association of this city.

Between 70 and 80 couples attended and all appeared to enjoy themselves throughout the evening's dancing, Rushton's orchestra discoursing the music until the early hours of this morning.

Refreshments were served in the dining hall, the committee in charge being well commended for the arrangements made. The tables were decorated in a tasteful manner.

TODAY'S SPORT CARD.

Today's sport in this vicinity takes a slump in the number of games to be played, although if Old Jupe is only kind enough the soccer fans should be provided with plenty of excitement at Sapperton, while the baseball enthusiasts should be able to loosen up at Queens park where the city teams will get in action.

The following are the items set down for today:

Soccer.

City league semi-final—Sapperton vs. Bankers at Sapperton, 3:15 o'clock.

School league—Lord Kelvin vs. St. Louis, Moody park, 9:15; John Robson vs. Herbert Spencer, Moody park, 10:15.

Baseball.

City league teams practice.

Boxing.

Fighting Dick Hyland vs. Kid Scaler, 15 rounds, Steveston, 3 o'clock.

Rifle Shoot.

104th regiment and N. W. C. R. A., Brownsville ranges, 2 o'clock.

UNUSUAL INCIDENT AT POLO GROUNDS

Giants Would Have Won Game From Phillies if Umps Had Been Looking.

New York, April 25.—New York and Philadelphia played an 11 inning tie game here today, neither side scoring. Both Demaree and Alexander pitched great ball, McGraw's recruit doing the cleaner work and holding the visitors to three hits.

An unusual incident deprived New York of victory in the tenth when the Giants apparently won. Merkle opened with a single and Herzog bunted. Merkle beating Alexander's throw to second. Wilson then bunted safely and with the bases full and none out, McCormick was sent to bat for Demaree. He hit the first ball pitched for an apparent single which scored Merkle.

Players of both teams ran towards the club house and the crowd swarmed on the field. Manager Dooin, Captain Doolan and other Philadelphia players rushed at Umpire Klem, pointing out that he was not in position when the ball was hit. Klem had his face turned to the stand and was announcing that McCormick was batting for Demaree. He agreed with Manager Dooin that he was not in position and called for the game to go on. Many of the players had started to change their clothing and it took more than a quarter of an hour to clear the field.

When play was resumed McCormick hit into a double play and Snodgrass was thrown out by Doolan.

Klem explained after the game that the reason McCormick's hit did not count was because he was not in position, and quoted section four of rule 28 to sustain his position.

SPORTOGRAPHY.

(By "Gravy.")

Pitcher Caldwell 25 Today.

Ray Caldwell, who is one of the pitchers upon whom Peerless Leader Chance depends to land New York in a first division American league berth this season, is just a quarter of a century old today.

The Highlander twirler is a native of Corydon, Pa., and was first heard of outside of his own bailiwick when he was twirling for the McKeesport, Pa., team of the Ohio-Pennsylvania league.

Last year with the Highlanders Caldwell lost 16 games and won just half as many. That isn't a very flattering showing, but, then, it was a bad year for the Kilties.

Hunt club racing under the auspices of the National Steeplechase and Hunt Association is scheduled to begin today, and, from the recognitions granted, it is certain that the "gentleman's" sport will flourish this year as never before.

Dates have been awarded to hunt clubs in New York, Pennsylvania, Maryland, District of Columbia, Virginia, Massachusetts, Ohio, Georgia, New Jersey, West Virginia, South Carolina, Vermont and Michigan.

One of the longest professional baseball careers on record was commenced 28 years ago tomorrow, when Billy Hart twirled his first game for Chattanooga, in the Southern league. In 1910 Hart ended his career where he had commenced it, in Chattanooga.

In the interval of a quarter of a century the great pitcher played in both major leagues and in most of the big minors, and established a come-back record. After playing with Chattanooga, Lincoln, Neb., Des Moines, Sioux City and Buffalo, Hart broke into the majors in 1892, with the Brooklyn Nationals. In 1894 he was sent back to Sioux City, but the following year found him back in the National, this time with Pittsburgh.

After two years with St. Louis he returned to the Smoky City in 1898, and the next year was with Milwaukee, back in the Western league. In 1900 he made his American league bow, with Cleveland, but was canned again in 1902, and in that and the following year pitched for Peoria.

After three years as an umpire, he went back to his first love, the Southern league, twirling three seasons for Little Rock before going to Chattanooga in 1910 to finish his career.

TODAY IN PUGILISTIC ANNALS.

1906—Jack Johnson defeated Sam Langford in 15 rounds at Chelsea, Mass.

1908—Frankie Conley bested Johnny King in eight rounds at Elgin, Ill.

1909—Owen Moran and Frankie Neil fought 12 round draw at New Haven.

1909—Abe Attell defeated Riz Mackey in eight rounds at Columbus.

1912—Young Jack O'Brien defeated Happy Davis in 10 rounds at South Bethlehem, Pa.

1912—Luther McCarty knocked out Joe Hagen in third round at Bartlesville, Okla.

1912—Packey McFarland defeated Abe Attell in 10 rounds at New York.

RESUME SEARCH FOR FRANKLIN EXPEDITION

Captain Peter Bayne, Aged 69 Years, Takes up Quest Begun When a Young Man.

Seattle, April 25.—Captain Peter Bayne, aged 69 years, probably the last survivor of Dr. Charles Hall's Franklin expedition that sought for three years, beginning in 1866, for the remains of the Sir John Franklin expedition, and which succeeded in establishing the fact that all its members had perished, has undertaken in his old age to complete the work that he began when he was 22 years old.

He has purchased the old Arctic schooner Daxbury and is now outfitting her with power and supplies for a cruise to Victoria land, where Sir John Franklin's body is buried in a tomb made by his own men. Bayne will sail for the Arctic on June 1 and expects to reach Point Barrow, the northern extremity of Alaska on Aug 1. The summer of 1914 he will sail easterly.

The Hall expedition that brought back in 1869 many relics of the Franklin party was composed of 12 men and set out from Repulse Bay.

Motoring, as with aeroplaning, is still not without its dangers. While passing through Dundee, a motor car owned by Provost Soutar, Carnoustie, came to grief, the occupants narrowly escaping serious injury.

Robert Wilson, who has just completed a record of 40 years' faithful attentionto duty as a vanman in the employment of Messrs. Macleay, Duff & Co., Glasgow, has received from the firm and employees a beautiful tea and coffee service as a recognition of his worth.

CALLS APPOINTMENT ACT OF JUSTICE

Archbishop Langevin Makes Statement in Connection with New Cabinet Minister.

St. Boniface, April 25.—His Grace, Archbishop Langevin has issued in French and English the following pronouncement in connection with the entrance into the Manitoba cabinet of Hon. Joseph Bernier:

"The nomination of a Catholic as a member of the Roblin government is an act of justice due to the Catholics of this province, who have a right to be represented in the cabinet as well as other groups less numerous who have many representatives and this is the reason why his grace, the archbishop has not made it his duty to oppose this appointment.

"However, it must be clearly admitted that under the present circumstances this nomination seems to be a gift rather fatal and embarrassing made to appease Catholics who, in spite of the Caldwell School amendments which are only a soothing draught, are dissatisfied because nothing has been done to relieve the situation so painful in mixed centres, particularly since the transfer of the territory of Keewatin to Manitoba, therefore his grace, the archbishop has not intended by his abstention to approve the present nomination which will not be either a consolation or a compensation for the Catholics who have always been victims of politics.

"Nevertheless party spirit must not make us forget what has already been done to ameliorate the condition of Catholics in the country districts and to protect their menaced rights, nor permit that a sentiment adverse to the Hon. Mr. Bernier or to those whom he represents, should diminish the merit of a just reprobation of all that can appear as an abandonment of our school rights. Catholics will continue more than ever to claim with vigor and dignity that justice which is their due according to the constitution of the country."

EDISON THEATRE.

The enthusiasm which greeted the showing of the "Cowboy Millionaire" films at the Edison last evening when the house was filled during every performance, has compelled Manager Kerr to continue the film throughout today's shows. It caused one of the best laughs heard in the Edison for some time, the films depicting the cowboy's life in the middle west and how the foreman of the ranch, Bud Noble, drops into a windfall of several million dollars left him by an uncle in Chicago.

Bud leaves for Chicago still in cowboy clothes but meeting a pretty stenographer, marries her and begins to hit the pace, going out to all kinds of functions, joins a prominent club and becomes a member of the "400."

A year of this life gets on his nerves and he wires the boys on the ranch to ship their outfit to Chicago and show the citizens just what a real cowboy is like.

In the second part the scene changes to where the cowboys, dressed in evening clothes, visit the theatre and how they shoot up the villian in the play for assaulting the heroine.

The Market.

A decline in duck eggs both for hatching and consumption, an advance in the price of veal and in chickens and hens liveweight were the principal features in the quotation list at the city market yesterday when there was one of the best business sessions of the season.

There was a large attendance of farmers and an equally good turnout of buyers. The attendance was somewhat contrary to expectations as on account of the unfavorable weather conditions and the condition of the roads on the south side of the river after the rain a smaller turnout than has been usual for the past few months was looked for.

The principal cause of the drop in duck eggs was due to an excessive supply. Chickens and hens, live weight, advanced on an unusually keen demand while the increase in veal was due to a scarcity in the supplies.

Hens eggs and butter are coming in plentifully, the former finding a ready sale at quoted prices. Butter was sold readily at prices varying with the quality offered.

The arrival of meats was well up to the average and dealers in this line of produce did a brisk business.

Vegetables and potatoes are coming to hand readily with no marked change in the demand or price.

The florists offered a full complement of all kinds of flowers, pot plants, shrubs and tomatoe, cabbage, celery and cauliflower plants.

The auction sale was one of the best of the season, a large number of both horses and cattle being sold. Prices were about the average. One team of agricultural horses brought $475. A good single driver fetched $185.

CANADIAN HISTORY TODAY

APRIL TWENTY-SIXTH.

This day, in the year 1849, found the parliament of United Canada homeless. On the previous day, Lord Elgin had given his assent to the unpopular rebellion losses bill, and as he left the parliament buildings (of Montreal) a mob with cries of "No pay to rebels!" had flung stones and addled eggs and other missiles at his carriage.

The assembly had continued in session, until at night the infuriated crowds had gathered in the "Champ de Mars," rushed to the parliament buildings, and "with a succession of roars that seemed to split the air," had thrown sticks and brickbats into the hall where the legislators were sittings.

The members were forced to seek refuge in the lobbies and behind the speaker's chair, but soon hundreds of ruffians burst into the buildings, shattering the furniture, smashing the lamps and finally setting the building on fire in several places at once.

A valuable library and all the public records of the Canadian provinces were destroyed in the conflagration.

The alarm that night was great, but on the following day, April 26th, the assembly, with commendable calmness, met in the immense bare room of Bonsecours Market, and, while the mob howled without, passed resolutions approving of Lord Elgin's refusal to veto the bill.

Sir George E .Cartier's Canadian Pacific railway bill—afterward to be the cause of a tremendous scandal and a government-wrecking political storm—was introduced forty-one years ago today.

It provided for the building, under charter, of a stretch of steel to extend "from some point on, or near, Lake Nipissing to some point on the shore of the Pacific ocean." The measure further provided for a subsidy of not more than thirty million dollars in cash and fifty million acres of land, to be given in block of a score of miles in depth on either side of the line in Manitoba, the Northwest Territories and British Columbia, alternating with blocks of similar extent to be held by the Dominion government.

The debate lasted over a month and was marked by statements that now seem highly humorous. Mr. Blake, in the role of prophet, declared that British Columbia was nothing more than a "sea of mountains," and scoffed at the idea that the western country would ever be developed to an extent worthy of so huge a sacrifice.

Of the railway system that now operates some thirteen thousand miles of track, and is constantly increasing its mileage in the "worthless" western provinces, another member predicted that it would "never be able to pay for the axle-grease for its wheels."

The measure passed on May 28th, and then came the clash of rival financial interests, and the consequent political utrmoil.

Joseph Cullen Blair, one of the most eminent of American pomologists, was born in Truro, Nova Scotia, forty-two years ago today. On this date in 1880 Alexander Mackenzie resigned the Liberal leadership in the Dominion.

THE HUMAN PROCESSION.

(By O. Terence.)

Robert Herrick, 45 Today, Says Men Are the Real Idealists.

That men are the real idealists and women the materialists, popular conceptions to the contrary, seems to be the opinion of Robert Herrick, the University of Chicago professor who has of late years gained wide fame and popularity as a novelist.

This contention runs through all of Professor Herrick's novels, especially his latest works, "The Healer," and "One Woman's Life. The latter, by the way, bears a resemblance in idea and title to Maupassant's greatest novel, "Une Vie," although the plot is dissimilar.

In "The Healer" we have a man possessed of a great gift that raises him above commercialism, a natural, liberty-loving man who is impatient of the conventions and who hungers for a life in the Canadian forest, far above the beaten track. The wife, enamored of what Mr. Herrick calls "the double damned respectability of Suburbia-Philistina," sought to bend her husband to her will. She sighs for the intimate solitude of those honeymoon days in the Canadian wilderness, alone with her man,—and clings desperately to the "sodden comforts" of the city suburb, and this is woman nature, says the professor, —"to lap herself in comfort and dream of the stars."

In his latest novel, "One Woman's Life," Prof. Herrick falls short short of his usual standard, and is merely pleasing without being strong. Yet the story deals interestingly with a common type of woman—the daughter of a bourgeois family who longs to be in "society," and who, after her marriage to a newspaper artist, attempts to "put up a better front" than their financial circumstances will permit.

The Hon. Otway Randal Percy Oliver Plunkett, eldest son and heir of the fourteenth Lord Louth, will reach his majority today, and become the object of attention from title-hunting young ladies.

The Louths have their seat in the county Louth, Ireland, where they have ruled as barons since 1541. Louth Hall, the ancestral estate, comprises about five thousand acres. The present Lord Louth is a Catholic in religion and a Conservative politically

One of the best works dealing with the problems of immigration and labor in recent years is the production of Dr. Isaac A. Hourwich, who was born in Russia fifty-three years ago today. This eminent Jewish economist and statistician was educated at the University of St. Petersburg and at the Academy of Medicine and Surgery in the Russian capital.

Abandoning medicine for the law, he was admitted to the bar in Russia in 1887. Four years later he emigrated to America, and was admitted to the Chicago bar in 1893, and to the New York bar in 1896. Since 1900 he has devoted himself to statistical labors and the writing of books, of which his latest is "Immigration and Labor." Incidently, his first book, published in Russia, earned for him eight months of solitary confinement in prison and four years in Siberia. Dr. Hourwich does not believe that restriction of immigration offers any solution of the labor problem.

He is an iconoclast toward many other popular economic theories, and offers original ideas on many subjects, the fruit of long study and experience.

Dean Henry Hurd Rusby of Columbia University College of Pharmacy, who is fifty-eight today, is probably the greatest of present day botanical explorers. In the interest of medical botany he has led expeditions in many remote sections of North and South America, discovering several hundred new species and genera.

N. Douglas Deuchar, on behalf of the Scottish Humanitarian League, has forwarded an appeal to the lord provost of Edinburgh urging that in the zoological gardens proposed to be established at Edinburgh care should be taken to avoid certain features of the London Zoological Gardens.

DOMINION LANDS, RAILWAY BELT

New Westminster District.

The following applies only to the New Westminster Dominion Lands Agency.

Squatters on Dominion Lands in the New Westminster Agency who are not located in Timber Berths will be given until Monday, the 19th day of May, 1913, within which to appear and make application for entry.

Squatters whose claims have been allowed, who have not yet secured homestead entries, will be notified by the Dominion Land Agent at their last known address. In the event of any such squatters failing to appear and make application before the date mentioned, their claims will lapse and the lands will be otherwise disposed of on and after that date. If, however, good reason is shown for failing to appear and the improvements on the land are of substantial value a further period of protection may be allowed by the Agent in cases of merit. Claims not yet dealt with must be filed immediately.

Squatting on Dominion Lands without the authority of the Department will not henceforth be allowed and will result in loss of claim and forfeiture of improvements.

Doctors Use This For Eczema

Dr. Evans, Ex-Commissioner of Health, says: "There is almost no relation between skin diseases and the blood." The skin must be cured through the skin. The germs must be washed out, and so salves have long ago been found worthless. The most advanced physicians of this province are now agreed on this, and are prescribing a wash of winter green, thymol and other ingredients for eczema and all other skin diseases. This compound is known as D. D. D. Prescription for Eczema.

Dr. Holmes, the well known skin specialist, writes: "I am convinced that the D. D. D. Prescription is as much a specific for eczema as quinine for malaria. I have been prescribing the D. D. D. remedy for years."

We ourselves vouch for the D. D. D. Prescription for eczema and absolutely believe that it will take away the itch the instant you apply it. D. D. D. Soap helps too. Ask us about it. Frederic T. Hill, druggist.

THE LAST LAP

"THE BUSIEST STORE IN TOWN." That's what he said—one of the boys who came drifting into our store last Saturday night made the remark. He didn't stop to think what made it busy. EXTRAORDINARY VALUE was the cause of it; dead up against it for hard cash was the reason. On April 1st, like a lot of other fools, we found that we had got into a hole. We had to get out. We had overbought. We were overstocked. Clamorous creditors pressed us, so we had to unload. Into it we went, tooth and nail. Old time prices faded. The new order reigned; get the money, let the profit go hang. We got it, we're getting it. The creditors we paid said "Thank you," and shut up but there's a few more we've got to get to say the same thing. When they're satisfied, we're satisfied, and the shoe-buying public are delighted. ALL'S WELL.

Women Play Big Part in Spying on Nations

"I have little doubt that you were entrapped by a woman, who was nothing but the agent of some foreign person engaged in this traffic, and that you were ingeniously trapped and fell. Because I think that, I think I may show some sore of leniency, but it cannot be light, the crime is too great."

It was in these impressive terms that Mr. Justice Darling addressed George Herbert Parrott, formerly a gunner in the navy, who was recently found guilty of communicating naval secrets to a foreign country, before sentencing him to four years' penal servitude.

There is little doubt that Parrott was fooled by a woman spy, whom he accidentally met at a music hall, and who passed on the information which she got from him to those by whom she was employed.

It is a striking illustration of the tricks and wiles of the female adventuress who lives by scheming to steal state secrets, a character which not a few people consider exists only in the minds of imaginative novelists.

The Shoeburyness Affair.

As a matter of fact, this is only one of several instances which have come to light of late years, showing what a prominent part women actually play in the secret service of the different countries. There was a notable affair at Shoeburyness four years ago. A German governess took up her residence at Southend, three miles from Shoeburyness, and said that she was employed by several prominent families to give lessons in German to the children in their own homes.

This naturaly took her out and about a great deal. Then came periodical visits to Shoeburyness, where she formed an acquaintance with a young naval officer, whom she told the people with whom she resided she was going to marry. As a matter of fact, this was quite untrue, but it helped her to keep up an acquaintanceship which might, otherwise, have looked suspicious.

It was the naval officer himself who gave the game away. For a week or two he kept company with the girl, but her inquisitiveness concerning the guns and naval matters generaly made him somewhat suspicious, and these suspicions were confirmed when she ultimately suggested that for certain plans there was a good sum of money awaiting him. The result was that he promptly informed his superior officer, and the young woman was persuaded that this country was a somewhat unhealthy one to live in.

Amazing Expense.

In regard to naval spies, we are no better than our neighbors, and while foreign countries have hundreds of spies in this country endeavoring to ferret out war secrets, we have ours in their countries and engaged in the same work.

The spies are supplied with all the money that they need, but get no assistance from their respective governments should they be caught; and they are fully alive to this condition when they enter upon the secret service for their country.

In military warfare women spies are very much in evidence. Indeed, their value is fully recognized by our leading soldiers, and Lord Wolseley actualy states in his well-known "Soldier's Pocket Book," "the purlieus of Leicester Square could supply our army with spies. . . . All should be petted and made a great deal of, being liberally paid and large rewards given them when they supply any really valuable information."

During the South African war women were employed as spies by this country to a very large extent. Disguised as nurses in the field hospitals, they exercised their arts of fascination over captured and wounded Boers, and thus secured much valuable information.

A Tragic Mystery.

Short, sharp, and merciless was the treatment meted out to a young Russian woman, belonging to one of the leading families in St. Petersburg, who during the Russo-Japanese war, endeavored to worm naval secrets from a young Japanese officer in Manchuria after he had fallen a victim to her fascinating ways.

Forgetting all loyalty and patriotism, the young officer in his infatuation agreed to furnish her with certain plans and facts concerning the guns and movements of the Japanese army and navy which he had special facilites for acquiring; but his intention was betrayed by a fellow-officer who had obtained some inkling of what was going on.

The result was that both the young officer and the woman mysteriously disappeared one day and have never been seen or heard of since. Their fate can easily be surmised.

Betrayed in an Opium Den.

Some time ago the trial took place at Toulon, of a young woman named Jeanne Renee, alias Bourg, who was accused of having induced certain naval officers to reveal secrets to her regarding French submarines, which she intended to sell to a foreign power.

The young woman, for she was only twenty-one, was an opium slave, and it was while in an opium den in Toulon that she first attempted to bribe a naval mechanic named Julien, employed in the central workshops of the fleet, to be her accomplice. Julien, fortunately for himself, promptly reported the matter to his superior, and the result was that the woman was arrested.

Then there was the case of a young and beautiful woman named Peterson who was arrested at Kiel, in Germany, on suspicion of being a French spy. Passing as a teacher of languages, she had entered into a love affair with a non-commissioned officer named Dietrich of the explosives department, for the purpose of inducing him to reveal important German naval secrets.

She had, by the exercise of her arts of fascination, attained complete ascendancy over the young fellow, who was found to be supplying her with the formula for the manufacture of German smokeless powder and the situation of port mines.

The attention of the authorities was first drawn to her by the ample funds she always seemed to have at her disposal. Then there was the case of the notorious French beauty known as La Bella Lison, who fascinated a young French officer, Lieutenant Ullmo, who, in order to obtain the means to gratify the extravagant whims of this woman, had sold some of his country's secrets to a foreign power.

He was discovered, put on trial and the most important witness against him was the young woman who had ruined him. In the end he was disgraced publicly, and sentenced to imprisonment for life.

Perhaps the most astonishing fact regarding the secret service is the immense amount of money which the various governments expend in maintaining their battalions of spies.

For instance, the estimate of the amount required by Great Britain in the year ending March 31, 1913, to defray the charge of his majesty's foreign secret service is £50,000, at which figure it has stood since the year 1906-7. Germany's activity, however, is strikingly illustrated by the fact that the imperial parliament continues to vote every year the minimum sum of £600,000 a year as spy money, while the vote in France for the military secret service averages £180,000.

In Italy, £40,000 is spent annually on the secret service, and another £46,000 for detective service at home and abroad, while in Russia the total amount spent on spy money for 1912 amounted to £335,000.

As one writer has put it, how is it possible for there to be universal peace when countries are spending such amazing sums every year spying on one another.

NO BLUE BLOOD HERE.

Remarkable Record of Men of Napoleon and Cromwell—Rose From Ranks.

After Cromwell's, perhaps, the most effective army, cateris, paribus, that ever took the field in modern times was that of Napoleon, whose principle of promotion was the same as "Old Noll's," and most of whose famous marshals had risen from the ranks in conformity with his knapsack-baton maxim.

Bernadotte, the founder of the present Swedish dynasty, was the son of a petty lawer at Pau, and the grandson of a village blacksmith; Murat began life as a stable-boy, and became king of Naples; Massena's parents were poor tanners and soap-makers; Soult was the son of a small solicitor; the father of Lannes was a humble tiller of the ground; Ney, "the bravest of the brave,' 'was the son of a poor Alsatian cooper; Souchet's father was a silk manufacturer; Jourdan's father was a country leech; Augerau's father was a stonemason, while his mother kept a furniture shop even as the mother of Patrick, the patron saint of Ireland, was credibly reported to have "kept a shebeen shop in the town of Inniskillen."

Mortier came of farm stock; Oudinot, like Cromwell, was the son of a brewer. Marshal MacDonald's father, a Uist crofter, who had followed Prince Charlie to France after Culloden, little thought that his son would one day bloom out into the Duke of Tarentum; while his comrade, Lefebre, Duke of Dantzig, began life as a barrack-room brat—his father having been a private Hussar.

He himself married a washerwoman—familiar to most of us as "Madame Sans-Gene," and accordingly, says one Nopoleonic Plutarch, "the record of this hard-fighting soldier of the empire is buried in ridicule."

A dispute as to which was entitled to the funeral insurance money of their mother was the cause of the appearance of two middle-aged brothers, William Kettles and James Kettles, in Glasgow police court. They quarrelled and fought over money matters. They were released on bail so that they could attend the funeral of their mother. Bailie McConnell imposed a fine on each of 10s.

Nova Scotia Man and Wife Both Benefited By GIN PILLS

JUST how much difference GIN PILLS can make in the home life can be guessed from the letter below. Where formerly both husband and wife were in more or less constant misery with backache, they are now delighted to be almost free of the old trouble.

Lyons Brook, N.S.

"You are perfectly free to use my name in any way to benefit GIN PILLS, for they deserve the highest praise. My back has never troubled me since taking GIN PILLS, and my wife feels much better after taking GIN PILLS for her back. She thinks GIN PILLS will make a complete cure."

JAMES L. NAUSS.

Why shouldn't you or any of your friends who may be suffering with Backache, Rheumatism, Lumbago, Sciatica, Weak or Strained Kidneys, Burning or Scalding Urine, Painful Urination or frequent colds in the Kidneys and Bladder, get the same relief that so quickly came to the Nauss home when they started to use GIN PILLS?

Word has been received here that Rev. G. W. Ray, who lectured in the Queens Avenue Methodist church in this city recently and who a short time ago addressed the Canadian club in Vancouver, was arrested on Thursday by the police of Victoria, as he was about to take passage on a ship bound for San Francisco. With him was Mrs. Bella Marshall, a Calgary woman whom he was believed to have induced to elope with him. Mr. Ray, who is known as the Livingstone of South America, is married and has a wife and two children in Toronto. Mrs. Marshall has repented and has agreed to return to her husband in Calgary.

The California Jubilee Singers gave a delightful concert before a large audience in the Queens Avenue Methodist church last evening. The Jubilee Singers are probably the best colored vocal artists ever heard in this city. Each number rendered was good and all were encored to an echo. Arrangements have been made whereby the Jubilee Singers will give a sacred concert in the Queens Avenue Methodist church on Sunday evening at 8:15 o'clock. The concert will be given under the auspices of the Y. M. C. A., no charge being made for admission.

Rossinni's overture "William Tell," Beethoven's Symphony in C Minor, and Harold's overture "Tampa" are three of the instrumental numbers that will be rendered. Solos will be given by Miss Lilian Highton and Mr. G. Alderdyce. Mr. H. D. Mackness is leader of the orchestra.

The City Treasurer wishes to remind water consumers not using meters that the date for saving the rebate on the present quarter year's advance payment of water rates expires on the 30th inst. at 5 p.m. (1168)

Mr. Savage Guest of Honor.

Although not in the same class as the "Cowboy Millionaire," who tired of the city life wired for his cowboy outfit to come and waken up the Windy City, Mr. Edward Savage is just beginning to wonder when the celebrations in honor of his approaching step from the ranks of the bachelors will cease. For the past three evenings he has been the guest of honor at social evenings, last night's gathering at the Westminster club, which took the form of a stag party, being the climax to the festivities, with Mayor A. W. Gray in the chair. Among those present were Mayor Gray, C. A. Welsh, P. W. Fau Vel, T. D. Coldicutt, C. Olsen (Portland), Dr. F. P. Smith, Hugh Kennedy, T. Freeman, R. D. Hendry, Alderman F. J. Lynch, Aldereman Kellington, C. A. Bourne, H. Major, M. J. Knight, Dr. McKay, D. W. Gilchrist, with Mr. Ed. Savage as the guest of honor.

R. A. & I. Society Meeting.

At a meeting of the executive of the R. A. & I. society held last evening active preparations were ordered to complete arrangements for the holding of the annual provincial fair in this city at the end of September. The success that attended the staging of special amusement features last fall impressed the members of the executive that a more comprehensive plan along this line was feasible and several acts that will be entirely new to the people on this side of the continent will be brought here for the fair.

Typo Union Smoker.

The fourth anniversary banquet of Typographical Union No. 632 will be held in the Labor Temple on the afternoon of April 27, an event always looked forward to with interest by all the members of the organization in this city together with the leaders in the union world of New Westminster and district. The officials in charge of this year's celebration, Messrs. H. Gibb, W. E. Maiden and R. E. Monteith, promise to even exceed the arrangements of last year, the vocalists and instrumentalists being of the best while Bill Maiden has been losing sleep every day of the week doing the Isaac Walton stunt along the bank of the North Arm for members of the finny tribe which will form the starters to a sumptuous feast. The proceedings will commence at 3 p.m.

CHAMBER OF COMMERCE TO CONVENE IN SAN FRANCISCO

Washington, April 25.—San Francisco was selected today as the next meeting place of the directors of the chamber of commerce of the United States who concluded their deliberations after a two day session here. Details of the trip which the directors will take to the Pacific coast in July, the purpose of which is to link the western and eastern states in the unifying work of the chamber were also decided on.

Leaving Chicago on July 6, they will visit Denver, Salt Lake City, Los Angeles, San Francisco, Portland, Seattle, Spokane, Helena and St. Paul and probably other cities. Meetings will be held in each of these cities to acquaint business men with the purposes of the organization.

A resolution was adopted by the board denouncing the exemption of labor and agricultural organizations from prosecution under the anti-trust law, as provided in the sundry civil bill, a violation of the fundamental principle of equity in law enforcement.

To President Wheeler of the chamber of commerce who called at the White House today, President Wilson expressed deep interest in the organization.

JUST THREE WIVES.

Chatham, Ont., April 25.—Peter Schram, tried in the county court yesterday on a charge of bigamy, was sentenced by Judge Dowling this morning to six years in Kingston penitentiary. Schram has three wives living and one dead. At the trial two of the wives testified against him.

WEDDING BELLS

Mr. Alexander Fraser of this city and Miss Evelyn Anderson, recently of Aberdeen, Scotland, were wedded at the home of Mrs. Fraser of Regina street, on Thursday evening. Rev. Gordon Melvin performed the nuptials. The ceremony was of a quiet nature, only the immediate relatives of the bride and groom being present. After a short honeymoon Mr. and Mrs. Fraser will take up their residence in this city.

ANOTHER OLD TIMER CROSSES THE DIVIDE

Death of Mrs. George A. Munday Removes Well Known Citizen—Arrived Here in 1887.

In the death of Mrs. Constance Jane Munday, which occurred at her residence on Knox street, Sapperton last evening, New Westminster lost another of the old timers and there are many friends who have known her for years that will mourn her death.

Deceased was the wife of Mr. George Anthony Munday being born in England. They were married in North Croy, Kent, England in 1861, leaving that country for California in 1887. The California climate and conditions, however, did not appeal to them and later in the same year they moved to this city and took up their residence on Columbia street, Sapperton. It was only two years ago that the couple celebrated their golden anniversary when over 50 relatives were present at the gathering which took place in the old homestead on Columbia street.

Deceased is survived by a husband, seven sons, three daughters, twenty-seven grand-children and two great-grand-children. The sons names are George, Thomas, William, Harry, Edward, James and Matthew. The daughters are Mrs. Donald McLean, Pitt Meadows; Mrs. Norman Wood, Alberni and Mrs. Edward Teather of this city. One daughter, Mrs. C. Dynes, pre-deceased her some years ago.

The funeral will take place from St. Mary's Anglican church, Sapperton at 2:30 Monday afternoon. Mr. W. A. Fales has charge of the funeral arrangements.

HORTICULTURAL EXHIBITION

Burnaby Society Appoint Judges for Garden Competition.

Edmonds, April 25.—Final arrangements for the prize lists and entry forms for the horticultural exhibition were made, together with the appointment of judges of the gardens at a meeting of the executive of the Burnaby Horticultural Society at Edmonds on Thursday evening. The judges of the gardens will act under Mr. W. A. Dashwood-Jones.

It was decided that all garden entries must be in the secretary's hands by June 1. The entry forms and prize lists are now in the printers' hands and will be mailed to members as early as possible.

It was arranged to send a representative of the society to the next meeting of the Burnaby Lake Progressive Association to interest the residents of that locality in the work of the body.

A great deal of interest is being displayed in the coming exhibition and a large entry in all classes is looked for. The secretary or any of the committees will be glad to give full information to intending competitors.
