LOOKING FOR SUCCESSOR TO PRESIDENT HUERTA

Washington Government Has Secured Moral Support of the World Powers in Effort to Untangle Mexican Affairs—Personal Representative of President Wilson Confers with Constitutionalist Chief and Cabinet.

Washington, Nov. 12.—Secretary Bryan announced today that a statement would be issued within a few days setting forth the policy of the United States towards Mexico.

Whether or not the statement will be in the form of a communication to congress by President Wilson has not been disclosed, but some of the diplomats here believe that course will be followed. The statement has been under consideration for several days. Secretary Bryan in his conference with members of the diplomatic corps has made it plain that the statement would define clearly the attitude of the United States.

The pronouncement, it is thought not only will reiterate the views that the United States can never recognize a government established by arbitrary force, but will give its reasons for refusing to recognize any acts of the new congress either as to the validity of loans or concessions and point out the steps necessary to a solution of the problem.

It was apparent that developments in various foreign capitals brought encouragement today to administration officials. There was a feeling among them that the desire of the United States to prevent interference by the powers was virtually accomplished.

Nations Concur.

Premier Asquiths' speech explaining that Great Britain wished to do nothing that was unfriendly to the United States, semi-official assertions from Berlin that no financial assistance would be given by Germany to Huerta, a definite understanding with France that nothing would be done by that country to embarrass the processes which the United States has selected to solve the Mexican situation, assurances from the Japanese ambassador that the sending of the armed cruiser Izumo to Mexican waters was for no political purpose, but merely to extend protection to Japanese subjects if necessary—all tended to confirm the belief here that the Washington government finally had secured the moral support of the other world powers in its efforts to unravel the Mexican tangle. It is also felt that from no part of Europe will Huerta receive financial assistance.

The fear reflected in some of the dispatches from abroad that the overthrow of Huerta might produce a state of anarchy in Mexico City unless a strong substitute were provided immediately agrees with the point of view of many senators who have been discussing that phase of the situation with President Wilson. The Washington administration has taken cognizance of this eventuality and if Huerta retires in accordance with the program desired here, it is said, there need be little fear of any physical disturbances in Mexico City.

Who Will Succeed Him?

In the plan of the United States to afford Huerta every opportunity to retire peaceably there is a desire for a definite understanding also as to who the succeeding president would be. The United States recognizes that the provisional successor must be acceptable to the Constitutionalists if the latter are to stop fighting. Close observers of the situation pointed out that the United States was in a better position today to bring about an understanding between the Constitutionalists and the authorities at Mexico City than has been possible since the United States first interposed its good offices to solve the situation.

Hale Meets Carranza.

The conference today at Nogales, Sonora between William Bayard Hale and General Carranza and the members of the Constitutionalist cabinet, opens the way for a direct line of communication between the Constitutionalists and the Mexico City authorities. Peace commissions have endeavored in vain heretofore to establish a line of diplomatic parley between the two sides.

One of the difficulties hitherto encountered in attempting to get the two sides to the point of discussing an armistice has been the difficulty of telegraphic communication. With the United States as a medium of communication it is thought possible that Carranza might indicate who would be acceptable to him as a successor to Huerta if the latter finally yielded to the persuasion of some of his friends and retired. Word reached Washington today that officials close to Huerta were urging him to retire.

Conferred with Cabinet.

Nogales, Sonora, Nov. 12.—Crossing a narrow little street from the United States into Mexico, William Bayard Hale, personal representative of President Wilson, met the Constitutionalist chief, General Venustiano Carranza and his cabinet, and presented to them a definite proposal from the American government.

What that proposal was the American diplomatic agent declined to say. The Mexican revolutionary leaders also were silent, but to those who have been anxiously awaiting the development of the American policy with regard to Mexico, it was fraught with possibilities for the destinies of the war-worn republic and her relations with her northern neighbor.

Into a little room of the tiny aduana or customs house in which General Carranza has established his "ad interim" capital, the American emissary was ushered to meet the chiefs of the rebellion against Huerta. Carranza and his entire cabinet were there, and with them Hale conferred, exchanged views and impressions and conferred from noon until the shadows grew long and enveloped the twin towns of Nogales, U.S.A. and Nogales, Republica de Mexico.

Salvation or Destruction.

Both towns unanimously decided the conference was the most portentous event in their history. Their peoples frankly believe that in fact it was making history and that on its outcome depended fate—not merely victory or defeat for a single political party of Mexico, but possibly peace or war for two countries, and probably the salvation or destruction of a nation.

The conference was held amid the simplest surroundings. There were no uniforms, no ceremony. Hale, accompanied by American Consul Frederick Simpich, entered the customs house and they were ushered into the tiny room. There they found straight back chairs lining the wall. The only decoration was a gilded coat of arms of the republic of Mexico. This hung over the place reserved for General Carranza. Hale, dressed in travelling tweeds, was surrounded by Mexicans in sombre black and grays. Ygnacio Bonillas, an American university alumnus, and Carranza's minister of communications, was the official interpreter for the American representative and General Carranze.

Bonillas took President Wilson's proposition from Hale and in Spanish interpreted it to the rebel leader.

During the time the men were in conference a number of anxious Mexicans paced the patio of the customs house. Across the boundary on the American side of the street dividing the two towns, there were several hundred American refugees from Mexico, who eagerly awaited news from the conference chamber, believing that safety of their possessions left in Mexico when they took the advice of President Wilson to get out of the country, depended on the outcome. But no word as to what President Wilson had proposed to Carranza through Hale, or what the rebel leaders thought of the proposal, was allowed to leak out.

Hale went direct from the conference house to the American side and entered into communication with Washington.

LOCAL LABOR MEN TO TAKE ACTION

Criticize Heavy Sentences Given Nanaimo Strikers by Judge Howay.

Mass Meeting to Prepare Petition—Investigate Conditions at Provincial Jail.

Condemnation of what they termed were severe and savage sentences, handed out to miners convicted in the Vancouver Island strike trouble, by his honor, Judge Howay, was voiced by several speakers at the Trades and Labor council meeeting held last evening and to this end a mass meeting will be called for some evening of next week when different speakers will be present to protest against such judicial action and initiate a petition throughout the province which when signed, will be forwarded to the minister of justice at Ottawa.

Delegate Dodd brought up the matter on behalf of the Street Railwaymen's union, stating that it was impossible for New Westminster labor men to remain quiet when similar action is being taken in different parts of the province.

Delegate Grant, in support of the mass meeting project, charged that the evidence against the convicted men had been manufactured out of whole cloth and that the men had pleaded guilty on the advice of their counsel on the strength of what was supposed to have been a promise from the prosecution that the sentences would be light.

Delegate Cameron in speaking to the motion to hold a mass meeting mentioned the interview obtained by The News with Judge Howay in re-

CHINESE SENATE WILL DISAPPEAR

Yuan Shi Kai to Summon Administrative Council—Present House is Unwieldly.

Pekin, Nov. 12.—President Yuan Shi Kai intends to summon an administrative council, which in addition to transacting state affairs, will draft regulations governing the new parliament. The new council will number 71 members, consisting of the cabinet officers and others appropriated by the president and the provincial governors, who have already been appointed by him.

Yuan Shi Kai considers the present house of representatives is unwieldly and desires its reduction to 300 members. The original number of representatives was 596. The powers of the parliament will also be materially curtailed and the senate will disappear, giving place to the administrative council, which will be the permanent body.

This program was announced today and it probably will be carried out if the opponents of the president are not able to bring about its modification.

In the meantime the remnant of parliament is permitted to continue holding informal meetings, but can do no business, because of a lack of a quorum.

IS BUSINESS FOR PERMANENT EXPERTS

Municipal Administration Not for Politicians Placed in Temporary Control Says Speaker.

Toronto, Nov. 12.—A factor in recent municipal advance, said Clinton Rogers Woodruff, of Philadelphia, tonight in his annual review before the National Municipal league, is the realization that municipal administration is a business for permanent experts and not for politicians placed in temporary control of our cities by the fortunes of the ballot. Mr. Woodruff is secretary of the league, which began here tonight its nineteenth annual meeting.

The "city manager" plan, he said, is an evolution of the Galveston idea. In short it constitutes a natural and effective solution of governmental forms under American conditions.

Regarding public control of public utilities, Mr. Woodruff said:

"The question is not shall there be public control or none, but as to the form of that control. It is now generally conceded that public utilities and chief among these are municipal utilities must be carefully supervised and controlled so that the rights of the communities and of the users may be adequately protected. That is municipal advance."

Mr. Woodruff spoke of recent experiments in selling municipal bonds "over the counter" as evidence of increased interest by citizens in municipal management.

The commission form of city government, he continued, although first tried only 13 years ago, has lost its novelty as an experiment, and the idea has gained in popularity with remarkable rapidity.

"Non-partisanship," he asserted, "has been the aim of the newer forms of government. It has been promoted by ignoring party designations on the ballot and eliminating the party ticket and the machinery by which it has been brought forth.

"Municipal home rule has been making great gains within the last few years. Non-partisanship the direct election of federal senators and municipal home rule, all represent municipal advance of the most effective kind in that they place municipal affairs purely on their own basis."

Invitation to Professor.

Ottawa, Nov. 12.—The minister of militia has invited Sir William Leishman, professor of pathology at the Royal Army Medical college, London, and honorary physician to the king, to come to Canada and deliver an address before the association of medical officers' meeting in February next. Sir William is the greatest authority on anti-typhoid inocculation. It is understood he will give an address also at Toronto and Montreal.

PRICES CONTINUE ON UPWARD TREND

Statistics Gathered at Ottawa Show Cost of Living Is Increasing.

Heavy Exports to United States of Live Stock and Dairy Produce—Affect of American Tariff.

Ottawa, Nov. 12.—The statistics gathered by the labor department show that Canada is maintaining its reputation for high prices. The index number, which shows as accurately as can be done, the relative change in the cost of living is nearly one point higher for the month of October than for September.

The index number for October, 1912, was 135, for September, 1913, it was 136, while for last month the figures just compiled show that it was 136.8. This is a very unusual increase for one month except for January, which is largely a price setting month. The reports from different parts of the country show that the retail prices of meats, eggs, milk and butter are all higher. Evaporated apples and coal are also among the commodities that are still going up.

Wholesale prices are also higher for corn, peas, Ontario barley, hay and bran. Cattle and beef were also well up as well as dairy products, except cheese. Fresh Canadian fruits and potatoes commanded higher prices.

Some Lower.

Some of the wholesale prices, however, were lower, including wheat, flax, western oats and barley, hog and hog products, imported fruits, beans, opinions and canned vegetables. There were lower retail prices also for potaonions and canned vegetables. There were lower retail prices also for potatoes as the crop came on the market, and for beans, flour, rolled oats and sugar.

While the substantial rise in the general average of prices for the month is apt to be attributed largely to the heavy exports to the United States of live stock, dairy products, etc., it is really difficult to read in detail as yet the effect of the American tariff. In some articles which were reported as being exported largely across the line there have been drops in prices.

This, however, may simply be due to the flooding of the market owing to export movement and high prices expected. If this is the correct explanation it only proves the more clearly the extent of the general movement and may presage higher prices than even when the temporary glut is relieved, and the supplies in the country are found to be badly depleted.

October showed the highest price ever paid for jute—the highest for cotton since 1911. Textiles have gone up as a result, steel, quick silver, silver and tin were lower as well as rope, and raw rubber, but brooms were much higher.

U. S. Minister to Siam.

Washington, Nov. 12.—Alex. Sweek, of Portland, Ore., has been selected by President Wilson to be minister to Siam. He was formerly a member of the Oregon state senate, being president of that body at one time. Secretary Lane has been urging Mr. Sweek's appointment and Secretary Bryan recommended him for the post today.

TWO HUNDRED REPORTED KILLED BY EXPLOSION

Lima, Peru, Nov. 12—Official telegrams report a continuance of the earthquake in the province of Aymareas, in the department of Apuramitic. The city of Chalihuanca, with a population of nearly 4000, capital of the province, is reported to be in ruins.

A private telegram says that the deaths number more than 200.

Apuramitic has a population of nearly 200,000. It is composed of provinces of Adancay, Aymareas, Anta and Cotanambas, and a portion of Ayacucho.

STORAGE COMPANY CONSIDERS OFFER

City Council Makes Reasonable Proposition—Now up to B. C. Packers' Association.

What is likely to be the climax of an ardent endeavor to retain the Columbia Cold Storage company in this city takes place today when W. H. Barker, manager of the B. C. Packers' will be told the city's proposition to accommodate the cold storage company on the local waterfront. George Cassady, manager here, will explain the offer to the general manager following an all-day session yesterday of the city council, the manufacturers' committee, and Mr. Cassady.

One clause of the offer is known to be satisfactory to Mr. Cassady. That is the offer of a waterfront site at the foot of Tenth street, near the Royal City Mills. The remainder of the offer will be made public only after Mr. Barker decides upon it.

This offer is considered a fair one by the city but whether the same applies to the B. C. Packers' remains to be seen. Certainly that concern is considering it seriously for the contract for the Steveston plant is being withheld until the city's proposition is passed upon.

LADY STRATHCONA DEAD.

London, Nov. 12.—Lady Strathcona, wife of Baron Strathcona and Mount Royal, high commissioner for Canada, died today. She was the daughter of the late Richard Hardisty of Canada.

Comet to America.

Dublin, Nov. 12.—The secretary of the Irish department of agriculture, T. H. Gill, left today for the United States. He will endeavor to induce the American government to remove the embargo on Irish potatoes.

CANADA WILL DO HER DUTY

Ottawa Paper Says Government Will Fulfill Imperial Obligations.

Action to Be Taken Will Not Be Made Known Until Return of Prime Minister.

Ottawa, Nov. 12.—Not until the return to Ottawa of the prime minister will it be definitely determined what action will be taken at the next session of parliament on the question of Canadian participation in naval defence, declares the Evening Citizen, which goes on to say:

"The question has been before the cabinet and it is understood that the final decision on the matter rests with the premier.

"There is but one opinion among the government and its supporters of the urgent need of Canada making a start towards helping the mother country, the line favored being that of last session, pending the formation of a permanent policy. The obstacle, however, is the Liberal senate. There appears to be no change in the sentiment of that body on the question and Liberal senators who have been to Ottawa of late have openly stated that any naval bill of the character of that proposed last session will meet a similar fate.

"Under the circumstances there is, among some on the government side, a question as to the wisdom of re-introducing the bill, but that this action may be taken is not improbable. If it should be, the bill may be the same as before, or it may produce the same effect while being varied in form.

"In any event, it is the firm intention of the government to fulfill its imperial obligations and the three dreadnoughts that have been accelerated by the admiralty to replace those proposed by the Canadian government, will on completion, probably be paid for by Canada, assuming that by that time the hostile majority in the senate is overcome.

"The Laurier naval act is not likely to be repealed until there is a measure to replace it."

AFTERMATH OF THE THREE DAYS STORM

Freighter Lying Bottomside up in Lake Huron Still Unidentified.

Number of Hunters Reported Lost on Lake Michigan—Conditions Improve in Cleveland.

Port Huron, Mich., Nov. 12.—After working desperately since this morning in an unsuccessful attempt to positively identify the derelict freighter which lies bottomside up in stormy Lake Huron, eight miles northeast of here, marine men returned to Port Huron tonight. Most of them said they were convinced that the boat is the Packet freighter Regina.

Captain George Plough, of the Lakeview life saving station; Captain Thompson, of the wrecking tug Sport, and Captain Carmine, of the revenue cutter Morrell, all said today that the wrecked boat resembled the Regina so closely that they were convinced the latter must be the victim of the strange accident. The Regina's beam is 43 feet. Captain Plough measured the overturned boat and said her beam was slightly more than 42 feet.

The wreckage from the Regina washed ashore yesterday, including a lifeboat which contained two bodies of sailors positively identified as members of the crew of the Regina, indicated that the freighter was wrecked in the vicinity where the overturned vessel was found.

Little credence is given here to the report from Goderich, Ont., that the bodies found on the shore of Lake Huron below Grand Bend were sailors on the steamer Chas. S. Price, reported lost. The Price may have sunk, marine men admit, but it is believed the bodies are of the crew of the Regina. They were found not a great distance from where the Regina victims, found in the row boat, were washed ashore. It was also learned that one of the sailors, whose clothes contained a letter addressed "Care steamer Chas. Price," formerly worked on the Price, but later joined the Regina crew.

Diver Willing.

When the relief fleet steamed out to the floating wreck this morning a diver was taken along. A gale was blowing across Lake Huron and waves were dashing ten feet over the derelict, but the diver urged the captain to allow hi mto attempt to climb down the side of the vessel's bow to ascertain her name. The men in command considered the plan foolhardy and refused to allow the diver to leave the tug. They promised to give him a chance tomorrow, provided the lake is not so rough.

A report this afternoon from Port Frank, Ont., stated that eight more frozen bodies were washed ashore in a lifeboat there today. Wires are down and the identity of the lifeboat could not be learned.

Hunters Missing.

Detroit, Mich., Nov. 12.—No more wrecks or vessels in distress were reported today from points on Lake St. Clair and along the Detroit river. A number of hunters believed to have been on these waters in open boats when the blizzard swept Michigan Sunday, are still missing.

H. R. Welsh, a Pontiac automobile manufacturer and his hunting companion, Creston Strong, of Pontiac, are among the men reported unheard from. They left Pontiac Saturday for Strawberry island, in St. Clair river, on a duck hunting trip. They took with them a small canoe, an oil stove and provisions for one day.

In Cleveland.

Cleveland, Ohio, Nov. 12.—The work of restoring Cleveland to normal order proceeded rapidly today. Supplies of coal and food began to come in and inconveniences due to the recent blizzard rapidly were eliminated.

Electric light service to many parts of the city which have been dark for three nights was partially restored today. Almost all the street cars are running and deliveries of the small amount of mail which has reached the city was begun today.

The menace of the icicles and mound of snow which fell on all the downtown buildings caused police to be stationed along the streets to warn the people to keep out near the curb. Boy scouts aided in this work.

An attempt will be made to open the school houses tomorrow.

Can't Find Steamer.

Port Arthur, Ont., Nov. 12.—[illegible] the Algoma Central steamer [illegible] turn up safely as proves not to have been lost of Angus Brown, as many shipping men here believed, but the [illegible] will have [illegible] in [illegible] the [illegible] waterway.

[illegible] believe that the [illegible] of Angus Brown [illegible] quantity we can expect but little, if any benefit from its return.

"Any system under private control operated on a speculative basis, would ultimately prove a detriment to agriculture.

"I am opposed to any rural credits system [illegible] All [illegible] system [illegible] system."

ON GETTING THE STRINGENCY'S GOAT.

If there's one municipality in this favored land of ours that's entitled to throw out its municipal chest and tilt its municipal nose that municipality is Oak Bay, over on the island called Vancouver.

Right at a time when every other city and rural council this side of the Rockies is twisting the tail of the financial tiger in the hope that he will let out a few golden notes, along capers Oak Bay to the front of the stage, sidles into the spot light and, without so much as an explanation, announces that arrangements have been concluded with one of the banks for the financing of the municipality. Going even that far was presumptuous enough, but Oak Bay travels the limit and, on top of the "arrangement for financing" announcement, it takes pleasure in informing Oak Bay ratepayers in particular and a bunch of envious other municipalities in general that sewer and waterloan bylaws are to be voted on next Saturday and they amount to the trifling total of nearly two hundred thousand dollars.

Two hundred thousand dollars! If some of the councils in this last great west were asked to put a couple of bylaws like that at this stage of the game, they'd telescope into their boots and die a lingering death with bunions on the brain.

In some way or another Oak Bay has succeeded in getting the goat belonging to that old man of the sea, Mister F. Stringency, and for that righteous feat Oak Bay is entitled to a bot-and-cold-water, bathroom-attached apartment in the hall of fame.

But behind it all there's a something that is sufficient excuse for the poor harried member of the city or municipal council to wave his feet and jump for joy. If Oak Bay can "arrange for financing," it won't be long till other places on this particular section of the map can do the same. If others can do it, then Westminster can do it and if Westminster can do it; Oh Joy, Oh happiness.

With apologies to Oak Bay, it might be remarked that that municipality is the straw which shows in which direction the wind sets and the straw shows that the wind has shifted to that point from which there will soon start to come tangible proof of better times and looser money.

Latest orders from the headquarters for women's styles call for men's vests with stand-up linen collars. That outfit on the upper reaches would look cute over a silhouette skirt.

Talk about coming down in the world! From dreadnoughts, the British government has stooped to consider the building of a motor boat reserve for service in case of war.

The population of Greenland has increased more rapidly in the last ten years than in any similar former period. Perhaps that's where all the lost Arctic explorers are settling on the quiet.

A lighthouse on the Isle of Wight has been equipped with a fifteen million candle power lamp, probably to keep some of the larger ocean greyhounds from running into it and shoving the little bit of land clear off the map.

The politicians' union should run Secretary of Labor Wilson of the United States out of the business and brand him a scab. He doesn't employ a press agent and refuses to hand out typewritten interviews. Wonder what he thinks he was elected for.

Minenapolis hotelkeepers are going to charge for bread and butter to get at the man who buys a bowl of soup and eats all the bread on the table to fill out his meal. Probably they don't charge enough for the soup.

"MAKE OUR BOY A STRENUOUS MAN

Captain Scott's Last Message to His Wife—Commander Knew All Were Doomed.

London, Eng., Nov. 12.—"Make our boy interested in natural history if you can. It is better than games. Keep him in the open air. Above all, you must guard him against indolence. Make him a strenuous man. The great God has called me. Take comfort in that I die in peace with the world and myself, and not afraid."

This was the last message Captain Scott, the heroic Antarctic explorer, sent to his wife, now Lady Scott. The message is quoted in "Captain Scott's Last Expedition," published here in two large volumes. The letter to his wife was probably written in March, 1912, when he faced death in the blizzard-swept waste and wrote in his diary:

"The end cannot be far. It seems a pity, but I do not think I can write more. For God's sake, look after our people."

Scott, next to the blizzards and the phenomenally low temperatures on the Barrier, ascribed the disaster mainly to the astonishing failure of the strongest man in the party, Petty Officer Evans, a physical giant.

Suggests Suicide.

On March 11 Scott wrote: "Oates is very near the end, one feels. What we or he will do, God only knows. We discussed the matter after breakfast. He is a brave fellow and understands the situation, but he practically asked for advice. Nothing could be said but to urge him to march as long as he could. I practically ordered Wilson to hand over the means to us of ending our troubles, so that any one of us may know how to do so. Wilson had no choice between doing so and our ransacking his medicine case. We have thirty opium tabloids apiece, and Wilson is left with the tube of morphine."

This tragic decision was revoked for in the last entry but one in the diary Scott wrote: "We must be near the end. I have decided it shall be natural. We shall march for the depot with or without our effects and die in our tracks."

The diary adds: "Oates' last thoughts were of his mother, but immediately before leaving he took pride in thinking that his regiment would be pleased at the bold way he met death. We all hope to meet the end in a similar spirit, and assuredly the end is not far."

Amudnsen's Success Depressed Them.

A perusal of the diaries leaves no doubt that the discovery of Captain Amundsen's triumph in reaching the pole first depresssed the entire party to such an extent that it must be reckoned as a part cause of the disaster. A typical entry is: "The Norwegian forestalled us. It is a terrible disappointment. I am very sorry for my loyal companions. We must hasten home with all the speed we can compass. All the day dreams must go. It will be a wearisome return. We must turn our back now on the goal of our ambition and must face our 800 miles of solid, dragging—a desperate struggle. I wonder if we can do it."

This is the first note of despondency. Thereafter they are fairly frequent. For nearly a month before the end the despondency is almost unrelieved. Although he kept the knowledge to himself, it seems evident that Captain Scott knew that all were doomed. Dr. Atkinson's report concludes: "I bid a final farewell to the resting place of three heroes, there alone in their greatness. They will lie without change or bodily decay, with the most fitting tomb in the world above them."

UP FOR TRIL AFOR THEFT OF SHARES

Montreal, Nov. 12.—Alfred James Boyd, accused of the theft of 98 shares of Dominion Glass Company, Limited, stock, valued at $9,800, appeared for voluntary statement and was committed to stand trial. A few moments later he was brought before Judge Bazin to take his option of a trial by a judge or before a jury.

The date set was for the 18th and he chose to be tried before a judge.

Boyd pleaded not guilty when brought before Judge Lafontaine, and waived the reading of the disposition.

Judge Lafontaine read the law to him in relation to procedure in the case, and explained that what he now said would be taken down in evidence and used against him at his trial, and the usual warning to expect no promise or favor from his statement.

N. K. Laflamme rose to his feet and offered to put in his rebuttal, but was informed by the court that it was too late, as the time had gone by for that, since the prisoner stood committed.

Lawyers for the defence argued that even after the answers of the accused had been taken arguments could be produced at voluntary statement proceedings, and in this particular case the defense understood they were to be heard after the evidence of the procedings had been transcribed.

Jude Lafontaine said that while he was averse to doing this he would call the prisoner back, and ordered Deputy High Constable Sullivan to produce Boyd.

Whatever was intended to be shown be the defence failed to materialize, and when asked by Judge Lafontaine what it was the defence wished to establish, Mr. Laflamme replied, "I have nothing to say."

WANT U. S. BREEDERS TO EXHIBIT AT NELSON

Spokane, Nov. 12.—An effort is being made by poultrymen in the Kootenay district in British Columbia to induce Inland empire breeders to exhibit their birds at the semi-annual show to be held December 3 and 4 at Nelson, B. C., under the auspices of the West Kootenay Poultry and Pet Stock association. H. H. Currie, former Nelson newspaper man, who is in the city, yesterday took the matter up with officers of the local association.

'The poultry industry is assuming important proportions in the Kootenay region, and there is a promising field there for local breeders to dispose of their pure-bred stock," said Mr. Currie, who is chairman of the premium committee for the Nelson show, yesterday. "We prefer to obtain our new stock from the inland empire breeders rather than send east, provided we can get satisfactory birds, and for this reason we are anxious to get them to participate. This will give them an opportunity to display their fowls to a great many poultrymen, who, in turn, will be enabled to judge of the quality of their stuff.

"We anticipate there will be between 600 and 700 birds on display at Nelson, the best of which will be exhibited later at the provincial poultry show at Grand Forks, December 9 to 12, inclusive, and the choice of the prize winners at both will be brought to the Spokane show, December 22 to 29. In addition there will be a great many Kotoenay fanciers who will send general exhibits to the Spokane meet."

TOWNS SPRING UP ALONG NORTH THOMPSON

Chase, B. C., Nov. 12.—The Canadian Northern railway has laid steel up to 95 miles north of Kamloops on the North Thompson river. Grading is going on for 150 miles north. The Northern Construction company, who have the contract, have from 1,200 to 1,500 men in their employ, and they run a mixed train from Kamloops twice a week carrying passengers and freight.

There are several goods towns springing up along the line. One is Barrier River, where the Anglo-Saxon Investment company have 3,000 acres which they are clearing and putting into orchard. The next town is Mount Olie. It is sixty miles north of Kamloops, is an old trading post, and with the coming of the railway will make a good town. It already has a first class water works and electric light plant. There is a sawmill here which runs day and night to meet building requirements. The town is located in a good farming section. At Tete Juane Cache, where the Canadian Northern meets the Grand Trunk Pacific, is a cosmopolitan town in which everything is open and the provincial police have no sinecure.

Ennui; That's Punishment.

No greater punishment than ennui? That is what Ruth Helen Davis, translator of "The Daughter of Heaven," says. She has done some very clever work in French translation and has enjoyed every minute of it. Her theory is as follows:

"Dullness is the burden of the rich. Lack of contrast is their stumbling block to enjoyment. I know no greater punishment that ennui.

"Restlessness and the constant search for novelty is a cruel master. There is nothing enviable in this world but self development, self knowledge. Its beginning and ending is concentration.

"No one ever need be dull in this world. No one need to be lastingly downcast. Just think of all the things in the world that are to be done and the different ways there are to do them.

"The simplest task can be made the beginning of a study. The most ordinary talent, if focused and concentrated, can be made a means to real achievement, which is only another name for joy and contentment.

"It is odd how blind many wealthy persons are to the fact that work is the greatest satisfier in the world.

"Happiness is cheap. Any one can have it who will concentrate. Self development, built on concentration, is the very finest game on earth.

"If those who are on the verge of something desperate would only step on a railroad train, for instance, and go to some strange place, no matter where, and follow up some work suited to their ability, however humble, there would be fewer suicides."

Would Woman Be Less Quarrelsome?

If men indulged in the unsportsmanlike tactics employed by women in the social and organization game they would not only lose all chance at the coveted office, but they would probably be well beaten up for their actions. The woman is cruel, discourteous and unfair to her sisters because she knows another woman will not strike her. It would be so unfeminine!

Have you ever listened while the women and girls of a household repeated the tale of their experiences at the Ladies' Aid society, the Whist club, the Altar guild, the Lunch club? Do you hear how many aprons were made for the next sale, what finesse was displayed in playing a certain hand at bridge, how the guild has decided to redecorate the chancel or the latest discoveries in domestic science made by the young cooks? says the Pictorial Review.

Not at all. The burning question in almost every case is the inefficiency of some officers or the unwarranted power wielded by others. Consider how many good movements have been launched in your town, only to die an untimely death because the organizers fell to quarreling among themselves.

The Coming Maude.

Maude Muller one day, eating fudge,
Looked up and saw the county judge.

Maude was a pretty girl, all right.
His honor fell in love at sight.

And when about a month had fled
Maude promised that the judge she'd wed.

Then o'er the judge's pathway came
A wealthy, proud and stately dame.

The judge then for ambition's sake
Poor little Maude resolved to shake.

An ardent suffragette was Maude,
Chairwoman of the county board.

"I'll get square," Maude said, "without fail."
So told her party her sad tale.

Judge had elected been in fall;
In spring they voted his recall.

The haughty dame refused to wed
"You are no longer judge," she said.

This lesson sad he learned, you bet:
"Don't monkey with a suffragette!"

NORTHERNERS IN BIG CONCLAVE

Seattle, Nov. 12—Foregathered from all parts of Alaska—from Kiana, the northernmost gold camp in the world; from Nome, from the upper reaches of the Koyukuk, from Dawson, from Fairbanks, from Rampart, from Council, from Circle City, from Skagway, from everywhere in the great territory, "where northern lights come down o' nights to dance on the houseless snow"—a band of about fifty fortune hunters met at the Arctic club yesterday morning for the annual grand camp meeting of the Arctic Brotherhood. One of them, Tom Dwyer, came from Australia, others from South America, and still others had not seen civilization for twenty years.

"We needed a pair of blinders to get some of them up to the meeting," said Grand Arctic Recorder Keller. "They are a little automobile shy so far, but are gradually becoming trained to the unusual sights and sounds of a big city."

"I lost my bearings in them canyons," explained a grizzled, hard-jawed veteran from Rampart City. He referred to the walls of buildings on the streets, as an excuse for his being late.

This probably will be the last meeting in the United States of this notable organization—an order that was formed in the wild and woolly days of the Dawson stampede, where thousands of pioneers dragged their bleeding feet across the forbidding mountain passes to reach the Eldorado that lay on the other side. The "outside" was chosen as a meeting place for the grand camp because it is easier for some of the pioneers to come to Seattle than to go to other parts of Alaska than those in which they live.

In the past few years, however, with new trails and roads and better travling eaccommodations these conditions have changed, and it is probable that the next meeting place of the grand camp will be at Skagway, the point at which the order was first founded. Many of the delegates expressed themselves as being in favor of a permanent meeting place in Alaska.

The camp was formally organized late yeseterday afternoon and the business of the meetings will be transacted within the next three days, after which many of the adventurers will again vanish into the wilderness to be heard of no more, perhaps, for several years.

There are still many delegates to arrive, but it is expected that many of them wil lschw up today and tomorrow.

MUTT AND JEFF IN DISGUISE AS CHINESE

The tall and short of the Chinese empire appeared in the Union station this morning and c aused a lot of amusement. Wong Ow Wing, 6 feet 2 inches, and Wong Tim, 4 feet 10 inches, called at the Dominion immigration ojce to get their new certificates of naturalization and be registered again. Both sons of the Orient are in the laundry business in Galt. When they get off the train and strode into Superintendent Birmingham's office the staff nearly collapsed with nervous prostration. The big fellow led the way with the little one tripping along in the rear.

SAYS HIS SPIRIT TALKS TO HER

London, Nov. 12.—Is the spirit of William T. Stead, the celebrated London editor and reformer, who perished when the Titanic was sunk, sending messages to his daughter, Estella?

Mis Stead declares that to be a fact—a real manifestation of the existence of another world. Stead, it will be remembered, for years made a study of this profound problem of life beyond the grave. He often declared that he had been in communication with the spirits of departed friends. Now, his daughter declares, he is himself communicating with his loved one.

And in his messages Stead tells of his death in the great Titanic disaster, of his final moments on earth and his mental and bodily feelings in that supreme moment when life was a matter of expiring minutes and eternity was just beyond.

"My father," she says, "still lives. He sends me personal messages that are absolutely convincing. I have even seen him in a form more ethereal and beautiful than his earthly body. And I have talked with him face to face.

"Three weeks after he passed over," she continued, "the first message came. I was resting in the twilight, with my mind at ease. And suddenly I was conscious of father's voice.

Enters the "Fuller Life."

"'All that I have told you is true,' he said. 'I have entered into the fuller life.'

"He came again often, and told me many things about his last hours and his present existence, some of which are hard to repeat."

And then Miss Stead described the Titanic disaster, as related by a victim from beyond his watery grave.

"Father said he was in his stateroom when he was startled by a sudden shock and an outcry and a scurrying of feet. He rushed out to the deck and found a scene of confusion, which turned to terror as the vessel started to sink and the lifeboats were launched.

"I asked him whether he was frightened, and he said: 'No. Fear is for unbelievers. My faith kept me calm.'

"Finally he started down into the cabin. Then came a sudden blow on the head, and he passed at once to the spirit land."

"Why, of all the victims, has your father alone come back?"

"I do not grant that," she answered quickly. "Many of those souls may have sent back messages. Many more may have tried to reach the consciousness of relatives and friends, and failed.

Were Always Chums.

"Father and I were always very close. The bond between our minds made telepathic communication between us common during his life. What is more natural than that his thought should reach me afterward—if his personality survives?"

"And are you sure that there is no self-delusion about all this?"

Miss Stead smiled. "They call me a normal, sensible girl," she answered. "And I have studied psychic matters. Now consider these two facts:

"First, I never get such a message except when I am in sound health. Recently I was ill, as a result of overwork on my book, 'Personal and Spiritual Reminiscences of My Father.' During that illness I go no messages. There is nothing morbid or pathological about my experiences.

"Second, the messages are their own proof. Father speaks of things that nobody knows except us two. You say that might possibly be self-suggestion—my subconscious mind at work—but the new facts that father adds to the old, things that I could not possibly have known until he told me clinch the proof.

"And to me the strongest proof of all is just this—that at such times I feel and know the actual presence of my father."

ONE MUNICIPALITY THAT CAN GET THE MONEY

Victoria, Nov. 12.—The Oak Bay council at their meeting last night passed the sewer loan by-law for $150,000 and the water works by-law for $35,000 through their final stages, and these will be voted on by the ratepayers on this coming Saturday.

The general works committee reported that arrangements had been arrived at with the Merchants' Bank of Canada for the financing of the municipality, so that it is hoped no more workmen will have to be laid off or work still further curtailed.

BIG SWINDLE DID NOT WORK

Minneapolis, Nov. 12.—A $10,000 swindle in which the conspirators staged an entire racing poolroom, with at least a dozen characters, acting the parts as in a play, was brought to light today.

John Dolph, a retired farmer of Minot, N. D., is the man who was competely victimized by the swindlers. His money was saved by the timely interference of a friend.

Dolph came to St. Paul recently for a sight-seeing trip. After several lonesome days there he ran across a stranger in his hotel, the Sherman house. The stranger was affable and pleasant. He gave his name as L. S. Walker, and said he was from Denver. The men spent two days together. At one time Walker told Dolph of having seen a man win $80,000 on a horse race in Denver some days before.

One day the two went to South St. Paul to see the stock yards. There in a hotel Walker met a man whom he hailed immediately as the man who had won the $80,000. This man's name was Dixon, he said.

In a test or two, Dixon proved that he could double the money of his two friends by going to a racing poolroom in South St. Paul and betting for them.

The two insisted on being taken to the poolroom and allowed to bet.

Dolph had phenomenal luck. He won $800 and finally drew on his home bank for $10,00 to make a big plunge.

The cashier of the place (the poolroom seemed to be an established institution with blackboards, call boys, clerks and attendants) declared he would have to have the draft o. k'd, but cautioned him to keep still about it. Dolph mentioned his luck to a friend, who took the case to the police. The man Dixon was arrested in Minneapolis today, and Dolph is held as a witness. He still has the $800 he won.

BODY FOUND OF OLD LADY DROWNED LAST MAY

Ashcroft, Nov. 12.—The body of Mrs. Adam Young, who disappeared so mysteriously from her home near Venables Valley, about twelve miles west of here, last May, has been found by her husband, about 60 0yards upstream from the house in which he lived. The body had drifted beneath a log and was completely submerged. The position of the body explains the failure of the search parties to locate it at the time of her disappearance. It is generally supposed that the old lady committed suiside while temporarily demented.

On the 21st of May last Mrs. Young disappeared from her home at a very early hour in the morning. As she had been accustomed to taking early morning walks for the benefit of her health, nothing was suspected on this particular morning until she failed to make an appearance within a reasonable time. The alarm was given and posses were sent out in every direction. The search was continued for more than a week, but no trace of the missing lady was found. The country in that vicinity is very hilly and is thickly wooded, and could not be covered to any satisfaction.

NO WONDER HE WAS PROSPEROUS

Kauders Looked Affluent After Cashing Big Bogus Cheque—Caught in Seattle.

Seattle, Nov. 12.—Accused of peculations amounting to approximately $4,000, Sidney T. Kauders, of New York, Milwaukee and Los Angeles, was arrested at the Seattle Hotel yesterday afternoon and is held at the city jail on an open charge pending the arrival of an officer from Milwaukee. According to teleragphic advices Kauders will be prosecuted on a charge of obtaining money under false pretenses, the specific charge being the cashing of a worthless check for $1,550 at the American Express company's Chicago office, April 10, 1913. Other fradulent operations are charged to the prisoner.

To city detectives yesterday afternoon, fololwing his arrest, Kauders expressed a willingness to return and stand trial. At the time he was taken into custory at the Seattle hotel by City Detective J. B. Smith, Kauders was employed as a salesman by the firm of O. Newman & Co., of Los Angeles, manufacturers and distributors of picture postcards. Kauders came to Seattle from Portland highly recommended. He is about 36 years old, well groomed and bears the appearance of an affluent business man.

Prior to entering the employ of the Los Angeles company, Kauders is said to have been employed as traveling salesman for a New York jewelry house. He is said to be well known among commercial travelers throughout the United States.

The American Express company offered a reward of $200 for the arrest of Kauders subsequent to the alleged fraudulent operation at Chicago April 10. The salesman was traced to Seattle by letters sent by friends in the middle west to Kauders in care of a man in Seattle.

Chief of Police J. T. Jansen, of Milwaukee, wired Chief of Police Bannick today that Detective Maloney of the Wisconsin metropolis, left Milwaukee last night to bring Kauders back for trial.

MABEL'S CHITCHAT

We're Going Some In Stationery Styles This Autumn.

SCARLET PAPER, YELLOW INK.

A Silence Luncheon Actually Enjoyed by Twelve Women—Heaps of Fun Until Unexpected Guest Arrived and Complicated Matters a Trifle.

Dear Elsa—Talk about freak fashions in clothes, why, they're saneness itself compared to the latest atrocities in stationery! To bear out this statement, I wish you could behold a letter I've just received from Paris, written by a tremendously smart girl who is always to be depended upon for being in the swim—that is, in the fashion "know."

I realize, dear, that it has not been so very many years since we were taught no "real lady" ever used anything eccentric in writing materials. Nowadays things are different, perhaps not so much here as across the water.

You should see the very latest in French stationery. My letter from "dear Paree" would make you shudder with horror. It is penned with orange ink on purple paper, and the envelope is lined with orange. Orange ink and purple paper—think of it!

My fair correspondent tells me that some people affect white ink on pale blue paper. Imagine how difficult it must be to read an epistle constructed by such means. Scarlet paper and yellow ink is another stationery monstrosity. In each and every case, of course, the envelope lining and the sealing wax match the ink.

I do wish, Elsa dear, you could have been one of a luncheon party I gave last week to Natalie S., who is to be married to one of Dick's best friends in a few days. It was a "silence party," and I invited twelve of the young married set to meet the bride to be, and I asked each of the twelve to bring with them two of their best recipes; also a great fund of silence and a small supply of pennies.

When my guests arrived I told them to do all their talking before luncheon, because it was planned to eat the meal in complete silence and whoever broke the rule would be fined a penny.

I didn't go to any great bother about decorating the table—simply used a smooth white cloth with as much of it visible as possible. When the girls were seated I let escape a mechanical mouse which I had concealed under one hand. There was a chorus of shrieks and laughter as the mouse glided across the table, and a box was passed for the pennies.

As soon as order was restored it looked as though luncheon was going to be served to only half the guests, for the maid passed empty plates to some of them, and to others were served artificial fruit, eggs and the like.

Under the table I had fastened a loud gong that I rang violently, ostensibly to summon the maid, but really to startle the girls into breaking the silence. For fifteen minutes everything was done to surprise a laugh or exclamation, and then the ban was lifted, and a nice little meal was given to the jolly bunch.

The place cards, which also served as favors, were printed mottoes praising silence and had the guests' names written on the margins. The fines were used to buy a cookbook for the honored guest and also a leather covered book, into which were pasted the recipes brought by the guests.

We had heaps of fun, and the only thing that marred the serenity of the occasion—that is, for me—was the unexpected presence of a "brought." A "brought" is a friend of a friend who comes in at the appointed luncheon, dinner or whatever the festivity may be, at the last minute.

Mary B. played this nice little surprise on me at the party last week. She came in smiling, dragging a reluctant girl with her, and held out her hand to me, saying rather foolishly:

"My dear Mabel, I am sure you are delighted to have me bring my friend Miss X. to luncheon. She dropped in suddenly from Chicago just as I was starting this afternoon."

What could I do but greet them with the smile of a Cheshire cat and tell Miss Chicago how charmed I was to have her join the little party, all the while making a mental calculation as to how on earth I was to shift the table and accommodate the odd number? Only the highest intellects can rise above the mist that surrounds a "brought," and my personality, I admit, was not strong enough to overcome a prejudice against that girl's existence just then.

In justice to "broughts" I will say that, as a rule, they are only too willing to avail themselves of Solomon's admonition:

"Withdraw thy foot from thy neighbor's house lest he weary of thee and so hate thee."

Speaking of invitations reminds me of something I read recently in this connection about George Bernard Shaw, who, you know, dislikes to be a guest at promiscuous feasts.

Lady Randolph Churchill, not being aware of this peculiarity, asked him to dinner. By way of reply G. B. S. sent the following telegram:

Certainly not. Why should I be asked to break the habit of a lifetime now?

The witty hostess rose to the occasion by sending this wire:

Know nothing about your habits. Hope they are not as bad as your manners.

My manners in discussing my sweets are as bad as the great Englishman's, but you, dear, will pardon your old chum. MABEL.

A new Parisian fantasy is hair ribbons for men. This is the result of the Argentine invasion. Men wear their hair brushed straight back and also much longer, and this causes the appearance of the ribbons, the style being called a la Argentine.

WESTMINSTER PORT :-: PACIFIC COAST

MUCH BAD WEATHER AT HALIBUT BANKS

Alameda Reports Great Gale—New England Fish Company Reports Poor Catches.

A. L. Hager, manager of the New England Fish company, in Vancouver, has received word that the halibut steamers Manhattan and Kingfisher have encountered very bad weather up north. Both vessels have hailed and reported no fish, and they have been forced to go into Ketchikan to replenish stores. The steamers are now out nearly a month. The Flamingo is in port today with 65,000 pounds of halibut.

Light Catches.

Ketchikan, Nov. 12.—The halibut schooner Alameda, Captain Steve Selig, in port from the westward, reports heavy weather and a very light catch of fish. During a severe gale the Alameda was driven ashore at Point Marsh, but fortunately the gale spent its force before the vessel sustained serious damage.

After getting the Alameda off the port beach, she was headed for this port, but while rounding Cape Chacon another severe gale was encountered. During this storm William Selig, a cousin of the vessel's master, was carried overboard by a huge sea. One of the Alameda's boats also was swept away, and Selig was able to cling to it until the schooner was turned about and he was taken aboard.

Captain Selig reports unusually bad weather off the fishing banks, and many of the smaller vessels have been compelled to seek shelter.

Purley's Rough Passage.

The British steamer Purley, which made two or three trips to Vancouver with rails from New York, had a rough passage across the Atlantic last month while steaming from Tampa to Antwerp. The skipper writes to friends on the coast that the Purley was damaged by very severe weather.

Isabel Browne Ready.

The Russian barque Isabel Browne, in Vancouver, Captain Erickson, has ordered her tug for Thursday morning, and the Lorne will come up to take the barque's hawser and give her an offing on her long voyage to Cape Town with lumber. The schooner Mindoro finished loading lumber for Suva yesterday.

BIG SCHOONER WILL CIRCLE THE GLOBE

Victoria, Nov. 12.—On her coming voyage from this coast the five-masted American schooner Inca, Captain R. P. Rasmussen, will completely circle the globe. The big windjammer is expected to arrive here today from Eagle Harbor, Puget Sound, where she has been overhauling. After completing with a full cargo of British Columbia lumber at the inner harbor mills of the Canadian Puget Sound Lumber company, the Inca will sail around Cape Horn to Capetown, South Africa, and following the delivery of her cargo will continue her voyage across the Indian ocean to Australia, where she will load at Newcastle for Puget Sound.

Officials of the Canadian Puget Sound Lumber company were advised yesterday by Captain Rasmussen that the overhauling of his vessel was about complete and that his arrival could be looked for any any time within the next day or two. She will get away toward the latter part of next month for South Africa.

The Inca will be the last windjammer to load offshore cargo at the inner harbor mills this year. The only other sailing vessel that has loaded inside this season is the American barkentine Alta, Captain Thornagel, which is now on passage from this port to Capetown by way of Cape Horn.

"COQUITLAM" MAY BE SCHOONER'S NAME

"Coquitlam." This is to be the name of the 200-foot schooner now being built at the shipyards of the Port Coquitlam Shipbuilding company, according to latest advices. The launching is slated for the first week in the new year.

Practically all work on the hull is completed now. The last caulking and minor jobs are being done awaiting the arrival of the big spars from Victoria. No mill in this district was able to handle the big sticks, it is said. They are taken out from Vancouver island and as soon as delivered will be put in place.

A new set of flags is being arranged for the schooner which will be the first of a fleet to run in lumber carrying trade between here and Panama.

INSTALL TANKS OF SAMSON AT PORT COQUITLAM TODAY

Work will be commenced today on the installation of twelve tanks on the new Samson now in the shipyards at Port Coquitlam. Four of these will be placed forward for oil, for the new snagpuller is an oil burner, and eight aft as water tanks.

The deck planking is all laid now and the main housework will come after the tanks are in. The deck is now being caulked. After the housework is up the sheer legs will be raised, according to Government Inspector D. W. Cross.

PARCELS POST BY JANUARY 1

Postoffice Department Will Issue Order at First of Year—Preparing Rate Schedule.

Ottawa, Nov. 11.—Everything is in readiness for the bringing into force of the parcels post. The postoffice department has engaged during the greater part of the summer and fall in gathering data and information upon which they could work out a scheme that would be just and equitable to all concerned and yet could be operated without too great a deficit on the part of the government.

The big matter to be decided upon now is the rates. It is not necessary to introduce a bill in parliament to bring the parcels post into effect. Last year the postmaster general was given power and all that is required is a departmental order from him.

This order, it was learned today will be issued Jan. 1. The rates are expected to be slightly higher than those which prevail in the United States.

Broke Water Intake.

Port Arthur, Nov. 12.—In entering drydock today the steamer G. R. Crowe dragged anchor which caught the city intake pipe 1400 feet from the shore and pulled the whole section out. As it means the city gets water from near shore instead of far out, a warning has been issued to boil all water while repairs are being made.

ONE THOUSAND SURGEONS WILL RECEIVE FELLOWSHIPS

Chicago, Nov. 12.—One thousand of the leading surgeons of the continent will receive fellowships tomorrow night at the opening here of the American college of surgeons. Finney, of Baltimore, first president of the college, who will confer the degrees.

It is planned to make the college mean to America what the Royal college of surgeons means to England, and Sir Rickman J. Godlee, president of the English society, will present a memorial from the board of counsellors of the organization which he heads.

Take Possession of Books.

Los Angeles, Nov. 12.—The federal grand jury took possession today of the books of the Los Angeles Investment company, showing the administration by the recently deposed officers, of assets valued at about $20,000,000. At the same time dissatisfied stockholders, according to statements issued by their legal representatives, determined to institute suits to recover from the former officers of the concern 821,000 shares of stock, and also to have a receiver appointed to take over the company from the financiers who were called in to assume charge of its affairs.

MAY BE HEIR TO HUGE FORTUNE

Man Unheard of for Forty-five Years Dies Leaving $1,000,000—Went to Australia.

Charolettown, P.E.I., Nov. 12—Forty-five years ago Hector Campbell, of Summerside, P.E.I., went to Australia. His relatives heard nothing of him from that time and had practically forgotten him until a year ago, when a newspaper report stated that a Hector Campbell said to be a native of Prince Edward Island, had died in Australia, worth nearly a million dollars.

Inquiries were instituted but nothing definite could be learned until Saturday night last, when Ronald Campbell, of Summerside, received a letter from a bank in Australia stating that Hector Campbell died four years ago, that he was unmarried and very wealthy, being one of the largest sheep ranch owners in that country.

Should Mr. Campbell's claim be established, which seems quite probable, the estate will be divided between Ronald Campbell and his family, the family of Blaine Campbell of Wellington, P.E.I., and three sisters who are at present in the United States.

Latta, Liberal member for Last Mountain, gave notice in the legislature today that on Friday he will submit a resolution, that in view of the request made to the Dominion government at the last session for increased compensation for loss of live stock, under the animals contagious act, and in view of the consequent action of the Dominion government in granting the increase, a resolution of approval should be passed by the present legislature. The sitting was a very quiet one. On D. J. Wylie's motion, the debate on the election of D. A. Hall, of Cumberland, was adjourned until Monday.

Establish Precedent.

Vancouver, Nov. 12.—An unusual precedent was set in the court of appeals here today when the court reversed its decision given yesterday in an arbitration case and again heard the matter. On the previous day a man named J. P. Hogg had been nonsuited. Today he again came to the court and convinced the judges that they were wrong, with the exception of Mr. Justice Martin. Final decision was reserved.

Miners Out on Bail.

Vancouver, Nov. 12.—Nearly all the miners who have applied for bail pending their trial on charges connected with the strike riots at Ladysmith and Extension are now out on bail or will be as soon as the necessary formalities have been complied with. Livesley alleged that Landen was born in Ontario, and that he has never taken out naturalization papers.

Additional Locals

New Toll Line.

Arrangements are being made for the construction of a new long distance toll line between Vancouver and New Westminster which will necessitate the B. C. Telephone company erecting a new pole line on some of the city streets. Following several interruptions to the long distance service the company will bring in an open construction service down Eighth street, across Agnes street to Sixth street, and thence into the office on Clarkson street in a specially constructed cable for toll service. Permission for such work has been granted by the city council.

Ferocious Deer.

Hugh Gunn of the waterworks department has a good feeling towards animals but following his experience yesterday at Queen's Park when Mr. Gunn was imprisoned in the meter house for nearly half an hour by a big buck deer, his fondness for the "dear" kind has changed considerably. The deer has shown warlike signs for some little time, even killing two fawns earlier in the week, and with this in mind, Mr. Gunn was in no hurry to get outside his stockade until the animal had retired to another part of the field.

Plans for the extension of the plant are now being considered by the management of the Vulcan Iron Works and it is understood that figures on the cost of the improvements are being obtained from local contractors. For some time the plant has been working overtime every evening and on Saturday afternoons. This fact is a good indication of the stability of New Westminster as a business centre, for many firms in Vancouver in the same line of business, it is understood, are working short shifts.

R. depot at Essondale cutting off one corner of the grounds. The diversion will consist of constructing the road parallel with and immediately adjoining the C. P. R. tracks which constitute the boundary line between the asylum grounds and the Colony farm.

WEAKNESS FOR RACE TRACK WAS CAUSE OF DOWNFALL.

Toronto, Ont., Nov. 11.—Following a series of forgeries as an employee of the Massey-Harris company and from whom he was able to steal $27,000, James H. Denison, a bookkeeper, was sent to the Kingston penitentiary today by Judge Morgan. Prisoner admitted a weakness for the race track as the cause of the theft.

It was alleged his first venture was the raising of the figures on money orders,; then he began to forge names. He had been a bookkeeper with the company 19 years and had charge of a ledger and the expense books.

EFFORT TO PREVENT WATERING STOCKS

Capitalization of Companies Will Be Subject of Discussion at Next Session of House.

Ottawa, Nov. 12.—The question of the capitalization of companies is to form a subject of discussion and quite probably of legislation at the next session of parliament.

Major Sharpe, M.P., intends to introduce the question anyway, but he is prepared to make way for a government measure if, as has been suggested, one is forthcoming. In a tentative way this has been under consideration and it is understood considerable data with reference to existing laws on the subject have been collected.

In the discussion of the subject in parliament emphasis has been laid on the necessity of curbing the tendency of reckless over-capitalization and of watering stocks. At the same time it is not desired to adopt any scheme so drastic in its character as to prevent proper industrial expansion or to exert a disturbing influence upon the situation.

Whole Town Shaken.

Belle Valley, Ohio, Nov. 12.—This little mining town was rocked today by a terrific explosion of dust in the Imperial mine of the O'Gara Coal company, of Chicago. One miner was badly burned about the face and arms and about eight other miners had narrow escapes. They were working near the scene of the explosion and groped their way through darkness for an hour before they made their escape.

ARE AFTER ROCHON

Ottawas Anxious to Secure New Westminster Star—May Mean Work for Commission.

Trouble will come in the case of George Rochon, the star point man with New Westminster last season, unless the N.H.A. teams call off their move which is to secure Rochon for the Ottawas. Reports from the east to hand yesterday indicate that Percy Lesueur, manager, coach and goaltend of the Capitals expects to land Rochon to take the place of Fred Lake, who has been sold to the Ontarios.

If this report is correct and it is noticed that all the eastern papers used the story, then the N. H. A. is going close towards breaking the agreement between the Pacific league and the eastern organization which leaves all of last year's players the property of the same clubs unless traded.

New Westminster is anxious to get Rochon who, on account of his spectacular rushes, gained a name of the most fearless player in the league. Work is expected any moment by Manager Savage from Swift Current where Rochon is supposed to be in business and in the meantime the eastern clubs will receive the hands-off sign both by Westminster and the Patricks.

There is practically no chance for the Fort William star to break into amateur hockey again, for he nigh disrupted the Saskatchewan amateur league last winter before signing up with the Royals. The N. H. A. will have to turn over the player to the Coast league if he desires to play at all.

REFEREES TO STRIKE

Scottish Officials Likely to Present Ultimatum to L. F. A.—To Import Strikebreakers.

London, Nov. 12.—A general strike of referees is threatened and expected in Scotland.

The knights of the whistle are in deadly earnest according to the Scottish Referee. A meeting of the association has been called and the probability is that a resolution will be passed authorizing the despatch of an ultimatum to the Scottish Football association.

The S.F.A., however, are prepared for all eventualities. If the expected strike comes off English referees will be imported wholesale into Scotland to act as emergency officials.

The disgruntled referees include all the best men of their craft in Scotland. Their association has a membership of about 250, of whom nearly 100 reside in Glasgow.

It is said that the sympathy of the foot ball going public is entirely with the referees. The lot of the average Scottish referee would appear, from all accounts to be a particularly unenviable one. According to the Scottish Referee, he is liable to be struck off the S.F.A. list on the most trivial pretext. "No English referee," the journal says, "would stand half the abuse his Scottish confrere does either from players or officials.

"Some players' language on the field is the reverse of the drawing room type. Still the referee is afraid to act, because he knows that if he cautions and admonishes a player for abusing him then off the list he goes and the player gets bolder and bolder until he is unbearable."

The whole business of refereeing in Scotland seems, indeed, to be in a glorious muddle. In another part of the same journal we read that " it is alleged that certain referees neglect to report players guilty of rough play, the officials unduly shielding themselves from the discharge of this important duty by the fact that they are not on the association's list.

WILL MEET AGAIN

Billiard Players Will Organize League on Friday Evening—Six Teams Ready.

Although little business was transacted at the initial meeting of billiard players in the city held at the Club alleys last evening, six teams intimated their intentions of joining the new organization which will be effected at a gathering to be held in the Royal pool rooms on Friday evening at 8 o'clock.

On that evening the names of the various players must be handed in so that the system of handicapping can be gone into.

JOHNSON A HOLD-OUT

Big Moose Fails to Come to Terms with Local Magnates—Wants Higher Pay.

Ernie Johnson is a real hold-out—The Big Moose has baulked at the terms offered him by the New Westminster management and unless some more collateral appears in the offing Ernie Johnson will stay out of the game and watch the other fellows try and capture the Paterson cup.

Johnson and Manager Savage got together in a confab yesterday, but after a considerable length of argument the two appeared to be as far apart as if they had not met, so that further meetings will be necessary if the star cover point is to be seen careening down the ice this winter.

This makes two players, Rochon and Johnson, who are outside the fold and with the first practice called for next week action has to be taken by the local management to round out a team.

THE SPIN OF THE SPORT WHEEL

Goldie Prodgers, the "bear-cat," with Victoria last season, has taken over a big cigar and billiard establishment in Quebec, where he will play hockey with the Stanley cuppers.

High shoes for baseball will come into fashion next season following the numerous accidents which major league players have sustained during the past summer in the way of sprained ankles. The low shoe came into vogue when players arrived at the conclusion that the high tops prevented speed in base-running.

Harry Scott, the Port Arthur boy, who was the leading goal-getter in the Maritime league for two years, has been signed up by Jimmy Murphy of the Ontarios. Murphy states that reputations will cut no ice with him this winter and every player will have to show the goods before making the team.

It seems only fitting that the Stanley cup should represent the world's championship in professional hockey. A movement is on foot among the N. H. A. clubs to have the trustees of the cup put it up for competition each season between the pick of the east and west.

The Ottawas are after Art Throop, who was released by one of the Toronto teams this fall to go to New Westminster. They are offering a trade for the star forward.

The Victoria team will be completed by the end of the week when Tommy Dunderdale and Morris are expected to arrive.

New Westminster billiard players are now regretting their action in withdrawing from the Vancouver league. It is possible, however, that several Vancouver teams will be over this winter to clash with the Royals.

Crescents should have a hard time defeating the Tigers at the Y.M.C.A. basketball court Friday evening. The Athanacs and Columbia college will furnish the other game of the double header.

They are still fighting lacrosse battles in the east. At a meeting of the N. L. U. delegates held recently in Montreal a decision was reached to have the championship of the league put over until next summer. The M. A. A. which tied with Cornwall for the championship, voted against the decision to lay the matter over until 1914.

Joe Bayley and Frank Barrieau is the latest talk for a 15-round go at Steveston. With his heavy punch, Barrieau should be able to stow away the Victoria boy inside of six rounds.

The annual row between Stanford university and the University of California is now raging. The former say that California used four freshmen in the second half and thus violated the college agreement and also the rule book.

Heinie Zimmerman, the hard hitting third sacker of the Chicago Cubs, has been canned from the Players' Fraternity on account of non-payment of dues. Several men were behind in their subs. early in the season but the majority of them have since paid up. Heinie shows no inclination to get back into the fold.

Bill Rodgers looks to be the one best bet with the Sapperton-White Rock aggregation this winter. The way the big six-footer sailed through the bunch at the initial practice added pep to the other players.

The 1913 Y. M. C. A. hockey septette is pretty well split up this winter. Dunford, H. C. Whittaker and Guy Whittaker have signed with Sapperton; Knight is with the Circle F; Hugh Cunningham has signed with the Moose, while Stacey and F. B. Cunningham will be wearing the Beaver uniforms. As soon as the teams get down to action, the managers of the stronger aggregations might do well to release any spare material in order to make the race more interesting. Practically every one interested in the league appears to realize that unless the four teams are evenly matched public interest will be at low ebb with a consequent loss in gate receipts.

At the Theatres

BATTLE OF WATERLOO AT ROYALY THEATRE TODAY

The Battle of Waterloo, a wonderful film in four reels, packed the Royal theatre at every performance yesterday. It is one of the greatest feature films ever shown in New Westminster with the exception of "Our Empire Navy" pictures which were shown at the Royal last fall. These pictures will be shown at every performance today and will undoubtedly attract large crowds.

Pete Murphy is also appearing at every performance this week and consequently the program is an extra strong one.

Motion picture dancing lessons is the latest and it remained for Manager Kerr, of the Edison theatre, to secure the exclusive right to stage a three reel film showing Wallace McCutcheon and Miss Joan Sawyer, New York's famous dancers, in the Tango, Turkey Trot and Hesitation Waltz.

Each of these three dances are marvels of beauty and grace and are regarded as being topnotchers among the Kalem Film company's work.

The Tango, Turkey Trot and Hesitation Waltz are first shown as danced by the patrons of one of New York's most famous cabarets. Later, Mr. McCutcheon and Miss Sawyer take the floor and show their method. To better illustrate the steps, the pictures, at intervals, show just the lower limbs.

Manager Kerr has arranged to show this film for one day only, beginning this afternoon.

QUEEN OF BONBON LAND TO BE HERE NEXT WEEK

Thursday and Friday evenings of next week will see the reopening of the opera house, the first time for a considerable period. This is to accommodate the show to be given on those dates in behalf of the Royal Columbian hospital, "The Queen of Bonbon Land."

Although this presentation is to be by amateurs, it will unquestionably receive a gorgeous production and the story indicates that it is worth it.

It is an allegorical fantasy in two revues and four spectacles. In the gardens of Ilona is gathered at dawn a large concourse of her friends about to assist at her wedding. Her intended is Percy Broadway, but he proves most insincere and, meeting Fanchette, a vagrant, falls in love with her. Ilona has secretly exhibited to her friends the beautiful lifelike statue of Zerilda, Persian queen of ancient Bonbon Land. A hidden tablet is discovered by Fanchette and this proves to be the key to Zerilda's existence, which is used to bring her back to life. As the reincarnation becomes complete, astonishment, perplexity and odd situations are manifested.

Zerilda is greatly attracted to Fanchette and Ilona is angered to see her statue alive, maligns them and declares her own royal position. Spectacle B is a street, introducing Angelina and Maggie, who, having come to town to see the sights, meet the queen, who in turn recognizes in Happy Hooligan her ancient King Havabun. Spectacle C discloses the witches assisting Ilona to establish her royal position, and the George M. Cohan all star company with musical specialties. The second revue is the jubilee reception in honor of their royal majesties, and in quick succession a conclave of merry entertainers keep affairs lively with fun and music.

MAX ALIAS JIM, MIKE AND TOM

What Fell Out in Police Court Yesterday—A rich Collection of Saleable Articles.

If Max Muller, alias James Collins, alias Crandall, is a burglar, as the information says he is, then he is a gentleman of elegant discrimination, or the pile of goods collected at the police station and put down against him as having been stolen, is no means of arriving at a conclusion.

James, or Max, if he prefers that handle, who appeared in the police court yesterday, is said to have annexed from the residence of Mrs. Snider, Third avenue, a bunch of articles like unto a miniature department store stock. There was a hand bag and a carving set, a kodak and a silk undervest, a suit length of cloth and a watch, a cash box, a watch, stick pins, rings and other ictas too numerous to mention.

Out of this conglomeration the police expect to get a conviction against the lad with the several aliases when his case comes up for hearing on Friday. Meanwhile he is held in the provincial jail where he ts doing three months for a stealing job in Vancouver.

Mike Kelly, hailing from Pompeii, or was it Cork, admitted with tears in his voice and a cotton wadding feeling in the back of his throat that he had been drunk on Tuesday evening. As Mike is a new arrival and as this was his first offence, Magistrate Edmonds allowed him to pursue his way.

Thomas Isbister, said the information, had assaulted his daughter Margaret, causing her grievious bodily harm. Thomas, who is a man well up in years, resented the charge and asked for a couple of days to line up his defence. His request was granted.

VIOLATION OF BLUE SKY LAW

Representative of Vancouver Company Arrested in Portland—Released on $1000 Bail.

Portland, Ore., Nov. 12.—L. R. Kaylor and A. D. Baker were arrested today on charges of violating the provisions of the Oregon blue sky law. The men were released on $1000 bail.

Following these arrests will come the first criminal prosecutions under the new act. The men are charged with offering stocks for sale contrary to the word of the act, which provides that it is unlawful to deal in stocks or securities of any company unless a permit is first secured from the state corporation department.

Kaylor represents in this city the Capital Security Company, a Delaware corporation, while Baker has handled the stocks of the National Mercantile company, Ltd., of Vancouver, B.C. Both these companies are foreign corporations transacting business in this state, it is charged, contrary to the general corporation law which provides for the licensing of foreign corporations.

Delegate Knudsen stated that the workers ought to bear such action in mind when the next provincial election approaches and thus defeat any member of the house whose sympathies are towards the "capitalistic class."

Criticize Jail Authorities.

Delegate Dodd also brought charges against the methods employed at the New Westminster provincial jail where he claimed that men awaiting trial were being served with the same food as that given to the vilest criminal.

A committee composed of Delegates Dodd, Grant and Maiden will attempt to investigate further on the matter and seek redress if possible.

President Cameron caused a mild sensation when he informed the delegates that as the Teamsters' union, of which he was a member, had now gone out of existence, his term of office would automatically expire. It was discovered however, that Mr. Cameron had affiliated with the Retail Clerks' association and the secretary was instructed to cast one vote for President Cameron's re-election to office.

A committee composed of Delegates Cameron, Gibb, Grant, Lugrin and Taylor was appointed to look after the details connected with the reception of delegates to the annual convention of the B. C. Federation of Labor, which will be held in New Westminster some time in January, 1914.

Y.W.C.A. MAKES SPLENDID PROGRESS

Is Now on Paying Basis—Plan to Serve Mid-day Luncheon—Meeting Yesterday.

The Y. W. C. A., established in this city some months ago, is now on a paying basis, the report of the treasurer received at the meeting of the directors yesterday showing for the second consecutive time a balance on the right side.

The meeting which was held in the assembly room of the association building was well attended and a number of important matters were discussed and disposed of.

It was decided after some consideration to spread out a little in the dining room and arrangements will be made so that gentlemen as well as ladies can obtain lunch. Special efforts will be made on market day to accommodate many of the visitors who come to the city on that day.

The association expressed approval of the appointment of Mrs. M. R. Patchell as police matron and appointed her travelling aid secretary for the Y. W. C. A. Mrs. Patchell spoke for a few minutes and outlined her duties.

It was arranged also to hold a rumage sale towards the end of this month and a cookery sale on the Saturday preceding Christmas Day.

Spain to Participate.

Madrid, Nov. 12.—The Spanish cabinet tonight decided to appoint a ministerial commission to arrange for the adequate participation of Spain in the Panama exposition in San Francisco in 1915.

SIDELIGHTS ON THIRTY-THIRD CONVENTION OF LABOR LEADERS NOW IN SESSION IN SEATTLE

Young Lady Worth Millions, representing Waitresses, Tells of her Experiences—Italian Count Leads Hod Carriers' Delegation—Fight Expected to Develop Over Newsboys Union—U. S. Cabinet Minister Labels Capital and Labor as Partners.

Seattle, Nov. 12.—A crowded tenement instead of a trip abroad; the wretched of the earth instead of her own kind, for associates; working in a restaurant instead of dining in a hotel; patrolling the snowy streets in the winter dawn instead of luxurious slumbe after a night of revelry—such is the choice of one woman.

Millionaire waitress, daughter of one of the oldest California families, striker, author, globe-trotter, suffragette, Miss Maude Younger has hurried from the allurements of Paris and the charms of the Balkan hills to attend the convention of the American Federation of Labor, now in session here.

The Waitress' union is the only woman's club Miss Younger has ever joined, and the Trades Union league the only federation; and she is proud of it. The one way to help the working girl is to assist the unions, Miss Younger reiterates over and over.

"I suppose women's clubs and associated charities are well enough," she said this morning, "but the former are factional and the latter are more beneficial to the settlement workers than the ones they are trying to help. This is the chief good that comes from settlement work; it gives us some idea of conditions. But the only real benefit for the laborer must come through the unions.

Labor Movement Most Vital.

"The labor movement and the woman movement are the two interests of my life; but the labor movement is the most vital. Suffrage will help working women because their votes will count for something, but trades unions will help them more. If any woman relly wants to help more unfortunate women, she will not join a club nor a charitable organization; she will work with the trades unions."

A number of years ago Miss Younger had got as far as New York on a trip around the world, when she became interested in settlement work.

"Just as a fad, I suppose," she said. She intended to stay in it a week or so. She stayed five years. She came back to San Francisco and became a waitress in a restaurant on her own property. She kept a notebook of her experiences and afterward published them in serial form in McClure's Magazine. The work attracted much attention, for never before had a bona fide account of the daily trials of the waitress been give nto the world. Miss Younger was elected president of the largest organization of the kind in America, Seattle, under the leadership of Miss Alice Lord, holding second place.

Miss Younger laughed this morning when she told of being arrested as a striker in New York—and cried when she told ofthe sufferings of the girls. It was the strike of the white goods workers in New York last winter and this woman of independent means, property owner in San Francisco, daughter of a proud house, arose every morning at 4:30 o'clock to serve on picket duty.

Speaks in Many Languages.

During the strike Miss Younger addressed meetings in the afternoon. She was obliged to do this in Italian, French and German, the latter being used largely by the Jews.

"I knew enough Italian to travel with," she said, "but I found it very different when I had to introduce such words as 'strike' and 'factory.' However, I learned these words and got along all right."

Miss Younger was again starting for Europe when the strike broke out. She stayed to assist for a few days, and week after week the strikers would beg her to stay a few days longer. In spite of this and former like experiences, she sas sandwiched in seven trips to Europe. She spent the last summer in the Balkans, and as she was out of the war zone, enjoyed a peaceful vacation.

NOBLEMAN AT HEAD OF HOD CARRIERS' UNION

Cavalier Dominick D'Alessandro, general president of the International Hod Carries' and Building Laborers' Union of America, and the delegate of that organization to the convention of the American Federation of Labor, is a sure enough Italian count. Although Cavalier is the prefix which is officially attached to his name, it means the same thing as count, and it is as Count D'Alessandro that he is known generaly among his many acquaintances in the labor world.

Unlike many Italian counts, the object of Count D'Alessandro in coming to America was not to acquire a fortune by contracting matrimony with some American heiress. Rather, Count D'Alessandro sought to travel the road to success over the hod carriers' route.

Eighteen years ago he landed in Boston along with other Italian immigrants. He was not then a count and had no idea that he would ever become one, yet he acquired that title and has medals and credentials to prove it.

After a few years of life in this country, Count D'Alessandro became familiar with American labor conditions and a staunch believer in the value of organization of laborers. He became affiliated with the organization of his trade and grew to be an influential member of his uion. As his conceptions of the value of united action grew, he also became familiar with those conditions of labor, particularly among his own countrymen, which in his opinion fell far below the standard of the ideal.

At that time the pardone system existed among Italian laborers in Boston. Under this system timmigrants from Italy were bound to a contractor and forced to pay heavy tribute because he obtained work for them when they came to America. The ignorant immigrant, eager to get a job and unfamiliar with conditions, was victimized and forced to labor under conditions no better and often worse than those he had left Italy to escape.

Count D'Alessandro set about finding means to remedy these conditions. Through his connection with organized labor he began a determined fight upon the padrone system.

This fight he began in 1901 and it has resulted in the practical abolishment of the system in Boston. Labor leaders in other cities took up the fight with the result that contract labor among Italian workmen has been largely eliminated.

In recognition of his services to the Italian people in America, King Victor Immanuel of Italy bestowed upon D'Alessandro the title of Cavalier. Medals also were given him by the king and by several labor organizations in Italy and the United States.

In eighteen years Count D'Alessandro has not returned to the land of his nativity. He has remained in this country and is now head of the international organization of his trade. He is in touch with labor movements and labor leaders and is himself one of the leaders of the union movement in the United States.

FEDERAL EMPLOYEES TO DISCUSS ORGANIZATION

Federal civil service employees in Seattle and other parts of the northwest will hold a mass meeting in this city Friday evening in connection with the convention of the American Federation of Labor. Large representations from the Puget Sound navy yard will be present, and it is possible that the ground work for a more definite bond of association and co-operation will be formed.

Thomas F. Flaherty, secretary of the National Association of Postoffice Clerks, and a delegate to the convention, wil ldeliver an address, and other speakers will be Henry Weiss, immigration service, Seattle; T. D. Ainsworth, immigration inspector, California; T. W. McCullough, delegate, typographical union, and George T. McNamara. The place of holding the meeting will be announced later.

Six different resolutions affecting government employees were introduced last night before the federation convention and referred to proper committees for action. Chief among them were protests against the proposed re-opening of postoffices on Sundays, and the reduction of letter rates from two cents to one cent.

Other resolutions brought forward by Delegate Flaherty endorsed a bill pending before congress to increase the salaries of carriers and clerks in first-class offices to a maximum of $1,400; a movement for the retirement of superannuated government empoyees on pension; a bill before congress to compensate federal employees who had been injured while in government service, and a movement limiting night work in post offices to handling only first and second-class mail matter.

STRUGGLE IS ON FOR CONTROL OF NEWSBOYS

Whether control of the Newsboys' union shall be vested in the American Federation of Labor, in the International Pressmen's union, or in the Typographical union, making either of latter two a practically unbeatable combination, so far as newspapers are concerned, will be determined by the convention of the federation at present meeting in Seattle.

The question will probably be laid before the delegates on appeal, by George L. Berry head of the pressmen, who has labored for some time to acquire the desired jurisdiction for his organization. During the Chicago newspaper lockout in 1912, the pressmen called on the newsboys to aid them, and expended $27,000 in benefits directly to them.

The move will be opposed by leading officials of the typographical and also in the stereotypers' unions. It has been contended by them in the past that the newsboys are merchants, not artisans, and hence should not be chartered as a trade union.

LABOR AND CAPITAL ARE SIMPLY PARTNERS

"Labor and capital are partners," said Secretary of Labor Wilson, addressing an assemblage of about 3,000 persons at the University of Washington yesterday morning. "They must work together to obtain the best results.

"The great questions today in the labor world are production and distribution. With the aid of modern machinery the question of production has been solved to a large extent. The question of distribution is still bothering us.

"The laborer is entitled to an equitable share of the things he produces. This is what all persons interested in labor conditions are now seeking to attain.

"Strikes are miniature wars. But the world hasn't been able to eliminate war yet, so it is only natural that we have strikes."

The meeting was presided over by Dean Arthur S. Haggett, of tre University of Washington, and was attended by many besides university students.

900 COUPLES ON FLOOR AT TEAMSTERS' BALL

With more than 900 couples on the floor during the time that dancing was the order, Teamsters' Union, No. 174, gave its fifth annual ball at Dreamland pavilion last night. The ball was a benefit affair and its big success was largely due to the fact that the proceeds were to go to a fund to aid the members of the organization now on strike.

It had been expected that Samuel Gompers, president of the American Federation of Labor, would be present to lead the grand march with Mrs. Gompers, but before the dancing began Daniel J. Tobin, president of the International Brotherhood of Teamsters, mounted the musicians' stand and explained that Mr. Gompers, under his physician's orders, could not attend.

President Tobin made a few general remarks on the conditions of the teamsters' union, then announced that Thomas L. Hughes, secretary-treasurer of the international brotherhood, would lead the grand march.

Secretary Frank Morrison and other htigh officials of the American Federation attended the ball.

A feature of the ball was a marathon two-step for a prize of $10. The winners were Gus Crawford and Mrs. Jennette Smith.

HOME FOR FEDERATION IN WASHINGTON SOUGHT

Construction of a suitable office building for headquarters of the American Federation of Labor at Washington, D. C., will be one of the chief matters to be considered at the present convention connected with the business side of the organization. That actual work may be started during the coming year is the desire of the executive council of the federation.

During the past year various properties and sites were examined but none of them were found satisfactory from a financial standpoint.

SEEK ENDORSEMENT OF MOTHERS' DAY PLAN

Approval and endorsement of the annual commemoration of Mothers' Day, on the second Sunday of May of each year, will be sought from the American Federation of Labor at its convention meeting now in Seattle. Representatives of the movement have already approached the executive council and requested their co-operation on the ground that the anniversary was a decided influence towards the uplift of citizenship in general.

Effort will be made to have the convention declare itself in favor of affiliated organizations and their memberships observing the day officially and in a body. The custom of wearing a white carnation as a boutonniere prevails on Mothers' Day.

A. F. L. COMMITTEES PICKED BY CONVENTION

Appointment and confirmation of the various committtees was the principal work of the A. F. of L. convention after it convened. President Gompers asked and received the approval of the convention to the appointment of a number of additional committees on ways and means, finance, proposed state constitution amendments, A. F. of L. office building and international relations.

President Gompers at the opening of the session, announced the appointment of George W. Ficks, as assistant secretary of the convention; E. H. Mitchell, as sergeant-at-arms, and Richard Loewe, as messenger.

The reading of the summory of the report of the executive council, started before the lunch hour, was continued by First Vice-President James Duncan, and upon its completion the various items referred to in the report were assigned to their proper committees, together with several letters which were read before the convention and which required committee action.

The complete list of committee appointments follows:

The Diamond Block

A Case of Too Strong a "Detective Instinct"

By CLARISSA MACKIE

It happened in Chicago.

The Diamond block stands on a corner formed by two principal thoroughfares, a tall building with buff stone walls rising above the crowded streets until the upper floors are a blur to the eye below.

Up on the twentieth floor are the offices of John Diamond, owner of this building and many others of the same kind in the big metropolis. Many and varied are the interests of this rich man and the transaction of his affairs requires the reservation of the entire twentieth floor for his offices.

All day long dozens of clerks pore over ledgers, typewriters and adding machines.

Mr. Diamond was seldom seen about the building. Most of his business was transacted through competent executives, of whom Henry Robinson was the chief. The Diamonds lived in a magnificent house on the lake front and went in for society. Helen Diamond, the beautiful daughter of the multimillionaire, had drifted through the offices once or twice to see her father, and her coming and going had blazed a trail of fire in the heart of George Brown, the newest clerk on the force.

It was a singular fact that Mr. Diamond's rare visits to his offices were invariably on the eve of his departure for Colorado and Arizona, where he had extensive mining interests.

It was immediately after one of these periodical visits of John Diamond that young George Brown, the new accountant, did a bit of detective work that brought him to the personal notice of the great John Diamond himself.

Young Brown was a slim, dapper youth, who did not hate himself in the least and who was not in love with work of any sort. He read detective stories and knew positively that he was one of the chosen few. He possessed the "detective instinct." He believed himself quite fascinating enough to win his employer's daughter, Helen Diamond, flattering himself that he was capable of becoming general manager of the whole business and so would be an acceptable son-in-law.

One morning young Brown entered the elevator and was sped up aloft with other workers. The car stopped at the eighteenth floor to let off passengers and again at the nineteenth to drop Trowbridge, who worked in the Dover insurance offices. Up it shot to the twentieth floor, where Brown got off with a puzzled frown marring his ingenuous brow.

The empty car dropped down and as it went he watched it intently. Then he walked to another elevator and rode down to the ground floor, counting each floor as he passed. When he again mounted to the twentieth floor there was a strange light in his eyes and excitement tingling every nerve of his sensitive frame.

He was on the verge of a mystery, the solving of which would place him in the limelight of publicity and bring down upon his talented head the eternal approval and friendship of John Diamond.

Over his ledger Brown pondered the facts as he had stumbled upon them. Between the nineteenth and twentieth floors of the Diamond block there was an expanse of white wall quite unaccounted for—why, that blank wall was the height of any of the other floors in the building and yet there appeared no door to mar its surface. The elevators were of special construction, with walls of solid metal plates and a grilled door, and the passing of this fifteen feet of unaccounted for space might be quite unnoticed unless one was sharp eyed and sharp eared, like young Brown. Why should there be such a waste of space in this great building, where every foot of room was valuable?

That was the mystery, and George Brown resolved to solve it.

At noon, as he waited for the elevator, he saw the roof of the ascending car stop just below his floor level, and he distinctly heard Mr. Robinson's voice. When the elevator reached the twentieth floor it was empty.

"I thought Mr. Robinson was on the car," said Brown curiously.

The middle aged operator shook his head negatively.

Henry Robinson, the manager of the Diamond interests, was a martinet in discipline. George Brown despised him accordingly and knew with unerring certainty that he could fill Robinson's job with one hand tied behind him.

Brown argued thus: Henry Robinson had supervised the building of the Diamond block—what more natural than he should connive to have one of the floors sealed to public knowledge, yea, even the knowledge of his guileless employer, and use it to his own advantage? What sort of work was carried on secretly there? George Brown had it all figured out to a nicety; counterfeiting, of course.

But George Brown wanted to be very sure that he was right before springing his information upon the unsuspecting John Diamond. Just at this time Mr. Diamond was in the west.

So George Brown entered the tall building across the street and surveyed the Diamond block from the outside and studied the Diamond block from an upper floor whose windows were on a level with the windows of the mysterious unnumbered floor of the Diamond block.

Counting carefully he found the nineteenth floor, gold lettered windows of the Dover insurance company quite distinct—then another set of windows unlettered, closely curtained, then above them the wire screened windows of the Diamond offices, known as the twentieth floor.

At last he decided to consult a detective.

So one evening at 6 o'clock the elevator carried up five passengers—George Brown, Allen, the detective, and two policemen in plain clothes and a reporter from the Daily Dishup, for Brown did not want his triumph to pass unnoticed.

When they had risen several stories Allen placed his hand on the arm of the elevator man and showed a revolver.

"You are my prisoner," he said coolly. "Now, my man, no fuss. Just stop at that unnumbered floor between the nineteenth and twentieth."

White of face and with muttered protests the man brought the car to a standstill before that mysterious, unnumbered space that had attracted the attention of keen young Brown. Instead of opening the usual door, the man turned and slid back a door in the rear of the elevator, disclosing a corresponding doorway in the wall.

That was the entrance to the unnumbered floor.

George Brown was a-tremble with exultation.

The five entered the door and found themselves at once in a narrow passageway, softly lighted and thickly carpeted. As they passed from one luxuriously furnished room to another Brown pictured the downfall of the guilty manager when his secret should be disclosed to Diamond.

Handsome library, luxurious smoking room, billiard room and then the murmur of voices from an adjoining room brought the five to a standstill before a closed door.

Then with one movement the five pushed into a small, lighted study, where sat Robinson, the manager, in intimate conversation with—John Diamond himself!

The millionaire sprang to his feet and stared angrily at the invaders.

"What does this mean?" he demanded.

The detective, Allen, was quite unwilling to share the honor alone. He grasped George Brown by his coat collar and pushed him to the front. In picturesque words he explained the situation.

"And, this young pinhead"—he ended in a gasp of rage as he shook George Brown as a terrier shakes a rat.

Mr. Diamond was smiling austerely.

"Gentlemen," he said at last, "this private suit of rooms is the only refuge of a man weary of the noise and clatter of the world and the hollow thing called 'society.' Here I can hide for weeks at a time, absorbed in my books and in my experimental work in the laboratory yonder. Now that you have spied me out I can no longer remain unless I have your word of honor that my secret shall remain unpublished."

Freely they gave the promise, all save George Brown, who was too crushed for utterance. He merely nodded his head in a broken hearted way and was glad that he knew of another job that he might have for the asking, a job where there was so much work to be done that there was no time for the development of the detective instinct.

But the reporter of the Daily Dishup yielded to temptation one day and published the whole story, and to the end of it he appended the announcement of the engagement of Miss Helen Diamond to Henry Robinson, general manager of the Diamond interests.

And George Brown, sticking manfully to his new job, smiled bitterly when he read the announcement and took to his breast the one crumb of consolation it afforded him.

He had been right in his argument that a millionaire's daughter sometimes marries her father's general manager.

Hiding His Character.

SEATTLE ABANDONS PORT TERMINAL SCHEME

Seattle, Nov. 12.—For the time being, at least, the port commission has given up its tentative plan for the organization of a terminal railroad. A study of the scheme showed that it would cost more money than the port district could hope to raise within a reasonable length of time for such a purpose.

If the plan for an exchange of land with the Great Northern railroad on the Salmon bay waterway and Smith's cove goes through the port district may fail heir to a short piece of railroad, but this probably will be operated by one of the existing lines and would not be a port district burden.

The terminal railway scheme, that once threatened to come up this year, was dropped from the port district hearing this afternoon when a hearing was held on projects that the commissioners intend to submit on December 6 for popular approval.

Plans which the port commission wants ratified include the creation of Districts 9 and 10, which include, respectively, Lakes Union and Washington; a $350,000 bond issue to build a five-story, concrete building in the rear of the Central waterfront district dock at the foot of Bell street, and which is planned to be a cold storage warehouse; a $175,000 bond issue to build a bulkhead across the head of the Smith cove waterway at Fifteenth avenue northwest and Emerson street, to fill in the port district land behind it and to build a 1,000-foot dock extending into the Salmon bay waterway. A port district fresh water dock inside the locks, is sought in this scheme.

THIRST TOO GREAT, SO THEY QUIT PAVING

Montreal, Nov. 12.—About ten men employed by the firm of Quinlan & Robertson, for the paving of the road at the corner of Notre Dame street and Cote St. Paul road, went out on strike yesterday afternoon.

The trouble occurred shortly after three o'clock, when two of the pavers deciding that their thirst was of more importance than the paving of the road, put down their tools and went to a nearby saloon.

On their return the superintendent gave orders to Mr. Boyer, the foreman, to have them discharged. They were paid off, and told to go, but this did not end the matter, as the remaining pavers, seeing their fellow workmen discharged, also took up their belongings and quit work.

Up to the present time no workmen have been found to continue the paving.

FIRST MOVE LIES WITH THE CHURCH

While attending the purity congress in Minneapolis last week as a delegate from Winnipeg, Rev. Chas. W. Gordon (Ralph Connor) contributed the following interesting editorial to the Minneapolis Daily News:

"No great reforms in matters of purity, or indeed in any matter, would ever be consummated by legislation alone, or by moral suasion alone.

"It is only by the co-operation of the forces represented in the church and in the law that reforms can be brought about. Each has its separate function and each its own method of operation. The church as part of its function, furnishes the nation with ideals and inspiration. The church is the instigation of truth, ultimate truth, in regard to things spiritual and moral. This is not to say the church has never held as true what was false, but the Christian church was constituted by its founder to be the 'Pillar and Ground of Truth,' and truth is the faith of the church.

"The preacher is the prophet. He is the seer of his people. Instructed by history, with his eye upon his world, and his vision cleared because his heart is pure of selfish motive or ultimate aim, he discovers in his person those principles of right and wrong which are eternal, and which in the hearts of man generate forces that make for righteousness or unrightousness. It is his business, primarily, to utter these principles to the people, and his further business to awaken in his people the desire for righteousness which is the presage of triumph.

"In proportion to the truth of the preacher's message—for the preacher, being human, is exposed to human fraility and imperfection—in proportion of the truth of his message and the conscience of the people responds in approval, and so public opinion is made.

"This truth is the foundation of the church—to see and to announce to the people the ideal, and to awaken in their hearts the decision for it from which issues the public opinion demanding righteousness. Without this legislation is vanity and deception, for legislation without the sure and solid basis of public opinion is an evil of empty form, but it undermines in the heart of the people that reverence for law which is at the foundation of all public morality. Once public opinion is made, however, we enter into the region of law.

"Legislation is the registration of public opinion. The law should register the high water mark of the people's demand for righteousness. It should crystallize the opinion of the best people in the community, which is the opinion o fthe majority of people when at their best. Laggard legislation that falls far in the rear of the people's will is practically useless, for what everyone approves trequires no law to enforce, and the law that does not lead falls in one of the general functions of law, namely, that of education.

"It is here the legislator needs both vision and courage. Elevated by the votes of the people to a point of eminence, from this vantage ground he is able to discover the line of advance, a discovery not yet made by the majority of those who have placed him in his position. He takes his courage in hand and proposes his law, and the law continually summons the people to scale the height and make the advance.

"Democracy in this country is threatened at its most vital point by an evil that purity legislation seeks to eradicate — an evil that threatens the physical life stream of the people and that disintegrates its moral fiber.

"The statistics presented at the purity congress now in session are so startlingly appalling as to arrest the attention and awaken the concern of congress itself. Impurity in the nation has assumed such proportions that the necessity for legislation to deal with this takes precedence over all other. How insignificant in comparison are such questions as the tariff and currency.

"It is true, for instance, that as stated by a recognized medical authority in the United States, in one single year in the city of New York 240,000 men are infected by diseases consequent upon vice, and these men unisolated are free to spread contamination of their diseases wherever they go. Surely this calls for legislation.

"The point of departure in all reform is the discovery of facts. To this task the church resolutely set itself. Every church should have its department of social service, and it should be the duty of that department to get at the facts.

"The second step is the publication of the facts, the bare, bald, brutal facts, that pure-minded men and gentle-hearted women should be shocked into horror, into indignation and into activity.

"This indignant horror will force public opinion to register itself to legislation, and with the co-operating forces of moral abhorrence and legal activity, the evil will be practically eradicated. The first move lies with the church."

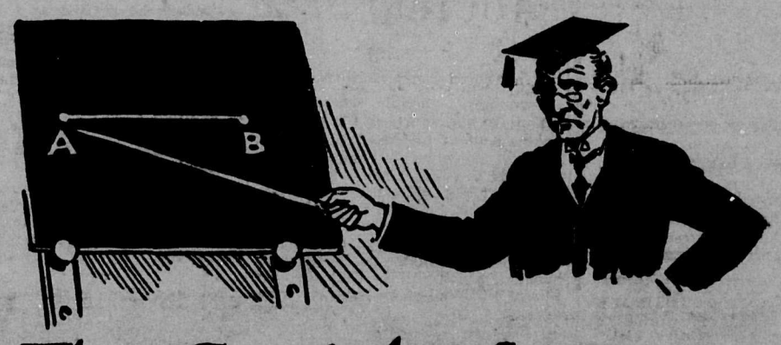
DOGS ON THE SOUND MUST WEAR MUZZLES

Seattle, Nov. 12.—Seattle and Tacoma dogs must be muzzled, held in leash or chained on the premises of the owners, according to an edict this morning from Dr. H. T. Graves, veterinarian of the department of agriculture of the state of Washington.

And this in view of the fact that the municipal alienists of the local city council decided otherwise yesterday afternoon by a vote of 5 to 3. But the muzzle order will stand, for it was approved by Governor Ernest Lister, the state board of health and the department of agriculture in joint session. The ruling applies to all dogs in King and Pierce counties, and the cities are not excepted.

Pretty tough on Fido, Old Dog Tray, and others of the species. Because some bourgeoise canines are said to be affected with rabies, the aristocrats of the race from the pedigreed dachshund to the friendly St. Bernard must be kept in leash, tied in the back yard or adorned with an equipment resembling a catcher's mask.

Local dog fanciers dont take kindly to the measure. Numerous informal complaints have already been registered against the action of the agricultural and health departments of the state. But at the present moment it appears that the edict will stand. A fine of not more than $250 or ninety days in jail is the penalty prescribed for violation of the order.



The Straight Line in Creating Demand

"A Straight Line is the Shortest Distance between Two Points."

Whatever troubles old Euclid gave us in our schooldays his axioms were simple enough. In our business life to-day we show a lively appreciation of the truth of this axiom in cutting out superfluous efforts—in the saving of time and labor.

In making goods the straight line is "efficiency." It is the shortest distance between raw material and finished product.

In Selling Goods, the straight line is Newspaper Advertising.

It is the shortest distance between the seller and the buyer. Some manufacturers are applying the straight line in the making of their goods, but neglecting it in the selling of them. Some have no line of communication with the consumer at all—many let their message meander along by-paths of "chance acquaintanceship," instead of conducting it along the straight line of Newspaper Advertising.

Newspaper Advertising is the Shortest Distance between the two points of "Supply" and "Demand."
