IMMIGRANTS KILLED IN C.P.R. TRAIN WRECK

Westbound Express Ditched by Twisted Rail and Eight Go to Their Deaths—Cars Topple into Ottawa River—More than Fifty Injured Are Rushed to City Hospitals—Thorough Investigation to Be Held.

Ottawa, June 25.—The dead: Patrick Mulvenna, of County Antrim, Ireland, aged 25, single, passenger to Winnipeg.

John Moodie, of Sanday, Orkney, Scotland, aged 17, single, passenger to Calgary.

John Hogg, of County Derry, Ireland, aged 30, single, passenger to Calgary.

Mrs. Jane McNealy, of Glasgow, Scotland, aged 40, passenger to Edmonton.

John Peace, of Glasgow, Scotland, aged 21, single, passenger to Edmonton.

Unidentified woman, apparently a Jewess, about 45, believed to be going to Mrs. Buting, 368 Broadway, Winnipeg.

Unidentified boy, about 8, no particulars known.

Unidentified female child, about six months old, believed to be grandchild of unidentified woman.

Fifty Injured.

Eight dead and over 50 injured, two probably fatally, is the toll of a railway accident three miles from Ottawa this afternoon when the C. P. R. Winnipeg train left the track. All the dead and practically all the injured are emigrants, mostly from the British Isles. The cause of the wreck is not known, but it is believed to have been either a loose rail or what is known in railway parlance as a "sun-kink."

The train left here at 1:30 and consisted of baggage and mail cars, three colonist, one first class, two tourists, a diner and a Pullman car. Two of the colonist cars turned completely over and lay on their sides in the Ottawa river, which is skirted by the C. P. R. track for some distance. It was from those two cars that the dead were taken. Dan Cameron, the conductor on the ill-fated train, was in one of the colonist cars which toppled into the river and was in the act of punching a ticket. He escaped with a dislocated shoulder and was the only member of the crew injured.

Came Without Warning.

From the stories told by passengers on the train and by eye-witnesses at the McKellar townsite, the rural subdivision, just in the rear of which the accident occurred, the train was travelling at the rate of about 25 miles an hour. Children and women in the cars were waving to people along the track, when suddenly the latter saw the cars begin to rock and the train to twist. The next instant there was a crash as the centre of the train left the irons, and then came the cries of the injured and dying.

The engine, baggage and mail cars, with one of the colonist cars, remained on the rails. The next two cars were colonists and both toppled into the river, one turning over twice, while the second simply shot off its trucks and fell on its side. The two cars broke from the others, the first class, which followed, remaining partly on the railroad bed with its nose pointing toward the river. The tourist cars, which were next, went to the side farthest from the river and remained tilted at an angle of about 45 degrees. The dining car left the rails, but remained practically in a straight line, while the Pullman car, which was last, had only its front trucks off the track.

Help Rushed.

Messages were sent to the city for help and in a short time there were many volunteers with motor ambulances, doctors and unrses. As the cars were not demolished it was a comparatively easy matter to get out the injured and they were immediately rushed in motor cars to the city hospitals. The C. P. R. officials in Ottawa despatched medical men and others to the scene of the accident as soon as possible. Passengers who were able to continue their journey were taken west tonight in a special by way of Kemptville.

Wrecking crews from Ottawa and Smiths Falls were promptly on hand and it is said the track will be clear for traffic early tomorrow morning. The train for Toronto was also sent around by way of Kemptville.

There was remarkably little panic among the passengers. The Russians took things stolidly, while the British immigrants showed their breed by those who escaped or who were only slightly injured helping the less fortunate to extricate themselves. Those who were injured bore up most pluckily after the first alarming cries and their grit was commented upon by physicians and others.

Pathetic Scenes.

There were many pathetic scenes as women and children, going to join their husbands and fathers or whole families going to the west were removed, injured. Some members of families were killed, while others who were injured were hurried to the hospital so quickly that their relatives did not know where they had gone. Most of the deaths were caused by the people being hurled against the sides of the cars when they toppled over, but a couple met their deaths by drowning. One little boy was drowned, having been hurled through a window into the river. One woman and a boy, who were apparently leaning out of the window, were caught underneath and their bodies were the last to be recovered. While the two colonist cars are still lying in about three feet of water, where they fell, it is not thought there are any bodies which have not been recovered.

Chief Engineer Mountain, Inspector Lalonde and Chief Operating Officer A. J. Nixon, of the railway commission, went out to the scene of the accident shortly after it occurred. They made a sketch of the neighborhood and held a superficial inquiry, but will defer for a day or so more thorough investigation. One of the officials said that, owing to the condition of the track, the real cause could not be readily established, but he was inclined to the view that the rail had "kinked" from the action of the sun after standing the pressure of the locomotive and forward cars became displaced, causing the other cars to be thrown off.

Thorough Inquiry.

The commission will make a thorough inquiry, but the facts will also be brought out at the coroner's inquest. One of the witnesses of the wreck was J. B. Carron, an employee of Andrew McKellar, who was at work close by. He was watching the train closely, and will be one of the chief witnesses at the inquest.

"It was not running very fast," said Mr. Carron. "I don't think it was going more than 25 miles an hour. Some of the children waved their handkerchiefs through the windows. Then I noticed the immigrant and colonist cars begin to wobble and there was a crash as they left the steel. The engine and the first two coaches went ahead and stopped about 100 yards west of the wreck, but the colonist and immigrant coaches toppled over on the brink of the bank and then rolled over. I rushed up the bank side of the track, but the car was then on its side in the water."

The train was chiefly carrying passengers who came to Canada in the Pretorian of the Allan line, which left Glasgow on June 15, and carried people from Scotland bound for the west.

Thomas Wallace, 45, a Scottish immigrant who was going to Edmonton was among those who had a miraculous escape. Wallace, together with two of his friends, David Wilkie, of Glasgow, and James Clements, of Londonderry, was in the immigrant coach which plunged into the river. He found himself struggling in the water, but was fortunately close to a window. He broke the glass with his fist and dived down, coming up on the edge of the bank. To his swimming strength Wallace attributes his escape. He said he pulled one little boy out of the water and that another sank as he was doing so. The child who succumbed, was afterwards found. The name could not be ascertained.

BUNCO MAN HAS NEW COMPLAINT

First Weeps in Witness Box and Then Bites Chunks Out of Court House Tumbler.

San Francisco, June 25.—During the cross-examination in the trial this afternoon of former Policemen Taylor and MacPhee, who are charged with conspiracy in the bunco-graft circle, Chite Ravigo, the young bunco-man brought here by the prosecution from St. Louis, completely collapsed and wept bitterly.

The collapse occurred when Ravigo was being questioned about the fleecing of Louis Dodero, in which he participated. When he burst into tears he was led from the court room.

While drinking from a glass of water in the chamber, Ravigo, in his hysteria bit a piece from the tumbler.

A greater part of the session today when taken up by the prosecution with direct examination.

Only One Left.

Seattle, June 25.—Superior Judge Ronald today dismissed as defective the indictment against Leroy Sanders, editor of the Seattle Star. Sanders was accused of having criminally libelled County Commissioner Hamilton during the agitation preceding the calling of the grand jury to investigate county officers. Only one indictment returned by the recent grand jury now remains. This is against Edward Clayson, Sr., editor of the Patriarch, a weekly paper, and accuses him of having libelled Judge Ronald by making attacks on his character.

DAVID S. CAMERON
Who was elected president of the New Westminster Trades and Labor council by acclamation last evening.

STORM BREWING AMONG CARPENTERS

Probable Trouble Between Two International Bodies—D. S. Cameron President of T. and L. C.

Is there a storm brewing on the continent between the members of the United Brotherhood of Carpenters and the Amalgamated Society of Carpenters? Intimation to this effect was given at the Trades and Labor council meeting held last evening, when astrongly worded protest was moved and adopted against the action of the Trades Congress of Canada in returning the per capita tax amounting to $300 to the amalgamated society.

President D. S. Cameron explained the import of the affair in that, while attending the annual convention of the congress held at Guelph, Ont., last September, a motion to unseat the amalgamated members from the session was defeated by a heavy vote.

The next thing the New Westminster labor men hear of the deal is the returning of the monies paid into the treasury of the congress which, Mr. Cameron thought, was nothing more than heeding a threat from the United Brotherhood. The motion was carried unanimously and Vancouver and Victoria councils will be notified and asked to support.

D. S. Cameron, President.

The closing of nominations for officers resulted in the election of D. S. Cameron as president for the coming year, Mr. Cameron having no opposition. B. D. Grant was again re-elected secretary, while Alderman W. Dodd, G. Bacon and H. Innis were elected as trustees.

The contests which will be held at the next meeting will be as follows: For vice-president, H. Gibb, H. Knudsen, B. Sherwood, J. Hogg; for financial secretary, C. A. Lugren and H. Gibb; for sergeant at arms, D. Hunter, R. J. Fell, H. McWaters.

Still another union was reported organized in the city, this being the stationary engineers. A charter has been sent for.

A standing vote of condolence was passed sympathizing with Mrs. J. A. Lee and family in the loss they sustained last week through the death of ex-Mayor J. A. Lee. Many of the labor delgates spoke admiringly of the work performed by Mr. Lee during the time he was chief magistrate.

DOESN'T VALUE IT AT THAT MUCH

Princess Portrait Artist and Millionaire Horseman at Law Over the Latter's Picture.

New York, June 25.—Suit was filed today against James B. Haggin, aged millionaire mining man and horseman, by Princess Vilma L. Wolff-Parlaghy, noted as a portrait painter to royalty, claiming $25,000, alleged to be the price agreed upon for a portrait of Mr. Haggin painted by the princess.

Counsel for the portrait painter said he understood Mr. Haggin's reason for not wishing to pay the bill was that he had never understood $25,000 was to be the price charged. The princess, however, the lawyer declared, is quite positive that was the amount agreed upon before the nonogenarian horseman began to sit for his portrait on May 1. The canvas hangs at present in Mr. Haggin's residence here.

Ministry Overturned.

Amsterdam, June 25.—The election today for the second chamber of the states-general resulted in the return of 30 Liberals, 7 Democrats, 18 Social-Democrats, 20 clericals and 25 Roman Catholics. The former majority of the coalition of Catholics and Clericals has thus been reduced to a minority of 10 and the resignation of the ministry is expected.

DRIVE FIRST PILE IN HARBOR WORK

July Third the Date—Event Will Be Made Occasion for Suitable Attendant Ceremony.

July 3 at 2 p.m. will probably see the first pile driven in the first unit of the New Westminster harbor improvements. The pile driver is right on the job and all that remains is to make arrangements for a suitable ceremony that will be worthy of such an event.

The first unit of the harbor scheme consists of the work of widening Front street 117 feet out into the river, making a total width of 197 feet, which will be able to accommodate any and all railroads desiring facilities at the waterfront.

Approximately $500,000 is the cost of this work, although much of this has already been spent in the purchasing of equipment.

The matter of arranging for the ceremony is in the hands of the Progressive association and the board of trade.

WANT TO TAKE HAND THEMSELVES

Private Members of Congress Refuse to Give Party Leaders Control of the Budget.

Washington, June 25.—House Democrats in cacus today agreed upon the abolition of the commerce court as a party policy and, turning deaf ears to pleas from their leaders, rejected a plan for the operation of a budget committee to control all appropriations.

Democratic Leader Underwood led the fight for the budget plan and had the support of Speaker Clark, Representative Fitzgerald, chairman of the appropriation committee, and other powerful house leaders. Mr. Underwood declared that appropriations are running beyond bounds under the present system and urged reform through a committee on estimates and expenditures, with control over all appropriations and power to fix the maximum for each session of congress.

Opposition to the proposition developed immediately led by Representative Tribble and Representative Hardwick, of Georgia. Representative Tribble insisted that a budget committee centralizing control of appropriations among committee chairman and other ranking members would constitute the "most gigantic trust ever formed." Mr. Hardwick's resolution to lay the plan on the table was carried 95 to 80.

MUST GO BEFORE CITY COUNCIL

Commissioners Cannot Deal With Bottling License Application—Another Meeting July 2.

Excepting the granting of a transfer of the Central hotel license, nothing final was done by the license commission at its meeting last night to consider four applications for liquor licenses.

It was ruled that E. G. McBride's application for a bottling license could not be granted by the board, but would have to be dealt with by the city council.

The aplication of Jos. I. Freeman, asking that the license of the Central hotel be turned over to H. Freeman was granted, and the license inspector will inspect the Dunsmuir and Windsor hotel buildings, the former on a bar license application and the latter for a wholesale permit. These applications will be again considered at the next meeting.

Mayor Gray and Commissioner Gilchrist were the only members of the commission present and it was thought that until the others were there nothing decisive should be done. Consequently, another meeting has been called for July 2.

And Another Goes.

London, June 25.—Miss Harriett Kerr, the last militant suffragette prisoner of those sentenced for conspiracy on June 17, was released from jail today suffering from the effects of a "hunger strike." She was undergoing a 12 months sentence.

ANOTHER COAL STRIKE.

Charleston, W. Va., June 25.—An official call for a strike of miners in the New River coal field was issued late tonight from the local headquarters of the United Mine Workers of America. Fifteen thousand men are employed in that field. The strike ordered is effective July 1. Miners also are expected to strike tomorrow in the Cabin Creek field, while conditions in the Paint Creek district are very uncertain.

YEAR CLOSED WITH A BANK BALANCE

Royal Columbian Hospital Board End Term With Cash on Hand.

Chairman J. J. Johnston Retires and George Small Is Elected to Succeed Him.

An enviable record has been made by the Royal Columbian hospital during the past year and the members of the board of management in annual session yesterday were gratified at the financial report as presented. It was shown that there was a balance of over $1500 to the credit of the hospital, after paying all current expenses. This does not affect the capital account, however.

George Small was elected president to succeed J. J. Johnston, who retired after having occupied the position since July, 1910. J. S. Clute, sr., was elected vice-president to take the place vacated by Mr. Small.

In appreciation of the efforts they have made in the interests of the hospital, Thomas Gifford, M.L.A., and J. J. Johnston were elected honorary president and vice-president, respectively.

No Easy Work.

It is felt by many that the success of the hospital is due almost entirely to the untiring efforts of the public spirited men and women who, without thought of remuneration, give much of their valuable time to the institution. The ordinary citizen has no idea of the work attached to the position of member of the board of management. There are monthly meetings, committee meetings to attend and with them rests the responsibility of purchasing the supplies and equipment.

That they have succeeded in their efforts is shown by the splendid financial report, which, although not yet announced in all its details, will be open to the public in a few days.

Few public hospitals have the distinction of showing a credit balance at the end of the year and in fact in most instances a deficit is the exhibit, as has been the case on a number of occasions with the Royal Columbian hospital.

Generosity of Citizens.

The success of the hospital is also due to the generosity of the citizens and, as an instance of this, Miss Scott reported that Harry Hutton, of New Westminster, had presented a wheel chair for the use of patients, which was accepted with many thanks.

Everything in connection with the new hospital is proceeding apace and indications are that the building will be ready for occupation by September.

At the meeting yesterday it was decided to heat the building with fuel oil, the boilers installed being suitable for this purpose.

It was also decided to appoint a committee and give them full power to purchase the quipment for the new laundry. Tenders for these supplies have already been received.

Miss Scott, lady suprintendent, also presented her annual report.

Those present were J. J. Johnston, George Small, J. A. Montgomery, J. S. Clute, sr., Robert Lane, T. H. Smith, Mayor Gray, Mrs. A. J. Hill, Mrs. A. H. Ferguson, Miss Scott and Secretary Withers.

ASKS FOR PENSION AND FINDS FATHER

War Hero Supposed to Be Dead Lives to Spoil His Daughter's Chances for Stipend.

Clatskaine, Ore., June 25.—By applying for a pension as the daughter of an officer of the Union army in the Civil war, Mrs. Miller French, of this place has learned that her father, Captain Lewis P. Hunt, believed to have been killed in battle, is still living and is a resident of Tarrytown, N.Y.

At the time Captain Hunt enlisted with a company from Buffalo, his daughter was two years old. Soon after Captain Hunt left Buffalo, Mrs. Hunt, the wife and mother, received word that her husband had been killed in battle. She remarried and removed to the west, where she died several years later. Upon returning from the war, Captain Hunt learned of the second marriage of his wife and, in order not to embarrass her, obtained a divorce and himself took another wife.

Mrs. French always has believed her father dead and was not undeceived until she learned from the pension bureau at Washington that Captain Hunt was himself a pensioner. Mrs. French at once telegraphed her father and today received confirmation of her kinship.

CITY LIGHTING IS CHEAP AND GOOD

Civic Electrician Sees Systems of the East and Is Satisfied with that in New Westminster.

After several months' travelling through Eastern Canada and the United States, City Electrician P. Bowler returns with the verdict that the lighting and wiring systems employed in New Westminster are equal and in most cases superior to those used by Montreal, Toronto or New Yor kitself. More important to the consumer even than this is the fact that the cost of electricity is less in this city than in the east, including Ontario, where the publicly owned hydro-electric system is installed. The rate in Montreal and New York is 10 cents straight per k.w.

"New Westminster," said the city electrician," is the first city in Canada and probably the first in America to try out the luminous magnotite system now in operation on Sixth street, whereby the large lights are hung to the poles used for carrying the wires." There are none of these lights in Montreal, he says, but a few are being experimented with on the upper end of Forty-second street in New York.

In Montreal the street lights are suspended and the wiring is being put underground as it is now on Columbia street. In New York, however, most of the wires are buried.

"The standard of wiring is ahead of that in any place I visited, and is superior even to some of the oldest cities of the east and the regulations generally are better than those I have seen in force in my travels."

"Have you any new ideas to put in use in New Westminster?" Mr. Bowler was asked by The News. "No," was the reply, "we are right up to the minute and I saw nothing that could improve our own system."

WELLS REFUSES TO MAKE REPORT

Port Coquitlam Board of Trade Appoints Second Committee to Interview C. P. R.

Port Coquitlam, June 25.—C. P. R. matters were again at issue at a special meeting of the Port Coquitlam board of trade this evening, which culminated in the appointment of a fresh committee to meet the officials of the company in Vancouver.

The last committee reported partially on their visit to Vancouver in connection with the requests for a late train from that city every evening, but the refusal of Mr. Wells, one of the committee, to divulge what had transpired during the interview with C. P. R. officials caused the appointment of a new committee.

This delegation will, in addition to the late train proposition, ask that week end rates be granted between Vancouver and Port Coquitlam.

The Horne Payne matter regarding Canadian municipal finances was discussed briefly, many of the members taking the stand that too much publicity to this would be detrimental to the interests of the province. It was allowed to drop.

The Vancouver Progress club are to be invited to visit Port Coquitlam in the near future, a committee being appointed to arrange the date and make all preparations.

A message of condolence to Mrs. J. A. Lee and family, New Westminster, will be forwarded by the secretary, the members passing the resolution by a standing vote.

Good Roads and Spelling.

Minneapolis, Minn., June 25.—Illiteracy is caused chiefly by poor roads according to Chas. H. Davis, president of the National Highway association, who made an address before the society for the promotion of engineering education at its convention here today. "We cannot have good schools unless we have good roads," Mr. Davis said.

OVER MANY WEARY MILES OF TRAIL

Indian Trackers Tell of the Chase of Moses Paul and Paul Spintlum.

Interesting Evidence in Murder Trial at Assizes—Will Likely Last All Week.

The trial of Paul Spintlum, charged with the murder of Constable Kindness, occupied all yesterday and will probably last the rest of the week in the assize court.

The evidence yesterday was principally noteworthy for the tale of the marvellous skill and patience of the tracking expedition which followed the trails of the men from the shooting scene for a distance of 436 miles and which justifies the conclusion of the chief tracker, the Indian Phillip, that if they had known the country they would have run down the man who fired the shot that killed Kindness.

Heard the Shot.

George Carson, at present a resident in Lillooet, was a member of the posse when Constable Kindness was murdered. Yesterday he confirmed the movements of the posse as told by the previous witnesses in the Spintlum trial. He heard the shot that killed Kindness and immediately afterwards saw a man raise himself from behind a log. He did not see his face. He saw him start to run through the brush when he got a better view of his shape and build. He was of better height and build than the ordinary type of Indian. He carried a gun in his hands as he ran. He got glimpses of him at intervals through the timber as he dodged among the trees. Witness fired several shots at him. After strapping Kindness' body on the horse and traversing half a mile towards Clinton they were fired on a second time.

Shown the photograph of the scene of Kindness' death, witness said it seemed familiar to him. It looked like the place where the shooting took place.

Cross-examined by Mr. Henderson. Kindness did not fire a shot that day so far as he knew. The first shot fired killed Kindness. He had not been sworn as a special constable. There was not time as they wanted to get out on the trail as quickly as possible.

The head and shoulders of the man behind the log were visible.

Questioned as to the photograph he said it was not a very good picture of the place. He would not say there were a lot of Indians of the same build as Spintlum. There might be some. He chased the man who ran from behind the log for about a quarter of a mile.

Witness was then subjected to a number of questions on the identification of the man who fired from behind the log, at the coroner's inquest. Witness was not sure how the questions as to identification were put.

Mr. Henderson—You had made up your mind that the man you were after was either Paul Spintlum or Moses Paul and that the man behind the log was one of them.

Witness—I knew it was not Moses Paul. I am positive of that. I did not say that at the inquest because I did not see his face.

Mr. Henderson—At the coroner's inquest was there not every effort made to find out who did the shooting?

Witness—No, I do not think there was.

Mr. Henderson—No question asked whether it was Moses Paul or Paul Spintlum.

Witness—Not that I remember. I was not asked. I saw only the one man.

The court pointed out that the best evidence on these points was the transcript of the evidence taken at the inquest. Counsel could call witnesses, if he impeached the accuracy of the transcript, and prove that it was wrong.

Prisoner's Compared.

Moses Paul was brought into court at this juncture and compared with Spintlum, separately and together. There is a marked difference in the build and physiognomy of the men. Spintlum is a wall eyed, irregular featured, taller man of much more massive build than Paul, whose features are of a thin, aquiline mould.

William Ritchie, rancher, another of the posse, threw no new light upon the subject of the Kindness killing.

Charles Pollard did not see the man who fired from behind the log and did not shoot at all.

John Pollard said on May 3 he was out hunting strayed horses and met the posse which he joined. He saw the man who fired. He was an Indian and about six feet tall. He thought at the time it was Spintlum from his appearance.

In cross-examination witness was confronted with his evidence at the inquest in which it was represented he said that he had not seen his face.

Witness replied he had seen his face. He could not have seen the man without seeing his face.

Andrew Neas, rancher, deposed that he lived about 37 miles from Clinton. On the night of May 4 he was at James' ranch, 20 miles from Clinton, and put up for the night. He put his horse in the stable. In the morning he found his horse loose, his saddle and a pair of field glasses attached to it gone. The saddle and glasses must have been taken on the night of the

UNDERPAY AND OVERWORK.

One of the provisions in the proposed new tariff arrangement of the United States would prohibit the importation of products manufactured wholly or in part by children under fourteen years of age. Should this pass the legislators at Washington it will exclude from the American market millions of dollars' worth of European-made goods and be a staggering blow to the methods employed there to turn out articles cheaply enough to undersell the factories of the new world.

In Canada, and more particularly in western Canada, there practically is no child labor problem, but, with the building of large commercial enterprises and the rearing of extensive store businesses in the fast growing cities, there is creeping in that other problem that has done much to give the white slave traders their firm foothold in the crowded centres of the United States.

The under-paid, task-driven shop girl is finding many these days to champion her cause, many who are strong and wealthy and who have their hearts in the fight they are making on her behalf, but her case is a desperate one and up to the present, but a slight impression has been made on the evil conditions that prevail in her life.

This province has as yet but the bare beginning of the under-paid shop girl problem, but the foundation for years of trouble and moral death is being laid and as surely as the young roots of the poisonous plant are not rooted out now, just so surely will British Columbia awaken some day to find in her body the canker that is eating into the life of so many American cities.

At present there is a labor commission touring the province and if they have the courage to do it, they have the opportunity to kill the budding evil.

Two things must be remembered, however. One is that minimum wage figures of the east cannot be made to apply in the west; the field here is new and must be investigated as such. Secondly: The man or men on whom devolves the investigation must have the moral courage to speak and act no matter who may be responsible for the evil to be uprooted.

IN CANADA'S STORY

Robert Laird Borden, premier of Canada was born fifty-nine years ago today in the little Nova Scotian village of Grand Pre, immortalized as the opening scene of Longfellow's "Evangeline." He was educated at Acadia Villa Academy at Horton, near his birthplace. At the age of nineteen he left Nova Scotia to become a teacher in the Glenwood Institute in New Jersey. In the following year he began the study of law, and was called to the bar in 1876, at the age of 24. He built up an extensive practice in Nova Scotia, and engaged in many important cases before the provincial and Dominion supreme courts and the judicial committee of the privy council. He was made Queen's counsel in 1891, president of the Nova Scotia Barristers' Society in 1893, honorary doctor of civil law by Queens' University in 1903, and since then many other honors have been conferred upon him. He began his public career as member for the city and county of Halifax in 1896, and soon became a prominent figure in the house of commons. Upon the resignation of Sir Charles Tupper in 1901, he was elected leader of the Conservative party. He became premier and president of the privy council in 1911, as a result of the Conservative victory in the election of Sept. 21, 1911 Premier Borden's principal recreations are cricket, golf and tennis. Before becoming prime minister he was defeated in a memorable golf match with President Taft at Augusta, Ga., and it is rumored that he has been improving the game with the intention of seeking revenge when the former president of the United States visits Canada this summer. The premier married Laura, youngest daughter of the late T. H. Bond, of Halifax, in 1899.

WRECKED STEAMER GOES TO BOTTOM

Crew of S. S. Yukon Reach Seattle—Two Boats Have Nearly $1,000,000 in Gold Bullion.

Seattle, June 25.—The Alaska Coast company's steamship Yukon, which struck a reef on Sannak Island June 11 when bound from Good News bay, Alaska, for Seattle, has sunk, according to word brought by the steamship Victoria, which arrived here from Nome with the shipwrecked crew and passengers.

According to those brought down by the Victoria, the Yukon, which was running at full speed when she struck, hung high on the reef as the tide receded. Her bottom was almost entirely torn away.

Distress signals brought the United States revenue cutter Tahoma to the rescue and the passengers and all but three of the crew under Chief Officer John Simpson, were taken to Dutch Harbor, Unalaska. Later Captain Archie McKay, of the Yukon, returned from Dutch Harbor and joined in the watch over the wreck.

The Yukon passengers brought down by the Victoria were: Mr. and Mrs. G. W. Sanderberg and their two children; F. Wilhelm and G. Van Pelt. Others from the wreck included Pilot G. W. Morgan, Second Officer Charles E. Poindexter, Third Officer E. S. Dakon, Fourth Officer S. M. Higgins, Purser Carl Strout, Freight Clerk J. A. Vingar, Chief Steward F. Dymoth, Chief Engineer H. E. March, First Assistant C. M. McLeod, Third Assistant W. A. Little and thirty-there members of the crew.

Captain John A. O'Brien of the Victoria, which was the first of the regular vessels to reach Nome this year, said the passage each way was favorable. Little ice was encountered in Bering Sea the season this year being earlier than usual. The Victoria made the voyage from Nome to Seattle in seven days and twenty-three hours. She had 108 passengers including those brought from the Yukon wreck.

Shortly before the Victoria reached Seattle, the Pacific Coast Steamship company's liner Senator arrived from Nome at Pier B with about fifty passengers.

The Victoria and Senator brought down approximately $1,000,000 in gold bullion and valuable consignments of fur, ivory and whalebone.

Electrify C. & W. Railroad

Rossland, June 25.—There is no further question about the electrifying of the Columbia and Western railway from Castlegar to Rossland. The announcement comes officially from J. G. Sullivan, chief engineer of the western lines. The lines will cover 28 miles, from Castlegar to Rossland and the change will be the initial step in electrifying majority of western lines. The electrifying involves the expenditure, with equipment, of close to half a million dollars. Direct current will be used, with the trolley system, similar to that in use on the Butte, Anaconda & Pacific Division of the Chicago, Milwaukee and St. Paul.

POT OF PORRIDGE CAUSES TROUBLE

Man and Wife in Fernie Court—School Teacher Accepts Engagement But Cupid—

Fernie, B. C., June 25.—Magistrate Burns held domestic court on Friday on a case originating at Waldo, where a man was charged with an assaut upon his wife. It appeared that the porridge was not cooked to the liking of the husband. In the evidence it developed that the lady had thrown a Worcestershire sauce bottle at her husband but missed him and broke the looking glass. The husband alleged that she tried to bite him. He was fined $10 and costs and bound over to keep the peace for twelve months.

Yes, It Comes High

It comes high to peddle real estate without a license. L. Lenardan and P. Suknasky realize this now. Before Magistrate Brown, of Hosmer, each was mulcted $200 and costs and forced to come across with the price of a license, $25. Incidently, it may be noted that this license is good only for the remainder of this month.

Accepted Forthwith

As if their other difficulties in securing schoolmarms were not sufficient trouble for the board, they get a letter this week from a young lady who had accepted a position on the staff, saying that owing to unexpected proposal of marriage, which she accepted forthwith, she would be unable to keep her engagement here and she trusted that the board would remember the days of her owshrdlurr member the days of their own youth and excuse her. The board sent congratulations.

May Be Some Use

Fernie may get an armoury and have a use for it, after all. Captain Moffat, senior officer here, has received a communication from headquarters in which is outlined a scheme for organizing an East Kootenay regiment, to be made up of companies from any community in the district which is able to muster a complement of men. Regulations will be made to meet the conditions of the country and service conditions will also be made to accord with our conditions here. It would not be necessary to take half a month to go to some distant point for annual drill, a camp being held in the district.

HAMILTON HOSPITAL WILL NOW BE REPAIRED

Hamilton, June 25.—As the result of a perfectly harmonious and featureless conference between the controllers and city hospital governers, a small committee was appointed to look over the institution and recommend the repairs and improvements considered necessary to put it in the shape desired by Dr. Bruce Smith, government inspector.

Discussion on the inspector's report was forbidden from the start, the mayor pointing out that an argument on whether it was fair or unfair would have no influence on the outcome—which was to get busy at once, and put the institution in good shape. Both boards appeared satisfied that they were not specially to blame for the present conditions, and let it go at that.

"Movies" in Parliament

Paris, June 25.—Reasoning that moving pictures at the Chamber of Deputies during important debates would stimulate pride and patriotism throughout France, the clerk, on his own responsibility, and privately, gave permission to a cinematograph company to work its cameras in the legislative hall. While the three year military service bill was under consideration a machine was installed and ran several hours before the deputies knew anything about it. Only fifteen members were in their seats, and some of them were yawning, even snoring away the dull hours, only rousing when a vote was called for, and then voting the proxies of the 400 absentees. Finally the news got around, and there was a remarkable change. The bar was deserted, and there was no dozing, no yawning, no stretching, but much pretty strutting, fine gesticulating, and a universal effort to look solemn and wise.

Scarcity of Cargoes

Cleveland, Ohio, June 25.—With an increase of draft at Sault Ste. Marie and coal cargoes growing scarce, ore shippers will be called on to furnish more business for the lake fleet. The supply of tonnage available has just about equalled the demand so far this season, but the market is so close that should ore traffic be pressed for more cargoes, it will mean an over supply of vessels. The recommended loading draft at the Canadian dock was yesterday increased two inches to nineteen feet nine inches for downward ships, and nineteen feet four inches for upbound boats. Cargoes are so scarce there is reasons to expect a good many ships to go light this week.

SPIRIT LAMP SETS HER AFIRE

Vancouver Woman Badly Burned—Financing Paving a Problem in Terminal City.

Vancouver, Jan. 25.—Her nightdress catching fire from a spirit lamp which she was using at 9:30 o'clock this morning in her room at the Hotel Barron, Mrs. Thomas Buckner, of Blaine, Wash., on a honeymoon trip to Vancouver, was severely burned about the head and shoulders and is now in the general hospital.

It is supposed that Mrs. Buckner was using the spirit lamp in dressing her hair. One of the hotel employees heard a shriek upstairs and rushing up found her in the hallway screaming from the pain of her burns. The spirit lamp was still going, and apparently had not exploded. It was thought that Mrs. Buckner's clothing caught fire as she leaned over the lamp. Her injuries will not prove fatal.

Finance for Paving.

Pavements now before the civic board of works to the value of more than a million dollars will be proceeded with this year, if the tendering contractors can make arrangements with their banks to finance upon treasury notes.

Tenders were called for some time ago by the board of works for asphaltic mixture and wood block pavements, and were opened at the last meeting of the board. It was then stated by Alderman S. J. Crowe, the chairman, that no pavements would likely be laid in view of the financial stringency. Yesterday, however, it was proposed by the board that the contractors take treasury notes in payment, and the matter will be seriously considered.

Don't Butt In.

While expressing appreciation of the kindly offices of the council of the Vancouver board of trade to arbitrate the differences between the mine owners and the mine workers on Vancouver island the controlling companies do not seem to think that at the present interference is necessary.

The Glacial Period.

When Vancouver was covered with 50 feet of ice, and the site of the English bay bath houses was used for skating headquarters—in the glacial period, in other words—these boulders that have been ornamenting Kitsilano streets and causing endless trouble for ward six aldermen, were swept down from the mountains and have been there ever since. That, at any rate, is the theory of David B. McLay, assistant city engineer, which he submitted to the board of works along with other opinions.

Court Vacation.

The "long vacation," the two months' rest from arduous duties which his majesty's judges and overworked counsel look forward to each year, will commence on Tuesday, July 1, and continue until the end of August. Then the court rooms, which are scenes of human interest at all other times of the year, become deserted except for the advent of cleaners and decorators. All civil trials not heard by the end of June have to go over until September to take their turn.

Died Without Will.

The estate of the late Alexander Archibald McDonald, who died in Vancouver on May 2 of this year, without leaving a will, have been entered for probate with the supreme court. The total estate is sworn at $131,509, and as the deceased was a bachelor and had no parents living, it will descend to his brothers and sisters and half sisters, each of whom will receive one-sixth of the estate. As the heirs all reside in Nova Scotia and Montana, an application has been made and granted to allow Dr. D. S. Wallbridge and Rev. Alexander Kenneth MacLennan of Vancouver to act as administrators.

NEW TORONTO HOSPITAL NOW RECEIVING PATIENTS

Toronto, June 25.—Toronto's new general hospital is now receiving patients. The stately institution on the south side of College street, near Queens park, was formally opened by His Honor the Lieutenant-Governor. At precisely at a quarter past three o'clock on June 19, the massive doors of the main entrance yielded to the touch of the golden key turned by Sir John Gibson, and swung open.

This part of the ceremony over, his honor congratulated J. W. Flavelle chairman, and the board of trustees on the completion of the magnificent work of building and preparing the new hospital. Sir John had one regret, that the Duke of Connaught was not present.

All were aware how much interest the members of the royal family manifested towards institutions that were dedicated to the needs of suffering humanity, and their Royal Highnesses had well maintained in Canada these traditions. He would have pleasure in reporting to the Duke of Connaught the successful performance of the function. Sir John extolled the philanthrophy of those who had made possible the enlargement of the plans of the new hospital and who had so generously endowed the board with money to provide for the necessary equipment.

Deport Circus Followers

Toronto, June 25.—Since the arrival of the Barnum and Bailey circus in Ontario fourteen followers have been apprehended by the police for violation of the immigration laws, and fined, and sentenced to deportation under the new Alien act. It was ascertained by th emmi naupdar tta shrd tained by the immigration officials that the fourteen men left Toledo a few days ago to follow in the wake of the circus and prey upon its patrons. Of the aliens arrested four were apprehended in Woodstock and four in Berlin. They were gathered in on a charge of being suspicious characters, and on their appearance before a magistrate were prosecuted by Travelling Inspector Reynolds of the Dominion immigration department on a charge of entering into Canada by misrepresentation.

ONE MAN JUST ESCAPES ANOTHER IS CUT IN TWO

Hanbury, B. C., June 25.—John Camalick, an employee of the North Star Lumber company, who had just started to work last Wednesday, was caught between the saw and the belt pulley and narrowly escaped being cut in two; it was only the presence of mind displayed by the sawyer that he escaped instant death. Having received several severe bruises he was brought to the St. Eugene hospital for treatment.

Later in the afternoon, D. F. Cameron, a lumberjack, while assisting in loading cars, the cars having got a start, attempted to jump on the car to set the brakes, slipped and fell, the wheels passing over and cutting off both legs. He was rushed to the hospital train, but his limbs were crushed so badly that nothing could be done for him, and he died from the effects of the accident in about two hours. The deceased was about 30 years of age, was unmarried, and leaves a brother, Peter Cameron, in Alberta.

Would Tax Church Lands

Toronto, June 25.—Alderman McBride would discontinue exemptions from taxation of church lands. The first step was a motion in council calling for a report from Assessment Commissioner Forman setting forth the assessed value of land exemption, with details of each, grouped by wards other than government, city, public or separate school properties. The motion applies to land only and is intended to hit church holdings for the most part. Alderman Wanless remarked that he had moved for a similar return last year but it was not made as the commissioner informed him it would involve a cost of $500 to secure the information. Council was of opinion the report would be worth the cost and will accordingly be required.

Man Born in Hamilton Seventy-five Years Ago Speaks of Pioneer Days.

Hamilton, June 25.—There is living in Hamilton today a man in the person of Adam Thom, 88 Sherman avenue north, who 75 years ago was born at the corner of King and James streets, where Treble's store now stands. Mr. Thom was born on the northeast corner of King and James streets on Febuary 8, 1842. He was a son of John Thom, who at that time conducted a harness shop there.

Mr. Thom resided in Hamilton until he was four years old, when his parents moved to Galt. They returned to this city when he was eight years old and remained here for four years, when they again moved to Galt. Mr. Thom worked in various towns in this neighborhood until he was 23 years old, when he decided to go to the States to work.

In order to do this he had to get a transport so that he could cross the border with safety. He worked in the States for some time, when he decided to again make a change and come back to this country. He remained here for several years, then went up north, where he lived on St. Joseph's island until about ten years ago, when he went to live at Palmerston. Four years ago he and his sister, Allison, both of whom are still single, came to this city and started a grocery store at the corner of Barton street and Sherman avenue.

They kept store until about three months ago, when they sold the store and bought the house in which they are now living in retirement. Mr. Thom and his sister are the only two that are left of the family. He is a nephew of the late John Thom, LL. D., who was prominent in Canada in connection with the work he did for Lord Durham and the great work he accomplished amongst the early settlers of the west. John Thom was born in Aberdeen on May 8, 1803, and was educated at King's college, from where he graduated in 1820 and came to this country in 1832. In 1833 he established the Settler, and was its first editor. He studied law at Montreal for some time and in 1845, in conjunction with Charles Butler, drew up the report on British North America, which Durham presented to the English government.

He is noted as being the first recorder of Rupert's land. The Hudson Bay company found that it was necessary to have a judge appointed owing to these being so much trouble with the people of the company and the Indians, and Mr. Thom was given the appointment. By this he became known as the father of the bench and law in western Canada. He was also prominent in all the councils of Canada during his stay here. He returned to England in the eighties and died at Torrington Square, London, on February 21, 1890.

Mr. Thom's father, John Thom, was prominent in business and municipal circles, and was one of the forty who signed a petition which was presented to the government on November 11, 1840, asking that a macadam road be built from Hamilton to Owen Sound.

Mr. Thom was in Hamilton when the grammar school was built, where the Central school now stands, and attended school the first day it was opened. Both he and his sister have great faith in Hamilton, and consider that there is not a better investment in the country than real estate here. They have made considerable money since coming here four years ago. They came here with but $2,000 and now have nearly $20,000, all of which was made in real estate. He has a collection of many relics of old times, and delights in explaining the various things to anyone who may happen to call.

Among his collection he has many valuable stones and metals which he found during his stay around here. He has a book of rules which were made when the first Highland society was established here. Among other things which he prizes is a small geography of the world, which his mother used when she went to school, and two small hand stitched dresses in which he was christened at the old St. Andrew Presbyterian church, which at that time was situated where St. Paul is today.

WENT TO SEE "DEBORAH" WITH STENOGRAPHER

Montreal, June 25.—"It leaves a dirty taste in the mouth," said John H. Roberts, secretary of the Dominion Alliance, after witnessing the presentation of "Deborah," advertised here as "the play which made Toronto famous," as His Majesty's theatre.

"I fail to see," he continued, "any moral lesson it can teach. I would welcome any problem play which discussed the question ina healthy manner. But the only excuse for the presentation of 'Deborah' to my mind is its ability to draw money at the box office. At that I think the crowd should get their money back. In my opinion it has been led to expect more than they received. 'Deborah' I regard as dreary drivel."

Mr. Roberts visited the opening performance of "Deborah," attended by a stenographer to see if action should be taken to prevent the production here of the play which has cussed the question in a healthy manner.

Despite his condemnation of the play heer with all the phrasss objected for the present that he will take any action. "However, I will consult legal opinion," he said.

Mr. Roberts further claimed that the version of "Deborah" which is being shown in Montreal is a triumph for the moral reformer of this city and the committee of forty of Toronto, "for in spite of all their boastings, the company has not produced the play here will al lthe phrases objected to in that city."

SHOCKING TALE OF TORONTO'S MORALS

Minister Gives Some Right Arm Jolts At Methodist Conference—Separate Schools

Toronto, June 25.—"Brethren, brethren, the separate school system is a governmental—."

That was as far as one of the delegates at the Toronto conference got when he rose to object to a resolution moved by Rev. Mr. Dean of the Fred Victor mission to the effect that "this conference is unalterably opposed to Separate schools as being a menace to free institutions and a danger to Protestantism."

"We can advise the government, brother," cried the chairman, rising, "let Mr. Dean go on."

"Hear, hear," exclaimed others in chorus, and the resolution was read, moved, seconded and carried.

Mr. Dean, mowever, was full of resolutions, and he did not confine his condemnations solely to Roman Catholics. He smote even the Methodists themselves.

Poison in Theatres

First he told the conference that he knew more about Toronto theatres than even Rev. John Coburn, secretary of the committee of forty.

"I have been to shows," he said, "which Mr. Coburn has seen, and to some shows Mr. Coburn has not seen. And I would advise more Methodists to go to the theatres and see for themselves the poison to morality which is being given to our people, young and old, then we would soon have clean theatres."

Then Mr. Dean moved a resolution against the resolution passed the other afternoon by the conference fixing a certain age as "the age of consent" in social vice.

"That resolution is contradictory,' he exclaimed. "Yesterday we condemned social vice as criminal and immoral and then we worded our resolution against it by determining what age should be regarded as the age of consent. Nay, brethren, consent at any age cannot condone the sin and the conference cannot go on record as the author of such a resolution." Accordingly, Mr. Dean read a new one unmistakable in its condemnation of social vice. It was moved, seconded and passed.

Mr. Dean was not yet done. He turned to trail in the dust the proud name, "Toronto the Good."

"Extravagant statements are made about the causes of the disappearance of girls and young women and about the white slave traffic. But it would be hard to make them about the prevalence of social vice in our city. Let me tell you something about Toronto the good.

Unfortunate Victims

"During the last three years we have cared for 700 girls and their babies at the Fred Victor mission. These were the unfortunate victims of designing men. Now, the mission is but one of four or five institutions doing reserve work in this city. Add to this number of victims I have stated those who have been cared for by these other institutions. How astounding the number must be—in this city which calls itself 'Toronto the Good.'" A resolution was passed commending the society and rescue work of the Fred Victor mission.

The thought of the work which is being done by the mission amongst the Italians stirred Mr. Dean to tell the conference something really interesting about the work and to hand the Roman Catholics of the city some rather inelegant verbal bouquets.

"I have Catholic friends," he began "whom I respect as much as I do good Methodists.

"I do not wish to insult them, but I am sorry to say that I have no respect for Catholic cergymen who will go to women and tell them that if they do not send their children to the Separate school their little ones will go to hell.

"But that is what the Catholic clergymen are telling our Italians, and we have 10,000 of them in the city. We have something better for these Italians than these Catholic tricks, papal infallibility, purgatorial fires and ne temere decrees.

"Three years after we began our work amongst the Italians," continued Mr. Dean, burning with indignation, "the Catholics saw what was happening, and we were thus the means of inciting them to look after their own people."

GIVE THEIR LIVES TO ENGAGE IN LEPER WORK

Montreal, June 25.—Sister St. Francis of Assisi (Miss Clara Hebert of Montreal) Sister Marie Bernadete (Miss Alma Leger, of Alexandria), Sister Raphael (Miss Melvina Riron, of Montreal). These are the names of three nuns chosen to go to the leper colony on the island of Sheeklung, nine miles from Canton, China.

It was a dramatic moment at the little convent of the Immaculate Conception on St. Catherine road when fifteen volunteers assembled in the community room to hear his grace, Archbishop Bruchesi, announce the choice of the Rev. Mother. The ceremony was simple but very impressive.

The island of Sheeklung was made famous through the administrations of Rev. Father Connardy, more frequently called the second "Father Damien. The three sisters will be allowed to visit their parents homes, and will leave Montreal for ever early in July.

Several nuns from Ontario were among the volunteers for this service.

HUSBAND RETURNS AFTER MANY YEARS

Finds Wife Who Had Mourned Him as Dead for Thirty-five Years.

Montreal, June 25.—To have been mourned as killed in the far east, and then returning after an absence of 35 years, was the surprise given to Mrs. Welland, when her long absent husband appeared on the doorstep just recently. Mrs. Welland was dumbstruck for a minute. She hardly knew whether it was realy Welland or his double, but after explanation everything was satisfactorily settled, the fatted calf was killed, and a party got together in no time, and rejoicings were kept up until an early hour in the morning.

Mrs. Welland is a very jovial lady; she has been grieving the loss of her husband throughout the whole period of his absence. She could have married again many times, as she had several good offers, but no, she still thought somewhow he might turn up. She described her feelings when her husband turned up, between fits of laughter and tears.

"I was washing up the dishes," she said, "when my husband appeared. He looked so aged and broken down that I could hardly recognize him, but I never gave up hope, and now I am glad he has come back. My mind is at rest. I have worried a great deal about him, but thank God it's all over now."

The story of how Welland came to be absent so long is one more often met with in novels than in real life. Welland was, some 35 years ago, a sergeant in the Egyptian army. He later enlisted under the banner of Osman Pasha, and fought against Russia during the sixteen month's siege of Pelvna when the fortress fell.

Many thousands of the defenders were slain, and a large number were taken prisoners of war. Welland was among these latter, but in the hands of the Russians only a few months, when he was released and returned to Cairo. He found his wife had gone. He set out to find her, but not one of his friends knew where she had gone. All that they could tell was that she had gone to England, and that she was going to another country from there.

Since that time Welland has traveled practically all over the world in search of his wife. He left Liverpool for New York a month ago, but only remained there a fortnight and came on to Montreal and resumed his inquiries at every point in the city. His search brought him to St. Dominque street and, at last, when he had practically given up hope, a casual inquiry brought him face to face with Mrs. Welland. Today there is no happier couple in Montreal than Mr. and Mrs. Welland.

RUN OF HARD LUCK ENDS WHEN HE IS MURDERED

Woodstock, June 25.—Fred Beemer, a farmer of Blenheim township, died from strychnine poisoning on March 25. Within a comparatively short period he had lost his barn and house by fire, he had been forced to place two chattel mortgages on his stock and he had engaged in 32 lawsuits being defendant in practically all of them. Starting out with 200 acres of land this had gradually become mortgaged to such an extent that it was necessary to fall back on chatel mortages to raise money for a house to live in and the mortgagors had given notice of foreclosure. In addition to all this there were several small children to feed.

Yet Beemer's death was not due to suicide, according to the authorities, but to murder, and Grace Beemer, his widow, who was fifteen years his junior, and also his niece, the daughter of a brother, has been arraigned before Police Magistrate Bull on a charge of murder. The children of the couple, who were left destitute, are being looked after in the Shelter.

PREMIER McBRIDE GOING TO ENGLAND

Sails Towards End of August—Does Not Think Horne Payne Has Been Correctly Reported.

Vancouver, June 25.—During his visit here late today Premier McBride announced his intention of going to England toward the end of August in connection with a variety of official matters. Whether or not the premier's trip across the Atlantic is in any way connected with utterances detrimental to the province, attributed to Horne Payne, was not explained, but from his remarks it would seem that he doubted if Mr. Payne ever said what the cable dispatches state.

"I am quite satisfied," he asserted, "that Mr. Payne would not say anything calculated to hurt British Columbia.

"With one exception," continued the premier, "none of the municipalities in this province during the past 25 or 30 years have failed to meet their financial obligations. That exception was when a district in the Delta was swept into the Fraser during an exceptionally heavy flood, when the high water wiped it out. The records have indisputably proved that the municipal districts of British Columbia offer security of the highest standard. Owing to the strained financial situation—not a local situation, but a world-wide one—the banks are not lending money so freely as they formerly did, but that does not mean that conditions have changed. There is no need to be discouraged."

Rogers Talks Strong.

Winnipeg, June 25.—Hon. Robert Rogers has wired the Saskatoon board of trade as follows: "Your message to Ottawa has been repeated to me here, regarding statements made by Horne Payne, and let me say that I entirely agree with the protest which you have registered. What surprises me is that a man like Horne Payne, who claims to have some standing as a financier, should be so utterly and absolutely ignorant of conditions in Western Canada. Western municipal bonds are deservedly popular in money markets wherever they are known and it will take a great deal more than the statement of a man like Horne Payne to affect their good standing. Moreover, this does not excuse him for attempting to misrepresent the business and credit of others when he might better be attending to his own."

OVER MANY WEARY MILES OF TRAIL

4th or early in the morning of May 5. Witness picked out his saddle and identified it as his own from the exhibits in court. He also identified a pair of field glasses as the pair which had been stolen from him, by focus marks on it.

Cross-examined he notified the police of his loss. The saddle was not his now. He got it back from Chief Constable Fernie in July. An Indian wanted to trade for it.

Mr. Macneil—Why did the Indian want this particular saddle? Do you know why?

Mr. Henderson objected.

Mr. Macneil—All right.

Sold Spintlum Cartridges.

James Robertson, a storekeeper at Clinton, gave evidence as to selling Paul Spintlum, the accused, ammunition in August, 1911. He fixed the date because because it was the day on which Moses Paul escaped from jail. He sold him two boxes of .32 special. There was very little of that class of ammunition sold in that part of the country.

Cross-examined, the proportion of .32 special would be about 1 in 12 to other kinds.

Major Churchill, Cance Creek, was the name of the first Indian witness called. His testimony was interpreted by Alexander Maclean. On December 13 last he went out for Moses Paul and Paul Spintlum and found them 14 miles from Spences Bridge. He saw them again on December 24 when he noticed a pair of field glasses in a case strung round Moses Paul's neck. The second visit was to a place about two miles from a spur line of the C. P. R. on a mountain. He got the glasses and hid them. A policeman came and took them away.

He made a third trip with Constable Forsyth and some other Indians. The men had guns, one each.

Cross-examined, he was told the two men were at the place he met them. It was a friend of Paul Spintlum who told him. He asked the men to come in and give themselves up. He did not see them with guns on the first visit. There was a fourth man with them. He thought he was Spintlum's father.

He identified two rifles as those he had seen with the men. On the second occasion there were present, besides himself and Moses Paul and Spintlum, Chief Louis, of Kamloops, and High Bar Joe. Chief Louis advised them to surrender. They came in three days after Christmas and delivered themselves to the police. They gave themselves up willingly. Paul Spintlum had a cartridge belt with four cartridges in it. The rifles were a .44 Winchester and the other was a .44, but he did not know its name.

The court then adjourned for luncheon.

William Lewis Fernie, chief constable of Kamloops, was the first witness after recess. He stated he had been 11 years in the provincial police.

Shown a handbill offering a reward for the arrest of the two outlaws he said a number of them were sent to him for distribution and publication.

Further evidence on this matter was objected to by Mr. Henderson and the objection sustained.

Witness related how on May 4 he organized a number of Kamloops Indian trackers and arrived at Clinton about 11 o'clock that day. They were conducted by the witness Boyd to the scene of the shooting. After examining the log the trackers took up the trail from the log. One of them picked up two cartridge shells, one a .32 special and another .30.30. Both could be used in a .32 special rifle. A boot print was also seen beside the log. They also discovered a black stallion with a rope round its neck.

Witness then narrated, minutely, the tracking process which lasted 20 days.

On the Trail.

They followed the boot track, which was apparently of a man running in a southwesterly direction from the log, through the timber and over some gulleys for about half a mile.

Maps were then produced showing the route of the trackers and the camping places marked.

When the party came to James' ranch, where Neas had his saddle stolen, it was May 6. The tracks led them to the stable. Near Camp Seven they met Francis Johnny, an Indian, and had a conversation with him. He showed them some horse tracks, with "never slip" shoes. It would be about May 9 they met Frank Johnny. They followed the tracks, which were sometimes mixed with wild horse tracks and one time lost them in sheep tracks. Sometimes they got tracks of two horses one shod and got tracks of two horses, one shod and one barefoot. He ordered the black stallion they had captured to be branded on the left shoulder with a "P. S." At Pine lake they found a piece of fir brush which had been used as a currie brush, with buckskin hairs on it.

The buckskin hairs were produced and identified.

Mr. Fernie, proceeding, stated the country traversed was wild and uninhabited.

In a camp on a lake in the country they found a pair of shoes marked as if a hammer had been used on them. At the time the shoes were found they had not seen a house all day not for five or six days. At the camp they found the carcase of a deer and the quarters of another which had been killed. The skins were there. Also two cartridges, one .32 special and a .44. It was a large lake and the tracks ran along side of it and on to a peninsula which jutted into it. There was a brush fence there and horse tracks, and some indications of a permanent camp. There were lots of wild horse tracks there. Another camp was also found which bore evidences of having been recently used. It contained a large cache of provisions, a horse shoeing outfit. The provisions were bacon, flour, coffee beans, lard, etc. There was a sack with the letters J. S. B. on it.

Subsequently, while tracking, they met an Indian, William Decker, who brought them a buckskin bag. They captured a stray horse standing by itself in the timber. It was a bay horse shod with a "never slip" shoe and its tracks corresponded with the one they had been following up.

435 Miles.

Altogether, in 20 days, they had travelled 436 miles from May 4, but without success. They abandoned the expedition on May 24, 1912. Since then they had followed up a great many rumors and travelled other great tracts of country.

There were 10 Kamloops Indians and two Clinton Indians in their party from May 4 to 24.

Examined by Justice Morrison witness said the Indians in the district he had traversed worked for farmers during the summer months, haymaking. Later they trapped. They were a fairly intelligent class and were good horsemen. They dress like the white inhabitants, patronize the country stores and their style of living was similar to the ordinary white settlers.

Joseph Moses, or High Bar Joe, identified the glasses as those which Moses Paul had round his neck. He confirmed Major Churchill's account of the meetings with Moses Paul and Paul Spintlum. He knew both well.

Frank Johnny, an Indian from Canoe Creek, said he met Moses Paul and Paul Spintlum riding astride one horse near Canoe creek. He asked them where they were going and they answered they were travelling through the country and did not know. They had rifles on their backs. They were on a bay horse. He saw the horse afterwards, at Kamloops. He showed Mr. Fernie where he had met them.

Tale of the Chase.

Phillip, an old Indian tracker wearing a constable's badge on his breast, gave an interesting tale of the tracking of the fugitives, describing the movements of the men, their stopping places and how they employed their time in a way that would redound to the credit of the mythical Sherlock Holmes. He pursued them, deductively, from the time they left on one horse until they captured another and mounted separate horses. He told how they had mended a pair of shoes on a big rock and where they had curried the buckskin horse.

Shown the exhibit pair of shoes, Phillip said "These are the shoes which made the marks behind the log from which the shooting took place. We made little sticks and measured the tracks and then measured the shoes.

"How do you know?" queried Mr. Henderson.

"By the way they are worn down in the heels, the boot tracks correspond to these marks and it was these that made the marks behind the log," replied the witness.

Mr. Henderson—Were they not wet when you found them.

Witness—No, they were dry.

Mr. Henderson—On the ground where you found them did you see any marks of these boots?

Witness—There were tracks, but not made by these boots. They threw them away there.

Mr. Henderson—Did you see any tracks made by these boots after you left James' place?

Witness—There were horse tracks. They were mounted then. Only when they came off their horses could we find shoe marks.

Mr. Henderson—Did you see moccasin tracks between the place you left Frank Johnny and the place you found these shoes?

Witness—Yes, we found moccasin tracks on the trail.

Mr. Henderson—After James' place did you see tracks made by these shoes?

Witness—No, the men were on horseback.

Mr. Henderson—When you were at the log you say you found the shoe marks and followed them. Where did these tracks go?

Close Work.

Witness—We found the tracks of a running man. There was a mark showing he had crawled a little, about 18 feet, before he started to run. He crawled on his knees. He ran about 600 yards. After 600 yards he stopped for a while and then walked.

Examined by Mr. Macneil, witness told how they had come to a hollow and found a saddle and cartridge belt with cartridges. When they found the deer skin and the quarters, he said, the men must have seen them at the lake and made their escape. They knew the country and the tracking party did not and so they got away from them. If they had not known the country, said witness, "we would have run them down." The bay horse they found, continued Phillip, was in poor condition from being over-ridden. They also found three .30-30 and .32 special cartridge tracks.

A discussion took place before the adjournment of the court as to abbreviating the examination of witnesses.

Mr. Macneil, for the crown, said he desired to avoid repetition as much as possible, and suggested submitting them for cross-examination at once. The witnesses he would call would speak to practically the same facts.

The suggestion to hold an evening sitting by the court brought a torrent of sympathy for the court stenographer.

Bench and bar chortled it was all very well for them and the jury, but the poor stenographer might be incapacitated. They really must consider other people than themselves.

The court accordingly adjourned until 10 a.m. today.

HERRINGTON GETS OFFICIAL AXE TOO

Talks Back to President on California Matters and Loses His Job—Warrants Issued.

San Francisco, June 25.—Clayton Herrington, federal investigator of white slave cases for the United States department of justice, who gathered the evidence in the Diggs-Caminetti cases and who called upon President Wilson to oust Attorney McReynolds from office for his action in the McNab matter, was suspended from office today upon orders from Washington.

Picks His Men.

Washington, June 25.—President Wilson recommended today to Attorney General McReynolds the names of Francis J. Heney, Matt. J. Sullivan, Thomas Hayden and others for appointment as special prosecutors in the Caminetti-Diggs white slave cases. No final selections were made.

The whole subject was deferred on account of the congested engagement list of the president.

No further comment was forthcoming from the White House or the department of justice on the statements of former U. S. District Attorney J. L. McNab, whose resignation was accepted yesterday by the president.

Warrants Issued.

Sacramento, June 25.—Bench warrants were issued in the superior court of this county today for the arrest of Mawry Diggs and Drew Caminetti on indictments just found against them by grand jury under the state law for the abandonment of their children when they eloped to Reno with two young women of this city. Up to a late hour tonight the sheriff and his deputies had been unable to locate Caminetti. The other defendant, Diggs, is understood to be with his parents in Berkeley.

Caminetti was seen in the lobby of an hotel in this city this morning just before the issuance of the warrants. Then he disappeared. It is not believed, however, that he is a fugitive. It is thought that he desires to arrange bail before he submits to arrest.

The Dead Watch Ticked.

A strong box containing family records and heirlooms was opened a few days ago to examine an old manuscript. The box had not been disturbed for several years, and the women who had taken it into a private room were surprised when they removed an old fashioned open face watch from its resting place to hear it tick loudly. This to them was evidence that the box had been tampered with. But everything was found intact and in keeping with the memorandum of contents, and they were much perplexed because of the ticking watch, which ceased its activity before the box was returned to its place. A watchmaker who was consulted said that such "momentary life in "dead" timepieces when disturbed was not unusual.—New York Tribune.

Where He Shone.

The prisoner was charged with larceny, and a lawyer of dubious reputation was defending him.

"I submit, gentlemen of the jury," shouted the lawyer, "that the facts disclosed do not constitute larceny, although I will concede that the district attorney is usually a better judge of stealing than am I!"

"But a less successful practitioner," was the disconcerting reply.—Judge.

Clear Proof.

"You may talk as you please about the intelligence of animals, but dogs cannot reason."

"Of course they can't. If they could reason like human beings dogs wouldn't stick so to a man when he's down."—Baltimore American.

Shoeing Horses.

The art of shoeing horses to protect their hoofs against the evils of hard usage was unknown to the Greeks and Romans and is first mentioned in the history of the Celts as late as the fifth century.

There is not any virtue the exercise of which even momentarily will not impress a new fairness upon the features.—Ruskin.

The gathering will be held under the auspices of the Pioneer Equality league. Prominent suffragette speakers from Vancouver and Seattle will deliver addresses. Alderman Langan will preside.

New They Want It.

It is probable that the application of a Vancouver firm to place mileage signs on streets and roads of Burnaby, which was turned down at the last meeting of the council, will again come up for discussion next Monday evening. Now that New Westminster has accepted the offer, it is thought that Burnaby will do likewise and thus have signs on the streets denoting the distances between different points.

Another Game.

As a result of the interest aroused by their splendid showing in the game last Sunday, the Port Coquitlam ball club have been again invited to play the Blaine nine at Blaine this coming Sunday afternoon. The invitation has been accepted. The Coquitlams are known on the other side as the B. C. Houseclaners. An effort is being made by Manager Coines to arrange a game against Nanaimo at the Coal City at some early date.

New It's a Theatre.

Interests the names of the principals of which have not been announced, have secured a site on which they shortly will erect a first class dramatic and vaudeville show house in Port Coquitlam. The building which they will put up and the price of the site are said to represent a proposed outlay of $50,000. Well known capitalists of Calgary, Edmonton and Vancouver, who are interested in show houses in other cities on the coast are understood to be behind the project.

Telephone Building.

The B. C. Telephone company will shortly erect a building for its own district headquarters on the Schoolhouse road, opposite the Central school, Port Coquitlam. Mr. F. J. MacGougan, commercial manager of the company, who was in the port city the other day announced that a site had been purchased. The building will be erected an an early date and fitted in a complete and efficient manner for the purpose for which it is required. The company has now 104 subscribers in Port Coquitlam, an increase of 26 since the all night telephone service was started.

Making Certain of It.

Portland, June 25—The supersedeas bond of the Southern Pacific railway in the case of the government against the Oregon & California railway company for the forfeiture of land grants involving 2,300,000 acres was fixed this morning at $100,000 by United States district Judge Charles S. ANOTHER TRIO OF RECORDS GO

Y. M. C. A. Track Events Last Night See Three More New Standards Hung Up.

Three local Y. M. C. A. track records were smashed at the second meeting of the annual track meet at Queens park last evening. Storme, who is leading the bunch for allround champion, hopped over the bars for a mark just one inch higher than that made by Jack Horne last year. Gordon showed a clean pair of heels to the track men in the 220 yards and 440 yards, beating L. Sangster's time in the formere, while he clipped off 4-5ths of a second in the 440 mark made by Jack Hoult last year.

Here are the events run off last evening:

220 yard dash—1, O. Gordon; 2, C. T. Storme. Time, 23 3-5 seconds.

Hop, step and jump—1, C. T. Storme; 2, C. E. Wattam; 3, E. Hawkins. 25 feet 8 inches.

High jump—1, C. T. Storme; 2, C. E. Wattam; 3, E. Hawkins. 5 feet.

440 yards—1, O. Gordon; 2, C. E. Wattam; 3, C. T. Storme. Time, 55 2-5 seconds.

Storme, with 569 points, is leading for the allround championship, closely followed by Wattam with 559.

INTER-CITY INTERMEDIATES.

Lacrosse Match Slated for Sapperton This Evening.

The first invasion of Vancouver intermediate lacrosse teams will start this evening at Sapperton park when the Olympics hitch up with Sapperton. This fixture was arranged yesterday on account of East Burnaby calling off their regular intermediate game, through being shy of several of their best players.

The Olympics have made a name for themselves in the Terminal City league, and are nearly in a class with the senior amateurs. The regular Sapperton line-up will be out in full force and whenever a contest is staged in the east end park the boys can rest assured of a decent crowd.

Tonight's game will start at 6:30.

SPORT CHATTER.

(By the Potter.)

Its got to be a case of stage fright if the Salmon Bellies lose out at Victoria on Saturday. Some of the movements carried out last evening at the park had the railbirds gasping for breath.

It looked like old times to see Dad Turnbull come running out of the club house all decked out in his glad lacrosse rags and armed with a stick; and it did not take him long to show the youngsters just a few wrinkles in the national pastime.

When Penticton flashes along a C.Q.D. call to New Westminster for lacrosse players it smells as if there is a little wager on the game.

If the afternoon paper cannot produce a better ball team that that which exhibited at Queen's Park last night, the manager of The News outfit threatens to call off the game for Wednesday next. That the public appreciated the burlesque last evening was indicated by the collection taken up in aid of the orphanage.

The Nifty Nine slaughtered the Cubs on the Moody Park diamond to the tune of 12-1.

Boss Johnson was out with the Vancouvers yesterday afternoon and made a favorable impression with the railbirds. Boss will likely look pretty small after he has had a session at the hands of the Westminster home Saturday afternoon.

Victoria hockey crowds were about the most rabid of any on the circuit last winter. Wonder what kind of a noise they will make Saturday afternoon.

The Coquitlam nine will play the Moose at Queen's Park on Monday evening, July 7. The affair was arranged yesterday morning

About the only satisfaction the suffragettes get when they try to break horse racing is their chance of becoming "dead game sports."

Those 14-inning 2-1 ball games look like piker contests against a polo championship struggle with the score ending 4 1-2 to 4 1-4.

The most common sense dress for a hot day at Minoru racetrack is a plug hat, eight-button waistcoat and fleece line underwear. Carry a cane with a crook in it to keep the sun off.

If your horse gets a bad break at the barrier, look at the leaders through the big end of the glass, then turn 'em around the right way on your own nag. The reverse English will give you action at any rate.

Ban Johnson is about to sound the death knell of the hidden ball stunt. It never was popular with the fans and has created more ill-feeling among the players than anything else pulled off.

Only four lacrosse and two baseball teams were using the Queen's Park oval last evening. The Salmon Bellies had first say at the west end, followed by the senior amateurs, while two of the school league teams were holding fort in any corner they could find. The people who graced the benches were of two minds just which game to follow, the lacrosse teams practicing or watching a punk ball game. One thing, they could laugh at the ball stunts.

The fans are liable to get suspicious of Ban Johnson. Yesterday he suspended Joe Jackson, of the Cleveland Naps, indefinitely. This will give one Tyrus Cobb a great chance to start things going in the batting line.

The New York Americans were not dazed by the sight of the world's championship pennant, which was raised at Fenway park, Boston, yesterday afternoon for the first time, the visitors defeating the owners of that flag, 5 to 2. Errors, eratic pitching by Wood and some daring base running did the trick.

The latest report of the Customs-Columbian baseball game last evening gave the score 14 to 4 in favor of the Customs. Manager Maiden later denied this, but the above score stands, the official scorer having left the grounds at the end of the fourth.

Billiard Tournament.

The supremacy of the local billiard world will be at stake this evening when East Burnaby blows into town with a string of five, thought to be well capable of taking into camp a quintette representing this city. The affair will take place in the Royal pool rooms, commencing at 8 o'clock. Here are the teams: East Burnaby, Coldicutt, Douglas, Mansfield, Cady, Andrews; Royals, Cooper, Grant, Huff, Benidett, McAllister.

OFF TO PENTICTON.

Senior Amateur Boys Play Up-Country —Turnbull on Field.

Although they might spread the name of New Wetsminster more than ever in B. C.'s interior, the departure of several of the senior amateurs for Penticton, where they play on Dominion day, brings about the fact that the team will lose several days' training on their own field, training which might count in the approaching game against the V. A. C. on July 5.

The players who left for the east yesterday were Sait, Cotton, Stoddart, Swanson, Sinclair and J. Gifford.

Last evening Dad Turnbull donned a lacrosse suit for the first time in several years and had the remainder of the team going through their paces for over an hour. He will keep them on the move from now on until Saturday week when the Man cupholders will have to go their best in order to emerge with a victory over the Royals.

BALL IN BUNCHES.

Heavy Slate for the Next Five Days Moose and Electrics Again.

New Westminster will be treated to baseball in plenty for the next five days, no less than four games being scheduled in the city, three of which will be of the inter-city type.

Tomorrow evening the Moose and the Electrics lock horns in a city league fixture. So far this season the Moose have yet to take the count, but Manager Howe of the Electrics has unearthed several new players who are expected to keep his bunch more in the running for the pennant.

Saturday afternoon the Fraser Mills nine will make their first appearance at Queen's Park in an inter-city fixture. Westminster will field its very strongest team of the season against the Circle F bunch, Billy Weingartner having come into the fold. Corbett and Fisher will be the new battery.

On Tuesday morning, Dominion day, the Red Sox from Point Grey will attempt to lower the colors of the Moose aggregation. Manager Downes, of the Sox is not satisfied with the trimming his outfit received last Monday evening and is coming over with a hand picked crew from Greater Vancouver.

In the afternoon of Dominion day the Westminsters tackle the Hastings A. C., probably the strongest team in the league.

PUGILISTIC ANNALS.

1905—Jack Johnson fought a 6-round, no-decision bout with Jack Munroe in Phiaildelphia. The black had the better of the argument. Munroe had for a time laid claim to the heavyweight championship by reason of his alleged defeat of Jim Jeffries in a 4-round bout staged in Butte, Mont., in 1902. He got so chesty about it that Jeff gave him a chance to make good in San Francisco a couple of years later. Munroe was knocked out in the second round. He was never more than a good second-rater, but for a time was taken seriously by the fraternity.

1908—Jimmy Walsh defeated Jimmy Carroll in 11 rounds at San Francisco.

1909—Sam McVey defeated Jim Barry, foul, in 15 rounds at Paris.

Pigeon Marathon.

A "pigeon Marathon" that will afford an unprecedented test of the homing instinct and endurance of the birds will be held soon in Europe, beginning day after tomorrow, under the auspices of the Briton Flying club and the Belgian Pigeon Fanciers' association. The present record for homing pigeons is 1,672 miles, but the contestants in the coming race will have to do better than that. The feathered Marathoners will be released in Rome early Saturday morning. The birds entered by English and Scottish fanciers will have to fly from 1,000 to 1,200 miles, and, if successful, they will establish a record. On the basis of previous performances it is expected that the winner will reach the north of England or Scotland within three days, flying about 400 miles a day.

The English and Scottish racing pigeons, it is expected, will make the first leg of the journey along the coast of the Mediterranean. The barrier of the Alps is likely to prove fatal to many of the wing-weary birds. Those that fly over or work around the mountains will encounter good "flying country" over France and across the channel to England.

Only the strongest and swiftest birds which have already demonstrated great speed and endurance in long and difficult flights have been entered in the Marathon. The entrants range from four to seven years old, as at that age racing pigeons are in their prime.

Pigeon racing is one of the most ancient of pastimes, and the birds were often employed as carriers by the ancients. It is recorded that Brutus and Hirtius corresponded by means of pigeons at the siege of Modena. As recently as 1871 a pigeon post was conducted between London and Tours during the siege of Paris, and forty-eight day mails and 1,186 night mails were dispatched by this method. Pigeon racing began to be popular in England and America about forty years ago, and in a race from London to Spalding, in 1872, the winning bird traveled at a rate of a mile in ninety seconds.

The long distance record for homing pigeons was made in 1899 by Adolph B. The flight was from Little Rock, Ark., to New York, 1072 miles, but the bird occupied over eleven days on the trip.

Business of Lobbying.

Washington, July 25.—Judge Robert S. Lovett, chairman of the board of directors of the Union Pacific railway, told the senate lobby committee that Edward Lauterbach, a lawyer of New York, had approached his company with the statement that he could render service at Washington in removing opposition to the Union Pacific-Southern Pacific dissolution. Judge Lovett said a man who represented himself as Congressman Riordan, had called him on the telephone and had urged him to employ Lauterbach.

A Long Flight.

Mr. Robinson, who lives in Westmount, Que., got a carrier pigeon from England to add to his collection of birds. He was training it to know Westmount as its headquarters when one day it got away. When it was next heard of it was at its old home in England. That is a long distance to travel, more than 2,000 miles between the end of Newfoundland and the western coast of Ireland. — Chicago News.

The Lily Bells of Easter.

O lily bells of Easter,
Once more your music swells
Through all the wakening woodland,
Through all the quiet dells.
No winter snows can hold you
Or mar your minstrelsy,
No silent snows enfold you.
The spring has set you free.

O sacred snowy beauty,
Our hearts wait sore and chill
To hear anew the story
Of good sprung out of ill!
O wondrous resurrection
Of flower from out the clod,
A censer, chime and chalice
To bear the peace of God!

FREE SUGAR AND FREE WOOL SURE

Democratic Caucus Decides Important Issues—Executive Persistency Has Its Way.

Washington, June 25.—Free sugar in 1916 and free raw wool now are established in the tariff revision bill, having been approved late today by the Democratic caucus at the senate after a two days' fight. The sugar schedule, as reported by the majority members of the finance committee and practically as it passed the house, was approved by a vote of 40 to 6. Free raw wool as submitted by the majority and as it passed the house, swept the senate caucus by a vote of 41 to 6.

This ratification of President Wilson's tariff policy, he having insisted upon the wool and sugar propositions before the ways and means committee in the beginning, came after a long series of developments since the tariff bill passd the house in which the president has been an active participant. When the fight of the anti-free sugar and anti-free wool Democrats was getting hot, the president issued a public statement declaring that any suggestion of compromise on wool and sugar scheduled ideas absolutely was out of the question and later he stirred all administration leaders to action when he made his charge about the existence in Washington of an "insiduous lobby" investigation of which has brought results, regarded as favorable to the tariff bill.

Death for Him.

Sacramento, Cal., June 25.—After deliberating more than 24 hours, the jury in the case of Samuel E. Swearington, a life convict at Folsom, charged with assault with a deadly weapon upon a fellow convict, returned a verdict of guilty. It has been regarded as nearly impossible to obtain a conviction under the law which provides the death penalty for a mere assault committed by one convict upon another. It is the first conviction under the law in the state.

Points for Mothers

Problem For Mothers.

The girl who has just left school is generally a person much envied by her fellow schoolgirls, but sympathetic women with good memories often pity her. From the day when she was first taken to the kindergarten till now every day's work has been arranged for her. Some of the best brains in the country have combined to lay out her scheme of work and play. Her disposition has been studied, her habits observed, her amusements organized. She has been allowed enough liberty to develop, but not enough to stagnate. Then suddenly Dame Fashion decrees that she is old enough to put her hair up and let her dresses grow long, and anxious parents declare that "dear Isabel's education is really finished now; it is time the child came home for good."

Of course if a college career opens before the schoolgirl the nature of her life alters very immaterially. It is the same routine with a wider liberty. The sudden emancipation is probably never felt, for unconsciously the restrictions of childhood widen into the liberties of the adult. The girl, again, who is immediately to take her place in society has plenty to occupy her. She will be coming out directly, and all the excitements of the dance to be given in her home await her or the busy festivities of the season.

Very differently circumstanced are those who look forward to the end of their schooldays with eagerness because then they can get to work and help to relieve the financial straits of the family.

But between the two extremes is a vast host of girls who leave school because they are too old to stay, then loiter vaguely through the next few years wondering how to pass the time. The brothers of this class are more fortunate. No father would dream of leaving them unoccupied for a year or two after their nominal education finishes. If the boy shows no marked ability, expresses no especial desire as to what he shall be, that never for a moment excuses him from work.

The heads of the family consult together and settle things for him, and no one blames the boy because at seventeen or eighteen he knows less of what he can make of his life than his father does at fifty. How can the lad know unless nature has endowed him with some specially marked characteristics, which as often as not does not happen? Why, it is but a few years since he asked to be an engine driver or a street car conductor, and probably in his secret heart he still thinks it would be finer to be a professional automobile racer or an aviator than anything else. And no one blames the boy. All the same they settle his future career on very different lines.

But with a girl it all is different. "I am determined to treat my boys and girls alike," says the anxious mother, "so if Isabel wants a training she shall have it. But the dear girl does not seem to know what she wants, and I say I can do with her very well at home at present. She can fill the vases and go calling with me. Then there is the sewing club once a week." And the good woman feels mildly indignant with "dear Isabel" because a discontented pout is unmistakably showing itself on her pretty face.

And Isabel wonders vaguely how to fill the long, long hours and wishes that all her life were arranged for her as school days were. Perhaps she has no particular gifts, does not possess one of those robust natures which revel in difficulties, will not willingly face trouble, yet withal she is a nice, bright girl, with the possibilities of a fine woman in her.

She wants to do something in the world, but she does not know what, and she wishes that some one would find out for her. She thinks what a noble profession nursing is and remembers vaguely that she has heard that some housemaid's work would be hers at first. Would she regret, as she dusted the ward, that she of her own free will undertook it?

Teaching or office work appeals to her; then she asks herself would not the girls at school laugh if they knew that she had, without compulsion, returned to French verbs or mathematics after she had rejoiced so at leaving them forever. One by one she runs through the occupations open to her—not all of them, by a long way, for in her inexperience she has not even heard of many.

She has not enough to do to make her happy and not experience enough to know what she wants to do. Her case is the same as her brother's, but no parents leave the boy in ignorance of his way in life—they find it out for him.

Why should they not do the same for the girl?

Health Don'ts For Mothers.

Don't omit to keep a warm dressing gown and a pair of cozy slippers at hand if you have to get up at night to attend to baby. Neglect of this seemingly trifling precaution may be the cause of very serious chest colds.

Don't allow a healthy baby to acquire the habit of being fed during the night. It is quite unnecessary and will destroy your chance of a good night's rest.

COMBINED TEXTURES.

This Mode Offers Unlimited Opportunities For Remodeling Gowns.

There is one feature of summer frocks that one can depend upon to materialize—that of the use of combination of two or more fabrics of contrasting texture and color for a suit or dress. It is not a new idea, for last spring the foreign designers attempted to introduce it, but somehow it did not catch on at that time.

There are three really new ideas which have been exploited this season in this scheme of combining fabrics.

ONE OF THE ECCENTRIC DRAPINGS OF PARIS.

One calls for a combination of two materials, a plain and a figured, both in the same color; another for the combination of different materials in contrasting colors. Such a laxity in modes offers the woman with a limited income, who is depending upon the skill of her needlewoman, many opportunities for remodeling old costumes.

The dress pictured will give a hint in this direction to the clever seamstress. It is made of white cotton crape and pale yellow zigzag cloth. The drapery lifted at the back, is extremely Parisian.

CARE AND USE OF SOAP.

Buy In Large Quantities, as This Commodity Improves With Age.

As water alone cannot render grease soluble, it is impossible to cleanse most clothes without the aid of an agent which is capable of so doing.

The cleaning and solving properties of soap are entirely due to the alkaline constituents, the fatty acids being employed only to modify the injurious property of alkali.

When buying soap it is desirable to procure that made by a well known reliable manufacturer, as one is less likely to get an inferior article. It is also better to buy it in large quantities, as large quantities are usually sold at a considerable reduction in price, and soap improves in quality and durability by keeping.

Soap may be used as a solid, or it may be dissolved and used as a liquid in whatever form its action is that of a grease solvent and purifying agent. It is used in the solid or hard state for strong material without color, when its strength may be concentrated by rubbing it on the particularly dirty parts, so that they may be more easily and thoroughly cleansed.

Soap powder is principally composed of soda and water, and as washing soda does not cost more than one-fifth the price of soap powder, it would be more economical for the housekeeper to use that substance with the addition of a little soap solution to the water, which would form a lather equally as well, and the work of cleansing would be as effectual as when soap powder is used.

Magic Cleaning Fluid.

For cleaning delicate fabrics this method is said not to fade or injure the finest color: Grate raw potatoes to a pulp, add one pint of water to one pound of the potato pulp, stir and wash between the hands, then drain the water from the pulp through a fine sieve or cloth. Let it stand in the vessel until the fine white starch settles to the bottom, then pour off the clear water, which is what you use for cleaning. The settlings are used for potato starch for stiffening fine materials. For cleaning, sponge with the liquid applying until all soil is removed, rinse in clear water and iron on the wrong side. For white silk, which may be passed through the water as through suds, add a very little borax to the water. Party dresses and white cashmeres clean beautifully by this method.

Odorless Lard.

To take away the odor of pork from lard buy leaf lard and while melting put several apples with the skins on well washed and dried, into the melting pot. It gives the lard a fine flavor and it can be used instead of butter in almost any pastry.

This, From the Mayor

Guelph, Ont., June 25.—"One million dollars has been invested on permanent roads in Guelph," says Mayor Carter, "and all we have for it is holes," he said, when it was remarked to him that the Galt council had nearly a mile of good macadam road at the west end entrance to the city. From the mayor's remarks he is evidently an advocate of macadam roadways, and has little faith in the experiments made with other material, in road construction in the city.

WATER, WATER EVERYWHERE BUT NOT A DROP TO DRINK

Niagara-on-the-lake, June 25.—The second camp is now in full swing and hard work has commenced. All the corps under canvas are well recruited as compared with the rural units comprising the first camp and the present appearance of a fine body of men. Over one-half of those in camp have turned out with their regiments in previous years. This is especially noticeable in the case of the 12th York Rangers and the 23rd Northern Pioneers from Parry Sound district.

Some of the regiments started the shooting for their efficiency pay, while the others spent the day in company and battalion drill on the commons. The corps of Guides, who are in camp for the first time under Lt.-Col. Van Nostrand, are already at work, reconnoitring over the area where the field manoeuvres will be held next week. They will prepare maps of the entire district, and will take instruction in scouting and skirmishing.

Major Richardson and his men of No. 10 Field Ambulance have taken possession of the hospital, but duties are light as yet. There are a few minor cases left over from last camp and two or three men who were overcome by the intense heat yesterday afternoon.

Orders against the regimental canteens will be as rigidly enforced as they were during the last camp. The officers commanding all regiments have been notified that they will be held responsible for any liquor found in the canteens of their corps, and that an officer must inspect the canteens at least twice a day. An inspector from divisional headquarters will make a round of all messes in camp daily.

A provisional school at which unqualified officers may take their examinations is being established at headquarters. This course is taken advantage of by a great many officers who cannot afford the time to attend the instruction at the barracks in Toronto. Last camp the school was discontinued, but so many have made application that it has been renewed again. Whereas formerly it was compulsory for all unqualified officers to take this course, now it is optional.

Camp orders call the attention of commanding officers to the active service challenge cup competition and it is hoped that all regiments will enter.

Signs of the Times at Rossland

Rossland, June 25.—To keep up with the demand, the West Kootenay Power company is arranging for the installation of an additional unit of 8000 horse power at Upper Bonnington. The company now has 24,000 horse power in operation, distributed between Upper and Lower Bonnington and Cascade, and the plant at the upper falls is to have another 8000.

The company increased its load by 25 per cent. last year, and it is hoped to raise this increase to 30 per cent. this year.

A FISHING PARTY.

Here's a Capital Idea For a Novel Church Entertainment.

Here's a novel idea for a church entertainment which requires little preparation.

A rustic bridge was built out from the stage, inclosing a spare space that was used for a fishpond. Rocks and ferns were grouped along the edge of the stage, the floor was covered with green carpet, and a pretty meadow scene painted on coarse cotton was hung at the back of the stage, making a very picturesque setting for the pond. Steps led up to the bridge, and at the foot was a rustic lodge, where, on payment of a fee, the prospective fisher was given a pole and a circle of cardboard, upon which was marked the number of times he was entitled to fish. Thus equipped, he went up on the bridge and fished in the pond. Tickets were also sold by the bridge keepers.

Refreshments were served, and there were a candy and cake table and two stalls where fancy articles were sold. One of these stalls bore the sign "Fish Market." Here fish of many brilliant colors and quaint shapes were for sale. There were blotters, shaving cases, pincushions and sachet bags.

On the cake table were many toothsome fishes—chocolate and clear candy fishes and boxes of candy decorated with water color and pen and ink sketches; also sandwiches cut out with fish shaped tin cutters; also cookies and small iced cakes.

At intervals singing, recitations and tableaux may be given for variety.

Like Darning.

If you wish to embroider silk stockings try the following plan instead of using an embroidery hoop: Place your darning ball inside the stocking and hold it as though you were going to darn, save that you should be very careful not to stretch the stocking. Simply hold it smooth over the darner where you are to do the embroidery.

Preparing Cocoanut.

When desiring to use fresh cocoanuts for a cake or dessert of any kind, instead of grating it in the old way, use the meat chopper. This may be done more quickly, and the cocoanut is light and fluffy. This is well worth trying especially if you are pressed for time. Fingers are often bruised through using the grater.

During the afternoon a test was made at the store of the Sidney Trading Company and in the evening the premises were brilliantly illuminated with many glowing bulbs. In addition to the above the glowing light was visible at the Popular restaurant and other places of business on Beacon avenue.

THE FUNERAL OF SIR ISAAC BROCK

Interesting Document Describing Arrangements Now in Dominion Archives.

Ottawa, June 25.—Dr. H. G. Doughty, the Dominion archivist, has added to his collection of objects of historical value an exceedingly interesting document. It is the district-general order of October 16, 1812, prescribing the arrangements for the funeral of Sir Isaac Brook, the hero of Upper Canada, who had been killed three days earlier at Queenstown Heights.

The circumstances in which the document came into the possesion of the archivist are curious. The American Bank Note company is erecting a new factory on Wellington street, and in order to clear the site demolished a small stone building which has been there since the early days of Ottawa. The house was last used as a bakery. In the garret, covered with a quantity of wood, was found a large number of boxes filled with papers. These proved to be official, and, while some were documents belonging to the customs department, some thirty or forty of the boxes were filled with military papers, relative apparently to almost all periods of Canadian history. When the military papers were removed to the archives on a preliminary inspection, the order for Sir Isaac Brock's funeral was noticed.

The order is dated from Fort George and in its opening sentence mentions Government House as being situated in what is now Niagara-on-the-Lake. It begins:

"The procession for the funerals of the late Major-General Brock and Lieutenant-Colonel MacDonnell will be arranged in the following order and will leave the government house for the place of interment at ten o'clock this day."

It will be noticed that the general is spoken of Major-General Brock. Brock had been knighted before his death as a reward for his capture of Detroit, but intelligence of this had not reached Canada at the time of his death. Lieut.-Col. MacDonnell was his A. D. C. and was attorney general for Upper Canada. A. G. MacDonnell, M. P., for South Toronto, belongs to the same family.

Funeral Cortege.

The order of the procession was laid down as:

Fort Major Campbell, O. C., men of the 41st Regiment with one subaltern; 60 men from the militia with the captain; two six pounders; corps and detachments of the garrison; servants of the general; Surgeon Moore, Doctor Kerr, Staff Surgeon Thom; chaplain; body of Lieut.-Col. MacDonnell: Alexander MacDonnell, Esq.; Mr. Dickson and Captain Cameron; body of Major-General Brock: chief mourners, Major-General Sheaffe, Lieut.-Col. Myers, Ensign Coffin, A. D. C.; Lieut. Fowler and 1st Regiment; civil staff, friends of the deceased; inhabitans.

The pall bearers of Lieut.-Col. MacDonnell were Captain Cameron, Captain Brooks, Lieut. Robinson, Lieut. Jarvis, Lieut. Rideout, Joseph Edwards, Esq., practically all historic names in Upper Canada.

Sir Isaac Brock's pall bearers were: Col. Claus, Col. Butler, of the militia; Major Merritt, Dragoons; Captain Dennis, 49th Foot; Captain Derenzy, 41st Foot; Captain Vigoreaux, R. E.; Captain Holcroft, Royal Artillery; Capt. Powell, Militia Artillery; Captain Glegg, A. D. C., and Brigade-Major Evans. Captain Dennis had been wounded in the head at Queenstown. Major Merritt was an ancestor of Col. Hamilton Merritt of Toronto.

The concluding paragraphs of the order are:

"The officers will wear crepe on the left arm and on their sword knob, and all the officers throughout the province will wear crepe on the left arm for the space of one month.

"Captain Holcroft will be pleased to direct that minute guns will be fired from the period of the body leaving the Government House until its arrival at the place of interment, and also after the funeral services shall have been performed there rounds of seven guns from the artillery."

It will be remembered that the Americans in Fort Niagara across the river generously fired minute guns during the funeral.

Forest Woods and Insects

Winnipeg, June 25.—In connection with the Canadian Forest Association Canadian convention in Winnipeg, on July 7, 8 and 9, there will be interesting exhibits of forest woods and insects, which will enable the people of the prairies to see at once the quality of the various kinds of timber growing in the province, and the pests which are most destructive to them. Experts have been engaged in research and collection with the object of making the form of these exhibits as interesting as possible to the general public.

Transplant Salmon and Lobsters

Washington, D.C., June 25.—The United States government is making an interesting experiment. It proposes to bring lobsters from the Atlantic and to plant them in the Pacific. It also proposes to make the attempt of transporting the Pacific salmon to the Atlantic. It will be remembered that in this country an attempt has also been made to acclimatise the lobster in Pacific waters, but hitherto no result has been visable.

NOT GUILTY BUT DON'T DO IT AGAIN

In This Manner Judge Dismisses Action to Declare Election Void

Toronto, June 25.—"Not guilty, but don't do it again," said Mr. Justice Riddell in a judgment delivered at Osgoode hall, dismissing the quo warranto proceedings instituted against Sanford Stapleton, reeve-elect of the village of Wolford, who was charged with improperly conducting his campaign at the recent municipal elections. The complainant, W. E. Fitzgerald, wanted the reeve's election declared void on the grounds that he had paid men to act as scrutineers who voted for him, and that he paid an old debt of $3 to a widow, to induce her to vote for him, also that he or his partner were interested in a contract with the corporation.

His lordship remarked that had it not been for the recent changes made in the act by the legislature, he should have, without much hesitation, held that the payment of scrutineers or the engagement of them on an agreement expressed or implied was in itself a corrupt practice. The legislature had taken a different view, and had said in effect that scrutineers might be hired and paid, but they were not to vote. According to the evidence in the case, there was nothing to show that the scutineers were not in good faith engaged and paid merely as scrutineers.

With regard to the payment of the debt to the widow, it was very suspicious but consistenly with the rules laid down in election cases he could not find the charge proven, as there was nothing to show conclusively an improper object. There was nothing in the contract matter. As he could not find the charges proven he dismissed the motion, but in view of the circumstances of suspicion he did so without costs.

MEDICAL COMMISSION.

Ontario Government to Take Steps Along These Lines.

Toronto, June 25.—Sir James Whitney had a surprise in store for the guests at the formal opening of the new general hospital here. At the conclusion of his congratulatory remarks the prime minister digressed from the theme of the occasion long enough to announce that a royal commission would be appointed by the provincial government to inquire into the whole question of medical education in Ontario.

As many were aware, explained Sir James, hardly a session of the legislature passed without applications of a variety of descriptions being received asking that the government protect and place upon a proper footing in the province members of various schools of thought and promoters of different forms of medical education. It was most difficult to deal with all such applications. "The government," he said "has decided to appoint a commission to deal with the whole subject of medical education and the practice of medicine. The object of this will be to secure information on which to base legislation under which every imaginable application such as I have described can be regulated and controlled and governed in the interest of the people."

Under the powers given to the commission mecical treatment will include all means of preventing, healing or curing human disorders. It will be the duty of the commission to investigate and report upon any matter relating to the education or practice of medicine; the constitution, powers and by-laws of the College of Physicians and Surgeons of Ontario and the Ontario Medical Council; the medical factulty of the u niversity of Toronto; osteopathy, and the creation of a school of osteopathy in the province; nursing and the schools for training nurses, the practice in any branch of medicine of Christian Science; opticians and their training in relation to the human eye; dentistry and the training of dentists; the practice of any branch of medicine by the members of any class or sect.

This announcement at first was received with an ominous silence, but, as the prime minister concluded, applause broke forth from several sections of the crowd.

Speaking to the Globe afterwards Sir James said that the outline of the scheme had only been drafted, and no move had been taken by the government to appoint the commission.

Still an Infant at Nineteen

Toronto, June 25.—Infants, especially females, should not be permitted to deal in lands until they are of age, even if it meant that the favorable opportunity of making a fortune might be lost, said Chief Justice Meredith in a judgment delivered at Osgoode hall. It might be a hardship, but to permit any infant to act as if of full age, even with the approval of the courts, would be to accept unnecessary risks and disadvantages. His Lordship made these comments in dismissing an application for the court' permission to allow Miss Dorothy Leslie, aged 19, to acquire the share of her father, Colonel J. Knox Leslie, in her mother's estate. Mrs. Leslie died inestate, leaving an estate valued at approximately $375,000, one third of which went to her husband and two-thirds to her daughter.

Need Hospital for Miners

Nelson, B. C., June 25.—Need of a hospital at Salmo for the benefit of the miners employed in the Sheep Creek camp was urged at a session of the provincial royal commission inquiring into labor matters which was held at the Queen mine at Sheep Creek. Both company officials and the men examined favored the adoption by the government of the suggestion made by Frank Phillips, secretary of Nelson miners' union, at the Nelson session, that the province should send instructions in first aid to the mines of British Columbia, and favor was also shown to the proposal that the government should appoint an independent board to award compensation due to persons injured in the course of their employment.

CHINESE BATTLE IN PORT OF MONTREAL

Orientals Went to Pay Visit to Brothers in Bond—Beaten Back by Two Men.

Monreal, June 26.—The merriest battle ever pulled off in the port of Montreal was fought this week at Windmill Point. Twenty Chinamen were routed in a pitched engagement with two watchmen, one ship's officer and one policeman. The casualities were not numerous—one watchman sustained a badly damaged nose, and another a bruised cheek, but the misiles that flew during the stubborn engagement were up in the hundreds.

The fight has been brewing for a week, and was not unexpected. Ten days ago the Bendu arrived in port from Rangoon with 65,000 bags of rice on board, and fifteen Chinese firemen. The stokers were in bond, and so were detained on board the vessel. Watchmen were placed on ship and shore to make sure that none of the Orientals made their escape while the vessel was here. The Chinese took the rule in bad grace; they longed to visit their countrymen in Lagauchetiere street, and, possibly, try a fan-tan game, or have a few puffs at the pipe. But there was no escape from the Bendu, the close guard kept them prisoners on board.

Tehn the collier Batiscan came into port and moored astern of the rice ship. She had a Chinese crew, too, but they were free men, and able to go ashore at will. That made the position of the Bendu's stokers even more galling.

A little after six o'clock in the evening half a dozen of the Batiscan's Chinamen undertook to pay a friendly call on the bond men on the Bendu. The watchman on shore stopped them at the gangplank. There was a lively argument, but it was unavailing. Suddenly one of them let loose a loud battlecry. It would have done credit to a full-blooded Iroquois. Instantly there was a commotion in the Chinese quarters on the Bendu, and fifteen eager-for-war Chinese firemen rushed out on her decks. Seeing what was up ashore they made a rush for off the ship, terrifying Chinese yells being made all the time.

Their leader, a six-footer, encouraged the bond men like a veteran soldier. Sticks and coal, in fact, anything that was loose on deck, flew through the air at the guard. The shore Chinese fought like Trojans. A stick took the guard a slanting blow on the nose, and drew a spurting stream of blood. An officer on the ship rushed to the upper end of the gangplank and stopped any from tearing down it to the shore.

Scenting the battle from the shed adjoining, another guard ran to participate in the fray. He got a stone on the cheek that nearly put him out of commission. He danced up and down muttering in his wrath and pain. "Oh, if I had a gun! If I had a gun!"

A moment later a big policeman dashed up, his baton drawn to crack the first Chinese head that he saw. Like rats the fighters scurried to cover, and left on the field only two damaged watchmen.

An hour later another attempt was made to board the Benddu, but in the meantime reinforcements had come up, the fight was a tame one.

ORDERED THE GOODS SO MUST PAY FOR THEM

Hamilton, Ont., June 25.—A rather interesting decision was given by Judge Monck recently in the action of Faudel's limited vs. Judalson, when he decided Mr. Judalson was liable for the amount of goods he had agreed to buy from the plaintiffs, whose place of business is in England. The case has been dragging in the courts for the past two years. In October, 1911, Mr. Judalson, who has a store on Barton street east, bought some jewelry from J. Browning, a salesman of Faudel's. The goods arrived in November, 1911, but Mr. Judalson did not claim them. In June, 1912, they were sold by the customs to satisfy the claims for freight and duty. Faudel sued Mr. Judalson, but the action was laid over until the arrival of Browning, whose evidence was necessary. Mr. Judalson claimed the goods had been improperly addressed, and the railway should have notified him of the arrival of the goods. He also claimed the goods were ordered for the Christmas trade of that year.

Judge Monck held the goods were the property of Mr. Judalson the moment they were placed on the tracks at London, and that they had been properly marked. He ordered Mr. Judalson to pay the amount of the company's claim.

Want to Change Agreement

Montreal, June 25.—The city has asked E. A. Robert, president of the Montreal Tramways Company, to consent to a small change in the new agreement concerning the tramway service. This provided for tracks on Workman, Fullum streets, and Atwater avenue, St. Henry Ward. The city is opening Notre Dame street through this part of the city, and is asking the company to agree in laying tracks in the first group of streets only until the widening of Notre Dame street is finished, and double tracks are built on it. Mr. Robert is considering this proposition.

Just a Little Mistake

Toronto, June 25.—Seven partially completed stores which encroach on the street line on Danforth avenue, just east of Pape avenue, because a mistake was made by York County surveyors a quarter of a century ago, will have to be moved, city officials say. The matter will be taken up at the board of works meeting, when reports dealing with it will be received from City Solicitor Johnson and Assessment Commissioner Forman. It is possible the city will have to compensate the builders, Messrs Weismiller & MacKenzie Bros., for the loss entailed in moving and for the delay in the construction of four of the stores upon which building operations were stopped some days ago.

FOUND FAME IN POLICE

COL. ARTHUR PERCY SHERWOOD HAS RISEN TO THE TOP.

The Chief of the Dominion Service Has Achieved Celebrity Since He Left the Ottawa Department and Became the Guardian of Visiting Royalty—Has Been Active Also In the Militia.

Lieut.-Col. Arthur Percy Sherwood, now chief of the Dominion police, was formerly chief of police of Ottawa and was appointed to the latter post April 5, 1879, the same day that Chief Langrell resigned. Chief Sherwood acted as head of the Ottawa police force for three years. Under his regime the force consisted of 24 constables, a sergeant-major, two sergeants and a chief detective and an assistant. He resigned on October 7, 1882, to accept the position of chief of the Dominion police force. While in charge of the Ottawa force he displayed splendid energy and ability and introduced many reforms and was a most energetic and competent official.

He has been superintendent and commissioner of the Dominion force ever since and has charge in this capacity of the secret service work of Canada. He was thanked by order in council in October, 1893, for work rendered in connection with the Behring Sea arbitration and also specially *mentioned by King George in con*nection with the trip through Canada when His Majesty visited this country as Duke of Cornwall and York. In 1901 our subject was created a C.M.G. and in 1902 M.V.O. and in 1908 made an honorary A.D.C. to the Governor-General. He is president of the Canadian Military Rifle League and was the first president of the Ottawa Canoe Club, president of the Ottawa Summer Carnival and Old Boys' Reunion.

He has been active in the militia for years, has held every office of honor in the Forty-third Rifles and was commandant in 1898. Since 1906 he has been in command of the Eighth Rifle Brigade.

In 1903 he was commandant of the Bisley team and has rendered very special service to the crown in connection with both visits to Canada of King George. He is one of the most popular citizens of the capital and a man of splendid executive ability and of genial and kindly manner and withal a splendid disciplinarian.

Costly Furs.

London is one of the great fur markets of the world, and it is claimed that a year's auction sales in that city often amount to more than twenty million dollars

Many curious incidents and caprices of the London market are recorded. For instance, ever since the Middle Ages ermine has been the fur of royalty, and it is still used in the trimming of the state garments of kings and queens. In time, however, it fell into disfavor with women of fashion. White ermine skins became so cheap that the Canadian, Siberian and Chinese hunters no longer sent them to market. About twenty years ago, however, the word went around from some mysterious fashionable source that ermine should be once more the mode. Whereupon all the buyers began to demand ermine skins and the price went up to a high figure. As might be expected, the market was soon glutted. Chinese hunters sent to London no fewer than ten thousand ermine skins in the spring of one year. And then they promptly went out of fashion again.

The ermine is white with the exception of the tip of its tail, which is black. These tips, dressed with the white fur at regular intervals, make the spotting of black which is seen on state garments of ermine.

Handsome Dogs Are Good Dogs.

In the most characteristic of English dogs, with the English bulldog as an unfortunate exception of a glaring sort, common sense principles in the canon of judging are distinctly marked. In the case of hounds any good eye can pick out the best animals. This was curiously illustrated not long since in private when an artist taken over one of the bigger kennels of foxhounds picked out the prize and pedigree dogs one after the other. He went purely by his own sense of what was strong and comely of "strength and beauty met together, as Shelley says in a very different connection.—London Outlook.

Two Inscriptions.

Gladstone was once staying at a country house where it was the practice for each guest to write in the visitors' book his name and profession when he went away. It so happened that his great rival, the Earl of Beaconsfield was staying in the same house at the time. Lord Beaconsfield, in signing the book, characteristically wrote as his profession, "Patriotism." Mr. Gladstone (who probably did not know what Beaconsfield had written) signed as his profession, "Apprentice."

A HORRIBLE THING TO SEE IN THE MORNING

Hamilton, June 25.—What is believed to be a ten-foot long boa constrictor caused a great deal of excitement and not a little fear in the neighborhood of Baillie street and it is due to the ingenuity of Walter S. Misener that it was captured before it did any harm. The reptile is owned by Mr. McCarthy, who has been demonstrating a patent soap on the market. He resides on St. Catherine street, and on Friday night this creature escaped, and had evidently been in hiding since.

It made its appearance on the road on Baillie street, and a large crowd of children and people from the neighborhood gathered at a safe distance. The reptile lay coiled on the roadway, and some residents not caring for such an unwelcome guest, tried to do away with it. One man seized a shovel, and with this attempted to cut off its head. It rose out of its coil as though to strike, and hissed loudly.

The venturesome one withdrew to safety. Meanwhile, four constables gathered, but had nothing with which to attack the reptile which gave every evidence of being in an ugly mood. It was then decided to leave it undisturbed for a time. It settled in its coil again and in the meantime Mr. Misener rigged up a box on the end of a pole, and climbing on to a fence, pushed this down over the coiled snake. He then secured a piece of metal and shoved it under the box, and turning it over nailed his snakeship securely in and took it home. The man who owns the reptile stated that it is not dangerous, but it was dangerous looking enough to strike terror into the hearts of nearly all who came near it.

Exposition Commission Busy

Olympia, Wash., June 25.—The newly appointed Panama-Pacific exposition commission met here for formal organization. All members were present. Following their arrival ,they had a brief conference with the governor, when he presented each with a long letter he had prepared outlining his desires.

Later they went into executive session in one of the rooms of the Capitol. The governor's letter mentions the first duty is to select a chairman from its membership and a secretary from non-membership. The governor said the secretary should be one who has ability properly to keep the record, who knows the financial end of the work, and who can particularly attend to the publicity end of the work.

In regard to an executive commissioner, the governor recommends that as the exposition does not open until 1915, temporarily one of the members occupy that position.

Nanaimo Harbor Improvements

Nanaimo, June 25.—Work on harbor improvement work at Nanaimo for which Frank Shepherd, the local member in the Dominion house, received such a handsome appropriation has already started. Engineer J. P. Shaw arrived from Victoria with an assistant and with a crew of men picked after his arrival here started work on a general survey of the harbor.

This is to determine the amount of rock, silt, mud, etc., in the harbor. Thickness, depth, and other details necessary to know before the actual improvements are commenced. It is expected that Mr. Shaw will be engaged in this work for a month or six weeks. He has already placed some bouys on the harbor.

JUDGE TAKES CRACK AT SCHOOL BOARD

Criticizes Slipshod Manner of Doing Business With Contractors—School Contracts Investigation.

Toronto, June 25.—"A very slipshod way of doing business,' 'was Judge Winchester's comment on the methods of the board of education as brought to light during the hearing of the school contracts investigation. R. D. Waste, assistant superintendent of buildings, was in the box and told of the usual procedure in dealing with "extras."

"Don't you know," asked Judge Winchester, 't'hat the estimates for extra hardware handed you by the contractors as covering the price paid by them to the merchants, were not accurate, but that they received a substantial commission off these prices?"

Mr. Waste thought not, but ultimately admitted that the contractors received a discount.

"From information I have gathered," said his honor, "I would think that commissions aggregate about $200 per school since 1906. This means thousands of dollars turned over to contractors."

According to the final reports made by the experts for the city, the board of education has been overcharged to the extent of $18,000 since 1906, but the experts engaged by the board reduce this to $2,000.

"What check did you make on the time sheets of the workmen as ren-Judge Winchester.

"We have no systematic check," replied Mr. Waste. "After inspecting the work we reached a conclusion as to the time required to do the work."

Asked as to how he kept track of deductions to be made for alterations and substitutions in the work, Mr. Waste declared that he "carried the memos in his head."

"If an accident were to happen to you, the board would be at a considerable loss," said his honor.

KELLY EVANS AGAIN CONSERVATIVE CANDIDDATE

Guelph, June 25.—A. Kelly Evans was again selected by the Conservatives of South Wellington, as their candidate for election to the house of commons at the convention held in the town hall here.

The convention was graced by the presence of Hon. C. J. Doherty, the minister of justice, who dealt with the political situation, showed the fallacies of the arguments of Sir Wilfrid Laurier and his followers in opposition to the government's proposals to vote $35,000,000 to provide three battleships for the common defence of the empire, and voiced the determination of the ministry to do something for Britain before it was too late. It passed a resolution affirming that the policy of Mr. Borden and his ministers had been in the best interests of the Dominion and of the empire, and complimented the prime minister upon the naval bill.

The party of German capitalists who have been making a tour of Canada will spend one day in New Westminster. There are about 200 in the party. They left Leipsic early in June, and will arrive in Vancouver on July 24. They will spend three days on the mainland before crossing to Vancouver island where they will visit the capital. A trip to Fraser Mills and one down the Fraser to inspect one of the canneries at Steveston will be included in the program of entertainment here.

To more efficiently carry on the work of the local Y. W. C. A., the appointment of a general secretary was advocated at the monthly meeting of the directors of that institution held yesterday afternon. This was felt to be very much needed in order that the work of the association might be carried on in a comprehensive manner. The first of the four races on the card is called for 1 p.m. and in all there are 17 entries. A number of fast horses from this city and other points are entered and a good afternoon's sport is assured.

There are other trials besides criminal trials in the assize court at present. The bench, the bar, the jury and witnesses have all their patience severely exercised by the intermittent howling of the cars and heavy vehicles which literally suspend proceedings until they pass. Justice Morrison, with a wearied, disgusted look, appeals mutely by a glance for silence every 15 minutes until the row ceases. Another attempt to alleviate the jury's distress from the low murmurs of huskily built witnesses was made yesterday, when the witness box was restored to its former place between judge and the twelve good men and true.

Summer Schools.

This year summer schools will be held in various parts of the province by the Methodist church at Moyie Lake, East Kootenay; Kelowna Park, Okanagan; Nelson, West Kootenay; Pappim Grove and Ocean Park, near White Rock. Peddlers Must Pay.

For the second time within a week Inspector Pearce has nabbed a would-be peddler plying his trade on the public streets without first having obtained a license. Last week it was an American farmer selling strawberries. Yesterday it was a Chinese boy selling neckties. He was instructed to either come through with the necessary ten dollars or vamoose. He did the latter.

WEDDING BELLS

Johnston-Waddell.

St. Stephen's church last evening was the scene of a pretty wedding when Jennie, daughter of Mr. and Mrs Forbes Waddell, Twelfth street, was united in marriage to John Garson Johnston, of Vancouver.

The ceremony was performed in the presence of a large number of relatives and friends of the contracting parties by Rev. A. Dunn. The bride was attended by her sister, Miss Waddell, while Alden McLean, of Vancouver, performed the duties of best man. Miss Jean Waddell presided at the organ.

A reception was held at the home of the bride's parents later in the evening when toasts were drunk to the happiness of the young couple.

After a trip through the Pacific coast states as far south as California, the bride and groom will take up their residence in Vancouver.

Among the out-of-town guests present were Mr. and Mrs. Patrick, Central Park; Alec Young, Hamilton, Scotland; Jack Wishert, Mrs. Rex and Robert Waddell, Mr. and Mrs Wilson Johnston, Miss Johnston, James Johnston, Mr. and Mrs. Myers, Miss Fulton, Cecil Weir, all of Vancouver.

C.N.R. GETS MONEY FOR WORK HERE

Funds Secured for Operations in New Westminster, Vancouver and Port Mann.

The news that the Canadian Northern railway has sold $10,000,000 worth of terminal bonds, which was announced by Premier Sir Richard McBride in Vancouver will probably mean an immediate start on the railway works affecting this city and Vancouver, together with Port Mann.

For some time little has been heard of the proposed work of the company on its property on Front street leading westward towards Lulu island, and the delay in selling the bonds is thought by some to have been the real cause of the silence.

Premier McBride said yesterday that all the improvements at the points covered by the ten million dollar bond guarantee would be started without a moment's delay and this will undoubtedly mean great activity in a constructive way in New Westminster and also at Port Mann, where the shops of the C. N. R. are to be located.

T. G. Holt, chief executive of the C. N. R., has intimated to the provincial government that the tracklaying operations on the Lulu island branch will be completed by July 15, work on which is now being rushed. A small engine has been brought down from Port Mann and is engaged in transporting the rails from the B. C. E. R. to the work.

The plans for Front street have yet to be approved by the province, but the recent visit of Provincial Engineer Gamble to this city, has led many to believe that whenever the company is ready to proceed with the work permission will be forthcoming from the Victoria authorities.

STRANGLED AND CLUBBED.

Los Angeles Realty Man Murdered and Robbed.

Los Angeles, June 25.—Charles E. Pendell, a real estate dealer, was murdered today in his office in a downtown building. The body was discovered tonight by his widow.

Pendell had been strangled with a table cloth and beaten over the head with some blunt object. Diamonds worn in a pin and ring and money were missing when the body was found. He had not been seen since this afternoon.

The widow, distracted by grief, could suggest no other motive for the murder than robbery. Pendell is reputed to be worth a quarter million dollars.

Keeps Eye on Guayamas.

Vallejo, Cal., June 25.—A wireless message received at Mare island navy yard today from San Diego, says the cruiser South Dakota will sail north July 7, stopping at ports en route. On July 15 the cruiser will sail from San Francisco for Seattle. On her return to the navy yard here the South Dakota will take aboard supplies and sail for Guayamas, Aug. 4, where it will relieve the Pittsburg, now stationed there.

No Interest in Stocks.

Montreal, June 25.—Dealings in stocks here today were on a small scale and price movements were for the most part narrow and meaningless. C. P. R., Montreal Power and Brazilian, which were among the active features in the forward movement on Tuesday, were reported on the day's business by a combined turn over of only 116 shares, a fair indication of the general apathy of the market. C. P. R. was slightly on the downward grade.

Panama Deal up Again.

Washington, June 25.—Colombian Minister Betancourt has submitted to the state department a concrete statement of the basis upon which his government desires to resume negotiations with the United States for settlement of claims growing out of the separation of Panama. Secretary of State Bryan announced he would discuss the proposition with the president soon with the hope of making a start towards disposing of the long standing disagreement between the countries.

Thought Tea a Panacea.

In the British Museum there is a broad sheet issued by the founder of Garraway's, in which it is claimed for tea that it "helpeth the headache, removeth the obstructions of the spleen, cleareth the sight and purifieth adult humors and a hot liver. It prevent- and cures agues, surfeits and fevers; prevents consumptions, is good for colds, dropsies, and scurvies, and expelleth infection."

Wheat on 'Change.

Winnipeg, June 25.—Rains over the Canadian west and dry portions of the United States spring wheat states, together with the lower Liverpool cables depressed wheat markets on both sides of the line during the early hours of business. Later there was a general reaction in prices on the bullish report by Expert Snow, on conditions in Jim river valley, where the condition of spring wheat drops from 97 on June 1 to 47 at the present time.

About 180,000 pounds of spring salmon are being caught every week off Langara island, in Dixon's Entrance, by the mosquito fleets operated by the Wallace Fisheries, Ltd., the B. C. Fisheries. The Fispa, the new government inspection boat, is expected to be turned over to the fisheries department by Saturday of this week. Since her speed trial two weeks ago the engines and propeller shafts and other parts of the machinery have all been overhauled and tested. The electric lighting system has been completed and painting and other odds and ends of work have been done. She is now in first class shape and ready for work. Mr. Cunningham, head of the fisheries department here, expects to make his first trip of inspection up the coast about July 7 and will use the Fispa for for the purpose.

Talk Currency.

Washington, June 25.—President Wilson had about the cabinet table at the White House tonight the members of the senate committee on banking and currency, Democrats and Republicans, for a general discussion of the currency question. The conference, similar to the one held last week with Democratic members of the committee on banking and currency, gave the president a chance to explain his views on the needs of legislation at the present session and go over to some extent the provisions of the administration measure.

Brother Lights Them Up and Mother Puts Them Out.

Albany, Cal., June 25.—Twin girls, two months old, were saved from burning to death here late today when the cradle in which they were sleeping was set on fire by their three year old brother.

The children's mother, Mrs. H. Seiber, was washing on the back porch of her home when she smelled smoke coming from one of the rooms. She rushed in just in time to see the blanket which covered the infants take fire. Grabbing both in her arms the frantic mother rushed to her wash tub where she squelched the flames.

Both infants were badly burned, but will recover.

Portland, Ore., June 25.—The first session of the annual convention of the National New Thought alliance was held here tonight. More than 200 delegates from all parts of the United States are in attendance.
