HINDUS IN OPEN REVOLT ON KOMOGATA MARU FORCE OF VANCOUVER POLICE BEATEN BACK

Attempt of One Hundred and Fifty Uniformed Police and Immigration Officers Unable to Board the Vessel—Greeted by Volley of Missles Which Severely Injures Many of the Officers—Midnight Effort of Authorities to Force the Foreigners to Depart From Burrard Inlet Results in Failure.

DOMINION AUTHORITIES ORDER FORCE TO BE USED IF NECESSARY.

Maddened Foreigners Threaten the Lives of Authorities Unless They Are Permitted to Have Their Own Way, But Word Received From Ottawa in Reply to Urgent Telegrams Place All the Resources of the Government at the Disposal of the Immigration Authorities—Expected That the Rainbow Will Be Called From Esquimalt and the Militia Ordered to Subdue the Mutineers in the Harbor—Intense Excitement in Vancouver Over Resistance to Authority.

(Special to The News.)

Vancouver, July 20, 1 a.m.—Everything is quiet along the waterfront and also on board the Hindu ship, as far as can be seen at this time. The evening passed without any further excitement although hundreds of people were on the street anxiously awaiting what developments that might arise.

At midnight the immigration authorities announced that there would be nothing further doing until about ten o'clock this morning. At that time it is expected active steps will be taken to remove the Komogata Maru from the harbor and start the vessel on its trip to the Orient.

The utmost precautions have been taken by the immigration authorities to see that no firearms are smuggled aboard the Komogata during the night. The tug Sea Lion, and two other swift vessels, the Winnimac and the Oriole, are patrolling the harbor and no boat is allowed to approach the Komogata under any circumstances.

The naval authorities at Esquimalt have been called upon for the use of the Rainbow to carry out the orders of the immigration department. It is expected that by morning the Rainbow will be in the harbor here. It is also understood that it is the intention of the authorities to order out the militia and place them on board the Rainbow, and that orders will be issued to start the Hindus on their return voyage.

Should oppostion be offered to the boarding of the militia and the regular force of the Rainbow by the Orientals, aggressive action will be taken.

The authorities are thoroughly aroused and in response to orders from Ottawa force will be used if necessary to put down any further opposition to the authorities or to the Komogata Maru starting on its return trip.

Vancouver, July 19.—All the resources of the government of Canada have been placed at the disposal of Superintendent Malcolm R. J. Reid, of the immigration service and his advisers here, to take immediate steps to restore order at the Port of Vancouver and legal control aboard the Komogata Maru.

Telegraphic instructions to this effect were received at the office of the immigration department shortly after noon today, when H. H. Stevens, M. P., R. L. Reid, K. C., W. H. D. Ladner, Captain Yamamoto and the chief engineer of the Komogata were in conference. The instructions were that immediate steps must be taken to restore order, dispatch the Hindo ship, but the most drastic treatment is to be avoided "as far as possible" in carrying out these instructions.

The message from Ottawa declares that the laws of the country must be upheld in face of the mutiny of the Komogata Hindus, and expresses appreciation of the forbearance of the police and immigration officials in the encounter of last night, when they refrained from using firearms in the face of the attack by the Hindus.

Upon the receipt of this message the local officials immediately endeavored to get into communication with Admiral Kingsmill and the officers of the Dominion Cruiser Rainbow, whose services are likely to be required. Mayor T. S. Baxter, for whom the officials sought all morning, could not be located. He had not yet returned from Seattle, where he had been visiting over the week-end.

It is probable that the next step in the work of reducing the Komogata Hindus to order will not be taken until Monday morning, as some time must elapse before arrangements can be made, and consultation will be necessary with officers of the military forces.

Vancouver, July 19.—The story of the first attempt of the Vancouver authorities to remove from the inlet the 352 Hindu passengers on the Komogata Maru in the early hours of Sunday is an exciting tale of an affray which resulted in injuries to the following:

Chief McLennan, bruises.

Inspector Scott knocked unconscious by blow of brick.

Police Constable Call, two ribs broken.

Captain Robertson, of the tug Sea Lion, cut over the eye by flying glass from the pilot house windows.

Detective Tisdall, cut on lip.

Detective McLeod, hit on arm.

Detective McArthur, fell overboard.

Messrs. L. H. Taylor and G. L. Minnett badly injured about the head, Taylor's condition being serious.

Minor injuries were suffered by many police and detectives; Ricci and Scott were among those badly hurt.

The main facts connected with the story begin with the body of police and special constables embarking shortly after midnight on the tug Sea Lion, pulling away from the pier full of confidence. Under Chief McLennan were 125 city policemen, and immigration officers numbering 35, under Captain Warden. The latter were armed with Ross rifles while the police had their service revolvers.

Followed by an attendant tug, the Winnimac, the Sea Lion approached the Japanese steamer. When within hailing distance it was seen that every inch of space along the rail, on the deck and on the bridge of the Komogata Maru was occupied by a Hindu armed with a club or similar weapon, whose swarthy face was lit up by the searchlight from the Sea Lion.

Hose 's Used.

Amid the shouting of the Hindus with their threatening weapons, the grappling hook was successfully placed on the steamer's rail. Just at this juncture an officer of the police force turned a hose on the ranks of the wrathful Hindus and they were beaten back by the water. Rallying, the Hindus dashed a shower of missiles at the occupants of the tug, who were absolutely at their mercy. The air was black with coal, wood and fire bricks, together with pieces of iron from what is to be believed to be the wreck age of the engineroom.

All that the police and special constables could do was to bend down with their faces away from the onslaught and endure the punishment without attempting reprisals.

Quite a number of men fell stretched out from blows on the head and in the crowding from that side of the tug fartherest away from the Japanese steamer Detective McArthur was forced overboard. A special constable named D. Collins and one of the Hindu interpreters leaned over the side of the tug and dragged the officer aboard again.

At one period it looked as though a serious catastrophe was about to overtake the Sea Lion and her forces for, naturally enough, everyone on the vessel sought to get away from the missiles and in doing so crowded to the other side with the result that the tug commenced to list in a very pronounced manner, there being continual cries of "keep to the left or we shall sink" filling the air.

These shouts, mingled with the smash of breaking glass and torn woodwork caused what in a minor sense was nothing short of pandemonium.

As the minutes passed and there was no cessation in the hurricane of objects that came hurtling from the decks of the Japanese steamer one angry shout predominated over all the rest. "Get her away from the ship. Why the h— doesn't the captain move her?"

Returned to Shore.

Eventually the grappling iron having been removed by some venturesome police constable, the Sea Lion with her injured and angry crowd, slowly and sullenly moved away from the big vessel's side while a yell of derisive and prolonged tom-tom playing, shouting and laughter from the triumphant Hindus followed in her wake.

Slowly the Sea Lion made her way back to the dock. Doctors Monroe and Kennedy attending to the wounded as she went and many men of the police force showed the benefit of their knowledge of first aid as taught in the St. John Ambulance associa-

VALLEY HUMMING WITH TALK OF OIL

Prospects of Well Being Sunk on Hatzic Prairie Arouse Keen Interest.

Mission, July 19.—Keen interest has been aroused here over the report from New Westminster that the Eureka Oil Wells, Limited, had been launched in the Royal City to drill for oil on Hatzic Prairie. Confidence is expressed, both in the strong financial arrangements made by the company in having its debentures guaranteed by the Westminster Trust company, and in the prospects for striking oil at Hatzic.

Within the past few days oil has become the principal topic of conversation in this portion of the Fraser Valley and many reports of gas being released while sinking water wells and of oil seepages being found at different points hereabouts are being heard on all sides.

Exceptionally strong seepages have been located from time to time near the Jones place on Hatzic Prairie and in one hole sunk there the traces of oil were so strong at a shallow depth that the water was useless for drinking or cooking purposes. This occurred on ground which is believed to be held in the string of Eureka leases.

It has been known here for some time that oil experts have been going carefully over this section and now that a company has been launched with the intention of commencing drilling at an early date the oil question has become a live one. Local residents have been assured by men who profess to know what they are talking about that this region offers exceptionally strong indications of the valuable fluid and several experts have expressed the opinion that the real body will be tapped by a well sunk on the Hatzic Prairie.

HUERTA PLANS TO VISIT U. S.

Grim Old Mexican Warrior Does Not Appear to Regret Deportation

Will Sail on the German Vessel Dresden for Jamaica—Expects to Settle Down in Spain.

Puerto, Mexico, July 19.—If General Huerta has any regret at leaving Mexico as an exile he did not show it today when he received newspaper men.

After a conference with Captain Koebler of the German cruiser Dresden, it was announced that Huerta and General Blanquet would sail from this port on the Dresden. Their destination will be Kingston, Jamaica and the ex-dictator intimated he may later visit New York.

The departure of Huerta was delayed pending the arrival of another train bearing friends of the old Indian. It is not believed the Dresden will sail before tomorrow.

The deposed president received the newspaper men in his car attached to the train which brought his party of refugees from the capital. Huerta was in high spirits. He laughed and joked, posed for a "movie" camera and invited everybody present to dine with him in New York.

Act of Patriotism.

The grim old Indian who has been one of the chief international figures for a year and a half took great satisfaction in explaining that his resig-

NO GENERAL STRIKE.

President Cameron Does Not Believe Referendum Will Carry.

Local labor men, according to statements made to The News yesterday are treating as a joke the proposal to call a general strike throughout the province as a protest against the colliery operators on Vancouver Island.

"Ninety per cent. of the New Westminster union men will vote against the proposal when the time comes to take a poll on the referendum," declared President D. S. Cameron, of the Trades and Labor Council. "A general strike will do us little or no good, especially at this stage of the game and when little is going on in the business world due to financial depression."

Those unions that have agreements with their employers will not respect the call for a strike anyway as they are bound by an agreement with their international.

HELD ON CHARGE OF HANDLING OPIUM

William Givens, Tacoma Negro, Arrested by Federal Authorities for Selling Contraband Drug

Tacoma, July 19.—William Givens, a negro, accused by Uncle Sam of dealing in opium near Sumner, engaged to Katherine McCullough, white, who is in custody of the county authorities on a charge of smoking opium, and the proud possessor of 17 spick and span suits, found hanging in a row at his opium joint when the officers raided it, remains in jail here where he was placed following his arrest yesterday. Givens has been told by his lawyer to keep mum about opium, but he moans constantly about his 17 suits and fears they will be lost.

Givens was given a hearing before U. S. Commissioner McMillan and his bail was fixed at $1700.

The statement was made that more opium is being brought into Tacoma than enters through all the California ports, Portland, Astoria and Seattle put together. It seems fully established that the route was from ocean liners, the drug being dropped overboard when they reached Tacoma, into launches, then to Chambers creek by launch, then to Tacoma street cars, and then back into this city. It is asserted that practically the whole country was supplied from this source.

Givens, in addition to his seventeen suits, evidencing his prosperity as a result of being the country's champion opium dealer, has more than 50 silk shirts and upwards of 100 ties in his sumner home.

PREDICTS RECORD OUTPUT OF WHEAT

Prosperity Coming to Farmer Throughout the West and Middle West—Signs Point to Big Yield.

Olympia, July 19.—A record crop of wheat throughout the entire country is promised and banks and large business houses are well equipped with funds and in solid and substantial condition, according to State Bank Examiner W. E. Hanson, who reached his office in Olympia today after attending the convention of the National Association of Bank Superintendents in Atlantic City, July 6, 7 and 8.

"Throughout the middle west, Minnesota, Dakota and on into Washington I found wheat looking as fine as I have ever seen it," said Mr. Hanson.

"Banks and business houses generally are in fine condition. The bankers all seem pleased with the new reserve bank-currency law and there was not a dissenting vote among the state examiners in convention to the proposition that it will be a splendid thing for the banks and for industry in general.

"The bankers welcome the relief that it will afford them from the fight to keep their reserves in shape to meet sudden and heavy drains so that they can concentrate their attention generally upon maintaining the quality of their securities."

COMPENSATION TO WORKMEN.

Interesting Address to Be Given Tomorrow Evening at Trades and Labor Hall.

Under the auspices of the Trades and Labor Council Vice-President Bancroft, of the Trades and Labor Congress of Canada will address a public meeting in the Labor Temple on Tuesday evening, the chair being taken at 8 o'clock by President D. S. Cameron.

Mr. Bancroft is regarded as one of the most fluent speakers in Eastern Canada as far as labor is concerned and was mainly responsible for the drafting and passage of the Ontario Workmen's Compensation Act. Mr. Bancroft will choose compensation to workmen as his topic. The meeting will be open to the public, no admittance fee being charged.

UNLOAD AT PORT MANN.

C. N. R. Will Receive Shipment the First of September.

From eastern officials of the Canadian Northern Railway word his been received that the first steel ship for Port Mann is due to arrive in the river on the 3rd of September and that she will draw 25 feet of water. Her cargo will be landed at Patricia Bay. Two other ships will follow during the month.

The harbor commissioners and resident Dominion engineer will visit the new channel today in order to make a complete inspection of the work done by the two government dredges, King Edward and Fruhling, and ascertain from the soundings and surveys if the Fruhling can be spared for the period of a fortnight to permit her to fill in back of the Front street dock below Begbie street. It is reported that the King Edward, which with the Fruhling has been in port for the Sunday lie-over, has completed a 5 1-2 foot cut to No. 13 buoy, through the clayey material at this point, and that there is now a minimum of 18 feet here at dead low water.

HINDUS ARE PREPARED FOR ANOTHER FIGHT

DENVER ADVERTISES FOR SNOW SHOVELERS

Call Issued for Six Men to Remove Piles Brought to City From Mountains for Elks' Fun.

Denver, July 19.—"Wanted: Six men to shovel snow from in front of the Post building; apply at 6 o'clock and bring your own shovels."

This startling advertisement appeared in the Post last night and was not a mere joke.

During the Elks' reunion, just closed, the Denver newspapers brought in sever trainloads of snow from the top of the Rocky mountains and piled it in the downtown streets for the use of visiting Elks in snowballing. Tonight huge banks of snow still stood in two places downtown.

FIRE BREAKS OUT ON STEAMSHIP

Passengers Have Thrilling Experience Just as They Leave New York for Boston.

New York, July 19.—Loaded with passengers bound for Boston the Eastern Steamship company's steamship Massachusetts caught fire off the Battery late today. The Massachusetts went into the East River and two fire boats steamed to her assistance.

The fireboat New Yorker succeeded in extinguishing the blaze by the time the Massachusetts had reached the pier at East Eighteenth street. The vessel then continued its journey.

The fire started when an engineer went into the bilge room carrying a lighted torch. Oil, dripping from the engine room, had soaked the timbers and they became ignited.

There was no panic aboard the Massachusetts. One woman passenger became hysterical, but she was soon quieted.

HANDSOME SUMMER HOME.

The new summer home of Mrs. J. R. Gilley, being erected at Crescent Beach, is rapidly nearing completion and the family expect to be able to move into the building some time this week. A large bonfire will be lighted on the beach on the evening of the housewarming ceremonies. The building is perhaps the most pretentious of the summer cottages built at that resort, the outer walls being of specially selected logs brought from Langley Prairie. All the logs have been trimmed so that they fit snug together thus doing away with the necessity of plastering. Much of the work is being done by Mrs. Gilley's two sons, who are spending their vacation from Toronto University at the beach.

Bulwarks of Vessel Piled High With Coal, Bricks, Etc., to Repel Attack.

Arrangements Made by Authorities for Seizure of the Komogata by Armed Force if Necessary.

Vancouver, July 19.—Following the battle of the early morning the Hindus aboard the Komogata, using baskets, replenished the supply of ammunition in the shape of coal and brickbats, and have same piled along the bulwarks of the ship in readiness for another attempt on the part of the authorities to place officers on board.

Early today Malcolm Reid and H. H. Stevens, M. P., visited the hospital and inquired after the injured men. Mr. Stevens himself was struck repeatedly during the shower of missiles to the deck of the Sea Lion. Jammed by the crowd in the angle formed by the pilot house and the main deck house. Mr. Stevens only had his good right arm to protect himself with, and many lumps of coal and other heavy things struck him on the arm and on his body. Fortunately, however, he escaped disablement.

This afternoon the officials in charge of the situation are making arrangements for the seizure of the Komogata, and although this may not be accomplished before tomorrow afternoon, guards are at hand and the wharves and piers of the C.P.R. are being kept clear of the crowds of people who all day have been arriving there to get a sight of the Sea Lion and the scene of the excitement.

Guards Held in Readiness.

The Komogata, which surged with excited Hindus from the time the Sea Lion, battered and besmirched, put back with her injured passengers after the melee, until long after the break of dawn later assumed an appearance of comparative quiet, the Hindus evidently resting after their exertions and getting ready for further acts of violence.

Treachery and craft have been prominent factors in the conduct of Gurdit Singh and his followers since the arrival here of the Komogata Maru seven weeks ago, and this has culminated in the receipt by Malcolm R. J. Reid, of the immigration service, of an offer from Gurdit Singh that he will persuade the Hindus aboard the ship to permit its departure provided a bribe is paid to himself.

The offer, of course, received no consideration, but it is important as serving once again to illustrate the character of this man who attempts to pose as a patriot and friend of his fellow countrymen.

Capt. Yamamoto Ashore.

Captain Yamamoto, of the Komogata, accompanied by the chief engineer, who also is one of the owners of the vessel, arrived on shore at ten o'clock this morning and immediately went into conference with the officials, Mr Stevens, M. P., and Messrs. R. L. Reid and W. H. D. Ladner, legal advisers to the department here.

Captain Yamamoto set at rest the doubts that had been felt ashore about the Komogata's machinery. He reports that the engines are uninjured.

MONDAY MORNING, JULY 20, 1914.

THE END OF THE HINDU.

By their lawless behavior the Hindus aboard the Komagata Maru have placed themselves beyond all hope of consideration from the Dominion authorities and at the same time have prejudiced the cases of all their countrymen who have come to this province.

In taking things into their own hands and by their resistance to the police the Hindus marooned on the ship in Vancouver harbor have shown themselves ignorant of, or wilfully blind to the first principle of British citizenship—respect for and submission to constituted authority. From their viewpoint they may have considered themselves much abused in not being permitted to land in Canada, but the law courts, the highest in the empire, were at their disposal to work out their destiny. They chose to disregard this course and, true to their uncivilized natures, preferred an appeal to brute force. Now they must abide by the consequences.

While making such an ado about his rights to citizenship under the Union Jack, the Hindu evidently yet has to learn what being a British subject means. The chances are he will receive considerable enlightenment along that line in the very near future, particularly with regard to that phase of the question which deals with resistance to the guardians of His Majesty's peace.

All things considered, the undesirables aboard the Komagata Maru have received exceptionally fair treatment since they arrived on this coast in a vain attempt to force themselves on British Columbia. In the first place they were not wanted. They, or their leaders, knew such to be the case. At any rate, they learned the tone of feeling shortly after their arrival at Vancouver. When they ran out of water and provisions these were supplied to them. Even when they undertook to resist the police, they were safe from reprisals. Though every officer on the Sea Lion, which was made the target of a storm of missiles from the immigrant ship the other night, had a rifle with him, not a shot was fired, which fact says a great deal for the forbearance of the constables and the conception of law and order in Canada as compared with what the Hindus prate so much about. Had the police so chosen, they could have poured such a fusilade across the Komagata's decks that not a man could have lived under the fire, but they did not, and to this forbearance under stress of circumstances the dishonorable crowd aboard the Japanese ship owe their lives.

Certainly, the Komagata Maru Hindus have settled the East Indian question for a good many years, at least so far as Canada is concerned.

Forest fires cause an immense property loss in Canada every year, and this loss is all too frequently accompanied by loss of life. The great majority of the fires which leave such awful destruction in their wake are preventable. They are due to foolishness, or as it might be still more truly expressed, to criminal negligence. They originate largely from the burninig over of cleared land in dry weather, from fires left unextinguished by campers and from cigar and cigarette butts and matches thrown down alight.

FINANCING MOVING PICTURES BIG TASK BUT PAYING ONE

Considering the rapid growth of the moving picture theatre as a factor in amusement, says the Montetary Times, the investor has not been asked, yet, to subscribe to the securities issued in connection with very many of the companies interested. There are apparently considerable profits in the business, and, although competition has become keen, large dividends still appear to be paid. The cost of obtaining attractive films is high. From $250,000 to $300,000 may be invested in making a first picture film. "Quo Vadis," it is said, cost $280,000. Then it was manifolded into 400 copies of 8,000 feet each and sold at 25 cents a foot, or $800,000. A moving picture is good without translation in every language, and has just as good a market in South America and Australia as in France and Germany. To put the drama of 'Atlantis" into moving pictures the makers chartered a steamer of 12,000 tons and sent it to Iceland with a crew and a company of 400 to produce the picture at a cost of $225,000. To put Forbes-Robertson as Hamlet on the film cost at least ten times what it ever cost to stage any Hamlet that was ever presented. The makers thereof paid $75,000 for the use of a castle and costumed about 400 people therein, making the manufacturing cost $250,000, but they sold 3,000,000 feet of that film for 25 cents a foot.

Early this year were noticed the first signs of the process of interesting the investor to a greater extent in the moving picture industry. The Associated Provincial Picture Houses made a public issue in England; the Mutual Film corporation was financed by members of the New York stock exchange; an offering of preferred stock with a bonus of common of the Reliance company was sold privately by a Wall Street house; and Canada followed suit with an offering of $300,000 7 per cent. cumulative preferred shares at par with a bonus of 100 per cent. in common stock of the United Motion Picture Theatres, Limited. The object of the Associated Provincial Houses, with capital of £500,000, and which offered to the British investor 400,000 ordinary shares and 100,000 non-cumulative, non-participating 6 per cent. perference shares at par, was to acquire properties in Great Britain, and to erect thereon and operate cinematograph theatres and cafes, and to purchase from a parent company one freehold property and options to buy and lease eight other properties, for which the vendors also secured other options, and intends to open at least 25 theatres. The Provincial company, which in three years paid dividends aggregating 50 per cent. on its ordinary shares, will direct and manage the new company, and in addition to its payment for administration, it will receive remuneration of 10 per cent. on the net profits after providing for preference dividends:

Commenting on this issue, the London Statist said: "Though the capital is said to be safely invested in real estate, many of the properties are mortgaged, and the company will start out on its ambitious career with nothing substantial on which to fall back for raising money, if need arises. If the Provincial directors wished to expand their business, it is a pity they did not increase their capital, instead of floating another company. It would have been a surer guarantee of their confidence in cinematographs if they had pursued their policy of forming a single large organization whereby, as they pointed out, the cost of operation would be reduced to a minimum. The estimated profits on the ordinary shares are put at 25 per cent., and this, backed by the past success of the parent company, will, no doubt, offer a pleasant bait to those speculators who like to gamble in unproductive ventures which cater for fleeting popular crazes. If the directors' hopes are realized and big dividends are paid, shareholders would be well advised to build up a capital reserve with their profits against rainy days, or possibly, in this case against fine days with empty cinematograph houses."

IMMIGRATION OFFICIALS RELAX REGULATIONS

Victoria, July 19.—Much satisfaction is expressed by shipping men in Victoria in view of the fact that the immigration officials have taken it upon themselves to relax, to a certain extent, the regulations governing the clearance of passenger vessels following arrival in port.

Following the berthing of a ship in the past, with possibly one or two exceptions, no passenger has been allowed to come ashore, or any mails or cargo permitted to be handled by the derricks until the word "all clear" had been given by the immigration authorities.

Under these conditions, especially in the case of ships bringing unusually large lists of passengers, considerable time elapsed before the travelers were enabled to file down the gangplank, and, consequently those aboard ships making a comparatively short stay were prevented from invading the business section of the city and taking in the sights.

The immigration officers, in the case of the Pacific Coast steamship Governor, which arrived in port Monday afternoon with over 300 passengers aboard, adopted a new plan, whereby those passed were given a check and allowed to come ashore without being detained at the head of the gangway. Had the regulations been strictly enforced this large number of passengers would have been forced to stay on the vessel for an hour, with the result that much business would have been lost to Victorians. The new system worked most satisfactorily and will probably be continued on passengers steamers arriving at Victoria in the future.

HOW SURGEON'S KNIFE MADE MAN OF BRUTE

Strange Case of Prisoner in New Jersey Prison—Once a Chattering Maniac, Now Human Again.

Fiction has supplied nothing stranger than the case of Jonas Szikely, a man now rounding out a thirty-year term in the New Jersey state prison at Trenton. Dual personalities there have been a plenty, but his possesses none of the fancifal characteristics of a Jekyll and Hyde. Instead the metamorphosis of a wild, untamed and brutish creature into a strikingly human alien whose sole purpose in life, seemingly, is to lighten the burdens of fellow unfortunates, has been brought about by the surgeon's scalpel.

Picture a short, thickset but powerfully built man, one of a squad of convicts toiling cheerfully at the task before him as he softly hums the air of a weird and plaintive Hungarian folk song. At his side works an anaemic and frail young man, utter hopelessness depicted in his careworn and bloodless face.

At intervals the cheery little man pauses in his work to lend a helping hand to the youth at his side, always ready with a word of encouragement to spur his fellow convict on so that he can escape a reprimand at the hands of the prison guard. The youth softly thanks the Samaritan at his side and for a while returns to his work with renewed vigor, but soon he lapses and wilts, and again the helping hand is willingly lent.

Blow of His Fist Kills.

The Samaritan is a thirty-year man who killed his victim with a blow of his powerful right arm. Speedily he was tried and convicted and sentenced to what might be interpreted as a life term, for few men who have passed life's thirtieth milestone survive such a term behind prison bars. Although a murderer and three years of the thirty-year term behind him, this convict can tell you nothing of the crime he committed or the circumstances attending it. For three years his mind was a total blank, and, worse still, he has been bereft of every human attribute, seemingly a chattering, crawling vicious brute, who quailed in the presence of his fellows and skulked beneath the beds and into any and every cubby hole where he could crawl at the approach of fellow convict or keeper.

For three years prison keepers and fellow convicts were untiring in their efforts to solve the mystery surrounding this little giant. In all that time he was never heard to utter a word intelligible to any ear.

In this prison are upward of 1,400 convicts, and aliens among them were pressed into service with a view of ascertaining what tongue this strange wild creature spoke. All gave it up.

The warden of the prison, Thomas W. Madden, as well as Dr. J. W. Crane, the resident physician, had exhausted every means at their command to solve the baffling puzzle, so Jonas Szikely was consigned to the infirmary, where it was hoped some day the pall would lift and reason would return.

The warden was intrusted with the keeping of a man who evidently had at some time or another enjoyed lucid moments, or else he could not have been tried and convicted in a court of justice. Little or nothing could be learned of his earlier history. He had killed a man, and judge and jury decreed that he must be deprived of his liberty for the stated period.

Those who testified against him could only say that they saw him strike the fatal blow, although none could or would tell what prompted its delivery. He had struck blindly, they testified, and his victim had fell blindly in his tracks like a stricken ox. The murderer made no attempt to escape, nor would he utter a single word at his trial. He was a mute, stolid and brutish murderer who had wreaked his vengeance, and apparently was indifferent to the fate awaiting him. That he escaped the death chair was only due to the recommendation for mercy made by the jury, which, while never in doubt as to his guilt, maintained that nothing had been presented to prove the motive prompting the killing.

Surgeon Shows Interest.

A few months ago the case of Jonas appealed so strongly to Dr. Martin W. Reddan, one of New Jersey's foremost brain specialists and surgeons, that he determined to do what he could to solve the mystery. Dr. Reddan is one of the board of visiting physicians at the state prison, and he invariably looked Jonas over in the course of his official visits. So deeply interested did he become in the case that it was noticed that Dr. Reddan soon became a daily visitor at the prison, and it was always Jonas for whom he asked when he called thus unofficially.

Dr. Reddan closely interrogated every attendant and convict, who came in daily contact with the prisoner, whom he invariably found skulking under a bed. If accompanied by Dr. Crane the surgeon noticed that the convict would crawl from his hiding place and approach the prison physician, at times raising his hands to his head and vigorously waving or revolving them, as it to indicate there was something the matter with that portion of his anatomy. It was in the course of one of these visits when the prisoner was gesticulating so vigorously that Dr. Reddan saw light.

The two physicians returned to the office of Mr. Madden, where Dr. Reddan quietly remarked: "I think I can cure Jonas Szikely of his malady. All I need is your permission to operate on him."

"What is the nature of the operation?" asked the warden.

"There is something pressing on the man's brain," the surgeon replied. "I purpose to remove it."

"What are the chances of his surviving the operation?" the warden asked.

"That I can't tell until I make an incision and get at the root of the evil. I may be mistaken in my diagnosis, but I am willing to take a chance and think, in the cause of humanity that it ought to be done at once."

The warden and the house physician agreed that Szikely had better be dead than in his present condition, and if there was a chance, no matter how remote, of restoring his reason, that chance should be taken. Accordingly he was removed to another portion of the prison and made ready for the operation.

What followed is best told in the words of Dr. Reddan:

"I made an incision in the back of Szikely's head,' 'the surgeon said, "a crescent perhaps fourteen inches in length. I practically lifted the top of the man's head off, and there I found, just as I had suspected, a piece of bone the size of half a dollar that was resting on the brain. It was but the work of a moment to remove the obstruction and thus relieve the pressure. I knew that relief would be instantaneous, and I was not in the least surprised to find the patient thoroughly normal and rational the moment he came from under the influence of the anaesthetic. I might add that the incision was sewed up, and from that moment he never had the slightest trouble."

Another strange Case.

"Have you ever performed a simi- operation?" the doctor was asked.

"O, yes, several. Just sent a boy home from the hospital today who was similarly affected. Of a prominent family here, he proved to be a veritable little demon. I decided that something was pressing on his brain, and operated. Sure enough, there was a little piece of bone which I removed. He is a normal little fellow now, and I am sure he will never cause his parents another moment of anxiety. No, I won't tell you who he is. His parents are very prominent here and he has been a source of mortification to them for a long time, but he is all right now."

But Dr. Crane, the prison physician, and Mr. Madden, the warden, had far more to say about the operation and its effects. Although seen separately, each told a story that substantiated the other to the minutest detail.

"When Jonas was taken to the operating room," the physician said, "he clutched in his tremendous hand a little book. We could not tell what it was, for his hand is so big that he can completely cover a baseball in his clenched fist. Fifteen minutes after he came from under the influence of the ether he looked up at us and smiled. Unclasping his hand, he revealed a little prayer book. Where he got it I haven't the slightest idea, unless some fellow convict, knowing that he was going to the operating table slipped it to him as he left the infirmary.

"Opening the book Jonas began to read in broken English passages from the Lord's Prayer. Imagine our consternation, for in all the three years this man had been under our care he had never been heard to utter a word that anyone in the prison could understand.

Is Now a Model Prisoner.

"I asked him now he felt. 'Splendid,' came the ready response. 'That terrible noise in my head is all gone. The good doctor had stopped that awful engine that was alway puffing and snorting and grinding in my head.'

"Then he turned over and went to sleep and for hours he lay there tranquil and still, the first peaceful and restful slumber he had enjoyed since he came to us."

Dr. Crane waxed enthusiastic as he discussed the case of Jonas. He added that the prisoner is the model of the institution today, and that there is no reason to doubt that the board of pardons, when it next meets, will recommend the release of the prisoner on the ground that he was not responsible for what he did when he killed his man. But that portion of the narrative is best told in Jonas' own words.

"My curiosity aroused to the highest pitch, I asked if I might see the strange creature whose case had so long baffled science," said a recent visitor to the prison.

"No trouble about that," Warden Madden remarked, "but instead of the chattering wild man you will see a meek and modest little man whose sole bent in life seems to be to alleviate the sufferings of those about him. He can do two men's work any day, and he never tires of helping those about him. He is our model prisoner, and, while it is not for us to say what the board of pardons can or will do, nevertheless we all hope something may be done to restore this man to his wife and son who only learned within the last few weeks that he is living and well."

As we entered the section of the prison where Jonas was employed every prisoner there with the exception of Jones paused in his work to gaze at the warden and his guests. Jonas was busy and continued his task as he hummer a native air. As Dr. Crane called him by name, he turned and, dropping his tools, ran to the physician's side and, seizing his hand, kissed it as he said: "Ah, dear doctor, you have taken all the bad noises out of my head, and I am so happy I sing for joy."

Drawing Jonaas aside from the other prisoners, we sat down for a long chat, and this is the story he told me:

"The good people here in this prison tell me that I am a murderer—that I must stay here tairty years and that I have already been here three years. Maybe so. If I must stay I will try to be good and happy, for the doctor there and Mr. Madden have been very kind to me and I no longer suffer. My son and his wife are now living in Pennsylvania. I would like to be free to go live with them after I make enough money to bring my dear wife from Hungary, that she, too, might see the little grandson we have."

"Do you remember anything about the murder they say you committed?" I asked.

"I will come to that," said the prisoner. "Some might call it murder, and maybe it was, but I can't say."

Helps His Prison Mate.

The fragile and anaemic youth who had been Jonas' bench mate was struggling to lift a bench board. Jonas, seeing the strain the boy was enduring, arose from my side, and, hurrying to the bench, lifted the board, spoke a word or two in an undertone to the boy, and returned to the end of the tier where I awaited him.

"This work is too heavy for that poor fellow,' 'he said, and then, seating himself at my side, he continued:

"I had been in this country but a few weeks when I settled up in Hunterdon county, where I had found work in a stone mine (quarry). I had intended to send for my wife and son as soon as I got settled, and wrote them to that effect. One evening after work I was standing on a corner of the little village I had settled in when a fight started in a house nearby. I heard the uproar and then followed a woman's piercing shrieks of 'Murder!'

"I plunged into the house, and as I entered some one hit me a terrific blow on the head. That was all I remember about it. What happened later I have no knowledge of, although since the dear doctor took the noises out of my head I have been told that I struck a man and killed him. A woman was in trouble, being murdered, perhaps, and the vision of my wife in a similar plight flashed before me, and that is why I ran to her aid.

"Certainly I never killed anybody before: I was never in trouble in my life, for I had a good mother and father and they raised me carefully. My life with my wife and boy was very happy, and I came to this country believing better opportunities awaited me here and that we might grow old together and come to own a little home of our own. If I have to stay here for twenty-seven years longer I will try to make the best of it. They have been very kind to me and the prisoners are just as good to me as the warden, the doctors and the keepers. They all like Jonas, and Jonas likes them."

Here Jonas abrutly terminated the interview to hurry to the side of his fellow convict, the boy, who was trying to keep pace with his co-workers. The old langor was assailing him again. Jonas' quick eye had detected the symptoms, and he was at his side to spur him on and help him if necessary.

"Szikely is a very well educated man," said Aleck, a Hungarian, who is doing a "life bit" in the Trenton prison for murder. "I know him perhaps better than any other prisoner and have seen the letters he sends to his wife. He writes a fine hand and he knows books—Hungarian books—better than any man I know."

"He was like a wild animal in those days," said Aleck. "He was harmless, it is true, but we were all afraid of him, for we never knew what form his mania might take. He was so strong that he could pick up two ordinary sized men and swing them about like Indian clubs But he is alright now. He is a fine man and a good man, and there isn't a prisoner in this penitentiary who doesn't hope and pray that Jonas will get his pardon and be able to send for the wife he writes to so regularly."

The report made to the board of pardons by the investigating committee named to probe the circumstances surrounding Szikely's case says in part:

"From the representations made by the surgeon and by the prison authorities your committee think it was quite possible that this man may, by the blow received at the time of the struggle commenced wherein a man was killed, have been at once transformed from a conscious, responsible human being into the irresponsible condition under which he has existed up to the time of the operation, and while in that condition may have killed a man and been tried and convicted without any one realizing his mental irresponsibility. If this is so, of course, no murder was committed, and now that the man has been restored to himself, he should receive a full pardon.

"We recommond, therefore, that inqury be made into the circumstances of the trial and that an expert examination be made into the man's mental condition."

They were a great boon to me, I can tell you, for about two years ago, I was laid up in bed with vomiting and a terrific pain at the base of my skull. The pain nearly drove me mad. Doctors feared it would turn to Inflammation of the Brain, but I took "Fruit-a-tives" steadily until I was cured. WEST INDIES ANGRY AT HON. MR. HARCOURT

He Refused to Take Any Hand in Their Supposed Grievance Against Canada.

Port of Spain, Trinidad, July 17.—In connection with the reciprocity agreement concluded last year between the Dominion of Canada and certain of the British West India islands and British Guiana, a curious situation has arisen. The agreement stipulated not only that the contracting colonies should enjoy preferential treatment but that Jamaica, Honduras, Bahamas, Bermuda and Newfoundland should enjoy the same concessions for a period of three years.

It now appears that in addition to these colonies, Canada is extending equal preferential treatment to colonies elsewhere, without requiring the corresponding reciprocal terms or imposing any conditions. Fiji and Mauritius are specially referred to. The principal inducement to the West India colonies to enter into the reciprocal agreement, for which a considerable sacrifice of revenue was made, was to secure a steady market for sugar. It is now argued that if Fiji and Mauritius are placed on the same footing as the West Indies, without any corresponding sacrifice, these colonies will be unduly favored at the expense of these.

In these circumstances the chamber of commerce of Trinidad and Tobago sent forward through the governor a respectful representation to the secretary of state for the colonies, which they asked should be forwarded to the Canadian government with the endorsement of his majesty's government. Mr. Harcourt declined to take any action in the matter, or even to send the representation forward without comment.

This action has aroused considerable feeling, and steps are to be taken by the chamber of commerce, in conjunction with the Barbados and Demerara, to represent to the Canadian government direct "that the admission of non-participating colonies to preferential treatment operates detrimentally to the colonies parties to the agreement, and is contrary to its spirit." Thus probably for the first time in the history of crown colonies, the principal commercial bodies, failing the relief expected from official quarters, will be found acting quite independently of either the local or the home government, and negotiating direct with a British dominion for the amendment of an important agreement seriously affecting their mutual trade.

INDIANS ON RESERVE THREATEN WAR

Montreal, July 179.—The suggestion that a convent shall be built on their reserve, for teaching purposes, is meeting with some opposition on the part of the Iroquois Indians on the Caughnawaga reserve. This is the second time that an attempt has been made to introduce white teachers among the Indians. On the first occasion, a Frenchman was sent down by the government but after an exciting wordy warfare between the indignant Indians, and the undesired teacher, the latter was withdrawn by the government, and the incident closed.

To a press representative this morning, Dr. A. C. Patton, the local physician, criticized the new suggestion which he says has arisen in connection with an aplication made by the Indians for additional school assistance.

In their total population of about 2,500 there are 125 boys and 175 girls going to school, each department having but two teachers, and when they applied for additional help, the doctor says, they were met with the announcement that in future the education would be supervised by a congregation of sister. Dr. Patton says the government is buying a block of property of Ida Jocks in order to adapt it as a residence for the sisters.

"The government," continued Dr. Patton, "should not build a residence for white people without first receiving our sanction, that is the law, and we are going to claim our rights. No white person has a right there without a permit, the whole of our 2,500 people will resent this new innovation.

"Twice recently we have held public meetings in the community, and on both occasions the people present unanimously protested against the new order and notified the department of the interior of their decision but as Dr. Roche is away in the west, no immediate reply is expected."

Menwhile the schools are closed for the holidays, and do not reopen until September but, says Dr. Patton, the teachers have been informed that their services here are no longer required.

Asked as to the precise grounds upon which the community objected to the introduction of the sister, Dr. Patton said:

First, their schools were in a more efficient state than they had ever been before.

Secondly, although the majority of their people were Roman Catholics, they did not want any orders in the reservation.

Thirdly, and upon this he laid great stress, the Indians were under a system of compulsory education, which they cheerfully submitted to—but only so long as they were able to exercise control over it.

"We do not want the nuns," said the doctor, "and if the government forces them upon us we will resist just as we did before when I locked the door against a teacher sent in opposition to our wishes and refused to open them until after he had left."

WORKINGMEN MAY BE REPRESENTED.

Ottawa, July 17.—The proposal to appoint to the senate a representative of labor is receiving a very considerable amount of sport, judging by letters which have been received at Ottawa. There are four vacancies from Ontario in the upper house and it is understood that the minister of labor is strongly in favor of selecting a labor representative for one of them, and that his nominee is Harvey Hall, of Toronto. Appointments are not likely to be made until the eve of the opening of parliament.

Once Bitten—Twice Shy.

Advertising may make a poor article sell for a while, but the most persistent advertising would not induce you to make a second purchase of a thing that turned out to be fraudulent, and the profit on the first sale would never pay for the advertising.

Do you not think the advertisers know this? They fully realize that the very first essential of success is to have something worthy, something that people want and will keep on buying.

If you see a thing advertised regularly week after week, year after year, it is safe to conclude that it possesses actual merit and is well worth its cost.

Wills

There is a period in the life of every man when he thinks about the future welfare of those dependent upon him. Sometimes this does not come until sickness overtakes him. Then he makes a will—but it may be made under wrong influence.

Had the will been made during good health, the most deserving persons—according to the deceased's wish—would have shared in the distribution of the estate.

Do you not realize that it is your sacred duty to no longer delay making your will?

The advice of the Dominion Trust company in this matter may be of value to you. All such discussions are treated in strict confidence.

Tug Hero Repaired.

After stripping her wheel the night before, the harbor tug Hero was at work again on Saturday. The accident was caused by striking a log off the Front street dock. Shortly after she was picked up by the tug Fearless and secured, the latter broke her propeller in landing a barge of sand and floated down stream before being picked up by the Senator Jansen and towed to her birth. The two tugs after being put on the ways on Friday were both back in service next day. While they were laid up two tugs from Capt. Joseph Mayer's fleet were used.

Serious Land Frauds.

Charged with conspiring to defraud, E. A. Lee, painter and glacier, is under arrest, and A. G. Closer is being locked for by the provincial police. It is alleged that Lee and Closer, by misrepresentation, induced a number of people of Tessier, Saskatchewan, to go into the Chilcoten country, some thirty-eight quarter sections being sold. The people referred to say the land is not as represented. They claim to have suffered great hardships in getting to the supposed land of promise, and many of them with their families are practically destitute as a result of their investment.

Prohibit Salmon Fishing.

Following the news received by local fishery officers that the Indians, with pack trains, were making for Hell's Gate, a point on the Fraser river near North Bend, and catching fish in the narrow waters there, an order was issued on Saturday by the department of Dominion fisheries, prohibiting for the time being, salmon fishing between Hope and Lytton, including the Coquahalla river. This step has been taken in order that the salmon may reach the spawning grounds on the upper reaches of the river and that the run of fish may continue in future years. The embargo will be raised in time for the Indians to secure their winter supply.

At the Theatres

THE ROYAL THEATRE.

Conditions governing "The Million Dollar Mystery" are as follows:

The prize of $10,000 will be won by the man, woman or child who write the most acceptable solution of the mystery, from which the last two reels of motion picture drama will be made and the last two chapters of the story written by Harold McGrath. Solutions may be sent to the Thanhouser Film Corporation, either at Chicago or New York, any time up to midnight, Dec. 14. They must bear post office mark not later than that date.

A board of three judges will determine which of the many solutions received is the most acceptable. The judgment of this board will be absolute and final. Nothing of a literary nature will be considered in the decision, nor given any preference in the selection of the winner of the $10,000 prize. The last two reels which will give the most acceptable solution to the mystery will be presented in the theatre having this feature as soon as it is practical to produce same. The story corresponding to these motion pictures will appear in the newspapers coincidentally, or as soon after the appearance of the pictures as practical.

Solutions to the mystery must not be more than one hundred words long. Here are some questions to be kept in mind in connection with the mystery as an aid to a solution.

No. 1—What becomes of the millionaire?

No. 2—What becomes of the $1,000,000?

No. 3—Whom does Florence marry?

No. 4—What becomes of the Russian countess?

Nobody connected directly or indirectly with "The Million Dollar Mystery" will be considered as a contestant.

The second episode of this wonderful series will be shown at the Royal today and tomorrow along with the regular program.

ROYALS CAN HARDLY BE HEADED FROM MANN CUP

Victoria Makes Miserable Showing on Saturday—Islanders Lose 12 to 2.

New Westminster amateur lacrosse players and prospective world's champions made the Victoria bunch look like a bunch of bushers at Queens park Saturday afternoon, the Royals romping away with a 12 to 2 victory in one of the slowest and most uninteresting games of the present season. Never at any period was the citadel guarded by Hugh Stoddart threatened to any extended period, the brace of tallies scored by the visitors in the last quarter coming as the result of riotous displays by Skinner Poulin's bunch in which four players were benched.

Saturday's game added another turn to the record of the Royals in their fight for the Mann cup and only one more win is needed to cinch for this season at least the coveted trophy which accompanies the title of world's champions.

From the first drop of the hat it was simply a procession on the part of New Westminster, the scoring glass pointing to two goals in the first quarter, four in the second, five in the third and dropping to three in the fourth, of which Victoria bagged two.

A glance at the penalty sheet would seem to indicate a rough contest from start to finish, but with the exception of a near riot in the fourth when Sergeant Pentland and Constable Ed. Johnston were compelled to do the hundred in quick fashion, there was nothing approaching former rough battles. Eighteen penalties were handed out, but this record was probably due to the officials shooing off men in the first stanza for trivial offences which later gave them little to do but to continue the work.

Cyril Baker, of Victoria, was the chief offender, getting three trips to the bench in the fourth quarter and was looking for more trouble as the gong sounded.

Murray was the star home man of the game, scoring three tallies himself while doing a powerful amount of work in the field. Storme too played a stellar game until the end of the third when he and Battson gave way to Allison and Nelson, the latter having been dropped in the first due to an injury sustained by a Victoria player.

The defence of the Royals could not have been bettered and once it was discovered that the visiting home was weak the local defence came to the assistance of their home. Gregory scored a long distance tally while so disgusted did Stoddart get as to the amount of work he was called upon to perform that twice the Royal custodian attempted to go through and score himself.

Next Saturday the V. A. C. journey to Victoria to complete their portion of the capitals schedule, while the following Saturday, August 1, will find New Westminster playing a crucial game in Vancouver.

NATIONALS AGAIN

Big Four Leaders Register Tenth Victory—Toronto Down the Tecumsehs.

Newsy Lalonde's Montreal Nationals have yet to lose a game in the Big Four this season. The prospective challengers for the Minto cup continued their scoring proclivities Saturday on the National grounds by running up a score of 17 to 9 against Jack Marshall's Irish Canadians. The former Quebec team was never in the running, even Johnny Howard failing to stop the flying Frenchmen when once they got started. Saturday's game gives the Nationals an average of 15 goals per game for this season.

At the Scarboro Beach grounds the Torontos doubled the score over Charlie Querrie's Braves, the Tecumsehs taking the short end of a 6 to 3 tally sheet.

Only one game was played in the N. L. U., Cornwall defeating the Shamrocks 8 goals to 2 at the Factory Town grounds.

Baseball Meeting Tonight.

There will be a meeting of the city baseball league this evening in the office of Manager Ryall, at 8 o'clock. There are a number of protests to come up for consideration, and addition arrangements will be made for the teams which are to play next Saturday.

BRANDT IN FORM

Fraser Mills Defeats Crack Team from Vancouver—Real Battle All the Way.

Eddie Brandt, the youthful hurler for Ciricle F, got away with a pretty game at Millside yesterday afternoon, the National Biscuit team of Vancouver taking the frayed end of a 4 to 1 score.

Scoring a single in the first inning Circle F was held safe until the last of the seventh, while the visitors were less better off by being shut out until the ninth when two hits sent in their lone score.

Dispite their defeat the visitors put up a scrappy brand of ball throughout the whole of the nine innings and made Circle F travel to win. Brandt's record of allowing four hits speaks for itself. The tall youngster had everything on the ball and was given almost perfect support by his team mates.

Huhnke, Windblad and Papke did the damage against Devlin, of the Nabiscos, one run being scored in the first, two in the seventh and one in the eighth. Papke's home run relieved the strike-out monotony.

Score:	R.	H.	E.
Nabiscos	1	4	5
Circle F	4	8	2

Batteries: Devlin and Grimmett; Brandt and Finch, Huhnke. Umpire A. Gay.

LOSE AT CRICKET

Vancouver Retains Lead in Mainland League—Royals Make Poor Display with Willow.

New Westminster was forced to take the count before the Vancouver cricket eleven on the asylum grounds on Saturday, the visitors getting away with a four wicket victory.

Batting first the Royals could only compile 122 against the excellent length maintained by Webb and Crane, the latter securing five wickets for 43, while Webb was also strong with four wickets for 32 runs. The locals were a little unfortunate in having Cave on the injured list, while Rose was also an absentee.

Runs came slow for Vancouver and it was not until after two hours play before the Westminster total was passed with six wickets down.

Wells and Duncan gained the batting honors for New Westminster, adding 69 between them. Guild was top scorer for Vancouver with 47. The only marring feature of the contest was the protest lodged by Barrs at Umpire Bartlett's decision of L. B. W., this, according to his fellow team mates, being the third time this season that he has maintained an unsportsmanlike attitude.

ANNUAL SHOOT

Marskmen Subjected to Trying Conditions Saturday—Sloan Makes Possible on Long Distance.

L. E. Walker's capture of the grand aggregate prize and also the Savoy hotel challenge cup; W. J. Sloan's possible on the thousand yards range and George Burr's score of 95 made in the first event were the features of the annual shoot held under the auspices of the New Westminster Civilian Rifle association on the Brownsville ranges on Saturday.

Dispite the fact that summer weather prevailed, atmospheric conditions such as haze, heat and a slight but tricky veering wind made the various competitions exceptionally difficult for the marksmen with the result that the average scores were below those made at the weekly shoots.

With a better light prevailing late in the afternoon W. J. Sloan came into his own on the long distance range by notching the only possibly of the day. He was closely followed by B. G. Walker, who scored a 34 on the same range.

The younger Walker's success on the grand aggregate came as a surprise to the veteran marksmen, although the score cards turned in by the Edmonds boy during previous events this summer rank him as a dangerous rifleman to beat.

Owing to several members of the match committee leaving for the beaches immediately following the shooting, the winners of the various events were not announced on Saturday, but will be taken up at a meeting to be held at J. H. Vidal's residence this evening.

HERE, YOU ANGLERS.

Onekama, Mich., July 17.—John Langdon, champion fisherman of Portage Lake, met defeat today at the hands, or fins, of a seventeen-pound pickerel and its ally, a nine-pounder, supposed to be its grandson.

Langdon has become so well known to the fish as a skillful angler that whenever he got into his boat the fish moved to the opposite end of the lake. His success was imperilled and he determined to outwit the fish, so he rigged up a dummy in his own fishing clothes, placed it in an anchored boat, disguised himself as a city angler and rowed to the other end of the lake expecting to surprise the fish.

After fishing an hour without a nibble, he became suspiciousous and rowed back to his dummy. He found that the two pickerel had pulled it out of the boat and were tearing it to pieces. Langdon vows they were laughing at him.

ADVERTISING FOR A PURPOSE
If you had a publication and a man came to you and said "Advertising with you is all right, my Ad. has paid for itself already," you would think you had a pretty good medium? That's what an advertiser said about the telephone directory the other day.
He has an article that very many people want. They might not want it just at the moment they read his Ad., but they see the announcement so often that when they do want what he has to offer they have no difficulty whatever in getting him on the telephone. They know just where to find his number.
That's what makes an Ad. count. An advertiser of a staple article is looking into the future. He is creating a demand by persistently suggesting the use of what he puts forward. He knows the time will come when people will want something of the kind, and naturally they will turn to where they have read about it.
If the Ad. is in the telephone directory, it can be referred to in a moment. The directory, being always kept in a known place, is instantly available and the Ad. is located without delay.
The virtues of an advertising medium are: a large circulation, to bring the name prominently to the attention of many people; and to be handy so that when an article is wanted the prospective buyer knows exactly where to locate information concerning it.
The telephone directory is just such an advertising medium.

SAANICH FORBIDS SUNDAY SHOOTING

Reported There That Game Is Decreasing—Roads Said to Be Unsafe for Travelers.

Victoria, July 19.—Sunday shooting is now prohibited in the Saanich municipality. The amended firearms by-law passed the final reading at the council meeting last night, and prohibits shooting at all from Gordon Head across to the head of Portage inlet and in the country to the south of this line. A petition had been before the council to amend the by-law so as to allow shooting on the peninsula east of the old powder manufactory and Cadboro bay, but the former prohibition will stand.

The amended by-law prohibits the discharge of firearms in any part of the municipality between sunset on Saturday evenings and sunrise on Monday morning, and also at any time within sixty feet of a public highway.

Complaints have reached the council from well informed quarters that the quantity of game of all kinds had been steadily decreasing in the district. The resident have suffered great inconvenience and at times danger from the reckless use of shotgun and rifle by boys and other people who flock out on Sundays from the city and who are apt—to use one Saanich man's expression—"to fire at anything that moves." People who come out motor cars have also been a nuisance, actually firing from the car long the roads, and either taking off their numbers or obscuring them so that they may not be identified by the police.

Many of the ranchers have their holdings fenced and yet have to be constantly about on Sundays warning strangers off their land, in spite of the fact that to enter fenced land in pursuit of game is a trespass.

SARDINIAN FEUD CLAIMS MANY LIVES

How It Commenced and the Bitter Manner in Which It Has Been Kept Up Eight Years.

Rome, July 19.—Brigandage, which in the early days of the present regime was a permanent peril to the lives of the people in many parts of Italy, has been very nearly stamped out for some time on the continent, chiefly through the untiring efforts of the Carabiniers, that fine body of soldier-police whose cocked hats and old-world uniforms are familiar to visitors in all parts of the peninsula.

Isolated cases, however, still occur, especially in outlying districts, such as Sicily and of Sardinia, and an encounter has just taken place in the latter island between three Carabineers and a band of armed miscreants in which a young non-commissioned officer of the "well-deserving" body, as the Carabineers are called, was killed, and also two of the outlaws. This is the last episode in a long series of murders and crimes spread over eight years which have convulsed an entire district. As is often the case among Italian peasants, this vindictive, unrelenting feud had its origin in questions of interest between relatives.

Brother and Sister.

A brother and sister, called Antonio Corraine and Giovanna Cossu, lived in the southwest of Sardinia at a place called Orgosolo, long famous for its bands of brigands. These two people had an old uncle, Diego Moro, the foundation of whose fortune was said to have been laid as the result of a successful career of brigandage.

When Moro died it was found that he had left two-thirds of his wealth to this niece, Giovanna Cossu, and only one-third to her brother, Antonio, who, together, with his family, considered that he had been unjustly used. Antonio consequently proposed that his son, Carmine, should wed Giovanna's daughter, "to keep the money in the family." His sister, however, refused to entertain the idea and a passion of hatred sprang up between the two families, and it was not long before they passed from threats to bloodshed.

In 1907 Carmine Corraine, the rejected suitor, quarreled with Egidio Poddu, a relative of the Cossu family, and was found one day among his flock with a bullet in his heart. Poddu was arrested and tried, but the jury declared that he had killed in legitimate defence, and he was liberated. The general opinion was that the verdict was due to the money and influence of the Cossu family, and the Corraines, hopeless of receiving justice, determined to avenage themselves. Then followed a series of crimes, and the next move was that two of the partisans of the Corraines, Onorato Succu and Francesco Devaddis, took to the wilds and became brigands of the most approved type. These utilized dynamite to blow up the house of the Cossus.

Family of Brigands.

When the police and Carabineers pursued the brigands all their efforts were stulified by the help and protection which, as is always the case in Italy, the outlaws received from the surrounding population. In 1913 Francesco Devaddis, one of the original brigands, surrounded by the Carabineers, died fighting like a lion. And, since it was the belief of the countryside that he had been betrayed by members of the Cossu family, the entire family of the Corraines joined the brigands, vowing to live for nothing but the extermination of the Cossus and all their followers.

So far the band has been guilty of at least twelve murders. The authorities, as a last resource, just a year ago arrested en masse no fewer than thirty of the well known friends and protectors of the brigands, but the only result was that four of the followers of the Cossu family were mutilated and murdered in the most horrible manner.

RAILWAY PIONEER DIES AT VICTORIA

William Newman Passes Away After Long and Eventful Career in British Columbia.

Victoria, July 19.—A pioneer railway official and one occupying a highly respected place among those who came to British Columbia when steel first surmounted the Rockies, bringing settlers to the verdant valleys of the Pacific, was laid to rest Friday in the person of William Newman, who has been prominently connected with the C. P. R. service since 1886 and has been road master of the E. & N. Railway company's system since 1905. Mr. Newman, who was 68 years old, had his first experience of ill health about six months ago, when he was the victim of an atack of pneumonia. This was the beginning of a steady decline, which has terminated fatally. He was acquainted personally with all old-timers in the employ of the company, whose sense of irreparable loss is sincere and whose heartfelt sympathy goes out to the widow and other members of the family in their bereavement.

Coming to Canada in 1884, or thereabouts, with experience in railway work in the old country at his back, Mr. Newman immediately was given employment on C. P. R. construction, his location being along the north shore of Lake Superior. In 1886 he was transferred to this province, and for eleven years his headquarters were at Donald, which then was a divisional point on the Dominion's first transcontinental railway, and at which were stationed R. Marpole, now vice-president of the E. & N. Railway, and H. E. Beasley, general superintendent of the company. In 1897 he was moved to Revelstoke, from which centre he exercised the authority of roadmaster over a large and important section of the C. P. R.'s main line. He continued to perform these onerous duties for eight years, when the C. P. R. took over the management of the Esquimalt and Nanaimo Railway. This occurred in 1905, and forthwith Mr. Newman was brought to the island to supervise the task of bringing the roadbed up to standard. For several years he held the joint position of roadmaster and bridge building master. When the two were separated he continued as roadmaster. During the last year he acted more in an advisory than an active capacity.

SIGNS OF PROSPERITY.

That continuous advancement is being made in every part of the province is shown by the statement of development published monthly in Telephone Talk, the magazine issued by the B. C. Telephone company. Thirty-nine telephone exchanges are operated and gains are recorded in nearly every instance, with very perceptible progress in the larger cities. Another article details extensions of outside plants which are in hand as well as additions to equipment in several of the offices. These are all on account of new business, indicating a live growth.

One of the feature articles in Telephone Talk this month is descriptive of Grand Forks and district. This city is fortunately situated, having the prairie-like farm lands in its immediate vicinity, and the illustrations show that it is up-to-date and progressive.

Seattle Paper Sees Danger for Whole Pacific Coast in Asiatic Arrivals in B. C.

On the subject of British Columbia's stand against the Hindus the Seattle Times says:

The persistent fight of the Hindus at Vancouver to obtain admission to Canada appears to be vain. Thus far, they have lost every battle in which they were engaged.

Even an effort to surprise the immigration officials and spirit the Orientals on the Komagata Maru away by stealth proved futile. The Canadian officials were "on the job" and thwarted the move.

This case is of interest not only to the neighboring Dominion but to the entire Pacific coast as well. A Hindu problem in British Columbia would have meant a Hindu problem in Washington and adjacent states.

Recent experience with Chinese shows that when Orientals are permitted to land in Canada, they cannot be kept out of the United States. Similarly, the Orientals coming to this country slip across the border, if they desire.

From all accounts, the movements of the dark-skinned subjects of the king-emperor to Canada is both economic and political in its scope. The politicians in Asia may not have engineered the scheme—as some angry souls are prone to declare—but it seems that they are taking full advantage of the circumstance.

The element in India which seeks to undermine British control has been using the exclusions of Hindus from British colonies as a means of furthering their ends. The native, of course, does not realize that Canada, for instance, is autonomous and makes its own laws to suit its own needs.

With significatn unanimity, two other great British possessions—Australia and South Africa—have moved to exclude the Hindus. Neither wants them and both are as determined as Canada not to have them inside their territorial lines.

Canada is the latest to take its stand determinedly upon this matter and it lines up solidly with the other self-governing colonies. Theoretically, the Hindu may have a right to go anywhere he desires inside the British empire, but practically he is an alien just so long as any of the self-governing colonies desires to keep him out.

FOUND HIM IN MORGUE

Sad Ending of Mrs. Smith for Her Missing Son.

Seattle, July 17.—When Mrs. Katherine Smith of 1614½ Seventh avenue returned home yesterday morning from a two weeks visit with friends at Port Gamble, she discovered that her son, James W. O'Mara, 28 years old, had been missing for several days. In the course of her search she happened to pass under the viaduct at Fourth avenue and Yesler way and noticed the public morgue sign on the door.

It was the end of an all-day search for there, stretched out on a slab, she found her boy. The mother, an elderly Englishwoman, crumpled under the shock and restoratives had to be given her by the attendants to avert a collapse. O'Mara had committed suicide.

"WIRE TAPPERS" ARE UNDER ARREST

Montreal, July 17.—The ten men arrested last night in the flat at 578 Dorchester street, which it is alleged was equipped for the old wire-tapping game, were re-arrested this morning on a charge of conspiracy to defraud. One more was added to the list, Wm. Stormount, one of the best known local "bookies." Bail was placed at $5000 each but not all of the prisoners could obtain the necessary bonds.

On "Summer Dullness"

Summer months are considered dull in most retail lines of business.

That is a fact which we must face. But let us go into the pros and cons of the subject and find out why it is a dull season.

They say the buyers go out of town in the summer. That is not so.

Some of the people do leave the city during the summer—but do you realize what a small per centage of the population is away at any one time? Eight hundred to a thousand at most. And the 19,000 who are left have as many wants in the summer as they have in the winter—and as much money with which to satisfy them.

They say people won't buy goods in the summer. That is the merchants' fault.

Do you remember when they wouldn't buy white goods in the winter time? Now they buy more white goods in January than in any other month in the year. Advertising in the newspapers made this change.

A few years ago the quietest spot on the face of the earth was a furniture store in February. Newspaper advertising has made it the biggest month with live merchants. You can sell snowshoes in August if you advertise them right.

Now let us get down to brass tacks.

The only reason why business is dull in summer time is because merchants let it be so. They let habit blind them to the business that can be had. It would not take many years to make the two weeks before Christmas dull—if the merchants quit advertising and acted as though there was no business to be had.

We know that the people of New Westminster are not all out of town—that they have the money to buy all they need—that they will buy goods out of season if they are urged to do so.

TENDERED DINNER BY FORMER PUPILS

Dr. R. A Little Highly Honored at an Enjoyable Affair Held in London Recently.

The following handed to The News, and taken from the London Advertiser, will be of interest to the friends and pupils of Dr. R. A. Little in this city:

Dr. R. A. Little, former vice-president of the London collegiate institute, was tendered a dinner last night by his old pupils, in the Indian room of the Tecumseh house. About 35 of the alumni of the school to which Dr. Little had been attached for many years were present.

The dinner was a most successful affair characterized by the good fellowship and feeling which was always so outstanding a characteristic of Dr. Little himself.

During the evening numerous telegrams and letters were received by Dr. Little from ex-pupils all over the country, expressing their regrets for their absence. One telegram was received from the Chicago branch of the old boys, expressing best wishes for Dr. Little.

Speaking upon the Hindu question which is at present creating such interest in the west, Dr. Little said that he voiced the opinion of most westerners when he declared that the Hindus would be better off by far in their own country, and Canada would be better off for their absence.

"They are 3000 years behind our western civilization," he said. "They come to this country to take all the country offers in civilization, but without becoming Christianized."

Dr. Little compared the west with this part of the country. "The east, and especially London, is a grand old place. There is no doubt about the progressiveness of the west; they have advanced ideas there and they are putting them into operation. The west is the place for the young man of ambition, but London still looks very good to me."

In British Columbia, he pointed out that practically all the great industries were in the hands of or were coming under the control of foreigners. The Japanese he said, were foremost in the salmon industry. Hindus are cutting a hold for themselves despite the opposition of the whites, into the lumber interests and much of the extensive market gardening of the whole province is done by Chinese.

Principal of the New Westminster high school since he has been in the west, Dr. Little has become closely acquainted with the educational system of the province.

The three fundamental principles for a broad education, he said, were instruction, inspiration and expression. Here, in the east, the young people get too much instruction, without enough of the other two things, which count so much, he declared.

Dr. Little spoke highly of the system of education and especially of the collegiate educational system in British Columbia. Students receive more practical and broader education, he said, because they have plenty of recreation. The New Westminster school is at present building a $12,000 gymnasium. The time tables of the high schools are regulated, the speaker said, so that the study hours of the pupils are less than here, while the work of instruction is much more efficient. Pupils do more work and better work, in a shorter time, he said.

HUERTA PLANS TO VISIT U. S.

nation was entirely an act of patriotism. He dwelt upon his devotion to his country, which has run red with blood since he assumed the dictatorship after the overthrow and assassination of President Madero.

General Huerta will be accompanied on the Dresden by General Blanquet. Only the families of the two former leaders will be with them on the cruiser. Forty other members of the party will leave here tonight on the steamship City of Mexico for Texas City. They will sail by way of Vera Cruz. An unsuccessful effort was made to charter the steamship but the party, mostly women, will sail as ordinary passengers.

In an interview granted late tonight, General Huerta, although refusing absolutely to discuss politics, admitted that the greatest ambition of his life is to meet Francisco Villa on the battlefield.

Shows No Dissappointment.

For a man about to quit his native country an exile, in his declining years, Huerta seems unusually buoyant, the alphabet of his face spells no mighty disappointment and those who expected him to stand dramatically like a lone antagonist of destiny have been proved mistaken. Physically he appears unaffected by the straining events of the past seventeen months, his weatherbeaten countenance being aglow with health and spirits and he has lost none of the vigorous earnestness of manner.

It was officially reported that the entire colony of Huerta expatrates will ultimately establish a permanent colony in Spain, although Huerta himself intends to travel a bit in Europe before settling down there.

All morning long Huerta and General Blanquet held a series of conferences in the private car. The blinds were drawn and the crowds who gathered were unable to obtain a glimpse of the ex-dictator. But it is known that the indigestion with which Huerta was bothered upon his arrival was successfully knocked out by two stiff drinks of cognac.

Naval officers from the gunboat Baragoza paid their respects during the morning as did also Captain Kohler of the German cruiser Dresden and his staff officers.

HINDUS IN REVOLT ON KOMOGATA MARU

No Shots Fired.

Chief McLennan afterwards expressed himself as very pleased that despite the provocation no shots were fired by his men or by the immigration officials, strict orders having been issued prior to the departure from the dock that no firearms should be discharged and that they should simply be used to overawe the Hindus. Several shots were fired during the melee but they came from the deck of the Komogata Maru, according to the statement of the police officers and the officials.

The determined attitude of the Komogata passengers was emphasized at the very outset when Inspector Hopkinson, having preceded the Sea Lion by half an hour for the purpose of interviewing Gurdit Singh, was very definitely informed that unless they received a written statement from the two local Hindus that the charterers had given permission for the steamer to depart, they would not allow the ship to go.

Life in Danger.

Furthermore a friendly Hindu on the steamer told Mr. Hopkinson that if he came on the ship he would be in danger of death.

Following the Sea Lion adventure the strictest patrol was maintained throughout the remainder of the night in case any attempt should be made by the Hindus to get ashore. It is suspected, owing to the nature of the missiles hurled on the Sea Lion that the Hindus have looted the engine room of parts of the machinery and this may have an important bearing on the departure of the vessel as with portions of the engines and fittings missing it may be impossible to propel the steamer.

Information to the immigration officials late in the evening was to the effect that the preparations of the crew to get up steam in the boilers would be interferred with by the Hindus. Threats were also made to the stokers. Acting on this information Superintendent Reid communicated with Chief of Police McLennan who made ready to visit the Maru.

Entrance Examinations.

The results of the high school entrance examinations, which was held on June 22, 23 and 24, at seventy-one different centres throughout the province, have just been announced by the department of education. The total number of candidates was 3,124, out of which 2,063 succeeded in passing.

Miss Dorothy Blakey of the Henry Hudson school, Vancouver, who secured 930 marks out of a possible 1,100, has the honor of securing first place.

The ten bronze medals which are donated annually by His Royal Highness the Governor-General, and distributed by the department among the head pupils of the ten cities having the greatest number of passes to their credit, were won by the following candidates: Ethel A. Davis, Armstrong; Jennie Thomson, Chilliwack; George E. Fletcher, Kelowna; Olive B. Lawrence, Nanaimo; Ruth M. Carlson, Nelson; Lacey J. Fisher, John Robson school, New Westminster; Manel A. Simmons, Revelstoke; Dorothy Blakey, Henry Hudson school, Vancouver; Z. Mary R. Garnett, Ridgeway school, North Vancouver; Dudley F. Pegrum, Boys' Central school, Victoria.

It is interesting to note, and will be a matter of special pride and gratification to all interested in the New Westminster schools to note that the high school of this city makes an exceptionally strong and commendable showing. Both the John Robson and F. W. Howay schools are in the very front rank and it is extremely doubtful if any other high school in the province can make as equally strong showing.

The averages of all the schools in the province figures out about 67 1-2 per cent, while the New Westminster schools show an average of 82 per cent.

A further point of commendation is the fact that one of the ten medal winners is a pupil of the John Robson school, in the person of Lacey J. Fisher, a son of Mrs. C. C. Fisher of this city. It will be remembered that two years ago a winner of the medal was Miss Naveleine Fisher, a sister of the present honor pupil. The result of the examination is certainly most commendable to the city schools and a most favorable reflection upon all who have the management of the schools in their charge.
