EX-PRESIDENT TAFT IS TAKEN TO TASK

Senator Hoke Smith Appeals for Government Honesty.

Favors Repeal of Tolls and Says Hay-Pauncefote Treaty Is Part of Title to Canal Zone.

Washington, May 12.—Senator Hoke Smith of Georgia, today championed repeal of the clause in the Panama canal act granting exemption of tolls to American vessels in the coastwise trade. He told the senate he would vote for repeal "because of our treaties with Great Britain and Panama" and because in his opinion "it is right that the owners of these vessels should bear, for using the canal, a fair part of the cost of our government of building and operating it."

Senator Smith contended that coastwise vessels will naturally stop at the ports of Cuba, Mexico, Central America, Panama and perhaps elsewhere. Their cargoes will not be limited exclusively to bona fide coastwise traffic of the United States.

"Traffic from foreign countries will be unloaded at ports of the United States to be immediately loaded on a coastwise vessel for passage through the canal for the opposite coast of the United States, thus in reality carrying through the canal foreign traffic on the coastwise vessels without paying tolls."

Reviews Tolls Legislation.

Reviewing the history of the Panama tolls legislation, in quoting from a speech credited to ex-President Taft early this year, the senator said:

"Mr. Taft was wrong in supposing that the idea of Democratic senators and congressmen in voting to free the coastwise trade from tolls was to give a subsidy to our coastwise ships.

"Had they known that he considered it necessary under the treaty to fix the tolls at a rate which the establishment of payment of tolls by the coastwise vessels, thus making the freedom of coastwise vessels from paying tolls a clear subsidy, Democrats would not have disregarded their party platform and the established principles of their party by voting for this subsidy."

Is Part of Title.

Senator Smith declared that the Hay-Pauncefote treaty was made a part of the title to the canal zone in the treaty of conveyance from Panama and that talk of terminating it from a legal standpoint was "absurd."

Termination of the treaty, he asserted, "would compel us to give up the canal unless we abandoned our attitude as a low abiding nation and resorted alone to battleships and brute force to keep the property."

Outlining the interest which Canada and the countries of South America had in the tolls controversy, Senator Smith said: "When the president in his message referred to 'other difficulties' to be caused by the passage of our coastwise vesesls through the canal without charge, while I do not speak ex-cathedra, I may well conceive that he had in view our general relations with all our neighbors in America and not what many have suggested, some ulterior purpose in connection with the government of Great Britain."

TERRIBLE TRAGEDY AT VICTORIA

Archie Young Murders His Wife By Cutting Her Throat—Suicide Then Attempted.

Victoria, May 12.—One of the most gruesome murders ever committed in Victoria occurred today, when Archie Young murdered his wife in her bed by slitting her throat from ear to ear, and then attempted suicide with the same weapon. He now lies in the St. Joseph's hospital in a dying condition. Jealousy is believed to have been the cause of the crime.

The double tragedy occurred at noon when the streets were thronged with people. Suddenly cries rang out from the block and out of the door rushed Mrs. Young, clad only in a night dress, and with her head almost severed from her body. Reaching the sidewalk she threw up her arms and fell with a thud to the ground. Mrs. Young died before the hospital was reached following the arrival of the police ambulance.

The police upon entering the couple's room were confronted with another horrible sight. Young was found lying on his side on the bed which was filled with blood. Both the murdered woman and the husband are young

London, May 12.—The British cruiser Bristol now stationed at Portsmouth was ordered to proceed to Tampico as speedily as possible.

Toronto, May 12.—The proposal to establish a municipal golf links in a little-frequented part of High Park, was killed yesterday by the parks commission by a vote of five to three. It was feared that the city might be liable for damages to citizens injured by flying balls.

TRAIN ROBBER IS CAUGHT BY CREW.

San Francisco, May 12.—After robbing passengers on the incoming Coast Line Limited train, of $500 in cash and $1,000 in jewelry tonight, a bandit became engaged in a pistol duel with two railroad detectives in the dining car and was shot in the chest and arm.

A cook then rushed in from the kitchen and clubbed the man over the head, knocking him senseless. He was brought under guard to San Francisco and taken to an emergency hospital. He probably will recover.

From letters found on him the man is believed to be James Hogue, a former railroad man of Flagstaff, Ariz.

MISS WILSON'S VOICE RECORD NOW ON SALE.

Washington, May 12.—Social and official Washington is gossiping and fuming over an advertisement in all the Washington newspapers announcing that "Miss Margaret Woodrow Wilson, daughter of the president," had sung exclusively for a graphophone company and that three of the records are now on sale at from $1 to $1.50.

Accompanying the advertisement was a signed testimonial from Miss Wilson and her portrait.

Social Washington is dividing into two camps on the subject. One defends Miss Wilson and holds there is no impropriety in her turning an honest peny by selling her voice to the canned music company. Others, and thesee are the older residents, maintain her action is unprecedented—a charge that does not stir the Wilson family greatly—and that it is in bad taste.

LIQUOR DECISION IS FAR-REACHING

Judgment of Magistrate Clute Practically Means "Open Town" in New Westminster.

That the city started on the wrong foot when it instituted procedings against F. L. Johnson and the Strand hotel for serving liquor with a meal in the cafe of the hotel during prohibited hours, was the gist of the judgment handed down yesterday morning in the police court by Acting-Magistrate Clute. The judgment is considered important since the prosecution was instituted under the British Columbia Liquor Act and not under the civic by-law, which, as amended last year, proved worthless.

George E. Martin, of the firm of McQuarrie, Martin & Cassady, city solicitors, who was opposed by W. F. Hansford for the defence, views the magistrate's decision with considerable concern and will advise the city to take the case to appeal in order to settle the question beyond discord.

Magistrate Clute's judgment, which is the first of its kind under the act since that piece of legislation was amended, practically means, says Mr. Martin, the wipeing out of the prohibition to sell liquor in cafes during what are now known as "prohibited hours" and leaves the city facing the possibility of an "open town" as far as liquor selling is concerned.

The city has ten days in which to give notice of an appeal and it is altogether likely that such notice will be served without delay as soon as the matter is brought officially to the attention of the board of license commissioners.

Judgment in Full.

Following is Magistrate Clute's judgment in full:

Rex vs. Frank L. Johnson and Strand hotel.

The accused is charged with selling liquor after hours contrary to Sec. 73 of Chap. 142 R.S. B.C. (See section substituted Chap. 140 of 1913) under guise of providing same with alleged meal.

There is no dispute as to the facts. Some three couples, after dancing at the May Day ball and being tired and hungry, enter the Strand hotel restaurant at about a quarter to two in the morning of May 2, 1914. They order food and afterwards beer. The food is served, consisting of bread and butter, chicken, dill pickles and coffee, for which 30 cents per plate is paid, and half a dozen pints of beer are consumed at 25 cents per pint.

It was shown that regular meals are supplied at all hours at his hotel and there was nothing to show that there was any subterfuge in obtaining the drink on this occasion, the primary object being food. I am confining myself strictly to the evidence as presented in this case. I can quite see where it would be easy to evade Clause 4, Sec. 76 of Chap. 142, as amended in 1913, but no such attempt seems to have been made here.

After consideration of the cases quoted I find that these people were guests in the dining room and that they were supplied with beer at a bona fide meal. As to the construction to be placed upon the word "regular" I have nothing to guide me except common sense. Regular meals at this hotel are supplied at all hours. True, there is a table d'hote meal furnished at a flat rate during certain hours, but the regular boarders consume their food at all hours and often pay a la carte. Meal tickets are issued, good at all hours for whatever is ordered.

I think the intention of the legislature was to prevent drinking in restaurants or hotels after prohibited hours under color of satisfying hunger. The evidence adduced here does not support such a charge and I dismiss the case.

GRIMSBY ELECTION WON BY TECKLER

Unionist Candidate Returns to the House With 278 Majority.

Northeast Derbyshire Caused Surprise By Split in Progressive Vote.

London, May 12.—The result of the by-election in Grimsby today was the return to the house of commons of T. G. Tickler, Unionist, with a majority of 278. The vote tood: Tickler, Unionist, 8471; Bannister, Liberal, 8193.

London, May 12.—Polling in the Great Grimsby by-election is proceeding today. The vote probably will be heavy, many owners of fleets holding their smacks until their crews have registered their votes. The result is most uncertain owing chiefly to the personal influence of Sir George Douhgty, the late member who died April 27.

Mortification is exhibited in Northeast Derbyshire over the split in the progressive vote, which is accentuated in the statement by J. Ramsay Macdonald, chairman of the Labor party.

Liberal-Labor Split.

"What business have the Liberals to ask us to refrain from running a candidate in other constituencies?" he asked. "We are told that in the interests of home rule and the cause of democracy there must be no split votes. The prime minister said the other day that an understanding between the two parties was necessary. Undoubtedly the action of the Liberals at this election will put everything in the melting pot. Its evil effects will go far and be felt a long time."

Both sides at Ipswich, Suffolk, have decided to defer definite arrangement until after the funeral on Friday of Rev. S. Silvester Horne, the late Liberal member, who died on the steamer Corona just outside Toronto harbor on May 2.

Appeal to Unionists.

An appeal highly significant of the present anxiety felt by official Nationalists, appears in the Freeman's Journal, one of the most prominent Nationalist organs. The appeal asks the Irish Unionists to accept the home rule bill as inevitable and suggests that after the bill becomes law Mr. John Redmond and Sir Edward Carson should try to settle the out standing differences between the north and the south.

"In such circumstances," says the journal, "it will be hard to limit the extent to which the Irish Nationalists would go to meet Sir Edward Carson with a view to a friendly settlement."

Seeing that the appeal entirely ignores Ulster's refusal to come under a Dublin parliament, it is unlikely that it will meet with much response

SAWMILL BURNS WITH $25,000 LOSS

Sullivan Bros.' Property Goes Up in Smoke as Result of Afternoon Fire.

When on the point of commencing cutting after a shut-down of two weeks, the sawmill of Sullivan Bros., located at Sullivan station on the Fraser Valley line of the B. C. E. R., caught fire yesterday afternoon, damage to the extent of $25,000 being caused.

A desperate battle was fought with the flames, the 60 employees of the mill being augmented by several score neighbors and friends from Cloverdale and the surrounding country, who organized a bucket brigade with good effect.

Only the veering of the wind at an opportune moment saved the entire plant from destruction, the flames being headed off the single mill and store houses which contained machinery and cut lumber worth thousands of dollars. Some 250,000 feet of lumber went up in smoke before the wind changed.

A B. C. E. R. passenger train was flagged at the station, the advance car being utilized in saving a loaded box car which was standing in the siding.

Reeve Sullivan of Surrey, a member of the firm, arrived in the city last night, warm with praise at the efforts of the men and the farmers who assisted in saving a considerable portion of the plant. Mr. Sullivan stated it was the intention to rebuild just as soon as the insurance matter is settled, no stop being made in the operation of the shingle mill. He believes that sparks from the engine must have ignited some shavings and caused the blaze.

AUSTRALIAN BONDS SELL FOR MILLIONS

Premier Digby Denham Returns Home After Successful Mission.

Debentures to the Amount of $10,000,000 Over-subscribed Four Times in Ninety Minutes.

Vancouver, May 12.—Returning from a highly satisfactory trip to London, where he went to float a loan of £2,000,000 for his government, Hon. Digby Denham, premier of Queensland, Australia, is registered at the Hotel Vancouver. He will leave for Australia on the liner Niagara tomorrow.

"We were most successful in this loan, which was for public works," said Hon. Mr. Henham this morning. "The debentures were advertised as being for sale at 10 o'clock on Friday morning and it was stated that sale would close on Monday at noon. So great was the rush to take up the loan that we had to close the sale at 11:30 o'clock on Friday morning and it was then four times over-subscribed. This money we will use in the building of public works principally, more especially railways, which are of course state owned."

Asked as to the state of the money market in the old country, Mr. Denham said:

Money Market Sensitive.

"The money market is, of course, very sensitive, not only on acocunt of Ulster but through the Mexican situation and is liable to great fluctuations. Premier Asquith's assumption of the war minister's portfolio had a steadying effect on the market and it was primarily due to this that we were so successful with our loan, I think."

Much of this £2,000,000 will go into municipal works, states Hon. Mr. Denham. The system adopted by Queensland in dealing with municipal loans is for the state government to borrow the money on the European market and then re-loan to the various municipalities at 4 per cent.

"In this way we are able to keep a close check on the borrowings of the various cities and towns and they are never allowed to over-borrow. This has had the effect of strengthening our credit on the money markets of the world," he went on. "Brisbane North and South are allowed to borrow by issuing their own debentures but they are the only places that are allowed to do so. The money is paid back to us according to what kind of work it is being spent on."

Big Loss to Canada.

That the action of the federal authorities in "cutting out" Brisbane as a port of call on the Canadian-Australian service meant a big loss of both Queensland and Canada in trade is Hon. Mr. Denham's opinion.

"We were just beginning to work up a nice reciprocal trade between the two countries when the federal government decided to make Sydney the port of call for Australia. Now, it is too expensive for us to send our farm produce to Sydney for transshipment to the boats and it is too costly for us to bring in many Canadian goods for the same reason. It is too bad that this should be and the people in my state were very angry about it and are still."

The State of Queensland, he says, is at present and has been for the past ten years in a very prosperous condition and is forging ahead as rapidly as any of the other Australian states. The country is an agricultural one depending to a great extent on rainfall and as this has been plentiful for some years there is a good deal of money in the land.

MEXICAN BANDIT DEMANDS REVENGE

Rodrigo Quevedo, the Outlaw, Would Murder Three Americans for Every Mexican Killed.

Juarez, May 12.—No word of the progress of the assault on Tampico by constitutionalists reached here today. Since the word was received of the opening of the attack Sunday night every channel of news has remained closed. Not only have the border points been unable to learn the progress of the fighting, but rebel leaders at Torreon have been without reports.

Three American lives are the price that will be collected by General Rodrigo Quevedo for every bandit in his command killed by constitutionalist soldiers, according to a defi from Quevedo today. Quevedo said he would kill Americans at the ratio of three to one for his own losses in revenge for the action of the big Northern Chihuahua Cattle Company, owned by Americans, which had demanded protection of the constitutionalists. As a result of that representation a force of constitutionalist cavalry was sent out from Juarez which has been in pursuit of the bandits, and has killed several of them in a running fight.

Quevedo in his communication said that already his men had begun to carry out the threat to destroy the windmills of various cattle companies. He said, however, that they would not destroy all the windmills immediately but would burn enough to show their threat was in earnest.

FINE TRIBUTE TO BE PAID TO J. J. HILL.

Among the men supporting the movement are Geo. E. Baker, Howard Elliott, Robert Lincoln, J. P. Morgan and Robert Bacon. It is their intention to raise a fund of $250,000 and make the chair a permanent one.

TOUR OF INSPECTION.

Sir Richard McBride and Other Prominent Gentlemen in City Yesterday.

Premier Sir Richard McBride and party arrived in the city yesterday morning where they boarded the special Canadian Northern Railway train for a tour of inspection along the new line as far as Cisco where the night was spent. Mayor Gray and Thomas Gifford, M.L.A., joined the party in this city, a start being made at 8.30 o'clock. Besides the premier the party consisted of the following: Attorney- General Bowser, Mayor Beckwith of Victoria, Mr. Shallcross, president of the Victoria board of trade; Mayor Baxter of Vancouver; President Rogers, of the Vancouver board of trade; Mayor Gray, of New Westminster; Thomas Gifford, M.L.A., and Chief Engineer White of the Canadian Northern Railway.

PEACE NOW REIGNS IN STRIKE DISTRICT

Military Authorities Keeping Strict Watch Over Mines—Few Guns Being Surrendered.

Trinidad, Colo., May 12.—Five strike breakers were deported today by the military authorities at Aguilar when they applied for work in the Royal mine. Capt. Johnston, in charge of the district, was informed by strikers that the five men were attempting to go to work in the mine and that the strikers objected to their presence there. Capt. Johnston ordered the men brought to the military camp and learned from them that they had not worked at the mine prior to April 20, subsequent to which date Col. Lockett's proclamation prohibited strikebreakers from entering the mine. Capt. Johnston ordered them taken to the Colorado and Southern depot where they were put aboard a train bound for Denver.

Concerning conditions in the Aguilar district, P. E. Quinn, union leader, stated tonight:

"Conditions in that section of the strike zone are perhaps better than in any other part. Capt. Johnston has secured and held the trust and faith of the strikers as well as the operators. The strikers have been treated fairly and that treatment has done more toward inducing the men to surrender their arms than all our talking could have done."

New Tent Colony.

At Ludlow, back of the site of the old tent colony, the first new white canvas was spread today and Mr. Quinn, who is expected to have charge of the colony, stated that others would follow tomorrow. Streets were laid out for the tent city today and everything put in readiness for the removal of the strikers from the colony at San Rafeal Heights as soon as possible.

The surrender of guns continued dispiritedly today, except in the Aguilar district, where a considerable but undetermined number have been received.

Peace in Colorado.

Peace reigns throughout the southern Colorado strike zone and union officials, mine operators and citizens today expressed the opinion that this condition would continue indefinitely. No new orders were received today by Col. Lockett, commanding the forces, from the war department. The matter of passing upon the colonists at Ludlow, the man to be in charge of them, the beginning of possible seizure and search of persons for fire arms were the developments which were discussed by the military authorities, preparatory to action tomorrow.

REGIMENTAL PARADE SUNDAY AFTERNOON

Six Companies of the One Hundred and Fourth Will Appear in Dress Uniform.

The regiment, in dress uniform, will leave the armories, Sixth street, shortly before 3 o'clock and will be composed of six companies, four from this city and two from Chilliwack. It will be headed by the bugle band of the Sixth Duke of Connaught's Own, of Vancouver.

OUTLOOK HOPEFUL WAR BE AVERTED

President Wilson Optimistic as to Result of Mediation Meeting.

Case of Five South Americans Charged With "Sniping" Soldiers Under Consideration.

Washington, May 12.—Expressions of confidence that mediation would be successful in averting war between the United States and Mexico came today from several members of the cainet after President Wilson had discussed the situation with his official family.

The president is decidedly hopeful. He is anxious that no untoward incidents or indiscretionary acts upon the part of the forces in Mexico should develop to cloud the horizon when the mediation conference begins at Niagara Falls next Monday.

Secretary Bryan explained to the three South American mediators in a conference that the lighthouse on Lobos island had not been seized in any military sense; that the keepers were free to come and go, but the American navy had undertaken to keep the lights burning as a protection to the world's shipping. Mr. Bryan also told the mediators that the navy and war departments were seeking to learn the facts concerning the arrest of the five South Americans accused of "sniping" during the landing at Vera Cruz and that a report would be made, probably tomorrow.

President Sees O'Shaughnessy.

Nelson O'Shaughnessy, who as charge d'affaires, conducted the business of the American embassy at Mexico City during the months of stress in which relations with the Huerta government, were in a tense and critical state, conferred tonight with President Wilson at the White House. It was the first talk he had had with the president since his arrival and it was understood that some of the indignities, including the Tampico incident which led to the break with Huerta, were discussed as well as some details that might come up in the mediation conferences.

Representatives Await Word.

Justice Lamar and Frederick Lehman, chosen to represent the United States at the mediation conference, awaited word early today from Secretary Bryan before completing arrangements for their missions.

Consul W. E. Alber, from Mazatlan, reported to the state department today for instructions. He stated that between 14,000 and 16,000 rebels were in the vicinity of Mazatland when he left. At that time they were projecting troops on the firing line alternating thousands in the hope of wearing out the federals.

All Quiet at Vera Cruz.

Just before the cabinet met a message was received from General Funston at Vera Cruz in which the American commander declared no attention should be paid to "alarmist reports" that Mexican forces were threatening to attack the Vera Cruz waterworks. General Funston said there was no indication of movements of Mexican troops in preparation for any such attack.

"There have been rumors," General Funston's message read, "that an attempt was threatened. These have been due to remarks attributed to General Maas. The waterworks can not be taken from us by force. If the pipeline should be cut, it could be repaired in a few hours."

Gen. Funston added that 200 sacks of American mail destined for Mexico City and delivered at the break in the railroad still lay on the tracks in possession of the Mexican outposts. He had no news of Private Parks, who rode into the Mexican lines and has not returned.

The Case of "Snipers."

Among the issues the President and the cabinet had under consideration was the appeal from the Brazilian minister at Mexico City to Gen. Funston on behalf of five South Americans now under arrest at Vera Cruz for "sniping" American soldiers from a tramp steamer. Three Brazilians are among the prisoners, and the appeal, coming from a diplomatic representative of one of the mediating nations, has presented a problem for decision. The manning by American forces of the lighthouse of Lobes Island off Tampico, which Huerta's foreign minister has protested, is a violation of the armistice, also was taken up in the cabinet meeting.

WILL CAMP AT VERNON.

Members of Coquitlam and Burnaby Horse Will Enjoy an Outing.

Members of the Coquitlam Burnaby troops of the 31st B. C. Horse will entrain for Vernon on Sunday next, where they will go into camp for a period of two weks. The final parade of the Burnaby troop will take place on Thursday night when extra uniforms and kit will be issued out.

Burnaby will field the largest number among the lower mainland troops, some 20 to 25 men having signified their intention of going into camp. Coquitlam will probably send along 12 under the command of Lieut. W. S. Rose. About half the Coquitlam troopers will ship their horses to Vernon, the rest being supplied by the government.

A DIFFERENCE IN WOMEN.

Which group of women do you suppose command the more respect, those who were carried scratching and shrieking from the theatre in London the other evening during a royal performance or those who, at Victoria the other day subscribed to the opinion that it was foolish and wrong to adopt militant tactics?

One speaker at the meeting of the Equal Suffrage league in the provincial capital struck some of the truest notes which have yet been heard in the campaign for votes for women and her utterances will do much to secure for women the coveted franchise. This lady made three strong points: First that the rapidly growing foreign vote in this country soon would force men to offer women equal rights at the polls to offset the outside influence; second that destruction and rioting were old, worn-out methods, and third that women could do more to attain their end bv educating their children along the right lines, so that when the sons became men and legislators they would not require deputations to convince them of the rights of womanhood.

It is certain that the women of this country will not have to wait for their children to grow up to secure the vote, at least not so long as they adhere to the sane methods of working which have characterized their efforts in the past; therefore, it would be the greatest setback the cause could experience to allow any hint of Pankhurstism to creep into operations here. Men gradually are becoming educated to view the suffrage question in the right light, but those same men who are beginning to think along such lines would be the first to oppose the granting of the suffrage to women who countenanced militant methods.

A NEW SCHEME FOR SWINDLING

Two Winnipeg Detectives Arrested on Charge of Attempted Extortion of $1,000.

Strathmore, Alta., May 12.—T. F. Noakes and P. J. Brown, Winnipeg detectives, who, with J. W. Davies are under arrest on the charge of attempting to extort $1,000 from D. C. Williams, a well known local resident, were charged before a justice of the peace here today and remanded. If they are committed they will be tried in Calgary.

Feeling in the town is very strong against the men, and in the event that the detectives are allowed to go the mounted police will probably escort them to some place of safety.

Davies' story was that he had embezzled $1,000 from the Imperial Bank of Winnipeg, which he claimed to have sent to D. O. Williams, an old time friend. Then he came from Winnipeg to Strathmore, accompanied by the detectives and claimed the money. Williams insisted that he had never received it, and the detectives threatened him with arrest unless he produced it.

The story stampeded Williams and he started out to raise the money which he thought would keep him from jail. He had succeeded in raising $700 by making sacrifices of personal effects and borrowing what he could from his friends.

Local officials learned of what was going on through Williams' efforts to borrow the money and the detectives and Davies were arrested.

The council has instructed Municipal Clerk Heighway to prepare a by law making it compulsory to secure burning permits in Point Grey during the month of May, June, July, August and September. The permits may be secured from the fire chief. The new by-law is rendered necessary by the order-in-council relieving residents in the lower Fraser Valley from the necessity of taking out permits.

That people canont pack whisky around Summerland indiscriminately was evidenced a few days ago when Constable Graham opened a pack was carefully adjusted on a horse being ridden by a small boy, of perhaps thirteen years, and confiscated a number of bottles. This was brought in by a man who got off the morning boat and transferred to the keeping of the boy between the upper and lower towns.

The mudslide in the river just above the waterworks bridge, at Fernie, is wearing away slowly although there is still a danger to the bridge and to the city's water supply should there be very high water this year, or if a jam of logs should pile up on the mud and divert the current into the bank on the east side at the approach to the bridge. Should the bridge go out Fernie would be in a sweet scented jackpot.

A pleasing little ceremony took place Friday afternoon at Nanaimo at the regular monthly meeting of the Loyal Daughters of the Church, which was held at the house of the president, Miss aYtes, when the Rev. Canon Silva-White, who leaves on May 30 for England, was presented with a beautiful gold-mounted fountain pen and an address which proved how much the members have appreciated his interest in their work.

Travelling alone, two children arrived at Vancouver from Granby Bay Thursday evening on their way to England, leaving by the C. P. R. train Saturday night for the east. The elder of the two, Henry Billson, is 11 years of age, while his sister Dorothy is only four. Harry regards himself more in a paternal sense than as an elder brother in view of the disparity in their ages. The pair came down from the north on the Chelohsin and were looked after on board that vessel until they were placed on the Imperial express and recommended to the good offices of the train men and sleeping and dining car conductors. Relatives will meet the "kiddies" in Liverpool when they arrive there on the Empress of Britain. They are the children of Mrs. Agnes Billson of Granby Bay.

ALASKA BOUNDARY NEARLY DEFINED

Broad Line Across 600 Miles of Country Divides Canadian Territory From American.

Sitka, Alaska, May 12.—Scarring a broad line across 600 miles of wilderness in the far north, in order that the possessions of the United States and Canada may have a distinct separation at every point, will be completed during the coming open season. The work has been in progress since 1907 under the direction of Thomas Riggs, Jr., civil engineer, representing the United States Alaskan boundary commission, and T. D. Craig, representing a similar commission of Canada.

Although the United tSates and Canada have been neighbors in the far north for over half a century, the exact dividing line between their possessions, especially as to the northern portion, was, previous to this survey, indefinite and conflicting. Many disputes arising, the two governments decided, finally, through their commissions, that an absolute survey, clearly established, and marked for all time, should be made along the 141st meridian, from the Mount St. Elias Alps, on the Pacific, to the Arctic ocean, a distance of approximately 600 miles.

Hardy Classes Afford Workers.

The United States surveying party consisted of from 60 to 80 men each season since the work was undertaken. Chief Engnieer Riggs, himself a young college man, selected his aids from the hardiest classes—cowboys, forest rangers, prospectors, timber cruisers and frontiersmen, with a liberal sprinkling of engineers. New expeditions were organized each spring, although many of the men who started at the beginning have remained in the service up to now. It was the custom, too, to leave a few men in the north each winter to care for equipment and supplies.

The actual visible result of the six or seven years of efforts is a 20-foot vista cut, like a gigantic avenue or lane, through all timber and brush districts, together with monuments set at intervisible points, from three to four miles apart.

Two Tpyes of Monuments.

The manuments erected are of two types, depending upon the importance of the locality. At prominent stream crossings and main points of travel the line marker consists of a five-foot aluminum bronze shaft, weighting 300 pounds, set in 2,000 pounds of concrete. At less important points the monument is smaller, being designated as a cone, cast of the same metal, and requiring only 1,500 pounds of concrete for the base. There are approximately 200 of these monuments along the 600 miles of boundary. The work of conveying the heavy materials for their construction, mostly on pack animals, sometimes on the shoulders of the men themselves, was very slow and laborious.

This survey is declared by engineers to be the straightest of the world for the length encompassed. In speaking of it one of the engineers said:

Start From Desolate Peak.

"The start was made from one of the desolate peaks of the Mount St. Elias Alps, on the southern extremity. There we laid our course straight for the northern lights and thereafter swerved not so much as a hair's breadth—peaks, gulches, bottomless swamps—wherever the needle pointed there we went, one day cutting our way through tangled brush, the next building a track across marshes or clawing over rocks and through crevasses."

Small steamers plying on the Yukon and Porcupine rivers co-operated with the expedition, but they were able to reach with supplies only a small portion of the actual route. South of the Yukon is a vast region, over 250 miles in extent, over which all supplies had to be transported, for the most part on the backs of horses and mules, the commissary wagons being rendered useless by the terrible mud which follows the escape of frost from the soil in that region.

WINTER'S GRIP BROKEN.

Ice Going Out of the Rivers in the Far North Country.

Fairbanks, Alaska, May 12.—The grip of winter, which has held Alaska's watercourses closed to navigation since last fall, was broken yesterday, when the ice went out in the Chena river at Fairbanks, in the Yukon river at Dawson, Yukon territory, and in the Iditarod river in Western Alaska.

At Fairbanks the ice broke at 4.50 o'clock yesterday afternoon, huge cakes going down stream with a rush before the spring current. The ice went out at Dawson at 9.11 o'clock yesterday morning, and at Iditarod at 10 o'clock yesterday morning.

The entire Turner street bridge at Fairbanks was carried away, the huge piling being snapped off like toothpicks.

LIMIT ARMAMENTS THROUGH EUROPE

Alsace-Lorraine Problem and Suggestions on Avoiding War Older Countries.

Paris, May 12.—A remarkable publication showing the passing of an era in ths history of a country is the book on the question of Alsace-Lorraine, written by 71 Frenchmen not in "active politics," and belonging to the professional class.

The book purports to represent the views of the majority of Frenchmen of the present generation who did not witness the 1870 war, and who are, therefore, able to regard the whole question from an unsentimental point of view.

At the beginning of the book, which is entitled "The Problem of Alsace from the Point of View of the New French Generations," there is a summary of the contents of the book in the shape of a manifesto. The beginning of this document deals with the enormous increase in military expenditure in Europe, and it pointed out that the end must be either limitation or armaments by contract or the bankruptcy of those countries which can least afford to stand the continual strain on their resources.

Armament is Discussed.

The continuation of the armament policy would also inevitably lead to war, into which nations will plunge as apparently the only way out of the intolerable conditions of armed peace. As to the position of France, it is stated in a few sentences. To remain a world power France must maintain her colonial empire. To do this effectually she must adopt a policy of friendliness towards Germany. Although it may be said that the chances of Germany and France in a great war would be equal, it would not be so, for France would risk a great deal more than Germany.

The limitation of European armaments depends upon a reapproachment between Germany and France. The people of Alsace-Lorraine have given up all idea of ever becoming a part of France, their aim is to secure autonomy on a broad basis within the German empire, and the best policy for France to pursue is to help her attain this autonomy.

The manifesto continues with a criticism of French diplomacy during the last ten to fifteen years. It deplores the abandonment of the peaceful policy of such men as Jules and Paul Cambon, ambassadors at Berlin and London, and of Camille Barrere at Rome, and points to the attitude of hostility adopted by the foreign office bureaucracy, an attitude which is proved by the last yellow books on Moroccan affairs.

France Also Is Blamed.

France is as much to blame as Germany for the state of tension which exists between the two countries, a condition which has been fostered by the fundamental errors of French policy and by the mistakes of the German government. As for the French attitude, which during the last fifteen years has opposed German enterprise in every quarter, even when this enterprise has been perfectly legitimate and harmless to French interests, it can only be described as futile and dangerous.

These considerations lead the writers of the manifesto to demand a return to the policy of Jules Ferry in 1889 and of MM. Freycinct and Hanotaux, a policy abandoned of late years owing to ministers allowing themselves to be blinded by prejudice. They also demand that France do her utmost to bring about a reapproachment between the two antagonistic groups of alliances and shall take the foremost step in proposing to the European powers that a limitation of armament should take place by friendly agreement. In adopting this policy France will be respecting the wishes of Alsace-Lorraine.

ADVERTISING TALKS

By D. Maxwell Merry

Advertising educates the readers of advertisements by directing their attention to the merchandise they refer to. The fact that the manufacturer has expended and is expending considerable sums on the publication of advertisements on his goods, gives him a strong interest in maintaining their quality. He has a stake in the public appreciation of their merits, and he cannot afford to let the quality deteriorate. The great standby of the advertiser of proprietary articles—goods that are known by a trade mark and can be recognized anywhere—is the fact that purchasers know that these advertised goods will be the same wherever and whenever they are bought.

Very slight alteration in the quality of the goods will do incalculable damage to an advertiser because of the large interests he has at stake. I know of a case in which the distributor of a trade marked article imported from the U. S. found that something had gone wrong with the goods, and as there was a brisk demand so that he could not afford to stop the sale while he wired for better stock from the other side of the line, he went to work to try to bring the article up to standard by mixing into it an ingredient of a vastly superior quality. He produced by this means a really better article than he had been selling. The flavor of it happened to be a little different, and although a comparatively small quantity of it was put on the market in its altered state, it cost him many thousands of dollars to recover the loss of trade he experienced through the temporary change and had to call in, as far as he was able, everything he had issued during the period of trouble.

There are many article of staple consumption—articles which every drygoods house, chemist and provision dealer handles—in which the competition of producers has led to conisderable deterioration of quality. But in nearly all of these lines there have been one or two manufacturers who have declined to be the purveyors of deteriorated goods, sold in competition to domestic and foreign produce, and have instead preferred to register a trade mark for their own goods and to advertise them by that trade mark.

Their advertising ahs educated the public to demand good quality in the commodity.

I have previously pointed out in these articles that it is not good to advertise a store unless it is a good one. The owner would much better spend a little money on making it good before beginning to advertise. When he has done that—when he has made his store as good as it can be made—he can advertise it fearlessly and the business he gets will pay back his expense. Neither is it alone in the way he keeps his store but the act of advertising educates and stimulates the store-keeper. It also gives him a more active interest in his business. He is not content with sitting still with the door open to wait for people to come for just what they may happen to need. If he advertises at all ably he tries to bring people to the store wanting a specific thing. He lets the people of the town know what he has to sell by offering something fresh every week, taking care (because he must take care, and he knows he must take care) to have the best that the market can offer. His advertising improves his store and improves the things that he sells in it. No doubt he attributes these improvements to his own energy and resourcefulness and quite right, too. But the force which stimulates his energy and resourcefullness is the ad-

WHEN HUERTA FALLS WHAT WILL IT BE?

Zapata May Rush Up From South and Beat Villa to the Capital—Obligation of U. S.

Huerta is a "brave man struggling in the storms of fate," is the opinion of the Spokesman-Review of Spokane. In the Mexican capital the consensus of opinion grows strong that he is tottering to a fall. For him—

"The dawn is overcast, the morning lowers,
And heavily in clouds brings on the day,
The great, the important day, big with the fate
Of Cato and of Rome."

There is a touch of tragic greatness in the man. Though treason for weeks has stalked around him he has seemed impervious to fear. Without guard or escort he has mingled freely in the open life of the capital, dining in the cafes and drinking at the public bars, and taking always brandy, for he believes, foolishly, with Samuel Johnson, that "Claret is the liquor boys; port for men; but he who aspires to be a hero must drink brandy." Mexico correspondents report that he is kept alive by it. Were it taken from him now he would die. The situation seems well summed up in this graphic portrayal:

A Tragic Picture.

"For a week General Huerta has not slept in bed. All night he rides through the streets of Mexico City in his automobile, frequently drinking heavily of the strongest brandy to steady himself. And when from complete exhaustion he doses the tired chauffeur stops the automobile and it remains motionless until Huerta awakens with a start and orders the chauffeur to move on. One night the man who calls himself president of Mexico rode through the forest of Chapultepec from dark until daylight. When he would doze the automobile would stop under those aged and gnarled cypress trees and Huerta would sleep.

"He realizes that he is hopelessly lost—that the only thing left to him is either suicide or flight. He is dying hard, but he is dying, and is now in the last throes of his death struggle. Meanwhile he is to the men who surround him like a wild hyena backed up against the wall and surrounded by foes. No one dares oppose him or reason with him. He distrusts every one, even his son Jorge. He knows that the capital is honeycombed with treason; that every one of the mad wolves whose pack he has led is ready to spring at his throat."

In after years, when time shall have rounded out this tragic chapter in the long and tragic history of Mexico, what rich material some Shakespeare yet to be will discover in these dark incidents and the morose old warrior who stood so long against his enemies at home and his foes abroad.

Can Villa Meet the Expectations of Wilson?

It looks as though the end were drawing near; that the answer will be forthcoming soon to the question so often asked by puzzled observers of President Wilson's course—"But after Huerta what will come?" The administration at Washington looks to Villa to perform the herculean task of restoring order out of chaos, pacifying the many factions and setting up a government of constitutional law. Is he equal to the task? Few believe it. And in the meantime, between the collapse of Huerta and the arrival of Villa's armies in the capital, what pewer can curb anarchy and prevent a reign of horror, destruction and death?

Even though Villa might be trusted (and Mr. Wilson and Mr. Bryan seem alone in that belief), the rebel hordes of Zapata may sweep up from the south and capture the capital.

"The situation here finds no parallel in the history of Mexico," reports the well-advised correspondent of the New York Herald, "unless one is found in President Juarez's administration immediately before French intervention. General Huerta controls practically no territory except a small portion of that lying on either side of the Mexican railway line between this city and Soledad. In the state of Morelos Emiliano Zapata rules without opopsition and has set up that which is nothing less than a principality of his own. The Figueroas hold the state of Guerrero, and small bands from their main forces go about levying tribute and gathering supplies. Many small bands roam the mountains and plains of northern Mexico, and lawlessness is everywhere."

Zapata Has Fought Them All.

The administration at Washington is keenly apprehensive over the part Zapata may play if Huerta should fall. This Zapata is probably the most consistent of all the Mexican chieftains—he is a rebel all the time. He fought against Diaz, and would not yield to de la Barra, to Madero or to Huerta. In Mexico City no one imagines that he would yield to Villa if that chieftain should capture the capital.

It is thus seen that the task the South American mediators have taken up offers only the remotest hope of success. Practicaly every one who is qualified to express an opinion believes that nothing short of thorough military conquest will bring these various rebel leaders to their knees and restore law and order in Mexico. Belief is all but unanimous that if President Wilson should succeed in helping Villa to capture the capital that achievement would be followed by a powerful counter revolution within 30 days.

Knowledge of these facts and conditions leads many capable observers to the confident belief that the United States alone is equal to the great task of rehabilitating Mexico and that the resistless hand of fate is drawing us inevitably to the work.

UNCLE SAM LOOKS FOR ARMY HORSES

Prices Will Go Up If Mexican Trouble Continues, Says a Wyoming Dealer.

Spokane, May 12.—The possibility of more serious trouble with Mexico is stimulating the price of horses, the demand for artillery and cavalry animals being greater now than at any time since the Spanish-American war, and buyers for the war department already are scouring the country in search of desirable material for the transport service also, according to George Weston, a Wyoming horse breeder, who is in this city.

"As yet the price has not been advanced very much, but it soon will be, provided military operations become more active," said Mr. Weston. "I know of several thousand head of horses suited to cavalry and light artillery purposes that now are under conditional option by the government in Montana and Wyoming at figures from 15 to 20 per cent. in advance of the prevailing price three months ago, and if these are taken over it will increase prices clear down the line.

"Horses that go into military service, except a very small per cent., may be regarded as out of consideration for general purposes, as the training they gets unfits them for almost all other kinds of work. This will tend to stimulate the horse market for a number of months, even if the trouble with Mexico does not come to open hostilities, for the government already has purchased enough animals to absorb the surplus stock. The purchase of light and medium weight horses has paved the way for a better market for draft animals and breeders of registered stuff will benefit also by existing conditions."

SCOTCH INTELLECT IS GOING BACK

So Says London Times—Decrease Attributed by Authorities to Change of Diet.

London, May 12.—"Scotland is less intellectual than she was." This plain statement appears in the Times. The intellectual retrogression of the Scot, it seems, must be attributed to a change of diet.

The International Congress of Surgery is responsible for the statement that germs are capable of being altered in character by the foodstuffs supplied to them by the bacteriologist.

"Feed them on one diet and they will develop the power of causing one kind of disease; change their diet and soon another propensity will manifest itself and a new disease will be wrought." From this, according to the article in the Times, "the really interesting question which emerges and which is worth consideration is whether character is determined—and if so, to what exent—by diet."

The question is then argued thus:

"Brushing aside the obvious fact that heavy, indiscriminate eating tends surely to produce a dull, lethargic intellect—except perhaps when accompanied by great exertion—and the equaly certain ill effects of starvation, it is, broadly speaking, true that to live very well is to sacrifice intellectual accumen. Human capacity being limited, it is not possible to digest and think at the same time. The philosopher who allows himself to be seduced by the pleasure of the table goes to waste like Hannibal's army in Capua.

Oatmeal Stand-by.

"This fact is testified to by the records of frugal peoples like the Scots. In Scotland oatmeal was the staple article of diet during many generations, meat being regarded as a luxury. The national type was produced on this fare; the great intellectual reputation of the country was undoubtedly won as the result of a grim policy of 'plain living and high thinking.'

"What, then, of the modern beef-fed Scot? Has his character changed with his diet, or survived in spite of the new bill of fare? One need not hesitate to reply at once that it has undoubtedly changed, and is undoubtedly changing.

"Scotland is less intellectual than she was. On the other hand, she has acquired new qualities of enterprise and commercialism. The immense industrial expansion of the country within recent years is undoubtedly one of the results, as it is also one of the causes of altered diet.

"A visit to the average industrial school or reformatory will convince most people that a perfectly 'same' diet produces a characteristic facial expression. A stroll through the West End during the season will to some extent at any rate confirm this belief. It would be hazardous, however, to conjecture that an exchange of diet between these extremes would accomplish an exchange of characters, no matter at how early an age this might be accomplished.

When He Prospers.

"On the other hand, the effects of a good table on a man accustomed to a poor one is usually to produce a more opinionative and self-assured attitude, which is reflected in his appearance and bearing.

"When we come to consider the influence of diet upon character from the medicinal point of view we are on safer ground. Character, or rather temperament, is undoubtedly determined to a large extent so far as the individual is concerned, by health. The word melancholy (black billiousness) was not invented accidentally. We are all subject to the whims of our livers, and if we overwork these vindictive organs we pay for it.

"When a man overindulges himself he develops as a rule bad health, and with it an evil temper. He becomes in a bad sense 'a changed character.' Then the doctor starves him and a regeneration takes place, temporarily. In the same way an Englishman who goes to Germany to live usually revolts against Teutonic cookery and becomes miserable because of it. He cannot live effectively on what he is not accustomed to, and his whole outlook tends to become clouded."

HOW ANTITOXIN WORKS.

Action of Fluid In Combatting Diphtheria Described.

How antitoxin works has been known in terms of scientists many years, but it has remained for a recent writer to put it in common terms that the rest of us may understand. Before the discoveries of science yellow fever has lost its terrors, smallpox is disappearing and the malignant diphtheria is lessening its power.

Diphtheria, science now tells us, is an infection of the throat caused by a germ, a rod-shaped microscopical organism, lodging there. This germ or bacillus grows rapidly, forming a grayish white membrane covering the tonsils and throat of the patient, accompanied by fever, etc. However, the sore throat in itself does not cause the dangerous effects of the disease. The patient is poisoned! But how?

In the growth of these bacilli they produce a substance which is as deadly as snake venom, and this substance is absorbed by the individual, soon producing poisonous or toxic effects on the heart, kidneys and other organs and death as a result. Oftentimes patients who overcome the disease at first later develop paralysis, usually of the throat or limbs.

The human body defends itself against this poison by producing in the blood a substance, an antitoxin, which actually will combine with the toxin produced by the germs and render this poison absolutely harmless. The patient's life depends upon the varying ability of the patient's body to make a sufficient amount of this antitoxin, and before the toxin becomes fatal. Here is where a tremendous advance was made.

Why not obtain antitoxin already made and give it to the patient? Experiments upon animals were carried out, and it was found that by giving gradually increased doses of diphtheria toxins at intervals of a few days to a horse that its blood would form increasing amounts of antitoxin and in excess of the amount needed to neutralize the toxins injected, until the animal could stand enormous doses of the poison without any ill effects. The blood of such an animal was then withdrawn under strictly clean methods, allowed to clot and the serum or watery portion containing the antitoxin prepared and preserved for human administration.

However, one must not consider diphtheria lightly, and precautions against acquiring the disease and vigorous quarantine must not be neglected, for deaths still occur. Some persons die when antitoxin is administered too late—for, unfortunately, the later after the onset of the disease the antitoxin is administered the less effective it will be.

Antitoxin is administered by injection under the skin, the skin having been carefully cleansed. There often is pain at the point of injection and later a skin rash of a red, itching character follows, though this is harmless and soon completely disappears. The dose is repeated and increased every four to six hours until the disease appears to be controlled by the membrane in the throat becoming detached and shriveling, and the patient's general condition improves. Some of the most desperate and apparently hopeless cases have often recovered after large doses of antitoxin.

When one considers that a disease that once killed about 50 per cent. of the individuals infected, now, when early treatment is actively begun, can claim but 1 or 2 per cent., and a marked reduction in later effects, one can realize that in antitoxin we have a wonderful remedy of which science and the men who worked so diligently in its discovery and the perfecting of it can well be proud.

Not the Custom.

"No es costumbre" (which, being translated, means "It is not the custom") has been described as the national motto of Mexico. All Mexicans are slaves of habit, and if a thing is "not the custom" then to them it seems unworthy of consideration. If you ask the cook to sweep a floor," says W. E. Carson in his "Mexico," she politely replied, "No es costumbre," or if you complain when the soup and chop ordered in a restaurant arrive at intervals of half an hour between and the chop preceding the soup the waiter will merely remark, "No es costumbre." If you ask for hurry and find dawdling you must be cheerful, for that is "costumbre." —London Mail.

Mother's Carey's Chickens.

Mother Carey's chickens is the name given by sailors to the stormy petrel, a small seabird, the appearance of which is an unfailing sign of rough weather.

The expression, Mother Carey's is said to be a corruption of mater cara, dear mother, a phrase used by Italian sailors in speaking of the mother of Christ, patroness of seafaring men, to indicate their thankfulness to her for sending these, her chickens, to warn them of bad weather.

Mouse In Aeroplane.

While an army biplane was being overhauled after a flight by Lieut. Fletcher, of the Royal Flying Corps, from Aldershot to Montrose (over 500 miles), a mechanic saw a mouse dart across one of the planes. On investigation he discovered in the corner of the wing a "nest" made from shreds of the fabric, with a number of young mice in it.

Well Trained.

Miss Wilkins, the primary teacher, was instructing her small charges.

"Name one thing of importance that did not exist 100 years ago," said the teacher.

Ralph Franklin, an only child, who was seated in the front row, promptly arose and answered:

"Me."

There is a period in the life of every man when he thinks about the future welfare of those dependent upon him. Sometimes this does not come until sickness overtakes him. Then he makes a will—but it may be made under wrong influence.

Had the will been made during good health, the most deserving persons—according to the deceased's wish—would have shared in the distribution of the estate.

Do you not realize that it is your sacred duty to no longer delay making your will?

BOTTLE LICENSE GOES TO APPEAL

Thomas Freeman Will Have Justice Gregory's Decision Reviewed By Higher Court.

Yesterday morning Whiteside, Edmonds and Whiteside, acting for Thomas Freeman, served notice on W. F. Hansford, counsel for the Citizens' League, of an appeal from the decision of the Honorable Justice Gregory, who made an order absolute several weeks ago against the bottle license granted to Thomas Freeman by the board of license commissioners last year.

The Freeman license was the first of the three bottle licenses granted by the 1913 board against which the Citizens' League took action and has been in the courts for some time, the fight going, so far, against the license holder and in favor of those ratepayers who aim to quash the bottle licenses.

The court of appeal, before which the matter now will come, meets in Victoria on June 2.

PRESBYTERY MEETING IN SESSION YESTERDAY

Proposal to Separate Vancouver and New Westminster From Fraser Valley Not Acted Upon.

The Presbytery of New Westminster met at 9 o'clock yesterday forenoon. About sixty ministers and elders were in attendance. Rev. J. W. Woodside, the moderator, was in the chair. The morning session was occupied with routine business and receiving the home mission report for the northern half of British Columbia. Rev. F. W. Kerr gave testimony regarding the splendid work of Rev. C. K. Nicoll, of Whitehorse, and especially of Dr. McLean of Hazelton, who besides being a missionary understands animals better than any man in the province.

Rev. Dr. Frazer, pastor of the First Church of Vancouver, won the endorsation of the Presbytery in his plan to make the church the centre of the most varied institutional work ever taken up in Canada. Dr. Frazer proposes to have a building costing $250,000, for night classes among the foreigners, schools for mothers and daughters in domestic science, a moving picture theatre, a restaurant, cafe and pool room, all operated from the Christian standpoint.

Miss Gordon recited to the Presbytery instances of great significance in the work of rescuing girls from lives of shame. The proposal to divide Westminster Presbytery was tabled for another year owing to the great difference of opinion. The proposition was made for New Westminster and Vancouver to form one Presbytery and the Fraser Valley the other, but this was opposed by Vancouver, who wanted all or a portion of the valley section.

The matter will come up for discussion at the next meeting to be held in Agassiz in July.

HOSIPTAL FURNITURE ARRIVES.

Unfortunately, Considerable Necessary Paraphernalia Failed to Show Up.

Fate appears to be walking hand in hand with the directors of the Royal Columbian hospital in their efforts to complete the furnishing of the new building in time to be ready for occupation by the end of the month. Yesterday morning another car load of furniture arrived from the east which gave every indication of being the last shipment needed, but a perusal of the way bill discovered the fact that certain necessary articles for the operating room were still missing.

This misfortune, however, will probably be obviated for the time being by the installation of a portion of the equipment used in the present operating room, in the new building, which will allow patients to be treated and the dismantling of the wooden structure commenced by the first week in June.

President George Small yesterday indicated that such a step might be taken as the contractors have been given word that the old building would be vacated by the end of the present month.

Cleaning operations in the east wing and administration section are now in full swing while the furniture is being unpacked and installed in several of the wards.

It is expected that final arrangements for the transfer will be made at the regular meeting of the board to be held on Wednesday of next week.

RIFLE SHOOTING

Is Militia Department Alive to Present Needs of Brownsville Ranges —Shoot Today.

The need of better and larger accommodation at the rigle ranges in South Westminster was exemplified on Saturday last when over 50 marksmen arrived at the butts which necessitated the markers and scorers staying until close to 8 o'clock before the last man had completed his string.

Negotiations have been in progress for some time between the local militia and rifle association and the department of militia at Ottawa seeking a solution of the present difficulty but up to the present no alleviation is in sight.

Two new targets at least and four if possible are needed to supply the requirements of the rapidly growing organizations which have recently been augmented by the formation of cavalry troops in Port Coquitlam and Burnaby. The old style single target which waste considerable time during which the marker is signalling the results and is kept busy pasting the stickers on the bullet holes which could be circumvented by the installation of the double board system, permitting continuous firing.

To get around the present difficulty orders have been issued to hold a weekly shoot on Wednesday afternoons, riflemen using the ranges on that day not being allowed to shoot at the regular Saturday meet. This order is practically the only means of giving everybody a chance, the aim being to maintain and even better the enthusiasm which is now being shown.

This mid-week event starts this afternoon, arrangements having been made to have markers on the ground together with ammunition.

BAPTISTS WON

Alderman Kellington Opens Church Baseball League—Presbyterians Downed 11-4.

The Olivet Baptists got away to a flying start in the church baseball league last night which was opened under auspicous circumstances on the Moody park diamond.

St. Andrew's Presbyterians were the victims, taking the count to the tune of 11-4.

In the absence of Mayor Gray who had promised to open the season, but who was unavoidably absent, Acting Mayor Kellington essayed the role of twirler in the opening inning, putting a perfect strike across the plate.

McNee was on the mound for the Baptists holding down the opposition to four hits. The attendance was about 200 all told.

| Score— | R. | H. | E. |
|---|---|---|---|
| Baptists | 11 | 8 | 5 |
| Presbyterians | 4 | 4 | 8 |

Batteries: McNee and Standish; Hamilton and Innis; umpire, Ellis Turner.

Y. M. C. A. EVENING.

Presenttion of Basketball Shield and Talk on Camping.

A very pleasant evening is promised the members of the Y.M.C.A. on Friday of this week when the basketball shield offered by A. S. Mills will be presented to the winning team, and medals of merit will be presented to members of the team. In addition to the pleasant presentation function a banquet will be enjoyed by the members of the teams and association. A feature of the program will be an address by S. J. McKellar of Vancouver who will give the young gentlemen an interesting and instructive talk upon the delightful subject of camping. Friday evening certainly promises to be one of thorough enjoyment to all the members who are present.

SOMEONE MUST LOSE MONEY IN BASEBALL WAR THIS YEAR

Both Sides Agree That Cash Will Be Lost But Can't Decide on Victim.

Chicago, May 12.—Upholders of organized baseball and promoters of the new Federal league are agreed upon one point at least, and that is that some one is going to lose a lot of money in baseball this season. But they are not agreed upon which side is going to lose the greater amount.

Reports of the attendance at Kansas City and Indianapolis seem to bear out the advance contention of President Chivington of the American association that the cities of his circuit could not and would not support two teams. The Federals according to the best reports—and both the new league and organized ball are receiving reports of rival attendance figures all over the circuit of the new league—have outdrawn Tebeau's team by a considerable margin in the early games.

While Chivington will not admit the greater drawing power of the new league, although willing to admit them about equal in Kansas City for the present, he does say that the total attendance at both parks in Kansas City is not equal to that of a normal year in Kansas City when the Blues had the field to themselves. President Tom asserts that similar conditions prevailed in Milwaukee years ago when the American association and Western American association were engaged in a baseball war.

Reports Conflict.

Attendance reports from Indianapolis are conflicting. The association claims to have the bulge except on the day when the Feds opened, while the Feds claim the bulge all the way. Indianapolis is a splendid baseball city but it is extremely doubtful if two clubs can live, especially with a partially conflicting schedule, without some money being dropped. Owner McGill and Manager Hendricks are fighting clean and playing their cards carefully, realizing that they are newcomers engaged in a battle against home owners and home capital.

President Chivington also denied a report generally circulated that he had issued an order to his clubowners to refuse admission to their parks to Federal league players. He says that is a point which the clubowners must decide for themselves.

With Kansas City and Indianapolis forced to combat rival attractions part of the season, there is another city which has been picked as a weak sister in the American association this year. That is Cleveland, where it is feared the fans will not support both the Naps and an A.A. club. Of course this advance dope may be upset when Jimmy Sheckard's club opens at home.

Survival of the Fittest.

With the blare of trumpets over and the Federal league opening a thing of the past, the war for patronage now settles down to a survival of the fittest. The newcomers are having a sorry time in Pittsburg, according to reports. The Pittsfeds are down in the race while the fans have gone daffy over the showing of the Pirates.

In Chicago, the Federals have had larger crowds than the Cubs on practically every conflicting date and the aggregate attendance, including the openings, probably would discount the National leaguers two to one. Of course such a proportion may not be expected to last. The Cubs are handicapped by the fact that the Chicago fans generally believe that Murphy still holds an interest in the club.

Several baseball men who have always been hostile to Murphy and who ought to be in a position to know, assert positively that the former Cub boss is out. They assert that they have positive information to that effect and they certainly bear Murphy no good will which would cause them to "cover up" for his benefit.

LACROSSE TROUBLE

Sapperton Will Withdraw from Intermediate League Unless Player is Barred.

One nice little storm is brewing in the intermediate lacrosse league which threatens to disrupt the organization unless some of the delegates back down from their present stand and accept the give-an-take principal. The trouble arose through protests made by both the West Ends and Sapperton regarding players, the former claiming Willis Patchell was ineligible while the east enders came back with the assertion that Hugh Stoddart, the clever goal tender, is also barred from playing in the league on account of his playing with the senior amateurs last summer.

At a meeting held Monday night, Sapperton conceded the Patchell contention but were outvoted in the Stoddart case, one Burnaby delegate giving his support to the West Ends, while the other failed to record his vote.

Such action is not looked kindly upon by the Sapperton club and no more games will be played including the scheduled one between East Burnaby and Sapperton tomorrow evening, unless a rearrangement is completed in respect to the Stoddart case.

Interest in the affair among the Sapperton supporters ran high yesterday and there is strong talk of exhibition games being played on the Sapperton grounds for the rest of the summer with teams from Vancouver, Eburne and the Delta.

SPORT CHATTER

(By the Potter.)

"Facts for fans," a neat and well compiled booklet on baseball issued by the Toronto Globe is to hand. It is the work of W. A. Phelon, the well known baseball expert.

The Sapperton "Stew Bums" lacrosse team, composed of soccer players, held a Burquitlam team to a tie, four-all, on Sapperton Park Monday evening. A return game will likely be played.

Magnates of the city baseball league will hold a session in Ryall's office at 8 o'clock this evening for the purpose of completing all arrangements for the opening of the league which is scheduled for Friday night at Queen's park.

An Illinois angler pulled the best boner of the season the other day when discovering a small and obscure creek teeming with bass, he wired the report to the newspapers.

According to all accounts the English polo team will get one awful trimming when it stacks up against the four crack players who will represent the United States next month. Friction appears to exist in the English camp with the result that the best players cannot be gathered together.

The late Harry Vaughn, who played cricket in his early English days and later on became a star catcher for the Cincinnati Reds, was asked what he regarded as the main difference between baseball and cricket. "The main difference," he replied, "might be summed up in the distinction between the war cries of the two sports, "Well tried, old top," and "Slide you bonehead, slide."

Charlie Querrie, who has charge of a lacrosse and hockey column in the Toronto News, gets a bum steer now and then regarding western conditions and players. Querrie describes Len Turnbull as a tall, rangy fellow, who has been improving every year in the coast league.

ONE TON CAMP.

"One Ton Camp" was the depot that Captain Robert Falcon Scott, R.N., was trying to reach, and was within eleven miles of when he and his little party perished on his memorable journey to the South Pole. An interesting account of how this depot was built and provisioned was recently given by Mr. Herbert G. Ponting, F.R.G.S., who accompanied Captain Scott as official camera artist, and who is at present in America looking after the interests of the British Antarctic Expedition association in conjunction with the exhibition of the motion pictures made by him of the Great White South.

"It was in February, 1911, that One Ton Camp was built. It consisted of three sledges stuck up sideways in the snow, with horse fodder all round. Above this crude structure was placed a large biscuit tin, on the end of a long pole to mark the position of the camp. Three huge cairns of snow were also thrown up. Inside of these cairns was placed horse fodder and provisions, the latter being covered with canvas to protect them from the snow.

Captain Scott gave instructions, before leaving the southern party that a unit of four men was to go to One Ton Camp and leave special provisions to insure against unforeseen accident. This little party left Cape Evans, which is situated at the foot of Mt. Erebus, on Christmas Day and took with it a special ration of pemican and seal meat. In addition to which it took coarse oatmeal, tea, cocoa, eight cases of sledging biscuits, pea flour, an extra whack of bar chocolate, tobacco and extra whack of paraffin oal. The provisions were all placed in canvas bags, each bag containing a week's rations.

"Prior to turning their backs on "One Ton Camp" the party built another large cairn and planted upon it a bright red flag. Red was chosen because it is visible at a greater distance than any other color. In addition to that the depot was marked by a large crystal ball suspended on a long pole. This ball, could be seen with the naked eye for a distance of 30 miles.

MILLIONS SPENT ON AMERICA'S CUP

What It Has Cost in Fight for Great Yachting Trophy—It Was Bought Originally for £100.

About £100 was paid for the America's cup originally, says the Toronto Mail and Empire. About £1,000,000 has been spent in defending it and attempting to lift it since then. The expense will be enormously increased this year, for it is likely that Sir Thomas Lipton will be compelled to part with a record-breaking sum for his challenger. The most prominent of three defenders, the Resolute, will cost a committee of the New York Yacht club $150,000; and the other two boats will cost at least $100,000 apiece. The yachts being smaller this year and constructed, it is supposed, upon more reasonable lines, they may be useful for other purposes besides cup racing; but in the past twenty years most of the yachts have been built for the specific purpose of defending or capturing the cup and after the race were worth only what they would fetch as junk. However, we may suppose that the owners of the successful yachts were well satisfied with a mere victory, and did not feel that their boats owed them anything after the races.

Canadians Establish Precedent.

It was a Canadian boat that first drew attention to the question of cost. This was in 1881, when the sloop Atlanta was built especially for the purpose of winning the cup. The attempt was unsuccessful, as have been all other attempts, but the Atlanta had been built for the sole purpose of racing for the cup, and the New York Yacht club had built a boat expressly to defend the trophy. She was superseded by another defender after some trial races, and was useless for ordinary cruising purposes. The defending club, or rather a few members, found that they had been set back about $20,000 and had nothing to show for it. The result was an alteration in the racing rules, designed to kill off challenges from small boats, especially from those built on this side of the Great Lakes. In 1876 Canada had challenged on behalf of the Countess of Dufferin, a boat that was built expressly for the race, but since the defenders were not specially constructed, not so much attention was paid to the rapidly mounting expenses of the enterprise.

Expenses Mount Rapidly.

Since 1881 the cost of racing for the cup has increased with every contest. In 1885, when the Puritan was built, she cost about $35,000, and her unsuccessful rival cost about the same figure, raising the direct expenses of defending the cup to $70,000, not including the incidental expenses. The next year came the Mayflower, and her cost was $42,000. The boat that she defeated as defender cost about as much more, and the New York Yacht club was out about $2,000 for the ordinary expenses of the races. The business and sport leaped from $20,000 to nearly $100,000 in ten years. This year it will cost easily a million dollars. In 1887 the Thistle challenged. She cost $50,000 and the Volunteer, which defended the cup, cost a similar amount. The yacht club's expenses were $3,000. On this occasion there were prophecies that the limit had been reached, for in those days it was felt that to spend $100,000 for a single race was a wicked waste of money.

When Dunraven Challenged.

But as the cartoons says: "The worst is yet to come." The really heavy expenses did not begin until 1893, when Lord Dunraven took up the white man's burden. His first boat, the Valkyrie, was not built especially for the race, and therefore her cost cannot be charged against it. However, the danger that the cup might be lost so impressed American yachtsmen that four defenders were built, the Vigilant, the boat that survived the preliminary tests, is said to have cost $150,000. As she was sold after the race to George and Howard Gould for a percentage of her cost, it would be fair to charge the expense at about $100,000. The other three defenders, the Colonia, Jubilee and Pilgrim, cost about $250,000. So if the total expenses due to the existence of this battered old cup for the year 1893 are set down at $400,000 we shall be well within the mark.

Million for a Race.

In 1895, another jump was made, for the Defender cost to build and operate through the season about $200,000. However, since she was the only defender, the total expenses declined. The Valkyrie II., unlike her predecessor, was built for the express purpose of lifting the cup, but she was not entirely unsuited for cruising, and this can be said of practically all the challengers up to the present time, and of most of the defenders except the Defender. The expenses of Sir Thomas Lipton the year he sent out his first Shamrock were estimated at $900,000, but of this $400,000 was the cost of a magnificent steam yacht, the Erin, which he has used ever since. Shamrock herself cost about $400,000, including operating expenses. The Columbia, built to repel the Shamrock, cost about $260,000, and another $60,000 was spent in refitting and overhauling the old Defender to serve as a trial boat. Incidentaly the expenses of the New York Yacht club amounted to $15,000. The second Shamrock is said to have cost $450,000, and the Constitution cost about $300,000. In 1903 the third Shamrock and incidental expenses brought the sporting baronet's expenses for his year's yachting up to $600,000. The defence of the cup cost something in the neighborhood of $400,000. The yachts building this year will cost less than the Shamrock and the Reliance, but the total expenses of staging this great international contest will run well over the million mark.

BIG AGRICULTURAL LAND OPENING

TWELVE HUNDRED AND FIFTY TRACTS of five and ten acres each to be granted to prospective settlers in throwing open Twenty Thousand Acres of Rich, Southern Georgia Land, which is admirably adapted to the growing of celery, sweet and Irish potatoes, canteloupes, watermelons, corn, oats, cotton, hay—in fact, all staple crops grown in this fertile section, as well as a large variety of semi-tropical fruits, and the famous immensely profitable paper-shell pecans.

Providing you are eligible under the classifications prescribed by us, you are now offered an excellent opportunity to break away from the drudgery and toil of a small wage, or working for the benefit of landlords, and go back to the land of plenty, to which, if granted, you will hold a warranty deed and abstract.

The best security on earth is the earth itself, and land is the basis of all wealth. Owners of productive lands are benefiting by the increasing high cost of living, while others are suffering from it.

An Opportunity to Secure Rich Productive Land Without Capital

You will not be required to leave your present surroundings now. All we ask of those to whom we grant tracts is that they plant, or arrange to have planted, a crop of one of the above-mentioned products within three years, after which we will have it operated (harvested and replanted) for grantees, in consideration of 25 per cent. of the net profits derived from the sale of the crops, thereby allowing such time as they determine just what the yield of their acres amounts to. Consider what this may mean as a source of income, when statistics show that the yield of one acre of celery amounted to $1,268.45, and that one acre of well-cared-for paper shell pecans, in full bearing, should net its owner as high as $500.00 per year. We are of the opinion that after it is proven by actual results obtained in operating the land that they will need no further urging, and waste no time in locating in this land of plenty. We also require guarantees to occupy the land within ten years, or sell it to some one who will occupy it; otherwise it reverts back to the grantor.

The land included in this opening is located directly on and adjoining the Atlanta, Birmingham and Atlantic Railroad, about twenty-five miles west of Brunswick, a thriving city of fifteen thousand, having direct steamship service to New York and Boston, and excellent railroad transportation facilities to all points. The average temperature for six months of the year, from April to October, is 77 degrees; the climate is most healthful, delightful, and invigorating, and there is an ample rainfall of 51 inches per year.

OUR AIM IS FOR MUTUALLY BENEFICIAL RESULTS

As we are extremely desirous of having settlers locate on this property, and assist in its development, and thereby greatly increase the value of surrounding and intervening property, which we will hold, and to increase the traffic along the Atlanta, Birmingham and Atlantic Railroad and thus facilitate the service, we feel warranted in granting these tracts to those who register with us. We also have in mind business and residence plots which we will offer for sale after the opening, but which will not be included in it. We have "money-making afterward" considerations in this liberal-minded opening, similiar to those of the Northern Pacific and other railroads when they granted their lands, and we expect to benefit thereby, as well as the ones who will receive the tracts.

We have also planned to develop what is designed to be the best-equipped, most up-to-date, scientific, commercial farm and orchard in existence. It will consist of six thousand acres, and will be included in this opening. All who register and receive tracts will get the benefit of the experiments and scientific methods in vogue thereon. While we are arranging to prevent over-registration, we will avoid many disappointments, such as occurred in other land openings conducted by the United States Government and railroads, by granting those who register in excess of the number of tracts to be granted, an interest in this commercial farm and orchard enterprise, in the hope that they may later locate in one of our town sites.

Examination of the land will cheerfully be permitted, and the opening will be held at Browntown, Wayne County, Georgia, one of the stations of the A. B. & A. Railroad, which is located on this property, and will occur as soon after the closing of registrations as arrangements can be made.

The presence of those registered will not be necessary at Browntown on the opening day, unless they wish to attend, for there will be no favoritism shown anyone. It will be conducted by a committee selected for the purpose, and those registered will be notified of what they have been granted, as soon as possible.

With the ever-increasing population of this country there is no corresponding increase in the area of land, and naturally as the population increases and seeks the land in pursuit of health, happiness and independence, it will continue to be harder to secure.

The prosperous and contented class of Europe today are the descendants of those who secured land there when it was plentiful, while the descendants of those who obtained no land are now the peasants and slaves. You must realize that this may be your last chance to secure land in this country without a large outlay of capital, so it should not be necessary to urge you to act at once by forwarding us the application for registration attached to this announcement.

K. OF C. LECTURE NEXT THURSDAY

David Goldstein Will Compare Principles of Socialism With Christian Philosophy.

The Knights of Columbus, pursuant to the action of its supreme council, has instituted an active lecture campaign in defense of the principles of the order, which is founded upon the doctrines of the Catholic church.

The sedvices of David Goldstein of Boston, a member of the order, who is recognized as an eminent socialogist and lecturer, have been secured for a transcontinental tour which began at St. Albans, Vermont.

Mr. Goldstein is considered to be socialism's most formidable opponent. He is often spoken of as a walking encyclopedia of knowledge relating to the entire ground of his subject.

Mr. Goldstein will lecture in St. Patrick's hall on May 14, under the auspices of the Knights of Columbus.

In his lecture Mr. Goldstein will expose socialist principles by contrasting them with christian philosophy; make clear the double-dealing tactics of socialists. He will show why a man cannot at once be a Catholic and a socialist, giving basic reasons why the church opposes its propaganda.

Speaking of his work in Chicago, the New World says:

"We do not think that there was a man or woman present at the magnificent address delivered last Sunday evening at St. Alphonsus' hall on socialism that did not realize that Mr. Goldstein has indeed made this subject his own.

"His treatment of the subject revealed the fact that he has read every side of the question and knows the socialist point of view quite as well as that of the Catholic church."

Mr. Goldstein was formerly a member of the socialist movement. He was its first candidate for mayor of the city of Boston. He resigned from the socialist movement eleven years ago. This was nine months after a futile attempt to induce the socialist party to debar from its platform those persons who advocate violence, irreligion and free love.

WHEAT SEEDING.

Grain Fast Being Sown in the Canadian Northwest.

Regina, Sask., May 12.—Eighty per cent. of Saskatchewan wheat crop and 5 to 10 per cent. of the oat crop acreages have been seeded. The percentage seeded to those grains in the southeast and northeast of the province is not so high owing to intermittent snow and rainfalls since the first of the month, causing cessation of work of from a week to ten days. West of Moosejaw the rainfall has done very much good, but on the lighter land more rain would be beneficial. Although the weather generally over the province has been cold, the crop has made good progress in the west and north as much as 30 per cent. of the early sown fields showing green.

AMERICAN APPLES WILL GLUT MARKET

Spokane Valley Output to Be Record Breaker, But Cherries There Are Hard Hit.

Spokane, May 12.—More apples will be produced in the Spokane valley this year than ever before, is the belief of R. A. Jones, proprietor of the Riverside nursery, who specializes in the large fruits. Mr. Jones said that notwithstanding the two or three cold snaps that have interfered with less hardy fruits the apples are practically uninjured and are showing an abundance of embryo fruit. The record yield, which Mr. Jones anticipates, he bases upon the fact that the trees being older this season will do much better than ever before, the weather in general having been ideal, while there will be many more trees in bearing. Orchards of the Spokane country are so young that they improve with each season.

Early prospects of damage to the sweet cherry crop are borne out by later developments, and Mr. Jones believes there will be about half a normal crop, which is a higher estimate than some growers give. The sweet cherries got their first and worst set back in February, several cold nights coming in succession at a time when the sap was flowing vigorously. A second setback occurred in April during a few nights of heavy frosts. Early peaches were cut at the same time and Mr. Jones says that in this region he expects very few early peaches will mature.

Hardier trees, such as sour cherries and all kinds of apples, have been virtually uninjured, and the vegetable crops have had excellent growing weather that bids fair, according to gardening authorities, to give the biggest returns known here in years.

RUNAWAY, AGED EIGHT, SLEPT IN A BARREL

Spokane, May 12.—Arthur Howell, age 8, whose disappearance Friday afternoon gave a fright to the authorities of the Washington Home Finding society, has been found and will be returned at once to the establishment at N1605 Riverton street. In the interim he had walked miles, made many new acquaintances, and played happily. Information as to his whereabouts was given to Mrs. M. A. Covington, wife of the superintendent, last night by I. X. Lee of the Diamond Ice and Fuel company.

Going to the Lee residence on the Morgan Acre tracts, north of Hillyard, Friday night, Arthur stated that he was a guest of a Mr. Huff, who had taken him from a home. He left without complaint of hunger when Lee told him he had better return to Huff, although he had not eaten since noon. He reappeared at the Lee residence Saturday and Sunday and played with the children of the neighborhood. He admitted a residence at the Riverton street house of the home finding society, and said he had slept in a barrel on Friday and Saturday nights.

"I am greatly relieved to find news of Arthur," said Mrs. Covington. "No; he will not be spanked, for I do not believe in punishment except in a mild form, and then only in unusual cases. Arthur has never had much of a chance in life. In 18 months three other children have disapepared from the home and all have been recovered within 24 hours."

INDIAN BALL GAME ENDS IN SHOOTING

Lapwai, Idaho, May 12.—William Jackson, a Nez Perce Indian, was shot and seriously injured last night while assaulting an Indian policeman at Joseph, according to the story told authorities. A ball team composed of Indians had been to Pullman, Wash., where they played a game with the state college team. They returned on the night train, arriving at Joseph about 9:40. Indian police were awaiting the arrival of the party, as it was suspected that a quantity of intoxicants would be brought back by some of the ball team.

When the police attempted to search the Indians they resisted and a general fight ensued. The Indians, armed with baseball bats, made a strong resistance. Four of them had one of the policemen, Sam Tilden, almost down and were beating and striking him. After repeated warnings the policeman finally drew his revolver and fired. The bullet struck Jackson in the abdomen and seems to have been deflected, passing out at the side, below the ribs. The injured man was removed to his home at Lapwai, where it is thought he has fair chances for recovery.

$200,000 FOR FIRST LOVE.

Millionaire Accused of Alienating Affections of Woman.

Portland, Ore., May 12.—Accusing Lloyd Frank, millionaire treasurer of the Mier & Frank department store of alienating the affections of his wife, Gertrude Gerlinger, E. E. Gerlinger, manager of the Motor Car Co., brought suit for $200,000 against Frank.

The action is the third that has resulted from Frank's alleged infatuation for Mrs. Gerlinger, who prior to her marriage was a renowned beauty of Birmingham, Ala.

The Gerlingers were divorced in July, 1912. In January Mrs. Gerlinger sued Frank for $50,000, alleging breach of promise. She was awarded $1 by the jury.

HEYDAY OF THE CAULIFLOWER

Novel Ways of Cooking This Delicious Vegetable.

While cauliflower belongs to the cabbage family, it is much more palatable and delicate and far more delicious than any cabbage. For many years cauliflower was a luxury, because it was not raised by gardeners generally, but the advance of information and the growth of the truck farming business have made it possible to produce cauliflower of excellent quality and at very low prices.

Here are some ways of cooking this delicious vegetable:

Cauliflower Fritters.—Cook one small cauliflower until almost tender. Then break off sprigs and dip in a batter made of three tablespoonfuls of flour, two tablespoonfuls breadcrumbs, one-half teaspoonful salt and about one-half cupful of milk, or enough to make a frying batter. Fry the fritters in deep fat until a nice brown. Serve at once.

Cauliflower au Gratin.—Separate the boiled cauliflower into small flowerets. Place them in buttered pudding dish in alternate layers with white sauce and grated cheese. Cover the top with breadcrumbs and bake until the sauce bubbles through the crumbs.

Creamed Cauliflower.—Remove the leaves, cut off the stalk and soak thirty minutes (head down) in cold water to cover. Cook (head up) twenty minutes or until soft in boiling salted water. Drain, separate in flowerets and reheat in one and a half cupfuls of white sauce.

Cauliflower au Parmesan.—Place a whole cooked cauliflower on a dish for serving. Sprinkle with grated cheese, then cover with buttered breadcrumbs and place on oven grate to brown crumbs. Remove from oven and pour a cupful of white sauce around cauliflower.

Cozy Sleeping Porch For Children.

If you have a porch on your sleeping floor, why not fix it up this winter as an open air bedroom for the small members of the family? Have awnings which can be drawn flatly down at the sides in case of a bad storm. It is important, of course, that the children have plenty of warm bedclothes. It is wise to have them sleep between blankets and to wear thick pajamas. Cotton sleeping socks can also be bought at the department stores.

This plan of sleeping has been adopted by many wise parents in the last ten years, though there are a great many others who are "afraid" of the results from such an arrangement. This is all a mistaken notion, as a child who has been allowed since infancy to sleep out of doors is far healthier than the boy or girl who is accustomed to be coddled by his mother and made to sleep in a heated room with perhaps the window pulled down but a few inches from the top.

Fashionable Furs.

There is something very barbaric in the arrangement of fashionable furs.

SET OF POINTED FOX WITH STRIPED SILK

This neckpiece of pointed fox goes but halfway around the neck, one side being eked out with a narrow band of contrasting pelt and some striped silk. The effect is repeated in the muff.

Safety In Window Cleaning.

It is no longer necessary to endanger one's life or risk one's nervous system by sitting on a window sill to clean windows. A window cleaner is manufactured that is wonderfully simple and efficient. It consists of a chamois finished cloth on an oblong holder, to which is attached a curved handle that, opening and closing on the principle of a pair of scissors, will manipulate and control the cleaner so that the outside of windowpanes can be cleaned and polished from within the house. The price of this life preserving, nerve saving invention is $3.

A Culinary Hint.

Most people use a tablespoon for mixing batter for Yorkshire puddings or pancakes, etc. If an ordinary kitchen fork is used instead of the spoon it will be found that the lumps can be smoothed in half the time. Also a fork used for beating the batter allows of the air getting in, which helps to make the batter light.

Ottawa, May 12.—The government has been officially notified of the intention of the mediators in the United States-Mexican trouble to meet at Niagara Falls. It is the intention to officially welcome the delegates, but it has not been decided what member of the government will perform this duty.
