Legislative Assembly 1906 Victoria, B. C.

HE SOCIALISTS WILL STAND APART

t Occurs In Labor Convention at Vancouver Yesterday---Socialists Will Not Join New Canadian Labor Party.

nsation was sprung at the labor ention in Vancouver yesterday ing, when the representatives of traight labor party left the hall hich the meeting was held be- a motion introduced failed to with their approval, adjourned nother room, and proceeded to a Canadian labor party, separate distinct from any other political nization.

hough not entirely unexpected, action of the delegates was suf- ly dramatic to cause some sur- and the effects of their with- l from the meeting will be far- ing in the world of politics. The came after a resolution was in- ed calling for representation by ation, thus putting the miners' s in the majority, as far as votes concerned. This having been d, another resolution was made . Davidson, M.P.P., of Slocan, ing socialism to a degree which ther labor candidates felt they not support, and, knowing that ould be carried, twenty-seven of rty-nine delegates present walk- ay from the hall and proceeded w up a platform of their own in r room. The platform of the party will be made public this oon.

sitting of the convention was ed yesterday morning, when G. y, of Victoria, concluded a de- egun the previous day. In the of his remarks, he offended te Davidson by enquiring whe- e was a labor man or a socialist. egate Davidson rose to a point er, and the first friction of the en took place. After the dele- had explained that he was a r of the miners' union and of her organization, Mr. Gray re- his speech. In the course of e urged the socialists to join with the labor party during m time, so that some good could complished. His instructions from his union were that he must stand for union and nothing but union. Mr. Gray next referred to his experiences in the cause of labor in New Zealand, and pointed out the satisfactory way they had of disposing of strikes in the Antipodes, where both parties were cited to appear before an arbitration court and compelled to abide by its decision. He stated that if the resolution allowing delegates to vote according to the strength of their union were carried, a new party would be formed, even if there were only six straight labor delegates to form it.

Upon the motion being put to the vote, the result showed that the socialists were in a majority by proportionate voting by 99 votes to 41. Upon the result being announced, the climax of the convention took place. Delegate Gray rose and formally withdrew from the convention, being immediately followed by Vice-President Davidson, of Vancouver. On seeing this, the independent delegates rose almost in a body and left the hall after their leaders. Chairman Williams left the chair and joined the seceders in the other room. Secretary Perry also threw up his job and followed the makers of the new party.

Delegate Phillips was elected chairman of those left in the hall, while Delegate Mills was appointed secretary. After the breaking up, the convention did not last long, as there was no opposition. A few resolutions of minor importance were passed, including one condemning the Hindu invasion, after which the socialists adjourned.

Millions In It.

Washington, Oct. 30.—The Isthmian canal commission desires $25,406,258 to continue its work on the canal during the fiscal year ending June 30, 1908. The appropriations for the present fiscal year were $25,456,415.

TEMPORARY ARRANGEMENT

London, Oct. 30.---Replying to further questions in the House of commons today regarding the Newfoundland fisheries question, Mr. Churchill, under secretary for the colonies explained that the modus vivendi was a temporary arrangement made with the United States and was intended to avoid the occurrence of untoward incidents during the negotiations necessitated by the action taken by the colonial government in spite of the representations of his majesty's government. Ample precedent for the course adopted could be found in the modus vivendi into which the late Marquis of Salisbury entered with France, respecting the Newfoundland lobster fisheries. Foreign Secretary Grey announced that the corresponcenc with the United States and Newfoundland would be presented to the house as soon as it could be prepared.

Cause of Accident Is Still a Mystery

New York, Oct. 30.—This statement was made to-night at the local offices of the Pennsylvania Railway Co.: "After thorough investigation, the Pennsylvania railroad officials have found no explanation of the accident on the Thoroughfare bridge, Sunday. All possible theories advanced have been traced to the bottom, but the cause of the derailment of the electric train is no better known than it was at first.

"It was hoped that the trucks of the cars, when raised out of the water, would afford some clue, but they did not. They were carefully examined by officials of the company. The trucks were intact, and there was nothing about either the wheels or other parts to throw any light on the matter.

"Thorough examination of the bridge and the mechanism used in moving the draw showed that these were in perfect shape. All evidence shows that the rails were exactly in place. Aside from the fact that the interlocking signal could not have shown a clear track, otherwise the bridge tender is positive that the rails on the draw and those on the stationary part of the bridge fitted precisely.

"When the train approached, the bridge tender was standing within three or four feet of the point where the rails joined, and he looked at the track to see that it was all right. The officials examined the bridge structure and found it strong and safe in every respect."

Atlantic City, N.J., Oct. 30.—Aside from the search for the bodies, interest now centers on the inquest which will be held by Coroner Gaskill on Thursday. It appears from the coroner's statement made to-day, that he is convinced the bridge is not as it should be, and may have to be rebuilt.

Late to-day the bodies of Mrs. Paul Felsberg, Mrs. Selina Johnson and Mrs. Sarah Miller were recovered from under the third car. This makes the certain number of dead 58.

The finding of the body of Mrs. Miller was followed at the temporary morgue by a most pathetic scene. Mrs. Miller, who was in poor health, had taken the trip to the sea on the electric train, with her daughter-in-law and grandson, Leslie. The elder Mrs. Miller's son was here to-day to get the effects of his wife and son, when the body of his mother was brought in. Miller identified the body of his mother and almost collapsed, after crying out that he was left alone in the world.

WE WILL DIE FIRST SAY THE INDIANS

When Told to Return to Their Reservation In Utah---Serious Trouble Is Likely Before Revolt Is Suppressed.

Sheridan, Wyo., Oct. 30.—Col. Auger and the third squadron of the 9th cavalry from Fort Robertson arrived last night and detrained at Avada, the troops soon afterwards taking the field for the front. They should reach the vicinity of the Indians' camp by night. The Indians are becoming more bold. "Doc" Spear and E. H. Gottings, who encountered about 30 Indians the other day, were fired upon. The camp wagon was looted by another band of Utes, who left the cook bound and gagged and carried off all supplies and bedding. Settlers near Moorehead, Mont., are sending their women and children to places of safety and have turned a blacksmith shop into a fort, banking the sides and boring loop holes in the log walls. Col. Hensel, who was government scout and interpreter in the battle of Wounded Knee, says the Indians mean fight, and he believes they have sent messengers to seek the assistance of the warlike Cheyennes. The Indians say they wrote President Roosevelt to give them Powder River valley for a hunting ground, and persist in their determination not to be taken back to Utah. The settlers along the Powder river say that if the Indians are allowed to remain in that vicinity, they will organize and exterminate the redskins in spite of the troops.

"We are going on to visit Chief Whitecow, of the Cheyennes, at any cost, and will not be taken back to Utah to starve; we would rather die first," is the substance of the answer of Chief Kannapp to the soldiers. The latest reports from the front locate the main Ute band in the vicinity of Moorehead, going rapidly towards the Cheyenne reservation. Two more troop trains from Fort Robinson, following the first train, unloaded at Arvada this morning.

Billings, Mont., Oct. 30—A telephone message from Arvada, Wyo., this afternoon, says that the renegade Ute Indians are entrenched in a strong position in the hills adjacent to Arvada, and the troops of cavalry are reconnoitering the country previous to closing in on the Indians. They hope to quiet the Indians with a display of superior force and thus secure a surrender without bloodshed. The Utes are determined not to give in to the soldiers until they are compelled, believing that if they surrender it will mean their return to Utah, where they say they cannot get enough to eat. The Utes procured a supply of ammunition and food at Cheyenne and Gillette, and if the temper of the leading tribesmen can be taken as an indication, they propose to fight, or at least make a show of resistance. By this means they hope to secure concessions from the soldiers and be permitted to make their way to the Cheyenne reservation and remain there pending a disposition of their case at Washington.

To-night the camp fires of the Indians are blazing brightly. The Utes are not painted, nor are they dancing.

Advices from Moorehead state that a panic is on there. It is feared that in the event of a clash between the soldiers and the Indians, the latter will scatter and wreak vengeance upon the settlers. The ranches are being converted into fortresses.

Marketing the Crop.

Winnipeg, Oct. 30.—Grain marketing at elevators on the Canadian Pacific system yesterday was as follows: Wheat, 337,000 bushels; other grain, 30,000 bushels; total to date from the beginning of the month of September, 27,613,000 bushels of wheat and 2,188,000 bushels of other grains. Last year on Sept. 29 the figures were 618,000 bushels of wheat and 31,000 bushels of other grains. The totals last year were 23,741,000 of wheat and 1,116,000 bushels of other grains.

WHITE GIRLS ARE CTIONED IN NEW YORK

rd, Conn., Oct. 30.—"There 000 young women in Chicago e obliged to work at $5 a week, re are over a thousand saloons too," said Mrs. Lorinda B. of Kansas, to-day at the na- convention of the Women's n Temperance union, in pre- a report of the difficulties ich the refuge workers of the tim have to contend. Mrs. made a spirited plea for the of all the delegates from all the country to put a stop to ite slave trade. The speaker stances of young women held lity and sold at auction in k, and asked why, forty years e civil war had been fought for the liberation of the black slaves, the slavery of white women should be tolerated in this country. She said that one of the most hopeful signs of the times was that seventeen nations recently banded together for the suppression of this awful vice.

Church Officer Resigns.

Toronto, Oct. 30.—Alexander Warden has tendered his resignation of the treasurership of the Presbyterian clear track otherwise, the bridge tender to which he was elected by the general assembly last June. He was appointed in succession to his father, the late Rev. Dr. Warden. It is understood Mr. Warden intends to enter financial business in Toronto.

Libel Suit in Toronto.

Toronto, Oct. 30.—William J. Lindsay, one of the provisional directors of the Farmers' Bank of Canada, has issued a writ against W. Laidlaw, K.C., for $25,000 damages for libel. Lindsay charges Laidlaw with maliciously publishing certain false statements about him in connection with a sale of Farmers' bank stock.

FRISKY DEVIL-WAGON GOES OFF ON THE TOOT

New Automobile Becomes Unmanageable, Runs Away, and Lands in a Ditch.

The motorman in charge of one of the B.C.E.R. interurban cars pulled up in a hurry yesterday afternoon near Wise road. Standing almost on its head in the ditch was a large double-seated automobile, the hind part of which was so close to the track as to be in danger of interfering with the car. The car slowed up in short order, and the motorman and passengers on board strained their eyes in search of gory objects and fragments of limbs and whiskers, which, however, they failed to find, and drew big deep sighs of relief as the word went around that it was only Cliff's big new automobile, which had suddenly taken a notion to run away while the owners were trying to get onto the hang of their new possession. The unruly devil wagon had suddenly broken loose, run away, and had insisted upon cutting across country and climbing over the B.C.E.R. track. The occupants had jumped just as the big machine stood on its head, a cumbersome mass of whirring wheels and sickening smells. Later in the day four men and a couple of horses labored strenuously to get the auto straightened up, and it took so long, and so much had to be said, that one of the bunch considered that they ought to have a locomotive on hand for the business. Try, try, trying again eventually worked the trick, and the machine was waltzed out of the ditch and is now being fixed up in readiness for another try.

THINKS HE IS RICH AND GOES IN FOR STYLE

German Resident of Montreal Buys Things, But Fails to Pay For Them.

Montreal, Oct. 30.—Carl Cremer is under detention at the police headquarters, though so far no charge has been laid against him. Cremer, who is a German, came out to Montreal about twelve years ago and secured employment with the C.P.R., afterwards working as a teamster, and latterly as a shipping clerk for the Canadian Rubber Co. All his employers say that he was honest and a hard worker. A few weeks ago he announced that his father was dead and that he was heir to a portion of his property, valued at $400,000. On the strength of this announcement, Cremer bought a $16,000 residence on Pine avenue, ordered $5,999 worth of furniture, made to order, from a leading firm of furniture dealers, $2,000 worth of other furnishings from the leading department stores, several thousand dollars' worth of jewellery and five horses, for which he agreed to pay $2,500. The total of his purchases was in the neighborhood of $35,000. He also borrowed a little money, but not much. One of his creditors became suspicious, and this led to his detention by the police. So far Cremer has failed to produce the slightest proof of the genuineness of the legacy. The police believe that the man is laboring under an hallucination. Cremer was to have been married this morning, the arrangements having been completed.

On the Way.

Yokohama, Oct. 30.—The steamer Tartar left Yokohama, Monday, Oct. 29, for Vancouver.

Canadian Killed.

Toronto, Oct. 30.—Succession duties were paid on the Gooderham estate yesterday to the provincial treasurer, amounting to nearly six hundred thousand dollars.

NO DANGER OF WAR SAYS FOREIGN SECRETARY

Sir E. Gray Says Japanese Treaty is Not Likely to Involve Great Britain in War.

London, Oct. 30.—Replying to a question in the house of commons by C. W. Bell, Liberal, as to whether there was any provision in the Anglo-Japanese treaty safeguarding His Majesty's dominions from becoming involved in a war with America in behalf of Japan, Sir E. Grey, the foreign secretary, wrote a reply in which he referred the questioner to the text of the agreement. The foreign secretary added: "This agreement is of a general character, and there is no indication that it is likely to lead to war with any power."

Workmen com- olutely with orders, and ab- rom any demonstration. The ron works employes worked in obedience to orders from labor headquarters. These works are the heart of the labor movement.

Disquieting signs were observed near the works last week, and to-day an adequate force of men was stationed near by to cope with any emergency. The men of a score of factories had the day off, but work was performed in a majority of the shops.

Several bands of "Black Hundreds," armed with staves, paraded in a remote street, but there were no collisions with the authorities.

It has been decided to re-open the University of St. Petersburg to-morrow.

It is reported to-day that the soldier named Vlasoff and eight of his associates, who were in the plot to blow up the building where the court-martial trying the Cronstadt mutineers was sitting, have been executed.

Anarchists Are Run In By New York Police

New York, Oct. 30.—Emma Goldman and nine other persons were arrested at an anarchist meeting in East Fourteenth street, to-night. The police pushed their way through the crowd towards the speakers' stand and arrested Julies Edelson, 20 years old, who was speaking. As they did so, there were shouts of "Down with the police! Kill the police! They are worse than Russian officers." The arrests followed quickly. Edelson was charged with inciting to riot and the others with disorderly conduct.

According to the police, Edelson in his speech declared among other things: "No matter how much Czolgosz has been damned for his good work, we know that he was a great man. He was a true hero. American laws are all made for bluffing. The people of America are worse bluffed than those of Russia." At the police station Emma Goldman gave her address as 208 East 13th street, and her occupation as that of a publisher.

The Buckingham Inquest.

Buckingham, Que., Oct. 30.—The inquest into the deaths of Belanger and Theriault, strikers, was resumed this morning. Alex. Cunningham, a Buckingham lumber merchant, was sure Alexander Maclaren fired the first shot and Albert Maclaren the second. Damase Bourassa related that two union men told him they were going to bring rifles. He saw guns at the strikers' quarters. Hilaire Charette, lieutenant of the dead strike leader, swore that the union discussed firearms, but it was intended to use them only for show.

LOOK FOR THE RED SIGN

BIG SILVER STRIKE CREATES EXCITEMENT

Port Arthur, Ont., is Stirred by the Discovery of a Rich Vein at Silver Mountain.

Port Arthur, Oct. 30.—Great excitement has been created at Port Arthur by the arrival of Manager Hanson from the west end of Silver Mountain. He brought with him samples of ore taken from the mine, some being nuggets of pure silver, one weighing one hundred pounds. It is the richest strike ever made in that district. When operations were commenced in the local camps, the vein had been lost, but it has evidently been picked up again, and ore is now being found richer than ever discovered in these parts. Samples are a revelation to the oldest miners. The assays made of some of the ore went nineteen thousand ounces to the ton. There is now lots of ore in sight, and it is thought that the mine will become one of the richest in the world. A silver mine located on Thunder Bay has been purchased by New York capitalists for $75,000. The mine had not been worked since 1873, when it was shut down because of the slump in silver.

Fatal Ship Collision.

Ostend, Belgium, Oct. 30.—The German steamer Hermann, from Antwerp for the Mediterranean, was sunk in the Channel, Oct. 28, as the result of a collision. Twenty-three of her crew were drowned. The collision occurred when the Herman was near the East Goodwins. The name of the vessel with which she collided is not known, but it was ascertained that she had four masts. The Hermann was an iron vessel of 1,453 tons net.

Notes from Langley.

Langley, Oct. 30.—The annual meeting of the Langley Agricultural association was held in the town hall on Saturday, Oct. 27. The business of the past year was finished, and the financial report showed a surplus of over $100 on hand. The following officers were elected for the ensuing year: President, William McAdam (re-elected); vice-president, M. McIvor; secretary-treasurer, W. J. McIntosh; directors, J. W. Berry, G. I. Blair, J. G. McAdam, W. H. Hawilison, G. J. Towle, John McDonald, William Medd, W. H. McClugan, G. Simpson, W. Lawrence, John Skea, A. Vannetta, T. W. Ormrod, W. Hunter, W. Tillie, J. Yeomans, John Matheson, J. Patterson, P. J. Heafy, G. Dair.

Mrs. T. Waterhouse, of Fort Langley, has sold her farm at Murray's Corners.

John Pratt has bought twenty acres of the Mackie estate in Ward 3. It is his intention to clear a portion of it this winter and erect a cottage.

Mrs. E. Yorkson, with her niece, Mrs. Webster, has moved from her old home in Lower Langley to the Mavis place in Fort Langley.

Mr. Allam, the postmaster at Fort Langley, has just put a new house on his property.

D. Symington, superintendent of the Langley Presbyterian Sunday school, has gone to Scotland on a visit.

A very enjoyable time was spent on Wednesday last at the home of Mr. Kells. Fred Kells, who recently married a young Irish lady, was the host, and entertained, with the assistance of Mrs. Kells, a number of the young people of the place.

R. J. Fleming, of Langley Prairie, is selling his farm stock and implements by auction. He has been living on the Balfour ranch, which was recently sold.

A valuable horse owned by Mr. Rhodes, of this place, dropped dead on the road a few days ago, while Mr. Rhodes was driving rapidly to catch the boat. The animal suddenly staggered and fell. Mr. Rhodes jumped out to take off the harness and release the horse, but it had "stopped short, never to go again."

Mr. and Mrs. William McAdam took a business trip to New Westminster last week.

Fifteen dollars and costs was the fine imposed upon Kittie McDougall in the police court yesterday morning, where she was charged under the vagrancy act.

Oh, maiden with the dreamy eyes,
The soulful look, the slender waist,
The air of languor and disdain,
The earmarks of aesthetic taste,
The longing for the higher walks
That lead to some far dizzy height
Far from the low and commonplace,
Where did you get that appetite?

You talk of Browning quite a lot,
Quote Emerson to beat the band,
Read Whitman or some other book
That common folk can't understand;
At handing out a line of talk
That for obscureness can't be beat
You take the cake, I rather guess,
But, bless my stars, how you can eat!

The simple life is quite the thing,
To hear you setting forth the case;
Loud colors and all gaudy tints
By you are counted out of place;
For style from Paris or New York
You do not, you assure us, care,
But, oh, I'd hate to pay the bills
That come in for the clothes you wear!

The yearnings of your gentle soul,
The things of air for which you sigh,
Are not the bargains in the stores
Or goods that vulgar cash will buy.
But still the man who falls in love
And marries you would need a wide
And very bulky roll of bills
If he would keep you satisfied.

The Log Cabin.

The log cabin is a style of architecture that came into fashion about the time that a plain and simple natural born citizen of the U. S. A. called the attention of fellow countrymen to his abilities as a spellbinder, a life saver and an adjuster of differences, warranted to suit the majority, or the shinplasters refunded.

Since that time it has been the custom for all truly great men to endeavor to get themselves born in a log cabin of the shaggy bark variety—one situated in the backwoods of Ohio preferred, but any old kind will do and any old place in the U. S. A.

It is only necessary that the logs be of the tough old kind that they may be able to resist the strain of many cameras and return a plain negative to the photographing fiend.

There are many men who are now seeking that sort of birthplace. Any one who has a supply on hand will do well to apply at this office.

Need to Be Prepared.

"Say, old chap, do you know how to win on the races?"

"No, you don't have to know that."

"How's that?"

"You need only to know how to lose."

RICH MUSICAL FEAST SECURED FOR THIS CITY

Sons of Scotland Have Arranged With Scotland's Queen of Song to Give Concert Here.

The Sons of Scotland have secured the services of Miss Jessie Maclachlan, the well-known Scottish prima donna, and her company of artists for a concert which will be held in the opera house on the evening of Nov. 15. Miss Maclachlan is recognized all over this continent as the queen of Scottish song—the singer whose voice most surely finds its way to the Scottish heart—and is always welcomed with open arms by those who had the good taste to be born in the beloved land of the heather which is so sacred to them, with its wealth of song and story. Miss Maclachlan is assisted by Douglas Young, the well-known tenor; John McLinden, violoncellist; Lindlay Graham, solo pianist, and Robert Buchanan, accompanist. This will in all probability be the last chance to hear Miss Maclachlan in this part of the world.

Featherweight Championship.

Los Angeles, Oct. 30.—Abe Attel, champion featherweight of the world, and Harry Baker, of San Francisco, will fight twenty rounds before the Pacific Athletic club to-night for the featherweight championship. Odds were being laid on Attel at 2 to 1, but Baker has many supporters. Both men have finished training, and will weigh in at something less than 122 pounds.

Later—Attel gets the decision.

One of the deer at the zoo in Queen's park was found dead by the park ranger yesterday morning, the animal having evidently been wantonly killed by boys with a .22 rifle. Two bullet holes were found in the dead animal, one in its head and the other in the neck. After the deer had been shot, dogs got into the enclosure and tore the skin to pieces, rendering it useless for any purpose.

QUALITY, NOT QUANTITY.

The Toronto Globe finds in the heavy criminal dockets at the current sittings of the Manitoba supreme courts reason to condemn any immigration policy which would assist the people of the southern countries of Europe to come to Canada. It points out that heavy criminal dockets are altogether abnormal in Canadian farming communities, and finds the reason for the existing state of affairs in Manitoba in the presence of the foreign element in the population. Investigations conducted by agents of the United States government in Austria, Italy and other countries where emigration is controlled by the government, show that if a man has a criminal record he is much more likely to get leave to emigrate than if he has not. "It is a mistake," the Globe thinks, "actively to encourage foreigners of low political and social life to come to the Dominion, for it is certain to attract the most dependent classes. If such people are let alone, the best informed and most enterprising among them will seek new homes. We should choose the policy that brings the best, not the worst. We should rigidly exclude criminals, imbeciles, and all who are likely to become public charges, and should let the natural enterprise of the others furnish us with their best citizenship. It would be far better to delay settlement for a generation than to people the West with elements that will retain for many generations an inheritance of low criminality and political incompetence."

AS THEY PUT IT.

Sir Wilfrid Laurier has won for himself a lasting place in the front rank of the statesmen of Greater Britain—but what does that amount to? Let us rather dwell on the misdoings of some departmental understrapper and yell "Laurier and Loot."

Hon. W. S. Fielding has lowered taxation while securing a larger revenue. Under his administration Canadian finances have gone from the "shaky" to the "gilt-edge" class. The highest financial authorities in the Empire have given him unstinted praise. Well, what of it? Did not some of his agents go in for shady practices at the last election? Shout him down, therefore; never mind the Fielding tariff for revenue—talk about the Fielding tariff for votes.

Hon. Sidney Fisher has devised ways and means to help the producer. Under his administration, the exports of Canadian produce have risen enormously and its value in British markets has been enhanced. But some of his work has been along lines that touch the homely, every day affairs of country life, and it is easy to turn such things into ridicule. Let us therefore crack our jokes about eggs and chickens, saying nothing of material gains.

Under the administration of these men and their colleagues, Canada has risen from a mere colony, little known and little thought of, to a place that outranks some independent states; but, bless your heart, why talk of that? These men have simply borne themselves like statesmen, attending to the great affairs committed to their charge. Why make a fuss about it?

Why, indeed, when here in our own Province we have a man who has done something really grand. A man who scorned the prosaic ways of duty-doing plodders, and, rising at a bound to an heroic height of screaming patriotism, inspired by one dazzling flash of brilliant genius—

Bounced out and banged the door!

Punch appears to have been reading up some of Mark Twain's old jokes about military titles in the days just after the civil war. The King has appointed the Prince of Wales to the Honorary Colonelcy of the First Cinque Ports Volunteer Rifle Corps, and Punch says the Prince will not assume the title of colonel, but "with that modestry characteristic of His Royal Highness," will continue to call himself merely the Prince of Wales, as heretofore.

Complaint is made that the traffic approach (some two hundred yards long) to the bridge, on the south side of the river, is allowed to remain in a filthy condition. It is said to resemble a low-lying cattle yard in wet weather, and people who have to traverse it on foot are in no condition to make calls on their friends when they get through it. Surely it is the business of some one to remedy this, and that some one is hereby respectfully advised to get busy.

"THE DEVIL'S AUCTION."

Among the very many clever things which have become part and parcel of the kaleidoscopic performance of Chas. H. Yale's "Everlasting Devil's Auction" company are a number of exceedingly funny and intricate trick scenes that each year are introduced in this popular show-play.

Mr. Yale states that in the present twenty-fifth edition there will be no deviation to this rule, and that there will be introduced a new and very laughable trick scene entitled "The Magic Picture Gallery," in which Toby, the transformed donkey, again meets his old enemy, Chaos, the sprite, resulting in the introduction of a series of new tricks, odd mechanical effects, scene leaps, star and vampire trap workings, etc., all of which will prove most interesting to the oldest or youngest theater goer.

CHAMBERLAIN, The Jeweler, Brine Block.

Local News Briefly Told

The Schaake Machine Works Co. recently purchased a saw mill outfit at Nanaimo, which they have remodelled and re-shipped to the McLeod Lumber mill on the Scott road.

W. C. Chamberlin, the jeweller, is having a fine lot of fountain pens at prices all can afford. The fountain pen, since its invention, has become such a boon that to be without one is a distinct loss. 202-1

The young people of the Olivet Baptist church propose holding a social of a Hallowe'en character this evening at the residence of T. D. Archibald, Second street and Queens avenue.

Madame Ulysses, the well known soprano vocalist, who has been in Vancouver for some time will be in this city on a visit to-day. She will give a farewell concert in Vancouver next month.

The Hallowe'en social which the members of the St. Paul's church social club had proposed holding at the residence of Mr. F. P. Maxwell, Fourth avenue, has been postponed to Monday night.

Pile driving operations on the V., W. & Y. spur to Millside were stopped for a while yesterday on account of an accident to the donkey engine which furnishes the power. The work of driving piles for the extension is now about half finished.

A new avenue for the talents of the Hindu population has been found on the C.P.R. section gang. Yesterday along the water front a bunch of them, under the guidance of the section boss, were noticed receiving their first lessons in pumping a velocipede.

D. Malcolmson, the logger who was admitted to the general hospital on Sunday morning suffering from a bruised leg, as the result of a log falling on it, is reported to be progressing satisfactorily, and he expects to be able to leave the hospital in the course of another week.

The B. C. Flour Milling Co., of which Percy Venables is the managing director, opened their doors for business yesterday morning in the building until recently occupied by the Calgary Milling Co., on Front street. All the directors of the company met in this city yesterday morning and discussed the prospects of the new venture at length.

At a meeting of the Presbytery of Westminster, held yesterday afternoon in St. Andrew's church, the call of the Mount Lehman and Mission congregations to the Rev. Mr. Oswald was sustained, and the induction service was announced to take place on Tuesday, Nov. 6. The result of the Presbytery meeting was a foregone conclusion, and the choice of the pastor is a popular one to all concerned.

Hon. W. Norman Bole yesterday gave his decision in favor of the plaintiff in the case of Jones vs. Naud. In this case the plaintiff sought to recover the sum of $50 which the defendant had agreed to pay for a cow, and on the animal being delivered, tried to knock down the price to $45. The magistrate gave the plaintiff the decision, and the defendant will pay the sum of $55 and costs.

The wiring of the new Dominion government Indian and fisheries building will be completed to-day by T. Mowbray. The heating contract has been commenced by the Vanstone Heating and Plumbing Co., and the furnace has been installed. The fitting up will be accomplished as soon as possible. The building has been constructed with a special view to the character of work to be carried on and the officials are looking forward with pleasure to getting into their new and commodious quarters.

L. McQuarrie & Co., real estate agents, will move to-day into Fales' store, where they have secured larger quarters. Mr. Fales will relinquish that part of his store until recently used as an office, and the real estate firm will occupy this. Mr. McQuarrie has been particularly active in making sales recently, and several of the large deals have passed through his hands. The day's business yesterday consisted of over forty lots in different parts of the city, which were sold to different purchasers, the majority being purchased for speculation.

The charge of murder against Chester Jackson was withdrawn by the prosecution in the police court yesterday morning, owing to the failure of the extradition proceedings. The proceedings were merely of a formal nature, as Jackson had been liberated the previous night, as soon as the chief of police was informed that W. G. McQuarrie had failed to secure the extradition of the man Munn, who was also supposed to have been implicated in the disappearance of G. A. Gilley. The women who were to be the chief witnesses for the prosecution, and upon whose sworn statements both Jackson and Munn had been arrested, flatly contradicted themselves when cross-examined by Munn's lawyer, and later declared that the first story they had given out to Detective Bradshaw had been dictated by motives of resentment against Munn, who had brutally ill-treated the colored woman with whom he co-habited, and who swore out the first information.

Government Agent C. C. Fisher's little son yesterday underwent an operation on his eye in Vancouver. Some time ago the little lad sustained an injury to his eye while playing with a pair of scissors. By some misadventure he ran one of the points into his eye. It was at first feared that he would lose his sight, but opticians stated that an operation would bring the optic back to normal conditions, and it is hoped that the little fellow will now soon have the full use of both eyes. He is at present in Vancouver, and Mrs. Fisher is with him.

The case of Lee Ging vs. Louie Kit occupied the greater part of yesterday in Capt. Pittendrigh's court. The interests of the plaintiff were looked after by J. P. Hampton Bole, while the defendant's case was in the hands of J. D. Kennedy. At the outset the counsel for the defence endeavored to quash the case on a technicality, which was overruled by the magistrate on hearing the authorities advanced by the opposing counsel. Kit was eventually sent to the jail, there to await his trial on the charge of stealing the sum of $55 from the plaintiff.

Along the Waterfront.

The Clive came into port yesterday with a boom of logs from Whonnock.

The Restless brought another scow load of coal in from Nanaimo yesterday for J. W. Creighton.

The Flyer came into port yesterday with a large consignment of Ladysmith coal for Gilley Bros.

The International Logging Co.'s tug, the Robert Dunsmuir, came into port yesterday with two booms of logs of ten and six swifters respectively. The Flyer assisted the Dunsmuir along the last portion of the journey to the Fraser River mills.

The Clansman was in port yesterday with a mixed cargo of freight for local merchants

The G.N.R. car barge Sidney was towed into port yesterday, bearing a number of cars of freight and a locomotive.

The government dredge is now almost ready for work again. The pontoons which were recently torn from anchorage have been recovered, and some of the anchors have been secured from the bed of the river.

The Magnet returned to port yesterday after having towed the B. C. General Contract Co.'s pile driver to Englishman's river, where the crew is driving a log boom.

A carload of lumber was shipped yesterday to Ganges harbor, where a new wharf is being constructed.

A carload of magnesia was sent today to the Giant Powder Co. of Victoria.

The Queen City came in from Victoria last night. The vessel is taking the R. P. Rithet's run for a short time.

DRAMATIC REVIEW.

(By John W. Kelly.)

It was another victory for Henry W. Savage last night. Every one, or nearly every one, knew "The College Widow," and remembered what a smashing good show it was last year, and also they knew, generally, that the present organization was not the one which made Ade's comedy so likeable during the former visit. The changes in the cast may have been thought—before last evening—injurious. Nothing of the sort. Savage was true to his coast following. There are several eastern managers who send out a good company the first year, and after the play has made a name they assemble an armful of sticks and goldbrick the public. Savage doesn't do business like that. The present "College Widow" company is as competent and capable as that of last season. Notwithstanding the fact that the audience knew every telling line and every bit of "business," they laughed as heartily as though everything was new. Anticipation of the transformation of Bud Hicks into Sport Hicks, and the downfall of the town policeman did not take the keen edge off the pleasure. It was a laughter-fest from the beginning to the end. There is no deadwood in the company, every one being alive and anxious to please. This is an assertion which fits few other companies, whether they come the first or second time in a play. And it is all to the credit of Savage. Hoo-ray for Henry W.!

BEST ON EARTH

THE MONARCH RANGE

It utilizes all the heating power of the hard coal, soft coal, wood or coke. Ordinary steel and cast iron ranges are fuel wasters. They may work well until the bolts become loose where steel is bolted to cast iron.

The Monarch range is different. It is constructed with malleable iron frames, to which the steel is rivetted, not bolted. It is only in this way that absolutely air-tight joints can be made. There is no stove putty in Monarch air-tight seams—no danger of leaks.

Synopsis of Regulations for Disposal of Minerals on Dominion Lands in Manitoba, the Northwest Territories and the Yukon Territory.

COAL—Coal lands may be purchased at $10 per acre for soft coal and $20 for anthracite. Not more than 320 acres can be acquired by one individual or company. Royalty at the rate of ten cents per ton of 2000 pounds shall be collected on the gross output.

QUARTZ—Persons of eighteen years and over and joint stock companies holding free miners' certificates may obtain entry for a mining location.

A free miner's certificate is granted for one or more years, not exceeding five, upon payment in advance of $7.50 per annum for an individual, and from $50 to $100 per annum for a company, according to capital.

A free miner, having discovered mineral in place, may locate a claim 1500x1500 feet by marking out the same with two legal posts, bearing location notices, one at each end of the line of the lode, or vein.

The claim shall be recorded within fifteen days if ocated within ten miles of a mining recorder's office, one additional day allowed for every additional ten miles or fraction. The fee for recording a claim is $5.

At least $100 must be expended on the claim each year or paid to the mining recorder in lieu thereof. When $500 has been expended or paid, the locator may, upon having a survey made and upon complying with other requirements, purchase the land at $1.00 an acre.

Permission may be granted by the Minister of the Interior to locate claims containing iron and mica, also copper, in the Yukon Territory, of an area not exceeding 160 acres.

The patent for a mining location shall provide for the payment of a Royalty of 2½ per cent. of the sales of the products of the location.

PLACER MINING—Manitoba and the N. W. T., excepting the Yukon Territory: Placer mining claims generally are 100 feet square, entry fee $5, renewable yearly. On the North Saskatchewan River claims are either bar or bench, the former being 100 feet long and extending between high and low water mark. The latter includes bar diggings, but extends back to the base of the hill or bank, not exceeding 1000 feet. Where steam power is used claims 200 feet wide may be obtained.

Dredging in the Rivers of Manitoba and the N. W. T., excepting the Yukon Territory—A free miner may obtain only two leases of five miles each for a term of twenty years, renewable in the discretion of the Minister of the Interior.

The lessee's right is confined to the submerged beds or bars of the river below any low water mark, and subfor first year and $10 per mile for each subsequent year. Royalty same as placer mining.

Placer mining in the Yukon Territory—Creek, gulch, river and hill claims shall not exceed 250 feet in length, measured on the base line or general direction of the creek or gulch, the width being from 1000 to 2000 feet. All other placer claims shall be 250 feet square.

Claims are marked by two legal posts, one at each end, bearing notices. Entry must be obtained within ten days if the claim is within ten miles of the mining recorder's office. One extra day allowed for each additional ten miles or fraction.

The person or company staking a claim must hold a free miner's certificate.

The discoverer of a new mine is entitled to a claim of 1000 feet in length, aand if the party consists of two, 1500 feet altogether, on the output on which no royalty shall be charged the rest of the party ordinary claims only.

Entry fee $10. Royalty at the rate of two and one-half per cent. on the value of the gold shipped from the ject to the rights of all persons who have, or who may receive entries for bar diggings or bench claims, except on the Saskatchewan River, where the lessee can dredge to high-water mark on each alternative leasehold.

The lessee shall have a dredge in operation within one season from the date of the lease for each five miles but where a person or company has obtained more than one lease one dredge for each fifteen miles or fraction thereof is sufficient. Rental, $10 per annum for each mile of river leased. Royalty at the rate of two and a half per cent. collected on the output after it exceeds $10,000.

Dredging in the Yukon Territory—Six leases of five miles each may be granted to a free miner for a term of 20 years; also renewable.

The lessee's right is confined to the submerged bar or bars in the river below low water mark, that boundary to be fixed by its position on the 1st day of August in the year of the date of the lease.

The lessee shall have one dredge in operation within two years from the date of the lease, and one dredge for each five miles within six years from such date. Rental $100 per mile Yukon Territory to be paid to the comptroller.

No free miner shall receive a grant of more than one mining claim on each separate river, creek or gulch, but the same miner may hold any number of claims by purchase, and free miners may work their claims in partnership by filing notice and paying fee of $2. A claim may be abandoned and another obtained on the same creek, gulch or river, by giving notice and paying a fee.

Work must be done on a claim each year to the value of at least $200.

A certificate that work has been abandoned, anad open to occupation and entry by a free miner.

Berths on their sleepers are longer, higher and wider than in similar cars on any other line. They protect their trains by the Block System.

The boundaries of a claim may be defined absolutely by having a survey made and publishing notices in the Yukon Official Gazette.

Petroleum—All unappropiated Dominion Lands in Manitoba, the Northwest Territories and within the Yukon Territory, are open to prospecting for petroleum, and the minister may reserve for an individual or company having machinery on the land to be prospected, an area of 1920 acres for such period as he may decide, the length of which shall not exceed three times the breadth. Should the prospector discover oil in paying quantities, and satisfactorily establish such discovery, an area not exceeding 640 acres, including the oil well, will be sold to the prospector at the rate of $1 an acre, and the remainder of the tract reserved, namely, 1280 acres, will be sold at the rate of $3 an acre, subject to royalty at such rate as may be specified by Order in Council.

Noblest Birth

By Honore Willsie

Copyright, 190, by C. H. Sutcliffe

Harvell lay in the bottom of his canoe. The canoe was tied a few feet out from the shore, and the river, deep, powerful and mysterious, tugged at the frail little craft. But Harvell did not heed the call. The darkness was deep, yet luminous, with the promise of an early moon, and the night wind that swept from shoreward was sweet and heavy with the fragrance of blooming rushes.

Harvell stared upward to the stars, every sense as keenly alive to the beauty of the scene as if mind and heart had not been given over for days to the problem which he had thrown himself into the canoe to solve. Finally he stirred restlessly and said half aloud:

"No. It's no use. I can't do it. She is too fine and thoroughbred for a great common born chap like me to marry.

"MARGARET!" HE CRIED.

And—no, even if she should be willing, which is an insane thought on my part, I've no right to let her sacrifice herself. I'll stay until tomorrow and then plead business and disappear."

There was a little stir near the pier as of the underbrush, then a woman's voice, wonderfully clear and sweet:

"Let's sit here and wait for the moon to rise. The bungalow is so close and hot tonight."

Harvell caught his breath. It was she. The voice that replied he recognized as that of his married sister, who was chaperoning the bungalow party "You haven't been yourself at all, Margaret, during the entire week."

"I know it, Agnes." The voice, with its tired note, was very touching, and Harvell stirred restlessly. "I'm useless to myself and every one else—every one else," she repeated, as if to herself.

"Oh, nonsense! Peggy, you are too fine and wholesome to talk so. I wish"— Agnes stopped as if not daring to go on.

Margaret's voice continued: "I want you to help me to steal off tonight Agnes. I want to go home, and I may joint the Westburys and go to Paris The stage goes down at 9 and I am going to catch it and steal off without a word to any one. Please, Agnes."

The perspiration started to Harvell's face as he strained his ears to catch Agnes' reply. When it came he gasped

"Sometimes I think brother Paul is a fool!"

Margaret's voice was stern. "Agnes I wish you would never mention Paul Harvell's name to me. I"— But her voice was growing too faint for the man in the canoe to distinguish her words, strive as he would.

"They've started back to the bungalow," he thought. "I am a cad to have listened even thus much. But, anyhow I've lived up to the adage. I wonder why I'm a fool"—

Suddenly a realizing sense of Margaret's words came to him. She was going away, going within an hour and all that he had been feeling for a year was unsaid. For a moment his stern resolve of the early evening was forgotten. Then he sat erect, every muscle tense with stress of feeling.

"It's better so," he said bitterly. "It's my business to begin to forget, if she never wants to hear my name again." He looked off toward the bank, then gave a startled exclamation. The pier had disappeared, His canoe was floating rapidly down stream, while his paddle was safely locked in the boat house.

"I must be almost on the rapids," he thought. With the thought the boat turned the bend that had shut off the sound of the falls and the canoe was in the whirlpool. To swim was out of the question, for in the river here was a mass of jagged rocks hidden in seething water. Almost instantly the canoe was broken and capsized. Harvell, dazed and bruised, clung to a projecting rock that had wrecked him. Fight as he would with all the force of his wonderful physique, he was dashed again and again upon the stones. Yet as he fought he was conscious of only one thought:

"I must get there. I must have just one word with Margaret before she goes."

Then he gave a cry of remembrance. He, with the other men of the camping party, had been planning a footbridge across the rapids. The week before with infinite toil they had laid a single line of heavy planks on the projecting rocks from shore to shore. They were not yet fastened in any way, their heavy weight serving to balance them fairly well on the stones. The darkness, not yet lighted by the moon, concealed the planks, but clinging desperately with one hand Harvell felt about with the other and by rare good luck found a plank, wet and slippery with spray, on a neighboring rock. With infinite toil he raised himself out of the water inch by inch until at last he crouched on the great stone and felt the teetering plank.

Then on hands and knees he started for the shore. Blinded by sprays, the planks half turning so that he could only pause, struggling with rigid muscles for balance, Harvell crawled along the foot wide planks. And with each pause came new discouragement. Margaret would surely be gone. In a panic of haste he slipped and fought his way, now half in the boiling water, half on the slimy rocks, now again on the plankway, gaining toward his goal foot by foot. At last one final spring and he felt again the solid earth beneath him. Without thought of his dripping clothing he started on his half mile run through the woods to the bungalow.

"If the moon would only come up!" he thought as he tore his way through the heavy underbrush. "If—if only I am not too late! I am going to tell her anyhow, just to prove to her that I am a fool. I suppose— Oh, here is the stage road!"

On up the sandy road, his clothes half dry with his rapid pace, then with the great edge of the summer moon peering over the top of the pines, he perceived a dim figure standing by the roadside. The figure shrank back a little at the sight of the man storming up the road. Harvell passed.

"Margaret!" he cried.

"Yes," answered quietly the sweet, clear voice that never failed to thrill him.

"Margaret, why do you go?"

Margaret, too surprised by his sudden appearance to be startled by his knowledge of her movements, made no reply.

"Because," Harvell plunged on, "I annoy you with attention, because I hang on your every word and glance, because I am an ordinary chap with no ancestors, and you are the personification of culture and delicacy—is that it, Margaret?"

"You have no right to speak that way, Paul," said Margaret, in her quiet voice.

"No, but isn't that true?" persisted Harvell. The moon was well above the treetops now. By its light he could see the look of pride with which Margaret drew herself up.

"So you think me a snob? You know me well indeed!"

"Know you," replied Harvell miserably—"no, I know nothing, except that I love you and that I can never hope to marry you."

There was a long pause. The summer night was very fair around them. The girl before him seemed to Harvell a part of the wonder of the night.

"You think, then," said Margaret, "that I am too brainless to admire your fine mind, your splendid physique? Being, you say, well born, I must be a snob."

Harvell drew a long breath. "Margaret," he said, "will you marry me? Will you say yes, Margaret?"

"Not until I have told you," answered the low voice, "that I was born and bred in poverty in the mountains of Tennessee, that I am finely born only as every American is finely born, and I am proud of it."

The sound of stagecoach wheels came up the road, but already the two figures were far up the path that led to the bungalow.

Men Are Bigger Now.

Until the sixteenth century armor developed in a logical way, its forms were governed by the necessities of war, and changes in it were the result of practical experience and actual experiment on the battlefield. At the sixteenth century it became fantastic and meaningless, a gala costume rather than a harness. The greater captains opposed its use, but the nobles clung to it as a mark of distinction. After it was made bullet proof it became so enormously heavy that at the end of the sixteenth century it was complained that gentlemen of thirty were even at that age deformed by the weight of their armor. In spite of the huge armors of Henry VIII., of Anthony of Burgundy and of some others, the average size of the modern man is greater than that of the soldier of the middle ages and the renaissance, if we can judge from the armor preserved in the museums of England and the continent, which are, with few exceptions, small and narrow, especially the leg and thigh pieces.—London Mail.

The Great Cocker.

Glancing through a pile of ancient copy books and letter writers, one dimly realizes what an awful thing it used to be to compose and put upon paper a thoroughly correct epistle. It was not an affair to be lightly taken in hand any more than matrimony. No, not even if one had learned penmanship from the immortal Cocker himself in his house in "Paul's Churchyard, betwixt the Signes of the Sugar-Loaf and the Naked Boy and Shears." Cocker's fame rests on his arithmetic, now obsolete, but the worthy man, besides being a ready reckoner, was also a mighty penman. Doubtless many a seventeenth century youth toiled along with inky fingers under his direction. Hearken to what the master says to him: "Let not your breast lie on the desk you write on or your nose on the paper, but sit in as majestical a posture as you can. With practice you may do brave things."—London Mail.

SOCIAL AND PERSONAL

Matter intended for this column should be addressed, "Social Editor, Daily News, P. O. Box 402, New Westminster."

The Rev. Father O'Neill, O.M.I., returned yesterday from a six months' visit to the old country. He looks exceedingly well, and while he enjoyed his vacation very much, is glad to get back to British Columbia.

H. G. Poole left yesterday for Rossland on a business trip. Thence he will return to his headquarters in Winnipeg.

F. G. Carrington, of Winnipeg, who has been spending a few days in the city, returned yesterday to Winnipeg.

Rev. Gordon Tanner, of Maple Ridge, left the city yesterday on a visit to the east, where he will spend a short time with friends in the vicinity of Toronto. He expects to be back in about a month.

J. Braden, of Alexander, Man., who has been spending a few months in the west, was in the city yesterday. He will start from Vancouver for his Manitoban home to-morrow.

Mr. David Adams, of Adams & Dean, is confined to the house with a sharp attack of la grippe.

Needle Work Guild.

A very representative meeting of the directors of the New Westminster branch of the Needle Work Guild of Canada was held yesterday afternoon in the board of trade rooms, Mrs. J. C. Whyte, president, in the chair. A pleasant feature of the business on hand was the reception and distribution of a large number of garments and other suitable articles, given by the members of the guild in aid of the city hospitals, the Benevolent society and the Children's Aid society of Vancouver, the last named society being reported as caring for eight children from this city at the present time. It was felt that due recognition should be made the good work, and to that end twenty-five most useful articles will be despatched to C. J. South.

St. Mary's hospital, coming next, received 41 articles; the Benevolent society, 12; the Royal Columbian hospital, last but not least, 86.

A number of gifts are still to come in, and many members are also to be heard from, so that the list will be considerably enlarged in the near future.

Miss Annie Stevenson having resigned the position of recording secretary, Mrs. Thornber was elected to the office. Miss Briggs was nominated for the office of treasurer and accepted the appointment.

Cash receipts for the meeting, $9; the bank book showed a balance of $26.86, making a total of $35.86 to the credit of the guild.

Statistics which were presented showed that 164 articles and garments had been received and distributed, and it is evident that great and growing interest is taken in the work by the ladies of the city. The work of the guild is of a most practical character, and readily enlists the sympathies of all ladies who have their eyes open to the needs of their fellow creatures. The society has an unlimited number of directors, and a position on the board is secured by the applicant for membership pledging herself to provide ten garment makers and one paying member. The next meeting of the build will be held in April, 1907.

Economy

SARGENT'S Gem Food Chopper is an economical addition to any kitchen. It saves time and lessens labor, and thus economizes the housekeeper's time and strength. With it many attractive and appetizing dishes can be made from what might be wasted if it were not for the Gem.

It chops food of all kinds—meats, vegetables, fruits, bread, crackers, etc. It does not mash, squeeze, tear or grind, but chops the food as you want it—fine, coarse or medium. Easy to operate, self-sharpening. No kitchen complete without it.

ANDERSON & LUSBY

Trying Out the Doggies.

Hampton, Conn., Oct. 30.—The eighth annual field trial of the Connecticut Field Trial club opened here to-day. Sportsmen from all parts of New England and from New York and Canada are here with their handsome pointers and setters, and many of the dogs entered have a national reputation. There are fifty-seven entries in all, twenty-five for the all age stake, twelve for the Derby stake and twenty in the membership stake.

The Derby, which was for setters and pointers whelped on or after Jan. 1, 1905, was won by Cleophus, owned by E. R. Sanford, Southby Field, Mass.

The all age is for setters and pointers that have won first place in any recognized field trial, and the membership stake is open to club members only.

The Death Roll.

Kansas City, Kan., Oct. 30.—The search for bodies in the ruins of the chamber of commerce building ended to-day, and it is known that sixteen persons lost their lives in the fire.

May Cancel the Opening.

Washington, Oct. 30.—The interior department to-day received despatches from agents in Nevada, indicating that when all the facts are known concerning the opening of the Walker Lake Indian reservation, Secretary Hitchcock may be compelled to recommend that the opening be declared invalid

Christian Scientist Arrested.

Kenora, Man., Oct. 30.—A Christian Scientist named Schrek has been arrested here, charged with permitting his little son to die without calling medical attendance. He will be given a preliminary trial on Friday.

Liberal Meeting.

A well attended and harmonious business meeting of the Liberal association was held last evening in the club rooms, President Howay in the chair.

H. Gilley was elected treasurer, that office being vacant.

The action of the special committee re arrangements for the convention at Vancouver was confirmed, but the association thought it well to add additional names, so that it would be fully represented. The list of delegates now stands: F. W. Howay, J. B. Kennedy, M.P., J. C. Brown, John Reid, W. W. Forrester, B. W. Shiles, A. Hardman, J. McMurphy

A vote of thanks to the committee appointed at a previous meeting to look after the voters' list, for the good work done, was carried by acclamation.
