Worse Than 'Frisco Disaster

Valparaiso and other Cities, Towns and Villages of Chili are in Ruins.---Loss of Life is Estimated at One Thousand People, and Loss of Property at about Two Hundred Millions.

HOMELESS PEOPLE COLD AND HUNGRY

Victims of Earthquake are Without Food, Drink, and Clothing—Winds are Chilly and People Who Have to Sleep in the Open Suffer.

Valparaiso, via Galveston, Aug 19.—Proportionately, the catastrophe here is considered greater than that which befell San Francisco.

Valparaiso and neighboring towns are wrecked and partially burned, and in all towns of the Acongua, conditions are similar.

In the southeastern portion of Chile, several quakes were felt, but there the disaster was not appalling.

As yet, no authentic news has been received from Santiago, although a courier is shortly expected.

Quakes occur from time to time, but are steadily diminishing in force.

As to the dead and wounded, an accurate estimate is as yet impossible, but it is believed that the former will exceed 1,000 in this and surrounding towns.

The authorities have the situation well in hand and have assumed the distribution of food.

Couriers have been dispatched both north and south for provisions. Thousands of tons of flour, wheat and rice are held in store here, and it is not believed a food famine will occur.

The only wires working are subteranean and sea cables to Southern American points, which escaped unhurt.

Rain which began to fall immediately after the first shock, stopped an hour afterwards.

The nights are very cold and windy and the people sleeping in the open air suffer greatly.

The captain of a steamship which has arrived at San Francisco says that the situation here is worse than that following the disaster at San Francisco.

Santiago, Aug. 19.—The latest news brought here by refugees from Valparaiso, contradict some of the first exaggerated statements from there, but show that the catastrophe was extremely severe. Senor Grez, one of the refugees, relates that the first shock was very prolonged and threw the entire city into an indescribable panic. People crowded the streets and squares, crying and lamenting. The first shock threw down a number of buildings. The second shock was more severe, and resulted in the crumbling of most of the buildings in the Almendral quarter.

Immediately after the second shock, the entire city was plunged into terrifying darkness. This, however, did not last long for the scene of destruction was soon lit up by the fires which broke out in this quarter. The light from the flames came as a welcome relief to the darkness.

The people were in an extreme state of terror, many believeing that the end of the world had come.

Among the buildings destroyed were the Victoria theatre, the Bellavista railway station, and the Club De Septembre.

Most of the sever damage was done on the low ground, reclaimed from the sea.

The church of the Espiritu Santo and the church of La Marced, as well as a large part of the buildings on Victoria street, were destroyed.

The masses of material thrown up into the streets made circulation impossible.

The known dead does not exceed 1,000 according to the best estimates. Among those dead is the wife of Admiral Montt.

The hills surrounding Valparaiso suffered but slightly

More than 60,000 persons have taken refuge there.

That portion of the city where are the customs house and the city hall was not seriously damaged.

A large majority of the houses are not fit for habitation.

The storehouses of the customs house are almost totally destroyed.

The water pipes of the city were broken and the water poured through the streets.

Provisions are lacking and hunger is beginning to make itself felt.

There is even lack of water for drinking purposes.

The people of Valparaiso, are utterly exhausted and awaiting the re-establishment of the railway service to leave the city.

People Kill Themselves.

Santiago, de Chile, Aug. 19.—It is known so far that eight lives were lost in this city as a result of the earthquake. Other bodies may be found later. Several persons became panic stricken during the tremblings and threw themselves from the windows of their homes and were killed.

Terror Augmented.

The fires which followed the earthquake were promptly extinguished, but while they lasted they greatly augmented the terror of the people.

As all the telegraph and telephone lines were more or less damaged, the exact situation throughout the country is not yet known, but advices have been received that the towns of Virlage and Casaplanca were entierly destroyed and that San Felice Milippa and Llailai were severely damaged.

Many Villages in Ruins.

At Conception the shock was severe and a number of persons were killed or injured. The towns of Rengo, San Fernando, Quillotta and San Antonio, and many villages are in ruins.

All railway services in the central zone are either interrupted entirely or greatly delayed and commerce is practically at a stand still.

In the city of Santiago much damage was done. The buildings of congress, the municipal buildings, the normal school, the courts, the Peruvian legation, the residence of President Riesco, the central market, and the National telegraph office were all seriously damaged.

The lines of electric tramway systme and the electric light wires were short circuited interrupting street car travel and plunging the city into darkness.

Prisoners in Panic.

The scene in the hospitals and prisons during the earthquake were distressing in the extreme. The prisoners tried to escape from the jails in the hope that they might reach a place of safety, and prison guards were obliged to fire into the air in order to intimidate and quiet their panic stricken charges.

A Little Comfort.

Several shocks of slight intensity have served to continue the state of public alarm. The astronomical observatory, however, has given out a statement to the effect that there will probably not be a repetiton of the severe shocks.

Last night many persons slept in the open air in the public squares and streets. The government has taken steps to restore order. An inspection of all houses left standing has been ordered and directions have been issued for the distribution of relief supplies to those in need. A troop of cavalry has been sent to establish communication with Valparaiso.

Shakes the Railway.

A traveller, who came here by express train, tells us when the train was near Las Vegas, about half-way between Valparaiso and Santiago, the cars were shaken violently and the engine nearly left the track.

All lines of railway to the north and the line to Talca are greatly damaged.

In the city of Santiago, a majority of the victims of the disaster were residents of the poorer portions of the city and many of their homes went to the ground. Several deaths from nervous excitement are reported.

Other Places Destroyed.

The earthquake that wrecked Valparaiso, also completely destroyed a number of surrounding places among them the following:

Vinal Del Mar, three miles from Valparaiso, with a population of over 10,000.

Quieribu, 25 miles to the southward, with a population of 2,500.

Salto Limache, 5 miles to the northwest, with a population of 6,500.

Quilotta, 25 miles to the north, with a population of 10,000, and villages all around.

Most of the damage was due to fire which started immediately after the first shock.

Not So Bad As Reported.

London, Aug. 19.—Most of the private dispatches received in London concerning the disaster at Chile, give the impression that the earthquake was less serious than at first reported. They are very brief, however, and mostly of a personal nature. The Chilean legation has received no official advices, but over a score of telegrams from residents of Valparaiso and Santiago have been received through friends of officials living in London. All these are cheerful in tone, and indicate that the loss of life was not so serious as first reports indicate. The same may be said of dispatches received by business houses, though in a few cases these give serious report. Nearly all the dispatches say that the staffs of foreign firms are safe and that their buildings are not much damaged.

383 Shocks.

London, Aug. 20.—In a dispatch from Valparaiso without date the correspondent of the Daily Mail says: "Sixty per cent. of this city has been completely destroyed. The death roll is very heavy. There were 83 shocks during Thursday night and there have been three hundred more since then. One hundred thousand people are homeless and destitute. Water is giving out. Surrounding towns have been destroyed, and the railroads have been cut.

Bodies Recovered.

Galeny, Aug. 19.—The bodies of two young women, who were drowned yesterday in Lake Massawopic, were recovered. They were Misses Margaret Macdonald of Boston, and Bella Plummer of Worcester, Mass. The two girls took a boat and went for a row on the lake. When they did not return a search was organised and the boat was found capsized. Dynamite was resorted to in an effort to find the bodies, and they came to the surface today.

Sunk in Collision.

Detroit, Aug. 19.—The wooden packet freighter "Governor Smith" owned by the Rutland Transit Co., was sunk today in collision with the Gilchrist steamer Uranus 8 miles off Point Aux Barques, Lake Huron.

It is understood that the smoke on the lake was responsible for the collision. The crew of the Smith escaped. She was loaded down with a cargo of miscellaneous merchandise and the Uranus was up bound.

OUT OF THE CHAOS

There continues confusion of statements as to the magnitude of the disaster to Valparaiso by the earthquake shocks which began on Thursday and continued at frequent intervals throughout that and the next two days. Despatches from Valparaiso to the Associated Press received last night, state that a moderate estimate of the fatalities is 2,000 and the property loss may be as high as $200,000,000, which latter is as great as the loss sustained by San Francisco in consequence of the earthquake and fire which devastated that city last April.

A refugee, who has arrived at Santiago, places the known dead at 100, and other messages indicate that the casualties were greatly exaggerated.

Despatches to the state department at Washington place the fatalities at about 500.

These conflicting statements cannot at this time be adjusted. It is evident that confusion and panic yet prevail at Valparaiso and that until order is restored it will be impossible to obtain with accuracy the toss of life and property. The dwellings in the city have been practically abandoned by the inhabitants, who are existing as best they can in the plazas and streets of the city, and the hills adjacent to it.

The government is doing all it can to bring relief. The crippling of the railroads leading into Valparaiso constitutes a serious factor in the situation, because for an indefinite period, relief supplies can only be obtained through other means of transportation, the sea-board offering the best of these.

SCHEME TO ELECTRIFY C.P.R. BRANCH LINES

B. C. E. R. Co. Would Lease Line From Eburne and to the Junction.

At a meeting held in Vancouver last Saturday between representatives of the C. P. R., and the B. C. E. R. Co., and Mayor Keary, a proposition was made that the C. P. R. should build a line from Eburne to this city, and then lease that line, as well as the line now runing from here to Westminster Junction, to the B. C. E. R. Co., which company would then electrify and operate the entire line from Eburne to the Junction. The undertaking would cost the C. P. R. in the neighborhood of $100,000, and would necessitate the building of a steel bridge, replacing the wooden one that now spans the river to Lulu island.

The proposal was favorably received by those present at the meeting, and the scheme will be favorably reported upon to the officials at the head of affairs in the esat and in England. Mayor Keary is of the opinion that the line would be of great benefit to the city, and he hopes to see it carried to a successful issue.

For Printers' Home.

Colorado Springs, Col., Aug. 18.—By increasing the monthly per capita tax for the support of the union printers' home, from 10 to 15 cents, the International Typographical union today increased tis resources for this purpose $60,000 to $90,000 a year.

Lewis Morrison Dead.

New York, Aug. 19.—Lewis Morrison, an actor whose work as Mephisto in Faust gained him fame, died suddenly of shock on Saturday in St. John's hospital, Yonkers, after undergoing an operation for stomach trouble.

HORRIBLE COLLISION OF RAILWAY TRAINS

Fast Freight Dashes Into Work Train and Many Suffer Awful Death.

Johnstown, Pa., Aug. 19.—Running through a blinding rainstorm at the rate of 45 miles an hour to-day, a fast freight on the Pennsylvania railway collided with a slow moving work train at Sang Hollow, killing seven and seriously injuring seven others of the work train crew. Engineer Woods was the only member of the freight crew who was uninjured. Because of the rain the engineer was unable to see the work train until just before the collision. The engineer of the freight jumped and was fatally hurt. The fireman remained on the engine and was uninjured.

When news of the wreck reached ta the scene was terrible. Some of the injured were crying and moaning on the ground. A damaged engine lay on its side belching streams of hot water and clouds of steam which enveloped several of the injured. When the wreck had been cleared away, it was found that part of the last car on the work train had been thrown 150 feet up the hill at the point of the wreck, and one set of trucks had been hurled in an opposite direction, 75 feet into the river.

Plot Against Palma.

Havana, Aug. 19.—Half a dozen highly prominet leaders of the Liberal party have been taken into custody on the charge of conspiracy against the government and plotting to assassinate President Palmo.

New York, Aug. 19.—Michael F. Dyer, one of the most prominent figures of the American turf, died to-day at his cottage in Brooklyn.

LIGHT HAIRED GIRLS ARE ALL LOCKED UP

Police of Warsaw Try to Find Person Who Threw Bomb at Governor.

Warsaw, Aug. 19.—The revolutionists who on Saturday attempted to assassinate the governor general adopted a strategem to induce him to leave the palace.

A few days ago, a revolutionist, disguised as an officer appeared at the German consulate, quarrelled with the vice consul and boxed his ears. Owing to this incident the governor general was compelled to visit the vice consul and offer an apology.

Meanwhile the revolutionists had rented a flat near the vice consul's residence and when the governor general's carrige appeared, they threw bombs at it.

The police having been informed that a light haired girl threw the bomb, arrested all the light-haired girls in the neighborhood. Nevertheless the miscreant was not captured.

Jerome is Willing.

New York, Aug. 19.—District Attorney W. T. Jerome today issued the following statement: "In the present shameful condition of our political life in this state, I am willing to run for the office of governor of the state, if the Democratic convention shall nominate me without any understanding, expressed or implied, other than, that, if elected, I shall obey my oath of office as I understand it in letter and in spirit.

(Signed) W. Travers Jerome."

Pittsburg, Aug. 19—Reports received here from points in Alleghany and neighboring counties indicate that great damage has been done by a storm that passed over Western Pennsylvania late this afternoon and tonight.

BEAVER COLLIDES WITH THE BRIDGE

Pilot House of Steamer is Smashed and Passengers Rush for Life Belts.

Through a log jamming in the rudder, the C. P. N. steamer Beaver lost the upper part of its pilot house and occasioned a temporary panic among a number of the passengers on Saturday afternoon.

The boat left the wharf at a few minutes after 2 o'clock with a large party from Vancouver on board, who were out for the purpose of enjoying a trip to Pitt lake and the Bridal Veil falls under the auspices of the Vancouver Art, Historical and Scientific association. All went well until the boat was near the big bridge which was swinging in order to let the Beaver through, when a log became jammed in the Beaver's rudder, swung the vessel around in such a manner that the pilot house came in contact with the end of the swing.

The shock caused the vessel to settle back very suddenly and the water started to wash over the sides of the lower deck, while she heeled considerably over to one side. How Captain Reid managed to hold his position at the wheel and come out alive is a mystery. The fact remained that he did it and, on reversing the vessel, the obstruction became released and the danger was over.

The upper part of the pilot house, as low down as the wheel, was taken off and the broken timbers fell across the whistle cord and the continuous blowing of the heavy whistle added very much to the confusion. The smoke stack escaped the end of the bridge by a few inches and was uninjured.

Some of the passengers were panic stricken and if all reports are authentic, some of the gentlemen on board acted in a very excited and uncalled for manner and, apparently thinking that the boat was bound for Davy Jones's locker, went on the principle of "Ilka ain for himsel' an the deil tak the hindmost." There was a scramble for the life belts and a general fixing up in order that they might be in readiness for the worst, and if the stories which have been circulated are correct it is high time that the stock of life belts in question was overhauled and replaced by life belts calculated to save life.

There never was a time when the vessel was in any particular danger as it has a steel hull and is fitted up with air-tight chambers.

Some of the passengers were so alarmed that they insisted on being put ashore at Sapperton instead of continuing their journey to the lake as was at first intended.

Capt. Reid sustained a strained hand and shoulder in his struggle with the wheel and Purser Nesbitt was upset and carries a black eye. Dr. Dalby of Vancouver happened to be in the thick of it and managed to get a number of nasty bruises and spoil a good suit of clothes.

The steamer Favorite which was a short distance down stream when the accident occurred heard the crash, screams and the continuous blowing of the whistle and started out in a hurry to pick up the fragments, but fortunately, assistance was not needed, and the picnicers with the exception of those who were landed at Sapperton continued the journey to Pitt lake without any further mishaps.

The debris was cleared away yesterday and the Beaver will start on the usual trip at the accustomed hour this morning. The only difference will be that Capt. Reid will have nothing between him and the bright blue sky.

AN OLD LADY'S HOME.

One Obstinate Elderly Woman Who Refused to Be Taken Care Of.

"And grandma can mind the children, you know, and that will leave me free to go where I please," said the fashionable and stylish Mrs. Charles Bradford to her husband.

It was a beautiful plan, the one Mrs. Charles was urging on her husband. His mother, Mrs. Harriet Bradford, was to be invited to live with them. Mother was too old to work any more, declared Mrs. Charles, and needed to have her affectionate children take care of her. It didn't look well for a prosperous man's mother to be out working for money anyhow.

"Tell her it's time she was taking things easy," argued Mrs. Charles to Mr. Charles, who, manlike, believed everything his wife said.

But there was just one drawback to Mrs. Charles' beautiful plan. Her mother-in-law had accidentally overheard the conversation. The sentence about grandma taking care of the children and leaving Mrs. Charles free to gad about as she liked especially stuck in grandma's mind. Left a widow with four children, Harriet Bradford had brought them up and educated them by keeping a boarding house and feeding her boarders well. That last was the secret of her success, she told people. But change, which is the only permanent thing in this world, overtook her scheme of life. Her four children grew to maturity, married and left her. The locality which had witnessed her success as a money earner became unfashionable, and nice persons did not like to live there any more. Besides that, Harriet Bradford, best of mothers and nurses, had spent so much time looking after her children and their babies in their various illnesses and troubles that she really neglected her boarding house, and it had "run down" somewhat. It had ceased to be profitable. Then her children, especially her stylish daughter-in-law, Mrs. Charles, began to nag her to give up her home and come and live with them and be "taken care of." She might possibly have bitten at the bait the wily Mrs. Charles was dangling before her if she had not overheard that one sentence, which revealed as in a flash of lightning her whole future mortal existence if she accepted the offer to "come and live with us and be taken care of." She, who had struggled through the measles, the chicken pox, scarlet fever, squalls, clawing, fighting and infant depravity of four young ones of her own, to start in when past sixty and do it all over again for other people's children and get not even thanks for it, much less any money?

"GRANDMA CAN MIND THE CHILDREN."

"I'll die first," said Harriet Bradford. "I'll not be shunted off in a corner."

Her health was good, and she was so strong that her daughters-in-law vowed grandma was much tougher than they were. But she did not want to start another boarding house. She needed a change. Her mind was bright and alert. She had never let herself be shunted off to one side intellectually. She was still in the swim.

She told her loving daughter-in-law she was going to see a friend in another city, which was the truth. But the truth also was that she never came back from that other city except for an occasional short visit, and then she came as a handsomely dressed, dignified lady, whom not even a daughter dared to take liberties with in the way of making suggestions as to her future. Harriet Bradford's friend in the other city was establishing a modest business enterprise. She said to Mrs. Bradford, "If you only knew stenography I could give you employment three hours a day."

"I'll learn stenography," said Mrs. Bradford. Being away from her children and former neighbors, there wasn't a soul to say to her, "At your age!"

She learned stenography and typewriting. Here is the final and present arrangement: Harriet Bradford and her friend live together and keep house. Harriet does stenography, typewriting and office work four hours a day. Then she goes home and does light housework. Being a capital cook, you should taste the dainty dinners she and her friend enjoy. They go out evenings; they are free as air after business hours. Mrs. Bradford is very happy, fairly well paid and does not have to suffer the bitter humiliation of "being taken care of." She says every old woman could earn a good living in some way if she only had the pluck and grit to do it.

ANOTHER VICTORY ADDED TO THE LIST

Home Team Defeats Maple Leafs of Vancouver but by a Narrow Margin.

A little better luck, a little better combination work, more shooting instead of passing, when they had the chance, and the Maple Leafs might have possibly have got a tie in the lacrosse game last Saturday at Queen's park. Considering that they were playing against the New Westminster seniors they did very well, and in fact better than they really expected to do themselves, but in spite of all the sad result is the same, and the visitors returned home vanquished. The score was five to four against them.

The interesting part of the game was during the last quarter, when the Maple Leafs made a strong effort to tie the score, and managed to raise their standing from five to one to five to four. The visitors played snappy lacrosse during this quarter, and rushed the game for all they were worth. Almost the whole of the time they had Sandy Grey busy keeping the ball out of his reserve, and even with the hardest work on his part, they managed to get past him in a way that must have made Sandy feel very bad indeed. In the last couple of minutes play, with the possibility of the Leafs tying the score, the excitement on the field was greater than it has been at any lacrosse match played here this season, and the large number of Vancouver supporters who were present yelled themselves hoarse in urging their team to put forth their best efforts to score another goal. But it was not to be, and when the timekeeper sounded his gong, the visitors were still pressing Sandy's stronghold, but the score remained as told above.

From the face-off in the first quarter, Westminster got away with the ball, and in thirty seconds Len Turnbull dropped the first goal for the Red Shirts. There did not seem to be the ghost of a chance for the Leafs getting a look in in the game by the time the players had been on the field fifteen minutes, for the score then stood at four to nothing, but just before time was called, Morrison managed to get past the defence, and flung the rubber into the net. The second quarter was merely a series of more or less interesting passes, with an occasional shot at the goals by both sides, but no addition was made to the score. L. Turnbull added one more to Westminster's score in the third quarter, but for these two quarters, the play could not be considered brilliant, although it was fairly even between the two teams. The last quarter was the really interesting part of the game, when, by sharp work and accurate shooting, the Leafs pulled themselves up from a very poor score and made a creditable showing before the game was closed.

Only two men were ruled off during the game, both being Royal City players, and only for minor offences, the penalty in both cases being only three minutes. Tommy Gifford was placed under the trainer's care for a few minutes in the third quarter, having received a severe blow from Murray's stick. It takes a hard knock to lay Tommy out, but he keeled over in fine style after his body had been used as a barrier for Murray's stick, and the game was delayed a few minutes while he was being massaged back into fighting form.

Harry Latham was in fine form and worked harder than any other man on the field. Bert Henry was a little off color, and missed a few chances to score by shooting wide. Len Turnbull was in evidence all the time, and showed up in his usual good form, ably supported by brother Bill. The defence players were on the spot most of the time, but the combination work went to pieces in the last quarter, the Leaf nome profiting thereby.

Lineup of the teams:

Missed His Letters.

When the session was over at Ottawa, J. B. Kennedy, M. P., started off on a little tour of the provinces down by the sea, and left instructions at Ottawa that all letters coming for him were to be held until he called or wrote for them. In due time he called, and found that his letters had, two days before, been remailed to New Westminster. He is anxious that his correspondents shuold know this, as otherwise they might be blaming him for neglecting to answer. He expects to be home about the end of this week.

WHY THEY WILL NOT TELL.

The fisheries commission will not sit again until Sept. 15, and only committee work and the preparation of reports of committees who have been or are engaged in the gathering of information will go on in the meantime. The natural desire of the newspaper men for news of the proceedings, while it is gratifying to the commissioners in one way, as showing that the public take an interest in their proceedings, is an embarrassment in another, as they naturaly do not wish to appear wanting in civility to the representatives of the press and at the same time are bound not to make public the proceedings of the commission in advance of official publication. The information that the commission at its late sitting in Victoria, dealt with all matters before it at the date, has been published and is correct; but how they dealt with these matters is another question. Any statements as to that should be taken as the more or less shrewd guesses of the newspaper man. The fact that certain communications were sent to the commission was made public by the senders, and the commissioners feel free to say that these communications were duly brought before them; but whether they were acted upon—a decision pro or con arrived at—or laid on the table or under the table, the members of the commission are not free to state. Not that there is any desire of secrecy as to their action, but simply that, being appointed to inform and advise the department, it would be entirely contrary to all official etiquette did they announce their action to the public, until it had been laid before the head of the department. The government certaily has a right to the first information.

In the matter of the proposed extension of the time of trap fishing, or rather the suspension of the regulation as to an annual close time, as far as the traps are concerned, the public will not have long to wait, as any action taken in the matter must necessarily be taken within a few days. In the meantime it may be as well to say that the regulation does not bar all fishing. An article in this paper the other day was written under the impression that it did, but as a matter of fact, fishing for spring salmon—that is, with a net having 7-inch meshes—has always been allowed, nor has any proposal been made to change this ,so far as we are aware.

THE GROWING TIME.

The papers are full these days of notes of progress; new enterprises are announced, old ones are extended, the price of real estate is going up, big "deals" in land are reported. This state of affairs is very gratifying, and there is every warrant for the predictions which one hears that the next few years will witness a great development, accompanied by a large increase of population, in British Columbia. It is as trite as it would be useless to utter warnings about the danger to individuals which lurks in this state of affairs. Such conditions have alawys produced a speculative spirit, which has in many cases led to the ruin of those who allowed themselves to be carried away by it, and a similar result will follow the present wave of prosperity and progress. There will be winners and losers and every one hopes to be among the winners. But it may serve a useful purpose to "point a moral" for the Province as a whole. We have had more than one instance of a big bonus, given or proposed, to secure the construction of a line of railway, or some other work of public utility, which would have been construed as a business proposition, without any bonus, had people been content to wait a little. In one such instance this Province parted with public property of enormous value and in return got nothing. The railway to secure the construction of which the bonus was given was constructed when business demanded it, and not a day sooner, and would have been constructed had the Province given nothing. In another instance, the bonus was refused and the line was constructed just the same, not any later than it would have been had the bonus been given. The moral is, of course, plain. Where public aid is given, let there be a quid pro quo. Any community may legitimately extend a helping hand to a new enterprise, but when that enterprise has become a paying concern it should give back to the community a fair equivalent for the aid extended. There can be no objection to a fair bargain, but what is generally understood as a bonus—that is, a gift—is not a fair bargain. This is particularly true when the bonus takes the shape of a huge grant of land to a railway company, enabling it to rivet the fetters of monopoly upon a large section of country. The action of past governments in this Province has been suicidal in this respect, and the people should exercise the utmost vigilance to see that there is no repetition of such criminal folly. The growing times of the past have produced a crop of bonus seekers, and it is altogether probable that the breed is not extinct.

Paul O. Stensland, the fugitive Chicago banker smasher, is a badly hunted man. He was at Midway, B. C., or thereabouts on the 17th, and detectives were hard on his trail. At the same time he was away down in Alabama, and there also the sleuth hounds of the law were closing in on him. This information we get from the wires, and who dare doubt their testimony? Paul should be a little more careful. If he turns up in too many places, the officers will be in hard luck if they cannot nab him somewhere.

A lecture on temperance will be delivered at the Eagles hall, next Wednesday evening, Aug. 22, at 8 p.m., by Miss Rokka, of Minnesota. There will be no charge for admission, and all comers will be welcome.

FISHERMEN GO HOME AFTER FIRST DRIFT

after the first drift the majority of the sockeye hunters went home and went to bed to wait for better times. There were no fish worth talking about and the majority of boats drew "skunks" while others had about two or three to a drift. There were a large number of fisherman out and the majority expected a fairly good spurt, but were disappointed.

The freighter Selkirk which is under commission to run between the B. C. Cold Storage and the same company's traps came in on Saturday night with a cargo of about 1500 fish which embraced a mixture of springs and cohoes.

Springs are still running pretty well and the white salmon are unusually large this year. Fishing experts, who have watched the river for a number of years are of the opinion that the sockeye run is over for this season. There may be a few come later, with the late run but they consider that there will not be enough to make it worth the while of the canneries to keep open.

Local News Briefly Told

The city council will meet this evening.

A team of New Westminster cricketers will represent this city at the cricket tournament to be played in Victoria this week, commencing this afternoon.

Indian Agent McDonald will leave in a few days for the Chilliwack district and look over the condition of the growth of noxious weeds on the Indian reserve in tnat vicinity.

J. Black, formerly C. P. R. cashier at this point, is in the city renewing his acquaintance with his old friends. He is now C. P. R. claims agent with headquarters in Winnipeg.

Two half-breeds will pay their respects to the police magistrate this morning. Both were taken to the police station Saturday night while suffering from the effects of numerous and powerful thirst quenchers.

The Linda, a steam tug operated by the Ollery company was in port for water last night. The captain stated that the Ollery was hardly kept going this year, the refuse from the canneries was such a scarce article.

During the week, while the Blaine carnival is in progress, the G. N. R. will issue special rate tickets, good to return any day until August 25, for $1.35 the round trip. The trains will leave as usual at 9.20 a.m. and 4.35 p.m.

The New Westminster baseball team is going over to Blaine to take part in a baseball match on Wednesday afternoon. The Blaine carnival will be in full swing by that time, and the match has been so fixed that it will be played on British Columbia day.

A liquor pedlar will be charged in the police court this morning with having supplied some of the Siwashes with whiskey on Saturday evening. The police also arrested a drunken Indian woman to whom he had supplied the liquor, and secured a flask of Irish dew which will be used as evidence in the case.

A farmer from Ladner, who gives the unusual name of John Smith, was given free lodging at the lockup on Saturday, and remained there overnight. He will explain to the police magistrate this morning how it happened that he was found intoxicated at an hour when he should have been in bed.

The friends of Kenneth McSween who is lying seriously ill in the Royal Columbian hospital have shown their sympathy for him in a very tical manner. He has a farm in the Chilliwack district and his neighbors have gathered in his hay crop by means of a bee and have also attended to other necessary work about the ranch.

Work has been commenced on the new rifle range on the Surrey side of the river. The range is to be constructed at a point near where the big bridge turns westward and the brush has been partly cut in an easterly direction. The land is of a peaty nature and a plank walk will be built right through to the target which will be backed by a hill. The brush cutting is being continued to day and by Wednesday all will be in readiness to go on with carpenter work.

Three men who were creating a disturbance in the lower quarter of the city yesterday afternon were placed under arrest by Officer Johnston, who appeared on the scene while one of them was in the act of kicking in the door of one of the houses. Johnston captured the principal offender, and handing him over to the care of a Swede who happened to be around, he gave chase to the other two. He captured these, but on returning to the place where he had left his first prisoner under the care of the Swede, he found both men had disappeared. He escorted his two captives to the station, where they were later released upon a small bail, as they were not the chief offenders. The third man is still at large.

Humor and Philosophy

By DUNCAN M. SMITH

THE LONE MAN.

Say, what a snap he seems to have—
The only man about the place
Where women go in summer time
To rest the brain and tan the face!
No oriental potentate
Has things more neatly in his mitt
As round among the girls he struts
And bills himself as Mr. It.

They hold a sunshade over him
And bring a match to light his pipe,
And if he'll only go along
They'll show him where the fruit is ripe.
They sing for him their sweetest songs
And charm him with their brightest wit,
And they will even elocute
If he will only stand for it.

But that is just the brighter side.
If some one has a trunk to strap
Or a valise to lug around
Of course he is the handy chap.
If in a boat that's built for three
A dozen ladies wish to go,
They like to have him come along
That they may sit and watch him row.

It isn't such a lovely snap
As you might for a moment guess.
Were it as good as it appears,
The man would die of happiness.
There are some drawbacks, you observe,
That for the other things atone.
And one is this: He never has
A chance to stroll with one alone.

Alfonso as an Eater.

King Alfonso of Spain is devoted to the pleasures of the table and keeps a cook on duty until 4 in the morning, so that he can have supper up to that hour. Five meals are served daily in the Escurial palace. Here is the king's eating schedule for the day: Eight a. m., breakfast, tea, coffee, chocolate, milk, rolls and cold meat; 11 a. m., luncheon with the ministers of state, soup, two entrees, joint, vegetables, sweets and fruit; 4 p. m., tea or Spanish wine, cakes and sandwiches; 7 p. m., dinner, two soups, two entrees, two joints, vegetables, ices, sweets, fruits, Spanish wines, champagne; 9:30 p. m., tea, wines, cold meat, cakes and dessert.

A Bronze Mummy.

A miner who lost his life while at work 2,000 years ago has been taken from a copper mine in Chile recently. His whole body had been mummified by the action of copper oxide, which had given it a greenish tinge. The mummy is in a fine state of preservation. Coarse sacking, evidently the clothing of the ancient Inca workman, was found with the body, as were also two mallets, one fashioned out of granite and the other out of ironstone. These implements were tied with thongs into bent sticks made as double handles. Both the hide and the sticks were as fresh looking when found as if they had been in use only the day before.

Needed Tinkering.

"Thirteen prisoners got away during the night," reported the officer to the commander of the Russian fortress.

"Where was the watch?"

"He claims he was on duty."

"Send for him. Something is the matter with that watch's escapement," growled the commander.

POPULAR GARDENING

Nitrate of soda and kainit are sometimes used as a dressing for land before sowing seeds or setting plants likely to be attacked by the cutworm Kainit is said to be especially good against the insects infesting onion beds.

Most seed will admit of being sown moderately thick, but it is a mistake to sow too thickly, as the plants become weak from overcrowding. Much time is lost in thinning out, and the ground becomes impoverished.

Get busy as soon as the weather permits if you do not wish to see your neighbors gather their first crops days or weeks ahead of yourself.

As soon as the soil becomes dry enough to work no time should be lost over making the first planting of peas, spinach, onions and others of the more hardly vegetables, using as much thoroughly decayed manure as your means will permit.

Beets and kohlrabi may be started indoors early in March and after being hardened in frames placed outdoors about April 15.

ANCIENT AND MODERN.

The Gowns of Our Grandmothers Are Prototypes of Present Modes.

It may be that to the masculine mind the figures in the illustration do not appear to be closely related or that the dainty modern gown is really built on the same lines as those of the two monstrosities, but they are all of one family, and all of them have the waist line drawn up to the bust in front and shoulder blades in the back, and, although they do look very dreadful to us now, remember there was a time when these dresses were considered beautiful, and they were really quite elaborate. One was of plain taffeta, with tulle puffs set in between folds of the silk, while the tulle was made into a ruff for the neck. The bertha has beez transformed into a short bolero effect in the modern dress, and looped lace applique takes the place of the puffs. The short gown of olden times was far more modest than the long one of today, for the latter must be dragged up into all sorts of shapes, not one of them being too delicate to keep at out of the dust. The fearful bonnet of those days has its prototype, too, in several of the modern ones, though at first glance one might not recognize it. The other suit, which in its day was worn, we are told, as a court costume, also has its high waist line and a train of figured "paudesoy," as it was then called, bordered with a series of balloon puffs of tulle, with bands of gauze ribbon across each and a tiny flower to hold it, which same garnishing went quite around the train and also the short sleeves. There were long gloves to cover the otherwise bare arms. The close toque, with its mass of bending plumes, is no uglier than the rakishly tilted hat of today, and the hats bear a strange family resemblance, or would if they were turned so that they could be viewed at the same angle.

The reason why I dip into the musty records of the past is to show my sisters what they are coming to. There is not a monstrosity in the way of fashion—and some of the past modes have been simply horrible nightmares—that we may not accept again as beautiful and very elaborate and submit to be made as ugly as the unfortunate wearers of those old styles were. Shall we let ourselves be led helplessly back to the styles of old simply because some French modiste wishes to exploit his or her fancies as though they were entirely original?

First we had the empire coats with their absent waist lines, and then the dressmakers began to make us wear the princess skirt, which was neither fish, flesh nor good red herring, and from that the transition was easy to the empire waist and shapeless skirt hanging from the place where the waist should begin. This may suit some slender figures, but what of the others?

I saw some really beautiful parasols recently, and two of them were white silk, with a little black bolster in the center of each rib and a deep fringe of black silk thread around the bottom. This silk was knotted for about three inches, and the fringe fell below. Two others were also of white silk, with black thread lace covers and deep ruffles of lace at the edges. This is also the revival of an old mode, only now the parasol is large and the handle long and richly carved.

Among the dainty little accessories which are such aids in feminine adornment I saw some belts made of rich chene ribbon, with its white ground and shadowy flowers, and these were shirred to frames to fit the figure, some of them being three or four inches wide at the back or front, and sometimes both, in points. A few are self trimmed at the front or back with raised shirrings and narrow ruffles, and some have beautiful mace or pearl buckles, and a very few have rhinestones in some pretty design as a finish. These last are not suited for outdoor wear. The pretty kid belts are still favorites, and the big harness buckles are liked by some.

The sleeves of nearly all dresses and waists are elbow length, which makes the long gloves necessary to the well dressed woman, and these are generally of white or black silk. Silver and gold bracelets are worn very much with short sleeves.

Treatment For Patients Suffering From Sunstroke.

In case of sunstroke, immediate treatment must be given to remove excessive heat. Get the patient to a shaded spot, remove the clothing and bathe the body, face and head in ice water. Lay ice in towels on head and neck and over the wrists. Rub spine and surface with it. If able to drink give all the cold water the patient can take, but never stimulants. In case of sunstroke the face is red and the head and body hot and dry. In case of heat exhaustion the face is usually pale and the pulse rapid and feeble. In this case give the patient rest in a cool, well ventilated room and administer stimulants gradually. Persons addicted to alcoholic drinks are much more susceptible than others to sunstroke and exhaustion.

Vermin In the Head.

Tincture of larkspur seed is a sure and safe remedy for vermin in the head. Saturate the scalp, parting the hair often as you proceed, applying the solution with a small sponge. Then soak the hair near the head, and finish by immersing the remaining length in a small cup of the liquid and wring it out. Do this at night, allowing the hair to remain loose to dry. In the morning comb carefully. Three applications should be enough.

Mint Punch.

From one dozen sprigs of fresh mint carefully remove the bruised leaves, which give a rank flavor. In a quart jar shake one cup of crushed ice and one-half cup of sugar until the sugar is dissolved. Add the mint, pour over it one tablespoonful of pure cider vinegar or lemon juice. Add one cup of currant juice or one glass of currant jelly and water to make one quart. If currant jelly be used omit the sugar wholly or in part. — Good Housekeeping.

Oversleeves For Children.

Children's white dress sleeves can be kept perfectly clean at the table if a small pair of extra sleeves of white are made with an elastic inserted at the top and at the wrist. They can be made of any lightweight material and are easily laundered. The oversleeves will also be found useful when the children are at play, as the cuffs of a dress soil quickly.

To Clean a Rusty Pot.

To remove rust from a kettle put into it as much hay as it will hold, fill it with water and boil it many hours. If the kettle is not entirely fit for use, repeat the process. It will be certainly effectual. Rub the rusty spots on the stove with sandpaper, then with sweet oil.

Spiced Apple Jelly.

If a small bag of spice is placed in the kettle when making apple or crab apple jelly the flavor will be much improved, and it varies the jelly without effort. A few leaves of sweet geranium thrown into the jelly also gives a delicious flavor.

Ironing Colored Goods.

When ironing colored blouses, no matter of what materials, don't use a very hot iron. An overheated iron injures the colors, making them look dull and faded. All calicoes, ginghams and chintzes should be ironed on the wrong side.

Cleaning Vegetables.

After washing green vegetables two or three teaspoonfuls of vinegar should be put into the next water. This not only makes the vegetables nice and crisp, but also draws out any insects that may be hidden in the leaves.

Cuban Coffee.

To serve coffee in Cuban fashion put three pints of sweet rich milk into the brightest of new coffeepots and let it come to a boil. Put in a teacupful of ground coffee and boil five minutes. Strain and serve.

Washing Glassware.

When washing glassware do not put it into hot water bottom first, as it will be liable to crack from sudden expansion. Even delicate glass can be washed in very hot water if slipped in edgewise.

Keeps Brass Bright.

After brass or copper articles have been cleaned if they are brushed over with the beaten white of an egg they will stay bright much longer than they do ordinarily.

Tenders for a License to Cut Timber on Dominion Lands in the Province of British Columbia.

SEALED TENDERS, addressed to the Timber and Mines Branch, Department of the Interior, and marked on the envelope "Tender for Timber Berth No. 494," will be received at this Department until noon on Wednesday, the 8th day of August, 1906, for a license to cut timber on Berth No. 494, comprising the West half of Section 26, Township 5, Range 7, West of the 7th Meridian, containing an area of 303 acres more or less.

The survey of this berth is to be made within one year of receipt of tenders.

The regulations under which a license will be issued, also printed forms of tender and envelope, may be obtained at this Department or at the office of the Crown Timber Agent at New Westminster, B. C.

Each tender must be accompanied by an accepted cheque on a chartered bank in favor of the Deputy of the Minister of the Interior, for the amount of the bonus which the applicant is prepared to pay for the license.

No tender by telegraph will be entertained.

PERLEY G. KEYES,
Secretary.

Department of the Interior, Ottawa, June 23, 1906.

Synopsis of Canadian Homestead Regulations

Any available Dominion Lands within the Railway Belt in British Columbia, may be homesteaded by any person who is the sole head of a family, or any male over 18 years of age, to the extent of one-quarter section of 160 acres, more or less.

Entry must be made personally at the local land office for the district in which the land is situate.

The homesteader is required to perform the conditions connected therewith under one of the following plans.

(1) At least six months' residence upon and cultivation of the land in each year for three years.

(2) If the father (or mother, if the father is deceased) of the homesteader resides upon a farm in the vicinity of the land entered for the requirements as to residence may be satisfied by such person residing with the father or mother.

(3) If the settler has his permanent residence upon farming land owned by him in the vicinity of his homestead, the requirements as to residence may be satisfied by residence upon the said land.

Six months' notice in writing should be given to the Commissioner of Dominion Lands at Ottawa of intention to apply for patent.

W. W. CORY.
Deputy Minister of the Interior.

Synopsis of Regulations for Disposal of Minerals on Dominion Lands in Manitoba, the Northwest Territories and the Yukon Territory.

COAL—Coal lands may be purchased at $10 per acre for soft coal and $20 for anthracite. Not more than 320 acres can be acquired by one individual or company. Royalty at the rate of ten cents per ton of 2000 pounds shall be collected on the gross output.

QUARTZ—Persons of eighteen years and over and joint stock companies holding free miners' certificates may obtain entry for a mining location.

A free miner's certificate is granted for one or more years, not exceeding five, upon payment in advance of $7.50 per annum for an individual, and from $50 to $100 per annum for a company, according to capital.

A free miner, having discovered mineral in place, may locate a claim 1500x1500 feet by marking out the same with two legal posts, bearing location notices, one at each end of the line of the lode, or vein.

The claim shall be recorded within fifteen days if ocated within ten miles of a mining recorder's office, one additional day allowed for every additional ten miles or fraction. The fee for recording a claim is $5.

At least $100 must be expended on the claim each year or paid to the mining recorder in lieu thereof. When $500 has been expended or paid, the locator may, upon having a survey made and upon complying with other requirements, purchase the land at $1.00 an acre.

Permission may be granted by the Minister of the Interior to locate claims containing iron and mica, also copper, in the Yukon Territory, of an area not exceeding 160 acres.

The patent for a mining location shall provide for the payment of a Royalty of 2½ per cent. of the sales of the products of the location.

PLACER MINING—Manitoba and the N. W. T., excepting the Yukon Territory: Placer mining claims generally are 100 feet square, entry fee $5, renewable yearly. On the North Saskatchewan River claims are either bar or bench, the former being 100 feet long and extending between high and low water mark. The latter includes bar diggings, but extends back to the base of the hill or bank, not exceeding 1000 feet. Where steam power is used claims 200 feet wide may be obtained.

Dredging in the Rivers of Manitoba and the N. W. T., excepting the Yukon Territory—A free miner may obtain only two leases of five miles each for a term of twenty years, renewable in the discretion of the Minister of the Interior.

The lessee's right is confined to the submerged beds or bars of the river below any low water mark, and subfor first year and $10 per mile for each subsequent year. Royalty same as placer mining.

Placer mining in the Yukon Territory—Creek, gulch, river and hill claims shall not exceed 250 feet in length, measured on the base line or general direction of the creek or gulch, the width being from 1000 to 2000 feet. All other placer claims shall be 250 feet square.

Claims are marked by two legal posts, one at each end, bearing notices. Entry must be obtained within ten days if the claim is within ten miles of the mining recorder's office. One extra day allowed for each additional ten miles or fraction.

The person or company staking a claim must hold a free miner's certificate.

The discoverer of a new mine is entitled to a claim of 1000 feet in length, aand if the party consists of two, 1500 feet altogether, on the output on which no royalty shall be charged the rest of the party ordinary claims only.

Entry fee $10. Royalty at the rate of two and one-half per cent. on the value of the gold shipped from the ject to the rights of all persons who have, or who may receive entries for bar diggings or bench claims, except on the Saskatchewan River, where the lessee can dredge to high-water mark on each alternative leasehold.

The lessee shall have a dredge in operation within one season from the date of the lease for each five miles but where a person or company has obtained more than one lease one dredge for each fifteen miles or fraction thereof is sufficient. Rental, $10 per annum for each mile of river leased. Royalty at the rate of two and a half per cent. collected on the output after it exceeds $10,000.

Dredging in the Yukon Territory—Six leases of five miles each may be granted to a free miner for a term of 20 years; also renewable.

The lessee's right is confined to the submerged bar or bars in the river below low water mark, that boundary to be fixed by its position on the 1st day of August in the year of the date of the lease.

The lessee shall have one dredge in operation within two years from the date of the lease, and one dredge for each five miles within six years from such date. Rental $100 per mile Yukon Territory to be paid to the comptroller.

No free miner shall receive a grant of more than one mining claim on each separate river, creek or gulch, but the same miner may hold any number of claims by purchase, and free miners may work their claims in partnership by filing notice and paying fee of $2. A claim may be abandoned and another obtained on the same creek, gulch or river, by giving notice and paying a fee.

Work must be done on a claim each year to the value of at least $200. A certificate that work has been abandoned, anad open to occupation and entry by a free miner.

Berths on their sleepers are longer, higher and wider than in similar cars on any other line. They protect their trains by the Block System.

The boundaries of a claim may be defined absolutely by having a survey made and publishing notices in the Yukon Official Gazette.

Petroleum—All unappropiated Dominion Lands in Manitoba, the Northwest Territories and within the Yukon Territory, are open to prospecting for petroleum, and the minister may reserve for an individual or company having machinery on the land to be prospected, an area of 1920 acres for such period as he may decide, the length of which shall not exceed three times the breadth. Should the prospector discover oil in paying quantities, and satisfactorily establish such discovery, an area not exceeding 640 acres, including the oil well, will be sold to the prospector at the rate of $1 an acre, and the remainder of the tract reserved, namely, 1280 acres, will be sold at the rate of $3 an acre, subject to royalty at such rate as may be specified by Order in Council.

FALLS FROM BRIDGE, DIES FROM INJURIES

Sam Gamble Meets With Fatal Accident While at Work Near Revelstoke.

Sam Gamble, one of the best known bridge builders in this province, if not in the Dominion, fell forty feet to his death last Thursday while working on the construction of a bridge near Revelstoke. The bridge was being built by the Locomotive and Machine company for the C. P. R., and while standing on a stringer, Mr. Gamble was struck by a swinging derrick and thrown off his feet. In his fall he struck against some false work, and from there rebounded to the ground, where he was picked up unconscious by his fellow workmen a few minutes later. He was immediately taken to the Revelstoke hospital, but died after lingering there two days without having regained consciousness.

Sam Gamble was well known in this city, having been foreman on one of the gangs that built the Fraser River bridge, and having also resided here for a considerable time. Like most men of his trade, he was naturally a rover, and had worked on bridges in many different parts of the continent. Last winter he was at Saskatoon, superintending the work on the bridge that spans the river there, and since that time he had travelled considerably, working on bridges most of the time.

The body is expected to arrive here this evening from Revelstoke, and will likely be buried to-morrow afternoon. His brother-in-law, E. B. Stinchcombe, has instructed D. Murchie to look after the funeral arrangements. A sister, Mrs. Sid Ellard, also lives in this city, these being the only relatives in the province. The unfortunate man was single, and about 45 years of age. He came to this country about 30 years ago, and worked on the C. P. R. construction across the Rockies. He was a native of Lanachran, Enniskillen, County Fermanagh, Ireland.

Vancouver Wins at Cricket.

A New Westminster cricket eleven visited the Terminal city on Saturday afternoon for the purpose of playing a game of cricket, but upon arriving there, they found that the Vancouver team were not ready to meet them, several being absent playing tennis, and a scratch team had to be got together for the amusement of the visitors. A. Malins captained one of the teams, and R. Faulder was in charge of another. The game ended in a victory for Faulder's eleven by 41 runs for the loss of nine wickets.

The following is the score:

Flickers in the Bush.

A little fire sprang up yeterday afternoon on the edge of the Blue Mountain ditrict. It is supposed that a stump which was ignited during the recent fires and had been smouldering had broken out and set fire to the surrounding brush. As the burning spot was practically isolated it did not occasion the settlers in that district any undue anxiety. A number of stumps are still burning and will continue to burn for some time to come.

At Port Moody it was reported that the side of the hill caught fire and blazed up very fiercely for a time. A number of the residents of the village turned out and extinguished the blaze before it assumed too great proportions to be managed.

A MODERN ARCADIA.

Nowhere Are Life and Property So Safe as In Labrador.

A traveler who recently visited the coast of Labrador says that nowhere on earth are life and property held so sacred as in that little known and barren land. A thousand miles of lonely seaboard, along which is scattered a population of some 10,000 people, about one-third of whom are white, would seem to give every opportunity for crime, yet there is no police officer of any kind, no court and no jail. Nor are they needed. The only criminal charge within fifty years was one against an Eskimo, who shot a rival in love.

In addition to the resident population the coast is visited every summer by about 10,000 Newfoundland fishermen, and, while Newfoundland itself is not by any means free from criminals, none appear to come among the fishers or else the example of the natives of Labrador causes them to refrain from any wrongdoing while there. Years ago a circuit court visited the coast every summer, but as it found nothing to do it was abolished. Now should any serious charge be made against a man a magistrate would be sent from Newfoundland to investigate it.—Harper's Weekly.

Satisfying Honor In India.

They had a peculiar way of going into bankruptcy among the Marawaris in India, now unhappily giving way to the less picturesque method of the white man. When a man could not pay his bills he would summon his creditors. They were ushered into a room in which the thakur, or household god, was enshrined, but covered up with a cloth and with the face turned to the wall in order that it might not witness the scene that was to follow. The insolvent would then, in garb of mourning, lie on the floor, presenting his back to his creditors, who, on a given signal, would fall on him with shoes and slippers and belabor him till their wrath was exhausted. The beating finished, honor was declared to be satisfied all around.

VICTORY FROM DEFEAT.

Two Notable Instances In the War Record of Great Britain.

Only on one occasion has a British force offered terms amounting to surrender before the commencement of an action, but this is what the Black Prince felt himself obliged to do by the overwhelming forces of the French before the battle of Poitiers. So certain did he consider defeat to be that he actually offered to give up all the plunder he had taken, disband the greater part of his force and give an undertaking not to fight against the French for seven years, and so confident were the French that they refused these terms. The result was one of the most brilliant victories that adorn the British arms.

In modern times the victory of Albuera, in the peninsular war, is another instance of apparent defeat being turned into victory. After the charge of the French hussars and Polish lancers all seemed lost. Ammunition was failing a deep gully prevented the use of the bayonet, and Beresford was preparing for retreat when the valor of Colonel Hardinge saved the day. The battle, which lasted only four hours, was the scene of terrible carnage, and when it was over the so far victorious French were driven headlong down the hill, on the summit of which 1,500 unwounded men, the remnant of 7,500 unconquerable British soldiers, stood triumphant —London Spectator.

FEMININE HEROISM.

Women Have Often Fought In Defense of Their Native Towns.

During the oppression of the Netherlands by the Spaniards in the sixteenth century it was no uncommon event for women to fight in defense of their native town. When in 1572 Don Frederic at the head of a large army besieged Haarlem, among the garrison that defended the town were 300 women Their chief was a widow of distinguished family, about forty-seven years of age, who, at the head of her amazons, participated in many of the most fiercely contested actions of the siege.

Seven years later, at the siege of Maestricht, the women were of great assistance in making mines, enrolling themselves into companies under the direction of officers, or "mine mistresses," as they were called. The service they rendered was inestimable.

At the repulse of the Spaniards from the walls of Alkmaar women and even children showed a like courage, assisting their husbands and fathers in the desperate defense. History, indeed gives many examples of such heroism, among which may be mentioned the brave conduct of the women at the defense of Sarragossa in 1808, when they took the place of their slain husbands or brothers at the cannon side.—Blackwood's Magazine.

BEGGARS IN ITALY.

Their Game Seems to Be a Pretty Hard One to Beat.

It is hard to beat the beggar game in Italy. A fleet footed urchin and his maiden fell into a fox trot by the side of the carriage.

"Look, noble gentleman," he began "look, beautiful lady! See the little ragazza—the poor girl—have pity on her See, noble signor—you cannot refuse to give her something—your heart is too good—you are too generous, too noble, too handsome, to refuse. Have pity on her dreadful state, for look—she has one gray eye and one black one!"

We stopped the carriage. It was true The maiden had indeed particolored eyes, in addition to which she rejoiced in a most appalling squint. I gave her one copper. Hereupon her escort set up a howl at being ignored.

"But why should you have anything?" I asked.

"You ought to give me two coppers," he replied, with a twinkle, "for I have two blacks eyes, and she has only one."

I was vanquished. I gave him his two coppers. I don't believe in beggars, but I think he earned them.—"A Levantine Log Book," by Jerome Hart

Hired Mourners.

"It pays to be a mourner in St. Petersburg, and there are agencies which employ great numbers of vagrants and tramps for the purpose," says a writer. "These agencies supply suitable clothing and pocket handkerchiefs—everything, in fact, except boots, which the tramp must show on his feet, or he will not be hired. When there is a more or less important funeral the tramps gather at the Nikolski market and are selected by an employee of the agency. The wage for the occasion, with tips, generally equals about 3 shillings."—London Mail.

Their Quarrels.

Mrs. Edgerton Blunt—But why did you leave your last place? Applicant—I couldn't stand the way the mistress and master used to quarrel, mum. Mrs. Edgerton Blunt (shocked)—Dear me! Did they quarrel much, then? Applicant—Yes, mum; when it wasn't me an' 'im it was me an' 'er.

SEA SHELL MERCHANT IS DROWNED AT SEA

Squall Upsets Craft and Capt. McElhinney Fails to Make the Shore.

One of the best known characters on the Fraser river in the person of Captain O. D. McElhinney lost his life in a heavy squall in the gulf near the sandheads on Saturday last. He leaves a family of ten to cherish his memory. All the family are grown up and are living in different parts of the country. The Captain was a strong sturdy man and had followed the sea the greater portion of his life. He was born on the rough coast near Halifax and was connected with the sea from his earliest recollections. Almost as soon as he could walk and talk he learned to manage a boat and drifted into a seafaring life as naturally as a duck takes to the water. He worked his way along through the various stages and eventually secured master's papers both for the United States and Canada. He went to Glasgow, Scotland, and left it to friends to secure him master's papers there, but some how his friends did their calculating wrong and made him out to have three days short of the required time. As a result they told him that he could only have a mate's papers. As he prepared to leave the district he came closely in contact with some of the officials with the result that he caught a place on the teaching staff of the Nautical academy and filled it for some time. The old craving for the free life of the sea soon came back, however, and he accepted the proffered first mate's rating and once more embarked on "A life on the ocean wave." Eventually he married and settled down to the life of a landsman and for some time held the position of Pullman car conductor on the Intercolonial railway. Something over fifteen years ago he had the misfortune to lose his partner in life and was left with ten little ones, with whom he braved the long journey to the west and located in the Steveston district. He farmed and fished for a considerable time and the children gradually reached man and women's estate and left the old homestead. One daughter is the wife of Jos. Steves, of Steveston, the well known cattle breeder, whose parents gave the name to the thriving little village of Steveston. Capt. McElhinney could not stay long away from the water and when family cares ceased to demand his constant attendance at home he took up an agency for Bliss Native Herbs and cruised along the coast selling the medicine wherever he could find a purchaser.

One day he was cruising in his schooner around the coast of Vancouver island to Cowichan and the weather began to look pretty dirty. He rounded up to the lea of Salt Spring island, where he proposed laying to for the night. As he drew near in the dusk, he noticed a long white bank stretched out in the distance and was so curious to know what it was that he could hardly wait till day break. When the daylight at last came he headed for the point and discovered that it was a solid mass of shells.

He filled his boat with the shells and fed them to his poultry which thrived so well upon it that he conceived the idea of gathering them for sale, and did so. He worked up quite a business along that line. He was just returning from one of his shell gathering expeditions on Saturday when his boat was capsized. He had had a number of narrow escapes but although he had lost his boat on one or two different occasions had always managed to make land alright himself. This being the case he had come to think that he bore a charmed life and would not die by the sea, which fact doubtless led him to be more venturesome than he otherwise might have been.

The deceased was a man of cheery disposition and while shrewd and quick to grasp a chance to make money, was generous to a fault. Every man was his friend and many will regret deeply his sudden death.

POLICE INVESTIGATE CASES OF DROWNING

Five Bathers Lose Their Lives in the Waters Above New York City.

New York, Aug. 19.—Five persons lost their lives in the waters above New York today. Most of the victims were bathers. Three were drowned together near Manhattan Beach in a manner that could not be ascertained. The police are conducting an investigation. The only eye witness to the drowning disappeared. The three were Morris Grosse, Martin Anderson and an unknown bather, about 20 years old.

A particularly sad case was that of Harold Sellers, who was swiming with his father in Jamaica bay. They were diving from a launch and after a plunge the young man did not re-appear. The father dived frantically in the hope of rescuing his son until he became unconscious from exhaustion and was with difficulty rescued and rescusitated.
