OMISE PENSIONS TO AGED BRITONS

Henry Campbell-Bannerman and Mr. Asquith Are Interested in Scheme.

ondon, Nov. 20.—Replying to-day a deputation of members of the se of commons, from the Liberal Labor parties, Premier Campbell-nerman said the matter of old age sions would be taken up as soon ime and money permitted. He ex-sed himself as opposed to the con-tory scheme because it involved isitorial machinery.

ld age pensions, the premier con-ed, far from sapping independence undermining thrift, would do just opposite. Any scheme ought to niversal, and must be put into t by the state, which alone has means of carrying it out.

peaking to the same delegation, ncellor of the Exchequer Asquith there was nothing nearer his than to be able to submit a fin-l plan for such pensions. He red one altogether disassociated the poor law, and assured the ation that the government re-ed this question as one of extreme ncy.

CHILLIWACK FLOOD BECOMES SERIOUS

Latest Report Shows that Hotel and Mill Are in Danger of Being Swept Away.

The latest advices from Chilliwack say that within the past few days the Chilliwack river has been converted into a raging torrent by the heavy rains, resulting in a diversion of its course, and the washing away of the Cultus Lake road. The base of the Cultus Lake mountain is licked by the rushing stream, and huge masses of earth are being detached. The bridge recently built near the summer hotel, and commonly known as the Crossing, is in danger of being washed away every minute. The hotel is threatened by the flood, and it is hardly possible that it can escape destruction, while the Chilliwack Lumber Co.'s mill on the other side of Vedder creek is also in grave danger, and men are at work removing the machinery, so that it may be saved when the flood reaches the building. The situation is a very serious one, and it is feared that immense damage will be done unless the flood abates very soon.

RTNEY DEMANDS STRICT ECONOMY

ronto, Nov. 20.—A note of warn-was sounded by J. M. Courtney, puty minister of finance for Can-in an address before the Cana-club, yesterday, upon the fiscal m of Canada. In referring to c expenditure, he said that cer-classes of expenditure, properly ated, are eminently desirable to ade and should be encouraged. He even allow that in recent great opments there may be no extrav-e, but allowing all this, he said da was spending too much. It ed to him that Mr. Gladstone's te formula might be adopted. da, out of its abundance, may m its indebtedness or might re-its taxation, or it might, without g to its debt, pay for its great al works. At the present time effort should be made to save. are maturing liabilities to be f loans floated some twenty-five rty years back, and it will re-all the wisdom of government et the future and preserve our credit. For these reasons he t that expenditure should be ly scanned, and that a half be called in many instances.

VERNON LIBERALS SELECT CANDIDATE

Enthusiastic Meeting Nominates Dr. K. C. Macdonald to Oppose Price Ellison.

(Special to the Daily News.)

Vernon, B.C., Nov. 20.—Liberal delegates to the number of 82, from all parts of Okanagan electoral district, met here this afternoon to select a candidate to contest this riding at the forthcoming provincial general election. After noteworthy addresses by leading Liberals, T. W. Stirling, of Kelowna, in an eloquent speech declining nomination, proposed Dr. K. C. Macdonald, of this city. This was seconded by D. Vankleek, of Armstrong, and amidst great enthusiasm, was carried unanimously.

In Dr. Macdonald, the Liberals of the Okanagan have a candidate who, with very little doubt, will defeat Price Ellison, the present member. Many of Mr. Ellison's old supporters have gone back on him, being unable to swallow his support of the McBride-Hawthornthwaite, so-called, Conservative government.

Ross for Senator.

Toronto, Nov. 20.—The news of the death of Hon. Senator Vidal, of Sarnia, probably precedes the early announcement of the translation of Hon. G. W. Ross, present leader of the Liberal opposition in the Ontario legislature, to the Canadian senate.

After the Rebaters.

New York, Nov. 20.—The American Sugar Refining Co. was found guilty by a jury in the United States circuit court to-day of accepting rebates from the New York Central Railroad Co. to the amount of $26,000.

SERIOUS SITUATION.

MADRID, Nov. 20.—As a consequence of receipt the cabinet of despatches setting forth that the tuation of Europeans in Morocco is growing worse, inister of Marine Alvarado decided, after consulta-on with the premier and his colleagues, to order the ttleship Pelaya to the Moroccan coast.

The Pelaya will proceed either to-night or to-orrow for Tangier, where she will join the French arships. She will take 500 marines. It is reported re, though the rumor lacks confirmation, that the itish squadron, now on the coast of Spain, also has en ordered to Morocco. In official circles the opin-n is held that the Moroccan situation is imminently rilous. The present precautions are intended to restall the serious developments rendered possible the giving of increased powers to the bandit isuli. The attitude of all the powers concerned is clared to be perfectly harmonious, and the first act hostility on the part of the Moors will be the sig-l for the disembarkation of landing parties from the foreign warships.

MACDONALD AND OLIVER SPEAK

First Liberal Meeting of the Campaign in New Westminster Proves a Splendid Success.

Long before the hour at which the advertised Liberal meeting in the Liberal club rooms was announced to commence, the large hall in which the meeting was to be held was crowded, and when Chairman F. W. Howay opened the meeting, every available seat was occupied, and a good sized crowd was standing in the aisle and outside the doors. In a few well chosen words, Mr. Howay announced the object of the meeting, and introduced John Oliver, M.P.P., who had been selected to be the first speaker. Mr. Oliver spoke for nearly an hour and a half, and in the course of his remarks brought out a large number of irrefutable facts which strongly condemned the political administration of the Conservative government during the time they have been in power in this province. The facts were supplemented by a tabulated assortment of figures, connected with the several questionable deals which have been put through under the McBride administration, and by their aid Mr. Oliver was enabled to prove that the Conservative government had lamentably failed in the carrying out of the platform which they submitted to the electors at the last election.

Mr. Oliver commenced his speech by referring to the doubtful transactions which have taken place in connection with railways. The rate upon which railways were taxed was not at all equitable, and although they were supposed to be taxed on a basis of $10,000 per mile, the actual taxation was very different, and the amount paid in taxes by the different roads varied greatly. In the case of the Red Mountain road, the taxes amounted to only 1 per cent. of the gross earnings, while in the case of other roads the taxes varied very much indeed—from 2 or 3 per cent. up to 38 per cent. of the gross earnings. He considered that it was the duty of the government to see that there should be an equitable distribution of the taxes.

Coming to the matter of assessment, Mr. Oliver stated that he knew that the merchants would agree with him that their assessments had been materially increased under the McBride administration. (A voice—"By four to one.") The greatest injustice in connection with the assessment was in connection with the taxation of bank deposits. Workingmen were obliged to contribute 1 per cent. of their savings to the government, while their money was only drawing 3 per cent. The result of this was that a large number of people were withdrawing their deposits and placing their money in banks outside the province. The government claimed that the bankers had insisted on this act being passed, but when it was put into execution, the bankers were the first to ask for the abolition of the objectionable clause. Dealing with the assessment of lands and crops, Mr. Oliver stated that there had been an average increase of 73 per cent. in the total assessment, while the decrease on the expenditure on bridges, roads and other improvements was exactly 40 per cent. Another injustice in connection with the assessment was that the commission sat only in Victoria, and if any New Westminster or Rossland merchant or farmer wished to make objection, he had to travel to the capital. Two of the ministers who sat on this commission had been interested in the drafting of the bill, the others being Messrs. Ker and Buntzen. The public feeling against the bill was so strong that the government was compelled to alter materially the original bill within one year.

The injustice of the amendment to the land act was next dealt with. The government wanted to force people who had been paying taxes on their land for twenty years to be obliged to pay exactly the same royalty on their timber as a person cutting on crown lands. This the Liberals had compelled them to drop, as it was an injustice. He was opposed to the practice of compelling a man to pay five years' timber licenses in one lump sum, as this was a great deterrent to the small mill owner. There were three different charges for timber licenses, viz., crown leases, new licenses and transferred licenses, and this was certainly not right. Timber was one of the most valuable assets of this province, and out of this a revenue equal to all the needs of the province could be secured. This could not be done while the speculator had control of such large areas of valuable timber. Timber was being sold at a high figure now, but it would not be very long before the speculator would be able to command almost any price from the mill men, and then the citizens would have to pay even more for their lumber. While the present government remained in power, there would be no change in this. Mr. Bowser had openly made the statement that they had to give the speculators a chance.

The all-important school question was next discussed. The effect of the school act was not so keenly felt in the cities as in the rural districts, but there the people were all in favor of having an equitable school system for both town and country. Owing to the parsimonious salaries paid, it was almost impossible for teachers to be obtained, and schools were often closed for months at a time. Unless the district was able to supplement the government grant, the teacher would receive only $40 a month, this being the amount granted by the local government.

Mr. Oliver dealt a few hard blows at the Socialist party, whom he said had insisted on their own districts being exempted from any school contribution. He did not think it was British justice that one district should be so exempt.

When the Conservatives were on the platform at the last election, they promised that any bonus given to a railway company should be conditional upon the government having control of the freight and passenger traffic. Last year 800,000 acres of land were given to the C.P.R., and both Conservatives and Socialists voted against that clause being inserted, thereby throwing down their own platform. The C.P.R. had no more right to those 800,0000 acres than anyone else had. They were to receive the land conditional upon completing a contract within a certain time, and this has not been done. When the railway would build west from Midway, as the G.N.R. would force them to do, they were prepared to ask for another million acres from the government—and they would get it, if the Conservatives were returned to power. The C.P.R. company in this province owned between three and four million acres of land, upon which they did not pay a cent of taxes, although the land was taxable, and had been taxable ever since it passed into their possession. This system of not taxing the railways meant an annual loss to the province of at least $150,000.

The Kitamat land sales—or rather steal, as Mr. Oliver put it—was next referred to. The government had allowed the whole of the Kitamat waterfront to be stolen from the people. When the matter was exposed in the house, Mr. Green stated that he would investigate, and that he would make it hot for whoever was responsible, but when it was proved conclusively that the first two deeds had been authorized by Premier McBride, there was nothing more said about it. At Kaien Island, the whole townsite was sold for $1 an acre. Mr. Oliver had been refused permission to see the order in council, but it appeared to have been shown quite freely to Mr. and Mrs. Anderson, and they had been able to get in on the ground floor. The speaker closed a telling address by asking the electors not to go into the election on purely party merits, but to look further into the questions at issue, and to remember that what they were doing was not only for themselves, but also for their children, and for the continued prosperity of the province.

Mr. Oliver resumed his seat amid loud and prolonged applause.

The next speaker to be called upon by the chairman was James A. Macdonald, K. C., M. P. P. He expressed regret that he had been so late in arriving, but he was ably proceeded by his friend John Oliver, who never forgot anything and left very little for anyone who chanced to follow him to say. One thing however, Mr. Oliver had not touched upon, and that was "Better Terms." A strong effort had been made to make it a non-partician affair, but politics seemed to have been forced into it by Premier McBride, who represented a government which was sometimes Conservative and sometimes something else. One day the government would be strongly socialistic, and the next day would change its tactics and repudiate the men whom the day before they had been apparently supporting. Mr. Oliver would remember how Mr. McBride brought into the house the Better Terms Resolution and it was agreed that the matter should be one in which party politics should be avoided. Yet Mr. McBride was now making it an election cry. He had shown himself to be unfamiliar with the cause he was himself advocating, and the speaker had discovered one case alone in which the premier was wrong in his figures to the extent of half a million dollars. That was what Mr. McBride called a just presentment of the claims of the province.

Mr. Macdonald stated that he had prepared a motion declaring that British Columbia was entitled to better terms than the other provinces, on account of the fact that it cost considerably more to manage its affairs than it cost the other provinces. It cost more to operate schools, and more for the administration of justice. In the latter case the cost was nine times that of the maritime provinces, and five times that of Ontario. On account of these and other peculiarities, the province was entitled to more consideration than the other provinces were. A resolution had been brought down by the premier, dealing with the matter, and Mr. Macdonald had also presented a resolution which had finally been adopted instead of that of the premier, and which was the basis of the "better terms" crusade at Ottawa. Could a better chance have been given to keep out party politics?—and as a matter of fact, no taint of party politics had entered into the matter until Premier McBride inserted it in his platform as a campaign cry. He recognized that he must have a party cry, and Messrs. McBride, Hawthornthwaite, et al., dare not appeal to the people of British Columbia on their past record. They must keep that in the background and draw a red herring (Voice—"Hold on! You'll have Taylor after you!") across the trail in order to keep the people from dwelling too much upon it. When the provinces entered into confederation, they had secured the sanction of their actions from the Imperial government. So far as the Dominion government was concerned, it has carried out its obligations as called for in the contract under which they went into confederation. All the province's rights according to contract had been granted, but we consider that on account of the conditions of our province we ought to have larger subsidies. The premiers met in conference, and Premier McBride upheld that view of the case, claiming more recognition, and the decision was, "We will give B. C. the ordinary subsidy, and in addition the sum of $100,000 a year for ten years." Mr. McBride left the conference, and refused to accept the offer, and in leaving, left British Columbia in the mess she finds herself to-day. The speaker did not say that Mr. McBride should have accepted the offer—he should have stood out for more. He met Mr. Fielding outside the committee room, and that gentleman had promised to assist Mr. McBride to the full extent in his power. He undertook to secure for British Columbia an additional $40,000 per annum for ten years and $30,000 per annum for all time to come. Instead of accepting the offered assistance or going back to the conference and asking for more, Mr. McBride left the meeting, gave up the fight and went to New York. He then came back to British Columbia and expected the people to fall on his neck and say: "What a heroic fight you have made for the province!"

Mr. McBride's action in the matter showed that he recognized the authority of the conference to deal with the matter. If the conference had any rights in the matter, he should have stayed with it until he saw it through clear to the finish.

There could be a readjustment of the subsidies without the consent of the provinces, but not without the consent of the Imperial parliament, which had the power to amend the B. N. A. act. The speaker did not believe, however, that the Imperial parliament would make any changes in the act without the consent of the provinces. The provinces must all agree on a plan of action, and then the Imperial authorities would be able to take the matter up and deal with it.

The speaker then took up the question of railways. He said if anything was badly needed in the province, it was more roads and railways in order that the people might be assisted in opening up the resources of the province. The north needed assistance. The southern sections of the province had been helped considerably, and now attention should be given to the vast territory lying north of the C. P. R. system, which was at present without means of connection with the outside world. Mr. McBride might have said he wanted aid for that work; he, however, chose to go to New York. The speaker did not know what for, unless he were looking for campaign funds from that source. Mr. McBride could have asked for the 3,500,000 acres of land in the Peace river district, which had been surveyed for the purpose of transfer to the Dominion under the "settlement act," and which was worth $5 per acre. Mr. McBride could have asked for that land for the use of the province, and if his request had been refused, he could then have rung in his cry of having been refused fair play for British Columbia.

The next theme Mr. Macdonald touched upon was that of Indian reserves. He said that Indian reserves tied up a great deal of the best fruit land in the province, located in the Similkameen and Okanagan. Two or three times more land than the Indians required was reserved for them. Land of that description was worth much more to British Columbia, on account of her peculiar formation, than it would be to other provinces. Land worth from $200 to $50 per acre was tied up in that way. Mr. McBride should have tried to do away with the dual ownership of lands, which would

DEFENDS MAYOR SCHMITZ.

NEW YORK, Nov. 20.—Dr. Edward T. Devine, who, as special representative of the Red Cross, had the supervision of the relief work of the society at San Francisco following the earthquake, declared at the annual meeting of the New York State branch of the Red Cross, that while mistakes might have been made in the distribution of the relief funds, there was no graft there.

Devine referred to the indictments recently returned against Mayor Schmitz of San Francisco, growing out of an investigation of municipal affairs, saying: "There is one person, at least one, who has had every opportunity to know the truth, who does not believe the mayor has stolen a single penny of the relief fund."

Dr. Devine sturdily defended the society in dealing with the disaster, and insisted that the work of relief had been well done.

The Work of Taking Stock of Religious Property in France Nears Its End.

Odessa, Nov. 20.—A desperate attempt was made here to-day by a band said to be composed of social revolutionists, to murder the chief commissionary of the Odessa police. The band did not desist until the police had opened fire on it with a Maxim gun, killing three men and wounding three more. The others escaped. Another band, composed of terrorists, today seized $2,000 in the office of the Russian Navigation Co., after killing a police official.

Labor Convention.

Minneapolis, Minn., Nov. 20.—Subsidized shipping, which involves the enlistment of the seamen to be employed on the subsidized ships as members of the naval reserve, was denounced at to-day's session of the American Federation of Labor convention. President Gompers touched extensively on this subject in his annual report.

Delegate Farusher, who read this portion of the committee's report, concluded by saying: "We recommend that the American Federation of Labor reiterate its condemnation of this bill, with its un-American provision for conscription." The resolution was adopted.

The child labor resolution introduced in the United States congress, calling for an official investigation of the woman and child labor system in the United States, was approved, and its passage by congress recommended.

The bill calling for an eight-hour day for railroad labor was also approved. The convention officially went on record as inviting the deputies of railroads to a joint conference for a consideration of labor questions.

The anti-injunction bill was endorsed and the injunction plan scored.

Japanese, Chinese and Hindu labor was included in a sweeping denunciation of Asiatic immigration, and a demand for further exclusion. "Slavery" was the term used to imply the employment of Asiatics in the Panama canal work. "If," reads the report, "the canal cannot be built except by the introduction of involuntary servitude, it is better that it be not built at all."

Pugilist Accused of Murder.

Grand Rapids, Mich., Nov. 20.—The coroner's jury which investigated the death of Pugilist Michael Ward, returned a verdict to-day, finding that Ward came to his death through 'a fall as the result of a blow struck by Harry Lewis in a prize fight."

The verdict says that blame should be laid upon the promoters and abettors of the fight as fully as upon the principals themselves.

After the return of the verdict, a warrant was issued for the arrest of Lewis, who has been in custody since the fight, charging him with wilful murder.

Frank Lynch, who promoted the match in which Ward met his death, was arrested and held in $1,000 bonds for examination Dec. 3.

A French Anglophobe.

Paris, Nov. 20.—Senator De Villaine created a sensation in the senate to day, by making a vicious attack on the foreign and interior policy of the government. He charged the government with playing into the hands of Great Britain, and demanded to know whether the report was true that a military convention had been planned between Great Britain and France, as a prelude to the great adventure in which Foreign Minister Pichon and War Minister Picquart had embarked with Premier Clemenceau.

Premier Clemenceau, after defending M. Pichon and General Picquart, announced that he could not say anything regarding the Franco-British understanding, but stated that he did not believe a military convention existed. The senate rejected the interpellation 213 to 32, and voted confidence in the government.

A Cause of Righteous Wrath.

Perhaps the most striking instance of what unnecessary ringing at the doorbell can produce in the way of exasperation is to be seen in the wording of a notice on a brass plate in a street leading out of a well known west end square. It is on the door of the corner house, and this is how it runs: "This house is No. 64A —— street, and not No. 13 —— square. That house is round the corner. Do not ring here." One can dimly imagine the state of nervous madness to which that householder was reduced before he sat down to compose that notice.—London Chronicle.

TERRORISTS TRY TO KILL OFFICER

Band of Revolutionists at Odessa Puts Up Prolonged and Determined Fight.

Paris, Nov. 20.—The net results of the inventory operations conducted throughout the country to-day and to-night, show that a total of over 1,500,000 inventories were made. In only a few cases were there serious collisions between those who resisted the intrusion of government commissioners and the troops. The reports show that altogether four gendarmes and several peasants were wounded, and that about one dozen demonstrants were arrested. They were at once tried and sentenced to short terms in jail. The work of inventorying has been completed in sixty-three out of the total of eighty-six departments. There still remain 2,000 inventories to be taken in the other 23 districts, and some places stout resistance is anticipated.

Premier Clemenceau said in the chamber of deputies to-night, that the troops had been ordered to exercise patience, but that if they were fired on, they would reply.

American Pork Barred.

Paris, Nov. 20.—The elimination of the microscopic examination of pork from the new American inspection regulations, has resulted in a preliminary decision on the part of the French customs authorities, barring American ham, bacon, tinned pork, etc. Ambassador McCormick, under instructions from Washington, made energetic representations to the foreign office, pointing out that while the microscopic examination had been eliminated, the new meat inspection was more rigorous and more efficient.

Foreign Minister Pichon promised to give the matter immediate attention. Fortunately a slight delay will not cause great material loss, as the pork importations to France are comparatively small, the trade never having recovered from the blow it received when American pork was originally excluded from France.

Chinese Funeral To-morrow.

The body of Wo Tom, a Chinaman, which has been lying at Murchie's undertaking parlors for nearly four weeks, will be shipped off on its long journey to China on Thursday afternoon. The body is consigned to the care of Tong Wah, at the hospital in Hong Kong. Before the body is placed on the train, a religious procession will take place through Chinatown, and a long service will be held in the Chinese hospital. A sort of preliminary service was held at Murchie's yesterday afternoon, when a large number of Celestials gathered in an upper room and burned prayer papers and punk sticks by the score. The funeral ceremonies will be conducted on an elaborate scale.

Snow Bound Trains.

Topeka, Kas., Nov. 20.—As a result of last night's storm, four overland trains on the Rock Island El Paso division were stalled to-day in the cuts between Bucklin and Liberal, Kas. No attempt was made to-day to run freight trains on that division. The Santa Fe reported their main line across Kansas open, but several trains on that road are snow bound in the Panhandle division, where the snow is from four to five feet deep in the cuts. The weather is moderating.

Burned to Death.

Salisbury, Md., Nov. 20.—The town of Stockton, in Worcester county, Maryland, was visited by a fire last night, which destroyed every business house in the place except the Stockton bank. Clarence Parsons was burned to death. He was asleep in the store in which the fire originated. Sixteen buildings were burned.

Norway Demands Neutrality.

Cologne, Nov. 20.—In a despatch from Berlin, the correspondent of the Cologne Gazette confirms the report published and discussed in the English press for several years past, that Norway intends to propose that the powers, including Russia, shall guarantee the neutrality of Norwegian territory. The correspondent says he has learned that Germany is favorably disposed to this idea.

KAIEN ISLAND.

In previous articles on the Kaien island transaction, we have shown from the official records and the evidence, that the first dealings of the Government were with a speculative company which proposed to acquire the lands and then sell them to the G.N.R. This is admitted even by the intensely partisan "whitewashing" report of the majority of the committee.

Just when the Government woke up to the fact that the deal as proposed was a little too barefaced, it is impossible to tell, as no records have been preserved, and those who took part in the verbal negotiations "cannot recall"; but the evidence, verbal and documentary, affords some hints. These questions and answers (Mr. Bodwell is the witness) are very significant:

Q.—And at a later period—I do not care when it was—at a later period the Grand Trunk Pacific acquired an interest in this business? A.—I did not say it; the documents say it. I

Why did he use that form of words? Take this further answer:

Q.—Well, you were then acting for them on the 29th April, 1904? A.—In respect to the business in which I was instructed by telegram. I was acting according to my instructions; there they are (referring to telegram).

He was acting for the Grand Trunk—as its attorney, however, not as its agent; he had no power to commit it—and he was acting on the authority of this telegram:

"Will be glad to have you act on Mr. Stevens' communication in regard to Lima Harbor in such way as to fully protect our rights for the time being, and until definite plans can be determined upon, without, however, committing us irrevocably."

A few more questions, after the one quoted above, and the history of the telegram came out. Mr. Bodwell having said that the words "Stevens' communication" in the above telegram meant a communication from Mr. Stevens to Mr. Hays, he was asked how he would know anything about it, both these gentlemen being in the East, and he answered:

"I think Mr. Stevens told me. I don't know exactly. At any rate, I telegraphed Mr. Stevens, and in the ordinary course I knew that Mr. Stevens had to see Mr. Hays, and in due course I received that telegram from Mr. Hays."

It is quite plain, of course, that this roundabout introduction of the Grand Trunk was an afterthought of the Government to "save its face" when the matter came to light.

As we showed in a former article, the telegram was received by Mr. Bodwell, in Vancouver, April 29, 1904; the order in council was passed in Victoria, the next day. It is evident, then, that negotiations had been going on from early in January until the end of April before there was anything to show that the Grand Trunk was connected with the matter at all, and then, and for many months afterwards, there was nothing to show but a private telegram to Mr. Bodwell. Even then, the order in council directed that the lands should be conveyed to E. V. Bodwell, and not to the Grand Trunk. That was on April 30, 1904. On March 9, 1905—ten months later—Mr. Bodwell writes the Chief Commissioner of Lands and Works: "I hereby direct and request that the Crown grant should issue directly to the Grand Trunk Pacific Railway Company instead of to me."

Can anyone reconcile these facts—facts proved by evidence given under oath and by official documents—with the Premier's statement that the transaction "was from first to last, as far as the Government of this Province is concerned, a direct transaction with the Grand Trunk Pacific Railway Company itself, and with no middleman or profit-making intermediary whatsoever"? And if the whole thing was a plain, simple, straightforward grant of a terminal site to the railway company, why did not the Government—having, on April 30, 1904, declared by order in council its intention to make the grant—put it through and have done with it? Why the delay of ten months?

COAL IN THE NORTHWEST.

In view of the rather alarming reports which have been circulated about a threatened coal famine in the Northwest, the subjoined statements are of special interest. Any shortage of coal, it will be seen, must be due to some check on production, or transportation, not to any shortage of available supply.

It is true that it is only a very few years since the only coal mines worthy of the name operating in Alberta were the Lethbridge and Canmore mines. But these have expanded into large enterprises, and many other similar ventures have since achieved success. There are now in the provinces of Alberta and Saskatchewan over twenty well established and well equipped collieries, besides countless smaller mines which are worked spasmodically to supply local wants.

The records kept by the Mines Section of the Geological Survey show that in 1887 the coal production of the then Northwest Territories was for that year 74,152 tons, valued at $157,577. In 1905 the figures for Alberta and Saskatchewan had attained over 1,000,000 tons, representing a value of over $2,000,000. In other words, in eighteen years the production had increased about fourteen-fold.

But even at a very greatly increased rate of production, the question of exhaustion of the fossil fuel is yet in a future exceedingly remote, for it has been calculated that the coal-bearing region of the great plain provinces, between the international boundary and the 58th parallel of latitude, has an area of over 65,000 square miles.

The Edmonton Morning Journal says that the Battleford gold "discovery," about which a highly colored story was sent over the wires a little time ago, is a barefaced fake—a mere trap to fleece the public.

The last issue of the Government Gazette contains over eighty new applications for timber limits. The weekly tale, which dropped under fifty for a week or two in October, has been mounting steadily for the past month, and last week's is the "record." One wonders if the taxpayers of the Province realize just what this means, as affecting their pockets.

have been of far greater benefit to the province than that accruing from better terms. Wealth would accrue from the settlement of these lands greater than that which the premier was contending for.

Much was heard of the part which the C.P.R. played in provincial politics, and which would be a factor in the approaching contest. Personally the speaker was proud of the C.P.R., and what it had accomplished. He did not forget, however, that that company had been lavishly paid in lands and money for all they had done. He was proud because the country had built that road and paid for it. There was no reason why the country should be enslaved by that road, instead of being its masters. It was no want of loyalty or patriotism to ask that other roads should be allowed to come in and compete with them to the benefit of the province. When the B. C. Southern road was built, large grants of lands were made, to the extent of 4,000,000 acres, free from all taxation, so long as fair terms were given. The basis on which the lands were to be sold was that asked by government for its crown lands. So long as offered in that way, they were to be free from taxation. These lands had been acquired along with the company's charter by the C.P.R., and today they were being sold at from three to eight times the price asked for crown lands. Purchasers of the lands in question were required to fill out an application form in which they gave an inventory of the timber on the property in classified form, and they were then charged in accordance with their report. In this manner the C.P.R. was receiving much more for lands than was the government. The taxes on these lands, such as the province had every right to impose, would have brought the people from $450,000 to $750,000, which would have done away with the necessity of raising the taxation of the people. The government had raised the rate of taxation on the people from 50 to 100 per cent. and had cut down the amount spent on public works from 50 to 60 per cent. Anyone could tax the people and keep the money in the treasury, and yet that was the way in which the McBride government had acted, and then posed before the people as heaven-born financiers. The matter could have been put right by different means—that of collecting from the C. P.R. and other corporations, as the law provided. The McBride government had taxed the farmer's chickens and has let the eagles go free.

Mr. Oliver had spoken on the Kaien island deal, but Mr. Macdonald wished to supplement his remarks very briefly. The position taken by the government in the matter was untenable. In the first place, the order in council was passed giving lands, as the government claimed, to the G.T.P. on April 30. How was it, then, that in June following, Messrs. Larsen, Bodwell and Anderson were in Montreal getting an agreement by which the aforementioned gentlemen secured $40,000, four times what was supposed to have been paid for the land in the first place?

The speaker then said he supposed the audience was anxious to know whether the election was to come on before Christmas. In answer to the question, he thought that Mr. McBride had discovered that his election cry had fallen flat, and that he found he had nothing upon which to appeal to the people. He did not think the election would be rung on this year. He believed, however, that as soon as the house was dissolved the election would be rushed forward in the hope of catching the Liberals unprepared. He warned his hearers to be ready whenever the call to arms was given. Mr. Macdonald was loudly cheered at the close of his able address.

R. Jardine, who has accepted the nomination of the Liberals in Dewdney, was called upon for a speech, and for a few minutes he addressed the audience in a humorous manner, during which he was interrupted by frequent outbursts of applause. Votes of thanks were then tendered the various speakers, and the meeting adjourned.

Ontario Bank Case.

Toronto, Nov. 20.—The evidence in the investigation of the charge against Charles McGill, former general manager of the Ontario bank, in the police court this morning, opened up new ground. Frank Pope, the clerk in the head office, who first made the appropriation of funds known, was cross examined. He testified to hearing discussions between the general manager and some of the directors in regard to stocks. Manager Hagerman, of the Yonge street branch, told of lending President Cockburn $3,680 on the latter's demand note. Mr. Cockburn wanted to purchase Ontario bank new stock.

Harry Dominy simply cannot keep away from the lock-up. He bobbed up again yesterday afternoon, drunk as usual, and was accommodated with a cell. This morning he will be asked by the magistrate to give a reason why he did not get out of town when ordered to do so on Monday morning.

Pile driving operations on the G. N. R. spur to Millside were stopped yesterday on account of the shortage of piles. The work is now pushed to a point near the eastern limits of the Brunette mill yards. The weather has been unfavorable for rapid work, but the gang has nevertheless made good progress.

Messrs. Murray and Ingram, two Calgary men who have been visiting in this city for the past few days, have demonstrated their faith in New Westminster real estate by investing in over one hundred lots at the back of the St. Ann's orphanage. There has been considerable movement in property around there for some weeks past, and on Monday thirty-two lots changed hands on Twelfth street, opposite the orphanage, at a fancy figure.

Chickens at Reichenbach's.

A Vancouver car, No. 25, kind of upset traffic on the city lines by means of a little accident at Leopold place, last night. A section of the machinery broke and stopped the car somewhat suddenly, causing the rails to spread and the car to jump the track. After considerable trouble the car was placed on the track. The rails were so badly spread, however, that it was necessary for passengers both on the city and Sapperton lines to transfer at Leopold place.

The application of C. B. Sword for 50 inches of water from a stream locally known as Noon creek, running into the Fraser river near the townsite of Abbotsford, was granted yesterday by Water Commissioner C. C. Fisher. The water is to be returned to Matsqui creek at a point about 50 feet lower than the intake.

Three months in jail was the sentence imposed upon Hermon Singh, a Hindu, who was charged in the police court yesterday morning with indecent exposure. The Hindu attempted to force an entrance into the residence of Mrs. W. Vianna, at Millside, on Monday evening, and committed the offence complained of at the same time. A passing man interposed, forcibly removed the offending Hindu from the premises, and held him until the police were notified.

Money Makes Money.

The site of the Lewis block, which was bought by Ald. Halse, of Vancouver, about three weeks ago for the sum of $20,000, is reported to be about to change hands again, at a considerable advance upon the price paid for it by the Vancouver capitalist. The purchasers are Messrs. Gardhouse and McMenemy, who are the owners of the buildings standing upon the site in question, and who desire to remain in their present quarters. These gentlemen have made a proposition to the owner of the site, and he has made a counter proposition which is being considered by them at the present time. The price asked for the property has not been mentioned, but it is understood that Ald. Halse will clear about $10,000 on the transaction, having sold one-half of the block to J. M. Kenny two weeks ago for the sum of $13,000. The negotiations will be brought to a close to-day.

At the Altar.

Thomas J. Sullivan led Miss Dorothy Woempener to the altar yesterday morning, the ceremony being performed by the Rev. Father O'Boyle, at St. Peter's cathedral. J. B. Sullivan, brother of the groom, was best man, while Miss Anna Dolwett was the bridesmaid. Both parties reside in Chilliwack, the groom being manager of the Surrey Shingle Co. After partaking of a sumptuous wedding breakfast, which was served at the Guichon hotel, the newly wedded couple embarked on a specially chartered car for Vancouver, where they took the boat for Victoria, where part of the honeymoon will be spent.

Funeral of C. J. P. Bennett.

The funeral of C. J. P. Bennett, son of C. G. Bennett, manager of the Fraser River tannery, took place yesterday morning in the Roman Catholic cemetery, after requiem mass had been said by the Rev. Father O'Boyle, in St. Peter's cathedral. The choir rendered special music during the impressive service, and a large number of sympathizing friends were present and followed the remains to their last resting place. The pallbearers were all employes of the Fraser River tannery. The chief mourners were deceased's father, mother and sister, while among those who followed the body to the grave were H. Ryall, J. Crean, J. D. Kennedy, J. O'Harahan, Michael Hayes, S. Jackson and many others. A number of beautiful floral tributes were placed on the coffin by friends of the family.

The Hamilton Strike.

Hamilton, Nov. 20.—Street cars are running to-day on regular schedule, but people apparently have decided to boycott the company in favor of the strikers. There have been no disturbances, and the militia has not yet been sent for. After a conference with the police commissioners, late yesterday, Mayor Biggar called upon the street railway company and asked them not to run cars in the evening. The company agreed, and the police commissioners decided not to call out the militia for the present.

Got the Juice.

Toronto, Nov. 20.—Niagara power was flashed to this city yesterday over the wires of the Toronto & Niagara Power Co. from the works of the Electric Development Co. at Niagara Falls.

FIGHTING THE SEA.

Holland's Continuous Performance In Preventing Floods.

Holland is a country of wooden piles and dikes, for the people are perpetually fighting against the encroachments of water. One building in Amsterdam rests on no fewer than 13,659 piles, though the dikes around the town, which have been erected at enormous expense, effectually prevent any chance of a flood. The streets of the flourishing port of Rotterdam even are frequently under water in the winter, and in some parts of south Holland the people are compelled to do their shopping in boats.

When the Zuyder Zee breaks on to the land, those who wade up to their knees along the streets of a flooded village meet all manner of fish. This is explained by the fact that the Zuyder Zee, with its mud bottom, is literally crammed with finny tribes; and one authority states that if it were well scraped of all its fish one year, it would be full again the next.

The land of Holland is really of four distinct levels, and from ten to twelve feet between the highest and the lowest. To make the land dry, the water is pumped from the lowest level to the one immediately above it, and so on, until the water has been returned again to the sea. A large number of engineers are specially engaged to look after the dikes, and no less a sum than $2,500,000 is expended every year in keeping these fortifications against the sea in proper repair.

SOFT CRABS.

After Shedding the New Shells Harden With Great Rapidity.

The supply of soft crabs for market is obtained by catching hard crabs and keeping them until they shed their shells. For this purpose large rectangular floats, made of laths and planking, are employed, and three or four times every day the stock on hand is carefully inspected, all the soft crabs being picked out and packed without delay. They are put into shallow boxes of moist seaweed, from ten to thirty-five dozen in a box, according to the size of the animals. When the packing is done carefully the occupants may be kept alive from sixty to seventy hours after leaving the water.

Crabs have been shipped all the way from the Chesapeake to Canada, arriving at their destination in good condition. In summer, of course, ice is used.

But where soft crabs are concerned it is necessary that they shall reach the market quickly, because their new shells harden with great rapidity. At the end of twelve hours the shells are like parchment, and in three or four days the crab is as hard as ever—hence unfit for use in the form most highly approved by epicures.—New York Herald.

Nautical Etiquette

They were on their honeymoon. He had bought a canoe and had taken her out to show her how well he could handle a boat, putting her to tend the sheet. A puff of wind came, and he shouted in no uncertain tones, "Let go the sheet." No response. Then again, "Let go that sheet, quick." Still no movement. A few minutes after, when both were clinging to the bottom of the overturned boat, he said:

"Why didn't you let go that sheet when I told you to, dear?"

"I would have," said the bride, "if you had not been so rough about it. You ought to speak more kindly to your wife."—New York Post.

Long and Short Days.

At Hamburg, Germany, the longest day occupies seventeen hours and the shortest seven. At Stockholm, in Sweden, the longest has eighteen and a half hours and the shortest five and a half. At St. Petersburg the longest has nineteen and the shortest five hours. In Finland the longest has twenty-one and a half hours. In the northernmost parts of Norway the longest day lasts from May 21 to July 2, the sun not sinking below the horizan during this period, but skimming along very close to it in the north. At Spitbergen the longest day lasts three months and a half.

The Word "Privilege."

"Privilege," seen so often of late in the phrase "special privilege," has been used commonly to signify a right, immunity or benefit enjoyed by a person beyond the common advantages of other individuals. Primarily, however, the word signifies an ordinance in favor of an individual, and this is in keeping with its derivation—"privus," one's own, private, and "lex," law. It is in this old sense that Chaucer uses the word.

How to Arrive.

Man has to be humbugged if one would command him, and he has no use for the humble person. The way to get into a publisher's or editor's office (or indeed any other with a man at the head of it) is with a tremendous show of bounce and swagger.—A Spinster in M. A. P.

Dog Days and Rabies.

There is not the remotest connection between dog days and rabies; indeed, the records show that the fewest cases of rabies occur in July and August. There are more cases in April, November and December than in any other months.—Springfield Union.

A Fine Art.

Zabzin—How's this for a neat little work of art? It's worth over $10, but I managed to get it for $1. Jabzin—Where's the art in it? Zabzin—In getting it for $1, of course.

What men prize most is a privilege even if it be that of chief mourner at a funeral.—Lowell.

THE SPONGE FISHER.

He Must Have Strength, a Quick Eye and a Deft Hand.

Lying on his chest along the boat's deck, the sponge fisher, with his water glass—a pane set in a box fitted with handles—looks down forty feet into the clear depths. With one hand he grasps and sinks a slender pole, sometimes fifty feet in length, fitted at the end with a double hook. The sponge once discovered, the hook is deftly inserted at the rocky base, and by a sudden jerk the sponge is detached.

This curt description of what seems the simple work of sponge fishing gives no idea of the real skill and exertion needed. The eye of the fisher has to be trained by long experience to peer into the sea and tell the commercially valuable sponges from those that are worthless. He must have a deft hand to detach the sponge without a tear.

Above all, while doing this with one hand, he must manipulate with the other the water glass, as the waves sway it sideways and up and down. The strain on eye and body is most intense, to say nothing of the cramped position and exposure to wind and wet, which, first and last, make every sponge fisher a victim of acute rheumatism. Yet, with all his arduous toil, an expert sponge fisher earns not more than £3 a month besides his keep on the boat, which barely deserves the name of existence.—Pearson's Weekly.

A MAGIC MIRROR.

Experiments With the Moon and Stars and a Hand Glass.

A pretty experiment can be made with a hand mirror any night when there is a full moon. Hold the mirror so that the moon's image will be seen in it and you will be surprised to see four moons instead of one. One moon will be very bright, but the other three will be in a straight line and quite dull, one dull image on the side of the bright moon and the other two on the other side. Turn the mirror round slowly, still holding its face to the moon, and the reflections will seem to revolve round a common center.

You can make the same experiment with one of the very bright stars, such as Sirius, Venus or Jupiter, but with these there will be three images instead of four, as the number seen depends on the breadth of the object. The explanation is quite simple. There are two surfaces in a mirror, one in front and the other where the quicksilver is. The brightest reflection comes from the object itself, the others are what are known as secondary images reflected from the front to the back of the mirror and thence to the eye. The magic mirror never fails to excite a good deal of wonder, and is an interesting experiment as well.—London Chronicle.

Curious Tombstones.

Two curiously inscribed stones by the wayside have been noted by correspondents of the Manchester Guardian. One is about a mile from the village of Hope, in Flintshire, and reads: "Here my God did spare my life. For the tenement was the strife—1777." One would think that the incident the stone commemorates must be well known in the neighborhood, but the correspondent was not successful in finding any one who could tell the story. The other stone is by the side of a lonely road in the neighborhood of Jemmin chapel, and bears the following inscription: "Here John Turner was cast away in a heavy snowstorm in the night on or about the year 1735. The print of a woman's shoe was found by his side in the snow were (sic) he lay dead."

Oldest Ale House In England.

The oldest licensed village ale house in England is claimed to be the George inn, in North St. Philip. The license dates from 1307. Each story of the picturesque old structure overhangs that beneath. The front is broken by bay windows, a porch and a flight of stone steps leading to a doorway in the wall. At the back are more quaint doors and windows, and a turret built against the wall incloses an outside stair, while in the yard still remains part of the old gallery found in so many hostelries of the middle ages. A curious chimney surmounts each gable.—London Answers.

Childhood's Chosen Colors.

Professor James Sully in his studies of childhood compares the mental processes of white children in civilized lands with those of full grown savages and discovers some remarkable resemblances. Among other things he has ascertained that the favorite colors of the savage, red and yellow, are those which white children first take notice of and of which they remain especially fond during the period of childhood. So, too, the savage adult and the white child find a common pleasure in all bright, shining and glittering things.

Dangerous.

Mrs. Hornbeak (in the midst of her reading)—Mercy sakes alive! Here is an item about a surgeon over at Biggerville removin' an epithelioma from a man's lip. Farmer Hornbeak—Well, I sh'u'd judge it was about time for people to quit using such long words when it requires a doctor to git 'em out. —Puck.

Deceived.

Jerrold—I can't get any speed out of that motor car you sold me. You told me you had been arrested six times in it. Hobart—So I was, old chap. For obstructing the highway.—London Star.

Notes and Letters.

Tenor (singing)—"Oh, 'appy, 'appy, 'appy be thy dreams." Professor—Stop! stop! Why don't you sound the "h?" Tenor—It don't go no higher than "g."—Christian Register.

Dear Sirs,—Mr. A. called to-day and received from me one of the copies of land agreements, signed and witnessed as requested, and expressed himself well satisfied with same. I also beg to acknowledge receipt of your cheque, which in the meantime closes all business between us. Vancouver Mill Burns.

Robertson & Heckett's mill on the northeast side of the Granville street bridge, False creek, Vancouver, caught fire yesterday evening, and was burning rapidly up to a late hour. The mill is situated close to the C.P.R. car shops, and is one of the oldest in the Terminal City. Several fires have taken place there in former years. The firm does a large business in hardwood turning, office, fittings, etc., and has a general high-class lumber trade.

Supports Indemnity.

Toronto, Nov. 20.—According to Ed. Bristol, Conservative member of parliament of Centre Toronto, who addressed the members of the Borden club at the St. Charles hotel last night, said sessional indemnities are an absolute necessity for poor members of parliament, who, in these days of corporate aggression, should if possible be put out of the reach of temptation.

Typhoid in Langton.

Langton, Ont., Nov. 20.—There is an epidemic of typhoid fever here. Forty cases have been under treatment, with five deaths reported. Impure water is believed to be the cause.

SOCIAL AND PERSONAL

Matter intended for this column should be addressed, "Social Editor, Daily News, P. O. Box 402, New Westminster."

Sheriff Armstrong arrived home from Seattle Monday evening after a very roundabout and uncomfortable journey. He reports that floods have done a great deal of damage in Washington.

On dit that there will be a dance given by some of the gentlemen in town before long. Rumor has it that it will be on a most extensive scale and will be quite the event of the season.

W. A. Dashwood Jones met with a serious accident on Monday afternoon. He had the misfortune to fall through the roof of his greenhouse and to cut some of the tendons in his right arm. He was removed to the hospital, where everything possible is being done for him, and it is hoped that he will not lose the use of his arm.

J. C. Armstrong returned from Harrison Hot Springs on Monday's delayed train.

G. D. Brymner, manager of the Bank of Montreal, returned on Monday from Chilliwack.

The young ladies' sewing club met Monday afternoon at the residence of Miss Clarkson. The members present were Miss Veda Leamy, Miss Lillooet Armstrong, Miss Vera Corbould, Miss Constance DeWolf Smith, Miss Alma Lewis, Miss Muriel Shildrick, Miss Muriel Cotton, Miss Alice Rickman and Miss Eleanor Brown.

Among the New Westminster people who were delayed in Seattle owing to the floods, and who returned home on Sunday, were Mrs. English, Mrs. Graeme and Charles Homer. They had to come around by boat.

The wife of P. C. Lashmar, of the Guichon hotel, has presented him with a son.

Mrs. Aleck Ferguson is again suffering from an attack of malarial fever, and has been unable to leave the house for the last few days.

Mrs. George Cunningham and Mrs. Dave Gilchrist will be leaving shortly for an extended trip to Bellingham, where they are going in the hope that Mrs. Gilchrist's health will be materially improved, as she has been far from well for some time past.

Mrs. J. D. B. McDonald is confined to her home with a slight attack of rheumatism.

The Prim Dutch Girl.

The etiquette of Holland is exceedingly strict in all classes. The young girl is most carefully chaperoned, and she never goes anywhere, even to church, unless accompanied by her parents, some male relative or other equally trusted attendant. At a dance the parents sit round the walls sipping their coffee or wine, and the young men must make the best of their chances in the opportunities afforded by the dance, for when it pleases the guardians to depart there is no help for it, the girls must go too. An unmarried girl always takes the right arm of her escort, while the matron takes the left, perhaps because it is nearer the heart.

Windsor Hotel Improvements.

P. O. Bilodeau, proprietor of the Windsor hotel, is planning extensive improvements for that popular stopping place, and has commenced to instal new furniture in all the rooms. It is his intention to have the place entirely remodelled, and he expects to spend about $5,000 on improvements in the next two months. All the furniture at present in the hotel will be sold, and replaced by articles of the very best quality. The furnishings of the Windsor will then be superior to any hotel on the coast, with the possible exception of the Hotel Vancouver. The bureaus and wash stands will be of solid quartered oak, and will be identical in all rooms. The interior of the hotel will be painted and papered, new carpets laid in all rooms and halls, and the house made first-class in every respect.

An Example.

One of the most intimate friends of M. Dumas fils was a retired naval officer who lived in a distant corner of Normandy. As soon as the author of "Camille" died the officer went over all the letters which he had received from Dumas and destroyed every one which referred to any private affairs of the author. Where letters also contained literary and philosophical discussions he carefully blotted out the personal parts in order that nothing of a personal nature might ever reach a publisher. This is an example not often followed.

Avoiding the Doctor.

Dr. Sanderson, an old Scotch physician, was a queer character, but a clever doctor.

So roughly did he handle his patients that the ignorant were chiefly anxious to escape him. The story goes that as he was passing along the street one day a sweep rolled from the top to the bottom of a staircase outside one of the houses.

"Are you hurt?" called the doctor, running forward.

"Not a bit, doctor—not a bit," replied the man in haste. "Indeed, I feel a' the better."

Menagerie at Home.

Jones declined to visit the zoo with his friend, says London Health. "I don't have to go to the zoo," he said, "because my eldest daughter does the kangeroo walk, my second daughter talks like a parrot, my son laughs like a hyena, my cook is as cross as a bear and my mother-in-law says I'm an old gorilla."

Willing to Try.

Stern Father—You want to marry my daughter, do you? Young Man—I do. Stern Father—What's your salary? Young Man—Oh, I'm not particular. Just give me a trial of three months, and if I fail to give satisfaction as a son-in-law you need not pay me any salary.

Male Vanity.

Man believes himself irresistible at all ages, and I believe that the older he grows the more fascinating he thinks himself.—London World.

Notice is hereby given that I intend to apply at the next sitting of the Licensing Board for the Municipality of Langley for a renewal of license to sell liquors by retail on the premises known as the Langley Hotel, situated at Langley, in the said Municipality of Langley.
