ANGLO-JAPANESE PACT SOON TO BE ENDED

Suggestion That Treaty Be Abrogated Receives Support in Diplomatic Circles

London, Feb. 18.—In a debate on the Anglo-Russian treaty in the House of Commons close followers of the diplomatic game in Europe see the suggestion of the early dissolution of the Anglo-Japanese alliance. European diplomats are agreed that the rising menace of the awakening orient must be met by a union of white races. The pact with the Mikado was made at a time when it was absolutely necessary that Britain had an alley in the far east to assist her in counteracting the aggressive policies of Germany and Russia. The renewal of the treaty with the Japanese was never popular in England and both parties have now agreed that the time is not far distant when the distasteful pact will be dissolved.

Lord Curzon justified his election to the house of Lords as representative Irish peer by the speech he made in opposition of the Anglo-Russian treaty. Lord Curzon gave his objections as the condensed result of his studies and travels in a period of more than two years. So youthful was the peer's appearance that it was hard for the peers to believe that he had some years of experience in international politics or that he had held the important post of viceroy of India for two years. Indeed, he looked no little older than he looked when he was the spokesman of the foreign office under Lord Salisbury.

He was one of the greatest figures in the English political world who resigned as Lord Curzon, namely, Earl Cromer, a man whose opinion probably carries more weight than that of any other individual British statesman.

Lord Cromer argued that the Anglo-Russian treaty would contribute to the preservation of the peace of the world and as Lord Curzon admitted he fully approved of the object at which the convention was aimed, he felt bound to remind him that the majority of his countrymen quite agreed with this view and only differed from him in holding that if the bargain made was in some respects a good one, the less said about it the better.

Lord Curzon laid his hand on the crux of the matter when he referred to the sudden and tremendous awakening of oriental races as a result of the Russo-Japanese war. The day was coming, he said, when England and Russia, as well as every European nation with a finger in the Asiatic pie, might find it necessary, above all things, to sustain the solidarity of all European interests against the possible denial of the rights acquired by the western world in the Asiatic continent.

Students of world politics see in this utterance of Lord Cromer the confirmation of the idea that the Anglo-Russian convention was chiefly designed so as to enable Great Britain to throw off the shackles of her treaty with Japan.

Will Not Close Bars.

Winnipeg, Feb. 18.—Hon. Robert Rogers, minister of public works, announced in the legislature last night that the government will not accede to the prayer of the numerous petitions that the bars be closed at 6 o'clock.

WHOLESALE GROCERS AFTER HOTEL TRADE

Vancouver Firms Encroach on Business Usually Carried by Retail Firms.

A determined attempt on the part of the wholesale grocers of Vancouver to capture the hotel and restaurant trade of this city, and the equally remunerative trade of the lumber and railway camps in the vicinity, has finally forced the local retailers in the same line of business to take concerted action in order to be in a position to make a vigorous protest against the action of the wholesalers.

A special meeting of all the leading grocers of the city was held towards the end of last week, when two of the merchants were deputed to interview the Vancouver wholesalers and make representations to them. While no formal indication of the measures which the Westminster men intended taking if the supplying of hotels by the Vancouver wholesalers did not cease was given out, a broad hint to the effect that it was possible to obtain goods from Winnipeg at prices which would compare favorably with the prices demanded by the Vancouver men was thrown out.

A few of the wholesalers recognized the justice of the complaint of the retailers, and promised that in future the field which the local men look upon as peculiarly their own would not be entered into, but others refused to entertain the idea of losing any trade, and announced their intention of going after all the trade they could possibly get. The retailers have a list of the names of those firms who insist into supplying large buyers, but this does not necessarily mean that these unfair firms will be boycotted.

Among the heavy buyers of this city who are purchasing supplies from Vancouver wholesale houses is one of the loudest talkers on the advisability of always giving New Westminster the preference. No name need be mentioned in this connection.

Another Newspaper for Westminster.

Within a short time this city will be the home of yet another paper, negotiations to this end having been in progress for some weeks and being almost complete at this time. The new paper will be published weekly, and will be modelled on the style of one of the Vancouver papers. The name of the new publication has not yet been decided upon, but that it will bear an euphonious title is a foregone conclusion. The sheet will circulate among a class of people that neither of the daily papers of this city reach to any extent at the present time. It will be a four page sheet, printed entirely in the Japanese language.

CHESTER GILLETTE TO PAY FULL PENALTY

Albany, N. Y., Feb. 18.—The court of appeals decrees that Chester N. Gillette, of Courtland, must die in the electric chair for the murder of Grace Brown, of South Otselic, Chango county, at Big Moose lake in the Adirondacks on July 11, 1906. The court affirms the judgment of conviction of murder in the first degree and the sentence of death rendered at the extraordinary term of the supreme court in Herkimer county held by the order of the last governor.

DR. YOUNG RETRACTS INSULT TO COLLEGE

Declares He Did Not Mean What He Said Last Week - McBride Sidetracks Nanaimo's Motion For Royal Commission—Ross Seeking Record Marks.

Victoria, Feb. 18.—(Special.)—On J. H. Hawthornthwaite's motion asking the House to memorialize the Imperial parliament for the purpose of securing a royal commission to investigate the entire Asiatic immigration question coming up this afternoon, Premier McBride sidetracked all discussion by adjourning the debate until a later date.

Dr. Young, on the report of the university bill coming up, referred at some length to his remarks of last Thursday when, in speaking of Columbian college, he had made a statement to the effect that the college was always in the way when legislative educational measures were before the House, declaring that he had not intended to cast any reflections upon the college, which he considered a most valuable educational institution, and one of which the province might well feel proud.

Parker Williams (Newcastle), speaking to the amendment moved that no orientals be employed on the crown's Next Northern railway, declared that William Roderick Ross, member for Fernie, had introduced the bill more for the purpose of going on record that for any tangible good which he expected the country would derive from it. Premier McBride opposed the amendment on the ground that it was likely to lead to disallowance and would tend to discourage construction. The amendment was finally defeated by 30 to 8, John Oliver being shut out.

In giving his ruling on the factory act, Speaker Eberts declared that this was not an act affecting trade and commerce, and in support quoted instances of similar legislation passed by the Imperial parliament. A suggestion thrown out by Parker Williams, to the effect that J. A. Macdonald, leader of the opposition, was retained by the Granby Smelter company, was strenuously denied by the latter.

Victoria, Feb. 18.—As honorary president of the legislative press gallery, the premier at his home last evening gave his usual annual dinner to the fourth estate, as represented in the gallery, and a few specially invited guests. Among these were Speaker Eberts, Hon. Dr. Young, J. A. Macdonald, K. C., and Thomas Taylor and Dr. King, the Conservative and Liberal whips, and Lawrence McRae, the premier's secretary.

All were free from the cares of office, and the thorny points or order as the eight newspaper men were from the editor's call for "copy." The premier was the genial host he always is.

HAPPY COUPLE RECEIVES MANY WEDDING PRESENTS

A very pretty wedding was celebrated last evening at the home of W. E. Fales, Mackenzie and Agnes streets, the contracting parties being Daniel A. Cameron, of this city, and Miss Caroline Dotzenrod, of Grand Rapids, Mich. The large house, beautifully decorated with plants and flowers, was thrown open to the guests, of whom there were some sixty in all.

The nuptial knot was tied in the large dining room by Rev. J. S. Henderson, pastor of St. Andrew's Presbyterian church, the bride being given away by her brother-in-law, T. W. Foster. The bride was supported by her niece, Miss K. E. Foster, and the groom by W. E. Sinclair. The bride looked beautiful in a dress of silk eoliene over taffeta. The bridesmaid wore a dress of St. Albert cloth trimmed with chiffon. The bride carried a large bouquet of white carnations and the bridesmaid a bouquet of pink carnations.

Following the ceremony the guests sat down to a sumptuous wedding supper in the large dining hall, where the long table, profusely covered with vases of flowers, and the pretty dresses of the bridal assemblage, made a fitting picture for the close of the evening. The happy couple, amid showers of rice, and many hearty good wishes, left on the 10:30 car for Vancouver. The bride's travelling gown was of wine colored broadcloth with hat to match. Mr. and Mrs. Cameron will visit all the important coast cities during their honeymoon, the trip extending over two or three weeks.

CURE PROSECUTIONS UNDER SUNDAY LAWS

Winnipeg, Feb. 18.—The announcement that the police commission had the prosecution of Lord's Day violations created much satisfaction throughout the city, especially among business men. The police, too, expressed relief.

The feeling became so acute that the Lord's Day Alliance thought it necessary to disavow responsibility for the crusade. Rev. W. M. Rochester issued a lengthy statement to that effect.

KELLOEG WILL STAND TRIAL IN CHICAGO

Notorious American Swindler Fails in Effort to Resist Extradition.

Captain Kelloeg, a notorous American embezzler, forger and all round high class crook, who was arrested at Kamloops a few weeks ago and charged with having forged the signature of Capt. Robertson, paymaster of the American troops at Seattle, to two cheques of $4000 and $2500 respectively, will have to stand trial on these charges on the American side, Chief Justice Hunter having yesterday declined to grant a stay of the extradition proceedings.

Kelloeg is well supplied with money—tainted money—and prepared for a lengthy fight to prevent extradition. The cheques which he forged were converted into cash at Fresno, Cal., but although he is at present charged only with these two offences, there is sufficient evidence to secure his conviction on dozens of other charges. The amount of money which he has accumulated by unscrupulous means during the past few years is variously estimated at from $18,000 to anything under a hundred thousand. He will be taken to Chicago for trial, proceedings against him having been instituted from that city.

FLOODS IN PITTSBURG RECEDE, DANGER OVER

Pittsburg, Feb. 18.—The rivers in Pittsburg and its suburbs have returned to the limits of their banks and the flood is over.

Friends fear that David Reed, 50 years old, a steamboat fireman, and Edward Hesse have been drowned in two Pennsylvania avenue houses that collapsed during the flood. U. R. Anderson was rescued from the debris after being in the river for several hours.

Nearly a score of others had narrow escapes. Steel and iron mills and other industrial plants have begun the cleaning up process, and some of them will be able to operate today.

Many families are in distress on account of the flood and charitable institutions have demands far in excess of their resources.

USE AUTOMOBILES IN CONGO RUBBER TRADE

New York, Feb. 18.—Utilization of automobiles to transport rubber from the back country of the Congo to the river is planned by the American Congo company, whose general manager, Samuel P. Verner, arrived here yesterday from Africa, where he has been the directing head of the expeditions that have been operating the territory. The problem of the territory, says Mr Verner, is that of transportation, and his idea that the use of the automobiles is the most practicable plan founded upon personal examination of the conditions. Back of the river strip of timber land, he says, are the high, smooth veldts or plains, covered for the most part with long grass and practically devoid of timber.

Basketball on Friday.

On Friday next the basketball teams of the city will clash with two teams from the V. A. C. of Vancouver. The Westminster boys up to date have not a single defeat registered against them and they believe that they are capable of beating any team that dares to meet them. Should they win on Friday, as they fully anticipate, they will go after the Vancouver Y. M. C. A. for the championship of the Pacific coast, and they are confident that is coming their way too. The games will be played at the armouries, the intermediate game being called for 8 o'clock and the senior game for 9. The following are the line-ups:

Senior—Guards, Peele and Spring; centre, Lund; forwards, Morrison and Robertson.

Intermediate—Guards, Spring and W. Sangster; centre, R. Sangster; forwards, Gilley and Swanson.

Test Case Under Provisions of Natal Act Quickly Disposed Of—Appeal Today.

The first prosecution under the Natal act recently made law by the provincial government, came up before Stipendiary Magistrate Captain Pittendrigh yesterday morning, and the full penalty permitted by the act was imposed on the two prisoners, T. Okazaki and M. Nakani. The sentence of the court was that a fine of $500 each be imposed, or in default twelve months imprisonment. The prisoners can, however, be admitted to bail on two sureties of $250 each that they will leave the province within one month. The decision will be contested by D. G. Macdonnell, K. C., defending counsel, who will file a writ of habeus corpus in the supreme court today to test the constitutionality of the Natal act. It is expected that the case will be heard in chambers in Vancouver this morning before the chief justice.

In addition to the counsel, R. Cassidy, K. C., for the prosecution, and D. C. Macdonell for the defence, there were present Mr. Yada, Japanese consul at Vancouver, representatives of two Japanese newspapers, and a large number of visitors, among whom was a brother of one of the prisoners, Okazaki. The two men were arrested at Blaine by Provincial Constable Hutchinson, on failing to comply with the reading and writing test prescribed by the Natal act, and refusing to return across the line.

Evidence was taken from the provincial constable and Chief Constable Spain regarding the arrest, and under the direction of the magistrate a test was put to the two men in the court, which they professed to be unable to pass.

Mr. Cassidy, in addressing the magistrate, said that the Natal act made it unlawful for any person to come into British Columbia who, when asked by the officer appointed to fill out the form provided, failed to do so. The constable at the boundary put to these men the tests and there was no doubt that they came within the prohibition of the act. The only question left to his worship was as to the penalty to be imposed, and the statute said that the magistrate could investigate and decide the matter in a summary manner. After explaining that the penalty laid out by the act was $500, or in lieu of payment, twelve months' imprisonment, he submitted that the accused should receive the maximum penalty in each case. There was no reason in the world why it should not be understood at once that this act was going to be enforced to its fullest extent, he said. It was in the interests of all that it should be enforced. It was not only in the interests of this province, but it was in the interests of people who were proposing to come into the province in contravention of the act. To understand that the intention was to carry it out to its limit. A fine of $500 was very reasonable. That was indicated by the circumstance that there were other immigrants entering this province who were provided against by Dominion statute in the sum of $500.

"We submit that the act is ultra vires," said Mr. Macdonell. "I don't want to take up the time of the court if your worship tells me you won't consider that question. If you will consider it I will give you my reasons why I hold the act is ultra vires."

Captain Pitfendrigh: "I shall be strictly guided by the immigration act passed by British Columbia."

Mr. Macdonell: "Then it will be useless for me to proceed now and it will be for me to bring it up by an application for habeus corpus before the supreme court judge."

Strike Likely to Extend.

London, Feb. 18.—The shipbuilding strike along the Tyne, which already has lasted a month, is likely to be greatly extended, first, by a lock-out which will come into effect at the end of the present week, and second, by a strike of the allied trade engineers, who have voted by an overwhelming majority against a reduction of wages.

"This Is My 62nd Birthday"

Bishop Gallagher.

Right Rev. Nicholas Aloysius Gallagher, Roman Catholic bishop of Galveston, Texas, was born February 19, 1846, in Belmont country, Ohio. After attending the district schools he went to Cincinnati and studied for the priesthood at Mt. St. Mary's seminary in that city. He was ordained on Christmas Day, in 1868, and became assistant priest of St. Patrick's church in Columbus. Here he remained from 1869 to 1871. In the latter year he became president of St. Aloysius seminary in Columbus, continuing in position until 1878. The next few years were spent as pastor of St. Patrick's church, Columbus, and as vicar-general of the diocese. In January, 1882, Father Gallagher was appointed bishop of Canopus and administrator of the diocese of Galveston, his consecration as bishop taking place in April of the same year. Ten years later he was raised to the bishopric of Galveston.

Tender for G. T.P. Accepted by Officials

Montreal, Feb. 18.—Official announcement of the award of the contract for building one hundred miles of the Grand Trunk Pacific railway between Prince Rupert and Kitsalas Canyon on the Skeena river, to Messrs. Foley, Welch & Stewart, successors to Messrs. Foley Bros., Larsen & Co., is expected within a few days. The schedules in the bids of the various tenderers have been worked out, this company has been found to be the lowest. Its tender will approximate between $6,000,000 and $7,000,000, or an average of $70,000 a mile.

Other tenderers included Winston Bros., of Minneapolis, Mr. J. D. McArthur, of Winnipeg, and McArthur Bros., of Chicago.

The successful firm, it is understood, will begin construction work at Prince Rupert and Kitsalas Canyon early in April. Most of the contract will be sublet. June will see grading operations in progress along the entire 100-mile section. The work will prove the heaviest on the entire transcontinental line between the Atlantic and Pacific.

It is understood that at least two years will be occupied in completing the contract, which will afford employment to thousands of men. The branch line from Kitamaat to Kitsalas Canyon will also be rushed to completion. The entire British Columbia section of the main line between Prince Rupert and the Yellowhead pass will be under construction before the end of next summer.

POINTED PARAGRAPHS.

Carelessness is the great sin of most people.

If a man doesn't acquire a little sense with age he cheats himself.

If a man owns a pocketknife it is hard for him to pass a grindstone.

Say what you please about moral courage, the man who has a lot of it is mighty unpopular.

Make the stories you tell on a rainy day as short as possible, especially if you tell them under an umbrella.

There is very little use trying to convince a man who meets your statement with this argument: "I'll bet you," etc.

No matter how highly you may value your own opinion, remember it does not go with other people unless they think exactly as you do, which, by the way, they seldom do.—Atchison Globe.

DELIBERATE SUICIDE.

Why It Should Excite More Horror Than Any Other Murder.

As to its moral aspects, suicide is manifestly forbidden by the divine law. One of the commandments of the Decalogue declares, "Thou shalt not kill." To make the law as comprehensive as possible it is not said, "Thou shalt not kill thy neighbor," which qualifying phrase is employed in some of the other commandments—as, for instance, "Thou shalt not bear false witness against they neighbor;" "Thou shalt not covet thy neighbor's house." The prohibition to kill is therefore absolute. It forbids the taking of human life, whether by suicide or homicide.

There is another commandment which says, "Thou shalt love thy neighbor as thyself." Now, the love which we owe to our neighbor forbids us to slay him, and therefore the love which we owe to ourselves forbids us to compass our own death. If the law allowed us to kill ourselves, while forbidding us to kill our neighbor, our love for our neighbor would not be equal, but superior, to our love for ourselves.

Nay, I hold that suicide is a more revolting sin than the killing of another. The closer the ties of relationship between the murderer and his victim the more atrocious is the crime. In the estimation of mankind, a parricide, or matricide, or fratricide, or uxoricide, is a more shocking criminal than an ordinary homicide. And as a man has more intimate relations to himself than to a parent or brother or wife, his deliberate self destruction should excite more horror than the murder of a parent, brother or wife.—Cardinal Gibbons in Century

The Perverse Golf Ball.

A collector of evidence on the subject maintains learnedly that the golf ball is the most perverse of human institutions. Here is a list of strange lies noted by a follower of the ancient game: In another player's pocket, where it had dropped after traveling 200 yards; in a cow's mouth; on the roof of a clubhouse; behind the glass protecting a painting hanging on a cottage wall; in a clump of daisies, which it so resembled that it was not found for an hour. When it fell in the cow's mouth the frightened animal galloped 276 yards nearer the hole and [illegible]en restored the ball to its owner. He [illegible]ptly claimed to have driven it 397 [illegible]nd the right to play it from [illegible]ay.

"Kerry Gow."

Bernard Daly, in that quaint old Irish play "Kerry Gow" will be at the opera house Tuesday, February 25. Much has been said of the play and of its star, so both play and player deserve honorable mention. The play teems with excitement. There is a famous race scene which is staged in so realistic a manner that those who are accustomed to the ponies can hardly keep from betting.

Mr. Daly's voice is melody itself and of late years he has been placed by many critics in the class of Andrew Mack and Chauncey Olcott. Whether or not that is true audiences will be able to judge on Tuesday evening. Now you all do want to see a pocket edition of Chauncey Olcott.

Americans Are Accused of War Plot

Havana, Feb. 18.—The Diario Espanol, the organ of the ultra-Spanish element, in a leading editorial yesterday, referring to the special celebration by Americans of the tenth anniversary of the blowing up of the battleship Maine, says:

"The commemorate the blackest blot on American history, the world, including honest Americans, believing that the ship was blown up by direct order from the war department for the purpose of justification in the plan to despoil Spain of Cuba."

The paper adduces as convincing proof "that the officers of the Maine attended the funeral of the victims in a full-dress uniform, which showed that they must have sent their uniforms ashore in anticipation of an explosion," and alleges that the reason the wreck has not been raised is that it would conclusively demonstrate that the explosion was in the magazine."

The Second Duke of Wellington.

Lady Dorothy Nevill tells us that the second Duke of Wellington was a very clever and witty man, whom indolence or pride prevented from taking part in politics or anything else. He certainly was eccentric in manners and dress, generally wearing "an old soft felt hat and an aged cloak of the sort known as a roquelaure, a huge cape of black cloth, and this, combined with his goggles, made him a figure of a very noticeable and eccentric kind." One day the duke drove Lady Dorothy Nevill down to the Crystal palace to see an exhibition of donkeys, and when there his grace would insist on strolling about in the inclosure reserved for judges. Lady Dorothy told him they would be turned out and left him. Presently an official approached and said, "Sir, may I ask, are you a judge?" "A judge of what?" thundered the duke. "Of donkeys," came the reply. "Certainly I am and (looking hard at the man) a very good one too. Leave me alone." The man slunk back abashed, and there was more whispered consultation among the officials. But the queer intruder was recognized by somebody, and with many bows and apologies the Duke of Wellington was invited to become a judge, to which he agreed with much chuckling.—Saturday Review.

Ways of the Wild Elephant.

Wild elephants terrorize whole districts in India, killing men, women and children and destroying houses, granaries and fields. A woman and her two children were sleeping in their hut. One of the children heard a noise at the granary and woke the mother. The sound of the human voices from the house enraged the invading elephants, one of which charged the house, broke it down and killed the woman and one child. The remaining child escaped by hiding. At another time a woman was working at a ford. An elephant walked out of the forest and wished to cross the stream at the ford. As the woman was in the way, he picked her up, winding his trunk around her body, the end of it coming over her face and nose. Then he placed the woman gently, or as gently as he could, at one side of the path. He did not mean to hurt her, but nevertheless he broke her nose and one rib by the compression of his trunk. Again, an elephant found a mother and baby in a granary which he was demolishing. With its huge foot it crushed the baby in its cradle, but, picking up the mother, lifted her out of the house unhurt, placed her on the ground and then went on rummaging for grain.

Crocodiles and the Cure.

One does not usually connect crocodiles with a health resort—rather the reverse—but the creatures are quite a feature of the Indian bathing place of Manghapir, about nine miles from Karachi. This town is a place of pilgrimage for pious Hindoos, but it is chiefly famous for the value of its waters in the cure of the dread scourge of leprosy. The waters are hot, and more than 60 per cent of the sufferers who bathe there annually, it is said, are cured. The crocodiles are rather noteworthy in that they live in the hot water, apparently suffering no inconvenience from its temperature or medicinal qualities.—Wide World Magazine.

WHO STOLE THE TIMBER?

When Messrs. Lake and Ames precipitated the debate in the House of Commons on the Liberal Government timber policy, they, as neophytes in politics, did not realize the volcano on which they stood and the terrible story of Tory abuse of a public trust which has belched forth to their chagrin.

Driven to the lowest depths of degradation in their attempts to discredit the best Federal Government Canada has ever had these Conservatives had the effrontery to compare the administration of timber areas under the Laurier Government with that of their own party when they held power, and if they had searched the records since Confederation they could not have found anything more condemnatory of their own party.

For eighteen years these apostles of purity held the public domain, lands and timber, to be the legitimate perquisite of and dividable amongst the Conservative Senators and members of the House of Commons, defeated candidates, party heelers, and prominent party backers from whom, or through whom, campaign funds were augmented.

The public interest did not count with these purists and these valuable concessions were handed out generously to the faithful without any effort being made to get in exchange any compensation for the public treasury.

In 1878, upon the Conservatives gaining control, this steady systematic looting commenced and the raid continued until 1883, when all principle was thrown to the winds, and the rapacious Conservative politicians engaged in an unseemly scramble, and divided amongst themselves the immense area of 10,326 square miles of timber limits covering 6,608,640 acres of land, the heritage of the people of Canada as a whole.

The horde, hungry in their greed, secured the vast tract absolutely free of cost to themselves, and these purists, recreant to their trust, divided the domain at the rate of 22,500 acres a day for three hundred working days.

This shameful trafficking in the public domain was used in the able hands of Mr. Turiff like a whip lash on these holy purists, and the hands held so hypocritically in horror at the Liberal administration, now, in consternation, are lifted appealingly, but the climax was reached when Mr. Turriff announced, with the man before him, that the immaculate disinterested critic George Eulus Foster was not clear of the scramble, but had applied for a free slice of the people's heritage. Even Mr. Borden squirmed under this declaration which made another instance of the hypocrisy of his chief lieutenant, and to which he could not, and did not, make denial. Mr. Foster only wanted a small slice, fifty miles, and one wonders how a lean cadaverous looking individual could be possessed of such a mighty gall and it will remain one of the mysteries of the age along with that other deep uncertainty as to the possibility of finding a truly immaculate Conservative in public life.

We answer the very natural question as to who got the limits, so that this disgraceful exposure may be complete, and give the "loot artist" food for reflection for some time to come when he attempts to make comparison between the honest administration of today and that party whom the records show are so deeply mired that their ghostly squeal is almost smothered.

NOTICE

Citizens of New Westminster:

Gentlemen,—I beg to inform you that it is very necessary that all back-yards and premises should be properly cleaned and made sanitary. From the reports I have had from the Sanitary Inspector, and from what I have witnessed with my own eyes, there are numerous places along the different streets that have got to be cleaned up within a very short space of time.

I might particularly mention that the lower part of Carnarvon street, between Eighth and Tenth streets, and also Alexander and Blackie streets are in a most unsanitary condition, as well as many back-yards in the principal part of the city behind the business apartments. It is quite unnecessary for me to mention any names, but all you have to do is look in your own yards and you can tell at a glance whether they are sanitary or not. This work must be done before the 15th of March, 1908, or I shall be obliged to take the necessary steps to see that the work is done satisfactory to the Sanitary Inspector.

I trust that this notice will be accepted without any prejudice, as any broad-minded citizen knows that the population of the city has been steadily increasing in the last two or three years, and if we want this good success to continue, we want to show the newcomer this city in a good, clean, sanitary condition, and avoid criticism.

Yours truly,

(Signed) E. J. FADER,

Chairman Health Committee.

The problem of the disposal of the unsanitary shack in the west end of the city owned by Lee Coy, and which has been the subject of lengthy communications between that worthy and the city fathers during the past few months, was finally solved about four o'clock yesterday morning, when fire broke out in the ramshackle building, which was almost gutted by the flames. The fire brigade was soon on the spot, and managed to save part of the structure, but so badly was the building damaged that it will be impossible to repair it, and its day as a human habitation is therefore past.

Mrs. Howard Taylor, of Ladner, died yesterday morning in the Royal Columbian hospital, where she was under treatment for typhoid fever. Deceased was one of the best known residents of the little town, having for many years past successfully conducted a large farm in the district. Recently she purchased the farm worked for a considerable time by H. M. Vasey, when the latter decided to retire from agricultural life. Mrs. Taylor's husband had for many years past been afflicted with rheumatism, and remains a patient at the Royal Columbian hospital. Mrs. Taylor was known to a large number of city people owing to the fact that she had conducted a stall at the city market since she commenced farming in the Delta. Deceased was only thirty-eight years of age.

A recent issue of the Gravenhurst Banner gives the following account of the wedding of Miss Marion Lamond, a sister of H. and G. D. Lamont, of this city: A quiet wedding took place at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Donald Lamont, on Wednesday afternoon, Feb. 5th, 1908, when their daughter, Marion, was united in marriage to J. J. Irwin, of Vancouver, B.C. The ceremony was performed by Rev. J. A. Dow, of Gravenhurst. The bride, who was unattended, wore a brown travelling suit with hat to match. After the ceremony a dainty dinner was served midst the hearties good cheer. Mr. and Mrs. Irwin left on the evening train for Vancouver, where Mr. Irwin holds a good position in the British North American bank. They are accompanied by the good wishes of many friends in Gravenhurst and surrounding country.

The funeral of Col. J. T. Scott which was held yesterday afternoon was largely attended, the services at the graveside being conducted by Rev. J. S. Henderson. In addition to a large number of members of Union lodge, A. F. & A. Arrangements have been completed for the holding of the birthday party at the residence of Mrs. Meredith on Friday evening, from 8 to 11 o'clock, when a good musical program will be rendered and refreshments served. The proceeds will be applied to the fund being collected by the Women's Auxiliary of the Royal Columbian hospital for use in connection with the furnishing of the new maternity cottage. Visitors will be expected to contribute at the rate of a penny for every year they have spent on this mundane sphere, but no record of the figures given by ladies will be given out for publication.

AUNTIE'S MEMORY.

What She Knew About the Fall of the Roman Empire.

An old colored woman down in Alabama was reported to be of great age and was extremely proud of the distinction. The proprietor of a museum, on hearing of her, sent one of his agents to make an investigation, as she would be a valuable acquisition to his museum. The agent plied her with questions regarding her age. He asked her:

"Auntie, do you remember George Washington?"

"Does I remember George Washington? Laws a-massy, mister, I reckon I does, for I done nussed him when he was a chile."

"Well, I suppose you remember the Revolutionary war?"

"Yes, indeed, I does, honey. I stood dar lots of times an' seen de bullets flyin' round thick as hailstones."

"Well, auntie, how about the fall of the Roman empire? Do you recollect anything about that?"

"De fact is, honey, I was pretty young about dat time, but I does 'member, now you speak ob it, dat I did hear de white folks tell 'bout hearing som'pin' drop 'bout dat time."—Harper's Weekly.

Dog Did the Wrong Trick.

The Irishman wanted to sell the dog, but the prospective buyer was suspicious and finally decided not to buy. The man then told him why he was so anxious to sell. "You see," he said, "I bought the dog and trained him myself. I got him so he'd bark all the time if a person stepped inside the gate, and I thought I was safe from burglars. Then my wife wanted me to train him to carry bundles, and I did. If I put a packet in his mouth the dog would keep it there till some one took it away. Well, one night I woke up and heard some one in the next room. I got up and grabbed my gun. They were there—three of the scoundrels and the dog."

"Didn't he bark?" interrupted the man.

"Sorry a bark; he was too busy."

"Busy? What doing?"

"Carrying a lantern for the burglars."—Dublin Freeman.

A Friend In Need.

Automobilist (to another who has broken down)—Can I be of any assistance to you?

The Afflicted One (under the machine)—Yes, sir. That lady you see is my wife. I'll be obliged if you will kindly answer her questions and keep her amused while I'm fixing this infernal machine.—Woman's Home Companion.

The Landlady's View.

"Borden is recovering from his recent spell of sickness, isn't he?"

"Yes; at any rate, I heard today that his appetite is getting worse."

"Eh? Who told you that?"

"Miss Starvem, at whose house he boards."—Catholic Standard and Times.

More Elegant.

"What you have," said Dr. Newman, "is just a common cold, and all you need is a good sweat."

"Sir!" cried Miss Blugore haughtily.

"I beg pardon! It's a fashionable cold, and what you need is a good perspiration."—Philadelphia Press.

Not Happily Put.

"There have been times in my life," said he gloomily, "when I was tempted to commit suicide."

"Oh, well," she said, "it's no use to grieve over the past. We can all look back and see where we've made mistakes."—Baltimore News.

Chip Sticks to Old Block.

Tommy Twaddles—Oh, I don't want to go to school.

Pa Twaddles—But don't you want a good education?

Tommy Twaddles (ingratiatingly)—No, pa; I'd rather grow up to be just like you.—Tit-Bits.

Inconsiderate Brute.

"I don't know why Enpeck can't get along better with his wife. He's always ready to take all the blame."

"But don't you see? That deprives her of the pleasure of loading it on to him."—Washington Herald.

He Didn't Do It.

We are pleased to note that the court martial has pronounced Rojestvensky, the Russian fleet admiral, not guilty, deciding that it wasn't his fault that Togo won the battle in the sea of Japan.

While it is admitted that Rojestvensky was among those present on that large occasion, yet all eyewitnesses, whether they were on the ground or just qualified by looking at magazine pictures, agree that he was about as much responsible for what happened as the president of the United States is for a cyclone or a runaway horse.

He didn't ask Togo to be present on that joyous occasion and to bring his folks; hardly. In fact, he wasn't fixed to receive company. It was clearly a case of butt in on the part of the Japanese admiral, and the court martial did well and wisely in listing the Russian commander with the innocent bystanders.

STUDY YOUR HORSE.

If the Animal Has Mental Troubles, Try to Remedy Them.

To begin with, does your horse suffer from nostalgia or homesickness? Most horses do, and many really pine away and die from no other cause. We can at least, by making the poor creature thoroughly comfortable, do all in our power to "give his pain surcease" and to make him happy and contented, for than homesickness of the acute and chronic form men knows few more wearing ailments. Is your horse's disposition sociable or misanthropic? You don't know? Well, why not find out? Does it irritate him to have his yokemate or neighbors eating noisily and visibly while he does? Is privacy evidently his preference? Very well, then, by boards or zinc or tin or canvas shut off both sides of his stall at the head so that he may eat in peace and live the isolated life which he prefers.

If he lays back his ears or snaps at his neighbors or fidgets and kicks at the partitions, etc., he does not fancy company—at least at mealtimes—and he will be better, do better and (here the pocket comes in) keep more cheaply if you cater to his fancy. If, on the contrary, a "shy feeder," let him see others eat; even let him by a simple arrangement feed from the same manger as one of his neighbors, which is to be tied up short until Master Dainty has eaten all he will, when, upon allowing the neighbor to partake, the fastidious one will redouble his efforts to eat just to spite the late comer at the feast. The writer has used this plan with many poor feeders from race horses down and always with the best results.—F. M. Ware in Outing Magazine.

Holding Him Off.

"The head of the firm," said the superintendent, "insists upon our employing his son in this department, and it's as much as we can do to keep him idle."

"Idle! You mean busy, don't you?"

"No, I don't. If we kept him busy it would keep three or four other men busy correcting his mistakes."—Philadelphia Press.

A LOST RIDING HABIT.

It Lost For the Empress Eugenie the French Empire.

Even Emile de Girardin, whom Eugenie welcomed as "the gravedigger of dynasties" because he had gone to Louis Philippe on the eve of his flight in 1848 to warn him as he came to warn her now, said to her very seriously that night:

"Should your majesty appear bravely on horseback in the midst of the people your majesty can still count on their enthusiasm and devotion."

Eugenie resolved to show herself on horseback. She ordered that the riding habit be chosen. It must be all black, of the severest simplicity. And she would just pin the red ribbon of the Legion of Honor on her left breast.

Often the slightest causes bring about the gravest results. The tragedy of the empire's last chance, therefore, must be sought along with the black riding skirt and corsage.

By incredible ill luck they could not find it. There had been one, but it had disappeared, "doubtless stolen." Others were at Compiegne and Fontainebleau. They found a riding habit of dark green with heavy gold braid, the costume of the imperial stag hunts.

"It will not do," Eugenie sobbed; "it will not do!"

And so for lack of a black skirt and corsage the empress of the French was forced to flee her capital and lost an empire.—Sterling Heilig in Metropolitan Magazine.

Why He Quit.

"For the drunkard and the glutton shall come to poverty." "I figured out years ago," said a prosperous farmer, "that with very moderate drinking I'd drink an acre of good land every year. So I quit."—Central Christian Advocate.

A Strong Man.

Daughter—Wasn't Julius Caesar one of the strongest men that ever lived, pa? Father—What makes you ask that question, my little girl? Daughter—I was just reading that he threw a bridge over the Rhine.

(4) The term "vicinity" in the two preceding paragraphs is defined as meaning not more than nine miles in a direct line, exclusive of the width of road allowances crossed in the measurement.

(5) A homesteader intending to perform his residence duties in accordance with the above while living with parents or on farming land owned by himself must notify the agent in the district of such intention.

LOVE CHARMS.

Some of the Queer Superstitions That Live in Sicily.

The love charms of Sicily are many and curious. One, very popular and considered very powerful, is to put into an eggshell a few drops of the blood of the longing lover. The shell is exposed to the sun for three days and to the dew for three nights. It is then placed on hot ashes until calcined, when the whole is reduced to a fine powder and administered secretly in a cup of coffee or a glass of wine to the object of affection.

Another charm is for the witch to undress at midnight and tie her clothes up in a bundle which she places on her head. Then, kneeling in the center of her room, she pronounces an incantation, at the end of which she shakes her head. If the bundle falls in front of her, it is a good sign; should it fall behind her, the charm will not avail.

Yet another is worked in the following manner: Pieces of green, red and white ribbon are purchased in three different shops, the name of the persons to be charmed being repeated mentally each time. The shopkeeper must be paid with the left hand, the ribbon being received in the right. When all the pieces are bought they are taken to a witch, who sets out to find the person to be charmed. On finding him or her the witch mutters to herself, "With these ribbons I bind you to such a one." Then she returns the ribbons to the purchaser, who ties them beneath his or her left knee and wears them at church.—Macmillan's.

When Buttons Were Big.

Bachaumont writes in his "Secret Memoirs," Nov. 18, 1780: "The mania for buttons is today extremely ridiculous. They are not only of enormous size, some of them as big as six pound crowns, but miniatures and pictures are made upon them, and this ornamentation is extremely costly. Some of them represent the medals of the twelve Caesars, others antique statues and still others the Metamorphoses of Ovid."

Isabey, in his biographical notes, says that when he came to Paris he worked for a living by making copies of Vanloos and Bouchers on the lids of snuffboxes and that for these medallions he was paid from 6 to 8 francs each. "As it was still the fashion," he said, "to wear buttons as big as a five franc piece, upon which Cupids, flowers and landscapes were cut in cameo, I went into that business. I got 12 sous for each."—Paris Figaro.

Why Some Countries Are Uninhabited.

A mere glance at our maps impresses a few general facts upon us. We see that the largest areas of the unknown are now in lands that are too dry, as in the Sahara, the desert of Arabia, and the steppes of Mongolia; lands that are too wet and hot, stimulating almost impenetrable forest growths, as in parts of the Amazon and Kongo basins; lands that are too cold and bleak, as portions of the northern areas of America and Asia. Even the characteristics of the inhabitants influence the extent of the unexplored. In proportion to total area there is more unknown surface in Liberia than in any other political subdivision of the world, because the Liberians, content to live along the coast, have scarcely entered their vast forest maze, though they teem with rubber and other resources.—Cyrus C. Adams in Harper's.

What Red Coral Is.

The red coral that is used for necklaces is a horny axis which supports a number of soft bodied, coral-like animals, or polyps, the entire structure bearing a strong resemblance to a small shrub. The fishermen, after they have brought this shrublike colony to the surface, clean the soft animal matter away, preserving the red core, or axis, which is sold as jewelry. Although red coral contains some lime, it is largely composed of a substance akin to horn, and, like horn, it takes a fine polish. Horn, wool and other animal substances of this nature almost invariably change their color when brought into intense heat.—St. Nicholas.

Care of Hairbrushes.

A good way to clean hairbrushes is with spirits of ammonia and warm water. Take a tablespoonful of ammonia to a quart of water, dip the bristles up and down in the water without wetting the back, rinse in clean warm water, shake well and dry in the air, but not in the sun. Soap and soda soften the bristles and will turn an ivory backed brush yellow.

A life of laziness is its own reward.

A coat of tan is often an expensive suit of clothing.

Think twice before you do a mean thing and then ask some one else to do it.

The more you think about some people the less you think of them.

He who thinks no evil is lucky in his environment.

ACTOR STOPS PLAY TO REBUKE GALLERY GODS

"The Country Squire," a tissue of comedy, for which a mere shred of a plot appears to be but the excuse, was the presentation last night at the opera house by the Lee Willard company. The story is simply that the daughter of the old Vermont squire, Alice, pressed by her father's urgent desire for her to marry a man whom she likes but does not love, elopes with another man, who beguiles her with false promises. She early realizes her folly and leaves him in time, but is afraid to return to her father, who for months grieves in silence. Lending aid to a tramp, he discovers a vein of good in the man and helps him, also giving him a photo of Alice and asking him, should he meet her by chance, to tell her that her father waits her with a father's love. The tramp finds the girl and is himself reformed by the kind act.

The final scene, a wintry Christmas eve, brings the return of the lost one, and happiness is complete. The scene, with the red glow of the wood fire illumining the aged, but hearty squire, as he deftly acts the role of Santa Claus, after the household is abed, filling the stockings of several orphans whose parents he recalls as he works, is a pretty one indeed, and is admirably suited to the acting of the genial Mr. Willard; not only so, but it makes an uncommon and very impressive close to a most interesting play. All the power, however, is in the quality of the acting and while members of the company are more than can be enumerated, their dramatic ability was amply testified to by the silence with which the audience listened to the pathetic scenes and the laughter that greeted the humorous sallies.

A well merited rebuff was handed during the course of the play to a number of youths in the gallery who persisted in making themselves a nuisance. Mr. Willard, stopping in the course of his part, addressed them quietly, rebuking them for their inattention and mimicry. That his words had their effect was evident when the offenders left the building immediately afterward. The audience loudly applauded the action of the leading man.

SUGGESTS CONFERENCE ON THE ASIATIC QUESTION

London, Feb. 18.—Lord Amptaill intends asking the government whether they intend inviting the colonies to discuss the question of the treatment of Asiatics in the colonies, and whether the government does not consider the recent action of the Canadian and Transvaal government "both conspicuous demonstrations of the belief of the colonies in the paramount importance of imperial unity," sufficient proof that the colonies would welcome such a conference.

CITIZENS OBJECTING TO TAKING CARNEGIE MONEY

East Orange, N. J., Feb. 18.—A loud protest has bone up here against the proposed action of the city council in accepting $30,000 from Andrew Carnegie for three branch libraries. The city already has one Carnegie library which originally cost $50,000 and costs $16,000 a year to run. Many people thing the cost of running the library is too high, in view of the fact that nearly sixty sections of the circulated books are fiction.

Power from Niagara.

Washington, Feb. 18.—The House committee on rivers and harbors yesterday gave a hearing on the Porter Alexander bills exempting the Niagara Gorge Railway company and the Lower Niagara River Power & Water Supply company from the provisions of the act for the control and regulation of the waters of the Niagara river. The bill will allow the companies named to divert water from the points at a distance not less than a mile below the falls.
