COMES THROUGH THE HORRORS OF SAN FRANCISCO

Mrs. Carriere Reaches Her Parent's Home in New Westminster and Tells of Awful Experience in the Heart of the Earthquake Calamity---With Baby in Her Arms She Becomes Separated From Her Husband in Hour of Peril.

Hemmed in by burning buildings, a helpless little two-year-old baby in her arms, terrified by the groans and shrieks of the dying, while old mother earth rocked and groaned beneath her feet like a ship in a gale was the experience of Mrs. Carriere who arrived here on Sunday from the heart of the San Francisco horror.

Owing to the kindness of total strangers in Oakland Mrs. Carriere was provided with shelter, protection and the means of returning to her childhood home in New Westminster and to her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Ross on Sixth avenue.

Where It Was Fiercest.

Mrs. Carriere states that at the time of the earthquake she was living with her husband, who is a barber, in an apartment house on the corner of Winona and Fifth streets, in the heart of the city where the shock was felt the fiercest. They were thrown from their beds with the violence of the shock and instinctively she grabbed her little one and any garments that were within reach, and her husband hurried her from the tottering building, not any too soon as the walls began to crumble and fall.

Surrounded by Horrors.

Once on the street a new difficulty faced them. On one side of their dwelling was a hotel and on the other was a large and crowded apartment house. These had been utterly wrecked in the first fearful convulsion of nature which lasted about twelve minutes and seemed to those who experienced it to have lasted an hour. From these buildings came the screams of the dying and the horror stricken cries of men and women pinned down by fallen timbers; parents bereft of their children, and children torn from their parents.

Husband Goes Back.

Mr. Carriere saw that the buildings would soon be ablaze as many of the residents had started to prepare their morning meals, and that once the buildings got well started to burn, escape would be almost impossible. Accordingly he took his wife and little one across the street, through a tenement house which had partly withstood the shock and out onto Mission street. There he left her and went back to try and get some clothing from their old home, which was badly wrecked, with fallen ceilings and tottering walls that it was almost as much as life was worth to enter it, especially as the fire had started to burn there also. He told her to go on to the home of friends of their's who lived a block or two away, at the corner of Fifth and Howard streets, there to await his coming.

Separated.

Until last Sunday, that was the last Mrs. Carriere, heard or saw of her husband. She arrived at the place where she was to meet her friends only to find that they had fled from the district . She therefore waited until a cry arose that the gasworks, which were only a short distance away, were in danger of blowing up on account of the proximity of the flames, which by this time were blazing fearfully in all directions.

Soldiers Drive People.

Soldiers came along driving everyone before them, and urging them to greater speed in getting away from the danger zone. One old man who had passed the allotted three score years and ten lagged behind, and in spite of the urging of the soldiers, gasped out, "I can't go another step," and laid down on the sidewalk. They ran to his assistance, but fear and exhaustion had done its work. The poor old man was dead.

Snatches Baby From Danger.

A man and woman passing out of a side street lagged behind as they watched some distant horror, while the walls of a building tottered and swayed. A Frenchman saw their danger, screamed out a warning, grabbed the child from the carriage and ran. The instinct of the parents led them to run after their child, fearing that the Frenchman's intention were evil, and as they ran, the walls of the building fell and buried the carriage beneath the smoking ruins.

Too Much for Old Woman.

Not far away was a woman, 75 years of age. The horror of the situation turned the aged brain and she ran tearing her gray hair, a raving maniac. Men took her in charge, conveyed her to a place of safety and bound her to the trunk of a tree for safe keeping.

At last Mrs. Carriere and her precious burden, with a party of strangers, reached a place on Third street where the men had been excavating for a new railway spur. There they were beyond the fire zone, and yet could see the horrors of the situation.

Unavailing Cries.

Friends who went through the city assisting in the work of relief brought back the story of the St. Francis hotel fire. The lower parts of the building was in flames; people lined the windows pitifully calling for help which could not be given. The building started to totter and the officers ordered the soldiers to shoot all in sight and thus put a merciful end to their tortures.

Distress was experienced on account of the lack of food and water. From cold there was no suffering, as the heat from the blazing city provided the necessary warmth and the light was so powerful that a letter could be read at any hour of the night.

Drunken Revel.

To add to the nightmare men and women had become possessed of liquor which they had managed to rescue from one of the burning buildings, and went in for a huge bacchanalian revel, and many became crazed by drink. The soldiers eventually came to the rescue and broke up the entire supply. During this time shocks were recurring periodically, and the refugees were in constant fear of the ground yawning beneath their feet and engulfing them.

Smallpox Alarm.

Towards the end of the second day, soldiers came along and advised all who could possibly do so to get out of the city at once as there were already twenty cases of smallpox and quarantine laws were about to be imposed.

There was an immediate scurry to get out of the city and draymen reaped a rich harvest. People with whom Mrs. Carriere came in contact paid all the way from $25 to $50 to have their trunks moved but a few blocks.

Bullets Riddle Headgear.

Men who chose to stay in the city, whether they were rich or poor were compelled to assist in the work of rescue. Close beside their little encampment was a man with a tall hat and attire that bespoke wealth. When the call for help came, he declined and offered money instead. The soldiers refused the money and ordered him to go to work. The gentleman refused and the soldiers immediately riddled his tall hat with bullets and the last she saw of the wealthy loafer he was walking off with a pick on his shoulder and a subdued expression on his face.

News of Husband.

After much anxiety Mrs. Carriere and boy, with only a few dollars to depend upon managed to get across to Oakland. Here compassionate people took her in charge and with the greatest kindness took mother and child to their home in Wheatland and eventually gave her the means of reaching her home in this city. All this time Mrs. Carriere feared that her husband had perished in the building he had entered in order to get clothing for herself and their child. Her thankfulness knew no bounds when a couple of days ago a telegram from her husband reached her parents. A wire was immediately sent back advising the absent husband of the safety of the wife. Mr. Carriere is a barber by trade and all his tools were burned in his shop and they are left with just what they stand up in, to commence life over again, but still truly thankful that they have come through the disaster as well as they have done.

Strike Causes Tie Up Of Tugs and Steamers

Cleveland, Ohio, May 1.—Every member of the International Longshoremen, Marine and Transport Workers' union employed on boats of the Lake Carriers' association quit work at midnight last night and today not a pound of ore, coal or grain was being handled in the port of Cleveland.

The same condition exists in practically every Lake Erie port. Every tug in the harbor was tied up this morning.

The Licensed Tugmen's Protective association are affiliated with the longshoremen as are the firemen of the tugs and not a crew on a union tug turned up after midnight last night. The "wildcat" tug, the Charles Castle, of Detroit, had to be called into service to bring the big Detroit & Cleveland liner to Cleveland this morning.

Lumber boats, package freight boats, and passenger boats are not affected by the strike at present as their owners are not affiliated with the Lake Carriers.

In the port of Cleveland 4,000 men are directly affected, 1,000 of whom are seamen.

About 650 laborers went out on the Cleveland and Pittsburg dock alone.

If the strike continues any length of time, however, the men in the independent furnaces will in all likelihood be thrown out for lack of ore to smelt. The foundrymen will have to quit for lack of pig iron and it is said there is more than a chance that some of the steel mills will have to shut down. The ore supply on the docks is practically exhausted so far as high grade ores are concerned. Train crews in number will be thrown out of work because of the stoppage of the coal traffic. Some of the big elevators will have to restrict their operations on account of the shutting down of the lake grain trade.

It is estimated that if the strike lasts for one month 30,000 men in Cleveland alone will be thrown out of work.

Chicago, Ills., May 1.—At midnight last night all the members of the Longshoremen's union in South Chicago, numbering about 3,000, quit the work of loading and unloading vessels. Of these 1,500 are ore vessels and three ore laden steamers will be tied up by the strike. The grain trimmers are included in the strike order.

AFRAID OF HIMSELF

John McPherson Asks to Be Locked Up, and Is Accomodated By Chief of Police.

John McPherson, a native of Scotland, and until recently residing in Victoria, walked into the office of the chief of police yesterday afternoon and asked the chief to lock him up as he was not safe to be at large.

The man seemed to be quite rational for a time, but as he persisted in saying that he was insane, he was put in the cells, pending examination by a medical man.

From his subsequent actions, it was plainly evident that the man was not in his right mind.

McPherson is a bricklayer by trade, and had recently worked on the construction of a new building in Vancouver. He claims to be a married man with three children, and appears to be about thirty-five years of age.

REV. W. J. SIPPRELL, D. D.

A message received from Toronto this morning contained the information that the senate of the Victoria University has conferred the degree of Doctor of Divinity on Rev. Professor Sipprell, principal of Columbian college at New Westminster. The many friends of the principal who are unanimous in the opinion that the honor has been most fittingly placed will not only congratulate him as recipient but will congratulate the senate of Victoria University on its choice and decision.

FRENCH SOLDIERS TAKE PRECAUTION AGAINST TROUBLE

Turn Out in Force to Prevent May Day Disturbances---One Hundred Arrests Are Made and Disorderly Demonstrators Are Sent to Jail.

Paris, May 1.—Today, the day for which the government made prodigous preparations finds many quarters of the city presenting the appearance of an armed camp. The forces concentrated under Prefect of Police Lepine are estimated at 50,000 troops, 12,000 police and 8,000 republican guards, gendarmes and detectives. Detachments of troops of all arms took up positions in the main centres at an early hour.

The bulk of the military forces had been strictly confined to barracks since midnight and remained under orders to be ready to move at a moment's notice.

The troops at midnight began to guard the public sources of water, gas and electric supply.

The plan of the authorities was to avoid the use of the military unless such a step was imperative to maintain order. Accordingly the aspect of the city during the early hours was little different from usual, but toward noon the military activity increased. The Metropolitan railroad and the omnibusses continued to operate but cab traffic was crippled owing to the cabmens' fears.

The extensive central markets were deserted, the country folk refusing to risk bringing in provisions. The suburbs which are guarded by troops were reported to be calm. Strong bodies of troops are posted at the main railroad depots in the city. The St. Lazare station is surrounded by a squadron of cuirassiers, several companies of infantry, and Republican Guards. Prior to the opening of the Bourse, a regiment of infantry took positions on the terrace and detachments of cuirassiers occupied the neighboring streets. The Bourse opened at the usual hour but business was restricted.

9:20 a. m.—The Boulevards, the Place de la Concorde, the Place de Letoile, and the Place de la Bourse present their normal aspect. Traffic is uninterrupted except in the case of cabs. Workmen are quietly gathering on the Place de la Republique.

11:15 a. m.—In addition to the occupation of the Place de la Bourse by troops early in the day, prior to the opening of the bourse, a battalion of infantry was stationed on the terrace of the building and detachments of cavalry were drawn up at each of its wings.

12:20 p. m.—Owing to an increase of the excitement on the Place de la Republique the troops intervened and a hundred arrests were made. The prisoners were immediately taken before magistrates who quickly passed upon them, and the disturbers of the peace were taken to jail.

The striking printers attempted to march in procession from the Bourse Du Travail (labor headquarters) singing a revolutionary song. They attacked the police who intervened and the latter were compelled to draw their revolvers. The procession was then broken up.

1. p. m.—A squadron of cavalry with an ambulance has occupied the part of the Place de la Toile facing the Champs Elysee. Detachments of cavalry are patrolling thoroughfares in the vicinity of the Ministeries of the Quay d'Orsa. A police guard has been stationed at the American embassy.

Detachments of troops have just taken up a position around the Bank of France.

1:53 p. m.—The Place de la Republique is the scene of countless arrests. The number of disorderly persons there has increased by several thousands. A detachment of four hundred infantry has stacked arms on the Place de la Toile.

2:25 p. m.—Many anarchists have been expelled from Paris including Stephane Guerezicoff and one woman. M. Leby, secretary of the conferedation of labor and M. Fromatal, the wealthy anarchist have been arrested. Delegates from all the trades are assembling at the Labor headquarters.

3:30 p. m.—6,000 strikers are holding a meeting at the Labor Exchange and the same number have assembled at the headquarters of the Confederation of Labor. The military have surrounded the buildings and await the exit of the strikers. Prefect Lepine is outside and counsels calm. Police charges are continuous on the Boulevard Magenta.

Tragedies in Warsaw.

Warsaw, May 1.—In Poland May Day three policemen were killed in the streets during the night, but the threatened May Day outbreaks have not materialized up to 2 o'clock this afternoon. Warsaw is like a city of the dead. The shops and restaurants are closed. No cabs and no street cars are running and no newspapers are being sold. The streets are patrolled by troops, but a heavy rain is falling which is keeping the people in doors.

New City Hall.

San Francisco, Cal., May 1.—San Francisco is to build a new city hall at once, a temporary structure.

GRAND JURY FINDS TRUE BILLS ON ALL CRIMINAL CHARGES

Convict Who Attempted to Escape From Penitentiary Gets Nine Months Extra---Evidence Is Given on Both Sides of Chrysler Assault Case.

The spring assizes opened here this morning, with His Lordship Judge Irving presiding. The Grand Jury through their foreman, Marshall Sinclair, brought in true bills against Newman who broke away from the penitentiary last November; against Pierre charged with assault at Agassiz; against Chrysler also charged with assault, and against a Chinaman, Ah Lee, who is accused of sodomy.

In his opening address to the Grand Jury, Judge Irving congratulated the members of the lightness of the docket they would be called upon to consider. Four criminal cases were to be placed before them, two of which were assault cases, one an attempt to break jail and the third and most unpleasant case was one of sodomy. In addition to bringing in bills in these cases, it would be necessary for the Grand Jury to visit all public buildings and report upon their condition and management.

The first case to be considered was that of Newman who was charged with breaking from the penitentiary He was placed in the dock in his convict garb, bearing on the collar, No. 10, and around his ankle a heavy chain with ball attached. On being arraigned, the prisoner pleaded guilty and asked permission to make a statement. On permission being granted, Newman said: "This affair occurred on the first of last November, I was at work digging in the garden near the prison fence. The guard was some distance away and on the impulse of the moment, I enlarged the hole, and got under the fence, forgetting the risk I ran of being shot. I had no particular hope of escaping and it was a sudden impulse. If I hadn't been tempted by the absence of the guard I wouldn't have done it. I would ask your lordship not to punish me any more as I've been punished enough already. I have lost twelve months remission of sentence, beside wearing a heavy ball and chain on my leg ever since.

His Lordship questioned the warden, Colonel Whyte, as to the prisoner's general conduct and was informed that his conduct was generally good. His Lordship stated that he could readily understand how a man, on the spur of the moment might break away and repent his action afterwards. At the same time he must impose some punishment as a means of warning others who might run the risk of getting shot.

On being interrogated the prisoner stated that he had a five years sentence resting upon him and he had served 27 months of that time.

His Lordship added another 9 months to the prisoner's sentence, and Newman picked up his ball and chain and was escorted back to the pen.

Chysler Assault Case.

In the afternoon the Chrysler assault case was placed before the jury. The scene of the trouble was in the vicinity of Central Park. The man assaulted was E. J. Bramwell, a resident of the district who was the first witness called by J. H. Bowes, the counsel for the crown. Mr. Bramwell stated that on the 31st of January last, he had been hurrying to catch the car at Central Park. The road was narrow and ahead of him was the defendant Chrysler who was carrying two sacks suspended at either end of a pole. As he attempted to pass Chrysler had turned in such a manner as to strike him in the stomach with the sacks which were filled with bottles. An altercation then occurred in which the witness was beaten unconscious by Chrysler.

Dr. Jones, hospital physician, gave evidence as to the condition of Bramwell after he had been admitted to the hospital. He considered that Bramwell's injuries were of a serious character.

Charles Patterson had met Chrysler after the fight and Chrysler had said that if Bramwell died he had brought it on himself.

Mrs. Smith, who was an eye witness of the assault, corroborated the story told by the victim.

Mark Miles told of the condition of the road at the point where the trouble took place and the last witness for the crown, Thomas Henderson, related how he had found Bramwell lying almost unconscious and covered with blood at the side of the road near Mrs. Smith's home.

Two witnesses were called by J. A. Russel counsel for the defense, Frederick Curzon, who told of bad blood having existed between the two men involved in the affair; and the prisoner himself, who alleged that he had been assaulted first by Bramwell, and that the injuries received by Bramwell had resulted from a fair fight.

This concluded the evidence, and the opposing counsels proceeded to sum up their respective cases before the jury.

HALIBUT SCHOONER IS A TOTAL WRECK

Steamer Queen City Picks Up Crew of the Kilmeny at Quatsino.

Victoria, April 30.—The halibut schooner Kilmeny of Vancouver, is a total loss at San Josef Bay, near Cape Scott. The captain of the schooner and five of his crew arrived here today on the Queen City, which picked them up at Quatsino, to which point they crossed overland.

Excursion Ship Sinks.

Guernsey, April 30.—The passenger steamer Courier, with a crew of nine men and carrying about 20 excursionists, foundered today off Sark, soon after leaving that island, and sank immediately. Three members of the crew and one passenger were drowned, all the others being rescued. There is no explanation of the disaster.

BLANEFIELD SINKS OFF BEACHY HEAD

Collision Between Barque and Steamer Results in Loss of Five Lives.

Newhaven, England, May 1.—The British steamer Blanefield, Captain Isaacs which sailed from Junin, March 10, for orders was sunk off Beachy Head today by the British barque Kate Thomas, Captain Hughes, from Antwerp for Calais.

The captain and nine members of the crew were landed here by a pilot boat and it is believed that fourteen others were also saved.

Five persons are reported drowned.

The cargo of the Blanefield was valued at $250,000.

Pekin, May 1.—The Chinese papers say that Prof. Weeks, of Cornell unisersity, will be offered the appointment of financial adviser to the Chinese government.

Britain and China Reach An Agreement

Pekin, May 1.—The Anglo-Thibetan treaty was officially published after its ratification. According to information that has reached the Associated Press the treaty in substance is as follows:

"China pays the expense of the recent British expedition to L'Hassa in installments and Great Britain recognizes China's sovereignty over Thibet. China opens two towns to trade, Gyangse and Kateko, railways, telegraphs and mines are to be built or operated by China and Great Britain, but Great Britain will not interfere with China or Chinese merchants who provide the capital for enterprises of this character. Applications from British investors for interest in such enterprises are to be made to the Chinese governor of L'Hassa. When he approves ratification by the Chinese government will be necessary. On the full payment of the expense of the military expedition Great Britain will withdraw troops from Chumbi but may withdraw sooner. After the withdrawal of British troops China must protect British trade. Political relations will be conducted with the residents at L'Hassa. A tariff on British imports will be announced later by a separate convention."

"Am I My Brother's Keeper?"

Sermon Preached to Oddfellows in St. Andrew's Church By Rev. J. S. Henderson on Sunday, April 29. . . . . .

The members of the local Oddfellows' lodges attended St. Andrews' church in a body on Sunday evening, parading from their hall on Columbia street. They were about 100 strong and included many of the order of the Rebekahs. Rev. J. S. Henderson preached a special sermon on this occasion and special music was rendered by the choir. The anthem, "O Lord Rebuke Me Not" was given during the evening and a quartette by Messrs. White, M. J. Knight, Miss Munn and Mrs. Corbett, "Draw Nigh to Me, Ye Weary" was very much appreciated.

Taking for his text the words of Genesis 4-9, "Am I My Brothers' Keepers" Mr. Henderson preached a stirring sermon that was listened to with the closest of attention by the crowded congregation.

Mr. Henderson said in part, "This is a sad chapter. It tells of the first quarrel, a family quarrel, a quarrel that brought sadness and sorrow to the first home. It tells of the first religious quarrel. There have been many since and every one of them have blackened the pages of history. It tells of the first murder, so bitter was the spirit of Cain that he stained his hands in his brother's blood, and from that day to this unbrotherliness has been responsible for the the saddest and darkest deeds that afflict mankind. The trouble arose over the offering which each of them had prepared to make unto God. The story shows that from the very first men have been divided into two great classes. These two opposing lines are in this first instance represented by Cain and Abel, and the spirit of the man is revealed in the nature of the offering which each brought unto God. Cain brought the fruit of the soil, and looked at himself as he wanted to be and not as he was. There was no acknowledgement of past sin, no humble penitence, no loving trust in the mercy and grace of a loving Father. Abel's offering was quite different. He represented himself as he was, and consequently his offering was acceptable to God who accepted it and rejected Cain's. And I have often thought that this acceptance and rejection of the sacrifices was determined more by the spirit and manner of their approach than in the actual condition of the offering itself. Cain went to his unrooted church unwillingly, begrudging the few roots and fruits that he took. Abel, guileless and sunny youth, went with a glad free heart, took the best of his flock and gave it willingly and freely, and a gift is determined, not by its size or material, but by the heart in it and the motive behind it. Cain showed what was in him by what came out of him, murder. If you want to know what a man's religious worship is worth, see him out of church. If he charges you $3.00 for what is only worth $2.00 that is the actual value of his church going. If you really want to know a man's religion, swop horses with him on Monday morning. Cain envied his brother's acceptance and rose up and slew his brother. Where selfishness, jealousy and envy rule, there can be no brotherliness and I wish this evening to ask three questions.

"'Who is my brother?'

"'Am I his keeper?'

"'What is involved in the responsibility?'

"In these days an enormous amount of energy is expended on the betterment of individual conditions and in the interests on number one. The first question is vital. We get down behind our walls of religious principles and social conventions and fondly imagine that our responsibilities go no further than the little circle in which we move. In this we are much like the ancient Greeks, to whom all other nations were barbarians, or like the Jews, to whom all outsiders were Gentiles.

"Christ took a wider view and cut right into the heart of this smallness of vision, and it is a duty laid upon us to be self-sacrificing and to look upon all men as our brothers. By accepting the theory of the human race being all descended from one common ancestor, the question, 'Who is my brother?' is soon settled. We will find him in all races and classes, in all sorts of conditions and surroundings. His skin may be of a different color, his social and moral condition vastly different, but the common bond of humanity binds us to him as brother."

The parable of the good Samaritan was here quoted, this being one of the classics of the Oddfellows.

"Our brothers can be found among the red men of the tepee and the tent; among the black men of the krall and the mud hut, among the Eskimo in his palace of ice; among the wild men of Central Australia, more brute than human, running wild in his dense forests. The heathen Chinese, the unspeakable Turk, the inscrutable Hindoo, the exclusive Indian, the savage Fijian, in all lands among all classes, we find our brother. This is the breadth and the principle of Oddfellowship, because it is the breadth of the gospel.

"'Am I his keeper?' If we answer the previous quotation in accordance with the principles of inspiration, this one is not hard to answer. The apostle Paul said: 'Give unto all men.' Every man is appointed to keep some other man or some other life. We are responsible for one another as well as the security for one another. There are within our reach people that live in utter misery, children that grow in the foulest dens of sin. And God is not going to work a miracle to rescue these people and change this order of things. He asks us to use human means. If we neglect these people, they will remain neglected, and we will be held responsible for them. It is vain for us to ask, 'Am I my brother's keeper.' God will ask every one of us as he did Cain, 'What hast thou done,' and to every one of these smooth religionists, urbane churchmen, and self satisfied pharisees will say, 'The voice of thy brother's blood cryeth unto me from the ground.'

"Once the great missionary Xavier thoroughly worn out with his labors, said to his servants, 'I must have rest, I must sleep.' After resting a while he turned suddenly to his servant and said, 'One thing I forgot, if a little child wants me, I must be awakened.' This is the tender sympathetic unselfishness that makes the life great, and crowns it with helpful ministry. That is the secret of the Livingstones, Careyss, Frys, Nightingales, whose fragrant memory will ever live among us. That is the secret of the philantrophy that in ever widening circles is spreading over the field of Christian work today.

"What is involved in the responsibility? I do not think it can be better stated than in the apostle's words. 'As you have therefore opportunity give unto all men.' The opportunity imposes the obligation upon us. It is not merely what is convenient, or in the interests of party, or will it contribute to my wealth and comfort; it is 'I have opportunity and I must not lose sight of the needs around me.'

"Have love, not love alone for me
"'But hearken to thy brother's call,
"'And scatter like the circling sun
"'Thy charities to all.'"

"The responsibility involves a compassionate heart, a ready liberal hand, a self-respecting spirit and a loving trust in the all likeness to Jesus Christ."

Rev. Mr. Henderson closed with a few words of congratulation to the order on their numerical and financial standing, saying: "The society stands today the richest and most effective of all secular benevolent institutions in the world. It claims 1,500,000 adherents, the increase last year being 101,000. When Thomas Wildley and the five who were associated with him in Baltimore in 1819, eighty-seven years ago, formed this organization, they little dreamt that so many men good and true would be linked together this evening. And when James L. Ridgley put his brains into the constitution and laws, he little dreamt of the helpfulness of the organization to the millions that would come after him. Fraternity, co-operation and helpfulness were the characteristics of the organization, and the years but added to the usefulness of the work. You are to be congratulated further on giving a place to women in your ranks. The Rebekahs to the number of half a million find a place in your order. What more natural than in the relief of sickness and distress woman should have her part. Her gentle, refining, ennobling influence adds beauty and power to the order. In the eighty-seven years of your history $105,000,000 have been expended in relief work alone. The order now raises annually $5,00,000 to help and to heal, and to hasten the brighter day, full orbed that is coming."

Let Whiskers Grow.

Berlin, April 30.—A queer kind of a strike has taken place at Lachen, a small town near Neustadt, on the Hardt. The men in the town have taken the heroic resolution to allow their beards to grow. Hitherto the barbers charged 50 cents a year to a customer who had one shave a week and $1 a year for two shaves a week. Hair cutting was included in these prices. Now the barbers have decided to raise the subscription to 75 cents for one shave a week, and to make an additional charge for hair cutting. The men of Lachen decline to accept the new terms, and by the way of revenging themselves on the barbers have decided not to shave.

New Matron Wanted.

Olympia, April 30.—Mrs. Herman, matron of the Western Washington Hospital at Stellacoom called on Gov. Mead today and discussed with him the report that she is to be removed from her position.

Both the governor and Mrs. Herman refused to talk of the interview but Mrs. Herman admits that she expects to leave the asylum about May 10.

LATE PROFESSOR SHALER.

(New York Evening Post.)

A few years ago some irreverent undergraduates published a little book of caricatures and verse entitled "Harvard Celebrities." The first skit ran as follows:

This is Shaler,
Fairy-taler,
Scientific mountain-scaler,
Penetrator
Of each crater
From the poles to the equator,
Tamer of the hurricane,
Prophet of the wind and rain,
Hypnotizer
Of the geyser,
Wizard of the frozen plain.
Hark! What is that deep and distant subterranean roar,
Arising near Memorial and reaching out to Gore?
'Tis the rumble of applause
When the speaker makes a pause
In relating an adventure from his fund of earthquake lore.

These lines are a not inadequate characterization of that geologist, philosopher and poet, that man to whom all the various aspects of life were as fascinating as a fairy tale, Nathaniel Southgate Shaler.

When Prof. Shaler died, Harvard lost one of the most versatile and interesting men that have ever adorned her faculty. By vocation a geologist, he took all knowledge to be his province. In the sciences—mathematics, chemistry, physics, and the several branches of biology—he might fairly be called an adept. His mind ranged through the whole region of speculative philosophy; and three of his most popular books deal with man in his relations to society, "The Individual," "The Citizen" and "The Neighbor."

In Father's Footsteps.

Chattanooga, Tenn., April 30.—The Rev. Father Sherman, son of Gen. W. T. Sherman, priest of the Roman Catholic church, started today for Fort Ogelthorp, accompanied by a detail of the Twelfth Cavalry, to follow the route of his father's famous march to the sea.

The cavalry will accompany him as far as Atlanta and at Fort McPherson another detail, will be assigned to conduct him to the sea.

Judgment for Schwab.

London, April 30.—In the king's bench division of the high court of justice today the suit of Davis Rothschild, a picture dealer, against Charles M. Schwab, of New York, for breach of contract in failing to purchase a picture, "Dedham Lock," for $15,000, resulted in a judgment for Mr. Schwab.

SENSIBLE OPPOSITION NEEDED.

(Argus, Montreal.)

His excellency's loyal opposition, reminds me a good deal of "the Woolwich Infant," the great steam hammer which can be used to crack a nut without smashing the kernel, or to break a watch glass, without otherwise injuring the watch. The principal difference is, that the Woolwich Infant is seldom used as a nutcracker or as a watch-glass breaker, but his excellency's loyal opposition seems to spend most of its energies, most of its time (because the country has to pay for it), in cracking nut shells and watch glasses.

The trouble with the Ottawa Infant is a lack of appreciation of perspective and a lack of humor. To it, all issues are of about the same size, and it never knows when it is making itself ridiculous.

Take for instance, the criticisms upon the collapse of the so-called "Laurier tower." I never heard it called the "Laurier tower" until it fell, and I do not know, and do not care a two-penny dam, whether that was to be its name or not.

To begin with, the name given it, "after the fall," was the biggest thing about it. Essentially, it was a trifling addition to the western block of the departmental buildings, necessitated I presume by the fire.

The simple facts are that it was built by contract, it fell, and great was the fall thereof, but fortunately nobody was hurt. It had not been accepted by the government, it was not public property, and its fall involves no public loss, except the loss of time, involved in prattling about it in parliament.

The collapse may have been caused by the use of poor material, or, more likely, by the fact that the construction took place in the winter.

One honorable member produced in the house a bag of sand or cement collected in the ruins, and submitted it to the minister of public works, Mr. Hyman refused to look at it. He missed his opportunity. He should have accepted the bag, emptied it, blown it out and burst it, and that is all the reply he need have vouchsafed to a series of criticisms, unworthy of the time and attention of parliament.

From the tone of some of the censures one would think that it was the duty of the prime minister and the minister of public works to break up a meeting and the council now and then with the apology: "Excuse us, gentlemen, but we really must go and see that the contractor is putting enough mucilage in the cement for the Laurier tower."

Why on earth cannot we have an opposition in Canada that will offer a sturdy, sensible opposition to the government of the day, upon issues worthy of the attention of the country, rather than a policy of pin-pricks, upon trumpery questions not worth, and not likely to get a moment's consideration from the electors of Canada?

Finds Gold in Wells.

Sheridan, Mont., April 30.—Herman Hermsmeyer, a son of the Fatherland, claims to have stumbled upon an easy way of gathering gold. He has an old fashioned chain pump in his well, and a short time ago he discovered glistening particles of gold dust clinging to the links of the chain. Investigation brought out the fact that the whole length of the chain, about 100 feet, had been eaten full of small holes by the action of alkali, and these holes, says Mr. Hermsmeyer, were chock full of pure gold. He dug out several holes with a penknife, and a test proved that the gold was genuine.

He now proposes to melt the chain and clean up several hundred dollars. Mr. Hermsmeyer accounts for the presence of the gold in his well chain by saying that the water in the well must contain gold in small particles, which through precipitation have become lodged in the minute holes eaten by the alkali. If his cleanup pans out as hoped, he promises to lease all the wells in Sheridan and put in chain pumps.

SENATOR PETTIGREW HAS FAITH IN BRYAN

Believes He Will Be Next Democratic Candidate for United States Presidency.

Washington, April 30.—Former Senator Pettigrew of South Dakota passed through Washington this week on his way back to New York. He made a flying trip to Sioux Falls, his old home, and has now returned to New York for another indefinite stay. In point of fact, it is straining a point to regard Mr. Pettigrew any longer as a South Dakotan, although he himself still declares that he is a legal resident of that state. His business interests are all in the east, and he is rapidly becoming rich. On a conservative basis, it is claimed that he can now clean up several times as much as he lost in the panic of 1893, a panic which had not a little to do with taking him into the silver republican party, and from there into the ranks of the discontented and disappointed elements of the country that always are in evidence during panic times.

While in Washington Mr. Pettigrew was asked who, in his opinion, would be the democratic nominee for the presidency in 1908, and he replied, with emphasis, and without a moment's hesitation: "Bryan. He will be nominated on what will be termed a conservative platform, and he will represent the more conservative elements of his party.

It requires a lively stretch of imagination at this moment to see Mr. Bryan as a conservative, and yet there is said to be a good deal of foundation for the opinion expressed by Mr. Pettigrew, an opinion, by the way, that has been heard in various parts of the country for months past. With Hearst and the other ultra-radicals forging to the front, Bryan may well pose as a conservative, although, as compared with any generally accepted definition of that word, he will still be looked upon by many people as a misfit.

Will Modify Views.

Some of Mr. Bryan's friends in Washington, who have been hearing from him during his trip abroad, and who knew about his general plans before he went away, say that his study of public ownership in Europe, which is to be made at first hands, and with as much care as possible will bring him home an advocate of that ownership in a limited way. He is not expected to stand for government ownership or operation of railways, and his friends expect him to modify his position as to state ownership.

He will stand for municipal ownership of quasi-public utilities, and in a national way for government regulation of railways, express companies, telegraph companies and telephone companies. In a general way, it is expected that he will endorse the Roosevelt position as to railways and accept the Hepburn bill, should it go through the senate without amendment. On the railway question, it is claimed that he will not be as much of a radical as Senator LaFollette.

It is not yet known just what part, if any, Bryan will take in the coming congressional campaign, or whether his views will be fully formulated in time for an announcement ahead of the fall elections. Some think that he will defer stating his position specifically until the elections are over, thus enabling him to make his declaration harmonize with public sentiment as it will be then expressed.

More and more it is apparent that the old south is turning away from the ultra radicalism of Hearst and his followers, and inclining to Bryan, and Bryan is now believed to be the first choice of all the south for the democratic presidential nomination. Mr. Pettigrew thus far has a good deal of ground for his positive assertion that Bryan will be the nominee and that he will rank in 1908 as a conservative.

Creeks' Medicine Man.

The medicine man of the Creeks will not eat anything scorched in cooking. In treating a gun or arrow shot wound he as well as the patient will fast four days, only drinking a little gruel.

He will not allow a woman to look at his patient until he is well or dead. If his patient dies, the medicine man takes a lot of medicine himself in order to cleanse himself from the fumes or odor of the dead. The pallbearers, as we might call those assisting in the burial, also take the same cleansing process.

And, again, when an Indian committed murder, even in self defense, he went to the medicine man and took the cleansing remedy, claiming the remedy appeased the crime and the trouble to his mind.

At the full of each moon it was the custom of the bucks to drink medicine made by the medicine man to cleanse their systems. In camp the Indian killed nothing which was not eatable.—Indian Journal.

The Human Voice.

One's surprise at the fact that no two persons' voices are perfectly alike ceases when one is informed by an authority on the subject that, though there are only nine perfect tones in the human voice, there is the astounding number of 17,592,186,044,415 different sounds. Of these fourteen direct muscles produce 16,383, and thirty indirect muscles produce 173,741,823, while all in co-operation produce the total given above.

Japan's Pipe Bell.

There is a bell in Tokyo, Japan, which is made from tobacco pipes. So says the legend inscribed around the outside in four languages, English, French, German and Japanese.

The English version runs as follows: "This bell, cast in the city of Tokyo, Japan, Dec. 10, 1892, by Tsuda Sen, is made from the metal of tobacco pipes of more than a thousand men, once slaves, now free men."

The story is that in 1892 a woman missionary from America waged war on tobacco smoking and persuaded over a thousand men to forswear the habit. They therefore had no further use for their metal pipes, which were melted down and cast in the form of a bell. The metal resembles bronze, and the bell has a pleasant musical ring.

Curious Welsh Superstition.

Small glasslike, irregular circlets of some crystallized mineral are occasionally found in the mountains of Wales, and concerning these the Welsh people have some curious superstitions. Some believe that they are formed in the body of a snake as soon as he reaches the age of 100 years, while others declare that they are formed "of froth and venom" when two large male snakes meet. Camden, the great English historian and antiquarian, says: "It is usual for snakes to approach on St. John's eve and by joining heads together and hissing to form a kind of bubble, which passes through the snake and immediately hardens till it resembles a glass ring. Whoever finds one of these rings will ever after prosper."

Rude Baron Steuben.

Baron Steuben was known as the rudest, roughest, most uncivil and discourteous officer in the Revolutionary army. He spoke English to some extent—that is, he knew most of the oaths and expletives and had other words enough to string them together—but when a little excited he would burst forth into a most extraordinary mixture of German, French and English and in this polyglot composition would abuse everybody in hearing.

Fixed.

"Why don't you go to work?" demanded the housekeeper.

"Well, yer see," began the gray haired old loafer, "I got a wife and three children to support"—

"But if you don't work how can you support"—

"As I wuz a-sayin', lady, I got a wife and three children to support me."—Philadelphia Ledger.

Cause For Fear.

Second (to duelist, who on confronting his adversary has suddenly grown pale and is only just prevented from falling)—Take courage, man. I know your opponent is going to fire in the air. Duelist—That's just what makes me afraid. He's such a notoriously bad shot.

Always Broke.

Shadbolt—Your finances are at a low ebb again, are they? Dinguss—Ebb? No; that would indicate that they're sometimes at the flow, which they never are. My finances are at their normal and unvarying level.—Chicago Tribune.

Notorious Brigand Captured.

Rome, April 30.—The notorious brigand Faltori, for whose capture a reward of $2,500 was offered, was taken prisoner today.

He was discovered hiding in the house of a cousin at Padau, but gave the gendarmes sent to arrest him the slip as they surrounded the building.

In his flight, however, he ran into the arms of a score of soldiers, who, seeing him flourishing an eight-chambered revolver, hemmed him in.

Quick as thought he fired four shots, wounding four of the soldiers, and got away again. The gendarmes continued the pursuit, and one of them, fleeter than the rest, was on the point of overtaking the fugitive when Faltoria shot him dead.

Two other gendarmes, who were following closely, were gravely wounded.

The brigand then attempted to enter a house, and when the owner barred his passage, killed him with the only remaining shot in his revolver.

Up to this time Faltori had been favored with most extraordinary luck, for though he had been repeatedly fired at by his pursuers, none of the shots had taken effect.

As a last desperate resource he leaped the parapet of a bridge spanning the Sacchiglione into the river, and was then captured. The crowd tried to lynch him, and before the prison was reached one of his eyes was torn out.

Thackeray's Portrait.

The following story furnishes an example of the manner in which Thackeray could not hesitate to treat what he considered vanity in others. After long pleading his family induced the famous novelist to sit for his portrait, and Lawrence, the painter, gladly undertook the task. Soon after the picture was completed Thackeray chanced to be dining at his club when a pompous officer of the guards stopped beside the table and said:

"Haw, Thackeray, old boy, I hear Lawrence has been painting yer portrait!"

"So he has," was the reply.

"Full length?"

"No; full length portraits are for soldiers, that we may see their spurs, but the other end of the man is the principal thing with authors," said Thackeray.

Can Talk Without Tongue.

"There seems to be a mistaken impression abroad," remarked a doctor the other day in speaking of the case of a man who had his tongue cut out in an effort to cure a case of cancer of that member, "that when a man is unfortunate enough to lose his tongue thenceforth all power of speech is denied him. This is not so. While it is true that not many men survive this operation for any great length of time, it is equally true that they can speak so long as they live and with only a comparatively slight impediment in their utterances. If you will hold a pencil crossways between your teeth and speak while it remains in that position you can get just the effect it has on human speech when the tongue is entirely removed."

Sea or Desert?

If it be true, as conjectured by the latest explorers, that Lake Chad is rapidly drying up, the process will probably be regarded by the geologists as simply a continuation of one which has been going on for ages in northern Africa. The whole of the Sahara was certainly once either an arm of the sea or a vast lake, and Lake Chad is probably only the final remnant of that huge sheet of water. The Sahara sea must always have been very shallow, a fact which made its evaporation easy, and Lake Chad is reported to be little more than a morass over the greater portion of its area.

Giving Them Fits.

Some years ago George F. Haley of Biddeford was trying his first criminal case before the supreme judicial court of Maine, with Chief Justice John A. Peters on the bench. Mr. Haley was in the middle of his plea when a man in the audience fell over in a convulsion. The young lawyer stopped, disconcerted.

"Go on, sir; go on," said the chief justice. "You're giving them fits!"

CITY COUNCIL HEARS VARIOUS COMPLAINTS

Wilkie, Speck and Others Air Grievances—Old Power House in Demand.

Henry Wilkie again introduced his private affairs into the council meeting last night. Usually when Wilkie appears, either in person or by letter, he is after relief, but on this occasion he was alter an increase in salary, claiming that his arduous labors as a street sweeper are not sufficiently repaid by the sum of $1.80 a day. The letter that he sent to the council last night is rather an original production for anyone seeking a favor, and from the aldermen's point of view, it is a dismal failure. As a mirth producer, the letter was a success, as the clerk could hardly proceed with his reading owing to the scarcely suppressed merriment of the city fathers. This is Wilkie's communication, as nearly as the laws of propriety will allow it to be printed:

"To His Worship the Mayor and Aldermen in Council:

"I wish to ask you for an increase in my salary because when I see men not doing such work as I am doing getting $5.00 or $10.00 a month more than I am getting, I do not think it is right. There is no man that can measure with me in work, but tidy work is a crime and is not appreciated except by outsiders. I have for many years given satisfaction and if now I have, as they say, to 'suck the boss,' I am too old to learn that.

"Yours respectfully.

"HENRY WILKIE."

The only course open to the council was to return the letter to the writer as it is not usual to receive such communications in polite society, and the aldermen were at a loss how to act.

Old Power House Wanted.

The site of the old power house was again applied for by two different parties, both of whom were informed that the property would be sold to the highest bidder, and that they would be given a chance to secure it at the auction if they were willing to pay the price.

Claims Indemnity.

A long delayed communication from F. Crake, who was injured by a defective sidewalk almost three years ago, was received. He claimed an indemnity of $100, but his case was referred to the board of works.

As usual the drains and defective sewers received their share of attention, and a few other matters of minor importance were disposed of.

There were present Mayor Keary, Aldermen Jardine, Howay, Davies and Garrett.

C. P. R. Plan Approved.

A. D. Cartwright, secretary of the board of railway comissioners at Ottawa, forwarded a petition asking that authority be granted to the C. P. R. under section 15 of the railway act of 1903, to construct a branch line in the City of New Westminster as shown in a plan on file with the board of trade. Approved by the council and clerk instructed to write advising the parties interested.

John B. Kennedy sent a communication from Ottawa respecting the proposed union of Canadian municipalities. The question had not yet appeared before the house but he promises his support when it comes up. Received and filed.

The Schaake Machine Works sent a cheque for $47.50, amount of subscription from the machine shop. Received and clerk instructed to acknowledge same in a suitable manner.

Supply Company Applies.

H. Smith, of the Canadian Mine & Smelter Supply company, wrote respecting the site of the old power building as a site for their manufactory, and inquiring if the site includes the vacant lot alongside. He asked for a low rental as extensive alterations and improvements will have to be made before it is suitable for their business. This firm does a business in mining, ore-milling and smelting machinery, and are to be considered from now on as a permanent fixture of British Columbia and they would if conditions justify it, put not less than $100,000 into their business, in British Columbia. They would prefer good water frontage if the council is in a position to offer same, either at present or in the near future. On the motion of Ald. Jardine, the communication was received and the clerk instructed to write to the applicant informing him that the site would be offered for sale, and that they would be advised of the time and place of sale.

Patterson's Application.

D. C. Patterson wrote proposing that he should lease from the city the old power house with the lot along side on the following terms: $20 per month for a period of five years, with an option of purchase at any time during the five years for the sum of $5,000. As a number of changes would have to be made before the site is suitable for the purpose required, he suggests that the material now in the building, such as boilers, girders, etc., not now in use, and the remainder of old stacks, bricks and piping be included in the transfer. The clerk was instructed to write to the applicant to inform him that the site would be offered for sale, and that he would be informed of the time and place of sale.

R. H. Pratt reported under the instructions of Dr. Tolmie, Dominion government veterinary inspector, that the hog pens at the Provincial Exhibition grounds had been examined and passed inspection, and extended thanks for the courtesy received from the officials that the department's officers had come in contact with. Received and suitably acknowledged.

Must Take Responsibility.

W. A. Bowers, of the Brunette Saw Mills asked permission by letter to blow up some stumps on lots 35 and 38, lots 8 and 9 Suburban block 3, Sapperton. Ald. Davies moved that Mr. Bowers be written to and advised that the council cannot give permission, and that the work must be carried on at his own risk.

Complain of Drains.

A letter from C. Oxenbury was received calling attention to the condition of the drain on Fifth street at the back of his residence and requested that it be attended to. Referred to the board of works with power to act.

Stanley Lever wrote calling attention to the condition of the drainage between Fifth avenue and St. Andrew's church and suggested that it be continued between Fifth and Sixth avenues as all refuse from sink drains lies in pools between Fifth avenue and St. Andrew's. Referred to the board of works with power to act.

William Power asked permission to lay building materials on Columbia street opposite lot 5, block 7, for the purpose of building a new hotel in place of the old building now on Front street and said lot. On the motion of Ald. Davies, permission was granted.

On behalf of the May Day celebration committee, R. J. Burde wrote asking for permission to use the Industrial Hall in Queen's Park on the evening May 18, for the purpose of holding a dance on that date. Following precedent this was referred to the park's board.

Messrs. McInnes and Kerr, agents for the Guardian Fire Assurance company wrote soliciting the favor of a share in the city's fire risks. Referred to the finance committee.

S. V. Peary, sanitary inspector, wrote suggesting that the drain crossing Columbia street at the foot of McNeely be extended to the water's edge to avoid its becoming a nuisance. Referred to the board of works to report.

The water superintendent's report was read and adopted.

On motion of Ald. Jardine, the real estate bylaw was read a second time.

On motion of Ald. Howay, the plumbing regulation bylaw was read for the first time.

More Electrical Sparks.

Permission having been granted by the council Alex Speck addressed the members respecting the continuation of the wiring on Sixth avenue and Tenth street. He had been waiting for some time to be able instal electric lights in a house, and requested that the wiring be extended. The city electrican being called upon, informed the council that he had made inquiries and found that there was only one house in which the electric lights would be installed at the present time, and as it was a distance of two and a half blocks away, and his department was very busy, he did not think it advisable to do this work just at present. Ald. Howay suggested that such communications as this should not be received by the council in this manner, as it was merely a waste of time. He suggested that in all cases letters should be written to the council. His remarks met with the approval of the members present.

Mr. Howes appeared in person before the council to urge that something be done towards demolishing the old houses in the southern part of the city, until recently occupied by Japanese, as these houses were a great menace in case of fire. The mayor informed him that steps were being taken in this matter and that the owner had promised to attend to this immediately.

Music for Public.

At the request of the mayor, Professor Judges spoke respecting a scheme of organizing a band to give concerts during the coming season. It was suggested that the band play on Columbia street on Saturday evenings and that concerts be given in the park once a week. After some discussion it was decided that Prof. Judges should put his suggestion in writing, and that he meet the council on Friday evening to further discuss the matter in committee.

River Inspection Tour.

The mayor extended an invitation to the members of the council to accompany him on a tour of inspection on the snag boat Sampson with the members of the board of trade. The trip was to be taken this morning and the object was to see if any improvements could be made by which the river might be made navigable for larger boats.

Considerable merriment was caused when it was found that not one of the aldermen present would be able to go on the trip of inspection, and it looked as if the mayor would be the sole representative of the council. This concluded the business of the meeting, and the council adjourned shortly before 10 o'clock.

EXPOSES MORMONS.

Miss Edith Hughes Says They Strive for Political Power.

Kansas City, April 30.—Miss Edith Hughes of Burton, Kan., who for twelve years worked as a missionary among the Mormons in Utah, said last night in an address from the pulpit of the Lynwood Presbyterian church, this city:

"The great object for which the Mormon church is striving is political power. A constitutional amendment against polygamy is the only thing feared by the Mormons. They know that they cannot circumvent the national government and that if polygamy is left to state control they can preach it and practice it ultimately with legislative sanction by the election of "safe" men to office.

"When they can control twelve states, the Mormons can defeat a constitutional amendment. Their plan is to get enough Mormon voters to move to the states, which they have marked for control.

"The menace of Mormonism to the country is increased by the fact that the Mormon church is the best organized institution in the world with the exception of the German army."

Roasts Missionaries.

Kansas City, April 30.—A Brahmin missionaries. Ninety per cent. of those the pulpit of All Souls church, Episcopal, in this city by invitation last evening said in the course of a talk:

"We are overstocked with Christian misionaries. Ninety per cent. of those we have are senseless. Furthermore, we don't want your religion and your holy book. We have more religion of our own than we know what to do with, a surplus that we would like to export. So we pray you Americans keep your so-called missionaries at home. If you want to Christianize us send us some men that are qualified to teach, philosophers that know their own scriptures. Until then the Vedas, our four books of philosophy, are good enough for us.

"Show me a country where missionaries have been that is prosperous. It does not exist. There were no famines, no plagues in India before the English invasion. I am here in the interests of India for India, not India for England."

During these remarks some members of the congregation left the assembly and later Rev. Charles Ferguson apologized for Marayan Krishna's statements.

DOWIE CHALLENGES ALL HIS ACCUSERS

One Thin Small Voice Is Raised Against His and Is Quickly Silenced.

Chicago, April 30.—Standing unsteadily and with great effort before an audience of 2,500 people in Zion City Tabernacle last night John Alexander Dowie challenged his traducers, if any were present, to rise to their feet and make their accusations before the whole congregation. The followers of Voliva, the new leader in Zion City's affairs, however, were at the moment attending a revival meeting set for the same hour at the Zion College building a quarter of a mile distant. There 5,000 of the city's inhabitants were gathered together with the famous choir now divested of its ecclesiastical garb and the Zion band and orchestra.

Those who listened to the words of Dowie were for the most part visitors from other towns brought in by hundreds by the electric cars and railroad train. For more than an hour the crowd in the tabernacle waited for the appearance of the venerable apostle. In front of the platform and in the choir loft were probably 150 of the faithful.

Dowie was borne bodily by two stalwart negro attendants from an anteroom up the stairs to the platform and deposited upon his feet before the elaborate prayer altar. He was attired in his apostolic robe of white and gold. Upon his head was the turban of marvelous pattern, embroidered in purple and gold. He delivered his address and sermon seated before the altar. Only occasionally when roused to an unusual pitch of earnestness did he rise to his feet.

Mrs. Dowie in Audience.

Mrs. Dowie sat among Dowie's followers in the congregation. Except for the presence upon the platform of Gorman Mayer and D. H. Harper, Dowie was alone. He announced the hymns and led in prayer in a voice, the firmness and strength of which surprised those who have been in attendance upon him. He prefaced his sermon by a spirited denial of the charges brought against him, in the course of which he exhibited much of his former fire.

"They say I've taken the people's money, do they?" he shouted. Answers of "yes" or "no" came from different parts of the audience. A man a little more persistent than others was singled out by Dowie. Pointing a trembling finger at the man, Dowie continued:

"Let that man stand up and give his name. Let him tell what money I took and when."

With all eyes cast upon him the man shrank in his seat. A guard was ordered to compel him to stand, but he stood in shamefaced silence. Then Dowie rose to his feet and demanded that any of those present who had anything to charge aginst him do so then and there.

Displays Great Emotion.

Displaying great emotion Dowie described the sorrow he felt upon receiving the news while in Mexico of the revolt among his people. He declared that he could not sleep until he learned the worst and that his cup of grief was full when he found his wife and son had deserted him. Then he paid a tribute to Mrs. Dowie.

"My wife has some noble qualities," he said. "She was misled and imposed upon. They used her and when they were through with her they cast her aside. My son played tricks upon me which he ought not have done, but he, too, was deceived."

Dowie made his first appearance in the tabernacle at 6:30 o'clock in the morning, when he conducted a prayer and praise service, attended by 100 persons. Voliva also held a meeting at that hour which was largely attended.

Churchill's Strength.

London, April 30.—Winston Churchill (he now prefers to be called plain Mr. Churchill without the prefix) has filled a larger space in the public eye in the new House of Commons than any other member of the government, and is already designated as the future Liberal prime minister.

As under-secretary for the colonies he was the chief target of the opposition on the burning questions of Chinese labor and Lord Milner's illegalities. Having no rooted objection, temperamentally, to be thrust forward in this way, he has enjoyed himself and delighted the ministerialists by daring, damaging attacks on Chamberlain and Balfour.

Unlike other born debaters, Mr. Churchill is a hard worker and has inspired the permanent officials at the colonial office with a wholesome respect for his knowledge and keenness. He believes in himself and his future.

SHOWER OF BULLETS QUELLS MINERS' RIOT

Troopers Fire on Foreigners Who Attack Them With Stones at Mt. Carmel.

Mount Carmel, Pa., April 30.—Two serious clashes between Lieut. Smith's command of constabulary and foreign miners occurred here today. The troopers fired on their assailants, fatally injuring one man and wounding several others.

The troopers had been guarding the Sayre colliery in the suburbs. The first trouble came when the waitresses of three local hotels refused to serve them with food. They returned to the streets only to be attacked by a mob of foreign miners. These were held back with "black jacks" and persuaded by one of their number, also the chief burgess of the town, to return to their homes.

For a moment a crisis was averted, as the miners were preparing a second attack and the soldiers were drawn up in line prepared to shoot. The troops started to return to the colliery, but in front of the residence of Dr. Keefer, on Hickory street, they were again attacked, their assailants throwing stones.

Lieut. Smith ordered the mob to disperse, but this merely resulted in the throwing of more missiles. Thereupon the troops were ordered to fire. As the carbines began to crack, the miners fell back in disorder, leaving a man named Wilson fatally wounded and several others hurt in the street. Dr. Keefer's house was riddled with bullets.

The constabulary then retired to the Sayre colliery, where Lieut. Smith reported the trouble to Pottsville. He was ordered to hold his ground, but later he was told to bring his command back to Pottsville. He was placed under $500 bail, charged with assault with intent to kill. Three of the miners also were held.

The home of Solomon Goldsmith also was riddled with bullets and Mrs. Goldsmith was wounded.

A large force of costabulary is expected to return soon.

Work for Seniors.

Aspirants for places on the senior lacrosse twelve of New Westminster are called upon to turn out for practice at Queen's Park tomorrow evening. This will be the first senior practice of the season and it behooves every ambitious stick handler to grace the green with his presence on this occasion.

Intermediates Commence.

The stick handlers of the East End intermediate lacrosse club were out in force at Queen's Park last evening, and the ground being in good shape a splendid practice resulted. The youngsters went at the game with just as much vigor and vim as if they had been used to it all winter, and it is quite evident that but very little practice is necessary to put them in first class shape for their first match.

Indians at Work.

An Indian team which has been organized in Brownsville is putting in some hard practice, and expects to figure prominently in intermediate matches this season.

Practice in Vancouver.

Eleven men were out in uniform at the practice held by the Vancouver club last night on the Cambie Street grounds and the boys had a good workout, says the News-Advertiser of this morning.

Gibbins was in the flags again and showed up well. Bob Cameron turned out for the first time this season and looks to be stronger now than at any previous time. Godfrey and Spedding put in a good half-hour's work, both of these players being in particularly good form. Capt. Matheson was out as usual, while Clarkson, Garvey, Watson, Knight, Murray and Campbell were also on hand. The boys will hold another practice tomorrow evening.

"Scotty" Williams, who figured so prominently on the defence field of the Seattle club drifted into town on Sunday from Seattle and was immediately signed by the Maple Leafs. He is a good man and a player who plays a cool game and can always be relied upon to break up the combination of any home. The new club is working hard and the players are rapidly rounding into shape. Among the men who are candidates for a place on the new team are E. Ravey, R. Ravey, Fisher, G. Morrison, Brown, Freeman, Barnes, Ritchie, Janes, F. Murray, W. Murray, E. Murray, McCuaig, Van Horne, Williams and a number of last season's intermediate team.

At a meeting of the executive committee of the West End intermediate lacrosse club held last night it was decided to get down to work at once and the first practice has been called for tomorrow evening at the Cambie Street grounds.

Haywood Sells Out.

An important real estate deal was consumated in Vancouver yesterday morning as a result of which W. D. Haywood sold out his half interest in the Commercial hotel, to Thomas Stewart, a well-known resident of Vancouver. The amount involved in the transfer was $15,500. Mr. Haywood will engage in the real estate business.

Seven years ago Mr. Haywood, who is a pioneer resident of Vancouver, and A. Prescott, took over the control of the Commercial hotel. Some months ago, Mr. Prescott sold his interest to Mr. Haywood and the latter gentleman later formed a partnership with Messrs. Atkins and Johnston. These gentlemen still retain a half interest and Mr. Stewart will be identified with them in the management of the hotel. The transfer was made yesterday and Mr. Stewart took possession last night.

May Kill Tourist Trade.

Toronto, April 30.—Toronto hotelkeepers have increased the price of liquor. Beer is now ten cents per glass sold over the bar, and everything else goes up 50 per cent.

POLICEMEN INTRUDE ON GAMBLING PARTY

Ah Sing, the Dealer, Puts Up Thirty Dollars Bail and Lets It Go.

The love of gambling proved Ah Sing's undoing last night. In company with many other Celestials Ah spent a merry evening at a house party in the store kept by one Ah Lee in Chinatown. Just as the exciting game of fan tan was at its height the police appeared on the scene, and as Ah Sing was at that moment industriously pushing the pile of chips around, having been appointed dealer by common consent, he was notified that his presence would be desired at the police court this morning. Lest the Chinaman should forget the engagement the sum of $30 bail was requested from Ah. But $30 is apparently a mere flea bite to one so industrious in the pursuit of the fickle goddess of chance, and Ah Lee's name was called in vain this morning. As a result there now appears opposite his name in the books at the police station the words, "Bail estreated."

Police Court Figures.

A total of thirty-nine cases was dealt with in the police court during the month of April, of which over one-third were for drunkenness.

The list includes the following:

Last Lecture Tonight.

Prof Alexander delighted a large audience at St. Patrick's Hall last night and surprised all by his clever blindfold examinations at the close, proving that he is certainly a master in his profession. He gives his closing lecture tonight and the subject "Good and Bad Heads, illustrated by portraits of some of the best and worst characters," should fill the house. There is no admission fee. At the close he will give a talk to men only.

Adams—Wood.

The marriage of Innis Sim Adams and Miss Helen Wood, of McDuff, Scotland, was solemnized last evening at the residence of Ald. George Adams, Twelfth street, by the Rev. J. S. Henderson. The groom was attended by his brother Laverne Adams, and the bridesmaid was Miss Carrie Schaake. After the ceremony, a wedding supper was served, to which about fifty guests sat down. The happy couple left for Vancouver last night. They will reside on Twelfth street on their return here. Mr. Adams is an employee of the B. C. Electric Railway car shops and carries with him the best wishes of his many co-workers and friends in his new venture.

King Edward Falls.

Naples, May 1.—The fact that King Edward had a slight fall on the stairs of the royal yacht Victoria and Albert yesterday before leaving for Mount Vesuvius caused the circulation of exaggerated rumors about the accident. The King however, was not injured and laughed at his mishap.

STEAM LAUNCH SINKS.

Frank Trapp's Craft Rests on Bottom of the River.

Frank Trapp's steam launch, the Bobs which has been lying near the C. P. N. wharf ever since its trip a few days ago from the Brunette creek, sank last night, owing to a leaky hull, in about four feet of water, and is lying near the river bank partly submerged, with a large fishing boat resting across its stern. All the machinery had been removed some time ago and in a few days the hull was to be beached and overhauled.

Fair and Warm.

Victoria, May 1.—The pressure is high on the coast from California to Cassiar and east of the Rockies from Saskatchewan to the Great Lakes. Between these two areas the pressure is comparatively low from Alberta southward to the Middle west states. Rain has fallen at Barkerville and Port Simpson but elsewhere fair weather is general.

A Lawyer's Trick.

When Baron Bramwell was once sitting on the crown side on the south Wales circuit counsel for the defense in a certain case asked leave to address the jury in Welsh. The case being a simple one, permission was given without demur. He said but very few words. The baron also did not think much comment was necessary, but was somewhat startled by a prompt verdict of acquittal.

"What was it," he afterward inquired, "that Mr. L. said to the jury?"

"Oh, he just said: 'This case, gentlemen, lies in a nutshell. You see yourselves exactly how it stands. The judge is an Englishman, the prosecuting counsel is an Englishman, the complainant is an Englishman, but you are Welsh, and I am Welsh, and the prisoner is Welsh. Need I say more? I leave it all to you.'"

It is scarcely necessary to mention, says the writer of "Some Legal Reminiscences," that Baron Bramwell did not allow the experiment to be repeated of addressing the jury in a language which he did not understand.

Laughed First.

"What is the matter, darling?" asked the concerned mother when her small son came to her in tears.

"Well, you see, mummy, daddy was hanging a picture, and he dropped it, and it fell on his toe."

"But that is nothing to cry about," cried the mother cheerily. "You should have laughed at that, sonny."

"I did, mummy," responded her small son regretfully.—London Globe.

Starting Tight Screws.

To start a tight screw press the screwdriver firmly in place with one hand, but do not turn it. Then take hold of it sideways with flat jawed pliers as close to the head of the screw as possible and turn it with them. A hand vise is better than pliers. Leave just enough of the tip of the screwdriver outside the vise to fill the slot of the screw, but no more. This reduces the danger of breaking or bending a badly tempered screwdriver to a minimum.—Scientific American.

Symbols of Trade.

In Scotland it was for a long time usual to place on a man's tombstone the symbols of his trade. Especially was this the case at Dunblane, where, in the burial ground of the abby, it has been found that of those tombstones which are from 100 to 200 years old about one-fourth are thus marked, the symbols being in low relief.

Quite Feeble.

"I suppose you're going to Dr. Mason's funeral, grandpa?"

"Oh," snarled the infirm old man, "don't talk to me about other people's funerals. It's as much as I shall be able to do to get to my own."—Exchange.

A Close Father.

She—You must ask father for his consent. He—He won't give it to me. She—Why not? He—He's too close. He never gave anything to anybody in his life.

Wisdom is knowing what to do next; skill is knowing how to do it, and virtue is doing it.—Jordan.

MEMBERS DISCUSS REFORM OF SENATE

Sir Wilfrid Laurier Says Question Will Be Taken Up With Provinces.

Ottawa, April 30.—Reform of the senate was discussed in parliament today. Mr. McIntyre, Liberal member for South Perth, moved a resolution that the senate would be brought into greater accord with the spirit of representative government by amendments which in future appointments will abolish the life-tenure of senators and limit it to a legal term of three parliaments, say 15 years, and provide a fixed age, not exceeding 80 years, for compulsory retirement.

Mr. Schnell, of Oxford, another Liberal, seconded the resolution.

Sir Wilfrid Laurier said that during the 39 years that had elapsed since confederation, there had been at different times talk of reform of the senate, but no serious attempt had been made to revise the work of that body. That spoke well for the fathers of the union. The upper chamber was elective from 1856 to 1867, and it worked well. At confederation Mr. Brown favored an appointed senate, and Sir John A. Macdonald was not averse to an elective senate. Both sides then agreed on an appointed senate. The present government endeavored to grapple with senate reform. There was always a line of cleavage. This was as to whether it should be abolished or reformed. Ontario would stand for abolishing it. He did not have much faith in the theory that the upper chamber was a check on hasty legislation in the lower house. The Ontario, New Brunswick, Manitoba and British Columbia legislatures did not show this. What Sir Wilfrid regarded as an important function of the second chamber was its capacity to protect the smaller provinces and prevent invasion of their rights by the larger provinces. Representation in the senate was fixed and not based on population. This was the system in the United States, where New York had 36 representatives and two senators. Rhode Island had two senators and two representatives. He would not be averse to having each province, without regard to population, represented by the same number of senators. Sir Wilfrid said that the matter would be talked over at the coming conference with the provinces. He had inclined to favor election of senators by provincial legislators. By the one-man-one-vote system there would not be an undue preponderance of one party over another. He asked for opinions from all sides of the house.

Mr. Borden said that Sir Wilfrid Laurier promised to reform the senate when in opposition. The general opinion was that, when he came to power and after having a majority in the senate, he would appoint alternately Conservatives and Liberals. The premier had reform of the senate in his own hands.

This ended the debate. The motion was withdrawn.

G. T. Returns Lands.

Toronto, April 30.—Premier Whitney made the following statement today:

"Under provisions of the act granting a cash bonus of $2,000 per mile and 1,200,000 acres of land to the Grand Trunk Pacific Railway company for the Fort William branch, the company agreed, among other things, to place 400 settlers per year for ten years on the lands granted. After consideration an agreement has been arrived at, by which the company gives back to the government 525,000 acres of land, and is released from the condition as to settlers. The advantages to the province of this arrangement are obvious."
