GREAT PREPARATIONS DRAWING TO A CLOSE

Queen's Park Scene of Unusual Activity for Past Week---Entry List Closed.

Preparations for the Provincial exhibition which opens one week from tomorrow, are nearing completion. For the last ten days several gangs of men have been continuously employed about the grounds clearing up rubbish, repairing cattle pens, cutting grass and generally improving the appearance of things. Activity around the manager's office in the Industrial building is on the increase, and several clerks are kept busy answering queries, registering entries and giving directions to exhibitors. According to the regulations governing the registering of entries, the list closed on Saturday last, and no more entries could be received, but it generally happens that entries straggle along for several days after the list is supposed to close, and exceptions are sometimes made.

No entries will be received by the management of the Kennel club exhibit after the 24th inst. This department is being attended to by G. Grant of the New Westminster club.

Beautifying the Surroundings.

The improvements to the buildings and the grounds are of an extensive character, some of the stalls being entirely new. A gang of carpenters have been steadily engaged in this work for several days.

The plans for the celebration and the entertainment of visitors have been going merrily on, and the program should be completed within the next couple of days.

Longboat Is a Quitter.

It is understood that Longboat, the well-known Indian runner of Hamilton, has backed out of his partially completed arrangement with the R. A. society, leaving Chandler of Vancouver, and Burns of Calgary to compete. Another attraction has, however, been secured which will probably give any running event, even with the swift Indian at the scratch.

White vs. Oriental.

This is the wrestling match for the championship of the world between Arpold McLaglen and Prof. Kanada. The contract for the match will be formally made out and signed today.

All Space Taken Up.

Meetings of the R. A. & I. society will be held every few days until the opening of the exhibition, to enable the members of the board of directors to keep in touch with the work that is going forward. All space in the buildings has been taken, and the concessions for outside space that the management intend letting have been contracted for.

GASOLINE MOTORS AND STEEL CARS PROPOSED

Los Angeles, Sept. 22.—Motive power officials of the Harriman railway lines in session in this city, have recommended the installation and use of gasoline steel passenger coaches on the Pacific coast.

According to reports made on the subject, based upon experiments on eastern lines, steel cars reduce the cost of maintenance about one-half. Their safety in wrecks and fires are their most potent recommendation.

Several steel baggage and mail cars have made at Sacramento last year and are now in use on the coast. Steel dining cars were also recommended. The officials are discussing today the adoption of gasoline motor cars on branch lines along the Pacific coast. It is planned to put the cars in use as soon as posible.

Fowler Is Really Mad.

Bellingham, Wash., Sept. 22.—A. E. Fowler, secretary and campaign manager of the Asiatic Exclusion league, became violently insane yesterday afternoon and was placed under arrest and lodged in the county jail. He wanted to charter a yacht and go out to meet a Japanese fleet, which he declared was on its way to attack America. He will be held for a day or two and then committed to the asylum at Stellacoom, where it is likely he will spend the remainder of his days. Last night all the cases against the rioters were dismissed in the superior court. The police found it impossible to secure identification of members of the mob.

MEDICINAL TREES ON VANCOUVER ISLAND

Bark Shipped South For Use In Manufacture of Proprietory Medicines.

Hidden away in the immense belts of timber on Vancouver island are to be found small irregular patches of a tree known as the California blackthorn, a species of the sagrada tree, the bark of which has medicinal value. Cascarets, a widely advertised proprietory medicine, is largely manufactured from the pulverised bark of these trees.

Some few months ago a company of San Francisco capitalists became interested in the marketing of the bark of these trees, and organized a company for the purpose of securing all the available supply on the island. Timber cruisers were sent out in all directions, with instructions to report to the Victoria office at regular intervals respecting the success they were meeting in their expeditions. After a few weeks, the promoters were satisfied that there were sufficient of these California blackthorns to make it worth while to establish camps throughout the districts where the timber cruisers had inspected, and two hundred white men were engaged to start work immediately.

After being out in the woods for something like seven weeks, the men decided that the work was not to their taste, and quit. They were immediately replaced with Japanese, and today there is said to be over five hundred Nipponese at work stripping the trees of the bark, rolling it into bales and shipping it to Victoria, whence it is re-shipped to San Francisco, and thence to the manufactory of the medicine company.

One peculiar feature of the work is the secrecy with which it has been carried on. Apparently the only men who are aware of the work which is being done are the officers of the company, the men in their employ, and a few timber cruisers and prospectors who have fallen in with the bark-strippers during their wanderings on the island. It is from a timber cruiser recently returned from the island that the information embodied in this article has been secured. Questioned as to the reason for this apparently unnecessary secrecy, the timber man remarked that he could not account for it, unless the fact that it is the practice of the men employed by the company to first fell and strip the trees, and then secure the timber license fro mthe government, might have something to do with it. The company does not deal in the usual class of timber, and once the medicinal trees have been stripped from a timber limit, it is either sold or abandoned to later and more orthodox dealers in logs.

Ishii's Ideas.

Toronto, Ont., Sept. 22.—Mr. Ishii, representative of the Japanese foreign office, who came to Canada for the purpose of enquiring into economic conditions on behalf of his government, blames Canadian labor unions for the feeling against Japanese labor. When asked if he did not think that one cause of the trouble in the west was because his countrymen work for less money than the white man, Mr. Ishii replied in the negative and said he knew that in many cases laborers from Japan got as much as others. While he could not speak for the future, Mr. Ishii said he thought more Japanese would come to Canada.

Hill Is Rattled.

Winnipeg, Man., Sept. 22.—It is a current report in railway circles here that James J. Hill is not well pleased over the action of some Winnipegers in criticizing the entry of the Great Northern into Winnipeg, and in consequence he is holding up construction work for a time. He is said to have anticipated an enthusiastic welcome for his road, and instead he read reports of the meeting of ratepayers to protest against the damage to property, etc. It is also stated that Mr. Hill is averse to spending money on crossings which he has been led to believe might be demanded, judging by the utterances of the local press.

The regular meeting of the Women's auxiliary of the Royal Columbian hospital will be held this afternoon.

BORDEN MUST FACE CHARGE OF CONDUCTING CORRUPT CAMPAIGN

Bombastic Talk of Political Purity on Part of Opposition Leader Merely Screen Behind Which He Seeks to Hide His Own Twisted Conduct----He Stands Charged With Corrupt Methods.

The Mail and Empire, Toronto, is eloquent in condemning electoral venality and hurls thunderbolts of abuse at the Liberal party for accepting campaign contributions from contractors. The Mail and Empire may be regarded as the leading Conservative newspaper in Canada. Referring to this subject, it says:

"It was proven that in order to secure the return of a minister of the Crown, the contractors were lined up and forced to contribute money, which was used to buy voters b ywholesale."

Tories Corruption Fund.

Mr. Borden harangues the electors of Canada upon the same lines. He bases his arguments on precisely the same premises, and demands that the Conservatives be placed in power to the end that there may be purity in elections, honesty in dealing with public funds, and economy in the management of national affairs.

What is the Conservative record in this connection? Geo. E. Cartier, writing to Sir Hugh Allan said:

"Dear Sir Hugh,—The friends of the government will expect to be assisted with funds in the pending elections; and any amount which you or your company shall advance for that purpose shall be recouped to you. A memorandum of immediate requirements is below. Yours very truly,

("Sgd.) GEO. E. CARTIER."

Now Wanted.

Sir John A. Macdonald	$25,000
Hon. Mr. Langevin	15,000
Sir George E. Cartier	20,000
Sir John A. (add'l)	10,000
Hon. Mr. Langevin (add'l)	10,000
Sir J. E. C.	30,000

This is historical and exposes the blatant criminal effrontery of the Conservative party, who did not hesitate to solicit funds for corrupt purposes from a prospective contractor of the government. Sir John A. Macdonald did not hesitate to ask for another $10,000, saying it would be the last time of calling, and the money was to be used for debauching the electorate, and afterwards the public treasury was to be looted that hte contractor might be repaid. This was an express condition of the contract—all money was to be recouped and there was only one source from which such sums could be recouped, and that the treasury of Canada.

Tories Corrupt Elections.

The Mail alludes in the same article to the West Hastings election, charging that the ballot boxes were fraululent. Let us consider a parallel case. In the East Hastings election Aylesworth, Liberal, defeated White, Conservative, by ten majority. On a recount the trial judge allowed ballots marked with numbers on the backs in one poll where White had a majority and rejected similar ballots in another poll where Aylesworth had a majority, giving the seat to White by 22. By this juggling with the ballots, the seat was lost to the Liberals. The method was deadly, and the will of the people was thwarted.

Take the Haldimand case. By one of the most disgraceful incidents of corruption and fraud ever known in Canadian political life, what was considered a safe Liberal seat was reduced to a majority of 13, which was converted into a Conservative majority of one on a recount. The trial developed that the seat belonged to the Liberal, he being lawfully elected, but the Conservative wrongfully held it through corrupt means.

In the West Northumberland case, Hargraft, Liberal, was declared duly elected by 36 majority. After this some person tampered with the ballots, and after taking genuine ones substituted bogus ones, sufficient to lose the Liberal his seat. The trial judge refused to give effect to the fraud, thus nullifying the conspiracy.

Mr. Borden's Hypocrisy.

Mr. Borden is going through the country telling the people that the Liberals hold power by fraud. He does not, however, tell the people what happened in his own case at Halifax last election. It is alleged that such corrupt methods were employed to secure Mr. Borden's election that should the matter ever come to trial the evidence would be sufficient not only to unseat, but to disqualify the leader of the Opposition. Mr. Borden was defeated at the polls, but this fact would have no bearing upon the question of qualification.

Mr. Borden's Inconsistency.

Mr. Borden cannot advance any claim to consideration on the presumption that under his administration politics will be cleansed. He is charged with corrupt methods in attempting to secure his own election in Halifax, and the trial has been postponed with his consent. He accepts the services of Geo. E. Foster as an advocate of the cause of purity, while knowing that Mr. Foster has been condemned by a Royal Commission for juggling with trust funds—and Mr. Foster is a prospective member of any cabinet which Mr. Borden would form. He accepts the services of Messrs. Fowler and Lefurgey, who, upon a former occasion, accompanied him in a political tour and who improved the opportunity by speculating in land with the active assistance of certain exalted railway officials whose dealings with members of parliament were of an extensive character.

Borden Contradicts Graham.

The letter which Mr. Graham of the Montreal Star says Mr. Borden wrote him has but one meaning. It was a clear indication to the man who was finding the money that he should so dispose of it that it could not be followed. Why all this secrecy unless the fundswere for dishonest purposes? Everybody knows there are legitimate party and proper campaign expenses. Then, why conceal the destination of the funds? Why fear publicity? Mr. Borden is a politician, also an eminent lawyer, and he knew what process would be safe, and he gave the benefit of his advice. It is interesting in this connection to note that the owner of the great Conservative paper, the Montreal Star, says one thing, and the leader of the Conservative party gives to his statement a categorical denial. It reminds one of the old adage, "When thieves fall out honest men come by their own."

Electors Are Not Foolish.

To hand over the government of Canada to the Conservatives would be tantamount to entrusting a flock of sheep to a pack of wolves. While the Conservatives were in power they were not only guilty of every form of political rascality, but they spent millions more each year than Canada had coming in, with the result that a huge public debt was imposed on the people under the burden of which the country has labored to this moment.

ARMED PEASANTS ATTACK HOME OF COUNT TOLSTOI

St. Petersburg, Sept. 22.—Despatches from Moscow today tell of two attacks on the home of Count Tolstoi at Yasnaya Polian, supposedly by peasants, on the nights of September 17 and 18. The men were armed with guns and approached close enough to fire at the residence and break several windows. They were repulsed by the Tolstoi gardeners and household servants before they could do further damage.

No explanation of the attack is advanced. Tolstoi has been a consistent friend and advocate of the peasantry and has even risked expulsion from the empire by his efforts to bring about reforms.

It has been intimated that reactionary influences are behind the attack. Several arrests have been made by the police.

FIREMEN'S CONVENTION COMES HERE NEXT YEAR

Chief Watson Elected First President of Newly Formed Association--Papers Read.

New Westminster has been selected as the meeting place of the annual convention of the B. C. Association of Fire Chiefs and Firemen for 1908. This was done after a pressing invitation had been tendered the fire chiefs and firemen, assembled at Nelson for the first annual convention last week, by Chief J. H. Watson, of this city, who has the honor of being the first president of the new association. Next year's convention will most likely take place during the beginning of October, or on whatever dates may be selected for the annual provincial exhibition.

The meeting of the association was very harmonious throughout and the delegates settled down to work from the opening to the close of the convention. Several interesting and instructive papers were read and discussed and a great deal of business transacted. The following officers were chosen for the term: President, Chief J. H. Watson, of New Westminster; vice-president, Chief A. E. Savage, of Grand Forks; treasurer, Chief J. P. Fink, Cranbrook; secretary, Chief Thomas Deasy, Nelson. Executive committee, Chiefs Knight of Chilliwack, Foote of Revelstoke, and McKay of Kamloops. Transportation committee, Chiefs Joseph Martin, J. W. Nunn and D. P. Kane. Finance committee, Chiefs D. McDougall, A. Jeffs and E. Latham. Votes of thanks were tendered Mayor Gillett and the city council, the daily newspapers and the 200,000 club of Nelson on the last day of the convention. The C. P. R. and other lines were also voted thanks and Chief Deasy of Nelson was booked for a vote of congratulation on the success attending the work performed in bringing the chiefs of the province together. Thursday afternoon the visitors enjoyed a ride on a special car to the electrical power houses at Bonnington Falls.

SMITH'S TALL EXPLAINING IS NOT CONVINCING

George A. Smith, western representative of the Canadian Amateur Athletic union, who has striven so nobly to break up the lacrosse tournament which has been arranged for exhibition week, has a two-column letter in the Sunday News-Advertiser explaining his position with reference to the question of allowing professionals to play amateurs. The substance of his epistle is that he objects to amateur teams playing an announced professional team such as the Tecumseh team is known to be, for the reason that it would be a violation of the C. A. A. U. rules, which safeguard pure amateurism.

In one portion of his letter Mr. Smith states: "Coming to the question locally, it is an undisputed fact that many of the boys in the lacrosse teams receive money"; and in another place: "It is not too late to tell the Tecumsehs to stay at home. The money that the exhibition has to spare can well be put up for a British Columbia tournament."

It appears to the ordinary individual that if it is a sin, looking through the C.A.A.U. glass, for the Tecumsehs to come to British Columbia and get money for playing, it should also be improper for the coast teams to get together and play for money, yet Mr. Smith by his letter condemns the former and condones the latter. His letter is so lengthy that he probably became muddled and forgot his text. Up to the present, no action has been taken by either of the three British Columbia teams to conform to Mr. Smith's wishes, and it is probable that no notice will be taken.

Coming Where Wanted.

Winnipeg, Man., Sept. 22.—The last of the harvesters for the West reached here yesterday. There were 300 men. The majority of them went through to Moosejaw, and it is said that a large proportion of those going to that point will go to the mines of British Columbia. Many of them on the train were from the mining regions in the East and were anxious to get to the mining country of the West.

SPECIAL SERVICES AT ST. ANDREW'S

Large Congregation Hear Pastor Preach First Sermon of Fifth Year's Ministry.

Special services were held last evening in St. Andrew's church to mark the fourth anniversary of the pastorate of the Rev. J. S. Henderson. The edifice was well filled, and the congregation listened with interest to a discourse on the subject, "A great church and its great work."

Mr. Henderson referred to the work that had been carried on in connection with St. Andrew's church during the last four years and stated that while they had not entirely met with plain sailing, yet good progress had been made, and he hoped that still greater achievements would crown their efforts in the years that are to come. The speaker made a vigorous appeal for more regular attendance on the part of the congregation.

"There is no enthusiasm in empty pews," declared the minister, "and if you want good sermons you will have to inspire the preacher by filling the pews."

The subject of the sermon had reference to the church at Antioch which was established by St. Paul soon after the dawn of the Christian era. The enthusiasm and missionary zeal shown by the founders of the church and those later associated with it, was used by the speaker to point a lesson to modern congregations.

A special collection was taken up which will be used in carrying out repairs to the interior of the church, tinting the walls, varnishing the woodwork, etc. The sum of $150 was asked for, but the congregation showed its generosity by placing $194.50 on the plates.

The contract for an addition to the New Westminster asylum was let Saturday to Mr. Hoy of Vancouver. A new roof and a portion of a second storey will be added at a cost of $12,000.

JAPS FIND IT GALLING TO BE CLASSED INFERIOR

"It is useless to talk of excluding the Japanese from the United States, limiting the number that are allowed to come here, or in any way interfering with their free right to cross the Pacific and domicile themselves in America. They will come here; it is their right to and no one on earth has any right to keep them out, least of all the Americans. The Japanese are a peaceful, law-abiding people and are not seeking conflicts with any nation, but they will not avoid one if their rights are deliberately taken from them."

The foregoing is the opinion of J. Hashiguchi, a Japanese, who is here studying the situation from the standpoint of his own country. He believes that Christianity has done much for the citizens of all countries that profess that religion.

"But," he said, "its votaries have evidently not yet learned to do justice to all mankind. The Japanese have proved themselves on the battle field, in the laboratory and behind the counter the equal of any nation on earth and it is rather galling to be informed that we are still unfit to mingle with the Anglo-Saxon and that we are competing unfairly with American labor. In all branches of learning we have shown advances during the past few years that the Western world has been forced to admire, if at a distance, and yet the Western world says we are unfit to associate with its children in the schoolroom. If we were stolid and stunned, human brothers to the ox, we would not mind this, but we are conscious of our strength, conscious of the fact that we possess, and rightly, the respect of the civilized world, therefore can you wonder that we resent the insult to our pride involved in the intimation that our children are unfit to associate with any others.

"I hope it may never be necessary to prove our right to equitable treatment with the sword, but if the issue is forced every son of Japan is ready to respond to the call of arms. Natural law has decreed that there shall be the utmost freedom of travel between the two countries and noodlums cannot prevent it."

SILVER 925/1000 FINE

Unless silver is 925-thousandths fine it is not streling. The Dutch silver and a grade of French silver, termed Depose, are only 800 fine, and therefore not sterling silver.

As manufacturers we use only 925 fine silver. Our silverware is largely exclusive in design and always heavy in weight. We make twelve complete patterns of spoons and table forks and every article seen in silver, large or small.

Their Works Condemn Them.

Under Conservative government there was flagrant electoral corruption, imbecility in the management of the national finances, and criminal extravagance in the public expenditure.

Grafting, so loundly denounced by Mr. Borden and Mr. Foster, was a science under Conservative auspices. Charges are made against the Liberals that they showed favoritism in the granting of timber limits. Under the Liberal government limits were put up by auction and went to the highest bidder. Under the Conservatives in the case of Rykert, who afterwards became the standard-bearer of the Lincoln Tories, the agent who examined the timber was bribed with $10,000 to give a false report. The government sold the limits to Rykert for $2,500, and Rykert sold them for $200,000. Rykert described this transaction as a fund for his old age, and announced his intention of going in for some thing better.

Messrs. Borden and Foster tell the people that government contracts are not given by tender. The answer given in the House proved that work was often done at much lower rates than the lowest tenderer was willing to take it at. The Conservative method was to give the work to the highest tenderer, and make it a condition that large sums should be donated to the campaign fund. In the Cross Wall contract the Conservative government gave the work to the firm bidding $70,000 higher than another contractor who was willing to do the work, and secured a campaign contribution of $25,000. In the Esquimalt dock case the contractors made $240,979, and gave back $27,000 to the Conservative campaign fund. The Curran bridge scandal cost the people of Canada $270,000. The McGreevy Langevin affair cost the ratepayers of Canada a flat $700,000.

Humiliating Spectacle.

This is the record of the Conservatives, and to this party—a party which was literally swept from power for corruption, extravagance, and grafting—Mr. Borden asks the people to entrust with the administration, and asks it upon the ground that the country demands purity in elections and an honest government.

If it were not serious it would be farcical. The spectacle is presented of a man who leads a party, which party was kicked ont of office for crimes which forever disgraced Canadian history, asking to be restored to power that purity may reign. Of a man denouncing corrupt elections, whose own acts with respect to an election are described as sufficient to expel him from the House of Commons and disqualify him for years to come—of a man questioning the integrity of the personnel of the Liberal government, whose chief lieutenant and prospective cabinet colleague has been denounced by a Royal Commission of parliament, and flagellated by the press of the country.

Tories Defeat Themselves.

The Conservative party achieved its own destruction, it was forced into oblivion by its own acts. It suffers today the punishment for its own misdeeds. It was overtaken by stern and inexorable retribution, and no sophistry, no counter-charges, no attempts to discredit the Liberal administration can or will vary the facts. The Conservative party has been and is corrupt. The leaders of the party are under grave accusation of corruption, and some have been found guilty of even worse. The party cannot be trusted, and will not be. The people of Canada did wisely in throwing from power the political giantsof days gone by, and they will not be willing to hand affairs over to the political pigmies of today.

Prosperity on Every Hand.

often wonder why the boy or girl is so backward at school—and naturally feel disappointed that the child is so dull; then, too, the loved one is subject to harsher treatment at school because he or she seems so stupid. It may be the fault of the child, or it may be the child has defective eyesight and is therefore at a disadvantage because the sight is not normal. What we want to say to the mother is: Send your child to us. We will have our optician examine and test the eyes to see if the poor sight can not be improved by the use of glasses. We will be honest with you and the child. If glasses are not needed, we will tell you so. The examination and testing will not cost you a cent. We have the appliances for testing and correcting all kinds of poor sight, and can supply glasses at your own price. BORDEN MUST FACE CHARGE OF CONDUCTING CORRUPT CAMPAIGN and inviting the people to place the government in its hands, one is inclined to reflect upon the general condition of the public welfare and inquire whether affairs are distressing or the reverse.

There does not appear to be any reason for a change of government, apart entirely from the undesirable alternative of turning affairs over to a party which was dismissed for dishonesty and incapacity. The revenues of the country are steadily on the increase, exports are growing larger, the bulk of business transacted is greater than ever — then why should there be a change of government?

Promises With Strings Attached.

This question has not been answered by the leader of the Opposition. He promises everything in the category of political economy with a string on it. Every important change of policy advocated is made relative in consequence of a saving clause. There is nothing definite laid down, nothing tagible by way of policy, nothing substantial, nothing to be desired that the people do not now enjoy to the full.

Liberal Achievements.

The Liberal government has improved the regulations touching the administration of the public domain. The survey laws have been codified and simplified, land laws are administered in the interests of the occupant of the land without regard to the speculator who prospered under Conservative rule. Encouragement is given to those who manufacture the raw material, and the farmers' interests and welfare are consulted by the Agricultural Department in a manner never before equalled.

Great schemes of national development, such as the Georgian bay canal and the "All-Red line," will be urged by the Liberal government, which is now doing so much towards assisting the people of the Dominion in the building of the National Transcontinental railway. Public works throughout the country, on contracts given to the lowest bidder, are rapidly approaching completion, and more significant than all, there is absolutely no demand for a change of government. The Conservatives are not even willing to contest some of the vacant seats, they are more than willing to let well enough alone.

The government cannot be handed over to a party of dishonesty, neither can the leader of that party, who is at this moment under the imputation of being guilty of corrupt practices in his own election, expect to influence the public conscience by decrying corruption in the Liberal ranks.

MR. BOWSER AND HIS BILL.

Writing the other day about the position of the McBride government as to the abortive "Natal Act" of last session, we anticipated that there would be a good deal of shuffling and dodging in the effort to extract the government from the deplorable position into which it had betrayed itself; but we certainly did not expect that a leading organ of the government would make a Minister of the Crown responsible for such an extraordinary defence as that which the Colonist attributes to Mr. Bowser. We say "the Colonist attributes" since it professes to quote Mr. Bowser's words, although it does not say when, where or in what circumstances Mr. Bowser uttered or wrote them, except indeed that they are a protest from him against a statement made by Hon. Mr. Templeman.

Accompanying the Colonist's article is a facsimile of Mr. Bowser's original draft of that clause of his bill in which (as it passed through the legislature) the word "lawful" occurs instead of the word "unlawful." In this "original draft"—certified as such by Mr. Bowser—the word is, as it should be "unlawful," but in other particulars the clause in this "original draft" differs materially from the clause as it appears in the bill as passed. The third line of the clause in this original draft read "write out and sign in the English language"; in the bill as passed the words "or any language of Europe" are added after the words "the English language"; and there is a similar difference further on in the clause between the original draft, as printed in the Colonist and the clause of the bill as passed.

It follows of course that the "original draft" as certified by Mr. Bowser was amended; and we have this unavoidable conclusion: That Mr. Bowser, being in charge of an important bill which he piloted through the House, did not take the trouble to read the most important clause of his bill, although his attention was specially called to it by amendments. It is a short clause—seven and a half lines—no intelligent schoolboy could possibly read it with any care without seeing what it means—and the error was in the last word.

This error was in the bill as first printed for submission to the House. So that Mr. Bowser contented himself with handing in the original draft. Neither when he received the printed bill, nor when he moved the second reading, nor when he watched it through committee, did he take the trouble to read this short clause—the vital clause of the measure; for if he had read it he must have detected the error. Here we have a picture, drawn by himself, of our new Attorney-General as a careful and painstaking legislator.

But it is when Mr. Bowser (as reported in the Colonist) deals with the question of the disallowance of former bills at Ottawa that we get the real thrill. The words "shuffling" and "dodging" are hardly applicable here. There is a shorter and more emphatic word of the right Anglo-Saxon stock which would fit the case much more nearly.

According to the Colonist, Mr. Bowser says:

"On July 20, 1898, Joseph Chamberlain, then colonial secretary, wrote Lord Aberdeen regarding certain legislation passed in British Columbia, including some Japanese legislation. With regard to the latter he stated that it was repugnant to Japan and that the governor general should not fail to 'impress upon them (MEANING THE B. C. PARLIAMENT) the importance if there is any real prospect of a large influx of Japanese into Canada of dealing with it by legislation on the lines adopted in Australia.' "

We take the liberty of emphasizing a few of the words in the above quotation and also in that which follows, which is a verbatim copy of the concluding paragraph of the letter above referred to and (professedly) quoted from, as it will be found on page 719 of the Sessional Papers of British Columbia, 1899:

"In the meantime I have to request that you will impress upon YOUR MINISTERS that restricted legislation of the type of which the legislation in question appears to be, is extremely repugnant to the sentiments of the people and Government of Japan, and you should not fail to impress upon THEM the importance, if there is any real prospect of a large influx of Japanese laborers into Canada, of dealing with it by legislation of the DOMINION PARLIAMENT on the lines of the accompanying Natal Act which is likely to be generally adopted in Australia."

Every reader can see at a glance that Mr. Bowser's statemen t (as printed in the Colonist) is in flat opposition to the fact. He says that Mr. Chamberlain told the Governor-General to impress upon the British Columbia parliament the importance of dealing with the Japanese influx on the certain lines, whereas what Mr. Chamberlain did recommend was legislation on those lines by the Dominion parliament; nor did he talk about impresssing anything on the British Columbian parliament. It was the Ottawa ministers and the parliament of Canada he was writing about.

Comment would be superfluous. As the costermonger said when the boys spilled his apples, "langwidge ain't ekal to it."

CLEVER QUIPS FROM "LITTLE JOHNNY JONES"

Waiter, to The Unknown, who has just made his first entrance: "Did you call me, sir?"

The Unknown—"No, but I will, if you give me any of your lip."

Waiter—"Do you feel like a cup of tea, sir?"

The Unknown—"No, do I look like a cup of tea?"

Waiter—"Is there anything else I can do, sir?"

The Unknown—"If there was, you wouldn't be a waiter."

The Unknown to Johnny Jones, who has just put in an appearance as the American jockey: "Come on, let's all have a drink."

Johnny Jones—"I can't; I'm too thirsty."

Johnny Jones, describing the way he won a horse race to the Irishman: "I just pushed that old skate's nose right up to the barrier, and from that moment the starter said 'Go!' "

The Irishman—"Yes, yes, yes, yes! Go on! Go on!"

Johnny Jones—"You'll be betting on this race in a minute."

The Unknown, to Captain Squirvy of the St. Hurrah, who sports a particularly luxuriant beard: "Hello, whiskers."

Capt. Squirvy—"Not whiskers, sir, not whiskers."

The Unknown—"Well,they look like whiskers."

CORRESPONDENCE

Miss Cameron's Certificate.

To the Editor Daily News:

Sir,—The school trustees of the province are to meet in convention at New Westminster the first day of the fair. Will you be good enough to publish the following appeal to the people for simple justice?

I appeal to the people to send trustees to that convention pledged to move and support a resolution to have Miss A. D. Cameron's certificate restored at once.

The government published th estatement that in Miss Cameron's school in every drawing book (29) and frequently on every page there was ruling and that in consequence no marks for that work was given to her pupils at the High school entrance examination. That is practically every scholar was judged guilty of cheating and punished and the fact printed and published to every teacher in the province.

Miss Cameron demanded an investigation, and it was granted. The following facts should be sufficient for this appeal.

First: Judge Lampman decides after a most careful investigation that there was "no ruling" in Antone Henderson's book (one of those 29).

Second: Apply Judge Clement's dictum in the "World" case that if the government failed to prove ruling in one of those 29 books then the verdict should be in Miss Cameron's favor.

Third: According to the decisions of those two judges the government failed in its case.

Fourth: On Judge Lampman's decision alone it was guilty of depriving Antone Henderson of the marks he had fairly and honestly earned. It was also guilty of making and publishing a false statement about him—that he with others had ruled in his book. Of the 21 children of that eschool who appeared in private before Judge Lampman, he tells counsel the effect of their evidence in 15 cases was that they denied having done any ruling. Of the other six some were doubtful and some admitted ruling.

When I said a few weeks ago that I was going to expose the injustice of the government's action in suspending her certificate, Colonel F. B. Gregory remarked, "The fact of the matter is that they were afraid of Miss Cameron." Colonel Gregory was counsel inthe drawing investigation and stood shoulder to shoulder with Mr. Eberts the counsel for the government, so his remarks should have some weight with the people.

Fifth: The McBride government refised to cancel the certificates of teachers whom the superintendent says were victimizing one school board after another and who were totally unfit to teach.

Sixth: The McBride government suspended for three years the certificate of Miss A. D. Cameron, one of the best teachers in the province, one who for years held some responsible positions in the High and Graded schools of Victoria.

Seventh: At that time her certificate was cancelled, Miss Cameron was not engaged as a teacher, but was a school trustee, and had been elected such at the head of the poll in Victoria.

Will you, the people of British Columbia, support this appeal and show to the civilized world that you are determined that those who stand up for fair play for your children, shall receive, at the very least, simple justice at the hands of your government.

Occident and Orient Meet To Contest for the World's Championship

The jiu jitsu exhibition to be given at Queen's park on Friday of next week will be no ordinary wrestling contest. The participants have an international, a world wide reputation, and each of them is in honor bound to uphold the credit of the country which he represents. McLaglen stands as the representative of the white race, straining every fibre in the effort to wrest from a native of the Chrysanthemum kingdom a prize that has hitherto never left its shores. Kanada, supreme in the knowledge of his past successes, is confident that victory will be his. His countrymen stand prepared to back him to the extent of fifteen thousand dollars.

SERIOUS, YET FUNNY

UNCONSCIOUS HUMOR THAT HELPS TO PUT SPICE IN LIFE.

Some Examples of Delightful Incongruities in Speaking, Writing and Painting That Appeal Strongly to the Sense of the Ridiculous.

Nothing has added more to the merriment of the world than the unintentional, unconscious humor of writers public speakers and, in fact, all classes and conditions of men and women. And there is none so delightful. It far exceeds in mirth provoking quality the cold blooded humor of the professional wits.

We Americans are a fun loving people, and we must and will have our jollity. Some one has said with certain truth: "With all our vanity, energy and unrest, we are not a dull, cheerless people. Sour faced fellows, yellow and dyspeptic, are to be met with in our cars and on our streets, but they are not the type of the American, for he is as ready for a laugh as for a speculation, as fond of a joke as an office."

And the joke is all the more enjoyable when it is spontaneous. The greater the stress and strain of life the greater the need and demand for humor, and no one deprecates the value of humor excepting those who have none of this good gift to their portion.

"Sunset" Cox, one of the wittiest men of his day, says in his book, "Why We Laugh:" "Eliminate from the literature and conduct of any one people the amusing and the amused faculty, and you produce a sterility as dull and uninteresting as the cinders and ashes of the volcanic fields of Iceland. But include the amusing element within the experience and history of mankind and no description of luxuriance, with grape, olive, nectarine and orange, such as makes the vales of Portugal a perennial smile, is adequate to emphasize the contrast."

One could not well instance a more amusing blunder than that in a painting of the "Blessed Virgin" in an old church in Spain. In this painting the Virgin is represented as sitting on a red velvet sofa fondling a cat with one hand, while with the other she is pouring coffee from a silver coffeepot.

This is as amusing as a painting in a German church representing the sacrifice of Isaac by Abraham. In this painting Abraham is about to discharge a huge pistol at Isaac when an angel descends and pours a pitcher of water on the pan of the pistol, thereby saving Isaac.

The writer once saw a crude painting of King Herod with a pair of spectacles painted on his nose. There is a very old painting of St. Peter denying the Saviour, and several of the Roman soldiers in the background have pipes in their mouths.

PEASANTS PROPOSE ELECTION BOYCOTT

Genuine Working Representation Being Impossible, Masses Will Not Vote.

St. Petersburg, Sept. 22.—The movement in favor of boycotting the third duma is gaining strength among the peasants. A large numebr of Russian cantons in Camara, Saratoff and Pensa have passed resolutions against participating in the coming elections on the ground that under the new electorate law the working classes can in no circumstances return genuine representatives. As all meetings of the opposition parties are now forbidden, no general conclusion can be reached.

The present prospect is that the elections will be boycotted by the social democrats and a minority of peasants. In a few districts all the peasant cantons will refuse to participate. Party differences on the question of boycott are leading to serious troubles on the votage. In Saratoff boycottists burned several houses belonging to members of the opposition.

ADDITIONAL LOCAL NEWS

The city of Nelson was so crowded during the fair week that the C. P. R. steamers were turned into hotels for the timebeing, sleeping accommodations being obtainable for five hours a night. Many of the hotels had from eight to twelve guests sleeping in one room at a time.

Bandmaster Sawyer and Manager Shatford of the Vernon Fire Brigade band, who have been engaged to bring their aggregation of musicians to New Westminster to play on Thursday and Friday of fair week, are getting ready for the trip and will come prepared to give the visitors to the fair the best that is going in the music line.

Money to loan on approved security, White, Shiles & Co., city.

A meeting of the Okanagan and Spallumcheen Agricultural society was held last week for the purpose of arranging to have their district represented at the New Westminster fair, but after a discussion of the matter fully, the members came to the conclusion that the season was too far advanced to permit of any exhibits being offered this year.

The local social evil question will probably form a subject of discussion at the regular meeting of the city council this evening. Ald. Garrett, to whose committee the matter was referred some weeks ago, asked at the last meeting of the council for another week in which to complete his investigations, and it is probable that something will be heard from him this evening.

CLAXTON CHOSEN FOR COMPANY'S HEADQUARTERS

Following the announcement that the B. C. Transportation and Construction company will shortly build two new boats for the summer service on the Skeena river, comes the intimation from one of the officials that the up-country headquarters of the company will shortly be removed from Port Essington to Claxton.

The chief drawback with regard to the Essington headquarters is the fact that the wharf is so situated that when the tide recedes, it is left high and dry hundreds of yards from the water, and on account of the peculiar local conditions it is impossible to remedy this, as if the wharf is built further out, it would be submerged when the tide rises.

Claxton has a fine natural harbor, and the officers of the B. C. T. & C. company have decided to immediately take steps to build a large wharf suitable for their trade at this point. By changing the headquarters from Essington to Claxton, steamers will no longer be compelled to wait until the tide turns before being able to discharge passengers or freight.
