INSTITUTIONS VISITED BY GRAND JURY PANEL

Valuable Recommendations on Work of the Provincial Gaol and Asylum—Segregation Suggested.

The presentment made by the grand jury to the chief justice is a well composed document, and while the general tone is one of praise for the city institutions, some valuable suggestions are made as to the improvement of the provincial jail. The need of making it fire proof is strongly urged. The jurymen are full of praise for the asylum and the Royal Columbian hospital. The board of managers have already provided for improvements in the operating theatre referred to below. The overcrowding is drawn attention to by the jury.

Grand Jury's Presentment.

To the Honorable the Chief Justice.

We, the members of the grand jury, beg to make this presentment regarding the condition of the public institutions situated in the city of New Westminster:

We first visited the provincial gaol, where we were met by the warden and his deputies who conducted us over the institution where we found everything scrupulously clean and marked evidences of order and discipline and great credit due the officials under the prevailing circumstances as the building is far from up to date. Although we would not recommend any great expenditure at present, unless it was thoroughly renovated, there could be a few improvements at little cost, namely; there is a space taken up by two undersized baths which could be replaced by a good shower, thus enabling the prisoner to be bathed more thoroughly and in less time. We also observed a corridor in the basement floored with loose boards which

MEETING OF WESTSIDE VOTERS ENTHUSIASTIC FOR JARDINE

Mr. Whealler Delivers Address Showing Why Country Should Return Laurier Administration on Monday on Record of Finance, Labor and Immigration

A meeting, which was strongly enthusiastic for the Liberal candidate was held last evening at St. Barnabas parish hall, C. D. Deans in the chair. The speakers were A. Whealler and R. J. Deachman, of Vancouver.

A. Whealler said they were there to support Robert Jardine, the Liberal candidate for the New Westminster riding, and he proposed to show why they should support Mr. Jardine rather than Mr. Taylor. Proceeding then to deal with the questions at issue in the present campaign the speaker said, in part:

Most of us stick to our own party. I have myself always voted Liberal since I have been in Canada, but there are independent men on both sides of politics and this independent vote is the salt of the electorate.

When we appeal to these independent voters I believe we shall find that the larger number of them, as well as a good proportion of Conservatives, will support Mr. Jardine. The reason for this I shall indicate later on. (Applause.)

Now as to the questions before us. There are no great issues, as there are in England, making a distinct cleavage between the two parties, as for instance the questions of a return to protection and of women's suffrage. Both parties in this province are agreed upon those questions, which form the principal food for discussion in the present campaign. First of all there is the matter of Asiatic exclusion. Both sides agree upon that, both hold that we must keep this country a white man's country. The only question is how we are to carry out desires. At the same time the Asiatic Exclusion league of Vancouver is not satisfied with the candidate of either party and has brought Mr. Joseph Martin into the field as its nominee. This circumstance confirms the conclusion that there is no difference between the two parties on this question. There is one point in connection with Asiatic exclusion to which I will refer, the charge of delay which has been brought against the Liberal party. They say the government ought to have acted more promptly. This charge I believe to be absurd. The question only became acute in 1907, when there was a large influx of Japanese and Hindus and it was in the same year that the Anti-Asiatic league was formed in Vancouver. Sir Wilfrid Laurier dispatched Mr. Rodolphe Lemieux to Japan to discuss the whole subject with the Japanese government and to come to some amicable arrangement for stopping the large immigration of Japanese. As a result the number of Japanese immigrants has been curtailed in a manner that Mr. Borden at one time declared himself to be satisfied with. Again by an arrangement with the Indian government the immigration of Hindus has also been materially diminished; and it has recently been announced by a gentleman connected with the department of the interior that negotiations are in an advanced stage for the removal of the Hindus now resident in this country to British Honduras. There they will still be under the British flag for which many of them have fought and in a country of which is more suited to them than that of Canada. Whilst I am on this subject let me recall to your minds the fact that a poll tax of $500 was imposed upon the Chinese in 1901, after a special commission had held an exhaustive enquiry into the question of Chinese immigration. This was an increase of the impost from the sum of $50 fixed by the Conservatives. For many years this heavy tax of $500 proved to be prohibitive, but latterly some Chinese had been entering the country, and it may be necessary further to increase the poll tax in the future. One word further upon this point. We must remember that in dealing with the Hindus, who are fellow subjects under the British crown, and with the Chinese and Japanese who are subjects of friendly nations, care and skill must be exercised and not everthing can be done in a day. It is apparent that Mr. Bowser in his violent efforts to deal with the race problem has failed to see that he might endanger the peace of the empire for the purpose of serving his own little government. We were told by a very great statesman to try and think imperially and when the personal interests of people of British Columbia (a small part of the empire to which we belong) touch upon matters of imperial concern, as in this case they do very strongly, let us always remember that it requires careful diplomacy and statesmanship to avoid causing serious injury to the cause and welfare of the empire at large.

From the Asiatic question one naturally turns to that with which it is allied, namely the labor question. Here I wish to impress upon you that the Liberal party has always been more friendly to labor than the Conservative party. Let us see what the Liberal government has done in this respect, during the twelve years they have been in office. They have formed the great department of labor over which Mr. Mackenzie King has presided with signal ability. I see that he has now resigned and is contesting a seat in Ontario. I sincerely hope that he will be elected; for his presence in the House of Commons will be of immense benefit to the country. Then the government established the Labor Gazette in order that all interested in public affairs as well as workmen themselves might be properly informed as to labor conditions. Again, we have the Lemieux act which was passed to prevent strikes and lockouts. The effect of this measure has been so satisfactory that settlements have been arrived at in thirty-eight out of forty labor disputes which have arisen since the act was passed. We all know that such disputes must arise from time to time but the sooner they are settled by a board of conciliation the better for the interests of all concerned. The government has also appointed certain labor commissions, such, for instance, as the one which enquired into the workers of the Bell Telephone company; the result of which was a reduction of working hours and other benefits to the employees. I might go on much longer enumerating the many

WAR HORSE OF DELTA MAKES STRONG PLEA FOR LIBERALS

John Oliver Deals With Record of Government in Masterly Manner, Bringing Out Forcible Arguments in Support of Robert Jardine's Candidacy ---Good Meeting at Langley.

Intense interest is being taken in the political campaign by electors in the extensive dairying and agricultural district of Langley, and there are unmistakable indications that the Liberal cause will receive an effective measure of support in this part of the New Westminster riding.

Robert Jardine, who was accompanied by John Oliver, M. L. A., arrived at Langley fort on Wednesday morning and met with a most friendly reception, the neighborhood of the wharf being for the time quite an interesting centre of friendly discussion.

In the afternoon a meeting was held at the town hall, where a goodly number assembled, under the chairmanship of H. Simpson, to hear addresses from the Liberal candidate and the provincial member for the Delta.

In the evening the Macdonald hall at Murray's Corner, Langley prairie, was filled with an interested and attentive audience, the chair being occupied by A. Deans.

Robert Jardine claimed attention to and support for the Laurier government which he said had proved a wise, honest and [illegible] administration. During the last twelve years the people of Langley had, in common with the whole of Canada, enjoyed an increasing prosperity. Against the effective results of the Laurier policy they had to compare the wretched policy of their opponents, the Conservatives, who had again adopted a [illegible]. The latter had [illegible] no real policy to put before the electors. He expressed regret that [illegible] of the [illegible] questions in the present campaign had been made party questions. He referred to Asiatic exclusion and [illegible] terms. In regard to the former, the speaker declared himself unmistakably in favor of a white Canada, and as to the latter, said he considered an increased revenue for the province would be best secured by extending the railway systems, by improving the waterways and harbors and by general works of improvement. In the Fraser river improvements now being carried out by the Dominion government they [illegible] the [illegible] of the [illegible] and [illegible] of New Westminster [illegible] [illegible] taken this up [illegible] [illegible] way and intended to carry it out; sufficient money had already been voted to accomplish all the work that could be done up to the end of the financial year, and there was no doubt that a million dollars would be devoted to the undertaking before it was completed. The scheme was one that would benefit every man living either up or down the river and it ill befitted any one to belittle and make fun of this undertaking as his opponent, Mr. Taylor was doing. (Hear, hear.) Referring to railway developments in the province, the speaker reminded his audience that but for his own efforts and influence they would not have had the two lines of railway running through their midst, which were now being constructed, namely, the V. V. & E. line and B. C. Electric railway. In connection with this reference was made to the opposition made by the Conservatives to both these lines of railway. In conclusion, Mr. Jardine asked for the support of all those who desired to see the progress and development of the province continued. (Applause.)

John Oliver then delivered a lengthy and eminently practical address, in the course of he said that whilst the homesteader suffered under serious disabilities when the Conservatives were in power, the Liberal government had given them the timber and given them every facility to secure their holdings. Recently he had heard Mr. Taylor state that it was the duty of the government not only to dredge the Fraser river at its mouth, but to do this work as far up as Yale; but this was as ridiculous as impossible for hydraulic mining operations in the Cariboo had resulted in the deposit of thousands of tons of rock and refuse in the Fraser above Yale. Moreover, they had this position, that whilst it was the duty of the Dominion government to maintain the river channel

SANITY OF NEGRO NOW QUESTIONED BY COURT

Mental Condition of Jenkins Referred to Commission of Medical Men—Shooting Charged Dismissed.

The assize was resumed yesterday before Chief Justice Hunter, George Sims being arraigned for killing four pigs belonging to George Z. Smith, at Aldergrove, on Sept. 15 last. He pleaded not guilty. A jury was then empannelled, and the trial proceeded. Robert Cassidy, K.C., prosecuted, and W. G. McQuarrie defended.

In the box the complainant said he had five pigs wandering at large which he missed from his place from Sept. 7, and on Sept. 16 in consequence of what he heard he saw the accused, who admitted that he had shot four of the five, the other getting away, and had dressed and marketed them. Cross-examined: He knew the pigs would do damage if they got away. The ground was unfenced. He denied that he knew his neighbors wished to find out that he was responsible for the swine. Accused had offered to pay for the value of the pigs if he (prosecutor) would pay for the damage to the garden. The homes of the two men were three miles apart. The cross-examination aroused much amusement in court.

"To Corral a Cyclone."

The defending counsel, addressing the jury, said his client shot the pigs because they attacked his little boy, and not knowing at that time to whom they belonged, he dressed and sold the meat, intending to pay the owner when he was discovered. On oath accused stated that he had had a lot of trouble with the pigs in question, which had done a great deal of damage, probably $50 to $60 to the produce in the garden, and he had only received about $40 for the meat. It was impossible to control the pigs. It would have been as easy "to corral a cyclone." The proverbial obstinacy of the hog was well brought out in the story of the incident. A number of witnesses were called for the defence.

Prisoner Acquitted.

Mr. McQuarrie addressed the jury when the court resumed, contending that the case was one which should be settled in the small debts court, if Smith had a claim on the accused. For the prosecution Mr. Cassidy asked the jury to believe that the preconcerted attack on the child by the pigs was an after thought by the accused, who had taken the law into his own hands, and intended to stand by what he had been doing. When he found himself charged before the magistrate apparently he had thought of this explanation of the reason.

His lordship, in charging the jury, said it was a singular feature that accused had had to shoot all four pigs to save his child. It seemed to him that he might have shot one and interposed himself between the child and the swine.

The jury, without leaving the box, acquitted the prisoner of criminal intent, and the applause in court led the judge to remark: "Gentlemen, this is not an exhibition."

Jenkins' Sanity Questioned.

When Jenkins, the negro charged with murdering Mrs. Mary Morrison, near Hazelmere on June 9, was brought up, W. G. McQuarrie asked for a commission to examine into the sanity of the prisoner. From his investigation of the case he thought it was his duty to ask his lordship for this inquiry before the man was put on his trial.

Mr. Cassidy said the question of his sanity ought to be a matter for the jury, to decide if Jenkins was fit to be put on his trial.

His lordship agreed, and Mr. McQuarrie suggested the names of Dr. Doherty, superintendent of the provincial asylum, and Dr. Manchester, an expert on mental diseases.

The judge: "They must be ready to give evidence to the jury."

Mr. Cassidy urged that the report of the doctors should be made as soon as possible, as they had forty witnesses to call for the prosecution. Among them were state officials and railway men from the other side, and he found it difficult to reach them by the process of the Canadian courts.

Finally a commission of five doctors, the two mentioned, and Dr. Walker, Dr. Underhill, of Vancouver, who was in court, and Dr. McEwen, of Cloverdale, were appointed, and the police officials instructed to give access by the medical men to the prisoner.

The judge said the question was not one of the sanity of the man some time ago, but now, whether he was fit to take his trial.

The court was then adjourned till this morning at 10:30 a.m.

MASS MEETING TONIGHT

Three fluent Liberal speakers, Duncan Ross, M. P. for Yale-Cariboo; John Oliver, M. L. A. for Delta; and F. C. Wade, K. C., of Vancouver, will address a monster meeting of Westminster electors in the Opera house tonight. Chairman T. J. Trapp will introduce the first speaker to the audience at eight o'clock sharp.

All electors in doubt as to how they should vote on Monday should attend this meeting to hear the issues which will be dealt with in a masterly manner by the three speakers. Conservatives, open to conviction, will be welcomed; others are invited.

WAR HORSE OF DELTA MAKES STRONG PLEA

the provincial government had the right to grant the mining licenses, as the result of which more debris was put into the river than twenty dredges could remove.

Proceeding to deal with general political topics Mr. Oliver referred to the fact that in 1896 the Conservatives had asserted that the Liberals were going to introduce free trade and would allow American dairy produce to come in to the ruin of the farmer. But as a farmer he knew quite different to that. The Liberal government had revised the Conservative tariff and reduced taxation by from 15 to 18 per cent. The effect of this, coupled with the general administrative policy of the government had been a great revival of trade and an increase of revenue which enabled them to carry out many valuable and important works of improvement.

After passing in review the various works of development and improvement, and then touched upon what had been done by the government on behalf of labor, but if they turned the question towards the Conservatives the reply must be, nothing. Instead of allowing the second or third middle man to make a large profit on government clothing contracts by sweating poor women in the lower portions of Quebec and Montreal, they had inserted a clause in all contracts requiring the payment of a fair wage. Then then government had passed the Lemieux conciliation act under which already thirty-eight trade disputes out of forty-one had been amicably settled.

Turning next to the immigration policy of the Liberal government, he pointed out that in the first ten years of the C. P. R. there were only three thousand people brought into Canada. But in ten years the Liberals had brought in 200,000 people. The amount expended for this immigration work was a good investment when they considered that this year's harvest crop was worth $200,000,000. To the great increase in the number of settlers in the northwest was due the great rise in the value of land in British Columbia and the extensive area of fruit orchards which had come into existence and the great market for B. C. fruit was in the northwest. Thus this province had received millions of dollars and the value of land suitable for fruit growing was rapidly increasing. Again, the populating of the northwest had meant a great demand for timber from this province. The manager of the mill at Chemainus had told him a few days ago that in two months he had shipped 300 carloads of lumber to the northwest, the value of which was sixty thousand dollars.

The speaker proceeded next to deal with the question of better terms. The Conservative candidate claimed that there was thirty-eight millions due to the province from the Dominion, but Premier McBride put the sum first at seventeen and afterwards at twenty millions. The official return of the auditor-general of the Dominion showed, however, that British Columbia had paid sixty millions into the Dominion treasury and had received sixty-five back. When he had put these facts forward on a previous occasion, Mr. Taylor had branded him (Mr. Oliver) as a traitor to British Columbia. But he had a more substantial interest in the province than Mr. Taylor, against whom he had commenced a libel action, but had been compelled to abandon this because he found on searching at the registry that the "Columbian" was so burdened with encumbrances that it would have been impossible for him to recover any sum awarded him as damages. If the enquiry into the rights of the province, which it was said Mr. Borden was prepared to promote, was held it would certainly reveal some very ugly circumstances in connection with certain transactions by the provincial government.

The speaker pointed out also that since the agreement between the Canadian and Japanese governments the C. P. R., which owned the Conservative party, had actually applied to the Dominion government for leave to bring hundreds of Japanese for the purpose of settling them upon the C. P. R. lands. This request the government at once refused. (Cheers.)

Both the speakers were heartily cheered at the conclusion of the meeting.

Can I Learn to be an Ad. Writer by Correspondence?

Our answer is, yes. We can teach you how to write good, catchy advertisements by mail just as well as if you were attending personally, and only taking up half an hour of your time every evening.

The Swords School of Advertising is the best school of instruction for many reasons, viz.:

It is the only school that gives you their personal criticisms, no form letter being used, but, instead, the work of every student is looked over separately.

Then, too, it is the only school that is conducting a successful advertising service, and is backed up by leading merchants of the province. It supplies practical ad-work for the student, showing lay-outs, copy, etc., which is picked from the most successful advertisements written by its writers.

Its system of teaching by mail is endorsed by not only the leading merchants and manufacturers, but by the greatest experts and publishers.

If you have only a common, ordinary school education and earning less than $25.00 per week, let us put you in the most lucrative profession in the world today.

Its employed students are everywhere—in stores, factories, advertising agencies, and are so thoroughly qualified that they command higher salaries year after year. From Other Points of View

Old Tory Dodge.

To tell a half truth is an old tory dodge which Billy McInnes caught Cowan at the other day in Vancouver much to that gentleman's confusion. A ravenous clinging to the old traditions and tactics is the besetting sin of the Conservative party. Like a famous family in history they have learned nothing and forgotten nothing.—Vernon Okanagan.

Gone Forever.

The Halifax platform continues to receive from the Conservative party a reverence like unto that paid the Sacred Cow in India—a reverence which forbids its being utilized even in the utmost extremity, and which even prevents it being spoken of in the multitude of unbelievers. This is one theory. Another is that the party are trying to help the public forget that there ever was such a "platform." On the whole the latter seems the more probable. From the first the party recognized the political impotency of the structure, and so far from trying to enthuse other over it, declined to become enthused themselves. It was politic imposing enough to deceive nor substantial enough to stand on. No sooner had the author extracted his own modest weight in it than the planks gave way and he was left sprawling on a pile of platitudes. His followers, with better judgment than he had counted on, refused to go into ecstasies at the spectacle, and some of them told him so. In time the honorable gentleman came to recognize the situation himself. He clambered out of the ruins in some humiliation, anointed the refuse soap with Mr. Foster, Mr. Fowler, Mr. Bennett, Mr. Ames, and with a hint or so at the unpleasantness of the occupation began to throw garbage with the rest of them. He called on the provincial lieutenants to come along too. Premier Roblin responded, but his aim was bad and he landed a particularly odorous lump in the eye of Mr. J. S. Willison. He was sent home to practice. Provincial Secretary Hanna responded, but his marksmanship was no better and he threw shovelfuls of filth over the British men and women who have come to make their homes in Canada. When they protested he stopped at what he could and explained that he meant it for the government, but the scent of the insult still lingers in the nostrils of thousands of people who are quite as useful and reputable citizens of this Dominion as Mr. Hanna, but who first saw the light of day in the lands across the sea. But Mr. Hanna was not put off the dump, and he continues to heave his misdirected missiles into the crowd of "foreigners." Altogether the slander campaign seems to be going just about as slander campaigns usually go, and as they always deserve to go. Its signal accomplishment so far has been to obscure the remains of the Halifax platform in a cloud of flying debris. Even this may be an advantage, for the remains were not much to look upon, and there is a possibility of them being covered beyond exhumation—at which Mr. Borden's discerning followers would emit a sigh of relief.—Edmonton Bulletin.

DO NOT FORGET.

Do not forget that it was the Liberal government who established the Railway Commission.

PREMIER HAZEN'S BREAK.

Public men when they make serious charges must take full responosibility for so doing, and suffer the consequences no matter how unpleasant they may be. Premier Hazen, of New Brunswick, has impeached, publicly, the Minister of Public Works, Dr. Pugsley, and he must now substantiate his charges or admit he had no good authority upon which to make them. He had the opportunity, he must admit, of finding out if the charges were true or false. Dr. Pugsley was in St. John, N.B., at the time, was easy of access, and from him Premier Hazen could have found whether the accusations had any foundation in fact. No, this was the manly course, of which Mr. Hazen was too mean to avail himself, but preferred instead to make, and did make the charges for the Tory practice of getting them heralded all over the Dominion. The following night Dr. Pugsley at a similar meeting made his defence, complete and irrefutable, which shows Premier Hazen up in no enviable light. The contest in St. John did in no way involve Premier Hazen's personal or party interests in the Legislature of New Brunswick. He was under no obligation to show up during the contest, nor to put on the coping stone of Tory slander, but his charges are a fitting culmination of the dirtiest campaign the leading Conservatives have ever insulted the electorate of the Dominion with, and retribution has not been long coming for such a dastardly outrage against decency and propriety, and in the statement made in these columns yesterday, the public will see the awful depths of degradation to which prominent Conservatives have fallen, and the almost certain disruption of that party in New Brunswick as a result, because the report shows that decent Conservatives will not stand for such actions under the guise and shelter of their organization. We were sorry to see the Columbian pass on the slander, and while it will effect the Conservative candidate detrimentally, we feel that personally he would have had more sagacity that to let it run in his editorial columns had he been in the editorial chair. His chances are slim enough without those within his own camp knocking him in this way.

There is no tornado rushing past your front door, don't be timid when you are on "Easy Street." The sworn bank returns to the Government for the last six months show that deposits in Canadian chartered banks have increased $45,722,954, so don't be afraid of the hard times the Tories prophesy as being at your elbow. The business men of the country know that with Sir Wilfrid Laurier in command and W. S. Fielding as first mate the ship is in good hands and perfectly safe.

The rural mail delivery and collection has been tested at Wentworth, Ont., and found to work splendidly. This is another score of an onward step, showing that the Liberal party does things.

Mr. Birkett, Conservative candidate at Ottawa, has been compelled to make declaration that in 1883 he applied for a fifty mile square timber berth, and that in 1884 it was granted to him without public competition, and that in the following year he was forced to relinquish his holding because the Federal Government had no right or authority to dispose of it. The Conservative Government in the same year 1883 divided amongst its rapacious friends, free of cost, 10,328 square miles of timber limits covering 6,608,640 acres of land that belonged to the people of Canada, and he adds, in reference to his own grants: "I haven't got that property now, because the courts subsequently confiscated it as stolen property." The late Sir Oliver Mowat has the credit of causing him to disgorge. Mr. Birkett still believes that "to the victors belong the spoils."

It is a waste of time for either party to forecast in detail the result of the forthcoming election, the present Government will again be returned and the country will be safe for another five years.

GOOD ORDER.

The electorate of the city has done itself proud with respect to the conduct of meetings held up to the present and the manner in which the speakers on both sides have been listened to shows that the people attend to hear the live questions agitating the public mind in the contest fully placed before them from every point of view. This is certainly a proof of the intelligence of our people and a proof that rowdyism in any form ceases to be countenanced. In every large gathering some one turns up who is ready to lay claim to being the whole meeting, but a firm handling of such a person at the outset by adherents of both parties will shut off the annoyance at once. We hope Mr. Jardine's meeting tonight, and Mr. Taylor's meeting tomorrow night will be as orderly and interesting as those which have been held up to the present. We also note with pleasure the prevailing good will existing between the two parties on and off the street. This is as it should be, for there is no reason in antagonizing each other because we cannot see eye to eye in politics.

JUST A COINCIDENCE.

J. D. Taylor's campaign committee has been sending out two druggists to instruct the farmers and agriculturists of the district. This in in keeping with the policy of the Tories, who, when in power appointed a medical man as Minister of Agriculture.

Delta Against Taylor.

This is the naughty slap on the wrist given the Tory aspirant by the editor of the Delta Times: The Conservative candidate, J. D. Taylor, held a meeting here on Friday evening, when a fair number turned out to hear what he might have to say, but the majority were very much disgusted at the slander put forth by "Little Frankie," whom Mr. Taylor saw fit to carry in his train. Instead of assisting to roll up a majority for J. D. Taylor, his action on Friday night has been the alienation of many Conservative votes, some of which will not be cast at all while others will go in favor of the coming member, Robert Jardine.

Vote for Jardine and good times for the whole people.

Vote for Taylor and the closing of the Fraser to net fishermen.

The Socks You Can't Wear Out!

If there is anything that is uncomfortable it is a sock with a hole in it.

If there is one thing on earth that is unnecessary it is that same "sock with a hole in it."

If there is one unnecessary sort of drudgery with which the house-wife has to contend it's darning."

Because—There are socks you can procure that do not develop holes—They are

Everwear Hosiery

This famous "Everwear" Hosiery is sold under a positive, steel ribbed guarantee to wear for six months without developing the slightest hole, rip or tear.

Here is the way this Guarantee reads:

This Guarantee Is Absolute

We unreservedly guarantee that these six pairs of socks, if worn alternately for six months, will wear absolutely free from holes or rips for that length of time. If, for any reason, they should require any darning during that period return each damaged pair and they will be replaced immediately by new ones. It is, also, imperative that the damaged socks be returned within the time limit of six months from the date of sale.

Why Buy Socks That will not Wear

When you can get "Everwear" hosiery at the same price and have a half-a-year of guaranteed wear free from holes—or any annoyance whatever? If you don't get this we make good.

"Everwear" hosiery does not get its wearing qualities by reason of great thickness. It's as soft and silky as anyone could desire. It's all in the making—from start to finish. The dye is absolutely fast. "Everwear" hosiery is stainless and septic. In washing they do not fade, they don't shrink or harden.

"Everwear" is made in different popular colors and two weights, light and medium. "Everwear" is sold only in boxes of six pairs. Six guarantee coupons accompany each and every box—personally signed by the party making the sale.

WHITE CANADA ISSUE DEALT WITH LAST NIGHT

H. A. Eastman Tells in Graphic Manner of Work of Robert Jardine For This District.

Last evening in Sapperton town hall H. A. Eastman made a telling speech in favor of Robert Jardine, advising the voters to cast their ballot unhesitatingly for the man who would get there, and not for the Conservative candidate who was known as a "knocker."

Mr. Eastman enlarged upon the manly stand taken by Mr. Jardine on the white Canada question, and stated that the Laurier government had done and was doing the fair and square thing in that direction—it was impossible, in the face of imperial matters, to always put drastic measures into force, but Sir Wilfrid with his wide world diplomacy was bringing matters to a most favorable position.

Digressing from the yellow race question a moment, Mr. Eastman pointed out that Sir Wilfrid Laurier had done what perhaps no other statesman could have done as well as he, and that was the solidifying of the two great white races of Canada. That in itself was a work which any statesman of any country might be proud of having brought to so successful an issue.

There was not the least doubt that if Sir Wilfrid were given the support of such men as Jardine, the yellow race question too would be disposed of quickly and without any unnecessary diplomatic troubles with either the imperial government or the Japanese and Chinese powers.

The speaker dwelt upon the fact that Mr. Jardine was an energetic business man and that it was greatly owing to his "push" that the splendid bridge which spans the Fraser river was built, and further pointed out that Mr. Jardine had been mainly instrumental in the procuring of the dredge which is now on its way out from Europe and would in the near future be working on the Fraser to the benefit of the inhabitants of this district.

The speaker was followed with great interest and applause, and the meeting closed with three cheers and a tiger for the member elect, Robert Jardine.

Chairman J. N. Aitchison also made a few remarks which were received with attention, and stated that T. S. Baxter, who was advertised to speak, was unavoidably absent.

we recommended should be tiled or cemented. As to making the institution practically fire proof it would necessitate the interior being reconstructed. The wooden cells would have to be dispensed with and steel ones put in their stead. The locks of the cells should be able to be thrown open automatically in a second, instead of a guard having to feel around for the key hole in individual padlocks.

Asylum.

We next visited the hospital for the insane, where we were shown over the entire premises by the superintendent, Dr. Doherty, and his assistants. It was quite apparent that the superintendent is the master of the situation and the admirable system in vogue in all departments reflects great credit on his ability as an organizer. Every movement of the attendants seems to indicate that business is there transacted with the precision of clock work while the general discipline evident on all sides was a marvel to us. We found the interior of the wards were furnished comfortably and spotlessly clean. The patients were all clean, well dressed and had nothing but kind words to say of their treatment. Summing everything up in connection with the hospital for insane we can only say that as now managed it is a great credit to the province. While the present quarters are too small for the number of patients we believe that this difficulty will be overcome by the building of the new institution at Coquitlam.

Hospital.

We then traversed to the Royal Columbian hospital where we were met by Miss Martin, the matron, who gave us free access to the whole institution where we found everything conducted in the most admirable manner though the poor sufferers were very much overcrowded. We would strongly recommend that if possible there should be more classifications. We noticed that whites were lying side by side with Asiatics. Although the latter are equally deserving as much attention as the former we cannot help thinking that both parties would feel more comfortable if they were confined to their own kin and we therefore recommend that an Asiatic ward be opened. Then again we were rather astonished that the medical profession had not persuaded the authorities that the main operating room was behind the times. This, one of the most important departments of the institution, could be improved. A more modern operating table could be installed and many minor improvements which we feel sure the medical profession who are using the room would gladly suggest and it would be money well spent.

H. H. GERVAN,
Foreman Grand Jury.

LOT 440, G.2, E. ½ SEC. 36, NE. ¼ SEC. 25, N. ½ of SE. ¼ SEC. 25, T. 4, N.W. ¼ S. 31, T. 2 would retire from the present political contest and buy one of our 5-acre fruit Farms and Suburban Villa Sites he would save his deposit and we would vote him a patriotic Liberal. He could set out his farm in prunes and grow potatoes between the rows for the next five years and make enough money to pay for his land and put up a good solid platform on which to stand for his "go" at the next political fight announced.

We have already disposed of over 250 acres and our subdivision has only been on the market a few weeks. This fact speaks for itself.

Ours is the only subdivision offered which actually has connection with the new Chilliwack tram, now in course of active construction. Take a hint and investigate all other apple grove or orchard propositions claiming frontage on this new tramline. Old discarded trial lines don't count.

Our subdivision is only two miles from town and for suburban villa sites cannot be surpassed.

Why pay $100 or even $50 per acre for fruit farms from ten to twenty miles from market when you can secure better land at the same price right in sight of the best market in B. C. and on the finest road in the country.

Or why buy where you would have to take a train or steamboat to reach your farm in order to avoid an all-day drive in the cold, over muddy roads, when a 5-cent fare on an electric tram or a comfortable drive of only twenty minutes over a first-class road will land you right in the heart of our popular subdivision and at your own door.

There's no mistake. We offer you the best chance that has been given this year to make money and you should not neglect the opportunity. The rails are now on the ground and when the trams commence running prices will jump right up.

There is no reason in the world why land here should not reach $500 per acre within a very few years. You'll never buy so cheaply. Act at once.

Our carriages go over every day. Any hour will suit us. It only takes half an hour to drive over.

VOLUNTEER BOUNTY ACT, 1908.
WARNING TO PURCHASERS.

Every assignment of the right of a South African Volunteer entitled to a land grant must be by way of appointment of a substitute and must be in the form provided by the Act.

Special attention is called to Subsection 3 of Section 5 of the Volunteer Bounty Act, 1908, which provides that no assignment of the right of a volunteer by the appointment of a substitute shall be accepted or recognized by the Department of the Interior which is not executed and dated after the date of the warrant for the land grant issued by the Minister of Militia and Defence in favor of the volunteer.

J. W. GREENWAY,
Commissioner of Dominion Lands, Ottawa.

28th September, 1908.

Sealed tenders addressed to the undersigned, and endorsed "Tender for Electric Light Fixtures, Post Office, Vancouver, B. C.," will be received at this office until 4:30 p.m. on Friday, October 23, 1908, for electric light fixtures at the Post Office, Vancouver.

Plans and specifications can be seen and forms of tender obtained at this department, and on application to Chas. Tossell, Esq., Clerk of Works, Vancouver.

Persons tendering are notified that tenders will not be considered unless made on the printed forms supplied, and signed with their actual signatures.

Each tender must be accompanied by an accepted cheque on a chartered bank, made payable to the order of the Honorable the Minister of Public Works, equal to ten per cent (10 p.c.) of the amount of the tender, which will be forfeited if the person tendering decline to enter into a contract when called upon to do so, or if he fail to complete the work contracted for. If the tender be not accepted the cheque will be returned.

The Department does not bind itself to accept the lowest or any tender.

By Order,
NAP. TESSIER,
Secretary.

ENTHUSIASTIC MEETING OF WESTSIDE ELECTORS

measures which the Liberal government has passed, but what I have said is a sufficient indication that the heart of the Liberal party lies on the labor question.

Another question which is being discussed in the present campaign is that of better terms. Here again both sides are agreed and in my opinion this question ought never to have been brought into party politics. If British Columbia is not getting from the Dominion government as great an indemnity as it is entitled to every one is agreed that in one way or another this should be increased. And by all means let us go on pressing for this.

There is one way in which we can secure better terms, a way that commends itself to Mr. McBride and his government and this is by an increase in our annual subsidy of $100,000. In other words Mr. McBride would be satisfied if he could give a few cents each year to each person residing in this province. There is another way to secure better terms, which I believe to be the proper way, and that is by the expenditure of the amount we are entitled to on the many upon many important public works which may help to develop and enrich the province. Let us use our indemnity as capital to turn the resources of the country to account and not as income to distribute in cash each year among the people. The development of the Dominion of Canada is the great work which the Canadian people have before them for the next half century. And here, too, there is no difference of principle between the two parties. The only question is how are we to work in order to attain the desired end. (Hear, hear.)

Now, I hope that what I have said has impressed upon you that there is practically no difference between the two parties except perhaps upon the labor question and that being so I ask you to vote for Mr. Jardine, the Liberal candidate, rather than for his opponent. The reason for this request, and I think it is a strong one, is for twelve years the country has prospered and is now prospering under the Liberal chieftain and that there is absolutely no cause for any change being made. I have a few figures that I should like to read to you, showing the wonderful development of the Dominion during the twelve years of Liberal rule:

Foreign trade	$239,000,000	$550,000,000
Imports	118,000,000	370,000,000
Exports	121,000,000	280,000,000
Trade with Great Britain	95,000,000	220,000,000
Exports, farms	50,000,000	121,000,000
Exports, manufactories	9,000,000	20,000,000
Deposits in banks	245,000,000	650,000,000

Then as to immigration, I find that from Jan. 31, 1897, to March 31, 1908, that is a period of fourteen months, 1,219,000 new settlers came to our shores. You will remember that the last census the population of this country was six millions, therefore in fourteen months we received an addition to our population of one-fifth part of the total number of souls in Canada in 1901. You may say that this wonderful development is due to natural causes and that it would have taken place without the assistance of the Liberal government. I candidly admit that the Liberal party cannot claim the full merit for all the good things that have happened to us, but even so, we still come back to the same point that I have already urged, namely, that when everything is going well why disturb the present conduct of affairs. The government and its ministers are your servants, and if any one of you has a man who is doing good work for you either on the farm or in the office or elsewhere are you going to turn him out simply because another man comes along and asks you to do so? You would not think of doing such a ridiculous thing especially if the capabilities of that other man were an unknown quantity. We know nothing about Mr. Borden and the people working with him, nor as to their capacity to handle the affairs of the country. If the Liberals had failed to serve you well, I should say by all means give someone else a chance; but there has not been any failure by the Liberals and it would be disastrous folly to make a change at the present time.

There is one other matter that I will refer to briefly and this is the charges of corruption which have been brought against Sir Wilfrid Laurier's government by the Conservatives. I presume the latter think that if they throw dirt enough some of it is likely to stick. Let us admit that it may occasionally happen that there is something wrong. Are you going to hold a man responsible because his bookkeeper or teamster or some other servant turns out to be not what was expected? All you can expect him to do is to correct the abuse and repair the blemish as far as possible. I do not believe that any serious charge of corruption can be established against the present government or any member of it. Let me take as a pertinent instance the charge made by Major Hodgins. He said that there was corruption in classification of work on the Grand Trunk Pacific, and a commission was appointed to investigate the evidence taken before the commission was so conclusive against the allegations that Major Hodgins, like an honorable man, withdrew all the charges he had made. This I believe to be a typical instance. I do not believe that the other charges of corruption have anything more in them than the charges of Major Hodgins.

There are many other subjects upon which I might talk to you, but I have already trespassed upon your time and there are other speakers following me. It is, however, with the greatest confidence that I leave in your hands the decision as to who shall be the Dominion member for this constituency in the next House. I feel satisfied that a very large majority will vote for Mr. Jardine. Whether you already know him personally or have only met him in the present campaign I feel sure you will agree with me that it would be very difficult to find a man of better calibre, or better fitted to be your representative in parliament and to render good service to the Dominion at large to the province and to the people of this district. (Applause.)

Mr. Deachman had a cordial reception, and dealt at length with the splendid record of the Liberal government. He wished the opposition had been represented, for it was a good thing they should meet to discuss these matters on the public platform. Mr. Deachman directed much of his time to an examination of the Columbian editorials. Ten days ago came out "Conservative campaign in full swing." That might have been the case ten days ago, but it was not the case now. In that constituency, and every other constituency they were carrying their cause in a sling badly bruised and damaged. They were going to be turned down in the coming election, and they knew it. Then again there was the old parrot cry: "It was time for a change." They had heard the statement of his friend, the straight logical record of the country's prosperity, but if that record did not compare favorably with that of the Conservatives then it might be time for a change. Balance it whatever way they liked, and consider every argument that could be adduced—there could be but one opinion. He quoted effectively James Russell Lowell on the danger of change, and passed on to show the improvement of trade conditions since the Liberals took office.

A Baseless Fabric.

When the Liberals took office the debt was 258 million dollars, and the revenue 38 millions, or if the revenue could be allocated to pay off the debt, seven years would be taken to liquidate it, while the Liberals had only increased the debt five or six millions, while the revenue had increased to over $96,000, or it would take about three years to pay off the debt. In 1896 the debt per capita of the population was $52, and it was now $30 per head, while the capacity to bear taxation was much greater than in the closing years of the Conservative rule. The speaker discussed the splendid achievements of the Liberals in the postal and agricultural departments, and their vigorous immigration policy, and concluded by declaring that on Monday the structure the Tories had endeavored to rear would fall. (Applause.) It would fall because it lacked the one thing which would maintain it—truth. It had been a campaign of slander, but once more the Liberal party, the party of progress, of aggressiveness, the party of prosperity would be returned, and Sir Wilfrid Laurier, the grand old statesman who had united the Anglo-Saxon and the French races in the country once more in office, would continue to make Canada what God intended it to be, the grandest factor in the British empire.

A vote of thanks was passed to the speakers, on the motion of W. T. Cooksley, seconded by W. Howay.
