FOUR BELIEVED LOST IN BEHRING SEA ICE

Wreckage of Small Schooner Tells of Tragedy---Boat Missing Several Weeks.

Nome, Alaska, Dec. 16.—Four lives are believed to have been lost in the wreck of the trading schooner Louise in the ice of Behring sea near Cape Prince of Wales. Remnants of the wreck were found near the cape today.

The schooner sailed from Nome several weeks ago with Captain Owens in command.

Besides Captain Owens, three other persons, were on the schooner. They were Engineer Laborde and two passengers, Fred Rau and John Kelly. Nothing has been heard of them since they left and it is almost certain that they were lost.

The condition of the wreckage shows that the schooner was crushed in the ice.

The Louise was a gasoline schooner of eight tons gross register, built in Nome six years ago. She was built for trading purposes and was considered able to cope with ice floes of the north.

CONCERT.

Orphan Band of Jolly Entertainers Coming Here on December 26.

On the night after Christmas a band of orphans from the Children's Industrial home at Des Moines, Wash., will give a performance in St. Patrick's hall here. The children who perform under the name of the "Jolly Entertainers" are the same who came here during the summer and attracted a great deal of attention with their juvenile band.

The concert on Monday night, December 26, will consist of selections by the band and songs and sketches by the members of the company. George R. Moore, the business agent for the company, was in the city yesterday and made arrangements to secure St. Patrick's hall. He stated that he tried to secure the opera house, but it was booked for that date. Mr. Moore states that every member of the children's company is a musician and a singer and the concerts they have given in other places recently have met with great appreciation and support.

Alberta Legislature Prorogues.

Edmonton, Dec. 16.—The Alberta legislature prorogued this afternoon after passing estimates totalling six million dollars.

Trailing Bandits.

Nelson, Dec. 16.—The Haney brothers, who murdered Constable Ike Decker after holding up a C. P. R. train at Ducks some time ago, are believed to be in hiding along the Crow's Nest Pass. A posse is scouting for the bandits.

PRINCESS ADELAIDE ARRIVES AT VICTORIA

Victoria, Dec. 16.—The steamer Princess Adelaide, built for the C. P. R. Victoria-Vancouver service at Glasgow, reached quarantine at midnight from the builders' yards. She is an eighteen knot vessel, 290 feet long with 118 state rooms and apartments superior to any of the C. P. R. coast steamers. Calls were made at St. Vincent, Coronel and Callao en route.

The contract has been awarded for a new Princess liner, practically a duplicate of the Princess Adelaide, to Swan, Hunter and Wightam Richardson, of Newcastle-on-Tyne, the firm which built the Princess Victoria. The new steamer, which is being built to alternate with the Princess Adelaide on the Victoria-Vancouver route, is to be ready by June next. She will be built as an oil burner.

BLIZZARD.

Four Steamers Are Wrecked Off the Massachusetts Coast.

Boston, Dec. 16.—A northwestern blizzard is sweeping the Massachusetts coast this evening, doing immense damage.

Four steamers are reported wrecked and another, in tow of a tug, is disabled.

A launch has foundered a short distance out from this city and others are reported in difficulties.

Beaten to Death.

Goderich, Ont., Dec. 16.—George Vanstone, sixty-one years of age, this evening beat his six-year-old son to death with a broomstick because the lad refused to repeat his lessons.

LITTLE HOPE OF REACHING ENTOMBED MINERS IN TIME

Ten Men in Leyden Mine Are Surrounded by Foul Air and Debris—Rescuers Make Slow Progress.

Denver, Dec. 16.—Bad air and the great quantity of debris from fallen roof and walls in the Leyden coal mine, where ten men are entombed as a result of the fire which broke out Wednesday night, checked the progress of the rescuers today and the party covered little more than 600 feet of the two and a half miles of the distance from the mouth of shaft No. 1 to the spot where the imprisoned men are supposed to be.

It is believed to be physically impossible for the rescuers to reach the men before tomorrow, if then, and slight hope is entertained that the men will be found alive.

ALL WITNESSES HEARD IN DYNAMITING PROBE

Los Angeles, Dec. 16.—Two short sessions, at which no witnesses were called, were held today by the special grand jury which for nearly seven weeks has been engaged in investigating the alleged dynamiting of the Times building. It is believed that these meetings marked the close of the lengthy inquisition, and that the jury when it meets again next Tuesday will be ready to report. Whether any indictments will accompany the report is a question, however, on which no one will now venture an opinion.

EVERYTHING IMPROVES EXCEPT THOSE HILLS

Captain of Boveric Is Pleased With Marked Change in City Since His Last Visit.

Captain Vincent Harper, in command of the steamer Boveric now loading lumber at Hastings Mill, Vancouver, was in the city this week visiting his friends here. It is three years since he has been in Brtish Columbia, and naturally he marked the great change that this period has effected. Columbia street in particular struck him as an enormous improvement on the sea of mud through which he waded on the occasion of his last visit to the city. "The only thing you have not improved on are the eternal hills," he remarked, as panted up Merivale street.

The real estate situation was the subject of some careful investigation by Captain Harper, and the prospects of the Fraser river becoming an ocean port in the near future struck him as particularly bright. As a fresh water harbor, it is unexcelled in any part of the world, is his opinion, and there are few ports which he has not visited in his wanderings in sail and steam during the last fourteen years. The matter of dredging the channel he considers a negligible quantity in view of the advantages to be secured.

The Boveric, of which Captain Harper is in command, is a seven thousand tonner of the Bank line, owned by Andrew Weir & Company, London. This line now numbers some thirty odd steamers, besides a number of sailing ships. Not so many years ago they touched only at Victoria and the sound ports, Vancouver shipments being lightered to Victoria. They carry enormous cargoes of lumber and dog salmon to the Orient and Australia, and it is safe to assume that when the ship channel is put in proper order and the wharfage facilities are to be found at New Westminster, this city will also be on the list of calls. What this will mean to the Royal City cannot readily be realized. At present there are almost always one and frequently two and three ships of this line lying at the wharves on the inlet, and the company is building several more of even greater tonnage than the ten thousand tonners Kumeric and Suveric, which are at present the biggest representatives of the line on the Pacific.

On the present trip from home ports, the Boveric had a farily good passage, although some severe weather was met with in southern latitudes.

An unusual sight was observed on the run down the east coast. When in the vicinity of the equator one morning the look-out man picked up a indistinguishable mass lying low in the water and covered with thousands of sea gulls which rose, circled round and settled on it again. The course was altered to come up with this curious spectacle when it was found that the shapeless object was a bunch of cattle, possible a hundred or more, lashed to the usual deck fittings on which they were carried across the Atlantic, and which had apparently been swept bodily overboard from some cattle boat. How long they had been in the water or how far they had drifted it was impossible to tell, but judging by the rate at which the birds above and the sharks below were gorging themselves it would not last much longer.

STREET CAR TRAFFIC TIED UP IN WINNIPEG

Rioting Starts when Company Attempts to Move Cars---Situation is Serious.

Winnipeg, Dec. 16.—The street railway strike is on. The decision was reached at a mass meeting of the men which had been in session since mid night, at 5:25 this morning, after the morning papers had gone to press As a consequence the walking public were taken completely by surprise and though they took it in good humor a good many hundreds of persons were late for their business. The weather is mild and fine. Every vehicle available appears pressed into service and taxicabs are doing a roaring trade.

A rumor is current that the company is arranging to bring in a trainload of strikebreakers from the south, but this is not generally credited.

Cause of Trouble.

The present trouble arose immediately on the dismissal by the company of four men on the grounds of their being on licensed premises in uniform. While this was not seriously denied, the men urge discrimination, the whole weight of their evidence being designed to show that the practice has been common and that these four were singled out because they were prominent in the union.

The conciliation committee under the Lemieux act after a protracted sitting failed to reach an agreement and the majority report signed by W. J. Christie, the chairman, and Captain Robinson, for the company, practically endorsing the action of the company, and the minority report, signed by Mayor Peltier, of Port Arthur, arbitrator for the men, are now in the hands of the minister of labor. Further action was expected from Ottawa, but with the present temper of both sides, a strike was inevitable.

Asks for Protection.

Manager Phillips, of the company, asked the civic authorities this morning whether police protection would be forthcoming should the company require it in the endeavor to operate their cars. Mayor Evans left last night for the coast and Controller Harvey is acting mayor. Opinion in civic circles appears to be that the demand for police protection is premature until such time as it is demonstrated that it is needed.

The streets are practically deserted and storekeepers already feel the effects of the strike, especially in view of Christmas season trade.

Rioting Starts.

Winnipeg, Dec. 16.—Rioting began late this afternoon in connection with the street car strike when a crowd of 500 men gathered at Rupert and Main streets and began to hurl missiles.

One woman was hurt by a piece of iron hurled through the car window.

Students Offer Help.

Students of St. John's, Wesley and Agricultural colleges had a meeting at noon today and offered their services to the street railway company as conductors to take the places of strikers. The offer was accepted.

CARNEGIE'S GIFTS NOW TOTAL $180,000,000

New York, Dec. 15.—Andrew Carnegie's gift of $10,000,000 for the furtherance of international peace brings the total of his benefactions to something like $180,000,000.

The endowment announced today is second in size only to three others of his—the $15,000,000 foundation for the advancement of teaching; the $16,000,000 endowment of the Carnegie Institute in Pittsburg, and the $12,000,000 fund for the establishment of the Carnegie Institute in Washington.

Mr. Carnegie's gifts to libraries in the last twenty years are estimated at $36,000,000 for the United States, and $17,000,000 abroad.

Libraries—$53,000,000.
Educational foundations — $15,000,000.
Pittsburg institute—$16,000,000.
Washington institute—$12,000,000.
Peace foundation—$10,000,000.
Scotch universities—$10,000,000.
Hero funds—$5,000,000.
Carnegie Steel company employees' endowment—$5,000,000.
Dumfermline—$5,000,000.
Polytechnic school, Pittsburg—$2,000,000.
Peace Temple at The Hague—$1,750,000.
Allied Engineers societies—$1,500,000.
Small colleges in United States—$20,000,000.
Miscellaneous in United States (estimated)—$2,500,000.
Total—$179,500,000.

Mr. Carnegie's latest endowment widens the gap between him and John D. Rockefeller, who alone rivals the retired steel maker in his public benefactions. A conservative estimate places Mr. Rockefeller's gifts to institutions at $120,000,000. All but a small part of this was for educational purposes.

WORKS HARD TO AID MAN HE HANDCUFFS

Just Another Thrilling Example of R. N. W. M. P.'s Fearless Big-Heartedness.

Edmonton, Dec. 16.—After watching the prisoner's dying son all night, and after sweating half a day over a wood pile, sawing and chopping firewood for the house, hauling oats and fodder to feed starving stock in the stables and assisting to procure food to supply his prisoner's family until further help might be rendered, Corporal Marshall of the mounted police yesterday brought in to divisional headquarters in Edmonton, T. R. McDonald, of the Calmar district, a homesteader, who is charged with obtaining under false pretenses and by means of forged notes, the sum of $220 from the Canadian Bank of Commerce.

Marshall left the barracks at Edmonton with a warrant in his pocket for the man who was charged with defrauding the bank. His orders were to bring McDonald in. How the officer carried out the mandate of the law forms one of the pathetic stories in the records of the Royal North West Mounted Police.

McDonald's homestead is situated in an isolated section several miles from the village of Calmar, Alta. The mounted officer, upon leaving the train which bore him to the village, secured a horse and started for the homesteader's shack.

On the trail, some miles out, the corporal met the man whom he sought, bound for the village. The king's warrant was read by the policeman and McDonald was placed formally under arrest. The prisoner submitted quietly, denied the crime with which he was charged, and requested that he allowed to return to his family before coming to Edmonton. His request was granted.

During the trip back to the shack he declared that he was in no position to leave his home to come to jail. He told his captor that he had a sick son, his wife was ill and that there was no food in the house or fodder in the barn.

Upon arrival at the premises, the story told by McDonald was borne out in every detail. Entering the shack, the officer found the place cold. There was no wood about and the fire in the little prairie stove was out.

In one corner of the room was a tumble-down bed. In this bed lay a slight figure and beside it sat a feeble woman, ill and trembling from sorrow and hunger.

Pneumonia, the man in the uniform learned, had laid low the boy, the eighteen-year-old son of his prisoner, over a week before. The family had no money and disease had made much headway before a doctor was secured. The mother had waited on her son with patience and maternal devotion. Her husband rendered what rough help he could. But the son's condition did not mend.

Already fagged by worry and work, the announcement from her husband that he had been arrested on a charge of obtaining money under false pretenses, which also included forgery, Mrs. McDonald was overcome.

What followed, the member of the mounted police does not say in his official report.

Corporal Marshall visited the barn. There he found a team of horses standing in bare stalls without even bedding under them. The mangers at their heads were empty, and from all appearances had been empty for days. The animals were shrunken and weak for need of food. In another depart-

OWNER SEEKS BIG SUM FOR DEATH OF CHIMPANZEE

Portland, Dec. 16.—Two hundred thousand dollars damages is asked on account of the death of a chimpanzee in a suit on file against the Northern Pacific Railway company in the circuit court today. The Oregon law allows the recovery of only $7500 for the life of a man.

The suit is being brought by Charles Judges, the owner of Charles I., educated chimpanzee, which, it is alleged, was suffocated by steam in a baggage car while en route to Portland from Seattle a few months ago.

In his complaint Judge declares that Charles was worth $15,000. He had exhibited the simian at various theatres in the United States and Canada, and alleges that he had contracts with other theatrical houses which would have netted him $750 weekly. The total sum he would have received from the contracts, Judge says, would have totalled $75,000.

Judge alleges that he warned the baggageman not to place the animal's cage near the steam radiator, but he said that his warning was disregarded and as a result the valuable monkey died.

Coronation May Be Postponed.

London, Dec. 16.—A rumor which, though officially unconfirmed, is current in circles often well informed on court matters to the effect that the coronation will be postponed. The reason assigned is the prospect that the Queen will be in an interesting condition next May.

ELECTIONS IN ENGLAND ARE PRACTICALLY OVER

Few Pollings Remain to Be Heard from—Campaign Speakers Exhausted—Balfour May Retire.

London, Dec. 16.—Only twenty-eighty pollings remain to be heard from, and of these twenty were decided today, but the result will not be known until tomorrow. Political orators on both sides are glad the strain is over, as nearly every speaker of note is exhausted after the strenuous campaign.

At the present time the government coalition holds 377 seats. The Unionists hold 265 seats, leaving the united parties with a majority of 112.

One decided effect the election will have, it is generally believed, is the retirement of Hon. A. J. Balfour as the leader of the Conservative party. E. D. Smith, of Liverpool, it is believed, will succeed him as the virtual head of the party.

GENERAL BOOTH TO UNDERGO OPERATION

London, Dec. 16.—General Booth, head of the Salvation Army, will soon undergo an operation for a cataract on his left eye. It will be recalled that although an operation for a cataract on his right eye some time ago was temporarily successful, he eventually lost his sight in that eye. The growth of a cataract on the other eye has since blinded him entirely. He has not seen for a long time the audiences he has been addressing. He is now eager to submit to another operation, believing that it will completely restore the sight of his left eye.

MANY FINE MEDALS ARE PLACED ON EXHIBITION

Trophies Won in Competitions Open to the World are Shown in City—An Enviable Record.

Two thousand dollars worth of gold, silver, bronze and copper medals are on exhibition in the board of trade office and in the window of MacKenzie's drug store.

The medals represent the position British Columbia occupies in the fruit growing world, for they were won by exhibits of fruit in England, Canada and the United States.

There are sixty-three medals altogether, some won by district exhibits at different international exhibitions and many of them won at provincial and individual exhibits. The Royal Horticultural society of London, England, has provided some of the best of the medals and there are also trophies from most of the great British exhibitions. Those won at last year's fruit show at Spokane are very fine, and this exhibit also provides a case of badges representing prizes in different classes of fruit.

The exhibit consists of eight cases of medals and one of these, containing the finest of the medals, is on exhibition in the window of MacKenzie's drug store. The medals have been sent here by the deputy commissioner of agriculture of the province and are a revelation as to what the province has been accomplishing in fruit growing in recent years.

They were all won at "open to the world" exhibitions held between the years 1905 and 1910. The medals are being guarded by the police in the city hall and will be shipped back to Victoria in the course of a few weeks.

Toronto, Dec. 16.—Following the disappearance of Edward Elmer McIntosh, who was wanted on a theft charge a picture was put in circulation by the authorities who believed it to be a photo of the man wanted.

It has now transpired that the picture was really that of a brother of the missing man, who is a commercial traveller. This picture was sent all over the country, and, acting on the instructions of the man who claims the picture is his, notices have been served on the Mail and Empire, Globe, World, Star, News and Telegram, all of Toronto, while a writ will be served on the Pinkerton National Detective agency of Toronto branch.

The man wanted was suspected of having stolen $20,000 worth of Traders bank notes, while they were in transit from Ottawa to Toronto.

The complainant in the present case is John A. McIntosh, who resides in Hamilton.

Stop Running at Night.

Winnipeg, Dec. 17.—At seven o'clock last night the Winnipeg Street railway called in all the cars which had been running half hourly on Main street. The city was quiet during the evening, the absence of the cars preventing an excuse for a demonstration.

A big force of strikebreakers is expected from the east this morning. The conflict between the company and the men is expected to be short and sharp.

WRECKED OLYMPIA BATTERED TO PIECES

Steamer Wrecked off Bligh Island is Breaking Up---Crew Sails for Seattle.

Valdez, Alaska, Dec. 16—The wrecked steamship Olympia, which went on the Bligh Island reef Saturday night, is rapidly being demolished by the roll of the sea. The deck is awash and the starboard rail is under water at high tide.

The third mate and the three men of the crew who have been standing by the Olympia, were brought here last night. Captain J. T. Daniels made a trip to Bligh Island today to take a last look at his lost vessel.

The officers and crew, who have been cared for in Valdez since landing from the wreck, sailed for Seattle on the steamer Alameda tonight.

ON THE QUIET.

Keep It Dark—Citizens' League Meets—Guess What Happened.

A meeting of the Citizens' league is believed to have been held somewhere in the city last night, when, presumably, civic conditions as they are and as they ought to be, were discussed. It is surmised the recent Scott act votes in Chilliwack and Prince Rupert were referred to, and, by inference, adversely commented on. It is rumored that the advisability of supporting certain candidates for aldermen at the forthcoming election came up for discussion, but that a definite understanding was reached is open to question.

The meetings of the league are not open to the press, but a committee of two has been named to secure desired publicity. Unfortunately for the press and the public, one of the committee men is very busy and the other has very little time at his disposal, hence the above negative report.

Berne, Switzerland, Dec. 15.— The federal assembly, in a joint session of the national and state councils, today elected Marc-Emile Ruchet president of the Swiss Confederation for 1911. Louis Ferrer was chosen vice-president of the federal council.

M. Ruchet is now vice-president of the federal council and chief of the department of the interior. M. Ferrer occupied the presidency in 1906. The retiring president is Robert Contess.

CENTRAL SCHOOL PUPILS END TERM WITH TABLEAU

The pupils of the entrance class of Central school gave an entertainment in the school last evening in celebration of the closing of the school for the Christmas vacation. It was intended to make this a part of the closing exercises held on Thursday, but it was found impossible on account of the number of other exercises on that occasion. Only the members of the school board and parents and friends of the pupils were invited to attend last night.

The feature of the evening was a tableau entitled "Advertising for a Companion," which dealt with the adventures and complications which followed the attempts of Miss Graham to secure this harmless necessary adjunct. The leading part was taken by Miss Turnbull, and the other actors were Miss Diamond (the Irish Girl), Miss Roy (Margaret), and Miss Walker (the Dutch Girl). The playlet received unstinted laughter and applause from an appreciative audience.

In addition to this chef d'oeuvre, a musical program of some merit was gone through. Miss Helen Walker and others sang and the pupils' choir rendered a number of concerted pieces.

During the evening, Miss Clark, principal of the girls' school, was presented with a gold mounted umbrella, a token of the esteem in which she is held by her pupils.

BURNED TIMBER BEING SCATTERED IN MARKET

Government Trying to Distribute It in Such Manner That No District Will Be Overstocked.

Washington, D. C., Dec. 16.—In selling the timber burned during the disastrous forest fires of last August, the government is trying so to distribute the wood that it will not overstock any of the markets. Many companies which are buying this timber are "putting it in the lake," said Associate Forester Potter today. This, he explaned, is a scientific term used by lumbermen applying to the practice of storing timber in lakes or ponds until ready for use.

By this treatment of the lumber, even though it may be burned, according to lumber experts in the forest service, most of it will keep for approximately twenty years. Some species, however, they declare, will become waterlogged within a short period. This timber is laid around the water edges where it will be the first used.

In the Clearwater district, where the wood is particularly adapted to the making of wood pulp, the forest service is attempting to have some of the pulp-making concerns enter the forests and build their plants on the ground for the purpose of using up the burned timber. There is enough of this timber, it is said, with the reduced price at which it is sold, to compensate the companies for building plants in the forest.

Much of the timber in the Missoula district, according to Mr. Potter, is small, and readily can be used in the manufacture of railroad ties, and if given some preservative treatment will last many years. Efforts are being made to have the railroads use this timber.

A Free Gift

For Christmas Week of Fine Art Almanacs at

THE OLD COUNTRY BOOT STORE

To every purchaser of goods to the value of $1.00 (One Dollar) and upwards we shall give away any one of the following specimens of fine art printing. Ten different subjects to choose from.

The following description will give but a faint conception of the pictures:

No. 1.—Entitled "Dreams"—Represents a fair lady, young and beautiful. The pleased expression on her face denoting that her "Day Dreams" are of the usual and beauty.

No. 2.—Is entitled "The Return of the Sword"—There is a depth of pathos in this picture that words cannot describe. The grief stricken is being handed her soldier husband's sword, slain fighting his country's battles.

No. 3.—"You Can Trust Me"—a steel engraving after the painting by A. J. Elsley. The almost human expression of trust yet solicitude in the collie dog as the child grasps its young ones is vividly portrayed—this will be a favorite.

No. 4.—"United We Stand"—A well known picture of three female beauties representing the Rose, Thistle and Shamrock.

No. 5.—"Happy Childhood"—Boys playing marbles, this is a characteristic scene and will prove to be a picture of much interest to boys, old and young.

No. 6.—"The Joy of Life"—From a photo reproduced in colors depicting how the joyous hours are spent by the seashore in the good old summer time.

No. 7.—"A Photo of His Late Majesty, King Edward"—Many will desire to have this as a memorial of the "Peaceful King."

No. 8.—"On The Clyde."—From the painting by Sam Bough, a bit of lovely Scottish scenery.

No. 9.—"Holyrood Palace"—A very fine photogravure of Scotland's famous Royal palace with its rugged scenery in the background.

No. 10.—"Cnanging Guard"—A scene of unending interest to old and young showing the famous Guards of our King being changed at the Royal residence, Whitehall.

These pictures are genuine specimens of the finest color printing the engravings are scarcely distinguishable from genuine prints. We have imported them at considerable expense, but that no one may be disappointed in obtaining one the only restriction is they be purchasing goods, value $1.00 and upwards.

"Quality always comes first and we sell for cash."

We have also put on a SPECIAL XMAS SALE

As a further inducement at this festive season, when gift giving makes such deep inroads on our pocket book, we have made very considerable reductions on our usual low prices, so that a little may go a long way.

To particularize will not give you a fair idea of what we are offering, we would ask you to call and see for yourself. Our stock is replete and complete, but is being rapidly depleted, so call soon as possible and have your pick of the best at

HATS AND HEADGEAR.

So far as we are aware the history of the hat has never been written. But the headgear of man has always played an important part in the social and political life of the world. Whether it is the richly gemmed crown of the monarch or prince, the jewelled turban of a Rajah, the plumed headdress of an Indian chief, the peculiar head covering of the Jewish rabbi, or the ordinary hat of the ordinary person, each and all have their particular import of meaning. And it has been so through the centuries and probably will be for all time to come. The ordinary every day hat has always enjoyed its own peculiar significance. In the past it has been the stamp of individuality and the distinguisher of persons.

The king is the one who remains covered whilst his subjects or attendants stand bareheaded. This is an ancient indication of sovereign superiority dating back to far off times. A well known old English ballad, "King James and the Tinker," is based on this circumstance. This recounts how a tinker was joined in a flagon of brown ale by a huntsman who came to the inn—to this day known as The King and Tinker—and they fell to talking of the king, whom the tinker dearly wished to see. The huntsman agreed to mount the tinker behind him and take him to the king, and when they reached the followers of the royal hunt, all uncovered except the horseman behind whom the tinker was mounted; then it was that the latter discovered, somewhat to his concern, that his fellow toper was the king himself. One or two incidents somewhat similar to this occurred to the late King Edward, much to the delight of that jovial and happy monarch. This kingly privilege was derogated in Tudor times to one noble family, whose descendants continue to exercise the right to remain covered in the presence of the sovereign.

Again the hat, or rather cap, occupied a particular position in old time heraldry. The ancient insignia of the cap of maintenance, for instance, was symbolic of power derived by the bearer from the sovereign. This serves as a reminder that the word hat is of comparatively modern origin, and that originally the headcovering was always known as a cap, which word is derived naturally from the Latin, caput, a head. There is also the heraldic insignia of the bishop's mitre and the red hat of the cardinal.

But this is a digression. Our purpose is to remark upon the wonderful variety in color and shape of the modern hat and the changes that have come about in the fashion of headgear. It will easily be within the memory of middle aged persons that the silk hat, or "topper" as it was familiarly styled, was regarded as a sign of superiority, and was an indispensable adjunct to the dress of a gentleman throughout the greater part of Europe. But today one may perambulate the streets of London, Paris, or Berlin and easily count the "toppers" that are to be seen. Even the English bank clerk, who less than ten years ago would have been instantly dismissed if he had entered the portal of the establishment to which he was attached in anything but a silk hat, nowadays turns up, in a bowler or soft felt, though the sporty cap is tabooed.

The change has been gradual, but steady. It probably dates from the accession of Edward VII., who frequently discarded the silk hat in favor of the soft felt Tyrolese style. This comfortable head covering is now almost universally worn. Its form, shape and color are as diverse as the counetnance of the human kind. The brim may be large or small, flat or curled, bent up or bent down; the material may be of beaver finish, rough, glossy or smooth; and the color—well anything but a vivid scarlet or pure white.

There is indeed no longer any fixity of fashion about the hat of man; it is as freakish and changeable as an April sky. Nor is there longer any atmosphere of significance about the hat. A smart man may wear a smart hat and a sloven may don a shabby one, but this is all there is to it. It might be said that in the matter of hats mankind has become communised and the distinctive merit of headgear has fallen into dissuetude. In this respect it may be regarded as indicative of the levelling tendency in human affairs generally.

MARKET REPORT

The most interesting feature of yesterday's market was the fact that eggs, which have been steadily climbing for the past week, dropped about five cents below last week's figures. For the rest, prices were much the same as last market, and supply and demand balanced fairly well.

Rather more chickens were brought in than the demand justified, and consequently the buying was slow, a number being unsold. Other kinds of fowl were in good request, and turkeys were bought readily at a fairly high price. Fresh fish and game were not brought forward in sufficient quantities to satisfy all the would-be buyers.

Beef, also, was not plentiful, and sold out. Lamb and mutton on the other hand were in excess of the demand, and a slight fall in price was experienced in some cases. Veal and pork maintained their position on the rate scale, and the demand was brisk.

Detailed average prices are as under:

Beef, hindquarters, per lb.	8c to 9c
Beef, forequarters, per lb.	6c to 7c
Lamb, per lb.	14c
Mutton, per lb.	12c to 13c
Veal, large, per lb.	8c to 9c
Veal, medium, per lb.	11½c to 12½c
Pork, per lb.	12½c
Eggs, wholesale, per dozen	55c
Eggs, retail, per dozen	65c
Butter, per lb.	35c to 40c
Fowl, per dozen	$7 to $8
Chickens, per dozen	$5.50 to $7.50
Broilers, per dozen	$4.50 to $5
Ducks, per dozen	$15 to $18
Geese, each	$1.50
Apples, per box	75c to $1.25
Pears, per crate	75c
Potatoes, per ton	$27 to $30

SPORTING NEWS

POSSIBLE TO GUESS RESULT OF TODAY'S GAMES.

Soccer Matches to Be Played at Moody Square This Afternoon—Many New Men to Be Tried.

Some of the best sport that has been provided this winter is expected on Moody square this afternoon when the city league will be inaugurated by the playing of two games, the first between the Car shops and the High school and the last between the Rangers and Aston Villa.

The formation of the city league created a lot of interest in soccer circles and there will be a great crowd of fans at the park today to watch and criticize the performances of the different teams.

There are so many new players on the teams that any conjecture as to the result of the games this afternoon would be out of place, but those who know say that the Rangers and Aston Villa are exceptionally well matched.

As the interest shown in today's games will probably determine to a great extent the support given in the entire series, every man interested in the game should turn out to encourage the boys. The start of the city league marks the culmination of a great advance in soccer in Westminster.

The time—1:45 and 3:15.

The place—Moody square.

The teams—1, Car shops and High school; 2, Aston Villa and Rangers.

NOBODY CARES.

Lightweight Wrestling "Championship" Match Abandoned.

The lightweight wrestling championship of Canada is still undecided and Peter Bazukos and Young Wall are still in ignorance as to which is the better man. When the time for the wrestling bout last night had arrived, both Bazukos and the other man were on the scene, but the audience considered a very necessary part of such a show, was conspicuous by its absence.

The sporting side of Westminster society did not seem to be impressed with the genuineness of last night's proposed performance and they showed their lack of appreciation by maintaining a discreet absence from the opera house.

It is probable that the bout will be pulled off in some other place, as the encouragement received here last night was sufficient to put the jinks on the wrestling game here for some time to come.

The bank clerks have at last signified their definite intention of not entering a team in the city soccer league. In the light of this fact the Sapperton team, which organized a few nights ago, will be given the bank clerks' dates and the schedule will go ahead as was at first arranged.

BOWLING

The Wallflowers took three straight games from the Roses last night and thus landed at the top of the league. The match was the best bowled yet in the house league, the winners breaking the record for both the high game and the high total for three games.

The following is the score:

PITCHERS MAY NOT BAT.

Suggestion That Regular Batsmen Hit for Twirlers.

Annual suggestions to the Baseball Rules Committee are in order, and they are more numerous than usual this time. At least one, however, is perhaps worthy of consideration, and it is possible the rule makers may consider it when they soon get together. This suggestion provides for the elimination of the pitcher from the batting order and the substitution of a regular batsman for him. It is pointed out with emphasis that usually the pitchers is so much deadwood with the stick; that because of his exertions in the box he is not expected to hit the ball with any degree of success, while in running the bases he is seldom known to extend himself.

"It spoils baseball to see a pitcher come to the bat in a tight pinch when it's a foregone conclusion that he cannot hit the ball outside of the diamond," says an advocate of this suggestion. "Under the present rules he's got to make a fizzle or be taken out to allow somebody else to bat for him. In the latter case sometimes an effective pitcher is succeeded by an ineffective one who is hit hard, and the game is lost.

"If the Rules Committee will eliminate the pitcher from the batting order and put in an extra hitter in his place, the game will be improved beyond a quetsion of doubt. Such a rule would enable a pitcher to have a good rest between innings instead of using up his energy in a fruitless attempt to hit the ball or run around the bases. The pinch hitter is an everyday feature in modern baseball and in a majority of cases he goes to bat for the pitcher, so why not cut the pitcher out of the hitting and out of the game and thereby strengthen the team where it is most needed?"

Another suggestion is the reduction of the number of called balls entitling a batsman to first base from four to three. This change is advocated by some of the most practical men in baseball. It is maintained that the pitchers are slowly but surely getting an iron grip on the batsmen so that hitting and run-making are falling off to a minimum. The foul strike rule has done all this, it is asserted, and the raised box is another important factor in the pitcher's effectiveness.

Something must be done, therefore, to lessen the power of the pitcher, it is argued, and a reduction of the called balls to three may do it. With one less ball to waste, it is asserted that the pitcher must put the ball over the plate more frequently, and in that way he will run the risk of being met with more successful results.

The raised box, which, according to rule 9, section 2, must not be more than fifteen inches higher than the ball lines on the home plate, is another reason given for the wonderful effectiveness of the pitchers in both major and minor leagues. It enables pitchers to deliver the ball in such a manner the batsmen must gauge it at an angle.

If the box should be made level with the rest of the diamond, it is argued that the pitchers would not have the batsmen so completely at their mercy as they did last season. Advocates of this change insist that baseball fans want more batting and that the game under such conditions could be made far more exciting.

REPORTER DESCRIBES RIDE HE TOOK IN AIRSHIP

There are plenty of reporters at the aviation meets, but as their observations are usually made from terra firma, we have so far had very few accounts of how it really feels to fly. The man who runs the machine has other things to think about, and is not usually a graphic writer. A corresdent of the London Times, however, recently took an air trip, being invited to go because he weighed 196 pounds. The aviators were having a weight-carrying contest. The wind was blowing about twenty miles an hour, and the rest of the competitors declined to take the risk, so the aviator and the reporter had a "walk over," but not as tame as most victories of that kind. We read:

"The worst part of such a journey for the novice is the waiting until everything is ready for the start. The sensation of anticipation is not unlike the feeling that one has when one is waiting for a wounded boar to break cover from a corner into which he is driven. But once the propeller starts to whirl behind you all other thoughts beyond exhilaration of rapid motion vanish. You have gripped the struts thinking that you will have to hold on like grim death, but you immediately find that this is not necessary. The machine moves along the ground at an extraordinary pace, and I only knew that it was actually flying when I saw the elevating plane change from the horizontal. Of the motion of flight it is difficult to speak clearly. Even in the high wind that Mr. Grace was now climbing, it was no more than the sensation of a beautifully balanced motor car. The earth—in this case the sward of the Lanark race course—seemed to be racing away from under us, and in a flash we were level with the first pylon and the judge's box.

"The machine was now up to 150 feet, and I became engrossed in Mr. Grace's method in flying. It seemed to me that his attention was glued to his elevating plane, with just momentary glances out of his eye to judge the distance by which he had to shun each pylon in its turn. We were now crossing fields and water. I could observe the gates, the wire fences, and a man bathing in the water. Then we were round into the wind. Our place immediately slackened, and Mr. Grace was working to keep his machine in the air. As we crossed a road we were going so slowly that I could observe the direction of the hoof marks of a horse that had recently passed. Here all observation ceased, as Mr. Grace was now battling with the wind. We had only 500 yards to traverse to cross the winning line, but the dead weight against the wind was bringing the machine down. Then there came a gust heavier than them all. It took the machine just up the requisite amount to cross the line, and we came gently to earth. It had only been a four minutes ride, but it was certainly the most delightful ride that I had ever experienced. The only recolletcion that I have that will describe the general sensation is that of exquisite motion."

Works Hard to Aid Man He Handcuffs

ment of the barn were several head of cattle. These animals had been allowed to pick what sustenance they could about the place. But they had fared badly, and to use the words of one who saw them, "You'd have to tie knots in the critters' tails to keep 'em from slipping through a fence."

Corporal Marshall left his prisoner in the house with his wife and immediately scouted the neighborhood for firewood. Fuel was brought to the house by the officer and a fire was lighted. The prisoner and he then went to the village and secured enough food to last the stricken household for four days. Then a doctor was summoned from Leduc.

Attention was then turned to the stables. Oats and fodder were hauled to the place by the mounted policeman and his prisoner—a sufficient stock for weeks.

McDonald told the man who had him under arrest that he and his wife had not slept for an hour at a time since the boy was taken down. So Corporal Marshall turned in to watch the lad while the man and his wife sought repose.

Dr. Wood, of Leduc, arrived in time, and administered to the patient. He declared the case a bad one and said the boy might not recover.

McDonald and his wife slept, and all Saturday night, the mounted policeman watched over the sick bed, giving the medicine at the necessary intervals and keeping the fire up.

Yesterday morning he quit his lonely vigil and rousing the sleeping mother and father, brought the latter away.

Marshall reported at the barracks with his prisoner at noon yesterday.

Paris, Dec. 16.—An extraordinary story is related by a special correspondent of the Journal in Eastern Morocco relative to the death of a soldier in the Foreign Legion named Weisrock.

On June 22 the Third Mounted company of the First regiment of the Foreign Legion, left Forthussa for Taouri. In accordance with the regulations there was one mule for two men, who walked and rode alternate stages at a pace of about three miles an hour.

On the third day of the column's march, under a torrid sun, a new recruit named Weisrock—a young Alsation, whose father distinguished himself under the French flag in 1870—refilled his water bottle during a halt. Lieut. Brillat-Savarin, who commanded the company, gave orders that water was not to be taken from the wells and streams, doubtless for fear that they were poisoned or dangerous to health.

Weisrock's disobedience was detected, and he was ordered to walk the next stage instead of riding. Being new to the service Weisrock felt his punishment grievously, for his feet were very bad and he found it impossible to keep up with the column.

For lagging behind he was ordered by a sergeant to march yet another stage, making three in succession. Out of pity his comrade offered to let him ride, but the offer was overheard, and Weisrock was told that he must walk. Seeing the man's plight, however, a corporal told him to hold to the tail of his companion's horse. This act of kindness did not meet with the approval of the lieutenant, and, calling Weisrock a foul name, he ordered him to walk alone. The man obeyed, and staggered n for some distance, but he soon collapsed.

When his absence was noticed the lieutenant ordered a corporal to go back and find Weisrock and take away his rifle. This was done, and nothing has been seen or heard of the legionary since. His comrades made inquries, and learned from other soldiers who had examined the spot where Weisrock had fallen that they had found bones to which fragments of flesh were still clinging.

The Journal correspondent, who knows the country well, concludes that the unfortunate legionary was attacked by hyenas, and jackals and, in his feeble state, without a weapon to defend himself, was an easy prey.

ATE WITH BULLET IN BRAIN.

Extraordinary Fortitude of a Suicide in Paris Restaurant.

Paris, Dec. 16.—A man named Bleriot has been arrested in a restaurant here for having supped without possessing the money to pay his bill.

He was taken to the police station, and while he was being searched one of the policemen noticed that he had a wound in his temple. Bleriot said that he had fallen, and he refused to be taken to a hospital. The police, however, put him on a stretcher and took him to the Lariboisiere hospital.

The doctor, who examined him was amazed. "This man has a bullet in his head," he said. Bleriot then confessed that he had attempted to take his life before going out to supper, but as he still remained alive, and was also hungry, he thought that he had merely grazed his temple. Half an hour later the man became delirious, and he died in the course of the night.

But he had walked about, had supper, been arrested, and lived for four hours with a bullet in his brain.

FRENCH DOCTOR DECLARES MODERN LIFE IS TOO EASY

Savant Declares That Humanity Generally Is Gradually Losing Its Powers of Resistance.

Paris, Dec. 16.—A grave warning is uttered by Dr. Toulouse against the excessive comfort of modern life. The popularity of lifts, tramcars, omnibuses, tubes and motor cars is a serious danger. Those who are not obliged to do manual labor are fast depriving themselves of the necessary corrective.

The middle-class man sleeps in a room heated by hot air, and becomes vulnerable to the slightest change of temperature. The upper-class woman—at her ease in a luxurious motar car—no longer knows what walking is. In the big shops there are lifts and moving stairways to spare her the effort of climbing from one floor to the next; friends who have not a lift are struck off her visiting list.

Even the working classes, seduced by the comparative cheapness of fares and the rapidity of modern means of communication, are abandoning the morning and evening walk between their homes and their business. The result, says the doctor, will be a generation suffering from diseases of the heart and the lungs.

Then, again, if carefully sterilized milk preserves the young from infantile diseases, on the other hand it leaves them more than ever vulnerable to the germs of infection. Humanity is being spoilt, and in the process it is losing its capacity of resistance.

This applies to character as well as to physique. Modern man, watched over and taken care of by the police, loses the ability to struggle for himself. Initiative and personal activity disappear as men become satisfied with the routine of an office, with regular promotion and security of tenure.

Some of the doctor's suggestions for remedying this state of things are, perhaps, worthy of consideration. He advised Parisians not to make use of underground street crossings unless they are old and feeble, but to face bravely the perils of dodging the traffic, an exercise which presents endless opportunities for the display of coolness, courage and ready decision.

"Again," says Dr. Toulouse, "by all means let lifts be constructed, but label them: 'Intended, for preference, for the use of old ladies and the feeble.' Self-respect will do the rest."

WOMAN'S WORK DAY.

Passage of an Eight-hour Law Urged in Washington State.

Spokane, Dec. 15.—A state law providing that no employer shall require a woman to work more than eight hours a day or six days a week, is recommended in the report of Mrs. Blanche Mason, deputy state labor commissioner. She also recommends the passage of laws raising the compulsory education age limit to sixteen years; forbidding the employment of boys under nineteen years of age as messengers, and a statute regulating the employment of newsboys. She also desires the legislature of Washington to urge upon congress the establishment of a bureau of all questions concerning the morals of children.

Abolishing Collection Plate.

A revolution of church finances is presaged by the abolition of the collection plate by all the Methodist churches in Cook county, Illinois. Methodist churches have never had the pew-renting system, and the collection plate method of gathering revenue has seemed to be a necessary part of Methodist worship. It is highly significant that it is among churches of this denomination that the initial step has been taken which may eventually supersede the time-honored collection plate by a more business-like system. Churches cannot too soon correct their lack of financial system, with its dependence upon chance contributions, social, bazaars, etc. In their financial department, churches should be as well organized as any business enterprise. The deficit which most of them are accustomed to face at the end of every year is not creditable to the cause of religion.—Leslie's.

BRITISH WARSHIPS SCENE OF TROUBLE

Sailors Were Discontented and Expressed Annoyance —Punishments Meted Out

London, Dec. 16.—Serious discontent and open disaffection has prevailed on board the battleship Mars, at Devonport, since she returned from Bantry Bay, caused by the withholding of customary leave granted when warships are in harbor.

When the petty officers who wished to go on leave fell in on the quarterdeck, in accordance with routine, about fifty of the men fell in. A boat was brought alongside the gangway for the P. O.'s, and the men were ordered off. Instead of obeying, however, they congregated outside the commander's cabin—which is on the upper deck—booing and jeering at that officer. It is stated, also, that one man threw a potato at the officer of the watch.

The result of this behavior was that the petty officers were ordered to return on board, and they were informed that no leave would be given. Sentries were placed all over the ship, and the articles of war were read twice. The men were told that the canteen would be closed, the reading room dismantled, and all smoking stopped if there was more noise than is usual on Sundays.

A number of petty officers have been disrated, and ten of the men have been sent to the Detention barracks at the depot, or placed in the ship's cells.
