Y.M.C.A. PROJECT STRONGLY ENDORSED

H. Gilley Promises $1000 at Enthusiastic Meeting — Strong Committee Formed

"I have given up all other meetings which will conflict with the formation of a Y. M. C. A., and I will camp on the trail of the scheme until I see that it will go through or be dropped."—Rev. J. S. Henderson.

If last night's meeting is any indication of the general feeilng of the citizens on the Y. M. C. A. project, the near future looks rosy for a branch of that organization in New Westminster. The council chamber of the city hall was more than half full of enthusiastic supporters of the movement, and a committee was appointed which will look over the ground and see what can be done towards an immediate start with the building of a Y. M. C. A.

Develop the Boy.

The Rev. J. S. Henderson, who called the meeting, occupied the chair and made a strong speech at the opening of the meeting. He said that physical development was as necessary or more necessary than mental development. He was struck with the estimates of the school board which were made public the other day and which provide over $150,000 for education but nothing for physical training. "If you dwarf your boy you can not develop the man. You can not have a healthy mind unless you have a healthy body," were some of the statements of the chairman. He remarked that in most of the city schools on the other side of the line a physical instructor was provded for all the playgrounds, and the physical training of the boys and girls was directed in the right channels.

Favor Y. M. C. A.

Mr. Henderson proposed two schemes to the meeting, one the establishment of a Westminster athletic club and one the establishment of a branch of the Y. M. C. A. The former proposition did not seem to meet with the favor of the meeting, and only the latter was discussed at length.

Rev. Lennie, who acted as secretary of the meeting, said that he was glad to see so many young men in the hall, but regretted that more of the prominent citizens were not present. In reply to this W. R. Gilley said that though many of the older men of the city were not preesnt he thought that the meeting could be assured of the hearty financial backing of the absentees. He thought that meetings should be held every week, at least until the scheme was well under way.

Asked as to the cost of the proposed building, Mr. Henderson said that it was the intention to try and erect a $25,000 or $30,000 building at present. What was wanted immediately was the gymnasium and reading room, and the rest could be completed when convenient.

Increases His Donation.

Herbert Gilley here announced that he had promised to give $200 the last time the scheme was broached, but he was prepared to give five times that amount now. A site on Royal avenue has already been promised by T. J. Trapp.

The chairman announced that if it were decided to form a Y. M. C. A., the central organization of that body would send a man here to boost the scheme along and camp right on the ground until it was well under way. It was then decided that the meeting go on record as favoring the formation of a Y. M. C. A., and the following committee were appointed to attend to the preliminary details:

Chairman, Rev. J. S. Henderson; committee: Messrs. T. J. Trapp, Walter Gilley, H. H. McKenzie, J. Scott, Alexander Turnbull and F. O. Canfield.

The committee will report at a public meeting caled for next Thursday night at the city hall.

FACE POWDER NATURAL, DECLARES PROFESSOR

Chicago, Feb. 3.—American women are only following a common psychological phenomenon when they use face powder, according to statements made by Professor U. G. Weatherly, of Indiana university, in an article on "Race and Marriage," in the current number of the American Journal of Sociology, issued yesterday from the University of Chicago press. Professor Weatherly declares the women are actuated by the same motives as are savages who paint their skin black.

"Man's ideas of beauty usually are found in the best type of what they themselves are and what they find most useful," he said. "For that reason traits which especially characterize a group are often artificially exaggerated for purposes of ornament. Dark races blacken the skin, tall races increase the stature by special footwear, flat-nose people further flatten the nose, while women use face powder."

Coming to Vancouver.

Winnipeg, Feb. .3—Frank Cassidy, one of the best known of young curlers, and a famous skip who has won many prizes at the roaring game, has decided to take up his residence in Vancouver and will leave for that city in March.

MAN'S DEATH WOULD FREE CITY OF DEBT

Original Scheme Suggested to Wipe Out Indebtedness of Bridgeport.

Bridgeport, Conn., Feb. 3.—Insurance on his life for between $2,000,000 and $3,000,000, the city to pay the premiums and receive the benefits upon the policies at his death, is the novel scheme for paying the city debt presented by David S. Beach to the Bridgeport council.

He stipulates in return that the city erect to his memory a monument with a suitable inscription acclaiming him the originator of municipal life insurance.

JUMP COAL CLAIMS.

Cassiar Co's Holdings Invaded—Case Referred to Premier.

Forty-two coal claims in the Telkwa and Burkley valley owned by the Cassiar Coal company, an eastern corporation, of which Samuel Barker, M. P., Hamilton, Ontario, is a prominent official, have been "jumped' 'for alleged non-compliance with the mining regulations. It is alleged that while the company paid the annual licence of $100 per claim every year continuous development was not prosecuted as required by law. A big fight is pending, and the matter has been referred by the Hazelton mining recorder to Premier McBride as minister of mines.

Locations were made about five years ago. The company applied for crown grants a few months ago. The property is very valuable as the area embraces valuable lands in the Bulkley valley at the junction of the Bulkley and Telkwa rivers, and also comprised several prospective townsites.

DEACONESS COMES TO WORK IN METHODIST CIRCLES

Young Woman Trained in Church Duties Will Assist Pastor in His Work.

A graduate of the Methodist Deaconess and Training School of Toronto, will arrive here on Saturday to commence her duties as deaconness of Queen's Avenue Methodist church, where she will work under the direction of Rev. C. W. Brown.

This is a new departure in church work in this city, and it is only recently that deaconesses have been at work in Vancouver, the only other city in the province where these pastor's assistants labor. The growth of Westminster, and the consequent enlargement of the spehre of usefulness of the local Methodist churches, has made the securing of the services of a deaconess advisable, there being many matters to which a lady like Miss Henderson can attend better than the pastor. Sunday-school and Epworth league work, visiting the sick, both at home and in the hospitals, the welcoming of strangers and the routine work of the several women's societies connected with the Quen's avenue church will all fall to the deaconess' lot, and it is expected she will have a busy time here.

Miss Henderson comes here from Regina, where she had been staying with her parents for some time. While on duty she will wear a dark blue cravenette uniform and a becoming little bonnet with white strings. These are distinctive and a protection, as the work of a deaconess often takes her out late at night to visit the sick or dying, and even the most reckless night prowler has long since learned to respect a woman clothed in a garb of charity.

No vow of perpetual service is exacted from any deaconess, and she is at liberty to relinquish her position at any time, upon giving three months notice.

For French Sufferers.

Ottawa, Feb. 3.—Hon. W. S. Fielding brought down in the house this afternoon an estimate of $50,000, to aid the sufferers by the recnet floods in France. The money will be voted at the earliest opportunity.

Something New in Suicide.

San Francisco, Feb. 3.—With his head thrust into the envelope of a balloon, into which a stream of illuminating gas was pouring, C. A. Farrar, an aeronaut, aged 30 years, was found dead on the roof of the house where he lodged. It is thought ill health caused him to commit suicide.

WHOLESALE LOOTING OF FUNDS UNCHECKED FOR MANY YEARS

Big Four Railways Corporation Fleeced of $643,000, Each Succeeding Treasurer Diving Deeper Into Cash Drawer--What Became of the Money Is a Poser.

Cincinnati, O., Feb. 3.—A chain of embezzlements, involving three men extending over many years and finally culminating in the almost wholesale looting of the Big Four Railway treasury, was the story told by Charles L. Warriner, defaulting local treasurer of the road in his testimony today in the trial of Mrs. Jeannette Steward Ford for blackmail. Warriner represented himself as a man pouring out gold with both hands and in ever-increasing amounts to keep sealed the mouth of the woman who through her infatuation for one of the accused embezzlers, F. S. Cooke, had learned the secret.

Names Third Thief.

Frank Comstock, Warriner's predecessor as local treasurer, was declared to be the third man. Calmly and in unruffled tones, Warriner told his incredible story. It was his fourth and last day on the witness stand. Only twice during that time did the man allow his composure to desert him, and then only for a moment.

According to the witness, when he assumed office as local tresurer in 1902 he learned that Cooke was short in his accounts $24,000. He learned also that his predecessor, Comstock, was short $10,500. He himself was a defaulter, and to prevent his crime from being discovered he engaged to conceal the thefts of the two former officials.

Where is the Money?

In the story of the gigantic theft there is one question which has never been definitely answered, and the attorneys for the defence today made another futile effort to obtain a solution.

"What became of the $643,000 which Warriner has confessed to having stolen?" The witness declared that he had paid approximately $168,000 in blackmail and that $32,000 had been stolen by others than himself. The remainder of $442,000 is said by him to have been lost in speculation.

He Can Not Remember.

Although he knew exactly the amount embezzled and the approximate amount of "hush money" paid, to all questions as to his investments he replied that he could not remember how much money he had put into any particular enterprise. He reiterated monotonously that he "could not recollect" until his questioners became discouraged and abandoned all efforts.

A lurid light was thrown on the strange tale when the letters of Cooke to Mrs. Ford were read to the court. In the letters Cooke wrote that "O. H." was threatening to expose him if he did not abandon Mrs. Ford. Warriner stated that O. H. stood for "Old Hag," and was the name Cooke used for his wife in his communications to Mrs. Ford.

After Big Money.

In another letter Cooke advised Mrs. Ford to have nothing to do with other men "unless there is big money in it." The judge would only permit extracts of the letters to be read on account of the expressions with which they abounded.

During the reading of the letters Mrs. Ford endeavored to conceal her face and wept bitterly. When, however, her attorney began to question Warriner as to the extent of her intimacy with him she raised her head and gazing at the witness slightly smiled.

When Warriner was asked if his attentions to Mrs. Ford had been more than friendly he laughed heartily and exclaimed: "That is absurd."

Startling Developments.

One of the most startling developments in the case came at the afternoon session of the court, when Warriner admitted that he had handled funds placed with him for the payment of rebates: that he paid out comparatively large sums in rebates and that the simple auditing of his accounts at any tim ewould have disclosed his shortage.

Let the Auditor Explain.

After testifying that Auditor P. A. Hewitt had checked over his accounts at any time would have disclosed his shortage. Hewitt had never discovered his shortage.

"That's for Hewitt to explain," was the complacent answer of the witness.

MEETING PROTESTS AGAINST RE-OPENING OF SCHOOLS

Madrid, Feb. 3.—A monster meeting of Catholics, including many women of the aristocracy, was held today in protest against the reopening of the lay schools which were closed after the rebellious outbreak at Barcelona.

Carlists and Conservatives both declared that the schools were in realtiy anarchistic in their teachings, and the enemies of social order. They dedemanded intervention of the church in all questions pertaining to education.

The republic is organizing in counter-demonstrations.

Regina, Feb. 3.—For shooting Andrew Harris at Qu'Appelle last August Harry Roper, a nineteen-year-old English boy, was today sentenced to Edmonton penitentiary for a term of fifteen years. He was charged with murder, but the prosecution showed that there had been trouble between the two men and that Roper had fired as the result of wordy quarrel.

The jury brought in a verdict of manslaughter, and Judge Newlands proceeded to deliver the sentence as stated.

CARDINAL ATTEMPTED TO CRIPPLE SCHOOLS

French Judge Scores Catholic Priest for Sending Circular Episcopal Letter.

Rheims, France, Feb. 3.—The judge in the trial of Cardinal Lucon, who was accused by the Public School Teachers' association with attempting to cripple the public schools through the agency of an episcopal letter, submitted his conclusions today.

He described the charge and court proceedings as a grave affair, attracting the attention of all France. He characterized the episcopal letter as nothing less than a declaration of war against the public schools, and as inciting to insurrection. He defended the schools against the attacks of the bishops who signed the letter, and while admitting that some of the text books were perhaps imperfect insisted that the bishops should have made their complaints to the authorities to permit the corrections, as Bishop Bailey had done.

PREMIER ROBLIN ILL.

Head of Manitoba Government Will Not Take Part in Session.

Winnipeg, Feb. 3.—Premier Roblin, who has been confined to his home for the past week suffering from a severe attack of lumbago, is improving, but very slowly. His physician ordered him south for his health just as soon as he becomes able to travel.

ELECTRIC SCOREBOARD.

The board will designate which man is at bat, who, if any, are on the bases, how many outs, number of balls and strikes and other things that the spectators might wish to know during the course of the game. Murphy will leave Thursday for New Orleans to close up the business pertaining to the spring training jaunt of the Cubs' squad.

Oxford-Cambridge Boat Race.

London, Feb. 3.—The beginning of practice for this year's Oxford-Cambridge boat race, though it has been a little delayed by the elections, has now begun, both crews having had two or three practices. R. C. Bourne, last year's stroke, is filling his old position for the Dark Blues, who have every prospect of having a good eight this spring. Unlike Oxford, Cambridge has to find a new stroke, as D. C. R. Stewart has gone down. Oxford has lost a distinguished old blue by the death of Dr. Awdry, bishop of Tokio, who died at Winchester. He rowed six in the crew in 1863, and two in that of 1864, and took a double first in the schools.

An Important Resolution.

"That the minimum stipend given to any incumbent in this diocese shall be $900, and a house, and in case there is no parsonage that the amount be not less than $1000," was a resolution passed yesterday afternoon by the Anglican synod.

ANGLICAN SYNOD CONCLUDES LABORS

Provision Is Made for Appointment of Coadjutor Bishop--Delegates Disperse

Last evening the Anglican Synod of the diocese of New Westminster, which has been holding sessions here for the past two days, came to a close after a fruitful meeting. The sixty or more lay and clerical delegates leave for their homes in different parts of the diocese today, after having a pleasant and busy meeting with their fellow-workers of the English church.

Lengthy Canon Passed.

After much discussion and many amendments the canon introduced providing for the appointment of a coadjutor bishop, if such a course were found to be expedient, was passed. The new canon will have no immediate result, but it provides for the appointment of an assistan to the present bishop at any future time. The canon is somewhat lengthy and runs as follows:

"A new canon to provide for the appointment of a coadjutor or suffragan bishop, introduced by the Rev. Havelock Beacham: Clause A—Whenever, at the request of the bishop of the diocese, or whenever by a three-fourths vote of the clergy present and a three-fourths vote of the lay representatives present at a meeting of the synod, duly called, the synod shall, by resolution, declare it to be advisable that a bishop coadjutor for the diocese should be appointed, the election of such bishop coadjutor shall, either at the meeting of the synod at which such resolution shall have been passed or at any subsequent annual meeting, or at a special meeting to be called for that purpose, be proceeded with in the manner hereinafter provided and prescribed. But no proceedings under this canon shall take place until and unless an income satisfactory to the executive committee be provided, and any priest who may be elected coadjutor or suffragan bishop shall hold no other preferment in the diocese.

"(b) The election shall be proceeded with under the same canon, and in the same manner, and with the same majority necessary for election, as in the case of the bishop of the diocese, except that the bishop of the diocese, if present, shall preside, and if not present the synod shall be preside over as in the case of an election of a bishop occurring on a vacancy of the See.

"(c) If due notice be given that such election will be proceeded with at a regular meeting of the synod it shall take place immediately after confirming the minutes of the last election, and before any other business is proceeded with.

"(d) The names of those nominated shall be submitted to the bishop and his approval of such names obtained before the synod vote thereon.

"(f) The coadjutor or suffragan bishop shall perform such diocesan duties and exercise such episcopal authority in the diocese as the bisohp shall assign to him.

"(h) The coadjutor bishop shall have a seat in the synod and the same right of voting therein as any priest of the diocese sitting in synod. In the absence of the bishop from synod he shall preside, and shall also have a seat on the executive committee.

"(i) The coadjutor or suffragan bishop elected shall sign the declaration of conformity to the constitution and canons of the diocesan synod.

"(j) When any person is duly elected coadjutor bishop it shall be the duty of the bishop or of the synod forthwith to notify the metropolitan of the ecclesiastical province, who shall take order for the consecration, if not already in episcopal orders. If there be no province, then the bishop of the diocese, acting with the senior bishop in British Columbia, shall make the necessary arrangements.

"(k) The coadjutor bishop shall become and be the bishop of the diocese whenever any vacancy occurs in the See, without any further election.

"(l) That whenever this canon is found to conflict with any other canon, such canon shall give place to this canon."

Rush Business Through.

The rest of the business, though important, was rushed through hurriedly, as the delegates were desirous of finishing and getting back to their parishes before the end of the week. An item on the agenda provided for the discussion of the desirability of having, at intervals, a conference of clerical and lay representatives from all British Columbia.

As a result of the discussion the following resolution was passed: "This synod is of the opinion that the time has now arrived when it would be for the benefit of the church that a provincial organization be formed for the church in British Co-

WOMAN JOURNALIST TRIES TO END LIFE BY POISON

London, Feb. 3.—Miss Annesley Kenealy, a woman journalist, sister of Alexander Kenealy, editor of the Daily Mirror, and daughter of the late Edward Vaughan Kenealy, who spent many years and his fortune in the defence of Arthur Orton, the famous Tichborne claimant, is lying dangerously ill in St. Bartholomew's hospital from poison, which it is said she took yesterday afternoon in the office of the London Daily Mail. Miss Kenealy recently brought an action against the Daily Mail for alleged wrongful dismissal from the staff of that paper, but was unsuccessful. It is said that she went to the office of that newspaper yesterday afternoon and sent up a note to the editor saying that she was going to end her life. Before she could be reached she had taken poison.

Centenarians give various reasons to which they ascribe their longevity, but it is significant that they all agree on the advantage of plenty of work and little worry in aiding length of life. The advice lately given by a woman over a hundred is worth considering, as she advises one to eat when hungry, sleep when sleepy, with plenty of sleep, to work constantly, keep cheerful and avoid worry. This puts in a few words the doctrine of the simple life, and her conclusion is worthy of an ancient sage when she says that if these rules will not produce health and long life there is bad blood in the family and it had better die out.—Baltimore American.

Charging Was In His Line.

A party of gentlemen sitting on the veranda of a leading hotel at Jackson, N. H., fell into an amiable discussion of their delightful host, who bore the military title and who won his military spurs on the staff of a New Hampshire governor. One of them asked, "Did he get his title from service in the defense of his country?" And the reply, from a retired army officer was, "He must have, for he has not forgotten how to charge."

BIRD SUPERSTITIONS.

Queer Beliefs That Were Held by the Ancient Mariners.

Birds as inhabitants of the air were naturally chosen by the ancients as oracles and augurs of future happenings. The sensitiveness to atmospheric changes shown by many birds aided in establishing these notions. The real indications often furnished by sea birds of a coming storm or calm were doubtless magnified by the anxious, superstitious sailor.

The custom of hanging the sea swallow so that the bill may point to the wind arose from the old time custom of suspending the bird by the feet, expecting it would renew its feathers as if alive.

Divination by the flight of birds was a favorite method in the olden times. Sailors watched their flight for indications of prosperous voyages and favoring winds. As they were thought to fly through the air to heaven, they easily became messengers of the will of the gods.

The albatross is believed by Jack tar to sleep on the winds. It was at one time thought that the petrel hatched its eggs under its wings.

The kingfisher was at one time kept in chests to keep away moths.

The fishhawk was esteemed a bringer of good luck; it boded good or evil as its cry was to the right or left.

There was an old superstition that gulls were never seen bleeding. Shooting stars were then supposed to be the half digested food of winter gulls.

CLEOPATRA.

The Story of Her Death From the Bite of an Asp.

It is admitted that Cleopatra killed herself to avoid being exhibited at Rome in the triumph of Octavius, who had made war upon her and Antony because the latter had divorced his (Octavius') sister on the queen's account. But did she die from a snake's bite? It is better to think not. "If her death had been caused by any serpent, the small viper would rather have been chosen than the large asp, but the story is disproved by her having decked herself in the royal ornaments and being found dead without any marks or suspicion of poison on her body."

Death from a serpent's bite could not have been mistaken, and her vanity would not have allowed her to choose one which would have disfigured her in so frightful a manner.

Other poisons were well understood and easy of access, and no boy would have ventured to carry an asp in a basket of figs, some of which he even offered to the guards as he passed, and even Plutarch shows that the story of the asp was doubtful. Nor is the statue carried in Augustus' triumph, which had an asp upon it, any proof of his belief in it, since the snake was the emblem of Egyptian royalty. The statue (or the crown) of Cleopatra could not have been without one, this was probably the origin whole story.

Good and Osgood.

The subject of ancestors is often an interesting topic of conversation. A lady extremely proud of her mother's family created a sensation and made her listeners wonder a little when she remarked: "My father filled many responsible positions. We all have the greatest respect for him. My father was a good man, but"—and a certain stiffening of the shoulders and an added expression of firmness in the good lady's face added importance to her conclusion—"my mother was an Osgood!"

Man to Blame.

Women are more prone to deceit than men. From the time when Scheherazade told her lord 1,001 lies to keep the peace it has been the accepted way. And the men, not the women, are the most to blame. It is what they like, and they get it.—Good Words.

Love is intoxicating, it is said. What a good thing it is that marriage has a tendency to sober a man.—Terrell (Tex.) Transcript.

Machinists Seek Increase.

MISAPPREHENSION EXISTS.

There is a very serious misapprehension as to the attitude of the Imperial authorities with regard to the navy proposals which have been submitted to the House. Objections have been urged against the proposals of the Canadian government, based upon the assumption that the British Admiralty suggested a course of action which has not been followed by the Canadian government.

In the first place, it has been stated to the House by Conservative members and through this country by the Conservative press that the Admiralty recommended that Canada establish what is known as a fleet unit, consisting of a "Dreadnought" and auxiliaries. On page 2181, January 18, 1910, Hansard, Mr. Boyce, Conservative, of Algoma, said:

"You will see that what the Admiralty suggested was a fleet unit from the Colonies."

A careful perusal of the blue book dealing with the proceedings of the defence conference fails to disclose anything approximating such a view, but on the contrary a direct negative to such a proposition is given, accompanied by the reasons therefor—upon page 22 of the report are found these words:

"As regards Canada, it was considered that our double seaboard rendered the provision of a fleet unit of the same kind unsuitable for the present."

The reason for this is obvious. A fleet unit to be effective must be stationed either on the Atlantic or the Pacific side, which would leave either the one or the other unprotected. To separate the unit by dividing it, and placing a portion on each coast, would be to destroy its effectiveness and make abortive the result sought to be gained.

The Admiralty appreciated the difficulty, and knowing that to create and maintain two units would be too heavy a burden upon Canada's finances at the moment, wisely determined to suggest an alternative course.

The Admiralty had contemplated placing a fleet unit on the Pacific for strategical considerations, but for the reasons given the idea was abandoned, and the views of the conference on this point may be found on page twenty-six in the following language:

"While, on naval strategical considerations, it was thought that a Fleet Unit on the Pacific, as outlined by the Admiralty, might in the future form an acceptable system of naval defence, it was recognized that Canada's double seaboard rendered the provision of such a Fleet Unit unsuitable for the present."

With a complete knowledge of the situation, the Admiralty did not press upon Canada the establishment of a fleet unit, as the Conseratives would have the people believe, but they did make the following proposition, which may be found upon page twenty-two of the report:

"It was proposed, according to the amount of money that might be available, that Canada should make a start with cruisers of the 'Bristol' class and destroyers of an 'improved river class,' a part to be stationed on the Atlantic seaboard and a part on the Pacific."

Thus it is abundantly clear that the Admiralty at no time expressed the wish that Canada establish a fleet unit, including a Dreadnought, and it is also clear that the suggestion which was made has been faithfully concurred in by the Dominion government, and that the proposals brought down by Sir Wilfrid Laurier are upon the exact lines prescribed by the Admiralty.

Another point of importance is that the Admiralty admitted the principle of "making a start" in the formation of a Canadian navy. In support of this view there follow two quotations from page 24 of the report. The first reads:

"While laynig the foundation of further Dominion navies to be maintained in different parts of the Empire, these forces would contribute immediately and materially to the requiremnts of imperial defence."

Then again upon the same page is found this declaration:

"A simple contribution of money or material may be to one Dominion the most acceptable form in which to assist in imperial defence. Another, while ready to provide local naval forces and to place them at the disposal of the Crown in the event of war, may wish to lay the foundations upon which a future navy of its own could be raised."

No man can read these extracts without being convinced that the Admiralty thoroughly endorses the position taken by Canada in making a commencement toward the building of a navy.

YELLOW NEWSPAPERS SCORED BY CANNON

Speaker Charges Murder of Lincoln, Garfield and McKinley Against Them.

Washington, Feb. 3.—Sensational newspapers were under the fire of Speaker Cannon's invective last night, when he addressed the Loyal Legion at its twenty-eighth annual banquet. To the "yellows" he charged the murders of Lincoln, Garfield and McKinley, claiming that the murderers had been inflamed by the publications.

Reverting to war times and the attitude of the newspapers, the speaker said:

"I remember that great editor, Horace Greeley, and his New York Tribune. I remember his famous slogan, 'On to Richmond.' The metropolitan journals literally took command after the campaign, and yet, after the first defeat inflicted on the Union forces, how the music changed! One of the New York newspapers demanded the immediate abdication of the president, and even the faithful Greeley thought peace should be made with the Confederates, and that every point at issue should be conceded to them."

Maud Powell

"Maud Powell, a violinist, who, as is said of Chaminade, "happens to be a woman," was the soloist of the evening, and words of the most exalted praise seem inadequate to describe her performance and to tell aught of the magic and the mystery of the spell she weaves with her wonderful instrument and with the marvellous musical insight with which she plays. An American woman with a God-given gift, she stands without a peer on the concert platform today as an interpreter and a technician, and last night she played the fine concerto of Saint-Saens as one's highest hopes of her demanded: with a commanding authority above the orchestra, a supreme artistry in the handling of the bow and strings and a nicety in the reading of the score. The vim and decision of her work are easily understandable when one catches the flash of her black eye; it tells of the intellectuality and the heights and depths of the emotional nature that are behind all of the plaudits and the extravagant laudations that are heaped at the feet of this 'wonder woman of the violin.' * * * Since the Debussy number is new here—as it is transcribed for the violin, at least, having been written for the pianoforte alone—it is infinitely lovely and as delicate and diaphanous in its substance and contour as a sunset cloud. And how it was played!"—Carlton Steele, in the St. Paul Despatch.

Maud Powell will be at the Opera house on February 18.

Scotch Whisky

A Brand to Depend on.

Is there anything more annoying than to find, after acquiring a liking for a certain food or beverage, that while occasionally good, it is not uniformly good.

That often happens in the case of whisky.—

It cannot happen with Watson's whisky.

Uniform high quality is ensured for this brand, by the most rigid care in distilling, blending, ageing and bottling.

The flavor and the mellowness that commend Watson's to you when first you try it, never are allowed to deteriorate or to vary in the slightest degree.

Continued use of Watson's Scotch confirms old friends in their liking for it, and the expressed opinion of these old friends of the brand is continually helping to make new friends for it, the world over.

Insist on Watson's

"THREE STAR"—A mild, thoroughly matured Scotch.
"NO. 10"—A full-bodied, richly flavored Scotch.

SPORTING NEWS

NEW YORKER WILL RACE SIMON PURE

Yankee Invasion of English Turf Expected to Take Place in Spring.

London, Feb. 3.—The history of the Grand National Steeplechase, which takes place at Liverpool next March, does not record many American entries, but if all goes well, G. Saportas, of New York, will be found among the entrants. He has just announced his steeplechase with his horse, Simon Pure, a son of the British stallion, St. Leonards II, and Violet S., the latter having been bred at R. Rancoca's stand in New Jersey by Mrs. Lillian Livingston.

Simon Pure, as all American racing men know, distinguished himself by winning a number of the principal steeplechase events "on the other side" in 1908.

Everyone in the racing world expects to see an American invasion of the English turf, when the flat racing commences in the spring. It is an invasion which will be heartily welcomed by all true sportsmen ,as of late years there have crept in a number of financiers, who do not even know a thoroughbred when they see one and who look upon racing as an auxiliary department of their offices in the city. In fact, many racegoers expressed surprise last season when the Jockey club did not take strong action in several cases, when horses showed what is known as "intermittent form."

It is only this seamy side of the English turf, as it is at present, which prevents the Prince of Wales from starting a big racing establishment. Although not so fond of the sport as his father, he takes a great interest in the breeding of thoroughbreds.

Coffroth Racing Against Time.

New York, Feb. 3.—J. W. Coffroth, the California fight promoter who has been in Europe for two months is a passenger on the Mauritania, which will probably arrive here early Friday morning. Before leaving England Coffroth made a $1000 bet with Eugene Corey of the National Sports club that he would be in San Francisco on Feb. 8. To win the bet Coffroth intends to board the Twentieth Century Limited on Friday afternoon, reaching Chicago Saturday morning, if no mishaps he will leave Chicago a few hours later on the overland limited which is due in San Francisco on February 8.

Noted Winners on American Turf.

New York, Feb. 3.—James R. Keene's horses have won a total of $1,390,000 on the country turf in the last seven years, according to figures given out by the Jockey club. Second place for the time specified goes to H. P. W. Whitney ,with a total of $485,000. Other high figures are: Barney Schreiber, $451,000; Sydney Paget, $424,000; August Belmont, $400,000; John E. Madden, $392,000.

EXCITING RACE.

Hosemen Exert Themselves in Good Cause at Queen's Park.

To decide a thirty-cent bet as to whether the trouble in Nicaragua is due to the high price of slaughtered bulls or the approach of the Chinese New Year, A. L. Eickhoff and William McDonald, two hosemen in the Fire department, ran a footrace at Queen's park on Wednesday afternoon. Eickhoff, who carries the most avoirdupois, insisted on racing in his stockings, whereupon the spectators, including the stakeholder, incontinently fled.

This move, however, proved to be Eickhoff's undoing, for McDonald, knowing it would be fatal to lag behind, made superhuman efforts to keep a nose ahead of his rival and won by a proboscis.

The track will be repaired in time for the provincial fair.

KEOGH RETAINS TITLE.

Rochester Veteran Is Once More Pool Champion of the World.

New York, Feb. 3.—Jerome Keogh of Rochester, N. Y., won the world's championship pool title from Thomas Hueston, the titleholder, in the last block of their 600-point match in New York. Keogh, with a high run of 32, secured the 198 points necessary to complete the 600, while Heuston obtained 178, with a high run of 23. Twenty-six frames were played.

The final score was 600 to 546. The match was for the championship title and emblem, a purse of $1000 and a side bet of $250. The winner had received no challenge last night. Heuston was Keogh's pupil, and in the varying fortunes of the game Keogh has been champion four times and Hueston three. Hueston recently wrested the title from King, the baseball player.

ADVERTISE IN THE NEWS

The Right Age.

Among the litigants before the English courts some years ago was a Mrs Weldon, who, indeed, was so constantly at law that Baron Pollock once remarked: "This lady has now such a very large business at the bar that we must give her every indulgence." Mrs. Weldon was not abashed by the judges and said many clever things in court. The reminiscences of the late John George Witt, K. C., include an anecdote of one of her appearances in the court of appeal. She was endeavoring to upset a judgment of Vice Chancellor Bacon, and one ground of complaint was that the judge was too old to understand the case. Thereupon Lord Esher said: "The last time you were here you complained that your case had been tried by my brother Bowen and you said he was only a bit of a boy and could not do you justice. Now you come here and say that my brother Bacon was too old. What age do you want the judge to be?" "Four age," promptly replied Mrs. Weldon, fixing her bright eyes on the handsome countenance of [illegible] of the rolls.

A w[illegible] Broadway s[illegible] young, [illegible] good looking [illegible] deep, painful [illegible] strap half [illegible] and offered [illegible] took the nearest one and sank into it with a look of relief. The other men resumed their seats, and the car sped merrily on. Half a mile farther uptown the woman signaled the conductor to stop and as the car slowed down she arose walked jauntily out and stepped off the car with the nimbleness of a schoolgirl.

The man whose seat she had been occupying looked first amazed, then sheepish, as the other passengers began to grin at him, then joined in, as becomes an American when placed in trying circumstances.

"She's an actress at one of the Broadway theaters," chuckled a man sitting near him. "I know her by sight, and when she came in I thought she must have been hurt in an accident."—New York Sun.

The Statue of Liberty.

The Colossus of Rhodes probably never brought any revenue in each [illegible] the city, but its [illegible] when everything [illegible] tirely lost [illegible] statue of Liberty [illegible] to every [illegible] ica to see [illegible] which h[illegible] pressed [illegible] joy by [illegible] glim[illegible] jour[illegible] ap[illegible] from A[illegible] was before s[illegible] It is one of the f[illegible] which we have which is not [illegible]—Chicago Tribune.

The Wrong Line.

A society which disseminates moral literature once sent a railway manager a large number of free tracts to place in the waiting rooms. One was entitled, "A Route to the New Jerusalem." The letter which the moral literature society received in reply declined the tracts. "We cannot place the tracts," wrote the manager, "as the N. J. is not on our system."

Quite a Variety.

The fashionable girl had accepted him and the young man was wondering how far his $30 a week would go.

"You must remember that life is not all golf and tennis," murmured he.

"Why, of course it isn't," she responded brightly. "There's boating and coaching and bridge and ever so many things."—Louisville Courier-Journal.

At the Doctors' Club.

"Carvus, was that operation you performed on old Hasbin successful?"

"Successful? Yes; singularly so."

"Singularly? Then he's recovering, is he?"—Chicago Tribune.

A Russian does not become of age until he is twenty-six.

Appeasing Conscience.

"In my morning walks," remarked a Brooklyn clergyman in referring to his vacation, "I had as a companion an elderly gentleman, whose acquaintance I prized highly. After a cross country ramble of five miles one hot afternoon we stopped at a farmhouse for a drink of milk. I drained my glass, and how refreshing it was! But the old gentleman drank lightly and set his glass down with a goodly portion of the rich milk untouched.

"'Very fine drink,' he said as we resumed our jaunt.

"'Then why didn't you drink all of it?' I asked.

"'That's the way I make my contribution to the conscience fund,' he explained seriously. 'When I was a boy I worked on a farm and was taught always, after rinsing, to leave a little water in the milk cans.'"—New York Times.

Men With Women's Voices.

Generally speaking, races living at high altitudes have weaker and more highly pitched voices than those living in regions where the supply of oxygen is more plentiful. Thus among the Indians living on the plateaus between the ranges of the Andes, at an elevation of from ten to fourteen thousand feet, the men have voices like women and the women like children, and their singing is a shrill monotone. The Australian native has a weak voice, but a knack of sending it a long distance, and the lowest tribes of Africans pygmies also possess weak voices. Of all human beings it would seem that the dwarf race discovered by Stanley in central Africa have, in point of volume and compass, the weakest of human voices, and this is only what one would expect from the feebleness of their physique generally.

r was President Cleveland's first rn. I had never seen his wife, the ung, the beautiful, the good hearted e sympathetic, the fascinating re enough, just as I had finished essing to go to the White House, I und that little note, which I had g ago forgotten. It was a grave tle note, a serious little note, like writer, but it made me laugh vy's gentle gravities often produced at effect upon me where the expert morist's best joke would have fail for I do not laugh easily.

When we reached the White House d I was shaking hands with the esident he started to say something t I interrupted him and said:

"If your excellency will excuse me will come back in a moment, but now have a very important matter to attend to, and it must be attended to at ce."

turned to Mrs. Cleveland, the ung, the beautiful, the fascinating d gave her my card, on the back of ich I had written "He didn't," and sked her to sign her name below se words.

he said: "He didn't? He didn't at?"

"Oh," I said, "never mind! We not stop to discuss that now. This urgent. Won't you please sign your me?" I handed her a fountain pen.

"Why," she said, "I cannot commit self in that way. Who is it that n't? And what is it that he didn't."

"Oh," I said, "time is flying, flying ing! Won't you take me out of my tress and sign your name to it? all right. I give you my word it's right."

he looked nonplused, but hesitatly and mechanically she took the and said:

I will sign it. I will take the risk t you must tell me all about it right erward, so that you can be arrested ore you get out of the house in case re should be anything criminal out this."

hen she signed, and I handed her s. Clemens' note, which was very f, very simple and to the point. It d, "Don't wear your arctics in the ite House." It made her shout, and my request she summoned a messger, and we sent that card at once the mail on its way to Mrs. Clemens Hartford.—Mark Twain's Autobiography in North American Review.

AN EXECUTION IN INDIA.

e Way a Man Guilty of Murder Underwent Decapitation.

A letter from India to a German paper gives this account of the execution r Bombay of a man who had been und guilty of the murder of his other-in-law: "The question as to ether the culprit should be executed sent to prison for life was, as is the tom, submitted to the family of the rdered man for decision. All, ineluding the wife of the murdered, voted for death. When the place of execution was reached the condemned an knelt, and the ropes which were tained to him were handed over to e executioner's assistants. The one ho held the neck rope took a few ps before the kneeling man and the her two stood at either side. Then e executioner, armed with a razor ged, heavy knife, advanced and ked in a loud voice, 'Who authorizes e execution?' and the chief of police swered, 'The law.' The question as asked and answered three times, hile the armed man advanced, slowly winging the mighty blade. As the et answer was heard an assistant xecutioner thrust a needle point into e kneeling man's back and he made involuntary motion forward with his ead. The three ropes were pulled ut, leaving the neck extended to the tmost. At the same instant the knife hirred through the air and the head f the murderer rolled in the sand."

DEATH OF CROW WORTH A NICKLE

Provincial Government Will Be Asked to Put Bounty on Bothersome Birds.

Victoria, B. C., Feb. 3.—The members of the Central Farmers' institute have decided that the crow is more of a nuisance than a benefactor and will ask the government to place a bounty of five cents a head. This was one of the chief conclusions reached at yesterday's session of the institute. There were not more than two or three dissenting voices when the resolution came to a vote. In the course of the debate it became evident that in the Okanagan and other interior fruit-growing districts the crow nuisance had begun to make itself felt. That it be recommended that the government announce a close season of one year for pheasants, blue and willow grouse and quail was another resolution that was passed.

The government will also be asked to appoint an advisory board to confer with the road superintendents in the various provincial districts before expending appropriations on wharves, bridges, roads or other public works.

Messrs. Gabriel and Matheson were responsible for a resolution proposing that steps be taken through the government for furnishing British Columbia's rural districts with the convenience of telehponic communication. It was suggested that where it was impossible for a complete service to be introduced immediately small joint stock companies could be organized to place small systems in different districts, the idea being that in the course of time all these should be united.

A suggestion from Mr. French, of Sooke, that the provincial government be approached to provide for the construction of wheat elevators at Vancouver for the encouragement of the shipment of Alberta wheat via the Pacific coast met with a somewhat cold reception. The proposal was killed.

A motion was carried providing for a three days' session of the institute next year.
