BACK FROM TRIP TO OLD COUNTRIES

Westminster People had Enjoyable Time Visiting Places of Interest Abroad

Alfred Johnston, Mr. and Mrs. W. S. Collister, Miss Johnston and Douglas Collister returned yesterday morning from a two months' trip to Europe.

The party sailed from Boston to Naples and from there toured over Southern Europe and went into France and England. Altogether a most enjoyable time was had during the entire journey.

One of the most interesting sights seen by the travellers was the Brussels exhibition, which they visited about a month before it was destroyed by fire. One of the most pleasing and comprehensive of the displays at the exhibition was the Canadian exhibit, which was a constant source of admiration and congratulation by all the visitors to Brussels.

"It's a small world," remarked Mr. Johnston, when telling how he met at Brussels a party of friends whom he had encountered at Dawson City in the Yukon two years ago, and whom he hoped, but never expected, to see again.

The Westminster party was in London the time of the Minto Cup games here. Strange as it may seem the result of the match did not get into the cable news and so they had to wait for the arrival of the Montreal papers before they knew that Montreal had received an awful threshing. At Lord Strathcona's office, where they went to read the result of the games, they encountered many Canadians bent on the same errand.

Mr. Johnston states that almost everywhere he went he found that New Westminster was known, not by her great lumber mills, her magnificent harbor or any of her commercial assets, but by being the home of the Salmon Bellies, the champion lacrosse players of the world.

In London they met W. Norman Bole, K. C., and H. M. Stramberg, the former busy attending the International congress of boards of trade and chambers of commerce and the latter on his way to Germany.

When the party left for England a couple of months ago Columbia street was in a terrible state of disruption and when they arrived yesterday morning they were agreeably surprised to see the fine street completed and in use. Although Mr. Johnston was pleased with many of the things he saw abroad he came to the conclusion when he reached the Rockies that British Columbia was good enough for him.

SILVER-TONGUED LEADER ANSWERS COL. WATTERSON

Lincoln, Neb., Aug. 28.—W. J. Bryan is not sure he can follow the suggestion of Col. Henry Watterson that he forgive and forget the Democrats who opposed him in 1896, but says he is willing to try. Commenting on the proposal of Col. Watterson, Mr. Bryan says:

"In the meantime, Mr. Watterson might use some of his energy in trying to persuade those who have defeated the party to consider the wisdom of supporting a candidate against whom the charge of disloyalty cannot be made. It ought to be possible to find an available man among the six and a half million who supported the ticket in 1896, 1900, 1904 and 1908.

"It seems to be assumed upon the part of these for whom Mr. Watterson speaks that no man is fit to be a Democratic President unless he helped to elect a Republican president in the critical campaign of fourteen years ago. If it would promote harmony for the 6,500,000 to announce that they will gladly follow one who laid down his arms and went over to the enemy, would it not also promote harmony for those who left to announce that they will gladly support some one who has an unbroken record of regularity? Generosity should not be one-sided."

RADIUM IN ROMAN FOUNT.

Swiss Professor Declares Waters of Old Spring Curative.

Zurich, Aug. 28.—Prof. Kohlrausch, of this city, who has been analysing the curative waters in Switzerland for several years, declares that he found at Romerbad, near the town of Zofingen, about midway between Bale and Lucerne, an old Roman spring whose waters are impregnated with radium. The waters, the professor declares, will cure, among other diseases, gout and rheumatism. They are the strongest radium springs in Europe.

Would Abandon Greek.

Oxford, Eng., Aug. 28.—The council of Oxford university, which has been considering certain reforms suggested by Lord Curzon of Kendleston, chancellor of the university, has issued a voluminous report in which it suggests that Greek cease to be a compulsory study.

FELLOW SCRIBES GATHER TO HONOR RHODES SCHOLAR

Sid Dyke Guest of Honor at Journalistic Banquet at Russell Hotel on Saturday Night.

The newspaper associates of Sidney C. Dyke, the newly appointed Rhodes scholar, tendered him a banquet in the Russell hotel on Saturday night, the last available evening before his departure for the old country. Mr. Dyke commenced his newspaper career in New Westminster as correspondent of the Vancouver World and at one time or another he has been on the staff of the Daily Columbian, the Daily News and the Vancouver Province. These papers were all represented at the banquet last night and many were the regrets expressed that Mr. Dyke was departing from the fields of journalism.

Hon. Dr. Young, minister of education, was invited to be present at the banquet, but unfortunately he could not attend. However he sent a letter of regret which was read at an interval in the speeches and received with acclaim.

The letter in part said: "Mr. Dyke as a Canadian goes into a cataleptic state for a few years, but I can hear the murmurs of the muttering delirium of Mr. Dyke while he is teaching the Oxford undergraduates the colloquialisms of the local press. Please express to Mr. Dyke my sincere congratulations as well as my admiration for the abilities shown by him and which have won for him so signal an honor."

The menu was headed "The Dope Sheet" and bristled with dishes dear to the heart of the newspaper man and unique to the profession.

Those present were J. W. Cunningham, R. H. Best and R. A. Fraser, of the Columbian; P. W. Luce and H Turner, of the News; C. H. Sutherland, of the Vancouver Province; A. J. Levy, of the Vancouver News-Advertiser, and the guest of honor, S. C. Dyke.

Mr. Dyke leaves here for the east on Thursday. He will spend a week or two with friends in Toronto, and will sail on the Corsican for England.

STRIKING MACHINISTS WILL APPEAR IN COURT

Although to those not personally interested in the strike of the machinists in the city all seems to have been going smoothly there has been some contention and bickering between the strikers and the employers.

This was brought to a head on Saturday when summonses were issued to three strikers; two for intimidation and one for using threatening language. The men who will appear in the police court this morning to answer the charges are J. Hutton, Frank Kerwin and George Appleton.

It is alleged that the threatening language was used to a worker in the Schaake machine works and the complainant wants the accused bound over to keep the peace. Although the strike has been in progress for more than two months, with no sign of settlement, this is the first time that the law has stepped in and the outcome of the cases will be awaited with great interest both by the strikers and almost every citizen of New Westminster.

WAY BARRED BY ICE.

Great Difficulties in Attempt to Scale Mount McKinley.

Seattle, Aug. 28.—Belmore Brown, of Tacoma, and four other members of the Parker-Brown expedition, arrived in Seattle last night on the steamship Portland, after an unsuccessful attempt to scale the famous Alaska peak. Professor Herschell Parker, of Columbia University, who led the expedition, was taken ill at Valdez and was unable to return with the party. Professor Parker's illness is not serious.

Mr. Brown said that the party reached an attitude of 10,000 feet, where they found their passage blocked by an enormous wall of ice. He said that the party found the mountain top absolutely inaccessible from the south and east sides.

He would not be quoted as saying that the Lloyd party, which claims to have climbed the mountain from the Fairbanks side last spring, did not reach the summit. He said he was not prepared to discuss the feasibility of approaching the peak from that side.

Portuguese Gunboat Wrecked.

Lisbon, Aug. 28.—The Portuguese gunboat Tejo, of 533 tons, was wrecked yesterday on Berlengas Island, a small rocky group off the west coast of Portugal, seventy miles north of Lisbon. The crew of eighty-five were saved.

BRITISH WARSHIPS WRECKED IN GALE

Torpedo Boat and Destroyer Driven Ashore on Scottish Coast—No Lives Lost.

London, Aug. 28.—During a gale on the west coast of Scotland yesterday, two British warships went ashore, and one, at least, will be a total loss.

The torpedo boat No. 13, a new vessel, was dirven on the rocks near Campbelltown and the destroyer, Success, went aground in Loch Gare near the Firth of Clyde. Crews were rescued.

The Success is a destroyer of 380 tons, built in 1901 and credited with a speed of thirty knots. She carried a crew of sixty-two men.

The No. 13 is a new boat, of the program of 1907, 182 feet long and with a displacement of 246 tons. Her speed is about twenty-six knots and she carried a crew of thirty-five men.

It is hoped that the Success will be salvaged, but the other vessel is given up as a total loss.

A telegram from Liverpool states that the British bark Kilburn has gone ashore at Morecambe Bay and will be a total loss.

The Kilburn was built at Glasgow in 1889 and is registered at Greenock. She is a four-masted vessel, 300 feet long, forty-three feet eight inches beam, and 2,499 tons.

TRANSVAAL COTTON.

Experiments Show That African Product Equals That of United States.

Johannesburg, Aug. 28.—An excellent crop of cotton of the United States upland variety is being picked at the government experimental farm at Rustenburg, and it is stated by government experts that the crop, as compared with the similar variety grown in the United States, comes out equal to the American cotton.

The staple is long, and the first picking of the crop gave 260 pounds to the acre. Some of the bolls specimens of Rustenberg cotton which have been publicly exhibited are described as being very fine.

The whole experiment goes to show that in the Transvaal cotton can be produced equal to the United States cotton, under better climatic conditions.

OHIO FARMERS' WIVES DECLARE NOVEL STRIKE

Cincinnati, Aug. 28—Farmers' wives from Piqua west to the Indiana line and south to the northern part of Hamilton county are inaugurating a novel strike by telephone, letter and by trolley line this summer. Thrashing time is considered a great time in the country and thrashers are given the best dinners the farmers' wives can afford, better even than given to ministers and their wives. This year the complaint is made that thrashers and their help are asking exorbitant prices for their work and the plan is to notify them that the yellow-legged chicken and fresh beefsteak are not for them if they persist, and they may bring their meals with them when they come to thrash out the golden grain.

BEGGAR HER DAUGHTER.

Blind Girl Recognizes Mother in Giver of Charity.

St. Petersburg, Aug. 20.—Very pathetic is a story that comes from Krasnobrod, in the government of Lublin, near Odessa.

Two years ago there disappeared the seven-year-old daughter of a well to do family in Krasnobrod. A few months ago the mother paid a visit to the district Yahrmarka. There, near the church door, she gave alms to a blind girl, saying, "Pray for my child, my dear, whom I lost two years ago. She is certainly dead."

The blind girl had scarcely heard the lady's voice when she sprang to her feet, saying: "Mamma, I am your child, Marie." She had been stolen by beggars and ill-treated.

THE JAMESON RAID.

Leader of Famous Transvaal Invasion Says It Deserved Punishment.

Durban, Aug. 28.—Dr. Jameson, in a speech which he made here recently, combated the objections of Natal to joining the Unionists. They were right, he said, is not wanting racialism which was one cause of their hesitating attitude.

Referring to the raid, Dr. Jameson said that though it was badly carried out and thoroughly deserving of punishment, it was, nevertheless, a step in the direction of federation, which was Cecil Rhodes' policy. If, said Dr. James, he had the opportunity of substituting another for the present government, he would form a government of the best men of both races.

The speech was enthusiastically received.

Begin Two-Year Trip.

Skagway, Aug. 28.—Lafe Eakin Spray and Charles H. Allger, two old-time sourdoughs who arrived on the Humboldt, leave next week for the interior on a two-year prospecting trip. They expect to go down the Yukon and then up the Porcupine to its headwaters where they will establish their base of supplies.

SOCIALIST HOSTS WAX IN GERMANY

Berlin, Aug. 28.—German Socialists have recently won seven by-elections for the reichstag.

Their total parliamentary strength, which was forty-three at the retirement of Prince Buelow has now risen to fifty, so that they are the third strongest party. Their numbers are estimated at nearly 4,000,000, and it is thought probable that they may capture over 100 seats at the general election of next year.

Students of German Socialist literature can see, however, that the advance in numbers is counter-balanced by lack of unity. The orthodox Marxian section is at this moment deeply divided over the question of the "Revolt in Baden."

The Baden delegates have voted for the state budget in their own diet, thereby contravening the party rule that non-Socialists budgets must be refused. Karl Kautsky rebukes his comrades in a long and solemn article. He believes that Socialists have everything to lose by allying themselves with the Liberal groups.

It is instructive to compare with this article that of Dr. Ludwig Quessel, which appeared in the Socialist paper. Dr. Quessel expresses the view of a large circle of the party when he says that "the proletariat, by itself, is too weak to overcome the reaction in Germany, "and urges that in the election of 1911 Socialists should accept the principle which will bring them into closer touch with other progressive groups.

The gulf is deepening between the two great sections of German Socialists. Moderate men, like Dr. Quessel, are drawing closer to the Liberals, and striving on moderate lines for necessary reforms. Strict Marxians, like Kautsky, regard their comrades as a body of close brethren, and are largely occupied in "judging errors" within the ranks.

John D. Gets $705 an Hour.

New York, Aug. 28.—Poor John D. Rockefeller is undergoing many shocks to his nervous system these days. In the first place John D. has just received a dividend of $6 per share for his holdings in the Standard Oil company. Accordingly he will get something like $750 an hour twenty-four hours a day for the next three months. His share of the Standard Oil "melon" will help pay for the increased assessment placed on his estate at Pocantico Hills. Heretofore Mr. Rockefeller has had to pay taxes on only $250,000 valuation, but a business-like assessor has raised that to $300,000. So far the Standard Oil magnate has offered no protest.

CLEVER SINGERS TO APPEAR AT OPERA HOUSE

When Manager Harry Tidy, of the opera house, stated last Monday that he would put vaudeville in the opera house if the patronage warranted it, he did not make an idle boast, as Saturday evening he signed a contract whereby he will procure the services of Charlie Collins, the Record Singer, and Miss Lillian Warren, a contralto, and a pupil of Papinini, the famous vocalist. Mr. Collins, whose voice has been heard all the world over, has sung for all the phonograph and gramophone companies of the world, mainly Edison and Victor. He is accompanied on his trip by Miss Warren, a contralto, famous in the eastern state. Tonight Mr. Collins will sing "The Hat that Father Wore," a comic song, while Miss Warren will render that beautiful solo, "If I Had a Thousand Lives to Live." There will be a complete change in the pictures.

ESTIMATE OF THE YEAR'S WHEAT YIELD

Ottawa, Aug. 28.—A cablegram from the International institute, Rome, gives the yield of the wheat crop, estimated August 1, as follows:

Hungary, 189,137,520, against 124,989,058 bushels last year.

Conditions in Germany are the same as reported July 1. Austria shows some deterioration.

NEW PAPER COMPANY.

Concern With $10,000,000 Capitalization Is Incorporated.

Ottawa, Aug. 28.—The Canadian Power & Paper company, with a capital of $10,000,000, and headquarters in Toronto, has just been incorporated to carry on in all branches the business of manufacturers and dealers in pulp and paper. It is apparently a Mackenzie & Mann concern, as the incorporation is in the name of Messrs. F. H. Phippen, K. C., Gerard Ruel, G. F. McDonnell, R. H. Temple and A. J. Reid, of the legal staff of the Canadian Northern railway. Most of the pulp limits are said to be in British Columbia.

COMPANY INCORPORATED TO DEVELOP NEW INDUSTRY

Concern Capitalized at $300,000 Will Exploit Sugar Beet Business at Mission City.

The current issue of the B. C. Gazette contains the articles of incorporation of the Fraser Valley Sugar Works, Limited. The company has a capital of $300,000 and will start at once on the construction of a large sugar beet plant at Mission City, the heart of the Fraser Valley.

The scheme has been in the air for many months, but now that the company has actually received its charter of incorporation, construction will be rushed. The people in the Junction City are enthusiastic about the prospects of a venture of the kind as it is the only one in this part of the Dominion.

There is a large sugar beet works under Mormon control in Raymond, Alberta, and although it has only been in operation a year or two, it has been a pronounced success.

The capital which will start this latest concern going has been largely subscribed in and around Mission City and in Vancouver.

DISTURBED THE CHIEF.

Midnight March, with Yelling Accompaniment, Annoys Quiet Citizens.

There is a bunch of "sports" in this city who act as if the place belonged to them. One of the most bare-faced pieces of nerve that has been displayed for some time took place on Saturday night when a crowd of midnight roysterers paraded past the residence of the chief of police yelling at the top of their voices.

The chief was aroused by repeated shouts of "What's the matter with Bradshaw," and frequent replies of "He's all right."

"They were very complimentary," explained the chief, "but they disturbed my sleep. They seemed to be making good progress towards home, so I did not get up."

While the chief declined to forsake the comforts of his bed on Saturday, he says he will not always be so lenient, as he considers an example should be made of these rowdy revellers.

CHILDREN TROOP BACK TO DESKS THIS MORNING

Summer Holidays Are Over—Accommodation for Boys and Girls Is Limited.

After two long months of holidays the students at the different public and high schools of the city will report for duty at nine o'clock this morning. On Saturday many of the campers who have been spending the summer at different near-by summer resorts returned to town, bringing with them hundreds of the boys and girls of school age.

It is probable that a great many of the students will not be present at school until after the first of the months as they generally like to start at the first of the month, considering that they are entitled to two full months without any reservations.

The present public and high school accommodation will be taxed to its utmost to supply every student with a seat and those who are not on hand this morning may have to stand up all term. There is no accommodation in the course of preparation either, the trustees having submitted no plans since the defeat of the school by-law a couple of months ago.

Since the beginning of the holidays there have been several changes in the teaching staff, but there will be a full complement when the bell rings this morning.

FEEDS HENS IRON TO MAKE EGGS HEAVIER

Winsted, Conn., Aug. 28.—Not since the days when the good people of Connecticut sold wooden nutmegs to their neighbors from New York have the farmers of this district been more exercised than they are now over the ultimatum of Chief Driscoll, of the bureau of weights and measures of New York City, that eggs shall be sold hereafter by the pound. The poultry raisers and fanciers of Winsted and the surrounding country have formed a "committee of weigns and means" to evolve some measure by which hen fruit shall not depreciate in value because of this novel proposition.

Chemists and biologists have been engaged to study the question and formulate some food preparation that shall outwit the New York official. Their report has not yet been received, but in the meantime all sorts of expedients are being tried. Axel Regner is feeding iron filings with corn to his poutry, and R. O. Peck has substituted dog biscuits for grain. Wilson D. Wyant, who holds the record for the local egg market, says he feeds his hens on trout liver, but this is discounted like all other fish stories.

WHITE ROCK FIRE IS NOT TO BE FORGOTTEN

Campers of District Determined Rigid Investigation Must be Made.

As far as could be learned yesterday no action has yet been taken with regard to holding an investigation into the recent bush fire at White Rock, which not only endangered every summer cottage at that resort, but also put the campers to great inconvenience. Provincial Fire Ranger Phipps, in whose district the outbreak occurred, is the man whose duty it is to make the first move towards having the party responsible for the fire punished. Mr. Phipps is supposed to report the circumstances to Chief Fire Ranger W. C. Gladwin, of Vancouver, who in turn communicates with Government Agent S. A. Fletcher, the latter putting the machinery of the law in motion.

Up to yesterday evening Mr. Fletcher had not been notified of any report turned in by Mr. Phipps.

The men whose property and families were endangered by the fires are determined that the matter will not be allowed to rest and if the authorities do not take steps within a couple of days, a deputation will probably be sent to Victoria to lay the White Rock grievance before the proper authorities. Bush fires have been so frequent in this district this season that it is felt the time has arrived for drastic action. It is said there will be no difficulty in placing the blame on the guilty parties in the White Rock case.

GAYNOR GOES HOME.

Victim of Bullet Unable to Make Himself Understood.

New York, Aug. 28.—Mayor Gaynor, who was shot in the back of the head by Gallagher, a discharged civic employee, two weeks ago, was removed from St. Mary's hospital to his home at St. James today. Secretary Adamson said tonight that for the present no operation for the recovery of the bullet would be performed.

The mayor is still unable to make himself understood, except with great difficulty, and he is still bothered with a cough and has trouble in swallowing. His physicians do not appear alarmed, however, and ascribe his weakness to his enforced confinement in the hospital. It is probable that his projected trip to Adirondacs will be abandoned.

Tolstoi Is Eighty-two.

St. Petersburg, Aug. 28.—Count Leo Tolstoi, the noted Russian philosopher, religious leader and author, whose recent fainting spells, followed his journey to Moscow, his first visit to the Russian metropolis in many years, occasioned grave alarm throughout the empire and the entire civilized world, today celebrated his eighty-second birthday. He was born in Yasnaya Poliana, August 28, 1828.

Washington in Denmark.

Copenhagen, Aug. 28. — Booker Washington, of Tuskogee, is expected here next week to study the Danish high school system. Professor Park, his representative, already has made all arrangements. Co-operative farming also is to be investigated by the negro college president, who seeks new ideas to apply for the benefit of his race.

CRIPPEN AND MISS LENEVE IN BOW STREET CELLS

London, Aug. 28.—Dr. Hawley H. Crippen, the American dentist, and his typist, Miss Ethel Claire Le Neve, returned yesterday from Canada, where they were apprehended by the police on suspicion of being connected with the disappearance of Crippen's wife, Belle Elmore.

The party arrived at Euston station at seven o'clock last evening from Liverpool, where they had disembarked a few hours previously from the steamer Megantic. The party was driven to the Bow street police court, where the accused man and woman were formally charged with the crime, and then placed in the cells.

Australia Protects Lyre Bird.

Sydney, Aug. 28.—So great has been the destruction wrought upon the beautiful lyre bird of Queensland that the state has protected the bird till the middle of 1915. A $25 penalty is attached to its capture, or injury, or the taking of its eggs. It is the extraordinary lyre-form development of the tail feathers which tempt the captor.

Cholera Spreads.

Bari, Italy, Aug. 28.—The report for the twenty-four hours ending last night shows twenty-one cases and eighteen deaths from Asiatic cholera. For the first time since the outbreak of the epidemic no new cases were reported from Trani.

THRO' THE ROCKIES.

The ambitious camera fiend who vainly tries to secure a "snap" of the gigantic snow-clad peaks with his little 2½x3, must understand the feelings of the would-be narrator of such a journey; the utter futility of the task weighs down upon me, and yet the admiration and awe called into being by the sights and wonders of the great mountains, cry aloud for expression.

It was just growing dusk as we drew near the Rockies at Kananaskis, and even in the splendor of the golden evening light they towered above us, dark and forbidding, ever seeming to grow in height and majesty as we sped westward. Slowly the sun sank behind the peaks, softly tinging their snow-clad crests with a rosy glow, and the gathering darkness deepened into night, when the Lady Moon climbed high in the dark-blue dome above and shed her peaceful silvery light over mountains, dark, whispering forests and the rushing waters of the Bow river.

Alighting at Field, we slept the sleep common alike to the just and the tired traveler, and the next morning found us gazing from windows of Mount Stephen House, at the giant hill which gives its name to the luxurious hotel nestling at its base. Too soon for us we heard the clang of the now familiar bell, and the cry of "All abo-o-ard," and we were off again into the light of a new and wonderful day.

What a miracle of engineering is the Canadian Pacific railway as it takes its dangerous and difficult way thro' the passes of the Rockies and climbs to the heights of the Selkirks, twisting and turning around double curves, tunnelling thro' the very mountains themselves, onward it goes, linking the East with the farther West.

At Palliser, twenty-three miles from Field, the cars swung into a gorge, dark and awesome as a Highland glen in the dear little grey land we call home. On one hand rises the solid rock of the mountains; on the other is the rushing torrent of the Kicking Horse river, grey-green with the silt of the glaciers. The bright morning sunshine is shut out, and for nearly an hour the train roars and rattles thus, a veritable "valley of the Shadow," until as we draw near Golden, the gorge widens, the mountains recede to give place to the fertile plains of the Columbia valley.

The Selkirks at Golden and Moberly are extremely beautiful with their towering snow-capped peaks against the blue of the summer sky; their great pine forests, fruitful valleys and the green Columbia river rushing along, crossed and re-crossed by the railway, as it climbs steadily up and up into the mountains, until the river seems but a silvery streak below, and the watcher is half afraid to look downward to the depths. At Glacier a halt is made, and we gladly exchange the rather cramped quarters of the cars for a less limited space on the station platform. Above us, to the left, towers Sir Donald, the highest peak of the Selkirks; straight in front of us is the well-known Icilliwaet glacier, glistening-green in the afternoon sunshine. How sweet and fresh the air is! Tired eyes brighten, weary limbs relax, and when the summons comes to resume the journey it is a brisk and genial company who clamber back into the cars.

And so we journey on, through miles and miles of mountains and great green pine forests, over high bridges spanning the rushing waters of some mountain stream; now under a dense pall of smoke from some forest fire, then rejoining the sunshine again, until at Sicamous, the most forbidding and awesome part of the track is over, and we reach what seems to eyes accustomed to loch, and mountain and wide-spreading moor to be uncommonly like their "ain countree" on a larger, grander scale. Perhaps that is why the Shuswap lakes seem so exquisitely beautiful as we steam onward in the evening light. To an exiled Scot, however much in love with this grand country, anything "just like home" appeals most strongly.

And the day wears on and again the moon sheds her silvery light over the quiet hills and valleys with their homesteads and orchards laden with fruit; what a wonderfully beautiful scene it is, "mountains that like giants stand, to sentinel enchanted land." What would the author of these lines, the great "Wizard of the North" have thought had he but seen "God's Country"? But there will come a time when British Columbia will be known the world over as one of the most beautiful and wonderful countries in existence.

Through the darkness ever "westward into the distance dim," we go, until with the light of the early morning we find ourselves in the Fraser canyon, with the wide river gleaming and sparkling under the sun's caress.

From our vantage ground on the platform of the observation car, we watch the homesteads growing more numerous as we near the end of our long journey. Then the cool soft touch of the sea fog brings the reminder that the ocean is very near now. The great clean winds that come sweeping over the prairies are very good, but, oh, one mises the salt tang of the sea breeze, and again it's "just like home."

Soon all is bustle and preparation for arrival at the depot; good-byes are said, addresses are exchanged with the fellow travellers, who now seem old and valued friends. And so it ends, this wonderful journey and as for the rest, is it not written in the Book of the Annotated Timetable of the Canadian Pacific Railway?

REVIEW IS MADE OF ALASKA MINES

Gold Output on Increase, Says Report of Geological Survey.

Washington, D. C., Aug. 28.—The geological survey has just published a bulletin, 442-A, an advance chapter of its annual report on the mineral resources of Alaska. This report deals with the general mining situation and the problems of transportation, and includes a summary account of Alaska coal and its markets, as well as estimates of costs of mining.

Gold Mining in 1909.

Gold placer and lode mining in Alaska in 1909 showed marked progress in production as well as in preparation for larger operations. The production of gold was about $20,463,000, an increase of $1,170,182 (about 6 per cent) over the output of 1908, and the largest yield since 1906, the year of greatest production.

The placer production was $16,322,000; the lode production, including gold derived from copper ores, was $4,107,363. The figures representing the product of the same kinds of mining in 1908 were $15,888,000 and $3,357,335.

Yukon Makes Largest Production.

The Yukon placers yielded their largest annual output in 1909. Practically all the Yukon camps made increased production, those of the Tanana valley leading with about $10,150,000. Of this amount the Fairbanks district produced $9,650,000.

A further increase of production is decorded for the Koyukuk district, and an important feature of the year's mining was the continued success of dredging in the Fortymile district.

Dry Time in Seward Peninsula.

All the placer camps were prosperous except those of Seward Peninsula, where dry weather curtailed the output. In this region the methods of mining must evidently be adapted to meet the exignecies due to frequent seasons of low water. Important advances were made in dredging enterprises.

The Innoko District.

The discovery of gold placers on Otter creek, a northern tributary of Halditarod river, in the Innoko valley, caused a movement of population in 1909 which promises to be important. Thousands of prospectors and miners flocked to this district from all parts of Alaska, as well as from points outside the territory. Although the district may not support the arge population it has acquired, it seems to offer a promising field for exploitation. The output of the year in the Innoko is variously estimated at $300,000 to $[illegible]0,000. A government survey of the district is now under way.

Lode Output Increased.

During 1909 Alaska's auriferous lode mines produced gold valued at $4,107,363, an increase of $749,928 over the product of 1908 and the largest annual lode output yet recorded. The number of producing mines was the same as in 1908, but a score of prospects were in course of development and some of these made small outputs.

Total Gold Production.

The total gold production of Alaska at the close of 1909 was $162,686,455, of which $118,219,757 came from placers and $44,466,698 from lodes. The record of production begins with 1880.

Decrease in Copper Production.

Copper mining was less active in 1909, when seven properties were productive, as compared with nine properties in 1908. The output for 1909 was valued at $536,211; that for 1908 at $605,267.

No Progress in Coal Mining.

The condition in the coal fields presented strong contrast to that in the gold placer districts. Not only was there no industrial advance, but in some regions there was decided retrogression. The long delay in the issuance of patents to coal lands and the popular clamor against all Alaskan coal claimants has discouraged claimants and investors, and it should be hoped that it may soon be possible to devise some reasonable or satisfactory means of exploiting Alaska's wealth of coal.

Availability of the Coal.

Coal is widely distributed in Alaska but the only fields which can yield coal for export are those in the Pacific slope province. The coal in these fields includes the lignitic or bituminous coals of Southeastern Alaska, Cook inlet, the Susitna basin and the Alaska peninsula, as well as the high-grade fuels of the Bering river and Hatanuska fields. About 40 per cent, both of the area of the total coal fields of the territory, falls in this province. It includes also at least 90 per cent of the known bituminous and higher grade coals of the territory. In considering this percentage of total coal area it should be noted that this is the best known part of Alaska and that there is, therefore, less likelihood of future discoveries of coal in this province than in the less explored districts of Central and Northern Alaska. However, it should be remembered that over half of this province is geologically almost unknown, and that future surveys in this half may discover other coal-bearing areas.

The central province includes some bituminous and sub-bituminous coals on the lower Yukon, besides more extensive areas of lignite in the upper Yukon basin, notably in the Nenana basin and near the coast line of Bering sea. About 35 per cent of the total known coal-bearing area falls in this province, and about 36 per cent of the estimated coal fields. At least four-fifths of the central province, however, is almost unknown, so that further discoveries of coal in this province may be made. In this province should be grouped some coal beds reported to have been discovered in the upper Kuskokwim basin.

The coal fields of Northern Alaska, embracing very extensive deposits lying north of the Arctic circle, are too remote to have any present importance and must be regarded simply as part of the ultimate fuel resources of the world.

Best Coal in Alaska.

The high-grade fuels of the Bering river and Matanuska fields include steaming and coking coal of quality equal to that of the eastern fields, as well as considerable anthracite. These are better than any coals found on either shore of the Pacific. The development of these fields is of great importance, not only to Alaska but to all the Pacific coast states, for they can furnish the high-grade coke needed for metallurgical industries; and to the nation, because they will furnish a source of fuel for the Pacific fleet.

Two influences have held back the development of the Bering river and Matanuska fields. One has been the advances made in the California oil districts, and the other the unfortunate conditions existing in regard to the laws under which Alaska coal lands can be taken up.

Markets for Alaska's Coals.

The market for the coals of Alaska will be found within the territory itself and the Pacific states. The present market for coal in Alaska can not support the large mining operations required for commercial success. The Pacific states are now supplied by the coal fields of California and Oregon and in minor part by the fields of the Rocky mountain region and those of British Columbia and Australia. Some Pennsylvania and West Virginia coal is also shipped to the Pacific coast. Alaska's coal must compete with these, and especially with fuel oil from California.

During the ten years between 1899 and 1908 the ratios of mineral fuel consumption in the Pacific states were as follows: Coal, 41.1 per cent; coke, 1.9 per cent; fuel oil, 57 per cent. Of the coal 77 per cent was derived from domestic sources, and of this the Washington fields supplied about 85 per cent.

Nothwithstanding their large use of fuel oil the Pacific coast states and territories now use about 4,500,000 tons of coal and about 130,000 tons of coke. It is reasonable to assume that during the next decade the California oil pools will not make the same rate of increase in output that they have made during the last decade, and therefore that Alaska's immense store of coal may find profitable demand on the Pacific coast.

Possible Effect of Panama Coal.

The completion of the Panama canal may enable eastern operators to deliver high-grade coals on the Pacific coast at prices about the same as those that can be offered by operators in Alaska. Other competing fields will be those of Vancouver island and New South Wales.

The present markets for Alaska coal may be grouped under three heads—the local market, without competition, about 120,000 tons a year; a market competitive, yet favorable, about 350,000 tons; and a competitive market, about 1,000,000 tons. These rough estimates indicate that Alaska coal of the better grade could perhaps find a market to the extent of a million tons a year.

Scope of Report.

The advance chapter just published which was prepared by Alfred H. Brooks, can be had by applying to the director of the geological survey at Washington. It contains an account of the mineral industry in Alaska in 1908 and a brief but comprehensive report on Alaska coal and its utilization, including a statement of the geologic distribution of the coal, estimates of areas of coal lands and of tonnage, analysis of coals, and descriptions of the several coal fields and the mining developments. The discussions of the value of the coal lands, the cost of mining and marketing, and the markets are of special interest.

FOREST CONFLAGRATIONS.

The great prevalence of forest fires in this province and in the states just south of the boundary line, involving immense pecuniary loss, both to the state and to individuals, and the sacrifice of many lives, makes this matter one of serious importance and raises the question whether some legislative action should not be taken to prevent, as far as human institutions can, such disastrous outbreaks in the future. Indirectly these vast forest conflagrations are causing loss and danger in other directions. It is reported for instance that for a distance of three hundred miles from land the Pacific is enveloped in a thick pall of smoke, making navigation most difficult and dangerous. On land we are also living under a thick grey pall that effectually shuts out the sun, and traffic on the railways, particularly in the vicinity of the fires, is being seriously delayed and endangered.

Well worthy of note is the fact that Sir Wilfrid Laurier, when journeying from Vancouver to Prince Rupert, had his attention directed to the fires that were then raging at different points along the coast, and was much impressed by the seriousness of the matter. He discussed the question of possible legislation directed towards the avoidance of forest fires, and suggested that the Federal and Provincial governments should get together and devise a means of prevention. This is a most excellent proposal, and knowing the premier's practical methods, we may expect some advantageous steps to be taken as soon as he is back in Ottawa.

THE NATIONAL TRANSCONTINENTAL.

It is highly gratifying to learn that given favorable conditions, the Grand Trunk Pacific management expects to have the main line completed into Prince Rupert in 1912, or 1913 at the latest. At present the contractors are experiencing some difficulty on account of the scarcity of labor, but it is to be hoped this temporary setback will soon be remedied and that construction work will proceed with the necessary promptness.

The section of the line from Quebec to Moncton will, it is announced, be completed next year, in time to allow it to be used for the transportation of the western grain crop. The Quebec bridge will not be finished for some time longer, but temporary arrangements will be made to ferry cars across the St. Lawrence river pending the completion of the structure. It will take some time to fill in the gap between Quebec and Cochrane, but the completion of the line between the latter point and Lake Superior Junction will enable the management to divert traffic southward over its own system through Ontario and Quebec.

MANITOBA DRYS ARE BECOMING VERY ACTIVE

Winnipeg, Aug. 28.—The temperance forces of Manitoba are planning for a vigorous local option campaign and it would not be a surprise if there was a vote this fall in every rural municipality and every village and town in the province.

The plan of the temperance leaders is to bring all rural Manitoba under local option and then march on the three smaller cities of Brandon, Portage and St. Boniface, winding up with an attack on Winnipeg.

An auto trip of the province by a band of temperance speakers and singers led by W. W. Buchanan, has just been completed. Two hundred and nineteen meetings were held in sixty-seven days. Mr. Buchanan attended 210 of the meetings and delivered that number of addresses in sixty-five days.

"BAD HISTORY."

Editor, Daily News:

Sir—Your esteemed morning contemporary, the News-Advertiser, would appear to have taken very much to heart an incidental historical reference in the address presented by the Liberals of New Westminster on Wednesday last to Sir Wilfrid Laurier, objecting particularly to these sentences addressed to the premier:

"You found Canada, nearly fifteen years ago, when you were first called to adminster her national affairs, a congeries of provinces rather than a conscious commonwealth, and somewhat distrustful and pessimistic as to her future. You found a duality of mutually distrustful races, with a dangerous line of cleavage developing, menacing all future harmony."

I cannot burden your columns with all the objections and objurgations that the Vancouver journalistic keeper of the Conservative privy conscience files against this simple and fair epitome of the vexed and troublous period in Canadian history, federally speaking particularly, of about fifteen years ago—with the breakdown of the "National Policy" as a guaranteed preventive of "hard times" the break-up of the "grand old Conservative party" of Sir John A. Macdonald into the "nest of traitors" and the protesting faction which coined the phrase, and the ill-advised, but fortunately for the whole country, unsuccessful attempt of that moribund party, in its death throes, to exact "the pound of flesh" from one of the provinces by coercive federal legislation. One trembles to think of what the sequel might have been had not the guiding star of Wilfrid Laurier then arisen, and been gladly hailed by the people, to show a more excellent way, not only out of the clash of sectional and racial strife, but out of the quagmire of commercial and financial depression and general discontent which, to put it mildly, the ignis fatuus of a vaunted protective system had been able to save the country from.

"Bad history," ejaculates your deprecating contemporary. Well, one can agree that it is bad history in a sense, and that it is fitted to give "a bad turn" to the keeper of the comfortably somnolent privy conscience aforesaid to have this particular bit of "bad history" recalled ever so lightly, especially as thereabout lies the fatal field of a modern Waterloo, which is very "bad history" for a certain party, but from which dates a brighter and better era for Canada.

ELECTRICITY MAY DISPLACE SCALPEL

French Surgeon Declares High Frequency Currents Roast Off Limbs Without Pain.

Paris, Aug. 28.—The latest surgical sensation is the possible use of electricity as a substitute for the knife. Instead of being cut with pain, gangrened limbs will fall off, miraculously amputating themselves.

"I have been able, with powerful apparatus," says Prof. d'Arsonval, "to pass into animals high frequency currents capable of raising their bodies to a very high temperature, without any action on their sensibility or muscular contractibility being noticed.

"These animals appeared to feel nothing. The calorific effect resulting from the passage of the current was such that the hinder members were in a few minutes literally roasted. It is extraordinary," added the professor; "the animal manifested no pain; and a few days later the limbs dropped off, leaving perfectly cicatrised stumps."

Y DELANY THINKS RNS WILL BEAT LANGFORD

tle, Aug. 28.—Billy Delaney, ally credited with being one of wise old owls of the fighting believes that Tommy Burns hip Sam Langford when they in London next December. Bob another old timer, agrees with on this proposition.

F. Corbett, sporting editor of Sydney Referee, travelled from e to New York to see Lang and el box, and it was to Corbett Delany and Deady made the about Burns. In a letter to the ing editor of The Times Corbett what Delaney and Deady told and he also says those two old s firmly believe that Langford t on his match with Kaufman iladelphia through fear. Corbett is too conservative nture an opinion as to how the Kaufman bout will end. It is for six rounds and as neither man nor Lang is much for speed not likely that much damage e done in such a short bout.

WESTMINSTER WON UNINTERESTING GAME

Vancouver Went Down to Defeat, Score 4 Goals to 3—Small Crowd.

With the peerless Sandy Gray off duty and the mighty Tommy Gifford doing a has-been work behind the goal post, the Westminster lacrosse team managed to defeat the Vancouver aggregation on Saturday, the score being four goals to three. The match did not prove much of a drawing card, only about eleven hundred people, including a few hundred youngsters and scores of "officials" witnessing the struggle.

The game was not particularly interesting. Compared with other games played here this season it suffers. The boys played good lacrosse, they were clean, the lead in the scoring was sufficiently close to engender doubt as to the final result, but there was no vim or dash in the play. There seemed to be a what's-the-use feeling among the visitors which was counterbalanced by a we-don't-have-to-win opinion on the part of the locals. Under those conditions, what could be expected?

Towards the end of the game the Westminster men played rag so deliberately that Referee Hailey Wilson stopped play and ordered the ball faced off from centre field, greatly to Con Jones' delight, for Con had been anxiously directing the referee's attention to the leisurely manner in which Pat Feeney was carrying the ball down the field. Pat can be a most tantalizing player when he wishes, but he overdid it a little on this occasion.

Tommy Noah Brusso Burns did duty for Vancouver as goal umpire. It is surmised the redoubtedly Tommy came over really to have another look at the other Tommy's playing, with a view to being primed with counter tricks for Labor Day, when Burns is slated to play outside home against Gifford in Vancouver. If so, Burns was disappointed, for Gifford only exercised his arms whenever the ball happened to lodge in the net at his end of the field.

There should be some excitement when Burns trots out on that lacrosse field next week. Con Jones has shown the former and future prize fighter a thousand dollars ($1000) in real money which will be transferred to Tommy's account if he survives the match. Even if Burns cannot play lacrosse his personality is strong enough to add considerably to the attendance.

The two subs on the Westminster team did well, Hughie Gifford stopping many difficult shots on the net, while Pete Latham scored two of the goals and engineered a third. The regulars played like the veterans they are. Spike Hennessey was back on the Vancouver team, taking Matheson's place. Matheson was not much missed. Hogan played like a kid on the home; he put up the worst exhibition on the field.

Vancouver opened the scoring in the first quarter, Shaun O'Reilly slamming the rubber in. A couple of minutes later Latham equalized for Westminster and a little later O'Reilly again tallied, giving Vancourver a lead at the end of the quarter. There were no penalties in this period. The only incident in the second quarter was the sending of Griffith to the fence for slashing Pete Latham. All penalty checks handed out by Referee Wilson were for five minutes.

In the third quarter O'Reilly went off for worrying Punk Wintemute. Westminster scored twice, Len Turnbull and Grumpy Spring being responsible.

Latham scored in quick time in the last quarter, putting the locals two ahead. A tally by Bones Allen reduced this to one a few minutes later, Bones netting after some pretty work.

The game ended with Westminster in possession of the ball, the players passing at long range in a time killing stunt that certainly peeved Con Jones. Knowing the game was practically over, the Vancouver men made no frantic effort to secure possession of the sphere.

OFFERING PRIZE IS BAD FOR BASEBALL

Boston, Aug. 28.—Secretary Locke, of the Pittsburg Pirates, unites with Manager Fred Lake, of the Doves, in declaring that the offering of motor cars or other prizes to the leading batsmen in either league is bound to be harmful to baseball, if it continues as conducted as at present.

"It's all very well this year," says Locke, "but if it continues, within a season or two these charges, which I notice have begun to crop up already in some cities, that the scorers in some cities are favoring their leading hitters so they will have a chance for the big buzz wagon, are bound to bear bad fruit and cause plenty of trouble.

"In addition to this, managers are going to be double-crossed again and again when they order players to step to the plate and sacrifice, wait or do anything, except try to bang out a hit. Several ball players have that 'buzz wagon' bug so badly that they think of nothing else. While Wagner himself will not admit it, I know that some of the Pittsburg players think Honus' slump early this season was caused by over-anxiety to connect."

FIGHT LID DOWN IN LOS ANGELES

Los Angeles, Aug. 28.—Professional boxing is prohibited in an ordinance which will be considered by the city council this afternoon. The ban is absolute. Amateur contests are limited to four rounds and the prize shall be "a medal or trophy not exceeding $25 in value." Permits for such contests must be secured from the police commission.

INTERMEDIATES PLAY DRAW.

In a preliminary to the professional event at Queens park on Saturday afternoon, the East End and the West End intermediates of this city played an interesting lacrosse match to a draw, the score standing four all at the finish. The game was remarkably clean, only one penalty being handed out, this falling to the lot of D. Bartlett, who spent three minutes on the fence. George Rennie handled the whistle.

The teams:

West End—Goal, Munn, Digby, B. Galbraith, L. Adams, E. Cooper, W. Sangster, Battson, D. Bartlett, Gregory, R. Sangster, McPhadden and Swanson.

East End—Goal, W. Keary, Pearson, Robertson, Cotton, J. Gifford, H. Turnbull, Fitzgerald, Kenny, A. Smith, C. Smith, Morrison and Huff.

After the game the Kilmarnock Cup, emblematic of the amateur lacrosse championship of the coast, was formally handed over to the representatives of the Vancouver team.

Pearson Punished.

At a meeting of the amateur lacrosse league held in Vancouver on Saturday evening, Roy Pearson was suspended from the league until July 2, 1911, this action being taken as the outcome of the attack by Pearson on Calder at the last lacrosse game in Vancouver. Pearson deliberately struck Calder with his stick when the ball was nowhere near, breaking Calder's nose. This is the first occasion for a long time that coarse work on the field has been punished by the league.

In the police court on Saturday Dan McLaggan was fined $5 and costs for fighting and George Penyier, his sparring partner, was assessed $15 and costs. Both the fines were paid.

SCOURGE OF THE KNIFE IN ITALY

80,000 Stabbed Annually —Preventative Measures Ineffectual in Sunny Land

A Roman journal, recounting the customary list of assaults which had taken place in the course of the night, began with the words: "Il coltello: l'eterno nemico, sempre lui!" The exclamation is unfortunately illustrative of the general attitude in Italy towards the most common class of violent crime. The knife is the enemy; the man who uses it is the victim of opportunity. Remove the knife and there would be no crime. It is certainly true that if no knives were carried the number of murders and criminal woundings would be reduced by at least two-thirds, if not more. But Italian governments have tried to remove the knife by a long series of penal enactments, and they have failed. Public opinion in Italy may well ask itself now if the time has not come to leave the knife and attack more vigorously the man who uses it. As long as he is regarded as the victim of circumstance his reformation seems hopeless.

The Greater Scourge.

The Chamber of Deputies has just passed an elementary education bill designed to combat what Italian journals call the "scourge of illiteracy." There is more need for some measure to combat the greater scandal and scourge of the knife. In parliamentary speeches there is a tendency to merge the two issues in the belief that a wider spread of elementary education will lead to a diminution in crimes of violence. It certainly will not increase them; but, on the other hand, there is no definite reason for supposing that it will have any appreciable effect in decreasing them. The actual figures as to illiteracy among those who are convicted of violent assault do not appear in penal statistics, but, if one can judge at all from cases reported in newspapers, illiteracy is not a marked characteristic of crime. Though it is true that violent crime is more prevalent in provinces where the rate of illiteracy is highest, still the average of violent crime in Italy is so enormously out of proportion to the average of illiteracy when both are compared to corresponding averages in other countries, that it is folly to regard the one as the outcome of the other. Education is truly needed; but an education of a very different kind.

Rate Dimishes.

The rate of illiterate diminished, on the showing of the census from 63 per cent of the whole population over twenty years of age in 1882 to 52 per cent in 1901, or nearly twenty years later. The great bulk of crimes of violence, excepting actual murders, which have diminished in number, has hardly been decreased at all. In 1906 (the latest year published in Statistical Giudizaria Penale of 1909) the number or murders committed in Italy was 2,612, of which 203 were the work of unknown and undiscovered agents. The number of crimes of violence against the person, the majority of which were knifing cases was in the same year 85,593, and of these 2,437 were due to unknown assailants. The rate of murder has greatly decreased, since the yearly average between 1880 and 1886 is stated to have been 4,620. But in spite of some fluctuations the rate of crimes of violence, not fatal in their consequences, has hardly altered.

In 1906, against an amount of violent crime which reached 2,612 murders and 85,593 cases of wounding, there can only be set sixty-four sentences to the ergastolo, and 122 to terms of imprisonment exceeding twenty years. The ergastolo is said to be worse than death, though men have survived it.

Measures Inefficient.

Setting aside all question of murder and the prevention of murder, there is still the question of how to prevent more than 80,000 people from being stabbed and wounded in other ways, more or less greviously, in the course of every year. The Italian government has hitherto put its faith in the removal of temptation in the shape of the knife, and the reform of the individual culprits by terms of imprisonment and fines.

It is now a penal offence to carry any knife of which the blade measures more than four inches, or any steel implement sharpened and suited for stabbing purposes, or any firearms without a license, or to introduce any weapon of any kind into a public meeting. People using knives, or found in possession of knives when arrested, are fined or sentenced to imprisonment, the punishment varying between a small fine for mere 'contraventions' and terms of imprisonment for actually using them which are seldom of great severity. The result has been simply nil.

The statistics of the last twenty years prove the absolute inefficiency of the remedies hitherto adopted. And no remedy is likely to be efficacious until it is conceived in a different spirit—not directed towards executing justice upon individual culprits, but solely towards the protection of the community.

A BLUE ROSE AT LAST.

No true horticulturist is satisfied with the colors given to blooms by nature. If a flower is normally yellow or red, he desires to produce a variety which shall be green or blue or black.

Formerly the "blue rose," the "green carnation" and the "black tulip" were synonyms for the impossible, but thanks to the striving of growers after unnatural tints such phrases have lost their old significance.

Alfred Smith, F. R. H. S., of Downley, High Wycombe, who is a well-known rose specialist, has been experimenting for three or four years with a view of the production of a blue rose. By the process of crossing different strains he has now succeeded in obtaining the most distinct blue rose yet produced and has given it the name of Lady Coventry.

His nursery is near the estate of the late Lord Beaconfield at Hughenden and he has previously achieved success by blending the common dog rose with cultivated roses, a notable example of his work being a climbing rose, pure white, which grows in clusters of from forty to sixty blooms.—London Daily News.

KNIFE ONLY CURE FOR DREAD CANCER

London, Aug. 28.—The British Medical association's annual congress is in session. The usual deep interest is manifested in the address regarding the treatment of cancer. Gilbert Barling, professor of surgery at the University of Birmingham, and Prof. Louis Wickham, one of the greatest authorities on radium, were the chief speakers. Dr. Barling maintained that at present surgery alone could be relied on as the great remedy. He said that only one real opportunity to cure exists, viz.—at the first operation, which should be pressed to the fullest extent. He believed that if all the malignant growth could be excised at a certain stage of development, all could be cured. He dismissed treatment by serum and drugs as futile.

Regarding radium, he said there was much that is promising but little that is conclusive. A profound impression was often produced. Malignant tumors of large extent might disappear or diminish. Radium could give relief in inoperable cases, but he refused to take the responsibility of advancing its use as a substitute for operations.

Suggestions should be made tending to give a distaste for morphia and to strengthen the will power. Patients should also be taught to put themselves to sleep by auto-suggestion, "a mental trick, that can be acquired by all but mental invertebrates."

BANKERS: MERCHANTS BANK OF CANADA, NEW WESTMINSTER, B. C.

The above company was formed in February of this year, and duly registered under the Company's Act of 1897, with the main object of acquiring properties in New Westminster's beautiful suburb of Edmonds, upon the Burnaby Heights, and developing and building upon same.

The settler or the investor has only to glance at the general development of Edmonds within the last twelve months and to note in particular the work accomplished by the Edmonds Development Company in the district, to see at a glance where lies the choicest field in the neighborhood of New Westminster for safe investment and splendidly situated and healthy residence.

Whilst the Edmonds Development Company is in the best sense of the word a co-operative foundation, and considers the claims of its investors as prior to all others, where the development of property by means of the company's funds is sought; it takes also into the fullest consideration the claims of the settler who wishes to acquire property in the neighborhood, or, having land, wishes to build a home thereon.

Those operations in realty and construction which the Edmonds Development Company has already undertaken in Burnaby during the current year, have shown a net return to investors, upon the capital subscribed to date, of over 25 per cent., and during the seven months of the Company's active existence they have acquired at cheap cost some very valuable permanent assets in the district, among which may be mentioned that splendidly situated triangular business lot at the junction of the Vancouver and Edmonds roads, and bungalow sites upon the latter highway.

With the object of immediately extending the field of the Company's operations, the Directors of the Edmonds Development Company, Ltd., now propose to place upon the market a further block of $10,000 worth of stock, and they look with confidence to residents of the districts of New Westminster and of Burnaby and Edmonds in particular, to respond in subscribing for shares in the Company.

The stock of the Edmonds Development Company has never been advertised or "boomed." The occasion for such has never arisen. The corporation has hitherto gone smoothly along, making interest quietly and steadily, and its directors have touched none but safe and profitable investments, whilst many of its shareholders have considerably increased their holdings.

Applications for stock may be made upon the following form, which should be cut out and forwarded to the undersigned:

"WHAT'S IN A NAME" IS SUBJECT OF DISCUSSION

Who Bear Common Christian Names Make Better Success of Life Than Algernons, Etc.

The Rochester Union and Advertiser has propounded a question which promises to remain unanswered. It is this:

"Why is it that the boys with the old-fashioned names seem to get to the front? A canvass of the names of candidates for the governorship will demonstrate that the boys who were called "Bill" in their schooldays are coming up large. There are no Percys or Algernons in this list, and they are in sight."

And why is it, indeed, that the Percys and the Algernons seem fated to stay out of politics, and the Bills are there? Why, is it, for instance, that every member of the Dominion cabinet, except the minister of justice and those of French origin, wears the commonest Christian names in the language. Harking back to their schoolboy days, they become Dick Cartwright, Fred Borden, Syd Fisher, Frank Oliver, George Graham, Charlie Murphy and no less than five Williams, Bill Fielding, Bill Patterson, Bill Templeman, Bill Pugsley, and Bill King. Nor is the minister of justice a little out of the common, he pays the penalty by being known as "A. B."

On the front benches of the Opposition sit Bob Borden, George Foster, Charlie Doherty, Bill Maclean, Sam Hughes, Sam Barker, et al. In the Ontario legislature the leading Conservatives bear names quite as democratic. Jim Whitney, Bob Pyne, Joe Reaume, Bill Hanns, Art Matheson, Jim Duff, Jim Foy, Frank Cochrane, John Hendrie; also such good old testament favorites as are borne by Adam Beck and Isaac Luca. And Sandy MacKay is the leader of the opposition.

There seems to be something in a name after all. Politically speaking the commoner it is the better. To be a Bill or a Jim may not assure political distinction, but certainly nothing but political extinction seems to await most of the men who were christened something unusual.

Golden Gate Flight Abandoned.

San Francisco, Aug. 28.—The attempt to fly across Golden Gate from Fort Baker to the Presidio was abandoned yesterday by Aviator I. Baldwin.

ON GERMAN ROADS.

Railway Authorities Erecting Comfortable Quarters for Men.

Berlin, Aug. 28.—The railway authorities in Prussia are up to date in the matter of care for the comfort and well being of their employees. Their last movement in this direction is to provide clubhouses for employes who end the day's service at a point distant from their homes.

At certain points along the various lines they have built two-story houses with comfortable sleeping and eating rooms where engineers, conductors, inspectors and section hands can pass the night and take supper or breakfast. The dormitories contain two, four and six beds and there are separate sleeping rooms for specially privileged officials.

Each railroad man actually employed on a train who has to pass the night away from his home is supplied at the point of departure with a bedding outfit packed in a handy case. If he wishes he can take provisions with him which he can have cooked or warmed up at the sleeping station. Some of the newly-opened houses are supplied with a small library of books or a few of the day's papers. No charge is made for the accommodation or service.

SIX MONTHS' TRADE OF UNITED KINGDOM

Large Increase in Imports and Exports for First Half of the Present Year.

The total values of the merchandise imported into the United Kingdom and of the merchandise exported from the United Kingdom during the six months ending June 30, 1910, were as follows:

Imports, £334,452,818.

Exports, United Kingdom produce, £204,585,723.

Foreign and colonial produce, £55,312,271.

On comparison with the totals for the corresponding period of the year 1909 these figures show the following increases:

In imports, £32,805,148, or 10.9 per cent.

In exports, of United Kingdom produce, £27,651,373, or 15.6 per cent.

In exports of foreign and colonial produce, £8,763,103, or 18.8 per cent.

The values of merchandise imported and of foreign and colonial merchandise exported, during the first half of the year 1910 were greater than in the first half of any previous year and the exports of United Kingdom produce fell short of the record figures in 1907 by some £1,732,000 only on a total exceeding £200,000,000. As compared with the first half of 1909 there were large increases in nearlf every class of imports under the head of "raw materials and articles mainly unmanufactured" and in each principal class of exports under the head of "articles wholly or mainly manufactured."

Owing to the shortage of the cotton crop the supply of raw cotton was greatly reduced, and in spite of the high level at which its price has been maintained the value of the imports fell off by nearly £4,000,000 as compared with the first half of 1909.

The quantity of caoutchouce imported into the United Kingdom during the first half of 1910 was 502,499 cwts., as compared with 355,955 cwts. in the first half of 1909. Although the re-exports of caoutchouce as well as the imports were much greater this year than last the amount retained in the United Kingdom was 241,453 cwts. this year as compared with 162,777 cwts. in the first half of last year. The value of the retained caoutchouce was £7,832,000 this year as compared with £2,478,000 in the first half of 1909, the average value per cwt. being more than double that of last year.

The total value of the merchandise imported into the United Kingdom from Canada during the half year was £10,599,285, and that of the produce and manufactures of the United Kingdom exported to the Dominion £9,511,278. In addition, foreign and colonial merchandise to the value of £1,438,638 was exported from the United Kingdom to Canada during the half year.

The corresponding figures for the first half of the year 1909 were imports from Canada £8,397,914; exports to Canada (U. K. produce) £6,903,536; re-exports £1,057,856.

The principal imports and exports included the following:

Imports.	Value. Half year ending June 30. 1909	1910
Articles.
Wheat	£2,895,886	£3,824,696
Wheat-meal and flour	405,856	872,663
Bacon & hams	721,781	695,370
Cheese	935,041	961,012
Canned salmon	311,186	659,186
Wood, sawn or split, planed or dressed	715,130	811,341
Exports.
Iron and steel and manufactures thereof (so far as separately distinguished in the monthly accounts)	653,915	861,827
Cotton piece goods	620,091	924,803

SWEDISH MINISTER TO UNITED STATES RESIGNS

Stockholm, Aug. 28.—Herman De Lagercrantz, the representative of Sweden at Washington since 1907, has resigned, according to an announcement made here today, to look after his personal interests in Sweden, where he has large holdings.

The retiring minister's diplomatic services are highly regarded here, and there is no foundation for the report that his resignation was caused by attacks made on him by Swedish-American press.

The slight rains on Saturday night and Sunday morning will do a great deal towards stopping the incipient bush fires prevalent all over the district. Yesterday the air was much freer of smoke than it has been for about a week and the bush fire condition must have been improved considerably. Although it did not rain hard enough or long enough to check any serious conflagrations it effectually prevented the immediate spreading of all the small fires. Advices from White Rock state that the light rain there helped a lot in keeping down the fire, and except in case of a heavy gale the situation there now is comparatively safe.
