BRITAIN ANXIOUS

Persian Situation Arouses Apprehension.

PRESTIGE IS THREATENED

Press Considers Present Crisis Warrants Grave Concern—Russia Would Not Withdraw.

London, Dec. 10.—Details as to the advance of the Russian troops in Persia have been kept completely in the dark for several days.

Newspapers and politicians generally regard it as unlikely that Russia, once entrenched in Persia, will withdraw.

The Teheran correspondent of The Times predicts that Russia's first act will be to substitute a new form of government for that of the national council.

Possible damage to British commercial interests is absorbing attention, but the blow to British prestige among Orientals causes anxiety.

The Outlook says:

"We are face to face with one of the gravest crisis in the history of British policy in Asia."

The Nation says:

"It means the worst blow that our prestige could suffer in the East. We appear as the weak partner who dares not try to check his powerful and unscrupulous associate."

How large a force has been despatched by the Russian government and particulars as to its movement are unknown in London, but the public generally feels that the end will be the establishment of a Russian protectorate over the best part of Persia, including the two northern capitals, Tabriz and Teheran.

The British cabinet is trying to induce Russia to abate her demands, but the crux of the matter is the tension with Germany, which overshadows all other considerations. Britain needs Russia's support in case of a war with Germany, and, therefore, cannot afford to take a stand against her.

Mr. W. Morgan Shuster, the American treasurer-general in Persia, whose dismissal was demanded by Russia, is held responsible for having brought the Persian trouble to a crisis.

He has been one of the most discussed men in England during the last week. All officials, as well as the newspapers, credit him with efficiency and good intentions, but accuse him of lacking diplomatic tact.

OVER FIFTY YEARS SPENT IN PRISON

Wife Slayer Has Served Long Term—Application for Parole or Pardon May Be Considered.

Hartford, Conn., Dec. 10.—Among the 36 convicts at the state prison at Wethersfield, whose applications for parole or pardon will be considered by the state board of pardons when that board meets here on Tuesday, is John Warren, the oldest inmate of the prison, who has spent 52 years of his life in that penal institution.

In the fall of 1859, John Warren was convicted of the murder of his wife and sentenced to prison for life. He entered the state prison at Wethersfield November 14, 1859, and has remained isolated from the outside world ever since.

Several times he appealed to the board of pardons for his release, but in every case his application was denied. This year he has again petitioned for a pardon and his friends confidently expect that this time the board of pardons will be less obdurate.

The history of Warren's crime is rather unusual. In the early summer of 1859 John P. Warren, then only 21 years old, and his 18-year-old wife lived on a small farm in Willington, a little town in Tolland county, in the northeastern part of Connecticut. On a warm morning in July of that year Warren and his wife took a walk in the woods.

It was hot and when they came to a brook not far from their farm, Warren proposed that they take off their shoes and stockings and bathe their feet in the cool waters of the brook. His wife consented and, having taken off her shoes and stockings, waded into the brook.

Warren sprang at her, threw her down and held her head under the water until his wife was dead. Just what fury or passion animated Warren and prompted him to commit the cold-blooded and apparently unprovoked crime never has been ascertained. Warren himself, although he confessed the crime, never has given any explanation of his action or the motive of the deed. He secreted the body of his wife in the woods, where it was soon found. Warren was arrested and put through the "third degree." He confessed his crime, but refused to make any explanatory statement.

MARRIED IN B.C. FIFTY YEARS AGO

Mr. and Mrs. Armstrong, of Sixth Street, Set Mark for Rising Generation to Emulate.

Celebrations of golden weddings are not rare, but there were unusual features about the golden wedding that was celebrated at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Armstrong, of New Westminster, on Sixth street, on Saturday evening.

Fifty years ago, on the ninth day of December, Mr. and Mrs. Armstrong were married and settled down in a home on the spot where they are still living. His honor, Judge Howay, asked if he knew of any other case where a couple who married and settled down in Westminster had lived to celebrate their golden wedding on the place where their married life began, said he had not heard of any, and he was disposed to regard the case of Mr. and Mrs. Armstrong as unique.

An occasion so remarkable was made the more happy by the congratulations which were extended to the couple on Saturday evening. Relatives and friends gathered to felicitate them and to extend all the good wishes which go out to them from the entire community.

Of more immediate interest to Mr. and Mrs. Armstrong, their family and friends, the unusual circumstances surrounding the event give it an importance co extensive with the province and make it part of its history.

MIRACLE LESS POTENT THAN BIBLE READING

Canon d'Easum Preaches on Importance of Scripture—By Observance Comes Understanding.

Rev. Canon G. C. d'Easum was the preacher at evensong at the cathedral of the Holy Trinity last night. Canon d'Easum took as his text the words "Whatsoever things were written for our learning, that we through patience and comfort of them might find hope," and also the closing words of the parable of the rich man. "If they fear not Moses and the prophets, neither will they be persuaded though one rose from the dead."

Canon d'Easum pointed out how striking these words were, and yet how literally true. He imagined a miracle whereby someone should return from the dead with a report of the other world, and the sceptical reception his story would receive from all but the very few. In any case, he said, the effect of such a startling event would not be as lasting as the living of a Christian life and the observance of the ordinary Christian exercises and "means of grace." One of these practices ordained by Christ was the reading of the Holy Bible, and one of the questions that we should ask our conscience at this time of preparation for the glorious advent, was, What had we done with the Holy Scriptures? They had been written specially for us. Had we used them as we should have done?

"The bible comes to us with three powers," went on the preacher. "First it has the power of tradition, second, the power of prophecy, and thirdly, the power of edification. It is not the quantity we read, but the way we read it, that matters." The speaker acknowledged the difficulty of understanding the bible to the full, but "if any man do God's will, he shall know the doctrine." Thus it was that by carrying out the teaching as far as we could understand it we should learn gradually to understand it more and more.

MEXICAN TROOPS SEVERELY REPULSED

Medira, Yucatan, Mexico, Dec. 10.—Of a force of about 150 State Guards, mostly Yaqui Indians, who engaged a band of Reyistas estimated at between 400 and 600 near here today, less than a dozen escaped, according to meager information brought to this city by fugitives late yesterday afternoon.

The government troops were routed completely. The fight occurred on the haciendas of Saonote and Misnolbelan. A fresh force has taken the field to dislodge the rebels.

The stories told by the survivors, confirmed by the owners of the haciendas, indicates that the insurrectos were far better equipped than was generally supposed. They were well mounted, carried modern arms and used dynamite and operated field telephones, it is declared.

The gunboat Bravo is reported to have disembarked four hundred federals today at Minadeoro. The troops are to be stationed along the coast to guard against the landing of contraband arms and ammunition.

In a second fight yesterday afternoon the rebels were defeated at the hacienda. The casualties are not given.

TERMS OF PEACE

President and Council Take Place of Emperor.

POVERTY OF YUAN SHI KAI

Uncensored News, Chiefly Letters, Tells of Destruction of Mission Houses in China.

Peking, Dec. 10.—The terms that the Imperial delegates will take to Shanghai or Nanking in an endeavor to settle the questions in dispute between the government and the revolutionists are believed to provide:—

First—That the emperor shall be retained, though he will be entirely without power.

Second—That a president and cabinet shall be elected by the nation, and the president shall possess the same authority as the president of a republic.

Third—If the foregoing conditions are accepted, the government will grant provincial autonomy.

These terms are considered largely a bluff. Yuan Shi Kai still controls a substantial army, but is unable to pay the soldiers, and, desiring to save the nation, must accept the republican demands. Therefore he offers autonomy, which the provinces already have assumed.

His call for delegates from the provinces having met with no response, Yuan Shi Kai has now appointed residents of Peking and natives of the various provinces to accompany Tang Shao Yi, the former minister of posts and communications, who is acting as a go-between in efforts to reunite the country.

There is slight difference between the terms of Yuan and those demanded several days ago by the revolutionary leaders, who offer to leave the emperor titular sovereign.

Most of the legations are ready to harbor the emperor in case of his abdication, but it is believed the court will select either that of the United States or Japan.

A fire late last night near the Forbidden City is believed to have been of incendiary origin.

Foreigners Perish.

The first direct and uncensored [illegible] the recent outbreak there was brought here yesterday by messengers. It consisted of letters to the British and American legations and the director of posts.

The letters say that 8000 Manchus were slain by Chinese and that there was much looting. Several mission houses in the province were destroyed and eight foreigners, some of them children, were killed.

Four of the dead were Americans. According to the letters, foreigners in the province of Shen Si, of which Sian Fu is the capital, numbered 75, including 17 Americans. A majority of these are now in Sian Fu, but others fled to the province of Kan Su.

"We are apparently safe now," says one of the letters, "but the lawless are in the majority. We had hoped to escape down the Han river, but the road is dangerous. The Kan Su missionaries may have a hard time. Twenty-two of them, including children, are Americans. Money cannot be sent them as the mails have stopped and the banks here have been robbed and burned."

This letter is signed by V. J. Playmire, of the Christian and Missionary Alliance of Tao Chow, province of Kan Su. It is dated November 26.

BURLINGTON TEACHERS FOND OF WALKING

Burlington, Ia., Dec. 10.—Three young women will take a little walk from here to St. Louis after the winter school session is ended. The distance is 221 miles.

They are Miss Rose Keehn, 19 years old; Miss Nanny Lundell, 23 years, and Miss Ebba Nelson, 20 years old, all members of well known and highly esteemed Burlington families. They are school teachers and they believe in outdoor exercise. No hobble skirts for them.

Every Sunday for a long time they have taken a walk to some neighboring town, following the main highway or the railroad track. At first five or ten miles was their limit, but gradually they increased their distance until a tramp to Fort Madison, 20 miles away; Keokuk, 44 miles; Warsaw, Ill., 50 miles distant, was considered merely a form of recreation.

Recently the three young women, in khaki suits and flannel skirts, walked cheerily into Chicago, completing a tramp of 207 miles from Burlington.

Serious Charge.

Seattle, Dec. 10.—Malcolm C. Patterson, who shot and dangerously wounded R. T. Seal at Port Orchard on Friday, was brought to the county jail here last night and locked up in default of $20,000 bail, the offence charged against him being assault in the first degree. Paterson's father, ex-governor of Tennessee, has engaged counsel for him. Seal, who is in a hospital at Bremerton, is still alive.

DEATH IN COAL MINE

Over One Hundred Tennessee Miners Entombed.

RESCUE WORK PROCEEDING

Shafts Extend Two Miles in Cross Mountain System of Mining—Deadly Dust Blast.

Knoxville, Tenn., Dec. 10—A "dust" explosion in the main mine of the cross mountain system near Briceville early on Saturday entombed a large number of workers who had just entered for the day's work. The mine is usually manned by 200 miners, but whether all had entered the shaft prior to the "dust" blast has not been determined. It is estimated variously that between 125 and 268 men are in the mine.

Rescue preparations were immediately under way and at 10 o'clock gangs of miners from other works in the district had gone into the main cross mountain mine by three entrances.

They had entered a lateral, off the mine shaft, and succeeded in getting into the open before the flames and smoke caught them. The body of Lee Polston, operator of the mine fan plant, was found buried and mangled under the cave-in in the main shaft.

Rescue workers are making scarcely any headway. The government's rescue car and force are here, as are many rescuers and engineers from all over the district. The shafts extend more than two miles into the bowels of the mountain. According to President Stephenson, of the iron company, the men, if they had reached their posts, were in lateral shafts when the explosion occurred. This encourages those on the surface to hope that many may be living.

As news of the explosion spread about the Briceville district throngs of women and children rushed to the main entrance and clamored to be allowed to make their way inside to aid in the rescue.

Many of the women knew their husbands had entered the mine before the blast.

Most of these wives, however, maintained stout hearts. The majority [illegible] sed others about her, attempted to cheer her weeping sisters.

Rescue work was checked when great bellows of flame began to belch from the mouth of the mine. The rescue parties were hurled back by the flames.

The squads of rescuers could make no effective progress in their efforts to reach the entombed miners. Cave ins barred the way to the point where it is hoped the hundred or more men are still alive.

Members of rescue squads who were driven from the mine by flames and smoke declared they had advanced a mile into the main shaft before they were forced to retire, and that they had discovered no signs of the imprisoned men.

Dust Cause of Explosion.

Just before these rescuers were driven out they encountered a cave in in each of the entries. It was of such a character as almost positively to confirm the early theory that dust had caused the explosion.

Of all the men who went into the mine three have escaped. They were John Lang, Sam Farmer and Bert Hatmaker. They were in one of the lateral shafts. Warned by the noise, they escaped before being over taken by flames.

These men observed bad "signs" as they entered the mine. They believe the exact location of the blast is at least two miles in the interior and 800 feet from the mountain crest.

Thinks Many Men Escaped.

President Stephenson said the casualties would not be as large as at first reported from Briceville. He did not believe there were many men in the mine at the time of the explosion.

He said the mine is usually manned by about 200 workers, but many were late in reporting for work on Saturday.

There are three theories as to the cause of the explosion. One is that powder or dust exploded, the second is that an electric wire came in contact with explosives, and the third is that the explosion was caused by poor taping of a drill.

The mine was thoroughly inspected a week ago. There was no gases in the mine then. The mine also was recently inspected by an inspector under George E. Sylvester, state mine inspector, and a representative of a casualty company which carries insurance on the employees of the company also is said to have reported that it was in excellent condition.

Big Deal in Oregon Lumber.

Washington, Dec. 10.—A contract for the sale of 73,000,000 feet of timber in the Whitman National forest in Oregon at $2.50 per thousand feet has been made by the forest service. The lumber company that made the purchase is given seven years in which to cut the timber, and at the end of four years the forester, in his discretion, can increase the price to be paid for the remainder uncut, not to exceed 50 cents a thousand.

LOCAL MARKET FOR LUMBER HOLDS UP

Considering Time of Year Demand is Good—Northwest and Export Trade Quiet.

Reports from the saw mills for November show that work is being carried on at full pressure, and that the cut for the last month was well up to the average. As is usual at this time of year the demand for lumber is rather slack, but several mills report that the local market is holding up wonderfully well considering the time of year. Orders from the Northwest have fallen off in the usual proportion for the winter months, and the same remark applies to the export trade. American competition, however, is said to be very strong in the latter field, and even in the prairie trade British Columbia mills find they have to work hard to meet the competition from over the line.

The Royal City mills report that they are working full time, and that their cut for November was well up to the average. At the Brunette mills 2,000,000 feet were cut, and the New Westminster Lumber company return figures of 1,000,000 feet. Similar conditions prevail at all the large mills. Work is carried on much the same during the slack as the brisk months, the opportunity being taken to replenish depleted stocks.

As for the outlook it is generally regarded as particularly bright. Big sales without any material enhancement of prices sum up the expected conditions fairly accurately.

MUCH PROPERTY CHANGED HANDS

Large Deals Are Order of the Day—Small Men's Thoughts Turn to Christmas.

Ten and a half acres of Lulu island waterfrontage on the North Arm have [illegible] through the deal. About 350 feet of the above piece of land front on the river, its description being the west half of lot 35. Another big deal of the past week was the sale of 116 feet of B. C. E. R. trackage, being part of the three cornered block, on the other end of which stand the offices of the Westminster Woodworking company. Messrs. Kellington and Shortreed were the owners of this property.

Mr. A. Peters, of the Premier hotel, who has been active in the real estate market lately, has just bought himself a house through W. J. Kerr on Ninth street, near Fifth avenue. The price paid for this was $4500.

When these sales are added to those already announced in the columns of the Daily News during the past week, it will be seen that the New Westminster real estate market is very far from dull. It is an accepted tradition that quietness always prevails during the few weeks before Christmas, but in the case of waterfrontage and business property this has not been so this year. Smaller deals, however, have shown the usual tendency to drop off during the holiday time, when the thoughts of the average man are more concerned with Christmas presents than with snaps and bargains in desirable residential on speculative property. Despite the general truth of these remarks, however, it may be noticed that at Edmonds and East Burnaby sales have been frequent, while west end lots are still in very good demand. At Sapperton things are rather quiet, but already word is going round that with the new year a change is coming. Even now good residential lots in the east end situated anywhere below Fourth avenue are snapped up very quickly, there not being an over large supply of such property left on the market.

With regard to the coming week general indications point to the completion of some big deals in the near future. Waterfrontage, business property and industrial sites in the east end are mainly concerned in the negotiations now under way and it seems probable that some of these at least will be brought shortly to a successful conclusion. Christmas will no doubt prevent the general market from becoming active, but a quiet business seems likely to be carried on all the time.

Missing Child Restored.

Vancouver, Dec. 10.—Pete Donnely, the 8 year old "vagrant" arrested by a policeman three days ago for wandering around Cordova street without any visible means of support and, after a night in the police station, sent to the detention home, was claimed by his mother, Mrs. Peter Donnely, Prince Rupert, on Friday afternoon. Mrs. Donnely had been on a visit to New Westminster and had left the child in care of an aunt.

M'NAMARAS IN JAIL

Departure Kept Secret From General Public.

FRANKLIN ON TRIAL TODAY

Chief Detective for Defence Charged with Bribing Jurors and Prospective Jurors.

Los Angeles, Dec. 10.—John J. McNamara and his brother, James B. McNamara, are now in San Quentin prison.

With the utmost secrecy the pair, the younger doomed to life imprisonment, and the elder to fifteen years, were smuggled out of the county jail on Saturday and whisked by automobile to an outlying railroad station where a train was waiting. The men were enn route to a point near San Quentin on the coast, where they were transferred to a launch in which the last lap of the journey was made.

The final stage of the noted case will take place Monday when Bert H. Franklin, chief detective for the defence, will be placed on trial for bribeery. An organized effort to hush this phase of the case is in progress. The business interests of Los Angeles do not wish any further notoriety here, and it is recognized that if the bribery probe is pushed, the men who furnished the money Franklin is alleged to have used to bribe Juror Bain, Prospective Juror Lockwood and another whose identity is a carefully guarded secret, must be revealed. This would mean long drawn out criminal proceedings and more scandal.

That there is much in the McNamara case that is carefully concealed is admitted. It is unlikely, unless the bribery case is pushed, that any of it will ever be permitted to become public because numerous reputations are involved. One charge, freely made and not denied, is that the defence was permitted to get a complete line on the state's case months ago, and if the bribery expose had not come just at a time when it could be used as a club to force the pleas of guilty, there might have been a decidedly different outcome to the case. At least it is asserted de- [illegible] to the jury.

Darrow declared last night that he will make a complete accounting of all the money spent to the American Federation shortly. He declared that the lawyers in the case will not receive their stipulated fees, as there is not enough money on hand to pay them. According to him, after all the obligations are met there will hardly be enough money left to pay the rent of the offices here.

NOMINATIONS TO BE MADE THIS EVENING

Meeting in Eagles Hall Will Select Representatives of Organized Labor on Civic Boards.

The labor men will meet this evening in Eagles hall to review the work of the labor representatives on the school board and in the city council performed during the past year. They will also select their candidates for the coming civic elections. It has been rumored that the men may run a full list for the council, but inquiries in labor quarters have shown that such a move is unlikely, as tending rather to weaken than strengthen their representation.

Aldermen Campbell and Dodd were the labor aldermen for 1911, while Trustee Stoney was their representative on the school board.

C. P. R. TO SPEND MILLIONS IN WEST

Winnipeg, Dec. 10.—Returning on Saturday from the Pacific coast, Vice-president Bury, of the C. P. R., intimated that one result of his visit there would be that a large sum would be expended in improvements on the Pacific division, including $2,000,000 in Vancouver alone.

It is also announced by the Canadian Pacific railway from Montreal that the company will shortly raise $45,000,000 for terminals, improvements to properties and building hotels from the Atlantic to the Pacific coast at various centres. The C. P. R. has twenty million dollars in the treasury, and the remainder will be raised by issuing common stock.

Run Over and Killed.

Nanaimo, Dec. 10.—John Hunter, aged 14, son of Fred Hunter, of this city, was instantly killed when he was run over by a Western Fuel company locomotive in the vicinity of No. 1 shaft. The lad, who was employed as a brakeman, lost his footing and fell on the rails, and the wheels of the locomotive passed over the body at the waist, almost cutting it in two.

COPPER IN SCOTLAND.

Lode Has Been Discovered in Crockett Country.

What is described as a rich copper lode has been discovered, says the London Mining Journal, on the Cally estate, Kirkcudbright, the value of which is at present being tested by a syndicate. The lode, so far as opened up, appears to exceed twenty feet in width, and its course within the property, it is said, has been traced for over a mile. At a few feet from the surface, very rich copper ore has been found, and from its appearance in the gangue it is hoped that a seven or eight per cent copper proposition may reasonably be expected.

The strike, which is from northeast to southwest, is about five miles distant from the copper lodes situated at Enrick, near Gatehouse-of-Fleet, which during the last three years have been extensively opened up by the Cally syndicate. That portion of the new lode where development is proceeding lies in a velley between two mountains over 800 feet in height, and into one of these the lode appears to run. Thus an adit can be driven which should enable the ore to be won at a low cost, as no pumping will be required for years.

The railway passes within less than a mile, and the seaboard is adjacent. The nature of the ore is pyritic, and it is freely distributed through the gangue. On the adjoining property a valuable deposit, it is said, of hematite iron ore, has been found, and experts are of the opinion that this ore is exactly similar to the best hematite found in Cumberland, which, of course, is only separated from Kirkcudbright by the Solway firth, the geological features of the two counties being practically identical.

REPRESSION THE CAUSE.

Russia Looks for Social Upheaval in Coming Year.

St. Petersburg, Dec. 10.—An inspired article in the ultra-conservative Novoe Vremya, gives warning that the Russian revolutionaries are preparing for a fresh upheaval in 1912, which is to take the form of a gigantic peasant rebellion.

The revolutionary propagandists, the newspaper declares, have gone about the country telling the peasants that the czar has promised to give them all the land to celebrate the victory of Russian arms over Napoleon. The author of the article is the notorious Mienszkoff, who concludes with a tirade against the Jews who, he says, are the chief cause of the unrest.

In progressive circles it is affirmed that the article was intended to prepare the public mind for a number of reactionary measures, one of which is to make it a criminal offense for members of the orthodox church to become Protestants or Roman Catholics.

Hunting the Emu.

The natives of Australia are ingenious. A black, on discovering emus feeding on a plain, will cover his back and head with an emu skin, allowing it to hang down well on the side toward the unsuspecting birds. In his right hand he will carry, hidden by the skin, a boomerang and one or two throwing-sticks or "waddies." Then his left arm will protrude beyond the skin straight out to the elbow, and the forearm will be bent up, with the hand at right angles to it, thereby making a capital imitation of an emu's head and neck.

Now and then this hand or head will be brought to the ground as if for feeding; and as the black walks along, he imitates every motion of the bird, while at the same time, by means of the big toe, he drags a spear along the ground.

An Englishman while riding with a companion, across one of the vast plains in Queensland, was passing a ridge when as his eyes cleared the summit, he saw one of the very wild blacks of the district walking quietly along toward a small scrub in the middle of the open. The Britons pulled up to see what the man would do. His sharp eyes, however, soon detected the white men, though their heads only were visible to him, and he dashed into the scrub.

Almost immediately from the opposite side of the scrub darted out what to them appeared to be an emu, driven out by the entrance of the black, so they gave chase, but quickly discovered it to be only the black, acting emu, not expecting that the white men would give chase to what was in those parts a very common bird.

"THE SHOP GIRL."

Puck has the following verses entitled "The Shop Girl:"

Hello, Sadie, is that you?
Say, hon, ain't you going to
That there ball tonight? With who?
Jimmie! Oh, my lands!
Archie Coombs is takin' me.
Ain't you jealous? No? Aw, gee!
He's as fine as he kin be—
Say, he's simply grand!

Sadie, watcher goin' to wear?
Are you? That'll make 'em stare.
You'll be Class! The swellest there!
All I've got on hand
Is a gown that's sure a quince
I been wearin' ever since
I was born; but he's a Prince—
Says the dress is Grand!

Huh! Aw say, get off the line!
Nix on that fresh talk fer mine!
Quitcher buttin' in, you shine!
Chuck it! Understand?
Some folks' nerve is something sad.
Sadie, Archie's sure the lad.
I've a crush that's pretty bad—
Say, he's Simply Grand!

Listen, Sadie, on the dead,
I'm clean batty in the head.
You should hear the things he said
While he held my hand.
When I see you I will tell
All about it. He's just swell!
I'm so happy I could yell!
Say, he's Simply Grand!

BANISH THOSE GRAY HAIRS!

Kill the Dandruff Germs—Stop Hair Falling

Thousands of mothers are looking younger.—Their gray hairs are gone. The natural color has come back, and with it a new growth of soft, glossy, luxuriant hair. Why should you look old before your time, when you can look years younger by using

WYETH'S SAGE AND SULPHUR HAIR REMEDY

Dandruff Cured

Three applications removed all the dandruff and left my scalp clean, white and smooth.

Restores Gray Hair to Natural Color

If other "so-called" Restorers have failed, don't give up hope, but give WYETH'S SAGE AND SULPHUR HAIR REMEDY a trial. You run no risk. If it is not exactly as represented, your money will be refunded.

PROFIT BY OTHERS' EXPERIENCE

Gray Hair Restored

My hair was getting quite gray and falling out rapidly and I was troubled with a terrible itching of the scalp. My head was full of dandruff, which fell upon my clothes and kept me continually brushing it off. While on a visit to Rochester I heard of your Sage and Sulphur for the hair. I got a bottle and used it. A few applications relieved the itching, my hair stopped falling out and gradually came back to its natural color. It is now a nice dark brown color, soft, glossy and pliable. Several of my friends want to use it, and I want to know what you will charge me for six bottles of it.

MISS E. A. ROSS,
Sharon, Mercer Co., Pa.

Grew Hair on a Bald Head

For two or three years my hair had been falling out and getting quite thin until the top of my head was entirely bald. About four months ago I commenced using Sage and Sulphur. The first bottle seemed to do some good and I kept using it regularly until now I have used four bottles. The whole top of my head is fairly covered and keeps coming in thicker. I shall keep on using it a while longer, as I notice a constant improvement.

FEEDING JOLLY JACK

HOW BRITAIN'S NAVAL FORCES ARE PROVISIONED.

The Victualling Yard at Deptford Has Thousands of Tons of Food Supplies Passing Through It Every Day of the Year—Rice, Sugar, Etc., Are Handled In Big Bins From Which They Are Let Down Into Canisters.

There is no place in the world where anything like so large a quantity of food is stored and handled as at the Royal Naval Victualling Yard, at Deptford, through which is passed practically all the food supplied to the seamen in the royal navy. Every day thousands of tons of food supplies enter the yard, and thousands of tons leave it.

Take the sugar store, for example. About eight million pounds of sugar are passed in and out of the yard every year, and, as a rule, about a million pounds are held in stock. The sugar is stored in a huge loft, and every day for a certain number of hours it comes pouring down a "shoot" in a great yellow cascade into a gigantic receiver holding 260 pounds. By the receiver are ranged a battalion of sugar-cans, each can holding 260 pounds. Directly the receiver is full, it empties itself into one of the cans; the filled can is then passed on to be sealed up, and another "empty" is placed underneath the receiver.

When the whole battalion of cans is filled, they are despatched to be made up for transhipment, and in a few months' time, or perhaps in a few weeks, the contents of the cans will be sweetening Jack's tea, cocoa, or pudding in some part of the world.

The rice store is but a few steps from the sugar loft. The rice is handled in much the same way as the sugar. It comes down from the loft where it is stored through a shoot, from which it flows into bags containing 300 pounds each, or more. It flows down the shoot every day, but sometimes it flows in greater volume than at others. For example, when the Home Fleet came recently to Portland to be provisioned, the rice came down the shoot in a perfect avalanche, and thousands of bags were filled in a couple of days, which, with thousands of tons of other foodstuffs, were despatched to fill the store-rooms on board the different ships of the fleet.

From the rice store you pass into a gloomy-looking storehouse, the immense floor of which is occupied by battalions of barrels of pickled beef, known to Jack Tar by the more familiar name of "Fanny Adams." There is not a daily delivery or despatch of these barrels of beef, but the demands for this article of food from our foreign naval supply yards, or from some ship sent suddenly home to take in provisions, is constant, and sometimes very urgent.

A request, for example, may come in suddenly from one of the five foreign yards at Hong Kong, Malta, Sydney, Cape of Good Hope, or Gibraltar for a couple of thousands of barrels of beef, and the beef must be on its way out, if need be, within twenty-four hours from the receipt of the order.

Indeed, whatever may be the character of the demand, the authorities at the Victualling Yard are always able to meet it. It may be for a thousand pounds of candles, a hundred thousand pounds of beans, tons of chocolate nibs, ten thousand pounds of various jams, or just a few thousand tins of unsweetened milk. Whatever the demand may be for, the order causes no flutter of excitement at the Victualling Yard. It is simply passed to the warehouse where the particular commodity required is stored, and the stuff, whatever it may be, made up for transhipment and despatched probably within a few hours.

The real emergency for which the Victualling Yard has to be prepared is a sudden outbreak of war between Great Britain and some other great Power.

The demand on the yard's resources in normal times would be little or nothing compared to what it would be in such an event. Probably then as much food would have to be passed out of the yard in a week as is normally despatched from it in several months.

All the foodstuffs passing through the yard are of the highest quality, and are thoroughly tested by expert analysts. The quantity of food rejected is enormous. The book in which the "rejects" are entered shows that every day large deliveries of foodstuffs are sent back to the contractors as not being up to the sample or to the standard required by the authorities. Ten per cent. of a delivery is examined, in most cases, and if three per cent. of the quantity of foodstuff tested, whatever it may be, is not up to sample, the whole delivery is sent back to the contractors. For example, presuming that, out of a delivery of 2,000 barrels of meat, 400 were examined, and out of the 400 12 barrels contained bad pieces, as a result, the whole delivery would be condemned and sent back to the contractors.

During the past four years many changes have been made in the victualling of the navy. Jack Tar's two chief complaints used to be that his food was always the same, and that it was vilely cooked. He has now no cause for complaint on either of these points.

A vastly more varied list of articles of food is now supplied to the ships of the navy, and Jack Tar's meals are different every day, and, in addition to this improvement, the meals are prepared by a skilled cook, who is trained at the Victualling Yard, at Plymouth, where a first-rate school of cooking has been established.

It would, of course, be impossible to go into all the details of the work carried on at the chief Victualling Yard of the royal navy.

There are over 900 men employed in the yard, which extends over thirty-five acres, and a light railway, eight miles long, runs through the yard for the carrying of stores from one storehouse to another, and for picking up goods for shipment from the pier.

In Spare Moments He Worked at His Invention

Daddy's Bedtime Story—

The Boy Who Took an Interest In His Work

JACK and Evelyn were groaning and showing red and blistered hands.

"Had to hoe the corn and weed the garden today," they explained. "Wish Cy would hurry and get well. We don't like to hoe and weed."

"I'm afraid you will have to work more or less in this world as you get older, and it might be just as well to get used to doing cheerfully whatever task is given you. I'm sure the Spokane water boy would never have had blistered hands after an hour's hoeing. He would not have forgotten his gloves, as you seem to have done. Boys and girls who wear thick gloves in the garden don't get sore hands."

"Who was the Spokane water boy?" chimed the children.

"Well," replied daddy, "he was Frankie Rowe of Spokane, and he was a little fellow who earned money by carrying water for the men who were putting up a big building. Carrying water to thirsty men is no easy work on hot days.

"Frankie Rowe didn't growl. He was interested in everything he saw. When he had time he asked the men questions about their work. Frankie was bound to learn, so if there was a chance for him to get a better job he would be fitted for it. Well, Frankie saw that the wires used in making the concrete used on the building had to be cut one at a time with a pair of shears. Frankie wondered about this, as it took a great deal of time to cut the wires one by one. He asked if there was no machine to do this work—there seemed to be machines for so many other things. He was told that there was no machine for cutting wires. Then he began to think. When he was going down into the cellar where the men were laying stone or upstairs where the men were building the walls he kept thinking about the wire cutting machine which no one had as yet been able to invent. By and by he had an idea.

"He went to the boss and asked if he might have the use of the tools in the blacksmith shop sometimes when no one else was using them. The boss was a nice man, and he said, 'Very well, Frankie.'

"The men teased him about his work with the tools, but they could see how well he could use them. And what do you think? He hammered and bent and riveted until he had a rude machine that really would cut those wires quickly. When he showed it to the boss that gentleman was much amazed.

"And now Frankie is going to make a great deal of money out of that machine. Some of the money he is going to use in educating himself."

GROWING PAINS.

Communities, like persons, are subject to growing pains. The youth is afflicted with them, crossing the portals of maturity. Communities, like men in adolescence, have growing pains.

The Board of School Trustees of the Royal City have resolved to ask the ratepayers in January next to assent to an extra expenditure of $274,790 for school purposes. Three by-laws will be submitted. One bylaw will cover an expenditure of close upon $100,000 for the erection of an eight-room school, for the building of an extension to Sapperton school and for other doings, the legitimacy and necessity of which are not open to question. In the other two by-laws to be submitted, the big question is the question of the provision of a high school. The second bylaw is for the purchase of a suitable site; the third is for the construction of the school itself. The Board aims at the construction of a building of ten rooms, with a fully equipped science department as a conspicuous feature.

It is apparent that the School Board is making heavy demands upon the public purse, but no matter how critically one may scan the program for the carrying out of which this money is asked, it is difficult to discover one point to which exception can be taken, to point to one item in the program which might be deleted without wrong and injury being wrought to the educational interests of the city. The responsibility of those who are entrusted with the expending of public monies is a very high responsibility indeed. It is very much higher, very much greater than that of him who spends for a firm, or for a household. But the provision of adequate machinery and equipment for the education of the young is a duty that ranks high in all civilized communities. It is paramount.

In every department of public life, New Westminster is at present confronted with the necessity of making large expenditures. These are so many growing pains. They are incidental to the present stage of the city's growth. Now, as in the past, New Westminster, with careful, efficient, patriotic citizens in charge of her public spending departments, will not shirk her responsibilities.

CAN'T LIVE IN CHINA.

Race Influence Too Much for Jews in Celestial Empire.

London, Dec. 10.—The Jewish race, which has practically preserved its race integrity elsewhere throughout the world, has found the overpowering numbers and race-influence of China too much for them. Remnants still remain of a colony that settled there 20 centuries ago, but their race traditions are now only a vague memory, as William Edgar Geil, who has visited them, tells us in his recent work on the "Eighteen Capitals of China." The City of Kai-Fong, in the Province of Honan, holds what remains of the Jews, but "disappointment awaits those who go to investigate them, he says, adding:

"The early annals tell of them, there is good reason to believe that they have been in China 2000 years. But for three centuries they have gathered at this capital, and have degenerated with it. Two hundred years ago they had a handsome block of buildings, with a synagogue 60 by 40. Sixty years ago they had suffered by a great flood, and only 200 Jews were left. In 1866 Dr. Martin found that they had pulled down all their buildings and sold the materials, some being built into a mosque. A later observer reported that some had turned Buddhist, some Moslem, and some were studying the Confucian classics. Today we found that only seven families remained; the very soil had been sold, and is being carted away to raise the level of other parts, so that a stagnant pond covers the ancient site. The wretched survivors seem to get their living by transporting the earth, though they so far recollect their past as to have a few rubbings of their former inscriptions to sell. Their religion has evaporated, for they have no Hebrew scrolls, and could not read them if they had; only they still eat no pork, nor worship idols, nor burn incense to their ancestors. Israel in Kai-Fong is a has-been."

Uncle Rasberry walked into a drug store.

"G'mme one o' dem plasters foh my back," he said.

'One of the porous plasters?"

"No. I don't want one o' de pores' plasters. I want one o' de bes.'"

THE CANADIAN HIGHWAY ASSOCIATION.

Editor. Daily News:

Sir—Though this association is of recent birth, the good roads movement which it represents, so far as it implies concerted action, dates back into the dim past. The Romans were great road builders and the evidence of their skill and energy may still be seen in some parts of Europe. Many places there today can boast of roads brought to the highest degree of perfection, and in some instances those roads are made self-sustaining. The finest varities of fruits are grown along the roadside and protected by law much in the same way as their game and fish are protected. One man has charge of a section covering a number of miles. On his bicycle he speeds along the glassy road and woe betide the transgressor who comes within his view. So strict is the law that the picking up of a fallen apples from the roadside is a punishable offence. The fruit is sold and the proceeds are usually enough to pay all expense both for the handling of the fruit and the maintenance of the road. We cannot hope to emulate those European countries in the making of good roads, but it is well to know what can be done in this direction. A wide road may be useful from more than one point of view as time rolls on and now is the time while land is cheap to secure wide roads.

Every community has its own public problems—some local, some general. The most absorbing with us today are: "30 feet to the Gulf," and "harbor improvements." But it is fortunate that these are as good as settled. Our public-spirited citizens on whom we rely to stand in the forefront of every public question will now be able to give the next most important problem—a highway from ocean to ocean—their undivided attention.

For some time after this question was first mooted it had but few supporters. The impression was general that the movement was designed for the pleasure of the wealthy class, or at all events for the pleasure of those fortunate enough to own an automobile. But that impression is now gone. The many ways in which this new power is contributing to human happiness regardless of class is now evident, and the world is on tiptoe looking into the future to see what further wonderful revelations this power holds in reserve.

But the full measure of success awaiting this power depends entirely on good roads and good roads depend entirely on the awakening of an enthusiastic public spirit in which all must share without any distinction of class, age or even sex. Good roads will surely come, but whether soon or late, rests with this awakening. Fortunately the problem is not disturbed by politics. All our provincial legislatures are favorable to it and so is our Federal Parliament. There may be for a time some indifference to the movement, but the remedy for this is light, more light. There can be no doubt that just as soon as the movement is understood thoroughly and generally, it will command the sympathy and support of all. Men who today give the subject only a passing thought will, when better informed, open their purse strings to aid the movement.

There is no other province in Canada that stands to profit so much from the movement as British Columbia, hence we should lead in the matter of spontaneous and enthusiastic support. Other provinces can have almost their whole area covered by a network or rails, but this province, owing to its physical features, can never hope to approach even remotely such conditions. The rugged, mountainous character of the country will always be an obstacle in the way of the rail, whether by steam or electricity.

It has been stated on good authority that our mines, developed and in course of development, are but a drop in the bucket as compared with what time will yet unfold. It is also becoming known that we have a very large area of the finest agricultural land in the world, but it consists of many different isolated tracts of varying dimensions, most of which are hidden here and there among our hills and mountains.

To reach these mines and farm lands must surely be an inspiring desire. In the construction of the Highway, the best methods of road making will become known, and isolated communities will no doubt profit by the knowledge and construct branch lines to connect. We can easily imagine branch lines connecting not only the Highway, but also the railroads with localities which the rail, for economic or engineering reasons, would never touch. With improved methods those branch lines could be constructed at little more than the cost of ordinary country roads and where we see today the pack horse or perhaps the pack man moving along with small supply at a snail's pace we shall see the motor car with its tons of freight speeding over the route at a rapid rate. Surely the possibilities which the future holds in reserve for the motor car and the good roads movement are beyond even our most sanguine dreams of the present day.

I am not sufficiently well informed as to the means to be employed in furthering this project to be able to say much. The scheme will doubtless have the support of our governments, provincial and federal, but, in addition to this, individual effort will be required; clubs and associations must be formed, lectures must be given, literature must be printed and distributed and a healthy public opinion must be called into existence. All this costs money. We cannot expect a few men such as those whose names are at present connected with the movement to shoulder the whole burden. The reader or myself has just as much right to shoulder this burden. British Columbia is our home. Our hopes and aspirations are bound up in its future. If the country prospers, so do we. As patriotic citizens we should share cheerfully in the burden. Consciously or unconsciously we are all working for posterity, we are all anxious to pass the world over to our successors in office better than we found it, and every step with this object in view is in the right direction.

I understand the fee for membership in the Canadian Highway Association is $2.00. This arrangement may suit for the present as of course there is no limit to one's generosity and those who have the means can add as many ciphers to the $2.00 as they wish. But the object of the association is, I presume, to reach all the people. I think this purpose might be better served, by a lower fee for ladies and youths over eighteen. While the $2.00 feet is rather small to meet the many demands which the association will have to meet, yet a larger roll would in a measure compensate. How would it work to open a classified honor roll, putting in the first class those contributing $20.00 or over; in the second class, those contributing $10.00; and in the third class, those contributing $5.00? As an earnest of my own faith in the movement, I shall be glad to become a subscriber in the third class.

Yours for Good Roads,

D. D. BOURKE.

SMOKELESS FUEL ON RAILWAYS.

Britain Leads the Way in Experimenting With Oil.

Relative to the fact that the Canadian Pacific intend to employ oil as fuel for their locomotives between Kamloops and Laggan, it is to be noted that experiments are now being made to apply smokeless fuel to various kinds of railway locomotives. In England smokeless oil engines have been known for many years and have been in use on several British railways, although the oil was used for applying external heat in much the same way as coal. The high cost of oil in England was prohibitive of their general use, however, although their working was satisfactory, and very few of these oil-driven engines are left. To get over the difficulty of cost experiments with other kinds of smokeless engines are being made both in Germany and England. The Prussian State railways are at work on an experimental internal combustion engine, and the locomotive engineer of the North British Railway Company recently designed an electric locomotive. The initial source of energy with this engine is a steam turbine, which drives a dynamo that in its turn provides electricity to work electric motors, which drive the train. It has been stated that the working of this experimental engine was not entirely satisfactory as regards economy owing to causes which were partly anticipated when the trial was made. Since then another British railway company has decided to prepare designs for a powerful locomotive of somewhat similar character, but with an internal combustion (oil) engine substituted for the steam turbine. Whether this will work satisfactorily remains to be seen but if it does it is anticipated that the use of the internal combustion engine will not only render British railways ultimately smokeless, but will reduce the size and weight of locomotives, while its advantages as against the rival scheme of electrification are that it would necessitate no alteration of the existing permanent ways. The rapid increase of electric travel is another of the factors that are working towards a grimeless England. The opinion of experts is that we have only seen the beginning as yet of electricity on local and suburban lines, and even on long-distance main lines. The North-Eastern Railway Company have sent a deputation to the United States to study the use of electricity there in freight traffic, and it is, of course, well known that every suburban railway company in London has this matter under consideration. The electrification of the Great Northern Railway Company's suburban lines has been discussed for years, the Tilbury and Southend and the North London railways are believed to be seriously meditating action, and the scheme for electrification of the London, Brighton, and South Coast Railway Company's line as far as Brigton is rapidly progressing. In regard to the existing oil engines of the type used on the Great Eastern, a locomotive expert on this railway explained that it is the present high price of oil which militates against the general use of these engines on British railways. There is no oil in England and coal is exceptionally cheap. So far as England is concerned, while it is true that a ton and a quarter of oil equals two tons of coal in effect, the price of oil is at least double that of coal.

Telephones on Trains.

The conquering of space and time by electricity is one of the common facts of life, but a new invention, the railophone, bids fair to do astonishing things.

The invention of a Birmingham engineer, it enables a passenger in the fastest train to talk with any one on the telephone system. It may soon be possible to hold a conversation with a man in Astrachan while we are traveling through England on an express at sixty miles an hour. This, however, is not the most important thing about the railophone. It has a bearing on the development of the railway. Now that the monorail has become, by the use of the gyroscope, a practicable means of traffic, it is highly probable we shall soon be able to travel at one hundred miles an hour.—London Answers.

DOCTORS FAILED. RESTORED BY PERUNA.

Catarrh of the Lungs Threatened Her Life.

Miss Ninette Porter, Braintree, Vermont, writes: "I have been cured by Peruna.

"I had several hemorrhages of the lungs. The doctors did not help me much and would never have cured me.

"I saw a testimonial in a Peruna almanac of a case similar to mine, and I commenced using it.

"I was not able to wait on myself when I began using it. I gained very slowly at first, but I could see that it was helping me.

"After I had taken it a while I commenced to raise up a stringy, sticky substance from my lungs. This grew less and less in quantity as I continued the treatment.

"I grew more fleshy than I had been for a long time, and now I call myself well."

SPORTS

STERN DEFENCE FAILS TO SAVE UPHILL GAME

Senior Amateurs Defeated by V. A. C. in Semi-final for Iroquois Cup—Referee Criticized.

After playing for 29 minutes with only ten men, and putting up a strong defence during the whole game the senior amateurs were defeated by the V. A. C. by three goals to nothing in the semi-final for the Iroquois cup. It was an uphill battle for the New Westminster boys from start to finish, but the back division played up splendidly, and what might have been a severe defeat was turned into a hard struggle for the winning side from kick-off to the call of time.

It was unfortunate for the amateurs that Collier, who should have played left half, turned up without any bars on his shoes, and was unable to take the field. For nearly half an hour Speedie had to take his place, and leave the forward line with only one man on the left wing, and even after McLaren came on instead of him, this wing never settled down, Speedie, Aylesbury and McLaren apparently changing places once or twice in an effort to discover the most effective combination. Despite much hard work done by the first named the wing was always the weak spot in the side, and Seggie at centre did not show much quickness or power of handling his line to its best effect. It was behind the forwards that the best work was done, and Ferguson at centre half, and Paterson and McAllister at full back put up an excellent game, which held the opposition forwards in check for the greater part of the game.

The second goal that was scored, aroused some criticism of the referee's decision. Sampher, who had already made some good saves, had caught the ball in his hands, when the V. A. C. charged down, and, it is claimed, rushed the New Westminster custodian over the line. At any rate the goal was allowed, and the score stood two to nothing. Shortly after this the referee again failed to please both sides, when he gave a free kick for New Westminster instead of a penalty kick, as many asserted it should have been, the foul which was granted appearing to them to have taken place within the circle.

During the first half, when New Westminster was only playing ten men, the V. A. C. pressed most of the time. Their forwards were quicker than the visitors', who were throttled by Woods, the V. A. C. centre half, and were greatly aided by the long kicking of their backs. No goal, however, was scored until near half time, when a hard fast shot from a scrimmage following a corner gave Sampher no chance of saving.

After changing over the play was up and down the field for some time, and Chiel made a good run down the wing. Speedie then looked dangerous, but could not find the net. After this it was the V. A. C.'s turn to attack, and Davidson made a great run, Sampher running out to save well. Shortly after this the second goal was scored as described, and the later trouble about the penalty kick occurred before a run down the field by the V. A. C. right wing followed by a good centre resulted in the ball being headed through the net. This was the last tally to be registered, for New Westminster never gave up trying against their heavier and more powerful opponents until the whistle blew, and they had to retire beaten, three goals to nothing, by what is probably the strongest team in the Iroquois cup competition.

The following played for the V. A. C.: Muskimming, Smart, Bowland, Patterson, Woods, McEwan, Kincaird, Davidson, McGlashan, Tommey and Betty, while the senior amateur team was represented by Sampher, Paterson, McAllister, Aylesbury, Ferguson, Craig, McLaren, Speedie, Seggie, Petrie and Chiel.

SPORT NOTES.

An exciting but regrettable incident occurred in the match between the Celtics and the Thistles, which Tim Mahoney refereed on the Recreation grounds, Vancouver, on Saturday. It appears that Somman, of the Thistles, slightly fouled Mackenzie, of the Celtics, and the latter turned round and began to make trouble. In a minute a regular scrap had started, the men continuing to fight for some time despite the efforts of the crowd and the referee to separate them. When at last the battle was stopped both men were sent off the field and have since been reported to the executive. Up to the incident referred to the game is said to have been a very fair one, but thereafter interest lagged, and the Celtics came out winners by two goals to nothing.

The High school association football team trimmed the Nimrods, of Vancouver, at Moody square on Saturday. They got the better of their opponents by two goals to nothing.

The games which should have been played between the 104th and the Burnaby team, and between the Rovers and the Hibernians, were both scratched on account of the rain and the sodden state of the grounds.

In the other game in the semi-final for the Iroquois cup the B. C. E. R. men defeated Coquitlam by two goals to nothing. The match was played on the Powell street grounds, and proved a good game. Coquitlam had some trouble with the order of their side, and the players were certainly changing places, while the tram car men had the advantage of settled combination.

HANDBAG SNATCHER WORKS VANCOUVER

Vancouver, Dec. 10.—By snatching ladies' handbags and running off before the alarm could be given, a man has been creating some alarm in the west end of the city during the past week. His camping ground seems to have been in the section bordered by Robson, Davie and Burrard streets. Some cases have been reported to the police. The man made the biggest haul on Wednesday evening. One of the nurses of the Barclay street nurses' home was returning to the institution at about 10 o'clock on Wednesday evening along Robson street when a man rushed out from the shadows and snatched her bag from her hand. The bag contained a purse which held $25. The same evening Mrs. R. D. McKay, Robson street, was walking along that thoroughfare shortly after 6 o'clock when she felt a pull at her handbag. She turned around and saw a man running away, but he did not have her bag. On Friday night a member of a Barclay street household was returning home when her handbag was grabbed as she neared the corner of Thurlow and Barclay streets. Only two dollars was left in the bag. In all cases reported the man got out of sight before the ladies could secure a description. In each case, also, the woman was alone.

JOHNSON A MASON.

Grand Lodge of Scotland Causes Investigation to Be Made.

London, Dec. 10.—Representatives of the Provincial Grand Lodge of Free Masons for Forfarshire, have held an enquiry, on the instructions of the Grand Lodge of Scotland, into the circumstances attending the initiation of Jack Johnson as a member of the Forfar and Kincardine Lodge of Dundee. The Grand Lodge specified eight interrogations to which they wished replies.

At the enquiry the right worshipful master of the Fife and Kincarline Lodge admitted that neither the proposer nor the seconder of Johnson knew him personally. It appeared that his initiation was proceeded with on the recommendation of Brother McLagan, of Newcastle, who is connected with the theatrical profession. Brother McLagan professed to be well acquainted with Johnson, and supplied particulars which the proposer and seconder and other officials of the Dundee lodge regarded as satisfactory. At the request of McLagan the sudden change of the hour of meeting was made.

The right worshipful master said that on changing the hour he went around the town in a taxicab with the view of insuring the presence of as many members as possible.

All the other regulations are stated to have been complied with, and Johnson made the necessary declarations.

A letter was submitted from a colonel in the British army who stated that he had traveled to this country with Johnson, and found him a "genial, kindly gentleman, entirely worthy of being admitted to Freemasonry."

The Provincial Grand Lodge will now report to the Grand Lodge, which will decide as to the future procedure.

CHILD OF THE GLACIAL PERIOD

London, Dec. 10.—The first skeleton of a child that lived in the glacial period has been located in the Balla Cave, Hungary. The skeleton is tolerably well preserved, especially the skull, jaw, thigh-bones and the bones of the upper arm. Parts of the spine, however, and the small bones have crumbled away. Prof. Lenhossek, of Budapest, who has made a thorough examination of the remains, has published a report in which he concludes that the child must have been about 15 months old. The skull is long and narrow, as are the forehead and the face. The jaw is prominent. The bones show the same peculiarities as those of ancestors of the European races. The skeleton does not, of course, belong to the oldest races of which remains have so far been found, but to their immediate descendants, the so-called Mediterranean race. The interest lies in the fact that never before have any remains of a child of such a remote period been discovered.

IMMIGRATION AND LABOR.

Lessons From Influx to Canada and United States.

New York, Dec. 10.—Herbert Francis Sherwood, in discussing the ebb and flow of immigration, in the Review of Reviews for December, notes that for the period between January 1 and September 30, the third-class arrivals decreased by 278,428 or 38.18 per cent from the figures of 1910, and adds:

"The immigration to Canada was greater than for the corresponding period of last year, but the ebb was only 18.12 per cent of the flow. This is about 12 per cent below the average for the United States. It, however, was 6 per cent higher than that for the corresponding period of 1910.

"Only recently has the ebb and flow of immigration been accepted as a register of the condition of the labor market in the United States, or has it been recognized as obedient to the law of supply and demand. We now realize that this country has tapped a supply of labor which is sufficiently automatic in the expansion and contraction of its current to meet the needs of a land subject to such fluctuating requirements as is our own."

FRENCH METHODS.

Come Into Conflict Sometimes With British Law.

In the province of Ontario, says the Mail and Empire, the observer can find many instances of struggles going on between the forces of British tradition and of American example. It is most marked, perhaps, in law enforcement and administration. Detectives approach the "third degree" method of interrogating suspects and prisoners in their effort to get a confession. While this system has no doubt resulted in the punishment of many criminals who would otherwise have escaped, it is repugnant to the general sentiment of the community, and there are cases in which the jury has declared innocent a prisoner who had been induced to make a police confession. Our judges, as a rule, condemn such American institutions as the "third degree," but, nevertheless, the zeal of detectives and police leads them almost constantly to approach the border of impropriety of guilt. In the United States, at the present time, the tendency seems to be against "third degree" methods, for they are coming to be understood as a sign of inefficiency rather than of enterprise. With the "third degree" flourishing, there are at the present moment, according to an estimate quoted in the Sprinfield Union, 90,000 murderers at large in that country, and while not fewer than [illegible] last year, the Chicago Tribune points out that only 100 murdtrers were executed.

A Montreal Scandal.

It may be argued, of course, that without the "third degree" the disparity between convictions and crimes would be still greater, and it is not to be denied that in France, where this method of extorting confessions from prisoners greatly prevails, the police are supposed to be efficient, and punishment follows the crime in a reasonable number of cases. In the Province of Quebec at the present moment there is a contest between French and British methods of administering and enforcing the law. It seems that the police in Quebec, as in Ontario, lean to the "third degree" methods, and that the judges, as there, disapprove of them. In the case of John Cummings, taken into custody on a charge of wife murder Montreal police methods were such as are common enough in France and in the United States, but are unknown in England. This man was cross-questioned by Chief Carpenter in the presence of a number of newspapermen, in an effort to induce him to make a confession.

The Duties of Police.

According to British law, as pointed out by Mr. Leopold Houle in an interview in the Montreal Gazette, no police officer has any right to question a prisoner either in private or public. He quotes several British and Canadian judges in this effect, among them being the late Chief Justice Armour, who said: "I think the practice of cross-examining prisoners reprehensible, and the superiors of detectives should instruct them not to do so." As Judge Oulment remarks the law of Canada, as of England, presumes every man's innocence until his guilt is proved, and no prisoner ought to be subjected to treatment apart from his detention, according to law, that a free man would resent. That neither directly or indirectly should police officers be permitted to question prisoners before their trial is the consensus of British judges and other legal authorities.

Where Magistrates Err.

Mr. Houle declares that other abuses have crept into the methods of Quebec detectives and magistrates, and it is his intention to bring these irregularities to the attention of the Attorney-General of the province. He says that no magistrate has a right to ask any prisoner who appears before him on a grave charge to plead guilty or not guilty. The preliminary examination should be proceeded with at once, and at the conclusion of the enquiry, the magistrate must confine himself to reading the following formula:

"Having heard the evidence, do you wish to say anything in answer to the charge? You are not bound to say anything, but whatever you do say will be taken down in writing and may be given in evidence against you at your trial. You must clearly understand that you have nothing to hope from any promise of favor and nothing to fear from any admissions or confession of guilt, but whatever you say may be given in evidence against you upon your trial, notwithstanding such promise or threat."

The Question of Election.

As to the option of trial, the accused must not be asked merely if he desires to be tried by a magistrate or before a jury. The magistrate is expressly required to explain to the prisoner the nature of his choice, and not to allow him to make his election until the explanation is complete. Not long ago the Court of Appeal of Manitoba ordered the liberation of a prisoner because the magistrate had failed to read to him every word of the paragraph of explanation. It is contended by Mr. Houle and those for whom he speaks that the failure of detectives and magistrates to confine themselves strictly to their duties as defined by law constitutes a grave injustice to accused persons in the Province of Quebec, and particularly in the city of Montreal.

Cook Book Photography.

"Buying meat with the help of pictures is the latest fad," said a butcher to the New York Times. "I'd give a dollar to know who started it. I'd like to send him to jail. Every cook book prints pictures showing just how things look, and the housekeepers who are green at buying bring them along to go by.

"Such people are enough to drive you crazy. They look first at the pictures, then at the meat. They say I must be trying to cheat them, because the piece of beef I call sirloin looks more like the picture of a rump steak. Just as if I cut up meat every time according to cook book photographs. My only consolation is that the women seem to have as much trouble over it as I do, so I am hoping they will soon get tired."

Mahlon Ivins, Jr., of Merchantville, has a reputation as an actor, and takes part in nearly all the local shows. In the last show that was given "Shorty" had one of the leading parts. After the show, while he was taking off his make-up an elderly man made his appearance in the doorway.

"Are you Mr. Ivins?" enquired the old man.

"Yes," replied "Shorty," as he motioned him to be seated.

"Well," the old man continued, "I just want to tell you something. I've been watching your acting tonight. You should not be playing in this town; you should be with Mansfield Booth, Irving or Joe Jefferson."

"W-w-why," said "Shorty," "those actors are dead."

"I know it," said the old man, as he turned on his heel and left.

AUCTION SALE

of valuable waterfront lots on the Vancouver side of the North Arm of the Fraser, on December 19th, Dominion Hall, at 10 a. m., containing 383 acres under cultivation, being D. L. 167 and part of 166, Burnaby. Only five minutes' walk from B. C. E. Railway. Will be sold in lots 66 by nearly 500 feet; also five and ten-acre blocks.

On the property are two dwelling houses and two barns and large shipping shed; also large orchard. Terms only 20 per cent down, balance eight years, divided into yearly payments at 6 per cent interest.

Indefeasible title, with taxes paid to date.

I am instructed by the owner, Dr. H. E. Langis, to sell on above date. This property has never been on the market before, and is the most valuable property on the North Arm. It is nearly all cleared, and is the richest soil on the Eburne B. C. E. Railway line.

Real estate firms will be allowed 5 per cent on any purchase at the sale for clients, but in order to recognize as such will require a leter signed by the auctioneer not later than December 18th.

This waterfront property will be worth $500 to $1000 per front foot before final payment will be required. Any further particulars, with maps, will be furnished by the auctioneer.

Auction Sale of the Valuable Farm, being block 167 and part of 166 in Burnaby, being the property of Dr. Langis, which contains 383 acres, nearly all under cultivation and perfectly level

On Tuesday, December 19th at 10 a.m.

DOMINION HALL, OVER WORLD OFFICE, PENDER STREET, VANCOUVER, B.C.

Valuable Waterfront Property

There is 7294 feet of waterfront, which will be sold in 66-ft. lots, which are from 400 to 500 ft. deep; the balance of the ranch will be sold in five and ten-acre blocks. Upon the property are two farm dwelling houses, large barn, shipping shed and large orchard.

Panama Canal

There is no doubt that on the completion of the Panama Canal there will probably betwenty times as much shipping from Vancouver. It is a fact the Dominion Government intends to spend $1,000,000 on the Fraser River by dredging; also it is under contemplation to dredge the North Arm.

Can you conceive what this waterfront then will be worth? Make no mistake; get in and buy some waterfront without fail.

Shipping

For shipping at the present time large steamers ply the North Arm of the Fraser—the S.S. Strathcona having one of the boats that was used in shipping the product of the ranch.

Don't fail to look well into this property. Nothing as good was ever offered by auction in five and ten-acre blocks—and under cultivation.

Trackage

The B. C. E. Railway line is now within five minutes' walk from the property, which also makes it available for trackage purposes, as well as waterfront.

Now, what does this mean? Simply this, that the waterfront and trackage will be worth, within four or five years, $500 to $1000 for front foot, as it is right at the door of Vancouver—only thirty minutes from the centre of the town.

Under Cultivation

This property has been under cultivation for over thirty years. Nearly all under crop and timothy. In buying here you do not have to pay $300 or $400 per acre to clear it; therefore, it is a producer at once. Do not fail to inspect and pick out your block.

TERMS EASY

The terms are very easy—20 per cent cash, the balance eight yearly payments at six per cent, which means only ten per cent on the principal. Long before you will be called upon for the final payment the great impetus from the Panama Canal will make you rich if you get hold of some waterfront on acre blocks.

MAKING A PORT.

Montreal Now Expended Six Million Dollars in Past Two Years.

Montreal, Dec. 10.—Six million dollars has been expended in the past two years on improvements in connection with Montreal's harbor. The harbor commissioners have plans under way which will involve the expenditure of $6,000,000 more within the next two years, but they do not intend to stop there. The commissioners, backed by the government and the people of Canada, are determined to make the port of Montreal the greatest on the continent and to make the St. Lawrence route the busiest, safest and most popular in the new world.

It is only within five or six years that Montreal's harbor has been coming into her own. Before that time an unwieldy board of commissioners sought to administer the affairs. The men were appointed largely for political reasons, and as is too often the case in such instances, were unfitted to look after the needs of the harbor.

At length the unwieldy board was abolished and a commission of three appointed. These men are all alert, shrewd business men, thoroughly alive to the needs of the harbor and its relation to the development of Canada. When appointed by the government they visited every great port in Europe and America, consulted the best engineers in the world, and brought over a number of experts to study the situation at first hand and to make a report of their findings. The commissioners consulted all classes of business men, shippers, steamship companies, railroad men, and everybody else who could throw any light upon the needs of a great national port.

This preliminary work took nearly two years. The plans submitted for approval were adopted after careful revision. They cover harbor development and improvements which will require twelve years to complete. At the outset the Dominion government voted $18,000,000 to help on the good work, one-third of which has disappeared within the first two years.

At the present time a new grain elevator, with a capacity of 1,772,000 bushels is nearing completion. This will be the largest transfer grain elevator in the world, being 313 feet long, 100 feet wide and 230 feet high and will be constructed in such a way that it can be enlarged to hold an additional 800,000 bushels. Fourteen steel sheds have already been completed, where 150,000 tons of freight can be stored and handled weekly. These steel structures are double-storied and surmounted by a grain conveyor. It is the intention of the commissioners to double the number of these steel sheds. The grain conveyors are capable of conveying grain to ten ocean steamship berths, but these facilities will also be increased, enabling the harbor to handle double that number of vessels.

A factor which makes for the economical handling of freight is the direct transference of freight from car to sheds to shop, and vice-versa. Last year over 1,600,000 tons of freight carried in 75,000 cars were so handled by the harbor commission. The saving in this direct transfer of freight is estimated to be 50 per cent.

By May, 1912, a 27,500-ton floating dry dock will be put in position. It covers 20 acres, the earth from which has been excavated to a depth of 35 feet and transferred to the shore, whee about 30 acres has been reclaimed. This will be used as a site for the ship building and repair plant which Vickers, Son & Maxim are building.

The company building the dry dock has received a subsidy of $3,000,000, extending over a period of thirty-five years. The ship building and ship repair plant will also involve the expenditure of millions of dollars.

The improvements cover everything that can possibly tend to facilitate the handling of traffic. The level of the railroad track has been raised and miles of such roads have been constructed on a solid cement foundation. The channel has been deepened, wharves, docks, piers and storehouses erected, elevators built and many other improvements of a similar nature carried out. The whole plan of operation is summed up in the instructions given by the government to "Make Montreal the best port on the North American continent."

Cure Your Rheumatism

500 BOXES FREE

Rheumatism, Lumbago, Sciatica, Pain in the Back have been cured, in the real meaning of the word, by a little Stillingia, Iodide of Potassium, Poke Root, Guaiac Resin and Sarsaparilla. Any person can take these remedies in any reasonable amount with perfect safety, and the results have been found to be astonishing. It has been proven that this combination makes up the best rheumatism remedy in existence, having actually cured many stubborn cases of over 30 and 40 years' standing—even in persons of old age.

The five ingredients mentioned above prepared with great accuracy and skill not only in regard to proportions, but also in selecting the best material, have been put up in compressed tablet form, and are called

"GLORIA TONIC," and fifty thousand boxes are offered free to introduce it.

If you suffer from any form of uric acid in the blood, and have Rheumatism, Gout, Lubago, sciatica, this is the way to drive it out of your system in quick time. Simply send your name and address, enclosing this advertisment, to JOHN A SMITH, 1128 Laing Bldg., Windsor, Ont., and by return mail you will receive the box absolutely free. It is only in "Gloria Tonic" that you can get the above combination ready for use.

Humor and Philosophy

By DUNCAN M. SMITH

PERT PARAGRAPHS.

THERE are plenty of fools in the world, but the redeeming feature of the case is that each of us has to look after but one.

There is nothing more piteous than an overworked excuse.

Man was made to mourn and woman to furnish the cause.

The man who thinks he is monarch of all he surveys needs to be careful of what he looks at.

Being optimistic is cheerful, but it isn't always remunerative.

Maybe some of them can't come back because they like it where they are.

There seem to be a lot of folk who want a commutation ticket into matrimony.

It isn't so much knowing a lot as it is certainty in what you do know.

If you are looking for trouble you need not work hard. You will find plenty of help.

The mediocre fellow is the one who is so dead sure that he can do something else better.

You can't tell what'll happen and perhaps wouldn't if you could.

Her Handiwork.

"She is very proud of her husband."
"Because he made himself what he is, I suppose."
"No, not at all."
"For what, then?"
"Because she always makes him what he isn't."

Different Glass.

You look through a glass to discover a comet
As trackless it wanders afar,
While onward it passes, but not through those glasses,
That slide to you over the bar.

An Improvement.

"He's a man of genius.'"
"Is that so?"
"Yes. I don't think he could be improved upon."
"I do."
"How?"
"By having his genius diluted by a large and weighty share of common sense."

Couldn't Be Particular.

"What is this you have on the table, Mary?"
"I bought it for butter."
"Did you pay real money for that?"
"No indeed. I bought it on credit. If I had had the cash I would have insisted on real butter."

Part Way.

I have a jaunty sailor cap—
Becoming, I am told.
If I had but a boat to match
I'd be a sailor bold.

Her Position.

"She is a nice girl, but she cries all the time."
"Considerable shower when she is around."
"I should say so."
"She must be the raining beauty."

Chance For Practice.

"I wouldn't marry a man that I couldn't look up to."
"I have you fitted out."
"How, pray?"
"Grab an aviator."

Scarce Article.

"Have you a good cook?"
"Yes—we have a cook."
"Why the doubting inflection?"
"Well, any cook may be called a good cook these days."

Posted.

"We have moved about a good deal in our married life."
"Lived in many different places, have you?"
"Yes."
"I suppose you know a good deal about the geography of your country."
"Can't say that we know so much about that as we do about the laws governing rent."

Some Movement.

"Do you think she wants to get married?"
"She would move heaven and earth for a chance."
"Also her waist line, her eyebrows and other features."

An Inference.

"My association with him is a bright spot in my life."
"You must have painted the town together."

VALUE OF SYSTEM.

Whether in Working or Thinking It Helps on to Success.

Working or thinking without system enfeebles the mind and leaves the mental faculties in a clogged condition, so that they do not work sharply. The mind must be kept clear and clean for the present problem, so that it may seize and grasp with all its might the thing it is attempting to accomplish.

There is only one best way to learn how to act. That way is the way of system. Systematize your thoughts, your energies, your abilities. Learn early in life to do this, and it will prove the master habit that wins success.

Systemless men are always surprised that the heads of great enterprises can find so much time for social life, for hobbies, for travel. They cannot understand it at all. They do not realize that a man of great organizing ability, with a splendid system, can do more effective business in a single hour at his office than a systemless man can accomplish in twelve. It is not the number of hours, but the effectiveness of the system, that tells.

One of the advantages of a college course is that it trains the mind to work by system. Whether he likes to or not, the student is forced to concentrate his mind when the time comes, no matter what his mood or how he feels. Four years of training in this should put the mind into working order. It should tune the intellect so that all the strings will be in harmony. A good college education should train the mind to think concisely, deeply, effectively at will.—Orison Swett Marden in Success Magazine.

ANIMALS IN A FRENZY.

There's Danger Afoot When Captive Wild Beasts "Go Bad."

What those who have charge of wild animals in captivity, and especially trainers, dread most among the large beasts is that inexplicable change of temperament on the part of the animal known in the parlance of the menagerie as "going bad."

Lions are likely to go bad about the tenth year of life; tigers, two or three years earlier. The male tiger is the dread of the profession when he reaches this condition, because he is more likely to go into a frenzy without warning, and once gone bad nothing will satisfy him but murder.

He will leap for any man within reach, and when once his teeth are on the bone nothing but fire will make him relinquish it, and not always that.

This "going bad" may come in the nature of a sudden attack or it may develop slowly and be counteracted if taken in time. An old trainer can usually detect the symptoms of this curious ailment. It seems to be in the nature of a disease, and other animals recognize it and shun the affected one.

When its progress is apparent the danger is not great. All that is required then is a level head and the wisdom to refrain from further interference with the animal.

Sometimes this bad temper will last but a short time, and again it will become the permanent condition of the animal. In that case he is sent to the lonely cage to spend the rest of his life in comparative obscurity, disturbed merely by the passing crowd and his daily meals.—Pearson's Weekly.

Respect of Dead Royalty.

Dead royalty was treated with scant respect at Holyrood a century ago. C. K. Sharpe, the friend of Scott, writing to Robert Chambers in 1825, recounted some of his experiences during his wanderings among the tombs in Holyrood. "I remember many fragments of the royal bodies shown in the chapel of Holyrood House—one entire, saving the hand. * * * In later times I paid a visit to the chapel after the royal vault had been closed. 'Oh, man,' said the female in charge, 'if ye had cam here a while syne I cud hae showed ye muckle mair in this place—King James the Fifth's shuther (shoulder) and Lord Darnley's thigh banes, and a gude bit o' the Earl o' Buchan's back.'"—London Chronicle.

Practical.

"My good woman," said the social reformer, "your children seem to be slightly obstreperous. Have you any clearly defined theories about bringing up your little ones by scientific methods?"

"No, I haven't, madam," answered the much tried mother as she firmly grasped a squirming child in one hand and her slipper in the other. "I'm bringing them up by hand."—Baltimore American.

A Terrible Storm.

The most violent storm that ever ravaged England occurred Nov. 26 and 27, 1703. The loss in London alone was $10,000,000. Eight thousand people were drowned in the floods. Twelve warships, with more than 1,800 men on board, were lost. Trees were uprooted—1,700 of them in Kent. Eddystone lighthouse was destroyed, and Winstanley, its contriver, was killed with several others.

Information.

Johnny—The right way to spell 'high' is h-i-g-h, isn't it? Auntie—Yes, dear. Why do you wish to know? Johnny—'Cause I'm writing an English composition about the hyena.

One Exception.

Wildman Senior (to son home from college)—Well, Richard, how have things been going with you this term? Wildman Junior—Pretty slow, dad—except the cash.—Exchange.

Four drunks and one vag were the sum total of the police catch up to a late hour last night. Three of the too liberal imbibers were so incapacitated as to need conveying to the station in a rig. All will duly appear in court this morning.

Headaches caused from defective eyesight. Get your eyes tested by a graduate optician, and have your glasses made to suit, satisfaction guaranteed. W. Gifford Optical Parlors, in T. Gifford's jewelry store. **

At the Y. M. C. A. building Mr. F. W. Pratt, of Toronto, delivered an address to a well attended meeting of members. Mr. Pratt took as the subject of his address, "Temptation." The Mackness orchestra played and Mr. B. B. Renshaw rendered a vocal solo.

The funeral of Miss Beatrice Burr took place at 1 p.m. yesterday at Ladner. Miss Burr, who is related to the Burrs of New Westminster, died of typhoid fever, and was burried in the Boundary Bay cemetery. The arrangements for the funeral were in the hands of Murchie & Son.

The cantata, "Song of Thanksgiving," sung by the choir of St. Andrews Presbyterian church yesterday evening proved a great success. Mr. C. W. Openshaw, organist of the church, directed the choir, while Miss Alvina Munn, Mr. John Graham and Mr. J. A. Hamm sang the solo parts.

Take the steamer Transfer for a round trip Saturday afternoon. Leaves Blackman-Ker wharf at 2 o'clock. **

In Thursday's Daily News an unfortunate mistake occurred with regard to the sum of money to be asked for by the school trustees for the purchase of a High school site. In one place it was stated, owing to a printer's error, that this amount would be $175,000 instead of $75,000, as the total quoted showed that it should have been.

A total of $30,800 against one of $16,150 for the last week of November, is shown by last week's building permits. The most important of these is that of $25,000 for the brick hotel to be erected by Mr. A. G. Peters on Carnarvon and Eighth streets. Lees Limited have also taken out a permit to enlarge their warehouse, while permission has been granted the Baptist church trustees. Lulu island, to spend $700 on a building for church purposes.

Many anxious friends have been inquiring about the health of Mr. Robert McMurphy, who was severely injured in a tram car accident two weeks ago last Saturday. Mrs. Campbell, sister of the injured man, reports that his condition is very serious. Mr. McMurphy suffered severe concussion at the time, and has never recovered consciousness since the day of the accident. Consequently he is growing weaker all the time. Every care, however, is being taken of him at the Royal Columbian hospital.

SUNDAY TRADING WILL SOON BE THING OF PAST

The fines inflicted during the past week on those who infringe the Lord's Day act, have apparently had their due effect. Yesterday the police report that all stores were closed with the exception of possibly one. This may have the effect of keeping nickels from the Greek ice cream and candy vendor that would be better put in the collection boxes.

WILL ENTERTAIN STRANGERS IN CITY

The Y. M. C. A. are preparing to entertain the stranger within our gates. Next Sunday afternoon they will inaugurate a series of Sunday teas, at which everybody will be welcome, and which it is hoped will give an opportunity to young men living in the city without many acquaintances to make friends with each other and with those already resident here. After partaking of the meal, which will cost 25 cents, all who wish will be able to go to church, and then return to the Y. M. C. A. building to pass a social evening.
