VOLUME 7, NUMBER 74 NEW WESTMINSTER, B. C., SATURDAY MORNING, JUNE 1, 1912. PRICE FIVE CENTS

TWENTY MILLS NET TAXE RATE

Last Year's Figures Reduced by Five Mills In the Dollar.

Assessment Increases Over Five Millions—Net Rate in Force to August 15.

A considerable, and no doubt welcome, reduction has been made in the tax rate for the city, the rate struck being 24 mills gross or 20 mills net. Last year's rate was 30 mills gross and 25 mills net. The prime reason for the decrease is the increase of over five million dollars in the city's assessment. The rolls are not yet finally made up so that the exact figures cannot be given, but last year's assessment amounted roughly to seven and a quarter millions and this year's will be over thirteen millions.

The demands for the taxes are usually sent out during the first week in July, and the lower rate is in force to all who pay up before August 15. After that date the 24 mills rate will be in order.

TELEPHONE REFORM APPROACHING CLOSE

No more waste of time and energy ringing the telephone bell! The switchboard which for a considerable time has pampered the progressive intentions of the British Columbia Telephone company, is expected to arrive immediately.

Mr. N. G. Fitchpatrick, district traffic chief, accompanied by another official from Vancouver, visited the local office yesterday, and was also in consultation with the secretary of the board of trade. The officials of the company appeared most desirous to place the Westminster service on the best possible footing, pending the new installation. This has unavoidably been held up by the delay in the arrival of the switchboard which forms part of a very large order placed by the company some time back.

The building on Carnarvon street is now completed as far as possible, and following the arrival of the switchboard the next seven weeks will be very busy ones in local telephone circles.

This, however, means that on or about August 1, this city should have a thoroughly satisfactory telephone service, and that the bells now in use will be discontinued, and the removal of the receiver will place the user in communication with the operator.

NOT FOR SEATTLE.

Spanish-American Veterans Oppose Emma Goldman Speaking.

Seattle, May 31.—Emma Goldman, "talented anarchist," will never lecture on her doctrines of anarchy, and the folly of religion in Seattle. Leaders among the Spanish-American War veterans, who have already exhibited their patriotism in suppressing the red flag in this city, today declared that if Mayor George F. Cotterill did not prevent her, they would.

"There will be no boldfaced preaching of anarchy in this city by an avowed and boastful anarchist," they maintained. "We do not approve of violence, and will not countenance it, but nevertheless there are steps which we will take if necessary to maintain the reputation Seattle has already made for itself as a patriotic city. We do not care to have the rest of the world know that we have nestled in our bosom such a viper as Emma Goldman or her manager, Ben Reitman.

"Seattle is a law-abiding city; and its citizens love it, boost for it, and are hopeful for its future. They love the country and their flag. They love the principles of free government. Many of them fought for the flag, or had relatives in the conflicts. We will not permit any slanderer of our government or our flag to insult them publicly in our midst.

"If the mayor and other authorities will not keep her out, we will."

ENGRAVED LOCKETS FOR WINNERS OF LEAGUE

The executive of the Senior Amateur lacrosse team last evening decided to award to the winners of the intermediate league suitably engraved lockets, something after the same manner as those received by the Westminster hockey team after they won the Pacific Coast championship. The amateur sport is to be fostered in this city, the public will attend the games if the class of play is up to the standard and this recent action by the seniors is a worthy one.

ABOLITION OF WARD SYSTEM IS REMEDY

Edmonds, May 31.—The abolition of the ward system, the creating of an additional ward in the northern section of Burnaby and threats of the Ratepayers' Association in North Burnaby either to work for a separate municipality, or to incorporate that district into a city area, has caused no little talk during the past week in Burnaby. In an interview, Mr. B. G. Walker, the president of the Burnaby Board of Trade, yesterday expressed the following opinion:

"I am of the opinion that the movers of this matter have not duly considered what such a step would mean. It is a fact that some feeling has been expressed by myself and others as to the advisability and desireability of applying for a charter for the Edmonds district, where there is a much stronger plea to start such a step on account of the large population and the number of new houses which are being built in that neighborhood as well as in East Burnaby. But those who are most anxious that we should get the advantages pertaining to a city and at the same time secure against any possibility of being absorbed by adjoining municipalities, are fully cognizant that the time is not ripe for us to put into practical operation the clauses of the Municipal Incorporation Act which has to be complied with as preliminary to an application for a city charter. Much less is North Burnaby in a position to apply for one.

"It would not rest with the persons who may sign a petition to that effect, though willingness might be practically unanimous, but as to this we have little or no information. The real pinch would come with regard to the remainder of the municipality. It is quite conceivable that owing to the extensive municipal work under construction and the bonded indebtedness as a whole, that a strong opposition would be exerted to oppose an application of this nature and we all know what the effect would be upon the executive council at Victoria when the matter was brought before them. The natural finding of the government would in the face of considerable opposition, lean towards allowing the matter to remain in statu quo.

Another mighty factor against the proposition is the fact that the reservoir, which will supply the entire municipality, is located in North Burnaby, and the present municipality must retain the ownership of the system.

"I am strongly of the opinion and have always been, that the real remedy for North Burnaby as well as the whole district is the abolition of our present pernicious ward system. The argument that North Burnaby might not get direct representation from its midst on the municipal council does not amount to anything at all. The days are past, never to return, when a councillor is supposed to be a kind of overseer of work falling within the limits of his particular ward. We have no use for the man who can stand on the public platform and boast that he got so much money for his ward while other councillors have got less. Our present system calls for competent heads of departments, and I say it with all respect, that if the present men are not capable, then the council should procure better officials."

FELL UNDER TRAIN AND CRUSHED FOOT

While attempting to board a moving C. P. R. train at the corner of Begbie and Front streets yesterday afternoon, a Norwegian named Elif Johanson Akmas, was seriously injured. The man in company with two others of the same nationality, was said to be going back to the Canadian Northern camps, and jumped the train as it was gathering speed leaving the C. P. R. depot. He fell under the train, a wheel of which passed over his foot.

Drs. Walker and Kenny were called in on the case and at once ordered his removal to the Royal Columbian hospital, where Dr. Walker found it necessary to amputate the front portion of one of his feet.

BOY SWIMMER WINS CANADIAN OLYMPIC TRIALS

Montreal, May 31.—George Hodgson, the boy swimmer, won easy victories tonight in the 100 yard and quarter mile events of the first night's trials. His time for the former was 53 3-5 seconds. In the quarter mile he won at his leisure, his time being 5 minutes 40 seconds.

Visitors from Kamloops.

Mr. Owen Norris and Mr. E. J. Hosker, two prominent residents of Kamloops, reached the city yesterday. Kamloops is at present awaiting some announcement as to the plans of the C. N. R. affecting the location of the depot and yards there. It is understood that the C. P. R. will build from the Alberta side through the Yellowhead and down to Kamloops. A great deal of building is going on in the inland town, and cement sidewalks are being put down in many places.

ASSINIBOINE IS RISING RAPIDLY

Winnipeg, May 31.—The Assiniboine river is very high at Brandon and has broken through the dam at Melwood higher up. It is rising at Winnipeg, but no fears of flood are entertained here.

Tag day was a great success. Twelve hundred workers were out and few escaped them. Fifty thousand tags were sold by 10:30 a.m. The proceeds will go to the Ninette sanitarium for consumptives.

Olive Irish, daughter of W. A. Irish, of 270 Spence street, was run over this morning by a motor car, while she was selling tags in district 11, near Sherbrooke and Portage. She was knocked down by an automobile which passed over her left leg, causing a severe break.

J. B. Tyrell, D. L. N., arrived in the city this morning en route to surveying the boundaries of Greater Manitoba. He will have a party of Nipigon Indians as guides. Hugh McDiarmid, an old R. N. W. M. P. man; L. B. Stewart, W. B. McPherson and E. Thompson will accompany him.

ALLOW AMERICAN MARINES TO LAND

Havana, May 31.—President Comez tonight telegraphed General Monteagudo, the commander-in-chief of the Cuban army, who is at the scene of the hostilities in the province of Oriente, stating that the general might permit American marines to land on Cuban soil to guard foreign property.

The despatch added that the Cuban forces then might retire from guarding such places and devote themselves to pursuing the insurgents.

CAMP FOR BOYS.

Rev. Sovereign Lectures to Boys of Y. M. C. A.

All who were fortunate enough to listen to the able descriptions of camp life as portrayed last night in the Y. M. C. A. gymnasium by Rev. A. H. Sovereign, could not fail to be impressed with the tremendous possibilities for good which the scheme holds forth to the boys of this city.

The Y. M. C. A. of Westminster is this year holding for the first time a summer camp at White Rock, so the Rev. Mr. Sovereign, who has charge of St. Mark's Kitsilano, and is a brother of the Y. M. C. A. physical director, Mr. E. I. Sovereign, came over to tell the boys and their parents something of the camps which have been held on Bowen Island by the boys of Christ Church and his own parish in Vancouver.

Some score or more of young people were present and the gallery held a sprinkling of their parents. There were over sixty slides illustrating the happy healthy life of the boys in these summer camps, where whilst being in perfect safety and under judicious control, they are free as the air to revel in games and sports and fresh surroundings.

"The man who climbs a mountain cannot but believe in God" was one of the bright sayings of the lecturer, and his stories of river and field and city held the boys and their elders entranced for the whole of an instructive and pleasant evening.

SPECIAL MOVING PICTURE MATINEE AT OPERA HOUSE.

The management of the opera house is certainly making good in the moving picture field. There is at the opera house the largest picture that is shown in B. C. The size of it is 18 by 15 square feet and the pictures are as clear as they are big. Everybody who has paid a visit to the opera house since it has opened as a moving picture house, has come away satisfied. The subjects that are shown are of first class order and the music is exquisite. This feature alone, is worth the price of admission. There is to be a special matinee for scholars this afternoon and there is no doubt but that the opera house will be full of scholars.

FISH INDUSTRY IS IN DANGER

B. C. Commissioner Tells American Committee Home Truths.

Questions Right to Keep Inadequate Laws on Statute Book—Harmony Sought.

Seattle, May 31.—The fishing industry in the Puget Sound waters will be wiped out within ten years, if the state of Washington does not adopt more stringent laws and see to the enforcement of those already on the statute books, was the statement made by John Pease Babcock, head of the British Columbia fish commission, who, with his colleague, Douglas Bell McIntyre, conferred here today with Governor Marion E. Hay and a special senatorial committee appointed by the last legislature.

The members of the Washington commission are Senator Henry M. White, Josiah Collins, D. M. Troy, Frank J. Allen and Ralph Nichols.

Demand Fair Play.

"We do not question your right to obtain the largest possible number of fish out of your waters, but we do question your right to keep inadequate laws on your statute books," declared Mr. Babcock. "We question your right not to see to it that your waters are properly policed to prevent the wholesale disobeyance of the law.

"We are interested vitally in what you do, and we demand fair play, so that our industries may be preserved.

"Your legislature has not carried out the agreement made between the Canadian government and a commission from your state; your closed season laws and your thirty-six hour weekly closing laws are not enforced; traps and purse nets are used in closed seasons and instances of dynamiting are known.

"The sockeye salmon is being depleted every year and I can show you figures showing a startling decrease of this variety. The spawning beds of sockeye salmon are now barren three out of four years."

Americans Make Denial.

The assertion of Commissioner Babcock met with denial on the part of representatives of fishing industries of the state, of whom there were a large number present.

It was generally admitted by every one present that the state fish commissioner needed a large increase in assistants and that the police patrol should be more than doubled to insure the enforcement of the law.

Governor Hay opened the meeting with a statement that this meeting had been arranged to bring about harmony between the two departments of British Columbia and Washington and that laws should be discussed which would best protect one of the most prominent industries of the Pacific northwest.

REFUGEES ARRIVE FROM CHIHUAHUA

Juarez, Mexico, May 31.—Seventy-five German and fifty American refugees, the former mostly women and children, arrived here tonight on a special train from Chihuahua, the first in nearly three days. They declared that a means of leaving Mexico had been provided by the rebels only after insistent demand for it had been made by Marion Letcher, the American consul.

MYSTERIOUS STABBING PUZZLES THE POLICE

Seattle, May 31.—A mysterious stabbing affray sent Charles, alias "Sharkey," Peterson, a well known police character, to the city hospital last night with a wound in the abdomen. Peterson and his companion, John Birnie, a miner, tell what the police say is an improbable story of the stabbing.

The men say that Peterson, several yards in front of his companion, was at First avenue and Union street at 11 o'clock this morning, when two men accosted Peterson and a moment later a knife flashed and Peterson went to the pavement with a long deep gash in the abdomen. He was assisted into a hotel near by and the police patrol wagon sent for.

Although the men give a description of two men who are supposed to have committed the assault, the police are dubious. Peterson has been arrested a number of times by the police on disorderly person charges.

Birnie is held at police headquarters while the police endeavor to clear up the stabbing. Peterson's wound is painful, but not believed to be serious.

SIXTY BUILDING PERMITS ISSUED

The returns of the building inspector's department for the month just past are in every way a satisfactory indication of the growth of the city. Sixty permits were issued of the value of $170,280.

Compared with the figures for May 1 last year this sum appears at first to be at a considerable disadvantage, those figures being 62 permits of the value of $290,255, but of this total more than half was made up by the Westminster Trust block of $150,000, so that if this be deducted for the purpose of comparison, it will be seen that the $140,255 then left shows that apart from large permits such as the building of the block in question, there has been a considerable increase in the ordinary business, in fact well over 20 per cent.

For the five months of the year elapsed the figures are 216 permits issued, value $683,728.

Permits for the week are eleven in number, and of the value of $26,950. Two new houses appeared yesterday on the list, Mr. W. A. Bennett will erect a $1500 four roomed bungalow on Shiles street, and Mr. C. A. Bournes will build a $1100 four roomed cottage on Cumberland street.

STIFF SENTENCE FOR GUILTY MEN

McWaters Gets Three Years—"Most Fiendish Crime"—Two Years for Bozak.

McWaters was sentenced to three years in the penitentiary at the session of the assize court yesterday. At the same time his counsel gave notice that he would take the case to the court of appeal. He objected that the crown failed to prove any intent with respect to the forged documents, that some of the exhibits had been improperly admitted as evidence, that it had not been properly proved that the ex-chief of the Burnaby police force could not be reached and hence his evidence was improperly admitted. His lordship admitted that there were some grounds for objection on minor points, but refused to change his opinion. He said that the matter could be decided by the court of appeal.

McWaters was asked if he had anything to say and declared that he was innocent, asked that consideration be taken of the fact that he had been in jail already since last July, and that he had an aged father and two small children to look after. The man also said that it was his first time in trouble of the kind.

The justice prefaced the sentence with the remark that the crime was one of the most fiendish that could well be imagined and showed that the man was either a pronounced criminal or of unsound mind. Under the circumstances the least he could do was to sentence him to three years to take effect from the present time.

Bozak was sentenced to two years, and the judge answered the plea of the prisoner's counsel, Mr. Henderson, for leniency that that was the best he could do and that he was thinking of the man's good as well.

Antonelli also was given a sentence of two years. The justice said it was a serious crime, shooting with intent to do bodily harm.

YOUNGSTER'S SPEED WAS DAZZLING TO WOLGAST

Philadelphia, May 31.—Champion Ad Wolgast and Young Jack O'Brien fought a fast six round bout before the American Athletic club tonight and at the end, the advantage, if any, was with the champion.

O'Brien was the cleverer, but his blows lacked force while those of Wolgast made the Philadelphia boy wince.

In the second round Wolgast dropped O'Brien for the count of nine but the blow did not stop the youngster's speed, which at times dazzled Wolgast.

Rejected Suitor Shoots.

Seattle, May 31—Miss Effie Lassen and George Felton were shot to death tonight by Joseph Miller, said to be a rejected suitor of Miss Lassen's.

CRICKET CLUB TO PLAY VANCOUVER

The Westminster Cricket Club will meet the Vancouver Club this afternoon on Moody Square, in the second league game of the season. After their victories over Burrards and the Cedar Cottage elevens last week, the locals feel confident of putting up a good game against the crack eleven of the mainland. The following is the team: L. A. White (capt.); F. A. Rose, R. M. Scoffoth, T. Y. Hebron, W. A. Wells, Rev. E. R. Bartlett, W. Hockley, C. H. Judd, W. S. M. Johnson, T. Yeadon and T. D. Sheriff.

DARROW TRIAL IS SENSATIONAL

Franklin in Box—New Names Introduced—Three Jurors Turned Him Down.

Los Angeles, Cal., May 31.—Job Harriman, late candidate for mayor of Los Angeles on the Socialist ticket, sat today within the bar at the trial of Clarence S. Darrow, for alleged jury bribing, and heard himself accused of being the man who had provided Darrow with the alleged bribe money. Later in the day he heard the same witness, Bert H. Franklin, testifying for the state, quote Darrow as saying to him: "If you mention my name, I want you also to mention what you know about Job Harriman."

Sensations were crowded thick and fast into today's sessions of the trial, following each other in such rapid succession that the entire day might be described as one continuous thrill, culminating in the beginning of a rapid fire cross examination of the state's principal witness by Chief Counsel Rogers for the defence.

Dramatic Testimony.

Franklin's testimony on direct examination today was at times dramatic in the extreme, the witness departing from his apparent willingness to tell all he knew, to a seeming loathness to give evidence concerning close friends whom he subsequently drew into his story of jury corruption. Twice he appealed to the court, once when he was asked to name a man who was said to have offered a bribe to a venireman with whom he was negotiating and again when Assistant District Attorney Ford asked him to give the names of three men whom he had approached with offers of bribes.

For the first time since the arrest of Franklin and the indictment of himself and Darrow the names of prospective jurors other than Lockwood and Bain, alleged to have been sought to be bribed were injected into the case.

Franklin said that he had entered into negotiations with A. K. Kruger, of the Palms, and had been "turned down" by three others, Guy Yonkin, a Los Angeles cigar dealer; John S. Underwood, a local iron worker, and Frank Smith, of Covina.

Franklin appealed to the court when asked to mention the names of the men he said he had approached as they were all his friends. A short time before he had made a similar appeal when asked the name of the man who was said to have approached Kruger before he had.

The witness exhibited much emotion when he related his conversation with Kruger in which he said Kruger had told him another man had offered him $4000 for his vote as a McNamara juror.

Kruger, he said, wanted to know if they were both working for the same side. He named a Los Angeles lawyer, heretofore not mentioned in connection with the McNamara case, which drew a protest from Attorney Rogers.

Franklin testified that he had told Darrow after his arrest for attempting to bribe Lockwood, that had Darrow not been present when he was arrested, he had intended to turn Lockwood over to the police for accepting a bribe.

Had Been Betrayed.

"That was," asserted the witness, "when I found that Lockwood had turned traitor to me."

He said that when he saw detectives near the scene of the meeting with Lockwood, he knew he had been betrayed. Darrow's presence at the place and time of Franklin's arrest the latter explained by saying he had been informed that Lecompte, one of the associate counsel for the McNamara defence, had telephoned to Darrow, telling him that Franklin was about to get into trouble. Darrow, he said, had gone here to warn him.

Chief Counsel Rogers of the defence then began his cross examination with questions concerning Franklin's past relations with Lockwood and the former's expressed willingness to have Lockwood punished for accepting a bribe.

"I was doing my best to get out of the scrape I was in," declared Franklin.

The witness denied that he had been offered immunity, but said he knew the law granted him immunity when he went on the stand for the prosecution.

MARKET REPORT

All things considered it was a very fair market yesterday, the attendance being well up to the average and offerings good. Of poultry there was an abundant supply, but the demand was correspondingly active. So to in the butter line, this being the commencement of the seasonal flush. There was a fair supply of eggs, and prices ruled unchanged from last week.

Potatoes again came in in large quantity, but the demand was only fair. There seems to be no shortage of this vegetable in B. C. just now, compared with the outcry made some little time back in the east, when potatoes were shipped to Montreal from the coast and even from Great Britain.

Considerable enquiry was made for carrots, beets and turnips, but they were a minus quantity yesterday. Plants sold freely, there being a very good offering of cabbage, cauliflower and the like. The florist's stall was well supplied with a variety of choice flowers.

In the auction ring several good cows were sold, one realizing $115. A fair quantity of implements and harness also was disposed of.

ALLEGED FLOUR COMBINE RESPONSIBLE FOR PRICES

Ottawa, May 31.—Although the executive of the Allied Trades, after two meetings and some investigations, have concluded that the bakers of Ottawa are not intending, in increasing the price of bread by agreement, to secure any more than a working profit, they intend to follow up the matter regarding an alleged combination among the flour mills. They speak of taking action against such a combination if it is proved that it exists.

A meeting was held last night, when a report was issued which reads in part:

"The flour mill merger is organized under the name of the Canadian Flour Mills and the following are some of the companies composing the same: The McLeod Milling Company, the Canada Four Mills Company, Campbell Company, Goldie & Company, Rudford Milling Company, Carter & Company. The united capacity of these mills is 4500 barrels per day, but we cannot ascertain the amount of their capital, which we are told is enormous. The International Milling Company, with which this merger is connected, showed earnings last year nearly to realize four times the amount required to pay the interest at 6 per cent. upon the bonds issued. These details are taken from the Monetary Times of July, 1911."

This report is signed by W. H. Croydon, J. Ussher, W. Crawshaw, J. Burges and William Lodge.

Firecrackers at Ottawa.

Ottawa, May 31.—"The use of fireworks and firecrackers is decreasing in Ottawa," the average man is often quoted as saying.

The "average man" is wrong. More firecrackers were sold in Ottawa last 24th of May than on any other holiday in the history of the city.

Twenty years ago, when Ottawa was half the size it is today, the 7,500 boys of that day spent $1800 for firecrackers on May 24. This year the 15,000 boys of Ottawa are spending somewhat over five thousand dollars on this form of celebration.

The city laws say that firecrackers may be used for the May 24th celebration "only upon the special permission of the mayor of council. This year the mayor gave permission and in consequence for 24 hours the smell of powder and the crack of firecracker pervaded every acre of Ottawa's five thousand area.

Ether and Matter.

The densest matter is more or less porous. Gold will absorb mercury as a lump of sugar will absorb water, showing there must be interstices or interatomic spaces in it, but the ether shows no such property. If a drop of water could be magnified sufficiently one would ultimately see the different atoms of hydrogen and oxygen that constitute the molecules of water. If a small volume of ether could be thus magnified the indications are that the ultimate part would look like the first, which is the same as saying that it is not made up of discrete particles, but fills space completely. This is expressed by saying that the ether is a continuous medium and incomparable with matter.

Wood Engraving.

It has never been satisfactorily ascertained whether the art of wood engraving came to Europe from the east or was rediscovered by some European artificer. The precise date of the first European woodcut is also a matter of serious doubt, but we have data which enable us to come pretty close to the right time. We know that European wood engraving dates certainly from the first quarter of the fifteenth century. There is considerable evidence to show that the art had its origin among the Chinese, the wonderful people who have given us so many of our "modern" inventions.

Counting the Cost.

"What are you thinking, dear?" asked Mrs. Winkleby softly.

"Nothing, dear, nothing," he said falteringly. "Only don't you think that it would be wiser for us hereafter to build up our little family on the installment plan?"

COULD NOT MOVE WITHOUT A CRUTCH

Cured in two months by Gin Pills

PERTH, ONT.

"For two years, I was an invalid, incapable of work of any kind. For sixteen months, I was unable to move without a crutch and cane. I was treated by our best doctors as well as taking treatment from a specialist in Chicago. I did not improve and had about given up hope of ever being well again when a friend advised me to try GIN PILLS. This I did and with a two months' treatment, was a well man again. I still use a box or two of GIN PILLS a year, just as a preventative and am enabled to go fishing and shooting in the spring and fall, and lie out on the ground at night, without any inconvenience." THROUGH B. C. ON A CATTLE TRAIN

"CROSSED SWORDS."

Like the course of Empire, the gods have decreed that I should go round with the sun, and thus the cycle of four eventful years found me again at Calgary stockyards, waiting for elusive "through freights" to convey me with cattle to the coast. Looking up I saw two men approaching with a jaunty swing which half told what they were: then, as I glanced at the high-heeled top boots, for the time spurless and concealed, there came again the atmosphere of the southern foothills and prairies. "We're cowboys from Wyoming, an' we don't give a goldarn," as Shorty afterwards said. His partner Frenchie, was more immediately communicative.

White rails, stockyard and cars simmered in the heat, as we spoke of the forests and lakes of Northern Ontario. "Yaas," he said, "I was born in Montreal; I work in de woods, too—Ottawa River, Kippewa, Timishkaming—I drive all dat north countree. Guess I roll a log across de river right now." "Whew," quoth Shorty, "lumberjack, river hog." "Waal," he went on, "I quit back east the year Laurier was premier first—when was dat?"

Bound for new ranges in the Ootsa Lake country, Frenchie had driven his score of broncbos 500 miles overland to Helena, Montana, and there had stumbled again upon Shorty, who promptly threw the last of a vanishing stake into the venture, and his body into the far end of the horse car, where wagon wheels and canvas sufficiently screened him. Thus had they journeyed, reaching Calgary in ten days, with quaint yarns of ditched cars, mounted police and cheating bartenders to fill out the story.

Sitting on a "six by six" as the night fell, Shorty and I munched candies, while the cattle lowed behind us, and he told me of a glorious $2000 spree in New York, when 'nothin' was too high priced and street cars was too slow. It was taxis everytime till I landed back in Cheyenne with $10 and a brand new outfit."

Thereafter Shorty rode with me in the caboose, and getting a start next noontime, midnight found us swinging down the figure eight tunnels of the Kicking Horse Pass.

Have you ever ridden in a caboose, friend? We all voted it miles above the crowded, stuffy passenger, and envied her not as sitting on the rear steps, sidetracked, we wait her passing. Oh! Here she comes! A long line of light sweeps round the curve, a roar, streaks of black, then lighted cars, white napery, and her three red lights dwindle into perspective with the fair occupants of her observation car.

Dawn next day marked our departure from Field, and we slept on the bare seats until an engine came behind to help us up the Beavermouth canyon. "She's a powerful son of a gun, you can feel her pushin'," said Shorty, as we wound up the grades.

I have seen other snowpeaks since last I crossed B. C., yet what words can describe the hills ever circling us with peak, ridge, mound and fantastic contour; the long lace of waterfall veining the rock with silver creases, or the colors of Bear Creek, ochre with all shades of greens and browns o'ertopped with grey-black snow-crowned peaks. We draw into a divisional point and know not when we'll pull out—out again into the sunset, watching from the conductor's elevated chair the swaying snaking line of cars—Life is so gloriously uncertain (like our meals) on a "freight."

Frenchie's car broke down at Revelstoke, but Shorty and I went on to Kamloops, which we reached at midnight. Our stock included a car o' hogs, loaded in two tiers, and as all were badly is need of water, we two started in to unload them in the darkness. This was the night of Shorty's qualification as a fully fledged "puncher," or so I assured him. "Waal, 'woollies' and 'dogeys,' I've punched everythin' bar hogs, and them I never would punch," he said: and yet an hour later after producing many and strange yells, which attracted a homeless dog, we sailed into the top deck and ejected the last obstinate pigs by the light of a flickering match. Next we made for the town, and after revelling in a wash supper and outlandish drinks, Shorty did many evolutions among the stock —'stirrin' 'em up some, or they'll get cramped."

Kamloops has grown considerably since I 'knew it, and we spent a full day there, Frenchie arriving in the forenoon, accompanied by Texas, Doc, and one we designated "Hogs." A great heart that same Frenchie, with an inexhaustible fund of anecdote. As we sat on the stockyard rails, he descanted on the merits and demerits of his bunch o' broncs. "Daar's dat sorrel horse dar. I put him in dar buggy with open bridle on him. He run me down to town like a streak o' blue light. I draw up by dar store, an' he take me right on dar sidewalk. All folks in town come round looking." Then turning round he'd say: "Waal, I never did work but once in ma life, an' I blister my hand when I done that!—Ha, ha; we're tough!"

Shorty and I bathed amid home scenery over the bridge. There were the weeping willows, the grass—so green to prairie eyes, white sand to walk, clean footed in to the calm water.

I have slept in most conceivable attitudes and places, including walking, cycling and on horseback, with varying results, but never before did I recline on top of a boxcar with my "grip" for a pillow, as the sun sank red over Kamloops town. I awoke to find the train made up and ready to start, not even the fussy, noisy switch engine with its jolts had disturbed me, nor, as I afterwards learned, the prods which "Texas" administered to my unshod feet.

That night the train crew were good to us, giving us a mattress to repose on. We parted from Frenchie at Ashcroft. Sleepy-eyed I stood in the dawn at the end of their journey, their jumping-off place back to the dwindling frontier. "So long," said Frenchie, and with a wave of the hand, "I'll hit for dar mountains," then turning to his partner, "Guess we'll unload," he said. And I wondered, as I clambered back to my share of mattress, how much of the great game of Empire building they would unconsciously or not achieve.

"Hogs" decided he had lost his pocket book when a bet needed cinching, but retribution came when we were eyewitnesses that he left his grips behind at North Bend, and quoth Texas, "I guess you'd lose yer durned head if it wasn't fenced in."

It was good to see apples and pears really growing on the trees while the run down the Fraser brought memories of Natal, Indian coolies working on the track, the frequent crosses marking humble graveyards. Flashes wherein one caught a glimpse of Indian fishers with handnets, and could discern the wriggling fish; shed-like structures built with poles; strips of flesh drying in the sun; then a brief stop at a little town, where as "Doc" observed, "Guess we've run into China. Look at the moss on them houses. I'd be afraid it would grow on me if I stayed here." On again with always the ditch-water colored Fraser twisting and foaming beneath us, until near Yale we made matchwood of a handcar left on the track, which halted us for a moment amid a cloud of invectives from the owners, who didn't relish pedestrianism.

CANADA BARRED.

Disallowed Space at Wisconsin State Exhibitions.

Ottawa, May 31.—Canada has been barred from making an exhibit at the Wisconsin state exhibition this year, the state immigration authorities having protested against Canada being allowed to make a showing.

They declare that Canada immigration literature is false and misleading and that this has been disclosed by people who have been induced to move from Wisconsin to Canada and have returned poorer and wiser.

The immigration authorities at Ottawa state that there is no foundation for the charge against their literature, but say that the state of Wisconsin objects to losing good citizens at the rate they have been moving to Canada for the past five years.

Wisconsin is not the first state to refuse Canada space, in which to make a display of its products, though a few years ago they used to urge Canada to come and gave free all the space desired.

However, Canada has always been on hand, when the crowd collected. Wherever exhibition authorities have barred the Dominion from the grounds, Canada has hired a building in a more conspicuous place than the exhibition and has put in a first class display, which has attracted great attention. This will be done at the Wisconsin fair this year. The immigration authorities will see that Canada's advantages are made known to all who attend the exhibition. The action of American authorities in barring Canada is taken as a testimonial to the advantages of the Dominion and the success of its immigration work.

MILLION-DOLLAR BYLAWS.

Within a month bylaws calling for the expenditure of approximately one million dollars will be put before the people of New Westminster. This is a large sum and before such a sum is voted, it is well to look into the items carefully. Such examination may show that this expenditure is not really extravagant as it might sound at first, in which case everyone will vote all the more readily for measures which undoubtedly are for the benefit of the city.

First comes the harbor improvement bylaw. This will call for a very considerable amount of money, but money so expended is of the nature of an investment and in this case a very remunerative investment, too. If a man can borrow money at about 5 per cent. as the city can, and reinvest it at 10 per cent, he generally thinks that he is doing good business. What the exact returns to the city and the citizens will be on money spent on harbor development, we can not say, but we believe that 10 per cent is far further from the mark than 100 per cent would be.

Then there come two directly revenue-producing items, the establishment of a municipal gas plant and waterworks extension. The former is one of those double blessings, that blers him that gives and him that takes, it will save the citizen money on his gas bill and in all probability it will make a little money for the city at the same time. In other words it will save the citizen at both ends, in his taxes and his gas bills. The necessity of waterworks extension is obvious. Without a good water supply, a city can be neither clean nor healthy.

Of the parks improvement bylaws the people may hold two opinions, but the more they think over this matter, the more will they tend to one of those opinions, namely that money spent on parks is money well spent. It is well spent, not only in the interests of the health of the residents in general and the children in particular, but also for the advertisement of the city and the making of it attractive to the visitor.

Street improvements are luckily so well established and approved here that it would be a strange phenomenon indeed, to see Westminster turn down such a bylaw. Everybody knows how great are the returns from money spent in this way and there is no need to emphasize this part of the improvement policy.

There remain the new hospital and the police station and storehouse. To contribute to the building of the hospital should be a pleasure. It is a kind of insurance against sickness for the whole city, it is a guarantee to every citizen, however humble, that right here at home he will be able to receive the best of treatment under the very best conditions. The government is helping generously towards its building and most of the money is already available. This bylaw with a little help from neighboring municipalities, will complete the necessary sum and it will be possible to start work at once.

The new police station is necessary. At present the station, as the mayor has often said, is a disgrace to humanity. To combine it with the storehouse is probably an economical scheme. Storehouses a city must have some time, and the city is ripe for them now.

This review of the bylaws brings us to the conclusion, that despite the big total, there is no extravagance here. The returns to be received from most of them in actual material gain will far exceed the first expenditure. From the others a good return will also be received, although in the case of the hospital it may be rather in suffering relieved than in pockets filled. In view of these facts we believe that it will be with great confidence that the mayor and council will submit these bylaws to the people of New Westminster. They know that the same people are becoming keen supporters of legitimate development and in this program, ambitious though it may be, there is nothing that is not legitimate.

HOME FOR NEGRO HERO OF DOCK ACCIDENT

Seattle, May 31.—For the purpose of raising funds with which to purchase a home for Newton Johns, the negro hero of the Colman dock accident of Sunday, May 19, and in order to honor him for the bravery and presence of mind that he exhibited in rescue work on that occasion, Seattle citizens of his own race will give Johns a benefit in Arcade hall Monday night. At that time Johns will be introduced to the public by Mayor George F. Cotterill.

Johns, who is a bootblack, is the sole support of his aged grandmother and the funds realized will be turned over to the Commercial club with the recommendation that they be used for the purpose of buying the two a home. Johns is an intelligent and ambitious man, and his friends think that in return for the service he rendered the people of Seattle he is entitled to a chance to better his condition in life.

TIMELY TOPICS

And Irresponsible Comments by an Onlooker.

I wonder if the persons who took part in—shall I call it?—the agricultural convention on Thursday, realize what an important occasion that may become, if it is followed up energetically. The scope of the inquiry is limited to the Fraser valley, but to a great extent it is true that what is good for this valley will be good for the whole province in the matter of getting the settler on the land. And that after all is the chief necessity if we wish to produce all our meat and eggs and butter and fowls in our own country. No one can pretend that land settlement in this province has not been neglected. It has been absolutely forgotten by the government, so a land settlement policy being non-existent, it is impossible to criticise it. This makes the commission's task all the easier really. Instead of worrying about how bad the old system is, it can start right away on a slate clean of any system and try to evolve some way of getting the settler on the land and the produce off it as quickly as possible. Some form of government assistance always seems to me to be necessary, especially in a province like this, where most of the land is covered with timber, or if it happens to be oren, needs irrigation. Money loaned to carefully selected settlers on the security of the land itself, is a pretty safe investment, but better than money after a certain point, is help in cutting down the trees, and the supply of seed, etc., to set the small farmer on his feet. Success without capital on a B. C. farm is almost impossible. The state has got the capital and it can make no better use of it than to open up the land to cultivation and to encourage the settlement here of a large number of small farmers, who though they may be poor to start with, are none the worse men for that.

How many people know the river at night? "Rivers at night that cluck and jeer," have always been a favorite topic of writers to discant upon. "On the Thames Embankment," and "I Stood on the Bridge at Midnight" are hackneyed titles for pictures and poems, but the Fraser is very fine at night, too. Though the charm of writing about it may be gone, the charm of gazing upon it is ever new. At night the stream seems to have ceased flowing. All is very still. Far across the wide, smooth waters can be heard the tinkle of a cowbell, the bark of a farm dog. Up on the hill a small light burns. At one's feet little ripples splash uncertainly among the piles of the wharf. A voice can be heard a long way up the bank, and some one moving about in a boat. And then the moon comes from behind a cloud and pencils a path of silver across the iron grey waters of the night. It is all wonderful and behind one's back, as one gazes, lies the city asleep. An occasional movement, a sound of footsteps, a wheel, or a spoken word show that it is not dead but only sleeping. These sounds are like the tiny movements, the gentle breathings of a human being that tell us that he sleeps and lives. Thus is the city alive and this consciousness of having a living thing at one's back, living but dormant, emphasizes the eerie charm of the solitude on the wide waters, and renders keener the enjoyment of the watcher in this scene of perfect quiet.

"Her life was turning, turning,
In mazes of heat and sound,
But for peace her soul was yearning
And now peace laps her round."

That is the feeling you can get on the river bank at night. The sleeping city stands for the turmoil of life, now hushed, the calm river for eternal rest, while across it gleam the moonbeams, the light of perfect understanding that comes on the further side of the grave.

The joy of buying is a wonderful thing. Why on earth it should be far keener than that of selling, with the average man and certainly the average woman, passes my comprehension. And yet there it is. To go out and buy things, freely, with a sort of "I don't care what it costs" feeling, that is one of the keenest joys in life. Perhaps we enjoy it because we do it so seldom, and there very likely is something in this, as I never imagine a millionaire being more excited about buying a new coat and an imitated Millais than I am when paying 35 cents for my lunch. But on the other hand we sell things as a rule much less seldom, and don't enjoy it half so much. I once sold a second-hand bicycle and I once sold a lot, both my own, and both times because I was broke. But I did not get much pleasure out of the transactions, not nearly as much as the other fellow who, of course, got a bargain on each occasion. But the time when one gets an opportunity of thoroughly enjoying the buying pleasure is when one is outfitting for a trip up country. Then the mind is made up to spend the money. The things bought are absolutely necessary, or should be, and they are very fascinating. Tents and fishhooks, boots and frying pans, perhaps a good knife (to cut the bacon with), and perhaps a gun of sorts with which to shoot the squirrels around camp in the day time and the grizzly bears in our dreams at night. But I think the axe is the most fascinating of all. Of course it does not want much discrimination to buy an axe, but still it is an attractive tool, keenly sharp, solidly heavy, and here is the point, handily balanced. It is also immensely important on a trip off the beaten road. For the axe means bed and board and very often along a river, transportation. Yes, that kind is the best buying, flavored already with the glamor of the trail and often carried out in some Hudson's Bay post with the advice of some long-time servant of the company who has outfitted a generation of travelers and who, when he pays attention to your business, can always help out with shrewd and commonsense advice.

George and Bob are 27 years old, each earning $4.00 a day. George and his wife buy whatever they want whenever they happen to have the ready money. "We are a long time dead," they say. Bob and his wife buy all the things they can afford and still lay by $2.00 or $3.00 a week at 4 per cent. interest, compounded every three weeks, in the savings department of the People's Trust Company. Figure out where George and Bob stand at 50.

Ans.—George has to move often to avoid paying rent, for he is now often out of work. Bob owns several lots and houses and doesn't have to work.

It is true that "We are a long time dead," but sometimes we are a long time old or a long time sick before we are dead, and there's the rub if we have spent the money as we have earned it.

SPORTING REVIEW

Tommy Burns is evidently preparing to run excursion trains to the Allen-Bayley fight from all over Canada. He is scattering letters broadcast, giving advance notices about the coming mill, and is arranging to run big crowds from Calgary to Bassano for the scrap. It should be well worth seeing. Allen's ability is well known, and many in the east think that he will have a cinch with Bayley, that the fight will be as much a joke as the Johnson-Flynn affair; but it won't. Bayley is a scrapper of no mean ability, and the people of Victoria, where he is doing his training, are backing him to win. He is said to be in great shape and already several special cars have been chartered from the capital city and also from Seattle by fight fans who are anxious to witness the scrap, which is heralded to be the biggest affair ever staged in the Dominion in recent years.

Justice Morrison of Vancouver, dealt out a well merited rebuke to R. J. Fleming and the Big Four when he refused their applications to restrain several western players who had signed to play in the east, from turning out with the B. C. league. The Vancouver justice remarked that his idea of lacrosse was a game played on a field and not in the law courts. Which, it may be remarked, is the idea of all other lacrosse enthusiasts who still wish to see Canada's national game a game, and not a commercial undertaking with the making of money the only object. What would some of the lacrosse players of the old days think could they see the present situation in lacrosse circles?—Ottawa Citizen.

Fortune both frowns and smiles on the suffragettes at the same time—a performance only possible to fortune or a book agent. Mrs. Pankhurst has been arrested in her pastime of terrorizing England, which she promised to do again when she spoke in different parts of the Dominion last winter. Well, the game is up, and she goes to prison for nine months. While Mrs. Pankhurst was playing in this hard luck, a somewhat humbler suffragette was findings things coming her way. This fortunate suffragette was the widow of Gus Rublin, the heavyweight, who in his time fought and won many battles in the ring. He left an estate worth $40,000, and a will in favor of the widow. His brothers and sisters tried to have "a look in," but the court threw them out, and passed the purse to Mrs. Sarah M. Rublin who is prominent in the ranks of the New York suffragettes.

The following titbit of sporting lore has been going the rounds: "William Arthur Cummings, the discoverer of the 'curve' in baseball, is living in modest retirement in the village of Athol, Mass. He introduced it while he played with the Carrolls in Brooklyn. He noticed the possibility of curving a ball while throwing a half dozen clam shells in idle amusement."

This was another instance of great truths and laws of nature being discovered by accident. Newton, while lying under an apple tree, observed that the ripe apples dropped down to the ground instead of dropping up in the sky, and that they continued to do this with remarkable and praiseworthy regularity. And so the great philosopher pulled out of the air the law of gravitation. Watt noticed that when his mother's teakettle boiled too hard the steam blew the lid off, and he went to work and built the steam engine. An artist reproduced bank notes by means of the camera, and he went to penitentiary. And William Arthur Cummings, by watching the flight of oyster shells hit upon the idea of curved balls that would deceive the batter and still pass over the plate; and batters have been fanning out ever since, while the fans have been divided between admiration of the pitcher and disgust for the batter.

Here is a real trust. It makes its money out of oil but it puts its trust in James Flynn, for this is the news that comes from the south. "A syndicate of oil operators of Casper, Wyo., headed by Bert Orchard, raised $25,000 to back Jim Flynn at ringside odds in his fight with Jack Johnson at Las Vegas on July 4, for the heavyweight championship of the world."

Queen's Park should be the scene of an interesting encounter this afternoon, when the Senior Amateur twelve will play their first game against the Victoria team in the Mann Cup series. Both teams will have practically a different lineup than when they met last year, owing to differences in the Capital City club and departures out of the city of local boys. Nevertheless, the game should be a worthy one for local sporting enthusiasts to support. It has been found out in past years, that running an amateur team, where traveling expenses are somewhat heavy, is no cinch of a job and the appeal of the executive of the local club is in no wise out of place.

In past seasons, the Royal City has earned a reputation of turning out a team of homebrews, and with two exceptions, this year's professional aggregation is composed of players who have played the game, rising from the intermediates to the senior amateurs, and thence to the professional ranks.

Thus it is that if the game is to be fostered, if the attendance is to be kept up to the average then the people of New Westminster, must support the amateur team.

The Victoria lineup will be as follows: "Boss" Johnson, goal; Frank Sweeney, point; J. Bakers, cover point; Pettierew, first defense; Styles, second defence; John Johnson, third defence; McCarter, centre; Baker, third home; Brynjolfson, second home; Clute (Capt.), first home; McDonald, outside home; Ferguson, inside home.

COMMISSION WILL WARN PLAYERS

Record Crowd Expected at Recreation Park—Tommy Gifford Will Play.

Notice—To whom it may concern: Those who aspire to witness the second game of the Minto Cup series, which will be pulled off in Vancouver this afternoon, will have to take their chance of securing tickets on their arrival owing to Mr. Con Jones not having sent the usual batch of pasteboards over to the Royal City.

This is a new move on the part of the Vancouver manager, and just where he will benefit remains to be seen. He evidently figures there will be more than enough people from the Terminal City to fill the big enclosure known as Recreation Park, where the game will be staged. However, so be it, Con has the whole say and he certainly needs the collateral to provide pocket money for his $5500 beauty, besides a host of others whom he has on the roster.

With perhaps two exceptions, the clubs will field the same teams as last week, Billy West perhaps taking Don Cameron's place on the defense, while Tommy Gifford will replace his brother Hughie on the local lineup. Tommy has recovered from his indisposition, which prevented him playing in the first game, and has been showing some class in the workouts held during the week.

The dual system of referee will be in force once more, Joe Reynolds and George Tuck being the appointees. The selection of these men in place of Alex Turnbull has caused no little surprise in both cities, but the commission are the powers that be and what they say goes.

Mayor Findlay of Vancouver, will have the honor of facing off the ball and making the customary remarks regarding rough play to the opposing players.

Just to show the contestants that the fining of four of the players this week is no joke, the commissioners will visit each team in the clubhouse before the game starts, and there and then issue strict instructions, warnings, or whatever one may call it, to those who desire to give the fans their money's worth.

Special cars have been arranged by the B. C. E. R. to carry the crowd from the Royal City, and all seem confident that with an even break in luck, the Salmon Bellies will repeat last Friday's trick.

Keering to his custom Manager Gray will not announce the local lineup until a few minutes before the game starts, but the following is thought to be within the mark:

GRANDVIEW BEATEN BY SAPPERTON TEAM

Hats off to the Sappertonians. Last evening they had the temerity to stack up against one of the senior intermediate teams of Vancouver, viz, Grandview, and when the final whistle sounded the score sheet showed the locals in front, 4-2.

With a reorganized team, the Sapperions played a somewhat ragged game at the outset, but in the second quarter improved, and from then on headed their opponents at every stage. Bert Johnston, the local centre, was there with the goods as usual and one of his goals was the prettiest seen in a junior game for some time past. This boy will bear watching and with a little more weight in his favor will undoubtedly give some of the seniors a hard run for place.

The game, which was billed to start at 6.15 p.m., did not open up until near seven o'clock, owing to the home team not being in readiness. Grandview opened the scoring after two minutes of play, but did not hold that advantage long. Will Patchell played his usual game on the defense and was material in stopping many a serious rush on the part of the visitors, who outweighed the locals in every position.

ALBERNI HIGHWAY POST.

Editor Daily News.

Dear Sir,—As several of the statements referred to below have appeared in the newspapers of B. C. we would be glad if you would kindly give prominence to the following resolution passed at a regular meeting of the Port Alberni board of trade held on May 20, 1912:

"Whereas, in press reports sent out from the headquarters of the Canadian Highway association in New Westminster, B.C., containing interviews with President W. J. Kerr and appearing in several newspapers of British Columbia, the mayor and council and citizens of Port Alberni have been falsely represented in connection with a temporary removal of a highway post from the town of Alberni;

"Therefore, be it resolved that the several boards of trade and the daily press of British Columbia be advised as follows:

"That the repeated statement that the mayor and council of Port Alberni tendered profuse apologies to the people of the old town (Alberni) for the removal of the said post (calculated to be accepted as an admission of knowledge of guilt on the part of some residents of the city of Port Alberni) is declared by the mayor and aldermen, severally and individually, to be absolutely false;

"That it cannot be shown, nor does this board of trade believe, that any resident of the city of Port Alberni had a hand in the removal of the said post, and that the contention that the removal of the post was prompted by a spirit of rivalry and jealousy on the part of the people of this city is misleading and calculated to be injurious to the good name of this city."

YOUR GRAY HAIRS QUICKLY VANISH

A Harmless Remedy, Made from Garden Sage, Restores Color to Gray Hair.

A feeling of sadness accompanies the discovery of the first gray hairs which unfortunately are looked upon as heralds of advancing age. Gray hair, however handsome it may be, makes a person look old. We all know the advantages of being young. Aside from the good impression a youthful appearance makes on others, simply knowing that you are "looking fit" gives one courage to undertake and accomplish things. So why suffer the handicap of looking old on account of gray hairs, when a simple remedy will give your hair youthful color and beauty in a few days' time?

Most people know that common garden sage acts as a color restorer and scalp tonic as well. Our grandmothers used a "Sage Tea" for keeping their hair dark, soft and luxuriant. In Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Hair Remedy we have an ideal preparation of Sage, combined with Sulphur and other valuable remedies for dandruff, itching scalp and thin, weak hair that is split at the ends or constantly coming out. A few applications of this valuable remedy will bring back the color, and in a short time it will remove every trace of dandruff and greatly improve the growth and appearance of the hair.

Get a fifty cent bottle from your druggist today, and notice the difference in your hair after a few days' treatment. All druggists sell it, under guarantee that the money will be refunded if the remedy is not exactly as represented.

Interesting Facts About the Value of Oriental Rugs.

THIS GAME IS A PUZZLER.

Dear Elsa—Well, dear, I have just bought a new rug, an oriental, for the sitting room, and I wish you could see what a beauty it is. Extravagant! No, I don't think I have been splurging. I know that most people not overburdened with riches select the cheaper domestic rugs, believing that money would be wasted in the higher priced oriental varieties, however much they may appeal to one's artistic taste. Now, I argue that the difference in cost per square foot between the average oriental and the home product amounts to little in comparison with the difference in endurance. Of course the proper judgment in selecting a rug must be exercised, and the fact is often overlooked that, while the nap of the domestic rug is worn down to the warp, the oriental has been improving in color and sheen as well as in value.

In buying first select what pleases you in size, color and design, then take time and go over it as thoroughly as a horseman would over a horse which he contemplates buying. Lift it to test the weight. Oriental rugs are much heavier in proportion to their size than the domestics. See if it lies straight on the floor and has no folds. Take hold of the center and pull it up into a sort of cone shape. If compactly woven it will stand alone just as a piece of good silk will. Examine the pile and see whether it is long, short or worn in places down to the warp threads; also note the number of knots to the square inch and whether or not they are firmly tied.

Separate the pile, noting whether the wool is of the same color, but of a deeper shade near the knot than it is on the surface, or if it is of an entirely different color. Vegetable dyes usually fade to lighter shades of the original color, while anilines fade to different colors. A good way to test the material, this very clever salesman told me, is to lightly burn the surface with a match, thus producing a black spot. If the wool is good the singed part can be brushed off without the least trace of the burn. Now, I am sure by this time I have convinced you that in the long run putting money in an oriental rug is cheaper than investing in the domestic variety.

It seems to me that after I had finished my housecleaning this spring there was less room than usual in which to dispose of the winter's clothing. One's clothes have such an uncomfortable habit of accumulating, and folding garments make them look so shabby, so I have devised a scheme to save room that I am quite proud of. Every one is in a hurry nowadays, and those with time on their hands prefer to do something more valuable with it than searching for their attire in packed wardrobes and shelves, so I'm thinking of having my idea patented. Here it is:

We had a lot of old books that were reposing in two tall bookcases in the library. These I sold to a secondhand bookseller, and the space thus gained I now use in which to hang Dick's best clothes and my own smart frocks. How? Simply by having a rod run a few inches from the top of the bookcases across from side to side, and on this rod as closely as can be safely stowed are hangers so arranged in the improvised cupboard that the dresses lie flat, side by side, without injury. Curtains of green silk hide all suspicion of the "means to an end" adjustment. What do you think of the idea?

Last week I had to entertain the sewing society, and as several new members have been added to the band the affair promised to be a little stiff and formal. To overcome this difficulty we played the following game, which is calculated to divert the most solemn assemblage of guests:

Distribute pads and pencils to those present and then have one person read off these questions, the guests writing them down and leaving space after each one to write in the answer. In what relationship to yourself do these persons stand:

Your mother's nephew's daughter's son? Third cousin.

Your brother's son's sister's mother? Sister-in-law.

Your uncle's father's only grandson or granddaughter? Yourself.

Your grandfather's daughter's daughter? First cousin.

The granddaughter of the only son of your mother's mother-in-law? Your niece.

The answers must not be given out, but should be kept by the one who reads the questions.

You want to know what to buy for Dorothy D.'s wedding present? As she is going to have a motor honeymoon, why not get her one of the new chiffon motor veils, with pin to match in enamel, which come in lovely little soft leather cases, or a pair of goggles marked with her monogram in silver? If you decide upon either of these novelties send word to MABEL.

FIG DAINTIES.

Novel Ways of Using This Popular Fruit.

English Fig Pudding.—Mix together two-thirds of a cupful of chopped suet, one cupful finely chopped figs, two and a half cupfuls of breadcrumbs, a half cupful cocoa, one cupful sugar, a quarter teaspoonful of salt, a teaspoonful orange or vanilla extract and then three well beaten eggs. Put into a well greased mold and steam three and a half hours. Turn out and serve hot with a ginger sauce or cold with a garnish of whipped sweetened and flavored cream.

Chocolate Fig Pie.—Beat the yolks of four eggs, add one full cup of sugar and stir well together. Add eight heaping tablespoonfuls of grated chocolate and beat again. Put into a saucepan and as it heats stir in slowly two tablespoonfuls of flour dissolved in a quarter cupful of cold milk. As it begins to thicken take from the fire and add one large cupful chopped figs. Line two pie tins with pastry and bake. Then put in the filling and return to the oven a few moments to "set." Beat the whites of the four eggs with four scant tablespoonfuls of sugar and a teaspoonful of vanilla. Spread lightly over the pies. Set back in a coolish oven to puff and brown.

Stuffed Figs.—For this purpose use the bag figs that have not been pressed. Cut a small slit at the stem end of each fig and fill with salted pecans or almonds. Press together and roll in powdered sugar.

Fig Sandwishes.—Chop the figs very fine, add water to make a thin, smooth paste and cook gently until of spreading consistency. Add nut meat chopped fine, with orange juice or extract to flavor, or, if preferred, use grated candied lemon or orange peel, with fresh fruit juice to taste. Spread between thin slices of buttered brown bread cut in fanciful shapes or between thin slices of angel food or sponge cake.

Effective Use of Bordered Material.

Borders this season are not used straight around a skirt. Graceful oblique effects have the preference.

STRIPED FROCK OF BORDERED MARQUISETTE.

This striped gray and white marquisette is most effectively draped, and the contrast of the dark border and white lace flounce is excellent.

How the Flounce Is Used.

There is such a variety of opinion about the best way to use a flounce among the dressmakers this season that one can see almost any kind of experiment, good and bad, among the new models. The majority cling to the feeling that the flounce must be arranged without fullness, so on the new taffeta frocks, as well as the smart little serge and corduroy ones either five or six flounces are put on without a gathering string and are shaped like petals at the lower edges.

Wonderful Praise Accorded Peruna the Household Remedy

Mrs. Maria Goertz, Orienta, Oklahoma, writes:

"My husband, children and myself have used your medicines, and we always keep them in the house in case of necessity. I was restored to health by this medicine, and Dr. Hartman's invaluable advice and books. People ask about me from different places, and are surprised that I can do all of my housework alone, and that I was cured by the doctor of chronic catarrh. My husband was cured of asthma, my daughter of earache and catarrh of the stomach, and my son of catarrh of the throat. When I was sick I weighed 100 pounds; now I weigh 140.

"I have regained my health again, and I cannot thank you enough for your advice. May God give you a long life and bless your work."

There will be no session of the Burnaby council on Monday evening owing to it being a holiday. The weekly meeting will be held on the Tuesday evening.

A bad cut on one of the horses and a little excitement for the market crowd on Front street was the outcome of a runaway team there yesterday.

Dr. Hugh L. Dickey, of Vancouver the well known eye, ear, nose and throat specialist, paid his usual weekly visit to the Hotel Russell yesterday. **

The general delivery, stamp, parcel and registry wickets will be open for one hour only on Monday, June 3, 1912, in the local post office, from 12 to 1 p.m.

Copper coins have at length made their appearance in this city, a local firm beginning today to use them in the ordinary course of business. They were introduced in Vancouver a few weeks ago.

A Chinaman working at the Dominion Pipe company's plant yesterday received a fracture of the left leg. He was brought in on one of the cars and taken to the Royal Columbian hospital. His injuries are said to be not very serious.

The entire business of the Central meat market, corner of Eighth street and Fifth avenue, has been purchased by Mr. Richard Oddy, late George Bowell having severed his connection with the firm. The change takes effect on June 1, and Mr. Oddy will continue to carry on the business.

The Eighth street bakery has secured the services of Mr. Lyons, formerly of Hampton Bros., Vancouver. They will make an exhibit of their bakery production in the window of Bryson's hardware store, Columbia street, next Wednesday, June 5. All ladies are invited to call in and get a kiss—a cocoanut kiss.

The most recently joined member of the National Reserve is Mr. Philip Jackman, of Aldergrove, who was one of the original party of Royal Engineers, as they now are, who came out to found this city in the middle of last century. Mr. Jackman is well over 70 now, and was at one time reeve of Langley. He is well known in Westminster.

Owing to the C. N. R. not finding itself in a position to give reduced rates to White Rock on Monday the picnic of the Lord Kelvin school children has had to be called off. This is a disappointment, but it is hoped to take advantage of the week-end rate next Saturday and carry out the same plan.

The old fire apparatus of the city, consisting of the chemical wagon and hose reel, which has been sold to the Port Alberni authorities, was yesterday shipped to the Island Port. The extension ladder will be retained for a time until the new equipment, which has been ordered by the city fathers, arrives.

"In two weeks time we will be cutting hay in Delta," said a farmer from that locality yesterday. He added that already one man had cut an acre of grass. This was not ripe, but still was headed out fairly well, and the general opinion is that a great deal will be ready for the mower in the time stated.

LETTER OF THANKS.

Insurance Department,
The People's Trust Co., Ltd.

I wish to thank you for your prompt settlement in full of my fire insurance claim in The Protector Underwriters occasioned by the fire which destroyed my photograph gallery on McKenzie street on May 18. As soon as I get a new stock together I certainly wish to have another policy in a company that settles its losses so satisfactorily and promptly.

BORN.

In order to give every opportunity to the residents of the whole of the Fraser valley as well as to the citizens of Westminster, the moving pictures of the May Day festivities will be shown on Friday and Saturday next week, and in all probability there will be a matinee also for the children's especial benefit.

Fifteen prisoners from the Vancouver assizes, linked together with chains, arrived in the city yesterday to undergo various sentences for crimes committed in Vancouver and vicinity. A few of them were left at the provincial jail, while the others were taken to the penitentiary.

Envelopes bearing the announcement of the New Westminster exhibition next October are now ready and it is hoped that as many residents and merchants as possible will make use of this means of giving both the city and the scheme publicity. There is a handsome design upon the envelope showing the exhibition buildings and Queens park with its athletic grounds. In the distance the river may be imagined beside the bank there shown. An emblematic figure completes the design.

Publicity Commissioner Wade proposes to make a picture-taking trip next week, in order to secure some characteristic scenes of the Fraser valley for exhibition purposes in the British Isles. He will probably be accompanied by an expert photographer and will go up on the south side of the river on Tuesday returning on the other side next day.
